OPENING EXERCISES FOR YEARS STUDENTS IN THEATRE TUESDAY

Mayor Dimon, General Collins, Colonel Cocheu, Unite in Welcome to Classes

The nearly two hundred and fifty officer members of the new classes at the Infantry School gathered in the War Department Theatre Tuesday morning at 10:30 for the school year. Many members of the permanent personnel, families of the officers and distinguished guests from Columbus swelled the total until the big concrete building was comfortably filled.

Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, the Commandant; Mayor J. Homer Dimon of Columbus, and Col. Frank S. Cocheu, Assistant Commandant, were the principal speakers of the occasion. The 29th Infantry band rendered appropriate selections before and after.

General Collins Speaks.

Chaplain Thomas J. McKenna delivered the invocation after which General Collins greeted the incoming classes, welcoming them to Ft. Benning. He briefly sketched the scope of the instruction at the school and directed attention particularly to the changes made this year. Heretofore, he stated, the Company Officers and the Advanced classes have been about eighty per cent. identical, but this year the conditions which suggested the advisability of having them so have disappeared and hereafter the courses will be almost wholly different in scope. Breifly, the mission of the Company Officers class is to train the officers in the duties of company officers and of battalion and regimental staff officers. The mission of the Advanced class is to train officers as commanders of tactical units from the battalion to the reinforced brigade, and as brigade staff officers. It is a tactical course. TANK IS DEDICATED BY TRICOLORISTS AT FT. BENNING MONDAY

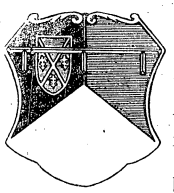
15th Battalion Celebrates Anniversary with Fitting Exercises

(By Lt. George L. Potter)

At 10:30 o'clock Monday morning at the north end of the garrison the 15th tank battalion celebrated its anniversary by dedicating the Mark V. (Star) tank, (British) which was placed there last spring, as a memorial to the tankers killed during the world war.

Sons of the 301st Tank Battalion which did such fine work overseas, the present caterpillar treated outfit, observed the occasion by unveiling a tablet on an old Mark V. British tank that did yeoman service in breaking the Hindenburg line back in the hectic days of 1918.



This was the tank, brought to Fort Benning by Company B, 15th Tank Battalion, and now placed on exhibition on the concrete road as you enter the post, just opposite the swimming pool. On this tank the tankers unveiled a fine bronze tablet commemorating its efficient part in American victory. The Infantry School News first conceived the idea of making this tank one of the show features of Fort Benning and of placing a commemorative tablet upon the steel sides of the monster. The plan, when presented to Brigadier Gen-

FORMER BENNINGITE MAKES HOLE IN ONE ON OHIO COURSE

Captain Paul S. Jones Accomplishes Dream of All Golfers.

Sergeant Clark, efficient golf professional over at Col. Warfield's new Golf House, recently received word from Captain Paul S. Jones, that the former Department of Experiment officer has realized the dream of all golf addicts. He made a hole in one.

Captain Jones writes: "On Sunday while I was playing the course at New Philadelphia, Ohio, I teed my ball up on the 9th tee, took my trusty mashie iron from my bag, swung back as prescribed, struck the ball fairly and with just the right force, drove it up a hill a distance of 147 yards and into the hole. I must confess that it was quite a delightful sensation to make a hole in one. I wanted to report this fact to you to show you, and enable you to explain to those at Fort Benning, the importance of taking instruction from a good pro. I haven't had any lessons since I took from you."

EDGAR T. COLLINS
Brig.-Gen. U. S. Army.

Brigadier-General Edgar T. Collins, assumed command of Fort Benning and the Infantry School on March 9, 1926. Upon assuming command of the garrison the General was not altogether a stranger; as he had attended the Infantry School, while still a Colonel, as a student in the Refresher Course in the fall of 1924. While taking the Refresher Course, then Colonel Collins, was promoted to the grade of Brigadier General. General Collins came to Fort Benning from Fort Hoyle, Maryland, where he was in command of the Field Artillery brigade of the First Division.

General Collins was born in Williamsport, Pa., on March 7, 1873, and in 1893 appointed to the Military Academy at West Point from his home state. The General was first commissioned in the Infantry in 1897, with which branch he continued, receiving promotion through successive grades until he entered the World War with the rank of Major of Infantry holding the temporary rank of Colonel in France and becoming a permaent Colonel in 1920.

The Commadant graduated from the Army School of the Line in 1910, as an Honor Graduate; from the Army Staff College in 1911; from the Army War College in 1917. At the commencement of the World War he served as Senior Instructor in command of the 2nd Provisional Training Regiment at the Plattsburg Barracks Officers' Training Camp, where he had previously served under General Wood in the Plattsburg civilian camps of 1915 and 1916. He then became chief of staff of the 78th Division, observer with the French and British armies, chief of staff of the 85th Division, assistant to the Assistant Chief of the Staff, G-5, at G. H. Q. of the A. E. F., and chief of staff of the Sixth Army Corps.

Returning from overseas, after a tour of duty as instructor at the Army War College, General Collins was again detailed on the General Staff and assigned as Chief of Staff of the 1st Division. On September 1, 1921, he was

FORT MAC OFFICER WINS CORPS CROWN SETTING NEW MARK

Lieut. Benedict Makes 67 for Benning Course and Leads Field by 15 Strokes

Shattering the Fort Benning course record, leading the field from the very start, and turning in the remarkable score of 292 for the 72 holes of medal play, Lieutenant Benedict, Q. M. C., from Fort McPherson, carried off the fine silver cup emblematic of the 4th Corps Area Golfing championship by the decisive margin of fifteen strokes. Following the visiting champion came Capt. B. W. Venable, Inf., Benning's garrison crown wearer, with 307 strokes. Then in order came eight other Benning officers to complete the ten prize winners.

To win a golf tournament is nothing new for Lieutenant Benedict, who has recently returned from station in China.

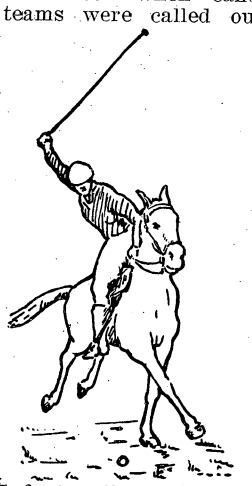
BENNING POLOISTS ALREADY PREPPING FOR BUSY SEASON

Four Teams Practising for Hard Season Opening in October.

Preliminary work connected with the opening of the 1926-27 polo season at The Infantry School was inaugurated this week when candidates for all teams were called out for practice.



Training of new ponies, reconditioning of old ponies, teaching rules of the game, and mallet practice will comprise the first month's work preparatory to the opening game about the middle of October.

Similar to last year there will be four organized teams at this school; namely; 29th Infantry Polo Team, the 83rd Field Artillery Polo Team, Student Polo Team, and Freebooters Polo Team. It is self-explanatory as to what players comprise the first three teams. The Freebooter team consists of players of the staff department, academic department, and separate garrison organizations.

It is expected tht each team will be even stronger than the teams of last year and a promising and interesting polo season is looked forward to.

SGT. JESSE E. STEWART
Infantry School Detachment.

Not so long ago one of Uncle Sam's adopted nephews received orders to proceed to The Infantry School, reporting upon arrival to the "Commanding General. In due course of time the rookie reached Columbus, got into one of the big Howard whales and was conveyed out to the army camp on the Upatoi. By diligent search he located the main Headquarters building and entered the Adjutant's office. Showing his orders to one o tthe clerks he demanded to see the Commanding General. The nonplussed clerk tried to convince the freshly hatched soldier that the order should not be taken too literally, but the lad insisted that his orders said to report to the "Commanding General" and that report to him he would. Finally an idea flashed into the mind of the headquarters man. 'All right," said he, "I'll take you to the Commanding General," and off he went with the rook in tow. But not toward General Collins' sanctum. Into the recruiting office in the new wing he strode, pointed to a three stripper with I. S. D. insignia on his shirt collar and proudly announced, "There's all the Commanding General you need."

The sergeant was none other than our hero, Jesse E. Stewart, veteran of Pershing's Punitives, past master of all the functions and details of recruiting, Scout Master of the Fort Benning Boy Scout Troop, and the man who will fix you right up for "three more", if you want them.

Sgt. Stewart's first fling at the military game was in the mounted branch. He hooked up with Troop I, 11th Cavalry ,way back in 1914, served with his troop at McPherson and in Colorado, and in 1916 went Villa hunting with Pershing. In August while scouring the Mexican plains with Maj. Houze's Flying Squadron, a greaser sniper put a shot through his hand and in October the army sawbones decided that he was incapacitated for further service and an S. C. D. discharge followed.

Back to Georgia as a civilian, where to use Stewart's own words, "I had twenty-seven jobs in two months." With the true soldier restlessness in "civilized" clothes he soon decided to come back to the old white bunk and the free restaurants provided by a beneficient government. So on February 3, 1917, we find him again in uniform, this time with the old General Service Infantry, what we now call DEML. Then began his long service in the enlistment and induction of recruits, and not a day has he spent on the "outside" as his two character Excellent discharges show. Columbus, Atlanta, and Albany, in Georgia; New Orleans and Alexandria, in Louisiana, and Fort Barancas, down in the Big Boom State, have seen him in various roles. Mimeograph operator, clerk, field man, and chief clerk are only some of the places he has filled.

Finally in March, 1924, he came down here to the Infantry School, was assigned to the I. S. D. and placed on duty with the Recruiting Officer. And there he is today, making out your service record and your other many papers necessary for enlistment, and, if you talk real nice, showing you how to make out your voucher for the "six bit bonus" when you re-up.

In spite of his manifold military duties Sergeant Stewart found time to get married early in 1918, picking for himself one of the finest of the Georgia peaches. Though he has no children himself he is deeply interested in the doings of the younger folks and for the past three months has been Scout master of the Benning Troop. He delights in taking his youthful scouts on hikes and camps and in initiating them into the mysteries of scoutcraft and woodcraft.

Most of his comrades in the I. S. D. see him only on pay and inspection days, as Stewart is a homeloving sort and doesn't run around with the gang but when they do see him they recognize a good soldier and a good scout.

This editorial, from our issue of December 11, 1925, indicates the consistent general policy which governs our weekly "Satellites," one of our chief features.

"FOLLOW ME"

Around about the garrison, we can find a great many soldiers whose names are well known. We have become acquainted with them by watching them perform on this or that athletic team. But we do not know who they are, what they did before they came to the place where the Upatoi meets the Chattahoochee, what they are like and what they can do in moments when they are not in the public eye.

Believing that purely personal facts will be of interest to the people of the Fort, The Infantry School News is initiating this week a new practice of printing successive informal biographies of soldiers whose names are familiar, but whose general traits are largely unknown.

This column will be headed "Satellites" because a satellite shines, and because a satellite is defined in the dictionary as a "follower" and these men whose pictures we publish and whose characters we portray are true followers of the Infantry Ideal.

transferred to the War Department General Staff, serving first in the War Plans Division and later as Chief of the Training Branch, Operations and Training Division.

General Collins has received the Legion of Honor from France and the Distinguished Service Medal from the United States, with the followig citation accompanying the latter medal:

"For exceptionally meritorious services. As Assistant to G-5, General Headquarters, and later as Chief of Staff of the 6th Army Corps, he demonstrated rare military attainments, performing his difficult tasks with unremitting zeal, and rendering services of conspicuous worth to the American Expeditionary Forces."

The Service for the Line officer of very prominent in mashie and driver circles all over the far East, winning so many medals and cups that he had to pay excess baggage rates on his return to the states. Perhaps his most prominent victory was in the Interport Tourney, at Hongkong, China. Honolulu and Manila have also been scenes of conquest.

Playing the first eighteen holes on the course of the Columbus Country Club, Lieutenant Benedict negotiated the difficult course in 78 and found himself tied with Captain John S. Moore, 29th Infantry, and leading Captain Venable by two strokes. In Thursday afternoon's round at Benning the Wheel, Key and Sabre wearer went around in par figures, 72, and left Captain Moore one stroke behind. Capt. Venable stayed well in the running with a fine 73.

Then came the turning point in the close struggle. Friday morning the entrants went out on the garrison course for the third eighteen. Hitting far and straight down from the tees, approaching a la Bobby Jones and wielding the putter with the fineness of Walter Hagen, Lieutenant Benedict made five birdies, played the other thirteen holes in par figures, and knocked Frank Garrard, Jr.'s record of 69 into an ex-record. Against the super golf of the McPhersonite, Captain Moore and Captain Venable struggled in vain. The garrison champ took 78 for the eighteen holes, creditable figures enough, but far from the pace set by the leader. Captain Moore fell away to 83. The final round at the Country Club finished with the three leaders showing cards of 75, 76 and 77 respectively.

Lieutenant Benedict's card for the record round at Benning, with par for each hole:

Par out	434	434	455	36
Lt. Benedict	434	424	345	33
Par in	434	434	455	36—72
Lt. Benedict	434	424	445	34—67

Score of leading three by rounds and total scores of other prize winners:

Lt. Benedict	78	72	67	75—292
Capt. Venable	80	73	78	76—307
Capt. Moore	78	73	83	77—311
Capt. Barnett, Inf.				323
Lt. Darr, Inf.				327
Capt. Neville, Q. M. C.				330
Maj. Schneider, Inf.				330
Capt. Tolson, M. C.				333
Capt. Howder, Q. M. C.				335
Capt. Peabody, Inf.				343

At the conclusion of Friday afternoon's round at the Country Club, General E. T. Collins, Commandant of the Infantry School, presented the prizes to the winners, congratulating them upon the success attained. In the evening the thirty entrants in the tourney gathered at the officers' mess at Biglerville, with General Collins, Colonel Humphries, Fourth Corps Area Representative of the Army Golf Association, and the main athletic dignitaries of the garrison as the principal guests for dinner. General Collins spoke of the success of the tourney and announced his intention of taking up the game himself. Brigadier General Leitch who came down from Fort McPherson to compete in the meet, and who was the oldest entrant as well as the only general officer playing, spoke in happy vein, stating that he had come to contest for the booby prize, but would have to be content with being runner up for that honor. As a matter of fact the General's score was better than a number of officers twenty years his junior. Colonel Humphries and Lieutenant Benedict were other speakers.

TANK DEDICATED BY TRICOLORISTS AT FORT MONDAY

eneral Bryant H. Wells last spring secured immediate approval. The News designed the tablet and pushed the project to its successful consummation.

The battalion was formed around the tank, with all officers and enlisted men present. Many of the officers' wives also attended the ceremonies.

The ceremonies were inaugurated by a selection rendered by the 24th Infantry band, followed by a brief address by Lt. Henry Fay, 24th Inf., who also introduced the speakers.

Major Eisenhower, infantry, made a few brief remarks depicting the reputation of the tank battalion and of all tankers, as being an organization which gets things done. His address was well received. The tank was draped in the allied flags, with half moon of American flags.

General Edgar T. Collins, commandant of the Infantry School, then made a very interesting talk on the reason for Organization Day. In closing, General Collins stated to the battalion that it had the reputation of being one of the most active and efficient organizations in the army, and that as commandant of the Infantry School, he wished to congratulate the 15th tank battalion on its splendid organization.

The following program was rendered:

Organization Day fifteenth tank battalion, Fort Benning, Ga., September 13, 1926.

Selection, Red, White and Blue, 24th Infantry band.

Invocation, Chaplain John T. DeBardeleben, U. S. A.

Tanks in General, Major D. D. Eisenhower, infantry.

Address by the commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, U. S. A.

Unveiling of memorial, Miss Dorothy Russ.

Benediction, Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna, U. S. A.

cluded by wishing the students every success in their studies.

Welcomed by Mayor.

Mayor Dimon spoke next, describing the pleasant relations that have existed between Columbus and the school, welcoming the students to Georgia and Columbus and figuratively presenting them with the keys to the Electric City. The Assistant Commandant, Col. Cocheu, spoke more in detail of the work of the coming year. Chaplain John T. DeBardeleben closed the exercises with the benediction, after which the audience filed out as the band played the Infantry School march, "Follow Me".

General Collins' address in part follows:

"On behalf of the faculty of this entire command, I extend to you gentlemen of the classes of 1927 a most cordial welcome to the Infantry school and to Fort Benning. These exercises today mark the beginning of the eighth year in the history of this institution. During the seven years the school has been in operation, more than 50 per cent. of all the officers now in the infatry have successfully completed one or the other of its regular courses Many more have pursued one or the other of the special courses of instruction provided here. The alumni of the school includes officers from all components of the army, ranging in rank from second lieutenant to major general.

Some Acquainted.

"Earlier experience here has already acquainted some of your number with the school. However, for a majority this will be your initial experience with our service schools. All of you are to be congratulated upon your selection to attend the Infantry School.

"It is a recognized fact that the backbone of any training scheme, either in peace or war, is a well developed system of schools. Study, research and training of an indispensable character and otherwise unobtainable may thus be provided. It may safely be asserted that no military establishment now has, or ever has had, a more carefully planned, truly comprehensive and thoroughly co-ordinated system of schools than we have at this time. The system as a whole comprises four distinct and separate courses of a year's duration each. Each of the courses is so planned as to mission and scope that the four courses combined are designated ultimately to fit an officer for the highest duties of command and staff commensurate with his natural abilities. No officer, certainly no young officer who is imbued with a proper sense of duty, either to himself or the army, can afford to neglect the opportunities presented him by our school system.

Successful Training.

"Training to be approached successfully must be viewed objectively. What should the soldier know? What qualifications should he have? Recourse to history and experience and careful analysis will produce an answer to that question. Then with the answer to the problem, plan a training scheme which will give the desired result. Precisely that method was followed in the establishment of our present school system.

"I do not wish to be understood as indicating that our officers either can or should get all their training in schools. Far from it. The importance and value of duty with troops cannot be over emphasized. A combination of school and troop duty furnishes the best answer. In this connection it might be remarked, however, that a much greater recourse has been had to schools in all armies since the war. The ideal solution would be relatively short periods at schools, followed by prolonged periods with troops. We have not, however, sufficient tactical units to permit as much troop duty as is desirable. The schools increase in importance as a consequence. The efficiency of our potential leaders must make up for our lack of numbers.

Material Revision.

"With the current year, the two regular courses at the school have undergone very material revision. Heretofore, the Company Officers' and the Advanced courses have been about eighty per cent. identical. The conditions which suggested the advisability of having the two courses for the most part identical have now disappeared and hereafter the courses will be almost wholly different in scope. Briefly, the mission of the Company Officers' course is to train officers in the duties of company officers and of battalion and regimental staff officers. The course is built largely around the Infantry weapons.

"The mission of the Advanced course is to train officers from the battalion to the reinforced brigade, inclusive, and as brigade staff officers. Broadly speaking, it is a tactical course. I shall not enter into detailed comments as to the scope of the course as the Assistant Commandant will cover all that in his remarks to you.

Important Advantages.

"An important advantage of a centralized school system is that it brings together officers from widely separated stations and from the different branches of the service. The Infantry School is especially fortunate in this respect. We have here in one capacity or another representatives from practically every branch of our service. Moreover, the student body this year includes officers from the Marine Corps and from certain foreign military establishments, whom we are delighted to welcome to the Infantry School. Later in the year there will be large classes of National Guard and Reserve Officers here. In this connection, it is always well for us of the regular establishment to bear in mind the fact that the Regular Army comprises but a very small part of our War army.

"In concluding these remarks, gentlemen, I again welcome you to the school. I am satisfied that the coming year will prove immensely profitable to you and I hope and believe you will find it pleasant. I wish you every success."

ADDITION TO NEWS STAFF

The opening of the 1926-27 Infantry School classes brings with it added activities along all lines in the garrison, academic, athletic and social. To mirror these activities is our function, and our policy has always been to cover every activity fully.

To this end we announce the addition to our staff of Miss Katharine Kingman, as Society Editor. Miss Kingman is the daughter of Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. R. W. Kingman. Col. Kingman is on duty as Instructor in the 1st Section, Academic Department. Our new staff member is no stranger to Benning, as she was here during the school year 1924-25, during which period Col. Kingman was a student in the Advanced Class.

Items for insertion in our society column may be phoned to Miss Kingman at Phone 217.

Mrs. A. L. Peake entertained Wednesday with an informal luncheon and table of bridge for Mrs. Dismukes, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Jergen.

The Garrison Dramatic Club has tentatively decided to give two one-act plays each month, the first to be presented the second week in October.

Colonel and Mrs. James B. Gowen entertained at dinner last Saturday evening. Their guests were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ralph Kingman, Major and Mrs. A. S. Peake, Major and Mrs. Franklin and Chaplain T. J. McKenna.

Miss Ellen Louise Warfield left Tuesday of this week to attend the winter session of Agnes Scott College in Atlanta.

Miss Betty Gowen, daughter of Colonel James B. Gowen of the 29th Infantry, will leave next week for Notre Dame College, Baltimore.

Colonel and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson left the garrison Sunday to drive to Washington. On their return trip they will stop for a short visit at Fourt Moultrie, with Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. John West. Col. West has been in command at the South Carolina post since his graduation from the Advanced Class here two years ago.

John T. Helms, son of Colonel G. W. Helms, drove to Lexington, Virginia, with Colonel and Mrs. Johnson. He is entering V. M. I. for a year, in preparation for West Point, to which he has been appointed.

The many friends of Mrs. Louis P. Ford have been welcoming her back in the garrison. She has just returned from Walter Reed Hospital.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Wayne C. Smith arrived here Monday morning from Cornwall-on-the-Hudson where they have been visiting Mrs. Smith's family. Saturday evening they attended a hop at West Point.

John Bowen, son of Major Burton E. Bowen, left the early part of the week for the Georgia Military Academy.

Miss Dorothy E. Russ was chosen by the members of the 15th Tank Battalion to unveil the tablet placed Monday on the old tank down by the swimming pool.

Major and Mrs. Edwin Butcher and their two children have returned from leave. While away they toured New York and New England.

Mrs. George W. Smythe is entertaining today with four tables of bridge. Several ladies have been invited to tea.

Mrs. C. W. Delaplane drove north with the Wait Johnsons to spend some time at Virginia Beach.

The Opening Hop of the Officers' Club will be held this evening at the Polo Club, beginning promptly at 9 o'clock. As this is the first of the year it is hoped that a large number of the officers and ladies will be present.

COUNTRY CLUB ALTERATIONS

During extensive repairs and improvements to the dining room and kitchen facilities, the culinary department of the Columbus Country Club is temporarily closed, and will remain closed for a period of about a month. After the work is finished this downtown mecca for followers of the ancient Scottish game will be opened with an enlarged and redecorated dining room and ball room, and with an attractive entrance way, through an impressive porte cochere.

THE INFANTRY RIDING TEAM AT THE AUGUSTA HORSE SHOW

By Henry Averill

(From The Remount, May, 1926.)

The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, was represented in the Third Annual Augusta, Georgia, Horse Show by a team of six ladies and six officers from the Fort, with a string of thirty horses, most of them Government owned animals. Riding and jumping as though born in the saddle, this delegation swept the boards, the representatives of the City of Musketry capturing forty-four places out of a total of eighty-five possible in the twenty-three events entered. Included were eleven first place trophies, eleven second place ribbons, twelve thirds and ten fourths.

Remarkable as was the performance of the team as a whole, the outstanding feature was the splendid showing of those horses of the string that were foaled at Remount Stations or purchased by the Remount Service for Government use. Ten such were numbered among the Benning mounts and these ten accounted for twenty-four prizes, among which were seven of the eleven first places won by the entire team. Kim, foaled at the Front Royal, Va., Remount Station in 1920, was the biggest single winner, carrying off four trophies awarded for first place and, teamed with Dleson, another Remount product, sharing a third place ribbon. This beautiful chestnut gelding, with blazed face and white stockings, standing 16 hands 2, was sired by the Remount stallion Danger Rock, a son of Rock Sand, one of the world's most famous racers and sires. Ridden by Capt. Charles B. Dunphy, Veterinary Corps, Kim won in the class for heavyweight hunters against a field that included the best hunters at the show, among them Joseph Greer's great exhibition jumpers America and Over-The-Top. Captain Dunphy also jumped him, teamed with Delson, to victory in the Pair of Hunters class. With Mrs. Schneider up, Kim was adjudged the best Ladies' Hunter, though here he faced stern opposition from George Chipchase's fine hunters from Aiken, S. C., and from Mrs. Dunphy, a member of the Benning team, on the wonderful gelding Chestnut Prince. On the third and last day of the show winners of first and second places in all the hunter classes competed for the huge cup to be awarded to the "Champion Hunter of the Show." After the judges had studied the record of performance and the conformation and manners of all the entries, Kim was chosen as "Champion," completing a performance that would be hard to equal. Rival exhibitors, judges at the show and horsemen of many years' experience were loud in their praise of this fine horse, and Kim is now the pride of the Infantry School stables.

Other remount animals showing well and winning their share of prizes were the geldings Delson, Gandy, Hindoo, Little John, Middlebury, Raspberry, Sheanandoah and Sommers, and the brown mare, Whippany. The last named is a seven-year-old, foaled at Front Royal, sired by the Remount stallion Black Dick. All these animals were sent to Fort Benning from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas.

The show took place March 23, 24 and 25 and from the opening event on the first day the showing of the Benning team was an outstanding feature. On the first day Mrs. Charles B. Dunphy, a petit equestrienne who barely reaches five feet by standing very straight, delighted the audience with her spectacular riding and astride Chestnut Prince, was a double winner, placing first in the event for middleweight hunters and the "Open to All Jumping." Major H. J. Smith, Cavalry, instructor in equitation at the Infantry School, also won two cups, one in the Polo Pony Bending Race with Ginger, and the other with Hindoo in the class for Officers' Chargers.

On the second day Fort Benning representatives continued their good work. Major Smith turned in another win with Ginger as a lightweight polo pony; Middleburg, Chestnut Prince and High Pockets, ridden by Mrs. Landis, Mrs. Dunphy and Captain Pollin, were judged the best Hunt Team; and Kim scored his victory as a heavyweight hunter. Mrs. Dunphy furnished more thrills by her daring riding in a special triple bar contest in which there were over thirty entries. The event finally went to Wee Buddy, a George Chipchase gelding, Miss Edith Manning, of Aiken, S. C., up, and Chestnut Prince, with Mrs. Dunphy up, placed second. The contest was described by old exhibitors as the gamest piece of jumping they had ever witnessed.

On this same day, in the closing class, for saddle horse fifteen-two and under, Captain Rogers took fourth place with Major E. Ormonde Power's thoroughbred Shyster against the best saddle horses o fthe show. Milady Minton, Sporty McGee, and London Fefe, which took the first three places, have won prizes all over the country.

The last day found the team scoring heavily again. Kim won for Mrs. Schneider as the best Lady's Hunter, and with Delson came through in the "Pairs of Hunters," and at the close of the day gained the championship as described. Mrs. Landis took the second place cup with Middleburg. This gelding also placed second in the Polo Pony Championship, with Captain Pleas B. Rogers, 24th Infantry, up. Captain Rogers, showing Whippany, also took third place. In the feature event preceding the championships, Captain W. A. Burress, 29th Infantry, jumped Gandy to victory in the Handy Hunter Class, Mrs. Landis placing second on Middleburg. Of the twenty-seven entries in this event these horses were the only two to jump out of the "Pigpen" without knocking down the side rail.

The Augusta show is one of the big social events of the winter, and is sponsored by the Augusta Board of Commerce, the Bon Air Vanderbilt Hotel and the Partridge Inn. The list of exhibitors nicluded many of the best known showmen from Florida to Kentucky. Among them were Jos. Greer, Tampa, Fla., with a string of fine jumpers; Hickory Mountain Stables, Barboursville, Ky.; Frank Adair, Atlanta, Ga., who, in addition to a number of other animals, showed the Champion Gaited Saddle Mare, Vendetta, each day; A. D. L. Barksdale, Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. J. L. Hopping, Atlanta, Ga., and many others. The visiting exhibitors were royally entertained by the sponsors of the show, being taken to Aiken, S. C., to view the famous steeplechasers and polo ponies quartered there, and entertained daily with teas and dances.

The Fort Benning representatives who made the trip were Major H. J. M. Smith, Cavalry; Captains P. B. Rogers, 24th Infantry; W. A. Burress, 29th Infantry; C. B. Dunphy, V. C.; E. O. Sandlin, Infantry, and G. A. Pollin, 83rd Field Artillery; and Mesdames C. B. Dunphy, A. L. Singleton, J. F. Landis, E. N. Frakes, F. V. Schneider, and R. H. Bishop.

That the help and support given the show by Fort Benning was appreciated and the fine showing recognized is shown by an extract from a letter from Mr. Harold A. Richardson, Managing Director of the show, to the Chief of Infantry, Major General Allen: "It gives me great pleasure to state that all these officers from Fort Benning made a very splendid showing, were enthusiastically appreciated by the spectators and materially contributed to the great success of the Horse Show."

A Year of The News

During the past year in addition to the Editor and the partial services of 1st Lt. Walter A. Stetler, detailed as Assistant Editor, personnel producing this paper has consisted of the following: Master Sergeant Joseph T. McCloskey, Infantry School Detachment, business manager, whose illness and furlough have interfered with the performance of his duties since early April and who is now sick in Walter Reed General Hospital. Corporal Henry Averill, Infantry School Detachment, detailed on December 10, 1925, whose aid has been invaluable in handling all sporting news with exceptional skill, in proof reading, in supervising circulation and in general asssitance, and whose loyalty, ability, behavior, sense of responsibility, and interest in the welfare of the paper have been exceptional. On June 7th, the Quartermaster informally loaned the services of Mr. Clark T. Browning, Warrant Officer, assigned to the Quartermaster, to assist in bookkeeping, advertising solicitation, and bill collecting, whose energy and ability have been of supreme importance in the present satisfactory condition of the paper.

Starting with an initial balance of one thousand dollars, The Infantry School News has been maintained on a sound financial basis. The history of the paper in the past has been that summer months are normally slack months from an advertising standpoint, but the increase in circulation and in interest in the paper has been such that there is now on hand a greater balance than the history of the paper would normally lead one to expect at this time. Instead of being face to face with a crisis at the end of the summer season, the paper now has a balance of about double the initial starting fund. This condition is all the more noteworthy in that tendencies to make profits have been constantly met with expenditures, for increased pages in the paper, for additional electrotypes, for calendar cards announcing monthly theatre schedules, for trophies for the Infantry School Horse Show, for permanent seats for the garrison swimming pool, for the purchase of an expensive sterling silver trophy for the Class "B" baseball league.

Following are the cardinal points of the year's editorial policy of this paper:

a. Increased and more detailed accounts of garrison athletics.

b. Establishment of Satellite column for notable local soldiers.

c. A spirit of appreciation of activities, avoiding all "knocks". Letters received by the editor making suggestions or complaints are never published, but are turned over to officers who might be interested in learning of the views expressed or the suggestions made.

d. Unfailing regularity in the insertion of all "Company Notes" received for publication. (The increase in circulation in the 29th Infantry is believed due to this policy.)

e. Confinement of editorials to comments on purely local topics.

f. Preparation of special drawings to head columns of organizational notes, of small drawings to be indendted into the leading paragraphs of articles, of maps and sketches of portions of the garrison discussed in articles, like the sites of the maneuver camps, the location of the new sections of the cuartel barracks, the details of the school demonstration "Battalion in Attack," etc., etc.

g. Increased use of photographs of individuals and feature items in and about the garrison.

It was not believed that a paid-up circulation of approximately three hundred and fifty copies was fulfilling the function of this paper as a morale booster and a disseminator or information, or providing soldiers of a command of about 5,000 with sufficient copies to send home. Some slight increase in circulation was effected by placing copies on sale at the Post Exchange and the Officers' Club, and this procedure made the character and the appearance of the paper more familiar to the members of this command. The weekly features of the paper were also announced on the screen at the Garrison Theatre. The finances of the paper continued to improve and it was decided to start a vigorous subscription campaign in mid-summer, with the command by then acquainted with the paper and interested in the detailed accounts of the many baseball games being played. Reducing the subscription rate for delivery at company orderly rooms and to soldiers to fifty cents per year, it was believed possible to carry the paper financially on that basis, and not strain the already heavily drained pocket books of the soldiers of the command, and still require some concrete evidence from them of interest and support instead of merely throwing the papers around gratis. At this rate a soldier pays less than a cent a copy. The result of the winter of study of the problem and increase of interest, brought the paid circulation from about three hundred and fifty in December to about six hundred in May. The result of the summer campaign has brought the subscription list to a figure of approximately thirteen fifty, with increase still continuing steadily.

Special appreciation should be given for the co-operation rendered in securing subscriptions and news to the Commanding Officer of the 29th Infantry, his Plans and Training Officer, his Adjutant, his Athletic and Recreation Officer, and his Company Commanders. That organization alone now has almost twice the subscriptions that the entire garrison furnished in December of last year.

My dear Captain Colby:—

The "RECRUITING NEWS" congratulates its contemporary, The Infantry School News, upon the passing of the fourth milestone in its literary career.

The "RECRUITING NEWS" regards The Infantry School News a source of valuable information which we often tap for our own columns and for the general army publicity that we prepare for the newspapers of the country. Its contents strike a happy medium between the serious work of the school, and the more trivial, but equally interesting incidental events.

With our best wishes for your continued success,

Yours very sincerely,

My dear Sir:

The management of The Infantry Journal sends its greetings and felicitations to the staff of The Infantry School News on this your fourth anniversary.

We observed with fraternal interest the development of the paper of the Infantry School and it has been a pleasure to note the progressive steps you have taken. It is a source of considerable pride to Infantrymen to have their great service school represented by so worthy a publication.

The Editor and his Staff are hereby extended our glad hand of congratulations on this anniversary, and we wish you continued success in your important work.

Very sincerely yours.

My dear Sir:

In view of your forthcoming anniversary number, The Quartermaster Review desires to extend to The Infantry School News our most sincere congratulations upon the development of one of the leading Army publications, in fact, a periodical second to none from the standpoint of the field covered.

In this connection I think you are doing an excellent thing for esprit de corps in the Service in featuring some of our many very able non-commissioned officers. They are literally the frame work of the Army structure.

We always welcome The Infantry School News in the knowledge that its columns invariably contain something new, piquant, and to the point. It combines solid mental pabulum with that degree of humor which insures the proper spice of life. Your readers are invariably cleverly instructed, pleasantly entertained, and at all times informed of timely service developments.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN V. ROWAN,

My dear Sir:

I have followed the steady growth of the "Infantry School News" with a full appreciation of the labors and constructive thought necessary to produce so creditable a sheet.

It has undoubtedly been a large factor in building up the high morale for which Fort Benning is noted. It has stimulated an interest in sports and social activities, but more important to my mind is the fact that it has placed before the entire garrison its aims, activities, needs, and desires, giving them a sense of active participation in the achievements of the Post.

As you pass your fourth anniversary, you may survey with justified pride your previous work.

With best wishes, I am,
Cordially yours,

THE SECOND DIVISION REVIEW
Fort Sam Houston, Texas.
August 29, 1926.

The Editor,
Infantry School News,
Fort Benning, Ga.
My dear Mr. Editor:

If my memory serves me correctly The Infantry School News will very shortly celebrate its fourth anniversary, marking the end of the fourth year as one of the outstanding publications of today. I know that it is hard for an editor to see his paper as others see it, so I am taking this liberty of writing you a brief message of congratulations signalizing the vast improvements made in The News during the last volume period, and offering my most sincere wishes for continued prosperity and good fortune.

Having been associated with The Infantry School News during the period of its infancy, having striven always to raise the standard of that paper to the highest possible level, and having been on the inside track when a number of difficulties were presented and subsequently disposed of, I feel that I can speak intimately and freely when I tell you that I am sure that The News is today one of the most popular and intelligent service publications on the market today.

I have never pestered what little brains I have left with mercenary details as to business conditions, circulation, subscriptions, and other monetary angles, but have devoted my time and attention to matters purely editorial. Therefore, I would not speak advisedly if I did know your business condition and commented on it.

As to the editorial condition of The News, I should say that you are in the best condition that you have been since the initial appearance fo the paper in 1922. The news is handled tersely and comprehensively, the departments are always complete each week, and editorials are always written from the proper angle, and above all else, the sports are at last receiving their deserved majority of the space in The News.

John Buck, rear rank, who after all, is the one that we service editors must always address our remarks to, delights in the main sporting news and events, and if the publication which he supports does not feature his sporting events, he is inclined naturally to lose interest in his paper. You have appreciated that, and your sporting stories are always complete in every respect, cleverly prepared, and properly presented.

Those of us who still develop that nostalgical feeling when we recall happy days at Benning look to the Infantry School News as our steady source of information for keeping in touch with what is going on at the old place. We follow avidly all of the major events, and attempt always to read betweeen the lines and detect the condition of the morale pulse at Benning. We find that the News today serves that purpose admirably and each week finds us eagerly awaiting its arrival.

Please extend to those members of the staff who served with me at Benning my kindest regards.

Again allow me to congratulate you and offer many happy returns of the day to the Infantry School News. More power to the "Snooze."

Sincerely,
JOHN B. HESS,
Associate Editor.

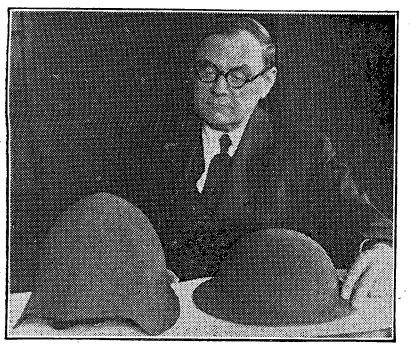
DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

(By Capt. A. J. Barnett)

The Department of Experiment is that branch of the Infantry School devoted to modernization and improvement of the arms and equipment of the Infantry. Its specific mission, assigned by War Department orders, is: the carrying out of such tests and research work as the Commandant may direct. Prior to 1907 The Infantry had no institution specifically charged with experimental work. The growing importance of that branch and the resultant necessity for modernization and constant improvement of Infantry arms and equipment demanded such an institution and General Orders No. 4, Pacific Division, dated April 1 1907, prescribing the activities of the School of Musketry at Presidio of Monterey, California, provided that "Experiments in such matters as refer to the development of all material pertaining to small arms firing, and the proper course of instruction in same, may be, in the discretion of the proper authority referred to the school for investigation and report."

The School of Musketry was transferred to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, in 1913, and the experimental work initiated at Monterey carried on. The advent of the war in 1914 stimulated development of Infantry weapons and equipment. Experimental work increased to such an extent that a separate department was created and charged with that duty. Report No. 1 of the Department of Experiment was submitted at Fort Sill, March 9, 1926. It covers the test of the bolt magazine target pistol for caliber .22 long rifle cartridges and was signed by R. H. Kelly, then 1st Lieutenant, 4th Infantry. Thsi report is filed with the records of the Infantry Board.

The Department of Experiment was included in the transfer of the school from Fort Sill to Fort Benning, Georgia. Advantages of having it located on the same post with the demonstration regiment and other departments of the Infantry School are numerous and decided. The opinions of officers of the Academic Department upon projects under test are highly valued; school equipment and supplies are available and the 29th Infantry renders assistance in various ways.



"The Chief of Ordnance Follows Recommendations of Dept. of Experiment."

The present organization of the Department of Experiment includes the Administrative, test, range, photographic and supply sections, the names being sufficiently descriptive to indicate their functioning. Test and research work is ordinarily referred to the director through the Infantry Board. The origin, in nearly all cases, is one of the supply branches. A detailed report, carefully prepared, bound and signed by the director covers each test. Three hundred and ninety-five reports have been submitted since the completion of Test No. 1 referred to above.

The test section has about thirty projects on hand at present, practically all of which are of general interest and worthy of mention. They are: Compasses, Lensatic, Field Desks, Gas Masks, Hand Wire Cart, Hats, Service, Wool, Escort, Wagons, First Aid Pouches, Grenades, Hand, Hatcher Receiver Sight, Helmets, Infantry Pack Modifications, Leggins, Canvas, Marking Panels, Message Center Carrier, Phillips Pack Saddle Equipment, Skirmish Fire, Switchboard, 4 line Monocord, Infantry Carts, M. G. .50 Caliber, Machine Gun Carts, Night Firing Device M. G., Pouch for Pliers and Knives, Stay Staples, Toilet Kit Case.

Tests of Machine gun cart harness, autoloading rifles, small bore cal. .22 rifles, food containers, range finders. hood spark arresters, troop transport seats, dismounted leggins, skirmish fire, hand grenades, identification tags and watches have recently been completed and reports submitted.

Another activity functioning under the Director of the Department of Experiment is the photographic laboratory which does blue printing, photostat and photographic work for the entire post. Modern equipment for making instructional motion pictures for use of the Academic Department has recently been received. Demands upon this section are ever on the increase.

Practically all experimental work involving arms and ammunition is done on the Wilcox range. This plant is located on the Chattahoochee river about five miles from the post proper. It consists of temporary quarters for enlisted men of the detachment, rifle and machine ranges, water basin, towers for observation of experimental firing, machine rest, store room, work shop and other such equipment. Seven noncommissioned officers, some of whom are the best shots of the Infantry, constitute the personnel of the range section. Their marksmanship ability is of inestimable value in test of rifles and machine guns. Classes of the Infantry school are often given demonstrations of new weapons at the Wilcox range. The terrain of the Fort Benning reservation affords excellent opportunity for testing transportation. Fords with difficult approaches and varying depth of water are available. Roads that vie in ils-ne-passeront-pas determination with any and that stand ready to accept the challenge of the most ambitious vehicle are available.

In the opinion of the writer the Infantry has no job of greater interest captivating possibility than that of the test officer. Initiative he must have, technical knowledge does not disqualify but "hoss sense" is a gift supreme and the mighty boarding house arm that reaches the sound conclusion. Any reader who has lasted this long will perhaps be sufficiently interested to glance again at the above list of tests for an insight into the great variety of work the Department attempts. If variety is the spice of life the Department of Experiment is the India of the Infantry world.

A few years ago about twelve test officers were assigned to this department; there are now four. A few years ago the activity was allowed three civilian employees; present allowance, none. The enlisted personnel likewise has been reduced. But these economy clips have merely reduced its looks to a boyish bob and the institution is now planning its coming scholastic year's work with the enthusiasm of the youthful ones who wear them. In the tests of all arms and equipment proposed for the Infantry soldier weight is given great consideration. If the Department of Experiment can be instrumental in reducing the Infantry man's load one pound without detriment to his fighting efficiency its existence for all time will be justified and any other accomplishments will be velvet.

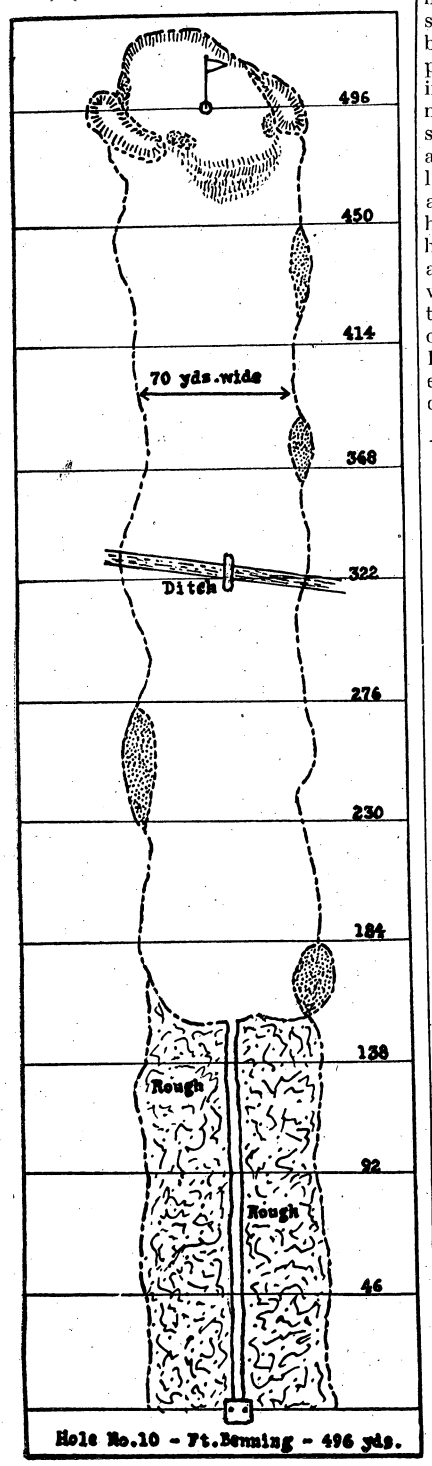
GOLFERS BUILDING A NEW HOLE AT BENNING

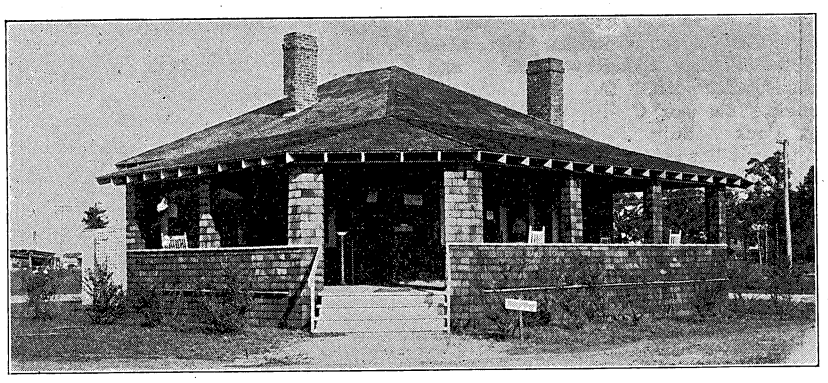
Novel Method of Selecting and Creating Hazards Attracts Attention.

Here at the home of the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, there is an attractive nine-hole golf course, now in the process of being enlarged into an eighteen hole course, for the accommodation of the increasing numbers of those who wish to wield the driver and mashie "in addition to their other duties." Work is now actually going forward toward the completion of Hole No. 10, so that the fairways will be smooth with Bermuda grass instead of lumpy with southern weeds. But naturally, there have been golf courses built before, and military golf courses too—and the interesting thing about this course on the high plain at the junction of the Chattahoochee river and Upatoi creek is the method of approach towards the new hole.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. B. Warfield, keen fan at the Scottish game, is also Quartermaster at the fort—and what could be better for golf. But he is more than that. He is a student of the game too. He attacked the problem of laying out the new course in a novel manner, which other golfers might well use as a pattern. Having in the natural course of his fandom collected a large number of descriptive golfing books, and magazine articles describing famous courses and intricate holes, he classified and arranged his file of this material according to the length of hole. Then he scouted around the neighborhood where the tee of the new hole must approximately be. He scanned the ground and picked his direction in accordance with his general plan, and then measured the length of the new hole.

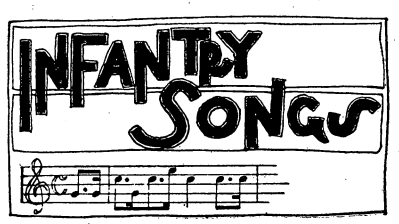


Back to the office he traipsed, and made a map of it. Now that is all quite simple, and nothing to cheer about. He bethought himself of the academic department and the system they use to instruct in musketry tactics and the maneuver of small units. He got himself a big sand-box, and decided upon a scale that would conveniently fit the length of his new hole. Then he modeled and moulded the damp sand, until he had an exact representation of the new hole, its elevations, its width, its traps and bunkers—even the ditch that traverses the fairway three hundred and twenty yards out. And the hole he laid out was one modeled on some famous Donald Ross hole, or other hole described in his literature, and of appropriate distance.



Together with Sergeant Sidney Clarke, the garrison professional and holder of the Benning course record, he studied the table and projected shots and hazards, and made adjustments in the original plan. Then he got his working crew together—for you know all Quartermasters at all Army posts can have good sized working crews almost whenever they need them. He showed them the map,—and the map meant little or nothing to them. He showed them the sand box, and they opened their eyes and understood what "the old man" was driving at.

This is the Benning method: (a) Determine the length; (b) Find a notable hole in your literature that corresponds to that length and to the ground; (c) Make a map; (d) Make a relief representation on the sand table; (e) Let your laborers work from sand table and on the actual ground; (f) Sit on the club porch and keep cool or else play around yourself on the holes already completed, while the men are doing the work understandingly. This method secures more effective results with the minimum of constant personal supervision. It is not copyrighted, as none of the trick methods of the Army are copyrighted; and it may be copied by others, as many of the most facile Army tricks are effectively copied by civilian friends "on the outside."



(By Pvt. George R. Becker.)

Doughboys of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry, Fort Benning, no longer are forced to sing their regimental march and hiking song from mimeographed copies, as twenty thousand copies finished off in the same manner as Irving Berlin's masterpieces were recently printed. Copies issued to the present members of the command were purchased out of the company funds.

Present orders regarding the use of the songs state that the Regimental Hymn and March will be played on the following occations only: When troops of the 29th Infantry pass in review at ceremonies, when the regiment, a battalion or a company leaves the post or station or returns to the post or station, and at any formation where one battalion or more of the 29th Infantry participates.

Orders state the Regimental Hiking Song will be played or sung on the following occasions: When on a march or hike and not at attention, at athletic games and upon any desired occasion.

The idea of a regimental song was first proposed by Captain C. A. Pritchett, 29th Infantry, then adjutant. A song contest was announced in an official circular offering a prize of $25.00 for the song selected. About fifteen songs were submitted by officers and enlisted men.

The two winning songs, the "Twenty-Ninth" and "We Lead the Way" were written by Captain Holmes J. Dager, the music being composed by Capt. Geo. L. King. Each winner was awarded the first prize of $25.00. Capt. Geo. L. King was made an honorary officer in the regiment.

My dear Sir:

It is with a feeling of pride and gratitude that I watch the approach of the fourth birthday of The Infantry School News; pride, in that the paper is a credit to the Service, and gratitude because of the many ideas it has furnished the staff of The Service News; one of which is the Satellites column. This column we like so well, that we are now bending every effort toward the incorporation of just such a column in our paper, (with your permission, of course).

The Personnel of the Air Service joins The Service News in wishing for The Infantry School News, the continued success, to which your untiring efforts entitle you, and many happy returns of this eventful day.

Sincerely,
ROBERT C. WALKER,
Editor.

COMPLETION OF LONG AWAITED BARRACKS AT LAST IN SIGHT

29th New Home to Be First of Cuartel Type Adopted by War Department.

Now that the gunners from the 83rd Field Artillery have completely demolished their old homes down in Block 6, and civilian workers are actually engaged in preparing for the erection of the new sections of barracks authorized to be built this year and for which contracts were approved recently, the further completion of the 29th Infantry's home is in prospect. The completion of the section just off Vibbert Avenue marked the initial step and now the end is in sight. The Demonstration Doughboys came down into Georgia seven years ago and ever since have been quartered in tents. To the regiment the new era will be welcome.

These new barracks will be the first completed under the War Department plan to erect cuartel barracks for large bodies of troops instead of building detached troop or company barracks. The report of the Secretary of War for 1924 said:

"In working out the housing program it has been necessary to consider the cost and need for economy, and also the tactical requirements, so that control and administration might be as simple as possible and conform to the tactical mission of the army. The cuartel or quadrangular system of barracks construction has been decided upon by the War Department, as it has been estimated that this form of construction will cost $5.30 per man per year less than detached troop, company and battery barracks heretofore constructed at military posts."

Section A of the barracks and a big heating plant to care for the whole were constructed during the fiscal year 1925 from an appropriation of $385,000, various economics by the builders leaving an unexpected balance from that sum of approximately $60,000. For the fiscal year 1926, Congress appropriated $725,000 for the erection of Sections B, C and D. On August 16th bids were received for this construction. Among the bidders the John W. Cowper Company of Atlanta submitted the lowest estimate for the complete job, but scanning the detailed bids for various classes of work by different firms, the Quartermaster officers were able to reach a new total of $553,785.04.

Together with the sum saved on the consrtuction of Section A, there has been saved to the government from appropriated funds the sum of nearly $175,000. Formal approval has been received from Washington for the local authorities to go ahead and make preparations for the continuance of the work, so that still another section will be added. This section will sweep on through the quarters now occupied by the Quartermaster, Detachment, the Chemical Warfare Service, and the Guard House by the Stockade.

Parts to be constructed in the new sections, exclusive of any further construction that the saved money may permit, will include four new towers, including one lofty one in the Administration part of the building over a full two-story archway.

Flanking the archway, above and below will be the regimental infirmary, the guard room, the colonel's office, and all other parts of a regimental office.

Right eastwards along Vibbert Avenue the new brick and limestone structure will stretch, blotting out Finnegan street, already closed, and then swinging around southwards along the edge of Gillespie street half way to Wold Avenue, with the extreme limit of the new work resting about where the battalion headquarters of the gunners stood. In all the new parts will be 1068 feet long.

When the building now authorized is completed, the huge quadrangle for the Demonstration Doughboys will be more than half completed. Five more companies and the Regimental Headquarters can move in. Two more boilers will be installed in the power plant to take care of the heating. Shades of Benny Byrne! Here are the brick quarters and steam heat coming at last, and in good measure.

My dear Editor:

In the publication of a service journal, weekly, monthly or quarterly, one is constantly confronted with the efforts of those seeking personal publicity and pressure is sometimes brought to bear which is hard to resist. We have carefully noted the manner in which The Infantry School News, published under your direction, has handled this delicate situation and from time to time we have found The Infantry School News a very satisfactory authority to quote and The Army and Navy Courier is desirous of extending to you, as editor of The Infantry School News, its compliments and congratulations on the success you have attained in the publication of The News.

We wish to reiterate our statement made above that we have quite often found The Infantry School News a very satisfactory authority to quote and to assure you that at any time The Army and Navy Courier can serve you in any capacity whatsoever we are at your command.

A SONG OF THE INFANTRY
(By Albert Dowling.)

They're goin' to hav'em a he-man's sing
For th' good old Infantry
A song to sound thru th' Halls of Time
An' give to posterity,
The sturdy souls, an' the spirits bold
An' th' brave an' honest hearts of gold
Of th' Fightin' Infantry.

I'm only a buck in th' doughboy line,
An' not any poet man.
I'd rather wrastle than write a rhyme
An' th' Lord knows if I can;
But to write that song an' write it well
Th' guy will have to write like 'ell
Of th' good old Infantry.

I guess if that song is well begun,
With shrill note of pipin' fife,
An' th' boomin' beat of a big bass drum
'Twill sorta' have some life.
For th' stirrin' thrill of th' war drums beat
Will loosen th' dust on th' leaden feet
Of the hikin' Infantry.

An' then with the braggin', brassy blare
Of th' proud, paradin' band
A playin' some pretty popular air,
That'll echo through th' land,
We'll have a tune that th' folks'll like
And'll lighten th' pack on an uphill hike
Of th' ploddin' Infantry.

But how are they goin' to put in verse
Th' nights of mud an' mire
An' th' chillin' rain that makes men curse
The lack of a friendly fire,
As they wallow their weary way ahead
Asleep on their feet an' about half dead
Th' dogged Infantry.

Yes, how are they goin' to tell in rhyme
Of the star-shells baleful light,
Exposin' th' thin and broken line,
Bearin' th' brunt of th' fight,
Or th' leaden hail of the shrapnel burst
When y'hope for th' best an' look for th' worst;
The prayin' Infantry.

Sure it's not a song, it's an anthem they needs,
To tell us th' story well,
Of those fightin' fools an' their des'prit deeds
Out there on th' brink of Hell.
An anthem that's filled with th' earthquake throb
Of massed artillery doing their job;
Backin' th' Infantry.

A throbbin', rumblin', roarin' song,
Jazzed up by th' rearing tanks,
Clanking and smashing their way along
To strengthen th' hard-pressed ranks
Of that bruisin', batterin', bay'netin' band
That battle th' enemy hand to hand;
Th' cold-steel Infantry.

A rollickin' song full of frolic an' fun;
Of cav-'lry splashin' a ford,
Chasin' a foemen that's on th' run
Puttin' 'em to th' sword;
A broken enemy beaten back
Foiled in a fruitless, vain attack,
On stonewall Infantry.

A song with th' swing of a sweeping oar
Pulled by a pontonier,
Ferryin' troops to a hostile shore
An' tryin' hard to steer
Safe thru th' hell of burstin' shell
That's tryin' th' fierce advance to quell,
Of stormin' Infantry.

Let'm fill th' song with th' airy grace
Of th' swoopin', divin' plane,
Wingin' its way thru azure space,
Scoutin' th' foe's terrain;
Dronin' and droppin' out of the skies;
Guardin' from swift and sudden surprise;
Smoke blinded Infantry.

Let'em break the rhythm with raucous note,
Like the sudden Gas Alarm,
That brings th' heart to th' fear parched throat.
Like some ghastly voodoo charm;
The frenzied fear of the dew of death,
That clinging, clammy, poisonous breath
Chokin' th' Infantry.

Let 'em not forget th' staccato beat
Of machine-gun enfilade;
Stemmin' th' rush that would spell defeat
The startlin', sudden raid,
That forces th' front-line slowly back;
Gaspin' for breath, for a counter attack;
Hard pressed Infantry.

But give 'em an anthem or given 'em a song,
That sounds pretty on parade,
Nothin' you'll say'll be too strong;
'Bout those soldiers unafraid,
Just rhyme on' rave 'til you're out of breath,
For you can't scare a chap, who jokes with death.
Tough old Infantry.

But th' doughboy song, when th' war rolls,
Is beyond all meter or rhyme:
Just th' battle cry of those fightin' souls,
Echoin' down th' Halls of Time.
And their comrades in arms will th' chorus swell,
Like an opera staged in th' Pitts of Hell
Supportin' th' Infantry.

PVT. JOSEPH H. WIGGINS
Quartermaster Corps
Heroic Engineer.

Late in February, Private Wiggins, who runs an engine of the railway line, achieved national distinction and local fame by perfo ming the amazing feat of out-racing his own engine to save the life of a baby on the rails in front of the grinding wheels.

Nine o'clock on the morning of February 19th, and Wiggins was rambling his train down the narrow gauge line, carrying a load of sand and gravel. Before him he saw the infant child of Sergeant Lavender of "H" Company. With a shriek his brakes ground against the rolling wheels. The train slowed, but on the down grade did not stop.

Sizing the situation in a glance and without thought of his personal safety, Wiggins leapt from his cab and dashed ahead of his engine, snatching the baby from a terrible death.

The parents arrived, and took the child, and Wiggins disappeared. His train went on.

Asked about the incident by the Quartermaster, Wiggins said: "What'd I want to give them my name for? I didn't have any time to answer their dee fool questions. I had to get that load of sand and gravel out of there."

Is it any wonder that now they familiarly and unofficially call the narrow gauge railway: "Wiggins' Railway Line"?

LT. ENRIQUE DIAZ SEDANO
Cuban Army
Triple Expert.

Ever since the Infantry School was founded, it has been the custom of the government to invite as students a greater or lesser number of foreign officers, to learn how the American doughboy does his stuff.

Lieutenant Sedano came here in the fall of 1925, with difficulties between the Spanish tongue and the army jargon. But he soon proceeded to demonstrate himself a prince of good fellows and a cordial mixer.

He has the distinctinn of being the only foreign officer here ever to qualify as expert with one of our weapons, and Sedano did it three times: with the rifle, the pistol, and the automatic rifle.

With the Springfield, he shot 307. With the pistol he clipped off 81.66 per cent. With the auto-rifle he plugged 537, well above the required score of 500.

NOTES ON HISTORY OF SITE OF THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

Notable History of Grounds Where the World's Big Infantry School Stands.

On the ground where Fort Benning now stands, there transpired several historic events of great iterest.

Across the high levels of the Benning plain there once ran an ancient Indian trail, the main east and west trail across the Chattahoochee Valley. East of the river it followed a high ridge line, as native or primitive trails mostly do, and corresponded almost exactly with what used to be called the Red Bone Road, and is now known as the First Division Road. In 1805 Congress determined to open up the western parts of Georgia, which then extended to the Mississippi, and authorized the construction of a road from funds appropriated for "military contingencies". In 1807 the trail became a bridle path. In 1811 it was completed with appropriate width, and was thenceforth known as the Federal Road.

Along this road, in 1825, there came the Marquis de Lafayette, then the only surviving general of the American Revolution. Making a triumphal tour of the country, he was escorted to the banks of the Chattahoochee by a group of Georgians, taken over the stream in his surrey on a flat bottomed boat, greeted by a delegation of Alabamans, hauled up the hills on the west bank of the river by a set of naked Indian warriors, and feted at Fort Mitchell. This event has been commemorated at the fort by the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution who, in cooperation with the Oglethorpe, George Walton and Button Gwinnett chapters, located in Columbus, erected on a huge concrete base at a road intersection at the fort a beautiful bronze tablet to maintain the fine tradiion of the young soldier who said of the struggle for liberty: "At the first news my heart was enrolled".

The spot where this tablet stands is being made the center of a historical circle, where there will be commenorated other events connected with the site of the reservation. At the mouth of the Upatoi creek, in 1836, there was fought the Battle of Hitchity, between Georgia militia and Creek Indians, which opened the first of the long series of Creek wars. On the spot where the quarters of the general who is commandant of the Infantry School now stands, there once rose a great Indian council hall, for the Benning Plain was the site of the old Indian village of Kasihta, peace town of the entire Lower Creek Confederacy.

Between fort and city, on the eastern side of the concrete road known as the Benning Boulevard, there rises a high ridge called Torch Hill, by reason of its former use by native Indian tribes as a signal station for the entire surrounding region. In the garden of the former Woolfolk residence on that hill, there lies under Georgia clay the body of Colonel Tate of His Majesty's Army, a notorious British leader in the days of the Revolution.

In view of the fact that here ran the old Indian trail, which later became the Federal road, it has been believed that many other historic characters visited the site of Fort Benning before it became the home of the Infantry School. After Cortez had driven the Muscogee Indians out of Mexico and they had pushed the Alabamans eastwards, the latter sought refuge in this region and in 1702 secured the protection of the French Governor Bienville, who secured a truce between the two tribes, and an agreement which resulted in the formation of the great Creek Confederacy. It is practically certain that in 1714, when Governor Bienville left the French fort Toulouse near the present location of Montgomery, Ala., he came eastwards and conferred with Indian chiefs; he assembled with them at an Indian town called Coweta, eight miles below where Columbus now stands on the west bank of the Chattahoochee. From this meeting, he went to the present village of Cusseta, actually crossing the ground of the present military reservation of Fort Benning.

In 1733, General James Oglethorpe made his first visit to this neighborhood. The founder of what later became a barrier colony between the Carolinas and the royal Spaniards in Florida and French and Creeks to the west, came over almost trackless jungles from Savannah to attend a conference at Coweta, and later visiting all Indian tribes in the neighborhood. His visit was successful, for it bound the powerful Creek Confederacy to the friendship of England.

During the War of 1812, the Creek Indians again sided with their former friends, the British, as they had during the Revolution, and an outpost was formed against their inroads by the establishment of Fort Mitchell erected by militia under General Floyd on the high ground immediately across the Chattahoochee river from the headquarters of the Infantry School. Later the federal government took over the military station and it was occupied by regulars until 1837 as an important center of resistance against hostile red men in the intermittent wars between the United States and the Creeks. This post was on the Federal road, already mentioned, and was an important station for all emigrants who proceeded westwards from the seaboard to build up the lower portions of the Mississippi valley.

THE POST EXCHANGE
The Infantry School
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning, with its diversity of activities, is one of the largest in the Service. It is the ambition of the Exchange to be both the largest and best; best in service, best in supplying officers and troops, at reasonable prices, with all articles not supplied by the Government, best in the minds of all officers and troops that come to this station. The Exchange is not a money-making institution beyond a nominal profit authorized by Post Exchange Regulations. It will be found that the majority of articles offered for sale are sold below the usual retail prices, and this is particularly true with reference to the necessities. As the increase in volume of business has been largely responsible for reduction in prices, and as the Post Exchange was created and exists only for the purpose of serving you, it is our purpose to serve you in such a manner as to further increase our volume, thereby giving your dollar a greater buying power. Every dollar spent with the Post Exchange is of direct benefit to Fort Benning and to you.

The main features of the Post Exchange are:—

Grocery Department

Location: Hall Street and Vibbert Avenue (west of Post Office.)
Hours: 8.00 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.
Phones: 16 and 17.

This department embraces a grocery store and a sanitary meat market. It is the largest activity operated by the Exchange, and is fast becoming the most popular, by virtue of the quality and variety of articles carried and the reasonable prices charged. While a delivery service is maintained for those residing on the Garrison, the majority of the patrons prefer to make their selections personally under the "Self-Service" system. Numbered tickets are provided at the entrance for the use of those making purchases in the meat market, and as these numbers are called by the butchers the patrons present their tickets at the counter where they are served promptly and efficiently. The grocery carries a complete line of staple and fancy groceries, fresh fruits and vegetables. A noteworthy feature is a modern refrigerated candy case, where Martha Washington, Norris, and Bunte candies are sold. Special orders for pastries can be filled on reasonable notice. The meat market handles all varieties obtainable of fresh meats, cooked meats, smoked meats, cheese, butter, eggs, lard, dressed poultry, fish and oysters. The beef offered is superior quality, while "Auburn" and "Sgt. Bennett's" eggs admit of no comparison.

MR. SGT. CHAS. R. BUMFORD
Infantry School Detachment
Grocery Department Steward.

Delivery Service: All orders received by 9:00 a.m., will be delivered on the Garrison by noon. All orders received between 9:00 a. m. and 1:00 p .m., will be delivered the same afternoon.

Filling Station, Tire Repair and Accessory Department.

Location: Wold Avenue (South of Gowdy Field).
Hours: 7: 30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.
Saturdays: 7:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays: 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 Noon.
Phone: 165.

The sale of gasoline, oils, tires, tubes, accessories, and the operation of an efficient tire repair service keeps this department busy. All items are sold at minimum of profit, and at the present time the price of gasoline is nine cents per gallon less than it is in neighboring localities, thereby effecting a considerable saving to the personnel. Standard makes of tires and tubes are sold, and general satiefaction is evidenced by the increase in the volume of business.

Auto Repair Shops, Battery Department, Grease and Wash Racks:

Location: Under Gowdy Field Stand.
Hours: 7:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.
Saturdays: 7:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.
Closed on Sundays and Holidays.
Phone: 177. Emergency night phone 557.

All kinds of repairs on all makes of automobiles, as well as recharging and overhauling batteries, are handled by this department. A competent force of mechanics is retained, and no job is too small or too large for them to handle satisfactorily. The grease and wash racks deserve special comment, as the service rendered is classed as the best in the South.

Soda Fountain

Location: Service Club.
Hours: 10:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.
(Open every day.)

A modern soda fountain; ice cream kept to proper temperature by a frigidaire, fresh roasted peanuts daily, efficient dispensers and courteous service, all tend to make this activtiy a very popular one.

Restaurant

Location: South End of Service Club.
Hours: 7:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.
Sundays: 8:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.

From September to June, the restaurant is always crowded around meal hours, more particularly at noon. This activity was primarily established for the convenience of officers residing in town, and a special noon luncheon is offered at nominal cost. Also, the menu is attractive at all times and the food wholesome.

Main Branch

Location: Under South Stand Doughboy Stadium.
Hours: 7:30 a. m. to 55:00 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays: 7:30 a. m. to 12:00 Noon.
Phone: 226.

Here you find almost all articles necessary for the comfort and convenience of an officer and his family. This activity is very similar to a department store, carrying shoes, hose, haberdashery, toilet articles, insignia, writing materials, all tobaccos, cold drinks, Alligator rain coats, magazines, newspapers and notions.

Gift and Special Order Department: This department is located in the Main Branch, and carries a stock of articles suitable for bridge prizes and gifts, as well as tally cards, greeting cards, place cards, kodaks, kodak films, powders and perfumes, G.E. fans, Hotpoint electrical equipment.; Certain-teed linoleum and Floortex rugs, and Spaulding athletic equipment. This department will order any article which we do not carry in stock, immediately upon receipt of your request. Particular attention is given to articles of jewelry, leather goods, and silverware. For this service you pay only the wholesale price plus freight and a five per cent. profiti The cost of an article will often be less than sixty per cent. of the prevailing retail price.

Shoe and Hat Repair Shop

Location: Under South Stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 7:30 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

The shoe repair shop makes any repair to a shoe or boot that can be made, using the best of materials obtainable. The machinery is modern and the workmen efficient. The hat shop thoroughly repairs, cleans, and re-blocks all tiypes of hats.

Tailor Shop

Location: Under South Stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 8:00 a .m. to 5:00 p. m.

The tailor shop cleans, presses, alters, and makes all repairs to old uniforms and will make any kind of a ne wuniform; whites, serges, gabadines, whipcords or khaki. Tuxedos, dress suits, and riding habits for ladies are also made in this shop.

Office

Location: Under South Stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 8:00 a. m. to 4:300 p. m.
Saturdays: 8:00 to 12:00 Noon.
Phone: 18.

This is the main office, consisting of the administrative personnel of the Exchange, and the accounting department.

In addition to the foregoing department there are sub-exchanges operated in the 29th Infantry area, 24th Infantry area, and at the Station Hospital. The hours kept, and articles carried, are similar to those of the Main Branch, though necessarily the stocks are not as large.

In October, 1925, the Exchange started a vegetable farm just west of the Bradley area. This project has been highly successful and has materially assisted in reducing the cost of vegetables to the consumers. All of the produce of this farm is marketed through the Grocery Department of the Exchange.

The Infantry School News,
Fort Benning, Ga.
Dear Sirs:

On this, the anniversary of your fourth birthday, the El Morro News of the Sixty-fifth Infantry sends heartiest greetings.

As Benning is the Mecca for all Infantry Officers, The News is widely read and appreciated here, especially so as it gives us first hand information on Infantry activities. Your paper is especially valuable in this way to officers away from Fort Benning and must therefore be more general than would an absolutely regimental paper.

We wish for you a most successful year.

With kindest regards, we remain,

BIG PLANTATION IS TRANSFORMED WITHIN SIX YEARS

Construction and Growth Characterize The Infantry School.

A little over six years ago, the big Bussey plantation occupied the plain at the junction of the Upatoi and Chattahoochee on the very spot where once stood the council hall of the Lower Creek peace town of Kashita. Here came the army, to acquire 98,000 acre reservation for the greatest infantry training school in the world. Here came troops, crack demonstration units. Here came fighting doughboys, skilled artillerymen, and ponderous war tanks. Here came officers, skilled instructors in the tactics and technique of the doughboy. Here came officers fresh from West Point, newly commissioned lieutenants from civil life, officers from various "special duty" tasks, officers with combat service overseas. Here began to grow The Infantry School.

Tents dotted the flats where cotton once grew. Motor trucks rumbled along the route of the old Federal Road which Lafayette had followed when he visited the United States in 1825. Wartime barracks of temporary wood construction were erected. Apartment houses sprang up; also of wood. Then the school began to prove its worth as its graduates went out to their scattered posts of duty and revealed by their increased efficiency the value of the training received in the Chattahoochee Valley.

BECOMES PERMANENT

Authorities in Washington converted Camp Benning into a permanent military station and called it "Fort Benning" after that distinguished citizen of Columbus who made a reputation as lawyer, judge, publicist, and Confederate general. The era of progress and permanence had begun.

A brick service Club arose to furnish recreational facilities for the soldiers. A brick mess hall was built near the bachelor officers' apartment building. A sturdy refrigerating plant was erected, and a splendid sanitary and capacious laundry. Finally after four years, funds were allotted for the building of officers' quarters, so that there are now two curving lines of brick and concrete double houses for the commissioned personnel, and a short row of somewhat smaller houses for the Master Sergeants of the garrison.

The War Department decided on a new type of barracks for its military forces. Fort Benning was the first place selected for construction. But funds were low, and it has not been possible to build more than a single wing of a single one of the three great cuartel barracks planned for eventual erection. In the face of legislative and executive programs for governmental economy, it has not been possible to make more than a small amount of progress with the construction, but Fort Benning is still stepping along. Muddy walks and rutted roads abound, even within the interior confines of the living portion of the reservation, though a few stretches of concrete walk and roadway have been finished. A new hospital has been erected, though the full structure is not complete and the existing space is only half of what the garrison requires. For Benning is not a settled place. It is still growing.

NEED FOR MORE BUILDINGS

There are still hosts of temporary, war-time, five year buildings, still being made to do the best they can as shelter from sun in the summer and cold weather in winter. There are plantation huts transformed into quarters for high grade non-commissioned officers. There are rambling bungalows, built by temporary students officers for temporary eight month's occupancy out of personal funds, and still used to shelter officers and gentlemen, in spite of leaking rooms, wavy floors, warping window sashes, and gaping wall joints. A collection of tents was boarded up, it was floored, it was roofed, five years ago, and lieutenants of the army and their families are still living in "temporary" structures.

Some day construction work will go ahead at Fort Benning, and when it does there will be a tremendous amount of construction to be done. Two regiments, two battalions, in fact nearly the entire 5,000 enlisted strength of the garrison is inadequately housed. Colonels occupy Captains' quarters while the captains shift as best they may in wooden war buildings. A valuable library is housed in an inflamable structure. Expensive motor equipment will have to be sheltered in decent garages instead of the shaky sheds that are frequently devoyed by wind storms or by wires.

RECREATION PROJECTS

When government funds were insufficient to provide even the most necessary installations, there seemed small hope of anything being done to improve recreational and athletic facilities. Consequently the Benning personnel decided to do the jobs of that sort themselves, and started what is called the "Recreation Center Project," provided with voluntary contributions from Benning students of the past and the present, and with substantial thousand-dollar gifts from infantry regiments of the army, added by donations from certain artillery and cavalry organizations. They used the money to purchase cement and steel. Soldiers of the garrison went out and dug sand and gravel from the reservation, and cut timber from the forests.

Construction began, and soon steel and concrete baseball stands began to rise, to make Gowdy Field one of the finest modest sized baseball diamonds in the country, capable of seating 4,000 fans in comfort. More stands began to go up, and soon the football stadium was completed, capable of holding 10,000 gridiron rooters in a great memorial erected by the army to the doughboys of the World War. Other portions of the reservation saw signs of activity, and a huge moving picture theater approached completion, with a thousand seats on its 160 foot sloping floor. A great gymnasium came into being to provide a regulation large court for the Infantry basketball teams and for the physical training instruction of student officers. A new Post Exchange is planned, and a spacious Officers' Club. Drawings are complete for the children's school where the sons and daughters of garrison personnel may pursue their studies, no longer in an old converted mess hall, but in a suitable building of concrete construction.

Other new structures to be erected with government funds include barracks for the canvas-housed troops, apartments of modern design for bachelor officers, houses for the permanent officers of the academic and troop units, lecture halls and administrative offices for the headquarters, storage buildings for ammunition, and shelter for motor and animal transportation.

Mr. Bussey would never recognize his farm today. But Benning has only started its growth, and the visitor ten years hence will fin dthe finest post in the army as the construction proceeds.

29TH INF.

REG. HDQRS. CO.

Cpl. Harrison, our delegate to the Signal School, left last Wednesday for Fort Monmouth, N. J., where he will take the nine months' course for Telephone and Telegraph Electricians.

A few promotions in the company company during the past two weeks: Pfc. Devoice and Keenan to grade of Corporals, and Pvts. Harbin, Webb, Wilson and Yankowsky to grade of Pvts. First Class.

Sgt. Asher returned from re-enlistment furlough after spending three months in the wild and wooly hills of Kentucky. We welcome him back to civilization. Only two years, eight months, and a butt!

Sgt. Lindsey has been stepping out quite a bit lately—Columbus bound almost every night. Wonder who the attraction is. And talking about high steepers, have you seen "Red" Keenan and his new Essex?

Lieut. Sherfy returned Saturday from his three months' leave of absence.

A rumor is afloat that 1st Sgt. Walsh will be leaving us soon. He will be discharged Sept. 25, and intends to spend his next and last enlistment with the 33rd Inf. in Panama. We wish him the best of luck if he goes, but hope he changes his mind during the next few days.

—B. O'Loughlen.

HOWITZER CO.

We notice that Civilians are not the only ones that move on September 1st. Lieutenants Matthews and Smythe have joined the Howitzer Co. for duty. How fortunate we are in getting them into our organization.

The silver platter is still making its rounds. Furloughs were given the following men during the past week: Cpl. Davis, Pfcs. Serritella, Wooten, Fisher, Greggs and Ellsmore.

"Red" Lindsey is a lucky guy, I'll say. The heavyweight champion of Ft. Benning has unexpectedly been discharged. (minority) He'll be back when he has grown up—so, consider matters before re-up Red.

Evidently the high cost of living means nothing to Sgt. Green. While on furlough our platoon sergeant decided to settle down and so took on the bonds of matrimony. Good luck to you "ole timer." May the cigars be plentiful.

—Theodore T. Carter.

1ST BN. HQ. CO.

Sgt. Rambole, our lightweight Supply Sergeant, is getting the full benefit of all double time during the training schedule now in force in the Regiment.

Sgt. Justice, our Battaltion Clerk, is another that has a chance to brush up on the training of a soldier this month. He leaves the company street at 8:00 A. M. and returns to his typewriter at 11:30 A. M. and says he loves it.

—Clinon Perkins.

COMPANY "A"

George Bramlett has been pestered recently by phone calls from the fairer sex. As no one has heard of his falling heir to any money we believe that the new hair tonic he is trying out is having the desired effect.

Sgt. Martin has returned from recruiting service with one recruit to his credit. Good for you, Martin, even if you did have to marry her.

"Peanuts" Beck must have a large capacity for milk if the number of milk checks he is carrying around with him is any indication.

—Powell.

COMPANY "B"

Companies desiring practice games of basketball will call 521 and ask for Corporal M. E. Morris. We are very desirous of having a few of these games as we are out for the Regimental Championship.

"B" Co. has again won the Blue Pennant and it seems we can't help it when we go out for it.

Now that the baseball season is over we wonder what excuse our Mess Sergeant will have to use his car. No doubt football will be his alibi.

—Joseph Cusenza.

COMPANY "C"

Pvt. Lansberger returned from week end pass Monday morning entering upon his duties as a soldier. Go to it, Lansberger, we think you will make the West Point grade.

C Company is enjoying the minor principles of close order drill, each movement is being thoroughly discussed, explained, and demonstrated. If the members of this organization apply themselves there is no doubt that C Company will be the best drilled company in the regiment, its instructors know their "stuff" even though they did drill at cadence of approximately 220 per minute.

—L. B. Hughes.

COMPANY "D"

Pvt. Lidour, the recreation room orderly, and the sheik of North Highlands, is smiling at every one he meets since he got his watch that the company presented him for the highest score in the company. He says he's going to step out now and he doesn't mean maybe; look out pawn shops.

Well, we lost one of our old timers. Kontz Alexander. He transferred to the Infantry School Detachment. We all wish him good luck and success with his Instructions.

Our slow motion McGaha is now in the hospital. It's only the effects of trying to dance the dance of the dying duck.

Our wonderful student bugler, Pvt. Long, broke the orderly room water cooler the other day, it was only $5.00 that took wings and flew away.

Pvt. L. J. Harrison has bought himself a new typewriter. Pvt. Nole thinks it is a young piano and has it borrowed half of the time trying to play Home, Sweet Home.

—Monan & Weyer.

COMPANY "E"

We regret to inform the regiment that our best men, one of which is a company clerk and the other a most famous baseball player, are discharged, and they are Sgt. Arthur W. Seabury and Sergeant Kahler Durbin.

Our friend, Tony Launikitis is very anxious to be made Sergeant. We were always wondering why he is always sticking around the orderly room, now we know the reason. Atta boy, Tony, we will help you sew on the stripes.

The company is strutting its stuff on close order drill, in other words, the stuff is strutting itself; therefore open your peepers and watch some real close order drill.

—Jesse L. Taylor.

COMPANY "F"

Phillips gets his discharge on minority and says, "I don't want it; let me stay." We believe it—like —.

We thought we had a good shot in the company but his paltry 328 fades into obscurity at Sgt. Washington's score of 363! We wonder what method of scoring was used if this was made with the rifle.

"Shorty" Wilkinson says that, with just three more days of calisthenics, he will be able to out-run and lick any man in the outfit.

Ain't drill grand? We might venture to say that fully three-quarters of the company have not had as much drill as we are getting now since they were graduated from recruit drill, but with the old "F" Company "pep", we are coming right along.

"Alamo" Randall, one of our best cooks, is planning o nstaying with us. It has not rained for 8 1-4 months in his home county, so most of the steers have died off, but anything is likely to happen in Texas.

Pvt. Lockhart has been transferred to the I. S. D. to give them a hand at Post Headquarters, he will make good.

—O .W. Nelson.

COMPANY "H"

Athletics have seemed to subside for a while. The Company Team played the Howitzer Company yesterday and lost the decision of the umpire. It seems that umpires are still trying to be the paramount object in the athletic events. The score was 10 to 3. The team wishes to challenge the same team for a game next Sunday, game to be played at the south end of the Parade Ground.

There have been quite a number of promotions in the company during the past week. Those promoted to the grade of Corporal are: Harkey, DePratt, Shettles and Ball. Every one in the company is glad to see these fine young men, who stand for efficiency, integrity and reliability, reach this point in their journey to the top. We are sure that wise judgment was used in choosing thes men for the vacancies, for they are men of high calibre. Private McRae was promoted to the grade of Private First Class. Private Specialist Sixth Class Parsons was promoted to the grade of Private First Class. Private First Class Kuzmiske was rated Specialist Sixth Class. Pfc. Sp. 6-cl Pharr was rated Specialist Fourth Class.

Quartermaster Corps

The Quartermaster is pleased to announce the 100 per cent. enrollment membership for the Athletic Association of the Quartermaster officers and enlsted men. This includes the Quartermaster Detachment, M. R. S. 86, Motor Transport 100.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces open competitive examinations for the positions listed. From the registers resulting from these examinations, certificates will be made to fill existing and future vacancies at Fort Benning, Georgia. Examination forms can be secured at the Quartermaster's office or the Post Office, Columbus, Ga.:

Boilermaker (Locomotive), Carpenter, Concrete Worker, Electrician, Engineer (Locomotive), Fireman (Stationary), Foreman (Road), Foreman (Roofer), Gardener, Helper (Plumber), Helper (Sheet Metal Wrker), Ice Plant Operator, Linesman (Electrical), Machinist (Locomotive), Mason (Brick), Painter, Plumber, Pressman, Pump Operator, Sheet Metal Worker, Substation Operator, Tinner.

The Quartermaster is designated as the officer in charge of vocational training, and applications will be received for the following courses:

Automotive Repair Work (Shop), Automobile vehicle operation, Brick laying, Carpentry, Concrete work (Reinforced, Roads and Walks), Horticulture, Logging, Painting, Printing, Roas Construction, Sawmill Activity, Plumbig, Steam Fitting, Electrical House Wiring, Stationary Steam Engineering, Stationary Fireman, Locomotive Engineering, Locomotive Fireman, Blacksmithing, Lathe Work, Sheet Metal Work.

The Quartermaster has prepared the courses named above in various activities to take care of an indefinite number of students. These courses are so arranged that the student may start at any time. It is the opinion of the Quartermaster that a soldier desiring to learn any of the above trades can complete a course in two years, equal to an apprenticeship in civil life that would require four years. The reason for this is that in many instances, an apprentice is not allowed the privilege of going ahead and masterig the trade in accordance with his own ability, as he does not have access to the tools and equipment. With individual effort, the opportunity that the Quartermaster has mapped out in any of the above courses will be well worth-while to any soldier, whether he desires to remain in the army service, or again take up civil life.

Ye Olde Printe Shoppe Gossipe.

"Johnnie" Heisler, premier of army linotype operators, than whom there is no whomer among army field printing circles, has the record for publicity in the shop. This muchly photographed young man has had his topography adorn most of the leading military publications and one of the Columbus dailies, and were it not for the fact that it was a view of his back instead of his pleasing front that was published, the writer does not doubt that Johnnie's mail would exceed the staggering proportions of a movie shiek's fan mail. Johnnie is one of the neatest of soldiers, and together with Corporal "Shep" Blizzard, he has the market cornered in magnetic personality.

This activity has a complete turnover of personnel every calendar year; competent workmen are rare, and we have been yelping for men incessatly. Now, our force is to be reduced to five men, and what with orders increasing with the new school season, we are pausing at this moment for long deferred reverence for General Sherman. He knew whereof he spoke.

And one of the three wise men came unto one Pee Wee Webster(known as the Hot Papa Shiek of Girard, Alabama), saying unto him in a loud voice: "Wine is a mocker and strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceiveth thereby is not wise."

So saying, the Wise Men departed therefrom, and came no more.

For verily it is written that the fruits of evil are costly and the wages of sin is death.

Transportation Branch

The many friends of Mr. Oscar Nance, Freight and Passenger Clerk extend to him their most heartfelt sympathy on the death of his wife which occurred September 9th, at Asheville, N. C., after a lingering illness of approximately 18 months. The funeral was held Sunday, September 11th, at Whitmeir, S. C.

Mr. J. L. Patrick, railroad track foreman, starts on his leave this week. He expects to have a very enjoyable time with his old boyhood chums in Texas.

The Freight and Passenger station now being erected by the Central of Geoorgia Railway Company is about 50 per cent. completed. It is expected that this station will be completed and ready to handle business by October 1st.

The first Student Special for the 1926-1927 Class left the Post Office this A. M. at 7:30 for Hook Range. Four or five sections will be added to this train by January 1st, 1927.

Utilities Department

Well, the new barracks have started to commence. The contractor is calling for sand, and the old Gravel Washer has been put on a strictly sand basis in consequence. All chickens needing gravel will have to scratch their own for awhile.

Miss M. M. (Mile-a-Minute) Zettler, our charming young stenographer is about the celebrate the anniversary of her birth. She won't tell us how old she is, but we are sure that she won't vote for a long time yet.

Wonder what becomes of all the fish that are caught on these week-end fishing parties? Any number of people have promised to "bring you in a mess"—but so far, we haven't seen any.

The young lady sat by the telephone and answered it all day long. "The plumber will come in an hour or two; what is it? please, that is wrong. We haven't any of that today. The kitchen window won't close, The Captain is out for his exercise. No, we don't issue hose. Just write a note to the Colonel, please. Hand me that order blank. He says that he has the hammer and nails if we can give him a plank. The painter will get to your job next week. Was that the thing to say?" This is simply a specimen of the regular Utilities day.

86th Motor Repair Section

One-half of the section goes to Camp Jessup the latter part of this week for the purpose of bringing back three G. M. C. Ambulances and four White trucks that will be added to our collection of ancient models.

Monthly Cost Reports of Operations show that considerable less new parts and material are being used, compared to former periods. The difference is more than two thousand dollars per month. While new methods of cost accounting and the "Unit Replacement System" partially accounts for this difference, it is largely the result of the efforts of Sergeant Lester Lawrence, I. S. D., Shop Foreman and Inspector, who carefully scrutinizes all shop requisitions and permits the issue of new material only where old parts can not be used to advantage.

Property Branch

We are very glad to report that Mrs. J. K. Rogers has returned to duty after an illness of several days. She can hardly be seen behind the enormous pile of papers that accumulated during her absence. Mr. E. A. Binns, who is also employed in the M. R. Section, has been on leave for about ten days, and with such depleted personnel the M. R. Section has had very hard sledding during the past week.

Ex-Pvt. Wiley C. Chandler dropped by to inform us that he was a civilian again and that he was bidding Fort Benning a fond goodbye for the next ninety days. He has just reenlisted for another hitch at Fort Benning, but believes in taking his furlough when he can get it. It is understood he plans to motor to Asheville, N. C., with his family.

Mrs. Talbot advises us that she spent the weekend in the country and that there are now several friers less running around the yard.

If the Student Officers Class ever gets settled and if the 'phone ever stops ringing we might find time to catch a few normal breaths. The number of calls for delivery of M. R. property and household goods, as well as the number of sales of supplies other than commissaries, to the new arrivals has been exceedingly heavy during the past two weeks.

Commissary.

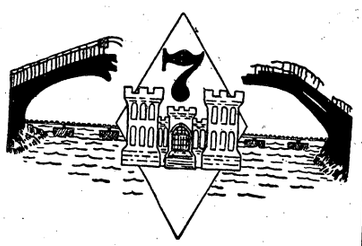
Busy! Busy! Busy! that is the word at the Commissary. The new faces (student officers and families) have been in evidence since the first of the month. Keeps the clerks behind the counter jumping to even keep halfway up with the orders.

Private George Troxwell has been detailed for duty as sales clerk at the Commissary, replacing Private Miller.

Quartermaster Laundry.

Holidays and a bunch of new customers do not make life at the Laundry any snap. Mr. Blair certainly has to keep on the move and even at that we are running fully two days behind schedule. Our motto is to ride the job and not let the job ride you—therefore, some time in the near future we expect to be caught up again and have the new customers as well as the old ones wearing a smile as they get their weeks wash.

Our foreman, Mr. Wm. Medley, and one of the office clerks, Miss Florence Moore, are away on leave, which adds to our troubles. Two weeks are not so long if you think of it quickly, but by actual time spent on anothers job it seems a month. However, we wish them both a very pleasant trip.



Staff Sergeant Allison has returned from showing the Sesquicentennial Exposition his family. Evidently the capacity of the Ford was a bit insufficient for the Sarge was discovered at the Map Plant measuring the draftsman's Mack truck.

The new mess hall has progressed so far that it is now being used for meals. The beans seem to taste better since the mess kits have been junked.

We note that the sportsmanship of the Gas Bums, in declining to re-play a game which had been thrown out on a technicality, was thought worthy of editorial approbation and praise. An editorial should also be printed showering a few bouquets on Carpentier for his sportsmanship in not seeking a return match with Dempsey.

Corporal Blevins, the ranking corporal of the army, has received his diploma as carpenter from the I. C. S. and has been relieved from the Reproduction Plant for a few weeks in order that the building program may be sped up. While in the Map Plant the corporal added greatly to the sum of scientific knowledge by resting his hand in a solution of Sodium Hydroxide. He will not repeat the experiment.

Private First Class Herbert, Expert Rifleman, is sojourning in the hospital after an operation for appendicities. Another member of the "Speaking of Operations" Club.

J. Norman Palmer has returned from his holidays spent in the mump ward. His next childish disease will be infantile paralysis.

Mrs. Cottontop had been watching the new neighbors who had just moved in across the street. With a sigh she turned to old Ezra and said, "Paw, do you know, half this world doesn't know how the other half lives?"

"Well, don't blame yourself, Ma," replied old Ezra, reaching for his hat, "It isn't your fault."

"MAP-MAKING A LA MODE"

Now that Germany is safely entered in the League of Nations and all danger of a renewal of hostilities seems to be permanently averted the Map Reproduction Plant of the Seventh Engineers feels safe in drawing a deep breath of relief and dismounting from the all too compact Mack Trucks, in which it has been housed since it sprang full panoplied from the fertile brain of Major Kirby during the well-known World War.

All of which is just an introduction to the fact that the Field Lithographing

Plant—or the Engineer Reproduction Plant (Mobile) to give its official name—operated by the Seventh Engineers at Fort Benning for the convenience of the Infantry School, is to move into specially designed building, constructed along lines similar to those of the "big plant" in Washington, D. C. This new plant, which will fill a long felt want in the routine of the Academic Department, is made possible by the earnest cooperation of the Infantry, Quartermaster Corps and Corps of Engineers. While the Engineers are furnishing the technical equipment and the trained personnel for operating the plant and supervising its construction, the Infantry is supplying the man-power necessary in erecting the buildings and the Quartermaster is finding some of the needed material; all backed up by the friendly authority of a heartily interested Commandant.

The old truck train—an integral part of "Major Kirby's Circus," that churned up the mud in the sodden fields of France and helped to put the A. E. F. on the map—is being quietly "furloughed to the reserve" to enjoy a rest, well earned, not only in France, but also at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition in Rio de Janeiro in 1922.

By mid-winter the new plant should be operating at full capacity and presenting just another phase of "Johnny Buck" enacting his well known role of "Jack of All Trades." New equipment, being shipped here by the Chief of Engineers, will make possible the employment of strictly modern methods of Photo-Lithography and eliminate all of the uncertainties of the old pre-war zincographic processes.

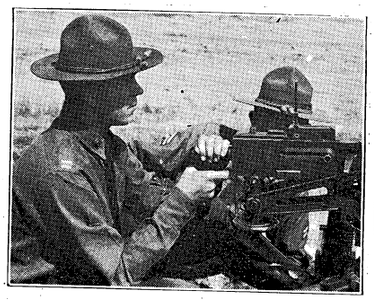
The new "Photo-Lit" process is very, very simple. That is why so few people understand it. To begin with, a beautiful map is prepared by an Instructor in the Academic Department and sent to the Map Plant with the request that five hundred or perhaps twenty-five hundred copies be made "by tomorrow morning at eight A. M." Promptly a specially designed camera and printing frame photographs the map on a zinc or aluminum plate, which is then fastened to a cylinder in a big rotary press. As this cylinder rotates it comes in contact with a set of felt "dampener" rollers which keep the body of the plate thoroughly wet. These felt rollers draw water from a fountain attached to the press. After passing the water rollers the plate comes in contact with a set of leather, "ink" rollers. The "ink" rollers deposit a greasy ink upon the outline of the map which has been photographed on the plate; but do not leave any ink on the rest of the plate for the good reason that the rest of the plate is covered with water—and greasy ink is like the average "small boy" in its intense dislike for water. After passing the water and ink rollers the zinc or aluminum plate comes in contact with another large cylinder, which carries a sheet of blank paper. The two cylinders meet under considerable pressure and the result is an exact copy of the Instructor's beautiful map on the originally blank sheet of paper. The two cylinders meet on an average of 1000 times an hour—and, all things being equal, and provided the pressman has a "rabbit's foot" in his pocket, the job should be finished in time to present another problem to a harried class of students at 8:00 A. M. the following morning.

And now that you seem to be interested in the thing I will try and dissipate a favorite delusion of the non-technical "hoi polloi." No doubt the average reader will assume from my free and easy description that no matter how many colors the Instructor may employ in his map, the whole thing will be run off in one trip through the press. Not so—for every color in the original map a separate plate must be made. When the required number of sheets have been run through for one color a new plate is fastened on the press and the sheets are run through again for the next color. So, therefore, some maps must go through the press as many as five or six times. This makes necessary a very nice accuracy in "feeding" the map sheets into the press to insure that each color prints in the proper place.

To more impressively illustrate the extreme simplicity of the "Photo-Lit" process I will add that: the average lithographer must be an expert draftsman; a trained photographer; have a working knowledge of organic and inorganic chemistry; have as much natural love for machinery as the owner of a second-hand Ford; and be virtously immune to the insidious seductions of "grain alcohol."

Trained lithographers are so uncommon, even among civilians, that every man in the local plant had to be trained in the Army by soldier-lithographers, and it may be of interest to Benningites to know that the only other plant in the State of Georgia, capable of handling work of the size required by the Infantry School is located in the city of Atlanta.

Captain J. F. C. Hyde, Commanding Officer of the Seventh Engineers and Officer in Charge of the Engineer Reproduction Plant, intends to furnish to students at Benning a class of lithographic work in keeping with the high standards of the School of Infantry; a class of work in keeping with the traditions of the Corps of Engineers—mappers to the Army of the United States since the remotely remembered days of the Corps of Topographical Engineers.



CAPTAIN KENNON ELECTED MAYOR OF HOME TOWN

National Guard Officer Chosen By Townsfolk During His Course Here.

Captain Robert F. Kennon, of the Louisiana National Guard, while taking the National Guard and Reserve Officers' Course at the Infantry School, was elected Mayor of his home town, Minden, La.

Captain Kennon has been an active military fan for some time. At Louisiana State University where he played tennis and football and won his "L" and was a member of the Student Council, he was a captain in the Reserve Officers Training Corps, training his company to such perfection it won the annual trophy for the best drilled compay. Graduating in June, 1925, he returned to his home and immediately organized a machine gun company in the Louisiana National Guard.

His townsfolk were so impressed by his demonstration of leadership in things military, that they have elected him their mayor, even though he has been absent since March first, during the peak of the political campaign, specializing in machine gun work at the Infantry School. In spite of his youth (he is now only 22 years of age), he defeated Mayor Connell Fort in a close race by 360-303, although the latter has been incumbent of the office for seven terms.

PEOPLE WE ADMIRE

INCIDENT FROM EARLY CAREER OF ONE OF OUR OWN OFFICERS

When a certain General was a mere brigadier, in command of the U. S. troops in the Philippines, a favorite form of recreation among the officers and families of the headquarters post was to engage in "Transport joy rides". Every week, an Army Transport made the rounds of the islands and its schedule allowed its passengers to visit a different post for almost every meal during the entire seven days, Army chivalry made these uninvited guests the visitors of each mess.

Came suddenly an Inspector General from Washington, and in going over some accounts he stumbled upon an item showing that a certain lieutenant had a bill at the commissary larger than his month's pay. This meant but one thing to him—the officer was buying stores at commissary cut rates and reselling the mat higher prices. The Brigadier was at once apprised of his subordinate's apparent dereliction.

Immediately the General wrote to the offender, demanding instant explanation. Which was just what the offender was waiting for. Back came this answer: "The large commissary account in question has been caused by the necessity of purchasing food to feed the numerous uninvited guests, their families and friends who have been present at my mess in the past month.

"The names of these uninvited guests are subjoined herewith, together with number of free meals eaten by each Those people with an 'X' after their names said 'Thank you'. The others said nothing."

At the head of the list was the name of the Brigadier-General. And there was no "X" after it. The investigation was dropped.—The New Yorker.

48 YEARS SERVICE TO COLUMBUS

Registration of pupils intending to enter the school for the children of the garrison will take place in the school building on Monday, September 20th, beginning at eight a. m. Examination of pupils conditioned at the close of the last term will also be held at the same place on that date.

Miss Annie Lou Grimes, who has been the principal of the school for the past five years, will continue in that capacity, and will also have the First Grade. Miss Grimes has made a thorough study of the Montessori system, and has completed post-graduate work at the Summer sessions of Columbia University, New York. Miss Albena Schimek will conduct the classes in the Third Grade, and this will mark her fourth year with the garrison school. Miss Schimek is a graduate of the Georgia State Normal School, has taken advanced studies at the University of Virginia, and has taught in the Public Schools of Columbus. The classes in the Fourth and Fifth Grades will be under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Mizell, who has been on the school staff for the past two years. Miss Mizell is a graduate of Hollins College, Virginia, and has taken post-graduate work at Columbia University.

The tuition fees established last year for both Kindergarten and Grade School will be maintained for the coming sessions. The age limit for the Kindergarten class will be from three and a half years up to five years.

WAR LINOTYPE IS STILL WORKING FOR UNCLE SAM

(By William W. Ellison.)

From printing peace treaties in Paris to setting up copy for an army pamphlet on how to lunge and thrust and stab with a bayonet is beating plowshares into swords with a vengeance.

Yet that is part of the life history of Linotype No. 22,551, now in operation at the Infantry School Printing Shop at Fort Benning.

This machine went overseas like any doughboy and was used at the Chaumont headquarters of the A. E. F., setting up General Pershing's general orders and citations for heroism in action against the Germans. Later it did its bit transforming copy into type for "The Stars and Stripes", the daily newspaper of the A. E. F.

Then when President Wilson and his diplomats gathered in Paris for the peace conference, the veteran linotype was put to work assisting in getting out the Treaty of Versailles, which determined the exact peace between Germany and the allied and associated powers.

When the plenipotentiaries came home and the olive branch had been waved to the satisfaction of the pacifists, the diminished American forces in France brought their "Daddy" machine home with them. In the course of time it was shipped down to Georgia to assist in the work of the Infantry School.

At Fort Benning it has no such palatial quarters as was the case in Paris. The historic machine inherited the corner of a shaky old dairy barn equipped with a concrete floor. Here it has been and is turning out pamphlets for the leaders of soldiery in future conflicts for the defense of America.

"FOLLOW ME"

Our good friend of the Q. M. C., Captain Engles, whose verse tribute to the Infantryman we published in our Christmas number, sends the following sentiment to boost along the Infantry Song contest, in which we are trying to help the Infantry Journal:

"THE DOUGHBOYS S. O. S."

Get out your pens and pencils—
And concentrate your mind.
To help compose a March Song—
Just send in any kind.
Don't be afraid to write one—
Get busy, make up some.
Who knows, it may be just the thing—
And then our trouble's gone.

The Field Artillery sings about—
Those Caissons rolling on,
And the Cavalry delight you
With their good old "Garry-On."
So why not get together—
You doughboys of the line,
You surely ought to formulate—
A good old snappy rhyme.

BOSTON TO FORT MONROE VIA NEW YORK

Some time ago an officer of the C. A. C. en route to Fort Monroe to school from Boston ran over a drunk, who staggering out from behind a passing car in the suburbs of New York. He had mailed an application for full coverage to us before leaving Boston.

We received telegraphic notice of the accident before his application for insurance was received and notified our New York attorneys. His protection dated from postmark on his application.

The officer proceeded on his way and took no further notice of the matter. We closed the case by compromise and had the suit withdrawn, knowing that juries usually hold the car owner to blame when a pedestrian is injured, no matter what the circumstances of the case may prove to be.

Have you protection against PERSONAL LIABILITY? Examine your policy, if you have one; if not, write us without delay.

There have been an average of 42 personal injuries by automobiles per day for the past three years in the United States. You may have one any time.

We can protect you against loss of time, worry and money at an astonishingly small cost.

NATIONAL DISTINCTION FOR A COLUMBUS PAPER AND ITS ABLE EDITOR

Pulitzer Prize Awarded Mr. Julian Harris for Brave Editorial Policy.

Announcement was made May 3, 1926 that the Pulitzer gold medal for the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by an American newspaper during 1925 had been awarded to the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun, of which Mr. Julian Harris is editor. The judges announced that the award was made for the newspaper's "brave and energetic fight against the Ku Klux Klan, against the enactment of a law barring the teaching of evolution, against dishonest and incompetent public officials, against lynching and for justice to the negro."

This award constitutes the highest compliment and the most signal recognition that can come to any American newspaper, and that the medal should go to the editor of the Columbus morning newspaper was not only a great honor to the editor but a notable civic event; Columbus, one of the smaller cities of the country, as cities go, having the distinction of being the place of publication of the newspaper receiving the Pulitzer medal.

Since announcement of the award, nation-wide comment has been made by the press and Columbus prestige naturally has been enhanced through the many articles published in daily and weekly newspapers and in magazines relative to The Enquirer-Sun and its editorial policy. —(The Industrial Index.)

DRAMATIC AWAKENING OF THE ENQUIRER-SUN IN LAST FIVE YEARS

Columbus Morning Newspaper Became Nationally Famous Under Distinguished Editorship.

Back in 1828 a newspaper was established down in Columbus and for nearly one hundred years appeared regularly without winning more than strictly local recognition. It enjoyed alternate periods of prosperity and adversity and in 1921 had fallen into a state of innocuous desuetude. Its subscription list had dwindled to a few hundred and its influence was negligible. Less than five years later this same paper was awarded the Pulitzer prize for the most courageous public service rendered by any newspaper in America. The Columbus Enquirer-Sun is the paper; and Julian Harris, its editor and general manager, is the man responsible for the resurrection of the moribound sheet.

But who is the man and why did the paper jump thus suddenly into the spotlight? Mr. Harris is a native Georgian of many years experience in journalism; a Plattsburger of 1917, and an Officer of Military Intelligence during the war. Originally known chiefly as the son of Joel Chandler Harris, of Uncle Remus Fame, he has since made people forget his illustrious parentage and think of him only in terms of what he has accomplished on his own account. And the Enquirer-Sun has become atinonally famous because it has faithfully reflected theaims of its editor as expressed on the editorial page: "To contribute as much as it may to the life, growth and cultural development of the community, the state and the nation. It knows no classes, recognizes no interests, seeks no favors, but shall strive to merit the public's confidence, respect and support."

Mr. Harris came to the Enquirer Sun as an associate of the late Thomas Loyless, onetime editor of the Augusta Chroncile, widely known as one of Georgia's foremost journalists. Within a year Mr. Loyless retired on account of ill health and Harris carried on alone. Immediately things began to hum. Unswerving hostility to the Ku Klux Klan, which he fought with all the power of his facile pen; a determined fight against mob rule and injustice to the negro; and a studied disrespect for some of the ancient shiboleths worshipped by old line Georgians, brought down upon Mr. Harris the wrath and indignation of many, but even his opponents have never questioned his sincerity. Thus the Sun has steadily grown in influence and prestige, as well as in circulation and advertising value, until now its position is secure.

As for the paper itself, it carries full Associated Press service and its feature news stories by such writers as John W. Hammond are on a par with those of the best of the larger papers. Its sport page, conducted by Hayti Thompson, carries full accounts of local and national sporting events. It maintains throughout the year a representative at Fort Benning and covers the activities of the garrison fully and in detail. But its editorial page is the feature of the paper and therein lies its main strength. Besides the pointed and timely comments of Mr. Harris, it carries from time to time literary comments and criticisms by Mrs. Julia Collier Harris, wife of the editor, who has worked shoulder to shoulder with her husband and contributed in no small degree to the growth of the paper. Then there are the "Home Brew" column of W. H. Tucker, and the "Good Morning" of W. C. Woodall, which are filled with catchy and witty paragraphs anent local and state items of more than pssing interest.

The Enquirer-Sun is undoubtedly one of the show institutions of Columbus and deserves the strong support it is getting from Columbus and Fort Benning.

"FOLLOW ME"

Arthur Brisbane says: "At last American soldiers are no longer to be suffocated in hot weather and choked all year round by idiotic stiff cloth uniform collars that have hitherto cramped their necks and interferred with the action of the pneumogastric nerve—which runs from the stomach to the brain, up through the neck, back of the great blood vessel, and should never endure pressure."

FROM THE VOLGA TO THE UPATOI

When Johnny Buck went to the movies last week, he came away from the show saying he knew the proper name for the pontoniering Seventh Engineers. He is now going to call every one of them he meets: "The Vulgar Boatman".

COLUMBUS IRON WORKS COMMANDEERED BY CONFEDERATE FORCES

Historic Local Industry Made Cannon and Guns for Southern Army.

Organized in 1853 and incorporated three years later the Columbus Iron Works Company is near seventy-five years old. Established by the late W. R. Brown this big Columbus industry has a notable record dating from the important part it played in activities of the Civil war in the early sixties.

Immediately following the outbreak of the war the entire plant was commandeered by the Confederate government, and for four years was used in the manufacture of various war material, including cannon, shrapnel, etc. Two gunboats were also in course of construction at the time when the city was captured by the federal army, at the close of the war.

During that long war period the plant was known as the "Naval Iron Works," but later the cessation of hostilities a reorganization occurred and the original name of the company was restored—Columbus Iron Works Co.

GREAT SUCCESS

From the first the enterprise was a success, there being a ready market for its products which were varied. After the war it began manufacturing other machinery, products to be used in reconstruction activities and very soon enlargements became necessary.

The Columbus Iron Works had the distinction of successfully manufacturing the first commercial ice machine in the United States, this accomplishment giving it outstanding prominence in the industrial world of Georgia. It may not be generally known, but the plant is now also manufacturing the absorption type of machine, although the principal efforts of the management are being directed to the compresssion type.

For about fifty years the plant, employing a large number of skilled workers and contributing much to the weekly payrolls of the city, was in control of the Brown family. Following the retirement and subsequent death of Mr. Brown, the late Captain George B. Whitsides assumed sole managemnet, making improvements from time to time as increasing demands justified.

In 1902 the Teague family of Montgomery purchased a controlling interest in the plant, the late A. J. Teague being made president. For twenty odd years the Teagues were in charge, Fred W. Teague succeeding his brother following the latter's death. During this period R. S. Teague was vice president and H. I. Struppa secretary-treasurer.

THE BIG FIRE

Destroyed in the great fire of 1902, the plant was immediately rebuilt on a larger scale and was very soon in full operation again. The conflagration was one of the largest and most serious in the history of Columbus.

As is known, in the fall of 1925 the Teague family sold their interest to W. J. Bradley who became president of the company and majority stockholder. Fred W. Teague is still manager and the plant has been improved and further enlarged under the new administration.

ELECTRIC COMPANY OF COLUMBUS, GA. WINS WIDE RENOWN

Forbes Public Service Prize Awarded Local Concern Which Builds Bartlett's Ferry Dam.

Announcement was made May 13, 1926, by Forbes Magazine that the Columbus Electric and Power Company had won second place in the Forbes Public Service Contest, the Nebraska Power Company taking first and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company taking third. The Industrial Index says: "This was the second distinguished national honor that came to Columbus in May, 1926, and naturally has been the source of much civic pride. Coming so soon after announcement of the Pulitzer Award to a Columbus editor, it had all the quality of the dramatic. The award of the Forbes cup is based on service, the general spirit and the policy which characterizes the company's relations with the public at all times. The judges had in mind particularly the record of the company during the unprecedented drought of the summer and fall of 1925 in the Southeast, when the company demonstrated its keen sense of obligation to its patrons by spending over seven hundred thousand dollars to keep the wheels of its customers turning during a period when other sections were losing millions of dollars by curtaiment and the forced shutting down of factories through loss of power."

The Columbus Electric and Power Company is owner and operator of the Bartlett's Ferry Dam, on the Chattahoochee River north of Columbus, the first unit of which went into service on January 24, 1926, the largest hydro-electric plant in west Georgia. Developing 80,000 horse power, the Bartlett's Ferry Dam is one of the largeest hydro-power developments ever made in the South, with a capacity exactly twice that of the famous Goat Rock Dam, also north of Columbus and owned by the same company—a dam which was notable in its day. The height of the dam is 150 feet to the walkway, and 120 feet to the effective head, with 21 gates and four automatic siphons in the spillway. The dam is 2,000 feet long, and the pond it creates covers 6,000 acres or nearly ten square miles. A 110,000-volt transmission line connects with the installations of the Central Georgia Power Company at Manchester, Ga., and the Columbus Electric ad Power Company furnishes power over a wide territory, hitching in also with the Alabama Power Company and the Georgia Railway and Power Company's systems.

INDUSTRIAL INDEX FEATURE WEEKLY OF COLUMBUS CITY

Periodical Covering Industrial and Building of Southeast Adds Fame To City at Garrison Gate.

One of the most widely known Columbus, Georgia, institutions is The Industrial Index, a weekly industrial-construction newspaper, which covers with its service the Southeastern section of the United States.

It is the only publication of its type in the Southeast and its role is a very useful one. It was well received by the business public from the beginning and has been held in increasing appreciation through the years. The publication is now entering its third decade.

The Industrial Index was the thought of Walter J. Woodall, at that time editor of The Columbus Enquirer-Sun. It was established in 1906, as a leaflet of four pages. From this modest publication in bulletin form grew the weekly issues of today, running 40 and 44 pages, with large special editions from time to time.

Originally known as "The Georgia-Alabama Industrial Index", its service covered only the two states named in its title; Columbus being in almost the exact heart of the Georgia-Alabama territory, and an ideal place for such a publication.

From time to time in succeeding years the publication's territory has been broadened until now it embraces practically the entire Southeast. Full service is given for Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee, and North Carolina soon will formally be added to the territory covered by these reports.

The Industrial Index has steadily grown in size, circulation and influence, and its weekly issues now average 40 pages or more, with elaborate special numbers from time to time.

The publication is widely quoted in the Southern press and is regarded as an authority in its field. It constitutes one of the bes tand most effective advertisements that Columbus has, for the reading public naturally and correctly assumes that a publication of this type would be issued only in a city that is live and growing and is a recognized industrial center. The very character of The Industrial Index, therefore, constantly accentuates in the public mind the importance of Columbus as an industrial ceter. Many Industrial Index articles are published under a Columbus, Georgia, date line in the daily newspapers of the South.

Columbus is thus regarded as headquarters for construction news and industrial data, and this is a real and dignified distinction for this city.

The Industrial Index issues annually a special Columbus, Georgia, Number which has grown to elaborate proportions. In this special number growth, construction and general progress at Columbus and Fort Benning are shown pictorically and otherwise. Photographs are made of all new buildings, and in this pictorial record Fort Benning, with its substantial new construction makes a splendid showing. The last Columbus Number of The Industrial Index carried 568 engravings. The Columbus section ran 228 pages and the news section 40 pages.

The first Columbus Number issued by The Industrial Index, in 1918, consisted of about 100 pages, including both special and news sections. Each succeeding Columbus Number has increased in size, the climax being the beautiful gold-bound edition bearing date of May 26, 1926.

W. C., M. M. & A. M. Woodall are the publishers of The Industrial Index, and Walter J. and W. C. Woodall are its editors.

DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

With the Officers stationed at Fort Benning, the Dimon Court Apartments have always been a Favorite Place to live.

From an exterior view point, the Dimon Court Apartments are said to occupy perhaps the most attractive building in Columbus. The interior is even more pleasing, and represents the last word in modern apartment house equipment and conveniences. Each apartment has been recently equipped with Frigid-Aire boxes of the latest type. Also have Murphy beds, cedar lined closets, folding iron boards, book cases, steam heat, hot water, etc.

Only tenants of the highest character are accepted which enables us to maintain an atmosphere of refinement and exclusiveness.

Rates are reasonable. For information, apply to Hill & Hill, rental agents, next to Morgan's Drug Store on 13th Street.

Notable Industry of Columbus Features Excellent Work in Providing Residence

One of the outstanding industries of industrial Columbus, is the manufacture of artistic and high grade commercial furniture for stores, banks, offices, etc., and this work, designed and manufactured by National Show Case Company, has spread the fame of Columbus throughout the southern states to such an extent, that with many buyers, their first thought is of Columbus when they decide to make improvements.

The National Show Case Company was organized in December, 1908. Of the original stock holders, only J. H. Dimon and W. W. Rainey, are still interested, in fact, practically all of the stock is owned by the Dimon and Rainey families.

The officers are: J. H. Dimon, president; W. W. Rainey, vice-president and general manager; Chas. E. Dimon, secretary and treasurer; Wm. B. Rainey, sales manager, and assistant to his father, the general manager.

When Fort Benning was first located near Columbus, with the influx of the student officers, and before permanent quarters could be constructed at the fort, there was a great shortage of houses in Columbus, and largely as a matter of civic duty, the officials of the National Show Case Company built one of the most modern and up to date apartment houses in the country.

Located on upper Broad street, and surrounded by some of the oldest and most historical homes in Columbus, the Dimon Court Apartments present a very pleasing appearance, and over-look the Chattahoochee river with its expanse of green and muddy gold. From the upper floors of the apartment house, one gets a good view of the historical hills of Alabama, where the last battles of the civil war were fought, and is only a stones throw from where the federal soldiers crossed the river and began burning the town.

The apartment house over-looks the Carnegie public library, with it's wide stretches of city commons, carpeted in the spring and summer with green, and is located in almost the heart of Columbus, convenient to the churches, theatres, post office, restaurants, etc.

Since its completion, the Dimon Court Apartment has been a favorable place to live with many of the officers stationed at Fort Benning, their wives being charmed with its atmosphere of refinement and exclusiveness.

The Dimon Court Apartments are owned by National Show Case Company and Hill & Hill are exclusive rental agents. It is said that the rates are very reasonable, when one takes into consideration the many conveniences to be had in these modern apartments, such as Frigid-Aire, Murphy beds, hot and cold running water, steam heat, cedar lined closets, built-in china closets, disappearing ironing boards, etc., in fact, everything which could be expected in a modern apartment house.

INFANTRY SCHOOL IS THE FOCUS OF INFANTRY TRAINING

Article in Army and Navy Courier Explains General Functions of Plant.

(By Capt. Elbridge Colby.)

At Fort Benning, on the Georgia side of the Chattahoochee river, just outside of the city of Columbus, is located the Infantry School, the focus of Infantry training of the United States army. This advanced institution, an outgrowth of the war-time school of musketry, is attended each year by about 250 officers of the regular army, national guard and reserve corps, of all grades from lieutenants to brigadier general, specially selected to take advanced instruction in post-war developments in military tactics and technique of the infantry branch of the service.

From this school graduates go to staff duty in Washington, to troops all over the country and in the overseas possessions, to details at civilian schools and colleges, and to the headquarters of national guard and organized reserve units. Corps area and department commanders have testified in their annual reports to the war department of the great and growing influence of these graduates on efficient training of all components of the army of the United States.

WIDE SCOPE

The installations include the academic department, with expert instructors, crack demonstration troops kept at war strength to illustrate the highest standards of training, equipment, and organization, and a monumental recreation center erected through the voluntary subscriptions and labor of army personnel.

Courses of study range from military history to the manipulation of machine guns, from tactical maneuvers staged with live ammunition to study of educational technique. Student officers learn the latest wrinkles in military art by absorbing correct principles in lectures and demonstrations, by observing the correct application of those principles to concrete situations in demonstrations, and by actual practice in applying those principles themselves. They watch rifle squads fire with tracer bullets which send little lines of phosphorus light across the fields to show the tangible effect of infantry marksmanship. They observe the exact dispersion of shrapnel and grenade burst on the waters of a specially constructed lake with yardage marked out by stakes. They participate in extended maneuvers over the 98,000 acres of the reservation, with all the varieties of tangled woods, gentle and steep hill slopes, open plain, and tumbling water courses that any field of campaign may offer. The are of war, says General Foch, is an art wholly of execution. At the infantry school, the trainers and leaders of embattled Americans of the future learn by actual practice the profession to which they have dedicated their lives, the defense of the nation in hours of emergency.

EXPERIMENTAL WORK

At the Infantry School is also maintained a department of experiment, to devise, to study, and to test by practical use, all new devices of military or civil invention which may be applicable to military needs and purposes. Novel types of machine guns, auto-loading rifles field telephones and radios, footgear and helmets are there subjected to normal service conditions, to determine if their adoption would benefit the Infantry. Special investigations have been conducted to secure improved types of bayonets for the doughboys, raincoats for campaign use, combat wagons to haul heavy supplies, and small trench howitzers to be used in the front lines against hostile machine gun nests. The infantry branch of the army is kept constantly up to date, by the efforts of the test officers on duty in this department.

ATHLETIC CENTER

The infantry school is also the athletic center of the army. When President Coolidge offered a challenge cup to represent the football championship of the military and naval services, and the war department decided that the old-time officer teams should be supplanted by enlisted teams in order to encourage wider participation in athletic sports, Fort Benning was selected as the training center for the army eleven. To do what President Coolidge desired they should do, i. e. "give the people a true example of sport in its best form, the Washington officials ordered to Fort Benning the best soldier personnel from regimental teams all over the country, from Vancouver Barracks and Fort Screven, from Fort Snelling and Third corps headquarters in Baltimore, and so on. This material has beeen trained at the infantry school by coaches specially instructed at the Rockne coaching course at Notre Dame. The infantry team has twice played for the president's cup in Washington, losing to the marines on one occasion and defeating the navy in the other game for the championship of the military and naval services.

To create an installation worthy of the prestige of the teams assembled at this post, officers and organizations all over the army contributed funds for the erection of concrete and steel baseball stands on Gowdy Field, sponsored by Sergeant Hank Gowdy of the world war 165th infantry and the New York Giants, and also a magnificent Doughboy stadium for football games, capable of seating 10,000 people, and dedicated as a distinctive army memorial to the soldier dead of the world war. A huge gmnasium, a polo field, a golf course, and tennis courts, complete the athletic equipment. Here are given special courses in the management of athletic training, so that throughout the service, athletic instruction shall keep pace with the high type of combat instruction which has emanated from Fort Benning.—Army & Navy Courier.

WAR STRENGTH UNITS DEMONSTRATE PERFECTION TO BENNING STUDENTS

Demonstration Doughboys Assisted by Colleagues of Other Arms at School.

(By Capt. Elbridge Colby.)

Military training is a practical thing. Its object is the efficient development of military manpower. In order that the hosts of student officers who come to the Infantry School many have visual opportunities of understanding the high standards set by the United States for the field proficiency of its armed forces, there are maintained at Fort Benning war-strength units of soldiers, skilled in their work and prepared to demonstrate the peak of instruction. These troops include Infantry, Engineers, Gas units, Artillery, and Tanks.

Two battalions of the 29th Infantry are maintained at war strength, so that students may observe the functioning of full units at drill and in field maneuver. These selected soldiers make up the only war-strength doughboy units in the American Army. For instance, other regiments have merely single platoons of Howitzer Companies, for the reduced strength of the military forces keep the available numbers down. But at Benning there is a full war strength company, operating not merely the single trench mortar and the single one-pounder which belong to a platoon, but the full war-time complement. This company enjoys the distinction of having qualified every member of its personnel under the rigid marksmanship requirements of Army regulations. Its captain is a graduate both of the Infantry School and of the Field Artillery School.

Nor is the Howitzer Company the only crack outfit in that regiment. Company "B" is known far and wide as the premier close order drill organization of the service, and it is selected annually to give demonstrations of perfect cadence and execution in parade ground movements to student officers. Company "E" specializes in field firing, and shows the students the correct handling of squads, platoons, and companies on the firing line, directing the multitude of bullets with uniform distribution over the enemy position. Companies "D" and "H" are machine gun units, skilled at direct and overhead fire, and at anti-aircraft defense work. Company "C" is usually selected to illustrate standards of equipment, uniform, and training methods. Company "A" is specially skilled in scouting and patrolling. And so it goes. Each company is specially drilled in some one phase of military training. The regimental and battalion headquarters companies and the service companies are expert, and fully equipped, with signal communications (telephone, telegraph, and radio for field use) and with transportation facilities. The motto of the regiment, appearing on the coat of arms which each soldier wears on his collar, is: "We Lead the Way." The 29th Infantry leads the way for the Infantry regiments of the army, training their officers and showing them the latest approevd methods.

However since Infantry does not fight alone in war, although it is the basic arm, other demonstration troops must be maintained to illustrate the co-operation of other arms with the doughboys. In order to cover the advance of infantry toward the enemy positions, the 75 mm. artillery must send its sharp shells speeding overhead; and the troops at Fort Benning include the motorized 83rd Artillery, with the finest types of modern guns, drawn by tractors and primed to the minute. Coming from Camp Knox in 1920, this artillery organization has worked into the spirit of the garrison and has given splendid examples of the work of accompanying guns up front with infantry battalions and of accompanying batteries working in close co-ordination wih infantry regimental headquarters ready to knock out obstinate points of hostile resistance holding up the advance of the foot-sloggers.

In the final assault, infantry battalion commanders have frequently to call upon gas troops to lay down smoke screens from smoke candles or bombs to shield their men from flanking machine gun fire, or upon engineers to help them cross unfordable streams, or upon weighter armaments to crush enemy machine gun nests. So at Fort Benning, the demonstration units of the Infantry School include companies of the First Gas Regiment direct descendant of the original "Flame and Gas" outfit, and of the famous fighting Seventh Engineers of the historic Fifth Division which crossed the Meuse in 1918 in what General Pershing called "the finest achievement of arms of the American Expeditionary Forces."

Born in the crash and confusion of the World War, formed from heavy units organized in Great Britain and light units organized in France, the 15th Tank Battalion maintains at Fort Benning companies of ponderous heavy tanks and light whippet tanks, which rumble up the hillsides and down the slopes and across the flat spaces in among the advancing bayonet men. Fifty per cent. of this Tank Battalion consists of veterans of the World war, now on the Benning plain to demonstrate and teach tank tactics to sudent officers as a part of the general Infantry course of instruction.

CITY AND GARRISON ADVERTISERS SERVE BENNING PERSONNEL

Utility of Space in This Paper Has Been Demonstrated.

With the low subscription rate at which this paper is published, less than three cents a week by mail, and less than one cent a week delivered in blocks to company orderly rooms, it is inevitable that the principal support of this publication must come from advertising returns.

In other words, like the Saturday Evening Post, the Infantry School News is financed chiefly by its display space.

When we speak of returns, we mean returns to this paper and also returns to our advertisers. Any paper of this character continually labors under the difficulty that advertisers are prone to believe the funds they pay are in the nature of donations pure and simple. But such is not really the case.

Experiments conducted during the past few months have shown that the Infantry School News has a tangible drawing power for its advertisers. Their insertions actually bring business.

The Post Exchange has found by experience that those articles advertised in our columns have increased sales following their mention and display in the Infantry School News. The excellent automobile service station has indicated that the sales of Firestone Tires have gone up in such measure as to more than warrant the expense of advertising them. When the roll collar came in, the Post Exchange tailor shop was the only one in town or garrison to advertise alterations in our columns, and the Post Exchange tailor shop received the greatest proportion of the new business. The Boston Shoe Factory began advertising with us a short time ago, and the head of that firm testifies that his small advertisement has brought him in a great deal of trade, something like a hundred times the cost of the advertisements he inserted.

The Hubbard Hardware Company has been a regular advertiser with the Infantry School News for a long time, and Mr. Rex Hubbard follows closely the effects of his advertising. He changes his advertisements from time to time, and notices immediately the new demands created.

The Springer Opera House advertises with us regularly all the feature road shows, and finds that it pays. The Columbus Southeastern League Baseball team has regularly printed in our columns notices of its home games, and the result has been more men in khaki in the stands.

All of this means that the Infantry School News is of direct and tangible value to the advertisers as well as to te command.

The value to the command in the way of advertising is two-fold. There is the monetary value that enables this paper to be published. But there is also the value of directing purchasers to reliable firms. For example, one company handling a particular line of goods downtown advertises with us. Another does not. We leave it to any loyal Benningite with which he should prefer to deal. We scrutinize our advertisers carefully and recommend their goods.

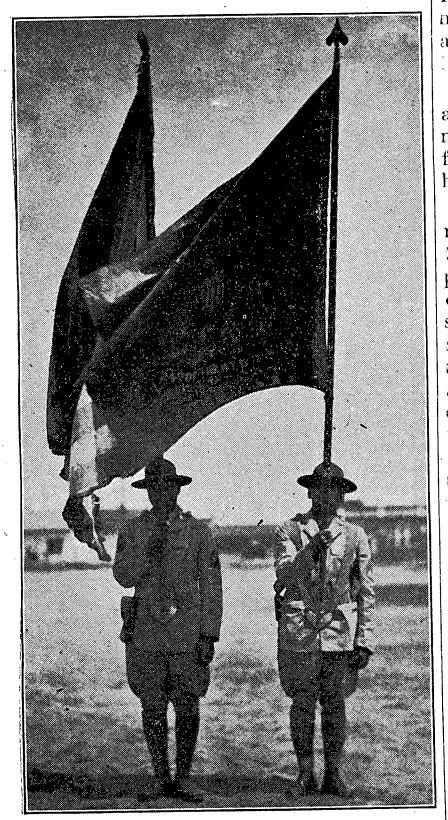
24TH INF.

(By Captain Stanley G. Saulnier)

Upon its organization in November, 1869, the regiment started its "Frontier" duty along the wild and wooly Texas border, moving, after various campaigns with the Indians to Indian Territory in 1880, acting as the guardians of Indians, settlers and miners during the development of that country. Assembling for the first time in its history in garrison, the regiment left almost at once for service in Cuba in the Spanish-American War, where it gained distinction and its motto at the Block House at San Juan.

After a glorious home-coming to Fort Douglas, the regiment was ordered to duty in the Philippine Insurrection. Again the cyclic action was repeated for the regiment; back to the Philippines in 1906, then home and then for garrison in a pacified Philippine Department.



War clouds cast their shadow, so the regiment was returned and took its place as patrol on the Mexican Border. Here in 1916 it joined the "Punitives" acting as "Pershing's Own."

During the World War, the regiment trained and expanded for service "over there" was doomed to do its share along the Rio Grande. In 1919, Villa and Carranza kicked up the dust in old Mexico and part of the U. S. which involved the regiment until the two sparring partners changed their battleground.

Army reorganization caught the 24th Infantry in 1921, demobilizing the 3d Battalion and sending it "on paper" to Camp Benning, where in October, 1922, the entire regiment was reorganized with a peace strength of 830 enlisted men.

Today finds little change in the size or organization of the regiment. It occupies an area of tents and wooden barracks of its own construction, work still being continued to completely house the regiment in this type of structure.

Daily the regiment furnishes for the functioning of the Infantry School, a large majority of its personnel. This number is broken up into details which carry on work for the Constructing Quartermaster, and the Recreation Center Board. At the gymnasium and as janitors in the school buildings, soldiers of the 24th Infantry carry on. At night the regiment furnishes details to the Military Police force of the garrison. Helpers at the printshop, logging and saw mill detachments, drivers for motor vehicles, caretakers on the tennis courts, students at the School for Bakers and Cooks, Sanitary Squad details and numerous Utility functions are drawn daily from the regiment. In addition the enlarged company "I" takes care of and is in charge of all the mounts and instruction in equitation for the Infantry School. This company daily feeds, grooms and exercises 188 animals and keeps in condition at the high standard required by the Infantry School all the riding equipment. The corrals are also the work of this company. Three officers of the regiment are on duty with this company.

Within the regiment details are furnished for construction of barracks, hospital attendants, stewards at the Post Exchange, regimental gardners, swimming pool life guard, details for the Recreation Officer, operators for the moving picture projection machine and a teacher at the school maintained by the regiment for children of soldiers.

After the daily details are checked and sent out there remains only the necessary force to properly permit the functioning of the organization, the overhead cut to the minimum.

In the realm of athletic endeavor, the regiment also excels. On the grid-iron, the 24th Infantry has an undisputed place, having defeated all the large colored colleges and universities in this section of the country. Such institutions as Clark and Florida Universities have made their bow to the tune of amazing scores. Baseball, as well, is but one of the many sports that the regiment takes up with wholehearted enthusism. In 1925, the regiment succeeded in nailing the garrison championship against the best that the field offered. This year the Red team of the regiment finished at the head of the first half of the series, while in the second half both Red and Blue teams are among the leaders. In aquatic circles, the regiment, in a pool of its own construction, has held meets wherein several records have been equaled.

The regimental band, one of the finest military bands in the country, boasts of being the largest aggregation in the southeast. The newly appointed warrant officer, Tresville, with many others of the band, have graduated from the Army Music School, Warrant Officer Tresville being the only colored graduate from the Bandleaders' course at that school. The regimental song is the composition of a soldier of this organization. It also boasts of two orchestras, that are in constant demand for garrison functions and dances. Their soloists are unequaled on brass or woodwind instruments.

The regiment is heralded in the music world as being the only one that regularly practices mass singing. The regiment and especially its famous Glee Club have received glowing letters of approbation from all parts of the country for its rendition of negro folk and plantation songs. It has instituted a custom of presenting annually, a concert of these popular songs. The Glee Club, made up of the better singers, has appeared publicly many times and has scored instantaneous success.

What ever the occasion, the 24th Infantry has always distinguished itself by its sportsmanship, its high degree of discipline and its splendid appearance. Despite the requirements imposed upon it, the regiment has earned, professionally, the right to its motto: "Semper Paratus."

Nowhere in the Army is there to be found a tactical organization with an aggregation of soldiers w i th longer service and more sterling character. Its morale and esprit de corps is always high, and as a proof, it is believed that more men retire from this regiment after thirty years' service than from almost any other regiment in the Army.

The officers are well pleased and proud of their service with the 24th Infantry and leave for new station with the keenest regret and deep seated love for the "old outfit."

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

The authorized strength of the Infantry School Detachment is 383 men. These range in grade from the very top —Master Sergeant—down to Private. The non-commissioned officer grades have been liberally given, starting with twenty master sergeants in addition to eight staff sergeants, sixty-six sergeants, eighty-two corporals, and then one-hundred one privates first class. A no less liberal allowance of specialist ratings is also provided as follows: eleven first class, one second class, eighteen third class, thirteen fourth class, three fifth class and forty-nine sixth class specialists This very adequate allotment of course means that the unit is able to secure and keep a very high type of personnel.

This superior class of men in the Infantry School Detachment is of course necessary because of the nature of the duties that are expected. The organization does not have a mission of its own as a demonstration unit does but it is rather a home for those who perform the intellectual tasks that are necessary around such an institution as the Infantry School. Among our members are found the sergeants major of both garrison headquarters and the academic department, the assistant instructors in weapons and communications, reservation guards, the reporter for the general courtsmartial that sit at this station, men who perform test work for the department of experiment, the construction crew of the Recreation Center, and many other highly skilled activities that are too numerous to mention.

For the maintenance of such a diversified and highly specialized group, it is almost needless to add that the opportunities for training in work that has a value in civil life are numerous. In fact they are probably not equalled in many places in any branch of the service. For instance, there is one man sent each year to the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. This year Corporal Frank Sosebee has been detailed to take the radio electricians course. He, incidentally, passed his entrance examination with a higher grade than any other soldier who took the examination. Another opportunity for splendid training is in the photographic shop of the Department of Experiment. There are shortly to be trained a group of men as motion picture photographers.

Along with the highly technical training that is required for the duties that have only been mentioned, opportunities are given every man to participate on the splendid athletic teams of this very unusual unit. All of these features taken together make the Infantry School Detachment a splendid old soldier's outfit for the very best type of men in the army.

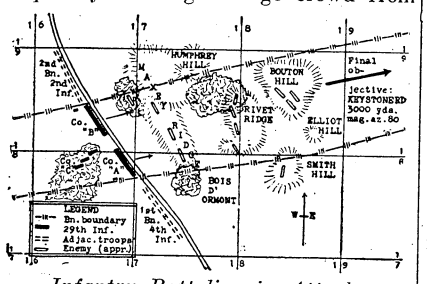
(By Private George R. Becker)

Oh, outfits may come and outfits may go,
But We Lead The Way,
We're never too fast and never too slow,
'Cause We Lead The Way.
"Marching Song, 29th Infantry."

So goes the lilting swing of our ballad as we sing it in the mess hall, day room and on the march. Leading the way is not such an easy proposition as it would seem and music helps cheer our path and light the road.

The 29th Infantry is now safely embarked on the academic year with its many demonstrations and maneuvers. "Battalion In Attack" is perhaps the most picturesque and interesting, quite frequently drawing a large crowd from



Infantry Battalion in Attack

Positions of machine guns, artillery, one pounders, and trench mortars are not shown on this map.

Columbus and other cities. Demonstrations of inspections of rifle and machine gun companies and general problems in Infantry tactics are among some of the other activities of the regiment.

Known throughout the service as the regiment that leads the army and famed as the largest Infantry regiment, the Twenty-Ninth, though not possessing an active third battalion, has a strength of about 1915 enlisted men and 86 officers. Not all these men are used for demonstration purposes, however, as many are needed for special duty on the reservation in such places as post headquarters, various departments of the post exchange, post stadium and other garrison and regimental activities.

In the 29th, the regiment does not submerge the company. Each organization has some achievement that it points to with pride. For instance "B" is renowned for its demonstration of close order drill and the different times it has entertained district and state conventions such as the Georgia Christian Endeavorers. "D" company men are known as expert coon hunters, Howitzer company is rated high for its marksmanship, "H" company and first battalion headquarters companies are known for the number of times they have won the Blue Pennant and other organizations for splendid achievements in which they have raised the high standards of the regiment.

Heroes of war are not to be forgotten in days of peace. The deeds of Lt. Stephen B. Elkins and such enlisted men as Sgt. Forney B. Mintz, and Sgt. Hi Davis, all winners of the Distinguished Service Medal, serve to make them stand out from their fellows. Sgt. Tom Tompkins, a few years ago, distinguished himself by cool action during a fire which threatened to engulf some highly explosive ammunition.

The Twenty-Ninth is over twenty-five years old, benig organized March 3, 1901, at Fort Sheridan, Illinois. It took active part in the closing phases of the Phillipine insurrection, "E" company subduing and capturing the bandit leader, Adriano Conception. During the European war the regiment did work of an important character guarding the Panama, later coming to "Camp" Benning, after short tours of duty to Camps Beauregard and Shelby. It has remained here since, where it has earned its present sobriquet of the "demonstration doughboys."

OUTDOOR GYM COMPLETED

One of the finest outdoor gyms in the service was recently built in what was formerly the Service company street. About all of the necessary equipment for the upbuilding of the physical man has been installed. It is expected the gymnasium will furnish a means of varying rather pleasantly the routine morning calisthenics in addition to supplying a means of training embryo champions of wrestling mat and the squared circle. Fliying rings, hand ball court, bucks and horses, boxing ring, volley ball and tennis courts, diamonds for indoor baseball, basketball court, climbing ropes and bare and a covered punching bag shelter.

Golf as a sport is followed by a fairly large number of devotees. It is for the most part played by officers with the exception of a very few enlisted professionals. Whenever a tournament is played in neighboring towns the 29th is generally represented. Lt. J. W. Darr, recently arrived from the Hawaiian department, is said to be a past mater at the ancient Scotch pastime.

Football in Benning suffered a severe blow in the transfer of Lt. "Jock" MacQuarrie to another post. Both Lt. MacQuarrie and Lt. Smythe, of the first battalion, won their spurs at West Point, where they both picked for the mythical All-American eleven.

Baseball stars in the 29th are plentiful, Kjelstrom, of the second battalion, playing with the Three Eye league during the early part of the season. He and "Hi" Davis are versatile athletes, being as adept with the pig skin as the white spheroid.

"Kelly"

What are the soldiers of the 29th? What types of men are they and from where do they come? Most of them are from Southern homes but 35 or 40 per cent. of them come from Northern and Western states and few from foreign countries. They are most of them ambitious young men deeding three years or one year of their lives to their country in return for which they anticipate and receive a bigger, better physique, an active mind and a fighting spirit.

15TH TANK BATTALION

The Officer who has seen a War Strength Infantry Battalion or Battery of Artillery or other Unit in operation will have an advantage over one who has not had such opportunity and who has to rely on tables of organization and other printed matter for his information.

One of the pleasing features of the courses of instruction at the Infantry School is the opportunity afforded the students to see the units of the arms of the service normally present with the Reinforced Brigade. Included with such units we naturally expect to find the Tank.

The Tank Branch of the Infantry is represented here at the school by the Fifteenth Tank Battalion.

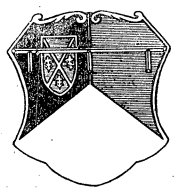
MISSION

Termed generally as a "Demonstration Unit" its mission may be more specifically described as follows:

To demonstrate to the students of the Infantry School the correct tactical employment of Tanks.

To familiarize the students with the general characteristics of Tanks such as armament, fire power, armor, speed, climbing ability, cruising radius, method of transportation and the powers and limitations of the Tank generally.

The correct tactical employment of Tanks is the primary mission. In demonstrating this, it has been the policy to have one or more Tank Platoons operate with other Infantry Units, Artillery and the usual auxiliary arms, in exercises illustrating the Infantry Attack.



In these exercises, studied and planned to the minutest detail by the School Instructors, each unit participates in the movements and fire, using service ammunition. The terrain of the reservation is especially favorable not only toward staging Combat Exercises of particular value from the tactical standpoint, but has the further advantage of affording places from which the students may see nearly every phase, without danger from the various weapons in operation.

In these exercises, carried out with utmost precision, and in accordance with Combat Orders, tactically sound and technically correct in every detail, the Tanks may be seen operating in the prescribed manner, in advance of the Infantry Assault Units.

While it is generally not practicable for the student to see both the Assault and the Approach March, the latter movement is executed as to routes and formations in exact accordance with the Tactical situation.

It should be mentioned that the Tanks do not participate in exercises illustrating Defensive Combat. The Tank is an Offensive weapon only. However, there are occasionally exercises in Defensive Combat in which a turn to the Offensive is planned as correct Tactics for the particular situation. In some such cases where the units taking the Offensive are of sufficient size, (as an Infantry Battalion or more.) Tanks have been attached and have participated in that part of the exercise illustrating the resumption of the Offensive.

These exercises, combined with the study of Tactics, give the student very sound training in Infantry combat which of course includes the role of the Tanks.

In familiarizing the students with the characteristics of our American Tanks it is of course impracticable, and not desirable to take up mechanical matters, nor go into minute details as to the Tank Gunnery and other kindred subjects. These are matters for training within the Tank Units. On the other hand, Tanks are part of the Infantry and every Infantry Officer should have some general knowledge of their characteristics. We may not all agree as to exactly what this general knowledge should consist of. From a tank point of view, subjects such as the following are considered important:

Approximate speed of light and heavy tanks.

Approximate cruising radius.

Armament.

Resisting power of armor (not thickness but what weapons it will resist.)

Tank obstacles (Terrain features impassable to tanks.)

How transported.

It should be noted that these subjects relate to characteristics, not tactics, but some knowledge along these lines may prevent an Infantry Battalion Commander from making a tactical blunder. In this connection it might be well to state that nearly all Officers who have served for a year or more with the Tanks have at some time during maneuvers, at various places, observed some very flagrant misuses of Tanks by Officers to whose units they have been attached. Some desired to use the Tanks as Outposts, others desired Tanks as moving armored Command Posts, others moved Tanks directly into swamps where they promptly bogged down and were useless and took many hours to extricate. More could be mentioned, but space is limited. In these cases the advice of the Tank officers (lieutenants with platoons) was over-ruled. These incidents are amusing but also serious.

During the school year, there are a number of demonstrations given by the Tank Battalion for the purpose of illustrating to the students, the subjects referred to above. The student sees the Tanks, their crews, their guns, their equipment, their engines, their armor. He climbs in and out, rides in them, sees them transported on trucks, and moving over obstacles, climbing maximum grades, follows the light and heavy platoons with all guns in action, observes the hits on the targets and hears brief talks on the points being illustrated. There are always many questions asked; some of them very interesting. Many of the student officers have had mechanical training or experience and they are at once interested in details as to the engines and transmissions. Others may have special knowledge of Gunnery and they will at once inquire as to details concerning the armament. In every group, too, there are former Tank officers who know every bolt, nut, and screw on both Tanks. They generally stand back of the rest of the students, and listen with amused but friendly grins.

No demonstration of Tank characteristics would be complete without an exhibition of tree smashing. While it has no special significance other than a display of crushing power, yet we always hear that the students have inquired as to whether it will be included, and that others doubt whether it can be done. Some examine the tree selected to see whether it has been sawed. Accordingly, it is the custom to include this feature and due to the importance attached by the students, it is given the last or climax place in the program. Whatever may have been the interest in what preceded, the whole group is generally found in the front rank for this event. With the crashing of the tree there is generally a merry yell and a solemn but comic raising of hats; and they all go away happy.

ORGANIZATION

The Fifteenth Tank Battalion consists of a Headquarters Company, and three Tank Companies, twenty-five officers and four hundred men. Its organization is special; differing from the other Tank Battalions in our service in that it contains both light and heavy companes, two of the light and one heavy. The "Battalion" in our Tank Service is the Administrative Unit, as is the Regiment in the Army generally. This is the case in the Fifteenth Tank Battalion and the Headquarters Company is larger than those of the other Tank Battalions; made so, to include a repair unit. The organization of Battalion Headquarters is similar to that of other Battalions in our service generally; consisting of sections for Personnel, Intelligence, Plans and Training, Supply and Maintenance.

HISTORY

The Tanks first came into existence during the World War. Exact details as to dates and the numerical designations of those units from which the Fifteenth Tank Battalion is descended, will not be of general interest. Briefly stated, each Company of the Battalion including the Headquarters Company, came into existence by change of designation of a Tank unit which served with the American Expeditionary forces in France. The Battalion is fortunate too, in still having with it, some of the old personnel, and strange to say, they do not talk as much as they should, for their record was one to be proud of. On our Organization Day the Roll Call of those who did return, is lengthy. Many of these, (an excellent proportion), received posthumously, the Distinguished Service Cross.

