Columns have been written about the "Main Theater." Captain Doll has furnished us the best of pictures. The new stage has been dedicated and we really have a fine show house at The Infantry School. BUT, let's name it something else. Something fancy. And suppose we have a contest or something of the kind to name it. My suggestion would be the "Fiske" theater, in honor of the former Commanding Officer of the First Battalion Twenty-Ninth Infantry. All the old timers will remember him and still have a warm spot in their heart that he left some six or seven years ago.

And really and truly we believe that someone should take steps to repair and paint the "Little Church," down on the bank below the Engineer Camp. There's a very sad story connected with that edifice that is not very generally known. Alex Stenyk, the builder, formerly a member of the Quartermaster Corps here, was engaged to a young girl in his old home ;they had plans completed for her to join him here, where they would be married. On the eve of her departure from home, she was stricken with some malady and died. The shock was too much and Alex became insane. The "Little Church," was built by him in honor of her memory, he having evidently read at some time about the Indian Prince who builded a palace over the grave of his departed wife. On November 30, 1923, Stenyk requested authority of Colonel Kent (then Post Adjutant), to inspect the camp. He was placed under observation and was later admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. * * * The opinion of the writer is that such a wonderful love and expression thereof should be permanently preserved and the people who disfigure this church by taking away souvenirs, or by writing their names, or worse, should be hearitly ashamed of themselves, and such actions in the future should be stopped.

Didja ever stop to consider the numerous changes that have gradually taken place at The Infantry School during the past decade? Let's go back about seven years, close our eyes a few moments and what do we see? x(See note below). A new student reaches Columbus at 11:30 A. M. After a few hours have elapsed he manages to hire a dilapidated taxicab, and after a very tortuous ride over a dirt road that would make any wash-board turn green with envy, finally reaches Camp Benning. There is no golf course, the theater is in an old barn like structure, the baseball field is just staked off, no comfortable stands as we now have. Doughboy Stadium is still only a dream (which finally came true). The laundry just wasn't, that's all. The bakery was a shack. The Post Exchange just a wooden temporary structure, a filling station where you could buy gasoline for eleven and twelve cents a gallon was unheard of. To enumerate them all would take a large book. But, when you (this means everyone) are feeling in the dumps and think you are uncomfortable, hunt up Major George W. Teachout, of the Advanced Class or some other officers who were here when Benning was in its infancy, or look up an old copy of the "Doughboy," of 1920-21 and then you'll realize what you missed.

x—Slow and sad music rendered while reading this will bring tears to old timers' eyes.

"THERE WUZ A REAZON"

Aunt Sardonia, wife of a colored Private, was a great advocate of the rod as a help in child raising. As a result of an unmerciful beating which she gave her youngest and "orneriest," she was brought into court one day by the outraged neighbors.

The judge after giving her a severe lecture, asked if she had anything to say.

"Jest one thing, jedge," she replid, "I wants ax you a question. Was you ever the parent of a puffectly wuthless cullud child?"

Host (appearing on darkened veranda): "Are you young folks all enjoying yourselves?"

(Absolute silence.)

Host (returning indoors): "That's fine!"

J. O.: "You don't see as many intoxicated people on the street since prohibition."

S. O.: "The stuff kills them before they get out of doors."

Doctor: "How is it Sambo, that you and your family all keep so healthy?"

Sambo: "Well, suh, Ah tell yuh; we've done bought one of them sanitary drinking cups, and us all drinks out'en it."

Wernie Bear got excited while shaving himself in front of the mirror yesterday and before he realized it he had sold himself three bottles of hair tonic and short changed himself out of fifty cents.

LAST SUNDAY'S POLO

Last Sunday brought out the fastest game of polo that has been played on Shannon field this season. The Freebooter Regulars opposed the Students while the 83rd Field Artillery tilted with the 29th Infantry. Both games were exceptionally good. The second game was expected to be a walk away for the Artillery but they had to fight for every point they obtained and the fact that they lost nearly a dozen tries over the back line indicates the earnestness with which the 29th contested the game.

The game between the Students and th Freebooters started off like International Polo with a sensational run by Lil Lyman when he scored a goal with three snappy stroke without interference or assistance. No one who likes polo would have failed to get a thrill out of this beautiful play and it was all that was needed to bring every spectator to his (or her) toes for the remainder of the game. Immediately on the next throw-in this light horseman again snapped up the ball and started for the goal at the other end of the field. Jacobs, the watch dog of the Students, crowded him so fast here, however, that his shot for goal went wide and the Students earned a knock-in. The ball was intercepted by Captain McClure as it was sent into the field by Jacobs but Jimmie Boyer picked it outof the melee and, having no teammate in the open, dribbled it into a neutral corner then passed out to Scott. Smith denied Scott the chance for a run and the ball was left dead until Boyer had recovered. All members of both teams were tied up when Boyer sneaked the ball out and started a run to the opponent's goal, followed closely by the remainder of both teams. Boyer carried the ball up the field and passed to Lockett who dropped it directly in front of the goal. Jacobs, coming in fast scored with a pretty right angle neck shot.

During this chukker Bob McClure's horse fell while running at top speed, throwing his rider heavily to the ground, pining both legs under him. Although severely shaken up and cut about the head, Captain McClure gamely insisted on continuing in the play and the manner in which he performed showed plainly that the fall had detracted nothing from his sanguinary method of playing.

At the beginning of the second chukker Captain Boudinot scored for the students on two beautiful approach shots with an opponent opposing each step.

The Students scored another goal in the third chukker when Boyer had advanced the ball to within sixty yards of the opponent's goal, Locket coming in on a free run called him to leave the ball. Boyer left the ball and rode his opponent out of the line of play. Lockett made a short pass which Boyer picked up on his near side and sent through the goal posts.

The fourth and fifth chukkers were two desperate, hard-fought periods of polo with the advantage alternating although the Students maintained possession of the ball most o fthe time and though they held a continuous threat over the Freebooters' goal they were so hard pressed that they were unable to score. In the fourth chukker Bobby Oliver made a beautiful run almost the entire length of the field but lost the ball near the goal on a bad bounce.

In the last chukker McClure, successfully ignoring one of Forbes' axioms of good polo—and proving ti wrong in that particular case—carried the ball across in front of his own goal, passed to Lyman then picked the ball up again when Lyman was forced to leave it on account of Jacob's interference, passed it to Lyman again and this time Lyman shot past Jacobs for a goal. The Freeboothers tried hard to even the score but they were unable to do so and the final bell found both teams fighting desperately.

It is difficult to select the player of most outstanding value Sunday. Major Lyman, unquestionably dominated the interest of the spectators by his brilliant performances. But no one who followed the play closely could fail to admire the dogged, persistent efforts of Jimmie Boyer who disputed every play of an opponent; who earned every stroke he got at the ball and in every run he made was forced to carrv an opponent o none should and the ball on the other side, and whose riding and hitting is always of the highest order. Don Scott's stroking was excellent. This player got in some good long shots both fore and aft and probably got a greater average distance than any other player. Jacob's persistent defense which neve rbroke even under the onslaughts of the brilliant performances of Major Lyman and Captain McClure. Lockett's hard riding and desperate efforts to nullify the opponent's defense; Whisner's uncanny ability to pic kthe ball out of the goal when the spectators had already begun to toot their horns for a score; McClure's gameness, hard riding and long accurate strokes. The hard playing, excellent sportsmanship, and uncanny knowledge of the game of Major Smith was a big contributing factor in the strength of the Freebooters.

In the second game the 29th Infantry put up a surprisingly stiff battle with the 83rd Field Artillery. The score of this game was 6 to 2 but many shots of the Artillerymen went wide on account of the fast pace at which they were forced by the 29th. Both these teams alternated their first and second string of players. In the second chukker McDonald scored a goal for the 29th on a pass from Pinky Burress while in the 5th chukker Burrus made the prettiest play of the game when he picked the ball out of the shadow of his own goal posts and ran the length of the field scoring unassisted. Although the playing of Burrus for the 29th overshadows that of his team mates, the improvement, good slid stroking and level headwork of Lieut. Van Houten has been particularly remarkable for a young player. The playing of Lt. Mood fr the Freebooters' second string has also brought out much favorable comment. The playing of the Guernsey, Grubbs, Hurt combination was good as usual. Lt. Avara playing as the fourth man in this combination did himself and his team credit and played a very good game.

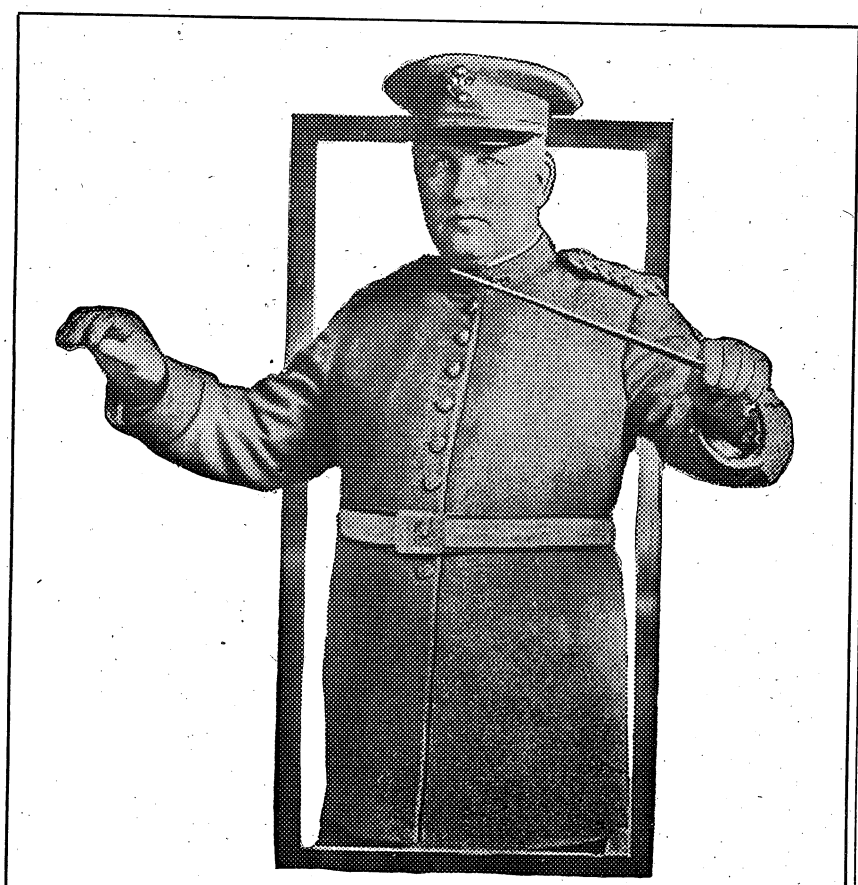
THE ARMY BAND HERE MONDAY



Captain W. J. Stannard Leader U. S. Army Band

Thomas F. Darcy, Second Leader U. S. Army Band

THE ARMY BAND WILL PLAY HERE FEBRUARY 20

On January 16, 1928, the United States Army Band embarked on its first public concert tour. It's itinerary includes flying 42-day round of as many cities in 13 states. Thousands of persons over a wide area have been able to see and hear personally this fine group of musicians, whose efforts for the past few years have been such an inspiration to official Washington and residents of the National Capital.

In authorizing the tour the War Department has recognized not only the Band's high musical and military standing today, but it's manifold power for encouraging the youth of our Nation in musical effort and in instilling an appreciation of and love for good music among it's auditors everywhere.

The United States Army Band has bent every effort to bring pleasure to citizens of all classes and locations through the relatively new medium of the radio. As a result, during the past year it has broadcast farther, more frequently and to more millions than any other military organization. It holds the record for organizations of its kind in the matter of number of radio stations "tied up" in broadcasting event ,the occasion being 52-station hook-up for the home coming celebration for Col. Charles Lindbergh. The United States Army Band was seated directly in front of the stand on the monument lot, in Washington, when President Coolidge decorated the young air hero, and it furnished the music incident to that epoch-making occasion.

The United States Army Band is the military musical organization for all classes. It is a band the public is proud to have represent it on the most formal occasions ;it is a band the public likes to hear and which the public understands.

It is not only capable of the stirring marches so closely identified with military bands but of the finest musically. It's program includes the best symphonic works, and it's ability to impart a symphonic quality to such numbers has won highest praise.

The United States Army Band was organized in 1922, by General Pershing, then Chief of Staff, to do for the peacetime morale of the Army and citizenry what his famous A. E. F. band, of which this organization is the outgrowth, did for the fighting heart of the troops. It was General Pershing's desire that the Army should have a representative musical organization second to none in the world.

And there is no doubt left in the minds of those who have seen and heard this wonderful organization, that the desire of General Pershing has been accomplished.

The United States Army Band will play in Columbus and Fort Benning on February 20. The concert at Fort Benning will be held at the Main Theater at 4 P. M. The price of admission will be fifty cents.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

Some Reflections on the Art of War

The week started off with a marked Advance Guard Problem. It was one of those games in which the judgment of Brig. General "1st Brigade" was pitted against the best minds of the Infantry School and, as usual, the School won, hands down. The few nimble tacticians like Astrologer Elliot, whose solutions conformed to that of the School, arrived at their decisions by trimming the size of their Advance Guards to fit the available road space between CR 623-P and the Brigade bivouac. The dumb driven majority, however, attempted to solve the problem by applying the tactical principals which had been emphasized in prerious conferences and fell into Major Randolph's carefully prepared ambush.

Having been completely outmaneuvered by Major Randolph we ran into a rolling barage of Supply Problems. Here Major Heubner had us completely at his mercy. Even Zib, the Clarifier, was unable to enlighten his classmates on the special reasons for parking the off lead mule of Co. A's water cart in the northeast corner of the Brigade bivouac area instead of in the left hand stall of J. Hogenheimer's cow stable (278.15-721.98) where Captain Livesay had it. Some of our congenital dissenters occasionally make bold to argue a point with Major Heubner or Captain Livesay, but for our part, we are prepared to accept any supply doctrine promulgated from the platform, providing we are able to determine what it is. We approached the subject in a spirit of humility not unmixed with awe and our guiding principle for the impending marked problems is beautifully expressed in Cardinal Newman's immortal hymn "Lead Kindly Light." We know our limitations. The good Lord never intended us for a supply officer and we might as well confess that it would never occur to us to correct any supply plan which our G-4 might submit. We have a better scheme than that. If his plans works we recommend him for a D. S. M.; if they don't, we get a new G-4; all of which will help us not at all in the trying days just ahead. Adn even as we write the grim specter of supply is at our shoulder like the ghost of Caesar which appeared before Brutus on the eve of Philippi.

The next guessing contest took place in the great open spaces in the vicinity of Ebbert Hill, with Major Ferris dealing. On both occasions it was undecisively demonstrated that tactics, like three card monte, is a contes of skill—not chance. In these company in defense exercises the game is to guess whether the platoon occupies two combat posts or one. The dealer invariably wins.

The two bright spots in last week's schedule were Major Marr's tactical ride and Major Stayer's demonstration of the Evacuation of the wounded. Perfect weather, an interesting problem ,and a lively bit of cross country galloping popularized the Artillery and skillful stage management and an early dismissal scored a hit for the Medical Corps. Captain Tiffany featured prominently in the Evacuation Demonstration. Major Stayer, having announced that wounded mules in the forward area are generally killed, Captain Tiffany insisted on being enlightened as to the who, why, how, where and when of the matter. Captain Tiffany has evidently caught the true spirit of the Supply Course and, as a result of his investigation, the Advanced Class has recommended that the Dentist at the Regimental Aid Station be assigned this duty and that a horse pistol be made an integral part of his combat equipment.

Another feature of the Evacuation Demonstration was Captain Grimmer's Mark VIII motor ambulance, which carried the Advanced Class cripples to and fro on the field. Major McCarthy and Captains Grimmer, Simmons and Gough witnessed the demonstration from its luxurious interior. Major McCarthy and Captains Grimmer and Simmons are casualties from the last session of Captain Venable's Physical Torture Class. Captain Gough is a mental case from Assembly Hall No. 2.

Truth Will Out

The blame for the constantly recurring strife between Georgia (Blue) and Alabama (Red) has at last been definitely placed. The Yellow Book, compiled by Captain Callahan, of the Secret Service, completely justifies Alabama in her gallant resistance to Georgia's wanton attempt to force Columbus over the stae line.

Slaughter of The Innocents

Odvanced Class Out-Herods Herod

Upon learning that it would cost 50 cents per head to public the Tabloid Monographs, the Advanced Class Soviet promptly voted to abolish Commissar Hobbs and his editing committee. As a result of the decree, eighty baby monographs perished. This wholesale massacre of the promising brain children of our amateur historians is greatly deplored by the few forehanded authors who got theirs in early.

Too Much of a Good Thing

The stork, who has been so busy in Block 20 (vide Sad Dust) is becoming reckless. We are reliably informed that only the most heroic maneuvers of our newest father, Captain Pritchett, prevented it from leaving another baby on his back porch last week—this time a black one. The report that Father Pritchet has installed a scarecrow in his back yard has not been confirmed.

IS THE ATHLETE OF TODAY SUPERIOR TO THE ATHLETE OF YESTERDAY?

This is a question that has been argued long and often and still we find the old timers pust as firm as ever in the belief that the athletes of his boyhood days were far superir to tahletes of today.

A glance back over the records for the past twenty years show us that many of the past records have been smashed or tied by athletes whose names appear on the sport sheets of our papers daily.

Only two o fthe records made during the nineties stand today unbroken. On May 9, 1891, L. H. Carey, a Princeton, N. J., hung up a record that has never been broken when he ran the 75-yard das in 7 3-5 seconds. F. P. Murray walked one mile in six minutes, twenty-nine and three-fifths seconds to establisn a record that has never been equalled, at New York City, Oct. 27, 1883.

Each issue of the Infantry School News, beginning with this issue will carr ya list of the amateur record holders and the time of each. A list of these records were obtained for this paper through the courtesy of Capt. Charles Mabbutt.

AT THE MOVIES

FEB. 17th to FEB. 24th INCL.

FRIDAY, FEB. 17

"LOVE AND LEARN," starring Esther Ralston in a comedy farce in which Esther portrays the role of comedienne. The girl comes home from college, finds her parents verging on divorce and decides to get into trouble herself in order to give them something else to worry about. She succeeds and wins a husband in the bargain.

"Pathe News No. 13."

SATURDAY, FEB. 18

"PIONEER SCOUT," starring Fred Thompson in a western of the period of 1850 showing thrilling experiences of the relay scouts who guided wagon trains across the plains and through the mountains in spite of hostile Indians and desperados left in the wake of the gold rush. Needless to say this picture possesses that multitude of thrills which have made Fred Thompson famous. You'll witness a race between six horse teams which will almost force you out of your seats. In another exciting incident Silver King comes most amiably to Fred's rescue.

SUNDAY, FEB. 19

(Note: Old Ironsides has been postponed to Feb. 26.)

"TWO FLAMING YOUTHS," starring W. C. Fields, the great stage comedian, and Chester Conklin, the walrus-moustached comedy twinkler of the movies, in an hilarious comedy. Laughs till you burst. This is the wild story of a side show owner and his deadly rival, the small town sheriff, both of whom are contending for the love of a supposedly wealthy widow. It's fast and furious fun, romance and human oddities—complications galore crash the house. They wind up in a wild chase in which Chester battles a boxing Kangaroo. The supposting cast in this play is particularly noteworthy as comedy artists. Mary Brian who recently starred in "Man Power" and "Shanghai Bound," and Jack Luden who played the stellar role in "Shootin' Irons" and featured in "Tell It to Sweeney."

"Paramount News."

MONDAY, FEB. 20

"BANDIT'S SON," featuring Bob Steel who starred in "The Mojave Kid." In this picture he plays the part of the so nof a famous bandit. He is shunned by all but a girl, yet through sheer courage and bull-dog pluck he wins.

"Hawk of the Hills No. 1." A western serial of intrigue, treachery and heroism. The type which holds you in constant suspense. Ten episodes.

TUESDAY, FEB. 21

"HEART OF MARYLAND," starrfing Dolores Costello. An exciting melodrama of the sixties based upon the famous play by David Belasco. While the story teams with thrilling incidents, it is built around a beautiful romance. Friendly rivalry exists between two lovers for the hand of Maryland. Through the faithlessness of one of them, bitter enmity is bred. The one she favors becomes a spy and is finally brought before his father, a Major General, whose patriotic duty it is to order his son's execution. A thrilling escape is successfully made with the aid of Maryland who is later convicted as a traitor and ordered shot. A series of exciting incidents save the day and the story ends beautifully to the satisfaction of the audience.

"Glorious Fourth." Our Gang Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22

"LEGIONAIRES IN PARIS," featuring Al Cooke and Kit Guard as a super-comedy team supported by Louis Louraine, Virginia Sale and John Aason, who is believed to be the tallest man in the world; Aason is eight feet nine inches tall. This story is hilarious comedy from start to finish. Two former doughboys leave their restaurant business to go abroad as delegates to the American Legion Convention in Paris. They trace a trail of fun and laughter through the Montmartre and around the L'Arc de Triomphe in an effort to escape from a French general who only wishes to decorate them for deeds of valor they committed in 1918. If laughter is injurious to you stay away from this picture.

THURSDAY, FEB. 23

"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," featuring Rin Tin Tin. In this thrilling story of dam building in the Arizona desert, Rinty gives further evidence of more than human understanding in the courage and agility which he displays in the plots and counter plots, pursuits, pity and vengeance. His white mate, Nanette, plays a worthy second. The supporting cast is above the ordinary. Rin Tin Tin most effectively depicts canine fidelity as well as the horrors of animal revenge.

"Duck Soup." Roach Star.

FRIDAY, FEB. 24

"GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES," starring Ruth Taylor with Fodr Sterling supportde by a powerful comedy cast composed of Chester Conklin, Eugene Borden, Alice White and a number of other gloom dispersers. Out of the west comes a dainty maid who developes into the queen of "Gold Diggers"—she captures them all at Little Rock, then on the California licited, later at Hollywood, then New York. Next her conquests enmesh the "he" passengers of the ocean liner, Majestic, and finally Paris falls prey to her snares and all because "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." She is beautiful and dumb, but no so dumb but that she is capable of taking men like Grant took Richmond.

GENERAL AND MRS. McRAE GUESTS AT BENNING

General and Mrs. James McRae arrived on last Wednesday evening to be the guests of their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Lewis C. Beebe, for several weeks. General McRae recently retired after making a most distinguished record in the service of his country and by his retirement the Army loses one of her ablest officers. It is with pride that Georgia claims him as one of her most famous sons. Their many friends are charmed to welcome them to Ft. Benning.

Mrs. Hugh Barclay was hostess at a beautiful bridge luncheon on Monday at her home on the Beuna Vista Road. Her guests included in the main Columbus friends of the honoree, Mrs. Henry Bussey.

Maj. and Mrs. E. F. Harding have as their guest Miss Adelaide Engle of Middletown, Ohio. On Monday at the Log Cabin Mrs. Harding entertained with a beautiful bridge luncheon honoring her guest. The red of St. Valentine was charmingly used in decorations and refreshments. Rubber bridge was played and the high score at each table was given a bottle of bath salts. Those winning were Mrs. McCunniff, Mrs. O'Hare and Mrs. Drollinger. The honoree was presented a Japanese print and Mrs. Ada Shewman, guest of Mrs. John Newton was given a work ba gas a souvenir of this occasion. At the conclusion of the game a delicious hot luncheon was served to the following guests: Miss Adelaide Engle, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. McCunniff, Mrs. Card, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Dachon, Mrs. Searcy, Mrs. O'Hare, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Shewman, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Drollinger, Mrs. Paul Dismukes and Mrs. Harding.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Harold S. Kelley honored Mrs. A. B. Stewart of Washington, D. C., the guest of the Misses Snyder of Lorena Hall, and Mrs. Charles M. Johnson with a delightful three-table bridge at her home. Mrs. Clyde Grady won the high score prize, a set of brass ash trays, Miss Kate Snyder the consolation, a dainty hand-painted handkerchief. The honorees were given hand-painted georgette handkerchiefs, the work of their gifted hostess. After the game a salad course with tea was served.

Mrs. Albert S. Peake was hostess at an exceptionally lovely Valentine luncheon on Tuesda yat her home given in honor of Mrs. Lea Febiger, the mother of Major George L. Febiger, and Mrs. D. J. Baker, who is the mother of Capt. J. Casey Baker. Gorgeous red roses, red tapers, red placecards and red candies charmingly carried out the Valentine idea. The following guests were honored by the hostess on this occasion: Mrs. Febiger, Sr., Mrs. Febiger, Jr., Mrs. Baker, Sr., Mrs. Baker, Jr., Mrs. Delaplane, Mrs. Goodrich, Mrs. Card, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Rhett, Mrs. Rucker, Mrs. MacGregor, Mrs. Long, Miss Dorothy Vogel.

Col. and Mrs. Philip B. Peyton were hosts on Monday evening at a most delightful dinner followed by bridge at the Log Cabin. This party was a special compliment to Mrs. Scudder and Miss Scudder of New Jersey, the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Chas. W. Ryder, and Miss Dorothy Vogel, of Atlanta, the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Albert S. Peake. The first flowers of spring, golden jonquils and narcissi, were effectively used with yellow candles, yellow mints and yellow nut cups to make the table lovely. After the dinner tables were arranged for bridge. Col and Mrs. Peyton had as their guests Mrs. Scudder, Miss Scudder, Miss Vogel, Maj. and Mrs. Ryder, Maj. and Mrs. Peake, Col. and Mrs. Baker, Col. Brewer, Captain Whisner, Captain DeWare.

Mrs. Norman Randolph was hostess on Valentine's Day at a beautiful luncheon followed by bridge at the Log Cabin. The cabin was converted into a veritable "Land of Heart's Desire," Cupid reigning supreme. Long red cnadles tied with misty red tulle and showered with cupids were the centerpieces for the individual tables. Red hearts were used as placecards. After luncheon non-progressive bridge was played and the highest scorer at each table was given a gox of French dusting powder prettily wrapped in Valentine colors. There were six tables and those present were: Mrs. Bootz, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Almond, Mrs. Kingsland, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Dailey, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Torrey, Miss Pitcher, Miss Helen Young, Miss Louise Young, Miss Yarborough, Mrs. Ferris, Mrs. Rhett, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. Bandholtz Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Fales, Mrs. Bissell, Mrs. Van Fleet, Mrs. Stayer, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Bradley.

Mrs. Clark K. Fales entertained at a bridge tea on Monday afternoon at her home as a charming compliment to her mother, Mrs. E. H. Kingsland of New York City. There were four tables of players and the prizes were won by Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Woodbury, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Pitcher. After the game a large number of friends came in for tea. This party was in the nature of a farewell for Mrs. Kingsland returns in a few days to New York atfer an extended visit during which time she has been delightfully entertained.

Mrs. W. Fletcher Sharp, wife of Maj. Sharp, Field Artillery, of Fort Hoyle, Md., arrived Wednesday night to be the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Albert S. Peake. On Monday next Mrs. Dennis McCunniff will honor Mrs. Sharp with a luncheon and bridge and on Tuesday Mrs. Channing E. Delaplane will be hostess at luncheon in honor of this popular visitor. Many other social courtesies have been planned in here honor.

Mrs. Edward J. Curren honored Mrs. Charles M. Johnson with a lovely bridge luncheon on last Thursday. There were twelve guests and they were seated at small tables. Valentine placecards were used and each guest found at her place a most colorful favor—so unusual that you'd be interested in it. On a dainty small lace paper doily was half a red apple, cut side down, whose back was pierced with many toothpicks on the end of which were colorful gum drops making a more interesting porcupine than Mother Nature's own. The high and low prizes were won by Mrs. Wait C. Johnson and Mrs. Hawkenson respectively and the honoree was given a special guest's prize. Covers were laid for: Mrs. Charles M. Johnson, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Williamson, Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. Hester, Mrs. Brine, Mrs. MacKie Sr., Mrs. MacKie Jr., Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Hawkenson.

When the gorgeous spring Sundays come and you feel that you want to do something different, go to hear Chaplain John R. Wright—and when the Sunday is not so bright go then too to hear Chaplain Wright, for it is not always that an army post has so superior a minister and you are missing something fine when you let a Sunday go by without his message. It has been my privilege to hear him a number of times and his talks are literary as well as spiritual gems. There are back of them years of appreciative reading and thoughtful study. He never stands before you with an illogical, hastily prepared talk. His short sermons are the crystalization of much profound thinking and they are an inspiration. Moreover the music is always lovely. The choir is composed of a large group of Benning's sweetest singers whom it is a joy always to hear. Last Sunday Mrs. Edgar S. Miller and Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd sang that best-loved perhaps of all the psalms, "The Lord is My Shepherd," and its harmony, beauty and comforting message will linger in our hearts.

OFFICERS REUNION

Officers who served in Germany after the Armistice will hold a reunion at Warm Springs this week-end. The commitees have spared no efforts in making complete arrangements for a big time in living over days spent with the Army of Occupation in Rheinland. The committee chairmen are Major E. E. Lewis, reception; Major E. F. Rice, entertainment; Major Roy A. Hill, law and order.

Special music for the occasion has been prepared by Captain George L. King. Songs of Germany so familiar to those who were with the A. O. will be sung and dance music will be rendered apropos to the occasion.

BEAUTIFUL LUNCHEON GIVEN FOR MISS CAROLINA CHITWOOD

The cozy little home of Mrs. C. R. Bumford was never lovelier than on Thursday afternoon, when she entertained at a beautiful luncheon at Fort Benning, in honor of Miss Carolina Chitwood, of Tullahoma, Tenn. The decorations were red and white, emphasizing the Valentine idea. The table was laid in cluny lace, over red satin and held as a centerpiece, a vase of red carnations, on each end of the table were silver candlesticks in which slender red wax tapers burned. The place cards were red hearts. A delightful course luncheon was served the following:

Mrs. J. H. Kriz, Mrs. Roy Camp, Mrs. H. M. Foster, Mrs. M. Rosen, Mrs. L. N. Chitwood, Miss Carolina Chitwood, Mrs. J. R. Morrison, Mrs. H. M. Ramsey and Mrs. C. R. Bumford.

After lunch the guests listened to the radio, some embroidered, others chatted and in fact spent a most wonderful afternoon, and all declared Mrs. Bumford a most wonderful hostess. A series of parties are being planned by Mrs. Bumford, which are awaited with interest by her many friends in Columbus and Fort Benning.

VALENTINE PARTY

Mrs. L. N. Chitwood entertained with a valentine party on Tuesday afternoon at her home, honoring her sister-in-law, Miss Carolyn Chitwood of Tullahoma, Tenn. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the decorations. In a unique "Auto-puzzle" contest Mrs. J. H. Kriz was the winner and was presented with a lovely box of imported linen. Ae delicious salad course was served, little miniature hearts adorning each plate. Those present were Mrs. J. H. Kriz, Mrs. M. Rosen, Mrs. H. M. Foster, Mrs. P. Fortner, Mrs. J. R. Morrison, Mrs. G. R. Still, Mrs. H. M. Ramsey, Mrs. M. F. C. Wolfe, Mrs. Wm. J. Stewart, Mrs. C. R. Bumford and Mrs. Baumon of Baltimore, Md.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—February 20th.
Time—2:15.

Come and come early next Monday afternoon for the program committee has something decidedly different from anything ever presented hitherto and you do not want to miss it. Moreover it is entirely too good to be interrupted by late comers—and last of all, the Army Band is to give a concert at 4:00 o'clock and of course everybody wants to hear it so be assured the program will be conducted in plenty of time for you to get to the concret for which reason there will be no tea on this occasion.

The Program Committee has the honor to present the following four captains whom our great government chose as fitting representatives to four foreign countries and each will tell us of his experiences as an attache: Capt. William N. Jenna, who served at attache in Greece; Capt. Hugh Barclay, in Brazil; Capt. Harry M. Gwynn, in Guatemala, and Capt. E. M. S. Steward in Peru. Surely this will be most interesting. And Captain Francis J. Heraty will play the violin accompanied by Mrs. Heraty on the piano.

The Literary Club met Monday afternoon at which time a most excellent program of contemporary Latin-American literature was presented.

Mrs. George P. Winton gave a most interesting introduction to the study of Latin American literature in her foreword. Beginning with "our ambassadors of Good-will," President Coolidge, Lindbergh and Will Rogers, at the recent Pan-American conference, she showed how well-known the North American is to his Southern neighbor, at the same time bringing out our ignorance—more wilfull than otherwise, of him. We, so engrossed in our whirl of satisfactory affairs, are too often uninterested in making an acquaintance with and broadening our knowledge of our fellow American whose vast territory stretches from the Texas border to the frigid tip of Cape Horn. They know us however and knowing us they choose to pattern after France and Spain for their religion, art, music, architecture, letters, manners and dress. There are today in Latin America, savages as primitive as the earth has ever known and gentlefolk whose culture is unsarpassed by any people, for their civilization is old, their land rich, their training classical; and where there is an inborn love of beauty and sufficient wealth to back it, you find a general culture which is hard to duplicate in our country. Their literature is characterized by a love of the beautiful; there is poetry in which literary art they excell, whose beauty of form rivals its beauty of thought. Their literature has been divided into three periods: The Colonial, the Revolutionary, and the Modern. In the Colonial writings the Spanish and Portuguese influence was dominant, the theme being almost exclusivel ythe wonders and beauties of their new land. Exquisite poetry of the highest order expressed their delight in the mighty rivers, vast forests and limitless plains. Patriotic writings characterized the Revolutionary period and for their pleas for liberty many writers faced the firing squad. Like all literature written for a specific purpose it is for the most part of little permanent value. But in the Modern period Latin America is making a contribution to first rank literature. The tendency in the main is to follow classical lines of the Old World rather than the newer freer style of England and America. They have a strong group of ultra-moderns, however, who are engaged in writing of the same subject which our ultra-moderns have been absorbed in of late years—the pathetic and ridiculous plight of the average man (a la Sinclair Leurs!). It is in the realm of poetry that the Latin American excels. Reuben Davis of Nicaraugua has been called "The Sweetest Singer of the Western Hemisphere." Whether the writer choose verse or prose as his medium his dominant theme is love of freedom.

The next number on the program was Mrs. Kenneth March's charming contribution to the program. She spoke of the life Jorge Isaacs, the author of "Maria".

In the course of her most delightful address, Mrs. March mentioned the astonishing fact that American literature learned its cradle song from the Latins, first toddled in the literary lanes south of the Rio Grande. Twenty years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, over one hundred books had been published in Mexic alone, followed by many others in South America. Mistaken ideas as to the excellency of the literature of South America is probably due to a great extent on a lack of understanding on our part.

Mrs. Albert B. Helsley reviewed "The Life of Bernal Diaz," a biography modern in the sense that it has just recently ben unearthed after lying in obscurity something like four hundred years. This mighty conqueror was a most exacting historian careful to not only give exact accounts of expeditions, battles, victories and misfortunes but cautioning others against any exaggeration or mis representation. Mrs. Helsley supplemented her excellent review of the book by drawings of Indian art of his period and colorplates of his comrades, Cortez and Montezuma, making graphic the content of his message.

Mrs. E. M. S. Steward reviewed Thornton Wilder's very new book, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," the locale of which is Lima where Mrs. Steward has recently lived. She knew much of the history of the characters that this book concerns itself with and has visited much of the country pictured therein. 'Twas interesting to have her point out where fancy supplemented fact and she so skilfully left the big question of the book unanswered that all wh heard her feel the immediate urge to read and see how the author handles the solution.

Editor's note: Due to lack of space it is regretted that the prologue of the address given by Mrs. March had to be left out of the most interesting discussion of South American literature by the Literary Club.

SAW DUST

(A. J. Nichols)

At last we have been discovered and properly classified. The person writing under the appellation "E. F. H." (and we know who he is) has called us an amateur columnist. We thought we were writin gour column like a professional and we must confess our pride has suffered a very severe jolt. We will admit however that the remarks of E. F. H. do apply to the other columnists who contribute to this paper. We must admit, also, the truth of his only other statement of importance—that our contributions are raising the Infantry School News out of the depths of mediocrity. When T. W.* read that remark about "amateur columnist," said said, "Now aint that cattish?" (TW's grammar is terrible like that and during our six years of strife, which only seem like sixty, we have been able to make only a slight improvement in it).

Our fruit cake contest is beginning to show signs of being hotly contested although some of the entries are not so hot. The following ladies of the Garrison have entered cakes: May Patridge, Belle Steele, Aggie Bacon, Millie Wessells, Janetta Hester, Mom Griffin, Joe Brine and Bety Dager. From just looking at the cakes, we tentatively selected May Patridge's cake for first place but the old saying, "The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof," was too much for this particular cake. May slipped from first to last place because of a misunderstanding. There was a bottle in her kitchen marked "Vanilla Extract" that should have been marked "Machine Oil." All of the others were fairly tasty, although nothing extra. We have postponed announcing a winner because we are expecting more entries. There are times which try men's digestive apparatus, and at the present writing we have only used two bottles of "Soda Mints." Cakes are referred to as "entries" and their bakers as "entrants." This is for the purpose of clearing up statements which might appear ambiguous, such as the one in the first sentence of this paragraph.

We see Ed Randle is masquerading under "EHR" in another column of this paper but we recognized Ed's style and after reading two or three of his lines, we penetrated his disguise. We went to France with Ed and just think how much more glorious it would have been for Ed if his identification tags had been separated "over there" rather than have to come to such an end. Ed used to be somewhat of a student and borrowed an eyeshade (value 15c) from us, back in the good ld days at Camp Merritt, which Ed never returned. Not that we care about the eyeshade but it is the 15c, we mean the principle of the thing that causes us considerable worry. Such occurances shake our faith in mankind to its very foundation.

After viewing Mike Lavin's remodelled home we now understand why the Government purchased 98,000 acres in the Fort Benning tract. If Mike decides to add another room or so, the War Department will have to add a few more square miles to the reservation. It has been suggested that Mike call his completed project "Lavin Acres."

It has been rumored around the Post that Captain Dager has officially announced that "there will be no mules on the snipe ride."

The three-year-old daughter of one of our neighbors is a very ardent Polo enthusiast and very seldom misses a game. Her idea of a polo player starts and ends with Captain Burress, referred to variously by Henry Averill, Beatrice Davis, et al, as Pinky—the red thatched lad from the galloping doughboys, etc. At each game this youngster asks repeatedly, "Dady, where is Pinky?" And her father, no matter how many times this question is asked, must point out to her this very popular wielde rof the mallet. One day last fall, the father took his little daughter to a football game between the 24th Infantry and the Chattanoga "Elks." The first question little Patsy asked when she was comfortably seated in the stands was, "Daddy, where is Pinky?"

The Editor of this paper certainly knocked our column into a cocked-hat last week and we hardly recognized our own child when we saw it. One of our brighest quips was thrown out. Then, just because the first sentence of a paragraph didn't apply, the Editor instead of rearranging our paragraph threw the whole thing out. These combinations make our attempt look woefully sick.

The Personage of the Week

Only our innate modesty prevents us from naming the personage of this week.

*The Wife.

OFF IN THE SILLY NITE

He: "Drink broke up my home."
Navy Girl: "Couldn't you stop it?"
He: "No, the darn still busted."

The meanest man in the world today is the man who shaves the back of his wife's neck with the same razor she has been trimming her pencil with.

Wife: "Every time you see a pretty girl you forget you are married."
Hubby: "You'e wrong there, m'dear. Nothing brings home the fact more forcibly."

Proof of a woman being absolutely sure of herself is best evidenced when she dares introduce a former husband to her present mate.

Hub: "Say, can the baby talk."
Wife: "Shut up, I wasn't baby talking."

Flapper (who has been studying Spanish History at school): "Just think of it mother. Those Spanish pirates used to go three thousands miles on a galleon."

Mtoher: "Yes, year; but father says you can't believe all you hear about those foreign cars!"

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United State Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examination:

Guard (Penal and correctional institutions).

Applications for guard (penal and correctional institutions) must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than March 24. The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on their admission cards, and will be about ten days fater the close of receipt of applications.

The examination is to fill vacancies in the Penitentiary Service throughout the United States, and in positions requiring qualifications.

The entrance salary is $1,500 a year. A probationary period of six month is required; advancement after that depends upon individual efficiency, increased usefulness, and the occurrence of vacancies in higher positions.

No preliminary experience is required for this examination, but credit will be given for experience as guard in a correctional institution, soldier, sailor, marine, hospital or asylum attendant, express messenger, or guard in a walled prison, or in other positions requiring the protection of life or property.

Competitors will be rated on spelling, penmanship, copying from plain copy, letter writing, arithmetic ,and their training and experience.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the United Sttaes civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

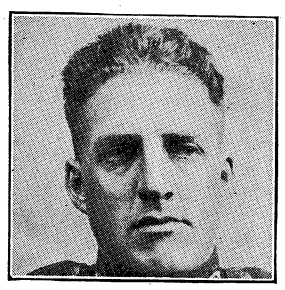
WHO'S WHO!



FIRST SERGT. EDGAR C. DAVIS
Co. "E", 29th Infantry

If you ever drop in at Company "E" 29th Inf. orderly room, you will be sure to see a tall broad shouldered soldier who speaks with the unmistakable southern drawl seated at the "Top Kick's" desk.

This is First Sergt. "Hi" Davis, one of the best known and most popular "Tops" in the Demonstration regiment.

1st Sergt. Davis was born at Lewisburg, Tenn., July 22, 1898. He enlisted in the Service August 26, 1917, as a member of Co. "H", 61st Infantry, Fifth Division. To this tall soldier from the hills of Tennessee has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, for extraordinary heroism in action ear Dunsur-Meuse, in the crossing of that river called by General Pershing "one of the finest feats of arms of the A. E. F."

He voluntarily advanced alone against an enemy machine gun which was holding up his platoon, capturing four prisoners and the gun. Later he led a few men into a dugout capturing thirteen prisoners. He then continued the advance until the day's objective had been reached and the platoon position organized.

1st Sergt. Davis is an adept with at least two infantry weapons, rating as expert with both pistol and rifle. He has been a member of the Doughboy football team every seasn since 1921, excepting the past season when an injured knee kept him out of the game all season. His long drives have broke up many hard fought base ball games when a hit meant victory for the "Kels." He has also played as a regular on the Second Bats basketball team for the past six seasons, and will be at his old position when the Battalion series opens for the coming season.

He came to Ft. Benning in September, 1921, from the 61st Infantry at Camp Jackson, S. C., he was first assigned to Hdq. Company, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., but later re-enlisted as a member of Co. "E" of the 29th nId.

Is it any wonder that he has collected from "H" Company, 61st Infantry and from Hdq. and "E" Companies of the 29th Inf., three discharges as sergeant with character excellent?

INDIRECT LAYING

(Lt. G. A. Hadsell)

Long ago when knights were bold, feudal lords dwelt in turreted fortresses, great stone castles. Mortal combat flourished, fighting was the favorite outdoor sport. The clash of lnace on shield, and the clatter of arms and armor shattered the peace of rural scenes. Towns nestled for protection 'neath the grim bastions of many an ancient keep or fort.

Modes of warfare differed from those now in vogue. Men sallied forth to battle clad cap a pie in burnished steel. The village blacksmith was the warrior's valet. And the unfortunate who lost the combination to his tin unionalls was forced to shout loudly for a can opener. But down through the ages basic principles of the Art of War remain unchanged.

Some seven hundred years have passed since the Blue Duke, Oswald, of the Rhenish Marches, besieged with engines of war, the stronghold of Count Hugo, the Red. As is customary, war had recently been declared.

The special situation opens with an evening session of Blue G. H. Q., in the tent of the Duke Oswald. During the day, waves of Blue pikemen had dashed in vain against Count Hugo's great round towers. Flemish archers had winged many an arrow, and the ballistae, artillery of that era, impelled huge missiles. But all to no avail, the crimson flag of Hugo still flaunted above the Red battlements.

Heated conference of command and staff waged beneath the indigo canopy. Duke Oswald and his captains bent with wrinkled brows over a large parchment map spread on the massive central table. Fitful light flickered from the flame of a tow wick sputtering in a bowl of tallow. Shadows of two men at arms on guard fell through the open tent door. A little beyond, campfires twinkled. And above all, menacing and dominating, was the black mass of the enemy's castle, outlined against the moonlit sky. Voices of Oswald and his officers rose and fell.

"Odds, bodkins, Duke!" quoth Wulf, the Strong, leader of the foot troops. "A coordinated attack is the only thing."

"Bells of Hades," excliamed the Duke, testily picking his teeth with his broadsword. "We've been coordinating all day, and still yon red rag flies above the fortress!"

Niles, chieftain of the Flemish archers, then spoke.

"Sir Duke, but let my brave bowmen loose a barrage of arrows while bold Wulf atacks. We shall keep the vile Reds in their shelters as the pikemen easily scale the walls."

"What ho, Niles, an approved solution!" shouted the Duke Oswald. He rose and stirred with his foot a soldier snoring in a corner. "Hither, scribe, while I dictate a five paragraph field order."

The first rays of next day's sun flashed on the armor of Blue Knights galloping their great war chargers to make a demonstration against the East Gate of Count Hugo's castle. They made a dashing picture, lances couched, pennons flying! Their gallant steeds, reminiscent of the spirited brewery horses of an equally bygone day, surged forward eager for the fray. Sharp cries of enemy sentinels manned the hostile gate against them.

In the shadow of a trench behind the South wall crouched the foot troops awaiting the signal. Behind a mound, Flemish archers drew bowstrings taut. Niles, the Wily, had computed data for indirect fire. His lieutenant, one Oscar Ben Turpin, the Bold, stood tense to exercise fire control. Being cross eyed, Oscar was especially fitted for the mission since he could easily fix one eye on the target, the other on the I. A. P. (Initial Aiming Point).

Suddenly, a lusty shout! From the brazen lungs of Duke Oswald burst the clarion signal! Bowstrings twanged. Arrows hissed. The Infantry, pikes gleaming, leapt to the assault. Reds beaten back from their defenses, howled with fear. Roars of triumph rose from hundreds of Blue throats as the scaling ladders were placed. Wails of dismay from the Reds! The day was won, the mighty donjon of Count Hugo, the Rouge, fallen.

For the Art of War changes not. Indirect laying will yet win many a hotly contested field. Those who doubt this knightly chronicle are hereby advised that even in our youth we found difficulty in differentiating between lieing and laying.

THE ARMY RELIEF SOCIETY

In the last few issues of the NEWS we have endeavored to cover the various activities of the Society. The work is carried on thru three committees—Relief, Education and Clothing. The two former committees' work has been emphasized in this column; this week we desire to speak of the work of the Clothing Committee.

To quote from the annual report of the chairman of that committee last year; "Ninety-one beneficiaries have been taken care of this year, in many cases I am told that they have not had to buy any dresses or coats, and some families I know that we completely clothe. A great prize and treat this winter was a fur coat to a college girl, and her joy at the thought of having it to wear to her first Army-Navy game was thrilling.

"I like to bring home to you what your help means so that you will feel how worthwhile it is to look over your clothes and give away what you never wear, but think you might some day—for what may not feel comfortable in, will bring the greatest joy to any of our grateful recipients. I cannot refrain from telling you that I want good things for my people, for every one of them is out in the world making a fight to win her way, and the better the clothes, the better the job."

The drive is now on at Fort Benning and will close on or about March 1, 1928. In thinking over your probable contribution to this excellent organization, please bear in mind that the work of the Society is for the widows and orphans of both officers and enlisted men.

N. G., N. C. O. CLASS
(By Sgt. Joe Crum, Ill. N. G.)

May we of the National Guard take this opportunity to thank General Collins, the officers, and enlisted personnel of the Post for the most hearty welcome extended to us in Fort Benning. We appreciate all that has been done to make for our comfort of body and ease of mind.

We especially wish to thank Major Henry A. Bootz for the courtesies and privileges extended to us within the Detachment.

We sincerely desire to carry ourselves and act as a part of the Fort Benning personnel.

We have with us the Presidential representative from the Maple Sugar state in the person of Sgt. Lew Emery, more affectionately known as "Red". If every one on the Post is not already acquainted with him it is not Red's fault.

It seems peculiar that so many of the fellows are purchasing high rank chevrons. To all appearances the requisite date for promotions in the Guard must be February 1st.

Tuesday the boys had a chance to show their stuff in Basic communication in the form of a practice examination. Although not easy, the general report was that every one "hit the quizz" with a comparative degree of accuracy.

We are preparing a roster that may be of interest to some, which will contai nthe rank, name, organization, and residence of all the Non-Commissioned Officers attending the school.

Twenty-Third Infantry Cops Basketball Championship of Fort Sam Houston

Victory over the Special Troops Cagesters gave the powerful 23rd Inf. basketball team the championship of Fort Sam Houston. This is the fifth championship won by the 23rd Inf. in the past eight years.

Service Company Wins Bowling Honors at Fort Thomas

The Service Company of the 10th Infantry won the Inter-company Bowling Tournament for 1927-18. The five man team, composed of Sgt. Strecker, Pvt. Wethington, Pvt. Coulon, Pvt. Macke, and Pvt. Seiffer lost but one game during the entire tournament.

Soldiers To Wash Up Miss Liberty

Fort Wood Garrison draws the job of giving the Statute of Liberty the first bath it has taken in forty-two years.

There is gloom on Bedloe's Isle
There ic brief upon the Lea.
For they are gonna wash old Liberty
An' the soapsuds guys is—we!

N. G. and R. O. Class Opens at F. A. S.

THE INFANTRY

Staggering on 'neath the galling pack
Up through the leagues of night and rain,
Twisted and torn on the battle rack
Dun brown waves on the sea of pain.

Hungry and weary and dead for sleep
Thru the endless night to the firey day
Past gas filled woods, up the flaming steep,
Thus does the Lnfantry lead the way.

Bayonets bright in the farthest fight,
Flash out the call of the Infantry
We follow the flag, be she wrong or right
All of the others follow me.

Follow me, short the Infantry
Pushing on thru the tangled wire,
Cavalry, Tanks and Artillery
Follow me in the battle fire.

All of the others pave the way,
Making our going as light as they can,
But none of them but the doughboy in the fray
E'er meets his enemy man to man.

The Infantry, the Infantry,
What is there that alarms
Shout out our slogan slogan "Follow me"
We blaze the way for the other arms.

Note: The above poem was written and recited by Col. C. L. Sheridan, Montana N. G., at the National Guard farewell dinner last week.

Battery "A"

1st Sgt. Combs has returned from a 30-day furlough, spent at his home in Union Point, Georgia. Reports that he had a very successful trip.

Private Greathouse has reported for duty after spending a 10-day furlough at his home in Opelika, Ala.

There has been quite a number of changes in grades and ratings for the past few days, the results being:

Pvts. Cameron and Coffin, appointed Privates First Class; Pfc. Wilson, James C., rated Special; 4th Cl. Pvt. Dozier, rated Special; 5th Cl. Pvts. 1cl. McRae, B. and Lasiter rated Special; 6th Cl. and Pvt. Wilson, Wm. L., rated Special; 6th Cl. We are all glad to see the boys get the promotions as they certainly deserve it.

Our big Chef Johnson takes a couple of punches at our famous Sterno and knocked him for a row of canned heat, the bout didn't last long due to the lack of energy.

The Big Hearted Owl of the Battery has had traveling on his mind for a number of days we are sure, as he has been heard saying that he longed for the place where dresses are hceap and intoxicating fluids are less.

One of the well groomed sheiks has purchased a ladies wrist watch, the said watch was seen on some young lady's wrist a few evenings past, we wonder if he is in the boat of matrimony.

We wonder why the 1st Sgt. was out Saturday afternoon with a small boy in the car with him. We wonder if you're married Spud.

—A. G. S.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Hoppe, Cochrane, Greenleaf and other noted artists of billiard fame had better watch their crowns. After the past week end pool tournament, there seems to be quite a few aspirants to said throne. Cpl. Summar, Pvt. Lane and Pvt. Jones were the fortunate ones to prove their skill and ability with said ivories.

Arnold probably heard some one conversing on certain subjects. Results—Washed curtains, scrubbed floors and walls and threw a little paint here and there in day-room.

Many notable achievements have been performed by the veteran hunter Arthur S. Sweger, and numerous game have fallen before his firey shot. Now hunting season is nearing its end in which he has won the distinction of killing many game, a cat, a rat, and a squirrel. He is the only hunter of Headquarters Battery.

We have just received some good news from the Pacific Coast, Mickey McMillian has re-enlisted fo rthe Eighty-Third and he is on his way to the land of the Georgia Peach. We shure can find room for an athlete of Mickey's claiber.

Heard in Day Room:

Cpl. McAuliffe—Who is that new recruit sitting over here?

Pvt. Arnold—No one, Snake Bryant just cleaned up for a change.

Cpl. Garretson—It won't be long now.

Sgt. Roper had a long distance call from St. Augustine last week, requesting him to render his services to a musical programme being broacasted, due to fact which we are very sorry to state, a severe cold prevented. Thanks to the cold.

Pvt. Hopkins, Penton and Lewis are back with us again. Welcome back, and watch out for bete ror worse in the future.

Sgt. Eskridge was discharged on Monday, taking on another stack with the gallant Artillery.

Battery "B"

Several men o fthe Battery have gone to the hospital with the flu during the past week.

We drop from our roll this week Corporal Johnson, who was discharged Monday per expiration term of service. We regret very much that Corporal Johnson didn't decide to stay another enlistment with us, and we all join in wishing for him the best in everything that he may undertake.

Private Boatman has just returned from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he has been attending the school for horseshoers. We are lal (including the horses) proud to have him back with us again.

We hear that Private Waldrop tried to hitch his mules to the Saturday Evening Post.

The Battery is on fire guard this week. Several Church Rolls have probably been saved by the rain.

Several new men have just joined us. We are proud to have you boys, and remember you are members of the best Battery of Artillery in the world.

Corporal Wargo says it's great to be a "Short Timer" just think, $75 and a ninety-day furlough.

—J. R. M.

Battery "C"

The Battery attended the Gymkana held on Pike Polo Field Wednesday afternoon.

Corporal Knox won 2nd place in the Polo bending race.

"Abie" Barksdale was present with "Frank," his horse. "Abie" dismounted and "Frank" went one way and "Abie" the other.

"Wild Bill" Hickox failed to locate his fatigue clothes and so was left out of the novelty race. Better luck next time "Bill."

Lieutenants Strohbehn nad Hurt did some fine work, but we still wonder what Lieutenant Strohbehn was doing under the table while competing in the Officer's and Lady's novelty race. Some one said he was looking for the needles.

"Pop" Brantley had his car searched by the law one night this week. After the search, the officer finding no evidence of violation of the eighteenth amendment, thanked "Pop" for his courtesy. "Pop" says to some of the boys who were with him, "I knew that was how it would be when they discovered who I was." "Pop" you had better sell that speedster, it looks too much like a bootlegger's car.

COUPON BOOK STANDING

The 15th Tank Battalion took the lead for the month of January in the number of theater coupon books sold based on the authorized strength of the different organizations. The percentage of this outfit was 64; 29th Infantry 27; 83rd Field Artillery, 26; 24th Infantry, 21.

Company A, 15th Tank Battalion, sold the highest number of books in that organization. Service Company, 19th Infantry, sold the highest in the demonstration outfit, 176; Battery A, 83rd F. A., sold the highest, 46; Company A, 24th Infantry, 58.

The School for Bakers and Cooks sold 50 per cent based on authorized strength which was the highest of the special units.

HERE AND THERE IN THE AMY—

Fort Lewis fight fans were treated to a fight card of the old fashioned variety on the night of Jan. 19, 1928.

Only one o fthe eleven bouts on the card went to a decision, ten of them being finished in the early rounds by the K. O. route.

Company "C"

Pvt. Harry Wagner has decided to buy his discharge from the Army, and expects to be out in just a few days. He is one of the best windjammers we have ever had in the Company. We hate very much that he doesn't seem to care for the Army anymore.

Pvt. Merchant wants everyone to know that he has only a short time to do, that is the reason why he is all smiles these days.

Pvt. Griffin has just returned from a thirty-day furlough, and reports a very nice time.

—J. V. C.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

It's either business or credit that is getting good for our company barber has a new car. We can all go to town more often now.

Our Bn. Basketball team took a short trip to Atlanta recently and after getting beat the first game by Fort McPherson, came back strong and beat this same team 69 to 19. "Oh yes, we know how."

Well, it won't be long now, and we will have our "top kick" back with us again. Wm. H. has been spending a 60-day furlough in Ga., Tenn., and N. C., and from what we have heard (in letters) he has had a very enjoyable time. We will no doubt hear all about it in a few days when he rolls in.

The long kept secret is no longer a secret for we have found the vainest man in the Co. The Co. C has placed a nice long mirror in each of the barracks and this same vain man (sgt.) spends most of his time in front of one of them.

Howitzer Company

When 1st Sgt. Johnson asked me to write for this paper I hesitated, believing it would be difficult to find material. But it is not so in this compnay. There are usually so many things happening that it might be an imposition to ask this paper for enough space to print the many things that would be of interest.

Just recently look what happened. Our Company team took first place in the regiment night ride patrol held Jan. 26. That is a might fine night's work that any organization would be proud of.

For instance in pops Pfc. Smith, N. T. (SMYLY) and almost the same as he was the day he went away, with the exception of the length of his hair. r. Willard will attend to the hair pretty quick and then he will be as good as new.

Pfc. Linton is back with us again (SLIM) but the running gear is still intact and a few chow-calls and he will be ready to perculate again. He says that he never had to turn in for transportation but, he doesn't care to hear the famous old ditty, "Hike, hike, the boy is hiking."

Cpl. Corn is spending a few days with the Company but expects to be able to leave on re-enlistment furlough in the near future. He told several of the fellows that he has found that (true love always runs backwards).

Company "E"

Another long timer in the company fellows. Our famous cook, Pfc. Robert T. McDuffie held up his hand Sunday morning for another stack of three years. Glad to have you stay with us Mack. But, what are you going to do with that Ford.

Pvts. Hornsby, Tinsley and McCoy T. are back from what they cayy a good time furlugh. So now we have back on the deadlock table Tinsley and McCoy, that makes five eating on it now. Pvt. Hornsby is back on his old job as Dining Room Orderly and we are sure that he will keep the K. P.'s jumping around and keeping things shined like a million dollars.

"The old reliable" 2nd Battalion Basketball team was sure showing their stuff Friday when they pulledout of camp in a Big Lincoln automobile with the majority of the players out of "E" Company. That comes to show that we have sportmanship in this outfit. You can holler for outside to play something and there will be more out for athletics than there are men in the chow line.

Pvt. McWaters, a late soldier of the Service Company, says he is going to show the bunch that a farmer and mule skinner can soldier as good as they can shine mules. Let's go Mac.

—J. R. H.

Company "F"

A great scandal has befallen our organization—to the disgrace of the company it is regretfully announced that there are two members—we hesitate to name them—who have fallen so low—have degenerated to such an extent that they—save us—WEAR 'EM—Those big red stripes—Yes—with head hung low, we admit—that two otherwise fine soldiers of our company—wear pajamas.

Sgt. Simpson (1st Platoon) has the honor of "leading" this company on the bayonet course, closely followed by Cpl. Conle yand Pvt. Passarelli.

Who told Sgt. Singletary that he was too old to qualify on the bayonet course? Dad's moto is "You are young only once —and then until you retire." If he does not get married—blame it on the P. S. of that letter he received the other day.

Our basket ball team is coming along in fine shape—they are trying to get Shorty to come out but he is too busy at the present time—maybe he will get to come out later and give them the correct dope.

I. S. D. NOTES

THE K. P.'S LAMENT

By H. Cooper

A bunch of K. P.'s were mopping it up
The Detachment dining hall,
While another bunch was slinging the pans
And were getting a growl from all.

When in out of the rainwith muddy feet
And scraping as he came,
To walk the length of the dining room
While the K. P.'s blasphemed.

None other would dare to take such steps
While the K. P.'s were a snorting,
But the man that cursed them and sent them to work
Was the chaser known as Morton.

Then another entered the dining hall
While the K. P.'s muttered "Tbere's Bayliss,
And if he hears us giving a growl
He will try like 'ell to jail us."

But last of all there enters in
And you can bet there is no hoots,
And things must shine when he comes in
For he is the well known Major Bootz.

The Majors eyes went around the room,
But at last they came to a stop,
And he gazed awhile at a quaking K. P.
Till the K. P. neraly dropped.

Our Detachment Commander to be sure
And we guarantee without any aid,
That he can build for the I. S. D.
An A No. 1 Stockade.

Oh, we have our fun and our hardships too
And our work is hard but our troubles are few,
But work o rplay, just do like me
And try a hitch in the I. S. D.

THE CUSTOM OF CALLING THE HOURS RECOLLECTED

(By a Censorious Old Person)

Hearing a nurse scolding her golden headed little charge and saying, "You come along wid me if you cries the M. P.'s will get you." I recalled dear old quaint days long past, before there were M. P.'s in the Army to regulate our lives, to be a bugaobo to our children or to tag our cars, before there were cars; days when there were sentries walking post, only guards to guard us and make us feel very safe.

In those days tattoo blew at a quarter to nine. The garrison was so small that a bugle call could be heard by all the officers' line and men's quarters as well, and a man's commanding voice could be heard throughout the garrison. When tattoo blew all children came running home. In summer we left off playing, "Run Sheep Run," in winter we could hear the bugle ever above the joyful screams of our coasting party.

In our quarters we four children were met by our old Irish nurse wit a silver tray and a pitcher of milk in summer, but on cold coasting nights hot cocoa.

Our beds were turned down, our night gowns and slippers waiting. My father's rule for all four children alike, was to be in bed ,our prayers siad (the Creed and Lord's Prayer) before the sentry on Post No. 6 by our house called the hour. "No. 6, 9 o'clock and all is well." That seems a lot to accomplish in fifteen minutes, a wild rush home, fond good-nights to parents, a little nourishment, undressing, washing, teeth to scrub and prayers to say, and yet I can recall that some times I was afraid I would fall asleep before I heard that reassuring voice of Sentry No. 6, proclaim to our world and to the stars in the heavens, that it was 9 o'clock and all was well. Sometimes to my childish mind God was far up in heaven but the sentry passed and repassed our door.

ARMY LEATHER PUSHERS MIX AND MINGLE AT VANCOUVER BARRACKS

The famous fistic sport that is played with stuffed leather and iron jaws is well played and very popular at Vancouver Barracks.

On the night of January 25, 1928, followers of the Sock and Slam pastime witnessed thirty-eight rounds of this sleep producing entertainment at the Victory Theater at Vancouver Barracks. The main attraction, a ten-round affair between Hunter and Farmer for the featherweight supremacy of that area, ended in a draw. The preliminaries were complete with snap and action, three of them ending by the fatal count.

Our Engineer Insignia

The Engineer insignia—two towers joined by a wall notched and pierced by a door—which is carried on the collar of the tunic of all officers and soldiers of the engineering corps of the American army comes in a direct line from Verdun.

The Engineer insignia had its origin in the old fortified gateway, the "Porte Chaussee," that frowns down upon the Pont Chaussee, where it spans the crowded channel of the Meuse below the bastioned Citadel of Verdun.

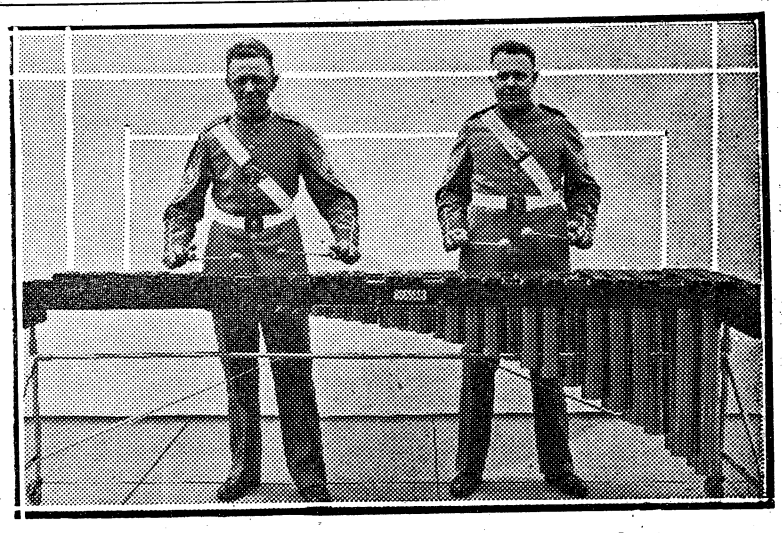
There is no doubt that every basketball fan in Fort Benning can tell you whose picture is shown above, but to those who have never been fortunate enough to see the Benning Musketeers in action we herewith present Lt. Johnny Roosma, star player and captain of the 1928 Infantry School Basketball Team.

Lt. Roosma's basketball record reads like fiction, and is no doubt a record that has been equalled by few in the cage game.

He was captain and high point man on the Passaic, N. J. High School team that made the remarkable record of winning 159 consecutive games. Playing in 29 games with this team in 1921, his total score for the season was 832 points.

During his four years at West Point Military Academy he was a member of the team and was picked as a member of the mythical All-American team each year; he was high score man in 1924-25 and was captain of the team in 1926.

During the past season with the Infantry School Team, playing against some of the best professional and college teams in the country, he has made a record that stands out as one that any player would envy. Playing in twelve games he scored a total of 340 points, made 147 field goals, and 46 foul goals. Out of 54 free shots from the foul line he failed to sink eight shots in the basket.



Xylophone Soloists With U. S. Army Band

It will soon be time fr the Headquarters Company to give another dance. We are looking forward to a good time on that date.

—J. S.

The Company will give a dance on Wednesday evening, Feb. 15th. Everyone is expecting a very good time. Mess Sergeant Harriston will prepare the supper.

Private Daily E. Oliver is acting as company clerk, while Private Gardner Davis is on furlough. Davis will be gone for three months.

There were four Privates First Class made in the Company yesterday. They were Thomas, Johnson, Moore and Stout.

Three Specialist 5th cl. were also made.

1st Sergeant William J. Miller is very much pleased with his new quarters. The quarters formerly occupied by him were badly in need of repairs.

Headquarters Company turned out in large numbers Sunday night to see the vaudeville. The show seemed to have made a big hit. Especially the part played by a little girl who appeared to be about ten or eleven years of age.

Private Fred D. Wilson is doing some very pretty work on the Headquarters and Service Company lawn. We are striving to have the most beautiful lawn in the Regiment.

AWARD OF ATHLETIC JERSEYS

Following the conclusion of the successful football season of 1927, the Board of Awards of the regiment has recently decided as to whom should receive the much-coveted athletic jersey sweaters for the season. These sweaters are very attractive, dark blue color, with an emblem in the center on which is marked in red: "24th Infantry." A yellow football appears beneath the emblem.

The men who were awarded the sweaters are: Private Major Moore, Hq. C.; Sgt. Harrison Brown, and Pvt. Less Allen, Service Company; Sgt. W. B. Smith and Pvt. Robert Franch, Company A; Privates W. Kilgore, Joe White, R. Collins, Theo. Williamson, Company B; Privates James Heard, John Harris, Company C; Privates Jessie Johnson and Tommie Baugh, Company E; Corp. John Jones, Privates Allen Johnson and Jim Perry, Company F; Corp. Sam Sellers, Privates Riley Rice, Harold Tholmer, Willie Billingslea, Lawrence Tillis, Herman Hodges, Columbus Vance, Company G; Corporal Ben Adams, Company F.

Headquarters Company

1st Sergeant William J. Miller has been assigned the quarters formerly occupied by Sergeant Bradwell of Co. "B".

Private Gardner Davis has taken a three months furlough. Says he intends to visit several eastern cities. Among them being Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Sergeant Charley Harrison made a purchase of many good up t date records for the company. Every one seems to be very much pleased with the selection.

Private Lucies McFadden is back with us. He has been visiting his parents in South Carolina.

Headquarters Company was well represented at the basket ball game. The game was enjoyed by all, as it was very exciting.

Private Caesar Brown of Company "G" has been attached to the company. We are very gad to have him, for he is a very good soldier.

COMPANY C, CO. OFFICERS CLASS

15 to 1 SHOTS

By Jayson

"Underneath the region of argument and conscious discourse lies the region of mediation." Milton.

Group No. 3, Company "C", meditated to the fullest last week on the consciousness of several of its members at the time each delivered his fifteen minute outburst.

McLamore, the big number one of the rear rank, 1st squad opened the festivities with a discourse on the much debated CMTC. The big boy, our emphatical expert got across splendidly. His plea to the audience (assumed high school students) brought home to us the task of the unfortunates, who, each year must step out and get the Corps Area quota. Mac being the lead off man got off easily with the critics.

"Red" Williams, the said squad's corporal used as his subject "Talk is cheap." As we meditate on his remarks we are struck with his superior knowledge of our Constitution. We recollect in tranquility that every article and amendment, except the 18th, was covered by the big Indiana representative. The internal reaction brought home to us that the Supreme Court lost an ardent pleader when the war brought the bridge expert to our midst. The critics were silent. But the discerning eye of Magill, the American Legion enthusiast, caught a noticeable palsied tremor in the bulk of the Constitutionalist as he groped for his seat at the conclusion.

Young Stark brought home to us many truhts when he delivered his muffled version of "The average Machine Gun officer." He reminded us of Rousseau's remark, "I will not open my heart to you by halves." Again meditating we cannot help thinking of the eye wash perpertrated throughout the service. Stark's remark about taking a machine gun company and organizing it on a Thursday morning and putting it through a proficiency test the following Saturday and receiving a higher rating than an organization that had been in existence five years, caused many a knowing grin. Again quoting Rousseau "A gaudy veil of external appearances."

Lockett our dashing No. 1 of the unbeatable student's polo team is more at home on a horse than talking about one. The critics of his presentation left an indelible impression in his mind as to the habits, peculiarities, and disposition of a "weaver."

Phillips, the handsome Corporal of the 2nd Squad, and "Tex" Matthews the get away man of the 1st squad, impressed us as the orators par excellence. Nature endowed both with strong manly frames. Here we listened with unabated interest. Coursing through the sensitive organs was the remark of Descartes, "I am willing to admit that the little that I have hitherto learned is almost nothing compared with that which I am ignorant."

Our strapping 1st Sergeant, whom the school has selected as a model in one of its descriptive charts, gave a talk on "The Recruit and His Troubles." The audience selected, and assumed by his hearers, was general officers. With stars on our shoulders we sat back and visualized through the sugared eloquence of the speaker the trials and vicissitudes of the recruit. "Maggie" with the deftness of the "finished" orator gave a close-up of the embryo soldier leaving the old homestead of ease and comfort and entering the army only to learn that the dress suit is made up of blue denim. When criticism was in order the instructor was astounded to find the entire group of mex generals on their feet. Ie resembled the seventh inning with the home team two runs behind.

