OFFICERS MAY NOT BE ELIMINATED

REMEDIAL BILL INTRODUCED IN CONGRESS.

Representative Charles F. Curry has introduced a bill in Congress known as H. R. 12398), the purpose of which is to so amend legislative action providing for the drastic reduction in the officers personnel as to make it possible to retain in the Service officers who have been or will be slated for elimination. The sense of the bill is to reduce the number to be eliminated from 1349 to 524, officers of the line.

In a statement given out by Mr. Curry he is quoted as saying, "After reading General Pershing's letter to the Committee on Appropriations I carefully investigated the matter, and I am fully convinced a very serious error has been made by the Congress —an error which strikes at our national defense policy in a vulnerable spot. If it is not immediately corrected we cannot hope to recover from its effects in years." All of which leads to the belief that the pendulum is beginning to swing back and that it is only a matter of a short time before the "open season" on the Regular Army will be closed.

The following table shows in concise form the differences in the provisions of the Act of June 30, 1922, and Mr. Curry's bill:

| | Act of June 30th | Under H. R. 12398 |
|---|---|---|
| Colonels | 149 | 99 |
| Lieut. Colonels | 90 | 92 |
| Majors | 616 | 466 |
| Captains | 1235 | 935 |
| First Lieutenants | 59 | 0 |
| Total | 2149 | 1592 |
| Maximum who may be held as additional or demote | 800 | 1068 |
| Minimum elimination | 1349 | 524 |

FOOTBALL

It is too early to predict what is going to happen in connection with the Infantry School football team. A large amount of good material will be available for the coach this year and it has been predicted that a better team than the one of 1921 will be in the field. Those who saw the Infantry School machine in action during the latter port of the football season last year will admit that it could hold its own with any of the Southern teams. Some of the old players will be back this year and with these as a nucleus the team should be good.

Last year there were a number of teams organized among the organizations on the post. The 29th Infantry had three, the 15th Tanks had one, the 83rd Artillery had one, and the I. S. D. (Col.) had one. This season it is probable that each battalion of the 29th Infantry will have a team, that a team will be organized in each battalion of the 24th Infantry, and that the 15th Tanks and 83rd Artillery will each have a representative team. Last year the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, won the post championship from the Tanks. This year the latter organization intends to avenge their defeat and have already begun light practice. The games between these different outfits will be played on the new football field being constructed between Service Club No. 1 and Wold avenue.

POLO.

Polo, which was temporarily abandoned during the period while most of the players were away on leave, has again been started and games are played every Sunday between the Freebooters, 83rd Artillery, and 29th Infantry teams.

The plans for the formation of a polo association to be composed of various polo clubs have been completed and arrangements have been perfected for the playing of games every Wednesday and Sunday afternoon during the coming school year.

New horses have been added to the present strings and these animals, while still green, are showing cons erable promise. The outlook for most successful year is bright.

BOXING.

When the Post Athletic Officer recently announced that it was necessary to discontinue the monthly free boxing bouts at Fort Benning a howl of indignation went up from the boxing fans. These bouts had become very popular with both the fight fans of Columbus and Fort Benning and these fans felt that they were being robbed of their dues. When the fact was finally realized that the bouts were to be discontinued because of lack of funds various plans were offered by which the situation could be relieved.

Some wanted to organize a boxing union and sell membership cards good for one month, three months, or six months; others wanted to assess all organizations, a certain amount per month; still others wanted to have the Post Exchange donate sufficient funds each month for the financing of the bouts. Practically every plan was suggested from highway robbery to house breaking but none seemed exactly practical.

The status of these bouts is still in doubt but it is believed that there is more than a possibility of their being renewed in the near future.

In the event that these bouts are made possible the following card has been suggested—suggested only, understand:

Peck vs. Tenner, ten 3-minute rounds.

Twyman vs. Athens, eight 2-minute rounds.

Sebukaty vs Dundee (6th Cav.) eight 2-minute rounds.

Earle vs. Grantham, six 2-minute rounds.

Keenan vs. Head, four 2-minute rounds.

Cup fight (Five dusky huskies). Winner take all.

"Tiger" Flowers, of Atlanta, is willing to meet Troupe, of the 24th Infantry. Troupe is more than willing to meet Flowers and such a fight would keep the crowd on its toes. Budd, of Atlanta, also wants a go here with some good man. It may be possible to accommodate him some time in the future.

TENNIS.

The courts at Fort Benning are getting in first class condition due to continuous work on the part of Captain Switzer who represents the Tennis Committee of the Officers Club. Due to the congested condition of the courts during the school year 1921-1922 it was necessary last October to begin construction on six new courts. These new courts are now rapidly approaching first class condition and are in use daily.

The following rules governing players have been recommended and will probably be adopted with but minor changes before this goes to press:

1. All courts will be reserved for officers only on the afternoons of Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. On all other days the courts will be so reserved after 3:30 p. m.

2. Only tennis shoes, without heels, will be worn ou the courts.

3. No court near the Post Flag Pole, in front of the Commanding General's quarters, or in Block 16, will be played upon whenever an orange colored pennant is displayed on a flag staff near the courts located in the vicinity of the Post Flag Pole. The same rule will apply in the case of courts near Block 23 except that an additional orange flag will be hoisted especially for these courts.

4. Courts will be in condition for play expect as noted in Rule 3 but when a particular court is posted with a sign reading "Keep Off—Court Under Repair," the court so posted is not to be used.

5. When players are waiting to play then single matches will be expected to invite the waiting players to play doubles or else to use the court time about; if still others are waiting to play (when all courts are occupied with double matches) then no double matches will continue for more than one consecutive set without inviting the waiting players to use the court or form a new match.

6. Players will be expected to wear a correct tennis costume. Undershirts, O. D. breeches without leggins, and similar clothing is not considered to be in keeping with the atiquette of the game.

7. Nets will be loosened by players last to leave the courts.

8. Special rules will govern tournament play.

Purpose of The News.

In making its initial appearance before the military and civilian population of Fort Benning and Columbus the Fort Benning News announces its policy as being that of fostering athletics and recreational activities generally. Its mission will be to bring more closely together, in order that the pleasant relations between the civilian and military population may continue to exist, the people of Fort Benning and Columbus. This will be brought about in a business way by the publication of advertising matter furnished by the business men of Columbus; in a social way by the publication of social news of interest to both the military and civilian population.

With the belief that it is better to start in a modest way and grow than to start on a large scale and suddenly collapse, The News will at first be but a minature newspaper. As it continues to grow it will extend the scope of its activities until it finally reaches the magnitude of a full-grown paper.

Letters of local interest pertaining to social or recreational activities are invited. These must necessarily be in condensed form. News notes of interest are especially invited. If there is some manner in which the paper may be made better the information should be in the hands of the editor. The readers of the paper know what they want and they should make their wishes known.

In connection with the advertising carried by The News the military [illegible] urged to patronize the [illegible] people of Columbus who [illegible] their interest by in[illegible] in advertising. It [illegible] that this paper can grow and become a credit to Fort Benning. The Military personnel, whose interests The News represents, can show their appreciation no better than by reciprocation in the matter of buying.

A number of student officers and instructors who live in Columbus and make daily trips to Fort Benning in their cars are making complimentary remarks about the Columbus-Fort Benning road. Some of them seem to be of the opinion that officers making this trip—especially those who drive flivvers—should be excused from taking the prescribed course in athletics which is part of the Infantry School curriculum. Their contention is that their efforts in trying to stay inside their car is sufficient instruction in acrobatics. One Officer tried to get the number of bumps with a pace counter. He ran the thing over 999 twice and finally lost the little device when an unusually large bump sent him through the top of the sedan. This happened before he got to Bull Creek from Columbus. He then tried to keep the number of bumps in his head but by the time he reached the Fort he was a raving maniac. While th esurgeons were working on him he was heard to mutter, "Two billions, three hundred and fifty seven millions, nine hundred and thirty-six thousand, eight hundred and sixty-two." He could not stop counting and in this manner the Service lost another promising young officer.

SOCIAL NOTES

The hot weather has tended to reduce social activities on the Post to a minimum. With the exception of the bi-weekly officers' hop and the weekly Service Club dance, social activities have been confined to small, informal dinners and informal card parties.

While the officers' hops have been gradually falling off in attendance on account of the large number of officers away on leave, the Service Club dances have been steadily growing in attendance and last Wednesday evening it was necessary to hold the dance in Biglerville Hall in order to accomodate the crowd. The occasion was a marked success. The Service Club Dance Committee is considering a plan whereby the enlisted personnel of the Post may build their own dance pavilion. Biglerville Hall is going to be used for a mess hall and will not be available for use. It has been proposed to build a pavilion on the same general plan as the 15th Tank Battalion's log hut but on a much larger scale. When definite plans have been submitted they will be published in the News.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Parents are urged to send their children to one of the Sunday schools of the Fort (Protestnat at the Protestant Chapel at 9:30 a. m., Roman Catholic at Roman Catholic Chapel at 9 a. m.) Busses make the rounds of the garrison to collect children and to return them after Sunday school.

PRAYERS.

Evenings at 9:20, just preceding "tattoo" (lights out), a little group of men gather at the Chaplain's office for "family worship" or "evening prayers." A hymn is sung, the Chaplain reads three or four verses of Scripture and leads in prayer and then all unite in the Lord's prayer. Many men are being helped by this quiet little service.

EXTRACTS FROM ARMY ORDERS

The hour for the afternoon band concerts has been changed so as to provide for their being conducted between the hours of 5:15 and 6:15.

Those who desire to entertain incoming officers until they can find quarters should notify Major W. H. Walker. "When a feller needs a friend" is the time he is looking for quarters.

Officers on leave reporting at a new station are entitled to the rental allowance during their period of leave provided they vacate their quarters for this period. Reporting from leave at the same station the officer is not entitled to the allowance even though he vacate his quarters.

A new road has been opened up between Vibbert avenue, in front of Post Headquarters, and Jenks avenue. This road should be used by traffic coming from Lumpkin Road and proceeding to the West end of the Post in order to avoid conjestion at the street intersection near Post Headquarters.

3RD BATTALION, 29TH INFANTRY TO BECOME INACTIVE

Pursuant to instructions, the 3rd Battalion, 29th Infantry will be made inactive—the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry being designated as its "Active Associate."

The enlisted personnel of the "inactive associate" battalion will be absorbed, so far as practicable, by transfer to other organizations in the regiment.

Beginning with the next issue of this paper the Regimental Chaplain will commence in this column, the publication of a history of the 29th. As much as we have space for will be published each week. So—get a scrap-book; clip and paste in the articles as they appear; then see that you do not miss a single issue of the paper. The articles will be numbered.

Among former members of the Regiment ordered to Fort Benning either as instructors or students are the following:

Lt. Col. Frank B. Hawkins, Majors C. W. Mason, Carroll B. Hodges, Harrison McAlpine, Francis R. Fuller Captain Clifford A. Gray.

Lieutenants R. W. Douglas, Jr., and C. Mehegan, of the 1922 class of West Point, have been assigned to the 29th.

The "Chaplain's Bulletin, 29th Infantry," heretofore published at private expense, will be discontinued after the next issue. All items of interest to the Regiment will be found either in this column or in the Chaplain's column.

What the Papers Say About Cutting Down the Army

Some of the newspapers who are championing the cause of the Army are becoming outspoken in their editorials and the following recently appeared in the Brooklyn Standard Union under date of August 12th:

"It is certainly too bad if the War Department cannot get second lieutenants. But, is it surprising? Nobody wants to be a second lieutenant all his life. And at the same time this urgent call is sent out from subalterns discharges are being handed out wholesale to hundreds of higher officers who reached their present rank by hard study and application and years of faithful service.

Of course, this is not the fault of the War Department, nor of any Army officer. Congress cut down the appropriation and passed a law reducing the personnel. * * * At the time this legislation was enacted there was a widespread feeling that the way to protect this country from the dangers of foreign war was to abolish the Army and Navy altogether. So the scrapping and chucking out began.

We must be getting safer and safer every minute. If this keeps on until we have discharged every officer above the grade of second lieutenant, and are unable to get any second lieutenants, surely all our foreign foes will curl up and die of chagrin and we shall be forever safe from the horrors of foreign war."

Here is another good one. It comes from the Chicago Tribune of August 8th:

"Congress should have taken a more prominent part in the 'No More War' demonstration of July 29th, and its members should have paraded the streets of Washington bearing banners. Mr. Bryan's policy of defense by the million armed springers is fore firmly established after the war than before it, and Congress wishes them to spring without the interference of much leadership."

(Note: The News does not publish the above except in a spirit of levity. This paper has nothing to do with politics and is fostering athletics. In view of the fact that somebody has said that the use of the Army as a political football is the most interesting outdoor sport at the present time, however, it is believed that such items have a place in our columns.)

In another column of this paper mention is made of a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Curry in connection with reducing the number of officers to be eliminated. Washington dispatches advise that Major General Harbord and Representatives Anthony and Curry have urged the Congress to take immediate action in the matter. In view of the fact that Representative Anthony is reported to be behind the request there seems to be more than a probability of the requested consideration of the Curry bill taking place.

Speaking of good roads again, why wouldn't it be a paying proposition to have an electric car line from Columbus to Fort Benning? It appears to have been for both Camp Gardon and Camp Jackson and those were but temporary camps. On Saturdays and Sundays especially the cars would be crowded by sightseers bound for the Fort and with the military personnel going to Columbus. Around the latter part of the month when the aggregate wealth of the Post—for a very short time—is something like a quarter of a million dollars (or some other vast sum) a street car company would have to call out all their extra cars and the Columbus merchants would have to hire more clerks. There are mighty few people who would not be willing to pay ten cents, or maybe more, for such a trip and just think of the convenience it would be! We have not much extra money for investment purposes but we, for one, are willing to take stock in such an enterprise.

Welcome to Incoming Student Officers

JUST OPEN UP THE OLD BEDDING ROLL AND MAKE YOURSELVES AT HOME.

A hand of friendly greeting is extended to those officers who have arrived and who are arriving today. Those of you who were overseas and had rats and cooties for bed fellows are pretty good sportsmen and you are going to take what you get—or have to go after—with a grin. Those of you who have been stationed at permanent posts will not find your quarters attractive unless you live in Columbus and you will find the road to the Fort less attractive.

Apologies are not being offered for conditions here because everything possible has been done and is being done for the comfort of those coming in. That biggest of all handicaps, lack of funds, has been experienced ever since the day when the first students came in and had to live in tents with just room enough for the lady and the kiddies to find a place to put a cot. About seven million dollars were required to make Fort Benning what it should be but last year the Post got an appropriation of about $400,000.00. Some day there are going to be quarters enough for everybody and they are going to be brick quarters, but in the meantime everybody must remember the Doughboy slogan, "Follow Me," and make the most of a trying situation.

To incoming ladies especially, a welcome is extended. Very few of the ladies' husbands who will not hear the remark, "I refuse to live in such a place," when the prospective lodgings are reviewed for the first time. After the first outburst, however, the situation will be sized up, plans made, friendships formed—and this is the important feature—and things will not seem so bad after all.

There is an officer's hop to go to every Friday evening, polo games every Sunday, a bridge battle every Thursday afternoon, football on the Post every Wednesday and Sunday and in Columbus nearly every Saturday, and various small dinners and card parties to fill in with between times. Taken as a whole, everybody has an opportunity to have a pretty good time along with the hard work necessary to complete the course.

In addition to all of the above, you have an avenue through which you may tell the world of your troubles. This is the "Knockers Column" on another page of this paper. This column was created with the sole end in view of giving you an opportunity to relieve the pressure without liability to court martial. In extending this welcome an invitation is offered to work the Knockers Column overtime.

Again we bid you welcome.

Many Demotions; Few Eliminations

REPRESENTATIVE CURRY, OF CALIFORNIA DESERVES THANKS OF ARMY.

The Curry-Anthony bill, amending the officers elimination features of the Army Appropriation act of June 30, 1922, was favorably reported to the House Aug. 31. The House, by a vote of 180 to 35, passed the bill without change on Sept. 1. A duplicate bill has been reported to the Senate the same day. On motion of Mr. Wadsworth the House bill (H.R. 12493), was substituted for the Senate bill, was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading and passed without a dissenting voice.

The Curry-Anthony bill would not now be a law if it had not received the support of Representative Chas. F Curry, of California. The critical period was reached when the House Committeee on Military Affairs was considering the two bills in executive session, Aug. 31, at the close of the hearings.

At that time if Mr. Curry had insisted upon his bill as introduced a fight would have ensued which would have at least postponed action and with the crowded condition of the calendar of both Houses might have defeated the bill.

When the committee went into executive session a majority of the members were in favor of the Curry bill, but there was not a quorum present when the time came for the committee to act. One of the supporters of the Anthony bill announced that he would raise the point of no quorum if an attempt was made to report the Curry bill favorably. This information was communicated to Mr. Curry and he declared that he would be satisfied if the Anthony bill was reported with certain amendments, which were agreed to by the committee. Mr. Curry made it plain that what he was seeking was action, and he did not propose that the fact that he had introduced the original bill should interfere with prompt action on the part of Congress.

This cleared the way for the prompt action that was taken by both the Senate and the House. Mr. Curry not only consented to this action in the House Military Committee, but he went on the floor of the House and supported the Anthony bill, as amended.

The Dickman board is authorized to take care of all of the surplus in the grades of major, captain and second lieutenant by demotion. By such a policy there will be something like 2,000 demotions. The amendment of the law provides that demoted officers will not have their pay and allowances reduced. They will simply lose rank. They will not lose their position on the promotion list.

Commanding Gen'l Home From Leave

General Gordon has returned from leave and has assumed command of the Post. Although leave of absence is granted primarily for the purpose of allowing officers to get away from their duties and spend a certain amount of time in recreation which will get them fit for again taking up their work with renewed vigor, the General did not forget the worries of some of his subordinates while he was away. He spent some valuable time in getting, among other things, some badly needed equipment for the new theatre at Fort Benning. As a result of the personal efforts of Gen. eral Gordon in this connection the theatre will be in operation and will be better equipped at a much earlier time than was thought would be possible before the equipment and material was secured.

INFANTRY SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY, OCT. 2.

The Infantry School will open this year on Oct. 1, but due to the fact that this is Sunday, the school will officially open Oct. 2. There will be two courses. One, which will be known as the company officers' course, was formerly divided into the basic course and company commanders' course. The other is the advanced course. This was formerly known as the fiield officers' course.

In addition to the above there will be the special courses consisting of a course in communications and other phases of instruction.

The refresher course for field officers, it is expected, will be conducted along the lines heretofore followed for that course.

The National Guard and Reserve officers' course will be conducted from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31. About seventy-five National Guard officers and eighteen Reserve officers are expected to attend this course.

Knockers' Column

September 10, 1922

To the Editor of 'Fort Benning News'

What have you agin' the Medical Corps?

Being the wife of a rather overworked member of that despised corps of pill pushers, I protest most forcibly.

I see no space in your paper reserved for the medical corps. It does't seem quite just that this very important organization should be so ignored—an organization, whose members gladly "dig in" when asked to support various camp activities, athletic or social.

Did you peruse the year book of last year's graduating class of the Infantry School? I defy anyone to find one line in that book devoted to the medicos! One line to tell of the splendid work these men are doing here! Yet what other corps was so treated?

Even Calculator and two brother hounds occupied one whole page and then some! We'll admit those three animals contributed an important item to class history. The medical officer who was dragged out of bed in the wee small hours to listen to the groans and moans of these stoical soldiers, didn't count a line's worth.

There! That's off my chest! It's been there ever since June when I first read the year book; and when I saw your paper with its "This Space Reserved for 15th Tank Battalion News," "This Space Reserved for Military Police Co. Notes," etc., etc., I just exploded. Do you wonder?

What have you agin' the Medical Corps?

(Editor's Note:—Letters like the above come up to the standard for printing in this column and this letter is particularly welcome. On the face of it the letter might sound like somebody was after the editor's scalp but when the following explanation is offered it is believed that this correspondent will appreciate the situation.)

On August 31 the Daily Bulletin of that date, in Paragraph 5, states and directs:

"If preliminary arrangements can be completed the first issue of the Fort Benning News will be mailed on Saturday, September 2nd.

"It is desirable that every unit on the Post be represented in the first issue. For this reason unit commanders will designate an officer to furnish the Post A & R Officer with news items pertaining to the unit concerned. These must be in the A & R Office by Thursday morning of each week."

The issue of September 1st was published in due time but nary a news item appeared from the units which should have been interested. Realizing that the order quoted above went out rather close to the date of publication the editor made due allowances for the fact that possibly insufficient time was given the correspondents and lived in hopes that the second issue would develop plenty of good reading matter. No such matter had been received just prior to going to press and, with the end in view of dropping a gentle hint to the units which had failed to let us know what they were doing, we hurriedly wrote out an incomplete list of the units on the post and told the printer to publish their names with space reserved for future articles. We have no method of compelling people to send us news but the space is reserved for them and, judging from the furor caused by the reservations of space made last week, we cannot but believe that there will be news supplied in the future.

The above letter, which was written by a lady, is gladly printed as this gave us an opening we would not have otherwise had. The suggestion is made respectfully to this lady, and other ladies on the Post, that they use their influence with the male members of their families to get action in this connection. The means to be employed is not suggested by us as this is a matter of interior administration. The assistance of the ladies is especially requested in getting social news to us. These items may be telephoned to either Phone 146 or Phone 72, Post.

Extracts From Remarks Recently Overheard By Editor

"I declare I do wish somebody would do something about the way the drivers give you short measure on ice. Today I ordered fifty lbs. and I am positive what I got did not fill one corner of the refrigerator. Of course I know the ice melts some between the ice plant and the quarters but it doesn't seem to me that we ought to have to pay for what melts. Goodness knows they charge enough for their ice. Somebody ought to say something to the quartermaster about this, don't you think so?"

Masculine voice: "Why don't you buy a pair of scales, dear?"

TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY NEWS.

Football practice will commence the first of the week. There will be three battalion teams. Some splendid material is available and it is believed that the regiment can put on the field three strong teams. Let everyone help.

On Saturday evening of this week, (Sept. 16) the loyalty club of the regiment will have a sociable gathering at the regimental library tents from 7 to 9. This will be in the nature of a re-union of the club and also a farewell to members of the 29th about to be discharged. Everyone is invited to be present. Drop in for a few minutes.

While the old saying "like father, like son" may truly be applied to a military organization, whether it be brigade, regiment or company, there is however, a world of truth in the statement made by one of the speakers in addressing the men of the regiment about to be discharged: "..The regiment during your service in it is very largely what you have made it. If you have given your best—service, talent, interest, thought—it is a better outfit than the day you joined. If you have not,—then—."

It is good to have the second battalion at home again. Once more the entire regiment is together.

The regimental library tents received a large number of books recently. Here the men of the regiment will also find the best magazines, plenty of regimental writing material, games, a cozy place and friends. The chaplain can be found in his office at the library tents almost every evening except Monday. We have a "Sing" every Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p. m.

Don't fail to read and keep the articles on the History of the 29th, published in another column.

Colonel Goodale returned from leave on Wednesday.

Major Heidt has been assigned to duty with G-4 as Post Police Officer.

Lieutenants C. V. Allan and H. N. Hartness have been ordered to attend Columbia university.

2nd Lieutenants Douglas and Mehegan joined this week.

Lieut. Dismuke has been detailed on special duty in the office of G-3.

Lieut. C. A. Smith has been detailed on special duty with the 15th Tank Batalion.

Lieut. Murphy has been detailed on special duty with the 3rd Batt. 24th Inf.

History of the 29th Infantry

Article 2.

Lt. Col. T. F. Forbes was the first lieutenant colonel of the regiment, being assigned to it March 21, 1901. The first majors were Leonard A. Lovering, Carver Howland and William P. Evans.

Captains H. R. Perry and Robert H. Allen were assigned to the regiment in April, 1901. Captain F. D. Ely was appointed commissary officer

In April, May, June and July the second lieutenants who were assigned and joined were: 2nd Lts. John B. Barnes, E. G. McCleave, H. A. Wells, R. E. Beebe, H. S. Stevenson, E. O. Saunders, James L. Craig William R. Leonard, George E. Price, Frank W. Dawson, Clarence H. Farnham. Before the end of the year, this number was increased by the assignment of 2nd Lts. Wilford Twyman and Robert O. Patterson.

The first lieutenants for the regiment joined in June, August and September and were: ..1st Lts Jas. D. Reams, Frederick R. De Fumiak, Jr., George E. Ball, Ernest E. Haskell, William H. Waldron, R. P. Rifenberick, Jr., H. Watterson, Jr., F. W. Healy, Charles L. Willard, Edward Y. Miller, Frank H. Burton, Albert B. Sloan, Alpha T. Easton, Alfred W. Bjornstad, and Paul C. Galleher.

Captains W. A. Raibourn, Albers S. Brookes, Frank H. Whitman and Frederick W. Lewis were added to the roster of the regiment.

Upon the retirement of Colonel Van Horne in Oct. 1921, Colonel William Auman was assigned to the 29th

Under date of July 23, 1901 occurs the following entry:

"1st Battalion, 14 officers, 393 enlisted men left Fort Sheridan, Ill., at 6 a. m., by rail for Columbus barracks, Ohio, arriving at 9 p. m., same date." This became the station of the first battalion.

In October " the second and third battalions participated in three days practice marches and field exercises in the vicinity of Fort Sheridan, Ill., distances covered, 45 miles by each battalion."

The strength of the regiment on Dec. 31, 1901, was 46 officers and 1233 enlisted men, a total of 1279.

It is interesting to the older members of the regiment as well as to old men of the army to read over the list of officers above and to trace their splendid records in the years that have followed.

(Note: The chaplain will greatly appreciate the help of former members of the regiment in preparation of these articles. Many interesting items have been omitted, undoubtedly from the official records that would be of value in compiling these notes. Any items that will enlarge upon the history will be gratefully accepted by the chaplain and used in later articles.)

SEPTEMBER 15, 1922

When the first issue of The News was published the fact was announced that it would start on a small scale and endeavor to grow. After the first issue the amount of copy on hand for the second issue together with the advertising contracts secured indicated that an eight page paper was not going to be large enough. As a result the paper was increased to sixteen pages because of the fact that technical difficulties in the matter of printing made it appear impracticable to publish a twelve page paper. The sixteen page paper is a little too large and it is believed that a happy medium has been reached with the paper in its present form. Unless something unforseen happens The News will be continued in its present form.

THE ENQUIRER-SUN'S edition of last Sunday was not only a credit to that paper but it was an interesting outline of business development in the South. All of which suggests the idea, indirectly, that all elements of a community or section are dependent upon each other for progress.

To get closer home, both Fort Benning and Columbus are dependent upon each other. Some of us of the military personnel are prone to remark something like this, "If it wasn't for Fort Benning where would Columbus be?" As a matter of fact Columbus managed in some way to worry along without a military post in her vicinity for almost one hundred years. Those of us who belong to the military can not afford to be too independent in this connection because, while it is a fact that Columbus has materially benefitted in a financial way because of the proximity of Fort Benning, the city has other sources of income and is not solely dependent upon our support for progress. Like wise neither can Columbus act too independent of the financial support being received from Fort Benning because this does run up into big figures within the course of six months or a year.

All of which suggests that by working together the military and civilian population of any community can be of mutual benefit. Columbus merchants and business men can, by establishing a reputation for fair dealing in the matter of prices, etc., open up channels of advertising for the city, through the hundreds of officers who leave the Infantry School each year, which, if paid for by space rates in current newspapers, would soon run up into thousands of dollars. Officers, by impressing these business people with their courtesy and by their showing an interest in things local, can gain badly needed support in a political way at a time when such support is necessary.

AN OFFICER of high rank remarked to the editor recently that he had no idea The News would get the amount of advertising it has received. He was informed that the class of people who advertise with this paper are "live wires" and readily see the possibilities opened up to them by such advertising.

Our advertisers have executed advertising contracts on purely a business basis; on the same basis it is up to the military personnel to give them preference when buying. The business man who is progressive enough to advertise knows that he has to deliver the goods when it comes to the matter of making a sale. For this reason the person who buys from, or has dealings with, this business man stands a better show of getting value received than when trading with the man who has done no advertising and consequently has no claims to live up to. This point might be worth considering the next time the Army lady goes to Columbus on a shopping tour.

THE NEWS does not feel that it is getting proper support from the members of the garrison. Last week a certain amount of space which had been reserved for units on the post remained vacant because the units concerned appeared to have no interest in getting items of interest from their unit to the editor. It should be understood that this paper is being run for and by military personnel. Co-operation is necessary to make it a success. It is not desirable that the buck should be passed to one man to run the whole thing. The one man might satisfactorily supervise the workings of the paper as a whole but he has to have help in the matter of news gathering. Send in your news items so as to reach the A. & R. Office not later than each Thursday morning at 9:00 o'clock.

BOUQUETS may or may not be in order in so far as The News throwing them at itself is concerned, but it is considered worthy of mention, with all due modesty, that a certain officer requested 200 additional copies, for distribution, of the last issue. Unfortunately, the regular distribution exhausted all but about 75 copies and these were furnished. It was understood that the additional 200 copies were to be mailed away from here to individuals in the Service. This could have meant that either a vile scheme was in the process of hatching the ultimate end of which was to eliminate The News or that the paper had enough merit to warrant its being given wider distribution than the ordinary channels. Being of an optimistic nature we have assumed—again with due modesty—that the latter hypothesis is correct.

THE POLO GAME last Sunday brought forth a remark from a certain player which is considered by us to be a masterpiece. He was remarking about a blow he had just stopped with his head the said blow having been accidentally delivered with a fifty-two inch mallet. The remark was, "That bird sure came near knocking me for a row of Algerian mustache cups." This may be old stuff but the combination sounds new.

THE COLUMBUS-FORT BENNING ROAD presents many difficulties to the motorist at present. A number of years ago we remember taking a fifteen mile trip through a swampy area in a wagon. The wagon had no springs and the road was a corduroy road which, for the benefit of the younger generation, is a road built of small saplings laid cross-ways. The experience of this trip had nearly been forgotten until a few days ago when we had occasion to take a trip to Columbus. We rode in an automobile which had fairly good springs and the cushions were well upholsterd but the result was the same as the trip taken years ago.

This trend of thought leads around to the subject of an electric car line between the Fort and Columbus. Such a project should be a success not only because of the saving of time and money between the tpo points, but also because of the possibilities of such a line as a freight carried. This looks like a good opportunity for some progressive business man to start a project of this nature. Stock should be easy to sell and the returns eventually should pay considerably more than 8 per cent on the investment.

BOXING being a form of athletics that this paper is fostering, it has been decided to give a short history of the ring experience of each of the post champions during the next few weeks. This decision is made in view of the fact that the Fourth Corps Area boxing tournament is in process of arrangement and the military personnel of Fort Benning may be interested in the men who are to represent this station in this tournament.

The announcement in another column of a stadium to be opened up at Quantico by the marines about October 1st recalls to mind the fact that in 1917 the 11th Infantry was stationed at Chickamauga Park. At this time the only theatre was at Fort Oglethorpe and this was between two and three miles from the 11th Infantry area. The idea was conceived in that regiment to build a theatre and the idea soon materialized into a fact. At the time the building was started each company averaged about 75 men but by getting some help from the regimental exchange, donations from the officers, and with the voluntary labor of the enlisted personnel a theatre was soon completed which ranked with the Liberty Theatres being constructed at that time.

The marines have constructed a stadium with a capacity of 30,000; one regiment of infantry constructed a theatre which was in constant nightly use either for road shows or motion picture shows. Some of the progressive non-commissioned officers have conceived the idea of building for the enlisted personnel, with voluntary labor, a dance pavillion most of the material for which is easily available at practically no expense right on the reservation. This can be as easily accomplished as the two projects mentioned above.

POLO.

A Doughboy is not supposed to know much about horses, equitation, horsemastership, or horsemanship according to our friends from the horse artillery and cavalry. Members of those two branches of the Service might change their minds, however, if they should happen to be present at some of the games played each Sunday afternoon. There is at least one artillery outfit whose members are convinced that the aforesaid down-trodden Doughboy is adaptable to learning something about horses generally and the game of polo specifically. If further proof of this is required go down to the polo field next Sunday and watch the artillerymen hustle for a goal.

One thing that is troubling the mind of artilleryman and doughboy alike is the question of where the finances are coming from with which to get the new polo field and the Polo Club House completed. At the present the only source of income is a small donation from the Officers' Club. This donation would not pay horse orderlie fees. Dues in the polo association are applied for the purchase of new equipment—not personal—for use of the various teams and for orderlie hire.

It has been suggested that parking space be sold at the Sunday afternoon games, the proceeds from such income to be applied toward fitting out the club house and for certain incidentals necessary for the completion of the new polo field. Definite action has not yet been taken in this connection, but it is believed that the growing enthusiasm for the game, in conjunction with the large number of offic ers now interested, will provide ample funds to enable the Polo Association to complete their plans.

BOXING.

As stated in another column, a brief summary of the Fort Benning champions in the different classes will appear each week, for the benefit of the fight fans who are interested in the men who will represent For Benning in the Fourth Corps Area boxing tournament.

Battling Twyman:—Born in New York City in 1876. Began ring career in 1900. Prior to ring career had experience as jockey. Fought 56 fights since 1918. 11 draws; 35 decisions; 10 knock-outs.

Twyman is probably one of the most unique characters in the ring. His whole system of fighting is one developed by himself, and his defense alone, is something which baffles his opponents, especially the younger men with less ring expecience.

The following list shows the fights Twyman has had since 1918, including that year, with the result in each case:

That Fort Benning will again have monthly boxing bouts is an assured thing.

This will come as pleasant news to those fight fans who have been constantly enquiring at the A & R office for information with regard to this.

The system of financing the fights will be by making a small admission charge. This charge has become necessary due to the fact that the athletics of every nature are necessarily self-supporting since no appropriations are available for such purposes.

The probable admission fee will be 25 cents for enlisted men and 50 cents for officers. It has been suggested that reserved seats, which will constitute ringside seats, be sold for $1.00. Ladies will probably be admitted free. The price of admission to civilians will be the same as that for officers.

Due to the fact that the area now occupied by the open-air arena will be used for the building program now under consideration, it is necessary that the boxing platform and seats be moved to the area just south of Service Club No. 1. This will take some time and it is possible that there will be no bouts before October. The Post Athletic Officer has promised a big night some time during October, however, and the fight fans who were so keenly interested in the bouts in the past will again have an opportunity of seeing their favorite in the ring at a nominal price of admission.

Further information in this connection will be printed as soon as definite detailed plans have been completed.

TENNIS

Everyone interested in tennis is looking forward with pleasant anticipation to the tournaments scheduled to begin October 18th. The thirteen courts on the Post are undergoing repair now and by the first of October there should be courts in good playing condition in the several different areas of the Fort.

The tennis committee is working constantly to have everything in proper shape for the tournament.

Columbus business men have very generously given tennis their support by donating a number of valuable and very useful prizes. There will be about eighteen of these prizes offered.

Tennis players are urged to get out the old racket and begin warming up. The prizes offered will be well worth the effort. These will be placed in display at the Officers' Club on October 2nd.

The following tournaments are contemplated:

Men's singles.
Men's doubles.
Men's consolation singles.
Ladies' singles.
Ladies' doubles.
Mixed doubles.

This year is the first time that any attempt has been made to run ladies' tournaments at Fort Benning but the committee hopes that all the ladies who have ever played will start practicing again and register f or the tournament.

The tennis committee urges that tennis players—(1) Begin practice today; (2) Look over the prizes on October 2nd; (3) Enter the tournaments.

FOOTBALL

Coach Milburn, otherwise known as "Shrimp" to his friends in the Army at large, arrived last Monday, and since then the Varsity team has been put through its paces. Work is still being done in track togs but just as soon as the hot weather gives way to a cooler temperature the old shoulder pads and head harness will appear and then—watch their dust.

The indications of a fast, powerful back field are prominent. The probability is that backfielders will be big men with considerable speed.

About thirty men are preparing for practice each afternoon now, and the arrival of other students during the coming week will in all probability increase the size of the squad to fifty.

There are now three theatres in operation on the Post. When the 29th Infantry branch theatre was opened up predictions were made that, as most of the patronage at the Post Theatre was derived from members of this unit, the attendance at the main theatre would materially decrease. These predictions were partly fulfilled for a short time for the reason that patrons from other units had almost quit going to the Post Theatre on account of the congested condition there. Gradually, however, the news spread that the 29th Infantry branch was taking care of the overflow from the Post Theatre and members of other units began to patronize this theatre. The house is beginning to be comfortably filled at night and by the time cool weather arrives it is expected that the nightly attendance at the Post Theatre alone will be 600.

As soon as the new theatre is completed Fort Benning will have a theatre with a seating capacity for 2310 people. Arrangements are being made to equip the new theatre with comfortable theatre chairs and eventually this building will be as well equipped for showing pictures and vaudeville as any play house in this section of the country.

Until September 1st of this year all profits from the theatres were forwarded to the War Department and were applied to the purpose of supplying the smaller stations in the Army with motion pictures. On this date, however, the War Department issued an order providing that 20 per cent of the local net profits, over and above $22.00 nightly, the cost of furnishing the films, would revert to the local A. & R. Fund.

In order to complete the new theatre with the least loss of time it is necessary that the nightly attendance be increased at all theatres with the ultimate end of having at least 1000 people see the shows each night. With this number attending nightly Fort Benning will have an income of approximately $600.00 a month for the purpose of completing the new theatre and for other purposes when this has been done. Every patron should make it a point to bring a visitor each night.

These men who find themselves without funds or canteen checks at any time can get coupon books from their company commanders which will admit them to the show. These books cost only $1.50 and contain ten admissions. This is very cheap amusement and the purchaser is guaranteed value received for his money.

Two little boys, sons of officers, were playing together at Fort Benning. One of the youngsters had a very good grasp of the American art of cussing. The other little boy wasn't so good along this line. After a time some difference arose and the two youngsters started shoving each other. The first boy got his vocabulary into action and was doing very well with it. The second boy didn't have the ammunition with which to come back. Finally, made desparate by his inability to compete wth the first boy and in an effort to "hang a cuss" on the first one the second boy managed to stamer out, "Y-y-o-u, you, PECKINPAUGH!"

American Legion Makes Drive—Gains Objective

Resolution For Larger Army to Be Presented at New Orleans In October.

The largest American Legion post in Georgia went over the top Monday night this week, in its drive to secure one thousand members by January 1st, 1923. In order to lend zest and zeal to the scramble for new members, prizes will be given those who have signed up the greatest number of members on or about the 10th of October. The date thus set will enable lucky winners to join the hosts of the legion traveling to the National Convention to be held in New Orleans October 16-20.

The big membership from Fort Benning has helped the local Charles S. Harrison Post to take such a lead over its brother posts in the race for state supremacy. And as yet only a relatively small per cent from the Fort have joined.

In connection with the drive for membership, the Legion wants to emphasize the fact that it isn't interested in politics, except in cases where politics come in contact wth the welfare of legionaires. The Legion has found that many prospective members object to becoming American Legion men because they think the Legion is "going in for politics." This is not the case. The national interests of the Legion have been aroused over such things as the bonus, compensation and hospital treatment for the wounded, the securing of jobs and positions for ex-soldiers, so on. That isn't politics, but politics is greatly mixed up with these activities.

A thorough canvass of Fort Benning is going to be made by the local Post for new members. The Charles S. Harrison Post invites the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning to become members. It particularly asks that the purposes and principles of the Legion be given the closest study and analysis so that those who are not well informed may know just what the Legion stands for in American life and endeavor.

If by any chance there is any doubt as to the "politics" of the Charles S. Harrison Post, attention is called to the following resolution which was passed unanimously, and which the local Post will make every effort to have adopted at the National convention. This resolution has already had a wide spread influence upon not only individuals but other states:

"Whereas, by the act of Congress approved June 4, 1920, there was established and authorized by legislation for the first time in the history of the United States and adequate military policy for the nation, and

Whereas, said act provided for an Army of the United States to consist of the Regular Army, the National Guard, and the organized Reserves, welded into a single unit for training and combat, and

Whereas, said act appropriately contemplated the maintenance of a Regular Army of appropriate size to instruct and train the National Guard the Organized Reserves, and the Citizen's Training Camps so as to insure the safety of the nation in the national emergencies, and

Whereas, the authorized strength of the Regular Army since has been reduced from 250,000 men in 1920, to 150,000 men in 1921, and to 125,000 men in 1922, and the commissioned personnel has been likewise reduced by recent legislature, and

Whereas, the War Department has repeatedly urged against such reductions, as impairing the effectiveness of the Regular Army for the training the American citizen against that day when they may be called out as necessary re-enforcements in the time of war, and

Whereas, the Congress of the United States has repeatedly refused to pay proper heed to the earnest importunities of the War Department, be it hereby

Resolved that the American Legion ———, composed of veterans of the late war who realize the fatal results of insufficient training of citizens in time of emergency and the delays incident thereto, expresses its entire approval of an adherence to the policies and desires of the War Department as repeatedly communicated to Congress, and be it further

Resolved, that the American Legion deplore the action of Congress in disregarding the wishes of the War Department in this respect and in failing to enact legislation and to make appropriations in conformity with the principles of the said Act of Congress approved June 4, 1920, and be it further

Resolved, that the American Legion considers that the duly elected representatives in the Senate and House of Representatives have not acted in respect to military appropriations and the personnel of the Regular Army in conformity with the wishes of their constituents, with the current trend of public opinion, and with the present circumstances of American foreign policy and American life.

Infantry Team Breaks The World's Record

ALL MEMBERS MAKE PERFECT SCORE AT 800 YARDS.

Of particular interest and a cause for gratification in so far as the doughboys are concerned is the fact that the Infantry Rifle Team has broken a world's record at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Each member of the team made a "possible," or perfect score, at 800 yards which fact will not only give the Infantry team a decisive lead over all opponents but will be a material factor in enabling the team to win the match.

In view of the fact that the Infantry team is putting into practice the principles taught at the Infantry School the work of the team is of especial interest locally.

PRESIDENT'S VETO OF BONUS BILL SUSTAINED BY SENATE

House of Representatives Overrides It.

The Bonus Bill failed to become a law last Wednesday when the Senate sustained the action of President Harding by a vote of 4 less than the majority required by law to override the president's veto.

The House attempted to make the bill a law by overriding the veto, and was successful in getting the required majority with a comfortable margin but the action by the Senate nullified this action.

It is reported that a new bill will be introduced for consideration at the next session of congress.

History of the 29th Infantry

Article 3.

"In compliance with orders, A. G. O. and Department of the Lakes, Headquarters, Band, second and third Battalions left Fort Sheridan, Ill., Feb. 20, 1902 at 11:30 a. m., arriving at the Presido of San Francisco, California, at 2 p. m., Feb. 26, having traveled by rail 2315 miles."

"Under the same orders the first Battalion left Columbus Barracks, Ohio, at 2 p. m., Feb. 22 by rail and arrived at San Francisco, on Feb. 27. Distance about 2300 miles."

"During the entire month of March the regiment remained in camp No. 3 at the Presidio of San Francisco. The official record continues:

"On April 1, 1902 the regiment sailed on the U. S. A. T. Sheridan for the Philippine Islands, stopping at Honolulu, H. T. from April 9th to 13th, troops being held in quarantine. A short stop was made on Midway Island (Wake) April 21st. Reached Guam April 26th. Arrived in Manila Bay May 1st, at noon where the transport remained until the 4th on which date it took its departure for Cebu where on the 6th, Headquarters, Band and Co.'s A, G, F. G. and K. Debarked. The rest of the Companies proceeded to the Island of Panay and Negros."

"The organizations of the regiment took stations as follows: At Cebu, Headquarters, Band and Co.'s E and F; at Argao, Cebu, Co. C; at Bogo, Cebu, Co. K; at Dumanjug, Cebu, Co. G; at Island of Bohol Co. A; at Dumaguete, Negros, Co. M; at Iloilo, Panay, Co.'s H and I; at Calivo, Panay, Co. D; at Concepcion, Panay, Co. B; at Bacolod, Negros, Co. L."

A little later in the year several of the companies were transferred to other stations, occupying in addition to those named, Coron, Busuanga, Puerto Princesa, Paragua, Guimaras Island, Camp Jossman. In December Co. H moved from "quarters on Calle Rosario to Fort San Pedro."

The promotion of Colonel Auman to rank of Brigadier General took him from the regiment. Golonel Charles G. Penney (promoted from Lt. Col. 23rd Inf.) was assigned to the 29th on May 24.

"On Nov. 2 companies B, D and L participated at Iloilo in a review by Lieutenant General Nelson Miles, commanding the Army."

Lt. Col. Benjamin C. Lockwood, upon being promoted to rank of Colonel, was assigned to the regiment and commanded until his retirement with rank of Brigadier General in Dec. 1907.

Lt. Colonel F. A. Smith, who had been a Major in the regiment, was detailed in the I. S. D. in July, and later assigned to the I. S. D.

Other officers who joined the 29th in 1902 were: 2nd Lieutenants Franklin P. Jackson, Joseph B. Caughey, A. F. Dannemiller; 1st Lieutenants Will H. Point and David B. Mulliken.

GENERAL SNOW ARRIVES

General Snow, chief of Field Artillery, arrived at Fort Benning Thursday on a tour of inspection.

Memorandum No. 39, September 18th, directs that all articles for press publication be given out through the office of G-2.

Knockers' Column

I stood in Columbus at midnight
(My train was four hours late)
"Quarters in camp," my telegram read,
Now why should I have to wait?

But now I know why I met delay,
I've been at Benning a month and a day.

For the first three days I plied the trade
O carpenter, plumber, with hammer and spade,
"Why doesn't my furniture come," I said,
"There's naught in the house but a single bed."

"Why, you're lucky to have a bed and a roof,"
Was the strange, but truthful, queer reproof,
Eliminations were almost getting my goat,
My words about heat I will not quote.

Now there's an order I can't laugh off
As I flounder to town in the dust—and cough.
My furniture came three days ago,
But today my home has come to woe.

We have to move to town and live,
Billeting orders are kept in a sieve,
And I vision eighteen miles a day
While driving a Ford through dust and clay.

"Bob-o-link,
Bob-o-link, tell me true,
Did anything like this ever happen to you?"

"With someone manufacturing a football schedule based on memories of the past baseball season the first battalion football squad was aroused this morning to the seriousness of the task facing them this fall to retain their prestige as champions of Fort Benning. Schedules for universities usually have a total of about eight games and with different opponents — but the "master-mind" who evolves football schedules for the enlisted personnel of Fort Benning imagined it would be a unique idea to have about twelve games for each team to play and also for each opponent to play each other at least three times. A rare gentleman—this schedule maker. An analysis of this remarkable schedule shows that the First Battalion will play the Freebooters, an aggregation of players from the special units of the 29th Inf. at least three times, the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, three times, the83rd Field Artiliery three times, and the vulnerable Tanks three times. However, a dent has already been made in the schedule by the hot weather and it has already been announced that all games have been pushed back so that the first game will not be played until September 30th."

24th Infantry News Notes

Personal.

Recent additions to the officers personnel of the third battalion include Chaplain Maurice W. Reynolds, U. S. A. attached, Captain Anthony P. L. Lagorio, Infantry, attached, 1st Lt. J. Earl Custer, Infantry, attached, 1st Lt. James A. Murphey, 29th Infantry, on special duty.

Captain James Sproule, Infantry, has returned from leave and has rejoined for duty. 1st Lt. Wm. D. Schas, 24th Infantry, has just returned from two months leave and will be welcomed back with the organization.

Captains G. S. Clarke, Geo. H. Hopkins and I. B. Mayers, all 24th Infantry have been granted leave of absence within the past week. 1st Lt. L. V. Jones has also taken advantage of one month and 12 days leave.

Our Pride.

Orders were published at battallion parade on last Wednesday setting forth the enviable record of the 3rd battalion, 24th Infantry, as having acquired no new venereal cases during the month preceeding, and a letter from the commanding general was received complimenting the organization on this fine record, and also announcing that for the first time since May, 1921 the rate of venereal cases of colored troops had been lower than for the white troops on the post.

The New Chaplain.

He is already on the job strong. Chaplain Reynolds is his name, and he comes under the category of a REGULAR. The other day he was seen hauling in several loads of G. I. roofing and roofing tin and other coveted building materials. Upon inquiry if he was attached to the Q. M. or Utilities, he admitted that he was merely preparing to build a NEW school-house for the children of enlisted men's families of the battalion. Well, what do you think of that? All supply officers take note. The chaplain may be able to give you some tips.

The chaplain was seen on a recruiting tour lately on the hunt for fighters who would like to form a committee on arrangements for the reception of the remainder of the 24th Infantry when they arrive from Columbus, New Mexico. Interbattalion fights and other athletic contests will be arranged as soon as the personnel of the missing battalion arrives.

Already there have been 7 football games arranged to be played at the local grounds with visiting teams. Practice has begun for the candidates for the Football team.

Infantry School Detachment Notes

The Infantry School Detachment welcomes the appearance of the Fort Benning News. We feel that we are the most important outfit on the Post and are justly entitled to a place of prominence in its columns.

Private Spence, a recent addition to the detachment, is now on duty with the print shop.

Private Felton Ezell is now working with the Sanitary Officer. Fine chance for an ambitious lad to become a doctor.

Company "F," 1st Gas Regiment, has been transferred here from Camp McClellan. They are quartered with the Detachment until their new home is ready in the 29th Infantry Area. The ten chemical warfare men who have been here all winter will join their own outfit as soon as quarantine has been lifted.

Sergeant Jeff Smith is now on special duty with the Range Section Department of Military Art.

The Post Exchange shoe repairing and tailor shop having moved we now have the much needed building they vacated. The barracks are not quite so crowded and Cream can qualify as hotel clerk after assigning the new rooms-de-luxe.

One of our prominent sergeants and leading vocalists decided to take a lady friend to the boxing match, but claimed they could not see, as the fence and grand stand was in the way. What's the matter Sarge? Broke?

WANTED—Stenographic jobs of any kind, either English or Pollack; cheap; special rates to officers. Can be hired either by hour, day or the quality of work.See Sgt Jiggs Sikorsky, Infantry School Detachment.

Floyd Higginbotham, Master Man, former rough neck of the rough riders of the 29th Infantry, has joined the cod fish aristocracy of the city of Columbus and was seen at the Cricket Tea Room on the night of September 13th, 1922. We fear the master man has left the rough riders for good and will in the future be seen in the above mentioned society. The rough riders will miss the dashing young sergeant very much but will wish him the best of luck in his new venture.

After crushing a few hearts in Fort Payne, Alabama, our young Romeo, Glenn has returned to our midst and can be found punching keys in the Detachment Office. Welcome home Otis.

Our Personnel Sergeant, Thomas W. Howell, has invested in a What-You-May-Call-It. It runs (Sometimes) by gasoline and other things. Some chariot.

A very deserving promotion has just been awarded to Albert Cream of this Detachment. He will retire shortly after having served faithfully for thirty years and this promotion is no more than was coming to him.

Fishel Kushnetsky was seen in the company of Bill Stewart recently. Wonder what's in the air.

A plan is on foot to start a foot ball team in the Detachment this year. Our first attempt at this sport. Lookout Benning, as you know our reputation in other sports.

The Detachment is contemplating a dance in the near future and it is hoped that all of the ladies of the Post will be able to attend, as well as our friends from Columbus.

The Detachment is very fortunate in having Master Sgt. Kindervater for First Sergeant, while Master Sgt. Harris, who has just taken out another stack, is on furlough. Sgt. Kindervater has put a new spirit in the Detachment and we are behind him 100 per cent strong. Best of luck to Albert.

Mike Halpan has just been awarded two extra K. P's. for missing the weekly hair cut inspection. Mike being an aspirant for the foot ball team decided to try his ability on the door as he went out. It was a perfect place kick, but did not appeal to the Grand Goblin so Mike was recalled and awarded another two.

"Papa" Jack Wheeler is wearing a smile that won't come off. Wonder if he will be an outfielder, too.

"FINIS."

15th Tank Bat. News

September 12th the 15th Tank Battalion celebrated their 4th Anniversary in memorial of the Tanks first entry in the World's War at St. Mihiel.

Brig. General Walter H. Gordon opened the meeting with a short talk on the splendid work of the tanks in the World War. This was followed by short talks of the history of the light tanks by Capt. Higgins and the history of the heavy tanks by Capt. Taylor.

Immediately after the meeting a baseball game was played between the Light Tanks and the Heavy Tanks, which resulted in the Lights defeating the Heavies by a score of 10 to 3.

After dinner the men all went down to the Post Swimming Pool, where exhibitions of fancy diving, swimming, life saving and races were held.

The programme for the evening was very simple. The curtain raiser of the evening was a bout between Grantham of the Light Tanks and Hatfield of the Heavy Tanks, which was followed by a grotesque boxing match in which the contestants were blindfolded and tied to each other by stout ropes while an uninterested party stood by, and while the contestants endeavered to find their opponent he hit first one and then the other.

It was followed by a number of amatuer vaudeville acts, after which Brig. General Gordon gave the men an interesting talk about the tanks.

Refreshments were then served, and the rest of the evening passed off very pleasantly with comic dialogues and clog dancing.

Among those present were Brig. General Walter H. Gordon, Col. McCaskey, the Tank officers and many other officers of the post.

Sanitary Notes

(Swat the Mosquito)

(a) If you are bothered with mosquitos, look about your own quarters for the breeding places. A half teacupfull of water which remains a week may be sufficient to grow hundreds of them.

(b) The ordinary wiggler or wiggletale develops into the mosquito. On the post such wigglers have been found in:

fire barrels, bottles,
cans,
garbage and trash cans, automobile tires,
ice cream freezers.
collections of water in basements under ice boxes which drop on the ground.

Kill these wigglers by destroying these breeding places.

(c) The best way to find the mosquito that is in your house, is to look on the screens early in the morning, and in the dark corners of the room in the middle of the day.

(d) Every insect that buzzes in your ear is not a mosquito.

(e) On July 17, 1922 there was found in Block 16, a washtub. It had not been used for a week, and looked innocent enough, resting on the ground, beside its owners' quarters. However, just a little water had been left in the tub. Hundreds of wigglers had developed, 33 of these were sent to Washington, and identified as the mosquito which transmits "Dengue." Dengue is a very painful disease. Hundreds of cases are reported in Georgia and in the surrounding states. If the owner of this tub had emptied it and then placed it so that it could not hold water, he would not have endangered the health of his neighbors, nor his own.

Sometimes it pays to rent.

A story is going the rounds, on a certain officer who recently reported to take the Company Officer's course, which should have space in these columns. The story is vouched for by another officer who is now an instructor here.

While a certain regiment of infantry was in France that well remembered order forbidding the purchase of fresh eggs came out from G. H. Q. One morning the Colonel of the regiment was informed by his cook that he (the cook) thought the colonel ought to eat better than anybody in the regiment in view of the fact that the colonel was responsible for the unit, was the highest ranking officer present, and, out of deference to his rank, if for no other reason, he should have the best of everything The cook went further to state that he was not satisfied with existing conditions as far as the commanding officer's food was concerned.

The colonel informed the cook that what was good for the men was good enough for him, but he was informed that the men ate better than he did. The cook advised him further that he had taken a meal with the Supply Company the morning before and that they had fresh eggs for breakfast. This commanding officer was a stickler for carrying out orders and the company commander of the company concerned was immediately summoned upon the carpet.

"Captain," said the K. O., "I understand that you and your company had fresh eggs for breakfast a few mornings ago. Is that correct?"

"It is sir."

"Are you familiar with orders on this subject wherein the purchase of fresh eggs by members of the A. E. F. is prohibited?"

"I am, sir."

"Then will you explain to me, Captain, why you wilfully disobeyed these orders?"

"I will, sir, and I will prove to the colonel's satisfaction that no order has been disobeyed. When the order prohibiting the purchase of eggs came out I made a pretty careful study of its contents and I failed to find any clause in the order prohibiting the rental of hens. That is what I have done, sir, and these hens are the source of my supply.

The colonel immediately dispatched his cook to hunt hens for rent.

Social Notes

Married, on September 19th at the home of the bride in Columbus, Georgia, Miss Melissa Golden to Major Robert P. Halpin. Major and Mrs. Halpin are going to the Philippines.

Dr. and Mrs. Chapman, father and mother of Capt. Gorry Chapman, have arrived in Columbus and have taken apartments at 2750 11th Ave.

The officer's hop last Friday night was well attended. Officers and their families returned from leave and as a result the small attendance during the summer months is a thing of the past. The sports dance held last night, a week ago, was so popular that the Hop Committee decided to repeat it. Last night the success of the previous hop had become known and the idea appealed to the dancers with the result that an unusually large crowd of officers and guests from Columbus were present. The music, which was furnished by the 29th Infantry orchestra, was especially good. The orchestra has made marked improvement during the past year and now compares favorably with the best civilian orchestras.

During the first part of October, classes for children will be opened at the officers' hop room. Permit has been granted Miss Gertrude Joseph for the operation of these classes every Saturday.

Miss Joseph will also be pleased to receive applications for appointments from adults for lessons in ball room dancing, also for reducing classes, the latter being a new feature which is being adopted by all the modern schools.

Parties desiring to take advantage of these classes can get in communication with Miss Joseph in Columbus or phone 253.

Medical Dept. Notes

Capt. R. T. Arnest, M. C., has returned from temporary duty with the C. M. T. C. Camp McClellan, Ala. The Captain enjoyed a fifteen day leave, touring the South before returning.

Capt. J. S. Brummette, M. C., has returned for duty. Capt. Brummette has been on temporary duty with the C. M. T. Co Camp McClellan.

Major S. A. Moulton, M. C. has been granted a thirty day leave of absence. The Major expects to enjoy the "Good Old New England Weather," for the next few weeks.

2nd Lieut. R. C. Cravat, Army Nurse Corps, has been granted a thirty-fie day leave of absence, she will visit her home, Wauzeka, Wiss. After a strenuous summer in the operating room the change will be welcome.

Our smiling File Clerk Sgt. C. M. Mount, has improved wonderfully the last week. He actually stood revilee every morning, and done "charge of quarters" two days in succession.

Corporal Jesse Timmons is a master of sarcasm. Here is a verse Compliment he recently paid Corporal John C. Quinn in an address on the Briggs Parade Ground at this Post.

"Corporal Quinn is a very fine gentlemen," (excuse me, folks, I mean soldier.) He can compliment any cook. His digestive organs proceed to their task unruffled by disturbing thoughts. His taste in after-dinner save me shorts is based upon exhaustive knowledge of the subject. On the drill field the Corporal can stroll across the ground with the complacent nerves and fearless heart of any soldier. His analytical mind trained by long hours of application, can plot the trajectories of squads east and west to a nicety and calculate the backspan of his BACKWARD HO, with a truly prodigious grasp. The first three days of each week our Corporal devotes himself to this arduous and brin-trying pursuit. The next three days our Corporal is so worn out with his battles on the drill field that he has to go into retirement."

Capt. J. R. Sands, M. A. C., has returned from a sixty day leave of absence suent in New York and oBstonfl Capt. and Mrs. Sands made the trip by automobile and reported a wonderful trip.

ajor A. J. Bayley M. C. has returned from temporary duty with the C. M. T. C. Camp McClellan, Ala.

Capt. S. D. Hardeman M. C. has reported for duty at this Station and is assigned as assistant to the Attending Surgeon.

Capt. S. F. O'Day M. C. is leaving soon on a sixty day leave of absence.

2nd Lieuts. E. Jackson, M. Berry and E. Michener, Army Nurse Corps, are enjoying a leave of absence in New York. Canada and Pennsylvania, respectively.

The enlisted men and officers who have been on temporary duty at Camp McClellan, have returned to this station for duty. They were very welcome, as the personnel has been below strength.

2nd Lieut. Kinsley, A. N. C., who has recently been operated on for appendicitis, has returned for duty.

Capt. C. R. Hays, D. C., is leaving soon on a sixty day leave of absence, which he expects to spend in Europe.

Word has been received from Lt. Berban Huffien, MAC., that after a very enjoyable voyage, he has safely arrived at Tipler Hospital, Honolulu, H. I. Lieut. Huffien was the Medical Supply Officer at this station.

2nd Lieuts. Klain, Johnson, Griffin and Grinnell, Army Nurse Corps, have arrived safely at Station Hospital, Manila, P. I.

2nd Lieuts. Bush, Mizelle, Mullany and Mc.Donald, Army Nurse Corps, have reported for temporary duty at Camp McClellan. The last two named are recent arrivals from Coblenz, Germany.

Our smiling Mess Sergeant (Sgt. Walsa) is on a furlough in Pennsylvania. "Mickey" expects to have a good time with the P. S's. (Pennsylvania Dutchmen).

Our Personnel Clerk, Sgt. G. E. Long, reported that his clothes are getting too small. He was recently married and stays at home nights, possibly that explains it.

2nd Lieuts. A. Berninger and Rorothy Cleveland, Army Nurse Corps, have recently reported for duty, coming from Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C.

The question has been asked in the Hospital the last week, "How expensive are Sunday Papers at the Service Club?" It is understood that it cost one man a good deal of time and trouble.

Sergeant and Mrs. L. D. White spent the week-end in Birmingham, Ala. They made the trip in the "Flivver" and reported a very nice trip. They were accompanied by Privates Henry J. and Geo. D. Proctor.

Capt. C. P. Price, M. C., has returned from temporary duty at Camp McClellan, Ala. Capt Price was the Medical Officer with the 3rd Battlion 29th Infantry.

A very unusual accident happened in the hospital kitchen Tuesday afternoon; the water front in one of the stoves exploded. The report was heard a long distance. Luckly no one was seriously injured. Cook Rumph and Private Henri was slightly cut.

The hospital execueive officer wishes to invite the attention of the incoming officers and their families to the fact that there are three Medical Officers on duty as Attending Surgeons for this Command. Capt E. B. Bretz, in the city of Columbus, whose office is in the Chancellor building, 'phone 255, and who is quartered in Dimon Court, 'phone 2488, will promptly and cheerfully call on any of the Post Personnel living in the city, who are not able to visit his office for medical advice or treatment. Two officers are on duty at the post. Their officer 'phone is 126 where they can usually be reached. The Medical Officer of the Day, 'phone 127, will always care for any call when the Attending Surgeon cannot be promptly reached.

It is desired that so far as possible all sick come to the hospital for treatment. Officers to the Out-Patient Department, open twenty-four hours daily with a Medical Officer on duty, and families of officers and enlisted men to the Attending Surgeon's Office where there is always an attendant on duty who will promptly get a Medical Officer in the absence of the Attending Surgeon.

Major R. H. Goldthwaite has returned from leave which was spent in New York and Boston.

POLO.

All polo speculations and predictions were upset last Sunday afternoon when the 83rd Artillery took the 29th Infantry into camp to the tune of 3 to 2. The Artillery team showed marked improvement over previous performances while the strong 29th Infantry team appeared to have made slower advance both in stick and in team work. The line up was:

| 83rd Artillery | Pos. | 29th Infantry |
|---|---|---|
| Beidenlinden | 1 | Rock |
| McClure | 2 | Roxbury |
| Malone | 3 | McCarthy |
| Betts | Back | Gannon |

Goals: 29th Infantry, McClure 1; etts 1. 83rd Artillery, McCarthy 1; Roxbury 2.

The second game was between the Post Staff team and the Freebooters, the latter team being composed of players who had never played together as a team before, and were at a disadvantage because of this. This game was a race from start to finish, the direction being the Freebooters' goal. With practice in team work, however, the Freebooters team will give any team at Fort Benning a sharp engagement. The line-up is shown as:

| Post Staff | Pos. | Freebooters |
|---|---|---|
| Elkins | 1 | (Burnett) (Paquet) |
| French | 2 | Douglas |
| Weems | Back | Breedlaw |

Goals: Post Staff, Elkins 1; French 4; Weems1. Freebooters, 0.

Next Sunday the line-up for all teams will probably be practically the same. The games, however, will be shifted so as to provide for different opposing teams meeting. These games are becoming more and more interesting, as was evidenced by the almost solid lines of automobiles along the side boards and it appears that more parking space will have to be provided in the near future. The game Sunday begins promptly at four o'clock.

* * * *

A tentative schedule of games has been announced for the purpose of fixing player's handicaps. This schedule runs from next Sunday until Sunday, November 26th. After these preliminary games have been completed a post tournament for the Dierks Cup will be played.

September 24th, 29th Inf. vs. Blues and Artillery vs. Yellows.

October 1, Artillery vs. 29th Inf. and Blues vs. Yellows.

October 8, Yellows vs. 29th Inf. and Artillery vs. Blues.

October 15, Blues vs. 29th Inf. and Artillery vs. Yellows.

October 22, 29th vs. Artillery and Blues vs. Yellows.

October 29, Yellows vs. 29th Inf. and Artillery vs. Blues.

November 5, Blues vs. 29th Inf. and Artillery vs. Yellows.

November 12, Artillery vs. 29th Inf. and Blues vs. Yellows.

BOXING.

The bantam weight champion of Fort Benning and the Fourth Corps Area is Pvt. William A Keenan, known to fight fans as:

RED KEENAN

Born in Wheeling, W. Virginia, March 9, 1902.

| Number of principle fights since 1916 | 34 |
| Won | 18 |
| Draw | 5 |

Some of Keenan's biggest fights have been:

|---|---|
| Rabbit Devore | K. O. 7th round |
| Rabbit Devore | K. O. 2ndround |
| Sammie Sandew | Decision |
| Chick Harvey | Decision |
| Mickey Ross | Decision |
| Al Walthour | Decision |
| One Eyed Bennett | Decision |
| Frank Keenan | Draw |
| Eddie Coon | K. O. 5th round |
| Eddie Coon | Decision |
| Al Corbett | Draw |
| Al DeRose | Decision |
| Chief Alonzo | Draw. |
| Mike Miller | K. O. 2nd round |
| Kid Earle | Decision |
| Young Stribling, Keenan Knocked Out in 6th round. | |
| Tim O'Dowd | Tech K. O. |
| Kid Parnell | K. O. 3rd round |
| Johnnie Helms | Decision |
| Battling Twyman | Draw |

(2 fights, 6 and 8 rounds)

Keenan, on account of his weight, has had to go out of his class in order to get fights and in every instance that he has lost by decision or been knocked out his opponent has outweighed him several pounds. In his class he can handle any fighter outside of the professional class and it is expected that he will win again the Fourth Corps Area bantam weight championship this year as easily as he did last year.

FOOTBALL

The various unit teams are getting into shape and by the time the whistle is blown for the first kick-off the latter part of this month these teams will have rounded into shape and will put up an exhibition of real football.

The 29th Infantry, which regiment is putting three teams into the field, shows manifest interest in the coming season as is indicated by the large number of men turning out for practice. Notwithstanding guard duty and fatigue the players are getting at their practice in a business-like manner. Both the Second Battalion team and the First Battalion team have their eyes on the coveted pennant. This pennant was awarded to the First Battalion last year, although the game was protested by the "Treat-Em-Rough" aggregation The First Battalion believes that they can retain the post championship notwithstanding the insinuations of the Tank Battalion that they had to have the help of an officer to win the pennant last season. The Second Battalion is looking at the pennant with covetous eyes and are determined that the pennant for this season will have a new name plate on it this year.

The Tank Battalion is saying nothing and working hard. This team will bear watching by the other teams on the post. Last season they almost won the pennant and this season they are "out for blood."

Nobody seems to have any "dope" on the 83rd Artillery. However, they have the material in that organization and the team having expectations of running them ol the field is going to be disappointed.

The "dark horse" team is the special units team from the 29th Infantry. The grouping of these units into a team is an experiment. Someone remarked recently that it would be a surprise if this team cleaned up with the other teams on the post. This may happen. At any rate the Freebooters will be "there" when the time comes.

The varsity squad is being rapidly whipped into shape. Today saw the players out in football pants, jersies, and the rest of the football paraphernalia except the head harness and pads. These will be donned the latter part of the week. The line looks good. It looks terrible when it comes down to the field in the direction of the spectator. There is no telling what a crowd like that may do in the excitement of running signals. Lieut. Leman, thinking no doubt to add a touch of color to the general scheme, has furnished the players with baby blue stockings. "Babe" Adams especially looks well in these. When interviewed by a News reporter "Babe" seemed to be somewhat embarassed when questioned about his stockings and finally confessed that he couldn't do his best work for fear of getting the stockings soiled. This will probably wear off with "Babe," however, and when he hits the line with his old time form this season the color of stockings will not bother him.

Judging from form alone this year's varsity is going to be a winner Even at this early stage of the game the line gets off together and shows all the earmarks of developing into a wonderful machine. The backs are getting their legs limbered up and are beginning to catch punts and do broken field running like it was the middle of the season instead of hardly the beginning. This back field aggregation is as far advanced this season as they were behind last year, and when they start going around Piedmont's ends in the opening game those who saw last year's opening game will get a pleasant surprise.

SWIMMING

Under the impetus given it by Lt. Paul B. Malone, Jr., this form of sport is increasing in popularity. The interest being displayed in the organization of a Fort Benning swimming team is evidenced by the following list of swimmers who are trying for the team:

(a)—Breast Stroke Swimmers—Capt. Foote, Lt. Malone, 29th Infantry; Sgt. Squirrell, Co. "B" 15th Tank Bn.

(b)—Sprinters—Capt. Colby, Capt Foote, Lt. Malone, 29th Infantry; Capt. Whitmore, Co. "L" 29th Inf.; Pvt. Shehane, Co. "L" 29th Inf.; Pvt. Powell, How. Co. 29th Inf.; Pvt. Wagner, Service Co. 29th Inf.; Pvt. Mathew, How. Co. 29th Inf.; Cpl. Heckman, Hq. Co. 1st Bn. 29th Inf.; Pvt. Gardener, Co. "M" 29th Inf.; Pvt. Thomas, How. Co. 29th Inf.; Pvt. Groenevelt, How. Co. 29th Inf.; Pvt. Maxwell, Co. "D" 29th Inf. Sgt. Squirrell, Co. "B" 15th Tank Bn.; Pvt. Stear Co. "B" 15th Tank Bn.

(e)—Plunge—Pvt. Major, Co. "A" 29th Inf.

(f)—Possibilities—Pvts. Swantic, Steer, Monager, Mac, Snedigar, Nugent, McCarthy, Co. "B" 15th Tank Bn.;Nelson, Co. "A" 15th Tank Bn.

Plans are now under consideration for sending a team to New Orleans next month to compete in a meet to be held at the time the American Legion holds its convention in that city. The prospects of a team from Fort Benning taking part in this meet are bright and it is believed that with the good material available this station will at least hold its own with other teams.

NEWS FROM THE 7TH ENGINEERS

The personnel of the Seventh Engineers has been strengthened by 14 men transferred from the Engineer Training Company No. 4, which was stationed with C. M. T. C. at Camp McClellan, Alabama.

The above 14 men will mean a lot to the "Seventh," and not only the "Seventh," but to the entire Post, as these men are experts when it comes to demonstrating barbed wire entanglements, and will be able to show the Student Officers class what an Engineer can do with barbed wire.

Along with this we not only have "crack wire entanglement demonstrators," but boast one of the best shooting outfits in the United States Army."

Quartermaster Det. Notes

"The Quartermaster Corps Detachment gave, on the evening of the 7th, a farewell dance in honor of Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Carl C. Jones who are leaving Fort Benning on or about September 15th. Colonel Jones will take up his new duties at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Among those present were Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Carl C. Jones Captain and Miss Hahn, Captain and Mrs. Knight, Captain Wierbach, Captain Mechling, Captain Richardson, Captain Freeman B. Daniel, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Huntress.

The enlinsted and civilian personnel of the Q. M. C. of Fort Benning presented to Colonel and Mrs. Jones a beautiful token of remembrance in the form of a shebert set and tray of sterling silver.

The presentation was made by Technical Sergeant Wilhelm Berg, after which Colonel and Mrs. Jones replied with a speech of appreciation.

During the intermission refreshments were served, and Corporal Walters, of the Finance Department, who by the way, is considered to be the best singer in Georgia, sung a few appropriate songs, one of these having been composed by himself for the occasion."

Knockers' Column

This is not an Apology,
But is Written in an Effort to Help the overworked
Editor
To Fill up a
More or less Vacant column, also to "Get it off my chest."
(Latter reason first.)
And
Once and for all
I want
To get this thing Settled.
Since the fatal day
I first Held up my hand
And said,
"Uh huh",
I do, or Whatever it was,
I have been
"Balled" out,
"Cussed" out,
Knocked out,
Dared out,
Invited out,
Asked out,
Kicked out,
Tried out,
Brought out,
Locked out,
Sent out,
And told to GET OUT ! @ * !
But,
Unlike the Raven
Which quoth
"Never-more"
I Think I'll
RE-ENLIST.

Why is it that members of a certain organization at this post continue to wear the serge uniform on pass while men from other organizations are turned back at the bridge and told to get into proper uniform. This does not seem hardly fair to members of other organizations.

Since when has Uncle Sam authorized the wear of light khaki blouses and "dyed (by Benning Laundry Process) khaki breeches? This past week I sent to the laundry two blouses and two pair of breeches, for the purpose of having them dyed to match; the blouses having never been dyed, and the breeches only two weeks ago having received a coat of this new "Benning Laundry O. D. color," certainly were a sight to behold when worn by the writer. So for the purpose of having them dyed to match, I sent them to our laundry, and today had the pleasure of receiving them back, the breeches dyed—but the blouses still retained their almost snow-white color of old. Now, suppose the writer was abliged to wear these clothes to town. Wouldn't I be a fit subject for Barnum & Bailey's? I'd pack in the main sideshow at two-bits a ticket!

Quartermaster Notes

Lieut. Huntress, Subsistence officer stuck his chest out Tuesday morning and said, "It's a girl." Keep it up Lieutenant, this makes two, say we.

1st Sgt. Wilhelm Berg is again back with us after a twenty days trip through the state of Florida; if his tent hadn't blown up at some beach in Florida we might still be looking sad. Evidently Florida is not dry, as it appears Sgt. Berg's taste. (for travel.)

We regret very much that we cannot put in print one of Bill Seigmund's official growls. You see he can't help it, he's our ex-mess Sergeant.

Private Charlie Faber's String band is evidently losing pep, as the only charming notes heard are those emanating from the tip of a cue stick —however, such music is getting stale, and the player is becoming (you know what I mean)

Speedy Gilliam says "Well, I reckon, this is the second car I bought and I know I've got a good one this time—its a Chevrolet." Corporal Kennedy says "it's a good car, well—we hope it is anyway."

"The Commissary Twins, Pvt Bacon and Pvt. Kane, are still at it," says Faber, our pocket billiard artist

Pvt. Albert E. Willette is out of the hospital after a ten week's vacation—all that we have to say it to "watch your step."

Let it be known through the detachment that Frank Rupp is still acting Corporal.

Orris Edge, for two years an active member of the Q. M. Commissary's sales force, has been transferred to the detachment orderly room. Other members of the force don't mind so very much,. (No wonder, just see who officiates in his place.)

TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY NEWS.

(Items for publication in this column must reach the Chaplain by Wednesday noon each week.)

At a social gathering at the Regimental Library on Sautrday evening last, at which the men about to be discharged were guests of honor, an interesting contest was held. Prizes were offered for the best answers to the following questions:

What is the best thing about the 29th?

What is the greatest need of the 29th?

What is the best type of recruit needed by the 29th?

What is the best thing I can do for my home town?

These prizes were won by Stovall (Co. H), Miller (Co. H), Justice (Co. C), Bowman (Co. G), Corley (Co. G) and Defizeo (Co. H). One of the speakers reminded the guests of honor that they were not being honored because they were leaving the service, but because they had served honorably their three years.

Major Floyd Hatfield, commanding the first Battalion has returned from an extensive leave spent in Europe.

Lieut. Albert C. Wedemeyer has been selected as aide-de-camp on the staff of Brigadier General Paul B. Malone.

Former Members of Regiment.

News has reached the Regiment of the death of Master Sergeant Richard S. Krause, a former member of the 29th. Sergeant Krause will be remembered as a first Sergeant and one of the best ball players the Regiment has ever had. During the World War he held a commission as a temporary first lieutenant. In Sept. 1921 he underwent an operation for appendicitis from which he never fully recovered. He died Aug. 22 and was buried in the Williamsville cemetery, N. Y., with military honors.

Col. Monroe McFarland (who as Major commanded the first Battalion at Fort Porter) has just been retired

Among the Colonels to be made Brigadier Generals we notice with pleasure the names of Briant H. Wells and Harold B. Fiske, former members of the 29th. The Regiment extends heartiest congratulations.

The 29th also extends congratulations and best wishes to Major and Mrs. Landreth who became the happy possessors on Sept. 1st at Fort Leavenworth, of a baby daughter Margaret McFall.

Major and Mrs. A. J. Skillman, D. C., old friends of the 29th, were also the recipients of a little girl on Sept. 4th, Lily Elizabeth. Congratulations.

Field Artillery Notes

Lt. F. G. McGill, 83rd Field Artillery, has been appointed football coach by the commanding officer and has a husky squad of twenty men out daily for practice. Sgt. Samlavich, quarterback on last year's team and member of the Fort Benning baseball team, heads the list of last year's veterans, together with Cooper, another Fort baseball star, 1st Sgt. Marsh, of C Battery, Sgt. Peiffer of "A" and Hunt of "A" are other veteran backfield men, while the line will be bolstered with experienced forwards in the persons of McNeely, guard, Tertany, guard; and Sgt. John Donnelly, tackle.

Newly reported officers assigned to the Battalion include Captain Alfred G. Ford, 1st Lieut. Henry L. Kersh, 1st Lieut. William D. Williams, 1st Lieut. William C. McCarthy, 1st Lt. Seward L. Mains, 1st Lieut. Chas. W. Reed.

Aided by the aggressive work of Lieut. McCarthy, a new player at No. 3, the 83rd polo team, in a strenous struggle on a rough field, defeated the 29th Infantry organization in four periods last Sunday by the extremely narrow margin of 3 to 2.

Capt. Betts, one of the Doughboys' Four Horsemen, on the defense was the mainstay in keeping the score down to that figure.

At the time this is written Major General William J. Snow, Chief of Artillery, is expected in the post. The Chief has made it a practice to visit the Artillery Battalion at least once during the school year since the organization was first stationed here.

A high compliment was paid to the nobility of the battalion when the Post Adjutant sent word down to the outfit by telephone Thursday morning to turn out a battery to fire the salute for General Snow at 9:30 a. m.

The call was received at 9:23 a.m. An orderly trotted down to the gun park and got there at 9:28. Three Minutes later four of the freshly painted and burnished gun sections of Battery "A", Captain William B. Dunwoody commanding, was rolling up to Post Headquarters.

Sanitation.

Have you noticed that there are fewer flies in the Post this year, than last? This is due to the splendid cooperation of all concerned, especially through organization commanders, in catching flies.

To keep the flies down, all that is necessary is to follow three rules:

(1) Starve them by screening all food, and never throwing anything on the ground upon which a fly can feed.

(2) Destroy their breeding places Flies breed in filth. Therefore keep everything clean.

(3) Catch the adult flies. Use traps, fly paper and swatters.

To have even better success next Summer, we must catch adult flies which live through the Winter, and flood the Post with their young in the first warm days of Spring. Don't discontinue fly-traps because of the coming Winter. Keep them working the year round. One fly caught in the cold weather is worth many thousand caught in the Summer time

Don't confine these efforts to the organization messes. Every house on this post should maintain one or more traps. Help make this a flyless Post, the only one in the Army.

A splendid bait is made by mixing equal parts of oatmeal, water and molasses, adding a small particle of yeast. This might be called "Fly hooch." The odor is pleasant to man and fly. Keep the traps freshly baited.

APPRECIATION of the growing support being given The News by members of the command is tendered herewith. At first it began to look as if The News was going to be handicapped for news items and "copy," but some rich gems have been donated during the past week—as is evidenced by the definition of the Statue of Liberty given in another column—and seldom a day passes now that something of the kind does not show up. The News knows that there is an abundance of talented minds at Fort Benning and that the possessors of these minds, " in their spare time," can be of material assistance to the editor in making this paper one of the most attractive of any of the Service publications. Such copy is appreciated, even if it sometimes can not be printed for fear of having somebody on the back of our editorial necks, and the entire command is invited to supply The News with items of humorous interest. In a station the size of Fort Benning, with the type of men and women peculiar to the Army composing our personnel, amusing situations occur and funny remarks are made daily which deserve places in print. Stores of such situations and remarks are welcome.

APOLIGIES are offered to both the 83rd Field Artillery and the 29th Infantry for not having printed their news items for last week. The printer overlooked these items in making up the paper to the extent that certain news items from other organizations should have been curtailed and provision made for all units having a few items. The policy will be in the future to give a certain amount of space to everybody and to try to divide this space in an equitable manner. Delivery of The News is made every Saturday morning by motorcycle courier to every set of quarters on the Post. Should anybody fail to receive their copy the A. & R. Office, Post 'phone 146, should be notified so that a copy may be sent out.

THE FORT BENNING children's school opens Monday and the youngsters are getting ready for it. Miss Grimes has returned from her vacation, an event greeted with considerable glee by those youngsters who know her. At least temporarily the faculty will be composed of Miss Grimes, Mrs. Harvey, and Miss Slayton. It is probable that it will be necessary to increase the number of teachers later in the year. The plan for financing the school has been slightly changed this year to the extent that parents will be required to sign a contract for tuition, amounting to $5.50 monthly, covering the entire school year. This plan will create a small operating fund and enable the school to meet obligations more promptly than was the case last year.

The officers and their families of the permanent personnel, through the Officers Club were hosts last evening at a reception and dance given in honor of the incoming officers and their families. In the receiving line were: General and Mrs. Malone, Col. and Mrs. Graham, and Lieut. Rockafellow, aide to the Commanding General, during the reception the 29th Infantry band rendered several splendid selections, giving a most enjoyable concert to all present. Each person at the party was required to wear a tag furnished for their convenience whereon they wrote their name. This helped in identifying the hundreds of people present. The invitation list included some two hundred persons from the city of Columbus who motored out for this occasion. After the reception the guests danced in the hop room, the music for this being furnished by the 29th Infantry orchetra. Sandwiches, cakes, ice creams, and punch were served to everyone present, much to their pleasure. The decorations were unusually pretty, having been prepared under the able supervision of Captain G. P. Braun. Large American flags were draped in the vicinity of the receiving line, adding a distinctive military touch to the function. A unique feature appreciated by the guests who live in Columbus was the furnishing of the transportation for them to attend this splendid affair. This is considered one of the biggest social functions of the season at this post.

On last Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock Miss Ollie Tully of Columbus was married to Lieut. George C. Garvin, 15th Tank Battalion. The ceremony was celebrated with High Nuptial Mass in the Church of the Holy Family in Columbus. Chaplain Thomas J. Lennan assisted in the ceremony which was most impressive. Mrs. Garvin is welcomed as an attractive addition to Army society. Lieut. and Mrs. Garvin have a five weeks leave after which they will return to Fort Benning.

On Tuesday evening, October 3rd, Capt. and Mrs. T. M. Shepherd and Capt. and Mrs. S. S. McLaughlin will entertain the officers and ladies of the 20th Infantry who are now students at the Infantry School. The party will be given at 1543 Second avenue.

1st Sergeant Daniel Blue, Co. L 24th Infantry was retired from active duty under Special Orders No. 203 War Department, par 20, dated Aug. 29, 1922. In Battalion orders No. 17 Sergeant Blue was commended for his long and efficient service, over 20 years of which was with the 10th Cavalry. Sergeant Blue was honored with a review of the troops on the afternoon of September 6th, at which time his retirement orders were published.

Sergeant Blue has been engaged by the post exchange to conduct the restaurant in connection with the recreation hall of the battalion area.

Sgt. Blue was the honor guest at a smoker given by Co. L in mess hall, on which occasion he was presented with a gold watch on behalf of the entire company. The company officers were present and the assemblage was addressed by Colonel Nicklin upon the significance of the occasion.

Artillery Notes.

Twenty-five men are daily turning out for football under the tutelage of 1st Lieut. F. G. McGill. The coach expects to put in the field a well weighted line, particularly between tackles, and behind them a fast, if somewhat light backfield.

There will be few new faces in the line-up of the Artillery when it faces the Freebooters in the first game of the season Sunday. Of those who played last season, Marsh, Tertany, Donnelly, Samlavich, Hunt Peiffer, Erdos, Bruno, Walker, McAuliffe, and others are out and the only one of last year's regulars whose face is missing from the lineup is Sims, a consistent and aggressive player at tackle.

In addition to these a good seven or eight new men are showing enough stuff to make every regular uneasy concerning his berth on the team, and without doubt the first game Sunday will cause a good upsets in the lineup for the season.

Sanitary Notes

The attention of all officers, enlisted men and their families is invited to the fact that an ample supply of pneumonia and influenza vaccine is now available. Statistics indicate that the taking of this vaccine by the young adult is very beneficial, rendering them less susceptible to respiratory infection.

Any one desiring to receive this vaccine should report at the office of the Chief of Medical Service, Station Hospital (Ward 4-A between the hours of 9 and 11 a. m., and 1 and 4 p. m., week days.

In connection with the above, it is well to take this vaccine BEFORE the season for influenza, and kindred diseases. This will insure time for the vaccine to build up the defence. You can't be vaccinated today and find yourself protected tomorrow. It takes a little time, probably a couple of weeks. So be ready for the wet cold weather.

Notice that the words "respiratory infections" are used in the first paragraph. If you have been a sufferer from frequent colds, tonsilitis, or bronchitis, it is entirely possible for you to derive benefit from this vaccine.

FOOTBALL

By the time this issue of The News appears the Infantry-Piedmont game will be at hand. The outcome is doubtful because the Infantry School team is a new team and has not yet played together as a unit. Judging from the trimming Mercer handed out to Piedmont last Saturday, however, the Sporting Editor has a hunch that Infantry will win by two touchdowns.

The probability is that all aspirants for the varsity team will get a chance to get into the game today. This does not mean that the players are not in condition; it does mean that Coach Milburn will probably want to get a line on his different players in action.

With Gee and Adams on the line, besides a promising lot of other material, and Mellon and Smith in the back field to strengthen the backs, the Piedmont backs and tackles are going to have their work cut out for them. Piedmont is going to fight from the kick-off to the final whistle, though—don't forget that. Piedmont has one of the gamest aggregation of little players in this section of the country as was proven last year.

Sebukaty, the boxer, is out for a berth in the back field. The idea persists in creeping in that if he should not make this place he would make a corking good tackle.

The Tank outfit is saying nothing for publication. That they are working hard on their team is evidenced by the fact that they have gotten to the head harness and shoulder pad stage. Their coach hints that the team will be much stronger than last year. If it is some of the other teams on the Post are going to have to play football.

It begins to look like the Infantry School Detachment might put a team in the field. This outfit's specialty has been baseball in the past. If they do as well in football even the present post champions, 1st Battalion 29th Infantry, will have to go some.

The 83rd Artillery is going after the football banner with more spirit than they showed last year. A series of circumstances prevented them from making a more creditable showing at that time but if enthusiasm counts for anything things will not be so easy for their opponents this time.

The 29th Infantry is in the throes of re-organization and this may prove a temporary handicap in the matter of practice. The 29th usually finds a way to put anything across that it starts, though, and there is no doubt but when the final whistle blows at the end of this season this organization will be "there" — or somewhere near "there."

The following revised schedule for the Fort Benning Football League has been published:

Oct. 4th—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. Freebooters, 29th Inf.

Oct. 11th—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 83rd Artillery.

Oct. 18th—15th Tank Battal. vs. Freebooters, 29th Inf.

Oct. 25th—1st Bn., 29th Inf., vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Nov. 1st—83rd Artillery vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Nov. 8th—Freebooters vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Nov. 15th—83rd Artillery vs. 1st. Bn., 29th Inf.

Nov. 22nd—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Nov. 29th—Freebooters vs. 83rd Artillery.

Nov. 30th—15th Tanks vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

LARGE CROWDS WITNESS POLO GAMES.

Last Sunday produced the biggest crowd that has turned out this season to witness the games played on the Fort Benning polo field.

The Artillery led off with the Benning Yellows as opponents. Handicaps of both teams aggregated nine each, thereby starting both teams at "scratch." In the melee that followed both teams ran up two goals. The following is the line-up:

| Artillery | hdp | pos. | Yellows | hdp |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dasher .... | 1 | 1 | Eggers .... | 3 |
| McGill ..... | 1 | 2 | Malone .... | 3 |
| | | | McClure .... | 5 |
| Roxbury .... | 4 | 3 | Burnett .. | 1 |
| McCarty .... | 4 | | | |
| Beiderlinden | 4 | | | |
| Gannon .... | 4 | | | |
| Yeager .... | 4 | Back | Waite | |

The second game was hard fought between the Benning Blues and the 29th Infantry. The final score was, Blues 3; 29th Infantry 5. The Blues seemed to be unable to overcome their handicap of three goals.

| Blues | hdp | pos. | 29th Inf. | hdp |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| J. Elkins .. | 2 | 1 | Douglas .... | 3 |
| French .... | 6 | 2 | Paquet ..... | 2 |
| Legge ..... | 3 | 3 | Elkins ..... | 1 |
| Weems ..... | 4 | Back | Broedlaw | 2 |
| | | | Moore..... | 1 |

Next Sunday the games will be: Artillery vs. 29th Infantry and Blues vs. Yellows.

15th Tank Bat. News

Lt. Harry W. Barrick, formerly of the School Division, is now attached to the Battalion.

On Tuesday last the newly organized Battalion Field Music participated in its first formal guard mount.

Last week the Columbus morning newspaper carried an account of the transfer of the last year's quarterback of the football team of the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, to this Battalion. It is strange how rumors can be translated into facts by the unthinking. The facts are that no transfer or even an application has been made to this Battalion of the above mentioned player.

INTEREST GROWING IN COMING TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The past week developed a growing interest in the coming tennis tournament. The ladies especially are interested in view of the fact that this year is the first time mixed doubles and women's singles have been attempted. Every afternoon finds several players out who have been out of the game for some time.

The courts are slowly getting into better shape. At least six courts are now in first class condition. Six more are being re-surfaced and by the time of the tournament will be in as good shape as any dirt court.

Trophies, which have been generously donated by a number of Columbus people, will go on display on October 2nd at the Officer's Club. Some of these are very handsome and will be well worth playing for.

BOXING.

BOXING BOUTS TO BE CONTINUED

The Post Athletic Officer announces that on October 16th there will be more boxing bouts at Fort Benning The card for that evening is being planned and is an unusually good one. The main go will be between either Tenner and DeRose or between Sammy Butts and Twyman. There will be two eight-round bouts, probably between Sebukay and Dundee of the 6th Cavalry, and between Earle of Columbus and Grantham of Fort Benning. Negotiations are under way for a six-round go between Troop of the 24th Infantry and Raymond Deson of Anniston, Alabama. Both of the latter men are heavyweights. The opening bout will be between Mizwa of the 83rd Artillery and Pasiano of the Tanks.

In the event that the Tenner-DeRose bout can not be arranged the fight between Twyman and Butts will be of especial interest in view of the fact that Butts—who hails from New York, by the way—is a one-armed fighter who makes up with his left hand what he lacks in his right. The idea should not get started that Twyman will have a walk-away, however, because Butts has knocked out over forty men in his fifty odd fights and he has been prominently mentioned as the future bantam weight champion of the United States.

FORT BENNING BOXING TOUNAMENT.

A boxing tournament has been announced beginning October 20th. This tournament is for the purpose of selecting entrants for the Fourth Corps Area Boxing Tournament to be held in Atlanta the latter part of November. Suitable prizes in the form of silver belt buckles will be awarded in the Fort Benning tournament and the men winning these will represent Fort Benning in the corps tournament. Winning the Fourth Corps Area championship means more to a boxer than just getting a prize. It means that he is the military champion of an area covering several states and this reputation will enable the fighter to get fights with civilians for good purses. Over fifty men have registered for the local tournament and the indications are that it will be a decided success.

James J. Reilly, better known as "Battling Reilly," was born Dec. 7, 1900, at Boston, Mass. Since 1915 he has spent most of his time as a devotee of fighters in the Boston Athletic Association, where he started his career as a rubber, and later as a sparring partner for about a year, in the same association. He started fighting in 1917.

Added to his list of fights which appears below "Battling Reilly' also fought four winning fights while he was stationed at Brest, France. The opponents were French and he cannot recall their names.

Reilly is also featherweight title holder of the Fourth Corps Area, earning his title this year in the Corps Area. His present weight is 125.

Smoking is not a new accomplishment with the ladies,—far from it. Nor are the popular brand of today so very new. Mention is made in the Bible, under Genisis xiv-64, as follows:

"And Rebekah lifted her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, she lifted off the Camel."

BEAUTIFUL—PERHAPS (?)

It was a beautiful moonlight night. The gentle breezes were wafting fragrant perfume across the meadow from the nearby orchard. The exquisite beauty of the fields, the orchards, and last but not least, the beauty of the one who stood by my side, she was by far more beautiful than any I had seen during the day, now under the moonlight she was beautiful beyond description, her deep soulful eyes, and her symetrical figure coupled with her loving disposition and her patient silence as she looked up into my eyes were enough to move the heart of the Statue of Liberty*. Suddenly like a bolt from the sky I remembered that unless I hurried with the milking I would not be able to attend the barn dance at the old school-house. You see I was only a farmer lad sent out to milk our Holstein cow.

*—Statue of Liberty, a lady of stone and questionable nationality who stands "at ease" on Bedloe's Island, holding in one hand a can of flaming wood alcohol and in the other a copy of "The Doughboy."

NEWS FROM THE 7TH ENGINEERS

Organization and Development Prior to Embarkation for Overseas.

Congress, under the provisions of ,,An Act to authorize the President of the United States to increase temporarily the military establishment of the United States," approved May 18th, 1917, ordered the immediate increase of the Regular Army to the strength which, by the previous "National Defense Act," approved June 3rd, 1916, was to have been obtained by five annual increments. This included the expansion of the engineer Corps of engineers into seven regiments, two mounted battalions and a band.

General Orders No. 62, War Department, dated May 14th, 1917, issued accordingly, provided, "..... Companies E tand F, First Engineers to be organized into the Seventh Regiment of Engineers at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas." Company E, 1st Engineers, was expanded into the 1st Battalion and Regimental Headquarters of the new regiment at Washington Barracks on May 15th 1917, and on May 23rd these units entrained for Fort Leavenworth, and arrived there the 26th. Comapny F, 1st Engineers, left Leon Springs, Texas, May 30th, 1917 and reached Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, June 1st, where it was at once expanded into the Second Battalion.

Medical Dept. Notes

On the night of Sept. 20th the non-commissioned officers of the hospital met and formed a club, to be known as the "Non-Commissioned Officers Club." The idea being to form and maintain a club for social recreation among the N. C. O's. of the hospital. It was voted to hold meetings every Monday night. The following officers were elected for the coming year

Chairman, Staff Sergt P. H. Risley.
Vice-Chairman, Staff Sergt. H. B. Lester.
Secretary-Treasurer, Sergt. Arthur N. Mager.
Asst. Secty.-Treas., Sergt M. M. Bedenbough.
Entertainment Committee: Sgt. C. M. Mount, Sgt. W. C. Cullifer and Cpl. T. J. Martin.
Refreshment Committee: Staff Sgt. Oscar Brown, Sgt. H. W. Oatman, Sgt. J. I. Cook.
Committee on Bylaws: Staff Sgt. H. B. Lester, Staff Sgt. E. C. Carswell, Sgt. H. C. Shirtzinger.

The "smokes" for the evening were furnished by Capt. A. A. Roby, M. A. C., through Staff Sergt. Risley. Sergt. Risley gave a very interesting talk on the Panama Canal Zone. The talk was very interesting and showed a full knowledge of the "Zone." The meeting adjourned at nine forty-five after a most enjoyable evening.

24th Infantry News

1st Sergeant James C. Pinkston makes the following announcement: Any one interested in a first class touring car can watch his demonstration with the remodeled Dodge, Saturday evening, October 7, 1922. The following parts have been added: 4 wheels, 1 battery, 1 engine, 2 seats, 1 fan complete with belt, and completely wired from A to Z with baling wire.

Corporal Motto Puryear (Smiling Baby) has announced his love for his country and flag by holding up his right flopper and saying "I do." Nope he is not married, he has taken on 1095 days plus one day more which Mr. 1924 contains.

Very glad to state at this writing that Private Owen Hill is a great deal better. He fell off a horse at equitation and the horse came back and two-stepped all over Private Hill. He stepped in Private Hill's stomach and on his head. The horse never lost but one shoe. "Nuff sed."

Our friend 1st Sergeant Blue has retired. The best wishes of the officers and men of this company go with him.

You should see the nice swimming pool of the 3rd Bn. 24th Infantry. It is located west of the battalion area, under nice cool shady trees. The dam, a beautiful sight, was designed by Captain James Sproule. The pool was first started A. D. 1920, and every soldier goes into this pool rather than go off the reservation and slip in creeks and rivers. There seems to be only one small complaint. "THERE IS NO WATER THERE."

The baseball team of the 3rd Battalion, 24th Infantry, completed a very successful season with a record of 32 games won against 6 lost, this record being made against such colored teams as Columbus, Opelika, Birmingham, Atlanta, Grey Sox, Montgomery, Auburn, Morehouse College and other equally strong teams.

The success of the team was due to its ability to hit the ball where hits meant runs, coupled with the fact that the entire team fought till the last man was out.

Camp Activities Committee Find Homes For Officers

The following letter indicates the Columbus spirit and is printed for the benefit of the Fort Benningites:

Columbus, Ga., Sept. 21, 1922.
General W. H. Gordon, Commandant, Fort Benning, Ga.
My dear General:

Responding to your letter of the 19th.

It is indeed pleasing to know that any slight efforts which have been made by our committees and the citizens of Columbus in aiding your incoming officers to comfortably locate themselves in our city have been successful.

Please consider that we are always at your service and that it is a pleasure to co-operate with the authorities at Fort Benning at all times.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Cordially yours
A. F. KUNZE, Chairman,
Camp Activities Committee.

GREAT AMUSEMENT PROGRAM FOR BIG FAIR NEXT WEEK

Three bands, a beautiful posing act by living models, a sensational act by the Ferris Wheel Girls, the Earle Sisters on Flying Ladders, Joe Kiljoy, famous comedian, Bobbie Brollier, Scotch tenor, Kathryn Murdock, soprano, and other special acts will make up the feature program.

The leading musical organization will be Roy Smith's famous Scotch Highlanders band with the musicians in costumes typical of the Highlanders.

The L. J. Heth show will furnish the Exposition Way amusements with 20 shows and riding devices.

Fort Benning Theatres Have Good Programs Coming

BRIEF SYNOPSIS OF A FEW ATTRACTIONS NEXT WEEK.

On Wednesday evening "Lonely Heart," featuring Kay Laurell, "The girl with the form divine," will be shown. For five years Miss Laurell was a model and a member of the Follies. Now she has gone into pictures and in "Lonely Heart" she demonstrates that she is an artist as well as a beauty.

The story is a tale of an attempt to rob the Cherokee Indians of valuable oil lands. Lonely Heart is a member of the tribe and falls in love with Bart Goodale, son of the man who is engineering the steal. The love affair meets with setbacks but finally turns out well. The play has a liberal supply of action and is worth going to see.

On monday evening Bert Lytell appears in "The Face Between." In this story Lytell is seen at his best. As a New York society man he becomes an exile in the blue ridge mountains to save the reputation of his father. He sacrifices everything, even giving up the girl he had soon expected to marry. During his banishment a mountain girl falls in love with him and, desparing of ever again returning to civilization, he decides to marry her, but is shot by a jealous lover.

It would be unfair to those who are to see this picture to reveal the various complications which then result, and their final solution, but it can be said that this unsual and highly exciting story provides all the ingredients of a perfect picture. In the picture Lytell plays the dual role of both father and son.

On Thursday Pricilla Dean appears in "Wild Honey." Miss Dean is too well known to require any introduction. Needless to say that she is as good in "Wild Honey" as in "Conflict." "The Virgin of Stambouhl," and her numerous other pictures.

The play is based on Cynthia Stockley's famous story of South Africa in which Miss Dean plays the part of Lady Vivienne, the heroine. The story is full of thrills but the biggest one is the great flood scene. These scenes show a pent up river unleashed to sweep down a narrow canyon and through a valley filled with settlers. The turbulence of the water and its destructive power are shown with a realism never before attained on the screen. Miss Dean is shown in the midst of it battling her way to safety and happiness with her usual courage and dash. Those who saw her in "Conflict" realize that she has to furnish numerous thrills if she exceeds those offered in that play when she appears in "Wild Honey" but she is considerable of a "thriller" and those who see "Wild Honey" will not be disappointed if they are looking for thrills

"The Woman Who Came Back," adapted from the novel "Sonia," which went into twenty-one editions, will be shown friday night. The title role is played by Evelyn Brent.

This is a vivid and romantic story of society life before and during the war. It is not a war story, in the strict sense of the word, but it shows how suffering and self-sacrifice can work miracles in regeneration. The hero, David Standish, is a masterful youth and, after roaming the world, decides he wants to graduate from Oxford. Through hard work he realizes his ambition. He falls in love with Sonia, a heartless flirt, who at first accepts him and then turns him down. He tells her that some day she will come back to him and then he leaves her.

Five years later he returns. Sonia is still wilfull and frivolous. She is in Bavaria when the war breaks out, having been induced to take a motor trip with a rounder who purposely becomes lost from the motor party so that they will have to spend the night in a small village. She then realizes into what low companionship her frivolity has led her. She is held as an enemy alien. David rescues her with a daring bluff and then enlists in the army. He returns from the war blinded. By this time the butterfly Sonia has been sobered and at last she convinces David of her regeneration.

Mutt and Jeff appear on Monday night in "The Naturalist." Both of these artists are too well known to be commented on. The other comedies, such as "Oh, Buddy," "Stage Struck" (Hal Roach) and "Excuse Me Sheriff" are good. Fox News shows on Monday night and Pathe Review on Friday, the 13th.

The complete program appears elsewhere.

Infantry School Opens For Fourth Term

GENERAL SHANKS AND MAYOR DIMON DELIVER OPENING ADDRESSES.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock the fourth term of the Infantry School opened with an attendance of 394 student officers ranking from captains to Colonels. Three hundred and three are in the company commanders course and ninety-one in the field officers class. These officers have come from all over the United States and its possesions and enter upon the school year with much enthusiasm.

The exercises were held in the beautiful grove just east of the Commanding General's residence and here were gathered more than six hundred officers and their friends. General Malone read a letter from the Chief of Infantry in which he spoke in glowing terms of the Infantry School, and introduced the speakers of the morning, General Shanks and Mayor Dimon.

General Shanks spoke of the importance of the Infantry School and its effect on the records of the officers. He spoke of the beginning of the Leavenworth School and compared and contrasted them with the Infantry School. He also spoke upon the question of morale, its causes and results. His remaks were very well received and greeted with much applause.

General Shanks was followed by Mayor J. Homer Dimon of Columbus, who spoke most pleasingly upon the relations existing between Fort Benning and Columbus. He extended a very warm welcome to the new officers and made them citizens of Columbus, and spoke most feelingly of interest taken by Generals Gordon and Malone in Columbus and its affairs. The 29th Infantry band furnished music for the exercises and deserve favorable mention for their music.

All in all the opening exercises were most successful and the fourth term of the Infantry School has started on its way most auspiciously. It is confidently expected that this year will be the best year ever for the School with excellent athletics, much social life and an intense interest in the military phase of the work.

Gen. Paul B. Malone Is Now In Command

GENERAL W. H. GORDON CALLED TO WASHINGTON BY SICKNESS OF WIFE.

Brig. General Paul B. Malone is now Commanding General of Fort Benning in the absence of Brig. General Gordon who has been called to Washington by the serious illness of Mrs. Gordon. General Gordon has been granted a month's leave of absence. The good wishes of the entire command are with General and Mrs. Gordon. It is hoped that Mrs. Gordon will recover quickly and return to Fort Benning after a speedy convalescence.

General Malone presided at the opening of the Infantry School and expressed General Gordon's regrets at being unable to be present on so important an occasion.

Hand Salutes No Longer Required Under Certain Condition

A RELIEF FOR THE RECRUIT BUT HARD TO GET ACCUSTOMED TO BY THE OLD-TIMER

Hand salutes between officers and enlisted men are no longer required except on military reservations or when either officer or enlisted man is addressed. They will not even be required at posts and camps during games or mess or on social occasions.

The following changes in Army Regulations relative to salutes have been made:

Pars. 382 and 384, Army Regulations, are changed as follows:

382. (Changed by C. A. R. No. 50) Change Subpar. 1 to read as follows:

1. Salutes will be exchanged between officers and enlisted men upon meeting, passing near, or being addressed within a military post, camp, station, headquarters of armory on the following occasions: When not in a military formation; when not at drill, work, games or mess; when not in public conveyances; or when not at public meetings for purposes of social diversion or amusement.

384. (Changed by C. A. R. No. 50) Change Subpar.. 3 to read as follows:

3. When outside of a military post, camp, station, headquarters or armory, salutes are not required to be exchanged between officers and enlisted men, except when addressing each other or when the ommission would show a lack of courtesy.

No longer will the newly made second lieutenant be forced to stop the buck private and give him a "cussing out" for not saluting and no longer will the buck private, as a matter of principle turn his back and look into a show window when he sees an officer coming. Both of these embarassing situations have been done away with.

But how about the man who has grown gray in the Service and finds his right hand automatically raised when he sees a senior in rank approaching? He is going to have a heluvatime keeping from doing it. To render the salute, however, is not prohibited as the order says "salutes are not required," except when the omission would show a lack of courtesy.

WHY NOT :

—some one tell the P. E. Officer that the war is over and he need not continue to charge war prices in the Post Exchange.

—some inventive genius patent a respirator which can be successfully used against the dust attacks on the Columbus - Fort Benning highway, and that the Howard Taxi & Bus Co. be required to place a siren on each vehicle to be used to warn the occupants of a dust attack.

—continue the practise started during the Civil War, namely: issuing UNION suits to soldiers. Have the immortal words, "United we stand, DIVIDED we fall" been so soon forgotten? The Q. M. would do well to remember, "Eendracht maakt macht," (In union there is strength).

—appoint a board to examine candidates for the degree of B. T. (bull thrower)?

—appoint a committee to take contributions for the buying up of all hammers so the owners thereof will not be able to knock the Post.

—take into consideration what Field Service Regulations say, to wit: "Men and animals both sleep better in the early morning hours," the above would be greatly appreciated by one who is very familiar with "restricted to the limits of the Post for one week due to your failure to be present with the organization at reveille this morning."

Finance Detachment Notes

Corporal Short (Our Pay Roll Shark) came to grief last week when he lost his much needed "Fever Glasses."

Watson says he may be a Stenog. but he doesnt chew gum—aren't there any funds available, Cecil?

Private Barker Wonders why so many men return after being AWOL —George doesn't like remarks on the pay rolls.

Corporal Walters (The Finance Singer) says they can call this place Fort Benning if the want to, but he shall continue to call it "Lake Benning" when it rains.

Our noble Cashier Private Ayers, says Cornelia is nothing like this office when the mileage vouchers are coming in by the hundreds.

The Mess Sergeant is wondering why he has had to add two extra rations since Private Friedenthal has returned from the hospital.

A telephone message from the hospital this morning reveals the fact that Private Banda is improving quite rapidly from his operation and expects to be on the job again soon—his return will be hailed with much pleasure by the Finance Detachment.

History of 7th Engineers

Article No. 2.

With the soldiers from companies E and F of the 1st Engineers as a nucleus, recruits were rapidly assorbed so that by the end of June, the 7th Engineers had an enlisted strength of 1201 men.

During the entire summer, intensive courses in infantry and engineer drill were followed. In conjunction with the 1st Engineer Officers' Training Camp, a complete system of trenches were constructed on Engineer Hill.

The entire morning, each day, was devoted to Engineer work, consisting of the construction of dugouts, barbed wire entanglements and trenches of various types. Bridges of different designs were constructed across Corral Creek, torn down and reconstructed. Speed tests were made, simulating battle conditions, where the work had to be done under fire, and time was of primary importance. On Merrit Lake, from early in the summer until it was frozen over in the winter, intensive pontoon drills were given, and that these lessons were thoroughly learned was later demonstated. Special courses in sketching, instrument work, map reproduction, drafting, demolition, blacksmithing and rigging were given by qualified N. C. O's.,both to the men in the Regiment and the candidates in the E. O. T. C.

Many hours were spent in semaphore drill, knots and lashings, and the making of facines, hurdles and other types of revetments, so that by fall all except the latest recruits were conversant with the duties of engineer soldiers.

The entire afternoons were spent in close and extended order infantry drill; on two days each week the battalions were paraded and one Regimental Parade was held each Friday afternoon. Friday mornings were always devoted to long hikes, always planned as a military problem. More than one man did his first cooking while on these Friday marches, since individual cooking was usually the order of the day. The Engineers always furnished the entire guard on the post, and since it was a large one, practically every man did guard once every two weeks. As a result, by Thanksgiving Day, the regiment had received a very thorough course and were qualified for overseas duty.

However, the entire time was not spent in work. On July 4th a regimental track meet was held and first honors went to Company D.

During the Fall, inter-company football games were held on Saturdays and Sundays, and an exceptionally good brand of football was played. Here Company F came to the front and demonstrated their ability by winning the Regimental Championship. At the close of the Regimental football season, a challenge was sent to the Signal Battalion to play for the Championsip of the Post. The stars on the various company teams were coached for one day, and on the following day decisively beat the Signal Corps before a crowd of five thousand people.

There had been a great deal of rivalry between the Signal Corps and the Engineers, so a challenge was received from the Telegraphers, for a track meet. This was most hotly contested throughout the entire day, but at nightfall the winning of the last event brought the Engineers into the lead again.

Then followed boxing tournaments between the Engineers and the Signal Corps. During the preliminary bouts held in the regiment, Company C demonstrated its pugilistic superiority; four men from this company being eventually chosen to represent the regiment, with one man each from Company A and Company E. The boxing tournament ended a draw and shortly thereafter the Engineers and the Signal Battalion were ordered away.

On September 10th, the Seventh Engineers Train was organized by the transfer of Lieut. Murphy and forty-three enlisted men from the regiment.

Shortly after this transfer, came orders transferring eighty-nine selected non-commissioned officers and privates to the National Army. Then followed another order transferring thirty-one more men to form the 404th Depot Detachment. Consequently, by the end of October the strength of the Regiment was down to 1400 men. The Regiment was authorized on November 22nd to organize and equip in accordance with the latest tables of organization, so that by the end of the month the Regiment had a strength of forty-six officers and 1655 enlisted men.

Following this, came almost three months of waiting. We were ready, but our division, the 5th, to which we were assigned in December, were still below strength, and not ready.

At last, on February 23rd came orders for foreign service, and on February 24th the first section, consisting of animals and freight of the regiment, commanded by First Lieut. C. J. Moore, left Fort Leavenworth. At 5:40 P. M. the following day, the first passenger section departed, bound via the C. B. & Q., to Chicago, Illinois, G. T. through Canada to Niagara Falls, N. Y. C. & H. R. to Utica, and N. Y. C. & W. to Camp Merritt. The two remaining sections departed the following day.

An abundance of food had been provided and every man had a comfortable bed; the pleasures of Hommes 40, Chevaus 8, were still unknown.

The following is a list Regimental Commanders, Battalion Commanders, Regimental Staff Officers, Company Commanders, and senior non-commissioned officers who served with the 7th Engineers from the date of its organization to time of departure for overseas:

"Of course, there is no thought of profiteering in Columbus, but, nevertheless, one can't quite reconcile the fact that as such is now asked for one or two rooms and bath in Columbus today as the whole house would have rented for before the war—and Camp (Fort) Benning."—Extract from Columbus paper.

We have never had experience in renting rooms or a house in Columbus and therefore can vouch for the above only on hearsay evidence. From statements made to us, however, we are inclined to believe that there are instances where property owners have taken advantage of conditions to demand rents which appear exhorbitant. Instances are known where property owners had two rental prices, one contract being for an entire year at a reduced price, and another contract for eight months at a greatly increased price. It is natural that a property owner should want to protect himself for the period of four months when the house might be vacant, but the fellow who is so situated that he can sign a contract for but eight months should not have to make up the difference. This may or may not be discrimination.

In connection with profiteering—and, mind you, we are not accusing any individual or group of individuals of such—a letter recently received from a highly educated professional man living in another state is brought to mind. This letter stated, substantially, "It seems to me that a merchant could reduce his profit to a reasonable percentage and by handling the same quality of merchandise as his competitors, at a slightly reduced price, make up in his volume of business what he might lose in the reduction of prices." The thought contained in this letter is practical. Army people, as a rule, do not have a great deal of money to spend at this time. The sweeping reduction in pay combined with the steadily increasing cost of the necessities of life make it necessary that Army people practice economy. As a result everybody—except, maybe, "shavetails"—is going to buy at the place where the least money will buy the largest amount of merchandise of a reasonable good quality.

Speaking of the Chattahoochee Valley Fair, the exhibits are worth going to see. The military is going to play an important part in this occasion; consequently the military population should support it. If the Infantry School belongs to Columbus and Columbus is the home of the Infantry School then the Fair, which is being sponsored by Columbus people, is our Fair. Let's help make it a success.

24th Infantry News Notes

The first two games with Birmingham gave an excellent exhibition of the fighting qualities of the team. In the first game at the last of the ninth the score was 5 to 2 in favor of Birmingham, but when the ninth ended the score had been tied by the 24th, and the game was won by us in the eleventh by a home run with two on bases. The second game was practically a replica of the first.

Opelika was defeated in two games 9 to 1 and 8 to 0. Just after leaving the Fort Opelika won the Colored championship of Southern Alabama. This gives an idea of the teams the 24th played, and they took all comers, not picking the easy ones. The 24th was desirous of playing other strong teams but were prohibited by certain rulings.

Sergeant "Buddie" Wheeler, made a heart to heart talk to the company the other day, and since that time the mess Sgt. has been feeding, the supply sergeant has been supplying, the sergeants have been ordering, the corporals have been squabbling, the privates have been dodging, the cooks have been cooking, the clerks have been clerking, Shorty Washington has been grumbling and Bud Shaw has been making Reveille on time, in fact the whole company has been doing duty.

The Battalion Bubler is out constantly making smiles and graceful bows to the lady visitors; be careful Brooks, in making your graceful bows that you don't come in contact with something rather hard against your head. There is some kind of guard on every post.

Cook Williams (Stew King) says that there are certain people in the City of Columbus, conspiring to do him bodily harm and that he is afraid that he will have to resort to physical force as a measure of self protection and personal safety. He has the right idea all right, as the force he resorted to the other night was so violent that it took him over a hundred yards in less than four seconds.

Corporal Minick is very sick at this writing; O not-a-bed sick, just love sick.

Private George Lay is still mad with the Mess Sergeant, because he saw George before he could steal the fifth bowl of rice duff.

School Days, School Days, Dear old school days, reading and writing and arithmetic, taught to the tune of one month and two-thirds. The instructor asked Private Sam Sain if the Supply Sergeant issued you three shirts today and one tomorrow, how many shirts would you have at inspection Wednesday. Sir, I would have two in the laundry getting dyed, one going to the laundry and one coming from the laundry.

The C. O. issued an order that all can containing gasoline be painted red. Sergeant Tolbert has started on his "Baby Lincoln."

Football Season Opens.

The opening game of the season on the liberal schedule arranged for the battalion team will be played at Tuskegee Institute on Saturday afternoon. A first line team of formidable character has been developed in the lively scrimmage practice and under the continuous and vigorous coaching of Chaplain Reynolds and Captain Roger M. Wilson.

This being the first game of the season there is very little dope as to which team will pile up the biggest score. The marked improvement in the form of this year's team over the performance of last year's team gives some assurance that the school boys will not have a walk away with this first game.

The backfield will contain the same line-up that performed last year, with Jones fullback, Freelon and Hill running the halves, Williams receiving at quarter. Sanders will probably head the list of available centers, banked by Adams and Kilgore who played the guard positions last year. Green and Lay will also come in for some heavy duty on the line of their former positions. The Dawson brothers are among the new comers who will help stablize the main defense. Trammel and Bonner will have a try at end.

It is expected that a delegation of supporters and rooters will accompany the team on the trip.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Since the football season started Corporal Adams, has composed a new song, entitled, "When my shoes wear out from kicking I'll be on my feet again." Never mind Adams, we'll go to the fruit store and buy you a pear.

Before going on special duty at the I. S. D. Mess Hall, Pvt. Everhart was somewhat of a cartoonist. He would sit for hours at a time with pencil and paper trying to figure out a way to get away with McCabe's car.

Oh, yes, Pvt. McCabe has a car. It's a family car, it has a tank for father, a hood for mother and a rattle for baby.

Our ranking duty sergeant, Botta, is getting discharged on the sixteenth of the month, but he don't know whether to go back to Philadelphia or stay with us. Better stay with us George, times are tough on the outside.

Seems queer how the ladies find out so quick that a man has a car. 1st Lieut. P. F. Craig has a new Buick, and all the ladies in the post seem to know it already. That's all right Lieutenant, that's the reason we're all getting cars.

Pvts. Cox, McDonald, Biggler and Smith, have a company all their own. After inspection of rifles, they hold an inspection by themselves, full pack.

Pvt. 1st class, Leuze, always writes letters to his wife on the typewriter, but we think that by the time he gets one finished he will have grandchildren to read it instead of his wife.

A certain man in the company doesn't want his name in the paper. We're not sure, but we don't think that the sheriff has left Mexico, Missouri, yet. Keep it up boy, some day he may resign.

First Sergeant G. C. Brown, went to the football game last Saturday. He got home rather late, and we know that the game didn't last till ten o'clock, but we're just saying that he got home rather late.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

One day last week Bill Stewart was seen wearing a Staff Sergeant's chevron on one arm and a Master Sergeant's chevron on the other. A certain Master Sergeant saw him and was considerably worried to know if he had been promoted. Oh no. Bill is only a Staff Sergeant and thinks himself very lucky to be that.

That was not a machine gun barrage on a certain morning. Just Howell starting his buzz-wagon. It is rumored that he has made a trade. Let us all hope so, as we will all be relieved when he does.

Big Bill Stewart, our Mess Sergeant, says he will keep up the same style mess that we have been accustomed to under Kindervater. Keep her up Bill and you'll be our friend for life.

What's the price of eggs?

The entire Detachment desires to extend their sympathies to Master Sergeant Herman and Corporal Higginbotham, the former in the loss of his wife and the later in the loss of his baby girl.

Shaffer's soup strainer is still causing a lot of jealousy among the recruits as he states that all the girls are wild over that kind.

The Detachment is suffering the loss of a good man in Sergeant Alfred Schwartz. He is Supply Sergeant of the Recruit Center but has decided to try civil life, for a while at least. We all wish Sgt. Schwartz the best of luck and should he decide to come back in the future we will be glad to have him as a member of this organization. Luck to Al.

Our blushing young Corporal Wrixon, who has been on Detached Service at Camp McClellan, is back in our midst and can be seen most any nights at the transfer station in Columbus. We wonder if he is waiting for a car, or if there is some attraction there that the writer is unaware of?

The following poem has been contributed by Mattison W. Campbell. We didn't know that we had a poet in this Detachment until this bobbed up. Keep her up Campbell, as your first attempt is pretty good:

At the Marne.

When shadows fall in twilight's hour,
A little girl I know
Creeps to her mother's knee and asks
"Where did my Daddy go?"
And mother, holding back a tear,
Picks up the little Miss,
To hold her while the shadows grow,
And softly tell her this:

"Our daddy," mother's voice is low,
So low one scarce can hear,
"Is very, very far away,
He lives with God, my dear.
You see, a long, long time ago,
Our daddy went away—
You had not come to help me bear
The sorrow of that day—

Our daddy went across the sea
With many other men;
And though he promised to return,
He has not come again.
He had not seen how sweet you are,
Nor felt your baby hands,
And though he never held you close
I know he understands.

Our daddy was so good and brave
That God looked down to see,
And He took our daddy to Heaven
To wait for you and me.
So now he lives up there with God,
Where naught can hurt or harm,
And some day, sweet, we'll meet him there,
Our daddy died at the Marne."

Sergeant Darkowski, (the Polish Field Marshall) states for the benefit of the rest of the Post that booze is more scarce along the Canadian border line than the Alabama one.

Sergeant Albert Cream wishes to announce his opposition to Andrew Gump. His platform is now under construction.

Someone asked the writer if Lyke was a real Sergeant or if we just let him wear the chevrons to keep up his morals. We respectfully refer you to Lyke for any information desired.

McNulty states that if something is not done about the bonus he has one himself that he intends to send to Congress. Mac is always there when money is being thought of and we know that his plan will adapt some way to collect the revenue.

Now that cold weather is about to arrive we all wonder what Gravely will do with his "Ice Cream" trousers?

"Spud Murphy" claims that the District of Columbia is no longer a district but that the Commanding Officer of Fort Meyer, Va., is Governor and that the District is attached to Va. Says he can prove this by "Jazz Magoni" as that was the source of his information.

Stewart (Alex) and Merry can be seen most every day in a heated discussion. It seems they cannot agree on the way she was dressed. She probably has more than one dress, boys, and changes for each of you.

A certain young Romeo (referred to in the last issue) received a letter from his (best) girl the other day and the following code appeared therein. He is very much worried as he is, at present writing, unable to decipher more than one-third of this and will appreciate anyone sending in the solution. Just address your solution as follows: O. G. R-6335227, care I. S. D.

"I wish I was in the A. of the M. I L and the D was L and the K was L and the N was S Y L."

We have, Sergeant Duffy, a very energetic young man, having had a great deal of experience traveling, and many other things too. We notice that he seems to be a bit matrimonial inclined, altho he has been enjoying the quitude of love at a distance for so long that we have begun to wonder! But there is a time when young man's fancy turns slightly to thoughts of love—Come on Duffy. We're for you! The atmosphere seems too cool for an aspirant for marriage.

—The Gang!

Throw 'em down McCloskey was seen in Recreation Hall, 1st Ave., Saturday night, September 24th, 1922, rehearsing for the anniversary dance of the Detachment. Who was she Mac? Where does she live, Skeeter Flats?

The detail on duty with the old saw mill near the salvage dump seems persistent in falling over two of the Posts' most essential lines; viz.: (66) "A" Range line and (115) Ammunition Dump line. On Friday, September 15th seven spans were put out of commission. They were repaired. On Wednesday, 20th, the same seven spans were broken again. They were again repaired. Would like to suggest that there are five trees left standing in close proximity to those seven spans. Saw-mill detail fall them across these lines as we have nothing whatever to do except repair them and are desperately idle.

Yours etc., etc.,
Llewellyn Heard.

Michael Pander can be seen most any day in a deep study. He must be wondering if the 25 year bill will ever pass.

Private Whitney Archambault and and Bruce Wixon have been detailed to the Post Print Shop.

Private John O. Ellis is now on Special Duty with the Post Personnel Adjutant.

Sergeant Pascual Giron has been detailed with the Second Section, Department of Military Arts.

Pvt. Aloysiuts O'Rourke is now with the Post Quartermaster, having been relieved of duty in the office of G-3.

Private John E. Morris is working at the Print Shop now.

The Post Signal Officer has acquired the following men as new "hello girls": Jessie Willingham, John Booth, Clinton Funderburk, Dewey Hale and Joseph Rushlow.

Wonder who will win the bet. Mickey or Kindervater?

Paul Galmiche made the acquaintance of a few people in Columbus last week. It seems, however, that he was not very well impressed with them. Wonder what could have happened to Paul?

Bootleggers attention. Our old friend and acquaintance, Don R. Gaston is back in our midst. Don't all rush him at once. One at a time and his money (or credit) will last longer

MAGONI & SMITH. Future millionaires of Fort Benning and other places. Their first egg was discovered September 15, 1922. Historians take notice.

Someone has suggested asking the two king fishermen of the Detachment, Master Sergeant McCloskey and Sergeant Petrosky just what kind of liver is good bait?

Wonder who told Holder he was a carpenter.

Staff Sgt. John Magoni wishes to announce (benefit of the ladies) that he will be present at all dances in the future.

"Blanco" White was seen in the vicinity of 1st avenue and 17th street in company of Ralph Hunt. Something's in the air worth investigating.

Sergeant Aaron M. Winn, D. E. M. L. (R. S.) attached to this detachment says that recruiting is so poor in Columbus that he has decided to re-enlist himself just to keep up his record.

Duncanson wants to know how to shift gears on a Detroit Eight?

Red Hess is a new motor fiend around the Post. He is seen dashing madly around the place every day. Pedestrians are requested to keep as far away from roads as possible.

Shutout Johnie Hyland has been placed on Special Duty with the Post Quartermaster. Someone stated that he saw John H. pushing a locomotive. I wonder.

Shepard wants to know if two can live as cheaply as one? Ask Joe Meltzer.

The ladies of Columbus miss a certain Master Sergeant for a period of one week. Wonder what he told them the reason was.

Artillery News Notes.

The Field Artillery lost, through resignation, one of its most able and efficient young officers, First Lieut. John Hastings Winston, during the past week. Lieut. Winston entered the army as an enlisted man during the latter part of 1917, by his efficient work and strict attention to duty he has gradually attained the grade of First Lieutenant.

Lieut. Winston accompanied the 1st Bn. 83rd Field Artillery on its march of over 600 miles (Camp Knox, Ky., to Fort Benning, Ga.) during the latter part of 1920, he was during that period Supply Officer and Disbursing Officer and due to his efforts in these capacities he contributed in a very marked degree to the success and early arrival of the Field Artillery at this Post.

Lieut. Winston, in leaving the army, leaves the 1st Bn. 83rd F. A., with the best wishes of its officers and all of the enlisted personnel of the command.

ARMY AND NAVY TO BE CUT AGAIN

RUMORED THAT PLAN EFFECTS NATIONAL GUARD, RESERVES AND C. M. T. C

One of the Service papers states that:

While the heads of departments and bureaus are preparing to present the needs of the nation's defense to the Budget Bureau the military and naval sub-committees of the House Appropriations Committee have reached an agreement for a further reduction in the strength of the Army and the Navy. Under this program, at the next session the Regular Army would be reduced to 100,000, and the rest of the Army of the United States in proportion. The reduction in the Navy will be about the same that was reported out of the House Committee on Approprations at the last session.

The accuracy of the above cannot yet be vouched for but there is a strong possibility that such a condition exists. At the present time, however, it is not believed that public opinon is behind such a movement and should the sub-committees mentioned make an effort to enact the legislation outlined it is highly probable that the popular sentiment would be so strongly opposed to the measure that the contemplated action would act as a boomerang the result of which would be an eventual increase rather than a reduction of the branches of the Service concerned.

During the last drive against the Army the newspapers became active and were a great factor in informing the public of the true status of affairs military. Up to the time the drive reached its climax the newspaper ranks gained recruits from these papers which had either been disinterested or were not informed and when the drastic reduction in the armed forces were made a newspaper howl of indignation went up which was heard from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Efforts to make further reductions will meet with such opposition again and, with the newspaper support expected, a bill for this purpose will be ridiculed and mocked out of Congress.

COLUMBUS FAIR NEXT WEEK APPEALS TO ARMY PEOPLE

The big Chattahoochee Valley Fair, with thousands of exhibits from stock, truck and poultry and the general farm opens in Columbus Monday morning with a $10,000 premium list. Fort Benning will be represented and has a choice location for quite a protentious display. Thirty-five men from Fort Benning will be in charge of the exhibits arranged under the direction of Major R. C. Stickney.

We have on the reservation many members of the Chattahoochee Valley Poultry Association, sponsors of the big poultry show at the fair which should have about 1,500 birds entered. Fair officials returning from the Alabama State Fair, Birmingham, this morning stated that the poultry and livestock would exceed the big state fair in number of exhibits.

The Woman's Building has been doubled in capacity and here the ladies of Benning may see hundreds of articles made by the hands of woman for Milady.

Motor Repair Section Notes

Who are the canteen check Merchants? Pettis and Bushby.

Mr. Shop Foreman "Is this car ready to turn out? Smith says, "Well! No. Tighten up the connecting rod bearings."

Why every evening in the city. "Wedding bells in the near future." "Cabbage" Sam, and "All wool but the buttons."

Our permanent K. P. wants a rest. Who is the next absentee?

Who are the men that operate those "lap ful of wrinkles" trying to produce music? Ask the Quartermaster Detachment.

Every effort is being made to get better film service and better pictures for Fort Benning. The theatre management realizes that in the past the service has not been what it should be. This situation has been caused by the fact that bookings for the local theatres are made in Washington and the distribution made in Atlanta or some other nearby city. It is believed that it can be safely promised that better films will be sent to the local theatres at an early date.

Advertising makes The News possible. Remember the advertisers in this paper when making purchases.

THREE WEDDINGS IN FORDS ONE FEATURE FORD DAY

Three couples, one of the grooms being a Fort Benning Sergeant, will be married in front of the grandstand at the fair next Friday afternoon, Ford Day.

The couples will all receive a number of handsome presents and a thousands will witness the ceremony. The couples will also ride in the big Ford Day Parade.

The nightly attendance at all Fort Benning Theatres is slowly increasing. This is due to the awakening interest on the part of organization commanders who are realizing that this station is now participating in a percentage of the profits—a condition which heretofore did not exist. The aim of the theatre management is to increase the average attendance to 1400. When this has been accomplished a nice sum will be realized for recreational purposes at this station.

Findholdts, the Favorite Fiddler of "C" company, is holding out for more money.

Becton, of Headquarters Company, is visiting friends in Columbus.

Sergeant Long has returned from a four months vacation spent in Montgomery. He succeeded in enlisting several men for our friends of the 83rd F. A. and 29th Infantry.

As the paper goes to press Capt. Taylor is still trying to dope out his collection sheets. We wish you luck, Captain.

Sgt. Bachelder is again functioning as assistant coach and manager of the football team. This will be heralded with sadness by our opponents and with joy by followers of the team.

Garrison schools for officers have started again. Capt. Higgins has successfully attended motor school—so far his hands are not dirty. Why the unionalls?

Levine from Headquarters Co., while celebrating the Jewish Passover, must have passed up several meals, as he returned very hungry.

The football game scheduled between the Tank Corps and the Riverside Military Academy for Oct. 28th, has been cancelled. Colonel Beaver, their coach, is afraid our team is a little too strong for them.

Mess Sgt. Kelly wishes to state that he has two good bird dogs for sale. No more "hot dogs" for the Tank Battalion, the Mess Officer refused to buy them.

Capt. and Mrs. Adams left to spend a month's leave with Mrs. Adams' parents in Macon. All mothers-in-law must not be the same.

Lt. Peach returned from three months and fourteen days leave seven days early. Ambitious, or just embarrassed, Lieutenant?

Liberty and Richardson, the former having acquired 3 months mazuma, and being unable to withstand prosperity, while traveling to Wynnton in a Lexington Hack, had a cement culvert reach out and strike viciously at them, slightly damaging the vehicle. Neither of the boys or their beautiful? companions were injured.

Lt. Janes announces that he is now able to perform his duties of Adjutant at formal guard mount as laid down in the manual of Interior Guard Duty without any great difficulties.

"Bugs" Sapoli is still putting fifteen smacks with the paymaster even tho he swears off each month. Will he deposit next month? Ask Jimmie.

Sgt. Williams is wearing a long face these days. He is thinking of engaging the Pinkertons to find his long lost but never-to-be forgotten friend, Sgt Hartman. He expects to have aid in his search in the person of Lieut. Brotherson.

We understand that the Dog Trainer, (Edwards) is going on furlough. Here's hoping he takes his hounds with him and once more we will have a little peaceful sleep.

Wonderful Instruments On Exhibit At Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Two instruments which it is declared will revolutionize the art of coast defense are being exhibited in the ordnance department here, and later will be installed at Panama to control the fire of the big guns in the canal defense.

The instruments comprise a system of ranging and following a moving enemy ship. They are electrically operated and automatically add, subtract, multiply, divide and make all allowance for many factors controlling the flight of a big shell.

Visitors to the large coast defense stations often wonder how it is possible for the gunners to hit a ship with a five or six foot projectile shot from a gun seventy or eighty feet in length when the enemy is a far off as 30 miles. In the days of the civil war when small cannon shot iron balls weighing 15 or 20 pounds, the range usually was point blank. The enemy ship loomed as large as a target and the gun pointer sighted by gazing along the barrel.

The greater distance, weight and cargoes used in modern mechanical warfare called for more accurate fire. In future artillery duels army officers say salvous will be exchanged at the rate of two or three a minute and between volleys changes must be made in firing directions. As there is so little time for this by hand calculations, some accuracy of fire is lost to speed.

The new instrument will consistently make these corrections. They are called the target computer and the battery computer. They are directed by two high powered telescopes located at six observation stations in the vicinity of the harbor defense. On sighting an enemy ship the observations are transmitted electrically to the two calculating instruments where the exact location of the enemy ship is computed.