A number of officers who have commanded this unit have remarked that they did not build its Esprit; they found it here. It is the truth, and it is something that warms the heart.

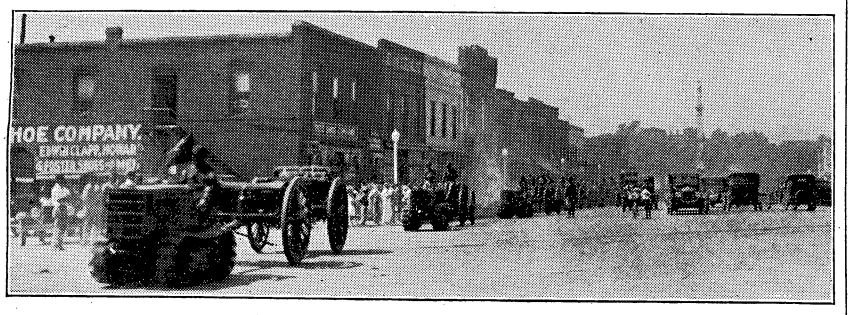
FIELD ARTILLERY



(By Major Robert S. Donaldson)

On August 1st, 1917, the 83rd Field Artillery was organized by converting the 25th Cavalry to artillery, thus accounting for the yellow and red of its insignia, and the "flagrante bello" inscribed on the same. It joined the 8th Division at Camp Fremont, California, the following February.

From February to October of 1918 the ex-cavalrymen of the regiment were at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, trained and "converted" into field artillerymen who could actually handle the guns. They were taught to think in terms of batteries instead of troops and of fire action in place of shock action.

October, 1918, while the Argonne battles were utilizing thousands of guns, saw the 83rd sailing for France. The regiment landed on November 9th. Two days later the Germans signed an armistice!

After two months at Brest and Ploermel the regiment was returned to station at Camp Knox, Kentucky, and a few months later, in November, 1919, horses were turned in and the 83rd became a tractor drawn or motorized regiment. From Camp Knox, the First Battalion, with its Combat Train, marched overland to Fort Benning, arriving in November, 1920, to begin its functions as the artillery demonstration battalion of the newly organized Infantry School. The Second Battalion remained at Camp Knox and later was placed on the inactive list.

The batteries of the 83rd Field Artillery are all equipped with French Seventy-five millimeter guns. Although we function as divisional artillery, which is normally horse-drawn, the battalion is at present tractor-drawn. Battery B and the Combat Train are drawn by 5-ton Holt tractors, of the type used during the World War. Batteries A and C are drawn by Holt 2 1-2 ton tractors, Model T-35. In Battery C the type has been modified by substituting a higher transmission gear ratio and a rubber shod tread. This alteration makes for speed at the expense of power.

With these various types of motive power the battalion has conducted tests by marches under different conditions.

During 1924 Battery A was about two months in the field, marching to Fort Bragg, N. C., and return. Battery B, during the summer of the same year marched to Camp McClellan, Alabama, for duty at training camp. During June and July of 1925 the entire battalion made the march to Port St. Joe, Florida, on the Gulf, and return. The past summer's march was via Macon to Atlanta and return.

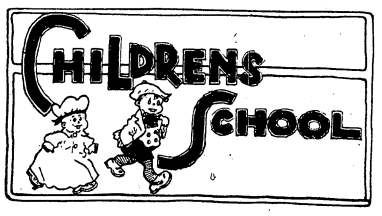
During all of these marches motors were tested and personnel trained for field service.

Interesting experiments were conducted on length of day's march, length of and time intervals between halts, methods of camping, bridging, and passnig obstacles.

The mission of the 83rd Field Artillery is to demonstrate to the students of The Infantry School, the tactics and technique of field artillery and the part it plays in the Infantry-Artillery team. The value of field artillery lies in its ability to place quickly a heavy, destructive and concentrated fire at critical points in front of our infantry. By this means it supports our infantry either in attack or defense. To actually illustrate to the student officers how to utilize this fire power to advantage is the 83rd's mission here at the Infantry School.

Many of the present day students will, in case of hostilities, command divisions, corps, or armies, or be serving on the staffs thereof. Hence a thorough knowledge on the part of these officers of the capabilities, and also o fthe limitations of field artillery, is essential if our team work is to be efficient in the final test —which is battle.

Service with this battalion by a field artillery officer is most interesting from a professonal viewpoint. Here the artilleryman and the infantryman work together upon problems involving various tactical situations. We learn to work in harmony and to understand each others limitations. We, as artilleryman, learn what fire support the infantry needs. How best to provide such fire, we learn by this contact. As field artillerymen we have our opportunity to get the infantry viewpoint, and the Infantry-Artillery team shoots it out together at our school demonstrations.



This fort, where fine and rough points of the infantry are imparted to United States soldiers, also has another educational institution—an "infant school."

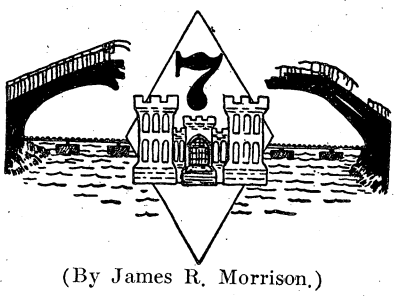
One hundred and seventy-one children, representative of every section of the country, are in the school which is supported by the officers and enlisted men.

It came about in this way:—

War Department appropriations provide funds for schools for officers and enlisted men and vocational and advanced scholarships for officers at universities, but no provision is made for the education of children of soldiers living on a government reservation.

Tuition fees had to be paid for the children if they went to the Columbus City schools, and added to this was a long bus ride each day. So Colonel Robert J. Halpin, formerly a Cornell professor, who was educational and recreational officer at the fort several years ago, conceived the idea of establishing a school on the post.

The school is held in two old army buildings and has six instructors, headed by a principal trained at Columbia University. Regular tuition fees, benefit performances and athletic events have kept the "infant school" in operation and plans now are being made to erect a new building.



(By James R. Morrison.)

Company "A," 7th Engineers (Ffith Division) formerly Company D., 7th Engineers, has been stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., since April 10th, 1920. This organization was ordered to Fort Benning, Georgia, as engineer demonstration troops, it being the idea and intentions of the Chief of Engineers, and the regimental commander that each lettered company would in turn be detailed on this duty. In the later part of June, 1921, Company E, sister organization, was ordered to Benning, to construct a bridge across the Upatoi Creek, after the completion of this work Company D. was to return to the regiment then stationed at Camp Jackson, S. C. In July, 1921, the reduction of the regiment to one lettered company became effective, The personnel of Company D. and E. was transferred into and organized as Company A. 7th. During this time the Engineers have supervised and constructed numerous projects. Standing out as a monument and credit to this outfit is the swimming pool, more than a hundred yards long, fifty yards wide and twenty feet deep. The Engineers constructed the frame work of the War Department theatre, of which the garrison feels so proud.

During the winter of 1924, this unit cut and logged the material for the construction and extension of the narrow gauge railroad to the banks of the Upatoi Creek, a distance of more than two miles. All this distance was over very extremely rough and hilly country. Several cuts and fills of more than twenty feet were experienced. On the last lap before reaching the creek they had to build a trestle across Hemmel creek of more than three hundred feet long and twenty feet high. In addition to this work the Engineers built the gravel washer which furnishes sand and gravel to the building activities of the Fort.

The McAndrew target range, said to be one of the finest in the U. S. Army, was built under the supervision of the Engineer Officer, and completed June 30th, 1925.

In the month of June, 1925, there were received from Wilson Dam No. 1, Florence, Ala., fifteen portable buildings, which were used for construction of barracks and shelter for the enlisted personnel of the organization on Engineer Hill, giving the company a new layout and area.

This unit also operates the Map Reproduction plant for the Infantry School. All the maps and charts used for instructional purposes during the year of 1926-27 will be produced by this activity.

Since their arrival in Fort Benning, Georgia, the Engineers have taken an active part in the demonstration activities. This organization is equipped with two complete divisions of heavy ponton equipment, one unit of portable foot bridge, Lampert type, and the light Kapok foot bridge. All of these bridges are used for instructional purposes with the student officer personnel on the Chattahoochee river during the academic year. In the fall and winter demonstrations are given in the use of and handling of explosives, the building and maintaining field fortification, trenches, barbed wire entanglement, in general the duties of an engineer organization in time of war.

Company A is equipped with one complete Division Electric lighting set. which is capable of generating light for twenty-eight thousand troops, including division headquarters. This set was used during the summer maneuvers of 1926, at Fort Benning, Georgia, furnishing light not only for the camp, but for the operation of the moving picture activities thereat.

Each year the Company furnishes an exhibit for the Chattahoochee Valley fair. Last season the entire map reproduction plant was moved to Columbus for this purpose. The Engineer depot at Fort Benning, is operated with personnel from Company A. the Seventh. It is estimated that the property stored here for issue is worth approximately one million dollars.

In the last year the company has taken an active part in all the athletic activities, finishing third in the basket ball league, losing games to the 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, and the Special Units, same organization. At the present time the company stands second in the Class B Baseball league.

In the last reduction of the Army Company A was reduced from 90 to 84 enlisted men. There are at present seventy-five per cent. of the non-commissioned officers who are re-enlisted men. All the sergeants with the exception of one have previous service with from two to five discharges to their credit. Out of ten corporals there are five re-enlisted men, four are exnon-commissioned officers from other organizations, one corporal is an ex-sergeant from the 13th Engineers, while one comes from the 16th Cavalry. Approximately thirty per cent. of the privates and privates first class are re-enlisted men, with character excellent to their credit.

1ST GAS REGT

The Chemical Warfare Service is represented at this station by Company "F" of the First Gas Regiment. This regiment was organized during the early stages of our participation in the World War. It was originally called the 30th Engineers, then the First Gas and Flame Regiment and finally the First Gas Regiment. It was almost entirely a volunteer organization of picked men with selected officers from the Corps of Engineers in command. Units of the regiment sailed for France in December, 1917, being among the first American troops to land. These were followed by the other units of the regiment as fast as they were organized and trained. Upon arriving in France the regiment was split up and the companies sent to the British front where they observed and assisted similar units of the British Army in operations against the Germans. Upon the formation of the American Armies the regiment was returned to American control. Whenever the troops were used enemy machine guns were rapidly silenced by phosphorus and thermite and towards the end of the war the services of the chemical companies were in great demand. A large part of the striking illumination during the bombardment at St. Mihiel was caused by chemical shells from this regiment; over four and one-half tons being fired on September 12th-13th.

The regiment sailed for home, having gained battle honors in Flanders, Lys, Lorraine, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne besides citations from British, French and American commanders. A record surpassed by few is any American regiments in the World War.

In 1920 the regiment was organized into three battalions of four hundred men each. Successive cuts in the size of the army reduced its size and the limitation of arms conference in 1922 reduced it to a skeleton. It is now organized into six letter companies of about fifty-two men each, besides Headquarters Company.

In 1922 Company "F" was sent as a demonstration company to the Infantry School at Fort Benning where it has remained ever since. The basic mission of this organization has been assigned as follows: (1) To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training (2) To perform the functions of gas troops in case of an emergency for the Infantry School. (3) To further instruction at the Infantry School by demonstrating the tactical uses of chemical warfare agents in the field, defense against gas and the use of apparatus furnished for individual and collective protection. The company is trained in the use of the 4" Stokes Mortar, the Livens Projector, the portable gas cylinder, hand and rifle grenades, smoke candles, toxic and non-toxic tear gas and the rifle. In addition to the above the company is given a course in individual and collective protection, chemical agents and meteorology. And of course, the regular school of the soldier with close order drill. Along with their many duties the men still find time to play and every year the company has produced excellent basketball and baseball teams. The small size of the organization is a great handicap both in drill and in athletics and prevents the company from entering teams in the other sports. Nevertheless every call for volunteers for the Post football team always meets with a ready response with the best the company has to offer.

The morale of the men has always been very high. They feel that this is the best company in Fort Benning, if not in the army, and are trying to keep it so. The lawn and mess of the company are the envy of the Post, while the men have that extra bit of snap which marks them as members of the "Gas" company. That our pride in our organization is not unjustified is best proven by referring to the Inspector General's report in the last inspection which stated that there were no irregularities or deficiencies, and added the following note: "The bearing and general appearance of this organization was very creditable. Clothing, arms and equipment were in excellent condition. The police of its quarters and grounds was excellent. In respect of cleanliness and order, the office, dining room, kitchen and storerooms, were excellent. The pitching of shelter tent camp and display of clothing and equipment were very good, and close order drill was executed with precision and snap." In transmitting to our organization an extract from this report, the Commandant congratulated Company "F," 1st Gas Regiment upon its very satisfactory all-around appearance and performance at this inspection.

In addition to being always ready for inspectors this organization is always glad to receive visitors and we promise that we will do our best to convince all who may call that Chemical Warfare is destined to play a decisive part in all future conflicts on land or sea or air.

BENNING MUSKETEERS MADE BEST FOOTBALL RECORD LAST YEAR

Eight of Ten Games Won From Strong Opponents on Schedule.

The football team of 1925 that represented Fort Benning on the gridiron very justly earned the title of the "Four Touchdown Doughboys". Ten representative opponents, collegiate and service, came forth to do battle with the Musketeers, and on eight occasions the Infantry team said to them "Follow Me". Only twice was the Blue pennant dipped in defeat, by the University of Tennessee Doctors and the All-Marine eleven in the President's Cup contest in Washington.

Starting out on high gear the Musketeers smashed Stetson College of Florida, ran roughtshod over Loyola of New Orleans, and overwhelmed Transylvania frm Kentucky. These were looked upon as comparatively easy games and the size of the scores was the only surprise. Next in line came Oglethorpe University, 1924 champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The Stormy Petrels came into the Douhgboy Stadium for its dedication boasting one of the strongest teams ever turned out by the Atlanta institution, but Jock McQuarrie, George Smythe and the other doughboy backs plunged the line and ran the ends to a decisive triumph. The final count was 27-7.

Catholic University arrived from Washington with an outstanding record, having defeated Villa Nova and Rutgers but the Musketeers tore into the District of Columbia boys and completely extinguished them, 26-7. Then Knute Rockne sent his Notre Dame Reserve into the infantry precincts, but the prospective "Four Horsemen" of future years took a long count, 27-6.

Then the first defeat. Journeying to Memphis and playing on a field fit only for Gertrude Ederle to demonstrate how she swam the channel, the Musketeers lost their first game. The score was 7-0, close but complete.

Armistice Day brought the first service clash, the Parris Island Marines furnishing the opposition in Savannah. Infantry colors were hoisted victorious, 26-7. Again the familiar four touchdowns.

A second Tennessee team, Carson-Newman was next in line. The Musketeers remembered the defeat in Memphis and took out their spite against "Ridge Runners" on this luckless outfit. Ultimate outcome was 47-0.

The climax of the season was the President's Cup contest in Washington against the Marines. The Infantry strove with all their skill and strength to turn back the Leathernecks, but Goettge and his Devil Dog crew proved a much tougher morsel than the Parris Island sea soldiers, and beat the Musketeers cleanly and clearly. The tally sheet read 20 to 0.

Louisiana Tech came to Benning on Thanksgiving Day to finish the schedule, but the only thing the boys from the Pelican state had to be thankful for was the one touchdown they succeeded in scoring, as the Benning team ran up 66 perfectly good points during the afternoon.

DOUGHBOY QUINTET PERFORMED WELL IN COURT SEASON

Seven games won and nine lost. 500 points scored against opponents, 587. Not a great record, perhaps, but in view of the fact that it was made by a new Infantry team against the strongest opposition in the South, Benning can be proud of its 1925-6 basketball representatives.

Eight games were played in the garrison gym, and in six of these the Doughboys were victors; Wofford College copping the opening tilt 30-17 and the strong Mercer Bears winning 41-30 Only one victory was scored abroad—at Fort McPherson — while seven games were dropped to the enemy. High lights of the season were the defeats of the Charlotte Y and the Macon Rightway Five. In these games the visitors gained an early lead and apparently had victory clinched, but on each occasion the Infantry cameback in the second period and won out in the final minute of long shots by McQuarrie. The Rightway game required an extra five-minute period for decision. On the road the best showing was made against the Birmingham Athletic Club, rated by many as the strongest five in the South. The Clubmen expected little opposition, but the soldiers made them fight every minute of the game. Against the Jewish Progressive Club, in Atlanta, Infantry led until the middle of the second half, and might have won had not McQuarrie and Kjelstrom been forced out by personal fouls.

"Red" Newman was the high scorer for the season, making 141 counters. Kjelstrom was a close second with 137, while Buck, kept out of several games by injuries, was third with 110.

MUSKETEER ELEVEN TAKING SHAPE FOR SEASON'S SCHEDULE

Coach Berry Has Squad at Work Twice Daily. No Scrimmage Yet.

Morning and afternoon you can see them on the field just across Wold Avenue from the Gowdy Field. They punt and pass and block and sprint and form in a circle and go through the many tourturous calisthenic exercises. Coach Berry is here and there and everywhere, his keen eye taking in the possibilities of his big Musketeer squad, and his pep and push put vim and vigor into every man. The doughboys are going to have a football team this Fall, or I miss my guess badly.

There has been no scrimmage as yet and it is too early to even make a prediction as to the lineup that will start the opening tilt against Carson-Newman on October 2nd, but let's look over the field and see who we know. The flame-topped boy over yonder working out with the backfield candidates looks familiar, but who is he? What! Red Lindsey? Yep, that's him. He has been holding down the pivot position in the Musketeer forward wall so long that it seems strange to see him anywhere else, but K. L. figures Red fine material for a rippin, smashing- linebreaking fullback, and why shouldn't he be? Red has the weight and the speed and one glance at his fighting face and flaunting red hair is enough to show that the spirit's there. Other old time faces that are well known throughout the garrison include "Weenie" Sweeney, Budweiser Cornog. Willie Schaefer, P. Roy Dwyer, Doug. Lapine, Buck, Big Bertha, George Heese, Bebe Daniel, Clyde Schulte and others.

There are plenty of fine looking new men out, too, but until real football begin it's too early to say much about them. Many come with previous records that assure us that they are good, but let's wait until next week to tell about them.

The schedule shows one open date, which will be filled by a home game. One of the leading teams of the Southern Conference is being sought as an opponent for the vacant space, but sufficiently far to warrant any predictions. There is also talk of a home game after the President's Cup game in Washington, but here again there is nothing definite.

The schedule as so far settled:

Oct. 2 — Carson-Newman in the Doughboy Stadium.

Oct. 9—King College in the Doughboy Stadium.

Oct. 16—Open.

Oct. 24—Loyola University at New Orleans.

Oct. 30—Mercer University in the Doughboy Stadium.

Nov. 5 — University of Tennessee Doctors at Memphis.

Nov. 11—Parris Island Marines at Savannah.

Nov. 20—President's Cup Game at Washington.

OUR TWO GREATEST BASEBALL FANS

MR. SGT. JOHN MAGONI
Infantry School Detachment.

When the I. S. D. was battling for the garrison championship last year, "Jazz" Magoni was always on the coaching line. He never misses a baseball game. His pep and enthusiasm have been the greatest feature of the Class "B" League which he begged to be permitted to enter a team of "seconds" from the Detachment—and that team, known as the "Jazz Babies", has never been shut out, even though badly beaten several times. An exceptional instructor with the machine gun, an inveterate pipe smoker and spaghetti eater, and a soldier with a straight string of "Excellent" discharges.

SGT. WILLIAM McCAULEY
Co. "B", 24th Infantry.

If you have seen him standing next to a post on the east section of Gowdy Field, pop bottle before him and megaphone to his face, you did not notice his white hair. The loudest and the hardest rooter to discourage that the Reds and the Blues ever had, McCauley is the oldest man in the 24th Infantry, with the distinction of being the only one now with the outfit who landed at Siboney with them and advanced toward San Juan. To see him and hear him, is to believe him when he says: "I isn't old; I'se jes' been livin' a long time."

SERVICE COMPANY ASSURES PLAY-OFF IN TWILIGHT LOOP

Beat Howitzers and Go Into Tie for Second Place in League.

Morrow pitched mightily. Morrow allowed only five hits. Morrow slammed his glove down on several occasions. But all in vain, as the Muleskinners were on the warpath and seeking whom they might devour. The Howitzer Company being the most available morsel they devoured the Baby Cannon boys at one gulp, and thus moved into a tie for second place in the Class "B" standing, just half a game back of the Engineers. As the Muleskinners and the Mortarmen meet once again in the closing game of the regular schedule, one of the two teams is bound to be tied up with the Bridgebuilders and a playoff for the Infantry School News Cup is now inevitable.

Monday's game was comparatively easy for the Service Company lads. Four runs in Act 1, Scene 1 took a lot of life and pep out of the opposition. Only two hits figured in scoring the quartet of tallies, but A. Thomas contributed a costly two-hand muff in left field, Miller failed to touch Dean at second when he had the runner a mile, Morrow walked a batter, and McGovern chipped in with the first of five passed balls.

The Howitzers took up the stern chase and in the fourth drew up to within a single marker of the Muleskinners, but in round five Lotz and Compay made two more and after that the outcome was a foregone conclusion. Final additions made the outcome 10 to 4.

TWO TIED FOR LEAD STAGING PLAY-OFF IN CLASS "B" LEAGUE

Muleskinners and Pontoniers in Wind-Up for Infantry School News Cup.

Men from the Service Company who skin long-eared army mules and toot on obeos and picolos and flutes down in the Demonstration Doughboys, stepped out far, wide, high and handsome on the baseball field yesterday afternoon and utterly annihilated their regimental comrades from the Howitzer Company. The ultimate outcome of the game was 12 to 0, which would have been fairly close had the teams been playing football or even water polo. But it was baseball and so the result may, with reasonable accuracy, be described as decisive, not to say one-sided.

By reason of the victory as aforesaid the Muleskinners tied up the final standing of the Class "B" Twilight League, and a best two in three play-off with the Bridgebuilders from the 7th Engineers will begin Friday, to determine possession of the fine silver cup offered by the Infantry School News for the champions of the garrison junior loop.

The Twilight circuit composed of six teams, Service Co., 29th Howitzer Co., 29th, Co. A., 7th Engineers, Quartermaster Corps, Chemical Warfare Service, and I. S. D., 2nd Team, was the result of an idea of the Infantry School News that the smaller organizations of the garrison should have organized baseball, just as the larger units have in the Gowdy Cup circuit. The Infantry School News informally called a meeting of representatives of units not competing in the big loop, offered a sterling silver trophy, and as a result the present circuit was formed. The Aathletic Association gave its approval and play was begun late in July.

The race was close throughout, with the Engineers, Howitzers and Service Co., in the running all the way. The standing after yesterday's game closed the regular schedule follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Co. A, 7th Eng.	8	2	.800
Service Co., 29th	8	2	.800
Howitzer Co. 29th	7	3	.700

C. W. S.	2	8	.200
I. S. D., 2nd Tteam	0	10	.000

HOWITZERS LOSE TO ENGINEERS IN ONE SIDED GAME

Pontoniers Take Ample Revenge for Previous Setback.

The Howitzer Company boys from the Demonstration Doughboys lost a fine chance Thursday to eliminate one of their rivals for the Class B championship. They met the Diamond wearing boys from Engineer Hill with the opportunity open to them to put the bridge builders completely out of the running. Did they do it? Emphatically no! Sergeant Brock and his hard hitting crew wielded wicked war clubs on the deliveries of Morrow and Foster and smeared an 11 to 3 defeat all over the Baby Cannoneers. Now the Engineers can win the pennant if the Muleskinners beat the Howitzers in their two games and tie things up in a hard knot if the two doughboy nines split the pair. Oh, well, excitement is what we want, and so it's better to have three teams in the running than for the result to be settled in every way except mathematically.

A lean six and a half footer from the Gyneers named "Cy" Perkins, b'gosh, had the Indian sign all over the usually swatting Howitzer crew. Perk had a barrel of stuff and drew on it freely. Only in the fourth frame could Lieutenant Smythe's crowd unravel the dark enigma of his delivery. Cy set nine down on strikes, and gave up only four safe hits. Cameron pitched the seventh, not because relief was needed, but just for exercise. Long George was invincible.

Meanwhile the Bridgebuilders unleashed a veritable drum fire if hits. Eleven solid kocks rang off their trussy willows, including ponderous triples by Kingsbury, Brock and Culbreth, and a driving double by Hankins. This concentrated pack of T. N. T. sent Morrow out of the box, and brought in Foster, but the ex-shortstop fared only slightly better than his unfortunate predecessor.

SERVICE COMPANY WIN TIES BRIDGEBUILDERS FOR TWILIGHT HONORS

Annihilation of Howitzermen Enters Muleskinners in Play-off.

Service Company Muleskinners went out Wednesday afternoon and demonstrated that it is they who will meet the Engineers in a three game play-off for the Class "B" championship and the Infantry School News Cup. Nor was there anything indecisive or inconclusive about their method of demonstration. They simply played rings around the Howitzer Company team in every department of the game, piled up an even dozen tallies and refused the Baby Cannoneers admission to the counting block.

Foster twirled for the Mortarmen and blanked the Muleskinners in the first and last rounds, but in between the score by innings resembled a Bobby Jones card. 3, 3, 4, 2, read the scoreboard, several below par for four golf holes, but many above par for a baseball game. Hard hitting, alert baserunning, and many, many errors by the opposition provided the run collecting means. Just to show that the particular stage of the inning meant nothing to them the Muleskinners collected their trio in the second before anybody was out, made their next triple tally in the third after two were out, chased their four over in the fourth between the first and second demises, and as there wasn't any other possible combination scored their last duet after two were away. The only thing in which they were consistent was, nobody ever got out until it was over.

"Bubber" Dean handled the Howitzer batters with ease, allowing only four hits, scattered over four innings. A trifle of wildness cropped out at times, but nowhere were the Mortarmen dangerous.

There may have been worse outfielding somewhere than the Howitzers turned in, but I doubt it.

THE 24TH INFANTRY REDS CHAMPS

(By Capt. Stanley G. Saulnier.)

Once more the 24th Infantry has won the Baseball championship of the Infantry School. Once more the Reds of the 24th Infantry have played in a championship series and come out victors. In 1925 the Reds closed the season tied with the Infantry School Detachment for first honors and had to play a five game series for the pennant. Last year the Reds took the first two of the Little World Series. Rallying, the I. S. D. brought the series to a tie by securing the next two in line. The championship hung in the balance. The fans of the garrison filled the stands of Gowdy Field, smacking their lips over the prospects of a thriller to wind up the series. They were rewarded, for from behind, the Reds made their way and succeeded in nailing the championship pennant to the pole for the year 1925. The deciding game of the series was the second. In this game the Reds showed the real baseball metal that was in them. The real championship timber was very noticeable in this game. The I. S. D. seemed to have the second game sewed up, the backers of the Detachment were going wild in the stands. The I. S. D. was leading by 5 runs, the Reds had two out, when a resounding smack started the Reds around the sacks scoring 8 runs and the game in that inning. That was baseball.

This year, 1926, the 24th Infantry Reds are champions. The first half of the series was easily theirs. Following closely on their heels were the Blues of the 24th. Slowly the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry, by sheer fine baseball worked their way to the lead of the second half having won 11 and lost 1 game. The Reds followed, having won 9 and lost 3. The usual deciding series was planned — five games, the champs to be chosen by winning three out of the five games.

The day of the series was ideal. Long before 2:30 p. m. the scheduled time for the game, the stands were filled to overflowing. The bands of both regiments were tossing challenge to challenge—while all manner of noise provoking machines were brought in to action at the slightest opportunity. The very air seemed charged.

The first game was very tightly played. It was the brand of baseball that makes the game. The 29th team was first to score, with a lone run. Pandemonium was let loose. The stands fairly rocked with the gales of cheering from both sides—the 29th for praise, the 24th for encouragement. Despite the lead, the 24th Reds came from behind and brought the score even and then crashed over the deciding run for game. Sheer excitement brought the crowd to their feet, cheer echoed after cheer. The 24th Reds had the first leg on the championship series.

The second game of the series was not so close, the Reds taking it was a score of 4 to 1. However it was baseball every minute of the game.

The third and last game was history-making for local baseball. As in the first game the 2nd Bn. scored first. The Reds slowly worked from behind and tied and then shattered the score, leaving it 4 to 3. In the last inning, the 2nd Battalion at bat with two out —Willis and Kjelstrom on second and third, McCarthy facing Vance. The stands held their breath—this was to be the deciding stage. McCarthy connected with the horsehide for a hot grounder over second. It was drilling right into Cpl. McCrary's territory. With almost super-human effort McCrary speared it and threw it to King on 2nd forcing Kjelstrom on that sack and saving the game and the series for the 24th Reds.

Pitching that rivalled big league circles was exhibited during every inning of the garrison series. Every phase of the game was superbly played and every quarter of the diamond was unsafe for the horsehide.

The story of the winning of the series is not the record of the deeds of any one individual player, but is the record of the entire Red team. With the precision of a well-oiled machine the Reds tallied the winning scores. No player ever failing to score a hit at the crucial moment that would add for a run. At no time during the series can it be said that the "Champs" lost their heads or showed the slightest sign of "blowing up". The smooth coordination that marks the Reds as champions was ever present.

As the perfect Infantryman must be the master of teamwork and as success in battle depends largely upon this factor, so on the diamond the Red team of the 24th Infantry gave the finest example of smooth, finely developed team work that has been witnessed at the Infantry School in many a day.

It must be realized that the 24th Infantry has a personnel which is about one-third the size of that of the 29th Infantry. Despite this handicap, the regiment has, during each of the last two years put into play and developed two real contenders for the baseball title.

The refreshing display of sportsmanship that was ever-present during the series marks the way of the 24th Infantry in all department of sport activity. This sterling quality was never so noticeable as in the series just finished.

The 24th Infantry has ended the baseball season Chmapions. The regiment is proud of its team and their accomplishments. Never in the minds of the regiment was there a trace of doubt as to the final outcome. The soldiers of the 24th Infantry believed in their players and were back of them not withstanding the tally or the odds.

The regiment now flies two consecutive championship pennants and takes to its own the Spalding trophy. It also grasps for the first time the newly presented "Hank" Gowdy cup which is to be competed for annually by the Infantry School.

Once more fine playing, clean sportsmanship and whole-hearted support have won for the 24th Infantry.

The Editor,
Infantry School News,
Dear Sir:

The Infantry School News is congratulated upon having arrived at its fifth birthday after having successfully withstood the assaults of childhood newspaper diseases, such as advertiser's croup, subscriber's whooping cough, and higher authority's nettle rash.

No longer may this paper be called the Weakly Excuse by friend and foe alike—because it isn't any more; no longer may Otto B. Shotte take weekly cracks at the Columbus-Benning Daily Risk—because Otto and The News helped to remedy that; no longer may Major Sweatshop rave about the inefficiency of The News staff and the general nuisance the paper made of itself at periodic intervals because, first, the Major has left the station, and second, his remarks are without foundation at this time.

All of which is meant to imply that The News is believed to be the best Service paper of its class now and is more than accomplishing the mission for which it was primarily intended. Not only is the paper a material factor in the making of its station one of the best in the Army but it is also a medium for the dissemination of worth-while news covering Infantry activities that is far reaching in its influence and of actual value to the Ifantry School.

The undersigned heartily congratulates the Editor of The News and his staff upon the good work being done.

JOHN ELKINS,
Captain, Infantry (DOL)

BENNING CONTRIBUTES TO RELIEF OF FLORIDA HURRICANE SUFFERERS

Cots and Tents Shipped to Miami When Storm Renders Many Homeless.

When the big hurricane hit southern Florida the military authorities of the Fourth Corps area immediately offered all the assistance possible in relieving the desperate situation of the many thousands of homeless sufferers. Major General Hagood, commanding the Corps Area called upon the Commandant of the Infantry School for information as to the number of tents, cots, blankets and rolling kitchens available at the Upatoi station. General Collins at once, through the Quartermaster ascertained the number and reported to Atlanta.

On Monday morning orders came down from General Hagood to ship twenty-eight hundred cots and one hundred pyramidal tents, complete with pins and poles to the Floridan Relief, c-o Col. V. B. Collins, Miami, Florida.

The Central of Georgia railroad at once placed a car to be loaded and Colonel Warfield's men rushed the cots and tents on board and by six o'clock Monday afternoon the much needed material was on its way to Miami on the Seminole Limited.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

The Quantico Marine eleven is getting ready for its opening game at Durham, N. H., against the University of New Hampshire eleven by going through steady signal drills with scrimmages scheduled during the week.

With fifteen backfield men working for positions Coach Frank Geottge will have a better opportunity to mold a more finished brand of football offense this fall. Among the present set of backfield material there appears to be at least two capable quarterback prospects in Ryckman and Arnold, with Ryan and several of the other backs battling all he way through for the final selection of the quarterback to direct the team's offensive. Jack McQuade has reported lighter and faster than he ever has for early season work and is back again this season. Bose Duncan is also among those present to compete for the backfield situation.

More than twenty men are working out for the line and Coach Harry Liversedge should have no difficulty at all in filling the gaps left open from the loss of the line material from last year's squad. The squad is well supplied with seasoned tackle material as Wigmore, Brougher, Hunt and Burger are all back.

Movies in the School

It is because of the educational value of motion pictures that ten American cities will install moving picture apparatus in their schools this fall, to be used as an aid in the education of the children. Special films will be shown on such subjects as geography, civics, health and hygiene, fine and practical arts and general science. The first use of these films will be in the fourth, fifth sixth and junior high grades. It is said that care will be taken to make them suitable and interesting for the children they are to instruct.

In a general way New York has demonstrated the value of the movies as an aid to education, not in the schools, but to the public, during the present summer. The department of health of that city has been taking picture-show apparatus to the parks of the city where films have been exhibited showing ways to maintain good health. It is estimated that one hundred thousand persons each week have been viewing these pictures, learning the lessons taught by them, which will certainly have a beneficial effect upon the city's living conditions.

With the motion picture in the schools it is pointed out that the students will see accurate records and that the information obtained from them will be second only to that gained by actually viewing the place or thing pictured. For instance, the child who has never seen the ocean will get a clear and well-defined idea of what the ocean is when he sees the picture of the waves sweeping over the sandy beaches or lashing themselves against the rocks. He will learn things of other countries from these picture lessons that he could not from mere reading. He will sit at his school desk and travel to all parts of the world, seeing all sorts of people.

It is declared by some that "a child can get three years of geography in one through the aid of the moving pictures, and other subjects that can be picturized can quickly be engraved on the child's mind through the medium of the moving pictures, when by the old method of text books and drill the child must have month after month of teaching." It is pointed out that the child who has only the vaguest idea of what an "avalanche" is from reading about it, will know at once what it is when he sees the avalanche in motion on the screen.

The subject of movies in the schools is arousing more and more interest every year, because teachers recognize their value as an aid to education. It may not be many years before courses of instruction by means of the motion picture will be given in schools throughout the country.—Enquirer-Sun.

Aside from the vast amount of information that can be imparted to the student quickly, by the movies, it is believed the next greatest value of the moving picture, lies in the fact that it holds the interest of the student like nothing else will. The instructional methods at the Infantry School are based somewhat on this fact. By the use of graphs and charts the interest of the student officer is held and the subject is plainly placed before the student in a most accurate way, and, in a minimum length of time.

The Values of Newspapers

Probably no greater compliment has ever been paid to the newspapers than that contained in an article in last week's issue of the Life and Casualty Mirror, published by the Life and Casualty Insurance Company. The article is composed of extracts from a booklet sent out by the Manhattan Bank of New York.

"Without newspapers," says the article, "widespread cooperation would be impossible, and little imagination is required to visualize the disastrous effect upon the business activities of the nation if this supporting arch in our economic structure were suddenly to be destroyed. The newspaper is in itself a remarkable example of voluntary cooperation. When it is considered that there are 45,000,000 copies of each issue of the 13,400 newspapers entering every home, office and workshop of the land, we begin to realize the vastness of this cooperation. We begin also to sense the extent of the constantly renewed influence which brings our millions of people into continuous conscious touch with each other."

From the earliest beginnings the newspaper has been recognized as one of the great civic, intellectual and moral forces operating to build up and cement our social structure. The progress that has been made in America is cited by calling attention to the fact that it was eleven days between the signing of the Declaration of Independence, in Philadelphia, and the publication of that document in Hartford, Conn., by the Courant, while now a photograph taken in London or Hong Kong in the morning can be reproduced in the evening papers in San Francisco and New York a few hours later.

The article lays much emphasis upon the value of the newspaper to the business world, drawing the very logical conclusion that advertising does not in reality cost aynbody anything, because it pays for itself. The article is splendidly written and will be well worth reading by all inasmuch as it gives a clear and accurate idea of the real value of the newspaper.—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

The Infantry is constantly experimenting to improve the efficiency of the nine weapons with which it is armed. In Panama where roads are scarce and impenetrable jungle is plentiful, it has been found that the Infantry cannon, (the 37 mm. gun, one of these nine weapons) is with difficulty transported on wheels. A decision was reached that this weapon should be packed on mules. Upon experimentation it was found that the trail of this gun was too long. When packing it on the present issue mule, one is faced with the dilemma of either tickling the mule's ears or his rump—two admittedly sensitive centers.

Since the length of trail of the 37 mm. gun has been scientifically designed after a great deal of experimentation, a solution is not apparent. One facetious suggestion has been to breed a mule with the conformation of a German dachshund.

BARRACKS BANTER

"THE BRIDGE AT BRIEULLES"

Oh! the War Lord's hosts were shaken, and his craven heart was quakin'
And his far-flung line was breakin' —only holdin' on the Meuse;
On the sullen, swollen Meuse,
Where he fought to win or lose;
And his orders were: we shouldn't, and we wouldn't, and we couldn't
For he said, "It is verboten! that they cross the River Meuse!"
"But they built the bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

Sure the rain came down in tanks-full, and the Meuse was runnin' banksfull,
And the Hun was feeling thankful,— as he faced us o'er the flood;
'Cross the muddy, swollen flood,
Crimsned soon with heroes blood;
And he swore that we would never,— never then or never ever,
Cross the flat and flooded valley, to the heights on which he stood.
"But they built the bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

On a murky, misty morning, 'cross the river, without warning—
Screaming shell and shrapnel scorning — swept the plucky pontoniers;
Swearing, sweating pontoniers
Of the Seventh Engineers;
And though fear-struck Heinies shelled 'em; nothin' held 'em; nothin' quelled 'em;
While they lashed and launched their Lamperts; like they'd done it all for years;
"And they built the bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

But the Hun, in consternation, loosed a deadly devastation,
Spreading swift extermination, on that marshy valley floor;
On that sodden valley floor,
Grown more sodden now with gore;
So we had to hunt for shelter, and to hunt it helter-skelter,
'Neath that high and friendly bank that lined the Est Canal of yore.
"But they built a bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

For two days and nights we laid, ( our bellys there, and prayed;
While the bullets o'er us sprayed, and our bayonets rusted red;
And we watched that rusty red;
Aching to avenge our dead;
While the Engineers were damin' the delay,—and plannin' spannin'
Of the broad canal before us, while the wings of night were spread;
"With another bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

On a gray morn in November; 'twas the fourth, if I remember,
Startled Fritz awoke from slumber,—
"Der Verdammter Pioniere"—
"Ach, Mein Gott! Der Pioniere!"—
"Der Verdammter Engineers!"—
For a cable, limp and lank, spanned the flood, from bank to bank!—
And a bridge was buildin' fast—by the bustlin' Engineers;
"And they built the bridge, by God!" says Red O'Neal.

While around the shells were crashin'— sinkin' pontons, with their smashin'—
Snappin' off the new-made lashin's, from the bobbin'; sinkin' floats;
Torn and tattered canvas floats—
Little ,bloody, bobbin' boats;
In the water to their ears,—human piers!—pontoniers!—
Kept the shattered bridge from sinkin' —while we doughboys charged the slopes—
"With a bloody, human bridge! says Red O'Neal.

DISTINGUISHED OFFICER FROM JAPAN IS TAKING ADVANCED CLASS HERE

Captain Nari of Imperial Army Comes To Benning Direct from Mikado's War Office.

For the first time in the history of the Infantry School a Japanese officer is in attendance at school here. Captain Nari of the Imperial Japanese

Army has reported at Fort Benning and has started the course as a member of the Advaced Class.

Captain Nari was born in Japan in Nagasaki Prefecture on December 6th, 1889. As a boy he attended the primary and middle schools in Nagasaki and in 1909 he entered the Japanese Imperial Military Academy in Tokio after having attended the customary Preparatory School at that place. Captain Nari graduated from the Imperial Military Academy in 1911 and was commissioned in the Imperial Japanese Army and assigned to the 46th Infantry as a Second Lieuteaut. The 46th Japanese Infantry was then at Omura, Nagasaki Preftcure.

At the outbreak of the World war Captain Nari went with his regiment to Tsing Tau, the German territory in China, and, there participated in the action against the German fortresses Von Moltke and Bismarck; the fortresses were captured by the Japanese. For exceptionally meritorious service and bravery Captain Nari was decorated with the Order of the Rising Sun, which is one of Japan's very highest military decorations. Captain Nari during this action was in command of a Heavy Machine Gun Platoon of the 46th Infantry and succeeded, after much fighting, in reducing several German machine gun nests.

Captain Nari also wears the decoration known as the Zui-Ho-Sho, which is awarded to Officers of the Japanese Army for exceptionally meritorious and useful service to their organization for a period of over ten years. The Japanese General Staff insignia is also worn by Captain Nari. This medal is worn only by distinguished graduates of the Japanese General Staff School. Captain Nari graduated from the General Staff School at Tokyo in 1920.

Upon completing a tour of duty on the Japanese General Staff at the War Office in Tokio, Captain Nari came to the United States and to Fort Benning. Many Japanese Officers are schooled in Germany and in France, Captain Nari stated, and the Japanese Officers as a rule prefer details to the European Military Schools, due to the fact that a great majority of the officers speak German and French fluently. Captain Nari, however, chose the Infantry School at Fort Benning, because he is very desirous of learning the English language and the latest military ideas as set forth in our army.

Upon arriving at Fort Benning, Captain Nari states that he was very much impressed with the post and the general military bearing of the officers and men, and especially, Captain Nari said, was he impressed with the earnestness and zeal with which the Student Officers started on their work in the depressing heat.

The Greatest Fighting

By J. G. Harbord

THOSE who served as doughboys during the World War must sometimes wonder if they were the last of their kind to appear on the battlefield. The word doughboy, it may be necessary to explain to a minimum of readers, is the time-honored American label of the foot soldier—the man who carries a rifle over his shoulder and a pack on his back. A casual reading of the newspapers and magazines would easily lead one to believe that the next war—if there is one—will be waged entirely by mechanical means, and that the infantry—the foot soldiery—will be excess baggage and useless.

The doubtful doughboy can do no better than recall the days just preceding the World War. Many extravagant claims were made. Submarines would win the war. Airplanes would win the war. Ships would win the war. Everything and everybody was going to win the World War except the doughboy.

There is no doubt that all these factors were valuable contributions to the winning of the war, but in the public squares of the Allied world today the doughboy is the one immortalized in bronze and in marble. He has at last come into his own. The chances are that the Unknown Soldiers of France, Britain, Italy and America carried rifles and fought on foot.

In all ages man has, during peace, turned his mind to the inveniton of mechanical means for winning wars. Some of these inventions have served most practical purposes, but none of them has replaced the infantry. They have all either served the doughboy or disappeared.

Considering the time, place and methods of fighting, among the most horrible engines of war ever devised were Hannibal's elephants, with which the Carthaginians hoped to conquer the Romans. There is no doubt that these elephants struck terror into the hearts of the Romans when they made their first appearance on an Italian battlefield. The Romans dug pits, very much like the pits that were dug for the tanks in the World War, and tried every conceivable means to stop the onslaught. Then a Roman general formed his army in lines instead of in solid mass. The elephants charged down between the lines of men as if they were avenues and galloped out of the war. Carthage was reduced to ashes.

The invention of gunpowder brought the usual "no more wars" prophecy. Gunpowder, so it was said, would bring everlasting peace because it had made war too horrible to exist. But eventually, the doughboys simply spread out and took to cover. The same prediction was made for each new invention that has hurled a larger or more powerful shell, but the infantry has simply spread in depth and front. In the World War much bombarding went for nothing because the doughboys dug little foxholes. Unless the shell registered a direct hit in this foxhole the soldier escaped uninjured.

Many will recall the day when our newspapers carried great headlines on the first gas attack by the Germans. Armies were to be wiped out by this new means of warfare, but the Tommies of England and the poilus of France simply wet their handkerchiefs and held them over their noses. Then came a gasmask. The infantry had conquered another invention that was to destroy it.

These few examples give some idea of the great mental effort and cost to which nations have gone to find mechanical means to overcome man. They also illustrate the very simple methods by which the soldiers survived.

Soldiers, formed in lines, defeated Hannibal's elephants. Soldiers, by moving a few yards apart and taking advantage of cover, advanced against gunpowder. A little foxhole in the ground was an effective defense against artillery fire, even when the cannons were hub to hub. A wet handkerchief overcame gas.

We may fairly safely assume that such will be the case in the future and that the doughboy will still remain the main body of the army. The airplane is proving this as fast as it develops. The inventive genius that perfects the large, ponderous bomber, capable of carrying several tons of explosive, at the same time develops the mobile high-speed combat and pursuit plane. These fighting planes can destory bombers because of their speed and agility.

In the winter of 1922, four years after the World War, the War Department made an exhaustive study of the influence of modern scientific developments upon the technique of warfare. As a result of this investigation the War Department General Staff agreed upon these two conclusions:

(1) That man remains the fundamental instrument in battle, and as such cannot be replaced by any imaginable instrument short of one more perfect than the human body, including the mind.

(2) That man in the bulk—meaning the greater portion of armed forces—fights with greatest freedom of action and with greatest efficiency when on foot, not on horse back, in a tank, in an airplane, in a fixed fortification, etc.; that to achieve decisive action he is best armed with the rifle and bayonet; that man is rendered least vulnerable when merely clothed against the weather and armored by his own agility, with steel helmet.

These conclusions were not those of infantrymen but of a body representative of all the branches of the American Army. There are fewer infantry officers on the General Staff in proportion to the total number of infantry than from any other arm. This is necessary in order that all arms shall be represented.

At the time of the above mentioned report, General Pershing was Chief of Staff and I was Deputy Chief of Staff. Both General Pershing and myself had been cavalry officers. General Lassiter from the artillery was Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3, in charge of operations and training. He was directly in charge of the study of the influence of modern scientific developments on the technique of warfare. General Connor from the engineers was Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, in charge of supply; General Heintzelman, a former cavalry officer, was Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, in charge of the military intelligence division, and General McRae, from the infantry, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, in charge of the personnel division.

I mention these names for fear somebody might say it was a packed jury. All members of the General trained officers, and knew from experience infantry.

This same opinion is seconded by the N
Board, so called because it was headed by Ad consisting of seven admirals and the comma rine Corps, stated in its report as late as Fe

"It follows that normally the ultimate fo national defense is the Army, and the only that can ultimately bring about a decision tional defense is the infantry. Therefore, the Army have for their object to help the the decision and all peace and war operations ultimately to transporting, protecting and su
(the infantry and its supporting arms) up t decisive campaigns."

Neither the Army nor the Navy have pla among the antiques, and both believe that he nent a figure in future wars as in those of t modern scientific developments will not replac assist him as in the past. This does not mean th or Navy Departments are blind to the value of ment. They may be relied upon to make f need be.

But both the Army and the Navy appreciate the fact that, necessity being the mother of invention, every new engine of offense is likely to be met by some equally ingenious weapon of defense, tending to nullify the former's effectiveness.

All of us can congratulate ourselves that neither the Army nor the Navy is being led off upon a tangent by recent developments, and that their responsible officers are thinking clearly through to the fundamentals. This is especially encouraging when there is so much loose thinking and loose reasoning on the subject of National Defense.

THE OLD ARMY—THE NEW ARMY

(By James R. Morrison.)

In a recent issue of The Infantry School News there appeared an article under the Infantry School Detachment caption entitled The Old Army—The New Army, which from the writer's view point is entirely erroneous and misleading in so far as the old army is concerned. The author of this article evidently has very little conception or knowledge of the personnel composing the army up to and including the period of 1916. The writer happens to be a product of both the old and new army, having served two enlistments from 1906 to 1911, as well as continuously since 1916, in a purely technical branch of the service (Company "I", 3rd Bn. Engineers) during which time our recruit training was along practically the same lines as today with the exception of certain improved weapons and machines which were not then in use.

I do not believe that the percentage of educated men in the new army is any higher than in the old. There were certain mental and educational tests that each applicant had to meet before enlistment. During my service in Co. I there were five enlisted men who were college graduates from some of the very best technical schools in the country, such as V. M. I. and the U. of Penn. and there were any number of high school and business college graduates. The writer happens to be still serving with a technical organization at Fort Benning, namely the 7th Engineers, in which there is at present one man who is a college graduate, and three who have attended college but were not graduated; the high school men are probably of about an equal number.

Now for the old army discipline. For the information of the new men who read this article; it was the same as today, perhaps a trifle more severe, but with fewer court martials. You often hear the old men refer to the good old days and there is good reason for this. In olden times officers remained with their organizations longer than at present, probably six, eight, or ten years. The captain knew the men and the men knew the captain. Your first sergeant and sergeants were permanent fixtures in the organization — seldom ever changed. The percentage of re-enlistments was much higher than now. In a company of 154 men there were 125 re-enlisted men serving their second third and fourth enlistment as privates, with all their discharges reading "character excellent". Trials by civil courts were few and far between, with no "road and chaingang sentences".

The company commander of the olden days was looked upon not so much as your commanding officer but as father, adviser, lawyer, banker, and whatnot, but don't get the idea that the officers in the old army couldn't mete out punishment. Far be it from that. When you went up for courtmartial you knew perfectly well that if you were guilty you'd certainly get the limit.

Now For The Old Army.

The writer has been back in the service continuously since the year 1916. I served nineteen months overseas with a combatant engineer organization and I can truthfully say that never did I serve with any higher type of officers and enlisted men than in that organization. The same applies after returning to the states. From the year 1922 to 1925, approximately three and one half years, I served with the same company commander. I have soldiered under as good, but none better; this officer always shoots straight; if he said "Jones, you will be tried," a trial it was, and nine times out of ten Jones was stuck.

Now for the benefit of the new men in the service the army is a great game, and to a certain extent it's just what you make it. You can make it easy or hard, you are the architect of your army career.

Forget about the old men talking about the good old days. You'll probably be talking the same way in a few short years. There are no jealousies directed toward the young men in the service and there shouldn't be. Let us forget about our little troubles and live in peace; let us help the new recruit who comes in the service; give him a helping hand; make it easy for him, for in a few short years he may be your first sergeant or even your company commander.

All in all the new army is as good as the old, only you don't get to know each other quite so well. But what do you say, Buddie, let's be friends and try to make this new army the best of all.

Thank you.

THE AIDE PAID

A short time ago the aide to one of our general officers, driving at night, was blinded by the headlights of an approaching car and ran into a farm wagon carrying a family, but no lights. He stood suit and lost the decision. Appealed and lost again, though local laws required all vehicles to carry lights at night. Due to his associations, personal and official, he had the very best advice and strong military influences to back him. Nevertheless for a long and wearisome period his monthly income was reduced by large partial payments on this judgment, court costs and attorney's fees, in addition to which he had to take leave three times to appear in a court of an adjoining state where the accident occurred.

He called on us later to protect him against personal liability, as well as every other coverage he had heard about.

What car do you own? Have you personal liability protection?

Write us for particulars.

JACK'S NOSE SURVIVES FIRST BLOW

By Westbrook Pegler.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Jack Dempsey's beeswax nose bled for the first time under punishment this afternoon when Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight, who has been prodding Dempsey with an accurate and aggravating left hand, poked him square on the home grown potato and provoked a thin, dark trickle.

The assemblage of more or less expert experts at the ringside all tore their coat pockets in their haste to get out note paper and make memoranda of the incident. Loughran, his mind full of stories of the sudden death that was to overtake Dempsey the first time any one hit him hard enough to give him a nose bleed, almost fainted as he realized what he had done. Jerry the Greek, Dempsey's trainer, took a drink of liniment and fanned himself with a water bucket.

Capt. Charles Mabbutt, the one-man battalion, who was refereeing, broke into a perspiration and faded away to a mere company. Dempsey lowered his head and ended the tension by whipping up a left hook that almost knocked Loughran cold.

Nose Proves Practical.

Dr. John B. Deaver, a Philadelphia surgeon, said to be a man of high position in his line of work, was a witness of the nose blood and he said it was a reassuring sign for Dempsey, indicating that the synthetic nose is practical.

Dempsey, with the vaselined face and the squeaky voice and the personal bodyguard of metropolitan flycops always idling near him ready and panting to push somebody in the face, is beginning to arouse sympathy or pity here in Atlantic City where once he was rather a gay figure along the heterogenious row of hot dog stands, twenty-dollars-a-day hotels, penny arcades, and lingerie shops known as the Boardwalk.

By tradition the heavyweight champion of the world is a big, tough guy with fists as big as grapefruit and subject to considerable popular envy of adulation, but never to pity. But tradition is taking them on the chin in the preparations for the Dempsey-Tunney fight for here is Tunney, a challenger, who reads books without any pictures in them and here is Jack Dempsey, a champion, who shies at the sound of an unfamiliar football as though he were Gerald Chapman and spends a good deal of his time brooding over the troubles already occasioned and yet to be occasioned for him by his late manager, Jack Kearns.

Training Becomes Serious.

The training of the heavyweight champion became a solemn, almost furtive program. One detective, Mike Trant, a sergeant on the Chicago force, lives with him and Jerry the Greek, his trainer, at the cottage. Another Chicago detective, Fred Tapscott, lives at a hotel on the boardwalk and after the checkerboard has been folded away for the evening at the cottage, he idles around the lobbies, listening in the wise way that detectives affect, when engaged in serious listening, to hear what will be the next move of Jack Kearns. During the last two days, there have been two New York detectives here, Jack Smith and Johnny Broderick, a couple of boys who did duty at the six day bike races in the old and new gardens, and it seems that they are engaged in listening, too.

Then there is Capt. Charlie Mabbutt, the human dread nothing, whose status in the Dempsey party isn't quite clear to the naked eye, but he seems to be official, nevertheless, and he divides his time between guard duty, attending the champion's person, and listening duty around the town.

DAVIS CUP

With a big grass-stain on his white flanneled knee, William Tilden, champion of the world, limped over to the umpire's stand and wiped his bleak face with a towel. It was the third set and thirteenth game of his match against Rene Lacoste, at Germantown, and he was a game behind.

On a table beside the court the celebrated Davis Cup caught a waning sun. Its presence was not significant. On the third day of the series the U. S., acquiring the necessary three points, had made sure of retaining it: William Johnson had beaten Rene Lacoste, Tilden had beaten Jean Borotra, Vincent Richard ad R. Norris Williams had won their doubles match from Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnan. But a great issue was in the balance, and Tilden, as he put down the towel and prepared to receive Lacoste's service, was quite aware that this issue might be swayed, for good or evil, by the grass-stain on his trousers.

He had dwadled throug the first set, managing to win it, 6-4, only because Lacoste obviously expected to be beaten and made many errors. Lacoste's game has always irritated Tilden. It is a suave game, a soft-spoken game of placements that look easy because the man who reaches for them looks so awkward—of strokes that a hard-hitting player can kill only if he is very careful. Last year Lacoste reached match-point four times before Tilden beat him. The champion was teasing, people said; he gave away points to get an incentive.

Was he doing the same thing now? Lacoste had taken the second set; now, encouraged by the appearance of the grass stain, he took the third. Surely, that was all the incentive Tilden could ask for. . . He had his back, at last, where he liked to have it, against a metaphorical wall. Unfortunately, the grass-tsain on hi flannelings was not metaphorical; and he had—could one believe it?—a perfectly literal hi p. He had hurt himself. That was t ie plain prose of it.

When he came back after the re st period he had a plain prose bandage on. He won the first and third games, lost the fourth and, after a heartbreaki g struggle, the fifth. The sixth game of this fourth set was easy for Lacos e. And he had a lead in the seventh when Tilden started to play cannonball services. Placements boomed like roundshot. The gallery rocked and roared. Now he was off. He would keep on, he would snow the Frenchman under, he would. . .

And yet he did not. For the first time in his life he lost a Davis Cup match, for the first time in a blue moon the metaphorical wall toppled over, crushing him. Reaching for one of Lacoste's drives, he had sprained a ligament in his knee. Lacoste took the match, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6, 8-6.

Johnston and Borotra rounded off the series with a free-hitting match, Johnston gambling all on each drive, Borotra bounding wildly. Johnston won: 8-6, 6-4, 9-7.

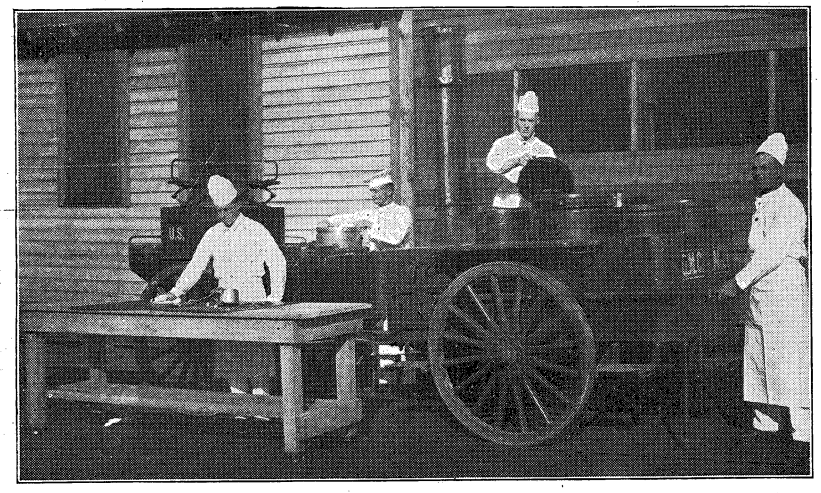
FIRST TO GIVE 100 PER CENT. SUPPORT



Members of the School for Bakers and Cooks have earned the distinction of being the leaders of the garrison in support of the "block subscription" plan of the Infantry School News. Every soldier in the outfit is now a paid-up subscriber, and this is the first unit to reach the 100 per cent. status.

By Captain L. E. Bowman.

The School for Bakers and Cooks, Fort Benning, Georgia, was organifized per letter, Office of the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C., dated March 4, 1922, approved by first indorsement, A. G. O., W. D., dated March 7, 1922, as a Special Service School.

The following constitutes the faculty:

1 Officer.
1 Warrant Officer.
12 Enlisted Men.

The School for Bakers and Cooks offers the following courses for instruction:

Special course (Officers)—2 mos.
Bakers course—4 mos.
Cooks course—4 mos.
Mess Sergeants course—1 mo.
Special Pastry course—for all students as specified by Ass't Comdt.

Activities. In addition to, and as a result of, the instruction of students, the School has rendered valuable service to the garrison. An outline of the activities are as follows:

Bakery—bread was produced in the following amounts during the past year:

Garrison (issue)	845,533 lbs.
Sales	188,111 lbs.
Graham	6,050 lbs.
Rye	5,008 lbs.
Raisin	4,752 lbs.

Pastry Shop—The usual variety of cakes, pies and pastry was produced during the past year for members of the garrison.

The purchase of new equipment for use in connection with the New Post Bakery will enable the school to render a better delivery of bread, rolls, and pastry to the garriso as a whole.

The school year begins October 1st, 1926, and approximately one hundred enlisted students will receive instruction during the coming year, from the various posts throughout the Fourth Corps Area.

The School for Bakers and Cooks enters again for the coming year one hundred per cent. subscription for members of this organization for The Infantry School News.

When the school takes over the new Post Bakery, the school plans additional features for the instruction of students, and for the convenience and comfort of the garrison, such as regular "Boston Baked Beans" once a week; the privilege of having hams, turkeys, and roasts properly prepared, at a very nominal charge, by experts, and other features.

THAT FORT BENNING STOCKADE

In Fort Benning there's a jailhouse,
Within some rusty wire,
It's not a very fancy place,
And it's called Hotel Whitmire.

The rates are fourteen bucks a month,
Or may be more or less,
But when you leave that Hotel
You sure have earned a rest.

The mattresses are very thin,
The floor is awful hard,
And if you sleep at all at night,
You sure are lucky, pard.

They've a Blackbox in the yard,
And it sure is mighty mean,
When you're in it, you sweat and sweat,
And damn near lose your bean.

When in the mess hall there's a noise,
Hard Hearted Hannah looks,
An dif you raise your hand up
He's got you on his books.

Then you'll caress the floor that night,
And maybe a couple of more,
And when you've done that many a night,
You'll learn to like the floor.

Sometimes they give us exercise,
In a form of double-time,
We whip the track both night and day,
And our appetites wax fine.

But when we've nothing here to eat,
Just slum and beans and corn,
It makes my stomach ache with tears,
When my appetite is scorned.

When in the early morning,
The whistle wakes us up,
We rise and shake the kinks out
Of our banckbones like a pup.

Now let me tell you something, boy,
And let it sink in deep,
'Cause if you don't heed what I say,
In that jailhouse you will sleep.

The boys all say it isn't hard,
And I say they're not right,
'Cause how'd you like to be chased
By a man with a gun, day and night?

Now don't laugh, young fellow,
'Cause what I say is true,
I've built six hot ones in that place,
And I sure got my due.

I've learned a costly lesson, boy,
And I'll pass it on to you.
Just walk the straight and narrow,
And you're bound to get thru.

—Stanley Gayle Sjovall.

29TH INF.

Hq. Co., 2nd Bn.

Cpl. Stragand returned today from a three months furlough, to meet with a very pleasant surprise. The 1st Sergeant handed him his certificate appointing him SERGEANT. Every one in the company congratulates him upon his success in the Army.

Pfcs. Bennett and Gondeck are also entitled to some consideration, they have just recently been appointed CORPORAL. At first if you don't succeed, try, try again.

The mounted section of this organization is wearing padded breeches. Private 1st Class Specialist 5th Class Corrie L. Rigsby (the horseshoer), who frequently asks foolish questions, inquired WHY?

Every one in the company is working hard to make this the best company in the Regiment, and they firmly believe that when the drill season comes to a close, they will have attained the acme of perfection in Infantry Drill.

—LEWIS M. LOWE.

Service Company

Here we are back again to let everyone know that we are still on the map.

Now that we are Champions of the Twilight League it helps to prove that we mule-skinners can do many other things besides skin mules.

Our boys are to be congratulated for the fine spirit they showed in coming out on top of the league and we are proud of 'em.

Cpl. Knight is the father of twins in a few more years he will have a band of his own, so he says.

We wonder if the clock in the Band quarters will go to sleep now that Patton and Holeman tried to put it to bed.

—F. L. T.

Howitzer Company.

Capt. A. D. Bruce has returned from 20 days leave. The entire organization is glad to see him back.

Our 1st Sgt., Frank O'Grady, and the company's standby, Sgt. Tom Tompkins, have returned from 60 days' furlough. Sgt. O'Grady visited relatives in Iowa while Sgt. Tompkins stopped at the home of his parents in Tennessee. Who said "Monkey Business"?

Cpl. Jones is again with the company after an absence of sixty days. The first place he hit was the mess hall.

Lt. Matthews is on leave for 15 days.

Company "A".

Sgts. Sheriff and Hudson sure are unlucky. They hoped they would be as lucky as Fitch of Bn. Hdqs. in finding a gallon of corn on guard.

Pfc. Gray, the orderly room sheik, (he doubles in North Highlands), is undecided as to whether he will go to Illinois or Arkansas when he is discharged nine months from now. Go where your heart leads you, is our advice, Ralph.

We have three new corporals in our outfit, and charge of quarters does not come so regularly. Gilmore, Hickman, and Magagna, were the good soldiers.

Cpl. Bower, our aspiring young West Pointer, goes to Fort McPherson this month. Good luck to you, boy, and here's hoping that milk tickets are not issued there.

Sgt. Martin, completely overwhelmed by his strenuous efforts in landing one recruit in his recent 2 months recruiting tour, has taken a 30 day furlough in order to honeymoon with her.

—ERNEST BUSH.

Company "B".

Sgt. King, our baby sheik of Columbus, has purchased a new car and is always spreading his stuff in town. Go to it King, the boys want to know what you want for a wedding present.

Cook Romploski, our best football player, will soon start training for the Post football team. Last year Romp was elected captain of the 1st Battalion football team. Go to it Romp, the boys are all beyond you.

—JOSEPH GUSENZA.

Company "C".

Sgt. Shannon is still in the hospital, but it is hoped by his many friends that he will soon be back in the company, doing squads right.

Co. "C" is no doubt one of the best companies in the regiment for many causes too numerous to mention. A certai party asked whether or not the C. O. would approve his transfer, Company Commander: By this transfer will you better yourself? Which was answered: I will. Co. Com.: Then I will help you get your transfer approved at the other end. With this spirit availing no man minds putting out.

Lansberger states he is no longer an applicant for West Point. What's the matter, Lance, did you get stuck?

Cpl. Rose is no doubt going to get married, from the circulating news throughout the company he has a nice chance—furniture? Yes, he has that, too.

Take your bed to the fumigator and war will cease.

Pvt. Jones answered a telephone call the other day giving his first and last name: Colonel Jones. Party calling happened to be a 1st Lt. replied: I beg your pardon, Colonel.

—L. B. HUGHES.

Company "E".

The football squad of this organization caused a terrific landslide in "H" company of this regiment and are eager to challenge any company regardless of whether they are from the 1st or 2nd Bn., we will give you a slight idea of what you are up against, as we only beat "H" company 36 to 0 (nothing) which we consider paltry. Now in case any of you should doubt the above challenge just come around and we will do our best to entertain you.

At your earliest convenience just come and see the undersigned and your games will be booked, for the rest of the companies will surely fall in and try to give us a little competition.

—JESSIE L. TAYLOR.

Company "F".

On our list of short-timers we find "Weasel" Randall (1st 4th), one of the best cooks and pastry men in the regiment, who has at last made up his mind to re-enlist with good old "F" company; then there is Sgt. "Spud" McCoy, a good duty man and also a member of the Infantry School football team, Spud does not know for sure if he will stay with us or not, but it is expected that he will be right on deck when the oval spheroid is in play this year. Cpl. Lunsford, Pfc. Sp. 6th Dean, and Pfc. Sp. 6th Arthur P. Brown have decided to take a whirl at civie life for a while, and Pvt. Saint says he will return to the wilds of North Highlands on the 4th of October; Sgt. Hyatt is going to re-up for the Army War College Detachment in Washington, D. C. These seven short-timers are spread over the period from September 25th to October 18th. Unless we get a few recruits in by that time we will be quite a small outfit before Thanksgiving.

Our "Muskrat" Section, as we have named the Musketry Section, is going strong over the territory on Edwards Range, getting ready to show the Stewgents just how it should be done. A rivalry between the squads adds interest to the problems they are attacking each day, and puts additional zest in doing the job up in a regular 29th Infantry fashion.

AN OPEN LETTER

DEAR JOE:

Fort Benning at last.

And the chariot and the family came through in fine style, at least the madam did, and of course you know me on a trip like that cheerful and all.

You should have seen us as we rolled up at the Post Exchange partially coated with mud of various colors and several of the cylinders faithful to the last. Our tires, like ourselves, settled down with a sigh not able to stand up under the strain any longer—but here we are. There was little doubt that I was going to escape buying two rear tires so I went into the Asseccory Shop and beheld the best line of tires, tubes and accessories that I have seen since I left Indianapolis and the prices we found were very reasonable. Our car had been rolled to a safe resting place awaiting its new attire, after being gassed.

My surprise, you may well imagine when I tell you that the big boss of the place, Mr. Austell, informed me that I could get a steam cleaning job in about five minutes if I let his man have the car. On the way over I used the battery shop and left my tired battery to be gone over, charged and jazzed up once more. Imagine my amazement when the battery lad trundled out a rental battery and casually informed me that mine would be done "tomorrow at noon". I walked into the battery room and there beheld a line of batteries receiving their charge, while in the next compartment the busy whirr of the generator shop caught my attention. All the auto repair shop sections are located under the stands of Gowdy Field, that famous baseball park where Benning witnesses its contests. The shops are so arranged that a car can be started in at the front door, have its battery removed, be completely overhauled, then washed and steam cleaned by experts, without leaving the area. Joe, they've got it down to a fine point. This shop with its departments is the best I've seen in a long time.

I became so interested in the processes and the various departments that when my tires were put on and the old ones sent to the tire repair section I arranged with Mr. Austell to have a general overhaul job done on the old Dodge.

My quarters having been assigned to me, I took the madam over and showed her her new palatial mansion in Block 23 for the next four years. In order to have time I'll just skip blythely over that and reserve the subject of Block 23 for some rainy day—boy, it'll be a wow—you can rest assured.

But now to return to my Chariot. I got to hob-nobbing with "Whitie" Estes, the repair shop foreman. Notice I call him "Whitie"—well he and I are fast buddies already. I have decided to let them make a complete overhaul job on the old boat and put her in first class shape for me. The estimate for the job is way below the figure that I had estimated, so I jumped at the chance.

Say, Joe, listen to this one—the Exchange here has a system of credit that allows you three months for a bill. That factor alone just saved my life—'cause, you know, we gotta eat. Not so dusty, eh, Joe?

And they have free crankcase service, too, and they do the work in jig time, having three wells to drain and service your car. They use the high pressure grease guns that go clean into the farthest joint and connection.

The wash rack and steam cleaning plant is a joy forever. The men who are on the job there are experts. The big boss man has made a close study of car washing. They use so little soap and get such fine results that from now on they are going to do all my washing—my car, I mean, foolish. The big steam boiler, its safety valve popping, furnishes a big head of steam for the final clean up on the red, white and blue clay and tar roads that collect on the car on its overland travels. As soon as my bus gets through the shop it's going to the rack for its first Turkish bath, by Jingo.

Drop me a line as soon as your orders are published so I can give you the straight dope on roads. Mr. Austell has some fine road info on the short route from Indianapolis to Benning that's right up to date. And believe me it will save you a lot of gray hairs—wish I'd had some good friend to advise me of the fine paved roads the maps show.

Well, Joe, I hope you came out as lucky on the Dempsey-Tunney fight as I did. Gosh, that did my heart good. I hated to take the money—but the boys will bet, you know.

Give my best to the "Bunch", and tell them to be careful not to go round the Circle the wrong way. You know gasoline don' tmix well. Write me real soon and tell me all the dope that's in the air. The Frau joins me.

Always your friends,

BOB.

WHO'S WHO

As Mike McSweeney, the big bluecoat, was strolling quietly along his beat, swinging his club nonchalantly, a tow-headed lad of nine or ten summers dashed up to the copper and gasped breathlessly:

"Come to our house quick, Pa and Ma are fighting something awful!"

"And who is yer Pa and Ma?" asked the Policeman.

"That's what they're fightin' about," replied the lad.

This unlooked for aspect of the situation took the big cash prize.

The many ways of doing things,
A casual glance discloses,
Some folks turn up their sleeves at work,
And some turn up their noses!

REGAN WINS MAIN GO OF BENNING'S BEST FIGHT CARD TUESDAY

Lieut. Potter's Show Delights Huge Crowd. Knockouts in All Bouts

What Benny Reagan couldn't accomplish with his fists he accomplished with his head. The Atlantan and Red Keenan were tussling and tugging in Benny's corner about the middle of the eighth in the main go of Fort Benning's extra special fight card Tuesday night. Suddenly the red and black heads came together with a bang and when the pair separated blood was flowing in a stream from a nasty gash almost completely encircling Red's left eye. Keenan was groggy and Benny rushed into finish his man, but the cagey Red called all his ring lore into play and lasted out the session in as fine an exhibition of cool thinking and gameness as has been seen in many a moon. When the bell for the penultimate stanza rang, Red was unable to continue, although his second had worked frantically during the rest period to steam the carmine stream. The referee accordingly raised Benny's hand in token of triumph. The accident was unfortunate, but no hint of blame attaches to the little Atlanta battler, and it was clearly just one of those things that do happen. Benny himself was cut on the forehead in the collision.

From the opening gong until the final moment the bout was a great one. Benny waded in from the start and never stopped coming in. Facing him though, was a far different Keenan from the Red of August. The sorrel top brought back fond memories of old times. He plucked Regan's best blows out of mid-air with his gloves. He danced about, shifty and elusive. He stuck his left into Benny's face and crossed prettily with his right. At in-

MUSKETEERS OPEN GRID GRIND TOMORROW AGAINST OLD FOE

Carson-Newman to Furnish Berry's Battlers with Strong Opposition

Benning's eleven Musketeers will open the football season tomorrow with a contest against Carson and Newman College, of Jefferson City, Tenn. Twice previously opponents of the gridsters of the City of Musketry, the men from the squirrel gun state have to date an even break with the doughboy team. Under the tutelage of Major Milburn the footsloggers last year chalked up a 47-0 victory to wipe out a previous defeat. This season the Carson and Newman pigskin carriers, under the leadership of the redoubtable Captain Roy Dillon, arrive at Benning with a 13-0 defeat against them at the hands of the brilliant eleven of the University of Tennessee. On comparative scores, this makes the Carson-Newman team really dangerous, for Tennessee is reputed to have an exceptionally fine team.

The eleven Musketeers this season have been formed and shaped by the

COMMANDANT PRESENTS INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS CUP TO MULESKINNERS

Gen. Collins Praises Service Co. of 29th Inf. for Coming From Behind to Win.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Commandant, Brigadier General Collins, presented the Infantry School News cup to the baseball team of the Service Company, 29th Infantry. The team won the league championship in the Class B League.

In presenting the cup the commandant said in part: "It always gives me great pleasure to address a winning organization or team and to praise them, because, to the winner goes all of the praise. You were not always in the lead in the Class 'B' League and by team work and by the earnest support of your Company you won out. This same team work wins battles and team work is the only thing that will win battles. I am glad to see that this Company can play baseball as well as they can perform the various duties pertaining to the Service Company."

Sergeant Torne, of the Service Company and the team's coach, accepted the cup from the Commandant on behalf of the team. The Service Company, 29th Infantry, is commanded by Captain E. N. Frakes. Other officers present at the presentation were: Colonel Gowen, commanding the Regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Singleton, Major Franklin and Lieutenant Oliver, the General's Aide.

The lineup of the winning Service Company team was: Sisco, pitcher; Dean, pitcher, 1st base or catcher: Silvers, pitcher or 1st base; McCaslin, 2nd base; Lotz, shortstop; Watkins, 3rd base; Orr, utility; Lagrosse, Cunningham, and Davenport, outfielders; Smith, catcher.

To commemorate the winning of the first Class "B" pennant ever awarded at the Infantry School the victorious Muleskinners are plannig to foregather down in Columbus at the Ralston Hotel and celebrate with a banquet. There will be the usual speechmaking by speakers, some of whom were born so and some of whom will be orators for the occasion only.

SUMMERALL NAMED CHIEF OF STAFF

Second Corps Area Commander Will Succeed Gen. Hines.

The appointment of Maj. Gen. Charles Pelot Summerall to be Chief of staff of the army in succession to Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, whose term of service on the General Staff expires in December, was announced Wednesday. Gen. Summerall is now commander of the Second Corps Area with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y.

CPL. FREELON G. NEWMAN
Co. G, 29th Inf.

The 2nd Battalion Kellys struggled through the first half of the Gowdy Cup series this summer without attracting much attention. True there was a great big lefthander playing first base for them, who, caught the eye of base ball experts with his free and graceful stance at bat, his ability to drive the ball to far corners when he connected (though he didn't connect very often) and his clean fielding around the initial station. Then in the second half the fighting doughboys came to life. The big first sacker improved with the rest and the games in which he didn't get his bingle were few and far between.

When the race was at its hottest and the Kels were hard pressed for pitchers our hero was called on to take the mound against the heavy hitting gunners from the 83rd Field Artillery and did "Big Newt" Newman respond to the call? On that hot August day the Cannoneers secured just exactly one hit. Not a runner toured the paths and fifteen of the caisson riders either swung desperately for the third time or idly watched the fatal strike cross the plate. Rather a neat bit of twirling, don't you think.

Nor was his debut a mere flash in the pan. The Tanks and the Blues afterwards tasted defeat before the blinding speed and snapping curves of the southpaw. In the playoff for the cup, Newt pitched two of the three games, and though beaten the fault was not his. Facing Vance on both occasions Newt held the Reds to the very fine figure of three earned tallies in the two starts. In this respect he exactly tied his opponent.

Then consider the mean war club wielded by this grinning young giant (for Newt has just reached the voting age). Off to a slow start he finished the season with the not to be sneezed at average of .320 and was tied for the league lead in home runs. In the series he clouted .364.

Nor is baseball the only sport in which he shines. Last year he was one of the units making up the stonewall line of the champion Second Battalion football team, and just now he can be seen any afternoon with the Musketeer candidates. He is improving fast and unless many of us are mistaken, he is going to be one of the doughboys to help beat the Marines in Washington this fall.

Now turn to the military career of this young soldier. The Alabama lad, whose native pasture is the fair town of Tallassee, got the military fever in 1923 and in September of that year saw a recruiting sergeant and held up his hand for three years in the 29th Infantry. He was assigned to Company "G". He's been there ever since, and has in his first enlistment achieved the narrow gauge stripes of a Corporal. He is an Expert on the range, making the 300 class with the rifle as well as with the bat. His this year's score was 314, a fine mark. His company officers speak of him as a fine soldier in every respect and the kind of noncom everybody wants.

Buck has gone. Other older stars are beginning to set. We look to Newt and other youngsters to replace them and uphold the record of Benning's enlisted athletes.

great K. L. Berry, of Texas University and the Second Division, in accordance with a new policy. The old all-star officer teams of the past are being relegated to the discard. The tendency now is to use as far as possible chiefly an enlisted team, with fewer and fewer officer players, in order to develop soldiers for the President's Cup match in Washington. Rising to prominence are several new Benning players, Douglass, of the gunners; Thompson, baseballer and star diver of the Second Battalion; Kingsbury, of the Engineers; Wargo, of the demonstration doughboys, and Mylnczak, of the Second Division. From the old-standbys, Franz is due back in time to play; "Red" Lindsey, "Big Bertha" Bertelman, and Sweeney, of the Tanks, Carpenter, of the I. S. D., are showing up well.

The Infantry School Woman's Club will hold its first meeting on Monday, October 4th at 2:30 p. m. at the Polo Club. This meeting will be in the nature of a reorganization and all officers' wives, mothers or sisters living at Fort Benning or in Columbus are most cordially invited to attend.

The Glee Club held its opening meeting Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the Officers Club.

Captain and Mrs. C. B. Dunphy left Saturday for their new station in Panama. The Dunphys were widely known in horseshow circles and their departure is a distinct loss to the Benning riders.

Mrs. E. Ormonde Power entertained Thursday afternoon with two tables of bridge for Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Edgar S. Miller, wife of the commanding officer of the Tanks is convalescent after having been very ill with pneumonia for the past month.

Mrs. R. C. Smith entertained at dinner and bridge last Thursday evening.

Major Hans R. W. Herwig will be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. James B. Gowen for a few days after the 1st of October. Major Herwig took the Advanced Course at Benning year before last, and has just completed a year at the Command and General Staff School at Leavenworth.

The 29th Infantry dance and reception was held at the Polo Club last Friday night. The reception was given in honor of the new arrivals of the regiment. During the middle of the evening a receiving line was formed by Colonel and Mrs. Gowen, Colonel and Mrs. Singleton and all the new officers ad their ladies. The Polo Club wa sdecorated with the company guidons and the national and regimental colors, and a large illuminated crest bearing the regimental motto "We Lead the Way". The regimental orchestra furnished the music.

The 29th Infantry Bridge Club held its first meeting on Tuesday and elected its officers: Mrs. Gowen, President: Mrs. Overfelt, Secretary, and Mrs. Ancrum, Treasurer.

Captain and Mrs. J. D. Carter and their daughter, Lois, here on leave from Philadelphia, were the guests of Lieutenant and Mrs. Brandhorst last week.

Mrs. E. T. Bowden, wife of Captain Bowden, was a spend-the-day guest of Mrs. W. H. Vinson on Tuesday. In the afternoon Mrs. Vinson entertained at bridge for Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. Carter.

Mrs. C. C. Starks entertained two tables of bridge Tuesday evening. Mrs. Chunn and Mrs. Osborne won high score prizes.

Major and Mrs. Daniel P. Card have returned from leave.

Colonel and Mrs. William Wallace McCammon are entertaining the officers of the Fourth Section and their ladies with a supper party before the Reception tonight.

The Reception tonight will substitute for the usual first call on the Commandant and its return.

Mrs. Percy M. Cochran, the widow of Captain Cochran, formerly of the 17th Infantry, is the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Kingman for a few days before she returns to her home in Cincinnati.

The Glee Club held its first meeting Monday at the Officers' Club. The choruses of "Singbad the Sailor", the operetta which the Club will present this fall were tried out under the direction of Captain George King, with Mrs. Butcher at the piano. In future meetings will be held on Tuesdays.

Colonel and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson returned to the garrison Monday from Washington where they were the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Denson.

The supper and hop of the Quartermaster Corps at the Polo Club was a pleasantly informal affair in honor of Captain and Mrs. W. McK. Scott who are leaving for Honolulu, and of the new officers of the Q. M. Coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served for supper and punch during the evening.

Mrs. Wayne C. Smith entertained delightfully with four tables of bridge Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Bruce, wife of Capt. A. D. Bruce, 29th Inf., arrived Thursday from her home in Washington. Accompanying her was Miss Jane Bonnycastle, daughter of Col. Bonnycastle, now stationed at Philadelphia.

GLEE CLUB MEETS

First Regular Meeting of the Club Has Large and Enthusiastic Attendance.

The first regular meeting of the Fort Benning Glee Club was held on last Tuesday evening at seven thirty o'clock at the Officer's Club. There was a short business meeting of the entire club to elect a new treasurer. Captain L. R. Boyd was elected treasurer. Other business pertaining to the current and future plans of the organization was also discussed.

After the business had been disposed of, the club had its first practice and rehearsal, under the direction of Captain George L. King, of the operetta "Singbad the Sailor", which will be presented sometime in December.

The meeting was a most enthusiastic one and was attended by a large majority of the members of the club. This season promises to be a most successful one for the Fort Benning Glee Club.

It is not necessary to have any special talent to become a member of the Glee Club; all officers of the garrison are invited to become members of this exxtremely pleasant organization.

WESTERN UNION TIME CLOCKS INSTALLED AT THE POST

The Western Union Telegraph Company is now engaged in the installation of forty of their official time clocks in the offices of forty organizations at Fort Benning. These clocks are regulated hourly by wire from the official central station of the Western Union. For all business purposes these clocks are absolutely accurate and are recognized everywhere in the United Stats as bing minutely correct.

For a very reasonable sum these clocks may be installed. Application should be made to the Western Union telegraph office in Columbus, Georgia for this service.

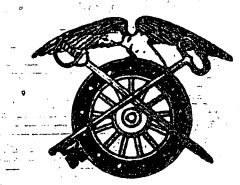
Quartermaster Corps



Property Office.

The following incident worthy of mention occurred last week after the Infantry School News had gone to press: The Property Office was the scene of much activity Monday afternoon and night, after the receipt of a telegram from Corps Area Headquar- availability of certain supplies for Storm Relief Work in Florida. Several of the crew received a severe drenching from the rain, regardless of raincoats, while making a final check-up on condition and completeness of the rolling kitchens and other items. The result of this preliminary work and careful planning was evident the next day, when a solid express car containing 2,800 cots, 100 tents, pyramidal, 2,800 pins, tent, large, 2,800 pins, tent, small, 100 poles, pyramidal, was loaded and started for Miami, Florida, within one hour and thirty minutes after receipt of the empty car at Fort Benning. As soon as the car was sealed, all paper work was completed and invoices were prepared and forwarded so as to arrive at destination before receipt of supplies.

The telephones in the Property Offices seem to have a way of ringing incessantly. Receivers are hardly on the hooks before both "phones are going again." It is even reported that when the alarm clock at Quarters 16-T-62 sounded at 5:30 a few days ago, Warren L. stirred sleepily in bed and sang out, "Quartermaster Property Office, Mr. Bussey speaking."

Commissary.

The Commissary will soon be very busy again as a new appropriation has been received and new stocks have been requisitioned. So watch our shelves and the Daily Bulletin for announcements in the near future.

Sgt. Roberts is on pass for the purpose of visiting some old time friends who have motored through from Hot Springs, Ark.

Our typist, Mrs. Smith, has just finished a course in shorthand at the Smith Business School, Columbus, Georgia. She began this course eight months ago, going into Columbus two evenings each week. During that time she has missed but two lessons.

Laundry.

We will have to admit that hard work will not, sometimes, get a fellow out of a hole. For two weeks we have been operating from one to two days behind schedule and as the last week came to a close we found ourselves a full day behind still. Some real labor has been put out, too.

It's a fact that a real diplomat sometimes can't please all folks. It takes more than that to explain why laundry due for delivery on Monday morning cannot be sent out until Tuesday.

Our "Vacationers" will be in this week and their coming will help a great deal—one time that they will come in to find what a vacation means.

Detachment, Quartermaster Corps.

The Q. M. C. baseball team played the Thirtieth Street Tigers to a 4-4 tie Saturday afternoon at Golden Park. It was a good game and was featured by the fact that not a base on balls was issued by either pitcher on either side. We believe that is a world's record as we have never head of it being done before.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Q. M. C.	4	7	2
30th St.	4	8	1

Batteries: Wilson, Reddick and McCarthy; Adams, Stout and Henderson.

Tech. Sgt. Wagner is back in our midst.

Utilities Department.

Well, it seems we celebrated too soon over the arrival of an officer to take over the roads. Captain Sproule reported all right, but after a couple of days he had to go to the hospital. However, we are glad to say that he is improving and will be on the job with both feet in the near future.

Captain Massey, in compliance with regulations, takes one afternoon off each week for exercise. Why, we can't imagine, unless he needs the rest. If any man gets enough exercise on the job, he should. His desk has to be dusted twice each day, because he doesn't get a chance to stay there long enough to clean it off himself. His hunting ground is the Post, and for 5 or 6 hours per day he travels it back and forth.

This department has a distinct flavor of the old 30th Division in its makeup. In a lunch hour discussion of Divisional insignia a few days ago, it was found that two officers and one civilian clerk had been members of that organization overseas. To satisfy our curiosity, we would like to learn how many of the "Old Hickory" bunch there are on the post.

Rail Transportation Branch.

It is noted with keen interest that the Central of Georgia Railway station being erected west of the Quartermaster's office is beginning to assume a creditable aspect. It was largely through the efforts of the Commandant and the Quartermaster that the unsightly building, now being used as the agency, is being replaced this early by one that will be a credit to the post.

The mechanical force at the roundhouse is exerting every effort to complete by October 1st, repairs to a Stndard gauge locomotive which has been ordered shipped to Fort Eustis, Va. There are now two Standard gauge locomotives, one from Fort Eustis, one from Fort Monroe, enroute to this station for overhauling and repairs.

Billteing Branch.

The Billeting, Purchasing and Fiscal Branches in the office of the Quartermaster have been welded totgether into a single office unit with Captain A. L. Littell in charge, and Warrant Officer J. Mary, Principal Clerk.

Mr. Oliver B. Markey has been assigned to the Fiscal Branch of this unit following the resignation of Mr. C. P. Willis, who has taken up a position in the branch of the Third National Bank in the Officers' Club.

The other new assignments to this unit are are Mrs. Clara M. Blount, stenographer-typist, and Private John H. Miller, from the Quartermaster Detachment, as clerk.

Mrs. Margaret L. Drane, of the Purchasing Branch, who has returned from a months leave, reports a very pleasant time visiting friends in Washington, New York, and West Point.

Warrant Officer Henry Senft has forwarded his application for retirement from the Army to take effect in the near future. We will all miss Mr. Senft at the Purchasing desk.

Staff Sergeant A. S. DuVall claims he is just about over the hump and can see daylight o nhis desk once more, as nearly all the assignments in the Billeting Branch affected by the ensuing school period are nearly completed.

Ye Olde Printe Shoppe Gossippe.

Malo's cat is another helpless charge depending upon the great Uncle's benevolence and charity.

Corporal Smith is moving to town again. He'll be hustling for bus checks again.

"Lewie" Rowe, platen pressman, is indisposed at his home in Columbus. Infractious dental incisors are undertood to be giving Lewie trouble.

We wonder why Corporal Blizzard is applying for discharge by purchase?

Compositor Paul is to embark for a sojourn in the land of submarine lots, real estate sharks and hurricanes. He will spend thirty days in Miami helping his parents re-establish their home and recover from the ravages of the recent storm.

"Whitey" Pash's inventive genius is leading him into strange and devious ways of scientific research and it is thought his latest attempt if succesful will result in a supersuperhet radio receiver of a rehabilator for Charleston victims.

The question of much discussion in the shop is "Who's the shortest timer?" And few have signified their intention of taking on another stack. But the majority generally come back for more.

MEDICS WARN AGAINST DANGER OF DIPHTHERIA

1. Diphtheria is a disease that is particularly prevalent in children. Practically all children under 6 years of age and most of those between 6 and 12 years of age are susceptible. Above 12 years the susceptibility diminishes each year. The Schick test enables us to tell whether or not a child can contract the disease. If the test is positive, it is impossible to immunize the child so that he will not contract it when exposed to it. This protection probably lasts for life.

2. Last year a number of children were tested and immunized. Preparations are being made to test and immunize other children this year. The materials being expensive it is desired to care for all children at the same time.

3. All parents are urged to see that their children are protected against this disease. Those who desire their children tested and if found positive immunized, are requested to submit the following information to the Surgeon not later than October 1, 1926:

a. Name, rank, organization, address and telephone number of father.

b. Names and ages of children.

c. Whether or not the children have ever been Schick tested, and if so the result.

d. Whether or not they have been immunized against diphtheria. If so the date and whether or not they have been Schick tested since their immunization.

4. Protection against diphtheria is accomplished by giving a series of 3 inoculations at weekly intervals. These inoculations are practically painless and are not accompanied as a rule by any unpleasant symtoms. It is planned to give the Schick tests one day and to give the inoculations in the case of those showing a positive reaction at subsequent dates. The days on which the work will be done will be announced later.

5. Attention is also invited to the fact that last year, 3 cases of small pox developed o nthe reservation. All those who have not had a recent successful vaccination are urged to be vaccinated at once. Children under 1 year of age need not be vaccinated. Vaccination is compulsory for all children attending either the garrison or Columbus schools.

6. There have been general cases of typhoid fever in Columbus recently. All those who have not been inoculated against typhoid and paratyphoid within 3 years are strongly advised to be inoculated at once. Children under 3 years of age need not be inoculated.

7. Women and children on the post may be vaccinated and inoculated at the Attending Surgeon's office, New Hospital, between 9:00 a. m. and 9:30 a. m. Mondays and Saturdays. Those living in Columbus may report at the Attending Surgeon's office, Doctors' Building during his office hours.

The garrison school for children had an auspicious begining of the new year in the numbers presenting themselves for registration. One hundred and forty-two were enrolled on Monday last, and with those yet to be heard from it is thought that one hundred and fifty pupils will be on hand when classes are resumed this morning.

Miss Grimes ad her staff were entertained informally at luncheon at the Biglerville mess on Monday, and the occasion was honored by the presence of the Commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins. The prospects for a successful year are bright indeed ,and the enthusiasm of the entire staff is a good omen.

COMPANY OFFICERS CLASS

Remember that one about the minister who met one of his backsliding congregation and enquired as to his continued absence from services? The B. S. replied: "No more for me! The first time I went to church they threw water on me, and the last time they married me."

Replied the minister: "Yes, and the next time you will have dirt shovelled on you."

Which calls up a picture of all us students who reported all dressed up in our best bib and tucker a couple of weeks ago, and now look at us. We don't feel right unless we're nice and dirty—and sooty—and sweat—I mean, perspiring.

The Marines are hiting the ball but the bull's eye is safe if Bain is shooting.

No, little boy, that smoke is not from the factories. It's the students blackening their sights.

As some one said at the 200-yard point: "An apple a day keeps the unsatisfactory away."

B and C Companies are planning a grave yard for fractured locks. Buy them today and crack 'em tomorrow. You may laugh, but a fellow has to get into his locker even if his key is home on the mantlepiece.

The first week of school an epidemic of "elbowitis" broke out. Caused by too much prone position. All cases responded to treatment readily. Treatment was given by Doctor Withers (plus megaphone) to the command: "Targets up—Get down."

The class as a whole is composed of heavy drinkers. Two G. I. cans of ice water disappear each morning and afternoon.

Some students are already exchanging letters with the Assistant Commandant. Friendly ones. "Explain by indorsement." You know the rest.

Many worried glances are already being cast toward the bayonet course as we "narrow gauge" by it each morning.

As usual, the pee wees have difficulty staying with the first squad on the march. (Rum.)

B Company has some spare parts for the rifle commencing with Bolte, the Company commander. Also Black for the sights.

The Continental Divide is justly famous as a separator, but the 200 yard standing certainly came in second as a dividor. In the words of the Black Bird, it separated the sheep from the goats—the men from the boys.

Doc Withers is at the megaphone again. Sounds like "Next order up," and as we don't care to get out of order I had better charge the firing point.

He (lighting last Fatima): I'd like to offer you a cigarette, but—

She: Don't bother. I never smoke cigarette butts.—Cornell Widow.

"Speaking of bathing in famous springs," said the tramp to the tourist, "I bathed in the spring of '86."—Exchange.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The first year of the Fort Benning Dramatic Club is getting away to a flying start. The response to the literature sent out by the publicity agent during the summer has been most gratifying; talent, both amateur and professional, along all lines has been discovered and is now being utilized.

The club is operating under the following scheme of organization:

I. Officers and Committees:

(1) Three officers—president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer—to serve for one year.

(2) The three officers mentioned in (1) to constitute the executive committee.

(3) Plays committee (3 members) for the selection of plays to be produced. (To be appointed by the executive committee, to serve for one year.)

(4) A director for each play to be produced (appointed by executive committee—to have full charge of and responsibility for the production of the play which he is to produce.

(5) Publicity agent—to be appointed by the executive committee.

II. Members:

(1) Active. Active membership carries with it certain extra privileges and an obligation to take an active part in producing plays—whether as assistants to the play director or as members of the cast—when appointed by the executive committee. Dues $1.00 annually.

(2) Associate. Associate membership entitles the holder to the privileges of the club and constitutes a definite expression of interest in the purpose of the organization and a pledge of moral support to the club. Dues $1.50 annually.

III. Productions:

(1) Two plays to be given each school year in the garrison theater for members of the club and the public at large. Admission to be charged for all non-members.

(2) Entertainments to be given each school year to which only members will be invited. Invitations to guests to be regulated by the executive committee.

These officers are:

President, Major Robert H. Fletcher, Jr., Infantry.

Vice-President, Mrs. Robert H. Dunlop.

Secretary-Treasurer, Captain John K. Rice, Infantry.

Major Elmer F. Rice, Infantry, has been acting as chairman of the plays committee and has found a number of very delightful little plays for the club's use. Two of these are now in rehearsal for presentation to the club on the ninth proximo and others will be presented frequently during the winter.

Captain Gustav J. Braun, 24th Infantry, and Mrs. W. L. Roberts are directing plays now in rehearsal and they report very satisfactory progress. Casts will be announced in this column later.

Attention is invited to the fact that many of the entertainments to be given will be for members only. The support of the officers and ladies of the garrison is solicited to assist in the maintainance of the club—royalties, extra copies of plays, scenery, costumes, ad infinitum. Associate members who lend only moral and financial support are very welcome. Any officer of the club or the publicity agent will be glad to receive memberships or give information to those interested.

GENE TUNNEY, CHAMPION

A new champion of the world appears in the person of Gene Tunney, master of Jack Dempsey in a fair and furious fight of ten rounds.

Tunney revealed greater skill than Dempsey ever had, but Dempsey's quick and savage thrusts caused Tunney to fight warily. Dempsey tried to force the fighting. It would have been good tactics if his antagonist had not been a better boxer. But Tunney kept his head and conserved his strength, while Dempsey was visibly weaker before the bout was half over. At the end of the ninth round Dempsey was badly winded and his left eye was beginning to close. There could have been but one ending if the contest had been a fight to the finish. Dempsey was badly punished in the tenth round.

Thus Tunney, a modest and comparatively unknown athlete, takes first place over Dempsey, contrary to the well-nigh unanimous predictions of experienced observers. Perhaps Tunney deceived these observers by failing to exhibit those characteristics of the "bruiser" which caused many persons to overrate Dempsey. Before the battle Dempsey boasted, "I'll know him out," while Tunney contented himself with saying, "If I'm beaten, I'll have no alibi."

Now that Tunney has outboxed Dempsey, it is evident that too little weight was attached to he fact that Tunney had fought in as fast a school as Dempsey ever attended and had won his way to the front. A boxer who can take first place in the marine corps and the navy will be more highly regarded hereafter.

The men of the army, navy and marine corps are jubilant over Tunney's victory, and well they may be. Tunney did his part loyally in the marines during the war and is a member of the American Legion. He faced his duty and performed it manfully. The less said of Dempsey's war record the better. He did not increase his popularity when he avoided a fight for over three years, during which time he was repeatedly challenged. The public hoped that Tunney would win, but it believed that no one could stand up against Dempsey. In spite of Dempsey's unpopularity, the betting odds were heavily in his favor. Consequently thousands of individuals must console themselves for their money losses by taking satisfaction in the fact that a more attractive man than Dempsey is now to reap the reward of skill and valor.

Last Thursday night's battle was an unprecedented spectacle, so far as attendance was concerned. Probably more than 125,000 persons were eye-witnesses of Dempsey's defeat and Tunney's triumph. They were drenched in rain during the latter part of the contest. The vast throng, the perfectly matched athletes, the dazzling lights and the tense interest of the occasion constituted a memorable scene, distinctively American and wholly modern. Doubtless larger crowds will gather for future crucial struggles in boxing and other sports, but Thursday night's battle in Philadelphia will be remembered for many a day.—Washnigton Post.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOLS

The education of the Army child has always been a difficult problem for Army parents to solve. The problem faces the officer and enlisted man alike. The main difficulty is presented by changes of station, which necessitate the child changing schools. As is well known the early education of the child is all important; even in the kindergarten stage. The early training should be most efficient and thoroughly modern and should by all means give the child a firm foundation for his or her work in the college or university in later years.

At Fort Benning we have a Children's School which is thoroughly modern and up-to-date. The supervisor and the teachers are completely abreast of the latest methods employed in the education of the young American. The records of the instructors are excellent; all of the teachers employed being young women of experience in the teaching profession. The school building is light and airy and of ample size and the subjects taught are known to be such as to give the young student a thorough foundation in the more advanced academic work. The kindergarten department is in charge of Miss Elizabeth Philips, an experienced kindergarten teacher. The little tots are taught clay modeling, drawing and other useful and instructional subjects.

The Fort Benning Children's School is opening this year with the prospect of having the most successful year since it was started. To function properly the school needs financial support, as it does not receive any funds what-so-ever from the United States government or from any other source except from the tuition fees paid by officers and men and contributions received from various athletic events, which take place on the post. Chaplain McKenna is the supervisor of the Children's School and he is open and ready to receive any suggestions from any departments or members of the Garrison regarding ways and means to raise additional funds for this very worthy project. The Children's School really does deserve the support of the entire Garrison.

The fourth Anniversary Number of the Infantry School News has been issued, and is creditable alike to editors and printers. It consists of 36 pages, attractively illustrated, and with many articles about Fort Benning and its activities, and also sketches of numbers of leading Columbus institutions. The issue is the product of the Standard Printing Company presses. — "Good Morning"—Enquirer-Sun.

INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

The Infantry School News celebrated the fourth anniversary of its establishment by issuing on September 17, a handsome thirty-two page edition, exclusive of the cover pages. The growth of the News during its life of four years has been steady and substantial and it is regarded today as one of the best service papers published at any army post. The columns of the News are devoted to virtually every feature of army life but are not confined thereto. In them are found matters of a social nature, athletics, amusements, games of all kinds, school news, and everything except politics that is usually found in a well regulated weekly newspaper nomatter where nor under what auspices it may be published.

The News has been of great value to the Infantry School at Fort Benning. It has kept the school prominently before the country and has made many warm and cordial friends for it. It has contributed much to the good feeling existing between the soldiers and citizens of the community and Columbus and Fort Benning have been drawn much closer in the bonds of amity and good fellowship than would have been the case without this splendid weekly publication.

The Enquirer-Sun extends to the News and its able staff its congratulations and best wishes upon the handsome anniversary number they have issued and upon the splendid work they are doing. May the News continue to grow and prosper. —Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

Passing away in Walter Reed Hospital last Friday, September 24th, and being buried in Columbus, Ga., Monday the 27th, following funeral services at Fort Benning, Master Sergeant Joseph T. McCloskey of the Infantry School Detachment concluded his faithful and valuable service in the army. Ever since the inital issue, in 1922, Sergeant McCloskey has been advertising manager of The Infantry School News and it was due to his agreeable personality and host of friends in fort and city the financial success of this publication has been largely due. For four years he carried on the advertising work of this paper and insured its stability under a succession of commissioned editors. Seriously ill since last spring, he went to Walter Reed General Hospital in June and gradually weakened until he passed away to a well-earned repose.

At the funeral, conducted with full military honors by Chaplain John T. DeBardeleben, with a sermon by the Rev. R. M. Stimson of the First Presbyterian Church of Columbus, there attended, in addition to a host of army and civilian friends of the deceased, an armed military escort from Company "B", 29th Infantry and Major E. S. Miller, 15th Tanks and Major E. S. Butcher, these two having been the officers with "B" Company when Sergeant McCloskey first joined it in 1912 as a recruit.

Sergeant McCloskey served as a private, as musician, as company clerk, and as color sergeant with the 29th Infantry at Fort Jay, N. Y., and Culebra, C. Z... He came to the States with that outfit and at Benning was on the staff at Camp Headquarters until 1922 when he began his successful career on The Infantry School News.

The following from the Infantry School Detachment acted as active pallbearers: Master Sergeants B. H. Harris and C. R. Bumford, Sergeants John Rawlings, M. D. O'Neal and Otis Glenn, and Corporal Henry Averill, and the following civilians and officers served as honorary pallbearers: Messrs. C. R. Medley, W. E. Drane, J. H. McDuffie, Rex Hubbard, Ralph King, Ira B. Mayfield, and Major Louis P. Ford, Major E. S. Miller and Captain E. Colby.

How the Supply Sergeant Saved the Skipper and the Ship.

A supply sergeant friend of ours over in the Artillery told this one which, while it is very old, is far frome feeble. Some occasional observers who have voiced the opinion that we are more widely read than our column will be surprised to learn that some of our stuf is not copied right—out of some other paper.

It seems that a certain foxy old Supply Sergeant went on Furlough; leaving his Assistant in charge. When he returned he found that through some Mischance there had been "picked up", on his Property Loan Cards, one (1) Steamship. (Wait a minute, please; the Supply Sergeant is telling this one.)

Forthwith the Canny Old Sergeant began planning on how he should get rid of the Ship on his Records. It is all very well to call the Old Man, "the Skipper", in private; but a very different matter to convince him that he is the Master of a Ship; because he happens to be charged with one. Besides the old Sergeant knew that if he couldn't produce that Ship for the Auditor he would be Sunk.

In the first place that Steamship didn't look Military to him so he made out an O. S. & D. report and "dropped" the Steamship and "picked it up" again as a Battle Ship.—Not so good. The old fellow knew that battleships cost Big Money so he "dropped" it again on an O. S. & D. report and "picket it up" as a Gun Boat. That word Gun Boat didn't look like good Nomenclature to him so he made out another O. S. & D. report and "picked it up" as a Boat, Gun.

And then one day, just before the Auditor was due to appear, the old Sergeant was checking over his Mess Equipment and he found that he was "over" on quite a few items. Suddenly a happy idea struck him. Once more he manned his trusty typewriter and inserted a set of O. S. & D. reports and for the fifth and last time he dropped the troublesome Boat, Gun and picked it up as a Boat, Gravy.

1ST GAS REGT

Company "F".

The funeral services of the late Pfc. JAMEES G. ROBINSON of this organization, whose death occurred following a short illness at the Station Hospital, were held at the Protestant Chapel Saturday morning, September 25th.

Fortunately, the recruiting officer hasn't forgotten us, for last week we received two brand new recruits, each having three years before him. They are Pvts. Stiltz and Williams, two likely looking young soldiers.

Wonderful news, fellows, wonderful news! It's just one durned thing after another with the Gas Company, but better days are in sight. Our high and mighty Company Clerk, Sgt. Pierce, and Sheriff Von Hindenburg, more familiarly known to readers of this paper as Canary have both been detailed for clerical duty with the Garrison Personnel Section.

Sgt. Pierce will represent the Gas Company, while Corpl. Vaulkenberg will take the rudder of the M. P. Company and Casual Detach. Underwood and guide their destiny as Company Clerk. And from now on, in so far as Canary is concerned, my leisure moments will be devoted to this column. Should Sgt. Pierce desire to enlist his spare moments also in this great cause, I feel most positive that we will have thus assured ourselves of some forceful and thoughtful editorials for future publications.

"Up to snuff" in the art of progressiveness! That's Miss Stallings and Kid Holley, all over. For they are not what they used to be. Stallings is now a full fledged Sup. Sgt. and Holley already has Corpl. chevrons tatooed on both of his arms.

"Vote for Pfc. Neal for our next Corpl.", or words to that effect was a topic included in a conversation between several efficient Gas men lately. (But then, you must realize that you're in the army now.) Keep up that splendid record, Neal, and your big chance will come!

The Gas man who strives to gain a little brief notoriety by his declaration that Company "F" is the bunk, is probably a new man. But he'll soon learn that he is woefully off his base in making such an assertion. Your Company boosts you. Why not do as well by the Company as it does by you?

Think it over, then get into the boost wagon and hit the pace. Let's make "F" Company the snappiest little snap that ever snapped.

It seems that Company "F", 1st Gas Regiment and our P. S. man, Tommy Brightwell, are as inseparable as Barney Google and Spark Plug. This ex-policeman, true to that brand of common sense and refined wisdom for which all noble sons of the C. W. S. are noted, has re-enlisted just as we predicted he would.

Is it any wonder then that we brag, when such an asset to the organization as Tommy gives us the right to do so? We'll leave all the helpless unsuspecting hams being enlisted now-a-days to other companies, and just be content to hold our own in number.

The hungry music loving Gas Company was treated to a real symphony of wonderful music on new Columbia records purchased recently by Calhoun and Morgan and bequeathed by them to enrich our collection. Old time barn dancing, such as "Swing Your Partner," etc., were also part of the progrom. The participants, if my memory serves me O. K., were Calhoun, Dupree, Sellers, Batts, Jones and Craddock.

Canary wonders who put all those phonograph records on cold storage, and why?

Wouldn't army life be a dull and monotonous experience if one could find everything made to order? We derive some valuable knowledge and find it a real pleasure to produce the best mess, recreation room, squad rooms and company area in the Post. But it takes time and work, and we move often Now we may have to clear out in order to make room for the new barracks.

Many old timers of this company mourn the loss of Cpl. Johnson and Pvt. Palmer, who have been transferred to the Medicos and Finance, respectively. Although this leaves us short handed, we get there just the same!

Pfc. James G. Robinson is among those present in the Station Hospital, due to a very serious case of appendicitis. He is reported to be rapidly regaining health, which is indeed gratifying to the company. —"Canary."

The Southern Resort of fame.

From out o'er the Great Atlantic,
There came a mighty wind.
It raged for many an hour,
Before it trees did bend.

I said they bent. They didn't.
They were torn up from the ground,
And all the towns were wreckage,
For many miles around.

Great buildings toppled over,
Steel frames were broken and bent,
Hundreds of people made homeless,
And left exhausted and spent.

Miami looked like a heaven,
Before that awful day,
But now it is crippled and broken,
Because of a great wind's play.

Children ran about crying
For their parents, who's answer no more,
Others were injured and dying,
The casualties many a score.

Westward the hurricane traveled,
Leaving a path in its wake,
Of wreckage and injured and dying
Stark terror that'd make a man quake.

Mobile was the next poor victim
Right in the path of the gale.
Sea-water rose over the bulwarks,
And laughed at a barrier so frail.

The Tropical Radio Station
Was the only thing that could save
All of these grief stricken families
From a cold and watery grave.

Messages flashed from their wires,
Bringing relief every hour,
Thanks to the brave operators,
And the motors that generate power.

Bread lines have been established,
In all of the stricken parts,
And people are donating money,
E'e fore terror departs.

And down thru history's pages,
This calamity's sure to descend.
To be told by the fathers of children,
And by the mothers of men.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

DURHAM, N. H., Sept. 25.—The Marines defeated the University of New Hampshire, 25 to 0, on the hottest day recorded this summer. The powerful Marine drive was too much for the collegiates. Ryckman, for the Marines, ran the first kick-off back 40 yards. Line plunges by McQuade and Dukoy were effective. Other features of the game were snappy work in the backfield by Pugh and Dugan.

Shumway did some nice kicking and carried the ball for gains. Brougher, Wy Wickmore and Hunt looked good at tackle and broke up New Hampshire plays behind the line. Thompson and Spaulding did nice work at center.

New Hampshire's team was unable to gain through the Marine line. Harnold, a newcomer, quarterback, gave promise for a good field general for the Marines.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

The Infantry School News, the printed exponent of the great Infantry School of the United States army, at Fort Benning, near Columbus, Ga., has just published its fourth anniversary number, an interesting and exceedingly creditable issue.

The special number is not only an exposition of the Infantry School and its many activities, giving a clear idea of the service, through intelligent training of officers, that the school is rendering the army and the American people, but also giving most interesting glimpses of Columbus, and numbers of its leading institutions.

Sooner or later all the officers of the United States army go to Benning—many of them already have attended school there—and this elaborate and attractively illustrated special number will be of special interest to all of them. The issue will be circulated wherever Uncle Sam's flag floats.—Industrial Index.

The United States Army, during the past fiscal year, sold rags, rubber, tin cans, bottles and other junk valued at more than a million dollars.

Government employes traveling at Government expense are allowed to tip waiters not more than sixty cents a day, and bell boys not more than thirty cents.

RHEM AND PENNOCK TO BEAR BURDEN OF THE SERIES

By W. Charles Quant.

With St. Louis and the Yankees assured of taking part in the annual baseball classic to open October 2, the efforts of the thousands of baseball fans is bent upon but a single thing, that of picking the winner. This article with others to follow, indicates the teams' comparative strength as shown in the mass of figures compiled since the curtain rose last April, and will tend to solve this problem.

If the battery counts for anything, and it usually does in baseball, the Cardinals have a slight edge over the American League champions of 1921, 1922 and 1923. Rogers Hornsby's youthful staff of Keen, Rhem and Reinhart, supplimented by the veterans Sherdel, Alexander and Haines, is expected to outclass the staff of Miller Huggins, consisting of Pennock, Jones, Reuther, Hoyt, and Bob Shawkey, all of whom have seen previous world series service.

Rhem and Pennock appear to be the outstanding stars of the respective staffs, and it is more than likely that the burden of carrying their teams to victory will weight heavily on their shoulders. The Cardinal has a slight edge on Pennock, having won two games less, but with three less losses.

The Yankees, however, fail to have a hurler that near the mark of Haines, with 13 wins against 4 reverses. The rest of the staff finds the trio of Shocker, Reuther and Shawkey having a little the better of Sherdel, Alexander and Keen.

Regardless of the won and loss comparisons, the Cards have a considerable edge, in having more hurlers capable of holding the opposition down, even though their own teammates score but a few runs. Most of the Yank victories this year have been rung up by one-sided scores. This has made it very easy for the veteran hurlers to pile up an enviable record.

The failure of the American Leaguers to hurl well when pressed and when their own team is not giving them a dozen or more runs has been very evident during the past two weeks when the ten-game lead has been cut almost overnight to two and one-half games.

It would not be surprising to see the veterans, Alexander and Shawkey be the stars of the series. These two hurlers, often thought to be through, have been rushed into the breach where others have failed and were never found wanting.

Offensively and defensively, the two clubs are even, the Yanks having a slight edge in fielding, with the Cards ahead in batting, but little is expected of a pitcher other than doing his part in the box.

The receiving of the Cards will doubtless be handled by O'Farrell, who has caught most of the games this season. He boasts a batting average over .290 and a fielding mark over .980. Hornsby may get little help from Vick, his only other catcher. Frank Snyder, who was obtained from the Giants, refused to report.

The Yanks, too, have out two catchers to rely upon. Collins and Severeid. The latter, a Washington cast-off, is expected to do the bulk of the series work, with Bengough who has suffered with a sore arm all the year, ending up by having it broken about ten days ago. Severeid is an experienced man behind the bat and has a slightly better fielding average than O'Farrell, while Collins is leading the Cards in batting. The two Yanks, however, have displayed poor throwing arms and lack the ability to keep the men on the bases, This means considerable to a speedy team, like the Cards, and should give the latter a big edge.

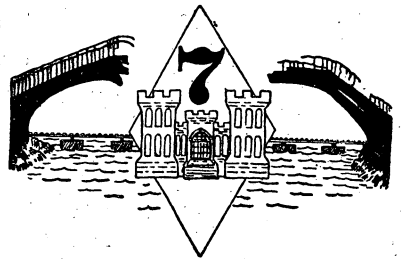
WHEREIN A PROPHET MAKES A PREDICTION

(By the Sports Editor.)

A metropolitan sports writer has been defined as one who tells the public what is going to happen, but knows no more about it than the average man. From the start I admit that I know less than even a metropolitan sports writer, and still I am obsessed with the idea that I must make a prediction. So here goes: The Cardinals will win the World Series in six games. I neither hedge nor insert any ifs or buts. And why not? Many better men than I have gone astray attempting to forecast coming events. Therefore I predict. A sports writer is supposed to predict, so take it or leave it.

Neither team is a real championship outfit. Either would be easy meat for the Athletics of 1910 or the Red Sox of 1915-16. But the Cards are an up and coming team, while the Yanks are a strange mixture, built around the indisputable slugging powers of Babe. Many speak of the experience of the Yanks in previous series, but if memory serves me correctly this experience was sad. Look at the record of the New York twirlers in championship tilts. For my part I'd rather have a new deal. The Yankees failed before and they'll fail again.

Put your money down on Hornsby and Company to win, and it you lose, come around and I'll show you where sympathy can be found in the dictionary.



Last Friday a drilling-bee, (similar to a spelling-bee), was held in which Corporals Blevins and Fisher and Privates 1st Class Palmer and James were tied for first place. Corporal Fisher believes that the judges practised favoritism or he would have been dropped early in the game.

Private 1st Class James has left for the West Point Preparatory School at Fort McPherson. Our deepest sympathies are with him when he strikes the brands of mathematics dispensed at the Academy.

Corporal James J. Fisher, usually addressed as "Dear Corporal," has developed into quite a correspondent (spelled with two "r's" and without a dash.) His style follows Ring Lardner's rather than that of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu. By his command of irony and harsh invectice he utterly ruined the chances of Danielski, who had written to the same Circe.

Trotter has recently returned from the hospital, where he was treated for a broken wrist. It is his left, so that it is self-evident that he did not acquire it hand-shaking. Still it must be remembered that he is left-handed.

Corporal Danielski faithfully accomplished his first "Charge of Quarters" on Sunday. No one stole the barracks

Oho! here's the month we get the laugh on the bolos, shooting pay—means a few more (what, who said half-pints?) cigarettes, the E. R. and Sharpshooters can afford this year.

Lieutenant Baumann strolled in off his leave of absence a day or so ago. He looks as though he had a very fine time ,and moreover, he states that he is all set to put in a hard winter of work in our Musketry Section and their troubles (if they have any, but here is a hope that they meet no worries).

Our sedate Ridge-runner, and by the way, considering that he is a native of Tennessee, he is a very quiet lad, has the distinction of having grabbed off the Regimental Prize for high score with the rifle, having a score of 328, only 10 lower than Sgt. Friend, who we believe, is admittedly the best shot in our station. Cpl. Doyle F. Brown, in addition to the gold watch offered by the regiment, won a gold medal offered by our company commander.

Cpl. "Dick" Duncan, one of our sheiks is recovering from an operation, and getting along nicely. We hope to have his smiling face back in our midst in a very short time. He is to be found propped up in a nice white bunk in Ward "C" of the New Hospital during visiting hours any day. We hear one of his girl friends came to see him the other day. We also hear that she gave strict orders to the nurse on duty to treat him especially nice.

Sgt. "Dad" Singletary is very much peeved because they won't let him dash over the hills this winter—he is official custodian of the school children on their journey to the city.

Pvt. Stinson and Private Fletcher were discharged last week and have gone back to the hills in Tennessee to run down all bootleggers.

The Drill Schedule has hit us full force, and the boys are fast rounding into shape as members of the ancient order, "Soldiers". Some had forgotten and some had never known, but now they are sadder, Bud-weiser.

We have lost several good men from the company in the past week. Sgt. Daniels and Sgt. Loomis have been discharged and have gone to try their fortunes as civilians. Private LaSota has also gone back to the civies. He intends to spend the rest of his life in and around Chicago.

In loosing Sgt. Daniels, (better known as "Cracker Dan"), we have lost an excellent soldier as well as an athlete of exceptional ability. He is the kind of man that always leaves a good impression in his wake, for he was courteous, gentle and generous. Whether on the drill field or the athletic field, he always put forth the effort that would tend to make anything he undertook a success. We feel sure that he will find friends, and to spare, wherever he may take up his future abode. He is certainly a MAN.

We have several new men in the company who seem to have natural ability of a soldier. These men are certain to make a mark for themselves if they keep up as they have started. That's the way to do it, boys, keep it up, and you'll find that we are ready and willing to give you a helping hand.

Our boy wonder, Private Riley, has taken up a new line of duty. He is now busy vending "spuds" and "slum". He claim sthat he has always cherished a secret desire to advance in the art of cooking. It is probable that he will make one of the best cooks the company has ever known. He is neat in his appearance, while his work is equally as neat.

We wonder who it is who is willing to be called anything under the sun. but "Don't call me Barracks Bag." You tell 'em, old G. I. Can, you've got a mouth.

GENERAL ORDERS)
NO.....10....)

Sergeant WILLIAM DELYONS (R-679,664), Service Company, 24th Infantry, will be retired on September 30, 1926, after the equivalent of thirty years service, by paragraph 8, Special Orders No. 225, War Department, dated September 22, 1926, and a regimental review will be tendered him on that date.

Sergeant DELYOONS, first enlisted for Company M, 24th U. S. Infantry, March 20, 1899, and he has served almost continuously since that date.

His service has been as follows:

Co. M, 24th Infantry, Mch. 20, 1899 to Mch. 19, 1902.

Company M, 24th Infantry, June 16, 1902 to June 16, 1905.

Company E, 24th Infantry, July 1, 1905 to June 30, 1908.

Company E, 24th Infantry, Aug. 28, 1908 to Aug. 27, 1911.

Detachment U. S. Military Academy, Sept. 2, 1911 to Sept. 1, 1914.

Detachment Army War College, Oct. 19, 1914 to May 7, 1919.

Detachment Army War College, May 8, 1919 to May 7, 1922.

Detachment Army War College, May 8, 1922 to May 7, 1925.

Service Co., 24th Infantry, May 8, 1925, to date.

His foreign service is as follows:

Company M, 24th Inf., P. I., October 5, 1900 to March 19, 1902.

Company E, 24th Inf., P. I., March 20, 1906 to Feb. 15, 1908.

Sergeant DELYONS is the proud possessor of eight discharge certificates seven of them bear character "EXCELLENT" and one bears character "VERY GOOD". This is a record of which he should be extremely proud, it is worthy of emulation by every soldier aspiring to gain success in his chosen profession.

This non-commissioned officer has served loyally, honestly and and faithfully, and for steady application to duty, fidelity and good service, is rewarded by honorable retirement.

Our congratulations upon the successful conclusion of his career in active service. Thegood wishes of the entire regiment accompany him upon his retirement to civil life.

THE SOJER

"FED UP"
The Q. M. Sergeant's Growl.

In the Q. M. C. we ain't afraid of nothing, hard work we likes the most;
We'll take our turn at any job and "pinch hit" for all the post.
But on running 60 c. m. trains all night long, a-hauling student "Bucks";
A-sleeping and a-eating any old time at all—well, we're sure fed up.

'Tis not every Q. M. C. that gets by: some say it's luck that pulls us through;
We say it's class that tells, even though it misses me and you.
But when it comes to hauling gravel dripping water like a leaky cup;
For their blooming "Gowdy Field" and "Stadium"—well, we're quite fed up.

No chance to change to "civies", to go a-girling and to strut,
Why not quit the Q. M. C. and join the Doughboy Fut?
Now I'll ask you, "Seen a Doughboy hiking lately?" Not today;
Q. M. furnishes a train or two to target range far away."

The Field Artillery goes riding away, to see the cities and the sights;
But here we're stuck, the Q. M. C., for all our days and nights.
For days and days and nights and nights with scare a chance to get a bite or sup.
So when it comes to being a Q. M. C., we're d----- well fed up.

A-serving with the Q. M. C. ain't as easy as it looks;
We scarcely ever see a ball game, except in Sunday's picture books,
We daily ride "The Booneville trolley", which leaves us nearly dead.
And the blooming Doughboy is always twenty sleeps ahead.
Every Q. M. soldier is as full of pep as any bull dog pup;
But when it comes to "Harmony Church Maneuvers" —Hell, we're all fed up!

But after all when I say I'll leave the Q. M. C.
And re-up in the Infantry or else the I. S. D.,
"The Wife", she says, "No Infantry or I. S. D. for me.
Take on again in the good old Q. M. C., and then me and the kids
We'll always be—Well Fed Up."

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

Corporal John C. Ryan, mechanic extraordinary, has been in and out again, or rather we should say, out and in, for it was the army this time and not Parello's Paradise. Jack says he can't 'snizzle while the cold winds blow" up in Delaware, and so when he was discharged last week, he hot-footed to the recruiting office and called for another load. Shortly thereafter he was heard warbling "When That Midnight Chu-Chu Leaves for Alabam."

Sergeant "Jiggs" Sikorsky is back on the job after a ninety day furlough. What's he going to do now that Buck and Heese have departed? Jiggs says he visited Washington, Philadelphia, and Shenandoah during his wanderings away from the Detachment.

The men of the Detachment, through a committee headed by Master Sergeant McNulty are sponsoring an enlisted men's dance at the garrison gymnasium October sixth, for the benefit of the Children's School.

Crporal Trott was discharged and reenlisted this week. He is now on furlough.

Peace and quiet reign once more in the '18 barracks. Parmigiani's wandering shoe brush has returned to its home fireside.

Joe "Fuzzy" Morton is in the hospital with "fills and chever". The area has been noticeably quiter since then, but we miss Joe's genial line and hope he's out soon.

fighting he ripped blow after blow to the body. Mickey Kendrick, sitting near the ringside, was heard to remark: "Gee, I'm glad I haven't got Red tonight."

But don't think from this that Regan wasn t in the ring. The lad from the Capital City was the aggressor almost all the time. He hooked and swung at Red's bobbing head and not infrequently connected. He took everything Keenan had to offer and came back smiling for more. He seemed tireless and was as fresh as a daisy at the end.

Round one even. Benny took the aggressive, but Red boxed cleverly and did most of the clean landing. It was about even. Round two was Red's. He started a steady trickle of claret from Benny's nose with a stinging straight left and socked hard to the body in close. Regan retaliated by rushing Red around the ring trying hard to connect solidly with the button, but failing. The third and fourth were even with plenty of action but no damaging blows. Most of the fighting was at close range. with the referee frequently breaking the pair. Keenan took roud five by virtue of hard rights to the jaw that set Benny on his heels and brought his rushes to abrupt halts. It was only by a shade, however. Red kept up his advantage in the sixth, getting the best of almost every rally and boxing rings around the Atlantan.

The seventh went to Benny by a very small margin, chiefly on his persistent attack. He bore in all the time and connected for several ringers, although Red was at no time in serious danger. Until the collision round eight was even, but after the accident Benny drove Red from pillar to post, raining blow after blow on the soldier's blind side. Keenan stuck it out only by the finest kind of head work and an indomitable will not to give up.

Benning fans haven't had such a treat for a long, long time, and it is hoped tha tthe two battlers will be carded again. If they are, a packed Gowdy Field is certain.

In the semi-final two whirlwind fighters mixed and mingled in the slugginest battle of the night. Spark Plug. who hales from the balmy shore of the Chattahoochee administered a thorough anaesthetic to Cecil Williams of the 24th Infantry in the third round of a scheduled eight canto engagement. The Alabama fighter might as well have hit Williams with one of the ring posts or a G. I. rolling kitchen, for the result would have been no more disastrous to the 24th Infantryman than the dynamic right that connected with his jaw and sent him to the land of nod. Sparky outweighed his rival, 155 to 145, but the soldier stood toe to toe and slugged as long as he lasted. No complaint of lack of action was heard from any one. Both men were speedy and carried mule kicks in both hands, although Sparky asserted, when one of his rival's seconds came over to watch the donning of the gloves, that "There ain't nothin' but meat in 'em."

In the main preliminary, Gene Poyner sailed into Dopey Reed, of the 29th, from the tap of the gong and kept right after the doughboy until he finally put over the dream punch in the sixth and last round. Gene simply flung a million punches at his adversary, and while most of them missed their mark, the ones that landed were sufficient. Only in the third, which ended with Poyner taking a count, did Reed show to advantage. The soldier seemed disinclined to lead, and let the Columbusite do all the real fighting. Poyner weighed 146 while Reed tipped the beam at 141.

Danny Davis, favorite lightweight of the Lead-the-Way regiment gave Hugh Tillery, of Phenix City, ten pounds and a sound thrashing in the evening's eye opener. Following his invariable custom Danny went after his man with one thought only, to knock him cold. His swinging overhand right kept Tillery in trouble all the way through round one, but the lad from acress the river did some hitting on his own account, a slapping right being his main forte. The second round opened as a repetition of its forerunner, but about the middle of the stanza, Tillery unfortunately dislocated his right thumb and was forced to discontinue the encounter. The go was a good one while it lasted, but Davis was far ahead of his opponent. Tillery challenged for a return go, which Danny eagerly promised.

The scheduled fifteen minute wrestling match between Lieutenant Griffith and Maud Farley took just four minutes elapsed time for a decision. One and one-half minutes after the referee, sent the men together, the pride of North Highland was in a prone position with both shoulders resting on the mat. A cradle hold did it. The same hold gave the same contestant the second fall in two and one-half minutes. The match was very one-sided, the Benning officer winning almost as he pleased. In justice to Maud, however, it must be said that the Sheik entered the fray with a bad shoulder and was unable to do himself stice.

"There ain't no room," shouted one of the audience as Mr. William Hart, not the famous Bill of Hollywood fame, weight 200 pounds, started to climb upon the stomach of Hamilton of Co. E., 29th Infantry, while Mr. Rhodes Browne, scaling a mere two hundred and fifteen, was already perched upon the doughboy's knees. But somehow or other there was and Mr. Hart mounted. Then Hamilton, already carrying this heavy load on his body, bridged on neck and feet, proceeded to grasp the Flying Doughboy Gregory with his arms and raise him into the air. This was only one of the remarkable feats accomplished by the two huge doughboys. Hamilton toyed with a dumbbell that shook the staunch ring every time it was dropped to the floor. Gregory laid him down on a board studded with ten penny spikes and allowed Messrs. Browne and Hart to stand on him. These lads should be in vaudeville. They are good.

The show delighted a far larger crowd than the one that saw the August card. Everything went off with smoothness and precision. The fights were good, the wrestling was interesting, if short; and the strong men charmed. Only pity the poor judges who, as the result of the four knockouts, actual or technical, had nothing to judge. They were Captains Walkerr and Griffin. Lt. Carraway announced in his foghorn voice Interesting items that he announced were: (1) That Dick White, of Columbus, and K. O. Moore, of Fort McPherson, have been matched for the main go of next month's card. (2) That Tanks Grantham will meet Sid Taylor, of Chicago, on October 20, and that Paccioni challenged the winner of the Reed-Poyner go.

"KAY" SWIMMERS TOP COMPANIES OF 24TH IN MEET

West Enders Hold Fine Contest in Regimental Pool.

Wednesday afternoon the waters of the 24th Infantry swimming pool stirred darkly under the shadowy trees as the West Enders of the Fort Benning garrison held their second swimming meet of the summer. The sun-down soldiers showed aquatic ability and aptness and performed in striking fashion. In three closed events staged for life guards, the wearers of the special insignia demonstrated a knowledge of rescue methods of superior class. A feature competition was an equipment race, in which the soldiers swam across the pool with rifles swung over their backs and demonstrated their ability at stream crossings. The individual high point scorer was Private Bennie Perry of Company "F", who captured the 200-yard free style and took second in the plunge for distance, the 50-yard free style ,the 75-yard free style, and the 50-yard breast stroke.

The high score company was Company "K", with a total of 25 points, including a clear-cut victory in the relay race.

FORT WILL SEE CARDS AND YANKESS BATTLE FOR BASEBALL CROWN

World Series to Be Reproduced in Detail on Gowdy Field Score Board.

Lt. Geo. L. Potter.

As a result of the completion of one of the most ingenious baseball score boards ever developed, the Infantry School 9thletic Association wishes to announce that the World Series play will be reproduced on Gowdy Field beginning with the first game on Saturday, Oct. 2.

The board was used successfully last year for the first time, and all who attended the first game attended every game thereafter. The board is much more complete than most of those used elsewhere. It is about twenty feet long and twelve feet high. The runners are represented by miniature figures as are the rest of the active players. In case the ball is hit to centerfield the fielder can be seen sprinting desperately to take it. The ball is represented by a real, regulation sized ball.

The ball is delivered to the batter exactly as it was done in New York just fifteen seconds earlier. The different hooks, slow balls and fast ones are seen. In fact, when Urban Shocker uses his spitball it is possible to see the—expectoration.

When Babe Ruth strides to the plate he will be seen, not in the imagination, but actually represented by a player. Instead of looking at electric lights for the ball and strikes, the ball will be seen speeding toward the plate and Ruth will be seen passing second—Yes? No?

At any rate, for all who love to see the old apple meet the bat, (the bat can be seen also) they will be enabled to do so.

From behind the scoreboard a small twisted wire may be observed leading from the field. The other end of that circuit ends in the press box of the Yankee Stadium in New York Saturday.

And, as the saying goes, all paths will lead to Gowdy Field on that day.

The board was designed and built by Lt. Col. Bond, C. E., U. S. A., of the Academic Department.

NO CHANGE IN WHITE UNIFORMS

The following letter from The Adjutant General is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

WAR DEPARTMENT
The Adjutant General's Office
Washington.

September 24, 1926.

SUBJECT: White Uniforms for Officers.

TO: Commanding Generals of all Corps Areas and Departments Commanding General, District of Washington, Commanding General, U. S. Army Forces in China, Commandant, The General Service Schools, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Commandant, Army War College, Washington Barracks, D. C., and Chiefs of War Department Branches.

1. Reference is made to mimeograph leter from this office of May 12, 1926, on the above subject.

2. After careful consideration of this matter it has been decided that no change will be made either in:

a. White dress coat for officers:
b. White mess jacket for officers; or
c. Ornamentation of the white mess jacket.

3. In deciding the question of changing the white uniform for officers, the greatest consideration was given to the opinions and recommendations of the Commanding Generals of our overseas departments where the wearing of the white uniform is obligatory and where the more general opportunity of observation of the different types of white uniform is afforded.

4. In view of the unanimous recommendation of the overseas commanders that no change be made in the model of the white uniforms, either dress coat or messjacket, and also in view of the divided opinion as to the desirability of, and conflicting recommendations of the commanders in the Continental United States as to changes, no change will be made in the white uniform for officers, either in type or models.

5. In view of the divided opinion as to the desirability of, and conflicting recommendations as to change in the ornamentation of the white mess jacket as well as the expense involved to individual officers, no change will be made in this ornamantation.

6. In this connection the War Department appreciates your careful consideration of this question and the recommendations submitted by you.

By order of the Secretary of War:

MOUNTAIN TORNADO BLOWS INTO FORT FOR GRID CLASH

King College, From Bristol, Tenn., to Tackle Musketeers Tomorrow

That threatening cloud on the horizon is the Mountain Tornado from King College blowing into the garrison to do battle with Berry's Musketeers on the green sod of the Doughboy Stadium tomorrow. Last Saturday's Tennessee visitors were rough, rude and rowdy and so little appreciation of doughboy hospitality that they took a victory away with them. The Tornado also hails from he squirrel-gun state, just across the border line of Old Virginia, and so the Musketeers have a speciel grudge against them over and beyond the usual red hot desire to annihilate the opposition. The soldiers' heaviest batteries will be brought to bear in an effort to even the count with the anti-evolutionists.

The little Bristol institution from which the invaders come, sprang into prominence a few years back by rolling up the surprising total of 208 points in a game that was prematurely called on account of darkness; and the following year scored over 500 points for the second successive season. Since then the King teams have encountered stiffer schedules and have lost most of their old time stars. Naturally they have not been quite able to measure up to the astounding record of their banner years, but such football giants as Georgetown and the Marines have never been able to score overwhelming victories against them, and on almost every occasion the Bristolites have succeeded in scoring on their opponents. Only lsat Saturday the Marines had no little difficuly in trimming the Kings, 27 to 7. Accounts indicate that the fight was a hard one.

In scoring on the Marines, King ac-

MAJOR GENERAL HAGOOD VISITOR AT FORT BENNING MONDAY

Commanding General Fourth Corps Area, Inspects the Infantry School Plant

Major General Johnson Hagood, Commanding General of the Fourth Corps Area, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., was a visitor and guest of the Commandant, the Infantry School, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, on Monday and Tuesday of this week. The Corps Area Commader arrived on the reservation at 12, noon, on Monday and was met at the edge of the reservation on the Fort Benning-Columbus Road by the Commandant. General Hagood was then taken to the main gate of the post and as he alighted from his car, a salute, appropriate for a Major General, was fired by a battery of the 83rd Field Artillery, which was in position near the post of the guard at the entrance of the post. General Hagood inspected the Battery and complimented the organization on their appearance and the efficient manner in which the salute was fired.

General Hagood lunched with the Commandant and immediately thereafter he was taken on a tour of inspection of the various activities of the Infantry School. The Infantry School

COMMANDANT PRESENTS INTERMURAL CHAMPS TROPHIES AND PENNANT

Retirement Parade Also Part of Ceremony as Reds Get Rewards of Victory

By Capt. S. G. Saulnier.

Thursday afternoon on the drill field of the 24th Infantry, the Commandant presentted to the winners of the Inter-mural Baseball Series and the 24th Infantry, the trophies that had been won during the baseball season. The Red team, second time winners of the coveted pennant marched up to receive the fruits of their victory at regimental parade. Swelling with pride for their team, the regiment, in the best uniforms, formed a fitting background for the ceremony.

At "Officers center, March," the Red team, led by the officers of the regiment formed befor the Commandant, who expressed his pleasure in presenting the trophies. Battles, team captain, received the "Hank" Gowdy cup, followed by Douglas King, who received the Spalding trophy, Sloane Williams carried off the Championship pennant of the Inter-mural Series. Then forming in the rear, the champions reviewed the parade of their proud fellow soldiers.

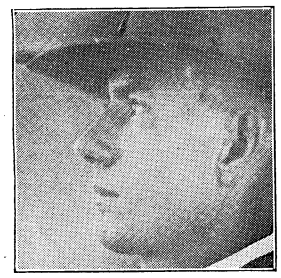
The Commandant was much pleased with the parade of the regiment. The men of the regiment were on their toes to show the Commandant just what good soldiers they were, as the Commandant has never witnessed any ceremonies by the regiment.

At the close of the ceremonies, Sgt. DeLyons was presented to the regiment and congratulated by the Commandant, Regimental Commander, and the officers of the regiment upon his retirement after thirty years of service.

Sgt. DeLyons first enlisted for Company "M", 24th Infantry, in March, 1899, since that time he has served at the Military Academy and Army War College returning to the regiemnt in 1925. He saw active service with the regiment in the Philippins in 1902 and 1908.

Thursday evening Sgt. DeLyons was guest of honor at a retirement diner in his old company mess hall. The officers of the regiment and many of his old soldier friends being present. He was presented with a gold watch, a gift from the Non-Commissioned Officers of the regiment in appreciation of his splendid services. Several of the officers of Sgt. DeLyons company and his close friends addressed the guests in praise of the retiring soldier.

SATELLITES



SGT. SAMUEL C. ISHEE
Co. F., 1st Gas. Regt.

"Firrrrst Call!! Are you ready Sergeant Itch-eeee." Members of the Quartermaster Detachment barracked close to the Gas Bums swear that they hear this every morning as the camp begins to stir uneasily at the notes of the worst of all bugle calls. These words are addressed by 1st Sergeant Brown to our hero only from force of habit, as long years of service have always found Sergeant Samuel C. Ishee, of Soso, Mississippi, ready for first call or any other duty call sounded.

The subject of our sketch was born in Bayspring, Miss., in May, 1893, and for twenty-five years felt no particular urge to shoulder a rifle, but when we set out to get the Kaiser, he signed on the dotted line, held his hand aloft, and took on as a member of the 34th Division, stationed at Camp Cody, New Mexico. He crossed the big drink with this outfit and did his bit in the land of the frog and the cinquante centime until the disturbance had been quelled and the Paris Conference was well under way: He returned to this side and was discharged in May, 1919, but by that time had become a hardened soldier and decided to stick with the colors.

Then followed service with different doughboy regiments. The 50th knew his culinary ability and affixed the pots to his sleeves. Then to the 11th, after which a fling at the recruiting game. In 1921 he hooked up with the Lead the Way gang and headed for Benning, but soon transferred to the 22nd and went up McPherson way. Upon his discharge in 1923 he decided to cast in his lot with the Chemical Warfare Service and enlisted in July for the 1st Gas Regiment, then stationed at Camp McClellan. He reached the Alabama station just in time to join the Phosphorus Flingers on their celebrated Picnic hike to the Upatoi. The Smokers took thirteen days for the 156 mile hike and enjoyed a regular outing all the way.

When the Builders started work on the Doughboy Stadium they looked around for men who get things done and naturally one of those picked was Sgt. Ishee. From the digging of the foundations to the pouring of the last concrete, he worked hard and faithfully under Captain Sproule. His twenty-five months spent in helping erect the great soldier memorial to soldier dead were marked with the same efficient and willing service that has ever characterized his service.

complished a feat that the Infantry has never been able to equal. The Doughboy defense, therefore, must be prepared to stop a strong running and forward passing game. Coach Berry has been working his charges at top speed all week, with particular attention being paid to the backfield. George Smythe has been out on the field assisting in coaching the backs and the results of Dutch's instruction is expected to appear in a greatly improved Musketeer attack. About the line, there is little worry, although greater offensive power than displayed last Saturday would be welcomed.

The visitors are coached by one of the members of King's wonder teams, H. J. Fletcher, who for four years held down a tackle on the 1000 point outfit. Assisting him is Dave Parrish, who in his V. P. I. days was widely known throughout the South as a player of exceptional ability.

The visiting line will average about 180 pounds from end to end, while the backfield will tip the beam at about 160 pounds each. Following is a list of the King squad coming to Benning, with jersey numbers, weights and positions:

stables were first visited where the General heard part of a lecture being delivered to the Advanced Class on the subject of Animal Drawn Transportation. The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with visits to the Company Officers Class, who were engaged in the preliminary exercises for Pistol Marksmanship, the Post Hospital, Gowdy Field, Doughboy Stadium, the Post Exchange, the Service Club, the Main Theatre, the Quartermaster Utilities, the 7th Engineer Area and the known distance Rifle Range.

On Monday evening the Commandant entertained fourteen guests at dinner for General Hagood at the Biglerville Officers Mess.

On Tuesday morning the General inspected a vacant set of officers quarters in Block 14; this was followed by an inspection of the 29th Infantry and 24th Infantry areas. Particular attentio was paid by the Corps Area Commander to the new barracks now occupied by the Service Company 29th Infantry. After an inspection of the 24th Infantry Area the inspecting party watched, for a brief period, a drill of the light ad heavy tanks of the 15th Tank Battalion. The General visited the Academic Department where he listened to a lecture being given to the Advanced Class on the subject of Psychology and Management of Men. After the lecture General Hagood addressed the class himself on the same subject and the talk was most enthusiastically received by the class. The General was then taken to the Experimental Ranges and to the Officers Club kennels.

The Asistant Commandant and Mrs. Cocheu entertained General Hagood and General Collins at luncheon on Tuesday at one o'clock. After the luncheon General Hagood accompanied by the Commandant and party went to Gowdy Field and witnessed the working of the mechanical score board, which gave the results of Tuesday's world series baseball game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees, at St. Louis.

The Corps Area Commander left Fort Benning at three-thirty on Tuesday afternoon in his automobile for for his headquarters in Atlanta. Before leaving the General expressed himself as being extremely well satisfied with his visit and also expressed a deire to be stationed at Fort Benning.

Colonel and Mrs. Gowen entertained with dinner before the reception for Mayor ad Mrs. Dimon, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes Browne, Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu and Major H. R. Herwig.

Captain J. D. Forsythe gave a dinner party at the Muscogee Club on Saturday for Miss Betty Collins, Miss Mary Pendleton, Miss Mildred Daniel, Mrs. Oliver, Miss Dorothy Gowen, Lt. Nichols, Lt. Oliver, Lt. Martinson, Captains Barnett, DeWare, Blue, Venable.

Mrs. A. D. Bruce entertained her guest, Miss Jane Bonnycastle, Miss Collins, Miss Gowen and Miss Pendleton, with a luncheon and bridge on Tuesday. On Wednesday, Mrs. Bruce invited three tables of bridge to meet Miss Bonnycastle.

Captain and Mrs. Bruce have issued invitations for a large dance at the Polo Club on next Tuesday evening for Miss Bonnycastle.

Mrs. Robert Fletcher rejoined her husband, Major letcher, on Saturday from Virginia.

Miss Betty Collins, the daughter of the Commandant, arrived at Fort Benning last week. She is expected to be here until the first of November.

The Post Gymnasium was the scene of a most delightful dance last Friday night, the Class Reception. The rough interior of the building was changed into a beautiful ballroom. Streamers of light blue and white, the Infantry colors, formed the dome, which was lighted by numerous blue bulbs; pine boughs covered the sides in which the dark blue and white company guidons and regimental banners were placed in rows the length of the room. The receiving line stood before an arch of drapped flags, and pine boughs. A beautiful floral basket of pink gladiolas were sent by Miss Benning, the daughter of the well known Confederate General, for whom the Fort was named. The guests were received by General Collins and Miss Collins. After the throng had passed the receiving line they assembled in small informal groups to become acquainted before the dancing began, which lasted until midnight.