As this goes to press we have behind us the fifteen minute frights, the physical torture, and the 342 different angles of the machine gun course. Before us stands the horse. To most of us we hope that the . . . . section agrees with Homer when he wrote "A friend with an understanding heart is no whit worse than a brother."

The above notes show the versitality of our contributor, "Jayson." Last week he was a racing reporter, this week he is a political scientest, while next week, who knows, perhaps he may write simulating a captain of infantry.

Lyons protests against the unfairness of the stable-management exam. "How was a poor guy to know," he said with emotion, "that some of the horses tied on the picket line too long? I got there as soon as I could."

The following citations are given for fifteen minute talks in A. H.'s 1 and 7. For excellent advice, McNally; for getting called for a historical illustration, Buddy Payne; for good common sense, Scott; for cleverness and fun, Muller; and for sheer oratory, Winnerberg. All the others were good too.

If it hadn't been for our friend and contributor, Jason, this column would have been mighty slim this week. And for three reasons. (1) This machine-gun outfit is pushing us pretty heavy with stuff to work at home. (2) One person we have mentioned a number of times threatened to prefer charges against us. (We told him we would print them in this column if he did.) (3) Another Bimbo, as Captain Schmidt says, called us son, nasty names and said we were pretty hard up for something to print, to write about him. We agree with him. E. H. R.

KIRVEN'S BUYERS RETURN FROM NEW YORK

During the past week the Kirven's Department Store buyers have returned from a trip to New York City. Mr. Dupont Kirven states that never in the history of Kirven's have they brought home a finer selection of spring frocks and wearing apparel.

It might be well for Kirven's many patrons at Fort Benning, to know that Mr. Kirven maintains an elaborate office in New York City, which enables their store in Columbus, to display the new styles within 48 hours after their appearance in New York.

The many friends at the Fort wish to congratulate the buyers, Mr. T. Albert Adams, O. T. Arrant, J. C. Lowe, Dupont Perry, Miss Hattie and Annie Godwin, Mrs. A. T. Wood, Mr. Paul Duncan and Mr. Dupont Kirven, with the good judgment and artistic selection used in selecting the spring models for Kirven's store.

BENNING MUSKETEERS WIN TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES DURING PAST WEEK

The Fort Benning Basketeers more than held their own during the past week when they turned in two victories against one defeat against three of the strongest teams in the country.

The Columbus Y. M. C. A. five, met defeat at the hands of the Doughboys in a fast and exciting game Thursday night, Feb. 9, at the Post Gym.

On the following night the Stormy Petrels from Oglethorpe University came over and handed the Musketeers one of their few defeats of the season, the final score being 40 to 38, in favor of the Collegians.

Saturday night the Doughboys took a fast game from the Gulf Refining Co., of Atlanta. This is one of the strongest teams to show here this season, the Doughboys handing them their first defeat of the season.

All of the games were close and exciting and the large number offans who attended each game came away well pleased with each contest.

INFANTRY SCHOOL BASEBALL SQUAD BEGINS PRACTICE

Season Will Open Here March 23 With Auburn College

The ole pigskin has been laid away, the leather helmet gives way to the linen cap while steel spikes replace the leather clats. "God Bye Football—Hella Baseball." And everybody is happy, already the batteries are workout out each afternoon and although orders are to take it easy the fellows just can't help slipping one down the ole alley with a zip to it, just can't help it.

All of last year's veterans have reported and also several new faces are out to try for a berth on the 1928 Doughboy squad. Red Lindsey, McGaha, Tolle, Roosma and Newman will be ready for slab duty when opening day comes around, and when a team has five twirlers of their caliber to depend on they don't have to worry about the pitching.

Mick McCarthy, Asynax Douglas and Tommie Thompson take care of the receiving end. McCarthy has been the mainstay of the Infantry School team for five seasons, Douglas is also a veteran at the game and is a dangerous hitter. Tommie Thompson is the youngest of the three and should have his best season this year, he is fast, has a good arm and is one of the best hitters in the Garrison.

Several new men are out for practice but it is to early for comment as to their ability, but "it won't be long now."

LIEUT. BECQUE TRANSFERRED

Lieut. J. H. Becque, commanding officer of Co. C, 1st Gas Regiment, at Fort Benning received orders Wednesday transferring him to duty with Organized Reserves at Athens, Ga. Lieut. Becque's orders take effect June 1, 1928. He will be on duty with the 301st Gas Regiment, O. R., at that place.

BUSY WEEK AT HOSPITAL

This has been a busy week at the Post Hospital according to reports. However, no births or deaths were reported but average number of patients during the week ending February 14th, was 202.

The Infantry School baseball team will play the following teams at Doughboy Stadium on dates indicated:

March 23-24: Auburn (Ala. Poly.)
March 26-27-28: Michigan State Ag.
April 3-4-5: Notre Dame University.
April 6-7: Univ. of Illinois.

EXERCISES FOR GRADUATES

Graduating exercises of the 29th Infantry Non-commissioned Officers School and Intelligence School were held last Friday morning in the 29th Infantry Theater, with the entire personnel of officers and non-coms of the regiment in attendance.

When the Regimental Commander, his staff and members of the graduating classes were seated the program began with the 29th Orchestra playing the 29th Hymn, "We Lead the Way." At the conclusion of the hymn played by the orchestra Captain Goode, chief instructor of the school explained the work that was done by the schools and as a citation of the efficiency of the work done only 70 per cent of those entering the N. C. O. School were all to graduate while in the Intelligence School only 25 per cent finished the term.

At the conclusion of the explanation of the work done by the schools the Regimental Commander, Lt. Col. C. E. Delaplane, congratulated the graduating classes on their work and addressed them on "Schools and Their Importnace." He told the classes they were fortunate in being able to attend school and that schools today are more of a necessity than they were in the past, because of the advancement of science and times. Col. Delaplane further stated that obtaining an education today is easier than ever before due to help of instructors who are better prepared to teach the different subjects, their knowledg having been gained from years of research and experiments and as a result much time and labor is saved the student. That the 29th as a military instructor is superior to all other infantry regiments due to its close association with the Infantry School whereby it is kept abreast o fthe changes in training and the latest and most up to date data.

At the close of the address each man of the graduating classes were personally congratulated and presented with his liploma by Col. Delaplane.

The program was closed with the entire assemblage standing at attention while the orchestra played the Star Sjangled Banner.

Twenty-Ninth Infantry Fighters Put on Fast Card

Scrappers in the finals at the 29th Infantry Theater last night to determine the Amateur Boxing Champions in the various weights proved to be one of the best fights ever staged within the regiment. The fights in question being between the winners of last Monday night's scraps between the First and Second Batalion and the Special Units team.

Fans who enjoy the toe to toe, rock 'em and sock 'em style of fighting were given one of their rare treats as that was the tactics employed in more than one of the bouts.

To fights were forfeited. Brault of the First Battalion forfeited to Barrush of the Special Units in the featherweight class. Brault appeared at the ring to fight but on account of numerous boils on his body was prohibited from fighting. The other fight was in the light-heavy division. The Special Units forfeited this bout to Smith of the First Battalion who is known to Benning fans as Football Smith.

The first but was in the bantamweight class between Dawson o fthe First Battalion and Faircloth of the Special Units. Dawson was the better boxer and fighter. He often landed blows to head and body with telling effect. Dawson won by judges decision.

The next bout, the lightweight division between Pieters and Mokoski of the Special Units was a fight from the sound of the first gong in the opening round till the closing gong in the last round. In the first round both men startde in to wind the thing up as soon as possible both standing toe to toe giving and taking punches with both men showing a willingness to take a punch in order that they might land a punch of their own. Both men landed rights and lefts to head and body the entire round.

Round two and three though not as fast had plenty of action but Pieters was the better ring general, took better advantage of his opportunities and kept Mokoski away with his left while Mokoski began swinging and missed often. Pieters won by decision.

The welterweight class between Oikari of the Second Battalion and Sterling of the Special Units found two of the cleverest boxers ever to step in a 29th Infantry ring. However Oikari had a slight edge as a boxer with Sterling being more of the fighting caliber. In the early part of the second round Sterling broke his right hand and from there on Okari had litle difficulty landing his blows at will but at rare intervals Sterling landed a stinging left to Okari's head.

The middleweight between Myers of the Second Battalion and Funk of the Special Units turned out to be another of those slugging affairs. Both men scored knockdowns in the first round and had it not been for one of those "lucky breaks" that sometimes occur Funk would have in all probability caused Myers to have learned the verdict sometime later in a secluded corner. In the second round Meyers continuously kept a left in Funk's face and won a technical K. O. in the latter part of the round.

The heavyweight class again proved to be the most interesting bout of the evening. Both fighters, Clark of the First Battalion and Tod of the Special Units started out for a K. O. Here the boxer again came out the victor during the early part of the first round Todd swung an rushed Clark round the ring and what a wallop this boy Todd has once it connects the receivers know it. The round ended with both men standing toe t otoe slugging. The second round started as a repetition of the first. A hard right to the body by Clark soon began to tell on Todd and before the round ended Clark was beating Todd all round the rink with the bell saving hi mfor a K. O. At the beginning of the third round Todd was unable to continue the fight and the bout went to Clark by a technical K. O.

Officials for the fights were: Judges, Captain Goode and Lieutenant O'Niell. Referee, Captain Steward.

Hdqrs. Company

What is the first thing you see when entering the hall of the Howitzer Company? You are right, "The Blue Banner."

For the benefit of the readers that are not in the 29th Infantry I will tell you what the "Blue Banner" is. It is the reward given to the organization maintaining the highest standard of cleanliness and discipline during the month.

With the exception of one month we have had the "Blue Banner" every month since we moved into the brick barracks. That month we were second.

Well, we added some more blue ribbons to our vast collection last week. They were won in the "Gymkhana" events. Lt. McDonald won first place in the carrying of the polo ball from an unsaddled, untrained horse. Lt. McDonald also won first place in the event of driving the polo ball the fartherest. Pfc. Jahnete won first place in the event of riding a mule with and without saddle.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bat.

First Sgt. Biggerstaff is now back with us again after a 60-day vacation in southeastern Georgia. He said he had a very wonderful time and we believe him for he came back looking satisfied and full of pep.

We received our last recruit from the recruit center this week bringing our total up to 63, full strength. We welcome him to the company and hope he lives up to the reputation of the rest of the "tar heels" of our compnay.

Cpl. Mincy has just started a five months' leave which will be spent in the post stockade, in payment for a short overnight visit to Phenix City. Too bad Thomas. At the present writing we don't know who is going to get Mincy's stripes but we will know next week.

Cpl. Ferguson, one of our baby corporals, who has charge of the recruit drill in the company seems to be getting along fine. Live and learn is Ferguson's motto, and we have been trying to find out how the recruits are going to live while he is learning. What is the secret Cpl?

Well, more news next week when we get rid of the flu.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "D"

Our Roster:
"C"arver—our most proficient bugler.
"O"Brien—papa.
"M"erriman—short-timer?
"P"ee—our new born cook.
"A"ndersn—officially known as baby-face.
"N"icholson—Want a "punch"?
"Y"oumans—Going to re-inlist?

"D"onald—line-up Hospital bound.

Mentioning no names but be it secretly known that a certain young man of this Company has taken upon himself to be called "Papa."

Pfc. Simmons having been made Corporal the last week is sure doing a lot of handshaking. Congratulations Cpl. When do we smoke?

Yours for the reading.

—Swan.

Company "E"

There sure is sour faces on the men in the company now as Pfc. King, W. has taken charge of the day room because they will have to pay for all their pool. Look out payroll. If anybody sees a man with a derby hat on just say that is one of E Company men. We have quite a sorrow fall on this Co. as the flu has hit this post and I think it made a hard one on this company—seven went to the hospital Saturday and morn Sunday A. M.

Pfc. Buckner has made the following remark: If the mess sergeant would keep onions on the table and the men eat them there would be no flu in this outfit.

The Mess Sgt. is a proud man now as he has another chicken cooking for him (Pvt. Cotle).

Eddie Campbell has a new girl now in West Va., so he will not be seen any more over at the dance at the service club.

Our basket ball team is playing Co. B for Regimental Championship Tuesday, 14th, and we think we will have a snap winning the championship from them.

First Sgt. Davis' name was entered in the Regimental Year Book as the outstanding soldier of Co. E, 29th Infantry, and it is believed it will be hard for any man in the Regiment with the same length of service to equal his record. He enlisted Aug. 26, 1917. In the St. Mihiel he distinguished himself and was awarded the Croix De Guerre. Later on Nov. 5,

Company "G"

"Blank Ammunition" Chaney says that a demonstration is never over until the company gets inspection arms.

Little King the Captain's runner got a box of candy last week and said that the piece he got was pretty sweet.

Privtae Cooter spilled some ink on the 1st Sergeant while policing up the Orderly Room and the next day he was spilling hot water on the dishes in the kitchen.

Private Melanson has patented a new way to clean his rifle. He puts a little oil on a worm and coaxes it through the barrel.

Sgts. Brown and Johnson C. said that the next time that they have to run the bayonet course that they are going to get a pair of shock absorbers.

Pvt. Walinski ran thruogh the bayonet course like an acting corporal in the Coast Guard, he didn't have much time to lose in a hurry. Sgt. Southerland ran through on a rim although he carries a spare.

When Cooper, J., was on guard the officer of the day came around and started questioning him. He asked him what he would do if a girl came on his post. Cooper said, "I'd put her thrugh the manual of arms."

McDuffy made 2nd Orderly the last time he was on guard. Some one called him over the phone and asked him if he were the O. D. He said, "Yes sir, I am the Orderly of the Day."

Sgt. Johnson was issuing out war set rifles and Cpl. Woods told Jones to go and get one. Jones replied, "H——l, I don't want to kill any one."

Cook Wofford was telling his K. P. that the best job he ever had in his life was in a mattress factory and then he got fired for laying down on the job.

We regret to state that Cpl. Pete Magagna injured his foot while practicing basket ball with the team. The team will sure miss him in the game with Co. "E" and we hope that he will soon recover.

Immediately after she qualified on the bayonet course "Aunt Mary Smith" was seen making tracks for the Post Exchange, "We wonder why."

—War Set Simpson.

Company "F"

The erstwhile clean record of Headquarters Platoon has been blemished! Three members of our noble fellowship are under restriction, paying the penalty for a deed which shall go down in history as one of the darkest of crimes. May they profit by their sons, amen!

Who's next? The ambulance has taken so many away from the Company that before long there'll be no one left in the war but the First Sergeant and the Supply Sergeant.

One of our estimable chefs, Pfc. Holloway, sticks to his opinion that the kitchen is the sanctuary of K. P.s and cooks only.

With the return of Pvt. Joe Jassarelli from his sojourn in the Barbed Wire City and Pfc. Settle from furlough, "F" Co. can boast the best song and dance act of the Regiment.

Cpl. Conley has expressed a desire to be transferred to the Foreign Legion. He has made a thorough study of the conditions pertaining to this organization and seems well satisfied as to the result.

"Where, Oh Where, Has My Full-Field Gone" is the popular new song introduced by Pvt. Hawkins.

LOUVRE BOOTRIE TO OPEN ABOUT MARCH 1st

The new shoe store of Mr. H. T. Cones, and Mrs. Martin, will soon open for business at 1127 Broad Street. Mr. Cones was formerly the proprietor of the Endicott Johnson shoe department of Shuessler's Department Store.

In addition to handling a high grade line of shoes their new store will be equipped with a Photomation Picture machine. Mr. Martin says that you sit in front of the automatic camera. You move, you turn, you laugh, you speak. The Photomaton in 8 winks—no more—catches 8 lively poses. 8 minutes later this $1,000,000 invention gives you a strip of 8 real photographs.

No bother, no formal posing, no waiting. He says that Photomaton pictures are good because they are quick, natural and lively. No stiff formal sitting, but 8 personal character studies—for 25 cents.

Messrs Cones & Martin, extends to their friends at Fort Benning a cordial invitation to drop in and inspect this wonderful invention.

TANKERS TAKE AND HOLD FIRST PLACE IN MESS RATING

For the fourth consecutive month Company "C" this Unit has stood in first place in the garrison mess rating competition. Each and every month in the year the Medical Inspector makes his rounds of the some thirty two mess halls and kitchens in Fort Benning making a minute inspection of them, noting all defects that come to his attention, and then makes the rating in order of their general tidiness and cleanliness. No man knoweth when the Inspector cometh or whither he goeth next, so it is essential, to make a showing of high order, to have everything spick and span at all times, or to use and age old expression to keep their lamps trimmed and burning at all times. To jump into the lead occasionally is quite a feat among such strong competition where every one concerned is putting forth his best efforts in all the messes in the garrison, but to get on the first rung of the ladder so to speak and hold it, is we believe quite an unusual accomplishment. Keep it up men for it is quite in keeping with your other performances, and we are all working together for the very zenith of perfection.—Tank Wkly.

ARMY HORSES NOW PERMITTED TO BE RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES

New regulations which have just been issued by the War Department, upon the recommendation of Major General Fred W. Sladen, Commanding the Philippine Department, will permit horses of the Army, including officers' private mounts, to be returned to the United States upon the certificate of an officer of the Veterinary Corps of the Army that the animals have not been exposed to such diseases as glanders and surra during the preceding sixty day. In addition, they must show negative reaction to the mallein test for glanders and blood examinations for surra. Upon arrival in the United States, the horses will be subjected to a twenty-one day quarantine and the tests for glanders will be repeated.

From the time of our occupation of the Philippine Islands to the present time, the shipment of horses from the islands to the United States has been forbidden by the regulations of the Department of Agriculture as a precaution against the introduction of diseases which exist in the Philippine Islands such as glanders, surra, farcy, and epizootic lymphangitis.

This regulatin worked a hardship, particularly on officers who owned horses and who were ordered to the Philippines for duty. They either were forced to leave their horses in the United States and thus be deprived of their use during the period of their tour of duty or, if they elected to take their horses with them, they were forced to dispose of them, upon completion of their tour of foreign service, regardless of sentiment and financial loss.

ARMY BAND TOUR HAS AWAKENED LATENT PATRIOTISM

With all the inspired patriotism of war-time, the necessity of organizing the finest bands procurable to maintain morale was recognized by military leaders.

The U. S. Army Band, which will play here Monday on its first public concret tour, is an outgrowth of the great war-time "A. E. F. Band—Pershing's Own."

General Pershing, appreciating the splendid part the A. E. F. Band played in quickening and maintaining a battle esprit, conceived that as miliar function might be performed by a fine Army Band in peacet-ime in preserving a high order of patriotism.

Accordingly, as Chief-of-Staff in 1922, he ordered the remnants of his fighting musical unit gathered together and the Army Band organized.

The wisdom of his decision has been demonstrated in the dignified and laudable part of the Army Band has played in contemporary history. As representative of the U. S. Army, it has played before visiting potentates of the Old World and has participated in state and diplomatic functions at the White House, U. S. Capitol and embassies and legations of foreign governments in Washington, D. C.

Mindful that the band—like the Army—primarily belongs to the people of this nation, it has been permitted to broadcast to the fullest extent, sometimes putting as many as three or four concerts on the air in a single day.

The Army Band gievs a series of open air concerts in the National Capital each summer and takes part in numerous demonstrations, from the funeral processions of high government officials and parades for homecoming heroes to entertainments at World Series games.

This work of inspiring latent patriotism is now to be broadened with the Army Band's first public tour.

Program For Band Concert

The following is a tentative program for the concret to be given by the Army Band at the Main Theater next Monday afternoon:

"Marche Slav," a selection the product of 1876, the yea rof the war between Servia and Turkey.

"In a Persian Market," intermezzo-scene.

Solo for saxophone, "Llewellyn," played by E. H. Hostetter.

Variations on a Folk Melody.

Songs, by Congressman C. A. Woodrum, of Virginia.

"On the Road to Mandalay."

"Allah."

"Mammy's Song."

March: "Trophy of Victory."

Potpourri: Victor Herbert's Selections.

Gems from South America: "Ay. Ay. Ay." Son Lorenzo."

Xylophone solo: "Liebesfreude," by J. L. Young.

Grand Fantasia: "The Evolution of Dixie."

"The Star Spangled Banner."

Two Performances

The band will play at the 24th Infantry Theater at 2 P. M. Monday and at the Moin Theater at 4 P. M. The admission will be fifty cents, in cash.

Detachment Notes

Ollie Herring, one of the gallant firemen, tells us that he was with a suicide blonde the other night. When asked the meaning of the term "suicide blonde," he replied "Dyed by her own hand."

We saw 23 girls the other day under one umbrella and neither one of them got wet . . . . It wasn't raining.

Luther Davis tells us that he doesn't approve of wearing a dress uniform for he lives in Tennessee and if he ever went home on furlough with a dress uniform on he might get shot as a Yankee soldier.

The Quartermaster Corps, practically en masse, built a temporary hospital in thirty minutes the other afternoon. They always give service when it is needed.

A dialogue between Thomas and Adams:

Thomas: "Who will receive the Republican Nomination?"

Adams: "I don't know, probably Mr. Hoover or Mr. Willis, but whoever it is will be a good man."

Thomas: "Well, who do you think will receive the Democratic nomination?"

Adams: "Mr. Smith or Mr. George, or someone else; I really couldn't say, but whoever it is will be a good man."

Thomas: "But, surely you can tell me who you think has the best show."

Adams: "Why, of course I can. Barnum and Bailey have the best show on earth."

When Private Anderer told Frank Street that he used to be a Life-saver, Street wanted to know what flavor.

Did you notice the new arm bands our heroic fire-department boys are wearing? Every time the Fire Marshal sees them, he sees red.

A certain party, name kept secret on account of the speed laws, was catching the air the other day in a high powered car, giving it all he had, when a man driving one of the new Fords drove alongside and said: "Mister, do you know anything about these new Ford cars? I've got this one in second gear and can't stop it." W. R. R.

FORT BENNING BOY WINS HIGH HONOR

Melville Quinney, age twenty years, completes a highly technical course in accountancy in five months and twenty-two days. In addition to this, he is the first student in the world to complete the course in Rational Bookkeeping and Accounting. This system was compiled in New York by expert accountants, a Master of Arts and a Bachelor of Science, who have taught other systems classed as standard up to the present day. The principal author of the text-book is Director of Commercial Education for the city of New York.

Mr. Quinney is a student of the Clara Belle Smith Business College, Columbus, Ga. His test papers were forwarded to New York together with his achievement record, and a check was kept by New York accountants and teachers to see which student finished first, the work subject to criticism in New York. Word has just been received from New York regarding the record as follows:

"Please extend my congratulations to Mr. Quinney. He is the first student to complete all the work in Rational Bookkeeping and Accounting. His work has been splendid and I am sure the training he is receiving your college will stand him in good stead all through his life." (Signed) Lloyd Bertschi.

Rational Bookkeeping and Accounting was put on the market in the Spring 1927 and includes corporation, voucher system of manufacturing and consignment accountancy. Mr. Quinney enrolled August 8 and completed the last study in the course January 30 under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Truman, who took her post graduate work under Prof. Lloyd Bertschi.

Mr. Quinney lives at Fort Benning and was graduated last year from the Columbus High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Quinney. Mr. Quinney is connected with the Quartermaster Corps here.

LAST SUNDAY'S POLO

Last Sunday the Freebooter team met the 29th Infantry and the Students played the 83rd Field Artillery in two very fast and interesting matches. As usual the squads alternated their players so that eight men of each group took a turn at playing.

In the first match Lyman started out in his usual sensational manner. He was well supported by long drives from Smith and McClure. The 29th put up such a plucky fight that they earned two goals and held their opponents to 8.

In the second match the whirlwind attack of Boyer and Jacobs seemed to take the Artillerymen off their feet and they found difficulty penetrating the defense of Scott, so that they had to take the short end of an 11 to 5 score. In the second line up of the Students, Boudinot played an especially effective, aggressive game, scoring twice with difficult shots. Halloran also tipped the ball through twice for the Green team.

The play of Burrus's squad is improving noticeably. The Artillery combination of Grubbs, Guernsey, Murphy and Hurt look good but the Students hit much harder and more accurate Sunday. Major Jones made a very difficult shot for goal for the Red Jackets in the 2nd Chukker.

Major Lyman has announced that a post polo tournament will be held beginning March 4 and lasting until March 11 between the "A" teams of the post. A tournament of "B" teams will be held March 14th and 18th. There will be two games each day of tournament play and at the conclusion of the tournament a post team will be selected.

In the drawings teams were matched as follows:

March 4—Students vs. 29th Infantry. Freebooters vs. 83rd F. A.

March 7—Students vs. 83rd F. A. Freebooters vs. 29th Infantry.

March 11—Students vs. Freebooters. 83rd F. A. vs. 29th Infantry.

BENNING RADIO COMMUNICATES WITH NEW ZEALAND

Using a short wave receiving set which he made himself at a cost of less than thirty dollars, Corporal Frank E. Sosebee of the 2nd Section, Academic Dept., communicated with Station 1 FE at Waihau, Auckland, New Zealand, Feb. 7, 1928, at 11:50 P. M. The transmitter used by Corporal Sosebee was a 7½ Watt and was constructed at a cost of seventy-five dollars.

The conversation lasted about ten minutes, the only interference was by Lt. H. D. Boyden, U. S. M. C., of Managua, Nicaragua, who operates Station 1-NIC.

Corporal Sosebee has written and received confirmation of the communication; the operator at Station 1 FE was Mr. L. F. Wood of Waihau, Auckland, New ealand. The estimated distance from here is approximatcly nine thousand miles.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

GENERAL DAVIS DEPARTS ON 1500-MILE TRIP TO INSPECT ARMY ACTIVITIES

Leaving Fort McPherson, Ga., by motor on February 21st, Major General Richmond P. Davis, Fourth Corps Area Commander, departs on a fifteen-day trip to points in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida and Tennessee. Nine localities will be visited, bringing the total to twenty-seven in his first four months in command of the Fourth Corps Area.

As in the past, the purpose of this trip will be to establish closer personal contact with all Army activities in the southeast, to determine at first hand the problems of the different components of our Army and to render such assistance as conditions permit.

At different points of his trip he will address assemblages of all components of the Army. He is striving particularly to create a greater interest on the part of Organized Reserve officers and as a result, citing only the case of one city visited, the enrollment of the local Reserve Officers Association has already increased over one hundred per cent.

General Davis' itinerary calls for visiting in turn Columbus and Fort Benning, Ga., Auburn and Montgomery, Ala., Pensacola and Fort Barrancas, Fla., New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La., Vicksburg, Miss., Memphis, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala. Upon departure from Montgomery, Ala., motor travel will be abandoned and his trip thereafter will be by train.

FRATERNAL ACTIVITIES

A delightful evening will be enjoyed by all Free Masons at the next regular communication of Fort Benning Lodge No. 579, F. and A. M., to be held in the Polo Club on Monday, Feb. 27, 1928, and called at 7:30 P. M.

Vocal selections will be rendered, addresses of interest to the Craft will be delivered and refreshments will b srved.

Members of the Fraternity are urged to be present.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT SMOKER IS BIG SUCCESS

By Al Durden

"We work while we work and play when we play," is the motto of Major Henry A. Bootz, commanding officer of the Inf. School Detachment. This motto has become an unwritten law of the Detachment and the members are governed accordingly.

Monday night, Feb. 20, 1928, was play night and any visitor who was fortunate enough to be present will join with me in telling the whole world that the Greencords "Played while they played."

Through the courtesy of the 29th Infantry, the large 29th Infantry Theater was placed at the Detachmenteers disposal for the evening. On one side of the big room Staff Sgt. Bayliss moved into position with his famous Mess Hall Brigade; they quickly threw up a breastwork of tables, behind which grim eyed Cooks and K. P.'s kept the enemy at bay with a steady fire of sandwiches, cigars, cigarettes and and a general supply of liquid gass that flowed freely from four big wooden cylinders. There were very few casualties reported at roll call Tuesday morning. One Corp. reported finding one Pvt. Bow Wow Adams in a shell hole seriously "gassed."

The program for the evening was a 'Slam KAC." The curtain went up on the first act showing Major Bootz in the center of the stage, he immediately opened hostilities with a humorous remark on a certain subject that caused a roar of laughter from all except a cub reporter and a certain ex-minister. After a short talk in which he advised every one to remember it was play evening the Major vanished from the scene.

Two boxing bouts were then put on, both of these bouts were extra good. In the first bout Young Phillips of the Detachmenteers lost an extra round decision to Peacock a Doughboy fighter from E Company, 29th Inf., this fight was chuck full of action from the beginning to end and kept the crowd in a roar until the final bell.

The second bout between Parker of the Greencords and Stokely of the 29th Inf. was a whirlwind during the first round and if there was any advantage it went to the Doughboy, but early in the second round the Blond boy from the Area crossed a left jab with a dynamite right to the button that sent Stokely to the land of nod for several minutes.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the 24th Infantry Orchestra and there is no need to tell any one any more, for where its music, Sergt. Scipio's Symphony Six from the Sunset regiment are known to have no peers. The 24th Infantry quartet also rendered some of the familiar old fashioned melodies in that harmony that carries one back to by-gone days, a melody that is a gift that can not be loaned or borrowed, the harmonious melody of the Southern colored folk songs.

A three striper with a lamp black complexion and a lost ball disposition attempted to demonstrate to a similar colored recruit the ways and means of the Army in the next number. This act would have brought down the ceiling out Clyde Bayliss gave the Cooks a serious command, he ordered them to begin firing, four ham sandwiches and two glasses of beer bursted near the spotlights, the strain was too great for learned and learner, the hook was unnecessary.

The feature act of the program came last, it was a side splitting comedy that kept the crowd in a roar for an hour and fifteen minutes. The actors were real old army talent but we have paid our good silver on several occasions to witness acts that could not compare with theis amateur number. Just a moment, only four of the actors were soldiers and then there was the leading lady, nothing is complete without a touch of the fairer sex and this little lady did not fail to live up to expectations. The act was good and was highly appreciated by the members of the Detachment. Let us have many more in the future.

Thinking the show over the audience began to move towards the exit, but stopped instantly when some one called "Tenshun" in a mean voice. Master Sgt. Chitwood stood in the center of the stage demanding in a loud voice that the Detachment lend him their ears for a moment. He then explained that he had been in the outfit for lo these many years and had never yet had the opportunity to speak to the Detachment. The ears were gladly loaned, for fifty-five seconds Chitwood's booming voice smote the ceiling, then when there was no longer a dry eye in the house he closed this grand oration with the request that some one "Please give him a cigarette." Major Bootz produced the requested Chesterfield as the jolly Detachmenteers went laughing to their little white bunks.

LT. JOHNNY ROOSMA IS NAMED PERFECT REFEREE BY AUBURN BASKETEERS

The following article appearing in the Plainsman shows that there are other things Johnny Roosma can do on a basketball court besides loop baskets, and one of them is referee:

Roosma, Army Star Appears on Campus as Perfect Referee

Quite a change was noticed in the Tiger games upon the appearance of Roosma, four letter man at West Point, as referee in the past two tilts on the campus. Roosma was on the championship Passaic, New Jersey, high school team that won 159 games and later attended the Army training school at West Point. While at the academy, he made quite a record for himself, starring in football, basketball, baseball and soccer. He is now stationed at Camp Benning and is a leader in the Fort's basketball circles this season, having an average of 35 points to his credit. As a referee, he is nearer perfect than any one Auburn has had so far, and he knows the game, and also knows he knows it, all of which makes the games faster, cleaner and harder.

I. S. D. NOTES

Congratulations are now in order! Corporal Allen of the Post Exchange is now a Sergeant and the following men have been made Corporals: Cleveland, Fredericks, Lantz, Nash, Sacromo, Shafer, and Shurling.

"Tiny" Cochrane has invented an effortless way to cook hot cakes. He mixes popping corn with the batter and when he corn pops the cakes turn themselves.

The Detachment gave a Smoker Monday night at the 20th Infantry Theater that was a B I G success. Refreshments were made by the Mess Sergeant and his corps of cooks. Music was furnished by the 29th Infantry Orchestra and singing by the 24th Infantry Quartet. Whitey Parker and Phillips boxed and Durden and Manning put on their well known black face number. The most amusing event of the evening was a short number entitled "Embarrassment," as portrayed by a certain Master Sergeant. Everyone had a good time and even Witte and Massey got enough to eat.

Mysterious air currents, cold airs and various other things that the stuff we breath has in it seem to strut their stuff at the Main Theater. Have you noticed the Sergeant in charge put on his glasses and read the temperature; close a window and open a door? Then comes an intermission and the process is repeated in numerous variations. An aviator should be called in for this business has been going on for months and months with no conclusion arrived at except that of the audience—"It's cold as 'ell."

Our First Sergeant, Otis R. Glenn, has gone on furlough after taking out another stack for three years. Sgt. James F. Lykins is acting First Sergeant until the return of the wanderer which should be sometime in June.

SKETCHES OF POST LIFE

Did you notice the Red, Red Robin a-Bob-bob-bobbing along. And the Larks in flocks that are so tame. And the buds on green life that seem to say that Spring i sabout here.

Old Sol the King of Light, is rather "chary" about showing his smiling face, but brighter days are coming.

Early morning sight was the Batteries of field artillery at a trot with distance maintained, that permitted other traffic to proceed, going out First Division Road, designation somewhere on the Reservation, and they looked good.

Gowdy gets dusted off, soon.

Liza: "Mandy, yo sodier friend must have lots uv money."

Mandy: "What fer you say dat Liza?"

Liza: "Why everybody done called him 'Gold-brick.'"

AT THE MOVIES

FEB. 24th to MARCH 2nd, INCL.

FRIDAY, FEB. 24

"GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES," starring Ruth Taylor with Ford Sterling supported by a powerful comedy cast composed of Chester Conklin, Eugene Borden, Alice White and a number of other gloom dispersers. Out of the west comes a dainty maid who developes into the queen of "Gold Diggers"—she captures them all at Little Rock, then on the California limited, later at Hollywood, then New Yrk. Next, her conquests enmesh the "he" passengers of the ocean lines, Majestic, and finally Paris falls prey to her snares and all because "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." She is beautiful and dumb, but not so dumb but that she is capable of taking men like Grant took Richmnd.

SATURDAY, FEB. 25

"THE FRONTIERSMAN," starring Tim McCoy with Claire Windsor in a great historical film drama filled with thrills, tense interest, absorbing action and romance. It is a vivid story of a part of General Jackson's career in the great American Indian Wars. The picture is based on the original story by Ross Wills and Madeline Ruthrven.

"Find the Kind." Horten comedy.

SUNDAY, FEB. 26

"OLD IRONSIDES," starring Esther Ralston with Wallace Beery, George Bancroft and a strong supporting cast. This is a picturization of the famous poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes. It is a story of pirates, adventure and heroism—the romance of a Frigate, a ship with a charmed life, no shot or shell ever penetrated her sides, no enemy ever caused her masts to fall. Her colors were never struck, yet she fared in many a fray—What a ship! The queen of the seas. And into the story of this ship, a story filled with the life of the United States Navy of a half a century ago, a life full o faction and battles on the water and hand to hand conflicts, this marvelous tale weaves the romance of the youthful Captain of "Old Ironsides" with the daughter of the ship owner who built her. A picture that will hold you from the beginning to the last reel, as the story of "Old Ironsides" has always held all Americans.

"Paramount News."

MONDAY, FEB. 27

"THE LAST COMMAND," starring Emil Jannings and Evelyn Brent. This is a powerful story of the red revolt in Russia showing Jannings as a mighty general, strictly military but beloved by his men. He befriended a girl but imprisons her companion—the girl in turn, saving him from death at the hands of the blood-mad revolutionists. He then comes to America in search of his fair savior and there the story takes a strange twist. It is a gripping story with poignant love and dramas, mystery and thrills. So far different, is it, from "The Way of All Flesh" and "Variety" that it is hard to believe the same star played in them all.

TUESDAY, FEB. 28

"NO PLACE TO GO," starring Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes in a happy-go-lucky Broadway to South Sea Islands comedy. It is the story of a couple of romantic nuts who in a New York roof garden cabaret, lay plans, then take a yacht trip to the South Sea Islands. Their foolish acts cause consternation for themselves and those with whom they are traveling. They also cause the keen amusement of the audience. In this picture you'll witness the funniest crime ever committed in the name of romance.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 29

"THE COLLEGE WIDOW," featuring Dolores Costello and William Collier. Forty fighters fall for a flirt. Athletes conquor the fair ones, whose eyes capture the athletes. The Atwater college football team had lost for twenty-five years—the president of the college was about to lose his job—then the president's daughter took the bull by the horns, recruited a football team by her own personal charm and had them all fighting for the school—all in love with her. Then a jealous co-ed, and pandemonium—the team refuses to play and turns against her. The Climax is capped in the big football game.

THURSDAY, MARCH 1

"THE WOMAN ON TRIAL," starring Pola Negri in a poignant, dramatic battle of hearts in the famous Parision Latin Quarter, with a woman's tremendous sacrifice for the man she loves, and an even greater sacrifice for her child, the off-spring of a loveless marriage. The scenes shift from the romantic poverty of an artist's studio to the mansion of a wealthy man. There is a court sequence of crushing grief when the heroine bears her soul after being accused of a murder committed to avenge the theft o fall she holds most precious. It is a marvelous heart stirring story with Pola Negri at her best.

"One Hour Married." Mable Normand.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2

"VERY CONFIDENTIAL," starring Madge Bellamy in a sparkling comedy drama. The story is based upon the hectic experiences of a sales girl in a sporting goods store who sets her heart upon capturing a stalwart football hero. She is kept busy inventing new excuses to keep in his good graces and therein lies the foundation for the fun. The starts posing as a big game hunter and finishes by doing an amazing stunt that would be a credit to the world's champion automobile racer.

GENERAL DAVIS GUEST AT BENNING TUESDAY

Major-General Richmond P. Davis, who commands the Fourth Corps Area, was the guest of Major and Mrs. L. W. Young last Tuesday evening while en route to Auburn, Ala. General Davis is on a tour of inspection throughout the corps. On Tuesday evening, Major and Mrs. Young entertained informally at dinner. Their guests were Gen. Davis, Col. and Mrs. Delaplane, Major and Mrs. Bowen, and Lieut. Powell, aide to General Davis. Lieut. Powell will be a guest of the Youngs during the tour of General Davis. General Davis and Major Young are both natives of North Carolina and have known each other for years.

Mrs. Harry E. Isaacs, wife of Dr. Isaacs a very prominent surgeon of New York City, and her little son, are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Louis J. Lampke for the winter months. Mrs. Isaacs is Capt. Lampke's sister.

Mrs. Blanche Best and her daughter, Miss Lewis Best, of Christianburg, Va., are the guests of Lieut. and Mrs. Clyde Grady.

Col. and Mrs. Charles D. Roberts entertained at a most delightful buffet supper on Sunday evening. In the Class of 1924 their two sons graduated at West Point. These young officers are now on foreign service, Lt. H. B. Roberts serving in Porto Rico and Lt. I. D. Roberts at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii, but they have a large number of classmates at Benning, practically all of whom were, prior to Sunday evening, unacquainted with Col. and Mrs. Roberts. The next best thing to having your son with you is to have his friends and so it was that the following delightful group assembled at the Roberts' home for an evening which it will be a joy to remember: Lt. and Mrs. Prather, Lt. and Mrs. Smythe, Lt. and Mrs. Adams, Lt. and Mrs. Smithers, Lt. and Mrs. Macklin, Lt. and Mrs. Matthews, Lt. and Mrs. Moon, Lt. and Mrs. Darke, Lt. Arnold, Lt. Boatner, Lt. Bragan, Lt. Cornog, Lt. Foster, Lt. Schaefer, Lt. London, Lt. Hadsell, Lt. O'Niell. It is singular that not an officer of the '24 class who is stationed at this post was absent and only one wife, Mrs. Arnold, was unable to be present. Those not belonging to the class but belonging very materially to the party were Miss Mary Ingram Hoopes, the houseguest of Col. and Mrs. Roberts, Miss Becky Hill, and Miss Elizabeth Coley, who is the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Smythe. After supper was served Col. and Mrs. Roberts and their guests went to the Post Theater.

Mrs. Channing E. Delaplane was hostess at a lovely luncheon at the Log Cabin on Tuesday honoring three recent brides—Mrs. Richard Givins Prather, formerly Miss Betty Gowen, Mrs. William Maine Hutson who was Miss Mae Parent, and Mrs. Rothwell Hutton Brown who before her marriage was Miss Virginia Hayes. The guests were seated at one long table where the George Washington idea was charmingly carried out in every detail. Cunning little hatchets filled with candy were the favors; shields in red, white and blue, the placecards; nut baskets in the tricolor, red candles, and small silk flags in dainty ferns completed the decorations. And the charming hostess wore a lovely red dress which had a shoulder bouquet of cherries. (I trust she will forgive me for giving these details but it was just too lovely not to mention!)

Mrs. Dennis E. McCunniff entertained at an exceptionally pretty luncheon followed by bridge on Monday at the Log Cabin. Golden daffodils with tall yellow candles and comports of yellow mints gave the lovely color note of early spring. After the luncheon, tables were arranged for bridge and the winner at each table was given a large bottle of Coty's Bath Crystals. Among those present were: Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Peake, Mrs. Card, Mrs. Barclay, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. D. J. Baker, Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Lyman, Miss Engle, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. Goodrich, Mrs. Forsythe, Mrs. Spalding, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. Roberts.

Lt. and Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst were gracious hosts to a large number of friends at a most delightful bridge party on Monday evening at the Regimental Club Rooms. The Washington's Birthday idea was interestingly carried out in all details of the party. The score cards were small hatchets and these same little hatchets brought, if not fame, surely good fortune in generous measure to the prize winners. Mrs. William A. Collier won first prize for ladies, a lovely silver bread tray; Mrs. W. W. Brier won second, a box of Coty's bath crystals done in a dozen small packages of various colors; Mrs. Hurle won low prize, a silver cold meat fork. The first prize for men was a cigarette holder of cut crystal with silve rtop, won by Lt. C. D. Overfelt; the second a perpetual calendar with set of desk pads in a bronze holder, was won by Lt. W. H. Vinson, and the low prize, a set of bronze book ends comforted very materially Lt. March for his terrible luck.

Major and Mrs. Robert H. Fletcher entertained twenty-five friends at an elegant dinner followed by cards on Tuesday evening and on Thursday were hosts to twenty-five more at a similar party. Sets of bridge cards were given in each instance for all high scores.

Msis Margaret Lampke returns next week to the University of Alabama for further study.

Mrs. O. W. Griswold entertained four tables of bridge very delightfully on Friday afternoon at her quarters on Austin Loop. Mrs. Ernest Barker, Mrs. D. J. Baker, Mrs. Howard Pulliam and Miss Pitcher, the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Fox, were highest at their tables and were given lovely Fostoria comports as rewards.

Lt. and Mrs. George W. Smythe have as their guests Mrs. Smythe's mother and sisters, Mrs. Stanton Coley and Miss Elizabeth Coley of Wilton, Conn. They will be here for only one month. On Friday of last week Mrs. Smythe entertained at bridge for them. On Tuesday Lt. and Mrs. Smythe celebrated Mrs. Coley's birthday with a small but very delightful dinner party. On Wednesday Mrs. Smythe gave a sewing party for her mother and on Friday she will be hostess at a bridge party for her sister. Soon they plan for a motor trip to Florida and later in their visit they will motor to interesting places in Alabama.

Mrs. Scudder and Miss Scudder of Newark, N. J., returned last week to their home afte ra delightful visit to Maj. and Mrs. Chas. W. Ryder.

Mrs. W. W. Ashurst and Mrs. B. L. Knight were joint hostesses at a beautiful luncheon at the Ralston on Monday given as a farewell compliment to Mrs. A. B. Stewart of Washington, D. C., who was the guest of the Misses Snyder of Lorena Hall, and as a special courtesy to Mrs. Blanche Best of Virginia, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Grady. The guests were: Mrs. Best, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Drollinger, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Grady, Mrs. Searcy, Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Kelley, Miss Jessie Snyder, Miss Kate Snyder, Mrs. Ashurst and Mrs. Knight.

Mrs. Harry Reed honored Mrs. Arthur Brigham of Evanston, Ill., with an afternoon bridge party at the Log Cabin on Friday. There were three tables of players.

Capt. and Mrs. James L. Ballard entertained a large number of friends at dinner at the Log Cabin on Friday evening before the 24th Dance at the Polo Club. The color note was the patriotic red, white and blue of Washington's Birthday and it is delightfully carried out in all details of the decoration. Those invited were: Col. and Mrs. Roberts, Maj. and Mrs. Bradley, Capt. and Mrs. Boyd, Capt. and Mrs. Doll, Capt. and Mrs. Collins, Capt. and Mrs. Busch, Capt. and Mrs. Dunlop, Capt. and Mrs. Lyons, Capt. and Mrs. Strickland, Capt. and Mrs. Rhoods, Lt. and Mrs. Earle, Lt. and Mrs. Kelley, Lt. and Mrs. Brier, Miss Hoopes, Capt. Craig and Capt. Daughtry.

Major and Mrs. Albert S. Peake entertained at a beautiful dinner party at the Washington's Birthday dinner-dance at Biglerville on Wednesday evening. Their table was lovely with its red, white and blue decorations. Shields were used as placecards and small silken flags, red candles and nut cups in the tri-color were effectively used. Their guests were: Col. and Mrs. Baker, Col. and Mrs. Hill, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Maj. and Mrs. McCunniff, Maj. and Mrs. Ladd, Capt. Whisner and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dismukes of Columbus.

Capt. and rs. A. D. Bruce have as their houseguest Capt. Bruce's mother, Mrs. Cromwell of White Plains, N. Y.

Mrs. Robert F. Dark entertained at the 29th Club Rooms last Thursday six tables of bridge as a compliment to Mrs. W. P. Shepard who leaves the latter part of next week for a visit home prior to sailing for China. Mrs. Vinson won first prize, an orchid Fostoria Condiment service. Mrs. Wessells second, six orchid fostoria goblets, and the honoree was given four low candlesticks of the same ware.

Miss Margaret Lampke shared birthday honors with Georgia Washington on Wednesday and the occasion was celebrated by having a few intimate friends in to dinner at her home. Later they attended the costume ball at Biglerville.

On last Friday evening Lieut. and Mrs. Kameil Maertons were hosts at a lovely dinner party at their home in Columbus before the Advanced Class dance at the Country Club. Spring flowers were used with yellow candles for decorations. The guests included a group who served in Alaska together and who throughout this year have had many delightful parties in common. Those present were Capt. and Mrs. Parkin, Maj. and Mrs. Staples, Capt. and Mrs. Lockhart, Capt. and Mrs. Cook, Capt. and Mrs. Goode, Capt. and Mrs. Easley, Lt. and Mrs. Grady and Capt. and Mrs. Lundy.

The Organization Bridge Clubs met on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Lee Hester and Mrs. Fred Caswell were hostesses to the ladies of the 24th at the Polo Club. The George Washington idea was carried out in the decorations, and after the game there was an informal tea. Mrs.

Robb S. MacKie Sr. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson presided at the tea table. The prizes were won by Mrs. Coates, Mrs. Doll and Mrs. Hester.

Mrs. Whitfield Shepard and Mrs. Herbert Harris entertained the 29th Club at their clubroom. Daffodils from Mrs. Shepard's garden were used as the centerpiere on the tea table with tall yellow candles. The high score prize, a sterling bud vase, was won by Mrs. James L. Bolt, and the second, a sterling tea ball, by Mrs. O. W. Griswold. Tea and sandwiches were served at the conclusion of the game.

Mrs. Paul A. Reichle entertained the Artillery Club at her home. There were three tables of players and Mrs. James T. Dawson won first prize and Mrs. S. F. Clark second. Frozen fruit salad, hot buttered biscuits and coffee were served after the game.

The members of the Tank Bridge Club were extended a lovely courtesy by Mrs. Merrill E. Spalding on Tuesday. Mrs. Spalding was formerly associated with the Tanks and though now Maj. Spalding is with the School they keep up their interest in the Tank friends so on Tuesday, the regular meeting day fo rthe club, Mrs. Spalding entertained the entire club and a number of friends at a perfectly lovely bridge tea. Golden daffodils were used in profusion with tall yellow candles on the tea table and on occasionaly tables making a very lovely effect.

Mrs. H. V. Brown was hostess to a luncheon-bridge at her home on Britt Drive in Columbus last Tuesday.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.

On last Monday afternoon a very representative grup of women assembled at the Polo Club for the Attache program to which the Infantry School Woman's Club has been looking forward with such interest. Illness invaded the ranks of the Attaches as well as of club members, for Capt. E. M. S. Steward who was to tell of his sojourn in Peru was unable to be present, and Capt. W. M. Jenna who was to give us some most interesting impressions of Modern Greece was at the last moment detained by official business. His well-prepared talk we yet hope to hear. However Capt. Hugh Barclay and Capt. Harry M. Gwynn were there and their discussions made a most worthwhile program. Capt. Barclay, who spent four delightful years in Brazil, gave a very interesting talk touching on the history ,the topography, the politics, the industries ,the agriculture, the climate, the mineral wealth and the social factors of that great Portuguese republic which spreads out over the greater part of South America. So large is Brazil that it could cover mile for mile the United States and have 250,000 miles left over. Reo de Janeiro is one of the palygrounds of the world and the charm of their life, the hospitality and friendliness of the people, their welcome to the foreigner on their shores, makes a sojourner among them a happy exile who soon catches their joyous attitude toward life and who would never mind to linger long among so gracious a people.

Capt. Gwynn who served our country in Guatemala made an intensely interesting talk on the "banana republic." He pictured their lovely mountains and their perpetually delightful climate, the strategic place they occupy in American affairs due to their location near the Panama Canal; he spoke of Latin-American bond with which Mexico hopes to bind into strength those small republics of the same tongue. He told of Central America as the Land of Soldiers of Fortune as well as rebels and revolutionists—a picturesque people in a picturesque place whom to know is to in part understand and love. Because the spotlight is now on Nicarauga, because Lindbergh has been out latest ambassador of good-will to Latin-America, and because our president has recently lent his presence and influence towards fostering good will among these peoples to the south of us this talk by one who knows first hand the situation as it actually exists was profoundly interesting. Moreover, Capt. Gwynn told us something confidential! Told it to a lot of women! To a Woman's Club, if you please! And we won't tell. Hurrah for Capt. Gwynn. He restores our faith in men.

To complete this man's program Capt. F .G. Heraty played on the violin two very lovely selections, "Meditation from Thais," and McDowell's "To a Wild Rose." Mrs. Heraty accompanied him.

Because of the concert by the Army Band the usual tea which follows the program was omitted.

The Literary Club will meet Monday at the Polo Club at 2:00 sharp. The study for the afternoon will be Cntemporary German Literature with Mrs. Paul R. Goode in charge. The program is as follows:

Foreword—Mrs. P. R. Goode.

Biography, "Bismark," by Emil Ludwig—Mrs. A. F. Kingman.

Fivtion, "The Ugly Duchess," by Lion Feuchtwauger—Mrs. P. B. Peyton.

Drama, "Literature," by Schnitzler—Mrs. G. R. Cook.

The Home Economics Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Walter T. Scott. This group is one of the most enthusiastic departments of the Woman's Club and they are constantly adding to their store of knowledge—scientific and practical information concerning that eternally (and internally!) vital problem of food.

JUST A BENNING POEM

By H. Cooper

There have been thousands in the army
And thousands yet to come,
But until the end of time arrives
Their work will not be done.

The protectors of the Nations
And their lives, they risk for all,
And they never stop nor tarry
When an S. O. S. is called.

They enlist at tender ages
And remain until old and gray,
As the army always makes them
Or it high tails them away.

And if they retire while in the army
Uncle Sam provides the best,
As they deserve the best that's going
And then nothing else, but rest.

Now let's mention 'Please' Fort Benning
About our well known Infantry School,
How they come from many countries
To be taught the army rule.

From every branch of service
With all ranks, both large and small,
And from each State there comes Enl. men
To be placed upon our rolls.

And the enlisted men Instructors
And of the best they have to be
And if you should glance at their insignias
You usually see the I. S. D.

Now the Infantry Detachment
Provides most men for every thing,
From the mending of the hats and shoes
To the running of the trains.

They supply most all the ranges
And the theaters they run too,
Then out where they have the golf course
There is placed a man or two.

Also the Benning tennis courts
And the M. R. S. the same,
All have our men to work for them
With more at the Post Exchange.

And the men who say "Number please"
When you put in a call for town,
And the ones that answer the call of fire
And the mail man that makes his rounds.

Headquarters, Academic Department
Service club and Infantry Board,
The Print Shop and the Studio
Take from the Detachment more.

I could name many other activities
In the Sections, some of the best,
But with the Book Shop and Library
And the Museum I'll have to rest.

I will include the Department of Experiment
Now you unbelievers give your hoots,
And if you do not believe this
Ask the Commander, Major Bootz.

More people ride on GOODYEAR TIRES than on any other kind . . . because it is the world's greatest tire!

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

The outstanding feature of the week was a brace of marked problems in Supply. The solutions turned out by the School shwed a thorough going knowledge of the subject, and, though they differed from ours in a number of places, we would not go so far as to say they were wrong. Even two mas ter military minds seldom visualize the same situation in the same way and Major Huebner's solution of the supply problems referred to, may be as good as ur own. We wrote "satisfactory" across them and filed them in our file of approved solutions. After all what are a few map coordinates between friends.

Among the many things that we like in the weekly contribution of our rival columnist, Captain Nichols, is his "Personage of the Week" feature. We regret that we did not think of something like that before he did. It would furnish us with such a convenient medium for advertising Major Drollinger's latest pronouncements or expressing our appreciation of some commendable act on the part of a member of the faculty. This week, for instance, we would unhesitatingly award the palm to Captain Bolte on two counts—first, "for meritorious and intelligent violation of Infantry School tradition by calling off a dreary all-day tactical walk in the rain and substituting therefor a pair of well con ducted and interesting map problems," and second, "for giving the Advanced Class a half holiday instead of influenza."

It has recently come to our notice that our leading hadr luck specialist, Major McCarthy, suffered an irreparable loss in the fire which destroyed his Columbus residence. While the family jewels and most of his household goods were saved, thanks, in no small measure, to the efficient wor kof the volunteer salvage corps organized on the spot by Commissar Hobbs, the Major's monograph maps of Marlboro's campaigns were consumed by the flames. We have been informed that Major McCarthy, at the risk of his life, entered the burning building in a final effort to save the maps but was so blinded by smoke that he picked up a gallon jug by mistake and carried it to safety.

The Volley Ball Tournament which Captain Venable instituted at this week's session of his Physical Torture Class is atracting widespread interest in athletic circles and Captain Walker has offered a box of El Ropo cigars to the winning team. The outstanding feature of the preliminary contest was the defeat of O'Hare's Hibernians by Baxter's Bearcats. Stevens, Hamblen and Kupfer starred for the victors while Golf Champion O'Hare's all around playing was conspicuous on the side of the vanquished.

In spite of the weather, the influenza and a certain amount of apathy on the part of the contributors, the Advanced Class Country Club Dance, on Friday last, was one of the most successful social events of the season. There was a large turnout and, if the difficulty which certain members of the class had in reading their maps on Saturday morning may be taken as a criterion, it was certainly a good party. When Captain Simmons put an observation post in a wooded valley you just know that it was a big night.

Speaking of successful social events, there is every reason to believe that the Washington Birthday costume dance will be a humdinger. The committee on arrangements hasn't overlooked a single bet. Instead of holding this—the big party of the year—on the night before the holiday, which might have resulted in some of the revelers sleeping until 9 o'clock on the following morning, they are holding it on the evening of the holiday so that the Student Officers can get up at 6 a. m., as usual, and enjoy the invigorating thrill of the morning catch-as-catch can game with the motor cop ambuscade. Moreover, we perceive evidence of hearty cooperation and coordination between the Hop Committee and the Academic Board. To have the castume party on the night before a big marked problem shows a degree of foresight that is quite rare even in hop committees.

In concluding our appreciation of this unique favor, we make haste to deny that the commitee is composed entirely of atheists and heretics. The fact that the dance is scheduled for Ash Wednesday, which is responsible for this rumor, is to us only added evidence that the committee thought of everything.

Major Stayer (addressing the class on the subject of influenza prevention): "If you feel epressed, report to me and I will excuse you from further duty."

Wisecracker Russell: "Does that apply after a marked problem in Supply?"

—E. F. H.

FROM AN OLD FRIEND

From the hills of Virginia comes a message from an old friend and former editor of the Infantry School News.

"Let me congratulate you on the good feature columns you are getting. Those make the officers laugh, and a laugh is the favorite drink of the student," writes Captain Eldridge Colby.

Captain Colby is stationed at Fort Hunt, Virginia, but is well known and has a host of friends in Fort Benning. While stationed at Fort Benning during 1925-26, he was editor of the Infantry School News, and was a big factor in the success of this popular service paper.

Moving forward with the other activities of Fort Benning, the News has surpassed all expectations. Since the first edition was published Sept. 1, 1922, the Infantry School News has grown from a circulation of two hundred copies each week to a full fledged sixteen-page edition that is sent to all parts of the United States each week, with a circulation list numbering approximately two thousand subscribers. Quite a few copies go to the Philippines, China, Hawaii, France, England and other foreign countries.

All officers who receive orders to attend the big Infantry School receive copies of the News months in advance of their arrival at Fort Benning.

YOUNG MUSICIAN PLEASES BENNING AUDIENCE

Theatergoers were highly pleased with the extra attraction offered at the Main Theater last Sunday evening by Russell V. Wall Jr. The youngster rendered several popular selections on the saxophone that highly pleased the large audience and the burst of applause at the end of each selection was ample proof that his initial appearance was a complete success.

Russell Jr. is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. R. V. Wall of Fort Benning. He is only nine years old and has only been taught to play the saxophone during the past year, but his playing is far advanced for one of his age.

The big saxophone was larger than the young musician but he seemed to play the big instrument with ease, in fact, the Saxie seemed to obey as though guided by a magic touch.

ARMY BAND PLEASES BENNING AUDIENCE

The famous U. S. Army Band was greeted at the Main Theater, Monday afternoon, by a packed house of the music lovers of Fort Benning. An added feature to the wonderful concert was the singing of Rep. C. A. Woodrum of Virginia, who appeared here as soloist with the United States Army Band. He responded to several encores and proved by his splendid baritone voice his right to be known as "the singing Congressman," with which sobriquet his fellow-congressmen have dubbed him.

Captain William J. Stannard, composer and leader of the United States Army Band, and Thomas F. Darcy, second leader, also won continued applause from the audience. The selections for the concert gave a variety of music wide enough to appeal to any taste. The audience, however, called for encores after each number, leaders, soloist and musicians graciously responded; and the program was strung out over a delightful hour and one-half of delightful music before members of the audience were ready to go home.

The following program was rendered by the United States Army Band at the concert given at the Main Theater last Monday afternoon: "Marche Slav," a selection the product of 1876, the year of the war between Turkey and Servia; "In a Persian Market," intermezzo-scene; solo for saxophone, "Llewellyn," played by E. H. Hostetter; variations on a Folk Melody; songs, by Congressman C. A. Woodrum of Virginia, "On the Road to Mandalay," "Allah," "Mammy's Song"; march, "Troph of Victory;" potpourri, Victory Herbert's selections; gems from South Africa, "Ay Ay Ay," "Son Lorenzo;" Xylophone solo, "Liebesfreude," by J. L. Young ;grand fantasia, "The Evolution of Dixie," "The Star Spangled Banner."

The large audience was highly pleased with the well balanced program perfectly executed by the famous United States Army Band.

Lovers of good band music sincerely hope this famous organization will again make a similar tour within the next year.

TANKERS INCREASE LEAD IN SALE U. S. MOTION PICTURE BOOKS

For many, many months, in fact for so long that we have forgotten to keep track of it, the Fifteenth Tank Battalion has been in the lead in the garrison in the sale of U. S. Army Motion Picture Books. For the month of January, not only did the Unit remain in first place, but increased its lead over the December showing by nearly one hundred points. The standing is based upon the authorized strength of the Units, and the Tankers stand out in front by a wide margin over every other unit in Fort Benning. It is worthy of notation that every company in the Battalion bought more books in January than they did in December. A Motion Picture Coupon Book is worth one dollar and fifty cents, and can be purchased for one dollar and twenty-five cents, and therefore it is easily visualized that there is a saving of twenty-five cents over the method of paying for the tickets one at a time with post exchange checks. A book contains ten ordinary fifteen cents admissions, but on Sunday and special occasions the entrnace fee is twenty-five cents, however that is immaterial, for there is a saving of twenty-five cents anyway. Not only are the Tankers movie fans, but they are evidently using the motion picture books, and saving themselves cold cash. Company "A" occupied first place in the Battalion for January.—Tank Weekly.

SAW DUST

(A. J. Nichols)

Every time we make a call on the 2nd Section we make a new discovery. The other morning we were in a reminiscent mood and dropped in to see "Bertie" MacMahon to talk over our boyhood days when we were students together. We had reviewed the year's work only as far as Rabbitt Fountain's Bayonet course, which "Bertie" failed miserably, when the Chief of the Section walked in and broke into our reverie. We had Snoopy, our faithful canine companion, with us. It seems that we didn't realize the possibilities of our little fo xterrior and friend. Colonel Bond told us that in Africa the fox terrior was used to hunt the giant Hippopotami (singular—hippopotamus). These little dogs start nipping and barking at the heels of one of these huge beasts and evenally get it to running. The chase keeps up until the hippopotamus finally drops dead from heart failure, frightened to death. This clears up a long debated question for us—the instinctive dislike Snoopy has for one of our neighbors. This paragraph is also the cause of our learning to spell hippopotamus to say nothing of learning the plural of this word.

"The love of praise, however concealed by art, Reigns more or less, and glows in every heart."

Someone once said that all mankind is, by nature, egotistical. This statement is only too true though the amount of egotism varies in each individual. When we search for the reason for this common trait in human beings, it is not difficult to find, and can be traced back to man's greatest heritage, his mother. The very excellent woman, who, upon the death of our mother in our infancy, took her place, has again demonstrated her faith in us and as a result the Infantry School News has a new subscriber. When she found out we were writing a column for this paper she wanted to receive it regularly. We wondered why it had never occurred to us to send it home before and also why more copies of the News are not finding their ways into the home towns of the residents of Fort Benning. It seems to us an excellent way of keeping those who are near and dear to us in touch with our daily life and gives them a picture of our surroundings and interests such as no other medium, not even the weekly letter, can.

It occasionally takes a long time to avenge an insult but very often time and patience will accomplish much more toward such an end than haste and violence. When we were a student one of our fellow classmates was Lieut. Raymond MacDonald. It seems that Mac in an unguarded moment volunteered to aid an instructor (Pat Leiber) by giving a fire order. For this heinous and unnatural crime Mac was properly brought to trial and found guilty. He was given the maximum sentence, that of being transferred to "B" Company. After a masterful plea by the accused, the reviewing authority, Capt. RAW Bierson, commanding Company "C", commuted Mac's sentence to "walk in the file closers for one month and to wear a straw hat to class for a like period." (This latter part of the sentence was carried out only until General Cocheu espied the hat). It seemed that "B" Company resented the original sentence of the court, although it was never carried out, and swore revenge. After a lapse of two years it is reported that Company "B" has fully avenged this insult upon its company pride with compound interest.

T. W.* has had the flu and by the time we fed the canary bird, gave the goldfish a bath, put Jack and Snoopy to bed, cleaned up after our new puppy, Jimmy, and put on, or removed four or five mustard plasters from T. W.* we are fairly well tired out. (Note: T. W.* is getting and is up and around. The first change for the better manifested itself in our being bawled out).

We have been a weekly subscriber to the Enquirer-Sun for three years and have faithfully looked on the advertising page every morning for our name, the appearance which would entitle us to a pass to the movies. This patience and perseverence have gone unrewarded. We remember in the old days when your name on this classified ad page meant two tickets to the movies but not long ago we suddenly realized that only one ticket was being given for this personal publicity. An extract from the rules say ". . . are entitled to one ticket and may get them (sic) by applying at the Grand office. . ."

Fruit cakes should be promptly sent to quarters 20-T-17 in order to be considered in the contest. It is believed that more entires should be received particularly when we consider there are some six hundred families eligible to enter this popular contest. Entrants last week were—Kitty Ballard, Helen Goode and Freda Tamraz.

The Personage of The Week

T. W.* who after deciding to enter our cake contest, changed her mind, thereby very probably saving our life.

DISTINGUISHED BRITISH OFFICER VISITS FT. BENNING

Colonel Pope-Hennessey British Military Attache Guest of Assistant Commandant

Colonel L. H. R. Pope-Hennessey, D. S. O. C. B., British military attache at Washington, arrived at Fort Benning Monday for a visit at The Infantry School. He is the guest of Col. G. C. Marshall, Jr., Asst. Commandant. During his visit here Colonel Hennessey is observing the various activities of the Infantry School.

Colonel Hennessey has been an officer for over thirty years and has seen considerable foreign service and has many decorations. His record of service is as follows:

Colonel Ladislaus Herbert Richard Pope-Hennessy, D. S. O., C. B.

Son of late Sir John Pope-Hennessey, K. C. M. G., M. P., of Rostellan Castle, Co. York, and Catherine, daughter of Sir Hugh Low, G. C. M. G.; married Dame Una, D. B. E., 1910; joined Oxford Light Infantry, 1895; West African frontier force, 1898-99; attached to King's African Rifles, 1899-1908; Commandant of 4th King's African Rifles, 1906; Staff Officer to I. G. K. A. Rifles, 1907-1908; Lt. Col. 2nd Batt. Oxford and Bucks Light Infantry, 1919-20; A. A. G. War Office, 1920-24; A. A. and Q. M. G. Company "F"

Private L. P. Cline has returned to full duty with the Company. Just another of love's young dreams shattered.

Pfc. W. C. Davis has declined a large offer for the Post Exchange and refuses to sell this place of business under any condition.

The Recreation Room is rapidly becoming more popular and justly so as it has been greatly improved in the last two months.

What's all this scandal about Mack McKay? There must be something to it—as his usual cheerful countenance is now pale and drawn with worry.

And speaking about absent-minded professors—how about the corporal who laid his cigarette on a rack and threw his rifle out of the window.

Corporal Graham was discharged Monday with all honors and immediately after the ceremony stepped into a large Cadillac and departed (like ———). The next on the waiting list to be discharged via the E. T. S. route is Sergeant Oscar W. Nelson.

—Kenneth Clark.

Prof: "Why were you absent from the last exercise?"

Coed: "Here's my medical excuse. I fell and bruised my thigh."

Prof. (absent-mindedly): "Don't show it to me now—come into my office and I will look at it."

ATLANTA Y. M. C. A. BOXING AND WRESTLING TEAMS TO MEET BENNING SAT. NIGHT

The Atlanta Y. M. C. A. wrestling and boxing teams will arrive in Fort Benning Saturday, where they meet the amateur leather pushers and grapplers of Fort Benning in eleven matches at the Post Gym, Saturday night.

The Atlanta Y. M. C. A. boast some of the best amateur fighters and wrestlers in the game. Their wrestling team is composed of the following men: R. A. Carden, 118 lbs.; Teo Abbey, 124 lbs.; George Tatum, 135 lbs.; Jim Botsaris, 144 lbs.; "Wes" Brownlee, 142 lbs.; Whitie Craig, 156 lbs., and Austin Waters, 175 lbs.

This team will be opposed by Norton, Alexander, Lt. Wayne Smith, Bussey, Vonetta, Elkins, Payne and Poisso of Fort Benning. There will be seven wrestling bouts on the card.

The Y. M. C. A. fighters are Barney Manning, lightweight; George Carroll, welterweight; W. K. Jones, middleweight, and Mike Lewis, featherweight.

These men will be opposed by Phillips, Peters, Parker and Meyers. There will be four boxing bouts, which will be held under amateur rules.

The bouts will begin promptly at 7:30 Saturday night, February 25th, and will be held in the Garrison gymnasium.

BATTERIES FOR INF. SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM SHOW GOOD FORM IN PRACTICE

The past few days have ben busy ones for twirlers and receivers who are trying out for a regular berth with the Infantry School baseball team.

The Dughboy twirling staff this year should be one of the best ever seen here, Roosma, Newman, Lindsey, McGaha and "Wee" Grady Tolle have reported for practice, several new men are showing promise of being marked on the regular list, Ward and Ellis showing exceptionally good form.

Mick McCarthy, Astynax Douglas and Tommie Thompson are capable of taking care of the receiving end on anybody's club. The result is that Captain McCord is wearing a satisfied smile, for with the present bunch of material to pick a battery staff from, most any manager would smile.

Although regular practice has not began, there is no doubt that the outfield will be well taken care of this season. Kelly will look after all things that happen in left field, center field will be a restricted area to all flies, as Smythe will patrol this beat. Right field is going to be a toss up between several boys that certainly are going to make the man that lands this position hurry up.

With "Red" Reeder showing Mr. McGraw that he is capable of looking after the initial sack for the Giants, first base is a spot that will have to be filled. Shotgun White and Roundboy Franz will be a hard combination to beat at second and short, if Pop Heckert can get the ole wing in shape we won't worry about the hot corner, he was bothere with a bum arm last season but here is hoping that the old war horse is able to whip the old pellet again this season.

LANIER HIGH CAGESTERS PLAY SECOND BATTALION SATURDAY AFTERNOON AT GARRISON GYM

The Lanier High basketball team will journey over from Macon, Ga., for a game with Johnny Roosma's Cagemen rom the 29th Infantry.

Smarting under the sting of the defeat handed them by the Central City lads last season, the Second Bats are out to reap revenge in large quantities. Johnny Roosma will lead the Demonstrationist attack and there is no doubt that there will be action galore during the four periods.

Lanier High School has one of the strongest high school fives in the state and they are going to put up quite an argument before the end of Saturday evening's fracas.

The Lanier team is coached by ex-Sergt. Selby Buck, who at one time was a member of the I: S. D. here, he was well known in Army athletic circles and his many friends here will be glad to know that he has "Made Good."

The game will start at 1:30 P. M. Saturday afternoon at the Garrison Gymnasium.

DOUGHBOYS FROM FIRST BATS WIN OPENING GAME INTER-MURAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE AT FORT BENNING

The Greencord cagemen from the Infantry School Detachment were unable to check the advance of the Doughboy five from the 29th Infantry, the final score being 30-22 in favor of the First Bats.

The game was fast and well played, both teams played a good brand of basketball and the contest was a highly interesting affair from start to finish.