These new instruments, the fruit of several years' constant work and experiment register the advance location of the moving enemy, make all allowances for the temperature of powder, type of shell, atmosphere and velocity of the wind and the drift of the shell caused by the big guns.

Under the present system all these factors are added, subtracted and otherwise checked up and accounted for by human range finders.

A great advantage of the new system which is called the Fort Artillery Computer System is that provision made for using airplane observation in the control so that firing can be continued even though the enemy is obscured from the land observation posts by smoke screens and other causes.

A Ford touring car and a Fordson tractor will be two of the prizes given away on Ford Day, next Friday. One must register at the Burrus Motor and Tractor Company before that time, however, and be on the grounds Friday afternoon when the lucky visitors will be publicly determined.

Livestock, coops of chickens, flour by the barrel, plows, etc., will make up the free prizes to be given away on Farmers Day, next Thursday. All visitors Thursday will be given tick ets and from duplicates of these winners will be selected, with everyone having an equal chance.

Finance Department Notes

Private Miller, the office bookkeeper, is on the job again after a fifteen days furlough spent among the hills of Georgia.

Major Gralund is feeling quite a bit better this week after a slight attack of La Grippe last week.

Sergeant Bennet had a rude awakening last morning when Miller got ambitious and turned him out of bed at 5:00 o'clock in the morning.

WANTED — A pair of Fever Glasses. Corp. Short.

Corp. Purvis and Private Banda have signed up for a stenographic course with the A & R school of this post and the detachment feels sure that they will both make a success of it.

Sergeant Dobbie has spent several sleepless nights wondering why Corp. "Blanco" (White) does not procure the necessary funds for a pair of rubber heels.

A freakish sound was heard in the barracks last evening and upon further investigation it proved to be Sergeant Bennett practicing his violin lesson.

Sergeants Bennett and Hinderlider were callers at Joe Brown's Tea room last Sautrday night—bet they both got intoxicated.

Among certain changes which have taken place in the administration of the theatres during the past week is the discontinuance of issuing tickets to patrons who desire to leave the theatre temporarily. This action was made necessary because of certain patrons using the tickets thus issued to gain admission at another time to another theatre than the one at which issued. Hereafter tickets sold will be good only on the night of sale.

HE GOT THE MONEY.

The young man had had no experience whatever in collecting bills, but he was desperately in need of a job and was willing to tackle almost anything. The merchant to whom he had applied for work hadn't much faith in his ability, and more to get rid of him than anything else gave him an old account against a man who had the reputation of owing everybody and paying nothing till he had to. "If you will collect this," he said to the young man, "I will give you a regular job."

To the merchant's great astonishment, the young man returned inside of half an hour with the money.

"How in the world did you do it?" he gasped.

"I told him," said the young man, "that if he didn't pay me I would tell all his other creditors that he had done so."—Judge.

MUSICAL NOTE

A very deaf old lady, walking along the street, saw an Italian turning a peanut roaster. She stood looking at it awhile, and shook her head and said: "No, I shan't give you any money for such music as that. I can't hear any of the tunes, and besides it smells as if there were something burning inside!"—The Congregationalist.

AMERICAN LEGION NIGHT AT FAIR NEXT MONDAY

The American Legion, as represented by the Charles S. Harrison post, made up of veterans of the city and here at the fort, will be in charge of Monday's activities at the fair. There are several hundred members of the Columbus post from our own people and the spirit of comradeship by the ex-service men and the men now in service is proving most wholesome.

There will be a great number of army people at the fair Monday as a special courtesy to the Legion.

HARD LUCK FOR HER.

"I hate to think of longer skirts," Declared poor Mary Weggs;
"You see, my face is homely, but I have such shapely legs."

Indulgent Wife—"John, dear, how did you get that cut on your neck?"

Inebriated Spouse—"Mushta bit maself."

I. W.—"How could you bite yourself in the neck?"

I. S.—"Mushta looked in the mirror."

AN EVE-OPENER.

"How did you find out enough about the financial situation to write an article concerning it?"

"I tried to borrow some money."

Lieut. Porter has been relieved from duty with the M. P. Co. to attend school, and while leaving was heard to be humming "School Days." Good luck, Lieutenant.

Lieut. Ziegler, who is at present in command, is hoping that Captain Teachout will not ask for an extension of his leave.

Cpl. Raydon has just returned from furlough. He had to ask his "Uncle Sam" for transportation. He cannot understand why he cannot collect his ration money. Stick with 'em old boy, the first 29 years is the hardest.

29th Infantry Notes.

Pvt. John McClure of the Service Company has been relieved as dispatcher at the Motor Park and is now doing duty with the company. This is some advancement. Any of his friends desiring to see him may find him in Service Company kitchen. One week's K. P.

Pvt. Fizmartin and his gang are wood butchers as well as motor mechanics.

Corp. Taylor and his staff visited the Driving Park recently to see the football game.

It looked lately as if hard luck had left a certain fellow and his Dodge but it hadn't; it was only waiting for him. We will not mention his name but his initials are B. B. We wish him better luck on his next trip into town.

The transfer of the men of the third Battalion to the first and second Battalions, incident to the third Battalion becoming inactive, was accomplished this week.

The Regimental Library and Reading Room and Chaplain's office, located since Thanksgiving in Tents, was moved on Wednesday to the building formerly used by Co. M as a recreation room.

Friday evening Col. Hobbs and Chaplain Wood met the men to be discharged during October, for a short conference, at the Chapel. Both officers addressed the men briefly.

LARGE STADIUM TO BE OPENED BY THE MARINES AT QUANTICO

The largest stadium of the country will be opened at Quantico by the marines about October 1. It was built by the enlisted men of the Marine Corps without expense to the government to perpetuate the memory of all the officers and enlisted men who have died in the Marine Corps since its establishment. Eventually a large stone arch is to be erected at its entrance, on which will appear the names of those who died while serving in the corps.

The stadium is natural in form, so that a comparatively small amount of excavating has been necessary. To begin with, the stadium will have a seating capacity for 30,000 persons, but there is room for more than double this capacity. It is modeled after the Seattle stadium, which, up to now, was the largest in the country. It is 626 feet long and 300 feet wide. There will be two baseball diamonds and a football field in the inclosure. Around it will be an 1,800-foot elliptical track.

The stadium was planned and superintended by the officers and the work was done voluntarily by the enlisted men. It is in every respect a labor of love and the material was gathered from salvaged war buildiings. Despite the fact that a large part of it is salvage materials, the seats will be reinforced with concrete

DOUBTFUL.

Hers is the first kiss you've assayed.
But in the kiss I'm not so sure
It pays to play the amateur.

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

Infantry School will win from Wofford today. The primary reason for this is because we have the best team. We have the best team for the reason that Wofford was out of football, as an intercollegiate sport, for a period of nearly fifteen years and, having just started again, that old college hasn't yet developed the players necessary for a winning team

Our victory will not be as easily won as the Piedmont game. Wofford comes here with two football scalps on her belt for this season. As a consequence the team's morale is good and this is a factor to be considered. The dope is that Infantry School will win by two touchdowns.

Speaking of football dope this paper does not have to be reminded of the fact that the Sporting Editor predicted Infantry School would win over Piedmont by two touchdowns. There were at least two good reasons for this. The first one was that the Infantry team showed up just about 100 percent better in play than in practice, and the second one was that an improvement over last year was expected of Piedmont. Well, we acknowledge the error—and salute the Infantry School football team.

Somebody who ought to know said the other day that Auburn was getting a little worried about our team. The Auburn scouts who witnessed the Infantry-Piedmont game must have carried back discouraging reports—as far as the Auburn team is concerned. When these two outfits clash Auburn will find that, in order to win, she can not save her first team for the Georgia-Auburn game.

One of the things worrying the sporting editor right now is what course of action he will follow at the Infantry School-Wofford game. If he roots for Wofford he is going to get a black eye with the I. S. team and if he roots for the Infantry he is going to feel that he is disloyal to his Alma Mater. He finds it impossible to be neutral at any football game. He will probably root for Wofford and carry in his pocket the left hind leg of a grave yard rabbit's foot for the Infantry School team.

In a hard fought game of football the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, defeated the Freebooters, 29th Infantry by the score of 15 to 0. This game opens the football season in the Fort Benning Football League. Both teams showed that individual members needed to have the rough edges taken off and the players conditioned. Later in the season both of these teams will put up a splendid exhibition— and this does not reflect on Wednesday's game because for the first game of the season it was a good one.

Standing of Teams.

| | Played | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1st Bn. 29th Inf | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1000 |
| 2nd Bn. 29th Inf | 0 | 0 | 0 | 000 |
| Freebooters .. .. | 1 | 0 | 1 | 000 |
| 83rd Artillery | 0 | 0 | 0 | 000 |
| 15th Tank Bn. | 0 | 0 | 0 | 000 |

The next game will be between the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, and the 83rd Field Artillery on Wednesday afternoon, October 11th at 3:30 P. M. The game will be played at the new athletic field South of Service Club No. 1.

BOXING.

The fights which will be held on October 16th are exciting considerable comment. These are the first fights for which admission charges will be made, and because of the fact that a good card is necessary in order to insure that everybody gets their money's worth the fights on this night are going to be as good as any that have been held in this section.

The curtain raiser of the evening is going to be between Pasioni of the 15th Tanks and Mizwa of the 83rd Artillery. Pasioni has probably gotten beyond the preliminary stage but Mizwa is having his first fight and for this reason it is necessary that the affair be staged as a preliminary.

There will be two eight round fights. Battling Dundee, who hails from the 6th Cavalry, s going to meet Sebukaty, middleweight champion of the 4th Corps area. This fight is going to be full of action from start to finish. Dundee is a hard hitting middleweight with a great deal of promise. He will probably make Sebukaty extend himself. Both men are the kind who are not afraid to mix it up from start to finish and both are heavy sluggers.

The other eight round go will be between Earle, of Columbus, and Grantham, of the 15th Tanks. Earle's ability as a scrapper is too well known for any remarks to be made concerning him. Grantham, on the other hand, is an unknown fighter. He is new at the business but he shows lots of promise. He can take a great deal of punishment and has a wallop in both hands. Both men will weigh within one pound of each other when they enter the ring, and the fight fans expect plenty of action from the sound of the gong.

The main go of the evening will be between Sammy Butts, of New York City, and Battling Twyman, of Fort Benning. Butts comes here with a newspaper record of over forty K. O's. in his last fifty fights. Due to the fact that he received an injury when a child which caused his right arm to shrink he has the use of but one arm for hitting but this arm, the left, is highly developed. Twyman is going to meet a man this time who knows almost as much about ring generalship as he does himself and in addition to this he is going up against a real boxer. Both men will fight as flyweights and as this class of fighter is rare, this particular fight will be something of a novelty besides being fast from start to finish.

POLO.

The polo games last Sunday were witnessed by Generals Shanks and Malone. The type of play was good and it was reported that these officers were entertained by the afternoon's play.

The crowd at the games was larger than usual. The distance between Columbus and Fort Benning seems to have grown materially less judging from the number of cars at the game.

The Blue team met the Yellow team for the first time the former team being handicapped with 4 goals. The Blues proved too strong for the Yellows, however, and the final score was 8 to 5, favor of the Blue.

Linteup:

The second game was between the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Artillery Both teams started at "scratch," handicaps being equal. The Artillery took the Infantry into camp to the tune of 6 to 4. Had the game been for the full eight periods, however, there might have been a different tale to tell because the Infantry came back strong in the last period with the score 4 to 1 against them and piled up three goals in a hurry while their opponents were tallying one.

Medical Department Notes

The refreshment committee served coffee and sandwiches.

Until the hour of ten the men enjoyed a social good time, and one and all voted this an evening extremly well spent.

The Dental Clinic was asked if they had any news for this week and this was the reply, "We have nothing but work here."

We asked the Surgeon in the operating room what he was doing, he replied, "Cutting up, as usual."

The Medical Department is usually considered mild mannered, harmless sort of a bunch, but the following conversation seemed to contradict this belief:

Major: "Well, Captain, what are you doing this morning?"

Captain: "I am shooting a hundred and fifty men this morning."

Major: "That's nothing, I am going to shoot the majority of the camp soon."

Heard over one of the phones at the hospital: Hello, Hello, Central give me headquarters.

"Well what do you want?" from the other end of the wire.

"Say, give me 1-4-8 ½," cried the voice.

Private H. C. Phillips, Med. Dept., has returned from a ten day furlough spent at his home, Evansville, Ga.

To prove how greatly the smokes were enjoyed at the first meeting of the N. C. O.'s Club "Tobe" (Sgt. Cullifer) smoked for the first time in two years.

It is understood that nightly Cpl. Isabell and Sergt. Thompson are taking lessons in Pinochle from Sergt Bedenbough and Sergt. York. If they re-enlist they may possibly win a game.

A certain Staff Sergeant recently took a three day pass, he spent the time in his room figuring the distance from Fort Benning to a certain Georgia town; in case he lost the train he would know what kind of shoes to wear.

2nd Lieut. E. Jackson, Army Nurse Corps, has returned from a thirty day leave of absence, enjoyably spent in and around New York City.

2nd Lieut. E. Mitchener, Army Nurse Corps, has returned for duty after a thirty day leave spent visiting friends and relatives in Pennsylvania and New York.

Signal Corps Notes

With this issue of the Fort Benning News, the Signal Corps Detachment makes its initial bow to the readers of the weekly paper. Although the Detachment is small in numbers, during the week's routine a vast amount of interesting news regarding the organization is found.

The construction of the forest preserve telephone line covering some thirty miles of territory which has been under way for over eight weeks under the supervision of Sergt. Manning, of this Detachment, is now nearing completion. Unless something unforseen takes place by the 15th of the present month all three fire towers will be connected and in communication with the Post switchboard. In this project Sergt. Manning has received several favorable comments on his work. The task of cutting his own right of way and cutting his own telephone poles as he goes along, in addition to the construction of the telephone line is no easy task and the excellent manner in which he has coped with the situation is worthy of favorable comment. The Detachment regrets very much that the Sergeant will be discharged from the service on December 1, and has decided to cast his lot at some other station. The completion of this line will fill a much needed asset, as in case of forest fire it will be a matter of short space of time to rush help to the scene.

The Detachment was recently strengthened by the arrival of Pvts. DeVine and Gee from Camp McClellan. The arrival of these men was heralded with great joy by the personnel of this organization as the vast amount of work to be done the present personnel was unable to cope with the situation.

The Signal Office personnel admits that since the Chief Signal Officer of the Army found it necessary to dispense with female telephone operators owing to lack of funds for the payment of the same, that the telephone service at this station has been far from efficient, as well as being annoying to the Signal Officer, and the subscribers as well. This has been due to the inablity of this office in obtaining efficient enlisted telephone operators. We do not, however, believe that this is due to the lack of intelligence or stubbornness or inability to learn on the part of the men assigned as operators, but in our opinion only verifies the fact that a soldier was not designed to be a "HELLO GIRL."

While dwelling on the inefficiency of the telephone service, and taking the liberty to tell tales out of school, the following illustration, which sounds fishy but the truth of which we will vouch for as well, as the principal in the drama himself is herewith quoted. One day last week Sergt. Leonard, the chief clerk of the Signal Office and the Acting First Sergeant of the Signal Corps Detachment, having business to transact with the Infantry School Detachment, proceeded to call Telephone No. 28. After some ten minutes delay, during which time he had sweat, and used language which would not sound well in print, finally No. 208 answered the call. This was too much for Sergeant Leonard, his anger rose to its highest pitch, and he proceeded to call the operator back to take him to task for the way in which he had handled the call, and the following dialogue ensued.

(Sergt. Leonard) Operator, what number did I call for?

(Operator) 55.

(Sergt. Leonard) What number did you give me?

(Operator) 63.

(Sergt. Leonard, slamming up the receiver) Oh, H———.

The Sergeant, his face red with anger, was then seen boarding the G. M. C. bound for the I. S. D. to transact his business in person.

The numberous complaints being received on the inefficiency of the telephone service, the vast amount of work to be done with a shortage of personnel, the various requests on the part of the various organizations for material, which he was unable to furnish on account of the same not being in stock, and not the least knowledge of when the same would be received, which is enough to cause a man to curse the day he was born has caused the Signal Officer to go up in the air. He has now become so accustomed to being up in the air that he has decided to stay there for good, and has made application for transfer to the Air Service.

Pvt. Foures proceeded a short time ago to get corned up, whereupon he gained the impression that the world was against him, and that the Army in general was not giving him a square deal. He proceeded to make his troubles known to the entire personnel of the post. Pvt. Foures is now working on the roads, in company with an armed orderly, waiting for a court martial to inform him whether or not he is getting a square deal.

Officer Reserve Corps Favor Big Army

RESERVISTS IN CONVENTION CALL ON CONGRESS TO ACTIVELY SUPPORT THE NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT.

Following is the complete text of the resolution passed by the Reserve Officers' Convention in Washington calling on Congress to get behind the National Defense act:

Whereas this convention of Reserve officers, assembled at Washington, D. C., Oct. 3, 1922, is composed of those whose training, study and personal experience in battle have taught them the sinful and unnecessary waste of money and lives, caused by our failure to profit by our past military experiences and that a strong military police is essential for the protection of our country and may be even for its preservation, and

Whereas, the Congress of the United States has for the first time in the history of our country given us a definite military policy in the form of the amended National Defense act, and

Whereas, this act is democratic, fully in accord with all our national prejudices and views, and does not demand excessive expenditures in order to carry out its provisions, and

Whereas, the present great unrest and lack of tranquility in various parts of the world today make a future emergency involving our country far from an impossibility, and

Whereas, there exists in this country a number of individuals and societies with the avowed purpose of bringing about disarmament of this country under the mistaken idea that righteousness disarmed need not fear attack, and

Whereas, the country contains a considerable number of Communists and other avowed enemies to our existing form of government, and

Whereas, the country is constantly being subjected to propaganda issuing from foreign countries designed for the purpose of lulling us into a false sense of security, and

Whereas, the Amended National Defense act gives a definite program to which every loyal citizen can offer his fullest support without fearing militarism, or excessive expenditures;

Therefore, be it Resolved, that this convention of Reserve officers of the United States express in public to the Congress of the United States, and likewise to the people of the United States, that the time has arrived when all citizens in public and private life must definitely stand by this act and insure its execution through proper appropriations, or be considered as one of those who do not stand for adequate national defense of the United States of America.

Be it further Resolved, that appropriations for the support of the Army should include sufficient sums to cover the following needs: An adequate amount to cover the pay and training of at least 33 1-3 per cent. of the enrolled Officers' Reserve Corps each year and all of the Enlisted Reserve Corps enrolled for the coming year; to provide adequate transportation for use at the various headquarters of Reserve divisions to permit and facilitate the organization of such divisions, to provide for the transportation of Reserve officers for all official travel performed by them whether for training, examination for promotion, or any other duty, to which they are officially ordered, at the same rate as is by law established for travel by Regular officers; to provide adequate material for the instruction of Reserve officers at training camps.

Be it further Resolved, that the Congress of the United States be urged to the further support of the said act of June 4, 1920, by providing for the number of Regular officers and enlisted men for the organization, instruction and training of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves as contemplated by this act.

Be it further Resolved, that this association through its national and local officers, and through its individual members constantly bring before Congress as a whole and individual Congressmen and the press of all parts of the United States that the necessity for adequate national defense does exist; that the Amended National Defense act is democratic, is in accordance with the genius of the American people, is non-militaristic, is economical; that supporting it is a non-partican action, and that the public man who fails to support it is failing in his duty as a citizen of the United States to provide the means necessary to insure the enforcement of the principles on which this government is founded and for which it stands in the eyes of the world.

Social Season Opens At Fort Benning

MRS. MALONE ENTERTAINS THE ARMY LADIES OF FORT BENNING AND COLUMBUS.

The social season opened at Fort Benning last Tuesday with a tea for the Army ladies of the Fort and Columbus at which Mrs. Paul B. Malone, wife of General Malone, was the gracious hostess.

The Officer's Hop Room was profusely decorated with Autumn flowers and draped with United States flags. Music for the occasion was furnished by the 29th Infantry Band.

Over four hundred ladies called between the hours of four and six o'clock. Delicious tea, sandwiches, cakes, and bon-bons were served.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Malone was Mrs. W. B. McCaskey, wife of Lieut. Colonel McCaskey. Among those who poured tea were Mrs. Nicklin, wife of Colonel Nicklin, Mrs. Heidt, wife of Colonel Heidt, Miss Fassett, sister of Colonel Fassett, Mrs. Graham, wife of Colonel Graham. A number of ladies assisted in the serving.

LT. COL. PIERSON IS HERE.

Lt. Colonel Robert H. Pierson is at Fort Benning on a tour of inspection covering athletic and recreational activities of the Post.

Colonel Pierson is Chief of the Welfare Bureau, Washington, D. C., and a member of the General Staff. Colonel Pierson has stated that he will make certain recommendations upon his return to Washington which, if acted upon favorably, will tend to provide better recreational facilities for Fort Benning.

As there are over thirty entrants it is easy to see that there will be a lot of excitement and fun enough for anyone. This tournament should go a long way toward deciding the for the winners here should be the logical contenders for the crown in the respective classes.

ARMY LADIES IN COLUMBUS; TAKE NOTICE.

For the benefit of the Army ladies living in Columbus and for the purpose of preventing misunderstanding and, incidentally, depriving the "Knocker's Column" of some good material the following information in connection with the delivery of groceries in Columbus is offered:

SUBSISTENCE DELIVERIES TO COLUMBUS.

In order to efficiently handle the deliveries of subsistence sales orders to customers living in the City of Columbus, it becomes necessary that the individuals try and arrange to submit not more than three orders per week; these orders to be submitted on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and deliveries will be made the following days. Customers will help expedite deliveries if they will arrange to submit their orders on the above designated days and will order sufficient articles to make delivery worth while. In case very small orders, such as head of lettuce, etc., are received these orders will be held until such time as the deliveries are being made in that locality. (D. B. No. 226, 10-11-22).

On last Tuesday evening at the home of Major and Mrs. A. E. Sawkins the officers and ladies of the Second Battalion, Twenty-ninth Infantry, complimented Captain and Mrs. William Orr with a miscellaneous shower.

There were thirty-two guests present to welcome Mrs. Orr into Fort Benning society she having, until recently been Miss Corine Palmer. Mrs. Orr is a daughter of Major Palmer, Cavalry, who is now stationed at El Paso, Texas.

The Twenty-ninth Infantry orchestra furnished the music for the occasion while Mrs. Sawkins served a delightful buffet supper.

Among the handsome wedding presents received by Mrs. Orr was a silver service presented by the entire officer and lady personnel of the Twenty-ninth Infantry.

On next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Mrs. Otto W. Humphries will entertain the ladies of the Twenty-ninth Infantry Bridge Club at her home in Block Sixteen. The number of Capt. and Mrs. Humphries' quarters is 16-39.

On last Tuesday afternoon the Army ladies living in Columbus met at the home of Mrs. Lofton Cobb, on Wynnton Road, and organzied an Army bridge club.

A great many of the Army ladies living in Columbus were present at the organization.

Such a club in Columbus is necessary both for the reason of the limited space in the Officers' Hop Room at the Fort and because of the distance between Columbus and Fort Benning.

Mrs. Morris, wife of Colonel Morris, was elected President, Mrs. E. M. Burnett was made Secretary, and Mrs. Lofton Cobb was elected Treasurer.

The club will meet weekly at the home of the various Army ladies in Columbus.

The Long Expected 24th Infantry Arrived

HEAVY TRAIN PULLS IN LATE MONDAY EVENING FROM NEW MEXICO.

The long expected Headquarters and 1st Battalion of the 24th Infantry under command of Col. John B. Schoeffel arrived Monday night about 8:30. The trip was made from Columbus, N. M., in fifteen Pullmans and took from Thursday evening until Monday.

The Officers of the 3rd Battalion and the Third Battalion Band were at the Fort Benning depot to meet the travelers and a warm welcome was extended the weary wayfarers. They were conducted at once to the camp of the Third Battalion and were there made at home. An excellent meal did much to break the ice for the new arrivals.

Wednesday evening a dance was tendered the new arrivals by the men of the 3rd Battalion and the large recreation hall of the 24th was jammed to the doors by the men and their guests. At least seven hundred were present during the evening.

Already some excellent athletic material has shown up, a prize winning light weight, some excellent track men and some fine football players are on the job in addition to five top notch baseball players. It is expected that seevral of the new men will be given a chance to display their wares in the game Saturday against Morris Brown College at the 24th Field.

The sympathy of the entire garrison is extended to Major and Mrs. D. T. Greene in the loss of their son recently.

Address Of Major General J. G. Harbord

DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF, AT THE FIRST CONVENTION OF THE RESERVE OFFICERS' ASSOCIATION, WASHINGTON, D. C.

I take it that most of you when at home are business and professional men, carrying soldiering as a side-line, and I wish to say a few words about one phase of the business situation. I occupy an executive position in one of the largest corporations doing business on this continent. I refer to the firm of Uncle Sam Limited. I am assistant to General Manager Pershing, who, like myself, works under the Chairman of our local board, John W. Weeks. The operations of our firm are controlled through the great holding company whose Board of Directors meets under the dome of the Capitol, in which all of you are stockholders, and no small number of you are preferred creditors.

Our firm employs a great many people, disburses much money, does a certain amount of build ng, participates to some extent in local activities all over the country, and places great dependence upon your friendship and support. These various manifestations of activity alone considered would make it appropriate that our needs should be considered by our stockholders, but they are merely subsidary to our principal business, which is that of National Life and Fire Insurance, carrying safety appliances as a side-line. We claim to help guarantee, and to guard and insure the life of our Country. Our firm has been doing this class of business for nearly a hundred and fifty years. In fact, our house-flag has flown over us without change for a longer period than the existence under their present form of incorporation of any of our principal rivals.

Our corporate life has not been one of steady growth. Our business on an average of once every thirty years has witnessed a sudden expansion and a tremendous increase of our out-put. I only need to recall to you that within five years we opened branch offices beyond the seas, and sent over two million special agents to Europe under our present General Manager Pershing. It was an emergency which took many of you across the ocean on the business of the firm. Some of our representatives closed their accounts with a credit balance in the very morning of their lives and will never come home again.

Every such great expansion in our history has been followed by a corresponding reaction, with contraction of business, discrediting of our agents, reduction of operating capital, closing out of surplus stocks at tremendous sacrifices, shutting down the factories, and discharging many trained employees. The expansion of 1917 and 1918 has bene no exception. A reorganization was brought about by our previous experience in which every great emergency has found us unprepared, and after which the apparent necessity for violent economic contraction has lost us the lessons just learned. This reorgan zation promised to line up a great number of more or less trained personnel as a Reserve, enrolling many of you who rendered splendid service during the emergency through which we had just passed, and who were willing to retain your connection with the firm, devoting a portion of your time to its interests. It also established a new reservoir of less trained men who, taking special work at various educational institutions throughout the country, may be considered a second line of personnel, ready to take the place of the older employees as they drop off through age or otherwise. For a few months prospects for the firm were bright. A complete change of management soon took place, Chairman Baker being succeeded by Mr. Weeks, and General Manager March giving way to Pershing. The new management promised retrenchment and a reduction in expenses, realiz ng, however, that there was an irreducible minimum below which the firm could not go and continue business without shrinkage of personnel, the abandoment of much of our market, and the closing down of many of our industries.

The truth is that your Directors are much out of touch with you stockholders, and we believe are not carrying out your wishes. It is a fact that heavy assessments on the share-holders have been necessary to carry out even a diminished program for the firm. The management, however, cannot bring itself to believe that you stockholders wish to perpetuate the vicious circle of false economy bringing unpreparedness with its train of untold cost in blood and gold, compelling further parsmony to bring about a repetition of the same ghastly history in time ye to come. We claim that your Board of Directors does not know your wishes, or if it does, it does not act upon them and substitute its judgment for yours,—its judgment conceived in the comfortable office of the politician seeking to perpetuate himself in office,—your judgment born under the guns of the enemy and matured in the slime of the trenches and the reek of battle. Under their judgment and with the plea of hard times and the necessity for economy, our operating capital has been much reduced and our reserve prospects diminished. Our plans for your development during the summer just gone were delayed and hindered by dilatoriness in passing the necessary appropriations, and a large number of our trained employees have been discharged.

We anticipate some trying days ahead of the firm. Various wildcat schemes of socialism and bolshevism are seeking to encroach upon our territory and to impair the standing of our organization through the country. An effort is being made to disparage our output and deny our claims for further extension of credit by a much advertised substitute called "disarmament," presented as a panacea for every national ailment from callouses to consumption. This is in the interest of firms who are rivals of ours across distant seas and especially in the Oriental trade. It is being handled on the market by the same class of irresponsible speculators who for years have dabbled in similar fakes and cheap imitations. It will be presented to you in very attractive form by some of the smoothest agents in the business, among them those who in the enthusiasm of newly-conferred suffrage, and anxious to do good, will endeavor to flood the market with this fake substitute for our Old Line Insurance, urging it with all the fascinating inconsistency of mingled charms and hysterics which so often characterizes lovely woman, — without whose approval no war has ever been waged. Many a profiteer, grown swollen and gross with ill-gotten gains on the distress of his country, now pleads for perpetual peace to salve a guilty conscience.

We of the management ask a continuation of your confidence. We ask you to remember the faithful service given by our firm—with its three-part constitution in which you are not only a stockholder but now a full partner—service enduring for a century and a half of our national life. "Ologies" and "isms" may come and go, and conferences may confer, but human nature remains the same, —men will be men,—trade is trade, and nations will fight for economic supremacy,—the millennium is still far below the horizon. We do not wish for war any more than the ordinary Life Insurance Company wishes for death, or longs for Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, a bloody battle or a sickly season. But no business man cancels his fire insurance policy when there is a conflagration raging in the next block. See that your representatives, our Directors, here in the Nation's capitol, not far from the main office of the firm, know your wishes, and under the lash of your displeasure that they carry them out. Give us a rising market on the Army, and we promise you heavy dividends in the next emergency.

OCTOBER 13, 1922.

ON another page of this issue there appears a speech made by General Harbord, Deputy Chief of Staff, to the convention of Reserve Officers which recently was held in Washington. The speech is re-printed in full because of the unique manner in which an interesting subject was handled.

THE personnel at Fort Benning are gratified over the fact that boxing bouts will be continued if the sentiment may be judged by the remarks overheard from time to time.. Coming as they do in the middle of the month when there is not a great deal of the coin of the realm in circulation and being handled as they are in such manner that everybody can buy an admission ticket on credit, they are particularly welcome.

The next bouts which are to be held on the evening of October 16th will be especially good pudging from the advance notices at hand. Arrangements are being made at the new boxing arena—near Service Club No. 1—to handle a large crowd and the indications are that the demand for seats will be greater than the available supply on the post. If the crowds turn out to see these bouts as they did to see the free bouts consiberable money should be made available in a very short time with which to finance the various recreational activities on the post.

AN attraction coming to the Post Theatre on Saturday night (tonight) is the Sam Lewis Concert Party. This is said to be an unusually high type musical troup. Such attractions are usually given at a loss but are classed as part of the recreational activities of the post.

WITH the social season of the post beginning with the big reception of Mrs. Malone this week there should be an abundance of social reading matter weekly. Unfortunately, The News has no society ed tor—yet—and this paper has to depend on the good nature of the individuals concerned to furnish such items. It is very desirable that matters of social interest be printed in our columns and hostesses are urged to notify the Post A. & R. Office either when they contemplate giving a party, after they have done so, or both—preferably the latter.

THE nightly attendance at the three theatres is growing. Last week this attendance averaged 706 and the indications are that this is going to be greatly increased in the very near future. This fact is especially interesting in view of the fact that Fort Benning participates in the profits of the theatres now and that these profits are to be used for recreational purposes. It begins to look as if there are going to be funds available in the future for a number of things which have necessarily been eleminated in the past due to the lack of these funds.

ARMY TO GIVE SERIES OF DEMONSTRATIONS OF ITS COMBAT ARMS IN WASHINGTON DURING OCTOBER— INFANTRY TO STAGE SHOW FRIDAY.

The Commanding General, District of Washington, has arranged to give public exhibitions, in the city of Washington during the fall and winter, of the work and training of the combat arms. The first exhibition will be given by a six squad platoon of the 3rd Bn., 12th Infantry from Fort Washington, Maryland, at 4:30 p. m., October 6th, 1922, on the park west of the Botanical Gardens at Missouri Avenue and Third Street, N. W.

The Infantry will hold a formal guard mounting, followed by close order drill given to the music of the bugle and drum corps of the 3rd Bn., 12th Infantry. Upon the conclusion of the ceremony the Army Band will give a short concert, and then the Infantry will exhibit the concluding phase of an attack on enemy machine-guns, showing the movement of Scouts, the building up of the firing line, the use of "smoke screens," and the closing in with bayonets. Blank ammunition, smoke grenades and smoke candles will be used, and those who have never had the opportunity of seeing the real thing, will now see how the "fighting infantry" did it "Over There."

This demonstration will be the first of a series to be given during October by the various combat arms of the service stationed in or near Washington and it is hoped that the public will take advantage of this opportunity to witness the work of the Army. Date, time and place of subsequent demonstrations will be announced later.

A NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM MEXICO TO CANADA

Lieut. Leland S. Andrews, Army Air Service, stationed at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, who was the companion of Lieut. James H. Doolittle on a number of cross-country flights prior to the latter's recent trans-continental flight, is soon to embark on a nonstop flight from the Mexican to the Canadian Border, which he contemplates making on or about October 8th.

He will start from Ellington Field, Houston, Texas, proceed to the nearest point on the Gulf of Mexico, and then wing his way directly to Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., thus touching the Southern and Northern boundaries of the United States. He will use the same plane with which Lieut. Doolittle recently made his flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast with only one intermediate stop and within a total elapsed time of 24 hours.

The approximate distance to be covered in Lieut. Andrews' flight is 1100 miles, and this Army pilot feels confident that the trip can be made in one continuous flight, even with a slight head wind. Should the winds prove unfavorable, however, he contemplates making a stop at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, to refuel his ship, and will attempt to make the non-stop flight on the return trip from Selfridge Field.

Lieutenant Andrews has already flown Lieut. Doolittle's famous ship, and is thoroughly familfar with its special features and its performance when loaded. Should success reward his effort it will make the first time a boundary to boundary non-stop flight across the United States has ever been accomplished. He has chosen the early part of October for his flight in order to take advantage of the moon for an early take-off.

15th Tank Battalion News

The Battalion Football team is working hard in preparation for their first game. They had their first real scrimmage of the season on the 10th against the Infantry Varsity, and made a very creditable showing. They showed real strength, especially on the defense. Red Lindsey is showing up like a star and all teams will soon quit trying to go through there after he hits them a couple times, Lee also is holding down right tackle in a masterful manner, the opponents will soon learn this after a few attempts to get by. Can the "Tanks" kick?—Ask the Infantry School team. Swantic out-kicked them every time.

Sgt. Mason has nearly completed all arrangements for the entertainment to be held in the Log Hut October 26th. Let's make it good, Mason.

The Battalion extends its heartiest congratulations to Major and Mrs. Leonard upon the birth of a baby daughter on October 4th, 1922. Mother and daughter are reported to be doing nicely. We are all waiting patiently for the weeds to be passed around.

Sgt. Hicks "C" company, the designer and builder of the Battal on championship, but unlike Dempsey he is willing to meet all comers at their own terms.

"B" company boasts of such notable characters as Sgts. Sherrard, Hunter and Hansen, who have been rehearsing their latest play, "Turn to the Right." This play will be ready for presentation shortly after pay-day. The setting is somewhere in the modest little village of Girard, Ala.

"B" company has a new supply sergeant. Seeing that all the rest have gone wrong we hope that you will take the right road Sam, and don't contract too many new friends. (Editors note: The rest of the Battalion are on the "qui vive" when they pass by "B" company.)

Lieut. Hoy and the shop crew of "C" company are trying to devise some way to park his coupe in his stall in the Batall on garage without injury to other cars parked there.

Even the "Old timers" fall. Sgt. George C. had visitors from Macon this week.

Cpl. Candea came off winner in a "Headbucking contest" with Pvt. Wade in "C" company the other night. Wade had visions of the Fair for a while though.

"B" company's present mitt-slinger, Kid Pacioni, has been training hard for another fight with some of the youngsters in his outfit. Keep it up, Pacioni, some day you'll challenge Siki.

Lieut. Jaynes has recently acquired a new means of transportation. He says that it will really run.

The Sgt. Major is seling tickets on a raffle for a Studebaker. Evidently there are others besides Mess Sgts. who have their grafts. Hope that you win it yourself, Buck. It isn't the original cost, it's the upkeep.

"Military Bill' visited the Chattahoochee Valley Fair last Monday evening. He was pleased with what there was, but wanted more of it. It had it all over the Orient in a few days at that.

News from Pensacola, Fla., is to the effect that there is lots of work for some of "C" company's men who are there on furlough. Hope that Handsome Dan and the Wild Irishman don't overtax their strength cleaning fish.

Sgt. Boone of Co. "C" has left on furlough. We all wonder if he is going to sail on the matrimonial sea. A supply Sgt. should be able to.

Members of "C" company claim that their 1st sergeant is the biggest fish in the Battalion. One hundred and twenty-five for that outfit. Nationality counts most we should say. He jewed him down $2.50. Turn on the green lights, Abe.

The Battalion is well represented at the Fair in Columbus this week, having one heavy and two light tanks there. They draw the crowds also. To hear the crews of them tell it they can do everything but fly with them.

Lieut. Barrick can't make his speedster sober up unless he disconnects all the wires. It gets all "lit up" like a church with all the juice turned on. We recommend that he use oil instead of alcohol in his lamps.

Members of the Battalion within hearing recommend that Edwards draw some blankets for his hounds so they won't howl when they are cold.

As a sequel to the play which some of the sergeants in "B" company are rehearsing, several other members of the Batallion expect to put on, on the same set, a short sketch entitled "Up one Flight." This play is the only one with the exception of Uncle Tom's Cabin in which Little Eva plays a stellar role.

We are always looking for news and want the help of all members of the Battalion in getting same, but the following rules must be observed.

I. Must be member of the 15th Tank Battalion, know where it is stationed, the number of barracks it has, whether painted or not, or both; the number of windows, floors and ceilings in each building, who is its Commanding Office.

II. They must, might, could, would, should, may or can write a story of some event, true or otherwise, or both, and if both, how many of each, and why?

III. Write in English if possible.

IV. Write on the outside of the paper.

V. Always start on the opposite side.

VI. Use right hand in writing unless you write left-handed.

VII. Keep to right of paper and when turning corners put an arm out.

VII. Thumb prints accepted, though not necessary.

IX. Writing must be in ink, unless it is pencil, and if so use Eberhard's Faber ink and Sanford's pencils, and when buying same mention Fort Benning News.

X. Words must be used in writing the story unless the writer prefers to use language.

XI. The use of expensive words don't count, so don't try and put on the dog.

XII. Write on any kind of paper, one burns just as well as another.

XIII. No scandal or dirty digs allowed, they're not right, but again, who the blazes wants to be right.

XIV. Write ideas, not thoughts, and if so, how? and without laughing.

XV. Write about yourself, or love, or any other kind of nonsense.

The Regiment Overseas

The Second Battalion sailed from New York on board the Celtic on March 6th, 1918, and landed at Liverpool, England, on March 18th. A few days were spent at Southhampton before embarking for LeHarve, France, where the battalion landed on March 23rd. Regimental Headquarters and the 1st Battalion left New York on the Orduna, on March 16th, and landed at Liverpool on March 29th. On the same day the 1st Battalion and Regimental Headquarters traveled by rail to the historic town of Winchester. On April 5th they embarked at Southampton, England, and landed at LeHarve the following morning.

Work in S. O. S.

One of the biggest problems confronting the American Army during the early days of the war was the organization of the Service of Supplies, commonly known throughout the A. E. F. as the S. O. S. In order to feed, clothe and properly take care of the vast army which was later to come, wharves, immense warehouses, great railway yards and hospitals were required. Consequently, Engineer troops were in great demand, and for the first three months after arrival of the regiment in France, it was employed in construction work.

During the months of April, May and June the regiment was located as follows:

Regimental Headquarters — Rimaucourt (Harte Marne).

Company "A"—Montigny-le-Roi (Haute Marne.)

Company " B "—Nogenton-Bassigny (Haute Marne.)

Company " C " — Rimaucourt (Haute Marne).

Second Battalion — Grievres (Loir et Cher.)

Company " A " spent the three months in building hospitals, barracks, and stables in the area of Montigny-le-Roi.

Company " B " constructed barracks, hospitals and stayles and repaired roads in the vicinity of Nogent-en-Bassigny. Construction work was also done at the experimental gas fields at Chaumont (Haute Marne.)

Campony " C " with Headquarters Company and the Engineer Train relieved Company " E " of the 6th Engineers in the construction of the five one thousand-bed base hospitals at Rimaucourt (Haute Marne). Three hundred Chinese were also employed there under the supervision of the Engineers. At the time these companies were relieved, two units of forty buildings each had been completed, and put in condition.

THERE IS NO PARTING THERE

It was midnight on the Ocean,
Not a street-car was in sight;
The sun was shining brightly
And it rained all day that night.

'Twas a summer day in winter,
And the snow-flakes fell like glass:
A barefooted boy with shoes on Stood sitting on the grass.

'Twas evening and the rising sun,
Was setting in the West,
And the little fishes in the trees
Were huddled in their nests.

The rain was pouring down
And the moon was shining bright.
And everything that you could see
Was hidden out of sight.

While the organ peeled potatoes,
Lard was rendered by the choir,
As the Sexton rang the dish-rag
Someone set the church on fire.

Holy smokes! the preacher cried.
In the rain he lost his hair;
Now his head resembles Heaven,
For there is no parting there.

Artillery News Notes.

Despite the one sided score by which the artillery football team lost to the 29th Freebooters Wednesday, the supporters of the team were well pleased with the stiff fight it put up against adverse conditions.

This was the first game of the season for the artillery and the first time much of its green material had ever taken part in a game. Despite this, the work of the line, especially in the first half, before superior weight wore it down, was especially good. The end defense was weak throughout the game, through bad position, a consequence of playing in too close from overeagerness.

The feature of the game from anybody's standpoint was the fine defensive work of Sergeant Samlavich, cannoneer halfback, whose cleancut tackles were the delight of the spectators. Twice, in the last quarter, he held the heavy infantrymen for downs by his own work alone, making seven consecutive tackles and knocking down two forward passes. He was also all there was to the artillery backfield in its only offensive quarter, the first ,when he carried the ball seven out of ten times, and made two first downs.

Discouraged neither by the defeat nor the loss of their coach, Lt. F. G. McGill, who has been detailed to Virginia Military Institute, the artillerymen are looking forward to the next game, determined to overcome the faults which came to light in the Infantry game. The artillerymen have nothing but praise for their opponents, particularly the swift infantry back, Kelly, and the end, Davis, whose work was of a high order, and were well pleased with the excellent manner in which the game was conducted. The new athletic field, with its grandstand arrangement was a big hit.

Signal Corps Notes

Mr. W. R. Williams of the Fourth Corps Area Signal Office was a visitor at Fort Benning the past week have come here for the purpose of making estimates in regards the enlargement of the post telephone system, which has now reached its capacity. While here Mr. Williams obtained considerable valuable data for the Fourth Corps Area Signal Officer, in regards the present and future building projects, which will without a doubt lead to the increasing of the present telephone system. Mr. Williams expressed the belief that without a doubt the present system would be enlarged.

The Signal Office welcomed with joy the past week the reecipt of a communication from the Fourth Corps Signal Office to the effect that the much needed improvements to the Target Range Communication system had been approved by the Secretary of War. Work has already commenced on the project.

The Signal Office Lieut. Charles R. Forrest has received his transfer to the Air Service, and has been replaced as Post Signal Officer by Capt. Roscius H. Back.

Pvt. Eugene Jones 17 Ordnance (Maintenance) Company who has for the past eight weeks been on the special duty detail constructing the Forest Preserve Telephone line has been transferred to the Signal Corps.

While Mr. Williams was in our post the past week he readily saw the need of competent telephone operators for this station, and promised to bring the matter personally to the attention of the Corps Area Signal Officer with a view of relieving the situation.

A lineman was sent the past week to a certain office in the post to make repairs to the telephone. After having made the necessary repairs and having reported to the officer in charge of the office that the telephone was O. K. the officer, desiring to satisfy himseld to the effect that such was the case, proceeded to call the operator with the request that he hold a conversation with him to which the operator replied "The line's busy."

24th Infantry News Notes

Soaked by rain, Alabama mud and penalties the 3rd Bn., 24th Infantry team played and won the first game of the season from the Tigers of Tuskegee, Institute, with a score of 6 to 0, one gratifying feature was the speed and line work on a field that was as slippery as glass. The new play devised by Chaplain Reynolds and Captain Wilson, known as the "Mess Line Plunge" will get any team's goat. Too much cannot be said of Lay and his 6-yard plunges, but boy, Oh Boy, when he hit the line he tore up things for far, and wherever he struck there was a hole if it wasn't there when he struck, it was there in the ensuing instant. The college lads resisted strenuously during the first quarter getting the ball to our 20 yard line and gallantly held the battalion from scoring in the first half. Tuskegee upon a 4th down in the third quarter punted the ball from the center of the field for a 30-yard gain, Freelon received it and then he performed as he never has performed before. Equipped with mud cleats and the winged shoes of Mercury, he made a touch down for 70 yards that would have made "Man-O-War" seemed like a snail. The soldiers showed well at returning the ball from kicks. All the first string Kilgore, Adams and the Dawson Bros. bearing their share of the attack. Allen at end was named "Lightning" for his fast work. At this writing the incoming organization has not quite settled but the Chaplian is looking over the picking out some very good material, which is believed will make this team unexcelled in the South.

Corporal Carter (Hard-Luck) has learned us a new trick of changing a $10 bill into a five, everybody understands it but Cpl. Bill Williams. Carter will explain it to him next pay day.

Corporal Reeves (Noise-Box) absent from Reveille October 7th, 1922, apprehended at Girard, Ala., with his shoes thrown across his shoulder and walking to Tuskegee, in his BEAR feet, to see the football game. His dogs were swollen.

Cook Revere (Baldy) will start, in the hardware business with those nice steaks he cooks. The Supply sergeant is using them for hinges on the door.

Sgt. Vantress (Bob-Cat) a new comer known as the 24th fashion plate and vamp wants all the colored ladies to know that he is free and not engaged. He will be in Columbus, Ga., Sunday afternoon for inspection if some one will pay his transportation.

Sgt. Harrod (By Eye) has gone back into the football team. He only got a chance to see one game last year on account of a player in More-House College hitting him in the eye at the beginning of the season.

Sgt. Shoot-a-Nickle the band leader was seen up under the recreation hall looking for something; when asked what it was he replied that he was cranking up his Baby Lincoln and it flew off the handle.

Captain and Mrs. McNair and Captain and Mrs. Wilson motored over to Tuskegee, last Saturday to the football game, and report a pleasant visit.

Private Peter Atkerson (Chauffeur) claims that he has been robbed of his marksman's pay. He threw three bricks toward Burchett, Manch and missed every time.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

On "Yon Kipper" (or or about, I should say), the following conversation was overheard in the Post Exchange, Grocery Department:

Rosen: Butcher, give me about two pounds of that veal steam, (pointing.)

Butcher: That's not veal steak, that's pork chops.

Rosen: Who the H—— asked you what kind of meat that was.

---

Eggs must have taken a jump a certain day this week. Smith & Magoni won first price at the fair. Pretty fair, at that.

---

We wonder if Groverly (one of our Detachment Staff) intends to quit his wild wreckless way of living. It was recently reported that he has been attending the "revival" in Columbus.

---

Mick Halpan looms to the front again. He says for the information of all who are about to be discharged that he has found a way to beat the U. S. and make Uncle Sam pay travel pay. If he won't send "Mike" home he will re-enlist. Follow his advice boys and recruiting parties will be unnecessary.

Rip saw—rip saw—rip saw—bang
We are the boys of the I.S.D. gang.
Are we in it?
Can't you see?
We are the boys of the I.S.D.
Ra! Ra! Ra!

---

The dance given by the Detachment on last Saturday evening was quite a successful affair. It seems however that some of the boys are a little bit timid or else they were afraid their "best" girl would find out they had been dancing with some one else.

---

On the night of October 7th the detachment mess hall was the scene of a very pretty dance for the men of thedetachment, their families and friends. Refreshments were sevred and Sgt. Sebeneichen's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. Several officers of the General's Staff attended. This was the first dance of the season and as it was so successful another one will be held in the near future.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Our dancing teacher and lady killer, Sgt. Bowen will take up his new duties as dancing teacher in the near future. Pvt. Broderson, West Haven vamp, will be his assistant.

Professor Terence, known as the sleuth is constantly on the trail of a clue, which seems to have no foundation or ending.

Pvt. Wilson went down town to get a drink. Did he get it! We'll say he did; we saw the charges in the Lieutenant's hand this morning.

Pvt. Robinson the Pennsylvania football star, isn't making much headway in the game since he lost his spikes during the baseball season.

Co. "F" moved from the recruit center last Monday. Anyone wishing to see the men from the 1st Gas Regt., will find them at the old quarters of Co. "L" 29th Infantry, where they are permanently stationed.

Cook Roberts, Pvts. Everhart and Frymyer, must have been pretty well soaked last Saturday night. They were in the rain most of the time, at least it was said they were under the weather most of the night.

Since the company moved to Fort Benning, there are a few men who seem to forget they are married and stay in town most of the time. We don't know where they go, but there must be something in town that attracts them. Who mentioned Sgt. Brown's name?

"If I sell the car, I've got thirty days to do," is somewhat of a slogan around the company since we have taken up sighting and a ming and making preparations to go on the range.

Will someone kindly tell us who was in the ditch near the overhead bridge with a Hudson car on last Sunday night? That's allright Brooks, we understand the situation.

Pvt. Hendricks would like to sell his Ford roadster. He says it is all there except the engine, the tires, the wheels and the body, but outside of that it is a good car.

Our Supply Sergeant Ohrvall, has taken us his new duties as acting mess sergeant, and he certainly knows his business when it comes to putting out a feed for a bunch of hungry men. It will be all right Ohrvall, as long as you don't issue supplies instead of rations.

Pvt. Scharle can see the target through the rear sight or through the front sight, but he does not see why the Lieutenant e pects him to see it through both sights. Anyway Scharle says, he does not like to wear "badge ornaments."

Sgt. Stover visited the Fair the other day and the gate keeper mistook him for a school boy. We hope that Headquarters don't hear about it, because the "school boy" might have to employ a chauffeur.

Will someone kindly impress upon Sgt. McCullom's mind that when he crosses the 9th street bridge in Columbus he is in the state of Alabama. Nuf said.

Finance Detachment Notes

Warrant Officer W. G. Sesseman, Assistant Property Auditor, is a new member of the Finance personnel of this post, the detachment extends to him a hearty welcome.

Corp. Short and Ayers were among the spectators at the football game last Saturday afternoon and reports a very interesting game.

Bobbie Casper, the brass pounder of the Signal Corps, spent Sunday P. M. with the Finance Detachment and enjoyed a quite game of "Hit me down for double."

Our old time fr end Private Tillerson, has been transferred back to Benning after a couple of months in Augusta Arsenal. He says Benning is like a paradise beside Augusta Arsenal, which goes to prove that Benning is not so bad after all.

Our old timer (Corp. Blonco) is back on the officers pays account again and says—he'll show them how to make things snap.

Bennett and Watson was seen at the Springer Opera house last Saturday evening in company with Hinder der, Q. M. C., and "Pop" Hendricks, I. S. D.

WANTED: A pair of Curlin Irons to curl both of the hairs on hi head.—Miller.

Purvis: I was borned a free man.

Willis: So was I—free of property, currency and everything.

We either advance or retrea . Life is all movement. A seething mass of human yeast, that rises and falls, wriggling, creeping, crawling foaming, fighting and snarling, a times shrieking and crying aloud in our misery; but ever moving, ever continuous the ebb and flow of life goes on; and like the worms we despise we struggle blindly, furiously in a mad frenzy and terror in the mids of it, and call it good or bad according to how far upward we have eaten our way to the top.

Quartermaster Department News Notes

Butler, the Night Electrician. (He's a good one and learning fast can put in fuses and l ght bulbs carries a hammer and screw driver.) If anything goes wrong with your lights, better call him up. "Service for the Line" is his motto.

Jesse Skinner, is getting pretty snappy, he lugs ice in the morning, juggles groceries in the afternoon. (Be kerful James the "H. S. R." is no joke.)

"Bob" White has been to town three or four times since pay-day. No hasn't been "intoxicated;" good for you "Sweet Words" keep it up.

Things are beginning to look pretty bad for the "Commissary Staff" Seeing as how they have to work six days a week (Till 4:00 P. M.) Their great problem is; trying to figure out what date they will start the "Night Shift." (Too bad they don't get double pay for Sunday.)

"Speedy" Gilliam is one of the "short-timers," only about two months to do. Say gents I know something about him that will make him "re-up, so don't worry boys we'll soon have three years to look at that mug. (His real name is Rober E. Gilliam, but the "Twins" christened him "Web-Foot.")

Corporal Joel Maffet, has just returned from a thirty day furlough in the hills of Georgia. (Say, if any one wants to hear a good "Fish Story," drop around to Build ng No 52503 down stairs after 5:00 P. M.)

The Commissary Twins get along all right at times, except when Kane blames Bacon for being a slacker when it comes to stocking up, and vice-versa.

"Big" Jim was seen going to the village in one of Howard's De Luke Busses, escorted by the "Twins," (Don't lead 'em astray James).

Let it be known throughout the Detachment that our friend Polit thinks no more of a "nickle" than he does of his right eye. He says "Me short timer, no take chance, maybe drink half-pint then take chance." Ask the printer crowd they know him.)

Since the discharge of our leading Musician things are much more quiet at night. (All right fellows, who will be the next to take up music? Better make it a Xlyphone)

William Siegmund was seen at the Shin dig tother night with his gallus strop broked. Poor Bill, He, has our sympathy.

Let it be known that Act. Pvt. Clarence Berry is still achting Supply Sergeant and is the bussiest man in the Detachment. He does nothing and acting Pvt. Tex Warren is his noted helper.

Pvt. J. D. Buttler the screw driver Electrician is on the job, praying that no calls will come in.

Cpl. F. L. Eadler only gets charge of quarters twice a year, six months each time he is still in the property business. Call 5-5.

Sgt. Flory—better known as Mr. Jox is the Official Chauffuer for Sgt. Byrd who has become well known during the absence of first Sgt. Berg. We also wish to let the detachment know that Sgt. Byrd still has his box of Brutton.

Miss Yon, the Saphire of the property Office is the proud owner of a new Ford. She expects to enter the races soon.

Everyone in the camp is cordially invited out to Guyville to visit Pvt. Caudill. He has on display a few of his thoroughbred bull——dogs. Music will be furnished. Luck to you Charlie.

Old Joe Wood was seen bright and early Wednesday morning going around the barracks collecting. Keep it up Joe you'll be rich yet.

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

Last Saturday when the Infantry School met Wofford College everybody expected a repetition of the Infantry-Piedmont game. Practically nothing was known of the Wofford aggregation and the Infantry School team looked good. Everything was "set" for the game when Pluvius took a hand and both teams were quickly wet to the skin.

The sport scribes appeared to have a difference of opinion with regard to the effect this said rain had on the teams. One writer stated that the Infantry team was slowed up to such an extent that it lacked the punch to put over touchdowns when within striking distance of their opponent's goal. Another writer contended that the rain made the ball so slippery as to prevent Wofford's forward passes being effective thereby causing that team to have to depend on line bucks against a much heavier team. Regardless of these opinions the wet ball caused fumble after fumble and the result, because of this, was in doubt until the last whistle sounded.

Wofford played a clean game throughout and showed a sportsmanlike spirit when they lost by the score of 12-0. It is hoped that another game can be arranged for next season.

Something is going to happen, from the standpoint of football, when the Infantry meets Tennessee today.

Infantry looks good and has delivered the goods in the past two games. The team is improving daily at practice and is rapidly becoming a smooth running machine. There is no comparison between the team that will take the field today and the team of this time last year.

But—Tennessee has something of a football team also. Up to date this team has cleaned up everything it has tackled and is on the warpath for more scalps.

If the sporting editor was in a predicting mood he might say that the winning team would win by not more than one touchdown. Everybody thinks it will be a close game and of one thing everybody is sure—the fans are going to see same real football.

In the second of the inter-unit football games on the Service Club athletic field the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry team decisively defeated the 83rd Artillery outfit by the score of 25 to 0 last Wednesday afternoon. There were about 2,000 in attendance including Colonel George S. Goodale, the commanding officer of the 29th Infantry and Major oJseph W. Rumbough, the commanding officer of the 83rd Artillery.

The game was brilliantly contested and cleanly fought. There were only a few penalties called and these were for holding and offside plays.

Within a few minutes after "Lanky" Davis had kicked off to the 83rd Artillery the ball was fumbled on the 20-yard line. Brown, the speedy right end of the 2nd battalion, careened in at full speed, made a successful lunge at the leather oval and was off down the field. He was never headed and this 80-yard dash stunned the Artillery for a moment but they recovered and despite the combination of forward passes and slashing end runs by Kellstrom of the 2nd battalion, there was no further scoring until the third quarter.

About the middle of the third quarter Kgelstrom completed a series of end runs averaging from 10 to 20 yards for the second touchdown of the game. He repeated this a few minutes later in the fourth quarter. The final touchdown came from a long forward pass Kkelstrom to Davis. In fact the strength of the 2nd Battalion team lay in Davis and Kgelstrom, although this duo of stars were greatly aided by Slatts and Daniels and Ekoff, who sure did tackle 'em.

The line-up and summary follows:

| 83rd Artillery. | Pos. | 2nd Bat., 29th Infantry |
|---|---|---|
| Alberts | Left End | Davis |
| Anderson | Left Tackle | Ekoff |
| Tartany | Center | Green |
| Downing | Right Guard | Rowe |
| McNeely | Right Tackle | Parks |
| Walker | Right End | Brown |
| Rutledge | Quarterback | Payne |
| Samlovitch | Lefthalfback | Johnson |
| Hunt | Fullback | Kgelstrom |

Score: 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, 25; 83rd Artillery, 0. Touchdowns, Brown, Kgelstrom 2, Davis. Kick from placement, Parks. Time of Quarters: 10 minutes. Referee: Lieut. Jefferson Davis Box, United States Military Academy. Umpire, Captain Chalmers Dale. Head Linesman, Lieut. Douglass. Timer, Lieut. Hussing. Attendance, 2,000.

BOXING

The boxing bouts to be held next Monday night are going to be good ones.

The curtain raiser will be between Pacioni of the Tanks and Mizwa of the Artillery. Pacioni has a reputation started, having had a number of ring battles in Columbus. Mizwa is a newcomer in fight circles but he looks good and has lots of promise. Both of these men are in training and both are out to win. This will be a preliminary far above the average. If the fight proves to be as good as is expected both men will probably have a return battle over a longer route at an early date.

The first eight round scrap will be between Grantham, another Tank man, and Earle of Columbus. Grantham has appeared in the local ring but once but he showed that he had the makings of a fighter in him that time. This is his first fight against a man of Earle's ability but his backers feel confident that he will go the limit with Earle and be going strong when the last gong sounds.

There will be another eight round go between Sebukaty, the Fourth Corps middle weight champion, and Dundee, who hails from the 6th Cavalry. Dundee is said to have considerable science and is quick on his feet. Sebukaty is known to be a hard hitting fighter who is going every minute of the time he is in the ring. This is going to be a real fight from start to finish. This fight alone should be worth the price of admission.

The main go of the evening will be between "Pee Wee" Burns, of Atlanta, and "Battling" Tywman of Fort Benning. Both men will enter the ring weighing within six ounces of each other and there will be action from start to finish. Burns is a youngster with a reputation to make and from the manner in which he has started out he will soon have one. He is a fast, hard hitting little fighter and he will make Tywman extend himself before the fight is finished. Twyman needs no introduction. He is a veteran of the ring and knows all the fine points of the game. Both men are confident of winning and the crowd next Monday night can expect a real fight here.

TENNIS.

Four officers from Fort Benning will leave on Oct. 15th for New Orleans to represent the Charles S. Harrison Post, of Columbus, in the American Legion Tennis Tournament, which is to be a part of the athletic program of the convention. These officers are Major T. D. Finley and Captains J. S. Switzer, K. S. Whittemore and R. C. VanVliet, Jr. In these players the army and the Harrison Post are represented by as good tennis players as can be found throughout the army and this team should make a very creditable showing even against the best of the civilian players entered from other posts. Several officers of the student class are rapidly rounding into form and will also be added to the team before its departure Sunday.

Work is being pushed as rapidly as possible to put all courts in good condition for the Championship Tennis Tournament of Fort Benning to commence Wednesday, October 18th. The drawings for the tournament were made Oct. 14th, and can be found posted in the club lobby.

Six barrels of calcium solvay have been received and applied to the surfaces of the courts. This preparation will make the best playing surfaces obtainable and Fort Benning courts will soon be as good as any in the State.

24th's Dusky Warriors Vanquish Tuskegee

INVADE COLLEGE TOWN AND BRING HOME THE VICTORY AGAINST ODDS.

Saturday the 7th will be a date long remembered by the Tuskegee Collegians for on that date the 24th Infantry secured revenge for all previous defeats at the hands of the college boys. Despite a slow field and a wet ball the team representing the 24th Infantry proceeded to show the Institute players how the great game of Football should be played. The Tuskegee Tigers came on the field confident of speedy victory, but after the first five minutes of play the college boys knew it was only a question of the size of the score.

Thanks to the able assistance of the referee and the umpire the score was only six to nothing, but with taking away one clean touchdown and penalizing the 24th Infatry every time they got the ball in scoring position, could be expected more. Freelan starred with two fine runs of over fifty yards for touchdowns. To pick out stars would be to name the entire team, but special mention should be made of the work of the line and ends. Only one first down was made over the line and only three first downs were made in all by the college boys. The ends were right in there smearing the plays behind the line while the center for the 24th Infantry played bang-up ball.

A slippery ball made forward passes difficult to handle and the punting was not very good but the rain and soggy ball accounted largely for that. The 24th ran back all kicks in fine style and stopped the opponents in their tracks. The most encouraging feature of all was the way in which the Infantrymen followed the ball and recovered their own fumbles and most of the enemy's.

The 24th Infantry is being coached by Captain Roger Wilson and Chaplain M. W. Reynolds and show much promise. Some new material has reported in with the rest of the outfit and this week will see a fast game with Morris Brown College of Atlanta, at the 24th Infantry grounds.

Weeks Is Strong For Larger Army Than Provided For

SECRETARY OF WAR AND GENERAL PERSHING AGAIN LAY ESTIMATE FOR COMING YEAR BEFORE THE PRESIDENT.

The unshaken opinion of Secretary Weeks and his military advisers that the national military policy cannot be adequately sustained with a regular army of less than 13,000 officers and 150,000 men was again laid before President Harding by the war secretary, who was accompanied by General Pershing.

The conference had to do with estimates submitted by the war department for the coming year, calling for total appropriations of three hundred twenty-nine million, two hundred eighty-seven thousand, five hundred and eighty dollars as compared with current appropriations of three hundred forty million, eight hundred eighty-four thousand, one hundred twenty-two dollars. The army budget, however, still must be approved by the director of the budget.

Mr. Weeks made it plain that he had not changed in his belief that the present army of 12,000 officers and 125,000 men could not fulfill all the missions prescribed by the national defense act. The new estimates do not provide for an increase in the regular force above these figures, but Mr. Weeks has officially expressed the judgment of the war department that only the most urgent reason for national economy would warrant continuing the army at that reduced size.

The principal item in the estimates submitted comes under "support of the regular army," at $212,707,379, as compared with $221,411,512 for the current year. Included in that item, however, is the pay, subsistence, and clothing for all branches of the army, including the national guard, organized reserves, reserve officers training corps and other arms of the service, and the overhead expense of all posts, camps, schools, hospitals and other portions of the military plant used jointly by regulars, guardsmen and reservists.

The estimates provide increases for maintenance of the national guard and various training corps at the expense of the regular establishment in order to keep within the budget figure. For the guard $33,910,022 is proposed against $25,815,000 this year; for the organized reserves $2,628,109 with no exactly comparable figure; for the reserve officers training corps $4,401,000 as compared to $3,100,100 this year; for civilian military training camps $2,972,150 as compared with $1,800,000.

These figures with the smaller items made up a military budget for next year of $259,428,175 as compared to $275,356,681 this year. The non-military items, including river and harbor work, reaches a total of $65,890,375 as compared to $79,736,406 in current appropriations.

The estimate for the organized reserves provide three months training for 150 officers and fifteen days training for 15,000 officers with no provision for enlisted personnel of the reserve.

Civilian military training camps would receive funds sufficient to train 38,000 men next summer.

National Convention Of American Legion in Full Swing At New Orleans

CHARLES S. HARRISON POST, OF COLUMBUS, WINS RIFLE MATCH AND LEADS PARADE.

Parade honors went to the Charles S. Harrison Post of the American Legion at the National Convention now being held in New Orleans. This came about for two reasons. First, the local post, in its recent drive for new members, made the highest percentage in increase of membership of any post in the United States; and, second, the rifle team representing the Charles S. Harrison post won the National Legion Rifle Match.

The rifle score was 767 out of a possible 800 and the team was composed of Captains Eddy and Brown and Sergeants Mulqueeny, Ioger, and Smith, all of Fort Benning.

The parade, which was one of the largest ever held in the city of New Orleans, was headed by General Paul B. Malone, who is Vice Commander of the Charles S. Harrison Post of Columbus.

The big football game between the Infantry School and Tulane University will be one of the big features of the convention.

Crooks Impersonating Officers

WARNING ISSUED BY WAR DEPARTMENT.

Maj. Gen. G. C. Rickards, Chief of the Militia Bureau of the War Department, under date of Oct. 5, issued the following warning against men impersonating officers:

"The Adjutant General, state of Minnesota, has informed the Militia Bureau that recently a man of the following description, representing himself as Maj. Harvey Hayes, U. S. A., reported to the commanding officer, 135th Inf., at Minneapolis, Minn., stating that he had been sent by the Militia Bureau to check all property, especially finances, and to act as an instructor in paper work:

"Height about 5 feet 8 inches; weight approximately 135 pounds; build, slender; narrow face, pitted and freckled; dress, old uniform of issue type, braid on sleeve frayed, puttees without spurs; general appearance discredit to the Army.

"This man also called at the above named organization in company with an officer, representing himself as Colonel Godecke.

"A few days later 'Major Hayes' presented a check on the First National Bank of Minneapolis for $800, giving the name of Col. Earle D. Luce as a reference. He also contracted bills at several mercantile establishments which have not been paid.

"Both of these men intimated that they intended to proceed to other states, when their work in Minnesota had been completed and have thus far avoided apprehension by the police.

"These men are not agents of the Militia Bureau and it is requested that all concerned be notified to keep a sharp lookout for them and promptly advise the local police in case they make their appearance."

Officers To Be Demoted Be Advised In Advance

SUCH ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED FROM DICKMAN BOARD SOON.

An announcement is expected some day next week from the Dickman board as to the limit which it will go in its demotion policy. The board, as War Department Circular 197 indicates, has been working in this direction. This announcement will give the extreme limit that will be necessary to go in order to work out the demotion scheme which the board has determined upon in the next few days.

For instance, the announcement would indicate the highest major, captain and first lieutenant who is liable to be demoted. In all probability the board will go higher up on the list in these three grades than will eventually be required in a demotion scheme. The purpose of making this announcement will be to give the officers who do not desire to accept a commission in a lower grade an opportunity to apply for a discharge. Under the Comptroller General's decision an officer cannot apply for a discharge after the order for his demotion has been issued. He then either must accept a commission in a lower grade or he automatically goes out of the Service. There is a legal fiction that an officer is out of the Service between the times that he leaves the upper grade and accepts a commission in the lower grade.

It is not believed that there will be very many applications for discharge from officers who are indicated as liable to be demoted. This conclusion is reached from the fact that a number of officers who have asked for discharge have withdrawn their applications. Furthermore, under the Curry-Anthony act demoted officers will retain their present pay and allowances in the lower grades. While the present prospects for promotion are depressing, it is frequently emphasized at the War Department that the end of Army legislation is not yet. At the same time the Dickman board and the War Department, as indicated by its circular, are anxious to give the demoted officers an opportunity to get out of the Service under the most favorable circumstances if any of them decide not to accept commissions in a lower grade.

Medical Department Notes

The Nurses of the Station Hospital, Fort Benning, Ga., extend a cordial invitation to all officers of the post and their families and friends to attend a reception and dance on Wednesday evening, October twenty-fifth, at eight o'clock, at the Officers Hop Room.

Captain A. A. Roby, M. A. C., has been granted a thirty day leave of absence. Captain and Mrs. Roby will spend the greater part of the time touring Georgia and Florida in their automobile, which has been thoroughly equipped for camping.

Staff Sergeant L. M. Harned and Sergeant A. N. Mager recently went to Beason's Mills, Alabama, to get the former's car. It was impossible to move the automobile without "mule power." Imagine two mules hauling an eight-cylinder car over the hills of Alabama. It caused some amusement among the natives.

Sergeant W. C. Cullifer (in charge) and Privates Bueno and Moore as attendants left October 14 for Washington, D. C., with six patients who are to undergo further treatment at Walter Reed General Hospital.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 4.)

Company "E" was employed laying tracks, receiving and unloading freight and classifying material.

Company "F" collected, classified and stored pioneer equipment and supplies, and laid five miles of standard gauge railroad which involved building six pile bridges and the laying out of a railroad yard.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the work done, while in this vicinity, consisted of the wholesale disciplining of the Chinese coolies employed at Gievres. These Chinese had for some time been waylaying the soldiers and it was not until Companies D, E and F turned out en masse and sent not less than a hundred to the hospital that the Engineers were allowed to pass unmolested.

The latter part of April, division headquarters arrived in France and located at Barsur-Aube. The Infantry units arrived shortly thereafter and the division began training for combat service. On June 1st the 5th Division, less the 6th Infantry and the 7th Engineers, moved by train to the Vosges, in the vicinity of Corcieux, where the troops of the Division were given instructions by the 279th French Regiment. This work consisted of practice with live grenades, pyrotechnics and work of a similar nature.

Anould and St. Die Sectors.

On June 6th Division Headquarters moved to Gerardmer, and on the night of June 14th-15th, the first elements of the 9th and 10th Infantry Brigades entered the Anould sector in conjunction with elements of the 21st French Division relieving units of the 70th French Division.

Each combat group was held by amalgamated American and French troops, under the command of French Officers, with American Officers of the 5th Division present. The 9th Brigade occupied the northern part of the sector and the 10th Brigade the southern part.

The Anould sector covered a front of twenty-eight kilometers, stretching from the Fave valley on the north to Honeck on the south. In it were several of the highest peaks of the Vosges. It was cut with three passes, the Col de St. Marie, the Col de Bonhomme and the Col de Schlucht. The French first-line trenches crossed the summits of the peaks of Tete de Violu and Tete des Faux. From the observation posts, the plains of Alsace and the Rhine could be seen. The enemy had observation of the Meurthe, in the northern portion of the sector, from the posts on Dansant de Fete and also observation of the valley of the Favé and the valley leading up to the Col. de St. Marie. The old boundary between France and Alsace ran along the ridge, the French lines crossing into Alsace on Violu. The French, for the most part, held the high ground, including the tops of the Tete de Violu and Tete des Faux. In the southern portion of the sector, the lines were east of the ridge and in many parts the high ground, where ran the front line trenches, as at Schartz and Reichacker, were held by the enemy.

On June 30th, the 7th Engineers, less Company B, joined the division at Le Tholy and here commenced final preparation for entrance into the front lines.

During the first seven days the five companies continued intensive training in preparation for their work as sappers. On July 8th Company B joined the regiment and here, for the first time since leaving the States, the entire regiment was assembled. Companies A and B remained in Le Tholy until July 15th. On July 8th the entire 2nd Battalion and Company C left Le Tholy for the front. Company C made a three-day march of thirty-six miles to Laigoute via Xon Rupt and Anould, and, upon arival there, reported for duty to the sub-sector commander, commanding the 21st French Division, and commenced work in the 1st and 2nd line positions on dugout and shelter construction. Companies D, E, and F marched to Longemer, thence to Le Collet and were assigned to positions as follows:

2nd Battalion Headquarters—Camp Nicholas Superior.

Company D—Camp Levy Alvarez.

Company F—Camp Bouquet.

Company D was engaged in camouflaging front line trenches, reconstructing roads and trenches and operating saw mills. Company E was engaged in constructing the blue line and repairing the front line trenches. Company F constructed dugouts and trenches at Moliere and constructed and repaired camouflage screens. On the 13th of June, Company F was ordered to take over and hold, sector of the front line vacated by a battalion of the 6th Infantry on the latter's sudden relief.

It is of interest to note that the Second Battalion and Company C were the first American Engineers to enter German territory.

On July 14th, the 5th Division was relieved from the Anould sector and proceeded by marching and truck to the St. Die sector, which was just to the north of the Anould sector. This portion of the line covered a front of twenty-five kilometers and lay west of the high mountains in Alsace, and while hilly, was not as mountainous as the Anould sector. It was cut by three valleys, the valley of the Plaine, the valley of the Rabodeau and the valley of the Fave. It was a more important sector than the Anould sector, since it was the possible means of approach for the enemy; in fact, in 1914 St. Die had been occupied by them for seventeen days; they had penetrated to a distance of twenty kilometers east of that city. This sector was used by both the French and Germans as a rest sector for their tired troops, from more active parts of the lines, and up to the time of the entrance of the Americans, an interesting program of reciprocity had been adhered to.

There was excellent observation of the enemy lines, except where they were in the woods, especially from the mountains of the Ormont which separated St. Die from the enemy's lines, and gave observation for fifteen kilometers of the sector.

The enemy likewise had good observation, even of the streets of St. Die.

The conical shaped hill of Ormont gave them observation of our lines in the Ban de Sapt and enabled them to see portions of the Meurthe valley. In the valley of the Plaine their observation posts looked down upon the manufacturing town of Celles and from the high points between the valleys of the Rabodeau and the Plaine they could see the trains in Roon l'Etape and had views as far as Luneville.

In this sector the 5th Division again formed part of a French corps, and operated under French orders. An elaborate system of fortification was in process of construction by the French, and this work we took over and continued.

The 9th Infantry Brigade held the valleys of the Plaine and the Rabodeau, with brigade headquarters at Claire Fontaine; the 137th French Infantry were attached and held the northern edge of the sector, which was also the dividing line between the French VII and VIII Armies and adjoined the Baccarat sector.

The 2nd Battalion of the 7th Engineers was assigned to work in the the 1st Battalion in the area held by the 10th Brigade, whereupon the regiment took station as follows:

Regimental Headquarters — St. Die.

Company A — Nayemont-les-Fosses.

Company B—St. Marguerite.

Company C—St. Jean d'Ormont.

Company D—Valle des Ravines.

area held by the 9th Brigade, and Company E—Moyenmoutier.

Company F—Pierre Percee.

7th Engineer Train—Le Bihay.

While in the St. Die sector the regiment was engaged mainly in shelter work, in the front and second line positions. Practically all excavations were in solid rock and pneumatic and hand drills were used; other work consisted of road construction and repair, road camouflage, wire entanglement construction and repair, and trench construction, which included the building of concrete machine gun pits. In addition engineer parties went out with infantry patrols nightly, and harassed the enemy by blowing up his wire with bungalore torpedoes and destroying his "pill boxes" with cheddite bombs. The regiment remained in the St. Die sector until August 22nd, 1918.

EDITOR'S NOTE—On account of the unusually large amount of matter sent in for publication this week, news letters or parts of letters omitted will appear in the next issue.

A NUMBER of Officers were recently gathered together and, as is usual under such conditions, a variety of topics were discussed with the usual variance of opinions. The subject of the Columbus-Fort Benning road came up and after the air had cleared of the fog caused by the sulphurous remarks incident to the broaching of this subject one of the members of the group announced that he would consider it a good investment to pay a couple or so dollars each month for the purpose of having the road dragged daily. Naturally, such a remark brought forth comments of the impracticability of such a thing being done it being more or less the custom of human nature to find a reason for not doing something that needs to be done.

This Officer's suggestion appears practicable, however, when the probability is that the only thing that prevents the quartermaster from doing this very thing right now is lack of funds with which to buy gasolene and oil for the motor transportation under his control.

There are at least one hundred Officers living in Columbus who make the trip to the Fort, and return, at least once daily. Last year some energetic statistician—in his spare time—estimated that the cost of making a round trip from Columbus to Fort Benning was $2.25 or thereabout. Just what this gentleman based his estimate on is not known but it probably included, among other things, wear and tear of the car, wear of tires, gasolene, and oil. This estimate is probably nearly correct. Now, if two hundred Officers—and there are probably more than that number who own cars—contributeed one dollar each month for the purpose of buying gasolene and oil for a tractor to haul a drag over the road daily the saving to those who make daily trips over the road, based on the estimate mentioned, would be approximately $2.21 per day, less the amount of wear and tear usual over good roads and the cost of fuel and oil.

It appears that $200.00 would be sufficient with which to buy gasolene and oil for two small tractors and these machines hitched to a drag could be manned by two men each. The matter seems worthy of consideration by these Officers who make frequent trips to Columbus.

THE EDITORIAL STAFF of The News has been materially strengthened during the past week by the addition to the staff of Mrs. Albert E. Sawkins, Society Editor. Since the date of its initial number The News has realized that its reports of social activities have been unsatisfactory and for this reason a quiet search has been in progress for some accomodating person who was good natured enough to let The News impose on her to the extent of requesting her to go on a patrol for social news, the only compensation being a mere "Thank you" for a great deal of trouble and time. In order that Mrs. Sawkins may be assisted in her task it is requested that the Officers' wives furnish her with all information concerning social matters which they may have. The News is congratulating itself on its good fortune.

THE receipt of a copy of the "Fifth Corps News and Diamond Dust" is acknowledged. This paper is a consolidation of the old "Fifth Corps News" and "Diamond Dust," the Fifth Division paper.

The new paper is a real newspaper of eight pages, seven columns. The editor is an old hand at the newspaper game as is evidenced by the general appearance and news matter contained in the paper. The News is very glad to add this paper to our exchange list.

Motor Transport Notes

We are preparing for our winter dances. Owing to the fact of having changed mess halls we are a little behind, but never the less with the co-operation of our flat brush artist, John G. Brown, we hope to make our Thanksgiving Day Dance one of the best of the season. We ask the members of the organization for co-operation.

Recently our two hall room boys the (Bat) J. P. Morgan and the (Brute) R. R. Lee, paid Sugar Town, Ala., a flying visit in their newly painted Scripps-Booth.

One of our Old Timers and one time a pill roller in the Med. Corps is spending the rest of his 90 days furlough entertaining his friends in Columbus, Ga., giving an interesting line about his trip and the many places he visited while on leave. Come back, Moseley, and start on your three new ones.

Pvt. Dunn, better known as "Spare Parts," is back with us again after having returned from the Oil Fields of Oklahoma. After having spent four months on "French Leave" part of this time was spent on K. P. at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

The fishing season is about over which leaves Sgt. Dave Riggins the holder of the largest catch of the season.

One of our first huntsmen of the season, after awakening everbody in the married area, came back with one little pitiful squarrel. Wake up, Lott, and get instructions from your 1st Sergeant.

Quest.: Say, what makes a guy when he gets a letter from his best girl smile so?

Medical Department Notes

The first reception and dance of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club was held on the night of October 17, 1922, in the Mess Hall of the Medical Department.

Among those present, in addition to the Non-Commissioned Officers of the hospital were, Lieut. Col. J. W. Van Dusen, Major and Mrs. Cooper, Captain and Mrs. J. R. Sands, Major Moulton and Major Parsons. The affair was further enhanced by the presence of the nurses, and friends from town.

The music was furnished by the 24th Infantry Band.

Refreshments consisted of coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cake.

The dance terminated at 10:45, and every one on leaving remarked on the pleasant evening spent.

The Medical Department of the post is well represented at the National Convention of the American Legion which is being held at New Orleans, La., this week. Three Medical Officers namely—Captains Callahan, Chesser and Vadala, also three enlisted men—Staff Sergeant Lester, Sergeant Shirtzinger and Private McGuire.

The Misses Louise and Jewell Andrews, of Columbus, Ga., spent the week-end with Sergeant and Mrs. L. D. White.

General Paul B. Malone Is At Legion Convention

FORT BENNING WELL REPRESENTED AT NEW ORLEANS WHERE GENERAL SPEAKS.

Brig. General Paul B. Malone, Commanding General of Fort Benning in the absence of General Gordon, is in New Orleans at the time this article is written in attendance upon the American Legion Convention being held in the Queen City of the South. While in New Orleans General Malone will deliver one of the important addresses at the convention.

Much interest in the Convention has been aroused in Fort Benning and the city of Columbus and a large delegation from this vicinity are in attendance at the convention. A Tennis Team composed of officers of the Fort are representing the Harrison Post of Columbus in the Tennis Tournament, while on Saturday the Big Blue Team from the Infantry School will stack up against some red hot competition when they bump into Tulane.

While the writer might pose as a Prophet and the son of a Prophet, yet he would hesitate to pick the winner—this much is certain, if the Infantry plays the football it knows and has been taught by Major "Shrimp" Milburn, the Doughboys will bring home the bacon, but errors of omission and commission such as shown on Saturday will bring disaster to the Army.

Boxing Resumed At Fort With a Bang

FIVE EXCELLENT BOUTS START OFF SEASON IN FINE STYLE.

Monday night saw the resumption of boxing at Fort Benning and everybody who was present saw five most excellent fights. No one could fail to feel that they had had their money's worth for the management added one extra bout that was a ripper from start to finish. There was fierce fighting enough to please the most bloodthirsty and a fine lot of scientific boxing.

This is but the beginning of a season of excellent fights. It is not the purpose of the reporter to deal with the fights in detail. That will be handled by the athletic reporter but Friday evening will see the continuation of boxing when the Fort Championships are determined in a series of elimination bouts. The bouts Monday were but a curtain raiser for these bouts which will occur every few nights until the tournament is over.

All the followers of things fistic will have a week of most satisfactory entertainment for the men of the post are very much in earnest as the winner of the various classes will be the contestants from Fort Benning for the Corps Area Tournament that is to be held in Atlanta.

New Post Hostess Arrives

MISS CAROLINE V. ROE NOW IN CHARGE OF SERVICE CLUB No. 1.

Miss Caroline V. Roe arrived at Fort Benning last Tuesday evening and has now assumed the management of Service Club No. 1.

For several months the Service Club has been without a War Department hostess but has been very ably managed by 1st Sergeant and Mrs. Ray Massengale, of the 83rd Field Artillery. Both Sgt. and Mrs. Massengale have made many friends while managing the Service Club and have not only improved the general appearance of the club but have also increased the attendance at the Wednesday evening dances to the point where the floor is ordinarily crowded.

Miss Roe has had a number of years' experience in work common to Post Hostesses. At one time she was engaged in welfare work in New York City but at the outbreak of the war she accepted a position with the War Department in connection with the welfare work being conducted in the Army at that time. She was stationed at Camp Merritt, New Jersey, and was hostess of the first service club in the Army for enlisted men. Miss Roe comes to Fort Benning from Fort McPherson, where she has been Post Hostess for some time.

29th Infantry Notes.

Correction.

Through a typographical error the last sentence of paragraph 1 of General Winn's commendatory letter was made to read, "The demonstrations have been held without the 29th Infantry." In printing two words were omitted. The sentence as written by General Winn should read: "The demonstrations could not have been held without the 29th Infantry."

The following letter is also of interest to members and friends of the 29th:

Treasurer's Office
CITY OF LAGRANGE, GEORGIA.
Sept. 14, 1922.

Gen. W. H. Gordon, Commandant,
The Infantry School,
Fort Benning, Ga.

My dear General Gordon:

In the absence of the Mayor, Mr. Dunson, I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 11th inst., addressed to him.

I think I can confidently speak for Mr. Dunson, as well as myself and all other citizens who came in contact with the officers and men of the battalion of the 29th Infantry during their short stay in LaGrange, in saying that it was a distinct pleasure to all of us to have had the battalion with us and to have had an opportunity of extending to them such welcome as our limited opportunities made possible.

The behavior of the men of the battalion while in LaGrange was entirely in line with the best traditions of the Army and Major Williams and his officers were as agreeable lot of gentlemen as we care to know.

We trust that it will not be a great while until we again have an opportunity of entertaining detachments of your command, at which time it is hoped that you will, in person, accompany them.

I will take pleasure in conveying to the gentlemen enumerated in your favor of above date, the sentiments of appreciation you express.

Cordially yours,
D. A. LEMAN,
Treasurer.

Artillery News Notes.

Nineteen men from the Coast Defenses of Pensacola, Fla., are to be transferred to the 83rd Field Artillery shortly. They will be given a hearty welcome by the battalion, which faces a heavy schedule shorthanded.

Lieut. Earl M. Peckinpaugh left yesterday with the Infantry School football team, for New Orleans, where Tulane University will be met tomorrow.

The battalion football team is practising daily for its next game, a week from Saturday, by which time, it is hoped, Sergeant Tertany, sterling linesman, now in the hospital, recovering from an injured knee, will be able to take part.

The polo team scored a clean cut and decisive victory over the Yellows last Sunday by a score of 13 to 4. The Yellows' score was made entirely by handicap, and they were at no time within scoring distance of the artillery goal.

Lieut. W. A. Beiderlinden, No. 2 for the artillery, broke two post records during the game when he scored eleven of his team's goals, counting five of them in one period, the second.

The polo team meets the 29th Infantry riders in the first game Sunday.

When the first sergeant told me that I was 'signed to the C. M. T. C. he kinda paid me a compliment. He said the Company Commander said I was to go down there an 'ncourage them student soldiers because if they seen that a guy like me was allowed to live in the regular army they wouldn't give up so quick trying to be soldiers. A lotta of them hard-boiled stiff sergeants and nordinary sargeants what always get the goldbrick jobs was buzzing around the headquarters and a lot of looies trying to kid somebody into thinking they didn't have to knock to get into the orderly room at there own companies. I stepped up to a desk and slooted a guy there, and he was kind of a fresh guy too. What the hel are you high-ballin' me for he says. If you must do it, there's a whole flock of generals and majors and things in the next room; gwan in there and work your arms like a pump handle. If I didn't see your collar ornaments I wouldn't have known your disgracing a perfectly good regiment; I'd thought you was a stoodent. I seen that same guy in a ford sedan once and I thought sure he was nooficer. I'd like to know how a guys goin' to tell em any more with stiff sergeants and master sergeants and even low down corporals riding around if they was somebuddy. Well i said to the guy that so fresh that Id come to report for duty to number 10 company. He says go ahead and let the Lord have pitty on you.

Anyways I found it. After i drew a lot of stuff more 'n I had up at the barracks the Sply-sergeant, only he was a corporal, he got sore at me and said you triple-platted dumbbell whyinhell didn't you say you wasnt a stoodent. Everybuddy down these seemed to think I was a C. M. T. C. and when they found out I wasnt they got sore at me. Taint my fault that I didnt look like some of them snotty guys that are always haing there snoots fixed up and there leggons just so and there hats on strait. When a guys naturally homely he's got to do them things; but there's others that dont have to do that to look right. I don't want to throw no bokays at myself but i never had to doll up to tract the attention of them girls up by the round house on pay day, they just seem to do a gnemun when they sees one without looking at his leggins an his suit like a Saturday inspection.

Anyhow the top kick down there, only he was a private first class, he said to me how long have you been in the army? I says two years and he says it takes a long time sometimes, but anyways, take that squad out on the area and tell them something about slootin.

So i got them C. M. T. C.s back of the latrine where it werent so hot and where we could sit down without having to jump up every two minutes for some guy that you couldnt tell whether he was nooficer or not, and I told them about slootin, i says the best way to tell is by what kind of car there in. Sloot everything but a ford touring car for only mostly top kicks have them. Motor sickles don't never have any officers in them except sometimes in the side car and then they going so damn fast that you can allus take a chance; and besides they usually have there minds on the hereafter in one of them things and don't pay no attention to salutes or things like that. Nuther good way to tell, I says is by there leggins only you got to look on both sides of the leggins because a lot of them artillery guys has got officers liggens on one side and they fool you and they always keep that side towards you. Then I told them to look out for cooks because some of them officers dress just like cooks all in white. Then I told them about the mistake I made in slootin a guy near our barracks the other night. I yelled tenson and a gave a snappy one and then found out it was only the top kick in his underwear coming from the bath house. There's a whole lot of things that an nold soldier like me can put them young stoodents hep to. Then I told them about hats. How the infutry officers were blue hat cords and how the artillery wears yellow and all them things that i learned when I was a recruit. Then I told them about bars and eagles and things like that. I says look out for the gold bar on a nofficers shoulder because that's the sign that he is a general; not just a mojor general but a brigadier general, like General Pershing. Some fresh guy said something about major generals being higher up than a brigadier and i shut him up mighty quick by asting him which was the highest brigadier or a battalion what a major has. He was a stoodent from Oklyhoma; them Oklyhoma guys is always fresh. I come from Arkansas myself and I can't stand them Oklahoma duds. You never can teach them nothing. Then I told them about be careful to sloot in churches and places like that that the D. E. M. L. or what ever that book is says so. Then I remembered bout some officers are kinda queer about it; and I told them bout another experience I had. We was having spection when we had a new Company Commander and he was asting me bout mu close and things and every time he ast me something I slooted as he sais to the top for Gods sake tie that mans hands.

We was getting along fine that wise guy that was supposed to be top kick come along up behind me and listened what i was saying and he said that'll be all for today; you men forget everything you've bin told and as for you he says you go into the kitchen and tell the mess sergeant that I want you to teach K. P. by actual demonstration. Some of these guys are always jelous minded.

Finance Detachment Notes

Sergeant Robert Kenney, of New Orleans, was a pleasant visitor to this office last Friday evening. It is hoped that Sergeant Kenney soon becomes a member of this detachment.

Private Tillerson says he was on the verge of starvation during his brief stay at Augusta Arsenal, which is evidenced by his enormous appetite now.

The Finance Department came very near to throwing a spell of heart failure the other day when it was thought that they would have to give up their happy home in building No. 52521, but the quick and efficient work of Major Gralund, who is ever mindful of his men, succeeded in preventing such a disastrous move.

Private Stokes (the human sphinx) surprised the whole detachment the other morning. He smiled and said good morning.

Sergeant Dobbie, the Hottentot Chief (Clerk) is gradually becoming accustomed to office routine after two months furlough — several friendly remarks having heard passed between him and Corporal Short.

Corporal White (the Tea Hound of the detachment) is very much at ease now that he has found a place where he can secure a hat and a pair of shoes large enough for his head and feet respectively. He stepped in a garbage can the other day and unconsciously walked off with it, thinking he had found a shoe.

Corporal Purvis, our new abstract clerk, says the boys are always playing jokes on him—they are continually moving the keys on the typewriter in order to make it hard for him to find them.

Zabe Ayers, our big cashier, is now official chauffeur for Private Banda. If Zabe continues he should soon be able to drive a Ford.

The newly oiled floor of the Finance Barracks has served two good purposes, namely: Keeping down the dust and forcing bimonthly baths on Master Private Cliett—our speedy mail orderly.

Verna Peoria Clarise Vera Marguarite Miller claims that old age does not cause her grouches—maybe it's the Dam-p weather, eh! Verna.

After doing his stuff before the crowned heads of Europe and the bone heads of America, Sergeant Bennett says it is all wrong in doing his stuff before an Underwood.

Another conversation with Hipocket Ayer's carrying the main points as usual, seemed to show evidence that $1.00 was lost through an error of some Corporal.

It is believed that with a few more years' practice and with the purchase of a few more I. C. S. books, Banda will soon be able to speak the English language.

Private Stokes took a hilarious pleasure trip the other day—took a lunch and went out to the cemetery for the day.

On Tuesday, October 17th, 1922, about 1:00 p. m., Private Friedenthal of the Finance Detachment complained of having a severe pain in the abdomen. Upon further investigation it was found that Friedenthal's dinner consisted of the following:

11 Frankfurters
1 lb. spuds
3 plates cabbage
1 plate English peas
1 loaf bread
1 plate corn
1-2 gallon coffee
1 lb. sugar
1 quart sweet milk
5 pieces potato pie.

A prize of one corrugated Fountain Pen is offered for the best solution as to the cause of Friedenthal's pain. All contestants must submit their answers to the Finance Detachment not later than 3:00 p. m., January, 1943.

24th's Dusky Warriors Triumph Again

Morris Brown College, of Atlanta Goes Down in Defeat Before the 24th Infantry

Saturday afternoon saw the 24th Infantry add another scalp to its string of trophies. The victorious record of the base ball team is being duplicated by the foot ball team. The luckless outfit that stacked up against the 24th this week was the team representing Morris Brown College, of Atlanta, and tho the collegians brought down a big squad who had vivid recollections of a victory of the previous season, their hopes and expectations were all dissipated in the first few moments of play.

The play soon moved over into the college front yard and after six minutes of play the ball was shoved over the college line for a touchdown on a long end run by Freelan. The rejoicing was soon stilled as the officials had seen one of the 24th's backs in the act of tripping and as a result a heavy penalty carried the ball well back and the touchdown was lost.

In this march down the field the fighting spirit of both teams was in evidence and Sgt. Herrod, plunging back, was carried from the grid with a cracked skull and a Morris Brown end was out with a couple of missing teeth. The tackling was fierce and the college especially shone when it came to hitting them about the shoe tops and bringing them down with a crash. No less than a dozen players had to be replaced due to the fierceness of the play.

The 24th Infantry was not to be denied, and after surrendering the ball on downs Green intercepted a forward pass and raced down the field for a touchdown. A place kick went bad and the score was six to nothing. Play was resumed and the half ended after the ball had been exchanged several times with the ball in the Infantry's possession on the college 15 yard line.

The second half opened with the College kicking off to the 24th and a march down the field began that saw Oliver carrying the ball two plays out of three, an off tackle play on the six yard line saw Hill go over untouched for a touchdown. The Morris Brown team elected to receive and the ball was soon in the hands of the Infantry. Here a long forward pass, Hill to Freelan, scored a touchdown before the College realized what had happened. Another pass scored the extra point and the score was 19 to 0.

At this point the 24th rushed in a lot of subs to give the men of the squad a chance to show their stuff and the Morris Brown team sent in a new man to the backfield who seemed to give the entire team fighting spirit. An apparently new team for the college rushed the ball down the field play after play with steady gains and at last bucked the ball over the line for their only score of the game. The attempt to score was blocked and the 24th Infantry received the ball on the kick off and started down the field. Time was called just as the 24th was in position to launch another offensive.

From every angle the game was a good one and one that was replete with good plays and exciting moments. The entire team deserves much credit for the way in which they delivered the goods and it looks as tho the 24th is off on a big season. To single out any one man and mark him as star is almost unfair to the other members of the team, but Oliver, a new man in the back field, was there in every play and could always be relied upon for distance.

Practice this week has been strenuous in preparation for the game with Alabama State Normal College on Saturday and a number of new faces will be in the line-up during some part of the game Saturday as a dozen of the best men from the balance of the regiment have reported for practice.

Q. M. C. News Briefs

Oh, Boy! Here is the Q. M. C. line for the News, hope we don't step on anybody's toes, but there are still plenty of shoes in Clothing Warehouse No. 3. If you don't believe us ask Sgt. Pitchford. He has a pair of 15 EE's that are to be issued to Speedy Gilliam as soon as he wears his 14 1-2 EE's out. Note: His feet get a size larger every year.

Private Leslie O. Taylor (Leslie O'Goof) came back from furlough the other day and he says the trip cost him a cool five hundred dollars ($500). Wonder what bank he held up?

Old man Andy Gump says, "Upon my being elected to Congress the first bill I will introduce is for steam heat to be put in all cemeteries and a gratuitous issue of rolling pins to women."

Gentlemen, there is a new arrival in the Detachment Automobile row in the shape of a Ford of the vintage of 1910 or earlier from all appearances. The proud possessor of this ancient chariot is our ex-mechanic, R. L. Edge. He is a good driver and can change gears as fast as the weather man can change his mind. His car is in excellent condition with the exception of a top, transmission gear bands and brake bands, but he is going to buy these in the 5 and 10 cent store, and then watch out, boys, your sweethearts will forsake you as soon as they see this latest model Ford on the streets.

Vukovic was recently given a try out at the Commissary in the delivery department, and was heard to say, "You check him in and I check him out."

Pvt. Miles N. Harris, one of the ex-Chinamen of the Detachment, recently decided to take one of the feminine species for "Better or for WORSE?" We are sorry to lose him in his favorite pastime of raising the ante a nickel but still wish him the best of luck in his fight and hope that all of his troubles will be little ones? ?

Friends of Private Upton wish him a speedy recovery from the effects of a broken arm through trying to twist the mule's tail. Excuse us, we meant the ancient Chevrolet that Speedy Gilliam is the proud possessor of. Serves you right, Red, you should have never gone away from Fort Benning unless you had Speedy along, as his ugly face is soothing syrup for all balky things, including Chevrolets.

Bracye and Johnson can be seen any night in a U-Drive-It and especially on Saturday nights. We would like to know when they are going to stop chasing the chickens? in a Ford.

Any nice young girl wishing the life long companionship of one of the most handsome young men in the Quartermaster Detachment who has for bad habits none except that he drinks, chews, cusses when he feels like it and likes to stay out nights, also has plenty of money every pay day after he gives the Detachment $27.50 of his $28.00 salary, please communicate with Private Marion Davis, Q. M. C. Detachment, Fort Benning, Georgia.

Nicknames are getting to be very popular in the Detachment. Here are a few of the most common: Web Foot, Scar Face, Leslie O'Goof, Little Edge, Big Edge, Saw Mill, Buzzard, Papa Davis, and Bob White.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Some of our "Gentlemen who sell chips" seem to think they are fooling us when the " raise the pot" and "cut four bits" at the same time. If you don't believe this ask Red Austin, he knows.

We notice that Privates Robertson and McCrae have purchased themselves a pair of gloves. They must be using their hands a lot these days.

Private John F. Stine is visiting friends in Columbus. His return will probably be announced through these columns.

Wonder if "Spud" Murphy needs an assistant—if he does please let us suggest that Private Harry O. Pritikin be relieved from duty at Headquarters and detailed as assistant—his "orful" mug combined with that squirrel grin—helped out with the added attraction of "Spud's" cigars (or rather weeds) ought to keep anything from entering the Detachment door. Perhaps that will also help some of the boys to save their money as they won't draw so many canteen checks. Look out, A. & R. Fund, as that will cut down the sale of show tickets also.

Red Lawson, the famous truck driver, was taken to court in Americus last Saturday for wearing a false face in public.

Private Portman has just returned from Atlanta, where it is understood that some one in that city did not like the reckless movement of his feet. What did it cost you, Portman?

Private Hartley, the local home wrecker, will visit Columbus Sunday night with the intention of wrecking more homes. Whose is it this time?

Our esteemed Mr. Lloyd and another slum burner bought a Tin Lizzie. Guess the roads between Camp and Columbus will be kept warm now.

Private Harry Smith states that he is going to be married soon. We hope that it will last longer than his car.

If you don't know nothing and want to know som'pting and where it is—who owns it—what it's about—where he, she or it works—what there is to it—when you can get or see it—what it is like—is it any good—did it come from the bend in the river—and just anything you want to know, just call 59 and ask for Mack—if he "ain't" there, Rough Neck Higginbotham might be able to give you the desired "info."

Weekly Dances At Service Club No. 1

LARGE CROWD OF COLUMBUS GIRLS ATTEND.

On last Wednesday evening one of the most attractive dances that has been given was held at Service Club No. 1.

Three machine gun busses brought a crowd of the young ladies of Columbus out and this crowd was further supplemented by the wives and daughters of the enlisted men at the Post.

Due to the fact that the 29th Infantry orchestra was in New Orleans for the American Legion Convention, music was furnished by a Columbus orchestra. This music was especially good.

Refreshments were served during the intermissions and the evening was very pleasantly spent by those who attended.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Speaking of making new commands at the Infantry School, we have a new one on the school at that. A certain man in the company is the originator. Column left, forward, march, is only one of his many commands.

When it comes to handing out tips to the men who help pull a car out of a ditch, you have to hand it to Brooks. Ten dollars is only a small tip according to that individual, who hands out the ten bucks and says that is all the change he has and will be around later and make it right.

Are we going to make Sharpshooter? Ask Pvt. Scharle. He says, "If it wasn't for the rifle, there would be no trigger squeeze, if there was no trigger squeeze, there would be no bull's eyes, and if there were no bull's eyes, I wouldn't get three dollars more a month. But what is three dollars when you have to work so hard to get it?"

When out riding in a Ford, Pvt. Miller doesn't know whether he is riding in a chicken house or a Ford. At least he calls it a COOP.

Pvt. Williamson says, the harder you pull the trigger, the farther the bullet will go. In that case, Norman, you should send the bullet about fifteen miles.

When asked what business he was in on the outside, Cpl. Nelson said that he was a traveling salesman. Atta boy, Nelson, you're still taking orders.

How dry I am, how dry I am. Oh, where is the 9th street bridge, I want to get to Alabama. Will someone kindly show Cpl. Adams the way to Alabama, so he will keep quiet when he is in Columbus.

Pvt. Peters wants a furlough in November, to go to Philadelphia. Good luck, Peters, only we hope we can have the pleasure of meeting her when you get back.

If you want to see Mary's little lamb, come to the 1st Gas Regt. Pvt. Cockelreas will give you a good idea of what the lamb looked like. Everywhere the fellows go the lamb is sure to follow.

Grantham, of Headquarters company, in the fights which were held on the night of October 16th, polished off Kid Earle, of Columbus. Earle must be given credit for being a plucky fighter, as he came back strongly after being floored for so many times. Earle's only chance to win was by a knockout, and it simply couldn't be done. Grantham is a coming fighter, the last bout being his second ring appearance in Benning. He claims that he will have all their scalps on his belt before he retires. Luck to you, boy.

Arrangements for the vaudeville show have been completed. The program will follow later. Those in charge give their assurance that it will be a real show.

Lieut. Jaynes is looking for the person who kicked the football through the windshield of his gasoline baby buggy.

The football team has been having secret practise during the past week. As to the success of this we will wait and see how they stack up against the Freebooters today, the 18th.

1st Lt. Jesse T. Harris, late of the 29th Infantry, has reported for duty with the Battalion and has been assigned to Co. "B."

Sgt. Squirrel, who claims to be a good swimming instructor, well versed in the art of putting on a life preserver, has started a correspondence school course. Claims that he can teach you to swim in three easy lessons by mail. No water necessary. You can learn in your squad room. Five minutes a day for a week will make you like a duck. Be a hero. Save a drowning girl. Don't go near water until you are an expert. Send five dollars for free booklet. Clip the coupon below. Don't delay. He will also teach you to dance, sing, talk in public, blow a bugle, beat a drum, drive a tank, ride horseback, be a pearl-diver, and write articles for the Fort Benning News at the same time and for the same price in your own squad room. This coupon means five dollars to you. Send five dollars, money order, cash or canteen checks, and get his ten-dollar free booklet.

Mason can be added to the list of those who spend their nights on Howard's busses and in parlors. One of those fellows who have a long life in a short space when the bug hits them. He claims his girl says she is getting a smart fellow. No one can be smart and be a husband at the same time. At any rate, three cheers for the poor fellow; he looks and sees not, eats and feeds not, listens and hears not, goes to bed and sleeps not. Two can live as cheaply as one provided the man is twice as cheap as the girl, and she wastes nothing but her life.

Kotter, of Co. "C," has been spending the last week around the mess hall door. He claims that he is getting in practise, as he is discharged on the 19th. It is claimed that he met with serious reverses at the chow house of the M. T. C. No. 100. A pancake griddle hurtled through the air at him, and as he dodged, a masculine face appeared and shouted at him, "Yo' niggahs stay away from my mess hall do', this am no free lunch countah." It's getting cold in Superior now, Dutchy.

Sgt. Maxham has been trying to cultivate a mustache. Evidently it was not a success, as it has been removed. From all appearances his better eighty per cent. must have made him get rid of it.

Did you ever hear Head, of "B" company, hand out the inside dope about the ward for the insane at the Post Hospital. Well, he knows the place from cellar to attic. He claims that all his information is based on actual personal experience. Of course, far be it from us to cast any reflections.

Boone, of "C" company, is the boy. He thought he was going to get away with it. Only for the fact that one of my detectives possesses almost super-human qualities when looking for real news we would have been unable to tell you about him. He is going to be married Saturday in Columbus. We offer our sincere congratulations to Boone and his bride-to-be, whose name we were unable to obtain. What's the use when she is going to change it anyway?

Good progress is being made with our play. Several members of the cast of "Up One Flight" held a rehearsal Saturday night on the original setting, in order to get the atmosphere. The latter was present, from all indications. This play is coming along nicely, although there were several interruptions by blundering members of the Knights of the M. P. (Don't misconstrue this for the English meaning.) No members of the cast were lost through these interruptions, so all is well. It is hoped that other secret and fraternal orders will not lose any of the people of the land through the mistakes of the misguided and ignorant Knights of the M. P.

Rumors are flying thick and fast about a certain young man; hair pins and everything are being found in his car. I will not say a word until I get the official notice as trouble might result. Is it true, Rudolph Valentino, or are you just joshing us?

Since publishing the rules last week articles are pouring in left and right. Everybody is trying. Co. "B" leads the rest. Keep it up. The contest gets harder each week. Write your story now. New Rules.

16. When writing in pencil, use only lead pencils.

17. Pencils must be sharpened. Articles written with broken pencils will not be accepted.

18. When writing a deep story, use tissue paper so that one can see through it.

19. Teeth marks on the envelope flap show bad taste in sealing story.

20. When putting on stamps, get them as near to the envelope as possible.

BOXING.

That the continuation of monthly boxing bouts at Fort Benning is welcomed by the personnel was evidenced last Monday night when a crowd of 1700 turned out for the bouts given that evening.

The first bout, a four round affair between two light heavyweights from the 24th Infantry, got the crowd on its toes and made them anxious for more. They were gratified when Pacioni from the tanks took on Barnett from Atlanta for six rounds. Pacioni had not trained for this fight and did not give the best exhibition of which he was capable because of lack of condition, but even at that he made Barnett extend himself and immediately after the bout challenged him for an eight round bout in November. It is probable that this will be staged next month as Barnett accepted the bout later.

Sebukaty, on account of having been injured in the Infantry-Tennessee football game, was not in shape to meet Dundee, as scheduled, but challenegd the latter to a bout for ten rounds next month. Dundee accepted and fight fans have a treat in store for them when these two meet. Pomrantz substituted for Sebukaty and, notwithstanding the fact that he was outweighed and outclassed, he put up as game a fight as has been witnessed in a long time. Dundee won but he had to fight to do it.

The next fight kept the crowd on its toes, figuratively speaking, all the time . Grantham, the "dark horse" from the Tanks proved that he is no longer a dark horse in his eight round go with Earle from Columbus. In one of the rounds Grantham floored Earle a number of times and it looked then as if the game little Columbus fighter was going to have to take the full count. On the count of "nine" each time he was knocked down, however, Earle came back for more and later in the fight succeeded in giving rGantham a black eye. Grantham had Earle outclassed and won easly.

In the man go of the evening Twyman showed his admirers that he is still the unbeaten man in his class. He and burns of Atlanta mixed it for ten rounds and, as somebody expressed it, both men hit each other with everything but the arena posts. This bout was full of action from start to finish. Burns turned the moral support of the crowd to Twyman when he refused to shake hands with Twyman after the latter had accidentally delivered a questionable blow. Incidentally this action on the part of Burns seemed to peeve Twyman somewhat because he had Burns holding on after the incident. Twyman won.

Taken as a whole the evening was a success and but a forerunner of similar future evenings.

The Fort Benning Boxing Tournament starts as The News goes to press and for this reason the results of the first night's bouts cannot be published until next week.

The following bouts are scheduled for Friday night:

Pvt. Lee Pomerantz, Hq. Co., 29th Inf., vs. Pvt. Thomas Maddox, 83rd Artillery.

Pvt. Ernest Akers, Hq. Co., 29th Inf., vs. Pvt. Forrest Dill, I. S. D.

Sgt. H. M. Hatfield, 15th Tanks, vs. Pvt. Thomas C. Erdos, 83rd Artillery.

Cpl. Joseph Mack, 15th Tanks, vs. Pvt. Eugene Moore, Co. C, 29th Inf.

Pvt. William McKay, 83rd Artillery, vs. Pvt. Peter Lupice, Co. F, 29th Inf.

Pvt. George Schafer, 15th Tanks, vs. Cpl. Jessie Timmons, 7th Engineers.

Pvt. Frank LeBlanc, 15th Tanks, vs. Pvt. H. G. Hunt, 83rd Artillery.

Pvt. Joe Alonzo, Co. C, 29th Inf., vs. Pvt. J. W. Helms, Co. F, 29th Inf.

On monday night, the 23rd, the following boxers will fight:

Sgt. Frank Sebukaty, I. S. D., vs. Pvt. Herman Neah, Hq. Co., 29th Inf.

Pvt. Jack Pacioni, 15th Tanks, vs. Pvt. Gabriel Otalvaro, Co. F, 29th Inf.

Cpl. C. Mizwa, vs. Pvt. William H. Branner.

Pvt. B. E. Grantham, 15th Tanks, vs. Pvt. James T. Reilley, Co. D, 29th Inf.

Pvt. Arnold Justice, Co. F, 29th Inf., vs. Pvt. John Head, 15th Tanks.

Pvt. William Keenan, Co. D, 29th Inf., vs. Pvt. William F. Twyman, I. S. D.

Some familiar names and a number of unfamiliar names appear among the above. There will be times in various bouts when the present champion will be hard pressed to retain his title for another year and—alas—there may be a time when the present champion will lose to some newcomer who proves himself the better man.

There will be eight bouts for the first evening and six for the second. All fights are preliminary bouts for the purpose of elimination and will be for but four rounds of two minutes each.

There will be no admission charges as no purses are given and the incidental expenses of the bouts will be borne by the Athletic and Recreation Office. The bouts begin at 7:15 p. m. and will be held at the new arena near Service Club No. 1.

The following officials have been announced:

Referee, Capt. William P. Morse.

Judges, Capt. Gustav J. Braun and Capt. Willis D. Crenkhite.

The public is invited to attend all bouts.

FOOTBALL

The "Terrible Tanks" opened their football season yesterday afternoon at the Service Club Athletic Field, Fort Benning, by trouncing the special units aggregation of the 29th Infantry, known as the "Freebooters," by the impressive score of 76 to 0. It was not even a good practice game for the "Tanks" as their opposition knew little of the fundamentals of the game and lack aggressiveness.

The "Tanks" started scoring within two minutes after the opening whistle. Swantic kicked off. A few scrimmages and then Sharpe intercepted a "Freebooters" forward pass. Wooten then got the ball and ran 30 yards around left end for a touchdown. Paleas failed at the try for point. A few minutes later after Swantic had kicked off the "Freebooters" again had a forward pass intercepted by Wooten who ran for a touchdown. Paleas kicked goal. Swantic again kicked off for the "Tanks" and the "Freebooters" fumbled on "Tank" 40 yard line. A "Tank" man fell on the ball. On the first play Paleas ran around right end 60 yards for a touchdown. He failed at goal.

With the score 26 to 0 the supporters of the "Freebooters" called on them to halt the slaughter. It was of no avail as Swantic kicked off and the "Tanks" recovering the ball on their own 30 yard line Sullivan on a triple pass ran 70 yards for a touchdown. It was the feature play of the game. Paleas kicked goal.

A few minutes later the "Tanks" coming within the shadows of their own goal posts, Paleas dropped back to the 20 yard line and made a beautiful drop kick. The score was now 36 to 0.

The first half ended after Sharpe had dashed 65 yards around the left end of the "Freebooters" for a touchdown. Paleas failed at goal.

In the second half the second string men of the "Tanks" who had been in the game since the beginning of the second quarter, continued playing. Swantic was the only regular in the line-up. Swantic was kept in there for his kicking ability. The second half opened with the "Free-booters" showing stiffer resistance. However, Swantic penetrated their defense for another touchdown and Paleas kicked goal. Another touchdown came a few minutes later when Sharpe intercepted a forward pass and ran 50 yards for a marker. Paleas failed at goal. As soon as the "Tanks" got the ball again Sharpe threw a long forward pass to Paleas, who ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Paleas kicked goal.

For the next score the "Tanks" employed two spectacular forward passes and 20 yard end run by Sharpe. Paleas failed at goal. Sharpe scored another touchdown a few minutes later on a long end run and Paleas failed at goal.

Then came the prize play of the season. Swantic kicked off and a "Freebooters" man called for a fair catch on his own 15 yard line. The "Tanks" soon got the ball and Mabry intercepting a forward pass ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Paleas kicked goal. The final score was 76 to 0.

The "Freebooters" made three or four successful forward passes but never threatened to score. They held the "Tanks" once for downs.

A large crowd was present and Major John Leonard, the Commanding Officer of the 15th Tank Battalion, had his entire unit out to cheer his team. The "Tanks" had some assembly yells and attracted attention by the spirit in which they supported their players.

As the First Battalion, 29th Infantry football team, the Post Champions of last year, only defeated the "Freebooters" by the score of 15 to 0 about three weeks ago, it behooves the "champs" to be wary.

The next game scheduled is next Wednesday when the 1st Battalion 29th Infantry and the 2nd Battalion 29th Infantry get together. The feathers will fly in this battle as there is just as much spirited rivalry between the battalions in the 29th as between the "Tanks" and the 1st Battalion.

Infantry School is going to have to fight hard to defeat Tulane this afternoon. In 1920 no southern team crossed Tulane's goal line and in 1921 Auburn was the only southern team to defeat the Crescent City aggregation.

Even though Tulane has a strong, fast team it will not be any walkaway for her because the Infantry has something of a team also and when the final whistle has sounded the Doughboy team will have given the Tulane team the impression that there has been a football game played.

POLO.

Last Sunday afternoon witnessed the downfall of the cocky Blue team. This team conceded a two-goal handicap to the strong 29th Infantry team and as a result the final score was 7 to 2 in favor of the latter team. Poor team work throughout on the part of the Blues with the good organization and stick work of the 29th Infantry team combined to bring about the final score. French of the Blue team was badly off his stroke while McKinney, ordinarily a star performer, failed to deliver a tally on account of lack of practice. Neither Weems nor Legge played with their usual form and the substitution of Elkins for French at No. 2, with French relieving Legge at No. 3 did not appear to help matters. The 29th Infantry team "rode circles" around the Blues and outplayed the latter in every phase of the game.

In the second game the Artillery gave the Yellow team a handicap of four goals and ran up the result of 12 to 4, favor of the Artillery team. The Yellow team is more or less still in the process of organization and, while it is weak yet on both teamwork and hitting, when the big tournament starts this team will give a good account of itself.

In the game Sunday Beiderlinden was the star of the occasion. Time after time he took the ball down the field on a dead run and shot it between the goals. McCarthy ably seconded Beiderlinden and the Artillery team as a whole played polo as it should be played.

Next Sunday the games will be as follows:

29th Infantry vs. 83rd Artillery.

Blues vs. Yellows.

TENNIS.

Owing to the heavy rains of the early part of the week the Singles Tennis Championship tournament of Fort Benning scheduled to have begun Wednesday afternoon on the reservation courts was postponed until Saturday afternoon. In the meanwhile the Tennis Committee of Fort Benning is feverishly working to get the courts in shape to play the tourney.

Four of the outstanding tennis stars of the reservation are at New Orleans participating in the American Legion championships. They are Captains R. C. Van Vliet, Major Tom D. Finley, Captain John S. Switzer, and Captain Kenneth S. Whittemore. This quartet is expected to return in time to play next Wednesday.

While many of the tennis sharks at Fort Benning are predicting that the singles championship will be won by one of the above named officers there are many others who believe that a dark horse in the shape of "Al" Perwein of the 29th Infantry will be in the finals. Perwein has always been a runner-up in the tourneys at Fort Benning and this fall he is in great form and is expected to win out.

Sanitary Dept. News Notes

(a) The drinking of water from any source other than the Post water mains is prohibited by Post Orders. There are several sound reasons for these orders. The popular idea that spring water is pure because it is clear as crystal and cool, is absolutely wrong. Water may be clear and still be loaded with impurities. All of the well known springs about the Post have been examined and found impure and positively dangerous to use. Many of these have been posted. The artesian well at the Experimental range is an exception to this rule.

In spite of this persons are seen drinking from the following springs, which are known to be impure:

(a) Spring across from Fussell Dairy, at Lumber Yard No. 2.

(b) Various springs in Swimming Pool Ravine.

(c) Spring north of the M. T. C. (End of 9th Street.)

(d) Spring north of the 29th Infantry corral.

That few bad results have followed this dangerous practice is because the amount of impurities actually swallowed has not been enough to overcome the resistance of the body. This resistance is made much greater by the typhoid vaccine. Naturally those not so protected by the vaccine (women and children) are taking even greater chances than the soldiers in drinking from the unauthorized sources.

The Post water supply is carefully and painstakingly prepared so as to be perfectly safe for drinking purposes. It would be of interest to visit the filter plant and pumping station. The gross impurities are first allowed to settle, then the water is filtered through sand and gravel, lastly, chlorine is added so as to render assurance doubly sure. Every week the water is tested in the laboratory, the sample being taken from a tap.

With such safe and excellent water at your disposal, why take chances on drinking polluted water?

Signal Corps News Items

Capt. Jay D. B. Lattin, Signal Corps, having reported to this station from Camp Vail, New Jersey, he has been assigned as Post Signal Officer.

At last the telephone communication system on the Forrest Preserve is completed, camp has been broken and the men returned to their duties within the post. All three towers are now connected with the Post switchboard.

The Signal Corps had been expecting a carload shipment of material for the target range communication system. Last week this office was notified that a carload of material consigned to the Post Signal Officer was enroute to Fort Benning, and instructions were requested as to where the car should be spotted. The necessary instructions as to spotting the car were communicated. The wires were kept hot for some time in obtaining a detail of men, necessary trucks, etc., to unload the material. Everything was in readiness to commence construction immediately upon the arrival of material. But, sad to relate, when the car arrived it was found to contain macaroni. It is admitted that for the past few school terms the target range communication system has been improvised with field wire, out post wire, G. I. wire and various other articles too numerous, but, as it could not be decided upon as to what use the macaroni would be put to on the target range, the Signal Officer decided not to try to use the material. Well, to make a long story short, the target range communication system is still waiting material.

NURSES ACT AS HOSTESSES TO CAMP

VERY PRETTY DANCE AT OFFICER'S HOP ROOM WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Wednesday evening the Officers' Hop Room was the scene of a most delightful party when the members of the Army Nurse Corps stationed at Fort Benning entertained the Officers of the post and their friends.

The hall was most tastily decorated in Hallowe'en colors combined with autumn leaves and the orchestra of the 24th Infantry was placed behind a rising moon with rays of orange and black making a most pleasing effect. Many who have been long at Benning were unanimous in saying that the hall looked the best ever. A whispered word was that Captain G. J. Braun had aided the nurses in the matter of decoration.

Promptly at 8:30 the guests were conducted to the receiving line and were welcomed by General and Mrs. Paul B. Malone, Lt. Col. Van Dusen, Miss Maude Bowman, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Hansel, Major and Mrs. Cooper, and Lt. Weidemeyer. The dancing at once was in full swing and many joined in the festivities of the occasion.

Chow call was sounded at 10:15 p. m. and the old army mess line was at once in full swing. Delightful refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served with Miss Kingsley and Miss Michener pouring. Fruit punch was served throughout the evening. After a brief intermission dancing was resumed until Home Sweet Home sounded at 11:45 when all departed after expressing their thanks to the young ladies for a very pleasant evening.

The committee who had the dance in charge are to the congratulated on the great success of the evening for every one went away voicing their praise of dance, music, refreshments, punch, and last, but by no means least, the hostesses of the evening.

Question—"Where is the Frigid Zone?"

Buck's answer—"Just inside the orderlie room door when you brace the Captain for three-day pass around pay day.

THE INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM SQUAD

The Infantry Rifle Team Squad from which was selected the team which carried the colors of the Blue and White in the National Matches at Camp Perry this year. Our representatives won more individual and team matches than did those of other Services and were defeated for first place in the National Team Match by a margin of but ten points.

Officers on duty with the Infantry Team at the tryouts at Fort Niagara this summer availed themselves of every opportunity to be of assistance to the units of the N. Y. National Guard which were in training there. The two-and problem, on which the Infantry Match of the National Matches is based, was staged for instruction of the officers and men of the guard. Above is a picture of those who handled the problem both from the firing point and in the pits and who made the run for the record of a perfect score.

BETTER PICUTRES PROMISED FOR FORT BENNING

REPRESENTATIVE FROM WAR DEPARTMENT VISITS POST.

One of the chief causes for complaint on the part of patrons at the nightly motion picture shows at Fort Benning, to-wit, the poor subjects and the poorer condition of the films, is going to be remedied at once, judging from the statements made by a representative of the War Department who visited Fort Benning during the past week.

The primary purpose of this visit was to investigate the repeated complaints on the part of the theater management in connection with the poor quality of pictures being furnished by the various film exchanges and, after having gone into the matter thoroughly, Mr. James J. Bayard stated to a representative of the News that not only would the subjects furnished be decidedly improved but the films sent to Fort Benning would be in first class physical condition.

To give an idea of what we may expect for the month of November, the following list was furnished the theater management:

Nov. 5—Turn to the Right; Torchy's Frame-Up.
Nov. 6—Fightin' Mad; Mutt and Jeff; Fox News.
Nov. 7—Bits of Life; Supply and Demand.
Nov. 8—Spanish Jade; The Leather Pushers (Round 1).
Nov. 9—Man to Man; Fox News.
Nov. 10—Burn 'Em Up Barnes; Pathe Review; Rolin Comedy.
Nov. 11—Gilded Cage; Say Uncle!
Nov. 12—Orphans of the Storm; Duck Hunter.
Nov. 13—The Black Bag; Mutt and Jeff; Fox News.
Nov. 14—The Lotus Eater; The Vagrant.
Nov. 15—The Man From Home; The Leather Pushers (Round 2).
Nov. 16—Jackie; Custard Nine.
Nov. 17—Me and My Gal; Pathe Review; Rolin Comedy.
Nov. 18—The Young Diana; Nothing Like It.
Nov. 19—Cardigan; The Cop.
Nov. 20—Sherlock Brown; Mutt and Jeff; Fox News.
Nov. 21—Polly of the Follies; Our Gang.
Nov. 22—South of Suva; The Leather Pushers (Round 3).
Nov. 23—Out of the Dust; Fox News.
Nov. 24—Her Night of Nights; Pathe Review; Rolin Comedy.
Nov. 25—Sisters; Love and Doughnuts.
Nov. 26—The Dictator; "I Do."
Nov. 27—Trimmed; Mutt and Jeff; Fox News.
Nov. 28—Peck's Bad Boy; Honor of Ramiriz.
Nov. 29—Good Provider; The Leather Pushers (Round 4).
Nov. 30—Trooper O'Neill; Fox News; Wild and Willy.

Further information on each of these pictures will be published in detail in the columns of the News each week. Some of the subjects are practically unknown, but with such pictures as "Turn To the Right," "Orphans of the Storm," "The Man From Home," "Polly of the Follies," and "Peck's Bad Boy," the program for November is certain to be a success.

Mrs. A. E. Sawkins, Editor.
Post Phone 192.

The Army Bridge Club of Fort Benning, called for convenience the Fort Benning Bridge Club, met about two weeks ago to elect officers and enroll members.

Mrs. Malone, wife of General Paul B. Malone, presided and expressed in words the deep regret of all present that Mrs. Gordon, wife of General Walter B. Gordon, was unable to be present due to the prolonged illness of Mrs. Gordon. Due to this illness it was felt that Mrs. Gordon would not feel able to be the active head of the club, and for this reason Mrs. Gordon was named honorary President.

The officers of the club were elected as follows, after Mrs. Malone had expressed a desire not to be the active President:

President, Mrs. McCaskey, wife of Col. W. B. McCaskey, G-1.

Vice-President, Mrs. Anding, wife of Col. Sheldon W. Anding, of the Field Officer's Class.

Sec'y-Treasurer, Mrs. Walker, wife of Major Fred L. Walker, instructor in the Infantry School.

On last Thursday afternoon the club had a very pleasant meeting, about one hundred ladies playing. The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Anding, Mrs. McCaskey, and Mrs. Walker.

The next meeting will be a week from next Thursday. Playing begins at 2:00 and stops at 4:00. Tea will be served from 4:00 to 4:30.

A Children's Hallowe'en Party will be held at the Officer's Hop Room, Fort Benning, on Tuesday afternoon, October 31st, from 3:00 until 5:00 o'clock.

The cost of admission will be ten cents and the proceeds will be devoted to the purpose of buying equipment for the Fort Benning Grammar School.

This affair is going to be delightful for the children and the grown up as well. There will be a great deal to see and do and plenty of good things to eat. There is going to be fine home-made candies and a real fish pond with snatch bags and everything.

Tickets have been placed on sale at the Post Commissary, Post Exchange, Service Club No. 1, Officer's Club, Biglerville Mess, and in Columbus at the office of the Howard Taxi & Bus Co., Joe Brown's, The Cozy Tea Room, and Wheat's.

The Howard Bus line has made a special rate of 25 cents for the round trip to ticket holders living in the city. Special busses will leave the Howard transfer station at 2:15 and 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The Army Bridge Club of Columbus met last Thursday afternoon at Joe Brown's Tea Room for play. About fifty ladies were present. The hostesses were Mrs. J. D. Pomerene, Mrs. Lloyd Cook, and Mrs. J. A. Andrews.

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. John C. Raaon and Mrs. Edward H. Connor entertained about fifty ladies at the Officer's Hop Room, Fort Benning.

The decorations were suggestive of Hallowe'en and consisted of chrysanthemums, dahlias and zinnias, which were displayed with artistic effect. Place cards were yellow, carrying out the Hallowe'en idea.

After the games a delicious course of salad, sandwiches, nuts, and teas was served.

The first prize, a Madiera handkerchief, was won by Mrs. John S. Moore, the second prize, an attractive guest towel, was won by Mrs. Troy Middleton, and the consolation, a set of candles, was cut by Mrs. James M. Graham.

On last Tuesday afternoon the Ninth Infantry Bridge Club was entertained by Mrs. L. H. Rhoads at her home on Britt Drive in Columbus.

An attractive luncheon preceeded the game. High score was made by Mrs. Paul W. Mapes.

Among those present were Mrs. Lippincott, Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Valverde, Mrs. Finley, Mrs. Lugton, Mrs. Caulkins, and Mrs. Foley.

The next hostess will be Mrs. Jesse R. Lippincott.

LADIES EQUITATION CLASS STARTS IN NOVEMBER.

The ladies equitation class for the wives and daughters of officers at Fort Benning and in Columbus will start Monday, November 6th. There will be two classes, one of which will be held on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week and one which will be held on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays.

The classes will meet from 9:15 to 10:15 in the mornings at the Infantry School corral near the west end of the Post. Ladies desiring to join classes should notify promptly the Chief of Second Section, Department of General Subjects, Infantry School, giving the name, rank, and duties of their respective fathers, husbands—or sweethearts. No entry may be made where the age is less than sixteen. In making application for enrollment it should be stated what classes the lady desires to join.

MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN BLOCK 23.

New Porches Completed and With Painting, Etc., Make Improved Appearance.

The much needed improvements in Block 23 are nearing completion and with the application of the final coat of paint the block presents a much improved appearance. The alterations are greatly needed and add much to the livability of these quarters. All who live there appreciate this new arrangement greatly. While at times it has been inconvenient in every way to have painters and carpenters under foot and has been trying to ones patience, yet now that the work is almost finished the added room is so greatly appreciated that no one objects to the discomforts suffered.

The new quarters are beginning to look like they might be completed before many more weeks and the Camp Quartermaster states that everything is all but ready for the start on the large group of quarters that was provided for in the last appropriation. The big holdup in connection with this building project is the wait for the return of the approved plans from Washington.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 5.)

Company "A."

On the evening of July 19th, Company "A" marched through Nayemont-les-Fosse, turned sharply to the left and pitched tents in a pine grove, where the company remained for several weeks. After a rest of several days the work of digging dugouts, repairing roads and camouflage began. On the evening of the 29th of July a detachment under Lieuts. Winnia and Moynihan penetrated the enemy lines and cleared old trenches of barbwire. Although no enemy patrols were encountered, the men felt a certain thrill of delight, as they knew they were on forbidden ground.

The chief work of the company now consisted in the construction of bomb proofs and strong points. This work was done in conjunction with the 6th Infantry in the front line trenches. Here the men became accustomed to the sound of gas horns and occasional artillery duels.

Considerable excitement was caused one night when an enemy patrol was discovered in "No Man's Land" and a miniature Marne was staged on Herman-pere mountain. That same night a detail sent with dynamite to destroy an enemy "pill box" met a Boche patrol, and after a short engagement in which hand grenades and machine gun bullets were poignant factors, the enemy was forced to retire.

On the morning of August 17th, during the capture of Frapelle, Company "A" received its first baptism in real war. Frapelle was the village in the enemy's lines on the northern edge of the Fave valley, the enemy lines here forming a salient in ours. The 33rd French Corps, pursuant to instructions from the 7th French Army, ordered the capture of Frapelle and of Hill 451 with a mission of holding the position and closing the valley of the Fave to the enemy. The attack was made by the 3rd Battalion of the 6th Infantry with its attached machine gun company, one-pounder and Stokes Mortar sections, three platoons of Company "A" 7th Engineers, and the 13th Machine Gun Battalion. The attack was supported by the artillery of the 5th Division and the French Artillery in the sector, with a preparatory and destructive fire lasting ten minutes, and followed by a rolling barage. The artillery cut three passages thru the enemy wire and at four o'clock in the morning the men went over the top, thru fierce enemy counter barrage. This attack was a severe test for unseasoned troops, but the Engineers, many of them carrying twenty pounds of cheddite, played the game like veterans and at seven-thirty reached the objective. The front was advanced one kilometer on a front of two kilometers and a dangerous salient eliminated.

Although Company "A" suffered almost 20 percent casualties during this attack, they continued their work of destroying the enemy shelters and mopping up dugouts. The total casualties of the company were three killed and twenty wounded, two of whom died later.

Although this operation was a very small one, compared with what the regiment later went through, for intensity and concentration of fire, it was never equalled in either the St. Mihiel or Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Private 1st Class Chas. T. Sampson was the first man of the 7th Engineers killed in action. He was killed by shrapnel just as he climbed out of the trench.

Chas. E. Germain was killed while returning with his platoon from the captured town of Frapelle.

Guiseppe Abernalle was severely wounded during the early part of the engagement by a shell, and died before first aid treatment could be applied.

Carl J. Boyer, formerly librarian at Leavenworth, was twice wounded by rifle bullets and died on the following day.

Herbert I. Wilson was struck in the spine by a piece of shrapnel and died two days later.

Those severely wounded were Corporal Edward Paulin, Private 1st Class Cecil C. Chapman, Alvin C. Eaton, Edward M. Abercrombie, Privates John J. Ney and Clayton J. Lane.

Master Engineer Chas. J. Laird, Sergeant Jos. A. Daley and Corporal Lionel Raboin were slightly wounded.

The Frapelle engagement marked the only change to this front in three years. That it disturbed the German High Command was evidenced by the German official communique of August 18th, as follows:

"Army Group of Duke Albrecht. —In the Vosges our advanced posts along the Fave, as far as Frapelle, withdrew according to order under a hostile local attack."

In his official report covering the operation, Brigadier-General Walter Gordon, commanding the 10th Brigade commended the 7th Engineers very highly for the part they played in the engagement.

Company "B."

During the period that the 7th Engineers were in the St. Die sector, Company "B" was stationed at St. Marguerite. Details were sent out on various work, some constructing shelters in the front line, others on dugout work, in the second position. Three saw mills were operated continuously by details under charge of Sergeant Vivian A. Whitehead, Corporal Carl L. Gibson and Private 1st Class Grandin E. Drake. The power dam at Le Bihay had been washed out the previous fall and a new dam was constructed on the site of the old one. The entire company was at one time at Le Bihay constructing Ribard wire and while on this established a record on wire construction which was never equaled in the A, E. F.

On the night of August 17th, four men from Company "B" took part with the three platoons of Company "A" in the attack on Frapelle, and during the five days following, the entire company assisted in organizing and wiring in the captured ground.