The Dramatic Club will present two one-act plays at the 29th Infantry Theatre tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

Captain and Mrs. C. K. Fales gave a dinner before the reception last Friday night.

The Woman's Club met last Monday at the Polo Club at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Scott presided and asked each lady to tell how she had spent the summer. Several were experiencing their first taste of Army life, some had been to the fair in Philadelphia, and many had stayed at Benning. Mrs. Scotts' resignation was regretfully accepted and Mrs. Ralph Kingman was elected president to succeed her. Mrs. Vinson gave a reading from Uncle Remus and the metting adjourned on motions.

The Protestant Chapel Guild will hold a garden party and tea on Monday, the eleventh, from three-thirty till five, to entertain the ladies of the command at the home of Mrs. Ralph Kingman, No. 147A First Division Road.

Lt. and Mrs. George W. Smythe announces the birth of a son last Thursday evening at the Post Hospital.

GLEE CLUB

Forty-five very enthusiastic members were present at the meeting at the Officers Glee Club. Rehearsal for the new operetta was held and great progress made. There were many new members present and the large majority of them were found to have excellent voices.

A new departure will be made from the usual performances. There will be a beauty ballet under the direction of Mrs. Braun and Mrs. Cowley. This will be part of the operetta.

Misses Marie and Dorothy Russ had as their week-end guest, Miss Peggy Lampke, daughter of Captain Lampke, of Columbus.

Mrs. R. C. Jones entertained beautifully with seven tables of bridge at the Log Cabin, last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Stewart Beckley, wife of Lieut. Stewart Beckley, Field Artillery, honored Mrs. Bob Oliver with two tables of bridge last Tuesday.

The Ladies Equitation Class met Wednesday morning for organization. Major Smith spoke to the ladies and questionairs of former experiences were filled out. Four classes will be formed to meet on Tuesday, Thursday and Fridays promptly at 9:00 o'clock.

The enlited men's dance sponsored by the Detachment for the benefit of the Children's School was held in the garrison gymnasium Wednesday night and was a full and complete success, both financially and artistically. Master Sergeant Pat McNulty, who was in charge of the arrangements is to be congratulated upon the perfection of his plans and their successful execution. An enthusiastic throng of dancers crowded the floor and executed all the latest intricacies of Terpischorean art.

The Detachment Commander, Major Henry A. Bootz, and Mrs. Bootz, attended and the Major proved the life of the party.

Approximately $150 was cleared for the school.

Corporal Carl "Poker" Marshall has come back from dear old Chi where he has been on furlough for the past sixty days. He threatens to buy out at any minute, but we've heard that before.

Work on the improvement of the mess hall goes forward rapidly and soon Sgt. Bayliss' domain will be ornamental as well as useful. It has been announced that when the work is completed there will be a "housewarming", with speeches and the other trimmings.

Results of the deliberations of last month's promotion board became officially known Wednesday noon, when Major Bootz delivered warrants to two new sergeants and five freshly fledged coporals, with all the detachment noncoms present. Corporal Chas. W. Clark, of the Headquarters personnel office, added a third stripe, and Pfc. S1 Earl B. McMonigle from the Assistant Commandant's office also attained the dignity of a sergeancy. John C. Isham, Will J. Gammon, Johnny Hair, Norman M. Warren and Gordon H. Smith have added the narrow gauge corporal stripes. We're glad to see good men go up.

Lieutenant E. D. Pangburn has posted an impassioned plea for football candidates on the bulletin board, urging all eat-'em-alive, red-blooded, able-bodied, strong-backed, man-eating, chew-'em-up-and-spit-'em out members of the detachment to come out into the great open spaces and put the outfit on the gridiron map.

Our little school opened last week under very favorable auspices with a total enrollment of one hundred and fifty pupils in all grades from kindergarten to the seventh or graduating class.

Parents and guardians of pupils are reminded that tuition fees are due and payable in advance and must be paid by the 10th of the month. No statements will be rendered. Checks may be mailed or sent to the Officer in Charge, and should be drawn to the order of "The Fort Benning Children's School."

The regimental motto "We Lead the Way" was lived up to in payment of tuition when Major Bowen, popular commander of the well known 2nd Battalion, sent in his check early on the morning of the first day of school, and the regimental commander, Colonel Gowen, was a very close second.

Chaplain McKenna will be at his office until noon on Saturday to receive tuition.

"STICK TO IT"
By Stanley Gayle Sjovall.

When the day is dark and dreary,
And the way seems hard and long,
Just forget that you are weary,
And sing a cheerful song.

When you think that you can't make it,
And it seems a losing game,
Just try a little harder,
And you'll get there just the same.

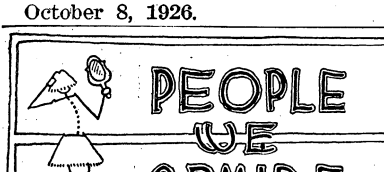
You've heard of the little spider,
Laboring to make his web,
How he tried till he succeeded,
Don't let your patience ebb.

The last mile is the hardest,
But don't give up the ship.
You can overcome the strongest,
If you keep a stiff upper lip.

Think of the men who have made it,
Are they any stronger than you?
No, never admit it,
Till you give up exhausted and through.

Then get on your feet and go at it,
With all of your vigor and vim,
Because if you always keep trying,
You're bound to get to it and win.

Now when you're gloomy, discouraged,
Think of these words right along,
Just forget that you're weary



"A Private Like the Rest"

Dwight Filley Davis, Secretary of War, was last week consulted by the Adjutant General of the Army. The General held an application in his hand for admission to a citizes' military traiing camp and signed "Dwight F. Davis, Jr., student, St. Mark's School, Southborough, Mass."

To what camp would the Secretary of War like the recruit sent.

Cried the Secretary: "Show him no favors. He must be a private like the rest!" —Time.

HOW TO GET A DISCHARGE ON SERGEON'S CERTIFICATE OF DISABILITY

Dear Captain:

I herein endeavor to make a concise explanation for the plea and complaint that I am desiring to lay before my Company Commander, hoping not to breach any etiquette, but only desiring to get his help and countenance in that which I know I am justified without further obligations on the Government, or without obligating the Government in any manner. My complaint and plea is:

1st. The obligations of a soldier require more physical exercise than my physical condition will permit me to exhibit. This is obvious when one takes into consideration the strain under which I am laboring. This is from divers causes: (a) That the arches of both my feet are weak and flat, pulling the legiments of my legs and easily and incessively causing pain, fatigue, and cramps of the entire parts of both legs. This is a minor thing unless more deeply looked into. (b) It is apparent that one is very susceptible to disease when one is fatigue, but thanks to the aquiline attention of the men by the officers, disease has been nearly dispensed of; but still, pain and fatigue day after day is bound, like the wind and rain, to wear away the mightiest rock. It is in this way that I have been bothered. The work of the last eight days has brought to me almost delirium. It seems that every sense I possess has been deadened —my eyes are unclear and hazzy, and I cannot compel my muscles to coordinate with my mind. Of course, Sir, this is only the dawning of utter fatigue. Day after day I am less able to perform properly the obligations of a soldier.

2nd. I, being unable to ever excel as a soldier, am a detriment to the Government, and, I some times fear a seminuisance to my Captain.

3rd. The civilian life is neither as severe nor as stringent; one does not have to walk a third as much as in the Army. Assuming that we walk as an average ten miles per day, I would in that case save 100 miles per month by being on the outside. It would mean that I would be two-thirds more efficient.

Begging your pardon, I am,

Yours obediently,

Mark him I. C., Sergeant, and turn him loose.—Second Division Review.

BEHIND THE FRONT

Saturday night, October 16th, the War Department theatres of this garrison will feature for the second time this season's gripping, side splitting comedy, BEHIND THE FRONT, staged by the eminent director Edward Sutherland. Those who saw it once will not miss it this time. Those who have never seen it cannot afford to miss the opportunity of feasting their eyes and brains upon this realistic story of the greatest war in history.

For this production a French village and system of trenches hemmed in with barbed wire were constructed on the Lasky ranch and it is so realistic that veterans of the war claim that "it has given them the first real thrill since the guns stopped firing on Armistice Day."

The story is woven around two raw recruits who in civilian life were enemies, but buddies over there indulging together in the sunny side as well as in the hell fires of the war.

During the show you will cry, you will shudder and you will laugh. It terminates in a laugh climax that will send you home hysterical.

THE BABE'S DAY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 6.—Seven new world series records were put o nthe books today by statisticions, who found the going as tough in today's game as did the Cardinal pitching corps.

Babe Ruth personally accounted for six of the new marks, as follows:

1.—Most homers for one game, three, breaking former of two held jointly by Harry Hooper of the Red Sox, Benny Kauff, of the Giants, and Ruth.

2.—Most homers, total series, seven, breaking old record of six, set by Goose Goslin in 1924 and 1925. Ruth hit one homer in 1921 and three in 1923.

3. —Most total bases in one game, 12, breaking mark of nine set up by Hooper in 1915.

4. Most extra bases, one game, nine, breaking former record of six, held jointly by Ruth, Kauff, and Hooper.

5. Most runs, one game, four, breaking record make by Mike Donlin with Giants in 1905, and equalled by many others.

6.—Most extra bases, total series, 27, breaking Ruth's own previous mark of 18.

The seventh and final record for one club's total bases in a single game was set by the Yankees, whose 14 hits totaled for 28 bases, eclipsing the mark og 27 made by the Giants in 1921.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

ENTRANTS ANNOUNCED FOR ENDURANCE RIDE BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Only Three Entries By Civilians. Cavalry Leads With Nine.

The Eighth Annual Endurance Ride, sponsored by the American Remount Association, Arabia Horse Club of America, Horse Association of America, Kentucky Jockey Club, Thoroughbred Horse Association, Morgan Horse Club, the United States Cavalry Association, and the Remount Service, will be held in the vicinity of Brandon, Vermot, beginning on next Monday, October 11, and lasting five days. The ride is desinged to stimulate interest in the breeding of good saddle horses of a general utility type, at the same time possessing the stamina and quality necessary to render them satisfactory for use in the United States Army as well as for commercial purposes.

The contestants will be assembled and paraded at Brandon on Saturday, October 9th. Beginning Monday, the contestants will ride thirty miles out and thirty miles back each day for five days, making a total of 300 miles. Each horse will carry 225 pounds. Saturday, October 16th, at the end of the 300 mile ride, horses will be judged, 60 per cent. on condition and 40 per cent. on their time record. Nine hours is the time allotted for each sixty-mile ride. Entries will be penalized for each minute they are either over or under this time allowance. Besides the customary ribbons, the following prizes will be awarded:

First Prize — $600.00, the Second Mounted Service Club, the Arabian Horse Club Medal, the Morgan Horse Club Medal, and the Morgan Horse Club Trophy.

Second Prize—$500.00 and the Morgan Horse Club Trophy.

Third Prize—$400.00 and the Morgan Horse Club Trophy.

Fourth Prize—$300.00.

Fifth Prize—$200.00.

Sixth Prize—$100.00.

A special prize of $100.00 in gold will be awarded the rider exhibiting the best horsemanship, irrespective of his position at the finish. This prize was won in 1925 by Major C. L. Scott, Remount Service, Washington, D. C.

The officials of the Eastern Endurance Ride are: Albert W. Harris, Chicago, Chairman; Wayne Dinsmore, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Secretary-Treasurer; Allen Case, Toronto; Thomas W. Clark, dgemont, Pa., and Dr. W. W. Townsend, Burlington, Vermont. Judges: Lennox D. Barnes, Fitzwilliam, N. H., recorder; Major C. A. Beton, New York, route master, and J. G. Watson, Brandon, Vermont, assistant route master.

In the following list of entries it will be noted that all but three are from the United States Army, and of these nine are from the Cavalry, two from the Field Artillery, and one from the Remount Service.

MOCASIN (thoroughbred) — 1st Squadron, 3rd Cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

AMELIA (thoroughbred) — 1st Squadron, 3rd Cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

STOCKINGS (thoroughbred) — 1st Squadron, 3rd Cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

BUNNY (thoroughbred) — 1st Squadron, 3rd Cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

PEGGY (half-bred)—Troop F, 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va. Winner in 1925 and 1924.

BABE (half-bred) — Headquarters Detachment, 2d Squadron, 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va. Competed last year.

MIS BRANDON (half-bred)—Service Troop, 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va.

LADY LUCK (half-bred)—Service Troop, 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va. Competed last year.

LILLIAN RUSSEELL (half-bred)—Captain John A. Weeks, 3d Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va. Winner of thrid place 1925 and 1924.

MAJOR S (Morgan)—Major Ralph Talbot, Jr., 7th Field Artillery, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont. Competed last year.

REX RYSDYK (Saddle bred)—R. T. M. McCready, Pittsburgh, Pa. Placed fourth, 1925.

MARK HAL (Standard bred)—R. T. M. McCready, Pittsburgh, Pa.

RUSTY (Morgan) — H. L. Frost, Pittsford, Vermont.

DOLLY (half-bred) — Battery A., 16th Field Artillery, Fort Myer, Va.

BLUE BELL (halfthoroughbred and half hackney) — United States Remount Service, Washington, D. C.

HERMAN KOBBE (thoroughbred) —R. O. T. C., Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass.

PEGGY, the bay mare entered by the Third Cavalry, has won two rides in succession. If she wins again this year her regiment will be awarded the Mounted Serxice Cup, which is the capital prize of the contest, and which goes to the winner of three of the rides. PEGGY was sired by Ganadore, a thoroughbred running horse from Virginia; her dam's sire was a registered English hackney. The bay gelding, PATHFINDER, of the Remount Service, after placing but never winning in five successive rides, will be missig this year. He is to be sent to the Cavalry School for duty. MARK HAL, a horse owned by R. T. M. McCready of Pittsburgh, is to be the first pacing bred horse ever entered in the Eastern Endurance Ride and accordingly will be watched with interest. RUSTY, the entry of Dr. H. L. Frost, of Pittsford, Vermont, is a Morgan horse of a hardy type suitable for general utility purposes. His performance will be followed closely. LILLIAN RUSSELL, owned and to be ridden by Captain John A. Weeks, has placed thrid two successive years. She was bred by the British Remount Service.

The Fort Myer horses, including five horses from the Third Cavalry and one from the Sixteenth Field Artillery, leave tomorrow for Vermont The riders of the horses are: Captain John A. Weeks, Lieut. George B. Hudson, Sergeants Rathburn, Yarronski, and Quatickesy, and Corporal Mathewson.

I'VE DONE MY BIT IN THE ARMY

I've done my bit in the Army
Still I am not tired yet,
I've had my fill of the Army,
O friends and strangers 'Ive met.

I've seen all there is to the Army,
I've felt all there is to feel,
I've done my time in a sea of slime,
I've lost all they didn't steal.

I've done my bit in the Army,
I've hiked and sweated in heat and wet
I've lain in the dust—gnawed a crust
At Harding's judgment seat.

I've eaten my meals with reptiles,
I've quartered with bugs galore—
In lands where all things are made with stings,
From the trees to the rug on the floor.

I've dug in the blasted trenches,
The air was a hundred hells—
I've charged in the jungle cactus,
To the music of rebel yells.

I've carried a pack in the jungle,
Till it cut me down to the blood;
I've sweltered and lay like a thing of clay
In a slithering swamp of mud.

I've risen at five in the morning,
At the sound of reveillee;
I've slaved all day for a newsboy's pay,
Till the night would set me free.

I've lived the life of a soldier
No chance to "beat it" or shirk—
And the life of a soldier, believe me,
Is little but damned hard work.

I've eaten the food of a soldier,
Hardtack and Mulligan stew;
Bacon and beans — and a touch of greens—
But, Lord, they were scarce and few.

I've followed the flag of my country
In khaki and plain O. D.
And up to date I'm standing straight
In a way that's good to see.

I've done my bit in the Army,
I've had my fill of the same,
But I wouldn't trade the friends I've made
For all I've lost in the game.

I've had my fill of the Army,
Of strangers and Army men—
I've done my bit and I stand to quit,
And never take on again.

But I seem to know when the bugles blow
And I hear the reveillee
That my blood will beat and my pulse will beat
No matter where I may be.

And I'll want to go with a burning yearn,
That only the soldier feels;
To slave and sweat in heat and wet,
To straighten and click my heels.

But I've done my bit in the Army—
Altho I know
When the bugles blow
They'll have a call for me.

ANOTHER ILLUSTRATIVE PROBLEM

"In the year of our Lord—the date is immaterial, other than to fix it in what has been called the days B. V. D., meaning before the Volstead disaster, there was a certain captain of Infantry who, in accordance with the custom of the day, kept in his sideboard a large decanter of rare, old Kentucky Bourbon, for the proper entertainment of his friends.

"Among other encumbrances, this captain had a servant, one Rastus Washington Lincoln Jackson by name, who in some way had acquired a taste for good liquor, and who conceived the idea of relieving the decanter of its precious contents and replacing it with some more recently distilled whiskey of his own, which he had staged up to a position in readiness in the kitchen.

"The occasion for the relief presented itself when one evening a couple of the Captain's friends joined him on the porch and Rastus was directed to prepare the juleps.

"The first round in frosted goblets was concocted of the old Bourbon and teemed with all the glory of that king of libations. Before this glory had completely passed off, the second round arrived, mixed half and half with the new liquor which Rastus had brought in quietly from the kitchen. The new juleps, being well supported by the old liquor, were sufficiently potent to keep the party in status quo and aroused no suspicion. The third and succeeding rounds were made entirely of the new stuff, and Rastus' bottles in the kitchen became gradually filled with the old liquor, as the captain and his guests were filled with the new.

"You will see that the principles underlying this relief apply equally to the relief of units in other military situations.

"A relief must be prepared for by careful reconnaissance, based upon well-laid plans and executed with the utmost secrecy.

"The relieving unit must be staged up to a convenient locality, near at hand.

"Reliance must be placed in the effectiveness of the old unit.

"The change should not be too abrupt, but in the early stages, the new and less effective elements should be supported by some of the old.—The Horseshoe.

Sergt: Pull your feet back, Jones, They are in front of the line.

Jones: Dats dat niggers feet in the rear rank, Sah.

Speaking about baseball reminds me of how we used to play the game over at Dry Branch before the war, in those days when a batter hit the ball he kept going until the ball was thrown in, for instance if you could hit the ball far enough to score two home runs on one hit why it was all right. I will never forget a game I saw once between Dry Branch and Big Sandy for the county championship.

Every thing went along pretty well until the third inning and then Fuzzy Morton, Big Sandy's first baseman, comes up and slams one into deep center, our center fielder raced back to the fence for it and then starts yelling that the ball is stuck in a knot hole. Well, by the time the outfield and half the infield got the ball pried ent. Big Sandy is forty runs to the good and we are feeling mighty sick. Things rock along until the ninth inning with us on the small end of a forty-three to four score, two men out and two on the batter in the last half of the ninth, everybody is getting ready to move out when the batter hits a high fly to deep right, just then a old spotted cow, eating grass out in right looked up and started to low and would you believe it the ball dropped right in her mouth and I will be derned if she didn't swallow it. Of course we didn't beat them so bad, but we sure did do some scoring then.

I ain't been long in this man's army,
It ain't been long since I did arrive;
But I like it better than a-farmin',
There ain't no cows to milk or drive.

Teach you all the soldier's business,
How to march and tur naround,
Give you a gun and you put it on your shoulder—
One-Two-Three and you put it on the ground.

Then they take you to the stable
With a brush and curry-comb,
Groom those horses while you're able,
Cease grooming, Fall-in, and march back home.

Then they take you to the bath house,
Funniest place you ever saw,
Water runs in through a hole in the ceilin',
Runs right out through a hole in the floor.

Then you sign your name on a paper,
Man right there gives you your pay,
You take it to the squad-room, put in on the table
Guy says CRRAPS and take it all away.

PASSING THE BUCK— A NATIONAL PASTIME

Passing the buck is a game in which a piece of work, a duty, or any other disagreeable thing is passed from one officer or employe to another in such a manner that the smallest portion of the work or duty is accomplished, and the identity of the person whose duty it is to do it is hidden from the person interested in having it done. The varations and the possibilities of the game are limited only by the initiative and skill of the players. Its pinnacle of refinement is reached when the player will work harder to pass the buck than would be necessary to perform the task itself.

The claim often advanced by American enthusiasts that the game originated in the United States is not founded on fact. The game is as old as history ad as widespread as geography. I is a certainty that Pontius Pilate found it a pleasant as well as a convenient pastime, and there is reason to believe that it was not unknown to the ancients. Others say that Adam's game was too shoddy to be worthy the name. Wherever and whenever it originated, its development and perfection in the United States have made it to all intents and purposes an American game, as inseparably American as chewing gum itself. Introduced into America in early Colonial times, the game won immediate and lasting popularity among all classes, but its greatest impetus came from its semi-official adoption in government circles as the National Indoor Sport. Its growth has been as steady and as rapid as the increase in population, except in the District of Columbia where the population hasn't been able to keep up. In no other country of the world is the game played by so many people, or with such great skill and daring.

Army regulations and the Quartermaster's Manual are the two principal rule books of the game. A careful study of them will give the beginner a fairly good understanding of this fascinating sport. Besides these, there are many other rules, some of which will be found on the backs of numerous forms used in the game, but most of which have never been printed. New rules are being made every day to cope with the new duties and labors that come with the war. The official umpires are the Auditor for the War Department and the Comptroller of the Treasury. They are seldom appealed to except to umpire big league games, but their services are available to all players, from the newest beginner to the most skilled. Nothing is too trivial for their attention. They sometimes volunteer information that hasn't been asked for. In order to preserve the integrity of the game, there is no appeal from the Comptroller's rulings.

It was the Comptroller's proficiency in the game that gave him the right to spell controller with an "m" and a "p". This spelling also serves to distinguish him from a controller in the ordinary sense of the word. The "Comptroller" controls in a negative sense, much as an inexperieced chauffeur might control an automobile by shutting off the gasoline.

It is impossible to give in this short space anything like a complete description of the game, or even a comprehensive summary of the rules. There are, however, certain general principles and a few rules that must be observed in counting points, ad which may profitably be mentioned here.

First of all, the new employee should bear well in mind that rendering service to the public, or trying in any way to please it, is not a part of the game. New employees entering the service from civil life often bring with them a fund of enthusiasm of this nature that is difficult to control. This enthusiasm takes the form of an insane desire on their part to make themselves useful and agreeable to the general public with which they come into contact, and to their fellow employees. This is a thing most studiously to be avoided. Its harmful effects are threefold. It counts against the player himself in the game; it spoils the game for other more experienced players; and it stores up trouble for the new player against the time when constant floundering in the meshes of red tape will have choked from him the last gasp of whatever splendid enthusiasm he may once have had.

A few examples of the methods of counting points are given here to show the beginner the general scheme. There are many others; and new ones can be invented at any time, so long as they do not interfere with the general purpose.

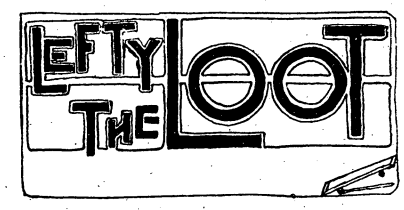
If an officer or employee to whom work is given passes it on to another, and the other does the work, that counts plus 1 for the first man, and minus 1 for the second. If, though, the second man passes it on to a third, and the third does the work, that counts plus 2 for the first man, plus 2 for the second, and minus 4 for the third. If the work goes to a fourth man before being done, and the fourth man does it, that counts plus three for each of the first three men, and minus 9 for the fourth. This progression continues indefinitely, and the game when so played is called "Passing the Buck, Simple and Direct." It is the game's simplest form, and is especially recommended to the beginner for teaching him the value of team work.

Suppose now that the fourth man doesn't do the work, but passes it back to the third, and that the third man is forced to do it. The fourth man gets plus 6 and the third man minus 6. The first two players get the same as though the third man had done it in the first place. If the fourth man makes the work go back to the first man, through the third and second, and the first man is forced to do it, that counts plus 18 for the fourth man, and minus 6 for each of the other three.

When there are ten or more players in the game, and the buck is passed to each and by each, in turn, until it makes a complete circle, and then is thrown aside without any actual work having been accomplished, a perfect score is said to have been made, and everybody gets a hundred.

Although there are many notable cases of new players having been conspicuously successful from the start, the finished players are, for the most part, men who have been long in the service and grown up with the game. The present generation owes them a great deal. The skill of some of them is such that they count their perfect scores by dozens, and even by hundreds. It is said that the man who compiled the Quartermaster's Manual was voted a life championship certificate, and then permanently disqualified from fuurther competition in amateur games on the ground that he had become professional. It was feared that if he continued to compete in amateur games his phenomenal succes might discourage other players from putting forth their best efforts. This would cause a lagging of interest that might bring about the death of the game and drag the Government work down to the level of ordinary business procedure.

The beginner should not allow himself to be discouraged by his own clumsiness for the first few weeks, or by the amazing skill of the older players. Unless his forefathers have been Government employees or master plumbers it is very likely that he will lose heavily at first. A new player is often made the victim of concerted action by the less skilled of the older players who see in the advent of a new man a chance to wipe out some of their minus scores. Let the new player sit tight, do as little as possible, study the game and watch his chance. If he is made of the right stuff he will soon have nothing more to learn.



A DYING AVIATOR

A poor aviator lay dying
At the close of a bright summer day;
His comrades had gathered about him
To carry his fragments away.

The airplane was piled on his wishbone,
His Hotchkiss was wrapped round his head,
He wore a spark-plug on each elbow,
'Twas plain he would shortly be dead.

He spit out a valve and gasket,
And stirred in the sun where he lay,
And then to his wondering comrades
These brave parting words he did say:

"Take the magneto out of my stomach
And the butterfly valve off my neck,
Extract from my liver the crankshaft,
There're lots of good parts in this wreck.

"Take the manifold out of my larynx
And the cylinders out of my brain,
Take the piston-rods out of my kidneys

And assemble the engine again."

WAR DEPARTMENT OLYMPIC RIDING TEAM

At a meeting of the War Department Olympic Riding Team Committee, consisting of Major General William J. Snow, Chief of Field Artillery; Major General B. Frank Cheatham, Quartermaster General; Major General Robert H. Allen, Chief of Infantry; Major General Herbert B. Crosby, Chief of Cavalry; Colonel Henry C. Whitehead, representing the Remount Service, and Major Allan C. McBride, Field Artillery, preliminary steps were taken to provide for the organization and development of a riding team to represent the United States in the 1928 Olympiad at Amsterdam.

Consideration was also given to arrangements for continued representation in future Olympiads in order to avoid the difficulties of the past when separate action was taken for each occasion. As a result there was wasted effort in repetition of initial steps for selection of personnel and procurement of mounts. Furthermore, the shortness of preparation always caused the American team to be outmounted.

At the meeting it was decided that the team, which will be open to the entire Army, will be assembled at the Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kansas, in the late summer of 1927 for a year's training prior to the Amsterdam games.

A sub-committee was appointed to arrange further details of organization and administration.

The general committee was of the opinion that an officer should be selected to take charge of the team who should not be a competitor, but should have charge of the training of both riders and horses, and should control them in the competition.

Furthermore, arrangements were made for the permanency of the War Department Olympic Riding Team Committee, and the inauguration of a policy for continuation of participation.

The expense of the Olympic Riding Team to the government will be only the usual routine maintenance expenses in connection with training, such as forage, care of horses, and wear and tear on equipment. Private funds will cover any unusual expenses such as travel for men and horses, purchase of expensive horses and equipment, and participation in horse shows.

Colonel R. H. Williams, Jr., President of the American Remount Association, and a member of the War Department Olympic Riding Team Committee, has pledged the hearty cooperation of the American Remount Association in this effort to have the United States properly and worthily represented in the horse events of the Olympic Games.

AUGURY?

In the dusty playground of the Clay Public School, Philadelphia, students cheered, exhorted. "Gene Tunney" was fighting "Jack Dempsey",, was carrying the fight to the champion. "Come on, Gene!" screamed pupils, "knock him out!" Encouraged, the "challenger" belabored lustily, incautiously. "Dempsey" saw an opening, swung a haymaker.

Later when the body of "Tunney" (Manuel Kin, aged 12) was being removed, "Dempsey" (Carl Weinstein, aged 10) sobbed: "I didn't mean to . ."

Manuel's death was due to an untimely blood clot. Time.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

KING COLLEGE EASY FOR LEATHERNECKS

By Bill Walter.

Tell it to the Marines didn't go yesterday. The Leathernecks weren't even cajoled into listening to whispers and consequently submerged King College gridmen by the score of 27 to 7 at Catholic University stadium before a large gathering of fans, the major portion of which were marines.

Just before the game started the Marine band paraded around the stadium and furnished the crowd with a few select numbers. Maj. Gen. LeJeune, commander of the Marine Corps, together with his staff, witnessed the game with keen interest.

The Marines, with the spectacular running of McQuade, Ryckman, and Pugh, easily scooted around the ends and through tackles for many big gains.

King College abandoned trying to break through the Leatherneck' unbreakable line and beginning with the third quarter resorted to innumerable passes, few of which were completed.

Before the game had hardly begun, Ed Pugh with a 35-yard end run, and Ryckman with another, put the ball on King College's 5-yard line, and on the next play Pugh shot through tackle for the marker.

Hammerstrom, King College's left halfback, pulled a Marine pass out of the air in the second quarter and with some neat dodging ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Gunn made a perfect boot for the extra point.

The Quantico huskies received the ball on their 15-yard line in the third quarter and on three consecutive long end-runs by McQuade and a 5-yard gain by Ryckman, put the ball on the King College's 1-yard line. McQuade received the ball and rushed through center for the Marine's third touchdown.

Line plunging and long end-runs by Ryckman, chalked up the Leathernecks' final counter.

Two Thousand Years of Service.

At a recent military review at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, of the 10th Cavalry and the 25th Infantry (both colored), Senator Ralph Cameron, of Arizona, who was present, expressed a desire to meet all the soldiers who had served over twenty years. Over eighty men came forward, equally divided between the men of the 10th Cavalry and the 25th Infantry. Questioning by the Senator brought forth the fact that the average service of these soldiers was in excess of twenty-five years, making a combined total of over two thousand years under the colors. These figures would have been considerably increased had not a number of the older men of the two regiments been absent from the review on other duties.

Endurance Ride.

The War Department has authorized the entry of horses from the 3rd Cavalry, Fort Myer, Va., the 3rd Cavalry at Fort Ethan Allan, Vt., and from the Remount Service, Quartermaster Corps, without expense to the government, in the Eastern Endurance Ride which starts October 11th from Brandon, Vt. This annual ride covers 300 miles in five days, each day's distance being approximately 60 miles. There is carried a weight of 225 pounds, including the rider, his saddle and all equipment. Entries from civilian horsemen, the Department of Agriculture and the army, participate to develop knowledge of correct breeding lines, conditioning and feeding of animals suitable for such an effort. The horses are very closely watched by judges and veterinarians throughout the ride so as to immediately eliminate any entry which develops lameness ,injury or undue fatigue.

MUSKETEERS LOSE SEASON'S OPENER TO CARSON-NEWMAN

Line Plays Stellar Game, But New Backfield Fails to Function.

A stocky 160-pound fullback with the entire right sleeve of his jersey torn off stood thirty yards from the Musketeer goal line as eager soldier tacklers charged upon him. Calmly he surveyed the field, quickly he raised his bare arm. A football sped through the air with rifle-like velocity and settled neatly in the arms of a blue and gold jerseyed end, standing exactly on the last white chalk mark. A moment later the same sturdy back booted a placement goal squarely between the posts. The footballer who made the pass and kicked the goal was Ruby, the end who received was Tom Ballard, and the result of their activity was a 7 to 0 defeat for Berry's Musketeers at the hands of the Fighting Parsons of Carson-Newman College.

It was an opening game and bore all the characteristics of an opening game. There were flashes of brilliant play that gave promise of future greatness, but there was a lack of the coordination so essential to success. Both team showed good defensive play, but neither was able to sustain the offensive for any appreciable period. Ruby's scoring toss in the second period, following on the heels of a similar successful effort made the difference. Haas outkicked his Infantry opponents on every exchange, and this superiority was of material assistance to the Tennesseeans in keeping the soldiers away from the goal line.

Big Bertha Bertelman, Mack, Douglass, and the other Musketeer linesmen broke up every rushing attack launched by the Parsons, who made not a single first down except by passing. On offense the line was not so good, failing to open up holes. Of the backs, Sweeney and Cole turned in fine dashes, Mlynczak, Lindsey, Mitzen and Berry made intermittent gains through the line, but the trouble was that they were intermittent. There's power in the new backfield if it can be effectively coordinated, and hard practice will probably get them together better in future games.

The game in detail:

1st Quarter.

Douglass kicked off for the Musketeers to Tucker, who returned one yard on his own 21-yard line, Bertelman making the tackle. Tucker hit center for 3 yards, and Ruby added one through the line. Haas kicked 34 yards to Sweeney, who fumbled but recovered and came back 5 to the Infantry 46 yard line. Sweeney failed to gain over left guard. Sweeney plowed through right tackle for 6 yards. A forward pass was incomplete. Lindsey kicked 13 yards, the ball falling dead. Carsons-Newman's ball on their own 35-yard line. Douglass stopped Ruby with no gain. A pass, Ruby to Dillon made it first down on the visitors 45-yard line. G. Ballard got 1 yard through the line. A pass was grounded. Haas punted 32 yards to Lapine, who was downed in his tracks on the Infantry 28-yard mark. Sweeney ran outside through left tackle for a 3 yard gain. Sweeney hit right tackle for 4, and then made 5 more through the same place, for first down on the Infantry 40 yard line. Lapine failed to gain through the line. Sweeney drove through right tackle for 5 yards, and Lindsey hit the other side for 7 yards and first down at the Parsons' 48 yard strip.

Lindsey made 2 at right guard and Mitzen went 4 over the other side. Sweeney fumbled, but recoverd for no gain. Sweeney punted 13 yards to the visitors' 29 yard line. The Infantry was penalized 15 yards for roughing the receiver. Carson-Newman's ball on their own 44-yard line, first down. Bertelman broke through and dropped Ruby for a 5 yard loss, tearing the sleeve off the Parson's jersey in making the tackle. A forward pass was incomplete. Haas punted 35 yards to Sweeney who was nailed without return on the Infantry 26 yard line. Lapine went 1 throught center. Sweeney hit the line for 4. Sweeney ran outside from kick formation for no gain, as the quarter ended.

2nd Quarter.

Lindsey kicked 23 yards, Tucker coming back 10 yards to the Infantry 46 yard line. Cornog made a beautiful tackle to drop the visiting quarter. Ruby passed 25 yards to Tucker, who was stopped by Sweeney at the Infantry 21 yard line. Ruby dropped back to the 30-yard line and shot a beautiful pass to Tom Ballard on the goal line. The visiting end fell across as Sweeney tackled him.

Ruby kicked a placement goal squarely between the posts for the extra point. Tucker holding the ball.

CARSON-NEWMAN 7, INFANTRY 0.

Mlynczak went in for Lapine, and Newman took Berish's place in the Infantry line. Haas kicked off to the Infantry 17-yard line, Mitzen running it back 25 yards to the 42-yard mark. Griffith for Douglass, Finney for Bertelman, and Schaefer for Wargo. Lindsey hit center for 1-yard. Mlynczak failed to gain. Franz went in for Dwyer. Sweeney dashed 17 yards off right tackle to the Carson-Newman 40-yd. line. Cole for Sweeney. Mitzen made no headway through the line. Cole failed to gain at right end, running from kick formation. Mlynczak drove through right tackle for 11 yards and first down on the visitors' 29 yard line, stopped by G. Ballard. Mlynczak went outside for 1 yard. Berry went in for Mitzen. Mlynczak failed to gain, but the Infantry was offside and drew a 5 yard penalty. Mlynczak made 3 through the line. A long pass. Berry to Franz, was incomplete. G. Ballard intercepted a pass on the Carson-Newman 18 yard line. Haas made 2 through the line and then added 1 more. Haas kicked outside at midfield, but the play was called back and the Infantry penalized 15 yards for roughing the kicker. Carson-Newman's ball on their own 36 yard line. Tucker failed through the line. Haas fumbled, but recovered for 1 yard loss. Haas punted 28 yards, the ball falling dead on the Infantry 37 yard line. The Infantry was penalized 5 yards for offside on the first lineup. Cole went 7 yards around right end. Cole lost 1 yard at left end. A pass was knocked down by G. Ballard. Lindsey kicked 32 yards to Tucker, who was downed in his tracks on the visitors' 30-yard line. Ruby passed G. Ballard who was downed by Mlynczak at midfield. Two plays failed to gain through the line. Haas kicked outside at the Infantry 28 yard line. A pass was incomplete. Berry made 5 and 4 through left tackle. Berry went 2 through right tackle for first down on the Infantry 39 yard line, as the half ended.

CARSON-NEWMAN 7, INFANTRY 0.

3rd Quarter.

The Musketeers started the second half with the following lineup: Franz, l.s.; Griffith, l.t.; Schaeffer, l.g.; Newman, c.; Stanovich, r.g.; Finney, r.t.; Mays, r.e.; Sweeey, Berry, Cole and Mitzen, backs.

Haas kicked off to Cole on the Infantry 8-yard line, and Crip turned in the longest run of the game. He came back 40 yards before being dropped by Ruby. Berry failed to gain. Cole ran around right end for 5 yards. Cole kicked 36 yards, the ball falling dead on the Carson-Newman 11-yard line. On the first lineup Haas punted to Cole on the visitors' 39-yard line. There was no return. Sweeney fumbled, but recovered and went 1 yard around right end. Bennett for Mitzen. Berry passed to Bennett for an 8 yard gain. Sweeney fumbled but recovered for no gain. Berry made 1 yard and first down at the Parsons' 29 yard line. Haas intercepted a pass on the 17 yard strip. Haas hi tcenter for 2 yards. G. Ballard fumbled, but recovered for a 4 yard loss. Haas kicked 32 yards, and Sweeney returrned 5 to the Carson-Newman 42 yard line. Sweeney failed to gain through center. A pass, Berry to Cole, gained 7 yards. Sweeney went off right tackle for 3 yards and first down. Van Studdiford for Newman. G. Ballard intercepted a pass from Berry and ran back 3 yards to the Parson 26-yard line. Ruby went 1 yard and outside. Haas hit center for 5. G. Ballard failed to gain. Haas punted 28 yards to Sweeney who dodged back 15 yards to the Carson-Newman 45 yard line. Quarter over.

4th Quarter.

Lindsey for Bennett in the Infantry backfield. Lindsey failed to gain through the line. A forward pass was incomplete. A pass, Berry to Cole, netted 5 yards. Dwyer for Franz. Sweeney hit the line, but failed to make first down by inches. Ball over on the Parson 35 yard line. Haas made 1, and Tucker repeated. Sweeney intercepted a Ruby thrown pass on the visitors' 42-yard line, downed in his tracks. Mack for Finney. A short pass, Berry to Lindsey, made 4 yards. Sweeney skirted left end for 4. Mitzen for Cole. Sweeney went 2 over left tackle for first down. Lindsey was stopped without gain. Sweeney ployed center for 2. A pass was incomplete, knocked down by T. Ballardi A pass was completed, but gained only 1 yard and the ball went over to Carson-Newman on their 29 yard line. Mlynczak for Lindsey. Ruby failed to gain. Haas kicked 26 yards to Sweeney who returned 9 to Carson-Newman's 46 yard line. Sweeney tried to pass, but there was no receiver open and he was thrown for a 10 yard loss. A pass was incomplete. A second pass was grounded and the Infantry was penalized 5 yards for second failure in same set of downs. Mlynczak broke the line for 8 yards, but the ball went over on downs on the Infantry 45 yard line. Kingsbury for Mitzen. Douglass for Griffith. Haas and Ruby failed at the line. Haas kicked 42 yards to the Infantry 3 yard line, the ball going outside at the Musketeer 20 yard line. G. Ballard made 8 around right end on a reverse play. Ruby failed to gain through the line. Haas made 1. A pass was grounded and it was the Infantry's ball on their own 11 yrd line. Berish for Van Studdiford. Ruby intercepted a pass at the Infantry 24 yard line. Tucker fumbled buut recovered, as the game ended.

BERRY MUSKETEERS BEAT KING BY STRONG LAST HALF ATTACK

Driving Offensive in Last Two Periods Gives Twenty Point Win.

As soon as Big Bertha Bertelman entered the Musketeer lineup in the second half of last Saturday's game with King College, the Infantry changed from an erratic, faltering aggregation of football players into a rushing, driving, fighting machine that rolled up three touchdowns against the visiting collegians, and thereby exactly equalled the margin of superiority shown by the Marines on the preceding week-nd. The final tally was 20 to 0, and while the big Tanker is not shown in the summary as scoring any of the points, it was through a gaping hole opened by him in the King line that Mitzen made the first score on a thrilling 35-yard dash, and the subsequent touchdowns by Sweeney were scored in a similar manner.

Of course Bertha wasn't the whole show by any means. The other linesmen did well throughout the game, but seemed to become really inspired by the entrance of the big boy. The back field caught the fever and slashed into the Mountain Tornado with a real honest-to-goodness attack that brought back fond memories of old Jock McQuarrie and Bill Swantic. Mitzen and Bennett, in particular, kept their feet in fine style and scattered the opposition right and left with bull-like rushes. Then there was Thompson, youngster from the Demonstration Doughboys, playing his first game with the Varsity, and playing it according to the best Doughboy traditions. In the closing minutes Kingsbury, a husky redskin from the Engineers, went into the game and showed marked ability to advance the ball in the desired direction. And then "Weenie" Sweeney must not be overlooked. He carried the ball more times than any other Musketeer back and gained on al-

Maj. Gen. J. L. Hines, Chief of Staff, who is now visiting the Garrison

CHIEF OF STAFF COMES TO BENNING FOR SHORT STAY

Review and Reception Feature Visit of Maj. Gen. Hines to Garrison

Major General John L. Hines, General Staff, and Chief of Staff of the United States Army, arrived at the Union Station in Columbus at eight forty-five P. M. on Wednesday of this week for a visit of several days at Fort Benning. General Hines was met at the station by General Collins, Lieutenant Oliver, the Commandant's Aide; Lieutenant Colonel Asa P. Singleton, 29th Infantry, and many other officers who are acquaintances and who at various times have served on his staff. The Chief of Staff was taken at once by automobile to Fort Benning to the quarters of Colonel Singleton, who is the General's host during his stay at the Infantry School.

On Thursday morning, General Hines was taken to the area south-east of the Dental Infirmary where an official salute of thirteen guns was fired by a battery of the 83rd Field Artillery. After the salute, General Hines and his party observed the work of the Company Officers' Class. This Class was receiving instruction in Command and Leadership. The Chief of Staff then heard some of the instruction which was being carried on with the Advanced Class.

The Post Hospital was visited later on in the forenoon. General Hines expressed himself as being particularly well pleased with the very excellent condition in which he found the Hospital. All of the other activities within the Post proper were also visited during the morning, including: the Post Exchange, the Main Theatre, the Engineer Area, the Service Club, Gowdy Field, Doughboy Stadium and the 24th Infantry Area including the Swimming Pool of that Regiment.

At two o'clock Thursday afternoon General Hines reviewed the troops of the entire Garrison. He was very wll pleased with the appearance of the command and congratulated the Commandant on the fine appearance of the Troops and the motor and horse drawn transportation.

A Reception was held for General Hines from four until six o'clock at the Polo Club on Thursday afternoon at which time the Officers and Ladies of the Garrison together with many prominent civilians from Columbus were presented to the Chief of Staff.

On Thursday evening at seven-thirty o'clock, the Commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, entertained at a stag dinner for General Hines, at the Ralston Hotel. Many social and sporting events have been planned in the General's honor for the coming week.

GARRISON THESPIANS PRESENT TWO PLAYS TO SELECT AUDIENCE

"In the Zone" and "The Mayor and the Manicure," Please Dramatic Club

By Capt. S. G. Saulnier.

The long-heralded premiere of the Dramatic Club took place Saturday night at the 29th Infantry Theatre. The overture started promptly at the appointed hour quieting the friendly chatter of the assembled audience, made up of members, active and associate, of the newly formed Dramatic Club, and their guests.

The curtain opened on a typical Eugene O'Neil setting—the fo'castle of an English tramp steamer carrying munitions thru the "sub" zone during the World war. From this it derives its name, "In the Zone". One sees thru the dim light of an oil lamp the tier-bunks of the crew, the occupants asleep. A form stealthily crawls to the floor and takes out a suit case from which a black box is removed and placed under his mattress. The upper-tier man has observed this strange procedure, as has one of the returning watch, who stands motionless in the hatchway. The crew is awakened and talk about the zone and its dangers gives vent to the imaginations of the crew. The mysterious "black box" is remembered and suspicion falls upon the "Duke" who has just gone on deck. The excited crew decide to draw the teeth of the black box by putting it in a bucket of water. They then seize and bind the suspected spy and open the box to find a packet of love-letters. They find that they have opened up the life of a brother human and have let the light of day into the raw of a broken soul. It strikes into their own souls. Abashed, they turn to their bunks for refuge. The Irishman unbinds the captive, who sinks mute upon the bunk. The canny Scotty makes the deck—silence rules—the curtain falls.

A typical O'Neil human interest slice of life.

Smitty, the "Duke" was taken by Major MacGregor, whose build and voice well suited the part, but his characterization was pale. Driscoll, the Irishman, and Cocky the "Limy" vied for honors in real acting while Major Peake as Davis with his long speeches was well done. Major Rice, with usual ability, did credit to a part below his worth. Capt. Smith is too nice even in jest, to resort to roust-about language, otherwise his part was well filled. Lieut. Carraway boomed his Ivan in no uncertain terms, justifying the director's choice. Bagpipes and a clan plaid would have helped Captain Huddleston's accent—his acting of the part was admirable. To return to Captain Collins and his "Driscoll," it was full of difficult speeches and knotty situations that were handled with the ease of a true Thespian. Never once did his boggy accent lose itself to his native American.

SERGEANT HARRY WHEELER
Co. "M", 24th Infantry

The 24th Infantry has among its personnel some very distinguished old soldiers. Men who have not only seen service in the World war, but men who have served in the Philippines during the various periods of unrest in those islands and in other campaigns participated in by our army. Sergeant Harry Wheeler is one of the many old soldiers of the regiment whose long service has been efficient, honest, and faithful.

Sergeant Wheeler first enlisted for the 24th Infantry in October, 1900, and joined Company "I" of the regiment in the Philippine Islands. He served continuously with the regiment until 1906 when he was Honorably Discharged. He remained out of the service for the next two years, during which time he traveled in Mexico. During this period, also, Sergeant Wheeler had charge of the operation of several coal mines near Vera Cruz, Mxico, which were owned by General More, a former general in the Mexican army.

Reenlisting in the service for the 24th Infantry in 1908, Sergeant Wheeler joined that regiment at Madison Barracks, New York. His service in the 24th Infantry was continuous until the outbreak of the World war. At the outbreak of the war he was sent from Columbus, New Mexico to an Officers Training Camp at Des Moines, Iowa. On October 15th, 1917, Sergeant Wheeler was commissioned a Captain of Infantry, U. S. A. Going over-seas with the 368th Infantry, he remained with his regiment only a few days when he was transferred to the 59th French Division and to the 307th U. S. Infantry (the old 8th Illinois). The 307th U. S. Infantry had been assigned to the 59th French Division in the role of shock troops. At the time Sergeat Wheeler joined the 307th Infantry, they were operating in the Meuse-Argonne sector. During his entire service with the 307th U. S. Infantry, Sergeant Wheeler, then Captain Wheeler, was the Supply Officer of the regiment. It may well be seen that the duties of the Regimental Supply Oficer in action in the Meuse-Argonne sector were, indeed, very strenuous and so it was with the job which Captain Wheeler so efficiently held down. On the morning of October 7th, 1918, he was almost fatally gassed. Sergeant Wheeler, at the present time, still suffers from the effects of this injury. He was also wounded at the same time, having been shot through the right hand.

Sergeant Wheeler remained with the 307th Infantry until that regiment was mustered out at Chicago, Illinois. After muster out of the regiment he reverted back to his non-commissioned grade and was sent to Tuskegee, Institute in Alabama as Sergeant Instructor. After this detail Sergeant Wheeler joined his old regiment, the 24th Infantry at Fort Benning, Georgia.

For the past four years Sergeant Wheeler has been First Sergeant of Company "M", 24th Infantry. He is an Expert Machine Gunner and also holds a Captain's Commission in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army.

And "Cocky" portrayed by Captain Collier was true to the character. His tone and inflection gave proof of much study and understanding of the character he was playing. Of the staging and setting, only the highest praise can be given. The atmosphere was true and impressed the critical audience.

The play was typically an amateur production only because of the tittering of little children on the first two rows at tense moments. It almost spoiled the effect and cost the actors much confidence.

THE MAYOR AND THE MANICURE
A one act play by George Ade.
Directed by Mrs. Roberts.

The second choice morsel on the menu for the evening. The curtains parted revealing Miss Foster talking to the Mayor, who was in his private sanctum. She announced that she was going to meet the returning hopeful recently graduated from Auburn. As she is about to depart a flashy young thing boldly enters and demands an audience with "His Honor". It is granted. Miss Foster departs. His Honor, Otis Milford, Mayor of Springfield enters and discovers his caller. After much business and conversation the "sweet young thing" makes known her intentions—black mail—and demands $10,000 for her outraged feelings claiming a breach of promise by the Mayor's son. The wise old Mayor cleverly confronts his son with the Auburn manicure and with true political finesse reverses the action healing the affair with a $1,000 note. The fiancee unwittingly disclosed the ruse, the manicure admits defeat and everyone is happy.

The Honorable Otis Milford, Mayor of Springfield, was portrayed by Lieut. Col. Jason M. Walling whose interpretation was so natural and easy that every characteristic of the official side of the player vanished and you beheld a suave politician who, when driven into a tight place admitted that he was "no gentleman, just a practical politician", Colonel Walling's ease and stage presence was marked. His tonal portrayal in contradistinction to his usual office voice carried to his audience a firm conviction that his position and prominence in the city of Springfield was gained thru shrewd, polished, political intrigue. The part was extremely well played. Mrs. Hurdis, in actions and voice carried over the footlight the fact that she was not "to the manor born". The flaunt of the head, the quick change of front, so true to type, was sheer acting of a marked degree. Mrs. Hurdis and the director deserve much credit. Miss Kingman's Ruth Foster was delightfully feminine and youthful. She carried a freshness and naturalness that, coupled with her stage presence, conveyed the thought that the experience before the footlights was not a new one. Lieut. Moon as Walter was indeed the callow youth of decided modern vision and ways. He exemplified the college boy in all his glory and world-conquering self. He was convincing.

An evidence of the excellent teamwork existing between the Glee Club and the Dramatic Club is the fact that the Glee Club recently offered to finance the Dramatic Club to the limit of its ability until the Thespians could get on their financial feet. This offer is much appreciated and some day the embryo actors hope to be in position to return this compliment in kind with interest.

From time to time this column will contain impartial criticisms of the work of the Dramatic Club, written by persons who are presumed to be peculiarly fitted by training and experience to write such articles.

Major and Mrs. P. F. McGuire have visiting them for an indefinite period, their mother, Mrs. Alice R. Fisher and their sister, Miss Alice R. Fisher.

The Infantry School Bridge Club held its first meeting at the Polo Club yesterday. All ladies of the command are invited to join this club.

The ladies of the Post are already beginning to plan costumes for the various suppers and dinners to be held the night of the Halowe'en Masquerade at Biglerville.

One of the most pleasant affairs of the week was the dance at the Polo Club Tuesday given by Captain and Mrs. A. D. Bruce for their guest, Miss Bonnycastle, the daughter of Colonel Henry C. Bonnycastle, Q. M. C. of Philadelphia. Mrs. Bruce wore yellow georgette trimmed with beads and a dainty yellow corsage at the shoulder. Miss Bonnycastle's gown was white satin edged with white fur and rhinestones, with pink roses and valley lilies on her left shoulder. Green iced punch and sandwiches were served during the dancing, which lasted from nine to midnight.

The Woman's Club will be at home to the ladies of the whole command on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Polo Club.

Mrs. Townshend, wife of Colonel Townshend, Inf., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Bob Oliver, for a few days, while her husband is in Porto Rico.

Miss Katharine Kingman entertained Miss Jane Bonnycastle with bridge on Monday. Miss Mary Pendleton won the high score prize.

The wedding of Lieutenant A. S. Newman and Miss Mary E. Baldwin will take place Saturday afternoon in Chicago. Lieutenant and Mrs. Newman will return from their honeymoon in North Carolina in November.

Mrs. Robert S. Donaldson, wife of Major Donaldson, of the 83rd F. A., is expected to return to the garrison this week.

Miss Dorothy Gowen entertained with a bridge luncheon on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. F. Landis gave a delightful dinner and theater party on Friday evening for her guest, Miss Virginia Fawcett, who left Fort Benning Sunday.

A large number of the members of the Dramatic Club and their guests attended the two one-act plays which were given at the 29th Infantry theater on Saturday evening.

About seventy-five ladies attended the tea of the Protestant Chapel Guild at the home of Mrs. Kingman last Monday in spite of the inclement weather. Mrs. Scott told them how the funds were derived and the work which the guild is planning to do. The Guild will meet at 10 o'clock at the Chapel on the first Monday of each month.

The Gluee Club will meet on Tuesday evening at the Officers Club at 7:30 P. M. for practice on "Singbad the Sailor," the cast of which has been practically chosen.

There will be an Officers Club Hop at the Polo Club this evening at 9 o'clock.

Many officers of the garrison and their families have attended the Fair in Columbus this week.

An informal horse show will be held on the Post on November second. Drawings for horses were made this week.

Colonel and Mrs. James G. Hannah will arrive Friday from Detroit to be the guests of Colonel and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson.

The ladies of the 24th Infantry will meet at the home of Mrs. Wait Johnson on Tuesday for organization.

Next Sunday morning the first hunt of the year will be held. The list in the Officers Club had over seventy signatures the first of the week, and so it is sure that the hunt and breakfast will be well attended.

Mrs. Overfelt will entertain next Thursday for Miss Bonnycastle with oridge.

Mrs. Wayne Smith entertained with three tables of bridge last Thursday. Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. Nicholas won the prizes for high scores.

Mrs. J. C. L. Adams entertained with three tables of bridge on Thursday. Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Privett won prizes.

Mrs. Emmett Emanuel had four tables of bridge on Friday. Prizes were awarded Mesdames Overfelt and Dwyer.

Mrs. J. B. Gowen entertained the 29th Infantry Bridge Club at her quarters on Tuesday.

Mrs. Walker gave a dinner before the Bruce's dance on Tuesday evening for Miss Bonnycastle.

Mrs. Dumas is giving a dinner before the hop tonight for Miss Jane Bonnycastle.

Mrs. Edgar Everhart, of Atlanta, will spend the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Green.

Mrs. Frank Green will give a tea tomorrow afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. W. McK. Scott, who leaves shortly for Honolulu.

Sergeant Dailey and Private 1st Class Malcolm are to leave shortly for the Engineer Surveying and Drafting School at Fort Humphries. They volunteered to go under a misapprehension as they understood the First Sergeant was calling for candidates for the grafting school.

Corporal Danielski's chief ambition is to play the title role in Rostand's famous play, "Cyrano de Bergerac." The Corporal has been endowed by nature with all the requirements of the part.

Private Weber arrived some weeks ago as a gift from the Lone Star state. We are expecting his old partner, Fields, to join him soon.

Private 1st Class Bevis was host to ye scribe at the movies Sunday night. Bevis was suffering from a delusion as to the athletic abilities of the Yankees. The fact that a Floridan would bet on anyone called a Yankee is full proof that the scars of internecine strife have healed thoroughly.

Estes has returned from a thirty-day furlough. He is catching up rapidly on his eating.

Corporal Charles C. Hutchinson has been discharged. Charlie is an exceedingly good egg and will be missed by all except the Privates 1st Class.

Coach Berry of the Musketeers is certainly no "Rasp-Berry".

"Hank" Averill, our hw sports-slinger must be a close student of ancient history; how else could he have so clearly forseen Alexander's successful invasion of the East. Now "Pappa" John of the I. S. D. predicts that on November 20th of this year the Musketeers will:

"TELL IT TO THE MARINES."

Did you notice the Musketeer with the "jinx-jersey"? We have a hunch that if Coach Berry will give him a chance "King" will make that 13 darned unlucky for the Marines—not to mention Mercer and a few others.

Which reminds us that we came near being "cruelized" Saturday. We were cheering madly for "King" when a party in back of us took exception to our "rooting". We had to explain that there was a new Musketeer named Kingsbury, whom we playfully call "King".

"BLAH!"

We started to write AN ARTICLE
ABOUT MODERN YOUTH
And we named the article BLAH
Thinking that would SOUND SMART
Then we tried for hours to think of
SOMETHING ELSE TO WRITE
But there didn't seem to be ANY-THING ELSE TO SAY
And when you stop to THIINK
ABOUT IT
That is about all THERE IS TO SAY
About MODERN YOUTH.

. . . . . .

Just to prove that WE ARE RIGHT
We are willing to bet that EVERY MODERN YOUTH
Who reads this WILL SAY
"BLAH!!"

We cannot decide from the newspaper reports whether "Peaches" has grown tired of Browning or Browning has "canned" his "Peaches"

In these "zooming" days of commercial, military and rhetorical aviation Horace Greeley's advice, "Go West, young man, go West", might be changed to ,'Go up, young man, go up."

Headline from the Columbus Ledger of the past week reads:

Battle Scared Veterans Who Fought in France March Side by Side Under Fair Skies. Now if that read "bottle scarred" it wouldn't sound quite so bad.

"BEHIND THE FRONT", featuring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in the most realistic comedy of the World war. The plot is continuous and absorbing. It starts over here, thickens "Over There" in battle fields amid shot and shell, muddy trenches, tanks, barbed wire, French villages and guard houses and terminates over here in a laugh climax which threatens hysterics to the most astute.

HURRY DOCTOR — A Graves comedy.

Sunday, Oct. 17.

"TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP", Harry Langdon, comedian star causes a mirthquake as laugh crackers explode during a walk contest across the U. S. to win $25,000 and a girl. VILLAGE SCHOOL, a Hodge Podge an KINOGRAMS.

Monday, Oct. 18.

"THE PALM BEACH GIRL", starring Bebe Daniels, who as a small town maiden turns Florida topsy-turvy and emerges a brilliant social success. It is a de luxe comedy and a back ground of speedboat racing and luxuriant palms surrounding homes of millionaires. GREEN ARCHER No. 5, a tense mystery. Prizes of two $1.50 coupon books will be given to each of the first five patrons guessing who the Green Archer is. Deposit your guess in the suggestion box at the Main Theatre.

Tuesday, Oct. 19.

"SILENCE", 8 reels, an intensely gripping melodramatic mystery, in which Jim Warren leads an exceptional cast. It is a play of the underworld—a gentleman crook through his silence protects the character of a woman, and in consequence is about to die on the scaffold when fate reverses circumstances bring about a happy ending. Comedy—STRENUOUS LIFE—SPORTLIGHT.

Wednesday, Oct. 20.

"THE COLLEGE BOOB." Lefty Flynn, the famous Yale halfback features in this delightful romance of The Gridiron. It is an unroarious comedy. GOAT GETTERS. A Juvenile comedy.

Thursday, Oct. 21.

"PADLOCKED", by Rex Beach, a flashing human drama of modern life and morals, depicting the "Immodest Jazz Baby", who considers her charms a talent. The scene is laid among the glitter and tinsel of Broadway night life PATHE NEWS

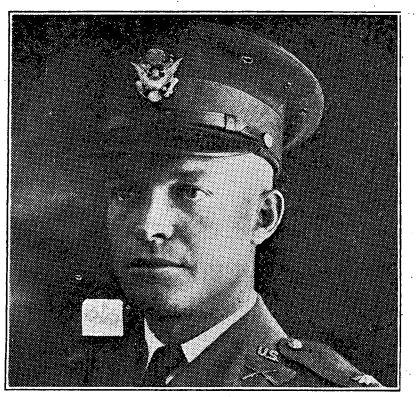
WHO'S WHO!

To stand at the head of one's class at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth does, indeed, entail much energy and unremitting study. It even takes more than that; this accomplishment entered after one's name means that the Officer concerned is blessed with more than the usual amount of gray matter and exceptional skill at understanding and undivided attention. Major Dwight David Eisenhower, U. S. A., has the distinction of being number one in his class at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, in the class of 1926.

Major Eisenhower was appointed a cadet at the United States Military



Major Dwight David Eisenhower

Academy, at West Point, from the state of Kansas, in 1911. He graduated from the Military Academy and was appointed a Second Lieutenant, U. S. Army in 1915 and was assigned to the 19th U. S. Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. The company to which he was assigned within the regiment was at that time commanded by Colonel George W. Helms, the present Executive Officer on the Commandant's staff.

On July 1st, 1916 Major (then 2nd Lieutenant) Eisenhower was promoted to the rank of 1st Lieutenant and was still assigned to the 19th U. S. Infantry. Later he was placer on Detached Service as Inspector-Instructor with the Texas National Guard. In June, 1917, he was promoted to the rank of Captain and transferred to the 57th U. S. Infantry. Until January, 1918, Major Eisenhower was on duty as Instructor at the Officers Training Camp at Fort Oglethorpe and also on duty as Instructor at the Training School for Provisional 2nd Lieutenants at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. In February, 1918, Major Eisenhower was transferred to the Tanks at Camp Meade, Maryland, and was there engaged in the organization ad training of Tank units for over-seas service. The Tank Center was then transferred to Camp Colt at Gettysburg, Pennylvania. In June, 1918, while at Camp Colt he was promoted to the rank of Major and a few months later he was again promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. The rank of Lieutenant Colonel was held by very few members of the class of 1915 at the Military Academy.

For services as Commading Officer of the Tank Center at Camp Colt Major Eisenhower was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. The citation accompanying the medal is as follows:

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, Major Infantry, then Lieutenant Colonel, Tank Corps, United States Army. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. While Commanding Officer of the Tank Corps Training Center, from March 23, 1918, to November 18, 1918, Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., he displayed unusual zeal, foresight, and marked administrative ability in the organization, training, and preparation for overseas service of troops of the Tank Corps.

In command of one of the organizations which he had organized and trained Major (then Lieutenant Colonel) Eisenhower was slated to go over-seas in December of 1918, but the signing of the Armistice prevented this. Every Tank organization that was sent over-seas during the World war was organized and trained by Colonel Eiseehower. This covers the organization and training of about eight thousand men.

In January, 1919, Major Eisenhower brought to Fort Benning a Detachment of Tanks which were the first to be stationed at this Post. In April, 1919, he returned to Camp Meade where he was placed in command of the 302nd Tank Brigade. Remaining at Camp Meade and in Washington, D. C., on duty with the Tanks until January, 1922, Major Eisenhower, then was ordered on foreign service in the Panama Canal Zone for a three year tour of duty. In Panama Major Eisenhower served as Executive of the 20th Infantry Brigade stationed at Camp Gaillard and then under the command of General Fox Connor, who at the present time is the Deputy Chief of Staff in the War Department.

Major Eisenhower is now stationed at Fort Benning and is on duty as Assistant Executive Officer on the Staff of the Commandant.

Special Music at the Protestant Chapel Sunday

Mrs. Francis T. Green, of Fort Benning, Ga., will render special solos at the morning service in the Protestant Chapel, Sunday. Mrs. Green has been a member of the First Baptist Church choir for some time. She possesses a rich contralto voice, and always sings to the great delight of those fortunate enough to hear her. It is hoped a goodly number of the Infantry School command will avail themselves of this pleasure Sunday. The subject of the morning discourse will be, "The Value of a Soul." The entire personnel is very cordially invited to attend any of these services.

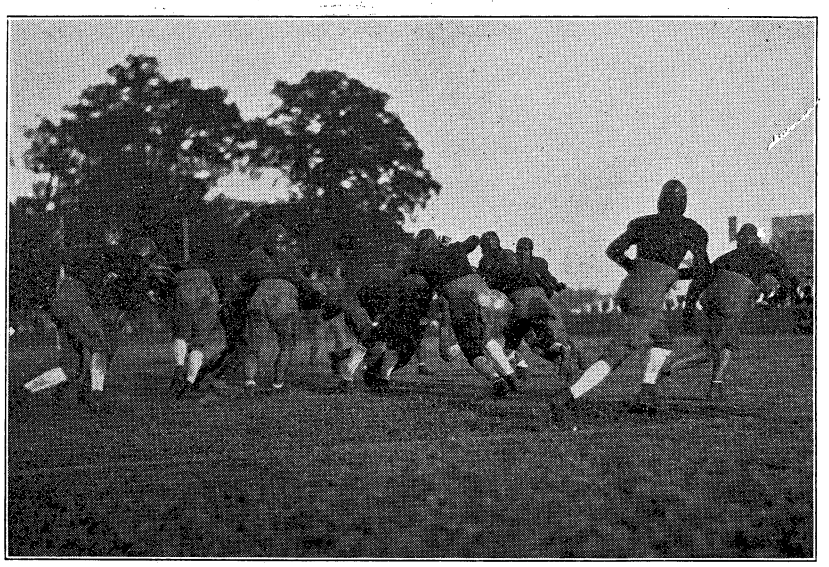
Doughboy Line Charging as King's Attack Gets Under Way.



Fletcher, of King, About to Hurl Pass in Last Week's Game.

BERRY'S MUSKETEERS BEAT KING BY STRONG LAST HALF ATTACK

most every play. One hundred and thirteen yards of hard won ground are down to his credit on runs from scrimmage, and in addition he made a wonderful leaping fingernail catch of Berry's pass in the fourth quarter that paved the way for the Infantry's second touchdown.

Opposing the vastly improved doughboy eleven, the King College boys put up a stiff fight all the way. In Gardner, Gunn and Fletcher they had a trio adept at both the passing and receiving end of the aerial game, and their tossing kept the Infantry supporters on pins and needles all the way. Helpless to advance against the adamantine forward wall of the Musketeers, these lads hurled pass after pass. Gaining but 28 yards from scrimmage, they completed 8 passes in 18 tries for a total gain of 108 yards by the air line. On defensive Captain Williams and Fletcher stood out.

THE GAME IN DETAIL

1st Quarter.

Jarvis kicked off for the Infantry to Gunn who ran back 25 yards to the King 35 yard line. On the first lineup Gardner fumbled and Wargo recovered for the Musketeers. Sweeney went off right tackle for 4 yards and then ripped through center for 16 and first down on the Tornado's 15 yard line. Sweeney hit left tackle for 2 and smashed the opposide side for 5 more. Sweeney fumbled and Williams recovered for the visitors on the 10 yard strip. Sackett punted 28 yards to Sweeney who came back 3 yards. Sweeney hit the line for 4 yards. Thompson, who replaced Jarvis went 2 through center. Sweeney lost a yard at center. A pass, Sweeney to Dwyer made it first down on the King 24 yard line. Thompson hit the line for 4 and 3. Sweeney went 2 through center. Thompson made it first down on the 10-yard strip. Sweeney drove through for 2. Thompson got 1 at right guard. Sweeney crashed left tackle for 4. Sweeney made 2, but failed of first down and the ball went over on the 1 yard line. Sackett punted 25 yards to Sweeney, but the Infantry was offside and the play was called back and the doughboys penalized 5 yards. Sackett punted 36 yards to Sweeney who was downed in his tracks on the 42-yard line. Thompson failed to gain through the line. Sweeney failed at right end, running from kick formation. A pass was incomplete. Thompson punted 20 yards, the ball falling dead on the 22 yard line. The Infantry was penalized 15 yards for roughing the receiver. Gunn failed at the line. Mastny hit right tackle for 2 yards. A long pass thrown by Fletcher was incomplete. Sackett kicked 34 yards to Thompson who made a fair catch on the Infantry 27 yard line. Sweeney went 2 through the line. Lindsey broke center for 6. Lindsey added 1 more and Sweeney dived over the line for 3 and first down. Bennett replaced Thompson who was hurt. Bennett hit the line for 1 yard. Bennett failed to gain around left end. Sweeney kicked to the King 30 yard line to Gardner who came back 4 yards, but King was offside and the ball called back and the visitors penalized 5 yards. Bennett smashed tackle for 3 and Sweeney made 2 and first down at the King 49 yard line, as the quarter ended.

INFANTRY 0, KING COLLEGE 0.

2nd Quarter.

Berry replaced Steele in the Infantry backfield. Sweeney made 4 and 6 through the line. It was first down on the King 39 yard line. Bennett hit tackle for 5. Sweeney crashed center for 3 and repeated for 4 and first down on the King 26 yard line. Sweeney made 2 and Bennett 4 through the line. Sweeney went 1 more through center. A pass failed and the ball went over to the visitors on their 20 yard line. Gardner failed to gain around right end. Gunn was stopped at the line. Gardner ran 11 yards around the Infantry left flank for first down on the King 31 yard line. Gardner tossed a pass to Fletcher for 12 yards and first down. Bennett leaped high and intercepted a long pass on the Infantry 35 yard line. He ran back 2 yards before going outside. On the first lineup Sweeney fumbled and Penniman recovered for the Tornado on the Infantry 35 yard line. Gardner passed to Penniman for 16 yards and first down on the Infantry 19 yard line. Mitzen went in for Sweeney. King was offside and penalized 5 yards on the first lineup. Gardner failed to gain. A pass was incomplete. Gunn dropped back to the 34 yard line and tried a dropkick, but the effort was blocked by the entire doughboy line, and the Musketeers recovered on their own 26 yard line. Mitzen skirted right end for 2 yards. Bennett broke through center and was downed by Gardner on the Infantry 39 yard line. It was first down. Bennett hit the line for 3. Bennett was stopped without gain. A pass was grounded. Lindsey kicked outside for a one yard loss. Gardner went 5 through center. Mastny hit the line for 4. Gunn failed to gain. Gunn passed to Gardner for 9 yards and first down on the Infantry 23 yard line. Gunn plowed center for 1 yard. Garder made 4. Gardner failed to gain. Gunn tried a dropkick standing on the Infantry 30 yard line, but the kick was blocked and recovered by the Infantry on their own 28 yard line. Schaefer for Wargo. Robinson for Dwyer. Mitzen shot off right tackle for 5 yards as the half ended.

INFANTRY 0, KING COLLEGE 0.

3rd Quarter.

The Musketeers lineup to start the half: Robinson, le.; Bertelman, lt.; Schaefer, lg.; Berish, c.; Stanovich rg.; Mack, rt.; Cornog, re.; Berry, q.; Lindsey, Mitzen and Bennett, backs. Stuart replaced Penniman and Berry went in for Mastny for the visitors. The Infantry kicked off to Gunn on the King 20 yard line. Gunn ran back to the 26 yard strip. Berry failed to gain. Sackett punted 29 yards to Mitzen who returned 10 to the King 45 yard line. Lindsey made 1 and Bennett failed to gain through the line. Mitzen hit tackle for 5. Lindsey made 3 through the line, but failed of first down and the ball went over. A pass was incomplete. Fletcher's long toss grounded and King was penalized 5 for the second failure. Sackett punted 20 yards, the ball falling dead on the Infantry 49 yard line. Weigelt broke through and dropped Mitzen for a 5 yard loss. Mitzen made 5 at right tackle. Lindsey failed to gain. Mitzen kicked 10 yards to King's 41 yard line. A pass was grounded, but the Infantry was penalized 5 yards for offside. A pass was incomplete. Gardner gained 1 around right end. Fletcher passed to Gardner, who made a great catch on the Infantry 34 yard line. Gunn failed to gain. Big Bertha broke through and dropped Gunn for a 5 yard loss with his famous arm tackle. A long pass was incomplete. Sackett kicked 29 yards and outside at the Infantry 10 yard strip. Mitzen hit the line for 2 and Bennett got 3. Berry made 2 through center. Mitzen kicked forty yards, Gardner being downed in his tracks by Mack on the King 43 yard line. Bertelman stopped Gardner on a reverse play for a 1 yard loss. Berry failed to gain. Gunn tossed a pass to Sweeney on the Infantry 38 yard line, but play was called back and the doughboys penalized 5 yards for offside. Sackett kicked 34 yards to Mitzen on the Infantry 5 yard line. He dodged back 15 to the 20 yard line. Bennett skirted left end behind good interference for 6 yards. He was almost clear when dropped by Gardner. Mitzen made 4 and first down over right tackle. Bennett crashed the line for 2, and repeated with 7. Mitzen broke through the forwards and was stopped by the secondary after an 11 yard gain. Mitzen drove through tackle for 5 and 7, making it first down on the King 35 yard line. Mitzen broke through a gap in the line, eluded the secondary, and went over for a touchdown. Thompson added the extra point by a placement kick, with Mitzen holding the ball. Quarter over.

INFANTRY 7, KING COLLEGE 0.

4th Quarter

Thompson kicked off for the Infantry to Gunn on the 20 yard line. The visiting quarter came back 3 yards. Schaefer stopped Gardner without gain. Gunn lost 2 on an attempted line buck. A short pass, Gunn to Gardner netted 5 yards. Sackett kicked 14 yards to Berry who came back 11 yards to the King 29 yard line. A pass was incomplete. A second pass was grounded and the Infantry was penalized 5 yards for the failure. Mitzen hit the line for 5 yards. Berry dropped back and shot a long pass which Sweeney grabbed with his finger tips, going outside on the Tornado's 6 yard line. On the first play Sweeney bucked center for a touchdown. Thompson added the point by the placement route with Sweeney holding the ball.

INFANTRY 14, KING COLLEGE 0.

The Infantry kicked off to Gardner who ran the ball back 12 yards to the 19 yard line. Franz replaced Robinson. A pass was incomplete. Fletcher tossed to Lindbeck for 12 yards and first down on the King 31 yard line. Fletcher passed to Gunn for 29 more and first down on the Infantry 40 yard line. Sweeney intercepted a pass on the Infantry 27 yard line. Thompson skirted right end for 24 yards and first down on the King 49 yard line. Thompson hit the line for 5. Sweeney added 5 more for 1st down. Sweeney made 5. Thompson repeated for first down. Sweeney made 4. Sweeney crashed

Did you get a "certificate" with your automobile?

What are its provisions? exceptions? better read it carefully. If insured by some fine "certificate" plan you may not be protected, but the note holders are, at your expense.

The protection you need is not included—Personal liability. Fire, theft and collision may be ignored— total loss in these only means that you've lost the cost of the car. If you can't afford that amount of loss, however, you should protect the investment..

A judgment for personal injuries is, however, "something else again, Mawruss."

About 15,000 persons have been injured yearly for the past three years by automobiles. Each accident is a potential damage suit; single judgments running to $50,000 have been awarded by the courts.

Such a judgment against a member of the services might be paid by installments out of his pay. We can protect you against this hazard at a surprisingly small expense. What kind of car have you?

through for 11 yards to the King 14 yard line, but the Infantry was holding on the play and drew a 15 yard penalty. Thompson made 4, and Sweeney 6. A pass was incomplete and the ball went over to King on its 30 yard line. Franz intercepted one of Fletcher's long tosses and ran back 25 yards to King's 30-yard line, but the Infantry was offside and the play was called back and the Musketeers drew a 5 yard penalty. Two passes were incomplete, King losing 5 yards on the second failure. A third failure brought another penalty. Gardner kicked 38 yards to the Infantry 47 yard line, Steele returning 5. Kingsbury got away for 23 yards to King's 30 yard line. Kingsbury made 5 through the line. Sweeney ran 17 and outside on the 5 yard line. Kingsbury made 1, 2, and 1 in three drives at center. Sweeney went around left end for a touchdown. Franz dropped back for the try for point, but the pass from center was bad, and the try failed.

INFANTRY 20, KING COLLEGE 0.

The Infantry kicked off to Gardner who came back 15 yards to the King 38 yard line Gunn passed to Taylor for 6 yards. Sweeney intercepted a pass at the King 45 yard line. Kingsbury made 2 through the line as the game ended.

THE STEWGENT

CO. OFFICER CLASS

We miss the Signal Squad, but to show they have not lost their sense of humor, we reproduce the following contribution from one of the "Da-Da" gang:

THE BUZZER BOYS

If you'd like to watch technicians
Function under all conditions
With their double transpositions
Come and see our electricians.

When the war clouds loom foreboding
And the star shells are exploding
Midst the creep of gas corroding
You will find us boys encoding.

Telephones may be the order
On some distant, hostile border,
In the midst of vast disorder
Kindly note our monocorder.

Scouting group appears, We kid it.
Yield our secret? Nay, we hid it.
Can you guess it? Heaven forbid it.
Someone murmurs: "Da da did it."

If the struggle has abated
It is hardly overstated
When we say we are elated
That the current's alternated.

Thus we claim that no omissions
Mar the study of transmissions.
Shed your old-time inhibitions,
Come and see our electricians.

—A. D.

Political Note: Our political activ'ty has subsided now that the ballots are all in. No platforms were announced by the politicians. As we go to press the election results are still a dark secret.

Most of the Class "A" rifles were called in this week. Some of the fellows hated to part with them and so they were permitted to keep them until Friday. The farewells varied according to the record score of the individual.

We no more finish checking off Pistol Marksmanship when up bobs Al Jones and his automatic. He offers moving pictures as an added attraction. Everyone intends to go to the movies. It is reported to be something like Felix the Cat.

Heard at Drill and Command: "Stack Arms. March!"

The epidemic of swapping weapons appears to be getting worse day by day.

Carraway has been nominated for class announcer, sans megaphone.

Many town "Stewgents" are now whistling "Old King Coal."

COMPANY "C"

It's funny how easily you can miss those bobbers on the pistol range. We demand larger and slower bobbers.

Now that we have put two subjects behind us, we jump into the successor of Mr. Sho Sho, namely: the Browning automatic rifle. Everyone confident he can make expert.

We wonder why some Stewgents saved elbow grease while the class "A" rifle was in their possession. You can save it, but sooner or later you will use it.

It seems that our company led the Algerian Foot Troops in the last election. Well, anyway, "C" Company always leads.

There were two county fairs in operation in the Chattahoochee Valley Tuesday. The only difference between them was the lack of red lemonade at the one held on the flats of the Upatoi.

Don't forget to bring your Red Apples for the next examination.

For sale: Ten second-hand locks, slightly chipped. Reason for selling: Keys left at home. Apply to John Ducrot, Co. C, Company Officers Class.

GARRISON THEATER OFFERING SPECIAL FEATURE SATURDAY

"Behind the Front", Thrilling War Picture, to be Shown on Screen.

Popular request has caused a return engagement of this splendid picture to the Garrison. Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, the funniest comedy team on the screen appear as doughboy buddies. Mary Brian, Paramount's charming ingenue, is seen as the girl they both love. Chester Conklin, as the Scotch laddie who entertains the boys with his tales of imagined bravery, heads the strong cast appearing in support of the principals. The famous director Edward Southerland has so arranged events that one laugh follows another in rapid succession. The plot is as intensive as that of a drama, of aborbing interest every minute. This picture portrays amid shot and shell, the sunny side of the war "Over There". To the veterans of the Great World conflict, it recalls many reminiscences. To the man who was not fortunate in getting to France it is educational and keenly interesting.

SATURDAY'S MENU IN THE SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

With the preliminary skirmishing over, Southern teams are now getting right down to the brass tacks of the season. Saturday brings with it five important clashes between Conference members. The headliner is Alabama against Georgia Tech in Atlanta. The Crimson Tide and the Tornado have each won two conference games without a defeat. Tech has conquered V. M. I.'s Flying Squadron and the Tulane Greenies, while Vanderbilt's Commodores and Mississippi A. and M. have bowed before the rushing attack and strong aerial game of the 'Bamans. The tradition of victory is on the side of the invading Tide and although Tech should put up a hard fight, I pick Alabama to win.

Just for luck I am going to plunge headlong into the very unsafe business of forecasting the result of the games in which Conference teams are engaging this week end. Bet your money on my selections and you'll probably sleep in the streets.

Here goes. The first named team will win — maybe.

Alabama v. Tech, at Atlanta.
Auburn v. L. S. U., at Montgomery.
W. & L. v. Kentucky, at Lexington, Ky.
Virginia v. V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.
V. P. I. v.. Maryland, at Norfolk.
Vanderbilt v. Texas U., at Dallas.
Tennessee v. Maryville, at Knoxville.
Georgia v. Furman, at Athens.
N. Y. U. v. Tulane, at New York.
Florida v. Mercer, at Macon.
Miss. A. & M. v. Millsaps, at Mississippi.
North Carolina v. Duke, at Chapel Hill.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

By Bill Powers.

CINCINNATI.—"Tell it to the Marines."

When one speaks of informing the Marines, one must not overlook the fact that St. Xavier College here slipped the Quantico Devil Dogs a bit of information on how to play football which they will not forget for many moons, so to speak.

In glowing terms of 27 to 11, glowing in so far as the Cincinnatians were concerned, the Leathernecks learned how to forward pass, hit the line, run the ends, boot the ball and various other phases of the gridiron pastime in which the land and sea warriors appeared to be sadly lacking.

In fact, St. Xavier told the Marines so much that at the end of the final period the "Devil Dogs" were dizzy, seasick and wondering who played the joke upon them of starting them against such an eleven as the Musketeers proved to be.

Even Gene Tunney, their pal and buddy, would not have been able to aid them today for the Marines were up against an eleven which would give practically any team in the country a real run for their money. This is not an idle boast, but the opinion of the Marines and their coach, J. T. Keady.

The Marines were the first to score, when, after a scoreless first period Lieut. Jack Stock dropkicked the ball from the 35-yard line for 3 points. The Marines' lead, however, was of short duration for the Musketeers quickly opened up with their aerial attack and scored their first touchdown.

Three passes in rapid succession, the first for 18 yards, the second for 17, and the third for 7 yards, placed the ball over the goal line.

Undaunted, the Marines stuck to their guns and, aided by a 22-yard penalty which placed the ball on Xavier's 1-yard line, the Leathernecks, with Halfback Pugh carrying the ball, went over for their first and only touchdown. Just before the penalty was called McQuade, the outstanding star on the Marine eleven, ran 44 yards before being brought down.

A safety in the third period gave the visitors two more points and ended their scoring. St. Xavier gained its second touchdown with the forward pass. The third score came when McQuade attempted to punt and Rapp, center for Xavier, blocked the kick, and Gossinger, left end, picked it up and raced 22 yards to goal.

The final touchdown was made when Daugherty hurled a 15yard pass to Halfback King, who ran 35 yards to the goal.

The work of McQuade and Pugh was marvelous and it was due chiefly to their efforts that the Musketeers did not pile up a larger score.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

Sgt. Billy Baehr has left us for ninety days on a re-enlistment furlough up in New York state. How will the Headquarters' janitors function during his absence?

Another inspection has come and gone. Heavy firing all along the line, but no casualties reported.

Corporal "Red" Wood can be heard singing that little song, "If You Don't Believe I'm Leaving, Just Count the Days I'm Gone." But we look for him to stay just to worry "Moon".

Spud Murphy, lightheavyweight champion at plain and fancy argument and ground and lofty debating, has challenged any and all contenders for the belt, agreeing to meet anybody, anywhere, at any time, and offering to take either side of any question.

Walt Kahler and William Penn have gone on a diet and started taking reducing exercises.

Along with the other Detachment activities, the barber shop, run by the affable and efficient tonsors, Warnie and Ricky, has received a new coat of paint and a thorough cleaning. It's a well equipped place with fine barbers. Why not patronize it?

It was announced Wednesday that the Detachment will give a monthly dance, to be paid for out of the Detachment fund. When the mess hall improvements have been completed the dances will be held in the big chow hall, but this month's "wrestle" will be at the Service Club. These dances will be real get-together affairs. All members of the command are welcome and are urged to attend. A committee of seven was named to attend to the details, headed by Mr. Sgt. McNulty, who so successfully engineered the benefit dance for the Children's School.

"Blackbird" flew over to the front page last week and chased the "Bluebird" out of the paper, but we have with us this week "Old Crow," and he wonders why the morning police details still find cigarette butts in the area when there are receptacles for them.

Company "B".

There was a lot of wondering, Sunday afternoon as to what all the noise was. That was Co. "B's" Invinsible football team clashing with a team from Co. "E", over on the old practice field. As usual, the "B" Co. team emerged victorious but it was only after an hour of real hard playing on both sides. An end run by Romploski and several line plunges by Butcher and McFadden tell the story. McFadden has the six points to his credit while Garbbish II., (Fedor), drew the interest of one point with his educated toe. Another game is scheduled for next Sunday with the same opposition and with the addition of some equipment we expect to put up a much better fight than the previous one.

Several of the boys have returned from furloughs and, judging from the expressions on their faces, a very good time was had by all.

The best we did this month for the Regimental Blue Pennant was to be honorably mentioned, but there are more months to come.

—Cpl. Mace E. Morris.

Company "C".

Sgt. Brunner returned last Friday from a three months furlough. (Re-enlistment.)

Cpl. Rose spent the week end in Columbus, this seems to be a frequent occurrence with him, it is suggested that he get permission to sleep out of quarters and stay down there.

Friday and Monday we had a rehearsal of a War Strength Rifle Company for record Tuesday.

Sgt. Barton has again been promoted First Sergeant of "C" Co. He has served in this capacity for the last six years. During the World war Sgt. Barton received a commission as 1st Lieutenant, serving as such until 1920, when discharged he was serving with the 55th Infantry stationed at Camp Grant, Ill. As a first Sergeant he is very prompt in the performance of his duties if you meet him half way, but don't fall short.

Pfc. Marin, mail orderly and laundry man (Miscellaneous man) received appointment as Corporal.

—L. B. Hughes.

Compay "D".

Pfc. Jimmy Pleasant, our famous cook, and Cpl. Edward Pleasant, our transport corporal, are leaving us to enter into civilian activities. "Hate to leave the old outfit," says Jimmy. We in unison say, "Good bye, and good luck, boys."

Pvt. Papke, our new cook, says, "Never mind, boys, you won't know the difference." You will have to go some, Papke.

A member of our Company is anxious to return home. He has received word from home that the woodpeckers are eating away the R. R. station. Somewhere in Fla. Pavo, Ga.—What?

Warning, take heed, beware, Girls, For deep-blue-eyed Dick is coming to town to-nite.

Bill: Coats pretty short.

Fred: Long enough before I get another one.

—Jack Kennedy.

Hq. Co., 2nd Bn.

The iniquisitive "H" Company is wondering how we are going to install a stove in the Orderly Room, due to the fact that we left no place in the roof for a stove pipe to go through. The answer is very simple: The Modern Orderly Room of the Army today is equipped with steam heat, but of course we can't expect the News writer of Company "H" to have any modern ideas.

The 1st Sergeant announced at Reveille this morning that any one caring to take in the fair at Columbus, Georgia, could submit their names to the Orderly Room, and that they would receive free transportation there and back, also a Jawbone ticket valued at $2.00 with which they could see the bright lights. Some Some old timer spoke up and said "I'll bite, what is the joke?"

—Lewis M. Lowe.

Company "E".

The Company has been getting along exceedingly well this week. The boys had a good work out on the football field last Sunday. Well they didn't take it so hard and all said they would do better next time. We played Company "B" and were defeated by a small score of seven to nothing. We have a game with them next Sunday and the score will be different.

Pvt. Crascco is getting rich selling milk. He buys it for 10c and sells it for 5c. He thinks he is cheating the government out of something. What I mean he gets up at 3 o'clock in the morning to do that.

—Jessie L. Taylor.

Company "H".

"Peanuts" Meadows has returned from furlough after a month's stay at home in Spring City, Tenn. He states that both of the Cops there are strangers to him. He has at last decided to snap to, as his old side kick. "Rags" Carroll has been promoted to Corporal. Several members of the Company noticed that he paid fourbits the other day for the use of a well pressed shirt in which to report to the Company Commander. Several have hinted that he is in the market for a sixteen pound pressing iron. That will surely put the crimp in them, Peanuts.

There is quite a bit of doubt in the minds of the majority of the men of the company as to just which corner of a towel is the upper left hand corner. This was the place designated for the individual mark to be placed.

What is the matter with the usual pep and ginger of the spectators at the football game. It seems that they are all ready to yell their heads off as long as the Musketeers have the opponent going their way, but when the table is turned, one could drop a pin and raise as much commotion as a French 75 would cause at a bridge party. Pep is the soul of football. Come on and let's have some more of it.

By the way! We have a new clock!

—Bernard B. Swayze.

Howitzer Co.

Lt. and Mrs. Smythe are the proud parents of a fine baby boy. Sure he's a future football player — fourteen pounds.

Private Robert Franklin has been Honorably Discharged per Expiration term of Service. "Quite a vacation for you," Robert. (One year man.)

Since Sgt. Tompkins has returned from furlough we are again in possession of the "Blue Banner." "Atta Boy," Tommie, straighten the boys out.

TANKS GRANTHAM TO MEET FRANKIE CONWAY IN MAIN GO THURSDAY

Fight Card, Loaded With T. N. T., Booked by Lt. Potter for Gowdy Field

Benning's Tex Rickard, Lieutenant George L. Potter, has scored another ten strike with the fight card just announced for Gowdy Field at 7:30 p. m., October 28th. From opening preliminary to final go there will be action and lots of it. The star number will find Tanks Grantham, late of the 15th Caterpillar Conductors, in one corner and Sgt. Ernest "Frankie" Conway, stalwart cannoneer from Fort Bragg, N. C., in the other. These two maulers of merit met about a year and a half ago, and after an epic battle the third man in the ring couldn't decide which was the better boxer and so raised the hands of both. This time they are scheduled to go ten three minute rounds, and unless all signs fail there will be thirty minutes of rapid fire action, provided neither fighter slips over the dreamland punch.

For the hors d'oeuvre of the evening Lieutenant Potter has secured two of the most popular fighters in these parts, Kid Earle, human shock absorber and oft applauded hero of the ring, from Columbus, will mix and mingle with Danny "Kid" Davis, of the Lead the Way doughboys. Earle is too well known to Columbus and Benning fans to need any introduction. Enough to remark that the tougher they are the better he likes them. Davis brings tears of joy to the eyes of the knockout lovers, as the Kid has won every fight he has fought by means of the ten and out method.

Following the opening go, there will be a Charleston exhibition by artists highly proficient in the mysteries of the famous dance. When the applause has subsided Cecil Williams and Prince Smith, both of the 24th Infantry, will climb into the roped square and resume the sterner business of exchanging hooks, jabs, swings and uppercuts.

Maj. Gen. Hines and the Commandant Reviewing the Benning Garrison During the Visit of the Chief of Staff.

GARRISON MAKES IMPRESSIVE SHOWING IN REVIEW FOR GEN. HINES

Troops Pass in Review Before the Chief of Staff, with Colonel Gowen in Command

The trains of the 29th Infantry "Lead the Way" doughboys were the last to pass before Major General Hines, at the big review of the entire Benning garrison held for the visiting Chief of Staff last Thursday, but the appearance of the Muleskinners was perhaps the most impressive of all the troops. With wagons varnished to the last degree, the regimental insignia shining out clearly on the side; with the metal parts of harness polished till it gleamed like gold; with animals groomed to perfection, and the personnel at their posts in the most military manner; the showing of Captain Frakes' command won the immediate approval and approbation of the visiting Chief.

Not that the other units of the command didn't show up in great style, for the entire review was highly complimented by General Hines. Colonel James B. Gowen was in command of the troops, which formed on the big parade grounds with the 29th Infantry on the right. Then came in order the 24th Infantry; the 15th Tank Battalion, dismounted; Co. A., 7th Engineers; 1st Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery, mounted, and Trains, 29th Infantry.

When the review was formed the Chief of Staff, accompanied by the Commandant and his staff, rode rapidly around the entire formation, General Hines setting a stiff pace for the horsemen to follow.

Then the troops passed in review. The 29th, led by its splendid band of 60 pieces, came first in column of platoons. With heads erect, shoulders back, and equipment in perfect condition, the doughboys showed why they can claim to "Lead the Way" for other regiments.

The appearance and condition of the 24th was equally impressive as it followed the 29th past the General. Then came the Tankers and the Engineers, all keeping fine lines and showing the high degree of efficiency reached by Benning training.

The 83rd Field Artillery followed, the big tractors almost perfectly aligned as they passed the reviewing point. The cannoneers did themselves proud and showed well.

General Hines expressed himself as being much pleased with the review, and complimented the Commandant and the organizations on the fine appearance and discipline of the garrison.

General Hines was the guest of Colonel Asa L. Singleton during his stay at Fort Benning and during Friday and Saturday he road the Upatoi trails and rested generally except for many social functions which were given in his honor. On Sunday afternoon a six period Polo game was given in honor of General Hines and at three-thirty on Sunday afternoon the distinguished visitor left for his post in Washington. The General expressed himself as being exceptionally well pleased with Benning progress.

MUSKETEERS LEAVE FOR NEW ORLEANS TO TACKLE LOYOLA

Twenty-five Players Making Trip to Play Strong Crescent City Team

When the 3:55 train pulls out of Columbus this afternoon it will carry the Musketeers, twenty-seven strong; off to do battle Sunday with the strong Loyola University gridders down in the Mardi Gras city at the mouth of the Mississippi. They leave with high hopes of carrying the Infantry colors to victory over the Catholics, but realizing that this will be a real test of this year's Doughboy team, for the foe has shown unusual and somewhat unexpected strength this fall.

The Musketeers are in good shape, there being no real cripples in the squad. The stonewall line will be out there fighting and the comparatively new backfield is rapidly developing the cohesion and coordination that bring success. Sweeney, Mitzen, Bennett, DeFord, Thompson and the others are going to be hard to stop. With the memory of the brilliant play of the Musketeers in the last half of the King game, Infantry supporters feel that with the added two weeks' of practice the gang is in a fair way to win.

Reviewing the record of Loyola this year, however, the odds appear to be all on the side of the New Orleans team. The Infantry was downed by Carson-Newman and played to a standstill by King College for more than half of the game. On the other hand Loyola has a record of three straight wins against much stronger opposition than the footsloggers have faced. Baylor University from Texas was the first victim, 6 to 0, and Baylor teams are usually of more than ordinary strength. Then the Loyolans downed the Tennessee Doctors, 13 to 9, and we all know that the Medics are not setups by anymeans. Last Saturday the Louisiana lads did themselves proud, rolling up the impressive total of 38 points against Detroit University, a team that the West Point Cadets could beat only 21 to 0.

In reporting this last game, the Sports Editor of the Detroit Times, one Greene, stated that in Moore Loyola has a better quarterback than Harry Wilson, now with the Army, ever was in his All American days at Penn State. A doughty linesman, by name Drouilhet, also is being touted as the best in the South, while the supporting cast of these two stars is of high calbire.

It looks gloomy, but the fighting spirit of the Infantry will carry the Musketeers far, and whatever the result of the game, we know the doughboys will do their best.

The following players, in addition to Coaches Berry and Eisenhower, and Medical Officer Fridge, are making the trip: Cornog, Franz and May, ends;

SGT. JOHN J. McAULIFFE
Hq. Bty., 83rd F. A.

When somebody over in the 83rd Field Artillery wants anything from a safety pin to a 75, he goes chasing over to the supply room of the Headquarters Battery to get it, and when he arrives he finds the hero of our sketch in charge and doing the strenuous and complicated job of being Supply Sergeant in an efficient, yet affable, manner. The fact that Sergeant John J. McAuliffe, a twenty-five year old native of Massachusetts, has been entrusted with such an important position after less than six years service is proof positive and incontrovertible that he has an unusual aptitude for the military game and that he is of exceptionally fine character. His one discharge, in 1923, shows "Excellent" and all others he may get from now on are sure to show the same.

Mac can do other things than soldier, too. He is an all-round athlete of great ability. Last summer it could be noted that when J. J. was in the lineup of the Gunner baseball team the other Gowdy Cup outfits didn't find the caisson riders easy to beat, for Mas was one of the league's leading hitters. He was especially dangerous in a tight place and he had a knack of inspiring his teammates to greater efforts. Unfortunately for the Cannoneers, Mac was away from the outfit for a great part of the season and did not participate in many games.

On the gridiron J. J. stars also. During the last garrison football season the Redlegs were known throughout camp as the fighten'est, scrappin'est bunch in the league, and it was in no small degree due to Mac's competitive spirit that they earned that reputation. The Gunners didn't win many games, but they did play the game to the limit, never admitted defeat, and fought from whistle to whistle. John J. McAuliffe was a fighting cog in a fighting team. He and the unfortunate Jack Samlovich carried the burden of the 83rd attack in every game, and they carried it well. This year Mac has been chosen field leader of the Gunners, and so we know that the same brand of never-say-die football will be forthcoming from the caisson riders.

Our hero was born too late—1901—to get into the late lamented scrimmage in France, but ever since he first held up his hand at Camp Jackson in 1920 and began his soldier career with the 20th Field Artillery, he has shown himself the kind of man the army wants—ready for work or play, a fight or a frolic. The more Mac's we have, the better off the army.

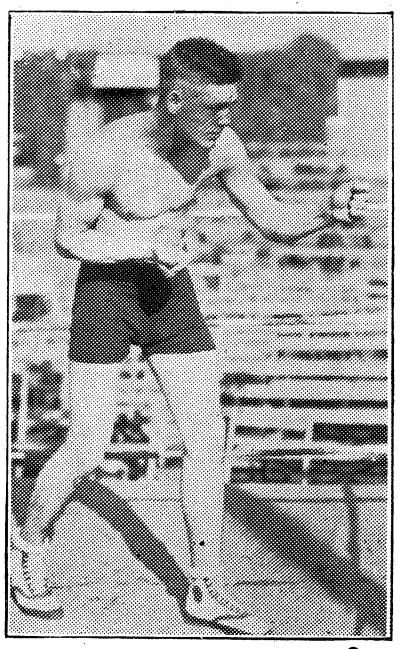
Williams gave that tough old battler, Sparkplug ,a busy evening last month, although the soldier finally went down before his heavier opponent. He showed himself a game and fast two-handed fighter and with him in the ring, look out for lreworks. Smith was a pro before enlisting.

Then two strong men, Hamilton, of the 29th Infantry, and Billy Baird, from over the river in Alabama, will appear in wrestlers' roles, instead of their usual specialty, bending a few spikes or sleeping on ten penny nails while heavyweights balance themselves on chest and knees. The two are experts at the mat game also, and their ten minute grapple should be fast and furious.

Look out for battle, murder and sudden death in the semi-final We will have with us none other than Gene Poyner, of Columbus, and Patsy Paccioni, the slugging spaghetti M. P. These huskies know nothing in the ring except that the true aim and object of every fighter should be to k.o.



"Tanks" Grantham, who Fights Here Thursday

his opponent, and with that idea in the mind of each something is bound to happen. Gene and Patsy are both as tough as pigiron and have long been known for their ability to take it all and come in begging for more. Either will take a punch to land one. It's hard to imagine either being knocked out, but it's just as hard to conceive of their both lasting through eight such slam bang periods as are in store. One thing is as certain as taxes, the referee, Colonel Wait C. Johnson, will certainly get well warmed up for the main go. The Colonel will referee all the bouts of the evening.

Other officials as announced are Captain Griffin and Dr. Mahaney: Judges: Captain Tolson, Medical Officer, and Lieutenant Wayne Smith, Announcer.

Tickets went on sale yesterday at all orderly rooms, the Officers Club, and the office of the Athletic Association, at Fort Benning; and at Davis' Sport Shop in Columbus. The scale of prices will be the same as heretofore—that is, 75 cents, general admission, and $1.00 ringside, for officers and civilians; and 50 cents, general admission and 75 cents ringside, to enlisted men. It was proposed to lower the rates somewhat, but a thorough canvass of the garrison showed over eighty per cent. of the personnel in favor of retaining the previous rates and the high quality of the cards.

"BEHIND THE FRONT" SHOWN TO LARGEST THEATRE AUDIENCE

500 More People Attend Saturday's Show Than on Any Previous Night.

The Moving Picture Theatres of Fort Benning capped the climax of their success last Saturday night, Oct. 16, by showing to the largest attendance since their inauguration. A total of 1,918 attended the showing of the soldier picture, "Behind The Front". All houses were packed to the limit of their seating capacity.

Several days prior to the screening of this film, organizations were informed by memorandum that the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service had selected ten stations at whirh this picture would be repeated and offered a prize, consisting of the net receipts of the house to that station showing the greatest increase in attendance.

The whole-hearted enthusiasm displayed by members of this post in pushing Benning to the front in this competition between army posts is more than gratifying. It is another evidence of loyalty and pride in our greatest Infantry Institution.

The following stations competed: Fort Benning, Fort Slocum, Fort Bragg, Fort Sheridan, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Fort Humphreys, Fort Monroe, Fort Snelling, Franklin Cantonement, Camp Lewis.

We will learn the results of this competition shortly after Oct. 22, when Fort Monroe will be the last contestant showing the picture.

The largest previous attendance at our theatres was on the opening night of the new Main Theatre, Feb. 18, 1926, when a total of 1,470 admissions were collected.

Fort Benning was honored last week by the presence of a distinguished guest, General John L. Hines. The post was very much enlivened by the entertainments in honor of the Chief of Staff, who was the house guest of Col. and Mrs. Singleton.

A fast and furious hunt, the first of the year, was held Sunday morning in honor of General Hines. Approximately one hundred ladies and officers rode and forty more attended the delicious breakfast at 9:30 served at the Polo Club.

There will be a Wild Cat hunt Sunday morning at 5 A. M. Horses may be signed for in the Officers Club. The field will start from the water towers on the First Division road.

Last Wednesday night the Officers Club held a Coon hunt. Reports have not been heard as to whether the game was caught.

The Woman's Club gave a tea on Monday afternoon at the Polo Club for the ladies of the command. The officers of the club received the guests and operated an information booth. Many new members joined, signing up for the different branches of the club. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. Warfield, Mrs. Peyton and Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Scott, the retiring president, received with Mrs. Kingman, the incoming president. Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Keuling, Mrs. Brandhorst, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Pollin assisted.

Thursday afternoon there was a reception and dance in honor of General Hines at the Polo Club from 4 until 6. The receiving line consisted of General Hines, General Collins, Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu, Colonel and Mrs. Helms, Colonel and Mrs. Singleton, and Colonel Gowen. Capt. Hite presented the guests to General Hines. Baskets of pink roses formed the decorations, punch and sandwiches were served and the 24th Infantry orchestra furnished the music.

The Infantry School Bridge Club met at the Polo Club on Thursday afternoon of last week. The eleven tables played three frames before it was time to prepare the club for General Hines' reception. The new officers were elected: Mrs. Pickering, presidnet; Mrs. Brandhorst, vice-president; Mrs. Hurdis, secretary; and Mrs. Jaynes, treasurer. The prizes, china candle sticks and vases, were won by Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Keatley. A bonus of 250 is given to each lady who arrives at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank Green had a tea for about sixty of her friends last Saturday afternoon at her home to meet her mother, Mrs. Edgar Everhart, and Mrs. Scott.

The Reading Club, the literary branch of the Infantry School Woman's Club, will meet with Mrs. Vinson next Monday afternoon at 2:30. Quarters 180-B, Block 23.

Mrs. J. G. Hannah, who has been visiting Col. and Mrs. W. C. Johnson, returned to Fort Wayne, Detroit, on Tuesday.

Major and Mrs. D. G. Garrison gave an informal supper Sunday evening for Major and Mrs. Charles Ryles, Major and Mrs. Lynn Roberts and Major and Mrs. L. H. MacGregor.

After the Dramatic Club plays on Saturday night, Major and Mrs. A. S. Peake prepared a midnight supper for Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Dismukes, Colonel and Mrs. Walling, Major and Mrs. Lynn Roberts and Captain W. A. Collier.

Mr. Harry Eaton, the son of Colonel Harry A. Eaton, of the Infantry Board, spent the last week-end with his parents.

General Collins entertained with a stag dinner of twelve for General Hines last Friday at the Ralston Hotel.

Mrs. George A. Pollin gave a tea for Mrs. Scott on Friday .

Colonel and Mrs. James B. Gowen gave a dinner and theater party Saturday evening of Colonel and Mrs. J. G. Hannah, Colonel and Mrs. Wait Johnson, Colonel Preston Colonel Huguet and Colonel Ingram. After dinner the party attended the showing of "Behind the Front" at the Garrison Theatre.

Major and Mrs. Charles Ryder will have their niece, Miss Mary Clark, of Princeton, New Jersey, as a visitor on the Post after the first of November.

Colonel and Mrs. Harry A. Eaton had as their dinner guests on Monday evening Colonel and Mrs. J. G. Hannah and Colonel and Mrs. Wait Johnson.

Mrs. Wood gave a bridge party of three tables on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Sears won first prize and Mrs. Emmanuel the last.

On Saturday evening Lieutenant and Mrs. Kenneth March will entertain Lieutenant and Mrs. Sears, Lt. and Mrs. Matthews, Lt. and Mrs. Roosma and Lt. and Mrs. Beckley, Lt. and Mrs. Wayne Smith, and Lt. and Mrs. Overfelt with bridge.

Miss Jane Bonnycastle, the very attractive guest of Captain and Mrs. A. D. Bruce, is being very extensively entertained. Charming bridge parties are being given for her this week by Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Overfelt and Mrs. Garrison.

The 29th Infantry Bridge Club met last Tuesday afternoon at the 29th Infantry Mess.

Miss Katharine Lacey will be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu after the first of November.

Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu gave a buffet supper for forty-two guests at their home before the hop on Friday.

Mrs. Brown is in charge of the arrangement of dances and costumes for the Glee Club Operetta.

Mrs. J. K. Rice returned Thursday from New Hampshire, where she has been visiting her father and mother, Colonel and Mrs. J. B. Kemper. Colonel Kemper has come to Benning to take the Refresher Course.

The Officers from the City Federation of Women's Clubs attended the tea given by the Infantry School Woman's Club at the Polo Club last Monday.

Colonel and Mrs. Singleton entertained with a breakfast of forty after the hunt at the Polo Club Sunday. Their guests were: General Hines, Mrs. Singleton, Colonel Cocheu, Mrs. Bond, Col. Helms, Mrs. Delaplane, Mrs. D. G. Moore, Maj. R. H. Dunlop, Col. Wright, Maj. Smith, Mrs. Rogers, Jr., Lt. Oliver, Lt. Brier, Mrs. Goodrich, Col. McCammon, Mrs. Helms, Maj. Donaldson, Mrs. Brier, Gen. Collins, Mrs. Johnson, Col. Singleton, Mrs. Warfield, Col. Bond, Col. Delaplane, Miss Collins, Maj. Moore, Mrs. Oliver, Capt. Cleland, Capt. N. M. Walker, Mrs. Rogers, Sr., Capt. Rogers, Mrs. Dunlop, Col. Goodrich, Mrs. H. J. M. Smith, Col. Johnson, Mrs. McCammon, Col. Gowen and Mrs. Cocheu.

The Polo game on Sunday afternoon in honor of General Hines drew a great crowd of enthusiasts. The field were surrounded by the automobiles of the members of the garrison and people from town who drove out to witness this display of excellent horsemanship between the victorious Freebooters and the Students.

Honor Places at Leavenworth

In the Spring of 1910, the Infantry Journal published in its editorial columns the following article, which is of particular interest here:

The Infantry at the School of the Line

Advices from Fort Leavenworth indicate at this writing that the Infantry has improved this year even on its own record in the School of the Line. A year ago, it will be remembered, infantrymen held four of the five honor places. This year, it appears, infantrymen hold all five honor places, as follows:

1. Capt. James W. McAndrew, 3d Infantry.

2. Capt. Harold B. Fiske, 28th Infantry.

3. Capt. Edgar T. Collins, 6th Infantry.

4. Capt. Lawrence Halstead, 6th Infantry.

5th. Capt. Palmer E. Pierce, 13th Infantry.

From present indications, moreover, next year's class at the Staff College will be composed of eighteen infantrymen, one field artilleryman, four cavalrymen, and one engineer. The first business of the Infantry being to be first, this is a showing of which we may all be proud. The Infantry Journal extends its heartiest congratulation to the officers who by their work have made this showing possible and have thus helped so finely to fix this first principle of the Infantry in place. A year ago, in commenting upon this same subject, we said:

The duty of every infantry officer who seeks the opportunity to go to the School of the Line, and of every regimental commander of infantry is plain; and the infantry spirit that is abroad today should be sufficient to assure its exact fulfilment.

The record of the last class not merely confirms this prophecy but serves to emphasize the duty of future student officers and of the regimental commanders selecting them. The maintenance of the place made by the Infantry for itself at Leavenworth depends on the Infantry.

At the same time, we must remember that the quality of mercy is a part of the infantry spirit. Let us be charitable and out of this quality let us give to our more benighted brothers of other arms an occasional glimpse of better things. It may not be necessary to go so far as to give them places among the honor graduates, but it will do no harm to the Infantry if an occasional engineer or other auxiliary is permitted to enter the staff class, while the association with infantry minds should be of large benefit to such fortunate officers.

What an "Old" Man Did

Since Grover Cleveland Alexander, who is near to the fortieth milepost on his journey through life, outgeneraled the batters of the Yankees in their contest for the world's championship with the Cardinals, most of the older men are patting themselves on the back and saying that they are not dead yet—not by a long sight.

Alexander's feat was a remarkable one. It has not been a great while since he was released from one of the big league teams because of his advanced years; that is to say he was old for a baseball player, especially a pitcher. But he came back strong—stronger, perhaps, than any other baseball pitcher has ever done—and praise of his prowess is now on the lips of baseball fandom throughout the world. Alexander was believed to be down and out, but he proved that he was not down and there is no immediate prospect of his being out. And Alexander's "come back" has put new life, new determination and new energy into a lot of the older fellows, most of whom believed they had come to be regarded as being ready to be laid on the shelf, even if they had not already been placed there.

Here's to Alexander. May his shadow continue to wave.

And, incidentally, we may say that in the beginning we picked the St. Louis team to win.—Enquirer-Sun.

WHO'S WHO!

Lieut. Colonel Paul S. Bond, C. E., U. S. A.

Doughboy Stadium, Gowdy Field, and the Main Theatre have been built at Fort Benning during the past two years with labor furnished by the garrison and made possible by funds donated from the Infantry arm of the service at large. An officer was especially selected and detailed to act as engineer and to supervise the construction work. It took much hard work and much clever planning to utilize the labor at hand and to stay within the means appropriated. The completed structures speak for themselves and more than anything else they go to make our post one of the best places in the army to serve. Lieut. Colonel Paul S. Bond, C. E., U. S. A., was designated as the officer to design and construct the buildings just mentioned and to him goes a large amount of the credit for the completed projects. Colonel Bond is an engineer of exceptional ability and the Garrison is proud [illegible]s number a man who can accomplish so much with so little material means.

The Mechanical Baseball Score Board, which was used by the Fort Benning Athletic Association in giving the results of the recent World's Series baseball games at St. Louis and New York was designed and built by Colonel Bond. He also designed the Football Score Board from which the results of the away from home games of the Infantry Team are given.

Colonel Bond was appointed a cadet at the United States Military Academy from the State of Nevada in 1896. He graduated from the Military Academy in 1900 and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Coast Artillery and was assigned to the 180th Company of Coast Artillery then at Fort Schuyler, New York. In 1902 he was transferred to the Corps of Engineers and assigned to the New Orleans District on River and Harbor work. Upon transfer to the Engineers Colonel Bond was promoted to the grade of 1st Lieutenant. In 1903 and 1904 he attended the Engineer School at Washington Barracks and upon graduation from that School he was sent to the Buffalo, N. Y., District where he was assistant to General T. A. Bingham. Here he was engaged in harbor improvement work and was also Engineer of the 10th Light House District which includes Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. In 1904 Colonel (then 1st Lieutenant) Bond was transferred to the Cincinnati Engineer District where he was placed in charge of the improvement of the Big Sandy River for three years. In 1907 he was promoted to the grade of Captain and was ordered to Ft. Leavenworth with the 3rd Battalion of Engineers and commanded Company "M" of that Battalion. While at Ft. Leavenworth Colonel Bond had actual charge of the building of the bridge over the Kansas River at Fort Riley, Kansas.

Colonel Bond was ordered to the Philippine Islands in 1909 with Co. H. of the 2nd Battalion of Engineers. While in the Philippines he had charge of the building of the roads and land defense on Corregidor Island which was a very important stronghold at that time. He was Engineer of the Moro Province at the time that General Perhing was Governor. The Overton-Keithley Road was built by Colonel Bond as was also the San Ramon penitentiary and the various capital buildings; also the first roads across the Island of Jolo were built by him.

In 1912 Colonel Bond attended the School of the Line and the Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and was the first Engineer Officer to take first honors in that school. While in School at Leavenworth Colonel Bond devised a system of study for the School courses, which he passed on to succeeding Engineer Officers and for a number of years Engineer Officers carried off the honors. While a student at Leavenworth Colonel Bond in collaboration with the late Col. M. J. McDonough wrote one of his many books, "Technique of Modern Tactics", which became a well known authority on tactics before the World war.

In 1913 Colonel Bond was promoted to the grade of Major and upon completion of the course at Leavenworth he was ordered to the Cleveland, Ohio, Engineer Distrist as Federal District Engineer.

He was engaged here in the contruction of all harbors on the South shore of Lake Erie and was also a member of the Ohio Valley Flood Prevention Board. While at Cleveland he also had charge of a survey for a ship Canal from Toledo to Chicago, which project was rejected on economic grounds.

Colonel Bond at the outbreak of the World war was assigned to the 32nd Division at Camp MacArthur, Texas. He was Division Engineer of the Division and also commanded the 107th Engineer Regiment. In January, 1918, he went overseas with the 32nd Division. During most of the time that he was over-seas Colonel Bond was Commandant of the Army Engineer and Gas Schools at Langres. and served also on the staff of the 1st Army. He participated in the St. Mihiel drive.

Returning from France the Colonel was assigned to the Office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington where he organized, under the direction of the Chief of Engineers, the Society of American Military Engineers and also was first Editor of the Engineer Corps Journal. The Military Engineer.

In 1921 Colonel Bond was transferred back to the Cleveland District where he was on duty with the 112th Engineers and engaged also on a survey for a canal from Pittsburgh to Ashtabula, Ohio. This canal was to be for the transportation of iron ore from the upper lakes to Pittsburgh and also for transporting coal from the West Virginia fields to the Lake Region. After the survey was made it was determind that the project would not be a commercial success.

Colonel Bond came to Fort Benning in 1924 and was assigned as Chief of the 2nd Section in the Academic Department and also designated as Engineer and later General Manager of the Recreation Center Board.

Not-with-standing his many engineering accomplishments, Colonel Bond is best known in the Army as an author of military text books; his best known works cover the subjects of Tactics, Field Engineering, Map Reading and Military Sketching and his latest work is an R. O. T. C. Manual for Infantry which is revised and kept up to date each year.

THEATERS

We will publish each week a resume of the plays to be presented at the Main Theatre.

PRICES:
Adults, 15c Daily—25c Sunday.
Children Under 12—10c
Daily Including Sunday.

FRIDAY, OCT. 22.

ELLA CINDERS, starring the favorite Colleen Moore, the "Cinderella of the Movies", in a First National Picture depicting 'scenes' behind the scenes. It is a bristling comedy with Indians, gun play, wise youngster and clever acting.

UNDER TWO JAGS, a self explanatory Roach Comedy.

SATURDAY, OCT. 23.

A HERO OF THE BIG SNOWS, Rin Tin Tin, the world famed police dog, with super-intelligence, enacts scenes of remarkable heroism in an absorbing drama of the Canadian woods.

TAKE THE AIR—A Roach side-splitter.

SUNDAY, OCT. 24.

THE PRINCE OF PILSEN, a Belasco production, in which Anita Stewart and George Sidney play the leading roles. It is play filled with flashy exuberant settings bound together by drama and deft touches of jocularity.

WILD CATS OF PARIS, FABLES, KINOGRAMS.

MONDAY, OCT. 25.

"MANTRAP", featuring Ernest Torrence, Clara Bow and Percy Marmot in a half humorous love drama of the Northland. It tingles with both the comedy and pathos of the marital state.

GREEN ARCHER No. 6. [illegible] the Green [illegible] y of myste[illegible]

"F[illegible]" faithful dog "Ranger" [illegible]cipal in this play of romance and thrill, amid the stately firs and whispering pines of the high Sierras. A human derelict saves the dog's life and in return is saved twice by Ranger.

EXCUSE MY GLOVE. The Spat Family.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 27.

"EVE'S LEAVES." Leatrice Joy's new star picture. It is a charming comedy with a romantic oriental background. A Cecil B. DeMille production of seven reels filled with tense action.

OLD WAR HORSE — Roach laugh stock.

THURSDAY, OCT. 28.

A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT, by Mark Twain; featuring Harry C. Myers. It first portrays the literary genius of today in his bed writing, while before his imagination passes a shadowy procession of the characters of Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn and a Connecticut Yankee. The Yankee is embroiled in a modern love problem, when strange circumstances transport him to a period 1500 years ago and his twentieth century courage is tested before the knights of old. It is an absorbing tale which makes you learn while you laugh.

PATHE NEWS.

FRIDAY, OCT. 29.

"HAIR TRIGGER BAXTER", starring the versatile Bob Custer whose straight shooting and hard riding wins him the respect and admiration of the entire population in a tough western town. Aside from the fine marksmanship and riding thrills the picture offers a charming romance in which Eugenia Gilbert plays the role of a maiden in genuine distress.

HELP YOURSELF, an Imperial comedy.

WASTED HIS LEAVE, LOST FOREIGN SERVICE CREDIT, BUT SAVED (?) SOME MONEY

An officer of the Army bumped a native while automobling just before his tour of duty was up in Honolulu. He handed the boy a greenback and forgot it.

Shortly after his return to the states he was served notice of suit and took leave to return to the islands to defend. Lost the case and returned to the U. S. after appealing. Case again came up for trial. He again took leave, lost and appealed. Case came up third time. His leave credit was exhausted; was unable to get leave on half-pay and finally had to surrender credit for foreign service, applying for station in Honolulu to get back for trial

He won the third trial, but lost: (1) Leave credit; (2) foreign service credit; (3) time; (4) trouble; (5) attorneys fees; (6) expense.

He could have saved all of these by an investment in PERSONAL LIABILITY insurance.

Are you taking such a chance?

If so, you'd better let us hear from you, giving description of your car.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

October 8, 1926.

SUBJECT: Appreciation.
TO: Commanding Officer,
Infantry School Detachment.

1. I desire to express my sincere appreciation of the interest and activity manifested by the members of the Infantry School Detachment in conducting the dance held at the Post Gymnasium on Wednesday night last for the benefit of the Fort Benning Children's School. The large numbers in attendance made a social success of the evening, and the financial proceeds were far in excess of any amount previously obtained in that form of raising funds for the school. The sum of One Hundred and Eighty-one Dollars and Ten Cents was the amount raised and donated to the Fort Benning School Fund.

2. I desire to express my appreciation in particular to Master Sergeant Patrick J. McNulty, through whose initiative the dance was arranged, and to Master Sergeant William J. Stewart, whose cooperation with Master Sergeant McNulty in attending to the numerous details in connection with the dance was mainly responsible for its success.

3. I desire to thank the Commanding Officer, Infantry School Detachment, for his personal donation and for his active interest and encouragement, all of which contributed greatly toward making the evening memorable for the members of the Infantry School Detachment and their guests.

THOMAS L. McKENNA,
Chaplain, U. S. Aarmy,
Officer in Charge of School.

Corporal Astynax Douglas, late of the caisson riders and general all round athlete, has transferred to the Detachment. He'll make one Lieutenant Pangburn's desired forty man-eaters. We're glad to have Doug with us.

Private Al did a heavy military Kitchen Police Sunday. He says that when he went to bed that night he had the terriblest dream. He says just piles and piles of dirty pans were chasing him round and round, and that just as he waked up he saw "Wop" Saloum, assistant K. P. Chaser, riding a big rusty boiler and pelting him (that's Al) with G. I. soap and Sapolio.

Fuzzy is asking everybody to explain the 94th Article of War to him. Why?

"Tex" Blanton has gone in for the poetry writing game. At least he started, but after sitting up all Sunday night trying to find a word to rhyme with "slumgullion" he gave it up, and has fallen back on his old standby "Omar Khayyam."

"Sam Charley", the 60 c. m. newsbutcher, says he saw the I. S. D. ghost again last night. He first saw it about six months ago, on arriving in barracks after a hard pinachle session over in Gee-Rod. He claims that a pretty bobtailed bulldog followed him right into the squad room and then disappeared. This time he had the same experienc only last night there were two bulldogs.

Things we'd like to see (but won't):
Moon without his mustache.
Dempsey keep quiet for a minute.
Blanco spend a dime.
Weiss with a pack of cigarettes.
Spud when he isn't arguing.
Queen Marie of Rumania.

"Old Crow" flew into the mess hall and saw some men sitting over at a table all by themselves, and there wasn't any sugar on it. He wonders why.

GARRISON LIBRARY AND SERVICE CLUB NO. 1

The Garrison Library has an unlimited number of non-fiction books. For the man who studies chemistry, there are twenty-four books on this subject. If you desire to study law there are over eighteen books concerning commercial, elementary, criminal and international law. There are also books on American Jurisprudence, bar questions and answers. The shelves contain books on wars, including some very valuable ones on the World war.

In the line of fiction there may be found books to suit most any reader; detective, mystery, and love stories, by the best known authors.

The Traveling Library for the last quarter has not yet arrived. As soon as it is received a list will be published.

Service Club No. 1 is still under the watchful eye of Capt. Doll, recreation officer, and as soon as things are brought up to date you may expect some real entertainments.

Dances will start about the first of November. Arrangements are now under way for a pool tournament to be held in the Service Club, and there will be some very nice prizes offered to the winners.

FURTHER FORECASTING OF CONFERENCE WINNERS

Naming the winning team in a Southern Conference football tussle, is almost as easy as guessing which shell hids the little pea, but as I was lucky enough last week to hit nine winners in twelve tries, here goes for another shot at the prophet business.

The University of Georgia goes up to Nashville to clash with the Vanderbilt Commodores, in what should prove perhaps the hardest and closest game of the week end. The Bulldogs unexpectedly lost last Saturday to Furman's Hurricane, while Vandy journeyed way out into Tedas and defeated the Texas University team. However, I look for the Georgians to come back this week end and win over the Tennessee outfit, although the going will prove rough.

The Generals from Washington and Lee invade Atlanta for a clash with Tech's Tornado, which so far this year has proved only a gentle zephyr. The boys from Lexington tied Princeton and nosed out Kentucky by a sigle point. They have showed a strong offensive in every game this season, and in Captain Rabuer have one of the finest backs in the conference. Tech seems headed for another defeat, but may surprise.

Alabama, with a clean slate of three victories and no defeats, tangles with Sewanee at Birmingham. The Tide seems to be running high, and should send the Purple Tigers back to their mountain lair with a defeat. That's the dope, anyhow, but Sewanee is noted for fighting hardest when the odds are longest against them, so don't bet too much money or give too many points.

Auburn was chewed up considerably last Saturday by the Louisiana State Tigers, much to the surprise of the sporting fraternity and the detriment of Auburn pocketbooks. The Plainsmen are taking a trip down to New Orleans to try conclusions with the Tulane Greenies, who miss Peggy Flournoy, Irish Levy and other last year stars. I'm betting one white chip on the lads from the Loveliest Village.

Other games involving conference teams, with my winning choice named first are:

Tennessee v Centre at Knoxville.
Kentucky v Florida at Jacksonville.
Drake v Mississippi U. at Des Moines.
V. M. I. v N. C. State at Richmond.
Maryland v North Carolina at College Park, Md.
V. P. I. v Virginia at Blackburg.
Louisiana State v Miss. Aggies at Jackson.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

BETHEL, Pa. — Defeated, but not disgraced, a fighting Lehigh University football team lost to the Quantico Marines here in a bitterly fought struggle by the score of 13 to 0. Lehigh, defeated in every previous game this season, surprised with a brilliant defense against the well-groomed and powerful Quantico attack.

Twice the Marines went across for a touchdown. Jack McQuade, the backfield star of the Marines, ripped through tackle shortly after the start of the second period and with a beautiful straight arm, bowled over all Lehigh players in his path. McQuade raced 40 yards to give the Devil Dogs their first score, and Rickman's placement, scarcely passing over the cross bar, annexed the extra point.

The second touchdown came late in the third quarter and was directly due to a long, successful pass. On Lehigh's 30-yard line McQuade heaved a pass straight to the arms of the running Buckoway, who was tackled from behind on the Brown and White 6-yard line.

Twice previously the Marines had the ball on Lehigh's 12-yard line on the first down, but the defense braced and held against the vicious thrusts of the Marines to take the ball on downs.

However the efforts taxed the Lehigh forwards who fought valiantly to prevent the second score. McQuade twice hit the line and on the third down advanced the ball to within inches of the coveted goal. Then Pugh bounced off left tackle and when extricated from the mass of humanity piled in the vicinity of Lehigh goal post, had the ball across by a scant margin.

Offensively, Lehigh didn't have a look in. Thrusts at the line failed to net but one gain of any importance. That was an 8-yard plunge by Hayes. The Brown and White registered but one first down and that the result of a completed pass. The 20 or more first downs registered by the Marines describe the bitter struggle of the Lehigh line in holding down the score.

MICHIGAN STAR TOPS SCORERS IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO.—Fullbacks of the Western conference still lead in the scoring records, with Bo Molenda, of Michigan, holding a scant lead over Capt. Marty Karow, of Ohio. Frosty Peters, of Illinois, has made good his prep reputation as a field goal kicker and has three to his credit. He still is a bit behind the old master, Bennie Freidman, of Michigan, in the total of points after touchdown.

The leading Big Ten scorers:

Corporal Davis is again with the company after an absence of 45 days. Another of four good men from the Smokey City.

The Company regrets not having "Oscar" for the Horse Show this year. A short time ago he was purchased by Lt. C. A. Smith.

With the co-operation of other units of the 29th, the Howitzer Co. is putting on some very fine Demonstrations for the Student Officers. Most of all we hope that they are instructive—a hundred per cent.

—Theodore T. Carter.

Company "B".

We hate to pick on one team so much, but it seems that we have to, so we pounced Co. "E" again last Saturday. A few end runs and line plunges by Romploski and McFadden, thru holes made by Boley, Couvillon, Uhler and West, tell the story. We don't know why, but we couldn't do a thing until the Battalion Commander came over, and then we shoved over a couple of touchdowns. He left afer that and we couldn't get another one to save us. The attendance of the company was large and the team showed its appreciation by giving its best. Wonder if some of the other companies of the Regiment could summon enough courage to give us a game. If you think so, call the orderly room

We have with us again, "Smilin' Sam" Hattaway. He waited 'til the tumult and the shouting of the World Series had died and then he comes back home. Wonder if he is the relief pitcher of the last game, who was announced as Alexander. It looks that way.

Overheard in the kitchen: Mess Sgt.: "How do you like that pudding? I got that recipe over radio."

First Sgt.: "Too much static in it."

—Cpl. M. E. Morris.

Company "C".

Corporal Mitchell transferred to Regimental Headquarters this week after about two years service in this company. We wish him much success in his new company.

Pvt. Goin, after completing his leave in Florida (Real Estate Shark) returned to duty.

We are glad to announce that Pvt. Van Grosky has returned to duty. He has been in the hospital for the past few weeks.

Cpl. Smithson has been promoted to the rank of commander of the Frog Pond. We congratulate him and hope that he will not have competition.

Captain R. F. Dark is not the only man to receive a compliment on the appearance of Co. C, Sgt. Smiley as Sergeant of the Guard also had the honor conferred by the Officer of the Day, Capt. Wessels.

—L. B. Hughes.

Company "D".

A.—What is Mac talking about now?

B.—Ammunition Trains.

The Rest—What, a new subject?

Basket-ball is becoming popular in the company.

Top—The whistle I blew; and wondering who is trying to beat the detail.

Co.—The whistle he blew; the meaning we knew; so off a-hiding we sail.

Doc.—(after collecting fee)—It's a good thing you came to me at this time.

Patient—Why, Doctor, were you broke? —Jack Kennedy.

Hq. Co., 2nd Bn.

One of our latest developed dance sheiks is Private Weber. When there is a dance within a radius of twenty miles, Weber cannot be found in the company. It is a rumor that he has even consuered the Valencia.

We have just been assigned nine new recruits, and we are sure that we can make just as good soldiers of them as we have in the company now.

Private Shaffer (formerly of Company "H", 29th Infantry) has recently tranferred to our Company. It is very noticeable how a new recruit can always pick out the best company in a regiment. —Lewis M. Lowe.

Company "E".

The company is having a pool tournament now. And the pool sharks have been pushing a wicked cue but "Flax" was put out on the second heat, and the Snake Charmer put Polack out on the first heat by a small margin of 50-49.

The Company had a good football game Sunday but were defeated by a score of 13-0 by "B" Company. And about the only results that we have from the game is the monkey face boy has got swollen jaws.

—Jessie L. Taylor.

Company "F".

Sgt. Hyatt was discharged Monday and will take on three more at the War College, Washington, D. C. He says he has graduated from the school class and is going to college.

The 1st Sergeant has taken a well earned month's furlough and his responsibilities rest upon the able shoulders of Sgt. Stotts.

2nd Lieut. Rothwell H. Brown has been attached to our company. He is welcomed to the best outfit in the post —we admit it.

"Shorty" Wilkinson says he is getting thinner—how about it boys?

Company "G".

Sgt. Davis received his discharge yesterday and will return to the Hills of Tennessee. We regret very much to lose him and if he should decide to return to the Army, we hope to have him back in "G" Co.

Private Hodges visited a peanut patch Sunday and while busily eating the nuts off the vines, asked if the Goobers grew on top or under the ground. Cpl. Kuhn, being a farmer, quickly replied: "Why of course they grow on top."

Private Morgan wonders what the flower pots are for that hang on the pine trees in Georgia.

After wearing the clothes that Uncle Sam gave him for three years, Cpl. Stanley M. Kuhn decided Sunday to step out in civies. So he took a stroll in the southern part of Georgia, to view a bit more of the country before he is discharged.

—Sgt. Herring.

Company "H".

Corporal "Spare Parts" Whittington has returned from furlough, after a lenghty stay some where in the wilds of Alabama. It is useless for one to ask what he has been doing while on his vacation, for it is easily seen by the color of the stains on his hands that he has hulled quite a few walnuts. "Spare Parts" seems to be glad to be back with the outfit, and I am sure that Non Coms for duty are glad to have another man to do Charge of Quarters.

"Nigger" Davis has also returned from a short stay at his home, where he spent most of his time climbing across the branch on a grape vine. Davis is due for discharge real soon. We hope that he decides to take out another stack, as he is a real asset to the company.

The following correction is made of last weeks notes: Cpl. Carroll is the owner of the sixteen dollar iron, and not Peanuts Meadows. Peanuts made this correction so it must be the truth.

The reporter of 2nd Bat. Bq. Co. stated last week that he did not expect the reporter of "H" Company to have any modern ideas. Quite so, Sergeant, but please be kind enough to allow me to suggest that while you are having those modern ideas, try to be practical as well. Can't you see, Sergeant, how perfectly absurd it would be, to use steam heat in the building mentioned last week?

The challenge entered in last weeks issue by Spud Murphy of the I. S. D. is hereby accepted. It is the privilege of Spud to select the subject to be "argued", and to select the side he wishes.

—Bernard B. Swayze.

The Children's School is sponsoring a Hallowe'en party, which will be held at the Officers' Hop Room Friday, October 29th, at 3:30 p. m. This is an annual event which is eagerly looked forward to by all the little folk at Fort Benning and many in Columbus. Witches and goblins will be there in charge of fish ponds and grab bags. We are sure that everyone will have a jolly good time and we hope to make enough money to buy something nice for our school. Last year we bought the Patty Hill blocks for our kindergarten and any of those little people will tell you how wonderful they are.

Miss Anna Dozier has promised that some of her pupils will give exhibition dances which will be a treat to the grownups as well as to the children.

We were sorry to lose Robert Frakes, who is now at the Georgia Military Academy.

William Colby has gone to Pennsylvania and the Scotts—Betty and Dorothy—to Honolulu. We shall miss them and hope they will return before long.

Russell Wall is at school again. He was so brave the day he broke his arm that we are all proud of him.

We had three entries in the Children's Exhibit at the Fair, and Sarah Stokely won second prize in the handicraft department.

Quartermaster Corps

YE OLDE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

The entire shop personnel regrets the departure of Corporal Blizzard, hand compositor and good fellow, who was discharged by purchase on the 9th. It is a real loss the shop has sustained to our infinite regret, but we wish "Shep" well and know he will make good in civil life as he has the ability and stickability. Old Snowstorm will go far.

Our gang has several adepts at the ancient pastime of Crackaloo, or pitching pennies at a line. But volley ball is coming into its own now and the print shop gives promise of producing a worthy team.

A former member of the print shop gang and a binderyman of note, Tony Ippolito, writes from Brooklyn, N. Y., and says he is going great in the M. T. C. there, and is seeing a bit of the East hauling the National Guard outfits and whatnot about. Tony was well liked in the shop and was one of the most valued members of the personnel.

Pee Wee says he wouldn't go to Alabam' again for all the money there is And Poker feels about the same about a neighboring city. Reason: These two towns have very efficient police forces.

It won't be long before the rollers freeze and the ink performs sluggishly and the pressmen will have a merry old time of it. The term "cold type" will then be the veriest reality.

Lost—Make-ready wrench for platen press. Reward for return to Harry Smith.

TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

F. A. Whitaker, Master Mechanic at the Roundhouse, is on a diet. He has lost 20 lbs. in the last 2 months. It is believed by this office he is getting in shape for a contemplated trip to his old home in England sometime next year.

Unofficial reports indicate 3 locomotives enroute to this station from the Coast Defenses of Chesapeake Bay. These locomotives to be given a general overhauling and placed in serviceable condition.

Operation of the Q. M. Corral has been turned over to the Service Co., 24th Infantry, W. O. J. W. Cranson in charge. Quartermaster records indicate 37 private mounts now being stabled and foraged at Fort Benning.

The Vice President and General Manager of the 60 c-m Railway reports a decrease in business of 20 per cent. during the 1st quarter, 1927, compared to the same period, 1926.

UTILITIES BRANCH

"The chill October days have come, the saddest of the year," and together with all the football teams, the stove man and the steam fitter are required to hit the line hard. With stoves and radiators all over the post to be resurrected from their summer hibernations, fitted out with legs, grates, doors, pipes and all the rest of it, we are being "rushed" quite enthusiastically this semester.

Have you noticed that the old oil and gasoline station is about gone? Once the holes are filled up and the greasy spots hidden the location won't look so bad.

The new issue of frosted electric lamps furnished by the Quartermaster General for the present fiscal year seems to be very satisfactory. So far, the percentage of replacements has fallen, although so many more lights are being used.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP

The Girl Scouts met Monday afternoon at 4:15 at the Scout Cabin. Patrols were formed, and Patrol Leaders chosen, as follows:

1st Patrol—Dorothy Donaldson.
2nd Patrol—Marie McCammon.
3rd Patrol—Dorothy Wynnton.

A picnic supper and camp fire on the banks of the Upatoi is planned for the coming Saturday afternoon. All Girl Scouts are invited to meet at Scout Cabin at 4 p. m.

OFFICERS REPORT FOR REFRESHER COURSE HERE

The following Colonels of Infantry reported to the Commandant last week to take the Rfresher Course at the Infantry School: Colonel Edward Croft, Colonel Thomas W. Darrah, Colonel Andrew J. Dougherty, Colonel James G. Hannah, Colonel Adolpho H. Huguet, Colonel Ralph E. Ingram, Colonel James B. Kemper, Colonel John F. Preston and Colonel John W. Wright.

The course started on October 18th with a conference with the Assistant Commandant, at which time all of the Infantry School activities were discussed. The Refresher Course embodies every phase of training of Infantry troops and also all of the methods employed in the teaching of these many subjects at the Infantry School. The course is a short one, lasting only from October 18th to December 18th, and necessarily all of the subjects taken up and all of the conferences are very brief.

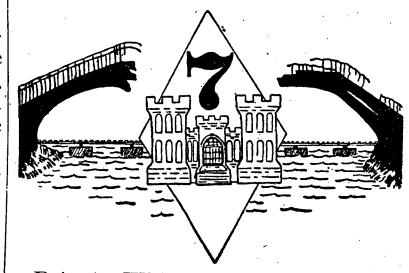
Send It Postpaid

A Jew wrote to a London firm asking them to forward a packet of shaving papers, but without enclosing payment. He received a reply referring him to page 445 of their catalog, where it was distinctly stated:

"All small orders should be accompanied by a remittance."

The Jew replied:

"Dear Sirs—If I had had a catalog with 445 pages I should not have written for any shaving paper. Please send catalog now and oblige."



Private Whitehead has discovered a new substitute for chewing gum. Due to lack of demand he will not patent the product.

The new potato peeling machine has lightened the labors of the K. P.'s so much that cigars are now being offered to the First Sergeant for a place on the kitchen detail.

Private Sims bemoans the lack of corpulency in the company cooks. He believes implicitly that a fat cook makes a contented outfit.

The Map Plant is moving by degrees into the new building. The press was installed on Monday to the great delight of Palmer, for in the new building he can sit on something other than the ink-mixing slab. However he will miss his afternoon naps in the supply truck.

The Company is awaiting the publication of "The Pontonier", the new monthly of the Seventh Engineers. Master Sergeant Morrison, the moving spirit of the magazine, states that in style it will be a composite of the "American Mercury", "Whiz-Bang", and "True Confessions".

Private Arthur Arnold is our latest recruit, coming from Dothan, Alabama in the total immersion belt. Arnold was formerly a farmer and joined the army in order that he might sleep late in the morning. His quest for piechecks on his first morning was un successful.

Private 1st Class Cleo Phillips, our demon motorcycle driver, has achieved a life-long ambition in knocking one of his superiors for a loop. Phillips accomplished this feat with a side-car and a lieutenant from the Infantry School, to the utter breakdown in morale of Corporal Blevins, the occupant of the side-car, who was severely spurred as the lieutenant went over his head. No one was mortally wounded but Cleo is riding softly and slowly these days.

Master Sergeant Morrison is the latest recruit for the Map Plant. As is customary he was handed a dirty job on the first day which he accomplished nobly. If he keeps up the good work he may get the job of cleaning plates, vice Corporal Blevins, Plate Cleaner Emeritus.

The company spent Tuesday demonstrating the intricacies of barbed wire entanglements to the student officers. Torn gloves and ripped breeches were enjoyed by all. —L. C. Reed.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Place of Meeting—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—November 1st.
Time—2:15 P. M.

The Polo Club was the scene of a lovely tea on Monday afternoon when The Infantry School Woman's Club was "at home" to the ladies of the command. This is one meeting of the year that is entirely social and it proved indeed a charming party.

The Information Booth rivalled the tea table in interest, for people wanted to know about the workings of the General Club and its sub-clubs or departments. The result was that names were enrolled in the departments as follows:

Literature 39.
Arts and Crafts 18.
Citizenship (including Parliamentary Law) 12.
Child Welfare 10.
Home Economics 7.
Garden Club 3.

Many members who have not the time for these special groups participate in the general bi-monthly meetings of the club where a program is presented and later a cup of tea is served.

The Woman's Club is going to be most worthwhile this year if there is anything in the age-old saying "Well begun is half done". Already eighty ladies have indicated their desire to belong. Among this group are many of notable worth—authors, artists, musicians, graduates of some of the world's outstanding universities who have done big things and are so capable to "carry on"—people whom it is an inspiration to know, whose personalities shall enrich the club.

As this goes to pres almost immediately after the signing up for the departments, it is impossible just now to announce the place for the organization meeting of the various groups. As soon as leader can be conferred with and arrangement made notice will be given in either the daily bulletin or this column. However, those interested in the Literature department are invited to meet with Mrs. W. H. Vinson at her quarters, Block 23-180B on next Monday afternoon, October 25th, at 2:30.

Every lady of the garrison is invited to be a member of the Woman's Club. If you have never been before, join us at the first general meeting of the year on Monday, Nov. 1st at the Polo Club at 2:15.

Kate Parker Vinson, Secretary.

FREEBOOTERS OPEN POLO SEASON WITH WIN OVER STUDENTS

Major Smith's Free Lances Score Decisively in Initial Game of Season.

Major General Hines sat in the stands on Shannon Field Sunday and watched the opening game of the Benning polo season, staged especially for his visit. He saw the fast riding, hard hitting Freebooters led by Major H. J. M. Smith decisively defeat the Students. Seven times the ball rocketed through the goal defended by the school officers, while only once did the Freebooters' defense crack sufficiently to allow an opposing score. Six periods of six mintes each were played, and all the tallying was accomplished in the first three stanzas. This was while the captain of the Pirate crew was personally leading his followers. In the last half, Major Smith withdrew from the lineup, and the Students were able to prevent further humiliation, although themselves unable to narrow the gap separating them from victory.

The Freebooters took the field with three of their last year's championship four in action. Maj. Smith and Captains Forsythe and Whisner were in their accustomed places, with Captain McClure taking the No. 2 berth left open by Lieutenant Nichols' assignment as a student officer. Upholding the Student standard were Lieutenant Nichols, Lieutenant Elkins, last year one of the stars of the Mounted Infantry from the Demonstration Doughboys; Capt. Wise, and Lieutenant Sweet. In the last three periods Lieutenant Moon replaced Major Smith, while Lieutenant Moles of the Cuban army, went in for Lieutenant Sweet.

For an opening game the standard of play was high. The ponies showed clearly the results of strenuous and intelligent training, and the mallet wielders displayed an accuracy of stroke that was remarkable. The Freebooters had quite an advantage in having played together before, and it was the machinelike functioning of their team that brought the victory.

Captain McClure was high individual scorer, getting a goal in each of the first three periods. Captain Forsythe made two, and Major Smith and Captain Whisner connecetd for one each. Lieutenant Elkins tallied the lonesome goal credited to the Students. It came in the third period.

The crowd was large and enthusiatstic and gave indications that polo is to take its rightful place in the forefront of Benning's athletic and social events.

Lineup and summary:

Freebooters		Students
Forsythe	1	Nichols
McClure	2	Elkins
Smith (Moon)	3	Wise
Whisner	Back	Sweet (Moles)

Score by periods:

Freebooters	2	2	3	0	0	0	—7
Students	0	0	1	0	0	0	—1

Goals: McClure (3), Forsythe (2), Smith, Whisner, Elkins. Umpire: Maj. Lloyd Jones, F. A. Time of periods: 6 minutes each.

THE STEWGENT

Company "B".

Privates Brannan, Jackson and Hall of the First Squad have all qualified as all-round shots. They shoot all-round the bulls-eye with the greatest ease.

Private Clear of the Famou First, otherwise known as "The Jenkins Hell-Cats" or the "Bulls-Eye Busters" has had a hard time of it. He was made Private first class three times and busted the next day. He has been transferred to the rear rank and is now Squad Cook and Artificer, vice Jackson relieved.

"Old Jack" came out after lunch and three drinks and made three bulls. He claims he could have made two more bulls if he had had two more drinks.