"Wee" Grady Tolle was the outstanding star of the game, accounting for fifteen of the Detachmenteer points, and also being high score man of the game. The Doughboys showed no individual star but their perfect teamwork was the main factor in bringing them the victory.

Both teams were ably supported by the sidelines, and the members of the organizations are showing an unusual amount of interest in the cage game this season.

Line-up and summary:

First Bats—Hamscher (4), r. f.; Vevelin, E. W. (6), l. f.; Hudgins (9), c.; Bevelin, E. O. (9), r. g.; Johnosn (2), l. g.

I. S. D.—Cleavland (5), r. f.; Tolle (15), l. f.; Isham (2), c.; Morris, r. g.; Douglas, l. g.

Substitutions (First Bats) Sargent, Brown, Reddock; (I. S. D.) Phister, Patrick.

"BUT SO DECEIVING"

A little girl of five was entertaining the callers while her mother was getting ready. One of the ladies remarked to the other with a significant look, "Not very p-re-t-t-y," spelling the last word.

"No," said the child quickly, "but awfully s-m-a-r-t."

Hdqrs. and Combat Train

Corporal Cole has returned from his 60-day reenlistment furlough to the great joy of the fair sex around Martin's Theater. Beanpole says that new brand of shuff he brought back from the Carolinas sure is the thing to make those dames appreciate a good man. On his return, he became Stable Corporal, and all he has to do now is to stand around and give the boys proper instructions on how to become perfect pilots. He knows how.

Pvt. Breck and Sgt. Rowland were discharged. Breck says he don't and Rowland says he doesn't know, which means that Brock will not reenlist and Rowland will. Well, Barney, get all set to make out that old six-bits paper and how soon con you get it.

Sgt. Eskeridge was discharged and is now enjoying all he could get—60 days and six-bits.

Douglas' promotion to Corporal was heralded with great joy by those who smoke cigarettes regularly. He may have some now that he draws more money. It has been said that if Doug was ever caught with a full pack they would be taken away from him and distributed back to him one at a time, so that they would last longer.

Our radio school mourns the loss of one of its best pupils, Pvt. Lehman, who is being discharged for being too young and unsophisticated for this man's army. His natural intelligence will not let him believe that Alligator pairs aren't twins. His "take off" in equitation will be missed, however. No one else can ever flop his arms like Lehman on horse-back. He pulled a "Lindbergh" every time he rode.

The demonstration this week has kept us unusually busy, but we are equal to them all, be they little ones or big ones, short ones or long ones, we can handle them all.

The required energy to say something has become too great for Arnold. Now, he either makes signs o rdoesn't talk.

Rowland told the Captain he wouldn't reenlist if they assigned his horse to anyone else. It's the only horse who understands him properly. One of those old two-door mdels. You can mount him from either side and he hasn't enough life to know the difference.

Ed Roper's fish concession on front street is doing a rushing business. Ed says that if it keeps doing business in that way, it won't be long before he will soon become a big fish and lobster man.

The Combat Basketeers are eager for the fray on Wednesday when they play their first game of the season. Team work is our motto and we need that cup to hang up along side the one we won last year.

—D. P. LaPINE.

Battery "B"

Several men of the Battery are still in the hospital with the flu, which leaves of course plenty of work for the remainder of the Battery. We are still carrying on however under this handicap and the officers of the Infantry School don't have to look for our insignit to tell that it is the Eighty-Third when we are bursting targets on the range.

We welcome Sergeant Kersey back to the Battery this morning. He has been away on a forty-five day furlough. Just how did you manage to stay away so long? We have missed you "Ol Scout."

Private Hughes reports that he has found the Queen of Sheba, somewhere in Columbus of course.

Corporal Wargo was discharged Saturday per Expiration Term of Service and left for his home in Pennsylvania, "but they all come back for more."

We all wonder when Private Silgot will lose his enthusiasm for demonstrations and the like and go back to the Battery Garden and start some watermelons and tomatoes growing.

Private Barnes is being discharged this week per Purchase. We are not surprised however, as it is nature for boys to go astray, and we are all looking forward to the return of the Prodigal Son.

Private Boatman says he is looking forward to spring time when demonstrations will be over, when he won't even have to carry coal or build fires, then he says he is going to ask the First Sergeant to put him on some kind of special duty where they don't begin work 'till twelve, take an hour off for lunch and quit at one. We can't imagine what his intentions are, unless he is bucking for supply sergeancy.

—J. R. M.

Battery "C"

We regret to announce the fact that our correspondent of the Infantry School News is in the hospital but will make an attempt to keep his good work going.

It is reported around the Battery that Oh Dear Moore intends to purchase a discharge. Oh Dear you had better stay with a good thing while you have it.

It is with regret that we announce the serious illness of the child of our esteemed Personnel Sgt. The entire Battery wishes your child a speedy recovery, Sgt. Crandell.

This is an unofficial notice to Baby Face Johnson that he had either better stop drilling recruits or leave off going to town. A man just can't do both Cpl. Johnson.

"C" Battery is expecting great things from its basketball team. Disappointment is not probable as the team is certainly progressing under their most worthy coach and Captain, Lt. Strohbehn and Cpl. Hancock respectively.

If grape fruit will prevent flu as Sgt. Grider stated Cpls. Hancock and Knox certainly have no cause for worry.

The Bn. boxing squad wishes to express along with the entire Battery their deepest regrets of the illness of Lt. Reichle and all hope that he will soon be able to return to dut yand boxing instructions.

We learn with regret that Lt. Hurt was injured by a horse and trust that the injury is not serious.

All soldiers are glad to see February. It is the only month in the year that the soldier is able to cheat the government out of a day's pay.

Gunners Instructions are sure taking up all the time of "C" Battery. Its worse than the flu. Even the pool sharks have it. If you ask a man to play a game of pool they reply "Gotta study gunners examination." That don't sound goes it Dean.

Battery "A"

Pvts. Boling and Crisamore have reported for duty after spending a 15-day furlough each at their homes in Alabama.

Sergeant Brown was accidently injured while out on the range Mnoday, Feb. 20th, evidently someone threw a blank 30-30 caliber cartridge in the fire which caused Sergeant Brown's injuries, one piece hit his leg just above the knee, and another piece hit his wrist, the injuries are not very serious, he is able to be doing light duty. We all wish for his rapid mend. Pvt. Hegan also was hit by one piece o fthe cartridge on the chin, this not being very serious as he's O. K. today.

SERGT. LOGAN DUFF
Infantry School Detachment

Baseball time is just around the corner, already the plunk and smack of ball in mit sounds daily back of the Post Gym as Capt. McCord puts the candidates who are trying for a battery position on the Infantry School team, through their paces.

Baseball is beyond doubt the leading national pastime, it is a game that is loved by old and young, a pleasure to players and spectators, and although the taint of scandal has touched it on several occasion, it is still by far the cleanest and squarest game played.

Sergt. Logan Duff of the Infantry School Detachment is one of the most widely known enlisted men in Army baseball, for twenty-eight seasons he has toed the slab as a member of one of the Army's baseball teams.

His records over this period show that he has taken part in over four hundred baseball games, if figured out and correct records be found of each game pitched by him, the winning column total would far exceed that of the lost column.

Today he can slip one down the alley with a zip on it, or send up a curve that will break with a canniness that is almost human. Murmurs of admiration can be heard in the stands when this veteran of many battles out-guesses one of the star batters of the opposition, causing him to whiff on a slow breaking curve, or a bullet shot over the heart of the plate.

And Sergt. Duff will be out there this season when the Inter-Mural opens, the same Logan Duff, that stood them on their ears twenty-seven years ago, he will be out there when the umpire says "Play Ball" and he will be the same as ever only the men that he stands on their ears this season will not be the boys that faced him twenty-seven years ago.

"Are you a college girls?"
"No, I am smoking for my health."

MONOGRAPHS

The monographs given by the officers still continues to be an interesting feature at this season. Capt. E. L. Lyons covered the Battle of Buena Vista of the Mexican War. Gen. Taylor's operations during this campaign were graphically described as were those of the Mexican commnaders.

Capt. R. M. Winfield gave a very interesting account of General Scott's march from Vera Cruz and his subsequent capture of Mexico City. Capt. Winfield had prepared a number of excellent maps by which he was enabled to show with great clarity the successive steps of this amazing penetration into a foreign land. Not only was the subject of this monograph extremely interesting, but Capt. Winfield's preparation and handling of this important subject were excellent.

The third monograph was this series was given by Capt. G. O. A. Daugherty on the subject of the "Battle of Chancellorsville." "Fighting Joe Hooker's" failure to seize the advantages which he possessed on a number of occasions during this battle were clearly brought out by Capt. Daughtry. Following this lecture, Col. Johnson, who has made a careful study of this battle, pointed out the principles of war that were violated by both commanders.

Service Company

The Valentine smoker of the company was a big success. They lived up to their motto: "The Happiest, Snappiest Bunch of Congenial Soldiers of Fort Benning." Sgt. Hairstrom, the mess sergeant and his able assistants served a luncheon fit for Ole King Cole. The teamwork of the K. P. force was very commendable. Private U. Williams proved himself to be a chairman of no mean ability and hnadled his men in a very efficient manner. Excellent music was furnished by Sgt. Scipio's Serenaders. The universal verdict was that this was one of the most successful parties given by the company during the season.

Private Clarence Moore, clipper for the stables, has been trying to start a sewing club for fatigue clothing. All applicants will leave their names with Bradley.

Hdqrs. Company

Sergeant Claude A. Stevenson is acting 1st Sgt. for a few days. 1st William J. Miller is away on account of the illness of Mrs. Miller. Mrs. Miller has the influenza.

The dance that was to be given by the company has been called off, due to the epidemic of influenza.

Private William E. Branch is being discharged today. He is getting out on dependency. The home of Private Branch is in New Haven, Conn.

Everybody was carried away by the program rendered by the Army Band. The solo saxophone player and the xylophone player gave the biggest thrill of the evening.

Private Henry Harvill is in the hospital. He is suffering from an accidental blow in the left eye.

Several members of the company are contemplating attending the recital given by Gene Austin. —J. S.

FEDERAL CLOTHING STORE HAS NEW MANAGER

C. C. Chapman, the newly appointed manager of the Federal Clothing Store, 1143 Broadway, hails Columbus from Fort Worth, Texas. Mr. Chapman has been connected with this organization for the past seven years. Before coming to Columbus, making a special trip to New York, to assist in buying the new spring merchandise for the Fort Benning and Columbus trade.

Mr. Chapman has handled very successfully business from other Forts in various parts of the country, and he feels sure that he will be able to furnish the required needs of Fort Benning and will be glad to have the opportunity of serving them.

The new manager of the Federal Clothing Store is very much enthused over the progress and advantage which Fort Benning has, over other Forts he has had the pleasure of doing business with.

The manager wishes to extend a welcome to all at the Fort to make the Federal Clothing Store their headquarters for courtesies and conveniences, as well as service.

DAVIS-PEACOCK MOTOR CO.

Chas. H. Davis, local Oakland-Pontiac dealer, has returned from Atlanta where he attended a dealer meeting conducted by executives of the Oakland Motor Car Company who outlind plans for the greatest year in the company's history.

The group of factory officials was headed by President W. R. Tracy, vice-president, in charge of sales who stated that tentative plans of the company call for the sale of 270,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes during 1928 against a total of 191,000 in 1927.

"The Oakland Motor Car Company jumped from ninth place in total sales during 1926 to fifth place last year," said Mr. Davis. "A tremendous plant expansion providing larger manufacturing facilities for both the Pontiac Six and the Oakland All-American Six, coupled with an equally great increase in the sixe of the Oakland-Pontiac dealer organization have combined to place the company in a position where it expects to gain an even higher rating during 1928.

Mr. Davis was accompanied by George Clark who is one of the salesmen of the Davis Peacock Co.

He: "If I had known the tunnel was so long I would have kissed you."
She: "Seavens; wasn't that you?"

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the News we stated that the Louvre Booterie would open about March 1st, which should have read the Louvre Booterie and Photomaton Picture Gallery will open for business Saturday, February 18th.

The Photomaton Automatic Camera Corporation which is headed by Major General Robert C. Davis, the former Adjutant General of the U. S. A. This machine is the first to be placed in operation in this section of the country. Its work is automatic throughout. The inventor, Anatol Josepho, recently received a million dollars for his invention.

See ad in this issue. For further investigation this wonderful invention can be seen in operation at 1127 Broad Street, Columbus, Georgia.

COMPANY C, COMPANY OFFICERS COURSE

The personality of the week is ONE ROUND MORROW. He fired the shot heard half way round the world. He pressed the trigger and, plunket, the fatal shot was fired.

The following vacancies have been announced. Those desiring any of these details will so indicate. Recommendations of officers qualified for any of these positions will also be received:

P. M. S. and T. Moeller's Barber College.

Supply Officer, Keeley Institute.

Instructor, Contemporary Military History, Arlington.

Instructor, Oral Monographs, Deaf and Dumb Institute.

Plans and Training, St. Elizabeths.

Behold, the Old Order Changeth. In the days of our youth—that is, the gay nineties—it was sometimes the custom for little boys to send comic valentines to their most dearly loved teachers, if any. But now it would appear (we have been away from the musty academic atmosphere many years) that the custom is reversed. Last week we received the following extraordinary valentine from one of our dear professors:

Ode To a Colyumist
Dumbell

A wooden dumbbell has you beat
When all is said and done,
The dumbbell has two wooden heads
While you have only one.

Dear Jack: Please don't think so hard of the human race. I forgot all about your old eyeshade. But here is what I will do. Fifteen cents at ten per cent compound interest for ten years is $0.4041. However you said it was only the principle that you were interested in, while I care nothing for the principle but have interest in both the principal and interest. Now if you will meet me at the club I will buy you a twenty-cent drink and myself a twenty-cent drink.

SPECIAL UNITS ARE SWAMPED BY SECOND BATTALION 64 TO 14

Playing a game that left the "Spare Parts" dazed and helpless, the Second Bats ran away with Tuesday night's cage contest at the Gym by the one-sided score of 64 to 16.

The "Kels" have the strongest team to show in the Intra-Mural this season and if the "Ole Bucket" don't get kicked over, they are going to carry home the bunting.

The Kelly-Franz combine was working perfectly, while it was easy to see that Lt. Roosma has been learning the Second Bats the art of looping baskets, several of the players sinking them in approved Roosma style.

A yung fellow named Stamper was the outstanding star of the game, he was also high point man of the game.

THE TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY

"We Lead the Way" Organization Observes Anniversary in Appropriate Ceremonies Tomorrow; Demonstration Outfit Created at Fort Sheridan, Illinois

Tomorrow, March 3rd, 1928, the only war strength infantry unit of the service will observe its twenty-eighth anniversary with appropriate ceremonies in which every officer and enlisted man of the regiment will participate. The authority for the formation of this splendid infantry unit was set in General Order No. 9, War Department, dated February 2, 1901. This date, then, is the official birthday of the regiment. However, the actual organization and bringing together the personnel to form the unit did not take place until March 3, 1901, which has been considered the real birth of the regiment. The formation of the regiment took place at Fort Sherian, Ildlinois, a beautiful army post twenty miles north of Chicago.

It is not generally known that there has been another infantry regiment designated as the "29th Infantry." This regiment fought through the War of 1812 against the invading English forces. After that war, as was the case at the close of the World War, several regiments were placed on the inactive list. This happened to the 29th Infantry, the personnel of which were transferred to the 6th Infantry.

During the Civil War, the 29th Infantry was again organized and had a very impressive record of service. At the close of this war the regiment was again demobilized and the personnel were transferred to the 11th Infantry.

Spirit of Early Regiments

One can hardly imagine the spirit which dominated the early 29th Infantry regiments, but from the brief history of their records one can readily imagine the splendid spirit which prevailed in the organizations during those pioneer days of war for independence and the struggle between the states. These organizations were really forefathers of the present 29th Infantry, the records of achievement have become instilled into the present regiment. Unfortunately the War Department does not permit official credit for the deeds of the old 29th Infantry regiments, which helped so materially to make the history of our country. However, the regiment of today may claim relationship and point with pride to the "Old Twenty-ninth."

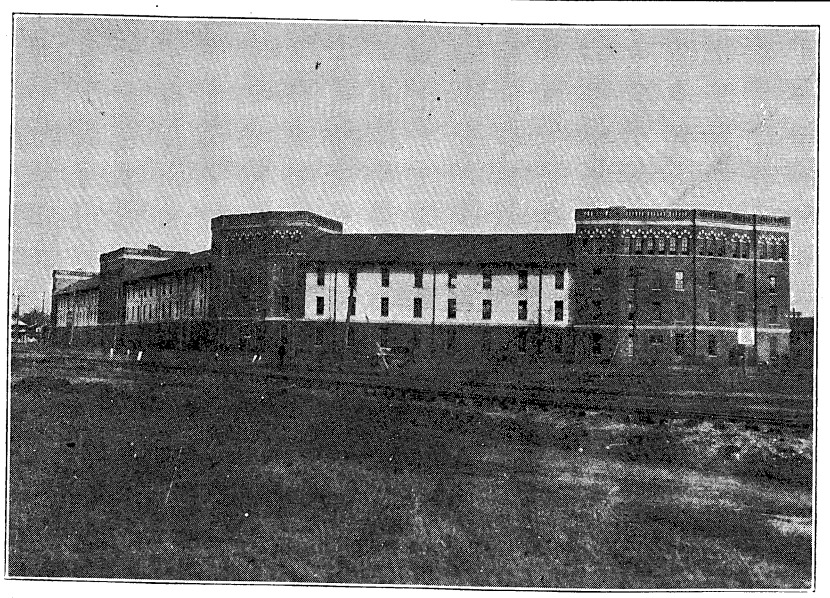
Colonel W. M. Vanborn, was the first regimental commander. During the year 1901, the regiment was stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Columbus Barracks, Ohio. Only routine duties were performed during this period.

In February, 1902, the regiment left its station at Fort Sheridan and Columbus Barracks to go to the Philippines, traveling to San Francisco by train, and there embarked on the Army transport "Sheridan" sailing from that port April 1, 1902. Exactly one month later the transport docked at Manila, where the regiment was sent to the islands of Cebu, Panav and Negros. Most of the fighting to conquer the Philippines was over but a great deal of vicious work remained to be done in stopping the native Chieftians from carrying on piratical expeditions and danditry.

Companies "E", "G" and "H" were the most active in these campaigns against the outlaws. The famous bandit leader, Adriano Conception, was subdued and captured by Company "E" during 1903.

When the regiment returned to the United States in 1904, it was stationed at Whipple Barracks, Arizona, Fort Douglas, Utah, and Fort Du-Chesne, with headquarters at Fort Douglas.

Nothing of importance took place during the next three years. In 1907, the regiment was again ordered to the Philippines, sailing from San Francisco on the army transport "Logan." Upon arrival in Manila in September, 1907, it took station in the new post Fort Wm. McKinley, about twelve miles up the Pasig river from Manila. This post is very beautiful and considered a very desirable station.



A partial view of New Barracks of the 29th Infantry

During this tour there was no fighting for the 29th, so after a peaceful sojourn it again returned to the United States in 1909, occupying Fort Jay Fort Porter and Fort Niagara, all in the state of New York with headquarters at Fort Jay.

After five years in New York State, the regiment in 1914, was ordered to Panama for duty in the Canal Zone. There it had the opportunity to see the great canal, to meet the new people of another land. The quarters at Camp Gailliard were greatly improved by the 29th and a most enjoyable three years were spent there.

During the period of the World War, until 1918, the regiment with other American forces in the Canal Zone, performed very arduous and important duty of the guarding of the great canal, constantly.

In 1918, the regiment was ordered to Camp Beauregard, La. Here the 29th Infantry was split to form the 84th Infantry and was made a part of the 17th Division. All this took place in the fall of 1918.

The outbreak of the flue epidemic caused so many deaths that the regiments departure for France was delayed, with the result that the 29th failed to get a chance to take part in the big struggle in Europe.

In March, 1919, it moved to Camp Shelby, Miss., where it assisted in the large task of demolishing the returned units from France. Upon completion of this work the regiment was moved to Fort Benning, Ga., October, 1919, where the Infantry School was being founded. A great part was taken in perfection of the project, and today the 29th Infantry is the most important single factor in the Infantry School.

To say that the 29th Infantry is the demonstration regiment for the Infantry School means little to those not familier with the latter institution. However it really means quite a lot, for the entire scheme of the teaching of the student officers is based on the idea that any one can learn much easier and much more if he is actually shown a complete picture of the matter being presented. For instance no one would understnad how to do "squads right" from a five minutes lecture, but a five-minute period given to watching the men perform the movement correctly while the instructor explains the details, would enable anyone to understand the subject.

The founders of the Infantry School favored this procedure very strongly. They knew there must be a highly trained regiment available at all times to demonstrate under conditions as realistic as possible, the correct manner of executing all those things taught in the school. Accordingly, the 29th Infantry was ordered to Ft. Benning as soon as it was decided to organize an Infantry School.

During the past several years the demonstration work of the 29th Infantry has assumed increased proportions. Naturally, in order to demonstrate correctly many rehearsals are required during which the men of the 29th absorbed the ideas of the Infantry School instructors, so that when called upon to show the student officers how it is actually done, they can perform in a satisfactory manner. Accordingly, much time is devoted entirely to this work.

Demonstration Work

To give an idea of the many demonstrations the 29th Infantry is called to give, the following examples are given: a close order platoon, to demonstrate the correct manner of executing all movements in close order, and to furnish the students with an idea as to what a well drilled platoon is like; an extended order platoon, to accomplish the same ideas in connection with that form of drills: a musketry platoon, to demonstrate the application of the many principles of musketry; a scouting and patrolling platoon, which demonstrates the niceties of these very important and highly technical subjects; a minor tactics platoon which demonstrates the action of a squad, section and platoon in all phases of combat. Similarly there are demonstrations by rifle companies, machine gun companies, headquarters companies, the howitzer company, the service company and by full war strength battalions not only in every phase of attack and defense and other field duties but also in organization, drill, ceremonies, transportation, the technique of infantry weapons, etc.

In this connection it might be well to emphasize the fact that the 29th Infantry is a war strength outfit. During peace, all organizations in the army are cut to less than half strength, which is called "peace strength." However, the 29th Infantry by reason of its peculiar and responsible position at the Infantry School is authorized to maintain its full war-strength even in times of peace. Accordingly, even though the third battalion is inactive, the authorized strength of the 29th Infantry is 64 officers and 2,133 enlisted men, while that of other complete regiments on a peace footing is practically one-half of this number.

Of course the reason for the 29th Inf. being at war strength is to enable it to properly demonstrate to the students what their outfits would be in time of war and how they should be instructed to lead. It is this idea which is foremost in all of the demonstration work which the regiment does and thus a picture of a war strength unit remains with the student officer.

The student officers come to the Infantry School from all over the country; the 29th Infantry shows them how it should be done, and they return to their stations to pass on there the information they have received. As practically all new ideas are given out to the Infantry in this manner, one sees that the 29th Infantry is really in the most responsible position imaginable.

Regimental Athletics

The 29th Infantry has always been noted for its interest in athletics. Its team in different branches of athletics have continually demonstrated their superiority over other organizations. In addition the Infantry School Varsity teams culd have never won such distinction in athletics without the representatives of the 29th Infantry. Consider for instance the past football season. The names of Kelly, Franz, Berrish, Reeder and Thompson were to be found in the Blue Tide lineup during the past season.

The Infantry School Baseball team would be incomplete without Franz, Roosma, Newman, Kjelstrom, Reeder and Thompson. The Infantry School Basketball Five which has been picked by some of the leading critics as the strongest five in the South, owes its success to Roosma, Franz and Kamerer of the Demonstrationist Regiment.

There is no doubt that the 29th can boast of one of the classiest crop of army fighters in the ring today. Most notable of these is Sergt. Gunner DePratt who is the undisputed midleweight champion of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps; "Red" Keenan bantamweight king of the 4th Corps Area, and a rightful claimant of the All-Army title as he has never been defeated by an army fighter and holds wins over some of the best professional bantams in the South.

Under the capable instruction of Capt. Charles Mabbutt, several youngsters show promise of going to the top in the fight game, Young Pieters, lightweight champion of Ft. Benning, "Baby" Asher featherweight and "Kid" Brault who promise to be a second Keenan in the bantam class.

The 29th Infantry clearly proves in every way that THE ARMY BUILDS MEN.

LIEUT.-COL. C. E. DELAPLANE

29th Infantry Commander rose from ranks

The subject of this sketch needs no introduction to Fort Benningites as he has been a familiar figure at the Infantry School for the past three years. He is now the commanding officer of the demonstration regiment.

Colonel Delaplane first took to things military when, back in '98, he answered President McKinley's call to the colors for the Spanish-American War. He elected to serve in the Signal Corps in that struggle serving as private first class, sergeant, and sergeant first class during the duration of that war. After the termination of hostilities Col. (then Sgt.) Delaplane enlisted in the regular army on April 29, 1899, and served until July 8, 1901, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry. He was assigned to the 26th Infantry and later to the 11th Infantry. For a period of fourteen years his service was with these regiments, the 26th from 1902 to 1911; with the 11th from 1911 to 1916. During the latter year he served on the Texas border with the 11th Infantry. Soon afterwards he was sent to the Machine Gun School at Fort Sill, Okla.

With 35th Division

At the outbreak of the World War he was assigned to the 35th Division as Ordnance Officer, went to France with this division and later commanded the 140th Infantry. At this time he was promoted to the grade of lieutenant-colonel. He is a graduate of the following service schools: Infantry School Advanced Course, 1923; Command and General Staff School, 1924. Colonel Delaplane took command of the demonstration regiment last summer upon the departure of Colonel J. B. Gowen, who was then in command. Prior to that time he was on duty with the Infantry School, First Section.

Among the officers and enlisted men of the regiment he is very popular. He realizes that "All Work and No Play Makes Jack a Dull Boy," so gives a great deal of thought to the recreation of the regiment. Athletics in this regiment during the past year have been highly successful, and Colonel Delaplane hsa taken a great interest in athletic matters pertaining to the regiment.

29TH INF.

Hdqrs. 2nd Battalion

Tuesday, February 21st, the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, basketball team had their first game in the Post League. It was played in the Post Gym with the Special Units, 29th Infantry. The Second Battalion won by the score of 64 to 14. Stampe rof the 2nd Bn. was the high goal man of the game. The 2nd Bn. ran in many substitutes and each combination was able to pile the score up higher.

Thursday afternoon, Feb. 23rd, "F" Company played Reg. Hq. Co., as the first game to decide the Regimental Champions, the game ended with "E" Co. 65 and Reg. Hq. Co. 10. Stamper of "E" Co. was the high goal man of the game in which all the "E" Co. men got their share of baskets.

Next Monday afternoon, Feb. 2t7h, at "E" Co. will play "B" Co. for the Regimental Championship.

Company "F"

In reviewing the history of Co. "F" during the past year, it is found that this organization has an athletic record unparalleled throughout the Regiment. Championhsips in swimming, track and football are conclusive proofs of the prowess of the athletic teams of "F" Co. Of course we grabbed off a few more high places—such as on the Bayonet Course and Small Bore Firing, etc. We are good—we'll admit it.

The pumpkin crop having failed this year, Dewey H. Lane, an ex-Corporal of this organization has taken on another stack after a short absence. He is welcomed as all good soldiers are.

Among other notables, Co. "F" has three members of that dare-devil sect-motorcyclists, viz. Sgt. Carlin, Cpl. Cheslock, and Bugler Wilson. These creatures may be found, when not otherwise engaged, at the cycledrome so kindly provided by M. D. Morgan Co.

Famous sayings:

"And what is so rare as a steak at noon?" by Cpl. Gasser (Actg. Mess Sgt.)

"VERY CONFIDENTIAL," starring Madge Bellamy in a sparkling comedy drama. The story is based upon the hectic experience sof a sales girl in a sporting goods store who sets her heart upon capturing a stalwart football hero. She is kept busy inventing new excuses to keep in his good graces and therein lies the foundation for the fun. She starts posing as a big game hunter and finishes by doing an amazing stunt that would do credit to the world's champion automobile racer.

SATURDAY, MAR. 3

"THE SLINGSHOT KID," featuring Buzz Barton with Jeanne Morgan. Buzz is the talented thirteen-year-old F. B. O. western star who holds the ditsinction of being the youngest western star ever appearing on the screen. The picture itself presents some entirely new ideas in westerns, such as the ghost sequence in the deserted town which both carries the story forward and provides excellent comedy without resorting to slapstick so apparent in many westerns.

"Catalina Here I Come." Sennett Comedy.

SUNDAY, MAR. 4

"DRESS PARADE," starring William Boyd with Bessie Love and backed by a strong cast. This is truly a West Point picture, the theme being based upon events happening at the U. S. Military Academy. The story was written by two West Point graduates, Major Alexander Chilton and Major Robert Classborn. It tells of a racing athlete who falls in love with the daughter of the Commandant of the Academy and through political influence obtains on appointment to the institution. Here he runs foul of a rival and after a fight, the new cadet finds himself in difficulties. He saves the life of his rival during a sham battle and is about to quit the school when he makes a remarkable discovery. There are many thrills in unfolding the theme—it is a picture which should be seen by every one in the United States Army.

"Outwitting Time." Sport.

"Paramount News No. 60."

MONDAY, MAR. 5

"SORREL AND SON," featuring H. B. Warner, Anna Q. Nilsson and Alice Joyce in a brilliant drama of a half dozen individual romances against a high society background. The father; silk hatted, pathetically genteel, penniless and humiliated by the desertion of his wife. The mother of Sorrel's son; highly colored and beautifully formed, possessed a mixture of passion and shrewd, worldwise contriving, her beauty charmed, as her faithlessness repelled. The mistress of the Anchor Hotel was tigress—she made it a hell on earth for Stephen Sorrell. The housekeeper of the Pelican Inn was a kindly soul who toiled. The son of Stephen Sorrell was a big blundering, restless male who steered a stormented course among the younger generation. The girl he loved was a wild young goist reared to gratify every whim—she was beautiful but undisciplined. You'll like this play.

TUESDAY, MAR. 6

"FEEL MY PULSE," starring Bebe Daniels with Richard Arleen in a story of fast action, funny situations and many thrills. Bebe gets so embroiled in the affairs of the bootleggers and involved in such dangers that she forgets all about being unhealthy; she subdues the leader of the gang with a piece of cleve strategy. Cans of chloroform and adhesive tape figure prominently in the gag. This effervescent play is a sure cure, as a prescription, for that down-in-the-mouth grouchy feeling. See it.

"Sugar Daddies." All star cast.

WEDNESDAY, MAR. 7

"TILLIES PUNCTURED ROMANCE," starring Chester Conklin, W. C. Fields and Louise Fazenda, a supreme cast of wits. It is comedy from start to finish—a story of army and tent life.

Their experiences in the service is a circus in itself and their pranks under the canvas will set you "ringing" with laughter. You will thoroughly enjoy this fast farce of a funny female and a mirthful male.

"Paramount News No. 61."

THURSDAY, MAR. 8

"LES MISERABLES," from Victor Hugo's immortal story of the French Revolution. This stupendous picture is a French production. Its cast is all star, such celebrated actors as M. Gabriel Gabrio and M. Jean Toulout are included—they are among the most renowned of the French legitimate stage. Many of the scenes were actually taken in French towns where events described in the book occurred. The affecting sequences in the old Toulon prison are deeply moving and real, having been taken on the site of the prison—the convicts acting as extras. Of course the picture presents a sordid side of life, being a history of the most trying period in France. In addition to being keenly interest-absorbing in itself, this film is also educational because of its historical value. Those who have read the book will not miss the picture—those who have not read it can't afford to miss the story.

FRIDAY, MAR. 9

"DOOMSDAY," starring Florence Vidor and Gary Cooper in a gripping-pulsating story from the novel by Warwick Deeping. Cooper plays the part of a hard working farmer who is madly in love with a woman who is so tired of drudgery that she sacrifices her love to obtain ease and luxury—she leaves the husband she loves, then finds that the life of luxury lacks those elements of real happiness which are enjoyed only by those whose hearts are in sympathy.

"Ant Life as it Isnt." Fables.

WASHINGTON DINNER-DANCE BRILLIANT AFFAIR

The Washington's Birthday dinner dance and costume ball was one of the most brilliant affairs of the year. Colorful and charming were the costumes and practically every country whose dress is individual was represented. The prize for the best ladies' costume was won by Mrs. Samuel L. Dunlop who wore a De Medeci period costume. Capt. Paul R. Goode as a Shiek won the gentlemen's prize, Capt. Emons Whisner as a tramp won the prize for the funniest (and well he deserved it!) and Lt. and Mrs. Joseph C. Kovarik, dressed in the gorgeous native costumes of Czecho-Slovakia won for the best couple. Of outstanding interest were the "Drummers of Oude," Capt. Stanley M. Saulnier and Capt. William A. Collier who with Miss Bissell, as a Highland Lass, led the Grand March.

There were many lovely dinner parties both at home and at Biglerville before this ball. Among those entertaining were Lt. and Mrs. Charles Carlton, Lt. and Mrs. John Rodgers, Major and Mrs. Daniel L. Torrey, Capt. and Mrs. William A. Collier, Lt. and Mrs. John Murphy, Capt. and Mrs. S. F. Clark, Maj. and Mrs. A. S. Peake, Capt. and Mrs. A. L. Littell, Capt. and Mrs. Leon Norris.

Lt. and Mrs. Keith K. Tatom left March 1 for a month's leave to be spent in Florida and the West Indies

Capt. S. L. Dunlop spent several days this week refereeing the basketball tournament in Macon. Mrs. Dunlop joined him on Tuesday for a few days in "The Central City."

Capt. and Mrs. John E. Dahlquist entertained informally at dinner on Saturday in honor of General and Mrs. James McRae who are the guests of their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. L. C. Beebe.

Miss Katherine McDermott of Louisville, Ky., is being charmingly entertained as the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Mark Doty at their home on Upper Second Ave.

On March 2nd, Maj. and Mrs. E. E. Lewis will entertain at dinner before the performance by the Dramatic Club the following guests: Col. Brewer, Mrs. Bandholtz, Maj. and Mrs. Large, Maj. and Mrs. Stayer, Maj. and Mrs. Ladd, Maj. and Mrs. Peake, Capt. and Mrs. Brett, Capt. and Mrs. Mallon, Capt. Craig, Miss Genevieve Yarborough, Lt. Camp. After the play they will go to the Officers Club Hop.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. David G. Barr entertained at a lovely evening bridge on Thursday of last week complimenting Mrs. McIhenny, the guest of Capt. and Mrs. Albert B. Helsley. The Helsley family were showered with good cards, good luck and good fortune for they each went home with a lovely prize. The high prize for ladies was a filet dresser scarf, the high prize for gentlemen was a complete bridge set o ftwo decks of cards, pad and pencil in a leather case and the honoree was given two dainty georgette handkerchiefs. The low prize, a chinese cigarette box, was won by Mrs. Gawthrop, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Niles.

On Tuesday afternoon from four to six Mrs. John Rodgers was "at home" to a large number of friends who were asked in to meet her mother, Mrs. B. M. Katzenstein of Johnstown, Pa., and Miss Katherine McDermott of Louisville, Ky., who is the guest of Mrs. Mark Doty. The house was made festive with a profusion of daffodils, and the tea table, overliad with a handsome imported lace cloth, had for its centerpiece a huge bowl of daffodils surrounded by silver candlesticks holding yellow burning tapers. Mrs. Blanche Best of Christiansburg, Va., the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Grady, poured coffee, and Mrs. Fred H. Gawthrop of Wilmington, Del., the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Niles, presided over the tea service. Mrs. Huddleston, Mrs. Grady, Mrs. Jerry Collins, Mrs. Niles and Miss Bess Coley of Wilton, Conn., the guest of Mrs. Smythe, assisted the gracious hostess on this occasion.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. W. E. Niles honored her mother, Mrs. Fred H. Gawthrop of Wilmington, Del., with a delightful tea.

Miss Anne Williamson and Miss Mary Thomas were hostesses at a large and very delightful bridge party on Thursday of last week. The spacious living room of the nurses' quarters was lovely with decorations of green pine, daffodils and orange candles. Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst won first prize, a pair of quilted black satin boudoir slippers; Mrs. David L. Hardee won second, a pair of chiffon hose, and Mrs. Grant Hilliard the consolation, a cut work guest towel. After the game a savory salad course with coffee was served.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Arthur E. Brown entertained six tables at rubber bridge at her home. Green transparent bowls holding daffodils were used with golden candles through the house to give the charm of early spring to this delightful party. At the conclusion of the game the hostess appeared with a basket of white scrolls tied with green and yellow ribbons—diplomas, they looked like—for the best bridge players. Mrs. Ben Norris, Mrs. John Tamraz, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. John Dahlquist, Mrs. Myron Rudolph and Mrs. McIhenny were each given one and when they were unrolled they proved to be something much lovelier and, all be it, more useful than a sheepskin—for they were exquisite pieces of filet.

Mrs. Harry H. Bissell entertained the members of her card club at the Log Cabin on Friday afternoon. This club is made up in the main of Student Officers' wives and those who belong are Mrs. Nutting, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. Doty, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Bigelow, Mrs. Nevins, Mrs. Rhoads, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Drollinger, Mrs. Dachon, Mrs. Searcy, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Kovarik, Mrs. Paul Dismukes, Miss McDermott of Louisville, Ky., the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Mark Doty was a special honor guest on this occasion.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. N. D. Woodward was hostess at a lovely six table bridge party. Her little brown bungalow reflected all the sunshine of springtime in its yellow party array. Brass vases holding vellow flowers were effectively used in her living room, and her tea table had for its centerpiece a tall silver vase filled with many jonquils around which silver candlesticks held yellow glowing tapers. On each card table an open yellow flower held hard candies and her tallies were golden. Miss Louise Young won high prize—a most attractive hand-embroidered linen card table cover with a score pad and novelty bridge pencil in an embroidered cover to match the table cover. The second prize ,a box of French stationery, was won by Mrs. Ralph Lovett. After the game the card tables were put aside and the guests assembled in the dining room where elabrate refreshments were served in tea party fashion.

Mrs. Lawrence W. Young leaves Sunday for Orlando, Fla., where she will visit her mother for two weeks. She will motor down.

Bishop and Mrs. George Allen Beecher of Hastings, Nebraska, are the guests of their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Adrian R. Brian.

Mrs. Charles M. Johnson who has been the guest of her mother and father, Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson, for two months, left Thursday for Philadelphia, her new home. Mrs. Johnson was very extensively entertained during her entire visit.

Mrs. Ralph B. Lovett and Mrs. Robert A. Case are hostesses at a large, lovely bridge party at the Regimental Club Rooms on this (Friday) afternoon.

Maj. and Mrs. E. E. Lewis were hosts at a perfectly delightful riding party and dinner on Wednesday. The guests assembled in riding togs at the Lewis home on Austin Loop at 3:00 and rode to the Polo game. After the game they were joined by some of the players and went for a delightful ride. After the ride dinner was served to the following: Maj. and Mrs. O'Hare, Capt. and Mrs. Barnett, Capt. and Mrs. Forsythe, Capt. Whisner, Mrs. Hebbard, Lt. and Mrs. Murphey, Capt. DeWare, Miss Yarborough, Lt. Sander, Lt. and Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Bandholtz, Maj. and Mrs. Lewis.

SOJOURNERS CLUB LADIES' NIGHT

On last Tuesday evening the Polo Club was the scene of a most enjoyable occasion when the Sojourner's Club held their annual ladies' night meeting. After formal business matters were disposed of with Major E. E. Lewis, President, presiding, Major J. Russ spoke at length upon the work of Masonry and the Club, after which was presented to Major B. E. Bowen, retiring President, a handsome medal for the most successful year of the club during his administration. The evening's program followed headed by Capt. Nichols and his quartet ;then, with Major O'Hare and his very clever scholars; and ended with "Ricky" Rice's problems of packing the household goods for other lands. Refreshments were excellent and much praise was given "Jo Jo" Johansen for "putting out" in such elegant fashion. A good time was reported by all. Let's have more of such evenings. (From one of 'em).

DAUGHTERS OF THE ARMY

As previously announced there has been formed at Fort Benning by the daughters and granddaughters of regular army officers, a society to be known as the "Daughters of the United States Army."

By marriage ,most of the daughtes of army officers lose their identity as such on account of the change of name and this organization is designed to keep track of such individuals. It is to Mrs. Charles D. Roberts that this organization owes its origin. For a number of years, Mrs. Roberts has been desirous of the formation of such a societ ybut it was not until she came to Fort Benning that her plans materialized.

There are nearly forty eligible for membership at Fort Benning and much enthusiasm was expressed at the first meeting. On reaching the age of sixteen years all daughters of regular army officers are eligible for membership.

It is hoped that this society will spread to every army community and to those daughters who are now in civil life. Several enthusiastic letters have been received here regarding the organization.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, March 8, 1928, at 2:30 P. M. at the home of Mrs. James L. Ballard, quarters 38-314A. A large attendance is urged. A committee has prepared a Constitution of By-Laws, which will be submitted for consideraion at the next meeting.

MISS KINGMAN IN "DRESS PARADE"

On Sunday evening, March 4th, at the Post Theater "Dress Parade" will be shown. This is a picture of genuine interest to army people and especially to us of Fort Benning. The play was written by Major Chilton—a former student of The Infantry School—and the entire action takes place at West Point—one of the most picturesque places in America, aside from its peculiar appeal to us of the Army. Major Nulsen, who was our Post Exchange officer for several years ,is seen in this picture, and Miss Katherine Kingman features in a lovely balcony scene during the ball. The "Commandant" is played by a movie actor who comes of distinguished army lineage.

Lt .and Mrs. E. P. Earle are entertaining at dinner before the play and dance this evening.

On Saturday, March 3rd, at 9 o'clock in the evening, the Officers and Ladies of the 29th Infantry will be hosts at a dance at Biglerville. There will be a number of delightful dinner parties before this dance.

The friends of Mrs. Walter A. Stetler are grieved to know that she is very ill at the Post Hospital.

Mrs. A. R. C. Sander was hostess at a lovely bridge party on Monday afternoon honoring Mrs. Charles M. Johnson. There were five tables of players and Mrs. Hebbard won first prize, a pair of chiffon hose, Miss Helen Young second, a bottle of Coty's Bath Crystals, and Mrs. Johnson was givena lovely guest prize.

* * *

Mrs. William A. Collier was hostess to her Tuesday afternoon bridge club on that day. There were three tables and the prizes were won by Mrs. Alan Jones and Mrs. Harry Collins. After the game a delicious frozen salad with coffee was served.

Ladies Night at the Sojourners Club was great. No wonder husbands never miss a meeting.

Mrs. John F. Franklin has issued invitations to an afternoon bridge party on Thursday, March 15th, at the Regimental Club Rooms at 2:15.

A GLEE CLUB PROGRAM ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

Captain George King and Mrs. Edwin Butcher will present what bids fair to be the loveliest thing they have ever done next Monday to the Infantry School Woman's Club. From the Glee Club they have chosen the voices that best interpret rippling water and joyousness and they will sing "Three Springs" a beautiful cantata.

It is the story of the experiences and adventures of three springs that rise high up on the mountain side under a graceful willow tree. One is blue as heaven's blue, one is white as the silvery moon, and one is gold as the glittering sun. The dip of the willow branches bids each a fond farewell and as they "kiss the tip of the swaying bough in ecstacy divine they rush along with a merry song out in the glad sunshine." First in a limpid little pool where water lilies lie they listen to advice on contentment and happiness given by the butterflies that fly, fly, fly. Then down the brook merrily, cheerily, they flow where the wild deer roam and the fairies come and the leaping fishes play throughout the summer day until they come to the Three Little Falls where "deep are the falls and dark and rough is the way but hark, cool, oh, cool." On they go to join the sluggish river where they hear the song of happy rowers—then they shoot the great waterfall, leaping and falling down, ever down, with a rush and a roar, they go, with a burst of the sun like a diamond. Finally they join the mighty ocean and from the tip fo a wave blue as heaven's blue they are drawn up at last by the warm bright rays of the glorious sun and in soft gray clouds they lie till gentle breezes come to waft them to the mountain high, back to their lovely home. Mrs. Ernest S. Barker has a lovely solo part as does Mrs. Melvin R. Finney.

The Glee Club programs are always anticipated with delight. They stand out year after year as you recall the pleasantest of occasions which the Woman's Club offers. And this is the last time we will have the pleasure of a program given by Capt. King and Mrs. Butcher for these talented musicians have orders that will rob Benning of its most valuable artists.

Lets be there 100 per cent. Monday to enjoy this beautiful musical program and to show our genuine appreciation for the hours of work these gifted people have so generously given for our pleasure.

After the concert there will be tea.

The Literary Club met last Monday afternoon at which time Mrs. Paul R. Goode presented her program on Contemporary German Literature.

In her foreword Mrs. Goode said that since any one year or period of art shows, in an anlysis, all the confusion of life and the divergences of temperament of individual artists it was hard to make any certain generlaizations about contemporary German Literature. The literature of a country recently vanquished in a world war and turned upside down by political and social revolution is sure to reflect the tremendous upheaval. Therefore, it is not surprising that as yet well-defined movements are hard ot delineate but two tendencies do stand out.

The old reverence for the great is vanquishing. Heroes have become human. Tragedy is no longer the privilege of the aristocrat. The common man has been granted a soul.

Time was when writers were chiefly concerned with adventures of the outer world but immediately preceding the war and for a few years afterward are German art, including literature, was given over to expressionism through which they sought a way out of their doubt and confusion by the aid of mupticism and psychic phonomena. Since 1920 however Young Germany seems to have turned definitely to a new reliance on nature and science—to have become logical and rational.

Germany in her effort to reestablish herself economically, turned to the United States for financial plans and has adapted much of our business philosophy and she showed a certain curiosity about our literature, prefering Sinclair Lewis, Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser, John Dos Passos and Carl Van Vechter. Some of the critics and such German writers as Zweig and Doblin deplore the influence of this new realism and have made definite opposition to it.

America has been less curious however about the German writers are doing and of the enormous numbers printed comparatively few books have been translated annually. Such books as we do get are widely divergent in form, content, and treatment but they are conspicuously alike in one respect. The interest is centered in personalties. There is a strong tendency to reinterpret personality with the times in which we live in view and it is alike ni biography, criticism, novel, drama and poetry.

Much of modern German literature is raw heavy and crude emphasizing the sordid rather than the noble aspects of the tragic circumstances they reveal. They are interesting but they revel in the ugly and seem to ignore or deny beauty.

Mrs. A. F. Kingman gave a brilliant review of Emil Ludwig's "Bismark." She was as conversant with the life of the biographer and of his "Napoleon" as his "Bismark" and she was surely The One to interpret this difficult book In her interpretation of this gigantic figure in German history she showed him as a great unloving and unloved man of destiny—driven by a dynamic ambition supported by untiring energy and capacity for work forging ruthlessly over the masses in his scorn of them, on to despotic power and eventual ostracism and disolation. This report was one of the outstanding excellent pieces of work of the whole year. Mrs. Kingman revealed a very interesting personality of her own as she recreated the great Bismark for us.

Following the biography Mrs. Philip B. Peyton gave a wonderful insight into German fiction of today. She reviewed in her masterful way Lion Fenchtwanger's "The Ugly Duchess." It has for its heroine the ugliest person in history (so a great reviewer says) and the author spared no detail in making situations and characters in keeping with this poor, hideous Margarete, ruler of Tyrol. It is the cult of the ugly, a perfect picture of deformity, repulsive to look upon or read of. In this book is found a birdseye view of Europe in the middle ages with all its color and barbarity.

Mrs. Gilbert Cook read Schnitzler's one-act play "Literature." It was light sparkling in its contrast with the ugliness of the Duchess. The situations were interesting and we learned how great works of art are inspired all in all this was a very superior program.

Graduating exercises of the 29th Infantry Non-Commissioned Officers School were held January 27, 1928 in the 29th Infantry Theatre, with the entire personnel of officers and non-commissioned officers of the regiment in attendance.

When the Regimental Commander, his staff and members of the graduating classes were seated the program began with the 29th Infantry Orchestra playing the 29th Infantry Hymn, "We lead the way." At the conclusion of the hymn played by the orchestra, Captain Goode, chief instructor of the school explained the work that was done by the school and as a citation of the efficiency of the work done only 70 per cent. of those entering the N. C. O. School graduated with the class.

The Non-commissioned Officers, or N. C. O. School as it is more commonly known, has as students select men from the line companies of the regiment, who have been chosen for this school by their company commanders because of exceptional qualities as soldiers and leaders. Their instruction begins with the lowest phase and continuing onward to include map reading, physical training, operation and control of small arms, musketry, bayonet instruction and minor tactics.

SECOND BATS FROM TWENTY-NINTH DEFEAT BASKETEERS 40 TO 28

Johnnie Roosma's Cagesters from the Demonstration outfit won a fast and well played game from the Lanier High School of Macon, Ga., on the Garrison Gym court last Saturday afternoon.

The lads from the Central City have one of the fastest teams seen here this season, but they seemd to think that if thy could keep Johnnie Roosma covered that nothing else mattered, but that was a bi gmistake for Stamper proved to be a second Roosma and while the Poets guarded Johnnie, Stamper sank baskets.

There is no doubt left in the minds of the spectators of the ability of the Maconites to guard an opponent, for they did something that no one else has done and that was to hold Roosma to three miserable fields goals.

Stamper was high point man with 30 points to his credit, he also played a fast defensive game, Fat Kranz played his usual game, dribbling and passing like a big leaguer.

By winning this game the Doughboys evened the score with the Poets, as last year's game went to the Maconites.

SUITS

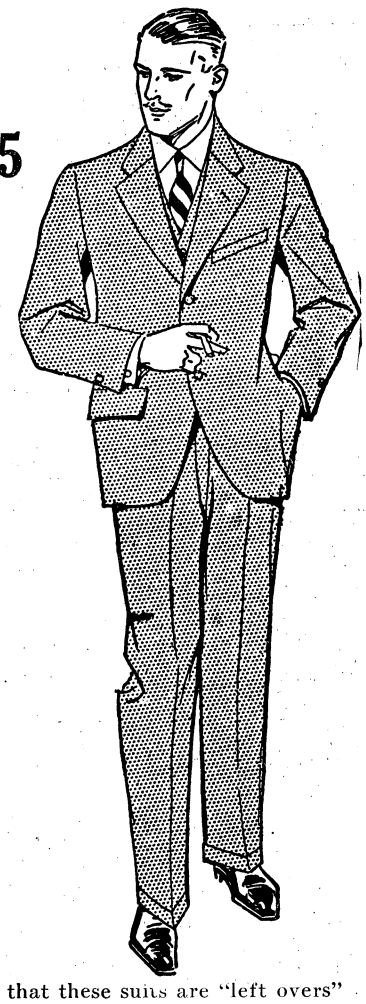
Extra Pants $3.95 and $4.95



Yes, these NEW Spring Suits that we are showing daily are the "talk of the town." Now, if you don't believe me, take a strole along Broadway any day and hear the fellows asking questions and wondering how I do it. Well, if you want to know the answer, it is very simple and plain and you will agree with me too if you will only have an ounce of reason left: We sell for CASH; therefore, no losses in bad accounts to charge up to the other fellow; no large rents to pay for we are out of the high rent section; no BIG salaries to pay clerks and collectors, bookkeepers, etc. Then why not sell them for a great deal less, and did you ever stop to think, that we are still making the net profit that the fellows do that charges you from $10.00 to $15.00 a suit more in order to take care of the above "overhead expenses" before he gets the same profits we do.

Now, don't think for one minute that these suits are "left overs" from last Fall or last Summer, they are absolutely the newest Spring and Summer patterns and if you don't think so, watch the other fellows' windows and in two or three weeks from now you will see these same patterns, but much higher shown. We get more suits almost every day, just as fast as the manufacturer gets the woolens from the mills. Again, these suits are "100 per cent all wool" and "Tailored to Fit"—Come in and see for yourself.

LT.-COL. J. F. FRANKLIN

Executive Officer of 29th Has Had Interesting and Varied Career

To be assigned to one regiment for a period of twelve years is something of which very few officers can boast today. But Lieutenant-Colonel John F. Franklin, executive officer of the demonstration outfit at Fort Benning has that enviable record. Graduating from West Point in 1903, he was appointed a second lieutenant of infantry and assigned to the 7th Infantry. He immediately went to the Philippines with that regiment and again to the Islands in 1909 serving two years in the tropics each tour. Upon return from the second tour, Col. Franklin, although still assigned to the regiment was placed on R. O. T. C. duty at the University of Idaho and served there about two years. The next place we find the Colonel at Vera Cruz. That was in 1914, when the World War began, and very dramatic indeed was the sights that he witnessed there where were gathered officers and enlisted men of the opposing forces on the battlefields of Europe. Upon return to the States, he was detailed to the Signal School, from which he graduated in 1916. At that time, the border trouble began and Colonel Franklin was sent to ElPaso ,Texas, where he commanded Truck Train No. 16, and made many trips to the interior of Mexico during his year on the border. At that time, he held the rank of captain.

Divisicn Signal Officer

Upon the entry of the United States in the World War, Col. Franklin was immediately advanced to the grade of major, national army, assigned to the 89th Division and was ultimately made that division's signal officer. He was later promoted to the grade of lieutenant-colonel. He served with that division during its entire service overseas.

Colonel Frnaklin is a graduate of the following schools: Signal School, 1916; Infantry School Field Off. Course, 1922; Command and General Staff, 1923; Army War College, 1926. He is a member of the General Staff Eligible List. During the years 1923 and 1924 he was on duty with the Organized Reserves at Grand Rapids, Mich.

He joined the 29th Infantry in the spring of 1926 and is now the regiment's Executive Officer. Wherever the regiment is ,or whatever activity the regiment may be engaged in, you will always find Colonel Franklin doing his bit towards putting the 29th Ingantry on a high scale and helping to keep it where they can rightfully say: "We Lead the Way."

2ND BATTALION MAKES HIGH RECORD ON BAYONET COURSE

The Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, completed the Bayonet Qualification for 1928, on Jan. 26th. The Battalion qualified 58.42% of its men as bayonet experts. In the season of 1927 the Battalion qualified 25.13% of the men. This yea rthe Battalion shows a gain of 33.29%.

For the 1927 season a period of one month was allotted to the Regiment for Bayonet training. Norton Court was allotted to each Battalion for an equal numberof days, but these days were not consecutive. Within the Batalions the Battalion days for the Court were alloted to the different Companies. Under this system there was no continuity in training. When the record course was run the last day was allotted as clean up day. Men who had been held out for extra training (in many cases "Bolo") who ran on this clean up day, qualified with a greater percentage than the men who had run previously. Company "E" the last company to go for record, qualified the greater number of men.

When the bayonet season was over, Major Bowen of the Second Battalion submitted a recommendation to Col. Gowen, then in command of the 29th Infantry, in which he stated that it was his belief that if a regular Bayonet Course season were set aside, as done in rifle marksmanship and that if some system of scoring were devised whereby a penalty was given for time over the 45 seconds, as laid down in T. R. 50-25. that the companies in the Battalion could qualify over 40% of their men as bayonet experts.

In the season just completed, the Regimental Commander, Col. Delaplane, set aside the period from January 2nd to Feb. 20th as the Bayonet Training season and furthermore made all men available for this training. The period from Jan. 2nd until Jan. 26th was allotted to the 2nd Batalion. The Regiment Commander stated verbally that during this period no company would devote more than thirty hours to bayonet training.

Due to the fact that the 29th Infantry is a demonstration regiment, only 14 of the allotted 21 days were available for training. Company "E" secured 28 hours of training, "F" 28 hours, and "G" Company 22 hours of training on the bayonet course.

Col. Delaplane also secured the authority to run the course in accordance with a change in T. R. 50-25 which had not been effective at that time. According to this change, a penalty of one point was deducted from the score for every 1-5 of a second over 45 seconds, whereas the old system, the man running the course in over 45 seconds was disqualified automatically.

The results of the 1928 bayonet season show that 58.42% of the men of the Battalion qualified as bayonet experts. Of the 359 men who completed the course, only 19 were qualified because of the change in scoring. It is believed however that the psychological effect, in knowing that time over 45 seconds would not disqualify, is an important factor in the increase in qualifications.

Several members of this organization are to be given tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team. Sgt. Friend, who is probably the best shot in the Army ,is assured a place on the team. Cpl. Hicks, another veteran bull's eye destroyer, stands near the top of the list. Pfc. Joseph Kessler who is on S. D. with the Dept. of Experiment has attracted much attention by his excellent scores and it is predicted that he will give some of the Old Timers a run for their money.

The members of Co. "F" who were disappointed in not hearing Gene Austin will have to be content with the warblings of Cpl. Ripple's Wildcat Quartet.

—Kenneth Clark.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

This company is trying hard to land first place in the small bore rifle competition and with half the course shot off we still have a good chance. With the officers of the company, Sgt. Kjelstrom, Sgt. Davis, Sgt. Stragand and the First Sgt. shooting high as they always do we are bound to have another silver cup added to our collection.

The mystery of the Springer Hotel is still unsolved although the parties involved are being cross examined and questioned daily. You see, the Supply Sgt. and the company mechanic step out one fine evening and the Sgt., being older and wiser was in charge of the detail, but before the evening was over th company mechanic was lost. A thorough search was immediately started but with no avail and the Supply Sgt. had to return to camp alone. The lost finally returned with weird tales to tell and of how he was in the jungles of Columbus. We all know that someone is holding out and we are not going to rest until we learn it all.

The Non-Commissioned Officers Club is getting under way and shortly we expect to be well established in our own club rooms.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "E"

The company was awakened this morning by a Corporal that was unknown by a lot of the men in this organization. That was Corporal Dollar who returned in the middle of the night from a 45 days furlough which he says was well spent. Glad to have you back Arthur. But we sure hate to see you go to school.

Who said we did not have some good scrappers in this outfit. Any way you see who brought home the bacon. We have fighting for us Cpl. Myers and Cpl. Oikari, two good clean fighters. Also "Ox" Marquette, Slim Pecot, Battling Roberts and Crane and then best of all "Chew Tobacco" Gulley, a real rounder for his weight ;also Hard Fighting Hawkins whom all will remember broke his hand fighting for "E" Company.

Pvt. Lamb is singing, "It won't be long now," as he has given the man some green backs. Thinks he will join his twin brother who bought out some time ago. The "E" Company small bore rifle team is showing some good records and claims that they will do better when they go up against the other teams.

So many men are marked quarters that there is hardly any news to write, but the men that are doing duty are real good in doing the sick man's duty.

If you were at the fights last Saturday night and noticed that last bout that was Cpl. Ed Myers out of "E" Co., 29th Inf., and he sure knows his stuff. Another good man out of "E" Co. floored his man without a doubt, that was Cpl. Joe Poisso.

Bugler Eddie Campbell now tells the recruit bugler "Get the behind me and learn to blow first call." Pfc. Lemaire has been relieve dfrom the Bugle Corps and is strutting his stuff on Special Duty with the band. Pvt. J. R. Henderson, known as the man with a thousand instruments (saxophone, guitar, cornet, harp, etc.) is also on Special Duty with the Band.

Oh boy, you should have been here last Sunday so that you could have seen our new Corporal, Cpl. James D. King, strutting his stuff and believe me he sure makes the boys fill up the tables in the mess hall.

Pvt. Bass has just returned from furlough and will be at the next dance so you fellows had better bunch up a little as he sure will beat yourtime. Pvt Roberts has snapped out of it and has been made Specialist 6th Class. Let's go Arvel. As the men are coming out of the hospital every day we are about to get the company together again and will all turn out for drill, K. P.s, etc., in full regalia.

We regret very much the death of our Company Commander's father.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

The week opened with a marked problem in decision in which the best minds of the School achieved another triumph over the Student Body. The score, as kept by Major Titus, who also functioned in the dual role of player and umpire, showed only 12 penetrations against 68 different varieties of envelopements. The approved solution, of course, was to penetrate. We should have guessed the right answer from the fact that the wrong one appeared to be such a perfectly obvious and logical solution that the class was certain to fall for it. We are more than ever convinced that the best possible training for the solution of map problems would be a nice quiet game of stud poker with a twenty dollar take-out.

In Major Bradley's ingenious Picture Puzzle Contest, which was held on Thursday morning, the only man we have heard of whose arrangement sof the goose eggs conformed to thatof the School was Cianchini. In spite o fthe smoke screen that habitually obscures this sagacious young officer's movements, we have often observed him trailing the instructor around at tactical walks and have frequently wondered what he hoped to gain from such devotion. We understand now.

Saturday morning's exercise was signalized by a most unusual occurrence. For the first time in its history, the class unanimously agreed with an instructor. Captain Bolte's pronouncement that a rifle company, at war strength, consisted of three platoons of six squads each was greeted with vociferous assent. More cooperative instruction of this nature by the members o fthe Imperial staff would have a great morale boosting effect upon the class and would save much wear and tear on the frayed nerves of Zeb, the Clarifier.

Social Notes

The social event o fthe week was the Washington Birthday Autumn Dance. We observed a few of our hardier spirits among those present but the flu, the weather, Ash Wednesday and the marked problem scheduled fo rthe next day, all united to cut down the attendance. Our popular Class Vice-President, however, was there in force and we checked in Club Representative Dusenbury, Professor McCunniff, Caballeros Simmons and Easley, Monographer Root. Captain Russell was also there, disguised as the well-dressed man-about-town. There may have been others present but we weren't there in our reportorial capacity and couldn't be bothered with taking notes. Those who allowed thoughts of the morrow to keep them at home missed a fine party. We were disappointed at the scarcity of daring costumes but otherwise we got an eyefull. The technique of woman's dress is like art. We don't know much about it but we know what we like and we were most favorably impressed wit hthe saffron creation worn by Mrs. Simmons. In fact, we had her slated for a prize but, as there were hardly enough prizes to supply the 29th Infantry, Mrs. Simmons will have to be content with honorable mention in this column. We were too dazzled to take in the whole show but we venture to state that no party in the land could have turned out such an alluring array of fair women and brave men. It was like the Duchess of Richmond's Ball on the eve of Waterloo and the comparison held throughout the next day when Captain Russell, holding his head in his hands and looking at his watch, was heard to remark, "Oh, that noon or Doc Stayer would come!"

If our reportorial mission was labeled "Town Topics" instead of "Tactical Topics" we could easily fill up one issue of the Infantry School News with snappy comments on this affair. For instance, the debut in costume, of Captain W. B. (Wild Bill) Tuttle of the 3rd, 15th and 24th Infantries, deserves at least a column. Captain Tuttle is a recent arrival from the Orient where he is well and favorably known in military, p lo and social circles. His solo performance of the Charleston, during the dinner hour, reminded us of Vernon Castle in his prime. Being congratulatea upon his achievement, he modestly remarked that his performance was adversely affected by the presence of so many strangers and that he would be even better when he became better acquainted.

Athletics

The Class Volley Ball Championship and the box of Club Cigars was won by Enrico C. Luck's aggregation of seven-foot ringers. Baxter's Bearcats, handicapped by the absence of Professor McCunniff went down in glorious defeat. Score 22 to 20. Devore, with his eyeglasses shattered and himself "bleeding at every vein" played a large part in the contest.

Theatrical News

It is stated on reliable authority that the Dramatic Club contemplates producing "Rip Van Winkle" in the near future, with our talented classmate, Captain E. O. Sandlin, in the title role. Those who witnessed Captain Sandlin's realistic performance on the morning after the Advanced Class Dance, are unanimously of the opinion that this will be the outstanding dramatic event of the season.

At Captain Bolte's night attack exercise, Concientious Objector DeVore appeared to be somewhat annoyed at the promiscuous way in which rifle fire was being sprinkled over the landscape by the Class and School Tacticians. His announcement to the effect that blank cartridges be used was approved by us but rejected by the school.

This column, like the editing section of the Infantry School which passes the on the mimeograph pamphlets, is not infallible and we must confess to an error in last week's news items. It was Fire Marshall Hobbs who saved the jug at Major McCarthy's fire. Fire Marshall Hobbs laso claims credit for the exercise of great presence of mind by deliberately allowing Maior McCarthy's Maps of the Marlboro Campaigns to be destroyed by the flames.

Major Jones (at the Artillery demonstration, to the assembled Majors and high-ranking Captains on Houston Hill): "Are there any other appropriate targets on which the class would like to have fire placed?"

Callahan (speaking for the Company Officers Class): "How about a concentration on Houston Hill."

—E. F. H.

COMPANY C, COMPANY OFFICERS COURSE

15 to 1 Shots

By Jayson

"My kingdom for a horse" is what Jess Willard's seconds heard him quote as he rose to face Dempsey in the 3rd and last round at Toledo, O., July 4, 1919. Not so with the 4th Platoon, Company C, no member of which is willing to trade a condemned gunny sack for a full thoroughbred. This platoon listed on the books as the novice class is riding under a misnomed for every vice known to equitation is perpetrated daily at the torture parlor adjacent to the confluence of the Upatoi and Chattahoochee.

"By the sweat of his brow you shall know him," rings true as that first break greets us at 2:00 P. M. The paddock parade of 45 minutes conducted to the tune and rythm of a Chinese chant has nothing in common, we surmise, with the inspirational call of the chase. The quaint melodies employed to move us out of the sublime walk into the soul jarring trot and gallop are not repeated, thank heaven, by the number ones in this course for it would be disconcerting and perhaps fatal to lift up the sore spots to the accompaniment of McNally's high tenor.

With nearly three hours in the saddle daily who knows but that at the end of the course we may have a ninsight into the reason why scores elect to spend their holidays astride a steed. At this writing the realm of reasoning is clouded.

Out of the paddock and across the wide open spaces gives us a breathing spell. "Except our thoughts there is nothing absolutely in our power" and soon that Oriental chant is heard again, this time the maddening wail cmes rfom the depth below. Now we are initiated into Hannibal's secret of crossing the Alps. All slide, grasp, grip, and hold, but one. Glancing into the deptrs a 238-lb. horseless rider is observed tenaciously climbing back to the heights above. Our paddock model, Captain Magee was the first to taste red mud.

As the course is in its infant stage only the future holds the secret of who is next.

Several inquiries have been addressed to this column. In this connection a 3rd Platoon horseman has cleared up some: No, Captain Morrow, Bucephalus is not an opera. It appears that he was Alexander's favorite steed.

Captain Ashurst: Yes, the marines are being mounted in Nicaraugua, but in the last war field officers and all the staff were equipped with Cadillacs. If you recall Colonel Hill's lecture most of the horses were in the hospital. We believe history will repeat. To be on the safe side tie up with the staff.

Lieut. Wernerberg: It is hardly to be conceived that glanders will break out before the course is over. It is, however, not improbable.

Captain Magee: The date of the Augusta horse show appears in our advertising columns. For shipping rates consult Major Smith.

How do you like the new heading for this column? We think it is very "high-hat." We are hoping that it will give our "fruit cake contest" a very decided impetus. Although several cakes have been submitted under the rules of the contest, we are not being snowed under in our tasting nor have we suffered from indigestion as we do when T. W.* bakes a cake. The names of all entrants will be published in this column next week. But to return to the column. The Editor has given us very definite instructions to confine our ruminations to one column. His loss is your gain. Also, we confidently expected our column to be hailed with much approbation by W. C. Woodall of the Enquirer-Sun, Philip Hale of the Boston Herald, Heywood Broun of uncertain attachment, et al. In this we were sadly mistaken as our debut passed by apparently unnoticed and unsung.

One of the ladies o fthe Garrison has withdrawn from our fruit cake contest. The reason she gave was very indefinite although she was quite positive in her assertion that we had taken an unwarranted liberty in using her name. We ate the cake, though it wasn't any too tasty, and we could not see any harm in usuing the nick-name by which we habitually address her. We are afraid of offending her further so won't mention her name. She drives a green Franklin coupe and her unworthy husband is The Assistant The Judge Advocate General of Fort Benning. More than this we dare not tell.

We have a new dog which brings our total up to four. Jiggs, a six weeks old police pupy, is the son of Jack, Snoopy's inseparable companion. There are only four more puppies to be added to those we already have and when we get these our kennel will be completed.

W shall never forgive Ed Randle for his ungentlemanly remarks anent the title of this column. We had just about convinced T. W.* our past life was above reproach when Ed came out with his insinuating remarks. We have attempted to ignore them but his remarks have rankled in our side ever since. We hope that Ed gets the station he asked for on his preference card. Without knowing what this station is, this is our idea of proper retribution.

Tomorrow is the ntwenty-seventh birthday of the 29th Infantry. Its history is comparatively short in point of time but exceedingly long in point of service. We wish for our Regiment a continued success and a future marked with distinction in the profession of arms.

Major Butcher, the Garrison Plans and Training Officer, acquainted us with a very novel idea of keeping a history of one's service with photographs. We were in search of a photograph of Fort Douglas, Utah, to be used in the year book to be published by the 29th Infantry and we were referred to Major Butcher as one who had served there. We called on this officer and he showed us volumes he has compiled from pictures taken during his service. At each post or station, Major Butcher takes photographs of post life, the grounds, the buildings and of the surrounding country. The pictures of each post or period of duty are made into a volume appropriately titled. The one we borrowed was of Fort Douglas and, as its pictures were taken in 1908, just twenty years ago, it proved very interesting to us. These books are a means of recalling names and instances which otherwise would have been forgotten. It would pay everyone to start such a system. If you get the opportunity, see these volumes, they are highly interesting and contain pictures of the Old Army as well as the New.

We are indebted to Mr. Woodall, the Editor of Good Morning, for assisting in gratifying a wish of long standing. Our name appeared on the advertising page of the Enquirer-Sun on Monday morning, February 27th. To the "little advertising lady" we also wish to express our deep appreciation. T. W.* said, "Of course, there had to be a woman connected with this." Due to a rehearsal and to our beingan official on the Snipe Ride for Officers of the 29th Infantry, we were unable to take advantage of the opportunity to "sit high up in the movies." And then T. W.* would not consent to our going after learning of the appearance of a lady on the scene. We derived sufficient satisfaction of seeing our name to offset the disappointment our our inability to go. Thanks Mr. Woodall and "little lady."

TWENTY-NINTH INF. NOTES

Company "G"

Pvt. Petsch was seen taking calisthenics Monday afternoon. He evidently is going to take up boxing. Good stuff Dutch, Cpl. Woods will take care of you.

Cpl. Notgrass is back in the supply room again after a couple of months' vacation. Charlie is sure glad to have him back.

The Recruits are coming along fine. Cpls. Maynord and Magagna and showing them how to make faces.