Company "C"

Company "C" was located on a wooded reverse slope near St. Jean d'Ormont. Here there were good shacks with bunks, and as there was plenty of water available this was an ideal camping ground. The work was mainly on the second resistance line, and consisted of constructing dugouts and machine gun emplacements, and putting up barbed wire entanglements. Work was done on about twenty dugouts. Compressed air for pneumatic tools was available in many cases, making good progress possible. In early August three small details were sent out on patrols with the 11th Infantry and on the nights of August 9th and 10th three parties went out to blow German wire in front of the company sector. About 8:00 p. m. on the 17th the Germans bombarded the camping area for fifteen minutes, and here Company "C" received its first casualties: Corporal Brandon and Saddler Riley were wounded and evacuated to a hospital.

Company "D"

Company "D" at Vallee des Ravines was engaged in work on the second line positions, which consisted of dugout construction, saw mill operation, details operating with divisional infantry patrols, and making reconnaissances and sketches of all trenches, machine gun emplacements, dugouts and bomb proofs. The company constructed six large dugouts in this sector, of logs, rock and earth, with an overhead covering of twenty-seven feet. Two dugouts large enough to accommodate an entire company of infantry were started and completed; each dugout was blasted from solid rock and had three separate entrances.

THE THEATRES at Fort Benning for some time past have not been giving the service they should have given to patrons. There have been two reasons for this. The first is that the theater management has no control over the type of pictures being sent to this station, and the second is the poor facilities with which the management is equipped with which to exhibit good shows.

Both of these handicaps are expected to be removed in the not far distant future. Better pictures have already been promised and the list of shows coming for November, given in another column, is promising. The matter of erecting a new theater is a matter which concerns the entire post. None of the building now being used for motion pictures are suitable for such exhibitions. The Post Theater is probably the least suitable of the three. This building is an old remodeled cow barn and its construction is such that it cannot be made attractive. The new theater must be completed with funds other than regular appropriations, and with this in mind it behooves the entire garrison to turn out in numbers to the present theaters and thereby, by the increased attendance, help to make available funds with which to carry on the work of the new theater. Fort Benning is now participating in a share of the profits from the theaters and the amounts received monthly depend entirely upon just what attendance the theaters have nightly. The quotation, "The Lord helps those who help themselves," may be said to apply in this instance and the officers of the garrison, especially, are urged by the theater management to get behind the movement for a nightly average attendance of 1400 and put the idea across. The monthly income to be derived from this attendance is approximately $1,000.00, and this amount of money each month would soon make the new theater a reality rather than a project.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB, the Calisthenics Club, the Equitation Class, and the Bridge Club should give the ladies of the post sufficient facilities for exercise, both mental and physical. Possibly one of the clubs looked upon with greatest suspicion by the married element—or, we should say, the male married element—of the post is the Calisthenics Club. By saying this it is not intended to cast aspersions on this club. But, from the chance remarks let fall from time to time by certain members, certain methods of defense and offense are taught behind closed doors, the ultimate design of which is problematical. In these progressive days when women's rights are so much in evidence there is no telling what will happen next. All married men are urged to take up polo, football, boxing, tennis, or some other violent form of exercise.

THE CHILDREN'S Hallowe'en Party, which takes place the latter part of this month, should receive the support of every married couple in Fort Benning and Columbus. The proceeds from this little party are to be devoted to the needs—and there are many—of the Fort Benning Children's School. This school is at present entirely self-supporting to the extent that it is financed by the tuition paid by parents. This tuition is barely enough to provide for the salaries of competent teachers and such incidentals as books, tablets, and other school materials have to be provided from other sources. The Hallowe'en party is an effort to raise funds for this purpose. The bachelor officers, especially, are urged to buy tickets and attend the party. The maximum amount that can be spent will not be over two dollars, and beside having a good time with the kids, there will be enough fun, at ten cents a throw, to warrant the expenditure.

Quartermaster Departmen News Notes

Anyone seeing a man with a small badge on their proud breast need not be scared as it is only the Fort Benning Fire Department. We have to put badges on them so that people will not mistake them when they are attempting to put out a fire.

Sgt. Wellman (our ex-Detachment Clerk) is still driving his Overland around although he has broken two springs and had the pleasure of exploring the inner parts of his wonder bus to see if he couldn't make two out of one. We are real glad he enjoys his car but at the rate he has been going we are scared he will need a new one every year or so. He has great aspirations since he became Purchasing Clerk as he now talks about getting a Willys-Knight in 1924. Good luck, old man, evidently you intend to stay your full 30 years.

Bill Siegmund is still talking about retiring from the Army, we think it is about time we were relieved from a few of his growls, but don't be scared as it has been proven that he is perfectly harmless.

The Detachment was very sorry to lose their past Detachment Commander, Capt. Freeman B. Daniel, who has resigned from the Army to pursue his practice of law in civilian life. Watch out, criminals.

Cpl. Maffett and Speedy Gilliam still have their hourly argument about who is the prettiest man in the Detachment. We all wish to remain neutral as we would hate to hurt anybody's feelings.

Cpl. Eadler is being given a week's rest from charge of quarters while Sgt. Wellman sees that all of the boys are properly tucked in bed every night, and we hope that Cpl. Eadler won't have to worry over these little things for at least another week. Somebody says that he just loves to do his charge of quarters. He is welcome to them as far as we are concerned.

From the looks of things Pvt. Minger must be planning to follow in our friend Harris's footsteps. He is getting to be a regular lounge lizard, or whatever term that class of animals is called at present.

We see that the commissary is expanding a good deal since they got our ex-baker, Pvt. Mattox, on the fruit stand. All they lack now is the peanut roaster.

The twins beg to be excused from the limelight this week as they are playing a championship pool game every night.

Pvt. Fred Willett, our mule skinner, can still be heard with his line of talk around the pool room any time from 4:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. Admission free to any of his entertainments.

We are still waiting for invitations to the wedding of Miss Reade. Guess it will be about 1924 before we get them.

TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY NEWS.

BORN.—To Lieutenant and Mrs. A. E. Fogelberg, Oct. 19, a son, Arvid Edward, Jr.

Lieutenant F. H. A. McKeon and family returned on Sunday from leave spent very pleasantly with relatives in Brooklyn.

Our Band accompanied the delegates from this vicinity to the American Legion Convention in New Orleans. The men are most enthusiastic over their reception at the convention and by the people of the city and as is usual with such a fine upstanding bunch of men, when they left for home there was much weeping and wailing. The regimental post office force is said to be working overtime because of the large increase of daily written and perfumed letters arriving from New Orleans.

Artillery News Notes.

The battalion football team is looking forward, after two weeks of rest, to its next game, that against the 29th Infantry Freebooters, Wednesday afternoon. The full-back position has been strengthened by the return to the game of Sergeant Marsh, a dependable back of last year, who did not play in the first game. Several new faces will appear in the line, also. Coaches Peckinpaugh and Hendley believe their outfit, although very light in comparison with the competition it will meet, is yet sufficiently fast to make trouble for its opponents.

If steady work at long hours, coupled with the excellent line coaching of Lieut. Peckinpaugh, will further improve the artillery line, whose scrappiness and fast charging impressed spectators at the first game, that with the heavy machine of the 29th Infantry 2nd Battalion, the Freebooters will not have much luck with it. The artillery defensive weakness in the first game rested only with the ends, whose errors in play have been considerably corrected. The opportunities for long runs against the cannoneers this season will come only when those two victorious tacklers, Marsh and Samlavich ,are caught sitting down.

Special Train To Carry Rooters To Auburn

Running time to Auburn will be one hour. The special train will make return trip from Auburn after the game, definite time will be announced later. The return train will make the trip to Fort Benning.

A dance will be held in the Auburn gymnasium Saturday evening.

The game starts at 2:30 p. m. Local season tickets are not good as this game is under the entire control of Auburn.

Motor Transport Notes

Private Crawley (Our Human Talking Machine), is again with us after an absence of one month visiting friends in Tent City. While there he was stopping at Hotel De-Teachout.

A certain Sergeant was seen stepping around here last Sunday in a pair of WalkOver shoes like a cat when its feet is tied up in a paper bag. Anyone wishing a pair see Sgt. Wallace.

Our Ex-Speed Cop Pvt. William S. Saulter, one of the best tenor songsters in the Fourth Corps Area, was discharged on October 26, and will play the Eastern Circuit. His address for future reference will be as follows: His first stop will be at the Miss-Meal Theatre, Chicago; next stop will be at the Reveille Theatre, New York; last stop will be at the Recruiting Office Theatre in Washington, D. C., in "Dear Old Stars and Stripes, How I Miss You."

The Fur-Lined Cuspior

The fur lined cuspidor was devised by the Infantry Rifle Team so that some recognition might be given to those who, thru some deviation from accepted usage of former performance, came thru with some markedly unusual performance during the Infantry team tryouts. It was so much a feature of the work at Niagara that it was carried along to Camp Perry and was awarded at the National Matches, where prior to the decision as to its recipient, it basked in glory along with the Wimbledon, Herrick and other historic trophies. It has now been incorporated as an annual feature of the Infantry's work.

It might be thought at first glance that shots of the caliber of those who attended these Matches would not be apt to commit faults of either omission or commission, but statistics do not sustain this belief. On the contrary we find these selected experts registering hits on the wrong target, taking windage the wrong way, making errors in elevation correction and all the other faults which all of us common mortals also commit.

It is even of record that men have come up to shoot on a range and found that, while they had their rifle, they had failed to bring their belt with them. There is one instance of record where a well known shot reported out at the range and then discovered that he had all of his equipment with him except his rifle. One of the common errors was to carefully set elevation on one rifle and then when the time for firing came, go up on the firing point with a rifle on which there had been no correction made.

As is the case with the distinguished marksman medal, three legs are required to attain possession of this beautiful trophy.

LIEUT. ROTHROCK MAKES HIGHEST RIFLE SCORE.

The entire company commanders' class in rifle work has qualified with various ratings, in its recent course on the range at Fort Benning, according to official information from the headquarters of the Infantry School. Lieutenant A. D. Rothrock made the highest score in the class, with 328 out of a possible 350, and Captain F. S. McLaughlin made a close second with a score of 327 to his credit.

The company commanders' class consists of 253 members, and the fact that all qualified is considered remarkable by authorities. Out of the 253, there were 147 to qualify as expert riflemen, 97 as sharpshooters, and 33 as marksmen.

Signal Corps News Items

The reporter of this column, having for the past week been busily engaged in transferring Signal property to the new Signal Officer, has been unable to scout news for this week's column, and as the time is drawing near for the News to go to press, and not wishing to see this issue of the paper appear with this space showing only a blank white space, at the eleventh hour decided that something must be found for the readers of this column, and this something must be something worth while. We finally hit upon the point, that as we had been connected with the Infantry School since its organization at Fort Sill, Okla., in 1914, and have seen its great growth year by year, and as much has been said pro and con about the rapid advancement and great accomplishments of this institution, perhaps the rapid growth and achievements of its ally, the Signal Corps, might be of interest to the readers of the News.

Little did we dream when the Infantry School pitched its temporary camp in Wynnton in the fall of 1918 and the Signal Corps was allotted one little corner of the farm house which was set aside as Camp Headquarters, that this activity would in the short space of time spread out as it has. When the permanent Post, now the site of Fort Benning, was opened again the Signal Corps was assigned one corner of the upper floor of the Post Headquarters building. This space was for some time found sufficient to meet the needs. But alas, as this great Infantry School, known world-wide, began to branch out into larger fields of activity, the Signal Corps naturally branched with it.

It was soon found necessary to assign an entire building to the Signal Corps activity to house the telephone exchange, Signal Office, warehouse, etc. In the early part of last year the new Kellogg Common Battery Switchboard with facilities for accommodating 400 telephone lines, adequate trunking service to Columbus and Private Exchange of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry was completed. It was thought by all, both local officials as well as the officials of the Chief Signal Officer's office, that this installation would meet the needs of Fort Benning for some time to come. But, strange to relate, in a little over a year the new telephone installation has reached its capacity, several requests for telephone service are being held in suspense due to the now overloaded condition of the system. A move is now on foot awaiting the approval of the Secretary of War to increase the capacity of the system to meet the present, as well as the growing demands. It might be of interest to note that at the present time aside from the trunking service to Columbus, and the Private Branch Exchange of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry, four hundred and fifty-seven telephones are now connected to the Post system.

In passing, while dwelling on the growth of the communication side of the Signal Corps from a forty drop board to an overloaded six position Kellogg board, a few words on the personnel side might be in order. When the Signal Office first opened activities in Columbus the personnel consisted of one commissioned officer, one non-commissioned officer and two privates, while the present personnel consists of one commissioned officer, ten non-commissioned officers and twenty-five privates.

During the life of the Signal Corps at Camp and Fort Benning, this office has been under the charge of the following officers: Lieut. Kuntz, Capt. Monk, Lieut. Bayley, Capt. Clarkson, Major Milliken, Capt. Carson, Lieut. Bruns, Lieut. Forrest, Capt. Back, and the present Signal Officer, Capt. Lattin. Of these officers, Lieut. Kuntz and Lieut. Bayley have left the service; Capt. Monk met his death while directing Signal Corps activities, and Capt. Carson has been retired through disability.

During the past week four men have been assigned and reported to the Signal Corps, one Pigeoneer, two telephone operators, and one linesman.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

WARNING—Look out, girls of Columbus, for it is being whispered that our stay-at-home and smake efficient wielder of the stencil cutting machine, Sergeant A. Lamadrid is coming to town immediately after pay-day. BEWARE.

WANTED—One hair curling iron. ORG.

It seems that the Detachment has quite a few poets lately. Here's a piece contributed by Michael Halpan, S. D. F.:

Flag Pole Transportation.

I was working in an office, with the manager's job in sight,
When Uncle Sam requested that I go out and fight.
I didn't kick about it, or tell him I had flat feet,
But jumped right in, and in two days was standing retreat.

And after the fight was over, and things had settled down,
He asked me to stay awhile and help guard around the town.
So I re-enlisted to help Uncle Sam
straighten out,
And now that he's through with me,
I get the old foot route.

I was supposed to get a bonus, but they soon put the "Kibosh" on that,
Then they cut my pay and left me almost flat.
Now, to top it off and to make it real sweet,
They give me my discharge and say,
use your feet.

One thousand miles to walk in the winter's blizzards and sleets—
It may be good exercise, but it's darn hard on your feet.
After doing my stuff for six long years to make this country free
They give me Flag Pole Transportation and leave the rest to me.

It's a long, long trail to that little town in old P-a.,
But I'll get there if it takes a year and a day;
And when my foot rests on that old doorstep so dear to me,
I'll advise 'em to stay away, and just let me be.

It looks like Bill Stewart is going to get out of the Supply Room at last, as Sgt. Richardson, who recently transferred to the Detachment from the 29th, can be seen daily busily at work in Bill's old hangout.

"Cooties" must be getting bad in the I. S. D., as Albert has cut off his mustache. Maybe that is one of his campaign agreements and a plank of his platform, as he has never announced one as yet.

A certain fellow in this Detachment who doesn't want his name in the paper wants to get married. Any girl of Columbus or Fort Benning who wishes to be married, apply or write Service Club No. 1, Fort Benning, Ga., for details. Who said Shadwell?

Master Sgt. Grinstead has a new addition to his family, a girl, which makes him two boys andtwo girls, a pretty good poker hand (2 pair).

Two more men have reported for duty. Private Ralston, who has been in the personnel office, and Private Murray, formerly on duty with the Q. M.

Private Burrell Holder has purchased his discharge and is now working in a Columbus garage.

The Detachment gained five men last week: Jack Ross, Claud Crowley, Elmer Belton, Frederick Sanders and Douglas Reid. We are glad to see them start their service in a good outfit.

Our Skipper, Capt. Buracker, has been transferred to the 24th Infantry, but will remain in command of the detachment.

One of our Master Sergeants states that if he has ever caused any one to worry trying to get them to inquire in regards to his tribe of little ones that he is very sorry, but that there was a little bird on a twig of a limb on a tree in the ground and the green grass grew all around and etc.; anyway, if they will but read Gen. 9:1, it will be explained.

Corporal Catron, who has been on recruiting duty in Columbus, Georgia, has been sent to Macon, to take charge of the sub-station there. Send us in some good recruits, Corporal.

We have to hand it to Shepard for nerve. Anyone that can stand up before several thousand people and swear his life away, and in a Ford at that, is capable of raising you several "iron men" on a deuce in the hole. Best of luck to "Shep."

RE-ORGANIZATION OF 24th INFANTRY COMPLETED. COL. B. P. NICLIN ASSUMES COMMAND, COL. J. B. SCHOFFEL TO SCHOOL.

The expected re-organization of the 24th Infantry has taken place and the men are now hard at it fitting themselves into their new tasks. Col. J. B. Schoffel has taken up his work in the advanced course of the Infantry School and Col. B. P. Nicklin has been designated by War Department order as Commanding Officer of the 24th Infantry.

Captain C. H. McNair is Acting Regimental Adjutant, Capt. W. G. Muller is Regimental Investigating and Survey Officer, and Captain James Sproule is Acting Regimental Supply Officer. The eight companies have been skeletonized and incorporated in Companies I, K, L, and M, and the service Company with the Headquarters Company of regular strength.

The Detachment Band and the Regimental Band have been consolidated into one large band and they are beginning to get together in fine style. This band will be one of the best in the Army when it has been shaken down and the men get used to one another. Already it is a big improvement over anything that has been on the station.

The regiment has a fine Symphony Orchestra that is to give some most excellent concerts this winter. The orchestra played for the Officers' Hop Friday and the Nurses' Dance Wednesday. The band also plays for the Regimental Dance every Wednesday night.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The doughboy swung back from the fight,
The hard fought battle won;
And in his eyes a shining light
Out-gleamed the noonday sun;
Did he then boast about the fray
And tell each "why" and "how"?
The only thing I heard him say
Was, "Where the hell's the chow?"

GOOD EATS AND GOOD BOXING MAKE CO. SMOKER A SUCCESS

MEMBERS OF CO. "G," 29th INFANTRY, SPEND PLEASANT EVENING.

Starting off with a chicken dinner with plenty of sweets, the men of Company "G," 29th Infantry, had a very enjoyable time on Thursday evening, Oct. 19th, 1922.

From the sound of the dinner bell until after eight o'clock there was something doing all the time. Corporal Finney, who was in charge of the smoker, secured some splendid talent in getting Pvt. Dewey Puckett and Pvt. Andrew Pisarick. Puckett kept the men in a roar with his comedy songs and with his guitar playing. Later he obliged with a soft shoe dance accompanied by Corporal Morris. Pisarick's accordian playing was just right to round out the enjoyment during the meal. Captain Sims gave a short talk on getting together and pulling together for the company, Battalion and Regiment.

After dinner the real fun began when two dusky warriors of the 24th Infantry fought a three-round bout to a draw, which was a comedy from start to finish.

After this, Pvt. Arraya, of Co. "G" and Pvt. Olturio, of Co. "F" fought a four-round bout to a draw, but Pvt. Araya won in points. Both men showed real form and it was close from start to finish.

Those present included Major and Mrs. A. E. Sawkins, Capt. Sims, Lieuts. Farley, Cooey and Fogelberg, and all agreed it was the season's best.

Sanitary Dept. News Notes

"Did it ever occur to you that a health department really represents the desire of the people to avoid disease, and to live useful, wholesome lives? A health department is the result of our knowledge that disease can be prevented and that a high community health rate depends upon a high community intelligence rate.

"The fall fly is the dangerous fly. Get after it now. This is the season when swatting pays. Get busy.

"Just now the flies are particularly insistent about getting into a house. The cool autumn days and nights make them mighty anxious to get into the warmth and comfort of your kitchen and dining room. Remember, too, that at no season of the year are flies more dangerous to health than during the late summer and early autumn months. So during the closing days of the fly season keep the flies out. In other words, fight them harder than ever. Swat 'em and swat 'em hard."

24th Infantry News Notes

24th AGAIN VICTORIOUS IN FOOTBALL. ALABAMA STATE NORMAL THE VICTIMS OF THE DOUGHBOYS.

On last Friday the football team of the 24th Infantry invaded Alabama and won another victory. The husky team representing the 24th gave the College boys a most instructive lesson in the great American game of football and left the Montgomeryites well satisfied that the best team won. The game was played on a very rough field and it is to be wondered at that no one was hurt when the nature of the game is considered. The fight was fierce from start to finish and was a good contest all the way, with the 24th Infantry having all the best of it after the first half.

The game opened with the Infantry winning the toss and defending the upper goal. The playing field slopes very sharply down hill. During the first half the ball moved back and forth, up and down the field with not much advantage to either side. The 24th was in danger only once while they threatened the Normal's goal several times but always just fell short of putting the cval over the last line.

During the half time period Captain R. M. Wilson gave the team a very strenuous talk and the effect was evidenced at once for upon opening the second half the Big Blue Team went after the College boys in fierce style, and at once the coaching of the team was evidenced by the way in which they proceeded to carry the ball down the field for a score. Oliver carried the ball over for a score and the extra point was lost when the line failed to hold and a place kick was blocked.

On the kick-off another score was made when Freelan received the ball and with excellent interference by F. Williams ran thru the entire team for a touchdown. The run was a beauty, and the way in which Williams bowled over the would-be tacklers was a sight worth seeing. The opening of the third quarter saw another score when after several interesting plays Bonnar scored on a beautiful forward pass from Hill for 25 yards and ran 15 for a touchdown. This time, as after the second touchdown, the added point was scored on a forward pass from a place kick formation Hill to Williams. The score was now 20 to 0.

The Doughboys were not yet satisfied and they hit the fast fading Normal line for gain after gain. A penalty put them far back but up they came again only to suffer from over-anxiousness and be sent back a second time to try again. This time they were not to be denied, for on bucks and end runs they forced the ball over the line for the last counter, Freelan carrying the ball on an end run around left end for a touchdown. This time the point was lost when a drop kick went bad, but the score was now 26 to 0.

The ball was kicked off again and the Dusky Benningites were rushing the ball down the field when one of the officials saw a Doughboy using his hands strenuously and put him out of the game and moved the team back half way to their goal. The handicap was too great and the 24th Infantry was unable to put the ball over again. Before time was up, though, they were making good time down the field.

The entire team played well with Freelan, Oliver, F. Williams, and Brown showing best for the 24th Infantry. Green and Williams alternated as Pilots, with Oliver acting as Team Captain. The 24th under Captain Wilson and Chaplain Reynolds are showing great football, and on the 28th they tangle with Talladega University at Talladega, Ala. This team is the champion colored team of the South.

Finance Department Notes

James C. Watson (alias Corp. Watson, Chief of the Bills Branch) spent the week-end with friends and relatives in Atlanta and Fairburn, Georgia, and reports a very nice time.

(Carranza) Banda is out of the hospital now, after a stay of three months, and has the hard task of writing checks. He says he has already written checks for more money than they have in Ecuador.

A peculiar noise was heard at the table the other day and an investigation revealed Corp. White drinking soup. He wants to know where he can get some ear guards—he gets soup in them.

Wanted—A car load of rubber erasers and scratch pads for Private Willis; he is figuring pay-rolls now.

Ayers has a new slogan now—"If you are going over there let me out over here."

"Hayseed" Barker is back on the job again after twenty days spent among the hills of North Carolina and reports a wonderful time threshing peas and digging 'taters.

Corp. Willing Purvis made several trips to the hospital this week—if Watson was the cause of it—then we don't know.

Sergeant Bennett and his Fort McPherson pal, Kilpatrick, of the Signal Corps, who arrived last week from McClellan, was seen at the Post Theater last Sunday evening—wonder who had the funds.

The Detachment is sorry to say that Miller was admitted to the hospital this morning—we hope he is not in the Psychic ward.

Bennett seems to be very much at home at the Service Club, having known the new hostess for some time. Well we're not troubled with him at the barracks when he's at the Club.

There's one Finance Clerk that was a little peeved about being referred to as a Hottentot Chief (Clerk). It's our mistake, John, we intended to say "Pennsylvania Dutchman," however, we don't mean square head.

The Mess Sgt. of the Q. M. can add a few more rations now that Barker has returned from furlough. Barker is deemed the "Hot Cake King."

Say "I saw your Ad. in The News."

FOOTBALL

By JOHN DOUGHBOY.

Vanquished but not humiliated, the First Battalion 29th Infantry football team, the champions of Fort Benning last season, went down to defeat yesterday afternoon by the narrow margin of 7 to 6. The Second Battalion of the 29th Infantry were the proud victors—a blocked kick in a try for point in the third quarter giving them the game.

The game was a stirring contest in which neither team appeared to have any great advantage as to speed or weight. Both aggregations gave every indication of superior coaching and long gruelling workouts. They were fit for the fray and their conditioning allowed them to survive as hard tackling and blocking as has been seen on southern football fields in many a day.

Naturally there are alibis offered by the vanquished. It was contended that despite his brilliant individual playing, Quarterback Romploski of the First Battalion did not obey the instructions of Coach "Jeff" Box. It appeared that Romploski was determined to rush the Second Battalion line off its feet—and he never opened up on forward passes—the real strength of the First Battalion team. Romploski also used poor judgment on punts and his fumbles were costly.

The game was featured by a parade of the First Battalion headed by the 29th Infantry Band, the bearers of the Championship Banner won last year, a big fat white goat, and a large placard announcing it was "The Second Battalion Goat." There were about 600 soldiers in the march around the field.

After the men were seated the organized cheering of the First Battalion started under Cheer-Leader Madaris. It was a distinct novelty and the first time in the history of Fort Benning that such spirit has been displayed at a football game. Criticism has been showered in the past that the crowds attending the "Varsity" games did not cheer the team, but this criticism cannot be applied to the First Battalion as they made as much noise as will be heard at the Georgia-Auburn game.

Between the halves the First Battalion, although the score was 7 to 0 against them, held a snake dance in the middle of the field. Following the game the battalion, although defeated, started marching off singing and cheering. Very favorable comments were heard on the good spirit shown.

The game itself started off with the Second Battalion getting the breaks. Davis kicked off to Wally who fumbled on the 10 yard line. A few short bucks and Slatt pushed the oval over. Parks kicked goal and the score stood 7 to 0 against the bewildered First Battalion. Davis again kicked off and this time Romploski fumbled but Rood recovered. The "First Bat" found the "Second Bat" line too hard and were forced to kick. The battle raged in midfield until the quarter ended. In the second quarter the "Second Bat" got real threatening and rushed the ball to the 10 yard line when the half ended.

In the second half "Spud" Murphy, the star of last year's First Battalion team, was placed in the game. Despite a lame shoulder this game youngster imparted such spirit in the team that within five minutes after the third period started Wally was pushed over the "Second Bat" goal for a touchdown. In the try for point a "Second Bat" man broke through and blocked Romploski's kick. It was a costly block as it gave the Second Battalion the victory.

For the Second Battalion the outstanding players were Payne, Slatt and Daniel. Their star end, Davis, who plays on the Varsity team, did not show to advantage. When Romploski cut him down in the third quarter the buglers played Taps, but Davis recovered and managed to last out.

Wally, the fullback, and Trambell, the center, were the bulwarks of strength on the First Battalion. Rood also played well, but he missed an opportunity to land in the soldier football Hall of Fame when, instead of scooping a fumbled ball for a run through field to a touchdown, he merely threw himself on the oval. This error caused him to be yanked from the game.

The line-up follows:

| 2nd Bat. | | 1st Bat. |
|---|---|---|
| | Center | |
| Beaver | | Trambell |
| | Right Guard | |
| Finney | | Jablonka |
| | Left Guard | |
| Walagurski | | Schwald |
| | Right Tackle | |
| Ekoff | | Shearer |
| | Left Tackle | |
| Parks | | McFadden |
| | Right End | |
| Brown | | Detweiler |
| | Left End | |
| Davis | | Rood |
| | Quarter | |
| Payne | | Romploski |
| | Right-Back | |
| Slatt | | Peters |
| | Left-Back | |
| Daniels | | Duslack |
| | Full-Back | |
| Parrish | | Wally |

Score: 2nd Battalion 7, 1st Battalion 0. Touchdowns: Slatt, Wally. Kicked goal, Parks. Time of quarters, 15 minutes. Referee, Captain Chester Rothwell. Umpire, Lieut. Percy Zeigler. Head Linesman, Lieut. R. W. Douglass. Timers, Captain Beverly Shipp and Lieut. Jesse T. Harris. Substitutions, 1st Battalion: Robillard for Jablonka; Jablonka for Robillard; Major for Jablonka; Parker for Shealer; Murphy for Rood; Michaels for Murphy. Second Battalion: Duke for Walagurski; Kreuger for Brown; Tomasoski for Duke; Johnson for Slatt. Time of game, 1 hour and 20 minutes.

TENNIS

Four Infantry officers from Fort Benning entered the tennis tournament at New Orleans for the championship of the American Legion in singles and doubles. Between them they carried away all of the titles and most of the cups.

Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, Jr., won the singles championship of the American Legion and with Major Tom D. Finley won the doubles championship.

Twenty-eight players, representing twelve different states, were entered in the singles and about twenty-five teams were entered in the doubles tournament. Unfortunately some of the players from the various states failed to appear and were defaulted. However, a great many players were on hand to compete for the titles and cups.

Major Finley won his way into the singles semi-final round by good playing and with the loss of only one set. There he met his doubles partner, Capt. Van Vliet, and was defeated 7-5, 6-1 in a well played match. In the finals Capt. Vliet met Mr. Edgar Morris, champion of the New Orleans Legion Post, and defeated him 6-1, 6-2, 6-4, thereby annexing the title.

The trophies won by these officers were large loving cups.

The remaining members of the team were not so fortunate. Capt. J. S. Switzer was beaten by Mr. C. Lyons, of Iowa, in a close match, while Capt. K. S. Whittemore was also defeated by Mr. W. B. Monroe in a close match. Due to a misunderstanding about the time of playing their doubles match, these officers were not present when the tennis committee decided that their match should be played and were therefore defaulted.

POLO.

On last Sunday afternoon the 83rd Artillery underwent a reversal of form with the result that the 29th Infantry "took them into camp" to the tune of 7 to 5.

The Artillery gave the 29th Infantry a handicap of 4 goals to start with and actually scored 5 points while the 29th Infantry was marking up three. The Artillery suffered one of those inexplainable lapses which happens to the best teams at times.

In the second game the Blue team "came back" after being disastrously defeated the preceding Sunday, and administered a 12 to 5 walloping to the Yellow team. The Blue team gave an exhibition of polo as it should be played, while the Yellow team lacked team work.

The Blue team gave the Yellow team a handicap of four goals and actually tallied 12 markers while the Yellow team was scoring 1.

The games next Sunday will be between the following teams:

Blues vs Artillery.

FOOTBALL

That the Infantry School team went down in defeat before the strong Tulane eleven last Saturday does not indicate that this team is going backward. The Tulane aggregation is at its strongest this year and can give any of the Southern teams a good tussle. To predict that Tulane will win the Southern championship would not be a fallacy on the part of sports writers, and for this reason there is no disgrace in being defeated by a team of this calibre.

Saturday afternoon the Infantry School locks horns with Auburn. Last year it will be remembered by those who saw the Auburn-Infantry game that Infantry played Auburn to a standstill until about the last five minutes of play. The score was 13 to 6, and Auburn had been saving a number of her first string players for her big annual game with Georgia. These men were put into play and managed to score the winning points against their tired adversaries. This time, however, things will be different. The Infantry team this year is better and there will be enough substitutes to offset any move Auburn will make. In the first place, Auburn is going to be forced to use her first string men from the start unless she is willing to suffer defeat. If, however, Auburn decides to use her second string men and then run her first team in during the last few minutes of play there will be sufficient substitutes with the Infantry Squad to offset this and the first Auburn string will not find the going so easy.

This is going to be a great game of football and will be well worth the forty mile drive through the country to see.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Our galloping company clerk has walked to the range from the company every morning since we started firing. Keep up the good work, Adams, soon you'll be a globe trotter.

Do we have a jeweler in the company? If you want a ring made, come to Cpl. Cochran, he certainly knows his business when it comes to making silver rings.

Pvt. Cockelreas, the noted gunman from Mexico, Missouri, says that he'll have to make sharpshooter, because the sheriff is still in office and they won't let him use a six gun any more.

We certainly have one good wall scaler in the company, anyhow. Pvt. Smith, the Alabama athlete, showed some fine sprinting and wall scaling the other night, while in Columbus. A small sized cow started his way, and that was too much for Smith, who took for the fence and over it in nothing flat.

The company mechanic, Necker, says that he will make sharpshooter this year. At least we think he should make it, because he is always changing something on his rifle. The last thing we saw, he was taking the rifling out of the bore so the lead would scatter like a shot gun.

We have a new way of cleaning rifles now. Pvt. Scharle fills her full of oil and stands her on her head over night. Lucky for you, Scharle, that you are not cleaning Livens' projectors.

Pvt. Salvator says the gun didn't kick, it just jumped back at him, and when it jumped he tried to get out of the way, and missed the bull's eye.

"Well, if I don't make marksman this year, there is another year coming, but here's hoping I'm out of the Army by the time we shoot again," From all appearances, Pvt. McCabe isn't fond of firing on the range.

Pvt. Apostola says he don't need to mark the target for some of the men, because they hit in the butts, and the targets are on the framework and not in the butts, so let them shoot again.

A certain man in the company says his face is his fortune. The other night he went to a party and they played a game called "making faces." The man that made the ugliest face got two bits. He said he got two dollars and a half, and he wasn't even playing. But he says the girl he had with him couldn't play. There wasn't enough money in the party. Better luck next time, Frymyer.

A., Chaplain and Mrs. Joseph A. Gray, U. S. A., Captains C. P. Price and A. J. Vadala, M. C., U. S. A., Miss Maude Bowman and Miss Eleanor Grehea. Major and Mrs. Bayley departed for Miami, Fla., where they will spend their honeymoon. They will be at home at Fort Benning, Ga., after January 1, 1923.

The regular weekly meeting of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club was held Monday evening. Some very interesting matters were brought before the members. One of special mention being the dance to be held once every month.

Mr. R. L. Hatcher and family, of Newton, Alabama, spent last weekend with their son, Private 1st Class Albert M. Hatcher, Medical Department.

Seaman 1st Class John L. Bedenbaugh, U. S. S. Scout Cruiser, Birmingham (now stationed in the Panama Canal Zone), spent last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with his brother, Sergeant Milton M. Bedenbaugh, Medical Department.

Delamar Cook, of Rochelle, Georgia, brother of Sergeant Cook, was a pleasant visitor at the Post last week.

Parents, relatives and friends of the men are always appreciated visitors. Why not ask yours to visit you?

Our representatives at the National Convention, American Legion, report a grand time, but from the looks of the faces they wear you wouldn't suppose New Orleans is all it is given credit for being.

Our brilliant File Clerk and Ambulance Dispatcher is reported to have accused Sergeant Thompson of mixing the files in order to get his job. What about it, Mount?

We, Who Are Domoted, Salute You

243 MAJORS, 716 CAPTAINS MAKE LAST STAND.

Majors with promotion numbers larger than 2609 and Captains with numbers larger than 6465 are carefully considering whether or not is better to be a Captain or First Lieutenant than a civilian.

This consideration has been brought about by the receipt at this station of telegrams advising that officers coming under the above classifications will be discharged and a commission in the next lower grade offered them.

According to one of the Service papers the date fixed for the demotion of Majors is November 4, for Captains, November 19, and for First Lieutenants the early part of December. This haste on the part of the War Department is due to the fact that nominations in the grade of Second Lieutenant have to go to the Senate for confirmation before they are given their new commissions and it is not desirable that delay take place.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF TENTH INFANTRY BRIGADE ANNOUNCED

NOW CONSISTS OF TENTH AND ELEVENTH INFANTRY REGIMENTS AND SMALLER UNITS.

Fifty Corps Area Headquarters announces the reorganization of the Tenth Infantry Brigade. This brigade now consists of the Tenth Infantry, Eleventh Infantry, 1st Battalion, Third Field Artillery, 88th Squadron, Photo Section No. 7, and Tank Platoon No. 5.

This re-organization is of especial interest to members of the Sixth Infantry and Eleventh Infantry regiments of which the old Tenth Brigade was composed. It is also of interest to the entire garrison because of the fact that General Gordan took the old Tenth Infantry Brigade overseas and remained in command until he assumed command of the Sixth Division at which time he was relieved of the command of the Tenth Brigade by General Malone. General Malone commanded the brigade both at the battle of St. Mihiel and throughout the Argone operation where the brigade made a name for itself in American history.

ODE TO A GOLD LEAF.

Twinkle, twinkle little Leaf
Your stay up here is going to be brief
Two silver Bars in your place will shine.
So, good-bye little gold leaf of mine.

How I loath to part with thee,
You have my heartfelt sympathy;
But still your presence you will denote
On some Ex. Lt. Col.'s coat.
So, twinkle twinkle little Leaf,
Your stay up here is going to be brief
Two Silver Bars in your place will shine,
Good-bye, good-bye, little Gold Leaf of mine.

"Follow Me" Spirit Spreading Fast

STRIKING EXAMPLE OF SPIRIT INSTILLED BY THE INFANTRY SCHOOL.

A striking example of the spirit instilled at the Infantry School and carried out into all parts of the country is shown by the following telegram which has been received by General W. H. Gordon, the Commandant:

"Commanding General,
"Fort Benning, Ga.

"Benning graduates and former instructors, with sweethearts assembled, send greetings to our Commandant brother officers of the Infantry. Benning spirit rampant. Inconveniences and hardships forgotten or made the source of amusement. Infantry esprit much in evidence. May the greatest of schools continue its kood work.

"FIFTY BENNING PIONEERS."

To which telegram the following answer was sent:
"Col. George L. Byroade,
"Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

"Greetings and good wishes from Fifty Benning Pioneers greatly appreciated and published to command. Esprit, hardships, and conscientious work of pioneers is what made Infantry School successful. May every future success be theirs.

"GORDON."

24th Infantry Celebrates Fifty-Third Anniversary

GENERAL GORDON WELCOMES ORGANIZATION TO FORT BENNING.

The 24th Infantry celebrated its 53rd anniversary on November 1st. The regiment was assembled in the Recreation Hall at 10:00 a. m. where the regimental colors and trophies of many victories were on display. General Gordon addressed the assembly welcoming the organization to Fort Benning. Colonel Nicklin made an address tracing his connection with the regiment and pledging his personal interest in every member of the organization. Capt. Muller gave a brief sketch of the 24th Infantry, as follows:

"Founded under the provisions of the Act of Congress of March 3rd, 1869, by the consolidation of the 38th and the 41st regiments of infantry, it has upheld the finest traditions of the service during the entire period of its existence.

The organization of the regiment took place at Ft. McKevitt, Texas, about 180 miles from San Antonio, at the head of the San Saba River. When the regiment began its existance it was stationed at Forts Davis, Stockton, Concho and McKevitt—all in Texas, along the southern edge of the Great Staked Plains—covering a line of 320. The regiment remained in this section until the spring of 1872, when it was transferred to the Rio Grande Posts Brown, Ringold Barracks, Duncan and Clark. The duties of the troops were light compared with field service against the Indians along the Great Staked Plains, and while in thought, we had troubles and privations, we now look back upon those times as the halcyon days.

From this time until the opening of the Spanish-American war, the 24th Infantry was among the old "stand bys" of the Western frontier enjoying the garrison life of the old days, broken only by an occasional skirmish with the Indians.

The opening of the Spanish-American war found the regiment stationed at Ft. Douglas, Utah. On April 20th, 1898, it departed from that station for the concentration camp at Chickamauga Park. Georgia. It was among the first continguent of troops sent to Cuba, arriving at Siboney June 9, 1898. Disembarked at Siboney on June 25th, 1898, and took up the march toward Santiago as part of General Kent's Division. Under Lieut. Colonel E. H. Liscum the regiment acquitted itself with glory in the capture of San Juan Hill, June 28th. It later participated in the fighting before the City of Santiago.

After the surrender of the City of

BIG DANCE AT SERVICE CLUB

HALLOWE'EN DANCE GREAT SUCCESS.

The Hallowe'en dance at Service Club No. 1 last Wednesday evening was a decided success. The hall was attractively decorated by the Dance Committee under the personal supervision of Sgt. Arnold of the Tanks and Sgt. Mount of the Medical Corps.

The colors of the occasion were black and gold. A large black cat occupied the Throne of the Mighty for the evening flanked by the accompanying pumpkin. A large crowd of ladies from Columbus attended the affair.

Miss Roe, the new Post Hostess, is teaching the visitors at the Service Club several new games. She intends to hold a cribbage and checker tourney in the near future and everybody having ambitions along this line are invited to begin practice at the club at once.

TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY CELEBRATES 53'D ANNIVERSARY

Santiago and the close of the campaign in Western Cuba, the regiment columtarily remained on duty at the Yellow Fever Camp at Siboney. This sacrifice cost the regiment the lives of one officer and thirty enlisted men, yet the spirit of the regiment remained undaunted. On August 22nd, 1898, the regiment departed from Siboney with nine officers and 198 enlisted, leaving three officers and 37 enlisted men asleep amid the palms of the Antilles, yet the march to the train which conveyed them to the port of ambarkation was made with the band playing and the battle scarred colors flying high.

After its return from Cuba, the regiment was stationed at Fort Douglas, Utah, and D. A. Russell, Wyoming, and later at various posts on the Pacific slope.

During June and July 1899 the regiment was transferred to the Philippine Islands, where it participated in various engagements in the Provinces of, Rizal Nueve Ecija, Pangasian and Cayayan. The regiment returned to the United Ctates during July, 1902, having lost in the Philippines 11 enlisted men, killed in action, one officer and 35 wounded in action and 109 enlisted men died of disease.

After three and one half years garrison service in the States the regiment was transferred to the Philippine Islands, taking station at Camp Downes, Ormac, Leyte, Camp Bumplus Taclogan. Layte and Warrick Barracks, Cebu. During 1906 and 1907, the regiment participated in various engagements against fantical Pulajanes on the Island of Leyte; Company "E" of the regiment acquitting itself with glory at Tabon-Tabon, Leyte, June 24, 1906.

The regiment returned to the United States, during the Spring of 1908, taking station in northern New York. Embarked from San Francisco for the Philippines on December 5th, 1911. This last tour of foreign service ended in 1915, when the regiment returned to the United States, taking station at the presidio of San Francisco, Cal. On February 28th, 1916, it was transferred to Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyo., where it remained until March 22, 1916, when the welcome order was received transferring it to the Mexican Border. On March 28th, we entered Mexico as part of General Pershing's Expedition. We remained in Mexico until February 5th, 1917, when we took station at Columbus, New Mexico.

But few of the officers and men who fought at San Juan and in the jungles of the Philippine Islands are with us today, yet their deeds of valour are an incentive to us in whose trust the glorious colors of the regiment are placed. These men made the history, of which our regiment is so justly proud and the sacred obligation of maintaining the high standards of loyalty and patriotism rests upon those who constitute the personnel of the regiment today.

24th Infantry News Notes

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY.

Corporal James W. Berry, our laundry man, is very prompt in going to see about the laundry being delivered. Someone asked why. Why, the laundry queens of course.

Someone asked Hooker why he was so blue. To which he promptly replied, "Not because I am not in Hq. Co. with you, but I am afraid Anna May will think me not true." Say, Hooker, who is she? Let us all in on it, old boy.

Our star on the football team, Pvt. Sp. 4th Class Raymond Young, returned from Alabama very sore and stiff after a tough battle with the Talladega team.

Private Turpin from duty with the Company to duty at Officers' mess, who is very popular on Wednesday nights at the dances. Look out, Turpin, don't get tied up.

Pvt. Mitchell, our wood butcher, is posing with his hammer and square, as usual.

Pvt. Gaskin has caused a discontentment among the N. C. O. S. in charge of quarters by reporting them to the O. D. at night.

COMPANY "A."

Sergt. and Mrs. Ernest Allen and their two sons arrived at this station from Columbus, N. Mex., making the trip in their Buick Six touring car, passing through Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama. They say they had a nice time on the trip; only accident occurred was a broken clutch. Wasn't he lucky?

Corpl. Twitty broke the ice at Fort Benning. He has a pair of new russetts, on an "A" last. All who have worn an "A" last on "EE" Fort Benning strutted proudly up the Trigger, old boy, watch your step; remember your promise to the girls in Columbus, N. M., and El Paso, Texas, for they have spies at work.

Chick Adams is tired of vamping so he decided he would learn to blow a wooden "Flute."

Private Charles W. Churchill thought he could fool the "boys" by leaving camp at night. But I know one man he didn't fool! Ask him who it is and see what he will tell you.

COMPANY "B."

Our Supply Sergeant, better known as Tequila Jim, is quite lonesome these days. Can you tell me why?

Yes! His pal Watkins, alias "Bay Rum Bill," is spending a few weeks in Americus.

Bugler Hall was singing a new song the other day titled, "I've got the Block No. 23 Blues." Watch your step, Sammy, old boy; you will be singing the 6, 8, 10 and 12 next.

Well, Prince Albert, how do you like your old home town?

Some one please tell me how our 1st Sergeant lost his bet. We see you "Si."

COMPANY "C."

Company "C" is here, but while most of the enlisted personnel was left at Camp Furlong, New Mexico, the strong ambitious company spirit is here at Fort Benning. It is these soldiers who have made the company famous in sport, military duties and social affairs of the 24th Infantry and made a reputation that placed it highest among the other companies of the regiment.

1st Sergeant Larkins detailed Sgt. Powell for guard with the following instructions: "Draw a club for a rifle and instruct yourself how to come to inspection arms. I will issue you a club and stick manuel next week."

A reward of $100 is offered for the person who sees Cpl. Dewitt dancing. He has just arrived from New York City with the new Coney Island waltz.

Cpl. Mays was a distinguished visitor in the city the other day in his civilian clothes. The grand duke of Fort Benning strutted prodly up the boulevard to a residence he had known from his childhood days and a little feminine form came to the door and stated, "Why, I don't know you. The gentleman I met was a soldier and a second-class private at that, for he wore two stripes on his arm." However, they finally made an acquaintance.

COMPANY "D."

"D" Company is in receipt of information from a reliable source that Camp Furlong, complete, less buildings, is to be moved to Fort Bliss by wagon train.

We picture the many miles of burning desert sands of that long border trail and take a small measure of comfort for ourselves in the thought that we will not be among those present when once more all that property, already shiney and round cornered from much handling, is unloaded at the bottom of every sand hill of that well known hundred mile stretch.

COMPANY "H."

The members of Co. "H," 24th Infantry, join the writer in thanks and appreciation of all the enlisted men of Co. "L" 24th Infantry, for the kind treatment that has been rendered them while rationing with that organization before being reorganized.

It is the spirit of the 24th Infantry and especially Co. "H," 24th Infantry, to meet and form the acquaintance of each and every one who are under U. S. Flag in the 24th Infantry as soldier brothers. The thanks and appreciation, in this writing is more highly extended to the 1st Sergeant and the Mess Sgt. of Company "L," 24th Infantry. These men have worked untiringly in making every preparation for our comfort.

COMPTNY "I."

Corporal Reeves, (Noise box), is still singing, "She don't write no letters or send no word." He is the only man that will stand by a fire and hope he freeze to death.

Sergeant Loyd (Horse) thinks he is the only "Short Timer" in captivity for he brags about it from morning to night. Look out Loyd, the Bear has his army at war strength.

Sergeant Campbell, (Wise Man): "Woman may cause much of the trouble in life, but it's woman who makes life worth the trouble."

Everybody seems to be enjoying our beautiful tennis courts, and on Wednesday afternoons there are some well matched games played by the enlisted men and their wives.

The 24th Infantry Band is a credit to the regiment as well as to the race as a musical organization. The regiment is very proud of her band. The concerts are always enjoyed by all audiences. Warrant Officer Joel P. Elazer, is a wonderful conductor, arranger and composer. He has the support of the Band and regiment in the effort to win distinction and honor.

Sergeant Taylor, (The Snake), has invented a new dance called the Chattahoochee Glide. So please be at the dancing school every Monday night. Sergeant McCauley is the instructor.

Sergeant Pinkston, (Ruff Stuff), was discharged the other day and gave a big blow out. He bought 3 five-cent cigars for the office crew. That's the boy, Pink! The world is round, but it is crooked just the same.

Pvt. Jones, (Nurse), "M" Company, can do more laundry than the Acme Laundry. His specialty is baby clothing.

COMPANY "K."

Mess Sgt. "Tall Timber" (Lay) is sleeping much better since Sgt. "Big Stuff" (Warfield) has been rationing in Co. "I."

Cpl. "He Vamp" (Jones) is all scarred. Wonder was it football, rolling pin, or forward pass?

Sup. Sgt. "Cute-boy" (Williams) went out vamping in Montgomery last Friday, and has been talking in his sleep every since. Look out, Bill, the trays turn some times.

COMPANY "M."

Company "M" is mourning the regretful loss of their 1st Sgt. Arthur Steger, known as Kaiser, and who is being transwerred to Co. "I." The Company's best wishes goes with you Sir Arthur to your new company.

But as we know "Oh!;|?-:," you have got their names on the L-A-M-B B-O-O-K now.

Cook White is making a little noise. Keep quiet, White, and get off your knees. If it is prayer you need Chaplin Thomas is right across the way.

Our Supply Sgt. has not been giving the City of Columbus, Georgia, the pleasure of seeing him lately. Wake up, Joe; they still like to see you.

Our Company Barber is buying great gobs of a new hair tonic lately. Don't know what you are growing, Mac, but watch your step.

Company "M" has the record of having the most dogs and cats in camp. Also men holding the record of owning more of them than anyone in camp, and of different species, too.

Lookout Hendly and Young; business in dogology and catalogy is not so well out in the life now.

Well there is one thing our Company is blessed for. We don't have much trouble in getting what we want. All we have to do is to say we want it, and our Supply Sgt. will sing for the articles requested "and we get them." You should sign up with some grand opera, Joe. You have a most refined voice—I know.

Everybody talking about Steger, Steger. Who is Steger?

He is a man.

Well, how is Steger?

He's alright.

Who said so?

Company "M."

Who is Company "M"?

EVERYBODY.

Private Richardson has been looking pretty sick since Sunday, Oct. 22. Brace up, "Five Spot," the Cpl. is not going to take her. It's only a joke.

WITH THE IDEA of bringing more closely together the officers in Columbus and the business people of Columbus who advertise in The News there is published eaih week a list of advertisers and there will be published weekly a certain number of names showing the address and telephone numbers of the officers living in Columbus. The entire military personnel is strongly urged to patronize the advertisers. These people make The News possible and, all things being equal, they should be given preference even if it is but a matter of purchasing a package of hair pins. Let the advertisers know that you are patronizing them because they patronize this paper and the result will be advantageous to everybody concerned.

THOSE UNITS and Organizations who fail to see a certain amount of copy each week should not get the idea that their news is not desired. The only reason for failure to print certain items is because of the limited space available in The News and on the occasions when all of an organization's news can not be printed every effort is made to so edit the "copy" furnished as to present the choicest bits.

News has just been received over the "grapevine telegraph" that within the past week there have been something like 1600 applications for discharge at Washington from officers to be demoted. Just what action will be taken, if the information is correct, by the War Department is problematical but it seems that some of the younger officers, especially, may be making a mistake.

A discharge, with one year's pay, appears, on the face of it, to be desirable for a young officer. The desirability depends to a degree on the business experience the young officer has had in civilian life. A young man without business experience at this particular phase of business conditions will find himself handicapped. He will also find that he will be forced to accept a salary much smaller than his present pay, in the majority of cases, and there arises the danger of getting in the "little man" class because of this.

Another factor to be considered in this connection is the fact that there appears to be small probability of a further reduction in the Army and a possibility of a slight increase within the next two years. If such an increase takes place promotions will be effective for those who remained in the Service and even though the opportunity should be offered to those who left the Service to return it is probable that the man who "stuck it out" will get priority on the promotion list.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 6.)

Hand drilling was used exclusively on this work. One major gallery with four entrances and capacity for an entire company was also started, but the company was relieved before it could be completed. On the 20th of August the company was subjected to a gas attack which lasted for a period of 20 minutes, but no casualties resulted. Five different patrols from "D" Company went with the infantry, their mission being to haress the enemy by blowing up barbed wire entanglements with Bengalora torpedoes. These expeditions were successful, although at times the men were under intense machine gun fire.

Company "E"

Company "E" was stationed at Moyenmoutier, and its work in this sector consisted of the construction of dugouts in the second line position, installing and operating compressors, and various details operated with the infantry. One platoon was stationed at the railhead at Raon l'Etape constructing barracks and operating the ration dump. A detail was engaged in the construction of gun emplacements for the 21st Field Artillery. Two dugouts with capacity for 250 men were constructed in solid rock at Rahodeau, using preumatic drills. A similar dugout was constructed at Malfosse and at La Presle. Others were started but the company was relieved before they were completed. At various times, details of Company "E" blew up enemy barbed wire for infantry patrols. On August 6th, Corporals Knight and Kidd, who were attached to the scout platoon of the 2nd Battalion of the 61st Infantry, advanced ahead of the platoon under heavy fire and placed and exploded two Bengalore torpedoes, and were commended by the regimental commander of the 61st Infantry for their good deportment under fire.

Company "F"

Company "F" took station opposite Pierre Percee, in the extreme north of the sector. During the period of August 1st to 22nd, it was engaged in the construction of dugouts and shelters in the 2nd position, repairing roads, camouflage work, and making emplacements for field artillery of the division. The company com leted work started by the French on trenches, dugouts, machine gun emplacements for the 19th Field Artillery. Hand drilling was done, as no pneumatic drills were available. On two ocasions patrols went out with the infantry to blow up enemy wire. The first attempt failed as the Germans had cut the wires by counter fire, but the second attempt was successful, and a passage about eleven feet in width was blown through the enemy wire. Later two raiding parties from the company accompanied units of a French regiment in this sector, and harassed the Boche with success. Two saw mills were operated in this vicinity.

The Engineer Train Headquarters, during this period, was located at Le Bihay. French engineer dumps located at Le Bihay, Roan l'Etape and Nayemontles Fosses were operated by them.

The last units of the 5th Division in the St. Die sector were relieved on August 23rd, 1918, on which day the command of the sector passed to the Commanding General of the 87th Division (French). The 92nd American Division (colored) had arrived and entered the line under French tutelage in the usual way.

The Fifth Division was ordered to the Arches area, and on the 23rd of August the regiment assembled at Le Bihay and started a three-day march to St. Nabord, near Remiremont, by way of LaHoussier and Deycimont. On the last night, several German bombing planes were heard, and soon afterwards seven or eight bombs were heard to explode in the vicinity of Epinal. The regiment spent two days in rest and two in intensive training.

August 29th should be remembered for two reasons; firstly, the regiment moved from St. Nabord to Virecourt, and secondly, the move was made in French motor trucks. All was in readiness for embussing at 1:30 P. M.; rolling kitchens were loaded into five trucks which had been sent up for that purpose; nothing was lacking except trucks for the men. At 5:00 P. M. hte trucks began to arrive and at 6:00 P. M. the start was made for Virecourt, eighteen men with complete equipment in each truck. Halts were made frequent and of long duration, such long duration, in fact that four hours were consumed in traveling the first twenty kilometer. At midnight, or shortly thereafter, for no apparent reason, all those trucks which had not already fallen out of the march, due to engine trouble, were halted, and the drivers prepared their beds for the night, with the announcement that the march would be taken up at 5:30 the next morning. Every hour was colder than the preceding one, but morning came at last and the march resumed. Very good time was made, considering conditions, from 5:30 until the destination was reached at 12:00 noon. During the eighteen hours that the men rode in motor busses, eighty-five kilometers were covered.

On the 30th of August, the regiment was established in Villiacourt. In order that some of the characteristics which the valley had in common with so many others be not forgotten, a street scene in Villacourt has been aded to the history.

But, if there were some drawbacks to the town, there were also advantages, for to own boasted of two commodities for sale—stale beer and plums. Five days of intensive infantry drill were spent here, preceding the march to the St. Miheil offensive.

The St. Mihiel Offensive

On the evening of September 6th the regiment left Villacourt by marching, with orders to proceed to Mois de Brule and remained there until the following night, but after the commencement of the march, the destination was changed to Dombasle, more than twice the original distance. At 3:00 A. M. the regiment arrived tired and hungry, with a march of twenty-two kilometers over roads congested with troops, to its credit. The rolling kitchens were ready and within an hour after arriving in Dombasle every man had had a warm breakfast and was in billets.

The following eevning the regiment made an easy march to Tomblaine, about sixteen kilometers distant.

On the night of September 8th the regiment was scheduled to march to Millery and bivouac in the woods north of the town, but again orders were changed after the march began and the regiment marched to the French camp north of Custines in the Bois de Faulx, instead. Here, theoretically, many barracks were available but when the troops arrived at 3:30 A. M., barracks for but two companies had been found. Again the rolling kitchens played a prominent part. They were set up and soon another hot breakfast was ready, which made the world look a trifle brighter, despite the fact that, as usual, rain was falling and the mud was knee deep. It was daylight by the time breakfast was over, and the men started out through the woods to find places to sleep, out of the rain.

At five o'clock on the evening of September 9th preparations were being made to commence the march at 7:00 P. M., the last leg of the approach to the St. Mihiel. The memories of that march will always linger in the minds of those who were there that night. After crossing the river at Custines and getting on to the main road to Pont-a-Mousson, on the west side of the Moselle river, troop columns were encountered, and for the remainder of that dark night, the march was made under difficulties.

OH! BOY WHAT A TIME. The Engineers had some time Monday night when they showed what they had in the line of entertainments.

We have just been lucky enough to get space for a Recreation room and believe me, if you can't find recreation there, there is no use looking anywhere else.

We will have to hand it to 1st Sergeant Henry L. Gensch for the way him and Staff Sergeant James H. McNally put the thing over. Staff Sergeant MacNally was the big ATTRACTION of the evening. He presented his favorite MASTERPIECE, "THE DOUGHBOY." Well I don't know what we would do for a little entertainment once in awhile if it wasn't for our old friend Sergeant McNally, and say there is one thing that I forgot ot mention, Sergeant McNally has a new HOME BREW recipe, and said, "That he was going to take a ten day hunting furlough and try thte KICK on the banks of the Chattahoochee."

Our true and beloved friend Cook Smith was right on the job, what time he was there, but he didn't last long. Cook Smith is now attending the Bakers and Cooks school, says that he likes the school, because they have to taste everything they cook, and if it kills them, they will not put it out to the boarders.

Run, if you like, but try to keep your breath;
Work like H——, but don't be worked to death.

21. If writing about your landlord use flat paper (married men only).

22. Don't write falsehoods or we will let your story lie.

23. Don't send your picture, a valentine contest will be held later on.

24. When in doubt spelling a word use figures.

25. When in doubt about figures compare them with your wife.

26. When folding your story try not to bend the paper or crease it.

Red Lindsey, our star center, is going into the cake eater class. He was seen one day last week about 11:30 P. M. escorting a sweet young lady home. They make a good looking couple. Red will have to keep his eyes in front of him, he stumbles every time he comes to a bump. Can't you talk to her without looking into her eyes?

Ye past scribe was seen by ye present scribe recently with seeminly not a care in the world. Pretty soft, we'll say, pretty soft. By the way, we wish to remind you that this scribe job aint no cinch. We have to rack our brain to fill this space, so slip me some bits of news whenever you can, so I will not have to do all thy lying.

The football team sure did look good against Greenville, 75 to 0. Well it was a good scrimmage for the team. A good time was had by all.

Arnold is back for duty, and is out with the football team, but is a long ways from being in condition. Being on special duty for the past several months at Capt. Teachout's summer resort he was unable to keep in good condition.

The leak in Lieut. Jaynes windshield has been repaired.

Beds are made to sleep in. 'Sfact, although Wade doesn't seem to know it, and goes to sleep in automobiles. Howard's busses seem to be his favorite brand of Pullman.

Burton, of Company "C," while traveling about in the suburbs of Greenville last Friday thought that he would attempt a little aerial flight with his "Hoopie," which resulted disastrously for the car, although the occupants were unhurt. What did you think you were, a butterfly? Drink "squirrel whiskey instead of Old Crow, you can stand the jumps, but don't try the flying again.

Say, Gardner, why don't you put some tires on that Dodge? You aren't running fast freights now.

Carey and Hardman, of Co. "C" have left on 60 day furlough to St. Louis. Please stay off the corner of Eighth and Market, as we'd like to see you get back safely.

Boltan puts marks on the calendar every day now. "Short timers" sound off. He says he'll hoist "Old Glory" to the top of the pole, and he's going to re-up—in the same old way.

"Catfish" Bledsoe claims the hotcake eating championship of the 4th Corps Area. Have we any challengers? He says that if they are good that he can eat 90 per hour, but if they are like Headquarters and "A" company cooks but out he refuses to endanger his life in any such menial way. At present he is fighting the battle of "Starvation hill."

Bryan, of Co. "C," had visitors a few days ago. A party composed of Mayor L. B. West, of Cuthbert, Ga.; Mr. W. C. Sawyer, Cuthbert; Misses Catherine Thomas, Columbus; Vera Gregory, Montezuma; Alma Blunt, Wrightsville; and others spent a pleasant afternoon with him at the polo game and inspecting the Tanks.

Well gang, let's go. "Turn to the Right" and "Up One Flight," our two plays, are being presently nightly for the next week on the original stage.

It is rumored that our star center has also became a "Stage-door Johnny," as it is known that he and "Little Eva" of the !! Up One Flight" cast have become fast friends.

Will someone kindly tell the editor what town or district it is that Bob Hunter claims to be Mayor of.

"Abie" and "Polygarchy," of Co. "C," are said to be planning another trip up 11th street. Wonder if they will make the corner without any assistance next time. If it hadn't have been for her husband on the sidewalk she'd have never run you into anything at all, Bruce.

It is understood that Bryan has become a pillar of one of the Jordan City churches. Wonder if he attends for the same reason that Edmunds used to go to church in Owenton, and also in Rose Hill.

Artillery News Notes.

The battalion football team, for three periods threw a scare into the 15th Tank Corps eleven Wednesday afternoon, but that aggregation, Sharpe's hurling arm, Palleas' receiving hands, and this season's change of rules formed a quartette of factors that overwhelmed the cannoneers in the last quarter.

It was anybody's game until the fatal fourth. In the first quarter the Tanks took the ball at one end and marched it to the other in successive first downs. They got another on a freak bounce of the ball when punted to the cannoneer safety man.

And then the artillerymen got the ball. Samlavich and Marsh, aided by a fast charging line, pierced the Tank line for steady gains. When the Tanks took the ball with their backs to their goal, Donnelly, the artillery tackle, blocked a punt and fell on it for a touchdown. This same Donnelly scooped up the ball all afternoon whenever carlessly left about by a Tanker, played both sides of the defensive line with a hand apiece, pulled several Gaelic style punts when the regular kicker was out, and casually spoiled line plays by the simple expedient of picking up the nearest player with one hand and throwing him under the play while he covered a yawn with the other. Throughout the third quarter the score remained the same, two touchdowns to one, but when the artillery men attempted to send in several first string men, including Marsh, in the fourth quarter, they ran up against the recent change in rules which demands that a player removed in one half may not be reentered in the same half.

Handicapped by the loss of several of their best players, who had to do their fuming on the sidelines.

Handicapped by this, the artillerymen were in no position to put up their best defense against the beautiful forward passing game of the Tanks, who opened up in the last quarter with one of the best assortment of overhead plays ever completed on the Service Club field. The fast ends and backs of the Tanks corps played dazzling football, and the Tanks Corps interference has reached a stage of high class, but it is believed their line was outcharged by their lighter opponents. The Tank Corps open game in the last period put the cannoneers on the short end of a 39 to 6 score.

Signal Corps Notes

Our efficient Wire Chief Cpl. Raymond A. Harris, (or rather Mr. Harris) was discharged this week per expiration of term of enlistment. Mr. Harris has an excellent position awaiting him with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. While we wish him the best of success in his new fields of endeavor, we willl, however, miss him from our ranks, as well as the nightly radio concerts which we have listened to over his private radio set.

Private DeVine our Chief Operator in the Telephone Exchange says, "What to H..... is the use of being a boss if you can't fire your men?" Nuff said, we will not give you away to the public.

Since the coming of Capts. Lattin and Back to the local Signal Office, the efficiency of the office has increased greatly, and as we have known for some time that the services of Capt. Lattin was wanted as Signal Corps Laison Officer of the Infantry School and those of Capt. Back with the Engineering Section of the Infantry School, we have hoped that some means would be found of allowing both of these officers to remain with us, as during their short stay with us we have often wondered how we ever did without them. Therefore we welcomed with the joy the orders received the past week appointing Capt. Lattin Signal Officer and Capt. Back as Asistant Signal Officer.

The past week the Signal Officer, Assistant Signal Officer, and the Line Chief Staff Sergt. Manning, armed with maps pencils and other necessary paraphernalia, have scouted the reservation ferreting out the many faulty installations, and other things which have for several months been an annoyance to this office as well as to the activities to which they particularly apply. With the scouting which these officials are carrying on daily it will, only be a matter of short duration before the Signal Corps activities will be running smoothly.

We were asked the other day if we had female operators on the switchboard again, to which we replied such was not the case, it was only one of our regular enlisted operators endeavoring to impersonate the feminine sex, probably with the view of a possibility of getting on to a country board somewhere back in the sticks.

Pvt. Heard has applied for a three months furlough. He states that by that time without a doubt the telephone line wrecking crew up at the Upatoie Creek will have completed their work. If not he will apply for an extension. We have agreed to furnish him a weekly report of the number of hours we spend each Saturday afternoon during his absence at the Creek.

Cpl. Jenkins has asked us to kindly inquire of the News if they will not find space in this week's issue to publish his poem dedicated to the Howard Bus Line. We are heartily in accord with his contribution, the only missing link which we discovered was the fact that he failed to mention the number of patches which we have on our trousers which give them the appearance of a checker board. Oh! just the springs protruding through the seats that's all.

(Edtor's Note: The bus line classic had not arrived at the time of going to press.)

"OLD TIMER" TAKES A RAP AT PINK BREECHES AND NEW CAP—ALSO TAKES UP GOLF

My Dear Murphy: I can not understand why in your very curt answer to me in last letter you should cast doubt on me word and incidentally make fun of me high falutin language, as you term it. You have known me long enough to know that I am a truthful soldier, in fact that I would tell the truth until it hurts, and as far as the high falutin English of which you complain, surely you remember that many is the page of manuscript I had to copy for our old captain—one finger at a time—so that my English is much better than your own, even if tinged with a slight brogue. Indeed, every blessed thing I have told you is the truth and conditions are just as I represented them. You wouldn't know our present army from the Connaugh Rangers or the Inniskilling Dragoons, so flossy and chic are they with the new doodads and all.

But to get back to golf, the other day our captain came in and showed me his leave order. It was for two months and nine and one-half days. Says he, "Flanagan, I am going to leave you for a short time. Slavinsky, me striker and factotum, will have charge of me dog, and you can take care of me golf clubs. They're over in the corner; use them. It might help your ingrowing grouch and creeping indigestion," Saying thus, he left. There are four of the funny looking little shinney stricks and six hard rubber balls. So one day when the company was on fatigue and none of our opcers was around I sneaked out on the links—links, mind you—with the help of Sandy Mackintosh, our artificer, a sunny Scot of parts, I took my first lesson. First we traced across the parade, dodging polo ponies and ducking home run drives made by golfettes to the siren call of fore, whatever that means.

I now feel that I am a golfer meself, and believe me nearly everybody is doing it. Why, they are so enthusiastic that they play at daylight and even during drill hours, and if it weren't for the fact that the pink pants plague is the exclusive idiocyncracy of the commissioned personnel, I'd sport a pair meself. Murphy, old top, but for my little remaining Gaelic sense of humor, the changing fashions in uniforms would be the death of me entirely. Last week I told you about pink pants, but for fear that you wouldn't believe me at all, I did not mention the choistest morsel of the lot, the Czecho-Slovak skypiece. 'Tis a jewel—a work of art. Language fails me in describing its poetic lack of lines; its rakish appearance, the modis hand distingue character which it imparts to the lucky wearer, particularly if he is the proud possessor of an accompanying Charlie Chaplin Omelia murder!

Did I tell you that the remainder of our regiment got here? Well, they did, and a fine upstanding body of men they are, none better. I like the spirit of many of them. The day after they arrived we had fourteen applicants for each coffee cooling job on the post, and our own coffee coolers, with equal spirit, volunteered to hold the jobs down indefinitely. That is indeed the true spirit of self-sacrifice and soldierly devotion to duty.

I was that way when I was a recruit myself—only a minute though. When I first joined at David's Island, old Sgt. Biddy O'Connor was provost, and the first day we were out for fatigue Biddy lined us up and called for mechanics, typists, clerks, et cetera, to step to front; with several other come-ons, I stepped. Biddy detailed me to turn the wringer for his wife. So since then I waited for details to seek me.

We now have a full complement of soldiers representing all combat arms, tanks, ex-tanks, infantry and artillery. The latter are distinguished by their uniforms. The most striking part of which is a large leather vest worn on the outside. I don't see why they didn't adopt the Filipino style entirely and wear their shirts outside also. But the greatest pleasure of all is yet to be realized, that is to see the tanks proudly prancing around parade with guidons flying. Oh, indeed 'twill be a wild night at sea. Auf vedershehen.

Your old Bunkie, Old Timer.

THEM WAS THE GUYS!

Who won the war? Hellsbells, buddies, have you forgot the dudes that quizzed you with this stuff: "Cross all the t's and dot all the i's in the following words: Orange, Banana, Lemon; How many legs has a Parasite; If the answer to the preceding question is an odd number, or if Edison discovered America, put your chest measurement in the space which is in the triangle and the square but not the circle; Subtract 119 from 107—from 76, 66, etc.; If the total of the remainders of the preceding problems is over 53, put the name of your favorite bootlegger on a card and hand it to the top-kick. If you like army life place your tongue between your upper and lower fourth molars and have your buddy butt-stroke your chin with his 30.30."

Say, have your birds forgot the psychs? It would have been a hell of a war if the psychs hadn't horned in. I was a doughboy myself, but if any tin-hat trench-hound tries to take for himself any of the credit that is due to the psychs I'll knock him for seven consecutive rows of G. I. cans, and that goes.

American Legion Opposes Small Army

EXTRACT FROM RESOLUTION SHOWS THAT LEGION FAVORS PROVISIONS OF NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT.

The trend of public opinion is signified by the fact that the National Convention of the American Legion has gone on record as being in favor of a Regular Army of the size designated by the National Defense Act of June 4, 1920.

Extracts from a resolution passed by the National Convention are quoted below:

"Be it resolved, That the National Convention of the American Legion endorses the National Defense Act of June 4, 1920, as a sound foundation for the miiltary policy of the American government, and urges adequate appropriations to maintain the Regular Army, National Guard, Organized Reserves, Reserve Officers Training Corps and Citizens Military Training Corps under its provisions in a state of organized efficiency that will guarantee the peace, security and intengrity of the country.

"Resolved, That this convention regards as a national peril of the gravest chaarcter the reduction of the Regular Army below the total enlisted strength provided in the National Defense Act of June 4, 1920. This convention further recommends the immediate repeal of the Army Elimination Class of the Army Appropriation Bill of June 30, 1922, so that the minimum commissioned personnel shall not be less than 13,000 officers."

SECRETARY OF WAR TO REQUEST CONGRESS TO AMEND NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT AND OBVIATE REDUCTION OF NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS.

The National Defense Act of 1920 provided officers and non-commissioned officers, not on the basis of the authorized enlisted strength of the Regular Army, but on the basis of the obligations and requirements brought about by the new missions imposed upon this class of personnel by the experiences of the World War. The number of non-commissioned officers in each grade was not fixed by a specific number as in the case of officers, but by a percentage based on the total enlisted strength of the then authorized Regular Army of 280,000.

At the strength of 280,000 the percentages fixed in the law met the requirements for non-commissioned officers, not only for the tactical organizations, but also for duties in connection with the administrative overhead of the service and for those particularly imposed by the National Defense Act in connection with the organization and training of the National Guard, the Organized Reserves and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

In limiting the enlisted strength of the Army first to 175,000 men, then to 150,000 and again to 125,000, consideration was not given to the non-commissioned officer and the important work which he is expected to do in the scheme for national defense. With an enlisted strength authorized at only 125,000 the original percentages fixed in law for the various grades of non-commissioned officers are found totally inadequate. Hundreds of such non-commissioned officers are scheduled for duty with organizations of the National Guard, the Organized Reserves and at Reserve Officer Training Corps units. United the original terms of the National Defense Act these men would have been available and could have gone to their duty with sufficient rank and pay to enable them to live in civilian communities in a way creditable to themselves and the work in which engaged, but now these men will find themselves forced into a lower grade with much lower pay. For all its activities the War Department should have about 7800 non-commissioned officers in the three senior grades but based on a strength of 125,000 and the terms of existing law only 5500 can be kept in the grades.

After a careful study of this situation it has been found that about 1600 of the senior non-commissioned officers of the Army are to be demoted unless some increase in authorized numbers is made. Of course, this demotion will carry with it such a loss of pay and prestige as to make it impossible for many of them to continue on the work now planned for them. This situation is so serious not only on account of the work on which they are to be employed but is such an injustice to the men themselves who as a class have long years of service to their credit and are nearly all veterans, that the Secretary of War has asked Congress to amend the National Defense Act and to authorize numbers in the higher grades so that the requirements for non-commissioned officers can be more nearly met.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY OF WAR ON BUDGET ESTIMATES OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The following is the reply from the President to the letter from the Secretary of War which follows it:

The White House, Washington,
October 21, 1922.

My dear Mr. Secretary:

I have had under advisement your letter of September 21st, wherein you point out that budget requirements of the next fiscal year have occasioned the formulation of the War Department estimate on a basis which can not be justified except by the absolute necessity for immediate economy.

Although there has been some increase in the limiting sum since the date of your letter, I understand that there still must be a very appreciable curtailment in the military program for next year. Disappointing as such a course must be, I do not believe that we are justified in exceeding the governmental resources for the coming year. Nevertheless there are limits in reduction beyond which we can not go, even in the praiseworthy cause of economy, without destroying the excellent foundation now laid for our national defense and forfeiting the accrued benefits of World War experience.

It is intended to adhere to the purposes and provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920. Recommendations of our war-tried military advisers as to the essential requirements for the effective and satisfactory operation of that Act can not be ignored. I believe that the Army is now as small as should be contemplated, unless there should be a decided change in military conditions throughout the world.

Very truly yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

War Department, Washington,
September 21, 1922.

The President,
The White House:

Dear Mr. President:

I have this day transmitted to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget the Budget requirements of the War Department for the fiscal year 1924, and feel that I would be neglecting my duty if I did not present to you certain salient facts in connection therewith.

The estimate is submitted for the 125,000 enlisted men and 12,000 officers now authorized by law, and does not express the military requirements in order to carry out the spirit and object of the National Defense Act. In my opinion, and the opinion of military leaders of the Regular Army, National Guard and Organized Reserves, the minimum number required to carry out the provisions of that Act are 150,000 enlisted men and 13,000 officers.

Within the limiting figure allowed to the War Department by Bureau of the Budget, namely, $312,932,309, it is not possible to meet the absolute requirements of the existing military organizations which are authorized by law. However, advantage has been taken of the authority of the Bureau of the Budget to submit as supplemental estimates those needs of the War Department which were considered absolutely essential and which could not be included within the limiting figure of $312,932,309. The total of the regular estimate and the supplemental estimate has, however, been kept below the current appropriations.

Th resulting figures have been submitted solely on the basis of allowing the material plant of the Army to run down temporarliy, in the interests of immediate economy, with a full knowledge that this means a greater expense in future years to recover from accelerated deterioration. Such a policy could only be supported in the conviction of the absolute necessity for immediate economy. The Budget is submitted with this idea in mind, and should be considered now and in the years to come in the light of these remarks.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN W. WEEKS,
Secretary of War.

POLO.

Last Sunday afternoon the largest crowd that has yet gathered to witness the Sunday afternoon polo game were entertained by the six teams engaged.

The first game was between the 29th Infantry and the Yellows. The 29th Infantry conceded a four-goal handicap to their opponents and the final result was 16 to 5. Major Waite of the Yellow team scored the goal for his team and played a hard game throughout. The work of Douglas and Botts for the 29th Infantry was outstanding, the former scoring six goals and the latter five. This team worked well together and showed a decided well together in both stick work and team work over previous performances.

The second game was between Co. "D," 29th Infantry and Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry. This game was played on mules. The players were somewhat handicapped because of their mounts not taking kindly to the game. One big black, especially, seemed to have a decided preference for the picket line at the end of the field where the Blue team horses were located and the player had considerable difficulty keeping his animal in the game. Both teams started at scratch with the result of 2 to 0 in favor of Company "D."

The third game was the hardest fought game of the seson so far. The Blue team and the 83rd Artillery met for four periods and the final outcome of the game was in doubt until the last gong sounded. The Artillery got the lead within the first minute of play. Gannon, with an exceptionally difficult stroke, scored for the Artillery. The Blue team came back strong and tallied up one. By hard riding the Blue team gained the advantage over their opponents in the next three periods and near the last of the fourth chukker the score was 4 to 3, favor of the Blues. With but less than a minute to play Gannon stole the ball out of a crimmage and was down the field on a hard run, getting the jump on his Blue opponent. Two Blue players pushed him hard but his horse was the fastest of the three and just before the gong sounded Gannon shot the ball between the goals. This happy finish was appreciated by the crowd and especially by the Blue team, the latter taking opportunity to compliment Gannon on his play.

The line-ups were as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| YELLOWS | Vs. | 29TH INF. |
| Martin | 1 | Douglas |
| Waite | 2 | McClur |
| Eggers | 3 | Brooks |
| Wheeler | Back | Betts |

Next Sunday the games will be between the Artillery and the Yellows and the 29th Infantry and the Blues.

The first game begins at 2:15 in the afternoon and, in the event of rain on Saturday or Sunday whether there will be play or not will be indicated by the flag in front of the Station Hospital, the blue flag denotes play.

History of the 29th Infantry

The old soldier rises to remark that he has ridden through Cuban jungle trails in a bull cart; has sat astride the placid Philippine carabo; careened through the streets of Nagasaki in a rambling rickshaw; been jolted over the Chinese equivalent of a road in a "Pekin buggy;" jogged through mesquite and cactus on a Mexican burro; mushed the Yukon trail behind a sled and team of huskies; risked his life with a drunken Parisian Taxi driver; bounced over the cobblestones of Vladivostock in a dilapidated drashky and rolled down Wilhemstrasse in a carriage of former royalty, but for the ride of a lifetome and the choicest conglomeration of smells he recommends a pay-day bus ride from Columbus to Camp when the wind is blowing "right" from the guano factory.

FOOTBALL

On last Wednesday afternoon the 15th Tanks added another victory to their credit and annexed a hard fought game from the 83rd Artillery. The first half was hotly contested and ended 13 to 6 in favor of the "Treat 'Em Rough" outfit. In the second half the Tanks came back with a rush and after the dust had settled at the end of the game the tally read 39 to 6, favor of the Tanks.

The forward passing and line plunging of Sharpe, the tackling and receiving of forward passes by Arnold and Mabry, and the general good work of Swantic, Poling, and Wooten, combined with the heady work of Sullivan contributed to the Tank's victory.

The line-ups were as follows:

| TANKS | | ARTILLERY |
|---|---|---|
| Pallies | R.E. | Anderson |
| Poling | R.T. | Steelman |
| Mattingly | R.G. | Harrison |
| Lindsey | C. | Erdos |
| Nelson | L.G. | Zuskowitch |
| Lee | L.T. | Donnelly |
| Mabry | L.E. | Hunt |
| Swantic | F.B. | Marsh |
| Wooten | R.H. | Cakelutch |
| Sharp | L.H. | Sammovlitch |
| Sullivan | Q.B. | Rutledge |

The standing of the teams in the Fort Benning League is as follows:

| | Pld. | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2nd Bn., 29th Inf. | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |
| 15th Tank Battalion | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |

Co. A. Co. Officers Mess

Company "A" was more than prominent in one of the most unique of all dinners, that given last week by the members of the Bolo Squad of the Company Officers' Class to Capt. Lawrence Glasgow who guided and cajoled the eight members of the unit to a 100 per cent qualification on the rifle range. Two experts and six marksmen were the results of his efforts.

The dinner was held at the Ralston Hotel. Captain Layman was a guest of honor. Capt. Allen presented Capt. Glasgow with a regulation army bolo carefully polished with a silver plate on the handle, inscribed thus:

To CAPTAIN L. B. GLASGOW
By the Bolo Squad
Company Officers' Class 1923.

Place cards were in the form of paper bolos, the decorations thereon featuring a target and a wildly waving red flag, Captain Addington of "Our Own" being the artistic genius for the occasion.

The back of each place card bore one of the rifle range alibis voted by the Bolo Squad as being among the most popular presented during the range work.

Among them were:
"Someone stole my bolt."
"I had to take my wife to a bridge party last night."
"I was overcoached."
"I was metal fouling."
"My clip broke."
"My sights were crooked."

"Dad" Fowle has opened a whirlwind campaign for election as Commander of the American Legion at the next annual convention. If elected he states that one of his chief policies will be to secure the passage of a bill by Congress prohibiting all high-jumping, shot-putting, broad-jumping, and sprints by officers of the army attending service schools whose last names begin with "F," and end in "E," and who were appointed from North Carolina. Company "A's" political sharks consider the candidate's chances for election to be about equivalent to those of Mr. Andrew Gump.

Company "A" wishes to call attention to the fact that Calculator, mathematical genius of Fort Benning and harbinger of Infantry School good-fortune has adopted this organization for his own. This high priest of the "God of Tenths" saw fit to cavort to the range during target season along side of Company "A's" section of the Contour Limited and spends most of his rest periods in our locker room.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Pvt. Williamson, the well known sharpshooter, has a special guard in his tent from retreat to reveille every night, to see that he doesn't sleep too sound.

The company automobile school is in full swing. The school is open every Saturday afternoon from 1 to 6 p. m. We have quite a number of students. Sgt. Stover is the official instructor.

A thousand drunks for a dime. A certain man in the company has a new way of getting drunk. He gets a dime's worth of camphor balls, and says he uses them to blacken the sights of his rifle, but we know better when he keeps smelling the fumes from the balls.

While dancing at the Service Club the other night, one of the men from the company was seen to fall in the middle of a dance. He says the shoes he wore were new and a little slippery. We know all about the shoes, but we think he had something that went to his head instead of to his feet. The shoes were not quite so slippery the night of the company dance, and they behaved themselves wonderfully.

Do we have any gold diggers in the company? Ask Sgt. Tyree. The other day he was seen tearing up the floors of nine different tents in order to get fifty cents.

Our knight of the range is with us again after a sixty day furlough. We mean the range in the kitchen. We're glad to have him with us again, too, because the beans and the stew will fly when he goes in the kitchen. Just give us the kind like mother used to make.

When it comes to hiking, you have to hand it to this man who hiked from Atlanta to Baltimore to join the army. He should have no kick coming when it comes to hiking five or ten miles for exercise. We won't mention any names, but his initials are W. V. McCullom.

Pvt. Bruce Swisher has returned from a French leave, which ended quite suddenly and in a way that he was not expecting it to end. Better stick around, Bruce, you'll draw more money if you do.

Medical Department Notes

The weekly of the Non-commissioned Officers Club was held on Monday night on October 23, 1922. The attendance was good and the most enjoyable evening was spent in social recreation.

It is with pleasure that we announce the re-enlistments of Staff Sergeant Edward C. Carswell and Sergeant George E. Lang, Medical Department, for duty at this station. Uncle Sam still needs good typists and personnel clerks.

Word has been received from Captain A. A. Roby, M. A. C., that Mrs. Roby and he are enjoying the delightful weather conditions of Florida.

Mrs. H. S. Hansell, wife of Colonel Hansell, M. C., called a meeting at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, October 31, 1922, of the ladies of the Medical Department, for the purpose of forming a club to handle the social activities of the Medical Department at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Our obliging correspondence clerk Sergeant Thompson, likes the boxing matches very much, but does not like blood, and leaves early when there is any possibility of bloodshed in the ring.

On Thursday evening, October 26, 1922, a smoker was held in the Mess Hall of the Hospital for the men of the Medical Department. Practically every member of the Medical Department enlisted personnel was present. Music was furnished by the 24th Infantry orchestra. Dancing lessons were offered by 1st Sergeant Rogers, and some exceptionally good and new dances were discovered. Cigars and cigarettes were the smokes for the evening, and sandwiches, coffee and "near beer" (fairly good) was served about 9:00 p. m. Everyone reports an enjoyable evening and that "stag dancing" made a great hit with the men.

MILITARY POLICE CO. NOTES

They sure have moved the M. P. Company just a few feet from where the Owls live; "believe me, things are so quiet that you can hear yourself think" and it is some relief after the "Battle of the Stockade;" the men are well pleased in their new home.

Notables Visit Benning

Guests of Commanding General.

Fort Benning was fortunate in having as guests this week Senator Harris, Senator-elect George, Congressman Wright, and Governor-elect Walker.

These gentlemen are interested in the needs of the Infantry School and, incidentally, in the Army as a whole. Such representatives as the military service requires will be ably handled at Washington by Senators Harris and George and Representative Wright.

Fort Benning congratulates itself on the personal interest shown the result of which was this visit. While at the Fort the visitors were entertained by General Gordon.

General and Mrs. Farnsworth Entertain

OFFICERS ON DUTY WITH CHIEF OF INFANTRY ATTEND BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Recently Major General and Mrs. Charles S. Farnsworth were hosts to the officers on duty in the office of the chief of infantry and their wives. The occasion will be long remembered as one of the most delightful affairs of the season in the infantry social circles. It was the general's birthday, and a real old-time Army birthday supper was served. This is a continuation of a custom long observed by General and Mrs. Farnsworth of entertaining the officers and ladies of the general's immediate command on his birthday.

Championship Game For The School Tots Wednesday Matinee

Tanks Will Meet Second Battalion. Winner To Make Trip To Atlanta. Promises To Be Hot Contest.

Due to the efforts of Lieut. Col. Horace P. Hobbs, Executive Officer of the 29th Infantry, who is senior officer on the Board of Governors of the Children's School at Fort Benning, admission will be charged next Wednesday afternoon in the championship football game between the "Terrible Tanks" and the Second Battalion of the 29th Infantry.

The game will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock on the gridiron adjacent to the Service Club and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected.

The team that wins this game will be declared champions of the Post by Captain John W. Elkins, A & R Officer of the Post, and will be tendered a trip to Atlanta to participate in the championship games of the Fourth Corps area, which begin on November 20. Whether the "Tanks" or the "Second Bat" make the trip to the Capitol City depends on the "punch" they put in their game Wednesday afternoon. Verily, it will be a battle of giants and the war cry of the 29th Infantry, "Tackle 'em where you find 'em—and leave 'em where you tackle 'em," will be carried out to the letter.

Owing to the great interest in this championship football battle Colonel Hobbs advocated the charging of a fee to the spectators to aid the Children's School. The enlisted men of the Post are now charged $5.50 a month for each child that attends the school. To reduce this tuition fee, Colonel Hobbs urged paid attendance on some of the first class athletic events of the Post, and his view prevailed. It is now announced that whatever funds accrue from the game between the "Tanks" and the "Second Bat" next Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to reducing the tuition fee on only the children of the enlisted personnel.

For the month of October, according to a report submitted by Colonel Hobbs, a deficit was incurred in operating the children's school, and this shortage was covered from funds on hand. But the fact that a deficit occurred emphasized the obvious fact that the tuition fee was too much for some of the parents to pay. So Colonel Hobbs sought other means of obtaining funds to alleviate the situation and he now urges on all officers and enlisted men of the Post to attend the game next Wednesday afternoon and support the children's school.

The report of the finances of the children's school for the month of October follows:

Tuition Fund.

Rec'd from October tuition....$354.20
Rec'd from Nov.-Dec. tui'n.. 170.50
Total .....$524.70
Paid to teachers (salaries)..$391.25
Balance on hand Nov. 4....$133.45

There are outstanding tuition dues unpaid for the month of October $64.65, causing a deficit of $37.05 necessary for the payment of the teachers for October. This deficit has been temporarily covered by tuition paid several months in advance by some of the parents.

Equipment Fund.

Rec'd from Hallowe'en pty....$222.54
Expended ..... 65.16
Bal. on hand Nov. 4.....$157.38

The expenditures were those incident to the Hallowe'en party ($49.94) and for school books ($15.22). Total $65.16.

Good Pictures Coming To Fort Benning

SOME OF THE SHOWS FOR NOVEMBER ANNOUNCED.

That Fort Benning is going to have better pictures than ever before is a foregone conclusion. The theatre management gives below an outline of the pictures to be expected soon. The exact dates of showing will be published weekly in the theatre programs.

"Me and My Gal," starring Betty Balfour, is an unusual English story well up to American standards of acting and photography. In this story Miss Balfour is "Squibs" Hopkins, a London flower girl. "Squibs", saucy and pretty, works to keep her family decent. Her father is a corner book-maker and her sister is a shiftless creature whose admirer is a crook. These people resent "Squibs'" sweetheart, a policeman, and tell her that he comes only to pump her of information. In desperation the policeman takes "Squibs" to his people who are at first delighted. This attitude changes, however, when the mother discovers that "Squibs" is not serving in a lordly house as the mother did in her youth. The flower girl is repulsed because her work is not "respectable" but from this comic situation comes dramatic events and, finally, a happy understanding.

"The Black Bag," featuring Herbert Rawlinson as Billy Kirkwood, the hero of the story, has plenty of action throughout. Billy Kirkwood left his furnishing store and went to New York on his vacation. While in a cafe a young woman sought his protection from a man who was annoying her. Billy next met the girl at a nearby beach resort and the annoying stranger was also present. Then the young business man became involved in the strangest adventure of his career.

A diamond necklace had been stolen and the stranger, a crook, told

Garrison Schools Opened This Week

REGIMENTAL AND DETACHMENT OFFICERS HARD AT THEIR BOOKS.

School Days, School Days,
Dear Old Golden Rule Days,
Readin an Ritin and Rithmatic
Taught to the tune of——

Such is life in Fort Benning these days. In other words Garrison School has started and all officers are hard at their books again. Uncle Sam is determined that the officers of the army shall know their stuff and as a result they are all at it again. Some take it with good grace while others growl a bit.

The subjects covered go from Military Courtesy to Hippology and even take in the Rules of Land Warfare which passed out of existence on the second day of the World War. The greatest excitement is expected to be caused by the class in Sabre Drill. If some of the officers who for the first time are going thro the manual escape unharmed the Hospital will be greatly surprised.

In the words of the Immortal Bard of Avon:

Then comes the SCHOOLBOY
With shining morning face
Trudging unwilling to school.

Gen. Pershing's Horses Win at Washington Show

GENERAL HARBORD AND SECRETARY HOLBROOK ALSO WIN PRIZES.

In the District of Washington Army Horse Show, recently held in Washington, General Pershing's entries took three prizes. President Harding's saddle horse, Harbel, ridden by Lieut. C. C. Jadwin, was defeated by General Harbord's Gaylark.

In the charger competition two major generals and one brigadier general rode their own mounts. Major General Holbrook, chief of cavalry, mounted on Dragon, won the cup in this event.

This show, which was quite successful, is but one of a series of exhibitions being conducted by the District of Washington, under the direction of Brig. General Banholtz, for the purpose of more fully acquainting the people with army activities.

Finance Detachment Notes

Cord Wood Barker is wondering why Squash Seed Watson presists in calling him "Country."

Sergeant Fermen, Q. M. C., enjoyed a quiet game of pinocle with some of the Finance boys last Sunday evening.

The Detachment was aroused from peaceful slumber Tuesday night by Private Willis; upon investigation Willis told one of the reporters that the imagination that snakes were in his bed was the cause of it all. The mystery is yet to be solved but the Detachment thinks he found Shorts bottle.

We are no longer bothered with Corp. Short in the barracks at night as he can be seen regularly at the Service Club as a very conspicious person since assuming chairmanship of the weekly dance committee. Our old stand-by, Private Cliett, says he is sure the Corp. has enlisted in the force of the Jelly Chested Cowboys" who blossom out at night with seven dollars worth of perfume on them and fifteen cents worth of canteen checks in their pockets.

Wanted — A night-cap. Private Stokes.

The Detachment is trying to console "Hayseed" Barger over the loss of his title, "The Hot Cake King," he having turned the medals over to his successor, Private Stokes. Since we are speaking of Private Stokes Since we are speaking of Private Stokes we might add that at the rate he is going at present the supply of Mary Garden perfumes at the Post Exchange will be to be replenished at an early date.

Who got the twenty-one licks last Tuesday? Ask Bennett.

Stokes want to know where he can get a tent—says the boys wont let him sleep after 7 o'clock on Sunday mornings.

Quartermaster Detachment News Notes

Well, boys, here we are again after a week's vacation which was spent by His Royal Scribenta, The Q. M. Detachment Reporter, at the usual daily grind.

During the past week the Detachment has suffered great loss of personnel, among these we find Staff Sgt. Bruce Reynolds, very well and favorably known by all who have had dealings with him. Sgt. Reynolds came to Fort Benning in 1920 and was Commissary Sergeant for several months, then he took charge of the Fourth Corps Area Officers Sales Store, where he proved his ability as an efficient Business Man. We wish him much success in civil life.

Our world famed "Table-Tourist," Private Benson, who is also widely known for his qualifications as a "Speed Demon" on his bicycle, wishes to inform you that he does not wish to be interrupted during his training, which is two-fold: first, to meet Kramer for the U. S. championship title; second, to meet the Turk Thanksgiving on any and all tables of the Detachment Mess Hall. It is the belief of the members of the Detachment that he is fully capable of winning the latter title.

Wonder what makes "Smokey" Stephenson look so blue? What? His "Sweet Patootie" jilted him for another Joker. We feel for you, Old Boy, but don't take it so hard; statistics state that there is one born every minute; too bad he has no place to go these long dreary nights.

After a week's vacation from the limelights the "Twins" are back with us with all the "Pep and Ginger" of the season. They report a very successful game of "Fifty Billiards." So much for the success, but we don't care to state the failures, for if we did the Ft. Benning "Whiz Banks" of the Chattahoochee would have to swell the tide.

Since "Leslie O'Goof" has been promoted from "Tractor Driver" to "Motorcycle Aviator" we note great changes in his interest of life. He was seen going into the Mess Hall only 15 minutes late this morning (great change, we say). we also note that he doesn't seem to have any use for the Tractor as he was seen trying to "smash" it with his motorcycle.

Private Oosthuyzen (no, we didn't sneeze, that's his name) still takes his morning stroll down by the Chattahoochee. He says it's for his health. (Maybe for health, but for further information see Pvt. Albert Willette.)

Ode To Our Friend, James Roberts.
(By Your Humble Scribe.)

Our little friend, James Roberts,
Took a French leave one day.
Went up into the hills of Georgia
To see the little birdies play.

While there he was enchanted,
Forgot old Benning and its cares.
Till one morning he was awakened
By the bray of the "Old Gray Mare."

Next day says he to his comrades,
"I'm sure I should return,
Though I am feeling safe and at ease,
Wonder if they will throw away the keys."

So back to old Benning he came
The very next day,
And was very much surprised to find
On "French leaves" you draw no pay.

And they gave him another vacation
Which was signed by G. C. M.,
But now he is back with the boys
After four months in the "Dim."

Says he, "To stay away,
I'm sure it's best to be on time,
For they take away your pay,
And maybe your 'Good Time.'"
No harm meant, old boy, just had to fill out the space.

Say, how do you like the change, you know, from chauffeur for the prop. of the Hotel DeTeachout to Official P. K. for Friend "Bill?"

AS HAS BEEN previously stated in these columns, The News is for the benefit of the military personnel of Fort Benning and Columbus and to draw more closely together in a social and business way the two peoples.

As an outcome of this policy members of the military personnel who have something to sell or want to buy something are invited to use the space in The News for advertising their wants. No charge will be made for this service as the compensation of assisting some Army person in getting what he or she wants will be sufficient reward.

THE FACT that this station was this week visited by a governor, two senators, and a congressman is significant of the fact that the Infantry School is attracting merited attention. It may or may not have further significance but there is no doubt that the impressions gained by these visitors will influence them to a certain extent should attempts again be made to put through legislation unfavorable to the Army as a whole. It is hoped that these gentlemen received the most favorable impressions and that they will return to Washington having in mind the needs of not only the Infantry School but of the entire Army.

THERE IS a dearth of news from Army people living in Columbus. This is due to the fact, primarily, that The News has not yet succeeded in getting a Columbus correspondent. Each week something of a social nature happens in the city which should appear in our columns. The fact that the families living in Columbus are on detached service, so to speak, as far as the Post is concerned, does not signify that they are out of the Army. The News is anxious to receive accounts of happenings of interest and the Army ladies in Columbus are requested to either send their news notes to the A & R Office, Fort Benning, by letter or telephone the items. The telephone number is 146, but this should be resorted to only as a last resort to avoid errors in names, etc.

Kirkwood he had seen the girl take it from a jeweler's shop. Kirkwood knocked the man down but the seed of suspicion had been planted in his mind. In trying to help the girl, with whom he had fallen in love in spite of the cloud upon her honesty, Kirkwood clashed with a gang of thieves who were playing for high stakes. He pursued their fleeing yacht in a high-powered motor boat, recovered the necklace, brought back the thieves by force, and then was arrested at the dock as the worst criminal of all.

This picture is sure to furnish an evening's entertainment.

"The Lotus Eater," featuring John Barrymore, Colleen Moore, Anna Q. Nilsson, is the story of a young man who, because of the eccentricities of a father's will, never saw a woman until he was twenty-five years old. When he did see one he immediately became enmeshed by her wiles. There is a third woman in the story and among other things is a remarkable scene of an attempted trans-Atlantic flight in a blimp. Barrymore, Miss Moore, and Miss Nilsson are at their best in "The Lotus Eaters."

In "The Young Diana," starring Marion Davies, Miss Davies is seen as a young English girl whose love romance with a titled naval officer seemingly is forever shattered. Life loses interest to her and she develops into a spinster whose future is dreary and hopeless. But she goes to Switzerland, where she encounters a mysterious alchemist who induces her to subject herself to a deadly experiment with the result that she emerges from the ordeal a wonderful beauty and soon becomes the rage of Europe. Then in a mysterious way she encounters her former sweetheart, and what happens later is told thrillingly in a series of remarkable scenes. Naturally, she finds love and happiness at last.

Another good play coming soon is "Jackie," in which Shirley Mason plays the stellar role. Jackie is a little waif who has found her way from her natives Russia to London, where she dreams of a splendid career as a dancer.

The role gives the lovely little star excellent versatility, as Jackie runs the gamut of human emotions, from pathetic sweetness and patience, through anguish, terror, despair and finally triumph in love.

"Jackie" is a highly entertaining picture, and will be long remembered for its charm.

The star is strongly supported by William Scott as the young American, Harry Carter as the gross and brutal theatrical manager, and George Stone as Jackie's little crippled friend.

Shirley Mason not only strengthens her claim to fame as a notable actress of the screen in this picture, but reveals herself as a dancer of unusual ability.

"The Man From Home," in which Anna Q. Nilsson plays with James Kirkwood shows Miss Nilsson as Genevieve Simpson, the society belle of Kokomo, Indiana, who leaves her native town for a three year's tour of Europe, with her brother. They are orphans, but before his death their father had appointed Daniel Forbes Pike, guardian and executor of their considerable fortune. Though almost broken-hearted at the parting, Daniel's grief is softened by learning that his love for Genevieve is reciprocated. But once abroad the three years make many changes and in Italy the girl, blinded by the dazzling splendor and the impetus, passionate wooing of a dissolute prince, finds herself enmeshed in a net of tangled emotions.

Incidents of passion and jealousy merge swiftly into a turmoil of incidents which has the murder of the Prince as the climatic scene. News of the situation in which Genevieve finds herself, reaches Daniel in America. Scenting trouble in a letter he has received from Genevieve's brother Horace, he arrives on the scene and is unconsciously drawn into the tangle. His keen American preception quickly sizes up the situation, but he shrewdly holds all his cards until the psychological moment and then slashingly exposes the Prince who proves to be profligate and assassin.

Genevieve, thoroughly disillusioned, realizes that she has never really ceased loving "the man from home," and is well content to feel Daniel's arms around her once more and to go back to Indiana.

"Orphans of the Storm" is a remarkable love story in which Lillian and Dorothy Gish co-star. The play is a D. W. Griffith play and is adapted to the screen from the novel, "The Two Orphans."

Possibly the most thrilling scene is the ride by Danton, leader of the French Revolutionary uprising. The ride to the rescue is punctuated by a battle between horsemen and a group of the Robespierre faction. This is a thrilling affair at the gate of Paris. The horses belong to the U. S. Government cavalry, and the riders are either active or ex-army men. The cavalry have been so photographed that they seem to be rushing on the theatre-spectators who are looking at them. The effect is said to surpass even the famed Klu Klux Klan ride in "The Bird of a Nation."

The abduction scene of Henriette, the duel at Bel-Air, the adventures of the blind Louise, the orphan sister, the meeting of the sisters at the Tribunal, and under the guillotine, and finally the depiction of the little heroine's impending fate, are among the other high points of a great story that weld together the old "Two Orphans" play and the French Revolution drama. Those well known favorites Miss Lillian and Miss Dorothy Gish play the title roles.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 7.)

[illegible] Dieulouard the road turned abruptly to the left and up a steep hill, thence through Griscourt and Grezencourt to Martincourt.

Between Dieulouard and Griscourt the regiment was continually held up by truck columns. Finally orders from Lieutenant Colonel Paules were sent to the rear of the animal column, which was marching in rear of the regiment, that under no circumstances were any auto trucks to be allowed to pass, and at every cross road guards were dropped off to allow no trucks to cut in on [illegible]e columns. At one cross-road where the regiment was halted because of a block in the road ahead, a French sergeant conveying three trucks was stopped despite his protests, with tears in his eyes, that the trucks contained ammunition needed for a barrage scheduled for 7:30 a. m.

At 9:00 a. m. the regiment arrived in a wood about three kilometers from Martincourt after a 14-hour march of thirty kilometers, the last four kilometers up an extremely steep hill with mud ten inches deep. As usual, it was raining, and there was no shelter to be had except pup tents. These were soon pitched and everyone was getting a much needed rest.

That same evening details from the regiment were sent out in preparation for the drive which was to begin on the 12th.

The enemy's positions on that part of the St. Mihiel salient confronting the sector assigned the 5th Division included in depth, four successive heights, three of which were defended by well organized systems of trenches, and each of which comenemy's reserves were stationed, and from which counter-attacks could normally be planned.

The most southerly of these heights was protected by an outpost position and the first combat position. The outpost position was a line of outpost trenches poorly maintained, and not strongly held. The wire in front was wide and in fair condition. Liaison to the rear was maintained by a number of connecting trenches, of which the principal ones were the Oster-laufgraben (running along the Thiaucourt road) and the Boyau des Sacs (300 meters farther west). Both of these trenches fed the Quellenlager which was at the eastern horn of the Bois des Four. The first combat position consisted of a trench running from the Thiaucourt road at Hill 343-4 and across Hill 345-5 northeast toward the Bois de la Rappe, on the southwest edge of which the position was discontinued except for occasional bands of wire. At the southeastern edge ofthe Bois de la Rappe the system reappeared. Liaison to the rear was assured by a communication trench leading to the Quellenlager, and by the Ravine de la Fosse.

The second height, Hill 341-4 south and southeast of Vieville-en-Hoye was protected by the second combat position, solidly constructed with two lines of trenches at an average distance apart of two hundred to three hundred meters. The Bois des Saulx contained concrete dugouts under six meters of earth. Liaison to the rear was assured by numerous paths along the narrow valleys and by two narrow gauge railways: Vieville-en-Haye—Bois des Grandes Portions and Vieville-en-Haye—Bois de la Rappe (Quellenlager).

The third height, hill 361-4 (northeast of Vieville) was scarcely organized, and was in advance of the third position. The third position consisted only of lines of wire along the west edge of the Bois de Bonvaux, one kilometer north of Jaulny, and the southern outskirts of the Bois de Grande Bontaine, one kilometer north of Tautecourt Ferme.

The four heights, the hills south of Villcey (Grange-en-Hay, 333 and 3617), were protected by the withdrawal position which was part of the Hindenburg sector of the Fifth Division by Rembercourt. There was a double line of trenches which contained numerous concrete dugouts. A double line of wire in zigzag protected each trench, and concrete dugouts appeared back of the trenches to a depth of fifteen hundred meters.

There had been no change on this front for four years. It was regarded by both the French and Germans as practically impregnable. The allied high command was somewhat reluctant about letting the Americans alone undertake the reduction of this salient, and preferred the brigading of the Americans with the French. Marshal Foch intended to use the Americans in the Meuse-Argonne, and it is understood, told General Pershing that if the attack would possibly embarrass the American command for the Meuse-Argonne, the St. Mihiel attack plans should be discontinued.

The attack was to take place on September 12th, and on September 11th the companies of the regiment received their assignments.

Company "A"—Assisting tanks and cutting wires.

Company "B"—With Infantry, cutting wire.

Company "C"—With Artillery for bridging trenches.

2nd Battalion—Opening up lines for communication.

At one o'clock on the morning of the 12th the barrage began and lasted four hours. In intensity this barrage established a new record and the impressions upon us who were experiencing a major operation for the first time will never fade. At 5 a. m., preceded by a rolling barrage, the infantry advanced, and on that day as well as during the period September 13th-16th inclusive, when the division (less engineers and artillery) were relieved, every objective was carried.

Fort Benning Music Club Organized

Held First Meeting Thursday Night.

On last Thursday evening the Fort Benning Music Club met for the first time at the home of Mrs. Frank Green. Mrs. Green and Mrs. J. W. Elkins were hostesses.

There were twenty-five officers and ladies present and several choral selections were gone over. A number of excellent singers combined to make the chorus a success.

Among the instrumental selections offered were several violin and piano numbers rendered by Capt. and Mrs. Lagorio. An instrumental quartette was organized, composed of the piano, guitar, mandolin and Zuva violin, an instrument with but one string, but with a range of three octaves. The latter instrument was played by Lieut. Huff, of the National Guard Officer's Class.

It is the aim of the music club to eventually organize a glee club with a large chorus of mixed voices. Male voices, especially the tenors and basses, are needed to perfect the organization. Invitations are extended by the Music Club to all officers to join the club.

Meetings will be held weekly at the Officers' Hop Room, Fort Benning, every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. At these meetings new selections will be practiced. All officers and ladies are invited to be present whether they participate in the musical selections or not.

History of the 29th Infantry

Article 9.

1909.

The Regimental Machine Gun Platoon under Lieut. Mason left Fort McKinley for Manila at noon Jan. 31. Returned to Post on Feb. 16.

Companies K and M each did a month's duty at Cuartel de Espana, Manila.

The annual target practice of the Regiment commenced on Jan. 25.

On Feb. 2 sixty-five recruits joined from the United States.

In June the 29th participated in Brigade reviews at Fort McKinley for Generals Duvall and Carter.

"The entire Regiment left Fort McKinley at 9 a. m., July 31, in compliance with G. O. No. 24. Proceeded on cascoes to Estado Mayor, Manila and thence by marching to the U. S. A. T. dock. Headquarters, band and third battalion embarked on the U. S. A. T. Wright and the first and second battalions on the U. S. A. T. Liscum, leaving Manila at 12 M., arriving at Quarantine station, Mariveles, Bataan, at 3:30 and 5 p. m., respectively."

Remained at Marivelee for two weeks.

The Regiment left the Quarantine station at noon of August 15 en route to the United States on the U. S. A. T. Thomas. Arrived at Nagasaki, Japan, at 1 p. m., on August 19 and sailed about midnight Aug. 20.

Arrived at Honolulu at 1 p. m., Sept. 2, sailing at midnight same date. Arrived in San Francisco Bay late Sept. 9. As this was Admission Day in California and a holiday the transport could not dock as no dock-workers were on duty. Remained anchored in the Bay therefore until morning, docking at Folsom street dock early on the 10th. Left San Francisco at 5 p. m. of the 11th. Left Point Richmond at about 8 p. m. by rail over the Santa Fe and Erie Railroads in three sections for stations as follows:

Headquarters, Band and Third Battalion for Fort Jay, N. Y.

First Battalion for Fort Porter, Buffalo, N. Y.

Second Battalion for Fort Niagara, N. Y.

The Battalions for Fort Jay and Porter arrived on Sept. 17 and the Battalion for Fort Niagara on the 16th.

Officers who joined in 1909 were: Captain Frank B. Hawkins, First Lieutenants Joseph M. Cummins, George A. Lynch, Truman Carrithers and Arthur E. Ahrends, and Second Lieutenant William F. Harrell.

In December Chaplain Wood changed station from Fort Jay to Fort Niagara. Strength of Regiment Dec. 31 was 991.

Corporal Alexander says Georgia is a place where, if you don't stir, you won't get fat. Corporal, you had better be stirring, you are getting awful thin. I think you are grieving, but what is the use of grieving and fretting your life away? Tomorrow the sun will be shining although it is cloudy today.

Oh, Boys! Sgt. Burley "Trigger" said he was not going to town until he got ready to catch a train. From the look of Saturday afternoon week-end vacation, he probably has changed his mind. I don't think he will ever get to Atlanta, as he was planning to do.

Pvt. Orange went to town on his week-end vacation Saturday afternoon with a high spirit about 12. I met him and his spirit was mighty low. His "Girl Friend" had given him the slip, and he was ready to come to Fort Benning, and stay forever. Poor Tom!

Pvt. 1st Class Dolphus Hill is leaving in a few days for his home in New Castle, Ala., where he will spend some weeks with his relatives.

Pvts. Davis, Carr and Houston went to Americus and struck oil. I wonder how deep is the well? Sorry I can't go.

Company "L."

Sergeant Session, better known as "old Bob," has been smiling ever since the arrival of the newcomers. He seems to be convinced that his dogs are not the worst specimens in the regiment.

Private Kade, better known as "Brother Spry," spent some of the day he drew his first pay after entering the service, getting him some civilian clothes to vamp the girls in twenty-three block. Look out, Brother Spry, the night hawk has his eye on you.

Corporal Jackson, better known as the "stew king," does not look as happy as usual. Since the arrival of the newcomers he is afraid he will lose his best girl. Cheer up, Corporal, as long as you trot the little ponies you are bound to score.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

First Sergeant Guy H. Smith has been transferred from the 30th Infantry to the Detachment.

Private Weinberg has returned from his coffee-cooling trip to the National Capital.

Morris and Culverhouse have been assigned to duty with the Department of Military Art.

Private Forest Dill has relieved Zelinsky at the M. T. C.

Rushlow has quit the telephone office to work in the Detachment.

Wonder what Mojarrieta was doing in Auburn?

Devaere says he is willing to pay $25.00 for a good mattress.

Is Siebeneichen a musician? Ask anyone who was present at the recent Elks' Initiation.

"Chick" Collins has received a deserved promotion.

Ralston and Ross are now pounding the Underwoods in the Detachment office under the watchful eye of the "Grand Goblin."

Talmadge, who was recently discharged, was a visitor this week. He said the beans still smell mighty good but he'll try railroading awhile.

Sergeant McCloskey, of the "Information Bureau," departed on Thursday for Portland, Maine, conducting a prisoner. We guess he'll find it retty cold up there after spending a few years in the "Sunny South."

Some folks, in their looks take so much pride,
They don't think much of what's inside.
Well, as for me, I know my face
Can never be made a thing of grace,
And so I rather think I'll see
How I can fix the inside o' me,
So folks will say, "He looks like sin,
But isn't he beautiful within!"

—Private Felton Ezell.

Mutt tells Jeff that his ignorance is refreshing, and along the same lines we would rise to remark that Gen. 9:1 means the first verse of the 9th chapter of the book of Genesis in the Hebrew Bible.

Captain Benacker has been wearing a broad smile lately. His mother arrived from Kansas City and is now living at the Post. Wish we were all lucky enough to have our mothers with us.

15th Tank Battalion News

Sharp seems to have the inside track with a certain young brunette in town. We won't divulge her name, old man, as we wish to give you all the chance in the world.

Sgt. Sullivan wants to know who ever heard of being financially embarrassed. Sully says there was a time when he was without any finances, but he didn't feel embarrassed about it.

Amongst our midst there is one who has attained many titles in public life, namely, Cpl. Pallis. The latest of these titles acclaimed to him is the "Sheik" of Jordan City.

Through an oversight on the part of ye scribe no mention has been made of the fact that a baby girl came to the home of Sgt. Hatfield a few weeks ago. The mother and baby are doing nicely. Congratulations, old man.

A meeting of the Log Hut committee was held Tuesday, November 7th, 1922. It continued until near the zero hour and finances pro and con were discussed. In fact, about everything that means money was talked about with the exception of the tariff and excess profits tax, but the watch dogs of the treasury were on the job and no serious inroads were made thereon.

Hunt, of "A" Co., leader of the Battalion band, was on the job at the football game last Wednesday. He was the most consistent and witty rooter in our section.

The log hut committee is working hard and no details however small will be overlooked for the big stag entertainment which will be held about the middle of December. A capacity crowd will be expected. Nothing will be left undone. A varied selection of the best vaudeville stars attainable, with the numbers so selected and arranged that even the most exacting members are sure to be pleased.

Staff Sgt. Otis A. Mason, of Headquarters Company, was united in wedlock Sunday, November 5th, at 5:00 p. m., in Columbus, Ga., by Chaplain Gray to a beautiful Northern girl, Miss Kathyrene S. Kangas, of Hancock, Michigan. The officers and enlisted men of the battalion extend their heartiest congratulations to the happy and popular couple. The bride and groom received a beautiful silver set of cutlery, presented to them by the officers and enlisted men of Headquarters Co. I will not go into any detail about the wedding, as there is a race of gifted people who make their livelihood by writing descriptions of weddings. I envy them. They can crowd so many pebbly facts into such a small compass. They have the names of everybody who attended from the officiating clergy down to the shyest of poor relations. With the cold accuracy of an encyclopedia and with expert technical discrimination they mention the various fabrics of which the costume of the bride was composed. They catalogue the wedding presents, with the correct name of the donor, and even can remember what hymns were sung. For the full account of the wedding see the North Highlands Star.

Things We Would Like To Know.

What does it feel like to be a sergeant? Ask Gagnon, he knows.

How our Sgt. Major gets a ringside seat for two bits?

Should the Company Commander's dog robber do a guard? Ask Thompson.

Who was the girl JIMMI-E-E-E wanted last Saturday night? South Carolina bound, eh?

In appreciation of good conduct and meritorious service a recent member of Headquarters staff has been awarded the great honor of being made a Sixth Class Specialist. What next, the gold bar, Howell?

The star mechanic of Headquarters Company has decided that Army Life was the best and has re-enlisted. Ambitious or just lazy, Norman?

Levine is going on another Jewish blowout Friday night and he says he is coming back with a full stomach this time. Watch Rudolph.

Staff Sgt. Maxham is back for duty after a severe attack of dengue fever. We sure are glad to see you back, old boy.

Thanks to the ladies of Columbus and Sgt. Mason, the last battalion entertainment was a great success. Mason in his role of the Handcuff King, assisted by Levine and several others, was really good. Can you get out of the fetters of married life as easily, Mason?

Speedy Adams has been keeping the road warm to Montgomery these days. What's the big idea, or is it a girl?

If you want a best man see Sgt. Henderson of Headquarters Co.

Baltzell, of Co. "C," has returned from the hospital, having recovered from injuries received in the Tanks-Artillery football game. Everyone is glad to see you back again, Bozo.

Harrell, of Co. "C," says he is going to re-up. Guess he will also. Is it on account of the flagpole transportation?

Cpl. Dewey Pollyanna Wade, of "C" Co., may be seen strutting his stripes about the Ralston almost any Sunday. We know what the attraction is, and don't blame you, but watch out for Sam Lewis and Military Bill, they'll get you yet. By the way, did you learn any new hymns last Sunday? Couldn't you talk her out of a box of Havanas for the editor. He'll promise to lay off then.

And by way of proof as to the way Sgt. Major Buck does things, we wish to tell how a little dinner party he had the other night came off. First of all, Mrs. Buck invited a few of the non-coms over who gathered around a table daintily spread with delicious edibles. This invitation augmented by the equally inviting spread speedily induced the boys to accept and sixteen parked their feet under the table. Each in turn did justice to the tasty cakes and ham sandwiches and indulged their stomachs in at least two cups of delicious coffee and then sat back and contentedly puffed on a rare Havana handed to them by everthoughtful Buck. As was said, everyone did well, but one did better than well. O'Neal, when he saw the feed before his eyes gasped out a "Hello." Then his heart leaped into his mouth and a lump welled in his throat but they both gave way to a ham sandwich that he was shaking hands with. The sandwich gave way to another and another and so on until we lost count at nineteen, afraid to watch him any more for fear he would think we thought he was eating too much. Well, anyway, between the thirty-second sandwich and the eighth cup of coffee Hicks shoved the cake plate under his nose. The cake aroma destroyed his appetite for ham, but the poor fellow had to take a piece of cake to show Mrs. Buck that he thought well of her cooking. To be brief, the cake was the nineteenth piece, cake cut in true motherly style, into six large pieces. After he finished the six there was another cake and ice cream, but, oh, what's the use? It's just like him. If we put him on our sick committee he might go around and visit our sick members and help eat their oranges and drink their medicine. But it was some spread.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

While firing on the range last week, Pvt. Cockelreas had the misfortune to let his elevation fall. We don't know how far it fell, but from the way he shot it must have been some fall.

When East is West, by Pvt. Peters. The other day he was heard to remark that Atlantic City was the most beautiful city in the States. He says you can sit on the boardwalk in the evening and sigh and watch the setting sun sitting out over the ocean.

Boy Howdy, we'll say we have some sharpshooters in the company. Pvt. Scharle, the Irish comedian, took first prize as a sniper. All the elevation he needed was whatever he could hit the target with.

The company dance held last Thursday was a great success. Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely, and wished that we could hold a dance every week. The 24th Infantry orchestra furnished the music, which was regarded by everyone present as real music. Pvt. Scharle showed ability as a dancer, and did quite well. He says the girl he danced with was too tall for him and it was hard for him to keep in step with her.

Terrible Terry, the sleuth, is on the trail of a skunk, which he says has been hanging around the company for the last two weeks. When he catches it he intends to tame it. You may have a hard time, Terry, because he belongs to a STRONG union.

Cpl. Adams at last has the one thing he has been pining for. While in town the other night he chanced to see an accordion, which he bought and brought out to the company. We hope you'll learn to play it soon, Adams, so we can get some sleep at night.

When he gets out of the Army, Pvt. Dennis is going to start a cattle farm. He's going to let the mules run loose with the cows so there will be a kick in the milk.

We've lost a real speed demon in the company now. The other night while driving to town at a speed of forty miles an hour, the steering gear broke and Cpl. Piotrowski headed for the field. He says he's through speeding from now on.

Pvt. Francis doesn't belong in the Army, he has wooden legs. The other day he was doing some carpenter work, and instead of hitting the board he hit his shins, thinking they were wood. (Nobody said anything about his head.)

Medical Department Notes.

The members of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club are looking forward to their second dance, November 14, 1922. A good attendance and an enjoyable evening are anticipated.

Captain Reeve Turner, M. C., has just returned from a sixty (60) day leave. If looks speak for condition, the Captain must have had a wonderful time.

It is noted with interest that our Transportation Sergeant has given the ambulances a new coat of paint. They sure needed it, and it improved their looks wonderfully.

Our popular barber, "Harry," has been indisposed for a few days. Perhaps he got stuck in the mud on the 9th street bridge, and got his feet (?) wet.

Ability wins us the esteem of the true men; luck, that of the people.

Motor Transport Notes

Roy R. Lee—"I am sorry that I could not be with the party last evening."

Morgan—"What was the trouble, Old Top?"

Roy R. Lee—"Doctor says that it was a slight attack of the Alomonia Blues."

Miss Billie Bryant and leading lady with the Kennett Company was the guest of 1st Sergeant and Mrs. Richard Simmons.

Will the lady that Corporal Mitchell gave the Red Hair doll to kindly call and get the slippers for same?

There is no substitute for Home, but there are times when a fellow must live in a hotel. Private Jackson is stopping at the Hotel De Techue.

A LESSON IN ARITHMETIC.

He's teaching her arithmetic
Because that is his mission,
He kissed her once, he kissed her twice,
And said, "Now that's addition."

And as he added smack by smack
In silent satisfaction
She sweetly gave her kisses back,
And said, "Now that's subtraction."

Then he kissed her and she kissed him
Without explanation;
They both together smiled and said,
"Now, that's multiplication."

But Day appeared upon the scene,
And made a quick decision;
He kicked the lad three blocks away,
And said, "Now that's division."

"Miss Smith, Mr. Jones," said Helen
As she brought them face to face.
"Unfamiliar," thought Jones, "the face is,
But that leg I've seen some place."

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

POLO.

The polo games last Sunday resulted in a 4 to 2 victory for the Yellows over the 83rd Artillery and an 8 to 6 win for the Blues over the 29th Infantry.

The feature of the first contest was the much improved teamplay of the Yellows. They attempted no difficult combination, nor was their stickwork greatly improved over previous occasions but they had evidently been soundly coached on riding their men, and McCarthy, first string back for the Reds who played with his B team said that the riding-off was the most determined and successful he had yet encountered.

Major Wheeler, for the Yellows, was the most dangerous Red opponent. He scored two of his team's three earned goals, and played a heady defensive game. Lt. Burnett's malletwork drove in the other goal. Two new Red players, Lieuts. Sanderson and Hendley, made their debut yesterday, the latter scoring a goal for his team. The other Red marker was made by Major Yeager.

The games started from scratch, each team having a total handicap of seven goals. The substitution of Gannon for Sanderson in the last period gave a goal to the Yellow, which was not only made up, but was added to by the Yellows.

Makenney and French were too much for the 29th B team in the second game, the former scoring four goals to the latter's three and Weems contributing the extra marker. To the credit of the infantry team let it be said that their riding off was good and their hitting excellent, and time and again they got away to a good start on a rush toward the Blue goal. The weakness of their worward play was apparent, however, for at no time during the game did they have a man riding free in front of the ball, and the redoubtable Weems, Blue back, met their rushes with a forward stroke nine times out of ten unhindered by an opponent. The desperate riding of the 29th smashed the attack of the Blues somewhat oftener than those veterans had expected. For the 29th the work of Paquet at No. 3 stood out above the average mainly because of the considerable improvement in his play during the short time he has been out. Brodelow, the 29th captain, saved goals on numerous occasions, but nearly always by a dangerous expedient of taking the ball across the post.

Line-up and summary:

| Yellow | Position | "B" Team |
|---|---|---|
| Martin | 1 | Sanderson |
| Waite | 2 | Yeager |
| Burnett | 3 | Hendley |

Summary: Goals scored: Burnett 1, Wheeler 2, Yeager 1, Hendley 1. Referee, McClure. Umpire, Betts. Scorer, Douglass. Timekeeper, Madaris. Time of periods, 7 1-2 minutes. Periods played, four.

| "B" 29th Inf. | Position | Blues |
|---|---|---|
| Elkins | 1 | Makenney |
| Pilkington | 2 | Legge |
| Paquet | 3 | French |

Increased Interest Being Shown in Polo Mounts

RECENT INSPECTION OF MOUNTS RESULTS IN AWARDS TO MEN.

In order that interest in the care of polo mounts and horse equipment might be stimulated at this station there was recently held an inspection of the polo horses on the Post.

The results of this inspection were highly gratifying. The names of the men and organization winning the highest scores are shown below:

Organization having highest average scorce—Infantry School Stables.

Orderly with two horses, 1st place —Pvt. Herbert Berry, 24th Infantry.

Orderly with two horses, 2nd place —Pvt. Wykoff, 83rd F. A.

Orderly with two horses, 3rd place —Pvt. Woodey, 83rd F. A.

Mount receiving highest score—No. 134, I. S. D., first prize.

Mount receiving second highest score—No. 109, 83rd F. A.

Mount receiving third highest score—No. 120-P, 29th Infantry.

Orderlies from the 24th Infantry are on duty at the Infantry School Stables. It will be noted, also, that the individual orderly with two horses who won first prize is from the 24th Infantry.

FOOTBALL

On next Wednesday afternoon the Tanks will meet the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry to decide which team will represent Fort Benning in the Fourth Corps Football tournament which will be held at Fort McPherson beginning November 22nd.

Both of these teams have won every game played to date and the Wednesday's battle will be hard fought.

It has been reported that the line coach for Center College, Kentucky, has been at work on the 2nd Battalion team. This outfit claims that they have some football tricks up their sleeve that will put the Tanks to guessing. On the other hand, the Tanks point with pride to their last games with civilian teams—one of which they won to the tune of 75 to 0—and claim that no amount of coaching will help their opponents on the 15th.

The entire Post is expected to turn out for the game. There will be a band present and parking space will be arranged for cars. The morale of both teams is high and the prediction has been made that both teams will be forced to make many substitutions before the game is over.

TENNIS.

The ladies' tennis singles championship has narrowed down to four contestants. These four players who are now in the semi-finals are Miss Marion Hannah, Mrs. G. L. Potter, Mrs. J. W. Rumbough and Miss Gertrude Malone. The finals of this event will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m., on Court No. 3.

The men's singles has reached the finals and the winner will be determined on Sunday at 2 p. m., when Major T. D. Finley meets Capt. Van Vliet. This match will be the best three out of five sets and some good tennis should result.

The men's doubles has reached the final round also and will be completed in the near future.

Tennis fans are requested to turn out Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. and witness the finals in ladies' singles and men's singles, to be played on Court No. 2.

Major Finley has gone thru the men's singles tournament playing in rare form. His path to the finals included a victory over Capt. Swetzer at 6-0, 6-2, and he followed this by defeating Lt. Perwein, champion of the 29th Infantry, 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. Rumbough and Miss Hannah should meet in the ladies' finals, according to the opinions of the tennis critics. To pick the winner would be impossible, and their match Sunday should be a thriller.

BOXING

Now that the Fort Benning Boxing Tournament has been completed the boxers composing the boxing team are hard at it daily, training for the Fourth Corps Tournament which begins in Atlanta on the 20th of this month.

The probability of Fort Benning making even a better showing in the coming tournament than was made last year seems bright. All members of the team this year are on a training table and in addition to this they are being required to go through with the most vigorous daily work in order to get into condition.

It will be recalled that last year Fort Benning won five out of the six boxing classes. The men who won these events were:

McDonald, light heavyweight.
Sebukaty, middleweight.
DeRose, lightweight.
Reilly, feather weight.
Keenan, bantam weight.

This year the Post has no light heavyweight but this lack is made up by the addition of a heavyweight who bids fair to walk off with the honors in Atlanta. This heavyweight is Sgt. Donelly from the 83rd Artillery. He is practically unknown in Benning boxing circles but he will be heard from before this Corps tournament has been completed.

Sebukaty will defend his title as Fourth Corps Area middleweight champion unless the recent injuries received in the Infantry-Tennessee football game prevent his participation. He is now doing light training and the prospects for his being in the tournament are bright.

The welterweight title this year will be contended for by Erdos of the 83rd Artillery. Those who have seen Erdos in action against the local fighters in Columbus are content to have him represent the Post. Erdos has improved one hundred percent since the time he met Feldman nearly a year ago and his longer experience in the ring will make him as good if not a better representative for Fort Benning than Feldman—and that is saying a lot.

Grantham from the 15th Tank Battalion is a comparatively new man in the boxing game but the way he has handled his man in his last fights goes to show conclusively that he is qualified to uphold the Fort Benning claims for the Corps lightweight championship. Grantham keeps in first class condition at all times and has no bad habits. This will go a long way toward helping him win.

DeRose is fighting in the feather weight class this year. Last year he won the lightweight championship of both the Post and the Corps Area. This year he is going after the featherweight championship and unless he breaks an arm or suffers some other injury he will win the championship in this class. is going after the featherweight championship and unless he breaks an arm or suffers some other injury he will win the championship in this class.

Keenan, last year's bantam weight Post and Corps champion, will go to Atlanta this month as will, also, Helms. Last year Helms did not meet Keenan for the Post championship. This year both men fought to a draw. The referee called for an extra round and the best that could be made out of this was a draw. It seems that the only way to decide the Post championship is to match these men for ten rounds with five ounce gloves—and then neither of the men would be in any shape to fight in the Corps tournament. It is probable that a coin will be tossed to decide who will box in the bantam weight class as No. 1 and No. 2.

As two men are allowed to be entered in the Corps tournament in each class there will be an understudy for each man going up to Atlanta when an extra man is available. The following named men will go in the classes shown:

Michel, middleweight.
Branner, welterweight.
Otalvaro, lightweight.
Alonzo, featherweight.

All of these men have had considerable ring experience and in the event that the principal in any class can not participate these men will represent Fort Benning. As much care is being taken with their training as with the principals' and should the occasion arise for any of them to fight they will all be in condition.

FOOTBALL

2nd BATTALION, 29th INFANTRY, WINS OVER FREEBOOTERS, 71 TO 0.

Daniels Stars in Second Battalion-Freebooters Game

There is no question about Daniels being the star player of the Second Battalion team, when they battled the Freebooters on the Service Club Football Field last Wednesday to a score of 71-0. To enumerate any other stars would be to name the entire team. Teamwork, absolutely necessary in all football games, certainly showed itself to advantage in the Second Bats thruout the entire game. The Freebooters apparently lacked in both driving power and charging power. Their line seemed to give way at each play. Quite the reverse was true of the Second Battalion line, resulting in two intercepted forward passes by Finney, after both of which he got away for a touchdown. Also a fumble, picked up by Brown, resulted in six more tallies.

The game started off with Payne, Davis, Daniels and Parrish in the backfield, who plunged thru the line and skirted the ends almost at will, thanks to a good line and good interference. Later Johnson, Hendrickson, Holstrom and Sellinger performed nearly as well in the same positions. The one place in which the Second Battalion is weak is forward passes, having completed but one during the entire game.

Waligurski Injured.

All of the Second Battalion fans will regret to learn that Waligurski was forced to leave the game with a broken shoulder. This is almost as severe a loss as this team could have at this time, with the Tank game only a week off. Holding down left guard, he was a tower of strength that will be hard to replace. Equally as great a loss is Finney, their first string right guard, whose injury, while not as severe as Waligurski's, may prevent him from playing in the big game.

This makes a total of five first string players out of the game, the others being Kjelstrom and Slatts, two of the fastest backs on the team, and Eckoff, their right tackle. Added to this, Meyden, the plucky little tackle, is on the sick list with a broken foot from a recent scrimmage, which will keep him out also.

Next Game With Tanks.

Odds on the next game are about even as the Tanks defeated the Freebooters to a score of 76 to 0. The shade of difference, if any, would no doubt be in favor of the Tanks, as they have a slightly higher number of points to their credit.

100 Percent Attendance Expected Next Wednesday.

It is expected that a 100 percent attendance of the entire camp will witness the game next Wednesday, as the winning team will journey to Fort McPherson to play there for the Fourth Corps Area championship.

Signal Corps News Items

It has been noted that the American Legion found from the experience of its personnel while serving in France, great sport over the common occurrence of forty men and forty horses. In Fort Benning the personnel is evidently finding much sport over the Howard Bus line. This famous rapid transit (nix) between Columbus and Fort Benning, aside from giving the most unsatisfactory service that could be looked for, has made many a man curse the day he was born, and has caused us to forget all the religion which the chaplains have put into us, has also produced a poet among the Signal Corps personnel. His contribution follows:

'Twas on a nice October eve,
And I thought I'd go to town,
So I got myself a tewlve-hour pass
And thought I'd catch a bus right down.

But the bus it runs on schedule,
And was due to leave at six.
Or at least, that's what the driver told me,
When I put up an awful kick.

But now that we have started,
And the bus is under way,
We will skip down to the bridge,
Where the Censors hollers, Hey!

"Alright, let's see that passport,
You fellow over there,
For I am in no hurry,
And if you are I don't care."

But at last we left the Censors,
For the mingle with the dust,
And the driver shouted, "Boys,
I'll make Columbus now or bust."

But he could not fulfill his promise,
As his lights were going wrong,
So he pulled up on the roadside,
And sang that old familiar song.

"I'll have to leave you here now,
'Til I get another bus,
And please don't start your kicking,
And it will do no good to cuss."

So he flagged a little flivver,
For to haul him into town,
And left us there belated,
To watch the world go round.

It must have been an hour or two,
Or at least it seemed to me,
When the old bus pulled in sight,
Hitting on about three.

But now that we've changed busses,
And are hitting it for town,
And will soon be getting off at Wide St.
With it's lights and things all round.

But now that we're in Columbus,
And the bus has been dismissed,
And if war is what Sherman said it was,
Then please tell me what is this?