Corporal Jenkins has the roughest toughest squad of hell-roarin' rakes in camp. Can't do anything with them and wants transfer to the Medical Corps. Says the Medical Corps has the only good likker in town.

"Bulls-Eye Buster" B. B. Bain wants to fight the next war with a shot-gun. Says he isn't much with the rifle. Wry Withers agrees with him.

Did you ever hear of a virgin bull? Ask Private Elkins, Pistol Shot Extraordinary.

Buck Private Monte Blue is out for polo and Jackson. Jackson has quite a few out for him. They'd like to catch him.

"Contour" Jackson tackled his own fullback behind the line in the last game, something no one else has achieved this year. He gets the fur-lined alidade.

Private Brannan took his pistol apart in the test the other day and put it together again in a neat pile.

Corporal Jenkin's explanation of the function of the automatic rifle is now being translated by Doctor "Itche-Scratche" Clear, the eminent Orientologist. Doctor Clear is collaborating with Prof. Jones and the publication of Corporal Jenkin's treatise in English is eagerly awaited.

Private Blue's new Buick roadster has deevloped dropsy. He took Privates Maguire, Jackson and Martinson for a ride the other day and the Buick will never get over it. Private Maguire is in "C" Company, The Irish Mud-Guards.

Captain Olmstead finally shook the "Jenkins Hell-Cats" and is now instructing genteel represetatives of the Infantry. He has Group One on the firing-line and the Hell-Cats are busting Target No. 9. The Captain was in tough company too long and deserved a better deal.

"Crack-a-smile" Green, the Right Guide. When he does crack one it must hurt. "The lean and hungry Cassius." However, the whole company's behind you, Jesse Aspirin Green.

Private Jackson wants transfer to the tail end of the company.

"Sic Transit Gloria Mundi" — Old Latin for 84.777 pistole recordo.

Who can match that string of shooting insignia bars that reaches from chin to navel? Who wants to? Bob it.

Where the Mighty Gather

"If we put this deal over, Joe," remarked the first bootlegger, "we'll be rubbing elbows with them big guys—governors and senators and like that."

"Don't say that, Mike," expostulated the second bootlegger, nervously. 'It sounds too much like Leavenworth or Atlanta."

GLEE CLUB

Just about the busiest organization in the Post at the present time is the Glee Club. The Club is making elaborate plans for two big features during the coming season. The first of these will be the World War Pageant to be given on Armistice Day in the Doughboy Stadium. The Armistice Day Pageant is intended to constitute the annual celebration of Armistice Day by the personnel of th Infantry School. It is a symbolic representation of the chief events of the World War and is a reminder of the principles involved and the sacrifices entailed. It is presented at night by a local cast and it is for the enjoyment of the School personnel and the public at large.

The annual presentation of this brilliant pageant has become a feature event in this section of the Nation. Neighbors and tourists will come many miles to see this patriotic demonstration of the important part played by the A. E. F. in the settlement of the greatest War in History. Admission will be without charge and visitors are welcome.

The Glee Club will also feature this year the beautiful and yet snappy Operetta "Singbad the Sailor." It is a decidedly fascinating operetta fully endorsed by competent critics. t is made up of tuneful ballads and ensembles, combined with clean-cut, high-grade, spontaneous humor and all of the stage tricks of the modern musical comedy. The play will have a large orchestra and a big company elaborately costumed and altogether it is the best thing of its kind since the days of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Members of the Garrison cannot afford to miss these two feature events which the Glee Club will give.

GARRISON RIDERS GETTING SET FOR INFORMAL SHOW

Twelve Classes Scheduled for Next Wednesday Afternoon, On 29th Infantry Field.

Lovers of good horses and fine riding will be able to staisfy their craving for both by going out to the 29th Infantry athletic field next Wednesday to the Informal Horse Show to be staged by the garrison organizations. There will be classes for ladies, and officers and for enlisted men. Twelve classes in all are slated for decision. Entries in all classes are to be made at the post, there being no advance entries. Officers and ladies of the garrison, with the exception of officers of the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Field Artillery, who have obtained mounts from their own organization, have drawn lots for the animals of the Infantry School Stables. Of course many of the entrants will ride their private mounts.

Perhaps the feature of the afternoon will be the exhibition ride by instructors in equitation at the Infantry School. Major H. J. M. Smith, Cavalry; Capt. Pleas B. Rogers, 24th Inf.; Capt. R. A. McClure, Inf.; Capt. Daniel H. Mallan, V. C.; 1st Lt. W. W. Brier, Jr., 24th Inf., and 2nd Lt. Jacob B. Moon, 24th Inf., will show the proper technique of plain and fancy riding, and will execute intricate maneuvers

Major Lloyd Jones, Field Artillery, has been named as judge for all events except classes 1, 3 and 6, in which the judge will be Capt. Wm. C. Chase, Cavalry, student in the Company Officers Class. Capt. Chase came here this fall direct from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley.

Beside the usual blue, red, yellow and white ribbons awarded for the four places in each class, special prizes for the winners have been secured. A list of events with the prize for each follows:

LOYOLA WOLF PACK BEATS MUSKETEERS BY LARGE MARGIN

Crescent City Boys Run Away From Doughboys And Avenge Former Defeats.

Coasting along on the winged feet of "Bucky" Moore and the Spartanlike efforts of Aubrey Budge, the Loyola Wolves received weak opposition from the Fort Benning soldiers and Eddie Reed's undefeated Pack swept on to its fifth victory of the season astride a 46-to-0 count.

Surrounded by the largest crowd that ever saw a Loyola football team in action —roughly estimated between eight and ten thousand—Coach K. L. Berry's huskies were baffled at the manner in which Moore skirted their ends, cut in toward the tackles and outsprinted every defensive back.

And because the visitors had nothing to strike back with except a fairly good off-tackle smasher in Sweeney and the line plunging and punting Deford, the outcome of the rough and tumble Sabbath Day contest was never in doubt.

Ideal weather brought out the gathering, always anxious to see a winner, and the Loyola University band and its cheering corps were never better. About 300 Morgan City people journeyed down to see their favorites—Budge, J. Y. Gilmore, Don Maitland and others.

The line-up and summary follow:

MERCER'S BURLY BEARS MEET BERRY MUSKETEERS IN STADIUM TOMORROW

Boys from "Zipperville" Come Here with Strong Team and Fine Record for Year

A bunch of burly Bears from Mercer University, alma mater of our old time favorite "Zipper Jake" Zellars, will appear in the Doughboy Stadium tomorrow afternoon to do battle with K. L. Berry's Musketeers in the last home game of the Infantry schedule Smarting under the sting of the New Orleans debacle the doughboy team has been working hard all week and is now prepared to fight the Maconites from whistle to whistle, with strong hopes of sending them back to the "Heart of Georgia" carrying the small end of the score in their baggage.

To do this, though, the footsloggers must show marked improvement over previous efforts, for the Baptists come here with a "tickle-toed" backfield and an unyielding line of forward defense that compare very favorably with the best in the South. Off to a disappointing start the Bruins have reached their true stride and provide a busy afternoon for any team. They opened the season by losing to Georgia and the Citadel, but rallied to defeat the University of Florida Gators and the Howard College Bulldogs on successive Saturdays. Florida's strong showing against Chicago and Kentucky proves that the boom staters are not cripples while Howard easily defeated Oglethorpe which stilled the Tech Tornado.

TANKS GRANTHAM GETS DECISION IN MAIN GO OF THURSDAY BOUTS

Frankie Conway Beaten By Tantalizing Left of Former Caterpillar Conductor.

Tanks Grantham, former Tanker and noted automobile salesman from Columbus, received the judges' verdict over Frankie Conway of Fort Bragg after ten rounds of milling Thursday night. The bout was the main go of the card prepared by Lieutenant Geo. L. Potter, Athletic manager for boxing. The boys weighed in at 142 pounds. The visiting artilleryman was the aggressor throughout the fight and whenever he reached close quarters, he outfought Tanks, but the latter boxed cleverly throughout, kept his opponent away with a snaky left jab, opened cuts above and below the cannoneer's right eye and was entitled to the verdict he received.

In the opening preliminary of the evening Kid Earle, of Columbus, went six rounds with Danny "Kid" Davis only by one of the gamest exhibitions seen hereabouts in a long time. The 29th scrapper clearly outclassed the Columbus lad, but was unable to put over the dreamland punch. Earle was knocked down twice in the first session and again in the final round, but never backed up a step and kept boring in all the way.

Hamilton from the 29th and Billy Baird, of Columbus, played roly poly on the mat for ten minutes without either gaining a fall, and then Cecil Williams and Prince Smith, of the 24th, went into the ring. In the third round Williams broke a bone in his hand and Smith was awarded the fight on a technical knockout.

Gene Poyner and Patsy Paccioni fought the semi-final go. They were slated to travel eight rounds. The first four rounds were even, but in the fifth the M. P. took a bad beating from the Electric City boy. Gene continued in charge during the sixth and in the seventh the referee stopped the fight and awarded the decision to Poyner on a technical knockout.

There was a charleston exhibition, which met with the approval of all.

Charlie Loch, Ollie Kirk and Maud Farley went into the ring at various times and hurled sweeping challenges at all and sundry.

Officials were: Referee: Col. Johnson. Judges: Capt. Griffin and Doctor Mahaney. Medical Officer: Capt. Tolson. Announcer: Lt. Wayne Smith.

Although the weather was somewhat chilly for an outdoor show, the crowd was the largest that has gathered for any of the monthly cards. The keen air failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the fans, who cheered long, loud, and lustily for their favorites. The Tankers massed on one side of the ring lent Grantham strong vocal support.

CPL. LEM B. HUGHES
Co. D, 29th Inf.

Not many men will exchange the grade of Captain for that of Private, but that is what the hero of this sketch did. In 1923 Lem B. Hughes was discharged from the Infantry School Detachment with character excellent. He decided that he would no more wear the uniform of our Uncle Samuel and hied him to his home and hearth down in Jasper, Florida, where in 1901 he first saw the light of day. He was done with things military forever and a day, so he said.

Arrived in the land of real estate dealers and West Indian hurricanes, he plunged into civil life with a vim, but soon felt the urge of the true soldier, whereupon he organized Co. E, 106th Engineers, Florida N. G., and was appointed Captain thereof. For a time this satisfied this longing for martial glory, but he has been a regular and "once a regular, always a regular," and so it wans't long before he pulled off his two shining bars, sent in his resignation to the governor, and hooked up with the Demonstration Doughboys for another three years.

Arrayed in the familiar trappings of the Doughboys he returned to the junction of the Chattahoochee and the Upatoi, where his arrival was hailed by his former comrades with joy. His C. O. immediately conferred upon him the right to wear the narrow gauge stripes of a Corporal. The very day after his return he was sent out to the range to fire for record, and without a single moment's practise he made sharpshooter. Merely a sample of Lem's efficiency and earnestness of endeavor.

Cpl. Hughes made his advent into the service back in the hectic days of 1917. Although only sweet sixteen at the time, he decided that he wanted to get into the scrap and so he enlisted in the 17th Inf., 11th Division. His war service was at Camp Meade, Md. Discharged in March, 1919, he signed up for a one year stretch in the Motor Transport Corps and put it in down at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

Followed another go at the civilian game, but in 1921 he returned to the ranks and first came down to Benning.

He became a member of the Infantry School Detachment and was assigned to duty in the Print Shop. Ambitious and industrious, he also served as cashier of the 29th Infantry theater at night.

He started this hitch with Co. C of the 29th, but only recently was transferred to Co. "D," where he may be found in the barber shop calling "Next" in stentorian tones.

Every discharge received by this fine soldier bears Character Excellent. He has a host of friends all through the garrison.

Biddy—"I suppose you've been in the navy so long that you are accustomed to sea legs."

Middy—"Lady, I wasn't even looking."

Mercer's victories, therefore mark the Bears as strong.

A whole constellation shines in the visiting backfield. A youth by the uncommon name of Smith is the brightest star. This young fellow goes by the nickname of "Phoney", but from the best information obtainable there's nothing phoney about his football playing. His ability to move rapidly through a broken field has dazed the opposition in every game this year, while he sports an educated toe trained to boot the pigskin over the whitewashed two by four connecting the goal posts. It was his field goal from placement in the last minute of last Saturday's game that sent the Bulldogs from Howard back to Birmingham in a very unhappy frame of mind.

Salter, Skelton, Loser and Bruner, the other ball toters are better than fair to middling, too. Skelton is the lad who does the Mercer aerial shooting, and his speed and accuracy in hurling the pigskin is a decided asset to his team. The other backs do their bit in interfering and running.

Out on the extremities of the scrimmage line are posted Captain John Parks and Wallace Butts, and not many yards have been made by attempting to turn the Mercer flanks. They also are good pass receivers. The rest of the forwards are reasonable heavy, full of fight and pep, and well qualified to make all sorts of trouble for the Infantry.

The garrison expects the Musketeers to come back strong from now on. The appointment of Kjelstrom as field captain was a ten strike, as every member of the command has greatest confidence in the leadership of the Kel. He has proved it in every branch of athletics.

With the material available there is no reason why the Musketeers should not be nearly as strong as last year's "Four Touchdown" Doughboys. Of course, George Smythe and Jock McQuarrie are badly missed behind the line, but the forwards upon whom falls the real burden of both offense and defense are, on paper at least, as good as the 1925 aggregation. However, football games are won out on the field and not on paper or by pre-game dope. A strong comeback against Mercer tomorrow would go far toward wiping out the sting of early season setbacks.

GLEE CLUB

The Fort Benning Glee Club met on last Tuesday evening and there was a large attendance. Further plans for the World War Pageant were discussed and more work was done on the Operetta "Singbad The Sailor." These are busy times for the Glee Club as November eleventh, the date of presentation of the Pageant approaches. This presentation is such a huge affair that it entails no end of work on the part of everyone concerned. The arrangements are divided into different departments and all of these are coordinated under one head. Captain F. S. Doll is the Director General of the Pageant and all of the work is coordinated by him, subject to the approval of the Commandant.

SOCIETY

MISS KATHARINE KINGMAN
Phone 217

Mrs. Edgar T. Collins, wife of the Commandant, returned to the Post from Washington, D. C., last week.

The officers of the 24th Infantry gave an Organization Day hop at the Polo Club last Friday evening. The Club was decorated with Hallowe'en colors, yellow and black streamers and Jack-o-lanterns. There was no receiving line but the dancers met their hosts informally during the evening. Punch, and at midnight, coffee and sandwiches were served.

Mrs. Overfelt entertained for Miss Bonnycastle on Thursday with four tables at bridge. Mrs. Wessels won the prize with an unusually high score. Mrs. A. D. Bruce presided over the beautifully appointed tea table.

Major and Mrs. Dan Card entertained with a supper of twenty on Tuesday night.

The Glee Club will meet on Tuesday evening at the Officers' Club at 7:30.

Miss Becky Hill celebrated her sixteenth birthday last Sunday.

Colonel and Mrs. A. B. Warfield entertained the Quartermaster Bridge Club on Thursday night at their home. There are four tables of the officers and ladies of the Q. M. C. who meet every other Thursday night at the homes of the various members.

Mrs. Brown is instructing the girls for the ballet in the Glee Club operetta: Miss Marie Russ, Miss Dorothy Russ, Miss Becky Hill, Miss Thelma Pangburn, Miss Dorothy Gowen, Miss Mary Pendleton, Miss Katharine Kingman, Miss Jane Kilbourn.

Major and Mrs. Fox entertained at dinner Sunday evening for Colonel and Mrs. McCammon, Major and Mrs. Philip Peyton, Major and Mrs. Eisenhower and Major and Mrs. Roberts.

Major and Mrs. Parker will entertain at dinner before the masquerade this evening.

Miss Betty Collins will leave next Sunday to take a Secretarial course in Atlanta.

Mrs. Garrison gave a very delightful party on Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Roberts and Miss Bonnycastle. The high score prizes were won by Mrs. Roberts and Miss Kingman. Mrs. Ladd cut the consolation.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert Oliver will entertain at supper before the Masquerade this evening.

The Muscogee Club was the scene of a Dutch treat party at dinner before the dance there last Saturday. Those at the table were: Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Davis, Captain Barnett, Miss Betty Collins, Captain Curtis Deware, Miss Eleanor Jerrard, Captain Mallan, Major Quesenbery, Miss Mildred Dismukes, Captain Bourum, Miss Jane Bonnycastle and Captain Jacobs.

Mrs. Lee Hester is expecting her sister, Miss Gulledge, of New York, for a visit at Fort Benning during the Diez Concert.

Mrs. Moore honored Miss Bonnycastle with a bridge party last Friday. Miss Pendleton won the high score prize. The decorations and score cards were of the Hallowe'en effect.

Colonel and Mrs. Jason M. Walling are entertaining with a Hop Supper at their home before the costume party at Biglerville tonight.

There will be a control ride this Sunday leaving the Polo Club at 8 o'clock. Riders will be instructed in the rules and etiquette of cross-country riding. Breakfast will be served at the Polo Club at 9:30. The list of horses can be signed in the officers club until tomorrow noon.

The many friends of Mrs. Martin Barndollar will be happy to know that she is recovering nicely from her accident on the hunt two Sundays ago.

Mrs. Ladd gave a delightful bridge party on Wednesday for Miss Jane Bonnycastle. After several frames fruit salad, coffee and hot rolls were served to the sixteen guests.

The Infantry School Bridge Club met yesterday at the Polo Club at 2 o'clock.

Miss Katharine Kingman gave a small informal tea after the Polo game last Sunday.

Major and Mrs. M. S. Lough have as their guest until after Christmas, Mrs. Lough's sister, Miss Guenn Guthrie, who arrived last Wednesday.

Major and Mrs. Lough have taken a table of fourteen at the dinner dance at Biglerville tonight in honor of their sister, Miss Guenn Guthrie.

Mrs. John Rossma gave a delightful bridge party yesterday afternoon.

There were two Polo games last Sunday played on the field adjoining the Polo Club. The 29th was victorious over the 83rd and the Freebooters, who won over the Students last week, suffered a reverse this week.

METROPOLITAN OPERA STAR TO SING HERE NOVEMBER NINTH

Senor Rafaelo Diaz Presents Benefit Concert at Garrison Theatre

The famous lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company will be presented to the lovers of music by Colonel Wait C. Johnson, president of the Infantry School Athletic Association, which organization is sponsoring the appearance of the singer. It is understood that the proceeds, above expenses, are to be used to help with athletics and recreation of the personnel of the Infantry School.

The appearance of Senor Diaz is the first undertaking of its kind ever attempted by the Athletic Association and it is expected that the Garrison Theatre, where the concert is to be held, will soon be sold out.

From the sale of tickets, the day they were placed on sale at the Fort and in Columbus, the Association feels justified that the audience will be a record one. The top price tickets sell at $1.50 with others at $1.00 and fifty cents according to position. This price is well within the means of everyone and with all of the 1380 seats a reserved seat the choice is a personal one. Tickets may be secured at the Officers Club, the Garrison Theater at the Fort and from Humes Music company and Wheats Drug store in Columbus. There is a floor plan of the theater at each place where the seats are on sale.

Senor Rafaelo Diaz is a native of San Antonio, Texas. He attended West Texas Military Academy and St. Mary's College, both of San Antonio. He became interested in music and went abroad where he studied piano at the Sterns Conservatorie, in Berlin. It was there that one of his instructors discovered that he was the possessor of a wonderful tenor voice. Upon completion of his piano course, he plunged into the preparation of a vocal career. His development was surprisingly rapid for he soon journeyed to Italy where he was discovered by Henry Russell, who at once secured his services for the Boston Opera Company. Subsequently he found his way to the Manhattan Opera Company and with Madam Tetrazzini, made a tour of the country. He soon was recognized as a singer of note and joined the Metropolitan company.

During the World war he served with the Army, returning to his chosen profession after the Armistice. A telegram from his director, Mr. Myer, of New York, states that Senor Diaz is intensely interested in his trip to Fort Benning and just brimming over with the thoughts of once again refreshing his memory with things military. He is gifted with a very pleasng personality and will, it is believed, leave the Fort with a host of friends. His accompaniest, Miss Gulledge, is the sister of Mrs. Lee Hester, wife of Lieut. Hester, who is at present a member of the 24th Infantry. Both Lieutenant Hester and his wife are personal friends of Senor Diaz, having also been reared in San Antonio.

Thursday. Oct. 21, the Infantry School Detachment, commanded by Major H. A. Bootz gave a regular monthly dance at Service Club No. 1, which was a success in every respect. Everybody enjoyed a good time, thanks to Master Sergeant McNulty and the committee. Sgt. Wright and his jazz boys from the 29th Infantry band produced wonderful music which was appreciated by all who attended. All he pool sharks who are thinking about entering the pool tournament, had better begin practicing on the tables in the club, for it sure will help if you know the tables well.

Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—November 1st.
Time—2:15 P. M.

Interpretive dancing, lovely music, and a reading that will make you chuckle—this is what the program committee of the Infantry School Woman's Club offers for your entertainment next Monday afternoon. At last, the business of reorganization is over and the Woman's Club is ready to begin its regular meetings with their programs of general interest followed by informal tea parties.

Miss Agnes Harrison of Columbus, who is wonderfully gifted and most skilfully trained in the fine art of dancing, will present Caprice by Gottschalk.

Mrs. E. S. Miller will sing "A Winter Lullaby"—DeKoven, and "Life"—Mary Turner Salter. And last will come the dramatic reading that will make you chuckle.

Announcement will be made on Monday about the plans for the departments. Thus far only the Literature Club has been definitely organized, but within the next week all the sub-clubs will begin their work and interesting things are in store for you.

The Literature Club organized on last Monday afternoon when more than thirty women met to make plans for the year's reading. The program committee composed of Mrs. Philip B. Peyton, chairman; Mrs. Frank W. Schneider and Mrs. Moses B. Cowley, presented a plan that met with enthusiastic and unanimous approval. The plan is to take up the very best of the latest contemporary American literature giving one month to each of the following sections: The Middle West, the Far West, New England, New York and the South—reviewing simultaneously The-Book-of-the-Month irrespective of setting.

The plan for the first regular meeting is as follows:

Place—Mrs. Schneider's Qarters—14-438.

Time—2:00 P. M.

Program: Biography—Carl Sandburg's The Life of Abraham Lincoln—Mrs. Schneider.

Fiction: Edna Ferber's Show Boat, Ruth Suckow's Iowa Interiors—Mrs. Vinson.

Poetry: Vachel Lindsay's Poetry—Mrs. Peyton.

Round-table discussion.

Mrs. Peyton suggested a most excellent bibliography of the best of the many new books on and of the Middle West to serve as a guide for the club at large to read during the month of November. The club is so large that only a few can be on the program each time but with broad reading the round-table talk after the formal program has been presented will offer a moment to each one who has found something so good that it deserves mention and in this way we hope to get acquainted with innumerable delightful people and books.

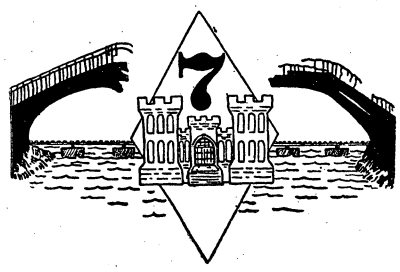
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE



Four new additions to the Engineers arrived on Tuesday, Marshall from Johnson City, Tenn.; Williams from Waco, Texas; Kelley from Geneva, Ala., and Lovelace from New Orleans. Recruit Instructor Bevis, already in a highly nervous strain due to the vagaries of Jones, is expected to collapse entirely.

When a man who owns a beautiful Dodge roadster takes a friend to town and the friend borrows the car in order to give his inamorata a joy-ride and the generous owner is forced to walk back to camp at three in the morning due to the non-appearance of said friend, it is the height of something or other. But Johnson is putting out no longer.

A most regrettable incident occurred on Monday evening. Sundry boisterous ruffians, led by Collins and Cramer, were beating each other about the bodies with scrap pieces of beaver boards. Their conduct attracted the attention of Cheatham, who chased them from the mess-hall, and of Corporal Blevins, who ordered them to play outside. They departed from the building to resume their game and, in the midst of their vulgar sport, were told by ye scribe to take their ungodly pastime from the company area. Whereupon, inspired with the contempt for old age which is a part of the younger generation's character, if any, and evincing no respect for his high rank of private, they leaped upon ye scribe and inflicted dire contusions on his northern exposure. To date no arrests have been made.

Corporal Danielski is now the non-com in charge of the Engineer Depot, taking the place made vacant by Master Sergeant Morrison's promotion to the Map Plant. Supply Sergeant Hankins is endeavoring to draw extra-large head-gear.

Private 1st Class Wilson H. Palmer considers challenging Annette Kellerman as a diving expert. Palmer tripped over Perkins' over-size Triblies while the company was double-timing and the result was interesting, if unedifying. His undeniable genius for profanity rose to its supreme heights.

Bevis has purchased a new civilian outfit, in color-scheme a delicate bluish gray. So wealthy does Bevis appear that a palmist at the fair thought that he was Edsel Ford and tried to soak him six dollars for a seance. As she had prophesied the usual legacy Bevis told her to delay her claim until he collected.

World War Pageant.

Eight years have passed since the signing of the Armistice by the Entente and the Imperial German government. As the years pass, we, as Americans, in our hurry and bustle to attend to business and to make money are very prone to forget the cause of the world's greatest conflict and the principles whech were involved during the fighting and the great problems which presented themselves in the settlement of the main issue. Actual fighting in itself is a terrible and a brutal professional procedure. America has always been slow to anger and prone to settle disputes by other means than the bayonet, however, we have never failed to fight and fight hard and with all that was in us when the occasion demanded it.

Better than anything else that is produced in this section of the country, the World War Pageant, which, is presented annually on Armistice Day at Fort Benning, brings to our attention the terrible strife that went on in Europe from 1914 to November eleventh, 1918. The Pageant is a beautiful spectacle and it makes one think of reasonable ideas for sane and sound preparedness. The pageant brings out all of the horribleness of the war and concludes with the joys of the signing of Armistice and the end of the great struggle.

The pageant will be presented again this year at Fort Benning in Doughboy Stadium by members of the Fort Benning Glee Club. This awe inspiring presentation has been witnessed by thousands of people from Columbus and the nearby towns which shows very clearly the profound interest that the people of this section of the Nation have in the preparedness and preventative policies of our National Government.

WHY NOT MAIL THE NEWS HOME?

Pershing Knows.

General Pershing distinctly understates the situation when he says we have reached the point below which we cannot go without the most serious results. We have passed that point. For years the experts have agreed that a minimum of 150,000 enlisted men is necessary for the maintenance of a proper skeletonized regular army. Today we have scarcely more than two-thirds of that number of men in the regular army. The Washington conference indicated a naval strength designed to keep this country in a condition of security because of the respect it would command abroad. Today the fleet, because of deterioration and lack of construction, is little better than a derision from the standpoint of first-class effectiveness.

And while this condition is persisting and is actually becoming more and more acute month by month and year by year, the United States is surrounded by a world in which turmoil and gusts of war are intensifying continually, and which is more and more looking at America and American wealth with hostile and envious eyes. We have perhaps one dependable friend in all the eastern hemisphere, and that friend, in the event of another flareup, probably will have all it can do to take care of itself without coming to our assistance while we make another desperate endeavor to mend neglect. —The Detroit Free Press.

WHO'S WHO!

Captain James W. Howder, Q. M. C.

The telephone in the office of the Property Officer, Fort Benning, rings at about eight thirty on most any morning in the week and upon answering the phone one may hear the voice on the other end of the line say something like this: "Is this the Property office of the School Quartermaster?" Answer: "Yes". "Well this is Mrs. So-and-so, wife of Second Lieutenant So-and-so and I would like to find out about drawing a few articles of furniture for our very deplorable quarters, we have scarcely any furniture in this set and there are a few things that it would seem that an officer is entitled to. First, I would iike to have my dining room table refinished, it needs a complete overhauling and painting and varnishing and if possible I would like to have you call for it personally and then return it to me tomorrow not later than noon time. We haven't hardly a thing to sit on in this house and I would like also to get a small serving table, and by the way this ought to be brand new. Have you any shades today? If you have will you please send me over twenty-five right away. We absolutely must have the things that I have mentioned and I am sorry to say that there will be some things to be done and some more furniture that we need and I will phone you again tomorrow morning about this time. Don't fail to come right over and get the dining room table right away. Thank you. Good-bye." And so it goes with the Property Officer at Fort Benning. It is a most important job. Very few people realize the difficulties that the Property Officer has in getting the things that pepole need. Captain James W. Howder is the Property Officer, under the School Quartermaster, at the Infantry School. Under him comes the packing and unpacking of the household effects of all of the incoming and outgoing Student Officers. This in itself is a tremendous task. Anyone going to the Property Office always will find Captain Howder accommodating and efficient in the administration of his office.

Captain Howder's first military experience was with Company "H", 1st Georgia Volunteers during the Spanish-American war; he also served with the 4th U. S. Field Artillery and with the 21st U. S. Infantry. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Infantry on July 11, 1917, but, previous to that time he had held the Non-Commissioned grades of Corporal, Sergeant and Regimental Supply Sergeant. Captain Howder held the temporary grade of Major in the National Army from January 5, 1918, to November 30, 1920.

At the out-break of the World war Captain Howder was sent to Camp Funston, Kansas, and after being at that place for a time he served as Assistant Executive Officer on the Staff of Major General Leonard Wood. Captain Howder went to France on October 1st, 1918, and later proceeded to the theatre of operations with the 816th Pioneer Infantry. With this organization and under the supervision of the Army Engineers he was responsible in a large measure for the re-building of the Verdun-Metz Railroad. Captain Howder also shared in the responsibility for the large organization that completed the Belleau-Woods cemetery.

After receiving a permanent commission in the Regular Army as Captain of Infantry, Captain Howder was sent to Buffalo, New York, on recruiting duty and upon the conclusion of this duty he reported to the 1st U. S. Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. In September, 1924, Captain Howder came to Fort Benning and took the Company Officers' Course with the class of 1925-26. After completing the course at the Infantry School he was transferred to the Quartermaster Corps and assigned to Fort Benning and to the School Quartermaster as Chief of Supplies Branch and Property Officer.

We saw a LITTLE MAN
Arguing with TWO BIG BOZOS
And the LITTLE MAN SAID
There WOULD BE MORE WARS
And the BIG BOZOS SAID
There WOULDN'T Because:
People were TOO CIVILIZED
And anyway they were TIRED OF FIGHTING—
The more they ARGUED
The MADDER THEY GOT
And the last I saw of them
The TWO BIG BOZOS
Had the little man DOWN ON HIS BACK
And were trying to KNOCK SOME SENSE Into HIM.

"HAIR TRIGGER BAXTER" starring the versatile Bob Custer whose amazing marksmanship and daring riding maintains a continuity of thrilling action throughout the picture. It is a pleasing Western romance in which Eugenia Gilbert capably plays the leading feminine role.

"HELP YOURSELF". An Imperial comedy.

Saturday, October 30.

"THE MERRY CAVALIER", featuring Richard Talmadge, the greatest acrobat of the screen in a six reel dashing, thrilling story of mytery and suspense It is the romance of a millionaire's son, a villian and a beautiful girl in distress. Their daring feats of skill and side-splitting humor are guaranteed to create a riot of entertainment.

"VAMPING BABIES", a Blue ribbon attraction.

Sunday, October 31.

"NELL GWYN", Dorothy Gish's silk stockings play an important part in her audacious romance with the Bachelor King. This picture was actually directed and scenarized in London, England, the city Nell Gwyn lived in and loved.

"MERRY BLACKSMITH", Fables.
"KINOGRAMS".

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 1.

"THE SAP", starring Kenneth Harlan, who, raised at his mother's apron string grew up to be a coward. He entered the war, refused to go "Over the Top", was threatened with death, then went. Twenty Bosches surrendered to this trembling boob; he became a hero through his own ridiculous faults. Returned his medals to the War Department and finally succeeded in winning his fight over cowardness when, in his home town he licked his bluff. It is a story without a hero.

"GREEN ARCHER" No. 7—a deep mystery play. Who is the Green Archer?

Tuesday, November 2.

"THE FIGHTING PEACEMAKER", starring Jack Hoxie. It is a high pressure Western, featuring a lively feud between cowmen and sheepmen on the great plains. Intrigue, fights and galloping steeds in a furious chase over glorious Western scenery are the prime factors in this picture.

"BUSTER'S HEART BEAT", a Buster Brown comedy.

Wednesday, November 3.

"HER HONOR THE GOVERNOR", starring Pauline Frederick in a powerful political melodrama in which mother love is pitted against an office holder's duty to the commonwealth. It is a solution to the eternal problem of a woman's place in the political world.

"BILL GRIM'S PROGRESS", No. 1.

Thursday, November 4.

"INTO HER KINGDOM", featuring Corinne Griffith, the beautiful young screen star in tense Russian drama, vivifying the trial of the late Romanoff Imperial family. Manf of the settings are of palatial beauty. The gowns worn in this play are magnificent; they are reproductions of a wardrobe valued at over $20,000,000. The court presentation gown of pink satin contains more than 3,500 pearls embroidered into it and a train made up of 1,500 ermine tails.

"PATHE NEWS."

Friday, November 5.

"CODE OF THE NORTHWEST", featuring Sandow the Dog Star in a gripping story of the Canadian wilds. For this picture this remarkable canine actually risked his life four times. Once he swam out into the rapids to rescue the heroine; another time he leaped through a high window into a burning cabin, later he slid down a percipitous mountain and finally struggled with the heroine on the brink of a high cliff where one misstep meant a plunge to imminent death.

"MAMA BEHAVE." A Chase comedy.

Why Worry About A Car?

You either own one or you don't. You always have two alternatives. If you don't there is nothing to worry about, except getting one. If you do, you have two alternatives; either you insure it or you do not.

If you insure it you don't need to worry. If you don't, there are two alternatives; either you sustain an accident or you don't. If you don't, you needn't worry. If you do there are two alternatives; either you get damages, or you pay the other fellow. You have two alternatives each way. You either get paid by him or you don't. If you do, you're lucky. If you don't, you may sue. If you don't get a judgment, you're out of luck; if you do, he may have nothing you can attach and you're still out of luck. If you pay his damages, no need to worry. If you don't, he may sue you. If he loses, thats his worry. If he wins——.

Have you cash to pay the judgment of damages? If you have, you're lucky. If you have not, are you judgment-proof? Can he collect? These are the answers to the last two questions, no alternatives available. If you are in the Services, No to the first, and Yes to the second. Better let us pay for you.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

One of last week's Daily Bulletins was almost declared null and void as incorrectly mimeographed. Someone noted that the standing of messes for September was in it, and that the name of the Infantry School Detachment was not at the bottom. Naturally it was supposed that the list was incomplete, but upon close examination it was found that the Detachment had moved way up into fifth place. Quite a jump and we wearers of the parrot hat cords can look people in the face when they talk about their messes. Let's get higher yet.

More promotions this week. 1st Sgt. Schultze has been made Master Sergeant, Sgt. Glenn who has been performing the duties of 1st Sergeant for these many moons has at last attained the stripes that rightfully go with the job, and Melvin Fredericks can put Cpl. in front of his name.

Instructor Walt Kahler is having trouble training some of his new students in the K. P. business. Irish Saloum, assistant to Walt, is teaching them the latest steps, the Diningroom Shuffle, and the Pots and Pans Rag.

There's a story out about a certain staff sergeant whose nickname is the same as a certain web equipment whitener. It goes something like this. The promising soldier, who drives a Ford coop, by the way, was taking his best girl out the Hamilton road, when the following conversation was held.

St. Sgt.: How do you like the scenery out this way?

She: Oh, I think it's simply wonderful.

He: Well, if you'll pay for a couple of gallons of gasoline we'll see about thre miles more of it.

Some of the boys want to know what kind of shine Veale used on his hat strap.

"Old Crow" flew into the barber shop one morning early this week and saw everything in fine shape, but it was too durned cold in there so he flew out without a shave. He wonders why they don't put a stove in for Warnie and Ricky.

BOY RANGER NOTES

On Friday evening the Fort Benning Lodge 332, Boy Rangers of America, held a powwow in Ranger Woods. Supper was cooked over the campfire, and later Lieutenant Wayne Smith, Ranger Guide, led the boys in some interesting stalking games.

The Boys Rangers of America, an organization with headquarters in New York city, was organized to fiill the gap left between the age when boys are beginning to exercise initiative and the age at which they are eligible for membership in the Boy Scouts. Habits of thought, speech and deed acquired at the formative period have a most powerful influence in the later life of the individual. Chief Guide Ranger Emerson Brooks has shown a great personal interest in the Benning Lodge, which was organized only last month.

The museum of the local lodge is the inspiration for daily arrowhead hunts. Many interesting specimens have been brought in.

The Rangers are looking forward to the time when the promised cabin will be a reality. In the meantime the headquarters is a pyramidal tent, pitched in the heart of Ranger Woods.

VISITING SOVEREIGN SEES MILITARY ACADEMY

WEST POINT, NEW YORK, Oct. 21. —Her Majesty Queen Marie of Roumania, accompanied by Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas, Her Majestry's children, visited the Military Academy for a two hour period on Monday morning, October 25, 1926. During the course of their visit, the Queen was tendered full military honors, including a review by the Corps of Cadets.

Brigadier General Merch B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Military Academy, greeted the Queen and the other members of the party at the South Dock at 9:25 A. M. The United States Military Academy Detachment of Cavalry, under command of Major A. W. Holderness, acted as escort to the Queen. The Detachment of Cavalry was also at the South Dock. Major Thomas B. Catron, Infantry, and Lieutenant John T. Bissell, Field Artillery, acted as special Aides-de-Camp to Her Majesty, while the Queen was on the Post.

After the official greetings at the Dock, the Queen's party was taken on a short tour of the Post, first stopping at Cullman Hall, where the Queen inspected the tablet erected to the memory of General Peter G. T. Beauregard, of Civil War fame, who, in 1866, was offered the command of the Roumanian Army. General Beauregard was a graduate of the Military Academy and was selected as Superintendent in 1861.

Immediately upon reaching the level of the Plain from the Dock, a firing battery of the U. S. Military Academy Field Artillery Detachment fired the royal salute of twenty-one guns, the same honor accorded to our President and to all sovereigns.

The Queen's party stopped at the Cadet Chapel, also, where Mr. F. C. Mayer, organist, was playing. From the Chapel, the party returned to the clock tower, after which the Queen inspected part of the Cadet Barracks.

Upon completion of this inspection, the Queen proceeded to General Stewart's quarters, where she had a brief respite before attending the Review of the Corps of Cadets in her honor. The Review commenced at 10:30 A. M.

Immediately upon the completion of the Review, the Queen and her party were taken to the Ferry and thence to Garrison. The Queen left Garrison in her special train about 11:15 A. M., continuing her journey to Albany.

WINNERS PICKED FOR SOUTH'S GRID GAMES

By the Sports Editor.

My last week's batting average in the prophet league was eight winners picked out of eleven, and two of my three losers went down to defeat by a one point margin only. Vandy beat Georgia by 14-13, and the pesky Mississippi Aggies nosed out Louisiana State by a 7 to 6 count. I was off on the Ga. Tech-Washington and Lee fracas, but I expect to get even with the Yellow Jackets by picking Notre Dame to beat them this week end. The Tornado goes way up into Indiana to tackle the Irish and if Rockne's hard hitting Hibernians don't take the long end of the score by at least two touchdowns, I'm going to close the prophecy shop from now on.

Georgia's badly battered Bulldogs will entertain the Gator gang from the Everglades over at the educational capital of the Empire State, and should find the boys from the Hurricane and real estate regions a choice morsel to chew. Florida hasn't spread much joy among her supporters this fall and Morton, Sherlock and company will gallop gleefully over the gridiron, I believe.

Our neighbors from the Loveliest Village on the other side of the Chattahoochee tangle up with Sewanee in Montgomery, and it wouldn't surprise me at all if the poor Plainsmen get badly scratched in the melee. Neither the Purple nor the Orange and Blue Tiger has shown very shap claws so far this season, although both have proved highly indigestible as food for other carnivorous animals. The score of this game will be small. Pre-game dope may seem to favor Auburn, but this is a season of upsets, and I'm stringing along with the boys from the Tennessee mountain.

L. S. U. and the undefeated Alabama Tide will scrap it out over at Tuscaloosa, and the Crimson should keep its slate clean, in spite of the fact that Mike Donahue has his best team in several years. Alabama is due for a trimming some time this fall, but it won't be this week.

Vanderbilt plays S. P. U. at Nashville, and as I don't even know what S. P. U. stands for, I'm picking the Commodores to win.

Other games of conference teams I dope as follows:

Winner	Loser
Tennessee vs	Mississippi A. & M.
Tulane vs	Univ. of Mississippi.
North Carolina vs	N. Carolina State.
V. P. I. vs	Kentucky.
V. M. I. vs	Davidson.
Virginia vs	South Carolina
Maryland vs	Gallaudet.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

By Jack Espey.

Washington football fans have every right to call the Quantico Marine eleven their own after watching two native sons almost single-handed carry the team from down the Potomac to a 20 to 7 triumph over Catholic University at Brookland stadium. It was the third successive defeat the Marines have scored over the Cardinals.

Jack McQuade and Ed Pugh, the two in question, literally tore up the Catholilc defense to account for a pair of the Marine touchdowns, but in the end both of them had suffered the penalty of their abandoned playing. McQuade was borne off the field on a stretcher, his back painfully injured from a collision with an opponent's knee, while Pugh was led out to the sidelines from sheer exhaustion.

From the outset it seemed that with a disadvantage in weight Catholic would have a mighty hard battle on its hands, but the Cardinals' obstacle became still more difficult when McQuade and Pugh began their ripping, smashing tactics.

First McQuade and then Pugh flung themselves into openings made by the Marine linesmen, and once past the line of scrimmage, they threw off tacklers and streaked here and there for gains of from 5 to 44 yards.

The latter distance, the longest gain of the day, was credited to McQuade just before he met with his accident in the second quarter.

Two out of every three plays the Marines attempted found either McQuade or Pugh toting the ball. Without Eddie Ryckman, another star who couldn't start the game because of injuries, the Marines realized that the Washington boys were best fitted to bear the added burden of their atatck, and as a consequence little ball carrying was done by the other Qunatico backs. But when these men —Arnold, Levey, Duncan and Bukowy— were called on, they were not failing in any sense, and they gave their best in trying to follow the standard set by McQuade and Pugh.

Levey, a substitute who has been with the Marines only this season, gave an exhibition of making interference that has seldom been equaled hereabout. Much of the success of McQuade's runs was due to Levey's clearing the path of Catholic defenders.

Arnold and Duncan took up the work left off by McQuade after the latter was hurt, with little loss to the effectiveness of the Marines' attack. Bukowy, who replaced McQuade, scored the other Marine touchdown.

Zeke Bailey, captain and center; John Hough, guard, and Joe Burger, tackle, are also former Washington schoolboy stars who were in the Leatherneck lineup. Hough was the only one of the District clan who played through the entire game.

Catholic can boast of its stars today, too. There is "Big Joe" Tierney, the 240-pound guard, who halted nearly all thrusts made at his sade of the line and who left the struggle only when Coach McAuliffe ordered a substitute in. And there are Ray Foley, quarterback, and Harvey, halfback, who produced 80 per cent. of Catholic gains, including the touchdown. Bill Connors, the hefty end, who more than once frustrated a drive at the Cardinal flank, and Heiner, substitute fullback, whose defensive play was one of the brilliant factors in the game.

The light Catholic line, that is light as compared with the set of 200-pounders the Marines have there, was unable to stand its ground. In the first five minutes of play the Marines advanced to the 1 yard line, but a fumble by Pugh cost them a touchdown.

Soon after another march was completed and McQuade swept over the C. U. goal line on a 10-yard run for the first touchdown. Levey place-kicked the extra point.

During the next five minutes Catholic made it appear that the game might be an evenly-fought affair despite the Marines' advantage in beef.

An exchange of punts found the ball on the Quantico 30 yard mark from where Foley shot a pass to Harvey, and the latter squirmed 15 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Foley then tied the score with a drop-kick for the extra point.

Thereafter, however, Catholic never threatened the Quantico goal, while the sea soldiers kept up their drives and twice crossed the final white stripe.

In the second quarter McQuade's last gain before he was injured advanced the Marines to Catholic's 20-yard line. Arnold and Duncan drilled into the line for 16 yards and Bukowy hit through guard for the remaining distance. Levey's try for the point on a place kick was blocked by Connors.

The Marines opened another march in the fourth quarter, which continued for 74 yards until the last score of the game had been registered. Pugh took the ball over the line on a short buck and Levey succeeded with his place kick.

KJELSTROM NAMED FIELD CAPTAIN OF BERRY MUSKETEERS

Popular Doughboy Sergeant Will Head the Infantry on the Gridiron.

Head Coach K. L. Berry, of the Fort Benning Musketeers, has just announced the appointment of Sergeant William C. Kjelstrom as captain and field leader of the Infantry football team, and immediately the confidence of the garrison in its gridiron representatives has been restored, for the entire command recognizes in "Kelly" that natural quality of leadership which develops team work and gets results and brings people right along with him.

There was an occasion last summer when the baseball team of the 2nd Battalion, named in official orders as "Kellys" was in a woeful slump. They were missing their leader, then on furlough playing fine ball up in the Three I League. "Things wouldn't be going like this if Kelly was here," said the Doughboys, and then Kjelstrom came back from furlough, and the nine took a new lease on life, stepped out at a great rate and won the second half of the Gowdy Cup season. It was the inspiration of Kelly's leadership as well as his prowess as a diamond artist that wrought the change. The Musketeers haven't set the world on fire with their gridiron play this fall, but better things may now be expected.

Kjelstrom has captained the 2nd Battalion football team for the past three seasons and every time has led them to the garrison championship. He has been a consistent player on the Musketeer eleven, and twice has perfomred in President's Cup games in Washington. Some times at end, sometimes in the backfield, Kelly can throw forward passes, or receive them with equal facility. He is a deadly tackler and few gains are made around a flank where he is stationed.

At basketball, this 25-year-old sergeant makes one of the famous forward pair of the Infantry. Last year he scored 137 points in twelve games. In the regimental track meet of the "Lead the Way" doughboys from the Twenty-ninth, he won the half mile run and set a new regimental record. He might have gained further laurels but for a rule probihiting entries in more than one event.

Kjelstrom comes from all over the West, being born in Rerbury, Idaho, having lived in Brigham City, Utah, and having relatives at Grand Junction, Col. He came to Fort Benning on January 11, 1921, to enlist in Company "G", 29th Infantry, after a previous hitch with "F" of the 2nd, and a football career at Fort Bejamin Harrison. For three years now Kelly has been with the Headquarters company of the 2nd Battalion, but he has kept right on qualifying annually as an expert rifleman with the surety of coordination and accuracy of sight that makes him such a dangerous shot on the basketball court.

Kjelstrom is perhaps the most versatile, all around athlete in the service. His appointment as field leader of the Musketeers will be hailed with joy all through the Fort Benning garrison and in the army at large wherever Kelly has played.

Most any player in the land
Can buck the line "to beat the band"
Or pass the ball with either hand,
Like Kelly can
Like 'ell 'e can.

Most any pigskin warrior bold
Is cast in a heroic mold
And worth his very weight in gold
Like Kelly is,
Like 'ell 'e is.

Most any Captain fights to win,
But takes reverses with a grin
And praises those who "bested" him
Like Kelly does
Like 'ell 'e does.

You've known a 'guy" who used to play
Rings round Kelly every day?
Well we won't argue; but we'll say,
Like ell 'e did,
Like Kelly did. —by "AD".

SCHULTE'S TRAINED TOE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP OF GUNNERS FOR BATTERY C

The indomitable spirit on the field of sport was shown Wednesday at Doughboy stadium when Battery "C" defeated Combat Train for the championship, 3 to 0. For sixty minutes the two teams battled back and forth on the field, neither side scoring until Schulte placed plus three on "C" Battery's side of the ledger via the drop-kick route. The small score is evidence of the brand of football played —both teams putting up a stone-wall front when their goal line was threatened. This may be said more especially of "C" Battery as time after time Combat Train carried the ball down the field to within striking distance of a score, when Battery "C" would hold their opponents for downs despite varied and powerful thrusts of Combat Train.

Captain Wickliffe, Commanding the Combat Train, was heard to say after the game that "it was as good as a win". Such a remark, coming as it does from the officer commanding the losing team, goes to prove several things, chief among which are the two facts, that there was absolutely no disgrace to lose such a hard-fought game, and also the good sporting spirit which is always to be found in the 83rd.

Both teams were out to win this deciding game, as each had won 2 games and lost none so that the Battaltion Championship and a Cup were the trophies for the victors.

Combat Train was picked as the favorites—"before the game"—and there was really little to be desired in their efforts during the game except that they could not score. This is shown by the statistics of the game. Combat Train made 11 first downs to "C's" 2. Combat Train attempted 8 forward passes, 4 of which were completed for substantial gains. Battery "C" attempted 3 but only completed 1 and that was for a loss of 4 yards. In kicking the honors were about even. Schulte of "C", punting consistently for 40 to 45 yards and getting off one for 55 which was a beauty. McAuliffe, for the Combat Train, was likewise very sure and consistent with his punts. But after all is said and done, the proof of the pudding is in the eating, ergo, the championship always goes to that team which scores the most points and that is what Battery "C" has done. Captain Weston, when interviewed after the game said that he "really had nothing much to say except that he was very much gratified that his team won; that there was nothing to boast about, the margin was so small—and the Combat Train are worthy opponents."

Line-up: Combat Train: ends: Ennis and Douglas; tackles: Richbourg and Lapine; guards; Esslinger and Flynn; center: Cole; backs: McAuliffe, McMillan, Vanderpool and Arnold. Battery "C"—ends: Dodson and Gehm; tackles: Gannon and Mallard; guards: Goodman and Mullin; center: Martin; backs: Schulte, Hancock, Alleman and Moore. Substitutes: Combat Train: Hill for Lapine, Lapine for Vanderpool. Battery "C": Godwin for Goodman. Referee: Lt. Smythe. Umpire: Lt. Cross.

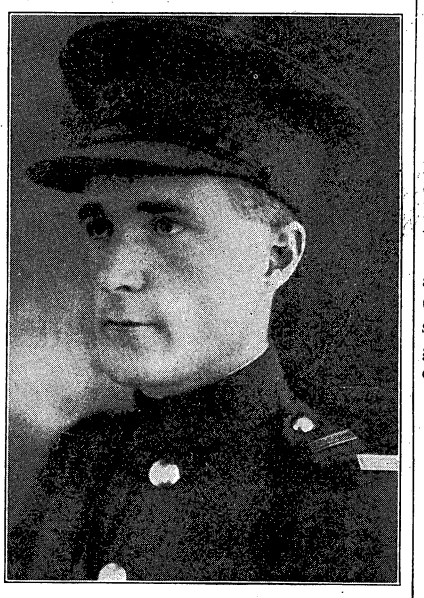
FREE- STATE OFFICERS ARE ATTENDING INFANTRY SCHOOL AT FORT BENNING

Capt. Patrick J. Berry and Capt. Joseph Dunne of the Irish Free-State Army Taking the Advanced Course

Capt. Patrick J. Berry



Capt. Joseph Dunne

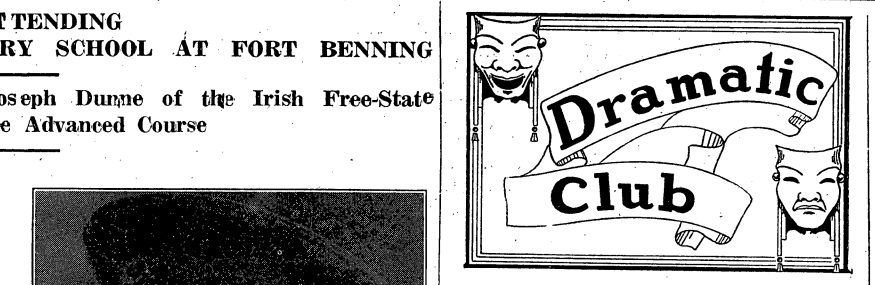
The Irish Free-State Army this year has sent a Military Mission to the United States consisting of four Officers for the purpose of attending some of the Service Schools of our Army. The mission is in charge of Colonel H. O'Neil, who is taking the course at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Captain Patrick J. Berry and Captain Joseph Dunne are taking the Advanced Course at the Infantry School.

These two Officers were first started in the Company Officers Class, but due to their exceptional military ability and also due to the fact that they held sufficient rank they were transferred to the Advanced Class. The difficulties which an Officer meets when attending a foreign Military School are very well known and pronounced; the newness and the strange surroundings of the curriculum are factors which are sometimes almost insurmountable difficulties; not-with-standing these things, Captain Berry and Captain Dunne are numbered among the superiors of the class.

Captain Berry was born in Durrow, Tulamore, Offaly, Ireland, in October 1896. He was educated at the Durrow National School, St. Finnian's College and the University College at Dublin. He was awarded an AB degree at the National University in 1917. Captain Berry joined the Irish Free-State Army Volunteers in 1917 and prior to the Anglo-Irish Truce on July 11, 1921, he commanded the Second Battalion of Engineers. He was appointed to the Irish Free-State Regular Army in 1922 and was transferred to the Quartermaster General's Department in 1924. He attended the Officers School at Curragh in 1925.

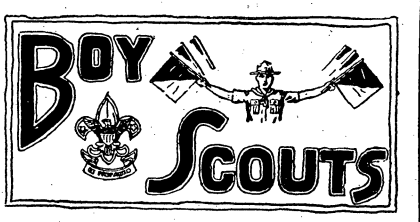
Captain Dunne was born in Portlaoiyhise, Leix, Ireland, in 1898. He attended the Christian Brothers Schools at Portlaoiyhise and also the University College at Dublin. He was awarded a BS degree at the National University in 1919 and the MS degree at the same School in 1920. Captain Dunne joined the Irish Free-State Volunteers in 1917 and served with the Second Battalion, 1st Dublin Brigade. He was commissioned in the Irish Free-State Army in 1922, being detailed in the Munitions Branch. Captain Dunne served in the Anglo-Irish conflict in 1919-21 and also in the subsequent civil conflicts in 1922-23. Captain Dunne also took the Course at the Officers Training School at Curragh.

Upon completion of the Course at the Infantry School Captain Berry and Captain Dunne will be under the orders of Colonel H. O'Neil who is now at Fort Leavenworth. Both Captain Berry and Captain Dunne assume that they will return to Ireland at once, upon the completion of the Course, and that they will be detailed as instructors in the Training School for Officers of the Irish Free-State Army.



The plays committee has recently been active in reading numerous plays and tentative selections have been made. Another presentation is promised for late November which it is hoped will eclipse the October showing of one act plays.

About thirty-five new members were added to the rolls at the presentation on October ninth and several have joined since, which gives an availability of much good and diversified material for casts, directing, staging, etc.



Capt. Gustav J. Braun, who has just returned to Fort Benning after a year's absence, is to be the Scoutmaster of Fort Benning Troop. This officer was Scoutmaster of the troop a few years ago. But we must not forget Sgt. Stewart, who has been our Scoutmaster for the past year, and is going to be Asst. Scoutmaster. Last Friday night Capt. Braun gave a short talk concerning merit badges and other things. In the future the Scouts are going on some overnight hikes and hunts. With these new scout officials we expect to have a fine troop.

Print Shop

Corporal Carl (Poker) Marchall, I. S. D., bindery foreman,is now Mr. Marchall. Poker was separated from his three chows and flop on the 22nd, and is residing in Atlanta.

Harry Smith is desirous of transferring to the Infantry School Detachment. Harry knows a good outfit and C. O. when he sees it. (Correspondent is member of the I. S. D.)

Volley ball is still relentlessly battling ennui, indolence, orneriness and pure cussedness in the old dairy barn. A half hour is devoted daily to this invigorating pastime and it puts a little pep into the boys.

Fable: Once upon a time the Print Shop had all the ratings and grades to which it is entitled.

Utilities

There's no new news in this department, but there is a big bunch of the same old grief. Stoves, radiators, broken window panes, roof jacks, leaks, lights, or what have you? Day after day we get calls on all of them, and though some people will hardly believe it, day after day we make repairs on a large number of them. This latest cold snap has brought to light any number of drafty and broken windows, doors that won't catch, and floors and walls with cracks in them. It has also waked up a lot of rusty old stoves and called them forth to the line of duty once more. And doubtless, they will perform nobly after being piped and grated and doored and what not. At any rate, we shouldn't get any orders to stop up snake holes for a few months now. The squirrels will probably be troublesome, but those we have with us always.

Billeting, Purchasing & Fiscal Branch

Captain A. L. Littell has been appointed Summary Court Officer along with his many other duties. Of course, seeing that he has such broad shoulders, and judging from his smile, that he is always in a good humor, everyone just thinks that he can carry off these duties to perfection—we of the B, P and F Branch know that he can. We are just wondering what else he will be appointed to be?

Mr. Jacob Mary, who has charge of keeping the records of the Q. M. funds, has had another batch of records placed in his safe keeping—the Constructing Quartermaster's records are now being kept by him. But we all know that Mr. Mary does not mind the work for he is a whiz when it comes to Procurement Authorities, etc.

Sgt. Detweiler starved to death on furlough lately and turned in. He only gained six pounds on furlough, now weighing, oh, plenty; we don't want to commit suicide by giving away secrets.

Sgt. Usick has about decided there are more enjoyable ways of spending his pay-day than keeping a Dodge in hot-water bottles. —Gray.

COMPANY "C".

Lt. Griffith has been on d. s. with the Infantry School Football Team at New Orleans for the past three days but is back for duty. Look out, Second Platoon.

There is a vacancy in "C" Company for Sergeant, what's the matter Smithson, are you going to re-up?

Sgt. Rayl must be bucking, he came in Sunday to prepare for the inspection on Monday morning.

We wonder what is meant by Whizbang? Disappointments are many, perfection on earth has never yet been attained.

Cpl. Rose has a package in the postoffice, it looks like the Good Samaritan would come along so our Jimmie could get his package out.

Rhodes:—Now that the cold weather is coming on the men will be crowding around Mac.

Veal:—Why would that be?

Rhodes:—Doesn't Mac always talk a lot?

Veal:—Yes, but what has that got to do with the cold weather?

Rhodes:—Hot air, my dear man.

Things we would like to know:

Why Sgt. Lang assembled the company at 4:30 P. M.?

What we would do if McGaha stopped talking?

What Sgt. Vines will serve for dinner Saturday?

What the First Sgt. would do if he lost his whistle?

Cpls. Bennett and Chastain, and our barber, Pfc. Brown, are leaving us this week to become civilians. Good luck to you boys.

TO OUR NEW MEMBERS

Welcome, welcome to you, young men,
And may you contented be,
Shake hands, shake hands, with all, and then,
Join in with the company.

ADVISE TO A RECRUIT FROM (—)

The Army is nothing like home, my dear young man,
That you will very soon see,
For here you will have no mother to care for you,
As back home in Tennessee.

So you may as well start changing your ways,
And your actions, here and there,
For you will never be able to get along,
Saying: "Oh, what do I care?"

There is no coaching, and asking you to do this,
Or that, whatever it may be,
And there's no such a thing as laying down on your job,
As you did back in Tenneessee.

—Jack Kennedy.

HQ. CO., 2ND BN.

Corporal Parris has returned from a very pleasant furlough and intends to turn out for The Infantry School Football Team. Due to the fact that he is an excellent backfield man we feel sure that he will be a great asset to the team.

The Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, is holding a pool contest, also a checker contest. Among the most prominent contestants are Corporal Gondek (Pool Shark) and Private 1st Class Carnes, who certainly knows the game of checkers, at least the old men of his home town seem to think so. Both are from this organization, therefore, they can't lose. —Lewis M. Lowe.

COMPANY "E".

Lt. Roosma recently of this organization has been transferred to Co. "F", 29th Inf., all members of this company extend their best wishes and hope that he succeeds very well in his new company which can be no other way with a man of his caliber which is considered very high by all of us.

—Jessie L. Taylor.

COMPANY "F".

That cold snap sure put the stoves up quick—Baux says that the next time he has to put up his stove by himself, he's going to break a leg and let "Tubba" put it up.

Talking about your tender hearted and gallant "Rushers" of the "weaker sex"—one member of our Company sure lost his heart when he met "Venus".

Lt. Roosma has taken the place of Lt. Smithers. We regret the loss of Lt. Smithers, but are glad that his place is filled by a man of Lt. Roosma's reputation and caliber.

Cpl. Boring has received a well deserved promotion to Sergeant. Pfc. Helveston and Pfc. Rakovec were promoted to the grade of Corporal—the good wishes and congratulations of the company are extended to this able and efficient addition to our N. C. O.

Twenty recruits assigned to our Company—more K. P.'s. Cpl. Brown sees his days of rest over—his squad of one (and that one on S D.) will probably receive some additions. —O. W. Nelson.

COMPANY "H".

One may stroll down around the area on the south end of the Parade Ground any day in the week and find something very interesting. The subject to be discussed this week is the proud owner of a very, very red head. He has charge of the Recruits of this company, and is doing some fine work in that line. The men who do not know his name, refer to his as that "Red Headed Corporal". I take this opportunity to introduce to you who read this column, Corporal Red Campbell.

The Company Team defeated the "G" Company aggregation by an overwhelming score last Sunday. It seems that the whole company starred.

I think it only fair that we give a little space to our "Top Kick" this week. This man hails from that Magnolia State and is a regular subscriber to the Belzoni Banner. Acting First Sergeant Norbert L. Craine may be seen each Sunday, out on the field of action, holding down the position of center, and trying to uphold the dignity of "H" Company in athletics as well as in line of duty.

Sergeant Berrish has returned from New Orleans, after playing in the game Sunday against Loyola. He says that they certainly had one loose hipped boy on that team. We are willing to bet that "Dutch" gave a good account of himself in the game. He usually does.

If you want to start a fight in "H" Company, just pass by the Supply Room and yell "Skunk" real loud. This seems to be a rather choice by-word around the area, and the boys can't see just why they should be deprived of it. What say boys, let's have a "Skunk" conference.

—Bernard B. Swayze.

"Boots and Saddles," the bugler called
And the hobnails dropped with a crash.
The doughboys to the saddles flew
For the thrill of the hard-earned cash.
For the call's gone out for a night patrol
And prizes are offered, too.
But honor and mettle also count,
And the glory of serving the Blue.

DITTIES OF A DOUGHBOY

Enlisted men of the 29th Infantry or having six months mounted duty to their credit have been invited to participate in a night patrol or mounted reconnoissance competition which will be held on or about Nov. 9 on some nearby terrain on the reservation. The object of the patrol according to the official memorandum will be teaching men to be good mounted messengers and accustoming them to care for their horses under adverse conditions at night. If the horses fails to stand up to the race and is found unservicable within 24 hours after the race the rider is automatically disqualified.

Enlisted attendants will be at each outlying station to assist in caring for mounts while contestant is reporting and receiving instructions. This will consist of watering, sponging, walking and loosing equipment, provided the contestant so directs. Horses will be judged and awards made the afternoon following the ride.

Ample accommodations will be made for spectators including a large scoreboard at the starting point. Communication with outlying stations will be kept up by wire and radio.

ORGANIZATION DAY
24TH INFANTRY

Beginning early Monday morning, November 1st, the members of the 24th Infantry will begin the celebration of their birthday. The regiment is entering into its 57th year having been organized n 1869 on the Mexican border.

The regiment will be assembled in the Service Club at 9 o'clock where appropriate services will take place. The regimental commander, Col. Wait C. Johnson, and other officers of the regiment will deliver addresses. The newest recruit will be given time to tell his impressions of the regiment since he has been with it.

In the afternoon a field meet will be held wherein military and athletic prowess will be matched. The messes have scheduled a "big feed" for the "boys" which everyone is looking forward to.

In the evening at 6:30 o'clock the officers of the regiment and those who at one time were members will meet at dinner in Mess Hall No. 1 after which they will go to the musical revue "Little Miss Enemy" which is being produced by members of the regiment.

Following the musical comedy the members of the regiment will hold a dance in the service club where plain and fancy dancing will be the order.

All the indications point to the old slogan: "A good time will be had by all."

"Odorno, a moth lives an awful life."

"How come, Fauntleroy?"

NOTED EVANGELIST TO SPEAK AT FORT SUNDAY MORNING

Gypsy Smith, Now Holding Meeting in Columbus, Coming to Garrison Theater.

By Chaplain Jno. T. DeBardeleben.

Since the establishment of The Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., about seven years ago, distinguished personages have visited this wonderful institutions, but no one who has a greater reputation in his particular field, or who is more widely known than the Reverend Gipsy Smith, Jr., who will deliver an address at 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning, Nov. 7th in the Garrison Theatre.

Eleven years ago in a Presbyterian church in New York Mr. Smith was converted. Since that great experience in his own life he has given himself to evanlegistic work. He has conducted evangelistic campaigns throughout the United States. Four of these have been held in the state of Georgia.

At present he is engaged in a great meeting in the city of Columbus. The entire Protestant forces are backing him in this city. Great throngs are hearing him at every service. Sunday night he preached to 4,000, at least 1,000 more being turned away for lack of room in the great tabernacle.

The messages of this man of God are not those that appeal to the emotions only, but those that touch the the mind, the will and the soul. He drives home in no uncertain terms God's claims on men and women, and the splendid personalities they may become by living for Him. He appeals to men to be big enough, and manly enough to live the four-square, up-right life for God and country.

Special music will be rendered Sunday morning by a choir composed of some of the members of The Infantry School Glee Club. Mrs. Edwin Butcher, Fort Benning's splendid pianist will be at the piano. Captain Holmes E. Dagar will sing, "O Thank Thee, Lord".

GLEE CLUB

WORLD WAR PAGEANT TO BE PRESENTED NIGHT OF NOVEMBER 11TH

The Glee Club is busily engaged with the final preparations for the World War Pageant, which the Club will present to the Garrison and surrounding civil population on the night of November eleventh at eight o'clock. This year's pageant promises to be the most beautiful and elaborate one which the Glee Club has ever presented.

Both for those who have never seen this wonderful presentation and for those who have witnessed it in years past, it is, indeed, a rare treat. The pageant is a story of the World War from beginning to end depicted by tabeleaux and music. The first tabeleaux is a representation of all of the nations which were first engaged in the terrible conflict. England, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany are portrayed by members of the Glee Club cast in elaborate and appropriate costumes. The characteristics of these particular people are brought out with children, who are all in costume and each group of children is seen playing characteristic games of the nation which they represent. French children are seen playing games and dancing while the children of Germany are shown participating in military drills.

Mars the God of War appears on the scene and scorns the playing of the children, but looks with approval on the military drill of the German tots. Mars is attracted by Germania and takes her away with him and shortly afterwards, by means of pyrotechnics, the blowing of trumpets and the shouting of German commands the commencement of the war is most impressively brought out.

Belgia is shown striving to stem the overwhelming tide of the German hordes; then England, France, Italy and the other nations join in the fight, while Uncle Sam and Columbia are seen looking peacefully on. At last Uncle Sam is shown wearing a steel helmet and a sabre and with Columbia at his side he leads hundreds of American troops into the conflict. The tremendous manpower of the United States is portrayed here. This is the high point in the pageant and it is the most thrilling and stirring representation of the American entry into the World War that has ever been produced anywhere. The pageant ends with the signing of the Armistice amid great rejoicing and celebration, which, as conceived by the author, is the appropriate spirit for Armistice Day.

MUSKETEERS MEET MEDICOS AT MEMPHIS THIS AFTERNOON

Berry's Charges Hope to Avenge Last Year's Defeat By Tennessee Doctors

The healthy meal of Bear steak enjoyed by the Musketeers at the expense of the Mercer Bruins last Saturday has made practice this week full of renewed vigor as the doughboys get ready to journey up to Memphis and give the University of Tennessee Doctors a dose of medicine Friday. Last year the sawbones from the original "Blue" city crammed the bitter pill of a 7 to 0 defeat down the unwilling and resistant throats of the solldiers, a mercury-heeled youth by the name of Sanders galloping many yards over a rain soaked field for the only score of the moist afternoon. This is another year, say the doughboys, and revenge is sweet. With Kjelstrom directing the attack, the Fort Benning garrison is confident that victory will perch on the standards of the Infantry.

The scores of the Doctors and the Doughboys against Loyola's pack of howling Wolves indicate that the Tennesseans should enter the fray favorites, but comparative scores are almost meaningless in this day and time, and the footsloggers are undoubtedly far stronger than would appear from the New Orleans result. The brilliants comeback against Mercer proves that the Musketeers have hit their real stride.

In all probability the same lineup that faced the Bears in the Stadium last week end, will take the field against the Medicos. "Fat" Franz and "Budweiser" Cornog form an efficient pair of flank guards, with Fat shining in receiving Kjelstrom's rifle shot passes. The Kelly to Franz airline is a long established one, the two doughboys having played together on Infantry and battal-

RAFAEL DIAZ SINGS HERE NOVEMBER 9th IN BENEFIT CONCERT

Garrison Theatre Scene of Gala Occasion Tuesday Night

With the tickets going at a lively rate and the boxes sold, the Infantry School Athletic Association, which is sponsoring the appearance of the famous Metropolitan Opera Company tenor, Senor Rafael Diaz, who is coming Tuesday night to the Garrison Theatre, is much pleased.

The concert has taken quite a social turn, there being many receptions and dinner parties scheduled for that night, winding up the evening with the Diaz concert. The boxes, six in number, which were divided between the Fort and Columbus, were at once snapped up. All indications point to the fact that the concert will be a huge success.

A recent letter from Mr. Mayer, manager for Rafael Diaz, contained a tentative program of the selections that will be rendered by Mr. Diaz and his accompanist, Miss Ola Gulledge, Tuesday night. Mr. Diaz has selected a splendidly balanced program of songs that display the control technique and tone quality. He has chosen from his opera repitoire the aria from Puccini's "La Tosca," "Elcevan le stelle." From the Verdi classics he has taken "La Donna e Mobile." The French school of expression has not been neglected, for we find Massenet's "Elegie," the Song of Mourning included. From the American opera of Coleridge Taylors the "Wedding Feast of Hiawatha" he has chosen the aria, "Onaway, Awake Beloved!" For those who admire the Spanish and Mexican atmosphere "La Paloma" and "Amapola," by Lacalle have been selected. Mr. Diaz has not forgotten the popular craze for the popular ballad-type, semi-classic work for the program will include Amy Woodward Finden's "Kasimiri Song" with words by Laurence Hope. This last number will be remembered as the song motif which was used in conjunction with the Valentino screen masterpiece, "The Sheik."

Mr. Diaz has as his accompanist, Miss Gulledge, a noted pianist. Miss Gulledge is to be remembered as the accompanist of Marie Tiffany, Oliver Denton, the Baritone, Josephine Lucchese, coloratura-soprano and many other famous vocal stars. During the several years of concert work Miss Gulledge has affiliated with many noted composers and instrumentalists. While working with Percy Grainger, she was impressed by the arrangement by Mr. Grainger of the "Irish Tune from County Derry." Miss Gulledge has included this number in her presentation. Nathaniel Dett's difficult composition, the "Juba Dance" is her other vehicle. Other numbers complete her portion of the program.

CPL. CURTIS BENNETT
Co. A, 15th Tank Bn.

Perhaps you've seen a small blonde-headed boy in the Musketeer backfield making tackles all over the lot and frequently breaking through the opposing line to throw hostile backs for a loss. You may have seen him skip nimbly over the turf and haul in an aerial heave, launched by the invading passer, out of the air. If you have, you have seen Corporal Curtis Bennett, Company A, 15th Tank Battalion, the subject of this sketch.

This young man who is one of the budding enlisted stars who are in time to replace the old standbys, Kjelstrom, Bertelman, and others, was born down in the state of Louisiana, in the year of grace 1904. His natal spot is a burg by name, Kentwood. After a youth spent among the pelicans and bayous of the Creole State, our hero became infected with a yearning to participate in affairs military and accordingly in June, 1923, at the tender age of nineteen he hied himself to the nearest recruiting office, talked to the grizzled sergeant in charge, and after some palaver as to the advantages of being a uniformed nephew of our Uncle Sam, he signed his name on the dotted line; gave the full history of where he was born and why; held up his hand and said "I do" to the fateful oath that binds for three long years; and was assigned to Company A, 15th Tank Battalion.

He was forthwith sent to the great Infantry training center situated out at the junction of the Chattahoochee and the Upatoi, and from then on has been one of the prominent members of the lads who conduct the caterpillar treaded whippets and heavies over the ditches and through the obstructions that mark the ninety-eight thousand acres of the Benning reservation.

After spending three years with the colors he felt the urge to take on again and accordingly he was reenlisted by Captain Kraul for another trio of anniversaries.

Bennett has been prominent in garrison athletics almost since his arrival at the station. He has performed for several seasons on the football and basketball teams representing the "Terrible" Tankers, and this makes the second season that he has had a regular place behind the line of the Big Blue Team. He broke into last year's President's Cup game against the 'Gyremes in the Griffith Stadium. So far this year he has been just about the best defensive back on K. L.'s squad and in addition has developed into something of a lineplunger. Great feats are expected of him when the footsloggers tangle up with Pugh, McQuade and company in this year's service classic.

Besides his football prowess, Bennett is somewhat of a basketball player. Although the Tanks have never taken a very prominent position in the cage standings, Bennett has always been one of their best bets, and some of these days he is expected to star as a net artist.

It is believed that The Infantry School command is going to do the fine thing and fill the Garrison Theatre Sunday morning at 11:00 to hear this excellent program. It isn't often that a great body of troops has the opportunity of hearing such a distinguished speaker as we will have Sunday, therefore, no one can afford to miss this privilege.

All organization and unit commanders are cordially invited and requested to extend the invitation to the members of their commands. A special invitation is also extended to the ladies and larger children of Fort Benning.

It is expected that the Commandant, General Edgar T. Collins, and several members of his Staff, together with the members of the choir, will be seated on the rostrum. The program will begin promptly at 11:00 o'clock. Therefore each one is requested to be in his place at that time.

The officer in charge of the theatre has promised that the building will be heated. Ushers will be on hand to seat the people and military police will direct the parking of cars.

The cooperation of every one is earnestly requested that this Sunday, Nov. 7th, 1926, will be a red letter day in the life of The Infantry School; a day when all records are broken for the best church attendance in the history of Fort Benning.

ion teams for years. Cornog, a former West Point gridder, can also drag them out of the circumambient and is a deadly tackler.

In the tackle berths two former Army stars will appear. Both Lieutenants Mack and Griffith performed for West Point during their cadet days. They are heavy and fast and few gains are made against the Benningites by thrusts at the tackles.

Flanking the pivot man will be "Weelie" Schaefer and Steve Stanovich. The former is a West Pointer, while Steve starred on the strong 3rd Corps Area team before coming to the Georgia station in 1925. At center Mlynczak, versatile athlete from the 2nd Division, will do the snapper back's job, and do it in good style. He is one of the fastest men on the squad.

Behind the line are "Kelly" Kjelstrom, captain of the team; Mitzen, MacKechnie and Thompson. "Kelly" is a Benning veteran, having played in two President's Cup games in Washington. His normal position is at end, but this year he has been shifted to quarterback on account of his fine generalship and all around ability. He can run, pass and kick—a real triple treat man, as the experts say so often. Mitzen, a light but driving back from the 29th Infantry, has developed this year into a terrific line plunger. His defensive work is above par. Captain MacKechnie, a student officer, is a player of great experience. He is a Dobie product from Gil's University of Washington days. "Tommy" Thompson is playing his first year on the big Blue team, but is rapidly developing into a fast and elusive man, dangerous in an open field. He will probably do the punting for the doughboys.

Of this array, Cornog, Mack, Schaefer, Stanovich, and Kjelstrom played against the Memphis Medicos last year. The others are either new arrivals at the Chattahoochee post, or were second stringers in 1925.

To relieve the starters, Coach K. L. Berry has a strong force of reserves. Robinson, May and Carpenter are available for the posts at the extremities of the line. K. L. himself sometimes mixes in the fracas from a tackle post and no better linesman is to be found than the former Texas University luminary. Others available for tackle or guard include "Big Bertha" Bertelman, 220 pound Hawaiian, Finney, Wargo, Newman, McGuire, Costello and Stewart. In the backfield the coaches have Bennett, Lindsey, Cole and Deford available for relief duty.

Infantry's probable starting lineup with numerals and weights:

NAME	Num.	Wt.	Pos.
Franz	45	170	L. E.
Griffith	37	186	L. T.
Schaefer	35	182	L. G.
Mlynczak	25	184	C.
Stanovich	9	176	R. G.
Mack	33	182	R. T.
Cornog	31	180	R. E.
Kjelstrom	29	165	Q.
Thompson	14	144	L. H.
Mitzen	5	163	R. H.
MacKechnie	38	184	F.

The undertaking of having these noted stars appear at Fort Benning is a large one, however, the response of true music lovers to the call of the benefit performance has dispelled the slightest doubt of the success of the venture from the minds of the sponsors. Both artists and their manager have cooperated in every way to make the concert a success for the Athletic Association, realizing that the proceeds less the guarantee and expenses are to go to the fund for athletics and recreation of the personnel of the Fort.

Both Mr. Diaz and Miss Gulledge are native Americans, both being born in San Antonio, Texas. It is understood that Mr. Diaz is to remain at Fort Benning for several days after his concert as he is much interested in the army and its life.

The Fancy Dress Party at Biglerville last Friday was one of the gala affairs of the season. Tables were arranged around the hall which was appropriately decorated. The tables were bedecked with black cats, pumpkins, orange and black streamers and lighted Jack-o-Lanterns, and fall flowers. About eight o'clock witches and fairies, devils, beautiful foreign ladies, handsome shieks bums and jail-birds began to arrive and at 8:30 mess call was sounded and the dinner was brought on. Five courses were served and between each the motley crowd of revelers danced. At ten the tables were cleared and guests came trooping in. During the Grand March there was much shouting and sliding over the polished floor, and the prizes were awarded for the most appropriate costumes. A large black witch who had been sweeping couples off the floor turned out to be Colonel J. M. Walling and was awarded the first prize for the men. Mrs. Murphy who wore an attractive black costume and a white wig won the ladies' prize. The music ended at midnight and the ghosts and goblins dispersed into the darkness.

Miss Guenn Guthrie arrived on the Post last Wednesday to be the guest of Major and Mrs. Maxon S. Lough until Christmas.

The ladies of the 15th Tank Battalion will meet on Tuesday at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Edgar Miller, the wife of Major Miller, commander of the Battalion, to form a bridge club. Several ladies who have formerly been identified with the Tanks have been invited to meet and play bridge with the ladies who are in the Battalion at present.

The Commanding Officer and the officers of the 24th Infantry gave an Organization Day dinner last Monday. Former members of the regiment and organization commanders were cordially invited to be present. A Musical Revue at the 24th Infantry Service Club proved most amusing and enjoyable entertainment for the guests.

The Protestant Chapel Guild will have a called meeting next Monday, November 8th, at 10:15. It is very urgently requested that enough ladies attend this meeting to make it possible to formulate the plans of the year so that the important work of the Guild may be carried on.

The officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry are giving a masquerade at the Officers' Hop Room tonight. Invitations were sent out the early part of the week.

Captain and Mrs. Edward M. Almond took a table of fourteen at Biglerville Friday evening in honor of Miss Jane Bonnycastle. The guests were Captain and Mrs. A. D. Bruce, Captain and Mrs. Bayne, Captain and Mrs. John Rice, Miss Jane Bonnycastle, Capt. J. D. Forsythe, Captain and Mrs. Clarkson, Mr. Williams-Foote, and Captain Kennedy.

The Controlled Ride of last Sunday was called off due to the rain, but the Officers' Club will conduct a Drag Hunt next Sunday, leaving the hangars on the Aviation Field on Indian Head Road at 8 a. m. No breakfast will be served this Sunday.

The Officers' Club held a coon hunt last Wednesday. The week before last the officers and dogs succeeded in catching a possum.

Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Kingman gave a dinner party at Biglerville before the Hop on Friday. The guests were: Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu, Mr. and Mrs. Lumpkin, Colonel and Mrs. McCammon, Colonel and Mrs. Bond, Captain and Mrs. Lopez, Miss Dorothy Gowen, Miss Katharine Kingman, Major Burns and Lt. Bragan.

Lieutenant Stokes gave an informal tea after the Mercer-Benning game last Saturday at the 83rd Field Artillery mess for the team. Among those present were Miss Bonnycastle, Miss Jane Bollinger, Miss Peggy Lampke, Miss Mary Pendleton, Lt. Griffith, Lt. Hurts, Lt. Strobehn, Lt. Grubbs, Lt. Mack, Lt. Cornog and Lt. Schwarze.

Miss Jane Bonnycastle left yesterday for her home in Philadelphia, stopping off at the Naval Academy for the week end.

The 29th Infantry Bridge Club meets Monday morning, the first Monday of the month which is its regular date of meeting, a 10:30 at the Chapel.

The Glee Club is devoting much of its time at present to the music for the Armistice Day Pageant which will be presented in the stadium the evening of Thursday, November 11th.

The Infantry School Bridge Club met Thursday of last week at the Polo Club at 2 p .m. Prizes were pretty china dishes and were won by Mrs. Gale, Mrs. Eisenhower, Mrs. Grady and Mrs. Brine. The next meeting of the Bridge Club will be on next Thursday, Armistice Day, the eleventh and all the ladies of the command who play bridge are very cordially invited to be present. No advance information need be given, just come and play.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert Oliver gave a very gay hop supper last Friday at their home before the Masquerade for Major and Mrs. Dan Card, Mrs. Oliver's mother, Mrs. Towshend. Major and Mrs. Landis, Major Landis' mother, Mrs. C. B. Landis; Lt. and Mrs. Smithers, Lt. and Mrs. Beckley, Miss Betty Collins, Capt. Barnett, Miss Mary Pendleton, Lt. Strobehn, Lt. Hurt, Lt. W. W. Cornog, and Lt. George Holoman, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Davis.

The Infantry School Athletic Association is presenting a concert by Senor Rafaelo Diaz, famous tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, at the Garrison Theatre next Tuesday evening Tickets may be bought at the Officers' Club, Garrison Theatre or at Humes and Wheats in Columbus.

Captain and Mrs. Clarke Kent Fales have issued invitation for a tea next Sunday to meet Mrs. Kingsland.

Mrs. John F. Landis gave a bridge luncheon for her mother, Mrs. Landis on Friday.

Captain and Mrs. F. A. Irving had as their guests lat week-end for the Masquerade Mrs. Irving's sister, Miss Margaret Dowe, and her brother, Mr. Dowe and his wife. Captain and Mrs. Irving gave a hop supper before the dance for Miss Dowe and an informal tea at their home after the Mercer-Benning game on Saturday.

Mrs. R. C. Smith gave a very pleasant party on Monday afternoon of six tables of bridge. Mrs. Collier won the first prize which was six dainty cut work napkins. Mrs. Hurdis won second, six blue and white linen luncheon napkins. After five frames of bridge the tables were laid and a delicious fruit salad, cake and coffee were served by candle light.

The Woman's Club met last Monday at the Polo Club and a very intertaining program was presented.

The Informal Horse Show was held on Wednesday afternoon at the 29th Infantry Paddock near Block 21. There were twelve classes for ladies, officers and enlisted men, starting at 1:30 and showing until 5.

Mrs. Karlstad invited the younger set in for a supper party after the horse show, in honor of Miss Bonnycastle, who is leaving for Annapolis in a few days.

Mrs. Wessels gave a luncheon on Tuesday for Miss Bonnycastle, Mrs. A. D. Bruce, Miss Mary Pendleton, and Miss Dorothy Gowen.

Mrs. Fountain gave a luncheon on Wednesday before the Horse show for Miss Bonnycastle.

Our devout Republican, Cpl. Gaffney, has just returned from another 90-day furlough. Three 90-day furloughs a year for that G. O. P. Not so bad.

Our beloved 1st Sgt. Jacob A. Barton was discharged the 31st of October and re-enlisted 1st of November. We're all glad he didn't leave us.

Another well deserved promotion was made last week. Pvt. 1st Cl. Geller has been made corporal. Congratulations Corporal.

Six lucky men are leaving on furlough this pay day. We all hope they have a good time and come back strong enough to do duty.

Tis a curious fact,
And a fact very old.
You keep a fire hot,
By keeping it cold.

"No wonder me darling is crosseyed"
Said love sick Pat to his mother,
"For her eyes are so pretty,
That each want to look at each other."

This being pay day week we will not say just what the boys are doing. Well, anyway, I didn't have any luck.

The boys are expecting that some day Becker will turn himself into a knot. They didn't say what kind of a knot.

Our new barber, Pvt. Hughes, formerly a Cpl. in Co. C, is doing fine work.

Cpl. Alle has just returned from a 60-day furlough, which he spent in the city famous for its BEANS.

Jack Kennedy.

Hq. Co. 2nd Bn.

Cpl. Hedge, Pvts. Ricker, Lamastus and Escontres have all just returned from furlough. They all state that they had a wonderful time and are now ready for duty.

Pvts. Bailey, Palmer R., Lay, Warren, and Cook, all departed at 6:00 P. M. November 1st, 1926, on furlough. The Whole Company wishes them all a very good time.

Lewis M. Lowe.

CO. "F"

Eleven recruits joined the company this week. Eighteen more to come. They are a welcome addition to our company and a very promising bunch of Rookies.

Sgt. Lance, Cpl. Duncan, PFC. Abernathy and Pvts. Nelson, Watters and Higginbotham reluctantly turned in their furloughs around the 1st. They all declared that they had a wonderful time, but seemed to take an active interest in the company affairs, so they will probably out-live the effects of their furloughs.

Pfcs. Barnes and Dorsey and Pvts. Parm and Suratt are taking furloughs this month. Good time to you boys.

O. W. Nelson.

CO. "G".

Our first sergeant, Bert Plummer has gone on a thirty day furlough and left it to Sergeant Swaney. We wonder what he is going to do with his "Flying Ford" since he hasn't so much time to keep it in shape.

Corporal Simpson, better known as war set, has just returned from furlough. States that he is very glad to get a chance to visit the mess hall.

Our Company Clerk, who is now working at headquarters, had a couple of days off. Hard luck Sergeant had to eat "Castor Beans" to break into the hospital.

—Alfred Herring.

CO. "H".

The Company team played the First Bat. Hq. Co. a game of football last Sunday. After about an hour's hard scrimmage, Ellis managed to punch one over for the only score of the game. If we are able to recuperate soon enough after the Georgia - Auburn game we will wish to play them again next Sunday.

We have been telling you about this fellow "Kelly," but he came forward in the game Saturday and showed it to you. Any way, we didn't "Tell You No Lie."

We notice that Second Bat. Hq. Co. has at last decided to put up those flues that we were wondering about. Where is the steam plant, Sergant?

Corporal McAdams and Pvt. Easterling have returned to us, after a months absence on Furlough. They both seem to be anxious to begin to do duty. I am quite sure that there will be plenty of it for them to do.

—Bernard B. Swarze.

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER
By Sjovall.

Lord, send me back to the Twenty-ninth,
The outfit that Leads the Way.
There let me soldier day and night,
And my soldierly talents display.

Let me go back to the snap and the thrill,
Of squads right front into line,
Let me go out with the troops to drill,
I'll surely like it, it's fine.

Give me the feel of a Springfield butt,
And let me pop the sling,
I'll show You that I'm not an ignorant mutt,
I'll make those rifles sing.

Give me a bayonet, black as coal,
And a piece of slippery Blitz,
I'll make the darn thing shine like gold,
Fit to hang in the Ritz.

Let me run over Bouton hill,
After an unseen foe,
I'll put my best in with any of them,
Try me and watch me go.

Give me the weight of a full field pack,
Rolled neat and full of equip,
I'll put the darn thing on my back,
And tote it without any slip.

Now that's all I ask, I ask no more,
Just give me the chance again,
To show I can soldier, and make it good,
To soldier forever, Amen.

THE SOJER

A PAY DAY LAMENT
By Jack Kennedy.

A soldier boy so carefree
Was wonderin' what to do
With the little money
He from the guv-ment drew.

His daily work is over,
His mind's awhirlin' round
A-thinkin' what to do
As tinklin' coins sound.

He counts his bills, he counts his change;
Once; twice, and yet again.
Figurin' if it's plenty
His pleasures to attain.

"I need a litle more," says he,
"Then I'll be sittin' great,
To take my fair one out tonight
In that cross-the-river state."

And so into a tent he goes,
To see what he can make;
For him and his fair damsel
To go out with a stake.

The cards are dealt, his hand is fine
He's callin' every bet.
And if his money'd just held out
He'd be a-raisin' yet.

But now his last dime's in the pot,
Just waitin' for a call
To be made on that last raise
That took his little all.

The hands are shown. His shoulders droop,
His head' a-hanging low.
For the other lucky gambler
Had him beaten from the go.

"Oh, what a cruel world this is,"
So thinks our soldier boy.
"If I had kept the coin I had,
What pleasures I'd enjoy."

THE TROUBLES OF A MAIL ORDER MAN

By James R. Morrison

Born in Texas, a son of the soil, rode the ranges and sailed the mighty deep, traveled in the States from east to west and north to south. He fought in the Mexican revolution, and as the old saying goes, wore a sergeants chevrons on his arm and a medal on his breast.

Here is a young American who has quite a unique record, enlisting in the U. S. Army less than eighteen months ago, blowing into Fort Benning, with a pair of blue overalls and brogan shoes on; standing six feet tall and weighing not more than 113 pounds; who now tips the scales at 160.

He immediately proceeded to cop the job of mail orderly, and then his troubles began. After making a close study of the methods used by the mail order house this young soldier figured out a scheme whereby he could beat the game—to purchase and pay as he went. The men of the company were never quite able to understand just where this soldier's ready cash came from for all these purchases. However, the cold facts finally came to light. After getting himself financially so far in the hole that everything began to look black, he decided that, "It's better to die an unnatural death, but an easy one." Letters began to arrive every day—"that is duns for payments";—after receiving nine in one afternoon—which to his way of thinking was all out of proportion—he concluded that the time had arrived to give up the ghost—not a spiritual one, but a worldly one. All mail was promptly returned with the following notation DECEASED not in company——. However, he had guessed wrong, for these old "hawkshaw willies" were not to be lead off the trail so easy by a young long horn from the Lone Star State, for in course of time the C. O. began to receive letters of inquiry about their client. After due process of investigation it was found out that this soldier was very much alive and quite active.

The C. O. instructs this young Buckie to pay $10.00 per month until all these outstanding obligations are met. To make a long story short, this young gentleman of all vocations and avocations figures that with scientific manipulation of his budget he will probably be able to pay out within the next five years. His advice is "Soldiers pay as you go"—with the capitol GO.

THE SAND RAT

The sand rat liveth in the pit,
He marketh every shot—
He turns the dis kand flips it back;
And then he shows the spot.

From morn till night he labors there,
And gives you all you make;
Don't swear because he fails to find,
The shot that "hit the lake".

If you have made a string of fives,
Do not begin to brag,
The next one may be signaled back—
With that "Mysterious Rag".

The Sand Rat is a kindly chap,
And wants to treat you fair,
But all that goes "on paper" here
Must show "on paper" here.

If you are sure you hit the bull,
And want to make a "holler",
Unroll your greasy little wad,
And pony up the Dollar.

The man behind the firing point,
Is ready to be paid—
He was a Sand Rat yesterday,
To-day he's "on parade".

He'll drink a health to you to-night,
And give a rousing cheer,
For keen-eyed Sand Rats in the pit,
The dollar buys the Beer.

Note—First stanza found written on cartridge box.

CHORUS:
Hallelujah, I am a Sand Rat.
Hallalujah, I am a bum—
Hallelujah, I am a Sand Rat,
Revive me with Rum.

Library and Service Club

There were many improvements made in and around the Club in the past month and, as the winter approaches, we are planning numerous things for the amusement of the personnel of the Garrison. There is no reason why the Service Club can not be made one of the most popular places in the post. The dances will start Wednesday, November 10th, and a large crowd is expected to turn out.

Music will be furnished by the 29th Infantry orchestra, which has performed so splendidly in the past.

The library is now undergoing improvement, and we hope soon to be able to add some of the very latest books to our present collections. Traveling Library No. 4 has arrived at the library. It contains some of the latest fiction published.

The Stew Gent

Something new has been inaugurated under the subject of "Methods of Instruction" for the Advanced Class this year; joint debates are in order this year and each member of the class is required to state to the school secretary his preference of subjects for debate. The list of subjects was gotten out by Committee "H" of the Fifth Section. Committee "H" notifies the officers of the subjects assigned to them exactly one week before the debate is to take place. Due to the odd number of officers in the Advanced Class, not the number of odd officers, it will be necessary for some officers to debate twice. The latest report from the grape-vine wireless, before going to press indicates that there are not a great number of candidates for taking on additional duty of this kind.

The subjects for debate and the officers taking the affirmative and the negative sides together with the place of holding the debate and the time is given below:

November 8th, 3:20 P. M., Assembly Hall No. 2, subject, "That the present system of Army promotion should be changed so as to include some form of promotion by selection." Affirmative: Captain Frederick A. Irving; Negative: Captain Joseph L. Tupper. November 8th, the same subject in Assembly Hall No. 3, at 3:20 P. M. Affirmative: Major Montesinos; Negative: Captain Albert F. Christian. November 8th, same subject in Assembly Hall No 4, at 3:20 P. M. Affirmative: Captain George A. Corbin; Negative: Captain Andre Lopez.

The date, time, place and subject for debate for other members of the Advanced Class will be announced in this column in our next issue.

"Handsome Harry Manning has returned to the fold and is juggling quads, picas and galleys. Handsome was dischargged from the I. S. D. in July, and tried a month of the Great Outside but decided that the old I. S. D. and Print Shop were the "Better 'Ole."

"Bill" Garvey, linotype operator who was loaned to the swimming pool to serve as a life guard during the past season, is again grinding out etaoins and shrdlu's at his old machine.

Sgt. Lawrence E. Doll, familiarly known as "Heels" or "Time Card" was discharged on last Friday and is on furlough from a recent operation for appendicitis.

TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

W. O. John Nelson Wolfe is now on duty in the office of the Motor Repair Shop, relieving W. O. W. W. Green, who is now in charge of the wood cutting detail adjacent to the Logging camp.

Lt. Colonel A. B. Warfield, Quartermaster, has taken charge of the Rail and Animal Transportation, this in addition to his other duties. Captain Fred T. Neville having been relieved of this duty, is now in charge of Motor transportation.

UTILITIES

It's nice to be Fire Marshal and Utilities Officer all in one, then, in cases of emergency, the Fire Department can help out. For instance, you notice all the nice white guards which have been put up on telephone guy wires around? Chief Willis and his merry men did it, in addition to their regular job of painting fire hydrants.

A man went on a coon hunt, got to looking around for muscadines on the ground, and found a rabbit's nest. Ask Capt. Littell, he knows.

SUPPLIES BRANCH

Property Office

Lieutenant Foelsing left Fort Benning on November 1st, for his new station at Fort Slocum, New York.

Captain Howder is announced as Salvage Officer, "in addition to his other duties."

Warrant Officer J. K. Rogers reported to the hospital for a serious operation last week. His friends are requested to all call on him and do what they can to cheer him up. His absence is keenly felt at the Fuel Office.

Staff Sgt. Kretchmer, a new arrival, is now in charge of the Fuel Office, and is handling the situation satisfactorily.

Mr. J. W. Perrin is in the midst of moving from Georgia into Alabama. He had rather be an Alabama Coon than a Georgia Cracker.

Mr. O. F. Jones has finally persuaded the Medical Officers to take part of the bandages off. He is now using both eyes instead of one.

LAUNDRY

We are glad to welcome Mrs. Reddy, forelady of the assorting department, back from a fifteen day vacation spent down in New Orleans.

Sam Hoskins accidentally shot himself while hunting. One of the wounds is fatal, but his friends are glad to hear that the other one is not serious.—Winnebago City (Minn.) Enterprise.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

When all the witches and goblins are gathered together on Hallowe'en and begin to stir their cauldrons and talk in their shrill voices, we know that something is brewing and you'd better watch out.

And something did brew, for did not one of the most enjoyable parties take place on Friday, October 29th, at 3:30 in the Hop Room? All the boys and girls on the post came dressed in costumes of various kinds. The party was given for the benefit of the school and was sponsored by the teachers. Miss Elizabeth Mizell and Miss Albena Schimek were chairmen. Several of our friends from the city came out to help make the party a success and also some of the subdebs on the post aided us.

The room was transformed into a bewitching place. Witches, bats and cats adorned the walls and orange and black streamers were festooned from post to post. The decorations were made by the children during their drawing periods.

Booths were placed about the room, where ice cream and cunning little Dolly pops were on sale. There was also a fish pound, grab-bag and a Pumpkin Face which afforded much fun. Another interesting feature was the fortune-teller, who told many mysterious things that would happen in the near future. Hers was a very popular attraction; the part was played by Miss Kate Synder from Columbus. Through the courtesy of Col. Williams our ice cream was donated.

During an intermission we were entertained by several of Miss Anna Dozier's talented pupils. They were: Caroline Calloway, clown; Inez Rothschild, vamp; Frances Green, fairy, and Emily Ausfeld, old-fashioned girl.

Another thing that added much to the festivities was the delightful music played by the 24th Infantry band.

All together our party was a big success and we want to thank all of our friends for helping to make it so.

Gen. Hines' Address to Reserve Officers

In a recent address before the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, which was in convention at Norfollk, Virginia, Major General John L. Hines, Chief of Staff of the Army, thoroughly covered the past activities of the Organized Reserves and gave some indications of future War Department policies on the subject in a very brilliant address, which follows:

It gives me pleasure again to attend a convention of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States. During my four years in the War Department I have come to know thoroughly the commendable purposes and accomplishments of this association. Your support and interest not only has been an incentive to our efforts, but has caused you to give us much valuable assistance and advice.

Your annual conventions constitute an excellent occasion upon which to analyze our progress in the fulfillment of the National Defense Act. Such an analysis is highly desirable if we are to secure that benefit from experience which is essential to progress. Therefore, in my talk of today I will attempt to discuss those current subjects which I consider most important in our field of common interest.

When we look back we find that distinct gains have been made with the project for the Organized Reserves. Our satisfaction with that progress depends upon the basis by which we measure our condition. If we apply the standard of our enthusiastic expectations after passage of the National Defense Act of 1920, then we are bound to feel disappointment. On the other hand, if we consider the advance of the Organized Reserves with respect to other elements of the Army of the United States, then we may feel elated. Of course, satisfaction should be tempered by realization of the fact that the Organized Reserves were due to make comparatively greater strides by reason of their more recent creation.

In 1922 provision was made to train 630 reserve officers for fifteen days, under the limitations of an appropriation of $250,000. In 1926 provision was made for fifteen days' training of 16,000 reserve officers under an appropriation of $3,674,800. Distinct progress has been made with respect to the organization and procedure to assure full consideration for the Organized Reserves. Before the World War administration of all military elements, except the Regular Army, was largely centered in the War Department. The National Defense Act provided a basis for the decentralization our World War experience had indicated as essential to a speedy mobilization. Such a step meant that an increased scope of interest was apportioned to chiefs of branches, supply services and territorial commanders. Work upon the mobilization plans served to initiate all these offices into the problems of our new organization and I believe they now are prepared to serve well the interests of all components of the Army of the United States.

Within the War Department all offices are so organized that each problem is considered with respect to its effect upon the Organized Reserves as well as all other components. It has been our constant endeavor to so organize as to realize the one-army idea. To do this we follow the guiding principle that any proposed action must be considered with respect to its effect on each and every component.

Distinct progress has been noted in local combinations of interest between the Organized Reserves and Regular Army. The longer these two components work together, the more will they appreciate each other and the better will they be prepared to interchange personnel to suit the requirements of a general mobilization.

The procurement of reserve officers has progressed throughout the year. In September the increase by procurement amounted to 1,994 reserve officers, 1,111 being in the grade of second lieutenant. The total strength of the Reserve Corps, exclusive of those holding both Reserve and National Guard commissions, is 97,878. The losses during the last month amounted to 337, making a net monthly gain of 1,657 reserve officers. The losses were mainly due to death or failure of reserve officers to sign the form required prior to issue of a new commission. There has been a steady increase for a number of years without any definite provisions for elimination and discharge. There are at present about 30,000 unassigned reserve officers of whom the majority—about 20,000—are in the grade of second lieutenant. The other 10,000 unassigned officers are generally surplus in the grades of colonel, lieutenant-colonel and major. This surplus of 10,000 officers in higher grades, due to promotion of former emergency officers, is in excess of the entire requirements of the plans for six field armies.

An interesting comparison is obtained from the figures on the officers who were in the Regular Army, National Guard and Reserve Corps in June, 1926, and the officers who, on November 11, 1918, were in the American Expeditionary Forces. The overseas strength, including men en route, was at that time 2,003,935. We now have 62 major-generals as against 62 in the A. E. F. on November 11, 1918; 227 brigadier-generals as against 197; 1,814 colonels as gainst 773; 4,241 lieutenant-colonels as gainst 1,348; 13,271 majors as against 4,995; 28,994 captains as against 17,225; 31,269 first lieutenants as against 27,313; and 48,397 second lieutenants as against 31,059. The June total was 128,275 as against 83,006 in the A. E. F.

Another point which merits our consideration is the respective ages at which officers may attain corresponding grades in the Officers' Reserve Corps and in the Regular Army. Of two young men entering the military service at the age of twenty-one, it is possible for the one who goes into the Reserve Corps to attain the grade of major at the age of thirty-one, whereas the other probably would not attain the same grade in the regular service until the age of forty-eight. Similarly, the officer in the Reserve Corps might reach the grade of colonel at the age of thirty-nine, whereas the one in the regular service probably would not reach that grade until the age of sixty-one.

Many reserve officers have expressed dissatisfaction at the present system of assignment and promotion. Figures indicate that collectively reserve officers have received more than a full share of rank. However, there undoubtedly exist many inequalities which justify a feeling of discrimination between individuals. Such inequalities were not entirely avoidable. The War Department did not wish to lose the valuable interest and services of the World War veterans, so proceeded with the organization of the Officers' Reserve Corps before completion of the initial mobilization plans which were essential to the ascertainment of requirements by grade in commissioned personnel.

The assignment of reserve officers is closely connected with the question of promotion. Some assigned oficers are unable to devote any time to military activities. This throws an additional burden on those other officers who endeavor to maintain a high standard for their unit. A further difficulty lies in the fact that some surplus officers are attached to units and feel that such a position tends to unfavorable discrimination against them in the matter of promotion.

We can not hope to undertake much advance in the scope of active training. Even were the appropriations to be made available, existing facilities would soon reach the limit of satisfactory utilization. Some mprovements will be made in the method of apportionment of funds for training. We propose to institute a procedure which not only will give training to the maximum number of officers, but also will enable designation a sufficient time in advance to permit full personal arrangements and other essential preparation.

The Officers' Reserve Corps has reached a total which assures an adequate number of reserve officers for the initial requirements of our mobilization plans. To my mind, there are four definite ends to which we should now devote our attention with a view to improvement of the Organized Reserves. First, we may increase the value of active training. Experience has already brought progress in this respect, but we should continue thought and experiment with a view to securing the greatest possible benefit to reserve officers. Another objective is to make provision that active training becomes available to those officers through whom it will bring greatest benefit to the nation. Improvement of the standard of inactive training is a third objective, and last, but not least, it is desirable to increase cohesion by improvement of the esprit and teamwork of units.

Our present problems may be summed up in the category of quality rather than of quantity. Final analysis shows this quality will depend on the individual enthusiasm and interest of the members of the Officers' Reserve Corps. The Organized Reserves will continue to be representative of the voluntary and patriotic contributions of time and interest by reserve officers.

The Reserve Officers' Association has rendered valuable assistance to the development of the reserve project. Your members have been instrumental in carrying the movement forward from the inception of the idea to its present advanced development. They have personal knowledge of the degrees of success which meets various measures and are capable of giving advise on the feasibility of proposals for remedial action. I hope that this association will continue to exercise its invaluable services in sponsorship of the reserve movement.

In this, my last appearance before your convention prior to relinquishment of the office of Chief of Staff, I thank the officers and members of the Reserve Officers' Association for their loyal and valuable efforts in behalf of our national defense. You and your fellow members have given unstintingly of your time and resources. It is a highly patriotic service for which you have carned the gratitude of your country. With a full appreciation for its value, I wish the Association every success in a continuation of its activities and endeavors.

WHO'S WHO!

The 29th Infantry is the crack demonstration unit of the army. The "Lead the Way" doughboys have been stationed at Fort Benning to demonstrate the latest and most up to date infantry technique and training for the instruction of student officers in the world's greatest infantry officers' training center. An assignment to command of this organization is, therefore, a high tribute to the leadership and ability of the officer designated for this important duty. When Colonel James B. Gowen, Infantry, was assigned to command the 29th Infantry on June 16, 1925, the powers-that-be showed their confidence in his ability. Under his command the regiment has consistently lived up to its motto.

The military career of this native of Brooklyn began in 1894 when he was appointed a Cadet at the Military Academy, succeeding Col. Frank S. Cocheu, now Assistant Commandant here, from the 6th District of New York. Graduating from the Academy in time to take part in the Santiago Campaign of 1898, Colonel Gowen saw many years of active war service with the 16th Infantry, spending three years in the Philippine Islands. He was at various times Acting Adjutant of the regiment, Quartermaster and Comissary and commanded companies B, C, I and K. He was active in the suppression of the insurrection and assisted in installing and supervising the first civil government tried in the islands under American rule. This was at Malabon, just north of Manila.

Colonel James B. Gowen, Infantry, U. S. A.

In 1900 Colonel Gowen was ordered from Aparri to join Co. K in Nueva Viscaya, where he was to act as military governor of that Province. He was directed to take to various stations along the road fifty head of stock, 36 new army mules from the states and the rest native ponies and American horses. The trip was, of course, to be made overland herding the animals along through the country over the roughest kind of trails with practically no bridges. To accomplish this feat he was given 9 civilian teamsters and 3 or 4 soldiers returning from sick in hospital. The mission was accomplished, but with far reaching results, if the Colonel himself is to be believed. Let us quote his own words on the subject: "None of them (the teamsters or the soldires) had ever handled a mule before, nor knew anything about them. Neither did I. Somewhere in the jungle along the trail one disposition, until then considered reasonably good, was dropped, stomped on by mules, and irretrievably ruined." We feel that the Colonel has exaggerted somewhat, as we have always found his disposition more than reasonably good.

After the Philippine campaign Colonel Gowen returned to the states and was assigned to the 10th Infantry upon his promotion to Captain on October 3, 1902. Then followed fourteen years service with this organization, including duty as Regimental Adjutant, Regimental Commissary and command at various times of Companies C, H and I. Two years in Alaska and three in Panama were also included. In 1912 he was an Honor Graduate of the Army School of the Line and in 1916 from the Army Staff College.

Promoted to Major late in 1916, he was ordered to Ft. Logan H. Roots, Ark., to command the first Officers Training camp there. In August he was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, National Army, and detailed as Chief of Staff, 38th Division, at Camp Shelby, Miss. He served in this capacity until November 10, 1918, being promoted to Colonel, N. A., in February, 1918. This service included a rubber neck tour of France in October and November, 1917, during which he was attached to a front line French and a front line English Division for two weeks each. In October, 1918, he was atached to the 78th Division of the A. E. F. for a week in the Argonne. On November 10, 1918, he was detailed as a member of the Training Section, General Staff, G. H. Q., A. E. F., and was stationed at Chaumont until he returned to the states in June, 1919.

He served as Executive Officer, Army War College, in Washington, from June, 1919, to July, 1922, and was a student at the College, graduating in the class of 1923. He was promoted to Colonel July 1, 1920, and placed on the Initial General Staff Eligible List. He came to Fort Benning in August, 1923, and served as Director of the Infantry Board until he was assigned as commanding officer of the Demonstration Doughboys.

ARMY BURIES YALE WITH FULL MILITARY HONORS

By James R. Harrison.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Army buried Yale with full military honors in the Bowl Saturday afternoon as 78,000 bewildered spectators watched the Cadets from the Plains storm the last football trench that was waiting out ahead of them.

It was not a football game, but a military burial. Yale was not merely beaten, it was routed, for the Cadets rolled five touchdowns over the Blue goal line and amassed a 33-0 victory and gave to Yale the worst thrashing that a Yale team has suffered since the dark ages of New Haven football.

Before the onslaught of the hard-driving Cadets, Yale reeled and fell back to be overwhelmed by an Army team on Yale soil for the first time since 1911.

Army spurned the keener, swifter tactics of the modern game. The Cadets snapped derisive fingers at the forward pass; not once during the afternoon did they strike through the air. They stayed firmly on the ground and sent the shock troops on ahead, tore Yale's line to ribbons, sifted through the secondary defense and galloped gloriously up and down the gridiron.

The greatest spectacle of the afternoon was not the march of the Cadets up the field before the game. There was a finer sight than this—the sight of Light Horse Harry Wilson and Harding and Murrell and Cagle tearing through the wavering Blue line and making a shambles of the famous Yale bowl.

It was an Army team that got the breaks and took full advantage of them, that followed the ball and capitalized Yale's mistakes and had the finishing punch to go with its keenness.

Every Army touchdown was the result of a Yale blunder, but that is only half of the story, for the Cadets had the power and speed and drive to follow up their openings.

Three Yale fumbles, a blocked Yale kick and an intercepted forward pass were converted into the five touchdowns that Wilson, Murrell, Cagle, Born and Gilbreth carried over the Blue goal line.

Yale lost the game in the first ten minutes when Captain Phil Bunnell fumbled the ball on his 10-yard line, and Fishwick, the end, later dropped a perfect pass 5 yards away from a sure touchdown. Bunnell's miscue gave Army its first touchdown, and Fishwick's muff cost Yale another seven points.

If Bunnell and Fishwick had held on to the ball, Yale conceivably might have won. They would have been leading, 7 to 0, instead of trailing by the same score. As it was, they were off to a bad start and lost their confidence and seemed bewildered, and before long they were laid low by the fury of the stiff Army attack.

There wa snot a moral triumph for Yale in this encounter. Crippled by the loss of Noble and Kline in the backfield, the Elis played a sort of football that a Yale team rarely plays. Fumbling, poor tackling, a weakly executed forward passing attack and lack of scoring pnnch were some of the counts against Yale.

Even Bunnell, their captain, was not immune, for it was two fumbles by him—one on the ten yard line, the other on the six—that gave Army two of its five scores. Noble and Kline were badly missed in the backfield, where McGunigle, Foote and Bunnell carried on in vain against a superior Army line.

There can be no question but that the Cadets were vastly the better team. They made few mistakes, played hard football, were alert, swift and relentless and were in superb condition.

The Cadets exceeded the fondest expectation of their 1,100 fellow Cadets in the stand and the grizzled old Brigadiers and Colonels who had seen many things on the field of battle but seldom had seen a West Point eleven tear a Yale team loose from its mooring.

8 TEAMS UNDEFEATED; G. U. LEADS IN SCORING

NEW YORK.The undefeated teams of the East have shrunk to eight as a result of Saturday's form reversals. Both West Virginia and Pennsylvania felt the sting of intersectional defeats which, however, fail to mar their records among the Eastern elevens. Boston College, only team with an uncrossed goal line, lost the honor Saturday when West Virginia Wesleyan managed to score. Georgetown stands at the head of the points scorers with a massive total of 230 in six games.

The table showing the wins and losses, points scored and opponents' total points, follows:

OHIO-NORTHWESTERN KEEP STRIDE IN WEST

CHICAGO. — Ohio and Northwestern continued their progress Saturday toward an undefeated season in the Big Ten football race for the championship, while Michigan, tied with them at the top of the conference, was upset in its intersectional game with the Navy. To this trio of two-game winners in the conference may be added Purdue with one victory and a tie, prepared to forge ahead if the others falter.

Each of the four leading teams has two or more tough games yet on the schedule. Michigan must conquer Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota. Ohio meets Michigan and Illinois. The Purdue-Northwestern game will eliminate one team, and Northwestern has Iowa to beat and Purdue has Indiana.

Standing of the big ten teams with total points scored in all games:

Teams	W	L	T	TP	OP

NEW PISTOL RECORD

On June 18 a triangular pistol competition for the championship of the Second Corps Area was fired at Fort Schuyler, New York, between teams of five men representing the National Guard, the Regular Army and the Organized Reserves. The match was fired over the regular Dismounted Pistol Course. The National Guard Team won the match and the Luquer Trophy, with an average of 90.48. The Regular Army Team turned in 89.07, and the Organized Reserves 85.68. Major S. M. Montesinos of the 18th Infantry, however, won the gold metal for individual high score with an average of 97.17 per cent. This performance on the part of Major Montesinos, brought to light the fact than on the same day in qualification firing prior to the match, Major Montesinos had made a score of 98.83 over the same course. The complete record of this rcord-breaking performance by Major Montesinos is given below as a mark for the pistol shooters to aim at during the fall season.

MARINE GRIDIRON DOPE

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The Quantico Marines ran rough-shod over the Providence College eleven, turning back the Black and White team by a 34-to-0 score and sending Coach Golembski's charges down to their first defeat of the season.

The Sea Soildiers outclassed the collegians in every department of the game and even the one-sided score does not indicate the superiority of the invaders.

Providence made one first down by rushing during the entire four periods and advanced twice over the 10-yard area via the forward pass route.

The Marines registered eighteen first downs in the first half of the game when they scored 28 points. They went scoreless in the third period but added another touchdown in the final quarter.

Levy at left half for the Marines scored two of his team's touchdowns on wild dashes around the left end of the Providence line, carrying the ball 26 yards on the first run and 20 on the second. The line-up:

Quantico		Providence C.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME

Before we begin to plan for Christmas we should all think of our pet philanthropy—

The Red Cross
The Army Relief
The Chapel Guild.

Each has its big work to do. We all realize the work of the Red Cross.

The Army Relief is an association to help dependant widows and orphans of the army, soldiers or officers. Their work is very wonderful! Every officer and every soldier and each member of his family should manage to make a yearly contribution to the Army Relief.

Then an association near at hand is the Chapel Guild. It is here to help out and take over in cases of emergency that arise here among our own people. The work dearest to the heart of the Guild is assisting in cases where babies are born in our hospital and the young parents have not been able to properly prepare for them. The ladies of the Guild make layettes.

There are many other kinds of work that your Guild does. The Guild wlil tell of its work here in your paper from time to time.

Now we are trying to reform for work due to the change in personnel in the Garrison, the Guild also must reform.

Please rally to our assistance. There is a called meeting for Monday the 8th at 10:15 a. m. at the Protestant Chapel. Please come, at least this once.

HEADQUARTERS 24TH INFANTRY
Office of the Regimental Commander,
Fort Benning, Georgia.

29 October 1926.

GENERAL ORDERS)
No. . . . . 14)

First Sergeant WILEY FREEMAN (R336133), Company E, 24th Infantry, will be retired on November 2, 1926, after the equivalent of thirty years service, by paragraph 19, Special Orders No. 252, War Department, dated October 23, 1926, and a regimental review will be tendered him on that date.

First Sergeant FREEMAN, first enlisted for Company G, 25th U. S. Infantry, December 2, 1899, and he has served continuously since that date.

His service has been as follows:
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 12, 1899 to Dec. 11, 1902.
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 12, 1902 to Dec. 11, 1905.
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 12 ,1905 to Dec. 17, 1908.
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 18, 1908 to Dec. 17, 1911.
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 18, 1911 to Dec. 17, 1914.
Co. G, 25th Infantry, Dec. 18, 1914 to Mch. 30, 1919.
Co. G, & Hq. Co., 25th Infantry, Mch. 31, 1919 to Mch. 30, 1922.
Hq. Co., 2nd Bn. & Hq. Co., 25th Inf., Mch. 31, 1922 to Mch. 30, 1925.
Co. K and Co. E, 24th Infantry, Apr. 1, 1925 to date.

His foreign service is as follows:
With Co. G, 25th Inf., P. I., Oct. 28, 1900 to July 25, 1902.
With Co. G, 25th Inf., P. I., Sep. 13, 1907 to Nov. 15, 1908.
With Co. G, 25th Inf., P. I., May 15, 1909 to Sep. 11, 1909.

First Sergeant FREEMAN is the proud possessor of eight discharge certificates, six of them bear character "EXCELLENT" and two bear character "VERY GOOD". He has never lost a day of service under the 107th Article of War and has never been tried by courts-martial during his entire service. In addition he has never failed to reenlist the day following his discharge except in 1925 when he remained out one day due to a delay on the part of the government. This is a record of which he should be extremely proud, it is worthy of emulation by every soldier aspiring to gain success in his chosen profession.

This non-commissioned officer has served loyally, honestly and faithfully, and for steady application to duty, fidelity and good service, is rewarded by honorable retirement.

Our congratulations upon the successful conclusion of his career in active service. The good wishes of the entire regiment accompany him upon his retirement to civil life.

By order of Colonel JOHNSON.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5

"Code of the Northwest" featuring the great dog Sandow in a pleasing Canadian melodrama surcharged with physical thrills and feats of heroism. It is the story of a dog who knew no law other than the word of his master in a spell-binding plot surrounding the happiness of an entire family.

"Mama Behave"—A Chase comedy.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6

"The Brown Derby," featuring Johnny Hines and a splendidly chosen cast of comedians in a side-splitting comedy which promises to send patrons home with a back ache.

"Walloping Wonders"—A Sport comedy.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7

"The Show Off," starring Ford Sterling in an interesting, amusing and entertaining comedy built around a familiar American character—a show off—a typical American home and an average middle class family. The story contains pathos and comedy.

"Felix in the Rainbow's Head" — K. Kat.

"Kinograms."

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 8

"Out of the West," Tom Tyler and his pals present a Western with a brand new note; baseball, a gripping, thrilling drama of cowboys and home runs, entrancing romance and cupid in chaps and a pitcher's glove.

"Green Archer No. 8." Have you guessed who is the Green Archer?

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 9

"What Happened to Jones." That's what an army of people, the police force, a minister, a bride with her wedding guests and several others wanted to know. When you find out you will have spent one of the most joy-filled evenings of the year. Reginald Denny stars in this rich comedy.

"Pictorial Proverbs." Hodge Podge.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10

"Going the Limit," starring George O'Hara, heir to a fortune, and the girl refused him because of his money. To be disinherited he tried to get arrested and couldn't. He forged a check—was commended for it. He held up a bank and turned out to be a hero. It is a screaming comedy of errors.

"Wedding Days." Standard comedy.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11

"Blue Blazes," featuring Pete Morrison, his famous horse, Lightning, and the mule, Thunder, in a Blue Streak Western replete with fierce fighting, hard riding and fast action. It is a melodrama in which a girl seeks to avenge the death of a hermit grandfather and recover a buried treasure of gold.

"Pathe News."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12

"The Campus Flirt," starring the vivacious charming Bebe Daniels as a collegiate snob who becomes the campus flirt and "high hats" every one failing to come up to her ridiculous standard. Her subsequent treatment at the hands of her fellow students provides one with a laugh each second.

"Quick Service." A Cameo comedy.

ORGANIZATION DAY OF SUNSET SOLDIERS IS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

24th Celebrated Birthday Monday with Fine Program Arranged.

By Lt. Geo. L. Potter

One of the best and most successful Organization Day programs ever witnessed by anyone in Fort Benning was brought to a close Monday night when the curtain fell on the Musical Revue Finale given by the 24th Infantry.

Beginning at 9 a. m. the entire regiment was formed and addressed by its Commanding Officer, who has been in command of the organization since 1924. Colonel Johnson inaugurated several changes in the 24th Infantry at the time he took command.

Following the opening exercises a Field and Track Meet was held, which lasted well into the afternoon.

At noon each organization was served with a special dinner and a 24th Infantry dinner is indeed "Special."

A dinner was given for the officers of the regiment in Mess Hall No. 1, by Captain Gent. In addition to the regimental officers, many previous officers of the regiment were present, and many specially invited guests. Among the latter were the unit commanders of other organizations in the garrison.

The high point of interest and entertainment was reached Monday night when what Colonel A. B. Warfield called the best soldier show he had ever seen was staged in the regimental theater. Directed and planned by Captain Stanley G. Saulnier, it proved to be a tremendous success, a musical riot throughout. All costumes were made by the participants, and the appearance of the cast was excellent.

From a musical viewpoint it was an all star cast. Deserving of special mention were the singing of Fendall Williams, the dancing of Sloan Williams and the finale at the end of the revue.

Following are the results of the Field Meet:

Merry flames dancing in the huge open fireplace, orange shaded lights glowing at regular intervals on every wall, baskets and bowls of lovely marigolds rich in autumn's own yellow and brown, orange tapers flickering on the prettily appointed tea table—such was the pretty setting for the program and tea which the Infantry School Woman's Club enjoyed on Monday afternoon.

The early part of the meeting was given over to business. Mrs. Henry A. Bootz was unanimously elected first vice-president, and the plans for the organization of the various departmental clubs were announced as follows:

The Child Welfare Club, with Mrs. Edwin T. Bowden, chairman, will meet Friday, Nov. 5th, at 2:00 p. m. with Mrs. R. D. McLeod at her quarters, 40B—668 (across from the Post Signal office).

The Home Economics Club will meet Thursday, Nov. 4th at 2:30 with Mrs. Butler L. Knight, chairman, at her quarters 23—192D.

The Literature Club will meet next Monday, Nov. 8th at 2:00 with Mrs. Frank W. Schneider at her quarters 14—438. This program will begin the study of Contemporary American Literature with the Literature of the Middle West.

All members of the club are invited to belong to any or all of these departmental clubs. The work is just beginning and now is the time to join to get full benefit of the club.

Business was completely forgotten when Miss Agnes Harrison, dressed in a flimsy frock of rainbow colors, danced The Tasquinade a caprice by Gottschalk followed by The Tripak, a Russion folk dance done in a snowy and furry costume of the far north.

Then Mrs. Miller sang A Winter Lullaby (DeKoven) and Life (Mary Turner Salter) accompanied by Mrs. Butcher.

And Mrs. Vinson told an Uncle Remus story.

Tea followed the program, Mrs. Lindsay Silvester and Mrs. W. H. Vinson being at home to the club.

All the ladies of the command are invited to belong to the Woman's Club.

On November 4th the Boy Scouts ushered at a football game in Columbus sponsored by the Spanish American War Veterans and they will usher Section M on the Auburn side at the annual Georgia-Auburn game.

Sunday before last George Quinney, "Speedy" Helms, and Charles Elliott built a bridge over one of the creeks on the way to Jeffs Hole. By building this bridge they will pass the Boy Scout Merit Badge test in Pioneering.

Capt. Braun, our Scoutmaster, was not present at the last meeting although we had a fine meeting with Sgt. Stewart, our Asst. Scoutmater, presiding.

ARMY BRAINS CLEAR FORT BLISS OF NAILS

WASHINGTON. — A story of how the Signal Corps cleared Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, of nails was told at the War Department. Dismantling of temporary war structures at Fort Bliss, station of the First Cavalry Division, had littered the grounds with nails, creating a menace to horses' feet and automobile tires:

Signal Corps men mounted a gas engine on a wagon to drive a half-kilowatt direct-current electric generator. An extra pair of wheels were towed behind the wagon and from the axle was suspended a row of improvised magnets, clearing the ground by about an inch.

The magnets were made of scrap iron bent to the shape of a horseshoe, and wound with scraps of insulated wire connected to the generator. This outfit was run back and forth across the camp and collected several hundred pounds of nails, scrap iron and steel pieces. El Paso has adopted a similar device to clean its roads.

MARVELOUS MAGICIAN WILL MYSTIFY MANY SATURDAY EVENING

Laurant, Noted Lyceum Illusionist, Will Show at 29th Theater

Rabbits will be produced out of silk hats, cooing doves will fly peacefully around mysterious fountains of fire and water and other phenmena that serve to sttrtle the spectator will hold the boards at the Twenty Ninth Infantry theatre when Laurant, famed as a magician of the highest calibre will exhibit his proverbial bag of tricks Saturday night at eight o'clock for the amusement and delectation of the Demonstration Doughboys and other Benningsters.

For more than twenty years Laurant has been a Chautauqua and Lyceum headliner. During this period, Laurant has been repeatedly tempted with dazzling offers of employment by vaudeville and theatrical managers but he has steadfastly refused, believing in the Lyceum as a greater field in which to present his work.

Laurant has not gone unrewarded as he has been presented with a gold medal by the society of American Magicians in recognition of his earnest endeavors in raising the art of magic to a higher plane. For the small sum of thirty-five cents, this fine performance may be seen at the 29th Infantry theatre at 8 p .m., Saturday, November 6th.

EXHIBITION RIDERS FEATURE WEDNESDAY INFORMAL HORSESHOW

School Instructors Delight Large Crowd. Show Run Exactly to Schedule

The riding exhibition, by instructors in equitation at the Infantry School, was scheduled to follow the 5th event of the informal Horseshow held Wednesday afternoon and was listed on the program as due to begin at 2:45 P. M. Promptly at 2:45 Major H. J. M. Smith, Cavalry; Capt. Pleas B. Rogers, 24th Infantry; Capt. R. A. McClure, Infantry; Capt. Daniel C. Mallan, V. C.; 1st Lt. W. W. Brier, 24th Infantry; and 2nd Lt. Jacob C. Moon, 24th Infantry, rode into the ring, each splendidly groomed horse wearing neat white bandages on all four legs. They showed the large crowd just exactly how horses should be ridden. They executed difficult maneuvers and evolutions with the east and grace characteristic only of those to the saddle born. Their exhibition was one of the finest seen in many a day. They were greeted with round after round of applause.

Attention has been called to the promptness with which this event got under way, and the same clock-llike precision marked every class. There were no advance entries, each contestant giving his name and getting his number at the ringside, so to speak. So much the more credit, then, is due to Major H. J. M. Smith, in charge of the arrangements and his able corps of assistants. The show was heralded as an informal one, but I have seen many a so-called formal one that functioned much less smoothly.

All the classes were keenly contested and in many of them the judges—Major Lloyd Jones, F. A., for the officers and ladies' classes, and Captain Wm. C. Chase, Cav., for the enlisted men's events—had no little difficulty in picking the ultimate winner.

Summary of events:

Class 1. Enlisted Men's Mounts, stripped saddle.

1st Pvt. Sanders, 29th Inf., on Pep.
2nd Pvt. Ross, Service Co., 29th Inf., on Okeine.

DOUGHBOY MATMEN BEGIN WORKOUTS FOR AMATEUR MEET

Champions of "Lead-the-Way" Outfit To Be Determined In Six Classes.

Embryo Stranglers, Zbyszkos and Gotches are expected to be developed in the Twenty-Ninth Infantry in the next month as announcement has gone forth from regimental headquarters that wrestling bouts to determine the regimental champions in six weights will be held about December 1.

Amateur wrestlers only will be allowed to compete. Battalion athletic officers will organize wrestling teams composed of six men of the following weights: 126 pounds and under, 135 pounds, 147 pounds, 160 pounds, 175 pounds and unlimited for the heavyweight class.

The champion in each class will receive a sweater. A banner will be offered to the battalion having the largest number of champions. In the event of a tie the banner will be awarded to the battalion having the largest number of entrants in the finals for the championship.

Rule books are being printed for each sport, the book on wrestling being almost ready for distribution to the companies. Two classes of wrestlers have been eliminated from competition, i. e., the 112 and 118 pound class.

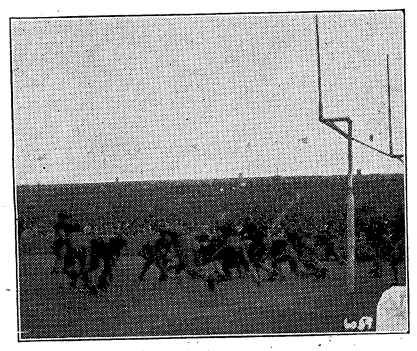
MUSKETEERS DISPLAY REVAMPED OFFENSIVE AND BEAT MERCERITES

Kjelstrom and Franz Stars in Unexpected 21-13 Victory

"Most any player in the land
Can pass the ball with either hand
And hit the line to beat the band,
Like Kelly can.
Like 'ell 'e can."

Please pardon the poetry, you who peruse this page, but it's hard to refrain from being lyrical after watching Kjelstrom lead the Musketeers to a 21 to 13 victory over the Mercer Bears Saturday afternoon. The allaged foot ball experts had it all figured out that the boys from the "Heart of Georgia" would win an easy victory, but once again the old dope bucket received a terrific kick in the slats and was completely overturned. Nor was the outcome the result of the smiles of Lady Luck. The Musketeers amassed 13 first downs to the Maconites 8, completed four of ten passes and presented such a strong defense against the Bruins' aerial game that in twelve attempts the visitors failed to complete a single pass. Five of them found a resting place in the arms of a vigilant Musketeer back, and one of the footsloggers' touchdowns came from a 70 yard sprint by Kjelstrom after nabbing a Mercer heave. The ground gained by running attack was about even.



Start Attack Early.

The Doughboys lost little time in starting their victorious attack. Following the initial kickoff and an exchange of punts the Musketeers obtained possession of the pikskin on their own 40-yard line. MacKechnie failed to gain through the line but Kjelstrom hit right tackle for 5 and then skirted right end for 9. Mitzen made 2 and 4 in two tries and Kelly bucked through for 5. Mercer grew over-anxious and drew a 5 yard penalty for offside. Mitzen plowed center for 3 and Kelly followed suit, but Mercer was again offside and was set back another 5. Kjelstrom drove off left tackle for 1, and Thompson added 5 through the same hole. The ball was on Mercer's 22-yard line.

A pass was incomplete, but on the next try Kjelstrom dropped back, ran to his right as though to turn the flank, stopped suddenly and shot a perfect pass to Fat Franz, who fell over the line for the initial touchdown. Kelly's unerring toe added the point by dropkick, and the stands went wild.

The Infantry again kicked off and the Bears couldn't advance. A punt followed and the Infantry made a first down. Kelly failed to gain and then launched a pass toward Franz, but Barnes intercepted and ran twenty five yards to the Musketeer 38 yard mark. Failing to make any impression on the Infantry line Bruner attempted a pass, but the ever watchful Kelly grabbed it on the Doughboy 30-yard line and dashed seventy yards for a touchdown. Mlynczak furnished beautiful interference on Kel's journey, takmore Kjelstrom drop-kicked the point. mor Kjelstrom drop-kicked the point.

Here the Mercer coach, who had started his second string lineup sent in the regulars, including the famous phantom Phoney Smith, but for all that the soldiers held their own throughout the rest of the first half, during which there was no further scoring. Phoney made several short dashes, but was in general well covered by the Infantry defense and simply couldn't get loose for one of his famous sprints through a broken field.

Opening the third quarter the two teams went at it hammer and tongs. For about half the period the play was practically even, but about midway of the quarter Mercer got possession of the ball on their 49-yard line. Here the Bear quarter elected to let Smith try it, and Phoney responded nobly. Behind fine interference he passed the line of scrimmage and reached the open country he loves so well. The tickle-toed back cleverly eluded the Musketeer secondary ano planted the ball gently but firmly behind the last limed line guarded by the home boys. But his try for point by placement was blocked and the Infantry was still out in front 14 to 6.

The Infantry then kicked off. Smith returned 25 yards to Mercer's 40 yard line, but could make no further progress and Smith booted to MacKechnie on the Doughboy 35 yard strip. The husky Musketeer back then turned in one of the prettiest runs of the game, advancing to the Mercer four yard line before brought down from behind. However, he stepped outside on the Bears' 47 yard strip and the ball was brought back to that point. Two plunges by Bennett and a couple by the Kel himself made 14 yards. Bennett made 5 more in two tries and Kelly made it first down by inches. Three more rushes by the Infantry field leader took the ball to Mercer's 12 yard line. Mitzen drove through for 1 yard as the quarter ended.

Kelly slid off tackle for 2. Mitzen keeping his feet in the most approved fashion, bored through for six, and on the following rush made it first down within 1 foot of Mercer' goal line. One drive by Mitzen put it over. Kjelstrom dropped back as if to dropkick, but caught the Bear defense completely off its guard by shooting a pass to Franz for the extra point. There wasn't a man within ten yards of Fat as he made the catch.

Smith ran the following kirk-off back for 48 yards to the Musketeer 42 yard line. He was almost free, but ponderous Big Bertha Bertleman nailed him from behind and stopped a score. Skelton made a first down, but the visitors failed to continue the march and the ball went over on downs. The Infantry made a first down, but failed ing in three more tries, Kjelstrom kicked to the Mercer 22-yard strip. Then began a see saw battle. Finally a fumble gave the Bears the ball on the Musketeer forty yard line and Mercer loosed its final offensive. Bruner and Skelton skipped off tackle for 11 yards between them. The Infantry was penalized five yards for offside. Skelton made two through the line. Two passes were incomplete and Mercer was set back to the Infantry 27 yard line on the second failure. Parks on a fake pass, went 12 to the Infantry 15 yard line. It was first down again.

Skelton got 12 on his first effort and in two more tries carried the ball over. Bruner neatly place kicked the extra point. Th game ended soon after the following kick-off.

Kjelstrom is Star.

To Kjelstrom more than any one man was due the victory. He ran the team in fine style throughout the game, picking his plays with rare judgment, passing accurately to Franz and never failing to make yardage when it was needed. The other backs seemed infected with his spirit. Mitzen, MacKechnie, Bennett and the others who performed behind the line showed a dash and drive that was somewhat unexpected. Franz played an exceptionally fine defensive game, stopping the elusive Smith on every try at Fat's end. The stocky boy also shone as a receiver of passes, nabbing Kelly's heaves at every angle. The line outplayed the Mercer forwards. Big Bertha and Willie Schaefer were outstanding.

Phoney Smith's flashy runs featured the Mercer attack, but on the whole Skelton was the Bears' real standby. He could almost always be counted on for gains of from two to ten yards through the line. On defense Roberts played as one possessed. Stationed to back up the line, he was frequently through before the Infantry backs could get started and time after time nailed them for substantial losses. Adams at left end also did some neat tackling.

The victory was as welcome as it was unexpected to Fort Benning fans. The morale was raised several times higher than it has been for many moons. Garrison enthusiasts now see nothing but a successful finish of the fall campaign and vision the Infantry as proud winners of the President's Cup.

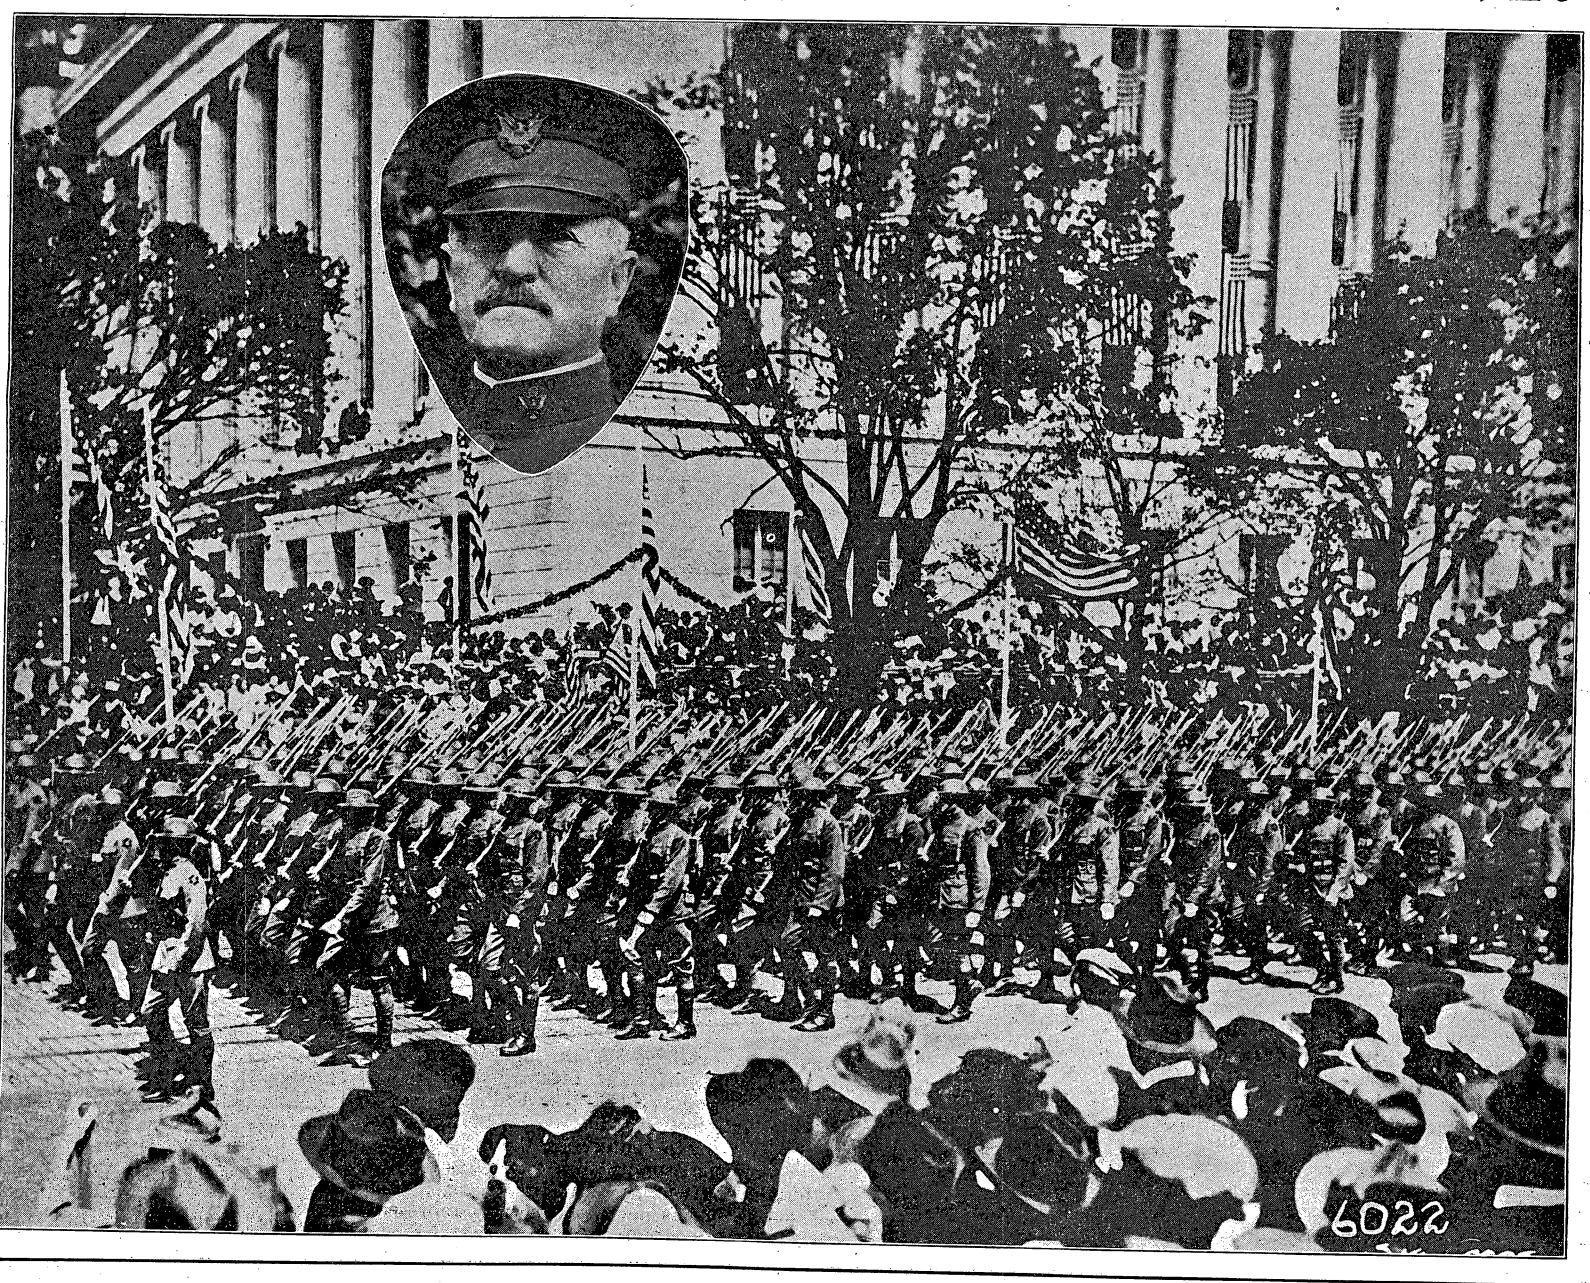
1918 ARMISTICE DAY 1926



In Flanders Field

In Flanders Field the poppies blow,
Between the crosses row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below,
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Field.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Field.

GARRISON READY FOR PAGEANT TONIGHT

BENNING TO GET DETAILS OF TODAY'S GAME WITH MARINES

Doughboy-Parris Island Game to Be Shown on Playograph on Gowdy Field

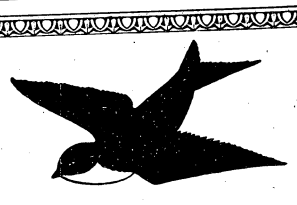
A small detachment of the United States Army is marching through Georgia, but it's a peaceful penetration as far as the inhabitants of the noble state are concerned, although active hostilities will break out on the football field this afternoon when the Doughboys and the Leathernecks from Parris Island get together to decide the Southern Service Championship. The annual Armistice Day game between the sea soldiers from the South Carolina base, and the land soldiers from out Fort Benning way has become one of the real classics of southern football. The Benning boys have for the past four years defeated their rivals, and Coach Berry and his merry men are confident they will make it five in a row, although the Devil Dogs are known to be strong and have trampled over a number of college elevens in a highly roughshod way.

The team that will take the field for the Infantry is the same that will be used in the President's Cup game in Washington on the 20th. Only one officer will play at any time. The probable lineup has been announced as Franz and May, ends; Costello and Lieutenant Mack, tackles; Bertelman and Stanovich, guards; Berish, center; Kjelstrom, quarter and captain; and Mitzen, Thompson and Bennett, backs. A formidable arry, that, and one amply able to care for itself in any kind of going.

Arrangements have been made by the Athletic Association to receive a play by play account of the game by direct wire from the field. The game will be shown in detail on Gowdy Field, beginning at 1 p. m., on the big Playograph used so successfully last year for the President's Cup and the Army-Navy game.

Previous Benning-Parris Island scores:
1922—Doughboys 25, Marines 0.
1923—Doughboys 14, Marines 0.
1924—Doughboys 6, Marines. 0.
1925—Doughboys 26, Marines, 7.

Thus it appears that the Doughboys have usually had little difficulty in disposing of their opponents. It was not until last year that the sea soldiers succeeded in scoring on their army opponents. For a time this year Benning folk were rather pessimistic over the Doughboy chances, but the recent comeback against Mercer and the Tennessee Doctors have restored confidence.



Blackbird—

Wonders how much garrison money was swallowed when the Bulldog ate the Tiger last Saturday.