Our good friend Davis is back from a short leave. We are glad to see you back Route Step.

Cpl. Duplechin just returned from an extensive furlough. The Cpl. was sure cutting up while he was away, one of his old friends owns a butcher shop.

The new Sandpaper Factory in Columbus is sure selling their stock fast at Fort Benning. Company G, is getting their share of it, and oh, those little brushes.

Sgt. Folsom has his "little show case Ford" running again. Stick with her Buck.

Everybody knows about the "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," but how many of you have heard of the "Midnight Police Squad," in the Special Duty Room at Company G? The Captain sure has them trained.

—"WARSET."

"The Blue Room"

Step into the First Platoon Squad Room if you want to see some long, sad, faces. You will probably wonder about the reason for their downcast spirit. Well it is a sad story sure enough. Not only does the First Platoon weep, but the majority of the men in the company, for they are losing a true friend and leader, Lieutenant Shepherd.

Lieutenant Shepherd joined the company June 1st, 1927. During his service with the company he has been the "Daddy" to the First and Third Platoons. He has worked with an unselfish spirit and has always looked out for the best interest of his men. No soldier in Company "G" can or will say that they have ever gotten a "raw deal" from him. The officers and the men of the Company regret the loss of Lieutenant Shepherd and they envy the outfit that he is to join.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Shepherd will depart from Fort Benning on about March 1st for a two and a half month leave. At the end of that time they will sail for China via San Francisco and the Philippines. The men and the Officers of the Company wish the Lieutenant and Mrs. Shepherd a "Bon Voyage" and that they may have success and happiness in their new home in the Orient.

Howitzer Company

What? Do you not know who the "Four Horsemen" are? Well they are the four men from this company attending the Non-Commissioned Officers School. The first of the four has a Dodge, the second a Harley Davison and the remaining two beg rides from the former two. They are by name, Cpl. J. R. Johnson, Cpl. Todd, Pfc. Linton and (continued on page 24 column 2.)

Sgt. Shaw is back from furlough and says his nerves have quieted down considerably. But he is glad to get back and we are glad to have him back too.

Yu have heard the story of the man who operated a restaurant and went home for his meals. We have a barber in our company who goes to Atlanta to get shaved. When are you going again Willard?

When Willard asked Pvt. Grubbs what kind of hair tonic he wanted to buy, he replied, "Well, I will have to go up to the Second Platoon and find out what kind they like."

We have several wrestlers in our company. Most of them throwing this and that, but Norton is the kind of Grappler that throws real live opponents. He threw his man from Atlanta the other night. (He did not throw him from Atlanta. He came from Atlanta to be thrown) which netted him the Southern Championship in the 118-pound class.

Norton surely looked fine too. He was on top all of the time and would have thrown his man sooner, had it not been for the fact that he could not keep him in the ring. It is generally believed that anyone Norton's weight would try to crawl out of the ring too after discovering what he is up against.

—Cpl. A. A. Leverich.

Company "D"

Due to no fault of ours, news for last week was not printed. Our Battalion News clerk must, in the nea future be more prompt in his duties.

Let it be known that Hog Hunting has not been dropped from our evening's controversy. Our 1st Sgt. is a sure Wild-Hog Hunter, or perhaps better a Wild-man after Hogs. Not often the bacon comes home, but thanks to the Mess Sgt. he has lots in the ice box.

Since the flue has blown over, we can make a better showing at parades, etc. Fellows, we are glad to have you back. Medical Corps diet kitchen is not good enough to "Gold Brick" in. I've tried it.

Sgt. H. F. Weyer having returned from furlough has enough cash to buy the Eleventh Street bridge. But on second thought he has decided to purchase discharge. We will bet our last dollar that "skirts" is the cause of it all. Good bye Henry, and good luck.

If mentioning nite problems, talk in an undertone. Five students of this organization may overlook your height in pounds and "crash", another blue day.

Beans tomorrow, and being pay day will leave you all in the best spirits, till next week.

—SWAN.

The regular February program of one act plays given by the Infantry School Dramatic Club, which had to be postponed on account of the epidemic of influenza, will be presented Friday evening, March 2nd, at 8:30 P. M., in the 29th Infantry Theater. Two one act plays will be presented, "After the Dance," which was written and is being directed by Lieut. R. C. Oliver and J. M. Barrie's "Rosalind" directed by Major E. P. Rice. This meeting is open to members of the Dramatic Club and their guests only ,each member being allowed two guests.

As Friday night is also hop night all members are requested to be in their seats by 8:30 P. M. so that there will be no delay in starting.

WHO'S WHO!

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS IN THE TWENTY-NINTH

By Sgt. W. R. Reynolds

When the Twenty-Ninth Infantry celebrates its twenty-seventh birthday on March 3rd, 1928, it will be the twenty-third time that Master Sergeant William J. Gullett, of Service Company, has paused in his labors for that occasion.

Sgt. Gullett joined the "Lead The Way" Doughboys in June, 1904, and has served in that organization continuously since. He was a member of "M" Company for thirteen years, and went to the Supply Company from there. Their name was later changed to Service Company, but "Bill" Gullett stayed intact.

"Bill" has seen service in the Philippines, in Panama, and when Captain Briant H. Wells (now Brig. Gen. Wells, and former commandant The Infantry School), was Adjutant of the Regiment, old "Bill" was just a lanky youth of 19.

The army at the time of "Bill's" entry was a bit different from the present one, and he says he served six months before he was allowed to speak to the K. P. without permission. But since that time, he has seen every one of his old and new companions go away, to be replaced by others. But nary a day has "Bill" missed.

Sergeant Gullett has been Regimental Supply Sergeant for many years, and can possibly get more on his face than lots of people can with requisitions. He is a lover of athletics of all descriptions, and remembers when if the baseball team lost the ball the game was over, and the football teams sometimes played without a ball.

Sharing his troubles and joys since 1913, Mrs. Susan Gullett (a native of Cavon County, Ireland), is as jolly a person as one would want to know, and you can find her and her ready smile behind the Special Order counter in the Main Post Exchange. Bill himself was born in Jackson, Kentucky. Add to fast horses, and beautiful women—excellent soldiers.

He is the oldest member of the "Demonstration Regiment" in point of service and the youngest, in age, from his own viewpoint. It would be a good idea for all of us to follow Sergeant Gullett's example, for he doth really and truly "Lead the Way." We hope to be present when he retires from further active service, not many years hence.

The Twenty-Ninth Infantry should be and is very proud of Master Sergeant William J .Gullett.

DOUGHBOYS DE-LUXE

Something About The 29th Infantry Staff Non-Coms

(By Sgt. W. R. Reynolds)

Master Sergeant Floyd D. Belmeyer

The Regimental Sergeant Major of any organization is one of the titles to which all enlisted men aspire. And of all Regimental Sergeant Majors in the United States Army, there are none that can compare with Master Sergeant Belmeyer of the 29th Infantry. Sergeant Belmeyer is and has been for many years the one soldier, who in the writer's opinion, is a model for all of the enlisted personnel of the Army to follow. The expression on his face is so well trained that when on duty he can read any order or speak to any member of the regiment without any show of emotion of any kind. That is the real soldier. He has in command each and every muscle that controls his features. Six feet in height and always neatly, cleanly and carefully dressed, he presents at all times a osldierly appearance. That his nerves are always under control is witnessed by the fact that he has been a nexpert rifleman for so long that his expert pin looks like a "Jacob's Ladder."

Sergeant Belmeyer has been with the 29th Infantry since about 1914 and prior to that time was with the 8th Infantry. He has something like sixteen years actual service and all of this has been "Excellent" service. He is only 38 years of age and when his time to retire arrives he will be comparatively young and able to reap the just rewards of a good soldier.

He is a native of Quincy, Illinois, and is one of the main reasons that efficiency prevails at all times in the Headquarters Office of the 29th Infantry.

Master Sergeant George R. Still

Did you ever notice a quiet, unassuming soldier, with hair slightly gray, at the theater, ball games or driving the latest model Studebaker car around the reservation? That man was probably the Personnel Sergeant Major of the 29th Infantry: Master Sergeant George R. Still. And what he don't know about Army paper work, I do not believe "Old Man Personnel" himself knows. He has at his finger tips all the latest information concerning paragraphs of Army Regulations, Courts-Martials and other paper Bogeys of the Army. But his knowledge is not limited to Personnel. He was once a member of the 12th Cavalry and 29th Infantry Bands. He can twirl a baton with the best Drum Major in the land, having on many an occasion left his desk at Headquarters to function in that capacity at Formal Guard Mount and other formations.

Sergeant Still was a Captain during the late war and during his commissioned doys was once Personnel Adjutant of that monster ship, then a troop transport, the "Leviathan". Quite an assignment believe me.

'Tis said that Sergeant Still once rode in an automobile that was not a Studebaker and was sick in bed over the effect for nearly a week. Needless to say he rides nothing else now.

Sergeant Still first enlister in 1906 and has been one of Uncle Sam's finest since that time. He is a married man, living on the Reservation with his family.

Staff Sergeant Herman L. Fink

Staff Sergeant Herman L. Fink, 29th Infantry, is rightfully known as the "right hand man" of the Regimental Headquarters Non-Commissioned Officer Staff. As he is extremely reserved, modest and at times even unsociable, it was only natural that he should request he not be expatiated upon. However, justice must be done where justice is due and as the writer of this column has known Sgt. Fink personally for over eight years, an outline of Fink's military career is not considered amiss. Staff Sergeant Fink has thus far received four honorable discharges from as many periods of service in the Army—all indicate character "Excellent." The grades in which he was discharged were "Sergeant" and "Staff Sergeant." Being a member of the 15th Machine Gun Battalion, 5th Division, A. E. F. (the organization which General Pershing cited as having performed an unusual feat of arms in crossing the Meuse Canal), Fink wears a ribbon with two stars, indicating participation in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne Offensives. After the armistice, while sojourning in Luxembourg, he reenlisted at Esch with the idea of remaining on the Rhine by transfer to the 8th Infantry, but the intricacies of Passenger Lists and the endless other records necessary for the embarkation of troops, were too much for his embryonic assistants and Fink was prevailed upon to return to the States with the 15th Machine Gun Battalion. However, where there is a will, ther, is a way, and Fink was soon back on the Rhine—this time in Ochtendung, also in a Machine Gun Battalion, an organization originally scheduled for plebiscite duty in Silesia—to which country it was never sent. The Old Country soon loomed as very old indeed and Fink returned to the States, being discharged at Camp Dix, N. J. on May 31, 1920. However, a soldier's gallant attitude towards life, the racy language, the Army's fanfare trimmings, uncivilian and all, were too much for him to resist and the fortunate organization was the 29th Infantry at the Infantry School, where he has performed invaluable service continuously since September, 1920. In 1924, during the absence of the Personnel Sergeant-Major on the Pacific Coast, Staff Sergeant Fink was Acting Regimental Personnel Sergeant-Major for six months. In this capacity be acquitted himself creditably according to the Regiment's most captious critics. Fink's formula for the future is a very simple one—live prudently, mind your duty and trust to the fates for promotion.

Sergeant Hans Friis

"Pop" Friis as he is known to his intimates, has a varied career as a soldier, having traveled extensively. His first service was with Company "B", 3rd Infantry, during the Spanish-American War. He has served wit hthe 10th Infantry and with the 16th Infantry, in addition to his service with the 29th Infantry. He also spent a few years with the 33rd Infantry.

Sergeant Friis is a native of Haverslev, Denmark, and if there are any more of his kind there, the writer wishes that they should all come over, for he is a gentleman from the ground up.

Sergeant Friis is a constant visitor of the Main Theater, and is found of peanuts and popcorn as served there. He is also one of the best narrators of historical yarns, it has ever been the privilege of anyone to hear. Having served in the cold regions of Alaska, and also the tropical countries of Panama and the Philippines, his history has been garnered by actual contact. Ask him to tell you of the days he spent hunting Caribou in the land of the Eskimos. He says that he once took a pictureof the sunrise and sunset, with one exposure, without moving the camera. It is cold all night up there and the nights are six months long. But 'tis he who can make the tales interesting, so would advise that you seek him out. He is a member of Service Company and on duty as Courts-Martials clerk, "Judge" Friis, as it were.

Sergeant Cornelius F. O'Neil

Just eight years ago Sergeant O'Neil came to the 29th Infantry after having served about fifteen years in other organizations. Since his arrival he has been constantly on duty at Regimental Headquarters, except for a few months when he was with the Infantry School Detachment. Sergeant O'Neil is no relation of the famous Sally or Peggy, except in temperament. He is just what his name implies. Modest to the nth degree, hard worker, and capable of holding the Fort on any clerical position in the Army. He is one of the best penmen it has ever been the privilege of the write to know.

Corporal Samuel J. Parvin

To this soldier, special attention should be given, for 'tis few men who would continue to do a soldier's duty, day after day, after having lost an eye, while doing his duty. Corporal Parvin was formerly horseshoer of the Regiment and a "Stomp Down Good un" to use his own expression. He could walk under more horses or mules in a day than the average horseshoer ,and come home like he hadn't even been working. eH is now a Corporal in Headquarters Company, where he has been for the past eight years, coming to the Regiment direct from the Rhine (Army of Occupation). H ehas about twenty years to his credit and does his full share of dut yevery day.

Finis

There are numerous other enlisted men in the Regiment who deserve columns of commendation but these few are some of the "Old Heads," and the Regiment as a whole is exceptionally proud of them. With no claim to particular glory through their athletic ability, they have attracted the attention of their superior officers just by doing their duty day after day, uncomplainingly and doing it well. That should the the motto of every soldier in the Army. DUTY FIRST.

83RD FIELD ARTILLERY INTER-BATTERY BASKETBALL SERIES

The Inter-Battery Basketball series which opened Thursday, Feb. 24th, has brought out several hard fought and well played contest. It looks at the present writing as though the Battery Championship is a toss up between Hdqrs. Batt. and Batt. "B". Neither team has been defeated, but by the time you read this bit of news supremacy between them will be decided. Thursday afternoon will see these two teams meet for Battalion leadership.

Hdqrs. Basketeers are favored to win over "B" Batt. but you can never tell which way the "ole bucket" will turn, especially among the Caisson Riders for they are noted for their ability to spill the white-wash.

Standing of the teams:

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Sergeant Rowland was honorably discharged per E. T. S. the 22nd of course Rowland re-enlisted and now is gone home on a 60 day furlough to tell the folks who runs the Army.

Hirtzler sent his monthly supply of laundry off Saturday morning he almost had a bull durham bag full.

Private Kirby says he is going to have Fuller tried for receiving money under false pretense but we think Fuller has some chance to beat the case.

Jack's Cafe reports a big increase in the sale of peanuts since the return of Corporal Cole from furlough.

Private Pacetti has been elected the best looking man in Headquarters Battery. He defeated Sergeant LaPine by the small majority of three votes.

At last we have found a man to take Rudolph Valentino's place. Corporal Waters.

The mule that kicked water-head Roberson is reported to be fully recovered.

Elmore and Water-head Roberson are going to hold the heavyweight championship of the Service Battery in stall No. 9 there should be a joke somewhere. "In stall No. 9."

Battery "A"

Pvt. 1cl. Roy H. Chandler, was discharged Friday February 24th, per expiration term of service, he left for his home in Dyersburg, Tennessee, he hasn't reenlisted yet but we are sure re will come back for another stack in the near future, we the battery wish him the very best of success in civilian life .

Private Capps has reported for duty after spending (15) days at his home in Selma, N. C., he says the girls in the cotton states are getting better looking every day.

Pvt. 1cl. Brantley left last week on a (10) day furlough to his home in Milledgeville, Ga.

Owing to lack of practice our Basket Ball team has failed to bring home the bacon in the Inter-Basketball Series, we have lost two games out of three to date, but we expect to show better results in the future games to be played.

The call has gone out for Baseball prospects and there is no reason why we shouldn't win with the rookies we have on hand, lets get going and make the other teams think they were born with two strikes on them.

Battery "C"

Corporal Weems, the Battery scribe, has returned from the hospital improved in health and much richer in experience.

Corporal Hood is purchasing his discharge. We understand that he is undecided as to his future business. He has under consideration several different propositions but is inclined to either enter the restaurant business on North Highland or operate a poultry factory in South Georgia. Good luck Corporal. Your melodous voice will certainly be missed at the Corporal's table in the mess hall, no doubt your appetite also.

Driver was appointed Corporal on the 23rd. This is no new experience for Driver. He was a Corporal in this organization during a previous enlistment, but decided to take a fling in civilian life only to return to his "old love" 13 months later. Corporal Driver has completed over 6 years of honorable service in the Army. He was with the 27th Infantry as part of the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia. He knows his stuff.

Battery "B"

We are proud to say that most men of the battery who have been suffering from attacks of the flu are now back to duty again.

We don't know of anything that should so moisten the pen of a booster as the results of the basketball games which have been played in the battalion during the past week. We wonder how long we will be able to get competition if every game continues to end, as they have in the past, a victory for the battery team.

Under the instruction of Lieut. Foster, the Executive Officer, we predict that in the course of a few months every man in the battery will be drawing expert gunner's pay. So far we can boast of 100 per cent. qualification, which of course is no unusual record for Battery "B."

Private Nahring has returned to the battery afte rspending his reenlistment furlough in Philadelphia. Reports that he had a good time. We are proud to have him back with us again.

BURRUS MOTOR COMPANY DELIVERING NEW FORDS

A thousand of the new models of the Ford car are now being turned out daily by six automobile assembling plans and with nine more plants to begin sending out the new car within two weeks it will not be long until the new Fords will be seen by the thousands, Perry Burrus, of the Burrus Motor and Tractor Company, reported Saturday on his return from Atlanta.

The 36 assembly plants of the Ford Organization will all be in operation shortly, it was stated. Already 92,000 men are employed at Detroit and this number is the largest employed by Ford since 1925 when the employes on the payroll reached 110,000.

The fact that Mr. Ford is now in Florida for a vacation of two weeks is another indication that the Ford production machinery is in good rder, Mr. Burrus pointed out.

The Burrus organization is pointing out the necessity of early orders for the new Ford as they are delivered in the order received.

Quartermaster Corps

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHAT

Our Colonel was in Court Monday morning! But don't get excited. He was not in front of the judge, he was sitting beside him! Our Colonel was merely paying a visit to Judge McLaughlin, for the purpose of seeing "what makes the wheels go round." We always have a sneaking fear that Colonel Warfield will hear the call of the bar and forsake this Quartermaster Corps for the legal bench. To prove that he is well equipped for such—witness his noble prosecution of Captain P. B. R. not so very long ago!

Tip to those mathematicians who get stuck on a stiff problem—carry it to Miss Harris, the Colonel's secretary. When several offices were stuck on a stiff algebraical problem, some bright mind thought of Mary, and it was carried over to her sanctorum. After the space o fa few minutes, a special messenger arrived with the problem neatly worked out. And they speak of the superiority of the male mind! When last seen, Mary was reading away on some novel by the celebrated Russian writer, Tzkewizjxtysky (or spell it yourself).

Rube had a birthday last week. We don't know how young this charming lady of the Transportation Branch was, but we guess that it wasn't much over eighteen! Besides many boxes of candy, flowers, and numerous presents, Miss Kennon received a special box of fragrant American Beauty Roses—one of each year of her age. Rube says all the years were not all roses— but any unpleasantness that may have happened is forgotten in the kindly haze that time throws over the past, and only the good things stand out, and all the years are well signified by the bunch of lovely roses. And by the way, who sent those roses?

Then, too, another prominent personage in the Transportation Branch had a birthday the same week as Rube's. None other than the Chief of the Branch—Captain Littell. After vigilantly pinning the genial Captain down, he admitted that he had just passed his twenty-first birthday, and could now vote if he so desired! He seemed much thrilled.

Captain Littell has also been hunting. It seems that he has been out chasing the elusive whang-doodle on Upatoi's shores. He ha worked out a very novel cheme for bagging thi mot rare of all bird, but he abolutely refued to divulge it. He says after he has made a record and is known as the foremost bagger of whang-doodles—then he will let the common mob in on his secret, but not before! No, not before!

Utilities has been hard hit by the flu epidemic. Mr. Tibbs was sick for ages, Miss "Margy" Zettler, charming Trouble Clerk, succumbed for a day or so, while Mr. Ford, Principal Clerk, has been a fit candidate for the four-poster, but he has clung on.

The Constructing Quartermaster's office force has been busily working away recently, designing new houses for the command.

Has the general public noticed how distinguished looking our Mr. Ford, of Utilities, is getting, with the touches of grey at his temples?

Mrs. Drane, of the Purchasing Branch ran to music Saturday evening. She had as her guest early in the evening Mr. Gene Austin, the celebrated tenor of "Yesterday," "My Blue Heaven," and "That Lonesome Road" fame, and later on they attended the Mercer Glee Club performance.

Mr. Hug of Transportation doesn't look so debonair today as generally. He explains it with a "touch of flu."

Colonel Warfield, who admits that he is just a bit fond of that Scotch game played with small white balls and different varieties of stacks, entered into a flag tourney a while back. Although periously near the end of the course, as when he had taken the number of strokes allowed him by par and handicap, he was on the seventeenth green.

Dialogues of the Barracks

Pvt. Ewton: "Say Brooks, did you know that I have a large family tree?"

Pvt. Brooks: "I wouldn't brag about family trees if I were you; there are only two kinds o fanimals that live in trees; they are birds and monkeys."

Pvt. Ewton: "Well, son, I don't see any feathers on you."

Pvt. McGinnis: "Chirp, I want you to know that my chief stock in trade is BRAINS."

Pvt. Davis: "Mack, you sure do carry a funny looking sample case."

Corp. Bacon tells us of a policeman in a nearby city over the beautiful Chattahoochee, who one night making his rounds, stopped at a speakeasy and rapped with his club on the door. No one answered, so he turned the knob and to his surprise the door opened. The copper said, "Great guns! the place is closed!"

Sick Report

Mrs. Smith has just returned to work after an absence of over a week, due to a bad case of the "Flu." Mr. Smith is quoted as saying that he had a hard time of it trying to keep her in.

Mr. Woolbright was out for several parts of days, as his family also had a touch of the "Flu," and he himself was not feeling altogether up to par.

THE MAIN THEATRE

This isn't the first time that we've printed the above picture in the NEWS But due to the fact that there are nearly two hundred officers who have just arrived, and who will receive this copy of the NEWS we are herewith running the picture again of Ft. Benning's popular movie house. For the information of the new arrivals, the big stage of this theatre was dedicated over a month ago, and is one of the biggest and finest in the South. The theatre is open and we believe that you will be amazed at Fort Benning's theatre, after a thorough inspection of it.

Captain F. S. Doll, assistant recreation officer, is in charge of the theatres here. The post boasts of three theatres —24th Infantry, 29th Infantry, and the Main Theatre.

The theatre is open every night of the week and the latest pictures are to be seen at Fort Benning. Watch announcements which appear on the theatre page of the NEWS every week.

Private Chandler's valuable services were also dispensed with for a few days as a result of his own and family's sickness. Although he is back at work again he is not entirely well.

Miss Ward and Sergeant Benton are recovering from deep colds.

Mr. MacNamara is on a three-weeks' leave at Front Royal, Virginia, as his sister was to be operated on.

It has been suggested as one of the wonders of the age that Mr. Woolbright's Ford still continues to go up Torch Hill without a windlass.

NOTES FROM THE N. G. RESERVE CLASS

(By G. A. K.)

Companies E and F, of the Academic Department, comprising the National Guard and Reserve Officers class, Company Officer's Course, were cordially welcomed by the Commandant, Brigadier General Collins on Monday afternoon of this week.

In his opening address General Collins told us that the Infantry Cchool was intended to not only fit officers of the regular army for their duties as instructors and leaders in their future days, but to provide as well, the opportunity for the training of the civilian components of the army under its own officers, a great number of whom have already graduated from the Infantry School. He laid particular stress on the importance of the obligation assumed by us in attending this school and the relative importance of our position in the eyes of the War Department in assuming the obligation. We sincerely hope that we will live up to the standards set by the other classes thta have gone before, to the end that the Commandant and the School Staff will feel that their efforts on our behalf have borne the best results.

Things have been coming fast and furious since the afternoon of the opening exercises. The job of self-orientation is still uppermost, but the next week or ten days should see us all "set" and off to a flying start.

Captains C. L. Drennon and J. F. Buffkin, Infantry, were chosen as company commanders of E and F respectively. We wish them long life and much joy in their new capacities.

At time of going to press we were trying mighty hard to master the sly and foxy contour, and his attendant elevations, azimuths, co-ordinates, declinations—in fact the whole Map family. There are no signs of weakening so far, and it begins to look like we might catch the critters at the well known point known as "EXAM."

Social news for this week is scarce—the shieks of the outfit haven't had time to "step out" as yet, but we have hopes.

It is fitting that we take this opportunity to express our appreciation to Captain Frank Partridge and Captains DeWare and Rice for their friendly help and cooperation. These officers are typical examples of the type to be found so often in our regular army establishment of today and offer us a most excellent chance to become proficient graduates of the Infantry School.

CHEVROLET TRAINING SERVICE MEN

Of unusual interest to the millions of Chevrolet owners in the United States was the announcement made by the Georgia Auto Exchange, local Chevrolet distributors, that nearly 4,000 men, heads of dealers' service departments, are being called in to attend specially conducted service schools.

These school, designed to place the service facilities of the company on a higher plane than ever before, are being held during February and March for the service personnel of the Chevrolet dealer.

Among the principal subjects covered are shop arrangements; equipment and special tools; appearance and maintenance; shop personnel; trainnig of service personnel; operating costs; specializing the work of mechanics; compensation of mechanics, and the keeping of dteailed and exact shop records.

Under completion of the course, the service managers are competent to go back to their own establishments prepared to conduct their end of the dealer's business upon the high standards evolved by factory officials from the most approved methods known.

This means that Chevrolet owners everywhere may expect efficient service and courteous attention from the service departments of the wide spread Chevrolet dealers organization.

THE PAST YEAR IN THE TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY

Tomorrow is the ending of an old year and the beginning of a new for the 29th Infantry. Twenty-seven years have passed since its organization. The records of entry for the past year have been entered, its covers closed. 'Tis history. As we look back thrugh the files we see instances where we erred in judgment, yet at the same time we will find in all of our activities things in which we can take pride.

We have done our regular duties creditably as behooves all good Infantry men, and proven our right to be known as "demonstrationists; a task that requires no little undertaking.

A brief summary of the various activities of the regiment is given.

During the past year the 29th has successfully staged a number of demonstrations for the Infantry School among them being the battalion in attack and defense which shows the correct tactical proceedure of this phase of modern warfare and which attracts many visitors to Benning each year to witness them.

In all recreational activities in the post the 29th has more than furnished her share, all of which was a pleasure to 29th Infantrymen and at the same time pleasing and entertaining to the entire garrison. Look at the roster of any athletic team of Benning and on its pages will be found doughboy names.

In the Intra-Mural leagues of the garrison you will almost invariably find a 29th team or teams at the top of the league and any event in which a 29th team is a participant is well attended.

In the past year interest in night riding within the regiment has increased. At some time during the year a contest is held for both officers and enlisted men. They are required to ride a course at night and to find their way from station to station by maps and compasses.

Realizing this to be an age of specialization schools are conducted within the regiment, they being the Non Commissioned Officers School, the Intelligence School, Elementary Education School and Communications School.

CUPS ARE PRESENTED TO WINNING ORGANIZATIONS IN TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY

On Tuesday, Feb. 28th at a Battalion Review of the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry, three beautiful silver cups were given to the companies winning competitions in the past two months.

Company "E" was given a cup as Battalion basketball champions for 1928. Company "F' was given a cup for expert qualification on the bayonet course while Company "H" received a cup for placing in the enlisted men's night ride.

The cup won by Company "H" for the team winning the Annual Night Ride of the 29th Infantry was won by Corp. Blevins and Pvt. McCabe of Company "H".

The ride was a ten-mile course. From various stations ,oral or written instructions were given. These included compass bearings, estimate of distances, gaiting of animals and so forth. The progress of the riders was tabulated at a central station. This fact enabled the organization rooters to enjoy the ride also.

Besides winning the cup fo rexpert qualifications on the bayonet course, Company "F" also won the cup offered by the Battalion for the company making the highest score in the small bore competition which was fired last week on Hunter Range.

Out of a possible 5000, Company "F" made 4514, Company "G" 4507, Hq. Co. 4352, and Company "E" 4343.

Company "E" has been prominent in athletics as well as in their military duties. The company won the Refimental swimming meet in 1927. Won the residental and Battalion basketball championship in 1927. Won the Battalion basketball championship in 1928.

COMPANY "H" OFFICERS WIN TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY NIGHT RIDE

The night ride held from the 29th Infantry Club at 7 P. M., Feb. 27, 1928, was won by Lt. Roosma and Lt. McCammon of Company "H", 29th Infantry.

The ride was under the direction of Lt. Col. J. F. Franklin, and practically every officer in the regiment participated either as a contestant or official. Entries were restricted to officers who had not won any place in any equestrian event in the past two years.

Two officers entered from each company and in some cases all officers of companies entered.

Communication was handled by Lt. E. S. Barker, the ride covered a distance of approximately ten miles.

Capt. T. E. Roderick and Lt. M. R. Kammerer of Regimental Headquarters Company, were second to place in the ride.

CO. "E" WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

The "E" Company quintet won the regimental basketball championship from "B" Company last Monday afternoon in the garrison gymnasium by a score of 55 to 14.

Shortly after the affair got under way there was no question as to who would be the winner, the only question being what will be the final score. The "E" Company team took possession of the ball at the beginning of play and kept it almost continuously during the game, displaying a passing and dribbling game that was far too fast for the "B" Company team.

"B" Company played one of the poorest games they have played the entire season. Their passing and breaking up of plays was far below that they usually show, and once they were in a position to score the shots would almost invariably bounce off the rim.

Franz, Okari and Regan led the attack for "E" Company while the loser best bet was Sergeant.

LONE PINE AT (17.01-19.04)

When Patrick Henry told the world, and Nathan Hale was brave, sons of freedom bore a silken banner with the device, a lone pine tree. History, like the Winchester, repeats. Here on the red clay soil of Georgia blooms another lone green pine, no less symbolic. Like the standard bearer of the great king, tall, erect, and proud, it looms high above Maxey Ridge.

The winds that caress the siltary pine carrv the acrid smoke of battle, crack of the rifle bullet, rat-ta-ta-tat of machine guns, big guns booming. It lifts its head into an air which a flight of leaden missiles, and swift steel. Red mud at its base is churned by H. E. shell. The earth trembles to the roll and thunder of heavy artillery. Benning resembles war torn France. In Block 21 every glass, window, of course, is shattered.

For, can you bear it, the Reds and Blues are at it again. From the North, General Ivan Vodka Morwhiski, like Attilla the scourge of old, leads hordes of bloody Reds invading Blue territory (or "tiritroory", if you prefer). The Four Horsemen equitate roughshod over the fertile fields of Georgia corn, reaping flame and ruin. Crimson Mars streaks the sky. The war clouds roll up and smoke palls the ozone.

The center of a far flung line; locally, crests from Smythe to Smith; an interior Blue battalion holds Cook Ridge. After fierce fighting Bench Mark 26, so dear to the hearts of all sketchers, fell into the smirched hands of Red Vandals attacking over Riley Ridge from the Northeast.

With sunset, opposing forces dug in, lines barely three hundred yards apart. Now and then a rocket pierce dthe gloom or a flare lit up no man's land. Intermittently throughout the night, imaginative sentinels blazed away. Then, for the moment, the darkness was stabbed by darts of fire, flashes; rattle of rifles, pup-pup-pup of machine guns. This dying down, another troubled silence reigned. Behind Blue lines there was muffled activity ,for morning would bring another Red thrust.

Came the dawn! With it the shriek of shrapnel, the whistle and sough of shell, detonation! Behind their barrage the Reds advanced slowly. Leading waves mowed down by rifle fire, deadly and accurate, machine guns firing on final protective lines, filled the ditch with enemy dead and the slopes between Riley and Cook Ridges. But the enemy still came on, wave followed wave, as the rising tide comes up a beach.

Their barrage lifted. It threw up spurts of dirt before Blne support positions on Rivet and Maxey Ridges. The Reds passed to the assault, reorganized, moved over the crest of Cook Ridge, and down, then up toward the lone pine tree. The Blue front line had melted like a pile of loose sand before a great ocean breaker.

In the wooded ravine between Humphreys Hill and Rivet Ridge a Blue support company formed for counter-attack. Bayonets on rifles in trembling but desperate hands gleamed in flecks of light filtering through the leaves of the trees above. The company commander finished hurried orders to his platoon leaders and first sergeant. Then he turned to his men variously grouped about.

"Are we gonna let them sugar coated Red sunbeams take our so and so lone pine tree?" shouted Captain "A", for in the heat of action one can hardly be grammatical.

"Oh, goodness gracious, no!" replied his brave and well censored soldiers with one accord.

"Then up and at the three cornered, snagle toothed baboons," cried Captain "A". He swung his arm in a frward arc.

"Follow me!"

A line of bristling bayonets swept from the edge of the wood. From a point (17.25-18.85), a Blue machine gun platoon using outward swinging traverse caught the Reds. The Blue support company rushed over the North spur of Humphreys Hill. One pounders, which could do bridge work on elks' teeth at a thousand yards, cracked down. As no suitable targets appeared, their gun crews picked off Red officers shooting them between the third and fourth shirt butons. This was economical of ammunition since they could get a two dollar enemy leader for each dollar ninety-eight H. E. shell.

The Reds faltered, were beaten down, fell back. Counter attacking troops crushed them from a flank. Blue steel bayonets flashed red. The enemy attack evaporated.

As Horatius defended the bridge across the Tiber, the gallant Blues defended the lone pine tree on Maxey Ridge.

Another sunset glowed in the West and the lone green pine, though wounded and torn, still stood proudly erect. A symbol of an heroic defense, it remained, a beloved Aiming Point, for future generations.

CAPTAIN JOHANSEN SPEAKS TO CHILDREN'S SCHOOL

Tuesday afternoon Capt. H. C. Johansen spoke very interestingly to the pupils of the Children's School on his native land Denmark.

The geographical, as well as, economical phase of this European country's development was clearly defined.

It was with keen interest that we learned that there are no millionaires in Denmark, neither do we find any extremely poor people there. This condition is the result of an industrious nation that supplies itself with 91 per cent. of its domestic demands.

Capt. Johansen is a very entertaining as well as instructive speaker, and the school is anticipating his next visit with much pleasure.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS TWO PLAYS LAST WEEK

The February program of one act plays by the Dramatic Club having survived repeated assaults from the influenza epedemic was presented last Friday night in the 29th Infantry to the largest number of members and guests who have so far attended the "for members only" programs. It is apparent that the Dramatic Club has outgrown its old stand for many were unable to find seats.

The first number, "After the Dance," being a most intimate glimpse of metropolitan life of the present night, to misquote the author, was a unique presentation in that it was both written and directed by a member of the club—Lieut. Robert C. Oliver. The cast consisted of Dorothy Townshend Oliver as the Girl, and Lt. Henry T. Oliver as the Boy.

J. M. Barrie's "Rosalind" followed. It is difficult to say who deserves the greatest credit, Barrie the Author, the Director Major E. F. Rice, or the members of the cast as individuals, for the whole thing was moulded into the most delightful presentation it has been our good fortune to see for many a long day. Edith C. Landis as "The Lodger" seeking comfort and happiness in middle age, surely got all from the part that the author could have hoped for and then with her charming magnetism added quite a lot more. Lieut. Joseph H. Gilbreath as "The Boy," in love with a dual personality which he couldn't fathom, supported Mrs. Landis in all that the word implies. As an embarrassed love sick youth he was excellent. Vera K. Brier made of "The Landlady" a personage that anyone would be content to lodge with in quest for a comfortable middle age.

The settings for both plays were skillfully executed. That for "After the Dance" was the most colorful so far used this year and the one for "Rosalind" was so comfortable looking that we were inclined to settle back and toast our own toes. The settings and the stage direction in general were under the supervision of Captain Feodore Schmidt.

N. C. O. CLUB FOR 29TH INFANTRY

Plans for an N. C. O.s club in the 29th Infantry are progressing rapidly and at the first meeting, held March 1st, a committee of three, one from each battalion and one from the Special Units, was selected to confer with Major Laurence W. Young, officer in charge, to draw up the constitution and by-laws. This first meeting was attended by N. C. O.s from every company in the regiment who were called upon by Major Young to voice their opinion as to suggestions for the club. The question of initiation fee, dues, furnishings and quarters were freely discussed and much enthusiasm was shown by those present. Reports from the companies of the regiment are that most of the N. C. O.s have expressed their intention of joining.

It is contemplated on having the club quartered above the 29th Infantry Post Exchange Branch. This however will only be temporary as plans are under way for the club to have quarters in the new brick barracks that are to be constructed soon.

The committee of three that were selected to meet with Major Young to frame the constitution and by-laws are First Sgt. Biggerstaff, 2nd Battalion; Staff Sgt. Justice, 1st Battalion, and Sgt. Freis, Special Units. This committee expects to have their work completed this week when a second meeting of the club will be held to arrange details for the initiation which are expected to start April 1.

Officers Conference Held on Plans for New Quarters

Following the announcement last Tuesday morning in the daily press to the effect that the Army Housing Bill had passed the House, a conference of officers at Fort Benning was held Tuesday afternoon at which time various plans for contemplated officers quarters to be constructed here were presented to The Commandant, General E. T. Collins. The various plans from different organizations were discussed pro and con, and at the close of the meeting, General Collins appointed a committee to consist of Col. P. S. Bond, Major L. E. Jones and Lieut. W. B. Allison, to draw up an approved plan for junior officers quarters for Fort Benning, said plan to be sent to General F. B. Cheatham, The Quartermaster General, for his consideration when the time came for final decision as to suitable quarters to be erected at Fort Benning.

Officers in Conference

The following officers attended the conference and submitted plans or suggestions for the new quarters under consideration for Fort Benning: Col. P. C. Galleher, Col. R. W. Kingman, Major E. S. Miller, Col. F. C. Baker, Col. Wait C. Johnson, Col. A. B. Warfield, Col. C. E. Delaplane, Major L. E. Jones, Major J. Russ, Lieut. W. B. Allison and Lieut. F. C. Burback.

Q. M. G. Desires Suggestions

General F. B. Cheatham, The Quartermaster-General, who made a visit to Fort Benning several months ago, stated here that he would desire the officers at Fort Benning to make suggestions, or submit plans for suitable quarters. At that time it was not known as to what date appropriations would be passed for the construction of quarters here, but now that the James Housing Bill has passed the House, and will soon be submitted to the Senate, it is thought that it will only be a short time before the latter body will consider the bill, and that it will probably be passed without amendment. Of course, action by the Senate is problematical. However, plans are going forward with the assumption that the appropriations will pass the Senate, within the near future, and the construction of quarters at Fort Benning might begin within a few months.

Burback Submits Excellent Plans

Lieut. C. F. Burback, 83rd Field Artillery, presented a design of quarters suitable for company officers sets that received serious consideration during the conference Tuesday afternoon. His plan was the result of the serious study given to this question by the officers of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion at this station. A board of officers was appointed by Major L. E. Jones, commanding the battalion, detail for the board being Captain E. Busch, Lieut. Burback, and Lieut. Dawson, and the purpose of the board being to "submit plans for suggested types of officers quarters for officers of Fort Benning." In order to arrive at their final plans, several officers' wives were invited to attend the meeting in order that their ideas might aid desirable features to their proposed plans. The plans finally adopted by this board was based on the plan which appeared in The Army and Navy Journal, dated February 18, 1928.

Final revision of their plan was submitted to Col. P. S. Bond, for expert advice thereon.

Features of Plan

The following features were embodied in the plan drawn up by the board of officers of the 83rd iFeld Artillery Battalion:

All bedrooms to be corner rooms with windows on two sides; climatic necessity; all connected for convenience.

Dead air space in walls for insulation.

Sleeping porch; climatic necessity; preferably glassed for winter use.

Entrance hall; to protect living room; permits coat racks outside living room.

Dining room; large enough to permit entertaining of guests without crowding.

Kitchen, air locked from other parts of the house by double doors.

Interior fireplace permits one flue for both heating plant and fireplace.

Porte cochere; convenient protection for car, the garage being about 400 feet from house.

Den, universally recognized as a necessity.

Closets, ample for all needs and sufficiently large.

Spanish type bungalow, suited to this climate.

Hot water heat.

Houses to be constructed at least seventy-five apart.

Hollow tile construction; tile roof.

Combination garage and servant's quarters; built separate from house.

Provision for three bedrooms and two baths; considered a necessity.

Single houses most desirable.

The cost of the proposed bungalow as submitted by the above Board would be about $9,000; the appropriations would allow the sum of $12,500 to be expended on company officers quarters.

As soon as the plans to be sent to the Office of the Quartermaster General are approved by The Commandant, The Infantry School News will print the approved design.

SWABBINGS FROM A MORTAR BORE

Biglerville, Ga.,
March 9, 1928.

Dear friend Otto,

When I and you mixed mortar at the old C. N. E. sheds, when they built the new station at Danbury, we thought we knew our plumbing. But, fella', how we was wrong! Mixing with trench mortars is different, "Et quoque," as old Jules Caesar used to say (which, being freely translated, means "And how"). And if you think perhaps, then you're elected Queen of the May, unanimous!

Well, Otto, you drop a can of expletives, explosives, or something, one of them things, down a piece of pipe. For a second, maybe, nothin' happens. But, big boy, don't let that curiosity tear loose! The last bozo that bent a inquisitive eyebrow down a mortar went singing to join the angel band. He was sure disintegrated, as the fella says, what I mean, dispersed. They found o belt buckle in Opelika and a shoestring in Cusseta, but the rest of him is still missing.

Well, anyway, you drop this can in the front end. Then, BOP! And I'll be a cross eyed kangaroo, if that can don't come bustin gout the same end you just put it in! Doesn't seem any more reasonable than a woman's handkerchief.

But just because Brother Crane knew his three inch pipe, don't think this thing doesn't prove something when it lights. It zoops sighing away up in the air, does a few flops just to show it doesn't give a whoop, and then zooms down. POW! Them Reds, we're always fighting either does the hundred in three flat, or else their running days is sure curtailed. Maybe, is just what I don't mean.

And these here things ain't dangerous, Otto. That's the bunk. The danger part is these humorous student guys. I'm sitting down peaceful and quiet, listening to how you adjust the target to where the shell hits, and I notice how it's getting Spring. Thinking how the sap, the other kind, is probably starting in the trees, I see the way the sun shines on them copper wires strung over Ebbert Hill.

The no na spike of a tree that has some green buds, I see a blue bird. Of course, I don't believe it and think maybe I'm the sap. Just as I figure that maybe the bird knows it's Monday, too, Zowie! About half the mud on the reservation and some rocks the gent forgot to remove, smack me behind the ear. I don't see no more blue birds, I see stars, plenty!

When I come to, there's a big guy with a goofy grin on his pan standing behind me. Of course, he didn't do it, Oh No. He's innocent like doves and it's all a surprise, like a chorus girl in a prayer meeting, to him. I haven't quite snapped out of my dope and am still groggy. This bozo looks bigger than Jess Willard to me. So I stutter, "Ha, ha," and let on it's a good joke. It is, but it's all on me!

No, Otto, mortars is the gravy. But as the poet says, "It's allus the innocent bystander that gets it in the neck."

Well, Otto, as they say in deor old London,

Pip, Pip,
Your friend,

Hag.

29TH INF.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

Our Supply Sergeant would resort to anything to get his name in print and if he keeps up he is going to be as popular in the past as our Staff Sergeant is with the ladies in Columbus, anyway, one day last week he had heard that the record for driving five nails in a board was 20 seconds and he proceeded to break that record resulting in a badly smashed finger. More luck next time Stragand.

And talking about the Staff Sergeant there has been some rumor about he being connected with some money. Let me help you spend that million, will you "Kelly"?

Cpl. Rogers, a short timer in the company, has just returned from a 30-day furlough and says he is (not) going to reup. Pretty soft George, only 20 days to do.

The Mess Sergeant stepp·d out the other night and took one of the innocent members of the company with him, and but for the strong will power and divine determination to do right, this young man would have been led astray. Oh Sergeant, how could you do such a thing.

Our Company Commander, Lt. Tatom, has just left o na 30-day leave that has been well earned and we all hope that the Lieut. has a wonderful time. Lieut. Brier has taken over the duities of Company Commander and Battalion Adjutant.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "C"

"Well," well being that bayonet season is over I suppose that Corporal Darmofal can start in with his recruits again, and I fo rone can tell you that you are in for a roasting if you don't make those movements correct.

We have had quite a few promotions in the Company. Private Anderson, one of the sure enough old-timers, was made Corporal the other day. Our good friend "Basom" Bolton, wants all to know that he only has a few days to go. Then for the marriage license bureau. Just another good lady going wrong.

—J. V. C.

Company "D"

Company "D" always on the alert won the "Greased-Pole Boxing Match" at the Organization Day exercises. This particular feat was won by Pvt. Reddock, an all-round athlete.

The evening chatter is gradually dying away from the coal stove in the Recreation Room. Some say Spring is here. At least if we follow some of our sheiks to town we would say so indeed.

A fire of undetermined origin started in Tent 22 last week and created quite a stir. Though twenty-nine extinguishers were used it threatened the line of tents for a while. A few sharp commands from our fire chief, 1st Sgt. Heldreth, the blaze was soon extinguished.

Pvt. Hendrix being well up on "Suit case" drill has started teaching to a few more short timers. We all like your company know three years won't hurt you.

—SWAN.

Company "E"

Another short time in this outfit. Sgt. Karpinski has 3 days to do and Pfc. "Red" Payne is right on his heels. We regret losing these men because Sgt. Karpinski knows his onions about soldiering and Pfc. Payne knows his saw and hammer. However we are expecting Sgt. Karpinski back in the Co.

We have quite a few men going on furlough this month and among them was Sgt. Boling, a brand new Sgt. in this company.

Pfc. Hugh Moody has returned from a well spent 60-day furlough and says he is waiting for that certain day in June.

If any one has any Western Story magazines that they don't kant kindly bring them to "Red" Langley.

—J. R. H.

Company "F"

It has been rumored that Cpl. Armstead is about to plunge into the sea of matrimony. Here's hopin' he doesn't get his feet wet.

Upon investigation it has been found that the leader of the trio who caused so much disturbance in Block 18, Saturday afternoon was Cpl. Conley. Not only that he strolled across the golf course, nearly breaking up a foursome. It is suggested that he be placed under observation.

Harvey T. Skates, the fastest man in "F" Company, (in more ways than one) lost the obstacle race Saturday by failing to make a "proper withdrawal" from a barrel. Better luck next time, Harvey.

Tommy Thompson, another fleet-footed member of "F" Co. speeded his way to victory in the potato race. Barron hopped to second in the sack race and Pfc. Maitland would have won the greased pole event if he hadn't slipped up.

FRIDAY, MARCH 9

"DOOMSDAY," starring Florence Vidor and Gary Cooper in a gripping-pulsating story from the novel by Warwick Deeping. Cooper plays the part of a hard working frame rwho is madly in love with a woman who is so tired of drudgery that she sacrifices her love to obtain ease and luxury—she leaves the husband she loves, then finds that the life of luxury lacks those elements of real happiness which are enjoyed only by those whose hearts are in sympathy.

"Ain't Life as it Isn't." Fables.

SATURDAY, MARCH 10

"THE DEVIL'S TWIN," starring Leo Maloney in the story of a happy-go lucky intinerant horse trader who invents a twin brother to clear himself of framed charges and to free an ex-judge from the spite of the vengeful father of a man whom he had sentenced. It is a story of wild mountain life, filled with romance, intrigue, action and humor.

"Sunny Side," Charlie Chaplin.

SUNDAY, MARCH 11

"TWO ARABIAN NIGHTS," featuring Mary Astor with Wm. Boyd and Louis Wolheim in a story of intense humor, native wit, resource, daring and paradox. This story begins where the war ends. Two American doughboys—one a bowery tough and the other a son of wealth roam astray in hostile territory making holiday and love while fleeing through prison camps in darkest Arabia with danger and death on every side. The most comical scenes occur during the courtship of an Emir's daughter. This is William Boyd's first big picture since he starred in "The Volga Boatman." This cast as well as the producing personnel are credited with making "What Price Glory" one of the crowning successes of the year.

"Pathe Review No. 36."

"Paramount News No. 62."

MONDAY, MARCH 12

"THE SMART SET," starring William Haines with Jack Holt, Alice Day and Hobart Bosworth in an immensely entertaining comedy drama of the polo field. It is the story of a rich man's son who toils not, but certainly can play polo. From a standpoint of action the story is particularly thrilling. In the international tournament marked ability, cleve rhorsemanship and accurate playing under adverse conditions, wins the game in an anti-climax filled with suspense, a clever romance binds the varied action of the play.

"Hawk of the Hills," No. 4.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13

"A HERO FOR A NIGHT," a Universal photo play of exciting action in the air, starring Glen Tryon. It is comedy from start to finish. He had a correspondence school education in flying, and really found that he could fly, but coming down was an entirely different matter. He started for New York in a broken down airship and awoke, doing a dance for the Russians. This picture presents something entirely new in the comedy line. It is warranted to dispel all grief.

"Slippery Silks," Imperial Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14

"QUALITY STREET," starring Marion Davies with Conrad Nagel in a screen production based upon Sir James Barrie's famous stage play of the same name. The action takes place in a quiet English town during the Napoleonic wars. Conrad falls in love with Marian who feels certain that he is going to propose, but instead he enlists in the army. He returns atfer ten years and finds her in old maids week. Through a clever ruse she compells him to again fall in love with her. After a series of absorbing incidents and varied difficulties they both attain their goal. The story is clever and interesting.

"Paramount News," No. 63.

THURSDAY, MARCH 15

"THE CITY GONE WILD," starring Thomas Meighan in a melodrama of crooks in a great city. In this story Meighan's is afforded a powerful role characterizing a criminal lawyer who turns prosecuting attorney, because of the love of a beautiful girl. Gang wars and gun fights, gunmen and their girls are shown in striking contrast to the homes of society.

FRIDAY, MARCH 16

"COHEN'S AND KELLY'S IN PARIS," starring George Sidney with J. Farrell MacDonald in a most comical sequel to the picture that entertained a nation. Paris is the scene; wild innocent fun and laughter is the meat. They're tossed upon the billowy waves,

ORGANIZATION DAY DANCE BRILLIANT AFFAIR

The Organization Day Dance on Saturday evening at which time the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry were hosts to the officers and ladies of the garrison was one of the most delightful dances of the year. Biglerville was artiscally decorated with palms and cut flowers. At each end of the ball room the fireplaces appeared to have glowing coals, and grouped near by were machine guns. The flags of the regiment were effectively used on the columns and at each end of the room the illuminated coat-of-arms of the Regiment furnished the soft glow fo rthe moonlight dances. At midnight elaborate refreshments were served.

There were a number of dinner parties prior to the dance on Saturday evening. Among those entertaining were: Lt. and Mrs. W. W. Brier, Jr. whose guests were Capt. and Mrs. E. S. Johnston, Capt. and Mrs. O. R. Rhoads, Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Case, Capt. and Mrs. P. R. Goode, Capt. and Mrs. J. L. Ballard, Capt. and Mrs. F. S. Doll, Capt. and Mrs. B. B. McMahon, Capt. and Mrs. J. MRS. C. R. BUMFORD ENTERTAINS

At her lovely quarters Mrs. C. R. Bumford entertained a number of her friends with an afternoon social. The rooms opened to the guests were beautifully decorated for the occasion. The color scheme of gold and white being carried out. Yellow buttercups, daffodils, etc., being used in profusion, wall baskets being filled with the lovely blossoms. A number of readings rendered by Miss Marguerite Dennard were greatly enjoyed, among the most touching being "In Flanders Field." She graciously responded to several encores. Miss Nettye Miller was an interesting entertainer. She was dressed in white talton, with touches of gold. Her solo dance, "To a Butterfly," was indeed graceful and beautiful. The new 23rd Psalm was read by Mrs. Daniel Hughes and was thoroughly enjoyed. An interesting game was that of "The Cuckoo Game," each guest punching and reading her own fortune which afforded much fun. A contect was given in which the prize went to the person making the most words out of "Fort Benning." Mrs. J. H. Kriz and Mrs. Walter Miller, tying, and a lovely hanging basket being awarded each of them.

The dining room was exquisitely decorated in the same colors of gold and white. The table was laid in white satin damask covered with runners of yellow satin, scalloped and at each corner of the table was a fluffy bow of tulle. The lights were shaded in yellow. The center piece was a cut glass bowl filled with daffodils. A delicious salad course with hot tea was served. Each guest received souvenirs of gold baskets filled with yellow and white mints, on the handle o feach bein ga daffodil. Hhose present were Mrs. H. M. Foster and daughter Betty Jean, Miss Marguerite Dennard, Mrs. Roy Camp, Mrs. T. M. Daniel, Mrs. J. H. Kriz, Mrs. L. N. Chitwood, Mrs. John Copeland, Mrs. S. S. Hunter, Mrs. M. Rosen, Mrs. J. R. Morrison, Mrs. Daniel Hughes, Mrs. Pete Davidowitch, Mrs. N. K. Reed, Mrs. C. Newsome, Mrs. W. B. Miller, Mrs. C. R. Bumford, Miss Nettye Miller and Master Louie F. Hunter.

GEORGE WASHINGTON PARTY

A beautiful birthday party was given by Mrs. James H. Kriz at her quarters at Fort Bening on Thursday afternoon February 23rd. The main feature of the afternoon was an "Army Contest," Mrs. H. M. Foster winning first prize, an embroidered tea apron, Mrs. R. A. Camp and Mrs. C. R. Bumford each winning a box of chocolate covered cherries. After the contest the guests were invited into the dining room where the decorations carried out the George Washington idea. The centerpiece being an "Uncle Sam" hat holding American Beauty roses surrounded by the favors, tied with red, white and blue ribbons leading to each plate. On one end of the table was a large angel food cake decorated with clusters of cherries, hatchets and the motto "I Cannot Tell a Lie," furthering the Washington idea on the other end of the table was a tray filled with palatable sandwiches. The guests were also served with tea and Washington salad in paper baskets with clusters of cherries and miniature hatchets tied to the handles. Those enjoying Mrs. Kriz's hospitality were the following: Mrs. H. M. Foster, Mrs. J. R. Morrison, Mrs. M .Rosen, Mrs. L. N. Chitwood, Mrs. G. R. Still, Mrs. C. R. Bumfrd, Mrs. H. M. Ramsey, also Mrs. R. A. Camp of Columbus and Miss Carolyn Chitwood of Tullahoma, Tenn.

LIST OF CLUB EVENTS

Thursday, March 8, 1928—Lt. C. T. Davis' Party, Polo Club, 2:15 P. M.

Friday, March 9, 1928 — Medical Bridge, Polo Club, 8 P. M.

Saturday, March 10, 1928—Dancing Class, Polo Club, 9:30 A. M.

Monday, March 12, 1928—Meeting of Literary Club, 2 P. M., Polo Club.

Tuesday, March 13, 1928—Dancing Class, Hop Room, 2:30 P. M.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—March 19th.
Time—2:15.

Of all the lovely things ever presented by the Glee Club—many have said that their performance on last Monday was loveliest. I was like a rare gem in its equisite beauty. The story of the cantata, "Three Springs" was given in full in last week's issue in the hope that all who read it might use it as a libretto and by having the beauty of the theme in mind be the better able to enjoy the lovely music. Captain George L. King under whose direction this musical treat was presented gave in his inimitable way the story of the cantata as an introduction. Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd and Mrs. Melvin R. Finney took the solo parts and were supported by Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Griswold, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. King and Mrs. Macklin in the beautiful choruses. Mrs. Edwin Butcher accompanied.

After the cantata Corporal Orlando of the 29th Infantry gave two cello solos first, "Derceuse from Jacelyn" by Godard, and as his encore, a concert number by our American composer, Clay Smith. These were well done (we have even Capt. King's word for it) and was surely greatly enjoyed by the club.

After the program Mrs. Wait C. Johnson, president, very graciously expressed our appreciation to these gifted musicians who have done so much to inspire, uplift and delight us. And there was conscious regret that this is the last concert Capt. King and Mrs. Butcher will give to the Woman's Club—for they who have done so much for the club and for all Benning are ordered away.

Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman and Mrs. Wayne C. Archer were hostesses at tea. Mrs. Heraty and Mrs. Archer presided at the tea table and Mrs. Kingman was assisted by Mrs. Ashurst in serving.

Mrs. Charles W. Ryder will present her program on contemporary Italian Literature next Monday at the Polo club at 2:00. Italy has occupied the world's attention for a number of years. She has a conspicuous man of political affairs—and she has a conspicuous Woman of Literary affairs. This year the winner of the Noble Prize for the most outstanding literary production of the year. Until this year, only once before has a woman ever had this great honor conferred upon her. (Selma Lagerlof of Sweden) and now comes a novel from Sunny Italy to win world recognition, a novel written by a woman, Grazzia Deledda. This prize winning novel has not yet been thanslated but her latest novel that has been translated will be given.

The program will be as follows:

1. Foreword: Contemporary Italian Literature.
2. The Flame of Life by D'Annunzio.
3. The Mother by Grazzio Deledda.
4. A Play by Pirandella.

This is next to the last program to be presented this year by the Literary club. It behooves us not to miss this on the next (Mrs. Peyton's program on American Literature) for it may be many a moon before we have such an opportunity again.

The program committee has worked for months on the programs presented and every program has been worthy. Let us not let "Spring fever" or bridge make inroads on our audience. We have the rest of the lives to be lazy or play bridge, but such programs as Mrs. Ryder and Mrs. Peyton present are difficult to duplicate.

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

No, Bee's Buzzings has not perished from the face of the earth. Witness it's second appearance!

Horse Show Week at Augusta next week—and with the group of skilled officer riders, namely Captain Mallan, Captain Rogers, Lt. Jake Moon, Lt. Van Houten and Major Smith—and the ladies, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. Landis, and Mrs. Forsythe, Benning should bring home many trophies. Very instrumental in making Benning's name stand out in the horse show last year were Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Forsythe (the former Mary Pendleton), and with these on the team again this year, and the added ability of Mrs. Landis and Mrs. McClure, the ladies of The Infantry School should shine brightly. An interesting fact in connection with the officers who will ride under Benning's colors, is that Lt. Van Houten, who is one of the five, rode last year at Augusta with the University of Georgia team, from Athens.

One of our pet ambitions: To be able to appear in spats and wear a monocle as nonchalantly as "Sauly" does.

Sights seen of a Monday's noon:

Major Harding eating a piece of pie at the Service Club—his struggles over "Napoleon," during the monographic period, apparently happily forgotten. With him, his boon companion, Major McCuniff. Truly a Damon and Pythias combination—for where one sees one, there one also sees the other. Lt. "Red" Corey very pleased looking—possibly thinking of the enjoyable time he had last evening—for Bee's Buzzings saw him in the company of a very personable looking young lady. Lt. Darr playing the slot machine at the Officers' Club. Captain Urquehardt playing some kind of card game in the high-sounding "Bankers' Quarter" of the Club. Lt. "Signal Corps" Green, trying to work a puzzle. Colonel Hunt drives by. Colonel Brewer in the car with him. A bunch of National Guardsmen ride by, and my office building heaves in sight, and sights all over.

Until just recently, Bee was not interested either for or against the "Infantry School News," but she can't help noticing how much the paper has progressed since the present editor, Lt. Stewart, has had command. (No, Oswald, it is not meant that since the writer entered her column that it has become so good.) From just a dry supplement to the Daily Bulletin, as a rival columnist puts it, it has become very newsy and interesting. This is due in part to the efforts of Major Harding's Tactical Topics, Lt. Nichol's "Saw Dust," and the company officers' scribes.

Bee's Benning Brightlights (which we admit right here is a "steal" on Lt. Nichol's Personages of the Week) will be given each week—and for this initial honor, she nominates Captain Boyers, of the Students, who has led the Students Polo Team to the very pinnacle of Benning Polo Teams, and whose team has suffered only one defeat this year. Himself a poloist of the first water.

MR. BEAVER HERE

Mr. W. O. Beaver, well known to many officers of the service is in Columbus representing The Globe Tailoring Company, of Milwaukee, and C. S. Hyers and Sons, of Ohathe, Kansas. These firms are well known to the service. Mr. Beaver is at the Ralston Hotel until Saturday evening, and invites his old friends to meet him there.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all"

We enjoy reading our column, as published in the Infantry School News, almost as much as if we had never seen it before. This, we hasten to state, is not just another manifestation of our inate vanity; it springs, rather, from a natural curiosity to discover what has happened to what we wrote in the course of its getting into print. Aside from the customary typographical errors which tend to give our column the appearance of a cablegram in code, the freedom which the inspired compositor frequently takes with our adjectives, nouns, verbs and even sentences produces some unique results. Generally speaking, we cannot say that the literary and historical value of our weekly contributions are improved by the censorship of the Typesetters Union but it does give them a freshness and piquancy that they would not otherwise possess.

The most cussed and discussed Tactical Topic of the week was the marked Flank Guard Problem which Major Ferris promulgated on Friday. Major Ferris generously allowed us an hour and forty-five minutes to arrive at an incorrect decision as to the composition of the force—a feat which we might possibly have achieved in ten minutes without materially lowering our mark—and then handed out the second requirement, which called for a plan of campaign, and gave us an hour to do it in. This strategem left the student tactician completely bewildered and provided the School with material for a mimeographed comment phamplet almost as thick as the one issued last fall on the subject of Obsolete Communications. From the large attendance at the 4 P. M. indignation meeting, we deduce that there will be a bumper crop of U's harvested next week. As we personallv failed to use the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, whom Major Ferris esteems so highly, we fear for the worse.

The graduation exercises of Captain Venable's Physical Culture Class were held Thursday morning on the Golf course. The class was permitted to see Golf Champion O'Hare in action and to gaze, in rapture, upon Assistant Instructor Luck's demonstration of the latest in sports headgear. Assistant Instructor Luck's fuzzy cap puts him one up on Walter Hagen for the Sheik of the Links Championship.

On Monday, last, Majors Spaulding, Bradley and Ryder fared forth into the great open spaces to spy out the land. Specifically, they were in quest of a piece of Fort Benning scenery that would constitute an appropriate setting for a terrain exercise that they were cooking up for the Advanced Class. Starting at 8:00 A. M. they found a lovely section of the reservation somewhere between the water tanks and Preston's which so delighted them that they completely forgot their original mission. Parking their car in the middle of a murmuring stream, they spent the rest of the day and part of the night in close communion with nature. We do not pretend to be able to forecast the details of the problem, which this triumverate will ultimately inflict upon us, but we can give you one bit of advance information. Somewhere in the statement of the problem you will find a footnote to the effect that "streams in this locality are fordable for foot troops but may be crossed only with difficulty by motor vehicles."

Captain Callahan is our latest acrostic artist. His contribution deals with the celebrated R. T. P. (Read the paper) maxim of war. His version is:

R-ile
T-he
P-rofessor

The absence of Captain Cole, of the Air Service, from the Outpost Tactical Ride on Saturday morning was widely commented upon. It is generally believed that the thought of being required to use the airplane map to solve the exercise caused our distinguished aviator to become violently ill.

Theatrical Notes

On Friday evening, the Advanced class players made their initial appearance before the Fort Benning public. Their performance of "School days"—one of Will Shakespeare's lesser known masterpieces—before the Sojourners and their guests, was favorably received.

Sir Beerbum O'Hare's portrayal of the tragic role of Major Whosit was superb and it is rumored that several of our prominent instructors are eagerly awaiting the next Marked Problem in order to show their appreciation. McCulin's illustrated soliloquy, as rendered by Signor Luck, was another outstanding feature of the performance while Capt. Moss, Bigelow and Culin, in the familiar roles of mythical Infantry School heroes —Eisengrimmer, De Vollinger and O'Heraty— displayed a degree of histrionic talent which marks them for leading parts in any future production by the Advanced Class Players. Incidentally, we should not be surprised if the performance of Captain Moss should cause him to be chosen as the only logical successor of one of our ablest and most effective instructors whose detail expires this year.

E. F. H.

"Never despair. Somewhere above the clouds the sun is shining."

"Yes, and somewhere below the sea there's solid bottom but that doesn't help a man when he falls overboard."

The STUDENT

COMPANY C, COMPANY OFFICERS COURSE

The company was very much impressed, the other day, with the demonstration of the new one-pound—, pardon, the new 37mm gun, and the new howitz—, again excuse please,—the 75mm Infantry Mortar, M1. The guns have been made bettter in many ways, the carts have been strengthened and improved with smaller wheels ,but not the slightest attention has been given the mule. Thought should be spent on developing a smaller and stronger mule. A large intelligent mule can do the work but he does look so sheepish pulling those ridiculous little carts. Our best minds in the company have started to solve this problem. Mongolian ponies have been urged; male ostriches recommended—males for the obvious reason that it wouldn't do to have our means of locomotion laying around when there were battles to be fought. (The burred shoes of the 37mm might be of some use on an ostrich.) Captain Ramsbottom propounded a suggestion that for pure scientific experimentation is startling. With no conceivable knowledge of what the offspring might be, hi sidea was to cross a mule with a cart. The only result imaginable would be utter confusion.

Of interest too was the, to some minds, practical use to which the ammunition vests of the mortar squad might be put. What the well dressed bootlegger will wear. Very handy too.

The following members of the company officers class have applied for passes for the Jewish holiday, March 17,—McGee, Halloran, O'Daniel, Murphy, and Bent. Others are expected.

Banker (telephoning)—"Captain Urquhart do you know your account is overdrawn $17.00?"

Capt. Urquhart—"Say look up two weeks ago. How did I stand them? I'll hold the phone."

Banker (returning to the phone) "You had a balance of $427.42."

Capt. Urquhart—"Well did I call you up?"

Members of the distinguished 9th Squad were guests of Captain and Mrs. N. P. Williams in Columbus Thursday evening. The event was a waffle supper followed by seven handed Mah-jongg Immediately after the feast Captain "One Round" Morrow read a well prepared paper on, "Shots I have taken and fired." The real hit of the evening was a talk by Captain "Magna Vox" Weiner on "Events" of the Past, Present and Future and What we should do to Remedy Them."

Stude—"You say you like the climate in Duluth?"

Capt. Lundy—"Oh yes. I have lived there for a number of years and the air is the finest in the world.

Stude—"To what do you attribute it?"

Capt. Lundy—"Really I don't know unless it is because the Swedes keep their windows down.

NATIONAL GUARD N. C. O. CLASS ELECT OFFICERS

The National Guard Detachment has organized within itself a class group designed primarily to promote acquaintance and good feeling among all the members of the class.

The election of officers was held last week and the following men were chosen to fill the positions.

President—Sgt. Joseph A. Lee, Hq. Co. 3rd Bn., 111th Inf., Pennsylvania N. G.

Vice President—M. Sgt. Thomas M. Williams, Hq. Co., 71st Inf. Brig. Tex. N. G.

Secretary—Tech. Sgt. Richard M. Casto, Hq. Co., 150th Inf., W. Va., N. G.

Treasurer—M. Sgt. Grover C. DeWolfe, Serv. Co., 125th Inf., Mich, N. G.

Sgt. at Arms and Janitor—Staff Sgt. Dick R. Petty, Hq. Co. 2nd Bn., 168th Inf., Iowa, N. G.

The generalship of an organization such as this, requires the utmost in leadership and personality with the cooperation of the entire group to attain ultimate success. The choice of officers certainly fulfills the first requirement and the second is entirely dependent upon those without responsibility whom we hope will do their part.

During practical field work with telephones and switch boards the following conversation was overheard.

Sgt. Baum, operating the 2nd Infantry switchboard: "Waiting—Waiting."

Sgt. Collins in a weak voice at the other end of the line, "Who the hell am I?"

No wonder Sherman said what he did about war; we heartily agree, but we could put up with the Georgia cold if we didn't have to study code to warm ourselves every morning.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examinations:

Junior Physical Director, $1,680.

Senior Physical Director, $1,860.

Applications fo rjunior and senior physical directors must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than April 3.

The examinations are to fill vacancies in the Veterans' Bureau hospitals throughout the United States, and in positions requiring similar qualifications.

The entrance salary for these positions in the Veterans' Bureau hospitals are indicated above. A probationary period of six months is required; advancement may be made in the discretion of appointing officers, and subject to the occurrence of vacancies in higher positions. Promotion is possible to a maximum of $2,040 a year in the junior grade, and to $2,400 a year in the senior grade.

The duities are to give exercise in physical culture and remedial gymnastics; to keep records and make reports of work and progress of each patient; and to perform related duty as assigned.

For these positions in the Veterans' Bureau men only are desired.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on their education, training, and experience.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the United State civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

SMALL BORE RIFLE COMPETITION

At 8:30 A. M. March 1st the 24th Infantry Small Bore Rifle Team auspiciously began its record firing in the army Small Bore Competition with Capt. Tupper leading off with a possible in the prone position. From then on excellent scores were made right down to the conclusion of the match at 3:45 P. M. when Sgt. Bradford, the anchor man who had done phenomenal shorting, closed the match with a possible in the sitting position.

Telegraphic report of the ranking of the teams based on the scores, and subject later to change upon a checking of the targets, will not be received for several days. It is believed, however, that the aggregate score of 3652 will entitle the 24th to a very high standing among all the teams of the army.

The excellent firing of practically all the men of the team will be realizer from the fact that between the third man on th list and the ninth there were only four points difference. This consistent shooting and the high average obtained by the entire team were due in a large measure to the painstaking efforts and direction of the team captain, Capt. Lyons, and to the expert assistance rendered by Capt. Tupper as coach.

The high standard of this team may be judged from the fact that it was only possible for five members out of the ten of last years small bore rifle team to make the 1928 team. Capt C. L. Steel was the only officer who made both teams. Of the ten men who fired this year five were officers and five wre enlisted mn. The highest scor was turned in by Sgt. S. Bradford, of Hqrs. Co. who made the remarkable total of 385 out of a possible 400. The shooting of Sgt. Bradford throughout the match was truly phenomenal, and considering the fact that the small NRA bulls eye targets were used this year it is believed that this score will stand as a record.

The firing, which was in compliance with T. R. 150-5, was supervised by Major Charles E. Coates, Executive Officer 24th Inf.