—T. R. J., Signal Corps.

ARMISTICE DAY CEREMONIAL AT B'NAI ISRAEL TEMPLE

GENERAL GORDON, COMMANDING OFFICER OF FORT, MAKES STIRRING ADDRESS.

On Armistice Day evening members of the American Legion in Columbus met at B'Nai Israel Temple and joined with the people of the synagogue in an impressive ceremony. Among the speakers of the occasion was General Walter H. Gordon, whose address follows:

"We are gathered here this evening in this house of God to commemorate, by appropriate exercises, our victory and that of our noble allies over the forces of autocracy and tyranny, and to pay fitting tribute to the memory of our heroic dead, to our noble brothers who have shown us God.

"Our great nation revers forever their undying memory.

"Our debt of gratitude to these men is beyond measure. We can only stand with bowed heads and say to all the world that the memory of their deeds, their lives and their deaths shall live with us always, and shall not die.

"History tells us that for more than 300 years after the annihilation of the Spartan Band at Thermopylae by the hordes of Persia, every Greek child was required to recite from memory the names of the 300 martyrs who died in defense of their native land. In like manner we must keep green the memory of American heroism—that heroism at which the world so recently marveled.

" 'Shall we forget those who went away
To follow the red flag beyond the main,
Who turned aside and let us have the day?
Shall we forget those who went away and will not come again?'

"I have heard war likened to a poisonous weed that bears beautiful flowers. It would seem so; for, in the hearts of our brave men, living in the blood-soaked soil of the battlefield, 'midst desolation, suffering and death, there blossomed in highest degree, the virtues of matchless courage, generosity, self-denial and brotherly love.

"There are occasions in a man's life, my friends, when words utterly fail to express his feelings. I find that such is always my embarrassment when I attempt to show others the affection and esteem in which I hold the men who fought for us in France.

"The superb sacrifice and unconquering spirit of these men finally brought victory, but at a fearful price in blood and treasure.

Urges Preparedness.

"I must, therefore, ask you, my friends, to give serious heed to the words of our secretary of war, to our great military chief, and to those of the American Legion, in their recommendations that a sufficient military establishment be maintained to make effective our national defense law which is built upon the idea of a citizen army, led by officers and noncommissioned officers, graduates of

29th Infantry Notes.

Company "A."

Not long ago one of our most prominent members of the company, who is climbing the ladder of fame slowly but surely, (he has just been made Sergeant), was in charge of a detail going to the post school.

In this detail was an Irishman who had been, as usual drinking a little too freely, and when the detail was reported to the officer in charge, he ordered him into arrest.

A few days afterward he was taken to the Summary Court for trial and the hero was sent along as a witness against him. Our hero was born under Turkish rule, of Greek parents, and is by religion a Jew. His English is at best a little broken. The Summary Court called them in for trial, and without waiting to be asked to testify, our hero commenced to wave his arms around his head and become very much excited. His words sounded like a machine gun or an angry mess sergeant. The Summary Court thought that our hero was the man to be tried, as the Irishman stood there at attention taking it all in quietly, so he sent them both back to the company and returned the charges stating that the man should be excused inasmuch as he could not speak the English language and was of a very excitable temperment.

With the basketball season only a short distance away "A" Company is starting practice, with hopes of taking the regimental honor. With the support of our popular company commander chances are bright.

Company "B."

After honest and faithful service for three long or short years, as the case may be, the late Corp. Humphrey has at last attained the rank of mess sergeant and, believe me, he knows his stuff for the boys are getting fat and lazy. This is not to be a discouragement and we want you to keep up the good work, Humphrey.

When it comes to being the best company in the regiment we have them all outclassed and if you don't believe it look over the inspection sheets once. You will see where we stand. Our motto is "B" there when you start and "B" there when you arrive and, believe me, we are.

We are at last going to have a real honest-to-goodness typewriter pusher in the company as Corp. Roballard is going to the school and all he does is write letters to girls and tell them what a wonder he is—a "regular lady-killer."

Company "D."

Our industrious assistant company clerk, Teddy R.(oosevelt), has been having such a good time since payday that he has somewhat neglected his equipment. Yesterday he went into conference with the company commander and later in the day he was seen by the company "gum-shoe" on his way to the bath house with an armfull of web equipment, a scrubbing brush and a bar of soap. What happened, Ted?

What the non-coms can't understand is how it happens that our junior corporal is now wearing three stripes. Keep it up, Mac, you're going good.

Pvt. Yelmoni had an argument with a certain bird in this company and later told him that he was so dumb that he thought Rex Beach was a summer resort.

Incidentally this organization has organized an N. C. O.'s club, sponsored by the first sergeant, which is proving to be a huge success, as a matter of face we now have about fifty berries in the treasury, and Cpl. Goldfeder being on the entertainment committee is trying to figure out how to blow the fifty bucks.

Company "D":

"You can't beat the monkeys," by "Booker T." Willard.

"He went to work and told me," by "Fritz C. C." Roeglin.

"Just like New York," by "Monkey" Ehrenfield.

"You're not in the 3rd Battalion now," by "Chief" Pilkington.

"Dis is de Jasper," by "Tomey" Gasper.

"Take your time tramp," by "Bob" Harkey.

"My God, O, my God; o how long will this last?" by the 1st Sgt.

Stable Sergeant Clark wants to know why every one holds their nose when he comes around.

Our "Chief" has his war paint and feathers on this morning and is "scalping the pale faces" to the tune of confinement to the company street for 24 hours. Don't leave any dirt in the corners, boys.

The ladies seem to be getting popular in Company "D". One of our boys has been cherishing a certain band ring in his foot-locker for several weeks. When are you going to use it, Stotts?

We have used up thirteen scratch pads, not to mention numerous pencils trying to figure out why "Opelika" had to attend court, got a three-day pass and asked for a married man's pass when he came back. Sweet Papa.

Speaking of innocence, "Chick" Robertson, our "Georgia special," says he knows Cleopatra is a movie actress, but he can't remember the name of the picture she played in.

HOWITZER COMPANY.

The company turned out for inspection for General Malone Monday, November 6th and was very highly commended by the general.

The "Freebooters" played a very good game of football with the 2nd Battalion and, believe me, it was sure some game of football.

1ST BN. HEADQUARTERS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Know ye that reposing special faith and trust ni the discrepencies and super-ability of Private 1st Cl. Woodruff of this organization, we feel it our painful duty to recommend him to those officers' who may require the services of an excellent stable grenadier. Private Woodruff is familiar with all the intricacies of the typewriter and of army paper work generally. We therefore feel sure that he should make an excellent blacksmith or bronco buster.

Corporal Ramsey has recently returned from furlough enjoyably spent in Anderson, S. C.

Private Funk is getting very efficient asc an orderly. The other day at about 9 a. m. he received a telephone message for a certain lieutenant, and delivered it very promptly at 6 p. m. two days later. The message was an invitation for a dinner party to take place at 6 p. m. on the evening that the message was received. Needless to say the lieutenant compromisd on a dish of army beans. We won't tell what happened to Mr. Funk, but he says that it won't happen again.

Cpl. Trimble, our company clerk, has grown the sweetest and cutest little mustache that we have ever seen. It is so sweetly original that we believe Cpl. Trimble could materially increase his finances by placing himself on exhibition somewheres and charging a small admission for a look.

Our company barber, Pvt. Kenter, was actually seen in the company barber shop the other day (how did that happen, Kenter?)

Somebody tell Folkerson that Indianapolis is not the largest city in the United States, he won't believe us.

COMPANY "F."

For the first time in many moons that well known voice of "Hungry's" (Corp. Warner) is still; since the B. & C. School has taken over the Company Mess, he does not have time to make much noise. "Too busy filling up."

We have just discovered in this Company a Poet who will make Tennyson, Shakespeare, and a few other of our greatest Poets look sick. He's known thruout the Company as "Steve," and he has some real interesting poems that he will give from time to time.

The "Top" this morning was talking as if he wanted a 148 1-2; he was saying that it was the kind of a morning we could wear Bathing Suits, and at that very moment Pvt. Thompson came to the Orderly Room looking for his overcoat. Sounds funny, you know, but it really was a swell morning.

REGIMENTAL HDQRS. CO.

Sgt. James P. Johnston volunteered his services for a recruiting trip at LaGrange, Ga. It is because the wets were victorious at the polls in the recent elections in that section of the country, or did the intelligence section inform you that G. O. No. 100 is being published?

The Captain has asked 1st Sgt. David Nadeau to interview some men who have been trying to obtain permission to get themselves better halves, and explain to them the disadvantages of such an undertaking. Dave, your records do not show such prior service. Was it foreign or domestic?

Sgt. Shanahan has been relieved as Co. Mess Sgt. and has been temporarily placed in charge of the message center, Communication Platoon. Tom says it is all for the best, since he can now have direct communications with the one he has only seen visions of, during all meals of the day.

Pvt. 1st Class Allen, when asked to take over the duties left vacant by Sgt. Shanahan, stated he can take care of the emergency, since he has done it before during a similar emergency that arose on the banks of the Rhine, 'way back in 1918.

SERVICE COMPANY.

The trip the band made to Americus, Ga., to participate in the ceremonies held under the auspices of the American Legion at that place, celebrating the Armistice of the Great War, was even a more enjoyable time for so short duration that it made the meeting at New Orleans look like a Sunday School picnic. And the band was very fortunate in the acquisition of two excellent musicians, both of whom are a very scarce article throughout U. S. army bands, namely: Mr. Kiger, who plays an excellent French horn, and Mr. Tomsa, whose steadiness on the bass drum cannot be surpassed.

Owing to the short stay at Americus very little time was had by the band members to do any heart-breaking, and if the band man who was continually leaning on the show case at the cigar stand in the Hotel Windsor and spoofing the pretty attendant there could be back there, orange blossoms might be in vogue in the near future.

THE MULE always tries to graze on the grass just on the other side of the fence. No doubt the mule thinks this grass is greener and more tender than the grass in his own pasture. The human animal always thinks he can improve on the other fellow's job. No doubt this is due to the fact that most humans think their job is the most difficult and the other fellow has the "easy snap." And herein a likeness between the mule and the man exists.

WITH THE END in view of being progressive it is the policy of The News to support anything new that is good—or seems good. The News supported the Gym Class—or Calisthenics Club, we believe—the Dramatic Club, the Equitation Class, the bridge clubs, it is for the Current Events Club, and, last but not least, The News is boosting the Music Club. This club is now busily engaged practicing choral selections for the personal edification of its members and it is reported that eventually the club will attempt something more ambitions. The Music Club has already organized an instrumental quartette and the offierings are easy to listen to. At some meetings the members sing the latest popular airs accompanied by the quartette and such occasions are always pleasant affairs. At present this club is on a search for male voices both for the purpose of supporting the female voices in the chorus and for the organization of a quartette. Each meeting on Thursday evenings—which is held at the Officer's Hop Room—adds one or two new voices, and officers are invited by the ladies of the club to attend these meetings.

LOYALTY to the Chief, whether he be of the grade of Captain or of the grade of Major General, is obligatory. The man higher up may not do just what you would do in every instance. There may be occasions—and frequently are—when you believe the man higher up is wrong. There may exist circumstances and conditions which convince you that you are a better man than the man higher up. The time may come when the man higher up treats you unfairly. But did you ever happen to think that the man higher up is "holding the bag," so to speak, for your actions and that because of this he has the right to demand that things be done his way? Right or wrong, and regardless of what your personal feelings in the matter may be, give your loyalty to the Chief.

this and our other military schools, established for the special purpose of furnishing skilled leaders in war. It is not individuals that are needed in war, but teams, and I assure you that it requires the greatest teamwork in the world to win a battle.

"My friends, no army ever served its country better than our soldiers in the great world conflict, and man never fought in a more noble cause. Our men did their duty in a way that gave it greatness and glory. To our fallen heroes I offer this salute:

"To those true men, American soldiers and sailors, and to their brave comrades of our allies, who counted not their lives when they were needed, and who sleep, whether beside the dust of kindred at home, or in nameless graves in distant lands, where the angels of the Most High stand sentinel till the great Reveille of Resurrection Morning: In all honor, I salute you!"

MORE CAPTAINS WILL BE DEMOTED THAN EXPECTED

REPORTED THAT PROBABLY 40 MORE WILL LOSE BARS.

The War Department has sent out warning that probably forty more captains than was provided for in the telegrams sent to corps headquarters would be demoted.

This may carry demotion on the list of captains up to Oliver W. Broberg, 6401 on the promotion list of the Army Register of 1922, on page 1394. The total number of captains to be demoted under this new plan will be, it is estimated, about 777. This may carry down as many as 833 first lieutenants.

It is emphasized at the War Department that this is only a tentative announcement. The refusal of captains who receive notice of the demotion to accept commissions in the grade of lieutenant will change this estimate. The change is due to the cancellation of more than forty confidential orders to captains for separation from the Service. Many of these changes have been brought about by the withdrawal by captains of their applications for discharge from the Service with one year's pay.

The Dickman board has been inclined to accept the withdrawals by captains, recognizing the fact that many of the applications for discharge were made when the officers did not fully understand the effect of the demotion process. They were made when Congress appeared to assume a very unfriendly attitude towards the Army and the younger officers feared that there would be further reductions in the strength of the Army. Now, with the reaction in Congress, the situation in the Army appears to be more encouraging and younger officers are inclined to stay in the Service on this account.

No More Majors To Be Demoted.

The board has closed all of the cases involving the majors on the promotion list. Demotion of majors is now a closed incident and no more majors will be asked to accept commissions in the grade of captain. Some of the majors may not have received notice, but the notices are all now in the mail. An effort will be made by the Dickman board to dispose of the cases in the grade of captain and lieutenant by Dec. 1. Of course, there may be a few cases pending before the board after that date, but extraordinary efforts will be made to dispose of all of them before the first of the month.

Inquiries have been received from the War Department requesting definite information as to the final date upon which an officer must have his application in on file for discharge with a year's pay. Advices from The Adjutant General indicate that a date terminating this preference to officers has not been set. It is stated on good authority, however, that should officers now in the Service desire to take advantage of this method of separating themselves from the Service they should send their applications in immediately, as the task of elimination is rapidly nearing completion.

Signal Corps Notes

Corporal Curtis Oakes, Company B, 15th Tank Battalion, is again back on the job at the Post Telephone Switchboard in his former capacity of Chief Operator. It has been noted in the past few days by several subscribers that some material change had taken place in the telephone system. Cpl. Oakes is now at the helm, and in the short space time in which he has been back with us the telephone service has greatly improved.

Private Lester Avera, one of our air artists in the Meteorlogical station, met with a minor accident at the Post Exchange the other day. He states that he meant no harm, that he just stepped in there to obtain a cigar, and while in the process of obtaining the same some near-sighted, careless ruffian stepped on his hand.

In the past the Signal Office has been able to state that they had accommodated the personnel of Fort Benning with telephone communication and in doing so had been enabled to keep away from the envious party line system, with its one, two and three rings. But from all appearances at present in the air this system will now be resorted to as it is impossible at present to enlarge the telephone switchboard. Therefore, it is probable that in the near future when the telephone in the officers' quarters rings they will be required to drop everything and count the rings.

Private Lapp, who has had a varied career with the local Signal Office in the capacity of lineman, storekeeper, wire chief, etc., is now delivering telegrams as well as learning fancy tricks on his new bicycle.

Our dashing Cable Connector, Corporal Seeley, has declared that he will soon make his semi-annual visit to the city of Columbus, and that his headquarters will be established at Joe Brown's Tea Room. "Hold 'Er, Newt, She's A-Rearin'."

Staff Sergt. Manning, who has nearly rounded out his three year sojourn in the Army, is, so to speak, up the stump, he can harly decide whether he wishes to re-enlist in Benning, or elsewhere. The only advice we can give is "Use Caution."

A question was asked the other day as follows: Why is Pvt. Hughes and Edison's great discovery known as Electricity, practically one and the same? To the above the following answer was made: "They both move along the lines of least resistance."

Finance Detachment Notes

This Detachment has a new member assigned to its personnel in the person of Tech. Sgt. Robert Kenney, of the New Orleans Finance Office. Sergeant Kenney is an old friend of Watson and Bennett, having served in the Medical Department at Fort McPherson in 1920.

Shylock Friedenthal wants to know where he can secure a tin pinochle deck. He wants to do a little practicing before tackling Sergeant Kenney and Private Watson again.

The Chief Clerk had a hard time Wednesday in managing his two squads of Finance Soldiers when they loaded up their fountain pens and started out to be shot (by the camera).

Sergeant Bennett and Private Kilpatrick, S. C., enjoyed a pleasant afternoon last Sunday in the form of a long walk with Miss Roe, the hostess.

Private Willis took a trip home for the week-end. It is understood that he had a nice time hunting hickory nuts, buckeyes, etc.

Tillerson informed the office force through military channels that along with his mule-ish laughter, that he also still retained his specialist rating—by the way, Till, just what is your rating? We forgot Country.

Sergeant Kenney visited friends and relatives in LaFayette, Alabama, last Saturday and Sunday.

Artillery News Notes.

The 83rd Field Artillery continues to enter a sizeable representation in the ring and on the mat. Last year MacDonald of Battery "C" took the light heavy-weight title. This fall Donnelly, also of Battery "C," is counted upon to bring home the heavyweight belt and Erdos, also of Battery "C," will either win the welterweight title or make the man who does win it take an antidote.

In the wrestling field the battalion will be represented by LaPine, of Headquarters Battery. Strangely enough last year's field artillery representative, who threw the men in his class all over the lot was Ducharme, of the same outfit. So it seems that the boxfighters are mostly confined to "C" Battery and the wrestlers to Headquarters. This is not entirely the case, however, for Battery "A" is backing Hunt, left end on the football team, to show something in the lightweight class. This he was doing until a broken hand threw him out. Griswold, another lightweight, is temporarly on the shelf with a tin ear.

A flock of injuries settled down on the battalion and seriously affected the football team. Had the team met the First Battalion of the 29th Infantry yesterday, as it was scheduled to do, Samlavich's stiff arm and Marsh's glass ankle would have put those dependable backs at a serious disadvantage. And probably when the team does play, it will be minus the services of Donnelly and Erdos, two of the best linesmen, who will be at Fort MacPherson representing not only Fort Benning but the First Battalion of the 83rd.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Pvt. McCabe certainly is in hard luck. Some folks say that thirteen is their lucky number, but not so for McCabe. On Monday the thirteenth two men came out to the Fort for the purpose of looking for an Overland car. As luck would have it, McCabe was the one to have the lucky car, consequently "there ain't no more." Now he is going to buy out of the army, because he has lost everything that was dear to him, and he says the car was MIGHTY dear to him, especially the repairs.

Close watch will have to be kept on the storeroom in the future. Our Irish corporal is going to use cosmoline on his hair to make the company commander think he has his hair cut.

Pvt. Robinson is sure some traveler. While riding on a Pullman car, he asked the porter what the charges were for using the towels in the washroom. He thinks Old Point Comfort is the name of a quilt.

Pvt. Miller is going to give up the idea of having a basketball team on account of the star player, Sgt. Bowen being absent from the company. He was the only talented man we had in the line of athletics, and there's no use playing without him.

Pvt. Everhart would make a fine butcher. While hanging meat in the refrigerator, he hooked his thumb on the hook instead of the meat.

Pvt. Nolan, our celebrated baseball star, is leaving us soon. He says he has no business in the army, because John McGraw has asked him to sign up with the New York Giants.

Theda Bara has a new way of beating duty. He says that when any one comes looking for him, he uses vanishing cream, and they can't find him. Lucky for the company that everybody don't use the same thing.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Sergeant Duff is spending his furlough hunting with his million dollar cheese hounds. So far we have heard of no tigers or bears being killed. Sergeant Kindervater is also in the woods with his trusty shotgun. He says that the only objection to a hunting party is that some fool in the crowd always wants to hunt.

Private Reese has resigned from the Officers Club and is now helping the recruits build their new billets.

Tuesday at 4 o'clock word was received that twenty-four recruits would be in at 4:30. The cooks got busy and had chow ready but the recruits didn't show up. We are always on the job and of course don't mind a good joke now and then.

All the box-fighters, wrestlers and horse-shoe pitchers have been sent down to Bill Stewart's training table. He doesn't mind their Delmonico appetites but says a soldier shouldn't keep "banking hours."

The streets of Girard can compare favorably with the boulevards of Havana since one of our men has taken such an interest in them.

We turned out strong for the group picture Wednesday but sure performed some strange maneuvers when the Captain gave "Right by File."

Laaksonen and his gang have about the best radio outfit in Camp. Every night there is a crowd to hear everything from grand opera to ragtime. Some one suggests that Smith put a wireless on his chickens so he can tell when an egg has been laid.

There is a rumor that we will be given a chance to qualify on the range during the Christmas holidays. It will be pretty cold but what's the difference if a few experts can make that extra five per.

Motor Transport Notes

Private J. G. Brown, our flat brush artist, is painting a picture of the City of Columbus so that Corporal Mitchell can see what the city looks like.

It is very strange that the clef that carried away Private Carters two blankets left the horse shoe that was behind his bed.

There was a rumor recently to the effect that Sergeant Parker crossed a field of daisies with a carnation in his button hole.

Corporal Pou was seen doing the sighting and aiming, push and pull, and the trigger squeeze drill. He must be getting in line for the rabbit season.

Sergeant George Taylor has been attending the weekly dancing class of the 24th Infantry, now we want to see what George can do on the 30th.

Corporal Willie McCloud, the M. T. C. fashion plate, has been selected as floor manager for our dance on the 30th.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 8.)

The St. Mihiel offensive was an entire success. There was no longer any doubt about the skill of American arms, and henceforth it was decided that the American forces should act as an independent army.

The work of the engineer companies, though greatly scattered and difficult to co-ordinate, and ordered at the last minute without any opportunity for previous preparations, was in every respect efficient and commendable. Two roads were opened up across No Man's Land, one via Fay-en-Haye, by Company "F," and one through Regnieville, by Companies "D" and "E." The road through Regnieville, the axial road of the division was opened with extreme difficulty through a tangled maze of wire, shell holes, trenches, mines and traps. For a distance of two kilometers this road was passable at H plus twelve hours, several hours ahead of the roads opened by the contiguous divisions, resulting in the routing of the trains of five divisions over this road and requiring continuous maintenance day and night and vigorous traffc regulations to forestall hopeless congestion. It was here in this work that the 7th Engineers by their decisive method of handling traffic acquired the reputation which later in the Meuse-Argonne caused them by Corps Orders to be clothed with the authority of Military Police in traffic regulation.

Following the road work, the regiment laid out and supervised the organization of the captured position, wired in the divisions resistance position along a front of four kilometers, located and destroyed some three hundred traps and mines, salvaged the division area, collected all United States and captured property in the area, and supervised the organization of the former sector of the Second Division and the work of the engineer regiment of the 78th Division.

In order to do this work the regiment was not relieved with the rest of the 5th Division, but remained in the sector for twelve days with the 78th Division. At the close of this work, Col. L. M. Adams, to the regret of the entire regiment, was returned to the United States to assume control of engineer training. He was succeeded by Lieut. Col. E. G. Paules, Maj. L. L. Morton, who had commanded the Second Battalion during the offensive, became acting Lieutenant-Colonel.

Company "A."

Company "A," commanded by Lieut. McAdams, was detailed to assist in the attack by supporting both the light and heavy tanks. Up until the time of the barrage the company worked removing obstructions which would impede the passage of the tanks. The majority of the tanks arrived on time and took position at the places prepared for them by the engineers. At 5 a. m. the attack moved forward. The unsuitability of the terrain made the progress of both the heavy and the light tanks very difficult and many skidded from the roads, where they remained, and the tanks which did advance could not keep pace with the infantry. They did not return, however, but remained in position as far forward as possible and formed a temporary line of resistance in case of a counter attack. Many of the tanks, however, which did get into position for the attack, were unable to go forward because of lack of "essence." All of the tanks on the roadside, and in the ditch on the morning following the attack, were not there because they skidded. As soon as a tank ran out of gasoline and started back for more, it was ordered off the road. Regulations provided for traffic in one direction only—toward the front.

The boche had prepared many tank traps, but with one exception, these were rendered harmless.

After the company had been reassembled at the Metz highway bridge where Regimental Headquarters was located, the whole regiment was ordered to move up and prepare a line resistance for the infantry occupying the front positions. This included the establishment of a first and second line of defense, the digging of communication trenches, and the building of wire entanglements. The sector assigned to Company "A" lay between Vieville-en-Haye and the woods, about two kilometers west of that place. The construction of the front line position, and the digging of the communication trench from these positions, to the village in the rear, was done by the infantry occupying this position under the direction of Company "A" officers, and non-commissioned officers. The casualties were exceptionally light; no one was killed and only twelve were wounded.

Company "B."

On the morning of September 12th, after constructing bangalore torpedoes at St. Jean, with which to blow up German wire entanglements, Company "B," commanded by Lieut. Brasher, marched with the torpedoes to the front line trenches. Upon arrival at the front line, the company was divided, and various details assigned to the assault battalions of the 6th and 11th Infantry Regiments, their duty being to open passages through the wire for the attack.

After all objectives had been taken, the details were called in and the entire company then moved to a point just in the rear of the front line, and for one day engaged in pulling up German defenses.

On the night of September 16th, Company "B" with the other companies of the regiment, marched to the front, and upon arrival there, each company was assigned a certain sector in which to string wire defenses in front of a reserve line of trenches which had been laid out by the engineers and was being dug by companies of infantry. About midnight the Germans started a bombardment with gas, shrapnel and high explosive, and one man was killed and three wounded. Following this, came more gas shells and the men finished the work with gas masks.

Each night from the 16th to the 23rd inclusive, details of non-commissioned officers in charge of an officer went to the front for the purpose of supervising the infantry of the 78th Division which was still engaged in digging reserve line trenches. Carrying details with picks and shovels went up each night from an engineer dump, and the remainder of the company was repairing roads in the rear.

Company "C."

On September 11th a detail of 20 men of Company "C" reported to Company "A," and that night assisted in cutting lanes in front of our wire in preparation for the attack, and on the morning of September 12th they accompanied the advance of the tanks.

The remainder of the company reached the Metz highway bridge on the morning of the 12th, under orders to assist the advance of the artillery. By 4 p. m. of D day these platoons were put to work maintaining the road and assisting traffic. On the 13th the remainder of the company joined this detachment at Regnieville, where camp was established and road work carried on until September 16th, when the company moved to a joint about three kilometers northeast of Regnieville.

On the night of the 16th, the entire company was turned out for work on the line of resistance, the company's sector being in front of the woods almost due east of Vieville-en-Haye. The company again turned out on the night of the 17th to complete the wiring of the front line position. Thereafter, each night, up to and including September 22nd, the company furnished a detail of two officers and one-half of the non-commissioned officers available, to supervise the work of trench construction. While on this work, three non-commissioned officers, Sergeant Dorr, Corporal Krebs and Corporal Pestell, were severely gassed. On September 21st the company broke camp and moved to the Bois du Beau Ballon, about three kilometers northwest of the Thiaucourt, and on the next day started work on the Regnieville-Thiaucourt road from the intersection of the road leading to Vieville-en-Haye northward to Thiaucourt.

On the 23rd, Corporal William C. McDanel and Privates Edward O. Fugle and James W. Williams were wounded. Private Fugle died the day following.

HOW !

Here's how! you regular army men,
We're drinking a toast to you;
(Hoping that Congress will let you stay,
Until we get all through).
For yours is a niche in the Hall of Fame
That few of us ever will reach;
You who have vision and courage
You've never failed when the call enough
To practice whatever we preach.

You've never failed when the call has come,
Whatever the duty be,
From the General down to the newest buck,
At home or over the sea;
And when we show our gratitude ....
By playing particular hob
With your pay, your rations, your rank and file,
You still stay right on the job.
In seventy-six, and eighteen-twelve,
And again in ninety-eight,
Your buddies died that we might live
To call our country great.
And when in the greatest war of all,
You righted humanity's wrong,
We cheered a bit, and then said,
"Now, go back where you belong."

Orders is orders, so back you went,
Marching!—(it is to swear!
For we wouldn't appropriate money enough
To pay for your railroad fare).
And that queerlooking uniform—thought once
We placed our faith therein—
Better leave it at home when you come to town,
Or people will stare and grin.

Well—when you fade where old soldiers go
(You know that they never die),
May you find a permanent station there,
And a prison camp nearby
Where you can see thankless citizens toil,
At the penance that is their due;
Here's how! you regular army men,
We're drinking a toast to you!

24th WARRIORS BRING HOME BACON

Add Another Scalp To Their Long String of Victories.

Saturday, the 24th triumphed again when they slipped the defeat dose to Knox College of Athens, Georgia, on their home gridiron. The game was a good one and replete with thrills. Three times the Knox College boys tried to score via the drop kick route, but not once did the oval sail true. Two attempts fell yards short due to the rush of the Infantry forwards, and the third attempt, while having distance, lacked direction.

At no time did the collegians threaten to cross the last chalk line for a touch-down. The Infantry scored three times on excellent football, and added two points on a safety when the center trio, Shannon, Hughes and Troup, broke thru and blocked a punt which Knox recovered behind the goal line for a safety.

The ball was kicked off to the Infantry who made a good run back of the kick, and then started down the field for a score. On the fifth play after securing three first downs, the 24th Star, Freeland, was heavily thrown and went out of the game with a badly bruised shoulder.

After a series of exchanges, the Infantry carried the ball across the line on a back by Oliver after a fine forward pass, Young to Bonner, that netted 30 yards, and placed the ball on the college eight yard line.

The line was playing excellent football, charging hard and playing low on defense. The improvement over the previous week was marked. The benefit of much work on the bucking machine was easily observed. In the first part of the game, the lack of good interference was still evidenced, but as the game progressed, the backs got together and from then on they ran very good interference.

Bonner got two forwards that placed the Doughboys in scoring position, and Williams also made one pretty play on a forward. The line play was excellent. Troup and Hughes showing up very well when put in near the end of the first half. They had openings at all times when called on for holes.

Dawson at tackle played an excellent game. The second touch-down came as a result of a well executed forward pass, followed by two excellent end runs and a couple of drives thru the line.

Two costly fumbles prevented a larger score, as the college boys were right on the job when the ball was loose. The last touch-down came as a result of consistent line playing interspersed with end runs. The end around proved a great ground gainer.

Toward the end of the game, all the players of the squad were given their chance, and some of the subs showed fine stuff. Young, Green and Williams acted as pilots, and used good headwork throughout. The third touch-down came when the team, by hard playing and fierce tackling, took the ball away from the Athens crowd, and drove down the field with great power for the final counter of the afternoon show.

This game was the best shown on the home lot this year, and augurs well for the great game of the season on the 25th, when the Infantry mingles with Talladega College for a game, which is for blood and revenge.

The officials conducted the afternoon's entertainment in a most satisfactory manner, and the Athens Collegians went home feeling that they had been royally entertained and that the best team won.

A dance was held after the game, and there was a large attendance from the Post as well as many visitors from Columbus.

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

By JOHN DOUGHBOY.

Dame Fortune smiled whimsically yesterday afternoon on the gridiron adjacent to the Service Club at Fort Benning and wondered who she would favor in the titanic struggle between the "Terrible Tanks" and the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry. During the entire first half this fickle dame coquetted first with one and then with the other, and no one scored. But in the second half the lady purred archly towards the "Tanks" and from that moment the decision was never in doubt. The final score was: Tanks 20, 2nd Battalion 0.

It was a wonderful football game. The best that has ever been played on a Fort Benning field. Both teams were equally matched—and during the first half neither team when within scoring distance had the "punch" to put the ball across.

The game sizzled with spectacular passes and runs. Perhaps the greatest of these was Swentic's interception of a Doughboy pass in the fourth quarter on his own 30 yard line and his dash for 70 yards to a touchdown. Other large yardage gainers were Brown and Daniels for the Infantry and Bozelle for the "Tanks."

Bozelle is the hombre that Dame Fortune decided as her medium for the bestowal of her favors. She elected that this young man should rush the ball consistently starting at the beginning of the second half until something happened. It did! Bozelle starting on his own 33 yard line bucked and went off-tackle repeatedly until he had marched his team to the Infantry 10 yard line. At this point Swantic threw a short forward pass to Mabry for a touchdown. With this score made Bozelle retired to the showers. He had done his job. He was through for the day. Well done, faithful servant, well done.

The Second Battalion constantly threaten to score on spectacular passes. But somehow or other when in the very shadows of the Tank goal they could not summon the strength to put the oval over. The aerial game of the Infantry was far superior to that of the Tanks. But the Tanks had force to put things over the line. Their center bucks and off-tackle plays ripped the Doughboys throughout the game for large gains. The Infantry line seemed like butter until danger neared—and then it was a stonewall.

The last touchdown for the Tanks came from one of their long forward passes, Sharp to Swantic in the final play of the game.

For the Tanks the line played in wonderful style. In the backfield Bozelle was the shining light, with Swantic and Sharp close behind.

The bright particular star of the Infantry was Brown. This young man was the receiving end of practically all the passes and he was in every play. Davis, Payne and Daniels were also stalwarts on the offensive and defensive.

The defeat of the 2nd Battalion eliminates them from championship hopes, unless the 1st Battalion can defeat the Tanks on November 30th. In that remote event the teams will be at a triple tie—and a round-robin of games will be played for the championship.

BIG DANCE NEXT WEDNESDAY FOR POST POLO TEAM

Funds To Be Raised To Finance Expenses of Team in Fort Oglethorpe Tournament.

The six players comprising the Fort Benning Polo Team, which is to participate in the Fort Oglethorpe Polo Tourney November 26th to December 3rd, have assumed the expenses of the trip. This trip will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $400.00, or approximately $65.00 per player.

In order that these players who are to represent Fort Benning in this tournament may not be put to additional expense a Sport Dance will be given next Wednesday evening at the Officers' Hop Room for the purpose of raising funds for the team. The admission charge will be $1.00 and everybody is requested to wear a sports costume. Club chits will be accepted in lieu of cash.

To date there has been raised by voluntary contribution at Sunday games the sum of $94.25, leaving a balance to be raised by approximately $300.00. The ladies of the Post are rendering valuable assistance in the matter of raising funds by holding bridge parties with a subscription list for tables. It is desirable that tables be subscribed for, whether used or not. Mrs. J. W. Elkins, Jr., Post phone 72, is handling the subscription list for tables.

It is obligatory that the polo team be financed without expense to the players, who have not only volunteered to contribute their skill in the the expenses of the trip. The indications are that the entire Post will support the polo team by making voluntary contributions at games, attending the dance next Wednesday night, or by subscribing for one or more bridge tables Saturday night.

Medical Department Notes

The second dance of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club was held Tuesday night, November 14, in the Medical Detachment Mess Hall. The hall was nicely decorated in red, white and blue streamers with colored lights to match. The dance was honored with the presence of General Gordon and General Malone, Colonel Van Dusen, Colonel Hansell and wife, also a good number of the Medical Officers of the hospital. The occasion was graced by the presence of the nurses. Invitations were issued to a number of Non-Commissioned Officers of other organizations, and a number of these with their families attended. Something new in the way of refreshments was served. During intermission hot oyster stew was served with sandwiches and coffee, which was very well received. A most enjoyable evening was spent and the hope was expressed that the dances of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club would be a permanent thing.

2nd Lieut. Black, Army Nurse Corps, has been transferred to Walter Reed General Hospital for duty.

All the tent shelter at the Station Hospital is being abolished and a pavillion type of building is being constructed to replace the tents, which makes a decided improvement in the appearance of the hospital area.

Captain A. A. Roby, M. A. C., has returned from thirty day leave, which was spent in Florida. It is rumored that the Captain will be the Mayor of Sebring, Florida, one of these days. Good luck, Captain, we know of no one who has ever been in Florida who did not wish for a home there.

The ladies of the Medical Corps held their second meeting at the home of Mrs. R. T. Arnest. It was decided to form a Medical Corps Bridge Club to meet every other week at the homes of members. The first club party will be held at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Orville G. Brown, Medical Corps, 1st Division Road, on Wednesday evening, November 22, 1922, at 7:45 o'clock. Any bachelor officer of the Medical Corps who desires to join this club please communicate with the chairman, Mrs. Starr A. Moulton, telephone No. 348.

POLO.

The newly organized Fort Benning Polo Team which is going to represent this station at Fort Oglethorpe the latter part of this month gave an exhibition of polo as it should be played last Sunday afternoon. This doughty team took on all comers on the Post and, incidentally, "took them into camp."

French, who played at No. 2, was not up to his usual form, but if he had been—well, there is no telling what the score would have been. Makenney proved that his momentary lapse exhibited a few weeks ago had been overcome by practice, while both Betts and McClure played to form. Brooks and Douglas, who substituted for certain periods, proved their worth as polo players.

The outlook for the teams who are scheduled to meet this aggregation is pessimistic from a polo standpoint. Their only hope seems to be in having better horses. The animals assigned to the new team are the best at this station but these mounts are not what they should be and it is possible that other teams may have an advantage in this way. Man for man, however, the Fort Benning aggregation is going to be hard to defeat and the entire Post is looking forward with interest toward the Fort Oglethorpe tournament.

To go back to Sunday's game, however, the first victims were the Cannoneers, otherwise the 83rd Artillery team. The result in this case was 9-0, favor of the Post team. The second outfit up was the Blue team, with the result of 7-1. The third slaughter happened to the Yellow team, the final tally being 10-0. The final score was 26-1, favor the Post team, and everybody agreeing that the best team won.

Other games will be played next Sunday, but the opposing teams have not yet been announced.

24th Infantry News Notes

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY.

Pvt. George Robinson is watching the 25 year bill very hard, as he says that he won't have but 23 years to serve if it passes.

Pvt. Davis is sticking around the quarters very much since he went to town the last time. Why, Davis?

Corpls. Harryson and Carter have gone onto the Real Estate, as they have got their land, but no buildings in sight, they say they don't need a Contractor; in that case we feel sorsy for fingers of the above men for what they don't know about carpenter work would make a book as large as Camp Benning.

COMPANY "A."

Pvt. 1st Class Dolphus Hill left a few days ago for his home at Newcastle, Ala., to spend his 90 days vacation with his relatives and friends.

Cpl. Henderson must have a very good hole card, he is calling everything. He has the city fever and the doctor can't do him any good. Cpl., don't get things complicated, and call on the wrong hole card. The game is Stud.

Cpl. Twitty must have found something in town pretty good. He steps mighty high. Boys, you know as well as I know that something is causing the old datto to spruce up. I believe he is using spruce oil.

Say, Lyons, quit adding 20 to3 and try multiplying 8's with 6's at the end of your multiplication you will find some lovely roses, pick one and any slow boy will speed up. We have been watching your moves ever since we arrived, and your moves are very slow. Bell, Murphy and Orange have made 12 moves to your one. It's your move this time, and you had better take it, else you will lose the game and your report will be 6, 8, 10 and 12. Watch 'em, Freddie.

Bell, old boy, things look pretty good in your favor. You have a fine go but I think you are making a bad out; go slow, take your time. You know where there is smoke there is fire. Watch that your building don't burn. It may sound funny, but it's true.

Oh, Spud, what's wrong? Every time I look for you, somebody says, Spud is in town. Tell me what's up there. I may want to go along sometime, just to keep you company. I know you get lonesome.

COMPANY "B."

Corp. Taylor, better known as Slow Kid, went to town and won himself a new name, "Swift Kid."

Cook Freeman, the expert penman, wrote sixteen letters to Columbus, N. M. Don't know why he did not get any answer. Don't worry, sarge, old boy, we know why.

Cook Payton, better known as "Fish," said that his left eye had been jumping for three (3) days, and to avoid trouble he would wash them in salt. Well, old top, if you do, the next time you start trembling you will let them tremble until they get tired.

Private William Brown says: "When I complete my three years, I'll show you people what I am going to do." Yes! we are quite sure you will do that. Don't worry, Brown, you can get three (3) more.

The Company will soon lose one of its efficient Non-Commissioned Officers, 1st Sgt. Cuby Martin, who will be placed on the retired list, after more than 30 years in the military service. We will miss you, old top, but we all join in and wish you all the luck in the world.

Oh, yes! Corporal Woolfork went to the city.

COMPANY "C."

The company mourns over the absence of the two-step wizard. He is in the hospital, "Walking just like Billy."

The regiment turns out every Wednesday night just to see Corporal Barnett bloom. He is a genuine wall flower.

Sgt. Williams was heard singing the other day. It is believed that he is intending to take a furlough, but that's a cinch for him for he hasn't far to go.

Every member of the company is planning a moonlight sail on the Chattahoochee River in the near future. A certain 1st Class Private's hob nails will be used for a float.

COMPANY "D."

Cpl. Jones, known in the Company as "Chubby," has smiles all over his face. Why? Because he has landed the Georgia Vamp.

Pvt. Day surprised himself when he went to dear old Columbus and met one of the fair sex that he had known since childhood days. Watch your step, Old Top, 9 miles is a far longer stretch than a 220 yd. dash.

"Pap" can often be heard singing: "Dear old Mexico, how I love you, for your beer and gin, you know; while the silver moon shines above you, I can live for evermore." Study, "Pap," for all you got to do in Georgia is open your mouth and let the moon shine in.

Pvt. Andrews made his first trip to the city a few days ago, and is now singing that "Nobody lied when they said I cried about you."

"Pick Tom," the sleep enjoyer, is wondering if his bed in the future will be as soft as it has in the past. Yes, "Pick," everything is feathers in Georgia.

COMPANY "K."

Sgt. Wm. McCauley (known as Cave Man Stuff) has just received three new years with Uncle Sam, and is now visiting friends in Atlanta, Ga.

Cpl. Woodie Bassham has just reenlisted and is now visiting friends in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Sgt. Joe Lay (the expert Mess Sgt. and stew mixer) was trying to break in the hospital the other day. The doctor caught him and gave him some heart disease pills, and he has been on the job ever since. Wake up, old boy, you are safe.

Wonder what's keeping Sgt. (Tailormade) Garrett out of the city? Say, old boy, the bus won't break down at 11 p. m. any more.

Look out, Stack-O'-Dollars, the butchers are talking. Keep those buttons sewed on.

Sgt. Williams (better known as Sgt. Cutie) has stopped going to town since the old timers have arrived. Cheer up, old boy, there are plenty more.

COMPANY "M."

Someone wanted to know if there was a cart load of brick at the end of the Company street and wanted at the orderly room, would Sgt. Wheeler?

Company "M" is honored with three new cooks, White, Vanlier and Fields. Look out, boys, we've always had the best mess. If you don't believe it come to the door at mess call and see Sgt. Turner, Cpl. Johnny Jones, Sgt. Sharp and then some, it is a treat to see them execute eyes right or eyes left, whichever the case may be.

Private Richardson (known as Five Spot) feels very much relieved at present as he has seen the fellow that was with his girl some other place. All you have to do is to keep quiet, Five Spot, things will come your way.

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY" AT SPRINGER SATURDAY

Thrills, suspense, romance and fun crowd the three acts of "The Cat and the Canary," John Willard's famous mystery, now in its second season at the National Theatre, New York City, and which will be seen at the Springer theatre on Nov. 18, matinee and night.

Through a maze of perils move a boy and a girl whose every step is followed with tense interest by the enthralled audience, while as danger piles on danger every other character in the play is under suspicion as the perpetrator of the strange and creepy happenings of which the amazing story is woven. But though the mystery is not cleared until the very fall of the final curtain the nerves of the on-lookers are never overstrung for there is constant relief in the sweetest of love scenes and in side-splitting situations that turn the shrieks of terror into shrieks of laughter.

Kilbourn Gordon, Inc., has staged and cast this production with greatest care as befits a play that has become a classic of the Drama of Thrills and the universal appeal of which is attested by the fact that it will soon be displayed literally around the world and in every civilized language.

Advance seat sale begins this morning.

FORT McPHERSON FOOTBALLERS AT POST

ARE HERE FOR MARINE GAME AND FORT BENNING CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Football Team representing Fort McPherson are the guests of this Post for a few days while they scout the Marines, who play the Post team on Saturday. They will attend the Post Championship game on Wednesday, when the Tanks and the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry clash. This is expected to be one of the hottest games of the year.

The party from Ft. McPherson consists of 18 men and reports a very successful season so far and had high hopes of coping the Corps Area Championship, but this game has been called off due to the inability to arrange a satisfactory schedule. They issue a challenge to all Army teams for games where arrangements can be made that are satisfactory to the Corps Area Headquarters.

The Manager and Coach of this team is 1st Lt. Bienie, who was All American Tackle in 1916. He has developed a very fast and shifty machine with great power and drive and is playing quarterback on the team. The team boasts of a very fine punter and broken field runner and forward passer in Goldsmith, who is the triple threat man of this team. Sgt. Beaulieu is the star linesman playing as keystone man. He has been center on four Corps Area Championship Teams and has yet to meet a man who has been able to handle him.

The team is also very strong at the extremities and boasts of three premier ends in Riska, Norris and Escue. Sgt. Barnett, who plays right tackle, is also a tower of strength in the line. The Camp is glad to entertain these men and it is hoped that a game can be arranged that will bring this team to Benning to stack up against the Post Champions.

Look over the "Advertisers' Column" before making your purchases.

ARMY HORSES TO LONDON.

General Pershing Announces That Army Officers Will Compete In Show.

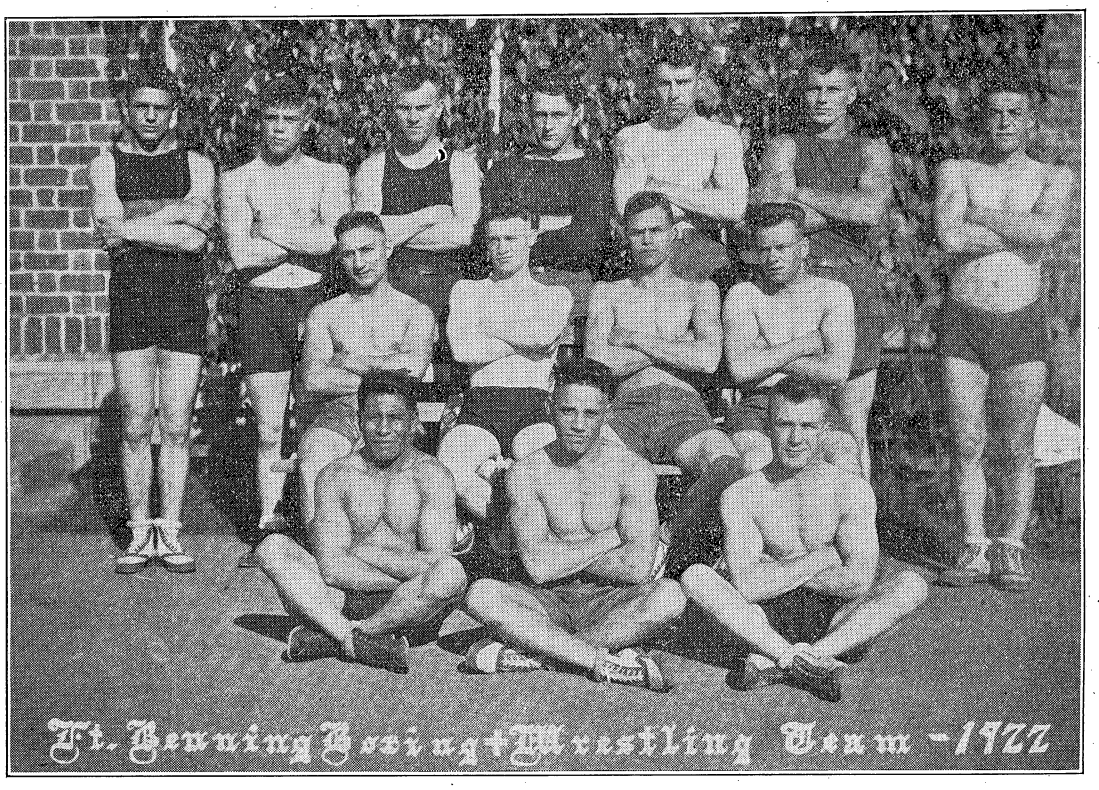
The United States Army will be represented among the entries at London's horse show next spring, and will ride against the best of the allied forces.

This announcement was made by General Pershing at the horse show breakfast, which was held as a preliminary to the opening Monday of the thirty-seventh national horse show at New York.

General Pershing said that while no claims would be made in advance, the army officers could be relied on to acquit themselves creditably in a field with Europe's best.

Beware of little expenses, a small leak will sink a great ship.



Take a look at this aggregation of boxers and wrestlers and then decide what chances Fort Benning has to win the Fourth Corps Area Boxing and Wrestling Tournament this week.

Reading from left to right these men are:

First Row: Alonzo, Otalvaro, and Helms.

Second Row: DeRose, Keenan, Brennan, and Hassler.

Third Row: Grantham, Michel, Sebukaty, LaPine, Donnelly, Lasher, and Erdos.

Of the above men Sebukaty, DeRose, Keenan, and Lasher are the champions of the Fourth Corps Area in their respective classes.

Quartermaster Officers And Ladies Entertain

RECEPTION AND DANCE AT HOP ROOM HONORING LT. COLONEL AND MRS SMITH.

Tuesday evening the Officers' Hop Room was the scene of a most delightful social function, when the officers of the Quartermaster Corps and their wives entertained in honor of the new Post Quartermaster, Lt. Colonel Smith and his wife.

The invitations read 8:30, and while the guests were gathering the 24th Infantry band provided most excellent music, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The receiving line was formed as the guests arrived and soon all were busily engaged in getting acquainted. In the receiving line was General Gordon, General and Mrs. Malone, Col. and Mrs. Smith, Captain and Mrs. Porter and Lt. Horean.

Dancing began at 9:00 p. m., to the strains of a snappy fox trot played by the orchestra of the 24th Infantry and dancing was enjoyed by the guests until 12 o'clock. One of the features of the evening was a most enthusiastic Paul Jones conducted by General Malone. Everybody was "in" on the feature, and in the words of the Bingville Society Editor, "a good time was had by all."

Excellent fruit punch was served throughout the evening and at intermission dainty refreshments of ice cream and angel cake were served by members of the Cooks and Bakers School.

Captain Hahn acted as Master of Ceremonies in a most acceptable manner and all were delighted with the evening's entertainment, vowing that when it came to "Service for the Line," the Quartermaster Corps was right there. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Smith were warmly welcomed to the social and military life of Fort Benning.

Polo Team Leaves For Oglethorpe

OFFICERS LEAVE WEDNESDAY. HORSES SHIPPED MONDAY.

The Polo Team that is to represent Fort Benning at Fort Oglethorpe left Wednesday for the scene of the polo matches, and the best wishes of the entire Post went with them. It is the expressed hope of all the followers of the mounted sport that the Benningsters "bring home the bacon." Much interest has been manifested by both the civilian and military population in the success of this campaign and high hopes are entertained for the success of the team.

The mounts were shipped on Monday so that they would have plenty of opportunity to get over their train trip and shake the knots out of their legs. This entire trip is financed by the players and others interested in the sport of India, and such sport deserves the prize.

The Post order announcing the team's departure is as follows:

The following named officers and enlisted men, respectively members of and attendants upon the Post

This bridge, which was given by the ladies of Fort Benning, was in the nature of a house warming, it being the first social function held in the building. Japanese lanterns and shrubbery produced a very attractive effect.

On next Saturday night, the 25th, at 7:30 p. m., another benefit will be given. Subscriptions for tables are two dollars and the matter of reservations may be arranged by communicating with Mrs. J. W. Elkins, Jr., Fort Benning phone No. 72. Reservation should be made as soon as possible in order to insure getting a table as the indications are that the demand will be greater than the limited space will allow.

The club house, when completed, will be made available for small parties such as teas, dances, bridge and other social functions of a like nature where a great deal of space is not required. The ladies of the post are enthusiastic over the purpose for which the building will be used, and after it has been furnished and the contemplated outside improvements completed, it will be one of the most attractive and popular places on the Post.

BIG DANCE AT SERVICE CLUB No. 1

Large Crowd Present Last Wednesday Night.

One of the largest and most successful dances was given last Wednesday evening at Service Club No. 1. About fifty young ladies from Columbus came out on the machine gun busses and most of the married enlisted men, with their wives, were present.

Music was furnished by the 29th Infantry orchestra, and refreshments of hot chocolate and vanilla wafers were served. These dances are becoming more popular each week, due to the efforts of the Hostess. Miss Roe, and the members of the dance committee. It is only a matter of time before it will become necessary to provide more spacious accommodations for the dances. At present the dance floor of the Service Club is becoming more and more congested, and while an attempt is being made to regulate this by issuing cards, the demand for these cards is extensive.

A movement is now on foot to construct an open air dance pavillion sometime during the early spring. This pavillion will be a rustic affair built of logs and other material available on the reservation. The work will be done by volunteer labor and when completed the pavillion will remedy the present congested condition.

"THE CAT AND CANARY."

"The Cat and Canary," presented at the Springer opera house in Columbus on November 18th, proved to be one of the best mystery plays on the legitimate stage today.

There were new thrills from beginning to end of the play. The surprise was completely carried until the end of the last act. The personnel presenting the show were most capable and their work was appreciated by a capacity house.

The people of Columbus and Fort Benning are fortunate in having the opportunity to witness attractions of the type which the Springer is offering this season.

THAT FORT BENNING plays an important part in the athletic world —at least locally—is demonstrated by the fact that within the past week football players were furnished Corps Headquarters for the purpose of strengthening the Fort McPherson team so that the team would be enabled to defeat the Marines in the game scheduled for this week. Fort Benning was called upon in the moment of need and the desired assistance was forthcoming.

Fort Benning has in the past played an important part in such corps tournaments as have been held. Last year this station won the basket ball tournament with the team from the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry. Later Fort Benning won every class, except one, in which boxers from this station participated, in the corps boxing tournament. An effort was made during the football season last year to arrange a football tournament and this station urged that the tournament be held. Financial conditions made it appear to higher authority that it was not practical to hold the football tournament after which decision efforts were made to arrange games with other service teams in the corps area. No team being willing to play Fort Benning, this station claimed the corps area football championship officially.

If past records are any indication it appears that Fort Benning will this year win the corps boxing tournament now in the process of being held. When the basketball season begins this station will again win the basketball championship. The fact that Fort Benning leads in such things cannot but reflect favorably on this station and this should be an assisting factor when this station goes seeking favors for something badly needed.

CO-OPERATION is necessary for the success of any plan where more than one party is concerned. It too often happens that several parties engaged together in the execution of some plan or program fail to appreciate the difficulties of the other fellow's work and, without actually "throwing a monkey wrench into the machinery," fail to render such co-operation as will enable the plan or program to be completed with the least possible effort and loss of time.

From an athletic standpoint one of the most outstanding illustrations of the necessity for co-operation is that of a successful football team. A mediocre team, from the standpoint of individual players, can be made into an efficient machine by the harmonizing of the efforts of the individual players. To do this the individual members of the team must put their personal wishes and desires in a secondary position.

The exhibition of a spirit of co-operation makes everybody concerned feel friendly toward the other fellow even though the man showing this spirit can do nothing tangible. It makes the man showing the spirit feel good because he knows the other fellow feels good. It is very little trouble for considerable results and it appears to have many good reasons in favor of it with none against it.

POLO TEAM LEAVES FOR OGLETHORPE

As soon as practicable, upon completion of said tournament, all such officers and enlisted men will return to this station and report to their respective Commanding Officers for duty, except that 1st Lt. Fred W. McKinney, Jr., Cavalry, will return to this station so as to be present for duty there at on the morning of December 2, 1922.

Authority is hereby granted said Polo Team to transport to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and return, at its own expense, not exceeding 20 Government Mounts and all necessary equipment and forage, now at this station, for use by it in said Polo Tournament. 2nd Lieut. R. W. Douglas, 29th Infantry, will act as Supply Officer and be in charge of and responsible for all Government animals, equipment and forage taken from this station.

No expense incident to this trip will be borne by nor incurred against the Government.

To make mistakes is human, but to profit by them is divine.

ENLISTED MEN HAVE GREAT OPPORTUNITY

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO WEST POINT PUBLISHED.

The following is published for the information of all members of the command who may be interested in the opportunity offered by the United States Government.

1. The following letter from the Commanding General 4th Corps Area, Fort McPherson, Georgia, dated November 4, 1922, is quoted for the information and guidance of all concerned:

"1. Supplementing letter from these Headquarters, dated August 23, 1922 (351.1 West Point 1923), the following instructions from the War Department are quoted for your information and guidance:

(1). Enlisted men of the Regular Army between the ages of 19 and 22 years, who have served as such therein not less than one year, are eligible to compete for appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. These requirements apply to the date of admission, which in 1923, will be July 2, and being statutory, cannot be waived or modified in any case. Prior enlisted service in the Army may be considered in determining an applicant's eligibility.

(2). The regulations governing the selection of enlisted candidates provide that a number not exceeding three times that of the existing vacancies shall be equitably distributed by the War Department among the corps areas and territorial departments, to be chosen from successful competitors in a preliminary examination of a scope and nature similar to the regular Military Academy entrance examination, instituted and conducted by the respective commanding generals and to be held between December 1 and December 15, annually. In order to avoid the expenses of travel which would be incurred if the applicants were assembled for the preliminary examination each soldier whose application is approved by you should be examined at his station, and the papers forwarded to some central point to be designated by you, where they will be graded and the candidates finally selected. You are, therefore, authorized to select in accordance with the foregoing, five enlisted men, who meet the requirements, to compete in the regular examination of candidates for entrance to the Military Academy, which is to be held beginning on March 6, 1923, at the various army posts mentioned on page 10 of the inclosed pamphlet.

(3). In order that candidates for 1923 may have as much time and opportunity for preparation as possible, not only for the regular entrance examination in March, 1923, but also for the preliminary examination in December, this matter should be thoroughly advertised. Officers should personally bring it to the attention of enlisted men under their command who appear to be eligible and suitable. It is desired that an opportunity to apply for appointment be extended to all soldiers within the geographical limits of your corps area (or department), who satisfy the above requirements, whether under your jurisdiction or not. Having in mind the type of men suitable to become officers of the Army, the mental, moral and physical qualifications of applicants should be carefully considered, with the object of recommending none not worthy.

(4). At the March, 1922, entrance examination, 18 of the 100 enlisted candidates, nearly one-fifth, were rejected by the medical examining board, notwithstanding the fact that instructions were issued to exercise care with respect to physical qualifications. The physical requirements for admission to the Military Academy, are necessarily, much higher than for enlisted service, and the policy of the War Department is strictly to adhere to the regulations prescribing those requirements. Accordingly every applicant should be thoroughly examined physically before his application is approved, and if any doubt exists as to his physical fitness, a full report should be submitted to this office.

(5). Enlisted candidates designated for the regular examination in March may, upon application therefor through military channels, be granted furloughs for a period not exceeding three months for the purpose of preparing for the examination. When a furlough is granted to a soldier for this purpose, direct him to report to the commanding officer of some one of the army posts named on page 10 of the pamphlet mentioned, on March 6, 1923, before nine o'clock a. m., to appear before the Military Academy entrance examination board, and advise this office of the name of the post at which he is to report.

(6). Enlisted men may submit certificates in lieu of the mental examination, in the manner prescribed on pages 3-7 of the pamphlet mentioned; but inasmuch as these appointments are competitive, those enlisted candidates who qualify mentally by certificate will be considered for admission only in the event that all vacancies are not filled by successful examinees. If any vacancies remain unfilled after the admission of successful examinees, those who qualify by certificate will be rated competitively among themselves and a sufficient number admitted, in the order of merit established thereby, to fill those vacancies. This should be carefully explained to any candidate desiring to submit a certificate. The proper forms will be furnished by this office to such candidates upon application therefor, through the commanding general.

(7). Forward to this office not later than January 1, 1923, a report showing the name, serial number, rank and organization, and the place of prospective examination of each of the candidates designated by you. Should the place of examination of any candidate be changed, because of furlough or other reason, such change should be reported promptly to this office."

2. All applications will be submitted so as to reach these headquarters on or before November 25th, 1922.

3. The preliminary examination for each approved applicant will be conducted at the station where he is serving, beginning December 11th, 1922, and concluding not later than December 15th, 1922. Examination questions will be furnished by these headquarters. Completed examinations will be forwarded to these headquarters without delay."

2. All applications will be submitted so as to reach these headquarters on or before Nov. 22, 1922. (351.1-A. O.)

By Command of Brigadier General GORDON:

R. P. LAVIN, Actg. Adjutant.

First Aid Station Opened In Columbus

COLORED SOLDIERS NOW HAVE THEIR OWN AID STATION.

A long felt need has been met and supplied by the establishment of a First Aid Station for the Colored Troops of the Camp in the City of Columbus. This Aid Station is on First Avenue between 10th and 11th Streets, and is in the hands of a capable crew of Medical Corps men headed by Sgt. R. M. Farrell.

There has long existed a need for such a station but the location and personnel has been a great question. This later has been met by the use of men of the Medical Detachment which came from Furlong with the regiment. A lease was negotiated and approved by the War Department and then the problem was soon solved.

The order establishing the station and assigning the men to duty is as follows:

Pursuant to authority contained in 4th Indorsement (246.84 Fort Benning, Ga.), Headquarters, Fourth Corps Area, Fort McPherson, Ga., Nov. 15, 1922, and Par. 1223, Army Regulations, 1913, the following named enlisted men now on duty at the Colored First Aid Station, Columbus, Ga., are placed on a commutation of rations status effective Nov. 11, 1922, it being impracticable to furnish subsistence in kind:

Sergeant Robert M. Ferrell, R-1024316, Med. Det. 24th Inf.

Pvt. 1cl Oscar Newell, R-1024327, Med. Det. 24th Inf.

Pvt. 1cl Henry Boger, R-3143311, Med. Det. 24th Inf.

The commutation of rations is chargeable to procurement authority QM 24 P2 A3.

29th Infantry Notes.

1st BAT. HEADQUARTERS CO.

In the last issue of the Fort Benning News, I read a paragraph relative to me (Pvt. 1st Class Woodruff), which could only have been conceived in a mind possessed by an egotistical ass. I confess that I can see no motive for such a letter, however, as it appears that you are desirous of heaping insult, upon insult on me through the papers, I will attempt to show you that you are engaged against a man of no mean ability. In the paragraph referred to above you refer to me as a stable Grenadier. My dear contemporary, since when has society deteriorated to so lowly and pitiable estate as to permit you to criticize my abilities. Where, "O" Where, is there an organized party of critics who would elect one such as yourself, whose mind is warped in wickedness, who is drunk upon egotism, who would profane the very air with an avalanche of oaths, who would be drunk one night and deliver a prohibition address the next afternoon? I ask you, where is there such a heinous organization?

I wish to inform you, my honorable brother, that upon the recommendation of the C. O. 1st Bn. Headquarters Company, that I have resigned my grenadiership and am now proficiency and dictation expert of the 29th Infantry. I am highly interested in my new profession, in fact this proposition appeals to me quite strongly, stronger in fact than prepared mustard, limburger cheese and skunks. I have travelled all over Europe, China, South America, Alaska, Panama, Japan, New York, Hoboken, and Columbus, in quest of some concern who could use my talent to advantage, being unsuccessful, I settled down in Fort Benning, hoping that I might be of service to my fellow soldiers, Uncle Sam and others in the service.

SERVICE COMPANY.

At a recent meeting of the first three grades in the Service Company, the following motto was adopted:

Early to bed,
Late to rise,
Bring breakfast to my bunk
Until my demise.

COMPANY "A."

All members of this organization wish to congratulate 1st Lieut. Perwein on his narrow escape the other evening. While driving his car along the road between Camp and Columbus, Lieut. Perwein drove over the 180 ft. contour on the hill leading down to the bridge. Both he and the car were uninjured.

Some wise man said that "Variety is the spice of life." Our Mess Sgt. believes this as witness his hash on toast.

Extra! Extra! Cpl. Stevens won an argument with Sgt. Morrow.

A good way from admitting that one is wrong, "That's what I said." This is a sure way, it is.

Morning Report Problem.

160 For duty—One heavy marching order inspection.
148 For duty—On pay day.

Corporal Bradshaw, when asked in N. C. O. school if he understood conventional signs, said that he did not believe in any kind of signs since beer signs went out of commission.

COMPANY "C."

Everybody is interested in football this year, a large percentage of the Company attended the Marine-Infantry School game last Saturday.

Private Joe A. Alonzo left Sunday for Ft. McPherson, to take part in the Corps Area Boxing and Wrestling Tournament. We all know Joe, and feel proud that he's going to be a part of it.

Everything goes well around the Company Orderly room as long as 1st Sgt. Barton can keep up with his pipe and pencil, but everything is dead wrong if he loses either of them.

Everybody is signing the pay roll this month, but some had rather miss it than to get a howl from Sergeant Kesak, and he never fails to growl.

Sergeant Mansfield is terribly interested in football now that the Demonstrations have started, but there's always a reason.

If there was a prize offered for arguing "C" Co. would get the prize, especially if all the men were like Duslack.

Somebody said Corporal Soders was a good Instructor for Recruits; somebody else said he ought to be good for something, he was too little to play football.

COMPANY "D."

Monkey Ehrenfield loves to see his name in print. He says that Pvt. Yelmoni still thinks that Sing Sing is a song.

Six hours after the company gets paid, Prvt. Gunn hereby challenges any man in the Fort to a wrestling match, catch as catch can, bes two out of three falls.

We have with us Pvt. Warner, the famous Mexican toreador. He sure can throw the bull.

Our famous Mess Sergeant "Booker T." Willard, claims that since he has been appointed mess sergeant he has lost his appetite. Our company "gumshoe" verifies his statement. He goes on to say that Willard had early mess at 5:30 a. m. with stable crew, at 6:00 a. m. he had chow with the company then about 7:30 a. m. he fried himself one dozen eggs, a tenderloin steak, a mess of french fried potatoes, one loaf bread, butterene, pitcher coffee. Yes, Brother Billard, if that's all you can eat you sure are losing your oppetite.

Our horseshoer, Thomas Mack, thinks that we are in a foreign country. He says prohibition went into effect in the gool old U. S. A. in 1919.

Cpl. Goldfeder was in need of some supplies recently, such as paint and lumber. It was rather cold when he went after same, and the company "gumshoe" reported that he had his hands in his pockets. He returned later without the supplies. Moral: Goldfeder keep your hands out of your pockets when you want to talk.

"Tomey de" Gasper may be a darn good recreation room orderly but he is no baseball fan. He thinks Babe Ruth is a Follies Show Girl.

Roeglin says that portfolio is a sea port in Spain.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

The new recruit center is beginning to take shape and Lieutenant Smith hopes to have all the men in good quarters before winter sets in.

Several new men have joined the outfit recently and we always welcome them. They are fortunate in being in a detachment that has so many old timers.

What made so many sore arms last week, innoculations? No, only the new corporals' chevrons of Veach, McCombs, Spinelli, Moore, Benefield, Ellis, Waller and Pritikin.

Our former "top", Master Sergeant Harris, is still laid up in the hospital. Hope he gets well soon.

Private Calhoun is a new arrival in the detachment.

Sergeant Higginbotham has been detailed on duty with the recruiting officer.

Private Sanders is now working in the assistant commandant's office.

From all indications Thanksgiving is going to be a great day. Sgt. Stewart ha been seen whispering to his crew of chefs so we figure on a big feed.

Private Willie Green is on duty with the M. T. C. and Jack Ross with the Post Recruiting Officer.

Private Lavender has held up his hand for three years and has decided to do it in the I. S. D.

"The Three Musketeers," Bennett, Wheeler and Collins, motored over to Birmingham to see the Center-Auburn game in the Master Sergeant's new Henry. They report quite a trip, being lost in the woods for three hours, and then seeing the pride of Kentucky humbled by the Plainsmen in a drizzling rain, not to mention the Professor who said that beautiful ditty, entitled, "Mother doesn't have to bring in the wood for Father is bringing home a load."

Cream says he can't be worried as he is getting to be a short-timer and he thinks he is going to beat Andy Gump in the race for congress after all. He says that when he gets out of the service he will be all set to go right up to Washington and take his seat in congress.

Another good man gone wrong. McCarthy, our very popular young corporal, has "tooken" unto himself a bride. The rolling-pin industry is due for a boom. Look out Mack!

PROGRAM SHOWS BETTER PICTURES COMING TO FORT

The pictures coming to Fort Benning next week are especially good. One of these is "The Dictator," in which Wallace Reid, Paramount star, supported by Lila Lee, leading woman; Theodore Kosloff, Walter Long, Alan Hale, Kalla Pasha and other schreen notables, is giving the public five delicious reels of fun, excitement, romance and revolution in "The Dictator," based on the famous play by the late Richard Harding Davis, in which Willie Collier scored a distinct success several years ago.

The story shows how a young American falls in love with the pretty daughter of a South American "liberator," follows her south and there becomes embroiled in a revolution of which her father is the instigator, not knowing that his own father, the banana kind, is on the other side for business and political reasons. He wins the revolution, the girl and his father's profound respect after a series of exciting adventures which fairly brim with suspense, mystery, conspiracy, fighting and delightful humor.

Another good one is "Peck's Bad Boy," in which Jackie Coogan takes the leading role.

POLO SPORT DANCE SUCCESS.

Wednesday evening was marked as a most enjoyable occasion when those interested in polo and dancing gathered at the Officers' Hop Room and tripped the light fantastic to the music made by the Officers' Orchestra. All the requisites of a good time were present, congenial crowd, enthusiasm and most excellent music.

The Officers' Orchestra provided the rythme in the shape of the best "jazz" that has been played at the Hop Room since the news reporter has been on the Post. It was certainly great to dance to the syncopations that were provided and the orchestra, though of only four pieces, certainly was a well balanced combination that put action into the feet of even the oldest and most sophisticated.

The club was most attractive with polo clubs, the main motive in the decorative scene. The officers and their ladies in sport clothes added to the beauty of the scene and the touti ensemble was most pleasing.

Members of the polo team report the affair a success from a financial standpoint, and while the trip will be expensive for the players representing the Fort the friends of the mounted sport have rallied to the call most enthusiastically and have subscribed the bulk of the money for the trip.

The best wishes of the entire personnel of the Fort go with the polo players in their invasion of the enemy's territory. "Go in and win, Benning."

General Mallory expresses "confidence that it will prove itself worthy of its best traditions."

The General desires "that both I and Mrs. Mallory be most kindly remembered to Chaplain Wood and to any others, not only officers but men, who were in the regiment when I was fortunate enough to be its commander and who are still with it."

Medical Department Notes

The Medical Department Bridge Club met at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Arville G. Brown on Wednesday evening, November 22, 1922. Prizes were won by Mrs. Smith, Captain Turner and Captain Chamberlain. After the game delicious refreshments were served and all pronounced the opening night of the club a huge success. The next party will be held at the home of Captain and Mrs. Frank T. Chamberlin, Block No. 23, Apartment No. 33 C on Tuesday evening, December 5, 1922, at 7:45 o'clock.

Captain James S. Brummette and Carroll P. Price, M. C., attended the Auburn-Center football game in Birmingham, last Saturday and saw their dear old Alma Mater (Center) meet her Waterloo.

Privates Ben J. Hogan and Price B. Harris re-enlisted for duty here and Privates J. R. Hicks and G. J. Eddines were assigned to duty here from Fort McPherson, Georgia, and Fort Barrancas, Florida, respectively. Private Harris is spending a thirty day re-enlistment furlough at this home, Enterprise, Alabama.

Staff Sergeant Lewis M. Harned re-enlisted for the last time before retirement, on November 20, 1922. He and Sergeant Arthur N. Mager are at present in Atlanta where they went to recover Sergeant Harned's car.

Sergeant James I. Cook and Victor E. Thompson are at their homes on furlough for fifteen days. Reports from Athens, Alabama, lead us to believe that Sergeant Thompson was married last evening.

"MUTT & JEFF" COMING TO SPRINGER OPERA HOUSE

Those inimitable and superfine jesters and comics, Mutt and Jeff, have a new stage vehicle this season which they will exhibit to their million of friends and admirers at the Springer Theatre Friday Night, Dec. 1st, with the usual matinees. It is entitled, "Mutt and Jeff's Honeymoon" and tells the story of two disillusioned husbands who seek solace and peace far from the maddening taunts and nagging of their better halves. In this instance Little Jeff acts as chief adviser and counsel with side-splitting and riotous results. The play is in two acts and six scenes and employs a competent cast. Seat sale starts Wednesday, Nov. 29th, at the Springer box office.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Sgt. Farrell is figuring on having a new room in the future. The other day he was seen putting on the second coat of paint before he had the first coat on. He says that will save him a lot of work.

Pvt. Hendricks, our mule skinner, is sure some horseman. He goes down to the corral and gets a mule to go horseback riding. He doesn't seem to know the difference between a horse and a mule.

Pvt. Williamson is wild about his new helmet. The first week he had it, he was seen every morning at first call with it, at noon he had it on, and when he went to bed he took it with him. If they blow fire call, look out, steel helmet.

The wood pile is becoming quite a popular place for some of the men, especially after six o'clock at night. Better police up around the bunks in the morning.

No, Nelson, you can't use the mess-hall for a gymnasium. You'll have to do your exercising in the open air to get any benefit out of it.

We've almost forgotten what our company clerk's face looks like. He's raising a mustache and we can't see his face any more. We're sorry, too, because he is such a good looking young man.

Wanted: One good sleuth to find the author of the poem entitled, "Christmas Day in the Workhouse." Suspicions seem to point to tent number five.

No one said nothing about nobody not being no good as the new mail orderly, nohow. Just give us this day our daily mail.

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

(By John Doughboy.)

With evenly matched teams the "Tanks" and the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, will clash on Thanksgiving afternoon on the Service Club gridiron. It will be the football battle that will finally decide the mooted question as to which enlisted team will hold on to the white championship pennant for the coming year.

At the present time the First Battalion is holding on to the Championship pennant through having defeated the "Tanks" last fall in a gruelling contest by the score of 12 to 0. However, this season, despite tremendous efforts to keep its slate clean, the First Battalion has tasted the bitter gall of defeat, having been set down by the Second Battalion by the score of 7 to 6 in a recent hectic fight. Now the Second Battalion having been conquered by the "Tanks" to the tune of 20 to 0, only the First Battalion remains as the solitary bulwark to surmount in order to achieve the much coveted championship.

The question is, will the "Tanks" be able to maintain the championship form they displayed in the Second Battalion game? Another question is, has the First Battalion improved since its defeat by the Second Battalion—and if improved has enough snap and go been imparted to the aggregation to make them worthy contenders against the terrible "Tanks"?

Naturally the First Battalion boosters claim to have the number of the "Tanks." They casually state that regardless of injuries or staleness the "Tanks" are licked the moment they face a First Battalion team.

The "Tanks" dispute this statement strongly. They state that they will trounce the First Battalion this season with greater ease than with which they conquered the doughty Second Battalion. Some of the supporters of the "Tanks" even claiming an advantage of at least five touchdowns against the First Battalion.

It will be a game for revenge—other than its championship value. The "Tanks" feel that rightfully they won the championship last season—and that their final defeat was due to the fact that the First Battalion played Lieut. Joe Cranston, a Varsity star, against them. Those who remember the game will recall that but for the work of Lt. Cranston the "Tanks" would in all probability have proved very tough opponents and might have won. At least the "Tanks" believed they would have won but for the presence on the First Battalion team of Lieut. Cranston. And this fall with the eligibility rules being strictly enforced the "Tanks" claim the First Battalion will have no opportunity to run in "ringers" and the championship will be decided on its merits between the enlisted representative of each unit.

Other than the game the staging of it will be a unique feature. The "Tanks" of course will arrive in a body escorted by their big tanks and a drum corps. The First Battalion will have the 29th Infantry band and to outdo the "Tanks" in making noise and a good show some surprises are promised. The cheerleaders of the First Battalion will be on the job and a good time is promised to all.

The game will start just as the turkey dinner begins to settle down in the midst of Thanksgiving jam and pudding.

There may be other attractions advertised but those who saw the First and Second Battalion games and the Second Battalion-Tank game are certain to attend this game. In fact, wild horses could not drag them away from this contest, which promises to be the lulu of the season.

TENNIS.

Three tennis tournaments were completed the past week-end. On Saturday afternoon Captains Switzer and Van Vliet won the doubles championship by defeating Major Finley and Capt. Whittemore, 6-8, 9-7, 6-4, 6-1. This match took most of the afternoon and the players were very tired on its completion. The sets were filled with some remarkable rallies.

The ladies' singles and men's singles championship tournaments were concluded on Sunday afternoon. A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed these events. Miss Marion Hannah defeated Mrs. Rumbough 6-3, 6-3 in a most interesting match and won a silver cup for a prize. Mrs. Rumbough won a pretty electric coffee percolator.

Capt. Van Vliet defeated Major Finley in the men's event 6-3, 6-4, 6-1. Many fine rallies occurred and every point was hard fought. The winner won a tennis racket and a leg on the beautiful Kirven loving cup, which must be won by one officer three times before permanent possession is acquired. Major Finley won a handsome cigarette case.

With the completion of these tournaments, the tennis season rapidly approaches an end. Only two tournaments remain to be finished —the mixed doubles and consolation singles. The tennis critics believe that the former should be won by Miss Hammond and Capt. Whittemore and the latter event by Lt. Knight. Both events will be completed this week-end.

Written by R. C. Van Vliet, Jr., Capt. Inf.

New Dope on Class "E" Allotments

OFFICERS FAILING TO GIVE NOTICE WILL SUFFER STOPAGE.

The following extract from a letter, dated November 3, 1922, from The Adjutant General of the Army, pertaining to Class "E" allotments, is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

"Due to the non-receipt of the notices of discontinuance (Form No. 19, A. G. O.) of allotments for any reason, i. e.: Death, Discharge, lack of pay status, etc., the number of allotments overpaid to allottees each month has been large, in fact, so large that the Department is confronted with a very serious problem in the matter of securing refundments. Instructions, orders, regulations, etc., upon the subject of allotments have been issued by the Department in such numbers as to leave no excuse for the improper handling thereof by any officer concerned, yet in spite thereof allotments are continually being discontinued in the field without notice of discontinuance being prepared and forwarded to The Finance Officer, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., and the only way that office becomes cognizant thereof is the non-deduction of the allotment on pay rolls and pay vouchers, in spite of the fact that Paragraph 169, Special Regulations No. 57, provides that (1) Request for discontinuance (Form No. 19 A. G. O.) will be made, and (2) Deduction will continue to be made, and until notification is received from The Finance Officer, U. S. Army, Washington, D. # History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 9.)

On the afternoon of the 11th of September, Company "D," under command of Captain W. S. Keller, left the woods at Martincourt to take position for the big offensive. Two squads were detailed with a machine gun company for engineering duties. The company moved noiselessly along the congested road that leads through St. Jacques and St. Jean. When the Metz highway was reached the command was given to strike no matches, as the troops were in plain sight of the enemy, and the company fell out and remained in the woods, which offered no protection against the downpour of rain.

As soon as the barrage was lifted, the company started the construction of an artillery road through the demolished town of Regnieville. Mines, traps and tangled masses of barbed wire were removed, and by the evening of the 12th the road was completed. On the morning of the 13th the company started for Thiaucourt and was subjected to heavy shell fire that night. On the 14th the company worked back on another road as far as Vieville-en-Haye. On the 15th the work was continued despite shelling and harassing by enemy planes. The same night a trench system was laid out and barbed wire erected for a portion of the divisional sector. The night of the 16th was spent doing the same kind of work, also under constant artillery fire. On the 17th part of the company returned to the Metz highway bridge and the remainder waited for darkness to finish erecting barbed wire. It was during these operations that Captain Walter S. Keller, commanding, was killed. There were several other casualties in "D" Company during this period of nightly wiring parties, and finally the company moved to the vicinity of the Metz highway bridge where they remained until the divisional area had been cleaned up. While Lieutenant Laracy succeeded to command of Company "D."

Company "E."

The day of the attack, Company "E," commanded by Lieut. Chas. J. Moore, was engaged in keeping open lines of communication south of the Metz highway. On the following day the fourth platoon, in command of Lieut. Mery, was engaged in repairing the road from the Metz highway to Regnieville. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd Platoons, in command of Lieut. Moore, with Lieuts. Floyd, Mendenhall and Byers, marched to Regnieville and opened a road through No Man's Land, transportation starting over the road at 5 p. m. During the night the fourth platoon continued repairing, and maintaining traffic over this road, and was on duty continuously for more than 24 hours.

The next assignment, a delicate one, was that of rendering harmless the traps which had been set by the boches in the divisional area. Altogether about 300 traps of various kinds were taken out.

Then commenced the work of salvaging and cleaning up the area.

Company "F."

On September 12th, the day of the attack, Company "F," with Capt. W. R. Swan in command, marched from a point one mile north of Mamey to Fey-en-Haye, repairing the road in rear of the advancing infantry. The company was under artillery fire all day, but by five in the evening the entire road had been made passable for artillery transport, but the continuous shelling made a maintenance detail necessary. At 4 p. m., the 1st and 4th Platoons were sent to assist Company "D" in repairing the main divisional road, and by night all roads assigned to Company "F" were passable for artillery. The 2nd Platoon returned to company headquarters at Fey-en-Haye at 9 p. m. and was immediately detailed to assist in repairing the divisional axial road at Regnieville. The 3rd Platoon continued the work originally assigned to the company, and the 1st, 2nd and 4th Platoons returned from Regnieville at noon of the 13th after having worked at Fey-en-Haye.

On the morning of the 14th, under heavy shelling, the company left for Vieville-en-Haye. The Fay-en-Haye—Vieville road had been opened for light artillery, but was rapidly becoming unfit for use under the load of heavy artillery and tanks, hence the 3rd Platoon was assigned the work of repairing it. That afternoon at 5 o'clock, the company struck camp in the woods two kilometers northwest of Vieville, but the 3rd Platoon, which was caught in a barrage along the road and had to take cover, did not reach camp until 8 p. m. That night, as usual, the woods were subjected to artillery fire, but no casualties resulted. The company moved back to a position about two kilometers northwest of Fey-en-Haye on the morning of September 15th, but just as the company was breaking camp the enemy started shelling it. Here it rested until late in the afternoon, when it again moved to a new position one mile north of Vieville, with instructions to lay out a trench system and to erect wire entanglements on the new front line held by the 3rd Battalion of the 61st Infantry. At 4 o'clock on the morning of the 16th, the enemy opened a heavy artillery fire on these positions, which compelled the company to stop work until 7 p. m., the next morning, when the work was completed by the 1st and 2nd Platoons. About 11 p. m. the enemy again shelled the trenches, which resulted in one casualty to the company.

The next three days, September 17th to 19th, inclusive, were spent in salvaging captured enemy material, including several naval rifles, which occupied the attention and efforts of one entire platoon for several days. During this time, the company was under intermittent shell fire. On the 21st of September the company moved into dugouts about two kilometers south of Regnieville, where it remained for two days, repairing the corps road through the town. The work of salvaging abandoned enemy material was continued until the evening of the 24th, at which time the company was relieved with the rest of the regiment.

The Seventh Engineer Train.

The Engineer Train, comanded by Lieut. Peter Murphy, established a large engineer dump at St. Jean, from which place trucks and animal transportation were busy hauling engineer supplies to the units on the lines. An advanced engineer dump was also established on the Metz highway near Mamey, and on the afternoon of September 12th the train moved forward to this place. On September 14th another advanced dump was established in a wood near Vieville, but short distance from the lines.

Material was transported from the main dump at St. Jean to the two advanced dumps, and from there to the line. One convoy of 13 tool wagons transporting picks and shovels, spent 26 hours, without food or water for either men or animals, making two trips of 9, kilometers so congested were the roads.

Twelve four-line teams of mules were detached from the organization and attached to the companies of the regiment. For several days the transportation of the train carried large quantities of German ammunition to the rear. Although under shell fire a greater part of the time, the transportation was continually in operation, and after about 14 days the train was relieved with the regiment.

Rest After St. Mihiel Offensive.

The 5th Division was relieved on September 16th, by the 78th Division and established Division Headquarters at Pagny-sur-Meuse. The 7th Engineers, however, were left in the sector to assist the 78th Division in the consolidation of the position. Finally, on September 25th, came orders for the engineer relief, and the regiment, less Company "A," marched to Rosieres-en-Haye, a distance of 20 kilometers, arriving at the destination at 4 a. m. the 26th. Company "A" proceeded to Boucq with orders to construct buildings for a corps headquarters. The five companies of the regiment found billets in barns, attics and old barracks and everyone settled down for a rest. Inasmuch as three weeks had been passed in line, the following day, the 26th of September, was dclared Regimental Bath Day, and a precedent thereby established, which continued until the armistice. The 26th of September, October and November will always stand out in the memories of the men of the 7th Engineers for this one thing. However, at 3 o'clock that afternoon, orders from the corps were received making the regiment temporarily corps engineers, and at 8:30 p. m., the regiment marched to Limey, exactly the same place from which it had departed 24 hours earlier.

On the night of September 26th the Meuse-Argonne offensive began with a heavy barrage along the entire line. Since it was only a question of days before the Fifth Division would be called into this affair, the engineers were relieved on September 28th and proceeded by marching to Cornieville and Rangeval, about 22 kilometers distant, to re-equip and prepare for the work which they would later be called upon to do.

15th Tank Battalion News

The log hut entertainment committee held their semi-monthly meeting last Tuesday. Most of their earnest thought and consideration was given to the selection and preparation of the program for the stag smoker to be held next month. Sgt. Dennis says all arrangements are complete. There will be musical and vocal numbers, toasts and unique features to be presented throughout the evening. Rest with the assurance that it will meet with the most hearty response on the part of everyone in attendance.

The matrimonial list continues to grow. This week we have to report none other than the genial and well liked Sgt. Boone, who was married a week ago last Saturday to Miss Eunice Nevelles, of Girard, Alabama. The members of the Battalion extend to them their sincere wishes for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Mason and Arthur (our Battalion tailors) have a bet which is being anxiously watched by several in the outfit. They are trying to decide which is the cheapest, a wife or an automobile. Mason has the wife and Arthur has the auto. Each has an expense book in which he enters each item. This bet is to cover a period of six months, so each ought to have a fair trial. We believe that Arthur got a little the worst of the deal as he got a second-hand car, while Mason started with a new wife.

Pallis says he missed going to Fort McPherson with the football team by inches, they picked the tackles and he plays end.

Severson claims that he is through with the "U Drive Them" cars. He says the last one he had there were three cylinders missing and the fourth sounded like a popcorn wagon.

Bachelors and other matrimonial prospects who have been postponing the "fatal date" on account of the shortage of coal will be interested to learn now that the November elections are over that there is now a lot of discarded political timber available.

Sgt. Kimball says that we are rapidly becoming a soft people. First it was soft collars and shirts, then soft drinks, and now it is soft coal.

While it is not the policy of this sheet to mention polities, we note in passing that Hicks has been active in securing the election of Gump.

Ye scribe wants some information. We all want to know the "whys and wherefores" of some of our members. We pay good money for "info" on blind pigs, wholesale raisin joints and rising yeast manufacturers.

It looks as though Andy Gump won by a neck. We congratulate his campaign managers, Sgt. Batchelder and Cpl. Goldstein. We understand Goldstein tried to vote ten times for Andy and his ballot was thrown out. Andy carried the battalion 10 to 1, and will wear no man's collar in Congress.

They say Sgt. Dean took a lesson in horseback riding the other day. He must be getting ready for the Stockyards Derby next year.

Cpl. Candea: Where are you from, Dean?

Sgt. Dean: Oh, I'm from the South.

Cpl. Candea: South of where?

Sgt. Dean: South of Market.

That famous baseball player, Alibi Hartmann, has been heard from once again. He is awaiting transportation to return to the outfit at present. Sgt. Williams and Lt. Brotherson wear a happy smile since this news arrived. Is business picking up?

Who is it that makes all the noise around the Mess of Co. "B" about three o'clock in the morning? Tum te tum te tum tum.

"Porcupine" Densmore, of Co. "C," went to Durand to see his little sweetheart "Curls." He missed the train and was late getting back. He claims that the gas ran out of the Ford and caused him to miss this train. Cauthen says he thinks that the "Curls" got to flying in his face and he couldn't see the road. Next time you go notify the C. of Ga. that you are there and they'll stop the train down next to that big tree in the pasture and wait for you.

Densmore reports that business is still as usual in the mountains.

Cpl. Wade is keeping the telephone lines hot these days calling 2880, Columbus. The Columbus operator told him, "If you love the girl, why don't you marry her, instead of spending a fortune in nickels on the telephone company?" Wait till Sam D. Lewis and Capt. Bill hear of what you are trying to do. Sam tried to get away with it but he has left the country and latest reports from him are not legible. He still seems to suffer from shell shock.

Webb got tired of sleeping by the door and moved in behind the stove. He said if he wanted a cold draught he would take it from a bottle.

Has anyone here seen Peggy? Ask Hicks.

Bryan still makes his weekly visits to Jordan City. Isn't it getting rather cold to use an ice cream social as an excuse for seeing her, Lino? He is very inconsistent in his affairs though as he may be seen on Sundays looking for a Buick from Cuthbert, Ga., to appear in camp. It seems that teachers (school and Sunday school) are the only ones he is interested in.

Webb is seen any day now planning and plotting on a suitable wrapping for his Christmas gift to Cleo. The only time he takes his mind off this is when he is trying to figure out "coffee and" for the next night.

Wade's favorite remark: If I had four bits I'd go down to the Ralston and see my little girl tonight.

Fight promoters are urged to capitalize the trouble between Chisel Chin Britt and Garrulous Garrison. They have a set-to about every two days now. Garrison must belong to some Chinese Tong, as it is said he used a fire shovel in the last melee.

Several radio concerts have been enjoyed recently by some members of the battalion, but now the batteries are burned out. Hard luck. One more little stretch of your imagination and some of you will be hearing signals from Mars.

Clark beat Stevens to the orderly hat by 24 hours this time.

Lieut. Jaynes and Sgt. Harvey have left for Washington as witnesses in a case brought by the government against a firm for the injury of Reginald F. Tietz, a former member of the battalion.

The "Tanks" football team linesmen have left for Fort McPherson to unite with the McPherson team against the Marines.

Sgt. Buck, Chief Rooter, is trying to figure out a scheme to get organized rooting down pat in the midst of great gobs of excitement. It isn't human nature, Buck.

GENERAL PAUL B. MALONE DEPARTS

LEFT FRIDAY MORNING FOR FT. SILL ENROUTE TO CAMP TRAVIS.

Friday morning General Paul B. Malone, for over two years assistant Commandant of the Infantry School departed for his new station, Camp Travis, where he will command the 2nd Artillery Brigade. General Malone was accompanied by his family and his aid, Lt. Lockofellow. Authority has been granted by the War Department for Lt. Weider Meyer to accompany General Malone and he will leave in a few days to join General Malone.

General Malone and his family have made many friends both in the Fort and the city of Columbus and it is with regret that they bid the General and Mrs. Malone adieu. At a dinner of the Automobile Club recently held in General Malone's honor, the General expressed his intention of returning some day to Columbus, Fort Benning and the Infantry School. This announcement was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

General Malone has been a decided asset to Fort Benning and Columbus and it is to be hoped that his prophecy as to his return will come true.

FOURTH CORPS AREA BOXING AND WRESTLING TOURNEY FINISHED

FORT BENNING ALMOST MAKES CLEAN SWEEP.

The corps area boxing and wrestling tourney which was concluded last Saturday at Fort McPherson, developed into a marked victory for Fort Benning. With but eight boxers and wrestlers entered from Fort Benning in the tournament, six championships were brought home, thereby proving conclusively that Benning leads other stations in the Fourth Corps Area in athletics.

The fights opened on Thursday, with Keenan matched with Fisette, of Fort Bragg, Grantham against Contz, of Fort Moultrie, Erdos against Burch, of Fort Bragg, Lasher against Feeney, of Fort Oglethorpe, and Donnelly against LePan, of Fort Bragg.

Keenan weighed in at 115 pounds, the bantamweight limit, and Fisette weighed in at 112 pounds. Keenan went after his man, "hammer and tongs," and put him to sleep in the third round. Keenan's ring experience and punching ability showed up to advantage in this fight.

In the next fight Grantham weighed in at 133 1-2 pounds and Guzman weighed in at 126. This fight went the limit but at no time was there any doubt of Grantham's winning. Grantham showed his superior ability from the start.

The next fight was between Erdos, weighing 143 1-2, and Burch, who weighed 144. Burch proved himself to be a very clever boxer. In the third round he succeeded in landing a blow on Erdos's temple which opened an old cut and started the wound to bleeding. From then on Erdos was badly handicapped on account of his eyes filling with blood, which fact prevented him from seeing. Even with this handicap Erdos put up a fine fight, and had it not been for this chance blow it is very probable that the outcome would have been different. Erdos is very anxious to meet Burch again. This bout went the limit, Burch winning the judges' decision.

Lasher, weighing 163, next met Feeney, of Fort Oglethorpe, who weighed in at 167. This was Lasher's first experience as a boxer—he being a wrestler—and his lack of experience handicapped him. Feeney proved to be a fast, clever boxer and won the decision from Lasher.

The last bout of the evening was between Donnelly, weighing 182 pounds, and LePan, of Fort Bragg, weighing 177 pounds. In the first round of this bout LePan appeared to be the cleverest boxer. This was Donnelly's first experience in the ring and he showed lack of experience. LePan administered a severe walloping to Donnelly in this round. In the second round LePan again went after Donnely with the evident intention of finishing the bout in this round. He was over-confident, however; Donnelly, while the melee was fastest, in the words of a spectator, "reached back and grabbed a post and socked LePan in the jaw with it." LePan took the count, thereby giving the heavyweight championship to Donnelly.

DONNELLY,
Heavyweight Champion, Fourth Corps Area.

Here is what the Atlanta Constitution said about this fight:

"Soldier Donnelly, of Fort Benning, borrowed a kick from the army's well-known mule and dumped it on Soldier LePan's jaw last night in the second round of the battle that was to name the holder of the heavyweight championship of the Fourth Corps Area until the next army boxing tournament rolls around.

"It finished LePan. It would have brought any box fight to an abrupt close. As a matter of fact, this reporter believes it would have come within one ace of ruining the Candler buiding. It was that sort of punch.

"Before Donnelly reached back to post headquarters for a brick, the customers were wondering how much

POLO TEAM LOSES TO OGLETHORPE

AFTER FAST GALLOPING THE INFANTRY TEAM DROPS ONE.

Playing the fastest game seen at Fort Oglethorpe this year and handicapped by slower mounts and the loss of their fast riding, First Lt. Makinney, the polo team representing Fort Benning went down to glorious defeat by a ten to eight score.

The riding was furious, the play scentilating and the defense excellent. Time after time the Infantry carried the ball down the field with excellent team work and shot for goals ouly to have them fail by inches. No little part of this was due to the defensive work and fast riding of the Fort Oglethorpe team who were superbly mounted on the pick of the cavalry mounts.

An unfortunate accident marred an otherwise superb game and doubtless had a large effect upon the outcome of the game when Kakenney, the fast riding, hard hitting Benning Number 1 was injured in a rush and his arm broken in two places.

The story of the game is told in the following telegram received from the Fort Benning Polo team, playing at Oglethorpe, Georgia:

"Benning 8, Oglethorpe 10. Exceptionally fast game. Two periods no score. Two goals greatest number one period. Goals: MaKinney 3, McClure 2, French 2, Betts 1, Brooks 0, Douglas 0, Truxon 3, Ochs 2, Dewey 1, Tompkins 4. Cavalry horses far faster than Benning. Breaks all against us. Over ten goal shots were missed by inches. Team work good. Every one played a splendid game. Consensus of opinion best polo game played at Oglethorpe. Feel no disgrace at being defeated by such good players so well mounted. McKinney resting easy. Play Bragg Tuesday."

Tuesday's game was even harder fought than the first game and while Benning lost, it was only after an extra period had been played and another of Benning's cracks had suffered from an injury received in one of the hot melees. Benning has suffered severly from the loss of stellar players and while it is the fortunes of war, nevertheless it is greatly to be regretted that these two games lost by such tight scores should have seen the injury of two of the best players representing the Infantry.

The telegraphic story of the game is as follows:

"Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 29, '22.

"Visitors cup game goals by periods: first, benning 1, second, Bragg 2, third, Benning 2, fourth, Bragg 2, fifth, Benning 1, Bragg one, sixth, Benning 1, Bragg 1, seventh, Benning 1, Bragg 2, eighth, Benning 2, ninth, Bragg 1. Douglass playing one dazed by lick from mallet cutting lower lip, six stitches; played game out wonderfully. Consolation cup played for Saturday between Benning and losers of Thursday. All games without handicap."

29th Infantry Notes.

FIRST BATTALION HDQ. CO.

After much thought and consideration of the matter we have arrived at the firm conclusion that our Communication Platoon, composed of the very elite of Communications personnel and some of the greatest talent in the American Army, and with many members of super-ability, including our wireless stenographers, Radio Jass Artists, Reel Cart Engineers and Professors of Topography, is worthy of note and to enable those less fortunate members of other platoons to get an inkling of the operations and noteworthy characters of this commendable organization the following is published:

The latest accomplishment of one of this platoon's esteemed members, i. e., Sgt. Sam Spenny, is Radio Dancing. Sgt. Spenny's music is furnished by little birds sweetly distributing their harmonious notes through the ethers in the Sergeant's vicinity accompanied by the ungodly tumult of other members of this platoon endeavoring to make telephone connections with the message center.

Sgt. Spenny will be seen to gracefully throw one little foot into the air followed by an unusually graceful waving of the arms suggestful of September Morn on a chilly morning. His body is seen to sway to and fro with the wavering of the winds, sweet murmurings issue from his audience while other contemporaries stand near by spell-bound with their gaze centered on their esteemed Sergeant who is conducting such a brilliant demonstration of the terpischorean art. The buzzer phone operated by Act. Cpl. Silva murmurs a dreamy waltz which causes the Sergeant to fray gently to and fro to the rhythm of the music. Sgt. Spenny in all presents the appearance of a Madonna with the grace of Annette Kellerman and Venus de Milo.

Another of this platoon's efficiency experts is Pvt. Lovic P. Sheppard, breast reel grenadier, who may usually be found sleeping in the shade of the Old Apple Tree whenever the Battalion Commander desires communication with the C. P., that is, if he can be found at all.

Private Ebling, professor of topography, is also deserving of note, who upon a recent demonstration while drawing a map of Maxey Ridge and vicinity forgot what he was supposed to draw and drew a map of the Coast Defense of Pensacola; when asked where the assault platoon was located on the map a few minutes later by the Communications officer, he replied that it was now entering Pensacola Bay and should pass the light house at any minute.

The Company Commander at retreat roll call was notified that Cpl. Heckman and two privates were missing. An investigation disclosed the fact that the Cpl. and the two privates had been sent out on patrol during the recent demonstration and had not returned. A posse was organized to search for the missing ones, who were found about midnight at the mouth of the Upatoi Creek, completely lost and waiting for the noise of the Artillery fire of the next demonstration to ascertain the direction of Fort Benning.

SECOND BATTALION HDQ. CO.

Well, fellows, it looks like we've erupted at last!

They say that silence is golden, but Headquarters Company reporter has at last been convinced that all jobs are not for the benefit of goldbrickers. But we'll declare to the world that our silence in the past has not been for the want of something to say, and again sometimes action is considered more appropriate than words, but in this case let it be words, so if I proceed to land a few knocks in certain directions, please remember, fellows, that words cannot be knocks in themselves, for they carry no weight. "Le's Go!"

The other day a raw recruit steps up to the orderly room door, sticks his can inside, and with an all-important manner, pipes:

"I hear there's some vacancies for mule-skinners in this outfit; think I can make it?"

Our First Sergeant—"Certainly, you look like a mule, but you've got your head in the wrong stall. Yonder across the street is 'H' Company, they may have an opening for you."

That just goes to show how much people take notice of our outfit when they go to inquiring about mules and such like. I see we must advertise our goods more thoroughly, so that our neighbors will not confuse us.

The newest thing I can think of at present, comes in triplicate form and it is a very delicate subject. Three of our most aspiring young soldats have been decorated with corporal chevrons, nice, bright and flashy, new ones. However, the best way to tell a corporal, speaking from personal experience also, is by the bright smile he wears for the first few days, which kind of eclipses the glare of his stripes. Corporal Johnson says it came in the nick of time, "as she was about to throw me over for another corporal."

It was noted the other night at supper that certain young Jewish soldiers, the reported included, did not seem to take very friendly to their daily slum. Abe Guller claime he wasn't sick, didn't have the toothache and the rest of us likewise. But about 7:30 that evening they spruced up and left mysteriously, and the next morning curious ones were informed about the wonderful time had by those present at the entertainment at the Catholic chapel, refreshments and everything! Also they found out that it had not been restricted to the Jewish faith alone, but had been a joint entertainment for all denominations. Of course they didn't relish the joke, but my advice is "GO TO CHURCH SUNDAYS." But Abe promises to give advance notice next time.

It seems that up to a few days ago we have been mistaken in the real abilities of Private Throgmorton, the battalion clerk. His execution of his office must be satisfactory or else he wouldn't have kept his job of typewriter pusher so long, and the drawing he has hanging on the wall must be good, or else I don't know where he gets the nerve to hang same up in Battalion Headquarters. But what I started to say was that he has at least shown us his true colors and his vocation is—he is official dog-catcher of the 2nd Battalion, elected as such because he has shown himself qualified for the job. Throgmorton, if you don't care for the job, you might at least offer your services as a "dollar a year man," the public demands it. Somebody's little poodle dog, you see, has taken a fancy to roaming about the Post and its owner hollers "Throgmorton," and he says, "Yes, sir," and for the past few times has successfully rescued the little roamer. But don't forget, Throg, when it comes to removing a member of the animal family called skunk, from under the board-walk in front of Battalion Headquarters, you had better stick to the dog-catching job.

Private Luongo recommends his special duty job at the Post Fire Department for the following reasons: If you haven't got the required amount for admission and yet possess a little nerve, you may enter the movies down town by flashing your Fire Department badge. It does resemble that of a cops but it takes a smart Aleck to fool a resident of Columbus.

We notice a happy feeling among members of this company when it became known that "Chop-Ear" Henderson is a one year man, and has only a couple of months yet to do. Of course we will miss you old SLUM King.

position which takes up most of his time (that is, when he is not in the company recreation room) talking of the Revolutionary war, other times he may be seen toting a "jug" and "glass" around. Wonder what's in it?

Another addition to the company is the new "Recruit" "FRITZ" BOLIVER, who is ranking, makes him take air occasionally.

"Pat" (he's well known) takes his regular Sunday hike as usual, tho we are afraid he'll have to cut it out. There is too much cold air at the present time.

Corp. Sutton was almost crying the other day. He and Corp. Holland were detailed for guard and Sutton drew Stockade, he asked Holland how he got away with regimental guard so often. Holland said he "told the 1st Sergt. he had no money and would like to see the "movies." The Top said, "Allright, Holland, you are elected."

The enlisted personnel of Co. "H" is to be congratulated on their intelligence in machine gun barrage work. Saturday morning during the barrage consisting of 48 machine guns, they proved themselves better than the average machine gunner.

As usual, men from Co. "H" starred in the football game between the Second Battalion and the Tanks. Although the Second Battalion lost, Parris and Daniel kept up a good fight all through the game. Cpl. Siaght was on furough, so was unfortunately out of the game.

"H" Company is increasing its average in deposits in the Quartermaster. Capt. Miller is doing his best and we hope that this company will have the largest amount of deposits in the regiment this month.

"The Landslide"

By Sgt. H. L. Fink.

A one hundred per cent candidate was Andy Gump,
For as such he proclaimed himself
while on the stump;
He trodded the highways and trampled the weeds;
Seeking to be inspired to nobler deeds;
Affirming repeatedly that he wore no man's collar,
He refrained from soliciting a single dollar;
And so it came about that Andy won in the election,
In spite of "Poison Ivy's" energetic objection;
His fight was as steep as the high spots in heaven,
As proof of this stands his majority of thirty-seven;
And by way of congratulations, faithful old Min,
Planted a kiss on his invisible chin;
And while he qualified in the role of politician,
To please everybody he'll have to be a magician.

THE FORT McPHERSON POST, another new Service paper, has just been received and it bears all the earmarks of becoming an interesting publication. The second issue contains news of special interest and just as soon as the paper has gotten establihesd and its news sources have been organized it will be second to none of the minor Service papers. The News is glad to include the Post on its exchange list.

THE NEWS does not want to assume the feminine attitude of "I told you so," but the impulse to invite everybody's attention to the fact that we predicted winning five boxing championships out of seven—the very thing that did happen—is irresistable. The fact that Fort Benning won again this year was due to two reasons; first, our representatives went to Fort McPherson full of confidence and the determination to win and, second, because our men were in better physical condition than their opponents. In other words, they were living examples of the necessity for "preparedness."

It was reported that the medical officer making the preliminary physical examinations stated that all bouts would have to be reduced to four rounds after examining contestants from one station. When he got to the men from Fort Benning he agreed to extending the limit to six rounds. The original intention was to have bouts of ten rounds, and had this been carried out Fort Benning would have been prepared as all our contestants had trained with ten round bouts in view. As a matter of fact this station was handicapped by having to fight bouts of but six is believed that had the bouts been rounds with eight ounce gloves. It for ten rounds with six ounce gloves there would have been another championship to our credit. However, we are not kicking about the results. We may want to participate in another corps tournament some time, and had we won every championship we might have difficulty in getting other stations to participate in the future.

COURTESY is an important factor in social and business intercourse. Too frequently this element is lacking with the result that a considerable amount of friction is given existence to. Military people, because of environment and training, have the reputation of being brusque and abrupt. Certain members of the military establishment give the impression at times that their efficiency can be demonstrated by the degree of "hard-boilednests" that it is possible to inject into their daily transactions. In other words, the term "hard-boiled" is confused in their minds with firmness, an essential military characteristic, with an undesirable, and sometimes amusing, effect. It is difficult for a "hard-boiled" man to be courteous; firmness and courtesy are analagous.

FOURTH CORPS AREA BOXING AND WRESTLING TOURNAMENT

longer Referee Bill Kaliska would permit LePan to make a punching bag of his heavier opponent. It was Donnelly's first encounter. It looked like it would be his last.

"After a minute of fighting in the second round, Donnelly laid his left glove so far in LePan's mid-section that Kaliska was about to help Donnelly pull it out. Then LePan walked over the ropes and covered up. He wanted to recover some of the breath that had been knocked away.

"Donnelly saw an opportunity. He waited for LePan to come up for air and then his right shot out. Major-General Shanks, occupying a seat of honor, heard the report and looked up, evidently thinking the roof was coming down. Fat Elrod, the announcer, just gasped. For the first time in his life Elrod was left without anything to say.

"All this time LePan was falling. A stupid look came over h's face. When Referee Kaliska sent his hand downward for the fifth time, intuition told LePan to get up. He nearly succeeded, but his legs wouldn't heed the brain's command and he sank to the canvas, this time to stay."

Fort Benning had but two entries in the Friday night boxing bouts and one entry in the wrestling class. Benning men won all bouts.

In the first bout DeRose, last year's lightweight champion, but now fighting in the featherweight class, met Contz, of Fort Moultrie. Contz weighed 122 pounds and DeRose 123 1-2. This was DeRose's fight from the start and in the third round he put his man to sleep by the K. O. route.

In our next fight Sebukaty mixed things with Petrozio, of Fort McPherson. Pietrozio, who weighed in at 152 1-2 pounds, showed that he was a fast, clever boxer and he made Sebukaty extend himself. Sebukaty showed that he had not fully recovered from the injury sustained in the Tennessee-Infantry football game, but after six rounds of hard fighting the judges gave the decision to Sebukaty.

The only wrestling bout of the tournament was won by LaPine, of Fort Benning. He met Campbell, of Fort Bragg. Campbell weighed 155 1-21 and LaPine weighed 157 1-2. Both men were in good condition. LaPine threw his man in eleven minutes. The Fourth Corps Area middleweight wrestling championship goes to LaPine.

Saturday night's fights found practically every class represented by Fort Benning men. This was the night of the finals. The Atlanta Constitution says of these bouts:

"Every fight at Fort McPherson last night in the finals of the Fourth Corps Area boxing championship tournaments resulted in knockouts. There were battles in every division except the heavyweight, which class settled its title discussion some nights ago. A fine crowd of soldier-spectators watched the struggles.

"'Red' Keenan, of Fort Benning, who won his first bantamweight championship last year, repeated this time with a quick victory over Andrews, of Fort Moultrie. Andrews took a bad pasting in the first round and the bell found him wondering what it was all about.

"He managed to recover his senses during the rest period and looked fit as a fiddle at the start of the second. 'Red' lashed over a smashing right and Andrews began hunting for a place to flop. Keenan didn't press his advantage immediately but toward the middle of the round launched a savage attack that soon had Andrews waving a flag of truce. The bout was then stopped.

"Al DeRose, of Fort Benning, who made a profound impression on Atlanta ring students in the first round of the tournament, won the featherweight championship when he defeated Hess, of Camp Bragg. Hess is a hard puncher but DeRose took everything the Fort Bragg entry could offer and thrived under the punishment.

"Seeing that he had nothing to fear from his opponent, DeRose waded into the hottest section of the firing line and soon had Hess in a bad way. Hess was especially wobbly in the third and went down for the final count in the fourth.

"Granthan, of Fort Benning, one of the likeliest looking youngsters that has appeared in this city in some months, had an easy time winning the lightweight title in his bout with Carroll, of Fort Bragg, who went down for the last time in the fourth.

Finance Department Notes

The Finance Detachment is rather busy at this writing owing to the fact that troops will be paid early this month and things must be in readiness so as not to delay the game.

Sergeant Kenney made his regular week-end trip to LaFayette, Alabama, last Saturday.

THINGS WE NEVER SEE, MAYBE YOU HAVE.

Kenney not playing pinochle.
Dobbie without his (bull)
Watson leaving Cliett alone.
Willis not playing Casino.
Shorte without his booze.
Friedenthal keeping quiet.
H. A. F. with a hair cut.
Miller without his cigar.
Cliett without canteen checks.
Bennett out of bed in time for breakfast.
Stokes without his perfume.
Tillerson without his laugh.
Barker without an enormous appetite.
Ayers in bed after 4 o'clock a. m.
Banda without his books.
Corp. Shorte—"I'm trying to get ahead."
Sgt. Dobbie—"That's right, you need one."

Some outfits boast of jaw breakers but the Finance Detachment boast of heart breakers only, as evidenced by one of our worthys last Saturday night in town. It is understood that he is great on the sob stuff. Who said Short—— Well, Toney will tell all about it.

A WOODLAND ROMANCE

It was a delightful summer evening;
The man stood, musing, on a little hillock.
Overhead the myriads of stars, the pale moon, the hurrying clouds.
For a long time he stood motionless, then raised a cigarette to his lips.

All at once his attitude changed to one of intent listening;
He peered forward. * * *
Then, singing softly to herself,
She came towards him from the woods.
A look of anguish crossed his handsome features;
With an involuntary movement he drew back.
She approached closer, but with muttered word and a wave of his shapely head he repulsed her.
Nothing daunted, she returned, but again he motioned her back.
Finally, with a plaintive cry, she flung herself upon him.
This time a look of eagerness came into his eyes;
He crushed her to him.
She gave a little scream, and silence reigned once more.
The man stopped and struck a match.
"Damn the mosquitos," was all he said.

"DEPOSITS."

By Sgt. Herman L. Fink.

Two soldiers enlisted in a certain big town,
And to the 29th Infantry both came down;
One was good, the other was bad,
The latter was S. O. L. over the habits he had.
The "Good One" with lemonade always was content,
While the "Bad One" on whiskey as a beverage was bent;
And while the date for the discharge of the "Good One" was approaching
Numerous troubles on the "Bad One" were encroaching;
By continually breaking existing regulations,
The "Bad One" thrived on additional "specifications;"
The "Good One" performed his duties in an excellent manner,
While the "Bad One" forcibly displayed the "G. P." banner,
On the day the "Good One's" enlistment expired,
He was by the "Bad One" greatly admired;
For the "Good One" left camp in a jovial mood,
While the "Bad One" was retained to make some lost time good;
When finally the "Bad One's" enlistment expired,
To a quiet little spot he promptly retired;
And there he reasoned in a repentant mood,
That to get along in the Army, one must be good;
And during his reasoning he also came to the conclusion
That deposits with the paymaster are, upon discharge, an indebtedness.

"16 x 16"

Many soldiers "exist" in tents,
Some, however, as if in a trance,
Because comforts are few and far between,
While repairs are confined to the wire screen.
To stay in the tent is the general rule to abide,
But on a windy day some prefer the outside,
For very few care to live in a home
Where there is danger of its roof caving in on their "dome."
Space on transports and dug-outs in France,
Were easily a "credit" to a good many tents;
Certain "quarters" it is known, don't compare
With the billets in "Luxembourg," bad as they were.
On better quarters if it were possible to insist,
Prospects for enlistment no longer would desist.
The Sibley stove with its flame in a rumble
Is cause for no little of the winter grumble;
Other causes on which it is difficult to dwell,
Generally cause an A. W. O. L.,
And while on the outside without returning coercion,
Said A. W. O. L. is just another case of desertion.

Lt. Crawford, who has been assistant Post Exchange Officer, has been appointed Post Exchange Officer vice Capt. Wolfe, who is relieved. Captain Wolfe is being discharged from the service at his own request to enter civil life and engage in business.

Captain Wolfe has been Post Exchange officer nearly two years and has been most efficient in his conduct of this task. The Post Exchange as now conducted, is one of the largest and most up-to-date in the army and is showing good profit.

The large office building which houses the office, the hat and shoe shop and the tailor shop, has been built by the Post Exchange Council out of the profits of the exchange.

Capt. Wolfe's many friends wish him well in his adventures in civil life. The new Exchange Officer has been apprenticed to Capt. Wolfe for some time and has been right on the job getting hold of the details of the Post Exchange job.

24th WARRIORS BRING HOME BACON

Saturday, the 24th triumphed again when they slipped the defeat dose to Knox College, of Athens, Ga., on their home gridiron. The game was a good one and replete with thrills. Three times the Knox College boys tried to score via the drop kick route, but not once did the oval sail true. Two attempts fell yards short due to the rush of the Infantry forwards, and the third attempt, while having distance, lacked direction.

At no time did the collegians threaten to cross the last chalk line for a toluch-down. The Infantry scored three times on excellent football, and added two points on a safety when the center trio, Shannon, Hughes and Troup, broke thru and blocked a point which Knox recovered behind the goal line for a safety.

The ball was kicked off to the Infantry, who made a good run back of the kick, and then started down the field for a score. On the fifth play after securing three first downs, the 24th Star, Freeland, was heavily thrown and went out of the game with a badly bruised shoulder.

After a series of exchanges, the Infantry carried the ball across the line on a back by Oliver after a fine forward pass, Young to Bonner, that netted 30 yards, and placed the ball on the college eight yard line.

The line was playing excellent football, charging hard and playing low the previous week was marked. The on defense. The improvement over benefit of much work on the bucking machine was easily observed. In the first part of the game, the lack of good interference was still evidenced, but as the game progressed, the backs got together and from then on they ran very good interference.

Bonner got two forwards that placed the doughboys in scoring position, and Williams also made one pretty play on a forward. The line play was excellent. Troup and Hughes showing up very well when put in near the end of the first half They had openings at all times when called on for holes.

Dawson at tackle played an excellent game. The second touchdown came as a result of a well executed forward pass, folllowed by two ex-excellent end runs and a couple of drives thru the line.

Two costly fumbles prevented a larger score, as the college boys were right on the job when the ball was loose. The last touchdown came as a result of consistent line playing interspersed with end runs. The end around proved a great ground gainer.

Toward the end of the game, all the players of the squad were given their chance, and some of the subs showed fine stuff. Young, Green and Williams acted as pilots, and used good headwork throughout. The third touchdown came when the team, by hard playing and fierce tackling, took the ball away from the Athens crowd, and drove down the field with great power for the final counter of the afternoon show.

This game was the best shown on the home lot this year, and augurs well for the great game of the season on the 25th, when the Infantry mingles with Talladega College for a game which is for blood and revenge.

The officials conducted the afternoon's entertainment in a most satisfactory manner, and the Athens Collegians went home feeling that they had been royally entertained and that the best team won.

A dance was held after the game, and there was a large attendance from the camp as well as many visitors from Columbus.

29th Infantry News Notes

1ST BATTALION HDQS. CO.

When it comes to this chin music proposition of yours, I have never seen the man, woman, child or dictaphone that could take first place with me, much less the fact that you seem to think and presume that you are mentally my equal or superior. I write shorthand so fast that I have to use a specially prepared pencil with a platinum point and an air cooling system which I have perfected at an exhorbitant expense, a note book made of asbestos composition, ruled with sulphuric acid, bound with human hide and stitched with cat gut. I use the A. W. ignition, double unit, high tension system exclusively, and will guarantee to deliver my rated horse power exceeding the highest examination qualification ever made by writers of the Pitmaniac Greeg Graham and Gregg Standard. I have been listed under the interstate commerce commission and guaranteed under the pure food and drug act of June 30th, 1906. I run with my cut out wide open at all times and speeds and am in fact a guaranteed double hydraulically welded, drop forged, oil tempered speciman of human lightning on a perfect 36 inch ball ground to 1-1000th of an inch; at hot air juggling you have darned little on me.

It would be useless for me to inform you of the many traits of uprighteousness around which my character is moulded, assuring you that if you should dare to write again I'll become angry and will unburden myself of some ugly epithets which shall be hurled upon you. As the above is a sample of mild and gentlemanly writings, I warn you that if I have this matter again brought to my attention my next letter shall be very rough and heated indeed.

SERVICE COMPANY.

The saying that lightning does not strike twice in the same place was utterly repudiated and renounced to the benefit of our company.

Some three weeks ago the Ajaxian elements, which was defied by the said Ajax, the said element utterly ignoring such defy by the said Ajax, struck the Service Co., coming down through the heavens with a flash and a thunderous roar over the company street, and when the flash, and the smoke, and the long continued reverberations of the thunderous roar had ceased and the surrounding atmosphere had cleared, lo and behold! there stood two stars in the company street, and the vociferous thanks offered up in prayer so pleased the creator of that particular stroke that he concluded to do it again, and in answer to those prayers of the Service Company struck again, and when the flash, smoke and reverberations had cleared away again, lo and behold! there stood a third star in the company street. And in Corporal Hoadley's re-enlistment the Service Company again was the contented recipient of the benefits of another scarce article in army bands, and Corporal Hoadley will eclipse many and many musicians on his particular instrument, and these three stars in this case followed the one wise man at the head of the band section. Thus reversing the order of the three wise men that followed the Star of Bethlehem, and if a constellation of such stars were precipitated in our street, we would have a band section second to none in the army, and as it is, we won't take a back seat for any of them now.

We also wish to announce our regrets, also rejoicing, if such two opposites could be merged into one.

In our regrets we wish to say that we have lost one of our stars through separation from the service, and in losing one of our basso profondo players, we lose one of our steady men; and in rejoicing we want to wish Mr. Vitali all the good luck and sincere wishes that his genial ways are deserving of, also rejoicing that he goes home to be a leaning post and a helping hand to the failing health of his ageing parents.

All power to you, Vitali, and may the Lord be with you and yours.

2nd BATTALION HDQ. CO.

Sergeant Terry is back with us again after being absent about six weeks on a two months' furlough. Queer thing, the Sergeant is as strong and husky as in the past, but the waist line is not as noticeable. Back in time to enjoy the holidays with us, old man, and the meals that come with them.

The strength of the Company was decreased on the 25th of November by the discharge of Sergeant Moyers and Private Hastings. No, they did not re-up, but no one can tell what may turn up,and there are vacancies all the time for such good soldiers. We all wish them the best of good luck—and a kind winter.

It does see like everybody is buying Christmas gifts for somebody, at least that is a good excuse to offer when the subject turns to depositing money with the Quartermaster next pay day.

The slogan, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," is more popular than "Do Your Depositing Early."

Now that nights are getting colder, the Knights congregate around the Pool Table, which is conveniently situated near the stove in the Recreation Room. The old pastime is being revived. Everyone is interested in either playing or watching Private Frank teach the rest of us to measure up to his pool shark standard. It is whispered that Private Frank took his French leave a short time ago for the express purpose of learning the finer points of the game, and that he paid for the expert instruction he received. Don't let them kid you Frank, when you're doing a thing, do it the best you can, or not at all.

The Mail Orderly complains that his duties are becoming somewhat strenuous lately. He say that not a day passes but what he has to haul a truck load of scented letters, with feminine hand-writing from the Regimental Post-Office. But he is not the fellow to lay any particular blame on the receiving end of this flow of correspondence. "Croppy" Henderson just has a " way " with the ladies that can't be beat, and its not his own fault, they just naturally fall for him. And with Christmas Coming, orderly, the worst is yet to come.

SHOULDER PATCHES.

Shoulder patches in great number and variety are to be seen in Fort Benning and vicinity.

As a suggestion, why not a shoulder patch similar to the shield of the Infantry School for all personnel permanently on duty at Fort Benning?

The cost would be negligible and the patch would add to the attractiveness of the uniform as much as any the writer has seen. Also (admit it or not) it would still that little longing to have one "like the other fellows."

Going further along, why not a service ribbon or some neat insignia for graduates of the Infantry School and other service schools? To be a graduate is an honor—at present the only way of determining whether an officer has ever graduated from a service school is to look him up in the book.

Of course it MIGHT cheapen our present decorations, but other nations do it.

These suggestions are of a most general nature but the writer believes they merit thought.

HERE AND THERE

What's in Columbus that makes one think of the ocean? The "C" (Sea).

It's funny sometimes the intelligence that seems to occupy the minds of the lowest animals. Last winter, as the cold winds would blow against my tent door I would turn over in my narrow bunk and try to drift off into slumber. One night another member of the tent left the door open and along about 12:00 P. X. I felt that I had company in bed. Company who did not belong there. Finally, by stretching my neck, I located my visitor. I closed my eyes as if in slumber and my visitor, perceiving that I was apparently asleep, left the tent in haste.

A few minutes later I heard the patter of feet, and to my surprise, I gazed upon a whole platoon of rats —and, Buddy, they were RATS. They were wise rascals. They had sent a scout forward to find out whether the occupants of the tent were asleep and, after receiving the report of the scout that the way was clear, the entire company marched in column of squads from underneath an adjacent tent, sent a squad to the tents in our row, and began their night depredations.

The major at a certain recruit depot was approached one day by a man who had obviously been in the service only long enough to draw his uniform. The rookie failed to salute, but the major, a kindly man in spite of twenty years of Army life, overlooked it.

The buck gazed with respectful awe at the string of campaign ribbons across the major's broad chest.

"Gosh!" he remarked, "you must be an old timer."

"Yes," answered the major pleasantly, "I am."

"Say," began the buck cordially in a whisper, "do you ever drink anything?"

The major was truthful as well as kindly. He admitted that once in a while he took a small nip, and then turned away, as his new-found acquaintance was proving embarrassing.

"Wait," said the hospitable rookie, "I got some here—"

This was too much for a kindly-disposed major.

"Corporal of the guard!" he bawled.

"Aw," protested the buck, "don't call your friends—there's only enough for two."—Enquirer-Sun.

generalship would lead one to believe that he has been in the game professionally for many years, but this is the first lot of sustained ring battling he has ever been through.

barrage in the fourth that spelled doom for the Bragg fighter.

"Walker, of Fort Ogethorpe, stopped Staples, of Fort Moultrie, in the third round of their bout and was never in danger of being caught by one of Staples' wild clouts. Walker's victory was expected by the dopesters.

"Numaravick, a middeweight of Camp Bragg, after a succession of nice victories in his preceding battles was knocked out by Sebukaty, of Fort Benning, in the third round. Numaravick was hammered cold as a mackerel after making a splendid showing for two rounds. Feeney, of Fort Oglethorpe, scored a knockout over Dundee, of Camp McClellan, unofficial light heavyweight champion of the Fourth Corps Area.

"The tournament, conducted by officers at Fort McPherson, was a great success."

The members of the Fort Benning team have nothing but praise to speak of the manner in which they were entertained and the manner in which their opponents fought. It is particularly gratifying that the general appearance of the men from Fort Benning was such as to attract attention and that their conduct, both while in the ring and outside of it, was such as to bring forth favorable comment both from high officials and from civilians with whom they came in contact.

The members of the garrison, both officers and men, are proud of the Boxing and Wrestling Team.

Jottings From the 24th

An interesting incident in connection with the Talladega-24th football game came to the attention of The News reporter.

The score at the end of the first half was 6 to 0 in favor of the college boys. The Medical Corps men on duty with the ambulance went over to where Captain R. M. Wilson was laying down the law to the 24th team. He stood around for a few minutes then hurried back to the ambulance and began to unstrap the litters that are a part of the equipment. Some one in the crowd called out, "What are you doing that for?" His answer was most enlightening. He said, "If they do what he told them to do we are going to need them all." Sufficient to say the 24th won by a score of 19 to 6 and that night two of the college boys were reposing in the Chateau de Pain.

An order published by Post Headquarters this week placed the Summary and Special Court jurisdiction of all units except the 29th Infantry, the 83rd F. A. and the Tanks with the 24th Infantry. An amusing side light on this order has come to note. A member of one of these outfits just put under the 24th, when pollied about getting lit up, said, "Oh no, not for me, any more. Last time I got three days pay but you go down there and it's three month's the first time, six months the second and 148 1-2 the third. I've only eleven months to do and I'm on the water wagon for that long."

FOOTBALL BASEBALL

FOOTBALL

(By John Doughboy.)

Outplaying but not out-fighting the spectacular Tanks the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, triumphed yesterday by the score of 28 to 20 in the annual football game between these two teams.

The victory of the Doughboys smashed to smithereens the football dope of Fort Benning. All the dopesters were agreed that Major John Leonard, commanding officer of the 15th Tank Battalion, had a real championship team this season and that the game over the Infantry would be a walk-over. It proved very unpleasantly for the cocky Tanks to be otherwise and Major Floyd Hatfield, commanding officer of the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, is smiling the satisfied smile of the cat who has just negotiated someone's pet canary.

The game was played on the gridiron adjacent to the Service Club at the Post. A crowd estimated at 2,500 witnessed the game which retained its spectacular features until the shadows of night had fallen and the players could hardly be distinguished. The cheering of the Doughboys throughout the game was deafening and they backed the spirited battling of their team to the limit.

The contest was a surprise party to the Tanks in that the Infantry depended almost entirely on regular old-fashioned football. Few trick plays were attempted. It was just sam-bang through center or off-tackle with racy end runs sandwiched in between. This kind of medicine from the powerful doughboys swept the Tanks off their feet and before they could fathom the offensive of the Infantry they had lost the lead and this they never regained.

The outstanding stars of the game were Glockner, Rompleski, Wally, Parker and Schwald for the Infantry and Sharp, Wooten and Lindsey for the Tanks. Romploski, the doughboy field general, correctly gauged the weakness of the Tank line and shot his plays through the holes for almost continuous gains. He also ran the ball in a spectacular manner and was in every play. On the offensive a tall, ungainly 17-year-old youth named Gloekner simply ran wild over the Tank line. He was the bright particular star of the game. Parker and Schwald were the Infantry linesmen who made the holes for the plunging backs and Wally played his usual strong game at full.

For the Tanks, Sharp, with two runs, eclipsed his team-mates. In the first quarter Sharp on his own 40 yard line ran around right end 60 yards for a touchdown. Later he ran 50 yards, and he made other dashes hither and yon that were mighty perplexing to the Infantry. Wooten also deserved credit and Lindsey at center was a tower of strength.

The work of the referee, Captain Bachman, was splendid and the game was fought hard but cleanly. The only injury coming in one of the final plays when Detweiler, an Infantry end, was knocked out and carried off the field. He was immediately removed to the hospital. It was said his back had been badly wrenched.

The line-up was as follows:

| Tanks | Pos. | Inf. |
|---|---|---|
| | Right End | |
| Pallies | | Needham |
| | Right Tackle | |
| Poling | | Parker |
| | Right Guard | |
| Mattingly | | Schwald |

Volley Ball Tournament In Twenty-fourth Inf.

OFFICERS OF REGIMENT ARE PLAYING SERIES FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The officers of the 24th Infantry, following the regimental policy of always leading, have staged a volley ball tournament and every afternoon when work is over the officers of the regiment may be seen on the court getting their daily exercise and deciding the championship of the regiment.

So far team Number 3, lead by Capt. Moore, is in the lead but the contest is so close that a single days play may change the standing of all the teams.

The other teams claim that No. 3 has a big advantage in having a chaplain and ex-chaplain playing together on the same side, but No. 3 hotly disputes any such insinuations and claims that it is superior playing that tells the story.

The winning team is planning on a big feed at the expense of the loosers and as the end of the tournament draws near the battle waxes hotter. Col. B. P. Nicklin's team is hot contender for the championship honors but just fails to claim first place. Friday's game may put this team at the lead of the league.

The standing of the teams with captains, is as follows:

| TEAM— | Played. | Won. | Lost. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Number 3 (Capt. Moore) | 21 | 13 | 8 | .619 |
| Number 1 (Lieut. Muller) | 21 | 11 | 10 | .523 |
| Number 4 (Capt. Callahan) | 21 | 11 | 10 | .523 |
| Number 2 (Capt. Wilson) | 21 | 7 | 14 | .333 |

Revenge Is Sweet

24th INFANTRY TRIMS TALLADEGA ON HOME GROUNDS.

(By Chaplain Reynolds.)

Saturday, in a game that was replete with thrills and filled with gruelling football from start to finish, the 24th Infantry gridiron stars secured the long end of a 19 to 6 score over the Red Hosed Warriors of Talladega University. This was a return game an amply made up for the only dose of defeat handed the 24th this year, handed out by this same Talladega team.

The game was called at 2 p. m., with a large gallery of interested spectators from all over the camp and many visitors from the city of Columbus. Lt. Carter, West Point, was referee, Master Sgt. Buck, of the Tanks, umpire, Major Leonard, timekeeper, and Lt. Schas head linesman and Lt. Lussier field judge.

The game started with the Infantry winning the toss and electing to receive the kick, a well planned but poorly executed trick play was smeared for a loss and the Infantry kicked. The ball changed hands a couple of times and then the Collegians started a march down the field. Line bucks with a couple of well executed forward passes put the ball over for the first big counter for the College boys and upon the try for point the kick went bad as no less than three forwards were thru on the play. The Infantry guards had been playing high but this score was the dose needed to get them down into place and from then on it was practically impossible for the College boys to gain except by forward passes.

The Infantry kept the ball in the Talladega territory for the balance of the half but lacked the necessary punch to shove it over at the required time. They threatened twice only to have the College boys take it away and kick out of danger. The half ended with the ball in the Infantry's possession on the enemy's 20 yard line.

Between halves the Infantry coaches, Capt. Wilson and Chaplain Reynolds, laid down the law to the big Doughboy team and the result was that when the second half began the matter was not left long in doubt. End runs, line bucks and neat forward passes soon had the ball down in the College territory only to lose the ball on a kick. Talladega got off a punt on the first down and when a man jumped on Frelan after he had been tackled and the whistle had blown and attempted to twist his head off, the referee awarded a 115 yard penalty and on the next play the Army shoved the ball over for the counter that tied the score. The point after goal was made on a place kick and the score was 7 to 6, Army.

The rest of the half was a repetition of the play with the Infantry employing Young and Hill to pound the fast weakening College line to pieces.

The game waxed fast and furious and using Frelan and Jones to skirt the ends and Young, Hill and Green to hit the line, two more scores were driven over the College line. The game ended with the score 19 to 6 with the Infantry on the long end of the score and the 24th had secured revenge for the only defeat of the season. The "Big Team" has won 6 out of 7 games played and defeated every team played. The outstanding stars of the game were Young, Hill, Hughes and Shannon for the Infantry, and for Talladega, Alexander, Groves and Edwards.

The summary of the game is as follows:

| 24th Inf. | Pos. | Talladega |

24th Infantry News Notes

REGIMENTAL HDQ. COMPANY.

Oh why! Oh why! Turpin, don't you do right by one and let the others go—some day your wife will catch you.

Sergeant Robert Tyler is all smiles since going to town to visit a High-Brown.

Private Mitchell said when he returns from his furlough he is going to save what he spent while away. How can you ever catch up, Mitch?

Corporal Joseph Davis has just about stopped visiting since receiving a letter from a fair one in the city.

Look out, Corporal Brown and Sgt. Butler, here comes Turpin and Sol Winn with another kitty.

SERVICE COMPANY.

"Service for the Regiment." This Company has as much to be thankful for as any other company in the regiment or army, and in this connection worthy mention is made of the following personnel, office (pay roll) staff:

Staff Sgt. William Washington, Sgt. Nicholas Turner, Sgt. Oscar Ware, Pvt. John Stewart, Pvt. Charles Stewart.