GLEE CLUB

The World War Pageant, which has become a part of the annual celebration of Armistice Day at Fort Benning, will satrt promptly at eight o'clock tonight in Doughboy Stadium. The pageant is a symbolic presentation of the chief events of the World War, depicted with appropriate settings of bursting shells, flares, instrumental and vocal music, and historically accurate costuming. It is a dramatization of the war on a big, outdoor scale, and it is hoped by camp authorities that it may be repeated every year with such success that it will become an American Oberammergau.

In the beginning, the nations will appear in the center of the stadium, lighted by flood lights and spot lights. They are there ready for Mars, the warbringer. Germania is sought by Mars, and her children learn the high strides of the goose-step. Then the war begins.

The refugees flee before the cohorts of Feldgrau, little Belgia makes its futile stand against the overwhelming hordes, and France comes to the assistance of her neighbor. Britania comes with her overseas dominions, there is the dashing vigor of Italy's entry, and through it all, Uncle Sam is persistently unconcerned. Columbia is finally aroused, and the doughboys sweep into the field, bringing with them the victory that came on November 11, 1918.

The uniforms of the European nations will be portrayed with historical accuracy, and representations of all the nations involved in the conflict will be given, with absolute correctness in all equipment. The Glee Club of the Infantry School will sing a number of choruses, and have been training carefully over a long period for the event.

It is assured that a better production will be given this year than last. Last year, when the pageant was over, the audience rose to its feet and cheered spontaneously for the splendid work. More time has been given to the work this year, and more knowledge of the technique of such a production will be brought into its performance, through the added time of practice and last year's experience. It is always difficult, and a matter of more than one performance, to stage a large outdoor production of such nature, and it is felt that a much better and more thorough production will be given this year.

The seating arrangements have been carefully looked after. Many Columbus organizations will attend by invitation, and have special sections reserved for them. Civilians are invited to attend, and it is expected that a large number of Columbus people will come out. Each unit commander will march his outfit to its seats, and the entire enlisted and commissioned personnel of the Fort is expected to attend.

The American Legion will attend in a body, and will meet at the Cheney-Blackmon filling station, where they will receive transportation to the Fort. It is expected that 150 to 180 will go and sit in a body at the exercises. A large number of other local organizations will be present, and it is expected that as many will attend as can be accomodated.

It is announced that, if heavy rain should cause postponement of the pageant, notices will be posted at the Howard Bus Co., Hicks and Johnson's Drug Store, opposite the post office, and the Enquirer-Sun.

$1,500 FOR MUSIC FOR AN INFANTRY MARCHING SONG

Believing that the Infantryman of the American Army should have a rousing march song, a song that will express the spirit of the doughboy, who forms the backbone of the fighting forces of the country, the Infantry Journal, official publication of the United States Infantry Association of Washington, announces a contest for the music suitable for that song with a cash prize of $1,500 to the winner. The Infantryman of our Army has never had a truly representative marching song, one that he could call his own. He needs such a song, and the association of Infantry officers has arranged for this contest to stimulate its production.

The American doughboy's history is the history of the Army. The pages of the nation's peace-time and the war-time record of accomplishments are full of the glowing accounts of his deeds. His spirit of devotion to country, his vigor and enthusiasm, need to be set to music so that the doughboy of today and of tomorrow can put forth in song the traditional glories of this principal branch of the country's military service. A song is wanted that any man can sing or shout; one that will thrill him to the marrow; a marching song that will carry him along under the load of his pack as he swings along bent on missions for the honor of his country. No music for an anthem or a hymn is wanted, but music with vigor and pep, suitable for a marching song.

It is hoped that the best-talented song writers of the country will assist in this commendable endeavor. The contest opened November 1 and closes July 1, 1927. Further details may be obtained from the Infantry Journal, Washington, D. C.

COMMANDANT VISITS SEVENTH ENGINEERS ON ORGANIZATION DAY

The Commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, was a guest of the Seventh Engineers on their organization Day, Friday, November 5th. General Collins spoke to the command and praised them very highly for the tremendous work which the Seventh Engineers accomplished during the World War and particularly the feat of building the bridge at Brieulles while under terrific enemy fire. The Commandant also expressed himself as being extremely well satisfied with the accomplishments of the Engineers at Fort Benning. The General partook of the barbecue and witnessed the various sporting events put on by the engineers as a part of their organization day program.

A delightful surprise was given on October 28, 1926, by the Warrant Officers and their ladies at the quarters of Warrant Officer and Mrs. Charles F. Betz, it being their 17th wedding anniversary. After congratulations and presentation of gifts, bridge was in order. Four tables were in play during the evening. Honors were won by Mrs. E. Barkhurst and Mr. E. Barkhurst, consolation by Mrs. J. M. Floyd. Refreshments were served and a delightful evening was enjoyed by all. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Mary, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ryan, Mrs. Ryan, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. E. Barkhurst, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Floyd. Mr. and Mrs. E. Kurtz, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Dickson, Mrs. C. T. Browning.

Col. and Mrs. Cocheu are going to entertain with a dance at the Officers' Hop Room on Tuesday, the 22nd of November, for their niece, Miss Katherine Lacey.

A bridge party will be given at the Polo Club on Tuesday by Mrs. Edward M. Almond, Mrs. Withers A. Buress and Mrs. J. Russell Fountain.

The Twenty-ninth Infantry gave a masquerade last Friday at the Hop Room which was one of the very best parties of the season The only entrance to the floor was down a chute-the-chute, and into it went each couple as it arrived with a whiz, admist the cheers of greeting, a spirit of revelry and enthusiasm was instilled.

After the receiving line was formed, the Twenty-ninth songs were sung by a group of soldiers and a musical saw artist, violinist and Charleston exhibition afforded pleasant diversionfor the guests.

There was a Paul Jones and march over a springy cot and mattress which called forth shrieks of laughter. Prizes were awarded Captain and Mrs. Tharp for coming to the party at the hour they were invited, Lieut. Carraway for his costume and to a very dainty old-fashioned lady, as being typical of the modern flapper, yhile an alarm clock which buzzed practically all during the evening was presented as a gentle reminder to the last couple to arrive.

Miss Louise Ryder, the small daughter of Major and Mrs. Ryder will celebrate her birthday on Saturday evening with a dinner and theatre party for young ladies.

Lieut. and Mrs. Aubrey S. Newman, Twenty-ninth Infantry, arrived on the Post last Wednesday. Lieut. Newman and Miss Betty Baldwin were married last month in Illinois and they have been on their honeymoon in North Carolina. They were the guests of Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Kingman for a few days after their return and are now living in their quarters in Block 16.

Mrs Townshend, the mother of Mrs. Robert Oliver, who has been the guest of her daughter at Fort Benning for several weeks returned last week to her home in Washington.

There will be a Hunt next Sunday, starting from the hangars on the aviation field, at eight o'clock. After the ride, breakfast will be served at the Polo Club. In case of poor weather, the telephone operator will be notified that the hunt is called off early in the morning.

Lieut. Robert Oliver is the director of one of the plays to be presented by the Dramatic Club this month, entitled "The Bath Room Door."

Miss Mary Pendleton, who has studied art for several years and is very talented will supervise the class in Arts and Crafts which is a branch of the Woman's Club and will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vinson.

Mrs. Edgar S. Miller is giving a tea and bridge party on Friday afternoon of next week.

The Ralston Hotel will be the scene of a pretty bridge and tea party next Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Merritt Shepard will entertain a host of her friends.

The Officers Club conducted a wildcat hunt Armistice Day at 3:00 a. m. The field planned to leave the water tower on the First Division Road at the early hour and hunt on horseback until the game was captured.

The Armistice Day Pageant will be Monday at the Polo Club at 2:15. An interesting program has been arranged and many ladies are anticipating an enjoyable afternoon.

The Woman's Club will meet next presented on Thursday evening in the Doughboy Stadium. The Glee Club under the direction of Capt. King and Capt. Saulnier will, as in former years, make this spectacular performance both beautiful and inspiring.

The Dramatic Club of Fort Benning will present two one-act plays on the evening of Saturday, November 20th, at the Twenty-ninth Infantry Theatre, at 8:30 o'clock.

A number of dinner parties will be given before the Officers Club Hop at the Columbus Country Club Tuesday night. Among those who will be hosts this evening are: Capt. and Mrs Peabody, Major and Mrs. A. S. Peake, Major and Mrs. Garrison and Captain and Mrs. Dager.

Captain and Mrs. R. C. Smith gave a dinner and bridge party last Thursday evening for Major and Mrs. Ryder, Major and Mrs. Peake, Major and Mrs. Roberts, Major and Mrs. Fox Major and Mrs. Febger, Captain and Mrs. H. W. Taylor, Captain and Mrs. Hueoner. Captain and Mrs. Tamraz, Lieut. and Mrs. J. C. L. Adams and Major and Mrs Jones.

Major and Mrs. O. H. Griswold gave a hop Supper before the Twenty-ninth Infantry Masquerade last Friday evening for Captain and Mrs. Burress, Lt. and Mrs. Kean and Mr. Jack Burress.

Mrs. Huddleston is giving a bridge party and tea next Monday afternoon for Mrs. Kingsland, the mother of Mrs. C. K. Fales.

The Literary branch of the Woman's Club, met last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. V. Schneider and very entertaining and instructive book reviews and discussions were given by Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Peyton and Mrs. Schneider. The ladies who attended this meeting were Mesdames Peyton, Vinson, Dailey, Ahrends, Green, Landis, Fox, Baker, W. C. Johnson, L. D. Tharp, Wood, Irving, Campbell, Brandhorst, Wickliffe, Goode, Kean, Roosma, Kingman, Ryder. Lopez, Cook, Cowley and Brier.

The great social event of last week was the Georgia-Auburn game in Columbus and the dances that were given in celebration . Many officers and ladies from the Post and in town attended the game and the hops at the Ralston, Muscogee Club or Country Club.

Miss Gulledge, the accompanist of Senor Diaz was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lee Hester, this week while she was at Fort Benning.

Mrs. Matthews gave a bridge party on Friday afternoon of four tables. Mrs. Lenow won first prize, Mrs. Pangburn the second and Mrs. Sears the last.

Captain and Mrs. Layman entertained with a large dinner at the Country Club after the Georgia-Tuburn game last Saturday.

Captain and Mrs. C. K. Fales gave a tea in honor of Mrs. Fales mother, Mrs. Kingsland, who is her guest at present, last Sunday afternoon.

Capt. and Mrs. Turgeon entertained at dinner on Sunday evening Colonel Hanna, Colonel Ingram, Major and Mrs. Donaldson, Capt. and Mrs. Barndollar Chaplain McKenna and Miss Williamson, A. N. C.

The Day We Observe

It has been seven years since that happy morning when the bells rang, steam whistles blew and other noise-making devices were sounded to signalize to the world the end of the terrible war.

Happiness is an elusive thing. It is pursued by all, but seldom is overtaken by any; yet if ever a people were actually happy it was on that morning in November when the armistice was signed. It was a substantial happiness. general in its nature but divisible, with a goodly share for each person; and it showed itself in the rejoicing everywhere. Never before had people a delight so common to all; and never before were they so disposed to make a family affair of a celebration.

For once, at least, all men were brothers, and gave vent for expression of feeling without restraint. The celebration was indeed what may be described as a popular one. Men, and women, too, danced in the streets and shouts of rejoicing rent the air. Also there was a parade, the like of which had never been seen here before, and such enthusiasm among the thousands of paraders and the thousands of spectators as warmed the hearts of patriots. It was a grand and glorious feeling which pervaded eevry soul in the vast gathering—an exulting sense of pride in a great national accomplishment for an object of world-wide importance.

The anniversary has come again and the day celebrated—not with the tumultuous outpouring of the people as at the first celebration of peace, but with respect, and with serious purpose to preserve the memory of a magnificently performed national effort. We remember, too, the brave sons who returned alive no more to their native land, and who were the offerings of our country upon the altar of liberty andjustice.

Today is of double significance: Honor to the nation and to the nation's defenders, and a tribute of reverence to all who lost their lives in the country's defense.

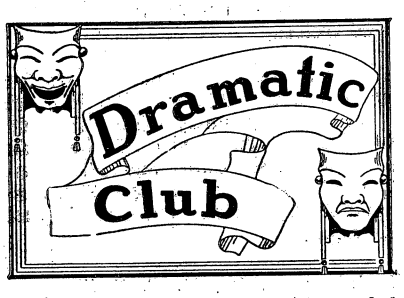
The day will always be sacred in the hearts of Americans and it will ever be observed at Fort Benning and Columbus, which gave up many noble sons, sacrificing them in the interest of civilization.

Presentation of the famous World War Pageant is to be at feature of the day, this wonderful event taking place in Doughboy Stadium at eight o'clock this evening. It should be largely attended.

The Pontonier

The Seventh Engineers of this station have published the first number of their magazine, which is known and will be known in the future as the Pontonier. The small booklet is published in mimeograph form and contains all of the news of the month of the command, together with reproduced sketches which are made at the Seventh Engineers' own map-making plant. The little publication is well gotten up and the news is fresh and interesting.

The motto of the Pontonier is the motto of every Pontonier "Put It Across" and from the way in which they have started out with their monthly publication there is every indication that they will put this paper across as they have other enterprises and assignments in the past. We wish the Seventh Engineers every success for their magazine.



Two one-act plays are in rehearsal for presentation at 8:30 P. M. the 20th instant (Saturday.) Rumor says that a number of smart hostesses are planning nifty dinner parties to precede the play acting.

The drama "Trifles" with Captain John C. Newton, 24th Infantry, as director, has already 'trod the boards' in the 29th Infantry theatre with results satisfactory alike to cast and director. This little play with its touches of tragedy and mystery will prove interesting to the members of the club and their guests.

"The Bath Room Door," a comedy under the direction of Lieut. Robert C. Oliver, A. D. C., is the playlet in which the Prince of Wales created some commotion in English social circles by appearing in the role of a girl for the entertainment of the company of H. M. S. "Repulse" some months ago. With the present star cast the audience will receive the full benefit of the humorous situations.

Several tentative selections for a three-act play to be presented in late December or early January are now under consideration and early announcement may be expected of title and date.

Armistice Day!
The Name seems chosen well;
We celebrate a Truce—
Not some soft Peace;
A Truce with all the world,
But still we stand,
And watchful wait
To serve our Native Land.
For us not War's grim glories,
Nor War's gain;
For us it's futile furies
And it's pain.
The night-long weary march
Through mud and mire,
Of hob-nailed boots
To meet the foe again.

* * *

Armistice Day!
These long eight years ago,
The throbbing thunder of the guns
Was stilled.
A world—war-weary—wondered;
Then went mad,
In wild acclaim that Peace was come again.
The lousy, whiskered warriors, helmeted;
Unslung their gas-masks; stacked their smoking steel,
And blazing bon-fires marked their bivouacs;
Where once the crowded cannon—wheel to wheel—
Had belched a deadly diapson of hate,
At a bleak stretch of trench and tangled wire—
Forget the cold flare of star-shell's spectral light—
While round the smoky campfires comrades dreamd
Of loved ones they'd scarce hoped again to meet.

* * *

Armistice Day!
And yet no Covenant
Of Peace Eternal; no Millennium—
Who won the War? We know who lost—
The Hun—
Perhaps could tell us who it was that won.
It seems to us a War is not a war,
Unless it does bring forth
A Conqueror.
Of course we had a Foch—
A Pershing—
A Haig—all glorious leaders, and great men;
But yet—we know not who it was that won.
What man—save some gray-haired historian—
Remembers half the Wars since time begun?
What youth, but who could name, with scarce a pause
The Conquerors in each great and golrious Cause.

Armistice Day!
Eight years since we have borne
A rain-soaked pack,
Or done "stand to" at morn.
Once more beneath the dull November sky
Our comrades of the War go marching by,
Or at the fateful hour of eleven
Pause for a moment
While due honor's given
To One who sleeps in state at Arlington.
And round the world the same sad mass is said
For this one great and glorious Unknown dead—
Fate has a gift of giving honor due—
Perhaps we builded better than we knew;
Comrades we may have fought a different War
And made this Unknown Soldier Conqueror.

REGIMENTAL BLUE PENNANT

1. The following named company is announced as winner of the "Regimental Blue Pennant" for October, 1926, created by Training Memorandum No. 19, these Headquarters, 1924, and awarded to that company, which, in the opinion of the Regimental Commander, has attained and maintained, in its company area the highest standard as regards physical and mental well being of the organization:

COMPANY "H" 29TH INF.
Commanded by Capt. Edward J. Herlihy, 29th Inf.

2. The following named companies are designated to receive honorable mention for the fine showing made:

Company "B", 29th Infantry,
Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry.

3. The companies quartered in the brick barracks were not included in this competition.

4. The Regimental Commander compliments the winning company upon its splendid achievement and cites it as an example to the other organizations composing the regiment.

By order of Colonel Gowen.

Satina: "Say, Sgt., how is the chances for some Bus Tickets?"

Well boys, we are very sorry that we have no more vacancies left. The last was drawn by Pvt. 1cl. Edward F. Clark when he drew the extra stripe. Clark is better known around the company as Gloria Swanson. Stick around, Gloria, you will get the other one on your next hitch.

Has anyone seen Cpl. Traylor—why yes he is on Pass again.

Sgt. Riley is still waiting for his Regimental Silver Spoon, due him for Riley, Jr. Keep on waiting Sgt., you will get it.

The company is all wondering what Sgt. Powloski and Pvt. Pietrzak are doing in Birmingham, Ala., for the next 30 days.

Will the party that stole a part of Tech. Sgt. Mitzen's razor please call for the remaining part.

CO. "B"

Had a letter from one of the boys the other day, who had quit the army. Here's what he had to say:

Dear Sgt. Brown: Tho't I would write a few lines this morning to let you know I haven't forgotten you and to tell you that I have just about decided to come back "home."

I did say that I would wait until the new barracks were completed but it's taking too long to build them and though I make good money when I work, business is off to such an extent, in my line, that I would be much better satisfied if I were there where there is always plenty of work to do any pay goes on, even when there is nothing to do.

So if you thing you could place me in the Supply Room as Company Mechanic, I will apply here for enlistment. I know there are vacancies in the Twenty-Ninth, but don't want to take a chance on being sent to any other than "B" Company.

Hoping to hear from you real soon and that you need a good mechanic.

Sincerely,
Signed John L. Fowler.

Though we are not badly in need of a mechanic just now, the ones in the company kho know him well be more than glad to see him back again. As for his ability as a mechanic, those that are better than he are few and far between.

With "Slim" Hudgins out of the hospital, we sure would enjoy a few practice games of basketball. No one barred, not even "A" Company.

Cpl. M. E. Morris.

CO. "C"

August Haug has reenlisted for the 29th Infantry. He served his last three years with the 14th Infantry in Panama. The 29th should seem like home to him, as he has served about nine years in it. He is a first cook in Company "C" and his rank and rating is Pvt. 1cl. Specialist 6th.

Pvt. 1cl. Floyd J. Dunlay has reported for duty from a furlough. We are all glad to have his smiling face with us again.

Fryar, James B., from Tennessee, has taken a 30-day furlough. Also Wesley H. Ferrier took a 60-day furlough last week.

Our Supply Sgt. wants to start a branch of the A. for the A. of A. Any one interested report to the Supply Tent.

John L. Biggerstaff.

CO. "D"

"D" Company may consider itself extremely fortunate in having such an example of sartorial perfection as Corporal Henry F. Weyer for its company clerk. Corporal Weyer now has a very capable assistant in Private Robert J. Mooar, who hails from the fair city of San Diego, Calif.

Sergeant Arthur B. Gould, the Alabama cyclone, has returned from a two-months' furlough spent in our nearby state. He reports having a very good time.

Pvt. Whaley, one of the bright lights among our recruits, relates a little yarn about the Wisconsin National Guard encampment last summer at Camp Robinson, Wis. He says the company had to go out with full field packs and he tried to fool them by putting a stove pipe in his. When detected he had to double time up and down the company till he almost dropped. He said that he would not try it in the regulars.

Our own Satellite for the week is Pvt. George Gaines, of Henning, Tenn. He is one of our most conscientious soldiers.

Another Tennessee ridge runner, Pvt. Arthur Kennedy, says he sure does get hungry for the old gumbo. (Whatever that is.)

Hines and Mays are two of our latest corporals. Hines has only a little service but Mays served three years with the 28th Infantry at Fort Niagara, N. Y. Both of them are good soldiers and certainly deserve the promotion. Here's to you, boys.

George Rudolph Becker.

HDQRS. CO., 2nd BN.

The whole company takes great pleasure in commending the following named men, who won places in the Infantry School Informal Horseshow held at Fort Benning, Georgia, on November 3rd, 1926. These men are merely upholding the 29th Infantry Motto: "We Lead the Way," and also the Company motto: "First Within the Regiment."

Class 1, Enlisted Men's Mounts:

1st, Pvt. Sanders. Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry.

3rd, Sgt. Sterling, Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry.

Class 8, Enlisted Men's Jumpers:

4th, Pvt. Rogers, Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry.

The company is preparing for the night riding contest to be held the 19th, and every contestant firmly believes that he will win by a large margin.

Sergeant Wadford (our old reliable stable Sergeant) has just returned from a very pleasant furlough. Everybody, even to the horses, welcome him back to the outfit for three more years.

Pfc. Rigsby, of this organization, is to be discharged November 9th, 1926, by purchase. The entire company regrets very much to see him leave, as he was well thought of by every member of the company.

WOMAN'S CLUB

By Kate Parker Vinson

Place of meeting—Polo Club.

Date—First and Third Mondays.

Date of next meeting—Monday, November 15th.

Time—2:15 P. M.

Next Monday afternoon it will be worth every woman's while to be at the Polo Club at the meeting of the Infantry School Woman's Club, for Mrs. Vincente Lim will speak on the land of her birth—the Philippines—that tropical paradise nestled in the lap of oriental seas far away—yet near to the hearts of Army people.

Perhaps she will tell us of the women of the islands or of its literature and customs. Perhaps she will give us an insight into the educational, social and political situation so interesting to the world just now. What ever she does will be well done, for Mrs. Lim is a woman of superior intellectuality.

There will be Philippine music, and a display of embroideries and things typical of the crafts of the natives. I will tell you no more. You will have to come and see for yourself but I know another feature that will delight you. Captain Rutledge, whom we have been breathless to hear, will sing. Then tea, with Mrs. Keatley and Mrs. Keith as hostesses.

Last Monday the living room, dining room, back hall—even the stairway, was used to seat the people who came to the Literature Club, when it met with Mrs. Schneider. There were that many of us! If you don't belong you are missing a genuine opportunity to keep in touch with the livest authors of America today. With Mrs. Philip B. Peyton as chairman, herself a writer of recognized ability, so acutely cognizant of literary values, the club has a leader of the highest type.

The next meeting is on Monday, Nov. 22, at 2:00 o'clock sharp, at Mrs. Peyton's quarters, 14-419. The program is as follows:

Fiction—Reviewed by Mrs. Conway.
Dark Dawn (Martha Osteno.)
My Antonia (Willa Cather.)

Non-Fiction—Reviewed by Mrs. Tharp.
Sherwood Anderson's Note Book.

Poetry—Given by Mrs. Cowley.
Wood Smoke (Lew Garrett.)

The Arts and Crafts Club will organize Friday of this week. All members of the Woman's Club interested in this department will meet with Mrs. Vinson at her quarters, 23-180 B at 2:30. Miss Mary Pendleton, fresh from two years of Art in Washington, will be leader.

MUSKETEERS MAUL MEMPHIS MEDICOS AS KJELSTROM STARS

Infantry Field Captain Runs and Passes Doughboys to 14-0 Victory

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 5.—The doughboys of Fort Benning mixed the necessary football strategy with the army tactics of marching, throwing and holding, and defeated the University of Tennessee Doctors with military precision, score 14 to 0. Their victory was clean-cut and decisive.

"Kelly" Kjelstrom, captain of the Benning boys, and the busiest man on the field, scored a touchdown in the final quarter and "Kelly" flipped a pass to "Fat" Franz for the subsequent marker. That was all of the scoring. But in the interim between the touchdowns the Infantrymen contented themselves with drilling around the field and holding the doctors well in check.

The doctors could never muster an effective offense against the Doughboys, registering only three first downs during the melee, while the soldiers were counting 10. The Docs' running attack was spiked in the first quarter when Capt. Sammy Sanders was knocked out after a hard tackle and could never quite shake off a cloudiness that severely hampered his playing. He finally had to leave the game in the fourth quarter.

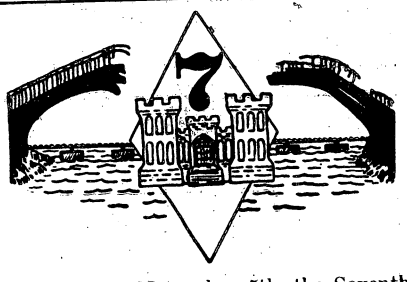
GARRISON RIDERS LEAVE FOR SHOW AT OGLETHORPE

Major Smith and Five Officers to Compete in Annual Chattanooga-6th Cavalry Horseshow

Major H. J. M. Smith, Cavalry, centaur-in-chief at the Infantry School, Captains Wise, Burress, McClure and Whisner and Lieutenant Jake Moon left the garrison this morning for Fort Oglethorpe, where they will compete in the Annual Chattanooga-6th U. S. Cavalry Horseshow on Friday and Saturday. They will clash on the polo field Sunday with Fort Oglethorpe's best malletmen. A string of 28 animals, including many who have won prizes at Benning, Augusta and throughout this section, is being taken. The officers and ladies who have in the past competed under Benning's colors have always won more than their share of the honors, and it is confidently expected that the invading team will bring home with them Monday many more ribbons to hang in the School Stables.



On Friday, November 5th, the Seventh Engineers celebrated their Organization Day with sundry sports and festivities, including a barbecue washed down with copious draughts of beer (near).

The day started with inspection by Captain Hyde in which Corporal Blevins the ranking corporal of the army, was hailed as the neatest soldier, with Sergeant Brock and Corporal Fishe running second and third. Score 9 for the Second Platoon. Next in order came a competition in squad drill and the Manual of Arms between picked squads of the platoons, which was won by the First Platoon.

The followed Tent Pitching and Display of Equipment in which Corporal Spencer and Cramer of the First were the neatest and most rapid. At this juncture the First Platoon seemed to have the competition sewed up but the motto of the Second was "Never Give Up". (The motto was written by some person with one-way pockets). For Dispain ran away with the potato and sack races and Hudson and Roper romped home in the Three-Legged Race. The Baseball Throw seemed to indicate a comeback for the long boys but the runts forged still farther ahead in the Shoe Race and Mule Race.

At the finish of the Mule Race the Second was leading by the score of 50 to 36 with two events remaining, the Relay and the Tug of War. But, sad to relate the Relay counted 10 and the Tug of War 25 points. The First Platoon Relay Team, with the fleet Kingsbury running number 4, ran away from the Second and the Tug of War team, with the burly "Bubbles" Flitsch as anchor man, pulled the Second Platoon off their feet. The final score was 71 to 50 in favor of the First Platoon.

As losers the Second Platoon was required to pull the winners in a pontoon wagon to the barbecue at the mess-hall. If the human mules had pulled as hard in the Tug of War as they did at the pontoon wagon there might have been a different result.

Organization Day was a notable succiderate actions of Private Sims, one of the foremost jockeys in the Mule Race, cess and was marred only by the inconirritatd his mount by endeavoring to spur him or her to a gallop and was tossed high and wide by Sergeant Bastman's pet. Several of the other mounts tried to emulate their stall-mate but their riders held them under better control, although Power lost first place when his mule thought that once around the track was enough and tried to run to the corral for oats.

BOSTON TO FORT MONROE VIA NEW YORK

Some time ago an officer of the C. A. C. en route to Fort Monroe to school from Boston ran over a drunk, who staggering out from behind a passing car in the suburbs of New York. He had mailed an application for full coverage to us before leaving Boston.

We received telegraphic notice of the accident before his application for insurance was received and notified our New York attorneys. His protection dated from postmark on his application.

The officer proceeded on his way and took no further notice of the matter. We closed the case by compromise and had the suit withdrawn, knowing that juries usually hold the car owner to blame when a pedestrian is injured, no matter what the circumstances of the case may prove to be.

BRIG. GENERAL WILLIAMS REPORTS FOR REFRESHER COURSE AT INF. SCHOOL

Widely Known Officer Reported Yesterday to Take Special Course

Brigadier General Herbert O. Williams, U. S. A., reported here on Thursday morning November 18th to take a special Refresher Course for General Officers at the Infantry School. General Williams will remain at the School for one month. The General comes to Benning from the Air Corps Tactical School at Langley Field Virginia at which place he completed a special course of instruction in Air Corps Tactics. Upon completion of the course at the Infantry School, General Williams will proceed to Fort Sill, Oklahoma where he will take a special course at the Field Artillery School and after the completion of the Field Artillery Course he will go to Fort Riley, Kansas, taking at that station a special course in the Cavalry School. After the completion of these special courses at the various service schools, General Williams has been assigned to command the Fifth Infantry Brigade at Vancouver Barracks, Washington.

General Williams before his appointment to the rank of Brigadier General was detailed as Excutive in the Office of the Inspector General in the War Department. Prior to his detail in the Inspector General's office he served for three years as Chief of Staff of the Panama Canal Department.

General Williams is widely known throughout the Army and many social affairs have already planned in his honor.

DOUGHBOYS LEAVE FOR PRESIDENT'S CUP GAME IN NATIONAL CAPITAL

Undismayed by Previous Reverses Berry's Men Hope to Conquer Quantico's Famous Leathernecks

Twenty-five determined Doughboys departed Wednesday with Washington and the President's Cup game with the Quantico Marines as their goal. Last year the famous Goettge and his running mates snatched the coveted trophy from our best, after a spirited and doggedly fought struggle, and according to the dope the Leathernecks should repeat this time, but in games of this kind the dope is more often wrong than right, and Coach Berry and his fighting followers are going prepared to make a last ditch stand for the honor of the Army. They hope to redeem a rather disappointing season and rise above mediocrity to bring back to Benning the cup emblematic of service supremacy. One thing is certain; they will fight the fight to the limit of their ability and even beyond. The entire garrison is satisfied that its representatives will show the best qualities of the real doughboy. No more can be asked.

President Calvin Coolidge with the President's Cup

The starting lineup against the boys from the big Marine base will probably be the same as started in the Savannah tussle with Parris Island. Franz and Deford, ends: Mack and Wargo, tackles; Bertelman and Stanovich, guards; Mlynczak, center; Kjelstrom, quarter; and Mitzen, Thompson and Lindsey, backs.

Of this array Bertelman, Landsey and Kjelstrom are veterans of both the 1924 and 1925 President's Cup games, and Franz was in the lineup against the Navy in 1924. Wargo and Mitzen were on last year's squad but didn't get into the game. Stanovich was kept out by an injury. Of the others "Tommy" Thompson is a youngster from the 2nd Battalion who has this year developed into a first class back, running and kicking well and playing a beautiful defensive game. Mlynczak came to us from the 2nd Division at Fort Sam Houston, where he played both the line and backfield on the Division team. Deford is also a newcomer to benning, and Lieutenant Mack is a former West-Pointer. He played on the "Four-Touchdown" Doughboys last year, but as only one officer can play in a President's Cup game he did not participate in last year's service classic; as George Smythe and Jock McQuarrie were being used alternately in the backfield.

Other Doughboys making the trip are Carpenter and May, ends; Douglas and Wiseman, tackles; Costello and Stewart, guards; Berish, center; Sweeney, Bennett and MacKechnie, backs.

Tuesday afternoon, when the team entered Doughboy stadium for practice, they found assembled in the big stand the entire available enlisted and commissioned strength of the garrison. Unknown to the team, all of the troops,

BENNING'S HORSEMEN TAKE MANY TROPHIES AT OGLETHORPE SHOW

Captain McClure Leading Scorer with Three Firsts on Downing

Maj. H. J. M. Smith, Cavalry, instructor in equitation at the Infantry School, and five doughboy officers invaded the bailiwick of the 6th Cavalry up at Fort Oglethorpe last week end to compete in the Annual Chattanooga-6th U. S. Cavalry Horseshow. The Benning team entered eleven events during the two days of the show. They placed in exactly eleven of them. In two classes the officers from the junction of the Chattanooga and the Uptaoi finish one, two, three, to the exclusion of the cavalry's best and the pick of the three Chattanoga hunt clubs that competed. Of a possible thirty-three places the team won twenty. This included one championship, four blues, seven reds and eight yellows. Rather a neat showing for the foot soldiers.

Leading the team in scoring was Captain R. A. McClure, Infantry. He rode Downing to victory in four classes and placed third on Portlight in still another. His blues were won in the Three-gaited class, open to all; the Three-gaited Class for Gentlemen Riders, the Class for Officers' Trained Chargers, and the Championship Class for Three-gaited horses wining first or second place in other events. His third place came on the in the Touch and Out Jumping contest.

Lieutenant Jake Moon accounted for the other Infantry first place by taking Shenandoah over the four foot hurdles of the open to all jumping class for a perfect performance. In this class the Benning centaurs swept the boards.

Captain W. A. Burress, 29 Infantry, was second on Menard and Capt. E. B. Whisner took third on Middleburg. The other class with exclusive Benning placers was the polo pony bending race in which Lt. Moon was first on Ginger, Capt. Whisner seond on Louis Lacey and Capt. Burress third on Pinkie.

After the wonderful showing of Friday and Saturday the Infantry School representatives attempted to complete the rout of the cavalry in a polo game against the 6th's best on Sunday afternoon, but here the Doughboys failed. For the first two periods of the afternoon's pastime the fight was close and even, but in the third period, Lieutant Sutton of the mounted troops ran wild and put the game out of the Benning four. The Infantry fought hard until the end, but the eight and final chucker found the 6th out in front by a 13 to 5 count.

SATELLITES

MR. SGT. WILLIAM J. STEWART
Inf. Sch. Det

If you wish to fill your mind with information on the crossing of the Alps by Hannibal, or if you wish to become acquainted with the strategy and tactics of the famous commanders of the late unpleasantness, you go over to the Infantry School Library where there are many and various works and treatises on subjects of this kind. There you will probably be greated by a smiling and rotundant, not to say corpulent—master sergeant from the Infantry School Detachment. It's Mr. Sgt. William J. Stewart, native Philadelphia war time officer and one of the original gang that came to the station on the Chattahoochee. In fact it was he who supervised the erection of the first tent of Camp Benning, as the Fort was then called.

Bill's military history begins in 1908, when he enlisted in the 163rd Co., C. A. C. Service with the boys that aim and shoot the big cannon was very congenial to our hero and his very first discharge showed him a sergeant. Now in this day and time it is not so unusual for a soldier to make sergeant during his first hitch, but in 1908 the army was a mighty tight closed corporation; few non-commission officers failed to reenlist, and frequently excellent soldiers served for more than one enlistment as privates, not because they lacked the ability, but simply because there weren't any vacancies. When, therefore, we say that Bill made sergeant in less than three years, we stamp him as a soldier of the first year.

In 1912 Bill was transferred to the School for Bakers and Cooks, at Fort Sam Houston, as an instructor in the culinary art. He served four years at the San Antonio station and was then transferred to the School of Musketry at Fort Sill. This is the parent organization of the present Infantry School Detachment, and so we see that Sgt. Stewart has a long claim on the green hat cord worn by Major Bootz's boys. But Bill hasn't worn it continuously since 1916, for when the big armies were raised in 1917, he was one of the many efficient noncoms of the regular establishment who were given commission for the period of the emergency. Bill sported the silver bar of 1st Lieutenant, receiving his commission August 28, 1917 and being discharged as an officer August 3, 1919.

Bill was the first Prison Officer that Benning ever had. He was later Police Officer. After his discharge as an officer and reenlistment he took over his present job in the Infantry School Library, where with his old sidekick, Sgt. Crosby who drove the first load of rations from Columbus to Fort Benning, he can always be found strictly on the job. He knows the Library like a book, and if you want anything there, Bill's the boy to get it for you. Pleasant, accomodating and efficient, Sergeant Stewart is the kind of noncom who really gives backbone to the army.

the 29th Infantry, 15th Tank Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery, 7th Engineers and all of the smaller units, had been formed, and with flags fluttering in the wind, bands playing, had been marched to Doughboy stadium to witness the "Army's Own" in their last Benning practice.

It was inspiring, not only to the team, but to all present. Each organization rendered in roaring cheers, their organization yell. Both 29th Infantry and 24th Infantry bands were present, and they certainly split either their lungs or their horns—something must have given way under that deluge of sound.

Both the 29th Infantry, and the 15th Tank Battalion were equipped with megaphones and each cheered its and the other's members till the concrete walls of Doughboy stadium rocked with the impact of sound.

The cheer leaders of the organizations deserve worlds of credit; for the timing of the cheering was perfect. When the 29th Infantry, the 15th Tank Battalion, and the 24th Infantry rolled out their cheers for each individual member of the team, and the team as a whole, it was something to make a whirling dervish out of any football player. And it had its effect. The team left Wednesday morning with the knowledge that the entire Infantry School, whether they won or lost, was behind them to the last man.

Practice consisted of touching up the fine points, signal practice and light scrimmage.

During scrimmage the entire team was assembled, while Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, commandant of the Infantry School, addressed them. In effect, the commandant told the team that they could win and that he, and the Infantry School, expected them to do so. Gen. Collins also stated that he, with the entire garrison, was proud of the team of its efforts, and of what they had accomplished; and that, win or lose, the Infantry believed in them.

A comparison of the initial lineups of each team shows a difference in average weight of about one pound. The Marie reserve strength, however, is much heavier than that of the Infantry.

The team will arrive in Washington Thursday morning, and during their stay in the Capitol will be quartered at Washington Barracks. Practice will be held Thursday and Friday afternoons.

The great send-off given the squad boosted its fighting spirit till it is brimming over. With the team tugging at the leash, we may see a different outcome from that of last year. Mike Murphy, veteran trainer for years at the University of Pennsylvania, had as a slogan for his teams the following: "A team that won't be licked can't be licked." With that spirit, the Infantry will meet the Marines.

Company "C" Co. Officers Class

Our long distance walker the elevated Whatley grabbed his gun by the barrel, slung same on his shoulder, and beat the "Dinkey" to block 21 the otherday. We understand that Jack Nealon another one who likes to walk has challenged the residents of Biglerville to a walking contest from his quarters to the Restaurant D' Bigerville.

We like our musketry in the morning and like to hear the saying "Thats all Gentlemen" at Three forty-five in the afternoon.

Oseth our assistant instructor is now limping on one foot in the afternoons. Too much musketry Monday.

Cecil, the unmacked tenor of the ninth squad had been intoning one of his favorite refrains, i e "What if I should be chosen" but it is heard no mare. The musketry instructor gave him his chance.

One of "B" Company's Satelites wants to know who started the cry "It won't be long now" why the Rabbi of course.

The bashful batchelor Welcker is to be the future masked tenor of C Company.

Oh yes have you heard our Rusty Hinge, quartet consisting of Rutledge-Maddox-Sanders and Schmidt? They are good.

The hog calling contest will start soon Stetler has already submitted his name.

We understand that the Fifth Eynad is now the panel section of "C" Company.

Heard on the range McGraw giving target desiquation "Reference that Bushy tree just beyond that other bushy tree target designation "Reference that Bushy two other bushy trees.

Rooks when Corporal had given target designation on landscape range. When one bright hombre says "Sir the Corporal hasn't mentioned what panel to fire on.

Moles designating target for demonstration synad range 600 same target you fired at last year.

Woman's Club

By Kate Parker Vinson

Place of meeting—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays
Date of next meeting—Dec. 6.
Time—2:15.

Charming in every particular was the program presented to The Infantry School Woman's Club on Monday last and the Polo Club, despite the rain was filled with people whose faces beamed with delightful appreciation. Surely a group was never so fortunate in lectures or musicians.

Mrs. Vincente Lim in native costume, an exquisite afternon dress, told in a masterful, yet distinctly unique and inimitable way, the story of the Phillipines from the time of their discovery by Magellan and the subsequent Spanish rule to the present day of the American regime. She gave us an insight into the educational situation past and present by recalling her first days in the Spanish school where at 6 or 7 she had to memorize Spanish Grammar from cover to cover never understanding a syllable of it. When she was 8 the American schools were established and she learned the sayings of Poor Richard and the Village Blacksmith as children her age were learning in America. She was educated entirely by American teachers from the Primary school through the University of the Phillipines and she stands today a monument to good teaching and excellent application. She pictured the rural and village life of the islands where cosmopolitian influences are not felt and told of the preparation for a weding where the groom's family hears all the trouble and expense incident to the marriage including the making of the entire trousseau, establishing the new home and even roasting the pig for the wedding feast. How lucky, those brides of the land of the Rising Sun! Parenthetically Mrs. Lim humored the fact that her children were all boys and sighed against the day when she would be a fultter with the prenuptical preparations of a Mother-in-law!

Queer customs including why the men wear their shirt-tails outside were explained, and many times during the course of her talk ripples of merriment broke from her audience bespeaking their pleasure.

Mrs. Leonard Boyd whose lyric soprono voice is so perfectly beautiful sang a group of songs.

Silvia—Oley Speaks.
Once in a Blue Mon—Howard Fisher.
Memory—Edna Rosalind Dark.

Mrs. Edwin Butcher so wonderfully gifted and so generous with her gift accompanied her.

Mrs. Keatley and Mrs. Keith were hostesses to the club, and after the program, Coffee and Cakes were served from a tea table covered with an exquisitely embroidered canton linen cloth. Which in itself paid tribute to the perfection of the art of needle craft in the orient as indeed did the exhibit of lovely things brought over by Mrs. Lim and Mrs. Overfelt.

Co-ed: "I think football is just glorious. It gives one such graceful carriage."

The brute: "Yes, and a couple of charley horses to draw it with."—The Flamingo.

YE OLDE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

We have two new student printers, Private Hernandez and Private Massey, of the 29th Infantry.

Compositor Paul wants to know the width of a capital "A" in 12-point Century Extended. Paul is studiously inclined and is pursuing a course in printing given by the printers' union which has him "stopped" on some technical points related to the Art Preservative of All Arts.

The Infantry School Telephone Directory is almost completed. Night Hawks Heisler and Garvey, who go to bed in the wee small hours, no doubt drift to slumberland with visions of numerals and wrong numbers in bloodless conflict and disarray.

Fable: The heating system in the Print Shop is of the latest and most modern type and the shop is now well heated.

UTILITIES DEPARTMENT

Occasionally we have troubles of our own. Who was the trusty sailor that reported "two gasoline tanks afloat on the port bow" last Monday?

We are reliably informed by our correspondent at Fort Benning that that vicinity enjoyed a gentle rain the first of this week. It must be true, judging from the number of calls from citizens who desired the services of roofers, cellar pumps, or the road gang. As a matter of fact, our own roof is leaking a little still.

TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

The Transportation Officer at this station is kept very busy these days, in addition to his transportation duties he is also Quartermaster.

Two unserviceable locomotives from Fort Eustis and one from Fort Monroe, Va., were received at this station Saturday, November 13th. These three locomotives will be given a general overhauling and be placed in serviceable condition for use at other stations as directed by the Quartermaster General. It will require approximately six months to complete the repairs of these three locomotives. Mr. S. G. Brown, Machinist, accompanied a locomotive from this station to Fort Eustis and returned in charge of the three locomotives named. He was on the road about twenty-five days, during which time he was his own "chief-cook and bottle-washer." We can imagine that on this trip he consumed enough hot-dogs, gold-fish, sardines, cheese and crackers to last him for some time. At any rate he appeared to be mighty glad to be able again to eat some of his wife's cooking.

1ST GAS REGT

COMPANY "F"

Less than three months ago our present area was only raw land, inhabited by recruits. Today is stands out as a most promising home for members of the Gas Company. Development has progressed rapidly on an extensive scale. Tents have been constructed, board walks have been laid, and our mess hall has a new coat of paint. But one of the features which marks it distinctively is the planting of grass and shrubbery, which it is hoped will transform it into a naturally atractive beauty spot. With the spirit of each and every man to back us we are easily conquering all obstacles and overcoming all barriers. And as we have proposed to make this area a credit to Fort Benning, we will not falter in our attempt. All in all, it shall be outstanding in its charm, and the Twenty-Ninth Infantry proud to refer to Company "F" First Gas Regiment as their neighbors.

One of the leading questions which has arisen since we came out here in the sticks and as yet remains unsolved is: "How are we going to keep our sheiks at home?" Especially Sgt. Pierce and Pfc. Anderson, who usually donate a considerable portion of their monthly incomes to the Howard taxis. That is during the first of the month, but toward the middle they gradually almost cease to patronize the taxi drivers. The latter is simple enough; for from all appearances they are entirely too liberal with the ladies, or their pay-day fortunes would ordinarily last much longer. But how, I ask sadly, are we gon'no keep 'em down on the farm?

'Tis rumored that Sgt. Pierce turns over a new leaf nearly every day—but it happens to be on his calendar pad.

Not altogether accustomed to this thick life, several Gas soldiers have become home-sick and as a result still haunt the main part of the camp. For their express benefit, when they happen to mis their boat home, Chief of (Kitchen) Police, Richardson, has volunteered his services to direct all stray Gasologists to Sgt. Whitemire's Free Hotel. Big hearted, isn't he!

Promotions come fast in the Gas Company if you know how to handle your hand. Ask any one of the following named men: Corporal Neal, Privates First Class Joyner, Peden, Vidrine and Wilson—They know!

Yes, our bravest soldier, "Tommy" is back. Owing to his great love for his dear old Uncle in general, and Company "F," First Gas Regiment, in particular, he could stay on furlough no longer. And so he turned in about a week before his vacation expired.

The Recruiting Officers have certainly been pretty active among the civilian population at various points throughout the country if the large number of rookies we have received during the past month is any indication. These new visitors are to be with us for the ensuing three years, and we hope they will realize how fortunate they are to have had the R. O. to present them with the key that would swing open the door to opportunity and success, e. g., their assignment to this company. And may they grasp this opportunity with both hands and help us to maintain the high standards we have always enjoyed.

"Canary."

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

In recent years due to the great rush of mail which the government has to handle at Christmas Time the Post-Office authorities have advertised, cautioned and warned the public to do their Christmas shopping early and get their gifts in the mail at an early date. Merchants every where urge the public at this time of the year to shop early and avoid the rush; the contention of the merchants that the customer gets much better service at the store and much better and a more varied stock of merchandise is at the disposal of the purchaser. The Columbus Ladger has this to say on the subject.

"Uncle Sam reminds us of the approaching holiday season with an urge to "mail Christmas gifts early." This is in the interest of the Postoffice Department, but it is timely advice just the same, despite the fact that it is over a month before Christmas.

Thus early begins the thousand and one charges to American holiday giftgivers to shop early and avoid the rush; avoid the confusion and the dissatisfaction of eleventh-hour purchases of gifts that never will please the expectant recipents, and instead adopt the deliberate and leisurely way of buying what your friends wish and need from fresh and carefully assorted stocks.

There was a time when such a suggestion seemed impossible of following by sensitive and discriminating givers. "What," they were inclined to ask, "will my friend think of a gift reaching him a week or ten days before Christmas? Would it not be construed as an invitation to giving?"

Not in this latter day with the shops supplying in manifold attractive design stickers giving this fair warning: "Do not open till Christmas!"

Doubtless hundreds of thousands of Americans of all ages heed that advice nowadays. They wait for Christmas morning to get the thrill of the thing. Opening packages with the admonition in plain view, "Do not open until Christmas," is almost a sacrilege. And as, more and more, this attitude of the sender is considered, more and more will here be a hesitancy in opening them beforehand, and more and more the annual congestion of the Christmas mails will be relieved, the postal employees may have their holiday with the rest of us, and the merchants and shop people will be able to join in all the fun and happiness of the Great Day without tired bodies and ragged nerves.

Incidentally, it will be to the interest of shoppers of the district to come to Columbus for their holiday gifts. Local merchants are well supplied."

New York "Shills"

It is probable that comparatively few people know what is meant by a "shill," not being accustomed to the word inas much as it has become obsolete in relation to its original meanings, but most of us know what a shill is when the meaning of the word as used these days is given. The following paragraph from The Outlook explains what a "shill" is:

> The latest strike in New York City was that of the "shills." A shill is one who sits in a sightseeing bus until the time to start and then decamps in order to occupy a conspicuous place in the next waiting bus. Bus owners have found that it is necessary to have a few people in each waiting bus to attract cash customers. The "shills" provide the needed touch to indicate that the bus is just going out. "Shilling" has become a regular trade in New York. Scores of people make their living by sitting day after day in these waiting buses. The "shills" banded together recently and were able to force their daily wage from $2.50 up to $3.

One sees "shills" almost everywhere he goes. They are employed in places where they are least expected. They are almost always found in the outer circle of the crowd that surround a fakir's stand or wagon or wherever a fakir is holding forth. The "shill," when an unusual offer is made to the crowd, rushes forward and "buys" something. It may be that he gets a perfectly good dollar for 75 cents, or some other equally attractive trade. The "shill" does this in order to attract the attention of the crowd and it makes the fakir's business more profitable than it would otherwise be.—Enquirer-Sun.

Good Failure

By Marion Lockwood
(From the New York Times)

If you should win the harbor, then the mart,
And finally the slim defiant height
Where sleeps the citadel, as though it knew
It need not watch against the panting throng—
For only men with chiseled cheeks and brows
Have left its road behind them, flung its gate,
In chilling, choking, strong, regretless work—
I should be glad
I should smile well; and in my dizzy heart
A softer, safer, surer beat would grow
Where hot and nervous movements swayed it long
In days when I knew ecstasy, despair
And drab indifference in one moment blown
Together like a crowd of mismatched souls.
I should look out upon you with far eyes
Which—though I mounted with you seemingly—
Surveyed you in a cloud, and touched your face
As one feels something fleshless and unreal;
I should know sweeping wonder and wide pride;
I should burn with the fire of your applause;
I should be happy—when I could forget
That I had somehow lost you in the wind.....

But if you failed: if in the surging strain
That swells up toward the white awaiting goal
You lost the final note, your voice went dry
And cracked in discord till your burning ears
Heard, and your head went down—a heavy cup
Deep-brewed with bitterness and self-contempt—
I should be sad.....I should face out the hours
With eyes that were mist-blinded to the morn;
I should move through the days with weeping hands.
That often touched your head and tried to speak,
But merely told that sorrow has no words.
I should be sad—oh, very sad for you—the crown
When I did not remember that you were
More sweetly mine, more splendid for the crown
Of dust that laid so deep upon your eyes,
A dancer at defeat, a swifter soul
To heave up through the storm—with a dead star.

Columnist Hugh Rowe, of the Athens Banner-Herald, tells a story of a taxi driver who was charged with using violent language in the presence of a lady, and who protested that the complainant was "no lady." The story goes on to say:

"Indeed," said the magistrate, "I wonder if you know a lady when you see one."

"Of course I do," answered the driver, indignantly. "Why, only the other day I saw one; she gave me a pound-note for a shillin' fare an' walked away. 'Ere mum,' I says, 'what about yer change?' 'Don't be a blinkin' old fool,' says she; 'keep it an' get drunk enough to kiss your mother-in-law.' "Now," he ended, triumphantly, "that's what I calls a lady."—Enquirer-Sun.

ARMY-MARINE GAME

The Secretary of War in a letter to he Chief of Staff expresses himself as follows:

"The annual inter-service football contest for possession of the cup presented by the President of the United States will take place this year on November 20. This cup was prseented by the President of the United States in the interest of better athletics among the personnel of he Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and in presenting the cup, the President stipulated that the teams be truly representative of the personnel contending. This requires that the greater percentage of the players be enlisted men, and limits the number of officers playing at any one time to one.

"This is the third contest for possession of the cup. Two years ago the Army team from Fort Benning, Georgia, won possession of the cup by defeating the Navy Scouting Fleet team. Last year the Army team from the same post lost the cup to the Marine Corps in the final game, a hard-fought, cleanly played game, that was a demonstration of all that is best in sportsmanship. This year a team from Fort Benning has been designated to represent the Army and to regain possession of the cup from the Marine Corps. The Navy elected not to enter a team this year.

"I am especially interested in these annual games, because they are the big Service games from the enlisted man's standpoint and should lead to more and better athletic contests in the Army. For these reasons I believe that this game should receive the full support of all Army personnel in and about Washington, and I hope that all will make it a point to be present at the game."

The president and the Secretary of War have shown a personal interest in this game and desire that it meet with all possible success. It is, therefore, requested that you inform all officers and men of your command of this game, explaining the conditions under which it is played and calling attention to the fact that it is the big service game for enlisted men.

Attendance at this game may be authorized by Chiefs of Branches and Bureaus to the extent that Government interests will permit.

The following named officers have been designated by the Secretary of War as a committee on arrangements:

Major Irving J. Phillipson, A. G. D.
Major Allan C. McBride, G. S.
Major Paul W. Bande, Inf.
Capt. Kendall J. Fielder, Inf.
Capt. John R. D. Cleland, Inf.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL MEETING WITH SUCCESS

It has been announced by the Officers in charge of the Red Cross Drive here at Fort Benning that the drive is meeting with success everywhere in the garrison. It is confidently expected that the entire garrison will go over one hundred per cent. for membership in this worthy organization. Results of the Roll Call in the various organizations, such as the Glee Club, the Dramatic Club and the Woman's Club have not yet been obtained; these organizations are being asked to subscribe to the Red Cross in a body. It was also stated that the progress made this year up to date is very much better than it was last year.

The following military organizations in the post have a one hundred per cent membership in the Red Cross for this year: Headquarters, The Infantry School, Company "F" 29th Infantry, Company 'A' 24th Infantry, Motor Repair Section number 86 and Motor Ttransport Company number 100. The money has been received, already, from Motor Repair Section number 86. These organizations are to be congratulated on their prompt and complete answer to the appeal of America's most worthy association.

GLEE CLUB

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL
Fort Benning, Georgia.
November 12, 1926.

My dear Mrs. Dunlop:

While the activities of the Glee Club have been the means of providing much delightful entertainment for the personnel of this command, The World War Pageant which it presented last evening has a far deeper significance than the mere affording of amusement. In fact, the presentation of this Pageant has come to be not only the outstanding event in the annual observance of Armistice Day at Fort Benning, but a very important event in the life of this Garrison.

The successful production of a Pageant of the character and the magnitude of that in question is a result not achieved without much labor and devotion of the part of the Glee Club. The performance is both educational and inspirational. Unquestionably those who see it are the better citizens for having done so.

I am sure, Mrs. Dunlop, that in thanking the Glee Club I am but voicing the the thanks of the thousands from this command and from the city of Columbus who witnessed the truly wonderful performance at the Stadium last evening.

Cordially yours,
EDGAR T. COLLINS,
Brigadier General, U. S. A.,
Comandant.

Walker Whiteside in "The Arabian

Walker Whitesidc's coming to Columbus is invariably looked upon as one of the supreme dramatic events of the theatrical season. All the more so in these days of scarcity of attractions of the first class, for Mr. Whiteside adheres to the honored traditions of the stage, for acting to him is a religion. This fine portrayer of Grandee Oriental Types, will be seen at the Springer Opera House in this city on Friday night, Nov. 26, at which time he will present his latest success, "The Arabian," in which he will enact the domnant character of Abd el Rey, a famous bandit of the Egyptian desert.

OPENING DANCE AT SERVICE CLUB NO. 1

The initial dance of the season, held Wednesday, November 10th, was a huge success. The music was splendid, and as abundant as could reasonably be desired. A good time was enjoyed by all. There will be another dance on the evening of November 17th, at 8:30 p. m.

The American Legion held their regular monthly cession in Service Club No. 1, Tuesday, November 16th. The meeting was called to order by, Vice Commander, Capt. Bert Lennon, in the absence of Comander Reeves who was out of town. Chaplin McKenna was introduced to the members of the post, and rendered a very enjoyable talk on Legion work in the Philippines.

AN INVITATION TO ALL YE ROAMING ARTILLERYMEN

If you contemplate a visit to New York City, you will be interested in knowing that the local Coast Artillery Reserves are very active, and that they have monthly conferences which offer troop school instruction as well as the opportunity to meet old friends, and become acquainted with new ones.

These meetings are held in the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West 39th street, New York City, at 8:00 P. M., on the third Monday of each month.

November 15, 1926; December 20, 1926; January 17, 1927; February 21, 1927; March 21, 1927; April 18, 1927; May 16, 1927; and possibly June 20, 1927.

One of the most active participating regiments is the 607th Coast Artillery (Tractor) and they extend a most hearty invitation to all visiting brothers-in-arms to be their guests at these conferences.

Prior to the regular sessions, the Sea Hawks (as the 607th Coast Artillery is generally known) meet for dinner at some well known restaurant or club. For information regarding these delightful gatherings, when you are in New York, telephone the Commanding Officer, Colonel Robert S. Allyn, at Cortland 3497, or the Publicity Officer, Captain Abbott Oberndorfer, at Hanover 1600.

Meet, mess and mingle with us, the latch string is out.

ROCKNE'S IRISHMEN RUIN ARMY'S DREAM OF GRIDIRON CROWN

Young Flannagan Runs 60 Yards For Only Touchdown of Thrilling Struggle

When young Chris Flannagan, surrounded and protected by other fighting Irishmen, started on a tour of the Army's left flank early in the third quarter of Saturday's football matinee in the Yankee Stadium up in the wet and wicked Metropolis, West Point was still strictly in line for the mythical national championship. But when the journey continued some sixty yards and beyond a white line, bisected by a set of goal posts, the Cadets' dream of wearing the crown was ruthlessly shattered, and Knute Rockne's Harp Symphony had advanced another step up the ladder. The touchdown scored by Flannagan and O'Boyle's accurate placement kick gave the Hoosiers 7 points and victory in one of the season's most important games.

It was a case of two very evenly matched teams fighting a superb if not spectacular battle. The dash of the flying Notre Dame back was the only real high light of the afternoon. The Rocknemen best the Cadets at their own games, sticking to a land attack and scorning the air line. They outrushed the Army by over a hundred yards, and outplayed the Cadets in three of the four quarters. The other was about even. Murrell, Hewitt, Wilson, Cagle and the other Army backs beat in vain at the Notre Dame forward line. The Shamrock linesmen were more than a match for their sternest efforts. O'Boyle and Flannagan made repeated gains for the Irish, but except for the latter's tallying trip were unable to continue the march long enough to carry the ball over.

At Benning a large crowd turned out to watch the play by play details of the game as they were shown on Colonel Bond's big Playground on Gowdy Field. The gathering took on all the aspects of a real football game, when a group of officers organized themselves into a cheering section, and supported the fighting Cadets as spontaneously and energetically as though they had actually been in the Yankee Stadium.

A Continuation of THAT FORT BENNING STOCKADE By Sjovall.

I sit in the midst of a silent,
Well disciplined prison mess,
And hark for the click of a knife or a spoon,
Where silence is always best.
The Nom Com says gruffly, "Attention
Who made that noise over there?"
The silence grows thicker and no one,
Dares look around or even stare.

One of the boys sticks his mitt up,
Saying, "I made that noise over here."
All right, turn in your bunk and your mattress.
And sleep on the floor, do you hear?"
"At ease" is given by the Corporal,
The eating goes on as before,
Now do be careful and noiseless.
If you don't you will sleep on the floor.

"Did you work in the kitchen the last time
That I was on duty at night?
All right, get up there and stay here,
And do wha the cooks tell you right.
You turn in your bunk and your mattress,
And report to me out in the yard.
The track is getting guite soft now,
And I want you to whip it down hard"

The nights getting chilly and breezy,
And the floor is naturally hard,
"Say will you loan me a blanket?
I'll loan you one sometime old Pard.
I don't quite savvy this gas stuff,
Why do they always take names,
Can't they understand that it's tough.
To be eating in silence so tame?"

"I'm tired of running around the track,
I want to be out where I'm free,
If I ever get out of here this time,
You won't see me here again, not me.
I'm wanting to gt out and I'll stay out.
I'll never come back any more,
For I'm ired of eating in silence,
And I'm thru sleeping on the hard floor."

WHO'S WHO!

The job of Provost Marshal at a station the size of Fort Benning is desired by few and yet at times it is the envy of many. When you are caught speeding or going the right direction on the wrong road or going the wrong direction on the right road or when you leave your garage door open and the guard awakens you at one a. m. and tells you to close it these are the times that the job of the Provost Marshal is to be envied. The Military Police in this garrison are as efficient if not more so than will be found anywhere. At Fort Benning we have many very large affairs, such as the Pageant, which was recently produced in Doughboy Stadium; the traffic must be regulated at these large entertainments to which the general public is invited. These arrangements all come to the Office of the Provost Marshal for completion. The traffic has always been well handled here, under the supervision of the Provost Marshal.

Captain Erle O. Sandlin Infantry U. S. A. is the Provost Marshal at Fort Benning and not with-standing the predominence of desagreeable incidents pertaining to his office he has proved himself to be efficient as well as very affable and entertaining. Captain Sandlin's first experience in the military service was with the Alabama Guard in 1910. He was appointed in the Regular Army on July 1 1920 as a First Lieutenant of Infantry. He is a graduate of the Infantry School, having taken the Company Officers Course in 1920-21. Upon completion of the Course at the Infantry School, Captain Sandlin remained at Fort Benning and was appointed Provost Marshal in 1924. During the period from 1921 to 1923 he was an instructor in the Second Section of the Academic Department and during 1923 Captain Sandlin served as Provost Marshal in Columbus.

Captain Erle O. Sandlin Infantry U. S. A.

Captain Sandlin is an expert horseman having several personal mounts which he has shown in various horseshows of the South. He is an ardent supporter of Polo and has participated in all of the Horse-shows at this station since becoming a member of the permanent personal and has won many prizes.

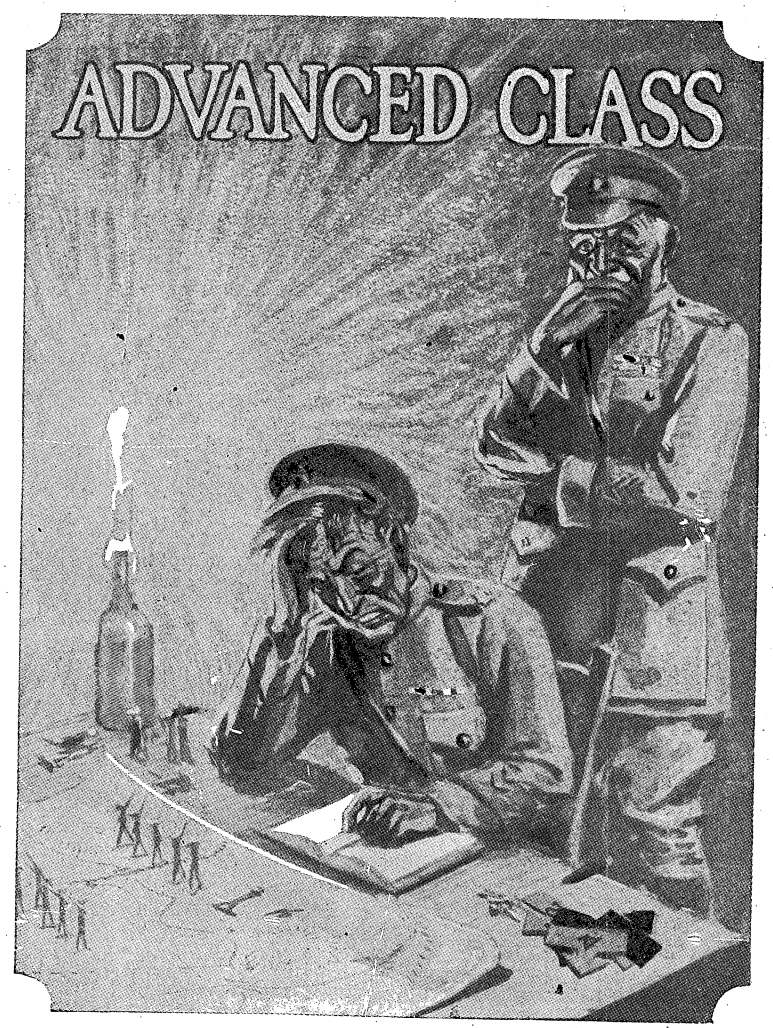
-:- MONOGRAPHS -:-



Committee "H" of the fourth section of the Academic Department makes the following announcement regarding the presentation of Monographs by student officers of the Advanced Class:

Nov. 22, 1926, in Assembly Hall No. 3, from one-thirty p. m. until four p. m.

"The War of 1812"—Capt. Albert F. Christie, Infantry.

"Campaign of Waterloo" (including Ligny and Quatre Bras), 1815—Capt. Paul M. Ellis, Infantry.

"Taylor's Campaign in Mexico" 1846-47—Capt. Harry R. Evans, Infantry.

"Scott's Campaign in Mexico" 1846-47—Capt. Harry B. Hildebrand, Infantry.

"First Battle of Bull Run" July 21, 1861—Maj. William Buerkle, Infantry.

November 23, 1926, from one-thirty p. m. until four p. m. in assembly hall No. 3:

"Jackson's Shenandoah Valley Campaign" January to June, 1862 — Capt. Emil W. Leard, Infantry.

"McClellan's Peninsular Campaign" March 17 to July 3, 1862—Capt. Carl A. Bishop, Infantry.

"Battle of Shiloh" April 6 and 7, 1862—Capt. Stephen G. Henry, Infantry.

"Second Battle of Bull Run" August 28 to 30, 1862—Maj. Ford Richardson, Infantry.

"Battle of Antietem" Sept. 17, 1862—Capt. John E. Copeland, Infantry.

Each officer is allowed twenty-five minutes in which to deliver his monograph and the talk is given generally from maps and charts prepared by the officer. Committee "H" extends an invitation to members of the Garrison and to the families of Student Officers to hear these very interesting monographs.

To: The Executive Officer.

1. The writer has been annoyed at various times by and errant member of the cat family, commonly known as the pole-cat (politicus-caticusanius), which persists in taking up its domicile at Quarters 20-H.

2. The nature of this pest is such that the general peace and physical comfort of the writer and his family has been greatly impaired at unexpected hours of the night.

3. It is believed that there is some activity of the garrison which has among its functions the removal and extermination of Polecats and it is, therefore, requested that steps be taken to accomplish this laudable result.

24TH INF.

Private first class Henry B. Jones and Private first class Harry B. Jones, twin brothers, were, on November 16th, discharged from Company "H" of the 24th Infantry. The "Jones twins," as they were known in their company, left behind them in the Army a wonderful record.

Before coming into the service these two brothers worked their way through the Lincoln Institute at Nichetoche, Louisiana, and being unable to obtain funds to go to college, they decided to enlist in the Army. They enlisted in November, 1923, and during their three years in the Army they saved four hundred dollars. When the expense that the private soldier is put to these days, in our army, is considered, the savings of the Jones brothers is certainly a noteworthy accomplishment and they are to be congratulated on ther perseverance and force of character in accomplishing what they set out to do. These soldiers were both discharged with character "Excellent" and left a reputation behind them for being fine young men with considerable military ability.

REGIMENT SINGS FOR TENOR

Last week Rafaelo Diaz, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, visited the regiment and was entertained, while there, by the entire regiment. A program of spirituals and folksongs were sung for him, which he seemed to enjoy very much. After the singing was over the regiment reformed outside the Service Club and had its photograph taken with the noted tenor.

Mr. Diaz expressed himself in no uncertain terms over the novel treat and hoped that mass singing would be kept up. He said that he had never been quite so well entertained and would carry away with him the fondest regards of the regiment.

24TH INF. IN ARMISTICE DAY PAGEANT

Besides the troops used on the stage during the big pageant in the Doughboy Stadium on November 11th, other members of the regiment were busy during the presentation that did not appear before the footlights.

Captain Leiber, in charge of the pyrotechnics, for the pageant used eight soldiers of the regiment to aid him with the colored fire and detonations and the one pounders that aided so materially in making the spectacle a success.

Capt. Leiber spoke in the highest terms of the very efficient manner which his detail performed its function. Buglers and drummers were also used to effect the German entrance, both from the 24th Inf.

24TH BASKETEERS PLAY COLUMBUS COLORED "Y"

A fast quintet from the regiment will meet a picked team from the Columbus Colored "Y" tonight at the Garrison Gymnasium. The team from the regiment has been practicing for some time and hopes to take the "Y" team "into camp" as its first bow to the sport fans this season.

The final line-up is being kept a secret and will be announced just prior to the whistle. It is understood from the best of sources that a fast five will be on the floor. Mark the date in your hat and turn out and support the team.

29TH INF.

Company "C"

John R. Bailey, the former company butcher, has bouth out and has left for parts unknown.

Charles White and Allen Weber are two other valuable men we lost last week.

Cpl. William N. Fox reported in from furlough last week from Virginia. Some of these F. F. V.s are a joke.

One of the recruits (?) when asked how he woul dchallenge a man at night, said; "Iwould command halt, come to port arms, fire my rifle three times, call the Corporal of the Guard, fix bayonets and charge."

COMPANY "D"

Sgt. Gould, our former company clerk, and Private first class William Goggans, our A-1 cook, have left us the past week. Sgt. Buckner was also discharged this week but has taken on for another three years and has left on a three-months furlough.

Only six more days till Thanksgiving and the one big feed of the year. Sgt. Vines is going around with the customary deep creases adorning his brow.

"Omaha" Beith, otherwise known as Silk Hat Harry, the Nebraska wind storm, looks quite the jolly old berries in his ressurected Pershing cap.

Pvt. Whittaker has been elevated to the position of acting corporal of the galloping Seventh squad.

"Shug" Higson, our dapper benedict, has made up his mind to leave the army and has applied for a purchased discharge.

Handshaking is supposed to reach its highest development in the army and apparently it has reached its peak in the person of Private Charles E. King, Company "D," 29th Infantry, now undergoing treatment at the Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Colorado, where he has been a cheerful patient for about six months.

Recently on a wager with one of his fellow patients he broke through a circle of admirers of Charles G. Dawes, succeeding in shaking hands with the Vice-President, of whom he is a great admirer.

Not satisfied with accomplishment in mitt flopping, King, a devout Catholic, shook hands with Cardinal Hayes.

Now, as what he terms the peak of his endeavors he has another bet that he will oscillate the palm of Queen Marie of Roumania, who is expected to visit Denver in the near future.

Sgt. Page, of the Infantry School Detachment, Pvt. Pace, of the Fifteenth Tank Battalion, and Pvt. Poluski, of "H" Company, 29th Infantry, are also patients at the Colorado hospital.

COMPANY "E"

"E" Company's boys of the Minstrel are doing fine. We have with us to-day Cpl. William Oikari, who has just arrived from a ten day furlough, but, he left Pvt. (Dog Face) McGuire some place in the wilds of Alabama. Cpl. Felder will leave on a ninty day furlough on the 22nd, of this month. Lucky Boy Joe, put us wise to how, you got it.

CO. "G"

Company "G" is still holding her own. We are very glad to let everybody know that we are hard to beat. Corporal Kuhn went over the top with his Chief of Infantry's Combat Squad with many points to spare. This was made possible by the excellent leadership of Lieutenant Wilson and Corporal Kuhn. We are proud of every man in the squad and appreciate the excellent work they did to put it over.

If you will notice around Broad street you can see a keen looking soldier walking around. He used to wear his civies when he went to the city, but since he was promoted to Sergeant he wears the uniform. Suppose everyone is wise to this fellow as it is our old friend Sergeant William M. Sutherland.

Corporal Freelan F. Newman will be discharged in a few days and states that he is going back to his little home in Alabama. We regret very much to say "good by" Newt., but we know how it is when a man wants to be back with the home folks.

Alfred Herring.

Company "H"

Corporal Braught has returned from Furlough. He came sailing in last Sunday morning to be welcomed by a nice reception. About fifty members of the company took him for a joyous "Blanket Ride." Since the event, Corporal Braught has announced his intentions of taking out his next stack with the air Service. We say this much for him, he certainly did resemble an aviator to a "T."

That wonderful aggregation of grid stars from "H" company is still making a mark for the Company. They won a game from "G" Company last Sunday by a 21-0. They got their names in the Columbus Ledger too. One may pick up a copy of the Ledge in the Company any where and find a certain section clipped from it. What are you going to do with it boys, send it to the "Home Town Chronic?"

Private H. L. "Blind" Ellis has been appointed Private First Class. Say boy, how's the chances of a "Two-bit" loan?

We have in the Company a Champion Lair. With his permission, I will publish his name next week. He simply cannot be beaten.

THEATERS

A resume of the plays to be presented each week will be published in this column.

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 19

"Ransom's Folly," starring Richard Barthelmess in an historical drama of the days when the west was young. Richard Harding Davis was the author of this stirring story of love, among exciting, gripping, scenes of Indian warfare, stage hold-ups and stalwart American soldiers of pioneer days.

"Hello Hollywood," a mermaid comedy.

SATURDAY NOVEMBER 20

"A Man Four Square," featuring Buck Jones with Florence Gilbert in the leading feminine role. The story deals with a westerner, who goes to Chicago for a whirl at life; but after experiencing synthetic gaity and artificial friends, he realizes that his heart is really in the west where his true friends are. He returns and becomes a spectacular hero. Love plays an important role in this picture of gripping excitement.

"Starvation Blues," a cook comedy.

SUNDAY NOVEMBER 21

"Tin Gods," featuring the congenial Tommy Meighan in an intensely dramatic story of a man married to a strong willed, ambitious woman; after their break, he leaves for South America, where, due to the influence of a dancing girl, he sees the light and makes a fighting come-back. Seething thrills, tempestous romance and wholesome laughs are all found in abundance.

"Rough and Ready"—Romeo "Kinograms."

MONDAY NOVEMBER 22

"Rustlin for Cupid." A Peter B. Kyne story, starirng George O'Brien and Anita Stewart in a drama of mis-understandings where a pullman porter starts a romance that ends in a dramatic feud in New Mexico. It is the story of a man who put honor before love.

"Green Archer No. 10." The first five who successfully guessed "who is the Green Archer" will receive two $1.50 coupon books, their names will be published on the screen this evening.

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 23

"You'd Be Surprised." Raymond Griffith of the High Hat Comedy fame stars in this mysterious comedy drama. The story is thrilling, and the mystery so perfect that you'll be very much surprised when you learn the solution.

"Goat Getter"—A Juvenile Comedy.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 24

"The Dude Cowboy." A Bob Custer thriller. This smashing Western drama shot through the blazing color of romance is a stirring tale of Arizona with a "Dude Ranch" as a back ground and a sinister bandit as manager. It is delightful in its humor, vibrant with dramatic situations and ends in an absorbing climax.

"Egged On"—A whirlwind comedy.

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 25

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood," starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in an inside story of the temtations of Filmtown, of the primrose path around the picture studios and the many fed up, fagged out and far from home people of the movie world. SCOUT NEWS TROOP 11
BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

At the last meeting of the Scouts we were given a talk by Capt. Braun in which he expressed his appreciation for for our work in the Pageant. We were also told of a letter from the heads of the Pageant tanking us for our work. Sgt. Stewart, our Asst. Scoutmaster, is very sick in the hospital and we all hope he will soon recover.

The Scouts are trying to do a Good Turn for the post every week so last Sunday they cleaned out the spring in the park in back of the Gymnasium this we be their Good Turn for this week.

FIRST BOY SCOUTS IN AMERICA TO DRIVE ARMY TANKS

By Lt. Clyde Grady

To be the only Boy Scouts in the United States, and the youngest persons to have ever driven an army light tank those mighty weapons of Uncle Sam's newest branch of the service, is some distinction, and there is no doubt about that. This honor so far as is known belongs to Bud Russ and George (Speedy) Helms, members of troop eleven, Fort Benning, a branch of the Boy Scouts of Columbus, Georgia, and this is just exactly how it was brought about.

Major E. S. Miller, the Commanding Officer of the Fifteenth Tank Battalion, is especially interested in the Boy Scout movement, which is world wide, and particularly is he interested in two youngsters of troop eleven who are extremely popular in Fort Benning with everybody who knows them, and in Columbus, where they attend school. One of these boys is "Bud" Russ, fourteen year old son of Major Joseph Russ, former commanding officer of this same Battalion and at present Assistant Executive of the Infantry school. "Bud's" father first went with the Tanks way back yonder in 1921 at Camp Meade, Maryland, and obviously "Bud" is a Tanker by actual service.

The other scout is "Speedy" Helms, whose father is Colonel George W. Helms, Executive of the Infantry School. "Speedy" and "Bud" being about the same age, met at Camp Meade more than five years ago and became fast friends, having many things in common. It probably wouldn't be just right to accuse "Bud" of proselyting, but whenever you find a Tanker he will always tell you what a fine branch of the service it is, and that's only human, and it seems that whenever one comes in contact with tanks and tankers he just can't help getting the germ in his system. So for a long time at Fort Benning when there is an athletic or swimming contest for boys one will always hear the announcer in calling off the names of the contestants, say, "next, Speedy Helms of the Fifteenth Tank Battalion."

So one day down at the garrison swimming pool when "Bud" and "Speedy" were winners in aquatic contests Major Miller told them both to come down to the Fifteenth Tank Battalion some day and they would be taught the art of driving a light tank, and right then they began to feel the thrill of their lives. Bright and early the very next morning both appeared at the Battalion Commander's office, and standing in the middle of the floor at attention they rendered the proper military salute which would have done credit to an old army sergeant reporting for duty.

Then they were put in charge of Corporal Willie Fuller of company "C" the premier tank driver of the army tank corps, and undoubtedly one of the greatest shots who ever looked over the sights of a one pounder gun. Being naturally intelligent and bright the two scouts by noon were piloting their tanks over the uneven terrain just like old timers.

"Bud" who weighs ninety-eight pounds and "Speedy" who is a year older than "Bud" and tips the scales at one hundred and twelve pounds take an active part in all forms of athletics in which youngsters participate, which include foot-ball and swimming.

The following pupils deserve special mention for coming to school in the terrible downpour Monday.

MARINES REALIZE THEIR FIVE YEAR DREAM AND DEFEAT THE DOUGHBOYS

Benning Boys Lose 16-7, Wasting Many Chances To Score

Two gentlemen from the United States Marine Corps, Gotko (pronounced Gotto) and Wetja (pronounced Wee-Jee) refused to treat the delegation of Fort Benning Doughboys with the courtesy and hospitality due to distinguished visitors, and largely through the exertions of these same two gentlemen the Parris Island Leathernecks committed a murder they have long dreamed of. They brutally slew the jinx which has pursued the Devil Dogs for the past four years and prevented them from winning a football game from the Infantry. Then they wooed and won the Goddess of Good Luck and with the aid and assistance of that fickle lady Thursday's football game in Savannah resulted in a 16 to 7 victory for Coach "Swede" Larsen's Sea Soldiers.

About sixty-five hundred fans, including a thousand Marines from the Paris Island base, saw the downfall of the Doughboys. They saw Mitzen and Thompson tear the Marine line to pieces early in the first quarter and watched Kjelstrom nonchalantly flip a twenty-yard pass to his old sidekick "Pat" Franz, and the army rooters among them, few in numbers but loud of voice, went wild as the rotund end rambled unmolested over the goal line. The cheering increased when the same Kelly to Fat airline added the extra point. It looked like an easy win for the Doughboys.

But then the curiously named pair already mentioned with valuable assistance from the damsel aforesaid, swung into action and tied the score in the second quarter. They took turns heaving the pigskin with apparently reckless abandon, but somehow or other one of two lads, Hartley or Johnson, always got under it as it fell. Soon the oval was resting within ten yards of the Infantry goal line. Then Mr. Gotko passed to Mr. Johnson over the goal line, and Mr. Wetja casually and without apparent effort, booted a placement goal to tie the score. Later in the same quarter, young "Tommy" Thompson, playing safety for the Infantry, thought he was playing baseball and tired to make a shoestring catch of one of Miller's punts. He forgot that a football is considerably larger than a Spalding horsehide and muffed. A Marine recovered the fumble on the Infantry 10-yard line. Then Dame Fortune positively beamed on the Leathernecks. The Doughboy line stopped a plunge by Gotko without gain. Miller took a pass from center and did a juggling act with the ball, tossing it hither and yon. As the Infantrymen charged in upon him he batted the oval way over to his left, followed it up, grabbed it again and galloped to the one yard line before brought to earth. Wetja bucked it over on the next play, and added the point with unerringly accurate toe.

Kjelstrom and his henchmen fought hard to even the count. Then Kel filled the air with passes and Franz and Tommy Thompson did some nice receiving, but misfortune dogged the Doughboys and they simply couldn't put over the scoring punch. The first half ended with the Leathernecks leading 14 to 7.

The Infantry opened the second half with renewed drive. With Bennett acting as battering ram the land soldiers marched methodically to four first downs, but just as a touchdown seemed inevitable, there was a fumble and the ever alert Marines recovered. Miller kicked out of bounds and danger. Again and again the Doughboys swept over the field headed for the promised land, but each time something stopped the attack, a fumble or an intercepted pass, and twice the Marines held for downs. In the fourth quarter Sweeney took a punt out of Mitzen's hands and tried to reverse his field a la George Smythe, but Weelie isn't George and Wetja downed him on the Infantry four-yard line. Kelly dropped back to kick, but the pass was bad and the Infantry leader was tackled behind the line by Blaine for a safety.

It was a heart-breaking game to lose. The Marines had three scoring opportunities and converted each into a score. The Doughboys had many chances but capitalized only one. It wasn't that they didn't fight hard, for they did. In fact they were fighting so hard that in the fourth quarter scarcely a play was run on which a Marine wasn't knocked out and carried off the field. This without any dirty football, too.

Bennett did some fine line plunging. Kelly was himself both in passing and running, Fat Franz grabbed passes in fine style and played a great defensive game. While Mitzen was playing the safety post, the Infantry was really safe. His running back of Miller's punts neutralized the good booting of the Marine.

THE AIDE PAID

A short time ago the aide to one of our general officers, driving at night, was blinded by the headlights of an approaching car and ran into a farm wagon carrying a family, but no lights. He stood suit and lost the decision. Appealed and lost again, though local laws required all vehicles to carry lights at night. Due to his associations, personal and official, he had the very best advice and strong military influences to back him. Nevertheless for a long and wearisome period his monthly income was reduced by large partial payments on this judgment, court costs and attorney's fees, in addition to which he had to take leave three times to appear in a court of an adjoining state where the accident occurred.

He called on us later to protect him against personal liability, as well as every other coverage he had heard about.

What car do you own? Have you personal liability protection?

UNITED SERVICES AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

How often that message of good cheer does not ring true! You have procrastinated on your Christmas cards and know that when you open one from a dear friend a couple of days before Christmas that your friend will not open his until four or five days after the day of cheer has passed. Then too, the engraver and the mailman and the man who handles your order, all public service individuals, forced to worry with the last minute customer, would greet you with a Merry Christmas, but would it ring true?

The Officers' Club has been gathering Christmas cards for your selection for the past three months. They are now here, bought direct from the manufacturer and priced at least 25 per cent cheaper than any retail store in the country.

Personal engraved greeting cards from the Nation's finest engravers wait your selection under the same policy that the club sold last year, ie., the numbers will be sold only once. This insures that you are the only one on the Garrison to send that particular number from Fort Benning.

The Club is anxious to help you select your cards early. Portfolios are now on display in the Beauty Parlor, Canteen and Office from 7 A. M. until 9:45 P. M. daily. If you do not desire to come to the Club, a ring on phone No. 51 or 151 will bring a uniformed attendant with a selection of cards to your quarters.

You will be surprised how much better you will feel between now and Christmas if you have your cards in your quarters ready to mail in time to reach your friends on Foreign service, and your Merry Christmas will ring true!

Bills! Bills! Bills! They sure ring true, but they lack the festive spirit.

Now lets make the bill ring true. You know that January of every year hits the budget the hardest. If you desire you may split the payment for your cards in two or three payments starting when your order is given, this will clear the account before Christmas. You may split it after delivery or you may pay on February 10th, 1927.

ENGRAVING

Now is the time to check up on your calling cards. The holidays make unusual demands on them and it is rather embarrassing to run short at a time when you cannot get immediate replacement. Our portfolios carry the correct forms as authorized by Engravogfiraphia (National Association of Master Engravers) which book is available for your reference. We will do anything in the engraving line.

Use your club! The only reason we are here is to serve you. Every cent of profit above running expenses is spent on the officer personnel and the club is the only agency on the garrison that functions under that policy. Are you using our delivery service? Anything we have will be promptly delivered in the garrison by calling No. 151.

Thanks for the dry cleaning work. Phillips serves the Club and if you have not yet sent thru the club, join up on our 10 per cent saving plan! Call No. 51 or 151 and we will call for and deliver your garments cleaned as they never have been before.

THE OFFICERS' CLUB DINNER DANCE

The second Dinner Dance of the 1926-27 season will be served at the Biglerville Mess Hall on Friday evening, November 26th, at 8 P. M.

Plate reservations for this dance are now open.

Reservations can only be made at the office of the Club Secretary in person or by phone over number 51.

Cancellations may be made until 12 noon November 23rd, (Tuesday) 1926.

Maximum number of plates to Club members is 14. Tables of more than one host cannot be placed together.

Additional reservations, if the original request was for less than 14, may be made until noon of the 26th.

Plate reservations will be closed when requests have reached the maximum capacity of the hall. This is 200.

The dinner will be served promptly at 8 P. M. Hosts are requested to remind their guests to be on time.

The dinner is usually over at 10 P. M. From then till midnight the dance is open to all club members—and they are cordially invited to attend!

GEN. SUMMERALL ASSUMES DUTIES

SENIOR MAJOR GENERAL OF ARMY SWORN IN AS CHIEF OF STAFF

Brings to Office Great Breadth of Experience

Major General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A. the senior in his grade assumed the duties of Chief of Staff of the United States Army in Washington on last Monday. General Summerall succeeds Major General John L. Hines, U. S. A. as Chief of Staff.

As a result of the appointment of General Summerall, it would not be surprising should there be quite a shift of Corps Area Commanders. General Hines, will go to command the Ninth Corps Area at San Francisco. What General Officer will go to New York to Command the Second Corps Area as a replacement for General Summerall remains to be determined.

The selection of General Summerall as Chief of Staff occasioned no surprise and it is regarded in military circles as eminently fitting. General Summerall brings to the office a great breadth of experience. Outside of his brilliant military career, he is thoroughly informed on international affairs—a qualification looked upon as essential in view of the disarmament negotiations which are in progress—and has enjoyed close contact with political, social and business conditions in the United States. Thus, he will be able to direct the affairs of the General Staff with an understanding of the situation and views of the country, and will be amply qualified to guide it, under the Secretary of War, in connection with existing and prospective questions, especially that involved in the administration's policy of economy.

General Summerall is known personally to the President as well as to the Secretary of War, and is held in high esteem by General Pershing, General Hines, officers now members of the General Staff and officers throughout the country and our possessions. Moreover, he has many friends in the Senate and House of Representatives, and thus will obtain for the Army the benefit arising from those friendships.

General Summerall's appointment was more a matter of routine than anything else, due to the recognition by the President and the Secretary of his high qualifications. Senior Major General of the Army, distinguished for service on the field of battle, and able administrator in time of peace, he was regarded as the logical officer to succeed General Hines. It is known that Secretary Davis con-

ARMY MULE AND NAVY GOAT WILL MIX AND MINGLE SATURDAY

Service Clash Forecasted as Even Bet, with Both Academies Boasting Powerful Teams

By Bertram Kalisch

"Hee-haw," brays the Army mule, "on November 27 I will win my fifteenth victory in an Army - Navy game." "Blah-blah" bleats the Navy goat chawing his profuse facial appendage (whiskers), "on November 28, I will be hailed as National Champion, and what's more there will be considerable weeping at both West Point and South Bend."

Both animals, being hatless, are not speaking through their head-gear. If the Navy's unbeaten eleven takes the Cadets into camp it will annex two titles — the National and Service crowns. If the Army scores a victory it will be in the position of runner-up for the National Title and holder of the Service Championship. Notre Dame, by virtue of its clean record and a 7 to 0 win over Army, will be unchallenged for the National title should West Point triumph.

This year the Service teams go into the fray with everything to gain and also everything to lose, for a good many shirts, overcoats, caps, and other things are said to hang upon the issue.

The present Military and Naval Academy teams are the best in a decade, so that when they clash on Soldiers' Field those who attend will witness the gridiron battle of the year, and those who listen over the radio will hear it unless the din raised by the Cadet and Midshipmen cheering sections causes temporary deafness.

McGinty Knows

There are no favorites in this battle, for a gentleman christened McGinty remarked, "Asking me to say whether the mule's kick is more powerful than the goat's butt is like trying to find out whether dynamite or nitroglycerine will blow ye into smaller bits."

DISTINGUISHED JAPANESE OFFICER ARRIVES AT FORT BENNING MONDAY

Col. Morita, Military Attache of Japanese Embassy, Will be Guest of Inf. School

Col. Naburu Morita of the Imperial Japanese Army and Military attache' at the Japanese Embassy will arrive at Fort Benning on Mondy morning from Washington, D. C., to be the guest of the Infantry School and Captain Nari, Imperial Japanese Army. Captain Nari is a student Officer in the Advanced Class. Colonel Morita will arrive in Columbus on Sunday November 28th and will come to Fort Benning on Monday morning at which time he will be presented to the Commandant and the Assistant Commandant. Commencing Monday morning the distinguished officer will be shown every department of the Infantry School and will witness several demonstrations which are being put on for the students of the Advanced Class. Colonel Morita will be conducted around the garrison by Captain Nari and Lieutenant W. J. Clear U. S. A. Lieutenant Clear served for four years with the Japanese Imperial Army in Japan.

Colonel Morita came to the United States when he was but six years of age and he received almost his entire education in American Schools and Colleges before returning to Japan and becoming an Officer in the Mikado's Imperial Armies.

On Monday evening Captain Nari will be host at a dinner in honor of Colonel Morita at the Polo Club. The Commandant Brigadier General Collins and his staff and Colonel Frank S. Cocheu, the

WHO'S WHO!

No subject in the curriculum of the Infantry School has received more favorable, unfavorable and nill comment than the subject Monographs, technically known as Methods of Instruction and Military History. Committee "H" of the Fourth Section has entire charge of this work. The Monograph has always been a Bug-a-Boo in every student officer's course and this condition exists because of the fact that public speaking is one of the most difficult topics to put across to the student. Every student officer, when he finishes the course at the Infantry School, looks back upon his Monograph days as the days from which he gained the most satisfaction and it is largely because of the way in which Committee "H," headed by Major Evan E. Lewis, U. S. A., approaches the student officer and puts the subject across.

A class starting on the Methods of Instruction Course becomes indeed rather panic stricken, but Major Lewis has a way about him that seems to quiet things down firmly, and shortly the students get down to business.

To head Committee "H," as might reasonably be expected, entails considerable study of military history and it is the work of a student. Studiousness and extraordinary military activity in time of War do not, as a rule, go hand in hand when a summary of the characteristics of the individual officer are considered. This is the case, however, with the subject of this sketch, as is plainly shown by Major Lewis' successful presentation of his subject year after year and by his splendid War record, extracts of which are here given.

Major Lewis graduated from the Northwestern Military Academy in June, 1903, and was a cadet at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., entering in June, 1903, and graduating in 1907. He was an instructor in the Department of Tactics at the Military Academy during the years 1912-13-14. He was promoted to the grade of Captain in January, 1917, and went overseas when the United States entered the World War in that year. In the A. E. F. Major Lewis was promoted to Major, Lieutent Colonel and Colonel. He commanded the 102nd Infantry in the Meuse Argonne. For exceptional bravery in action while in command of the 102nd Infantry, Major Lewis was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Oak Leaf Cluster; the citation for the award reads as follows:

"Evan E. Lewis, Major, 102nd Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Marchville, France, September 26, 1918. Being second in command of assaulting troops, he displayed great bravery and rare initiative. While under terrific artillery and machine gun fire he organized scattered units, established and organized positions in depth set up liason from front to rear, and in hand to hand fighting personally led his men, inspiring in them a confidence and tenacity of purpose that were preductive of success.

He was also awarded an Oak-Leaf Cluster to be worn with the Distinguished Service Cross for the following act of extraordinary heroism in action near Beaumont, France, November 10, 1918:

Commanding his regiment, he personally led the advance of his front line, under a heavy artillery and machine gun fire, and, gained the absolute confidence of his troops by his example of courage and coolness."

In addition to the Distinguished Service Cross with the Oak-Leaf Cluster, Major Lewis also was decorated with the French Chevalier Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre with two Palms, the Italian Croce Di Guerre and the Panamanian La Solidaridad.

In 1910, while a Second Lieutenant of Infantry, Major Lewis commanded Company "G," 29th Infantry, in the Idaho forest fires and was commended by the Secretary of Agriculture for his excellent work there. He also commanded Company "G," of the 25th Infantry, and the 42nd Company of Phillipine Scouts at the capture of Casangnan Cotta from hostile Moros in November, 1908.

Officers of Major Lewis' type make our service the fascinating pursuit that it is and commissioned personnel of this calibre make our Army the most efficient of all armies in economical matters and tactical undertakings.

Major General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A.

SENIOR MAJOR GENERAL OF ARMY SWORN IN LAST MONDAY

sulted a number of officers in reference to the prospective Chief of Staff vacancy, and there was not one who did not join in eulogizing General Summerall. The latter was with President Coolidge during the past summer on the occasion of his inspection of the R. O. T. camp at Plattsburg. Thus, Mr. Coolidge had an opportunity to learn General Summerall's point of view and to determine for himself his suitablility for service with the Administration That the result was satisfactory is demonstrated by the prompt approval of the recommendation of the Secretary of War.

Performed Varied Duties

General Summerall has served in the Infantry and Artillery; has performed engineering duty and located and constructed Army posts; has been on duty with most branches of the service, and, of course, as Brigade, Division and Corps Commander, has come in intimate contact with and commanded them all. He is therefore familiar with every phase of Army service and Army need. Moreover, he knows conditions in peace and his brilliant service in war culminated in victories in the Toul sector, and especially at Cantigny; Soissons, St. Mihiel and the first phase of the Meuse-Argonne battle, and in the rapid advance along the center of the line after his assumption of the command of the Fifth Army Corps.

The citations which accompany the awards of the Dintinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal and the Croix de Guerre, tell more forcefully than any present statement the achievements and characteristics of General Summerall: They read:

Distinguished Service Cross:

"Major General Charles P. Summerall, then Major General, First Division and Fifth Army Corps, United States Army, for extraordinary heroism in action on July 19, 1918, before Berzy-le-Sec, near Siossons, during the Aisne-Marine offensive. General Summerall, commanding the First Division, with great gallantry and with disregard for his own safety, visited the extreme front lines of his division and personally made a reconnaissance of the position in theface of heavy hostile machine gun and artillery fire, exhorting his men to renew the attack on Berzy-le-Sec, promising them powerful artillery support, and so encouraged them by his presence and example that they declared their readiness to take the town for him. Due to his great courage and utter disregard for his own safety, the men of his division were inspired to enormous and herioc efforts, capturing Berzy-le-Sec the next morning under terrific enemy fire, and later in the day the division reached all of its objectives."

Distinguished Service Medal

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He commanded in turn a brigade of the First Division in the operations near Siossons and St. Mihiel offensives and in the early battles of the Argonne-Meuse advance, and the Fifth Army Corps in the latter battles his calm courage, his clear judgment and his soldierly character had a marked influence in the attainment of the successes of his commands."

Croix de Guere With Palm

"General Summerall has developed the technical knowledge and the valvor of his Brigade to a degree which makes this organization able to perform all the missions that could be incumbent upon it. By his energy, his courage and his indefatigable activity, he has shown himself to be a leader of the first order."

He was decorated as Commander of the Legion of Honor of France, and Grand Officer of the Crown of Belgium, as Comander of the Order of the Crown by Italy, with the Order of Prince Danilo I by Montenegro, and with the Military Medal by Panama.

NINE RECRUITERS VISIT BENNING TO LEARN FORT'S WAYS

Non-Coms of Fourth Corps Area Come Here to Learn Real Facts About Benning

Tuesday night there arrived in the garrison nine recruiting non-coms from nine different stations in the Fourth Corps Area to get the real inside dope on the workings of the Infantry School and the organizations stationed at the Chattahoochee post. The men will be shown all the activities of the reservation from the kitchen police organizations of the various units to the big demonstrations staged for the student officers by the doughboys from the Lead the Way outfit.

Recruiting is very much like the selling game and these picked non-coms are being sent here so that they may know the goods they are selling, Fort Benning. There has been apparently some adverse propaganda spread throughout the area as to the conditions under which men at the Infantry School serve and it is desired to give the men in the field first hand information wherewith they can readily combat this. A few days spent here will easily convince the visiting non-coms that they can truthfully picture the Upatoi station as one of the most desirable in the army.

The following non-coms reported to Headquarters Wednesday and remained here until Friday: Sgt. Jno. J. Rooney, New Orleans, La.; Sgt. Julius J. Winfree, Fort Bragg, N. C.; Sgt. Wm. C. Turner, Columbia, S. C.; Sgt. Frank D. Sanders, Birmingham, Ala.; Sgt. Rufus Haney, Knoxville, Tenn.; Cpl. Walter L. Marlowe, Atlanta, Ga; Cpl. Robert E. Vancel, Memphis, Tenn.; Cpl. Herman E. Rader, Jacksonville, Fla., and Pfc. Jeff W. Sutton, Nashville, Tenn.

COMPANY "C"

Well its over! The much dreaded examination in map reading was held Tuesday.

Just before the examination Tuesday we saw Maddox sneak around the corner with what looked like a red lantern under his arm looking for contours but further investigation proved that he was carrying a red fireman's hat as his share of the 6th squads birthday shower to their "corporal" Capt. T. A. Young who passed his 63rd year Nov. 1, 1926.

Len Murphy says "I hunted for that datum plane for an hour last night," "well Murphy they keep that down near the coast and maybe the bootlegger ran off with it."

Prouty parked his car on a polar coordinate the other day and found it was so cold he couldn't start it.

The wail of woe of "Spoerry" "Oh! I took the wrong mask."

The 6th squad elected Capt. Thos. Young as chief of the Ft. Benning Fire Control Map on his 63rd birthday Tuesday. His insigna of office is a red hat.

"C" Company is now beginning the advance campaign for the nomination of Capt. Oseth as instructor in map reading. Be it known that he has admirably come to the defense of the Infantry by envolving an "Infantry Method" for figuring visibility and defilade thereby flouting the prevalent idea held by the Engineers that all an infantryman knows is how to give "Forward March."

The next song will be "she is only a bootleggers daughter but I love her still."

Ye Olde Printe Shoppe Gossipe

Fable: The Print Shop will have steam heat this winter.

Quite a few organizations have ordered menus for Thanksgiving and the terrible typographers are doing their dernedest. Oh, Mommer! Artistic and ornamental printing in colors, that's Handsome Harry's long suit. But regulations do not permit forms in more than one color as a rule. So Handsome has to content himself with that favorite indoor sport of compositors, arranging gay and decorative borders and ornaments.

Who's the champeen volley baller of the Typographical Terrors? For answer apply to Pee Wee, Moses, Charlie Dollar or Jabo.

Harry Smith, gifted parliamentarian, vocal expert and ambassador extraordinary to the Republic of New Jerusalem, it at this writing a very sick man. Harry says the cracker climate isn't the best in the world for his asthma. Would a son of Zion die of anything but old age? Perish the thought!

Captain Barton, officer in charge of the Print Shop, is to be at the shop full time beginning November 8th, instead of on rare occasions as heretofore. This means a great deal for the shop and the personnel appreicate the change very much.

Nelson Paul has returned from a furlough of thirty days which he spent in Miami, and is again in the hand composition department. This alleviates the acute shortage of hand comps to a large extent. Paul says that the big wind didn't blow away the spirit of progress in the realtor's Mecca and that Miami is now coming stronger than ever.

The roar and rattle of big Bertha Miehle reminds the writer of a prediction made by Jim Riley that Bertha would never print another sheet after his departure. Jim has been away for six months now and the cylinder press department operates very smoothly. This merely food for thought. Is there a man the army can't do without?

Rail Transportation Branch

Mr. S. G. Brown, Machinist at the Rail Transportation repair shop, departed from Fort Eustis, Va., Monday, November 1st, as attendant in charge of three unserviceable standard Guage locomotives, which are to be repaired at this station and held subject to orders of The Quartermaster General.

A 60 c. m. switch will be installed leading from the 60 c. m. main line beyond Block 23 to the New Hospital. Work was started on this switch several days ago by Mr. Patrick, section foreman, and his crew. This job will be completed juust as fast as ties are available.

Orders have been received from the office of The Quartermaster General to place in serviceable condition and ship as soon as possible to Fort Leavenworth, 1 Standard Gauge Shovel, Osgood Type.

Utilities Department

This department is well pleased over the recent promotion of 1st Sgt.Schulze, I. S. D. to the grade of Master Sgt. Master Sgt. Schulze is well and favorably known throughout the post and in portions of Columbus by his work, if not in person. He is the man who for many moons has painted all the signs used on houses, offices, desks, scoreboards, etc. He works steadily through long hours, often returning to complete jobs at times when by official order he is free to attend his own affairs. His promotion is a fitting recognition of the years of faithful service he has given to the Army.

The lumber situation around this post is certainly critical. Some one was so hard up that he borrowed parts of the seats from the Polo Field grand stand, presumably for use in constructing work

Mr. Senft has left our midst and is spending a two months leave of absence. After making a few brief visits in different points in Texas, he will go on to his home in Arkansas. Mr. Senft has quite a number of years more than the mere thirty to his credit in the service, including that of a Warrant Officer and Army Field Clerk. Prior to his departure he made application for retirement effective upon expiration of his leave. We do not wish to appear selfish, but we wish it was not time for him to retire because we are going to miss Mr. Senft very much, not only for the fact that he knows his work so thoroughly, but because we all like him. Therefore, only our good wishes go with him.

Mrs. Drane from the Purchase Branch was invited to sing at a joint meeting of the Columbus-Opelika Kiwanis Clubs held in the latter city last Wednesday. She reports a splendid gathering, a fine dinner and what would have been a delightful program had it not been for the fact that upon the completion of her part of the program, it was announced that the car containing other members on the program had overturned at Salem, Alabama, and two of the lady occupants had been very badly injured; members of the Gypsy Smith, Jr., evangelistic party. Mrs. Drane went at once to the Opelika hospital, where the injured had been brought, and remained with the ladies until it was found advisable to bring them to the city, accompanying them to Columbus, thence to the city hospital.

Property Office

Certain members of the Property Office seem to be properous. Warren L. Bussey is driving a new Chevrolet and Mr. L. R. Shaw is enjoying a new Dodge Sedan during the absence of the madam, who is visiting relatives in New Orleans.

With the arrival of cold weather the business of the Fuel Office has increased.

Laundry

It the patrons of the Laundry do not refrain from putting chewing gum in their napkins and handkerchiefs, we are going to have more chewing gum than old Wrigley himself.

For about the first time since the beginning of the Laundry operations a full force was on hand on Monday morning. This is something unusual indeed, as Saturday night as a rule means more to the colored employees than a time to sleep and rest.

Commissary

The wheels of the office machinery at the Commissary are turning so smoothly these days. Our new system of "First Come, First Served" in the Sales Store has surely proven satisfactory, as no one comes into the office to complain of the service, and all are served promptly and efficiently

We are going to try to have box candy for the Christmas holidays. This will not be stocked for two or three weeks, but just want the patrons to know the good news.

There are two of the kittens not promised. Come put your name on the waiting list. "FIRST COME FIRST SERVED" is the policy at the Commissary.

The next meeting of the Infantry School Bridge Club will be at the Polo Club at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon December 2. Very attractive prizes have been obtained and a most enjoyable afternoon is assured.

All the ladies of the Club are cordially invited to be present and bring a new member.

Captain Akira Nara, Imperial Japanese Army, will give a stag dinner at the Polo Club on Monday evening in honor of Colonel Noburu Morita, Imperial Japanese Army, military attache.

Colonel and Mrs. Delaplane entertained with a beautiful dinner before Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu's dance on Tuesday evening.

There was a Pan Helenic meeting at the home of Mrs. Spiller last Friday. Sixteen ladies were present who played bridge. Mrs. E. W. Leard won a score slate for keeping brdige rallies. It was the first prize.

Lieut. and Mrs. Conway are expecting Mrs. Louise Daugherty of Minneapolis, the mother of Mrs. Conway, to be their guest for several weeks at Christmas time.

Mrs. Spaulding gave a very charming luncheon and bridge party on Wednesday of last week in honor of Miss Katherine Lacy, the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu. Her guests were Mrs. Dalaplane, Mrs. Powers, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Oliver, Miss Kingman, Miss Pendleton, Miss Dorothy Gowen and Miss Collins. Prizes at bridge were buff colored hand embroidered towels which were won by Mrs. Schmidt and Miss Katherine Kingman.

The Infantry School Woman's Club will meet next Monday at the Polo Club House at 3:15.

The Art Club had decided to hold its weekly meetings at the home of Mrs. Ralph Kingman on Wednesday morning immediately following Mrs. Gus Braun's gym class. Very interesting work has been started under the direction of Miss Pendleton and it's assured that many useful and attractive things will be made.

Miss Ellen Louise Warfield, the daughter of Colonel Warfield Q. M. C. is expected home from Agnes Scott about the seventeenth of December for the Christmas Holidays.

The Protestant Chapel Guild will hold it's regular meeting at the Post Chapel the first Monday of December.

Miss Ruth Ahrends gave a very pleasant bridge luncheon for sixteen in honor of Miss Katherine Lacy last Friday afternoon. A russet leather picture frame, which was high score prize was won by Miss Katherine Kingman and the second prize a multi colored flower vase was won by Mrs. McCoy.

Mrs. Edgar S. Miller entertained with bridge and Tea on Friday afternoon. Very attractive shiny brass ware in the form of bowls and ash receivers were offered as prizes. After five games a delicious salad courses was served to the players and the ladies who came in for tea.

The Literary Branch of the Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Peyton last Monday afternoon. Reviews of the life and works of modern middle west authors were very interestingly given. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Baker 140-19 on December thirtieth.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Brandhorst had twenty guests for dinner and bridge on Monday evening. Mrs. Peach and Lt. Hardee won high score and Captain Herlihy won low.

Miss Peggy Lampke will be the hostess at a hop supper at her home in Columbus this evening for Lieutenant and Mrs. Aubrey Newman, Miss Katherine Lacy, Miss Mary Pendleton, Miss Katherine Kingman, Lieut. Hourt, Lieut. Strobehn, Lt. Holoman, Lt. Kammerer, Lt. Jetu, Lt. Carroway, Mr. Philip Lampke, and Captain and Mrs. Johnson.

Miss Anita Alterman is a guest on the Post of Lieutenant and Mrs. Doty.

Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu were hosts at a hop at Biglerville for their niece Miss Katherine Lacy. The spacious mess hall was beautiful with autumn leaves and pine boughs. Miss Lacy who had been a very popular guest on the post for several weeks has made many friends and has been charmingly entertained. Miss Lacy wore a white beaded dress with a crimson velvet sash and flower on the shoulder with a wrist corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valey. About three hundred guests enjoyed a happy evening, the good floor, the splendid music and the delicious refreshments, all made the evening so pleasant that Home Sweet Time came all to soon.

Colonel Kent is spending Thanksgiving in Atlanta. He will return after the holidays with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Kent and Miss Peggy Kent, who will be the guests of Colonel and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson for a week.

Captain and Mrs. L. D. Tharp gave a bridge party on Friday evening of four tables. Mrs. Childs and Lieutenant Grady won high score prizes. Mrs. Campbell won second prize and Mrs. Grady and Lt. Roach won the last.

The following invitations have been received: Mrs. Edwin E. Keatley, bridge 2:30 P. M., tea 4:30 P. M., Friday, December 10th, Ralston. R. S. V. P.

There was a wild cat hunt last Sunday, starting from the kennels at 5 A. M. and returning to the post at intervals between twelve and one-thirty. The hunt was a success. The field treed three large coons, but caught only one as the law allows, viewed a fox and several rabbits; tracked a wild pig and family and trailed the elusive wild cat for hours, both on horse back and by climbing hills on foot and wading through streams ankle deep.

Lt. Colonel & Mrs. Ralph Kingman expect as their guest for the Christmas holidays Mr. Henry Crabites, whose father is Judge Crabites of the mixed court at Cairo, Egypt.

The Infantry School Dramatic Club presented its monthly entertainment at the 29th Infantry Theater last Saturday evening. "Trifles" and "The Bathroom Door" were very well directed, costumed and acted and both were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

Major and Mrs. Edward G. Sherburne are among those who will give a dinner party at Biglerville before the dance this evening.

Mrs. Merritt E. Olmstead and Mrs. Whitfield P. Shepard entertained very attractively for about nine of their friends with a bridge party at the Ralston Hotel last Thursday afternoon. Decorations were of yellow autumn flowers and candlesticks. A salad course with coffee was served to the players and to those who came in for tea. Mrs. Ralph Kengman cut the top prize, a green and gold lace bed lamp. Mrs. Potts won the first prize of bridge, a dark wood magazine table. Mrs. Vogue won a tea bell as second prize and Mrs. Wilders won last a long-handled toasting fork.

New Apparatus for Anti-Aircraft

The 63rd Coast Artillery Regiment, Anti Aircraft, of Fort Winfield Scott,, expects to be equipped soon with a phenominal new apparatus developed by the Ordance Department for the control of skyfiring. The new fire-control system was given an official tryout at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, recently, with what the War Department has called "highly satisfactory results."

Not only does the new aparatus sharpen the accuracy of anti aircraft gunnery, but it amazingly simplifies the once complicated business of plotting the course and speed of moving airplanes, Merely by watching the airplane through two telescopes mounted on the apparatus, complete firing data is automatically computed and transmited to gun crews. It is so designed that, given the altitude of the plane, which other instruments easily determine, the only action necessary is for one observer to follow the direction and the other to follow the elevation of the airplane. The movements of the telescopes control an electrically operated mechanism which runs to the guns.

Extracts From Annual Report

The report of the Chief of Infantry contains much information which is of interest to every officer of that branch. Since the establishment of the office of the Chief of Infantry there has been growing satisfaction throughout the Infantry service. With the limited appropriations of these days the duties of all Chiefs of Branches have been most difficult. The matter of travel of officers, due to expense involved, probably receives more consideration than any other item. The chief of Infantry in submitting names of officers for various details must submit the names of officers, who, with all other considerations equal are nearest in point of mileage to the station in question. The Chief of Infantry has made this plain and it behooves every Officer of the Infantry to understand things of this nature and to cooperate to the utmost degree with the efficient handling of affairs in the Chief's office. The report of the Chief of Infantry will be published in its entirety in this and the following issue.

Extracts from the annual report of the chief of Infantry, (Major General Robert H. Allen), to the secretary of war, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926.

Changes in Station:—The provisions of War Department policy of May 19, 1925, which enable officers on Reserve Officers' Training Corps, National Guard and Organized Reserve duty to be retained beyond the minimum tour of four years with no maximum tour prescribed, will serve further materially to lessen the number of permanent changes of station, and, accordingly, officers may expect to remain at their stations for longer periods of duty.

Foreign Service:—It is recommended that in the selection of officers for foreign service when exceptional cases arise involving unnecessary hardships, such cases be decided upon their individual merits without strict adherence to the foreign service policy.

Organized Reserve Corps:—The procurement of officers for the Infantry Organized Reserve Corps is on a sound basis. In every Corps Area the total number of Infantry Reserve Officers is greater than the total number required.

The following is a statement of the changes in the Infantry Organized Reserve Corps during the fiscal year 1926:

Number of Infantry Reserve Officers, June 30, 1925, 26,909.

Net gain 3,040.

Number of Infantry Reserve Officers, June 30, 1926, 29,949.

MORALE

Morale:—Morale and esprit de crops in the Infantry are generally satisfactory. In some units there exists a very high degree of satisfaction with the service and an exceptional enthusiasm for the organization, while in others this condition is not so pronounced. Organizations of high espirt and morale are uniformly found in posts of permanent construction.

Quarters:—Inadequate quarters have a most decidedly detrimental effect on the spirit of the commands. Fire hazards, leaking roofs, and other deficiencies have necessitated considerable expenditures of personal funds by individuals and organizations and an undue amount of troop labor in keeping both temporary and permanent buildings habitable. There are, at present, over 12,000 or almost one-third of the Infantry enlisted personnel either in tents or temporary quarters. It is urged that every effort continue to be made to alleviate, as soon as possible, this unsatisfactory condition.

Desertion:—The basic cause of desertion in time of peace, unwillingness to recognize authority or to submit to any form of restraint, has always been susceptible of being traced to the lack of proper home training and influences.

Drill and Fatigue:—Drill and fatigue required of the organizations at their present reduced strength is excessive and not productive of contentment. The upkeep of the wartime construction, together with the scarcity of appropriations for the purpose, makes labor demands upon the soldier that create dissatisfaction with the service.

Summer Training Camps:—Some of the conditions pertaining to summer training camps, particularly where commands are taken away from their permanent stations for long periods, are conductive to discontent on the part of regular enlisted personnel:

Fatigue incident to establishing, maintaining and policing a camp occupied by someone else.

While engaged in this work, to be required to live on a ration which is distinctly inferior to the rations of either the Reserve Officers' Training Corps or Citizens' Military Training Camp trainees.

It is noticable that desertions increase just prior to the training camp period.

The Army Ration:—The Army ration is too small. Based on the average cost for the fiscal year 1925, the values of rations were: For the Army 31.5 cents per day; for the Marine Corps, 49.7 cents per day; and for the Navy, 52.5 cents per day. This discrimination against the military service in the matter of rations is generally known throughout the service and is conducive to discontentment. The duties involved are so decidedly similar that it is difficult to see why the marines and sailors should require a better ration than soldiers.

The Enlisted Man's Uniform:—The present issue of khaki uniform is not satisfactory. It is issued in eight to ten radically different shades, it is generally of exceptionally poor material, is very poorly made, and all shades change color with each washing. Every organization has in it every shade of uniform, from almost white to shades much darker than the approved olive drab. This condition leaves much to be desired in uniformity of dress. It is on this account difficult for the soldier to take pride either in himself or in his organization. The loss of pride and spirit on the part of the enlisted man, engendered by the inferior uniforms issued for his use, far outweigh the good which may result from a uniform supposed to be less conspicuous on the battlefield than the khaki color of former issues.

Athletics:—The Infantryman must be well-fitted physically to endure fatiguing marches, exposure, and the various hardships incident to combat with the enemy, and it is therefore appropriate that the Infantry should make a special effort to promote the physical well-being of its personnel. Athletic games accomplish more than the physical development of the soldier. They develop in the individaul characteristics of leadership and a spirit of teamplay, both of which are essential in combat. They also constitute a vital element in building up and maintaining a high individual and organzational morale. For these reasons all forms of athletic training and development constitute an essential part of military training; and the officer and non-commissioned officer must be as well qualified to conduct this phase of training as any other phase.

The regular Army, through the various Reserve Officers' Training Corps units and Citizens' Military Training Camps, is rapidly becoming the principal agent for the physical development of the youth of this country. The heads of the various institutions where Regular Army personnel is on duty are becoming more insistent each year in their demands for officers and non-commissioned officers who can conduct the physical training of the student body and develop and coach athletic teams. To meet these needs an athletic course has been instituted at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. This course should be further improved and expanded.

TRAINING

Training of Organizations:—Infantry training in all its phases is progressing. There has been improvement since last year. This improvement is due to the increase in the percentage of service school graduates on duty with the regiments, to the increase in the number of Infantry Training regulations in the hands of the troops, to a better understanding of training management, to a better supervision of training on the part of regimental and battalion commanders and to the application of better teaching methods on the part of the company officers. There is room, however, for further improvement.

Marksmanship:—As a whole, marksmanship throughout the Infantry has shown marked improvement during the past year but is capable of being still further improved.

The Cal. .30 amunition now being used by the troops within the continental limits of the United States, both for rifle and machine gun target practice, is very unsatisfactory. Some of the specific faults noted are as follows: inaccuracy; split cartridge cases; frequent so-called "blow backs' in which there is an abnormal escape of hot gas through the gas vent in the rifle bolt, causing, in some cases, severe burning of the eye of the firer; looseness of bullet in cartridge case (in much of this ammunition the bullet is set so loosely in the cartridge case that it can be extracted with the fingers).

Small bore rifle shooting is a fine sport, as well as an important part of military training, and its full value in the latter respect can only be realized by encouraging it as a sport in which every man of an organization takes part. To accomplish this, each organization, including headquarters, Service, Machine Gun and Howitzer companies, should be issued ten .22 caliber riffles.

Competitions:—Last year the Infantry Team entered the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in competition with 6 service teams, 38 National Guard teams, 32 civilian teams, 9 Reserve Officers' Training Corps teams, 9 Citizens' Military Training Camp teams, 17 police teams, and several hundred unattached civilians. A total af about 2500 competitors attended these matches.

The Infantry School:—The school year 1925-26 at the Infantry School proved to be a successful year. The following courses were conducted: Advance Course; Company Officers' Course; National Guard Field Officers' Course; National Guard and Reserve Officers' Rifle Course; National Guard and Reserve Officers' Machine Gun and Howitzer Course; Athletic Training Course; Regular Refresher Course for Colonels; Four Special Refresher Courses for General Officers; Signal Communication Course for Non-commissioned Officers of the National Guard; and Horsehoers' Course for Enlisted Men of the Regular Army.

(To Be Continued Next Week)

SOME EXPRESSIONS OF THOUGHT ON THE INFANTRY

The Infantry is the basic arm, and upon its success depends the success of the Army. All other branches are organized, equipped and trained to assist the Infantry in its needs, functions and methods in war.—Training Regulations, U. S. Army.

Infantry is charged with the principal missions of combat. Preceded, protected and accompanied by artillery fire, aided eventually by tanks and air service, it conquers the ground, occupies it, organizes it, and holds it. * * * The only complete arm, capable of fighting by movement and fire, the only one suited for combat on all kinds or terrain and at all times, by day and by night, is Infantry. Infantry is the principal arm, to the advantage of which others are employed. —Regulations, French Army.

The Japanese have always realized that the Infantry is the Army. The Infantry comes first in everything, particularly in monetary appropriations, in the Japanese Army. They maintain that mechanical superiority in itself leads to the inferiority of the individual fighting man and in him place their chief reliance.—Lieut. W. J. Clear, on duty with Japanese Army for several years, in Infantry Journal.

Immense as the influence of mechanical devices my be, they can not by themselves decide a campaign. Their true role is that of assisting the Infantryman, which they have done in an admirable manner. They cannot replace him. Only by the rifle and bayonet of the Infantryman can the decisive victory be won.—Field Marshall Sir Douglas Haig.

MUSIC LOVERS COMPLIMENT GARRISON THEATRE ORCHESTRA

This orchestra, composed of the best talent obtainable on the post, is exerting every effort to make its music a prime attraction of all moving picture programs. A music cue sheet accompanies each feature film, it permits the musicians to play appropriate selections for each change in the ear to what the eye sees. These musicians have been so excellently trained that with comparatively little effort they are enabled to change, in the middle of a piece, from the rambles of a ragtime to the dulcet harmony of a Wagnarian selection. It is believed that the orchestra has access to the largest music library south of Philadelphia. this library consists of over six thousand numbers containing practically all standard overtures, grand opera selections, and up to date musical comedy numbers of the latest show successes. It is kept thoroughly up to date.

Every musician in the orchestra feels that he is a part of the Garrison Theatre and all efforts are bent toward making theirs the best movie theatre orchestra of the south. The fact that this harmony exists within the personnel accounts for the splendid music now being presented.

Sgt. Ralph R. Wright is the proud leader. His nimble fingers play the piano. Other members of the orchestra are: Roy C. Hanson, violin; Charles F. Younger, trumpet; Clarence Purdy, alto saxophone and cello.... Tony Sabino, Clarinet; Joseph Villa, bass; Carl J. Ranta, xylophone; George Pearl, drums and tympani.

Capt. F. S. Doll in charge of the theatres, expresses high praise for the hearty cooperation and splendid accomplishments of the members of this orchestra.

CADET'S PROGRAM FOR BIG BATTLE SATURDAY

WEST POINT, NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Corps of Cadets, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, Commandant of Cadets, accompanied by the Military Academy Band and by other officers, will leave for Chicago in five special trains of solid Pullmans, including two diners to each train. General Merch B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Military Academy, and Mrs. Stewart, will accompany the Cadet specials.

The special trains will be run as five sections, leaving West Point between 8:00 and 9:00 o'clock Thursday morning, November 25th, and arriving simultaneously at the LaSalle Street Station about 10:00 o'clock Friday morning, November 26. The trip will be made via the West Shore to Alabny, thence over the New York Central to Chicago. The Cadets will carry their arms. Overcoats and full dress coats will be taken.

The complete party will include 1120 Cadets, about 35 Officers (including two Medical Officers), and about 100 enlisted men, members of the Military Academy Band.

Upon arrival in Chicago, the Corps will be formed and will be marched to the LaSalle Hotel, where they will remain until time for luncheon at the Marshall Field Company's Dining Hall. Arms will be left at the Hotel, the Corps returning there for luncheon.

The civic welcome of the City of Chicago to the Corps of Cadets and to the Brigade of Midshipmen will take place at this luncheon. Mayor Dever of Chicago will speak, as will Brigadier General Merch B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Military Academy and Admiral Nulton, Superintendent of the Naval Academy.

The program will be broadcasted and will include a few yells and songs by the Cadets and Midshipmen, and a selection or two by the Bands of the Academies.

After lunch the Cadets will return to the LaSalle Hotel, where they will obtain their arms and equipment. They will then be formed and will proceed to Wacker Drive where they will take their place in the big parade, which will be two and one-fourth miles long. The parade will start about 2:30 p. m.

In this parade, the Cadets will follow immediately after the Guard of Honor to the Grand Marshall of the parade. This Guard of Honor will contain groups representing all the wars since 1776. The parade will move out Michigan Avenue to Soldiers' Field. All school boys, within a radius of 50 miles of Chicago, are expected to witness this parade.

After the arrival at the Stadium, the groups in the Guard of Honor will go into the stands behind the reviewing officers.

The cadets will then enter the field and will pass in review. Upon completing their passing in review, the cadets will be formed in a mass formation at one side of the reviewing stand. The Midshipmen will then enter the field and will parade in around the field, after which they will be massed beside the Corps of Cadets.

The formal dedication of the Stadium will then take place, during which the Governor of Illinois, Mayor Dever of Chicago, and Edward J. Kelly, President of the South Park Board of Commissioners, will make speeches. It is hoped that President Collidge will be there to make the speech of acceptance.

The exercises in the Stadium, which will be over at 4:30 p. m. will be concluded with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner.'

The Cadet Corps will then have their rifles packed, under the supervision of the Sixth Corps Area Ordinance Officer, and loaded on the train for shipment to West Point.

The Cadet Corps will march back to the LaSalle Hotel, and will then be free.

The Chicago Officials have arranged to entertain both the Cadets and Midshipmen at various theatres during the evening, and are providing the Cadets with tickets to those shows.

After the theatre, a joint Cadet—Midshipman Ball will be held, which will last until 3:00 a. m. This Ball will be an invitation affair and will be held probably in the Ballroom of the Drake Hotel.

During the course of this joint Ball, both the Cadets and Midshipmen will take part in a radio program to be broadcast from the LaSalle Hotel, which will probably include talks, cheers, songs and selection by the Military Academy Band.

On Saturday morning, a free show will be given for the Cadets and Midshipmen by the owners of the Chicago Theatre.

All Cadets must be back at the LaSalle Hotel for luncheon at 12:00 o'clock, Saturday.

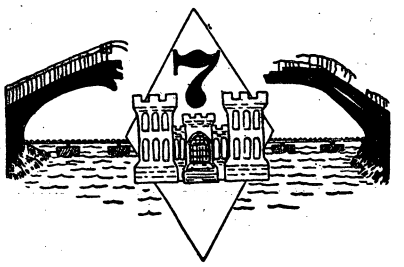
The Corps of Cadets, without arms, will be formed at about 12:45 p. m., Saturday, in front of the LaSalle Hotel, and will march to the Stadium for the game.

The Cadets will enter the Stadium about 1:30 p. m., and will give their usual marching drill around the field and their usual massed cheering before entering their places in the stand.

The Army Mule, of course, will be with the Cadets.

Immediately after the game, the Cadets will be formed on the field and will be marched to their special trains, which will be on the sidings near the Stadium.

The trains will leave for West Point at once, arriving at West Point about 8:00 p. m. Sunday night.



Staff Sergeant McGriff has returned from a thirty day furloug which he spent in the interior of darkest Alabama. Sgt. McGriff claims to have indulged in all known varieties of hunting with the exception of snipe hunting.

Assistant Company Clerk Hoffman is the only legal lawyer in the Engineers. The word legal obviates the common or guard-house lawyer. He promises to be a solicitor of note as he can hardly restrain himself from dashing from the orderly room when the ambulance visits the area.

Private W. N. Thompson, from the wilds of Mississippi, is a recent recruit whose powers of vituperative speech have made him feared by all the practical jestors of the company. His Rabelaisian reports is the best we have noticed since Chamberlain left our midst.

Staff Sergeant Allison accomplished a noble engineering feat in moving the Motor Transport Dispatcher's aged office to the Engineer area without having it fall apart en ronte. Sergeant Allison, while admitting himself to be an expert house moverfi demiss any knowledge of, or experience in, the home-wrecking game.

The company is putting forth a Herculean effort to finish the recreation room by Thanksgiving. W. H. Palmer, painter extraordinary, has worn out six brushes in the past week.

Sergeant Daily regrets his coming departure for Fort Humphreys as he is confident he will miss his pleasant job at the gravel washer. So enamored of his job is he that he spent one night wading in three feet of water in a successful endeavor to keep the plant from floating down stream. At least that is his excuse for staying out all night.

SERGEANT STERLING BEST NIGHT RIDER OF 29TH DOUGHBOYS

Second Battalion Non-Com Wins First Place in Interesting Competition

Sergeant Raymond Sterling, of Major Bowen's Second Battalion Headquarters Company, proved himself the best night patroller of the 29th Infantry on Friday night, November 19th. Starting from Gowdy Field with a mission to perform at an outlying station five miles distant this excellent non-commissioned officer outrode his many competitors—38 in all—received another mission there and returned to the starting point to discharge it in fine fashion. Saturday morning both he and his mount were fit and ready for duty, in spite of the fatigue and exertion of the night before. As a fitting reward for his excellent performance Sgt. Sterling was awarded a gold Elgin wrist watch. Sgt. Bernard J. Lang, Co. "D," was second and Pfc. Jos. R. Francis, Regimental Hq. Co., took third place. They were presented with a Parker pen and pencil combination and a fine hunting knife, respectively.

The night patrol idea, imported here from Fort Riley by Capt. R. A. McClure, assistant instructor in equitation at the Infantry School, was so successful that it is now planned to hold one for the Infantry School, in which entrants from all organizations will be eligible. Capt. McClure was in charge of the competition in the 29th.

Lt. Col. Asa L. Singleton was referee and the following officers acted as judges: Capt. D. H. Mallan, Capt. J. D. Forsythe, Capt. E. B. Whisner, Lt. J. A. Nichols, Lt. R. D. McKnight, Lt. R. McDonald, Lt. J. R. Moon, Lt. H. L. Boatner, Lt. W. W. Cornog and Lt. E. H. Wilson.

The three battalion commanders of the 29th Infantry have been chosen as a board to determine which company of the regiment made the best showing in the patrol, but as yet have not announced the results of their deliberations.

29TH INF.

COMPANY TEAMS TAKE THE FIELD. 29TH INF. STAGES REAL BRAND OF FOOTBALL

With the fight and spirit of a team of veterans, the Company "F," aggregation of football sharks won over the redoubtable "H" company team with the score of 6 to 2. Undoubtedly this was the best game staged in Doughboy Stadium this season.

In the 1st quarter a pass from Ripple to "Pat" Tarbour netted Company "F" their only score—they were unable to complete their pass for the extra point.

In the 2nd quarter a bad snap from Company "F" center caused a fumble a ball was recovered but player pulled down over "H" company's goal line. This safety netted "H" company their only points.

In the 3rd quarter the ball was fought down and across the field—first one team and the other carrying the ball—neither making a score. The slashing drives of Ripple and the hard tackling of Settle bringing applause from all.

Last quarter: The ball was on "H" Company's 5 yard line but dispite the hard line drives of H Company they were unable to score. Stephens of "H" was tackled so hard as he was about to circle end for a touchdown that his very shoe was knocked off! In this quarter some of the cleanest plays of the game was displayed.

Swayze was knocked out and was unable to play during the remainder of the game.

The game was characterized by clean and fair sportmanship by all concerned. A return game will be played next Sunday at 2:00o'clock at Doughboy Stadium.

Cpl. Claude T. Smithson was descharged Friday the 19th and reenlisted Saturday the 20th. Atta boy Smitty.

Cpl. Joe Wesley was discharged Sunday the 21st and failed to reenlist the following day. Gentlemen Joe Gans has disappeared from view and no one knows where he is.

We all wonder if Cow Boy will know poison ivy the next time he has entangling alliance with it.

JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF,

COMPANY "F"

We are proud of our "Song Birds" We believe that Cpl. Marlin injured himself by making so much noise. Cpl. Courtney was the outstanding tenor.

Sgt. McCoy, The Arkansaw Traveler, has returned to duty, after a nice little reenlistment furlough.

PFC. Costello and Ferguson have been appointed Cpl. watch your step and don't beat the police.

Our Company Football Team has been having a little practice this last week. They hope to make "H" Company take to the Woods this Sunday.

PAUL K. ARMSTEAD.

COMPANY "G"

Sergeants Wilson and Swaney have moved out into the country where they can refresh old memories not forgotten. We hope they will keep each others chickens out of the watermelon patch.

Cpl. Simpson is trying to build a house on the Reservation. He claims to be a good carpenter, but we would suggest that he be careful when he moves in. At the rate of two nails per day, he hopes to have it finished by the time his recruits are turned to duty.

Some of the boys have been made to feel at home during the past week digging potatoes in the Company Garden. We can tell that we will have plenty of these sweet spuds to do us through the winter by the way everyone is eating them between and at meal time.

Sergeant Swaney had a little streak of hard luck several days ago. His "road bug" was going so fast that it run off and left the top on the road somewhere. Since returning he has announced that he has the new 1928 model Ford on display.

ALFRED C. HERRING.

COMPANY "H"

"H" Company was defeated by the "F" Company foot ball team last Sunday in a hotly contested battle. The score was close, being 6-2. The Company still maintain that they are supreme within the regiment. All challenges are welcome and will be accepted as quickly as we have opening in our schedule.

Private First Class Clinton A. J. Causey is back from furlough, and has been placed on special duty with the I. S. D.

Since we've won the Regiment Blue Pennant, we aim to hold it, or make the Company that wins it from us, hustle some what.

Private First Class Vincent is in the hospital. We miss him a lot from our midst, and will gladly welcome him back to the Pinochle games.

HQ., CO. 2ND B 2

The entire Company regrets very much the fact that they are losing two of their Non-commissioned officers by the E. T. S. route—Corporals McGahee and Wray. Both have proven efficient as non-commissioned officers on demonstration and the Drill Field.

The following named men have within the last week been rewarded for their hard work and good soldiering with the following promotions: Privates Sanders and Liard promoted to Private 1st Class. Pvt. Ebbers rated Specialist 5th class. Pvts. Gordon, Griggs, and Dyson rated Specialists 6th class.

Sergeant Sterling and Private Sanders have added another HONOR to the Company Collection, by winning 1st and 4th place in the Mounted Night Patrol held on the night of the 19th. In doing this Sergeant Sterling and Private Sanders are merely upholding the "Company's Motto First within the Regiment."

Out of the 36 entries Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, had only five entries, two of which was very successful: Sergeant Sterling winning 1st place for which he received an Elgin Watch, and Private Sanders winning fourth place, altho, he did not receive a prize he is to be commended upon his success.

It is an proven fact Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, has the fighting spirit which it takes in order to win whatever they may enter.

Due to fact that both horses were in excellent condition at the end of the patrol, shows the horsemanship of the above named men.

LEWIS M. LOWE.

COMPANY "D"

Sergeant Arthur Gould has left us and we are sorry to see him go, Goodbye, Arthur, take care of yourself.

Mooar, our California shiek appears to be extremely happy since he started working in Headquarters. He must miss drill terribly.

Sergeant McGaha, appears to be developing a sore throat from hollering at certain members of the company when they make mistakes at drill. Watch your own step, Mac.

Our mess hall has been tastefully decorated with pine branches, flags and other paraphernalli in preparation for the one big feed of the year, Thanksgiving.

SERVICE COMPANY

The company is rejoicing over it's new 1st Sgt. Tomsa.

The Campany Bell Hop is Rushing coal now days.

Our charge of Quarters purchased him some Non-Com, brass polish. Look out boys.

Kid Winters, is preparing Thanksgiving eats, Kid Meddows is assisting him.

Kid Winters is given up to be the best cook in the regiment.

Our big fat Mess Sergt. is back now the boys are all glad to see him back as they have got some lost time to make up.

REGTL. HQ. CO.

Well-well here they come. Sgt. Powloski, and Pvt Pietraszak, have taken a thirty day furloug each, but returned back for duty after spending fifteen days of it, and were glad to step in the Messhall once more.

Guess you have all heard of Sgt. Riley, Known as Paul Revere after a recent mounted night patrol getting lost in the bushes, and taking a pass at midnight, and raving about a certain Cpl. taking so many passes, however we have more members in this organization to make a holler. Hope you don't get mad Sgt.

Pvts. Hollis, McDaniel, Glover, and Bowling, are getting discharged and going to try civilian life for a while, wish you all a good luck boys and whenever you get ready to come back, we'll be glad to have you in the Company.

The second successful presentation of plays by the Dramatic Club at the 29th Infantry theatre last Saturday evening demonstrated that the club has much talent and those "in the know" have been heard to remark that there is yet much talent in reserve for future productions.

The curtain rose first on "Trifles," a drama in one act by Susan Glaspell, a very subtle thing which required, on the part of the audience, close attention to every word and gesture of the players in order to follow the thought. That this attention was early secured and closely held was clearly demonstrated when a window in the auditorium accidentally dropped. The audience was visibly startled and several suppressed screams were heard.

On the part of the players the drama required most delicate handling and an entire freedom from overacting and this was the treatment they gave it.

The drama pictured the primary investigation of a murder of a farmer in a lonely farmhouse during the night when only the farmer's wife was present. The motive was the principal question for solution. The body had been found in bed with the strangling rope on the neck and the farmer's wife rocking herself in the kitchen in something of a daze. While the County attorney and the sheriff examined the ground for tracks and the windows for signs of a forcible entrance, a neighboring farmer's wife and the sheriff's wife found the evidence in the trifles in the kitchen—among them the pet canary of the widow with its neck wrung, hidden in her work basket. These two women conceal this and other trifles and the curtain falls with the prosecutor still in the dark.

The stage was very well set from the cheerful fire in the kitchen range to the exceedingly dirty roller towel over the sink and the glass preserve jars cracked by the cold of the preceding night, while the murdered man's widow was in jail.

Captain Rice, as the county attorney, looked and acted the part of hundreds of his prototype on the mid-western prairies. His voice had a cross-examination ring and he dominated the situation whenever he was on the stage.

Captain Dahlquist, as sheriff, was the burly rough and ready go get 'em of Iowa or any of her neighboring states, properly dumb as to motives of others, always subservient to the county attorney and always clumping in or out and up and down stairs. One unconsciously felt that his pockets were full of firearms and handcuffs ready for instant action. It would be hard to improve his portrayal.

Colonel Eaton, as the neighbor who first reported the crime, gave a perfect picture of an elderly "well to do" and perfectly poised rural gentleman who could not be stampeded by murders, tornados or whatnot. His story of the crime oriented the audience at once and his long monologue was well handled.

Mrs. Green and Mrs. Brier, as wives respectively of the sheriff and the neighboring farmer, were splendid in their difficult parts. Upon them fell the subtlety of the situation and had either of them failed in any respect the whole act would have fallen as flat as the proverbal flounder. That there was no such failure was shown as heretofore indicated as well as by the enthusiasm of the audience in their remarks after the curtain fell. The original entry of these women showing fear of the surroundings at the scene of the crime, and awe of their "men folks" who were investigating, their intimate conversations when the men were absent, and their very evident desire to "go the limit" in protecting an accused of their own sex were all excellent portrayals.

The play was directed by Captain Newton. After receiving the questionary with reference to the Dramatic Club, early last summer, Captain Newton, while on leave, took two courses in dramatic work at the University of California. That he was a most successful student was amply demonstrated by his handling of this difficult little play. He is an asset to the club and will undoubtedly be heard from again.

There was also presented "The Bathroom Door," a farce by Gertrude E. Jennings. Aside from its intrinsic qualities as a farce, this playlet is notable because in one presentation of it by amateurs aboard H. M. S. "Renown" during the world tour of the Prince of Wales, his Royal Highness played the part of the young lady from Paris and acquitted himself very well.

This sketch is one of action, situation, character and the true comic spirit. The door to the bathroom on the fourth floor of the Majestic Hotel in London appears to be locked when in reality it is only stuck. On this premise the farce is built and an elderly gentleman, a young man of varsity type, a nonchalant young lady over from Paris, a maiden lady, shy and of uncertain years, a prima donna of a passing show,—all, in their efforts to get into the bathroom for their morning ablutions, congregate in the hallway in front of the bathroom door and find themselves enmeshed in the thread of the prima donna's life. The young gentleman falls in love with her, the elderly gentleman is intrigued and all are shocked when she makes known her belief that in the supposedly locked bathroom lies the body of her husband (whom she forgot to mention to the young man) who has killed himself in despair because she has permitted him to desert her rather than give up her pet tiger. When in the end Boots demonstrates that the bathroom door is not locked and all learn that no one is in the bath, all wish to know with the prima donna where is the corpse of her husband. Boots gives the information that the dead body is downstairs in the dining room "having his breakfast."

The setting left nothing to be desired and got over immediately to the audience. The players looked their parts and the acting was uniformly good. The young lady from Paris (Mrs. Bishop) registered from the moment of her first entrance and she looked, acted and spoke the English idea of a real mademoiselle of the Paris variety. The maiden lady (Mrs. Schneider) was particularly well acted and every line and gesture of this part was given its full value. Particularly funny was her run to cover upon meeting a man at the bathroom door. The prima donna (Mrs. Landis) was the leading lady of the passing one-night stand show. Her theatricality, her little transparent pretensions, her actor's temperament and her real underlying naivete and attractiveness were all very well expressed. The elderly gentleman (Major Dailey) who was not too elderly to know what was going on and who was particularly solicitous for the pretty lady in distress, was very well acted. The impressionable young man (Lieut. Holloman) looked the part and acted it with effective whimsicality. His English accent savored more of Birmingham, Alabama, than it did of Birmingham, England. Boots (Lt. Strohbehn) decent but not beautiful, justified his part in the playlet by the manner in which he informed all and sundry that the lady's husband's dead body was downstairs having breakfast.

The playlet showed conscientious and painstaking direction under the careful leadership of Lieut. Oliver. More experience with farce will teach the players to stress more, to exaggerate even, the good points in their speeches, to build up the laughs and effects by closer teamwork, to avoid talking while the audience is laughing or applauding, and to feel the rhythm and pace and gain the speed that are so essential in the presentation of comedy.

A meeting of the club members has been called for 4:15 P. M., Friday, 3 December, 1926, at the Officers' Club, at which any member may present anything which he or she desires, for club consideration.

CPL. JOSEPH G. FELBER
Co. E, 29th Inf.

Joe has gone way and left us on a ninety-day furlough and when we see him again we expect to view a full-fledged second louie with the bright gold bar, the Sam Browne belt and all the other trimmings that go with officerial dignity. Because Joe's gone up to New York University, in the wild, wicked and wet metropolis to take a three-months' course to fit him for the coming examinations for a commission in the army of these United States. At the institution put on the map this fall by Connors, Briante and other gridiron wearers of the purple jerseys our hero is sure to absorb sufficient knowledge, added to that acquired in part of a year at West Point, to enable him to satisfy the examiners that he should be addressed as "Sir" by all and sundry the enlisted men of Uncle Sam's big military family.

Joe is from the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry, where, under the inspiration and leadership of Major Burton E. Bowen, they grow fighting athletes and all round soldiers and be it known that even in such a battling band he has well won the nickname of "Fighting Joe" Felber. It may be remembered that the "Kellys" cut quite a figure in last summer's Gowdy Cup race, and if you take the trouble to glance back over the records you might be surprised to find that it was Joe who led the team in batting. Most managers pray for a pinch hitter who can connect safely about once in three or four tries, and few find answer to their prayers. But let's see what Joe did. Going to bat sixteen times in ten games he hit 'em where they weren't on no less than eight occasions. No need to go back of that record. Joe is a receiver of merit, but the presence of "Mick" McCarthy kept him from breaking into the lineup as regular maskman. Of all his deeds his single in the tenth inning of that memorable thirteen inning game with the Reds will be remembered. It sent in the tieing run after the West Enders had apparently sewed the game up in the first extra inning.

And then look at him on the basketball court. The Second Battalion, with a brand new team, completed its fourth successive year without a defeat and walked off with the garrison crown. Perhaps the most important cog in "Kelly's" machine was "Fighting Joe." He played a standing guard, and sacrificed his chances for the plaudits of the crowd to the routine, but important job of holding down the opponents' score. The fact that no team scored more than 14 points against the 2nd Bats testifies to his efficiency. He was unquestionably the best guard in the garrison league and to him was due a large share of the credit for his team's splendid record.

Joe hasn't been in the army long, enlisting for the first time in March, 1925, and has served the whole time with Co. E of the Lead the Way gang; but his quiet efficiency, his never say die spirit and his outstanding intelligence have made him one of the best known and liked members of the regiment. We predict a fine career for Joe as an officer.

MARINES KEEP CUP DOWNING DOUGHBOYS BY DECISIVE SCORE

Three Touchdowns in Second Period Cinch Victory in Annual Championship Battle

Fort Benning's Doughboys failed again last Saturday in an effort to restore the President's Cup, emblematic of Service supremacy, to the Army's possession; succumbing to the sturdy Sea Soldiers from Quantico in a bitterly fought but rather one sided game, 27 to 7. The second quarter of the game did the damage, the Marines crossing the goal line three separate and distinct times during this fifteen minute period. Two young men in the backfield, by name Levey and Ryckman, and a line that outplayed its opponents throughout were the chief reasons for the Marine win.

The first quarter was scoreless and featured by frequent exchanges of kicks on most of which Thompson outbooted Levey. Near the end the Marines made a couple of first downs but lost the ball on the Doughboys 30-yard line when a flurry of passes fell harmlessly. Then Kjelstrom tried the air route, but with disastrous results. Two passes were incomplete and then Levey grabbed a third heave and dashed twenty yards to the soldier 30 yard line as the period ended.

Opening the second stanza Levey and Ryckman took turns in piercing the Infantry line and in a short time Levey lugged the ball over the goal line on a 7-yard sprint around his own left end on which he ran all the way across the gridiron. Ryckman's placement kick for the point went squarely between the posts. Soon afterward Eddie Ryckman broke through center on a fake double pass that completely baffled the Doughboys, shook off a couple of tacklers and galloped fifty-five yards for a touchdown. This time Ryckman's kick went wild.