The following are the scores made by the individual members:

	St.	Kn.	Si.	Pr.	Tl.
Sgt. Bradford, S.	89	97	100	99	385
Cpl. Fletcher, J.	82	91	95	97	365
Sgt. Hogan, H.	82	91	92	98	363
1st Sgt. Jennings, J.	81	92	98	99	370

Prize Fights

The first preliminary fights of the 24th Infantry for the Fort Benning Boxing Championships were among the best held in some time at this Post. All the fighters put up as fine an exhibition as any one could hope to see.

The first fight at 130 lbs. between Miller of F Co. and Davis of G Co. was a heel and toe slam-bang affair. The decision was awarded to Miller.

The second fight between Wright of Co. B and White of Co. B saw little White tearing into his taller opponent. Both men fought a heady fight, but the pace was a little too fast for White and the decision was given to Wright.

The third fight between Filmore of Co. F and Jackson of Co. G ended in a knockout, Jackson smothered Filmore with blows and Filmore took the count.

In what could have been the fourth fight, Harper of Co. B forfeited to Bluin of Co. A without entering the ring.

The fifth was a royal battle. Rachel of Co. G and Olds of Co. B hammered each other unmercifully until Rachel broke his hand and was compelled to quit. Olds who kept boring in was a little too tough for Rachel, who though only a beginner, showed he had the stuff.

The sixth fight between White of Co. B and Minnewatter of Co. F went to White, who flattened his opponent out in short order.

In the seventh fight Thompson of Co. E pulled a surprise on most of the crowd by defeating Lawson of Co. A. Though Thompson is of a slender build he showed last night he could take punishment and also give it.

The eighth fight between Tillis of Co. G and Jones of Co. F ended very suddenly with Jones down and out. Tillis has a terrific wallop and when he connects something has to give.

The last fight of the evening was one of the funniest seen in the Post Gym. Patton of Co. F who is a very good boxer, met the strongest opponent he has probably ever been up against in the reversible Billingslea of Co. G. Billingslea has a system all his own. He shot punches from behind him, swept the room with circular swings and did everything but stand on his head and kick. But though he was a little shy on boxing technique his spirit was willing and he let fly whenever he came up for air. Though he was no match for Patton, Billingslea deserves credit for sticking it out and putting up the best fight he knew how.

The next 24th Inf. bouts in the Post Championship will be held at the Post Gym on Thursday, March 8th, at 7:30 P. M.

MONOGRAPHS

On February 27th Capt. C. L. Steel gave an intensely interesting and instructive monograph on Jackson's Campaign in the Shenandoah. Capt. Steel has made a very comprehensive study of many of the Civil War battles, especially those in which Jackson participated. The result was a particularly clear picture of the entire operations through the Shenandoah Valley, the immediate and subsequent effects of this campaign on both armies and a wealth of these intimate details which influence a commander in arriving at his decisions. The brilliant cavalry operations of Col. Ashly were particularly vividly portrayed.

The lecture was supplemented with excellent maps, beginning with a general panorama of the entire campaign, and progressin gthrough the successive operations. To lend additional clarity, Capt. Steel made use of the very ingenious scheme of marking with red arrows the routes of march of the commanders, which markings were kept covered by white strips until the movement had reached that point when the arrows were uncovered. A confusing diversity of lines and arrows were thus avoided.

The second monograph of the week was on the Military Geography of the Philippine Islands by Lieut. E .P. Earle. As one of our principal possessions and also one of our major military studies, the Philippine Islands is a subject about which army officers have an intimate concern. Lieut. Earle's presentation of his subject was excellent. He outlined first the general topography of the country, then he pointed out the principal points of probable attack by enemy forces and the influences that the terrain itself would have on such operations, and last the defenses erected by the United States for the purpose of defending the strategic positions o fthe Islands.

The last monograph of the week was delivered by Capt. Craig on MacClellan's Peninsula Campaign. Capt. Craig had very carefully and painstakingly studied all the various phases of thi soperation which gave him a comprehensive grasp of his subject and enabled him to show the influences that had tended to aid or nullify the operations of the commanders in the field. The political pressure that was brought to bear upon McClellan at a time when he was attempting a major offensive, the unexpected withdrawal of troops upon whom he had counted, as well as his operations in the field, were vividly told. Likewise were the excellent plans of the Confederate commanders which never reached fulfillment due to th surprising lack of initiativ and failure to carry out orders of some of the South's leading generals.

Headquarters Company

The dance given by Headquarters Company, was greatly enjoyed by everyone present. Although it was gotten up on the spur of the moment, it was a complete success. At ten o'clock mess call was blown, and everybody was served cake and punch.

Mrs. William J. Miller, wife of 1st Sergeant William Miller, is much better at this time. Mrs. Miller has been suffering fro mthe influenza.

Willie A. Davis and Lizzie Davis are attending the Fifth Avenue School in the city. They are the children of Sergeant and Mrs. William F. Davis.

When you are lonesome and have nowhere to go, come down in "Black Bottom" and hear some of the latest song hits, sung by Gene Austin, also some of the best orchestra selections, played by Fletcher Henderson and his orchestra.

Corporal Paul C. Wright of Company "B" has been attached to this company, for duty, quarters and rations. He was formerly a member of the Headquarters Company. We are very glad to have him back with us again.

RE-ENLISTMENTS JUMP BACK TO ONE HUNDRED PER CENT

As predicted in the February seventeenth issue of this publication our re-enlistments per expiration of term of service for the past month returned to the top figure of one hundred per cent, meaning that every man whose contract expired signed up for another three years. The fact that our re-enlistments have been ranging around the maximum for months upon months indicates a satisfied, contented personnel in the Tanks. Occasionally a man secures a lucrative position in civil life and leaves the Army, but in every case almost without exception he can attribute his securing that position to the training and education he has received during his term with the Battalion. The recreational activities here are numerous and athletics are continuous throughout the year, thereby providing at all times indoor and outdoor diversion, and healthful exercise. The Tanks participate in practically every known form of athletics and sports—hunting, fishing, boxing, football, soccer, baseball, basketball, la crosse, track and field meets, swimming, volley ball, and too, that age-old game of our ancestors, that of pitching horseshoes. Then too the Tankers are movie fans, and lead all the units in the garrison in motion picture attendance by a wide margin. Keep it up Tankers, our batting average in every activity in which we are engaged is right uy on the top rung of the ladder, and remember always that the blue sky is the limit.—Tank Weekly.

TANK FOOTBALL PLAYERS AWARDED SWEATERS

The following named enlisted men of this unit have been awarded sweaters with large block "T" for participating in the Intra-Mural Football League, 1927:

Corporals—Curtis I. Bennett, George D. McKelvey, Robert A. Willingham, James J. Bowe, Robert F. Stewart, Frank Vallery.

Privates—1st cl. Clarence P. Costello, 1st Cl. Louis Joris, 1st Cl. Dan B. Sullivan, 1st Cl. Rodney L. Wright, 1st Cl. Berchman J. Braud, Orvel L. Drury, 1st Cl. William Sweeney.

The following have been awarded sweaters with the numeral '27 for participating in the Intra-Mural Football League, 1927:

CUP PRESENTED TO BATTALION

The Infantry School News cup was presented to the battalion recently having been won by the football champs for 1927.

CAPT. HOLMES ON LEAVE

Capt. Don M. Holmes will take leave of absence tomorrow apropos to his transfer to the 65th Infantry at Porto Rico. Capt. Holmes will sail from New York about June 1 for his new station. He has been with the battalion for about six years.

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE COMPANY NEWS

As the second week of training draws to a close the new Company Officer's Class finds itself steadying down to a varied and interesting program. A spirit of friendly rivalry is already apparent between the Mahcine Gunners and Riflemen. The Riflemen are busy learning "Squads East and West"—as many of the garrison can testify (you can hear 'em sound off when they leave the Academic Area.)

Incidentally a good many are wondering how to adjust rifle slings to avoid contact with Major Stayer's recently erupted area on the upper arm. Perhaps the Major can furnish us with an approved solution.

Great regret is being voiced throughout the class quarters since the Machine Gunners turned nurses to a flock of Brownings and brought them home with them the other night. A fellow has to be careful when he goes calling these evenings. About the only consolation lies in the fact that the ammunition in evidence is confined to dud 37mm shells and hot air.

It has been remarked that the class has the only map-reading dog in existence. During the showing of the movie last Thursday, Bob evinced keen interest and promptly barked his approval when another canine compatriot appeared on the screen. All of which is quite complimentary to Captain Harris. We'll bet he has a good company at home.

Sander says the cold nights don't bother him any more—we had thought of taking some step to relieve him but find that it's unnecessary, hence the committee appointed for the purpose is discharged.

The class had a fair representation at both the Friday night and Twenty-ninth Infantry hops. It is a duty and a pleasure to extend to the officers and ladies of the Twenty-ninth our sincere appreciation of their hospitality and to extend too our best wishes for the peaceful celebration of many another Organization Day.

The rain put a damper on what threatened to be a general exodus over the week end. Thanks are due to Feimer and his lusty-lunged cohorts for the Sunday song-fest at the Biglerville Mess. Incidentally it might not be a bad idea to corner Patten on some rainy evening and get him to play for us also. That lad has enough classical music to start an opera company (all he needs is a few more singers.)

We can't help but take this opportunity to make an appeal to the members of the class for press matter. If "Alabama" wise cracks again, like he did when he said, "Is anybody hurt, or if anyone can catch Skipper Drennon snoring, in fact anything that is of interest to the class as a whole, we want to know about it.

Battery "A"

Sergeant Avery A. Owens, was discharged Monday per expiration term of service and has taken on another stack with us for a period of three years. Good judgment, Sergeant, we are glad to have you with us for another period of three. We wish you the very best of success with the ladies while on furlough.

Pvt. 1st Cl. Brantley and Pvt. Walters have returned for duty after enjoying a few days leave.

The battery series for the baseball championship will be started at an early date, which we expect to show the other batteries that we have some good rookies on hand this season.

—A. G. S.

Battery "B"

Corporal Waters, who has been spending a thirty-day furlough at his home, is back to duty with the battery.

We are proud to hear that Private Floyd, who has been in the hospital for some time suffering with a broken arm, is improving. We trust that in a short time he will be able to be with us again.

We wonder why Corporal Davis takes the "heeby jeebies" every time the 1st Sergeant announces a road march for the followin gday.

Pay day seems to have had no bad effect on the battery, though Corporal Welter reports the loss of his best girl. We would advise, however, that he try to be more cheerful and be consoled from the fact that things may remain as they are for some time yet. (And then get worse.)

Private Shearouse has just returned to the battery after spending a sixty-day furlough at his home. Reports that he had a good time and is proud to be back with us again.

Private Richard left Saturday on a furlough of forty-five days. He will no doubt be surprised to learn that he has, since his departure, been promoted to the grade of Private 1st Class. Let's all take a furlough.

—J. R. M.

Battery "C"

Well folks, here we are again. Having survived pay day week we feel fit for anything.

The many friends of Sergeant Crandell are glad to learn of the recovery of his son, John, Jr., who has been seriously ill with pneumonia.

The members of the Battery especially those who were in the hospital on Sunday, February 26, 1928, wish to thank Sergeant and Mrs. Grider for the "eats" sent to the boys sick in the hospital on that date. The various delicacies were personally prepared by Mrs. Grider. It is evident that Sergeant Grider is not the only cook in the family, and with all due respect to his ability we give the palm to Mrs. Grider. Mrs. Grider is always ready and willing to help the battery. We owe to her the splendid appearance of the uniforms of the basket ball squad. We appreciate your help and interest, Mrs. Grider.

Andy Upchurch went to sleep on the Dillingham Street bridge, on Pay Day night, and slept soundly for the ensuing 24 hours.

Corporal Barksdale and his maintenance section furnished the excitement durin gthe road march Thursday the 8th. His "forward Hu!" would be an education to Colonel Tommy Tompkins.

The cannoneers were kept busy going to the rear and assisting the maintenance sectio nto climb the various hills for which Fort Benning is famous. After several hours of this the Battery halted. After lunch and stables the Battery prepared to return to the Post, and one dirt ytired cannoneer was heard to remark that it was very doubtful whether the maintenance section could navigate down hill. Corporal Barksdale was interviewed by reporters but declined to make any statement at this time, giving as his reason, that anything he said could and might be used against him.

The appreciation of good food, shown by a certain lieutenant referred to in a previous article, seems to be as good as ever. It is reported that he ate the last can of peaches that Sergeant Grider had in stock and tehn asked for another. The lieutenant evidently belongs to that school of soldiers who believe that an Army travels on its stomach—shades of Napoleon and Frederick the Great.

Did you know that Corporal Johnson is in love? Yeah, its only too true. 'Tis sad to see the poor boy afflicted so. Ever notice how he rolls his eyes? Look at his pillow some morning—all squeezed up. We hope that he will recover but the chances are all against him. We can only hope that the other party will be able to escape an attack of this terrible malady.

Well Hood is gone. Yes, he'll soon be forgotten we fear—he paid his debts before he left.

Private Jones, our gardner, has been very busy the past week with his onions, beets, etc. He has also planted some other vegetables and if the rainy season holds out he says he'll raise umbrellas.

ATHLETIC POLICIES OF THE 24TH INFANTRY

The athletic activities of the 24th Infantry have reached a stage where the individual teams have gained for themselves and the regiment a large measure of prominence and prestige that reflects great credit upon those engaged.

It is the desire of the regimental commander, however, to broaden the scope of athletics, thus making it more inclusive, to the end that all men of the regiment may find some sport in which they may participate and from which they may receive the benefits ordinarily accruing to those participating in a well regulated athletic program.

With this in view, Training Memorandum No. 1, dated January 24, 1928, was issued to the command, which in part reads:

"In order to obtain these results a permanent athletic policy has been established which embraces; first, the arousing and maintaining of the interest of every member of the regiment in some form of athletics ;second, the utilization of all officers and enlisted athletic talent available; third, the detailing of a number of officers to the various sports to insure that as many officers as possible have to share in the athletic development of the regiment; fourth, the maintenance of a successful and representative team in authorized sports, and fifth, the giving of suitable awards to those representing the regiment in athletics.

To accomplish these results a permanent athletic body, to be known as the "Athletic Council," has been established consisting of the athletic officer, recreation officer and one selected officer from each battalion, together with the coaches of the individual sports, whose functions are to carry out the athletic policies, to settle all questions that may arise relative to sports and to make the awards to members participating in the various games.

Upon the recommendation of the athletic council, and approved by the Regimental Commander, an athletic jersey has been selected for award to members of teams. This jersey, which will be furnished by the regimental recreation fund, bears the colors of the 24th Infantry, red and black. The jersey is in black with red cuffs, red border at the bottom and a V neck in red. In the center is a red square with "24" in large black letters. In this square is the article in buff color that is symbolical of the sport, such as football, baseball bat, basketball, etc.

All members of teams who have participated in at least two thirds of the games played will be entitled to wear the athletic jersey. When an individual has won the right to a jersey in two or more sports the several symbols designating these sports will be placed on his jersey.

In addition to awards for the authorized sports such as football, baseball, basketball. etc., the individuals who make te small bore rifle team of the regiment will also be entitled to wear the jersey.

After the completion of a very successful football season the Athletic Council, upon approval by the Regimental Commander, Colonel Wait C. Johnson, awarded jerseys with the football emblem to the following men:

Pvt. Major Moore, Headquarters Company.
Sgt. Harrison Brofn, Service Company,
Pvt. Less Allen, Service Company.
Sgt. William B. Smith, Company A.
Pvt. Robert Branch, Company A.
Pvt. William Kilgore, Company B.
Pvt. Joe White, Company B.
Pvt. Richard Collins, Company B.
Pvt. Theodore Williamson, Company B.
Pvt. James Heard, Company C.
Pvt. John Harris, Company C.
Pvt. Jesse Johnson, Company E.
Pvt. Tommie Baugh, Company E.
Cpl. Johnny Jones, Compnay F.
Pvt. Allen Johnson, Company F.
Pvt. Jim Perry, Company F.
Cpl. Sam Sellers, Company G.
Pvt. Riley Brice, Company G.
Pvt. Harold Tholmer, Company G.
Pvt. Willie Gillingslea, Company G.
Pvt. Lawrence Tillis, Company G.
Pvt. Herman Hodges, Company G.
Pvt. Columbus Vance, Company F.
Cpl. Benjamin Adams, Company F.

With the closing of an excellent basketball season jerseys with the basketball emblem were awarded to:

Sgt. William R. Powell, Company G.
Pvt. Sloan Williams, Company G.
Pvt. Henry Bell, Service Company.
Pvt. Alonzo Strong, Company E.

In addition to these awards the basketball emblem was added to the football jerseys of:

Pvt. Theodore R. Williamson, Company B.
Pvt. John Harirs, Company C.
Pvt. James Heard, Company C.
Pvt. Jesse Johnson, Company E.
Pvt. Tommie Baugh, Company E.

By virtue of the new athletic policies inaugurated by the regimental commander, a remarkable stimulus has been given to athletics in the 24th Infantry, as evidenced by the extremely large number of men turning out for all sports, in some of which many of the men have never before participated.

COLONEL JOHNSON NEW G-3, EIGHTH CORPS AREA HQRS.

Colonel Wait C. Johnson, Commanding Officer, Twenty-fourth Infantry, Fort Benning, Georgia, has been assigned Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3, Headquarters, Eighth Corps Area, to relieve Lieutenant Colonel A. S. Williams, who will go to Vancouver Barracks, Washington, to the Seventh Infantry. Colonel Williams will be relieved from his present detail in the general staff corps June 30.

Colonel Johnson is one of the outstanding athletes in the entire United States Army and the Eighth Corps Area and Fort Sam Houston are indeed fortunate to have him assigned here.

Colonel Johnson served as an enlisted man and on February 2, 1901, he became a Second Lieutenant of Infantry. He graduated from the University of Vermont in 1899 and it is said that at the time of his graduation he was offered a permanent position with Connie Mack's "Athletes." He was one of the outstanding track men produced by the University of Vermont specializing in the dashes and at the present time, despite his fifty odd years, can beat several of the younger officers of the army when it comes to racing.

Colonel Johnson was president of the Inter-Allied games in Paris during the peace conference, is one of the best tennis players in the army, and last year won the United States Army Men's Tennis Singles, in the national match.

He is truly an all-round athlete and is a great backer of sports. While at Fort Benning he was instrumental in producing the all-army football team and other athletic events at the Infantry School.

SAW DUST
J. NICHOLS

We understand that the wearing of roll collars is compulsory in Porto Rico.

We have been told that the reasons that more ladies are not entering our cake contest is because baking this kind of cake is too expensive. As a matter of fact this is the reason we are holding this contest as we are financially able to provide for the ingredients of our favorite cake. To those ladies who feel that they are unable to bake this sort of cake, we want to make it clear that any cake, so long as it edible, is acceptable and will be considered in this contest. To Mrs. Charles F. Capell of Paris, Texas, goes the honor of being the entrant whose entry was made from the greatest distance. This good lady, who is responsible for our fondness for this type of cake, has arrived and delivered her entry in person. Mom Griffin has entered a second entry and although it wasn't much better than the first, it is appreciated. Don't lose heart, Mom, you may try again. Louise Scott has entered the contest. Judging from the entry, we entered her in the novice class. T. W.* is to have a luncheon on next Thursday and we would suggest that those who are contemplating sending in cakes do so prior to this day.

Since our very painful attempt at the Sojourners the other night, we have decided to stick to the less renumerative but more profitable work of writing. In a last desperate attempt to bolster up a programme that was having very rough sailing, we violated a principle of showmanship. At any rate our effort was honest and we did the best we could under the circumstances. A quartette has been defined as consisting of four singers, one of which think the other three cant sing. Our quantities differed from this in that all of us knew dam well none of the others could sing. We do appreciate the effort the audience made to help us out. The next person that asks us to participate in or arrange an entertainment programme is endangering his or her life, although we do not believe any of those present last Tuesday will be so foolish. We, and I think the crowd also, enjoyed the remainder of the programme.

We were not only successful in our plea (described as pathetic by Mr. Woodall) to the Enquirer-Sun but we succeeded in getting that worthy publication to revert to the old custom of giving two tickets to the persons whose names appear on its advertising pages. Our slashing attack and our firm stand on this question has resulted in our receiving numerous letters commending our courageous and relenting advocation for a return to normalcy. We have heard indirectly that our campaign in the interests of the common people will no doubt result in our paper receiving the Pulitzer prize this year.

We saw the Dramatic Club plays last Friday night. The first, a real Follies "black-out," made it clear in our minds what the ladies mean when they call us a liar. The second play was uncommonly good and though it seemed to drag in places, the acting of the principals carried it over these spots which would have proven pitfalls in lesser experienced hands. Mrs. Landis was particularly good as "Mama" and "Rosalind."

Although we are running over our alloted space, we want to take this opportunity to congratulate the Editor on the 29th Infantry Anniversary Number last week. These are the things that very materially assist in the keeping up the morale of the soldiers of the Infantry School. The most interesting article of all was on Sergeant Gullett. "Twenty-four years with an organization that is only twenty-seven years old." This number represented a great deal of time and labor as the paper indicated.

Danger Areas

General Orders No. 5:

1. Before any firing takes place on the Reservation a range schedule is published and the roads and areas closed are announced in the Daily Bulletin. The size of the Reservation and the nature of the terrain pevent the posting of sufficient guards to cover all approaches to danger zones. However, during firing signs are provided closing such of the main roads on the Reservation as is deemed necessary.

2. All persons, militarfy and civilian, are forbidden to enter the area prescribed as a danger area and announced in the Daily Bulletin or to pass beyond the "Roads Closed" signs and will be held strictly responsible for any violation of these restrictions. Before any person goes out on the Reservation to walk, drive, or ride he should first consult the Daily Bulletin which contains the information as to roads and areas closed for that day. In case of doubt he should call the Garrison Range Officer, telephone 1004.

3. Officers and non-commissioned officers conducting firing, range guards and military police will report to this Headquarters without delay any violation of this order which comes to their attention with names of violators and of witnesses.

4. All unit, separate battalion and detachment commanders, chiefs of staff sections, and chiefs of other activities of this command, will cause the contents of this General Order to be brought to the attention of members of their command, both military and civilian, and all officers, enlisted men and civilians who are concerned will acquaint their families with its contents.

(250.—Restricted Areas).

By command of Brigadier General Collins.

McDowell has left us for the busy world. He intends to go in business with the smallest capital yet on record. Twenty-five cents. This original capital is we understand, for the purpose of buying a few feet of lead pipe.

Sgt. Corn of the range Guard has taken out another stack and gone on a forty-five day furlough. The I. S. D. led the Post last month in re-enlistments sorta proving to a doubting world that "everybody here is happy."

Somebody sent in a request thru the Recreation Room Attendant for a record named,

Upon discharge Corp. Lane expects to go North by boat. The prospect of sea sickness seems to worry him. Pete Wheeler suggests that he tie both hands behind his back, put a quarter in his mouth, and that he wouldn't get sick.

Pvt. 1cl. Ray recently returned from the gay city of New Orleans where he attended Mardi-Gras. He liked it so well that he has applied for transfer to the Recruiting Service in that city.

Since the Detachment Commander declared war on long hair, the barber shop has been knee deep in multi-colored locks. This by the way explains the mysterv of the Range Guards in the barber shop, altoh' we understand that they needed a compass to find it.

Hoot Gibson wa soverheard explaining to Massey that "I would work if I could find any pleasure in it."

You know the story of taking the boy out of the country but not being able to take the country out of the boy? Our near painter and not so near cabinet maker, Sgt. Ezell, knowing that the theory worked on cattle etc. back home, sprayed various desks belonging in the Orderly room, with gasoline. Captain Berry qualified for the Navy when he heard about it. Such is the quest for the beautiful.

Pvt. Cruise is back after a long vacation. The most vacant part of it all, according to Cruise is the bread basket, and he also admits that it is d——good to be here again.

A Pullman porter was thrown from his car when the train was derailed, and flew ten feet through the air before he hit head first up against a concrete post. He lay in a daze rubbing his head, when the oCnductor came running up.

"No," said the porter, getting to his feet, "that concrete post musta broke mah fall."

CHARITY BRIDGE

The Protestant Chapel Guild is holding its annual afternoon bridge party at the Polo club on Thursday, April 12 at 2:30. Everyone on the post and in town is urged to buy a table at $2, or at least a place at a table for 50c. Reservations may be made by telephoning Mrs. D. H. Torrey or Mrs. H. A. Bootz. This is a splendid opportunity to entertain your friends and help the post charity work too. Every cent taken in is clear gain as all the prizes, and there are many handsome ones, are donated by the various stores of Columbus as their share in helping our good work along. Refreshments will be served and it will be a party you do not want to miss.

Perhaps you would be interested to know what the Guild does and where its money goes. It takes care of the Chapel Altar; furnishes the linen and flowers for the altar; supplies many layettes for babys born at the post hospital with practically no clothes to keep them warm and clean; furnishes milk every day for from six to ten little babies on the post who would otherwise suffer for lack of nourishment; it also places any clothing which is brought to the Chapel in homes where it is very much needed and appreciated. So you see how much good your $2, or less will do some family not so fortunate as you. Even if you do not play bridge you may contribute sending what you wish to either Mrs. Torrey or Mrs. Bootz. No reservations can be accepted after April 9th, so do not delay in securing yours.

The Chapel Guild has dishes to rent at 25 cents a dozen. The Guild cook book is full of delicious receipts contributed by ladies of the post and costs but $1. The proceeds of both these go to the charity fund, any one wishing either may call Mrs. D. H. Torrey.

LIEUT. SHEPHERD ON LEAVE

Lieut. W. P. Shepherd, who recently received orders transferring him to duty in China, left Fort Benning last Friday on leave of absence. Upon the expiration of leave Lieut. and Mrs. Shepherd will go to New York in time to take the transport to leave there about May 16 for San Francisco en route to China. The Shepherds are visiting in Syracuse at the present time.

I. S. D. GREENIES

(I) In work or play a team must move,
just as an individual,
And each one, for fun or duty, must be eligible.
(S) So get in the game, get your man,
help win the series,
Cover him up, cut his play, until he wearies.
(D) Doing it, make it count, each move
show your team can win,
And by their pluck, bring home the bacon, with a grin.
(G) Get that ball, pass it down, stop
bunching, spread out,
Cover the floor, guard that basket,
Shoot It.
(R) Rolling down the center, dribble fast, your man is on to the last,
Step lively, it is yours, you are free,
Shoot It.
(E) Each man a part, makes the team get a start, and a basket
Is two points to the good, add them up as you Shoot It.
(E) Elusive moves are quick, no time to think, make it automatic,
You see the opening, when it comes
Shoot It.
(N) Nucleus on your toes, the whistle
blows, center it on signal,
Pass it fast, the floor is clear, now
Shoot It.
(I) In the Infantry way, you were taught to play, not alone
On fast running ,and a possible chance, but Shoot It.
(E) Each tally is chalked, from a basket made, by the willing Hand that threw it, and practice will make you Shoot It.
(S) Serial shots from fouls help out, a point now and then,
But toe the line when the whistle blows, then Shoot It.

SCHOOL TEAM TO AUGUSTA HORSE SHOW

The Infantry School will be well represented at the Augusta horse show this year. The following have entered: Capts. Rogers and Mallan, Lieuts. Moon and Van Houten, Major H. J. M. Smith, Mrs. Landis, Mrs. Forsythe, Mrs. McClure and Mrs. Bishop.

The church bells in the little New England village lustily pealed out and their noise reverberated throughout the silent town to echo back from the snow covered hills. But instead of dulcet chimes and lovely harmonies sour discords and false notes were heard. The bells were out of tune, hopelessly so.

The village fathers seized their shotguns and ran to the hotel where the city slicker who had just repaired the bells was stopping.

"Young feller," said old Cy Haskins, "We give ye until morning to get out of town. Ye varmint, ye ain't done right by our knell."

A simple countryman saw a gaudy-plumaged parrot on the roof of his cottage.

He climbed up to capture it.

The parrot looked at him, and said, sharply, "What do you want?"

The countryman touched his cap. "Beg pardon, sir, I thought you was a bird."

LOWELL THOMAS, NOTED TRAVELER WILL LECTURE IN COLUMBUS

Lowell Thomas, the well known traveler, author and lecturer who is to appear here on March 23rd at the High School auditorium is one of the few of us who has actually lived his dreams of thrilling adventure in strange, far off parts o fthe world. This will conclude the series of entertainments by the Three Arts League of Columbus. Tickets will be on sale at Humes Music Store.

What a career he has had! Explorer in Alaska, gold miner, range rider, star reporter on metropolitan dailies, literary free lance and magazine writer, graduate of three universities, and both student and member of the faculty at Princeton. At 27 the head of an Allied mission and attached to each of the Armies as official historian. Intimate of Generals, of Sultans, Prime Ministers, and Kings; companion and biographer of Lawrence, the "mystery man" of Arabia; cosmopolite known to princes and beggars of Jerusalem, Kabul, London, Rangood, Rome, Paris, Singapore, Calcutta and Melbourne.

Lowell Thomas was the only American observer with Lawrence in the secret Arabian campaign, and with Allenby in Palestine when the brilliance of the Crescent faded forever before the Glory of the Cross. He prepared a complete historical record of the German Revolution. He was the official historian of man's first airplane flight around the world. He accompanied H. R. H. the Prince of Wales on his eastern journey and last tiger hunt in India; and last year he flew 25,000 miles over twenty-one foreign countries, studying the progress of aviation and the development of modern air routes.

His journey into Forbiden Afghanistan and Central Asia was one of the most hazardous and exciting of all his jaunts into far countries. Nevertheless, he returned safely and borught with him the first film record ever made of one of the strangest and most mysterious lands on earth.

The complete story of this expedition is set down in his new book, "Beyond Khyber Pass," published by The Century Company of New York.

Four other adventure books have come from his pen. "The First World Flight" has already passed through many edi[illegible] and the special autographed de[illegible]opies are now worth $100.00 each. [illegible] volume is a classic.

[illegible]owell Thomas is, of course, best [illegible]wn for his "With Lawrence in Ara[illegible]," which is still one of the best sellers, as been translated into many languages, and we described by Mr. Earle Martin, eminent editor and publisher, as well as by many other critics, as the greatest book to come out of the World War.

Three other volumes, "European Skyways," "Count Luckner, the Sea Devil," and "A Boy's Life of Colonel Lawrence," are now on the press.

ON LEAVE

Captain E. E. Walker, secretary of the Officers Club, is enjoying a leave of absence, visiting in Chicago.

MOTION PICTURE REVIVAL WEEK

During next week, the moving picture theaters of Fort Benning will present "the greatest combination of pictures ever shown in seven consecutive days at any theater in any city of the world." This remark was made by a motion picture producer of international repute. Think what a horrible catastrophe if beautiful "Helen of Troy" fell into the clutches of "The Phantom of the Opera" and was borne away on the "Iron Horse" to the last world where she might see "Faust" in Satan's grasp or fall enamoured in the throes of "Don Juan."

The selections for the revival week were made by the patrons of Fort Benning's theaters. Hundreds of suggestions were received and as a result the pictures obtaining the highest number of votes were selected. Don't fail to see ALL of these productions, all of which have been conceded to be the greatest ever produced.

GREEN CORD N. C. O. CLUB ENTERTAINS WITH SMOKER

At the regular monthly meeting of the N. C. O.'s Club last Friday evening, several extra attractions were added to the usual program that added very much to the evenings entertainment.

Major Henry A. Bootz, Detachment Commander, made a short but interesting talk on the history and progress of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club, which has grown from a few struggling members until it now rivals any Non-Coms Club in the United States Army.

Sergt. Spud Murphy held the attention of members present for the next thirty minutes with an interesting lecture on the "Wonders of Women." Sergt. Murphy took himself for an example, he told of how he had lived the life of a recluse for six years, never going out in the evenings, never going to a show, not knowing what real pleasure was. Then he met the one person that has changed everything and as is always it was "The Woman," few evenings find him in camp, he knows when an extra good show is to be here weeks ahead, the retreat gun changes his O. D. to a white front and neatly pressed blue serg, and soon if rumors are true there will be "Bells Ringing For Me and My Gal." Sergt. Murphy's lecture met with thunderous applause.

Sgts. Davis, Fabre and Cooper came in for their share of applause when they rendereed several well known selections with the mandolin, guitar and uke.

Sandwiches, smokes and cold drinks completed an evening that was just one big source of pleasure to all those present.

BISHOP OF NEBRASKA RIDES WITH CO. OFFICERS CLASS

For the final ride in equitation for members of Company C of the Company Officers Class the Class was joined by Bishop George Allen Beecher of the District of Western Nebraska. Throughout the ride, which covered approximately twenty-five miles over trail and cross country, Bishop Beecher set an example of hard, bold riding, winning the enthusiastic admiration of the class. Naturally, as a westerner, big things were expected from the Bishop in the art of riding, and these expectations he quickly fulfilled by assisting to regulate and maintain the pace over the uneven route. As the class dismounted after four hours of strenuous riding, he was declared a graduate of the advanced group in equitation.

Bishop and Mrs. Beecher are the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Captain and Mrs. Adrian Brian of the garrison.

SOJOURNERS CLUB

The Fort Benning chapter, Sojourners Club, will meet next Wednesday evening at 8 P. M. at the Polo Club. A short program has been arranged and refreshments will be served. All members urged to be present.

RHINELAND WEEK END PARTY HELD AT WARM SPRINGS

The Army of Occupation for the Rhineland came to life again last Saturday and Sunday at Warm Springs, Georgia. Sixty-six officers, ladies and children traveled the rather uncertain roads to the Southland resort and, once once there, again assumed the ways of Wiesbaden, Bad Ems, Bad Neuenahr and the Rhineland in general for the week-end.

Those who made the trip in Packards and other heavy cars were thankful for the tractors provided by the indulgent State of Georgia to haul them through the mire of Cataula, a little but potent townon the Hamilton road. Those who traveled in Fords and Chevrolets made the mud on their own power. The best of all, however, was had by those who went by train—and these constituted the majority.

The big event of the week-end was Saturday evening's dinner and dance at the Warm Springs Hotel. The dance was unusual for the Benningites attending, in that it kept right on after midnight, and lasted as long as Rhineland dances are supposed to last. The elaborate program which had been devised for the entertainment of the guests was shelved early in the evening, for the guests, it was found, did not have to have entertainment forced on them. The program, outside of the German music, was superfluous.

Under the direction of Captain George L. King, the 29th Infantry Orchestra rendered the German songs associated with their sojourn on the Rhine. During the dinner hour many of those songs of the Rhine were played and sang.

Saturday afternoon and Sunday were given over to playing golf on a sporty course with lots of contours on it, and swimming in the warm-water outdoor pool. Some preferred to sit and think, rather than play around, and others just sat. Whatever the former Rhinelanders did, they did because they wanted to, their actions being curbed only by Major Hill and his group of male and female M. P's.

Those attending were: Lieut. R. C. Babbitt, Lieut. T. M. Brinkley, Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Case, Capt. and Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist, Lieut. and Mrs. L. A. Dietz, Capt. and Mrs. F. S. Doll, Lieut. and Mrs. Mark Doty, Capt. and Mrs. R. T. W. Duke, Capt. L. N. Dunkel, Capt. and Mrs. S. L. Dunlop, Capt .and Mrs. M. V. Fortier, apt. W. R. Graham, Capt. and Mrs. A. B. Helsley, Capt. W. L. Hendrick, Maj. and Mrs. Roy Hill, Capt. and Mrs. W. G. Hilliard, Lieut. Col. C. A. Hunt, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. George L. King, Lieut. and Mrs. J. C. Kovarik, Maj. and Mrs. E. E. Lewis, Lieut. L. M. Llewellyn, Maj. H. C. McLean, Capt. and Mrs. B. B. McMahon, Lieut. L. B. McMaster, Lieut. and Mrs. J. E. Macklin, Capt. M. E. Olmstead, Lieut. and Mrs. P. A. Reich, Maj. E. F. Rice, Capt. and Mrs. J. K. Rice, Lieut. and Mrs. J. A. Rodgers, Lieut. A. D. Sanders, Capt. S. G. Saulnier, Lieut. W. E. Smith, Capt. and Mrs. E. WHO'S WHO!

CAPTAIN W. D. McCORD WILL MANAGE INFANTRY SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM

"Give us Dixie sunshine and no injuries and we don't have to worry about baseball players for we have already got them," is the way Captain McCord feels after watching the prospective candidates for regular berths on the Infantry School Baseball team, workout during the past week.

Although unknown to Benning fandom, Capt. McCord is by no means a stranger in Army athletics, as his past record goes to show. Just a minute, and we will stop warming up long enough to introduce Captain McCord to "Ye loyal fans" who take a Doughboy baseball players side of the argument against any umpire.

Captain McCord is a graduate of Grove City College at Grove City, Pa. He made his letter there in basketball, baseball and football. In 1916 he was assistant coach of the Denver University football team at Denver, Colorado. He entered the Service in 1917, going across as a member of the 40th Division, he returned to the States early in 1919. He was on R. O. T. C. duty at the Banger High School, Bangor, Maine. He coached the football team there in 1919 that won the state championship, and also coached their basketball team that won the state championship and were claimants to the New England States championship.

In 1920 he coached the freshman football team at Georgetown University. In 1923-24 he coached the 11th Infantry football and baseball teams, winning the football championship in 1923 and copping the baseball championship of the 5th Corps in 1924.

In 1925 we find him with the 33rd Infantry, Panama Canal Zone, winning the baseball championship of the Pacific side in 1925; he coached the All-Pacific baseball team in 1927, until he returned to the States in June, 1927.

Captain McCord is coaching the Infantry School baseball team this season and all indications now point to one of the strongest baseball teams in the history of the Infantry School.

Captain McCord has other duties besides building the Doughboy baseball machine for this season, he is assistant Post Exchange Officer here, in fact he is the officer that rides around in the little Ford car with all of that writing on it.

It won't be long now and an introduction will be unnecessary for he will be the best known man on Gowdy Field, and that's where most of us will be when there is a baseball game being played.

Captain McCord's smile is a little larger this week than it was a few days ago and I think that it is nothing but right to let all Ye Loyals in on the secret, Lt. Cobb of the Terrible Tankers is one of the hottest third sackers that ever scooped a grass cutter, in fact he was so good that he was a regular on West Point's baseball team for three years and was captain of the team in 1927.

First base will be taken care of by Newman or Capt. Dunlop, many of the men stationed here who were with the Army of Occupation in Germany remember when the big Captain was the terror of opposing pitchers and he was known as the A. F. G. "Bambino." He still showed his ability to hold down the initial station at the beginning of last season and his batting lamps seemed to be as good as ever.

Some one is going to have to get busy to hold down a position around the middle station, for Cooper who played that sack for the "Kels" last season is a candidate for a berth on the Doughboy this ceason, ("Look Out") Shotgun.

CHAPLAIN McKENNA WRITES LETTER OF APPRECIATION TO I. S. D.

Subject: Donation to School Fund.

To: Commanding Officer, Infantry School Detachment, Ft. Benning.

1. On behalf of the Fort Benning Children's School I desire to express our deep appreciation for the latest manifestation of interest indicated by the members of the Infantry School Detachmen in donating the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-Six Dollars and Twenty-Six Cents to the School Fund. During the early part of the school year a group of non-commissioned officers of the Detachment sponsored a benefit dance with the co-operation of the Assistant Recreation Officer, Captain F. S. Doll, and realized the sum of One Hundred and Seventy-Two Dollars and Seventy-Five Cents for the same purpose. Wherefore it may be said that the Detachment has been a benefactor of the School Fund for a total sum of Three Hundred and Ninety-Nine Dollars and One Cent during the current scholastic year.

2. As our school is operated without financial assistance from federal, state, or county sources it is gratifying to know that the men of your command are willing to make personal sacrifice to help along the work of giving the Army children an opportunity to acquire an education that will put them on a par with the more favored children of the nearby civilian community.

3. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the Commanding Officer for his personal interest and encouragement and express the hope that the confidence which prompted the above donations will be justified by results accomplished in the Fort Benning Children's School.

THOMAS L. McKENNA,
Officer in Charge.

I. S. D. NOTES

Privates Bird, Dotson, Garner and Walker were made Corporals during the past week. Privates Reichert and Fredericks were made Sergeants. Congratulations.

A letter came from Birmingham from our vacationing First Sergeant telling us that he was having a 'good' time. Knowing our First Sergeant we feel that 'enjoyable' or 'interesting' would have been a better choice of adjectives.

The mirror in the Recreation Room is certainly put to lots of use these days. Phillips uses it to admire his shape or something and dreams of a clean knockout, while Garner uses it to admire his stripes and dreams of fifty per cent interest when they'll be increase to three.

A certain Corporal in the outfit gave as his excuse for the long hair, that he had invested $75.00 getting a wave put into his hair to make it lay down, and that he didn't feel as though he wanted to waste this money. Naive or something we calls it, although the Major didn't.

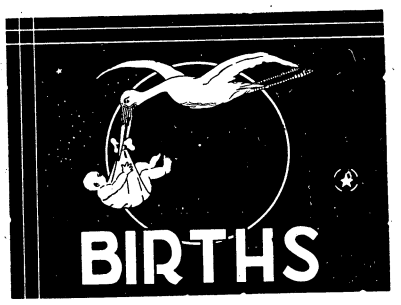
Have you been up to the Service Club at night and noticed Tubby and Tubbess playing bridge? They tell me Mr. Work in New York trembles for his laurels.

All members of the I. S. D. were at home Tuesday evening between the hours of 5 P. M. and 9:30 P. M. Wall lockers and shoes suffered.

Citations were received by Captain K. L. Berry and Pvt. Don C. Isham from the Commandant, congratulating them on their excellent work with the basketball team. That is a boost for the oufit.

We have ten men that are candidates fo rthe Garrison baseball team. They are as follows: Sgt. McCarthy, Corporals Cleveland, Devine, Douglass, Morris and Tolle, and Privates Ashe, Birdsong, Ryan and White.

Privates Heisler and Kinser are on furlough. The former has gone to St. Louis, and the latter to the wilds of Kentucky.



Mary Reading Belleville, March 12, 1928. Daughter of Captain and Mrs. Robert Chambers Belleville, National Guard (Student officer).

AT THE MOVIES

MARCH 16 to MARCH 23, INCL.

FRIDAY, MAR. 16

"COHENS AND KELLYS IN PARIS," starring George Sidney with J. Farrell MacDonald in a most comical sequel to the picture that entertained a nation. Paris is the scene; wild innocent fun and laughter is the meat. They're tossed upon the billowy waves, then are up in the air on the Eiffel, and certainly not least, they are borne into the midst of a melee of night life in the gayest night city in the world. Come to this one prepared to tape your sides.

"Red Hot Sands." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 21."

SATURDAY, MAR. 17

"RAWHIDE KID," starring Hoot Gibson in a whizzing picture of thrills, spills and romance. Hoot, as a battling Irish cowboy, is exiled from his home state by a group of double-crossing bad men. He returns in trim to win the crashing cross-country race, and demonstrates some of the speediest riding ever caught in the camera.

"Dog Heaven." W. F. A. Oddities.

SUNDAY, MAR. 18

"PRIVATE LIFE OF HELEN OF TROY," featuring Lewis Stone with Marion Corda and Ricardo Cortez in a sensational expose of the startling love affairs of the world's first flapper queen. The story follows the novel by Professor John Erskine, which is purported as revealing to the world the inner intrigues which lead to one of the earth's most spectacle events—the Fall of Troy. In addition to being highly spectacular this picture is also replete with comedy.

"The Hook." Sportlife.

"Paramount News No. 64."

MONDAY, MAR. 19

"PHANTOM OF THE OPERA," starring Lon Chaney with Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry. This is one of the most wierd pictures of filmdom. The story is laid in Paris in the immense opera house the exterior of which is two city blocks long. Beneath the original opera house there are five subterraiean chambers, the lowest of which contains a vast lake. In these underground chambers, with their labyrinth of mysterious passageways, Lon Chaney weaves a drmaa that is beyond human conception. It is a story of tense intrigue. Yet, parts of it are brightened with the glamour of stage frivolity.

"Hawk of the Hills No. 5."

TUESDAY, MAR. 20

"THE IRON HORSE," starring George O'Brien in a spectacular story showing the history of rail transportation from the time a little railroad engine took over the duities of the four legged horse, through its varied evolution up to the modern powerful locomotive. The story possessses romance and comedy. It was requested by a number of patrons.

"Her Silent Wow." Helen and Warren.

WEDNESDAY, MAR. 21

"THE LOST WORLD," featuring Lewis Stone, Lloyd Hughes and Bessie Love. It is a vivid story of romanc and adveenture in a far away unexplored country up the Amazon River. These people battle savage tribes—missing links. They come in contact with massive prehistoric monsters, some of which are as big as fifteen elephants. There are flying reptiles as large as an aeroplane. After braving untold dangers in this los tland they return to London with a caged dinosaur which snaps its chains, runs wild down the street, smashes trains and sky scrapers and crashes through Tower bridge. It is a picture which you will never forget.

"Paramount News."

THURSDAY, MAR. 22

"FAUST," starring Emil Jannings in a U. F. A. production based on the world's famous epic from the masterful pen of Goethe. Satan says, "show me the man whose soul I cannot win," Faust, is the man the angel retorts. The powerful struggles of Faust and the beautiful romance with Marquerit eform the basis of the plot. The story, of course, is allegorical, portraying the struggle between the good and evil in eevry man, and the temptation that power and riches offer. It is a powerful picture.

"Collegians No. 3."

FRIDAY, MAR. 23

"DON JUAN," starring John Barrymore with Estelle Taylor and Mary Astor. In this picture of life and loves, Barrymore gives the boldest exhibition of universal emotion that the screen has ever seen. Women are toys in his hands, yet an innocent maid enslaves him. The story is of Rome in the days of the Borgias. A vortex of revelry, intrigue and purple adventure. You will be carried form the gorgeous chambers of the emperor's palace down into the filthy dungeons along the Tiber. The story finally ends at Don Juan's beautiful castle in Spain. A marvelous picture which will impress itself indellibly upon your memory.

"Hook Line and Sinker." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 23."

LONESOME TIMES

By H. Cooper

In past days on pay day
In the Detachment we would stay,
To play a few hands of poker
But, now poker has gone a-stray.

It seems as tho a gambler
But I will omit his name,
Informed the Detachment Commander
About getting gypped while in a game.

We have heard him tell quite often
Of the money he has made,
And that no one could gyp him
As gambling was his trade.

But he must have been in error
In the remarks that he had made,
For we find that he was mistaken
Mut too late to stop the raid.

Now all soldiers it is proven
Like to play as well as work,
But they are willing to do hard labor
And there is just a few that want to shirk.

But when the day is ended
I think you will agree,
That a few quiet games of poker
Is much better than a spree.

Now that the Major has stopped our playing
What can we do but roam?
And go somewhere as we can't drink beer
And think of Home Sweet Home.

THE BALLARDS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Capt. and Mrs. James L. Ballard celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary in a very interesting way on Wednesday evening. Their guests assembled at their quarters at 7:30 and went together to the Post Theater. After the picture they returned to the Ballard quarters for a unique dinner party. A long table was set for twelve guests the centerpiece of which was yellow roses surrounded by yellow candles. The tenth wedding anniversary being a tin one, the dinner was served in mess kits, with coffee in tin cups. It is of especial interest to note that Capt. O. R. Rhoads who was their best man was present on this occasion. Those present were: Maj. and Mrs. Coates, Capt. and Mrs. Gwynn, Capt. and Mrs. Doll, Capt. and Mrs. Rhoads, Lt. Dismukes and Mrs. Avera.

Capt. and Mrs. W. W. Ashurst, Marine Corps, entertained at bridge on last Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Margaret Graham of New York City, who has recently returned to resume her visit to her sister, Mrs. Butler L. Knight. The Ashurst apartment in Lorena Hall was made lovely with spring flowers, daffodils being used in profusion. There were three tables of players and Miss Graham won high prize for ladies, a leather card case; Mrs. Easley second, a bridge set; Capt. Easley won high prize for men and Major Drollinger second. Miss Katherine Snyder won the consolation, a lovely French doll. After the game an elaborate salad course was served.

Miss Margaret Ogletree of Griffin, G.a, is being extensively entertained as the guest of her brother and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Bob Childs. On Saturday evening Lt. and Mrs. Childs entertained at bridge in honor of Miss Ogletree and Lt. and Mrs. Emmett Emanuel who leave soon for China. Their home in Wynnton was prettily decorated with daffodils. Mrs. Overfelt won first prize for ladies, a pair of chiffon hose, and Capt. Matthews won the high man's prize, a box of silk ties. The honorees were presented with lovely gifts, Miss Ogletree a pair of chiffon hose and Mrs. Emanuel a traveling case. Those present were: Miss Ogletree, Lt. and Mrs. Emanuel, Maj. and Mrs. Hobbs, Maj. and Mrs. Ferris, Capt. and Mrs. Scott, Capt. and Mrs. Matthews, Lt. and Mrs. Grady, Lt. and Mrs. Bolt, Lt. and Mrs. Overfelt, Lt. and Mrs. Jaynes, Lt. and Mrs. Kelley, Lt. and Mrs. Curtis and Lt. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff D. Box will regret to learn that they have gone to Albuquerque, New Mexico, for an indefinite stay, for the benefit of her health. Mr. Box served for several years with the 29th Infantry where he numbers his friends with his acquaintances. While stationed at Benning he married the lovely Anne Lumpkin of Columbus. In Panama where they were stationed soon after their wedding her health began to decline and he resigned in the hope of restoring her health by a change of climate. It is earnestly hoped that the high altitude of New Mexico will prove beneficial and that ere long they can return to their friends in Columbus and Benning.

Lt. and Mrs. W. W. Brier were hosts at a delightful supper and theater party on Sunday evening. Their guests were: Maj. and Mrs. Bowen, Maj. Young, Maj. and Mrs. Van Fleet, Maj. and Mrs. Teachout, and Capt. and Mrs. Sweet.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jones of Chicago, the guests of Capt. and Mrs. S. B. Massey, Maj. and Mrs. Patrick McGuire entertained at dinner and cards on Saturday evening. St. Patrick's green was effectively used in decorations, scorecards, candles and refreshments. Mrs. Jones won high prize for ladies and Capt. Pritchett was the lucky gentleman.

On Tuesday afternoon Pan-Hellenic met with Mrs. Edwin Spiller and Mrs. A. E. Brown at the home of the former. Mrs. Elam L. Stewart won first prize and Mrs. F. G. Heraty, second. Mrs. Spiller and Mrs. Brown always entertain beautifully and this party was very delightful.

The Medical Corps entertained at their evening bridge on Friday at the Polo Club. Mrs. John Tamraz won high ladies' prize, a satin costume slip, Mrs. Ben Fridge second, an exquisite lace doily, and Mrs. Dale third, a half dozen tea napkins. Maj. Norris won high gentleman's prize, a broadcloth shirt; Maj. Dale, second ,a pair of golf socks.

Capt. and Mrs. Lewis C. Beebe announce the birth of a son at the Post Hospital on Wednesday morning, March 14th.

Park at C. A. Morgan & Co. Open till 10 o'clock. Soft Drinks, Drugs and Cigars.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—March 19th.
Time—2:15.

On next Monday afternoon Miss Patria Pekor, a most talented dramatic reader and impersonator, will give a program for the Woman's Club. This is the third year that the Club has had the opportunity to present Miss Pekor and her afternoon is always anticipated with delight for she is really an artist. This time she will read Percival Wilde's play, "The Finger of God," and because of its dramatic intensity she will precede its presentation with several delightful impersonations.

At appropriate intervals Mrs. William G. Livesay, a most skilful pianist, will render a series of piano solos.

Tea will be served at the conclusion of the program.

The ninth in a series of ten programs on Contemporary Literary was presented on Monday at the meeting of the Literary Department of the Woman's Club. Mrs. Charles W. Ryder was in charge and her subject was Present-day Literature in Italy.

In her excellent foreword Mrs. Ryder recalled the grandeur of Italy in the 16th century when her literature held unrivaled supremacy and stated that it was hardly to be expected that she would ever attain such eminence again. The French Revolution and the Napoleonic occupation brought a great change in literary production in Italy for classical ideals were replaced by thoughts of liberation and happiness to be gained by further freedom, the form and content being an almost servile imitation of the French. In the latter half of the 19th century Italy began to break her French fetters and start literary cults of her own. Carducci dealt Romanticisf a great blow and succeeded in re-establishing classicism which today remains as his contribution to modern literature—the Carducci cult. Not only as the greatest poet of his day but as instructor of Italian Literature at the University of Bologna where he was idolized by his students was his influence great—and to this day only one poet rises up to share the high place of honor among the Italians that he held—that one, Gabriel D'Annunzio.

"D'Annunzio," to quote Mrs. Ryder, "is considered the most consummate master of literary achievement now living. For a long time he has been a conspicuous figure in the public sys. He is a poet, novelist, journalist, hero, politician, critic, prophet, aviator, and self-appointed dictator of Italy. Literary criticism should be concerned only with the genius of the write and his ability to express that genius. If we concern ourselves with the morals of his writings or the immorality of his life it ceases to be a literary criticism. In dealing with A'Annunzio the genius we should not confuse him with D'Annunzio the man whose personal actions have been beyond the comprehension of decent Americans. He is the extreme egoist, seeing himself as hero of his own stories so that they become glorifications of his own misdemeanors. He sings the praises of sensualism as they have never been sung in modern times and he preaches and practices a moral code that is the antithesis of Christianity. And yet in spite of all this he has shown at times an extraordinary sensitiveness to beauty as revealed in nature and art and his poetry takes the highest form of lyric expression. He is said by the critics to write the most artistically perfect novels."

The Carducci cult of classicism and the Futurist School, which seeks to protest against all established forms and seek more liberty through individualism, are the two literary cults of the day. The Futurists wish to abbeviate artistic expression to an extreme of crudeness that is supposed to create great strength through equally great simplicity. The most important figure of this school is Giovanni Papini who writes with a vigorous simplicity that lends itself airs of rugged independence. Papini is best known to American readers by his "Life of Christ" so widely read a few years ago.

Perhaps another Italian writer in whom we are most interested is Pirandello, Italy's satirist. Formerly a writer of romantic prose he has turned of late to play writing in which he jeers humorously at our moralities, conventions and hypocracies. While he is not greatly admired in his own country he is accepted as an outstanding dramatist.

Woman in Italy has never been granted freedom for emotional and intellectual development but the World War helped to change her status socially, politically and economically, and now she has gained recognition in the literary world by this year winning the coveted Nobel Prize for Literature. The great honor has been conferred on Grazia Deledda, the second women in the world to have won this distinction.

"The Mother," a novel by Grazia Deledda, was reviewed by Mrs. W. H. Vinson. A short sketch of Deledda's life was given and it was interesting to note that this woman, born of humble parents on a half-civilized island of Sardinia in the mid-Mediterranean, with no chance at higher education, saw beauty in the rugged wildness about her and was able to interpret so well the life of her native isle with its primitive impulses and emotions, its superstitions and doctrine-bound religion that she was chosen to receive this international honor in literary achievement.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all"

At last we have discovered someone in authority at the Infantry School who agrees with us on the subject of combat orders. General Collins recently addressed the Advanced Class on this matter and his remarks encouraged us tremendously. In all map problems to date, our combat orders have been so sketchy as compared with those of the approved solutions that we had begun to doubt our ability to ever pull off a coordinated attack even in Assembly Hall No. 2, not to mention the battlefield. We were on the verge of being convinced that we were either dumb or stubborn (although we know well enough that we are neither) when the General came along with his heartening announcement that the prevailing motif in combat order styles for the next war would be brevity.

The question now before the house is what to do about it. We believe firmly in short and snappy combat orders and so does the General but the General, so I am told, doesn't mark the papers. Such being the case we fear that our combat orders in future marked problems will continue to instruct, "Co. A, 1st Inf., to drive hard with the left, over run the front line trenches within its zone of action, assist Co. B to capture hill 603-a and then continue its advance in the draw 600 yards east of the smoke house 300 yards south of P. Eckinrode, capturing Home Sweet Home School and driving the enemy to drink."

Wt note with pleasure the revival of sprightly column by Miss Beatrice Davis. We are far more and better colyums (the word has a specific meaning which warrants its occasional use, Captain Nichols to the contrary notwithstanding) and Miss Davis writes entertainingly of people and events. So lets give this little girl a hand. With Captain Nichols looking out for those attached to organizations, E. H. R. in charge of the publicity bureau for C Company of the Company Officer's Class, E. F. H. taking care of the Advanced Class and School Faculty, and Miss Davis covering the field in general, there is no reason why any shrinking Fort Benning violet should continue to blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desert air—unless, per chance, he happens to be in "B" Company of the Company Officer's Class or a member of the Infantry Board. The "Mentioned not at all" list grows smaller each week, and, as soon as we can get something on the quiet workers like Major Ellis and Captain Barker, it will cease to exist, as far as the Advance Class is concerned.

Society News

On Thursday last, the Academic Board joined hands with the Advance Class in a unique celebration of Captain Parkin's birthday. The affair took the form of an historical tableau depicting the capture of Captain Parkin's home town of Pittsburg by the Americans. The hall was tastefully decorated with a frieze of tattered rain coats and small maps of Pittsburgh were given as favors. Cigars and cigarettes were furnished by the guests. Captain Brett acted as impresario and toastmaster, and games were indulged in, the most interesting being one which required the contestants to state just how they would go about capturing the city. Elder Bissel's proposal to organize a corps of interpreters to confer with the natives was roundly applauded and promptly adopted by the school. Major Drollinger, backed by Majors Devore and O'Hare, then proposed that the area between the Allegheny and Monongehela be gassed by low flying airplanes. This plan was rejected at first, on the ground that it would subject the friendly inhabitants to undue hardship but when Major Drollinger explained that gas masks would be issued to the 500,000 loyal supporters of law and order, Captain Brett admitted that the solution might be as good, if not better, than that of the School. As a result of this meeting Colonel Mason is being strongly urged to appoint a committee headed by Major Teachout to correspond with the Chief of the Chemical War Fare Service with a view to assuring that an adequate supply of gas masks, including assorted children's sizes, be kept on hand for just such emergencies.

Items From Assembly Hall No. 3

We have it on good authority that Captain Kingman, not content with trying to outguess the School, has employed his spare time in trying to outguess the tsock market. Up to the hour of our going to press, all of his estimates of the economic situation have been unsatisfactory.

Ambassador McLean has a new chauffeur piloting the Ship of State. Professor McCunniff, upon the advice of the Surgeon, is said to be contemplating similar action. Not only is the morning dash for class a strain on the heart but the ever narrowing margin of safety causes the Professor to arrive on the field of action for a Marked Problem in a state bordering upon nervous prostration.

After The Ball

The return of the papers from Major Bradley's Company in Defense charade confirmed our published predictions that this exercise would prove to be a Waterloo for the Advanced Class Napoleons. Some of our ablest tacticians went down in defeat. Not all of the U's can be attributed to the Costume Party of the evening before but when Field Marshall Russell draws a late and a U on the same date, we need seek no farther for a prfect example of a coordinated attack. Those who received U's in this problem derive scant comfort from the fact that, after all, it was small war. As Diogenes De Vore remarked, "It is like being run down by a T Model Ford."

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

When you read this—the Horse Show Team might even now be still competing for honors for Bening.

High jinks around Classroom No. 5 Monday morning. The Constructing Quartermaster, Lt. Allison, held his opening of bids on Units F and G of the Cuartel Barracks and Ward Buildings Nos. 1 and 2, at this classroom. There were 106 contractors, sub-contractors, and supply men present.

A lad whom we know will make good, and eventually become a financial giant—Major "Red Cross" Green. After seeing him bent low over a magazine, deeply engrossed, Ye Buzzings Editoress approached on tiptoes to see why the deep concentration—and lo! it was "The Magazine of Wall Street" this Boy Scout was perusing so earnestly! (Upon investigation, it develops that it was the "Help Wanted" Section that was receiving such undivided attention!)

Poor Major Lyman! Bee doesn't think he's ever going to get his Polo Tournament played so that Benning will know who its champs of the mounted game are!

Sights seen of a Monday's noon:

Captain E. L. Rice walking around the garrison—lugging a big package. Wonder why the pensive look. Lt. Curtis of the Fifth Section in "slacks"—first time the genial Lieutenant has ever worn them, I'll bet. Lt. Mackie is headed away from the Recreation Center Board where he was recently transferred from the 24th Doughboys, with that frown on his brow as if the weight of the world hung heavy on his shoulders. Yonder are Major Ryder and Major Patch, deep in conversation, looking as if the subject might be weighty enough for two majors to be discussing it so earnestly. Here goes Lt. "Andy" Nicholls, my rival columnist, his dogs with him, bending low over the wheel, a la Barney Oldfield—I see orderlies bringing up the mounts—our little school lads will have a pleasant jaunt this afternoon I'm sure—Mrs. Bishop rides by, looking very, very tiny and boyish in her big car—Yonder is Marie Russ, who appears to Bee to be Clara Bow the 2nd, anyway the nearest contender for that honor in Columbus or Fort Benning—yonder goes a truck from the Department of Experiment, and Colonel Hunt and Captain Barnette are preparing to follow in those dinky little official cars—and "so to work."

Bee's Benning Brightlights: Colonel A. B. Warfield—Lord of the Links—and King of the Courses. The man who, in the opinion of all, has done more to make Golf the popular pastime it is at Bening, than anyone else. Also responsible for the new nine holes ,and the splendid condition in which all 18 holes are kept.

We read in a recent Daily Bulletin that the Cooking Class of the Woman's Club would meet at the home of Mrs. W. T. Scott. We would suggest that some of our entrants in the fruit cake contest attend this school. We know of no larger field for this sort of an institution than Fort Benning. We have pleaded with T. W.* for three years to join this class but without success and our indigestion goes merrily on its way unmolested. We hope that some of our fellow officers are reaping the benefits of this course o finstruction. We are wondering where the instructors come from.

We are greatl yindebted to some unknown hero. Aggie DeCaster Bacon left a cake for us at the Organization Day dance of the 29th Infantry and this person failed to give it to us. We understand that it was a beautiful cake, with pretty flowers on it and iced all around. We do not know who got this cake but Captain Lovett was on sick report for three days following the hop so we naturally suspect him.

Millie Wessells has the mumps. We danced with Millie at the 29th Hop and thought at the time that her face was rather plump. The next morning there was a signon her door labeled "Mumps." For three days we thought we were getting this playful little disease but apparently Millie's effort to spread her affliction throughout the garrison was unsuccessful. We personally think that all her trouble was due to trying to chew one of our entries in the fruit cake contest.

We have been wondering why the Editor saw fit to move our column away from the Chapel Column. We wonder if the Chaplains objected to our being so close.

We want to add our "amen" to the remarks of E. F. H. relative to the typesetters union making a new paper of the Infantry School News. We take a great deal of pains in writing our column to insure the correct spelling of words, etc. and then when the paper comes out on time (a part of the policy), we hardly recognize our own work. When we retire from the Army, which will be pretty soon if we don't call off this cake contest, we are going to apply for the job of proof reading for the News. That is our idea of nothing to do.

We see that "Bee's Buzzing" is back with us after a long vacation. This column should satisfy those who like to see their name in print. If Bee keeps up to last week she will make the rounds of the entire Garrison in ju st six and one-half issues. We wonder if the reference she made to us as "Lieutenant" was prophetic.

One of our strongest admirers, Betty Dager, has been a great help to us in getting out this column. Betty admits that she reads the Infantry School News for our column alone and has given us much encouragement. This lady also admires our ability as an entertainer, particularly our efforts in blackface with her husband. Thanks Betty, Henry and I need your help.

We wonder if burnt cork is necessary in dancing the "black bottom"?

The next month will offer unusual opportunities in the way of diversion for those interested in the Infantry School Dramatic Club as both a program of one act plays for the members and a three-act play, open to the public, will be presented.

Saturday evening, March 31st, three one-act plays will be offered in the 29th Infantry Theater for members and their guests only. Those chosen are "Fore" which, as its name implies, deals with golf, but in patricular with a "Golf Widow," directed by Lt. Col. G. C. Marshall; "Danger," a radio melodrama, directed by Major Tom Fox, and "The Other Kitty," a farce, which Captain A. J. Nichols has found time to supervise in spite of the press of duties inflicted on him by his widely known cake eating contest. "Danger" is must unusual and melodramatic, and will afford an excellent companion piece to the others which are in a lighter vein.

Friday the 13th (of April) has been chosen as the most appropriate date to present George S. Kaufman's "Butter and Egg Man," a three-act comedy containing thirteen characters. Originally produced at The Longacre Theater in New York, it had an unusually successful run for over a year. This performance will be open to the public, which is really fortunate in being able to see in it one of the cleverest angles on the old thme of a "fool and his money" that has been produced for several years. Incidentally, there will be a second performance on Saturday, April 14th, for those who hesitate to tempt fate with too many combinations of thirteen of Friday.

COMMENDATION

Cooperation in Epidemic of Influenza
Fort Benning, Ga.,
March 6, 1928.

General Orders, No. 6:

1. Organizations of this command are commended for their hearty and efficient cooperation in assisting the medical department during the recent epidemic of influenza. The spirit shown by all members of the command in complying with suggestions of the medical department in the effort to limit the spread of the disease and to care for convalescents treated in quarters was most satisfactory. Without this valuable aid the epidemic might and probably would have reached serious proportions.

2. In particular this commendation is directed for the following organizations:

(a) The School for Bakers and Cooks: Under direction of Captain H. C. Johansen, Q. M. C., a detachment of cooks and mess attendants, under a non-mommissioned officer, organized and equipped a hospital mess in temporary buildings turned over for hospital use and operated the mess for both patients and for enlisted attendants with economy and efficiency. A second mess was organized by Captain Johansen in the 29th Infantry tent area but this area was not required for hospital use.

(b) The Utilities Section of the Office of the Quartermaster: This section converted certain buildings assigned for the use of the hospital into wards with gratifying promptness and efficiency and responded in a very satisfactory manner to the many demands for repairs and installations requested.

(c) The Property Section of the Office of the Quartermaster: With the least practicable formality all necessary property for equipment of the temporary wards was made available and delivered where needed. The cooperation of this office was so satisfactory that the Medical Department was enabled to increase the hospital capacity by over two hundred beds within a few hours of its requests for service.

(d) Company "C", 15th Tank Battalion: On February 14, 1928, this organization was detailed to assist in the care of sick and in operating the temporary hospital and for duty in the old hospital area. Both officers and men performed every duty required in a most satisfactory manner and with a willing and painstaking spirit that reflects the highest credit on the discipline and esprit of this organization.

3. This order will be read to each company or detachment at the first formatio nafter receipt.

By command of Brigadier General Collins:

D. H. TORREY,
Major, A. G. D.,
Adjutant.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB

Author," or a "Comedy in the Making" by Pirandello was excellently reviewed by Mrs. Gilbert Cook. This is considered one of the most original plays on the modern stage. In it Pirandello endeavors to prove that in art, it is impossible to distinguish between illusion and reality; that illusion is often more real than reality. He does this by using a stage setting where a stage manager is endeavoring to rehearse a play with his actors. His rehearsal is interrupted by the appearance of "Six Characters in Search of An Author." These characters have bee ncreated and endowed with personalities by their author and, though creatures of his brain, they go beyond his will to obey the laws which govern their actions and when he finds that they are unwieldy he discards them—and created to act they must fulfill their destiny and go out in search of a new author. The stage manager thinks they could make a good play and he tries to interpret them to his actors who in turn interpret them in their own way, and neither gets at the real interpretation of their life and action as the characters know it to be. So of the two realities, stage manager and actors, and the illusion, "The Characters" you feel that the characters are infinitely more real.

Mrs. Edwin H. Randle, who appeared before the club for the first time surely proved her worth in the outstanding superior review she gave of D'Annunzio's "Flame of Life." This novel is in truth an auto-biograhy and if you did not know the hearbreak that is publication caused the great Eleanor Duse you could enjoy it more. The exquisite poetry of its prose, its charming colorful setting in picturesque Venice with her lovely lagoons, the sweep of his power as he tells of the life of the artists makes it a literary gem.

PRICE OF CALF'S LIVER SOARING; SCIENTISTS SAY IT'S FULL OF IRON

A year ago fresh dressed calves' liver sold for 55 cents a pound. Now its average price is 90 cents, with $1.00 the prevailing rate along Park Ave. Corresponding increases have taken place in the less expensive grades.

So greatly has the demand increased ovr the available supply that several butchers are unable to obtain an amount of liver sufficient to supply their trade. One mid-town dealer reported that he was placed on an allowance o ftwo calves' livers a week. Many butchers, late in ordering, were unable to obtain any at all.

Back of this startling rise in price is a phenomenal increase in demand. Liver no longer is a mere adjunct to bacon at the breakfast table. It is in itself a dietary item of prime importance.

Liver's sudden rise from the ranks is due to one thing: its high contest of organic iron compounds.

It has long been known that liver was high in iron, but only within the past year has its really important function been known: its ability to cure pernicious anemia, the dreda malady that was for so long regarded as incurable.

The knowledge that liver possesses this remarkable boon to humanity is the result of experiments begun in 1924 by Drs. G. R. Minot and W. T. Murphy, of the Massachusetts General Hospital. These two physicians set out to discover a method of treating anemia, and determined to find one which best suited the purpose.

After three years exhaustive research and experimentation it was found that liver possessed to a remarkable degree the ability to stimulate multiplication of the red blood corpuscles. It is a dearth of red corpuscles in the blood stream that induces anemia.

Since the Minot-Murphy experiments several commercial companies have taken up the matter of preparing liver in more palatable forms. One of the best known of such preporations is a powder, whose therapeutic quality is eight times that of a corresponding weight of cooked liver, accodring to its manufacturers.

Not all liver sells for 90 cents a pound. Cold storage beef liver, which a year ago sold for 13 cents a pound, retails at 24 cents; lamb's liver, formerly 11 cents, brings 23 cents.—(From N. Y. Mirror).

A little Jewish boy was standing on a street corner, making the welking ring with great sobs and exclamations of distress. About him there soon gathered a large crowd of would-be sympathizers.

"What is the matter, my little man?" asked one of the crowd. "Are you lost?"

The boy ceased his wailing. "I am," he answered, "I'm lost. Won't you take me to Goldblatt's Cut-Rate Tailoring Shop, at 234 Rosen Street, which has just opened up a marvelous sacrifice sale on men's pant sand suits at fifty per cent below cost?"—Toronto Goblin.

SEMI-FINALS BOXING MATCHES

The semi-finals of the regimental boxing tournament were a royal battle from the first bout to the last. It was one of the best exhibitions of boxing held at Fort Benning for some time.

Judging from these bouts the final to be held Thursday evening, March 22nd, at the Post Gym will be well worth turning out for.