This Company furnishes from mule skinners "to pen pushers," from indoor baseball players to football players, and as being the latter, we are proud of "Big Boy" Hughes, better known as rough and ready, or any way you don't like it.

Don't forget that this company is the home of the jazzers of the regiment; it also has some new arrivals who seem to have instruments. Look out, you old "jazz hounds," these boys might overtake you, they have no limit for practice; morning, noon and evening, even at the large hour of 12 midnight they can be heard too-la-la,—something like that. We will have to ask the band leader to interpret some of these unknown notes, as they are very high pitched.

Heard in Tent No. 10 (Musicians) —"What are you playing on that horn Hig Blues?"

"No, I am tuning my horn up for drill tomorrow."

One but not the least things that Service Company has to be proud of is the motor mechanics and inventors. Prof. S. Brooks is one inventor to be praised. He has made a motorcycle, 1926 model, out of practically nothing but a hammer and monkey wrench. He claims this vehicle will travel at the rate of 150 miles per hour. Prof. Brooks states that he is now going in to seclusion to start to work on the plans for a wingless airplane. If he has as much success on this invention as he had on the motorcycle, what will he make next?

The company has a new Company Commander, Captain George S. Clarke, who has recently returned to duty from leave of absence.

COMPANY "A."

Private First Class Dolphus Hill left a few days ago for his home at New Castles, Ala., to spend his 90 days' vacation with his relatives and friends.

Cpl. Henderson must have a very good hoe card; he is calling everything. He has the city fever and the doctor can't do him any good. Cpl., don't get things complicated and call on the wrong hole-card. The game is "Stud."

Cpl. Twitty must have found something in town pretty good, he steps mighty high. Boys, you know as well as I know, that something is causing the old datto to spruce up. I believe he is using spruce oil.

Say, Lyons, quit adding 20 to 3 and try multiplying 8s with 6s. At the end of your multipication you will find some lovely roses. Pick one, and any slow boy will speed up. We have been watching your moves ever since we arrived, and your moves are very slow. Bell, Murphy and Orange have made 12 moves to your one; it's your move this time and you had better take it, else you will lose the game and your report will be: 6, 8, 10, and 12. Watch 'em, Freddie!

Bell, old boy, things look pretty good in your favor. You have a fine go but I think you are making a bad out. Go slow, take your time, you know where there is smoke there is fire. Watch that your building don't burn. It may sound funny, but it's true.

Oh! Spud, what's wrong? Every time I look for you somebody says, "Spud is in town." Tell me what's up there. I may want to go along sometime just to keep you company. I know you get lonesome.

COMPANY "B."

Cook Payton, better known as "Fish," says that he is too wise to be caught!

Watch your step, Fish! There are some sharks in Georgia that can catch any fish.

Mech Robinson, alias "Tift," the regimental butcher, the doctor, the lawyer, the preacher, the artist, the professor, the stenographer, the wise man, the Know-It-All, the British Columbian, the Cruel Hombre, the love-sick man, and the stone-heart man!

Say, Tift, what do you mean when you say, "Father, forgive them; they knoweth not what they do?"

Old boy, if you don't stop worrying you will knoweth not what you do.

Stop it! You made your bed hard, so you must lie therein.

COMPANY "I."

During the past week Company I has suffered a great loss of personnel. Among these we find Sergeant Foster (Cute Trick) and Sergeant Wheeler (Buddy). They are both very well and favorably known by all who have had dealings with them. So here's luck to the old timers.

Sergeant Handy (Sweet Sixteen) has arrived from Company L, with his little whist table and cards. He has only lost about 38 games at this writing.

Sergeant Walker (Long Distance) is now on duty at the ticket window over to the theatre selling tickets. He requests that every soldier bring as large a bill as possible for buying tickets. It saves a lot of time making change and keeps the other man out in the cold that much longer. Ha! Ha! Who said anything about he will short-change you?

Supply Sergeant Calieph Moore (Statement of Charges) is back from Manilla, P. I. He had a six months' furlough and came back 2 months ahead of time, afraid that he would not be here time enough to cheat you out of one-half of your clothing settlement.

Sergeant Russell (Poor Boy) says he is the only man to be thankful this Thanksgiving as it is his last Thanksgiving in the Army, and next year this time he won't have to make "Steger's Reveille."

Sergeant Warfield (Big Stuff) is about to take cover. He was heard to say that "Them wood butchers would have the top on him by Thanksgiving," meaning house.

Corporal Patterson (Slow Kid) has to stand up all night to keep warm because he has all his blankets wrapped around his 30 cents Put-Put machine.

Staff Sergeant Ransom (Hermit) is now in exie. He desires no company and will not be seen until next spring or Thanksgiving dinner.

Staff Sergeant Merrill (Biting Baby) wants all mess sergeants to know that he is now ready for all holiday dinners.

COMPANY "K."

Mess Sgt. Lay (Andy Gump) gave the members of Co. "K" a new diet last week, "B. E. P. Stew," and Sgt. Garrett put on his diving toggery for mess-call, to find the black-eyed peas in Joe's stew.

Litte Johnny, our vamp corporal, has been keeping out of the city the past two weeks. What's the secret, Johnny, Christmas?

Pvt. Freelon, our star athlete, is still receiving compliments from the opposite sex. Look out, Freelon, they will gobble you up.

Sgt. Williams, our Supply Sergeant, is still busy issuing new skin, eyes, nose and teeth, since the game with Talladega.

15th Tank Battalion News

Flanagan and Whitten have returned from furlough. They both appeared rather famished, although Flanagan still had a lonesome nickel left when he got back. Whitten says he was offered many jobs, but none of them were political, so he refused them. He attended the American Legion Convention in New Orleans as a side issue. Reports a great time there.

Burton has got one of the rip-snortingest, hand-me-down, banged-up, lop-sided, sawed-off, cross-wheeled, spring-bustingest, skiddy, wheezy, barracks-wrecking, and top-sy-turvy Fords that ever was. The other day he tried to tear down the Stockade fence with it. It is one of those animals that take a notion it ought to be where it isn't and goes there in spite of all his efforts to the contrary. It can neither be steered nor stopped when it gets that way. The last spell it had was very hard on the side of the barracks of the Cooks and Bakers School. Please get rid of it before it tears up all the play-houses, Agnes.

Our last week budget of gossip must have got mixed up with the football returns or blue penciled by the censor. Anyway, we couldn't see the name of the Tank Battalion in our edition of the Fort Benning News. Let's hope this meets with a better fate.

SEIZING THE OPPORTUNITY.

"Where are you going in such a hurry?" asked Mrs. Bibbles.

"Over to John Jagsby's house," said Mr. Bibbles. "He has just telephoned to ask if I could lend him a corkscrew, and I'm taking it myself."

"Couldn't you send it?"

"Mrs. Bibbles," said Mr. Bibbles, in cutting tones, "the question you asked me shows why most women are unfit to lead armies and make quick decisions in business deals involving millions. When the psychological moment arrives they don't know what to do with it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

RADIO CONTROLLED DANCING.

Have you ever stopped to consider, dear reader, that we are in the most wonderful century in the history of the universe? We have had our radio controlled battle ship, radio controlled airplanes, wireless telephones which broadcast the land of an evening with concerts, but doubtless very few know that in the 29th Infantry may be found another radio controlled wonder of the world, to-wit: A radio controlled dancing sergeant. It has been afted many years of experimenting that a successful radio controlled dancer has been perfected. Of course it has also cost a fortune and many sacrifices on the part of Professor James O. Evans. But now that it has been accomplished he says that it is well worth everything.

One of the sacrifices called for was the giving up of a fine position aboard one of the Pacific mail liners, with excellent pay and quarters, as he did not have the time to experiment there that is afforded in the army service. One drawback that he has been unable to overcome is that when indulging in the terpsichorean art the dancers cannot stand the light, consequently, to be perfectly controlled the radio dancers must keep in the dark corners of the pavillion. Professor Evans has promised that if enough interest is shown he will give two demonstrations, one at Fort Benning on the night of the 20th, at the Fort Service Club, and one in Columbus on the night of the 25th at the Columbus Soldier's Club. Students desiring to enroll can make reservations for the two nights. One of the beauties of radio controlled dancing is that the dancer does not bother with keeping time with the music.

Sergeant Ike Freeman was born in Tiflis, Armenia, but having heard of the great and glorious climate of Fresno, California, he imigrated there while quite young, always having had a delicate complexion, and needing fresh water for his delicate skin. His family settled on the banks of the San Joaquin river near Fresno, where there was always a great super-abundance of pure Sierra Nevada mountain snow available.

His motto has always been "Look before you jump." But he jumped before he looked this time and was enlisted in the 29th and out on maneuvers before he thought of the fresh water supply.

While living in Fresno, Calif., Sgt. Freeman promoted the sale of the Moon Kist raisin, the world famous product. He also considers himself on a par with Professor Steinmetz as an electrician. As a book-keeper he has no peer. His greatest claim to fame was the regimental search for the missing soap of the 1st Battalion Headquarters Company.

"Gift Sunday."

Sunday, Dec. 17, will be observed by the members of the Protestant Sunday School as "Gift Sunday" for the purpose of emphasizing the privilege and blessedness of giving, especially at the Christmas season. This will also serve as a means of assisting in helping many poor children of neighboring communties in having a "Merry Christmas." The members of the Sunday School will be asked to bring to the Chapel on Sunday, Dec. 17, all the toys, tree ornaments, fruit, nuts, Christmas cards, dolls, food, etc., they have to offer, to be turned over by the Chaplains to the Salvation Army, Family Welfare Bureau, etc., for the poor of the city. Undoubtedly every child on the Post has numerous toys, books, pictures, cards, and other things, including articles of clothing, all in good condition or easily repaired, that can well be spared. Parents are asked to co-operate with the Chaplains in this and see that the children respond to this appeal. And add some new things.

The child who gives before Christmas will appreciate the more the gifts parents bestow on Christmas.

BISHOP FRANCIS J. KEYS GUEST OF HONOR.

General W. H. Gordon, Commandant of The Infantry School, entertained Bishop Francis J. Keyes, of Savannah, at a buffet luncheon, given at the General's home, on Saturday, Dec. 2nd, at 12:30 p. m. The following guests were present:

Bishop Francis J. Keyes, Father Moylan, Chaplain Lennan, Chaplain Wood, Dr. Rosenthal, General Connor, General Davis, Colonel King, Colonel Graham, Colonel McCaskey, Colonel Nicklin, Colonel Goodale, Colonel Barnes, Major Sullivan, Major Blauvelt, Colonel Kent, Colonel Smith. Major Leonard, Major Rumbough, Mr. Colgate, Colonel Van Dusen, Major O'Leary, Major Sawkins, Lieutenant Billo, Lieutenant Honnen.

Polo Team Returns

PLAYERS, THOUGH DOUGHBOYS, MAKE IMPRESSION WITH CAVALRYMEN.

The details of each game played in the corps polo tournament would take up too much space to be included in our columns, but as an indication of the impression made by the Fort Benning team, the following is quoted from a Chattanooga paper:

"The fastest and most closely contested game of polo ever seen at Fort Oglethorpe was played yesterday afternoon between the Fort Benning and Fort Bragg teams, in which the latter team was victorious only after playing an extra period, the final score being 9-8. In the second period of play Lieut. Douglass sustained a very painful, though not serious injury, which necessitated taking six stitches in his lip, but which did not prevent his playing the remaining seven periods. The fact that the team from Benning comes from a dismounted branch of the service does not necessarily signify that they are not masters of horsemanship and stickwork. Never has there been presented more superby riding and greater accuracy of aim as that exhibited by both the infantrymen and artillerymen, and those who witnessed the game declare that it was quite comparable to international polo.

"The score and line-ups follow:

"Fort Benning—No. 1, Lieut. Douglass, 5goals; No. 2, Capt. McClure, 1; No. 3, Lieut. French, 0; No. 4, Capt. Betts, 2.

"Fort Bragg—No. 1, Lieut. Baker, 5; No. 2, Maj. Rhinehardt, 2; No. 3, Lt. Gross, 2; No. 4, Maj. Batson."

While it is natural that we should want to win, at the same time there is considerable gratification in the fact that our players, handicapped as they were by slower mounts, made such a splendid showing. Next year this station will make a still better record.

Some Pictures Coming To Benning Theatres

The old superstition about seven years' bad luck resulting from a smashed mirror, has no meaning for Thomas Meighan, "good luck" Paramount star.

In a fight staged recently for his new picture, "If You Believe It, It's So," the star threw a mallet through a mirror of a back bar in a saloon set and smashed the glass to smithereens. The incident made some shudder, but Mr. Meighan regarded it as a sign of good luck.

He also had one of the liveliest fights of his screen career, his opponent being Tom Kennedy, a former boxer and a powerful man. Not only was the scene of the fight divided into three sections, but it was rehearsed several times before being "shot." The men were pretty well winded by the time they had finished.

The scene occurs when Mr. Meighan in the role of Chick Harris defends an old man who is being brutally treated by a bartender. This is only one occasion when the ## 29th Infantry Notes.

SERVICE COMPANY.

When the Service Company received a quota of animals to supplement its motor transportation, some of the personnel to attend these animals had to be drawn from the 29th Infantry motor sheds. These men, although expert chauffeurs and mechanics, had little knowledge of animals. So in order to acquaint them with the rudiments of animal husbandry, the following instructions were given them on their first day at the corral:

"Now, men, if you will bear in mind what I have to say, you will have no difficulty in handling these mules. What I want you to particularly remember is this—when I speak of gasoline I mean hay; when I say 'oil' it means oats; when I speak of a puncture it means a mule lost a shoe; a vulcanizer will be our designation for the horseshoer, and water, of course, is water. Now are there any questions you men wish to ask?"

Private Lodderse: "Sir, what if the Lieutenant should speak of an exhaust pipe—what part of a mule is that?"

The Sergeant Keeps the Step.

One, Two, Three, Four! The Sergeant keeps the step,
And when he forgets his arithmetic he changes it to Hep!
Oh! 'tis Hep! Hep! Hep! we're all day on our feet
From Reveille in the morning until they blow Retreat.
Oh! 'tis Hep! Hep! Hep!
The Sergeant keeps the step.

COMPANY "A."

Members of this command wish to congratulate the officials of the Post Theatre in the wonderful management of selling tickets. They sell tickets in such a business-like way; very business-like, one ticket to one man and no more, if you desire to take some of your friends to the theatre you are S. O. L.

It certainly is a pleasure to stand in line for two or three hours (especially in this wonderful weather we are having now), waiting for the box office to open, and then have the ticket seller tell you that you can't have more than one ticket. Their financial condition is so high that they simply refuse to accept cold cash.

For the benefit of those who doubt the above, it is suggested that they attend one of the Sunday's performances. But if you don't wish to be badly disappointed, don't take any of your friends with you.

COMPANY "B."

We have had the pleasure of welcoming back into our midst the star football player of the First Battalion. After proceeding to Fort McPherson and showing the men of that post what kind of material the First Battalion turns out, "Tiger Romplowskie" has returned to send the Tanks to their happy hunting ground.

The men in this Company sure love those things called Demonstrations from the remarks that are passed from different ones when they get orders to fall out with full field less pack.

While in the City of Columbus, Ga., the other day I happened to overhear two men in conversation, and the main topic was a fellow called Robillard. After hearing a good compliment I am forced to pass it on. Their conversation was something like this:

Mack: "Have you seen anything of Corporal Robillard?"

Ike: "No. What kind of a fellow is he?"

Mack: "Oh, rather good looking; fair complexion, about my height, and has a Roman nose."

Ike: "Well, Mack, you know that no such nose ever turns up."

COMPANY "C."

The men are all expecting an earthquake or some other serious accident for there hasn't been a fatigue detail for two days.

Pvts. Alonzo, Parmigiani and Swall returned from Ft. McPherson Sunday, and report a good time.

We are all wondering why Pvt. Harold Gross likes to do K. P. every Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

"Speed Wagon" Akin never can hear first call for Reveille, but when it comes to Chow call, "Nuff said."

Private Sanderson wants to know why woolen gloves are issued in the Army. Boy, page the Q. M.

Private Budzisz, the shoe-maker, would be a good barber if he would stay away from the fish camp.

Private Alonzo has been promoted from Mechanic to permanent K. P. He's specialized in manicuring pots and pans.

Private Findley left Sunday for Panama. He carries with him the best wishes of the entire Company.

Sergeant Egizie motored to town in his Green Oakland last week before he got near the traffic cop, the cop yelled out: "Get that bale of hay out of the street, there's an automobile behind you."

COMPANY "E."

Well, the young fellow is back from vacation. First Sgt. Jones says he had a very enjoyable time while in Florida on his furlough, and he sure looks as if he had. We are sure glad to have him back with us again. It seems like old times again. But I'll bet he had rather he was at Palm Beach chasing flappers. How about it, Richard?

COMPANY "G."

The Scouting and Patrolling Section put on various demonstrations during this past week for the refresher class of the Infantry School consisting of Generals Connor and Davis and Colonel King. These officers stated that the work was very well performed and very realistic. They also commended several men on their individual performance. Commendation coming from these officers means quite a good deal. This section intends to continue the good work and make a name for itself this year.

Heard in the chow line, one Buck to another:

"Say, did you deposit any money?"

"Did I deposit? Why, man, that Co. Commander could talk me out of my shoes. I intended to deposit five dollars and before I got out of the orderly room I had twenty-five with the Quartermaster."

Wonder why Sgt. Hallisey has been wearing a big smile and going to town every night for the last few days?

A certain corporal in this company seems to think that squirrel hunting is a part of his duties. We fail to find a paragraph in the I. D. R. that covers squirrel hunting. What page is it on, Tom?

Every man in the company has been wearing a big broad smile since Lt. Sims resumed command of the company.

We have a certain cook in the company who has earned himself the name of "Flap-Jack," by eating 24 flap-jacks for breakfast. It couldn't have been Schwab?

COMPANY "H."

It is noticed that all of the big eaters of Company "H" are getting out of the Mess Hall pretty early nowadays. We believe they are getting ready for that big Christmas dinner they are expecting.

Pvts. Hudson and Frost of "H" Co., are back with us again after a brief stay in "Hotel Teachout."

The Second Platoon of "H" Company was commended for their good work in the demonstration at the "Water Tanks." The Officers were well pleased with the work done by the men.

We wish all the men being discharged the best of luck when they get back into civilian life.

Co. H received a commendation from Major Finley, of the Second Section, Department of Military Art, and also one from Colonel Goodale on the good work done in the Machine Gun Barrage on November 18. That's the kind of paper "H" Company is going to use for wrapping up our silver cups and ribbons.

The football players of "H" Co., who are on the Second Battalion team, are determined to win the championship of the Post. They are putting all they've got into the practice.

Pvt. Skelley, of "H" Co., has returned to the company after having been on furlough to his home in New York. We'd all like to have been with him.

The way "H" Company's dining room orderly cut his hand the other day, it looks as though he didn't have anything else to serve for bread.

The Company Commander of "H" Co., has stated that the Thanksgiving dinner won't be in it with the Christmas Feast we are going to have.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 10.)

THE MEUSE-ARGONNE OFFENSIVE

Coming out of the St. Mihiel offensive, after having served first as divisional engineers and later as corps engineers following the relief of the 5th Division by the 78th Division, the 7th Engineers arrived at Cornieville on September 29th in a very tired condition.

The work of re-equipping and cleaning up was immediately commenced, and pushed with vigor, for it was only a matter of days before the 5th Division would be called upon to operate in the second great American attack, the Meuse-Argonne offensive, which had started on September 26th, and which was continuing with undiminished violence.

About midnight, October 3rd, orders were reecived to march the next morning to Void, thence, via motor bus to destination, which proved to be Blercourt, which was reached at 4 A. M., October 5th, after 7 hours rest, orders were received to march at once to Esnes.

On October 5th Regimental Headquarters was established at Esnes, a typical battle-line town whose few remaining crumbling, ghastly walls in a silent appeal, told the tale of what had happened there before.

From time to time, a few shells came over, and a great consternation was caused when a few landed in the camp of the 808th Engineers (colored). Several Frenchmen were also wounded. On the morning of the 7th a big shell came within a few yards of scoring a direct hit on the headquarters' rolling kitchen, and part of the headquarters staff; two windows in Colonel Paules' car were struck by a fragment which landed in the seat of the chauffer, Corporal Dudley, scarcely a minute after he had vacated it.

On the 7th the Regimental P. C. was moved up four kilometers to the Zouave P. C. on the immortal Hill 304, from which could be seen the memorable Le Mort Homme. This was hallowed ground, the altar of France, where France had sacrified her very best, and not in vain. Here and there were scattered graves of poilus. The innumerable shell craters, the broken equipment and German boots sticking up from the ground gave silent evidence of the frightful onslaughts of 1914 and 1916. The hill commanded a view of the very fields on which the Crown Prince had lost 700,000 men. The romantic poppies, according to tradition, the first wild flowers to spring from a grave, were there in profusion and emphasized the horror of it all.

The regiment was again to act as corps engineers, and to do road work until the division entered the line, which was October 13th. Hence the 1st Battalion commenced work on the Esnes-Malancourt road and the Second Battalion commenced work on the Esnes-Bethincourt road.

On the night of October 5th-6th, the Fifth Division was designated by the 1st Army Field Order No. 38 as Third Army Reserve and took position in the Bois de Hesse. On October 11th and 12th, the 5th Division relieved the 80th Division, the 7th Engineers were released from their work as corps engineers and proceeded to join the division, and plans were made for the attack of October 14th. The 5th Division was to attack in the direction of the Grand Carre Farm in conjunction with the 42nd Division from Sommerance. The jumping-off line was placed just south of the Romagne-Cunel road, but it was discovered during the night of the 13th and 14th that the advance line occupied was along the Trenches de Mamelle which was some distance south of the line designated.

The 10th Infantry Brigade attacked on the morning of October 14th at 8:30. The first Battalion of the 7th Engineers (less Company C) accompanied the 10th Brigade in the attack, its mission being to establish liaison between the 5th Division and the 32nd Division as well as to cover the left flank of the 5th Division.

The 2nd Battalion had, the day before, constructed foot bridges, and its mission was to accompany the infantry assault battalions and throw foot bridges across the Andon stream over which the infantry was to pass, and continue the attack.

At 8:33, three minutes after going over, the enemy laid down an effective barrage which produced losses in our troops. However, the advance progressed until the slopes north of the Romagne-Cunel road, Hills 260 and 271, were reached, when heavy machine gun fire was received from the Bois-de-Rappes, Bois-de-Pultiere, Romagne, and the direction of Bantheville, which stopped the attack before it reached the valley of the Andon.

Hence the footbridges were abandoned and Companies "D," "E" and "F" fought shoulder to shoulder with the infantry. For conspicious bravery in action that day, Sergeant Henry B. Talbot of Company "F" was commissioned.

That night, units of the Second Battalion, commanded by Major W. M. Hoge, did excellent work in forcing the boches out of the Romange and enabling the right flank of the 32nd Division to advance.

The ground now used as the Meuse-Argonne Cemetery is a part of that taken by the First Battalion of the 7th Engineers. For gallantry in action, Sergeants Oliver J. Emmons and Melcher P. Keller of Company "A" were commissioned.

On October 15th this battalion was relieved, after heavy losses, and it proceeded to Nantillois, joining the divisional reserve.

For the next few days the regiment was engaged in wiring in strong points and preparing resistance lines for the infantry. Every night details were sent up to do this work, the Engineer Train trucks were working during the day, bringing engineer material from the rear to the forward dump and at night carrying details and men to the front often to within 300 yards of the extreme front line.

On the day following the capture of the Romage, Lieutenant Murphy discovered hay, a very badly needed article, in a building in Romagne, so trucks were sent up for it. The mission was unsuccessful, however, for they were driven out by boche one-pounders about 900 yards away.

On the 22nd the division was relieved by the 90th Division and the 7th Engineers proceeded to Esnes and Malancourt, where they remained until the 26th, again being called upon to give up their brief period of rest to road work, under orders from corps headquarters.

It was immediately seen that trucks were needed to haul road material, so steps were taken to get them. Two French trucks, empty, were noted in Esnes, hence they were captured ( despite the protests of the drivers who insisted they had to report to their company commanders. Two French speaking Corporals from Company "A" were assigned to ride with these trucks and at night to sleep with the drivers and prevent them from going to their companies. For four days these trucks made the tour from Esnes-Malancourt-Bethincourt and back to Esnes with loads of rocks for the roads. Finally the suspense became too great for the Frenchmen, who had visions of the guard house. Consequently they started for Souilly with trucks, corporals and all. The last seen of them their visions were coming true—they were being sent to the guard house.

COMPANY "A."

On October 14th Company "A" drew extra bandoliers and started for its position, which was to be the left wing of the divisional infantry front line. On this day the company suffered more losses than on any day while on the front. Just outside of Nantillois a shell fell in the column between the first and second platoons, wounding Sergeant George Sanborn, Corporal John J. Walters, Privates Jesse Hart, Lloyd Matheny, W. Avala, Earl Hardin, Raymond Hurless and Marcus Smith. The detail which was guarding the engineer dump suffered total casualties with the exception of Corporal Raboin, who was in charge. Privates Leo J. Snyder and Alphonse Houde were severely wounded and Frank L. Hayden was badly shell shocked.

On the way to the front, the valley just adjacent to Madeleine Ferme was being so heavily gassed that for half a kilometer the atmosphere was blue. Through this the company passed with masks on, and escaped with but a single casualty, Harry Starr. At the crest of the next hill, while passing through heavy artillery and machine gun fire, Lieut. Mercer was wounded in the ankle by a machine gun bullet, leaving only two officers to carry on with the company. Beyond this valley the company crossed the boche line of two days before, and entered the immediate zone of fire. Here the company was in plain view of the boches who had constructed a line of resistance about a kilometer and a half ahead and they immediately placed such a barrage on the flat which the company was crossing that it seemed impossible to get over it. It was while crossing this that Eino Weno, who had joined the regiment a short time before, having been wounded with the 1st Engineers, was killed by a shell.

THE NEWS would have to enlarge if every member of the garrison, especially the ladies, asked business people from whom purchases are being contemplated, "Do you advertise in our Fort paper"? Still supposing that the ladies had "nerve" enough to announce the intention of going elsewhere if the merchant did not advertise in the garrison paper there would be a sudden influx of letters into the A. & R. Office demanding space in goodly amounts.

THE NEWS is not a charitable institution. It is the best advertising medium open to the business people of Columbus who have articles to sell to the military personnel. In view of the fact that approximately a quarter of a million dollars is available for circulation each month each merchant wants his pro rata share of this amount. To get it they realize that judicious advertising is necessary. The News fills a need in this respect and it is only fair to the business man to reciprocate in the matter of buying after he has shown his progressiveness by attempting to reach the buyers.

THE NEWS is distributed by courier to each set of quarters on the Post; it is mailed to every student officer in Columbus; it is distributed through official channels to every office on the Post; beside this distribution a number of copies are mailed each week to the various chiefs of branches, Service schools, and Service papers. This makes it a splendid advertising medium for business people trying to reach military people.

FOOTBALL is about over and the Infantry School ended its season by decisively defeating Mercer University. The school team was in better shape than during the entire season, and, as was the case last year, could have defeated most of the Southern colleges and universities last Saturday. Now the basketball season is approaching and the prospects for some fast games are good. The new gymnasium will in all probability be completed in time for the greater part of the schedule to be played in the building and this in itself should prove an attractive feature of the schedule. Last season the basketball team was handicapped by having only a limited amount of floor space for play. Part of this space was practically dead due to the low gallery in the old gymnasium. With plenty of space and an unlimited overhead throw this season should be a decided improvement over last.

POLO at Fort Benning has recently received an impetus due to several facts. For one thing, the ladies have gotten behind the social end of the game and are serving tea every Sunday to visitors at the games. In addition to this the ladies have interested themselves in the matter of furnishing the new polo club house and already a substantial sum has been raised toward this end. The Fort Benning team participating in the polo tournament at Fort Oglethorpe gave the game another boost locally. Polo players at this station are handicapped by having only inferior horses, however. This was demonstrated in the tournament at Fort Oglethorpe. The 6th Cavalry, which regiment is stationed there, had the better horses and won their games on account of this. Such a statement is not meant as a reflection on the skill of the 6th Cavalry players but rather as a compliment to our players who had the skill but not the horses. All of our players played a splendid game and had they been better mounted the result would have been different.

THE THREE THEATRES on the Post are better equipped to furnish entertainment to the personnel of the garrison than ever before. The type of pictures being received are better and the condition of the films —an important factor in motion pictures—is better. Each theatre has an orchestra and when the new music has arrived this feature of the entertainment alone will be worth the price of admission. The increasing attendance is helping the station in a financial way and with plans being laid toward the opening of the new theatre in the Spring it appears that when the new theatre is opened it will be as good as any theatre in this section of the country from the standpoint of amusement facilities.

SOME PICTURES COMING TO FORT THEATRES

star has had to battle big men and experts. In "Cappy Ricks" he was pitted against Ivan Linow, a wrestler, in a thriller mixup. Mr. Meighan is himself a powerful man and a clever boxer and wrestler. While he had his hands full in both these combats, he was able to make a fine showing.

"If You Believe It, It's So" is a powerful story of underworld life and tells of the reformation of a city crook who goes to the country and finds love in a new environment.

There's a bit of everything for everybody in "The Top of New York," the May McAvoy feature.

There is wonderful "kid" appeal in the huge toy shop with its thousands of toys and the appearance of May McAvoy as an animated doll, to the delight of the Christmas shoppers.

There are thrills in the scenes where the heroine is saved from committing suicide—and a rousing fight between Edward Cecil and Walter McGrail.

There is comedy relief by the Irish characters impersonated by Carrie Clark Ward and Arthur Hoyt.

There's real pathos and drama revolving about the Christmas rush in the toy department and the home experiences of the little sales girl who makes such a plucky fight for the happiness of her crippled brother.

"The Top of New York" is an entertaining story which splendidly fits the winning human appeal of May McAvoy, whom playgoers remember for her gripping work as "Grizel" in "Sentimental Tommy." The star does a convincing bit of work and she is supported by an excellent cast, including Walter McGrail, Madame Marstini, Charles Bennett, Edward Cecil, Pat Moore, Carrie Clark Ward, Arthur Hoyt, Mary Jane Irving.

All the impishness of American boyhood jumps to the screen in "Penrod." Produced by Marshall Neilan from Booth Tarkington's inimitable stories the picture makes no pretense of "high brow" study; but offers an ebulliency of American boyhood for sheer entertainment.

Just how many scrapes an enterprising American youth can get into is apparently the chief object Penrod starts out to demonstrate. One of the most humorous scenes shows how he makes his bow in amateur theatricals when Mrs. Laura Rewbush produces her own childbrain, "The Children's Pageant of the Table Round."

Unlike modern feminity, Penrod carries a strict aversion to bare legs, especially when his upper trunks are a recognizable remnant from Dad's last winter red flannel underwear. So Penrod scurries into the dressing room of the leading lady and jumps into a borrowed pair of underwear that is about four sizes too large.

Just about the time that Queen Guinevere of the Table Round is making her most beautiful speech Penrod's upholstery begins to slip and descend. The ridicule of Maurice Levy, a rival for the hand of his lady fair, complicates matters and a general fight ensues, during which the curtain is rung down.

Freckles Barry in the role of Penrod is said to give the most creditable and laughable performance of the year in this production.

On Monday, December 11, 1922, at 3:00 p. m., at the Officer's Hop Room there will be a lecture of interest by Lieut. I. W. Minger, to which all members of the Post residing in Columbus and Fort Benning are invited. The ladies are included in this invitation.

NOTICE, ARMY BRIDGE CLUB!

The Christmas party of the Army Bridge Club will be held on Saturday evening, December 16th, at 8:00 o'clock at the Officer's Hop Room, opposite Post Headquarters at Fort Benning.

Remember, this is going to be a delightful affair planned especially for the husbands of club members; in fact, a "get together" affair. So let's all come and bring our husbands and house guests.

Please make reservations for this party by securing tickets from the secretary.

MRS. FRED WALKER,
Sec. and Treas.

Last week Lieut. and Mrs. Eggleston W. Peach entertained a number of officers and ladies of the Post at bridge.

The ladies' prize, an attractive pot of narcissus bulbs, was won by Mrs. J. W Elkins, and the gentlemen's prize, a set of ash trays, was won by Major Fred Walker.

Among those present were Major and Mrs. Fred Walker, Captain Gill, Chaplain and Mrs. Gray, Capt. and Mrs. Dana H. Allen, Major and Mrs. Thomas L. Smith, Mrs. Frank Green and her mother, Mrs. Eberhardt, Lieut. and Mrs. J. W. Elkins.

The annual Christmas celebration for the children of the Post will be held Saturday, December 23rd, at 2:30 p. m., at Service Club No. 1. The celebration will include a large Christmas tree, candies and presents. In order to enable the committee in charge of the fair to get presents for all the children on the Post their names should be sent to Chaplain Lennan. Funds to meet the expenses should be sent to Chaplain Gray. A separate Christmas tree is being arranged for the colored children of the Post.

The Army Bridge Club of Columbus met last Thursday afternoon at the Muscogee Club. The hostesses were Mrs. Ted H. Cawthorne, Mrs. William H. Morse and Mrs. E. G. Chapman.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Spicer, Mrs. Leileman, and Mrs. Ripplетoe.

After the game a salad course and coffee were served. About seventy ladies were present.

On last Thursday night the Kiwanis Club entertained the officers of the National Guard and Reserve Officer's classes at Biglerville Hall.

The program, which was musical, was entitled "A Night in Dixieland," and was a decided success throughout. The Southern idea was carried out in the decorations, which consisted, partly, of stalks of sugar cane, augmented by foliage from Southern trees.

Instrumental music was furnished by the 24th Infantry band, and the Community Singers (colored) of Columbus sang a number of old Southern melodies which received encore after encore.

In addition to the regular dinner, "possum and taters" were added to the menu.

The evening was a decided success—so decided, in fact, that Dr. Rosenthal had to adjourn the party after midnight.

On last Wednesday morning the Chapel Guild of Fort Benning held a successful and interesting meeting. At this meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Peyton, wife of Colonel E. G. Peyton.

Vice-President—Mrs. Kent, wife of Colonel W. A. Kent.

Sec'y-Treas.—Mrs. Frank Green.

The folowing executive committee was appointed: Mrs. Woodson Hocker, chairman; Mrs. B. P. Cooper, Mrs. L. B. Rock. Suggestions for future work were made by Mrs. Goodale and Chaplains Wood and Gray. The report of the secretary-treasurer for the past year was made by Mrs. Green.

At the meeting a Christmas tree committee was appointed. The next meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m., at the Protestant Chapel, on Monday, December 18th.

The meetings of the Dramatic Club seem to become more interesting and the members more enthusiastic than was expected when the club was organized. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Lambert contributed two very beautiful interpretations. Mrs. Peyton also contributed a dramatic composition by M. P. Willis. Mrs. Price gave "The Revenge," by Tennyson. The program was very successful.

Mrs. Stewart, who was in charge of the program of a two-act sketch, was ill with a cold so had arranged the above program instead. All visitors are welcome to attend the meetings. The next program will be Dec. 19th, at the Hop room.

Non-Commissioned Officers May Not Loose Grade

SENATE TAKES UP BILL TO STOP DEMOTION.

One of the Service papers advises: "As anticipated, consideration of the bill (S. 4037 and H. R. 12819) to prevent the reduction of non-commissioned officers of the Army, has been taken up first by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs. It was considered informally at a meeting on Nov. 24, but no action was taken, owing to the lack of a quorum. At the next meeting, which will be held in a few days, a representative of the War Department will explain some of the details of the measure.

"Chairman Wadsworth states frankly that he is in favor of reporting out the bill at the earliest possible date. He has given considerable study to it and it develops that he favored an increase in the dpercentage of non-commissioned officers, when the reduction of the Army was agreed to in the joint Senate and House Conference Committee. There would be no necessity for passing the bill now if Senator Wadsworth's advice had been taken in the committee. The proposed reduction is due to the opposition of the House conferees to an oincrease in the percentage.

" 'The present grade percentage of enlisted men as prescribed by the National Defense Act,' said Chairman Wadsworth, 'not only will do a great injustice to a number of worthy non-commissioned officers with splendid war service, but it does not comply with the requirements of the Regular Army. With the reduction in the strength of the Regular Army to 125,000, there has been no change in its functions, and as many non-commissioned off cers are needed in the training program as before the reduction, I am hoping that action can be secured before the Secretary puts the reduction into effect.'

"Under the proposed bill, hereafter the grade percentages of the total authorized number of enlisted men shall not exceed 0.79 per centum for first grade, 2.1 per centum for second, 3.4 per centum for third, 9.2 per centum for fourth, 9.5 per centum for fifth, and 25 per centum for sixth grade.

"When the bill comes up before either committee, an array of witnesses will be sent up from the War Department. The need of non-commissioned officers will be presented from every point of view. Maj. Gen. George C. Rickards, Chief of the Militia Bureau, will endeavor to impress upon the committee the importance of more non-commissioned officers for the National Guard. General Rickards is very much interested and his attitude on the bill, it is believed, will have an important effect upon Congress.

"Col. W. H. Waldron, Inf., who prepared the tables of organization, will explain on what theory the percentages inl grades were fixed and why with a reduction in the enlisted strength of the Regular Army, there should be an increase in the proportion of non-commissioned officers.

"Col. F. M. Rumbold and Lieut. Col. H. C. Dickinson, on duty with the General Staff as Reserve officers, will endeavor to impress upon the committee the importance of non-commissioned officers in the training activities of the Regular Army. Lieut. Col. S. R. Gleaves will explain the value of non-commissioned officers to the R. O. T. C. Lieut. Col. P. T. Hayne, Fin. Dept., will give testimony upon the effect of the bill on the cost of maintaining the Army."

Medical Department Notes

1st Lieut. Maude Bowman, Army Nurse Corps, has returned from a thirty days leave of absence, which was enjoyably spent visiting in the State of Pennsylvania.

Captain A. A. Roby, M. A. C., is confined to the hospital. We hope for the early recovery of our Detachment Commander as he is greatly missed.

Sergeants J. I. Cook and V. E. Thompson have returned from a fifteen (15) day furlough, which was spent at their respective homes.

The enlisted personnel of the Medical Detachment, this station, is below strength. Any man who might be interested in this branch of the service should see the Detachment Commander. The opportunity in this particular branch of the service is exceptionally good.

Misses Pauline Curry, Kathryn and Marjorie Zetler, Noma and Anna Ogletree, Sergeants Gilbert and Perffer, 83rd Field Artillery, were the guests of Sergeant Mount on Thanksgiving Day. The fair visitors from the city greatly enhanced the Mess Hall for our dinner. We hope more of the girls will come for Christmas.

Second Lieutenants Isabell Mulick an Dorothy Cleveland, Army Nurse Corps, are sick in the hospital.

Captain P. P. Green, M. C., and family have returned after a sixty (60) day leave of absence spent in Thomasville, N. C., and Richmond, Va.

The Non-Commissioned Officers Club held their regular weekly meeting Monday night, December 4, 1922. Nearly all the members were present an a good deal of business was transacted. The arrangements are practically complete for the monthly dance to be held December 12, 1922. All married Non-Commissioned Officers of the Post and their families are cordially invited to attend. Transportation will be furnished.

The Medical Department Bridge Club met at the home of Captain and Mrs. Frank T. Chamberlin on Tuesday evening, December 5th. After the games a delicious salad course with coffee was served. Prizes were won by Mrs. Haywood Hansell, Colonel Orville Brown and Captain Chamberlin.

Finance Detachment Notes

Private Alvah Cliett, of this Detachment, was honorably discharged the service per expiration term of service on December 4th, and left yesterday for his home in Los Angeles, California. Alvah will be missed by all members of this detachment and the good will of all follows him wherever he may go.

Zabe Ayers (the cashier) is spending a twenty days furlough among friends and relatives in and around Cornelia, Georgia.

It was rumored in the barracks last Sunday that Sergeant Bennett and Corporal Kilpatrick were seen at the "Knock 'em down and drag 'em out" ball last Saturday night.

The Finance Department

The Finance Detachment extends to Private Tillerson its deepest sympathy in the recent death of his grandmother.

Corporal Short (Chairman of the dance committee) was one of the shining lights at the dance held at the Service Club in Columbus last Tuesday evening. We always knew Short belonged in society.

If any organization is desirous of a Morning Report Clerk just call on Sergeant Dobbie—he is the best we have ever seen (and we have seen them all)—in fact he admits he is good. Sometimes he renders the report once a week and sometimes not at all. But he gets there just the same.

Any organization or individual in need of an expert file clerk can obtain same by applying to this office. We have one guaranteed 14 carrots ???? file clerk. He can file anything so well that anyone who is able to find anything that has been filed by this super-efficient file clerk will be set of mustache cups that can be purchased by this detachment. In addition to the filing abilities this individual is imbued with the idea that he is a heartbreaker. He in every mail receives numerous pink scented letters from Baker St., Atlanta, Ga. We are too modest to name this individual, but his initials are Bennett. I'm guilty, Major, I'm guilty.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 11.)

The same shell also wounded Sergeant John C. Burgin in the leg. Sergeant Burgin continued to lead the platoon until about a hundred yards further on he was hit by a machine gun bullet. He continued with the platoon to the objective, from where he was carried back by Wm. G. Smith and Robert McBurnie, assisted by two German prisoners. On crossing the hill back of the position, a shell fell beside the party, killing Smith and the two Germans and wounding McBurnie severely. A fragment of the shell struck Sergeant Burgin, giving him his third wound that morning. He died from wounds on December 2nd.

The position here skirted the village of Romagne and the Bois de Romagne, situated just north of the village. This was full of machine-gun nests, which kept up a continuous flanking fire along the front. Sergeant Emmons took part of the platoon into the woods and in a few hours had penetrated the woods and cleaned up five machine gun nests which netted twenty prisoners. It was in this phase of the action that Sergeant Dittbrenner was severely wounded and fell in a very exposed position, from which he was brought back by Willis F. Reed. The party which captured the most prisoners was Sergeant Campbell, Corporal Shearer, Sergeant Rice, and Private Buchert, who started back with fifteen but shot two who made a break for their own lines. Corporal David Oliphant with Privates Dixon Lunsford, Shelby Anderson, John Quirk, Alvin Eaton, George Croft and Walter Kosurny took nine prisoners out of the station in the village of Romagne. It was for their services at this place that Sergeant Campbell and Corporal Oliphant were cited and afterwards decorated with the Croix de Guerre and the D. S. C. Croft and Quirk were wounded here and sent to the hospital and afterwards home.

The company maintained its position here until the following day, when with Company "B" it was relieved and during the next week duties were resumed as engineers, wiring in strong points, and repairing advance line of resistance for the infantry. The conditions under which the company worked at this time were very trying. Night after night wire was carried through woods and mud and strung under shell fire. It was during the construction of this line of resistance that Corporal Dixon was killed while arranging some Ribard wire for stringing ahead of the outposts. A shell fire fell fairly in his lap and wounded him so severely that he died before reaching the dressing station. Private St. John and Private Kinne were gassed by the same shell. After completing this work the company was relieved with the division.

COMPANY "B."

On October 13th, when Company "B" marched through Mountfaucon toward Nantillois, a shell struck in the midst of the fourth platoon and resulted in twenty-six casualies. Seven men were killed outright, and five later died of wounds. Arriving at Nantillois, which was being heavily shelled, the company bivouacked on the reverse bank of a railroad siding at the northern edge of town. On October 14th, the company moved up into the line to act as infantry, its mission being, with Company "A" to cover the left flank of the Third Battalion of the 6th Infantry in its advance between Romagne and Cunel. The company remained in position on the left flank of the division, under heavy shelling and machine gun fire, on the ridge above the Cunel-Romagne road, for twenty-eight hours, when it was relieved at 1:15 p. m., on October 15th, 1918, and returned to camp at Nantillois, to act as part of the division reserve.

On the night of October 17th, the company assisted in laying out and wiring in a resistance position on the hill south of the Romagne-Cunel road. On the nights of October 18th and 19th part of Company "B" assisted in wiring in the outpost positions north of the Cunel-Romagne road, along the south edge of the Bois-de-Rappes, about day-break, October 20th, 1st Lieut. Morgan B. McDermott, commanding the company, fell, mortally wounded by a machine gun bullet, and died in hospital two days later. For the energy and fearless courage displayed by Lieut. McDermott, he was awarded the D. S. C.

Captain R. W. Wenzell, Battalion Adjutant, succeeded Lieut. McDermott to the command of Company "B."

Between the 17th and 21st of October, small detachments from the company were engaged in repairing roads between Nantillois and Septsarges, Septsarges and Mountfaucon, and Natillois and Ciergs, all continuously under fire.

"SHATTERED IDOLS" IS A SPECTACULAR PRODUCTION

Besides being one of the most spectacular photoplay productions of the entire year, "Shattered Idols," formerly titled "A Bride of the Gods," is one of the most lavishly produced all-star pictures presented on the American screen, and will be the bill for the Post theatres Monday.

The locale of this production is East India and every advantage has been taken by the Producer Frothingham and Directord Eward Sloman to utilize the barbaric splendor of the atmosphere pervading that land of mdystery.

The gorgeous temple sets have never before been equalled on the screen and the tribal costumes and uniforms of potentates and warriors have been copied in faithful detail.

The plot is given a wonderful interpretation by an all-star cast such as has never before been assembled. It contains such names as Marguerite De La Motte, William V. Mong, Jas. Morrison, Ethel Grey Terry, Louise Lovely, Frankie Lee, Mary Wynn and a half dozen other players who rank high as cinema favorites.

29th Infantry News Notes

2nd BATTALION HQ. CO.

Tough luck to have our plans disturbed by being detailed on fire guard duty so soon after pay day, but that won't prevent the Company from having some hot times before the end of the week.

If, at the present time, you were to ask Private Leonardi his opinion of the "Good Samaritan," he would be ready to agree with you that that character is all bunk. He says it was a baseball bat, and it must have been to have caused six stitches worth of damage. Yeah, he'll argue about that "love your neighbor" stuff but when he takes off his hat, there ain't no argument.

Wonder what kind of special duty jobs are offered at the well known "Hotel De Teachout" this month. Privates Franks, Dahlgren and Sterling have been sent over there for a short stay, and I guess it's up to them to find out. They might fill the positiond of bell boy, porter, and clerk, respectively.

Most everybody came across this pay day with deposits and even some excuses, but the total deposits reached the sum of $280.00. Never was so much deposited in all the history of the Company, in fact, previous months seldom yielded Quartermaster Deposits over $50.00 total. This splendid showing ought to make anyone sit up and take notice, but at the same time we've got to keep up with the times. Deposits are on the rise thruout the 29th Infantry and 2nd Bn. Hq. Co. is going to keep abreast of the Regimental

"DON'T WRITE LETTERS" BE SHOWN AT BENNING THEATRES NEXT THURSDAY

One of the most wholesome and entertaining pictures of the current season is "Don't Write Letters."

Mr. Goreth Hughes plays the part of Bobby Jenks, a clerk at the gents' socks counter of the 14th Street Emporium. Bobby quits his job to enlist when the war comes, and is soon sent to France. Much to his chagrin he is assigned the job of cook when his division arrives there.

In the pocket of the very large blouse that a sergeant tosses to him, Bobby finds a letter which is written by Anna May Jackson, from Brooklyn. Anna hopes that the blouse will keep her "big unknown hero" warm "in the trenches." Of course she doesn't suspect that Bobby never sees actual fighting, yet in the many letters that he writes her he tells of narrow escapes he has had, and particularly, how terrible the bosches are. Bobby's imagination supplies whatever he has lacked in actual experience.

When Bobby returns home he realizes the enormity of his falsehoods, and decides to visit Anna as a friend of Bobby Jenks who has, according to the story he invents, been killed in the war. How Bobby's love for Anna grows, and how the authorship of the letters is finally revealed, forms the basis of one of the most wholesome and charming comedies of ordinary folks that has been shown this season.

Absence of occupation is not rest. A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.

Beware the fury of a patient man.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

In rambling around through the National Guard and Reserve Officer's area, one is reminded of one of those delightful places that sprung up in France with the signing of the armistice. We mean the casual camp.

A careful observer will be able to find about any shoulder insignia that he may be looking for on the blouses of some member of this class. They are all there, or nearly all, at any rate. There is the big 1, for the First, the YD, the 27th, the Keystone of the 28th, the Hour Glass, Arrow, the Buckeye, 44th, Lightning, Pine Tree, Liberty Statue, and a great many others that the writer can not think of at this time, and for which he will probably be called to account. In fact there are very few divisions that took part in the recent party that are not represented. We even have an old member of G. H. Q., to round out the gang and keep us at work. There are a great many arguments as to whom should get the credit for winning the war, with honors even at this writing and very few casulties.

I will touch on that subject a little later.

* * *

At the present time, the members of the rifle class are enjoying sundry chuckles at the unfortunates that were observed toting machine guns around over the landscape, but the machine gunners are lying low and patiently waiting for the tide of hard labor to turn so they can get in their laughs. They may get their chance at any moment, too.

Captain Miller, of Maryland, remembers the day when he set in the gallery of his favorite blood and thunder theatre and watched Dead Eye Dick cut the rope that was hanging his poor old father with a single shot from his trusty six-shooter. The captain was armed with a 45 automatic instead of a six-shooter, but, nothing daunted, he proceeded to sever the rope with which his silhouette target was operated. The unfortunate officer that was manipulating the target was lying back on the rope and much to his surprise and the amusement of the rest of the class, found himself taking a backward header. Some shot.

Lt. Singletary has been urging the writer for a week to say nothing about him in these columns, and it has been our experience that anyone who keeps reminding a writer to leave him out really is anxious to get in, so here is his honorable mention. You know he is the one that would like a ten minute break at least ten times a day.

The Reds and the Blues are at war.

* * *

Lt. Gilchrist has been trying all this week to think of something to put over on Lt. Dolan in this column, but at the time of going to press had found nothing suitable.

Hevings, she's off the track again.

* * *

Captain Easley claims that it makes no difference if the box the maker sits on is moved. The rifle rack is the only one that has to remain stationary. Capt. Warden, who was making triangles, does entirely agree with him, however.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Why didn't the I. S. D. put out a football team? That is the question a lot of the boys are asking. No doubt they would have made the 29th Infantry and Tanks hustle as did the baseball team, which by the way, was practically unbeatable the past three years. Here is hoping Sgt. Valentine's charges come thru with flying colors in their basketball schedule and add another cup to the old outfit's long string of emblems.

It is rumored that one of our esteemed Master Sergeants contemplates buying an Olive Drab Studebaker provided he can learn to operate same, and it seems as if he is taking instructions daily.

W. D., Chapter 9, Verse 7, "There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth December 31, 1922, if Congress doesn't pass that '25 Year Retirement Bill.'"

Specification: In that Pvt. John A. Crow
Without a pass to town did go,
On this twentieth day of May,
Fourteen days he did stay.

When he came back in the mill he was put
With a great big chain around his foot,
And you can see him 'most any day
With a pick and shovel digging clay.

He was tried by a Special Court
Composed of Officers of the Fort.
"Not Guilty," was the young man's plea,
Thinking he would get his liberty.

Three months and two-thirds pay
Is what he heard one of them say.
And still you can see him 'most any day,
With a pick and shovel digging clay.

Private Robert Baker was awarded three extra nights of duty at the School Library for being fashionably late for work Saturday morning (Armistice Day). Probably he thought he was a dead hero. But it was a treat to Sergeant Crosby and Private Halpan as they were able to catch up on some lost sleep. More power to you, Baker.

The other night I went down to this wonderful town of Columbus to see one of its much talked of "good looking girls." At the door I am commanded to "Fall in," and after I had come into the house, she seats herself in the best chair and tells me there is nothing for me to do but to fill in the blank file. I seat myself in the remaining chair and then begin to talk to her. After I had said about three words she very strongly reminds me that I am "At Attention" and that I should preserve "Silence." If I begin to get any way near this female soldier she gets "Hard-boiled" and says, "Keep your interval."

Along about ten o'clock her old man "bawls out" that it is ten o'clock. I take this as a gentle reminder that it is time for me to "dismiss" myself. At the door I linger a while longer to try to soften her up a little but she reminds me that it is time I was dismissed.

At the door she tells me to "report" at the usual time again next Thursday night. At which I do an about face and dismiss myself.

Soldier (On Broad St., Columbus): Hello there, Pritikin, how are the beans in your outfit these days?

Pritikin (scratching his head): Igvelt, Igvelt, your face look fammeler to me but I don't know where to poot it.

The school boys of the E. & V. T. school were present with the K. P. chaser Sunday. Kahler says they were very gay until about three o'clock, when they began to weaken. Merrill, the famous file clerk of the Personnel office, was very sick the next day. He must have eaten too much.

Sergeant Floyd Higginbotham was seen last Saturday at the Veal Brothers Shows in Columbus inspecting the monkeys. It is wondered if the Sergeant figures on enlisting or purchasing them. Probably the latter, as the show is understood to be bankrupt and "Jack" may be able to use them at the "Dream." How about it, "Higgie?"

In the year of Nineteen Twenty-two,
Just before the month that blizzards brew,
A rumor was started and pushed right along,
'Till it was as common as a popular song.

They can only reduce me one more grade,
And I was made in seventeen, I'm not afraid.
And if they leave me as they will, no doubt,
That will give me a good excuse to buy out.

Like a soldier hates to do Sunday K. P.,
Like a passless rookie hates to see an M. P.,
Like a top kick hates to make out a morning report,
Like a jail bird hates to appear in court,

Like the preacher hates the demon rum,
That's how the Non-Coms hate to see December come.
Stripes will be selling very cheap,
You will be able to buy them by the heap.

The Master Sergeants will drop to a Staff,
Then you will see the Sergeants laugh;
And the Staffs will go down to Grade Three,
And the Corporals will be doing K. P.

Like a moonshiner hates a Revenuer,
Like a good looking girl hates a rejected wooer,
Like a Company Commanded hates to see a "Crum,"
That's how the Non-Coms hate to see December come.

SANITARY NOTES.

Pneumonia, like consumption, is a house disease; also it is a dirty air disease.

Here are some seasonable suggestions which if followed will help you to escape pneumonia:

1. Be regular in your habits of living as to diet and proper rest.
2. Avoid undue and prolonged exposure to wet and cold.
3. Get as much exercise in the open air as you can.
4. Dress so that you will feel comfortable in the house and equally as comfortable when out of doors in a lower temperature.
5. Keep your living rooms at a temperature not exceeding 70 degrees. For people in normal health and properly clad 68 degrees is better.
6. Keep your feet dry and warm.
7. Do not cough or sneeze in anyone's face or allow others to cough or sneeze in your immediate presence.

By observing these suggestions you can greatly lessen your chances of "catching" pneumonia and be more likely to get through the winter without needing the service of the undertaker.

SERVICE COMPANY.

SERVICE FOR THE REGIMENT.

Heavy says he began life like the rest of us, as a baby; but he had the hardest time of his life Thanksgiving day trying to get a square meal around a round table.

Well, Heavy, we had the same experience, having had to wait for the third sitting.

Everybody had a day off Thursday except poor Private Walker. He worked a half day, nobody knows why. Ask the Special Inspector.

First Sergeant Miller, "Spud," motored to Tuskegee, Ala., not long ago for the purpose of getting his son, Little Spud, started on the right road to his inclination. Little Spud had much inclination for mechanics and plumbing. Go on, boy, all it takes is a will, the way is open.

Our new squad leader, Private Vontress, wants all members of his squad to fall out and look down their line in order to see what a straight line looks like. Well, Vontress, we all would like to take a look at that same line.

Private John Stewart wants to know if there are any more people in Georgia other than those he saw on our campus Thursday. We should not answer this but for fear this little fellow will think that he has seen the whole of its population, we must say, there are many more, and if he waits until summer he'll know himself.

Private Price, the auto rescuer, had a jolly walk of 15 miles out in the country to get a car that had run out of gas, but his feet are not worn out yet. He claims that he can stand about 500 yards more yet.

With our aforementioned new Company Commander came the tailor; needless to say what follows, but the Supply Sergeant is very busy these days.

COMPANY "C."

Corporal Mays, as floor manager, introduced a brand new waltz Schottische to the dancing class Monday night. It was excellent, by the applause the class gave him, but along with the new dance suppose we tell him it's real new music. The class suggested after the ball was over on some other old aged piece of music that George Washington's grandfather heard when he was dancing the same waltz in his childhood days.

Sergeant Powell, at the Monday evening class, got tired of people calling him a perpetual wall flower, so on a well crowded floor he trembled out to dance and enroute step formation, slipping and sliding, he slid down bang! he went down on the dance floor, and the girl said, "Oh! I'll never learn that." So the next morning we heard him bragging, "Did you boys see me teaching that girl how to do the two-step last night?

Cook Gregory made a grandstand play by catching a little girl from the city, only to lose her after all. With Jackson throwing hard fast out curves at him the cook walked to 1st base, with Vergie Washington at 2nd, the cook made an easy steal. He takes a chance and runs to 3rd, where Corporal Mays struggled hard to put him out but the ball was over Mays' head, and the cook dashed for home, but the Mexican Corporal by playing way deep in the field finally got the ball and throws him out at home, sweet home, for he is on the bench at night now.

Why are we so lonesome? Supply Sergeant, when not busy checking and accounting for matches, buttons, tooth-picks, and etc., can be found at the Service Club eating stick candy every night, together with Corporal Dewitt, who allows mess call only to disturb his important business in the orderly room, while Pvt. Pudding is trying to get a furlough to Block 23, for the Xmas holidays.

COMPANY "D."

Sgt. Thomas, known as "Pick Tom," is a wonderful fisherman. A few weeks ago he went fishing; all he did was sit on the banks, and say, "I wish I could catch a fish."

Cotten, known as "Curley," says he is going to quit tailoring. That is alright, old boy, you are not the only rag burner in the Company.

Cpl. Murrell, known as "Peep Sight Pap," is the greatest huntsman in Fort Benning. He has been hunting for two weeks, and all he could kill was a sack of time.

Brookshire still holds the record of being the smallest head man that has ever been in Company "D," he wears a No. 3 hat, and his nickname is "Fat Head."

Booker, our wood butcher, has quit trying to count his days on his fingers, and is now counting months. Hold your piece, old boy, we will fight your battle.

"Chubby" is still writing love letters, and hoping that some day he can go to town and meet his little girl from HEY HEY.

Andrews, the blue grass man, says every time he gets a letter someone is asking him does he dance. He says he never tells them that he can or cannot dance, and that all he says is, I am wild about dancing.

COMPANY "I."

Private Laster Thomas (Bay Rum) has taken his mowing machine and hatchets and transferred to M Company. Look, boys, he is a barber that can cut down a tree.

Sergeant Lloyd (Head and Belly) has taken upon himself three fresh years of corral and mess halls.

Company I has gone in mourning over the loss of 1st Lieut. C. C. Holliday. The best wishes of the officers and enlisted men of this company go with him.

Company I has the only basketball team in the Regiment, so please come out, K Company, and let us have a little practice.

The hospital has been notified to look out for Sergeant Moore and Corporal Patterson taking lessons at night on motorcycles.

Look out, Sgt. Handy, you have got Corpl. Reeves started back to town again. He was heard talking about 5th Ave., Columbus, Ga.

Sergeant Lloyd was entitled to a three months furlough on his discharge, he got a pass for two hours to Cusseta, Ga. Something's going on wrong.

Private Royal, Medical Detachment, says it is better to be on the outside looking in than on the inside looking out. Nuff Sed.

COMPANY "K."

Sgt. William McCauley (better known as the lady killer) has just returned from a 30 day furlough, with plenty of beauty grease, after visiting Atlanta, Ga.

Sgt. Joe Lay (the expert mess seregant and stew mixer) has certainly been saving since Thanksgiving. All members are wondering what's coming next since all has a fish hook to fish the meat out of the stew.

We have an eye on you two (WBW) and HW. We have seen too many funny moves since the other day. Wake up (WBW & WH) for the restriction list is empty and we want some one on it to keep us company (WRG).

COMPANY "L."

Private William Troup is one of the best stenographers in the regiment. He wrote a letter in duplicate to a certain young lady on a business form. He mailed the duplicate and retained the original.

1st Sgt. Jennings has not been seen in Block 23 since the arival of the madam.

Company I has been known to be the best unit in the regiment in every respect, but I have noticed several men of Company I visiting our mess hall during meal hours.

Someone told a certain Recruit Corporal of Co. I that a young lady of his acquaintance was to be married in the near future, and the Corporal has been continually grieving since that day. Cheer up, Corporal, there are a lot of girls who would think it an honor to even meet you.

23rd Artillery News

Truly, the late lamented William Shakespeare had the right dope when he said that "Misfortunes come not single spies, but in Battalions," and Coach Peckinpaugh of the Artillery team, no doubt, had sadly pondered the truth of this statement, as he has gazed day by day upon the increasing bunch of cripples and charley horses among his squad.

The Artillery team, while awkward an inexperienced, has shown from the beginning symptoms of unexpected strength, and has promised, under the skillful coaching of Lieutenant Peckinpaugh, to develop into a team that would give the best of them a very heated argument. There has been a very noticeable improvement in the play of the team, both collectively and individually, since we were so soundly trounced by the Second Battalion and the Tanks, and the unexpected triangular tie for the championship now existing, would seem to offer a golden opportunity to the 83rd to grab off a few laurels by making a four-cornered affair of it, and possibly horn in among the elect, by going into the finals. However, just as the team seems to have found itself, Old Man Jinx comes along with a wallop in each mit, and knocks us for a row of Chinese Joss Houses. Verily, "Man was made to mourn," and it looks like "thumbs down" to our championship aspirations for this season.

Among the first string men now on the sick list are Zuskoritz, star guard, who has a severely wrenched leg; Marsh, one of the best plunging backs on the Post, whose glass ankle may keep him out of the game next Wednesday; and Samlavich, the biggest little bundle of pep and fighting spirit in camp, whose insistence on scrimmaging with a badly wrenched arm, has resulted in still further injuries. Berry, one of last season's star backs, who has not played this year, has returned from sick leave, but as he was recently operated on for appendicitis, the chances are that he will not care to expose himself to almost certain injury. To cap it all, Cooper, whose generalship, line plunging, and broken field running, seemed for a brief time to be the one factor needed to make championship material of the "wagon soldiers," suffered a severe concussion of the brain in the last game with the Freebooters, and has been warned by the surgeon to stay out of football. Either one of these injuries, coming as they have, to stars, would have been sufficient to cast a gloom over the entire team, and coming collectively, they have left the team only with the determination to fight to the bitter end, and while the shades of twilight next Wednesday may find the heads of the Artillerymen bloody, they will still be unbowed, and the Doughboys will have realized that they had to fight for everything they gained, and we confidently believe that the famous "Infantry Spirit" as compared to the un-press-agented Artillery Spirit, will compare as a tallow candle to the glare of the Sandy Hook Light.

Peoples Vs. Materialism

(By RICHARD F. LUSSIER.)

The Turk is back in Europe and the Allied Entente somewhat shopworn survives—for the time.

The Near East crisis which culminated with the armistice at Mudania has brought to the attention of the world the rift that has developed in the relations of France and England. The strain imposed upon the Entente Cordiale, which, extending over a period of important political and economic events in Europe, has suffered serious impairment at least. Widely divergent and conflicting courses have been followed by the British and French and now Kemaliam through that insidious political infiltration of which the Sublime Porte diplomacy has always been such a brilliant exponent prevails to widen the breach.

British statesmanship has previously been of the opinion that the only argument which appeals to the Ottoman mind is force, and that the gulf between the mental processes of the Occidental and Oriental can only be abridged by steel. Not so British and French thought when joined as the Entente—or at least a lot of padding has been placed over the mailed fist. If Entente statesmanship had accurately guaged the realities of the Near East situation and had borne in mind the numerous similar instances that the history of the Osmanli Dynasty affords, the Kemalist movement could have been stifled at birth in 1919. But wavering British policy due presumably to the reactions caused by the political changes in Greece gave Mustapha Kemal Pasha his opportunity.

The slaughter of a few hundred French soldiers in Cilicia added to the strength of Kemal. The Turk, being habitually prone to influence by the latest phase of the game, at once discounted the fighting strength of the French and France ceases to be an enemy to respect. The Kemal leaders shunted the Italians aside as negligible factors.

So Levantine thought visualized the Entente and thus the spearhead of his diplomacy was launched, in Stamboul, in the western capitals, in Egypt, at the weakest points in the Allie armour. Insidiously exploiting the avowed French ambition to rival the Mohammedian Empire of England and fascinating the cupidity of the French with a vista of rich concessions the agents of Kemal paved the road for the agreement negotiated by M. Franklin-Bouillon. The French press in euthusiastically approving the accord—the first rift in the Entente lute—conveniently overlook the massacres of Marche, Ourfa, Aintab, and Hadjin. But it was not the "Accord Bouillon," which was applauded so much as the attached conditions which provided, inter alia, for the concession for the mines of harchite or iron, chrome, and silver for a period of 99 years and further that the Kemal government was ready to consider most favorably any other requests which might be put forward by French syndicates relative to the concession of mines, railways, ports and rivers on condition that these requests were in conformity with the reciprocal interests of Turkey and France.

As France under the Treaty of Versailles was intrusted with the interests of minorities in Asiatic Turkey, British policy concerned itself with Constantinople and the Straights—recognizing for its own purposes only the government of the Sultan—a mere gesture as the entourage of the Sultan was overwhelmingly Kemal. Indubitably the down fall of Venizelos effected the equilibrium of British Near-East policy. The volteface of Greece spelled the death of the Treatry of Sevres. The British allowed the treaty to succumb through indifference, whereas, the French for its material interests quickly jettisened the treaty.

The Treaty of Sevres comprehended the national aspirations of the Armenians—and while the Lithuanians, Albanians, Letts, Esthenians, Finns, Syrians, Czechs and Arabs have viewed the dawn of political freedom — the Armenians remain serfs to the Turk. But the Turk is ridding the world of the Armenian question in characteristic fashion. There were 120,000 Armenians who inhabited Celicia in 1919, and at the beginning of 1922, there were only 3,800 left. This is reasonably fair extermination—even for a Turk.

The Armenian tragedy proves that the plaintive soul of the Allies in 1916 and 1917 tormented with visions of Teutonic defeat was not purged of its materialistic instincts. With the Prussian terror destroyed the Entente diverging among themselves for economic and political advantages is slowly reconstituting Europe, and especially the Balkans and the Near-East to the pre-war diplomatic chessboard. The Turk has already achieved a prestige greater than his pre-war status. Kamel has usurped the Kaiser. He rattles the sword, voices a few parables of Islamic hordes over-running Europe, passes out a few concessions and the Entente treats with him on equal terms. Nikelai Lenine and Leon Trotzky, very astute gentlemen will undoubtedly profit greatly by the example taught them by Kemal. The recognition of Soviet Russia is not far distant.

To sum up the French to further political and economic ambitions threw Christian minorities to the Lions with the callous abandon of ancient Rome. Then the material interests of England in Mesopotamia and Palestine and consideration of its Moslem subjects demanded an understanding with Kemal which brought on the surrender at Mudania a few days ago.

Wars do not purge the souls of nations. Wars are fought either to protect economic advantages or to gain new ones. Materialism surmounts idealism. A little oil in Mesopotamia for England, some iron and silver in Analtolia for France—and the Turks re-enter Europe triumphantly trecking knee-high in the blood of slanghtered Armenians.

The war clouds have not been dissipated in the Near-East. They are just mobilizing for the storm.

Many Improvements In 24th Infantry Area

MUCH ACTIVITY EVIDENCED SINCE THE REGIMENT HAS BEEN RE-ORGANIZED.

The area of the 24th Infantry is the scene of great activity these days. The influx of new men has made the accommodations inadequate and as a result much has been undertaken in the building line. The Regimental Supply Officer, Captain James Sproule has been on the hop for weeks, and his efforts are beginning to show results.

A new supply office, store room and officers' barber shop has been erected. A school house for the children of the Regiment is fast nearing completion. This building is to be used for the E. and V. Illiterate School and also as a Court Martial Room. This is a very fine building, 30 ft. x 70 ft., with two rooms 30 ft. by 30 ft., and a hall thru the center of the building. Practically all the material for this building has been salvaged by the Supply Officer and the Chaplain.

The Recreation Hall has been found to be too small for the needs of the men and the foundations are in place for a pool hall and library that will be 32 ft. x 72 ft. An addition is to be added to the Officers' Mess for a Club Room for the officers of the Regiment and the construction of a Regimental Swimming Pool is going forwards as men are available from time to time.

In addition to all this no less than twelve houses have been erected in the N. C. O.'s Area and others are to follow in due time. Most of this work has been done in odd times and when men were available, for the men of the 24th have been performing practically all the detail work of the camp and their own needs have been subordinated to the needs of the Fort.

Senate Passes Bill to Stop Demotion of Non-Coms

WILL PROBABLY BE PASSED BY HOUSE WITHIN THE WEEK.

That the probability of the prevention of the expected demotions for non-commissioned officers is imminent appears to be a foregone conclusion. The passage of the Wadsworth-Kahn bill to prevent the reduction of non-commissioned officers will probably take place about December 15th, according to one of the Service papers, which goes on to say:

"Chairman Wadsworth secured its passage by the senate on December 6. All that was required was an explanation from Senator Wadsworth as to the plight of the older non-coms as the result of the reduction of the strength of the Army and the effect of the bill.

"The bill was rushed over to the House on December 7 and referred to the House Committee on Military Affairs. The situation in the House commitie is as favorable as it was in the Senate. Chairman Kahn sent out a call to some of the absent members of the committee with a view to securing a quorum at an early date.

"In the meantime the matter has been taken up by the leaders of the House with a view to securing a special rule if it becomes necessary. Chairman Kahn will name a special sub-committee to take charge of the bill and speed up its passage."

Diphtheria Immunization Offered

SPECIALLY FOR CHILDREN

The Post Surgeon announced that the Station Hospital is prepared to administer anti-diptheria toxin at any time between the hours of 9:00 and 11:00 A. M., any day during the week to those members of the command who desire the treatment.

It is understood that the treatment is given hypodermically and consists of three "shots" at weekly intervals. The medical profession believes that this immunization gives protection for life. It is especially desired that children between two and six years of age receive the treatment as it is between these ages that the youngsters are more susceptible to the disease. It is stated that most adults are naturally protected and rarely need the treatment but the surgeon announces that those who wish to be tested to find out whether or not they require immunization may have the examination made between the hours stated above.

CHRISTMAS DANCE.

There will be a Christmas Dance at the Ralston Hotel on Christmas night under the management of Miss Angela Brescia. All officers of Fort Benning are cordially invited to attend.

Only 13.5c Per Dollar Of Taxes For Defense

PACIFISTS SPREAD PROPAGANDA SHOWING 80 CENTS PER DOLLAR.

Last winter the county was flooded with pacifist propaganda showing conclusively, to the unitiated, that eighty cents of every dollar received from the various forms of taxes by the government was used for the support of the military establishments.

When the last budget was submitted to Congress by President Harding his message very clearly showed that 13.5 cents per dollar of the total revenue was used for the support of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and all other branches of the military establishments.

When the pacifist propaganda first began to be spread the War and Navy Departments presented the true figurse showing just what pro rata amount of the national revenue was applied for military purposes. Coming as this data did from military sources the facts were not generally accepted. The pacifists further labeled the facts as presented as being propaganda, issued for the purpose of deluding the American public by a group of militarists.

The fact that the President's message sets forth conclusively the fact that but 13.5 cents per dollar of revenue is devoted to the maintance of the military establishments, coming as it does from this source, will conclusively offset the damage done by the pacifist propaganda.

Elemination Of Officers Completed

MOST DIFFICULT TASK ATTEMPTED IN ARMY IS FINISHED.

The Dickman Board has finished its task and adjourned. A prolonged sigh of relief has gone up from the long suffering Army Officers for now the uncertainty that has marked his existence for the last six months is over. There were last minute eliminations that came as a shock to some who had made up their mind that they were O. K. Speaking in general terms, the Board has handled a very difficult task in a most admirable manner.

There is no question but that time and again the Board was face to face with difficult questions, many hard problems were presented to them and they being men who loved the Army oftentimes were greatly disturbed by the necessary action forced upon them by the Congress of the United States.

The Army has passed thru another Wilderness journey and it is hoped that now the Army will have entrance into the Promised Land. The Military forces still need a Moses, but the way appears open and the skies favorable.

There have been a number of interesting and amusing incidents in connection with the elimination of officers as well as incidents of more sorrowful mien, but now that the worst is over the Army can turn its entire attention to its one great job, that of fitting America to meet the exigencies of the present disturbed state of World Politics.

General Wood to Remain in the Philippines

RESIGNS FROM UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

General Wood has cabled the Bureau of Insular Affairs and through him to the Trustees, University of Pennsylvania as follows:
Chief, Bureau, of Insular Affairs:

"The situation here is going to require my remaining on into next year, Reports of my returning first of January should not be credited. Do not see how I can leave before the legislature adjourns and perhaps not until afterwards. As I have stated before, the situation here must take precedence over all personal and University interests. Am placing resignation in the hands of University. Chairman, Board of Trustees University of Pennsylvania:

In view of the impossibility of definitely foreseeing the date upon which I can properly leave the Islands and because of my realization that the University should no longer be without a permanent head, I tender my resignation. This I do with with very real regret and with sincere appreciation of the honor the University has done me and of the leave granted me in order that I might comply with the expressed wishes of the administration that I remain here to carry out certain work. I have looked forward with keen interest to heading the University of Pennsylvania and to working with the youth of my country, but I am on the ground and know the situation here and it must take precedence over my personal interests.

MEDBURY SAYS---

(By John P. Medbury.)

A farmer from Girard, Alabama, reports that several of his cows ate some "corn mash" the other day and became intoxicated. As soon as the townspeople heard this they were more than anxious to buy their milk from him.

Instead of getting seventeen or eighteen cents, they were giving him three and four dollars a quart for it.

He changed the labels on the milk bottles to read "Bottled in barn."

It's pretty nice when you own a lot of cows that give egg nogs.

If they hadn't been cows, the prohibition officers would have arrested the farmer for running a blind pig.

One citizen wanted him put in jail for obtaining money under false pretenses. The dairyman was selling him milk when he would be getting something else.

But the police couldn't arrest a farmer for not diluting his milk.

Somebody must have whispered in the cow's ear that Volstead was in town, because they all went dry.

The milk had a great kick in it as long as the cows ate the corn mash. One two-year-old baby drank a nursing bottle full of it and then told his father where to head in.

The cows had a great time, too. One of them felt so good that she actually tried to jump over the moon.

The milk got to contain a lot of alcohol and the farmer was so conscientious that he wouldn't sell any of it to you unless you had a prescription.

The cows were eating so many hops that they began giving malted milk.

They got so that when they came home to be milked they staggered so much that the farmer had to widen the cow paths.

It was getting so that the farmer had to wait up nights for his own cows to come home.

People would go to the dairy and buy a glass of milk and ask the hired man to put cracked ice in it.

It got so that they were afraid to drink a glass of it without shutting the barn door.

Instead of retailers having the milk delivered to them in cans, they were ordering it by the case.

Now that the bovines had a taste of moonshine, even the cows are expected to go to the polls at next election and vote "WET."

Medical Department Notes

Sergeant Mount's funds must be getting low as he is now rolling his own (Bull Durham). But he pulled a good one on Sergeant Thompson today. He rolled a cigarette, then he asked Thompson for a light, and exchanged. Thompson never noticed the difference until he started to smoke again, and his cigarette was out and we had to tell him what the joke was.

The monthly dance of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club was held Tuesday night, December 12, 1922, in the Detachment Mess Hall. Music was furnished by the 29th Infantry Orchestra. Refreshments were served, consisting of fruit punch and cake.

The following named men have been assigned for duty (from recruit center) with the Medical Department: Privates Green, Dalton, and Williams.

Major and Mrs. Starr A. Moulton will entertain the Medical Department Bridge Club at their home, 2301 Apt. "C," on Tuesday evening, December 19th, at 7:45 p. m.

Although it isn't spring, the usual time for Poets to branch out, we recently discovered a Would-Be Shakespeare and submit the following from Corporal Moore's vocabulary:

A Barrack Room Bull-ett.

I went to a city doctor once, to have him diagnose my case,
If I wasn't sick when I went to him,
I sure was when I left his place.
He took my pulse and temperature and pounded with all his might,
After a thorough examination he said, You are not put together right.

You see you epicitis is mixed up with your diaphram,
And your longitudinal bissector is twisted around your large bis-
sutis,
You've a chronic neurosis, due to a touch of tuberculosis,
And your lazy liver is lagging at the point of least contraction.

The frontal bone of your cranium is resting on an angle
Which causes you to be wakeful and fretful every night;
To correct this mis-formation will require an operation,
Then if you see the daylight again,
you'll be all right.

I've joined the Army since then, and now when I feel ill,
They fill me full of salts, quinine, or
C. C. Pills.
No matter what they give me, it doesn't seem to cure my pain,
I am alright for a little while, and then I get sick again.

They say I've Gold-Brickitis,—which is caused by mingling with work
And by constantly riding the sick report, my arduous duties to shirk.
I've a chronic tired feeling, aggravated by spud peeling,
And the sight of a mop or broom simply sets my head a-reeling.

As an orderly I'm a failure, as a clerk a downright fizzle,
If you want to set me insane just tell me to typewrite.
Now if the powers that be would say to me, "You're a sick man;
here's an S. C. D.,
I know when I got in civil life, I'd be alright.

AMERICA'S ADVANCE IN AERONAUTICS

Travellers returning from Europe an foreign aeronautical magazines alike furnish sufficient evidence that Europe is not taking America's recent advance in aeronatics with equanimidy. As long as we only possessed the world's altitude record, there seemed to be little competition to beat this performance. But now that American pilots have sucessively established new worlds maximum speed circuit speed, maximum duration and maximum distance records — even though two of these performances were not officially observed according to F. A. I. rules—the foreign aeronautical press addresses exhortations to its national airplane constructors, aeronautical associations and government officials to leave nothing undone with a view to reconquering the lost laurels.

This state of affairs, while highly complimentary to our industry, should not make us slumber on our records. Progress in aviation never ceases, and primacy can only be achieved and retained by unceasing development work.

There is, incidentally, one competition in which we should like to see American aircraft entered next year, and that is the Schneider Maritime Aviation Cup race which will be held in England next summer. The United States has been an absentee from this international contest since before the Great War. During the past two years we have repeatedly urged American participation in this important event.

From the international viewpoint the Schneider Cup races are as important in the field of seaplane construction as the Gordon Bennett and Deutsch Cup races were, and the Pulitzer Trophy race now is, in the matter of land planes. As the annual contests for the Schneider Cup are generally held sometime in August, there is plenty of time left to our plans for challengers. Perhaps, as manufacturers for preparing the we have before suggested, the Navy could be prevailed upon to place orthem in the Schneider race, the same ders for such machines, and enter as it did in the last Pulitzer race. High speed is as important in naval pursuit work as it is in land pursuit work. If we compare the performances of this year's Schneider Cup and Curtiss Trophy races, we are struck by the fact that while the winner of the former averaged 145 m. p. h., the winner of the latter was some 25 miles sloweerwlr.oaosc er some 25 miles slower. In justice to the Navy TS1 plane it must be said that it was equipped only with a 220 hp. engine as against a 450 hp. powerplant of the Supermarine which won the Schneider Cup. This makes a fair comparison of the two performances difficult, but it does not invalidate the fact that the British navy has available for conversion into a pursuit plane a racer which is 25 miles faster than the present type of fighting plane of our navy. This fact alone should act as an incentive to those concerned with our national defense to have America worthily represented at the forthcoming Schneider Cup race.—"Aviation."

SAYINGS OF THE SAGE.

Abe Martin says that white mule to be used in a radiator should be diluted. Who wants to use it in a radiator?

Last Sunday we had more fires than fire orders. The mimeograph stopped running.

Clara Phillips, the real old-fashioned hammer wielder, saws her way out of jail. She's got nothing on our enterprising ten, except perhaps in the accuracy of her aim with the hammer.

Social Notes.

Sergeant Jones gave a bridge party at his home Friday night. During the festivities he changed the location of his home brew and spoiled one pair of tailor-made breeches. Also spoiled the party.

Company G is now sporting tailor-made uniforms. How scrumptuous! High pockets and brass hooks to hang umbrellas on during parades.

When Lieutenant Hung Chang Murphy gets his overcoat cut off eighteen inches from the ground it should look like an olive drab stock.

"'Tis more blessed to give than to receive." Then we're a pretty darn blessed outfit. We've been giving until our faces hurt.

"Auto speeders go to jail in hurry-up wagon." We have visions of some good-looking soldier chauffeurs getting a free ride if they don't look out.

In spite of everything, the pink pants craze has to run its course, like the measles or the itch.

We move that about sixty of our guardhouse birds be furnished with transportation and two days' rations to assist them in getting away. Maybe they would get so far away that we could lose them.

Ye editor says that while the bunch is giving, it wouldn't hurt othem t cough up the price of a subscription.—5th Corps News and Diamond Dust.

SERVICE COMPANY.

"SERVICE FOR THE REGIMENT."

The 24th Infantry band is now working over-time, and this is how they are doing it; part of them play each night, and they all play concerts twice a week in the afternoon; that is the record of the best band in Post, so they claim.

Several of our boys that have been used to running wild on the prairies are lying very close here. I guess they are better off. Bully for you, Sgt. T. G.

Pvt. Ventress (Company Barber) is gaining popularity in town to such an extent that he is thinking of running for alderman, as he claims he can control two precincts in the City. Keep your head on and don't let them make you a general in camp.

COMPANY "C."

Corporal Mays has been granted a three months' furlough, leaving Fort Benning December 3rd for Louisville, Kentucky, where he expects to visit friends and relatives. We wish him a pleasant leave.

First Sergeant Larkins was heard telling a fish tale while out fishing on the Chattahoochee river, as follows:

"I caught a cat fish sometime ago and it was so tame I did not have the nerve to fry it, so I made a house pet of him. Every morning the fish would awake me and start playing. So yesterday I forgot and left a washpan of water on the floor and I left the house to report to the company. Upon returning I found my floor a little wet, due to the fact that the fish had fell in the pan and drowned."

Private Lightburn is scheduled to marry at Americus, Georgia, sometime in February, but who believes it's so? Poor boy has been engaged so many times that he is pretty well known in the company. More so than the window shade importers.

COMPANY "D."

"Grundy" was out to the dance last Wednesday night. He met some new acquaintances, and Sergeant Jones being a great sport, said to the ladies, "Have a treat on me." There were three ladies and each one got a box of chocolate candy, at the small price of $3.50 per box. "Grundy" came back fanning himself with his hat. Keep a cool head, Sergeant, we know you felt slighted.

"Pap" is now singing he is going to get married in the winter time, December —th is the great day. The writer hates to lose his good old pal, but "peep sight" has seen a better life.

"Bull Reese" came from the city a few days ago telling everybody what a good time he had, and was telling Sgt. Jones that he didn't feel the least slighted when he met a certain one of the fair sex. I don't guess he did, the expenditure of sixteen blams will make anybody feel welcome.

"Pick Tom," the great Saxophonist, will have his monthly debut during the Xmas week. He will demonstrate to all amateurs what the Saxo is made for.

"Kid Trombone" has composed a wicked blues, he calls them the "Trom-Saxo Blues." Played with a Trombone and Saxophone and played by "Pap" and "Pick." Everybody loves to hear them play because when they start everybody leaves so there will be nothing to worry them.

Abbott, the hash slinger, will demonstrate his new discovery of "Jump Study Stew;" that's the right name for it, old top, because it stays right where you put it.

COMPANY "I."

Pvt. McFall (Sadie) has arrived from Company M, with a new scheme of going to town and renting civilian clothing. The man he rented it from came out and uncovered McFall on the morning of the 11th. So poor McFall cannot go to town while Ford is entertaining McFall's girl.

Sergeant Walker (Long Distance) is still at the moving picture booth doing his duty as mess sergeant (eating long stick candy).

Don't forget that Sergeant Merrill (Biting Baby) is not allowed in the mess hall on Christmas, because we want the rest of the company to get a dinner.

Sergeant Steger (Greens) met a very dear friend of his; it was a farmer that he used to plow for. He would not let him come in the orderly room for fear he would explain all about the old homestead.

BOYS, please don't forget that I have your name. I am going to put you in the kitchen on extra fatigue until St. Peter says you have had enough. That's all. That is all. A. S.

Corporal Puryear (Smiling Baby) was in charge of quarters, and he thought his duty to take charge of all dogs. He now has the only side show on the reservation, only four bits to see Scott and Mike perform.

COMPANY "K."

Sgt. McCauley (Happy Hooligan), our Intellectual Reformer, has returned from furlough, still singing the blues.

Sgt. Belser (Pa Perkins) was heard talking in his sleep, "I have a quart ————?"

Sgt. Garrett (Tailor-made) is greatly interesed in our basketball team. Heres hoping that they beat the whole Regiment.

Pvt. Latimore (Stack-O-Dollars) was seen in close conversation with Sgt. McCauley. Wonder what twas all about—Madam Walker or B. & W.?

Cpl. Merchant (Little Chester Gump) is staying in Post these pre-Christmas days. What is the idea, Merch?

Sergeant Tailor-made Garrett, the efficient Company Clerk ink spiller and paper destroyer, has stopped visiting the City since a certain bird loud talked him.

A nickname of OWL should be applied to a certain 1st Sergeant, due to the fact that he only prowls around after he is sure it is good and dark.

Sgt. William McCauley ("Young Boy") just received three fresh ones (no, not corn liquor). Mack says he is too old to wrestle with the bear.

Sgt. Powell, the Q. M. expert hay burner and dispatcher, says he is going to Atlanta for the holidays. Look out, Sergeant, remember your last trip. Some speed! Oh, boy!

COMPANY "L."

A certain Private intended to make Reveille Monday morning, and missed the formation just as pretty as you would want to see the trees bud in the spring. His reason for missing this noble formation was due to the fact that too much time was spent in 23. The next morning Pop Jennings threw him away to the Company Commander and an investigation took place immediately after the Top had thrown him away. Seems that the Private put a nice line to the C. O., but that 6, 8, 10 and 12 was added to his credit. Look out, Handy, you had better try and walk a chalk line, because those months will be in your way or you will be in their way, we don't know which—only giving you a little tip-off.

Sgt. Session, known as Shady Rest, requests that the regiment continue drill on the Polo Field as it will go very easy with his hounds—no rocks to dodge.

The Company Clerk and Officials can rest at ease since Pop Jennings lost his pipe and tobacco. Lookout, Pop, don't gas your boys; just save that gas for the next war.

Lookout Shifty Shannon, what has happened to you? You were last seen going to town with a taxi load of groceries.

Friday Paris, we would like to know from you why you havn't been to see your girl? She is always asking about you. Pvt. McWhite says she was looking like a vampire.

Pvt. Robert Stubbs, alias Staff Sgt. Fronia, is constantly visiting 23. We would like for him to explain to the boys as to why he dissolved friendship with Jim Pitts,—Steady Bottom.

Brace up, Cpl. Kitchen, the Barn Party was poor one on account of your absence and we learned that the executive committee of the barn party would like for you to stay away just a little longer so they can have a little success. Oh, you Cpl. Hog.

Sgt. Scott, known as Chicago North Western Stew Limited, has recommended his cooks for stew specializers instead of stew engineers.

Pvt. Jessie Hill spent a few days at his home attending to some important business and was 20 minutes late on pass. If you want to know what Pop Jennings did with him for being 20 minutes late, visit Co. "L's" lamb book and I'm sure you will find the kid wrestling with 6, 8, 10 and 12.

If anybody should happen to see Bill Troup tell him we knew he made a flying business trip to Atlanta on important business, but we want to know did his business call him under the viaduct and on Gilmore street.

Pvt. Litman Perry made a flying trip to 23 at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday evening, and P. M. was found in the Company street almost out of breath. We would like to know whether you got gassed and didn't have your mask. We figured you to be well gassed if you didn't have your mask.

If Sgt. Beauford's wishes would come true, the company would have a hard time trying to find out what became of the mess sergeant since Thanksgiving. The company would starve and the cooks would blow straight up. Steady, Mess Sgt., if you would live forever.

on top today?—a history that any man can be proud of? Can you answer these questions? Perhaps you can and perhaps you cannot, but as you are trying to think within yourself I am going to tell you the foundation of it. The men themselves know that a regiment is just what you make of it. They realize unless they play the game and play it well, the officers cannot make a regiment. So as each man plays his part each day, as he goes to his duty with a determination not to make a day but a regiment that will stand any test. He realizes that to stand the test he must take the advantage of all opportuniies as they come, and he must familiarize himself with military tactics and he must let discipline be the height of his ambition. He also realizes that he must do as he is told and not as he wishes. There are many other things he must do to stand the test. I have told you what he knows. Now what does he do?

2nd Ind.

He strives to control the human force which is called energy because he knows if it is rightly controlled, directed and expended at the right time, it is a tremendous and valuable power. Each day he strives to cut out the waste. He knows when every atom of energy can be expended to propel the charge toward the target. "Accomplishment follows." His main purpose is close thinking, because a close thinking human being is of greater value as a concentrating instrument. Those who do not concentrate, who do not strive for distance and direction, make very poor use of the store of energy that is created in them every day by the miraculous transformation of the food they eat, and the air they breathe, and the thoughts that arise within hem.

Sg. Hill, better known as King, was detailed for the apprehension of a soldier who had stolen a girl (as it is told, of course, no one knows anything about it but King himself). King was asked could he find him. King answered, "Yes, sar, Captain, you send King, pretty soon King bring um back."

After being away some considerable time, King returned without his prisoner, with his head hung down. His employer seeing him in such mood asked him what was the matter. King answered in a low tone, "Sar, King no fine um, him must take sick and die."

Corporal and Mrs. Washington put a kitty on Sgt. Handy the other night. Look out, Handy, that makes it 39.

Pvt. James Handy, of Co. "L," has been wearing crepe ever since his girl went to Chattanooga. Cheer up, Handy, she'll come back.

Pvt. George Sanders, of the Service Company, is in love with a certain girl in Tenn. He lies on his bed and thinks of her and jumps up and plays a cadenza of love, but since Mr. Lazy has taken charge of him he plays it different.

Pvt. David Jones and Clarence Smith were in town last Saturday for the first time in one year. Look out for your shacks, boys.

Pvt. Sampson Stewart is very rich now. He paid $20.00 for one breakfast and passes review for the O D. every night at 6-8-10 and 12 p. m. Be careful, Sampson, nothing hurts a duck but his bill.

The boys all want to know why does 1st Sgt. Steger enter the back door of a certain tent in Block No. 23 when they all ask him to come to the front door? Look out, Steger, someone will see you.

Pvt. Lewis Mahathay wants a girl with plenty of money because he can't keep any. He bought a girl a skirt the other day, and it looked so refined on her to Sgt. Hill until he could not resist a temptation, so he vamped Mahathay's girl. Now Mahathay is Sad "Budweiser."

Pvt. Laffette Haynes (The Grand Wizard of The King's Kangaroo Court) (and Detective) got his brains in his last famous murder case, and had to be sent to the nut ward. He is now back on duty status (special waiting room for patrons).

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Sergeant Stover, who has just been relieved from the position as mess-sergeant, certainly knows how to polish a stove-pipe. Instead of using stove polish, he uses black paint and paints the stove-pipe when it is hot. He says it makes a pretty color on the pipe. We agree with you, Stover.

We hear that the Company Commander is going to transfer Pvt. Scharle to the 24th Infantry in the near future, as it seems he has lost all interest in everything. Awhile back he was seen in a dark alley with a damsel of the colored variety. It seems too bad that the boy went wrong, because he was the Allentown heavyweight and everyone thought an awful lot of him, too. Cheer up, Joe, you may come back to your normal self again, but lay off the brown-skin mamas.

Our well known gold-brick is back in the company again, after spending the greater part of two months in the hospital doing nothing. You don't want a medical discharge, Wilson, the snow balls are flying just at present. Better stick around till warm weather.

Sgt. Brown rather forgets that we are painting the company tents. While going in and out of a tent he put his hand on the door and then wondered where he got the paint at. More signs wanted for the doors, WET PAINT.

Who said Leuze wasn't good at buying stoves? He went into town to get one for his tent, but he didn't know what size to order. The dealer told him he had one that would save half of his fuel, and Leuze told him to give him two of them and he would save all of it.

Two of our men, Pvts. Bigler and Cox, are to leave us soon, and we sure regret that they are going out of the company. The only thing we can do is wish them the best of luck, and we hope they both will succeed in civilian life.

Who is the man that goes on kitchen police and is sent out after elbow grease?

Pvt. Frymyer says he isn't going to Atlanta any more from now on. He says the town is dead and they pull the sidewalks in at nine o'clock. What's the matter, Frymyer, did she treat you mean while you were there?

Oh, boy! Miller has sewed on his fatigue blouse, too. What! Stripes of course. He even takes them to bed with him at night.

Motor Transport Notes

Members and friends of Motor Transport Company No. 100, Q. M. C., spent a very delightful time on Thanksgiving. After dinner the evening was spent dancing, music being furnished by the 24th Infantry Orchestra under the leadership of Warrant Officer Lazier.

Sergeant Dave Riggins broke all records in hunting by killing the largest hawk of any huntsman in Post, its measure from wing to wing being 40 inches and weight 10 lbs.

Private Benjamin Jackson, better known as Big Boy, has been put on the heavy truck list as his foot is so heavy he can't help from stepping on it.

If there are any jewelry companies that have not visited the M. T. C., be sure and call soon as the boys are now buying watches and bracelets, but do not bring anything that costs less than $40.00.

If any one wants to know who is up the pole, ask our Truck Master Sergeant Ross.

GEORGIA'S NEW ADJUTANT GENERAL SUCCEEDS GEN. NASH

Georgia's new Adjutant General; recently appointed by the Governor, was orniginally Lieutenant-Colonel of the 122nd Infantry.

General Lewis C. Pope, of Dublin, Ga., in 1884. When but a little over the age of fifteen years he enlisted as a private in Co. "A" 2nd Georgia Infantry, and he served with this organization sucesssively as private, During the month of May 1917, shortly after the United States declared war with Germany, General Pope reentered the Service and he has served continuously since that time.

The home of General Pope is now in Dublin, Ga., where he has many and varied financial interests among which are farming, lumbering, and fertilizer manufacturing.

THE TRANSPORTATION facilities between Fort Benning and Columbus are not satisfactory. While it is true that the trains accommodate the student officers in so far as bringing them out from Columbus and returning them in the afternoon is concerned at the same time the only method of getting into Columbus and returning therefrom in the evening is by bus.

To the enlisted men, especially, this is something of a hardship in view of the fact that under ordinary conditions they cannot leave the Post until after the evening meal and they must return by reveille the following morning. Except around pay day the busses can probably handle the men making trips to the city, but the road is in poor condition, the busses are uncomfortable, and it costs fifty cents. At the time of the month when everybody has a few dollars to spend the busses cannot handle the crowds.

The remedy seems to be, under existing conditions, to have a night train leaving Columbus at a suitable hour or to start a movement for the construction of an electric car line between Fort Benning and Columbus.

NOW THAT the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, and the 15th Tank Battalion enjoy a triple tie for the white championship of Fort Benning, footballically speaking, there is much speculation as to which team is going to win the pennant. Mighty claims are being made from the different teams' headquarters. Wednesday afternoon of December 27th will tell the tale for at this time the Tank outfit will play the winner of the 1st Battalion-2nd Battalion game, which is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, December 20th.

* * *

THE OFFICERS of the 24th Infantry appear to have ambitions effecting the officer championship of the Post in volley ball. Judging from the challenge appearing in this issue to other officer teams on the Post—and, incidentally, this challenge should not be ignored—this particular outfit has a volley ball team with both ambitions and a past record. This team's ambitions should be gratified.

* * *

THE ATHLETIC OFFICER states that steps will be taken to organize soccer football teams immediately after the football championship has been decided. This game, although comparatively new, should become popular mainly for the reason that no special uniform is required and a large number of men may play it.

29th Infantry News Notes

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY.

Private Turpin is now planning on going to Atlanta to spend the holidays with friends and relatives.

Sergeant Tyler is expecting to spend the holidays at his home in the city of Washington, D. C.

Sergeant Williams has recently returned from his furlough in the great city of Rome, not Italy, but of big G and little a, where he paid a visit to his sick mother and relatives.

Sergeant Harrison, the he vamp of the Headquarters company, is now at the height of his career, from the latest reports he has pust spied a young lady from the city that just fits his fancy.

Private Gardner Davis, the human adding machine, has just proved that no man is perfect enough to make a machine that will contradict anything which may come under his eagle eye for observation and criticism.

Corporal Carter, the Teddy Bear of the Headquarters company, is as usually eating all the Mess Sergeant has to spare and yet crying, "Why is it that they never cook something that a man can eat?"

1ST BATTALION, HDQRS. CO.

This organization played an important part in the recent demonstration viz Battalion in Attack, no casualties were suffered, though the Bn. Adjutant narrowly escaped with his life when the bucking bronco "Buck" which he was riding, made an attempt to fly across Maxey Ridge. The Adjutant got a death grip on his tail, however, and another on his main and by shear physical strength coupled with his exceptional ability as an equestrian, soon had the excited beast under prefect control.

Lieut. Smith recently completed three days of duty with this company making out qualification cards of the enlisted men. Some unusual occupations prior to entry into the military service were unearthed, some of the more interesting ones are given below:

Private Woodruff—Mortician's assistant. Just what did you do? Crepe hanger, sir.

Cpl. Trimble—Pearl diver. For whom did you work? Elite Cafe, sir.

Sgt. Freeman—Philanthropist. To whom did you make your principle donations. To "Doc Crandles'" poker game, sir.

Sgt. Mott — Agriculturalist. For whom did you work and just what did you do? For the Penna. Railroad, sir; packed hot boxes and cleaned engines.

Pvt. Blake—Fisheman. What bate do you use? A deck of playing cards and a poker face, sir.

Private Funk made his debut into Anglo-African society yesterday afternoon and had the honor of escorting a fair damsel of the darker variety from Block 23 to the Battalion Commander's private sanctum for the purpose of appearing before an investigation board as a witness. The entire organization joins in congratulating Private Funk on the unusual honor bestowed upon him.

COMPANY "A."

There has been a new promotion i Company "A." Private Tekielak has ascended to the rank of Bread Sgt. for one week, his authority is not to be denied, such a small rank as "narrow gauge" is beneath his notice, since he took charge of one particular spot in the mess hall they are stepping around. Here is a warning, Tekielak, watch your "mis placed eye brow," the bread knife is sharp.

Pvt. Dean had quite an audience in the company street the other night he sang two popular songs, "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Down the Chattahoochee on a House Boat." We realize your talent, Dean, if your voice was only trained.

Our casualties keep piling up: 1st Sgt. John Simpson, who has been our Top for a long time, has gone to the Military Police. Be good to the men, old boy, and remember who won the war.

But cheer up, 1st. Sgt. Hall is back on the job after a sixty-day furlough and we are all glad to see him back.

There was great excitement in the Company yesterday. We had a recruit assigned to us who had enlisted expressly with a view to service with the A. F. G. (American Forces in Georgia). Poor boy, he will know the truth of Sherman's words before he is through.

29th Infantry News Notes

we are first in the regiment in the mess rating and have been for the past three months, but from the looks of the mess sergeant things are going bad for he said that if ever the men went on another demonstration and eat the way they did the last time, there would be no mess for some time to come.

Tiger Romplowskie states that he has played no football this year, but that he is going to open up when the deciding games are played and if he hits them any harder than he has it will be well worth their while (meaning the opposing team) to have several ambulances in attendance.

All of our football players have great confidence in winning the final games of the season and they are being backed by every man in this organization.

It seems that there can be heard in the distance the tinkling of wedding bells and the Cook is weeping, for he said that his Sweetie was going away. Is that right, Easom? Hope not, for we hate to see a good man go wrong.

COMPANY "C."

Conditions are very good in the Company at present. Sgt. Brown will be murdered pretty soon if he waits a few more days to draw canteen checks for Sgt. Mohundro and Cook Hamlin have waited about as long as they can.

Corporal Porterfield left Tuesday night for Bloomberg, Texas, where he was called on account of the death of his mother.

Pvt. Peel, our best dish washer, is getting discharged next week. Sorry to lose the best K. P. on the job, but he carries with him the best wishes of all the boys.

We certainly did miss our mocking bird while he was in the stockade, however he isn't a jail bird; we call him mocking bird because he whistles and sings so sweetly. Some call him Smithson.

"Speed Wagon" Akin thinks he is up for 148 1-2. Keep it up, Speed, you will get it.

Just watch Bugler Wagner how he's smiling. Anybody can guess the reason; Flora has made up with him.

Pvt. Weinberg thinks he ought to get a discharge by purchase. What's the matter, Sam, doesn't the Canteen pay enough?

Mess Sgt. Foster says when it rains it pours. It was well demonstrated last week when he ran over a table full of dishes and broke the whole thing. Moonshine and work won't mix. Sup. Sgt. Egizi insists on Sgt. Foster paying for the dishes but he likes to snoop around the kitchen too well to push it.

Sgt. Kesak is counting days this week, next week he will be counting years.

Pvt. John M. Smith is a handy man around the company. He was trying to be useful when he carried the G. I. to his tent instead of leaving it in the middle of the street, and Sgt. Kesak didn't fail to give him a growl.

Supply Sgt. Egizi, the new jail bird, tells some funny jokes about spending the night in jail, but he won't run over another negro soon.

COMPANY "D."

During the past weeks Company "D" has been rather busy with its various duties. If anybody don't think so, just ask the "mule skinners." We feel "cocky" about the way we carried them off, too. Did not we receive official commendation through Post Headquarters? You bet we did, and are proud of it, too. Then the Company had to celebrate the football game between the 1st Battalion and the Tanks, which Lieut. Medaris did so much in winning. In fact, we are sure we would have lost the game if he had not arrived just when he did to take care of the rooting.

We got paid on the first day of the month for the first time since August the 1st, and although most of the boys have spent their money a few are still encumbered with a little cash. Cheer up, boys; go to the Mess Sgt., he can tell you how to spend it; he is a business man of the "first magnitude" anyway.

No doubt, our Company Barber thinks this should be celebrated as hymenial week, for he got an emergency furlough and, we are told, put to sea. What sea? Why, the matrimonial sea, of course! But wait, Stotts, have you listened to the honeyed words of a curtain lecture yet?

Teddy R. Baird claims that a jailbird flies.

Sgt. Mack Morrison says that Sandy Hook is a Scotchman and that he is a direct descendant of that family.

The company gumshoe in an official report states that he is hot on the trail of the birl who is stealing the meat out of the slum.

Chick Robertson, our Georgia special, states that a gold digger is a gold miner.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Pvt. Jolliff, our company cobbler, was agreeably flattered a few days ago when the "qualification card officer" expressed surprise at the former's statement that he had never held the position of First Sergeant. However, Jolliff, it is very comforting to reflect that you still have a chance, in the next 20 years.

THE REGULAR ARMY MAN

He ain't no gold-lace belvder to sakle in the sun.
He don't parade with gay cockade
and poise in his gun,
He ain't no pretty soldier boy so lovely spick and span,
He wears the crust of tan and dust
—the Regular Army Man.

Me ain't at home in Sunday school
nor social tea,
And the day that he gets his pay he is apt to spend it free;
He ain't no temperance advocate; he likes to fill the can;
He's kind of rough and maybe tough
—the Regular Army Man.
The tearin', sometimes swearin' Regular Army Man.

No saint'll call him a noble sob. He ain't no ladies man,
But let a bugle sound and they send for him you bet,
He don't cut any ice at all in fash-
ion's social plan,
He get's the job to face the mob—
the Regular Army Man,
The willin', drillin' made for killin'
Regular Army Man.

There ain't no tears shed over him
when he goes off to war,
He get's no speech or prayer from mayor or governor.
He packs his little kanpsack up and trots off with the band,
To start the fight and start it right
—the Regular Army Man.
The rattlin' battling colt or gatlin'
Regular Army Man.

He makes no fuss about the job; he don't talk big or brave,
He know's he is in the fight to win,
or help fill up the grave.
He ain't no mama's darling, but he does the best he can.
And he's the chap than wins the scrap—the Regular Army Man.
The dandy, handy, cool and sandy
Regular Army Man,
None are so blind as those who refuse an eye-opener.

5th CORPS NEWS

HAVE A HEART

I thought I'd be a soldier
And kill a flock of Huns,
So I gave up a dandy job
And see a foreign country,

To shoot all kinds of guns.
And rushed down to enlist,
And said "I want to go to France"—
On this I shall insist.

I got a little training,
Police around the tents,
And helped haul out the garbage
Thus collecting a few scents.

I had my turn at peeling spuds,
Cut bread and dished up chow,
An often dodged inspection;
I cannot tell you how.

I went down to the warehouse
And wrestled tons of freight,
And counted endless G. I. Cots
And things in box or crate.

The C. O. found that I could count
And write on a machine,
So he put me in the office
And said to use my bean.

The war got hot and heavy
And troops went out to fight,
I worked like thunder all day long
And cussed my luck at night.

At last I wrote a letter home,
I can't be a soldier;
Take down the little service flag,
I'm in the Q. M. C.

But now the war is over,
I wish there was a chance,
That every durned fool wouldn't ask
Oh, did you go to France.

"Mah goodness. We has to get up at four in the morning an' gathah in de stahs; den we has to haul in the moon and hang out the sun. Den we have to roll de clouds aroun' all day long."

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 12)

Company "D"

On October 13th Company "D" began preparation for the attack with the infantry which was to begin at daybreak on the morning of October 14th. The company assisted in the capture of towns of Cunel and Romagne, and made reconnaissance for bridge sites in the vicinity of these places. On October 16th a wagon bridge over the Andon stream was constructed at Romagne, which was out of the alloted sector, and in the sector of the 32nd Division. The work was done while enemy planes were hovering over-head, giving range to the German artillery, as a consequence of which the working parties were subjected to a terrific fire of gas and high explosive shells. On October 17th the company wired in the resistance point south of Cunel inspite of the machine gun fire and the one-pounders from the enemy. On the 18th work was started on the construction of the road from Cierges to Nantillois.

Company "F"

On the night of October 13th, the 1st, 3rd,4th and part of the 2nd platoon of Company "F" left Natillois and went up to the front line to go over with the Infantry on the morning of the 14th, their mission being to throw foot bridges across the Andon. However, on account of the stubborn resistance met in the Bois-de-Rappe, the attack was stopped just north of the Cunel-Romagne road. It was here that the most severe losses of the drive were sustained, and where 1st Lieut. Richard M. Wilson, Commanding Company "F" was killed.

The advance was attempted on the two succeeding mornings, but without success, due to the stubborn resistance which was met in Bois-de-Rappes. The Bois-de-Rappes had to be cleared first. The next few days and nights were spent in organizing the positions and wiring in the support lines and repairing buildings near Madeleine Farm. Finally, the Bois-de-Rappes was cleared by the 11th Infantry and Lieut. Hawk, with the accompanying engineer detachments, wired in the combat groups just inside the edge of the woods, and on the 22nd day of October, the 5th Division was relieved.

On October 23rd the regiment was relieved, and moved back to the demolished town of Esnes and vicinity for rest. The men here had their first opportunity in eleven days, to get a real clean-up. But even during these few days there was no idleness. The roads required a great deal of maintenance and the 7th Engineers were given the work to do.

Second Phase of the Meuse-Argonne Offensive

On the 27th of October the 5th Division entered the line for a second time, The troops of the division had gained invaluable experience in the first phase of the Meuse-Argonne, the enviable record made by the 5th Division in its second entry into the most vital and impregnable part of the enemy lines.

It was to the 5th Division that the honor of first crossing the Meuse, against stubborn resistance by the enemy, fell. And of the several engineer regiments in the vicinity, it was the 7th engineers who were selected to throw the first pontoon bridge across the Meuse.

On the night of the 26th of October, the 5th Division relieved the 3rd Division, which was occupying the line from the left bank of the Meuse west along the northeastern corner of the Bois-de-Rappes, thence along the northeast edge of Claire Chenes, Hill 299, and the northern edges of the Hois-de-Foret.

Due to the fact that the enemy occupied the heights on the right bank of the Meuse, it was impossible for the XVIII French Corps to advance, hence the advance line of the American First Army on the left bank of the Meuse River, resulting in heavy shelling on our rear area. It was therefore apparent that it would be necessary to attack in an easterly direction, pivoting on the 5th Division.

Anticipating this turning movement, bridges were constructed by the 7th Engineers over the Andon at Clery-le-Petit, Clery-le-Grand, and Ancreville on the sites of the bridges destroyed by the enemy, and enemy traps were removed in the vicinity of Brieulles. This work occupied the time of part of the regiment while remaining companies were practiced in the construction of portable foot bridges and the use of heavy French pontoon equipment.

Owing to the basin of the Meuse north of Brieulles, and its closing southward to within one hundred meters of the ground held by the enemy, the front on which a crossing could be made was limited to fifteen of fifteen hundred meters in extent.

East of the river lay the canal which was approximately 20 meters wide and ten meters deep. The entire river basin and canal were visible from the high ground occupied by the enemy and permitted direct artillery and machine gun fire at close range.

On the night of November 2nd and 3rd, Company "F" of the 7th Engineers threw a bridge across the Meuse River opposite Brieulles and with Company "E" and "G" of the 6th Infantry, crossed the river and approached the canal.

However the fire which was directed upon them, made the construction of a foot bridge across the canal impossible, and the three companies were forced to seek cover between the canal and the river during the following day.

In the early morning of November 4th work was continued and two foot bridges were constructed across the canal, but it was impossible for troops to cross until after dark that evening, when the 6th Infantry finally succeeded in rushing the bridge.

Co.'s "A" and "C" were waiting in readiness between Bieulles and Nantillois with a train of heavy pontoon equipage. Simultaneously with the crossing of the infantry over the foot bridges, these companies moved forward and threw wagon bridges over the river and canal, near the site of the footbridges. This work was completed by 3:30 A. M. on the morning of the 5th of November, and roadways and approaches were completed before daylight.

The entire 10th Brigade and two light regiments of the 3rd Artillery Brigade, as well as all supplies and ammunition received by these troops were taken over these bridges,

At 2:00 P. M. on November 4th, Company "B" in accordance with Corps orders, attempted the construction of a footbridge between Clery-le-Petit and Doulcon, but due to severe losses caused by the intense machine gun fire in attempting to cross the open flats, the project had to be abandoned.

The same night, under color of darkness, Company "D" constructed foot-bridges over the river and canal on the site of "B" Company's attempt and the 9th Brigade made its initial attack over these bridges.

Due to the lightness of the wagon bridge at Brieulles, heavy transportation was unable to cross, hence on the night of November 5th and 6th, Company "B" with attached men from "D", "E" and "F" of the 7th Engineers, constructed a heavy reinforced pontoon bridge over the canal at Dun-sur-Meuse. Though this bridge was several times bombed by aeroplanes, the truck trains and heavy artillery were able to pass, and the bridge was kept in continuous operation uptil a semi-permanent bridge was constructed at Dun.

The work of the individual companies, in this phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, is given below.

Headquarters Detachment.

On October 27th, after a three-day stay at Esnes the division relieved the 3rd Division Headquarters Company was moved forward to a former German P. C., one kilometer east of Cuisy.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

On Thursday, December 7th, the class was entertained by the Kiwanis Club of Columbus in the mess hall in Biglerville. Roast duck and other tities by the members of the class and the other guests. Somebody said that they also had possum, but I things were consumed in great quanguess that I must have been in a trance when they brought that around for I certainly missed it.

Following this fine dinner, we were welcomed by General Gordon, who remarked that he had already had the opportunity of welcoming us in an official capacity, but that at this time, wished to extend a welcome as a citizen of Columbus and as a Kiwanian. He was followed by Major McMurray, Company Commander, who responded for the class. Other speakers followed, after which we were entertained by talented singers and musicians. Everybody seemed to have a fine time, especially enjoying the old time darky songs that were offered by the Community Singers. The 24th Infantry band furnished the music and were heartily applauded when they rendered "Poet and Peasant," and several other pleasing numbers.

The guests left to the stirring strains of march music by the 24th Infantry Bugle Corps. Everybody was happy and the class will remember this party a long time, and will be glad to tell the world that The Kiwanis Club of Columbus is made up of regular fellows.

Incidentally, it might be a good thing to remember that we are going to give a party or two before we leave and we could look a long time before we would find better entertainment than that furnished by the musicians and singers that so delightfully officiated at this party.

Even at the Kiwanis Club party, they furnished note books and pencils.

The only thing the speakers neglected was to announce that they would furnish mimeographed copies of their speeches.

Tell us what is wrong with the man that will carefully oil his rifle, then remove the bolt and lay it in the sand when he gets on the firing line. I saw it done but hesitate to make his name public.

Wha't become of Az E. Muth?

At last a feud has developed in the ranks of our class. Lt. Gilchrist came to the writer and confidentially whispered that he had discovered that Lt. Dolan came from Concord, Mass., and was of the firm opinion that anybody who hailed from west of the Allegheny Mountains was an untamed savage. Also that he thought that all the natives from outside the New England states were either Indians or wild westerners that packed guns and shot anybody they did not happen to take a fancy to. We took the matter up with Dolan and he, in turn, informed us that Gilchrist had not had a good night's sleep since the Kiwanis Club dinner, for he heard at that time, New York state led the country in the number of illiterates.

We will now take the case of the State vs. Peabody.

* * *

Among the spectators of the 29th Infantry parade last Friday was Captain Miller, Captain Warden and several others. At the command, "Officer, Post," Captain Warden thought that they meant him and proceeded to imitate one of the best of his ability. That he was very successful, is attested by everyone present for they were all fooled, even a dog wandered by.

* * *

It is the policy of the school that you remain standing.

* * *

The night that it rained so hard, Singletary was discovered pitching a pup tent inside the pyramidal that he calls home. He swears that some one sneaked up and shot the pyramidal tent full of holes.

* * *

You may smoke if you wish, gentlemen.

* * *

The alibis have started. Lt. Shaw went to town the day after he started shooting on the range, to purchase a pair of glasses. Some of us could probably do better shooting if we were blindfolded.

* * *

Rum-tum, tum, tum. That gentlemen, is 128 steps a minute, quick time.

* * *

We are compelled to congratulate Captain Layman, our instructor in Rifle Marksmanship. Some of his students seem to be laying for him with a bunch of questions that are seemingly intended to stop him, but to date, the captain has succeeded in answering all that have been shot at him and has overlooked nothing.

* * *

Lieut. Barkley kicks in with this one: Captain Siscoe, leader of the second squad of the rifle platoon assumes an innocent air and remarks that his squad is evenly divided. Up speaks Captain Raine, "How is that Corporal?" "Why, you poor fish there are four in each rank," quoth the doughty corporal.

* * *

How will yo' have yo' aigs this mo'nin', ham or bacon?

* * *

The members of this class can help make this column interesting if they will make a note of anything out of the ordinary or amusing that comes under their observation. Turn it in to the writer in tent number 44 and I will see that it gets in the column. You must sign your name, to show good faith and give the column conductor an alibi, if necessary. Copy must be in my hands not later than Monday noon of each week.

* * *

One, two, three, foah, One, two, three foah. One, two, three foah.

* * *

Captain Allen, of the machine gunners, says that one of those warm days a couple of weeks ago, he saw a dog chasing a rabbit across a field. There is usually nothing startling about that, but in this case the captain says that it was so hot that both the rabbit and the dog were walking.

* * *

As a writer in the latest issue of the Blue Book says, "A bald head is an at of God, but these funnf little mustaches are a man's own fault."

* * *

Now for our old friend, the stretcher. It will give you poise.

* * *

After being dinned on elevation, some of the officers in the machine gun platoon are wondering how far they would have to elevate the guns before they would be committing suicide.

Ready, EXERCISE. One, chew, one, chew, one chew.

I said that the multitude would be on me, and I was right. A delegation, headed by Captain Bateman and Lieut. McGowan, brought me to task for daring to leave the noble 29th Division out of my list. Add the 29th.

* * *

We get the report that Lieut. Waite was beaned with a machine gun during a drill the other day. We have heard of a man clubbing his rifle when at close quarters, but this is the first time that we ever heard that a machine gunner was expected to use his gun in that manner on a friend.

* * *

All right, in there, don't forget that you are marching at attention.

* * *

Lt. Gilchrist was greatly worried last Sunday, for his tent mate was numbered among the missing for over twenty four hours. It developed later that Dolan had been talking over the phone to a friend in the "Hub of the Universe," and returned to camp very much exhilerated.

* * *

Fall out. Sit down where you are.

* * *

We have been observing some of the games of Volley ball that are played back of our tent and are struck by the extreme politeness of some of the players. At times when the ball comes over, Rice will say, "You take it Garrett". But Garrett is also very polite, so he says. "No, you take it, Rice", and in the meantime the ball drops to the ground amid great cheers from the other players on the team with these two courteous gentlemen.

* * *

Why don't you guys up in front find some deeper sand to walk in?

* * *

Now is the time that some of the unmarried officers are letting their correspondence drag. The reason is easy to find; Christmas comes this month, after which, the boys can take up where they left off, thereby saving expenses.

* * *

Swing low, sweet char-i-o-u-t comin' fo' to ca''y me home.

It is now eight o'clock, are there any questions? That's all.

POLO

Due to the inclement weather and the fact that the Holidays are rapidly approaching, the Fort Benning Polo Tournament has been postponed.

This postponement will allow the horses to get a well deserved rest after having been played in Fort Oglethorpe Tournament and will, incidentally, put the players who took part in the tournament on a more even basis with the other players on the Post who failed to get practice while the ponies were away.

The following letter in connection with the Oglethorpe tournament is published below and is self-explanatory:

Headquarters , Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia,
Office of the Commanding Officer,
December 7, 1922

SUBJECT: Visiting Polo Team.
TO: Commanding Officer, Fort Fort Benning, Georgia.

I take this occasion to let you know what a great pleasure it was for us to have as our guests, the members of your team, during the polo tournament. Their excellent example of unfailing courtesy, gentlemanly and soldierly conduct and the fine sportmanslike spirit exhibited by them in a losing game, was most favorably commended upon and very much appreciated.

Your team was no doubt handicapped in playing under conditions different from those to which they were accustomed at home, and although they did not win the tournament, we are proud of their record, proud of each individual player and know that among them there is championship material. All the games were closely contested and your players were most admirable losers.

signed, R. J. FLEMING
Colonel, 6th Cavalry, Commanding.

Total: Inf. 796, Opp. 584.

Games played 26; games won 18; games lost 8; percentage .692.

The Infantry quintette of 1921-22 hung up the above enviable record, setting a pace which will be exceedingly hard to equal in the succeeding years. The Blue five lost but one game on the old home floor and this by a one point margin. Every Southern college team except Georgia Tech bowed to the Infantry. The Yellow Jackets accomplished what had heretofore been impossible when they put over this one defeat by the narrowest of tallies—24 to 23 was the final score.

For the past ten days the Blue squad, led by Fay Smith, captain of last year's varsity and likewise a member of the 1920 five, have been hard at work in preparation for the opening skirmish which is scheduled for next Tuesday night with the West Point A. C. team.

Five veterans besides Smith are out this season and include Whittemore, guard and center; Vevia, forward; Honnen, guard, who will probably work in a forward berth this year; Gary Chapman, guard, and Wessels, center. Ritter, a member of the 1920 quint, is back this year. compose the entire Infantry bookings and of these fifteen will be on the home court. The Infantry will bring the strongest teams possible to Benning and prospects are bright for another banner year.

Officers Play Volley Ball

24th INFANTRY TEAM ISSUES BLANKET CHALLENGE.

Volley ball is creating much interest among the officers of the Camp and at various places thruout the Camp may be seen the officers of the Post enjoying the sport on the courts.

Nowhere has greater interest been taken in this sport than among the officers of the 24th Infantry. A three weeks tournament just completed resulted in Team No. 3, captained by Captain Moore, winning the tournament with 17 games won and 10 lost. A second series of games has been started and the team captains are Lt. L. V. Jones, Lt. W. V. Carter, Lt. R. J. Caperton and Chaplain M. W. Reynolds. The losing team in the league has to buy cigars for the other teams in the tournament.

The officers of the 24th issue a challenge to any officers' team in Camp for a series of games to be played either on the 24th Infantry court or elsewhere. Mr. L. H. Davis, well known sporting goods salesman of Columbus, has offered a suitable prize if interest enough in the sport is aroused to make the contest anything but a walk away for the 24th Infantry Team.

Due to the fact that the White Star Taxi Service is getting a large increase of Camp trade, the management has ordered ten more cars to be here by the first of the New Year. The management wishes to announce that he appreciates all the Fort Benning patronage.

15th Tank Battalion News

Athletic activities, everything from baseball to horseshoe, are governed by the log hut committee, of which Sgt. Dennis is in charge. Any member who possesses any athletic prowess and wants to display his wares for the glory of the Batallion can submit his name to the committee and they will forward your name to the manager of the team that you wish to qualify for. Lieut. Hanson, who has been made temporary manager of the basketball team, promises us that he will have the best team seen under our colors for many days.

Not mentioning any names but Co. Co. "B's" acting mess sergeant ought to be looked after by some of his friends who go across the 14th Street Bridge with him. He may be seen walking up and down the main drag every night with a young lady on his arm. I understand he is in love, but the symptoms do not indicate that. Perhaps he could give us an idea of just what it is. Maybe he is going to challenge Young Nestor, who is coming to Columbus soon in a long distance walking contest.

The entertainment committe report that the program for the stag is about complete. The presence of many famous men is assured. Among hem we find Jimmy Hicks, who furnishes corns for the famous McGuire's Irish Corn Plasters; Goldstein originator of the Chinese language and 25 per cent discount. Hunt, writer of poems and painter of lillies famous for his song, "Why did You Leave Me When I told You to Go," and other short stories. Batchelder, manager and publicity agent for Sharpe, champion heavyweight and fliweight boxer, wrestler, half-back, pitcher, batter, slider, weight lifter, singer, fire-eater, swimmer, diver, and jazz dancer of Aurora Borealis, Mason, famous because he got married a short time ago and still thinks it's funny; Boone, famous because he got married and stayed that way. Kimball, president and demonstrator for the "Danderless Hairless Dome Co., of South America," Lindsey, a devottee of women, "Juicy Fruit" an "Sen-Sen" and now nationally famous as the president of the Reversible Bad-Breath Company, and winner of the prize for detecting the aroma of limburger cheese on a young lady's breath three hours before she ate it. Stevens, inventor of feet for shoes, holes for socks and boots for bootleggers. Bryson, inventor of steaks, professor of choppery in the Pork Loin College of Pig Manicuring and lecturer on the art of blowing holes in Swiss Cheese made in American cheese factories, and distributor generally of tenderlions and other tougher meats. He will bring his protege, Cauthen, who is now apprenticed at blowing sausages into links and glueing the strings together, and last but not least Arthur, (Thed Batallion Tailor) Distributor of aeroplane linen shirts for high-flyers at box office prices and president, secretary, treasurer, manager and salesman for the Arthur non-wearable Shirt Company. Shirts will be repurchased at the end of enlistment for the price paid for them, being absolutely non-wearable and getting better with age (same as whiskey), a convertible shirt-can be used for a nightgown in winter, a linen duster in the summer and a masquerade costume at all times.

Little Eva sends "Red" her best wishes from Havana, Cuba.

Our poor "Porcupine" (Densmore) has again been defeated on the field of strife. A knight from the hills back of Duran, Ga., was found more acceptable to his fair "Curls" and she has recently informed him that she loved another and was to marry soon. He was sadly disappointed, but after a brief period spent in sackcloth and ashes, and singing to himself a little chant entitled, "I loved that little girl," he has again become almost his natural self. He says he has quit trying to reform the girls, but that some day he expects to find one that doesn't need any spirtual reform. Next time you had better take your pup tent and camp on her trail, as that old saying "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," is all bunk anyway.

The printers devil (Bryan) reports that "Red's" girl turned down his offer to her of a chance to win five gold smacks. Those coupons attached to Vaudette's tickets never were much good anyway.

Only a few more shopping days until Christmas. Have you done yours yet?

It is requested that all who read this bow their heads in silent prayer for the soul of "Both-of-us", Wade who is striving to get himself entangled in the skeins of the matrimo-Lewis, your religious influence is badly needed to save this erring boy.

If the gang doesn't get busy and send in this stuff to the scribe there is going to be a good job gone to the bow wows. You have to get the news to put it in here, and if you don't get it, as neither the scribe nor his staff are 2nd "Loouies,, or corporals, and can't know it all, there will cease to be any column.

TWO GOOD FEATURE PICTURES RIALTO THEATRE NEXT WEEK

For the two attractions at the Rial toTheatre next week they are offering first Richard Barthelmess in "the Bondboy," and the last half Priscilla Dean in "Under Two Flags."

The first named picture has Barthelmess in the role of the son of an aristocratic southern gentleman who died poor while trying to perfect an invention. The boy allows himself to be "bound out" to the arch villian of the neighborhood for a period of four years at a ten dollar a month pittance. How he later succeeds in life makes a good picture which you are sure to enjoy.

The last named picture with Priscilla Dean gives her an excellent opportunity to show just what she can do with a plot which is different than any picture shown at this theatre in some time. We will not tell you anything about it but will say that you will enjoy it because it is much a mystery tale that you will be entertained throughout.

Teacher: "If your father gave your mother ten dollars this morning and ten dollars tonight, what would your mother have?"

Johnny: "Hystericks."

New Equipment For Theatres

The U. S. A. M. P. Service has promised to send their equipment expert to this Post to install a motor generator set at an early date, which will insure us of as good picture projection as may be found in the South.

Suggestion and construction criticism will be welcomed by the theatre manager, Lt. Jack E. Rycroft, phone No. 146 Post, anyone desiring to see any special production will kindly submit title of same to the theatre manager and an attempt will be made to have it booked at an early date.

The Situation In The Near East

The threatened war in the Near East has quieted down, at least for the present, but the fires that ignited the powder of war is still burning. The Turks desire more spoils and the Greek wants revenge. Also since the Balkan States do not desire to see Turkey get too much they are preparing for war, and with the Turk complaining that all that he can do at the peace conference is to make concessions to European powers, it would not be surprising if the Turk would simply say that he would run things to suit himself and left the conference. What would be the result? Especially if the rumor that a secret treaty exists between Germany, Russia, and the Turks, and that they are preparing for a great war. If you think that a war with this combination is impossible please remember that these three countries have the natural resources at hand to carry out their desire if they took the notion.

MORE POSSIBLE WARS.

Since the Fascist have gained control of Italy we find that they are not satisfied with reforming only Italy but even conquest is hinted at or a GREATER ITALY is their desire. Also they want a Navy that can control the Mediterranean Sea. This conflicts directly with the interest of France in Africa and the Mediterranean Sea, so it would be very natural to believe that neither nation will ratify the Limitation of Armament agreement agreed to at the Washington conference. Further neither nation is saying anything about paying their debt to the United States.

New Policy of the War Department

Commencing January 1st, 1923, it will be the policy of the War Department theatres to show a Super Special feature every Sunday evening. During the week there will be two big Western features, showing such stars of Wm. S. Hart, Tom Mix, Buck Jones, Hoot Gibson, and others.

The program for the remaining nights of the week will be composed of those feature pictures which have proven themselves to be most popular with the theatre-going public. James Curwood's latest pictures will also be shown during the months of January and February.

The Prohibition Ruling

When the prohibition against liquors in the Army Posts was put into effect some years ago the ban was promptly put on the Army Transports also. This procedure was simply taken as a matter of course and no one ever thought of getting a reversal of ruling on it.

The recent ruling as to the transportation of liquor on American vessels will be generally accepted just as it was by the Army.

NEW RECORD FOR RECRUITING

SGT. WINN, AT DUBLIN, GETS MOST MEN.

Fort Benning now has six recruiting sub-stations, located at Columbus, Ga., Macon, Ga., Albany, Ga., Waycross, Ga., Dublin, Ga., and Cordele, Ga.

Sergeant Aaron M. Winn, D. E. M. L. (RS) in charge of the Dublin station, is high man for December so far, he having sent in nineteen applicants, all of whom are high grade men and only one of whom has been rejected by the Post Recruiting Officer.

Private 1st Cl. Sp. 5th Cl. Grover C. Woods, in charge of the Cordele station, with nine men to his credit, has the next best record for accepted applicants.

Fifty-three men had been enlisted up to December 21, with more applicants en route to this Post.

It is believed that many enlistments are due to the interest shown locally in the cities in which the substations are located. This is especially true of Dublin, Ga. When the Post Recruiting Officer paid a visit to the Dublin station last week he met the Postmaster, the editor of the Dublin Courier-Herald, he chief of police, and others. Due to shortage of time he was unable to meet the Mayor, whom it is understood is also an enthusiastic supporter of The Infantry School. The Recruiting Officer desires to thank these persons for the co-operation and encouragement that they have given Sergeant Winn in his work.

Great Boxing At the Post

Saturday, December 16th, 1922, saw the first of a series of boxing bouts to be staged at the new Post Gymnasium.

The first bout of six rounds was a good curtain raiser. Young DeRose, champion Fourth Corps Area, was an easy winner over Kid Brown, of Columbus.

The Next bout featuring Battling Grantham, Champion Fourth Corps Area, versus Kid Earle, of Columbus. This was a good bout and Earle showed considerable improvement since his bout here of October 16th. The bout was featured by good clean fast boxing.

The semi-final bout was good while it lasted, but in the third round Chief Alonzo fouled Red Keenan, champion Fourth Corps Area. Chief was after Red's scalp and threw all points to the wind and waded in with hay makers to knock his man out, but Red was just a little too fast for him with the result that he was never in any danger.

The final bout featuring Kid Sebukarty, champion Fourth Corps Area, and Battling Dundee, Camp McClellan, was a short affair, lasting one minute and fifty-eight seconds when the Kid planted a square solar plexas on the Battler that almost buried his glove. The Battler got up in about five minutes and wanted to know if it was all over with already.

Big Doings at Service Club Christmas Night

EVERYBODY COME.

A great big Christmas welcome is going to be waiting for all of the enlisted men and their families that venture near the Service Club on Christmas night. An informal entertainment will be provided by some of the enlisted men that should be able to make you forget your past trouble and make you abide with that good Christmas proverb, "Peace on earth, good will to men," and when you get into this mood you are in the proper spirit to enjoy Christmas the way that it should be enjoyed.

Also leave a little room in your dining room as the hostess imparted the fact to the News reporter that after the men finished their little entertainment that she was going to pass around a little good cheer in the form of "eats."

The Service Club has been murescoed and re-painted and now that it is being decorated for the holidays you will be so proud of your Club

LAMENT DE L'LIEUTENANT.

When Silver Turns to Gold.

Ah, little bars of silver,
To have is not to hold;
You'll grace my blouse no longer
When silver turns to gold.
The alchemists of Congress
Are doping out a plot
To tear you from my shoulders
For the bubbling melting pot.

It may be best, my comrades,
You're tarnished, stained and old,
When alchemy has finished
You'll be of purest gold.
Oh, purest, rarest metal,
Demotion's lowest rung,
Yours is the saddest story
That e'er was told or sung.

You're visited upon me,
Just like the father's sins,
To plague me when I'm aged
And tottering on my pins.
I hope to lose you sometime—
Would do it willingly;
A gold bar wonder always
I do not care to be.

Men making gold from silver
And causing pain and strife,
No doubt make panaceas
For lengthening human life.
And as promotion lingers,
If bad should come to worst,
I'll beg them for this mixture,
And LIVE!—to be a first.

Now should this band of wizards
Refuse, then I'll laugh
And die a second looey
With this—
MY EPITAPH
Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing,
Onward thru life he strolled,
At set of sun, when his course was run
He wore a bar of gold.

MRS. CHARLES McNAIR ENTERTAINS THE 24th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Charles McNair, wife of Captain McNair, entertained the 24th Infantry Bridge Club at her home in Fort Benning. Holly and poinsettias were the decorations used in her attractive apartment.

Mrs. W. A. Stetler won the first prize, a brass bookrack. The second prize, a hanging flower vase, was won by Mrs. E. C. Maling. Mrs. B. P. Nicklin won the cut prize.

There were three tables of players and several tea guests. After the game delicious sandwiches and tea were served.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS COMPANY.

At last Sgt. Edward Roper has went and got "Hooked." By the way, everybody seemed to wonder what was wrong with "Peggy" before he cast himself in the "Bonds of Matrimony." Best wishes, "Peggy," we all get "Hooked" sooner or later.

Corporal Dumas remarked a few days ago that the "Free Booters" may not know how to play "Football" but they sure can cripple up a good team. (Ask the 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., and the 83rd F. A. Teams.)

Sergeant Harrison has predicted that the Basketball Championship Cup will adorn the Orderly Room of Regimental Headquarters Co. this season. The Company team was very good last season but watch them this season.