To complete the rout "Irish" Levey, near the end of the second quarter, collared a short pass from Buckowy and loped forty yards more over the line. Ryckman made it an even twenty points for the period with an accurate shot at the posts from placement.

The third quarter saw the Doughboy defense stiffen, and the Marines were unable to make any headway. The Infantry offense was stopped before it started. As a result the ball was in the air during most of the period with neither side making any material advance. Just before the end the Marine machine got going again and advanced the ball to the Infantry 33-yard line.

Consistant gains through the line and a 12 yard pass from Buckowy to Ryckman enabled Eddie to tally his team's last touchdown after a ten yard jaunt around left end. Again he added the point.

At this stage of the game, the Infantry, who had been consistently outplayed but not outfought, came back with a rush and marched down the field for the first touchdown ever recorded by them against the Marines. Captain Archibald MacKechnie was substituted for Smythe after the Marines last touchdown. Receiving the kickoff the doughboys led by the new backfield addition, chalked up three first downs in a row, their first of the afternoon. This advance carried the pigskin to the Marine 30 yard line. With fourth down and inches to go, Capt. Mackechnie plunged into the line and apparently made the required distance, but an over zealous doughboy was detected offside and the Benning boys were set back five long yards. All hope of a score seemed gone, but Kjelstrom dropped back and pitched the ball high over the writhing fracas into the upreached hands of "Tommy" Thompson who was downed on the Sea Soldiers 5-yard line as he nabbed the pigskin. Three rushes into the line failed to carry it over, but on the fourth and last try Captain Mackechnie broke through and fell over the line for the six-pointer. One of the famous "Kelly to Fat" passes added the seventh marker.

There was no further scoring although the Marines rallied and were steadily pushing the doughboys back at the final whistle.

Offensively the Doughboys can hardly claim any stars. For three whole periods their attempted advances failed to give them a single first down. It wasn't the backs fault altogether, as they usually had to dodge two or three tacklers before reaching the line of scrimage, so fast were the Marine forwards coming through. Captain Mackechnie's fine line plunging in the fourth quarter and the prettily executed pass which placed the ball in scoring position were the attacking features for the soldiers. On defense all hands fought doggedly in the face of defeat. Franz and Mack played brilliantly. Down the field on every kick it was almost always one or the other of this pair who halted the returning Marine back. Big Bertha was prominent in every play and used his portly, not to say plethoric, frame to great advantage.

Eddie Ryckman and Irish Levey of the Leathernecks showed clearly that the Marines didn't really need Geottge or McQuade of Pugh or any of their star commissioned ball carriers. These two were the hardest men on the field to stop. They were quick to spy openings and once through the forward line they kept their feet and went on for good gains on almost every occasion.

The Devil Dog line charged hard and fast and to it must go the major credit of the victory, as it was through holes opened by the front line troops that the speedy backs galloped to the goal line.

ARMY MULE AND NAVY GOAT WILL MIX AND MINGLE SATURDAY

On the basis of comparative scores there is little to choose between the two elevens. The Blue and Gold Navy team has scored victories over Purdue, Drake, University of Richmond, Princeton, Colgate, Michigan, West Virginia Wesyleyan, Georgetown, and Loyola on successive Saturdays. Army's gridiron warriors who suffered a setback from Notre Dame, have beaten Detroit, Syracuse, Boston, Yale, Franklin and Marshall, and Ursinus. Incidentally they gave Yale the worst beating the Bulldog has received in years.

Looks Like Battle Royal

The Army and Navy lines appear to be fairly evenly matched and the backfields, if possible, are even more closely balanced. There is no doubt that Navy's overhead game will be uncorked sometime during the contest and unless the Army has improved its defense against an overhead attack, the Midshipmen should score. On the other hand, or foot, as the case may be, the speedy Army backs will probably let their toes twinkle down the field so speedily in a running attack that unless the Navy stops them close to the line of scrimmage the Cadets will be able to score tally for tally.

In the Notre Dame contest the Army showed that it had an eleven equal to any in the country. The fact that Notre Dame was able to put two excellent sets of backs in play against the Army's one proved a big factor in their defeat, a young man by the name of Chris Flannagan scoring the lone touchdown by a run of 63 yards.

The Navy team did not look so well against Georgetown, apparently being unable to stop the hard running Hilltop backs. The fact that the Navy's passing game was so developed that even on an of day it was able to pull the Midshipmen through the victory stood out. The final score of 10-7 in this gime tells the tale.—Armyand Navy Journal.

Hard Fight Forecast by Army and Navy Athletic Authorities

Both Army and Navy athletic officials, in predictions on the coming Army-Navy classic, November 27, agree on one point—namely, that the contest will be hard fought.

Capt. T. M. (Biff) Jones, U. S. A., Army coach, declared:

"It is my practice never to make predictions regarding the outcome of any football games. Too many variable conditions and circumstances are involved. I particularly do not care to make any prediction on an Army-Navy game.

"This year the Navy has one of the best teams in the country. Certainly it is one of the best Navy teams in the past 10 years. We have a team that has played well in most of its games so far.

"I expect this game to be close, hard fought, and clean, from the first whistle to the last. This is characteristic and traditional between these old rivals."

Comdr. Jonas Ingram, U. S. N., Navy Director of Athletic, says:

"Army has a great team; don't forget that, in spite of its defeat by Notre Dame, and Navy has its work well cut out for the service clash at Chicago on November 27."

Probable Lineup

The probable line-up for the game will be:

Army	Position	Navy
Harbold	L.E.	Lloyd

On Thanksgiving Day at twelve thirty o'clock all five of the Messes in the Regiment served special Thanksgiving Dinners. Enlisted men and their families were all present or accounted for.

Music was furnished in Mess number five by the famous 24th Infantry Orchestra, which, indeed added to the occasion. All of the Officers of the Regiment were present to partake of the Thanksgiving feast with their companies and the Regimental Staff Officers distributed themselves among the five messes. Such eatables have never before been seen and eaten and it will probably be quite sometime before those in attendance will partake of such delicious food again.

At Mess number 5 there was a most unique exhibition of the Charleston given by Corporal Sloane Williams of the Service Company and private Crowder of the Company 'C.' Both men showed their aptitude at the terpsichorian art.

POLOISTS "ON TO McPHERSON" MONDAY

NEWS OFFERS PERPETUAL CUP FOR GARRISON GRID CHAMPIONSHIP WINNER

Handsome Trophy to Be Competed For in Annual Football Series.

The Infantry School News has offered and the Commandant has authorized the acceptance of a championship cup for the annual garrison football series. The News is offering this trophy so that the winning team may have something in addition to a pennant to show for its achievements on the gridiron. The cup has not yet been selected, but will be a handsome one and one well worth striving for.

The cup will be a perpetual one, the winning team each year retaining possession only until the winner of the next season has been determined. For the past few seasons the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry has been a perpetual pennant winner, but this fall the other teams, particularly the Terrible Tankers, perennial challengers of the Kellys' supremacy are out for revenge.

This year there will be only four teams in the league, the Infantry School Detachment having found it impossible to put a team in the field, remain the 1st and 2nd Battalions, due to lack of time for practice. There remain 1st and 2nd Battalions, 29th, the Tanks and the Gunners of the 83rd Field Artillery.

All the outfits are already hard at work, although the initial game between the 1st Bats and the Kellys is over two weeks off. It looks to the impartial observer that the bunting again lies between the Tanks and the Kels, but this year of grace has been

MOUNTED MALLET MEN MOVE ON McPHERSON FOR POLO TOURNEY

Major Smith and Five Officers Go To Atlanta Next Week to Meet Strong Clubs

Collecting the best material from the four polo teams of the garrison, Major H. J. M. Smith, Instructor in Equitation at the Infantry School, will lead his cohorts up to Fort McPherson next week to take part in the big tournament to be held at the Atlanta station. And it is well for the garrison that so many fine players are available as the sternest sort of opposition must be overcome to bring home the trophy.

The powerful 6th Cavalry four from Fort Oglethorpe, McPherson's own 22nd Infantry club and the Governor's Horse Guards of Atlanta will be the other entries. The men of the mounted branch have defeated Benning once this season, but at that time the school players had had little practice and were not displaying the same form they may be expected to show now. The 22nd Infantry fell before three of the garrison teams here last Sunday, but then they were mounted on unfamiliar ponies and they showed enough to warrant the belief that they will prove hard to handle in their own back yard mounted on their own ponies. The Horse Guards are said to have one of the strongest civilian clubs in the South and should prove dangerous at every stage.

Accompanying the Benning Centaur-in-Chief will be Capt. R. A. McClure, Inf.; Capt. E. B. Whisner, Inf.; Capt. W. A. Burress, 29th Inf.; Capt. John D. Forsythe, Inf.; and Lieut. Stephen B. Elkins, Inf.; an active and agile band fully capable of giving anybody's polo team a very and exceedingly busy afternoon. With the experience gained in the game against the 6th up at Oglethorpe about a fortnight ago, and with the practice they have had the past few days, these officers have developed a high degree of teamwork and it's teamwork more than individual brilliancy that wins polo games.

No need to dwell at length upon the experience and pedigree of these players, as they are all well known to the garrison and readers of the News. Major Smith, Capt. McClure, Capt. Forsythe and Capt. Whisner have been drawn from the Freebooters, Capt. Burress comes from the Mounted Demonstrationists and Lieutenant Elkins is the stellar performer of the Students.

The lineup which will take the field for the opening throw-in will probably be: Lt. Elkins, No. 1; Capt. McClure, No. 2; Maj. Smith, No. 3, and Capt. Whisner, No. 4. Capt. Forsythe will be in reserve for either No. 1 or 2 with Capt. Burress ready to jump into the fray at 3 or 4. The caliber of the replacement troops is such that either or both could be inserted without loss of strength to the team.

A string of twenty poines will be taken along, three from the 29th stables, one from the 83rd's string and the others from the Infantry School stables. The Benningites are fortunate in being equipped with mounts that are quick and fast and agile, for as has so often been said ponies are at least half the game. You can't hit the ball unless you can get to it and if you are fighting a pony you haven't much time left for the serious business of the game.

SQUAD FROM "G" CO., 29th WINS HONOR OF WEARING CHIEF'S SLEEVE PATCH

2nd Squad, 1st Platoon Selected on Chief of Infantry's Combat Team

In the recent combat problem fired at the Infantry School, the second squad, first platoon, Co. "G," 29th Infantry, was selected to represent the regiment on the Chief of Infantry Combat Team. The squad won the combat problem by a score of 902 against that of its nearest opponent, 643. The company is commanded by Capt. T. F. Wessels but the training of the squad was in charge of Lt. R. H. Wilson.

The squad was recently complimented in a letter from Major General Robert H. Allen, Chief of Infantry, in which Gen. Allen stated that he was very much pleased with the interest shown in the competition and congratulates the winning members of the squad.

For the purposes of comparison the scores of 1925 are shown in the fourth column. It should be borne in mind that the 1926 problem was decidedly more difficult than the 1925 problem.

GARRISON THEATER SECURES FILM SHOW OF ARMY-NAVY GAME

Two Reel Story of Spectacular Struggle to Be Shown December 8th and 9th

The United States Army Motion Picture Service is always on the lookout for ways and means of giving the personnel of the army bigger and better pictures, and so when the Army Mule and the Navy Goat battled to a deadlock on Soldiers' Field in Chicago last Saturday the USAMP man was right there on the job recording on celluloid every detail of the titanic tussle. The result is a two reel picture story of the game to be shown only in Army theaters.

Captain F. S. Doll, ever alert to please his patrons, has secured the film of the game and it will be shown in the garrison theaters on the evenings of December 8th and 9th. There will be no extra charge in addition to the usual admittance fee. Members of the Fort Benning garrison will accordingly be able to see a visual reproduction of one of the most sensational football games ever played.

PFC. JOE SANDON
Reg. Hq. Co., 29th Inf.

It has been said the spectacle of a cavalry charge is one of the most thrilling sights of a battle. It must get into a soldier's blood for Joe Sandow who has four years in the Austrian Cavalry to his credit has served the interests of man's noblest friend through ten years of military service.

The middle of October appears to be a fateful period in his life for on Oct. 15, 1888 he was born in Lemberg, Austria in the Carpathian mountains, the type of terrain which breeds hard riders and all around good horsemen.

Leaving the Austrian army with the rank of corporal Sandow emigrated to this country in 1913 obtaining work in the coal mines near Pittsburgh where he became an American citizen in 1920. With the acquisition of citizenship came two longings which both terminated in the same manner. He wanted to serve his adopted country and he wished to return to the routine of military service.

Sandow was assigned to Fort Benning and the 29th Infantry. It didn't take long for this diminutive soldier to find the location of the polo stables where he was placed on special duty immediately. He stayed in "I" Company, 29th Infantry for two years after which he transferred to Service Company where he was discharged in 1923.

He re-enlisted for RHQ Co., 34th Inf, Fort Eustis, Va., but soon became homesick for the Infantry School where he transferred after four months at Eustis.

Billie, Freddie and Doughboy, polo ponies which have been recommended to the U. S. Polo association during the three year period ending 1926 owe all of their condition and much of their training to the efforts of Sandow according to the unanimous opinion of members of the 29th Infantry Polo club.

Sandow, whose present occupation is saddler for Regimental Headquarters Company has a rating of private first class, specialist fourth class, still takes an active interest in the development of the ponies in the polo stables even though it takes much of his own time. He recently re-enlisted for his present organization being on his third enlistment.

War Department
Office of the Chief of Infantry
Washington

November 19, 1926.

Subject: Chief of Infantry's Combat Team,
To: The Commanding Officer, 29th Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga.

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of November 9, 1926, submitting the names of the members of the squad selected by you to represent the 29th Infantry on the Chief of Infantry's Combat Team.

The squad of Company "G" made up of the following named men, is hereby announced as the Twenty-Ninth Infantry Squad of the Chief of Infantry's Combat Team, and is authorized to wear the sleeve patch of the team until the winning squad is announced after the next competition.

Corporal Stanley M. Kunn, Pfc. Hubert L. Chamblee, Pfc. Allen E. Hodges, Pfc. Harry B. Phillips, Pfc. Harry E. Volz, Pfc. Lynden E. Fournot, Pfc. Dug Morgan, Pfc. Roy R. Wilson, (Auto Rifleman.)

The Chief of Infantry is very much pleased with the interest shown in this competition and believes that the type of problem used in the selection of these squads is such as to require the squads attaining the honor of being selected to be highly efficient in musketry.

The Chief of Infantry requests that his congratulations be extended to the members of the winning squad and to the officers and non-commissioned officers instrumental in its training.

For the Chief of Infantry:

"D" CO. ANNOUNCED AS NIGHT PATROL WINNER

Winning organization in the Mounted Night Patrol, Nov. 19 at Fort Benning, sponsored by the Twenty-ninth Infantry, was Company "D," according to a general order issued Wednesday by Col. J. B. Gowen, regimental commander. A board of officers composed of Major C. B. Elliott, Major B. E. Bowen and Major O. W. Griswold met and after considering all factors, awarded the organizational prize to:

Company "D," commanded by Captain Withers A. Burress.

The regimental commander extended his congratulations to the contestants from Co. "D" and to the officers and non-commissioned officers whose instruction was instrumental in enabling the contestants to complete the ride in such a creditable manner.

"D" Company has won honors along other lines as well as night riding. It is known as the coon hunting company because of its proficiency in tracking coons through the Fort Benning terrain. "D" Company has qualified more men with the machine gun the last two years than any other company.

Registered space in last week's issue prevented the publication of the Club's acknowledgement of the excellent service rendered by the stage director Captain Alan W. Jones and the personnel connected with the 29th Infantry Theatre in the excellent stage settings and careful stage operation on the two nights of presentation of plays. Wonders were accomplished with but few resources and many members and guests remarked upon the excellence of the productions from this point of view.

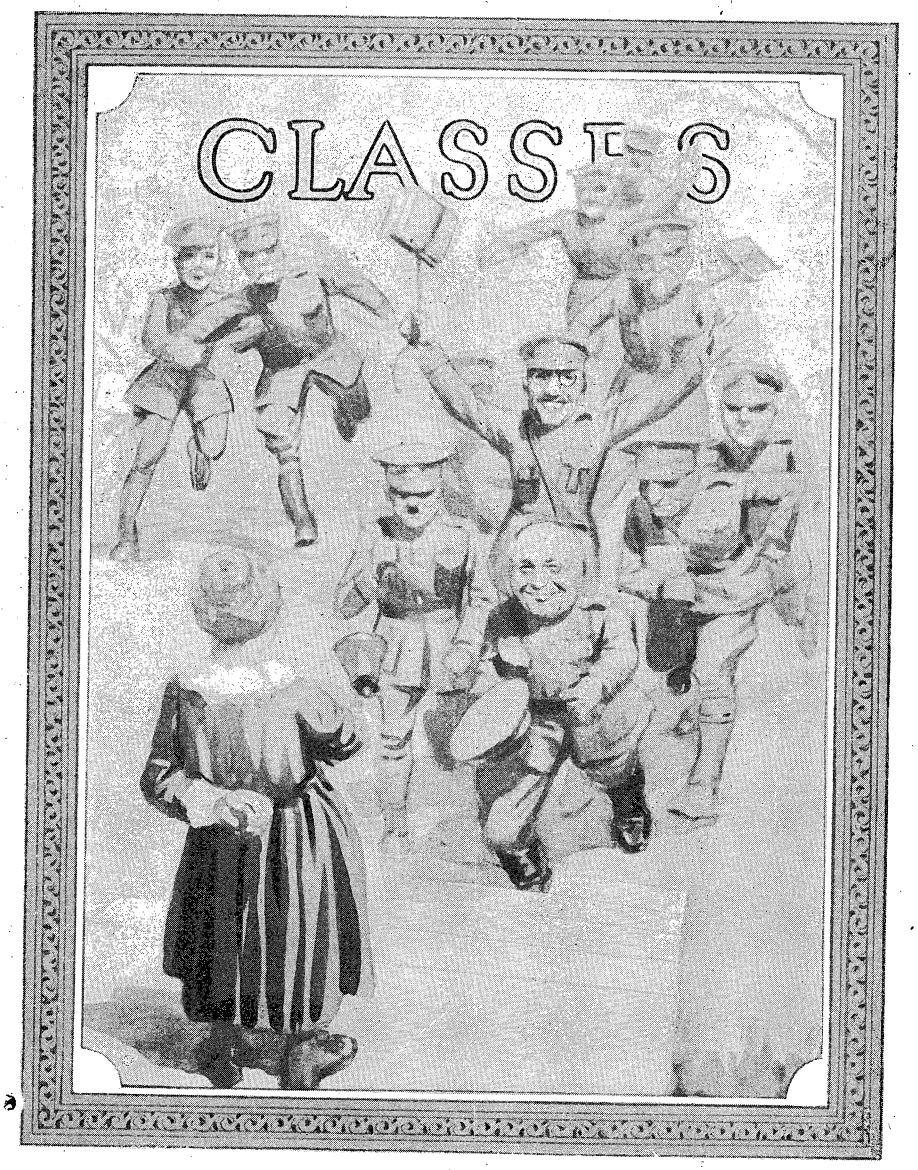
Casting of the three act comedy for presentation late in January has occupied much time recently. An announcement of the title of the play will be made at the meeting of the Club at the Officers' Club at 4:15 p. m., Friday, 3 December '26.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club is new engaged with preparations for the Operetta 'SINGBAD THE SAILOR' which the Club will present to the Garrison and the General Public Dec. 17th and 18th. The Operetta promises to outshine any other similar entertainment which the Glee Club has ever produced. The costuming is very elaborte and the music under the direction of Captain George L. King is all that could be asked for and will be presented in the usual delightful way, which is so characteristic of the Glee Club.

The Operetta is a story of a sailor stranded on a cannibal Island. Singbad, the Sailor in spite of his good nature cannot sufficiently impress the natives to keep them from eating him. The Cannibals are ruled by a beautiful Queen, who, at the last moment appears, on the scene and directs that Singbad not be eaten by the cannibals. The Queen falls in love with Singbad and they are married and so the story goes to a happy ending. The Operetta includes much catchy music and a snappy costumed pony ballet. The production will be presented in the Main Garrison Theatre.

-: THE STEWGENT :-



Question asked by one bright Stewgent in the Sand Table room Tuesday, "Sir! When I go back to my organization at the end of this school year would it be possible for one to secure some of this beautifully colored sand and take it with me. We only have brown sand at Fort Sam Houston."

They are looking for an assistant instructor in sketching for next year. We know of one hombre they will not select. How about it Mac?

New addition to the sick lame and lazy squad—Roberts.

Tiny Martinson declares he is going to invent a sketching tripod with longer legs so that he won't have to reach down so far to sketch.

Few more days until we jump into "Shene Guns."

We are going to get up a mustard show shortly that should be easy in Company from the kind of comedy that is puller off almost daily.

Be sure and do your Xmas shopping early and I'll take one also Mike.

WHO'S WHO!

This column was inaugurated some time ago for the information and the pleasure of our subscribers. It has been the endeavor of the writer of the column to bring out the interesting and important and salient features of some of the outstanding officers of the garrison of Fort Benning. The column is generally made up for three or four weeks ahead of time and the subjects of the sketches are run as selected by the Editor and not according to rank or according to the importance of the records of the subjects. In the office of the INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS there is a list of prospective candidates for this column. While the NEWS has a great many facilities for getting information about happenings and personnel of the garrison at the same time it is believed that there are many officers of the command who deserve honorable mention in our column, who we have missed, and, therefore, if there are any suggestions from our subscribers or any one else in the post as to officers who should be written up here the NEWS would be more than glad to receive them. As has been said before rank among the commissioned personnel of the command does not constitute the main consideration here. Any junior officer who has in his record any extraordinary accomplishments would be an excellent subject for this column.

Send in your suggestions to the NEWS and the editorial staff will do the rest.

New York's First Hudson Bridge

The world's greatest suspension bridge, and the first bridge of any kind to cross the Hudson at New York, will be begun in a few months, according to Robert A. Lasher, traffic engineer of the Port Authority of New York, who recently made the first public announcement of the status of the project. The bridge will connect Manhattan at 179th street with the Palisades of New Jersey. We read in the New York Times:

"Mr. Lasher declared that actual work upon the structure and its approaches would be begun some time before next summer, and that the Port Authority expected to go ahead thereafter at full speed with the gigantic undertaking. This was corrobated later by William Leary, treasurer of the Port Authority, when he was seen at the headquarters of that body, 75 West street. Mr. Leary said work upon the towers that are to support the bridge probably would be under way before midsummer, as well as the initial work upon the land approaches. Both the States of New York and New Jersey have voted $1,000,000 each yearly for the bridge for five successive years, and the first instalments of those sums fall due next July, Mr. Lasher said:

" 'This bridge into the heart of Manhattan will be the largest ever undertaken by man. It will be two and one-half times as large as the Brooklyn Bridge and twice the size of the recently opened Philadelphia-Camden Bridge over the Delaware. Its unsupported section will measure 3,568 feet and its towers will rise almost to the height of the Woolworth Building—660 feet. The clearance for vessels will be 206 feet, which is more than 70 feet above the regulation requirements.'

"The speaker made it clear that the bridge would be so constructed as to eliminate any possibility of interfering with the natural scenic beauty of the Palisades and also brought out the fact that those in charge expect the first vehicle to pass over the structure in 1932.

" 'There will be three stages of construction,' said Mr. Lasher. 'The first of these will enable us to open a traffic lane on each side of the bridge, which will accommodate two lines of vehicles both easterly and westerly. After that the center lanes for four additional lines of traffic will be opened. The third stage will be the suspension cradles from the upper decks, which may be used for buses or rail transportation.'

"Mr. Lasher told his audience that because of the great increase in bus traffic during the last two years, a special lane for this type of vehicle has been recommended. 'A study of this particular problem disclosed that the buses and rapid-transit lines would have transported 22,000,000 persons over the Hudson River Bridge during 1924 had the bridge then existed,' he said.

"More than 8,000,000 vehicles, besides 500,000 buses, will pass over the bridge in its first year of operation, according to Mr. Lasher, who added that this would be increased by 1940 to 12,000,000 vehicles and 750,000 buses, and in 1950, to 15,000,000 vehicles and 1,200,000 buses."—Literary Digest.

Extracts From Annual Report of the Chief of Infantry

The Tank School:—The Tank School successfully completed its seventh year on June 15th.

Upon receipt of instructions providing for the movement of the Tank School from Camp Meade, Maryland, to Fort Benning, Georgia, the Commandants of both schools were directed to submit studies as to the time,and details involved in, the move. These studies have been received and are being considered by this office. While this move will, of necessity, be delayed until necessary shop and other housing facilities are constructed, the eventual concentration of all classes of Infantry instruction at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, will tend to efficiency of instruction and the production of better equipped graduates from both the Infantry School and the Tank School.

Schools for Enlisted Men:—The existing schools for enlisted men are used by the Infantry to the maximum extend permissible under the transportation funds allotted for the purpose. Aditional students could be ordered to these schools to advantage if the funds permitted.

Reserve Officers' Training Corps: — The Reserve Officers' Training Corps is progressing satisfactorily. It is a fruitful source for obtaining the desirable type of reserve officers by our policy of national defense and its role will become greater.

The shortage of funds which has prevented the inspection of any Reserve Officers' Training Corps units by representatives from office of the Chief of Infantry during the past year was very unfortunate. The progress of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is vital to our national defense. Success and progress depend upon the interest, supervision and cooperation of the War Department. This cannot be effectively accomplished for any extended period without personal contact.

Anti-aircroft Defense:—On account of suddenness of the aviation attacks to which Infantry units are subjected, it is imperative that the means of the defense against these attacks be included as an integral part of the Infantry organization and equipment and that the training of the personnel so engaged be an Infantry responsibility.

The tests of the Caliber .50 machine gun indicate that it will prove to be an effective Infantry weapon for use against airplanes, tanks, and personnel. Steps have been initiated to determined the tactical value of this weapon and its logical position in the Infantry organization when perfected.

ARMS' EQUIPMENT, SUPPLIES, AND FINANCE

Cross-Country Car:—The cross-country car recently tested by the Infantry and Tank Boards, has been adopted as a standard and designed "Cross-country Car M 1". During the year recommendations for basic allowances for these cars were submitted. An early issue to the service is most desirable. This car is invaluable for reconnaissance, command, supply, control of the marching column, contact with other units and for many other tactical purposes.

Cross-country Transportation: — The World War demonstrated the necessity for making Infantry units independent of roads, and the development in the motor transportation field has offered the solution. Various types of cross-country cargo transportation have been developed and tested. For purposes of economy these tests, which have been carried out under the Infantry and Tank Boards, have been limited to a few vehicles of each type. The development of the cross-country car, cargo carts, power carts, Holt T-35 Tractors, and cross-country cargo-carrying trucks has reached the stage where it is desirable to completely equip one regiment with cross-country motor transportation and conduct an extended field test.

Grenades:—As a result of tests of hand grenades it is recommended that but one type of grenade body (the standard defensive body) and but one type of fuse assembly be adopted.

Armored Cars:—Requirements for an armored car in Infantry tank units have been forwarded to the Ordance Department requesting studies as a preliminary step toward the development of such a vehicle. Experience of the World War and the progress in tank developments have created the need for such a vehicle.

Loads Carried by Soldier:—The question of reducing the excessive weight of equipment and ammunition carried by the Infantry soldier has been commented upon in previous annual reports. Recommendations which are now on file in the War Department based upon studies by the Infantry Board have been submitted on several occasions.

Animals: — Under present special War Department allowances no mules are authorized for combat wagons. Animals are provided for only one- half the regimental allowance of rolling kitchens. The present shortage of animals (both draft and riding) is roughly 45% of that prescribed in Tables of Basic Allowances.

The present specifications governing the purchase of horses, riding, intended for assignment to the Infantry ,provide a larger and more expensive animal than is actually required for this branch. By furnishing smaller riding horses to the Infantry, appropriations could be made to go further toward wiping out the present shortage of animals, and, at the same time a more suitable mount for Infantry service would be provided.

Construction at Fort Benning:— Eleven companies of the 29th Infantry and the greater part of the 24th Infantry are quartered in tents. The remainder of the organizations and the departments of the Infantry School are quartered in frail, temporary buildings which are fast becoming unserviceable. Recent legislation insures a continuation during the coming year of the construction of the cantrel of the 29th Infantry.

Finance:—The amount of funds appropriated for gasoline and lubricants for tactical training of tank and other motorized Infantry organizations for the fiscal year 1927 is inadequate and will not permit carrying out the training programs outlined.

The present necessity for utmost economy prevents the functioning of Infantry organizations and installations to the desired degree of efficiency. The time will be welcomed when the economic conditions of the country will wararnt a budget that will permit the proper and adequate supply of the Army.

RECOMMENDATIONS

It is recommended:— That in the selection of officers for foreign service, when exceptional cases arise involving unnecessary hardships, such cases be decided upon their individuals merits without strict adherence to the foreign service policy.

That every possible effort continue to be made to alleviate, as soon as possible, the unsatisfactory quarters situation in the Army.

That drills for enlisted men be confined to the morning period and every effort made to reduce the fatigue required of the soldier.

That schools for enlisted men be reduced to a minimum and that training demands be revised with a view to materially reducing the tension under which the organizations are at present operating.

That a General Staff study he made with a view to consolidating and co-ordinating the present system of inspections into a single annual inspection, planned sufficiently far in advance to enable as many as possible who are interested to be present; and that all information, not available at such an inspection, be acquired by visits of observation during which the ordinary routine be not disrupted.

That the value of the army ration be increased by the amount necessary to make it equal, approximately, to the rations of the Navy and Marine Corps.

That no more of the present issue of olive drab cotton cloth be purchased and that at the earliest practicable date the issue cotton uniforms revert, in quality and color to the best grade of cotton khaki that can be produced, whether in this country or elsewhere.

That the manufacture of Class A (made to measure) uniforms by the depots be discontinued, and in lieu of this uniform there be issued the cloth and findings for a uniform to be cut, fitted and tailored by local post tailors.

That the uniform allowance of the soldier be increased by an amount sufficient to cover the cost of the local fabrication of the uniform mentioned above.

That the importance of athletic training and the development of athletic teams should be stressed by the War Department in its training directives; and that the War Department should cooperate in every possible way to aid in the assembly and training of representative and winning athletic teams, especially where these teams, represent the Army in competition with other services, such as the Navy and the Marine Corps.

That basic disciplinary training be stressed in War Department training directives and at all inspections by Corps Area Commanders, officers of the inspector General's Department, and officers of the War Department General Staff and that tactical inspections of Corps Area Commanders be conducted by means of command-post exercises.

That in marksmanship a fixed standard of qualification based solely upon ability to shoot, be adopted; and that reduced budgets for this purpose, which are to be deplored, be met by some plan for making equitable distribution among those qualifying, of the reduced amounts appropriated.

That a material increase in ammunition allowances be made, effective January 1, 1927.

That Regular Army companies, Headquarters and Service companies, should have an annual allowance of at least 20,000 rounds and Machine Gun and Howitzer companies of at least 10,000 rounds of .22 caliber ammunition.

That the purchase from company funds of .22 caliber ammunition for team competitions should be made an authorized expenditure the same as the purchase of athletic supplies for competitions in other forms of sport open to all members of the organization.

That every effort be made to continue the National Matches as an annual fixture.

That funds be provided for the purpose of paying entrance fees of members of teams representing branches of the Regular Army in the various matches, both individual and team, fired preliminary to the National Match.

That the strength of Regular Army teams should be increased to thirty firing members for future matches, and that the rules governing the National Matches should be amended so as to fix a maximum limiting strength for each team attending.

That every possible effort be made to provide new and permanent construction for housing the Academic Department of the Infantry School not later than September 1, 1928. This matter is urgent.

That Reserve Officers' Training Corps be administered by a central board of commission of the War Department, the members being representatives from the offices of the Chiefs of Branches and the General Staff and that it be entirely divorced from Corps Area supervision and control.

That provision be made in future budgets to enable representatives from the Office of the Chief of Infantry to visit each senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps Infantry unit at least once each year.

That on the earliest date for which funds may be made available, a regiment of Infantry be completely equipped with cross-country motor transportation and an extended field test be conducted.

That there be included in an early budget a request for funds for the conversion of 171 Liberty trucks for transportation of light tanks.

That but one type of grenade body (the standard defensive body) and but one type of fuse assembly be adopted.

That a platoon of light tanks at the Infantry School be equipped with smoke-producing apparatus for use with the demonstration tank battalion.

That early consideration be given by the War Department to the subject of the reduction of the weight caried by the Infantry soldier.

That the specifications for horses, riding, be modified so as to furnish a smaller and more suitable Infantry mount.

That the amount included in the estimate for the fiscal year 1928 for gasoline and lubricants for training be approved as submitted.

That in future budgets the appropriations for the Infantry School and the Tank School be increased in order to meet more nearly the needs of these installations and to replace the supplies formerly drawn from surplus war stocks, which are now practically exhausted.

BASKETBALL GAMES BEING PLANNED BY INFANTRY

The Infantry's cagemen started practise Monday for the coming court season in the garrison gymnasium. So far little but preliminary work has been done.

The team will be coached this winter by Major John H. Van Vliet, infantry, who has turned out excellent teams the past two seasons. Major Van Vliet is an excellent basketball coach, having had many years experience in the game.

Judging from material now available, the Infantry school will have one of the strongest teams in its history. Among the veteran players from last year are Kjelstrom Sweeney, Newman and Berry, all of whom played on last year's team. In Franz, who is once more with the 29th Infantry, the team will have one of the cleverest players ever stationed at Fort Benning.

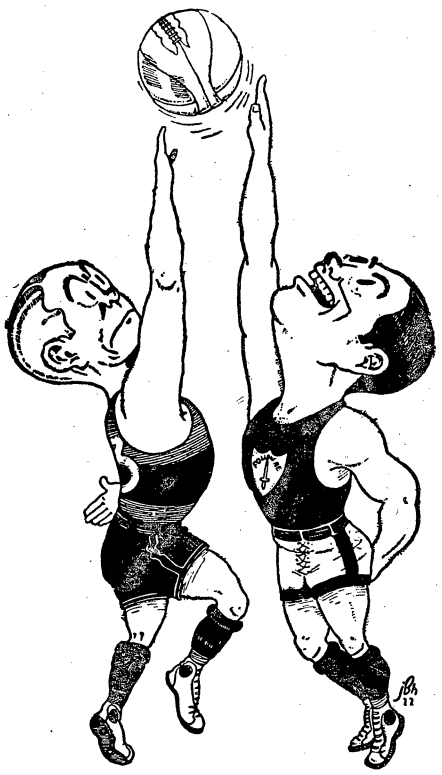
The new material for this year will boost Benning basketball stock sky high.

Lt. Roosma, 29th infantry, was a star player at the U. S. Military academy for five years. Before attending the academy, he played with the Passaic High school team, which won 159 straight games. Lt. Roosma plays as a forward, and is a dead shot from any angle.

Lt. Kammerer, who also played on the U. S. Military academy team for three years, will be seen in action. Lt. Kammerer plays as a forward, or running guard.

With such material available the infantry school should very nearly sweep the boards this winter.

On Janaury 5 the athletic association has arranged to bring to Fort Benning one of the most famous basketball teams in the country. "Olson's Terrible Swedes" from Kansas, is composed of all star basketball players from the middle west. They have played 306 games in six years, out of which number they have lost but 59. Each year they tour the country, this being their eighth expedition.



The meeting of these two teams will be an extraordinary attraction, and one well worth seeing.

CADETS AND MIDDIES END TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH EVEN FIGURES

Nation's Most Colorful Game Results in 21-21 Tie After Brilliant Exhibition

By James O'Donnell Bennett

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 28.—The heroic, the terrific tie!

Army 21, Navy 21.

A football game that was worthy of the twelve and a half decades of West Point's annals in war and in sport: worthy of the eight decades of Annapolis where Dewey studied and where John Paul Jones sleeps.

A game at once brilliant and stalwart. Each side taking the offensive and never relinquishing it; each side thinking quickly and instantly smashing thought home with the power and sureness of trip-hammers.

Let solid fact do what rhapsidy is supposed to do.

And this solid fact is also the highest of the high-lights of any epic game.

Six different men made a touchdown apiece—three on each side.

Seldom, very seldom, do you see that.

Each side kicked goals three times.

Thus beautifully balanced was the 29th annual game between the two academies and the first of the 29th to be played remote from the eastern seaboard of our country.

Beautifully balanced, beautifully staged, and beautifully acclaimed.

One hundred and ten thousand happy men, women and children saw it and cheered it.

Unprecedented Throng

It was an unpreceding throng for football, exceeding by 16,000 the record established three Saturday's ago when 95,000 spectators saw the University of Michigan beat the University of Ohio by 21 to 20, at Columbus.

The issue of today's game would have been identical with the issue a fortnight ago at Columbus save for Cadet Hamilton's crucial kick for point after touchdown in the middle of the third quarter. That kick pulled the Navy up to a tie which the Army could not untie.

Hamilton—curiously enough—went to Annapolis from Columbus.

The game by Soldiers and Sailors on Chicago's Soldiers' field had all the qualities of a great battle. It had flow and ebb; it had vigor; it had ecstasy. Progress on each side depended solely on who had the ball. Each side marvelously sustained its power to carry on.

During the first quarter the day looked like Navy day. The Sailors ran wild through the Soldiers. The Sailors had scored two touchdowns.

Caldwell, who went to Annapolis from Roseville, Calif., was the thorn that was tearing things apart for the Navy.

The Navy girls were shrill with jubliation.

The Army grandsires set their jaws hard—and waited.

Their faith in the lads from the highlands of the Hudson was justified.

Shock Troops Yanked

For in the second quarter the Army replaced its shock troops of substitutes with seven of its team's regulars.

Then began those beautifully balanced phrases of the contest.

Then came your money's worth.

What it cost him or her for his or her seat on the Doric cliffs above the bowl, who followed was worth the cost to each and every one of the 110,000.

They saw "Light Horse Harry" Wilson from the highlands—and originally from Sharpsville, Pa.—tackled five times, and knocked down three times, and each time shaking 'em off and plunging forward.

All that was in the second quarter.

They saw a field that seemed like a meadow being mopped with men: they saw columns of men come crashing down; they saw such a melee of men and mixture of bodies that sometimes seemed s. of from catapults and sometimes flung from precipices. And sometimes only wads of piled-up bodies were visible, but instantly they rose, separated, and once more became onrusing columns of recognizable humans.

By 3:05 o'clock the army grandsires cheered up, crying, "This game's not over by any manner of means!"

The Navy was praying.

Up and At 'Em Navy

It was praying in the words of a lashing chant that is called "Up and at 'em, Navy!" and that runs—

UP AND AT 'EM NAVY!
Let's go sailing down the field:
TEAR RIGHT THROUGH 'EM NAVY!
Old old line will never yield.
FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!
Touchdown after touchdown.
MAN FOR MAN WE'RE BACK OF YOU!
Victory for us today.
NOW WE'RE GETTING UNDER WAY.
NAVY BLUE, LET'S GO THOROUGH!

Five minutes later the score was,—TIED!

And the Army was cheering to praise and the Navy to encourage.

The words went shrieking along the west side of the cliffs, where the West Point corps was massed.

"Who said this was Navy Day?"

Now the mulitude made unconditional stir to the emotional surge which spacious strategy, shrewd tactics and valiant fighting had created.

Rigor and Relaxation

One minute—sometimes for the space of a whole minute—It sat stiff under the spell of the game's rigor; the next minute it would be jumping up and down with delight in its swift interplay.

Cadence was almost continuous.

Cadence of swaying song; cadence of swaying bodies.

Yonder on the eastern slope of the cliffs, 2,000 blue-clad, white-gathered bodies of Annapolis men swaying as one body of the strains of "Anchors Aweigh," and here, on the western cliff, nearly 1,200 gray-clad bodies of West Point men swaying as one body to the strains of "Fight Away."

FIGHT AWAY, O, FIGHT AWAY,
All you Army men in Gray,
GO CHARGING DOWN THE FIELD,
A-smashing every play!
THROUGH NAVY'S LINE EVERY TIME,
Break away with all your might,
NO NAVY IN THE WORLD,
Can stop old Army's
FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!

And flanking both Corps more than a hundred thousand people catching up the cadences which the corps bands set.

The sounds and the picture grandly expressed and epitomized mankind's joy in spectacles of skillful struggle of valiant and skillful men.—Atlanta Constitution.

2ND CORPS AREA GRID CHAMP TO BE DECIDED ON WEST POINT FIELD

Enlisted Teams to Battle on Cadet Field for First Time in Academy's History

WEST POINT, NEW YORK.—Arrangements have been concluded between the officials of the Second Corps Area Headquarters at Governor's Ialand, and the authorities of the Military Academy to stage the game for the football championship of the Second Corps Area, in the West Point Stadium on Saturday, December 4, at 2:00 p. m. This is the first time in the history of athletics at the Academy that an enlisted championship has been fought out on the Cadet field. The exact opponents are not known, but they will be selected from play-offs that were scheduled to take place last Thanksgiving Day. The West Point play-off was between the team of the Field Artillery Detachment here, and that of the Service Detachment. The play-off in the New York Harbor Posts League will be between the Fort Hamilton team and the Eighteenth Infantry team.

The day of the game will take the form of a Second Corps Area day. Various high officials from Governor's Island, and from other points in the Corps Area will be present at West Point on that day. A review of the Cadet Corps will be held in honor of the visiting officers This review will probably take place at 1:15 p. m., and will be concluded in time to allow averyone to witness the football game. An admission charge of twenty-five cents will be made. This is done merely to pay the expenses of the visiting team from New York. As a matter of fact, this is a very small fee for witnessing what should prove to be one of the best amateur football games in the country.

Both the West Point League and the New York Harbor Posts League are noted for having some of the finest soldier football players in the Army. All of them are coached by officers who have had distinguished football careers in their college days. The brand of footbabll that they have displayed compares favorably with that exhibited by other American teams. No officers are permitted to play on these soldier teams.

One of the features of the game will be the fact that two cadets, members of the Army Varsity, will be two of the four officials. Cadet Harding, quarterback on the Army team, will be Field Judge, and Cadet Saunders, tackle on the Army team will be Head Linesman Lieutenant Ericson will be Referee, and Lieutenant Clay will be Umpire.

The West Point Football League was organized as a league this year, for the first time, and consists of the following teams: Field Artillery Detachment, Service Detachment, Engineer Detachment, and Cavalry Detachment. Both the Field Artillery Detachment and the Service Detachment teams have defeated the other two Post teams, and they met for the Post Championship on Thanksgiving Day. The comparative scores to date favor the Artillery team. The Artillery team has a better offense, but the Service team seems to have the better defense.

The teams in the New York Harbor Posts League comprise of Miller Field, Fort Wadsworth, Fort Totten and Fort Hamilton, and Fort Slocum.

It is expected that one of the best crowds to witness a soldiers' football game will be present at West Point on Saturday, December 4, when this Corps Area Championship game is played. The football teams at West Point invariably draw big crowds to their League games. Many people from up and down the Hudson come to West Point to witness these games on Sunday afternoons. It is expected that various detachments of soldiers from other Posts in the Corps Area will visit West Point on the day of the game.

Both General M. B. Stewart. Superintendent of the Military Academy and Lieutenant Colonel Hodges, the Commandant of Cadets, will leave no stone unturned to make this a memorable day in the history of the Second Corps Area.

29TH INF.

Nine officers from four different foreign countries ate Thanksgiving dinners in the various company messes of the 29th Infantry last Thursday. Three were from the Irish Free State, one from Japan, one from Mexico and four from Cuba, all of whom are student officers at the Infantry School, Capt. Patrick Berry, Lt. Powell Sean-Collins and Captain Josepch Dunne represented the Irish Free State, Capt. Akira Nara was the delegate from Cherry Blossom Land, Lt. Alphonso Gurza was present from Mexico and Cuba was represented by Lt. Jose Heredia, Capt. C. L. C. Y. Garci, Lt. C. V. Duarte and Lt. Ludalicie Moles.

Col. James B. Gowen, commanding officer of the Twenty-ninth Infantry, accompanied by his field and staff officers, made the customary inspection of company messes. The Colonel and his staff ate dinner at Regimental Headquarters Company.

Reegimental Headquarters Company

Thanksgiving dinner was held at 1:00 p. m. Company officers, officers of the staff, and the enlisted men with their families were invited.

Pvt. McElyea, Company Pigeoneer, has shown us some of his experiences as a waiter at the Thanksgiving dinner. Don't you wish you were back in Paris, Mac.

Sgt. Webb was discharged last Tuesday by E. T. S. route and finding he had inherited $8,000 (dollars) he's going back to the farm to take care of the crops, etc.——

Can anyone give us any information regarding what our Supply Sergeant is growing on the upper tower?

Howitzer Company

Private first-class Peter F. Nelson was honorably discharged on the 26th, and immediately he-enlisted. His next adventure will be on furlough for three months.

Sergeant John J. Howard has retreated into the foothills of Arizona. Sgt. Howard was with us for about six years and the entire organization regrets to see him leave.

Service Company

"WELL", Cpl. Sutton, our Company Clerk, is again with us after spending sixty days on furlough.

We are again called upon to demonstrate our ability as the Service Company that "Leads the Way".

Sergeant Klemm was discharged per E. T. S. the 29th and has taken out another stack.

Mr. Dickson, the Band Leader, is again on duty with the Band. Can't you tell.

Hdq. Company, First Bn.

Well, the hammer and saw are still leading the instruments in the jazz orchestra of this organization. After completing the new orderly room and supply room the band has been shifted across the Regimental street under the leadership of Private Holman O. Wallace, and the new recreation room is being whipped into a nice tune.

It seems that the boys who took their thirty day furloughs to spend Thanksgiving at home are very anxious to extend them into the holidays. The extensions granted are very few, due to the fact that a number of the younger set are sure that they can fool "Ole Nick" with army stockings.

The members of this organization as guests enjoyed a fine time on the coon hunt sponsored by members of Company "D" last Saturday night. Among the lost, strayed and stolen were: Lost, Pvt. first-class Isbill; Strayed, Pvt. Chambers; Stolen, Pvt. first-class Thompson.

Company "A"

Sergeant Duncan has returned from re-enlistment furlough and is on Special Duty at the Post Exchange. Duncan claims he had plenty of good fishing on furlough but says that the snows of Illinois ran him back to Fort Benning.

Cpl. Magagna notices that "B" Company claims to have a basketball (?) team. He says they may have one, but before they can prove it by playing "A" Company, it is absolutely necessary to acquire a reputation.

Cpl. Powell and Pfc. Gray are having one grand argument as to who goes on furlough. To date it is dead heat, neither having departed from the Army slum.

Sgt. Sheriff and Cpl. Tolle of the I. S. D. attended the Alabama-Georgia game at Birmingham last Thursday.

—Angelo Scalzo.

Company "B"

We had a wonderful dinner last Thursday. In fact, we believe it would be hard to beat anywhere. The Mess Sergeant is to be complimented very highly, for he sure did a good job making us all feel lazy for the rest of the day.

A flock of athletes from the city came out yesterday and we entertained them as best we could. They said they played indoor baseball but they had changed their minds when the game was over. Then they decided that they specialized in volley ball but we proved superior to them in that game more decisively than we did in the baseball game.

—M. E. Morris.

Company "C"

1st Sgt. J. A. Barton has come back to duty from the hospital.

About a dozen men are leaving on furlough the 1st of December. They think they will have a better time during the holidays than the men who stay in camp. I know they will.

Eddie C. Vick reported in from a 25-day furlough.

So many men are reporting to the hospital when they return from furlough that we are beginning to believe it is dangerous to go on one.

Gentlemen and soldiers let me introduce Lysol Pete.

—John L. Biggerstaff.

Company "D"

Well, two major events have occurred since we last dashed madly off to press. We filled ourselves to repletion at the Thanksgiving dinner that Hot Papa Vines prepared for us and last Saturday night a goodly number of the more flighty members of the company embarked on a chase for what proved to be a very elusive animal bearing the cognomen of raccoon. Stringfield said he couldn't get any deep satisfaction out of the event after he was completely soaked from falling into an inconvenient mudhole.

The coon hunters wish it to be known they are grateful to the Officers' Club of Fort Benning for their kindness in loaning coon dogs for the evening. The night was correctly topped off by an excellent midnight lunch served in the company mess hall.

Arthur Kennedy, our Tennessee shiek, said that he enjoyed the evening.

Those unventuresome souls who dared not fare forth to the hunt were put walking up and down the company street a half hour at a time.

The remainder of the company also did a little walking. "D" Company was on regimental guard Saturday night. That is better than catching guard on pay day, though.

In short, Saturday was a happy, happy event for all concerned.

—Pvt. George Rudolph Becker.

Hq. Co., 2nd Bn.

Among the outstanding stars who will show their ability on the 2nd Battalion's football squad this year are Corporal Parris, Privates Mullen and Terry of this organization. Corporal Parris is known to be the fastest man in the 2nd Battalion. We feel sure that with these men in the lineup the 2nd Battalion will again capture the championship of the Garrison.

We received an order several days ago assigning four more recruits to the company. Everyone is waiting patiently to welcome them to the best company in the regiment, upon being released from the recruit center.

—Lewis M. Lowe.

Company "E"

Our old friend Sgt. R. B. Williams has just finished a three year contract with his Uncle Sam and took on another stack for three more.

Cpl. Easterwood gets out per E. T. S. but that's the boy, Red, you know where your meal ticket comes from.

We all enjoyed ourselves Thanksgiving, about twelve o'clock anyhow.

--Jessie L. Taylor.

Company "F"

The company basketball team suffered two defeats last Saturday but came back strong Sunday and defeated "G" by the close margin of 18 to 16. This game had the old Company "F" fighting spirit in it.

Saturday Games—

Co. "F," 1st Gas Reg., 26; Co. "F," 29th Inf., 6.

Co. "G," 29th Inf., 20; Co. "F," 29th Inf., 10.

Cpl. Duncan has decided to try civilian life once more. You may go down town some time and hear him calling "next." (Tony the Barber.)

"Rabbit" Crawford and "Chow" Decker broke out of the Hospital to break into Company "F's" mess hall Thanksgiving day. Funny how a sick person can get well so quick when good eats are in sight.

Every member of the company enjoyed the big Thanksgiving dinner and we all wish to thank our visitors for their kind attention to the music of our famous Chow Hound Orchestra.

—Paul K. Armstead.

Company "G"

This week it was our privilege to entertain four non-commissioned officers on recruiting duty in this Corps area, who stopped to look over Fort Benning for a few days. We believe they departed with a proper enthusiasm for the 29th Infantry and a good taste in their mouth, as Mess Sgt. Brown came through in his usual style Thanksgiving day with all the extras, and music thrown in for good measure.

The area has been deserted for the last three days, as everyone took full advantage of the much appreciated "Break" last week.

1st Sgt. Bert Plumer has returned from a 30-day sojourn in Alabama (not in Phenix City), and we welcome his voice again in the company street.

The Q. M. has loosened up with a little paint, which was a pleasant surprise, so we can doll up a bit for Xmas.

Pvts. Frith and Chase were glad to get back to the company for Thanksgiving, after a month's "special duty" supervising the repair of the Buena Vista Road. They say Straight duty is O. K.

—Walter C. Rowell.

Company "H"

Captain Herlithy has returned from the Wilds of Southern Florida, where he spent the week-end fishing and hunting. Years ago the scenery was beautiful and the fish were plentiful there. The Captain reports that the scenery is still lovely.

First Sgt. Murray has resumed his duties as "Daily Clarion" of the company, relieving Sgt. Craine, who is enjoying the privilege of being marked "Quarters."

Company "H" was well represented in the finals at the wrestling matches last week. We are all betting on Winchester to come out on top before it is all over. His match was a "push" last week.

Corporal DePratt likes to ring the bell, so you see, we have a good man to take Newmans place on the Bn. football squad. DePratt played with Fort Bragg last year.

—Bernard B. Swayze.

FRIDAY DEC. 3

"Ace of Cads." A Jesse L. Lasky success featuring Adolphe Monjou with Alice Joyce and Norman Trevor in a comedy drama of the silk hat, swallow tail coat type; wherein pathos turns to side splitting laughter and sentiment rambles in the throes of comedy.

"Oh Bridget" A Hiers lip cracker,

SATURDAY DEC. 4

"Phantom Bullet," starring Hoot Gibson, King of the saddle in a new kind of mystery thriller. In this play the cow puncher detective poses as a photographer fool and with the click of the camera comes the phantom bullet, which opens a mile a minute play that crashes into the biggest climax imagiable. This picture is so awe inspiring that we feel certain that even the children spectators will forget their jabber.

"California, Here We Come." The Gumps.

SUNDAY DEC 5

"Quarterback,"—a Paramount feature, starring Richard Dix in a fast football film. This pleasing college comedy depicts the game of 1899 as opposed to that of 1926. The different stadium, uniforms of the players and costumes of the audience alone guarantee, a laugh. A happy romance constitutes the theme about which the picture is woven.

"Shooting Fool."—Fables.

"Kingrams"

MONDAY DEC. 6

"Blarney," starring Renee Adoree and Ralph Graves in a film based on Don Byrne's "In Praise of James Carabiney," A classic of its kind, published in the Saturday Evening Post, is laid in New York's Bowery and the prize ring of 1880. Its powerful plot offers a wealth of striking characterization.

"Wide Awake." A Mermaid comedy.

TUESDAY DEC. 7

"Skinners Dress Suit," featuring Reginald Denny and Laura La Pante, in a dance comedy with a parlytic, rheumatic step that promises a spasm far worse than Charlestonitis ever produced. It's combination tango, cake-walk, and hula hula is aguaranteed cure for bowlegs, knockknees and old age. From this picture you can learn how to make a million dollars out of a paltry $250.00—of course you must first get the $250.00.

"Scratching Through,"—A Cameo comedy.

WEDNESDAY DEC. 8

"Strong Man," Harry Langdon, the "Hercules of Hilarity," stars in this comedy of errors. The plot is good. Harry as a Belgian ex-soldier, comes to America in search of the girl who wrote him "Buddy" letters. In his quest he stops girls on the streets of New York; becomes an assistant German weight lifter in a vaudeville act and as a simple sap is nabbed by a voluptous vamp. The picture promises pandemonium throuthout.

"Felix Spots the Spooks." Krazy Kat.

THURSDAY DEC. 9

"Mare Nostrum," from the famous novel by Blasco Ibanez starring Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno, is a thrilling production, which in an extended run of six months in New York brought $2.00 per seat. This is a powerful romance of the world war played against the background of the colorful Mediterranean. "Mare Nostrum" is the old Roman name for the beautiful blue Medieeranean, meaning "Our Sea." The picture, though an attractive romance, deals with some of the many intrigues which governed the destinies of the world powers during the great conflict. It embodies such exciting scenes as the sinking of a submarine, the beauty of the octopus and the revelation of a net work of spies headed by the most beautiful girl in all Europe.

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY DEC. 10

"Diplomacy," starring Blance Sweet with Neil Hamilton, is an international story, dealing with England, France, Russia, China, and the United States. Gorgeous costumes, handsome men, attractive women and elaborate scenes of such places as the Casino of Monte Carlo constitute the settings about which this play is enacted. A romance forms the thread which binds the scenes and intensifies interest.

"Why Hesitate." A Christie Comedy.

29TH INFANTRY PONY SELECTED AS FORT'S BEST POLO MOUNT

Doughboy Chosen by Selected Committee From All Teams

By George R. Becker

Proof of the 29th Infantry's superiority in polo as well as the work-a-day activities of the Demonstration Regiment is offered in the selection for three consecutive years of a Lead The Way pony as the most valauble polo animal on the post by a committee representing all the teams at the Infantry School.

Doughboy, the pony selected for 1926 is one of the oldest in the regiment being a dark bay gelding twelve years of age, of the Morgan and Standard breed. He first started his career with the 29th in 1923 when he was selected from the Infantry School stables for that purpose. Doughboy has made a splendid record since then playing in hard fought tournaments both here and in neighboring communities with great distinction to the regiment.

Billy and Freddie of the 29th string were selected as the most valuable ponies in 1924 and '25 respectively. Freddie a dark bay gelding eight year old is declared by an officer who is a veteran Benning poloist to be the outstanding polo pony on the post. Believed to be a thoroughbred of the Morgan strain Freddie made a modest beginning as a second string pony in 1922, coming to the 29th in the fall of 1923. He has made a good record since that time.

Billy, a twelve year old bay gelding is the "old soldier" of 29th's string being selected in 1921 from the School stables to help comprise the initial second string of the regiment. After six months he was classed a first string pony. He has travelled extensively being used in tournaments and matches on the post at the fourth corps area tournament in '22 and in '23 at Ft. Oglethorpe where Billy suffered an injury compelling the pony to stay at the Sixth Cavalry home until the spring of 1921. He travelled overland to Camp MacClellan where he was used to advantage on the Sixth Cavalry team. Since then he has upheld the doughboys at Benning.

A member of the 29th Infantry Polo club declared recently that the club wished it emphasized that no one person or officer was directly responsible for the excellence of any one pony as many players ride the same horse and assist materially in the horse's training.

For several years the ponies have had the advantage of a high class trainer in the person of Pvt. Joe Sandow who is an excellent groom and through whose efforts a large degree of credit for the team's success is due.

The three horses selected by the committee are recommended by the committee in a letter to the U. S. Polo association.

Park at C. A. Morgan & Co. Open till 10 o'clock. Soft Drinks, Drugs and Cigars.

Place of Meeting—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Date of Next Meeting—Dec. 6.
Time—2:15.

By Kate Parker Vinson

On next Monday afternoon the Program Committee of the Infantry School Woman's Club will present their first program of a series, which shall run at regular intervals throughout the club year, having direct bearing on the home. All women are interested in the business of home making in one way or another and it is the purpose of the committee to have the various phases of home making presented by people especially capable in their chosen fields to give the club the benefit of their training and experience to the end that we may evenly and sanely raise the level of our home life.

This first program shall give thought to those things which will make for beauty in our everyday life. Mrs. John P. Salisbury, whose Wistaria Studio in Columbus is well-known to art-loving people, will discuss Art (good taste) in the home. Mrs. Salisbury teaches Art from morning till night to boys and girls, men and women—teaches them to love Art, to appreciate it, to express it in many ways. Her work is of recognized excellence and the club is to be congratulated upon securing her services for this talk.

Mrs. Livesay, a most accomplished pianist, will play, after which Mrs. Eaton and Mrs. Miller will be hostesses at tea.

The Literature Club recently presented its second program on the Literature of the Middle West.

Mrs. Goode was so thorough and complete in her treatment of Sherwood Anderson and his Note Book that one felt that Sherwood Anderson was indebted to her for such sympathetic understanding of his point of view. Not every author is so fortunate in his reviewer.

Mrs. Conway reviewed My Antonia—that classic portrayal of pioneer immigrant life in Nebraska and contrasted it with The Tattooed Countess where small town life in the Middle West is so truthfully and vividly portrayed. So well were these stories done that one unacquainted with them hitherto could not fail to get the inherent greatness of My Antonia and the corresponding littleness of the inhabitants of Maple Valley, Iowa, whose whole interests were the new waterworks and the prospective new depot—and neighborhood gossip—never once are they aware of the world outside their own precinct!

Mrs. Cowley read with true poetic feeling Lew Sarrett's Wood-Smoke, and her personal interpretations were as charming as the words of the poet.

On December 13th at 2:00 this club meets with Mrs. J. C. Baker at her quarters, 19-140, at which time the following program on Literature of the Southern Mountaineer will be given:

Non-Fiction:

The Southern Highlander and his Homeland, by John C. Crawford.—Mrs. Keith.

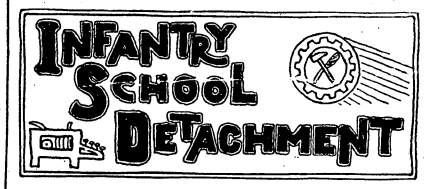
Fiction:

The Time of Man—Elizabeth Madox Roberts.

Teeftallow—T. S. Stribling—Mrs. Ryder.

A Carolina Folk Play—Mrs. Cooke.

The Home Economics Club will make holiday candies at their next meeting. This group has meetings twice a month, having a lecture one time and laboratory the next. All are particularly interested in learning how to make successfully the attractive candies for Christmas and this laboratory meeting is anticipated with especial interest. Mrs. Knight is an excellent leader, skilled equally in theory and practice.



I have it from an official source that "Spud," the Unconquerable, has at last finished second in a two-handed debate. Murphy took the negative of the question "Shall I join the Red Cross," and pleaded his cause with his usual forensic eloquence, but the affirmative, upheld by the Major, won a unanimous verdict from the judges.

Sgt. Bayliss' Thanksgiving dinner was voted a great success by all Detachmenteers and those of their famililes who attended the big Turkey Chow.

Tied for 5th again last month in the standing of messes. We'll go to the top yet.

"Spud" Pregowski, Hook Wise and the Ramblin' Wreck are back from a tour of Florida. They report that the land of Boom, Blow and Bunk is a great place for furloughing. You see it isn't far from Cuba and the Everglades furnish plenty of seclusion for operators.

Sgt. Dempsey White has taken charge of the squadroom formerly commanded by the Corporal whose locker had nothing in it. The daily output of conversation in the room has increased 134.56%. If Dempsey's words could be placed end to end the'd reach plenty far, but still wouldn't mean anything.

Since your corerspondent last dashed off a few choice items for this column, the Commandant himself has inspected the area and expressed his approbation and approval.

Corporal Douglas and Corporal Carpenter, members of the Infantry team, and your correspondent as representative of the Press went to Washington for the President's Cup game. Doug couldn't catch a thing on the draw, Carpenter inadvertently called with four sixes, and your correspondent couldn't make 'em stand up even when he had "Maud, Lily and Kate." However a pleasant time was had, in spite of these minor misfortunes.

That tree the Detachment's planning to have for the little folk at Christmas time is going to be a great one.

"I'm looking for the Bully of the Town" has supplanted "The Death of Floyd Collins" as the nuisance-in-chief on the recreation room's $1000 Radiola.

This week's notes on military correspondence:

"All correspondence concerning "Moon's Mustache" should be filed under 454.9x000.94x729.5 (Extermination of rodents and other pests.)'

Old Crow flew in and out of all the squad rooms and saw each bunk (even the erstwhile black ones) shiny with a coat of white paint. He wondered if all mosquito bars would be up by Saturday.

Thats the guy I am laying for said the hen as the farmer walked across the barn yard.—California Tedi.

THREE BENNING FOURS DEFEAT 22ND INFANTRY IN SUNDAY POLO GAMES

Students, 83rd F. A. and 29th Inf. Down Visitors in Fast Contest on Shannon Field

Lieutenant Lynch of the 22nd Infantry polo four took the ball on a personally conducted tour of Shannon Field Sunday afternoon and hit it neatly and accurately through the woven wicker pilons forming the goal posts guarded by the Cantering Cannoneers from the 83rd Field Artillery. But this was in the third period of the game between the doughboys and the gunners and the men from McPherson had already gone three scoreless periods against the green-jerseyed Students poloists, during which the scholastic lads had tallied six times. Later the Galloping Gunners scored three times; and later still the Mounted Demonstrationists from the 29th tallied four times to another goal by Lt. Lynch during their three period outing against the visitors; and thus we see that the invaders from up Atlanta way failed in every part of an effort to defeat three Benning teams on the same day.

Not that the hostiles were weak. Individually they played fine polo, riding well and at times stroking with strength and accuracy. But they were mounted on strange ponies, using the Freebooters' string, and have had too little practice to perfect the teamwork so necessary to success at the horseback croquet game. Then again they were pitted against outfits that are in splendid shape and prepared to offer battle to any and all comers without yielding much advantage.

The Students were first to meet the visitors. After the teams rode across the field and saluted the Commandant, who was an interested spectator of all the games, Colonel Singleton, referee, threw in the ball and the afternoon's pastime was on. For a brief space the action was somewhat slow, neither men nor mounts having warmed to the work, but it wasn't long before the fight raged furiously. After nearly two minutes of play Capt. Moles, Cuban star on the Student four, made the first goal of the afternoon. Lieut. "Steve" Elkins tallied another after some strenuous riding. In the second period the Students were constantly the aggressors, the visitors failing to stem the tide at any stage. Capt. Blue made a pretty stroke from near midfield to put the ball directly in front of the visitors' goal, and Major Taylor knocked it through when he followed in. Then Elkins strated on a scoring spree. He made three counters in quick succession, aided of course by passing shots by his comrades. One of his tallies, though, was the result of an individual ride of nearly the whole length of the field. In the third period the 22nd played its best polo and kept the Students at bay throughout the six minutes. They were unable to score themselves although threatening on more than one occasion.

Lineup and Summary:

Students		22nd Infantry
Nichols (Blue)	No.1	Childs
Elkins	No.2	Skelton
Moles (Wise)	No.3	Jhonson
Sweet (Taylor)	No.4	Lynch

Score by Periods:

Students	2	4	0—6
22nd Infantry	0	0	0—0

Goals: Moles, Taylor, Elkins (4).

83rd-22nd

The visiting four played their best polo of the afternoon against the gunners and for nearly the whole game were on even terms. The first two six-minute stanzas failed to yield a score to either team. Early in the third and last chukker, Lt. Lynch broke away for a long run down the field and a goal to climax it. This seemed to wake the gunners up and soon afterward Lt. Hurt scored. Before the end of the game Lt. Grubbs had added two more markers and brought the final count to 3 to 1.

Lineup and Summary:

83rd F. A.		22nd Inf.
Grubbs (Strohbehn)	No.1	Nelson (Childs)
Oliver	No.2	Skelton
Hurdis (Grubbs)	No.3	Johnson
Hurt (Grubbs)	No.4	Lynch

Score by Periods:

83rd	0	0	3—3
22nd	0	0	1—1

Goals: Grubbs (2), Hurt, Lynch.

29th-22nd

The Lead the Way gang were the final oppondents of the McPhersonites. The first period was even with Lt. Lynch scoring for the visitors and Lt. McDonald getting a counter for the Benning boys. In the second chukker Lt. McDonald added another and Lt. Adams also found the goal for a tally. In the last six minutes Lt. Boatner broke into the summary with a neat scoring shot. The invaders were never really threatening after the first period.

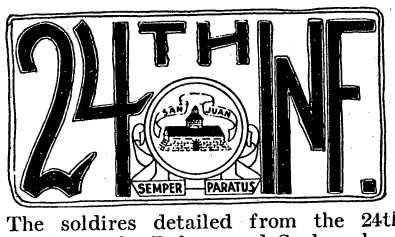
Lineup and Summary:

29th Infantry		22nd Infantry
Adams (Boatner)	No.1	Childs
McKnight	No.2	Skelton
Burress	No.3	Johnson
McDonald	No.4	Lynch

Score by Periods::

29th	1	2	1—4
22nd	1	0	0—1

Goals: Lynch, McDonald (2), Boatner, Adams.



The soldires detailed from the 24th Infantry to the Bakers and Sooks school completed the course of instruction on November 30, 1926 with a most noteworthy record. While the usual length of time of attendance is four months for the cook's course and an additional month for the mess sergeants, the men from the 24th Infantry finished the entire course in four and a half months. As one phase of their instruction all students are required to work two weeks in the bakery department. This section is operated out of the funds of the Bakers and Cooks School for the benefit of the entire garrison. There practical lessons are given in baking, with special attention paid to cakes, pies, cookies, and other sweet dough. The 24th Infantry men were especially proficient in this work. Corporal Mikell, and Privates Lindsay and Collier, at their own request, being returned for further duty. In the practical work of the entire course Corporal Hairston made the best record that has been made by anyone since last June. He received a total of 0000397 points out of a possible 400.

Captain L. E. Bowen, Q. M. C., assistant commandant of the school, states that he is especially pleased with the record of the students from the 24th Infantry, and that the type of men selected by the organization commanders was of such a nature that the school was able to impart the instruction to them in a most thorough and complete manner.

The names and ratings of the men who completed the course are:

Corporal Henry A. Mitchell, Company "A" rated first cook and mess sergeant. Corporal Flody Hairston, Company "I" rated first cook and mess sergeant, Private Laurance Lindsay, Company "E" rated first cook, Private Earl Collier, Company "B" rated first cook, and Private Gilbert De Jan, Company "F" rated second cook.

Negro folk songs and spirituals as sung by the 24th Infantry have a great appeal. There was an unusually fine rendition of negro and other melodies by them last Wednesday afternoon. The regiment was lead in singing by Dr. M. L. Taylor of Columbus, under whose direction the full strength and volume of the men's musical abilities was brought forth. The program was composed of the following songs: "Follow Me," "No Body Knows," "The Old Time Religion," "Shine On Me," "It's Me, Oh Lord," "The Silver Trumpet," "The Long Long Trail," "Keep The Home Fires Burning," and "Hold The Wind."

Upon completion of the song service, the regimental commander, Colonel Wait Johnson, expressed the appreciation of all for the technical instruction and entertainment received. In reply Dr. Taylor stated that the mass singing of the 24th Infantry was exceptionally good and urged the men to learn the traditions surrounding the creation of the folk songs of the negro race. By way of emphasis and illustration he told of the birth of that one called "Hold The Wind." He said, "this song was taken from the days of slavery. Often in the evening, in those times, the negro men and women would sneak away into some isolated building to pray to their gods. Fearing that the noise of their voices would reach their masters and they would be punished, they put a big iron pot near the door to catch the sound. Then being uncertain whether or not the pot would hold all the noise, they sang "Hold The Wind," so that if the pot overflowed, the wind would be still and their masters would not be informed."

The Reverend R. K. Paschal, Pastor, of the Freindship Baptist Church of Columbus, was also present and expressed his appreciation.

Every Wednesday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock the regiment assembles in their service club for mass singing. To these gatherings the entire garrison is invited. The program for next Wednesday, December 8th, will be as follows:

Song and Leader:

"Follow Me" by Private Alfred Williams, Service Company.

"Swing Low" by Private Robert Rogers, Company "E."

"Study War" by Private Chester Hart, Service Company.

"No Body Knows" by Private Fendall Williams.

"The Old Time Religion" by Private Alfred Williams, Service Company.

"King Jesus" by Private Fendall Williams, Service Company.

"Sweet Adeline" by Private Alfred Williams, Service Company.

"Steel Away" by Private Fendall Williams.

"Regimental Song" by Private Alfred Williams.

In addition there will be selections by the regimental band and by the quartett of Company "I." The following privates of that company compose this quartett, David Haynes, James Vance, John Brown, Joseph Bell.

For the third successive month the Twenty-ninth has led the way in the payment of tuition fees. This month Colonel J. B. Gowen regimental commander, was first to get in his check, followed closely by Major Bowen, Warrant Officer Dickson, and first Sergeant Edgar C. Davis in the order named. That spirit of co-operation is very much appreciated.

BENNING MALLETEERS CLASH WITH CAVALRY TODAY IN POLO GAME

Major Smith and His Cohorts Meet Oglethorpe's Pride in McPherson Tourney

Major Smith and his garrison polo representatives set out for Fort McPherson Wednesday and today are clashing with Fort Oglethorpe's crack 6th Cavalry four on the polo field up at the Atlanta station. Victory in the mix-up means that the Benningites will compete in the finals of the tourney Sunday, while a defeat will force the officers from the Chattahooche post to be content with playing a consolation round on the coming Sabbath.

When the Infantry School representatives invaded Fort Oglethorpe about three weeks ago the club from the mounted organization hung a 13 to 5 defeat on them, but that was before our centaurs had had much opportunity to get together and perfect the teamwork needed to make a really formidable mallet combination. Since then the posi outfit has worked hard and faithfully to get together and their performance last Sunday against the Green Shirts from the Student Officers showed that they are now in trim to give anybody's four one of the busiest afternoons of their experience.

With Lieutenant Elkins, a daring rider who figures that it's always the other man who is taking a chance on a collision, playing at No. 1, the Benning team has a real spearhead for its attack. Then there is Captain Robert A. McClure, playing No. 2, to come right behind Steve, to feed him the ball for the scoring punch, or clout it through himself if the vanguard rider should fail. At No. 3, Major Smith is an old-timer at the game, playing at all times for the success of his team and not for individual glory. The Major can be counted upon to steady the play of the entire team and give it the stability required. At Back is Captain Whisner, and he is an exceptionally fine player both on ofense and defense. MANEATING CANNIBALS TO APPEAR AT THEATER AS GLEE CLUB PERFORMS

"Singbad the Sailor," Tuneful Operetta, to Be Sung December 17th and 18th

(Lt. Geo. L. Potter)

In preparation for its first event of the winter season, the Infantry School Glee Club is holding frequent rehearsals for the performance of the tuneful and catchy operetta "Singbad the Sailor," which will be presented in the Garrison Theater on the evenings of December 17th and 18th.

One of the leading characters, "King Muncho," for whom Captain Holmes E. Dager, 29th Infantry, will be responsible on the nights of the performances, is chieftain of a tribe of cannibals on the lost continent of "Atlantis." Although almost everything else was lost, the aforesaid chief manages to retain his voice, through which musical medium he rules his lusty flesh-eaters. By his singing, "King Muncho" takes care of the necessary details which happen in the life of every self-respecting cannibal.

King Muncho's inner-shrine, among whom are "Flub," "Cruncho," "Ginger" and "Blab," severally represented by Captain E. O. Schmidt, Lt. W. W. Brier, Captain, J. M. Huddleston, and Captain C. C. Starkes are in turn supported by Lieuts. R. Brown, M. R. Krammerer, Capt. B. L. Knight, Capt. H. L. Reeder, Giles Cook, George Goodrich, "Speedy" Helms, and Bud Russ, constituting one of the most melodious tribes of cannibals ever heard in the garrison theater.

The role of the musical mariner for and about whom the extravaganza is written is enacted by Captain Stanley G. Saulnier. Capt. Saulnier's interpretations need no comment—nor interpretors. A play requires little plot or continuity when Captain Saulnier is participating in the performance and what the author may have forgotten Captain Saulnier remembers—adding to it his own intimitable interpretation.

"Hassan," the Nubian slave, is ably interpreted by Lt. Jacob Moon, who knows, and brings to life, the role of an everwilling and ready manservant. His sallies are sidesplitting—his steps even better, and when he employs dialect, Jake is "jake."

When "Singbad," as a result of a shipwreck, is cast into this maelstrom of melody, his fate is in the balance until, by picking up the scales he strikes the right note; after which the queen of the lost continent falls "sharply" in love with him, and leaves the rest of the melodious cannibals "flat."

The queen, "Gulnara" by name, is portrayed by Mrs. Barbara Dale Karlstad in her usual brilliant manner. Queen Gulnara, who rules the island upon which Singbad and Hassan are wrecked, adopts as her protector the musical marriner and ex-operatic star. With a splendid voice, comeliness and riches, all of which he must cherish, Singbad finds the task of protecting such a treasure one of trials and tribulations, but in the end happiness also.

Lack of space in this issue prevents further description of the many charming and entertaining characters, but they will all be present next week, both in the Infantry School News and the Garrison Theater.

TERRIBLE TANKERS TREK TO ATLANTA TO MEET WYCOFF'S PRO GRIDDERS

Big Bertha and Other Caterpillar Conductors Leave Saturday for Game

(Lt. Geo. L. Potter)

The 15th Tank Battalion has scheduled through the Infantry School Athletic Association as a warm up for the coming garrison football championship contests, a game with Douglas Wycoff's professional team. The game will be played in Atlanta Sautrday afternoon.

All Georgians are familiar with the name of Douglas Wycoff who for the past few years was the leading football light at Georgia Tech, being elected captain of the team during his last season. Wycoff has organized a professional team composed of graduates of a number of Southern Colleges. They have been playing northern professional teams during the past season.

While the Tank Battalion is an unknown quantity to Atlantans their status will be changed on Saturday afternoon. On the Tanker crew are nine of the men who played against the Quantico Marines for the President's Cup and the nine men will enter the fray in the first period. The Tanks line averages about 180 lbs., and their backfield 170.

With all their men in prime physical condition after the post season and playing their first game this year as an organization team the Tanks should be able to put up a terrific fight against the excollegians.

The team will leave Columbus Saturday morning by the Central of Georgia and will arrive in the capital city about noon. Lt. L. C. Jaynes, Battalion Adjutant, with Lt. E. Emanuel will be in charge of the team. Lt. Jaynes has been with the Tanks as Adjutant and Commanding Officer of Headquarters Co., for six years. Lt. Emanuel was graduated from Clemson several years ago, has been assistant coach of the Infantry team for two years and has helped train the Tank teams of the 1925 and 1926.

The Tankers will probably start with the following lineup:

May, r.e.; Bertelman, r. t.; Stewart, r. g.; Lindsey, c.; Willingham, lg.; Costello, l. t.; Sweeney, l. e.; Wiseman, q.; Bennett, l. h.; Sullivan, r. h.; and Mlynczak, f. In reserve will be Brand, Ward, Mattingly, McKelvey, Horsley, Tomzak, Wright, Dean and Langford.

This lineup doesn't sound much different from the roster of the Infantry team. Of course Kelly and Fat, old 2nd Bat standbys, are not there, but Bertelman, Mays, Sweeney, Costello, Lindsey, and others have been mainstays of the post team for several seasons, and Mlynczak was a first string performer on the Big Blue team this year. There's weight and speed in the line, agility and ability to diagnose plays on the flanks, and power and drive in the backfield.

CPL. HARRY SMITH
Quartermaster Det.

Every day you read something in the papers about Al Smith, of New York. Even Julian Harris down in Columbus has taken up his potent pen and painted pretty pictures of the Presidential prospects of the man who rose from the East Side. But Benning has another Smith from the East Side and has had him ever since there has been a Benning. He is Corporal Harry Smith, of the Quartermaster Detachment, efficient pressman over at the Print Shop, where they put out GR's 1 to 14867, inclusive, and publish such pleasing prospectuses as "Opportunities Offered a Young Man by the United States Army." Of him I'll sing.

Harry was born in Little Jerusalem at 64 Ludlow Street way back in 1884. His name is of perfectly good English derivation, but one look at his countenance persuades the dullest observer to believe that he is of Hebraic extraction, and the belief engendered by the Map of Jerusalem is correct, for Harry cheerfully admits that he celebrates Yom Kippur in truly orthodox fashion, and that when the Detachment has roast pork with apple sauce he eats only the apple sauce. He serves daily as score keeper for the renowned volley ball games at Ye Olde Printe Shoppe, and usually gives satisfaction to both the "Whites" and the "Blacks" but on one celebrated occasion he nearly caused a riot by claiming that the Whites had scored $20.98 and not 21.

Our hero is one of the original Benning boys. He came to the city by the Chattahoochee early in 1919 and camped out on the Macon Road with the 1st Battalion of the 29th Infantry. While there he was assistant leader of the first "Model Platoon" to function for the benefit of student officers. When the whole works was transferred out by the Upatoi he came with them and has been here ever since.

And yet his seven years in the garrison have been only a small part of his military service, for Harry has five "Excellent" discharges. He first felt the lure of the Army in 1907 and hitched up with the 6th Infantry. Followed service with the 7th Infantry, the 13th Doughboys, the 10th Footsloggers, the 33rd Hobnail Hikers and the 29th Demonstrationists, with whom he came to Benning. Since getting here he has served with the 29th, M. T. C. 75, I. S. D., 15th Tanks and the Quartermaster Detachment. His foreign service includes a year (1910-11) in the Philippines and a hitch in Panama from 1914 to 1917. While in the land made famous by its hats he was a member of a company commanded by Captain Edgar T. Collins. This is the same Edgar T. Collins who is now Brigadier General, U. S. A., and Commandant of the Infantry School.

Harry is a married man and when his day's work is over goes quietly down to his home in Columbus. He has been feeding the voracious presses of the Print Shop ever since 1924 and is known by his commanders and comrades as a faithful, hardworking soldier who is always punctual and does not growl or shirk his share of the job.

pleted but several games have already been settled. Piedmont College of Atlanta opens the season in the garrison gymnasium on December 29th. On January 5th Oleson's Terrible Swedes will arrive on the Upatoi for a battle that night. This should be one of the feature games of the season as the Scandinavians have long been one of the foremost quints of the country. This will be their eighth Southern trip. They will play in Florida and Cuba before returning to New York City for exhibition games.

The Albany Y with whom the Doughboys broke even last year, and the University of Florida are also carded for January engagements. The completed schedule will be announced by the Athletic Association in the near future.

The candidates are working out daily in the gymnasium under the direction of Major John H. Van Vliet, who coached last year's outfit. The following men compose the squad K. L. Berry, Steele, John Rooma, Red Newman, Kammerer, P. Roy Dwyer, Weelie Shaefer, Kelly Kjelstrom, Fat Franz, Weenie Sweeney, Douglas, Matthews, McAllister and Cunningham.

Motor Club Membership Drive

The Chattahoochee Valley Motor Club membership drive is of especial interest to Fort Benning Officicers and Enlisted Men, in that the Club is offering membership to Army Officers at reduced rates. Student officers completing the course at the Infantry School and driving to their new stations will derive great benefits from membership in the A. A. A. The organization furnishes all kinds of road information to its members which saves a great amount of time and makes long motor trips a pleasure. The Columbus Enquirer-Sun explains, editorially, the purpose and benefits of the American Automobile Association, as follows:

Automobile owners and the citizens of this community generally should be interested in the opening today of the campaign to increase the membership of the Chattahooche Valley Motor Club. The need of more members has been stated in the columns of The Inquirer-Sun and the club, which is one of 850 afiliated clubs of the American Automobile Association, will no doubt find nonmotorist members ready to join forces with the group which has been keeping the activities of the club going for months.

While primarily a club of automobile owners "doing for them collectively what they can not do for themselves individually," citizens without automobiles should lend their support as the club is doing real constructive work along several highly important and very timely lines.

The club is vitally interested in good roads, fair legislation and sane driving. This newspaper has had occasion repeatedly to state that you can not ligislate morals into people. The same may be applied to legislating sane driving. The AAA clubs are educating the automobilists to drive carefully, observe rules and are making headway. Nearly 1,000,000 members are in the AAA.

From a selfish viewpoint alone membership in the motor club is highly desirable. The American Automobile Association is fighting vigorously for the repeal of the Automotive War Excise tax at the earliest possible moment. This is important—especially in view of the fact that these taxes paid by automobile owners up to June 30 this year amounted to more than $1,000,000,000—and the owners of cars who have not united with the AAA club here in our own community should do so now.

The national association is pointing out to the president that the automobile owner is bearing more than his just portion of taxation, and promises to continue its fight. Doubtless the majority of automobile owners will not want the association fighting for them without joining and doing their part.

The appearance of the three AAA emblem on the raditor of the car carries with it protection and shows that the owner of the car is a representative motorist. It is not only of great value when traveling, but the courtesies of the 850 clubs are also at his disposal.

The Divorce Evil in the Feathered World

The idea that the birds of the air choose their mates for life and are free from the evils of divorce receives a rude blow from a ten-year intensive study of bird habits, recently reported to the Biological Society of Washington, by S. Prentiss Baldwin, of Cleveland, Ohio, we are told in The Weeks' Science (New York.) We read:

"Assisted by a number of young ornithologists, Mr. Baldwin has kept track, day by day, of the household wrens nesting on his estate at Cleveland. These wrens, he reports, usually raise two broods of young birds each year. But instead of the bird family persisting from year to year, or even throughout a single season, the parent birds usually change mates between the two broods of one year. The mating lasts only during the time while the young birds are helpless. Thereafter, each parent feels quite free to make whatever new arrangement may seem desirable. The young birds are trained by their parents for a few hours, and then led away, apparently to be abandoned. Mr. Baldwin reports that they very seldom come back to the parental nest, even for a visit. It does not follow, of course, that these habits are shared by all species of birds. Perhaps some of the feathered families are more constant in their affections. But the familiar conception of all nesting birds as paragons of marital constancy will have to be modified."—Literary Digest.

4 man is not expected to score many goals, but so aggressive is Capt. Whisenr's play that he is usually one of the team's high score men. On defense his brilliant back hand staves have won many a round of applause on Shannon Field.

Should any of the regulars have an off day or be injured the Infantry team has Capt. Burress and Capt. Forsythe in reserve and can put them into the fray without weakening the team to any extent.

We expect the team to win the tourament. The 6th should prove the only real obstacle as the 22nd Infantry and Governor's Horse Guard fours are not considered to be the strong opposition that the cavalry team is.

GIRL SCOUTS

An unusual form of demonstration—even for the Infantry School, the home of presentations of this character running the gamut from the squad to the battalion with all its auxiliary weapons—will be staged at the Polo Club next Monday afternoon, December 13, by Troop No. 1, Fort Benning, Georgia, of the Girl Scouts of America.

The Scouts are to go over the top promptly at 4:45 p. m., presenting a series of exercises, characteristic of the varied activities and accomplishments of their organization. Parents and friends, who are cordially invited to attend, are requested to be in their seats at the Polo Club at that hour.

A brief explanation by the Troop Captain of the program to follow, will precede a demonstration of the usual opening exercises of a Girls Scout meeting. The troop will appear in formation, Corporal Martha Bowen—second-in-command—in charge, and the audience of families and friends will find themselves observing the assembly and inspection, the salute to the flag, the repetition of the Girl Scout Pledge, the recital of the Girl Scout Laws, and the singing of the hymn "America."

A typical business meeting will follow, Scout Marie McCammon presiding, and the mothers of Fort Benning will have an opportunity to admire their daughters transacting the business of the troop with method and dispatch. Scout Setilla Franklin will act as secretary.

Patrol No. 1, Dorothy Donaldson, leader, will provide the next feature. Rosabelle Elliott will give a three-minute talk on fire prevention and fire fighting; Jane Kilbourn on the history of the flag and the courtesies that are its due; Setilla Franklin on nature work; Dorothy Donaldson on merit badges; and Martha Bowen on health.

Patrol No. 2, Marie McCammon leader, will follow with first aid and signalling.

Patrol No. 3, the youngest members, including girls 9 years old who will not be eligible for full membership for another year, will present the Scout Laws in tabloid form.

Mrs. E. S. Johnston, Lieutenant in the Girl Scouts and acting-Captain of the Fort Benning troop, will then bring the demonstration to a close with the usual ceremony of taps, the entire troop participating.

Did you get a "certificate" with your automobile?

What are its provisions? exceptions? better read it carefully. If insured by some fine "certificate" plan you may not be protected, but the note holders are, at your expense.

The protection you need is not included—Personal liability. Fire, theft and collision may be ignored— total loss in these only means that you've lost the cost of the car. If you can't afford that amount of loss, however, you should protect the investment..

A judgment for personal injuries is, however, "something else again, Mawruss."

About 15,000 persons have been injured yearly for the past three years by automobiles. Each accident is a potential damage suit; single judgments running to $50,000 have been awarded by the courts.

Such a judgment against a member of the services might be paid by installments out of his pay. We can protect you against this hazard at a surprisingly small expense. What kind of car have you?

HUSBAND AND WIFE TOURNAMENT

On Wednesday afternoon, December 15th, there will be a Husband and Wife Tournament at the Columbus Country Club, to which the officers and their wives are cordially invited. All play will be medal, scratch, with four balls to be driven off each tee and each couple to select the better of their two drives and play that ball through the hole.

Each officer must vouch that the lady is his own wife and not someone else's. No marriage certificates required.

A silver goblet will become the permanent possession of the winners and the runners-up will receive one half-dozen balls for their family use.

Entries must be handed or sent to Mr. Fred Haskins, Club Professional, before Monday, December 13th.

Turn out and bring this cup into the Army. The more the merrier and the bigger chance the Army will have.

AMATEUR MATMEN OF TWENTY-NINTH IN ELIMINATION BOUTS

Wrestling Revival in Progress in Demonstration Doughboys

Wrestling in the Twenty-ninth Infantry had a propitious start last Friday night when twelve mat men met each other in the fashion of ancient Greeks at the Twenty-ninth Infantry Theatre. The theatre had a capacity crowd, which came out in force to see the evening's entertainment. Wrestling is rapidly coming into favor in the Twenty-ninth Infantry.

Officials of the wrestling bouts were: Referee, 2nd Lt. W. B. Griffith; Judges, 2nd Lts. W. W. Cornog and W. A. Cole; Timekeeper, 1st Lt. C. A. Smith; Doctor, Capt. W. F. Tolson, M. C.

Results of the preliminary bouts Friday night were as follows:

Winner, Patterson, Special Units, 126 pounds; loser, Lipman, 2nd Bn., 2.01 minutes.

Winner, Pieters, 2nd Bn., 135 lbs.; loser Stanbaugh, S. P. U., 1.55 minutes.

Winner, Ebbertsburgh, 2nd Bn., 147 lbs.; Miller, S. P. U., 1.57 minutes.

Winner, Hanson, S. P. U., 160 lbs.; loser, Krewson, 2nd Bn., 5.54 minutes.

Winner, Costello, 2nd Bn., 175 lbs.; loser, Rudd, S. P. U., 1.56 minutes.

Winner, Smith, 2nd Bn., unlimited weight, Newton, 2nd Bn., 0.42 seconds.

Interest in wrestling in the Twenty-ninth Infantry is becoming intense and threatens to rival the epidemic of boxing in the Marine Corps, which followed Tunney's victory.

Comedy of Contours in One Act
Time: Dec. 3, 1926:
Place: Ebbert and Singleton Hills, Fort Benning, Ga.

Lieut. and Captain as they detrain at water towers.

Lieut: shaking loose a cargo of train cinders from his ears, and other parts of his anatomy: "Damit. I don't see why they can't get that one lunger steamed up before they start out. Took a bath last night as strange as that might seem and feel like I ought to be deloused now helofa fine way to start out doing some teknikal work."

Captain: "Cheerup my boy, look at these pink breeches, just from the dry cleaners too. Look at 'em. Sixty-five cents all shotahel. Forgot to put o nan extry shirt an I'm damear froze to death."

Enter Sid Youn: "Awright C Company." Groans from class.

Joe Nichols always in jovial mood dangles red apple in front of Sid saying in taunting way, "Teacher, teacher."

Horse play continues with Sid impersonating instructor until arrival of Captain McMahon.

McMahon: "Gentlemen, we start out at those flags, easy today only 2100 yard traverse. Flags don't mean anything but follow them if you wish. The thing that we want is a complete area sketch. That flag there, (pointing) is at an elevation of 420 yards and so is that one up there. That don't mean anything either, thats just to get you started, however if you find a benchmark anywhere check up your elevation and see how much you are out. Any questions?"

Lieut: "How will we find the bench mark?"

McMahon: Waving hand in direction of woods, "Well, now let's see, there's one up there, but don't let that bother you.

Class moves to starting points and stewgents set up sketching boards.

Lieut. in pleading voice, "Captain will you please get out of the way so I can get a shot on that flag." Captain moves aside grudgingly.

Lieut: Damit there's someone else in the line of sight. Hey you move to one side will you! Lieut. makes shot to next station followed by Captain.

Both begin pacing and halt at new station. Captain, "Wadje get." Lieut. "One hundred and fifty."

Captain: "Gee I must be out I got only hundred thirty." Both setup. Captain to Lieut. Blankety—Blank—Blank I lost my alidade on the way down. What's the length of your stride?"

Lieut. "Sixty-four."

Captain: "Well I'll use your alidade then our two sketches will agree."

Captain: takes clinometer reading to hill. "Wadje get Lieut."

Lieut. "Plus two."

Captain: registering surprise, "Gosh I got only one and a half. Wadje call the elevation to that point."

Lieut. "I haven't paced it off yet. You wait here an I'll pace the distance and we'll compute and then we can adjust." Lieut. goes to hill while Captain leisurely smokes cigarette and returns with data.

Lieut. eyeing sketching board questionly, "dam if I don't believe we're out, I get 444 to that hill and it don't look that high. That would make the water tower 10 feet lower than the top of the hill and one might know that they'd put the water tower on the highest point."

Captain: "You can't go by that my boy, I'd reason that way too but seeing some of the things they do here it wouldn't surprise me at all if they put the water tower in the wrong place. Let's make it 444 feet and adjust when we get to the bench mark." This seems to allay the fears of the young Lieut. and they move to next station.

Arriving in a deep ravine they both setup and begin to orient boards.

Lieut: "Now wherenell is that tree I sighted on."

Captain: "Of all the addlebrained schoolboys I get the automatic sketching board. You know what I done? I forgot to take a shot to this point. Say, I'll tellyu what, I'll just measure off from your board and continue, wadje get for elevation here?"

Stetler, whistling in carefree manner, volunteers the information, "I got 396 here."

Lieut and Captain both eye each other questioningly.

Captain: "Gee you must be out Stetler, we get only 386 and we've back checked very carefully."

Stetler: Well you guys may be right at that, this dam clinometer is off about a half point and sticks besides.

Both Captain and Lieut. arrive at next to last station and setup.

Captain: "Now wouldn't that gnaw your vitals, I'm off just a half inch in direction for closing. Never did find that dam benchmark McMahon told us about, did you?"

Lieut: 'Boy oh Boy, how's that for hitting it for direction, right on the dot. You know I thought that was going to be hard. If you just watch your steps it isn't bad."

They both pace to starting station. Captain discouraged and blue, Lieut. in high spirits.

Lieut: "Damitahel, closed up pretty and then find I'm off quarter of an inch in length. Now I'll have to adjust and it'll take a better man than I am to split a quarter of an inch 14 ways.

Captain: "Awhel let's go eat."

This being "economy" week for the News I shall have to curtail my notes to a certain extent. But watch next week's issue for the super-extra-special on the I. S. D. with cuts and other trimmings.

Uo! The Poor Indian is back—in the person of Chief Ryan, who has been up in the wilds of Minnesota on re-up vacation.

The Detachment contributed generously to the Christmas tree for the kiddies of green hat cord wearers, and they're looking for a tree big enough to hold the present.

No dance this month on account of the Yuletide season and its many diversions. They'll hoof it again next month. Capt. Hite of the News has offered $5.00 for the best Charlestonian. The first dance of the new year will be a "tacky" affair. Your correspondent expects to win first prize by wearing his special measure mackinaw and golf bloomers.

24TH INFANTRY OFFICER'S DANCE

A renewal of old acquaintances was one of the many desirable features of the 24th Infantry officer's dance held last Friday evening, December 3rd, at the Polo Club. The personnel fo Fort Benning, being of such a transient nature with to many officers and their families constantly arriving and departing, such dances are utilized by the officers of the 24th Infantry and their guests to renew old friendships. In this way contact is established with former associates who have not been seen for years.

The interior of the Polo Club was attractively decorated with autumn leaves annd pine boughs by the hop committe, of which Captain Ernest T. Jones, 24th Infantry is chairman. A big fire burning in the fire-place added to cheeriness of the friendly spirit that permeated the room. The music furnished by the 24th Infantry orchestra was excellent and was in keeping with their reputation for supplying the best available dance music. A light lunch, served at 11:00 o'clock, met with hearty response and prevented the enthusiasm of the evening from dragging at tthe end, a circumstances which sometimes occurs at post dances.

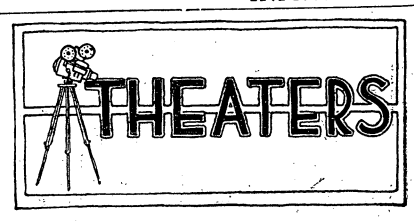
Several dinner parties were given prior to the dance, among which were the following; Captain and Mrs. James L. Ballard, 24th Infantry entertained Captain Paul Leiber, 24th Infantry, Captain and Mrs. Fred Doll, Infantry, and Lt., and Mrs. John B. Murphy, 83rd Field Artillery. Captain and Mrs. Robert Q. Whitten 24th Infantry had Captain and Mrs. John M. Hite for dinner. Captain and Mrs. Gustav J. Braun had as their guests, Miss Hoesterey, Miss Kingman, Lt. John R. Jeter, 29th Infantry, and Lt. and Mrs. Whitfield P. Shepard, Infantry. Captain and Mrs. John C. Newton, 24th Infantry were host and hostess to Captain and Mrs. Paul Steele, 24th Infantry, Captain and Mrs. Walter C. Phillips, Infantry, and Captain and Mrs. Walter Scott, 24th Infantry. Colonel and Mrs. Walling had as dinner and evening guests Major and Mrs. Merrill E. Spalding, Infantry, Major and Mrs. W. L. Roberts, Infantry, Miss Lacey, Miss Guthrie, Captain John W. Blue, Infantry, Captain John T. Murray, 24th Infantry, Captain and Mrs. Harer.

The first of a series of monographs that comprise a part of the instruction received by officers of the 24th Infantry was given by Major E. Ormonde Power, 24th Infantry, on Friday, December 3, 1926, at 11:00 a. m., in the officer's assembly room. In accordance with the present schedule each officer of that regiment is required to prepare and deliver a 25 minute lecture on a designated topic relating to military activities.

Major Power's subject was "Aerial War Targets." The principal points covered were legitimate bombing targets, proper missions to be assigned, authority exercising command, range of air activities, the legal rights and restrictions of air operations.

The remaineder of the monographs will be given at bi-weekly intervals. The officers are spending considerable time and study upon their subjects. By imparting the information thus received to others, all the officers of the 24th Infantry will have a greater and wider knowledge of the methods and means of accomplishing any given military mission.

Park at C. A. Morgan & Co. Open till 10 o'clock. Soft Drinks, Drugs and Cigars.



A resume of the plays to be presented each week will be published in this column.

Earnestness Pervades the Japanese Army

Japanese Tactics Based on the Assumption that Bayonet-men are Superior as Individual Fighters.

(By Permission of Lieutenant W. J. Clear)

"Remember that death is lighter than a feather; but duty is heavier than a mountain."

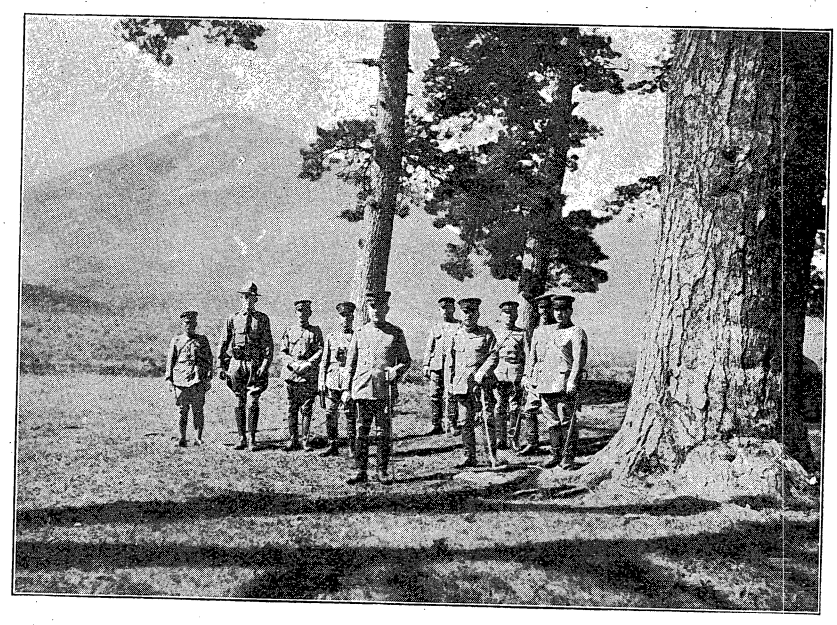
This is the injunction written in the beautiful Japanese script on a huge gold screen, that greets every officer when he enters the officers club of the 29th Regiment of Infantry of the Imperial Japanese Army, and these words of the great Emperor Meiji are usually found above his portrait in every regimental headquarters in the army.

So reports First Lieut. Warren J. Clear, U. S. A., in the course of an enlightening article on the morale of the Japanese fighting man, published in a recent issue of The Infantry Journal (Washington). Lieutenant Clear has been an American observer with the Japanese Army, particularly; we are told, with the 29th Infantry, "an old regiment, with a splendid reputation made in the Russo-Japanese War." Lieutenant Clear continues:

When the regimental commander of the 29th Infantry welcomed the first American army officer to be attached to the Japanese Army, he pointed to the above quotation and offered it in explanation of the seriousness that prevailed among officers and enlisted men while about their daily duties. He did not want their earnestness to be misunderstood, or to be interpreted as sullenness, moroseness or fanaticism. The earnestness of the Japanese soldier was observed to be the outstanding trait of his militant character. It pervades the army from the field marshal down to the humblest private. No military duty is so humble, so inconsequential, as to be taken lightly. No errand is so trivial that it must not be executed with the greatest dispatch.

The Japanese infantryman, it appears, is accustomed to a regime which, because of itst severity, might cause "grousing", if nothing worse, if practised in American regiments. Lieutenant Clear writes:

He is content with the simplest fare and the roughest quarters, and is easily disciplined. The 29th Infantry did not have a single man in the guardhouse for a period of eight months, and this record is not unusual. The Japanese officer possesses a powerful lever that he may employ in preserving discipline, that is the Japenese belief in the divinity of the Emperor. It is the creed that is constantly taught in the schools of the empire. Pupils are instructed to be diligent in their work and studies, and thus show their loyalty to the Emperor. Every good act of the pupil is construed as an act of loyalty to the Emperor; every bad one as an act of disloyalty. This training in loyalty is carried on to manhood and beyond. The soldier is taught that to die on the battle-field for the emperor is the reason he was given life. The farmer is taught that every sunny day shows the graciousness of the Emperor, who has willed that the sun should so shine. This loyalty is preached by every superior official to his subordinates; the policeman exhorts an unruly crowd with maxims from the imperial rescripts; the Army officers discipline their men by reading passages from the imperial rescripts that bring tears to the eyes of the offenders. From the day the soldier enters barracks every care is taken to inculcate what are known as



Lieutenant W. J. Clear, U. S. A., with a Japanese Division Commander and staff

"the Seven Duties of the Soldier," namely, loyalty, valor, patriotism, obedience, humility, morality and honor. Long lectures are given on these subjects and every opportunity taken to instill these virtues in the men.

The rescript of the Emperor Meiji, guiding principles for the soldier's conduct, is thus quoted in part by Lieutenant Clear, "to indicate the spirit that is instilled into all ranks of the Army':

Soldiers and Sailors, we are your supreme Commander-in-Chief. Our relations with you will be most intimate when we rely upon you as our limbs and you look up to us as your head. Whether we are able to guard the empire, and so prove ourselves worthy of heaven's blessings and repay the benevolence of our ancestors, depends upon the faithful discharge of your duties as soldiers and sailors. If the majesty and power of our empire be impaired, do you share with us the sorrow; if the glory of our arms shine resplendently, we will share with you thte honor. If you all do your duty, and being one with us in spirit do your utmost for the protection of the State, our people will long enjoy the blessings of peace, and the might and dignity of our empire will shine throughout the world. As we thus expect much of you, Soldiers and Sailors, we give you the following precepts:

1. The soldier and sailor should consider loyalty their essential duty. Who is born in this land who can be wanting in the spirit of grateful service to it? No soldier or sailor, especially, can be considered efficient unless this spirit be strong within him. A soldier or sailor in whom this spirit is not strong, however skilled in art or proficient in science, is a mere puppet; and a body of soldiers or sailors wanting in loyalty, however well ordered or disciplined it may be, is, in an emergency, no better than a rabble. Remember that, as the protection of the state and maintainance of its power depend upon the strength of its arms. the growth or decline of this strength must affect the nation's destiny for good or evil; therefore neither be led astray by current opinions nor meddle in politics, but with single heart fulfil your essential duty of loyalty, and bear in mind that duty is weightier than a mountain, while death is lighter than a feather. Never by failing in moral principle fall into disgrace and bring dishonor on your name.

2. The soldier and the sailor should be strict in observing propriety. Soldiers and sailors are organized in grades, from the marshal and the admiral of the fleet down to the private soldier or ordinary seaman; and even within the same rank and grade there are differences in seniority of service according to which juniors should submit to their seniors. Inferiors should regard the orders of their superiors as issuing direct from us. Always pay due respect not only to your superiors but also to your seniors, even tho not serving under them. On the other hand, superiors should never treat their inferiors with contempt or arrogance.

3. The soldier and the sailor should esteem valor. Ever since the ancient times, valor has in our country been held in high esteem, and without it our subjects would be unworthy of their name. How, then, may the soldier and the sailor, whose profession it is to confront the enemy in battle, forget even for one instant to be valiant?

But there is true valor and false. To be incited by mere impetuosity to violent action can not be called true valor. The soldier and the sailor should have sound discrimination of right and wrong, cultivate self-possession, and form their plans with deliberation.

4. The soldier and the sailor should highly value faithfulness and righteousness. Faithfulness and righteousness are the ordinary duties of man, but the soldier and the sailor, in particular, can not be without them and remain in the ranks even for a day. Faithfulness implies the keeping of one's word, and righteousness the fulfilment of one's duty.

5. The soldier and the sailor should make simplicity their aim. If you do not make simplicity your aim, you will become effeminate and frivolous and acquire fondness for luxurious and extravagant ways; you will finally grow selfish and sordid and sink to the last degree of baseness, so that neither loyalty nor valor will avail to save you from the contempt of the world. It is not too much to say that you will thus fall into a lifelong misfortune. If such an evil once makes its appearance among soldiers and sailors, it will certainly spread like an epidemic, and martial spirit and morale will instantly decline.

These five articles should not be disregarded even for a moment by soldiers and sailors. Now, for putting them into practise, the all-important is sincerity. These five articles are the soul of our soldiers and sailors, and sincerity is the soul of these articles. If the heart be not sincere, words and deeds, however good, are all mere outward show, and can avail nothing. If only the heart be sincere, anything can be accomplished. Moreover, these five articles are the "Grand Way" of heaven and earth and the universal law of humanity, easy to observe and to practise.

The Japanese soldier's life is restructed to an unusual degree, continues the writer. For instance:

He is forbidden to read any newspapers, inside or out of the barracks, that are not approved by the regimental commander. He can not have books in his possession other than those prescribed by the regimental commander. He can not leave the regimental area except on Sundays and national holidays, and then must return before 5:00 P. M., except when on special pass, which is very hard to obtain. He is forbidden to discuss politics of any nature while in the service, and can not even express opinion regarding the politics of countries other than Japan. He is not supposed to receive money, food, clothing, or sweetmeats from home. He is not supposed to have more than three cigarettes or more than one match on his person at one time. This latter regulation is supposedly a precaution against fire. He can not wear a vest in winter, or gloves without special permission, unless the rest of the command are ordered to wear them. He must do all his own laundry work. He is not permitted to bring any pictures into the regimental area without submitting them to the regimental commander for approval; and there is much confiscation of Mack Sennett bathing beauties, whose charms are appreciated in Japan as elsewhere.

His approved newspapers are censored each morning, and political articles removed, as well as some other items, before the papers are hung in the canteen. On one occasion the photograph of Yukio Ozaki was removed, and the officer in charge explained that it was because, a year before, Mr. Ozaki had made a speech in the Diet advocating the reduction of the army by five divisions. The soldier receives the munificent pay of three yen ($1.45) a month, and he must not spend more than one-half of this on amusement. The company commanders easily enforce this rule by making the men show receipts, not for the sums spent on amusement, but for

MAJOR GENERAL HENRY LEWIS BENNING

By A. E. Dowling

"OLD ROCK,"—as the General was known to the faithful Georgia Infantry who followed him through some fifty hard-fought battles—Major General Henry Lewis Benning, as he is officially recorded on the commission, the signing of which was the last official act of John C. Brenckenridge, Secretary of War for the Confederate States of America—was an infantryman first and last—a Doughboy of the doughboys, and it is in keeping with the eternal fitness of things that his name should have been chosen; to be perpetuated in the great school—the motivating spirit of which is the inculcating of those qualities of leadership; whose soldierly characteristics of quiet courage and unswerving devotion to duty, which he so splendidly exemplified.

Born near Sparta, in Columbia County, Georgia, April 2nd, 1814, of French-Welsh parentage (the name Benning being an "Americanization" of the French De Benin) Henry Lewis Benning entered Franklin College — now the University of Georgia—at the age of seventeen, and graduated at the age of twenty, with the highest honors in his class—a class which was unusually distinguished for talent.

After a brief period of studying law under Governor George W. Towns, he was admitted to the bar and commenced the practice of law in Columbus, Georgia. He never changed his residence from the beginning of his professional life, except for the four years of war. In 1834 he was appointed Solicitor-General of the Chattahoochee Circuit and five years later he was married to Miss Mary Jones, daughter of the Honorable Seaborn Jones of Columbus, Georgia. Shortly after his marriage he resigned as Solicitor-General and resumed the practice of law in partnership with the Honorable Seaborn Jones.

After his marriage General Benning lived in the historic Seaborn Jones place known as St. Elmo. Situated some distance out from Columbus on the Talbotton Road this fine old Southern mansion remains an object of interest to this day, as it was here that Augusta Evans gathered the local color for, and wrote "St. Elmo," that famous "best-seller" of an earlier generation.

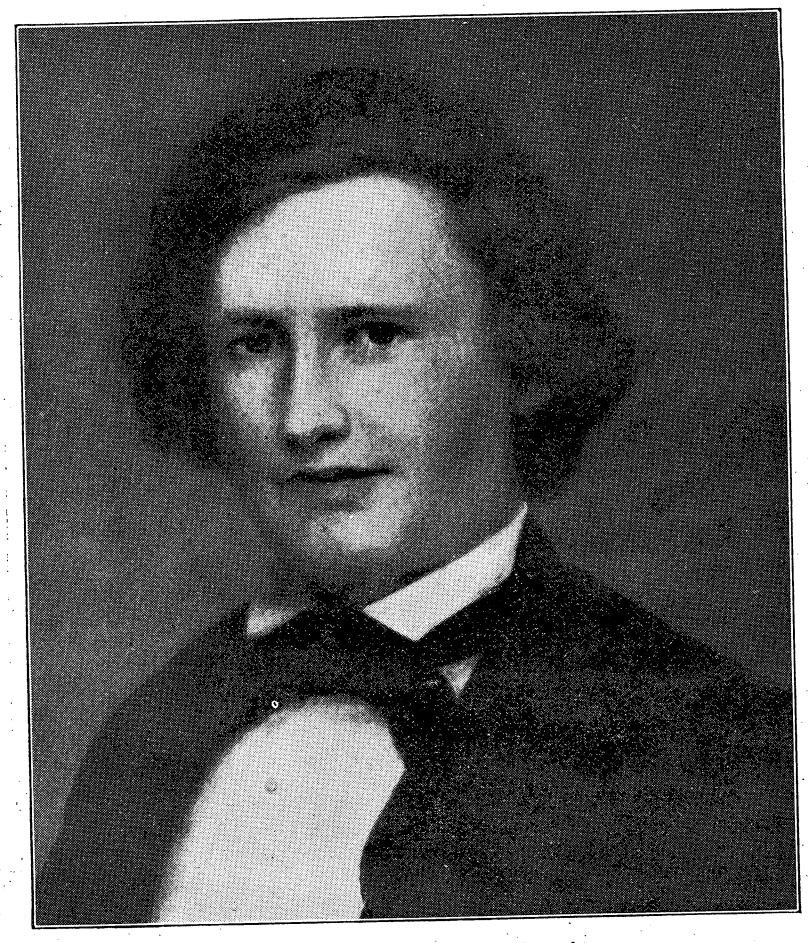
In 1851, much against his wishes, he was nominated for Congress by what was known as the "fire eating party;" but he was defeated by a small margin by Judge James Johnson.

The General Assembly, in 1853, elected General Benning one of the Judges of the State Supreme Court, in which capacity he served with dignity and impartiality for six years, becoming quite noted throughout the South for the ability and enlightenment displayed in his decisions.

And then in 1860, during the great political crisis, his services were called for in another field. In that year he was elected to the State Convention; the same convention which passed the ordinance of secession. He afterward went, as a commissioner, to the Virginia convention, in 1861.

August, 1861, found the future general as a Colonel in command of the Seventeenth Georgia Infantry — and this same regiment, which rallied to his call for volunteers, followed him throughout the war and laid down it's arms with his at Appomatox.

To completely understand the man whose followers affectionately dubbed him, "Old Rock," one would need to study the story of the Army of Northern Virginia; the Peninsular Campaign with it's "Seven Days Battles;" the mad bravery of Gettysburg; the heroic stand of Longstreet at Chickamauga; the long siege of Petersburg, and the desolate days that immediately preceeded Appomatox.



General Henry Lewis Benning

In the Army of Virginia, the General — then Colonel Benning — commanded Toombs' brigade for several months and was promoted to the rank of brigadier general. Thereafter he frequently commanded Hood's division of the First Corps. All told the General must have participated in over fifty engagements, major among which were the Malvern Hill, Second Battle of Manassas, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Chickamauga, Knoxville, the Wilderness, Thoroughfare Gap, Lookout Mountain, Fort Louden, Farmsville and Petersburg.

General Longstreet said of General Benning, "He was one of the bravest men I ever knew"—and General Longstreet should have known whereof he spoke for General Benning was with him on the right wing at Antietam and on the left at Fredericksburg. Pickett's charge at Gettysburg has gone down in history, as it marked a turning point in the battle; but eye-witnesses to that battle declare that, for sheer bravery nothing could excell the charge of Benning's Brigade up Little Round Top—led by "Old Rock" himself.

At the Battle of Chicamauga, General Benning was again fighting under General Longstreet. During the heat of the battle Benning's Brigade was charging a battery of artillery when his horse was shot from under him. The General ordered his second in command to "Press the men on; don't give back an inch," and then he, with his sword, proceeded to cut loose a new mount for himself from a captured artillery caisson. Mounting the steed bareback the General galloped up just in time to re-form his battered brigade and sweep forward in a new attack—an attack that was so successful that it aided tremendously in gaining General Longstreet the victory.

During the Battle of the Wilderness General Benning, with his usual disregard for personal danger, was out in front posting his pickets when he was severely wounded in the shoulder by an enemy sharpshooter. The wound was so severe that the General was forced to temporarily relinquish his command and the absence of "Old Rock" from the front-line in the ensuing battle so demoralized his brigade that they suffered the severest casualties of the war. This wound troubled the General the remainder of his life.

"Old Rock" stern, indomitable old fighter that he was on his great, grey horse; unyielding—immovable — like some grey, rugged old boulder around which the red tide of battle ebbed and flowed. How those devoted Georgia volunteers of his must have gained renewed courage from a leader who shared his followers perils and hardships with such true camaraderie. What a sense of security there must have been in the heart and mind of the tactical commander who could move this gallant, fearless old brigadier out on the checkerboard of battle.

It was inevitable that General Benning should have been an Infantryman. Not for him the role of gay gallant, leading a dashing cavalry charge amid streaming guidons; and such a man of action was equally unsuited for the duties of an artillerist, working out angles of fire and trajectories behind sheltered gun emplacements. Rather was he a Captain of the Hosts; a blood-brother of that bayoneting band that fight hand to hand with the enemy and hold their ground only when they cannot advance.

Ever in the forefront of the fight, he steadied his men by his own unwavering example under the most withering musketry. In the face of devastating artillery fire his cool courage welded the wavering ranks of his brigade into an almost unbeatable fighting machine—a battering ram, that broke up many a clattering cavalry charge; and silenced the screaming salvos of troublesome batteries of artillery.

So calmly collected was the General under even the most trying misadventures of the military life that nothing seemed to disturb his equanimity. On one historic occasion he had taken advantage of a lull in the battle to snatch a bite to eat. As he sat there on his inevitable grey horse, contentedly munching a piece of hardtack, a stray buttet killed the animal under him. Quietly dis-entangling himself from his stirrups the General arose and after dusting himself off he went on munching his hardtack; while Arthur, his faithful negro body-servant, secured a fresh mount. It takes the experienced war-veteran—one who has himself suffered from a scarcity of rations—to appreciate the reason why the General was more concerned with his piece of hardtack than he was with a dead horse—or another stray bullet.

And perhaps the most remarkable thing about the man was the way in which he—who had so recently been a civilian and had entered the arena of strife a Colonel of Volunteers—possessed in such an unusual degree the peculiar attributes of the military leader; attributes so commonly associated in the popular mind with the professional soldier. Not without reason was he loved and revered by his men. It is an axiom of the Service that a leader, to retain the regard of his men, must first exact their respect; and this respect a military leader can only retain by the most rigid of discipline. Discipline! That bugaboo of the untrained mind; which has proven from the dawn of history the all-essential amalgam, which, tempered with utter impartiality welds the undisciplined mob into a trained soldiery. And General Benning was above everything else a strict disciplinarian.—And his soldiers, to a man, loved him; even as "the Tenth Legion loved Caesar."

But General Benning was more than a mere disciplinarian; more than just a leader, to his men. He was their friend and comrade in perils and hardships, sharing with them their small joys and fleeting pastimes as well as their many vicissitudes. The lowliest private in his brigade fared as well as the General. Where he led, they must follow; but where they camped for the night he camped with them, scorning to seek the more friendly shelter of nearby houses. Throughout the disheartening days around Petersburg—when a failing commissariat could scare dole out sufficient rations to stave off starvation—Arthur, the General's faithful body-servant—who had followed his master through four yong years of war—prepared for the General the same scant ration of parched corn that was the portion of every man in the brigade.

One cold, inclement night during the winter of 64-65 the battle-scared brigade had plodded wearily to a bivouac in the open fields near to some very

MEMORIAL TO JOHN W. WEEKS

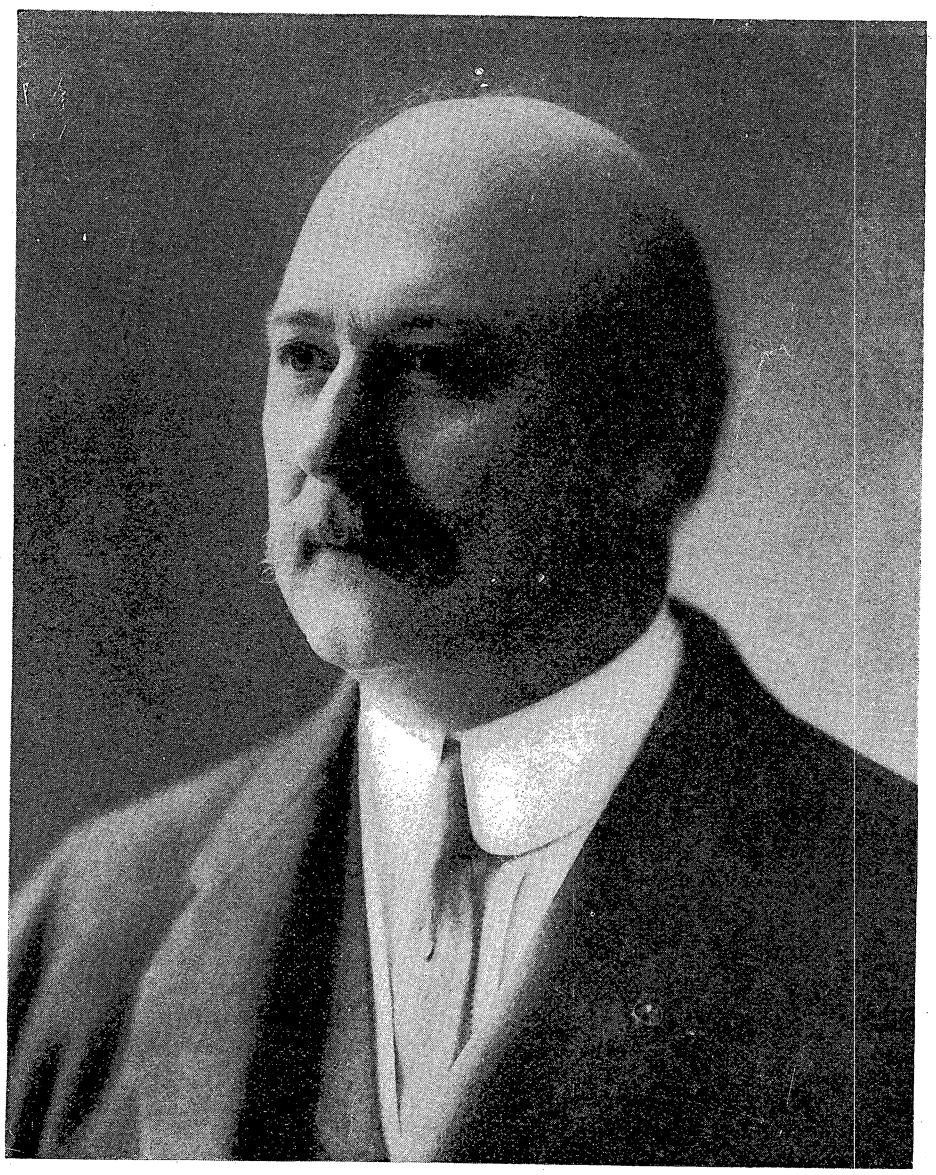
Secretary of War, Dwight F. Davis, Praises His Predecessor at Notable Meeting of the Men's Club of West Newton, Mass.

The affection and esteem in which the late John W. Weeks was held by his friends and neighbors was strikingly manifested in a recent address by the Secretary of War. Dwight F. Davis, before the Men's Club of West Newton, Massachusetts. The address by Secretary Davis was substantially as follows:

I appreciate this opportunity to address the friends and neighbors of my illustrious predecessor in office, the Hon. John Wingate Weeks. My contacts with him in the War Department afforded me a clear insight into those personal characteristics which so indelibly impressed themselves on his fellow citizens. I came to appreciate fully the justification for the public recognition of Mr. Weeks as one of the outstanding statesmen of our time.

Mr. Weeks' life comprised one long career of public service. He was the type of American citizen whom our forefathers envisioned as our public servants and public leaders. He demonstrated his capabilities in this city as alderman and as mayor. He performed services of notable value as your representative in both houses of the United States Congress. Finally, to the position of Secretary of War he brought not only his own inherent ability but the benefit of his previous experiences in both business and public life.

He was schooled in the college of practical politics. However, he represented only the best in statesmanship. There was nothing small about Mr. Weeks. He was vigorous and courageous; he marshalled his facts and struck from the shoulder. Hypocrisy, demagogery, and egotism were utterly foreign to his nature. Mr. Weeks was a man of magnetic personality, of courage in his convictions, and with a remarkable understanding of human nature. A prodigious worker, he inspired by example all with whom he came into official contact.



The late Honorable John Wingate Weeks

To tell you of Mr. Weeks as Secretary of War, I feel that I should first outline those manifold responsibilities which fall to the lot of the head of the War Department, and the many difficulties which are encountered by that office.

With the continued growth of the country has come a very considerable increase in the responsibilities and functions of the War Department. Its activities have a great scope and geographical extent. They include responsibility for the clothing, feeding, equipping, training, and general welfare of the troops of the Regular Army who garrison 254 military posts throughout the United States, and in Porto Rico, Panama, Hawaii, Alaska, the Philippine Islands, and China. Organizations of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves, located in approximately 3,000 cities and towns, come under War Department supervision, as do the units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in 223 educational institutions.

The missions of the Regular Army as prescribed by the National Defense Act of 1920, contemplate the maintenance of a highly-trained force immediately available for minor emergency, and to act as the first line of defense in the case of major war, to garrison our vital oversea possessions, and to furnish personnel and facilities for the training of other elements of the Army of the United States.

The permanent establishment is now called upon to furnish instructor personnel for the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps throughout the year. During the summer it must conduct training camps for approximately 35,000 candidates who attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps. It supplies officers for the supervision of the development of our rivers and harbors and other similar constructive peace-time activities. It must maintain service schools, both military and administrative, without which our Regular Army would not remain a modern military establishment.

The organization of the Army has been extended to include such new and essential branches as the Air Corps and the Chemical Warfare Service, and within each of the formerly-established branches, there has been incorporated many new means of warfrae and defense developed during and since the World War.

Our Regular Army is by far the smallest of any nation in the world whether in relation to population, wealth or area.

It will probably surprise you to learn that the Secretary of War has at his disposal within the United States only 49,973 Regular Army troops in the combat branches of the Infantry, Cavalry and Artillery.

Besides the strictly military activities I have previously outlined there is committed to the War Department supervision over the construction of roads, trails and bridges in Alaska, and the cable and telegraph systems which link our great northern territory with the outside world. National military parks, national cemeteries, homes for disabled soldiers, river and harbor projects, and the supervision of colonial governments, are a few among the many non-military activities to which the Secretary of War must devote attention.

In addition to those duties which are distinctly connected with War Department activities, the Secretary of War is the representative of the President directly charged with the general supervision of the government of the Panama Canal and of the operation of the Panama railroad. He is chairman of the Federal Power Commission, President of the National Forest Reservation Commission, President of the President's Committee on Outdoor Recreation, and a member of the Federal Oil Conservation Board. He further is chairman or member of many commissions charged with the supervision and maintenance of national monuments, parks and other similar projects.

The time at my disposal does not permit of a full description of many of the activities under the supervision of the Secretary of War. I will cite a few examples of those uses of the military establishments which are supplementary to the main mission of maintaining the national defense.

Since the beginning of the development of our rivers and harbors under federal auspices, the large sum of one and one-quarter billions of dollars has been expended upon this work by the War Department. During the fiscal year which has just closed, the expenditures for new work and maintenance for river and harbor projects totalled approximately $58,000,000.00. The savings due to reduced transportation costs equal half a billion dollars annually or a yearly return of about 33 per cent on the investment. Through detail to duty with these and similar activities, the officers of the Corps of Engineers are not only preparing themselves for great engineering tasks which war conditions necessitate, but they are returning to the government services of immense value.

The Federal Government a few years ago inaugurated the Inland and Coastwise Waterways Service, now known as the Inland Waterways Corporation. This is an independent, competitive business, conducted by the Government as a temporary expedient until private interests are prepared to take over this activity, which, through the medium of cheaper transportation, means so much to the future development of our country. The Inland Waterways Corporation is an activity of the War Department, administered by officers of the United States Army. It is now on a paying basis. It has changed a deficit of $950,000 in 1923 into a profit of $350,000 in 1926. The success of its operations affords a definite proof that rail and waterway interests can thrive side by side to their own mutual advantage and to the great benefit of the people as a whole. The operations of this corporation in the development of waterborne traffic demonstrates clearly the wisdom of the considerable expenditures made upon the improvement and development of our inland water systems.

While the administration of the Panama Canal is not distinctly a War Department function, the Secretary of War has always been charged by the President with personal supervision, as his representative, over Canal Affairs, including those of the Panama Railroad Company. Army officers constructed the Canal, Army medical offi-

WHO'S WHO!

Every large establishment either military or civilian, in addition to its official head, always has an executive whose duty it is, not only to act as assistant to the head of the organization in determining policies and matters of management, but, to relieve the chief of all details and routine matters. Fort Benning is the largest military establishment of its kind in the world and Colonel George W. Helms, Infantry is its Executive Officer.

As a Staff Officer, the writer knows something of the great volume of official business that is handled by the executive officer at Fort Benning, every day, and it has been his expreience that official matters presented for decision and advice have at all times been handled with careful consideration, firmness and prudent insight which are so characteristic of the present incumbent.

Colonel Helm's early service in the army was with the Rock of Chicamauga' Regiment, the 19th U. S, Infantry. He was serving with the Nineteenth when it formed a part of General Miles' Expenditon to Porto Rico in 1897. Returning from Porto Rico after a stay of about ten months he went with the Ninteenth to the Philippines and in 1899 he participated in the Panay Campaign. During the Philippine Insurrcetion, Colonel Helms, then a Lieutenant commanded Company 'F' of the 19th Infantry. In 1914, while still serving with the same regiment he went to Vera Cruz, Mexico with the Ninteenth which was a part of General Funston's expedition to that place. In June 1917 Colonel Helms was detailed to the Signal Corps and was commissioned a temporary Colonel, from his permanent grade of Major, in September of the same year. Also in 1917, he organized Camp Samuel F. B. Morse, a Signal Corps Cantonment, and became Commandant of the Signal Corps School for Reserve Officers which was established there. Later Colonel Helms was ordered to Camp Alfred Vail, New Jersey as Commandant of the Signal Corps School there. This School was used at that time for furnishing the A, E. F. with Communication Specialists as well as for the training of Signal Corps units for over-seas service. Incorporated in the Cantonement, also, was a training school for officers. Under Colonel Helms' command at Camp Vail also were the Army Radio Development Laboratories, functioning for the development of radio on the ground and in the air. After the Armistice Colonel Helms organized the Present Signal School at Fort Monmuoth, N. J. and was its first Commandant, which, position he held for two years. In 1921 he was transferred back to the Infantry and commanded the 12th U. S. Infantry at Camp Meade, Maryland. In 1923 Colonel Helms came to Fort Benning as Executive Officer of the Infantry School.

Colonel Helms is a most ardent supporter of the Fort Benning Glee Club and himself takes part in all of the Club's performances. He is particularly fond of hunting and is an active supporter, too, of all forms of athletics. To those who have not met and known the Colonel, let it be said that they have missed knowing a most affable character, a man of splendid military attainments and a thorough and most entertaining native Virginia gentlemen.

WAR DEPARTMENT THEATRES FORT BENNING, GEORGIA

This station has three movie houses; the Main Theatre, on Ingersoll Street, the 29th Infantry Theatre in the 29th Infantry area and the 24th Infantry Theatre located in the 24th Infantry area.

Two, and sometimes three, pictures are shown on the screen every night in the year. When we consider the fact that seven different sets of pictures are screened each week, fifty-two weeks of the year, we arrive at a figure that is hard to realize. Specicically, in a calendar year there are three hundred and sixty-five feature pictures, three hundred and sixty-five comedies and one hundred and four news reels displayed, making a total of eight hundred and thirty-four pictures of three to eleven reels each, or approximately 6672 reels, each 1000 feet long making a total of 6,672,000 feet or 1263 miles of film. Joined together this celluloid strip would almost reach from Fort Benning to Denver, Colorado.

The Twenty Processes in Film Production

Imagine the immense amount of expert labor and expense required to produce these pictures; first, the manufacture and refinement of the films, their preparation with pure silver and chemicals for photographic purposes. Second, the technical manufacture of moving pictures cameras and their delicate lenses. Third, the writing of movie plays, their careful selection by men of critical judgement. Fourth, the adapting of these plays to picturization; remember that there is little or no talking on the screen, actions must do the speaking. Fifth, the careful selection of stars and other artists to form the cast. Sixth, the selection of articles to prepare scenery and interpret the settings. Seventh, the choice of place for each scene. Eighth, preparation of the scene. Ninth, getting the cast together; picture the difficulties of collecting a bunch of tempremental artists, pandemonion, disgust, patience, prudence and fortitude are pre-requisites of a director. Tenth, the directing of the cast in the various acts, an enormous job. Eleventh, photographing the scenes. Twelth, developing the negative. Thirteenth, cutting and piecing the negative. Fourteenth, reprinting the engative thereby making a positive film for projection. Fifteenth, advertising and displaying in order to make the public desire to see the picture. Sixteenth, selection of pictures by agents Seventeenth, manufacture of the delicate, but powerful projecting machines, their lenses and lamps, Eighteenth, training operators to handle these intricate machines. Nineteenth, transporting and securing the reels on time for their display. Twentieth, the actual projection upon the screen of the finished product, a movie picture accurately protraying every movement and facial expression with a precision excelling the preception of the human eye.

How Plays Are Selected For Your ntertainment

Let us return to step number sixteen in the process. Simple- No, but keenly interesting. The Wall Street of Moviedom where film bookings are made in Atlanta is a busy side of street of two to six story buildings just off the center of the business section. Here, Pathe, First National, Metro Goldwin, Famous players, Liberty, Fox, Educational, United Artists, Universal, Progress, Kinogram, and Paramount producers hold forth their exchanges. Agents from all cities of the south with brief case in arm, are seen hurrying from one exchange to the other. They are a smiling lot, but a firmness of set jaws portrays the idea that they are hard fighters for the rights of their communities.

As one enters an exchange he is reminded of the editorial rooms of a large newspaper; men at desks with blue pencils behind their ears, eagerly scanning pages of a movie sheet, girls, a lot of them, and pretty ones, too, pouring over huge ledgers, or playing a monotionous tune on the keys of a adding machine.

The manager waves you into his glassed-in office, stretches out a right hand of cordial welcome, deals a ten cent cigar, then "how areing you," he informs the Army Motion Picture man that he can have anything he wants. Laughing this down you are ushered into the booking office where the booking clerk, an important man of the curb, opens a fifty pound ledger and names over the poorest pictures on hand,—he gets a "nothing doing," then opens up his heart and breathes forth a list of good pictures and the dates they are available, he then gets some business.

Next, he comes back with one of the previous list dubbed a poor one, and offers, to prove its merits. You consent and are let through a mystic maze of basement corridors to a well decorated grotto, ushered into the depths of a leather rocker and there upon a miniature screen some thirty feet from the camera the film is displayed. You, the Army Representative, maintain your original attitude, arguments fail to convince, and finally after having been beset by a couple of other henchmen of the booking agent, you unceremoniously back out of the door and rush to the next producers' office where a more or less similar procedure recurs. A sigh of relief, the last vacant space in the calander is filled, and you join the most affable producer in a young banquet at the Rathkeller, where, to the racy melodies of a stringed orchestra you absorb a most palatable dinner and watch if not join in the adept steps of a tango with the Sirens.

High Class Pictures at Low Prices

How are these pictures produced for only fifteen cents at Army theatres, when you pay up to two dollars and fifty cents for the same show in New York? Mainly, volume bookings accomplishes the results. The ordinary show house books only two feature pictures per week, we book seven for one theatre: there are one hundred and twenty Army theatres in the United States and Pana ma. The individual show house agent pays up to one hundred and twenty dollars for the same single picture for which we pay but fifteen dollars. Furthermore, our theatres are rent free, operating personnel are paid small salaries and our local bands furnish orchestras.

Music

A cue sheet accompanies each picture. Every emotion portrayed upon the screen is accentuated with appropriate musical numbers. The members of the orchestra rehearse every morning and have reached a high state preficiency in sight reading and producing harmony.

Coming Pictures

Booking for January were made in Atlanta, Dec. 7, 8, and 9th. The following feature pictures are outstanding:

Jan. 2, "One Minute to Play," Red Grange; Jan. 9, "So's Your Old Man," W. G. Fields; Jan. 10, "Paradise," Milton Sills; Jan. 13, "La Boheme," Jan. 14, "Robin Hood," Douglas Fairbanks; Jan. 16, "Son of a Shiek," Rudolph Valentino's last picture; Jan. 21, "Sparrow," Mary Pickford; Jan. 30, "The Bat."

An opportunity presented its self to secure some excellent bookings for February, they are as follows:

Feb. 6, "Stella Dallas"; Feb. 8, "Unknown Soldier"; Feb. 9, "Syncopating Sue," Corine Griffith; Feb. 11, "Her Big Night," Laura La Plante; Feb. 15, "Three Bad Men"; Feb. 16, "Canadian," Thos. Meighan; Feb. 17, "Rolling Home," Reginald Denny; Feb. 18, "Black Pirate," Douglas Fairbanks Masterpiece; Feb. 22, "Twinkletoes," Colleen Moore; Feb. 25, "Amateur Gentleman," Richard Barthlemess.

Service, courtesy, and cooperation for the entire inhabitants of Fort Benning is the motto of the theatre personnel. It is hoped that they are succeeding in presenting the most desirable of pictures in the most efficient manner.

Criticise us constructively, we can add to the comfort and entertainment of others by our cooperation.

THAT'S ACTION

He had gone into the library to put the thing up to her father and she was waiting anxiously on the piazza for his return.

"Well," said her suitor, "he asked me how I was fixed and whether I had any money in the bank, and I told him three thousand dollars."

"And what did the he say?"

"Nothing much," he replied gloomily, but he borrowed it."

GARRISON GRIDDERS BEGIN LEAGUE RACE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

1st Bats and Kellys Pry Off Lid of Race for Garrison Championship and News Cup

The formal opening of the Fort Benning Intermural football league for the garrison championship and the Infantry School News Cup, is set for tomorrow and all the teams have completed their preliminary work.

Tomorrow afternoon, in the Doughboy Stadium, the first whistle will release the charging players from the First and Second Battalions, 29th Infantry. While the 2nd Bats, coached by Lieutenant George Smythe, are expected to be victorious over Lt. Schaefer's boys from the First Battalion, rivalry between the two organizations is always intense, and a real struggle will be seen.

Not much is known of the strength of the First Battalion eleven, except that they will have Romploski, who is always dangerous, in the backfield. Keeping in step with him will be Van Groski, a member of the Infantry School team. He is an excellent back and in addition is strong on defense. "Bull" McFadden will probably be performing as a tackle, where he takes care of anything coming his way.

The 2nd Battalion team is, of course, very strong, having Kelly, Franz, McGuire, McCoy and numerous other men who played with the varsity team. It will be a big game an dthere will be football enough for everyone.

All games will be played in the Doughboy Stadium and will begin at 2 p. m., sharp. Each team will play each other team one game, the winner being given ten points, or in case of a tie each team being credited with five points. The team having the highest number of points at the end of the season will be declared the winner. No officers will be permitted to play.

Upon the completion of the series the winning team is to be presented with a silver cup by the Infantry School News, which will be competed for annually.

The league schedule follows:

Dec. 18—1st Bn., 29th vs. 2nd Bn., 29th

Dec. 22.—83rd F. A. vs. Tanks.

Dec. 29—Tanks vs. 1st Bn., 29th.

Jan. 5—2nd Bn., 29th vs. 83rd F. A.

Jan. 12—1st Bn., 29th vs. 83rd F. A.

Jan. 15—2nd Bn., 29th vs. Tanks.

SANTA CLAUS COMING TO FT. BENNING CHRISTMAS EVE

The Children's Christmas entertainment will be given in the Post Gymnasium at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, December 24, 1926. Santa Claus will be present and present a gift to each child at the Infantry School. All children are cordially invited and the parents of those under four years are expected to accompany them.

This year the Post Exchange Council has very graciously appropriated $700.00 to defray the expense of the Christmas festivities. This has enabled Santa Claus to purchase a gift for each child from infancy to fifteen years of age.

The following ladies have also very kindly given their time to make merry the little fellows this year: Mrs. Edgar T. Collins, Mrs. Frank S. Cocheu, Mrs. Harry A. Eaton, Mrs. A. B. Warfield, Mrs. Asa Singleton, Mrs. C. B. Elliott, Mrs. W. A. Pickering, Mrs. S. B. Massey, Mrs. Lindsey Silvester, Mrs. Gustav Braun, Mrs. Robert Oliver.

The Christmas exercises will open with the singing of Christmas carols by the children of the Ft. Benning Children's School directed by Miss Annie Lou Grimes.

After the singing of the carols Santa Claus will appear in his gala attire and make a few appropriate remarks to the children on the Real Christmas Spirit. At the conclusion of Santa's talk the gifts will be presented to the children.

GLEE CLUB

GLEE CLUB AWAITS RISE OF CURTAIN FOR SINGBAD SHOW

"Singbad the Sailor" Oriental Operatic Extravaganza, at Theatre Tonight and Tomorrow

The Infantry School Glee Club will present the Oriental Operatic Extravaganza, "Singbad the Sailor" in the Garrison Theater Friday and Saturday evenings, both nights' performance starting at 8:15 promptly. Under the able direction of Captain Geo. L. King the members of the caste have practiced long and faithfully and are ready to put on a first class amatuer show. Members of the Fort Benning garrison and the people of Columbus are thoroughly familiar with the ability of Capt. King in directing this king of performance, the signal success of "El Banido" and "Pinafore" being well remembered by all.

The operetta chosen for the first to be shown this school year is a tuneful and catchy vehicle, abounding in tense situations and having a comedy conclusion that leaves the audience in a fine frame of mind.

Trouble is brewing on the "Silent Isle," a province of the Caliph of Bagdad. The original natives, long repressed by their lighter skinned ruling class, have arrived at the point where their appetites will no longer be satisfied with the meager rations doled out to them. They crave flesh, and human flesh, at that.

On this disturbed island lands Singbad, an artist from the Bagdad Opera House, and his servant Hassan, both of whom have been pleasure cruising through the archipelago.

Both have a narrow escape from the cannibals and are saved only by the timely arrival of Queen Gulnara and her retinue, Singbad is not very personable, but Gulnara has heard him sing, and being a musical enthusiast, feels that a heretofore neglected part of her education can be set right by retaining Singbad on the island. In consequence she offers half her kingdom and her hand to the crack-voiced king of tenors who's in search of fame and pelf.

Singbad accepts, runs the court on rather broad lines, carries on the bluff of being a musical dictator and manages to satisfy everybody except Ajib, Gulnara's former Court-Magician, who hatches a plot with the cannibals to abduct both Singbad and Hassan.

The attempt almost succeeds, but by mistake Gulnara who is wearing Singbad's cape, is herself abducted and when the cannibals feel the lash of her tongue they quickly abandon their nefarious attempts.

Singbad's popularity suffers a sad blow when he shows the white feather in battle, but the timely arrival of the Caliph of Bagdad who has been carrying on a fervid correspondence with Gulnara's niece (real owner of the Silent Isle) and now comes to claim her as his bride, relieves the situation and places Singbad and Gulnara on what might be called an amicable domestic footing.

This has the desired effect and the spectacle of the Caliph and Aminta joining up for a life term brings tranquility to the Silent Isle.

TEN COLONELS COMPLETE REFRESHER COURSE

The Special Refresher Class, consisting of nine Colonels and one Lt. Colonel, who came to the Infantry School on Oct. 15th, will complete their course on Saturday, December 18. During their three months' course, they have covered, in a general way most of the instruction given to the Field Officers' class, though, of course, not in detail.

The closing exercises of the class will be held in the office of Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, Commandant of the Infantry School, on Friday, and on Saturday the course will officially be closed.

The names of the officers, all of whom are of the Infantry, and the organizations to which they are assigned, are given here-with:

Col. Edward Croft to 16th Inf., Gov. Island, N. Y.

Col. Thomas W. Darrah to 34th Inf., Ft. Eustace, Va.

Col. Andrew J. Dougherty to 25th Inf., Nogales, Arizona.

Col. Adolphe H. Huguet to duty with N. G., New York.

Col. Ralph E. Ingram to 28th Inf., Ft. Niagara, N. Y.

Col. James B. Kemper to 45th Inf., Philippine Islands.

Col. John F. Preston to 1st Inf., Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Col. John W. Wright to 5th Inf., Ft. Williams, Maine.

Col. William A. Kent to duty Org. Res., Jackson, Miss.

Lt. Col. James G. Hannah to Panama Canal Zone.

SONG AND DANCE FOR DEMONSTRATION DOUGHBOYS

Syncopation of the up-and-at-em, jazzy kind will be freely disseminated by Clyde Hyde and his Florida Ramblers Saturday and Sunday Dec. 18 and 19 when the Ramblers will seek to entertain the Demonstration Doughboys at the Twenty-ninth Infantry Theatre with a program of novelty orchestrations. The Floridians have worked up a good reputation throughout the Southern States for their cleancut program of novelty entertainment.

A notable personage in their troupe and one that adds much to the character of the program is Mademoiselle Helen Ladieux, a tiskle toed exponent of the terpsichorean art will trip the light fantastic in a series of attractive dances.