The results of the semi-final bouts were: Cox, of Company E won decision over Carter of Company C; Williamson, of Company B, knocked out Slappy, of Company F; Ancrum of Company B won decision over Marshall of Company A; Harris of Company C won over Herns, of Headquarters Company; Nelson of Company C won over Landry of Company E; Heard of Compnay C knocked out Davis of Headquarters Company. The last bout was betwen two heavyweights.

Monographs

The first monograph of the week was delivered by Lieut. J. I. Greene on the subject of the 2nd Battle of Manassas. Lieut. Greene had made a very detailed study of this campaign both from a political as well as a military aspect.

He pointed out the general incompetence of General Polk as a military leader, commenting especially on Polk's remarkable state o fmind in assuming that his enemy would do what he wanted him to do. With Lee opposing him this assumption was extremely costly to the Federal forces. Lee's inability to exploit opportunities which he clearly saw, through the refusal of General Longstreet to carry out his commander's plans was also brought out.

The second monograph of the week by Capt. H. B. Crowell on the Battle of Antietam, was an excellent presentation of a very interesting campaign. Capt. Crowell, by an ingenious use of markers on his map and his clear cut presentation, was able to show in a particularly clear manner the successive steps and employment of all the divisions engaged. There was also brought out the salient reasons for this confederate drive into Northern territory, the technical mistakes of both leaders, the organizing genius of McClellan and his limitation as a commander, and the remarkable personality and leadership of Lee which dominated the entire campaign.

Headquarters Company

In small bore competition, Headquarters Company was represented by Sergeants Scott Bradford and Charley Harrison. Final results showed Sergeant Bradford leading the team with an average of 96¼ for the four positions. It will be remembered that Sergeant Bradford was the only enlisted man representing the 24th Infantry in the National matches of last year.

Several members of the company will be discharged this month through E. T. S., among them being Master Sergeant Jesse Warfield, 1st Sgt. William J. Miller, Staff Sgt. Levi M. Thornhill and Pvt. George Rodgers.

Staff Sgt. Henry Moore has been assigned quarters in Cashtown. Sergeant and Mrs. Moore have been living in the city.

The company is represented in the boxing tournament by Privates Earnest Lowery, Central Warran and Ed. T. Davis. Each is making a very good showing.

We had several lady visitors at the recreation room on Wednesday night, March 7, to listen to the program broadcasted by the 24th Infantry Band and Glee Club at Station WAPI, Auburn, Alabama. The program came in fine and everyone enjoyed it.

Private 1st Cl. Major Moore is the only member of the company to receive one of the, football jerseys, on which can be sene, 24, which represents the 24th Infantry. He is evidently very proud of it for he can be seen wearing it quite often.

24th INFANTRY BASEBALL TEAM IN GREAT SHAPE

Baseball fans are in for a double treat March 23-24, for both days a doubleheader will be played at Gowdy Field, and both games will be Class A baseball.

The 24th Infantry opens the 1928 season with two games on the above dates with the Cuban Giants here. This is one of the strongest colored professional teams in the country and fans who have seen them in action here during the two past seasons will not miss the opportunity of seeing them play here this season.

The Happy Hearts take the field this year with practically the same line-up as last season, Hampton will be back of the plate while Dazzy Vance and Trammel are both ready for slab duty, S. Williams, King, McCrary and Johnson combine a powerful infield, while Battle, F. Williams and Nash are a trio of bal lhawks that refuse to let anything land in the outfield.

Shop Foreman—"You ain't one of them blokes wot drops their tools and scoots as soon as the whistle blows, are you?"

New Man—"Not me! Why, I often have to wait five minutes after I put me tools away before the whistle blows."

Arithmetic Teacher: "Johnny, if your father earned fifty dollars a week and gave your mother half, what would she have?"

Johnny: "Heart failure."

OFFICERS NAMED FOR MOTOR CLUB

Major McCants and W. E. Austell elected on Board of Directors

At an election held last Monday at the Ralston Hotel, Columbus, officers were named for the Chattahoochie Valley Motor Club, a branch of the American Auto Association. Major S. I. McCants, Post Exchange Officer and Mr. W. E. Austell, manager of the Post Exchange Garage, were elected to membership of the Board of Directors.

There are many Fort Benning people who are members of this organization. Officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the first three grades and entitled to membership. Full details of the Association and its work will apppear in an early edition of The Infantry School News.

HEADQUARTERS, FT. BENNING FIRE DEPARTMENT

FIRE FIGHTERS AT FT. BENNING

(By Lt. W. A. Ford, QMC Res. Corps)

The fire department at Fort Benning, Georgia, the home of The Infantry School, is made up of two units. Number 1 Company consists of eleven enlisted men of the Quartermaster Corps under a sergeant, and Number 2 of a like number from the Infantry School Detachment under a Corporal. The Chief, Mr. B. H. Willis, is a civilian who has held the position since the department was organized in May, 1919, and who was for many years prior to that time with the fire department of the city of Columbus, Ga.

Originally, the Ft. Benning Fire Department was made up of eight civilians employed by the contractor who was building the Post. They were housed in an unfinished barracks building, while their apparatus—a converted G. M. C. truck—was covered by tarpaulins while not in use. In June, 1919, two fire trucks—a Brockway and an Ahrens-Fox—were secured. These men moved to a shed on the edge of the construction area, while the firemen were housed in tents. On July 26th, 1919, the department was taken over by the Quartermaster, and a fire station was built. This was occupied in August, 1919, although not completed. An accompanying photograph gives some idea of the condition of the building. It was largely completed by the personnel of the Fire Department. The second accompanying picture shows the building as it is today. Since August, 1919, the department has grown larger or smaller as appropriations permitted or dictated, until becoming more or less fixed at the figures stated. In 1921, all civilians except the Chief were released, the places being filled by soldiers. The men work in shifts, two days on duty and one off.

At present, the equipment of the Fire Department consists of two engines (the original Ahrens-Fox and one American-LaFrance) and two chemical hose trucks, besides the necessary hand reel carts, and extinguishers of various types and sizes scattered throughout the garrison.

The area protected by these two engine companies is roughly within a radius of one mile from the Garrison Flag Pole, about four square miles. Within this area are contained about 1,000 buildings of various types, including frame-and-canvas tents. Total valuation of these buildings and property contained therein was on December 31, 1927, approximately thirty millions of dollars. The fire loss for the six months period ending on that date was $11,000 on a total of 13 fires. Of these, one was serious. This was when the sawmill, with its valuable machinery and a qauntity of finished lumber, was totally destroyed. For the entire period of its service, the Department has been operated at a cost of lss than $1.00 for every $1,000 worth of property protected ,and with a percentage of loss far down in the decimal fractions.

When one considers the fact that about 90% of the buildings of the Post are of wartime frame construction, or, even worse, flimsy shacks run up with slabs and tarpaper as their basis, together with a large sprinkling of canvas covered structures, the record set by the Department may be considered as truly remarkable. In 9 years, only two fires of serious nature have occurred. These were the destruction of Post Headquarters in 1924, and the sawmill in 1927. In both instances, the fire had gained headway before the alarm was turned in, and was restricted by the Fire Department to the one building. The Post of Fort Benning is justly proud of the Fire Department and are willing to back it on an efficiency basis against any equivalent organization in the land.

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHAT

Chit-Chat knows that spring is here, for Miss Marjory Zettler's regular bouquet of jonquils ornament her desk today. We never have been able to find out who "Marge's" secret admirer who keeps her desk blooming with flowers all during the spring and summer, is—but when flowers appear on her desk, one may know that spring is indeed here, and when no floral decorations appear on said desk, it's a sure sign that spring and summer have flitted away.

Mr. Ford, of Utilities, after having noted Chit-Chat's reference in last week's issue to his "distinguishing touches of grey at the temples," shows that he appreciates same by immediately going down town and having a very military hair cut.

Mrs. Drane, after having spent the week-end in Atlanta, comes back with valuable style-hints, namely that hats will be large—leghorns and panamas coming back to bat. Tuesday night, Mrs. Drane, who is one of Columbus' most popular contraltos, besides being one of the powers-that-be at the Purchasing Desk, sang at the Solomon-Burger wedding, while she was one of the high-lights of Mrs. F. L. Rosenthal's reception at the Harmony Club, Wednesday night.

Mr. Markey comes forth in a new Whippet car.

Mr. Chambers, who is one of the busiest men in Utilities Branch in his capacity of accountant, has turned to the simple life. He has just purchased himself a farm, and besides tilling the soil, he will raise chickens and have a cow or so.

Captain E. J. Buckbee, who has assumed command of the 100th Motor Transport Company, reports that they had a very enthusiastic opening of their recreation room last week.

Captain Massey, plutocrat of Utilities, has been staying up late nights recently, entertaining his brother and sister, Doctor and Mrs. Jones, who have just returned from a trip around the world.

Mrs. Clara Blount, Billeting Clerk, besides being adept at the typewriter, also makes a very skillful masseuse. Ask the blonde steno of the Constructing Quartermaster's Office whether or not said lady knows how to manipulate the creams, and bring back that "bloom of youth."

Mr. Whitaker, of Rail Transportation, has just gotten well from an attack of the flu.

Miss Mary Harris, the Colonel's stenographer, as if trying to refute the facts written about her last week, namely, her earnest concentration on a novel from the pen of Ivansky Tchkozhixzoty, famous Russian novelist ,has bobbed her hair shorter than ever, making her appear not at all like the sort of person

SPORTS

UNITED STATES OLYMPIC TEAM WILL SAIL FROM NEW YORK JULY THE 11TH

The Olympic games for 1928, will be held in Amsterdam, Holland, commencing July 29th.

Final tryouts to determine the membership of the team representing the United States will be held in time to permit the team to sail from New York July 11th, places and dates to be announced later.

It is to be regretted that funds will not permit the Army to hold its own tryouts, as was done in 1920 and in 1924, except for equestrian sports in which an Army tryout will be held at Fort Riley, Kansas, in April, 1928. It will therefore be necessary for members of the Army seeking a place on the American team, except ni riding, to qualify instead in the sectional tryouts above referred to. The question of holding corps area or local tryouts for the selection of corps area representatives will be at the discretion of oorps area commanders. There is no objection to contestants of a corps area participating, without expense to the government in the tryouts of another corps area, and corps commanders are authorized to communicate directly with each other to that end. Members of all components of the Army of the United States who can qualify as to their amateur standing are eligible to compete.

INFANTRY SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM WORKING HARD FOR AUBURN GAMES

Only a few more days and the Auburn Tiger will leave his lair over in the red hills of Alabam and come to Benning to break his long fast on two big helpings of Doughboy steak. But the Doughboy Chieftain has other ideas, he expects to send the Tiger homeward hungry, with his claws clipped and his teeth pulled.

The Auburn Tigers will arrive here for a two-game series March 23rd, and lovers of the National pastime will see their first game of the season at Gowdy Field on this date.

Nothing is known of the Tiger's strength this season but judging from past games the Doughboys are picking a tough foe for a beginner.

It is rather early to comment on the line-up for the opening contest but picking a long shot we expect to see the veteran Mick McCarthy on the receiving end, first base still remains a mystery, Shotgun White will probably be at the middle station while the short station will be in charge of "Fat Franz," Lt. Cobb will most likely be on the hot corner. The outfield will rival any outfield in the southern territory, Kjelstrom in left, Gawge Smythe in center, while right garden has several candidates for that position that makes that position a hard one to decide on. "Bigboy" Newman may go on the firing line in the lid raising although every slab artist on the squad is ready and rearing to go into action.

Captain McCord is not doing much talking, in fact "Mum" is the word, but he certainly doesn't look a bit worried over the outcome of the coming baseball season.

INFANTRY SCHOOL FIGHTERS WIN LAURELS IN LAND OF SUNSHINE AND FLOWERS

The first venture of the Infantry School Amateur Boxing team on foreign soil proved a big success in every way. Two knockouts and three decisions out of eight fights was the record that they hung up against the strong University of Florida team at Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday night, March 8th.

The opening contest was a lightning fast affair with Ted Miller, southern bantamweight intercollegiate champion, taking a hair line decision from "Buddy" Brault of the 29th Infantry.

Young Phillips of Benning took an extra round decision over Spoto of Florida in one of the best fights of the evening. After fighting three rounds to a draw, Phillips had his man on the verge of a Kao when the bell saved him in the fourth and deciding round.

Blondie Parker scored a clean knockout over Quina of Florida, in the fourth round in the junior welterweight class.

In the welterweight class, Luciate, Florida, took a close decision over Boudin of the Doughboys.

Myers, king of Benning middleweights, continued his knockout record when he put Warren out for the count early in the second round.

In the light-heavy division Gordy of Ft. Benning won the decision over Brooker of Florida.

Mysterious Billy Smith of Doughboy fame, rocked and socked his way to a decision over Hall of Florida to win the heavyweight bout. Billy only tips the beam at 180, but he did not seem to worry about a little thing like 20 pounds difference in weight, what he lacked in weight he carried in speed.

FORT BENNING OFFICER WILL TRY OUT FOR OLYMPIC TEAM

Lieutenant Aubrey S. Newman of Company "A", 29th, Infantry, has been placed on Detached Service at Governors Island, New York, for the purpose of competing in the tryout for the Olympia Team at that place.

Lt. Newman is an all-around athlete, he will try out for swimming, shooting, riding and fencing. He has been a member of the Infantry School Basbetball team for the two past seasons and was swimming instructor here last summer. His many friends and admirers at Fort Benning join in washing him the best of luck as a member of the American team that support the colors of Old Glory at Amsterdam, Holland, in the Olympic games this year.

Did we get the Blue Banner again? You said it Achibald. What's more we don't expect to ever be without it. Personally I see no use in inspecting the Company anymore. It is a loss of time. Just leave it in the hall where we keep it all of the time and let it go at that.

While in a company barber shop, look to see who is in the chair before making wise cracks about the First Sergeant. By that you may avoid an embarrassing situation like the one that occurred to a member of this Company.

At last we have with us again Cpl. (Red) Cunningham. It seems as though some ninety days ago Cunningham was granted a thirty-day furlough, but he has just now returned. All good time too. It seems he lives some thousand odd miles from here and, the roads are bad. It took thirty days to get home and he was granted an extension of thirty days to visit on ,then another thirty to return on and he just did get back on time.

Say boys have you noticed any change in Pfc. Bowen lately? Perhaps I would not have noticed it either if he had not have come between a bright light and me at the proper angle so I could see across the part of the anatomy that is just below the nose and just above the mouth and, lo and behold there it was.

When Pvt. Yawn was asked if he believed in signs, he replied, "Ah sho does. Iisghns ma name to everything that has a spotted line to it."

—Cpl. Arden A. Leverich.

1st Battalion Hdqrs. Co.

Well we have lost another good man in Cpl. Isbill who was discharged last Sunday. A certain young man in this organization made the remark that he was going to write a novel. He said that he hoped to realize about $5,000 from it. We hope he does so he can purchase the Fire Insurance that he has wanted for so long. For what? O, he has a wooden leg.

Property Office News Items

Mr. Binns is the only one who comes under our weekly sick report; and he wa sout several days last week due to the illness of his baby, but we are glad to note that it has almost recovered.

Mr. McNamara returned from leave on the last of February and took up his work again on his overloaded desk.

One day last week part of the office force went down below the Quartermaster office to the chapel built by a Q. M. soldier several years ago. It was a very interesting pilgrimage and we enjoyed it very much. While there we made several pictures which turned out to be very good.

Speaking of pictures—the Q. M. Property office force surely did pose here a couple of days—two perfectlv good rolls of film ruined—and perhaps a nice camera put out of condition! The second roll hasn't bene developed as yet, and we are so afraid it is totally blank, after what has previously been exposed to the camera's view—ahem! We shall see what we shall see.

In closing, we can say that Mr. Perrin is as much of a jokeas ever—and Mr. Jones is still casting about to find a means of subduing the world.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Waterhead is away on a ten-day furlough and it is rumored that he will have a terrible time getting back, as all the fair damsels of Sylacauga will endeavor to prolong his stay indefinitely.

The Field Artillery Radio School is progressing very nicely. Fifteen words per minute operators will be easy for all members of the class. All credit should go to our able instructor and assistants, Lieut. Schwarze, Sgt. LaPine and Private Tate, respectively. Great work was expected and great work is being done.

Barney Hoban, wild horse wrangler for the Headquarters Battery, was seen hovering about the corrals one morning. Barney says he would ride more, but they haven't enough wild ones to go around.

It was discovered that Kirby was the only walking advertisement for onions. It is also rumored that he was the last man out of the burning building.

It was thought that Burhead Arnold had been in a bloody battle, but this was not the case. He had spilled a bottle of catsup?

Tate and Penton, the new Battery sheiks, have been in conference, discussing the building of a new garbage house.

The present one is not large enough for the uses for which it is being used. It is recommended that plush cushions be installed in the new one.

Battery "A"

Sergeant George W. Mann will be discharged this week per expiration term of service. Well George, you better take on another stack with the gallant cannoneers.

Private Specl 6th Cl. Benjamin F. Doggett has been appointed Pfc. We are glad to see you get it old boy.

It seems like all of our sheiks are quitting the old gang, they seem to think that two can live as cheaply as one, as Sergeant Brown and Corporal Neal have found themselves a lot mtae and have ended in matrimony. We wish you both the very best o fsuccess in the future.

Private Walters was discharged last week per E. T. S., he says that he was going back on his sardine ranch at Bainbridge, Ga., we wish you success in your business Peck.

Say Pete what was she mad about?

—A. G. S.

Battery "B"

We welcome to the battery this morning another new man, Private Jackman. We are proud to have him with us and hope that his enlistment will be a period to be proud of by both the battery and himself.

We wonder how so many can figure economy in getting married to save their ration allowance, and who would do K. P. on Sundays if everybody shined their shoes for reveille.

We notice that Private Meadows continues to go to town every night. From all indications we are inclined to believe that the mess sergeant is going to lose another ration.

Private Clayton says he is going to quit his trade as a painter as it is too dangerous; says that they even lowered the flag to half-mast before they began to paint the flag pole.

—J. R. M.

Battery "C"

Private First Class Allen G. Crownover has applied for discharge by purchase. Crownover, being a motor mechanic, claims he don't like our present method of transportation. You can't lay down under a horse and sleep all the afternoon like you can under a tractor.

Flippo, "The Tennessee Ridge-runner," and "Wild Bill" Hickox have been promoted to Corporals. Looks like rough weather for the poor privates.

Dewel A. Jackson has been rated Specialist 4th Class. Things are looking good for the Mess Department.

Corporal Weems is taking a furlough of 15 days to visit his home in Tennessee. Private Snow will be Battery Clerk during his absence.

Mihm says, "Dah gon," it won't be long now.

"Ploughboy" Dean our former Day Room Orderly has returned to straight duty. We feel sorry for the Section afflicted. His successor is "Grandma" Goodwin.

Let us introduce to you the famous twins—Elkins and Odom.

Private Garner is still with us, looking like an accident waiting to happen.

Private Norris is sick in Hospital. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Private First Class Dewey L. Page returned from a well earned furlough on the 11th.

CPL. WILLINGHAM'S PICTURE IS FEATURE OF PHOTOMATON STUDIO

A picture that has attracted considerable attention in the show window of the Photomaton Studio is that of a noncommissioned officer of the U. S. Army. Many people have commented on the faciol expressions of this remarkable picture. First is the stern, commanding expression as he snaps a command to an imaginary squad of men, second shows the quick alert glance to see that the command is properly executed, the third and last shows the look of approval and satisfaction as the command of execution has been properly executed.

IS THE ATHLETE OF TODAY SUPERIOR TO THE ATHLETE OF YESTERDAY?

In the issue of the Inf. School News, dated Feb. 17, an article was printed under the above heading, and with it was shown the date, time and names of different running events. These records show that some of the records made by athletes in the late nineties still stand untouched. The previous article carried all records and record holders in all running events from the 50-yard dash up to 880 yards.

The following American Amateur Running Records were furnished through the courtesy of Capt. Charles Mabbutt:

BENNING BASEBALL SEASON OPENS TODAY

LEADERSHIP

Report of an Address by Brigadier-General Edgar T. Collins

(Lt. G. A. Hadsell)

On March 9th, the Company Officers Class of the Infantry School was fortunate in having the privilege of listening to a talk on Leadership, by the Commandant. General Collins so personifies the qualities of the military leader that few officers are so well qualified to talk on this subject.

The Commandant first spoke of the importance of understanding and evaluating the human element. It is a far cry from the weapons of Alexander's time to the complicated machines of modern war, but the leader must realize that the man behind the weapon or machine, and not the machine, is all important. This has always been so and always will be so. The successful commander understands human nature.

In addition to an understanding of the human element, General Collins told his hearers that the character of the leader should combine four qualities, Idea of the Objective, Resolution, Moral Courage, and Initiative. The Union General, Halleck, otherwise an able soldier, failed to complete success because he did not realize that his objective was destruction of the Confederate army and not the capture of cities. In contrast ,if there was one thing General Grant always kept in mind, it was the Idea of the Objective.

To reach his objective the leader must have a plan. And in carrying out this plan he must exercise resolution, determination to sweep real or fancied obstacles from his path. When the Union fleet entered Mobile Bay Admiral Farragut's executive rushed up to warn of torpedoes ahead. Today, no one remembers the name of this executive but everyone remembers Farragut's reply, "Damn the torpedoes, go ahead!"

General Lawton possessed resolution. When a First Lieutenant, Quartermaster with McKenzie's 4th Cavalry, the flying column which made one of the most outstanding cavalry marches in history, Lawton kept the trains caught up. No matter how hard the day's march, at nightfall the wagons were on hand. McKenzie, though he admired Lawton's efficiency, was somewhat put out to think that no matter how fast his column moved, he could not overcome Lawton's resolution to surmount difficulties and keep up.

General Collins next reminded the class that Moral Courage must be present in the leader's make up. Physical courage is so common that it is not rewarded unless it attains the degree of extraordinary heroism, and the lack of physical courage is punished. But moral courage, the courage to commit an army to battle and suffer the casualties which are the price of success, is rare. Decision is an attribute of moral courage.

The Japanese Field Service Regulations point out that a mediocre plan

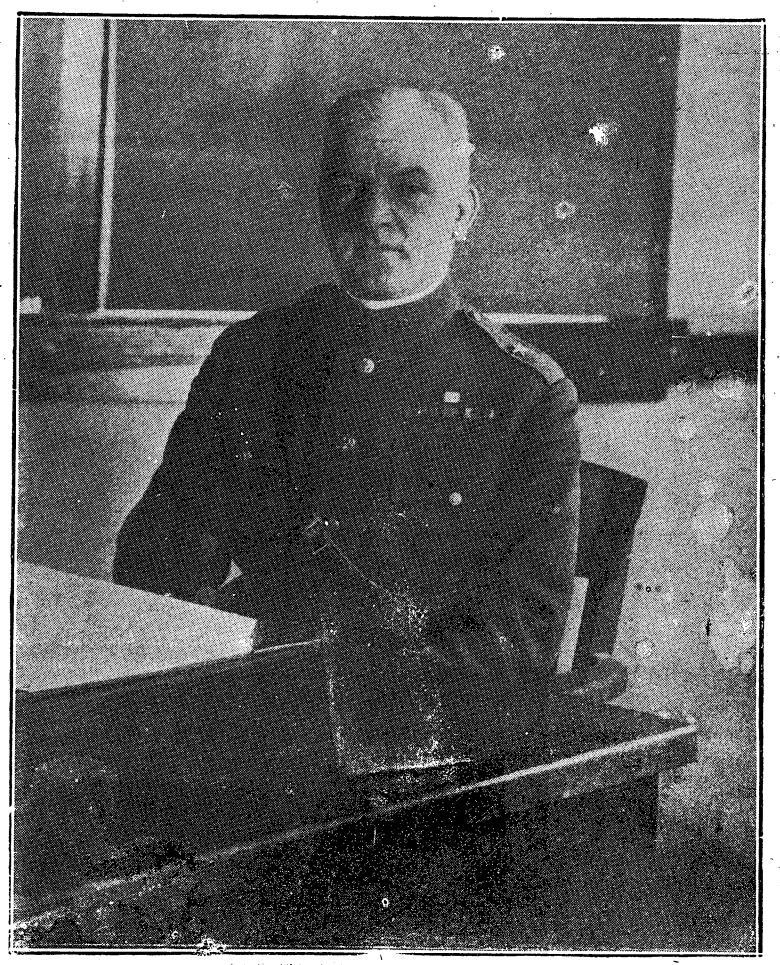
NOMINATED FOR PROMOTION



Brigadier-General Briant H. Wells

The many friends of General Wells, both at Fort Benning and Columbus were pleased to read in the daily press recently to the effect that he had been nominated by President Coolidge for promotion to the rank of Major-General, effective April 18, when a vacancy occurs in that grade.

General Wells was The Commandant, The Infantry School from November 8, 1923 to March 6, 1926, at which time he was ordered to Washington for duty with Supply Division, General Staff. General Wells came to Fort Benning from Washington where he had been Asst. Chief of Staff for several years. Prior to that time he had had considerable duty with the General Staff. Subsequent to the time he left Fort Benning, he has been Asst. Chief of Staff, chief of supply division until May 1, 1927, when he was appointed Deputy Chief of Staff.

INFANTRY SCHOOL MAKES FINE SHOWING AT AUGUSTA SHOW

The splendid showing of the Infantry School Riding Team was one of the outstanding features of the Augusta Horse Show held March 14, 15 and 16, at Augusta, Ga.

Riding and jumping as though born in the saddle, the Fort Benning riders led by their doughty cavalry leader, Major H. J. M. Smith, swept the boards to take 43 ribbons out of a possible total of 71.

Two champions were picked from Benning mounts. Of the fifteen horses taken to Augusta all except two placed in the ribbons one or more times with "Hindoo" having the greater number to his credit, placing nine times out of fourteen showings.

The splendid condition and performance of the Fort Benning Show horses was commented upon quite frequently by officials and competitors alike.

"Hindoo" with Mrs. Bishop up was awarded Champion Hunter of the show. Shown over a jumping course with two of the jumps a good five feet in height,

INFANTRY SCHOOL TEAM WILL MEET AUBURN

24th Infantrymen Will Play Cuban Giants on Gowdy Field This Afternoon

Did you notice the flag flying over Gowdy Field today? Fort Benning's baseball season will officially open this afternoon at 1:30 with a double bill on hand. The Infantry School team, coached by Capt. W. D. McCord, will cross bats with the strong Auburn College team in the first game this afternoon. The Auburn Tiger is already here; he is hungry after his long winter fast and he is quite anxious to feast on the Doughboy outfit. Capt. McCord, up to the time this paper went to press, had not decided upon his battery for the initial game of the season. Needless to say, he will put up his best as he wants to start off the season in the winning column.

The second battle scheduled for this afternoon will bring the Cuban Giants, of Brooklyn, against the strong 24th Infantry squad. The Giants is one of the strongest colored professional teams in the country and were the runners up in the colored National League last season. There will be little change in the 24th Infantry line-up this season. Vance will be one the mound with Hampton behind the plate; Sloan Williams at first; Kind, at second; Johnson, at third; Battle, at shortstop; Bell, F. Williams and Nash will take care of the outfield. Fans who have seen these players in action know that their opponents will have a busy time.

FREEBOOTERS WIN FORT POLO TITLE

For the third successive season the Yellow Jacketed Freebooters, led by Major H. J. M. Smith, are champion poloists of Fort Benning, as a result of their 4 to 2 victory over the Students in the final game of the garrison championship and Dierk trophy tournament, played on Shannon Field.

The Caisson Riders from the 83rd Field Artillery won the consolation cup by defeating the mounted Demonstrationists from the 29th Inf. 8 to 4 in the second contest.

At the conclusion of the second game Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, commandant of the Infantry School, presented the championship trophy to Major H. J. M. Smith, Buccaneer chieftain and individual cups to the five players who were instrumental in winning the larger cup: Majors Lyman and Smith, Captains McClure, Forsythe and Whisner. In his speech of congratulation he said in part: "I congratulate not only you, Major Smith, the captain of the winning team, but Lt. Guernsey, Capt. Bovers and Captain Burress, who captained the other teams. This has been Benning's best year at polo. More players have been on the field during this season than ever before. You captains of teams have all done a fine service to the United States Army."

WHO'S WHO!

PRIVATE THOMAS MOSELY

Motor Transport Company No. 100 Winner of D. S. C.

No matter where he drives his big liberty truck, if its down in the 29th or over in the Q. M., everyone knows him. "Hey Mose" is yelled from the mess halls, barracks window or any place a bunch of soldiers are gathered when "Mose" happens that way.

Mosely came to Fort Benning in 1921 from Washington, D. C., with M. T. C. 27, and has been medicating and transporting ever since. He knows how to handle a big liberty in a convoy over bad roads where others break axles, but he comes home intact. He served at the logging camp as medical representative, and kept the detachment free from disease, and was the guide, mentor, and friend of the entire detachment.

On June the 11th, 1913, under the personal command of General Pershing, United States Infantry and Cavalry advanced against hostile natives on Bagsak Mountain on the Island of Jolo. Jolo. Lt. Edwin H. Rackley of the 51st Scouts fell badly wounded under raking musketry fire. To his side there came a soldier through this rain of leaden hail, he dressed the officer's wound as best he could and then carried him with the firing line all day until relieving troops came up, then he "toted" his officer back to Pouyakabao, and thence to the dressing station at Bun Bun.

This is what the man he saved now retired says: "While he informed me that there was lots of rabbit in him and he might slip over the hill, he was dauntless and never had the slightest fear for himself and at all times was deeply concerned over me. After having had had him under me for one year, I found Mosely to be an excellent soldier in every respect, and one of the most loyal, faithful men I have ever known."

In due course there came down through channels a commendation a Certificate of Merit, signed March 14, 1914, by Secretary of War Henry Breckenridge and President Woodrow Wilson; and then by Act of Congress, July 9, 1918, this Certificate was replaced in November, 1925, by a Distinguished Service Cross, one of the most honorable decorations in the power of our government to confer.

Mosely is getting to be a very short timer, a few more months and he will retire, having completed thirty years of honorable and faithful service. But this retirement is causing Mose lots of trouble. "I don't know what I am going to do," he says. "I know I won't be satisfied away from the boys, it is just going to be too lonesome and I just know I won't be satisfied."

His Army life began back in 1901 when he enlisted in the 9th Cavalry as a big recruit. Three tours of duty in the Philippines one during the insurrection, one during the Moro troubles, and one in the Land Transportation Corps at Manila during the World War, represent honorable service to the nation by as excellent a soldier a sever wore the United States uniform.

carried out with decision succeeds, where an excellent plan with absence of decision would fail. Our I. D. R. of 1911 said that inaction was the greatest military crime. And in this connection, Frederick the Great said, "Do not Haggle."

McClellan, a great organizer, with ability to carefully plan campaigns, failed as commander of the Union army through lack of moral courage. General Hooker's relief from command after the battle of Chancellorsville was due to a failure in decision. The battle ably started, bogged down in the middle through absence of impetus from the top, from the commander. To stories were circulated to explain this, one that General Hooker had been stunned by a cannon ball, the other more sinister story, that General Hooker had been drunk. When questioned by a friend, he replied that neither story was correct but that for once, "I had lost confidence in Joe Hooker."

In the Russo-Japanese war the Japanese War Office put a great deal of study and thought into the selection of a man for supreme command. Their choice finally fell on General Oyama, a man reputed to be without nerves, who could and would make decisions. As his chief of staff they picked General Kodama, a man of brilliancy in strategical planning.

The self confidence and moral courage to make decisions can be cultivated. General Collins reminded his hearers that they should constantly endeavor to acquire this quality. Practice given by solution of map problems requiring the student to come to definite decisions is invaluable.

Finally the leader must possess initiative, and the willingness to accept responsibility. The Commandant quoted as an example, the action of General Friart, one of Napoleon's division commanders, at the battle of Austerlitz in 1805. Friart's division made a forced march, bore the brunt in the battle suffering 55 per cent casualties, and yet was the first ready to take up the pursuit. This was due solely to the initiative of the commander.

In closing, General Collins again emphasized the importance of understanding the human element. The successful leader knows men.

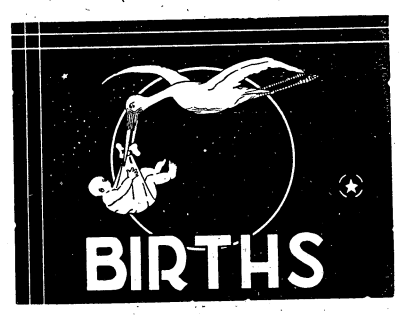
INFANTRY SCHOOL MAKES FINE SHOWING the performance was pronounced wonderful by the judges.

"Ginger" with Major Smith up won first honors and was awarded Champion Polo Mount of Show.

The splendid showing made by the ladies and officers from the Infantry School has been the subject of favorable comment by officials, rival exhibitors and all who attended the show.

The Infantry School Riding Team who took part in the Augusta Horse Show were: Major H. J. M. Smith, team captain; Capt. P. B. Rogers, Capt. S. H. Mallan, Lt. J. R. Moon, Lt. J. G. Van Hooten, Mrs. Landis, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Forsythe.



John McRae Beebe, son of Captain and Mrs. Lewis C. Beebe, Infantry. Born March 14, 1928.

Roy Earle Wilson, son of Sergeant and Mrs. Grady H. Wilson, Co. "G", 29th Infantry. Born March 17, 1928.

"How old are you Mary?"
"Fifteen."
"A girl of fifteen should tell her mother everything.
" Iknow it. But mother is so innocent, really I haven't the heart."

AT THE MOVIES

MARCH 23rd to MARCH 30th, INCL.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23

"DON JUAN," starring John Barrymore with Estelle Taylor and Mary Astor. In this picture of lite and loves, Barrymore gives the boldest exhibition of universal emotion that the screen has ever seen. Women are toys in his hands, yet an innocent maid enslaves him. The story is of Rome in the days of the Borgias. A vortex of revelry, intrigue and purple adventure. You will be carried from the gorgeous chambers of the emperor's palace down into the filthy dungeons along the Tiber. The story finally ends at Don Juan's beautiful castle in Spain. A marvelous picture which will impress itself indellibly upon your memory.

"Hook Line and Sinker." Fables.
"Pathe News No. 23."

SATURDAY, MARCH 24

"BARDELY'S THE MAGNIFICENT," starring John Gilbert in one of the most gorgeous spectacle romances of the screen. The story is laid in the time of King Louis XIII of France, and flashes huge castles, great crow scenes and court functions in gorgeous costumes. One moment he is the power behind the state, the next, shown of his glory, a traitor about to pay for his folly—and all for the love of a girl he has seen but once. There is as much action and agility in this picture as in some of our most spectacular westerns. The court finery with colored settings is equal to or surpasses those presented in some of the most stupendous pictures of today.

"Us." Charlie Chase Comedy.

SUNDAY, MARCH 25

"WIFE SAVERS," featuring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in a sizzling Alpine comedy. It is a fitting successor to "Behind the Front." These two comedians, in the precipitous Alps, enact some hair raising episodes, snow slides, land slipes and "what nots." Beery plays the part of an Alpine guide and Hatton that of a second lieutenant, who, in private life was a waiter under Beery in a Brooklyn restaurant.

Topics of the Day No. 47."
"Paramount News."

MONDAY, MARCH 26

"UNDER THE TONTO RIM," from the novel by Zane Grey, featuring Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in a tale of Arizona during the gold rush period. Dance halls, two gun killers, jumping of claims and a battle 'mid the rugged beauty of the Arizona foot hills. It is a story filled with tense action bound together by the thread of an absorbing romance.

"Hawk of the Hills No. 6."

TUESDAY, MARCH 27

"LATEST FROM PARIS," starring Norma Shearer with George Sidney and Ralph Forbes in a story scintillating with comedy, modern love and business. Miss Shearer plays the role of a traveling saleswoman for a New York firm of coat and suit wholesales—Ralph Forbes has the role of the traveling representative of a rival house. This picture demonstrates what a smart woman can accomplish in business and love. It contains many laughs and an absorbing plot.

"What Every Iceman Knows." Davidson Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28

"SPORTING GOODS," starring Richard Dix with Ford Sterling in a story, the theme of whic his wistaken identity. Dix, as a golf suit salesman, is taken for a millionaire, plunged into all kinds of trouble and is found to make good in order to win a rich girl. The story is comedy from start to finish—you'll like it.

"Paramount News No. 67."

THURSDAY, MARCH 29

"CHICAGO AFTER MIDNIGHT," with Ralph Ince and an all star cast in a tremendous melodramatic love story of a great city's gigantic struggle for law and order. It is a turbulant romance of Chicago's underworld, its frenzied cabaret life, the roar of its gunmen's gats and the shrill whistle of its detective force. A frail boy's voice rises out of the murky depths of midnight crime, shrilling the innocence of its possessor, accused of murder. He is believed only by the girl he loves—See this picture.

Collegians No. 4."

FRIDAY, MARCH 30

"BUTTONS," starring Jackie Coogan in a vivid tale of adventure and romance on the high seas. A great liner is loading at Southampton—a ragged waif sneaks aboard and finally, through persistance and bravery, elevates himself in the esteem of the ship's captain. Many interesting events occur throughout the plot, which is climaxed by the ship wreck of a huge trans-Atlantic liner.

"Small Town Sheriff." Fables.
"Pathe News No. 25."

CHAPLAIN MCKENNA TO TAKE CENSUS

Chaplain T. L. McKenna has been placed in charge of the school census at Fort Benning this year. This will be completed and reported to Hq. Infantry School on April 10th. The following data will be taken: Father's name, child's name, date of child's birth, and county in which child resides on the reservation.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

North of the Uptaoi Creek is in Muscogee County; south of Upatoi Creek is in Chattahoochee County.

The paint brush has been wielded quite profusely at Fort Benning during the past month or so. Major McCants has been decorating his various places of business; Block 23 is an entirely different looking place now with all the apartments in white and brown. The Academic area has also been decorated in spots.

The towers on the Doughboy Stadium will be completed before many months; that will be a big addition to the recreation center of the biggest and best post in the army. More details about those towers will appear in The News at a later date. Suffice to say, the new home of The News will be in the second story of the north tower. Nuff sed.

The bids for the addition to the new barracks of the 29th Infantry and the quarters for nurses were thrown out; changes in plans will arrive here about April 1, and then new bids will be called for.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the biggest horse and transportation show and polo tournament ever held at Fort Benning. Watch for announcements in the near future.

DON'T FORGET CHARITY BRIDGE

Don't forget to phone either Mrs. D. H. Torrey or Mrs. H. A. Bootz to reserve your table for the Charity Bridge to be given by the Chapel Guild at the Polo Club on Thursday, April 12th, at 2:30 P. M.

EASTER EGG HUNT

The children's school will sponsor an Easter Egg Hunt on Monday, April 9th, at 3:30, on the lawn east of the commandant's quarters. This is an annual event which is looked forward to with much pleasure by all the little folks on the Garrison and in Columbus.

The outstanding social event of the week was the delightful dinner dance at the Country Club on Friday evening. The banquet hall was never lovelier than on this occasion when more than two hundored army friends dined together. The tables were beautifully decorated. On the eve of St. Patrick's Day, it was appropriate that many hostesses use the lovely green, gold and white of Ireland. Their tables had gay green runners, green candles tied with filmy tulle and showered with shamrocks, shamrock placecards, green nut cups and baskets of gorgeous yellow flowers—daffodils, roses or tulips. Other hostesses used mixed flowers of early spring—flowering pear, peach, jasmine, spirea, breath o'spring, narcissi in baskets tied with big tulle bows of yellow or pink and talll tapers in similar colors burned at intervals between the baskets of flowers. Among those entertaining were:

Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Mason, hosts to twelve friends.

Maj. and Mrs. Roy A. Hill with thirty-four guests.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles P. Hall who honored thirty-six.

Maj. and Mrs. William L. Roberts with thirty.

Maj. and Mrs. Z. L. Drollinger with twelve.

Capt. and Mrs. A. D. Bruce with thirty-one.

Capt. and Mrs. F. E. Hickson with twenty-three.

Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist with fourteen.

Lt. and Mrs. W. E. Niles with ten.

After dinner dancing in the ballroom was enjoyed until a late hour.

Miss Frances Bissell was hostess at a lovely dinner party at the Log Cabin on Friday evening, her guests going to the dance at the Country Club. Spring flowers were used in profusion to make the Cabin a beautiful setting for the tables which were decorated in the green or Erin. Every detail in decoration was symbolic of St. Patrick's day and the whole effect was charming. Those included in this hospitality were: Miss Dade Warfield, Miss Jane Kilburn, Miss Dorothy Russ, Miss Gwynn Hellen, Miss Evelyn Trost, Misses Helen and Louise Young, Capt. Rustemeyer, Lt. Diller, Lt. Kammerer, Lt. Hocker, Lt. Cornog, Lt. Hadsell, Lt. Hurt, Lt. Jones, Lt. Strickler, Lt. Schwarse, Lt. Grubbs, Lt. Hedekin.

On Saturday evening at the Country Club the West Point Graduates entertained with a delightful dinner. One hundred and twenty-five officers found their places at the banquet table which took the form of a giant horseshoe, symbol o fgood luck. Pink snapdragons in baskets were used alternatelv with green candles for decorations. Major Tom Fox was master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers in their turn: Col. P. S. Bond, Maj. C. B. Titus, Maj. E. F. Harding, and Lt. O. M. Hewitt. This reunion of West Pointers is an annual affair and is always a joyous occasion.

Mrs. John F. Franklin was hostess at a large bridge party on Thursday afternoon at the 29th Club Rooms. Her tea table was lovely with its handsome cloth and its silver basket of graceful pink snapdragons. Shamrock tallies were used. Mrs. Albert S. Peake won first prize, a refreshment cloth and napkins of natural linen done in elaborate Italian hemstitching. Mrs. Kilburn won second, a half dozen tea napkins; Miss Anne Williamson won third, a lovely petit point guest towel, and Mrs. A. J. Nichols won low, an ash tray.

Honoring Mrs. Emmett Emanuel and Mrs. Reuben E. Jenkins who are leaving soon for China, and Miss Margaret Ogletree of Griffin, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bob Childs, Lt. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Jaynes entertained at bridge on Saturday evening. The house was gay with golden daffocdils and sweet with the perfume of narcissi. There were four tables of players, the lucky lady winning a pair of chiffon hose and the lucky man, some handmade handkerchiefs. Each honoree was given a silver necklace as souvenir.

Mrs. Emmet Emanuel left Sunday for a visit to her parents at Easley, S. C. She will be joined later by Lt. Emanuel and they sail from New York for a tour of service in China.

Lt. and Mrs. Reuben E. Jenkins who have been at Benning for nearly seven years have orders for China. Lt. Jenkins has served more than five years with the 29th Infantry during which time he and Mrs. Jenkins have made many friends who will miss them but whose good wishes follow them to their foreign post.

Miss Anne Williamson entertained at a charming seven table bridge party at her quarters on Wednesday. Mrs. Charles A. Griffin won first prize, a glazed card table cover, a double deck of cards, a Chinese score pad and novelty pencil; Mrs. Reuben Jenkins won second, Irish linen pillow cases, and Miss Dailey won the consolation, a lovely Chinese embroidered runner. Strawberry mousse, with cake and coffee, was served at the conclusion of the game.

Lowell Thomas, the well known explorer, lectures and author, who is to appear here tonight at the High School Auditorium has talked to and shown his amazing motion pictures before nearly four million people during the past ten years.

It is doubtful if there is another lecturer anywhere who has talked in so many different countries. He has not only spoken in the United States and Canada, but has also toured England, Frnace, nIdia, part of Asia and Australia. The Paris and London press acclaimed his talks and his pictures as the greatest of all travelogues.

Mr. Clemenceau's newspaper, "L'Homme Libre" commented on the Thomas travelogues as follows: "It is a production of original and signal merit which breaks all traditions and is infinitely superior to the things we usually see.

Mr. Thomas's lecture themes for the coming season include his "With Lawrence in Arabia," "Into Forbidden Afghanistan" and "Romantic India."

Park at C. A. Morgan & Co. Open till 10 o'clock. Soft Drinks, Drugs and Cigars.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—April 2nd.
Time—2:15.

Mrs. Lee Hester of the Program Committee presented to a large and interested audience two skilled artists on Monday afternoon. The program opened with Mrs. William G. Livesay at the piano. Mrs. Livesay is a most accomplished pianist whose interpretation of the "universal language" is most delightful. The played three numbers, "Country Garden," by Percy Grainger, "Meditation from Thais" by Massenet, "Turkish March from Ruins of Athens" by Beethoven-Rubenstein, and graciously responded to the appreciative applause with "Humoresque" by Mokrejs.

Miss Patria Pekor, formerly of Columbus but who for the past two years has been doing professional entertaining with her own company through the North and ast, made her third annual appearance to the delight of the Club. Her first interpretation was "A Frenchman's Idea of Adam and Eve," followed by a short dialect episode in the life of an old negro preacher. Then she put all her strength, skill and dramatic power in Percival Wilde's intense one-act drama, "The Finger of God." The soul-searching struggle depicted in this play was extremely well done and you felt the joy of victory as she brought the finale conversation to its dramatic close.

After the program Mrs. Edwin Butcher and Mrs. George King were hostesses at tea. A silver basket of pink and orchid snapdragons and four silver candlesticks with tall orchid tapers formed the decoration for the tea table. Mrs. Bootz and Mrs. Miller poured.

The Literary Club has its tenth and last meeting of the year next Monday afternoon at 2:00 sharp. It is fitting that Mrs. Philip B. Peyton, under whose guidance this club has enjoyed such a wonderful year, should be in charge of this last meeting. The programs have been good and better all year. Now, the last and best. Contemporary Literature in the United States is the study for this occasion.

Mrs. Peyton will sum up the tendencies of the present day in our own literature in her foreword. Then the following program will be presented:

Biography: Gamaliel Bradford's "Dwight L. Moody, Saver of Souls"—Mrs. Lee Hester.

Fiction: Willa Cathers "Death Comes for the Archbishop"—Mrs. J. L. Collins.

Poetry: Edward Arlington Robinson's "Tristram"—Mrs. P. B. Peyton.

Let's all be presen for this excellent program.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT BY YE EDITOR

It has been the exception rather than the rule that Ye Editor has had an opportunity to speak to the readers of the NEWS. Reason, so many items are coming to this paper each week that it has been impossible to publish all of them. Notwithstanding the above fact, Ye Editor has taken the liberty of devoting a small amount of space this week to what, he believes, is an important announcement.

The Infantry School News has been granted the authority to donate some new books to the Post Library. New books are added to the Library each month from the Recreation Fund. Calls are made for new books every week, and we believe that a donation of a few of the new books in addition to those given by the Recreation Office would be appropriate at this time.

The real purpose of the existence of this paper, as we see it, is to promote the morale of the entire Post as much as possible, as well as to exist as a news medium. To carry out this purpose, we believe that this is one of the many ways that morale may be boosted.

We would like to have the readers of the NEWS send a list of five books, which would be a desirable addition to the Post Library.

The books will be presented on or about April 1st. Get in your list as early as possible.

Announcement of suggested books will be made in next week's issue.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS TODAY

The baseball season will open at Gowdy Field today. Come out and root for one of the best baseball squads that was ever produced by the Infantry School. Captain McCord has been working hard with the squad —he and the team deserves your support.

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all"

Having received a polite but firm invitation from the Editor of The Infantry School News to reduce our weekly literary effort to one column, we have accepted it as a hint that we should take a much needed vacation. We admit that the Editor's request took us somewhat aback as we had fully expected him to urge longer rather than shorter articles, but the passion for brevity that has recently become the dominant note in The Infantry School instruction, has evidently extended even to the sanctum of the School paper.

God knows we are agreeable to the new policy and, since our income will not be materially affected by cutting the length of our column in half, we shall conform to the Editor's wishes until popular demand compels to extend our remarks to whatever length the situation seems to call for. Meanwhile we shall enjoy our vacation. And just for variety, we are going to pass on some hitherto unpublished wise cracks which a talented contributor, who signs himself J. P. M. recently turned in.

"OVERS AND SHORTS"

Comic supplement to Tactical Topics. "Dusting off a few old ones."

Ask me another. If Sitting Bull had a good looking daughter would he call her Sitting rPetty? Or if he had a son would he call him Sitting Pat?

Overstreet says he is going to throw away his radio because he hears three stations at one time. Avery suggests that he sell it to a Scotchman.

Chief Never Sweat (to crouching brave): Hey, what you doin'?

Charley Flat-Nose: Stalking.

Chief Never Sweat: Make it snappy. Less stalking and more action!

After a recent map problem in the Battalion in Defence, Hume and Hamblin met and mutually agreed to send their "Kappa" keys back to their respective chapters.

When there is nothing more to be said some "blank file" always says it.

Historical Example No. 157404. How it really happened.

Chief-of-Staff: Sit down General, you're rocking the boat.

Gen. Washington: Can't do it Colonel

Chief-of-Staff: Why, General?

Gen. Washington: Those breeches are too d—— tight.

So they painted him standing up.

Some men are just the opposite from guns; the smaller the caliber, the bigger the bore. Along the same line we might mention that about the time a man thinks he is a big gun, somebody fires him.

Our latest Scotch story. Doc Martin reports that they recently adopted pay-as-you-enter street cars in Edinburgh. One week after they were installed, seven Scotchmen were removed from one car. They had all died of starvation. Doc says that the "driest" Scotch story he ever heard was the one where the Scotchman invited the Irishman to have a drink, and Mike was broke.

GOLF

SLICED DRIVES AND SHORT PUTTS

By A. Birdie

This is not a column. E. F. H., Saw Dust and Bees' Buzzings, please note. "Sliced Drives and Short Putts" will be published at the convenience of the Editor and when rain prevents the compiler from playing golf.

Did you notice the new flags and poles—all 18 of them? We wonder why the Golf Director chose the "17th of March" to put out yellow ones.

Zero weather Sunday had no terrors for golf bugs. They were out on the course as thick as black birds.

We note that the greens need cutting and top dressing. Missed putts and profanity much in evidence over the week-end.

We note for special commendation Sunday a slow foursome that let a twosome through. The twosome said "Thank you" in a nice pleasant way. Result: Six golfers all feeling happy—for the moment.

Q. M. road detail (24th Infantry) scraping roads about golf course on Sunday—three Medico golfers were watching them closely.

"A Birdie" says: "Why not read the rules on Score Card? It would surprise you to find how many rules of the course you are violating—unintentionally, of course."

Wanted: A good Class "A" caddy by a Class "B" golfer. Cost no object. Liberal tips guaranteed.

Also wanted: A dog catcher for special duty on the golf course, to double on loose horses, mules, and members of the equitation classes.

We note for special condemnation:

The husbands who bring their wives out to play during prohibited hours.

The lazy golfers who always play the lower nine—Three Majors putting with their bags placed in a circle on the green about ten feet from the cup. Names turned in to the Golf Director.

A Major with his son, who always leave their bags on the green when putting, and between cup and front of the green.

The ditch crossing the 10th and 18th fairway is not a hazard—lift out, drop back without penalty.

Medico and Q. M. golfers are out practicing for their next meeting. The ladie sof the Medicos are practicing a new set of cheers and songs under their slim good looking cheer leader. Emergency calls for Father Tamraz will not be answered on the day of the contect.

The Golf Director had an enjoyable round with Sue May's husband Sunday morning. The Major must be fine around the house. He missed three six-inch putts and only said "By gum" and "Gosh darn."

Brownie of the Medicos says "Any golfer who plays for caddy fare or golf balls is foolish." N more for him hereafter. "Only for fun." We have also found out to our financial loss that Johansen's game is improving. We suggest that the handicap committee reduce his handicap.

The golf lesson of the week: When a golfer plays a shot, he thinks of his stance, grip, pivot, and all the other things his pro has told him. The thing he must do and should think of is only this: "Just hit the ball with the club heat, wish it well and give it a ride."

THE POETRY OF GOLF?

When a golfer puts too far, or is short of the hole
It's always the green that's too fast
o rtoo slow,
In a sometimes profane way he pours out his soul
In a constant tale of his woe.

But why should I tell
Of one who talks in this way?
When I know d—— well
I do the same thing when I play.

The golfer of the week: Sgt. Clark. the Pro, set a new course record of 34 on the lower and 35 on the upper, total 69. Some golf!

SAW DUST
A. J. NICHOLS

What with Beatrice Davis using our "Personage of the Week" and Colonel Warfield duplicating our front yard trellis, we have little individuality left. It has been said that imitation is the sencerest of flattery. In the future we are going to copyright our thoughts and patent our inventions. The M. P.'s are not on the job or else we would be protecteu from these piratical incursions. Please tell every newcomer when you take them by the palatial home and magnificent grounds of the "Keeper of the Green" that he copied the design of the gates from us.

How about this for the loyalty of friends to say nothing of the preliminary training in swimming Lieut. A. S. Newman received as a result of the admiration of his friends. In speaking of the tryout of this young officer for the Olympic Team, the Infantry School News of last week said, ". . . His many friends and admirers join in washing him. . . " Aubrey ought to come clean on this event and should be well prepared for the swimming team.

Some one played a mean trick on us. We received a cake last week that was a beauty and our mouth started watering the moment we saw it. Imagine our consternation and disappointment when we cut it and found it filled with sawdust. A "doubting Thomas" called us up the other day and had the impertinence to ask if we really were receiving cakes in this contest. This young lady apparently isn't familiar with Bob Olliver's play, in which it is made very plain just what a lady means when she questions the veracity of a gentleman.

We noted in the News last week that Ed Walker is on leave. It was on the front page, too, and we, for one, believe his item was of sufficient interest to the Garrison to warrant this prominence. We wonder just what connection Ed's going on leave has with the improvements being made in the Club.

Following a bridge fight the other day T. W.* came home with the booby prize. We gave her another one when she asked us when we were going to put our application to join the "Blue Ribbon Lodge." T. W.* was talking about the Master Masons but she must have been thinking of Milwaukie.

The other day, for the sixth consecutive time the 2nd Battalion Basketball Team of the 29th Infantry won the Garrison championship. This team with Davis, Kjelstrom and Franz as a nucleus has been undefeated for eight years. Prior to coming to the Second Battalion these mainstays were members of the old Third Battalion team and for two years won the Cup without so much as losing a game. Anr during the six years on the Second Battalion Team they have yet to lose a game. This is quite a record and we doubt if it can be equalled in the history of Army sports. Congratulations!

The benefit baseball game between the Students and Permanent Sufferers is getting under way and promises to be bigger and better than ever before. An historical pagant of huge dimensions is being planned and should satisy the most exacting members of the Garrison. Tickets are to go on sale next week and some details of the event will appear elsewhere in the columns of this paper. The manager of the local team is preparing the contract for the members of his team and they should be in the mails shortly.

THE PERSONAGE OF THE WEEK

Lieutenant Elam Stewart for the very excellent way in which he is conducting the Infantry School News.

"HINDOO" MAJOR SMITH UP

The above picture shows Major H. J. M. Smith noted Fort Benning horseman and "Hindoo" who was awarded nine ribbons out of fourteen showings at the Augusta Horse Show which was held at Augusta, Ga., last week.

Major Smith is captain of the Infantry School Riding Team that took 43 ribbons out of a possible 71 against a field composed of the country's leading riders and mounts, at the Augusta Horse Show.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

Following what "The School believes," we hasten to quote a Biblical example, and take text from Admiral Jonah. Speaking editorially while lifting the hatch o fthe whale's forecastle, he said, "We reappear after a period of submergence."

The bugle is emblem not of reveille for I. W. W. in the "rest areas" nor as taps for red apple polishers in the front roms, but to suggest humbly the clarion rally of all good soldats, Chow Call! You guessed it, brother, food fr thought.

If not suppressed after this maiden voyage, we urge the "Coordinated attack." Please cooperate by tossing the scribe your wise cracks, quips, gossip, and slander. Our policy is to hurl neither the red apple of sycophancy nor the cabbage of disparagement. At least, we shall not slander anyone who is bigger and can run faster than we can.

The 17th of March, anniversary of the snake chasing Saint, passed into history with fewer than usual casualties. Though several lively shindigs made big splashes in the Pueblo of Columbo, positively no lives were lost. Comrade Halloran lead his fighting fourth to battle under the orange flag, but no celtic confetti was was thrown. Another unique feature of the day was the fact that Biglerville served sauerkraut and frankfurters.

This week's initial meeting of the warriors left a bit of a fog in its wake. The mixture of blue Monday, Captain Brett's thirty-mile pink rabbits, and Major Daly's now famous "full moon" made everything clear as a misty day along the Thames. It is rumored that some of the ruminative brethren, whose cheeks are customarily pleasantly rounded with cut plug, thought the Major said "spitoon," not "moon." This, no doubt, accounts for the seventy-two inch figure submitted as an estimate of the situation.

Reverend Canella startled the dormitory into admiration by valorous disagreement anent the proper paragraph for the "Boundary between Brigades." And the break of the day was the picture of citizen Sole calmly perusing the "A. and N. Journal" under a barrage of cardboard boxes, shoebrushes, house bricks, and what not. In this connection, it is submitted for consideration of the Imperial Kleagles, that a new rule be adopted in open meeting. We suggest that those desirous of hurling missles over five pounds in weight be required to chant, "Fore!" before casting into the midst of the shock troops.

Having no more dirt to impart; except to note an intelligence report that one o fthe fold waited twenty minutes for soup on Sunday morning under the vastly erronious impression that it was the dinner hour of the previous evening; we piously close.

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

"In the Spring—a young man's fancy, Lightly turns to thoughts of love."

Coming events cast their shadows before. MANEUVERS.

"In the Spring—the instructor's fancy—Seriously turns—to thoughts of maneuvers."

Honestly now, we don't think that verse of our own compiling is so hot—however, spring makes everyone have a desire to compose poe-try. After casting an eye back over the said composition—Bee sees where she will never be accused of excelling Kipling or Service.

Spring, too, is the open hunting season. All the young lassies are dear hunting.

Beginning this week, this column will conduct a "Why I appointed Him" paragraph. Mayor Larry Collins is giving this information to the press, to perchance imbue someone to a desire to lead a cleaner, purer life. It is expected that after this series gets in its good work the Quartermaster will buy many more bath-tubs for installation in the area in which this virile, straight-forward series is read. Mayor Collins chose as his initial subject, the sterling young citizen, Lt. Buddy Payne, Superintendent of Nurses. "I chose Buddy for this position," states Mayor Collins, "knowing of his always active interest in this group, and I knew he could always be counted on to uphold the rights of this very charming corps of the army. Buddy has also stated that he is always open for a conference if any of the Nurses have any subject they would like to discuss with him. I knew that anyone so interested in his subject would make a competent superintendent." Next week—"My Prohibition Squad—and Why I Chose Who I Did," by Mayor Collins.

Spring is here the flowers
Are blue and yellow, pink and red,
The grass is gren the sky is pretty
But it's waster o nme, I've a cold in the head.

It has been done! After Sauly's persuasion of two hours one afternoon—in Sauly's inimitable way—and after several thers have slipped in a few words of wisdom—finally the Chaplain comes along and seals the compact! Yes—finally the boss, Lt. Constructing Quartermaster Allison, has signed up with the American Legion! Several times ye Buzzings Editoress, in her more humble capacity of Steno and General Flunkey of the Constructing Office, has seen the boss reach over and toy nervously with the already-written out check, with the amount "Only three dollars" (Methinks the "only" for psychological effect) boldly written out. However, before affixing the million dollar signature, he would refer to a little pile of "first-of the-month" love letters, and then, sadly shaking his head, would put the American Legion card aside. However ,after Chaplain McKenna comes in and chats with the boss a few moments, mentions several little happenings at the last Legion meeting, and several coming attractions—the boss's hand, no longer nervous affixed the signature to the check. May be the combination of Chaplain McKenna and the "Only" three dollars, was too much!

Another one of Bee's ambitions—to be able to ride in the back seat of one of these Army buckboards, and withal look as dignified as Major Barlow.

Seen of a Monday's noon:

Unfortunately, Bee was snowed under with work this past Monday, and had no time to go to lunch. Therefore she was unable to go anywhere "of a Monday's noon"—and she's far, far too honest to pass off what she saw on Tuesday's noon for "seen of a Monday's noon." This feature, however, will be resumed next week.

Bee's Benning Brightlights—Captain "Pinkie" Burgess—gallant poloist.

COMPANY C, COMPANY OFFICERS COURSE

The so-called "graduation ride" should have appeared in last week's issue, but due to the fact that about the time of going to press we felt like a broken lily—though not so beautifully potted—it didn't.

A very nice and ladylike ride it was. The old grey mare carried "One Round" Morrow gently, until our beater up and said something about taking a jump—
Whereat his hort did snort, as he Had heard a lion roar,
And galloped off with all his might,
As he had done before.

Up the road past the lone pine he romped—and it was fast romping—with "Jayson" not far behind. Then "Strangler" Lewis joined the heat—
Stooping down, as needs he must
Who can not sit upright,
He grasped the mane with both his hands,
And eke with all his might.

His horse who never in that sort
Had handled been before,
What th[illegible] back had got,
Did wonder more and more.

In pained despair [illegible] ted—presumably [illegible] the hell [illegible] "Jayson answered. "How the hell do we know?" the wind carried back.

Just then yours truly on Otto, gaining fast, cut in behind "One Aound," lost the other stirrup and balance and hit the sand. Otto stopped in surprise ten feet away, rubbed his eyes and burst into a long and delighted horse laugh.

Away went "Jayson," out of breath,
And sore against his will,
Till at his friends catastrophe
His horse at last stood still.

At this amusing spectacle the other horses stopped and horse laugh answered horse laugh. And thus, gentlemen, and only thus did "One Round" and "Jayson" and "Strangler" gain semi-control of their mounts.

But to return to your dishevelled press agent—

So turning to his horse, he said,
I am in haste to dine;
'Twas for your pleasure you came here,
You shall go back for mine.

Now see him mounted once again
Upon his nimble steed,
Full slowly pacing o'er the rocks
With caution and good heed.

But finding soon a smoother road
Beneath his well shod feet,
The snorting beast began to trot,
Which galled him in his seat.

And to make a sad and disheartening story as sad and no less disheartening, let it be said without more ado that he fell off a second time in just as distressing fashion as before.

But now let us sing, Long live the King!
And Morrow, long live he!
And when he next doth ride abroad
May I be there to see.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Sergeant Douglas P. LePine was discharged on the 18th per E. T. S. with character excellent. He has again re-enlisted fo rthe 83rd and is now enjoying a 60-day furlough at his home in Massachusetts.

The Battalion tailor shop was closed Saturday, March 17th. It was understood that Mr. Goldwasser and Sergeant Roper were in town celebrating St. Patrick's day.

The baseball fever has started in the Combat Train with veterans and recruits fighting for a position. Things look good for the Combat as we have the same players of the past season.

Waterhead arrived safely back from a 10-day furlough which he spent in Sylacauga, Ala.

Battery "B"

Private Hill has just returned to the battery after spending a forty-five-day furlough at his home in Virginia. We are proud to have him back with us again, and we believe that within a week or so he will have finished telling his big fish stories and be settled to duty again.

Private Hughes and Corporal Welter, the down-town sheiks, made a hurried trip to Columbus last night, returning at 9 o'clock. Reported that they had good luck. (On Jawbone corner.)

Private Meadows is still looking for a cook. We would suggest that his shortest route to the realization of his dreams of "Blue Heaven" and Mable would be to forget Hamilton Avenue for awhile and enroll with some matrimonial agency.

We yet trust that the performance of the battalion in the garrison review yesterday was entirely satisfactory, as every such incident helps to materialize the ambitions of every member to make the Eighty-Third and organization in which we are proud to serve.

—J. R. M.

Battery "A"

Sergeant Brown, Pvt. 1Cl. Bailess and Private Terrell have reported for duty after being on furlough for the past few days.

The battery baseball team is getting in good shape for the coming series with the other organizations in the battalion, we have new equipment and a number of new players so there is no reason why we shouldn't have one of the best battery teams in the battalion.

The little man of the battery says he will be as large as his little pal some of these days. (WPC). The cold weather man.

Pat the Irishman has painted his bunk. What's the matter "Pat"? Are you sick.

Tillie the Toiler has purchased a powder puff and a false wig.

NEEDS IT

A small boy in the visitor's gallery at the National Capitol, was watching the proceedings of the Senate chamber.

"Father, who is that gentleman?" He pointed to the chaplain.

"That, son, is the chaplain."

"Does he pray for the senators, father?"

"No, son; when he comes in he looks around, sees the senators, the few that may be sitting there, and then he prays for the country."

Mrs. Cohen: "Her niece is kindo good looking, don't you think Papa?"

Mr. Cohen: "Don't say, knees is, Mamma; say, knees are."

A LETTER

The Infantry School,
Fort Benning, Ga.,
March 19, 1928.

Major H. J. M. Smith ,
Fort Benning, Ga.,

My Dear Major Smith:

On behalf of this command I wish to express to you and through you to each member of our Riding Team at the Augusta Horse Show last week, our appreciation, congratulations and thanks for the eminently creditable results achieved. A resume of the entries and events during the three days' show discloses that our team was awarded ribbons as follows: Reserve Champions, 2; Blue, 8; Red, 9; Yellow, 11; White, 13; or a total of 43 out of a possible total of 71.

The Augusta Horse Show is an event of its kind of much importance and receives wide publicity. Annual participation by a team from Fort Benning with such admirable results as those which you and other members [illegible] attained cannot fail to [illegible] not only upon the Infantry School but on our military establishment at large.

Cordially yours,
EDGAR T. COLLINS,
Brigadier General, U. S. A.
Commandant.

BATTALION GOES OVER TOP FOR ARMY RELIEF CAUSE

The men of this Battalion again eclipsed all previous records, according to available figures, when it went over the top, and passed beyond its objective in the recent request for donation for the Army Relief. A few days before the request for contributions was made the Battalion Commander was heard to remark in a semi-official conversation that he thought that we ought to get about one hundred and twenty-five dollars. Well when the funds were tabulated it was discovered that the Commanding Officer's figure had been exceeded and there were one hundred and twenty-nine dollars and sixty cents. It's that way in every meritorious movement with this outfit, they always do just a little better than is expected of them, and they just keep on smashing all former records in the various activities, including Tank markmanship.—(From 15th Tk. Weekly).

FORT BENNING FIGHTERS LEAVE FOR MOBILE SUNDAY

The Infantry School Boxing Team will leave Fort Benning for Mobile, Ala., Sunday, where they go to take part in the South Eastern Boxing Tourney to be held at the American Legion Arena, March 26, 27 and 28, 1928.

Captain Charles Mabbutt, chairman of the Southeastern Boxing Committee, will leave for Mobile tonight.

Lt. George P. O'Neill, Fort Benning boxing instructor, will accompnay the team to Mobile. The following men will take part in the tourney:

Brault, bantamweight; Asher, Phillips and Bakewell, featherweights; Parker, welterweight; Gordy and Hawkins, middleweights; Stuart and Smith, light-heavy weight; Daley heavyweight.

SOJOURNERS CLUB

The club's monthly meeting was held at the Polo Club Wednesday evening. An excellent program in charge of Capts. W. A. Collier and S. G. Saudnier was much enjoyed by the members. Refreshments were served. All members are urged to keep in mind that the next meeting will be of unusual importance. Don't forget it. Announcements will be made later.

GUNNER DEPRATT KNOCKS OUT RAY WILLIS IN THIRD ROUND

Gunner DePratt continued his unbroken string of wins when he knocked out Ray Willis of Fort Sill, Oklahoma, in the third round of a scheduled ten-round night at the Garrison Gym on the night of March 15th. DePratt dropped the westerner for a short count with a left to the jaw early in the first round. The second round saw the visiting fighter giving the Doughboy plenty of trouble with a two-handed body attack. The third round was hardly underway when DePratt ripped a smashing right hook to the jaw that brought teh fight to abrupt nad unexpected finish.

Company "F"

The other day Corporal Gasser sent one of his cooks (H. Holloway) to get a radio recipe. Mr. Holloway did his best but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. This hat he took down:

nds at hips, place one cup of n the shoulders, riase knees and oes and mix thoroughly in one-milk. Repeat si xtimes. In-one-half teaspoon of bakver the legs and mush two will be as near Heaven as anything could be—after last Sunday morning.

Dewey H. Line, well known farmer, has been promoted to the exalted position of Private First Class.

There being several vacancies for N. C. C.s in the Company, Pvt. Parm has purchased stripes with the anticipation of grabbing off a warrant.

From the size and appearance of Pvt. Hawkins' mail he must be an agent for some signboard company.

The prospects for an "F" Company baseball team seem to be exceptionally bright this season. All candidates are urged to get into the best possible condition as this organization intends to "bring home the bacon" in the form of a silver cup.

Company "E"

Cpl. Perryman is next man on the discharge list by the E. T. S. route. It is not known whether he is going to reenlist or not.

Pvt. Regan, the barber, is the man every one dreads now because when a man enters the chair for a hair cut "off it comes" to 1¼ inches. He has quoted the following words: In my chair for a haircuit it must be military.

One of the men in the Company claims that they saw Pvt. Pelou's picture on a sardine can. And a certain party says that Pfc. (Grandpa) Minter has gone slam goofy.

Saturday, Feb. 10, being a rainy day every man in this outfit was kept busy looking after their raincoats as people all over the Post were trying to borrow them, therefore we believe that the best always goes to the best.

Cpl. Arthur Dollar, our classy school boy, is pulling a military charg of quarters today.

—J. R. H.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

We are living up to our reputation of being a demonstration company as we are having four full day demonstrations this week, and then the big one on the 25th of March.

Our 1st Sgt. has finally got back in the old stride of ripping and snorting after his nice long rest of two months. You know it takes a long time to get back in harness again atfer a nice vacation and after saying sweet things to the fair sex.

We have a man in our company who is worthy of a good manylines in this column so here goes. It is none other than our good friend Pvt. Duck, the 1st orderly sheik. Duck really is a good soldier even though he has only a year's service ,and every time he mounts guard he is sure to make 1st orderly. He is always on time in every thing that he is told to do and is always dressed properly, neat and clean, and its a shame that he cannot be given something more than a 6th class specialist, but he is being kept in mind and the next opening will be given to Pvt. Duck.

You know our barber talks in high finance, but just try and borrow any money, it really can't be done, I know, because I tried it.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "D"

Pfc. Lyons the "Radio bug" being all smiles the other morning was asked the reason why. He stated he had the night before tuned in West Point, Macon and Atlanta, Georgia. Wonderful we will admit.

Sgt. McGaha and Pvt. Kautz will be in the line-up again this season. Baseball fans will see these two men in action next Friday and Saturday.