The members of the Company have been wondering how many "wild animals" Sgt. Oudette and Private Samuel Parvin have killed, captured and lost on their hunting trip over "Benning's 90,000 Square Acres."

Regimental Headquarters Company wonders how many organizations can say that they haven't a man in Captain Teachout's "Wire City" and haven't had in the past 3 months, and best of all not a "Venereal." Thanks to the Company Commander, Company Officers, and the "Top Kicker," we will keep the Company Clean.

FIRST BATTALION HDQ.

Interest is running high around 1st Bn. Hdqs. in the search for the missing inspection report. A conference was held at a late hour last night in an attempt to cast some light on the baffling mystery which has caused so much comment and much excitement among the members of Company Hdqs. This astounding mystery has been in the limelight here for the past several days and from all appearances is as far from being solved as it ever was. Several clues were run down but each terminated in Cpl. Trimbles' waste basket. Hawkeye Brown and Eagle Eye Thomas were called in on the case and stated that developments could be expected in a few days. It was reported that a substantial reward would be offered to any one who is able to cast some illumination on this mystery, this report was not authenticated, however.

THE ORACLE.

One of the most prominent personages in the 29th is our Biographical subject:

Sgt. Ike Hurries Seldom Freeman. Sgt. Freeman was born in May, 1890, in the village of Vicksburg, Miss., a suburb of New Orleans. When but a child he gained great fame as a crane man. At one time on his father's farm there were 3000 oogles, better known as three-legged cranes. The love these birds had for Younk Ike was so great that each bird knew him intimately and confided to him all their troubles.

Sgt. Freeman is of a very confiding nature and was telling the author confidentially that when in his old age he will be sitting under the old pumpkin tree on the old homestead in Mississippi, bouncing a grandchild on each knee. He will tell the children of the publicity he received in the 29th, more publicity he says than when he was arrested for boot-legging in Yazoo City, Miss.

Sgt. Freeman is a heart breaker with the ladies and probably leaves a sweetheart in every town, being as the Japanese say, "Very much butterfly" in his affections.

He has been successful in every venture he has undertaken except in trying to bribe the biographer man, which he tried in vain with one of his most cherished articles, a pillow of ducklet's feathers, given to him by a chocolate blond, just before the battle of Who Run.

COMPANY "B."

After defeating the wonderful Artillery in the football contest for this season, the 1st Battalion team is now going strong for the 2nd Bn., and from the way the Second is holding to their money it seems that they are not very confident of winning.

We have in this organization two officers who have had the pleasure of trading silver for gold, but they don't seem to be at all satisfied. (What is wrong?)

The Company Clerk has returned after the absence of two months, and we hope that he will remain among us for some time to come, as he was greatly missed.

COMPANY "C."

We certainly have got some short timers. Pvtls. Williams and Huff are the happiest fellows in the bunch. They will soon be saying, "I've got three years to do this in."

Talking about short timers, Pvt. Alonzo is one of them things, but he says now that he has been convinced that he never was cut out for a boxer, so he is going back to O-klahoma, and catch a home and a Squaw.

Another good man gone wrong. Private Harold Gross joined the K. P.'s. You'll find him scrubbing pots and pans. Now, Gross, say anything before Demonstrations.

Sergeant Keasak, the old War Relic, is leaving on a 60 days furlough. Private Phillips figures that his rifle won't get any more cosmolene oil for two months but Sgt. Mohundro is Keasak the Second.

Pvt. Jones has turned out to be a salesman. He's selling Red Cross Seals, at least he has got them to sell, but he hasn't been seen selling any.

COMPANY "D."

That excellent work by men in the ranks is appreciated was conspicuously brought to the attention of Company "D" in the past few weeks. This organization has just received its second citation in 10 days for meritorious work with machine guns on demonstrations, and the commending orders laid particular stress on the excellent work of the enlisted men of Company "D."

In recognition of the efforts of his men, Captain George C. Pilkington at retreat Friday, December 22, 1922, complimented the company in the following words:

"In wishing each and everyone of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, it is with a high degree of pleasure that I must also sincerely thank you for your excellent efforts in the past year. Our demonstrations this fall have been highly praised as you have noted from the correspondence which has been read to you from time to time. This should indicate to you that the work of the enlisted men is always appreciated and recognized.

"Work in the 29th Infantry is arduous and very difficult. But you should be proud to be members of the 29th Infantry and particularly of the First Battalion. It is in the First Battalion that you obtain training which is impossible anywhere else in the Army. The training you obtain here in realistic firing problems will be invaluable in the future. That you appreciate this fact is shown by the merit of your efforts in the past. And for your cheerful co-operation, splendid morale under adverse conditions, and complete loyalty to me, the company officers, the battalion commander and our colonel, I again commend you, and I look forward to another splendid year of fruitful effort for all of us."

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

This is the first time we ever realized that Christmas comes at a most inopportune time of the month. As a general rule, around the 25th or long before that time we find ourselves waiting for canteen check issues, payday past being but a pleasant memory. So it happens that this month also, when the furlough ban has been completely lifted and the Christmas spirit has caused Headquarters to allow holiday furloughs to 25 per cent. of the company's strength, most of us are again enjoying the state of depleted finances, and are unable to take advantage of a furlough or even a three-day pass.

If anybody wants to know the name of the dashing and energetic captain of Hq. Co. team of basketball jugglers, ask Pvt. B. D. Wood. The way he has taken hold of his work as captain is in itself an inspiration to the team. Atta boy, Dewey make 'em snap!

Looks like it's going to be a sorrowful Christmas for a certain Co. Tailor. Don't worry, John, it's all for the best. Now is the time to think of some good New Year resolutions which ought to be that much stronger, on account of present circumstances.

There ought to be plenty of Christmas cheer reflecting from the face of one particular member of this organization. December 25th, happy day for Corporal Johnson, who is forced to take leave of an indefinite period after three years in the service. Cold winter, Johnson, but at least you'll stay for dinner, eh!

As for you, Corporal Hopkinson, you'd better be looking up some Christmas Carols, as the boys will be expecting to hear your voice. If the flues need adjustment we'll try to furnish the material.

The Battalion Commander is mailing Christmas Greeting Cards to the nearest relative of every man in the 2nd Battalion.

COMPANY "E."

In compliance with existing orders the following report on news for the "Fort Benning News" is herewith submitted.

Again we have a new Supply Sergeant in the person of one Cecil B. Pring. We don't know much about his work yet, but he sure has started with a rush. Old "Memorandum Receipt Guilford" says he is a high ranking soldier these days. They even published a Company Order to relieve him. We don't believe it, though. That's all right, Chester, you need a little straight duty to take those kinks out of your legs. You have been "Goldbricking" too long as it is.

Sgt. Julius is a wonderful man. It must be so, he says so himself. He is on the football squad now, playing "Wayback." If he trains real hard for two or three years he may make a good water boy.

Cpl. Nelson was remarking on all the jokes he knew yesterday. Our mail orderly left when he said that. He (the mail orderly) said he was afraid Cpl. Nelson might say he knew him.

Our minor tactic platoon is improving wonderfully under the supervision of Sgts. Comeau and Julius. Sgt. Julius is the silent partner just now, but the thought of him is enough to make the boys good soldiers. They all like the way he soldiers, when he is away.

Sgt. Wachholz has promised to stay with us another month as Mess Sergeant. He says it is too cold in Milwaukee now, but personally, we think that something else has happened to change his mind about leaving us. How about it, Paul?

Capt. Brooks sailed from Charleston, S. C., as scheduled Christmas Eve, and 1st Lieut. Duvall has grabbed the reins and is doing his best to improve the company. That is almost impossible, but there is some difference. All we hope for is that he keeps command.

His service record says he is John R. Stansbury, but the boys call him "Rebel." We don't know which is correct, but the rebel part is about right. He just got back from a 14 days leave the other day, and he was walking. For his health, he said, but opinions differ. Talk about your forced issues, O Boy. He sure did store the food away. He had a "French leave," and enjoyed it immensely, in New Orleans. But the Army is the place for him, so he couldn't stay away.

COMPANY "F."

Cpl. Sutton has got the blues again. He's been asked to play basketball but seems to think that he is too short-winded, slow, top heavy, and otherwise not suitable for the game.

Wonder if T. J. M. found out the things he wished to know by his inquiries to the Phila. Evening Bulletin?

The "Blacks" beat the "Whites" at pinochle last night tho it is understood that they have a "deck" to practice with while on fatigue and other duties. How can they expect the "Whites" to compete with opposition such as that?

COMPANY "H."

Our new Company Commander plans to make many improvements in the Company for the benefit of the men. The recreation room will be the first project to be rejuvenated. There will be a new flooring put in and the whole thing will be lined with beaver board and then strips will be added to improve the looks. A fire-place will be put in which will tend to make it more comfortable, If possible the recreation room will be extended ten or twelve feet so as to have plenty of room especially when the men take a new interest in it. There will be a new set of books added and subscriptions sent in for magazines and papers.

The members of Company "H" welcome the new men coming to the company and will wish them the best of luck while with them.

"H" Company's basket ball team expects to win every game this season. We foresee nothing but victories for them.

"H" Company held a play all week.

"EVE," AT SPRINGER XMAS MATINEE AND NIGHT HAS A RADIUM PONY BALLET

A troup of English Pony Ballet dancers appear in what is termed "The Peacock" number, in the Geo. Wintz musical comedy "Eve" at the Springer Opera House matinee and night Monday, December 25th.

These dancers do what is known as the Radium Ballet, a weird fascinating dance number, where forms glow with phosporic lights, and assume all shapes and manners of form, some with legs where arms ought to be, and some with arms where legs ought to be. This act has appeared at all the leading music halls of the continent, and will be seen in Columbus for the first time.

THE NEW EDITOR.

I don't know just why I should be picked out to edit this paper, for I'll be frank about the whole thing and that is little enough, but the truth is that I do not know a single thing about the business, and as for experience; well, that is little enough for the nearest thing that I have ever done near this line was to help a small country town editor turn his printing press by hand, and when I got ambitious to be a newspaper man that small town editor was tickled to death and offered his assistance and knowledge of the game, but when it took me one whole afternoon to set a stick of type my father got something else for me to do.

But as they say you learn from your knocks, so if the readers of The News will kindly let their knocks be known we will try and mend our ways so as to please everbody, as near as possible.

One more thing—get your news to us so that we can print the news while it is new. All news should be in this office, phone 146 post, by Thursday, before 9 a. m. each week. We want to get all of the social events of the Post as well as the social events of the military personnel living in the city. Please remember that we do not know of a great number of these events unless somebody tells us and as we want to know about them, let us know!

For publication of social events call 192 post, Mrs. Sawkins.

The POST THEATRE.

The average nightly attendance for the past week was 816 per night. This is about two hundred less than it should be, but considering that a short time ago the attendance was around 500 simply shows what good pictures are doing.

The picture shown last Sunday, December 17th, "Blood and Sand," starring Rudolph Valentino, was an excellent picture. A great number of officers with their ladies were present.

Present indications are that the completion of the new theatre will go forward again shortly after the holidays. With the good pictures coming to this post and a new theatre with good ventilation and excellent vision, we have all that can be desirable in the motion picture line.

that you just can't help but feel good towards all mankind.

Then on Wednesday night, December the 27th, you should all come to the Club and enjoy the last dance of the year that will be held in the Club. Now here is a chance for some clever lady to win a prize as the hostess carefully imparted to the writer that she had arranged for a first and second prize for the best costume representing the Christmas spirit. Soldiers, come in your best uniform.

With these two functions at the Club this coming week the Club should remind an outsider that a Country Fair was in progress, judging from the good time that everybody should have who will venture near.

BALTIMORE SUN OFF THE TRACK

There is no truth more dangerous than a half truth. The Baltimore Sun, in a recent issue, devotes more than a column to telling its readers that "$24.32 is laid on each person for war costs, while all other governmental activities impose a burden of only $4.58."

The Sun states "the current war costs, including personal compensation, etc., per capita is $11.25; sinking fund for public debt, which is a war debt, $3.10; interest on war debt, $9; cost of shipping ventures started because of the war, 53 cents; cost of railroad expense arising during the war, 44 cents.

Aside from the fact that, with the possible exception of the first, there is not one of these figures with which deal to do, the whole article fails deal to do, the whole aorticle fails to mention that if the war cost a great deal, as it undoubtedly did, this cost was not so much because we went to war, as because we went to war unprepared.

The impression created by the article on the average reader undoubtedly will be that the greater part of our income "will go for military purposes, past and to come."

After every war there has been the same complaint about the expense of the war. Each time the tendency has been to ignore the fact that we have always wasted tremendous sums in an endeavor to do in a few months of war what can only be properly done by careful, gradual and economical preparation in time of peace.

For the first time in its history this country has a military policy in the form of the National Defense act. The figures submitted to Congress by the Director of the Budget clearly show, beyond any reasonable doubt, that those items which can be properly included under national defense take only 13.5 cents per dollar.

Such articles as that in the Baltimore Sun, whether published through carelessness, ignorance or with deliberate intent to work against adequate appropriations being made for national defense at the present time, create an impression contrary to the facts, and tend to encourage our people to continue in reckless indifference to proper national defense in time of peace, and as a consequense even more reckless, wasteful expenditures in time of war.

The very fact that our last war did cost, and still is costing us, such enormous sums is the very reason why a newspaper which occupies such a powerful position as that of the Baltimore Sun should emphasize the fact that by making the relatively small appropriations necessary to carry out today and in the years to come the provisions of the National Defense act, we will avoid such waste in the future.—Army and Navy Journal.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 13)

The Headquarters detachment was again moved forward on November 4th to a point one-half Kilometer east of Cunel, and again on November 6th, Headquarters was moved forward to Dun-sur-Meuse. On the 9th it was moved to a new place in Dun, a large ten-room house erected by the Germans. The stay here was for one night only, for on the 10th the station was changed to Brandeville. The Headquarters Detachment entered the town at noon, under a perfect calm, but had no sooner reached there than a terrific bombardment began. It continued all afternoon and the greater part of the night. Corporal Krebs and Private 1st Class Dean Butcher of Headquarters Detachment, and Private Venoskey of the Medical Detachment were wounded here. Butcher later died in a hospital. The boche obtained a direct hit on the Regimental Topographical wagon in which were the Regimental Standards, leaving the marks of battle on them.

Regimental Headquarters was still in the town of Brandeville when the armistic went into effect at 11:30 o'clock, the morning of November 11, 1918.

Company "A"

Company "A" took station in the Bois de Septsarges on October 27th, and from that point, daily details were sent out on road repair, after which the company was taken to the Bois de Ciusy, where a course of instruction was given in the use of French Pontoon equipment. During this stay, almost nightly reconnaissance parties were sent into the valley of the Meuse to locate a bridge site for the project of crossing the river which served as a temporary check to the advance of the infantry. While here, two of the Sergeants First Class, Emmons and Keller, were commissioned for conspicuous bravery in the attack on Romagne on October 14th.

These nightly patrols were very successful, but did not satisfy everybody concerned, so Sergeant Emmons proposed going to the proposed bridge site in daylight. in company with Corporal Pierce, he crossed the valley near Brieullas and reconnoitered the left bank from there to a point near Clercy-le-Petit. They were walking along the river near that point, when a German officer appeared on the opposite side and, by sings, invited them across. While continuing their investigation as to depth and character of the bottom of the stream, between twenty and thiry Germans joined the officer on the other bank. No one was present to act as interpreter so a sign conversation was continued, until the two engineers turned into a clump of brush which extended back almost to the bluffs on the Americans' side of the line, drawing no fire. However, as they crossed the railroad embankment, a half-dozen machine gun bullets sang over them as sort of an au revoir for this queer afternoon call.

The night of November 3rd had been selected as the night to build the first heavy pontoon bridge at Brieullas. but the infantry had been unable to establish a bridge head, hence the work was postponed until the following night. By the night of November 4th the infantry had been able to cross on the light footbridges previusly thrown over and had formed a covering party for the Engineers.

Cmpany "C" was present to assist Company "A" in the bridging of the Meuse and Canal de l'Est at Brieullas. Just at dark the boats, under the direction of Lieutenant Jacquin, were brought through Bruelles which was being heavily shelled and across the flat to the bridge site.

There was no other road over which the boats could be taken, and luckily enough both the Company and th boats arrived at the river according to schedule. The darkness and the shelling made the unloading of the boats very difficult, and to complicate matters, a batallion of the 6th Infantry came up and had to be ferried across before the bridge work could be started. The first boat was put in the water and the second lashed to it when it was found that the first was half full of water. While the first boat was being taken out and another substituted a shell fell at the edge of the water, severely wounding Corporals Shernack and Shearer and Privates Robert Bernhard and B. A. Davis. Captain Howard R. McAdams, commanding Company "A" was wounded in the arm but made no mention of it until returning to camp the following morning. It was for gallant conduct here that Captain McAdams was cited and later awarded the D. S. C.

The beginning of the bridge was greeted by a storm of machine gun bullets and one-pounder fire which gradually diminished as the infantry was able to clean out the enemy positions and establish a bridge head. The work proceeded with a few interruptions, and about 10:30 P. M. the first bridge was completed. The canal bridge was a little more difficult as the material had to be carried across the river bridge, and the intervening strip of land to the canal. The bridge was under the very muzzles of the machine gun of the enemy, but the infantry succeeded in putting them out of commission before serious damage was done, and at 3:30 this bridge over the canal was also completed and the first ocmmunication established whereby transport could cross the Meuse and follow the fleeing boche, who had at last had the hinge of the famous Hindenburg line broken by the RED DIAMOND DIVISION. A monument attesting this deed stands at the railroad crossing at Brieulles.

Company "A" now took position behind the bluff along the canal. The rolling kitchen and supply wagons of Company "A" were among the first to pass over the bridge after its completion.

Part of the company moved to Linyon the 9th and on the following day all moved to Brandeville, which was at this time being systematically shelled by the enemy guns. The cmpany camped on a reverse slope above the town to await the coming of daylight. That evening a detail was sent to the Brigade P. C., to do repair work there. The company was near Brandeville engaged in road work forward from the Brigade P. C. when the Armistic went into effect.

Company "B"

After its three-day rest at Esnes, Company "B" on October 27th marched to Septsarges and made camp in the southwestern edge of the Bois de Septsarges. From October 26th to November 3rd the company was engaged in the construction work. Reconnoisances were made nightly along the Meuse River in search of bridge sites and on the nights of October 29th and 31st the company was engaged in wiring in the first position at the northern edge of the Bois de Brieulles and the the Bois de la Cote Lamont.

At 2:30 P. M., November 4th, two platoons of Company "B" with ten attached men from Company "D" attempted to throw a footdribge across the Meuse River and Canal de l'Est east of Clery-da-Petit for the passage of the 6th Infantry, which had by corps orders been instructed to force the passage of the Meuse by daylight. Under tense direct shelling from enemy artillery and machine fire from Dun-sur-Meuse and the heights east of the Canal de l'Est, all scarcely 800 yards distant, the attempt proved unsuccessful; the boats were demolished as fast as they were launched, and severe casualties were inflicted.

On November 5th the company from the Bois de Septsarges to Clery-le-Grand. On the nights of November 5th and 6th one platoon of Company "B" constructed three bridges across the Andon river at Clery-de-Petit. On the same night the remainder of Company "B" with attached men from Companies "D", "E" and "F" constructed a heavy reinforced pontoon bridge across the Meuse river at Dun-sur-Meuse.

Motor Transport Notes

While enroute to the City of Columbus in their Scripps-Booth racer, the two Speed Kings, Pvts. Morgan and Roy Lee, met with an accident. Morgan, the driver of the car, when asked to give an account of the accident, said that he saw something coming towards him that looked like two small lights, which afterwards was found to be an Owl, and turning to let it pass, ran into something that appeared to be the broad side of a battleship. Lee, the assistant chauffeur, was thrown through the wind shield and when found was sitting alngside of the road with two beautiful black eyes and singing, "Don't Leave Me Here."

We don't see much of Cook Walburg since Mrs. (W) has arrived. Bill, you would hardly know the city, things have changed so.

Private Parker (Tight Eye) seems to be on the outs with a certain young lady. Cheer up, Kid, it won't be the case Christmas.

Someone asked our Company Clerk, what is an island? His answer was, that an island is the capital of the U. S., surrounded by old retired soldiers.

REDUCTION OF NON COM-MISSIONED OFFICERS

Passed by the Senate

As noted last week that the bills in Congress changing the per centages of grades of enlisted men whereby the non-commissioned officers would be increased is still undecided as far as the News is able to find out.

The House sub-military committee had the bill in conference last week and while they are in favor of the bill and although the chairman said that they would try to get the Bill passed before the Xmas Holidays it may be that other work demands the attention of Congress that they were unable to get the bill. The News cerainly hopes though that the Bill has been passed by the House before now if the Bill was not passed then a great injustice would be done any number of non-coms., as they will no doubt be demoted since Congress does not reocnvene again until Jan. 2nd, 1922.

BUDDY FROM BEYOND THE STARS SEES PARADE

Smokes Phantom Flag and Watches His Old Gang March.
(By MEIGS O. FROST.)

The Buddy from Beyond the Stars winged his way down to Canal Street and perched critically, knees carelessly crossed, on the lid of the great white stately tomb that rose against the background of the gray granite mass of the ancient Customhouse.

It was a splendid place to sit. Just like climbing to the crest of the Arc de Triomphe in Paris when there was a big parade of the Frenchies going down the avenue. He lit a phantom cigarrette and settled himself comfortably. Above him fluttered the good old Stars and Stripes on the Customhouse staff.

"It's a grand old rag; it's a high-flying flag!" he hummed.

Below him, on the long tiers of seats at the base of the massive shaft of the Centotaph was a bunch of pretty girls and brass hats and generals and whatnot. The slanting rays of the early afternoon sun shone warmly and made it fine and comfortable in the zippy October breeze that swept in from the river.

"Sittin' pretty right on top of the world," murmured to himself the Buddy from Beyond the Stars.

Up the wide spaces of Canal street he looked. Folks were packed thick as the old gang on the Rue de la Paix on a Saturday night.

Then there was a burst of gasoline vapor where St. Charles Street enters Canal. The crowd surged back a solid wave. Out on Canal swept a squadron of motorcycle police.

"Gee, here comes the gang," said the Buddy from Beyond the Stars. And the gang came on.

Somewhere between fifteen and twenty thousand of 'em. Stepping out with the old free swing to the crashing blare and lilt of forty bands and half a score of drum and bugle corps, in the greatest parade yet staged of all the four national conventions of the American Legion.

Same Old Gang.

The Buddy from Beyond the Stars lit another cigarrette and settled down comfortably.

"The same old sons of guns," he murmured contentedly to himself. Lord, but that sunshine felt good and comfortable.

Up in the vanguard, just back of the New Orleans mounted police, with Colonel Guy R. Molony, their superintendent, sitting his horse easily out in front. And Colonel Allison Owen, grand marshal of the parade, riding in the lead of his staff.

"Attaboy," said the Buddy from Beyond the Stars. But nobody heard him. For the white-uniformed ranks of the navy were marching down Canal Street now. Behind them came the Washington Artillery.

"Those guys look familiar," said the Buddy. "Met 'em at Camp Coetquidan near Rennes, I think, Called 'em th' 141st F. A. then."

He was right.

Down the street they stepped toward him. His eye swept on up the line. The show was only starting. Came next a detachment of infantry and some medical corps men. And then the main body of the parade swung into view.

Buddies from Alaska and Panama and Honlulu. From Mexico, wearing the huge sombreros of Mananaland. They were singing. What was it?

"All we do is sign the pay-roll.

"But we never get a——cent!"

"I'll tell the world they were there," grinned the Buddy on top of the Ceno taph.

On marched the whooping, surging mass. The Hot Springs bunch from Arkansas in bath-robes with their slogan: "Uncle Sam Bathes the World at Hot Springs." and Uncle Sam himself riding in the lead. And Panama detachment behind them, with a tropical beauty, crimson buds in her hair, dispensing smiles at the car in which she rode rolled along.

Crap-Shootin' Demons

"Oh,, you tropical kid!" grinned the Buddy. And his heart skipped a jump as one of those smiles, winging aloft went straight into it.

But here came some more of the gang. North Caroline and New Mexico. A bunch of Engineers. ("The fightin' fools! they bumped off the Henies with pick-axes! murmured the Buddy to himself.

And here came Missouri. The old sons-of-guns, riding mules and smoking corn-cob pipes! And Mississippi Those crap shootin' demons! And here was Loisiana right on their heels. Squad one squad of 'em. Louisiana beuties right with 'em, the same ones that in hospitals and canteens had been so smilingly gracious, so swift with tender hand. And a bunch with a live Pelican rolling along on a hand-cart, in lardly state. And Dreadnaught Post of the Legion—the only all-Navy post in the south.

And more Mississippi. That Vicksburg bunch of "forty-and-eighters" with their own Voiture marked with the familiar "40 hommes; 8 chevanx," drawn by a snorting tractor. And Pascagoula in a battered automobile.

By this time the head of the parade swinging around at South Peters Street, had poured into the other side of Canal and was passing the Cenotaph. Something attracted the attention of the Buddy from Beyond he Stars. He looked down.

Saluting The Buck

"The old son of guns!" They're saluting me! ME!"

For the Buddy from Beyond the Stars had been a buck private. Nobody has saluted him in all his life All he'd done was stand in line and take orders and eat his corned willie and his gold fish and sleep somewhere if he was in luck, and stop machine gun bullets and high explosive shells and win a war. Absolutely all.

But this time he was right. They were saluting him. Unit by unit, as the long line swung past the Cenotaph, flags dipped. Squad after squad snapped into the "Eyes right" Sabres flashed and glittered from sheaths and swung up in swift and glittering arcs to a staff salute. The Buddy from Beyond the Stars was getting his due at last.

There was a funny sort of feeling in the throat of the Buddy from Beyond the Stars. His eyes were moister than he had known that they could get.

"Te old hellions!" he murmured, a bit chokingly. "The fightin' old suns of guns."

But still they poured on and past him.

Oklahoma buddies with their headchaplets of brilliant India feathers. A beautiful girl from Tulsa, smiling and blowing kisses from a car. Florida buddies in their float with the bathing girls tossing oranges and pineapples and grapefruit at the earger out-thrust hands of the throng Wyoming with its big six-shooters that crashed salute as the parade rolled along. Utah with its band of veterans.

See Comrades' Antics

And then down the street—

"I-OWAY! I-O-WAY THAT'S WHERE THE TALL CORN GROWS"

On their way they came, those corn-fed sons of the black prairies, with the whimsical sign: "Iowa Corn Club. Forty Gallons to the Acre."

And then Argonne Post from Des Moines, a battered automobile, vintage of about 1890, but now horedrawn, in the lead, with "We Saw Service!" on its side. They had seen service. Take the Buddy's word for that. And McNider's Own Band from Iowa close behind them.

Then came Tennessee Ridge Runners with their parody of the Iowa song: "Tennessee! Tennessee That's Where We Make Moon SHINE!"

But the parade had only scarce begun.

The District of Columbia gang was marching past now, their bulldog mascot, head up, marching with military precision in the lead. And when they came up to they Cenotaph, that bull dog snapped his head around to the command: "Eys right!" and marched past at salute.

"Hot pup" said the Buddy from "Hot pup!" said the Buddy from Beyond the Stars. He'd had a trained mascot once, before they picked him up, a limp figure out of the Argonne's underbrush.

But still they came on. Ohio, with the Cleveland dress uniforms, a wonderful sight. With one buddy from the Ohio ranks, with one leg speeding along on two crutches and keeping perfect step to the music.

Blue Devils Swing Along

And North Dakota and Nebraska and Wisconsin. With the Wisconsin nurses bearing their banner: "Our Slogan: Piant 'em with Iodine and Mark 'em DUTY!" And the Racine post's drum and bugle corps in their white uniforms, striding along to a blare and crash that made the ripples run up and down your spine.

Then came Virginia, Rhode Island next—Little Rhody where they breed big men. And Minnesota with "Fred Lunberg, the Real Swede from Minnesota" striding on, cigar in wind chapped face.

Pennsylvania and Indiana trod behind, rank on rank of Quakers and Hoosiers.

The Buddy from Beyond the Stars drew a deep breath.

"Gee, this is great!" he said looking up the widest street in America where cheers rang and tossing hats filled the air and shouts sounded up to Heaven.

Again, with a crashing blast of martial music, a band rounded into Canal. It was the Blue Devil uniformed sons of Illinois. And behind them came another Illinois band in shining tin hats.

Oregon came swinging close behind them with the blue and white drum corps of Spartanburg, S. C., close at heel.

"Maryland, my Maryland!" crashed another band, and the men from the section where Baltimore is the big town, came tramping on as their fathers tramped before them.

A tremendous rumble filled the air. Into Canal swung the gigantic tractors with roaring exhausts, trailing the big guns in their grey-green battle paint behind them, and tanks. But their embarrassment now showed laughing, shouting faces, instead of blazing muzzles of rapid-fire guns.

BUDDY FROM BEYOND THE ....STARS SEES PARADE

"The whole damned show!" grinned the Budy from Beyond the Stars. "The whole damned gang."

And here came Alabama's men from the red clay hills. And Kansas' sons with the sunflower on their shoulders. And the colonels of Kentucky—one of them nursing happily at a red-likker flask that was tipped with a rubber nipple.

"That's how we raise fightin' fools, suh!" he told the world.

Jine the Cavalry.

South Dakota came close behind.

And then the crowd whooped deliriously. For California's sons were there in the high boots and red shirts and black wide sombreos of the Forty-Niners.

More whoops! Even more delirious. Here came Texas!

The Lone Star banner blazer in the lead. And the band!

"Ef yo' wanta have a good time, JINE TH' CAVALRY!"

Out over the throng the ancient war-song of Fitzhugh Lee's and Nathan Forrest's and Jeb Stuart's gray clad squadrons swept with its lilting, rippling thrill that all the South knew before the South joined hands with the North and stood ready to take on the whole wide world, any time, any place, and no holds of punches barred.

But still the living tide streamed on down the ancient thoroughfare. Michigan and Idaho and New Hampshire and Maine—Montana's sons in hairy chaps and the flannel shirts of the wide, free range—Massachusetts and Colorado and Connectitut with her wooden nutmeg badge.

And Vermont, the Pine Tree state with the rollicking float of pajama clad veterans from Ballard Hobart's Post No. 36.

And still they came. Washington state and New York, Delaware and Arizona and New Jersey, rank on rank.

It was West Virginia that closed the mighty pageant.

State by state, the fighting sons of America filed pas the towering shaft of the great white Cenotaph. State by state their flags dipped, their eyes snapped to "Eyes Right!" their blades flashed upward in salute.

Sunset Sees End.

One hour and forty-seven minutes by the stop-watch's tick, they moved in steady line, thousand on thousand.

They saw the Cenotaph's tall glory. They saw the empty tomb that crowned its crest.

But the Buddy from Beyond the Stars saw them!

Inch by inch as they marched by with crashing music and joyous shout, the shadow from the western sun crept up the Cenotaph's white splendor.

"Coincidence!" the callus may call it.

But as the last files of the West Virginia Buddies strode past the Legion's monument to its dead, the sun sank low behind the ramparts of the city's barracade of buildings. Scarcely as their footsteps died awawy, and the wirling crowd of watching thouands surged out into the open space, the sun dropped below the roof-line. tspaces! beMs sch fsands sEuoCY

The Cenotaph grew chill and grey in the duk.

The Buddy from Beyond the Stars flipped the butt of his ghostly cigarette out into chill and empty space.

"The same old gang," he murmured again.

The Gang in Heaven.

It was the same old gang. The gang that while life shall last will will have their mutual memories of camp and cantonment, of troop-ship and landingport, of front line trenches and the tangled wire, of first-aid station and the hospital base.

The gang that saved America. The gang that saved the world.

The Buddy from Beyond the Stars felt it. But it wasn't easy to put into words. His job had not been that of coining phrases. His job was merely to take orders and stand in line and die when the time came. And he did it.

"Gee," said the Buddy from Beyond the Stars, "Gettin' late. Wonder if old St. Peter is goin' t' mark me A. W. O. L. on this."

One more glance he gave out over the massed and swirling mob on Canal Street. And upward from the chill gray crest of the Cenotaph he winged his way homeward.

He needn't have worried. St. Peter knows when a Buddy has a license to be late. That battling old fisherman and fighter has his own memories of drawn sword. And he has grown mighty fond of Buddies these past few years.

For Heaven hold a crown for them.

SOLDIER'S PRAYER.

Now I lay me down to sleep;
I pray thee, please, my soul to keep;
Grant no other soldier take
My shoes and socks before I wake.

Try and guard me in my sleep
And keep my bunk upon its feet,
And in the morning let me wake,
Breathing whiffs of sirloin steak.

Please protect me in my dreams,
And make it better than it seems;
Grant that time may swiftly fly
When myself may rest or try.

In a snowy feather bed,
With a pillow 'neath my head,
Far away from all these scenes,
From the smell of hash and beans.

Take me back into the land
Where they scrub down with sand.
And Thou knowest all my woes,
Feed me in my dying throes.
Take me back and I promise Thee
Never more across the sea.

15th Tank Battalion News

Saturday, December 9th, Company "B's" expert mechanic and plumber, namely Frank Villines, completed the new Tank Battalion "Bowl." Immediately upon completion said "Bowl" was dedicated by Lieut. Adams, and proved a Loud success.

Sgt. "Goof" Dennis was the recipient of some great news. "Ole Bull" Swantic—can the Battalion Commander re-enlist a married man? (Because Bull got married?) ull was a good half, but he has a better one now. Luck to you, "Bull," and may all your troubles be little ones. Jordan City Queens, take notice.

Dame Fortune is playing havoc with our football team. First Swantic, and now Wooten, have left us. We are sorry that all our efforts have failed to get him to stay, but if he must go he takes with him the good will of the whole Battalion, and everyone joins in farewell to both these good soldiers and athletes.

Sometime ago our Log Hut Committee announced that we were to have another blowout. It has been definitely decided to have a vaudeville show followed by an oyster supper. Date set—Christmas Eve.

Bugs Napoli received an increase in pay. And as a result, his Q. M. deposit has increased also. Reason —? Ask Capt. Taylor.

It is reported that Sgts. Hedgecock, Stone and Kimball were seen around with their finger tips blackened. And that they will, with the aid of Sgt. Squirrell form a quartet to sing that well known ballad, "I got three years to do this in."

On the first of the month "B" Company opened up a new keg of chevrons, and as far as possible a few of the well deserved promotions were handed out. Pallies to Sgt., Sharp to Corporal, Mabry to Pvt. 1st Class S-6, and others too numerous to mention. Mabry is constantly visiting the bulletin board to see if he has read the announcement right, and is gradually recovering from the shock.

Little Dick is puzzled. He does not know which he was most glad to receive, the extra stripe or the long looked-for letter from a certain Minnesota young lady. We may all hope that you'll get another stripe, but we are certain that you'll get another letter, Dick, so why worry? (The editor wants to know if you are from Stillwater, St. Cloud or Red Wing.)

Conversation overheard in "B" Co's area any day just before noon:

Sgt. Hicks, Co. "C"—What have you got for dinner?

Sgt. Squirrell, Co. "B"—Soup.

Sgt. Hicks—Be right over.

Welcome Jimmy.

The officers of the battalion had a party in the officers' mess Tuesday night. All those in attendance report that a delightful time was had.

Cpls. Patterson and Worth are planning on starting an inn in an entirely new location. Sgt. Hicks spent some time looking over the site and Patterson and Worth are now completing arrangements for the erection of the place. So far we have failed to learn the exact name of the place, but it is somewhere near the reservation, and we are led to understand that the name was originated from a synonym for the emblem carried by the clansmen in "The Lady of the Lake," and also carried by the K. K. K., and from the last combination of sounds expressing an idea in the "Shepherd of the Hills." It is understood that two famous French chefs have been engaged, Antio Pluvius Susette and Gabriel Maion Fatte. Chef Susette is noted for being the originator of "Cleo's Creole Sauce," known the world over. When this place is open Fort Benning may boast of one of the most exclusive and best dining palaces in the South. It is assured that the service and cuisine will be excellent as the caterer employed is from one of New York's best hotels, and has had many years of experience in this line of work, and the culinary achievements of Susette and Fatte cannot be excelled. Sgt. Hicks has been affiliated with the concern as advertising manager, and under his able direction all roads will soon lead to the "Chrysanthemum Gardens." Announcement of the opening date will be made later.

"Cheese Cole," of "C" Company, has the other members of the outfit backed off the map when it comes to being a lady-killer. He boasts of having broken the hearts of thirty-nine fair damsels since he first started sojourning on this planet. He is at present seeking to win a victory over a Columbus lawyer's daughter. He bids fair to win if she does not start "nolle prosqui" proceedings in the case. She has been listening to her father's arguments for about seventeen years now and is almost qualified to fill his place when he retires, so this is certainly going to be a battle. The last hearing in the case is scheduled for Thursday night, but we are greatly disappointed that we could not make arrangements with Gloer's Agency to install a dictograph in order that we might hear this controversy. The result will be made known later, though. We wish Cole luck, but we have our doubts. The mind of a maid is fickle Liberty, who was the acknowledged best debater in the Battalion, and also claimed the State championship, has bowed his head and admits defeat. Cole admits being able to sell silk underwear to the Eskimos and other minor accomplishments (admitting it is easier than proving it) so he must be good. He is a candidate for president on Andy Gump's ticket next election, and is quite confident of victory. We would be very glad to have such a fair member of society at the Fort, so go to it, Cole.

Candea has sent to Montana for some Christmas delicacies. He says there are several kinds, to-wit: Atlantic mussels, Pacific mussels, Sealshipt mussels, and Rocky Mountain mussels. Which kind is he going to get from Montana?

In closing our program, Baron Barnett will sing that ditty entitled, "Only a Sheepherder's Daughter, With Sheep Wool in Her Hair."

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

The NCO's and Bucks of the School Division are on the target range endeavoring to add a few extra "pealocks" as Jazz Magoni calls the iron men, to their salary. Some of these "Distinguished Marksmen" do not need any preparatory work it seems as the platoon was greatly increased the first day of preliminary firing, in fact there were faces we had forgotten, and Sergeant Copass was at a loss for a few minutes when these "Experts" came rushing up to fire as he had already assigned his regular men to targets. Oh well, the old saying, "You are never too old to learn," doesn't seem to hold good with the "Sharpshooters," however, the Marksmen stand a good chance of qualifying as "Bolo" men for the lack of preparatory work.

Instructor—You get a 9 o'clock 4 in the four ring at 300 yards. How much windage do you take to get in the bullseye?

NCO's—Two of them—1 point right windage.

Instructor — Sergeant Kreilick, what have you got?

Sgt. Kreilick—"1 point left," and he expects to make Expert. He also didn't understand why the red flag was flashed at him at 200 yards.

Someone asked Jazz Magoni how he was a guide in Yellowstone Park he was a oguide in Yellowstone Park before entering the service and that he wore it off pointing out places of interest to the tourists. It is too bad this boy smokes cigarettes for if he didn't we would never miss Caruso.

Instructor—You get a 3 at 6 o'clock at 500 yards. How much elevation do you take to get in the bullseye?

Sergeant Ward answered correctly and the Instructor asked him to explain to the class how he deduced such.

Sergeant Ward—I squared the range and after getting the cube root of 25 inches I deducted the denominator from the dividend, leaving the multiple, which I substracted from the range, and after adding the quotient, I arrived at my deduction.

Instructor to Class—Do you get that?

Jazz—I have a more simple way.

Private Belton has been detailed for duty at the telephone exchange.

Branner, our well known whitehope, is working in the School division.

Someone was heard to ask Smith and Glenn if they were going to the football game Wednesoday. Pretty soft to have a holiday and be sure your name will be put on the pay roll in time.

A recent visitor in the office thought he heard about a dozen typewriters working but investigation showed it was only our Skipper tickling the old Underwood.

Sgt. Chism left for Washington to accept an invitation to appear in Congress.

Our esteemed friend and Mess Sergeant, Big Bill Stewart, is beginning to make plans for Xmas Dinner. He tells us he is going to give us a better feed Xmas than he did Thanksgiving. We don't see how he can, for he sure did put out some chow Thanksgiving.

MARY PICKFORD IN "TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY" AT RIALTO STARTING XMAS DAY

Patrons of the Rialto theatre have a treat in store for them commencing Christmas Day at the Rialto in the feature picture "Tess of the Storm Country," which stars Mary Pickford. The climax of the picture is one which makes the picture the greatest of Mary's career and though many people will think that they "have seen it before," they will do well to take the word of the management and see this picture either on Christmas day or one of the two days following.

The management has added an attraction the same week in the person of a former local boy, Ralph Pekor, who does some fancy work with the crayon which is of the highest type. Making up with both hands is out of the ordinary. Pekor paints his face and the blackboard at the same time and you are sure to enjoy his act which lasts from three to five minutes and will be shown at one afternoon performance and two night shows.

24th Infantry Notes

COMPANY "C"

The company regrets the loss of one of its most efficient Non-Commissined Officers who was retired as follows:

Headquarters 24th Infantry,
Fort Benning, Georgia,
December 13, 1922
General Orders, No 14,

Pursuant to instructions contained in paragraph 12, Special Orders No. 285, War Department, December 5, 1922, 1st Sergeant Edward W. Page, R1023206, Company C, 24th Infantry has been placed on the retired list.

Sgt. Page entered the United States Army, July, 26, 1897; has served 24 years, 10 months and 21 days and has a credits of 5 years, 1 month and 27 days double time.

He served creditably in Cuba, Philippine Islands, Mexico and the World's War.

Sergetant Page served over 22 years as a Non-Commissioned Officer.

The Commanding Officer and his Officers desires to congratulate Sergeant Page upon his well earned retirement after having completed over 30 years service and to compliment him upon his present activity, which speaks so much for the discipline and training of our army.

Sergeant Page will be remembered by all as a good soldier, attentive to duty and loyal to his superiors.

The good wishes of the entire regiment follow Sergeant Page into his well reward for long service efficiently rendered.

By order of,
COLONEL NICKLIN,
CHAS. H. McNAIR,
Acting Adjutant.

On December 16th a banquet and ball was given in honor of 1st Sergeant Page through the efforts of Captain E. C. Callahan, our Company Commander assisted by members of the company which has been exceeded by none given heretofore during which time Sgt. Page was presented with a gold watch, chain and charm as a token of rememberance to his company and regiment.

Now listen Buddy, I've something to tell you.
You must call Co. "I" and taste some of Seargent Walker's Stew.
He has it for breakfast, it is his dinner and supper dish.

It is composed sometime of Beef, Pork, Ham and Fish.
Visit the Mess Hall Tuesday, Sundays and Holidays too.
And you will always find the same old Glum Gullion Stew.

Perhaps you might sometimes feel lonely and blue.
If so, just come over and try Sergeant Walker's Stew.
You will no longer feel Sadly and Cry,
But you will be satisfied to lie quietly down and die.

COMPANY "M"

Sergeant Williams, (Dinky) our Regimental Revenue Officer must be sleeping on the job. Here it is Christmas and he has not arrested the first victim with Christmas Tea. Look out Sergeant you will be running around here all Chirstmas without a Christmas gift. The boys in Company "I" owe you a gift. You must do something to receive it. They can't give it to you for what you have done already, they think you wont appreciate it.

Medical Department Notes

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Miss Hariette Doughty, formerly Hostess to the Service Club house still has kind thoughts of this station as evidenced by the fact that she sent ten dollars to the surgical ward of the Station Hospital last week to be used in that ward to the best advantage at Xmas time.

The Fort Benning and Columbus Chapters of the American Red Cross are planning a Xmas tree, each ward at the Hospital and a stocking for each of the patients. This is certainly noble work for the Red Cross as there will be several men in the Hospital who have no friends or relatives on the "outside" and as a result would receive no package at Xmas, and what is Xmas without packages.

The Red Cross function will be held at the Hospital Xmas morning.

The Medical Department Bridge Club met at the home of Major and Mrs. Starr Moulton on Tuesday evening, December 19, 1922. It was in the form of a Christmas party. The house was prettily decorated with holly and Mistletoe and toys for each child, were distributed from a beautiful minature Christmas tree. The prizes were won by Colonel Haywood Hansell, Mrs. Robert Tobias and Captain Phillip Green. After the game delicious Lobster Newbprg in pattie shells, with coffee were served. The next party will be held at the home of Captain and Mrs. Phillip Green. Quarters, 23-31 on Tuesday evening, January 2nd.

2nd Lieutenant Mary E. Cavanaugh, Army Nurse Corps, who has been on duty at this station for the last two years, has received orders transferring her to Fiztsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Colo. The loss of Miss Cavanaugh will be keenly felt by all. The good wishes of the entire Medical Department personnel goes with Miss Cavanaugh.

2nd Lieut. Isabell Mulick, Army Nurse Corps, who has been sick in hospital for some time will leave Saturday, December 23rd for Fitzsimmons General Hospital, for further treatment. The early recovery of Miss Mulick is hoped for. Miss Cavanaugh will accompany Miss Mulick (as attendant) on the trip.

Captain Dan C. Campbell, Medical Corps has returned from a thirty day leave of absence which was enjoyably spent in Florida.

Major A. J. Bayley, Medical Corps, has returned from a sixty day leave of absence, incidentally it was his honeymoon, enjoyably spent in Florida and Cuba.

The Christmas holidays make one think of home and althongh all are not lucky enough to receive furloughs and leaves the following drew the "Capital Prize" this year:

Lieut. Colonel James W. Van Dusen.
Major Thomas L. Smith.
Captain H. A. Callahan,
Captain H. W. S. Hayes.
Sergeant W. C. Cullifer.
Corporal Willis Bailey.
Private's Chandler, Hull, Roland, Lipham, Castle and Christopher.

Private Merrill Naylor, who recently had the misfortune to receive a serious injury to his eye, thereby losing the sight of the injured member, left today for Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., for treatment and probable discharge.

Private 1st Class Isaac Perry, discharged on December 16, failed to see the advantage of re-enlistment and left the day of his discharge for Texas.

Althongh we have lost one man by discharge this week, we have had three men join for duty. If this could happen every time a discharge rolls around the detachment would soon be up to strength.

Sergeant Harry A. Shirtzinger, who has been on duty at the hospital since September 1919, received his discharge on the 23rd of this month. After twelve years of service he has decided that the advantages on the "Out-Side" are better than "In-Side". Possibly the "better half" has some thing to say on the subject.

2nd Lieut. Elizabeth March, Army Nurse Corps, is enjoying a thirty day leave of absence in "Sunny" Tennessee.

Salts.

Ring W. Lardner, a scribe or renown,
In the Cosmopolitan, approaches,
The crest of imagination, when he cites in his poem
That "a home ain't a home without roaches."
I'm no Ring W. Lardner, or scribe of renown,
But I can see a thing's virtues and faults.
What I'd like to know, in this militant town,
Is, what would we do without the salts?

Have you ever been to the Medico's lair?
Where they dish out the salves, balms and pills,
Where they treat you the same, be you homely or fair,
Where they fix up your breaks, pains and ills.
To skip drill or fatigue, you kid yourself that you're sick,
But the thermometer don't lie, the mercury goes to normal then halts.
The Captain Doctor is wise, he is up to your tricks.
He prescribes the old standby, "two ounces of salts."

You have oft' settled down, to read your newspaper thru,
From front page to last, advertisements and all.
The adv. of some cure-all reads like it is true,
Your symptoms you imagine, then your spirits do fall.
You spend many dollars testing out many dopes,
Or some advertised remedy, made by Faken and Smaltz.
You could save all this money, and restore shattered hopes,
If you'd go to the infirmary, and get you some salts.

Infantry School Wins Over Auburn's Tigers

SCORE 39—32

AN ADDITIONAL FIVE MINUTES OF PLAY REQUIRED TO DETERMINE WINNER.

Last night's melee was the first real game of the season for the dwellers of the flats of the Upatoie. There is still much to be done to the aggregation to make them the winning team the Infantry boasted last year. But considering the loss of Cranston, Johnson, and McQuarrie, three of the very classiest performers on the resined board, the Benning mentors have developed a quinttete that will be hard to stop in this neck of the proverbial woods. Last night the Auburn chaps rushed the Doughboys off their feet in the first few minutes of play and before the latter could organize their defensive they had chalked up ten points. This points to a necessity for brushnig up this department of the game. The offensive is slow to start but once on its way is difficult to solve. Loyal enthusiasts of this fast and rugged game have some real treats in store for them when they se ethe perfected team work of the Benning pluggers.

The first half ended last night with Auburn on the long end of a 16-15 tally. This they deserved. They simply outplayed the local team in this period. Taking the tip on most every jump from center they rushed the ball down the floor and before the startled Doughboys could amass their defensive ran the welkin for two points. And they didn't have to be right under the basket to cage the sphere either, shots from anywhere on the floor featured their scoring. Harrison earned a hearty round of applause from the galleries when he looped one from midfloor, the ball passing through the hoop without so much as touching it. It was a beautiful shot.

With about four minutes of the first half left to play the Infantry found themselves and began a little tallying of their own. They had settled by this time and the Auburn gents found an impregnable defense facing them on every front. Our own Luther Smith must have felt his tooth slipping because he opened up and skipped circles around the opponents. George Honnen found himself, too, and began breaking up Auburn's here-to-fore moving passes. Inspired by the actions of these two lads the rest of hte quint took on new life and when the whistle blew for the end of the period the Gravel Disturbing Soldiers were playing stellar ball.

During the intermission Coach Skid Griswold, the star of many games on this very same floor, must have injected some of the well known tobasco into his noble cohorts.

The second half found the two teams playing neck and neck. Auburn opened with a rush once again and snapped six points on the wing. Doughboys evened this up, less one point, and then the fight against time began. Both fives played superhuman ball. Rushing about with their tongues most hanging out they scampered about the pineboards at a break-neck speed. It wasn't so easy this time for Auburn to carry the ball the entire length of the floor. And the same is true of the Infantry. Auburn was as stubborn as ever, bitterly contesting every point. Two evenly matched teams have never played in this neighborhood. The crowds were cheering wildly and keeping their attentions divided between the play in front of them and the score board at the end of the gym.

When the whistle blew terminating the game the score was deadlocked at 32-32. An extra five minute period was then called. But scarcely had the period opened when Rock scampered down the floor and caged one, making the score 34-32. But this was not decisive enough for the wearers of the Blue. A free throw by Rock added one omere poi 35-32. Then from somewhere out of the fog appeared George Honnen to throw one from the field. Auburn was desperate. Try as they could, they simply could not add to their 32. They tried shots from every position on the floor, but Fate was agin' 'em. With but 30 seconds to play Honnen again threw a field goal, making the final score 39-32.

For the visitors, the whole team starred. They had beautiful teamwork on the offensive and nearly as good on the defensive. They showed the results of

First Battalion 29th Infantry Defeats Second Battalion

By JOHN DOUGHBOY

During a cold, misty rain on a slushy field the First Battalion won the first leg of the post-season series for the post football championship yesterday afternoon at Fort Benning by trouncing the Second Battalion of the 29th Infantry by the score of 19 to 6. The First Battalion was badly off in their playing and clearly showed the staleness of the condition, but the boys of Major Hatfield so badly outclassed the Second Battalion that their weakness was only apparent to the coaches and sideline experts.

The score does not indicate how badly the Second Battalion was outplayed. They were rushed off their feet and made only three first downs during the entire game. Their touchdown came in the fourth period as the result of an intercepted forward pass which "Lanky" Davis hooked from the air and ran 40 yards before being tackled. With this dazzling run to encourage them the Second Battalion picked up their courage and dashed madly at the First Battalion line until Left Halfback Parrish plunged through for a touchdown.

The much heralded tricky plays of the Second Battalion and their snappy forward passes failed of execution. This may have been due to the inclement weather and the slippery ball but nevertheless the Scond Battalion simply could not advance and were repeatedly forced to punt. Several itmes they elected to take a chance and always lost the ball on downs.

Perhaps it was due to the murkiness of the day or frozen hands but the First Battalion seemed to lack the strength and dash of its former victories. Fumbling was frequent and long runs were scarce although "Big" Wally and Romploski repeatedly plunged through the weak line of the Second Battalion for substantial gains. And then it may have been the Second Battalion were downcast at the loss of Cloekner, their star halfback.

The victory of the First Battalion eliminated the Second Battalion from further consideration in the series for the post championship. The only reason the Second Battalion was ever considered as having championship caliber was because earlier in the season they defeated the First Battalion by the score of 7 to 6. As that was the first defeat the First Battalion had suffered in three years it necessitated a play-off.

Nex Wednesday afternoon the First Battalion plays the "Tanks" and that game the championship of the post will be decidede.

2. France owes 50 per cent of her resources.
3. Italy owes about 50 per cent of her resources.
4. Germany owes 300 times her resources.
5. Japan owes a little less than 5 per cent of her resources.
6. United States owes 6 1-2 per cent of her resources.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

Friday, December 15th, being the 21st anniversary of the birth of Captain Thomas J. Quinn, of Malden, Mass., the captain delightfully entertained a large group of his fellow officers in his apartments in Block 21.

The charming host wore a lovely costume of ragged olive drab, the color that is so popular at Fort Benning. On his left breast he wore the decoration of the Comme de Terre, with two rotten spots.

With the host in he receiving line were Captain Varmilyea with his report book, Captain Warden with his shooting alibis, Captain Stang with a beautiful sore lip, and Lieutenant Hopf with a ladder on his manly chest.

The tea table was precided over by Lieut. Dolan, charmingly arrayed in the lovely blue unionalls that are worn by the officers taking the machine gun course. The lieutenant's cherry smile and greetings were evenly distributed among the guests as they lined up before his table.

During the course of the evening, several of the guests were called upon to speak. Captain Vermilyea took this opportunity to commend the officers of his platoon for their willing promptness in falling in at all times. His address was received with enthusiasm and he sat down amid wild applause in which the word "Razzberry" was easily detected.

As the holiday season is so close, it was suggested that the gathering sing Christmas carols. Led by Captain Easley's adenoid tenor the sweet music welled from a hundred parched throats until the family in the apartment below threatened to send for the military police.

After playing a group of charming games, such as drop the handkerchief, London bridge and bean bag, the guests were regaled with a dainty lunch of sperm oil and powder solvent, served by Lieut. Gilchrist, acting mess officer.

While the lunch was in progress, a fight developed among the members of the seventh squad of the rifle platoon, and the rest of the guests quickly took sides.

After assuring their host that a lovely time was had by all the guests reluctantly disappeared , agreeing among themselves that the next party should be held in a pyramidal tent where there would be much more room.

Alibis on the ready line.

The other day Lieut. Singletary made an especially dumb remark and one of the other officers asked him how he ever managed to get a commission. Here is Singletary's explanation in his own words: "Well, I'll tell you. An outfit was being formed in my town and on the date set for muster, it took most of the night to collect the members of the company. The gang being finally rounded up, it was discovered that there was no second lieutenant. The mustering officer refused to muster them in without a complete quota of officers and a frantic search was made for someone to fill the vacant place. As it was then about 3 in the morning and the case was desperate, somebody thought of me. A detail was sent to my house and after a great deal of pounding on my door, managed to awaken me. When I stuck my head out of a window and asked them what they wanted, one of them yelled, "Do you want to be a second lieutenant?" I said that I did and they made me get up and dress and accompany them to the armory, where I was sworn in on the spot."

Hey, Captain, those guys in the pit are not marking me right.

* * *

Add to foolish conversations.

Lieut. Light: Say, Captain Vermilyea, somebody said that you want to see me.

The Captain: No, I don't want to see you.

Lieut. Light: Why?

I would have had a possible, if the wind hadn't died out.

* * *

Lieut. Goldfedder is issuing a challenge to fight any man in the class that can train down to his size and weight.

* * *

Some of the officers thought there was a new arrival but after an investigation it was discovered that it was Captain Van Horn, of Oregon. The cause of the failure to recognize the captain was that he came out from behind the brush that he wore for several weeks.

* * *

Lieut. Wilson, of Georgia, has been appointed official receiver of all distinguished guests to the area. The Lieut. has been suitably decorated with the badge of office.

* * *

I wonder if Captain Brown has his puttee fixed yet.

* * *

Famous sayings by more or less famous men.

Captain Steen: Everybody out, in there.

Captain Perrine: Forward, column left, MARCH.

Captain Ward: Now at Camp Perry—

Lt. Singletary: How about a ten minutes break.

Lt. Pearson: Aw don't walk so fast.

Capt. Vermilyea: I'll take a report when you fall in.

Lt. Dolan: Now that guy, Gilchrist—

Lt. Gilchrist: Now that guy, Dolan—

Capt. McCord: Lieut. Rose absent.

Capt. Miller: When half of your bullets go wide in the ditch—

Lieut. Robinson: Now what was that number?

Capt. Bateman: I guess that you have all heard of the 29 Division.

All instructors: Give me your attention please, gentlemen.

One day last week the rain drove the rifle section off the range and they were told that if it was still raining at 1 o'clock that they should should report to the lecture hall. It was raining slightly and the platoon leader was in doubt as to the proper course to take. While he was making his estimate of the situation and before he arrived at a decision, Captain Glasgow drove up and announced that the shooting was called off and that the platoon should march to the lecture hall, bringing their rifles. Several members of the platoon asked to be allowed time to get their coats and belts as they were to have their pictures taken for he "Doughboy" that evening and it would save them a long trip. Permission was given and they put on their blouses and belts and reported back to the platoon. In the meantime the rain stopped and it was decided to go ahead with the shooting. Whereupon, the boys that had dressed up for the photographer again beat it back and changed into their shooting clothes. It was necessary to chase the pit detail half way across the prairie, as they had called it a day and were on their way to bunk fatigue for afternoon. As I was one of those that changed his clothes two or three times, I was late for the formation to march to the range, and followed the pit detail closely all the way out. From the remarks that were dropped by the members of the detail, who did not know that they were overheard, it was plainly evident that the embryo Expert Riflemen were far from being popular with that particular gang. In fact, if wishes were facts our area would look like a battlefield cemetery.

ABOUT THE BUSSES

Aug. 13th, 1921, to and including Dec. 12th, 1922:

ROUND TRIPS—Columbus—Fort Benning ..... 13,451
PASSENGERS HAULED ..... 369,267
SCHEDULES MISSED ..... 7
INJURED IN ACCIDENTS ..... NONE

They leave Columbus every hour on the hour from 5:00 a. m. until midnight, and "then some" if there are a sufficient number going out to pay actual operating expenses. They have taken out loads as late as 2:10 a. m. They leave the Fort every hour from 6:00 a. m. until midnight.

These schedule busses go whether there are any passengers or not. It often happens that they do not earn enough to pay for the gasoline and driver, but they go—

When necessary there are extra busses to supplement the 5:00 a. m. schedule bus to the Fort in order that all who wish may make reveille. There are always "extras" in the afternoon to provide for travel in excess of the capacity of the schedule busses.

It is not often that there are not suffcient busses provided even on the first Saturday afternoon after pay day, and even on such occasions they are crowded for only a short time. On the afternoon of Dec. 2nd, which was the first Saturday afternoon after pay day, some of the busses actually waited for loads, and we hauled 1508 passengers on that day.

Easy riding—they are equipped with specially tempered very long elastic springs — rubber insulated springs—schackles, Overman cushion tires and spring upholstering.

In cold weather the passengers are more comfortable than they would be in taxicabs.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Bill Has Not Passed The House Yet

As stated in the News last week that we were unable to find out if the House had taken any action on the bill before it, for the increase of percentage of the Non-Commissioned Officers in the Army, we now know that no action was taken, and as Congress is having a recess this week, no action can be taken until after the first of the year.

However, in the meantime the War Department has seen fit to delay the demotion of Non-Commissioned Officers as prescribed in Cir. 275 W. D., 1921, to March 31st, 1923.

This is certainly an excellent Xmas and New Year's present to you worthy men. The News certainly has hopes that the House will pass the bill without delay as soon as it reconvenes.

There Was Big Doings At Service Club No. 1

A FULL WEEK ALL THE WAY AROUND.

The Service Club was filled to capacity and many could not get in and had to return to their barracks and homes for lack of room, but all of those who were able to get in report having had a very enjoyable evening.

The beautiful Christmas tree, which had been prepared for the children's party on Saturday afternoon, was still in all of its glory and added to the appearance of the Club. Beside the tree, the building was decorated in red and green crepe paper streamers and holly. The members of the decoration committee were Sgt. Green, I. S. D., Sgt. Byernstol, 7th Engineers, Pvt. Sergmunt, 29th Infantry, Pvt. Hershoft, I. S. D., Pvt. Swall, 29th Infantry, and Pvt. Nelson, 29th Infantry, assisted by various other soldiers.

The informal entertainment was a great success from every point of view and all persons taking part are to be highly commended for their efforts.

The stage was built by Drum Major Wagner, and the gaily decorated Xmas tree was the back drop.

Sgt. Byenstol, master of ceremonies, showed adapt ability along this line. The entertainment consisted of different stunts, such as who could whistle first after eating a soda cracker; a piece of candy tied in the middle of a string and then two men putting each end of the string in their mouth, the winner being the man who got to the candy first; etc. Pvt. Rogers put on a strong arm stunt, and it would be well if our Fourh Corps champion boxers gave Rogers a wide path. Pvt. Talson and Sequest

First Christmas of the 24th Infantry in Georgia

IT WAS SOME DAY.

In honor of the anniversary of the birth of Christ, the one thousand nine hundred and twenty-second, the officers and enlisted men of the 24th Infantry and Medical Detachment (attached) enjoyed the usual Feast of Nativity, Monday, December 25th, from 1:30 to 11 p. m., at their various mess halls and Service Club. As a great poet has said, "At Christmas, eat, play, and make good cheer; for Christmas comes but once a-year," each one played his part toward this great command and the One whom we honor on this day, giving full measure of devotion.

The Christmas Feast began in each dining room with remarks in honor of the day followed by reverence in which all were mindful of the many things for which to be proud and greatful, dedicated to the great task remaining before us; not from the grand old masters; not from the bards sublime, whose footsteps echo through the corridors of Time, but from He who has gone before, with honor, and faith and a sure intent, that strings like a white-hot band.

Although we appreciate how keenly those who are absent feel the disappointment of their failure to participate with us, we rejoice together with them in the prospect of a happy and joyous Christmas, and trust that they will remember in the performance of military duty to one's country in the time of war or peace, it is not for the countryman to select the kind of service to be done by him, nor where, however, we join them in the successful prosecution of the cause.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Service Club of the 24th Infantry, which was most beautifully decorated, and with a burdened tree surmounting the rostrum, which had not then been visited by Santa Claus, and with the presence of Colonel Benjamin P. Nicklin, Commanding Officer, 1st Lt. Chaplain Maurice W. Reynolds, in charge, and Warrant Officer Joel P. Elazier, United States Army, Band Leader, the following most satisfactory in every way program was rendered:

PROGRAM.

1. Sacred March—24th Infantry Band.
2. Joy to the World—Potpouri, by Barnhouse—24th Infantry Band.
3. Responsive Reading—Chaplain and Congregation.
4. Hymn, No. 36, O Come All Ye Faithful—24th Infantry Choir and Congregation.
5. Christmas, Christmas, Christmas—William McCauley.
6. Scripture Lesson — Chaplain Reyolds.
7. Christmas Carols—Marie Quander.
8. Prayer—Chaplain Reynolds.
9. Christmas Bells—Beatrice Quander.
10. Hymn, No. 31, Joy to the World—24th Infantry Choir and Congregation.
1. Recitation—Severina and Archie Williams.
2. Solo, Birth of Christ—Dorothy Simmons.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Well, Record Firing is history now for the N. C. O.'s and Bucks of the School Division. When the smoke of battle cleared away there were only seven men to be found who had survived the old, old struggle, while the remainder had to be content with sharpshooter and marksman. The old saying still holds good for the majority, "Uncle Sam laughs at you at the last range;" the writer of this article knows the above to be true, along with a few others who made 290, so near yet so far. One of the men figured it out at about $8.00 a point. The old alibi (Mr. Weather) had something to do with it, for the first day we fired for record, two of our distinguished marksman (now extinct) trigger fingers froze to the trigger at 200 yds. off hand and one of them had to have his finger amputated. All Doubting Thomases see Staff Sgt. Jazz Magoni. The following named men entered the Hall of Fame: Copass, Ellis, Strickland, Bilyen, Courtwright, Gasser and Ward of deducing fame. Sgt. Strickland led the procession with 312 points, while Sgt. Bilyen was a close second with 311. The above scores are considered remarkable considering the zero weather we had the first day.

The following incident was reported during the preliminary firing, which seems unbelieveable, but one of our Staff Sergeants vouches for same. A Master Sergeant thought he would have time to fire the course and he and his coach went up to the firing point and he was five minutes loading his piece, in fact the coach had to show him how it was done. Does sound a little funny, especially when the party in question expects to retire soon. We are wondering where he has been keeping himself all this time.

One of our sergeants went over the top during preliminary but for record he had to be content with marksman. Oh, well, Sgt., another year will soon pass away and then you will be able to make the grade providing you squeeze the lemon.

Staff Sgt. Gasser, the A. E. F. Champion, needed 40 at the last range and he showed the boys how it was done when he knocked out 47. To Sgt. Bilyen goes the palm for all we could hear at 200 yds. off-hand was, Sgt. Bilyen 1st, 2nd and 3rd shots for record a five and so on and if it had been a warm day he would have probably put all ten of them in the center of the Bull.

Once again the Detachment put the Waldorf Astoria to shame, for on Christmas day we had one big dinner. The mess hall was decorated with evergreens in true hodilay manner and an excellent jazz orchestra kept a counter strain to the sound of rubbing against home-made pies. Most of the married men had their families present and the kiddies were each given a toy. Several officers and their ladies were present, among them being Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey, Lieut. Buracker's mother and his brother, Lieut. Buracker, United States Navy. Staff Sergeant Stewart and his assistants in the kitchen are voted thanks by the entire Detachment for the success of the dinner.

Sergeant McNutt has just been promoted from Corporal.

Master Sergeant Nadeau has been transferred from the 29th Infantry but will remain on duty with his former outfit.

Christmas Day sixty-eight recruits came in from Fort Slocum, via Charleston, S. C. They arrived just in time for the big dinner. There are many likely looking men in the bunch and the detachment hopes to get all those assigned to Infantry.

Private Glenn, the ever ready personnel clerk, is spending the holidays at home.

Sergeant Mulqueeny, who soon retires, has been promoted to Master Sergeant, and Ora Collins, Edgar Hendricks, Morris Weinburg, Henry Kahler and William Seigmund have been made Sergeants.

Santa Claus presented eighteen new corporals with their stripes and warrants: O'Hara, Morgan, Jones, Lowder, Fuller, Grey, Hodge, Chestnutt, White, Walters, Johnston, Carrol, Griffin, Collins, Lofgren, Mills and Bickley.

MADAME PETROVA IN "THE WHITE PEACOCK"

Modernity is emblazoned through the story of Olga Petrova's new play, "The White Peacock," which comes to Springer Opera House Tuesday night, Jan. 2. with Petrova herself playing the leading role.

"Reminiscent in theme of Ibsen," declared the metropolitan critics where "The White Peacock" was seen all last season. But Petrova's play begins where "Nora" slams the door, with the decision of the intelligent modern woman to live her own life, yet allowing the dictates of heart and brain to be her justification. Treating her subject scientifically, Madame Petrova has yet delved deep into the Romanticist school. "By Ibsen out of Hugo" is the adroit way in which her play has been described; for not only is it a piece of sound dramatic literature, but it is colored with all the sensuous loveliness of Spain. There is the song of the palpitant lover in a wailing minor key, the heavy aroma of orange trees, nightingales and moonlight and the rich purple of semi-tropical bouganvilleas. In the midst of this appealing setting steps for the statuesquely beautiful Revette, portrayed by Petrova herself, in her matchless manner. Revette di Riberay Santallos is the wife of the aspiring Don Miguel, a Spanish Dignitary whose unfaithful love she refuses to accept. Being an artist, she is able to live independently and, although Don Miguel threatens her, she refuses to return home, and she even turns a deaf ear to the Spanish law, which would compel her to do so. Don Caesar di Mendiozay Gonzales, an escaped convict, convicted unjustly of the murder of his father when Don Miguel was Chief Justice, comes to Revette's studio in the dead of night seeking revenge. But instead of murdering Revette, he falls in love with her and later becomes her model. Don Miguel, of course, recognizes him and from this point complications ensue, which make up three tense acts of suspense, riveting the interest to the very last curtain. The love scenes in the play are particularly captivating, often verging on tragedy, but terminating at the wished for finale. In the supporting cast will be seen artists such as Mitchell Harris, Robert Brister, H. H. McCullum, Messinger Bellis, Judson Langill, Ludmilla Toretzka, Doris Carpenter, Letha Walters. The Selwyns are sponsors for this production.

Motor Transport Notes

With the able support of Captain Thad C. and Mrs. Knight (father and mother) of Motor Transport Co. 100, also with the kind assistance given by the enlisted men's wives, the Christmas tree was beautifully decorated for the occasion, which was held on Christmas eve. The Christmas exercises were enjoyed by the organization, friends and visitors. The tree was surrounded with gifts for each member of the organization. Santa Claus made his appearance at 7:30, viewing the tree and the many gifts that surrounded it; then he greeted the organization, friends and visitors with greetings of the holidays by making the evening one of the most enjoyable one of the year. He had gifts for the honorable guests and families. The honored guests were Lt. Col. W. O. Smith and family, Capt. Thad C. and Mrs. Knight, Master Sgt. June and family.

Question—Why is it that Pvt. Brown, our flat brush artist, cannot enjoy an evening of pleasure with his Cleveland (Vamp)?

Answer—His undesirable comrades keep him scuffling for a place by telling his Cleveland (Vamp) of his Georgia Brown and the history of his past life.

Question—Pvt. Campbell, M. T. C. (Vamp) desires to learn why it is he cannot vamp a Miss Green?

Answer—He came in with the lost lot.

Question—Why did Pvt. Washington (the Baltimore Kid) keep under cover on Christmas?

Answer—Only to prevent Miss Georgia from seeing the position which Miss Pittsburg was holding.

Question—Pvt. Parker, why were you appointed K. P. for the holidays?

Answer—Just because I made a ztouchdown in the Bammas.

Pvt. Hawkins (The Boy Child) carried the Wynnton down while scuffling on the road somewhere out of town, causing Sweet Papa DI-D-DO to go down before reaching Shady Rest.

The Motor Transport Santa Claus says he is sorry that he could not be with the boys Christmas night, and says to tell Private Mack Davis if there are any calls from the city just tell them that I am not at home.

Private Mosely (ex-pill roller and one time Presidentie of the Pampanga Prov., P. I.) was called on Christmas eve to say a few words, and after taking the position of a Dis-Mounted Trooper, says he was glad that he was a member of the M. T. C.; just then something went wrong with his collar ornaments and the word we heard him say was (AMEN).

IF THE SHOE FITS, WEAR IT; IF IT DOESN'T, THEN—

When Marshall Foch toured the United States shortly after the world's war, he was entertained in Denver. During the entertainment some member present made the remark that the Marshal's politeness was all "air." The marshal happened to overhear the remark and turned to the speaker saying: "Perhaps so, but don't you put air in your automobile tires, thereby smoothing the roads of your journey, either for pleasure or for business?"

We believe that the above could be more generally applied than it now is. At present there seems to be a tendency toward airs of "hard-boiledness," "disagreeableness," "discourtesy." Of course a certain few can be hardboiled with impunity. A genuinely "hardboiled" man is liked and respected. He is just, treating all alike. But his imitator is quickly detected and heartily disliked. He mistakes courtesy and respect for weakness and lack of determination. He wants to impress every one he meets with the idea that his wonderful brain can make correct decisions without knowledge of the subject and without hesitation. What is his usual answer? Just plain "No." Why did he say "No"? Simply to impress his hearer with the fact that he is mentally alert and accustomed to making snap decisions. The result is that these "Nos" have become so common that little attention is paid to them; the matter is taken up again and often a snappy "No" is changed to a "yes." Not every proposition can be answered with "yes," but how much pleasanter it is to receive a courteous refusal with reasons given after a few minutes devoted to "thinking it over."

By a courteous person we do not mean a wishie washie limp individual who "just can't decide what I should do"—or who seeks the advice of several and then decides on a path of least resistance, one which requires no definite decision. This sort of person is always trying to "pass the buck." A buck passer is in the same class with the "would-be hard-boiled" person and they are two classes of individuals that the world could nicely do without.

But the courteous individual who greets you with a smiling "What can I do for you today?" listening to your proposition, considering it carefully, and rendering his decision with reasons for it, is the person entitled to, and receiving your respect. When his reasons for a refusal of your respect are courteously given, you will often see the matter in a different light.

Isn't it a pleasure to meet a courteous individual knowing that your greeting and smile will be returned? Don't you have a deep feeling of genuine respect for him and don't you try just a little harder to please him when you know that he is a MAN who is considerate and has sincere regards for the rights and feelings of others instead of trying to create the impression of the great EGO.

Let's all get together and use a little of the "air" Marshal Foch uses. It costs nothing and smooths the journey over life's road. Let us leave behind a few friends instead of the epitaph—"He was a buck passer," or "He thought that he could be hard-boiled and get away with it." But if it is impossible to use the "air"—let's be genuinely hard-boiled, not an unjust imitation.

If the shoe fits, wear it. If it pinches pare your corns to relieve the pain. We have no particular individual or individuals in mind. Its just the feeling in the atmosphere which has seemed to reach the proportions of an epidemic.

Next week we will write about Saluting. If you don't like this, don't read the one next week.

A DESIRED IMPROVEMENT.

The intersection of the two roads at the Post Flag Pole is a more or less dangerous place, especially if you drive along Siegerfoes Ave. towards Block 23. Just as you pass the flag pole, going toward Block 23, there is quite a large space leveled off and make you believe that the road goes straight ahead. Also on the right hand side of the road there is a wide foot path that can easily be taken for the road. But if you should try either one of these you come to a sudden stop, because there is a deep ditch that follows the outer edge of the smooth place.

The Editor has seen two cars in this ditch and no doubt there have been more.

Since other places are being improved and made safer in the Post it seems that a railing, painted white, would be very desirable at this place.

SANTA CLAUS!

Upon the completion of the best program in the history of the 24th Infantry, and followed by the announcement that Santa Claus was on his way, the eager eyes of the anxious children starred the hearth of the old chimney of the Service Club incessantly.

There was that upon their faces that gave all watchers pause; for they had refrained from conversation, merely turning their heads, looking at one another. Soon Santa Claus, with white hair, long beard, and a smiling face, carrying a pack, was sighted in the hearth and instantly clearing himself from the chimney, and very heavy ladened, moved triumphantly toward the barren Christmas tree. Little "Sam" Merrill acted as chief adviser, telling Santa how good all had been "just before Christmas."

The lonely hearts of the children soon came into their own in the presence of Santa Claus.

As the day grew grayer and grayer, a masterly game of basketball between the 24th and Columbus "Y" christened the evening's activities, the 24th winning by a score of 21 to 20.

With the coming of any number of visitors, nightfall overtook us, but nevertheless at the set hour the "Barn Dance" was begun, but was soon interrupted by a 10-reel picture entitled "Loves of Pharaoh." This, however, did not prevent the resumption of the dance as soon as the last reel was shown.

Lightly charged fireworks kept us mindful of the event and no small number was discharged.

After strenuous efforts by the little ones to keep awake, many were forced to resort to rest, and their day was done where they were.

It is a hard task to pick out one person by name and say that the splendid success of such a glorious, happy, merry and enjoyable Christmas is due to his or her hard work; but it can be truthfully said that the larger part was due to the earnest efforts of one who is about to be separated from us, Chaplain Maurice W. Reynolds, assisted by many other enthusiastic helpers who belong to the regiment.

With the earnest hope of a Happy and Prosperous New Year to all we remain,

29th Infantry News Notes

SERVICE COMPANY.

Another year has gone by, and how many of us can look back upon the past and say to ourselves, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant?"

In the coming new year His Satanic Majesty is on the alert and instructions have been given to his millions of imps to collect paving stones for future use in his domains.

It is wonderful and majestic, the system of boulevards and roads, the material of which has been furnished by us mortals, represented by resolutions which have been made with all due consideration and faith for our good conduct to begin the new year with, but as it is "human to err, and divine to forgive," and we all hope to that the Almighty forgive us for our misdeeds which we unconsciously may have committed, and let us hope that, as we have a moon, which scientists say has quite an influence on the tides of the different oceans and seas on this planet—that such influence will not permeate our gallant company, men to become in the same condition as our beautiful moon will be about the first of the coming year, and thus gratify the ambition of His Satanic Majesty and his millions of imps, and that all good resolves may be adhered to with "self-will and determination," not to be shaken from its foundation, and by so doing, checkmate the ambitious desires of the Arch Fiend Mephistopheles, and that he may return to his domains with his hosts of imps, and the Service Company men (who are the best in the regiment) will see that they don't put any obstacles in their own way to further the ends of His Majesty from below. The first thing to do is to "know thyself" and in order to do that, he must master himself.

It may be that he may have obstacles to surmount and combat, but here, I presume we should have used the singular, as the one only obstacle which creates the most trouble to mankind is, HIMSELF; and until he has done that, he cannot truthfully say, "I know myself;" and let us begin the new year with that resolution, with the firm resolve that His Satanic Majesty will not fall heir to such resolutions before the year has fairly begun, and the Service Company as a unit voice the sentiment of good will with, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Man," and a Prosperous, Happy and Blameless New Year.

1st BATTALION HEADQUARTERS.

1st Lieut. W. H. Vinson, our company commander, has returned from leave, enjoyably spent with relatives and friends in Atlanta, Georgia.

Private Elzie A. Hall, of this organization, received a visit from St. Nicholas night before Xmas. He was rudely awakened from his sonorous slumbers to find that his socks were very neatly arrayed at the foot of his bunk filled with presents galore, consisting of hair brushes, combs, tooth paste, shoe polish and several lumps of coal and many other miscellaneous articles too numerous to mention.

Privates Adcock and Harrison are spending a Xmas furlough in Newnan, Ga., and are presumably enjoying the company of a Georgia Peach or two from Troup County.

Pete Blake is spending a Xmas furlough in Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Any one desiring instructions in the thrilling game of Pinochle, apply to Sgt. Freeman. Classes day and night.

The Tanks are highly elated over the weather outlook today, for it looks like they are going to have at least one more day to live before their annihilation at the hands of the "Galloping 1st Battalion." For the weather man, at least, is in sympathy with them.

2nd BATTALION, HDQ. CO.

I suppose "E" Company must admit that we gave them a stiff fight in Tuesday's basketball game. We kept them stepping out all thru the game.

There have been transfers and more transfers within the Second Battalion and from outside sources to Companies of the battalion going on all along, but Headquarters Co., 2nd Battalion, just didn't have the luck to acquire some of the basketball champs that have been floating around. They all went to the line Companies, last year's championship team included. The fact that this Company's team, which is composed of men who are playing their first season, put up a fight strong enough to make "E" Company's players put forth their best efforts in winning, shows the stuff it is composed of.

We expect to make it just as interesting for other opposing teams in coming games.

Well, boys, old 1922 is about to bid us all farewell. We have all been kept busy with our various duties and pleasures during the past year, and no doubt the time has flown along smoothly, with every now and then an occurrence (pleasant or otherwise), and this week of rest before the New Year is the time to think over our deeds during the past year and lay our plans for 1923.

Wonder if at any time during the next 12 months we will have the pleasure of seeing—

Pvt. Abernathy get sufficiently wrought up, when it will be necessary for him to use words more effective than "Gosh-ding-it;"

Leonardi, without his smokestack;

Conley, going to town in uniform;

Craig, with a serious look on his face;

Guller, bested in an argument;

Rafferty, without an alibi;

Sterling, present in the Company, for at least one week at a time;

Valentine, defeated at pool;

Or hearing—

Emmons, whistling a different tune;

Hopkinson, say he has quit going up the pole each month;

Jenkins, laugh when he pulls out his pool check.

COMPANY "B."

Captain A. J. McFarland, our Company Commander, has taken advantage of a nine-day leave—presumed to be a rest period during the "Turkey Days."

1st Sgt. John Brown and family motored to the South (take notice, Northerners) to Boston, Ga., to partake of a feast on Christmas Day.

We wonder who attracts a male member of our organization to Memphis, Tenn., during the holidays. Who is she, Lieut?

Sgt. Humphrey, our able and free-hearted Mess Sergeant, contemplates re-enlisting in this organization. It must be, beans taste good to him.

As before, the spirit and morale of Company "B" soldiers assisted them in winning the first basketball game of the season. To win a game without practice is deserving of undue credit. Romplowskie, star on the 1st Bn. football team, played his first game of basketball, and present indications are that he will develop into a star basketeer.

Between football and a certain young lady in the city, Pvt. McFadden's time is well occupied. Why not move to the city, Mac? Married men generally live there.

"Oh, those rubber heels, they sure put me on K. P.," is heard from ten members of the K. P. detail. Boys, remember the way of the transgressor is hard.

Generally eats that are served at the Post Restaurant are tasteless. Also exhorbitant prices seem to prevail. It has been observed whenever one orders steak, that the steak is where the tomato ought to be. It is suggested that a committee investigate the aforesaid remark—it should be remedied.

Why does the management of the theatre always feed us on love scenes? Show us something with action, good comedies—leave the love at home, where it belongs. We will do our own love making. Here's for he-man stuff.

Would anyone recommend street lights on the road through the 29th Infantry? They are badly needed.

Ex-Pug Kid Pinchawsky, of this organization, is to start in training shortly. Atta-boy, Pinchawsky, show them what they put out in New York. "Irish" McFadden is to be his trainer.

Why do special duty men have to do K. P.? Ask Pvt. Shroyer. Rubber heels sure come in handy in the kitchen. What about it, Jack?

Sgt. Humphrey, Cpl. Willingham and Pvt. Short seem to enjoy their moon-light walks across the Upatoie bridge. Put us wise to the good things.

We don't see what Company "B" wants with a Victrola. Cpl. Sturgeon is a very able substitute. He needs no needles, no crank to wind him up. The worst part of it, he always plays the same record.

If Pvt. Scheeler does not stop singing "Papa Loves Mama," he will be crowned the Irish way. Ladies, please note. He is a real side show attraction. Dimensions the same in all directions, and his feet are not mates. One foot is going while the other is coming; wears a size 11 on the left and a 12 on the right. Duty calls and I must go but this shall be continued next week.

COMPANY "C."

Everything is on a quiet order, especially for Christmas. Nineteen men are on furlough at present, the rest wanted to go but the fatigue had to be carried on, at least Private Schumacher thinks it does, but he likes any kind of fatigue for it reminds him of home.

Conditions have improved greatly in the last few months. There has

COMPANY "D."

The holidays are still with us, but the celebrations are about over, the gang is finding fault with themselves as well as the weather, "C. C. Jerry F." Roeglin is figuring on building an ark if the rain lasts an hour longer.

"Booker T." Willard, after the first of the year, is going to take the Keeley Cure, from the way the chow has been for the past few weeks we think that he should take a double dose.

At the present time in this orderly room there is a heated argument going on in which Robert N. Moore is expounding theories on horse racing. Undoubtedly most of the readers do not know that Mr. Moore is the famous trainer, jockey and former owner of the finest string of horses that ever ran. He tips today on how to pick mud runners. He claims he never picked a winner but at that his horses always finished. We asked him the other day if they ever finished in the money but he refused to answer the question and was very indignant that he should be asked a question of that sort. His latest article is how to place bets; no doubt it is very good but the writer not having time nor patience to read it, I just glanced at it and took Mr. Moore's word that it was the real dope. Mr. Moore is also a representative of the National Turf Investment Co.

COMPANY "E."

We don't know much about the "F" Company basketball team, but they sure do play a good game. Of course, they couldn't beat the future champs, but they gave us a good game. The score was "E" 25 and "F" 18. Line-up for "E" Company as follows:

|---|---|
| McCord | Guard |
| Crane | Forward |
| Newman | Center |
| Graham | Guard |
| Akin | Forward |

Brown substituted for McCord, Nolan for Graham and Wiggins for Newman. Better luck next time, "F" Company.

Well, we will have to hand it to the First Battalion again this year. They beat the "Galloping" Second at football. But there is no kick. They had the best team, and now we are pulling for them strong.

The Battalion Commander, Major A. E. Sawkins, sent Christmas greetings and best wishes for the New Year to the nearest relatives of all men in the Second Battalion. All our relatives return your greetings, Major, and wish you the same.

A remark was made by a certain young sergeant the other day. He said: "We have all kinds of champions in the Army, boxing, running, wrestling, basketball, and about every other kind of a champion, but I claim the sleeping championship." We believe you, Chester. A man that can go to sleep Friday night and not wake up until Reveille Tuesday must be the champion. You win.

Pvt. Brown doesn't like basketball any more. He had that cute little dimple knocked out of his knee last week by the First Battalion football squad, and now he won't look at a ball of any kind.

Pvt. Mathews is sure "gone" over that girl he is writing to, and he has never even seen her. Can you imagine that?

Company "E" has a wonderful man for center this year on the basketball team. He said he was a hero, but when they passed out the medals his didn't show up. You sure are a good man, Newman, but the New York Zoo is looking for more specimen of the Giraffe.

Again "Dad" is happy. He won a game of pinochle from Sgt. Julius the other day. The first victory in fifty-eight games. And to think that Cpl. New was his partner. Keep it up, "Dad."

Presents cost a lot now, but we sure do wish everyone in the 29th a Happy New Year and a noisy Fourth of July.

Well, Paul, we sure do like you for a Mess Sergeant, but is beans the only thing they have in the commissary these days? We sure do like them, but how about a change? Beans and soup wouldn't be so bad. Beans straight are bad for the appetite.

Second Battalion Headquarters Company needs a little more practice in basketball. They are a nice bunch of fellows alright, but when it comes to basketball, well, that is different. The invincible "E" Company won their second game this season, and it looks like a clean-up for them. The score, Headquarters 8, "E" Company 14. Not so bad, even if we do say it ourselves.

COMPANY "G."

Due to the energy and hard work of our Mess Sergeant and cooks, our Christmas dinner was a complete success. We were complimented by the Regimental Commander's Reviewing Committee as having one of the best decorated mess-halls. We were honored on this occasion by the presence of our Battalion Commander, Major Sawkins, and wife. Major Sawkins gave a talk that was more than appreciated by all present. Lt. Sims, Lt. Fogelberg and Lt. Cooey were among those present and they all had a few words to say. The dinner was served in courses and there wasn't a "Regular" there who got up from the table hungry. The entertainment was made more amusing by the local talent that was secured. The work of Cpl. Johnson was worth mentioning. The orchestra was very good and the music was enjoyed by all.

Who saw the basketball game on Tuesday night? You saw who are going to be the champs, didn't you? We won the first game from Co. "F" and all the players are determined not to lose a game this season.

COMPANY "H."

Everybody enjoyed the Christmas feast that was served, although there are some who can hardly walk yet.

Our famous basketball team won the first game of the season. They defeated Second Battalion Hqrs. Co., by a large margin. Second Battalion Hqrs. fought well all through the game but our team played with excellent teamwork.

It was unfortunate that our star football player was being tried by courts-martial while the game was going on between the First and Second Battalions. He didn't get into the game until the last half and showed his ability by immediately scoring a touchdown. Lehman played an excellent game while Daniels was not up to his usual form.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 14.)

The company left Clery-le-Grand for Liny on November 7th and from November 7th to November 10th the company was engaged in the construction and repair of the Dun-sur-Meuse—Liny, Liny-Fontaines, Vilosnes, and Vilosnes-Liny roads.

The company marched from Liny to Brandeville on November 10th, repairing roads enroute, and was repairing roads and narrow-gage railroad from Brandeville to Louppy, and placing captured narrow-gauge engines in running order when the armistice went into effect.

Company "C."

On October 29th Company "C" completed the work at the Third Corps Headquarters, and on that night joined the First Battalion in the Bois de Septsarges. On the following morning a detail followed the Nantillois Brieulles road into Brieulles, locating and destroying enemy road traps. That night two platoons of the company wired in a section of the line of resistance and on the next day a detail went out and traced an additional section of the resistance line. That afternoon, the remaining two platoons proceeded under the best cover available to the clad German dump near Brieulles and commenced constructing rafts to be used in forcing the Meuse. By 4 a. m. thirty had been completed, and the platoons were taken back to camp. During the same day, the remainder of the company prepared fascines to be used if necessary on the approach to a bridge which was to be built over the Andon river at Clery-le-Grand. On the morning of November 1st the necessary reconnaissance for the Clery-le-Grand bridge was made, and that night two platoons with wagons set out to haul material from Cunel to Clery-le-Grand and to proceed with the construction of the bridge. The plan could not be carried out, however, as the road had been rendered impassable by shell fire and mines, and further obstructed by fallen trees. These obstructions were removed and the heavy timbers "snaked" to the bridge site and on the following day two platoons repaired the roads sufficiently to permit wagon traffic and enough material was taken up to complete the bridge.

On the night of November 3rd, the entire company was turned out to assist Company "A" in the bridging of the Meuse river and the Canal de l'Est. The company proceeded to a point near Brieulles where it was held in readiness for the work. At 6 a. m. orders came to return to camp, but about 4 p. m. on the 4th, the company again turned out and proceeded to Brieulles under cover of darkness.

Immediately, details were sent out to clear the streets of Brieulles and establish and maintain a road to the bridge site, for the passage of the pontoon wagons. Upon the completion of this work the company prepared approaches to the bridge across the canal. In this work Private Frederick was killed and Privates Bennet and Ecklund severely wounded. About 5:00 a. m., just as this work was being completed, orders came attaching two platoons under Lieutenant Millspaugh to Major Birmingham's battalion of the 11th Infantry, and two platoons under Lieutenant Gates to Captain Kaiser's battalion of the 6th Infantry. There was just time enough to get into position east of the canal before daylight. Throughout the day and night of the 5th, Company "C" lay in a position as guard for the bridgehead. On the morning of the 6th, Lieutenant Millspaugh's detachment was relieved. The other detachment, however, changed positions before daylight of the 6th, to a point along the Liny road, and at about 8:00 a. m. took up the advance with the infantry and reached the objective near the town of Fontaines, about noon. While digging in at this point, Private Nolen was wounded and Sergeant Rude, Corporal Abercrombie, Privates Carter and Harrington were severely burned with mustard gas.

During the night of the 6th, this detachment was relieved and joined the company headquarters at the canal pontoon bridge at Brieulles.

On the morning of the 7th of November, the entire company worked on roads, one detachment from Brieulles to the canal bridge, and another from the canal bridge northward. Just before noon orders came to proceed to Fontaines and accordingly the company went forward in time to get into camp for the night. On the 8th and 9th the main body of the company did road repair work, and in addition there were several road patrols sent out during this time, and another detail worked on the resistance line near Branderville.

On the morning of the 10th, the company set out in three sections, the 3rd and 4th platoons under Captain Meier, the 1st and 2nd platoons under Lieutenant Gates, and the transportation under 1st Sergeant Miller.

The first detachment was to proceed via Brandeville, Louppy and Remoiville to Jamet at 1:00 p. m. This detachment arrived in the vicinity of Louppy and sent patrols into Louppy and Ramoiville at 1:00 p. m., who reported the route from Louppy to Jametz still in enemy hands. Corporal Warner, who was in charge of one of the patrols, was wounded at this time. Accordingly, the detachment took up a favorable position against the artillery fire which was increasing in intensity. A little later the transportation arrived. Suddenly there came a heavy deluge of artillery fire, killing Cook Glover and David A. Brown, and wounding Privates King, Ross, Lord, Ball, Baird, Cater and Bugler Harvey.

The second detachment proceeded to the railroad embankment along the river bottom, in front of Jametz and arrived there about noon. A patrol which went out and examined the bridging conditions along the canal found that a footbridge at Jametz was necessary, hence a detail went out and by 3:00 p. m. had collected the necessary material under cover of a small clump of trees. Just at dusk, work was started on bridges. The artillery fire was steady and intense in addition to intermittent machine gun fire from the heights above the town. However, the men carried on unhesitatingly. Master Engineer James Sherin rendered most valuable assistance to Lieutenant Gates during this work. About 5:30 p. m. Lieutenant Millspaugh was killed by artillery fire, and a little later Private Lord was severely wounded. The following morning the detachment corduroyed a bad piece of road near this point, and this was its last work before the armistice went into effect. On the 11th the company assembled at Louppy. First Lieutenant Peter Murphy, commanding the Engineer Train, was assigned to command Company "C," relieving Captain Walter H. Meier.

Company "D."

On the 27th of October, Company "D" moved to Septsarges woods. After making several reconnoissances, wire entanglements were placed near Brieulles on the 29th, using wire from a captured German dump. Wire was placed east of Cunel on October 30th and 31st. During these operations, the enemy shelled the positions with high explosives and gas, and airplanes dropped bombs nearby, killing one man and severely wounding another. On November 1st the company constructed for drill purposes, a pontoon foot bridge and had everything in readiness to proceed to the selected point along the Meuse river to throw one or more of these bridges across. November 4th the material was carried from Brieulles to a point near Clery-le-Petit. Due to the heavy losses previously sustained in the company, two men were burdened with loads that were more than sufficient for four men, carrying these loads over a road that was shelled and raked at intervals by machine gun fire. Under the most adverse conditions the mission of bridging the Meuse river and Canal de l'Est was carried out. The men stood shoulder-deep in water, repairing the bridge as it was being continually damaged by machine gun fire. Over this bridge, at Clery-le-Petit, the entire 9th Brigade, less reserves, crossed. At 11:00 p. m. the same night, a platoon was sent to Dun-Sur-Meuse to assist in the construction of a wagon bridge over a small stream that runs into the Meuse river, in addition to assisting on the pontoon bridge being constructed over the Meuse at Dun-sur-Meuse and the building of a road across the marshy land from the bridge to the main Dun-Dulcon road.

On November 6th the company acted as infantry, being detailed as support for the 60th and 61st Infantry, and took station at Milly.

November 7th the company dug machine gun emplacements for the infantry, and was in readiness at all times to assist in checking any unexpected counter-attacks. On November 8th the company worked on roads, removing mines in Lion and Murvaux and enroute thereto, also patrols were sent out with the Infantry which reconnoitered behind the enemy lines, securing valuable information as to enemy guns, as well as other vital data. On November 9th the wiring at Lion was completed and the company was working at the edge of Foret de Woevre when orders arrived to proceed to the town of Juvigny. Two platoons were to go by the way of Louppy, and the other two by the way of Mouzay. Both platoons arrived in time to assist in the capture of the aforesaid towns. When the armistice went into effect, the company was established in Louppy and was just completing the building of a bridge at Louppy in place of the destroyed bridge at that point.

Company "E."

Company "E" continued the work of building Division Headquarters in the woods near Mountfaucon until November 3rd. While stationed here, on October 21st, Lieutenant Gilbert G. Winnia was assigned to command the company.

On November 3rd, the company moved to the woods near Brieulles, and was held in reserve for such work as might arise. Two platoons were attached to Company "F" to assist in the construction of the foot bridges across the Meuse river and to construct boats to be ued by the infantry in forcing a crossing.

The company marched to Dun-sur-Meuse on the morning of November 6th and was engaged in road and bridge work.

On November 9th word came that Company "E" was to follow as closely behind the infantry as possible, and make whatever repairs were necessary to make the line of communication passable.

History of the 29th Infantry

Article 14.

Headquarters, Band and Companies B, C, F, G, H, I, M and M. G. Co. proceeded from their respective stations to Albany, N. Y., and by marching en route to Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y., August 19. Co. E joined Aug. 27 and Co. L at Saratoga Springs Aug. 24.

The entire Regiment (except Co. K) assembled at Plattsburgh Barracks Sept. 2 as part of the First Brigade, First Division, on maneuvers near Plattsburgh, which were completed on Oct. 2 at Burke, N. Y.

The weather was exceedingly cold and several nights the troops found it necessary to huddle about bon-fires all night. This maneuver will always be known to the troops participating as "The North Polar Expedition."

The last camp of the Brigade was at Burke and it was here that the amusing ceremony of erecting a monument to the "theoretically killed" of the Regiment took place amid great pomp and funereal surroundings.

It was while at Burke that a lady living at the edge of our camp stopped the chaplain and asked if he knew where the tent was where "they kept the little dogs." The Padre said he did not know, that he knew a great many dogs had followed us on our march, as dogs always do, but that he had not heard of any particular tent being set aside for their abode. "Well, some soldier told me that they had a tent for the little dogs, and I am very fond of dogs and would like to see them," said the lady. After we had gotten a number of miles from Burke it suddenly occurred to the chaplain that this lady had undoubtedly heard one of the men speak of the "pup tents" of the men.

Companies A, B, C, D, I, L and M marched to Malone, N. Y., Oct. 3, entraining at that point for their respective stations.

Headquarters, Band and Companies E, F, G and H left Burke for Plattsburgh Oct. 3 and then marched to Albany, arriving Oct. 17, and same date left by steamer for New York, arriving at Fort Jay at noon, Oct. 18. Company K returned to Fort Niagara on Oct. 1.

Company I went on a forced march on Oct. 7. Left the post at 7 a. m. and returned at midnight. Distance marched about 42 1-4 miles.

The officers assigned to the Regiment in 1914 were:

Lieut. Col. John P. Finley, Major James E. Normoyle, Captain William S. Neeley, First Lieutenant Avery D. Cummings, Second Lieutenants Frederick G. Dillman and Clinton W. Russell.

EVEN THE PRISONERS WERE REMEMBERED

Had Extras for Eats.

The prisoners at the Post Stockade were not forgotten on Christmas by the Chaplains at the Post.

Chaplain Wood conducted Christmas services in the mess hall and early Monday morning Chaplain Lennan said mass.

At the noonday meal each man received fruit, nuts and tobacco. These extras were furnished by the Chaplains of the Post and certainly added to the pleasure of the men in confinement.

THE 24TH INFANTRY BAND TELLS ALL THE WORLD THAT IT'S CHRISTMAS

Gave Excellent Music.

On Christmas morning many a person was awakened to the sounds of excellent music and upon investigation it was found out that these pleasant sounds were being made by the Twenty-fourth Infantry Band. This band encircled the entire Post rendering several selections in each block.

The band was an awe-inspiring sight as they marched past the various quarters with straight line, well polished instruments, and well fitting uniforms. It made everybody feel that Christmas was certainly with us again. The News extends congratulations to you, Colonel Nicklin, for the wonderful band that you have and at your thoughtfulness and generosity of letting others share this excellent music.

NAMES OF POSTS CHANGED.

The names of two more or less prominent army posts have been renamed. Columbus Barracks, Ohio, has been changed to Fort Hayes, Ohio, in honor of Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth president of the United States.

The two reservations known as Camp Travis, Texas, and Fort Sam Houston, Texas, have been combined and the whole reservation called Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

THERE WAS BIG DOINGS AT SERVICE CLUB NO. 1.

put on a black face act that was excellent. Pvt. White and Carter put on another black face act which was featured with some very clever dancing.

The eats were managed by Sgt. Green, I. S. D., a member of the committee, assisted by Corp. Mann, 83rd Field Artillery, another member of the committee. Such eats as they got together, which consisted of red and green ice cream, iced marble cake, apples, candy and last but not least, cigarettes.

After the entertainment and eats were over with, the party broke up but everybody had the Christmas spirit and all swore that it was some Christmas.

Great credit is due Miss Roe, the Post Hostess, for if it had not been for her interest in the men, and if the chaplains of the Post had not been financially liberal, this evening of evenings would not have been possible.

The Children Had a Fine Time.

The Christmas Tree for the children of the Post on Saturday afternoon was a huge success. The Chaplains of the Post had charge of the affair, assisted by the ladies of the garrison. Saturday afternoon long before the hour for the exercises little people began to gather at the large Service Club building and by 2:30 the place was crowded. Provision had been made for about 450 children, but many living on the Post were away and many from Columbus did not attend. Nearly 300 boys and girls were on hand, however, to give Santa Claus a royal welcome.

An immense cedar tree had been beautifully decorated by the ladies and about this tree the hundreds of gifts were grouped.

A very brief program was rendered consisting of the Christmas carols, "Joy to the World," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," brief prayer by Chaplain Wood and the story of the appearance to the Shepherds, read by Chaplain Reynolds. Chaplain Lennan was present and assisted. The music was furnished by the Chapel Orchestra.

In addition to beautiful gifts each child was given candy and fruit. The officers and men of the garrison provided the funds.

The ladies of the Post, under the leadership of Mrs. Hocker, worked very hard, purchasing the gifts, filling candy boxes, decorating the tree, assisting Santa in distributing presents, etc.

Holiday Greetings

The Infantry School to the people of the City of Clumbus.

"In sending the season's greetings and sentiments for the New Year, we desire first to express to your our grateful appreciation of the true hospitality and kindness you have always shown to the entire personnel of Fort Benning. We came here as strangers, unknown to you; you accepted us as old friends, and have thus won for yourselves a place of lasting affection and esteem in our hearts.

"As a further wish, if I were asked to express the kindest thought uppermost in my mind at this, the beginning of a New Year, it would be that the ensuing year may hold nothing but the most pleasant relations between these closely united communities and that we may realize our fondest hopes for a greater Columbus and a greater Infantry School."

MAYOR J. HOMER DIMON RETURNS GREETINGS.

Remembers Former Personnel of the Post.

It is with great pleasure that we publish the Holiday Greetings of Mayor Dimon of Columbus. It will be a delight in future years to know that Columbus will think of the personnel of this Post who have been here and are then stationed in all parts of the globe. His message follows:

CITY OF COLUMBUS,
State of Georgia.
December 25, 1922.

General Walter H. Gordon,
Commandant, Fort Benning,
Fort Benning, Georgia.
Dear General:

In behalf of Columbus and her citizens, we have the honor to bring to you on this Christmas day a basket of roses.

Their beauty and fragrance in some measure are expressive of the quality of our love and spirit of interest in you, all officers and your enlisted personnel.

The absent ones, General Farnsworth, Colonel Eames, General Malone and others, are not forgotten. Their memory will always linger with us.

We have said before Benning-Columbus are one, and therefore we have many problems in common. Mutual co-operation will characterize our endeavors during 1923.

We wish you, and each of you, and the absent ones, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Cordially,
Signed: J. HOMER DIMON,
Mayor.

Walter A. Richards,
City Manager.

Mind Your Business

The editor being a constant reader of the Columbus papers, could not help but notice that the people of that community played rather roughly during the holidays.

The editor was the recipient of a nice lot of spare ribs and a nice pork roast and some grapefruit from the Post Athletic and Recreation Officer, Lieutenant John W. Elkins, on Christmas morning.

Miss Roe, the Post Hostess, was a most joyous person during Xmas. She was the recipient of a nice bonus of sixty dollars for the second quarter of the fiscal year. Here's hoping that you receive a bonus of at least sixty eagles each quarter, Miss Roe.

Considerable Christmas Cheer? was presented to Corporal W. T. Cox and Private N. R. Smith, both of the Military Police Company, who happened to be on duty at the Bridge over the week-end. Needless to say the donors did not make the donation through any generosity or a spirit of Yuletide when they left their CHEER with these two men.

The editor is looking for sympathy. He has had eleven punctures since the 13th of December. Yes, tire punctures! Isn't that going some?

Lieut. Jack E. Rycroft and Sgt. Parks recently won a volley ball game. Now then send a challenge to any two-man team in the Post, the State of Georgia, the United States or even the world.

Even Mother Earth must have celebrated Christmas, for she was very foggy the morning after. Cheer up, Old World, the editor bets that you were not alone in your misery.

The Editor went over to Co. "G" 29th with the C. C. on Xmas Day and took a look at the mess hall. It was some "fixed up" for the occasion and so were the turkeys and other "goodies" were in preparation. But what struck the editor as being funny were two signs, one on the mess hall entitled "Don't Knock," another on the orderly room entitled "Knock." Now what is a poor fellow to do?

RECORDS FOR ENLISTMENTS KEEPS UP.

Dublin, Georgia, Recruiting Station: Sergeant Winn seems determined to move all the young citizens of Dublin and surrounding towns, who are eligible for enlistment en-masse to Fort Benning. He has forwarded twenty-seven applicants since the first of December. This is probably a record for the Fourth Corps Area.

Cordele, Ga.: Private 1st Class, Specialist 5th Class Woods still holds second place for accepted applicants. We look for a big increase in his record.

Macon, Ga.: Sergeant Catron prospects better after first of the year.

Albany, Ga.: Corporal Stewart made quite a spurt with three applicants the other day.

Waycross, Ga.: Private 1st Class Spec. Hood must have a bus load of men in prospect, judging by the way he asked for transportation yesterday.

Columbus, Ga.: Sergeant Higginbotham and Private Noyes are just getting wound up. Watch out.

Sixty-four enlistments have been made this month to date.

DECEMBER ATTENDANCE AT THE POST SCHOOLS

PERSHING SAYS THAT THE ARMY MULE CAN NEVER BE REPLACED

At a recent address delivered at Chicago, General Pershing said that the army horse and the army mule will never be completely replaced by motor vehicles.

The following is his praise of the horse and mule:

"There will never be anything that can take the place of the horse and the army mule in warfare. If we had had more horses in the World War we might have done a great deal better than we did. There were occasions when the cavalry had opportunities that we know how to take advantage of, but could not becauseo we did not have horses. I believe the horse is coming back into his own.

"It's the old mule that is the most reliable thing in the army. You can pack him, drive him, starve him, beat him and neglect him—do all sorts of things to him that you can't do to an automobile—and he is always there as long as he has four legs to stand on."

THE RECRUIT CENTER CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

If it had not been for the thoughtfulness of the Chaplains of the Post it is probable that the one hundred and four men now at the Recruit Center would have received very few if any packages for Christmas.

These men had just recently arrived and a great number had not had time to notify their parents, relatives, and friends of their addresses.

At 3 o'clock on Christmas afternoon these men met with Chaplain Wood at the Protestant Chapel for a Christmas gathering. After a brief talk and the singing of Christmas carols, candy, fruit, and nuts were passed out. The extra eats being the gift of all of the Chaplains of the Post.

Pvt. Lewis, Sgt. Gilbert's stenographer, is getting tired of his job.

It is rumored that the detachment is to be transferred to the Station Hospital soon.

Pvt. William Jackson is under the impression that he is above policing a tent, but the writer saw him in Block 23 swinging a door. Jackson, we need a door.

1st Battalion 29th Inf. Champion Footballers

POST CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WHITE TROOPS WAS PLAYED IN A SEA OF MUD.

The 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, won the post champion football series on Wednesday afternoon when they defeated the 15th Tank Battalion by a score of 14 to 12.

The Doughboys insisted in playing the game on a very muddy field, while the Tankers said that what was agreeable with the Doughboys would be O. K. with them. The Doughboys were more or less afraid of the open formation of the Tanks and figured that they had the better advantage by getting the Tanks into a muddy field.

This is the second consecutive year that the 1st Battalion has captured the championship banner. Three weeks ago a triple tie existed. The first of this series came when the First Battalion handed a walloping to the Second Battalion, and yesterday's battle brought the 1922 season to a close.

The battle opened with a rush and the Infantrymen put it on ice, as matters finally proved, early in the going. In the first five minutes of play Romploski, scrappy little quarter of the Doughboys, raced through the Tank eleven for 55 yards and a touchdown. Peters kicked goal.

Not to be outdone the Tanks took the oval, following an exchange of punts, and started a march down the field which never ceased until touchdown had been shoved over. This was the bright spot of the Tank offense and although they gained much yardag eon hard line plunging thereafter, they failed to threaten the Infantry goal until Swantic grabbed a pass and raced 75 yards for the last tally in the final minute of play.

Sharp, Arnold and Swantic did most of the line smashing responsible for the first Tank tally. Sullivan bucked over when the oval was on the 4 yard line. Palies missed goal from placement.

The Infantry came back with a mad rush and took the oval straight down the arena from kickoff. Gloekner, Wally and Romploski contributed hugely to the Infantry yardage column and the drive only ceased when the Tanks held for downs on their own one-yard line.

But it was only a brief surcease for the Tanksters. Swantic stood behind the Tank goal line and attempted a punt which was smothered by a rush of the Doughboy forwards. The Infantrymen fell on the oval for the second and final tally and right then and there put the championship on ice for another year. Peters added another placement goal for touchdown.

Hhe first half ended without further serious threat. Both teams battled hard in hte second chapter without dangerously threatening the white line until Swantic uncorked his sensational dash for 75 yards after grabbing down an Infantry pass in the last minute of play. Palies failed to kick another Tank goal and the game ended two plays later.

Due to the sloppy field both teams were forced to resort to straight football and line plunging was very much the order of the day. The Tanks gained more yardage on the rush attack than did the Infantrymen but the Doughboys took the breaks when they came and such is the great grid game.

Gloekner, Wally and Romploski starred in the Infantry backfield while Sharp and Swantic lead in the Tank attack. Parker of the Infantry line and Lee and Lindsey of the Tanksters shared forward honors.

Twenty-five hundred cheering fans saw the championship scrap.

The Line up:

RIALTO THEATRE'S NEW YEAR PARTY IS ALMOST HERE

Just as you hear the first horn or whistle toot and all the bells begin to ring you will know that the Rialto theatre is staging a real treat to many of its patrons and your friends.

Manager Holloway has bought a freakish assortment of noise makers for the occasion and every person who comes will be given free some sort of noise maker so that he or she can go out in the street after or during the show and say to the world that the New Year and much prosperity is at hand.

Among the assortment of souvenirs for the party are confetti of the string and scrap paper type, balloons, tin and paste-board horns, paper hats, do jiggers, hum dingers and also a bunch of what-nots all of which has caused Manager Holloway to stand more or less kidding from his friends.

Bebe Daniels in her very newest picture, "SINGED WINGS," will be shown for those who care to sit thru a picture, but the main idea is AIN'T WE GOT FUN!

Makes for Co-operation

The recent formation of an athletic association between Fort Benning and Columbus is just what has been needed for some time and now that it is a fact it will lead to a still better understanding between Columbus and the Infantry School.

We take pleasure in printing the letter of President W. W. Rainey, which is as follows:

COLUMBUS-BENNING ATLETIC ASSOCIATION.
Columbus, Ga., Dec. 14, 1922.

General Walter H. Gordon,
Fort Benning, Ga.

My dear General:—

The Columbus-Benning Athletic Association was recently organized with the purpose to assist athletics in Columbus and Fort Benning and particularly to assist in the promotion of inter-collegiate relations for The Infantry School.

This association has as its charter members many of the directors of the Rotary, Civitan, Kiwanis and Ad Clubs, and in addition various delegates from the American Legion and other civic organizations.

In consideration that The Infantry School shall book at least six (6) football games to be played in Columbus next fall, and also to book basketball and baseball schedules, with members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and other colleges, these schedules being such as your representative may determine as the best they can obtain, and the further consideration that The Infantry School Athletic Association shall furnish us with season tickets to be sold or distributed at a price or consideration which we will fix, we will guarantee to raise a minimum of forty-five hundred dollars ($45,000.00) to be paid to The Infantry School Athletic Association for the purpose of carrying on athletic activities during the year 1923.

Very truly yours,
COLUMBUS-BENNING ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Who said that Pvt. Broderson wasn't a sharpshooter? He takes a shot-gun out hunting, but it seems that he can't wait till he gets out to the hunting grounds to fire the piece.

Well, here we are back on the trail of the skunk this week again. We don't know who it is, but someone has made a pet of one of the animals and left it in the Orderly Room, or is it under the building?

That's alright, Ohrvall, we know you never play pinochle, so how can they expect you to get anything but a poker deck, when you go to town.

We have a good place to hold a wooden wedding now. At least we have plenty of lumber laying around.

The mess sergeant sent Pvt. Ottey to the canteen to get him a quarter's worth of cigars and a quarter's worth of chewing gum the other day. After about an hour of waiting, Pvt. Ottey came back and asked the mess sergeant which quarter was for the cigars and which one was for the chewing gum.

We certainly made a fine showing at drill the other day, every man was all dressed up. All two of them.

Any one wanting a new Ford, call on Pvt. Keyes. All the car needs is to jack the front seat up and put a new car under it.

Sgt. Farrell is visiting the number 8 tent quite frequently lately. Some one said that Cpl. Miller had a package of cigarettes and the Sergeant is trying to find out for himself.

Sgt. Stover—"Well, say something, don't stand there looking at me; speak up."

Pvt. Wise—"I can't, Sergeant, my hands are too cold."

We'd like to find out who it was that said that the Swede couldn't talk in his native tongue. At least he can sing in it.

Professor Gazook, the talented mind reader, told most of the company where to head in at the night of the smoker.

Among the notables present at the smoker given by the company on last Thursday were General Gordon, Colonel Fasset, Major Sullivan and Major Atkisson, the Commanding Officer of the First Gas Regiment of Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland.

During the course of the smoker, Pvt. Scharle and Pvt. McCabe gave a successful demonstration of recruiting, wherein Pvt. McCabe had the applicant and the audience nearly convinced that the pay of a Private was two hundred and fifty dollars a month.

After everything else there was a free-for-all fight among the noncoms, Sgt. Ohrvall being very popular with the rest of the men, as it seems that every one of them wanted to get a crack at him. Someone put a bump on him so big that he didn't know whether he was on the bump or the bump was on him.

After the smoker, supper was served, and every one seemed to have a howling good time throughout the evening.

It was certainly a great pleasure to have the General and the other officers with us on this one night of nights.

Medical Department Notes

The Medical Department enlisted personnel enjoyed a smoker in the Detachment Mess Hall on Wednesday evening, December 27. The music for the occasion was furnished by the 24th Infantry band. The boxing bouts—four in number—arranged by Sergeant A. N. Mager, were greatly enjoyed by the men, if not by all the contestants. B. Smith won a decision over Cadenhead. The bout between Hanks and Roberts was considered draw. Cullifer greatly outpointed Eddines. Soto and Hester battled four fast rounds the decision going to Soto. The officials for the occasion were Sergeant Mager as referee, Sergeant Cook as timer and Sergeant Bedenbaugh and Pvt. Paciono as judges. Some very promising material in the boxing game showed up. Refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed by all until a late hour. The wish of the majority was that in the future more of these smokers would be held.

The Medical Detachment personnel is slowly but surely climbing back to its normal strength, five men, viz.: Privates Oliver, McDonald, Garrey, Windham and Salter joining for duty this week.

The patients in the hospital wish to take this means of thanking the American Legion, the M. P. Company and Captain Henkle for the wonderful Christmas stockings that were delivered to the different wards in the hospital on Christmas morning. They were greatly appreciated and made the men feel as if someone had them in mind on the "One Great Day of the Year."

"During the Holidays."

The sick books are blank, I think,
The Surgeons are (not cutting up)
As the records show up;
Dental Officers are not extracting,
As patients are lacking;
The Eye Surgeon is feeling blue,
There seems to be no testing to do.
The Laboratory is on the blink,
As the Methylene Blue is turning pink.
The X-Ray is out of whack,
And will be until the Major gets back.
Medical Supply, the same old story,
Requisition and Inventory.
It may look funny, and I'm sure you'll laugh,
But "Jimmie's" pipe is to get a bath.
Like a six-cylinder car the office did work,
Two were missing, the rest can't shirk.
A Happy New Year and good luck,
Is our greeting to every "Buck."

Big Dance At Service Club No. 1

Everybody Had A Fine Time.

The dance at Service Club No. 1 last Wednesday evening was a go-getter.

The men wore their uniforms, but the ladies wore costumes representing the Spirit of Christmas. Three judges had considerable difficulty in selecting the winners of the prizes. Little Miss Parsons, who received the first prize, was dressed in a fluffy white gown, suggesting newly fallen snow, all sparkling with tinsel, giving the effect of the sun shining on newly fallen snow. The young lady who received the second prize was Miss King, and in white trimmed scarlet suit made a most fascinating little Santa Claus.

The excellent music was provided by the orchestra of the 29th Infantry.

During the intermission refreshments were served, consisting of hot chocolate and little chocolate cakes.

Judging by comments heard during the evening, everybody had a very good time and enjoyed the night thoroughly.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE TO LEGIONNAIRES FROM COMMANDER

Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, issued the following Christmas greeting to all his legionnaires:

"Merry Christmas, my fellow Legionaires! This season of Christmas is ours to rejoice and be glad. A celebration of the greatet event in the world's history—the birth of the Savior of Men. He was strong, clean and manly, and went about doing good—a friend to all men.

"Following His example, you and I must be the friend and helper of our fellows. While we hang up our stockings and gather merrily around our cheerful Christmas trees, let us pause for a time to remember our comrades who are suffering and those who laid their burdens down.

"Praise the Lord for His goodness. By our good works we may glarify His name upon the earth. He is our King of Glory. Through Him the peace an good will you fought for will come to all men.

"A Merry Christmas to you from my heart."

Welcome Back Home Gen. and Mrs. Gordon

Returned Last Wednesday Night.

General and Mrs. Gordon returned to the Post last Wednesday evening from Washington, D. C., where Mrs. Gordon has been for several months for her health. The General left here just before Christmas, going to Washington to spend the holidays with Mrs. Gordon and friends.

We are certainly glad that Mrs. Gordon has so improved in health so that she can once more reside in our presence.

Eighty Enlistment For The Post

Despite the natural slump due to the holiday season, eighty enlistments were made at the Recruiting Office, during December. Twenty-one of these are to be credited to Sergeant Winn in charge of the Dublin station and nine to Corporal Stewart in charge of the Albany station.

Sergeant Winn has established a record that it will be hard for any canvasser but himself to equal.

Army Turning Money Over To The Treasury

$1,118,000,000 is Realized From Sale of War Department Surplus Property.

Approximately $1,118,000,000 has been turned into the treasury since the armistice for sales of surplus army and navy supplies, the Senate Military Committee was told last week in opening hearings on a bill by Senator Townsend (Republican Michigan) to distribute remaining surplus supplies among the states. Of the proceeds about $1,000,000,000 came from the army.

The War Department still has surplus supplies worth $218,900,000, Assistant Secretary Wainwright told the committee, adding that reports that it had more than $1,000,000,000 worth were unfounded. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy Department said the navy has some surplus clothing, but little else, other than technical supplies.

In the sale of surplus supplies the navy recovered about 25 per cent. of the amount it expended for the supplies, while the army has recovered about 41 per cent to date. The army's percentage of recovery, however, has dropped 13 per cent at less salable supplies are being disposed of.

The recovery from cantonment sales, Mr. Wainwright said, has been only 1 to 6 per cent, covering principally building supplies, with large losses from roads and other permanent but unsalable improvements.

Senator Townsend urged passage of his bill as an economy. He said the government's recoveries were comparatively small and that it would be better to have surplus supplies distributed among the states where their full value could be utilized.

New Twenty-Five Year Bill Is Introduced

NEW BILL INTRODUCED.

Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, has introduced a new and revised retirement bill in Congress that should improve the conditions wonderfully. At first the impression is received that double time will be forfeited but upon careful reading we find that double time accrued previous to August, 1912, is not forfeited.

The following is the bill as introduced:

H. R. 13418, Mr. Fish.—For retirement of all enlisted men who have served honorably in the U. S. Army as herein provided.

Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter all enlisted men who have served honorably in the U. S. Army may be retired at the expiration of twenty-five years' service, and that the retired pay will be increased $30 above the present rate of retirements; that is, for first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh grade.

In order to create a fund toward this rate of retirement all enlisted men will pay a 1 per cent. deduction from their monthly pay.

Nothing in this bill shall be construed to reduce the retired pay of enlisted men in order to make a twenty-five year retirement law.

Those with service in the Navy and Marine Corps will count their service toward twenty-five year retirement from the Army, but must have at least five years in the Army previous to date of retirement.

Nothing in this bill will take away credit now due enlisted men toward retirement as provided by law.

The Army and Navy Journal has computed the amounts that each grade would receive if the bill would become law:

The pay (including present retired allowances) of the different enlisted grades under the above proposed measure would be as follows:

| | Present | Proposed |
|---|---|---|
| 1st Grade (Master Sgt., Regtl. Sgt., etc.) | $133.87 | $163.87 |
| 2d Grade Tech. or 1st Sgts. | 94.50 | 124.50 |
| 3d Grade Staff Sgts. | 83.25 | 113.25 |
| 4th Grade Sgts. | 66.37 | 96.37 |
| 5th Grade Corporals | 55.12 | 86.12 |
| 6th Grade Privates 1st Class | 43.87 | 73.87 |
| 7th Grade Privates | 35.44 | 65.44 |

NEW POST EXCHANGE OFFICER.

Now that we have a new Post Exchange Officer, so The News understands, who has cut the payroll somewhere near $500.00 a month, lets give him full support and do away with the friction.

It is also noted that the battery man is in charge of the Service Station, and that the service has improved wonderfully already.

Go to it, Captain Moore, The News extends congratulations for what you have already done. Keep it up. At the same time The News extends to you its sincerest sympathy for the more or less thankless job that you have.

The assistant P. X. O., Lt. Thomas Crawford, is a very courteous gentleman, and should be an asset to the Post Exchange.

Secretary Denby Reports on Status of Scrapping Treaty

None of the Nations Have Applied the Treaty.

It is interesting to note that none of the five powers have scrapped a single ship that is of war value. The United States has cancelled the contracts for building several ships and has stopped the construction of several other ships, while the Colorado and West Virginia are being completed, whereupon the Delaware and North Dakota will be scrapped.

Japan is building cruisers of high speed and it is also interesting to know that her battleships have a greater speed than ours which would give her a big advantage in battle.

France and Italy have so far failed to ratify the treaty and as a result Japan is only removing the movable portions and says that she will not destroy any hulls until all of the five powers ratify the treaty.

The following in the report of the Secretary of the Navy:

United States.

Ships required to be scrapped under terms of treaty:

Maine and Missouri have been sold and are being broken up.

All completed battleships required to be scrapped are out of commission, except the Connecticut, which will soon be placed out of commission.

Delaware and North Dakota are not required to be scrapped until the Colorado and West Virginia are completed.

No steps have been taken to comply with Article III, Part 2 (B), of the treaty in the case of the Oregon and Illinois. (These vessels were allowed to be retained for non-combatant purposes, because of their historic records. The section referred to requires that they be rendered unfit for war duty.)

Work has been suspended on vessels under construction.

Ships not defined by the treaty:

Since Feb. 6, 1922, the following ships have been sold or otherwise disposed of: One destroyer, two monitors, one dynamite gun vessel, twenty-five submarines, one gunboat.

The above list does not include vessels stricken from the Navy list since Feb. 6, 1922, but not yet sold.

Great Britain.

Ships required to be scrapped under the terms of the treaty (all are battleships except where otherwise noted):

Broken up: St. Vincent; Inflexible, battle cruisers; Temerare.

Sold to be broken up or rendered unfit for war-like purposes under terms of treaty: Bellerophon; Commonwealth; Hercules; Dreadnought; Indomitable; battle cruiser, Neptune; Collingwood.

Sold, not yet completely dismantled: Superb.

Ready for sale, mutilation completed at dock yard: Orion; New Zealand, battle cruiser.

Being prepared for sale, mutilations being carried out at dock yard, with estimated date of completion of mutilation, Monarch, October 14, 1922; Conqueror, November, 1922; Princess Royal, battle

COMPANY "A."

Pvts. Carr, Davis and Houston returned from Americus, Ga. They seemed very sorry to leave. Wonder what's up there that makes them have such longing for a return trip to Americus?

Pvt. Davis wanted to stop his converted insurance, but a few days ago he received a check for the dividend accrued from the insurance. There is no one that can make him drop his insurance since he found out that it pays to be insured.

Say, boys! Pvt. 1st Class Bell G. must have found something to keep him in bed. He failed to hear 1st call for Revielle, and the 1st Sgt. failed to see him in line, then you know what happened.

Pvt. 1st Class Churchill, Chas. is about to get off the restricted list, and he says that they will not get him again; but I don't believe it he has got to make his words come true because I am from Missouri.

Pvt. Orange talks about getting married in Georgia. I wonder does he think about that girl in Mexico he promised to marry and didn't do it? Shame on you, "Tom." You can fool some of the people sometime, but you can't fool all of the people all the time.

Sgt. Burley, "Trigger," I thought you had an office up where you were Sunday. But I have found out that you are only half interested in the property. Why don't you buy? This half interest business is no good. I like the whole hog or nothing.

Cpl. Adams, "Chick," boys, you ought to see him make his get-away. He is clean on the get-away. You can't imagine his swiftness when it comes to ducking. Run, old boy, I don't blame you, when things get thick thin out; but be sure you thin out in the right way.

COMPANY "B."

Pvt. George Robinson, better known as the cruel hombre, said that he was making his resolutions for the new year and said that he would not smile at anything but Jumpstudy. That is a bad start for the year, old boy. Wake up, V. V.—that is, the Velvet Vamp.

Cook Payton, better known as the fish,—it is getting close to target season and his shooting eye is not in shape. He said that the Xmas present that his C. O. gave was 6.8.-10.12. Some gift, fish. Look out for the new year.

Cook Freeman, better known as Old Sergeant, said that he was so sorry that the boys have left the camp at Furlong,—that he would not get any more mail until they settled somewhere in Texas.

Sam Hall, better known as the heart breaker, said that the girls were not trying to keep him from marrying but they would not have him for a husband. Don't take it so hard, old boy, sometime you will find a rolling pin handler.

Cpl. Taylor, better known as Kid Red Eye, has bought himself a new suit and it fits him some places. Look out, Kid, for if it happens to rain you will need a good hack saw to get out.

Cpl. Andrews, better known as Bird Breast, said that he was going to get a new phonograph for his tent. Which block is that in, Cus?

COMPANY "F."

Pvt. 1st Class Clarence O'Neal is enjoying a two months' furlough at his home in Griffin, Ga.

Sgt. Henry Moore has just returned from an extended visit with his wife in Selma, Ala.

Fletcher (the would-be mechanic) has almost completed the good work of O'Neal.

A certain Private in Tent 38 has been wondering what became of his iron men last month. Not mentioning any names, but if Todd don't stay away from Shady Rest he will be wondering many a more pay day.

Pvt. Wright has worked up one file from carpenter to permanent K. P.

Davis says he is glad to be back home. He has worked up to be a postmaster since here.

Cpl. Hightower wants to know if there is any way of getting a transfer from here to Tuskegee, where he spent a very pleasant Xmas.

Cook Cloudy is now convalescent in the hospital.

COMPANY "K."

It has been said that Co. "I" is the best feeding company in the Regiment, but a certain "Duck" can be seen to visit the mess hall of Co. "K" at each mess call, just looking around? (Look out, Pete Brown.)

You don't have to consult your calendar to note that Christmas is near. Just watch the mail of Co. "K." A certain N. C. O. has received a post card already.

A certain brother was seen standing out in the cold and rain near the post exchange on last Wednesday night, and the way he was inspecting the Benning-Columbus busses upon their arrival in post would have made the Burns agency look like pikers. What was the idea, Mack, a dancing partner?

Sgt. Lay (Andy Gump) hasn't been feeding so well these pre-Christmas days, but the way those Special Duty men can creep upon and devour that hash and duff, you would think it was a turkey dinner.

COMPANY "L."

Pvt. James Handy, we would like to know why you were late for church Sunday evening. You seem to forget duty with Grandpa Sam comes first of all. 23 block will be your ruin, you will be caught off your balance if you don't watch, you seem to forget the chalk line you are supposed to be walking for Pop Jennings and the C. O. Comdr. Use your head for more than a hat rack, old trombone player.

Pvt. Douglas King has the best volley ball team in Post and issues a challenge to any team that claims they know their stuff, or have a slight idea they know their stuff. (Look out, Star Team, I am afraid this challenge only extends to them

SALUTING.

How often is it that we see a mere wave of the hand either right or left hand that is supposed to be the SALUTE that is to be exchanged between persons of the Military Establishment as prescribed by Regulations? Now immediately some of you are saying, "That's right, they won't salute, or if they do, you wouldn't know it as a salute." Now the Editor doesn't have the enlisted men in mind, for they are pretty good at saluting, especially as long as they are in their own areas.

But when it comes to the Officers, it is a different story. Since the Infantry School is here an observer would say that if the school is no better than the salutes it would be some school. But the Editor knows from experience that the school is a good school and therefore it must be the individual Officers that are at fault.

It is not an uncommon sight to see an Officer return a salute with a cigar or cigarette in his mouth or held in the hand that he returns the salute with, which is not always the right hand by any means. You can also see Officers with their hats and especially their caps set well back on their heads to show there wonderfully high foreheads or else the headgear is hung on one ear as a regular "dandy." When the forearm is raised to salute the elbow is in all positions from close to the body to the height of the shoulders, instead of the forearm being at an angle of 45 degrees. The fingers are all bunched together and the arm given a flourish as if the saluter was trying to peck a speck off of his nose. Sometimes we see another person who brings the hand and forearm to a certain height and then brings the head DOWN to meet the hand. Now on top of all of this it is not uncommon to see an Officer neglect to return a salute, or turn the head so as to pretend not to see it, which is a sure sign of laziness, some other Officers have to keep their hands in their pockets and of course it could not reasonably be expected that the offender should be expected to remove his hand from the pocket to return a salute. Such offenses are absolutely inexcusable. Some offenders can't even shut their mouth when returning a salute.

Now all of these offenses have been noted within the last two weeks right here on this Post. It seems that since the salute has been practically abolished between persons of the Military Service except when meeting on a Reservation, that the salute could be rendered in a military manner that would do credit to the saluter and make the person that receives the salute feel that it is a salute worthy of the name. Also the prescribed salute is the prettiest and snappiest salute of all national salutes, so let's keep it that way and make it a salute that is worthy of the name.

THE CHILKAT POST.

Its a Clever Get Up.

The News extends congratulations to The CHILKAT POST, of Fort William H. Seward, Alaska. This paper simply shows what can be done along the news line if the people desire it. It is a six-page paper and shows originality. The editor of The News had the idea that all you could do in Alaska during the Winter was shovel snow paths and read, but we note that there is considerable social doings and that indoor athletic sports are not forgotten. Also that a sense of humor prevails as will be noted from some of the following names of the bowling teams: "The Hoochers," "Rustlers," "Grapejuicers," "Homebrewers" and others. It is also noted that "Short-sheeting" is a more or less popular sport among the soldiers in Alaska as well as here in the States.

The News wishes you well, for all the Success and Prosperity that the New Year will surely bring forth to you. Keep her going and let's hear from you each week.

SECRETARY DENBY REPORTS ON STATUS OF SCRAPPING TREATY

cruiser, November, 1922; Agincourt, November, 1922; Erin, December, 1922; Lion, end of December, 1922 .

The status of the Colossus and Agamemnon is unknown except that the Agamemnon is being used as a target ship. (These vessels were allowed to be retained for non-combatant purposes.)

The Australian government has decided to scrap the battle cruiser Australia.

Following ships have been sunk: One cruiser, one destroyer, one submarine.

Following ships not affected by the treaty have been sold since Feb. 6, 1922: Two cruisers, four light cruisers, six destroyers, two torpedo boats, twenty-four submarines.

This does not include ships on the disposal list but not sold.

France.

Ships required to be scrapped under terms of treaty:

France is not required to scrap any completed ships. One of the ships she was permitted to retain, the France, has been wrecked. France had five battleships under construction at the beginning of the war that have not been completed.

It is proposed to complete one of these, the Bearn, as an aircraft carrier. Under the treaty another could be completed to replace the France. No steps, so far as known, have been taken to dispose of these ships.

Ships not defined by treaty:

Since Feb. 6, 1922, the following have been disposed of: One battleship, two armoured cruisers, two light cruisers, second line, and nine torpedoboats.

Japan.

Ships required to be scrapped under terms of treaty:

Certain preliminary work of removal of guns and turrets, and in some cases removal of armor and engines, is being done on the battleship Hizen, Ikoma, Ibuki, Mikas, Kashima, Katori and Kuruma.

The battleships Satsuma, Aki and Settsu have been placed in the fourth reserve (instead of being scrapped.) Work has been suspended on the battleships Kaga and Tosa and the battle cruisers Abagi, Akagi and Takoa. No work had been done on these two except to lay the keels. Work on the machinery of the battle cruisers Amagi and Akagi is proceeding, with the evident intention of completing these ships as aircraft carriers as permitted under the treaty.

The Japanese Ministry of Marine has stated that, while work preliminary to scrapping will be done, the hulls will not be broken up or sunk until the treaties have been ratified by all the powers.

The following were removed from the effective list on March 28, 1922: One battleship, one mine layer, three coast defense ships, one cruiser, one gunboat, nine small destroyers, five submarines, thirteen torpedoboats. Of these, only the battleship is definitely known to have been disposed of.

The following has been wrecked: One light cruiser.

The foregoing covers by name all Japanese ships embraced within the terms of the treaty.

Italy.

Ships required to be scrapped under terms of treaty:

Italy is not required to scrap any completed ships under the treaty.