BENNING HORSEMEN TO PRESENT NOVEL EVENT ON SHANNON FIELD

Gymkhana Slated For Shannon Field at 2:15 P. M. Shows Many Innovations

What is termed a "Gymkhana" a mounted field meet is scheduled to take place on Shannon Field beginning at 2:15 in the afternoon, next Saturday.

Field meets of the tracks variety are an old story, but a mounted field meet, or Gymkhana is something new to many.

It is in no sense particularly an exhibition of horsemanship, but is a sporting programme, each event carrying a number of contestants. The events are open to entries by officers and ladies. In addition many of the events are open to enlisted men. The programme, throughout is filled with unusual events which have been especially prepared for the afternoon.

The following officers, Captain Pleas B. Rogers, Captain Erle O. Sandlin, Captain Robert A. McClure, 1st Lt. W. W. Brier and 1st Lt. Jacob R. Moon have been detailed as a committee to prepare and administer the events. All of these officers are horsemen well known to the garrison as Polo players and in Columbus where they have given exhibitions of of riding on various occasions.

In reading over the list of events, it will be seen that many of them are innovations. Some are real amusement producers, especially one in which, after a short dash, the race being between couples, the lady lights a cigarette to give her partner while the officer, for probably the first time in his life endeavors to thread a needle. This will be a close race but may take some time to complete not however on the ladies account. Very few officers are adept with needle and thread. In another event, the first one who can whistle after eating six soda crackers, will win, and will earn his victory.

A large number of events are scheduled, all of a nature which will afford pleasure and amusement to all who attend.

GUNNERS GET REVENGE ON COLUMBUS STARS

Zeke Carter of the Columbus All-Stars played so strenuously that a bright young lad on the sidelines remarked that he must have broken his glasses on that tackle. J. D. Thomason, playing in a strange mixture of football and peaceful clothes, hurled pass after pass to the similarly arrayed Everidges, but it was all in vain, as the Gunners from the 83rd Field Artillery were bent on revenge for a previous licking; and they got their fill; as the final score of 19 to 0 in favor of the Red Terror amply testifies. All this happened down in the Municipal Stadium in Columbus last Saturday.

CO. "C," CO. OFFICERS CLASS

Jack Nelson was unable to purchase a pair of unionalls large enough for him to wear to "Shene Gun" instruction. He, therefore, had to draw a "pyramidal" tent instead.

Several groups have been organzed by Stewgents living on the Post and in Columbus and these aforementioned groups have drawn machine guns with which to practice while at home during their spare time. Some of the neighbors will think they have been attacked, by the noise, etc., that will prevail when these groups get together.

Isn't it funny that some people think they know it all and can't get any benefit out of the course.

Just five months and eleven days until May 28th.

It seems very amusing that Hoe Nichols, Elkins, Peach, Stetler, McCoy and Read, who have been on foreign service at Fort Benning for these many years, should now be slated for foreign service abroad. Just wherein lies the distinction?

One Captain of Co. C has evolved a new formula for selecting a new assignment to station and the probability of error is very slight. First select the station for assignment desired ,then take the back azimuth of that station and name that as your preference and you are sure to get your original station selection.

Example: You want Alaska for foreign station. The back azimuth of Alaska is Panama ask for Panama, and you will be sure to go to Alaska.

Draw two, George.

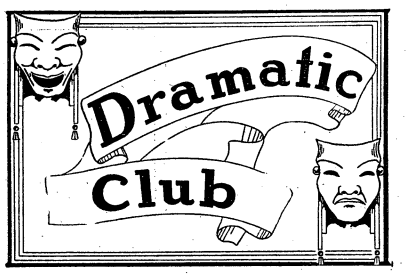
EARL CARROLL "VANITIES"

The Joseph De Milt, Inc., will bring to the Springer Opera House December 23, 1926 the tremendously popular revue, which took New York by storm at its initial performance, and has steadily grown in popular favor, "The Earl Carroll "Vanities."

The book by William A. Grew, is a skillful travesty on the foibles of the day, and is filled with delicate sarcasm and subtle ridicule of public abuses, its humor is incisive and in many cases has resulted in calling attention to offenses against the interest of the public and their correction.

The production is one of oriental extravagance, of the most spectacular effects, and brilliant and varied costumes. The company numbers one hundred people and includes a number of notable entertainers. Bert Swor, Lou Powers, Dave Chasen and the Perfect Venus—Louise Brooks, are featured in the company which also includes Alice Bradford, Lew Miller, John Coyle, Marion Dowling, Kenneth Lackey, Aimee Archer, Johnny Dove, Ricco, John Kirk, Harry Sharpe, Beth Stone, Mary Mansfield, Virginia May, Violet Davis, May Valle, Billie Menzies, Babe Bryant, Walter Hamilton, and a brilliant chorus of fifty beautiful girls.

During the revue many charming numbers are introduced, notably "The Rotisserie," "Neath Miami Skies," "The Gate of Roses," "The Kinky Kids on Parade" and the grand finale "HiHo," with the full strength of the company.



At two recent meetings of the Dramatic Club important changes were made in the organization of the club. A Green Room Committee has now been provided for to have charge of selecting, casting and presenting plays.

This committee is to consist of the Club Dramatic Director, the Club Stage Director and the Club Play Reader. Each of these officers is to supervise club activities and act as consultant, in the matter indicated by his designation.

The membership of this committee is as follows:

Dramatic Director, Lt. Frank A. De Roin.

Stage Diretcor, Capt. Alan W. Jones.

Play Reader, Mrs. Jason M. Walling.

All elected for a two year term.

To provide further for better and more definite organization in the light of local experience so far, a committee consisting of Mrs. G. J. Braun, Mrs. F. V. Schneider and Mrs. W W. Brier was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws for club consideration at an early date.

At these meetings much enthusiasm was displayed by club members both active and associate and a great desire on the part of all to participate fully in all club activities.

A committe econsisting of Lt. A. R. C. Sander, Mrs. Partridge and Mrs. Pollin was designated to prepare a "stunt Night" for the club to be set the first academic week after the Xmas holiday. Definite announcement of the date will be made later.

The club will give a public presentation of the three act comedy "Nothing but the Truth" in the garrison theatre some time after the middle of January, usual prices for such affairs will govern and the free list will be suspended.

The twelfth of February and the twelfth of March have been tentatively selected as dates for intimate presentations to club members and their guests of one act plays—two or three on each night—and the night of the ninth of April as the date for the second and last public presentation for the present academic year.

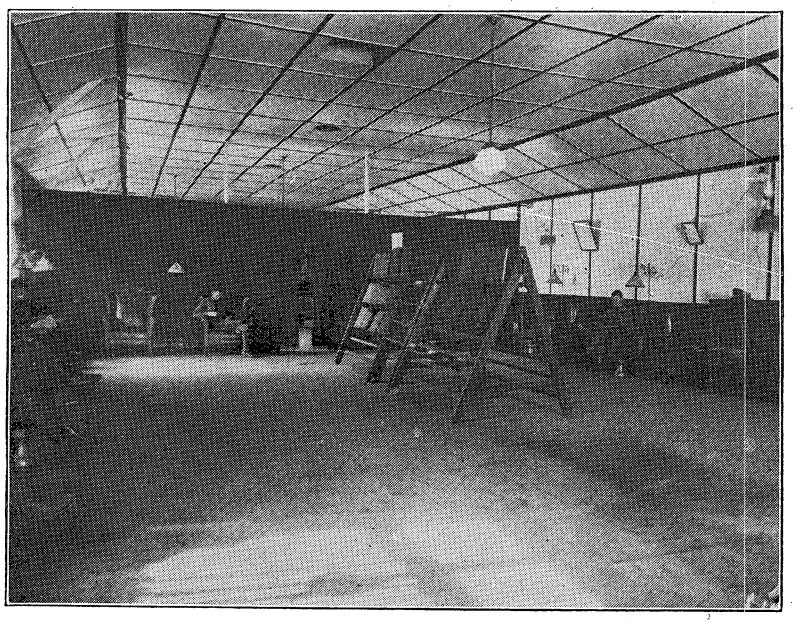
INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

The entire garrison has been watching with interest the improved appearance and morale of the Infantry School Detachment since Major Henry A. Bootz, Inf., arrived early in September and assumed command of the boys who wear the green hat cords and are engaged in so many widely scattered tasks throughout the reservation. The first thing the Major stressed was the absolute necessity of each man's feeling that the Detachment is his organization, that hts fellow members are his buddies and that the Detachment Commander is the head of one big family. Formerly commanders have experienced difficulty in making the personnel feel this as the men are so seldom together that the development of an organization espirt is no small undertaking.

Major Bootz's first move was to impress upon each man that he must be a soldier first, last and all the time; must maintain the appearance of a soldier always; must display the military courtesy and characteristics of a soldier; and must keep his surroundings in such condition that an inspector would know he was among soldiers. He explained that these commandments were for the benefit and pleasure of the men themselves and were not arbitrary directions issued just because he was in position to issue them.

From the first the Detachmenteers realized that their C. O. is a soldier and that he means what he says. They also learned that he is their best friend in trouble of any kind, and that any man who will meet the Major halfway is sure to get along without difficulty. Soon even the casual observer could see that improvement in the appearance of the command.



The Recreation Room

Whereas previously the Green cord probably circled the hat of a very slovenly looking soldier, it is rare nowadays for an I. S. D. man to be seen not dressed neatly. This for two reasons. First because the Major has a far-seeing eye and secondly because the men now take pride in themselves. The cleanliness of the area has increased proportionately. Once the dirtiest area in the garrison the Detachment building and surroundings now yield to none, and invite inspection at all times. The mess hall, which had for month after month stood alone, an inglorious last in the monthly standing of messes, has tied for fifth place, and the men who do K. P. say that it's easier now than it ever was, because the place is reasonably clean to start with. Every inspector who has visited the area in the past two months has expressed himself as pleased with its appearance. Bunks have all been painted with shiny white paint, even the old black ones being so coated. It is proposed to paint the interior of each squadroom immediately after the beginning of the New Year. This will give the men a more cheerful place in which to live.

The Recreation Room, painted and well fitted up with comfortable chairs last spring has been thoroughly cleaned and a new Radiola, costing $1,000, installed after a vote of the entire command showed that every man favored the expenditure of that sum.

On the social side the Major has inaugurated a series of monthly dances to which all members of the Detachment and their families and friends are welcome. The C. O. is always there and is the life of the party. It gives the men of the command a chance to get together and become acquainted, and furnishes pleasant diversion. The first dance of the New Year, to be held some time in January is to be a Tacky Party at which prizes will be awarded for the best costumes, and a special Charleston contest with a $5.00 prize donated by the Editor of the Infantry School News is to be held.

But perhaps the greatest improvement from the point of view of the average member of the Detachment has been in the quality of the chow in the mess hall. Major Bootz styles himself a crank on the subject, and all his men are glad he is. Feeding as large a command as the Detachment is no small task, but with the Major allowing a considerable expenditure from the Detachment Fund to supplement the regular army ration, and with Sgt. Bayliss, mess sergeant and his efficient cooking staff, functioning smoothly, the I. S. D. can now boast of being one of the wellfed outfits of the army.

The Associated Press

There appeared recently in a Columbus paper an editorial relative to an incident that occured near Atlanta. A few days later the same paper published on its editorial page a letter from one of the parties concerned, questioning the facts upon which the editorial was based, and attacking the editor because he had failed to check up on the story before commenting on it. The Columbus editor reprinted the dispatches upon which his comment was founded and stated that these dispatches had come to him from the Associated Press. For those who are acquainted with the news gathering machinery of the country this was enough, for they know that the (AP) in the date line of any story is sufficient guarantee of its authenticity and impartiality.

The Associated Press is above all suspicion of partisanship or prejudice. It is, as its name implies, an association of all the leading newspapers of the United States, formed for the express purpose of getting unbiased accounts of the affairs of the world. It has representatives in every part of the globe. Its correspondents, as its members are drawn from every race and creed. To err is human and the AP sign doesn't mean that a dispatch is inspired, but it does mean that an honest effort has been made to present a fair version of the facts reported.

The AP may at times send out reports that later prove to be questionable, but were it not for this great news collector our information as to current events would be meager indeed. When we, at Fort Benning, read in the morning paper that John McFiffin, formerly a promient member of the 29th Infantry, was yesterday awarded the Carnegie medal for heroism or was arrested last night for bootlegging in Tenth Legion, Virginia, we perhaps wonder how the paper way down here in Georgia secured its information so quickly, but when we look at the date line and see the little "AP" we know that an Associated Press man was on the job; that he found that the man decorated or incarcerated had been connected with the Infantry School at Fort Benning; that he reported this fact to his branch headquarters; that the branch headquarters telegraphed the item to the Atlanta office; and that the Atlanta branch relayed it without delay to Columbus. We know further that every office through which the dispatch passed used its best efforts to check up on the details related, and we feel that we are getting the true story as far as is humanly possible.

If it were necessary to wait until every AP dispatch could be confirmed by affidavit and deposition, our daily paper would be dry indeed.

New Promotion Plan

The Secretary of War authorizes publication of the following outline of a plan which has been recommended to congress for relief of the conditions disclosed by investigation, pursuant to an act of Congress.

1. In lieu of the prospective irregular flow of officers into and from the active list, a uniform flow to be established by requiring an annual turnover of not less than 4 per cent.

2. The annual attrition of 4 per cent to be accomplished by full utilization of existing means for removal of officers from the active list of the Army and by the following supplementary means:

a. Brigadier Generals of the line and staff and Colonels commissioned in non-combatant branches to pass to the retired list upon reaching the age of 61 years or completing 37 years of commissioned service.

b. Colonels commissioned in combatant branches to pass to the retired list upon reaching the age of 59 years or completing 35 years of commissioned service.

c. Only so far as necessary to insure an annual attrition of 4 per cent selective removals from the active list, in the discretion of the President, either upon application from officers or without such application, to be made from among the following:

(1) Lieutenant Colonels over 57 years of age or over 30 years of commissioned service.

(2) Majors over 52 years of age or over 25 years of commissioned service.

(3) Captains over 47 years of age or over 20 years of commissioned service.

(4) Officers in any grade of over 8 years of commissioned service.

d. Officers removed from the active list who have rendered over 20 years of commissioned service or who are over 45 years of age, to have the option of complete separation from the regular establishment with a fair gratuity or of transfer to the retired list. Other officers to be completely separated from the regular establishment with a fair gratuity.

e. Officers transferred to the retired list to receive retired pay at the rate of 2 1-2 per cent of active pay at time of retirement, multiplied by the number of complete years of service. Those officers appointed July 1, 1920, when over 45 years of age to receive retired pay as provided for them by the Act under which they were appointed; that is, at the rate of 4 per cent. of active pay, multiplied by the number of complete years of commissioned service.

f. Officers who are completely separated from the regular establishment with a gratuity to receive an amount equal to $30 multiplied by the number of complete months of commissioned service. Officers of this catogory who leave the service voluntarily will be permitted to resign and others will be discharged.

g. Officers completely separated from the regular establishment will, so far as practicable, be commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

3. Of the total number of officers, exclusive of the Medical Department, Chaplains and professors, 85-100 of 1 per cent to be general officers of the line, in the ratio of 1 Major General to 2 Brigadier Generals; not less than 4 per cent nor more than 6 per cent to be Colonels; and not less than 25 per cent nor more than 40 per cent to be field officers (Colonels, Lieutenant Colonels and Majors), Subject to those limitations officers to be promoted according to the following schedules:

a. To first lieutenant upon completion of 3 years of commissioned service.

b. To Captain upon completion of 10 years of commissioned service.

c. To Major upon completion of 17 years of commissioned service.

d. To Lieutenant Colonel upon completion of 22 years of commissioned service.

e. To Colonel upon completion of 28 years of commissioned service.

f. To Brigadier General and Major General by selection from the next lower grade as at present.

Effects of Proposed Plan: In general the effects of this plan will be to regulate and make uniform the flow of officers into and from the active list, to gradually reduce the abnormal hump in the present list, and to provide a flow of promotion no greater than necessary to maintain the efficiency and effectiveness of the Army.

The plan duly respects both the rights and interests of the government and of individuals. In the administration of the plan the removal of officers from the active list may be largely voluntary rather than otherwise. The proposed automatic retirements of brigadier generals and colonels will be of those officers who, after a reasonable opportunity, have not been selected for promotion and whose further relation in active service appears contrary to sound policy.

With the present authorized strength of 10,527 officers, exclusive of the Medical Department and Chaplains (these branches not being involved in the plan), the annual turnover of 4 per cent would be 421 officers. The United States Military Academy will supply annually an average of about 225 of the second lieutenants required, thus affording an opportunity for about 200 appointments annually from other sources.

Existing pay schedules provide for periodic increases on the basis of length of service. The contemplated promotion schedule accords with the same periods, except from second to first lieutenants, so that promotion will occur without an appreciable increase in pay. An increase in pay for the junior officers is essential to prevent the large loss of untrained second lieutenants that the Army is now experiencing.

Cost of Proposed Changes: There should be a decrease in cost of the active list due to the removal of relatively expensive officers and their replacement by less expensive officers.

The removal of officers from the active list will involve some increased expenditure due to the payment of gratuities and to some increase in the retired list. This is not, however, an ultimate increase in the cost of the military establishment but is merely an anticipation of some of the increased cost of the retired list that is bound to occur eventually when officers pass to the retired list.

In the long run the plan should not cause any material increase in the combined cost of the active and retired list.

Why not invite Chicago to the next disarmament conference?

It will not be long before New York—and other—hostesses will be leaving the R. S. V. P. off their invitations and replacing it with the likeness of a silver hip flask with the admonition: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

Speaking of "happy mediums" we were sorry to hear that there was considerable rejoicing among the "spiritualist go-between" at the passing of the well-known Mr. Houdini.

WASTED HIS LEAVE, LOST FOREIGN SERVICE CREDIT, BUT SAVED (?) SOME MONEY

An officer of the Army bumped a native while automobling just before his tour of duty was up in Honolulu. He handed the boy a greenback and forgot it.

Shortly after his return to the state he was served notice of suit and took leave to return to the islands to defend. Lost the case and returned to the U. S. after appealing. Case again came up for trial. He again took leave, lost and appealed. Case came up third time. His leave credit was exhausted; was unable to get leave on half-pay and finally had to surrender credit for foreign service, applying for station in Honolulu to get back for trial

He won the third trial, but lost: (1) Leave credit; (2) foreign service credit; (3) time; (4) trouble; (5) attorneys fees; (6) expense.

He could have saved all of these by an investment in PERSONAL LIABILITY insurance.

Are you taking such a chance?

If so, you'd better let us hear from you, giving description of your car.

Our picket boasts of one less flivver now. The missing link was towed away when Corp. Spencer and Private Palmer were discharged on Tuesday. Both men have been converted to the back to the farm movement so it was back to the two-mule for them.

Corp. James J. (Red) Fisher is paying a visit to the other native of Ball Grounds, Ga. Fisher says he has no intension of washing, shaving or changing clothes for the ensuing thirty days. It is rumored that he already has considerable experience along these lines. By a strange and suspicious coincidence the Corp. left the same day the aforementioned Spencer and Palmer were discharged. We wonder why.

Pvt. Larry C. Dixon, worthy successor to Pvt. Williams, began his duties as Company Orderly in a highly examplary manner. In his offical capacity as nurse for the stove in the orderly room. Dixon sneaks into the orderly room at 5:00 a. m. and struts his stuff with the stove so that the Company Clerk can arise in comfort.

The new latrine was unofficially opened on Monday. It's a boon to the great unwashed. When completed this latrine will rank second to none in the Post.

In anticipation of his retirement to private life on the 20th of this month Sgt. Calvin L. (Hank) Hankins is acquiring sometimes by purchase, a supply of civilian clothes. From one Corporal he bought, at auction price, two suits; for a rainbow sweater he gave Corp. Greenfield three G. I. Cigars; from his successor he got best wishes for a speedy departure.

Pvts. Wigley and Meeker have returned from Washington where they have been subjected to a three months study of lines and curves (not on F. St., either.) Both would like to take a refresher course in the very near future.

GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS AT SPRINGER DEC. 20TH

The greatest cast of principals and the most beauteous chorus yet sent on tour, is the mannern which the new George White's Scandals, which comes to the Springer Theatre Monday, Dec. 20 is described. The tremendous cast, headed by the famous comedian Sammy Howard, brother of Eugene and Willie Howard, Lillian Norwood, from the Passing Show, Linda Lee, from Artists and Models, Georgie Carson, the lovely English dancer, Carl Keyes, Edgar Schaeffer, Angalin Grizzia, Leon Valdez, and the celebrated Albertina Rasch girls on only a part of the personnel. There is also the George White Beauty Chorus, chosen out of over three hundred girls; chosen for their youth, beauty and dancing skill. Many of the girls are just out of school and their enthusiasm at being on tour with a great musical revue for the first time can well be imagined.

SERVICE COMPANY

When the Service Company was on Demonstration last week, they had to borrow a mule, blind in both eyes. We wonder why a Staff Sgt. and a duty Sgt. wanted to ride the same mule before the Officers Class.

Cpl. Kozak the Irishman was discharged by ETS on December 8th, and was Re-enlisted for the Company before he went back to Pa., for 90 days to work in the mines with other Dagos.

REGIMENTAL HQ. CO.

Sgt. Powloski, is now exchanging pennies for kazookies, to pay the national debts with. If anyone happens to have any on hand, now is the time to get rid of them.

Sgt. Matthews, reported back for duty after spending four months in Florida recruiting. His success has been great at recruiting but being a radio wizard he had to come back to instruct the regimental class, in da-da-dit.

We have a few recruits in the Company, and to prove that they are trying to soldier, Pvt. Whitman has made the highest score on the range with a rifle, although it was not for record. Keep it up Whitman, we always give ratings to the good men. Pvt. Whitman is also excellent at radio as well.

Satin; Sergeant, Can I go to town? Yes? 1st Sgt.: Go ahead. Satin: Sheck me out, I wanna ketchem rite kvick.

1ST Bn. HQ. Co.

Private Bamzel L. Rose reported for duty Monday. Private Rose was discharged from the Twenty-Second Infantry at Fort McPherson, Ga., per ETS and re-enlisted for the 29th Infantry. He was assigned to this organization while on furlough. He has completed twenty-three years service, and we are very proud to say that he is still an active soldier at the age of 52.

Applications are being received in the orderly room everyday for holiday furloughs. A number will be granted we are sure and it is hoped that no one will be disappointed.

Among our new men we have Pvt. Ward who has the ability to entertain the entire company with a wonderful combination. Pvt. Ward can play a harmonica, a guitar and do the "Charleston" all at the same time.

HOWITZER COMPANY

Again we retreated. Corporal Ramer E. Hamilton was Hon. discharged the 4th., per ETS. We regret the loss of this splendid soldier.

Pfcs. Serritella, Ellsmore, and Powell are again with the organization after an absence on furlough. Especially, are we glad to have Johnnie Powell with us as he is one of our best cooks. The reason is obvious.

Evidently our moral is good, boys. Three re-enlisted during the past few weeks. Atta, Boy, they know a good organization.

COMPANY "D"

Sgt. Henry M. Phillips was discharged this week and re-enlisted for the best company in the regiment.

Capt. W. A. Burress journeyed to Fort McPherson Wednesday to play the mounted Mallet game.

Arthur Kennedy arises to deny that he is a Tennessee shiek but that he comes from the great state of Arkansas.

The top kick must have fell into small legacy.

Thomas Picard says that he wants to have his name in the paper as it gives the home folks a thrill. He sends the paper home.

Well we are mentally short of breath this week. It is awfully hard for a poor buck private to think. Thinking is so expensive sometimes.

PVT. GEORGE R. BECKER.

MARIE GOODE
One of the semi-nude beauties with the "Earl Carroll Vanities" to be seen here for the first time at the Springer Opera House Thursday night Dec. 23.

COMPANY "E"

I guess you can see that we have some wrestlers, if you have been watching them for the past few weeks. They sure ought to be good for Sandy Payne is the 1st Sgt. of the wrestlers. If any of the Regimental school boys need any contours see Cpl. Snider he carries them around in a barracks bag and has a good supply at all times.

JESSIE L. TAYLOR.

COMPANY "F"

Our Basket Ball team is going strong. They have won two hard fought games within the past few days: Saturday they defeated "G" Company by the close score of 18 to 14, in which Pat. Harbour was the Star until he received a sprained knee which unabled him to play the rest of the game:—Sunday Co. "E" of the Gas Regiment fell into our hands by the close score of 18 to 14, in which Dilley of our Company was the Star. Both games were close and hard fighting was shown on all teams. We are looking for the Regimental Championship this season.

Cpl. Nelson has been pushed up to Sergeant, Atta boy Nels. Two stripes have fallen upon the undersigned also.

PAUL K. ARMSTEAD.

Several members of the company have gone on furlough for the month. The boys wish to meet Santa Claus.

Pfc. Sloan and Lawson have returned to the Company after enjoying thirty days furlough with home folks.

Pfc. Dug Morgan wears a funny little smile since the first of December. We wonder what it means?

Corporal Holland will receive his discharge this week. We hope he will decide to take on another "three" and spend Christmas with us.

Corporal Simpson's house is growing rapidly. The reason is that private Bush is slinging a mean hammer. Corporal Simpson says he hopes to have it ready for Santa Claus.

Sergeant Lackey is mending the hole in his stocking, getting ready for the great day. He says that this thing about Santa Claus is all bunk.

WALTER ROWELL.

COMPANY "H"

Sergeant Mannering has left us per the ETS. route. Every one (including the mules at the stables) is sorry to see him leave us. Cpl. J. L. Reed, has taken his place at the stables. That leaves Cpl. Smith to take over Transportation Corporal. We knew all the time that "Red" would not be satisfied until he got back with his "pets."

WAILINGS OF A PRIVATE

The Colonel calls the Major,
When he wants something done,
And the Major calls the Captain
And get him on the run.

The Captain figures it over,
And to be sure to suit
Passes the Dad gum buck
To some mighty Second Lieut.

The Second Looey wonders,
And strokes his chisel chin,
Then he calls his trusty Sergeant
And lays the law down to him.

The Sergeant Calls a Corporal
To see what he can see,
So the Corporal gets a Private
And the Dad Gum Private's—ME.

24TH INF.

A 24th Infantry "Theatre Canteen" has been established in that regiment under authority granted by the garrison post exchange council at its last meeting. The canteen will be operated for the benefit of the patrons of the regimental theatre along lines similiar to those conducted by the 29th Infantry and the garrison theatres. A building has been erected o nthe east end of the Service Club that will have facilities for serving patrons while attending the motion pictures or dances and also to those persons who are outside the building.

A large assortments of cigars, cigarettes, candies, soft drinks, both to eat in the theatre and take home will be handled. The place will be opened for business at 6 p. m. and closed at the cessation of activities in the Service Club building. All profits will accrue directly to the regimental fund.

Lieutenant R. S. Mackie, 24th Infantry is in charge of the project. In establishing the canteen he has displayed unusual zeal and ability. Among other accomplishments he has caused the building to be erected without cost to the regiment. The construction will be paid for by the Chero-Cola Company of Columbus whose soft drinks will be handled exclusively.

The 24th Infantry regimental gardens have produced a great saving in expenditures for vegetables by organization messes and individuals of that regiment. The gardens were established in late winter this year in the river bottom area north of the utilities yard. As an operating fund each organization mess was assessed $10.00, each officer $1.00, and each enlisted man on a commutation of rations status 50 cents. Under this arrangement about $179.00 was secured.

Sergeant Sandy Campbell, Company "C" was placed in direct charge under the general supervision of the regimental supply officer. All work incident to plowing, harrowing, planting and tilling the ground and harvesting the vegetables was done by soldiers of the regiment. The first distribution of produce was made on May 3rd. Sergeant Campbell remained in charge until he left this station about September 21, 1926, at which time he was succeeded by Sergeant Nelson Gilchrist, Company "L."

All types of vegetables and garden trucks were grown, radishes, onions, cabbages, lettuce, turnips, okra, peas, and peppers were produced in abundance. The practical wants of all subscribers to the operating fund were supplied. It is estimated that each of the five organization messes made a savings of $250.00 and individuals $50.00 each.

Having completed such a successful season, the operation of a regimental garden is past the experimental stage. While the regiment remains at this station providing vegetables at a small cost to its personnel will be one of the regular activities of the regiment.

Sergeant William F. Henderson, Company "A" 24th Infantry was presented on Thanksgiving day, November 25th, 1926, with the "Gent Silver Rifle." This rifle was given to Company "A" 24th Infantry last July by Captain William F. Gent, 24th Infantry, the Commanding Officer of Campany "A" of that regiment to stimulate interest and improve rifle markemanship in that organization. The right to possession of the rifle is awarded annually on the basis of ability demonstrated during the regular target practice. Having won the right to carry the rifle it remains in the possession of the winner until some other man of Company "A" makes a higher score in the yearly competition for that honor or the winner is discharged or for other reason leaves the Company. In these latter cases the rifle passes into the possession of the Company Commander. The factors of the competition are:

Highest score in the Company 7 points.
Expert rifleman 6 points.
Sharpshooter 4 points.
Marksman 2 points.
Highest at each range 5 points.
Bull's eyes 2 points.
Hits in the 4 ring 1 points.
Highest score in squad 5 points.
Highest Sergeant 5 points.

Improvement over last year's record, 1 point for each point of improvement In the case of recruits or man who did fire the previous year a basic score equal to the Company average of the previous year is given.

Sergeant Henderson won the rifle this year with a "point" score of 161 and a rifle marksmanship score of 306. His nearest competitor was Sergeant Joe Manual who has a "point" score of 131.

Captain Gent states that the competition has materially improved the shooting of Company "A," the average rifle marksmanship score per man being 12 points higher this year than last. The rifle itself is a regular service rifle with a highly polished wood stock. On each side of the stock is a silver plate. on one of which there is engraved the name of the winner, the score and year in which made, on the other, the name of the trophy and remarks incident to its donation. Having the honor of possessing the rifle, the winner is authorized to carry it at all ceremonies and parades.

Lieutenant Colonel Jason M. Walling, 24th Infantry made the presentation of the rifle to Sergeant Henderson with the following remarks, "A beautiful service rifle, such as this one, is a proper trophy for marksmanship competition. The rifle is the principal arm of the Infantry. To improve your abilities with the weapon with which you are armed is a proper and worthy accomplishment. To symbolize that improvement by competition for a rifle is appropriate. I am pleased with the record of Company "A" during the past target season. I want to congratulate you, Sergeant Henderson, in demonstrating the fact that you are the best qualified man of this company to have possession of the symbol of your profession as a soldier."

Preparations for Christmas dinners are being made in all 24th Infantry messes. According to present plans the menus will be fully complete. Turkey with all the "fixins" and the other "eats" of the day will be served.

Each unmarried soldier is allowed to invite one guest and each married man, his family to dine with him on that day. This proceedure is in keeping with the Christmas spirit—a gathering together of close friends and relatives at a well laden table. While not being able to supply the atmosphere of the home this arrangement provides a means of enabling the men of the regiment to observe one of the Christmas traditions—a big turkey feast and all the "trimmin's" eaten in company with ones dearest friends and relatives.

24th Infantry Performs Many Duties

The Twenty-fourth Infantry, is closing the year with a splendid record of achievement. The activities of the regiment have fallen into two classes, general utility and military training. A very large number of the activities at Fort Benning are made possible only through the services rendered by the 24th Infantry. Their work contributes to the comfort, happiness, and recreational features of the entire garrison. The range of duties of the enlisted men embraces all classes of service as shown by the tabulation given below. This allotment of tasks recites the garrison activities which are maintained, cared for, operated, or performed by 24th Infantry soldiers, and is as followeds: the Chaplain's office, Gowdy Baseball Field, care of animals assigned to the Infantry School, the gymnasium, Quartermaster construtcion projects, nightwatchman, janitor in office buildings and officers quarters, the tennis court, the logging camp, orderlies to commanding general and other officers, post exchange, the office of sanitary inspector, school teachers, the stadium, the swimming pool, the main theatre, drivers of trucks and animal-drawn vehicles, mail orderlies, service club, and garrison athletic contests.

While successfully performing these services, time has been found and utilized for military training and regimental athletics and other recreation activities. In fact the military training has been so satisfactory that Colonel Johnson will hold a competition in close order drill on December 23, 1926 to determine the best organization. The schedule of events will be as follows:

1. Companies will be marched by their company commanders to area North of 1st. Battalion Barracks at 1:15 p. m. and then formed in line as follows:
   1st Battalion—facing East.
   2nd. Battalion—facing South.
   3rd. Battalion—facing West.
   Competitions will be held within the area thus formed.

2. Uniform—O. D. Wool. With Arms. Guidons will not be carried except in consolidated company competition guidon of senior company will be carried.

General Rules

1. All movements to be executed in quick time.

2. All men carried available for drill on that date will enter all competitions.

3. Performance of movements only to count.

4. Order of Events—1st Rifle Company Platoons.
   2nd. M. G. Company Platoons.
   3rd. Consolidated Rifle Co.'s.

5. The sequence of performance of the various units has been decided by lot as follows: B, L, F, G, F, A, Hq., Serv., I, Machine Gun Companies—H, M, D, Consolidated Rifle Company Platoons 3rd. Battalion, 1st. Battalion and 2nd. Battalion.

6. (a) Rifle companies only will compete as platoons in the rifle platoon event. A combined Headquarters and Service Companies Platoon may enter this event.
   (b) The three machine gun companies will enter a separate platoon only.

Platoon Competition

1. The following procedure and execution of movements will govern.
   (a) From platoon in line, move forward and while marching form column to right or left and halt.
   (b) Execute right or left front into line.
   (c) Execute right or left turn, move forward and halt.
   (d) Form column to right or left, move forward, form line to right or left and halt.
   (e) Three other movements as directed by the judges.
   (f) Six movements in the Manual of Arms as directed by the judges.
   (g) Each platoon to be commanded by an officer of its company; if none available, then by senior non-commissioned officer.

Company Competition

I. The three rifle companies of each battalion will be consolidated into one company with three platoons. Company to be commanded by an officer of a rifle company; platoons by non-commissioned officers.

11. Movements including not to exceed six in Manual or Arms as directed by the judges.

III. AWARDS:
1. Pennant to best drilled platoon.
2. Steramer to each platoon of best drilled consolidated company.
3. Pennants and streamers so awarded to be carried on company guidons.

IV JUDGES:
Officers to judge the various events will be secured through the cooperation of the Commanding officer 29th Infantry, Colonel James B. Gowen, 29th Infantry. The assignment of judges is as follows:

1. Rifle company events.
   Captain H. E. Dager 29th Infantry.
   Captain J. H. Rustemyer 29 th Infantry.
   2nd. Lt. H. L. Boatner 29th Infantry. Alternate.
   Captain T. F. Wessels 29th Infantry.
2. Machine Gun company events.
   Captain W. A. Burress 29th Infantry.
   Captain E. G. Herlihy 29th Infantry.
   Captain A. D. Bruce 29th Infantry. Alternates.
   1st. Lt. R. A. Case 29th Infantry.
   2nd. Lt. R. G. Prather 29th Infantry.

Reviewing the past year's record Colonel Johnson stated at a recent formation of the regiment, as follows:

"The 24th Infantry has done good work. You have materially aided the whole Army through your service at the fountain head of Infantry instruction, The Infantry School. You have improved yourself through the military knowledge you have secured and the high standard of conduct you have maintained."

Excellent Cuisine at 24th Inf. Mess

If the adage "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" is true, Mess No. 5 of the 24th Infantry has an excellent cuisine. Sergeant Benjamin A. Thomas, company "M," of that regiment has gained 68 pounds in three months. He states that all of his meals have been at No. 5 mess and he has eaten at no other place. About the first of October he was feeling poorly and in an run down condition due to hard labor performed on target range in the hot sun but with the improvement of the quality of food under the new officer in charge, Captain Paul Leiber 24th Infantry, his appetite returned where formerly he weighed only 189 pounds he now tips the scales at 257.

Sergeant Thomas has been in the military service for 12 years and states his present mess is the best he has seen. At present he is on duty in charge of the janitor service of 33 buildings in Blocks No. 21 and 23, and has 26 men under his supervision. On the target range last year he qualified as pistol sharpshooter and second class machine gunner.

Enlisted Men's Dance

The enlisted men's dance of the 24th Infantry held Wednesday evening, December 8, 1926 was sponsored by "D" company of that regiment. All married non-commissioned officers and five privates from each company were invited to attend with their wives and lady friends. The party was held in the 24th Infantry Service Club, in which a new maple floor has been recently laid. This new floor adds greatly to the smoothness of the dancing and enables all more fully to enjoy the festivities of the evening. The music was furnished by the orchestra of the Service Company, which performed in its usual efficient fashion. At eleven o'clock p. m. light refreshments consisting of hot chocolate and sandwiches were served. About 300 persons were present and enjoyed the hospitality of the evening's host, Company "D," 24th Infantry.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NEARING ITS GOAL

The Chas. S. Harrison Post of the American Legion, is carrying all of its Objectives in its drive for new memberships. The second meeting of the "drive" committtees was held at Ft. Benning on last Tuesday night in Assembly Hall No. 1. It was by far the most successful meeting since the quest for new members was inaugurated some ten days ago, Before "H" hour, which was set for 8:00 p. m., at least 60 members were on hand, and at the jump-off time there were seventy-five or more eager legionaires, ready to go,

The roll call of the various committees, showed a tremendous gain in the number of members acquired. With-in two days after the beginning of the drive, Headquarters Co., and B., Co., both of the 15th Tank Battalion, reported 100 per cent membership. This is certainly a splendid record. The 29th Infantry reports 130 members, which is 30 per cent increase over their quota of last year. The Quartermaster Corps also reports a large increase in membership.

The meeting was opened by Capt. Paul Leiber, who officiated as Chairman. Col. Andrew J. Dougherty, of the refresher class, gave an interesting talk on the Legion in its various phases.

Mr. Adams, of Columbus, then discussed the Adjusted Compensation, its benefits and its uses, after which Commander Reeves made a few remarks pertaining to the Legion, of its missions and plans for the future. All of the talks were extremely interesting to those present.

The success of the drive in Fort Benning has been assured beyond shadow of doubt, but the Legion hereby proclaims that they have obtained only their first "objective," and that, with plenty of ammunition and pep, they are going over the top for all of the members in sight —and beyond.

All good and bad Legionaires, especially the bad, are hereby notified that "Assembly" will again be blown at 7:30 p. m. in front of Assembly Hall No. 1, Fort Benning, next Monday, to organize for its next advance towards the final goal.

COL. SINGLETON ADDRESSES BOYS' ORGANIZATION

Vocational guidance and training was the subject of an interesting half hour's talk given by Lt. Col. Asa L. Singleton before the members of the Employed Boys' Brotherhood Monday night at the Columbus Y. M. C. A., Col. Singleton declared that a man's first consideration in choosing a vocation laid in his debt to society and secondly himself.

That loyalty and dependability were prime requisites to success in any endeavor was the contention of the colonel who illustrated his point with incidents taken from his own experiences and those of men he had been thrown in contact with.

Charles M. Schwab once told Col. Singleton that $5,000 a year men were easy to find but that the hard thing to find was a man capable of earning $50,000 to $100,000 a year.

The colonel stated that the formula for success in adapting one's self to an occupation was skill plus knowledge plus the personal equation.

THE DRAFT CLERK

"Jinks is circuation manager of a magazine now."

"Why, he was only an office boy a year ago!"

"Yes, but now he has charge of all the windows, doors and electric fans."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

First Chorus Girl: "Four francs bought me this pretty hat in Paris."

Another: "That's nothing. One Johnnie bought me this lovely motor car in New York."

Place of meeting—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Date of next meeting—Monday Dec. 20th.
Time—2:15.

Christmas Spirit in song and story —that is what you will enjoy at the meeting of the Woman's Club on next Monday afternoon. The famous Carols of Christmas—the ones who know best and therefore love best we shall hear, and some we perhaps do not know so well, and solos in which master poet and musician have crystalized the wonderful beauty, joy, and sanctity of the season—such is Mrs. Edwin Butcher's plan for the music which will be a large part of the programme. And who could stand to miss the story—the very title of which floods one's mind with memories of Christmas past and anticipation of the one so near at hand?

"The Candle in the Window" Mrs. Frank Green will tell, and it does not need to be said that she will tell it well. She has the gift and the genorosity to share it with others. There will be very short talks on how Christmas is celebrated in other lands by people who have spent Christmas afar, and I am almost sure that a very gifted Violinist will play for us. And after the programme, a Christmas tea party!

The Literature Club met with Mrs. J C. Baker on last Monday and a most interesting study of the Literature of the Southern Mountaineer was presented. The serious study which gave back ground for the fiction and drama was given by Mrs. Keith in her review of Crawford's Southern Highlander and his Homeland. She knows the mountain folk first hand and author's record even more lucid.

The Time of Man—by Roberts—The Book-of-the-month, which has been discussed with so much interest because it is the first book of a hitherto unknown author, yet it handles a dreary, hopeless situation with such skilled artistry that the reading public, is eager for more from her pen—this novel, and Teeftallow by Stribling, were most excellently reviewed by Mrs. Ryder.

And then a Carolina Folk Play—"Doddgast Ye Both" (written and acted by the Carolina Play-Makers of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill)—was presented by a well-chosen cast under the leadership of Mrs. Cook. So well did the persons of the play read their lines that the audience was quite breathless when the old moonshiner and his helpers were caught in the trap set by that "dern revenuer" who was no revenue officer at all but a magazine writer, but who had to masquerade as one and beat them to their own game to win their respect and his mountain bride.

Mrs. Cooke gave a most interesting account of the work of these university students who as part of their English are writing, staging, and presenting these plays of the hill-folk. So meritorious is their work that it has attracted national notice, and thousands of people interested in drama were delighted when New York invited the Carolina Play-Makers to come to Broadway and present some of their plays last Spring.

The Child Study Club met with Mrs. Edwin T. Bowden on last Tuesday afternoon at which time Child's Play was given careful consideration. The proper kind of toys for the various ages of children was gone into from the physical and psychological point-of-view. Simple toys with which children can build to their liking for instance, large blocks made for young muscles not skilled in coordination were advocated, not the small ones of intricate design so often chosen—for small objects demand better muscular control and cause unnecessary strain for little folks. Ladders to climb, see-saws an dpaly things that any little fellow's Daddy could make for him, are for better than electric trains etc,, so often begun at tender ages and added to year after year. Of course everybody knows the trains are for Daddy himself as much as for Sonny. Let us buy wisely for our children and help them develop themselves in independence and initiative.

Quartermaster Corps

Corporal Dubanowski, foreman of the press room, was discharged Sunday, December 12th, but reenlisted the next day for three years. Corporal Dubanowski has been with the print shop for over four years. The Corporal surely knows a good outfit when he sees it.

Private Moses of the Linotype Department was discharged Tuesday, December 14th, and will return to his home in Erie, Penn. to some day command a fleet of Linotypes. The shop gang hate to see Private Moses leave, but we wisn him the best of luck.

For the information of all concerned —when in need of information for an eight color Christmas Menu, see Harry Smith.

UTILITIES DEPARTMENT

Our handsome young clerical assistant, Private A. N. Abercrombie, Q. M. C. will be happy this Christmas if none of the rest of us are. Santa Claus has already put into his stocking a fifteen day furlough, and he will be in New Orleans for the holidays.

TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

A Steam Shovel, Osgood Caterpillar Type, is now being repaired at the Roundhouse. When repairs are completed this shovel will be shipped to the Quartermaster, Disciplinary Barracks, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

"Better late than never"—The Central of Georgia Agency at Fort Benning have at last moved into their new station.

SUPPLY BRANCH

Property Office

The Property Branch has 100% representation in the American Legion Post 35.

Bussey has his Chevrolet broken in and is now running better than twenty per. Don't try to pass him on the highway.

Miss Ward is looking forward to the moment she will cast her blinkers on home soil this Christmas. She has been away from home nearly a year. That's something the ordinary girl can't do.

Perris says Christmas will be only December 25th with him unless he can attend family reunion on that day.

Jones is continually kicking on the food he gets at restaurants in Columbus. Girls! here is your chance, as he is weak and easy now. One good cooked biscuit may do the work.

LITTLE WILLIE

Little Willie is so cute,
Tried to eat a rubber boot.
Little Willie's far from well,
Rubber boot began to swell.
Little Willie's not elated;
Gee, he looks as if inflated!
And I'm fearing at this juncture.
Willies' due to have a puncture.

TWENTY-NINTH COLOR SERGEANT RETIRED

Noah Webster, the gentleman with the oversize vocabulary, insists that a wolverine is a strong limbed, carnivorous glutton and is an anomaly. Staff Sergeant Lansing Shewfelt, Service Co., 29th Inf., may not be carnivorous but he was a glutton for active service ever since that day in May, 1901, when he enlisted for Company "K," of the 29th Infantry, then stationed at its birthplace, Fort Sheridan, Ill.

A product of the Bay State, Michigan, Sgt. Shewfelt forcefully demonstrated to the American Army exactly what one of those "Critters," a dyed in the wool Wolverine can do in the way of soldiering. Sgt. Shewfelt retired from the 29th Infantry, the regiment he has served so faithfully last month, after over 30 years of "honest and faithful service." This period covers service in Europe, China, Panama Canal Zone and the Philippines.

He served under such distinguished officers as Maj. Gen. Robert H. Allen and Brig. Gen. Briant H. Wells, formerly school commandant, having known both generals for over 20 years.

Sgt. Shewfelt has known the sensation of wearing leather puttees with bars to match as he was an emergency officer during the World War serving with distinction in the Vosgoes sector and Meuse-Argonne drive. He was commissioned a second lieutenant shortly after the outbreak of hostilities, later rising, to a first lieutenant.

Sergeant Shewfelt, (Front) with 29th Infantry Colors

This Wolverine has an inordinate and internationally famous craving for the soldier's boon, tobacco. Back in the Philippines in 1908 at a period when the commissary supply was low a runner dashed in and told the quartermaster sergeant to be sure and save a package of smoking for "Dad" Shewfelt.

His record of service is as follows:

Enlisted May 4, 1901. Discharged May 5, 1904, as a private.

Served in Philippines with the 29th Infantry, Co. "K."

Enlisted Feb. 23, 1905, in Co. "K," 29th Inf. Served in U. S. Discharged as a corporal at Fort Douglas, Utah, June 4, 1907.

Enlisted Co. "K," June 5, 1907. Served in Philippines. Discharged as a first sergeant at East Haven, Conn., June 4, 1910.

Enlisted Co. "B," 15th Inf. Served in Philippines and China. Discharged as a sergeant at Fort MacDowell, Calif.

Enlisted Co. "G," 29th Inf., Jan. 9, 1914. Served in Panama. Discharged as a Sergeant at Camp Gaillard, C. Z.

Commissioned second lieutenant June 11, 1917. Promoted to first lieutenant Feb. 26, 1918. Discharged May 23, 1918. Served in U. S. and France.

Enlisted in the 29th Infantry June 14, 1919, and served with "M," "G," "H" and Service companies to June 13, 1922.

Enlisted June 13,1922, and discharged June 13, 1925.

Re-enlisted June 13, 1925, and was retired Oct. 25, 1926.

cers eliminated those dread diseases which, more than any other one factor, prevented earlier completion of this great work, and Army officers have always been appointed governors of the Panama Canal. This great project, one of the monumental works of man of all time, has proved a commercial success beyond all expectations. During the past year, the excess of revenues over costs of operation was close to $16,000,000.00.

War Department activities and functions extend into the field of colonial administration, for the Governors of Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands report to the Secretary of War, through the medium of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, headed by officers of the Army.

Over forty thousand soldiers of the Regular Army each month attend schools conducted by the Army, or engage in military duties which prepare them for specialized civilian pursuits upon completion of their terms of service. This makes the Army an important link in the educational system of the country. The Army affords instruction in specialized trades to thousands of youths, who, through force of financial circumstances, are unable to obtain such vocational education in civil life. Soldiers are being prepared for over 450 civil trades and professions. The range of this educational effort is most unusual. Bookkeepers and crane operators, chemists and dairymen, locomotive engineers and dental technicians, accountants and harness makers, radio operators and airplane engine mechanics, engravers and meterologists, are being trained today in the Army to the mutual benefit of the individual concerned and the country as a whole. There are over 26,000,000 horses and mules in the United States. Yet so far as known, the Army conducts the only schools for horseshoers and saddlers in this country.

The law which established the National Forest Reservation Commission bears Mr. Weeks' name. The Weeks' law was enacted while Mr. Weeks was a Representative from Massachusetts, twelve years before he assumed the duties of president of this commission by virtue of holding the office of Secretary of War. The establishment of national forests in the eastern states was a subject in which Mr. Weeks was deeply interested throughout his public career. In 1926, under the provisions of the Weeks' law, 178,000,000 acres of privately owned land are being protected from fire. Nearly 3,000,000 acres have been acquired for eastern national forests, of which almost one-half million acres are located in the White Mountains of New England.

Mr. Weeks believed in the Army; he wanted the country to appreciate the efforts of the Army not only in times of war but in days of peace. He was of the opinion that the peace-time attainments of our Army had never been fully realized by the citizens of the United States. He strove constantly to bring to the people a greater appreciation of the value of what he was wont to call "by-products of national defense." His address on this subject before the Boston Chamber of Commerce in 1922 was a revelation to the country.

In this and subsequent public addresses, Mr. Weeks demonstrated that throughout its history the Army had out-pioneered the pioneers. The United States Army blazed the early trails and protected the settlers as they moved westward through the wilderness. Army officers constructed the Cumberland Pike, the early canals, such as the Erie and the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the first lighthouses. The Boston and Albany Railroad, which serves this city, was located, constructed and managed by officials of the War Department. The New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad, and the Boston and Providence Railroad, which have been so inseperably linked with the prosperity of the New England States, were the work of Army engineers. In more recent years Army medical personnel has cleared the tropical dependencies of the dread diseases of yellow fever and typhus.

By his military associates, John Wingate Weeks was considered one of the greatest of our Secretaries of War. He assumed office at a most critical time for the national defense. With amazing skill and forethought he directed the re-organization of the Army after the World War. He inspired confidence in an army faced with all the disillusionments common to post-war days. He strove earnestly and successfully to bring the military and civil worlds into more intimate touch. He established a cordiality of relationship between Congress and the War Department which probably had never been surpassed. In the organization of the War Department on a peace-time basis, his military experience at Annapolis and in the Navy was of inestimable value, as was his wide knowledge of finance, government, and above all, human nature.

In his administration of the War Department, Mr. Weeks faced many problems which demanded careful attention and thought by even a man of his superior business judgment. He initiated policies for the disposition of the surplus of World War supplies, adjustment of war claims, and rehabilitation of Army posts through the sale of surplus realty. He consistently opposed the needless intervention of government in private business, but advocated business principles in government. To the Federal Power Commission, Muscle Shoals, the Panama Canal and the Inland Waterways Corporation, he gave unstinted time and attention. Though he realized the limitations of his strength, he made personal visits of inspection to the most important projects.

I have but briefly touched upon the peace-time activities of the War Department and the Secretary of War. These many and various problems Mr. Weeks attacked vigorously and with consummate skill. No matter how great the pressure of business, he remained at all times calm, sedate and serene. His associates, military and civil, succumbed to his charm of manner and yielded to his far-seeing judgment. When his health forced his relinquishment of his Cabinet portfolio, sympathy and regret were nation-wide. Few departmental chiefs in so short a space of years had so impressed themselves upon their associates and received such sincere affection. Mr. Weeks loved the Army; the Army loved Mr. Weeks. The abiding and loyal affection of such a great number of citizens for their departed chief is the most fitting monument to his memory.

the amount spent on supplies, such as tobacco, medicine, socks, etc., and for the amount deposited in the bank.

When he enters the service the soldier is given a manual, the contents of which he must commit to memory. One of the opening passages reads:

"Living, to be overwhelmed with the innumerable and immeasurable blessings of Imperial Goodness; dead, to become one of the guardian Dieties of the country and as such to receive unique honors in the temple."

The Japanese have always realized that the Infantry is "the Army," and the Japanese Infantry is far superior to any other branch of the service, with the possible exception of the field artillery, which has been vastly improved in the past three years. The Infantry comes first in everything, particularly in the matter of monetary appropriations, and since the Russo-Japanese War its prestige and place in the affection of the Japanese have not been approached by any of the other arms.

Japanese soldiers equipped for the field

The tactics of the Japanese are based on the assumption that their Infantrymen (and by Infantrymen they mean the bayonet-men) are superior as individual fighting men to any other soldiers in the world. They assume that their system of training, and preeminently their system of bayonet training, develops the fighting powers of their Infantrymen to the highest possible degree. The mechanical superiority of other armies they hold in open contempt, but they are leaving no stones unturned in their efforts to become more efficient in the use of mechanical equipment. They maintain, however, that mechanical superiority in itself leads to inferiority of the individual fighting man, and in him they place their chief reliance.

ANCIENT POLO PLAYERS USED SKULLS OF ENEMIES FOR POLO BALLS

Few among the many Columbusites, who now regularly motor out to Benning each Sunday afternoon to see the polo games, realize that they are witnessing a game that has been played about 2000 years. The Ancient Persians are supposed to have originated the game and used the heads of their defeated enemies in place of the bamboo root ball new used.

The Tartar tribes picked up the game from the Persians and spread it to Tibet, China, and India. In Tibet the game was named Pulu, which means a ball made of willow, this being used by the Tibetians instead of an enemy's skull. That the game was, even then, a kindly sport, is attested to by ancient works of art that have come down to us and which depict various ginks and leaders of ancient Asiatic tribes and countries, as engaged in the game. The sticks and ponies of the ancients, depicted thereon, are very similar to those in use today. The picturesque cork Helmets of today, however, are missing. These are a modern invocation, introduced into the game by the British in India.

The British Colonists and the army in India adopted the game during the nineteenth century and played it on the plains of India. About the time of our Civil War the game was brought to England by the army and immediately became popular. After the Civil War the game was brought to America by some enthusiastic sportsmen and riders.

The English were considered unbeatable at the game until 1909, when a hard riding, hard hitting, American team invaded England and brought home the International Cup. America won again in 1911 and in 1913. England regained the championship in 1914, having now adopted the aggressive and elastic team play and stratesy of their American opponents.

After the war, when International games were resumed, America again won in 1921, and proved their right to hold the cup for another three years by winning again in 1924. The next International Match will be in 1927 and the growth of polo in the army, in colleges and universities, and among civilian country and hunt clubs indicates that the United States intends to retain International champsionship in Polo, in addition to the assorted list of other world championships now held. It will no doubt occur to readers, who have never seen the game, to wonder why polo has lasted, practically unchanged in form, from ancient times until now, and is finding increasing favor today in the eyes of both players and spectators.

The popularity with the spectators may be explained, possibly, by the fact that first of all the game is decidedly spectacular and involves the thrills and dangers of many of the sports that thrilled the people of ancient times, such sports as chariot racing, gladiatorial combats on horseback, and feats of horsemanship. The average American spectator likes his favorite sports rough and to feel that danger hovers sufficiently near at all times to prevent boredom. Certainly Polo, with it's kaleidoscopic changes, the hard riding and hitting, together with the possibility of falls of rider or horse, is guaranteed to give the spectator all the thrills desirable in one afternoon. Next to the drawing power of its spectacular nature, is found the love of horses, especially horses in action, attracts many people. It is no wonder that horse-lovers find the game interesting, for polo not only requires nerve and hard-riding, but demands the best of horsemanship on the part of the player and the best efforts of the intelligent little animal under him.

comfortable looking farm buildings. The tired troops found the best shelter they could in the gathering darkness and many of them sought doubtful comfort in the tortous angles and corners of an old rail fence. A group of these tough old veterans, huddled togehter in a corner of the fence for greater warmth, were growling and grumbling over the hardness of their lot, as is the way of soldiers the world over. One of them, noticing the cheerful glow in the window of a nearby farmhouse, observed to his shivering companions, "I'll bet a month's pay that 'Old Rock' is fixed up mighty comfortable up in that farmhouse."

"You're a liar, sir," came the stern tones of a well-known voice out of the darkness. "I'm right here in the next fence corner."

And in that brief interchange of bivouac repartee between shivering, famished private and equally cold and hungry General there is the key to the whole character of the man—who was known to his superiors as Brigadier General Benning, an officer who could be depended upon to lead his brigade of Georgia doughboys wherever the fortunes of battle called for them;—the man who was known to his devoted followers as "Old Rock;" the rugged, indomitable leader who broke camp with them in the cold gray light of dawn on innumerable battlefields, and then—mounting his old grey horse—led them into the thick of the fight; exemplifying by his fine courage and unheasitating leadership the spirit that gave birth to the doughboy watchword, "Follow Me."

And then came Appomatox—and one of the proudest boasts of Benning's brigade was that they could stand solidly behind their beloved "Old Rock," on that stricken field; in tattered rags, but orderly ranks, sadly depleted it is true by four years of constant warfare; but ready in that hour of disaster as they had been ready through the years of struggle, to answer with their General, "All present or accounted for!"

After the war General Benning returned to the banks of the Chattahoochee and resumed the practice of law in the city of Columbus. And here the Grim Reaper found him, when on July 10th, 1875, he was called to meet his Maker, leaving behind him a host of sorrowing friends.

General Benning's only son, Seaborn Jones Benning, was a student at the Georgia Military Academy when the war broke out and was commissioned a lieutenant of the First Georgia Regulars, afterward attaining the rank of Captain. Captain Benning received a severe wound during the war from which he contracted tuberculosis and died. Of the General's direct descendants resident in Columbus, Georgia, there remain only Miss Mary Benning, Miss Anna Caroline Benning, and Mrs. Reese Crawford with her son, Mr. Henry Benning Crawford.

As the soft haze of history spreads over the eventful annals of the sovereign State of Georgia and the names of lesser men recede from view; the name of General Benning should but shine with an added lustre—the sterling worth of the man should but become the more apparent. Without these forensic gifts of rounded rhetoris and glittering declamation — for the General was not an eloquent man—he nevertheless quitted the State University an honor graduate; became one of the most able jurists of the South; and gained an enviable name as a Judge of the State Supreme Court; and then he donned the rough habiliments of the soldier and went forth to fight the good fight and inspire his followers with the unbeatable spirit that made them the "Immortal Seventeenth."

What then could have been more meet and right than that the School for the Infantry—set down in the Heart of Dixie—should have been named for one of Dixie's most doughty doughboys—a soldier upon whose name every Infantryman can well look with pride and respect as a fitting example of the personfied doctrine of disciplined leadership.

TRY YOUR WITS ON A FEW QUESTIONS THE CHILDREN ASK

Why does a ball bounce?
Why do the leaves change color?
What is the sun made of?
Why has water no taste?
Why is yawning catching?

ARE these questions really easy? Could you answer them correctly and clearly, so that a child would understand? Or, if you were cornered, would you hesitate and fumble and say in rueful despair, "Oh don't ask foolish questions!"

The child who is made to feel that his questions are trivial or unimportant will presently stop asking, and will lose interest in learning.

In more than a million homes

The Book of Knowledge is the children's rich mine of information on all the topics that interest them. They find each question answered clearly, vividly. Again and again the child's curiosity pushes open the door to new fields of knowledge, and he is guided step by step, from the simplest ideas and facts to the most profound truths.

The BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

The Children's Encyclopedia

based on questions asked by children every day

Here is all the really essential knowledge of the world—Nature with the animals, birds, fishes, insects, trees and flowers; the history, manners and customs of a hundred different countries; the worlds in the skies and the teeming life of the waters; science; invention; manufactures; literature; art; things to make and do; games and playtime activities. Children read The Book of Knowledge for hours at a time, completely absorbed. Every page teaches them something they want to know.

There are fifteen thousand striking educational pictures in gravure, in the true colors of Nature and in halftone—every picture a shortcut to a fact. The lessons they teach live, clear and distinct, in the memory.

Helps school work

Children who have The Book of Knowledge stand high in their grades at school. They learn to think for themselves, and can give clear and intelligent answers in class. They have made a long start in the race for knowledge.

GYMKHANA PROVES INTERESTING TO LARGE AUDIENCE

Fort Horsemen Display Fine Form in Polo and Novelty Events.

The gymkhana Saturday afternoon on Shannon Field provided good sport and much amusement for a large crowd of thoroughly interested Benningites. The program, under the direction of a committee headed by Captain Pleas B. Rogers, 24th Infantry, went through from start to finish without a hitch.

There were tests of skill for the polo-ists of the four Benning clubs and there were a number of novelty events that tickled the visibilities.

The Gunners of the 83rd Field Artillery won the high point score in the polo events with a total of 12 points, closely pressed by the 29th Infantrymen with 11.

Perhaps the feature event of the afternoon was the Pair Obstacle race. In this race an officer and a lady composed each pair. Starting from scratch the pairs rode to a large paulin where the officer dismounted and crawled under the paulin while the lady led his mount to the other side. Then they continued to a narrow railing. Here the officer dismounted and walked the rail for a distance of thirty feet. Then to bob for apples, thence to stand to consume six soda crackers, dismount, proceed to the finish line and whistle a tune recognizeable by the judge, Captain E. B. Whisner, and Mrs. Brandis were the winners after an exciting struggle.

The best description of this event was that overheard by a correspondent while returning from the meet. One soldier was explaining it to a comrade who had not been present. He said "Boy' they sure did go after the apples in the tub. Some ducks! But when they came to the finish and had to whistle! They would stretch their necks, but not a sound—just cracker crumbs."

SINGBAD SHOW OF GLEE CLUB TWICE PLEASES GARRISON

Last Weeks Performances Among Best Ever Given by Benning Talent.

The two performances of Singbad the Sailor on the evenings of December 17th and 18th were great successes. They were attended by a large percentage of the garrison personnel. The music was tuneful, the settings done by Lieutenant Grubb were particularly colorful and the performance of the caste was excellent.

Captain Saulnier, as the wandering Singbad, was in excellent voice and his business delighted the audience. Mrs Karlstad made a truly regal Queen Gulnara, and her singing was loudly appauled. Capt. Tharp surely looked the part of the court magician.

Perhaps the feature of the show was the fine work of the choruses, and ballets. The Soldier ballet, composed of the comliest of the Fort young ladies, was called back time after time, and the Kindergarten Ballet, of very small misses, also drew many encores.

Captain Geo. L. King, musical director, the members of the caste and executive staff, and the efficient theater personnel are all to be congratulated upon a most creditable performance.

KELLYS EXTENDED TO DEFEAT BUDDIES IN INTERESTING GAME

Newcomer to 1st Battalion Throws Scare in Garrison Champions.

The Kellys, as has become habitual with them, defeated their regimental comrades from the First Battalion in last Saturdays opener of the garrison football league, but before the final whistle blew with the 2nd Battalion leading 33 to 13, and on the verge of coutning another six-pointer, there was excitement aplenty for all hands and the cook. Most of it was contributed by a newcomer to garrison football, one Taylor, a sandy haired youngster who doesn't stay long in the same place when he once tucks the swine's epidermis under his arm and set out for the opposing goal line.

This young gentlemen, not then out of the recruit center, and with only two days' practice with his comrades, entered the fray just after the 2nd Battalion had scored its third touchdown of the first half and had brought the score to 19 to 0. There were only three minutes left to play before the mid-game intermission. And yet when the whistle blew the score was 19 to 13, and the 13 points were largely the result of the efforts of the Mr. Taylor. His contribution to

GUNNERS HOLD TERRIBLE TANKERS TO SMALL SCORE IN GOOD GAME

Penalties Spoil Scoring Chances of Caterpillar Conductors in 7-3 Game.

A touchdown by Sweeney after a sustained advance up the field, and an extra point added thereafter by the toe of Bennett, overcame the three point margin gained by the 83rd Field Artillery on Schulte's 29-yard dropkick in the second quarter, and enabled the Caterpillar Conductors to keep pace with their rivals from the 2nd Battalion.

The men from the Tanks were expected to win by a much larger score than this, but several gallant stands by the Gunners, and many penalties kept them at bay with the exception of their single scoring drive. On a number of occasions the Tankers swept to within a few yards of the goal line, but just couldn't put it across.

The first period was scoreless, with the Tankers doing all the gaining that was done. The Artillery attack failed to function either on the ground or through the air. Schulte's fine kicking kept the ball away from the danger zone time after time.

A recovered fumble gave the Gunners their chance in the second quarter and when three plays failed to advance the ball, Clyde Schulte dropped back and booted a perfect field goal from the 29 yard line.

Immediately after the following kick-off the Caterpillar Conductors swept almost the length of the field for their six-pointer, Sweeney contributed the last few yards of the advance, with Mlynczak contributing some nice line plunging.

For the Gunners the defensive work of Lapine and the kicking of Schulte featured. The entire Tank team did well on defense, and Mlynczak and Sweeney carried the burden of the attack.

the first touchdown scored by the 1st Bats against the Kels in the past three years, was a 22 yard dash through a broken field, three of four linebucks that netted from 2 to 9 yards each, and the reception of a pretty toss from Van Grofski which completed the 72 yard advance of the 1st Bats and marked six large points on the scoreboard. His assistance in the second six-pointer was a 58-yard gallop in which he simply outran his field. A pass Van Grofski to Allen actually scored the tally after Taylor had been downed on the Kelly's 8 yard mark.

The 1st Battaion fought desperately throughout the game, but simply couldn't stop the versatile and powerful attacks directed by Kjelstrom. Slants off tackle and sweeping end runs were skillfully mixed with drives at the line and cleverly executived forward passes. Oikari, Thompson and the Kel himself were the principal ground gainers with Fat Franz and High Davis catching passes in wonderful fashion. The line had considerable trouble handling the boys from the 1st Battalion in the early stages of the game, but in the second half was working well.

Taylor's unexpected appearance and flashing attack provided the spectacular phase of the contest, but the defensive work of Van Grofski, 1st Battalion, was the real feature of the afternoon. Talk about Custer's Last Stand, and the Defense of Bazeilles-Van Grofski was both of them. It wouldn't be a bad bet that Van made eighty percent of all his team's tackles. Almost every time a Kelly runner was brought to earth, Van Grofski was found twined round his legs. He bore the heat and burden of the day, and though his team took the count, he was unquestionably the outstanding player on the field.

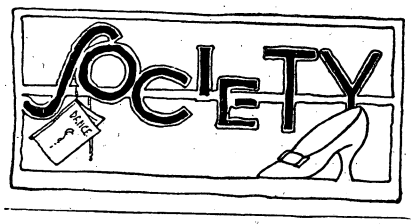
CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

from

POST EXCHANGE

Fort Benning, Ga.



General and Mrs. Edgars T. Collins were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dismukes and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Jordan at the second performance of the Glee Clubs Operatta.

The regular monthly meeting of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club was held Monday evening, December 13, 1926, at the 24th Infantry officers club. About 50 present and former officers of that regiment with their wives attended. Eleven tables of bridge and one of mah jongg were required to entertain the assembly.

Mrs. Ernest T. Jones and Mrs. Edward E. Walker were the hostesses. Prizes for highest scores obtained were given. The lady, who was the most fortunate, was awarded a brass sandwich plate. This was won by Mrs. Frederick Doll, while the next woman's trophy was a porcelain flower bowl, which was secured by Mrs. Wallace Brier. The highest man's score was that of Captain L. S. Steel, 24th Infantry. He received a pair of gold plated uniform ornaments. His nearest competitor was Colonel Jason M. Walling, 24th Infantry, who was given a uniform hat cord. The mah jongg prize was won by Mrs. Jason M. Walling and consisted of a set of parfait glasses.

Mrs. Wait C. Johnson returned to the garrison last Friday after an extended visit to friends residing in the northern states. She left on the 19th of last November to be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. P. L. Miles, 2nd Infantry, who are stationed at Fort Sheridan near Chicago, Ill. While there she attended the Army and Navy game. Speaking of this contest Mrs. Johnson said: "the crowd was immense, the excitement tremendous, the game full of thrills. In fact it was so captivating and so interesting that I completely forgot to observe the latest styles."

After the game Mrs. Johnson went to Governor's Island, N. Y., where she visited Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Henry W. Fleet, Infantry. Referring to her trips to New York City she said: "I saw so many pretty dresses and spent so much time shopping that I hardly knew what to select. I like the new styles very much, even though the dresses are exceedingly short."

Upon the completion of her visit near the metropolis, Mrs. Johnson spent the remainder of her absence from her family and friends at this station with Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon, wife of General Kennon, deceased, who resides at Washington, D. C.

Captain and Mrs. James William Howder, Lt. and Mrs. Walter A. Stetler, and Lt. and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins entertained about four hundred guests from the post and Columbus at the Officers Club Hop Room on the evening of December 17th, at one of the most charming of the early holiday dances. The ball room was decorated in Christmas greens and refreshments were served from tables garlanded with holly and mistletoe. Several members of the cast of Singbad The Sailor attended in costume after the performances.

The many friends of Miss Katharine Kingman who have been distressed by the news of her injury will be glad to hear that she is progressing satisfactorily. Miss Kingman suffered a severe concussion when she was thrown from her horse on Sunday afternoon December 19th and is at present at the Post Hospital.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Cocheu entertained with a dinner party at their quarters before the Hop at Biglerville on Thursday evening.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Brier entertained a number of the cast of Singbad at an informal supper party after the second performance.

* * *

The Medical Corps Bridge Club met with Mrs. Hall on December 20th for a delightful evening entertainment. The first prize was won by Mrs. Dale. Mrs. Childs took second and Mrs. Manuel the third.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Edward Turgeon entertained the members of the Q. M. Bridge Club and several additional guests at bridge on Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Sproule and Colonel Warfield.

* * *

The Tea-Dance to have been given by Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Kingman and Miss Katharine Kingman on the afternoon of December 24th has been indefinitely postponed on account of the accident to Miss Kingman.

* * *

Mrs. Ralph Hueber enterained delightfully several tables of bridge on Tuesday afternoon. A number of guests came in for tea after the game.

* * *

The Christmas Dinner Dance given by the Officers Club on December 23rd at Biglerville, proved to be one of the most original and attractive affairs of the festive season. The hall was decorated with green boughs, small pine trees and Christmas bells. The hostess of each party was presented with individual favors for each guest which added much to the gaiety and enjoyment of all. Among those entertaining at dinner before the hop were Major and Mrs. R. A. Hill, Capt. and Mrs. Partridge, Major andMrs. W. A. Pickering, Lt. and Mrs. W. P. Shepard, Major and Mrs. Roberts, Captain and Mrs. A. J. Knight, Captain and Mrs. Freehoff, Captain and Mrs. W. B. Weston, Lt. R. G. Prather, Major and Mrs. Tack, Lt. J. A. Otto, Captain P. V. Kellogg, Captain and Mrs. M. E. Olmstead, Lt. S. M. Prouty, Major and Mrs. E. B. Spiller, Captain Gray and Captain and Mrs. Lopez.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Harold S. Kelly entertain at bridge several tables of visiting girls and bachelor officers, on Monday evening. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Kelly will again entertain at bridge honoring Mrs. Philip Gallagher, a former Columbus girl who, has recently returned from China with her husband Lt. Philip Gallagher. Lt. and Mrs. Gallagher are spending the holidays, the guests of Mrs Gallagher's parents Mr. and Mrs. Slate of Columbus.

* * *

Miss Betty Gowen is the guest of her parents Colonel and Mrs. James B. Gowen. She will return to college in Baltimore about Jan. 3.

* * *

Cadet John Helms, a student at V. M. I. returned to the post early in the week to spend his Chirstmas leave with his parents Colonel and Mrs. George Helms.

* * *

Miss Mary Rivere is visiting Lt. and Mrs. Hudson. She will return to Agnes Scott college after the holidays.

RETREAT

Who has stood Retreat without feeling that he is participating in one of the most inspiring of army ceremonies.

My memory takes me back to Plattsburg in 1917, a member of the Provisional Training Regiment. I stand with others facing west as the sun sinks below the peaks of the Adirondacks. The band "sounds off," we are brought to attention and the clear notes of Retreat float over the Parade. At the last note the regiment is presented, a moment of silence; even nature seems to cease its turmoil in reverence of the occasion. Then, to the soft notes of the Star Spangled Banner, Our Flag is lowered.

As if in a last effort to brighten the world and add to the splendor of the occasion, the setting sun paints the sky in colors no artist can mix. And, as I watch the flag being slowly lowered to the arms of those who tenderly and reverently receive it, never has it seemed so beautiful. Rippling softly in the caressing breeze the blood-red stripes intermingle with those of spotless white. The field of deep blue with its representative star for each state of our glorious Union. A feeling of pride comes over me, unconsciously my shoulders go back, my head a bit more erect and the hands that hold my rifle tighten their grasp. Never do I stand Retreat without experiencing the same feelings, never does the splendor of its memories fade.

God grant that if ever our Flag is endangered I may be found fit to do my share in its defense. —A Stewgent

MONOGRAPHS

The monographs on military activities given by officers of the 24th Infantry to officers of that regiment are very instructive. On Friday, December 10, 1926, Captain A. L. Hamblen spoke on, "British Campaign in Irak." In order to orient his audience he briefly related the history and described geographical characteristics of Mesopotamia, laying particular emphasis on the blighting effect of Turkish control over the country. Then speaking of military operations of the World War conducted in that region, Captain Hamblen explained the tactical and political factors involved in the British campaigns. The difficulties of General Townsend and his successor, General Maud, in operating on the Euphrates river were described somewhat in detail. The cardinal thought connated was an appreciation of the fighting qualities of the Turkish soldier, especially when on the defensive.

Of the many things of interest to the average Army officer, riding horses are among the foremost. Captain Pleas B. Rogers, 24th Infantry, on Monday, December 13, 1926, gave a very interesting and comprehensive lecture at the Infantry School corral on "Types and Breeds of Riding Animals." By way of illustrating his comments, different types of horses were examined. The good and faulty points of each were discussed. The general requirements of a good riding horse was covered in considerable detail. Captain Rogers then explained the different kinds, breeds and types now used in the American Army and the function of each.

The difficulties of field operations in Panama were presented with great clearness by Captain C. L. Steel, 24th Infantry in his monograph entilted "A Tactical Reconnaisance in Panama," which was delivered to officers of the regiment on the 6th of the current month. The problem of providing a proper and adequate defense for the Panama Canal is of interest to all American citizens, more particularly so to those of the Naval and Military establishments. To the armed forces falls the task of establishing and maintaining the required protection of the Canal from foreign foes. Army officers are further concerned, as in time of peace many of them will perform service in the Canal Zone.

The first phase of the monograph consisted of a general description of the geography, flora, and fauna of the Republic of Panama and the Canal Zone. The rugged nature of the country with its types of vegetation varying according to the altitudes was briefly described. Emphasis was placed upon the nature of the terrain as an accurate knowledge of it is necessary before any campaign there can be planned. A brief resume of the causes leading up to the reconnaisance was then given. The chief reason being the desire to obtain minute data pertaining to the coast line and jungle area adjacent to the Canal. A need which was disclosed by the joint Army and Navy maneuvers 1923-1924. The last division of the subject was a description of the trip itself. Captain Steel told many interesting incidents happening to the scouting and mapping parties operations in the virgin forests. He closed his lecture with an account of the results obtained, among which were complete costal data, maps, and trail reports of the territory extending 30 miles each side of the canal.

I am married and live in Columbus, Georgia, and am trying to raise a family on my pay as a sergeant. I have tried every way I know of to save enough money to buy an automobile. Do you think a budget would help me?

SGT. PHIL A. STRATE.

Dear Phil:

We are sorry that you have not been able to buy an automobile. However, we know quite a number of soldiers who get along very well with Fords.

You ask if we think a budget will help you. We don't believe anything will help you except a miracle.

Dear Ad:

We had an argument in the Day Room the other day and want you to settle a question for us. The question is: What is the correct position of the 1st Sergeant at Guard Mount?

Dear Willie:

This is a question that was settled many years ago; but for some very good reason it was never included in the Training Regulations.

The only correct position for a First Sergeant at Guard Mount is in an Arm Chair in the Orderly Room with his feet on a Desk.

Partons of the Springer theatre are awaiting with keen interest the season's greatest dramatic event in the forthcoming presentation of the pictured "Ben-Hur." The fame of this work is already wide after a season's crowded run in New York and highly successful special runs in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. The picture is based on General Lew Wallace's novel and stage play of the same title, enhanced by all the wondrous resources of the motion picture art of which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in association with A. L. Edlanger, C. B. Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., took fuil advantage.

Why Worry About A Car?

You either own one or you don't. You always have two alternatives. If you don't there is nothing to worry about, except getting one. If you do, you have two alternatives; either you insure it or you do not.

If you insure it you don't need to worry. If you don't, there are two alternatives; either you sustain an accident or you don't. If you don't, you needn't worry. If you do there are two alternatives; either you get damages, or you pay the other fellow. You have two alternatives each way. You either get paid by him or you don't. If you do, you're lucky. If you don't, you may sue. If you don't get a judgment, you're out of luck; if you do, he may have nothing you can attach and you're still out of luck. If you pay his damages, no need to worry. If you don't, he may sue you. If he loses, thats his worry. If he wins——.

Have you cash to pay the judgment of damages? If you have, you're lucky. If you have not, are you judgment-proof? Can he collect? These are the answers to the last two questions, no alternatives available. If you are in the Services, No to the first, and Yes to the second. Better let us pay for you.

CHILDRENS SCHOOL

The children of Fort Benning School have succeeeded in having the Fort placed on the Santa Claus main line for Christmas spirit has been increasing and the festivities and ceremonies of the past week have impressed Santa Claus general staff that the Post children must have special attention Christmas eve and on the happy morning.

At the school pictures of Santa Claus, of his reindeer, Christmas trees holly and everything have so advertised the coming of the important visitor that not one of the children can possibly be overlooked by him.

Capt. Doll, manager of the post theatre took a big hand in the celebration and invited the children of the school to the strength of about 140,—to be his guests at the theatre Tuesday afternoon. It is reported that Santa Claus' scouts were greatly pleased with the happiness of the children in appreciation of Capt. Doll's thoughtfulness, as they marched in close formation from the school to the theatre. Capt. Doll always seems to have just the right entertainment for his patrons and he had "Tom and his Pals' for the boys and girls. And no other audience could have caught the humor of the picture more enthusiastically than the chilren of Benning.

There was also an "Our Gang" comedy which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the little folk, some of whom were attending the movies for the first time in there young lives. And then Captain Doll's big police dog did some wonderful tricks in obedience to commands from his master, which of course delightd the kiddies.

On Wednesday the teachers of the school gave the pupils a Christmas party at the Hop hall. Santa Claus' Scouts were also present here and could not find anything but real happiness and good behavior. Tom Huston Manufacturing Co., donated 200 bags of the famous Tom's Toasted peanuts. Santa Claus Scouts found them so well liked and so healthful that they are going to recommend them being served children and grown-up all over the world as soon as Tom can make that many.

Chapalin McKenna has been active in the Christmas preparations of the school and has co-operated with Miss Grimes, principal, and her staff in seeing that Fort Benning is made a divisional headquarters where Santa Claus may possibly change reindeer before setting out for Florida and other points south.

The school will close on Wednesday afternoon for the holidays and everybody will wish everybody else a Merry Christmas and a Bright and Happy New Year.

Children Under 12—10c
Daily Including Sunday.

FRIDAY DEC. 24

"Splendid Road," featuring Anna Neilson, Linonel Barrymore and Robert Frazier in a western romance of a woman pioneer in the days of the gold hunt. The plot is laid in California in the days of '49, where crime and disorder were rampant.

"Tonights the Night."—Cameo comedy.

SATURDAY DEC. 25

"Kid Boots," starring Eddie Cantor with Clara Bow, Billy Dove and Lawrence Gray. This a Paramount drama, spicily sprinkled with comedy and bound by the threads of a good romance. The Golf links, the bathing beach and classy dinners feature in the play.

"Good Cheer," by Our Gang, the clever youngster crowd that children love, laugh at and giggle till their sides ache.

SUNDAY DEC. 26

"Men of Steel," a gigantic production featuring Milton Sills with Dorothy Kenyon. Its back ground is the tremendous steel industry of Pittsburg. The picture is a touching drama of love and courage amid the heat and turmoil of the worlds greatest mills where silvery vapors arise over the white hot overflow of molten steel from vast caldrons. One year was consumed in making this picture. Film stars actually suffered in their surroundings, and many risks of life were taken. It is powerful, awe inspiring and keenly interesting from a dramatic as well as an educational standpoint.

"The Bumper Crop" Fables.
"Kinograms"

MONDAY DEC. 27

"The Golden Strain,"—a Peter B. Kyne story in which the cast is headed by Madge Bellamy and Kenneth Harton. The famous 10th U. S. Cavalry and Apache Indians, form a thrilling military background for this strong romance. In addition to interesting the general public, it will particularly appeal to War veterans and boy scouts. It is red blooded, full of action and is romantically appealing.

"His Marriage Vow," A Langdom comedy.

TUESDAY DEC. 28

Viola Dana in a drama of the steeple chase. Every race track story that has been screened at this station has been a marked success. This story promises the thrill that turns a fashionable crowd into a howling bedlam.

"He Done His Best," Whirlwind comedy.

WEDNESDAY DEC. 29

"Flaming Fury," featuring Ranger the remarkable Police Dog in a powerful tale of a great animal's love and devotion, and how it was ill repaid, causing him to balance the scales by becoming a killer. He was feared throughout the Canadian North woods for his cunning and skill, until the suspense moment when heredity and training overcame the call of the wild in him and he performed his noble task of saving a girl's life.

"Bill Grimm's Process No. 5."

THURSDAY DEC. 30

"It Must Be Love," starring the attractive Colleen Moore in her fourth feature picture. This is a drama of laughter and tears in which an American girl, in her truly American way, does all the things that a real American girl is guilty or proud of.

"Pathe News."

FRIDAY DEC. 31

"The Border Whirlwind." A Bob Custer feature of love and daring, tender wooing and quick fire shooting. It is the story of a hero who wins the belle of the "border" and bests the man who was thought by all, invincible.

"Pathe News."

TWENTY-NINTH TO REWARD ATHLETES

(By Geo. R. Becker)

Every day in every way the army is growing more collegiate. The latest wrinkle in military circles which may be traced directly to the influence of the campus is the instituting of the custom of giving letters on sweaters for prowess in athletic events in the Twenty-ninth Infantry at Fort Benning.

Sweaters decorated with appropriate letters will be awarded the men for proficiency in regimental sports including soccer, football, swimming, wrestling, boxing, basketball and baseball. Only members of champion teams and individual champions will be given sweaters.

Battalion champions in regimental athletic sports and competitions will be awarded banners. Companies will be given cups for prowess in sports.

The sweaters to be awarded will be black with the numerals '29" in six inch dimensions with three inch letters in white for baseball, basketball, wrestling, swimming and football and three inch letters in red for soccer and boxing. The letters used for the various sports will be:

"BB" for basketball, "B" for baseball, red"B" for boxing, "W" for wrestling, "S" for swimming, "F" for football and a red "S" for soccer.

The third battalion of the 24th Infantry has arranged a comprehensive athletic schedule, which commenced Wednesday afternoon December 22, 1926 and will continue for about three months. The program provides for a series of games of indoor base ball, volley ball and soccer to be played each Wednesday afternoon between companies of that battalion. All games will be played simultaneously so that the largest possible number of men will participate. The plan has for its object the instruction of soldier in one of those three forms of atheletics. This not only to provide him with a proper kind of physical exercise but also to school him in that other phase of atheletic training, viz, the proper control of his muscles and the abililty to cooperate with others in united effort. The detailed instruction of the men is under the direct control of Lieutenant R. S. Mackie, 24th Infantry, and the battalion commander, Captain C. L. Steel, 24th Infantry, exercises general supervision.

NATIONAL SPORTS

We institute the practice of printing brief articles on outstanding national sporting events for the convenience of our subscribers.

Officers and enlisted men of the United States Army, who participated in the forty-first annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association of America, in New York City last week, won over fifty ribbons in competition with some of the finest horse show horses in this country, and teams from the armies of France, Spain, Poland, Holland, Canada and Belgium.

The United States Army Horse Show team, from the Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kansas, consisting of Captain Francis H. Waters, Cavalry team captain; Captain W. B. Bradford, Cavalry; Captain William H. Colburn, Field Artillery; Captain N. J. McMahon, Field Artillery; and Lieutenant W. H. W. Reinburg, Cavalry, won the following classes: Officers' pair jumping—open to all nations, won by Captain Waters on Nigra, and Captain McMahon on St. Paul; jumping—open to all, won by Back Bay; teams of three best hunters or jumpers, the Squadron A Challenge Cup, consisting of a twenty mile ride through Central Park in two hours, and a jumping and schooling competition in the ring next day, won by Captain McMahon on Maudelia; and the Bowman Challenge Cup for officers in full field equipment. Proctor, who won the Bowman Challenge Cup class this year, also won it last year. If he wins it again the $1500 cup becomes the permanent property of the Cavalry School. Felsentor, who placed second in the Bowman Challenge Cup class was purchased in Germany by Lt. Reinburg.

The United States Army Team won places in many other classes. Hindustan placed in a class of lightweight horses under six years, suitable to become hunters, in the class o fhorses sired by a Breeding Bureau of the Jockey Club, or by the Government Remount Stallion, and in the Officers' charger class open to all nations. In the class for the Westerchester Challenge Cup for teams of three hunters, the Army won second and third. Running her team-mate a close race, Anita came in second in the Squadron A challenge Cup class. Dick and Black Bay, ridden by Lieutenant Reinburg and Captain Bradford, finished third in the officer's pair jumping. In the five-foot jumping class, Dick placed third. Procter, of the Army team, also came in fourth in the ladies' qualified hunter class, and Felsentor won a third in the class of horses under six years of age, suitable to become lightweight hunters.

Peggy, a fourteen-year-old mare of F. Troop, 3rd Cavalry, Fort Myer, Virginia, winner of the 1924 and 1925 Eastern Endurance Ride, and of fourth place in this year's Endurance Ride, won the Troopers' Mount Class and the cup presented by the American Remount Association. The next day she won the class for horses actually used by troopers and suitable for cavalry of all nations. In both of these classes Grey Lady, owned by Squadron A. New York national Guard, and Apple-jack, entered by the Third Cavalry, placed. In the former clas Miss G. New Jersey National Guard, won a ribbon, and in the latter class Cautions, of Squadron A. New York National Guard, won second. Peggy also won third place in the walking class for the best and fastest flat-foot walker.

Major Adna R. Chaffee, Third Cavalry, won second place in the class for officers' lightweight polo mounts with his entry, Miss Kitten.

In the polo classes, the United States Military Academy, and the Sixteenth Field Artillery, Fort Myer, Virginia, showed well. Quinnie, entered by the United States Military Academy, won the polo mare suitable for breeding class, with Virginia, owned by Captain J. S. Tate, Sixteenth Field Artillery, second, and La Paloma, owned by Lieutenant M. E. Jones, Cavalry, third. In the lightweight polo pony class open to officers only, PDQ entered by Squadron A. New York National Guard, won first; Belle of New York, owned by Captain J. H. Mulcahy of New York, third; and Comtesa, owned by the United States Military Academy, won fourth. In the heavyweight polo pony class open to officers only, Carry the News, owned by Captain J. S. Tate, won first; Quinnie, owned by the United States Military Academy, second; La Paloma, owned by Lieutenant M. E. Jones, third, and Dusty, owned by Captain Frank P. Lum, fourth. The United States Military Academy team won third place in the polo team class, while Squadron A, New York National Guard, placed fourth. Carry the News, ridden by Captain Tate, placed fourth in the class for polo ponies up to carrying 190 pounds.

In the artillery classes, the Sixteenth Field Artillery scored highly. Its entries, Molly Pitcher, McCloskey, Summerall, and Barrey, won first, second, third and fourth palces respectively in the class for artillery horses shown in hand. Again in the aritllery team class for sixhorses, 75 m. m., or similar type guns, with Chief of Section, the Sixteenth Field Artillery won first, with the One Hundred and Fifth Field Artillery, New York National Guard, won second and third.

Irish Crystal, entered by Squadron A, New York National Guard, won second place in the officers' charger class. Pathfinder, entered by the Remount Service, won third in this class. Captain Boykin, on Flash, and Lieutenant Robinett, on Brown Boy, both of the Third Cavalry, placed fourth in the officers' pair jumping.

Sgt. Riley, was discharged per ETS. and re-enilsted taking three months furlough, and proceeded to Birmingham, Ala., with his family.

Several members of this organization are taking ten day furloughs through the Holidays. While others are hoping to meet Santa Claus in the Company, as our Co. Mechanics are building a large hanger so every member of the Co. can have a place for the socks on Xmas Eve.

Tech. Sgt. Mitizen, and Sgt. Hazuda while on furlough last July, gave some poor fellow a lift in their Leana. Guess what the fellow said as he was let out? OY! What a rite. OY! You spine twisters, holding his hand on the spinal column.

SGT. A. W. HAZUDA.

HOWITZER CO.

Pfc. Earl Averitt was Honorably Discharged the 17th.

Several of this organization have departed on Christmas furlough.

More action and fewer resolutions—that's what we crave, boys.

THEDORE T. CARTER.

1ST. BN. HQ. COMPANY

Well folk we have been talking about the progress being made on the new recreation room now being completed in this organization. Everything will be moved in by the 23rd of this month including a new set of furniture. We are as proud of the new furniture as we are the new recreation room. The best in the Pst is our aim.

Here is what Sergeant Fitch of this company calls a grand and glorious feeling; "To wake up in the morning after playing the Second Battalion Football team and find that you are still alive!"

COMPANY "A"

Well, Company "A," has had a spell of re-enlisting; Sgts. Bridges, and Morrow, Corp. Hamscher, and Pvt. First Class Ayala, decided to remain in Company"A" for another stack, and according stuck their right paws in the air and said "I do" before the recruiting officer.

Company "F" should not be so cocky about that Regimental Championship Basketball team. "A" company slightly dampened their aspirations by taking them into camp by scores of 37-21, and 48-8 last Sunday Morning. The 8 points were all foul goals, not a goal being scored from the field by the "F" company boys. This was done without the aid of the first string center, Corp. Hamscher who was busy re-enlisting. By the way, has Company "B" gone out of their way lately in acquiring that reputation, in order that they may challenge Company "A"?

Corp. Clark, that perennial growler, was observed the other night singing 54 days to do, and that old song:

"I want no more more of the army
Lord, I want to go home."

However Corp. Clark is noted for his fondness for Army Slum and Melton uniforms, so we expect to find him here on February 4th, with more time than any soldier in the service.

DETWEILER.

COMPANY "B"

The Company is proud of their representative to the 1st Battalion Football Team. Romploski, Boley, Sheeler and Kern, all did wonderful work, tho' the game was lost. But McFadden was the "Dark Horse" with about 70 per cent of the tackles to his credit. He'll get even more next time.

Another defeat was handed a Columbus basketball team last Sunday when the H. M. U. team was turned back 44 to 25 by the Co. team with the able assistance of Magagna. Here's hoping for a little opposition during the holidays. Just call the orderly room if you have any.

M. E. MORRIS,

COMPANY "C"

Three cheers for Van Grofski, the man who played better and harder than any other man on the field last Saturday. The King's Gunner sure strutted his stuff.

We were lucky to have Jesse E. Taylor assigned to the company. It looks like he is another Smythe on gridiron.

"They say" that the champion debater at the Regimental N. C. O.'s School is Cpl. Smith. How about it Smith.

JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "D"

"D" company is looking forward to what is expected to be the merriest Chritmas in the history of the company. An elaborate menu with the photographs of the first, second, and headquarters platoon, N. C. O.'s and the company will be one of the big attractions. Of course the usual turkey with trimmings will adorn the festive board.

Lately there have been mysterious excursions into the woods by sundry members of the company. These incidents will be explained next week.

The mystery about the genial first sergeant had at last been solved. The top kick has been exercising his car as a Christmas present to that slightly underworked Overland.

That galloping second platoon must affect everybody concerned with it in a sentimental manner. We heard Lt. Herbert F. Mc G. Matthews make one or two affectionate references to that organization on demonstration the other day. He formerly commanded the second platoon and helped that gang make 100 per cent qualification for two years running with the machine gun.

The handshaker deluxe, Charles E. King, private at large, has returned from Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Colo., where he has spent the last few months as a patient. While there, he shook hands on a wager with Vice-President Charles G. Dawes and Cardinal Hayes. He made a bet to shake hands with Queen Marie of Roumania but succeeded only in taking her picture which he still treasures.

He was selected as color bearer in the Armistice Day parade at Fitzsimmons undoubtedly because he came from the demonstration regiment of the army and they needed someone to demonstrate the proper way to carry the colors.

TANKERS SMOTHER 1ST BATS UNDER FLURRY OF SCORES

Caterpillar Conductors Unextended to Win 47 to 0 Victory over Doughboys

Screened behind an unyielding line, the backs of the Terrible Tankers had plenty of time to get started Wednesday afternoon and once started the 1st Battalion doughboys couldn't stop them, and so the boys from Major Miller's command held a field day at the expense of Lieut. Schaefer's charges. Final audit of the books showed the exact count to be 47 for the Tanks and 0 for the inheritors of the I. S. D.'s green jerseys.

For the first minutes of the opening period the 1st Bats put up a determined and successful resistance, but toward the close of the stanza the Tankers shoved over a touchdown, and from then on it was no contest. There were only two questions left to be decided. One was "How many touchdowns will the Tanks make" and the other was "Will the 1st Battalion score?"

When all the returns were in it appeared that the Tanks had scored three more touchdowns in second period, another in the third, and a final pair in the fourth quarter. A big round zero still adorned the scoreboard for the doughboys. Details are unnecessary. The prettiest scoring play of the afternoon was a long pass, Wiseman to Costello in the fourth quarter.

The entire Tank team looked good, but it was the line that covered itself with glory. Big Bertha and his fellow forwards, Costello and Ward in particular, ripped the 1st Battalion first line of defense to shreds. On offense the backs had little to do except elude the infantrymen's secondary defense, as there were always gaping holes through which to gallop. On defense the Tank forwards simply smothered every effort of the twinkle-

OLSON'S TERRIBLE SWEDES TO MEET INFANTRY FIVE

Kansas Professionals Will Perform in Gymnasium on Wednesday, January 5th

The next basketball game on the Infantry School schedule will be one of the best attractions of its kind ever played at Fort Benning.

The Infantry School Athletic Association has been fortunate in being able to obtain the services of one of the best known professional teams in the country. "Olson's Terrible Swedes," from Coffeyville, Kansas, are an aggregation of basketballers who have been playing together for eight years. Their players are recruited from the best of college and other players in that section of the country. Each winter they tour through the South, playing games and journey as far as Cuba. On their return trip they go north as far as New York City, where last year they played before eight and ten thousand people in Madison Square Garden. Through long practice and varied experience made of the best material available, they present an aggregation very seldom defeated. In six years, they have won two hundred and fifty-six games, losing but fifty-three.

In the roster of the visiting professionals are listed as forwards C. M. Olson, noted back hand passer, & Karl Sidle, former All-Kansas basketeer who has performed with the Larry Semon A. C. of Los Angeles and star AAU teams in Kansas.

At center will be Orin Reed, playing his second season with the Swedes. In 1924-25 he was All-Colorado center. In the guard berths are John Elliott and Bonnie Stewart of last years Swedes and Edwin Marteney, showing with the pros for his first season. All of these men are former Oklahoma players of renown.

To match this truly formidable array, the Infantry will put on the floor perhaps the best quintet that has ever worn the blue. Kammerer and Roosma at forward have played together for several seasons at West Point and work with machine like precision. "Red" Newman at center led last year's five in scoring, and started the season right by scoring 16 points against Piedmont last Monday. Fat Franz and K. L. Berry are splendid defensive guards and Fat is always dangerous on offense. In reserve are Kjelstrom, Sweeney and other cagemen of no little repute. The Infantry probably will not win, as the Swedes are among the best in the country, but the doughboys should at least make things interesting for the visitors.

INFANTRY NETMEN EASY WINNERS IN FIRST ENCOUNTER

Piedmont College Victims of Major Van Vliet's Proteges In 30-17 Game

Playing without the service of Johnny Roosma, basketball player extraordinary, the Infantry experienced little difficulty in downing Piedmont College, of Demorest, Georgia, in the opening game of the doughboy season. For the first few minutes of the contest a snappy short passing game by the boys from up in the mountains of East Georgia kept the soldier five worried, and at one stage of the proceedings the Lions were leading 8 to 2. The military men then found their bearings and soon began to bombard the netting with a barrage of tries for goal. Many of them went astray, but enough found the bulls eye to make the tally 16 to 11 at the midgame intermission and 30 to 17 at the close of the night's pastime.

With Kjelstrom and Kammerer at forwards, Newman at center and Franz and Berry in the guard berths the Infantry displayed a well developed attack for an opening game, and after the first moments of the game, the man-to-man defense of the soldiers was nearly impenetrable, in

Commanding Officer,
Fort Benning, Ga.
Dear Sir:

Some few weeks ago you were kind enough to permit me to make some scenes for the motion picture "On Guard" Due to your courtesy and thoughtfulness in assigning Major Elmer Rice and Captain Saulnier to assist me, I was able to complete my scenes despite very adverse weather conditions in schedule time, and I want to take this opportunity of thanking you for your splendid co-operation.

Prior to coming to Benning, I had taken scenes for the same picture at six other army posts, so I believe I had sufficient opportunity to get a good cross-sectional view of army life. I am pleased to say that the officers and men of your command were more courteous and helpful than at any other post. They regard motion picture publicity in the proper light, and I, for one, regard your present command as the best one to use for motion picture publicity purposes. My only regret is that I did not ask the War Department to allow me to go there when I started the picture.

Again thanking you and wishing you a very happy and prosperous New Year, I am

Sincerely
(Sgd.) Schuyler Grey

spite of the fact that the Piedmontese showed plainly that they had played basketball before and exhibited a brand of passing that almost any team might envy.

If there was an individual star, it was "Red" Newman. His brilliant zig zag dribbles down the floor baffled the collegians and his shooting from difficult angles was high class. He lead the scoring with eight baskets from the floor, divided equally between the halves. "Fat" Franz, playing before a Benning audience for the first time since year before last, showed that he had lost none of his cunning and uncanny ability to get hold of the ball. He didn't score as many points as usual, caging only one try, but that was mostly because he didn't try many shots, usually being content to pass to a comrade for the finishing punch.

toed Taylor to get away for one of his sparkling dashes. Only once did the blonde head who scared the 2nd Battalion so badly get loose from scrimmage. In the third quarter he carried the fight into Tank territory by a pretty thrity-five yard dash. On the last kickoff Taylor came back fifty-eight yards, after eluding a whole squad of red jerseyed opponents. Elsewhere he was helpless.

Laurels for Van Grofski. His defensive play was superb. His motto was "They Shall Not Pass," and seldom it was that a Tank runner passed Van. He was the heart and soul of the doughboy defense. Knocked out in the second quarter and carried off the field on a stretcher he came back at the opening of the second half and played the rest of the game, although again injured.

24TH INFANTRY DRILL COMPETITION SHOWS EXCELLENT TRAINING

2nd Battalion, "K" Co. and "D" Co. Take Prizes in Regimental Contest

The year's military training of the 24th Infantry closed Thursday afternoon, December 23, 1926, with a close order drill competition among the units of that regiment. The exercise was held on the parade ground north of the first battalion barracks. Thru the kindness of Colonel J. B. Gowen, 29th Infantry, officers of that regiment acted as judges. These were Captain W. A. Burress, 29th Infantry; Captain E. G. Herlihy, 29th Infantry, 1st Lieutenant R. A. Case, 29th Infantry; Captain H .E. Dager, 29th Infantry; Captain J. H. Rustemeyer, 29th Infantry, and 2nd Lt. J. R. Jeter, 29th Infantry. Great interest and keen rivalry were shown by all participants. Movements were performed with precision and accuracy. Careful and thorough training in the elements of close order drill was evidenced by all units.

The factors of the competition were as follows:

General Rules

1. All movements were executed in quick time.
2. All men carried available for drill on that date entered all events.
3. Performance of movement only counted.
4. Order of Events:
   1st—Rifle company platoons.
   2nd—Machine gun company platoons.
   3rd—War strength rifle companies composed of all rifle companies in each battalion, were formed.
5. Rifle companies, only, competed in the rifle platoon events, and machine gun companies entered a separate platoon, only, competing among themselves.

Events

1. The platoon competition required the execution of the following movements:
   a. From platoon in line, move forward and while marching form column to the right or left and halt.
   b. Execute right or left front into line.
   c. Execute right or left turn, move forward and halt.
   d. Form column to right or left, move forward, form line to right or left and halt.
   e. While marching in column, diminish the front, reform and halt.
   f. Form column to the front, move forward, and halt.
   g. Form line to the right or left, move forward, and halt.
   h. In the case of the rifle platoons, six movements in the Manual of Arms as directed by the judges.
2. In the company competition the three rifle companies of each battalion were consolidated into one company of three platoons, due to the fact there were not sufficient men in any one company to form a war strength company. The composite organization was commanded by an officer, the platoons by non-commissioned officers. Various movements, as directed by the judges, were executed.

Awards

The awards given to the winner of each event were a pennant to the best drilled platoon and a streamer to each platoon of the best drilled consolidated company. The trophies won will be hereafter carried on the company guidons at all ceremonies.

Results

First place in the platoon drill among the rifle organizations was won by the platoon of "K" Company (Captain Charles L. Steele.) It was drilled by 1st Lt. R. S. MacKie, 24th Infantry and secured 34 10-21 points out of a possible 40. The entry of "E" company, under command of Captain E. T. Jones, 24th Infantry, came second with 34 6-21 points. In the same event, among the machine gun companies, the platoon of "D" company, under the command of Captain W. T. Scott, 24th Infantry, won first place by receiving 229 points out of a possible 250, while that of "M" company, under Captain P. E. Leiber, 24th Infantry, was awarded second place with a score of 210 points. In the company drill event, the 2nd Battalion organized as one unit from its rifle companies, won first place, under the command of Captain E. E. Morrow, 24th Infantry, by getting 36.3 points out of a possible 40, and the 3rd battalion, under Captain C. L. Steele, 24th Infantry, came next with 34.3 points and was awarded second place.

THERE'S PROTECTION OR THERE'S NONE,

IF THERE IS, SEEK AND FIND IT

IF THERE'S NOT, NEVER MIND IT

The greatest risk in driving an automobile is that of injuring a pedestrian. The courts generally hold the driver of the motor to be at fault, regardless of the circumstances of the accident. He may be a jay walker, drunk or courting injury to raise cash, and the driver absolutely blameless, but—

Juries appear to be of the opinion that car owners are big game with rich pelts and no closed season; Generally skin them.

The worst of it it that after judgment the car owner may be made to pay in a lump if he has property or cash, or by installments from his monthly stipend, if in the usual financial condition.

The Ten Commandments of a Soldier

By Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France

1. Keep your eyes and ears ready and your mouth to the safety notch, for it is your soldierly duty to see and hear clearly, but as a rule you should be heard mainly in the sentry challenges or in the charging cheer.

2. Obey your orders first and, if still alive, kick afterwards if you have been wronged.

3. Keep your arms and equipment clean and in good order; treat your animals fairly and kindly and your motor or other machine as though it belonged to you and was the only one in the world. Do not waste your ammunition, your gas, your food, your time, nor your opportunity.

4. Never try to fire an empty gun, nor at an empty trench, but when you shoot to kill forget not that at close quarters a bayonet beats a bullet. bullet.

5. Tell the truth squarely, face the music, and take your punishment like a man; for a good soldier won't lie, he doesn't sulk, and is not a squealer.

6. Be merciful to the women of your foe and shame them not, for you are a man; pity and shield the children in your captured territory, for you were once a helpless child.

7. Bear in mind that the enemy is your enemy and the enemy of humanity until he is killed or captured; then he is your dear brother or fellow soldier, beaten or shamed, whom you should no further humiliate.

8. Do your best to keep your head clear and cool, your body clean and comfortable, and your feet in good condition, for you think with your head, fight with your body, and march with your feet.

9. Be of good cheer and high courage; shirk neither work nor danger; suffer in silence and cheer the comrades at your side with a smile.

10. Dread defeat, but not wounds; fear dishonor, but not death, and die game; whatever the task, remember the motto of the division, "It Shall Be Done."

Pidgin Ad

English-speaking residents of Honolulu and adjacent Pacific centres lately marveled, puzzled, then chuckled over an advertisement in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin (evening; circulation, 16,000.) On other pages were the conventional displays prescribed by U. S. copyartists—tobacco broadsides, department store revelations, bank announcements. But up in the corner of one page was the advertisement of Musa-Shiya the Shirtmaker, who was either the shrewdest of merchants or blessed with the good offices of the most quick-witted of advertising advertisers.

Beside a delicate spider-scrabble of Japanese characters stood Musa-Shiya himself, fretted forth in blackest ink with his bare toes tweaking at each other through their sandal-thongs, his best kimono hanging in polite folds and his two hands clasped solicitously beneath an amiable squint-eyed grin.

MUSA-SHIYA the SHIRTMAKER
(Also kimono make & Dry good sell) obviously aimed to please.

"This time," said his message, "I was importent onnounce for all lady

LADY NECKTIE

"All color and other one fancy pattern."

If Musa-Shiya did not, like Edward S. ("Playboy") Jordan, U. S. automobile manufacturer, insist upon writing his own copy, how understanding a person must his interpreter have been!

"Well, if you saw this neckties you came right away purchase me. Sappose no more necktie how did you had a stylish this time I say so. All right.

'How finding

"Until finding Musa-Shiya Shap please King street go for River. Before arrived then Fish Market came. Do not paused. Advance away for River but not until River. Then you saw nice sign say so Musa-Shiya the Shirtmaker 179. That was the places my shop. Thanks you entered insides purchase me this time."

Cosmopolites had seen the same sort of thing done by fawning Frenchmen in foreign lands—the employment of pidgin-English to disarm prospective customers—but Musa-Shiva's stroke outdid them all. Students of advertising waited to see what alert U. S. agency would first seize upon the idea to introduce, say, Turkish tobaccos, Italian spaghetti, Swedish locomotives ("Ay bane one strong feller"), Negress pancake flour ("Hump yo'se'f, boy! Pick up yo' knife an' fo'k!") or Jewish haberdashery ("Oy yoy! Soch a fine goo-ods!")—Time.

29TH CLOSES YEAR OF FINE ACHIEVEMENT

Christmas, 1926 finds the Demonstration Doughboys at the end of a year of splendid accomplishment full of the old time Yule spirit with morale high looking forward to 1927 with the objective of keeping the Twenty-ninth Infantry continually in the lead.

Possibly the greatest single feat undertaken by the regiment in 1926 was staging of a Mounted Patrol, Nov. 19 under the direction of Captain Robert McClure of the Infantry School faculty. Company "D" won the organization prize, a silver loving cup. The purpose of the ride was to stimulate interest in horsemanship among the enlisted men of the regiment and to encourage them to take increased interest in the care of their mounts.

It is expected that the Gymkhana scheduled for a near date will find the Demonstrationists well in the lead for the honors. During the past year in thevarious horse and transportation held in the post the Twentyninth acquitted itself very well. On March 17 the regiment staged a horse and transportation show of its own which attracted favorable attention.

New Quarters

Slowly but surely the Twenty-ninth Infantry Barracks is rearing itself to the north of the tents in which the first and second battalion and the Howitzer company are now quartered. At this writing it is not known whether the first and second battalion will move into the barracks but part of the barracks has been partitioned off for regimental headquarters.

Company commanders have been zealous in an effort to make the tents more livable, a great number of enlisted men being given practical training in carpentry, painting, etc. "H" company may be cited as the leader in this activity inasmuch as they have a habit of galloping away with the Blue Pennant with a precision quite regular.

"University in Khaki" was the highly flowered term they dubbed the army with in 1921 when ample appropriations were furnished by Congress for schools of every description for enlisted men.

Today the Twenty-ninth Infantry though hampered by a lack of funds may in a sense also be called a "University in Khaki." Under the direction of Lt. Col, Asa L. Singleton, director of regimental school, the Non-Commissioned Officers' School, Officer's School Illiterate School, Horseshoe School, Class in Equitation for Mounted Orderlies, Intelligence School and Communication School have reached a high state of prefection and not only have helped to better themselves in the Army but have enabled them to fit themselves for civilian employment.

Laboring under difficult conditions caused by the new regulations on ammunition the Twenty-ninth Infantry added to its laurels last summer by making an unusually brilliant record on the range. The Howitzer company succeeded in making 100 per cent qualification with the Howitzer weapons for the second consecutive year. The second platoon of Company "D" qualified 100 per cent with the machine gun for the second consecutive year helping the company to win the regimental championship for two years running.

In the world of sports the Twenty-ninth Infantry has maintained its place and in a goodly proprotion of cases has romped away with a championship. In football the second battalion secured the post championship for two years running.

Wrestling has been started in the Twenty-ninth Infantry and has been received by the Demonstrationists with open arms the regimental theatre being packed to the doors whenever a series of bouts is put on the boards after the movies.

Boxing will be started sometime in the near future and interest in the art of fisticuffs is rapidly mounting.

Under the new plan recently started in the Twenty-ninth Infantry there is no fatigue in the morning periods which are entirely devoted to drill, demonstrations and other military duties.

With the new plans in operation great improvement not only in esprit de copps but in military precision has been noted. Formal guard mounts are held at regular intervals and snappy parades are morning occurences.

This is just an example of how in every way the Twenty-ninth Infantry, each day, is more truly leading the way for the army.

CAPT. RUSTEMEYER PRESENTED WITH BEAUTIFUL SABER

"B" Co. of Demonstrationists Honors Its Commander

A true Christmas story with a little girl acting in the capacity of Santa Claus was enacted in the mess hall of "B" company, 29th Infantry Saturday at noon when the little daughter of First Sergeant John B. Brown presented a gold plated saber valued at seven hundred dollars to Captain Joseph E. Rustemeyer as the gift of the enlisted men of "B" Company. Capt. Rustemeyer who has been company commander of the organization since the latter part of 1924 was deeply touched by the gift and nearly broke down with emotion.

The plans for the presentation of the saber was made without taking any of the company officers into confidence as was evidenced by their stampede to view the saber which was beautifully engraved and monogramed.

The funds for the purchase of the saber were obtained by soliciting funds among the enlisted members of the company. Captain Rustemeyer in a speech after the dinner stated that nowhere before had he served with such a splendid and thoroughly co-operative organization as Company "B".

Under the regime of Captain Rustemeyer the appearance of the company area has at all times been exemplary, the company winning the Blue Pennant on several occasions. It is known favorably among the instructors of the Infantry school for the precise manner in which it executes the movements of "Close Order Drill" and other demonstrations and maneuvers for whose correct exemplification it is responsible.

Recently while a new officer was moving into his quarters one of his movers a member of "B" company remarked that the Victrola was an exact duplicate of the one in "B" company.

When questioned he made such an impression on the officer by his desire to inform him of his loyalty to his company that the officer wrote a letter to regimental headquarters citing the incident as an example of high esprit de corps. The soldier was commended later in a letter from headquarters.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION ....

Ray Mona, Marvelous Magician and Inimitable Illusionist, will appear at the Garrison Theater Saturday night, January 1st, after the regular moving pictures show. The great master of magic will mystify with many mysterious maneuvers. In perhaps the feature number on his progam he will place a beautiful young lady in a box and stab her with a bayonet whereupon the damsel will emerge even more beautiful than before.

FRIDAY DEC. 31

"The Border Whirlwind," a Bob Custer feature of love and daring, tender wooing and quick fire shooting. It is the story of a hero who wins the "Belle" of the "Border" and bests the man who was thought by all, invincible.

"Pathe News"

SATURDAY JAN. 1

"The Johnston Flood," a thrilling epic-drama with George O'Brien, Florence Gilbert, Janet Gaynor, Andres Randolf and Paul Nicholson. A tremendous volume of water held placidly by an enormous dam; The dam breaks, a turbulent wall of water belches forth, eight towns are destroyed and 12,000 lives sacrificed amid scenes of terror and moments of inspiring heroism. The plot is absorbing, you'll cry at its pathos, laugh at its humor, and cheer at its amazing climax.

"Call a Cop,"—A Christie Educational Film.

SUNDAY JAN. 2

"One Minute to Play," featuring the nation's idol, Red Grange, in a football picture rampant with the college atmosphere. It is a thrilling romance of the campus and gridiron, pulsating with youthful love and ambition, sparkling with humor and vibrant with life vivified by marvelous football playing.

"Three Blind Mice."—Fables.

"Pathe News"

MONDAY JAN. 3

"Don Juan's Three Nights," starring Lewis Stone and Shirley Mason. A gripping romance of the Riveria, Europe's beautious pleasure resort on the Mediterranean. Fashionable ladies attractively costumed, in an environment of palatial and scenic splendor, form the back ground upon which a master musician lover woos, and after many tribulations, wins fashions finest feminine.

"Phantom Police No. 1," featuring Herbert Rawlinson. A mystery play which promises more action and gripping mysterious moments than the Green Archer, which so successfully held the audience in constant suspense. This picture is in ten episodes. Due to requests of patrons it has been secured for display twice weekly.

TUESDAY JAN. 4

"Red Hot Hoofs," featuring Tom Tyler and his Pals. Something different in a western picture. The prize ring which always holds thrills on the screen enters strongly into this play. Of course romance, comedy and daring feats are the high lights of the show.

"Dog Shy."—A Chase comedy.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 5

"Bardelys, The Magificient," starring John Gilbert in a classical film of European royalty, taken from the Rafael Sabatini Novel considered a masterpiece. The story is a drama of France during the hectic seventeenth century. 5000 people, 300 horses and midaeval castles constitute an enormours background for this famous picture. It is said to favorably rival The Big Parade in magnificence, humor and thrills.

"Yes Yes Babette," Vernon Educational.

THURSDAY JAN. 6

"Hold That Lion," starring Douglas Mac Lean, is a thrilling, hilarious farce comedy-romance in which MacLean is forced to prove himself a big game hunter before he wins the girl. The story begins in New York, but winds up in the darkest recesses of wild Africa.

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY JAN. 7

"Steppin' Out," featuring the comedy star, Ford Sterling with Dorothy Revier and Robert Agnew. It is a lightening fast, side splitting, bubbling comedy of wild adventure amid the dazzling white lights of Broadway.

"Phanton Police No. 2. Herbert Rawlinson.

Rail Transportation Branch

Last week when we read that all roads included in the usual firing area were to be closed Monday, December 20th, we were only mildly interested; but, as later orders included all roads except the Cusseta Highway and Fort Benning Boulevard, passers over these being warned as to danger to be encountered and advised to avail themselves of helmets and portable dugouts, we considered the precautions unusual. As our inquiries as to the reason for such extraordinary precaution were not enlightening, we awaited with considerable anxiety news of possible casualties. From a hint furnished us from a reliable source we now agree that the precautions taken were fully justified, and, that no accidents occurred was due to the the diligence of those in charge of the "Demonstration."

Our 'Will Rogers', big game hunter (but better craneman) was granted authority to hunt with firearms on the reservation that date, and, while the 'demonstration' was semi-military, it will no doubt, in the future, serve as a model for others of the command. Mr. Rogers was ably assisted by his several dogs, which are among the best of this section. In fact his favorite retriever, "Roo-Toot-Toot," is almost as expert with firearms as is his master, and in hunting heavily-scented cats of certain breeds master and dog exchange parts, the dog being presumably averse to the scent of skunks.

Mr. Rogers is what may be called the aggresssive type of hunter, and for this occasion was ably abetted by a striking and intriguing costume, being a composite of an Alpine Guide and a cinema version of a north woods-man, combining the best features of each.

Mr. Rogers has been reported to have stated he came upon tracks near the Harps Pond area that would no doubt prove to be very interesting, and that it is his intention to continue his investigation at some future time. While he turned in his permit marked "No game bagged" his hands showed perceptible evidence of fresh encounters with wild cats. He explained this modestly, stating that his method of taming wild cats was by choking them into insensibility.

N. B. Our Mr. Patrick, Track Foreman, has investigated the tracks at Harps Pond and reports them to be a part of the old 60-centimeter railroad that was abandoned sometime ago.

William J. Blair, Laundry Superintendent, returned a few days ago from temporary tour of duty at Plattsburg Barracks, having been sent there on orders from The Quartermaster General to observe the difficulties under which the laundry at that place was operating and make recommendations giving his view as to the best method of overcoming same.

Mr. Blair found several feet of snow on the ground with the thermometer hovering around zero. He states that he is very glad to be back in the sunny South again, since he did not carry his fur lined overcoat and red flannels with him. Between trains on his return trip Mr. Blair spent a few hours in New York City with his sister.

Ye Olde Printe Shoppe Gossipe

The Print Shop gang are glad Christmas comes but once a year, judging by the amount of work to be finished by that day.

The Print Shop gang have been divided into two Volley ball teams, Reds and Blues. Mr. Smith is Captain of the Reds and Private Webster is Captain of the Blues. The Reds are beginning to feel sure of victory as they are now four games ahead. In talking over the strength of the two teams with the official umpire (Corporal Smith,) he thinks the Blues are much stronger and will come to the top later in the month.

Corporal Smith is now shop foreman and seems to be enjoying the position, but he says it is too much of a responsibility on his small shoulders.

All the men are looking forward to the return of Sergeant Doll the first of the year.

The members of the Print Shop wish all a Happy New Year.

Capt. Massey's son, Earl, who is a cadet at Augusta Military Academy, Ft Defiance, Va., is also spending holidays with his parents.

Transportation Branch

An excellent example of the generous cooperation of the local agencies with Quartermaster activities was illustrated last week in connection with the departure of the members of the Refresher Class. In each case pullman car reservation to destination was obtained. To do this it was necessary for Mr. Harris of the Central of Georgia and Mr. Clendenin of the Southern Railway to make use of long-distance telephone and Western Union wires at an additional cost to their companies.

24TH INF.

Among the usual Christmas decorations of No. 5 Mess of the 24th Infantry some were emblematic of the achievements of the regiment. The principal one of these was a minature of San Juan bill block house with its accompanying defensive system. During the Spanish-American War the 24th Infantry participated in the capture of this blockhouse after the most severe fighting, an accomplishment which was a material factor in the subsequent victory of the American forces and one of the high lights in the regiment's history. The spirit of re joicing, which prevails during the holiday season, was thus used to celebrate worthy deeds done for their native land by members of the 24th Infantry.

Several changes among the commissioned personnel of the 24th Infantry are to occur in the near future. Incoming infantry officers, now at widely separated places, have been ordered to report at this station for duty with the regiment. Major Henry C. N. Lean has sailed from Germany, Captain Earl F. Paynter, 1st Lieutenants John T. Sunstone, Elan L. Stewart, and Donald A. Fay are to sail from Manila, P. I. From Central and South American countries: Captain Harry M. Gwyn will come from Guatemala, Captain Elwood M. S. Steward from Peru, and 1st Lieutenant Orlando O. Mood from the Canal Zone. According to information now at hand there is only one officer whose present station is in the United States who has been ordered to report for duty with the 24th Infantry. This officer is Captain Leland W. Skaggs, who is now on leave at Richmond, Va.

Having recently successfully passed the physical examination for detail to the Air Corps, 1st Lieutenant John F. Pahlke, now on duty as personnel adjutant of the regiment, has received orders to report about the 13th of March, 1927, to Brooks Field for duty with that branch of the service. He will leave the regiment on two months leave 11 January, 1927.

The 24th Infantry Basketball team in co-operation with the colored Y. M. C. A. of Columbus played the team of Alabama State Normal School at Montgomery, Alabama, on last Tuesday evening. The game was well played and hotly contested throughout. By dint of superior floor work the Columbus team won by one point. The final score was Columbus Y. M. C. A. 42, Alabama State Normal 41. The line-up of the teams were as follows:

Columbus	Pos.	State Normal
Williamson	r. f.	Wilson
24th Inf.
Gatewood	l. f.	Holt
Trammel	c.	Trammel
24th Inf.
Shipp	l. g.	Routt
Williams	r. g.	Redding
24th Inf.

Burns substitute for Trammel at center and Trammel substitute for Redding at left guard.

In token of their appreciation of the splendid and conscientious work done by Company "I," 24th Infantry, in caring for their horses and equipment, the ladies of the Ladies Riding Class gave each soldier of that organization a carton of cigarettes as a Christmas remembrance. The men of the company deeply appreciate this thoughtfulness and desire to take this opportunity to thank the ladies for their kindness.

MACHINE GUNNERS OF "D" CO. PROVE MIGHTY NIMRODS

Not satisfied with the laurels as a "coon hunting outfit" Company "D" of the Twenty-ninth Infantry at Fort Benning has stepped out into wider fields, last Sunday netting a total of eighteen rabbits without firing a shot. The amateur Nimrods craved further excitment so they journeyed to a nearby wooded area with the avowed object of bagging a few boars known locally as "wild hogs." They netted four in their search. Horses and the old standby, the mule, were the means of locomotion used and the Nimrods claim equestrian hunting has it all over pursuits on foot especially when the prey is a boar, quite wild.

Class and caste distinction are thrown to the four winds when "D" company sets out to give the surrounding woods a treat by its presence. Both officers and enlisted men of the company enter into the coon, rabbit and boar hunting with enthusiasm characteristic of this organization which has since its organization in 1901 endeavored to stand always for the finest and cleanest sports and recreation in the regiment.

The hunting fad that is sweeping the Twenty-ninth Infantry had its inception when "D" Company in January, 1926, staged a coon hunt with the co-operation of Fort Benning Officers' club which loans its dogs to the company whenever they are asked for. The coons were treed, shaken down and added to a bag which mounted up to a total of three coons and two skunks for that night. The coon skins were preserved and today may be found decorating the walls of "D" company's recreation room.

"H" company and First and Second Battalion Headquarters companies are planning a series of hunts for the near future. It is said these hunts have a stimulating effect on the organizations concerned in way of raising the morale.

OUR ADVERTISING

It is a well known fact that advertising of the right kind will pay in more ways than one. The advertisers in The Infantry School News represent the very best of merchants in Columbus, merchants that carry the best in their line, the very latest models, and service is their middle first and last names. When you deal with the best you get the best. Patronize the advertisers that use your paper and see the difference, you will also be able to save the difference, which is what we all are looking for.

BEN-HUR

Among the delightful screen actresses appearing in the great $4,000,000 production of "Ben-Hur" at the Springer Theater soon are Betty Bronson who is vividly recalled for her charming beauty as Peter Pan; May McAvoy, who was equally charming as the Grizel of "Sentimental Tommy"; Carmel Myers, a famous stage and screen siren; Kathleen Key, remembered in "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and Claire McDowell whose wonderful work as Jim's mother in "The Big Parade" is said to be fully equalled by her work as the Mother of Hur in "Ben-Hur." Rarely if ever has such a galaxy of feminine stars been presented in any single picture.

The Infantry School News wishes to thank each and every merchant for his business during 1926 and hopes that 1927 will see such an increase in their respective businesses that it will be necessary to build additions to take care of it, and what's more, we mean every word of it.

Service Company

Sgt. Hugh Huffenberger is on a 90 day furloguh, and Staff Sgt. Tom O'Leary is acting First Sergeant in his absence.

Tom says that if he is white headed when the top gets back he can not help it, says he wants to be back with the mules.

Clude Austin got a telegram from his F-a-i-r one asking him to send her a pair of stockings, EXTRA LARGE for Santa Claus to fill. We don't know who this guy is unless it is our Supply Sergeant.

The Service Company went hunting for Wild Hogs Christmas week, under Capt. Frakes. Spud Murphy lost his dogs but they were able to bring back two of the most precious swine, weighing 120 and 135 pounds respectively.

Corp. Wood Smith returned from a furlough. He could not stay the limit, as life on the outside is hard on the eyes.

Regtl. Hq. Co.

Captain Roderick has departed for Navarre, O., on a thirty day leave, leaving 1st Lt. Lawrence in command of the Company.

WANTED:—A detective who is quite well qualified on solving mysteries, to locate some missing articles of wearing apparel which mysteriously disappeared. For further information interested parties or detectives, call for Pvt. Hillery, per Regt. Hdqrs. Co. 29th Infantry. Scotland Yard and Pinkerton men are not barred.

A few promotions have been made in the Company; Cpl. Hopkins, to a sergeant; Privates 1st Class Murphy, Rupert, Francis and Shaw, to the grade of corporals. Look out for your shirt buttons. Don't bust them off.

We have enjoyed our Christmas dinner very much indeed, as we know that our mess sergeant is hard to beat in that line. What about it Andy? "OH MIN!"

—Sgt. A. A. HUZADA.

Howitzer Company

On Monday a hog hunt was enjoyed by members of this organization which were conducted under the personal supervision of Lt. Smythe.

How about your Christmas dinners, boys? Take it from the undersigned Howitzer Company had the best in the regiment.

After a most enjoyable Christmas we turn our faces to the New Year. Let's make our resolutions with each morning's sun. Constant thought is creative.

—THEODORE T. CARTER.

Company "A"

Well, the Company is still alive and kicking after the Xmas holidays. No fatal casualties were reported though on good information, we hear that two or three boys, notably Sgt. Hudson, and Cpl. Clark are still suffering effects of too much Christmas dinner.

Cpl. Freeman is determined to take a furlough; he states every month that he is leaving the next month and hasn't gone yet. He says that that six-bits bonus will sure take him away from here next fall.

Cpl. Powell, our genial company clerk, returned from a hectic furlough, (his statement) in Memphis, Tenn., and is slowly recuperating from his enforced absence at the hands of his kind relatives.

—SNOOKS

Company "C"

The company attended the funeral of Private Reese Triplett Monday afternoon. Pvt. Triplett's body was sent to his home in Ashland, Ky. The body was escorted by Corporal Mabery of this company.

The Company enjoyed a hog hunt last Wednesday. We did not have any razor back the next day for dinner so we don't think they bagged many.

The Company had a rabbit hunt last week also. We were all on that so of course we got some game.

1st Sergeant J. A. Barton left on a furlough last week so the head of the Fort Benning Branch of the A. for the A. of A. waxed his moutsache and took charge.

One of the members of this com- was sentenced for life last week. Poor Jimmy Rose.

—JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF.

Co. "D"

In spite of the encroachmnt of other companies on their laurels "D" Compan still remains the premier hunting organization of the Twenty-ninth Infantry.

According to all present indications our New Year's dinner will have as its piece de resistance several wild hogs captured in a series of hunts held recently.

Sergeant Bernard J. Lang, representing the great cheese state, Wisconsin recently re-enlisted and immediately spent his six bits on U-Drive-Its. It has been stated by them that without the comforting support of "D" company the U-Drive-It companies down town would immediately dissolve partnership because of financial downfall.

It seems we can't get our mind off food today. Our Christmas dinner was a dyed in the wool lalapalooza from all viewponits, both gastronomic and sentimental. Congrats, Vines.

Lieutenant Ancrum has joined the company and we hereby extend him the proverbial glad hand and hope that he will stay here with us a long time.

Well we must close wishing you all a Happy New Year until roses grow on thistle vines and until braised calf appears on our breakfast menu. What! No fatigue during the holidays?

HOOTSY TOOTSY

Company "E"

Every one seems to have enjoyed Christmas very much. Even the "Snuff King," (Cpl. Oikari) was so happy that he tackled a stove (thinking he was playing football), without being conscious of the fact. He said that he was only getting in shape to meet the 15th Tank Bn.

Several of the boys are due for discharge next month per E. T. S. Some one overheard Cpl. Bowling and Cpl. Miscar, who are two of the boys, while having a private conversation. Cpl. Boling remarked, "Bob" this is my last Christmas dinner in Ft. Benning. We wonder if he means that.

The company basket ball team is turning out 100 per cent strong. "Kid" Sisson and "Abe" Temes were noticeable for their cooperative team work.

Here's wishing evrybody a Prosperous, Successful and Happy New Year.

ROOSMA FEATURES AS PRO BASKETBALLERS WIN OVER INFANTRY FIVE

Olson's Swedes Know Too Much for Soldier Cagemen But Are Extended to Win 51-35

The Swedes were too terrible for the Infantrymen Wednesday night and with Olson himself featuring the game with a series of sensational one-handed overhead shots from all angles and distances, sent the Blue down to a 51 to 35 defeat, but Johnny Roosma, former Passaic High and West Point lumiaary, playing his first game as a Benningite, was the high point scorer of the game, caging ten goals from the floor and one from the charity line, to tally more than half his team's points.

It became evident soon after the opening whistle that the professionals were a bit to strong for the soldiers. The visitors played deliberately but skillfully. Big Campbell at center was much too tall for Red Newman to cope with and on every tip off put his team on the offensive. Once the Swedes started with the ball, it was a very difficut matter to take it away from them, as their passing was extremely accurate, and their teamwork so well perfected that almost invariably a receiver was in the right place to take the pass. Their shooting was high class, few attempts at goal failing and those by small margins.

The mid-game intermission saw the Swedes leading the procession 31 to 16. Olson drew round after round of applause from the packed gymnasium by his startling shots. There really should be a law of some sort against the stuff he pulled, as it didn't seem reasonable. The lengthy Campbell scored frequently from directly under the basket. Fat Franz was playing a splendid game at running guard for the Infantry and Roosma was doing yeoman service, but was having the toughest kind of luck, rimming the basket time after time. He probably missed more tries during this half than has missed in the past six

MERCER'S VARSITY MEN ON FRATERNITY TEAM THAT MEETS TANKERS

Phoney Smith and His Supporting Cast Will Play Tanks in Stadium Saturday

Last October Phoney Smith of Mercer gave Benning fans a thrill when he galloped some fifty yards for a touchdown against the Infantry and Skelton, plunging fullback of the Bears caused several soldiers a hard afternoon on the gridiron. Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. in the Doughboy Stadium fort followers of the sport that has made many small colleges famous will get another chance to see these stars and their ursine comrades in action, for the Terrible Tanks have scheduled the All-Fraternity Stars from the Macon institution for a pleasant little scruffle out on the greensward.

The Mercer team cut quite a wide swathe in S. I. A. A. circles last fall.

Annual Six Weeks' Tactical Course For Civilian Components Opened Tuesday

Twenty-one National Guard officers from seventeen states and Porto Rico, and three members of the Reserve Corps officially began the Infantry School annual class for National Guard and Reserve Field Officers at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the opening exercises were held with the Commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins welcoming the incoming students. In the roster of the class are one colonel, five lieutenant colonels and eighteen majors.

Most of the arriving officers belong to the Infantry branch of the service, but the staff as well as the line is represented. This course is an annual one at Fort Benning and plays a prominent

KELLY STEAM ROLLER CRUSHES CANNONEERS BY FIVE TOUCHDOWNS

Smythe Coached Doughboys Show Smooth Working Machine to Score Handy Victory

The Smythe-coached and Kjelstrom-directed doughboys from the 2nd Battalion flashed the most finished brand of football seen in the garrison league and Wednesday afternoon swamped the hard fighting Gunners of the 83rd Field Artillery by the one-sided tally of 33 to 0. The Cannoneers, who held the Terrible Tankers to a 7-3 count, were utterly unable to cope with the smooth functioning machine from the Demonstration regiment and were completely outclassed throughout the game. The Kellys rushed over one touchdown in the first period, after a forty yard advance; marked up a couple more in the second quarter, went scoreless in the third stanza; and finished strong with two six-pointers in the final chapter. These five touchdowns, with three points added by Kjelstrom's drop kicks made the count.

For some time after the opening of the game the play was comparatively even, neither team being able to advance with any consistency. A punting duel resulted in which Tommy Thompson held his own with the far-famed Schulte. Finally an artilleryman interfered with a Kelly back as he signalled for a fair catch and the caisson riders drew a fifteen yard penalty to place the ball on their forty yard strip. From this point the 2nd Battalion steam roller smashed over for the first touchdown. Behind almost perfect interference Thompson skirted the ends for consistent gains and Kjelstrom struck through tackle for short advances. Kjelstrom himself made the final rush. From then on it wasn't a question of which team would win, but how much the score would be. Only repeated penalties for holding and offside kept the count down to 33.

To pick stars for the Kellys would be impossible as it was at all times an eleven man machine, with each man taking his alloted part in the play. However, mention must be made of the play of Fat Franz. The chubby one has always been known as an end of parts, but yesterday afternoon he transformed himself into a quarterback and turned in several specimens of splendid broken field running. He scored the third touchdown on a neat dash of thirty yards.

For the Artillery Wargo did what little ground gaining there was. The Gunners made only two first downs during the game, one on line plunges by Wargo and the other on a pretty pass, Schulte to Hancock. On defense "Red" Martin at center was in every play, and Hancock guarded his flank ably. The fact that the Kelly field generals directed few plays at Lapine's side of defeating Florida, Oglethorpe and Rollins among other strong aggregations, and held the Parris Island Marines, a team that trounced the Benning Varsity, to a scoreless deadlock. While the team that will play here Saturday is not officially the University first string, it is understood that its lineup includes practically the same men who "fit and bled for Alma Mater," and so a well-drilled collection of footballers will be seen in action.

The Tank lineup will be the same as has played and won two games in the garrison league, and will include a large percentage of Infantry players who performed for Coach Berry last Fall. Bertelman, Sweeney, Mylnczak, May, Costello, Lindsey, Bennett, Ward, Sullivan, Stewart and Wiseman are some of the stars who will get into the fray.

BOSTON TO FORT MONROE VIA NEW YORK

Some time ago an officer of the C. A. C. en route to Fort Monroe to school from Boston ran over a drunk, who staggering out from behind a passing car in the suburbs of New York. He had mailed an application for full coverage to us before leaving Boston.

We received telegraphic notice of the accident before his application for insurance was received and notified our New York attorneys. His protection dated from postmark on his application.

The officer proceeded on his way and took no further notice of the matter. We closed the case by compromise and had the suit withdrawn, knowing that juries usually hold the car owner to blame when a pedestrian is injured, no matter what the circumstances of the case may prove to be.

Have you protection against PERSONAL LIABILITY? Examine your policy, if you have one; if not, write us without delay.

There have been an average of 42 personal injuries by automobiles per day for the past three years in the United States. You may have one any time.

We can protect you against loss of time, worry and money at an astonishingly small cost.

weeks of practice. Withal he sank three nice ones from the floor.

Beginning the second half, the soldiers speeded up their play, and began to make a decided reduction in the margin that separated the teams. Roosma's eye was brighter and he caged goal after goal. Near the middle of the period the Benningites brought the count to 38 to 31, but at this point the Swedes stepped on the gas and soon drew ahead by a comfortable margin.

The game was singularly free from fouls, only seven being called—six on the Infantry and only one on the Swedes. It was noticeable that the professionals, although playing the ball closely seldom came into personal contact with their oppendents.

Daily Including Sunday.

FRIDAY JAN. 7

"Steppen Out," featuring the comedy star, Ford Sterling with Dorothy Revier and Robert Agnew in a lightening fast, side splitting, bubbling comedy of wild adventure amid the dazzling white lights of great Broadway.

"Phanton Police No. 2.—A mystery play, Herbert Rawlinson.

SATURDAY JAN. 8

"No Man's Gold," featuring Tom Mix with his remarkable steed "Tony" and Eva Novak in a whirlwind western, filmed in hidden canyons among the Gorgeous Rockies. This is a drama filled with daring adventure, hard riding, sure shooting, fires and floods, all of which fail to stop Tom Mix in his quest for "No Man's Gold."

"Better Movies,"—Our Gang comedy, the type the children love and the "grown ups" thoroughly enjoy.

SUNDAY JAN. 9

"So's Your Old Man," starring W. C. Fields, with Alice Joyce and Charles Rogers in a Geogory La Cava production. This is a seven reel Paramount comedy, O'Henry's memorial prize story of 1925. This farce starts in a small town near New York. A series of comical events throws the comedian into the arms of a beautiful woman who later proves to be a princess. The small town man climbs to social fame amid many glamorous incidents.

"Planning the Season."—Sportlight.

"Pathe News"

MONDAY JAN. 10

"Paradise," featuring Milton Sills with Betty Bronson, is a south sea island drama of wild and wierd adventure among the cannibals, a raging hell of barbarian tribesmen ruled by a brute white. The continuity of the story is bound by threads of a pretty romance.

"Phantom Police No. 3."—Herbert Rawlinson.

TUESDAY JAN. 11

"The Temptress," from the noted novel by Blasco Ibanez, starring Greta Garbo and Antonio Moreno in a remarkable picturization of this splendid South American story. Gorgeous gowns are worn by the famous Sweedish screen beauty. The scenic production is supurb and the plot gripping. The all star cast includes Lionel Barrymore, H. B. Warner and Ray D'Arcy.

"Somebody's Wrong."—Cameo comedy.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 12

"Stranded in Paris," starring the peppy, vivacious Bebe Daniels in a smile-a-second comedy of a shop girl who wins a trip to Paris, arrives there, becomes stranded, gains access to the sumptuous apartments of a count, becomes embroiled in a bath room scene, but the nobleman in his silk pajamas is too slow for Bebe. Of course a tasty romance unites the threads of continuous clever comedy.

"Bill Grimm's Progress No. 6."

THURSDAY JAN. 13

"LaBoheme," starring Lillian Gish and John Gilbert with an all star caste consisting of Renee Adoree, Roy D'Arcy, George Hassell, and Edward Everett Horton in this remarkable picturization of the noted novel. The story is laid amidst the color and gaiety of Parisian Artist life. It is the romance, tender, whimsical thrilling, beautiful of Mimi, the brave little waif of the Latin Quarter, and her Prince Charming. As a special feature for this play the Garrison Theatre Orchestra will play the full orchestration of the opera La Boheme; special rehearsals will insure a wonderful production for your entertainment

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY JAN. 14

"Robin Hood," starring Douglas Fairbanks in the picturization of this world famed story by Elton Thomas. Today's modernization of his play goes back eight hundred years, and depicts the famous "Doug," as the hero of the stirring days of the twelfth century in England.

"Phantom Police No. 4."—Herbert Rawlinson.

Thank You, Mr. Woodall

A little late to say anything about it, but we must edge in a word about the Christmas edition of The Infantry News. It is a handsome number of 32 pages, with a beautiful golden cover. The striking illustration on the front cover was prepared by home talent—someone at Benning. The number is replete with special features, among them a most interesting sketch, by A. E. Dowling, of the late Maj. General Henry Lewis Benning, for whom the fort is named. It is illustrated with a photograph of General Benning taken when he was a young—and strikingly handsome—man. Another special feature is a memorial to the late Hon. John W. Weeks, secretary of War. The pictorial section shows scenes and prominent personages in Benning and also a few air views of Columbus and the Chattahoochee river—a regular rotagravure section, and immensely attractive. The issue is printed in colors and is a credit to the Standard Printing Company, at whose plant The Infantry News is printed.—W. C. Woodall in The Enquirer-Sun.

JERUSALEM HELLO GIRLS MUST BE LINGUISTS

Telephone users in Jerusalem can ask for their numbers in eleven languages and the exchanges will put them through.

Writing in the monthly "Telegraph and Telephone Journal," L. M. Smith, superintendent of telephones in Palestine, says: "Paris has, in addition to the three official languages—English, Arabic and Hebrew—several other languages in common use such as French, German, Spanish, Greek, Italian, Russian, Armenian and Rumanian. This is a formidable list, but a caller in any of these languages can be served without much trouble in the Jerusalem exchange, where each of the telephonists speaks at least three languages well, and can deal with simple demands for numbers phrased in five or six different tongues."

New Record in Message Transmission

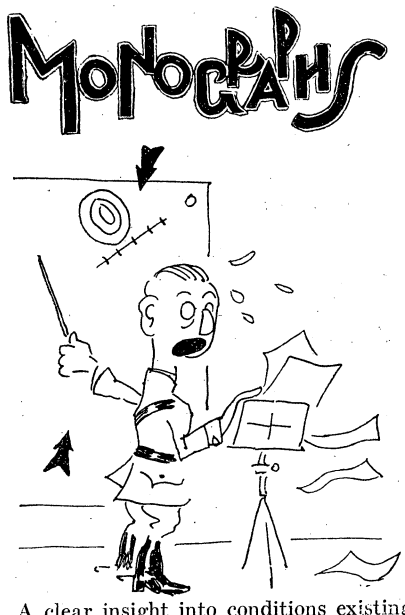
A new record in message transmission, involving the use of radio, the submarine cable, and the regular telegraph line familiar to everyone, was made recently when Corporal Evald M. Hanson, an operator of the Signal Corps, Regular Army, started a message off by raido from Chandalar, Alaska, 78 miles above the arctic Circle. Chandalar is the most northerly inhabited point in the western hemisphere.

The distance covered in the comparatively short space of time, in sending the message, was approximately 7,000 miles, the telegraph being received in New York as a telegram after a 3,000 mile trip over the telegraph line from Seattle, Washington.

Corporal Hanson started the communication off at Chandalar by radio to Seward, Alaska, covering a distance of 690 miles. The Signal submarine cable then sped the message under water to Seattle, from whence the familiar above-ground telegraph carried it on to New York. It may be remarked that it takes from two to four months for a letter to travel from Chandalar to New York.

Contrary to natural assumption, despite its location above the Arctic Circle, the climate at Chandalar is very mild, the mercury rarely dropping as low as zero, and with the snow never falling to a depth of more than six inches.

Summers are long and warm, at Chandalar, and hardly vegetables and cereals are easy to raise. The Government has maintained an agricultural experiment station ther for several years.—G-2 Ninth Corps Area.



A clear insight into conditions existing in Siberia in the latter part of 1918 and the early part of 1919 was given by Captain William F. Gent, 24th Infantry by means of his monograph, entitled "Personal Experiences in Siberia," delivered recently to the officers of the 24th Infantry. Captain Gent explained the political situation existing at that time and the reasons for American armed participation in that country, the main ones being the protection of allied military stores and to assist in the re-patriation of the Czecko-Slav soldiers in eastern Russia and Western Siberia. After a brief description of the geographical characteristics of the land he related some of his personal experiences. These were most interesting and his audience was greatly inpressed with the ruthlessness and cruelty of the Russian officials then in power.

SOME EXPRESSIONS OF THOUGHT ON THE INFANTRY

The essence of the missions of the various combatant arms have not been changed by the actual events of the World War—Doctrine, Spanish Army.

Normally the ultimate force to be used in national defense is the Army and the only arm of the Army that can ultimately bring about a favorable decision to national defense is the Infantry. Therefore, all other arms of the Army have for their object to help the Infantry to attain the decision, and all peace and war operations of the Navy look ultimately to transporting, protecting and supplying the Army up to and through its decisive campaigns.—From report of a U. S. Naval Board, consisting of seven admirals and the commandant of the Marine Corps, 1925.

In all ages man has, during peace, turned his mind to the invention of mechanical means for winning wars. Some of these inventions have served most practical purposes, but none of them has replaced the Infantry. They have all either served the Doughboy or have disappeared..... Neither the Army or the Navy have placed the Doughboy among the antiques, and both believe that he will be as prominent figure in future wars as in those of the past, and that all modern scientific developments will not replace him but merely assist him as in the past. Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord.

Wars, whether on land or sea, will be won as they have in the past, by the comparatively slow, but irresistible force which is able to move from one strategic position to another, take it, hold it, and move on to the next. On land this force is the Infantry; on sea, it is the battleship.—Maj. Gen. John L. Hines.