Pfc. Hendrix has taken on another stack. "Welcome Home" Claude, it's not such a bad place after all.

Sgt. Hines was asked the other day if he was going to re-enlist. After pondering over the question for a considerable length of time replied: "Well, you know its the Presidential Election Year." Apple-sauce Sgt., the mess hall is your failing.

This company is liken to the "City Gone Wild"; if we wish to shave or comb our hair we look at Cpls. Kinney and Monan's tripods.

Pvts. O'Donohue, Kirk, and Walters have been appointed private first class and Cpl. Craig our Supply Cpl. to Sgt.

Cooks in this company are getting scarce. Pfc. Merriman and Terry will soon be leaving. Perhaps a three mnths furlough will satisfy them—hope so.

Cpl. Monan having got his aeroplane motor will in a few days be demonstrating what we may safely call a "Hicky machine." Thnaks—we feel safer on terra firma.

Monographs

On March 26th, Capt. E. F. Paynter gave a very interesting monograph on the Philippine Insurrection. He graphically described the campaign of Otis, and the drives of the subordinate commanders Lawton and MacArthur into the interior of Luzen, in an effort to gain contact and to come to a pitch battle with the main Philippine forces. He closed with the capture of the insurrection leader, Agninaldo.

Col. Johnson gave the assembled officers some highly interesting side lights on the Philippine Insurrection in the form of experiences taking from his own service in this campaign.

Lieut. O. C. Mood on March 19th, lectured on the American Revolutionary War, with his background laid in the South. An intensely interesting subject accentuated by its contrast of untrained mountaineers fighting the cream of the regular British troops, and one which Lieut. Mood did full justice to. The efforts of Cornwallis and his famous subordinates Tarleton and Ferguson, to clear the South of American troops and to rally all Tory sympatrizers, was well described. The efforts of the American leaders, Greene, Light Horse Harry Lee, Morgan and others, to block and later defeat the foreign army with all the difficulties with which these leaders were confronted, were told very entertainingly.

Basketball Championship

The finals of the 24th Infantry basketball championship between Cos. E and C were the most interesting and exciting ever held in this regiment. After playing eighteen games, which made a play through twice for all the companies and a final championship series of three games, Co. E, the winner, was only one game ahead of its opponent.

In the first half of the season Cos. C and E had both lost but one game. In the play off to settle this tie, E Co. won, making E Co. with only one lost game to its credit and C Co. with two. In the second play-through of all the companies, Co. C won all of its games and E Co. lost one. This brought their total scores for the two play-thoughs to a tie.

In the three-game final championship Co. E won the first and Co. C the second. The third, the most thrilling ever soon on these courts, was tied again and again by both teams and after extra periods was finally won by Co. E by one point. The score wsa 14 to 13.

Baseball Dope

The opening of the 1928 baseball season began very auspiciously for the 24th Infantry, with a win over the strong Tuskegee team at Tuskegee to the score of 10 to 3.

Leonard was in the box for the 24th Inf., for the first four innings and Haywood the last three. Only four hits were allowed by these two pitchers, and but one error was chalked up against the 24th.

The team played a very good game of ball, and judging by this game, the 1928 24th Inf. team will be as excellent as the ones in the past.

On March 20th, the Birmingham Barons arrived for a nine days training period with the 24th Inf. On March 23rd, the Brooklyn Cuban Giants will be here for a four days schedule. The first game with the Cuban Giants, and the first game that the 24th plays on home ground, will be played on Goudy Field at 1:00 P. M., March 23rd. On the 24th, 25th and 26th of March, the remaining three games of the series with the Cuban Giants will be played.

On the 27th and 28th, there will be two games between the Brooklyn Cuban Giants and the Birmingham Barons. On the 29th and 30th of March, and the 1st of April, there will be a three-game series between the Barons and the 24th Inf.

Broadcasting by The Glee Club

For the second time in the history of the regiment the 24th Infantry broadcasted its famous colored spiritual songs over the radio at Station W. A. P. I., Auburn Alabama, on March 7th.

Under the direction of Capt. W. W. Jenna the Glee Club of the regiment composed of forty members, and the band, under Warrant Officer Treadwell of thirty-six pieces proceeded to Auburn where they were joined by the commanding officer, Col. Wait C. Johnson and the executive officer, Major Chas. E. Coates, and other officers of the regiment. The party was met by Major Kennedy, commandant of cadets at Auburn, and escorted to the Polytechnic Institute.

Here were assembled officials of the radio company, of the college and city and about five hundred students and citizens of Auburn. Major Kennedy on behalf of the college and radio company presented Col. Johnson to the guests present and to that great invisible audience listening in throughout the south.

Col. Johnson's address was as follows:

"Friends of the air, I came here tonight in guise of audience and not as performer but out hosts, WAPI, have requested me to say a few words.

"I trust that you who are listening in are enjoying this program as much as those of us who are present in the hall. This singing to which you are listening is just a natural development in my regiment. All of you who know anything of the negro know that they are full of music and harmony and that their spiritual songs are products of this inborn spirit of music and harmony.

My regiment as a whole has been singing these songs for about three years and my one regret is that you are not able to hear all 800 of them in their mass effort. About once a week the regiment assembles and sings to their friends in and around Fort Bening. These weekly mass recitals are really wonderful and well worthy of the praise they always receive.

In addition to the musical treat given your ears your eyes also come in for real entertainment for no one could sit and watch the expression on the faces of these men as they sing these songs and not feel that they are singing with their soul as well as the voice.

"To me, their commander, the great thrill comes from the universal participation of every individual in the regiment.

"Time after time as I have listened to this singing I have searched and tried to find one who was not singing but the musical ability of each one is so inherent and their love of music so great that it

March 22, 1928.

FENNER & BEANE: With oils in limelight and several specialties performing in spectacular fashion, general list appears to be under distribution.

FRAZIER JELKE: We believe the demand fo rstocks is enough to absorb the selling.

PRINCE AND WHITELY: Look for an upward movement in leading rails.

ORVIS BROS.: The market lacks the buoyancy noticeable last week.

Grain Opinions

JACKSON BROS.: Until a better line is had on wheat crop, favor a scalpnig position.

BARTLETT FRAZIER: Expect ultimately higher prices for wheat.

STEIN ALSTRIN: Favor buying side of grains on dips.

HULBURD WARREN: Prefer to await further crop developments before recommending purchases.

Cotton Opinions

FENNER & BEANE: The general expectation is for materially higher prices in the near future.

PYNCHON: With new crops over 19c caution should be followed.

F. B. KEECH & CO.: We look for higher prices and advise buying on good setbacks.

ORVIS BROS.: Believe easiness should be used for making purchases.

"A penny for your thoughts, Sandy," said Jean.

"Weel," said Sandy, with sudden boldness, "I was thinkin' I'd like to kiss ye, lassie."

Jean blushed and made no objection, and after the kiss they relapsed into silence. Presently Jean said: "And what are ye thinking about noo, Sandy? Another kiss?"

"Nae, lassie, it's mair serious this time. I was just wonderin' when ye're goin' to pay me that penny for my last thoughts."

PRESENT FROM HIS WIFE

A man who had not been very good during his earthly life died and went below. As soon as he got to the nether regions he began to give orders for changing the position of the furnaces, and commenced bossing the imps around. One of them reported to Satan how the newcomer was acting. "Say," said Satan to him, "you act as though you owned the place." "Sure," said the man. "My wife gave it to me while I was on earth."

A BRIDGE HAND

"Did you ever play poker with a bridge hand?"

"No, and neither did you."

"ESTIMATE OF THE SITUATION"

(By Lt. G. A. Hadsell)

"Lootenant," said the platoon sergeant in a parched, dry voice, as he slid, tin hat first, into the 240mm. shell hole, "What are we going to do? Can't advance, can't go back, and that Dutchman with the spittin' boiler up there cheks us up if we stay here!"

A student of facial expression might have guessed from the cast of the soldier's sweat grimed features that he didn't suppose the lieutenant knew either. But it was his duty to ask though he knew his looey was a green replacement, joined since St. Mihiel, even.

About three hundred yards away in the wooded edge of the Montrefagne, or Hill 240, a German maxim sputtered viciously. Machine gun bullets cast up jets of dirt, like splashes from a handful of pebbles shied into a streak of muddy water. Occasionally, a seventy-seven shell burst, but most of the German artillery was still ploughing up Exermont Ravine, farther back. Machine guns would take care of advanced American platoons.

The platoon leader in the shell hole didn't know what to do. He couldn't think. His hands trembled and a dull sour ache sat at the pit of his stomache. Sweat made pale lines of white through the dirt sweared below his steel helmet. This was his first real taste of the war.

During the heavy fighting on the fourth over this same ground, his company had been in reserve. Now they were abruptly jumped into the middle of things. This was October fifth. The right of the division, of which this platoon was a very small part, was to retake the Montrefagne, and link up with the left brigade which had driven a narrow wedge as far as Fleeville on the Aire River.

The officer lifted his blanched, tired face over the top of th eshell crater. His men were tired, nearly exhaustd. You wre always tired in this war, it semed. Exermont Ravine, behind them now, had been a shambles. They'd muddled through someway.

He looked to the right and left. Stark, huddled bundles, brown and German field gray, marked the high tide of one of yesterday's waves. Except for slight shifting of the shelled out beards of sere, brown grass, and of bleak little bushes, he and his sergeant might have been the sole survivors of the platoon. The movement in the grass meant some of his men were crawling to better cover, finding firing positions. Some of them were veterans.

A spatter of bullets splashed the dirt. He ducked. You never heard the one that hit you, they said, but he didn't want to prove it.

He drew in his breath and turned to the sergeant.

"What have we got left?"

"Corporal Prino's got some kind of squad on the left. Corporal Anderson's got about ten men near us here. And on the right Hogan's taken over what was left of Johnson's and Carlson's squads, got two auto-rifles still. Shell got Sergeant Coffee, and I ain't seen Sergeant Mersky since we crossed that brook." The sergeant had the air of one awaiting orders.

The lieutenant cudgeled his brain. What to do? The Boche machine gun methodically traversed back and forth, searching, spraying with a leaden hail the rough ground in which remnants of the platoon had dropped to cover. Now and then a groan spoke the gunner's accuracy.

A closed panel in the officer's mind clicked open. Somewhere in his ninety days of training there had been mention of an estimate of something. Estimate—

Mission; get that gun. Enemy; that Boche gun crew. We've about three squads. Platoon on our right is a little ahead, by their firing; on the left a bit behind. Can't see the support platoon, couldn't get a runner through, anyway. The ground slopes up toward the Boche in the woods, but there's a little ditch o nthe right. Don't think the Dutchman can cover it well. How can we get him?

We can start straight toward him. Maybe somebody's get him. Chances are he'd get us all first. I can send someone to sneak up that ditch with an auto-rifle. That's what I'll do.

"You say Hogan's on the right?"

"Yes, sir. He's got about six men. Don't know how he managed it, but that wild Irishman was drunk as a sailor on shore leave when we started out this morning, sober enough now, though—". The sergeant kept on talking, mostly to keep from thinking about what could happen in the next few minutes.

"Sergeant, I'm going to send Hogan and two men with an auto-rifle up that little ditch over there. We'll open up with all we've got to keep the Dutchman thinking about us. When Hogan is as far as he can go and cracks down with that auto-rifle, we'll rush. I'll give the signal."

"All right, Lootenant," said the sergeant quickly. Anything was better than just waiting around to get bumped off. "I'll tell Hogan, then crawl over to Prino and Anderson on the left."

The soldier wormed his way up off to the right. Then an endless wait. In reality but a few minutes, it seemed long enough for a man to pass from youth to old age. The platoon's rifles cracked. In answer the Boche fired faster, long murderous bursts. Ears were deadened to crashes, staccato orchestration, discordant song of war! Straining his eyes the officer made out movement in the tufts of grass to the right front.

Would he make it? Should he have gone himself? But the Irishman would get there if anyone could. A grand fighting man, the "Old Man" said, but couldn't stand prosperity. You made him a sergeant, then he pulled something and you had to bust him.

As he waited, the lieutenant remembered Hogan's latest escapade. Nearly started a small war like a Chicago gang fight ,on his own. All the M. P.'s for miles had been turned out to stop it. Hogan had hurled a lurid, too descriptive, jibe at a column of another outfit passing down a road. They'd broke ranks and gone for Hogan with murder in their eyes. The remark had been too close to the truth. Before the riot could be stopped elements of two battalions had been involved——

An auto-rifle stuttered. The machine gunner shifted to the new target. Hogan had made it!

The lieutepant scrambled over the crest of the shell hole. He shouted something which no one heard. The sergeant from the left jumped up to follow. One or two men rose to their feet. Then a few more, then a dozen rushed in a swaying, stumbling group. The Boche gunner traversed back. Not so many to follow then. Another burst spat from the little ditch on the right. The machine gun stopped firing.

Days later back in a base hospital a much bandaged man in the officers' ward smiled. It wasn't at the nurse, though she would easily rate a smile in any war.

"Estimate of the situation, that's what I was trying to think of."

The pretty nurse's mouth opened a bit in astonishment, but the lieutenant had dropped off to sleep.

According to an announcement in a recent issue of a service paper, General Alfred W. Bjornstad has applied for retirement from the service to take effect August 31, 1928. Gen. Bjornstad was Asst. Commandant, The Inf. School from Sept. 13, 1923, to Feb. 22, 1925.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENED LAST FRIDAY; BENNING LOSES THREE OUT OF FIVE

The past week saw the Infantry School baseball team lose one series and win one against visiting teams. The team lost three games out of five played in the first two series.

The Auburn Tiger came over from the jungles of Alabama to win the opening series of the 1928 season, taking two in a row from the Doughboys.

Michigan State College took the small end of the series, only being able to win one out of three. This makes the Infantry School break even for the first week.

Next week the famous University of Notre Dame will pay us a visit, playing here April 3, 4 and 5.

The Benning team will be considerably strengthened for this series by the addition of several new players to the line up. Johnnie Hyland will be at short, Cobb or Pop Heckert at the hot corner while "Shotgun" White will look after the middle station. Newman is beginning to round into old-time form at first and the oldfield is well cared for. All we need is our pitchers to get going and some rea lbase hitting to bring home the bacon.

Results of Games Played

First Game

Although a light rain was falling at 1 o'clock Friday evening, a large crowd of spectators were in the stands for the opening game.

Ellis started on the mound for the Doughboys. The first three innings saw both twirlers pitching shut out ball. In the fourth inning with two men out the Benning infield blew up letting two runs score on a hit, walk, error and wild throw. The collegians scored again in the sixth, putting the game on ice when they shoved over four more i nthe eighth.

The Doughboys were unable to solve Stoutenborough's offerings, only five scattering hits being made off him.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Infantry	000 000 000	0	5	6
Auburn	000 201 040	7	12	1

Batteries—Ellis, McGaha and McCarthy; Stoutenborough and James.

Second Game

The Tigers hit Tolle hard finally driving him from the mound in the seventh inning in Tuesday's game. Lindsey relieved Tolle and pitched good ball in the last two innings but Auburn had stowed the old game away with eleven runs in their score column.

Wood who starred on the mound for Auburn last season, was in great shape Saturday, giving up only four hits.

Final score—Auburn 11, Infantry 0.

Batteries—Tolle, Lindsey and McCarthy; Wood and Booth.

Michigan State—Infantry School

First Game

Monday's game was a pitchers battle between Morris and Byrne, with the soldiers having all the best of the argument.

Grantham scored the first doughboy run of the season when he walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball

SERGT. FRANK B. McCARTHY
Infantry School Detachment

One of the first men to report for practice for the 1928 baseball season at Fort Benning was "Mick" McCarthy. This is his eighth season with the Infantry School and during that time he has been a regular member of the Infantry School baseball team each season.

Catching with the steadiness born of long experience ,and keeping the fighting spirit burning at all times, the scrappy Irishman has won a warm spot in the hearts of the Infantry School baseball fans.

Back in 1921 the I. S. D. was fighting it out in "The Little World Series" with the 24th Inf. Reds for the Garrison championship. "Mick" McCarthy was behind the bat for the Detachmenteers, and the entire team, and all those in the stands knew it. Although the Green Hats lost out in the final play off, the playing of McCarthy was the main feature of the series. He smashed out a homer in one game with the bases loaded. He split open a finger in the next game. On the morrow he was back of the plate. Again he split a finger, another one; and again some adhesive tape bound the finger together and he was back once more. In the final game "Mickey" was hit on the head by a fast one from the opposing twirler. He flopped, but was up again, wanting to continue, but the surgeon sent him to the hospital where it was found he had sustained a fractured skull.

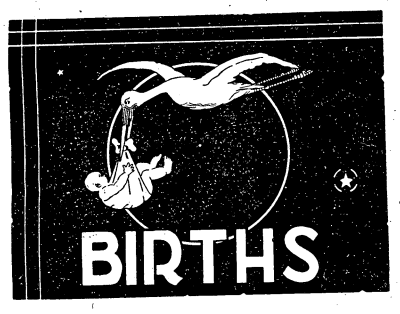
McCarthy was born in New York City, but now claims Northampton, Mass., as his home. He came to Benning from "G" Company of the 19th Infantry as a machine gun instructor in 1920, after a varied career as a baseball player and as a member of the forces that pacified the West Virginia coal district in 1919.

McCarthy was married in 1923, and is now living on the reservation, besides Mrs. McCarthy there is now Mickey, Jr., who promises his Dad that when he is tired of the big mitt that he will be ready to take his place.



Phillipe Lawrence Bolte, son of Captain and Mrs. Charles Lawrence Bolte, Infantry. Born March 24, 1928.

Judge: "Officer, you swear this man was driving his car at night without a light?"

Officer: "Er-yes, Your Honor; but he was pretty well lit up himself!"

CAPT. WHITTEN TO ROTC DUTY

Capt. R. Q. Whitten, 24th Infantry, will leave Fort Benning about May 15 on leave of absence for a period of one month and 15 days, after which he will report to Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., for duty with ROTC at that university.

THE FIGHTING MAN

When high explosives crash above
And cannon roar below,
When planes drop their torpedoes
To help speed up the show.
When gas masks are adjusted,
To combat that deadly stench,
The Gallant old doughboy walks in
And takes the hostile trench.

When heavy guns are booming
In counter Battery play,
When seventy-fives are sending
A warning to "Make way."
When the Brownings, light and heavy,
Bark out their rat-tat-tat,
The Doughboy's standing ready
To take his place at bat.

When hostile lines are closing in Behind a dense smoke screen,
When he's outnumbered greatly—
And he's beaten, least it seems,
When ever yadverse circumstance
Has followed, one by one
He calmly 'waits the moment
To partake of the fun.

When he has waited patiently
And checked the grim advance,
He tightens on his old tin hat,
And takes his one bold chance.
He's up, and now, "He's over"
The Counter's under way,
Assisted by the other arms
The Doughboy wins the day.

REYBURN ENGLES,
Captain Q. M. C.

INFORMATION WANTED

and scored when the Michigan catcher threw Newman out at first after dropping the third strike.

Jeffries laced out a three-bagger in the fifth inning with two on, scoring a moment later on Grantham's perfect sacrifice.

The collegians were unable to get a man to second base during the entire game.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Infantry	010 030 010	5	8	1
Michigan	000 000 000	0	4	4

Batteries—Morris and Douglas; Byrne and Caruso.

Second Game

Tuesdays game was a wild and woolly affair with the Infantry School batters going on a rampage that netted a total of 21 runs.

Big Jeffries led the slaughter with four hits, a three-bagger, dougle and two singles. Every man on the team got at least one hit and scored a run except "Shotgun" White, who was never able to reach the first station during the excitement.

Lewis started for Michigan but gave way to Bullard who was relieved by Davis. The change of pitchers didn't make any difference, as the Doughboys continued to hit during the entire game.

Score by innings—		R.	H.	E.
Infantry	300 024 2100	21	18	1
Michigan	000 000 0 00	0	4	11

Batteries—Roosma and Douglas; Lewis, Ballard, Davis and Pevic.

Third Game

Coming back with a rush in the last game of the series the Wolverines went on a batting spree aided by Doughboy errors to win the final contest 9 to 7.

Tolles' southpaw delivery kept the soldiers' hits well scattered, while the collegians combined their hits with the home teams errors to score nine runs.

Futch held the visitors to two hits until the fatal seventh inning when they scored five runs off one hit, four errors and a walk. Grady Tolle relieved him with the bases loaded but the Benning infield was wobbly and five unearned runs was the result.

Lindsey relieved Tolle but couldn't last the inning out, Morris went in with two out and three on, he pitched one ball to retire the side. In the ninth Tolles' liner hit Morris in the face, knocking him out. Ellis finished the game, making a total of five pitchers to try and stave off defeat for the home team.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Infantry	120 000 202	7	9	7
Michigan	000 000 522	9	8	1

Batteries—Futch, Tolle, Lindsay, Morris, Ellis and Douglas; Tolles and Caruso.

MARCH 30 TO APRIL 6, INCL

FRIDAC, MAR. 30

"BUTTONS," starring Jackie Coogan in a vivid tale of adventure and romance on the high seas. A great liner is loading at Southampton—a ragged waif sneaks aboard and finally, through persistance and bravery, elevates himself in the esteem of the ship's captain. Many interesting events occur throughout the plot, which is climaxed by the shipwreck of a huge trans-Atlantic liner.

"Small Town Sheriff." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 25."

SATURDAY, MAR. 31

"WIZARD OF THE SADDLE," starring Buzz Barton, the thirteen-year-old "wild and woolly" westerner, in a story of action, punch and daring. A desperate gang of counterfeiters are foiled by a boy, and an operative of the United States Department of Justice. It is a thrilling story of the California gold fields.

"Why Blondes Leave Home." Imperial Comedy.

SUNDAY, APRIL 1

"LOVE," starring Greta Garbo with John Gilbert in a picture based on the novel "Anna Karenina" by Count Lyof Tolstoi. It is a tense romance among the Russian Nobility. In the firming of this picture many of the ofrmer Russian aristocrats participated—among the most notable are General Michael Pleschkoff, General Theodore Lodi and Prince Youcca Troubezkoy. The general theme is the sacrifice of Anna, who deserts husband and child for love, to be pursued by a relentless fate that eventually conquors her. Gorgeous reproductions of Russian palaces and haunts of the might are settings for this spectacular film.

"Pathe Review No. 39."

"Paramount News No. 68."

MONDAY, APRIL 2

"FOURFLUSHER," featuring George Lewis with Marion Nixon. It is a high speed comedy, glorifying American Youth. They thought he was a fourflusher because his dreams were big, but he had the nerve and ambition to back his dreams—he wouldn't be downed. It is the story of a lad who could look a big bank president straight in the eye and put his stuff across. Of course there is a love affair wherein the fourflusher wins an heiress.

"Hawk of The Hills No. 7."

TUESDAY, APRIL 3

"WOMANWISE," starring William Russell in a story of Persia with an American adventurer playing the lead. Among the leading characters are Walter Pidgeon, June Collyer and William Russell. Incidentally, Walter Ridgeon is an outstanding star of the Canadian Legitimate stage. The story presents some of the funniset and, at the same time, some of the most gripping situations one can imagine. Specifically, it is the intimate story of a ne'er-do-well who seeks love in strange places.

"Hats Off." Davidson Hary Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4

"BIG CITY," starring Lon Chaney in a thrilling and mysterious production of the New York underworld. Chaney plays the part of a gangster leader; he learned their argot and their morbid mode of living. The plot is sensational with Marceline Day as the heroine. She is a shopgirl enmeshed in his activities. James Murray plays her sweetheart. Lon Chaney, 'nuf sed.

LON CHANEY and MARCELINE DAY in "THE BIG CITY"

"Paramount News No. 70."

THURSDAY, APRIL 5

"DEAD MAN'S CURVE," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., with Kit Guard and Sally Blane in a thrilling story of breakneck automobile races. In one of the scenes this reckless star is obliged to negotiate, at terrific speed, a dangerous curve and his plunging racer looms up as a menace that makes ne hold one's breath. The plot is of youthful ambitions and parental objections. Fairbanks has invented an auto motor. The girl's father has refused to finance its construction, so Fairbanks secures funds from a promoter. Indirectly the money comes from the girl. There is plot and counterplot, bribes and romance. Lots of mile-a-minute action.

"Collegians No. 5."

FRIDAY, APRIL 6

(Good Friday Special)

"MOON OF ISRAEL," from the famous story by H. Rider Hagard, featuring Marie Corda and Arlette Marchal in a collosal spectacle of the mightiest love story of the ages. In this production there is a cast of 50,000 people. The story is laid in Egypt during the Pharaohs and depicts the miracles of the old testament. You will see the mountainous waves of the Red Sea roll back to give the Israelites passage, the terrific battle of the Gods, Pharaoh's mighty armies thundering across the plane and the spectacular plagues that laid waste to the land.

"Cutting A Mellon." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 27."

Captain Mathis: "I heard that there were rumors of some trouble between the members of the crew of your Martin Bomber."

Lieut. Timberlake: "Well, that's true. But we didn't really fall out."

TRANSPORTATION

By H. Cooper

I had started in a taxie
To take a trip to town,
And all the while that taxie ran
The rain came sloshing down.

The curtains all were in their place
But the rain poured in like soup,
And all the while I sat and smiled
And ruined a new pressed suit.

There is no other running
As Howards have the right,
And if we have to go some where
We wait most all the night.

The drivers are efficient
But the cars, no not at all,
But we have to take a bus, or them
Or go no where at all.

The city taxies may make the trip
To bring you in if late,
But the MP's with uplifted hand
Always stop them at the gate.

But why should we, who pay our fare
And, we have to go to town,
Be compelled to set out in the rain
When it comes tumbling down.

Some may say, why not take a bus
As it is the cheapest rate,
But what care we about the price
When our girl might give us the gate?

But why should we kick about the ways
If we have to go to town?
I know its true that some of them do
Just start and hike it down.

PROPERTY OFFICE NEWS

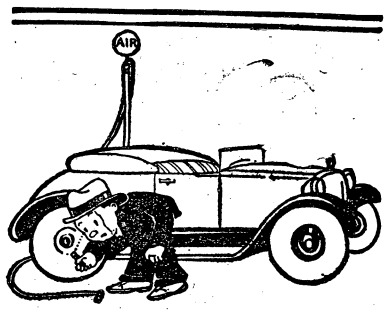
We were all distressed to learn of the illness of Mr. Shaw hospital where last Thursday he had his foot amputated, due to an infection; but we learn that he is getting along very nicely now. And we are all hoping for his speedy recovery.

Well—I did have to eat my words about Spring, didn't I? Didn't you just about freeze last week? You just ought to have counted my covers! But I'm still hoping—it must come! Although you have undoubtedly heard of the maxim, "Blessed is he that expecteth nothing, for he shall not be deceived?"

One of our girls is all prettied up—getting ready for summer; and she looks so nice. (We are thinking seriously of obtaining a permanent, too—if it would in the least improve our appearance. Is it possible?)

Our enlisted personnel is all on its toes in readiness for the inspection Sunday. "Forward MARCH!"

The inventories are still coming in—but about one-third are still out—bring them in, you officers!



In Balloon Tires Air Pressure Should Be Carefully Checked

A variation of from three to five pounds from the proper air pressure in balloon tires will reduce their mileage and service one-fourth.

Many motorists find it advisable to stop at our service station regularly once a week and have the air in their tires checked. This service is free.

ENGAGEMENT OF PROMINENT BENNING COUPLE ANNOUNCED

Major and Mrs. Harry H. Bissell announce the engagement of their daughter, Frnaces, to Lieutenant Shirley Randolph Hurt, the date of the marriage to be announced later.

Miss Bissell is the only daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Bissell and is a girl of rare beauty and charm. She has had exceptional educational advantages, having studied at home and abroad. She spent last year in Europe studying, arriving in Columbus shortly before Christmas. Since her coming she has made many friends both in Columbus and at Fort Benning who will read with much interest of her approaching wedding. Lt. Hurt is a fine young Artilleryman now serving with the 83rd at Fort Benning.

Mrs. James Norwood Ancrum was hostess ata lovely luncheon and bridge at her home on Third Ave. in Columbus on last Thursday. The apartment was elaborately decorated throughout with lovely early spring flowers. The guests found their places at small tables laid with handsome Chinese linens, where a delicious hot luncheon was served. After lunch the tables were arranged for bridge. Mrs. Butler L. Knight won high prize, a piece of handsome filet, Mrs. Edward S. Curren was a close second, winning a lovely hand-painted linen card table cover. Mrs. Robert Sharp won low prize, a bottle of Houbigant's perfume. Those present were Mrs. Sayre and Mrs. Johnston, Sr., of Indianapolis, the guest of Capt. and Mrs. E. S. Johnston who were special luncheon guests, and Mrs. McCutcheon, Mrs. C. F. Bishop, Mrs. Herlihy, Mrs. Curren, Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Dager, Mrs. Ernest Barker, Mrs. R. C. Jacobs, Mrs. McCarthy, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Hurle, Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Culp, Miss Margaret Graham of New York, Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Prather, Mrs. Butler Knight, Mrs. Sandlin, Mrs. Kilburn, Mrs. Johnston.

Next Sunday is Palm Sunday, anniversary of that triumphant return of Christ to Jerusalem when "O'er all the way green palms and blossoms gay were spread that day in gay preparation" by the multitudes who had been blessed by his power—that day of joy so soon to be followed by the agony of Calvary. Those of us who don't go regularly to church usually find it hard to stay away on Palm Sunday and on Easter, that most gracious day of Promise of Life Eternal which every person yearns for. On Palm Sunday Mrs. Leonard Boyd and Mrs. Melvin Finney whose lovely voices are well known to us, will sing "The Palms." Very special music has been prepared for the service on Easter morn, full announcement of which will be in next week's News.

The Mechanics Ball given at Biglerville on Friday evening by the Officers and Ladies of the 15th Tanks was one of the most delightful dances vere given at Benning. No detail was spared to give a Tank and Mechanical atmosphere. Two tanks marked the entrance to the ball room and miniature tanks hung over the lights and along the columns. The costumes entered into the spirit of the occasion and symbols of mechanical labor were capitalized very cleverly. Outstanding among the officers was Lt. W. E. Niles whose costume was inspired by an oil can. At midnight delicious refreshments, sandwiches, coffee and cakes baked by the ladies of the Battalion were served.

Maj. and Mrs. Edgar S. Miller were hosts to twenty-four at a lovely dinner on Friday evening at their home on Austin Loop, the party going later to the Tanks "Mechanics Ball."

Capt. and Mrs. Grant Hilliard were hosts to eighteen friends at a midnight supper on Friday, their guests coming from the Tanks Ball.

Mrs. John Dodds of Burlington, Vermont, arrived Saturday for a visit to her cousins, Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson.

On Saturday evening Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson were hosts at a perfectly lovely dinner party at their home. Spring flowers were used in profusion throughout the house and each small table at which the guests found their places had for its centerpiece a small brass vase gilled with daffodils and spirea. Yellow tapers shed their soft glow over the tables. Saturday was Col. Johnson's birthday and he shared honors with their houseguest, Mrs. Dodds of Vermont, who came down especially for this occasion. Those enjoying this delightful party were: Mrs. John Dodds, Col. and Mrs. Warfield, Col. and Mrs. Helms, Col and Mrs. Deleplane, Col. and Mrs. Pendleton, Col. and Mrs. Franklin, Col. and Mrs. Mason, Col. and Mrs. Baker, Col. Marshall, Maj. and Mrs. Rucker, Maj. and Mrs. Huebner, Maj. and Mrs. Phelps, Maj. and Mrs. Hobbs, Maj. and Mrs. Stayer, Maj. and Mrs. Bissell, Maj. and Mrs. Bootz, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mooney of Atlanta. After the dinner the guests were to the dance at which Col. and Mrs. Johnson and Col. and Mrs. Warfield were hosts.

At 9 o'clock on Saturday evening at the Hop Room Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson and Col. and Mrs. A. B. Warfield were hosts to hundreds of their friends at one of the loveliest dances of the season.

On Wednesday afternoon, as a lovely courtesy to her mother, Mrs. W. E. McElhenney of Detroit, Mrs. Albert B. Helsley was hostess to sixteen tables of bridge. The Polo Club was made lovely with vases of plum, peach, and pear blossoms and the tea table was beautiful with its exquisite all-lace cover over pink satin, its silver basket of pink roses and snapdragons, its tall blue tapers in silver candlesticks and its elegant tea and coffee service. After the game chicken salad with cheese straws, hot rolls, olives, and coffee were served. The high prize ,a card table, was won by Mrs. McMahon, the second, a jar of French powder, by Mrs. Moise, the guest of Mrs. W. W. Jenna, the low prize, an Alsabrook's bath cloth (one of those with gorgeous roses in it, entirely too pretty to use) by Mrs. Roy Hill and the cut prize, an organdy bedroom set, by Mrs. Crowell of Columbus. The guest of honor was given a pair of chiffon hose.

Miss Frances Bissell honored Miss Marie Nutting of the Cathedral School who is spending Easter holidays with her parents, Maj. and Mrs. C. E. Nutting, with a lovely luncheon at the Log Cabin on Monday. The luncheon proved to be a medium of gathering her intimate friends together to tell them something most interesting. Seated at one long table laid in filet with a green bowl of white iris and spirea, and green candlesticks holding tall white tapers for center decorations, were covers for nine. Beside each plate was a tiny envelope. There is always a thrill in opening a letter and this one proved most thrilling for two small visiting cards, one bearing the name of Miss Bissell, the other Lt. Shirley R. Hurt, told enough of a story whose ending promises to be "and they lived happily ever after." Those present

Capt. and Mrs. Louis J. Lampke and their guests, Mrs. Isaacs and her son, Dick, of New York City, motored to Thomasville for the week-end. There are many millionaires who own thousands and thousands of acres in Thomas County and their plantations are famous show places. Among them is Greenwood Plantation, owned by Payne Whitney which was visited by this party. They went through his magnificent stables and noted that "Colonel," a very fine horse, was housed in a stable lined with mahogany. At Benning Colonels are content with plaster and even beaverboard.

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—Monday, April 2nd.
Time—2:15.

On next Monday afternoon Mrs. James W. Darr will talk to the Infantry School Wman's Club on Numerology. Mrs. Darr, as you will remember, was to appear on our January program but a painful injury suffered from a fall on a hunt necessitated a change. Mrs. Darr is not well yet by any means, but she had promised to give us something of her rather intensive study in this new and fascinating field and she feels that she would like to keep her promise.

"Numerology" is a term meaning but little to the average person. But Mrs. Darr has learned to read interesting things and solve mysteries through her knowledge of numbers. I know we will be fascinated by her talk. And the music offers added attractions for Captain W. W. Jenna and Mrs. Hazel Rogers Barker are on the program. Tea will be served by Mrs. S. L. Dunlop and Mrs. H. W. Brandhorst.

The Literary Club had its last meeting of the year on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Philip B. Peyton presented her program of Contemporary United States Literature. In her foreword Mrs. Peyton brought out that the literature of today in the United States concerns itself largely with realism, the movement having begun about the beginning of this century when the great stream of historical romances gave way to such novels as Theodore Dreiser's clumsy powerful, unforgetable "Sister Carrie."

"From Jane Lane Allen's exquisite novels of Kentucky to those of Elizabeth Madox Roberts equally beautiful if so different ones, from sentimental John Fox, Jr., to Stribling, handling the same scene and its inhabitants, from Thomas Nelson Page's "Marse Chan" to "Black April" of Julia Peterkin, from John Hays' polished verse, 'tiny perfections carved on cherry stones', to Carl Sandburg's harsh unmusical realism, from Frances Hodgson Burnett's pretty sentimentalism to John dos Passos, Natalie Colby and Frances Newman—what a way we hove come!"

Mrs. Peyton said that "Debunking" was the watchword of the day—Woodward, Edgar Lee Masters, Sinclair Lewis, Scott Fitzgerald, Carl Von Vechten, Percy Marks, to mention only a few, are determined to push old-fashioned idealism into a far corner and show the world as it is (or as they think it is!) Then domes a point of view so characteristic of this careful student of literature—I give you her words: "Not that there is not health in seeing reality instead of viewing life as a pretty rose-tinged Fool's Paradise, but that the effort to get away from 'sweetness and light' has sometimes plunged us into mire no better for our health than the other kind of unreality."

Surely the biographers have been busy "debunking." In their efforts to hlmanize heroes they have gone muck-raking. The halo has been removed as far as possible, and what the ordinary light of day discloses is far from heroic. Among

The United States Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examination:

Physiotherapy Assistant

Applications for physiotherapy assistant must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than April 14. The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on their admission cards, and will be about ten days after the close of receipt of applications.

The examination is to fill vacancies in the Field Services of the Veterans' Bureau and the Public Health Service, and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications.

The entrance salary in the Public Health Service is $1,560 a year without allowances, with possible promotion to $1,800 a year. In the Veterans' Bureau the salary is $1,320 to $1,680 a year, less $540 a year quarters, subsistence and laundry where available.

The duties consist of administering to special cases the treatments of physiotherapy, as massage, electrotherapy, hydrotherapy, thermotherapy, mechanotherapy ;active, passive, assistive, and resistive exercises; remedial gymnastics; keeping a daily report of work in progress on each patient under the appointee's direction and treatment; and making the required reports of the activties of the reconstruction work in physiotherapy.

Statistical Clerk (Aeronautics)

Applications for statistical clerk (aeronautics) must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than April 14. The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on their admission cards, and will be about ten days after the close of receipt of applications.

The examination is to fill a vacancy in the office of the Assistant Secretary for Auroneautics, Department of Commerce, Washington, D .C., and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications.

The entrance salary is $1,860 a year. A probationary period of six months is required; advancement after that depends upon individual efficiency, increased usefulness, and the occurrence of vacancies in higher positions.

The duties consist of special work in connection with the compilation of statistics as required by the Air Commerce Act. The appointee will be required to collect and compile statistics on the number of aircraft of different types in operation and under construction, their seating and freight-carrying capacities, types and kinds of engines, and structural details.

For the present vacancy a man is desired.

Competitors will be rated on practical tests in statistical computations, tabulating statistical data, and their education and experience.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the United Sttaes civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

N. G. RESERVE CLASS ELECT OFFICERS

The N. G. Reserve Class recently held an election at which the following officers were elected: President, Capt. A. A. Harwick, 314th Inf., Pnn.; Vice-Presidents, Capts. D. C. Harris, 121st Inf., Georgia; John P. Gilmore, 135th Inf., Minnesota; Ubaldo del Toro, 295th Inf., Porto Rico; Secretary-Treas., Lieut. W. T. Stedman, 16th Inf., New York.

ATHLETIC COWS

A New Hampshire newspaper recently printed the following:

"By order of the selectmen, cows grazing by the roadside or riding bicycles on the sidewalks is hereby forbidden."

SAM BROWNE BELT WAS ORIGINATED IN INDIA

Many of us remember when the Sam Browne belt was adopted by the United States Army for officers about to embark for overseas duty, nad how, shortly after the war, the belt was permanently accepted and written into uniform regulations.

Wherever there is a community with a second hand clothing store, there will be found on the counters discarded Sam Browne belts, linking modern ways with a hand-to-hand fight in far away India, many, many years ago.

The original Sam Browne was a most gallant English army officer, who won the Victoria Cross fighting for England in India during the autumn of 1858. He was careless enough to have him arm cut off, and it was owing to the circumstances that he was forcedto devise ways and means whereby he could be present at parade without his trusty sword dragging on the ground that we have the invention of the Sam Browne belt, which relieves the diaphragm from the weight of saber and pistol.

Lord Roberts, formerly field marshal and advocate of preparedness in England, who was a staunch friend of the dashing cavalry officer, gives this account of Sam Browne:

"This popular and gallant officer, well known to every native in Upper India as Sam Brun Sahib and to the officers of the whole of His Majesty's army as the inventor of the sword belt universally adopted on service, distinguished himself greatly in the autumn of 1858. With 230 sabers of his own regiment and 350 native infantry he attacked a party of rebels who had taken up a postiion at Nuria, a village at the edge of Tari, about ten miles from Philibhit. Browne managerto get to the rear of the enemy without being discovered.

"A hand-to-hand fight then ensued in which he got two severe wounds, one on the knee, from which he nearly bled to death, the other on the left shoulder, cutting through his arm. The enemy were completely routed and fled, leaving their four guns and 300 dead on the ground. Browne was deservedly rewarded with the Victoria Cross."

Sam Browne died at the Wood Rye, Isle of Wight, on March 14, 1901, and, after cremation, was buried there. A memorial tablet has been put up for him in St. Paul's Cathedral, in London.

ATTENTION TO TIRES MEANS MUCH SAVING

Many motorists now realize that just putting a tire on a car and not paying any further attention to it is much the same as operating an auto without a thought for grease or oil until serious trouble develops.

The way to get the most mileage and best service from tires is to have them looked over regularly and frequently.

Like the old adage about a stitch in time, a little care will often prevent serious loss of tire mileage.

The treads should be inspected for cuts and bruises, and any small repairs needed should be made promptly.

It is important to have the wheels aligned and the proper air pressure maintained, if the motorist is to get all the service he is entitled to from his tires.

Always use valve caps. Screw each one down tightly by hand. This will prevent air leakage and underinflation difficulties.—Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

NEW BOOKS FOR LIBRARY

As announced in last week's issue of the News, several suggestions of books to be donated to the library were submitted to this paper. Among the late books are the following: "The Great American Band Wagon," "Transition," "What Can A Man Believe," "The Road to Plenty," "Tired Captains," and "Claire Ambler." Send in your suggestions as soon as possible ,as the list will be made up within a few days.

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

On open letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: Wouldst anything persuade thee not to let the printsmen jumble all my column up together, without the appropriate space between paragraphs which thou givest my rival, Captain A. J. Nichols?

'Twould be much appreciated by thy humble servant.

BEE'S BUZZINGS.
Per B. D.

B-z-z-z-z

An open letter to Captain A. J. Nichols:

Dear Captain Nichols: In your last week's issue, you accuse Bee Buzzings of appropriating to herself your "Personage of the Week" affair. Now, my dear captain, while you very specifically state that yours is a weekly affair, Bee's Brightlights are of a more enduring nature. Yessir, Bee's Benning Brightlights shine brightly in the firmament of Benning, and for much longer than a week, and if you will ponder on this subject a few moments, you will see the light and logic, of this.

However, as this seems to worry you quite, a bit Bee will stop her "Benning Brightlights" paragraph, and will disguise her admiration for some particular person or thing in a subtle way. For instance, in her "Seen of a Monday's noon' paragraph, she might say, "Bee saw Major H. J. M. Smith, whom she considers the greatest horseman and one of the cleverest personages, of Benning, strolling down Vibbert boulevard."

What think you of this, Captain A. J.?

B-z-z-z-z

And still one sees members of the Second Section strolling around with huge packages. This week, it's Captain Pearson.

Seen of a Monday's Noon:

This Monday, Bee was in Palatka, Florida (this is being written "of a Saturday afternoon"), on three days leave. She went down with the Columbus Girls' Club Basketball team to try to defeat the basketball champs of Florida. Whether or not the C. G. C. defeated, you probably all know now. However, this "seen of a Monday's noon" will begin again next week.

THREE MEN HONORED IN CO. "A" TANK BATTALION

Company "A", 15th Tank Battalion, held a dinner last Tuesday evening, at which time three privates of that organization were honored. The following men were presented cups by Major E. S. Miller, commanding the battalion, for the reasons indicated: Pvt. 1cl. Nels Peterson, most valuable; Pvt. 1cl. Chas. M. McDowell, most efficient (1st prize); Pvt. 1cl. Ceef McKee, most efficient (second prize). Capt. L. J. Lampke is commanding officer of the company. These prizes were awarded for service the past year, and is something unique in that the private soldier is awarded prizes for meritorius service. Short talks were made by Major Miller and Lieuts. E. L. Stewart and Clyde Grady. The pictures of these men will appear in an early edition of the News.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

The basketball season is over and every one is happy, especially the referees, you can't blame them. The pennant will look good to some people. Congratulations to the boys that took advantage of every spare moment to practice and took the series without a single set back.

The Combat Train extends a hearty welcome to Private Louis D. Beauregard, all round athlete of the Field Artillery School. Beauregard was a member of the Field Artillery Detachment at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, for three years before coming to Benning. He was a star with the football team of the Field Artillery Detachment which held the championship of Fort Sill from 1924 to 1926. In July, 1927, he was assigned to the Veterinary Detachment at this Post but Beauregard being a real Artilleryman has decided to transfer to the best organization in the Post, welcome to the "Bull Ring" Buddy, this outfit can always find room for a man of your ability.

Our Radio School is going fine with Private Tate setting the pace, but from reports there seem to be several more good prospects of static grabbers included on the list.

On the 26th and all day demonstration was pulled by the Combat Train with much success and no casualties. Just bring on the demonstrations and the Combat Train will be right in line ready and raring to go.

We have in our midst one said, "Man from the West" who travels around restrictively each afternoon in a different car, but for some reason he just can't make up his mind as to the model, make and tsyle, why not get a Submarine Cicero?

Sergeant Reed always was very fortunate and now we have rumors that there is a Sergeant required in Chattanooga, Tenn., for recruiting service, but there seems to be a clause or "if" or what-not bobbing up and competition has started as to who shall get the position. Sergeant Dodd is wondering why he never gets a chance at such rare opportunities.

The Combat Train Baseball team looks good this year, as usual. We have the same lineup as last year with the exception of one man, Spivey will be hard to replace. We are still selfish and have room for another cup, so beware you batteries. The following men are trying out for the team: Catchers, Kirby, Derrick and Lewis; pitchers, Hopkins, Hurst, Reed and Hirtzler; infielders, McLeod, Eskridge, Jones, Arnold, Waters, Reed and Cole; outfielders, McAuliffe, Hirtzler, Beauregard, Bruner, Baker and Cherry.

Battery "C"

Notice: We are now open for business, free estimating, work guaranteed. Hudson, Lyda & Co., Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators.

Our barber shop was recently painted by the firm of Hudson, Lyda & Co.

Corporals Miller and Randolph claim to be the champion pedro players of the battery and are ready to meet all challengers.

Sergeant Johnson, chief of the first section, complained of having blistered hands from overseeing his section digging gun pits Monday.

Corporal Randolph won first place in the digging in demonstration Monday morning, as he dug in seven minutes before the battery went into position.

Sergeant Chewning is reported to be looking for new sleeping quarters.

Battery "A"

Private Chapman has left for his home in Venton, Virginia, on a 15-day furlough.

Our baseball team has been organized. We expect to show the boys from the other batteries that we're out this season to bring home the bacon. Sergeant Gilbert has been elected as team captain, so there's no reason why we shouldn't have a good team.

Private Sizemore is back with us now from the "Hot Daddy's Club," of Ga. He said it was the best place in camp with the exception of the Mess Hall.

Chicken Mc is so tight he never shoots over a dime.

"THE POOR NUT" AT THE SPRINGER OPERA HOUSE

"The Poor Nut," heralded as the greatest of all college comedies will be the attraction at Springer Opera House on March 30 and 31 for an engagement of two nights and matinee. The comedy comes here direct from 20 weeks at the Cort Theater in Chicago. It enjoyed sensational success in New York for 42 weeks, in Boston for 10 weeks, in Philadelphia for 8 weeks and in Chicago for 20 weeks.

Patterson McUutt produced it, mounting the play handsomely, and staging the famous stadium scene, which stumped other Broadway managers, so realistically that it has been the talk of critics and playgoers alike wherever the comedy has been presented.

Elliott Nugent, an Ohio State alumnus, is co-author of the play with his father, J. C. Nugent. Other plays by the Nugents include "Kempy," "The Trouper," "The Rising Sun" and "Gunpowder."

The play is presented on tour by Better Plays Extension, an organization sponsored by John Golden, David Belasco, David Warfield, Wilton Lackaye, Augusutus Thomas, and other noted men and women of the theater.

"The Poor Nut" deals with the rollicking adventure of John Miller, an Ohio State junior, who would rather earn $1,200 yearly as a professor of botany than be a business man at an annual salary of $12,000. A Wisconsin University girl, however, thinks differently, and armed with letters in which he had confessed his desire to become a popular hero, she takes him in hand, psychoanalyzes him and start sthe newly-made hero off in a gale of hilarious difficulties.

The stadium scenes in the second act have caused much praise and acclaim from critics and followers of college atletics. The relay race has been described as being "As thrilling as all the chariots of 'Ben Hur.'"

Horace Michael is perfectly cast in the lead part of "John Miller," as are Florence Day as "Julia Winters," the Wisconsin Co-ed; Dorothy Black as "Margerie Blake," an Ohio Co-ed; David Pritchard, as "Magpie" Welch, the spirited cheer leader; and likewise, Charles Baker, Jonathon Hole, Vincent Fiore, Barrow LePaige and many others who appear in this play.

INVITED TO SEE FLOWERS

Mrs. Lulu Bates Webb has requested the News to extend her invitation to Fort Benning to visit her home in Alabama at Sanford Grove next Sunday, in order that they might see the beautiful wisteria in bloom. In order to reach her home, cross the lower bridge over the Chattahoochie, and follow the highway from there. There is also a hollyberry tree on Mrs. Webb's plantation, which is over one hundred years old.

ASSIGNED TO 24th INFANTRY

Capt. A. J. Barnett, now on duty with the academic dept., Inf. School has been relieved from duty with the School and assigned to the 24th Infantry, effective July 1, 1928.

JUNE INFANTRY JOURNAL TO BE LOCAL NUMBER

The June issue of the Infantry Journal will be an Infantry School Number, devoted almost exclusively to feature articles and advertising from Fort Benning and Columbus. Plans have been under way for some time for such a number and copy is now being prepared. Captain James E. Wharton, of the Academic Department, who is Associate Editor of the Infantry Journal, has charge of the special issue.

It is desired to cover all of the acivities of the post in an appropriate manner. All members of the garrison are invited to contribute copy, all such contributions to be in hands of Captain Wharton not later than April twentieth. Captain Wharton will be glad to talk over the special issue with officers of the post who are interested in such a number and desire to make suggestions. He may be reached over two telephones: Office, 43; quarters, 339.

Officers whose memberships in the Infantry Association are in arrears are requested to mail their checks to Captain Wharton at once in order to insure their getting copies of this special issue.

THIS IS YOUR PAPER

The Infantry School News is as much the product of Columbus as that of Fort Benning. The paper is not published for profit but is more of a medium to bring the people of Columbus closer to those of Fort Benning. We want the citizens of Columbus to feel that they may communicate with those of the post through this medium.

The business concerns of Columbus who advertise in the columns of the NEWS may feel free to call upon the office of this paper for any assistance that may be rendered them at any time.

READ THE ADS

Don't fail to read the ads in this issue. This is one of the largest issues since the Xmas number. Tomorrow being pay day, don't fail to avail yourself the bargains offered in the ads in this issue. Support our advertisers. They will appreciate it—and so will we.

THE CHILDREN'S SCHOOL BENEFIT

The show "The Poor Nut" which is scheduled to perform at the Springer Opera House in Columbus this evening, and tomorrow afternoon and evening, is a benefit for the Shriners and also for the Children's School at Fort Benning. Tickets have been placed on sale at the Officers' Club. Performances will be at 8:15 P. M. and 3:15 P. M.

Fifteen per cent. of the proceeds from this show will be donated to the Children's School at Fort Benning. The school at Fort Benning is thoroughly modern and up-to-date. The supervisor and teachers are completely abreast of the modern methods of teaching. The school buildings are light and airy; the subjects taught are those which give the youth a good foundation for advanced courses at colleges and universities.

By your attendance at this show, you help a most worthy cause at Fort Benning. See advertisement and announcement in this issue.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all"

The Tactical Topic of the week ending March 24th, was the arrival of the Leavenworth orders on Saturday morning. There was a rush for the boxes followed by a hum of conversation that was reminiscent of the day that Major Bradley returned the papers on "The Rifle Company in Defense."

Interest centered cheifly around the separation of the elect into the one and two-year classes. Speculation was rife as to the method whuch had been used in assigning officers to the two groups, but why this should be a matter for conjecture is a mystery to us. It seems so perfectly obvious that the War Department assigned to the one-year class those officers of exceptional ability and talent and composed the Junior Leavenworth Class of those who required the additional year to complete their military education.

The first of the night problems wasn't so bad. As we impersonated a high-ranking officer that night, we can't speak for the platoon and section leaders who had to find the line of departure in the dark, but we are reasonably certain that the morning off more than compensated for a few barbed shins acquired in the line of duty.

Several interesting experiments were conducted in the 2nd Infantry which was commanded by Professor McCunniff. Acting Lieut.-Colonel Brown, commanding one of the battalions, successfully functioned as the Battalion Commander, his complete staff and half a dozen mounted orderlies all rolled into one. In this achievement in single-handed activity, he covered the 97,000 acres of the Fort Benning Reservation in record time and proved conclusively that there is no necessity for our present Battalion Staff, providing a steady flow of expendable Battalion Commanders is available.

Captain Culin, by using map coordinates to aid his subordinates to locate their positions in the encircling gloom, went the Infantry School one better and proved conclusively that all thot is needed to make this method as effective by night as by day is a complete supply of luminous coordinates in the Battalion Commander's saddle bags.

The marked problem on the Howitzer Platoon in Attack was something of a disappointment to us. Captain Almond, contrary to his established custom, directed the class to assemble at a point other than that which the school had selected for the location of the Howitzer Weapons, which caused us to miss the approved solution by exactly the distance between the designated assembly point and the position that the school had decided upon. The Advanced Class Psychologists are naturally a bit resentful over this exhibition of Punic faith on the part of a trusted instructor.

We don't like these small unit problems anyway. We are pretty good when it comes to slinging a brigade or a regiment over the terrain but when compelled to decide whether a 37mm gun should be located fifty yards west of the Lonesome Pine on Davis Hill or in the shade of a spreading China Berry tree, thirty-two yards south of the road junction at (19.28-20.46), we aren't so hot. As Admiral Farragut said at the Battle of Mobile Bay, "Damn the coordinates, let's go."

Major Cook: "Any questions on the text assignment for today?"

Voice from the rear of the room: "What was it?"

—E. F. H.

MISSES THE NEWS

We received a letter the other day from Corp. Momberger, of the Post Hospital. We quote: "Please change address of my paper. I sure miss it and it is the only way I have to keep in touch with things going on here." Momberger was formerly a member of the Inf. School Detach. and has recently transferred to the Post Hospital.

In response to the advertisement of the Infantry School News for suggestions for five new books to be added to the Garrison Library, we beg to submit for the consideration of the Editor, the following books:

"The 36 Hour Day," for the 29th Infantry.

"Roads—Their Construction and Maintenance" for the Fort Benning Highway Commission.

"Fanny Farmer's Cook B ok" for the entrants in our Contest.

"Family Budgeting" for T. W.

We think of numerous others just as appropriate but these are the ones needed most.

We were invited to the meeting held by the Sojourners at the Polo Club the other evening and to say we enjoyed the programme would be putting it mildly. The only other entertainment we have witnessed on the Post that could be compared with that offered was the "Hammer Minstrels of 1926.' The one-act skit, "The Bums Are Stewed" (The Drums of Oude) is the best thing of its kind we could appreciate. Bill Collier and Captain Saulnier are to be congratulated, along with their troupe, for their several excellent productions.

We attended the Johnson-Warfield dance last Saturday night and had a perfectly wonderful time. We must admit however, that we were somewhat put out at the careless and exaggerated remarks made in reference to our cake contest by a certain orator. After listening to this distinguished speaker, we were forced to the painful conclusion that our own efforts at exaggeration were very amateurish. As a consequence, our contest has received a serious setback. But never mind girls, we feel the same way about that big cake as we did about May Patridge's entry, "that the proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The little cake looked strangely familiar and while The Speaker would not name the baker, it was no worse than the majority of entries we receive. We know several ladies on the Post that would be more than pleased to claim it. We speak from experience when we say that there was more indigestion to the square inch in that cake than in any other conceivable form of cookery. We promptly entered a protest against the large cake being exhibited when we learned that no authority had been given to erect the fence that served as part of its ornamentation.

We saw in the Columbus Ledger the other day where that paper has installed a machine capable of receiving 16,000 words daily. This does not begin to compare with our receptive ability when T. W.* comes home from a bridge fight.

Welcome "A Birdie." You must have considerable literary discernment for you read our column. On the other hand you are a crabbed old soul. We are afraid to go near the golf course for fear we shall incur your displeasure. We do not know who you are but we do know who pays your salary, if you know what we mean. With a little sunshine on the greens, you should appear almost human.

Remember the Benefit ball game for the children's school. It is to be held on May 2nd and a committee has been named to draw up the theme of the monster pageant which proceeds the game.

THE PERSONAGE OF THE WEEK

Captain Walter T. Scott, Infantry: for the policy in effect at the Boop Shop which permits efficient service without the sacrifice of courtesy and the interest of the customer.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

It happens once a year. There isn't anything that anyone can do about it. For in spite of rains scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, its is Spring! And Arrow Collar men from Great Neck turn to thoughts of night maneuvers involving the use of the combined arms.

Speaking of maneuvers, Supervisor Diller reports that the Hunt last Sunday was a huge success; no one fell off. In noting the absence of "croppers," or whatever they call it when you do a nose dive, we refuse positively to attach any significance to the fact that we, personally, did not attend.

Our colleagues in "C" Company merit commendation for their progress in mass singing. The liason and morale officer that we lent them is doing a great and noble work. Deacon Deadrick, affectionately known as "Eddie," is also an accomplished mass singer. The esprit of the Company Officers' Class should be high indeed.

Remember that Program Guessing Contest we recently had with the Fourth Section? One of the brave handed us the following "data" (you pronounce it, we can't):

Time Allotment.

Archduke Austin, "Three Weeks Field Fortification, because these boys will have to dig."

Kleagle Klovaric, "Two weeks 'Care of the Feet,' because they'll need their dogs in good shape to get out of the way."

Crusader Coray, "One month's study of Articles of War" (no reason given).

We havent any particular inferiority complex about being low ranking, but we feel that Major Marr rubbed it in a bit when he said a battery has, "One officer and three lieutenants." Still, we do admire the Field Artillery's ability to, "Fire through a wire." Speaking of acrobatics, erstwhile Cheer Leader Bollenback leaves us groggy with that one about the officer who followed the colors down the flag staff with a flash light. Those St. Louis lads certainly do know how to come down the pole!

That modern Minute Man, Lieutenant Colonel "A", who always leads the 1st Blue Battalion to an approved solution, gets our morale. He defeats us! At 12:59, he mounts his prancing mustang and lopes toward Cusseta. Ae he bounds along, like Tom Mix, he memorizes the terrain, recalling that it all depends on the situation.

By 12:59½, he has established a C. P. at the Dairy. Just to pass away that remaining thirty seconds before 1:00 P. M., he recites the Encyclopedio Brittanica completely through, and half of Army Regulations, before BnX calls, "Up"! The Colonel certainly shakes a mean time schedule. That field soldier knows his clocks, and we don't mean hosiery!

SECRETARY OF ARMY AND NAVY CLUB

Lieut. Harry Hanson, formerly of the 15th Tank Battalion and a grad of last year's class, company officers course, is now secretary of the Army and Navy Club in Manila. The reason we know it is that the club recently renewed subscription to the News. Congratulations, Harry, you have a good detail, we'll say.

OUR CLASSIFIED ADS

Our classified ad column is growing every week. Last week a certain lady on the Post put in an ad and made the sale that very afternoon. There is a small fee charged for ads in this column; will advise upon request. An ad in the News is well worth the price; immediate results will be obtained.

THE YEAR BOOK OF THE 29th INFANTRY

A copy of the year book "The Sand-Spur" published by the 29th Infantry reached the office of the News the other day. Its arrival interfered with the routine of the office somewhat, but the time "taken out" was well worth it. We desire to thank the staff for this splendid work of art. The staff was as follows: Editor-in-chief, Capt. A. J. Nichols; business manager, Capt. P. R. Goode; associate editor, Lt. J. B. Colson; art editor, Sgt. F. C. Davis; staff photographer, Sgt. C. S. Hopkins.

The book is very neatly arranged with small headings pictures at the head of certain pages which depicts the different stations where the demonstration outfit has made its home since it wsa organized in 1901 at Fort Sheridan. Among the features is a splendid history of the regiment. We desire to quote the last paragraph thereof: "The history of the 29th Infantry is unblemished, its integrity unquestioned and its ambition has been always to serve our flag, honorably and faithfully. Under the exacting and extensive duty required of it here at the Mecca of the Infantryman its morale is, and has been, high. The 29th Infantryman asks nothing more than a continued opportunity to maintain and strengthen his organization's reputation as the "Demonstration Regiment."

MANY RESERVATIONS FOR CHARITY BRIDGE PARTY

Quite a number of ladies of Fort Benning have made reservations for tables for the charity bridge party to be held on Thursday, April 12th, at the Polo Club. Those who have reserved tables up ot this time are Mrs. E. T. Collins, Mrs. Waine Archer, Mrs. H. E. Pulliam, Mrs. R. C. Van Vliet, Mrs. B. G. Ferris, Mrs. Mabbutt, Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. March, Mrs. Reichle, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Stayer, Mrs. Parkin, Mrs. Torrey, Mrs. Overfelt, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Bissell, Mrs. Drollinger, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Ahrends, and Mrs. Phelps.

Phone either Mrs. Bootz or Mrs. Torrey for reservations.

SWIMMING SUITS

The Post Exchange has just made an important announcement to the effect that the main store has on display some excellent swimming costumes. That's another sign of warm weather. We already have it, however, regardless of signs.

Many of the old-time clinging vines now have granddaughters who are ramblers.

SPECIAL NUMBER OF THE INFANTRY JOURNAL

The Infantry Journal, published in Washington, will print a special "Fort Bening" issue for the month of June. Capt. J. E. Wharton is in charge of this number, and from the table of contents it will be an excellent book to have on file for future reference of your stewgent days. An announcment is made elsewhere in this issue.

AN INTERESTING ARTICLE BY MAJOR HUME

The News has just received a very interesting article pertaining to the history of Fort Benning written by Major E. E. Hume, asst. surgeon at the Post Hospital. He is also attending the advanced class, Infantry School, in addition to his other duties. Major Hume has made a very thorough study of Fort Benning, and we're sure that every one here will be interested to know that he has discovered some unknown facts about the territory in and around the Chattahoochie Valley. It is not generally known that Colonel John Tate, of the British regular army, died on the east bank of the Chattahoochie River, and he was buried in what is now the Commandant's lawn. The exact spot of the grave is not known.

It is to be regretted that this article did not reach the office in time for publication this week. It is very long, and it is contemplated to run this story in two parts in the near future.

ACADEMY BOYS VISIT BENNING

The cadets from the Georgia Military Academy were here to witness the big demonstration put on by the 2nd Battalion of the 29th last Monday. Last Sunday afternoon at a formation at the Officers Club, Capt. F. E. Ambrose of the academic dept. of the Inf. School was presented a gold fountain pen and pencil with the wording "G. M. A. to F. E. A." engraved thereon. Capt. Ambrose has visited at the academy several times and recently made a very interesting talk on the "Use of Machine Guns" to the students.

NEW QUARTERMASTER FOR FORT BENNING

Colonel Charles L. Willard, now on duty in the office of the Quartermaster-General has been ordered to Fort Benning, effective June 1. He will relieve Col. Warfield, who has been ordered to Brooklyn Army Base as assistant to the Quartermaster there.

SNAPPY RIDING BOOTS

We notice from our travel around town that the Kayser-Lilienthal Inc., has added a new line of ladies' riding boots to their well stocked shoe department. If Kayser-Lilienthal keeps on adding different departments and equipment for the army ladies his store will soon develope into a downtown headquarters for the Fort Benning ladies.

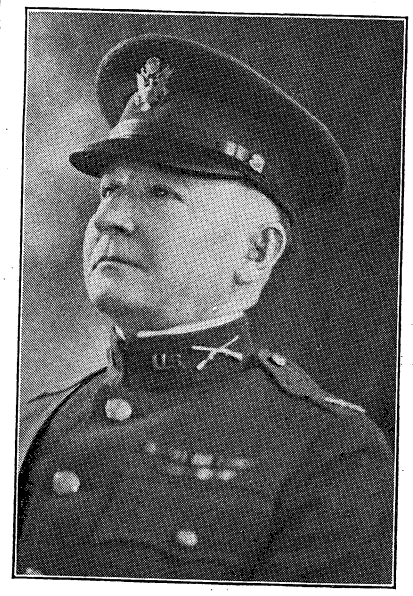
ORDERED TO PORTO RICO



Colonel G. W. Helms

Colonel Helms, who has been executive officer of the Infantry School for over four years will leave soon for New York where he will sail for Porto Rico. He will command the 65th Infantry at that place. Prior to his arrival at Fort Benning, he was in command of the 12th Infantry at Camp Meade, Md.

FILM REVEALS SECOND DAVID AND JONATHAN

Many times in the past historians have stressed the glorious friendship that existed between Prince Seti, Son of Pharaoh Menepthah and Ana, the Phoenician, Prince of Tyre. At the time the story took place Egypt was the center of the civilization of the world. Five thousand years before the birth of Christ she ruled the fashions and customs of every nation and her coinage was the currency of the known world. Tyre was the merchant of the world while Egypt was the buyer, and Ana, Prince of Tyre, came to Egypt to study the arts and the secrets of government.

A strange intimacy sprang up between the two princes and throughout their lives the two men remained close friends and kept the two nations in profitable amity.

"Moon of Israel" does not deal with the adventures of Ana, but he is shown as the friend and advisor of Seti, who, through contact with the broadminded Phoenician, is far from antagonistic to the Israelite slaves. Hi sis the watchful eye that guards the two lovers, and his the hand that enables them to reach eventually happiness.

In the film the role of Ana is taken by Ferdinand Onna, and the actor shows the true characteristics of his prototype. The role of Prince Seti is taken by Adelqui Millar, and that of Merapi, the Hebrew slave, by Maria Corda. Arlette Marchal is the Princess Userti. The story, which is identical with the original by Sir H. Rider Haggard, was directed by Michael Curtiz. The picture comes to the Benning Theater next Friday.

THE NEWS IS GROWING

This paper is growing in every way. Just the other day we received a money order from a lady in Louisiana for a year's subscription. How she happened to know about the News is a mystery. Perhaps her son, or some relative is at Benning. The circulation has almost doubled in the past six months, our advertising is of the highest in quality, as only reliable ads are accepted by this paper. The news features of the paper has become of a high quality, also. We hope to live up to the fact that this is the "biggest and best paper of its kind in the service."

RED CROSS OFFICER ORDERED TO CANTON

For the purpose of making a survey and report to Washington headquarters of the American Red Cross Major Frank Green, field director of war department Red Cross work, stationed at Fort Benning, left Tuesday night for Canton, Ga., where a section of Cherokee County was swept by a cyclone Monday night that killed five persons and resulted in injury of about 15 others and caused considerably devastation over the area.

As is known Major Green has been stationed at Fort Benning for some years in charge of war department work of the Red Cross and has had considerable experience in survey and aid work in disasters of this character.

SGT. SMITH TRANSFERRED TO HUMPHREYS

Sergeant Charles W. Smith, of Company "A", 7th Engineers, has been transferred in grade to the 13th Engineers, with station at Fort Humphreys, Va. Smith joined the Engineers at Fort Benning during the summer of 1925, during his stay here he constructed the new mess hall and recreation room in the Engineer Area.

NOT ENOUGH NEWS

This is one of the few issues when the News went to press without quite enough short items from the various companies at Fort Bennnig. If your company isn't in this issue, don't blame the News. With a twelve-page issue, it is sometimes hard to find space for all the news, but with a 16-page issue, it takes heaps of "galleys" to put out the paper, if you know whatI mean.

RETURN TO BENNING AFTER LEAVE

Captain and Mrs. H. C. Barclay have returned to Fort Benning after spending two weeks visiting at Augusta and at their home in northern New York. Captain Barclay has recently been assigned to the I[illegible] D. pending the opening of the school [illegible] 29. He will attend the [illegible] officers' course next year.

COLONEL GOODRICH PROMOTED

Colonel George E. Goodrich, post inspector, has recently received his promotion, the nomination for which was made some weeks ago. He is now adorned with two new spread eagles. Col. Goodrich has been inspector at Benning having graduated from the Inf. School, advanced class in 1925. We hasten to extend congratulations to the Colonel, who has been in the service since the days of '98.

McNALLY PROMOTED

Staff Sergeant James H. McNally of the 7th Engineers is promoted to the grad of Technical Sergeant, and attached to Company "A" 7th Engineers, for duty. Mac better known as "Uncle Jimmie" is due for retiremen during the latter part of April. He claims that he represents the Bon-Ton or Cream of the 9rmy so official Washington says.

such image-breaking biographers as Von Wyck Brooks and Rupert Hughes have proved themselves to be Gamaliel Bradford is spectacular in his balance and sanity and his willingness to record virtues and good influences of men who happen not to think as he does.

Mention was made of the noticeable indifference to religion. The fashion among the younger generation is to deny any leaning in that direction yet these young, earnest, usually sincere creative artists might learn to their advantage that some phase of religious experience is little less than universal and that to overlook so vital a point is to draw a warped picture. Perhaps the material and mechanical age has much to do with this. Religion is barred from schools lest they be called sectarian—and in that fear education almost disowns the realm of finer emotions.

The study closed with the question as to how long this newest realism will last. Already the reading public longs to have done with over-emphasis on sex, with grossness of all kinds, with cynicism and ultra-sophistication and escape from the muddle of life to idealism, even to romanticism. The United States, easily the most materialistic country on earth, will doubtless sometime evolve into a literature which will consider the universe as something else than merely ponderable. Zona Gale and Willa Cather among the novelists, Sara Teasdale and Edna St. Vincent Millay and Edwin Arlington Robinson among the poets, Eugene O'Neill, the dramatist, and Gamaliel Bradford, the biographer, have already shown how it can be done."

"Dwight L. Moody, A Worker in Souls," by Gamaliel Bradford, was the biography chosen to be reviewed as it shows a fine departure from the general run of present-day biographies. The author shows in an admirable way the progress and the power of this great burly Anglo-Saxon who preached the simple old-fashioned soul-saving religion which has brought peace to thousands who were converted by him.

Mrs. J. L. Collins very ably reviewed Willa Cather's "Death Comes for the Archbishop." This story, laid on the mesas, in the mountains, and in the desert of the Southwestern frontier at the time when New Mexico had just been annexed to the United States, deals with the trials and tribulations, the dangers and difficulties, the hazards and happiness of a young priest, transplanted from the culture of an age-old European civilization into a primitive frontier life amid Indians and Mexicans. This fine young priest eventually becomes the Archbishop, beloved throughout the length and breadth of his diocese who when he was retired and free to go back to his old country found that this new one in which he had had a part in the making, has a hold on stronger than all others and he choses to live on where he had struggled in his youth and busily, joyously wait till death comes for the Archbishp. The traditions and legends of the Indians are charmingly told by the faithful Indian guide who accompanies the Archbishop on his trips to preach, christen, baptize, marry or bury a sthe occasion may be.