The battleship Caracciolo, under construction, has been disposed of, and the contracts for the battleships Colombo, Colonna and Morosini annulled.

The battleship Leonardo da Vinci, which Italy may retain under the treaty, and which was salvaged after sinking, will not be reconstructed.

Ships not defined by treaty:

Italy has not disposed of any vessels of war since the adjustment of the conference.

29th Infantry News Notes

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Now that our holidays are over, it's time to snap out of it and settle down to hard work. From the effect the lay-off has had on some members of the Company, it will be weeks before hard application will return them to former standards.

To top it all, after our period of ease, comes pay day—well, it is a miracle that we are still going comparatively strong and are on our feet.

Everybody seems to have enjoyed the holiday vacation except the Battalion Clerk. He says his duties kept him from obtaining the full measure of freedom that should have been his. I suppose he was kept busy opening the mail for the Battalion Commander, who received many pleasant answers to his Christmas Greeting cards, which were sent to the relatives of the men in the Battalion.

Conley ain't went to town in uniform!

COMPANY "E."

Well, well, Lieutenants Gailey and Mehegan are back from their 10 day leaves and looking fine. Only one thing wrong, they both claim their leaves should have been 30 days. That would have been nice, all right.

Another good man gone wrong. Cpl. DeVoe re-enlisted for three more years. Now he is praying that the 25-year bill will go through, so he will only have two years to do. Oh, well, three years isn't long, Bert. Especially when you say it quick.

"G" Company beat us at basketball the other night. They have a very good team, and we sure wish them luck. The score: "G" 33; "E" 12.

Well, Newman, you're a hero now all right. But you would look a lot better with a pitchfork than with a basketball. They may let you blow the whistle again some time.

Roanoke, Ala., is an unknown quantity with us, but we sure would like to know why Sgt. Seabury has to go there so frequently. Is it a girl, or do you just like the climate, Seabury?

Famous sayings of men of "E" Company: Pvt. Hickman, "Who has a cigarette?" Pvt. Gingras, "I didn't lose that game." Cpl. New, "Who wants to play pinochle?" Cpl. Darley, "They wasn't supposed to win that game." Pvt. Bendinelli, "Who's going to the snuff chewers?"

Pvt. Eppard has a new "cheese hound."

Once upon a time there was a bum bugler, but Pvt. Rucker isn't that kind. He is doing guard now, and he is a good bugler, too. Stick to it, Emil.

Listen, Lester, did you sure enough marry that girl when you had that French leave? Or are you just kidding the boys?

Since the Battalion Commander gave our reporter a call for not turning in news, there has been a wonderful improvement. That must be some of Sgt. Julius' "Dip stuff."

We are going to instruct Sgt. Washholz in the art of cooking rimless hot-cakes.

Wonder where Sgt. Wachholz got those 75 one dollar bills he deposited this month. Is it a secret, Paul?

That girl from Wedowee sure does keep Evans busy. Watch your step, Mark. Rings cost money now.

How about that remark about "Further orders," Mike?

COMPANY "F."

We will soon have a Recreation Room that will rank with any in the Regiment. Our "Skipper," Captain Orr, and Lt. Raaen are doing their utmost to give us a real place for recreation.

Just discovered two human canaries, "Hungry" (Corp. Warner) and "Bill" (Corp. Williams). When it comes to whistling they are the "turtle's antlers." They are the only two that think so.

"Hiram Young is some "Billiardist," I must say, he shoved seven of the little ivories in the holes provided for them, without stopping to chalk up. Hiram wants the universe to get acquainted with this fact.

Private Lupica is right at home now. The 1st Sgt. decided that he was just the man to spread the fertilizer around our "lawn." He has plenty of experience in that line. He isn't satisfied out there, he comes into the Recreation Room and continues to spread "it."

Our esteemed mechanic, Private 1st Class. Spec. 6th Class "Eustace" Trogden, certainly does believe in giving honest and faithful service. He worked last Sunday putting the floor in the recreation room. When it is finished "Eust" insists that he is going to "pitch" a good one. Watch your "apple cart," Trog, two-thirds for six is rather hard to get over.

We have a man who certainly has a sweet tooth. His daily cry in the mess hall is, "Please pass the sugar." First man in the "Chow House" and the last one to come out. I won't mention any names, but I do believe his last name is Frank Philips.

Since the pool shark got transferred, two famous characters have sprung up, namely, Corp. Warner and Corp. Williams. They are the future "champs" of the Co. Better watch your step, Corp. Vallee, they may "spot" you 25 on 50.

When it comes to telling experiences of a thrilling nature, well, Philips sure is entitled to sit at the head of the class. It is very exciting to listen to this distinguished person relate a few of his escapades (?) particularly how he managed to dodge his landlady when she pursued him for her monthly "board."

We have on a very short timer in the company. He sure is worried as to what to do. Better take on once more, "Mack," you know it is rather cold up North in this weather.

Derbyshire said he isn't going to take on any more. Don't worry, "Derb," you have plenty of time in which to change your mind.

Trogden is going to give dancing lessons every Saturday night in the recreation room for the benefit of those that are interested. "Eustace" is as graceful on the floor as that bird they call the "hippopotamus."

Our efficient "Slum Sgt.," Sidney Clarke, got mussed up in the basketball game, as usual. "Erb" hasn't played a game without getting knocked out of shape, force of habit, I suppose.

Our Co. Clerk, Sgt. Stephenson, and his moustache are getting along very nicely.

At least a dozen men remarked how pleasant the "Top" was this morning. Maybe "Santa Claus" was good to him.

Battling "Shadow" (Pvt. 1st Class Metzinger) deposited $15.00 pay day. He's a short timer. Better late than never, "Metz." You'll need a lot o' that green stuff to keep that bank roll growing.

COMPANY "G."

In a hard fought contest at the 29th Infantry gymnasium, last Tuesday night, "G" Company sent "E" Company's hopes for the championship of the 2nd Bn., on the rocks. The first half ended with a score of 12-3 in favor of "G" Company. "Hi" Davis was forced to leave the game at the end of the first half, owing to a goat riding contest. The "G" Company team played a good offensive and defensive game. Franz and Kjelstom leading in scores, not mentioning the splendid work of Parker and Johnson. Brown led for scores in Company "E," capturing six (6) points.

Sgt. Rodgers was seen putting a new coat of paint on the interior of his tent. Wonder what's up now?

COMPANY "H."

We have a new horseshoer in the company now. He has been commended by a Brigadier General of the Cavalry School and recommended as a Regimental Instructor. All the 29th horseshoers better watch their step or Essex will be hot on their trail.

Our famous basketeers added another victory to their credit. They defeated "F" Co. last Tuesday by the score of 18 to 17. They are more determined than ever to win every game.

Everyone enjoyed the holidays and there doesn't seem to be any bad effects from them, except in two or three persons. They would like to know why they can't have the holidays continued until after next New Year's.

1st BATTALION, 29th INFANTRY RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS

Signal Corps News Items

After several weeks absence we again take our pen in hand and drop a few notes from this organization. Our prolonged absence has not been due to the fact that we had lost interest in the Signal Corps column, but was mainly due to our inability to find time to write our notes due to impressing business at the Signal Office.

At last everything in connection with the Signal Corps activities had got to running smoothly, all sections and branches had become accustomed to their respective duties, and we had breated a long sigh that at last we could sit on an easy seat and everything would run smoothly. But, however, our hopes were shattered last week when we received notification from the Fifth Service Company, from which organization our Signal Corps personnel is furnished, to the effect that the enlisted personnel of the company had been cut forty per cent, and that our local personnel would therefore have to be cut in the near future accordingly, which means that once again new special duty men will have to be trained to take the places of the now skilled Signal Corps men who will eventually be relieved.

Wonders will never cease. At last our handsome dashing Cable Connector, Corporal Seeley, has learned to climb a few feet on a pole. Go to it Corporal, you will soon be able to reach the top.

Anyone having a Dodge car of any type, and any number of cylinders, for sale are requested to communicate with Sergt. Leonard at the Signal Office. Last week about forty Dodge cars from Columbus, some with tires, some without, some hitting on one cylinder, some on two, and some hitting on none, were parked in front of the Signal Office for Sergt. Leonard's inspection. One man from Columbus made three trips to the Signal Office with a car that he could sell for twice as much in town as he was asking Sergt. Leonard for it (so he said), but he would rather sell it to the Sergeant for less. However, Sergt. Leonard has not purchased yet.

Cpl. Mills, one of the star gazers at the Signal Corps Meteorlogical station, has for the past few weeks been pounding the typewriter keys in the Signal Office. The Corporal says he has enjoyed the work but he has only a few more days to pound them.

We have often heard the expression dropped by other personel of the Signal Detachment that the Meteorlogical men were only beating the government out of their money. We are, however, in a position to dispute this. A few weeks ago when it clouded all of a sudden and the impression was that in a very short space of time the heavens would pour forth all the water they contained we proceeded to call the Meteorlogical Station and asked if it was going to storm. The Sergeant in charge, Sergeant Baugh, politely informed us that he believed it was.

We noticed last summer when attending the War Department theatre if the night happened to be cool enough that it was not necessary to run the fans that Pvt. Avera would pile the coal into the furnace but Avera must have quit the job of late as we do not see him shoveling coal.

The hot lunch stand, and the guinea pig farm at the Signal Corps Office has closed. Why? Because Hughes is back on the lines working and the mind of his successor, Pvt. Jones, does not run that way.

Last week Pvt. Jones withdrew his application to take the course at the Signal Corps School at Camp Vail. We know that Jones missed a splendid opportunity. But then it could not be helped. Had the Signal Corps met him half way and agreed to establish radio communication between Vail and Columbus, he would undoubtedly have taken the examination for entrace. But then Love works wondrous things.

Victim of 1921 Heard From

We have noted in the columns of The News, and also in circulars, etc., where another stay has been granted in the demotion of the non-commissioned officers of the first three grades. No one rejoices any more than the author that these men still have three months longer to hang on. Any man capable of being promoted to the first three grades is deserving of all the credit that can be shown him. As has been said it would be an injustice to those deserving non-commissioned officers to allow them to be thus demoted; but on the other hand while we are pushing for the retention of these non-coms, while we are rejoicing that the date of demotion has again been postponed, what about the demotions of 1921?

At this time many deserving non-commissioned officers of the first three grades were demoted, although surplus men of the same and higher grades, in order to keep them in these grades were transferred the organization of the demoted men. We demoted non-commissioned officers of 1921, were not given any chance to appear before any examining board. We, like the present men of the same grades, had served the army faithfully for many years. Many of us had served in the first three grades, but the hammer dropped on our heads. No tears were shed for us, no stary of demotion was made, no bills were introduced in our behalf, we were simply dropped one file. Like American solders should, we took our defeat. For nearly two years now we have been performing the same duties as before in a lower grade while we see postponement after postponement in the date of the demotions of the present surplus non-commissioned officers. However, we rejoice with them, that fortune is smiling their way, and live in hopes that even yet the victims of 1921 may be remembered.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS OF 1921.

When these demotions took place in 1921, no one ever suspected that the Army would suffer a further cut and therefore it was simply assumed that these demoted NCO would soon be promoted again to the grade that they had held and therefore legislation was thought necessary. But cheer up 1921, you know that old saying, "It's a long road that has no turn," and from present indication it would appear that the turn has been reached.

BEACH-MOSELY MAKES PRESENTATION.

The Post Athletic and Recreation Officer and the Editor are in receipt of two wonderful calendars for the present year.

They are the prettiest that have been received to date. The calendar is thirty inches wide and 44 inches long. The picture showing an Indian maid in a canoe on a moonlight night, which is 16x22, is entitled "Laughing Waters," has an excellent color effect.

We thank you, Beach-Mosely Co., not only for your thoughtfulness in remembering us but for sending us such a pretty calendar.

Article 15.

1915.

Headquarters, Band and Staff and the Second Battalion left Fort Jay, the First Battalion left Fort Porter and the Third Battalion left Fort Niagara on March 16 and embarked on the 17th at Weehawken, N. J., on the U. S. A. T. "Buford" for service in Panama. The transport arrived at Cristobal, C. Z., at 7 a. m. of the 25th. The Regiment disembarked on the 26th and proceeded by rail to Camp Gaillard, Culebra, C. Z., for station.

Culebra had formerly been the seat of the Civil Government of the Canal Zone and had not up to the time of the arrival of the 29th been occupied by troops. A very large amount of hard work became necessary to change the place into one suitable for a military post. By the end of the year, however, a remarkable transformation had taken place and troops and families were fairly comfortable and the Regiment settled down to duties, work and privileges of serving together. For over five years the 29th had been split up into three Battalion posts and except for brief maneuver periods had not been together.

Under the skillful management of our beloved Colonel and the faithful co-operation of the entire command, Camp Gaillard became a delightful place, and it is doubtful if at any time in the history of the Regiment if it has ever been happier.

Culebra, situated on the west bank of Culebra Cut, gave all stationed there a full view of everything passing through the Canal.

In July the Fleet passed through. Later in the year the Canal was closed to traffic because of a tremendous slide. For months the dredges worked day and night before traffic was resumed. During this time the 27th Infantry westward bound arrived at Cristobal and remained on the Zone until the Canal was opened.

Officers assigned to the 29th in 1915 were:

Lt. Col. Evan M. Johnson.

Majors J. J. Bradley and Peter Murray.

Captains George S. Goodale, William H. Clendenin, Thomas M. Hunter, Thomas A. Pearce, Ira Fravel and G. Maury Cralle.

First Lieutenants Earle M. Wilson, Joseph A. Atkins, George R. Guild, John L. Jenkins and H. Clay Supplee.

Second Lieutenants Medorem Crawford, Jr., Henry Terrell, Jr., Harray A. Musham, Fred B. Carrithers and Allen S. Boyd, Jr.

COLUMBUS ARMY BRIDGE CLUB.

The Columbus Army Bridge Club met at Muscogee Club at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. The hostesses were Mrs. Besse, Mrs. Ennis and Mrs. Heald. There were eventeen tables of players.

There were three prizes given, the first prize being won by Mrs. Cook, the second prize by Miss McLendon, and third prize by Mrs. Mastind.

The hostesses for the next meeting are Mrs. Fountain, Mrs. Gessford and Mrs. Gibson.

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 15.)

The company moved from Dun-sur-Meuse at 5:00 p. m., November 9th, and arrived at Murvaux at 7:00 p.m. Two platoons were sent forward on the road to Louppy, and the remainder of the company went out on various roads to make reconnaissances. The company left Murvaux on November 10th, and marched to the Bois de Remolville where two platoons were sent forward to Louppy to construct a bridge over the Loisson river. This work was completed at 11:00 p. m. on the night of November 10th, in spite of terrific shell and machine gun fire.

While the detachment was at work, a dud struck the then demolished permanent bridge across the stream just a few yards away. The bridge which Company "E" built was exactly on the same site which the Germans used in 1914. The Germans destroyed this bridge but the abuttments were used by Company "E." This was the last work the company did during the hostilities. On November 11th the company moved to Louppy and worked on a permanent bridge over the Loisson river.

COMPANY "F."

On October 27th Company "F" moved from Malancourt to Septsarges Woods, from which point the company worked on roads preparatory for the offensive which was to commence November 1st. The company, on October 31st, proceeded to Madeline Farm to operate in the drive from there, but plans were changed and the company was sent back to Nantillois to prepare for the crossing of the Meuse at Brieulles. Here the best methods of building the light canvas portable pontoon bridge were out by building bridges on dry land. On the night of November 1st the bridge material was moved into Brieulles and concealed in sheds there. The following day a reconnaissance was made to determine the best site for the bridge and in the evening infantry patrols were ferried across the Meuse in canvas boats. Between 4:00 o'clock and 5 o'clock on the morning of November 3rd the first light pontoon bridge was successfully thrown across the river and a company of the 6th Infantry crossed. Just as they left the river bank to cross the marsh to the canal they were met by heavy machine gun fire, but succeeded in gaining the shelter of the canal bank. More could not be done, since by this time it was broad daylight, so Company "F" and the infantry lay under the bank all day, until darkness allowed the work to go on, at which time reinforcements came up and a barrage was laid down. At regular intervals during the entire night, the enemy machine gunners swept the banks of the canal with deadly fire, but before dawn of the following morning, two bridges had been successfully thrown across the water. The damage done to the bridge construction the preceding night was repaired, and the 10th Infantry Brigade crossed to the east banks of the canal, driving the enemy before it.

On the 5th of November, the company broke camp and marched to within about two kilometers of Brieulles and camped for the night. The following day one platoon accompanied the infantry on the advance, while the remainder of the company guarded and kept the Brieulles bridge in repair.

On the morning of the 7th the company broke camp and marched to Dun-sur-Meuse, where it was billeted in the buildings recently abandoned by the enemy. All during the day the music could be heard from pianos abandoned by the Germans. The men were in excellent spirits for it was evident that the war was nearly over. The work here consisted of corduroy road constructions and heavy pontoon bridge maintenance, as well as the regulating of traffic over the congested roads.

On the 10th, the company moved to Murvaux and work on roads between Dun-sur-Meuse and Brandeville, and on the day of the armistice moved from Brandeville.

ENGINEER TRAIN.

The Seventh Engineer Train arrived at Esnes on October 6th. A large engineer dump was established there, and all transportation was continually in use hauling necessary supplies to troops then fighting near Mountfaucon.

On the night of October 13th, the night before the initial attack of the 5th Division, the Engineer Train (animal section) hauled the supplies required for the following day to Madeline Ferme, then only a few hundred yards behind the most advanced line. Sergeant Bert Klise, during the entire offensive, remained in charge of advanced engineer dumps and rendered most excellent service.

Under the direction of 1st Lieutenant Peter Murphy and assisted by Lieutenant Earl W. Vinnedge, the 7th Engineer Train demonstrated their efficiency under the most adverse conditions. Had it not been for the untiring energy displayed by the men of the train, much of the work accomplished by the regiment would have been impossible.

During the entire Meuse-Argonne offensive, the men of the 7th Engineer Train were under shell fire and airplane bombing. Although in many tight places and on roads continuously under shell fire, not one truck driver or teamster left his vehicle to seek a safe shelter. For two long days the trucks of the train carried lumber from Cunel and Cuisy forward to Clery-le-Petit, where a corduroy road was being laid across a swamp, making the crossing of the Meuse river at Dun easier. The train supplied the wants of the engineers, who threw the pontoon bridge across the river and canal. The twelve four-line teams were attached to the companies of the regiment and were constantly on the road.

On November 7th the Engineer dumps at Esnes, Cuisy and Cunel were moved forward to Liny and on November 10th the train moved forward to Brandeville. The trucks of the 7th Engineer Train were the first motor vehicles to enter Brandeville. This organization entered Brandeville under a heavy fire, but escaped without a casualty. At the time the armistice went into effect the train was stationed at a large engineer dump taken from the Germans. During the entire active campaign the Engineer Train suffered but one casualty.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

The Recruiting Officer was supplied with several of our Thanksgiving menus and he reports that most applicants ask to be enlisted for the I. S. D.

Recently an Officer from Headquarters was inspecting the Detachment Kitchen. Taking a spoon he drank some liquid from a large pot on the stove. "Sergeant," he said, "this tastes like dishwater to me," "It is, sir," replied Sgt. Stewart.

The Finance Detachment asked to be attached to the I. S. D. for rations. They've got the money but know who has the chow.

The Grand Goblin is back from furlough and on the job. Evil doers, beware.

Several re-enlisted men from the Recruit Center are in the Detachment Office, and are making good.

It seems that some Columbus girl has vamped Pvt. Willie J. Green. We expect to hear the wedding bells soon tolling for another victim of matrimony.

Master Sgt. Goodwin is contemplating buying a new car since he sold his buick; no more second-hand cars for him. He swore off when one of his friends backed his buggy into a tree.

A few of the stragglers from the School Division finished record firing the other day and Father Grinstead increased his pay $5.00 more knocking out 305. Not so bad for an old man about ready to retire.

Jazz Magoni still contends that if he hadn't lost his trigger finger, at 200 yards off hand he would at least have made marksman.

Sgt. Brant was the ranking man in the outfit pay-day. After the "Goldbricks" had been paid he was the first one called in, but it seems as though there had been a mistake in the calling of the roll and the error was soon discovered, as Brant was seen making an about face with a few others to take their regular turn.

It is rumored throughout the outfit that one of our Sergeants is well on his way to the grade of Master Sergeant. How come, when we have a lot of old-timers on the verge of retiring.

Medical Department Notes

The American Red Cross is to be commended on their thoughtfulness at Christmas time, in the gift of Christmas stockings to the patients in the hospital. The stockings were greatly appreciated and the men spoke very warmly of the Red Cross. Thanks is also expressed for the gifts of the trees in Wards One, Three, and Five and in the Detachment Mess Hall. Mrs. Frank Green, acting in the absence of Major Green, is to be especially thanked for her interest in the worthy project that was so successfully carried through by her personal efforts.

The name of Miss Harriette Doughty, former hostess at the Service Club, brought smiles of pleasure to the faces of the patients in Ward One, on Christmas day. The reason being the thoughtful gifts Miss Doughty sent to the patients, which went toward helping to relieve the monotony of spending Christmas in the hospital.

The Medical Department Bridge Club met January 2nd, at the home of Captain and Mrs. Frank Green. Prizes were won by Major Tobias, Mrs. Roby and Mrs. White. After the game a delicious salad course with coffee was served, and all enjoyed a delightful evening.

Motor Transport Notes

Sgt. Wallace, (Little Willie) and Morris Gray (Kid Swift) of Columbus georgia; played a very interesting game of pool in the Enlisted men Club, M. T. C., before a large and enthusiastic crowd. The game was one of the hardest fought contests of eight ball pool ever staged between two amateurs. This season Sgt. Wallace the winner of the contest challenged open to any of the stick artists in Post.

An interesting letter has been received from Sgt. Wanton (Pickles) says he expects to be back with the boys on or about the 5th, with a new line from the Capital City.

Mack Davis, (the Moon Light) of M. T. C., said to a Sixth Avenue Waitress bold—"Look here girl, My Cocoa's Cold."

You impudent thing, I cannot help that—if your Cocoa's Cold, (Put on your hat.)

Ques.—"Why did (Kid Jones) leave D. C.?

Ans.—He knew there was pleasure to be enjoyed in Georgia.

Kid Campbell (the M. T. C. Vamp) can't be fooled on the carats of Diamonds. (Why?) He made a bet $3.00 to $5.00 that Grays 1-4 Carat Stud was an 1-8 Carat.

Ques.—Why has (Boy Child) closed his shack on Sixth Avenue?

Ans.—Blue carried him down.

Ques. What has happened to onr Flat Brush Artist (Brown)?

Ans.—Made a two day touch down in Columbus scuffling and now he is suffering.

Comrade—Jac, I haven't had it.

Jac. — (Mess Sergeant) Should have had it. Here for you.

THEY'RE STILL IN USE

The other evening an M. P. ran across a soldier who was steering a rough course up a back street. The M. P. immediately offered his assistance.

"Much obliged," answered Old Pinaud, gratefully. "Just steer me up where you see that light burnin'; I'll be aw-right then."

"Oh, you think that't your company, do you?" snorted the M. P.

"No, no, no," replied Old Pinaud, "but thassa a lamp post."

5th CORPS NEWS

BETTER ACCOMMODATIONS.

Mr. Crawford, manager of the Howard Bus and Taxi Co., has made arrangements whereby a taxi may now be called at telephone No. 101 Post (Enlisted Men's Service Club).

There will always be at least one taxi there, or if there is no car there at the club when you call, there will be in a very few minutes because a car is on the road out from town. This should prove a great convenience for officers and other persons on the Post who require a taxi in a hurry.

SERVICE CLUB No. 1.

The dance given by Service Club No. 1 on New Year's night was by far the best dance of the season. The Post Hostess is to be commended for the fine class of girls that are now coming to the dances.

Music was furnished by the excellent nine-piece orchestra of the Twenty-ninth Infantry.

Refreshments were served during the intermission consisting of candy, cake and coffee.

REMOUNT SERVICE REPORTS PROGRESS

Country's Horse Supply Has Been Increased by 1,700 Foals During Year.

The United States Remount Service and its ally, the American Remount Association, have contributed 1,700 husky young foals to the horse supply of the country during the year, according to the report of Major C. L. Scott, Chairman of the Breeding Committee of the American Remount Association. This represents the breeding system of 1921 and half as many more mares have been bred this season to swell next year's statistics. Not even half the number of mares bred are represented among the living foals the succeeding year. With foreign governments the percentage is frequently about 35. As the figures given show 40 per cent. and it is estimated that fully 10 per cent. of the foals are not reported, Major Scott considers the actual percentage as probably 50.

The Remount system is to "stand" first-class stallions throughout the whole United States for use at a nominal sum to farmers and breeders everywhere. This will give producers opportunity of using stallions of a class which it would otherwise be impossible for them to maintain.

The number of stallions now on hand at the Remount Service is 261. A majority of these are thoroughbred (runners), 204 being of that classification. Second on the list are the Arabs, of which there are 24, then 14 Morgans, 9 standard bred (trotters), 6 saddle bred and one hackney. In 1920, 160 of these were in service, being bred to 4,200 mares, with the result of 1,700 living foals reported up to last fall. Two hundred and ten stallions have been available this season, mated to 6,200 mares. At the same percentage as this year, at least 2,500 living foals should be recorded in 1923.

Among the principles being preached and insisted on in all breeding centers are:

Not necessarity more horses, but better ones.

Careful selection of mares as to type, soundness and disposition. Violent crosses, such as a coarse draft mare, not permitted.

Elimination of mares that prove poor mothers, or that produce weedy colts, providing other mares show that the stallion is not at fault.

Care and feeding of both mares and colts.

Proper handling, gentling and breaking of colts from birth to maturity.

An appropriation of $150,000 is again being asked from Congress this year.—5th Corps News and Diamond Dust.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

There is an old saying that a man never knows how many friends he has until he is dead. Last week this column was dead, or at least in a state of coma, and much to the surprise and gratification of yours truly, I have been taken to task by several members of the class for missing an issue of the News.

As the escaping convict said, while running away under a hail of bullets, "I never thought that they would miss me so much."

I promise here that we will be represented every week from this time on, unless we are given another Christmas holiday.

Everything in bayonet training is at the double.

* * *

The ranks of the bachelors have been augmented by the arrival of Lt. Bob Verhage, of Ohio. Last Saturday he shipped his brand new wife to the land of snow and ice, and took up his residence in Biglerville. The ways of man passeth all understanding.

* * *

Now, Lieut. Hoozit, please explain the action of the gas.

* * *

One of the gay young captains from one of the coldest states in the country has sworn off taking a lady to the weekly hops. "When I do bring a girl, I don't get a chance to dance with her," he complains.

* * *

One of the best things that Lt. Rice does is hunt for the bath house orderly.

A terrible thing has happened in our area. Some rough officers have stolen a book that explains the approved method of flirting with the handkerchief. The sad part of it is that the Lieutenant that originally bought the useful little book had not learned all the rules before the book was taken. It now appears that he will have to content himself with the common method as approved by the "Society of He-Flappers."

* * *

Have you a little fairy in your home?

* * *

Under threat of exposure, the writer has to tell one on himself. It would remain a dark secret if Capt. Quinn had not been a witness and threatened to spill it if I did not. This is the way it happened. The writer visited the post office one day last week, and as the next formation was to be in Biglerville, he was carrying his rifle with him. He found a pink envelope in his mail box and went out the post office door with the letter clutched tightly in his left hand and the rifle over his right shoulder. With his mind on the writer of the letter, a thousand miles from Benning, he just caught the salute of an enlisted man from the corner of his eye. Forgetting his rifle he nonchalantly answered the salute with a snappy left hander to his hat. Although he caught it right away and tried to beg off, Quinn insisted that it be published, so here it is. At that, I do not believe that Quinn would have seen anything wrong if I had not mentioned it first.

Form for bayonet training; MOVE.

Here is one turned in by a member of the Machine Gunners. One of their aspiring lieutenants has the sweet little habit of jumping up during a conference and exclaiming, "Question! Uh, now the situation is this——" and then going into a long statement of an obvious fact. Then he has another, "Question, Captain! For the benefit of the rest of the class, I will explain what I did," all of which makes a big hit with the rest of the class and the instructors.

* * *

In assembling and stripping the automatic rifle, do not use force; you will find that everything slips in easily.

* * *

Lt. Morrison is sorely puzzled, according to other machine gunners. It seems that one day last week, that section was out on the range, and the lieutenant was acting as gunner. His cone of fire was landing short of the target and to remedy the matter the Lieut. carefully raised his sights but failed to elevate the gun. Strange as it may seem, the elevation of the sights had absolutely no effect on the range and now the gunner is working every evening with pencil and paper trying to figure it out.

* * *

If some of you gentlemen would do a little studying, you would not have to ask so many foolish questions.

* * *

Captain John Easley, who lives in town with his family, has a good joke on his tailor. The captain purchased a pair of breeches which were finished and delivered to him just before Christmas. When he put them on, he discovered a slight rip in the seam beside the right knee. His wife sewed it up for him and he tried them again, only to find another rip on the other knee. After this was repaired, he decided that they were a fair looking pair of breeches. The captain and his family were invited to spend Christmas day with friends in one of the exclusive parts of town, and to make himself pretty, he donned his new clothes. After spending a pleasant part of the day, the captain thought that he detected a draught whenever anyone opened a nearby door. With a cautious hand he investigated, and much to his surprise, found that the nice new breeches had divided into two equal parts. The very polite captain excused himself from the party and bowed himself gracefully out, backward. He then sent an S. O. S. call to his wife, who performed valiantly with a needle and thread, to allow him to again join the others. The captain is now wondering just how long the breeches had been split before he discovered them. Ain't that a good joke on his tailor?

* * *

I would have explained that movement, but it has absolutely no bearing on the action of the weapon, and you would not understand it anyway.

* * *

From the rumors that are going the rounds, the writer of this column could have picked up quite a bit of material for news during the holidays, but I doubt whether it would have showed good judgment to publish it.

Captain Quinn's favorite remark: "Now this is not for publication."

* * *

Most of the rifle section members seem to think that twenty hours of bayonet training is nowhere near enough. They think that it ought to be at least one hundred hours, divided into ten-hour periods. Yes, they do.

* * *

I wonder how McCall ever came out with McDowell.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

We have at least one applicant for the position as farmer next spring. Cpl. Cochran went to town and bought himself some work gloves and he says he wants them to dress up in, but we know better.

Oh; We know you, you little rascal, you come from Baltimore and the rest of the gang are well aware of the fact. But don't let that worry you Welton, we all come from some place.

Pvt. Wise wants to drop Cpl. Adams a letter so he will come back; he says the job as Company clerk is too tough for him. Seems rather queer, he used to like the Orderly room.

Just keep up what you are doing, Stover. You get them and we'll make 'em stand to attention.

Some body give Sgt. Ohrvall a C. N. candle so he can put it under his tent. He don't know what it is, but there is something wrong under the building.

Among the guests present at the dinner given by the company on New Year's day, were Miss June Brown, accompanied by Sgt. and Mrs. Brown. Every one is happy when Miss Brown comes to the company, because she puts life into the outfit every time she is here.

On pay day is the only time that the men refuse to be driven away from the table in the recreation room.

Mind Your Business

Since the Old Year went out weeping, we can safely assume that 1922 began to realize the irreparable damage that she did to our Army and Navy. Death-bed repentances should not be permitted, for it gives the wicked a long time to do evil that can be wiped out in a few minutes.

The Editor recently saw a picture of the Mess Hall of Battery "A," 83rd F. A., as it was decorated at Xmas time. Mess Sgt. Huff is to be congratulated for the originality displayed. Also, judging from the expression on the faces of the men while eating, one would say that the feast was entirely satisfactory.

A short time ago the C. O. 1st Bn. Hdqrs. Co. received a letter with a pass enclosed from a man in his company who requested that the pass be extended indefinitely and returned to him. It was!

24th Infantry News Notes

that they have a slight idea, of the game and not those who know the game.) Keep them going, Kism.

Pvt. Jesse Hill seems to be very happy since he has two of the girls' pictures he's in love with. Look out, Kid Hill, there's not very much love if you have two of 'em to contend with. My advice to you is to be careful and not marry either of the two because all women are too common these days.

1st Sgt. Jennings (alias Pop Jennings) has invented a new method of carrying his pipes, (T. U. G.-B. O. A. T. S.) one in his hip pocket, one in his mouth, and one in his Overland tool box for reserve, and still has the nerve to give Sgt Adams the job of making a 637 for the spare parts that goes with them. Steady, Pop, the boys in the office say the one you use in your mouth is enough to run Mrs. Jennings and little Jim out of the Post.

Pvt. Sloan Williams (better known as Sgt.) was seen in his best boxing spirit Sunday just before the conductor of the Chicago North Western stew limited opened the door for dinner, illustrating a few of K. O. punches right and left jabs, etc. The K. O. jab consists of a hot hunch on the leg and followed up with a short left jab on the bur of the ear. (Some K. O. system S. A. R. G. T.)

Watch your step, John Bell, you are making your regular tour to Jim Pitt College (Bottom). Wonder if your girl finishes there this term. Be careful, Bell, and stay away.

A certain Corporal bought a watch for a certain young lady valued at $.98. Be careful, Kitchen, and do not pawn it to Cpl. Bradwell for the first payment as he is rearing for such cheap soak bargains.

This Cpl. J. H. K. is too popular for Co. "L"—would like to know if we could trade him for another Cpl. that's not so popular as Cpl. J. H. K. It's a mystery to certain members of the Company how show girls come out here and ask for no one but Cpl. J. H. K. Must have paid a visit recently. (How long did you entertain, Cpl. H.?)

Cpl. Marley has a new method of sleeping, driving old Beck, calling sheep, hunting rabbits, and taming lions, tigers, bears, and S.K.U.N.K.S.

Pvt. Porter Rogers was caught depending on the F. A. I. R ? S. E. X. for transportation from Shady Rest to Co. "L," last seen counting hard rocks from the city to the Fort. (Be careful, Porter, try to range your gun in the lower section of the city, and not in the Blue Ridge Mountains of East Highlands and you will be able to join that jaw bone taxi squad.

Pvt. Chairs Perry, (Old Timer), quits the round house every Saturday and Sunday to give round instructions to Sgt. Scott's stew specializers. Steady, Old Timer; you have 21 weeks of 6.8.10.12.

A special invitation has been granted Walter Bennett to attend the wrestling and boxing class at the Gym. Why not wait until the regular Wednesday night dance? It has been reported that a good many have been suffering from swoolen feet where your number 12s didn't have any heart while they were gassing.

Walk straight, Teddy. You were seen coming out of a certain Corporal's shack. (Be still, Kitchen, it was not yours.)

Pvt. Charlie Vaughn is thinking whether or not he must stay in the army or go to the Millions. His every day talk is, "If I can do this—if I do this, will I succeed? If I just could, or maybe if I do this, I'll be alright." Our advice to you is to stick your left hand up for three more hot ones and you will be finished with. Those if's and and's. (Watch your step, unsettled mind.)

COMPANY "M."

Cpl. Washington entered the restaurant on Sixth avenue to get something to eat, with the prospect of a fat tip the waiter proceeded to effect a liaison. "Good morning, Captain, what may be your order." After the waiter had returned his order and had gone back to the kitchen she returned again and said, "Anything else for you Lieutenant?" Then as the Corporal was getting ready to leave she said, "Let me help you, General," and as she helped him to put on his coat he put his hands in his pocket and pulled out a dime. With the waiter looking very disappointed, said "Good-bye Private."

Pvt. Garfield Hicks, better known as "Battling Hicks," is recovering from a severe shock of matrimonias influenza, after sitting up all night studying loveology and preparing to make a great '23 proposal. He arrived in the city only to find his little sweetie at the altar of good-bye sweetheart and hello bubby. Hard luck, old boy.

Everybody is singing the jelly roll blues while Sgt. Thompson of Co. L and his Janitors are eating big stick candy and writing the Cinamon Roll news.

Sgt. Henly, mess sergeant, Co. M, has made his resolution to feed hard beans and slum the rest of the year. Look out, Henly, that will never do.

Pvt. Sim Reed is very worried after he saw Sgt. Hill receive a letter from his girl in Virginia. Reed, watch Hill, for he will gas you.

Pvt. Howard D. Jones has been playing quarterback on the N. C. O.'s lines. Never mind, old boy, football season is over and you can't make a touchdown now.

RECRUITING SERGEANT FOUND TWO DUBLIN CITIZENS HE SERVED WITH IN THE ARMY

Sergeant Aaron M. Winn, of the recruiting office here, is now much pleased to be located at Dublin. Since coming here two weeks ago, he was very much surprised, as well as pleased, to find here living in Dublin, two ex-soldiers that he soldiered with over 20 years ago in the Philippine Islands during the uprising with the natives there. These men are now two of Dublin's best citizens. They are Ben Hurley, electrician with C. F. Ludwig & Co., known all over the city, and Clarence W. Muse, one of the best known meat market proprietors here.

The sergeant and his two old buddies have spent several hours together discussing many incidents that happened during the war 20 years ago.—Dublin Courier-Herald and Dispatch.

Doughboys Take Fast Game From the Bulldog Five, 25-17

(By Brooke Leman in Enquirer-Sun)

Infantry 25, Georgia 17.

Bulldogs and Doughboys battled across the boards of the Infantry gym last night in a close and exciting melee which sent chills and thrills up the backbones of the biggest house which has graced a Blue cage affair this season. The chills from the closely fought battle were only equalled by the occasional shivers caused by a somewhat low temperature in the Doughboy cage.

The Infantry took an early lead and for a time unloosed the swiftest offense they have shown this season. In the first six minutes of play the tally board read Infantry 8, Georgia 1. But right then and there something happened. Either the Blue looked at the score board and became overconfident or the Christmas holidays have not yet worn off for the Infantry put on the brakes. When the Blue slowed up the Red and Black stepped out and began to fling a few baskets of their own.

From that time on it was nip and tuck and although Georgia could never overtake the Infantry lead they clipped it at one time to a narrow three points margin—decidedly too close for any degree of comfort on the part of many Benning fans who were present. But the Blue proved equal to the occasion and edged out of the tight hole when Harmen tossed two baskets.

The first half ended with the Infantry leading by a 16 to 10 tally. Both teams came back with a decidedly hard fight and guarded air tight in the second chapter. This coupled with inability to connect on long shots in this period by either team cut down the scoring. The Infantry hung up 9 points to 7 for the Red and Black in this frame.

Thus passed one of the hardest fought games ever played on the local floor and the Infantry maintained its undefeated record only by the narrow margin of eight points. Georgia looked worn from the long road trip and when it is considered that this is the fourth melee since Saturday for the Bulldogs this may easily be understood.

All but one point for the Infantry came as a result of field goals. The Infantry had an exceedingly off night when it came to tossing fouls and out of six attempts only rang the gong for one. On the other hand Georgia accumulated but five field baskets and annexed the remaining seven points on free chunks. A smiling young gent by the name of Mr. Gurr had a peculiar penchant for tossing them in whenever a penalty was called.

Honnen and Millard led in the tally making for the Infantry, each connecting with eight points. Millard did most of his scoring in the first half while Honnen came nobly to the rescue in the last chapter when the tally was close—much too close for comfort. Lippincott and Rock played spiendid defensive games.

For Georgia Gurr led in points scored, all coming from free throws, while his partner in a forward berth, Watson, rang up the high percentage of field baskets, annexing three. Joe Bennett played the best defensive game of the Red and Black quint and was all over the floor at one time. To Joe also goes honor for the most sensational shot of the evening which came when he rang up his lone field goal. Bennett alternated with Butler at center in the second frame.

Sam Boney, captain of the Red and Black five, did not arrive with the squad. It was announced that Boney had not joined the team as expected.

The line up:

| Infantry 25; | | Georgia 17 |
|---|---|---|
| Honnen 9 | Forward | Gurr 17 |
| Rock 4 | Forward | Watson 6 |
| Vevia 0 | Forward | Miehrs 0 |
| Millard 8 | Center | Butler 2 |
| Smith 4 | Guard | Bennett 2 |
| Lippincott 0 | Guard | Clark 0 |
| Gayle 0 | Center | |

Score by halves:

|---|---|
| Infantry | 16 9—25 |
| Georgia | 10 7—17 |

Field goals: Infantry 12; Georgia 5.
Foul goals: Infantry 1; Georgia 7.
Time of periods: 20 minutes.
Referee: Eddy.

15th Tank Battalion News

If you are about to join the Benedicts you should not fail to notify your scribe. If for any reason it is a matter of secrecy and you so inform us we will not fail to so state in our column. This will insure as much secrecy as you uusally can expect when you inform some of your best friends "confidentially." Somehow we are impressed with the idea you might fail us and our solicitation would be more acceptable to one of your friends. Therefore, if you are the best friend of one of our members who is contemplating matrimony, do not fail to exhibit your friendly interest. Thusly you will demonstrate your consideration, which will undoubtedly be most appreciable. If you are about to take unto yourself the dearest, sweetest, etc., etc., little girl in the world or if one of your best friends thinks he is about to make such an acquisition, remember our telephone number—123.

Lieut. Phipps, who is absent, sick at Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, sends holiday greetings to the Battalion.

Sgt. Kelly, "The Morgan of the Tank Corps," after clipping coupons all year, has taken a 30-day furlough which he intends to spend on his estate near Columbia, S. C.

Sgt. Lindsey has decided to reenlist and says he will continue to do so if necessary until we beat the 1st Battalion. Liberty also has decided to do likewise.

The sweaters which the log hut committee agreed to give each member of the Battalion who makes a team in major sports have been received and are now in the hands of Arthur, the Battalion Tailor, who is sewing on the insignia. They will be distributed to the football team at a reception given in their honor later in the month.

Did You See the Play?

MADAME OLGA PETROVA COMES UP TO EXPECTATION.

Those who attended the play "The White Peacock" at the Springer Opera House on last Tuesday night had the pleasure of not only seeing but also hearing Madame Olga Petrova.

It is seldom that a person of the renown of Olga Petrova will consent to stop at the smaller cities, so Columbus must be attracting attention beyond the state line.

The play itself is not what you would call a "deep play," but still there was considerable food for thought.

The scene is laid in Seville, Spain, and features the blue moonlight, orange blossoms and nightingales. Madame Petrova plays the leading role herself as a disillusioned wife of a Spanish nobleman, whom she leaves, and leads the life of an artist. She is supported by good talent.

All in all, the play was thoroughly enjoyed by all as could be noted by the attention of the crowded opera house, and those who were unfortunate enough to miss the play have something to regret.

Thumb-Nail Theme.

Victor, a man of mystery, though evidently of bird and breeding, enters a soldier's cafe in Algiers where a group of French troops are being entertained by "Cigarette," the daughter of the regiment," and a prime favorite with officers and men of the army in Morocco. He is asked to enlist, and with the air of a fatalist declares he does not care whether he joins the French or Arabian forces. Patriotic Cigarette, angered, offers to let the dice decide, and winning, for her beloved France, Victor becomes a soldier under the tri-color. His exclusiveness is against him at first, but he proves to be the bravest of brave in many a skirmish with the enemy. Cigarette is piqued that he of all the soldiers will have nothing to do with her, although he is always most courteous. Enter Ben Ali, an Arabian Shiek, who pretends to side with the French. He attempts to involve Victor in his treachery, but is repulsed and is framed by the Shiek. Nettled by the gallant bearing and evident breeding of "Corporal Victor," the French commandant seeks to humiliate him before a visitor, Lady Corona d'Amague, who through interest in a set of ivory chessmen Victor has carved discovers that she knew him in the old days when he was a British officer and nobleman. Cigarette is at all times suspicious, jealous and alternately wildly happy and depressed. Victor and Lady d'Amague fall in love but Victor swears he cannot return, and Lady d'Amague departs. Suspecting the Shiek Cigarette agrees to go with him to his desert harem in order to learn his treacherous plans. She discovers the frame-up has resulted in Victor being condemned to be shot and that the Shiek plans a night attack on the French barracks. Follows her wild, mad ride to save both her beloved army comrades and the condemned Victor. In one of the greatest scenes ever recorded on the silver screen comes the climax that has made the story of "Under Two Flags" immortal.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE ON JAN. 8

Jones Coming in Fox "Bells of San Juan."

Patrons of the War Department Theatres are to have a real treat when the William Fox production, "Bells of San Juan," starring Chas. Jones, is shown on January 8. Chas. Jones, who has been called "the most convincing actor on the screen," is said to be at his best in this Western story of romance and adventure.

Jones, who is cast in the role of the Sheriff of San Juan, is fast becoming one of the leading screen heroes. His feats of daring are especially noteworthy.

The story is one of wild and Woolly Westerners, in which Jones won his fame. He plays the part of a young Westerner who is elected Sheriff to succed his father who was murdered. He swears to avenge his parent. The keeper of the local dance hall and saloon is suspected and the son of the murdered official brings him to justice.

A pretty love theme is wound through the story. Fritzi Brunette, in the role of a lady doctor, is said to do exceptionally good work.

All in all, "Bells of San Juan" comes to the War Department Theatres with a good box office record and that tells the story. With a goodly amount of praise from press and public in other cities it is bound to please here.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE ON JAN. 9.

This Kid Busted Out of Cradle to Crash Through Manhood.

Hush-a-bye baby, on the tree top,
When the wind blows the cradle will rock;
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall:
Down will come baby, cradle and all!

That's what happened when Benjamin Franklin Reed broke out in "The Cradle Buster," the season's greatest comedy motion picture, which will be shown on Jan. 9th at the War Department Theatres. It's the best comedy produced since "Twenty-Three and One-Half Hours Leave," and will make you laugh until your sides ache from pain. It is a whirlwind story of a small town youth, gawky and bashful, who has been known as "Sweetie" all his life, but on his twenty-first birthday he breaks out and becomes a regular fellow.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE ON JAN. 12

Lytell at His Best in "Sherlock Brown."

Bert Lytell, the Metro star, will be seen in his latest photoplay, "Sherlock Brown," at the War Department Theatres on January 12th. This new picture, adapted for the screen by Lenore Coffee from a story by Bayard Veiller, is the story of an earnest, trusting young clerk whose life ambition is to become a detective.

Five dollars sent to a correspondence school brings him a shiny new badge which he proudly displays at his modest boarding house, to the amusement of some of the cynical and unsympathetic lodgers. He is not to be deterred by their ridicule, however, and though engaged in the grinding routine of his job as a clerk, his mind is filled with the ever present possibility that just around the corner may lie his opportunity to win fame and fortune as a sleuth.

And sure enough one day he bumps straight into a mystery which has stirred the entire United States secret service. The secret formula for a powerful exploisve has been stolen from a young lieutenant to whose custody it had been temporarily committed.

Sherlock Brown follows the trail, finds the document, loses it through a trick of the conspirators and ultimately recovers it again after a series of most amusing adventures as a crime hound is revealed.

"Sherlock Brown" is a Bayard Veiler production for Metro. In the cast supporting Mr. Lytell are Ora Carew, Sylvia Breamer, Dewitt Jennings, Theodore Von Eltz, Wilton Taylor, Hardee Kirkland, George Barnum and George Kuwa.

BIG TIME ACT.

Lucas and Logan (a Keith Circuit Act) will appear at the Post Theatre January 6th and 7th in a comedy singing, talking and dancing act. There will be a comp'ete change of program nightly. It is an event to see an act of this class in this section of the country.

Sunday night will be the big night. Lucas and Logan will appear in "My Gingham Girl." The feature picture will be Priscilla Dean's latest success, "Under Two Flags," There will also be a two-reel Ben Turpin comedy, "Bright Eyes."

600 Commissions Waiting

DESIRABLE COLLEGE MEN ARE NEEDED.

Now since that the eliminations and demotions of Army officers are completed and things are clearing up we find that there are about 600 vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant.

Last October when an examination for this grade was held nearly 400 men took the examination, out of this number the Army and Navy Register states that only about 85 had successfully passed the examination. A great number that took the examination failed on the physical examination.

Desirable college men who desire the nomad life of an army officer, are willing to work, and have patience, and desire to see the world, will soon have a chance to apply for an examination to determine their fitness. There are nearly 600 vacancies to be filled, and about 400 of these will be filled by persons from civil life who successfully pass the competitive examination.

Dance At Service Club No. 1

The dance at Service Club No. 1 on last Wednesday evening was a most delightful affair. It is with pleasure that we note that more and more of the married enlisted men are bringing their families.

Delightful refreshments were served during the intermission.

The delightful music was furnished by the 29th Infantry orchestra.

United States Troops Are Coming Home

WE LEAVE THE RHINE.

All of the American Troops, consisting of about 1200 men, now stationed in Germany, have been recalled. They will probably reach Savannah, Ga., the early part of February.

It is not known as yet whether Savannah will be their home station or not.

The Lausanne Conference Deadlocked

THREE POINTS LEFT TO DECIDE.

The conference at Lausanne is nearly deadlocked, and with very slight probability of any of the parties giving any more ground.

The three points that are really the disagreeing points are the Dardanelles, the exchange of citizens and the maintaining of a Greek Church in Constantinople. Turkey and her allies and especially Russia insist that the Straights be fortified and that only a certain limited number of foreign warships be allowed in her waters at one time. England insists that the fortifications of the Straights be removed so that any outside nation who may desire may enter to trade with the new countries around the Black Sea, which have been formed during and since the World War. The exchange of citizens is a peculiar situation and something that has not happened in years. It seems as if the Greeks originated the idea and the Turks have seized it whole heartedly and are forcing Greeks, whom they consider dangerous to Turkey, to leave the Turkish territory. This means a great financial loss to the Greek in Turkey especially since a great many of them have lived in Turkish territory all of their lives and have there homes and business there. The Turk says that they must move, though, so that there will be room for the Turk that is coming from Greece. Also the Turk says that the Turk and Greek never can agree and understand each other so might just as well move each nationality to its own country. If the move was equal to both sides not much could be said but as things stand the Greek gets the worst of the deal especially since the Greek in Turkey prospered while the Turk in Greece has not been nearly as fortunate. Ambassador Childs, the unofficial representative of the United States at the conference, has protested this move on humanitarian grounds. The third point invovlves religion. The Turks demanding that the Greek High Church move out of Constantinople and the Greeks insisting that the Church remain where it is.

The Turks say that they will not consider a compromise on these points. But the conference is still in session and while that lasts there is still hope. However, in the meantime both Greek and Turk are mobilizing there available troops as rapidly as possible.

France and England Disagree on Reparations

PREMIER'S CONFERENCE ENDS

The conference of Premiers of England, France, Belgium and Italy has ended without a compromise with the result that Belgium and Italy supported France. France contended that Germany should pay her reparations as they fell due and England desired to extend the time limit and also reduce the amount of the reparations that Germany should pay. As a result England and France could not agree and both parties admitted that the national interest of each country demanded the steps that they had lain down at the conference.

France is engaged in taking over the Ruhr District in Germany which is probably Germany's richest industrial section. Germany on the other hand is protesting France's invasion claiming that it is a breach of the Versailles Treaty. Apparently Germany does not consider that she had violated the Versailles Treaty by evading it on every possible occasion.

To Modernize Our Navy

$6,500,000 ASKED FOR.

President Harding recently asked Congress to appropriate $6,500,000 so that the Navy can start a program of modernizing our navy. The large battleships are the ones to be gone over and brought up to date, in all thirteen ships. The total outlay that will be required to do this work will amount to about $30,000,000. But as our battleships are behind the time, with the exception of two or three of the newest ones, it is deemed necessary to bring all of our battleships up to date. This is in agreement with the Five Power Treaty and England has already started this work.

Some of our ships will be changed from coal burners to oil burners. The decks will be made bomb proof from the air, and an increase in defensive measures against submarines and mines. Also guns and gun emplacements will be gone over.

As the Five Power Treaty prescribes that the ratio shall be 5-5-3 for England, the United States, and Japan, respectively, it is up to the American Navy to be equal to Great Britain's and Japan should have a Navy of only three-fifths of the power of either the United States or England, but in reality Japan has a navy almost equal to ours while our Navy is considerably below that prescribed by the 5-5-3 ratio. To make the Five Power Treaty a reality each nation concerned must come up to its requirements.

The following is a part of the President's report and which deals with the reports of the Secretary of the Navy:

"This department has heretofore maintained the attitude that it was better, in the interest of efficiency, to construct new capital ships rather than to fully modernize, from time to time, similar but older vessels already in service. The treaty for the limitation of naval armaments,

War Secretary Is Encouraged

MR. WEEKS SAYS OUTLOOK FOR LEGISLATION FOR ARMY IS GOOD.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks, in a statement to the New York Times of Monday, says that the prospect for favorable legislation for the army during the current year, is good. Mr. Weeks sums the work of the War Department during the past year as follows:

"The opening of the year 1922 found the War Department faced with the double task of completing the transformation of our wartime organization to a peace basis and executing the requirements of the new military policy which was expressed by Congress in the National Defense Act of 1920. The energies of the department have accordingly been occupied, on the one hand with such matters as the disposal of surplus property, war cantonments and camps, the adjustment of war claims, and the reinterment of our fallen soldiers; and on the other with completing the organization and promoting the training of the regular army, pushing both organization and training in the National Guard, beginning the organization of the authorized reserves, and related activities, such as the development of the units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and of the citizens' military training camps. The result of the year's activity is that we have practically completed the task of returning to a peace basis, and the initiation of the new policy is well under way and

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 16.)

The importance of the work of the 7th Engineers to the success of the operations of the 5th Division is evidenced by the following Brigade report, Division and Corps order, and by Major General H. E. Ely's letter to Colonel Paules, commanding 7th Engineers.

BRIGADIER GENERAL PAUL B. MALONE, commanding the 10th Infantry Brigade, in his report of November 15th, covering the crossing of the Meuse, says:

"These things could not have occurred if it had not been for the perfect co-operation of all arms. It was Captain Beyer, 7th Engineers, who laid down the footbridge in the face of deadly fire; Captain McAdams who put across the pontoons and who, though wounded, stuck to his post and refused evacuation. Thruout the operations of the Engineers working under the personal direction of Colonel Paules, Lieut. Colonel Morton, Major Hoge and their subordinates, rendered invaluable service without which our passage of the Meuse would have been impossible."

General Orders No. 41, Third Army Corps, 1918, is quoted below:

Headquarters Third Army Corps.
American Expeditionary Forces.
France, November 9th, 1918.

General Orders—No. 41.

The Corps commander desires to make of record the gallant conduct of the Fifth Division from November 1st to 5th, in forcing against the enemy in position, a crossing of the River Meuse near Dun and near Brieulles, building bridges and swimming the river in the face of machine gun and artillery fire and in advancing some eight kilometers in the enemy's territory to the vicinity of Brandeville. This action not only uncovered the left flank of the 17th French Corps and enabled that Corps to advance, but broke the line of resistance of the German Army and, by turning its position on the east bank of the Meuse, compelled its withdrawal.

J. L. HINES,
Major General, U. S. A.

Official:
David O'Keefe, Adjutant General.

General Orders, 73, Fifth Division, 1918, is as follows:

Headquarters Fifth Division.
American Expeditionary Forces.
France, November 11th, 1918.

General Orders—No. 73.

1. It is with pride and pleasure that the Division Commander calls the attention of the division to G. O. 41, 3rd Corps, of November 9th, 1918, wherein the Corps Commander cites the Fifth Division for "Forcing, against the enemy in position, a crossing of the River Meuse near Dun and near Brieulles, building bridges and swimming the river in the face of machine gun and artillery fire and advancing some nine kilometers in the enemy's territory to the vicinity of Brandeville. This action not only uncovered the left flank of the Fifteenth French Corps and enabled that corps to advance, but broke the line of resistance of the German Army, and, by turning its position on the east bank of the Meuse, compelled its withdrawal;" and a letter of November 11th, 1918, from the Chief of Staff, 1st Army, A. E. F., to the Commanding General, 3rd Corps, A. E. F., wherein he states: "The Army Commander has noticed with great pleasure and appreciation the excellent work of your corps in crossing the Meuse River, and clearing the heights to the east of the town of Dun-sur-Meuse. He appreciates fully the difficulties involved in this problem and therefore realizes that the results attained reflect great credit on your corps and the divisions included therein."

2. The 5th Division alone forced the crossing and established the bridge-head. It was afterwards joined for a few days by a regiment of the 32nd Division. For two days and nights the division held a front of twenty kilometers against the enemy on its front and both flanks. Not content with this, it went out of its sector on the north and took the town of Mouzay and turned it over to the 90th Division. On the south, it went out of its sector and took Vilosnes, enabling the French Division on its right to cross the river.

3. In the thirty days preceding the armistice, the division was seriously engaged under shell, rifle and machine gun fire twenty-seven days. In the past two weeks, no day has passed that some town, wood, or hill has not been wrested from the enemy. In succession, the following were captured: Bois-des-Rappes, Aincreville, Bois - de - Babiemont, Clery-le-Grand, Clery-le-Petit, Brieulles, Deulcen, Dun-sur-Meuse, Liny, range of hills east of the Meuse forming the bridgehead, Vilosnes, Milly, Lion, Murvaux, Fontaines, Chateau Charmeis, Mouzay, Brandeville, Foret-de-Woevre, Jametz, Remeiville, Louppy. A penetration of twenty-one kilometers into the enemy's line was made, wresting from him one hundred and ninety square kilometers of territory, and on announcement of the armistice, the division had a front of thirteen kilometers, being five kilometers in advance of troops on its left and two kilometers beyond troops on its right.

4. Thirty-seven cannon, four hundred and sixty-one machine guns, and over nine hundred prisoners were captured. However, what the Division Commander wishes most to congratulate the Division upon is its untiring, uncomplaining tenacity of purpose in its constant driving at the enemy in spite of fatigue and shortage of rations being wet from swimming the river and canal or wading the swamp of the Foret-de-Woevre. This is a brilliant example of what the American soldier can do in an emergency when he must go on to the utmost extent of his power. The Division Commander is proud of the work of the Division. No division could have accomplished more, and every member of the command should be proud to belong to a division which has so brilliantly ended its record in the greatest war the world has known.

H. E. ELY,
Major General, U. S. A.
Commanding.

The Division Commander, Major General Hansen E. Ely, under date of November 17th, wrote to the Regimental Commander as follows:

"The Division Commander has noted with great satisfaction the gallant and soldierly conduct of the 7th Engineers during the recent operations of this division. The bridging of the Meuse River and canal near Dun and Brieulles under severe artillery and machine gun fire was an act of bravery and devotion to duty of which the regiment may justly be proud. The indefatigable energy and fortitude displayed in all work assigned to the regiment will ever be a shining mark in its own annals and those of the division. It is indeed fortuitous that a regiment so ably commanded has formed a part of this division during this greatest war in history."

Later on—May 5th—the following Divisional General Order was issued:

Headquarters Fifth Division.
American Expeditionary Forces.
A. P. O. 745.
May 5th, 1919.

General Orders—No. 11.

The Division Commander takes great pleasure in publishing the following letter from the Commander-in-Chief:

American Expeditionary Forces.
France, April 20, 1919.

Office of the Commander-in-Chief.
Major General Hansen E. Ely,
Commanding 5th Division,
American Ex. F.

My dear General Ely:

It is the pleasant duty for me to congratulate you and through you the officers and men of the 5th Division on the inspection and review held at Esch on April 30th. The smart appearance of all ranks as well as the fine shape in which I found your horse transport are signs of the high morale which permeates your Division and the individual pride which each man takes in your splendid fighting record.

Arriving in England towards the end of April, 1918, it was sent at once to the area near Bar-sur-Aube for its regular training ccurse. After one month it was hurried into the quiet Anould sector on the Vosges front, where it continued its training until the middle of July. The Commanding General of the Division at that time took command of the St. Die sector on the same front. Towards the end of August the Division joined the 1st Army and September 11th played its part in the successful St. Mihiel offensive. The attack was continued until September 14th, during which time severe fighting was had in the Bois-de-Bonvaux and the Bois-de-Grand Fontaine, which will always be names to be remembered by the Division. Relieved from the line on September 16th, after a total advance of about 7 kilometers, the Division rested until October 12th, when it was thrown into the Meuse-Argonne offensive. It remained in this attack for ten days under constant machine gun and heavy artillery fire from the eastern heights of the Meuse, capturing the ois-de-la-Pultiere and the Bois-de-Rappes. On October 23rd the Division was relieved from the battle. Four days later it returned to the attack, remaining in the battle until the cessation of hostilities on November 11th. During this time it captured among other places, Aincreville, Mouzay, and Vilosnes, advancing 21 kilometers into the enemy's line. The feat of arms, however, which marks especially the Division's ability as a fighting unit, was the crossing of the Meuse River and the establishment of a bridgehead on the eastern bank. This operation was one of the most brilliant military feats in the history of the American Army in France.

Since the Armistice the Division has formed a portion of the Army of Occupation, and in its conduct under difficult conditions there, I take especial pride. Every man can rest assured of the gratitude of the American people for his share in the final victory, of my appreciation of his achievements and of the deep interest which I shall take in the future of all ranks.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN J. PERSHING.

15th Tank Battalion News

With the season of expectancy and extreme generosity at an end, we are about to turn to the new year, 1923. As we do this the officers and men of the Battalion ask: What has the new year in store for us? That question of course can only be answered by its members individually. It is up to you by your loyalty to see that the coming year not only measures up with the past, but continues on to greater efforts. The resolution then to make this work, for the coming year, as regards your Battalion is to soldier at all times. No hardship is planned on any member, not only do as you are told, but try and do a little more. Attend all special attractions arranged for you, such as entertainments, athletic games, etc., and in every way be a party to one of the first lessons—Unity.

Cpl. Patterson is in seclusion these days, but when he comes forth he hopes to publish a book entitled "Black Jack," and how it is played. Never mind, Corporal, if you do not succeed the first time try again.

If Ponce de Leon was in our midst today and could see the sprightly steps of Capt. Higgins and Lt. Brotherson performing at their weekly play on the Volley Ball Court, it is a certainty that his chase for the "Fountain of Youth" would end.

Have you seen the basketball schedule? Three games a week, all games will be played in the Camp Gymnasium. Lt. Adams, Battalion Athletic Officer, states that the league will be the strongest in camp. Rooters and boosters are especially invited. Admittance free.

Sgt. Boone says the best way to study the American language is to drive past a traffic cop when he has given you the stop signal. Ain't it the truth?

Several of our members went hunting over the holidays. We're glad it was not fishing, so they can't give us any fish stories. Seeing is believing.

The editor received word unofficially that the finance committee completed their audit of the log hut books, and the financial report for the fiscal year was indeed an enviable one. In other words, we are sitting pretty. Of course this does not mean that we are going to rest on our laurels, for we must make the log hut the most attractive day room in camp.

Where are all the hand ball players? We have one of the best courts in the state, yet it has been idle for over three weeks. Hand ball is no doubt the best nerve and tissue builder of allsports. It is one of those wonderful games in which every moment means another thrill. Sgt. Hicks claims the championship, but is willing to defend his title against all comers.

Under the able directorship of Prof. Dennis, our chorus for the next entertainment is developing in fine shape. The strains of the catchy airs are heard two or three evenings a week during rehearsals at the log hut. A prettier, more capable chorus never graced the stage at a Ziegfield Folly or an Annual Review. The star comedians, dancers and singers are fast coming to the front and everything points to a production that will be the envy of the professional stage, when put on in the log hut later in the month.

The editor has been asked if it is necessary to have a glass of water on the table when Sgt. Mason does his stuff.

Ex-Sgt. Colley was seen in our area last Saturday. Colley gets lonesome for our village once in a while, so he has to come back and see the folks.

Herbert shakes a meaner pair of feet than any other cake eater in the Battalion. He gave the girls a treat last Saturday at the snuff-chewers' ball. Yes, he went there alone, but he wasn't singing "All By Myself" coming home. She was the cutest, classiest and prettiest blonde that has so far entered said ball room.

Have you noticed the addition to the M. P. Squad downtown? Cpl. Bridges is showing them the way across the street and bawling out offenders like an old timer. We saw him last week. You had better work fast if your motor goes dead on his beat. All joking aside, he makes a fine appearance and is a fit addition to the Detachment.

Yancy, who has been sick in the hospital for the past several weeks, appeared in the Battalion area the other day with a so-called mustache. Opinion differs in the subject of the mustache, some think it is a football bet, some think he wears it to keep warm in the winter, and others—quite a number—agree that he didn't have the price of a complete shave. We concur in the last opinion.

Company "C" won their first basketball game of the season from Headquarters Company, 22 to 11. Lt. Barrick and Severson starred for "C" Company, while Lt. Searcy and Grantham were Headquarters' best.

We had something to fill this inch and a half, too, but it met with hard and severe censorship, so stuff is off. The editor thought it was very complimentary, but——?

In the first inter-company basketball game, Company "B" defeated Company "A" by the score of 28 to 2. The game was fast and clean throughout, only one foul being called. Mabry, Swantic and Stasko featured for the winners, Mabry leading the scoring by six fields. Stasko was a close second with five, and Swantic scored three.

A certain Sergeant had better beware of a gray auto when he visits the city again. How about it, Maurice?

Not wishing to knock the Post Theater, but the act that was advertised to have played on B. F. Keith's Circuit sure wins the fur-lined bath tub.

The new guard house that is now being built for the Battalion may not be the largest one in the Post, but judging from the length of time it has taken to build it, one can never tell.

Well, we lost two more good men, Sergeants Sullivan and Pallies. The entire company joins in wishing them both the best of luck.

Wonder who will take off "Bow-Wow" Adams, now that Sully has gone.

All that loud rumbling heard around the Battalion Area Saturday and Sunday was not the Drum Corps, but was Company "B" assembling their new wall lockers.

Lost somewhere between Post and City, one petit soldat, on or about Jan. 7th, 1923. He is about 5 ft. and 4 in. in height, weighs about 110 pounds and answers to the name of Bachelder. When last seen he had just finished holding up his right hand and saying, I do. Anyone having any information of him will please get in touch with 1st Sergeant Gardner.

Talk about Mack Sennett bathing beauties, you should see "Red Linsday" in his new basketball togs. The color, which is passionate red, just matches his hair.

Found a new quartette in the company, namely, Sergeants Stone, Hedgecock, Bachelder and Williams, they were singing that old familiar tune, "I got three years to do this in."

"Bugs" DeNapoli is in bad again. How much this month, Nap? Ask Larry, he knows.

Well, Ole Bill is back again. He and Mabry went to Jordan City to church last Sunday night, and by the way that they looked, it sure was some sermon.

The Post Police are looking for the Barney Oldfield who was driving at the scandalous rate of 9 miles per hour and deliberately took the nose dive Tuesday morning near the hospital. Not mentioning any names, but "Nap" had better get some knee pads from "Goof" when he goes for Nap and Head have gone into the motorcycle business. Head breaks them and Nap fixes them. Nap is going to give the Captain a touch this month so he can meet Joe Boruckis' terms for the motorcycle. Look out, Nap, first offense five berries.

WAR?

THE CONFERENCE at Lusanne is at a standstill, with Turkey threatening war. The Conference of Premiers is also, speaking in the vernacular, "on the rocks," because the interests of the different nations concerned ran counter to each other.

In the Near East the situation is almost deadlocked. Turkey, backed by Russia, is taking a position of non-compromise and even arrogance and in the meantime she and Greece are mobilizing their troops as fast as possible.

In West Europe the situation is delicate. England and France have come down to bed rock and admitted to each other that they could not agree on the reparation payment of Germany because their national interests are exactly opposite. To France it is exceedingly vital that Germany be made to pay her reparations, for since the war France has spent 40,000,000,000 francs in reconstruction of devastated areas and she still has to spend about twice as much to complete the reconstruction. In the meantime Germany, however, has paid only 4,000,000,000 gold marks or its equivalent. So therefore it is to the interest of France to make Germany pay. England is not in such urgent need of money, and therefore is favorable toward Germany insofar as Germany may have the reparation cut down and also given a longer time to pay. Germany, on the other hand, has done everything in her power to evade payments.

Now the final conference has been held and the different nations divided into two groups, pro-British and pro-French, with France coming out with a majority.

France is marching her troops into the Ruhr District of Germany, which is one of the most valuable industrial sections of Germany. Germany is not at all pleased with France's action and it is not beyond reasonable belief that Germany is going to resist, and if that is the case, the war is started all over again.

What will happen?

Only the future will tell. If Germany, Russia, Turkey and possibly Japan have a Secret Alliance and if they can hold together ten months, we are going to see a war that will make the last World War look like baby play.

Will we enter the war?

While the American people do not want a war it is very probable that we will have to enter it. Why? Simply to preserve our Nationality and our Liberty.

Summary.

If Germany fights, which is highly probable, England will have to support France, Italy, Poland, the new Slovak nations and the rest of the Balkan States, all will have to support France to keep their nationality. Present Austria cannot be counted on. The United States will have to support France.

If France is not supported then Germany will do now what she started out to do in 1914, RULE THE WORLD. England would be attacked and defeated as soon as France was out of the way, and when England was out of the way, then the smaller countries that assisted France will be crushed, and then a grand attack will be made on the United States. We fighting all of Europe, a part of Asia, and probably some of the American countries. There will be two reasons for the attack on the United States:

(a) Our wealth.
(b) Revenge.

Our wealth will pay the indebtedness of Europe and Germany figures that if we had not entered the last war she would have won it and be by now ruling the world.

So, therefore, if Germany fights France and is supported by Russia and one of two other powers, it behooves all nations that assisted France in the World War and all other Nations that care to preserve their own nation to come to the assistance of France and that in a HURRY. Why the rush? Well, if Germany and her allies can last until the fall harvest, for there is no doubt that Germany will re-organize Russia, putting her national resources to work and get crops planted this spring and make Russia alone raise sufficient foodstuffs and furnish enough natural resources to supply all of her allies, and causing the most horrible war that man has ever seen. But if Germany and her allies can be crushed before the fall harvest then the war will be short, but that means that all nations friendly to France must get in and get in in a hurry.

But you say the United States will not go to war for France. True, but it's a simple case of looking ahead and fighting Germany and her allies with the help of a part of Europe or fighting Europe alone. Can we fight all of Europe? Well, yes, for a while, but then after a while we would have to submit, acknowledge defeat and PAY TRIBUTE!

Taxes are high now, but what will they amount to if we have to pay TRIBUTE to Germany?

Conclusion.

Here is sincerely hoping that war in Europe will be averted, by either foul means or fair, but if it comes, let's get in on the jump and crush Germany and her allies before they have time to organize.

It is said that the Army wants a war. That is far from true. The Army does not want a war because very few people outside of the Army can even realize just what horrors the next war will bring forth, and which no doubt will even exceed our expectation.

WAR SECRETARY IS ENCOURAGED

needs only continued support to achieve the purposes of the act.

The Defense Act of 1920 was the result of America's lessons in the World War and offers a solution of the national defense problem which is effective and yet fully in accord with our peaceful democratic ideals. As war-time activities have been concluded the attention given by the department to plans for our future national security has been increased. It has been encouraging to observe the enthusiasm with which the average citizen has co-operated in this work. There are continual fresh indications that a large majority of our citizens approve of this Defense Act, which was enacted after such careful study by Congress and that never again will the public approve of that attitude of rash negligence which characterized our past military policy. In spite of rather stringent economical situation which has faced our country, it is becoming apparent that the average citizen recognizes national defense as a legitimate object for expenditures and that the dangerous legislative cuts into our military establishment which have characterized the past year, are not indicative of a permanent national policy.

"At the opening of the year the regular army had already reached a dangerous point with a total approximate stength of but 13,000 officers and 137,700 enlisted men. Under the pressure of economy this figure has been brought down, at the close of the year, to approximately 12,000 officers and 121,600 enlisted men, which is not much greater than the figure of impotence which was determined by the Allied Powers for Germany. The organization of the National Guard has been correspondingly delayed and the project for the organized reserves handicapped, both by shortage of appropriations and available personnel from the regular army.

"It is to me a considerable encouragement that we ran look ahead into what now seems likely to become a very critical period, with a feeling of assuranre that in this one direction at least, the American people have the intention to support as a continued policy the excellent basic legislation which their representatives have so widely designed."

Retirement Bill Favored By Legion

ENDORSEMENT GIVEN BY CHARLES S. HARRISON POST. SHOW WILL BE PRESENTED HERE. EDDY IS COMMANDER.

Endorsement of the 25 year army retirement bill with authority given the officers of the post to urge passage of the bill introduced in congress, a decision to present a Legion show at an early date, installation of officials for 1923, appointing of an executive committee and the largest attendance at a business meeting in the history of the local Legion post featured the monthly session of the Charles S. Harrison Post, American Legion, held last night at the Soldiers' Club, 1036 1-2 Broad street. Much interest was manifested in the discussion of securing a home and a committee headed by J. Paul Jones, chairman, and consisting of Legionnaires Woodruff, Richards and Giron was named by Commander M.S. Eddy to study plans and look into the feasibility of securing a home for the Legionnaires.

George C. Woodruff, retiring commander, whose term of office came to a close last night after a year of work which attracted the attention of National Legion officials, was presented with a gold past commander's badge, the presentation for the post being made by J. A. Lynch, first commander the local post. A number of the members had many fine things to say to Mr. Woodruff and the sacrifices he had made for the Legion. A report of the retiring commander will be found elsewhere in this issue.

The officials installed last night include Commander Eddy, Senior Vice-Commander Terrell Hill, Junior Vice-Commander Abe Illges, Historian Walter Lunder and Adjutant J. R. Fitzpatrick. Commander Eddy and the retiring commander made speeches on co-operation, Mr. Woodruff urging the support given him last year be continued for the new commander.

Army Retirement Bill.

The army retirement bill, introduced in the lower house of Congress on December 14 by Congressman Fish, New York, is of much interest to all enlisted men. The friends of the soldier maintain that the navy retirement provisions are more liberal and that as a matter of common justice the enlisted man of the army should have something to look forward to and to work toward. The bill of Congressman Fish in no way reduces the retired pay of enlisted men in order to make the 25 year retirement law. Some discussion has arisen as to whether the enlisted men are willing to pay the proposed one per cent. reduction in their monthly pay, but general expressions last night were to the effect that the men were willing to have such deductions.

The local post was instructed to immediately seek support for the passage of the retirement bill, H. R. 13418, this to include telegrams to the Georgia delegation at Washington.

Big Show Planned.

The show to be given at as early a date as the Legionnaires can prepare to present a show distinctive in its difference from other shows and in originality is to be handled by a committee headed by Senior Vice-Commander Hill, who will have as committeemen, George C. Woodruff, who was chairman of the committee presenting "Pinafore," Herbert S. Banner and Bill Humes.

The show will include both men and girls and promises to be the snappiest local talent performance ever given at the Springer Opera House.—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

Finance Department Notes

The Detachment, Finance Department, has begun the New Year with full determination to make it a banner year for the Finance Department at this Post.

Lieut. W. H. Sutherland, Finance Department, arrived last week to take up his new duties as Assistant Finance Officer and Post Property Auditor. The detachment extends its hearty welcome to Lieut. Sutherland as a member of its personnel.

Sergeant Kenney and wife, accompanied by Sergeants Bennett, Short and Watson, motored to Atlanta to herald the coming of the New Year. Sergeant Kenney says that he certainly had some eats, and that sure made up for the cool ride. Short says that the coffee in Griffin did him more good than all the Atlanta "Joy Water,"—and speaking about Joy Water, Watson certainly made history for Fort Benning in one of Atlanta's leading hostelries, in fact with Watson, Short and Bennett all stopping in this hotel, it was next to impossible to keep any secrets, especially so near the time for new resolutions. All this joy was well earned for the return trip consumed some extra hours, energy, hiring of mules, "jar-heads," etc., and after various mishaps this same bunch landed in Columbus covered with mud, the car minus one wheel and Watson still offers a reward for one shoe, tan, size 14 1-2, that was lost in mud hole No. 3, near Chipley. But through it all it was a good trip, if it's said quick, for all's well that ends well.

Sergeant Dobbie has been absent from the office for several days due to illness in his immediate family.

The ex-president of the Service Club turned over an enormous new leaf on the first. There were many things to be taken into or rather onto this leaf. Not even dancing, playing cards and very little smoking —what's up, Short (? ? ?)

Private Stokes has missed several valuable meals since purchasing for himself a gun. Stokes can be seen each evening taking aim at the Quartermaster Warehouse; says when he gets so he can hit that building he will venture into the woods in search of 'possums.

Zabe Ayers says that Xmas joy, fighting, knives and barrels don't go together. After looking High Pockets over we agree that where there's smoke there must be a little fire.

Yes, Willis just can't help but be in love—he's even getting sticky.

Sergeant Dobbie should be able to partly control his office monologues when Short goes to school, at least it looks that way to the writer. Eh, John?

Orders are coming in for one man to attend the Finance School. Looks like Short is going to learn something after all.

The Finance Detachment can frequently be seen waking up the "Line Organizations," as they are returning from morning's mess with the I. S. D. It is rumored that we are soon to be assigned a Machine Gun Bus to go to and from meals—as it seems to be an impossibility for some of our higher Non-Coms (Sgt. Bennett) to be able to arrive at the Mess Hall in time to secure entrance therein for the early mess. It seems to the writer that the Q. M. C. will soon realize a heavy deficit in their R. & S. account for some of the Finance Detachment are beginning to be very popular as host to that Detachment for breakfast.

Private Miller announces that he is progressing very nicely with the books as he has recently given the Checker Writer permission to date vouchers one month and write checks for same three months later.

The entire detachment is bent with bitter grief as the time draws near for us to lose our proficient Pay Roll, Mileage and Final Statement clerk. He will soon proceed to our Nation's Capitol to pursue a course in Higher Finance. The only consolation we have is, after a period of three months' time we will have the pleasure of welcoming him again into our midst. He takes with him our heartiest wishes for the most successful results from the above mentioned course. The fortunate Corporal is no other than the sole owner of the Famous Fever Glasses (Corp. Short,), Chairman of the Dance Committee, and it is feared that the Service Club No. 1 will have to unearth every means in existence to avail themselves of another such proficient chairman as Corp. Short has proven himself to be.

It is understood that Sergeant Bennett, Chief of the Correspondence Section, and Corporal Short, Chief of the Pay Roll Department, were seen on their way to Columbus last Tuesday night for the sole purpose of attending the Legion meeting and casting their vote on the Twenty-five Year Retirement Bill, but when the facts were brought to light it was found that they had not as yet paid their "1923 Dues," and consequently their vote was not considered. We wonder what the boys do with their earnings? ? ? (Private dancing lessons, eh, Jim?)

Here You Are, Dancers. All You Married Folks Read This

All married enlisted men and their families are cordially invited to attend a dance to be given by the Infantry School Detachment (W) at 8 p. m., January 20th, 1923, at the Detachment mess hall.

TO MODERNIZE OUR NAVY.

which this nation has ratified, definitely stops, for the powers signatory, the construction of new capital ships for many years and therefore imposes on this nation a different policy if our capital ships are to be maintained at a standard of efficiency comparable to that of similar vessels of foreign powers. Careful studies have been made as to the measures to be taken to place this new policy in effect, and this department is now ready to proceed with the modernization of certain capital ships provided funds for the project may be obtained. The program tentatively adopted is necessarily spread over a considerable period. The money requested in this estimate is sufficient to make a beginning on the project and to undertake necessary work on thirteen vessels. That this policy should be inaugurated at the earliest moment is believed by me to be of major and vital importance from the standpoint of efficiency of our national defense. I strongly urge its favorable consideration.

24th Infantry Notes.

SERVICE COMPANY.

Sgt. Pride Halcott is now on the Auction Block, and is rearing to go. He says that anything under 140 pounds is his choice. Go to it, Pride, we wish you well.

COMPANY "A."

Sgt. Burley, Old Trigger, is having the best time of his life. The girl is going wild about him. He is the only enlisted man that can go to town and say, "Hello, little girl, come on to papa." Ain't he a treat? But he don't know. Listen, old boy, watch the girls, they will fool you.

Pvt. Orange, the company tailor, is a very fascinating young man. The girls are all wild about him, but when he goes to town he never stays late. Something wrong—can you tell me what it is?

Pvt. Houston has gone to Americus, Ga., in hopes of finding his girl. Sorry, old boy, but must tell you if you want to keep a girl, you must be prompt and always on the job.

Old 98, Pvt. 1st Class Johnson Pearl has found something in Georgia that is making him get about. Thursday evening he waited for a taxi from 12 noon until Reveille. That's something that old 98 don't do, boys, watch him, he is getting loose and you know how he is,—so tell him to watch his step and keep on the right track.

Cpl. Alexander B. is disgusted with the beautiful city of Columbus, Ga. He says the girls don't know their stuff, they can't dance, can't sing, and they don't even know the first art of spooning. I am sorry, Cpl. Alexander takes things so hard but if he follows me, life will be worth while in Ft. Benning. Cheer up, Alex, try again. You may succeed, things change every second.

COMPANY "D."

"Pick Tom," the sleep admirer, has been sleeping and saving his silver for 13 months. He woke up a few nights ago, got headbent for the city and spent all of his 13 months' savings in 30 minutes. So now he is singing that "He is going back to sleep, and let his silver heap."

Who is the little Corporal that is beginning to dry up here of late? Don't you think his new life is rather teasing? Puff out your jaws, "Pap," you wanted it and you got it, so hold your own.

Grundy! Wake up! You are too old for that. We know you are welcome, but you don't have to carry that old necessary hundred poses every time, do you? We know you are a good sport, but don't be a "Boob."

"Pea Head," the invisible lover, is city struck. Your hats can't be gotten small enough for you now, but if you try your old tricks on Miss ————? then you can't get a hat large enough.

COMPANY "I."

Sergeant Moore (637), the speed demon, has bought himself some pads as he is as often on the ground as he is on his motorcycle.

SOME PECULIAR FRIENDS.

We often arrive at the conclusion that in our company are some of the most peculiar people in existence. It is so difficult at times to settle on a logical decision as regards osme of those who appear interested in our success and general welfare. Those who claim to be our friends, who pat us on the back and tell us that they admire our performance of duty, our convictions, our punishments, our depos ts and our 6 8 10 and 12, but in many cases will not honor missing Reveille or absent from stable duty, so a hint to the wise is sufficient. This Army is a solemn fact; we are in it; let us understand it, let us think much of its responsibilities, so that we may be guided alright amid its bitters and sweets.

Sergeant Handy (Sweet Sixteen) is trying to join the band. He says he is the only man that knows what to do with the new instrument, and he says the proper name for the carousphone is guano distributor.

VOID.

General Orders, published by Sgt. Russell (poor boy).

1. To take charge of this table and all government chow in view.
2. To walk in the mess hall at double time, keeping always on the alert and observing everything that is in reaching distance, sight or hearing.
3. To report all K. P.'s that don't come by my table.
4. To report all calls from tables more distant from the mess sergeant than my own.

To quit my seat only when appetite has been pleased.

6. To receive, take from and pass on to the K. P. that relieves me all left overs from the mess sergeant, head cook and K. P.'s and members of the chow line only.
7. To talk to no one except about eating.
8. In case of fire or disorder to fill all pockets and my bosom.
9. To allow no one to eat any more than I do.
10. In any case not covered by instructions to eat and explain afterward.
11. To salute all spuds, and all apples and peaches not cased.
12. To be especially watchful at night and during the time watch the mess hall to see that the cooks don't cook nothing without proper donations.

Something we would like to see: Ulont Jenkins (the Chink) use a tooth brush; Sgt. Steger absent from Reveille; Corporal Reeves with his leggins on properly; Joe Lay cook one meal of chicken; Sgt. Moore give a man a square deal; Revere comb his hair; Sgt. Handy stand at attention;the company tailor stay in the shop 1-2 hour; Ambrosia Haskins off the restricted list; Ford Perkins run; hot water in the bath house; Sam Sain eat his own cooking.

COMPANY "K."

Now that the holidays are over, I want to wish a happy New Year on all. "Let's Go," and make a better record in 1923 than 1922.

Sgt. Garrett and Cpl. Jones, you may start all over again as Xmas has gone, and you can make all the promises of Xmas presents (only to be broken) on or about Dec. 20, 1923. Those kind dn't cost much, providing you use your same strategy of 1922. See?

Sgt. Tolbert (Abe Martin) says that it costs less to make up than to stay up, "with the opposite sex." All right, Jess, you are the doctor.

What ho! we noticed Private Atkinson on his way to Hawk's Pond. What has happened, Pete?

A certain brother was heard talking in his sleep: "Wo-Wo, Mule," and upon being asked what color, replied, "White, of course." Jump, Steady!

Sgt. Belser (Pa Perkins) has bought a new Ford, "and it looks almost like a real car," only they pulled it before it was ripe!

Sgt. McCauley (Happy Hoolagan) might as well take his ponies off the track, "They won't trot," the old boy has gobbled well but lost his strut.

Cpl. and Mrs. Basham have returned to Post after spending the holidays with relatives in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Pvt. McJoseph, our bugler, blew a call last week that even Cpl. Newman hadn't heard, and that's going some. Where did you learn that call, Mac J?—Germany?

COMPANY "L."

It was on a bright and moony night, the stars were shining bright, on the 24th Infantry parade ground, when there came a dark form across the field. It was tipping lightly, perhaps it was a lover going to tell his sweetheart his love for her, or maybe it was a husband going home to tell his wife his salary had been raised. Oh, but look closer, I say, who was it? I say, who was it? It was 1st Sgt. Julius Jennings looking for his pipe.

There is a certain soldier in "L" Company whom the members have not seen laugh since he has been in the army, until the other day when we met him coming down the road riding a mule without a bridle or saddle, he was laughing and seemed very much at home. Look out, Bennett, the farmers are grieving over you.

We have one soldier in Co. "L" who has more than average sense of horseology, he can tell whether a mule was born in Georgia or Alabama. So all that were interested in it wanted to know how it was done. He says the way he tells is if he was born in Georgia he will bite you, and if he was born in Alabama he will kick you. Go on, Troup, you will soon make good as a horse doctor.

MILLIONS OF VICTORY MEDALS UNCLAIMED

Less than half of the five million World War fighters have claimed the Victory medal authorized by the Government in recognition of their services overseas and in America, according to the service division of the American Legion.

The Legion is urging that all ex-service men obtain their medals and is also assisting the government through the 11,000 Legion posts to obtain the addresses of thousands of veterans who have applied for the medals and who have since changed their residences. Service officers in the various Legion posts are assisting veterans in obtaining application blanks and in preparing the papers necessary to get the war medals.

Men who served in the army can obtain medals from the following places: Fort Crook, Neb.; Fort Thomas, Ky.; Fort McPherson, Ga.; Fort Bliss, Tex.; 3rd and Olive Sts., St. Louis; Room 270, City Hall, San Francisco; Old Federal building, Detroit; Federal building, Minneapolis; Room 106, Federal building, Los Angeles; Room 201, New Postoffice building, Portland, Ore.; 39 Whitehall St., New York, and at any United States Army Post.

Ex-sailors may obtain their medals at any United States Navy recruiting station or from the Bureau of Navigation at Washington. Nurses are urged to communicate with the Surgeon General, and former field clerks with the Adjutant General of the United States Army, at Washington.

Victory medals may be obtained by all persons who served in the armed forces of the United States during the World War, and in case of death, by the person next of kin.

MISS HANNAH HONORED.

Mrs. J. W. Rumbough and Mrs. J. Wheeler gave a tea and shower on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rumbough, honoring Miss Hannah. The tables were most beautifully appointed. Mrs. J. M. Graham and Mrs. W. O. Smith presided.

MISS HANNAH ENTERTAINED.

On Saturday, January 13th, Mrs. Frank Milburn and Mrs. Martin are giving a tea dansant from 4 to 6, honoring Miss Hannah. Mrs. Graham and Mrs. McCaskey are to pour.

29th Infantry News Notes

1st BATTALION HDQ. COMPANY.

Private Blake of this organization recently returned from a 15 day furlough enjoyably spent with relatives in the great cosmopolitan city of Ogdensburg, New York. Private Blake has displayed an unusual amount of enthusiasm in the poker games since his return, and it is believed that his furlough had a somewhat stimulating effect upon him, although he has the reputation of being a law abiding and sober soldier.

Private Rice, our zoological subject, has ascended to the rank of Specialist 6th Class and declares that he intends to retire from the army. When gazing into Private Rice's ungodly and homely countenance, one at once concedes the truth of the Darwinian theory.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS AND HEADQUARTERS CO.

It sure looks as if the Company Basketball Team will, without a doubt, "cop" the "separate unit" championship, for on or about the 8th day of January, 1923, at about 6:20 o'clock p. m., Regimental Headquarters Co. Basketball Team did, wilfully and without exertion, defeat the Howitzer Co. Basketball Team, with a score of 14 to 3. While Hdqrs. team threw 7 field goals and Howitzer Co. threw 3 free goals, this is the appreciation of the company and company commander.

Horseshoer Parvin just received an invitation from the Post dentist. Wonder if "Windy" has made arrangements with the mess sergeant to serve him soup or mush.

Corporal Dunnaway goes to Columbus, Ga., three times a week. That's strange, and "Spike" is a "short timer" too. Maybe a house can be found in the Married Men's area.

There are five reasons why men outside of the company want to transfer to it. WHY?

Corporal went on furlough Jan. 3, 1923, to the "cold parts" of Michigan.

Sergeant Edward Deavers has departed on an emergency furlough on account of sickness in his family. The company extends its heartfelt sympathy, and is wishing for the best.

COMPANY "A."

As we all know the 1st Battalion Headquarters Co. stacks up as a favorite over Co. "A" among the cage fans. Tuesday Headquarters Company was handed an unexpected wallop to the tune of 17-6 by this organization. Rivadeneira played a fine guarding game, also Daniels performed his duties at guard like an "old timer." Hampsher annexed 13 of the 17 points at forward, Walker also played a fine game at forward.

There have been several promotions in this organization. Pvts. Major, Rivadeneira, Brewer, Griffiths, Neimeyer and Tiekalak have received the coveted "Single track." Here's hoping they can keep them.

COMPANY "B."

Sgt. Humphrey has at last purchased himself a flivver and now he says that he is going to step out. Look out, ladies.

The football players have at last turned their attention to duty but it seems that we are going to lose them again as they all have taken up Soccer ball and if they play Soccer ball like they played football, you can say that there is going to be another championship team.

Cpl. Klein, Cpl. Moen, Cpl. Mintz, and Cpl. Willingham have at last attained the rank of Sergeant, and they all state that they are going to retire. Pvt. Fugate and Pvt. Kruske have been appointed Corporals.

COMPANY "C."

Everything is going fine in the company. We are all bucking to make this the best company in the regiment. The company has been getting good percentage on inspections. Mess Sgt. Foster started the ball rolling by 100 percent on the Mess Hall.

Cpl. Luce, who made highest score in riflemanship last year, was a member of this company. We all extend congratulations to Cpl. Luce. Here's hoping some member of the company wins the highest score this year.

Pvts. Coppock and Johnson heard the call back to the farm, and left without announcing their departure. Somebody said Pvt. Coppock had a wonderful pair of eyes, if anybody else could see through them they could see a pair of plow handles, so it must be true.

COMPANY "D."

This organization is well on its way to win the basketball championship of the 1st Battalion. On December 28, in the initial game of the season, Company "D" vanquished Company "B" by the overwhelming score of 50 to 10. In the second game against Company "C" this company easily won by the score of 23 to 15. Company "D" has only Company "A" and Headquarters Company to defeat to win the championship. There is no doubt about defeating Company "A," but it is feared the battalion headquarters company has a very strong team and there is much doubt as to the outcome of this game. 2nd Lieut. J. B. Madaris, who is coaching Company "D," has also been selected to coach the championship battalion which will enter the Post series.

1st Lieut. Charles F. Hudson has returned from 10 day leave and again resumed command of the first platoon. While on leave it was bruited about the organization that Lieut. Hudson had gone and committed matrimony. However, as he appears to be quite normal, attending strictly to his duties, especially remaining with the organization from very early in the morning until nightfall every day—the report of his marriage is regarded as greatly exaggerated.

Corporal H. L. Groves, the affable and genial company clerk, has returned from a 30 day furlough spent at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Corporal Groves reports an excellent season at this famous resort and that practically all the millionaires with whom he played golf were very optimistic as to the future prosperity of the country.

Several members of this organization are anxiously awaiting the results of Captain Pilkington's recommendations for their promotion. If the recommendations go through several of the corporals will become sergeants, and some acting corporals will achieve their chevron. ---- .....

Corporal Willard, the company mess sergeant, known by several names, but particularly as "the law," announces he has reformed. The corporal has been recommended for promotion to sergeant and the shadow of coming additional dignity has considerably sobered this young man. In fact he announces he will remain sober until next Christmas.

COMPANY "E."

"Dad" Singleterry has a new card game now. He went to town last Saturday and got a cribbage board. Now he is teaching the boys the game. We are glad to see him get his stripes again, too, and hope he gets another in the near future.

Bucking days are over. Eleven new corporals were made yesterday, which is quite a few, even in this day and time. We are waiting to see how they make it. The lucky, or unlucky men, according to how you look at it, are: Corporals Singleterry, Wiggins, Carpenter, Brown, Bryant, Kozachanko, Hastings, Ognen, Graham, Myers and Clarke. Corporal Pring was appointed Sergeant.

"H" and "E" Companies got tangled up playing basketball last night. The score sounds like a game of pinochle, but everyone claims it was basketball. The score: "H" 30, "E" 47.

Cars are dirt cheap these days. "Tea Hound" Brown and "Snuff Chewer" Bendinelli have purchased an Overland Four, price $80. Brown, why not turn it in to the Supply Sergeant for salvage or to be used for spare parts on the rifles. We refuse to furnish details to push it around the parade ground. Too short of men.

How come, Garcia? What we want to know is, how long are you going to claim you have a sore knee. It isn't sore, just an excuse, isn't that right, Garcia?

That was a fine sign you had the other day, Dadawick, but no one could read it except yourself. All we could make out was: By order of the Company Commander. But what did he order, Dadawick?

Last week dealt "E" Company an awful blow. Our famous comedian, Pvt. Riccardi, was transferred to "H" Company. Now the only thing that will be able to catch his jokes will be those things with the long ears. He said the other day he was a mechanic. They let him wash the gun carts, I guess.

Barber Russo must have a girl in town. He is a very good barber when broke, but when wealth flocks to his door—good night!

Wanted—One reporter. Apply to Sgt. Julius. Wages?

COMPANY "F."

Our Platoon Sergeant, Penfound, is visiting Columbus, Ga., quite often. Is it possible that you have matrimonial intentions?

Since our latest Victrola records arrived, we have several would-be dancers. Acting Private Perry sure shakes a mean hoof.

One more man for duty. Private First Class Jones recently discharged from the hospital. Welcome to the company, Archie.

Our famous fish, Private Leonard, is some pool shark. Keep it up, Wayne, by the time your enlistment expires you will have learned to hold the cue properly at least.

Private Freniere wants to know why the 1st Sergeant carries his pencil and paper with him when he comes out to Reveille in the morning. Ask Corp. Heller, he knows.

Here is the lineup for our baseball team for the 1923 season: Privates Solis, Szurkus, Panowski, F. Droun, Leonard, Otalvaro, Soeghian, Hayes, Hines. We have an all-American team this year, managed by Sgt. Vester Jones.

A certain company in the 1st Battalion recently boasted of not having any men in confinement. Why should you, when they are transferred to the 2nd Battalion?

Improvements in our Recreation Room will be announced from time to time for the benefit of the many visitors who always visit the old outfit. Our latest acquisition: New Victrola.

We have a second "Vernon Castle" by the name of Private Briggs.

Our room orderly, Pvt. White, must have an awful roll. He hasn't visited Columbus, Ga., or elsewhere in over twenty months. What is the reason, "Erbert?"

Cpl. Offerman and Private Price would like a little information in regards to the old Army. Cpl. Offerman, in his argument last evening, was right, the world was wrong.

Every time Cpl. Sutton finishes a guard we have to listen to what happened during his tour of guard. He would have us to believe that these are "Wild and Wooly Days."

Our dream boy, Cpl. Rick, is a sure enough "Rodolph Valentino." He admits that he came in the Army with a straw hat, with ear muffs, a violin case on one foot and a gum boot on the other.

Famous Sayings by Famous Men.

Mancusc—How's the fire, Metz?

Trogden—Let's get going on the floor.

Philips—Too early to start to work.

Lupica—(Thirty-one days in the month.) Gimme a butt.

Millard—I'm gonna transfer.

Cartwright—(Five minutes after mail call) Got any for me?

Stotts—Got anything for your Uncle Fudge?

To attempt to tell you even a part of the story here would be useless. It is too big—too overpowering—too huge to be depicted in cold type. It covers every glow of human emotion. Suspense, thrills, laughter, love, romance, all produced with a realism that is short of marvellous. Really one of the few master plays before the public this season, and—

The Play You'll Never Forget

How the rugged forces of man in a brute country are tempered by the faith of a good man and true—how impetuous youth run wild, errs, pays the price and is redeemed all entwined in a beautiful love story, weaves itself into a powerful dramatic document the equal of which you won't see this season.

Cpl. Warner—Stew Gootz.

Cpl. Offerman—Let's get a U-Drive-It.

Pvt. Young—I'll shoot you a game.

Sgt. Stephenson—Say, feller\, did you see that shot I just made?

I take pleasure in introducing to you our new pitcher for our 1923 baseball team, Private Jancek. He is trying to figure out when he will have time enough to start his spring training.

Rank certainly does make a change in some people. Philips is Spec. 6th Class now; he doesn't fail to let everyone know it.

Three new corporals in the company. There is plenty of wailing and gnashing of teeth among several of the privates, which is no more than natural.

Cpl. Paxton said he is going to re-enlist. He didn't state what the reason was. But there is a certain blonde girl in Columbus, Ga., perhaps that is the reason.

COMPANY "G."

The following news items are submitted from this organization for publication in the Fort Benning News:

In a clean fought game at the 29th Infantry Gym, 2nd Bn., Hqrs. Co. went down in defeat to Co. "G's" well built team of basketeers. The final score was 45 to 7, in favor of Co. "G." Each man on the team displayed ability and each and every player played his part. Kjelstrom led in the scoring, tossing a total of 21 points.

We are all glad to see Lt. Cooey's The always present cigar that goes with that face is welcome, too.

All soldiers about to be tried by court martial, see Cpl. Kelly and obtain necessary instructions for being your own defense counsel.

We all hear fellows in the different outfits complaining about the camp and the "Electric City." Some of us in Co. "G" do, but we are like Pollyanna, the little lame girl, who always had something to be thankful for. We are thankful that we are in Co. "G" and in the 2nd Battalion, at least.

Sgt. Hi Davis, alias Daniel Boone II, returned from a hunting trip Saturday afternoon with three quail. How much did they set you back, Hi?

Lt. Privett returned from a two month leave during which time he visited Missouri, via the auto route. He spent a few days on his return trip in Alabama. We are glad to have him back with us and believe that he is glad to be back, too.

Our tailor has run out of thread since the new non-coms were appointed in the company.

Pvt. Cusumamo is still wondering why he wasn't included in the ones that were called upon to be examined for corporals.

There have been a few changes in the "bars" in this company, but Capt. Sims is still Captain to us.

The duty platoon of Co. "G" is now experimenting with some of Sgt. Hallisey's new drill regulations. A few of the new ones are: "Backward march, squads right by the right flank, March. Rear rank right front into line, March. Squads right about, DO IT."

COMPANY "H."

Our basketeers suffered their first defeat last Tuesday. They lost to "E" Co., by the score of 47 to 30. "E" Company ran away with the first half of the game, gaining a lead that could not be overcome by our team, although in the second half they showed some of their original dash and form. Brady was the outstanding star in the game, while Parris, Daniel and Slaght ably assisted after they got a footing. Lack of practice was the leading cause for the loss of the game. The team came gamely on to the court without a day's practice since the last game. It was a clean game all through, with only one foul being called, and that against our team.

The material for our recreation room is arriving at last. Work will soon be started on it and then we will be able to boast of a good recreation room.

We wonder how some men can go down town on four bits, have a good time, and when they cme back still have money. How do you do it, Cody?

How is it that these men that still have nine or ten months to do claim they are short timers?

We now have with us Johnnie Helms, the famous Knuckle Duster. We're all backing you, Johnnie, the next time you get matched.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

It don't take no process of synthesis to figure out how Company "G" took first place in the struggle (?) with our "quint" last Tuesday evening. The score of 45 to 7 is plain enough.

Speaking about quints when referring to a basketball team is a common and unquestionable usage, why can't we casually say "quart" for quartet without arousing suspicion, hey? Anyway, Corporal Hopkinson confidentially announces that as soon as certain parties can get together, a quart,—I mean quartet—will be formed which will beat any combination the past has seen.

Privates Henderson, Jones and Lewis were discharged last week and they all went back to Florida for the winter, not to Palm Beach, of course, as you might be led to think. Henderson and Lewis to the farm, and Jones to the lumber camps. Back to nature and hard work in spite of that song, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm, after they've seen Columbus, Georgia."

It's kinda hard for the Company Reporter to ease his conscience these days for it seems that everybody tries to keep all news to themselves, and he has a hard time assuring himself that he isn't loafing on the job. If any member of this company has a bit of news, something he thinks should be published, please whisper into my ever-ready ear and oblige yours truly. The reputation of this paper will be ruined if I am forced to invent the material.

Something else new. Corporal Davis has been recommended for promotion to Sergeant. Congrats.

England Can Not Pay War Debt In 25 Years

$4,000,000,000 DUE.

England owes the United States a little over $4,000,000,000, and other nations owe us about $7,000,000,000 or a total of over $11,000,000,000, and this sum is bearing interest at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent. per annum.

A British Debt Commission recently came to this country and has been in conference with the American Debt Commission. The details of the conference have been laid before the President, and he has decided, with which Secretaries Mellon and Smoot agree, that it will be impossible for England to pay the $4,000,000,000 as provided by Congress. Congress passed an act after the close of the war by which the loans were to be returned in 25 years with interest at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent.

It has been indicated that Congress will be asked to modify the existing act so as to give the American Debt Commission more liberty and thereby make the best arrangement possible with the debtor nations, subject, of course, to final congressional approval.

There is one big consolation, and that is that England is trying to pay and is willing to pay, the only thing she asks is that she be given a longer period of time.

ANOTHER MAN GLAD THAT HE JOINED THE ARMY

Sgt. Winn recently received a letter from a man that he recruited at Dublin, Ga., a short time ago. It sure makes us feel good to know that the recruits coming in feel well pleased, and we sincerely hope that they will always feel that way about Benning, and at the end of three years when they return home, that they will always keep a soft spot in their heart for the Post and look with pride on the service that they have rendered.

We quote the letter that Sgt. Winn received:

"Fort Benning, Ga.,
"Dec. 18th, 1922.

"Sgt. Aaron M. Winn,
"Army Recruiting Station,
"Dublin, Ga.

"Hello there, Sergeant:—

"How many recruits have you gotten since we left Dublin? If you have any more send them on because they can't help but like it. All the recruits that came with me are satisfied here.

"Just thought I would write you a few lines to let you know how well we like the Army. Well, I must say that we like it fine. The recruits drill two to three hours a day except Saturdays and Sundays, under a drill sergeant that knows his business, and all the recruits that came with me will soon be doing a soldier's regular routine of duty, which is a pleasure at this place, and the recruits that came with me say that they wouldn't be back on the outside for five bucks a day. You know that we must be satisfied. Well, Sergeant, to make a long story short, we can honestly say that Fort Benning is one of the nicest and cleanest posts in the United States. It is in a good location, near a good town, and the people in Columbus are just as nice and clever to the soldiers as they can be. I think that it would be a pleasure and a pastime for any young man to spend part of his life in the service and serve his time at Fort Benning, Ga. You don't have to go to town for pleasure or pastime, for we have it at Fort Benning—all kinds of athletics, such as baseball, basket ball, football, billiards, etc., and the Government owns ninety thousand acres of land for the soldiers to hunt and fish on. If you like to hunt squirrels, rabbits, quail, opossum, coon or mink, you can find them at Fort Benning. This is also a desirable place to fish and we also have a fine bathing pool here. My advice to all young men, and especially those who have no trade, would be to enlist and get one free.

"Thanking you for encouraging me to enlist in the Army, I am,

"Your friend,

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Private Joseph Green, of the Re-Cruit Center, visited the tent of the Mystic Five, New Year's night. After witnessing a few experiments in sleight of hand, he deliberately cut his hat cord in five pieces, and expected the Mystic Five to cause his hat cord to become whole again. When they failed to restore his hat cord together he called them fakers. It's a good thing he did not cut up his breeches.

Joe Bradley, our ex-Sgt. Mechanic, got married Jan. 6, past, and the old outfit has not forgotten Joe of "Athlone and Mother Machree fame," and any time he gets hungry, the boys will welcome him back. The Detachment extends its best wishes to the newly-weds and may the years to come bring joy, peace, prosperity and happiness to Joe and his.

If this balmy weather continues, the champions of the white troops will soon be out tossing the old apple around. Kid McNutt and Old Man Duff will be back in harness again and that means lots of trouble for the 29th, Tanks and whoever happens to be in the league. Let us hope that a real baseball league consisting of the 29th, I. S. D., 24th Inf, 83rd, F. A. Tanks and one other club composed of the remainder of the Post be scheduled for a 80 or 100 game schedule to be divided into halves, and then about October play the Little World's Series, instead of playing it in July, when the baseball season is at its best Of course, the final series will depend on whether or not the same team wins both halves. Also let each outfit have their company ball if they so desire, but what we need is a real league that will furnish some exciting baseball for the men stationed here. Then there will be no yelling to the effect that the I. S. D. and so on were afraid of the 24th Inf. We are all soldiers, so why not a soldier league composed of the best that the Post affords? Let us hear some one else on this question and maybe the powers that be will get together and give us a baseball league that will stand up with any around these parts.

We are all glad to hear that Sgt. Kahler is out of danger in the hospital. For a while he was mighty low and every one was afraid that a good man was "going west."

Master Sergeant Harris was seen around the Detachment after being in the hospital for two months.

The outfit is beginning to make up for many of the recent discharges, and the following have just been assigned: Pvt., Angus Faber, George J. McLeod, William R. Bates, Leslie A. Steinrucken, Everett M. Ferguson, Douglas M. Reichert, Harry T. Strand, Bob Skyfire, Richard Lovell, Fred. Sisk, Louis N. Sibley, James Shelfo, Albert H. Clement, Harold A. Silvers, Dominick Peluso, Floyd E. Glodhill, Claud N. De Sau, Charles R. Gough, James Carroll.

On the Pistol Range."

Lt. Lenow—How are you making out, Sergeant?

Sgt. Courtright—Not very good, Lieutenant, are you going to make it?

Lt. Lenow—Not if I shoot like I did today.

Sgt. Courtright—Better be careful, Lieutenant, cold weather is liable to catch you without a badge.

Did you ever see a man on the range with two guns, a box of ammunition, marking his own target, keeping his own score, and then fail to qualify? Ask "Whitie" Hoffman.

Copass wants to know why "Spud" tried to stand on his head when his pistol snapped.

Sgt. Lyke—Where did that one go? I can't see where it hit.

Sgt. Darby—It hit the paste can.

Sgt. Lyke—More bad ammunition.

Range Sgt.—Who shot up that paste can?

Sgt. Lyke—I don't know. Darby was shooting on that target.

Bilyen (crawling behind Courtright)—Look out, you almost hit my foot that time.

Courtright—Don't worry, I'm going to hit closer this time.

"Garbage" Ellis, one 10, six 3's. I wonder how I ever got that 10 out of the three ring? And he made expert???????

Booth is still wondering why he made a 5 on target L while shooting at the Bobbers.

Goot vun, "Vitie," goot vun, "Spud," total miss.

Medical Department Notes

Sympathy is expressed for Lieut. Colonel James W. Van Dusen in the loss of his brother at Elyria, Ohio. Ten days extension has been granted the Colonel in addition to his original leave.

Private A. M. Hatcher has been granted ten day extension on furlough, on account of the serious illness of his mother.

Wedding bells have rung merrily in the Medical Detachment the last two weeks, two weddings having occurred, that of Sergeant Herbert W. Oatman and Private Laurence L. Henri. Congratulations, may all your troubles be little ones.

Major T. H. Smith, D. C., has returned for duty after an enjoyable twenty-day leave.

Major H. W. Grady, M. C., has returned for duty after completing an advanced course in X-ray work at the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C.

Captain H. A. Callahan, M. C., has returned from "Bean Town," and reports a most delightful time, especially the trips down the bay on the "King Philip."

Captain C. P. Price, M. C., is on a ten day leave of absence and has been granted a five-day extension. Sympathy is expressed for Captain Price in the loss of his sister at Dallas, Texas.

Corporal C. A. Peters and Private Joe Barrentine left Tuesday morning for Washington with three patients who are to undergo further treatment at Walter Reed General Hospital.

Sergeant James I. Cook had a week-end pass "Somewhere in Georgia." Come on, "Jimmie," and tell us where you went.

The weekly meeting of the Non-Commissioned Club was held Monday, January 8th, at the usual time and meeting place. Chairman P. H. Risley called the meeting to order. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by Secretary Arthur N. Mager. Something new in the way of entertainment was inaugurated at this meeting. Debate on "Resolved, That the Army be increased above its present strength." The affirmative side of the question was very ably conducted by Sergeant Heatherly and Staff Sergeant Risley. The negative side of the question was handled by Staff Sergeant Rogers and Corporal Moore. Due to the fact that the negative side was not wholly convinced of their own argument, the debate went to the affirmative side. The evening was greatly enjoyed by those present and these debates will continue in the future. The next one should be good, considering the subject, "Resolved, That prohibition is a failure."

Sergeant Lowell D. White is enjoying a three day pass in Atlanta. Sergeant White is accompanied by his wife.

Private John W. Nichols has reenlisted for three years with the Medical Department, and is back on his old job as mail orderly.

The following named men having enlisted for three years are assigned for duty with the Medical Detachment: Privates Carlton Brown and David F. Woodard.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

A great deal of interest is being shown in the game of football that is to be played between the members of the rifle and machine gun sections. The athletes are in hard training and expect to start the game in the well known "pink."

It is a hard job to pick the first string men at this time, for each position on both teams is being fought for by at least a dozen of the best players in the country. At the time of writing there are several well known players of "All American" material working out.

Several of the principal southern cities have already put in bids to stage this memorable contest, which is expected to make history. The officials have not decided where the battle will be fought but it will be awarded to the city which makes the best offer.

Among the players are O'Meara, the fighting Italian, who will play quarterback for the machine gunners. His signals will be in his mother tongue and will be understood only by his team mates, who are taking a course in the language.

For the Riflemen, there is Goldfedder, the giant guard; Van Horn, whose fleetness of foot is expected to gain many yards around the ends; Easley, another speedster, on the other end; Wild Rice, the crashing, tearing, halfback, who can be trusted to remove any spectators from the side lines, and a great many others of like caliber. The betting is about even at this time, although Captain Miller is willing to wager a few francs that the game will never be played.

If you have dynamite, trojan powder, T. N. T., at your disposal, what will you use?

* * *

Captain Walton says that the proper way to inspect your rifle, when the C. G. is observing, is to take the bolt all the way out and throw it on the ground near your feet. When you are sure that the C. G. is watching, you then step out of ranks and retrieve it.

* * *

It has just been discovered that we have a big game hunter in the ranks of the class. Captain Brown, the Class Proxy, is the man. The captain has a method that is not generally known, for he needs no gun in bringing the vicious animal in. He simply comes out of the door of his quarters and finding Bruin sitting on the door step, he delivers a well placed boot and quickly follows up his advantage. When the bear is prostrate on the ground, the captain pounces on him and dispatches him with his bare hands. Several of his friends are the proud possessors of bear skins as a result of the captain's prowess while his walls are covered with the trophies of the chase. It is said on reliable authority that the captain has killed a great many bears right here on the post.

* * *

In addition to Captain Brown, there is still another hunter of big game. The other night, Lt. Jones, of Virginia, awoke to the sound of a great clatter in his tent. Sitting up, he turned on the lights and found a meeting in progress, attended by several crickets. He was just in time, for one of the smaller crickets was just going out the door with the lieutenant's coat. Picking up a big piece of wood, the lieut. clouted this cricket on the head and stunned him. The others then turned on him and if friends had not been attracted by the lieut.'s cries, it is doubtful how the battle would have ended. Jones says that the crickets in his tent used to be very peaceful, even coming out to sit around his fire, but several nights ago, McGowan carelessly stepped on a cricket's foot, which made them all angry and bloodthirsty. Now, Jones never enters his tent alone for fear of an attack. Since he took bayonet training, he has been better able to hold his own, although the walls of his tent are ripped and torn in a number of places where he has missed his opponent.

It's me, it's me, it's me, Oh Lord.

* * *

Goldfedder, he was a soldier, but a sword he never drew,
He used to tell me, "Der deuce wid fighting, it's no business for a Jew,
Der butcher, baker and real estater, they are men of great renown,"
When the bugle call would sound, he was nowhere to be found.
Oh, what a fighter was Goldfedder.
(Music upon application.)

It is with a great deal of reluctance that the writer brings a certain matter to the attention of the class. It is a sad thing that our diry linnen has to be washed in public, but inasmuch as the matters to be discussed here are taking place in public, it may possibly be that it will do a certain amount of good to let the world know that we are taking steps to prevent the recurrence of these indiscretions. The problem under discussion is the seventh squad of the rifle platoon, under command of Corporal Newton.

It appears that there is considerable dissension in the ranks of this particular squad, which is composed of the pewees of our otherwise imposing section.

It is said that the smaller species of animal life are the most quarrelsome and pugnacious and the members of this little squad of men, or, I should say, this squad of little men, does its very best to live up to this reputation.

Never, since it has been formed, has this squad appeared in public with love in its hearts and good will toward men and each other. Sometimes it is Slow-Trigger Bateman in a quarrel with Bull's Eye Garrett, sometimes Jones can't get along with Mosier, or Rushton is being bawled out by Goldfedder. Gordon, who looks like the papa of the gang, quarrels with everybody, while Corporal Newton looks on like an indulgent parent with a lot of spoiled children. He thinks they are cute.

When the rifle section is on the march, with the majority in good spirits, the peace and quiet is suddenly shattered by wrangling from the rear end and upon investigation, this seventh squad is found to be the seat of the trouble.

The sixth squad, which has the misfortune to be in close proximity to the trouble-makers, always does its best to restore peace, but rarely with any success.

It was thought that they would eventually find the way to harmony, but every day the situation becomes more acute, and will probably lead to serious consequences unless steps are taken to remedy it.

The writer has been petitioned to bring his to the attention of the class, and has presented it to the best of his ability. It may be necessary to call a special meeting of the class to adjust the difficulty, but it is hoped to straighten it out without calling for outside help.

There is the proposition, gentlemen, think it over and send all suggestions to the Seventh Squad Trouble Editor, care of this paper.

Motor Transport Notes.

Ques.—Is the Top Sgt. still troubled with rheumatism?

Ans.—Yes, but only at certain times.

Ques.—Then why don't you go to the medicine man in Sugartown, Alabama, who advertises to heal by touch?

Ans.—I did.

Ques.—Did he do you any good?

Ans.—Oh, yes, he did me—and he did me good—he touched me for twenty dollars, and thereby healed himself.

Mrs. D—Sergeant Wanton is a great lover of string music, isn't he?

Mrs. W—Yes, indeed, I have seen him get up in the middle of the night and try to compose.

We wonder where you are tonight, Sgt. Ross, and what keeps you so quiet. Maybe you have turned over one more of the many new leaves for the New Year. Any way, the boys miss hearing the song you used to sing entitled "I Know What It Means To Be Lonesome."

Mrs. W—They tell me that brain work is more wearing than any other.

Mrs. D—Yes, I know it's true. Every time Thomas (Sgt. Dogan) is kept late at the office (M. T. Park) he is sure to have a headache the next day.

I understand that Staff Sgt. Williams (Nubbie) has made arrangements to ride the Ft. Benning Special Train and desert the Howard bus line. Why? Answer: Because he can enjoy the ride talking with a certain Miss from the laundry.

Some one while passing the barracks walked away with one of Cook Walburg's (Bill Dooley) horses; now he is way down, now he will have to use a box until he can get another horse.

Ques.—How did Pvt. Massenburg lose sight of the Wynnton vamp?

Ans.—Pvt. Jackson (Big Ben) put dust in his face while he was visiting another place.

Oh, how glad we are to have Miss Peggy to return. During her absence it has been miserable for us, as Pvt. Churchill treated us as if we were a dog.

Pvt. Campbell (the M. T. C. vamp) says he can't lose out now with Miss G as he sprung a $10.00 gold piece and a watch chain on her while visiting a Mr. B. What will the boys say when they see it?

"I lost sight of the world last night."

"How was that, Dunn (Spare Parts)?"

Answer—"Lott held the light under the car while I was repairing the fan belt, and my left hand down with the speed of an airplane, and landed in the fan, now I am lost in my line of duty, for spare parts are plentiful.

Quartermaster Detachment News Notes

Hello, Fort Benning. We're back again. Talk about Service for the Line, say, we are certainly putting it out. That's the Quartermaster all over, service and then some.

By the way, you know our friend Gilliam, the Provost Sgt., better known as the famous Speedy in this vicinity, well our poor little friend came whining to our 1st Sgt. about some Cangaroo Court—what is it, Speedy boy? You tell 'em, you'll get our deepest sympathy.

Looka here, we have our friend, Lt. Wm. Foelsing, in charge of the Q. M. corrals. Wonder what he has to say for himself?

On mules we find
Two legs behind,
Two we find before.
We stand behind
Before we find
What the two behind be for.

Bet he talks from experience. Oh, well, such is life, hard knocks all the way thru.

The following conversation was overheard in the Day Room:

"No, sir, no more pool for me. Yep, $2.50 is too much for one day's enjoyment, especially for a short timer. I'm through, ab-so-lute-ly."

Speedy, boy, wonder what the cue balls have to say being knocked around so much? Use discretion.

Here is a nice game of "Dodge" our Supply Sgt. has invented. He bought a "Dodge" car, and now he is "Dodg-ing" the installments. Question: Who is the "Dodg-iest?"

Our Speed Demon, Goofey Taylor, hasn't been late for "chow" for the past oweek. Why the speed, Leslie? Is the fellow from Girard still after you?

We see that Hq. Fire Dept. has a new gong, and it has caused some excitement among some of the fellows. While testing it a few days ago, a few of the sturdy Fire Eaters were asleep. When it sounded our friends, Roberts and Hicks, forgot where they were and shouted, "Two more cups of tea, Joe."

Listen, friends, this is the honest truth. Leslie Taylor was actually seen with clean hands, after he got a bawling out for dirtying up the pool table. He probably thought he would save the energy of washing, by wiping his hands on the green cloth, imagining he was on the River Shannon.

We have the toughest guy in the U. S. Army. His occupation is fire eater. The other day he took a dose of salts and drank gasoline for a chaser. Good thing there were no fires that day, Wix, old boy, for you would surely blow up.

We have a new member with the personnel of the Property Office in W. O. Haney, formerly of, well, don't know and don't care, but maybe he can't find work for you. Bet he gets results, too. Wish you the best of luck, Mr. Haney.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

It seems rather queer that Cpl. Cochran has to start his old job as home-breaker again. He had to move out of tent No. 17, and that broke up the home of the happy family, including Pvt. Cockelreas and Pvt. Welton.

This one takes the cake. Cook Roberts went out to shave the other night, and shaved all the lather off his face before he found that he had no blade in his razor.

Ah, at last Pvt. McCabe's dreams have come true. He is to be discharged in the near future and he is going to take Pvt. Scharle with him. Pvt. Scharle is going to hand his money over to McCabe to buy his ticket for him. If you hand your money over to McCabe, you can figure on walking home, Scharle.

Theda Bara is trying to beat Andy Gump, lately. He wears no man's collar, but he surely must have got some other man's hat. And he comes from Minnesota, too.

Well, good luck, Scharle, when you're discharged. Only don't go back to the NUT HOUSE and try to get your old job back, or they will think you are an inmate of the HOUSE.

Our recruiting sergeant has returned to the company after a month's vacation in Montgomery, Ala. He isn't going to stay with us long, as he is getting discharged. He might have gotten the recruits alright, but they didn't show up here.

Pvt. Keyes has a little lady friend in Columbus, and he thinks so much of her that he stays from five o'clock in the evening till noon the next day with her. He says she works in a barber shop. In that case, it takes a long time for him to get a hair cut and shave.

The mystery of the company is now, when, where and why does Lucky Miller go to town every night with Sgt. Stover?

Cpl. Leuze has a new song entitled, "Turn backward, turn backward, Oh, Time, in your flight, Make me a Supply Sergeant just for tonight.

It seems that Cpl. Broderson is trying to train his voice, so he can compete with Al McGluck in a singing contest. The best thing for you to do, Broderson, is to get a corn plow and cultivate your voice.

We have a Ben Turpin in this outfit now. The other day Pvt. Shane was out hunting and shot at a rabbit and killed a bird. He should make sharpshooter on the range this year.

Pvt. Althouse—"Norman, why didn't you qualify this year on the range?"

Pvt. Williamson—"I couldn't, because I was an architect."

First Private—"How was that?"

Second Ditto—"I had other plans."

Helicoptor Makes Successful Flight

CONSTRUCTED BY THE AIR SERVICE.

The first successful flight of a Helicopter took place on December 18th, 1922, at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio. The flight lasted a little less than two minutes and rose six feet from the ground and was maneuvered about at the will of the operator. The Wright brothers' first flight lasted only 29 seconds, which was on December 17th, 1903. The operator, Major T. H. Bane, of the Air Service of the United States army, was the pilot.

A Helicopter is a machine that will rise straight up into the air and at decent it will come down vertically or at an angle of 90 degrees. It is lifted up by its own power and is not dependent on a large bag filled with hydrogen or any other gas.

The peculiar feature of this new Helicopter is that the machine was constructed without models or tests of any kind. All of the details of the construction being based upon computations made by Dr. de Bothezat.

The de Bothezat Helicopter weighs 3,600 pounds, pilot and fuel included, and has a 170-horsepower motor.

SODA FOUNTAIN OPENED UP.

The Post Exchange re-opened its soda fountain again this week. So any time that you get that thirsty feeling drop around to the fountain and satisfy that feeling.

DOUGHBOY'S TRIPLETS BEING CARED FOR BY GUARDIAN LASSES

The above is a snapshot of triplets, three sons of a veteran of the world war whose wife died at birth of the little ones. These husky young Americans are now thriving under the motherly care of the famous Salvation Army lassie. The ex-soldier, father of the babies, served in France during the world war and saw the self-sacrificing activities of the world famed lassie. Now that the same lassies are caring for his motherless little ones, what stretch of imagination could calculate his admiration for these cheering girls of the tambourine?

The Southern Division of Salvation Army, of which Columbus forms a part, maintains a hospital for infants and their mothers at Greenville, S. C. This hospital was built immediately following the world war at a cost of around $300,000. Over 500 girls annually enter its doors for assistance in dire distress, some of them from this vicinity. The names are withheld from publication by orders of the Salvation Army.

Meeting With New Men Of The 29th Infantry

On Thursday afternoon of last week Colonel Goodale and Chaplain Wood met with the men who had joined the Twenty-ninth Infantry during the last few months. The meeting was held in the Regimental Service Club building. After a selection from the band, Colonel Goodale stated the object of the meeting and asked the Chaplain, who has had over fourteen years' service with the Regiment, to give the men a brief history of the 29th, and also to say a word of welcome.

The Chaplain's talk was followed by an address from the Colonel in which he emphasized the responsibilities and duties that devolve upon the men, and referred to the advantages to be had in the service, giving the men much wholesome advice. The meeting closed with a selection from the band.

SERVICE CLUB No. 1.

All Married Folks Read.

The Post Hostess, Miss Roe, desires to meet all of the enlisted men's wives on next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Service Club No. 1. She has secured the large room at the south end of the Service Club for your club room. Don't forget the time and date.

On next Friday evening a Casino Tournament will take place at the club. So all of you Casino sharks turn out.

Gathering Of 29th Inf. Men To Be Discharged

Once each month a meeting is held with the men of the 29th who are to be discharged during that month. The meeting for January was held last Monday evening. Lt. Colonel Hobbs delivered an address on the purposes of the Army and pointing out to the men about to leave for civil life the responsibilities that will fall upon them in their new surroundings. Col. Hobbs was followed by Chaplain Wood, who spoke a few words to the men and distributed cards to them by means of which they may keep in touch with the Regiment and the Post.

Take a Look at This

SOME PROGRAM FOR THE POST THEATRES THIS COMING WEEK.

War Department Theatre, Sunday, January 21.

Here's the golden text for today: See "Monte Cristo" if you have to mortgage the old homestead.

You can buy a house any day, but it's only once in a twelvemonth that you have a chance to see a picture like this—one that delivers a succession of dramatic knockouts without mauling your intelligence at the same time.

It's really a little hard to write

Russia Starts To Mobilize

GOING TO AID GERMANY.

France has occupied the Ruhr Basin, but Germany is protesting, and Russia is preparing to mobilize her troops to assist Germany if Germany is going to offer armed resistance.

France is still hoping that a settlement can still be made and has offered several inducements to Germany, but to date Germany has not accepted. What has induced France to pay Germany for the coal that Germany should deliver is unknown, but Germany has absolutely refused to send any coal to France under any condition.

At present the situation is exceedingly uncertain as to whether Germany will submit or if she will offer armed resistance. It may be said that both nations are moving their pawns to checkmate their opponent.

Examinations For Commissions in Regular Army

24th Infantry Notes

SERVICE COMPANY.

The first thing that we see on returning is the band taking on material from Company "L," 24th Infantry. Next is Flashlight Boyd, formerly of Company "E" in the office fighting the typewriter.

Sgt. Pride, better known as Heavy, has started in to train for boxing. He claims he is going to reduce from 297 lbs. to 201 lbs. by February 1st.

Pvt. Lafayette Vontress now claims to be the best dressed soldier in the regiment. It is a fine thing to be a model for some tailor.

COMPANY "A."

Cpl. Henderson, "Chappy," things look very favorable in Georgia for you, but I advise you to keep your foot on the soft pedal, and don't let it turn one inch.

Cpl. Jackson is expecting to take a trip to Florida soon. He is expecting to find all his gators grown by this time. On his last vacation in 1919 the gators were all small and their tails did not have enough meat on them.

Pvt. Carr, old boy, you are awfully lucky, but try and not get in such a place as that again; things might be a little different and you may get the limit, which is 6, 8, 10 and 12.

Pvt. 1st Class Spud Murphy is sick in the hospital, but he is not forgotten, for somebody sent him a full envelope and came to see him themselves to make sure that he got it.

Pvt. 1st Class Bell is in the hospital. I wonder does she know it? If she doesn't, tell us who she is, "Bell."

COMPANY "B."

Can you tell me why the speed king (Crp. Taylor) is not showing much speed nowadays?

Yes! Run out of gas.

Oh, well, any old flivver is liable to run down some time.

Mech Robinson, the Cruel Hombre, V. V. (Velvet Vamp) says he wishes the earth concreated so no one could rut. Say, boy, you must have an iron nose.

COMPANY "C."

Private Brickey's civilian suit is at last laid to rest in his locker. A few drops of rain made a night attack on it, with the following results: The pants retreated up to his knees, while the coat advanced by rushes up his back, and you can bet your bottom dollar Brickey has been a soldier ever since.

Sgt. Williams has just arrived from a ten-day pass. He met so many girls in Macon who wanted to marry that he could hardly resist the temptation.

Private Lewis has been very easy to get along with since his return from Americus. We wonder why.

Private Six Fingers purchased a new pair of Edmond Clapps (shoes) recently. However, he was riding sick report following day of purchase, and it don't take no gypsy to tell why.

Company "C," always the 100 per cent. company of the regiment, has established its high mark. Each member having voluntarily purchased one or more of the regimental histories, which we are all patiently waiting for its delivery from printing office. We are sure the company will occupy a large space in regimental history for its past records show its participation in nearly every engagement the 24th Infantry has ever had an opprtunity to show its real fighting qualifications as a unit.

Weo have at present the Grand Imperial. This is a new lodge formed, and the Grand Duke is Candy Jim. The new order is called the 23rd degree. Before you become a 23rd degree man you must work your way up from No. 1 to 23 (I mean Block 23).

COMPANY "D."

What's the big idea of a certain fellow buying twenty peso presents here of late? You had better lay close "Pick," the Benning News has its eyes on you.

"Heads," the head butcher, has invented a new tool for barbers. He uses a table fork in lieu of a comb. Better take your patent to Washington, old top, and have it registered.

Pvt. Branch was putting in for clothes a few days ago, and asked for a 40 shirt, a 7-D hat and a 6 7-8 shoe. Wake up, Branch, use your head for something besides a foot.

COMPANY "I."

Private 1st Class Jackson (Song-Bird) has returned from a furlough enjoyably spent with the flappers of Atlanta, Ga., but all his letters are addressed to R. F. D. Box 1144.

Sergeant Russell (Poor Boy) has eaten so many rabbits until every time he hears a dog bark he runs to the woods.

We take unto urselves the slogan of the reporter of the I. S. D. (W), in last week's issue, to form a real soldier's league. Let everybody in Fort Benning work thru good sportsmanship and try for a real soldier's league, consisting of the I. S. D. (W), 29th Inf., 83rd F. A., Auxiliary team and the 24th Inf.

Sgt. Harrod has a three-day pass to Macon, Ga. He says he is going to find out why Corporal Reeves runs up there every time they say fall out.

COMPANY "L."

Day by day, in every way, Company "L" is getting better since the Band is transferred.

Private Doc Stroughter and Private Vaughn Charlie were digging a trench over in France. Although not in an especially safe place, for a time they were unconscious of their danger. Then a shell flew over their heads and exploded just beyond. Others followed. At the fifth explosion Doc inquired: "Say, Vaughn, don't you think that it is about time we done got religion?"

"Chuff," replied Vaughn, scornfully, "Doc, you suttenly is tho'ly shiftless, boy. Me, I done got religion when the fust bomb busted."

COMPANY "M."

Pvt. Dewitt Davis, the vamp proof kid, said that there are two kinds of ladies that you can't trust, and that is the bobbed haired lady and those without any. Oh, well, he must know what he is talking about.

There are two men in Co. "M" that don't seem to get along so well. It's hard to tell just why, but you can always hear one calling the other a recruit.

Private Liddell has just returned from a visit to the Layfield House, on the corner of Sixth avenue and Tenth street, Columbus, Georgia, where he spent two days visiting friends of the Jump Steady Club.

Pvt. David Brown give important lectures on married life. Brown says the joys of life is to be married.

Look out, Brown, don't get in the dark at night, for there are many that don't agree with you.

Due to the temporary decrease of The News, Company Notes had to be reduced.

BORN.

A future charming debutante was born to Lieut. and Mrs. E. M. Peckinpaugh on last Sunday morning. The little miss tipped the scales at seven and one-half pounds. Mother and child are doing nicely and the proud father says that he can't complain.

Mr. and Mrs. Rycroft, who are visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Jack Rycroft, recently underwent an operation on their eyes. They are both progressing nicely.

The Medical Department Bridge Club met at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Haywood Hansell Tuesday evening at 8:00 p. m. There were five tables of players and those winning prizes were Major Tobias, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Campbell. After the game a delicious salad course with coffee was served. The next party will be held at the home of Major and Mrs. Tobias on Tuesday evening, January 30th, at 7:45 p. m.

WHY OH WHY???

WHY is it that some people think that they are made from such finer clay that they cannot even as much as peek at other individuals without possible contamination? Also WHY is it that these some self-thought superior persons cannot be civil and courteous instead of expecting the rest of the world to pay homage? Again, also, WHY do these same individuals try to run "rough shod" or try to "boss" everybody that they come in contact with? Then, again, WHY is it that these same SUPERIOR (?) individuals don't care about anything or any object that don't belong to "muh" and if they damage or destroy it, try to hide behind their superior air? Last, but not least, WHY is it that these same conceited persons give those rights that are due other individuals?

True some of us are blessed with a little more intelligence than other unfortunate individuals, but is that any real reason that we should try to "LORD" it over them?

After all this life is but a link in an unknown chain and when we have completed our alloted task on this earth we are called to another place and then our clay body that remains on this earth, whether it be that of the superior haughty individual or of the considerate person or the imbecile, it makes no difference for the ending is exactly the same and the Earth again claims that which it gave up.

Ashes to Ashes and Dust to Dust
And Mother Earth Makes No Distinction.

WHY NOT FORT BENNING ?

Sometime ago The News suggested that the personnel of this post be authorized to wear some kind of a shoulder insignia. The "Shield, Bayonet" with the words "Follow Me," were suggested.

All other troops have a distinctive shoulder insignia, so why not Fort Benning?

GOING UP.

The nightly attendance at the Post Theatres for the past week has averaged over one thousand persons per night. If this or even a better attendance continues it means that work on the new theatre will probably commence again in a short time. Won't it be great to go to a movie here with a sloping floor and good ventilation? Oh, man!