It is the occupation of the enemy's territory with Infantry under conditions which will allow it to maintain itself there, which will impose the nation's will upon the nation's adversary.—Hon. Newton D. Baker.

From my observations, the next war will be fought as it has been fought in the past. The Infantry will be the backbone of the offense and the backbone of the defense.—Maj. Gen. C. P. Summerall.

In times of peace we must not be blinded, as we have been in the past, to the sacrifices of the American Doughboy. He was, and always will be, the decisive element in warfare. The prance of horses, the flurish of trumpets, the booms of cannon and the whirl of air propellors cannot replace the dogged determinations, aggressiveness, the "will to win" and the tenacity to hold, of the American Infantryman. The mechanical device can never replace the mental, moral and physical qualities of man.—Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum.

In the end it is the Infantryman who knows the most about the efficacy of combined arms and modern weapons of warfare. Dug in his little hole in close contact with the enemy, he sees the actual results obtained by the employment of all types of material and of all branches of the service. The opinion of the Infantryman of the World War, who made the attack and who held the line, should be given much consideration in the solution of our present problems of proper organization.—Hon. Hanford MacNider.

The "Divorce Evil" as it is still sometimes facetiously termed is becoming so popular that it will not be long before our society editors will have to become police court reporters.

* * *

In fact we are expecting daily to see some such item as the following on the Society Page:

Mrs. John J. Jones Divorces
John J. Jones

A divorce of interest was that of Mrs. John J. Jones and John J. Jones of Walla Wahoe, Georgia, which was premulgated at high noon, Tuesday, November 28, in the Court of Domestic Relations. The knot was skillfully severed by Judge I. Will Freem, in the presence of a mob of relations-in-law, acquaintances—and a few friends. Just before the Gordian knot was cut Mrs. Ray T. Dough sang sweetly, "You've Got To See Mama, Ev'ry Night, or You Can't See Mama At All."

The divorce party entered to the strains of "The Divorce March" by Irving Berlin, which was rendered by Ethyl Quartz. During the proceedings the worthy judge called a recess while the Banjo Boys Band gave a clever recital of the "Prisoner's Song" and "I Wonder If We'll Ever Meet Again."

Acting as co-respondent in the case was Miss Lucy Morrel, alleged "sweetie" of Mr. Jones, whose Reel Slick hosiery in a charming nude shade was the cynosure of all eyes. With the judges permission Miss Morrels completed her testimony with that clever little ballad, "What Can I Say, After I Say, 'I'M Sorry.'"

Mrs. Jones entered with her lawyer and was met at the bar by her husband and his legal retainers. Mrs. Jones was lovely in a traveling suit of wallflower blue and a huge corsage of touch-me-nots. Mr. Jones was also prepared to travel.

When Judge Freem granted the decision the proceedings were halted for a brief period while the ex-Mrs. Jones, nee Miss Mary M. Offen sang sweetly a tender little lyric entitled, "Let's Talk About My Sweetie Now."

This is Miss Offens sixth adventure in matrimony. All of her former husbands were present and, after the proceedings were completed, they were joined by Mr. Jones. The six ex-husbands them formed a sextet and rendered, "Oh, What A Pal Was Mary" and "So, That's The Kind Of A Girl You Are."

Mrs. Jones, nee Mary M. Offen was accompanied by her two small nieces who preceeded her from the court-room singing, "Oh, There Ain't No Flies On Auntie."

PROGRESSING BACKWARD

When I was a little boy
While going to school,
I knew a lot of things,
I was nobody's fool.

When I were in my teens
I can plainly recall,
I sure was real smart,
And say, I knew it all.

When I reached twenty-one,
I took no mans advice,
No one could fool me,
For I was pretty wise.

Going through my thirty's
My earnings came in hard,
I then began to realize
I was not very smart.

Passing through my forty's
I went back another notch,
I began to see the fact
I did not know so much.

To-day I am old and gray,
Will be sixty next fall,
All my knowledge vanished
I know nothing at all.

If old age had strength,
And if youth could see,
What a wonderful place
This old world would be.

Enlisted Men's Holiday Dance

The 24th Infantry enlisted men's dance, sponsored by Company "G" of that regiment, was held in the regimental service club on the evening of December 29, 1926. In order to prevent over crowding certain designated men from the various companies were invited. The first sergeants of the several organizations determined which men would attend. About 100 couples were present. The hall was decorated with the usual Christmas decorations. At ten o'clock light refreshments, consisting of sandwiches and coffee, were served. First Sergeant Walter Jones, Company "G," 24th Infantry, had direct charge of all the details and to him credit is due for the enjoyable evening had by the men of the regiment and their ladies.

Recruit Camp

In order to insure uniform and thorough instruction of the 27 recruits who have recently joined the 24th Infantry, the commanding officer of that regiment, Colonel Wait Johnson, 24th Infantry, has established a special detachment for that purpose. The men will be quartered in a separate area and a very intensive schedule of instruction has been prepared. The course will last approximately three months. At the end of that time it is believed that these men, new to the service, will be well grounded in the elementary duties of a soldier. The recruit detachment is under the command of Captain Walter T. Scott, 24th Infantry. Non-commissioned officers, selected especially because of their abilities as instructors, will be his assistants. These men are Sergeant Frank Toomer, Company "L," 24th Infantry, Corporal Walter Lucas, Company "H," 24th Infantry, and Corporal Levy V. McNeill, Company "M," 24th Infantry.

CO. "C" CO. OFFICERS CLASS

Well we are back with you after a strenous Xmas vacation. Several of us went off on leaves to most all parts of the U. S. while others just stuck around Benning and Columbus and—golfed—Rode—and about the only other things we had to do was get up at 10 a. m. or there abouts. Therefore you can imagine it was easy to start out for work early Monday the 3rd.

Shorty Pierce went to Chicago while on his leave. Now lets see—we are at present trying to learn something about the machine guns. I wonder if he went up there to observe how they used them up in that city.

We hear that a certain Stewgent while on leave fixed a machine gun for a certan boat used to chase run runners. He was told that the gun wouldn't work and hadn't been in working order for six months. Nothing wrong only headspace too tight. Recommended that those in charge of said boat be required to take a course under Prof. Piburn.

The "Vassarites" in "B" Company are again together and playing around as usual.

We haven't taken up equitation yet but if some ride a horse as well as they try to ride a machine gun we ought to have an excellent class. Suggest that Rogers—McClure and Co., come out and look us over.

Garion: Two big ones, Toot Sweet.

It is getting to be a habit with that Twenty Ninth Infantry to "lead the way in tuition payments. This month Major Bowen was the number one daddy with his check, with Colonel Gowen and Major Bootz, commanding the I. S. D., close behind. We hold them up as a good example.

The teaching staff of the school has been augmented by the addition of one assistant in the Kindergarten. Miss Elizabeth Dexter, of Columbus, has been appointed to help Miss Phillips. Miss Dexter, among her other qualifications for the work, has completed a course in "Child Psychology" at Sewanee College and will have ample opportunity for practical application of the latest theories in child management. Miss Dexter is an active member of Trinity Church in Columbus and is on the Sunday School teaching staff of the parish.

On Tuesday afternoons the Principal and teachers remain after school hours to help pupils needing special assistance. Parents desireing to consult the teachers are invited to call at the school on any Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

There are now vacancies in Kindergarten and First Grade for pupils who desire to start school. Application may be made to the Officer in Charge or to the Principal at the School.

WHERE THEY DRAW THE LINE

"Why," exclaimed the missionary, as the ship neared the savage island, "those cannibals on shore appear to be civilized. They're wearing clothes just like mine."

"Well," returned the captain of the ship, "they're civilized enough so that they don't eat the missionary's clothes, too."—Amer. Leg. Monthly.

UTILITIES DEPART.

Mr. Buchanan, our handsome young plumber foreman, has returned to duty after a short absence. He was out on the reservation with a pig hunting party, and started back to the post about 3:30 p. m. as a guide for some of the guests. They were one and a half miles out at that time, and were carrying a 250 pound pig. At 9:30 that night, when the rescuers found them, they were somewhere in the vicinity of Harp's Pond, and had eaten half the pig.

Repairs to the Air Service Hangars in the old aviation field have been about completed. These buildings are at present used for the storage of air service property, but it is probable that they will eventually be the nucleus of a real landing field.

A bad break in the old wooden water mains recently occasioned the loss of almost a million gallons of water before it could be located and repaired. This occurred between midnight and 4:00 a. m. and when the post awakened the next morning the tanks had been almost refilled, so that no inconvenience was suffered by the consumers.

PROPERTY OFFICE

Miss Ward is back from her leave, and having braved the swollen streams in the flood area of Mississippi on her return, she arrived at the Post just in time to receive her vaccination.

Binns turned in one day of his authorized leave, that day being 'Pay Day.'

Perrin dreaded the vaccination, but after learning that it was free he was strong for it.

Bussey gets more miles to the gallon than the motor people claim— that's natural with all of us. This means you.

Mr. Woolbright has taught his wife to drive the car; he now takes daily walking exercise.

The Property Branch is experiencing very strennuous days since the beginning of the new year. The regular quarterly issues in addition to monthly issues are to be cared for. It seems also that during the holiday season a large number of inhabitants of Fort Benning decided there was urgent need for additional household furniture and equipment. Calls for such articles and deliveries are coming in thick and fast.

COMMISSARY

With the limited personnel these are very strenuous days in all departments.

Work has been started on the extension of the Ice Plant. This additional space will permit taking cars of the entire garrison next summer.

In the course of the past week a fresh stocks of sales articles has been received. The articles received and on sale are as follows:

Apples, evaporated, Hominy grits, Cigars, Alhambra Londres, Hash, Corned Beef, Cigarettes, Camels & Chesterfields, Ham, Sugar Cured, Candy, stick and lemon drops, Jelly powder, assorted flavors, Cornmeal, white, Listerine, Cream of Wheat, Mushrooms, 8 oz. cans, Cocoanut, shredded, Oil, Wesson, quarts, Crackers, Saltines, 3-lbs., Sausage, Vienna, 2 lbs., cans, Chipped beef, dry.

LAUNDRY NOTES

The Central of Georgia train can, as a rule, be counted on to be on time. During the holidays it is supposed that it too got the holiday spirit, as it caused the laundry to lose from ten to thirty minutes each day by failure to get the employees to work on time. Thirty minutes lost time for sixteen employees amounts to a whole day's work, and it is hoped that the New Year starts out differently.

Mrs. Leila Heckert is back with us again after her vacation.

We are all delighted to have a former Laundry Officer, Lieut. H. C. Mitchell, call by to see us last Friday. It the overcoat he had on means anything, he must be doing exceedingly well at his new station. The overcoat was new, but he still had the old smile.

Sergeant Tom Tompkins was discharged on 2nd and immediately re-enlisted. Tommy is an "old timer" having been with the company for over six years.

A majority of the men on Christmas furlough have returned and with most of the company intact we are ready to fight the battles of 1927.

REGTL. HDQ. CO

1st Sgt. A. C. Houghtby, was discharged per ETS. and re-enlisted, 3rd day of January, this will be his third enlistment with Regtl. Hq. Co. We are very glad indeed to have him with us. Sgt. Haughtby, is one of the best 1st Sergeants this Company has ever had.

Cpl. Clark, was also discharged per ETS. and re-enlisted. Although he has taken a three months furlough and departed to Boston, Mass., where he will spend his vacation sleigh driving. Cpl. Clark, is a fine soldier, and we'll be glad when he reports back for duty.

Upon a request of the 1st Sgt. Andy Gump, will be given a stick, of candy.

Our beloved Corporal Hamacher is now on a fifteen day furlough and it is a rumor, of course only a rumor, that he has become hitched to one of Columbus' fair Damsels. Good Luck "Hamp," we are with you.

Detweiler, our orderly room sheik, has been severely bitten by the Raido Bug and we sincerely sympathize with him in this latest trou shortcoming.

Our recreation room is now bettered to the extent of a "brand new" Victor Orthephonic and Pfs. Stantley P. May has nearly lost his mind over same. Won't someone take him in charge and keep him away from the Rrcreation Room.

COMPANY "C"

Corporal Rose has reported back from furlough. Jimmy is a married man now.

Well, the holidays are over now, so back we go to "squads east" and "squads west."

The following men reported back from their Christmas furlougs: Sgt. Rayl, Corp. Kimbrell, Pvts. Forbes, Tinsley, Haley, Newman, Heaton, and Kornegay.

1st Sgt. J. A. Barton received a twenty day extension on his furlough.

Corp. Smith has received a ninty day furlough. Hope you enjoy it Smitty.

JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF,

COMPANY "D"

John Swiney, the pride of old Kentucky has been placed on special duty with the Twenty-ninth Infantry Officer's Mess and will in future probably be a great help to that master craftsman, Joe Lidouer, the Hoboken Kid.

At the latest reports it has been confidently estimated that the present construction work on the tents in our company street will be completed some time in the fiscal year ending 1947 barring accidents.

"Red Grange" Noble, Pavo's most famous son, recently came close to fame on the gridiron. He played two mintues of the game. The only touchdown old Noble ever made was touching his lips to a government issue bugle and the only lines he ever plunged were the pay line and the chow line.

Paul Burch famed locally as the notorious red headed terrapin is now doing company duty after a couple of years as a company mechanic. When Burch gets on K. P. he makes the brooms and mops dance a Black Bottom to the tune of "Nearer My God To Thee" and the dishes gallop to the strains of "Bye-Bye, Blackbird."

What! No braised beef on toast! What kind of a breakfast is this?

GEORGE RUDOLPH BECKER.

COMPANY "H"

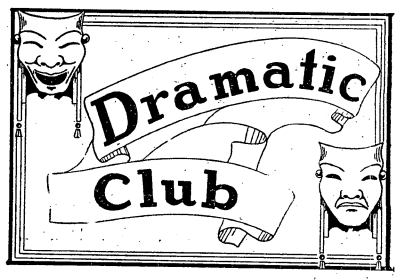
Corporal Ellis was discharged this week per the ETS. Route. Corporal Ellis hails from North Carolina, and expresses his desire to return and take up the plow handles again. Good luck to you Ellis, and may you be as successful in that field of endeavor as you have been here in the past three years.

Corporal Shettles has returned from a Furlough. He spent the past sixty days at his home in Tupelo Mississippi. He reports that the hills are still there, with the swamps between.

We have had quite a number of Recruits assigned to the Company within the past few days. We hope that these men will like the Company as well as the men who are now its members, and feel sure that they will. Just a bit of advice to you boys; "When in Rome, do as the Romans do." You're in the Army now.

The Company has been on two Hog Hunts lately. Both times they got "what the little boy shot at." Several of the boys went out of their own accord and managed to bag four poor helpless rabbits. Why be so cruel boys? Do you not know that men of your courage and ability as hunters make it a practice to hunt larger and better game?

Corporal "Country" Pharr wishes to announce that he has to go "Fix the fire." 'Ata boy Country.



An attractive program has been arranged for "stunt night" at the Polo Club at 8:30 p. m., the eighth instant. No one is to be called upon impromptu.

With music, dacing, refreshment, and "stunts" a novel and enjoyable evening is promised.

An erroneous announcement was made in last week's issue of the Infantry School News that guests would be invited for "stunt night." This entertainment is for members only.

Much progress has been made on rehearsals for the three act comedy "Nothing but the Truth" which is to be given in the War Department Theatre at an early date.

This play is for presentation to the public and the director Lieutenant Frank A. DeRoin, Infantry is holding extended daily rehearsals in order that a finished production may be seen.

Detailed announcements are in preparation and as soon as a few more details are arranged these will be promulagated in these columns, the Columbus press and by means of placards and some eye filling posters. Watch for these announcements.

Several members of the Dramatic Club very much enpoyed the lecture given in the Scottish Rite Hall in Columbus on the third instant by Mrs. Elizabeth Hanley, Dramatic Consultant of the Playground Recreation Association. It was a distinct pleasure and satisfaction to find that our Dramatic Club is working along right lines in organization and procedure.

An effort is being made to have a dramatic institute in Columbus next March at which those interested may for a nominal fee take courses in various dramatic features such as organization of clubs, publicity, lighting, directing, costuming, make up etc., and members of this Dramatic Club have been invited to participate in this institute. Some members have indicated a desire to study certain subjects at this institute if and when it is held.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE U. S. MILITARY ACADEMY, WEST POINT, N. Y.

In 1776, when the control of the Hudson River was recognized as essential by both contestants in the Revolution, it was realized that West Point was the key to that control. The American forces at once began to fortify West Point and vicinity. Fort Constitution was erected on the island directly across from Point; two other forts were built six miles down the Hudson.

Since the high ground of West Point proper comanded Constitution Island, it was seen almost at the very beginning that the site of Fort Constitution was badly chosen. It was not until two years later, however, under Kosciusko, that the Americans corrected this state of affairs by erecting Fort Arnold on the Plain of West Point and Fort Putnam on the high ground to the west.

In addition, the many redoubts built on the hills surrounding Fort Putnam, the various batteries constructed along the river on the north and east sides of the Point, and the famous iron chain stretched across the Hudson on log floats, all contributed to make West Point an impregnable fortress.

Washington made his headquarters at West Point during part of 1779. The next year Benedict Arnold was given command of West Point. His treachery is too well known to need comment.

The history of the Military Academy itself has been one of constant growth. In 1794 the first "cadets" were authorized. They were armed and paid as sergeants but messed with and performed some of the duties of officers. In 1802, nine cadets, authorized from all branches of the Army, reported for instruction. This event marks the actual beginning of the Military Academy. It was not until 1817, however, when Major Sylvanus Thayer became Superintendent, During his sixteen years as Superin- that the Academy started to function as a real Military Academy. The Superintendent, Colonel Thayer (called the "Father of the Military Academy"), worked out the policies that have been followed ever since. These far-reaching ideas of Colonel Thayer included the basis of the present curriculm, the division of Cadets into four classes, the organization of the Corps of Cadets into a Battalion, the establishment of Summer Camp, and the granting of furloughs. He even designed the present style of Cadets uniforms.

Since Colonel Thayer's day, many important experiments, changes, and improvements have been made; a five year course was tried and abandoned; the size of the Corps has been increased from a hundred to twelve hundred; millions of dollars have been put into buildings and equipment; courses of study have been broadened; and athletic and physical training are now playing a most important part in every cadet's life.

What was once an Engineer school, with nine cadets in attendance, and with but one wooden building for its limited activities, is now the foremost and best-equipped military school in the world.

SUMMER CAMP

Summer camp for the Cadets has existed since 1817. It lasts from Graduation (about June 12) to the end of furlough (August 28). The purpose of the camp is to give practical outdoor military training. The terrain available includes about 4000 acres. Excellent target ranges are availabel, as are adequate districts for tactical problems and military maneuvers. To give wider and more varied training, these problems and maneuvers are held in districts removed from the normal limits to which cadets are restricted during the period of Academic duties.

From Graduation until the end of June, Cadets of the new first class are away at Fort Wright, Fishers Island, and Mitchell iFeld, Long Island. At each place they undergo a week's training: Coast Artillery at the former, aircraft training at the latter place. The Yearling Class are having Rifle and Pistol work on the ranges. The Second Class are on Furlough (leave).

With the coming of the new Plebe Class (Freshmen) on July 1, and the return of the First Class, active summer training starts. It runs through July and August. The Plebes are trained as a unit, with Cadets of the First Class as instructors. Besides fundamental military subjects, their training includes dancing and swimming. It is concluded by a four day practice march during which these new Cadets get their first chance at camping out.

Upper class summer training covers a progressive two-year schedule of advanced military subjects, including riding, radio instruction, tractor driving, and machine gun and artillery firing. The summer military training of the upper classes is concluded by a three day Field Exercise.

The new Plebes undergo all-day training. The training schedule alternates forty minute drill periods with twenty minute rest periods, and devotes the last hour daily to Instructural Athletics—Football, Baseball, Basketball, Track, Soccer, Lacrosse.

The upper classmen have military training up to noon only. Their afternoons are free for the various recreations afforded a cadet. These recreations include, among others, Tennis, Golf, Conoeing, and Riding.

During the period of summer encampment, there are hops, moving pictures, and band concerts three time a week. The famous Cadet Color Line entertainments, given on Sunday evenings, include various vaudeville acts put on by the Cadets themselves. They are called Color Line entertainments because they were formerly given at the end of the line of stacked rifles, upon the center of which the National Colors were draped.

The culmination of summer camp is Camp Illumination, held the night before Camp is broken. The entire camp is illuminated and decorated. The Company streets and Cadet tents are made to look like Fairyland, or like scenes in Oriental cities. The next morning, however, like Fairyland itself, the whole camp has vanished; and as the drummer sounds "Taps" and the tents fall, Summer Camp is no more.

AND MAKE 'EM FIFTY CENTERS

"Please, sir,' said the timid bookkeeper, approaching his employer, "I'd like to have a little raise in salary—just a little, if you don't mind, sir. You see, I became the father of twins yesterday."

"I should say not!" roared the boss. "Absolutely nothing doing! Say, wait a minute, you tightwad! Aren't you going to pass out the cigars?"—Amer. Leg. Monthly.

THE MOUNTAIN BATTERY SONG

Fall in, fall in, attention, you red-legged mountaineers
With your gun and pack and box of tack, non-coms and cannoneers;
Baptist in Mindanao beside the Sulu Sea,
With a tow and a tow and a tow, row, row, from a mountain battery;
With a tow and tow and a tow, row, row, from a mountain battery.

I'd rather be a soldier with a mule and a mountain gun,
Than a knight of old with spurs of gold, a Roman, Greek, or Hun;
For when there's something doing, they always send for me,
To start the row with a tow, row, row, from a mountain battery;
To start the row with a tow, row, row, from a mountain battery.

Here's to pack and aparejo, to cradle, gun and trail;
To the darned old fool, the battery mule, that's never known to fail.
Then lift your glasses high and drink this toast with me:
Here's a how, and a how, and a how, how to a mountain battery;
Here's a how, and a how, and a how, how to a mountain battery.

ALBANY'S TRIANGLE FIVE COMES BACK TO DEFEAT INFANTRY IN LAST HALF

"Skipper" Smith Leads South Georgia Team to 25-21 Victory in Close-Guarding Game

After trailing throughout the first half of Wednesday night's game in the garrison gymnasium, the basketeers of the Albany Y. staged a remarkable comeback in the final period and nosed out the Infantry five in an exciting contest featured chiefly by the close guarding of both teams. The final count was 25 to 21. Had the soldiers' eyes been bright, the result might have been different, but miss after miss on easy tries for goal neutrailized the best dribbling and passing that the military men have put out this year.

Johnny Roosma, brilliant Infantry forward, scored the first points less than 30 seconds after the opening tipoff on a long toss from near the center of the floor and throughout the remainder of the first half the Infantry held the upper hand. The play surged up and down the floor, but the Benningites held possession of the ball for almost three fourths of the time, and should have rolled up a very comfortable margin before the mid-game intermission. Failure to cage the cripples was the outstanding fault. Roosma caged three from the floor and two from the charity line to put his team in the lead 13 to 9 when the gun shot.

The visitors from the Pecan City didn't start strong in the last half. Kammerer and Roosma scored from the floor before the incaders got started, to make the score 17 to 9, but from then on it was was all Albany. The South Georgians' passing system approached perfection and with "Skipper" Smith leading the

TANKERS AND KELLYS MEET FOR INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS CUP

Major Miller's Prima Donnas Will Attempt to Snatch Football Laurels From Doughboy Team

Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. the Terrible Tankers will make their fourth annual effort to lift the garrison football crown from the laughty brows of the 2nd Battalion doughboys. Three times in a row the boys from the Demonstration regiment have demonstrated that you can't beat the Infantry, but the Caterpillar Conductors refuse to be convinced and once more are proving themselves firm believers in the old "If at first you don't succeed" adage and injunction.

On paper the teams appear practically evenly matched. It may be argued, and in fact is being argued earnestly, that compared man for man the Tankers have a slight edge, but when the performance of the two teams so far this season is considered little difference in strength shows on the surface. Tanks advocates point to the fact that their lads downed the 1st Battalion by 47 points while the Kels were victorious over the same aggregation by only 20 markers; but those who uphold the Doughboy side of the argument point with pride to the 33-0 win of the Kels against the Gunners as compared with a 7-3 licking administered by "Red" Lindsey and company.

At all events its sure to be the game of the garrison season. The Tanks are thirsting for revenge for previous lickings while the Kels are serenely confident of again hoisting the colors of the 2nd Battalion to the top of the pole.

The Commandant will witness the game and at its conclusion will present the Infantry School News cup, emblematic of garrison championship to the winning team.

LAST QUARTER RALLY GIVES FIRST BATS TIE WITH CANNONEERS

Doughboys Maintain Record of Never Finishing in League's Cellar Berth

Striking back with the ferocity of tigers after the Gunners of the 83rd Field Artillery had taken the lead in the third quarter the fighting doughboys from the 1st Battalion Wednesday preserved their record of never finishing last in the garrison football league. True they earned only a 6-6 tie with the caisson riders, and thus divided cellar honors, but it kept the record clean.

It was a hard fought, thoroughly interesting, contest although perhaps somewhat below the standard set by the Tanks or the Kellys. For half the game it was as perfect a deadlock as can be imagined. Neither team could muster sufficient offensive strength to make any marked impression on its opponents. One first down for the Artillery and two for the 1st Battalion constituted the entire attack of the first half, which ended with large round zeros decorating both sides of the scoreboard.

In the third quarter the Infantrymen started out apparently headed for victory, but towards the middle of the period the Gunners obtained possession of the ball on their own 41-yard line. A couple of plays failed to make any appreciable headway. Then McAuliffe dropped back and shot a perfect 19-yard pass to Douglas and the lanky end sprinted the remaining 40 yards for the initial six points of the game. The try for point failed.

Rallying desperately the doughboys, after receiving the kickoff started a parade up the field. Once they were checked, but only after they had carried the ball well into the danger zone. The "Skis," Romploski and Van Groski were the principal aggressors.

At the opening of the final period Wargo kicked from behind his own goal line to the Artillery 24-yard strip and from here the Demonstationists launched the drive that tied things in a knot.

Repeated line plunges by Van Grofski and Romploski carried the ball over the touchdown, the former making the ultimate drive. Allen missed the point from dropkick. After this the Cannoneers tried desperately to regain the lead, but altho they threatened on two occasions, they were unable to put over the finishing punch.

Van Grofski of the 1st Battalion in addition to playing his usual brilliant defensive game, was the principal ground gainer for his team. Time after time he smashed the Artillery forwards for substantial advances. McFadden and Schee-

THE AIDE PAID

A short time ago the aide to one of our general officers, driving at night, was blinded by the headlights of an approaching car and ran into a farm wagon carrying a family, but no lights. He stood suit and lost the decision. Appealed and lost again, though local laws required all vehicles to carry lights at night. Due to his associations, personal and official, he had the very best advice and strong military influences to back him. Nevertheless for a long and wearisome period his monthly income was reduced by large partial payments on this judgment, court costs and attorney's fees, in addition to which he had to take leave three times to appear in a court of an adjoining state where the accident occurred.

He called on us later to protect him against personal liability, as well as every other coverage he had heard about.

What car do you own? Have you personal liability protection?

Write us for particulars.

Place of meeting—Polo Club.
Date of meeting — first and third Mondays.
Date of next meeting—January 17.
Time—2:15.

The first meeting of the new year will present a rare opportunity to all members of the Infantry School Woman's Club, for Captain Gottfried W. Spoerry will lecture on the Culion Leper Colony located on Polawan Island in the Philippines. Captain Spoerry became interested in these most unfortunate of all living people when he was stationed in Manila and went to Culion to make a personal investigation of conditions. He is an authority on the situation there and knows more than any person in America what is being done and what is needed to be done for those condemned to this living death. The subject is of vital interest and one that every one should know something of. Yet it is necessarily unpleasant and if there is any danger of your wishing you had not seen and heard what he has to offer I hereby give you this warning.

The problem of leprosy faces practically every country. In the U. S. there are 1,200 well defined cases, in China over 100,000 and even more in India. In the Philippines there are 10,000 lepers, 5,600 of which are in the Culion Colony, where Capt Spoerry spent three days taking pictures and studying the problem first hand.

He will show his pictures if the club can be sufficiently darkened.

Capt. Spoerry has lectured in New York, Chicago and many of the great centers of population, where his masterful speech has been most thoughtfully received.

After his lecture Mrs. Cowley, whose lovely dancing has been the sensation of the past, will do two dances, after which Mrs. Lough and Mrs. Green will be hostesses at tea.

The Literature Section of the Woman's Club met Monday with Mrs. Landis. Literature of the Far West was the subject of the afternoon's study and this program, more than any other, introduced us to new authors and a new note in American writing.

Mrs. Ahrends presented a most thoughtful study of James Stevens and his "Paul Bunyon." All people know England and her King Arthur, France and her Roland, Greece and her Ulysses and so on, but who could name America's mythical hero? James Stevens, a young lumberman of the Far West, has made a distinct contribution to literature in his "Paul Bunyan" the mythical hero of the American woodsman. Mighty giant who, besides his physical strength, is endowed with the finest qualities of mind and heart. Indeed his book is an American mythology explaining very charmingly such natural phenomena as Grand Canyon, Yosemite Valley, Pikes Peak, the Black Hills of Idaho, Salt Lake and others. 'Tis indeed a delightful extravaganza excellent food for a starved imagination.

Mrs. Boniface Campbell presented as only a California girl could, "My Own Story" by Fremont Older, the graphic reproduction of this San Francisco editor's fearless newspaper fight to rid his beloved city of political bosses, whose graft bled the poor like leeches.

Mrs. Tom Fox introduced Harry Leon Wilson's "Cousin Jane' so delightfully that we actually lived in the magnificent lovely house with the Cousins—went to see the thrilling movie with Jane and were quite as pleased as she at its ending.

Mrs. Philip Peyton told us of George Sterling read his lovely poem "The Last Days" and reviewed his book on Robinson Jeffers, that poet who dwells in Falcon Tower, a stone fortress built by his own hands, overlooking Carmel Bay. Robinson Jeffers, that poet who lives apart from men, creating great characters whose fates recall those of master dramatist of ancient and glorious Greece.

The next meeting of this club will be Monday, Jan. 24, at Mrs. G. R. Cook's quarters, 14-436, when the Literature of New England will be discussed.

The Child Study Club met with Mrs. H. W. Keith on Tuesday, at which time "The Establishing of Helpful Habits" was discussed. Especially interesting is this most important phase of child training, for upon habits depend the health and happiness of the child—to say nothing of the peace of the family!

attack they gradually overhauled the home team's lead, tied the count at 17 all and then assumed the lead 19 to 17 on a shot by the "Skipper." A moment later "Red" Newman dropped one through to deadlock things again, but this was the last stand of the Doughboys. Hardy shot a couple, and Cherry added another to sew things up in quick order. A dying effort by the Benningites yielded a pretty goal by Franz, but failed of decisive results.

Speculation in Army - Navy Football Tickets

Considerable newspaper publicity concerning the large number of tickets in the hands of speculators for the Army-Navy football game led the Army Athletic Association to employ special investigators to determine what Army tickets had been permitted to get into improper hands. Through these investigators it was learned that the reports of the number of tickets offered for sale was greatly exaggerated. In most cases the speculators stated that while they did not have the tickets at hand they had access to large blocks of Army or Cadet tickets, which upon follow up proved not to be the case.

Of those tickets offered for sale many were identified and were easily traced to those members to whom they were issued who have been called upon to explain why these tickets were permitted to be diverted from their proper use. Considerable embarrassment has been caused members and replies received to date indicate that in the majority of cases the difficulty was caused through the tickets having passed through several hands until the holders felt little personal responsibility for their proper use. Final action in each case will be taken by the Athletic Board when all replies have been received.

This investigation indicated a lack of proper regard for the certificate for personal use on the ticket application in several cases. This disclosure is most regrettable in that the applications as a whole indicate that most of our members are "playing the game" with us to secure the proper distribution of tickets and on finding that they cannot use personal use tickets requested for themselves, have returned them to this office for exchange.

The investigation also showed that the implications of newspaper articles to the effect that many tickets issued to cadets were offered for sale, were wholly without basis in fact.

As previously announced and especially emphasized in the circluar issued on September first, members retain responsibility for all tickets issued to them for their personal use or for the use of friends.

Rudolph Valentino's last picture,—famous not only because of its star actor, but also because of the burning loves and bitter hates of the desert that form the highly dramatic materials out of which this picture was made. The story is laid among the Moors in the Sahara Desert. It is considered a powerful story.

MONDAY JAN. 17

"The Midnight Limited," a dramatic melodrama starring Wylie Hawley. It is the story of a vagrant crook who after many wild escapades became an honest and worth-while citizen.

"Phantom Police No. 5."— Herbert Rawlinson.

TUESDAY JAN. 18

"The Flaming Forest," featuring Antonio Moreno and Renee Adoree in the "cosmopolitan" production from the story by James Oliver Curwood. This is a story of the Canadian northwest in the year 1869, glorifying the interpid mounted police force of our northern neighbors.

"Swimming Instructor,"—A Van Bibber.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 19

"Thirty Below Zero," starring Buck Jones. The story starts in the palatial home of a wealthy father in New York. The pridical son is just recovering from a wild party given by the Follies Chorus, at Hotel Ritzmore. The son, Don, having, in a wild moment, promised to marry three "chorus ladies," takes flight with them and their lawyers in a powerful plane, and the funny trouble starts when they land, without gas, in the frozen North.

"Long Pants,, Tryon comedy.

THURSDAY JAN. 20

"The Eagle of The Sea," featuring Florence Vedor and Ricardo Cortez in a story of the Spanish aMin, where the last of the Pirate chieftains comes to life. Romance, intrigue, and gay life in a Spanish Garden, promises a variety, which will hold the audience spell bound.

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY JAN. 21

"Sparrows," starring Mary Pickford, "the beloved." The story is highly dramatic and filled with pleasing comedy depicting Mary as a twelve year old girl, "Mama Mollie," battling for her picturesque retinue of orphans against the harsh keeper of a baby farm in the southern swamp country.

29TH INFANTRY SCHOOL FOR ILLITERATES

A splendid example of the educational and character building work of the army may be found in the illiterate school of the Twenty-ninth Infantry where foreign born soldiers and American illiterates or near-illiterates may obtain the rudiments of an elementary academic education from a thoroughly competent instructor, Private First Class Bernard H. Cowan of First Battalion Headquarters, Company.

Nearly all the great European powers and most of the Southern states are represented at the school where over forty students are enrolled. Subjects taught include reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling and other subjects calculated to better fit students for not only their routine army duties but also for responsibilities of civil life.

Private Cowan, the instructor whose state lies immediately north of this one is a high school graduate and has had three years experience teaching in Tennessee near his home in Rutherford County of that state. In the execution of his duites, Cowan not only has excited the admiration of his commanding officer but also won the respect and kindly regard of his students.

Classes of the school are held four times weekly in the Howitzer company class room, Twenty-ninth Infantry area. Both instrucor and pupils are excused from all duties which occur during the school period. As soon as a man has demonstrated that he has acquired the requiring erudition he is excused from further attendance.

It is planned to institute studies in American citizenship sometime in the near future as soon as more time is granted for this purpose. The proposed course in citizenship will promote interest in naturalizaton among the alien element in the regiment, it is expected.

(Overheard in the Mess Sergeants Room)

Sgt. Langston:—"Why don't you come in for breakfast when I ring the bell!"

Tech. Sgt. Mitzen:—"Well its this way Claude, I thought if I came in late, maybe I'd get some Ham and Eggs."

Sgt. Langston:—"I'm sorry Tech. but I was trying to keep my chickens up on hot water so they would lay a few hard boiled eggs, but the darn birds couldn't stand it.

Mitzen:—"How about some Ham then."

Langston:—"The ham is obsolete."

Mitzen:—"Say, theres a good show on tonight, and they have some nice fresh ropes (Cigars) ever at the Postex—"

Langston:—(Interrupting) The cooks will fix you right up.

Corporal Keenan returned from furlough, and reports that everything looks rosy now. The writer is still looking for the rose colored glasses.

Sgt. Mathews is still leaving for town quite regular, and the writer is anxious to know when he is going to name the happy day.

Sgt. O'Neil is the most active member of the Board of Trade. Twice a week he is seen making his way to the merry village rain or shine. He was heard explaining to Corporal Devoice, how to become a member of that exclusive organization. Corporal Devoice's answer is a secret.

SERGEANT A. W. HAZUDA.

COMPANY "C"

Our wandering First-Sergeant returned to us last night. We all wonder if Chicago was in a calm state when he left.

When Craig and Jiggs went hunting they almost brought back a whole rabbit.

The Admiral got so wet he decided he wanted to be relieved, so Cowboy got the barber shop.

Pvt. Newman used up his ration check paying for the telegrams he sent the company collect. Hope you enjoyed yourself, Newman.

JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "D"

A communication from Dusty Rhodes, the good looking Floridan recently arrived in which he stated that he was coming back to "D" company as soon as they stopped serving hot tea and cocoa.

The following first class privates were made during the past week:

Private Russell of North Carolina.

Private Arthur Kennedy, also made sixth class specialist, and, also the writer.

Private Doveard Rum Spear, a splendid example of our one year men, recently took on a three year stack and departed on furlough to the distant city of Columbus, Georgia where he will spend the next three months in more or less seclusion. We wouldn't do you time in a strawberry patch eating short cake, Speer.

GEO. RUDOLPH BECKER.

HQ. CO. 2nd Battalion

Staff Sergeant Harvey was discharged the 3rd and immediately re-enlisted. Sergeant Harvey has been with the 29th over "eight years," having joined the Regiment in Panama.

The company has lost, and will lose several good men within the next few days. During the past week Corporal Sawvitsky, Nard, Pvts. Pierce, Mullen, Phillips were discharged per ETS. They expressed much sorrow in leaving the company. We wish them much luck.

Our former acting top-kick, then known as Sergeant Biggerstaff was recently discharged from D. E. M. L. (R. O. T. C.) University of Tennessee and immediately re-enlisted for the 29th Infantry unassigned; assigned to this company January 2nd, appointed Corporal 3rd. We are glad to have Corporal Biggerstaff in the company again.

Field & Administrative orders issued, and after moblization was completed the field of battle was taken at D Hour January 11, 1927, all troops mounted. The gossip of all inhabitants of the hostile area proves that they are all 100% for the cause, and replacements can be easily obtained if necessary. The war will be recorded as another "Boar War." This company is well represented in the campaign and we are assured of a big barbecue sometime soon.

W. H. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "E"

Our estimable 1st Sgt. was discharged on the fourth but decided he will stay for another hitch. He bought himself a brand new Chevie to take on his hunting trips to help carry all the game that he kills.

The mess Sgt. has gone on a thirty day furlough. We wonder what we will get for chow now.

On the 15th of this month Cpl. Biling will be discharged, not to reup, as he claims that a certain young lady up north is patiently waiting. Good Luck George, send us all a piece of cake.

Evidently a certain member of this company is in love judging from the remarkable amount of phone calls he has received in the last few days. Lets know who she is Jessie, so that we will know where to send the flowers.

Lt Roosma late of this company has once more been assigned to the company He will take over the team and coach them in the art of passing a basket ball. The boys don't know how long he will be with us but they're hoping that it will be for a long time.

MILLARD F. MATHEWS.

COMPANY "G"

Our mess sergeant Howard S. Brown, was discharged a few days ago and has taken an another three years. We are looking forward to better spuds and gravy in the future.

Many of the boys that went home to see Santa Claus and bring in the New Year, have returned to the company looking as though they enjoyed their "turkey." They are all ready for the spring maneuvers.

Corporal Kuhn is counting his days with us. We can tell that his time is short by the new growth on his face. If he keeps his "gotee" growing he will keep the ladies plenty of company at home. We hope he will decide to stay with us and it looks as though he may. The 18th of this month will be his New Year gift from "Uncle."

WALTER ROWELL.

COMPANY "H"

It has often been said, that, "Repetition is the school of perfection." If there be any truth in it at all, "H" Company should have the reputation of of being perfect. For the fourth consecutive time, we have managed to win the Regimental Blue Pennant. Of course, we feel that it is an honor to have won this Pennant, but if there were any more to be won, there is very little doubt but what we would win it too.

Private Parkins has been discharged in the past week, and it is thought that he will return to his native hills of North Carolina. There he will while away the rest of his time acting as Dolphin in some Cotton mill.

Private Covon has been returned to duty, after having acted as Recreation Room Orderly for the past four months. Private Maudlin has relieved him, and promises to make the old place look more inviting to those who are pleasure bound.

Pvt. Lipman has the spirit that will yet win for himself and the Company a great honor some day. It is yet to be seen, the form of athletics that he will not turn out for. He is the first to turn out for basket ball, and the last to quit. That's the way to do it Jew."

Captain C. L. Castano of the Cuban Army, has been assigned to the Company for the purpose of observing the machine gun drill. We all hope that the Captain will find his time with us beneficial as well as pleasant.

BERNARD B. SWAYZE.

COLLEGE GIRLS TO VOCALIZE FOR DEMONSTRATIONISTS

Feminine representatives from that prolific source of merriment and jollification the American College campus will entertain the Demonstrationists of the Twenty-ninth Infantry, Sunday night after the movies with a delightful program of high class musical numbers executed with the regulation collegiate verve.

There are four damsels from the classic halls of learning all of them being either graduates or former students at schools of recognized standing. Their repertoirs of novelty numbers is extensive ranging from a critical rendition of Saint Saens "Spring Song" which incidentially is the motif of Aolphe Menjou's latest starring vehicle to college songs calling for changes of costume including Japanese gowns, college robes and Scotch kilts.

Solo numbers and pianologes favorbaly commented on by such news papers as the Brewster (N. Y.) Sstandard and Newport (R.I.) News contribute their share to the value of the program. In brief a journey to the Twenty-ninth Infantry Theatre Sunday night will pay excellent dividends for the half dollar that is charged for admission.

Dramatic Club

"Stunt night" at the Polo Club on the 8th instant was hugely enjoyed by practically every member of the club. It was a revelation to see to what proportions the club has grown during its short life. The large crowd present made dancing difficult but no difficulty was experienced by anyone in enjoying the program prepared exclusively for amusement purposes or in securing a portion of the excellent spread prepared by the committee consisting of La. A. R. C Sanders, Mrs. Partridge and Mrs. Pollin.

Ball room steps were smoothly and gracefully executed by Major and Mrs. Ryder to the great delight of the audience and as an encore little Louise Ryder did a spirited Charleston which brought down the house.

Mrs. Cowley executed in costume a Hungarian Folk Dance with a technique which is rarely seen outside the Rialto of four largest cities. Mrs. Cowley is noted for the high class dancing she has done for the amusement of the garrison and this performance was up to the standard she has set.

The skit "Mr. Mulhall of Miami" especially written by Captain Geo. L. King for this occasion was put on by Captains L. R. Boyd, Holmes E. Dager, and William A. Collier and was a scream from start to finish. Many funny local "cracks" were put over and the crowning effort "At our Polo Tea last week" a trio by the cast made such a lasting impression upon some of the audience that its echoes were heard at the drag hunt the following morning

Lt. Alston Deas as a wriggler of the Hula Hula from Waikiki was a performer ne plus ultra and altho he said he had expurgated and denatured his dance it was the consesus of opinion that he "sure shook a mean vertebra." He has nothing to fear from the present excitement about reduction in officer personnel for he is a whole show in himself plus the door mat.

Captain and Mrs. John K. Rice performed "A Little Jazz" in their usual finished and pleasing manner. It is always hard when watching Mrs. Rice dance to realize that she has not been especially imported for the occasion. She is what is known in dramatic parlance as a "sure fire hit."

"Telling it to Benny" a short playlet by Lt. and Mrs. Deroin with Lt. Hester as "Benny" caused exacerbations of the pains in the sides of every member of the audience. It appears that "Benny," having reached years of discretion must be told the truth about Santa Claus but the devious paths leading up to the actual telling furnished many a laugh for the appreciative listeners.

"Cleopatra" a pantomine executed with faithful attention to detail by Lt. Caswell in the stellar role, Captain Saulnier as Antony and Lt. Deroin as Cleopatra's "Woman of the Bedchamber" evoked loud yells of laughter and when "Antony," having successfully rid himself of the dread halitosis, was permitted to enjoy the embraces of the fair "Cleopatra" the audience was properly satisfied and pleased.

Other light touches were added as fillers-in by Lt. Deroin in his absolutely foolish and wholly unreasonable "initations" of the Smith Brothers individually and collectively, the "Bulgarian weasel crying for its mother" and "The Australian Oyster" with the rigid limbs and by Lt. Sander with his exact rendition of the language of a recruit sentry at Camp Lewis following the big recruiting drive of 1919 when quantity and not quality was the goal.

While the nose bag was under adjustment Colonels Cocheu, Helms, Eaton, Johnson and Galleher received, dedicated and accepted a placard telling of the forthcoming production of "Nothing but the Truth." shortly therafter the party broke up with everyone expressing his pleasure at being present and his gratification with membership in the club.

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

Audience at War Department Theater on the evening of January 21st and 22nd will be treated to an enjoyable entertainment in the form of a three act comedy farce entitled "Nothing but the Truth" which is now being prepared for production by the Dramatic Club, under the skillful direction of Lt. Frank A. Deroin.

"Nothing but the Truth" is the comedy that Willie Collier presented with such outstanding success to New York audiences. The play has become famous because it is considered as one of the best farce comedies ever produced on the American stage. From start to finish it is full of funny situations, laughable complications and comical lines. It deals particularly with the attempt of Bob Bennett, a young New York Stock Broker, to tell the absolute truth for one whole day and, by doing so, to win a bet of $10,000 from his partners as well as the hand of the young lady with whom he is in love. Incidentally the complications injected into the story by two "ladies of the chorus" are such that the senior partner, Ralston, almost loses his fortune and his happy home as well. Bob almost loses his sweetheart and by the time he has been a little George Washington for twenty four hours he vows never to tell the truth again.

The cast has been selected with great care, and special scenery and effects are being constructed. The performances will have all the snap, speed and pep necessary to put over smoothy and professionally this fast moving laughable comedy.

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR CO. E

A great improvement in the housing conditions of Company "E," 24th Infantry, has been effected by the men of that company under the supervision of the organization commander, Captain E. T. Jones, 24th Infantry. Altho Congress has appropriated funds for the construction of barracks for some of the enlisted men stationed at Fort Benning, to date no provision has been made to house adequately the 24th Infantry. Since its arrival at Fort Benning that regiment has been quartered in tents and old wooden buildings. These have not proved to be satisfactory as they have been too hot in summer, too cold in winter, unsightly, very difficult to keep clean, and generally uncomfortable.

About the middle of last November, Captain Jones, with the approval of the regimental commander, decided to improve the living conditions of his men by the erection of a series of small houses to [illegible] cabins" are quite comfortable. Each has a floor space of 15 feet and will easily house four men. The inside of the wall is covered with building paper to keep out the cold wind. A built-in closet, opposite the entrance, providing sufficient space for the occupants to keep their clothing clean and unrumpled —very necessary items in a soldier's life. The actual cost to the Government, not including the pyramidal tents used as roofs, has been about one dollar per house. An accomplishment made possible solely through the initiative and ingenuity of the company commander and men of that organization.

During the period this construction was under way the Government did not lose the services of these men from other duties. The work was accomplished in the evenings and on holidays, the men preferring to improve their housing conditions rather than live in the tents another pear and spend their leisure hours, in other pursuits.

First Sergeant L. M. Thornhill, Supply Sergeant Harrison Hogan, Corporal Tommy Leonard and Corporal Harvey J. Haywood being available to the company to a greater extent than the remainder of the company performed a greater part of the construction work. Much credit is due them for their initiative and resourcefulness, whereby they, by use of waste and salvaged materials, have erected for their organization clean houses of pleasing apperance.

UNUSUAL EFFICIENCY AT 24TH MESS

Corporal Floyd Hairston, Company "I" 24th Infantry has established an unusual record in efficient mess management. Upon graduating fromthe Quatermaster Bakers and Cooks school with the highest standing received by any student since June 1926, he was placed in charge of mess No. 4 of the 24th Infantry. During his first month in conducting this mess, he not only furnished well cooked and ample ceals every day and served an excellent dinner costing $225 on Christmas day but also effected a saving of $103.30 in the sum of money due the mess as a ration allowance. The 24th Infantry is, indeed, fortunate in having men of such ability among its enlisted personnel.

The first 24th Infantry officers dance of the current year was held at the Polo Club on Friday evening January 7, 1927. A large number of the members of the garrison attended and enjoyed the evening activities, which included not only the usual dancing but also an exhibition of the Charleston performed by two colored members of the 24th Infantry, Private Sloan Williams, Service company and the wife of Sergeant W. W. Wood, company "H" of that regiment.

The 24th Infantry basket ball team won an easy victory over that of the colored Y. M. C. A. of Columbus, Thursday evening, January 6, 1927. The game was played on the home court of their oppondents before a large gathering of the colored population of the city and Fort Benning. At its conclusion the 24th Infantry had scored 44 points while the Y. M. C. A. had been able to get 14 only. The members of the 24th Infantry team and position played were: Pvt. Theodore Williamson, Co. "H" R. F. Cpl. Elmer Trammel, Service Co., L. F. Sgt. Harrison Brown, Co. "I" C. Columbus Vance, Co. "K" R. G. Sloan Williams, Service Co. L. G. The team Captain and Coach is Sloan Williams, Service Company.

FORT THESPIANS TO PRESENT COMEDY

TERRIBLE TANKERS TAKE FORT FOOTBALL CROWN BY BEATING KELLEYS 10-0

2nd Battalion Loses Title After Holding It Three Years. Touchdown and Field Goal in Last Period

The Terrible Tanks Saturday afternoon realized their dream of defeating the 2nd Battalion Doughboys and did it in such a manner that there was no room left for argument. After an even struggle for three quarters of the game the Caterpillar Conductors unleashed an offensive that was not to be denied and pushed over a touchdown on some of the best football displayed at Benning in many moons. Bennett added the point by a perfect placement, and then, to make assurance doubly sure, Louie Joris booted a field goal with Sweeney holding the ball, to bring the count to ten to nothing.

Despite a last dying offensive by the Kellys this ended the scoring and the boys from Major Miller's organization are now the proud possessors of the garrison championship pennant and the Infantry School News Cup, which the Commandant presented to them immediately after the game — a fitting reward for five years of intensive effort.

It was a battle of Titans all the way. For three fourths of the game the speed and deception of the Kellys and the brawn and spirit of the Tankers battled to a stalemate. For the most part the play remained near midfield. Then came the turning point. The Kels recovered a fumble within 19 yards of a score and it seemed that the garrison crown was again headed for the headquarters of Major Bowen's cohorts.

But Red Lindsey's gang rose to the occasion and took the ball away on

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH" WILL SHOW TONIGHT AND TOMORROW

Dramatic Club's First Public Performance Promises Fun and Laughter for Garrison Personnel

The Dramatic Club will present tonight and tomorrow night in the main War Department Theater the three-act comedy nothing but the truth, under the direction of Lt. Frank A. Deroin.

The play is one of the most successful and best liked successes of the American stage. It deals particularly with the attempt of Bob Barrett, young New York stock broker to do a "George Washington" for twenty-four hours and tell nothing but the plain unvarnished truth, the incentive being a bet of ten thousand dollars and the hand of his fair lady. Complications injected into the plot by two fair chorines nearly cause Ralston, senior partner of Bob's firm to lose his fortune and his happy home, but everything turns out happily at the end.

The cast has been carefully selected from the cream of garrison talent and insures a successful presentation.

THE CAST

In order of appearance.

Clarence Van Dusen .....Arnold R. C. Sander
E. M. Ralston ..... Fred W. Caswell
Bishop Doran .....Alston Deas
Dick Donnelly .....Allan J. Kennedy
Robert Bennett ..... Walter A. Dumas
Mrs. Ralston ..... Roberta Bruce
Ethel Clark ..... Thelma Murph Pollin
Gwendolyn Ralston ..... Garland Avera
Mable Jackson ..... Ella Adair Roberts
Sable Jackson .... Margaret C. Pickering
Martha .....Martha M. Bowen

Lt. Sander has had experience with the Kismet Club of the University of Nebraska and in production at the Government Center at Bagiuo, P. I. He is well known in this garrison for his leadership in the recent "stunt night" put on by the Dramatic Club.

Captain Dumas, who is playing the lead, has had much experience in college dramatics as critic and actor.

Mrs. Avera has given much time to dramatics and has specialized in make up. She is especially versatile, being able to play both men's and women's parts and will bring to the female lead of this play a fine interpretation.

Mrs. Roberts is well known for her direction of "The Mayor and the Manicure" early in the season. She has also directed plays for the Fort Leavenworth Dramatic Club and acted in that club as well.

Miss Bowen has had the advantages offered by Taylor's Expression School and has had parts in High School Dramatics.

The other members of the cast have had some dramatic experience, the details of which are not available at this writing, but the public may rest assured that all will give a good rendition of their parts when the curtain goes up on this production.

The club is particularly fortunate in its director for this play. Lt. Frank A. Deroin, the club director, has taken over this play himself, with the assistance of Captain John C. Newton.

Lt. Deroin started his dramatic experience with the Dramatic Club of Amherst College and was later associated with Eugene O'Neill and his father, James O'Neill. He was for several years connected with Liebler & Co., Harrison Grey Fiske, Addison Pitt, Frederick Sullivan, Priestley Morrison and Reginald Barlow. Those who were at the Plattsburg Training Camps in 1917 will remember Major Barlow as being instrumental in bringing from New York intact in special trains many excellent dramatic productions.

It is little to say that Lt. Deroin "knows his stuff" and, those who have seen the progress of rehearsals realize that a real treat is in store in "Nothing but the Truth."

In response to a demand from both commissioned and enlisted personnel of the garrison, it has been decided to set aside certain blocks of seats as reserved sections. It is thought that this will be a convenience to many, especially those bringing ladies, as the seats will be reserved by row and number for each of the two nights and purchasers of reserved seats will have the assurance that their seats will be there waiting for them. At the same time, the sections set aside will be so small that those buying general admission tickets may come either of the two nights and by arriving early, be sure of getting good seats.

A ticket for a reserved seat will be sold only for the night indicated on the face thereof; tickets for general admission will be good for either night.

Prices:

INFANTRY BASKETEERS WIN TWO FAST BATTLES ON GYMNASIUM FLOOR

Florida Gators Downed Monday, 51-18; and B. A. C. Defeated Wednesday in Thrilling 34-31 Contest

B. A. C. Game

A desperate rally in the last five minutes of Wednesday's game in the garrison gymnasium almost gave the Birmingham Athletic club five a victory over the Infantry's basketeers, but the Doughboys managed to hang on long enough to finish on the majority side of a 34 to 31 score. The sharp shooting of Kammerer and Roosma was pitted against the flashing floor work and accurate aim of Charley Vincent and Caldwell of the clubmen, and it was the soldiers who got the verdict.

The game, while perhaps failing to show something of the mechanical perfection displayed by Olsen and his Swedes, was by far the fastest and most interesting played by the doughboys this season. From the opening tossup until the final whistle there was action, and plenty of it. Franz, Newman, Roosma and Kammerer advanced the ball up the floor with a display of teamwork that thrilled, while Berry played a steady game in the standing guard berth. The clubmen aggregation, as well, showed excellent team work, the Vincent brothers, Charley and Al, and Caldwell, one time 'Bama football star, flashing some sparkling dribbling and passing. But though fast and furious, the contest was singularly free from roughness. Not a single personal foul was called on the Alabamians during the evening's pastime, a remarkable performance.

B. A. C. scored first on a free toss by Charley Vincent shortly after the beginning of the game. Shortly thereafter Kammerer sank the first of his floor goals of the evening and put the Infantry out in front. Byrd took a pass under the basket for a two-pointer, and C. Vincent connected for one of two tries from the charity line, to put the clubmen in the lead 4 to 2. Then Kammerer flipped one from near the middle of the ocurt and Roosma followed in to tip the ball in for another pair of points, and the Infantry was in the lead never to be headed again. The first half count was 22 to 13.

For the first ten minutes of the final chapter it seemed that the doughboys would make a runaway affair of the contest. Kammerer continued to ring the bell with regularity, Roosma was getting hot, and Franz was playing the floor in the style that only Fat can. Midway of the period the score was 34 to 21 and everything looked safe. Then out of a clear sky came the lightening. Charley Vincent dribbled under the Acknowledgement is due to Miss Mary Pendleton and to Private Willoughby Lynch, I. S. D., for the superb posters made by them as a part of the publicity for this production. These posters are most attractive and will arrest the attention of all who come within eye shot of them.

The scenery for the production has been made by Captain Alan W. Jones with the material assistance of Captain Gustave J. Braun and Lt. Claude F. Burback. Both these last named officers have had much experience in building stage and spectators may be assured that the stage settings will be fully up to required standards.

To further the success of the production and to acquaint them with the Dramatic Club in general, the Club's Publicity Manager, Lt. Colonel Jason M. Walling talked to the Kiwanis Club in Columbus at their luncheon on Thursday noon. The Kiwanis Club received Colonel Walling's talk with great enthusiasm.

The seat sale has been large and those who desire to see this excellent production will step lively if they have not already provided themselves with seats.

As an additional publicity "stunt" thousands of hand bills were distributed by James Clayton, Commercial aviator from his plane over Columbus on Thursday afternoon. These bills were sought far and wide as souvenirs of the first public presentation by the Infantry School Dramatic Club.

basket and caged a double pointer, Caldwell nonchalantly flipped one in from about the middle of the floor and a few seconds later repeated for another duet of counters. Then the Infantry began to play the old "freezeout" game, holding the ball as long as possible on every occasion. But in spite of the dilatory tactics employed, Charley Vincent managed to drop one through from long range and Caldwell took a pass under the basket and netted the ball to bring the score to 34 to 31. Before any further damage could be done the timekeepers whistle ended the game.

Florida Contest

Johnny Roosma went on a scoring rampage Monday night and shot enough points to defeat the Florida Gators even if his teammates had been whitewashed, which, it may be stated in passing, they were not. Johnny's 31 markers added to 20 counters tallied by his co-workers brought the Infantry total to one over the half century mark, while the visitors from the Boom and Bunk commonwealth could negotiate only 18 points during the forty minutes of play.

The affair was decidedly onesided from the outset. Roosma tallied from the floor very shortly after the opening toss-up and before the invading five knew what it was all about the Infantry had made eight points. Then Millman, Gator forward, broke the monotony by sinking a neat field goal to remove the big goose egg opposite Florida on the scoreboard. It was only a temporary check of the soldier offensive, however, as Roosma and his pals continued to add to their total with unusual regularity. At the half way point; the Doughboys led 24 to 6.

In the last chapter the Floridians made a somewhat better showing. Smith, lengthy center played earnestly and strenuously and kept the Infantryemn busy by his fine dribbling and general floor work. He sank four pretty shots during this period and was conspicouos at every stage of the game. His good work pleased the fans mightily, but it had little bearing on the final outcome, as Roosma continued his inspired shooting and the soldier total mounted constantly.

In justice to the invading team, it should be recorded that they encountered all kinds of hard luck with their shooting. Time after time the ball rimmed the basket, and then refused to fall in, and this usually after the Gators had worked the ball up the floor by some nice passing.

downs. A driving offensive with Sweeney and Bennett in the leading ball carrying role gave the boys from the 15th Tanks three first downs and carried the pigskin beyond the center of the gridiron. Then a fumble and the Kels had the ball. The danger seemed over and the doughboy roosters breathed a sigh of relief. But out of a clear sky came the lightening. Another fumble and the Tanks had the ball. Three drives at the line failed to gain Then Wiseman, canny Tank quarter, elected to pass and Weenie Sweeney nabbed his toss for the prettiest aerial advance of the game. He was finally downed on the 2nd Battalion 6 yard line.

Three desperate drives advanced the ball to within two yards of the goal line and then Sweeney dived over for the remaining two yards. Bennett added the point by an accurate placement kick, as the north stands went wild.

The Kellys elected to receive the following kickoff, but there was another fumble and the Tankers again threatened. A few drives at the line carried the ball to the twenty yard line, where the doughboy defense tightened and held on three plays. Tank strategists rushed Joris into the game and Louie calmly booted a perfect placement goal to sew up the game. A final offensive by the Kellys took the ball to within ten yards of the Tanks' goal line, but a pass was incomplete in the end zone and the ball went over. After the Tankers had run a couple of plays the final whistle blew and the game was over.

The officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry assembled on Thursday evening January 14, 1927 at the 24th Infantry officer's club rooms and spent an enjoyable evening playing bridge and mah jongg. The commissioned personnel of the regiment being in regimental and garrison duties, these gatherings are an excellent means of renewing social contacts. The first men's prize, which consisted of a pair of Eglantine spurs was won by Captain Edward E. Walker, 24th Infantry. The second, which was a set of 24th Infantry insignia, was secured by Captain Archelaus L. Hamblen, 24th Infantry. Mrs. Walter T. Scott, having the highest lady's score was given a half dozen dessert glasses, and Mrs. Malclm E. Craig, being her nearest competitor was awarded the second prize of a Maderia luncheon cloth. Mrs. Ernest T. Jones won the mah jongg prize, which was a card table.

Mrs. Wait C. Johnson and Mrs. Pleas B. Rogers were the hostesses. To them is due the credit of providing a most enjoyable evening entertainment to the officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THIS

One of the most difficult tasks Herbert Brenon had to surmount in the direction of "Beau Geste," to play 3 days starting Jan. 27, at Springer Opera House was in obtaining a sufficient number of camels and men that could ride them.

Several times the action of scenes had to be stopped on account of some actor having a peculiar feeling in the pit of his stomach caused by the swaying of his "ship of the desert." Anybody who has ever been afflicted with seasickness has an idea of how the camel riders must have felt. The effect was the same.

Paul Stewart, who played "Buddy" in the picture had to mount a camel several times. At his first approach to the placid appearing animal, he asked for a ladder with which to clamber abroad. He finally mounted with the assistance of the camel herder and after about twenty minutes slid to the ground and weakly made his way to his tent telling the world he was sick enough to die and afraid he wouldn't.

Chattahoochee Valley Motor Club

The local Three A Motor Club held its election of officers meeting Tuesday of this week at the Ralston Hotel, Columbus, and elected Lt. Col. Gideon H. Williams and Mr. Frank E. Green, of Ft. Benning, as members of the Board of Directors.

The Chatahoochee Valley Motor Club, so named because it serves a territory of 75 miles radius about Columbus and includes Ft. Benning in its franchise, has also provided an arrangement whereby membership in the American Automobile Association and standard Three A service may be obtained by Ft. Benning students and officers for one half of the regular club membership fee.

The special membership arrangement entitles those connected with the Infantry School to the Three A emblem, the identification card-bond, one year's subscription to the club magazine, free legal advice service, and free touring information in any Three A club in the United States, of which there are now 855.

Mr. W. E. Austelle, of the Ft. Benning Service Station, has been designated as the club representative at Ft. Benning, and will receive applications for membership and supply road information.

Mr. Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, was re-elected President of the Club, Mr. Joseph Jacobs, of the Columbus Electric and Power Co., was elected vice-president; H. C. McCutchen, legal advisor; H. O. Davidson chairman finance committee; Joseph Jacobs, chairman membership committee; W. Cecil Neill, chairman legislative committee; Leland J. Henderson chairman advertising committee.

The club extends a cordial invitation to Ft. Benning residents and students to visit the club headquarters and avail themselves of its service.

MONOGRAPHS

A very interesting and instructive monograph was given to the assembled officers of the 24th Infantry on Friday January 7, 1927 by First Lt. Wallace W. Brier, Jr. His subject was "The Training of Mounted Messengers." "Concerning the duties these men are to perform Lt. Brier said,', the basis of all mounted work is conservation of the animal. The organization of the mounted sections of regimental and battalion headquarters provides sufficient personnel and animals to enable them to adequately discharge their duties. Their training should be varied and include all functions they may be called upon to perform. Properly operated, the mounted section has been shown by actual practice to be able to transmit messages more rapidly and more accurately than any other of the various means employed in the Army, motorcycles alone excepted."

The prominence gained by machine guns during the World War has made any fact concerning them of great interest to all officers. On Monday, January 10, 1927, 1st Lt. Robert C. Sanders, 24th Infantry, related to the officers of that regiment a brief historical account of the development of this weapon. A very interesting and not widely known fact related by him is that the first known use of machine guns was by the Chinese in 1437. These guns were composed of several barrels in groups from 6 to 20, were hand loaded, and attained a cyclic rate of 200 shots a minute. Although first used six centuries ago, guns similar to the original models are in existence in China today.

During the War of 1870 the French used machine guns, but not understanding their proper function used them like artillery. In the performance of these duties the guns did not prove to be of any great value, and so fell into great disfavor with all armies. However, during the period from the American Civil War to the World War, American inventors forsaw the future needs of a rapid firing weapon and produced several types. Despite the fact the various models were offered to the United States government, none was officially accepted, although some were purchased and issued to the Army and Navy. Our armed forces not being fully equipped with this weapon, our entry into the World War found us unprepared to take the field properly. The necessity of a satisfactory machine gun was realized by all government officials and army officers and immediately taken to satisfy this need. In April of 1917 American arms inventors and manufacturers were requested to submit designs and models of rapid firing weapons. Among many others Mr. John M. Browning replied in May, 1917, with his invention which is known as the Browning machine gun. This gun is considered by a large number of American and foreign officers to be the best machine gun ever produced. It was officially adopted by the government and probably will be the gun with which American troops will be armed in all future wars.

BILL AND WILL AND THE ANNUAL PHYSICAL EXAMINATION

Bill:—Did you take your annual physical examination?

Will:—No, I didn't have to.

Bill:—Why everyone has to take it.

Will:—Well I didn't. They gave it to me.

Bill:—I for one am glad it's over with. Now I know where I am at.

Will:—I don't need any examination to tell where I am at.

Bill:—Why, how can you tell?

Will:—By hearing that band playing, "We Lead The Way."

Bill:—Well they examined you to see if you were all right, didn't they?

Will:—No. They tried to prove I was all wrong.

Bill:—Did they find anything wrong with you?

Will:—Yes. They said my heart was missing.

Bill:—How did you explain that?

Will:—I told them I lost it when I was a Second Lieutenant.

Bill:—What did the Doctor Say?

Well:—He said he didn't know a Second Lieutenant had a heart.

Bill:—Are your lungs all rigt?

Will:—No. One of them is left.

Bill:—I mean do you find it hard to draw your breath?

Will:—I don't know. I've never even tried.

Bill:—You've never tried to draw your breath?

Will:—I don't even know what it looks like.

Bill:—Captain Will, you must think that I'm a moron.

Will:—No, I know you have only one wife.

Bill:—I mean that you are trying to intimate that I am half-witted.

Will:—Pardon me Captain Bill, if I seemed to flatter you.

Bill:—Are you under weight since you came here to school?

Will:—No. I'm under arms.

Bill:—You don't understand me. I mean what did the Doctor say about your weight?

Will:—He said if I got any lighter I would have to transfer to the Sappers.

Bill:—Did he give you any reason?

Will:—Yes. He said if I kept on losing weight I would soon be under the ground anyway.

Bill:—Did your teeth come out all right?

Will:—Yes. The Doctor said it was the nicest looking piece of plate work he ever saw.

Bill:—Don't you have any teeth of your own?

Will:—Certainly. They are all my own. Did you think I borrowed them?

Bill:—Can you get along without glasses?

Will:—Yes, I have had to use a hip flash for eight years now.

Bill:—I mean do you have any spectacles.

Will:—Not since the night our colored cook walked in her sleep with her red flannel night gown on.

Bill:—You don't understand me. Did the Doctor give you 20-20 on your eyes.

Will:—No. He gave me 50-50. He said I could see as good out of one as the other.

Bill:—Are you still afflicted with catarrh?

Will:—No. That fellow moved away, but a guy across the hall from me has a mandolin.

Bill:—Did the Doctor think that football had injured your hearing any?

Will:—I don't know. He got mad and penalized me.

Bill:—Why did he do that?

Will:—Well the fellow in front of me was stooped over with his hands on his knees and the Doctor yelled some numbers at me. I thought he was signalling for a kick and I got penalized for "offside."

Bill:—What did the Doctor think of your figure?

Will:—He said I had a perfect 38, but that I was a little small around the chest.

Bill:—Well, what do you think of the annual physical examinations?

Will:—The whole thing is a———(Editors Note: We are sorry to have to leave out what is perhaps the most interesting part of this conversation but this paper must go through the mails.)

Bill:—I'm surprised at you Captain Will; but tell me what one thing has caused you to lose so much weight?

Will:—Files.

Bill:—I don't understand you.

Will:—Why I lost a lot of files.

Bill:—Well will you tell me why you didn't survey them?

Will:———(Editors Note: Evidently from Capt. Will's remark he couldn't survey them.)

24TH INF.

The U. S. Army Motion Picture Service at Fort Benning, Georgia will hold a Charleston contest at that post for the patrons of the 24th Infantry theatre during the week of January 17-23, 1927. The contest will consist of exhibitions by persons of both sexes performing singly and by mixed teams of male and female dancers. Performance will be on designated nights during this period, at which time a certain numberof those participating will be selected to enter the finals. As there is a great deal of terpsichorean ability among the members of the 24th Infantry and their friends,keen competition will exist among them to be chosen for entry in the concluding event which will be held Sunday January 23, 1927. Prizes will be given to the winners as follows: In the singles the first will be a month's free pass to all performances at the 24th Infantry theatre; the second, a two week's pass; the third one week's pass. One prize only will be given in the mixed doubles and that will be a month's pass for each member of the team.

The contest is causing a great deal of interest among the members of the garrison. Several persons have already sent in their applications to enter. A special section of the theatre has been reserved for the officers and the other white persons of the garrison. Those in charge of the affair are 1st. Lt. Robb S. Mackie, 24th Infantry, and Captain F. S. Doll, Infantry, regimental and garrison recreation officers.

The judges have been selected with great care so as to have persons who are well qualified to determine the persons who not only are the best dancers but also those who perform the Charleston in the most correct manner. These judges are Master Sergeant Jessie B. Warfield, Sergeant William McCauley, and Corporal Jesse P. Mays, all of the 24th Infantry.

Place of meeting—Polo Club.

Date of meeting—First and Third Monday.

Date of next meeting—February 7th.

Time—2:15.

All members of the Infantry School Woman's Club are hereby reminded that January has five Mondays and special attention is called to the fact that our next regular meeting of the Club will be February 7th.

At the meeting on last Monday afternoon it was the privilege of the Club to hear a most extraordinary lecture by Capt. Gottfried W. Spoerry, now a Student officer, who while on duty in Manila became interested in the Culion Leper Colony and risked his life to go on a tour of investigation to this home of the most hopless, most desolate, people of all earth's afflicted to see the condition, to learn what was being done and what should be done for those, who, through no fault of their own, are confined to living death. He told us of "The Mercy Ship" and its voyage once each year to Culion to bring supplies—so scant for the great need of the 5,600 lepers imprisoned there that one almost apologizes for using the word—and loved ones to have a little visit with their beloved doomed to eke out their miserable lives on this scourged spot. How eagerly they crowd the "dead line" hoping to see some living proof that they are not forgotten and how, upon recognizing familiar faces, they frantically wave white rags through the polings to attract their attention! He told of the miserable filthy nipa huts they live in—the absurdly inadequate hospital and laboratory facilities, the two heroic American Doctors who are giving their lives to the cause, the few native doctors and that wonderful group of twelve Catholic sisters who, risking all, administer as best they can to 5,600 patients—doing more than all others to alleviate the scourage of a disease, the ravages of which have blotted the history of mankind since its first preserved record, and which today baffles all scenitfic investigation. He explained some of the stages in the development of the disease—the torture of the treatments, so terrible that only the most heroic are willing bear it but which, if taken in time, render one negative only to have him shunned by his former friends and literally banished from the hope of working where he could make a living, and so exiled that he longs to return to Culion and his leper friends. The whole story he gave us—in wonderfully well chosen words and pictures on the screen to prove the truth of words—the whole hopeless story, from the ship to the stony barren potters field where they find rest in a miserable nameless graves. But more than this he told us—for a man with Capt. Spoerry's mind and heart and soul could not go on such a journey and come away with only a tale of horror. Plans were made then and there for help—definite, concrete things to relieve certain unbearable conditions and a great plan worked out and sent for approval to the Supreme Council of the Knights of Pythias—that great organization whose veritable cornerstone is Brotherly Love, but the "best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglee" and the delinquent delivery of one small package containing the pictures of the conditions at Culion and resolutions and plans for helping the lepers there and the world over caused more distress than any other such incident in the history of modern times. But in spite of long delay the fight is on to realize one of the greatest services possible to render to man kind. For Capt. Spoerry has spoken to thousands of Pythians and has aroused general interest in this great humanitarian endeavor for no one could hear his message spoken as it is with poetic beauty, ringing with sincerity,—the sentiment of which is nothing short of sublime without knowing that here is an opportunity to be a part of a movement which in itself would justify one's existance.

While he was talking to the Woman's Club he received a telegram asking him to hold himscelf in readiness to go on short notice to Washington to discuss the Leper situation! God speed him on his way and reward his noble efforts.

After the lecture Mrs. Cowley, in a Paris gown of green ponne velvet and silver, danced two lovely dances in her usual wonderful way.

Mrs. Lough and Mrs. Frank Green were hostesses at tea and the table was so beautifully appointed that I can't refrain from mentioning it.

A resume of the plays to be presented each week will be published in this column.

PRICES:
Adults, 15c Daily—25c Sunday.
Children Under 12—10c
Daily Including Sunday.

FRIDAY JAN. 21

"Sparrows," starring Mary Pickford, "the beloved," in a highly dramatic story spiced with pleasing comedy. It depicts Mary as a twelve year old girl, "Mama Mollie," battling for her picturesque retinue of orphans, against the harsh keeper of a baby farm. The plot is laid in the southern swamp country.

"Phantom Police No. 6." — Herbert Rawlinson.

SATURDAY JAN. 22

"The Lone Wolf Returns," featuring Bert Lytell and Billy Dove in a drama from the novel by Louis Joseph Vance. The story treats of the reformation of the master crook through an accidental meeting with a New York society girl, while he loiters behind portiers in her boudoir, in an effort to evade the authorities. It is the type of play which arouses and holds interest through numerous highly dramatic and tense climaxes.

"Your Own Back Yard." Our Gang—The old crowd which keenly amuses the grownups and insures the kiddies "the usual treat of their young lives."

SUNDAY JAN. 23

"Everybodys Acting," featuring Betty Bronson and Ford Sterling in a lense melodrama eased with luminous comedy. It is a story of life behind the secenes depicting strong parental love and a pleasing climax.

"Felix Flirts With Fate."—Krazy Kat.

"Pathe News."—Only fourteen days old.

MONDAY JAN. 24

"Poker Faces." A roaring riot of sprightly comedy in dress clothes, featuring Edward Everett Horton and Laura LaPante. It is the story of a struggling office worker who is given an unusual chance to aid his employer. A series of complications involving an actress, a hired stenographer and prize fighters insures continuous situations, which give rise to uproarous laughter.

"Phantom Police No. 7." — Herbert Rawlinson.

TUESDAY JAN. 25

"The Man of the Forest." A seven reel play, featuring Jack Holt in a wild western. Jack kidnaps a girl, swings her into the saddle from a plunging buckboard, engages in a hot fight with an outlaw gang, which is routed by Jack's pet mountain lion. A panic ensues, Jack is arrested, the lion frees him from the clutches of the sheriff, then the climax. The picture possesses plenty of keen suspense.

"Jerry the Giant."—Animal Stars.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 26

"The Plastic Age," from the startling novel of Youth, by Percy Marks. It is the story of "a last Minute flapper," who falls in love with an "old fashioned boy," and what happens, will startle parents who never have taken the trouble to understand their children. This promises to be a rich, rare, and racy romance of youthful love and temptation.

"Bill Grimm's Progress No. 7."

THURSDAY JAN. 27

"The Unknown Cavalier," featuring Ken Maynard in a powerful romance laid in torrid Death Valley. It deals with a masked bandit who is rampant near the ranch of a beautiful girl. Hard riding, deft horsemanship and keen shooting are the highlights of the picture.

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY JAN. 28

"Fascinating Youth," a Sam Ward production with Charles Rogers, Ivy Harris and a cast of the Junior Stars of 1926, in a story of scenes behind the scenes in the movie world. Winter sports, ice yachting, skiing, skating snow shoeing and tobogganing—all have vital places in the story. The snow covered mountains of Lake Placid—furnishing the picturesque background.

"Phantom Police No. 8." — Herber Rawlinson.

PONTONIERS TRIM GAS BUMS IN COURT BATTLE

(By James R. Morrison)

The Engineer Basketeers met and defeated the Gas Regiment, in a fast played game at the garrison gymnasium, 7:00 P. M. January 18, 1927. After a period of several months inactivity the engineer dribble and pass artists finally get back into action again. The lineup were as follows:

ENGINEERS		GAS REGIMENT
Perkins	C.	Smith
Wigley	LF.	Williams
Collins	RF.	Palmer
Danielski	RG.	Lincoln
Elsea	LG.	Neil

Substituted for the Engineers, Caldwell for Perkins, Groves for Danielski, McCarty for Elsea, and Breck for Mallory. For the Gas Regiment, Dennis for Palmer, Wilson for Williams, and Lawrence for Lincoln.

The feature of the game was the brilliant playing of Perkins, and Palmer. Perkins scored 10 out of his team's points. While Palmer garnered 9 for his team out of 20 points.

The final outcome was 21 to 20 in favor of the Engineers.

RAIL TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

Our Master Mechanic, Mr. Whitaker, is now eligible for membership in the National Order of Pipe-smokers, he having renounced cigarettes with the beginning of the new year. In lieu of the former ever-present "coffin tack" he may now be seen calmly puffing away on his trusted briar as he goes about his daily duties.

The Quartermaster General has asked for pictures of some of our railway equipment in operation, same to be used in connection with defense of the budget before Congress. This will give our Will Rogers, locomotive cranemar (erstwhile big-game-hunter), an opportunity to break into the limelight and claim some of the publicity now being capivated by one of his namesakes.

UTILITIES DEPARTMENT

Lieut. Pottter has stolen our thunder this week. In Sunday's papers he had an item regarding the number of frozen pipes, etc., and the efficiency with which this department handled the situation. We cansay no more. In fact, had it been left to us, modesty would have forced us to say far less. We only know that the orders came in, by phone, note, and word of mouth, just about as fast as we could receive them. In the midst of our other trials, the old wooden water mains gave up the ghost in several different spots. Some day, when all these wooden mains have rotted away, we may get enough money from the National pocket book to put in cast iron mains.

MEXICO LECTURER HERE JANUARY 25

A free public lecture on Mexico will be given by Peter W. Collins, internationally known socioligist and lecturer, in Springer Opera House, January 25, 1926, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of Bishop Gross Council 1019 Knights of Columbus. The lecture will be a popular presentation of democratic ideas and institutions. The lecture is arranged as part of the Knights of Columbus Million Dollar Campaign for the education of the people against the domination of this continent by the Soviet.

FREEBOOTERS AND STUDENTS POLO VICTORS LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday, on Shannon Filed, the polo teams of the Twenty-ninth Infantry, the Freebooters, the Eighty-third Field Artillery, and the Student Officers again met for their weekly polo battles.

The first game, which was between the Freebooters and the Twenty-ninth Infantry was a six period affair, and at the cessation of hostilities, the Freebooters were declared victors by a five to nothing count. Captain McClure had a field day, scoring four of his teams five points. The other goal was scored by Major Smith.

The second game was fought to a whirlwind finish between the Eighty-third Field Artillery and the Student Officers. At the end of the fourth period, the score was tied at two all. In the last period, following some very fast play, the Student Officers counted the winning goal, and the game was theirs.

RGTL. HQ. COMPANY

Corporal Mouring returned from a three months re-enlistment furlough, and says its good to be back in the Army again. It must be, when he came back two weeks before his furlough was up.

Our 1st Sergeant is going to town quite frequently since he re-enlisted, and the writer would like to know if Sgt. O'Neil has persuaded him to become a member of the Board of Trade.

Pvts. Freitas and Mesawitz have been discharged per ETS this week and have left the company to try civilian life for a while.

Our company tailor issues a challenge to all Marathon walkers to a race, any time, and distance and any place. Any one who feels as if he can give him a run for his money, just leave your name with the news writer and the race will be arranged to suit you, but take a tip from one who tried him out and leave him alone. He was seen at the Postex one morning at ten o'clock walking towards the company, and he made it back by 9:59 to the company. "Egad, as Major Hoople would say, "He sure must be some walker."

Our mess sergeant, (Andy Gump) Langston has been eating at the Postex Cafe quite regular of late, and when questioned by the writer why must a mess sergeant eat at the Cafe, he replied, "I just work in the Co., mess hall, thats all."

The secret is out, Corporal Devoice will not join the Board of Trade until he retires.

LARRY MITZEN.

HQ. CO., FIRST BATTALION

The company is out for "full field" today as that is a part of our battalion training day schedule.

Sgt. Fitch, Cpl. Bagley, Pvts. Cowan and Enlish are back for duty since the football season ended.

We are enjoying our new Recreation room to the limit. Private McGaugh makes an excellent house keeper.

Every man in this company seems to work harder and appreciate the general surroundings more than they did a year ago. We have new tents, a new recreation room and several other improvements which have come about within the past year. The company will continue to improve with a company commander who's moto is "rise and shine."

Cpl. Black and Pfc. Combs have reenlisted during the month so far, and we still have two other bright prospects during the remainder of the month.

Sgt. Honeycut has returned from a 90 days furlough, but to the regret of the company he expects to leave us again soon by means of purchase.

J. JUSTICE.

COMPANY "A"

Lieut. Newman's "Orange and Blue" Bastekteers won there first two scheduled games of the season by wide margins. We are justly proud of our basketball team. Keep up the good work.

Corp. Clark wears a broad smile all day long now, and can you blame him? He is to be discharged per the ETS route next month and states that he will be a civilian for the rest of his natural life. We have an idea that "Charlie" will be back to "A" Co., within the required three months, collect his bonus and spend another "hitch" with us.

Scalzo says he is in search for another "gold bricking" job now that the football season is over It is said that Scalzo is bucking for Deweiler's position as Recreation Room Orderly.

SNOOKS.

COMPANY "B"

All of J. C. Johnson's hopes of becoming the Olympic javelin thrower were shattered with the javelin. He is still wondering how large the finance office's symbol, for a javelin, will be on his pay roll.

Pvt. Scheeler has disregarded all persuasions and is taking a discharge, a hand full of red sand and red sand spurs back to the "Buckeye State" as a memento of six years in Benning. The company wish you success and luck in your new occupation.

Our basketball team is in good shape, Beating "D" Co., 79 to 5. We feel confident we can treat the rest of the regiment the same. "Fight, Team, Fight." You're defending a two year Regimental Title.

CPL. "FOOTS" LYTLE.

COMPANY "C"

Corp. Bolton is a real business man now. He has a typewriter and everything.

Aboundader broke a grate in the kitchen stove. When his attention was brought to it he said, "Put a wooden in," that's using your head, old man.

Pvt. Forbes certainly seemed to have a kick in both hands last Thursday night. The man from Special Units apparently thought so.

Jimmy Rose is still a little weak but is on the road to recovery.

Bearded Ault has returned from the Barber College.

Giglio has the latest quotations on bananas from Guatemala.

Hey Bill! ! I want my helmet.

Cpl. Vangrofski our "star football player" is back for duty and pulling his first charge of quarters this date

JOHN L. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "D"

The undersigned wishes to have it known that he has been relieved from special duty at A. and R. office and that this date he has executed a real military Kitchen Police and on Tuesday expects to stand one of those full field battalion inspections. Ain't we got fun?

Two new corporals have been made lately and the entire company united in congratulating them on achieving this coveted honor. Coveted is the word!

The two prompted lancejacks are Simon J. Donald and Cutts Kinney. Donald is from the Louisiana swamps while Kinney is up from where men are men and girls haven't seen the boyish bob yet.

Three of our lost boys have returned to the home fold where meals come three times a day and the bunks are comfortable. Bonnie B. Long, the Man from Home returned from a trek to Jefferson Barracks where he says the prison mess is rotten and the sentries are too eager for target practice. George Smith managed to get a little bit farther. He reported in to Jeffersonville, Indiana where he secured transportation to Fort Benning. The mysterious Williams came back from the jungles sadder but wiser

HQ. C. 2ND BATTALION

Sergeant Lowe and Private Serio were discharged the 14th and immediately reenlisted for another three years. Private Serio is spending a three month furlough at Auburn, New York; while Sergeant Lowe preferred Geogia climate the remainder of the winter.

Corporal Palmer will be discharged the 22nd and will re-enlist the 23rd Seems as if all the old gang will be together another three years.

Sergeant Lowe and Corporal Holland spent the week end in South Georgia. Reported as having a fine time, and have already placed a special order with the Post Exchange for stationery.

Private Harrell returned from furlough spent at his home in Tennessee. Like all others he spent his ration check for stamps.

Private Ebbers our new recreation room orderly must be a jinx to the company pool sharks, as all their names appear on the book for tickets.

Well boys it's like this; you know what I mean. Atta boy Hedge.

Our efficient and good looking supply sergeant; Gilbert N. Stragant has at last met the one of his choice. We are not sure, but have sufficient reason to believe that he will soon be a married man.

W. H. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "F"

Frosty "Rabbit" Crawford bid farewell to us on the 15th and left for his home in Ill. Better come back Rabbit—before Zero weather gets you.—"Yardstick" Dilley went along with him to see him safe, etc.

Sylvester has returned to his old Company after failure in love. Welcome back-Dunc.

The company Basketball squad is in good shape and are fast making themselves dreaded contestants on the court. They defeated "G" Company Sunday morning score 25 to 19, Barron, a recruit, was the star of the morning.

Capt. Dager:—"Walls are you a Corporal?

Walls:—No, but I am willing to be.

Cpl. Carlin left for a long furlough to be spent in New Orleans. We hope he weathers the storm.

PAUL K. ARMSTEAD.

COMPANY "G"

Sergeant Swaney loves to go on "pig hunts." He enjoys riding horses so well.

After serving three years with "G" Company, Corp. Kuhn leaves this week for the more moderate climate of Pa. We regret very much to lose Corp. Kuhn and wish him much joy and success in the future.

Sergeant Sutherland is taking a correspondence course in Sunday School lessons. From the letters he receives lately he derives many beautiful verses of divine nature.

The mess sergeant gave the monthly smoker for the company this past Saturday evening at 6:00 o'clock. We were fortunate in having as guests the 2nd Battalion football team and members of the 29th Infantry Band. Everyone seemed to enjoy the good eats and fine music. Heres to the next one Sgt. Brown.

WALTER ROWELL.

COMPANY "H"

Last Friday evening, the Basket ball team of Company "H" took it upon themselves to go down and administer a trouncing to the "G" Company team. It looks as though the Company will have a good team to put on the court this year. They think that they can hold their own with the best of them. That is the kind of spirit that has won many contests.

The members of the Company who were on the 2nd Bn. Foot Ball Team, have sojourned to the fields in quest of game. Here's hoping that they have more luck than the Company had when they went hog hunting.

As I am feeling rather indisposed today, those who have requested that their names be published in the News, must wait until the next time. Don't give up the ship though, for all will come to him who waits. Just Ask Corporal Poe!

DOUGHBOY BASKEETEERS TO MEET MACON STARS ON COURT TOMORROW

Former College Luminaries in Lineup of Schofield Sons Team Which Plays in Gym Saturday Night

An extra attraction has been added to the Infantry basketball schedule by securing a game for tomorrow night with the Schofield Sons five from Macon. This team is under the leadership of "Young" Stribling, Georgia's pugilistic pride, but on account of the recent addition to his family, Strib himself will not be with the visitors. The game will be played in the garrison gym starting at the usual hour, 7:30.

The exact lineup of the invaders is not known, but it is known that they include in their roster several former college players of note. There is "Buncie" Skinner, last year one of the main cogs in the Albany Y machine, and before that a four year man on the quintet of the Mercer Bears, Then there's Denicke, who performed on the court for Georgia Tech in years gone by. And there's Long another former Bruin. Doughboy basketeers have played against these stars before and know that it's not going to be any easy matter to take the scalp of the lads from over in the "Heart of Georgia."

Led by Johnny Roosma, the soldier five is fit and rearing to go. Ever since the game here with the Albany Y, in which the doughboys aim was poor, the team has showed a marked improvement. Roosma's sharpshooting is almost inspired, while Kammerer and Newman are getting better and better every day. With Franz to flash over the floor in his usual sensational style and Berry to stand guard over the basket, the military aggregation is in fine shape to win.

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH SHOW BY DRAMATIC CLUB IS PRONOUNCED SUCCESS

Two Performances of Famous Comedy Declared Best Amateur Productions Ever at Benning

The Dramatic Club presented the three act comedy "Nothing But the Truth" at the Garrison Theater last Friday and Saturday. Every soldier in the audience remained in his seat until the final curtain and then a large group rose and spontaneously applauded. This is the true test of success before an audience made up mostly of John Bucks, for Johnny is a fellow who loves to razz anything and everything, and really genuine applause from a soldier audience is worth more than several thousand commendatory words by the most erudite critic. The members of the "Nothing But the Truth Cast" should feel well repaid for their long and arduous toil.

The play, as presented by the club, showed painstaking direction and great attention to every detail of production. As one competent critic said in a letter complimenting the club, "The show was splendid—the best production of its kind ever given at Fort Benning.———. The director and actors cannot be given too much credit. However, they only lived up to the expectations of the audience."

While it would be more or less improper to draw comparisons between the individuals of the cast, it must be said that the performances of Lt. Caswell and Mrs. Bruce stood out as remarkable. Not that their acting was so much superior to the rest of the cast, but neither has had a great deal of previous experience and therefore their work was more meritorious. Lt. Deas as the Bishop elicited much favorable comment as to his versatility, as his recent dancing exhibitions were fresh in the minds of the commentators.

BEAU GESTE

Three members of the cast of "Beau Geste," now playing twice daily at Springer Opera House had the unpleasant experience of having real bullets whiz near heads and feet while the picture was being taken.

Director Herbert Brenon had made several experiments in an effort to obtain a realistic effect of bullets striking near the actors. Small charges of power concealed in the walls of the fort and exploded to raise the dust a bullet striking should make, was not satisfactory nor were any of the other methods.

"Buck" Jones, a famous trick shot expert was hired then and while he had all the confidence in the world in being able to strike closely and yet safely his confidence was not entirely shared by William Powell, Norman Trevor and the other actors. Probably the uneasiness shown on the faces of the characters was not entirely acting.

ROOSMA TALLIES 35 AS DOUGHBOYS BEAT MILLIGAN QUINTET

Tennessee Collegians Put Up Great Fight, But Lose 53-33, After Tying Four Times

The Buffaloes from little Milligan College up in Tennessee invaded the garrison gymnasium Monday and threw quite a scare into the Infantry basketeers, but the extraordinary shooting of Johnny Roosma enabled the doughboys to go on to a comfortable 53 to 33 victory after the visitors had tied the score four times in the second half, the last time at 28 to 28.

The soldiers started rapidly and rolled up 8 points before Payne, Milligan center who led his team in scoring, caged a two pointer. Kammerer pulled an Olson from the side lines and Roosma arched one through from near the middle of the court to make it 12-2. Up to this point the visitors were completely outclassed, but after taking time out for a conference they came back with a vengeance and gradually overhauled the doughboys to tie the score at 18 all, half a minute before the rest period. Roosma and Newman scored in rapid succession and the Infantry led 22 to 18 at the half way mark.

Opening the second half Christo and Payne scored side line tosses and deadlocked things again. Then the teams alternated in making 2-pointers until the count reached 28 each. On each occasion the Infantry took the lead only to see Milligan retaliate. Here Roosma was seized with a brainstorm of something and sank four field goals in rapid succession. This spurt settled the result. Thereafter the visitors were helpless, while Johnny and his pals continued to roll up the score.

Roosma's 35 points, 17 field and 1 foul goal, speak for themselves. As one rooter remarked "How can you miss when you've got perfect aim," while the Milligan scorer remarked disgustedly "Hell, it would take a shotgun to guard that man." Johnny was ably assisted by his teammates in making his big score.

For Milligan Payne was high gun with 7 field goals for 14 points. C. Springfield caged 4 from the floor, all at long range. Christo played the floor in fine style. The visiting team was a fast passing hard playing gang, and had they been pitted against ordinary opposition would have been hard to beat.

ARTILLERY'S CHIEF ON OFFICIAL TRIP TO FORT BENNING

Major General Snow Arrived Thursday for Visit to The Infantry School and 83rd Field Artillery.

Major General William J. Snow, Chief of Field Artillery, arrived at Fort Benning Thursday at 11:30 a. m. for an official visit to the Infantry School. He was met at the entrance to the garrison by an escort of a full war strength company of the 29th Infantry commanded by Major Burton E. Bowen, 29th Infantry. The appropriate salute was rendered by a battery of the 83rd Field Artillery. The distinguished visitor was conducted to the quarters of the Commandant, Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, whose guest he will be during his stay at the fort.

Thursday night General Snow was the guest of Major Robert S. Donaldson, commanding the 83rd Field Artillery at a brilliant reception. Many other social and official functions were arranged for the visiting Chief during his stay here.

Major General William J. Snow was born in New York, December 16, 1868. He was appointed to the Military Academy from New Jersey and after graduation at West Point was appointed 2nd Lieutenant of Artillery, July 1, 1891. He attained the grade of 1st Lieutenant in 1898, gained his captaincy in 1901 and was promoted to Major March 3, 1911. On June 3, 1916 he was made Lt. Colonel, and his appointment as Colonel followed rapidly on July 1, 1916.

Soon after the outbreak of the war with Germany he was made Brigadier General, National Army, in Augst, 1917 and commanded the 156th Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Jackson, until February 10, 1918, when he was made the first Chief of Field Artillery of the United States army. His duties as chief then called him to Washington. Promoted to Major General, National Army, in June, 1918 he continued his duties as Chief of Field Artillery throughout the rest of the war. For his services in this capacity he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, with the following citation: "For especially meritorious and conspicuous service in planning and executing those measures responsible for the efficiency of the Field Artillery during the war."

General Snow has remained as Chief of Field Artillery ever since, first under a recess appointment that expired March 5, 1921, and later, after confirmation by the Senate as Major General, U. S. A. since March 28, 1921.

HIS HONOR'S ROUND

A Mark of Distinction

IN certain foreign countries if a firm is privileged to serve his Majesty the King, that firm may then advertise itself as "hatter or clothier or shoe store by appointment to his Majesty." It is a mark of distinction.

But in our country a firm merits distinction, not for serving one customer efficiently, but for serving all customers efficiently. This kind of service is typically American. Such stores always create confidence and are dependable.

In shoe repairing, all shops displaying the official sign of the Goodyear Welt Shoe Repairing System are recognized everywhere as "shoe repairers to the people." It is their mark of distinction.

These shops were awarded the sign because of the uniform standard of excellence in their workmanship—

Speculation in Army - Navy Football Tickets

Considerable newspaper publi ty concerning the large number of t kets in the hands of speculators for th Army-Navy Football Game led the Ar y Athletic Association to employ sp ial investigators to determine what A my tickets had been permitted to get nto improper hands. Through these in vestigators it was learned that the reports of the number of tickets offered or sale was greatly exaggerated. In mo t cases the speculators stated that wh le they did not have the tickets at ha d they had access to large blocks of Army or Cadet tickets, which upon follow up proved not to be the case.

Of those tickets offered for sa e many were identified and were easily traced to those members to whom they were issued who have been called upon to explain why these tickets were p rmitted to be diverted from their proj e. Considerable embarrassment ha n caused members and replies rec to date indicate that in the maj y of cases the difficulty was caused through the tickets having passed through several hands until the holders felt little personal responsibility for their proper use. Final action in each case will be taken by the Athletic Board when all replies have been received.

This investigation indicated a lack of proper regard for the certificate for personal use on the ticket application in several cases. This disclosure is most regrettable in that the applications as a whole indicate that most of our members are "playing the game" with us to secure the proper distribution of tickets and on finding that they cannot use personal use tickets requested for themselves, have returned them to this office for exchange.

The investigation also showed that the implications of newspaper articles to the effect that many tickets issued to cadets were offered for sale, were wholly without basis in fact.—Bulletin By Army Athletic Association.

MONOGRAPHS

Captain Paul Steele, 24th Infantry, in a most interesting and instructive manner, related to the officers of that regiment the strategical and tactical principles involved in the battle of Liao Yang, fought on the Kuan Tung Peninsula and Manchuria during the Russo-Japanese War. In addition to having made a thorough and exhaustive study of the subject, Captain Steele, within the past two years, has been personally conducted over the battle field by officers of the Japanese General Staff. He thus was able to inform his audience not only of matters of written historical value, but of his own personal observations as well. With this back ground of knowledge the remarks of Captain Steele were of double weight and made a great impression upon his audience.

In the early part of his address, Captain Steele explained the historical causes of the Russo-Japanese War and the factors entering into the battle of Liao Yang. Concerning the battle itself he gave full detail of the personnel, and material. The tactical positions of the Russians and their plan of operations were described with great clearness. The Japanese scheme of attack and the elements that contributed to their victory were related in such a concise and definite manner that all understood the basic reasons for the Japanese success in this engagement. The outstanding features of the battle of Liao Yang, Captain Steele said were "That a numerically superior force (Russians) concentrated in a ground of their own choice and fortified as desired by their own leaders, were deliberately attacked and defated by a weaker force. (Japanese.")

"That the tactics adopted by the Japanese in splitting their forces to threaten the Russian line of communications when the Japanese had been repulsed in all attacks on the advance position was a great risk but was the decisive factor in the defeat of the Russians."

In closing Captain Steele quoted Von Moltke as authority for the statement that "all is uncertain in war from the beginning except the amount of will power and energy displayed by the Commander-in-Chief and his will power and energy will be the deciding element in battle," and then he said "the priciple of this remark was effectively illustrated in the battle of Liao Yang as the Russian leader lacked initiative and his indecision and vacillating methods caused the downfall of the Russian Army. On the other hand the Japanese commander employed tactics which might have appeared to be rash but in fact were a brilliant example of judicious exploitation of an expected weakness in his adversary together with correct selection of the weakest point in the Russian defensive system. The insight into the character and plan of battle of his opponent, as displayed by the Japanese Commander at this engagement, showed that he had the capabilities of a great commander."

THEATERS

A resume of the plays to be presented each week will be published in this column.

PRICES:
Adults, 15c Daily—25c Sunday.
Children Under 12—10c
Daily Including Sunday.

FRIDAY JAN. 28

"Fascinating Youth," a Sam Ward production with Charles Rogers, Ivy Harris and a cast of the Paramount Junior Stars of 1926, in a story of scenes behind the scenes in the movie world. Winter sports, ice yachting, skiing, skating snow shoeing and tobogganing—all have vital places in the story. The snow covered mountains of Lake Placid, furnishing the picturesque background.

"Phantom Police No. 8." — Herbert Rawlinson.

SATURDAY JAN. 29

"The Wild Horse Stampede," starring Jack Hoxie with his remarkable horse picture; brim full of excitement; a stampede, clouds of dust, shots, the bodies of a man and a girl amid the center of the melee.

"Laughing Ladies."—A Roach star.

SUNDAY JAN. 30

"Flesh and The Devil," starring John Gilbert, Greta Garbo and Lars Hanson in a tense drama of before the war in Germany, during the most militaristic period of that nation. It is a lavish adaption of Sudermann's classic "The Undying Past." The theme penetrates deeply into the heart of European sociological conditions.

"Wicked City,"—Fables.

"Kinograms"

MONDAY JAN. 31

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em,"—Frank Tuttle's sparkling comedy of life, love and laughter in a New York department store. The " 'Em" in this case equally pertains to the man as well as the flapper. You are left to guess the rest.

"Phantom Police No. 9." — Herbert Rawlinson.

TUESDAY FEB. 1

"False Alarm."—A spectacular love drama of a hero of the flames. This picture boasts an all star cast headed by Mary Carr, Ralph Lewis, Dorothy Ravier and Maurice Costello.

"Isn't Love Cuckoo." Sennett.

WEDNESDAY FEB. 2

"The Boy Friend," starring a new satellite Marceline Day, in a satire on modern etiquette in an attempt to decide the following questions: Should a bachelor entertain a married woman in his apartment unchaperoned? Should a man consult his fiancee before taking out another girl? Can a boy friend be trusted as well as a girl friend? The play promises some rich and rare decisions.

"Wild Roomer."—A Whirlwind comedy.

THURSDAY FEB. 3

"The Great Gatsby," featuring Warner Baxter in a social satire revealing an unknown side of Gotham's "Jazz Generation." This is a Paramount production presented by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky.

"Pathe News"

FRIDAY FEB. 4

"Upstage," starring Norma Shearer in a Monte Bell production of back stage life of the vaudeville. The play depicts the life of an actress from before the time she enters the stage until she blossoms out an accomplished actress and the many trials, tribulations and successes withstood during her career.

"Phantom Police No. 10." — Herbert Rawlinson.

Is Your Pay Insured?
Have You an Automobile?

A short time ago a lieutenant of the army struck a pedestrian and broke his arm. Suit was immediately filed.

As the lieutenant was a member of this association and carried our public liability insurance, we paid the loss. The affair cost the association about $2000.00.

If you are not protected for public liability, write to us.

This is the most dangerous of all risks. We protect you against it at a cost that is surprisingly low. If you injure someone we relieve you of all worry, trouble, loss of time and expense with association attorneys and association money.

Don't neglect this important matter. Examine your policy, or, if you haven't one, write us, giving description of your car, for rates.

29TH INF.

HQ. COMPANY 1ST BN.

Numerous changes have taken place in the company since we laid aside the pencil last week.

Former Cpl. Sanders is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on his promotion to Sgt.

"Red Shepherd" has been promoted to Cpl. and placed in charge of the recreation room, he measures up to be a good house keeper.

Sgt. Honeycut, Cpl. Irving, Pvts. McGaugh, Simpson and Haygood stepped out in the great beyond during the past week by route of discharge.

Sgt. Fitch, Cpl. Bagley, Pvts. Cowan and English probably will not be able to navigate properly during the weekend if they attend the foot ball banquet Thursday p. m., which of course they expect to do.

Pfc. Green has been placed on D. S, with the M. P. Co., we hope it isn't a case of another good man gone wrong.

Pfc. Giles succumbed to the matrimonial epidemic recently, "Poor Girl."

We have in the company with us 1st Lieut. H. H. Harris who recently returned from Panama. Lieut. Harris is a former 29th Infantry Officer and we are glad to have him back.

J. JUSTICE.

COMPANY "A"

"A" Company's Basketball Artists continue to demonstrate their superiority in the pass and dribble game and are improving each day. On January 19th the Battalion Championship was decisively settled when Company "B" fell in defeat before the well trained offense of the "A" Company quintet. With "Hank" Miller "Deadshot" Skelton, as forwards, "Pete" Magagna and "Mike" Fesnick as as guards, and Hamscher at center aided by the very able services of Azbill, McCarty, Scalzo and Snooks we have a combination that will be "hard to beat." Out of a very small amount of material with which to work, Lt. Newman has, truly, developed a winning team and is to be congratulated for his achievement.

All men who wish to donate to a sum to purchase for Fitzpatrick a bottle of furniture polish with which to polish his Victrola, kindly advise the writer to that effect. Better change the needle "Fitz," you'll wear out that record.

Corp. Jason Fugate wishes to be taught the art of playing checkers, any volunteers for this work?

Samuel P. Freeman and Dan G. Ferguson have returned from furlough without losing their appetites and both state that they had a very enjoyable time. Bet they missed their good ol' army slum.

SNOOKS.

COMPANY "B"

After a brief stay in the hospital, we have with us again Pvt. R. E. Johnson. Glad to see you out again, Johnson.

Tho' we had all hopes shot to pieces for another Regimental Championship, when we met "A" Co., the other day, one of their backers was heard say, "Gee! We like to have not beat them." The charity line did the dirty work for us.

Several new names have been added to the list of NCOS in the Company. W. E. King, Cannon, W. J. Jordon and Skipper are the latest ones. We haven't heard anyone say that they're not glad to see it.

Several Cadets, from Riverside Academy, are with us for a few days, to learn more of the Army, we suppose. They sure came to a good place to get the real inside dope.

Corp. Stanley S. Billiter was signally honored by an invitation from the Battalion Commander to attend the banquet given the 1st Battalion Football Team. Of course Vangrofski and Damarfol will attend.

One thing we would like to know—what is the matter with Bolton.

HQ. CO. 2ND BATTALION

Lt. Tatom was recently assigned to the company as Bn. Q. We are glad to have Lt. Tatom with the company again.

Sgt. F. C. Davis the Regimental draftsman and landscape artist was discharged the 2st, but could not resist re-enlisting.

Pvt. Lamastus won the honor of being the co's most handsome man in spite of all the competition opposing him. He leads the way to North Highland.

In the recent beauty contest, Pvt. Griggs was given first place as orderly room sheik, with our pleasant looking top-kick a close second, while the writer and Lefty Carnes tied for third. We urgently request that the contest be held again, as Carnes is displeased with the decision.

Considering the disadvantage of so little time to practice, the company basketball team made an excellent showing in the Battalion tournament.

It is a good thing that a certain tent in the company has an overhead exit.

W. H. BIGGERSTAFF.

COMPANY "E"

Due to the absent mind of our reporter we failed to have any notes in last weeks edition. There was a slight mistake in our notes of two weeks ago, namely that Cpl. Boling and Cpl. Miscar have decided to take on another hitch and are now on a re-enlistment furlough. Cpl. Felber has been granted a 45 day extension on his furlough.

The basketball team won the Bn. championship from "G" Co., Sunday. The "Snuff King" and "Hi" Davis were prominent figures in the game. We have had quite a number of re-enlistments in the last two weeks, our acting top kick and Sgt. Mathews H. will be with us for three more.

JESSIE L. TAYLOR.

COMPANY "F"

Cpl. Costello decided to stay with us for three more years, Good luck, Cos.

All the short timers in the company are a little worried, some of them are in doubt what to do.

Cpl. Truitt to 1st Sgt.:—Cpl. Costello has gone to town and I don't believe he intends to re-enlist.

First Sgt.:—Well, what about it?

Cpl. Truitt:—In a very mild tone of voice:—Well if he doesn't re-enlist, I don't see how I can.

Cpl. Dykes is a little in doubt about re-enlisting, he donesn't think Uncle Sam wants to feed him for three more yeras.

PAUL K. ARMSTEAD.

COMPANY "G"

Our Basketball team has been stepping out lately, stepping over "F" Company and wiping out "H" and Headquarters Company Saturday.

Sgt. Herring decided at the last moment to re-enlist, glad to have you with us Alfred.

Corporal White looks good with a full field pack on his back after a long period with the foot ball squad.

Pfs. Hodges is looking for something hard to find, anyone having any information, please turn same in to supply room.

W. C. ROWELL.

COMPANY "H"

The Second Bat. came through last week at the fights and won the tilt, only loosing one bout, and that by a very small margin. As usual, Company "H" had representatives entered, and as usual, they won their bouts. Private Pieters came forward, not being satisfied with being the Regimental champion wrestler in his weight, and claimed the crown in the 135 pound class. He surely did fool the bunch of us, one man to the extent of two dollars, "Bud" Gorman came out of the rut to win his bout in a four round tilt.

Quartermaster Corps

UTILITIES DEPARTMENT

This department takes great pride in the fact that the new bakery is now in operation. A great deal of work went into the preparation of this building, which can be understood and appreciated only by those who took part in its erection. The bakery building was constructed from approximately fifty percent salvaged material, and is by far the best bakery building in the Army. It ranks next to the Hospital building in importance at Fort Benning. The Quartermaster invites its patrons to make an inspection of this building and the equipment used in preparing a portion of their daily bread supply. This building was completed only through the push and constant efforts of the Quartermaster.

If the weather dosen't turn off freezing again, our plumbers will be back to normal in about ten days, but Mr. Quinney on the water and sewers job apparently never will get all water mains stopped up, as they keep breaking frequently.

TRANSPORTATION BRANCH

Unofficial information has been received by this office indicating that by a recent decision of the Comptroller General the allowance of baggage that may be shipped by an officer on permanent change of station is based on the weight actually shipped, and not the allowance as prescribed in Army Regulations 30-960, paragraph 10, and the allowance is based on the Household goods rate; therefore, when automobiles are included in shipment a charge will be made, based on the rate and weight, regardless of whether the inclusion of the automobile does or does not exceed the prescribed allowance. Further information will be furnished as soon as a copy of the decision is received by this office.

PROPERTY OFFICE

Tech. Sgt. Farley is now in charge of the Memorandum Receipt Section of the Property Branch. We hope that this addition to the force will permit of better service on memorandum receipt items.

Certain enlisted men of the Quartermaster Corps were 'boning' away preparing for the coming examinations last week, the sentry objected to their presence in the Quartermaster Property office around 9:00 o'clock at night. The next day these men were very energetic in obtaining written permission to pursue their studies in the Property office at night.

LAUNDRY

If the employees of the Laundry carry out their plans for the coming summer vacations, we will be well represented over the country. Mrs. Reddy plans a trip to New York; Mrs. Heckert to Cincinnati; Markey to Chicago and other points; Mrs. Pope to St. Louis; while the Superintendent and "family" are going to New York, Niagara Falls, through Canada and back by Chicago. It must be wonderful to have enough dough to even contemplate such a trip—so says Mr. Redding. Other employees are still planning and their destinations cannot be ascertained, but other sections of the country could be mentioned.

The writer has always cautioned drivers of automobiles to stay on the right hand side of the road. Mr. Hodge, our Engineer, has been converted and will henceforth always say it's for the best. Last Saturday night he made a trip to Camp in a new Reo Roadster and by his failure to keep to the right he allowed a tree of pretty big dimensions to get in his way, also the front fence of a party on Brown street. Tthe roadster has been in the hospital for three days but is expected to be out Wednesday. It will never be the same, however, says Mr. Hodge—and neither will he.

Business at the laundry is dull and the National Guard Class will be welcomed.

SEMPER PARATUS

ENLISTED MEN'S DANCE

The enlisted men of the 24th Infantry were entertained Wednesday evening, January 19, 1927, at a dance given by the Service Company of that regiment. First Sergeant William J. Miller, of that organization, had charge of all details incident to the affair and the pleasant evening enjoyed by the men and their friends is largely due to his efforts. An eight piece orchestra, under the direction of Staff Sergeant Lewis A. Scipio, Service Company, furnished the music.

A special event of the evening's activities was a Charleston contest. Private Willie Ancrum, Company "B" 24th Infantry, and Miss F. Watson won the first prize which was five dollars cash. The second prize of two and a half dollars cash was secured by Private Rudolph Riley, Service Company, 24th Infantry, and Mrs. Bernice Wood. The third prize, consisting of two dollars cash was awarded to Private Lawson Carter, Company "C" and Mrs. P. D. Herbert.

OFFICERS CHANGES

The commissioned strength of the 24th Infantry has been increased during the past week by the assignment of two officers to that regiment. Captain Charles H. Karlstad, Infantry, who now is on duty with the Infantry School, will join the regiment on or about March 30, 1927. First Lieutenant Edward J. Walsh, Infantry, having recently completed his tour of foreign service with the 65th Infantry Porto Rico, reported for duty on Thursday, January 20, 1927. Captain Harry M. Gwynn, Infantry, has arrived in the U. S. from Guatemala, where he has been the United States Military Attache, and is expected to join on or about the sixth of February.

VOLLEY BALL

Companies "H" and "M" of the 24th Infantry entered a volley ball contest between the two organizations. The first of a series of three games will be played on the regimental volley ball court on Wednesday afternoon, February 2, 1927. Each team has recently acquired new uniforms and is practicing for the preliminary encounter. The uniforms of "H" Company consist of shirts of a light blue color with gold stripes, trunks of golden color with light blue stripes, and stockings the same as the shirts. The shirts of "M" Company are orange with blue stripes, blue trunks with orange stripes. and the stockings the same as the shirts.

The team of "H" Company will consist of Private Will E. Wright, (team captain) Theodore Williamson, Howard Curtis, Leavie Simpson, James Capers, Grady Oliver, William Gillman, and Charles Sanders. That of "M" Company will be composed of Private Joe Wimberly, Vance Leverett, William Kato, Bob Betts, Willie Sprueil, William Giles, William Blake, Central Johnson, and Adonis Bess, (team captain.)

CHARLESTON CONTEST

Judged by the number of entries and the enthusiasm displayed by the participants and the audience, the Charleston contest held by the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service at the 24th Infantry theatre during the past week was a great success. Many fine exhibitions were given and the reputation for rendering the best performance was hotly contested. Private Robert Branch, Company "A" 24th Infantry, was awarded first honors, and secured a months pass to all performances and shows at the 24th Infantry theatre. Private Isaac Ancrum, Company "B" 24th Infantry, won second prize, which consisted of a two week's pass, and Private Aron Harper, of the same organization, was given third prize, which was a one week's pass.

VOLUME V. FORT BENNING, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1927. NUMBER 20

ARTILLERY VICTORIOUS OVER 29TH INFANTRY POLO QUARTET

Lieuts Elkins and Nichols Star Players for Student Team.

Last Sunday the two polo games scheduled by the Infantry Polo Association, developed into two of the most closely contested matches of the season. While the first game of the afternoon returned the artillery team victors over the 29th Infantry four, by a score of 5 to 0, the game was much more closely contested than the score would seem to indicate. Lt. Oliver, Murphy and Hurdis scored the artillery goals.

The second game, which was played between the Freebooters and the Student Officers, was sensational from beginning to end. During the first period the Freebooters rode in what Major Smith termed a "Nonchalant" manner while the Student Officers busied themselves in shooting several goals. During the second period, the Student Officers ran wild all over the field, and managed to shoot four goals from five attempts.

Elkins and Nichols divided honors, in the scoring. With the score five to nothnig against them, the Freebooters first string team went into action. The Forsythe McClure, Whisner, and Smith combination scored two quick goals. Forsythe missed two more attempts at goal by inches.

In the last period, Dan Mallan carried the ball the length of the field, and scored a beatiful goal from a most different angle. It is reported that the ball has been suitably autographed, and will be on display in the Officers Club.

The Polo Association announces that future home games are being arranged with the Governors Horseguards of Atlanta, and the 6th Cavalry team from Fort Oglethorpe. In addition, the annual garison polo tournament will be held beginning the latter part of March, and will continue for three successive Sundays. This tournament will be in a sense a preparatory affair for the 4th corps area tournament which is slated for sometime in April.

SENATE APPROVES APPROPRIATION FOR MORE CONSTRUCTION HERE

Upper Body Approve s House Bill Appropriating $465,000 Which Will Complete 29th Cuartel.

With the work on the additional three sections of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry Barracks well under way and progressing rapidly, comes the word from Washington that the Senate has approved a bill as proposed by the House, appropriating $465,000.00 for additional construction at Fort Benning. This amount, it has been learned, will practically complete the Twenty-Ninth Cuartel.

Contractors state that the present constructon is right on schedule and that the work will be completed on time. It is interesting to see the kind of work that is being done on the new barracks. Every ounce of steel and concrete that goes into the building is rigidly inspected and the completed cuartel will be one of the finest in the Army. Every convenience for the men is being installed.

In the part of the barracks already completed there are now housed about three hundred and seventy-five men. The barracks, when completed, will house two thousand one hundred and ten men and will have been built at a cost of approximately one and three-quarter million dollars.

Fort Benning is well on its way to being the Fort Benning that all of the Army wants it to be. In years to come, when trees and shrubbery are grown, other buildings are built, paving completed and lawns perfected, Fort Benning will hold its own, in beauty and convenience, with any Army post in the United States or any of our foreign possessions.

FIRST BN. FOOTBALL TEAM HONORED WITH DINNER

The first battalion football team were entertained with a dinner at the twenty-ninth officers mess last evening and followed by after dinner speaches by officers of the battalion and members of the team.

Owing to a previous engagement Col. Gowen was unable to attend but sent a letter expressing his disappointment of not being able to attend but commanded the team very highly, "on their fighting spirits" and if such continues the first battalion will soon be leading the intermural league.

Among the speaches most were those of Major Griswold the battalion commander and Lt. Cole and Schaefer the coaches of the team each saying. "Although you were outscored you were not out played, and while you faced veterans of the gridiron and teams that were far your superior in weight the spirit and fight you displayed in your games was something of which to be proud and I am proud of you."

ZIMMER HARP TRIO COMING TO INFANTRY SCHOOL FOR RECITAL

Will Play in Garrison Theater On February 12th

Under the auspices of the Infantry School Athletic Association, arrangements have been made for a one night appearance in the garrison theater of the famous Zimmer Harp Trio, of New York. These famous players, now in their eighth consecutive season, are considered paramount in their particular field of musical endeavor. Last seasons New York recital was an ovation form the standpoint of large audiences, and the critics could not have been more lavish in their praise.

It is the oldest Harp Trio and has the record of having given more Harp concerts than any other representative of that instrument in America. To this has been added an almost unparalleled popularity, returning season after season to Boston, Washington, Richmond, been arranged for by the athletic association. Those who enjoyed so much of the appearance of Rafaelo Diaz, a short while ago, are in for another musical treat, which is promised to be one of the finest attractions of its kind ever to appear in the garrison theater.

WHO'S WHO!

The Army as a whole and more especially the Infantry Branch looks upon Fort Benning and the Infantry School as the very mecca of training and the development of new plans and ideas which are to be put into practice by the Infantry Arm. Therefore it is most important that the plans and training schedules for the Infantry School should be most carefully prepared and an exhaustive preparation study must be also made in order that the expectations of the Chief of Infantry and the whole army may be fulfilled to the utmost degree. The Commandant, The Infantry School, therefore must have on his Staff an officer for Plans and Training and to this most important duty has been assigned Major Frederick E. Uhl, Infantry U. S. A.

The job itself is one that requires much planning to say nothing of considerable training. It sometimes presents most confusing problems and controversies between the various organizations of the Garrison. With a reserved manner and with moderate speed toward judgement, Major Uhl seems to untangle these difficulties with quite clearly defined accuracy.

Major Uhl embarked for over-seas in 1917 with the 3rd U. S. Division in the capacity of Assistant Adjutant of the Division. He also served as Assistant to G-1 of the 3rd Division and upon leaving the Division he went to G. H. Q. in France and there served as Executive Officer, Organization and Equipment Division in the Office of G-1. On August 15th 1918 he was appointed an Acting General Staff officer, A. E. F., and he served as Secretary of the Superior Board on Organization and Tactics at Chaumont, France and Treves, Germany from May 4th, 1919 to July 17th, 1919.

From August 23, 1920 to Sept. 11, 1924 Major Uhl served at the U. S. Military Academy in the Department of Economics, and Political History.

He was Assistant Professor of History at the Military Academy from September 1922 to August 1924.

Major Uhl is a graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of 1910 and upon graduation was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the 6th U. S. Infantry. He is also a graduate of the Infantry School, Advanced Course, Class of 1924.

In addition to his service over-seas Major Uhl has seen action in the Philippine Islands and he wears the Philippine Campaign Medal together with the French decoration of Officer'd Academie.

Did you get a "certificate" with your automobile?

What are its provisions? exceptions? better read it carefully. If insured by some fine "certificate" plan you may not be protected, but the note holders are, at your expense.

The protection you need is not included—Personal liability. Fire, theft and collision may be ignored— total loss in these only means that you've lost the cost of the car. If you can't afford that amount of loss, however, you should protect the investment..

A judgment for personal injuries is, however, "something else again, Mawruss."

About 30,000 persons have been injured yearly for the past three years by automobiles. Each accident is a potential damage suit; single judgments running to $50,000 have been awarded by the courts.

Such a judgment against a member of the services might be paid by installments out of his pay. We can protect you against this hazard at a surprisingly small expense. What kind of car have you?

There are some forms of monotony that produce favorable reactions and one we have in mind is the regularity with which the 29th Inafntry leads the way in the payment of tuition fees for the Children's School. This month the regiment reported in with Warrant Officer Dickson, Major Bowen, and Colonel Gowen sending checks in the order named. The general response to the plea for prompt payment has been most gratifying; nearly one third had been paid on the first day of the month.

The teaching staff completed the first term with a loss of only one day due to illness. This remarkable record for attendance, at times under difficulties, is a good indication of the interest taken by the individual teachers.

There are still some vacancies in the Kindergarten and the First Grade. Apply to the Principal at the school.

THE KIWANIS VANITY FAIR REVUE

Famous Vanity Fair Magazine to be enacted at Springer Opera House, Feb., 8-9th. Rehearsals are nearing a close for the Vanity Fair Revue to be given under the asupices of the Columbus Kiwanis Club at the Springer Opera House on the evenings of Feb. 8-9. Associated Producers, Inc., who staged the successful show at Fort Bragg, N. C., last season are staging and directing this show for the Kiwanis Club.

The show is on the order of Zeigled's Follies, and Berlin's Music Box Revue, and was originally staged by the Providence Junior League of Providence, R. I. Those who have seen the rehearsals are surprised at the intricate dance routines and the professional manner in which the local stars are doing their stuff, this fact is made possible due to the fact the entire show was originally staged and the dances set by the father of Marilyn Miller, famous musical comedy star of "Sunny" fame. Mr. Miller is the vice-president of Associated Producers, Inc., and has given Vanity Fair Revue the professional touch, and still has the show in reach of good amateur talent. Fort Benning will be represented in several of the dancing numbers. The show is in two acts and twenty scenes and will run two hours without any waits, the curtain will go up on time and come down the same way.

Capt. and Mrs. George P. Winton, 83rd Field Artillery announce the birth of a son at the Post Hospital on Jan. 21st.

THE FELLOW NEXT TO ME

There's a fellow drills next to me
Wot waves 'is bloomin' gun;
The way 'e grunts an' 'eaves 'is piece
You'd think it weighs a ton.

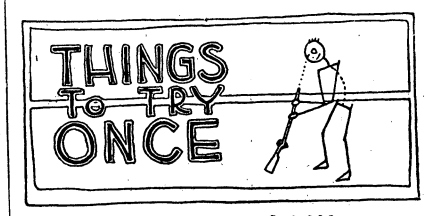
If 'e 'andled of 'is knife an' fork
The way 'e does 'is gat,
'E'd fork the meat from off my plate
An' feed it to 'is at!

Yes, 'e andles of 'is rifle
Like a farmer pitchin' 'ay,
An' 'e jammed it up my nearby nose
W'en 'e come to "port" today.

An' w'en 'e brought it down ag'in,
With the world to set it on,
'E missed the bloomin' world, b'gosh,
An' set it on my co'n!

Oh! I tries to be a Christian
An' I says my prayers with thanks,
But I'll never quit my cussin'
Till they change my place in ranks!

MAJOR WM. E. BROUGHER.



A saving of almost $10,000 was recently effected in the Army by cutting the tails off six thousand white coats worn by Army cooks, bakers and butchers, and using the material for the making of patch pockets on white coats and caps for the chefs.

How one enlisted soldier of the Regular Army saved $4,305 for the Government was recently announced from Camp Normoyle, Texas. Private First Class William E. Robedau, 3rd Motor Repair Battalion reclaimed 94 magnetos from unserviceable stock at the Texas camp saving the Army the amount of money stated. This is only one example of where the trained soldier has more than "earned his salt."

Panama was very recently the scene of an outstanding aviation accomplishment by the Army, when two Army Air Corps flyers flew two Dehaviland aeroplanes, equipped with raido and night flying equipment, on the first round-trip flight ever made in the Canal Zone.

Piloted by Lieuts. R. T. Zane and R. W. C. Dimsatt, Air Corps, with Lt. Colonel Arthur G Fisher, Commanding Officer of France Field, and Sgt. Walter B. Burg, radio operator, as observers, the two big planes took off from the flying field at 7:00 p. m., flew to the opposite side of the Canal Zone and returned to France without alighting, making the round trip in an hour and a half.

The unusual sight of the two aeroplanes traveling at night with red and green lights on their wing tips, aroused fears in the inhabitants of the Canal Zone and the Republic of Panama, while the flight was in progress, that the pilots were lost and unable to make a landing, and numerous phone calls were received at France Field from them notifying the military authorities of the "lost airships."—G-2-9th Corps Area.

The business of thanking God that we are not as others are, is not, we flatter ourselves, one in which we generally indulge; but we were not able to avoid twinges of complacency during Christmas week when a few cadets made themselves visible on the sidewalks. Our experiences during the war make us feel that the future we should least look forward to would be one which held out the promise that, if we worked real hard in our studies for two or three more years, we could become a Second Lieutenant.—The New Yorker.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB

Place of meeting—Polo Club.

Date of meeting—First and Third Mondays.

Date of next meeting—February 7th.

Time—2:15.

January with her extra Monday is gone, and around comes Club day again. The program for next Monday afternoon is so good that nobody will miss it who can possibly get there. Look at what is planned for you:

Curent Events—by Mrs. Edwin Spiller.

Songs—Capt. Rutledge with Mrs. Rutledge accompaning.

One-Act play—Open Door by Miss Elizabeth Pekor of Columbus.

Tea with Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Littell as hostesses.

We have been wanting to have Current Events for a long tmie. Miss Chappell's excellent work last year along this line was so enthusiastically received that it created a desire for much more, yet it has so happened that other equally good things have crowded it out for a while.

And to hear Capt. Rutledge sing has been the one thing that the club has been most eager for. We have had a grudge against the weather man for months for raining an examination down on the day he was to appear on our program. May the sun smile on us Monday!

Those who heard Miss Pekor give "Suppressed Desires" last year need no urging for she made that May meeting one of the most charming of the whole year. Since then she has been studying in Boston to further perfect her art and has given programs throughout New England as a member of the Boston Lyceum Bureau. She came home for a little visit and we were fortunate indeed to get her. She will present Alfred Sutro's outstanding production—"The Open Door" in a way that will please us to remember long.

The Literature Club enjoyed an exceptionally fine meeting recently when the study of New England literature was begun. The following program was presented:

Fiction:—Louis Broomfield's "Early Autumn" ..... Mrs. Kellogg.

Non-Fiction:—Dallas Love Sharp's "Sanctuary, Sanctuary" .... Mrs. Otto.

Poetry:—Amy Lowells "East Wind" and "What O'clock" ..... Mrs. Landis.

The Croftsmanship of "Patterns" ..... Mrs. Peyton.

Mrs. Kellogg's review of "Early Autumn will long stand out as one of the finest pieces of work done by the club this year. Her grasp of the author's revolt against false puritanism, foolish family tradition, blind homage to the past the idolatry of everything old in general and applied to New England in particular, was as keen and subtle as the author's satire was brilliant and stinging. Mrs. Julia Collier Harris was present and told what the Bromfield wrote her in appreciation of her review of "Early Autumn." It was surely a privilege to have Mrs. Harris with us.

Mrs. Otto read parts of "Sanctuary, Sanctuary" so interestingly, choosing her selections so wisely that, tho after she skipped many pages, we felt as tho she gave us continuous experience in its entirety.

Mrs. Landis acquainted us with certain intimate things of Amy Lowell's home, garden, likes and dislikes, her notable achievements, and read with wonderful poetic feeling delightful selections from her last books. Her interpretation of "Patterns" was perfectly charming.

At the next meeting on Feb. 14th we will continue the study of New England.

The Home Economic Club met with Mrs. Butler Knight on Monday afternoon at which time she gave a laboratory lesson demonstrating batters and doughs. When the baking was done, the "goodies" were served with tea.

The Child Study Club met last week with Mrs. John Newton. An unusually large atendance proved the desire to keep up the excellent work being done by this group. The problem of Feeding the child was the subject for discussion and the what, when and why and how of the food question was gone into with thought, provoking care. No harder nor more important problem faces every mother.

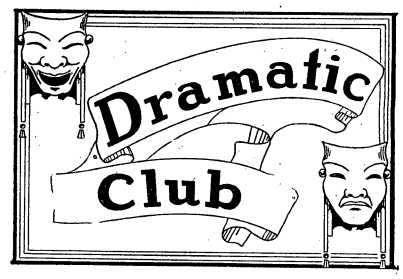
The Arts and Crafts Club under the able direction of Miss Mary Pendleton meets every Wednesday at their studio in Mrs. Kingman's home and they are doing many lovely things.

EVER TRY THAT TRICK?

"Did you hear about Bill Curran? He's traveling with the circus as their tatooed man."

"How come? Bill never had a mark on his body, did he?"

"No—not until he happened to step on the chimpanzee's tail."—Amer. Leg. Monthly.



Three one act plays have been selected and cast and are in rehearsal for presentation to club members and their guests on the 19th instant.

They are:

The Trysting Place—A farce by Booth Tarkington under direction of Lt. Robert Sharp, 29th Inafntry.

The Girl—A drama by Edward Peple under direction of Captain Ralph C. Smith, Infantry.

Meet the Missus—A comedy by Kenyon Nicholson under direction of Major Elmer F. Rice, Infantry.

Casts and other details will be announced later.

The next regular business meeting of the club will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday the 10th instant in the lounge of the officer's club.

At this meeting a nominating committee will be appointed to nominate officers for the ensuing year. Election will take place at a subsequent meeting. Such other business as may with propriety be taken up will be disposed of at this time, including a report on the financial aspects of "Nothing But the Truth."

The "Midnight Watch" will not be mounted at this meeting.

CORPORAL HENRY AVERILL LEAVES THE NEWS

On February third, Corporal Henry Averill was discharged from the Army via the purchase route. Corporal Averill has for the past two and a half years been the Sports writer for the Infantry School News and to say the least he has filled that position most ably. Corporal Averill leaves the News to accept a position with the Columbus Enquirer-Sun as one of their Sports writers. If the News has been a success in the past much of the effort toward such success was made by Averill. We hate to see him go but his leaving is in form of an advancement and we wish him all luck and good wishes.

The Gossip Among Fort Benning Women

WHENEVER the smartly dressed women of Fort Benning gather, talk is bound sometimes to turn to clothes. Most all of them are acquainted with the Spring Coats and Dresses in Kirven's Ready-to-Wear Section. Those who are not, are being told of the faultless style correctness and beauty of the Springtime apparel shown now.

We would quote prices, but, the prices would not—or could not—indicate the beauty and values offered—as the prices are too moderate.

Army Relief Society

From time to time we hear of various entertainments being given at Army Posts and Stations for the benefit of the Army Relief Society. While no such plan is on foot for the immediate future at Fort Benning, it is desire to bring to the attention of our readers the worthiness of this Army society. The society is made up mostly of Army officers and their wives in each regiment and at each station in the Army principally, however, in the United States. These officers and ladies arrange entertainments of various kinds to raise funds for the society whose particular objects are to collect funds and provide relief in case of emergency for dependent widows and orphans of officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army of the United States, to aid in securing employment for them and to solicit and create scholarships and supervise educational opportunties for such orphan children.

Many are of the opinion that the Army Relief Society is authorized under its incorporation to help all members of the service who are in difficulty. The fund accumulated by the society is not large and the organization must conform to the purpose for which it was organized; it is believed, however, that the Army Relief Society has gone out of its way in all cases to assist the needy in obtaining assistance. The Army Relief is to be congratulated for its splendid work throughout the service in the many years past and should be given every encouragement in the way of reasonable financial support in the future.

Old Pistols Presented to Military Academy.

A brace of old-fashioned, muzzle-loading, flintlock pistols, originally owned and used by Napoleon I, has just been presented to the Military Academy by Mr. Laurence Benet, of Washington, D. C. The case containing the pistols includes, also, a silver mold for making balls and a wooden ramrod. The mold is in the form of a pincers. The end of each handle is a hollow hemisphere, giving, when pressed together, the rounded pistol ball. The pistols were made by a manufacturer of Versailles, the exact name not being decipherable. The pistols are exactly similar, having a six inch barrel, and a rather short, semi-circular rounded handle, which is very finely corrugated. There is some inlaid gold work on the top and on each side of the steel barrel. The flints were held by mouthpieces which resemble the knights in chess.

In his letter presenting the pistols, Mr. Benet said, "I desire to present these pistols to the Museum of the Military Academy in memory of my father, the late Brigadier General Stephen V. Benet, of the Class of 1849." General Benet, whose portrait adorns the wall of the Museum, was Professor of Ordnance and Gunnery at West Point from 1861-1864.

The history of the pistols, written on a very old and faded piece of ordinary paper, is in a Polish script, with a French translation attached. It was inclosed in the case with the pistols. The English translation shows that the pistols were once the property of Duke Loiehtemberg, a grandson of Napoleon, to whom, presumably, the great emperor willed them. An old Quartermaster of the Duke, and the executor of the Duke's will, a Monsieur Mussard. then came into possession of them. On January 1, 1858, they were given to an unknown party, who, in turn, on October 14, 1870, gave them to a second unknown party.

The history then shows that they were given to Capt. Godebski, some time between 1870 and 1895. On November 20 of the latter year, this Cyp. Godebski presented them to Monsieur Edmond (or Edourd) de Morainvillo, a distinguished French aristocrat. Finally, on April 8, 1907, Mr. Laurence V Benet purchased them from Monsieur Morainvillo, and on January 7 of this year presented them to the Museum of the Military Academy.

In accepting the gift, Brigadier General Merch B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Military Academy, in a letter to Mr. Benet, said, "It is a great pleasure to receive the Napoleon pistols. They are a very fine relic and will be a real addition to the collection of arms now at the Military Academy. They will be placed in a secure case and will be put on exhibition in our Museum."

ADVANCE GUARD PLANNED FOR LEGION'S PARIS MEET

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Advance steamship sailings for the convenience of the members of The American Legion who wish to go abroad before the main movement of the 1927 Convention were announced yesterday by John J. Wicker, Jr., National Travel Director, of the France Convention Committee.

Reservation received at National Headquarters indicate that many Legionnaires will take advantage of the unusual rates and opportunities offered by The American Legion Convention, to visit other cities of Europe. All European countries, except Russia, are signatory to an agreement permitting Legionnaires to use special identification certificates in lieu of the customary passport. Visa fees will also be eliminated in the countries signing the agreement. Tours to all sections of Europe will be offered by the leading companies. The France Convention Committee will supervise tours to all sectors where Americans fought during the World War.

Prices, reservations and forms of application for advance sailings are the same as those offered in the main movement. The following advance sailings in the states in which they are assigned, were announced by Mr. Wicker:

UNITED STATES LINES:
(Available for all states)

August 10.—SS. President Harding—N. Y. to Plymouth, Cherbourg and Bremen.

August 27.—SS. President Roosevelt—N. Y. to Plymouth and Bremen.

CANADIAN-PACIFIC:
(Available for Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.)

Aug. 26.—SS. Montcalm—Montreal to Liverpool.

CUNARD LINE:
(Available for Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Oklahoma.)

August 26.—SS. Lancastria — New York to Havre via Queenstown or Plymouth.

August 27.—SS. Lancastria — Boston to Havre via Quenstown or Plymouth.

INTERNATIONAL MERCANTILE MARINE:
(Available for Iowa, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and District of Columbia.)

August 27.—SS. Cedric—New York to Queenstown and Liverpool.

ROYAL MAIL:
(Available for Connecticutt, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Indiana, Kansas, Oregon, Nevada and Wyoming.)

August 13.—SS. Orca—New York to Cherbourg and Southhampton .

Since definite quotas have been assigned to each department in the France Convention movement, which has been limited to 30,000, Legionnaires have been urged to get in their reservation early. Full information as to the France Convention movement may be obtained by writing to the Department France Convention Officer in the state or to the France Convention Committee, National Headquarters, The American Legion, Indianapolis, Indiana.

(By James R. Morrison)

The Engineer Highway Department is continuing its policy of bigger and better roads announces the opening of its latest addition to the highways of the Post. The new road rises at the junction of the Utillties Yard and the Engineer Area flows due North and empties (on a rainy day) down the hill. A contest is open to all members of this company to choose a dignified name for this roadway. The winner will be excused from all formations for the next four Sundays and he will also get the satisfaction that he has at last performed an honorable and worthy deed.

Pvt. Otis E. Whitehead says the name of that old tune should be changed from "Wine, Women and Song„ to "Home Brew, Flappers and a Jazz Band. Well, Otis, you ought to know.

Pfc. Palmer says the first thing he is going to do when he gets out is kill the Recruiting Sergeant who told him it never gets cold in Georgia. We suggest that the proper punishment to fit such a crime would be to send that sergeant down here for a winter or two.

The Engineer Basketball Team is coming along like promotions in the army, slow but sure. In the first game of their year, played last Tuesday, the 1st Gas Regiment was nosed out by one point, 21-20, Pvt. Collins, two pointer in the last ten seconds of play deciding the winner.

A Mind In The Making

Brock:—Why the flag at half mast.
Kerlicker:—Man from the 29th killed.
Brock:—Was he hurt?
Kerlicker:—Oh, he died.

Wet plate photography in the Map Plant will start in the very near future. The focusing will be done by Pvt. Norman M. (Oscar) Grove. Grove also claims to be quite a surveyor, having had considerable experience as both a rodman and chainman.

Staff Sergeant James J. McNally (better known as Uncle Jimmie) of the 7th Engineers while in Savannah during the holidays grabs off a little free publicity for himself and Fort Benning. We believe that Uncle Jimmie claims the port of Savannah for his home town.

(The Enquirer-Sun.)—Here is a paragraph from Bill Biffem's column in the Savannah Press. Friday January 1, which indicates that Bill is not keeping up with military affairs as he should.

"We thought we had a visit from a general this morning. He had on enough crosses and service strips and gew-gaws and devices and contraptions and things like that to warrant us in accepting him as the head of some corps or army division. And it turned out to be Sergeant Jim McNally, from over at Fort Benning, which we believe, has Columbus as a suburb. He came in to tell us he is going back to Muscogee county to save the country. And we know the country's safe with Sergeant McNally on the job."

Nevertheless the sergeants have their arduous duties to perform and they are an important factor in the army. Here's New Year greeting to Sergeant McNally.

THE SEVENTH ENGINEERS MADE GOOD RECORD DURING THE YEAR 1926

The year 1926 which has just passed out has meant a great deal to the 7th Engineers. We have made progress in many lines of endeavor. Perhaps the most outstanding accomplishment has been the completion of the new recreation and mess building.

The year 1926 saw many changes in the regimental personnel Captain W. N. Thomas, Jr., who had commanded the regiment for the past three years was relieved and transferred to River and Harbor work with station at Pittsburgh, Pa. He was replaced by Captain James F. C. Hyde, from the Engineer School, at Fort Humphreys, Va. In May Lt. L G. Yoder, joined the regiment. He had been on duty with the 11th Engineers stationed in the Canal Zone. On July 3rd, C. W. Smith, joined the regiment.

During the year an entire set of barracks have been constructed including stables, recreation and mess building; supply room; and a map reproduction building. We have without a doubt the most uptodate recreation room in Fort Benning. It is equipped with a player piano; a victrola; an Atwater Kent radio set; two pool tables; and various other equipment which makes for the comfort of the enlisted personnel.

The coming year 1927 finds the organization well trained and housed in good quarters, much better than the average wooden barracks. We are now passing into a period of stable organization again.

Much credit must go to the enlisted personnel who made up the working details. Many of these men are getting discharged within the next few weeks, and will soon be leaving for their homes which they left behind three years ago.

Teamwork has always been our motto in dealing with others in Fort Benning, as well as within the organization. We do not claim that what our regiment did could not have been performed by other engineer troops, but we are justly proud of what we have been able to do.—The Pontonier.

FIRST CALL FOR BASEBALL TO BE SOUNDED

Batteries Expected Out Next Week

With the approach of baseball weather, it is planned to call out about the middle of next week, the advance platoon of the Infantry School baseball squad.

Only the battery men will be called out with the first squad, and it is planned to have the hurlers in first class form by the time the first game is played.

Prospects for the team this year are very good, and with the excellent schedule which is being arranged by Captain Dunlop, manager of the Infantry School Athletic Association, an excellent schedule is in prospect.

There is not very much new material for the Benning team, but what there is, is exceptionally good. Among the new players are Lt. Van Studdiford, who at one time was with one of the major league teams prior to the outbreak of the war. Van Studdiford is both a first baseman and a pitcher, and in both capacities will undoubtedly be of great assistance to the Infantry ball snatchers. Another tosser of pretzel curves who will be present with the doughboys, is Captain Crim, of the Student Officers Class. It is understood that Captain Crim, who also has had experience with the big leaguers.

Captain Fountain, who has successfully piloted the Infantry through three baseball campaigns, will once more lead the Infantry on the diamond this year in the capacity of coach. The doughboys are indeed fortunate in having him as mentor for the doughboys ball series. Games have already been arranged with Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State, Illinois, and many others. "It won't be long now" until Gowdy Field will be the scene of the noted white pellet and the embattled bats once more.

THINGS TO TRY ONCE

The coupe crashed into a heavy automobile driven by E. Stockton, of Gresham. Stockton's car was scarcely damaged and he hastened toward the coupe, fearing the driver might be hurt. As he neared it he saw the driver of the coupe running with all speed up the street.

By this time passers by had gathered and an examination of the coupe revealed that if contained some fifty pints of amber moonshine. Police were summoned.

When the officers arrived nine pints of the amber were still in the coupe.

During the course of the "kill," Stockton reports, one big chap stepped up and said: "I'm an officer. Leave that stuff alone." And when the crowd receded he advanced, filled his pockets and disappeared into the night.—Portland Oregonian.

AFTERWARD

The years go by and a man forgets
Old barricades in the bitter frays;
The ancient wrongs and the dull regrets
He knew so wel in a younger day;
The slogging hikes and the sudden fears
That haunted him in the mud and rain
Are glided soon in the passing years,
Wiped clean again of the crimson stain.

"Never again" is the doughboy's cry,
And deep in his soul he means it all;
But after months have drifted by,
He leans again to the bugle call;
Soon forgetting the army slum,
The blasting hell in the swampy glen,
His dreams sweep back to the rolling drum
And a hike on the open road again.

The reveille of a rainy dawn—
An endless road with a gun and pack;
A "bawling out" where the line is drawn
With never a chance to answer back;
Broken dreams where the Fokkers drif,
Even the stockade, dull and gray,
Drudgeries of a "K. P." shift—
"They all look good when you're far away."

The Advanced Class is enjoying that great indoor pastime, 'It is believed by the School'

INTER-MURAL GAMES PLANNED AT BENNING

As the time for inter-mural, or inter-organization basketball is nearly here, the athletic council, which consists of all of the various organization commanders in the garrison, met several days ago in the Infantry School Athletic association office.

It was decided that, due to the number of teams desiring to enter the contest, to have two leagues, namely a Class A league, made up of teams from the larger organizations, and a Class B league, made up of teams from the smaller organizations. The Class A league will consist of one team each from the first battalion, the second battalion, and the special units, 29th Infantry, the 15th tank battalion, and the Infantry School Detachment. The Class B league will have teams entered from the engineers, the gas regiment, the medical department, the quartermaster corps and the ordinance detachment.

The schedule will be effective February 15. Two games, one in each league, will be played every night except Saturday and Sunday. The complete schedules have not yet been prepared, but will be published sometime during the coming week. It was also decided that varsity players will not be barred from either Class A or Class B teams. This will result in some fast basketball, and a successful season in both leagues is expected.