Take a Look At This

about "Monte Cristo" without getting maudlin in praise. It is such a relief from the stodgy, unimaginative stuff that makes up our ordinary cinema fare. The same man who directed this—Emmett J. Flynn—has done some mighty good pictures before, but in "Monte Cristo" he has got on a new plane.

We can't tell you all about it between here and the bottom of the page. Let's say, then, that it is superior in every aspect of the celluloid art, and then single out for special attention the two ways in which it most excels—its economy of film and the beauty of its scenes.

As for No. 1:

The moving pictures have too often squandered yards and yards of film on material that required only inches. They have floundered around with lots of inconsequential business which has obscured the real plots and padded and encumbered the weak ones.

But the producer of "Monte Cristo" has got the creation-story idea. He had to have to get Dumas' novel into a moving picture. Every flicker advances the plot. Not six feet of film in the entire production are wasted. And this economy is not effected at the expense of good continuity. Flynn and whoever edited the film have merely shown an extraordinary gift for leaving out the non-essential.

What the London Daily Mail Had To Say About "The Connecticut Yankee," Which Will Be Shown At the War Department Theatre, Monday, January 22:

(From the London Daily Mail)

Two new films, one of them as funny as anything that has come here from the United States, were shown to the trade yesterday.

"A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" has been made by the Fox Film Company from Mark Twain's book. Considerable liberties have been taken with the great American humorist, but the result justifies them. The thing is riotously amusing, more entertaining even than Charles Chaplin.

The basic idea is one of those topsy-turvy inspirations which bubble with humor. A young American goes to sleep and dreams that he is in ancient Britain at the Court of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. He proceeds to make the Court "what America will be like when Columbus discovers it."

Machinery, "clocking" in to and out from work, cigarettes, pistols, a new sort of Wild West tournament at which the lasso beats the lance, a motor car, motorcycles, and the telephone are some of the "magic" matters he introduces to A. D. 528.

It is a very long time since one saw anything more fine and fantastic than Sir Lancelot and his knights setting out to the rescue on a Ford car and scores of motorcycles.

Quartermaster Detachment News Notes

This is your only chance to get acquainted with our galloping motorcycle orderly, who was once christened Michael Evans, and now better known as Flat Tire Mike.

Corporal, as a good soldier, you should know that it is strictly against orders to have dangerous weapons. You being a married man, I advise you to steal and destroy the most effective, the most dangerous of weapons, the rolling pin, from the Storm and Strifes' household effects.

All ye single men take notice:—

The following order was posted on Detachment Bulletin Board:

Det. Order No. 10.

1. All men of this Detachment who contemplate getting married, will obtain permission of Det. Commander.

Signed, Thad C. Knight.

Wonder if the Capt. will relate some of the bliss of married life.

Ever since one of the fair stenographers of the Utilities has moved to Post Hdq., and occupies a desk next to Lady Killer Oosthyuzen, please observe the way he dolls up daily.

We have a Pipe League of our own in the Property Office, whose members consist of Capt. Holland, Sgt. Grindley, Mr. Hothan, Mr. Bussy, Mr. Woolbright, and last, but not least, Pvt. Bracye. If you are homesick and originally from Pittsburgh, Pa., visit the office at any time during business hours, when all pipes are at full blast. Sure cure.

Corporal Harris, a newlywed, reported for work extremely happy one day this week. Upon being questioned the cause of his radiant happiness, the cause of the grin on his handsome features, he replied:

"Why not, eh? Why, only last night I held my wife's hands for two hours. Well—if I would ever let go, she sure would kill me."

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

Just a week ago tonight, the residents of the tent row were awakened by the sound of beautiful music. As they lay in their cots, the sweet sounds swelled until they filled the air. The enraptured listeners hesitated to investigate, for the music was so etherial that it could easily have been the playing of fairies on their lutes, and fairies are easily scared. The hour was midnight, which made the fairy theory all the stronger. All along the row, the listeners gathered in little groups, hushed and awed, with ears strained that they would not miss one little note. Never had they heard such music. It far surpassed the playing of anyone they had ever heard, not even excepting such finished mortal artists as Paderewski or Kreisler. It held a weird unearthly strain and it was the opinion that it could never be the result of human endeavors. Sometimes it sank until it was hardly discernable, then it swelled in increasing volume until it filled the very soul of the hearers. It floated to them on the night air, sometimes near and sometimes far, until it seemed as though they could stand it no longer. Finally some of the more interpred ventured to locate the source and stealthily advanced in the direction from which the sound seemed to come. As they approached, the sound took on a wailing, much as thought the unseen player was in distress. After a great deal of uncertainty, it was found that the sound came from one of the tents, and stealing close, some of the braver souls lifted the canvas sides and peeked in. The mystery was solved, for there before their astonished eyes was Van Horn, playing as though his heart would break upon a cross between a Victrola and a mouth organ. It looked like a saxophone and sounded like —. The enthusiastic audience swarmed into the tent and surrounded the musician who played on as though oblivious to their presence. The assembly, after restraining themselves a short time longer, pronounced him King, and after crowning him, returned to their bunks.

* * *

I'm crazy 'about Drill and Command. (Get Easley to sing it for you.)

* * *

The unofficial class in equitation, composed of Hot Spur McGowan, Flying Bridle Jones, Loose Cinch Wagner, Broken Bit Mosier, Bounding Shaw and many others, make it a point to go riding every Sunday. On these rides a great many things that are not in the book are shown to anyone who cares to observe. Although these gentlemen are finished horsemen, or at least nearly finished, the horses do not seem to meet with the entire approval of the riders. In fact they are off of them most of the time. They are now circulating a petition praying that the mess officer establish a high table in the mess hall where they can eat their meals standing.

* * *

What do you think of a bird that will deliberately run across a field of fire in a musketroy problem? Well, we have one in the rifle section. This young gentleman seems to think that the rifle bullets will bounce off him without doing any damage, and fortunately he had no occasion to change his mind. It seems that he accidentally got mixed up while advancing and found himself in another squad. Then on the next rush he cut across in front of two rifles, which luckily stopped firing, and arrived safely. The thing might have been sad, for this young fellow has a four month's bride in Cincinnati, who is probably waiting anxiously for his return.

* * *

Right at this point I was interrupted by Verhage, who brought me the sad news that the grand old state of Ohio his going to pay its representatives their rental allowance. I had to stop long enough to make out the proper voucher.

Easley told us a story today. I'll be blamed if I can see anything very funny in it, but it may be that I am particularly dumb. Anyway, I'll pass it on, and maybe some brighter mind will explain the point to me. Here it is:

A rookie was posted on guard and a little later the O. D. came along and asked him if anybody crossed his post. "No sir," answered the guard, "Nobody crossed my post except a couple of mules." "Well," asked the O. D., "What outfit did they belong to?" "I couldn't tell sir, they didn't have any collar ornaments on," said the dumb bell. Maybe that is funny, but if so, it is way over my head. I don't think that this story is quite up to the standard set by Easley in the past.

I wonder how Dolan and Gilchrist are coming along these days. They have not been in the limelight of late, and I fear that they are growing stagnant.

* * *

Now, Captain Dumbly, please give us the definition of the angle of the trajectory.

Explain the action of the guide when the squad is executing squad right, column left.

Are there any questions?? That's all. Move fast.

"THE BAT" SATURDAY MAT. INEE AND NIGHT AT SPRINGER

The sale of seats for the coming presentation and return engagement of "The Bat" at the Springer theatre on Saturday, Jan. 20th, with a special matinee and night, Manager C. D. Smith of the Springer Theatre declared yesterday that there is greater interest being manifested in the forthcoming visit of "The Bat" than he has ever seen before in advance of a theatrical event. This is the play that broke all theatrical records for the amount of business transacted during its run of more than two years in New York, as well as establishing new marks, both for the amount of business done and for the length of its run in Chicago, where it played one solid year, and London, where it is still playing to absolute capacity though it opened there nearly a year ago.

"The Bat" comes here staged exactly as it was presented in New York, Chicago and London, and played by an exceptionally fine company.

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

The boys who wear the Detachment colors on the basketball floor defeated the flashy Company "H" quintet of the 29th Infantry to the tune of 40 to 11. It was a fast, clean game from start to finish, but the Detachment's perfect passing was too deep for the galloping 29th.

The Detachment Rooters were easily counted, anyway "HE" was good. If the boys keep up the present speed there is no doubt as to who will be the champs of the local league. Jazz Magoni says that he has a few berries to lose on his quintet and will take canteen checks or white money.

It is rumored around that a majority of the boys of the ball club are going to try-out with the Officer's Team this season. Well, they should make it easily enough as the same club they played with defeated the Post Team three consecutive games the first part of last year. Let us hope that these players' plans do not interfere with the champions of the Post of the white troop for the I. S. D. expects to put its best team in the field this season and that is saying a lot considering the record of the club for the past four years.

The Detachment has been fortunate enough to secure the services of two very valuable and intelligent Clerks for duty in the Detachment office. These young men are Sergeant Bates and Corporal Steinrucken.

A certain member of the organization came into the orderly room the other night and inquired if Spud was in. Upon being told that Spud was not in just then, he asked: "Will he be in recently?"

Motor Transport Notes.

Corporal Pou, old soldiers talking recruit. Yes, and as I was going to say, what a change since the '90's when a fellow could stand at the Broken-Knockles saloon in Cheyenne and toss of the Prairie schooners with all comers. Private Mosely, yes, and I can remember when bronk riding had to be done with one rein, and without touching the saddle with the hands, the feet also must be kept moving in a kicking position. Private Bates, yes, and I can remember when a recruit, and especially a Buck, it would be of no use of him going to a dance and expect to get one, and a Corporal, he had to set quiet and look on, but oh, you Sergeants, Swing me, Swing me. Any way, those were the happy days, after all.

Private Magager Thornton, of the 9th U. S. Horses, and somewhat of a fancy rope-thrower, says he defeated some of the best, by writing his name with the flying loops of his lariat.

Private Morgan, I am a regular Holmes at unravelling things. I know what makes Staff Sgt. Williams sleep so much. I know who gave Pvt. Wright that black eye. There is hardly a thing that I cannot explain, but there is one thing to me still a riddle, and that is, how Private Roy R. Lee got up the Pole.

History of 29th Infantry

Article 17.
(1916 Continued.)

The Regiment (less Companies A, C, L and Band) participated in maneuvers of the Canal Zone garrison from April 22 to 29, inclusive, in the Southwest area as a part of the Orange forces, under command of Colonel John S. Mallory.

April 22 the Regiment marched from Camp Gaillard to Camp No. 1 at Colonars, R. de P., distance of 12 1-4 miles. April 23 marched to Chorrera, 9 1-4 miles. April 24 marched to Capira, 13 miles. April 25 to Bejuco, 15 miles. April 26 back to Capira. 15 miles. April 27 from Capira to Chorrera by way of the Camino Real and Chorrera trail —20 miles—and participated in main attack on the Blue forces in position covering Chorrera.

The march of 20 miles was a rapid one, over a rough trail and through a terrific downpour of rain. The Orange forces took the Blue forces entirely by surprise.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Pvt. Robinson has risen to the ranks of C. W. S. cow-puncher. While riding a mule to the stable the other day the mule started to run and Robinson got off and led the mule the rest of the way to the stable.

Pvt. Smith seems to be governed by the old saying, "You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." The only trouble with him is, he never shows the mules where the water is.

Cpl. Broderson sure has it bad. He goes to town every night with the intention of catching the 12 o'clock bus into camp, but he always misses it. Boy, you sure did fall hard.

Field Artillery News Notes

Thirteen rounds of fast boxing featured the "A" Battery Smoker given in the battery mess hall last Wednesday night. Privates John Bertuzzi and Spurgeon Combs fighting at 138 and 136 pounds, respectively, tangled up in the first encounter. All bouts were no-decision, so no comment will be made on the relative abilities of the contestants, but let it be said that the fact that both being from the same outfit didn't put a brake on the punches. This altercation went three rounds, as did the next one, which featured Pvt. Joseph Winters at 120 and Pvt. Ralph Julian at 130 pounds.

It may be said here that anyone who depreciates Winters because of his low poundage needn't figure on the international rate of exchange.

Medical Department Notes

2nd Lieut. Eleanor Grehea, Army Nurse Corps, left Tuesday morning for Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., for duty. It is with regret that we see Miss Grehea go. She has been on duty at this hspital for the last two and one-half years and has made a host of friends throughout the camp. Sincere wishes for a prosperous future go with Miss Grehea to her new field of endeavor.

2nd Lieut. Elizabeth March, Army Nurse Corps, has returned from a thirty-day leave of absence, the greater part of which was spent in the state of Tennessee. If looks speak of a month's rest and enjoyment, Miss March must have had a wonderful time.

15th Tank Battalion News

A "Snoose-hound" and a "Cracker" had a battle the other day in "C" Company. It appears that the "Cracker" got soaked by the "Snoose-juice" and has been showing signs of ill health since.

Company "C" won from Company "A" in a basketball game Monday, the final score being 23-5.

"Spare Parts" Jepsen is displaying great form when he arises these cold mornings. He reaches out and gathers all his clothes together with one hand, and makes a nose-dive from his bunk to a chair near the stove every morning. He claims to be training for the annual "Snowdrift Diving Contest," which is held yearly in Maquoketa, Iowa.

"Pest" Irby is practising very hard these days. He is trying to perfect a supposed dance step, comprising the Highland Fling, Buck and Wing, Double Shuffle and Clog.

Did you ever notice the noise emanating from the Consolidated Mess? For the benefit of those who would like to know the cause, we wish to state that it is only Dean and Webb arguing as to who made the most money on the outside.

Hicks wishes to give "Red" Lindsey fair warning to lay off his boy (Harrell).

Patterson claims to be some sort of great diety, but we are going to put you wise as to the real reason of the trees bowing down before him when he is running. It was just two fellows behind him, each one with a razor apiece.

Kubelle and Adams are using a lot of bus tickets this month. Look out, Scroggins, they will get your Susie.

The miniters of the foreign war will hold a secret meeting in the Log Hut at 8:30 p. m., Saturday night. Trotsue Lysacowski will read the by-laws of the 637.

Sharp tried to break Head into Society. Head said he could drink Joe Brown's tea, but when it comes to eating pickles with a spoon that let's me out at the Bonita.

Boys, boys, boys, don't miss this one. Be at the Log Hut at the next show and hear the lecture on How Skinny Gets His Man, given by Conroy, the Boy Criminologist.

Charlie Reeves will appear as the Sheik accompanied by Whiz Bang, the villain in the new meldrama entitled "Leaning Against the Barber Pole." Jack Saari and Charlie Finholt will furnish the music.

Sgt. Nelson was seen in a rather out of the way place the other night. Don't you think that you are stepping a bit high for a man of your age?

Favorite sayings by the man who was short, both financially and physically:

"Sergeant, can I get a pass from Friday noon to Saturday noon?"

"How about it, Sergeant, do I have to stand this formation?"

"I've got some work to do in the shop."

"Sergeant, how about going to the tailor shop? I will join the Company at the Tank Park."

"Sergeant, when am I going to that school?"

"Sergeant, I gotta go to the dentist."

"Sergeant, when do I have to do that day of extra duty?"

Cpl. Real is an expert on charging batteries. He has graduated from the Short Timers Club, and is singing that tune entitled "Got two years and a butt to do this in." Atta boy, Real.

Familiar sayings around the Company:

When do we ate? What, there ain't no more? Putting out any canteen checks? Gimme a cigarette. Got a match? When is the next show? What about that holiday? Where is that dining room orderly? What about our sweaters? Who said he couldn't do barber work? When do we get paid? How much are you going to deposit this month?

If you could only see Company "A" and Company "C" in their new basketball togs it would drive you color blind. Company "A" has red suits while "C" Company has purple Jerseys with green pants. Some color!

History of 7th Engineers

(Article No. 17.)

Period Following the Armistice.

On November 11th, 1918, the news of the Armistice coming on the morning of November 11th, was hard to believe.

On November 13th the regiment assembled at Liny. Tents were pitched on the hill north of the town and the infantry units of the division formed on the hills south and east of the town. The myriads of tiny camp fires, dotting the landscape on those still, cool November evenings produced a scene so in contrast with that of the preceding evenings that it will never be forgotten by the men who were there.

On the 14th of November, an American train pulled into Dun-sur-Meuse, and was greeted with rousing cheers. Word had come confidentially that the Division was to go to Nice for embarkation to the United States, to be transferred to the Army of Occupation, but this last order was happily revoked at the last minute. Sympathy was expressed for some 25 men from each company who were Regimental Headquarters and the First Battalion moved to Fontaines on November 17th, while the Second Battalion remained in Liny. Then followed several days of cleaning and overhauling of equipment and replacement of shortages. On November 22nd the regiment was reviewed for the first time by Major General H. E. Ely on a field between Liny and Fontaines, over which the regiment had fought its way but two weeks earlier.

It was while in Fontaines that the 5th Division was assigned to the Army of Occupation, consequently on November 24th, the regiment hiked to Louppy, the first leg of the march to Germany, and on the day following to Longuyon. The entire regiment was quartered there in pre-war French barracks. Thanksgiving day was duly celebrated by most of the regiment and since there was no turkey present, roast beef was substituted for the canned willie and sauer kraut which had been our ration for so long. From Longuyon the companies were sent to different places doing special work, classifying and inventorying German material, in Belgium, France and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg until the middle of December, where it remained until entraining for the United States.

29th Infantry News Notes

SERVICE COMPANY.

Gangway there, Mr. Editor, give us plenty of space, never mind the advertisements this time, for we are going to tell the world about a basketball game such as you read about. The game on which we are about to elaborate, was played on Monday night between the Service Company and Regimental Headquarters Company and will long live in the memory of the spectators. With clock-like precision and lightning speed, the Service Company completely overwhelmed the Regimental Headquarters Company team and trounced the latter to the tune of 25 to 9. Rothfarb contributed 10 points to the victory, next came Hardesty, who contributed 6 points. Lotz contributed 5 points, while Duquette and Shaffer each contributed 2 points towards the big end of the score.

COMPANY "A."

Company "A" defeated Company "D" last Thursday by a score of 25-23. With clock-like precision and lightning speed Company "A" completely overwhelmed the too confident Company "D" and showed them that theirs is not the only basketball team in the Post, as they believed before last Thursday's game.

Here is some advice for "D" Co.: "Don't count your chickens before they hatch."

Things we would like to know:

When are we going to China? Where are the steam heated barracks? If it takes five civilian laborers to do a piece of work, how many soldiers should be detailed to do the same work in the same time? When are they going to start the saw? Who is the best known N. C. O. in Camp?

COMPANY "B."

Sgt. Humphrey is sure having the time of his young life as he is flivvering around all the time, and believe me, poor Henry sure does show the strain. The hardest part is keeping in gas. Why not see Shroye?

Someone has had the nerve to present Cpl. Curtis with a pair of cast iron chevrons. I wonder who he could have been.

All that you can see is hobnail shoes in the Company, and the boys are stepping high as they want everyone to see what they possess.

For the Battalion inspection the Company has received 100 percent for the 14th, 15th and 16th of this month.

COMPANY "C."

Nothing of interest has happened in the past week. Five men have been discharged this week.

The basketball team in this Company made 100 percent losing this season. Pretty good. Who can beat it?

COMPANY "D."

Robinson departed and Baird lingered on. In some manner or other the orderly room work went through without a hitch, although it was plain that Baird was not himself. Finally, after that other disastrous blow, the defeat of his company at basketball by Company "A" settled matters, and he requested a three-day pass. He got it and went to Conyers to look over the situation. And now he is back, sadder than ever—for the gal gave him the air.

Private Arnold Justice has just company bugler. Pvt. Justice is all been promoted to the position of around athlete and in throwing the ivories pay day sent the boys to their tents talking to themselves.

They are already talking baseball in this company. With men like "Slim" Harkey and "Sarge" McGaha for pitchers and Johnston and Bender as infielders, the nucleus of a good team is here. The company has other good players and while it is a little early, the continued sunshine is causing some of the boys to feel of their old soup-bone and start chattering a little diamond talk.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Say, "F" Company, do you believe in luck?

Last Tuesday's basketball game sort of impresses us with the realization that the only luck that claims our acquaintance is tough luck.

Some of the wiser ones went to an entertainment over to the Catholic Chapel two Thursdays ago, knowing that there was something doing. Well, nobody was disappointed in the least.

We took the Second Battalion Quartet with us and were not sorry for it, in fact they performed admirably. Of course, it must be mentioned that the coach, Sgt. Ike Freeman, was along, too, though as a coach his abilities shine in coaching the refreshments.

We have with us for introduction four new additions to the N. C. O. fold, who have risen from the ranks since the last edition: Corporals Roth, Dellinger, Mantel and Phillips. These are worthy soldiers, having held specialist ratings and 1st Class prior to attaining their chevron.

COMPANY "E."

We have with us, one Sgt. Wyman, late of the recruiting force in Atlanta. Yes, he had a very nice time while there, but wanted to come back to the old outfit. He was getting tired of his stand anyway.

Two more corporals have dropped into our midst during the past week, Corprals Read and Akin. I'll bet they waited so as to have an order published for them alone.

The School for Cooks and Bakers has taken over "E" Company kitchen as a school. If they do as good as they have started, we are in for some good feeds in the future.

Sgts. Mowry and Comeau went to town last night to be initiated into the Modern Woodmen. Poor boys!

Cpl. New has been very sick since he went "set" in the pinochle game the other night. That's all right, New, they may let you win a game sometime.

COMPANY "F."

A certain day last week there happened to be a mob storming the Company Tailor Shop. Someone said, "My goodness, what is the rush about?" Pvt. Lupica said, "Dat's nutt'n, just the New Corporals bringing in their blouses and shirts to have their two stripes sewn on."

The basketball game between Co. "H" and Co. "F" last week was sure some game. I'll say it sure did look more like a Rugby game.

The Company Commander has been very busy the last few days wishing a few of the boys luck on their ride in the matrimonial sea. Look out, you don't get drowned, "Parrish," and take Millard along with you.

Well, Co. "F" won a basketball game, Old Man Jinx finally broke away from us. 2nd Bn. Hqrs. Company gave us a good game, a little slow but nevertheless fast enough for some of the old men that are mem-members of our team.

Now that the Soccer Football season is about to begin there should be some very good material in the 2nd Bn., come on 2nd Bn., let's go to it. Remember last winter we had a very good Soccer team, the only game we lost was to the 3rd Bn., and at the present time some of the 3rd Bn.'s star Soccer players are now in the 2nd Bn. I think we can cop the cup this year. What say?

COMPANY "G."

In a fast and interesting game last evening at the 29th Infantry Gym, Co. "G" won from the hard fighting "H" Co. team to the score of 58-2. The winning of this game has placed Co. "G" in the rank of Battalion champions. If the team experiences no hardships it is believed that the Second Battalion is the team that will win the Fourth Corps Area Championship.

Pvt. Crow has just finished preparing his request which he is submitting to Washington for the purpose of having the Fort moved closer to the City of Columbus, as he has just got married, and the distance is so great that he cannot always get back in time for Reveille.

COMPANY "H."

Our basketeers suffered another defeat last Tuesday at the hands of "G" Co. Although our team played a pretty good game, they were outplayed, outfought and outclassed. Parris shot the only basket we scored. It was about the cleanest game played on this floor. Not a single foul being called on either team. This game ended the basketball season for our quintette.

The three-ring circus demonstration was put on last Tuesday. There was a ground and cover problem, concealment, rough ground drill, gas attack and artillery barrage and a few other problems. A smoke screen was used for gas and TNT bombs were used for the artillery. It was a well planned, interesting and instructive demonstration.

Masenheimer is complaining about his knees being skinned. The secretive part is that is happened during an artificial artillery barrage composed of TNT bombs. Masenheimer couldn't keep his knees apart while going thru it.

"GO TO CHURCH."

This item is intended as a special appeal to the people of Fort Benning to attend divine worship at one of the Chapel services as listed above.

There are many reasons why everyone who can do so should attend Church. Those who have covenanted to do so should be true to their vows. Those who have been reared to attend the House of God should continue to do so. Those who believe in all that is good and pure and uplifting should go to Church. Those who believe in the power of example should use the privilege of going to Chapel for the sake of those who look to them for an example. Influence is a powerful thing and those who believe that it is should attend Church for the sake of influencing others to do the same. Parents influence children; friends influence friends; comrades influence comrades; officers influence their men. Let us be careful that our influence is toward the Church and not away from it.

THE CHURCH ATTENDANCE HABIT.

Will conduct the soul direct to the sources of power.
Will multiply individual efficiency.
Will dignify life and conduct.
Will spiritualize and glorify every fact of life.
Will present soul-filling visions of God.
Will lead to daily fellowship with the living Christ.

Everybody Do Your Bit for the Salvation Army Drive, Feb. 1 and 2---Let's Go!

Salvation Army Lassies of War Fame Recalled

Salvation Army making Doughnuts under Bombardment of German Guns, Front Line, France.

The above represents a picture taken during the world war of the illustrous Salvation Army lassie who endeared herself to the entire world for her self-sacrificing work for the distressed in the front lines.

The campaign for funds always brings advertising that recalls memories of her work of the past.

Because of their friendship for the Army the personnel of Fort Benning is organized to help put over the appeal in Columbus February 1st and 2nd.

The Upatoie New Bridge Dedicated

OPENED AT 9 O'CLOCK.

Last Saturday at 9 o'clock the new double drive bridge over the Upatoie was dedicated with short but appropriate ceremony.

Sharply at the stroke of 9 the General's car bearing General Gordon, Colonel W. H. Fassett and Mayor Dimon of Columbus started up the south approach and broke the tape, and proceeded across the new bridge. Respresentative detachments of all of the troops of the Post followed the General's car, the order of march being as follows:

The 24th Infantry Band.

Company "A" of the 7th Engineers, who constructed the bridge.

A detachment from the 24th Infantry.

A detachment from the 29th Infantry wearing steel helmets.

One motor drawn 75 mm. gun with necessary personnel of the 83rd Artillery.

Five Baby Tanks from the 15th Tank Bn.

One surprising feature was that with all five tanks on the bridge at the same time and moving there was little vibration to the bridge, so we can safely conclude that the bridge is there to stay for many a year.

After the entire procession had passed over the bridge the procession returned in the same order as above and broke the ropes across the right drive and passed over the bridge.

Chaplin Wood offered silent prayer during the ceremony.

Now if we had a good paved road to Columbus, it would make travel to Columbus a pleasure and beside prove very profitable to the merchants of that city.

BIG DRIVE FOR SALVATION ARMY

FORT BENNING WILL HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO CONTRIBUTE.

Fort Benning will be invited to contribute to the raising of a fund to enable the Salvation Army to carry on its activities in this section February 1 and 2. This invitation is connected wth an entirely worthy cause and should receive the support of every officer and man of the garrison. The following letter has been received by The News and is self-explanatory:

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 18, 1923.
Lt. John W. Elkins, Jr.
A. & R. Officer,
Ft. Benning, Ga.
My dear Lt. Elkins:

Receipt is acknowledged of your esteemed letter of the 15th instant in regard to the Salvation Army drive at Ft. Benning.

It is very kind and generous indeed of you to lend us the assistance of your columns until after the drive.

For the various committees in charge, I beg to assure you of our appreciation of any assistance you may render us in this worthy undertaking. Most assuredly the Salvation Army is doing good for the benefit of all and we hope that every individual in the camp will make a donation of around $1.00 each to this worthy cause.

Yours to serve,
COLUMBUS ROBERTS,
President Salvation Army Advisory Board in Columbus, Georgia.

On or About October 1st, 1923

AS IT HAPPENED ON THE BENNING PAVED HIGHWAY.

On or about Oct. 1st, 1923, a train load of recruits arrived at Columbus for Fort Benning. These recruits were a husky as well as spry bunch and refused to ride out to the Post, saying that they had read in the newspapers that there was a paved road to Benning and that they were going to walk. And walk they would and so walk they did. How those men walked! They said to themselves that they must be near the Post as they had walked long, but being determined they kept on and on, and where do you suppose they went? Why, to Cusseta? Why to Cusseta? Why they were good men and read the papers and the papers said that the road to the Post was paved.

Also about this time a lot of student officers arrived in Columbus and, the papers boasting about the paved road to the Post, these gentlemen took the papers literally, and as a great number of them had driven over to Columbus in their autos, they patted themselves on their backs and actually gave wife a smile and said, "At last we are on some real road! Gosh, paved road! Won't it be great after what we have been over!" So these poor deluded officers started for Ft. Benning via the paved highway and they drove and drove and then they drove some more. And where do you suppose that these men reported? Why, they went clear to Cusseta. Why did they go to Cusseta? Why Columbus informed all the world that the road to the Post was paved. What a life!

Cruel Fate was not satisfied in to misguiding the incoming folks it had

Finance Detachment Notes

The Finance Officer is now the proud owner of an over-grown Sheenie Show-Case Wagon. Well, we admit that a closed Dodge is better than the ventilated ones for this week's weather.

Sergeant Kinney is officially in charge of Corporal Short's Pay Roll and Final Statement Section. Serg't. Kenney—better known as "Rob," certainly robs 'em if remarks are not right. (How about Jones' final statement? Yeah, he's in the 26th Infantry.)

Officers' pay checks should be out of the Finance Office by February 15th, a little late, but considering Private Banda's alleged speed that's pretty good for him or we miss our guess. Private Banda still keeps up to his slogan, "One check an hour or bust."

Private Willis returned Sunday from a five-day furlough spent with his parents in Gay, Georgia, owing to his mother's illness with pneumonia. We are glad to learn that she has improved and is well on the road to recovery.

Watson (IODA) claims great things for the Cave Theory, in fact the writer believes there is something in auto-suggestion, as long as it isn't a trip to Atlanta. For further information call on Sergt. Kenney—how about 't, Robert?

The time is drawing nearer and nearer for the "Employees of the Eagle" to replenish their fellow men with funds again, and the writer fee'ls sure that every soldier on the post looks forward to this event, for he thinks that they are in the same boat with him,—many liabilities that accrued during the past holidays.

The Detachment extends their deepest sympathy to Corporal White, in the loss of his brother, who died January 19 from the results of an accident that happened last summer. Cpl. (Blanco) attended the funeral at Commerce, Ga., and is now back on the job, getting the Officers' Pay ready for distribution.

Master Sgt. J. P. Muse, F. D., was welcomed into our midst last week. We are mighty glad to have the Sgt. with us, for we happen to know that he is very proficient in Finance work. The Detachment also extends a glad hand to Sgt. Muse's family.

Speaking of alibis, Corporal Short possesses one of the best we have heard: "I was in charge of the Pay Rolls last week, but I ain't no more." Better be careful, Short, for somebody will "Fix you right up from Texas."

The Mess Officials are getting to be very considerate towards the Detachment, for they are thinking of starting to serve our breakfast in bed. We had a conference the last part of last week, to decide who we would let have this honor, but due to the many applications on file, we find that it will require a decision from higher authorities, to settle our eating difficulties. Sgt. Bennett is dissatisfied with the Mess, and it is believed that a Non-Coms' Mess would be agreeable, providing that he didn't have to do "K. P."

Miller has decided that he won't retire, now since Congress has refused to pay General Harboard's retirement pay, for he fears that they will do likewise if he retires.

Sgt. Kenney, ex-Chief Clerk, says he likes his new job very much, but he doesn't like the idea of taking over Short's job, for he finds things pretty well messed up.

This detachment has among its prodigious members, a Cpl. Purvis, who wonder of wonders, never has seen the fair and clean city of Columbus, in his six months of presence at Fort Benning. But the other night he dolled himself up in a brand-new uniform and trotted off in the direction of Block 18. Upon investigation, it was discovered that the building he entered was quartering a certain young lady whom he knew in better days. Wish you luck, "Previous," and if the young lady in question knows you as well as the writer, she will not turn you down.

Our ex-Chief Clerk is soon to have a "bronco" to make his daily trips to and from the office and we are wondering if he will have to get a pair of mules to keep him pulled out of the mud as hitherto has been the case with his automobile. We would not dare mention any name but it is thought that a Willys-Knight automobile can be bought very cheap or gotten in exchange for a pinochle deck from a member of our force.

The writer is under the impression that Pvts. Stokes and Barker will become great hunters if they keep going out, and shooting an entire box of cartridges at one measly hare, before said hare can be a captive. The boys certainly must be proud of their new guns as they seem to pass all their spare time in fondling them same as we would our best girl.

All the fellows seem to have made their New Year Resolutions a success, as "roll call" at any time will find every one present. But we fear that some of them who climbed the "pole" climbed a greasy one and are liable to lose their hold most any time, that is, as soon as their financial condition recuperates from the holiday crisis.

Motor Transport Notes.

Private Douglas Price (War Dog) Quest:—Did you ever use Cranium hair tonis?

Yes; It has an awful flavor.

The M. T. C. Bachelor quartet composed of Privates, Jackson (Big Ben)., Washington (Kid Swift), Carter, (Village Blacksmith) and Jones (Ruff house) have composed a song entitled. It may have been an apple that caused Adam to fall. (Coppies on sale at M. T. Barber Shop.)

Private John G. Brown our flat brush artist has left on 30 days furlough for Baltimore, Maryland.

Motor Transport Company 100, gave a very enteresting Radio Program in their Recreation Room Wednesday evening, Jan. 24, 1923, under the direction of 1st Sgt. Richard Simmons, and with the able assistance of Corporal Mitchell our Radio operator. And without a doubt, with the many Stations herd from the hit of the evening was selections rendered by the following stations, WEAF, New York and AWUR Sweeney, Kansas City, Mo.

(The Old Soldiers Daily Prayer, Sgt. George H. Wanton.)

"Our Father who art in Washington please put us wise to the game, give us this day our monthly pay, bring it back to our thirty again, please forgive all our fines and stoppages, you might let our Bonus come through and lead us not in temptation we won the War for you. Father forgive the ones who taken away our 20 per cent. and the rest of our pay, while we do our duty in doubt without fear, for it sure takes a game cock to make (30) years, five cents a mile forget it not when we finish we would love to go home, don't let it be like 25 year Bill for ever and ever to roam. The few of us left father, old and grey, some have been crippled, maimed and others shot. A great many say we will get no relief, can it be father you have forgot, for thine is the Phillippines, Cuba, Panama, the Hawiian Island, United States for ever and E-V-E-R.

LETS GO!

Those of the military who were overseas at any time between March, 1918, and November 11th, 1918, no doubt saw in certain little villages large tents in which were congregated, at times, certain members of the A. E. F. who appeared to be enjoying themselves consuming large quantities of doughnuts and coffee. Incidentally, these doughnuts and this coffee were not sold but were handed out with a smile and same pleasant remark by some attractive miss who seemed to be "cock of the walk" in that vicinity.

Those who were not so fortunate as to take a personal part in the late unpleasantness overseas saw, and have seen since, in certain cities and towns small groups of people gathered on some street corner and conducting religious services in the open. These groups may have been passed by with a smile and some of us may have experienced a slight feeling of annoyance at having an individual approach us with an inverted tambourine with the invitation to deposit therein such small change as we could conveniently spare at that particular time.

All of us have seen old Santa Claus standing near an iron kettle slung between the legs of a tripod before Christmas and those of us who thought about it concluded that the man who had the fortitude to stand on that cold, windy corner—these corners are always that way—must be somewhat interested in what he was doing. Usually we dropped anything from a dime to a dollar in the kettle to help buy the local destitute a good dinner.

All of this is what we have SEEN the Salvation Army do? They have done far more to relieve the physical and mental sufferings of mankind than we realize because such things are kept secret. A great many former "under dogs" will testify to such.

In the last issue of The News we carried a front page picture showing triplets born to the mother of a veteran of the World War. Unfortunately the mother died at the birth of the youngsters but the Salvation Army is taking care of them. Immediately after the war the Salvation Army erected a large hospital at a cost of over $300,000.00 so that persons in dire distress might find a place wherein to regain their health and strength. This is another thing the Salvation Army has accomplished.

During the early part of February the Salvation Army is going to put on a big drive for funds with which to continue their activities in this section of the country. There is not a member of the garrison who will materially feel the loss of a dollar donated to this cause and the mental feeling of having done your "bit" will be worth more than a dollar. Several thousand dollars should be donated by Fort Benning, because, primarily, of the fact that such a proportionately large number of officers are stationed here. This drive has the sanction of higher authority and this fact, together with the actual construcive work made possible for the Salvation Army by the raising of sufficient funds, puts it "up to us." The exact date of the drive will be announced in a later issue.

to even beguile the unfortunate residence at the Post. Why? Why they read in the Columbus papers that the road to Benning was being paved and they all held their breath in joyful expectation of riding to Columbus without wrecking their car over the MISERABLE road that had been and when the news was spread that THE PAVED ROAD TO BENNING IS OPEN they all pulled their cars out of storage, got them washed up and cleaned up and started for Columbus via the way of the paved road. Well, these poor devils drove and drove and drove but not a bit of paved road did they see. But these folks were patient and said, "Well, I guess they haven't gotten this far yet (oh, how true!) and continued on and soon they saw a big sign with a newly painted arrow and this sign read "TO COLUMBUS." What an expectation of joy filled these people for they said, "Oh, here is where the pavement must start." But alas, these poor folks were fooled again for there was no pavement, for all that they found was some more bum-um-ty road that wrecks your car, blows out your tires, makes you use more gas than you should, makes your back ache, gives you a headache and gets you all out of sorts. But, as was said before, these were patient people and had suffered a lot so they continued on and on and pretty soon they saw another sign as above, and BEHOLD, they turned and were on an asphalt road. Oh, what a joy! The first thing they knew they were in Columbus and here they looked at their speedometer and, behold, they read ELEVEN MILES. Oh, what a fate! They had to go over nine miles of rough, muddy or dusty, car-wrecking road to travel two miles on pavement, and before they paved it, it was only nine miles to Columbus. AND WE READ THAT THE ROAD TO BENNING HAD BEEN PAVED.

U. S. Senator Sings Praise of Salvation Army

Washington, D. C.—Former Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who recently was appointed to a place on the federal bench, in a speech made in the Senate during the debate on the bonus bill, shortly before he left that body, said that "if there is an institution on the face of the earth that following the teachings of the Nazarene, it is the Salvation Army."

The senator was relating to his colleagues the plight of some of the former service men, and in illustration told them of this incident:

"I was called to the anteroom of the senate the other day. There was a man who said he had been a soldier from my state. He was a veteran of the Rainbow Division and he had gone overseas.

"He was sitting out in the anteroom with 23 cents in his pocket. He had a sick wife and baby whom he had brought from New York. He had not a cent on earth outside of this 35 cents, and he was hungry.

"Our office went to work on the case. He had 17 shrapnel wounds upon his body, but was recovered from them. He got no help from other organizations, because, they said, they had so many other cases they could not handle his.

"In desperation he turned to The Salvation Army, and those good people took that wife, that poor, emaciated, hungry little woman, and that baby, took them to the hotel and fed them, and raised the money to send them out to Iowa.

"That was a picture I cannot get out of my mind. The Salvation Army—God bless the Salvation Army—if there is an institution on the face of this earth that follows the teachings of the Nazarene, it is The Salvation Army, and that came home to me in this case above everything else I have ever seen of the great work of The Salvation Army, not only at the front in time of war, but at the front in time of peace."

24TH INFANTRY HONORS MASTER SERGEANT STONE UPON HIS RETIREMENT WITH REGIMENTAL REVIEW.

General Gordon and Members of His Staff Were Present.

On Wednesday, January 24th a regimental review was tendered Master Sergeant Laxarus Stone in honor of his retirement announced in General Orders.

The Commanding General, the Executive Officer and G-4 were guests of Colonel Nicklin and witnessed the regimental review which was given to Sergeant Stone.

General Orders follow:

Headquarters 24th Infantry.
CHM-BA.
Fort Benning, Georgia.
January 23, 1923.

General Orders No. 1.

The regimental Commander desires to bring to the attention of the officers and enlisted men of the regiment the record of the long, honorable and faithful service of Master Sergeant LAZARUS STONE. Service Company, 24th Infantry, who was placed on the retired list per paragraph 5, Special Order No. 12, War Department, January 15, 1923, and a regimental review will be tendered him on Wednesday, January 24th, 1923.

Master Sergeant Stone entered the United States Army, July 20, 1898. He served 24 years, 1 month and 29 days and has a credit of 5 years, 10 months and 1 day double time.

He has been a non-commissioned officer since September 22, 1900. He was appointed Master Sergeant (Personnel Sergeant Major, 24th Infantry) June 1, 1918, and was the first to have the distinction of holding that position in the regiment, having been appointed when is was created in 1918.

Master Sergeant Stone participated in engagements during the Phillipine Insurrection, August 1, 1899 to April 14, 1902 and various skirmishes as follows:

San Mateo, Rizal, P. I. August 12, 1899.
otolan, P. I. December 8, 1899.
Yba, P. I. January 5 to 9, 1900.
Against Joaquen Sonano, July 2, 1901.

He later took part in the Punitive Exposition in Merico, from March 28, 1916 to February 5, 1917. In action against Villistas, Jurez Mexico, June 15th and 16th, 1919.

This Non-Commissioned Officer has served loyally, efficiently and honorably and the record of his service is that of which any man might be justly proud.

The very best wishes of all officers and enlisted men follow him into his well earned retirement from active service.

(200-8)
By order of Colonel NICKLIN.
CHAS. H. McNAIR, Adjutant.

COMPANY "A" 7th ENGINEERS

The opening of the new highway bridge over the Upatoi Creek, has settled the question, "Will the old bridge wash away tonight?"

As the following remark was heard as the Engineer Company approached the bridge. "Oh, look the Engineers are carrying rifles, the same as the other soldiers." Yes Madame we not only carry them, but there is only 3 men in the company who did not qualify last year.

The Engineers are not only bridge builders during peace time, but also build bridges during war time. The Seventh Engineers built pontoon bridges across the Meuse River which saved the Americans heavy losses at times during the World War.

THE 24th INFANTRY AND 15th TANKS HAVE GORY SESSION ON VOLLEY BALL COURT.

In a recent issue the officers of the 24th Infantry invited any ambitious group of officers to a friendly contest for honors on the volley ball court. In a trial bout with the 15th Tanks some weeks ago, the right to accept any challengers for title was established in a 4 to 1 by the 24th aggregation.

As a return ticket the Tanks again tried their luck on January 19th with no better success. The Tankers came full of "wim and winiger" with vengeance teeming in their veins. Riding on their high hopes they topped the score of 15 to 10 in the first frame. In the second game the proverbial blood began to tell. A 15 to 6 score followed by 15 to 5 in the third game established fire superiority, and the 24th crew began to maneuver for annihilation. In the fourth game the second stringers went in and held the visitors to a 15 to 12 score, making a tally of games 3 to 1 in favor of the Infantry. The final game of the series was made up of substitutes getting a warming up and some practice against the energetic Tankers. This resulted in a 15 to 3 victory for the Tanks. The series stood 3 to 2 in favor of the 24th Infantry.

The general interest that seems manifest on the various courts throughout the post in late afternoons should produce some contentious teams to combat either of the above teams. If you think you have a better team than the Tanks, arrangements can be made with the 24th Infantry team. Or, if you think you have the makin's of a runner-up team, make arrangements with Captain Leonard and try your mettle. The present chmpions will consider any legitimate challenge.

Tanks.

Captains Leonard, Taylor, and Lieuts. Adams, Mallory, Hanson, Searcy, Garvin, Jaynes, and J. T. Harris.

24th Infantry.

Col. Nicklin, Capts. Clarke, Wilson, Callahan, Bresnahan, McNair, Lyons, Farnsworth, and Lieuts. Jones, Carter, Schas, Maling, Custer, Whitesides, Stetler, and Chandler.

Finance Department Notes

Private Stokes, alias "Mary Garden Willie" claims to have found a sunburn lotion thats wonderful. As Stokes is too frail and fragile to venture out in the open, we presume that he uses it at night to prevent 40 watts from harming his delicate features.

Sergeant Bennett can be seen most any evening at the Service Club playing Flinch with Mrs. Stevenson. It was learned the other evening why Sgs. Bennett comes into the barracks at times with such a long face—well Jim, the best of players get flinched occasionally.

Private Barker has joined the ranks of huntsmen here and hereafter, and the Canteen is doing a thriving business in Gun Oil, as Barker (better known as hayseed, Cordwood, Corn shucks or Alfalfa) burns the midnight oil in cleaning and polishing his "jawbone" shooting sticks, and it's a pity he neglects his neck so.

No, Ayers, the "Volstead Act" is not a troupe of Acrobats playing vaudeville, but most any evening you can enjoy the wrestling matches in the F. D. barracks. Watson and Miller are very adept in throwing the "Bull" and its hard to say which is the best, Watson, Miller or the Bull, however, day by day in every way they're getting better and better.

Corporal Short returned Sunday from a five day furlough spent among the hills of Alabama chasing coons. We always thought Willard was a "Coon-Jigger."

"Jew" Friedenthal is still on the job when it comes to talking and is continually horning in on conversations.

Tillerson (with his mulish laughter) still claims undernurishment, at that though the Army comes closer to "Feeding Him" than anyone could possibly do in Marble Hill.

15th Tank Battalion News

Bugs De Napoli is up to his old tricks again. He was overheard asking a Sergeant Major if he was going to take a furlough next May and drive through to Pennsylvania. The answer was "no," so Bugs said, "Hurry, Henry, and drop your prices again, and if you go down enough I may have enough on my finals to buy one.

Did anyone think the camp bugler was blowing "Call to Arms" last Thursday night? No, gentle readers, that was only Pvt. Head staggering through "Fire Call."

Sugar has driven up and stopped. After a three months' furlough, he looked as if he had been abstaining from the necessities of life, and Oh, boy, he sure eats like it.

Trotsue, our Supply Sergeant, delivered a lecture on the art of hand decorating. Following is an extract from his address: "All men will turn in their tin hats at once, for the purpose of having a new insignia painted on them by the Commanding Officer.

Wonder what drove our 1st Sergeant into Joe Brown's Tea Room. He said it was his new cap that was the reason.

All together now, every man who enjoys his glass of good cold beer, let's try out old man Coue's cure to this tune: Every day in every way we pray and pray, bring back our beer, bring back our beer.

Reeves never gets a night off. Sharp had him playing the piano the other night. Sharp was rehearsing is new song, "He Was Caught With the Dog Catcher's Daughter."

Company "B" defeated Company "C" in one of the fastest and cleanest basketball games seen in the league, by the score of 12 to 11. Mabry, Kane and Swantic featured for the winners and Barrick and Cain for the losers.

Sgt. Lysacowski entertained 1st Sgt. Gardner in his quarters the night of the rain.

Day by day in every way our 1st Sergeant is getting better and better in the art of writing discharges. He has written out eighty in the past four months. Attaboy, Gardner.

Company "B" lost one of its first class dog robbers, one Pvt. R. F. Woods, who has served three years as a faithful and efficient bootblack and gold bricker. On the day of his discharge he was awarded the medal of "First Class Duty Dodger and Gold Bricker." If Doug Fairbanks could have cast his eyes on Woods' wardrobe when he left he would have turned green with envy—5 wardrobe trunks, 6 suitcases, and 4 handbags, and over $100 saved on clothing allowance. Such are the savings of a dog robber.

Wonder what a certain petite sergeant has bothering his mind for the last few days? It's alright, Ray, Celeste will still remain faithful to you.

For Sale—One O. D. Dayton bicycle. Has two good tires and every thing. Anyone wishing to buy address all communications to Company Clerk, Co. "B," 15th Tanks. If you are in doubt about the condition of said bicycle, ask Gardner. He knows.

The battalion's representatives at the Tank School at Franklin Cantonment, Camp Meade, Maryland, have returned home. They must have fed pretty well up there, as they are all heavyweights now. Welcome home.

It is recommended that a board of non-coms be appointed to ascertain why it is that Cpl. Worth always sits half on and half off a chair these nice days. He claims it is due to a cactus plant, but who ever saw a cactus in Georgia.

The Chrysanthemum Gardens, which has been operating under the direction of Patterson and Worth for the last few months, has been sold to Scroggins, who has closed the place for a short time in order that extensive repairs may be made to the place. Scroggins expects to carry the same high brand of goods and maintain the excellent service that has been rendered heretofore.

Pvt. Dudley got to feeling real hard the other day. He claims to have a brother who is so hard that no one is afraid of him.

"Spark Plug" Wade is the original hard luck guy. He has a sore front foot now. Goldbricks may come and goldbricks may go, but Sparkey goes on forever.

Headquarters won a closely contested basketball game from "C" Company at the gymnasium Tuesday night, the final score being 6-4.

Company "C" will put on a play entitled "Justice in Columbus" at the show to be given in the Log Hut this week.

Liberty and Irby will now sing the duet made famous by Faust and Aida. It is said to be a carol taken from the Bathtub scene in "Pinochle."

(NOTE—We have saved your poem and it will be printed as soon as we go back to a 12-page paper again, which will be soon. Editor.)

A Lassee in wartime Uniform who greeted you with a smile, doughnuts and coffee as you came out of the trenches. Who else could it be but the Salvation Army.

Medical Department Notes

The medical property at Souther Field has been transferred to this station, the Air Service Depot at that place is to be abandoned. The convoy returned Wednesday and the men reported a good trip.

After completing one enlistment, Private William J. Grubbs was discharged Wednesday, Jan. 17, 1923. Not being able to see the advantage in re-enlisting, Mr. Grubbs decided to return to his home in Griffin, Ga.

2nd Lieut. Beatrice Dare, Army Nurse Corps, has reported for duty at the hospital, coming from Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C.

COMPANY "A"

Company "A" has had and still has a record that is very hard to beat, and a first Sgt. who is a hard nut to crack partiality with him has no favor and everything runs smooth. We are only 22 in strength today, but our 100 percentage still holds good. Each man has pledged himself to buy a history of our regiment so dear.

Charles W. Churchill, Co. "A" is shouting because he will be discharged in April 1923. He says when he gets that paper, there will be no more stewed heart for dinner. He is going to civil life and live in luxury. It's funny he just knows there is luxury where 5c beer and free lunches are where five cents and free lunches are served and your luxury will be awfully slim. Don't let our stewed hearts call you back.

Pvt. Orange is telling every-body that he is married, but to produce the stuff he can't. So it's no use telling us until you get proof. Wake up old boy, we know you, if tales were money, "Lord"! The millions you would have.

COMPANY "C."

Company "C" has a fast company, they have always been first in everything and as the world is getting faster and faster these days, Company "C" must do likewise, so keep up with the rest. Why not get a Radio outfit. Just watch our step.

As was remarked by an ex-member of the 24th, "If the neck is too big for the collar put a string in the collar and make the collar big enough for the neck."

Another member. What! no, not Col. Barnett. Yes he was seen talking to the 23rd degree wizard the other day and it couldn't mean but one thing and that is he must be getting a shack in block 23. Look out Company "C", the whole company is slipping.

Private Rufus Williams hasn't been himself lately. We are wondering what could be wrong. Never mind Rufus you are still a full fledged 23rd degreer, and as soon as her vacation is up you can resume command.

COMPANY "D"

"Pea Head" having established a Fort of his own, is hereby relieved from assignment to "Fort Chubby." Being the founder of the said Fort he will be named the Commander in Chief" and will proceed without delay to his new station for duty. The "Clubbing Departmeot" at Fort Chubby will furnish him with as many as 20 knots on his head to accompany him to his new station.

Booker the "Wood Butcher" is quite disagreeable after failing to get discharged by reason of dependents, after such a hard struggle. Keep a cool head Booker, it only takes forty blams to buy the paper that it takes to discharge you.

Pvt. Felder, better known as "Kid Quong" says there is one thing that makes me like "L" Company's Mess Hall, and that is they feed um much swamp seed, with no sweetum.

COMPANY "E"

Say Corporal "Hog Eye", why did you slap her? The spider had to talk about the man she loved, and you didn't happen to be the lick guy.

If Winfred Brown would miss a meal it would kill him. Have you ever heard him say "did you hear me?"

For the time being Sgt. Fisher is known as "the trooper" of Company "E". He sings some wicked blues, and everybody has to dance to his tune. Oh, while you are so powerful in the orderly room, do use discretion.

COMPANY "G"

Well the dope that the 24th Infantry was going to get another chance of station, went out like a light. They say soldiers can talk their regiment into a move, but if they can talk this regiment out of Georgia, they have to quit talking and start singing.

When target season was mentioned a few days ago "G" company's morale was raised another notch, because we know that it means more money for all of "G" Company. Last year we qualified all but one man, and with Capt. C. M. Lyons, Commanding the Company this year we are sure to lead the regiment.

Heard around Camp Benning (24th Infantry area) Are we going to fire on the range with rifles? When do we go on the range?

COMPANY "I"

Doctor Coue, has a very nice patient at this station, in the person of the first sergeant. "Every day and every way he is getting better and better. Reveille is getting harder and harder. Restricted list is getting larger and larger, Ford Hillery is getting uglie and uglier and the 1st Sgt. visits block 23 more and more.

Please don't forget that Keiffer and Pat are going to give an exhibition in trick and fancy riding with the 8 day wonder, known as the put-put machine, as soon as Keiffer pulls off Pat's leg.

Sgt. Green, was seen around the mess hall last Monday at noon he was singing the "M" Company blues "Company I Sure got nice chow" nuff sed.

Pvt. Slim (Long Distance) says that the drinks are on him the very first Wednesday afternoon that the weather will keep him off the parade ground.

Pvt. Washington (Shorty) says the recruiting officer told him to join the army and see the world. All that he has ever seen was what he dug up at Fort Benning.

Sgt. Sessions (Shady Rest) says cars may come and cars may go, but he will drive the wonderful One Hoss Shay until she falls to pieces.

Sergeant Loyd (Corral King) says that a horse comes before a soldier, so watch out when on mounted pass that he don't make the horse ride you instead of letting you ride the horse.

COMPANY "K"

Corporal Patterson of Company 'I' was on the witness stand a few days ago and upon being asked whether the accused was in military service replied, "I don't know he is in the guard house now."

Since our last writing another member of the Run and Jump Club has passed in review. How did it happen Merch?

Look out Jesse you will be passing in review soon, watch your steps. (nuff sed.)

Sgt. Wood showed some speed the other night. Oh Boy, we are thinking of making you a 26 degree member of the Dun and Jump Steady Club since you set that pace.

Sergeant Lay, (The 100 per cent. Mess Sgt. and will wear any man's collar) is certainly on the job when he thinks he has something nice to eat by issuing a lot of unnecessary noise in the mess hall, but when he has nothing you can't find him with the Scotland Yards Force.

COMPANY "M"

Pvt. Mack Cumming (Vampire Kid) seems to enjoy the off and on society. He is back from a "make 'em yourself" pass. He is now on the restricted list.

Sgt. Singer Green (Speed King) was in the city the other day where he met one of Mr. Love's Show girls. He took her for a ride in the country where he tried a little speed. And reveille, mess call, fatigue call and retreat and tried to put on the brakes in the orderly room, where he skidded right up on the book for one month, and now you will find him trying to speed up those 6-8-10 and 12 checks.

Any man that is not satisfied with the chow in the future may go over the hill and get a full meal, providing he don't miss any calls, especially fatigue call.

Our Supply Sgt. (Squire Coleman) as been instructed to put on another pair of breeches, at least a pair that fits him, somewhat better than the ones he is now wearing, so he will not have to be called "Squire" but Joe Coleman.

Pvt. Emmitt Holland (Aide-de-Camp to the 1st Sgt.) seems to have his office at the Post Laundry as he is seen going to and from there most of the day.

Our Cook ((Newsom) is now spending a week trying to learn to fire a Government Stove. As a matter of fact he seems to have trouble with the doors and can't get the habit of opening them without letting them drop with all their weight.

SERVICE COMPANY.

Privates Poore and Freeman, following their last "serious" argument, have signed an armistice. Private Patton, however, suspects that this armistice will only last until the question of who shall climb up on top of the tent to clean the spark arrestor comes up.

"Officer" O'Leary, the Manhattan Kid, is all smiles these days. He and the redoubtable Sergeant Harry Storm, of "Monyana Club" fame, have recently completed repairs to their tent, till it's one of the best in the row—if not the best. We suggest a Block Party to celebrate the event—minus "Irish Confetti" and breaking window panes.

Private Collins has come to the conclusion that it's much more convenient to dump a pair of muddy shoes in the barracks bag than to shine 'em for inspection.

1st BATTALION HDQ. COMPANY.

Dear Friends:

In our frequent conversations we have learned to know each other; we have learned to care, the one for the other; we realize our mutual need of and lack of an education or special training in some particular profession or vocation, and each of us are aware of the ambition that each has for the accomplishment of good, the attainment of a superior and true success, and the reaching of a goal that, as yet, looms afar in the distance.

We are at the beginning of manhood. Because of our poor training, it is evident that our implements, unless the hand be trained to use them and the mind to direct them, are not sufficient to carve success upon the record of our careers. We realize that if one would achieve success that he must put his shoulder to the wheel, his eye upon a distant goal and strive always, fight eternally and push forever onward toward the individual attainment that he has set about to accomplish.

In some way, each individual pays a price for whatever amount of success he enjoys. Perhaps, it is in money, in work and toil, or in study. It is my opinion that each of us are willing to pay the price necessary for the acquiring of knowledge. Are you not willing to burn mid-night oil, to exert every effort and to study and fight if, thereby, you are better fitting yourself to face the mystery of life and conquer it?

Cleveland has said: "It is decreed that we can surely exact our dues from the world and at the same time can achieve a success that will be glorious. To do this it is only required of us to be true to ourselves, true to our duty to humanity, obedient to the divine law, and submissive to the will of God."

We see on every day of our lives that ignorance is the emblem of failure, poverty, misery and defeat. Success, on the other hand, is the twin brother of knowledge.

With view to these things, I have decided to concentrate my mind and devote my every effort to something which will be beneficial to me upon my return to civilian life. Allow me the pleasure of extending to you my best regards and the sincere hope that each and every one of you have derived some pleasure and amusement from the column which I have contributed to the News as representative of this organization. In conclusion, fellow soldiers, I know of no body of men who are more loyal and worthy of commendation in every respect than you, and it is my sincere hope that I may sometime have the pleasure of lending assistance to any one of you, and you can come and cast a tear and catch a cold upon the last resting place of,

Yours cordially,
RICHARD L. WOODRUFF.

COMPANY "B."

Tiger Romploskie has turned into a star basketeer and now that he is devoting some of his time to the ball and basket, we are in hopes that we (the 1st Battalion) will win the championship of the Post, and there seems to be no reason why it can't be done, assisted by such stars as Pvt. Pinchawsky, Frye and Lawson. Now we about forgot the outstanding star (as a water carrier), Cpl. Robillard, he usually carries a bathtub in order to receive the ball properly.

Sgt. Humphrey enjoys our column, but mostly the publicity he receives thru the efforts of the reporter. Some fellows had the nerve to say that Sgt. Humphrey asked a couple of the fair sex to take a ride in his brand-new Tin Lizzie, and he also stated that they could go along on his trip to the moon, and the young damsel replied, "Gladly, I would go for a ride in your CAR, but your feet seem to have all the room."

The next shall be a piece of "Anything." (Eh, boys?)

All through this life I jog along,
And every place I go I sing a song;
I have no name for the songs I sing,
So I will call this one, Most Anything.

As I was out on a stroll the other day
Down by a house I chanced to stray;
I saw a maiden in the swing,
And it made me think of most anything.

Now, kind friends, don't think me wrong,
For you all asked me to sing a song,
I asked you what song should I sing
And you replied, Sing most anything.

Now, at last, my song is complete,
And I do think it is your turn to treat;
My favorite drink is Coco-Cola Fling,
But tonight I'll drink most anything.

COMPANY "C."

Things are dull in the Company now, everybody is mildewed since the rain began.

1st Sgt. Barton growls because he has to wade water all the way home. It's a good thing he is web-footed or he would get drowned.

Pvt. Budzisz, the great hunter, is killing all the rabbits on the reservation. He serves rabbit hash every Sunday night.

Twenty recruits fired on the range last week for the first time; the score was from 29 to 47 on the 200 yard range. Bright prospects for a number of experts this next season.

Sergeant Mansfield has gone on recruiting service. All the companies can begin making room for more recruits.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BAT.

Another thing we need at Fort Benning is a school for reporters.

Pvt. Duke was discharged January 17, 1923, tho' this piece of news was not printed in last week's issue. Going to reside at Peachtree Place, Atlanta, for the winter, where we learn that it snowed.

Not that we haven't got other things to worry about, but they should fight the next war in a warm climate, Palm Beach, for instance.

COMPANY "E."

We want to know who it was that got Cpl. Nelson up at 4 a. m. the other morning and told him that First Call had gone, and then laughed at him for waiting in the Company street from 4:15 until 6:00 a. m. for reveille.

Hard luck has fallen to the Gold Bricks of Company "E." The Company Tailor, Barber and Supply Room orderlies have found it more convenient to drill than gold brick lately. And they are not doing it by request either.

The best soldier in the army, namely Cpl. Payne, has after almost 17 months of special duty returned to the company for duty. We are sure glad of it, for the army hasn't been much good since he has been away.

Our hero, Pvt. Newman, leaves us the 31st. After 12 months of vacation in the Service, he has decided to retire. But, Arieless, did you ever think about that appetite of yours? If not, don't be too hasty in quitting the Army.

The "Dead - Beats," otherwise known as the Minor Talotic Platoon, have been working real hard (so they claim) pulling demonstrations the past two weeks. Cpl. Darley is the main go, though.

Our auto mechanics, Cpl. Garcia and Pvt. St. George, have finally found what the trouble is with their pushmobile. St. George claims that the wheels won't turn, and Garcia says that the engine won't run. Now we are in doubt, but we will compromise, and admit that they are both right.

COMPANY "F."

Our Company farmer has taken up boxing in addition to his other duties. Look out for your hand, Dorsey, we want you to be able to shake a wicked plow this spring.

As long as "Erb," our Mess Sgt., has four bits in his jeans he's off to town. You should have the price of the movies at least, Clarke, you know any girl will tire of listening to the same old stuff night after night.

The following is a list of names of men who have become famous, as "Moppers Up" in the mess hall after every meal. They may be seen scouting around for all the pie that is left over: Philips, Trogden, Otalvaro, Williams, C.

It is now raining at the writing of this paragraph, the reason is, Private Leonard has at last sent his laundry to the Post Laundry to be done up.

Corp. Metzinger has just been turned to duty and he starts off with a parade. We wish you luck, Metz.

Our Co. Clerk, Sgt. Stephenson, has recently done away with his famous moustache. It has taken ten years off his thirty-three years of age. Some chicken, "Steve."

Last week in the City of Columbus, Corps, Madura and Marcattili could not get back to the post fast enough, so they went into the office of the Howard Taxi Co., and asked just what they would want for one of their busses. Someone asked who the Colonel was, they were referring to Patsy Marcattili.

Our promising pugilisht, Ed Broussard, has taken over the Recreation Room. He sure is a "Dime Assassinator" from the way he "murders those pool tickets." Keep it up, "Ed," every one means a thin one for you.

Our Latrine Orderly, "Cadillac" Graham, sure wins the "Steam Heated Cuff Links" when it comes to "chin music." He owns more land than any fifty men, that is to listen to him tell it.

Corp. Holmes, our very busy Squad Leader, has all the girls in and around Columbus, Ga., crazy about him. I wonder what it is that attracts the fair sex. I believe it is his personality along with the charm of his "misplaced eyebrow."

Our Co. Bugler, "Chicken" Bruch, finishes his three-year enlistment this coming Saturday, three years of honest and faithful service. We wish you luck on your return to civilian life, Dodge.

Private Lingel may be seen posing at the buss station quite often. Wonder what brings him there, does any one know?

Private Szurkus is conducting a school of Stenography and Shorthand. He has a few intelligent pupils to start off with, namely, Acting Privates Leonard, Pankowski, F. Hayes, Williams, C., and Jacobs. Although Privates Pintos, Lazerovitz, Booth and a few others have been transferred they are still continuing their course. Szurkus predicts that within the next ten years they will be able to understand what he is talking about.

Since our famous little boy, Corp. Price, has been drawing the extra few dollars in his pay he is quickly spending it on the U-Driv-It of Columbus.

Cook Derbyshire would remind one of a junk man. He is always visiting the tents of others inquiring whether they have any books or magazines. What do you do with them, "Derb," look at the pretty pictures?

Pvt. Peckus could not get fat after two years in the kitchen. Let's see what the line will do for you, Pete. Pvt. Schwab is having a hard time making the grade, especially in close order. It seems that they are all out of step except him.

Sgt. Hockemeyer is back and is no doubt glad to be with us again.

This company would like to get a Volley Ball game with some company in the regiment. Call around.

Lt. Farley is back with us again and we are all glad to see his smiling ace. He reports that he had a wonderful vacation among the land of snow and ice.

We have our Soccer team going strong and here's hoping that we win our games.

The battalion basketball team is practicing hard every day and wait until the first game, you'll see who's champs in this regiment.

We may not be prophets, but we can almost see who is going to win the camp championship. The various companies in the battalion are contributing some good material for the team.

COMPANY "H."

Now that the basket ball season is over, the men are turning to soccer. We have a few applicants for the batallion team whom we hope will make good.

There is another new Corporal with us now. He's a hard working man ever since he came to the Company and he deserves all the laurels he has won. Congratulations, Taylor.

Johnnie Helms lost the decision in his fight at Macon last week. From all reports he made a plucky fight and some claim that he should have received the decision. We happen to know though that he is going to win his next fight.

Chisel's got a weenie dump located somewhere in the vicinity ot 6th Ave. and 14th St. Everybody who has at least jitney left after taking the usual detour through the cemetery, is cordially invited to patronize said dump. Positively no jawbone.

National Guard and Reserve Officers Class

(By JAY GEE BEE.)

The first thing that enters my mind is the party given to our class by the officers of the Advanced Class last Saturday night at the Hop Hall. It was a peach and anybody that missed it sure missed something worth while. Almost the entire memberships of both classes were there, and there was something doing every minute.

Colonel Heavey, President of the Advanced Class, gave a short address of welcome, and this was all the speech making of the evening. In my humble opinion, any party that has no speeches is a wonderful success.

Anybody that saw Major Ganoe put his stuff across at the party can easily understand how he was able to give us such an interesting conference several weeks ago. The writer has spent a good many francs for entertainment and has yet to get more laughs from the efforts of one man than he got from the major's performance.

A couple of Hula dancers (male) added to the gaity of the evening, as did the singers and orchestra from the 24th Infantry.

A fine buffet lunch and plenty of almost beer made up the refreshments and got an awful play. Personally, I saw Singletary in the mess line four different times.

An effort was made to get a bunch together to sing the class song, "Drill & Command," but there was no quorum and it had to be passed up. After the scheduled program was completed, a gang of extemporaneous singers took up the task of amusing themselves and the rest of the party and were very successful. They sang a lot of the old songs, such as "If You Want the Officers, We Know Where They Are," and "Hinkey Dinkey, Parley Vous." The party broke up about midnight and the guests left with the feeling of being a little closer to the Regulars than they had even felt before. The National Guard and Reserve Officers thank you, gentlemen, for a very pleasant evening.

Old Man Dignity was sure missing at that party.

* * *

Hopf was heard to say as he handed in his examination paper to the Scouting and Patrolling instructor: "Gee whiz, when I have to think so hard, it always gives me a headache." At that, he does not complain much. He also was the recipient of a terrible blow one day last week. The new order, abolishing the date bars for Expert Rifleman medals was read to him and when he had it interpreted he found that he would have to discontinue the wearing of that ten-foot ladder on his manly chest.

* * *

It may be news to a great number of the class, but it is my duty to inform you that one of our members was seriously ill last week. He was compelled to miss classes all of one day and was, in fact, so seriously ill that an ambulance was sent to take him to the hospital. However, it did not get to his quarters until evening and by that time, he had a hard time remembering that he had been sick.

Here is the best one of the week: Bateman says that if he could have his legs straightened, he would belong to the first squad instead of the seventh.

McGowan saw a picture of Annette Kellerman at one of the local movie houses, and forthwith proceeded to emulate the famous diver by doing a flying jacknife into one of the numerous ditches, while on a tactical walk.

Well, kind readers, the time has come when the conductor of this foolish column, together with the foolish readers thereof, must transfer his labors to other fields. This will be the last issue of the News that we will appear in, for we finish here next week, and will be on our way.

The writer has had a lot of fun out of this paper, and if he has furnished any amusement to the members of the class, he is satisfied. There have probably been times when I have been in grave danger, but luckily, if I have been in danger, I didn't know it. I have tried to avoid being too personal and if, by any chance, anybody has been offended by anything in the paper, I will assure him that it was all in fun, and I hereby publicly apologize.

It is with a real regret that the writer sees the class broken up and scattered for it has been a pretty good war, after all. So long, boys, and take good care of yourselves.

* * *

The News offers Jay Gee Bee sincerest thanks for the good work that he has been doing for the News. It was clever work and from favorable comment made from time to time we know that the notes were enjoyed by all readers of the News.

"Cat and the Canary" At Springer Saturday

"The Cat and the Canary," the most thrilling mystery play New York has enjoyed in many years, has just passed its one hundred and fiftieth performance at the National Theatre in that city.

John Willard, author of many famous sketches, wrote "The Cat and the Canary" originally for a one-act play for the Lambs Gambol, but decided, after reading it to a few friends, that it had greater possibilities. He incorporated almost the whole sketch into a second act, wrote a first and third act to round it out —and won fame and fortune.

"The Cat and the Canary" will be seen at the Springer opera house Jan. 27, matinee and nights.

Sgt. Jack Samlavich visited from Headquarters Battery to try out the wares of Corporal George Mann, both lightweights. Both were kept interested. The finals found Charles Mixwa, of Battery "A," and "Tanks" Grantham, Corps Area welter champion, entertaining each other for four three minute periods.

Sgt. Reuben Cofer acted as toastmaster and managed to embarrass the Commanding Officer, Major Joseph W. Rumbough, 1st Lieut. Chalmers Dale, the adjutant, and Captain William B. Dunwoody, his battery commander, in conventional style.

The remainder of the battery was divided into squads of story tellers, dancers and singers. The dancers won, but the singers were executed promptly at sunrise Thursday morning, two-thirds of the members of the battery present at the time the vote was taken concurring in both state that it is only Dean and Webb

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Keyes, you had better let that little girl alone in the future, she's only playing you for fish. We think she comes from the West, at least she must be a gold-digger.

Pvt. Danis has a new name for the outfit now. He says that C. W. S. stands for Chemical Woodpile Society.

Overheard in the recreation room: Why is a Northern Irishman so much different from prohibition? Because the Irishman COMES from Bel-fast, while prohibition GOES to H—— fast.

The celebrated pool shark Williamson, challenges anyone of his size and weight to a spud picking contest. We certainly believe you could easily win Jamesy, because we have seen you pick them off your plate.

Will some one kindly tell us what kind of a wagon Sgt. Brown drove before he came to the C. W. S.? When trying to stop a steam of mules he tried to get hold of the brake on the left side of the wagon, and then got mad because he couldn't find it.

This is a new kind of demonstration for us. We don't know who it was, but some one tried to take a Stokes' Mortar out and fire it with out the use of a base plate.

Pvt. Welton has a new way of hunting rabbits. He goes out to a demonstration and after the guns are fired he tries to run the rabbits out of the brush piles with a club.

A WISE GUY STUMPED

By S. Omar Baker

(That Alphabetical Army—Can Yau Read 'Em )

Oh, I done my bit in the A. E. F.
As a G. H. Q., M. P.
But I learned squads right and could do squads left
Like an L. T. O. R. C.

My C. O. was an A. M. P.,
Who had been in the M. T. C.
He'd give K. P.'s what was comin' to them,
But he left all the thinkin' to me.

A. W. O. L.'s with their passes false,
Use to come from the Z. of A.
To the old P. C. I'd make 'em waltz,
And figure 'em out on the way.

When I got my glims on an R. S. O.
I was better than A. G. D.
At figgerin' 'em out so the C. O.'d know.
What the meanin' was aimed to be.

I compreed G. O.'s and the I. D.
Found lodgin' in my bean.
From a PVT to the C.in C.
I could figger what letter'd mean,

Now, the M. D. S. and the A. P. O.'s in the A. S., S. O. S.
Mixed B H. mail with the R. T. O.'s—
I'd 'a done a heap better, I guess,

I was some wise guy when I wore O. D.——
Compreed all the high signs well—
But to understand R. S. V. P.—
Why, I'm natcherly S. O. L.

HISTORY

Adam was the first man, and Eve, she was his spouse;
She let a little garden and started keeping house.
Everything went quiet and peaceful in the main
Till they got things a-goin' and started raising Cain.

ABram was an ancient Jew of an investigatin' turn—
Stuck Ikey in the fire to see if Ikey'd burn.
But Ikey was a lucky kid and got off with his skin.
For just as he was cookin', a ram came buttin' in.

Essau was a cowboy of wild and wooly make—
His father gave him half the farm and half to brother Jake.
But Essau said the title to the farm it wasn't clear
So he sold it to his brother for a sandwich and a beer.

Joseph was the favorite son and he was very zealous,
His dad gave him a golf coat and it made his brothers jealous;
So they sold him to Egypt for a small consideration,
Where he made a million dollars on big grain speculation.

Samson was the fighter of the John L. Sullivan school,
He licked the mighty Philistines with the jawbone of a mule,
But a woman named Delilah got him filled with gin—

Along came the barbers and the sappers roped him in.
Jonah was an imigrant, so runs the Bible tale;
He booked a steerage passage in a trans-atlantic whale.
But Jonah down inside "got very much depressed.
So he just pushed a button and the whale he did the rest.

Daniel he got sassy and wouldn't mind the king,
The king said he'd d—d if he would stand for such a thing.
So he put old Danny with the lions away down underneath.
But Daniel was a dentist and he pulled the lion's teeth.

PRUNES AND QUARTERS.

Sir:

In the old days there was a common expression in the Regular Army about the manner in which prunes were served, viz.:

7 Prunes to a 1st Sergeant,
5 Prunes to a Duty Sergeant,
3 Prunes to a Corporal, and the Private gets the JUICE.

Well, here is a brand new one which actually occurred:

At a certain Army Post two buildings were being remodeled into four sets of official quarters—one for the C. O., a colonel, one for a major and the other two for company officers. The Utilities Officer in charge was directed to purchase three bath tubs for these quarters, but as there were to be four sets, he naturally asked the C. O. if he shouldn't procure one tub for each set of quarters. The C. O. replied as follows:

"Two of the three tubs will be installed in my quarters; the third one is for Major B; officers below that rank are not entitled to bath tubs."

History of 7th Engineers

Rumelange, Luxembourg, proved to be the best billeting area the regiment had had since leaving Fort Leavenworth. The men all knew how fortunate they were to be living in the Grand Duchy, the tiny land, which organized by Siegfried in 963, and having been under the vassalage of most of the crowned heads of Europe, had marvelously retained its political autonomy to the present time. The troops farther back in France were still living in dugouts, while east of the narrow confines of the Grand Duchy the troops were in enemy territory.

For eight months the regiment was destined to remain in this little town. The civilian and military authorities always maintained the best of relations, and as a result all comforts available were had.

A more detailed account of the movements of the individual organizations of the regiment after leaving Longuyon follows:

Regimental Headquarters moved to Hollerich, a suberb of the city of Luxembourg, on December 4th, and remained there until December 12th, when it moved a few miles east of St. Hubert Chateau. On December 17th Headquarters moved to Rumelange, Luxembourg, where the entire regiment was being assembled.

Company "A" arrived at Longwy on November 26th. Longwy (Haut) was one of the French frontier fortifications in 1914. The Germans at that time over-estimated the strength of the French in this fort and shelled it some seven days before it fell. It is maintained that the Germans lost 20,000 men in the taking of Lengwy.

Some time was spent in taking over a German supply depot and it was here that they celebrated. The next station was at the St. Piedmont mine near Mancieulles, where a large German ammunition dump was located. From this point, detachments were sent to guard the Lorraine frontier at Neuf Chef, Fontey, Benvellers, Algrange and Cathernom.

On December 11th the company moved to Esch, Luxembourg, and on December 17th to Rumelange, where it made its first home since leaving Leavenworth. Fairly comfortable billets were secured and the company settled down to routine duties.

On November 25th Company "B" left Longuyon by rail for Longwy. On November 28th two platoons proceeded by truck to Steinfort, Luxembourg, to guard the Eisen and Stahlwerk. The remainder of the company was engaged in the operation of delousing plants at Longwy. On December 8th the company was reassembled at Sandweiler, Luxembourg, and remained there until December 17th, when it was moved to Rumelange.

Big Smoker At Community Club

On Saturday night, February 10th, 1923, the biggest smoker of the season will be held at the Soldier's Club in Columbus.

It will be one of the biggest "blowouts" of its kind. All the best talent of Fort Benning, which has for such a long time been unavailable at the Community Club, will be there to furnish entertainment for the large crowd of soldiers who are expected to be there.

The best talent in Camp would make the best stock company on the road go out of business. It consists of the best singers in this part of Georgia. The program thus far has been arranged to consist of a great many amusements for the soldiers of the Fort. The famous Twenty-ninth Infantry Quartet has offered its services in helping to entertain. They are absolutely the best to be had around and their harmony of voice has been more than once entertained at the Fort and Elsewhere. This will be their first appearance in town. There will be sereval solos by the best soloists in camp. All of you know one little sergeant from the I. S. D. whose tenor voice could long since have relieved him from Army service. He will be there and at his best with the songs that all soldiers love to hear.

Miss Johnson of Columbus will play the piano for the singers, besides giving us some of her best in several piano solos. She is an accomplished pianist, and her services will be more than appreciated.

An orchestra consisting of every make of string instrument has been working together, and what they can't do just naturally can't be done.

Did someone say something about dancers? The ones who will perform would make "Boys of the Flappers of 1923" look like his feet were tied with a ball and chain.

Everything is free — absolutely free. There will be cigars, plenty of cigarets, sandwiches, cake and coffee, and plenty of it will be served for lunch.

Now if you soldiers like to eat, and a darned good time, be sure to be there.

General Gordon will give us a few words at the smoker. Also, several prominent men of Columbus will give short addresses, in order to help our smoker along, and show they are interested in us.

A big crowd is expected, and Mrs. Pascoag, the hostess, is doing everything in her power to bring back the old crowd that used to go down there and spend their time at the club.

It is thru her this entertainment has been available, and she wishes to get all the boys together so that other entertainments comprising of a series of dances, parties, smokers and socials of every kind may be arranged for the futrue.

Everything is being done to get the better crowd of young people at the Club, and we believe that before long the best class of people in Columbus will be entertained at the Club.

So come to the smoker, It is our one chance of keeping up community service in tow.

Every man in the Post has been asked to be there, and there is absolutely no reason why the greater part of them cannot be there.

The best of entertainments and plenty of refreshments and smokes. So make this the greatest success of the season, and let's all be there at the Smoker on Saturday night, February 10th, 1923. Come one; Come ALL. FREE.

Probably the largest number of Non-Commissioned Officers ever made in one organization at one time were presented their warrants last week. Most of these are on their first "hitch" and have made a good start on their army careers. # History of 29th Infantry

April 28 the Regiment rested at Chorrera and on the 29th marched from Chorrera to Camp Gaillard, a distance of 21 1-2 miles. Total distance marched was about 106 miles.

Upon the return to the garrison, Colonel Mallory addressed the following letter to the Regiment:

Headquarters 29th Infantry,
Camp Gaillard, Canal Zone.
May 1, 1916.

To the Officers and Men of the 29th Infantry:

As Commander of the Orange forces in the recent maneuvers the undersigned desires to thank all officers and enlisted men belonging to, or attached to the 29th Infantry, who stayed with the command until the termination of the maneuvers, for the loyal support given him and for the material ocntribution they made to the victory attained. Especially does he desire to express his appreciation to the magnificent response made to his personal appeals to officers and men to push forward and to consolidate the position seized by the Advance Guard by extending the line to the left and cutting the enemy's line of communication to the Canal. When that appeal was made the 29th Infantry had been marching for some twelve hours through the jungle, and for the last three hours practically witout a halt over an extremely difficult mountain trail. Naturally the limit of human endurance had been nearly reached. Nevertheless when officers and men realized that a decision in favor of the Orange forces depended upon their getting into action without delay an almost superhuman effort was made. The exhausted troops pressed forward, often at the double time and arrived in position in time to clench the advantage gained and to force a decision in favor of the Orange.

As remarked in a letter of appreciation to Colonel Miller, who commanded the Advance Guard, the maneuvers, because of the season of the year, the difficult nature of the terrain and the very limited amount of transportation available, constituted a test of human endurance even for troops seasoned to tropical service and to exercises in the jungle, and the long march of the 27th of April terminating in an action begun in a tropical rain storm, called for almost superhuman efforts, but the way in which the troops responded to the demands made on them shows what the American soldier is capable of in any emergency.

To Major E. R. Chrisman, 29th Infantry, who commanded the regiment throughout the maneuvers and who handled it with most commendable judgment and skill, and to the members of my staff all of whom gave me loyal and efficient support, I wish to express my thanks and appreciation, particularly to Captain W. H. Waldron, Adjutant, 29th Infantry, Adjutant Orange Forces, for his assistance in putting supporting troops into position and indicating their objectives as they arrived at the critical time when the Commanding Officer was engaged in hurrying re-enforcements to the front.

I understand from Major Chrisman that all the members of his staff acquitted themselves most creditably and that the sanitary troops attached to the regiment, both officers and men, rendered most valuable service on the march, caring for injured and exhausted men, and in this connection all reports indicate that the absence of wheel transportation was a most difficult one, were indefatigable in the discharge of their duty and are entitled to great credit for the success which resulted from their intelligent work.

This letter will be read to the men and organization commanders will explain to them the maneuvers in general and the lessons to be learned from them.

JOHN S. MALLORY,
Colonel, 29th Infantry.

Take a Look at This

"The Young Rajah" Is Tale of Many Thrills.

Never before, it is said, has the colorful Rodolph Valentino been given as great an opportunity to demonstrate his versatility and peculiar acting genius as in his latest Paramount vehicle, "The Young Rajah," which comes Wednesday, January 31, to the War Department Theatre.

In this picture, adapted from the play and novel, "Amos Judd," by June Mathis, Valentino is first seen as a college hero at Harvard. At the crew race, in which "Amos Judd," Valentino's name in the story, pulls a winning stroke oar for Harvard against Yale, he meets "Molly Cabot" and falls in love with her. "Amos" has a past. He is an Indian prince of royal blood who was left mysteriously, as a child, with an old New England couple and adopted and reared by them.

"Amos" has the mysterious faculty of being able to read the future. He foresees that happiness with "Molly" will be beset with difficulties. Sure enough, their romance goes on the rocks, despite his ardent love-making, and "Amos" is kidnapped and taken back to India. There his duty to his original people asserts itself. He feels called upon to oust a usurper from the throne—and does so. In the end, "Molly" comes back to him and, unlike its predecessor, "Blood and Sand," the picture ends happily.

Great Kentucky Handicap Is Shown, With Its Thousands of Cheering Spectators.

An actual horse race, with all its thrills, is shown in the First National special feature, "In Old Kentucky," the great American classic, presenting Anita Stewart. This picture will be screened at the War Department Theatre on Saturday, February 3.

It is the great Kentucky handicap race, and you see it from start to finish. There is shown the gigantic grandstands in which thousands upon thousands of persons are crowded, all cheering wildly for their favorites.

You get a flash of the stables where the jockeys are rubbing their mounts in preparation for the great event and then the jockeys coming one by one onto the track to be greeted by cheers by the spectators.

Finally you see Miss Stewart, come on the track at the last minute dressed as a jockey, to ride for one of the jockeys who has been drugged, in order to frame the race.

Then comes the call for the start from the judges' stand and a score of mounts are off in the great race. The camera follows the horses practically from the start to the finish, as one forges ahead and another drops gradually behind.

Miss Stewart, who is an expert horsewoman, rides in a mad gallop, at first far behind, but gradually working her way to the front, until at the end she goes under the wire a nose ahead, winning the race.

There is all the wild enthusiasm of the most exciting race, and it grips with the same dramatic intensity those who watch the picture.

Tremendous Punch Scene in Film "On the High Seas."

One of the most thrilling depictions of fire at sea ever filmed forms but one of the many punch incidents of the Paramount picturization of "On the High Seas," which will be shown at the War Department Theatre next Monday, January 29.

This is practically the opening incident, and from thence onward the action builds up thrillingly until there comes a veritable cyclone of a climax, and then suddenly an unexpected finish follows.

Dorothy Dalton and Jack Holt are the featured players and Mitchell Lewis is the leading member of the supporting cast. Irvin V. Willat directed the picture, which was the first original screen story of Edward Sheldon, noted American playwright.

If you believe that diamonds known as "pink gods" have no power over weak women, you are in error. One can go further and assert that they exert their power over all mankind; and they have been responsible for more crime than may be attributed to any other agency.

In "Pink Gods," a new Paramount picture featuring Bebe Daniels, James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson and Raymond Hatton, which will be seen at the War Department Theatre on Thursday, February 1, next, the baleful influence of these beautiful gems is admirably depicted. It is a picturization of Cynthia Stockley's South African romance, "Pink Gods and Blue Demons," and every scene of the picture is vibrant with emotion and thrill. The story deals with two young women who fall under the sway of the little pink gods and one of whom, the character portrayed by Bebe Daniels, falls into serious difficulty when she resorts to theft to indulge her craving for the gems. How the other woman is misled by circumstances and ultimately finds happiness, is excellently shown.

Lester Cuneo, often called "the smiling daredevil," will be seen Friday, February 2, at the War Department Theatre in his newest picture, "Silver Spurs," a colorful melodrama of California written by Henry McCarty and Leo Meehan.

Cuneo is cast as a writer of Western stories and general all-around adventurer. He deserts his New York club friends to seek romance in California.

In the West Cuneo meets a type of adventure he had not bargained for. He has to fight for his life numerous times to say nothing of having to battle all over again to save a beautiful Spanish girl.

There is a well defined plot with vital characters in "Silver Spurs," and the action is laid in the shadow of one of the historic missions.

RECRUITING OFFICE

Mr. Sgt. Benjamin F. Harris is rapidly recovering from his recent illness. He may be seen almost any time between the hours of sunrise and sunset strolling up and down Red Row. If the sun doesn't rise he stays in bed. Don't blame you, Sgt., we'd do it ourselves if we could, but here's hoping you hurry up and get well; we need you.

Recruiting business is good these days, just come up and look 'em over. Short ones and tall ones, big ones and small ones, we take 'em either way if they qualify. Even the poor boys that are rejected want to stick around so bad, we can't hardly run 'em out.

Hurrah, our assistant Recruiting Officer has been promoted. We notice he is sporting a brand new pair of Corporal Chevrons on his dress uniform. Look out, Cpl., the girls of Columbus are just naturally crazy about good looking boys with two stripes. Here's luck to you any way.

Sixty-six enlistments have been made at Fort Benning to date. We are trying to make Fort Benning head the list for Star Recruiters, in this Corps Area during the month of January. For the month of January. For the month of December, Fort Benning was third on the list.

Sergeant Aaron Winn, now operating at Dublin, Ga., was the Star Recruited in this Corps Area for the month of December. Here's hoping that the names of all the canvassers operating from this section will appear among the names of Star Recruiters for January.

Three men have been added to the List of Recruiters operating from this Post, Sgt. Mansfield, Sgt. Finney and Pvt. Morrison. Now we know that the Post will be filled up soon.

Had an additional to the Employment force recently, Sgt. Thomas W. Howell, erstwhile payroll clerk of the I. S. D. Well, the employment desk is a good job if you don't run out of maids to exclude from the reservation. Sgt. Howell says it looks to him more like a firing job than a hiring job.

Ask Fairchilds what he would rather do than to take a shot in the arm and then have to re-write a letter four times.

Say, one thing more we want you to know just which dept. in Headquarters runs with the least fuss and noise and which is the neatest section. Just take a look into our little cubby hole sometime and see for yourself. (Finance, please note. Sgt. Dobby.) Copy to Post Personnel. Sgt. Weinberg.

Say, can anyone inform Pvt. 1st Cl. Fairchilds, as to what kind of a disease "Hostesses" is?

Major General Farnsworth, the Chief of the Infantry arrived at Fort Benning late Monday evening.

When the band ceased playing The Star Spangled Banner, the Colors and Color Guard moved forward proceeded by Colonel Hobbs until they were five paces from the General when they halted. The citation confering the D. S. C. upon Colonel Hobbs was read by Capt. Betts, Adjutant of the 29th Infantry. Upon the conclusion of the reading of the citation the General stepped forward and pinned the much coveted medal on Colonel Hobbs' left breast and then shook hands. The General then stepped back a few paces accompanied by Colonel Hobbs and the Colors joined the Color Company and then the 29th Infantry passed in riview.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS CITATION.

Horace P. Hobbs, Lieutenant-Colonel, Infantry, then First Lieutenant, 17th Infantry, United States Army. For extraordinary heroism in action at Pala's Cotta, Mindanao, Philippine Islands, May 5, 1905, where with his company (Provisional Company, 17th Infantry) he held his command in a position under heavy hostile fire at a range of from ten to one hundred yards from a strong enemy position for more than four hours and gained valuable information as to the enemy's position by fearlessly exposing himself in climbing a tree to make observations.

The Distinguished Service Cross can only be won by performing some exceptional and hazardous feat in the presence of an armed enemy.

In the recent World War Colonel Hobbs again showed the metal that

"The Man Who Saw Tomorrow" Star Fights His Way Through Big Photoplay.

Viceroy of India! This is one of the public offices that Thomas Meigh an holds in "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," his new Paramount picture which will be shown Monday at the Post Theatre.

In addition, he's a hard hitting well energetic young scientist and explorer; also he has three love affairs.

He fights his way through the picture, and at the finish—— Well, that must be left out until the picture is exhibited, otherwise the punch is lost. But it ends happily.

One of the best casts that could have been assembled has been provided by Director Alfred Green. Leatrice Joy is leading woman; Eva Novak and June Elvidge have important role; Albert Roscoe is the villian; Laurence Wheat has a good part, and a venerable psychologist is portrayed by John Miltern. Alec Francis, Robert Brower, Edward Patrick, Jacqueline Dyris and other are well cast.

And a modern, smooth-talking, slick trader captain of the South Seas is portrayed by Theodore Roberts, who, with his inevitable cigar, is a host in himself. Perley Poore Sheehan and Frank Condon wrote the story, and it was adapted by the latter and M. Ritchey.

If all the motion pictures produced were like "The Broken Silence," the screen version of James Oliver Curwood's story which will be shown at the War Department Theatre on Saturday February 10, there would be no agitation for censorship or no call for "better pictures." The Broken Silence," is as clean as the wind that blows over the silent places that James Oliver Curwood knows so well and writes about so entertainingly.

The story tells of the love of Cameron Bruce, an officer in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, for Jeanne Marat. Jeanne, by the way, is more than ably played by beautiful little Zena Keefe, one of the most talented artist before the camera today, while the role of Bruce is in the capable hands of Robert Elliott. The balance of the cast includes, J. Barney Sherry, known for his work in many Marshall Neilan productions, Gypsy O'Brien, whose dark beauty vividly animates the role of Marie Beauvias, Roy Gordon, and a truly remarkably child player, Master Joseph DePew.

We want to say in conclusion that we strongly recommend "The Broken Silence" to your attention. We consider it a really extraordinary picture production and feel confident that after seeing it you will agree with us.

NO CHILD'S PLAY WAS THIS BATTLE

Realistic Fist Fight Shown in "The Face in The Fog."

What's a fight between friends? some might ask when told of the battle between Lionel Barrymore as "Boston Blackie," and Louis Wolheim as the Russian "Red" terrorist in "The Face in the Fog," a big Paramount - Cosmopolitan picture which will be on view at the Post Theatre next Sunday, "Some FIGHT" would be the answer of Director Alan Crosland and members of the company who saw this scrap staged at the Cosmopolitan studio.

The friendship between the two principals and the fact that Louis Wolheim regards Lionel Barrymore as his greatest benefactor, did not interfere before the camera. While Wolheim had rather take a beating himself than raise a hand against the friend who first recognized his talents and brought them before the public, Barrymore himself coached this fight and would permit no "stalling.

"He made me fight my darndest," declares, Wolheim. "Since every other member of the Cornell football team walked across my face, I am immune from any more disfigurement and do not mind a punch in the map; but I didn't want to hit Barrymore. But "Blackie Dawson" made me fight the battle of my life—because he bullied me into it.

Like his father before him, Lionel Barrymore is master of "the manly art of self-defense," while Wolheim is an all-round athelete. When the two went at it hammer and tongs, it was such a contest between brute srength and sheer skill as has seldom been seen even in the prize ring. All the spectators of that scrap declare:

"If 'The Face in the Fog' had nothing else, that fight would make it."

Review of Troops

fantry sounded the flourishers and the review was on.

The Commandant of troops, Colonel Goodale, rode past the reviewing stand and then joined the reviewing officer. Then next came the 29th Infantry band, followed by the entire 29th Infantry then came the 24th Infantry lead by their excellent band, then the 83rd Field Artillery (dismounted) then the animal drawn transportation and motor transportation. While the transportation was passing in review an aeroplane hovered above and looked down on the crowd. The 15th Tank Batallion followed the transportation. The baby tanks lead the tank procession followed by the heavy tanks. After the roar of the tanks had passed and the deafing roar had ceased a peaceful quietness reigned and the review was over.

BENNING TO GET NEW HOSPITAL

To Cost $275,000.00.

The House added $275,000.00 to the Army Appropriation Bill for the purpose of constructing a new hospital. It is believed that there will be no objection to this in the Senate.

The hospital facilities at this Post have been anything but desirable and with conditions existing here as they do, it is really remarkable that the doctors are able to do the wonderful work that they are doing.

Also the accommodations are not nearly large enough to take the proper care of the patients and the present hospital is a huge fire trap should fire ever happen to break out.

The new hospital will probably be of brick construction and have all modern apparatus and conveniences.

THE BENNING PAVED HIGHWAY.

Columbus is very generously paying half of the cost of paving the road to Cusseta and then trying to make the people out at Fort Benning believe that it is the Benning or Lumpkin road that is being paved. Well, maybe the inhabitants of the Post believe it and maybe they DO NOT.

Columbus is probably trying to induce tourists to come to or via Columbus because they have TWO MILES of pavement outside of the city. SOME INDUCEMENT. Why not induce Fort Benning people to come to town more often?

About how much money will these tourists bring to Columbus? About $5,000.00 a year. Now what would be the result if the road to the Post was paved? People living in the Fort would take a trip to Columbus just for the ride, and every time that people go to town they spend something, but it is a sure proposition that no one is going to town on the present road until he has to.

Now just what does this Post mean to Columbus? Well, it is more than you could guess. The monthly payroll at this Post is almost $440,000.00 ($439,413.99) A MONTH! Mind you, over $5,270,000.00 A YEAR. Mind you, now this is only for the PAYROLL! The payroll does not include supplies purchased by the Government or for construction going on under contract.

Now this money is here, so why not get more of it by making inducement to come to Columbus oftener. We can safely guess that Columbus gets about 70 percent or 75 percent of this amount, and still a possible few thousand dollars from possible tourists is a greater inducement than a few millions of dollars from the Post. It cannot be said that Columbus will get greater advertising from the tourist than from the Army. Just think until about four years ago only a very few people in the Army and a very few people in the North and West and East had ever heard of Columbus, Ga. What is known about Columbus, Ga., now? Ask any Infantry-man. It is the Infantry that has gained the publicity that Columbus has gained in the last few years. Now we need not confine ourselves to the Infantry entirely but there are some Cavalry and Artillery Officers, Signal and Engineer troops and the Quartermaster Corps that know about Columbus, Ga. Yes, and the Medical Corps knows something about it, too.

The people of Columbus say that if they wait long enough that the Government will pave the whole thing. Well, maybe so, but in view of the building project going on here and with that which is contemplated it is very improbable that the Government will pave any road for the benefit of Columbus for several years to come.

The people of Columbus say that they cannot afford to pave the road to Benning. But what do they do? Why, they go ahead and pay for half of the cost of the paving on the road to Cusseta, and what good is that road to this Post?

Now here is a simple question: If Columbus can't afford to pave the road to the Post, how can they afford to pave the road for two miles toward Cusseta? Doesn't Columbus derive more revenue from the road going to and from Benning than from the Cusseta road?

Another thing: Do the people of Columbus really beileve that the people of this Post would appreciate going over about the same number of miles of this excellent auto-bursting ROAD as they do now plus two miles of pavement to get to Columbus?

Here are several questions:

Who is going to build the auto-bursting clay road that will connect the Benning and the Cusseta pavement?

Who will have to pay for the upkeep of this proposed road? Probably the Government.

Another thing: How much is it going to cost to contsruct, that is grade, fill and build, this new auto-bursting clay road? If it is not filled the new road will probably be impassable at every high water.

Why not pave the road to the Fort and be done with it?

RELIGION—ITS VALUE

Religion puts before a man the highest and best motives that effect human nature. All the really great men of history have realized this fact and so proclaimed it. Pagan as well as Chirstian writers have always proclaimed religion, whether false or true, to be the foundation of human society. Zenophon says: "That the most pious cities and nations have been the wisest and the most lasting,' Plutarch says, "That it is easier to build a city in the air than to constitute a society without belief in the Gods." Rousseau observes, "that there never was a state formed without a religion serving as a foundation." Voltaire maintained, "That wherever there is a society religion is absolutely necessary. Napoleon used to say "without religion men will kill one another for an apple or a pretty woman."

"Let us lay the foundation of our morality in GOD, no nation has ever yet ventured to socialize atheism," said Robespierre. "Laws only control the arm, religion rules the heart' said Patrolis. "Let us learn to see things as they are, the true, the good the ancient, the authoritative morality, needs the absolute, aspires to the transcendental, and finds mainstay in God alone. Conscience, like the heart, demands a future. Duty is nothing if not sublime, and life would be a comedy but for its relation to eternity," said Sherer. Bunzen stated "Culture of intellect without religion in the heart, is only civilized barbarism and disguised animalism.

General Washington called religion and morality the "two great pillars of human happiness,' and the firmest props of the duties of men and citizens," that reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle. Therefore, to swerve from religion is to endanger the life of a nation.

Every serious minded man recognizes the truth of the above statements. Many, however, seldom think along this line for the reason principally that they fail to attend divine services where such ideas are expounded. "Remember thou keep holy the Sabbath day," is not a request, its a command. To spend one hour a week with God is not too much to expect of any man, and its the only way that this religious sentiment, natural to man, can be kept alive in the heart.

To neglect the practice of a religion or to attend only occasionally, tends to make us forget God entirely; and to forget Him is to cease to listen to his voice speaking within us—the voice of Conscience. Attend divine services not through sentiment, but through a sense of duty to God, yourself, and likewise to your neighbor, who may be induced thereby to follow your example.

National Guard Reserve Officers Get Diplomas

them that fifty-two percent of the regular army officers now on duty were graduates of the Infantry School, and further that an additional sixteen percent were graduates of the Leavenworth School and the Army War College. Also that with each year there is a better chance for a greater number of National Guard and Reserve units to receive instruction.

General Gordon implored each graduate to sum up what he had learned and then go forth with renewed zeal and vigor and impart their professional knowledge to their organizations and brother officers that had not had the chance to attend the Infantry School. He also called attention to the existing social, political, economic and religious unrest throughout the world with little, if any, guarantees of a satisfactory settlement in the near future.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

Last Thursday afternoon, January 25th, a Women's Club was organized at Service Club No. 1, by the ladies of the post and the following officers elected: Mrs. W. N. Parsons, president; Mrs. G. A. McCallum, vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Allen, secretary Miss, C. M. Roe, treasurer. The club will meet in the room in the south end of Service Club No. 1 every Thursday evening at 2:00 P. M. The name of the club will be announced in the next issue of the Fort Benning News.

A Casino Tournament was held last Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the south room of Service Club No. 1. Thirteen tables were arranged for the players and after a hard fought battle with other Casino sharks, Privates U. L. Taylor, Co. 'G' 29th Infantry and F. M. Randolph, Co. "D" 29th Infantry, came out winners of the prize which consisted of a wonderful Maple-nut cake made by one of the ladies of the post. Every participant thoroughly enjoyed the game (even Corporal Myers) and voted for another one in the very near future.

A Men's Chorus was started last Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the south room of Service Club, under the able directions of Miss Roe and Mrs. McCollum, about forty men taking part in the singing. It is believed, that with the number of good singers in the post, it will only be a matter of a little practice before a real worth-while chorus will be formed. The chorus will meet each Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the south room of Service Club No. 1. All singers sit up and take notice.

The dance last Wednesday evening was a real success and enjoyed by all present. The room was well filled with ladies, both of the Post and Columbus, which proves that they are realizing what good dances we are having at the Service Club. Our refreshments committee is right on the job when it comes to preparing refreshments that all like—last Wednesday night they consisted of Iced Lemonade and Cake.

The Dance Committee met last Monday evening at 7:15 in the south room of Service Club No. 1, where a number of unfinished business items was brought before the committee and disposed of. It was rather a hard matter for the President to call the meeting to order owing to the fact that Sergeant Giron had BEEF STEAK on his mind and refused to talk about anything else.

A dance is held at the Service Club every Wednesday evening at 8:30, rain or shine, and the Camp Buss will call for any lady on the post who desire to come, and will give her name and address to any member of the committee or to Miss Roe.

THE DANCE COMMITTEE,

Finance Detachment Notes

Well here we are again but with very little to say due to the fact that everyone in the office is busy getting things in readiness for "Pay Day."

The detachment as a whole voiced the opinion that we were the bookworms for the simple reason that we do not exercise enough. "One day of exercise every 6 months or bust" was the slogan—now it is "3 games of volley ball every morning and don't think about the office," Boys I want to tell you that we have one grand team look at the line-up and smile:

What better than the Army do you Know,
That keeps your bread basket filled with chow;
In time of peace and in time of war
You are kept in trim by exercise galore;
The full pay is yours as long as you behave,
While you need but to spend for a haircut and shave;
Everyone in the service and those to be,
Know and will know that everything is free;
And if on any one day, you feel that you should Not partake of maneuvers although you could,
Complain of a headache and get a pill,
And you'll be considered as having filled the bill.
You'll find some old timer's in the Army who usually think,
Have one foot in the grave with the other on the brink.
But these are the men whose time will be devoted,
To instruct you in manner so that you may be promoted.
An N. C. O., warrant isn't difficult to obtain,
If you'll use the gray matter, commonly called brain;
So think it over, old top, and make

General Lanses H. Beach Writes to General Gordon

CHIEF OF ENGINEERS IS PLEASED WITH CO. "A" 7th ENGINEERS.

Generla Gordon recently received a letter from General Beach, Chief of the Engineers, in which the Chief thanked the Commandant of the Infantry School for the letter of appreciation that was sent to General Fawnsworth in regard to the excellent work being done here by Co. "A", 7th Engineers in constructing the new bridge over the Upatoi.

The following letter was received:

WAR DEPARTMENT
office of the Chief of Engineers.
Washington.
January 26th, 1923.

General W. H. Gordon,
Fort Benning, Georgia.
My Dear Gordon:—

General Farnsworth has written me in regard to the completion of the bridge over Upatoi Creek, and in his letter has quoted from a communication sent by you to him in regard to this matter. I wish to thank you personally for the expression of appreciation of the manner in which this construction was done by Captain Rothwell and his Engineers and the Infantry as was illustrated in the work on this bridge will tend to bring these two branches more closely together, as they must be if each is to render the most efficient services in time of emergency.

With the kindest regards to all, I am,

Very truly yours,
(Sgd.) LANSING H. BEACH
Chief of Engineers

83rd Field Artillery

The business of reporting the activities of the First Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery, is made simple this week. There is very little, if anything, to report. The athletes of the outfit have been idle. The basketball team has not yet entered on its schedule. The boxers have taken out their energy on nothing but the bag. Sgt. Donelly, Corps Area heavy champ, has not been challenged by anyone. No one seems anxious to try his luck at pinning LaPine's shoulders to the mat. None of the batteries have held smokers.

A little two-handed eating, three times a day, has been indulged in; over two thousand rounds of perfectly good 75 ammunition have been thrown around the reservation, and the office statistician computes 7,891,483 steps, each 30 inches in length, were taken by the battalion in marching past the reviewing stand Tuesday morning. The polo team played a tie with the Blues, its last game, and Lieut. Peckinpaugh's crack volleyball squad lost three games in a row.

Those readers who noticed on a previous occasion that, due to a combination of late copy, and lack of space, this column was amputated two weeks ago right in the middle of a round of boxing, and resumed where the story left off, a week later, will note that this account can be stopped at the end of each paragraph without breaking up anybody's summer.

The last two stories that emanated from these headquarters looked like one of those "Way Down East" affairs where twenty years is supposed to elapse between the first and second acts.

General Farnsworth looked over the artillery material, of which there is nothing that we are prouder of, Tuesday afternoon. Fortunately, the enthusiast who, several weeks ago, armed with a brush and a pot of paint, painted the spark plug on a tractor, and short circuited the ignition, was absent from the formation.

Ruth St. Denis Chosen to Present Loving Cut to Pavlowa.

When Anna Pavlowa made her farewell appearance in America at the Metropolitn Opera House last Spring, prior to her departure for a tour of Japan and the Orient, a group of American dancers honored the Russian artist by making her a presentation and gift in the form of a loving cup, as a token of the love and appreciation which they had for her. At the same time a signal honor was paid to an incomparable American dancer, Miss Ruth St. Denis, when she was chosen to make the speech of presentation.

The reason why the choice fell on Miss St. Denis was because her compatriots were unanimously of the opinion that she among them all stood first in having made the greatest contribution to the art of original dancing in America. In fact, Miss St. Denis was the first among the present great dancers of the world to arouse the interest of Occidental publics in the dances of India, Egypt, China and other parts of the Orient.

When Miss St. Denis, Mr. Shawn and their company of dancers from Denishawn appear here at Springer Opera House on Friday night, Feb. 9th, one of the most interesting features of the program will be the final part called "Orientalia," devoted to the interpretation of the native dances of China, Crete, India, Siam, Japan, Java and Egypt.

News Notes From Co. F, First Gas Regiment

Cpl. Miller seems to have turned over a new leaf. While in town the other night he was seen coming out of Joe Brown's tea room. Some tea hound, you'd make Miller. You had better start going across the ninth street bridge.

Our official pen pusher, Adams, is back with us again after a month's furlough in Pennsy. Lyte you would not have been here with us so soon if that lucky quarter had only fallen with the tails up.

Who is the young man in the outfit that says the Colors of the 24th Infantry look like the Colors of the 29th Infantry? And he has almost two month's service in, too.

Cpl. Leuze went to town the other day and asked for some smoked hams and said he wanted four of them. He told the butcher that he would like to have them all off of the same pig.

You can't get the best of an Irishman. Cpl. Cochran heard of the frog that spreads the poisonous gas to protect himself and Terry is now going to start a skunk farm to try and beat the frog out of a job.

Will some one kindly tell us why all the boys hang around number 5 tent so much? Sgt. Stover must be the company canteen for the boys around the last of the month. The first thing that is spoken when anyone gets near the tent is, "gimme a cigarette."

Our two most famous movie actors, Ford Sterling and Rudolph Valentino, came near to clashing in the mess hall the other morning. Wilson told Robinson that he looked like Rudolph, and Robinson thought that it was a curse word in some foreign lingo and started in to make Wilson look like a two-cent piece.

Lookout shipmates, the detectives are thick around these vicinities. Our Columbus vamp, Sergeant Stover, is now in the detective business, so beware as he might catch the guilty party. What's wrong, Stover? Has some one got a better heaving line than you have? Buckle up, kid, there are a lot of street cars coming, so don't be afraid to miss this one. We advise that you take your badge and throw it away for a good girl is hard to find.

JOKES By MACK

Old Timer—What beat did the editor give you, son?

Fledliing — Coroners, physicians and undertakers.

"Oh, the dead beat."

* * *

Old Man—Say, where are you going with the hammer?

Fresh—To geology class. I want to knock 'em cold.

* * *

Fair One—You remember that you told me that you hunted tigers in West Africa. Well, I read there are no tigers there.

Notzo Fair—Quite right, quite right, I killed them all.

Woman—Now, if you don't leave at once, I'll call my husband, and he used to play football at Harvard.

Tramp—Lady, if youse love yer husband, don't; because I used to play wid Yale.

Mistress—Nora, I won't have that husky milkman in my kitchen.

Nora—All right, mum, I know a smaller one.

Did you ever take her to a dance, and, after paying at the door, find that you have only seventeen cents left? Then, after a rotten evening of worry, have the dear young thing suggest, "Let's eat." And while you are wondering how to break the news have a friend come up and say: "Hello, old man! Here's that ten dollars I borrowed last month!"

NEITHER DID I.

More Than A Fighting Chance.

"What are the chances of my recovering, doctor?"

"One hundred percent. Medical records show that nine out of every ten die of the disease you have. Yours is the tenth case I've treated. All the others died. You're bound to get well. Statistics are statistics."—Red Diamond.

If you save your money you're a grouch; if you spend it you're a rounder; if you keep it you're a miser; if you get it you're a grafter; if you don't get it you're a bum—so what the hell's the use?

THE GILA MONSTER ROUTE.

The lingering sunset across the plain
Kissed the rear end door of an east-bound train,
And shone on a passing track, near by,
Where a Dingbat sat on a rotting tie.

He'd been ditched by a shack, a cruel fate,
The "con" higs-balled a manifest freight,
Pulled out on the stem behind the mail,
And hit the ball on the sanded rail.

As she pulled away in the falling night,
He could see the gleam of a red tail light;
The moon arose and the stars came out,
He was ditched on the Gila Monster Route.

Nothing in sight but sand and space,
No place for a gink to feed his face,
Not even a shack to bum for a lump,
Nor a hen-house to frisk for a single gump.

When he looked upon the solitude,
He dropped his head and began to brood,
He thought of the time that he lost his mate
In a hostile burg on the Nickel-Plate.

They mooched the stem and throwed their feet,
And speared four bits on which to eat,
But deprived themselves of their daily bread,
And sluffed their coin for dago red,

Then down by the tracks in the jungle glade,
On the cool green grass in the welcome shade,
They pulled off their coats and ditched their shoes
And filled up full on that colored booze.

Then they took a flop with their skins plumb full,
And didn't hear the harness bull,
Till he shook them out of their boozy nap,
With a husky voice and a loaded sap.

They were charged with vag, for they had no kale,
The judge said sixty days in jail.
But old John had a bundle, and a worker's plea,
So they gave him a floater and set him free.

They turned him up, but ditched his mate,
And he grabbed the guts of a west-bound freight,
He threw his form on a rusty rod,
Till he heard the shack say, "Hit the sod."

The bo piled off, he was in the ditch,
With two switch lamps and a rusty switch,
Poor, old seedy, half starved bo,
In a hostile pike without a show.

Just then from somewhere out in the dark,
Came the sharp, short note of a coyote's bark,
The bo looked 'round and quickly arose,
And brushed the dust from his thread-bare clothes.

As he gazed out west through the moonlit night,
He could see the gleam of a big headlight,
It was a fast stock train humming the rail,
She was due at the switch to clear the mail.

As she pulled up close, the head end shack
Threw the switch to the passing track,
The stock rolled in from off the main,
The track was clear for the east-bound train.

She hove in sight far up the track,
She was working steam with her brake shoes slack.
She whistled once at the whistle post
Then flitted by like a frightened ghost.

You could hear the roar of the big six wheels,
And the drivers pound on the polished steel,
And the shriek of the flange upon the rail
As she beat it east o'er the desert trail.

The old John got busy and took the risk,
He climbed aboard and began to frisk.
He reached up high and began to feel
For an end door pin and he cracked the seal.

It was a double decked stock car filled with sheep,
Old John crawled in and went to sleep.
She whistled one and high-balled out,
They were off on the Gila Monster Route.

FRECKLED SCREEN STAR ENTERTAINS ORPHANS

Wesley Barry, the boy screen star, recently entertained several hundred orphans at Los Angeles, and gave them their fill of candy and ice cream.

Now Wes is telling his kid friends of a quarrel he heard between two of the orphans.

"Aw, you ain't got no real father or mother!" one said.

The other came back quick as a flash:

"Maybe I ain't, but mine picked me out of a hundred other babies and yours had to take what they could get."

Wesley Barry is to be seen at the Grand theatre beginning Monday in his latest picture, "Heroes of the Street," a Warner Brothers production.

An Englishman and a Frenchman were arguing over a friend's nationality.

"He's English," said the Englishman, "he was born in England."

"Oui, oui, Monsieur, but if a cat should have kittens in the oven, would you call them biscuits?" asked the Englishman.—Red Diamond.

RECRUITING OFFICE

Eighty-four men were enlisted at the Post Recruiting Office during the past month which is the high water work for nearly a year.

Three canvassers will make the Corps Area Star Recruiters' List this month:

Corporal Grover C. Woods, who by the way is a brand new non-commissioned officer because of his excellent work, Cordele station—15 enlistments.

Sergeant Howard S. Catron, Macon station—14 enlistments.

Sergeant Aaron M. Winn (We can not keep the sergeant off the list, his name has had a place on it since it was first published), Dublin station—11 enlistments.

Altogether, fifty-nine enlistments were made through applicants forwarded from sub-stations while the remainder are due mostly to re-enlistments.

The Infantry Journal, The Field Artillery Journals and the Military Engineers are each offering a cash prize of $20.00 to the canvasser who succeeds in securing the most enlistments for its branch during February and it looks as thought at least one of these prizes will come to Fort Benning.

Following is a parody on the late song hit, "Dancing at That Moving Picture Ball." composed by Pvt. Red Head and Bugs DeNapoli.

Dancing at the old snuff-chewers Ball.
All the Tank Drivers, they were running round the hall.
Old Jim Dennis was with his girl.
And Howard Sharp with the artificial curl.
They were all dressed up pretty neat.
But the girls didn't like Sgt. Nelson's feet.

2.
Sgt. Suirrell was smoking a big cigar.
He wanted "Little Eva" to go out riding in his car.
Bow Wow Adams came waltzing along.
With Fanny Wilson hanging on his arm.
And Sgt. Sherrard, he was standing near,
Trying to whisper in Massey's tin ear.
And all the gang got up and sang.
Bang him on the tin ear, Bang, Bang, Bang.

Sgt. Short picked up an old banjo,
But just like his tank, he couldn't make it go.
And "Ole Bill Swantic" was chewing snoose,
And he spit all over Mabry's shoose,
And back from his furlough came Sugar Sweat,
And told the top kick, "For Three months I haven't et."

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AT GRAND IN "EAST IS WEST"

Slant-eyed Chinese kiddies by the score, no less lovable than other children because of their little pigtails and glittering black eyes, will be seen next week at the Grand theatre where "East Is West," the First National attraction, starring Constance Talmadge in the role of Ming Toy is being shown to crowded houses.

Constance Talmadge herself is the shepherdess of a flock of Chinese kiddies, well over a dozen in number, her little brothers and sisters of the story. She is the shield and buffer between them and the august beatings administered by their honorable father.

It is when Ming Toy takes on herself the blame for a childish prank that the father decides to put her on the auction block of the "Love Boat." From that time on the action of the photoplay is fact and thrilling.

But one of the most touching episodes of the picture shows the farewell of Ming Toy when she bids her favorite little sister good-bye.

Children are children the world over and the little Chinese in "East Is West" will win the heart of any spectator.

WORK

Work is a drudge
and a task-Master stern.
Serves as a judge
Who compells us to earn
The wages he pays;
He is pitiless, too,
And harsh in his ways
As he bosses the crew.

Why should I be feeling thankful?
Let me give the matter thought;
There is money by the bankful.
But it's little I've got:
I have always earned my living;
I must labor, rain or shine.
Still, I've reason to be giving Thanks because I'm fit and fine."

3
Work is a king
That forever Commands,
His whip lashes sting
As above us he stands.
He piles on the loads and drives us ahead
Over terrible roads
Till daylight is sped.

Work isn't as fine
As his half brother play
His eyes seldom shine
In so merry a way
There are pleasanter things
Than the task you must do.
But none of them brings
The real glories to you.

Life's a game; I'm not a winner;
Still I'm not inclined to whine;
I've an appetite for dinner
Always when it's time to dine;
I am thankful to be living
Thankful for the joys I've had,
Thankful too I'm not giving
Others reason to be sad.

Work is a drudge
A driver by day.
As a stern as a judge,
But there's no other way
Of rising to fame.
Or of serving your need
In life's daily game—
It's by work you succeed.

To every man upon this earth
Death cometh soon or late
And how can man die better
Than facing fearful odds;
For the ashes of his fathers
And temples of his gods?"

By C. F. GOODE
1st Sgt. Co. "H" 24th Infantry,

The Handy Engineers

By Private Steuart M. Emery.

"Colonel, we pull a raid to-night
Into the Prussian Beers.
It looks like a gutty little fight,
Chewing of legs and ears.
We'll need a party to cut the wire,
They must run the ring of the Boche's fire,
It's a dirty business of muck and mire."
"Send for the Engineers!"

The Engineers they will slice a path,
That's what they signed to do.
They will take the rip of the M. G.'s wrath
Snipping and worming through.
The barbs may cut and the mud may stick,
And the star flares splash and the shots crack thick,
But they'll hop the top and they'll turn the trick.
"Send for the Engineers!"

"Colonel, the bridge is hit and gone,
Never a plank appears.
Yet the regiment must cross at dawn,
Hardly a case for cheers.
The place where it was is swept and sprayed,
For the Boche has got it in enfilade,
But we can't hang back on a plan that's made."
"Send for the Engineers!"

The Engineers they will bridge the stream,
Anything wet that flows.
Whether the big ones bust and scream,
Whether it rains or snows.
They'll fling pontoons and they'll hammer stakes,
Though the water foams as the lead hail rakes,
And they'll lead the show when the Yank charge breaks.
"Send for the Engineers!"

"Colonel, the roads are blown to hell."
That's what the P. C. hears.
"Crated and gashed where the Jeries fell,
Nothing but holes and smears.
They're well in range of the house of Krupp,
But the boys don't shoot and the boys don't sup
And the whole drive stops while supplies hold up."
"Send for the Engineers!"

The Engineers they will mend the pike,
Out in the broad daylight.
Where a blind Boche cannoneer could strike,
Labor, this time, not fight.
They'll set their teeth and they'll curse each blast,
And they'll toil and sweat and they'll thirst and fast
Till the chow and the ammo trains jam past.
"Send for the Engineers!"

24th Infantry Notes

COMPANY "B."

Pvt. Louis R. Murray says he thinks that he will settle down and quit his wild and wooly ways. A good resolution, kid, if you can live up to it.

Corp. Taylor (the Slow Kid). We've been watching you and now we don't know what you mean by being so fast. Suppose we will have to call you Kid Swiftie, or would the "Slow Vamp" be suitable?

Pvt. William Brown. About two months ago we heard Pvt. Wm. Brown say: "Wait until I get my discharge, I'll show you people what I'm going to do." Don't talk too much, Brown; you were heard boosting Fort Benning, so we are quite sure of you.

Cook Payton (the Fish), why did you stop singing the song, "There will be a change made?" Ha, ha! you didn't think it would be made so soon?

Poor Ben Frager seems to be disgusted. Cheer up, old boy, Benning, you can only blame yourself; you had a chance and it might not have been.

COMPANY "C."

Corporal Barnett and Private Worsham wish the company to purchase a Radiophone so they can hear the grand echo of Spanish songs of old, sung by Chili Queens across the border.

Corporal Dewitt, who receives eleven (11) letters daily from unknown girls, is the latest wonder of the camp. And still he says he loves all of them. But if he should get the grand opportunity of meeting all, probably some of the girls in Block 23 would have a chance at him.

Private Williams is still fishing for another girl; after a costly catch, then to try for a new one, after she got away.

COMPANY "I."

1st Sgt. and Sgt. Moore tells the company that they are going hunting every Sunday morning, but they only go home to dinner. Steady; Nobody said you live right across the river.

Everybody is wondering why Bill Williams (Fatty) has stopped speaking to James Golden. Easy, easy, he caught James Golden shaving himself.

Doc Williams, the cook, has learned to camouflage. He can take a fatigue hat and make it look just like a fried porter house steak.

Sol Winn (Dinkey's Pal) says that as soon as pay day comes he is going to town and buy Jack love out. He is now willing to "Honor and obey."

At last the boys have found out about Corporal Reeves. At the barn dance Monday night he got so homesick that he liked to have cried. He was heard talking in his sleep. He told Spud Miller to go by the house and get the replants while he got the plow.

Corporal Lynch is having school in Tent No. 13. The 1st Squad will be lots of help to the Government, after he has completed his course of lectures and instruction.

Look out, Madry, Old Hill Owen has never told you anything wrong yet. If you had listened to him your little suit wouldn't look like a sifter this morning. It looks like it was run through a sausage grinder.

COMPANY "K."

Since our last report, Cpl. Overstreet (Slim Jim) has been listed among those wounded in action. What's the matter, Corporal, been leading a lion around?

Sgt. Belser (Pa Perkins) has started a new way of collecting fares on his Henry, "WITH A BILLY." Does it pay? Ask Belser.

Not that we are inquisitive, but isn't it awful to pass in review before the Chief of Infantry, and then go to Columbus, only to find that you've got to pass again, and that the reviewing officer is one of the opposite sex? What say, Garrett?

Wonder why Sgt. Lloyd (Mr. Jiggs) went rabbit hunting last Sunday, instead of going to Columbus?

COMPANY "L."

It isn't the things you do, my dear,
It's the things you leave undone
Which gives you a bit of a heartache
At the setting of the sun.

The tender words forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flowers you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts tonight.

1st Sgt. Julius Jennings: A wife's place is in the home.

His wife: Maybe, but home's where the heart is, and my heart is at the picture show.

Corp. Levi M. Thornhill: Remember, the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, my dear, don't you forget that.

His wife: Well, come home early tonight and rule the world, I am tired.

Private William Troup, entering the kitchen during the Mess Sergeant's absence, wanted to know how to spell HELL. After being asked why he wanted to know, his reply was that he was writing a letter to his girl and wanted to say "Hello" the first thing.

Sgt. Foster and Pvt. Washington were treating themselves to a dinner in the Post Exchange restaurant. Presently the observant Washington said, "Foster, man, drink from the cup; if you keep on drinking from the saucer they'll be thinking we're a couple of rubes."

Ah, whist, Teddy, many's the time I've tried that, but always the spoon sticks in my eye."

"Did you break this dish, Vaughn?"

No, sir, I only dropped it."

Mrs. Thornhill was admiring Mrs. Jennings baby.

"Oh, what a darling!"

"Da-da," replied the baby.

"The dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Thornhill, "he is trying so hard to talk."

"Yes, he talks that way all day, but he doesn't say anything."

(The baby is so much like his father.)

Corporal Jackson has gone back to warfare again, only he has changed his line of attack. He advanced on a shack on the Glade road in battle formation, but had to retreat in rushes. Look out, old top, don't let that wood hit you next time.

Day by day Company "L" is getting better and better. Private William Troup returned from a 5-day pass without turning in to the Quartermaster at Fort McPherson.

1st Lieut. L. V. Jones, of Company "L," has asked himself the question why at times his coal bin holds seven tons, but the Quartermaster teamsters can make it hold ten (there are other officers wondering the same thing). Don't worry, Lieutenant, there is a phoney trick in doing it that you will never catch on to.

All-Post Football Team [White]

Lieutenant Box, the coach of the 1st Bn. 29th Inf. Football team, has prepared an All-Post Football team. He says that it was a most difficult task to select the best players and believes that the list as given below is as fair as it could be under the difficult circumstances. He says that each team thinks that they have better players than has been selected, but that he has tried to be impartial:

| Name—team. | Position. |
|---|---|
| Coppock, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | Center |
| Swall, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | Guard |
| Wallagurski, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. | Guard |
| Parker, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | Tackle |
| Donnelly, 83rd F. A. | Tackle |
| Detweiler, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | End |
| Davis (Capt.) 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. | End |
| Payne, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. | Quarter |
| Sharpe, 15th Tanks | Halfback |
| Romploski, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. | Halfb'k |
| Swantic, 15th Tanks | Fullback |

Col. Fassett Sends Greeting to the Infantry Football Team

Colonel Fassett, the Assistant Commander of the Infantry School, recently sent a letter to the Infantry School Football team, complementing them on the work that they did for the football team.

His letter follows:

1. The Assistant Commandant desires to express his appreciation of the hard work performed, and the loyalty to the Infantry School displayed by members of the football squad during the past football season.

2. In many cases officers worked for places on the squad at a considerable personal sacrifice and gave freely nd willingly of their time and splendid energy toward developing a winning team at our school. Unfortunately this condition is not always appreciated because the great majority is interested only in "games won."

The games proper, however, represent only a small part of the actual work performed. The hardest and least appreciated phase is the daily grind of training and practice.

Whether one makes a regular position on the team or not is immaterial from the point of view of loyalty and esprit. It must be borne in mind that the success of any regular team is often due to the self sacrificing of those players who voluntarily subordinate their presonal desires to the success of the team and who loyally serve in whatsoever capacity the coaches may determine for them.

To these players in particular is due the thanks of the Infantry School.

3. All athletics in general and football in particular bespeak the aggressive spirit of the Doughboy. The past season was a most successful one from every viewpoint. Such success was made possible only by the splendid spirit evidenced by the members of the squad and by the student body.

Basketball Season Opens With a Rush

THE CHAMPION FOOTBALLERS ARE DOWNED.

In the first basketball game which opened the inter-battalion series that will be played here, the 1st Battalion 29th Infantry were swamped by the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry to the tune of 38 to 7.

The 2nd.. Battalion clearly outplayed the 1st Bn. from speed to science and from team work to heard work.

Line-up:

| 1ST BN. | Position | 2ND BN. |
|---|---|---|
| Peters | Center | Sgt. Davis |
| Harris | Forward | Corp. Kjelstrom |
| Cloekner | Forward | Corp. Brown |

| Rivadeneira | Guard | Corp. Burt |

Morrow substituted for Peters; Cody for Harris; Walker for Detwiller; Fitch for Rivadeneira.

Corp. Johnson was substituted for Frenz in the 2nd half.

15TH TANKS DEFEAT THE FREEBOOTERS

In a very slow game the 15th Tanks defeated the Freebooters of the 29th Infantry in a basketball game at the Post gym on last Wednesday night.

Both teams need more work within the teams to insure better team work and co-operation.

| Score: | Points. |
|---|---|
| 15th TANKS | 24 |
| FREEBOOTERS | 14 |

Officials: Referee, Capt. Moore. Time keeper, Lt. Broedlow. Scorer, Sgt. Johnson.

History of 7th Engineers

On the 26th of November, Company "C" left Longuyon by train for Rehon, where it took over a large German dump. On the 8th of December the company embussed for Sandweiler, Luxembourg, and on the 17th marched to Rumelange.

At Longuyon, Company "E" was employed operating bath houses and did some electrical work. On December 4, the company left by truck for the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and took quarters at Schleifuhle. Until the 17th, the time was spent in drill and training.

Company "F" remained at Longuyon until after Thanksgiving. General camp duties were resumed and infantry drill was held. On December 3rd the company went by truck to Bouligny, twenty-five kilometers distant.

From here guards were established at various points where abandoned German material was located, namely: Audun, Barrencourt, Bouligny, Eton, Piemes, Mercy-le-Haut, Gondrecourt, Etain, Laundres.

These guards were maintained until December 11th, when the company was relieved by pioneer infantry, and marched seventeen kilometers to Andun-le-Romains. The next morning the march was resumed, and with Company "A" the company marched to Esch, eighteen kilometers, billeting that night and the six days following in a school building. On the 17th, the company marched to Rumelange and joined the rest of the regiment.

The Seventh Engineers contributed largely to the comfort of the other units of the division by the construction of mess halls, bunks, barracks, and bath houses. During the eight months at Rumelange the regiment was employed constructing warehouses, sentry boxes, airplane hangars, repairing roads and constructing of roads, erecting light plants, dissembling a large German lithographic plant, inspecting ammunition dumps, inspection of machinery seized by the Germans, guarding ammunition dumps, salvaging German artillery, invoicing engineer dumps, operating saw mills, intensive drill, and firing of preliminaries on the target range.

Company "C" was for a month divided into five detachments, guarding German property, one being stationed at each of the following towns: Rumelange, Sanem (Luxembourg), Athus, Aubange, Musson (Belgium).

On February 4 th the regiment was inspected at Rumelange by the Sixth Corps Inspector.

On December 3rd, 1918, the 311th Engineer Band was assigned to the 7th Engineers, and joined on January 9th, 1919. Notwithstanding the fact that many units of their division were on their way back to the States, these men under Lieutenant A. E. Smith, cheerfully joined this organization, knowing that their return to the States was thereby indefinitely postponed, and they have contribtheir various demobilizing centers.
uted largely to the happiness and contentment of the regiment. The 7th Engineer Band was known throughout the division as the best band in the division and the consolidated band, led by Lieutenant Smith and composed principally of the 7th Engineer bandmen, won the Blue Ribbon at the Third Army Carnival at Coblenz from April 15th to May 2nd. The Division Band, again led by Lieutenant Smith, was recently sent to Belgium to play for President Wilson. This was the first American band to play officially for Albert, King of the Belgians.

The Fifth Division was again reviewed on March 17th at Esch, preparatory to the review by the Commander-in-Chief.

The Sixth Corps Horse Show was held at Luxembourg City on March 20th. For this occasion Company "D" erected a grandstand and several bandstands of saplings, trimming them with pine boughs. The stands and fence were very artistic and rustic; the beauty of Giacis Park was increased so much that the city authorities have decided to retain the structures.

Efforts were made during the last few months at Rumelange to entertain the men. A commissary was established. A reading room was maintained by Mr. Kearns. The regiment felt a loss when Mr. Kearns left, having been promoted and sent to Coblenz. Finally the regiment was fortunate in getting the services of Mrs. Keller, wife of the former Captain Walter S. Keller, of Company "D," who devoted her entire energies to the end that the men might be as happy as possible, and her efforts were very successful.

Athletics of all kinds were encouraged. Corporal Krebs, of Company "C," was selected for the Divisional Football Team. Private Donnelly, also of Company "C," battled his way to the divisional championship in the welterweight class. Horse Shoer Max Policow, Company "D," won the divisional championship in the light-heavyweight class, but lost the decision at Toul, at the 2nd Army Tournament held, due to a fractured rib received in a previous bout.

The 7th Engineers organized a show, "The 7th Engineer Minstrels," which toured the corps area. Many letters of commendation have been received from organizations for whom the show has played.

On April 30th the division was reviewed by General John J. Pershing. The Commander-in-Chief congratulated the men of the division for the splendid review, and then thanked them personally for the excellent work done during active operations. In closing, he said, "The reasonably early return of the 5th Division to the United States is within the realm of possibility."

True enough, a few weeks later came the word that the division would start entraining on May 21st. However, on account of the uncertainty of the peace negotiations, the return was delayed indefinitely.

On May 30th the regiment fittingly observed Decoration Day, paying tribute to the comrades who fell on the field of battle. An excellent address was delivered by Lieutenant-Colonel Cosgrave, Division Judge Advocate.

One of the last undertakings of the regiment was the erection of permanent monuments in the divisional area showing where the division entered the line, where the Meuse was crossed, and where the division stood on the memorable 11th day of November.

Finally, following the signing of the Peace Treaty, came orders relieving the 5th Division. On July 8th the last units of the 7th Engineers left Rumelange for Brest, arriving there on July 11th.

At Brest it was necessary to undergo the usual inspections, records were gotten in order and the regiment was assigned to sail on the S. S. Radnor on July 14th.

Consequently by noon of the 14th all men were on board and ready to go. The 9th Field Signal Bn. (5th Division), the 5th Division Salvage Company and one casual company were also asigned to this boat, making a total of 1908 men and 65 officers aboard.

At 4 p. m., the Radnor sailed from Brest and before dusk we had lost sight of the shores of France. With the exception of one night, the sea was very calm.

The band played two concerts daily, one at noon and the other at six o'clock, and everyone lounged about the deck and thoroughly enjoyed the trip.

About ten o'clock the night of July 27th, the lights along the Jersey coast began to show. Everyone was up early the next morning, all anxious to see again "God's Country," after their absence of a year and a half. At ten o'clock we docked at Hoboken, were fed by the Red Cross, given candy, cigarettes, handkerchiefs and smoking tobacco by the Salvation Army, the K. of C.'s and the Y. M. C. A., then ferried across the river and at last arrived in Camp Merritt Regimental Headquarters was assigned to the same building they had occupied while passing through on the way across.

Several days of delousing, inspections, turning in of clothing and excess property followed. Tuesday night, July 29th, the regiment was called together for the last time and Colonel Paules spoke a few minutes regarding the duties of the returning soldier to his community. The following afternoon the regiment was split up into camp detachments, and on Thursday, July 31st, entrained for