Mrs. Peyton reviewed Edwin Arlington Robinson's "Tristram." How wonderful it was to have this poet interpret the greatest poem of America's greatest poet. It is inspiring to realize that this exquisite long romantic poem, a modern legend of one of the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table has been this year written in realistic, material America. The story, told in simple language of entrancing beauty ,is of the love of Isolt of the white hands ,Isolt of Brittany for Tristram, gallant, brave, young Knight, and of Tristram's love of Isolt of the dark eyes, Isolt of Ireland, who returns his great love. It is the eternal triangle but not handled in the modern "eternal way." There is love and hate, honor and treachery, faith and hope, turmoil and strife, anguish and remorse, intense suffering and extreme happiness —and finally peace—so exquisitely handled by an artist in the use of words.

This wonderful review was a fitting conclusion to a year of rather extensive study of contemporary literature. Under Mrs. Peyton's leadership this club has grown from a small group to a membership of near a hundred. Many were the words of appreciation spoken to this excellent leader by those who felt that the study of the year had meant much to them. Mrs. Peyton very graciously expressed her gratitude to her program committee, Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. Winton, Mrs. Goode, and Mrs. Vinson for their cooperation in making whatever success the club has enjoyed.

VIRGINIA C. MOONEY

A daughter, Virginia Carleton, was born to Mr. and Mrs. William D. Mooney, Jr., of Atlanta, on March 18th. Many members of the Garrison at Fort Benning will remember Mrs. Mooney, who was formerly Miss Peggy Kent, as one of the leaders of the younger set while her father, Colonel W. A. Kent, was Post Adjutant.

FOOTBALL DINNER

On March 21st, the members of the 24th Infantry football team gave a post season banquet in Mess Hall No. 3. Each member of the team had invited one officer as his guest of the evening.

After a delicious dinner furnished by the mess personnel of Co. G, and some excellent music by Sgt. Wood's orchestra, Sgt. Powell of Co. G, the toastmaster of the football team, rose to make a few introductory remarks. It appeared that Sgt. Powell had received very belated orders to act as toastmaster, so after a few words of appreciation the gratitude, he began searching for a word that would include all the things that the men were indebted for. He finally selected "that which we have," which apparently covered a multitude of things. It met with general applause and "that" was from then on referred to by all the speakers.

Col. Johnson spoke on the benefits of athletics to men in the military service, the exceptional ability of the 24th Inf. in all sports, and the necessity of team play and good sportsmanship in all their games.

Major Butcher was the next speaker of the evening. The major had attended purely in the role of a spectator and a request for a speech came as a considerable shock. The major, however, covered himself with glory by telling one of the best and most apropos jokes of the "didn't-expect-to-be-called-on" speaker that we have ever head. We suggest that all officers get in touch with Major Butcher.

Colonel Johnson Presents Gift

Another surprise came when Col. Johnson pulled out of his pocket two gold minature footballs which were presented to Capt. Craig by the members of the football and basketball team as token of their appreciation and esteem for all that he had done for them as coach of the two teams. Capt. Craig, visibly touched by these gifts, thanked the men for their kindness and at the same time expressed his appreciation for the whole-hearted cooperation that he had received from the regimental commander, and from the officers of his headquarters in connection with his duties as athletic officer.

Capt. Helsley was the next "didn't-expect-to-be-called-on" speaker, and in no uncertain terms so announced. As host to the large gathering, Capt. Helsley felt that entitled him to eat his meal in peace. Judging from the excellent dinner that he laid out for his guests, we were of the same opinion. However, the captain demonstrated that he could not only get up an excellent dinner, but he could finish it off with a good speech in addition.

The toastmaster announced that it was the desire of the men who had won their 24th Inf. jerseys, to form a society and requested the paproval of the regimental commander ,and asked that he appoint a committee for the purpose of drawing up the laws of the organization.

Monograph

The last monograph on a military subject for this year in the 24th Inf. was delivered on March 23rd, by Capt. W. B. Tuttle on "The Boxer Uprising." Capt. Tuttle, who recently returned from service in China had, in addition to excellent data on his individual subject, a comprehensive knowledge of China, its people and their customs.

Capt. Tuttle briefly sketched the past history of this remarkable nation, touching upon their advance stage of civilization as instanced largely by their inventions, many of which had materially effected the history of the entire world.

The influence of the Queen Dowager upon the Boxers, their rise to power and finally the rather uncoordinated drive of the Allies upon Peking and its subsequent relief, were vividly told.

Capt. Tuttle interspersed his talk with many delightful anecdotes pertinent to some phase of his subject. Capt. Tuttle's monograph was unquestionably one of the best of fthe entire course.

Regimental Boxing Championship

The finals of the regimental boxing championship were held at the Post Gym on last Thursday evening. That show surpassed anything that has been held here for some time. There wasn't a bout that didn't bring the spectators to their feet, and there wasn't a bout where the two contestants didn't put all their ability, punch and stamina into their efforts to win the coveted 24th Infantry athletic jersey, and the ten points towards their company cup.

To show his interest in the boxing of his regiment, Col. Johnson agreed to act as referee for these final bouts. He was assisted by Lieut. Haynes, 29th Infantry. The results of the finals are as follows: Ancrum, Co. B, wo nover Dupress, Co. F, by a knockout; Cox, Co. E, won over Blouin, Co. A, after four rounds, by decision; James, Co. G, won over Warren of Hqrs. Co. by decision. The fourth bout of the evening was between Heard, Co. C, and Nelson, Co. C. The former outweighed Nelson considerably, and it was only a question of time until Heard would give Nelson the K. O. and during the third round Heard landed on Nelson's chin, who took the count. Nelson deserves a good deal of credit for putting up the game fight, which he knew he couldnt' win. The fifth bout was between two clever fighters, Harris, Co. C, and Ganiey, Co. A. This was one of the best bouts of the show. The decision was awarded to Harris.

The last fight was between Thompson, Co. E, and Williamson, Co. B. This was a stiff battle, and Williamson proved to be too strong for Thompson. He won on decision. The awards to the fighters in the regiment will be made shortly after one or two bouts, which were unavoidably delayed.

HAPPY HEARTS TAKE FOUR IN A ROW FROM CUBAN GIANTS

Showing mid-season form, the 24th Infantry baseball team played rings around the Brooklyn Cuban Giants, colored professionals, to make a clean sweep of the four-game series played here during the past week.

First Game

Saturday's game was played in a slow rain but fans braved rain and weather to watch the home team win the opening game 7 to 2.

Leonard did mound duty for the Happy Hearts ,and he kept the Giants well in check except in the fifth inning when they scored two runs.

With the score tied in the fifth, Johnson hit one to the fence with the bases drunk, putting the game on ice for the 24th Infantry.

Batteries—24th Inf., Leonard and Hampton; Giants, Dudley and Campbell. Score, Inf. 7; Giants 2.

Second Game

The Giants took an early lead in Sunday's game, scoring two runs in the first inning. In the second inning the Happy Hearts went on a batting rampage to register three markers in the run column. With the score 6 to 4 in favor tfohe Inf., the Giants started a rally in the ninth. "Cat" Hayward took Vance's place n the mound when he was injured in the eight inning, steadied after he had allowed two runners to get on the path, forcing the next two batters to pop weakly to the infield. Score, 24th Inf., 6; Giants, 4.

Batteries—Vance, Hayward and Gilchrist; Giants, Carter and Campbell.

Third Game

With Stokes pitching shutout ball backed by errorless support the Happy Hearts won a hard fought game from the Giants Monday afternoon 3 to 1. Stringbean William pitched great ball for the Giants after the first inning. The first three batters to face him in the first inning hit safely, two runs being scored, onl yone more hit was made off his delivery during the remainder of the game. Stokes pitching for the Happy Hearts gave up only two hits.

Score: 24th, 3; Giants, 1.

Batteries—Stokes and Hampton; Williams and Washington.

Fourth Game

The last game of the series was a nip and tuck affair with darkness finding the soldiers holding a one run lead in the sixth inning.

Leonard started for the Happy Hearts but was relieved by Marberry Hayward in the fifth ining when the going got too ruff for him.

Hayward stopped the Giant rally and held them helpless during the remainder of the game.

Score—24th Inf., 5; Giants, 4.

Batteries—Leonard, Haywood and Hampton; Wheeler and Campbell.

Company "E"

We are very glad to announce we have two nice looking men off furlough this week—LaLonde and Neckelson, both state they had a wonderful time. Glad to have you back boys. Pvt. Culpepper looks awful worried now days. Don't know what the trouble is unless it is this—his girl refuses to write him until he comes home, train fare is $15.30 home and he only has $15.25. Too bad old boy may be you will be a nickel ahead pay-day.

The Mess Sgt. is on furlough and in his place we have Pfc. Pratt, recently transferred to the outfit that leads the way, and boy, let me tell you everybody will have to get new clothes because he feeds so good they are all outgrowing the clothes they have. Pvt. McCoy is singing it won't be long now. Where are you going Mc .to town? You have three years to do and I know you have not the kale to buy out. Better stay around a while. Pvt. Yuratich wishes to announce he has a new dance he has lately got up called the "Hey Charleston Hey." Any one wishing to learn this may do so by calling on him at his private office. See him for further particulars. Personally I don't know where i is located.

Pvt. Blitch one of our husky soldiers, has transferred to the I. S. D. and all the boys are broken-hearted over his departure. Attached is one of his photos.

—J. R. H.

Company "G"

Corporal Johnson took second place in the Old Soldiers race. He and another old soldier showed us young bucks what old age could do.

"Possum" Prophet won 2nd place in the obstacle race and that isn't the first canvas that "Posum" has been under. He has seen some good shows in his days.

The Officer in charge of the Stadium is trying to get Pvt. Forbus on S. D. at the Stadium pushing a "Georgia Bucket." Forbus won first place in the wheelbarrow race. Good work Forbus, that was some load you carried.

Pvt. Le Blanc was sent to Washington, D. C., to the Music School. After a few days in school the instructor asked him if he brought his lessons with him. Le Blanc replied "No sir." So he came back to Fort Benning to get them.

Sergeant Wilson sure plays a good game of "checkers." His last move was to Block "W". We are glad to have you and your family with us Grady.

Sergeant Folta has taken a three-month furlough and 90 days rations, so I guess he will stay the limit. We hope you have a good time Sheik.

Pvt. Kovish headed for tse wamps the other day. He had a suitcase in one hand and a "White Sheet" in the other. Luck to you Joe.

Hill, V. is singing "It won't be long now." Just a few more baths and I'll be out. Don't take Johnnie Gouldman with you Hill."

Corporal Hensley was a "short timer" Sunday but he is a "long timer" now. Three years is a long time Corporal.

Among the shortest of "short timers" in "G" Co. are Maynord, Duplechin and Bivens. Bette rtake on another stack boys.

Cook Roland said that he didn't see why Wingate of Company "H" couldn't be transferred to Company "G". He thinks that he can make a good cook out of him.

Rimes has lost control of his pocket book, we suggest a portable safe, Rimes.

"Regulation" Manley is back on his hair snipping job. Glad to see you back Ben. General Inspection isn't far off.

Pvt. Fry is sure glad to see his side kick Covington back. Welcome to our midst, Icam.

Walinski's girl to her Dad: "My sweetheart is coming tonight."

Her Dad: "Yes, and I'm going to sit on him."

Wallies' Girl: "Oh no Dad! I'll do that myself."

Foster to the C. O.: Sir, how long can a man live without brains?

C. O.: I don't know Foster, how old are you?

Notables of "G" Company:

Cadet Newcomb: "Say, chap, if you are so anxious to get posted on geography, why don't you try going to college?"

I. S. D. NOTES

Pvt. 1cl. Ocie C. Bicknell has re-uped for three more years. He's taking a three month furlough to Tennessee and points nearby that state. He's hoping that for the sake of the Detachment's good name he and John Heisler do not meet.

Captain Hugh Barcley of the 24th Infantry has been loaned to us during the Summer months to replace Captain K. L. Berry. Naturally this has created a great deal of interest but this interest is as nothing compared to the curiousity and ohs and ahs that was evident upon the inspection of Captain Barcley's new Ford coupe. This is one thing that Captain Berry and Captain Barclay have not in common—a new Ford.

Pvt. 1cl. Peter Wheeler has put in for transfer to the Finance. Pete has a good head for figures and a lot of other qualifications that should make him fit in entirely with the practices and policies of the money paying organization, but we are sorry to loose him and wish him luck.

Pvt. 1cl. Henry Walker has returned from a furlough spent in Lodi, Texas, wherever that may be. He says he had a good time. Had one half while away and got drunk three time on it. Almost got married and he "bedurned if he didn't have enough money to get back on, on the cars."

The Spring days have evidently touched the Detachment in its poetic spot. Flowers are being planted. Grass watered and trimmed. Tents brightened wieh paints and new curtains, and Pleasant Buckner bought a bowl of gold fish.

Concerning the after life(Harry Stein says, "Of course there is a hell, where else could all the business go!"

2nd BATTALION, 29th INFANTRY STAGES BIG DEMONSTRATION LAST MONDAY

(By Lieut. R. H. Brown, 29th Inf.)

The Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, at full war strength, on March 26th put on an unrehearsed demonstration of a "Battalion in Defence." One Platoon and Howitzer Company and the Medical Detachment were attached for this demonstration.

The demonstration, different from all others in that there were no preliminary rehearsals, no carefully worked out details, had two aspects: first, the organization of a center of resistence, and second, to see if this could be done within the limit specified in Engineer's tables.

The troops were not highly trained engineer troops, but green troops as far as this type of work was concerned. Unskilled in the use of the pick and shovel, 90% of the troops had never seen a center of resistance organized and dug in. They had never dug a trench or a machine gun emplacement, a C. P. or an Aid Station. Some training had been devoted to organization of companies for thi stype of work, laying of the trace, drawing of tools and designation of squad sectors.

On March 25th, after a retrograde movement the battalion had been bivouaced in the area east of Rivet Ridge. The morning of the 26th, the troops were given a hot breakfast and a cooked lunch. Extra ammunition was constructively issued.

At 7:00 o'clock, Major Bowen opened the envelope containing the area of the problem and the Regimental order, giving the sector, right and left boundaries and troops on the right and left.

Major Bowen, Battalion Commander, and Major Young, Sxecutive Officer of the Battalion, hade a hasty estimate of the situation. Major Bowen then left on reconnaisance.

Major Young established, from the maps, the engineer tool distributing points and the ammunition D. P.

At 8:30 a. m. Major Bowen had completed his reconnaisance and was ready to issue the order. At 8:52 a. m. the order was issued. Runners were sent back and the troops were started forward.

The main line of resistance was on Wells and Craig Hills with Company "E" organizing the right strong point on Craig Hill and Company "F" the left strong point on Wells Hill. Company "G" organized the Battalion reserve line on Elliott Hill—Smith Hill.

Once on the ground the troops went to work in earnest. They were out to show that it could be done, that they could do it and that they could do it faster than was laid down in the engineers tables. Practically every outfit was from one-quarter to three-quarters of an hour ahead of the engineers tables.

Tools were available for the troops by 8:20 a. m. Before this order had been issued. As the troops went forward into position they drew their tools. Engineer Tool D. P. was located so as to eliminate long carrying by the troops and tools were laid out in such a manner that companies could continue forward in from 8 to 10 minutes after arrival at the D. P.

Company "F" organizing the left strong point began to dig at 10 a. m., all three platoons were started at 10:15 a. m. Each platoon dug 6 firing bays, 40 feet long and 6, communicating trenches 42 feet long. One platoon finished at 1:20 o'clock. At 3:45 P. M. the entire company was dug in and camouflaged. Company "E" on Craig Hill organized the right strong point. They started to dig in at 10:15 o'clock. One platoon was completed at 2 o'clock. The strong point was organized and ready for attack at 4 o'clock. Company "G" the battalion reserve Co., struck hard pan in all their platoon sectors. They commenced digding in at 10 o'clock, at 2 o'clock it became evident that the left platoon on Elliott Hill would not be able to finish within the allotted time. As squads from the other platoons finished their sectors they were sent to the left platoon. The two right platoons were completed at 3:55 o'clock and 4:30 o'clock. They would have finished sooner had they not aided the left platoon. The left platoon was about 85% completed at 4:30.

At 10:10 o'clock, 900 yards of wire had been placed on the forward positions. By 11:15, 1,500 yards of wire had been placed in the wire zone. Company "H" completed 48 M. G. emplacements and erected 1,500 yards of double apron wire by 3:45 p. m.

The Howitzer Company was dug in and ready to deliver one-pounder and trench mortars fire at 1:30 o'clock.

The Battalion Aid Station was under cover and ready to operate at 1:15 o'clock. Company Aid men were with the companies and litter bearers were ready to bring back the wounded. The Battalion C. P. was dug in and communication with the O. P. and with supporting Artillery established at 12:45 P. M.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR MOVIES NEXT FRIDAY

Moving picture fans at Fort Benning, and there are many of them, have a treat in store in the picture "Moon of Israel" which will be played at Benning theaters next Friday, which is also "Good Friday." Not since the "Four Horsemen" has there been a picture which has brought forth as many stars as this production. Maria Corda, who plays the part of Merapi, is now one of the best known screen acrtsses that have come to this country from Europe. This picture tells the story of the exodus of the Jews from Egypt. In all of history there has never been a more thrilling episode than this, wherein toiling Israelites pushed blindly against their slow moving wagons, cast scared looks backwards for the pursuit they know will soon follow.

The Main Theater orchestra, under the able direction of Captain George L. King, will play special music for this wonderful picture. Among the musical themes will be music from Handel's "Messiah Elijah" by Mendelssohn. Several special numbers have also been composed for this picture by Capt. King. See theater page.

TO INAUGURATE READING COURSE FOR OFFICERS

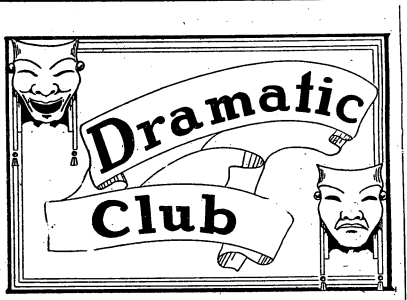
Approximately two hundred selected books, equally divided between cultural and military works, will be used in a reading course for officers, in the belief that many would welcome such a guide for their leisure reading, if made interesting, progressive in character and not burdensome.

The schedule of reading will be in phases corresponding to the military phases of the average officer's life, such as his entrance into the army as a Second Lieutenant, his attendance at the Special Service Schools, Command and General Staff School and the Army War College. Reading for the periods between attendance at these various schools will be designed to prepare the officer for the course which he will pursue.

The Superintendent of the United States Military Academy, the Commandants of the Army War College, Command and General Staff School, the Special Service Schools, the Librarian of the Congressional Library and the Commissioner o fthe Bureau of Education have been asked to submit recommendations as to the books which might properly be included in the course.

Recruit: "Why do you prefer to enlist single men?"

Recruiting Officer: "Because married men have gotten so used to losing battles that they make the poorest kind of soldiers."



Saturday night the Dramatic Club will get back into its normal stride with its usual program of three one-act plays presented for members and their guests. "Fore," a very clever golf comedy, is being directed by Lt. Col. G. C. Marshall. "Danger" is a most unusual vehicle in that it was written for radio broadcast and its stage presentation, under the direction of Major Tom Fox, is therefore a unique experimentation. "The Other Kitty," a farce, while a one-act play, is of the sort the Dramatic Club should seek more frequently, for it is not only clever but gives employment to a larger cast than is often found in short numbers. The program will be presented in the 29th Infantry Theater and all members are especially urged to be in their seats prior to the rising of the curtain at 8:30 P. M. So far this year the one-act programs have started on the minute scheduled and a large inrush of late comers as the curtain rises causes much confusion which is not only unfair to the casts but to those members who are already in their seats.

"The Butter and Egg Man," the three-act comedy to be presented publically on April 13th and 14th promises to be one of the club's most successful "big shows." It had a long and most successful run at the Longacre Theater in New York and from all appearances the local production is going to be "bigger and better than ever."

MASTER SGT. WILLIAM C. REDDY

Service Company, 29th Inf.

Reddy—Ready? Always, for never was a name that fitted better. This energetic soldier has the reputation of being always able to "produce the goods".

Master Sergeant Reddy first enlisted on January 8th, 1907, choosing the then toughest of them all—The Engineers, s rving two enlistments with them.

On December 5th, 1913, he first took on with the 29th Infantry and has from the very beginning shown those qualities which inevitably result in promotion—as a result he is now master sergeant.

Master Sergeant Reddy is best known in the Regiment as having been for many years the First Sergeant of Company "F". With them he is known and loved as the "Finest First Sergeant in the Army." When he was promoted to Master Sergeant there were many who viewed his departure with regret, having heretofore looked upon him as a "father," as it were. We know that there is a soft place in his heart for the old outfit, as is evidenced by hismaniacal rooting in athletic competitions involving either Company "F" or the 2nd Battalion .

The Service Company has received Sgt. Reddy with open arms and is with him to the last man.

—J. P. Morgan.

ILLINOIS OPENS SERIES TODAY

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTED THREE PLAYS LAST SATURDAY

"Butter and Egg Man" Next on Program

The plays presented by the Dramatic Club last Saturday evening brought to a successful close, not only the month of March, but also the series of one act plays which have been presented by the Club during the present academic year. It is difficult to say which of the three plays presented had overcome most difficulties as all had suffered repeated attacks of sickness by members of the cast, directors et al., but it is even more difficult to say which of the three was the most successful.

"Fore," a golf comedy, directed by Lieut. Colonel G. C. Marshall, was a modern version of the eternal triangle—i nthis particular instance a golfing husband, a golf champion lover and a wife, an undeveloped golf prospect. Mrs. W. L. Roberts as "Myra Haynes" the golf widow, was so attractive that she had apparently been able to keep "Harold F. Jones" played by Captain H. J. Collins, of fthe course a great deal of the time. Captain John K. Rice as "Henry Haynes" suffering from such a bad attack of "golfitis" that he could think of nothing else, was excellent. All together it was a very clever comedy and the setting was one of the best seen here this year.

The second number, "Danger," was very much of an experiment. Intended for radio broadcasting, it was produced on a dark stage so that the characters were never seen. It was not only an interesting but a highly successful venture into a new field. Directed by Major Tom Fox, the cast included Major E. F. Rice as "Jack—a young man," Mrs. J. K. Rice as "Mary—a young woman" and Captain Robert Presnell as "Mr. Bax—an elderly man." There was no opportunity to appeal to anything but the ear of the audience and this was very well done. The sound effects were most skillfully handled and were very realistic.

"The Other Kitty," a mighty clever farce, directed by Captain A. J. Nichols, closed the program. As a farce should, it started nowhere and ended nowhere, but in between we found some exceedingly difficult and laughable situations, a particularly good feminine impersonation, and an imitation drunkard who would most assuredly be convicted before any court in the country—police or otherwise. The cast included Lieutenant Woodson Hocker as "Ting" the bell hop; Mrs. E. M. Almond as "Jane"; Lieutenant Fred C. Caswell as "William Winkler"; Lieut. Thomas Gailbreth as "Bobbie Baxter" and incidentally, the Other Kitty ;Major Stephen H. MacGregor as "Benjamin More'; and Mrs. James E. Cole as "Kitty".

The next and also the last appearance of the Dramatic Club for this year will be the public presentation of George S. Kaufman's well known three-act comedy, "The Bute rand Egg Man," originally prooduced at the Longacre Theater in

NOTRE DAME SERIES PRODUCE REAL TREAT FOR FANS

Losing the opening game of the series to Notre Dame after a fast and exciting nine-inning battle, the home team came back to win the second contest to even the series. The third and last game of tl.e series was played too late to be published in this edition, but the first two games played were pronounced by all who saw them as two as well played and hard-fought games as ever witnessed on Gowdy Field.

First Game

Tuesday's game was a nine-inning pitchers battle between Walsh and Ellis, with the visiting pitcher holding a slight edge over the Doughboy. Both twirlers were given excellent support, several spectacular plays being made by both teams.

Three fast double plays by the visiting infield killed three doughboy rallies that looked like sure scores.

To "Young Ed" Walsh, visiting pitcher goes the lion's share of the laurels. In the ninth inning with the score 1 to 1 and darkness settling over the field, Walsh hit one over the right field wall for a circuit clout and the winning run. An attempted Benning rally in the last frame failed to materialize.

Batteries—Ellis and Douglas; Walsh and Lodi.

	R.	H.	E.
Fort Benning	1	4	2
Notre Dame	2	8	1

With McGaha pitching shutout ball the Musketeers won the second game from the Fighting Irishmen, Wednesday afternoon, 3 to 2.

Both pitchers were in great form and the second game was anybody's old ball game until the last batter was retired in the ninth inning. Both twirlers were very stingy with their hits, Rust issued five while Ole Man McGaha gave out only three safeties during the seven innings he toiled. Morris relieved him holding the visitors hitless during the remainder of the game.

With the score tied in the ninth inning, Capt. McCord sent Pop Heckert in as a pinch hitter. Heckert walked, went to third when Rust heaved a wild one and scored the winning run when the Notre Dame catcher let a wild pitch get away from him.

Batteries—McGaha ,Morris and McCarthy and Douglas; Rust and Lodi.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Benning	3	5	4
Notre Dame	2	3	1

Due to the fact that this paper goes to press early Thursday afternoon we regret that we cannot give a summary of yesterday's game. Needless to say it was a good one.

Practically every merchant in Columbus with whom we talked this week states that business is much better now than it has been since the first of the year. Good weather generally brings in the business.

CO-CHAMPS OF BIG TEN CONFERENCE HERE FOR 2 GAMES

The Univ. of Illinois baseball team arrived today for two-game series with the Inf. School team. The visitors are the co-champs with Iowa of last year of the Big Ten Conference, and much is expected of the showing they will make on Gowdy Field this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon. Time of games has been announced in the Daily Bulletin.

News from the invader's camp states that weak stick work is the chief worry of Coach Lundgren. Eight veterans, six of whom are letter men, are numbered among the men who will be seen in action on Gowdy Field.

Stewart and Andrews are seasoned twirlers, while Harrington and Mueller are making their first trip south with the team. The letter men on the squad who are with the team are Snyder, Finn (team capt.), Shaw, Dorn and Sweeney.

MAJOR BOWEN LEAVES FT. BENNING FOR CHICAGO

Major Burton E. Bowen and family left Fort Benning last Wednesday morning by motor for Chicago, where Major Bowen will take over duties in charge of matters pertaining to the C. M. T. C. for the Sixth oCrps. He just recently received his orders for duty at the headquarters, 6th Corps. It was with much regret that the officers and enlisted men of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, bade him farewell. He has been stationed at Fort Benning about five years, the greater part of which time he has commanded the Second Battalion of the demonstration regiment.

As stated in the daily press last week, Major Bowen has successfully built up an organization esprit de corps within his battalion in every respect. During the past few years the battalion excelled in practically every athletic contest in which it engaged at Fort Benning. It was largely due to Major Bowen's personal interest and work that this was accomplished.

DISCHARGE BY PURCHASE

Corporal William G. Surgenor, of Company "A", 7th Engineers, is soon to be discharged by the purchase route. Willie—better known as the "Old Corp"—thinks that he can bette rhimself in civilian life, and we of the company concur with him in his decision, after the pitiful exhibition he put up in the file closers during the parade last Tuesday morning. The "Old Corp" just can't keep in step. He says that he is going back home and purchase him a whipple mule and grow cotton and gubbers, but we suspect that he will grow more weeds and burrs than cotton. After serving more than 12 years in the service in and out, mostly in, he has attained the grade of corporal, which speaks well for Willie's ability. Willie is a construction man one of the kind that pushes the wheel barrow, carries water and hunts the shade during the hot August days.

GLEE CLUB

GLEE CLUB TO GIVE AMERICAN OPERA

Foremost American Composers Work On April 18

On April 19th, Thursday evening, 8:30, Main Theater, the Infantry School Glee Club will present the Charles Wakefield Cadman Opera, "Lelawala."

What the Infantry School Glee Club had selected for their final presentation this year has been known for some time, but how they would present it has been the source of much speculation; even in the Club itself.

At their last meeting the Glee Club decided "Lelawala," a typically American Dramatic Opera by the best known American composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, will be staged as an opera, and not (in the diminutive sense) as an operetta.

The difference between Operetta and Opera is marked. An Operetta is a hybrid play, with music interpolated at certain intervals, principally for the purpose of ading color and rhythm. An Opera, is a term used to define a play set to music (or inversely; music set to a play), in which the story and music are made one.

"Lelawala" is such a work. In text it deals with early American life during the formative period of our history (1761). It tells the story of the adventures of our early settlers and their experiences with the Indians which habitated the country around the great Niagara Falls.

Color, atmosphere, drama, comedy and action appropriate to the period are present in Lelawala.

Incidentally, crashing into hehearsals of any kind of a show is the prime diversion of the writer. A few days ago, circumstances provided us with enough time to wander around to the Main Theater where a rehearsal of the stately minuet—a part of the Lelawala Opera—was underway. The directress gave assurance that at that point t was only half perfected. Opinions differ. It was the best bit of action to music that it has ever been my rortune to observe, at Fort Benning or elsewhere. If that part of the Opera is any indication of what the rest is like, the Infantry School Glee Club's production of Lelawala on Thursday, April 19th, is something to look forward to and plan for.

Full details will appear in an early edition of the News.

We hate to toot our own horn, of course, but we must take one good flow at it this week. The Commandant inspected the company kitchen and mess hall last week and found things in Sgt. Wadfords' usual ship-shape condition. He remarked to the Commanding Officer that it was the best he had seen for many moons and instructed the Colonel to tell the Company Commander that he was greatly pleased with the whole place.

This puts us in mind of the stables, as Wadford was our Stable Sergeant before he left off feeding horses and turned his energies to satisfying the appetites of the soldiers. The Executive Officer happened in the saddle room one day last month and found occasion to give us a citation on the uniformly good condition of the leather equipment. Since then Cpl. Sanders has beend expending much saddle soap, polish, paint and most o fall, elbow grease around the company stables. Perhaps it is elbow grease that does the good work in the kitchen, too. Ask any of the kitchen police.

Company "E"

We have noticed that there was going to be some kind of banner for the most Orderlies on guard, and the boys are sure giving the other outfits a run for it. As we have an orderly about every day.

Pvt. Roberts is strutting his stuff abou tevery night now down town, don't know what it is drawing him down there unless he likes the peanuts down there better than the ones out here.

Our Company Baseball team is sure going strong ,and are getting in the best of shape. Look out other companies.

We have quite a bunch on furlough including Pvt. Oakley and Edwards both taking a 60-day leave. Sure hope they enjoy themselves. But want them both to hurry back.

Pvt. Eitel leaves us today by way of purchased discharge and Pvt. Granpa Minter says it won't be long now as he thinks he is the short timer by the same road as Eitel. Well hurry back boys.

—J. R. H.

Howitzer Co.

Regardless of the fact that it is nearing blackberry time, Cpl. Savage has taken on another three years. We are glad to have you back with us again Corporal.

Private Brewer is recovering from a long sick spell, and is on sick leave. We hope he will recover rapidly.

As men of all companies know, short timers are long talkers. This applies to Private 1st Class West who gets discharged 14th of this month. We are waiting to see if he means what he says.

New York where it had a long and unusually successful run. There will be two performances, Friday and Saturday evenings, April 13th and 14th, in the 29th Infantry Theater at 8:30 P. M. Tickets will be placed on sale in the Reading Room of the Officers' Club at 12 noon Wednesday, April 11th, at 75c each. Members of the Dramatic Club may secure tickets by presenting their pink membership cards in exchange. As the seating capacity of the 29th Infantry Theater is very limited it is suggested that members desiring tickets get them early for the supply will probably not be equal to the demand.

MOTORISTS WARNED AS TO ROAD CONDITIONS DURING THE SPRING

Mr. Austell Issues Warning on Behalf of A. A. A.

Spring is the season of new road construction and highway repairs in all parts of the country and the motorist who is lured b ythe balmy weather into night or week-end travel should make certain that the roads over which he expects to pass are not temporarily closed This warning is issued by Mr. W. E. Austell, one of the directors of the Fort Benning A. A. A. Club. He is in charge of the Fort Benning Post Exchange Garage.

"Spring truly is a season of delight, but it also is a season of detours," says Mr. Austell. "The experienced motorist, and a majority come under that category today, knows this fact but in his zest for touring he is likely to forget it. The precise road over which he desires to view the rebirth of vernal beauty—for all of us have our favorite rural roads—very possibly may be closed for repairs.

"It is impossible to take issue with state or county highway officials over this condition. Their task is to put the roads into shape as quickly and effectively as possible in anticipation of the long period of exceptionally heavy motor travel which will begin within a few weeks. Invariably, they must make the most of the first fine days of Spring for this important work.

"Therefore, the individual motorist must check up on the roads before setting forth on his trip. To make this easier and certain, this club and others of the 1,046 comprising the American Automobile Association maintain efficient machinery for collecting vital road detour data. This is available to the motorist at all times and serves him effectively whether the trip he contemplates is one requiring but a few hours or many days. It is a service which each year proves more popular, and 1928 surely will prove no exception to this well established rule."

GIGLIO'S SANITARY MARKET

You often hear the bad but you very seldom hea rthe good, however, Giglio's is an exception. One of our student officers who comes from the eastern part of the United States recently informed The Infantry School News that Giglio's name would always stand out in his memory as a model sanitary market. Giglio not only sells pure foods but he appreciates your patronage as well.

FRIDAY, APRIL 6
(Good Friday Special)

"MOON O FISRAEL," from the famous story by H. Rider Hagard, featuring Marie Corda and Arlette Marchal in a collosal spectacle of the mightiest love story of the ages. In this production there is a cast of 50,000 people. The story is laid in Egypt during the rule of the Pharaohs and depicts the miracles of the old testament. You will see the mountainous waves of the Red Sea roll back to give the Israelites passage, the terrific battle of the Gods. Pharoah's mighty armies thundering across the plane and the spectacular plagues that laid waste to the land.

"Cutting A Mellon." Fables.
"Pathe News No. 27."

SATURDAY, APRIL 7

"A TRICK OF HEARTS," starring Hoot Gibson in a comedy drama of western suffragettes who bossed the ranch until the helpless cowpunchers called on a bandit gang for help. Fireworks start when Hoot's girl dons a silver badge and gives him orders. This picture possesses thrills, hard riding, laughter and hilarious comedy.

"Wine, Women & Sauerkraut." Imperial Comedy.

SUNDAY, APRIL 8

"SEVENTH HEAVEN," starring Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, David Butler and Gladys Brockwell in a vivid portrayal of the Paris underworld. It is the story of two of the lowest types of Paresians, a worker in the great sewers, and a waif of the streets. It leads into the heavy atmosphere of the Montmartre where crime and frivolity go hand in hand. While much of the morbid appears in this story, it is lightened by a strain of righteousness, integrity real manhood. The picture is a gripping melodrama.

"Trickles and Touchdowns." Sport.
"Paramount News."

MONDAY, APRIL 9

"SOMETHING ALWAYS HAPPENS," starring Esther Ralston in a thrilling, baffling, amusing farce. It is the story of an American girl in England who finds life too dull at the home of her fiance, the son of the Earl of Rochester. She leaves in search of thrills, and thrills galore she finds—a noted criminal is after the famous family ruby—she, with her fiance, starts to London with it—they stop en route to seek shelter in a deserted house—here mystery and fun start—doors open, close and lock without human touch, strange apparitions appear. It is the work of the notorious Chinese outlaw, Chang-Tzo. Needless to say the girl gets ample excitement.

"Hawk of the Mills No. 8."

TUESDAY, APRIL 10

"MAN CRAZY," featuring Dorethy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in a thrilling comedy drama adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Clarissa and the Post Road," by Grace Sartwell Mason. It deals with the daughter of an aristocratic old New England family, who horrifies her sedate grandmother by starting a hot dog stand along the old Post Road and then falling in love with the driver of a truck.

"Sting of Stings." Charlie Chase Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11

"ROSE MARIE," starring Jack Crawford and James Murray in a filmization of this great stage hit. The story is laid in the Canadian wilds. In addition to the gripping romance it possesses many spectacular thrills ,among which are the breaking of a hugh ice jam, the terrors of a death sweeping flood and a great canoe race.

HOUSE PETERS, JOAN CRAWFORD and JAMES MURRAY in "ROSE-MARIE"

"Paramount News No. 71."

THURSDAY, APRIL 12

"DRIFTIN' SANDS," featuring Bob Steele in the tale of a modern Robin Hood. The locale is the rancho of a wealthy Mexican aristocrat. The story is of a lone wolf bandit who commits many depredations. Bob, as Driftin' Sands, a wanderer, is engaged by the owner of the Aguilo Rancho to command his guard. He falls in love with the beautiful daughter of his employer and has a two-fold duty on his hands. There is much spectacular riding and bulldogging of riders in this picture.

"Collegians No. 6."

FRIDAY, APRIL 13

"BABY MINE," starring George K. Arthur with Karl Dane in a comedy purported to be even funnier than this team's "Rookies." The story concerns two rah-rah Collegians at an institute of physical surgery. There is a hot romance, a hilarious chase for two stolen babies and a complication of difficulties which almost drive the audience into hysterics. If this picture does not make you laugh, then you are beyond redemption. See it.

THE NEWS WILL PROCURE NEWSPAPER FILM FOR MAIN THEATER

The picture entitled "The Making of a Great Newspaper" will be shown at Benning theaters on April 18. Sometime ago, the News noticed an article in "The Editor and Publisher", a magazine devoted to the interests of newspaperdom, in which was stated that this film could be procured from The New York Times. Several days ago, this office received word that we could get the picture on April 18. We obtained permission from Captain Doll, in charge of Benning's movie shows, to have the privilege of bringing this picture, the only one of its kind, to Fort Benning. It shows all the details of the printing of the Times, which prints The News That's Fit to Print." Further announcement will be made in next week's issue.

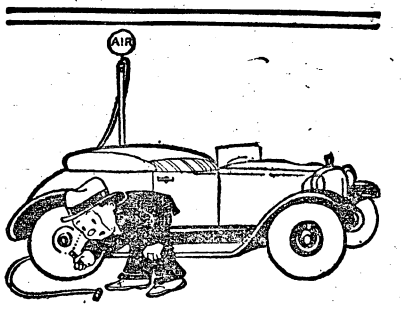
Many officers subscribe to the New York Times, and many company recreation rooms have their reading tables adorned with copies of this big newspaper. See how they print it in "The Making of A Great Newspaper" on April 18. This picture will show, step by step, in three reels, the publication of The Times. Don't forget April 18th.

SGT. REYNOLDS WRITES LETTER TO THE NEWS

Sgt. W. R. Reynolds, a regular contributor to the Inf. School News, left Fort Benning about two weeks ago to visit at his home in Knoxville, Tenn. We received the following letter from the sergeant several days ago:

Gentlemen: It is sure well worth three years of army life to enjoy three months of rest and ease afterwards. Am having a fine time up here in the hills of Tennessee. Although I haven't quite mastered the language, I am progressing rapidly and can obtain eats with ease. I almost got into a little trouble after my arrival here. The market hucksters use a bugle to attract attention to their wares, and the first day here, I was rudely awakened by the blare of one of them. Can you imagine how I hated to be so rudely awakened? Of course, I just had to shoot him, and they were just about to put me in the hoose-gow, but after I explained it to the Judge (who is an ex-colonel of doughboys), he released me and placed an injunction on bugles.

I hope you and Fort Benning are looking forward to my return as anxiously as I am. After looking over the work in civil life, I believe that its the Army Forever. Looking frward to next week's issue, I am, Walter R. Reynolds.



In Balloon Tires Air Pressure Should Be Carefully Checked

A variation of from three to five pounds from the proper air pressure in balloon tires will reduce their mileage and service one-fourth.

Many motorists find it advisable to stop at our service station regularly once a week and have the air in their tires checked. This service is free.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR EASTER SERVICES AT PROTESTANT CHAPEL

The music of the Easter Morning Service at the Protestant Chapel will be especially lovely. Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd will sing the solo "Easter Son." There will be a choir of fourteen voices composed of the following gifted singers: Sopranos, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. King; altos, Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Finney, rs. Weston; tenors, Col. Helms, Lt. Diller, Lt. Green; bass, Maj. Barlow, Capt. Boyd, Lt. Smythe. Two beautiful anthems will be sung by the choir, "Unto the Perfect Day," and "Ye Choir of New Jerusalem." Mrs. Edwin Butcher will accompany.

Major and Mrs. Ralph A. Jones have as their houseguest, Miss Katherine Davis of Jamestown, New York. On Friday evening of last week Maj. and Mrs. Jones honored their charming guest with a supper-dance at the Polo Club. The rustic clubhouse lends itself interestingly to decoration and on this occasion Southern smilax and snowy dogwood were used in profusion. The tables, from which the buffet supper was served, were lovely with their centerpieces of plume-like spirea and dogwood, with tall green tapers in silver holders. After supper the 29th Infantry orchestra furnished music for one of the most delightful dances ever given at Benning. There were novel features, a lovely colorful balloon dance among them, and the gay caps, musical toys and confetti made the carnival spirit supreme.

Miss Gertrude Smith of St. Paul returned on Monday to her home after a delightful two-weeks' visit to Capt. and Mrs. John E. Dahlquist. She was guest of honor at a dinner given by Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Case ,at a luncheon given by Mrs. Walter T. Scott, at an informal bridge party given by her hostess and at a number of other delightful affairs. On Thursday of last week Mrs. Scott was hostess to three tables at a delightful bridge luncheon. A color plan of pink and violet was charmingly carried out in the flowers, placecards and nut cups. After lunch tables were arranged for bridge and Mrs. Gilhus won high prize, a lovely pink boudoir piplow, Mrs. Case second, a double deck of cards. The honoree was given a box of stationery. Those who were included in this hospitality were: Miss Smith, Mrs. Dahlquist, Mrs. Tamraz, Mrs. Gilhus, Mrs. Kelley, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Curren, Mrs. Brier, Mrs. McMahon, Mrs. Childs, Mrs. Dunlop and Mrs. Vinson.

Mrs. Katzenstein, who has been the guest of her son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. John Rodgers, returned to her home in Johnstown, Pa., on Wednesday of last week. Mrs. Katzenstein has many friends at Benning where she has made annual visits for some three years. While here she was guest of honor at a beautiful tea given by her daughter, and shared honors with Bishop and Mrs. Beecher of Nebraska at a charming tea given by Mrs. Huddleston, to review but a few of the social courtesies extended her.

Mrs. E. M. S. Steward entertained forty friends at an elaborate and beautiful bridge luncheon at the Log Cabin on last Friday. Rainbow colors were used in the linens and in the gay spring flowers which were so effectively used in decoration. Bridge followed the luncheon and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson won high prize, a pair of leather book ends; Mrs. E. O. Power won second, a lemon plate; Miss Margaret Graham and Mrs. E. E. Johnston won third and fourth prizes. Those present were: Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Dodds of Vermont, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Barr, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Dahlquist, Miss Smith of St. Paul, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Helsley, Mrs. McIlhenny of Detroit, Mrs. Coates, Madame Coates, Mrs. McMahon, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Gilhus, Mrs. Bier, Mrs. Jenna, Mrs. Whitesides, Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Johnston Sr., of Indianapolis, Mrs. Steel, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Power, Mrs. Hebbard, Mrs. Mood, Mrs. Sander, Mrs. Curran, Mrs. Becque, Mrs. Knight, Miss Graham of New York City, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Winfield, Mrs. Niles and Mrs. Barclay.

Mrs. Alan Jones was hostess on last Thursday at a small delightful seated tea for Mrs. Rogers of Macon who was the guest of her son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Ernest Barker and her son, Capt. Orville Rogers, Reserve Officer now taking the course.

Lt. and Mrs. Ivan L. Foster have issued invitations to a bridge-dinner at their home on the evening of April 12th.

The Charity Bridge sponsored by the Chapel Guild will be held in the Hop Room and not the Polo Club as was the previous plan. So many reservations have been made that large quarters had to be arranged for. There is plenty of space in the Hop Room s if you haven't made your reservation phone Mrs. Torrey or Mrs. Bootz. The prizes are wonderful, and now is your chance to pay off some bridge obligations that have been hanging over. Tables are $2 or 50c a player.

There were a number of dinner parties before the plays on Saturday evening. Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Nichols were hosts at a delightful buffet supper to the husbands and wives of the cast of "The Other Kitty" so excellently put on by Capt. Nichols. Those present were Capt. and Mrs. Almond, Capt. and Mrs. Cole, Maj. McGregor, Lt. Hocker, Lt. Gailbreath, Mr. Pederson and Mrs. Charles Capell of Paris, Texas.

The Organization Bridge Clubs met on Tuesday afternoon. Misses Helen and Louise Young were hostesses to the 29th Club at the club rooms. The tea table was especially lovely with its handsome filet cloth, its silver bowl of gorgeous red tulips and spirea, and its silver candlesticks holding tall red candles. Mrs. Herbert Harris won high prize, four decks of cards with score pads, Mrs. Cecil Rutledge second, a pair of chiffon hose. A salad course with iced tea was served.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Newton entertained the ladies of the 24th at the Polo Club. Mrs. Mood was high, Mrs. Lyons second and Mrs. Steward third. Mrs. Walker cut the tea prize.

Mrs. Hilliard was hostess to the Tanks Club. Mrs. Rodgers was high, Mrs. Grady second and Mrs. Brett third.

The Artillery Club met with Mrs. Weston. There were three tables and Mrs. Murphy was high, Mrs. Busch second. Fresh strawberr vice cream, cake and coffee were served.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—April 16th.
Time—2:15.

Mrs. James W. Darr gave a brilliant talk on Numerology to the Polo Club full of interested members of the Infantry School Woman's Club on Monday afternoon. Her introduction was concerned with the great Greek philosopher Pythagoras and his undeniable contribution to the world's learning. She reminded us of his contribution to arithmetic and geometry which today are the same as he worked out in the 6th century B. C. His principles of numbers and reasoning have proved infallible and are taught in grammar schools the world over. So much for the physical aspect of numbers. Then she took up the spiritual or metaphysical aspects of numbers, and surely no lecturer ever had a more fascinated audience. She explained what Numerology—so new to us, yet worked out six centuries before the Birth of Christ, means, what is reveals, and how it can help us to grasp and the more understandingly work out our destinies. Its fundamental principle (so it seems to me), lies in the belief of the transmigration of the soul. Upon the nine digits 1, 2, 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, lies the destinies of every soul that ever has been or ever will be, and by properly understanding and interpreting the combinations which make up each individual chart the Numerologist can read your possibilities for good and evil, your chances for success, what kind of disposition you have and even what color you should wear. This information is gotten by "getting your number" (no idle remark, let me tell you!) First the name in full that you were christened with is taken. The vowels are reduced to digits and they, finally, to one digit. This final digit is the index to what you in your heart really are, your ideals, your inner urge. Then the consonants are taken and in the same manner reduced to a digit which is an index to your Personality, yourself as you appear to others. Then the vowels and consonants are summed together and reduced to one digit which reveals your material destiny. Your birth date when reduced to one digit is your Life's Blue Print.

Mrs. Darr illustrated by convincing examples how character was revealed and destiny worked out exactly as the numbers sav. She took persons whose characteristics are general knowledge and showed step by step how their numbers wrote their destinies. She gave an interesting interpretation through numerology of Fort Benning ,the 29th Infantry, the 24th Infantry, and even a Ford automobile. Her talk was most logical, her subject matter fascinating, her humor delightful and her comprehension of her subject was truly inspiring. It is my belief that more people got more ideas and did more thinking as a result of this talk than anything that has ever been presented to The Woman's Club.

Captain W. W. Jenna, whom the club has so long looked forward to hearing, whistled two numbers, Grieg's "Spring Song," and "Roumanian Romance" and sang, "At Dawning," "Take this Rose" and graciously responded to an enthusiastic encore with his charming "Muddy Water." Capt. Jenna played his own accompaniment.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Samuel L. Dunlop and Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst were hostesses at one of the loveliest teas of the year. The table was overlaid with antique filet. It's centerpiece was a handsome silver bowl filled with wood violets. Four tall silver candlesticks held long violet-colored tapers and silver pheasants seemed at home near the forest flowers. Mrs. Wait C. Johnson and Mrs. Wilbur H. Vinson poured. A delicious salad course with coffee and wafers was served.

The next meeting on April 16th will be the last meeting of the year. At that time officers will be elected and certain important matters will be decided upon. The nomination committee has offered the following roster for officers for next year:

Mrs. Edgar S. Miller, President.

Mrs. Benjamin G. Ferris, First Vice President.

Mrs. Charles D .Roberts, 2nd Vice President.

Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd, Recording Secretary.

Mrs. Frank Green, Corresponding Secretary.

Mrs. E. D. Barlow, Treasurer.

Mrs. Leon Norris, Auditor.

Any member of the club is free to present any person for any office in the club provided her petition is signed by ten members.

There will be a program and tea as usual.

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all"

Last week's program for the military education of the Advanced Class was featured by a bright and early start. The boys assembled on Rivet Ridge at 7 o'clock, Monday morning to see Major Hill hand the C. O. of the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry a bale of mimeograph sheets. This interesting and instructure ceremony was succeeded by three hours of suspense while the command and staff participated in a controlled cross-country ride. Immediately following the hunt breakfast the shock troops, who had been straining at the leash since 5 A. M., were permitted to deploy and dig in.

During the progress of the war, which ensued, every officer and man of the 29th was shadowed by a ferret-eyed student with a pad and pencil, while instructors from all sections swarmed over the terrain compiling data for Major Hill's next conference on organization of a position. Colonel Bond, however, was conspicuous by his absence. As his carefully worked out tables upon the excavating capacity of the infantryman were under investigation, it is generally believed that his decision to take leave came at a most opportune moment.

Th demonstration was a great success and when the statistics upon the number of shovel fulls of dirt excavated are duly consolidated and interpreted we believe they will prove or disprove—as the case may be—all of the important theories that have been so hospitably entertained by the Committee on Defense ever since the dedication of Assembly Hall No. 3.

The latest official information strongly indicates that there will be no Spring Maneuver Camp established this year. Although we have been looking forward to this period of freedom from the administration details of domestic supply, we feel that we can be reconciled to the departure from long-established tradition providing the hour of reporting at the assembly area for the Advanced Class is not made any any more difficult for us than it is at present. We shall not even object to using our own motor transportation on government business if the powers that be will agree to our proposed compromise. We don't mind being inconvenienced but our recent experience in reporting at 7 A. M. confirmed us in our long cherished theory that the military mind is not receptive to instruction prior to 8 o'clock in the morning.

The golf bugs of the Advanced Class, urged by the exhortation of Champion O'Hare, are busily preparing for a tournament to be held later in the spring. The activities to date have been largely devoted to propaganda, designed to blackmail various mercantile establishments and local welfare organizations, such as the Officer's Club, to donate cups and prizes. The objective appears to be one cup for each contestant.

Colonel Marshall (phoning to the library): "Sergeant, please send the latest copy of "Who's Who" to my office."

Sergeant, in charge, "I'm afraid we havent got it, sir ;this library contains very little fiction."

WHY NOT?

We are afraid that it is too late to do anything about it but ,had we thought of it sooner, we should have used our influence to induce the 4th Section to assign monographs on various Small Wars to work on during the Easter Holidays. It does seem as if Major Lewis overlooked a bet. We fear that his oversight is going to cause us to lose three precious days which might well have been devoted to a study of the nine principles of war as illustrated by military operations of Geronimo or Pontiac or some other first class fighting man who never worked out a map problem.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

Almost got smacked down Monday, had to dodge a fast left and a hard right. We told Onto Bragan he was, "Just an infantry soldier, with only an infantry mind."

Did you hear about the man almost killed at the demonstration, "Company in Defense?" One of those T. N. T. blocks, pinch hitting for a shell burst, caused a near tragedy. The dry grass blazed up in front of the shock troops, and Mark Dty pointed out the flaming hillside as, "The field of fire." Theq almost lynched him.

The Company Officers' Class of 1927-28 has been maligned. It has been alleged that we lack the well known esprit and pep of former classes. It is even darkly hinted that we are serious minded and that the term "Student" is actually descriptive. Those who have so smirched our fair name should ride in the last car of the Wagner Range Toonerville. After the first squad has worked on them for a while, our detractors will cease detracting.

Joe Bush made the second car in nothing flat in the latest battle of the trains. He sought cover from the battle royal between Matadors Hinton, Ellis, Austin and Joiner. Battling Essig had his hat in the ring with the big fellow, but both were saved by the bell. And the concentration of all calibers, from pebbles to boulders during the capture of Riley Ridge, Mondy afternoon, proves that our class has the same old infantry spirit which can laways advance another step, and dig another type "A" trench!

One of the infantry soldiers opined he wasn't particularly annoyed about Field Fortifications requiring, "a strong back and a weak mind," because the infantry can always furnish the strong back. Our own infantry mind is puzzling over this question of "Man hours." How about Woman Hours? We don't believe the text is quite clear on this point, for it has been our experience that when she says she'll be ready at 7:30, she means 8:15. And on the other hand, have the Olympic Tryouts ,equitating down at the paddock, been putting in Horse Hours?

Speaking of obstacles, this "Infantry Mind" business worries us. Saturday, we saw a platoon, or something, of engineers. They looked fine, and did their jobs like infantrymen. But we don't get the difference. And the high hats with the lofty brows who scrawl the brain books on psychology seem to have overlooked a bet too, they don't even mention the Infantry Mind. We guess we're just dumb, but we still think the human equation can't be solved with a slide rule and a logarithm.

It is with great reluctance that we announce the conclusion of our fruit cake contest. The cause for this painful decision is very tragically found in the following extract from the morning report of Headquarters and Band, 29th Infantry of April 2, 1928, ". . . Captain Nichols from duty to sick in hospital. ." The rich diet of fruit coke was too much for us.

We cannot give up the idea of a contest altogether so we take pleasure in announcing another contest. We are going to conduct one to determine our most popular visitor while we are incarcerated in Clonel Baker's resort on the hill. Please omit flowers.

We directed one of the three plays given by the Dramatic Club last Saturday evening and we wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the loyalty and close application of our cast. We have never been associated with a more willing and hard working group and it was a pleasure to work with them. With the talent they possessed, there was very little left for us, as director ,to do and our efforts were largely confined in securing the properties for the skit. Our rehearsals never dragged and never became monotonous and the cast retained their sense of humor throughout. We shall look forward to being associated with them again.

After pondering over the program for Saturday evening for some little time we arrived at the conclusion that the lady with all those names was none other than just plain Sortie Rice. Incidentally Sortie gave a very excellent account of herself in the dark although we do believe that all that trouble could have been avoided had someone called 40, the number of the night electrician. Major Rice and the Officer who played the part of Bax were both uncommonly good. We were unable to account for some of the reactions of the audience. We found nothing humorous in "Danger." As a matter of fact we, like "Kitty," was 'scared stiff.' "Fore" was very excellently done and Rickey Rice was at his best. Harry Collins and Mrs. Roberts were very good indeed and we enjoyed this little skit on golf very much. A very enjoyable evening.

We had an X-ray made the other morning and after going without breakfast we were put into a dark room and handed a gallon of white wash and was told to drink it. We did and as soon as we got that down we were handed another gallon and were told to put that down. This done we were told to stand in front of a long coffin shaped affair and right there we lost all of the privacy and modesty we ever had. That whitewash made it absolutel yimpossible to conceal anything from the doctors looking us over.

Today is the 11th anniversary of our entry into the World War and it reminds us of the picture we saw a year or so ago, The Big Parade. When T. W. was in New York she went to see the Big Parade, that is she bought a ticket and then stood out on the side walk for an hour and a half waiting for it to come by.

We hope that we shall have numerous entries in our popular visitor contest and as our stay on the hill promises to be rather extended we shall keep a very accurate memorandum of our entries.

EASTER EGG HUNT
April 9th at 3:30

The Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the Children's School, will take place Monday afternoon, April 9, at 3:30 on the Commandant's lawn.

The Easter bunnies have promised many eggs, there are delicious candy prizes for the lucky children who find the gold andsilver eggs— and also some live bunnies will be given for prizes. These bunnies are spending the week at the Candy Shop of the Post Exchange, where they will be glad to see all the boys and girls.

Ice cream will be on sale at the hunt, so bring your pennies and make our party a success.

"BLACKIE"

A Much Loved Pet of Block 37

Just a mongrel, but all "dog" is the little black fellow, which came to Fort Benning, when the post was nearer Columbus. Blackie followed the post to the present site. Which indicates that the little fellow is at least ten years old, and during his scholastic trainig he has adopted several masters. "Bill" Stewart, who assisted in putting Fort Benning on the map, remembers Blackie, but the first master known to the writer was Master Sergeant Erhardt. When Block 37 was completed, Blackie moved there and occupied the new quarters. After Stewart left the service, he was adopted by Bill Stevens, Mr. Sgt. 83rd Field Artillery. Stevens soon retired and Blackie again was left alone in the world without a master. But he got used to changing masters, and now has decided he wouldn't have a "real" master, but would take unto himself several masters in Block 37. He is the friend of everyone there, both young and old, and has grown to feel "at home" in any set of quarters in the block. In fact, he is well cared for by all, he gets his "shots" and tag just the same; sometimes he is taken in tow by a friend and tied up so he will not be declared a nuisance. His gray hairs are becoming numerous now, but his smile and wag are always the same. He always displays a good disposition, and is the children's pet of the block.

NO EXAMINATION THIS YEAR

For the first time in several years, no annual examinations for commissions in the Regular Army from civil life or from ranks of the Army, National Buard, and Reserve Corps will be held this June.

War Department orders received March 17th, by Major General Hanson B. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area at Governors Island, cancelled examinations for appointment as second lieutenant which had been scheduled to be held June 16 throughout New York State, New Jersey and Delaware.

The scheduled examinations were to fill vacancies remaining after the graduating class at West Point is commissioned. "Falling off of vacancies from previous estimates" was assigned by the War Department advices as the reason for the cancellation.

KIRVEN'S FOR COURTESY

The Kirven Department Store, well represents the city of Columbus, for up-to-date merchandise. Their many friends at Fort Benning, and throughout the Army, keep a close watch for their bargain ads. Kirven's window display of Easter frocks tell the tale, without further inquiry.

Quartermaster Corps

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHAT

Tell me not in mournful numbers—that the Quartermaster Corps is not High Hat! For the soul knoweth not of its mutterings—when it maketh statements thus! For indeed the old Q. M. C. is getting high-hat—what with several members attending Grand Opera in Atlanta, one of the members singing in the Easter Cantata, one of the members one o fthe players on the Championship Basketball Team of Georgia, and our Colonel playing his usual game of high-class golf. (Ha! Ha!)

Yes, Miss Margie Zettler, "Trouble Clerk," says her heart yearns to see "La Boheme" and "Carmen," while Mrs. Drane states that as she will only get to go to the Saturday matinee and Saturday night offering, she will take whatever the program offers.

Yes, Oswald, spring is came indeed! Here comes Miss Mary Harris, all rigged out in a "breath of spring" outfit—the apple-blossom idea carried out in her adorable little three-piece pink suit, with matching light hose and slippers.

And Mr. Mary is going to paint all his porch and garden furniture—is going to make a swing, 'n everything—further signs of the season of love, and all that sortof bunk.

Saturday and payday! What could be a better combination? And Chit-Chat saw everybody at Fort Benning from both the civilian and military personnel, in town. Among the bright-lights gimpsed along Broadway were Corporal Adams and Pvt. Street, of the Q. M. Office Personnel.

Miss Rubye Kennon, of Transportation, has the sympathy of the entire Quartermaster Corps in the illness of her father. Rubye, who is one of the most cheerful and most lovable personages known by Chit-Chat, has borne all of her sorrows and sadness with a brave smile.

Our Quartermaster Corps Golf Team went down in ignominous defeat before the Medicoes Sunday, on the golf links. Our Colonel and his cohorts fought bravely, but they went down before the sure-shooting of the Medical Sextet. "Oh! br'r'rrrr! vengeance is ours, though," quoth our dauntless Colonel, and 'ere long, these same doctors, we are sure, will taste the sting of defeat!

Q. M. Property Office News

We were all pleasantly surprised last Monday to see Mr. Shaw walk in. We are so glad he is out of the hospital and has stood the operation so well. Here's hoping for his speedy full recovery.

Major Barlow has had one of those bad colds flying around, and has been "Whispering" while in the office for several days, but is getting better now, we are glad to note.

We hear that Sergeant Eugene Smith has left the filling station to lend his valuable services to the Dodge people in town. We know he'll make good—he always has—as you know he worked in the Property Office for some time. And his wife is one of our capable stenographers. Three cheers for the Smiths!

This lovely weather makes us think of Easter which is about to make its annual return. Don't you just pity friend husband the first of next month? Well, the poor women must dress up—at least once a year, so that their finely uniformed husbands won't outshine them! (Besides the uniforms, what about the shiny boots, belts, etc!?)

HERE AND THERE IN THE ARMY

Interesting Items Pertaining to Activities Throughout the Service

Major-General LeRoy Irwin left Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Sunday afternoon for New York City, and from there will sail for Panama where he will command the Panama Division. The Chamber of Commerce, of Lawton, held a farewell dinner in his honor on March 29. There were about one hundred business men present with a number of officers from Fort Sill. Gen. D. E. Aultman will take command of the F. A. S. about April 15.

Major-General T. B. Donaldson, commanding 8th Corps Area, will leave Fort Sam Houston on April 12, on an inspection trip throughout the corps.

Plans are now under way for a reunion of the 90th Division to be held at San Antonio, on October 12. The American Legion national convention will be held there from October 8 to 12. Major S. Lang ,of San Antonio, has been placed in charge of arrangement committee. Maj.-Gen. H. T. Allen, war-time commander of the division, will be present.

Cadets at West Point will be permitted to attend the following football games this year. Harvard, October 20; Yale, October 27; Notre Dame at New York, November 10.

Thirty-four war time barrack buildings at Fort Lewis, Wash., are now being removed and will be replaced by new brick barrack buildings. This work will be completed before the end of the coming summer.

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

Seen twice of the same week (and can be vouched for), Lt. Stetler busily at work before 8 o'clock.

B-z-z-z-z-z

Signs of spring—the boss (Lt. Allison), coming in from his duties as recently appointed road fo'man, swinging his hat and carrying his coat—Major Smith's Buick without the side curtains up—Captain Graham, 4th Section, in a new Victory Six—Captain Neville hiking around the garrison, and Captain Cushman, of the Students, heaving a baseball.

B-z-z-z-z-z

Our own suggestion for an advertisement for Chescamgoldima, the cigarette that you'd walk a mile away from because they dont' satisfy and there's not a cigarette in a carload:

When you're gushing to your girl friend, whose heaviest boy friend you dated with last evening, "Oh my dear, I stayed at home last evening—had a headache, y'know," and she fixes you with a glassy stare and says, "Is that so? I seen you to Firm Roberts last nite at about 12:30, and it seemed you wuz all right"—be oblivious to the mob—light a Chescamgoldima.

B-z-z-z-z-z

Oh cried the chorus lady, I'm freezing to death,
And the butter and egg man said, my dear what do girls
Like you need to keep yourself warm.
I need, said the chorus lady, a string of pearls.
(Frankly we think our poetry is gettin good.)

B-z-z-z-z-z

Seen of a Monday's noon:—

Colonel Hunt at the bank ,getting a five dollar bill changed into small pieces. No, we refuse to believe the worst, we just know the Colonel wouldn't play African golf! The "three musketeers," Lt. "Red" Corey, and his two playmates (they didn't get close enough for Bee to ascertain their names) as usual, eating at the Service Club—here comes Major Devore, in his Packard—there is Captain R. F. Hall, President of the Athletic Association, and "Duke" or 23, talking to a boy-friend, which on second look, turns out to be the Police Officer—yonder goes Lt. "Signal Corps" Green wearing spectacles—looking very dignified—and here comes Lt. "24th Infantry" Greene, who mentions very casually that he has read our latest news-story, and which of course, tickles Bee to death, for that's her weakest point. Major Febiger strolls by, at a calm, slow pace, as befits one wearing a Major's leaf, while yonder is Captain B. B. McMahon, who, if she were running a "Benning Brightlight" paragraph, Bee would mention as one of them. However, due to the statement by Captain A. J. Nichols that she was taking his "personage of the week" affair away from him, Bee has stopped this paragraph. But if she were, she would nominate Captain B. B. for this honor.

THANK YOU MR. COOPER

Thanks to Mr. Cooper,
And his lyrical complaint,
But Mr. Cooper paints conditions
Exactly as they aint.

However 'bout his grievance,
On this inclement night,
Investigation shows us,
That Mr. Cooper's right.

'Tis true he got his panties wet,
A fact that we regret,
But why he howled so lengthily,
We haven't fathomed yet.

Had Mr. Cooper told us,
Of his suit's unpressed condition,
We'd have gladly paid for pressing it,
Of our own volition.

His sweeping condemnation,
Is unfair as it can be,
We're mighty glad he'd nothing worse,
Than water on the knee.

Show reason Mr. Cooper,
Give credit where it's due,
We've remedied the little crack,
Tat spilled the rain on you.

GOOD EXHIBITION OF POLO LAST SUNDAY

One of the best exhibitions of polo witnessed here this season was played last Sunday afternoon on Shannon Field. The Blues and Greens crossed mallets, and both teams were composed of the best players of Fort Benning.

The line-up of the teams was as follows: Blues, Lyman, 1; Guernsey, 2; Boyer, 3; Jacobs, 4. Greens, Grubbs, 1; Burress, 2; Scott, 3; Whisner, 4.

The final score was 4 to 4. Major Jones and Major Smith were the officials in Sunday's game. The whole game was unusually free of fouls, only one being called during the entire fray.

Fort Benning's team, which will play the fast Oglethorpe poloists, has not been selected as yet. An announcement as to the team which will represent Benning in the tournament on the 18th, 20th and 22nd, will be made in the near future.

A FORD IT WAS

The Burrus Motor and Tractor Company during the past week have delivered a couple of the new Fords out at Fort Benning. The writer has always been a perfectly good friend of Mr. Burrus, Sr., and Mr. Perry Burrus, but we don't think that it is hardly right to see Captain Wickliff riding around in his new sedan, telling every one how well he likes the new Ford. It's bad enough to have to wait but its still worse to hear all these good stories.—Ah well we were probably late in getting our order registered in. Mr. Burrus says that the orders are filled in the order received.

Prisoner: Do you think I will get justice with that jury?

Lawyer: No I think not, I see two men in that jury that is opposed to hanging.

I. S. D. NOTES

Sergeant Peter Jansen and Corporal Harres Campbell have been discharged and re-enlisted since last we went to press.

Much interest has been aroused in the Detachment by the awarding of prizes by the Major for the three best tents. The pribes are to be cartons of Camel end Chesterfield cigarettes, depending upon the taste of the winner. First prize will be a carton to every man in the winning tent; second prize will be two cartons to the next tent, and third prize will be a carton to be split among the occupants of the next winner. The slogan is to be "Wherever there is to be smoke there must be some effort."

Sgt. Bayliss has gone on a furlough for ten days and he informs us that he is going to spend this vacation by not eating. We informed him that we expected to spend his vacation by really eating.

The detachment is sorry to learn of the sad death of Coporal Crumley of this organization who died at the station hospital at 5:45 P. M., April 3, 1928.

RECTOR OF TRINITY CHURCH HERE NEXT THURSDAY

The Rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Dr. Alston Wragg, will be in the Protestant Chapel, Fort Benning, from 4 to 6 P. M. next Thursday, April 12. He wishes to meet all persons of the Post who are interested in or desirous of confirmation. Bishop Mikell, of Atlanta, will make his annual visitation to Trinity Parish on May 13, and will confirm a class at that time.

SPORTOPICS

(By Al)

When Captain Charles Mabbutt announced that he would build an amateur boxing team that would represent Fort Benning in the Olympuc tryouts, critics shook their heads and asked where he would get the material.

Captain Mabbutt immediately asked for youngsters who were willing to learn, not oldtimers that were through. They came, youngsters from different outfits began to take an interest in this manly art of self-defense.

The first exhibition bouts put on by these youngsters lacked much in science but the willingness and gameness of the men won favor with the fans at once. In time a change became noticeable, the awkward haymaking swing gave way to a smashing hook, uppercutor a lightning jab. Feet that stumbled over each other in the first fights began to trip over the canvas with the grace of a ballet dancer.

Nearly nine months later the cream of the South's amateur fighters gathered in Mobile, Ala., to take part in one of the biggest events of this kind ever held in the southern states. The Fort Benning boxing team was entered. The Benning team won first place with nine points more than their nearest competitor.

Two All-Southern champions were members of this team, Buddie Brault, 29th Infantry, won the bantamweight title and "Billy" Smith of the Demonstrationist won the heavyweight belt. Although losing in the final bout, Jack Phillips of the Infantry School Det. won first place as the most popular fighter of the Tournament. These men were the boys that started to learn boxing less than a year ago.

It is to be regretted that two of the most promising young fighters here were unable to attend the tourney in Mobile. Blondie Parker, one of the best boys here, was taking the count in the hospital after a round with the "flu," while Young Pieters, lightweight champion of the garrison is away on furlough. Both boys will probably wear the Inf. School colors in the final meet to be held in Boston, Mass., April 26 and 27, 1928.

OLD FORD THEATRE VACATED BY WAR DEPARTMENT; NEEDS NEW ROOF

With the exception of a small space still occupied by the Washington Recruiting Office o the Army, the War Department has vacated the old Ford Theater, the scene of the assassination of President Lincoln, at 511 Tenth Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C. The building wit hthe exception is now available for disposition by the Public Buildings Commission. The Recruiting Office will be moved elsewhere after July 1st, 1928. An inspection of the Ford Theater building made by the District Engineer Officer eighteen months ago disclosed the fact that the roof would need to be repaired or replaced within a comparatively short time, at an estimated cost of $12,900. On November 15, 1927, the Chief of Engineers reported that another inspection of the building had been made and that conditions were found to be practically as at the previous inspection. It was believed that if the building was vacated by the end of the present fiscal year it would be safe to waive any repairs, but that occupancy of the building much beyond that period should be contingent upon another inspection.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Another trophy was added to our battery list last week upon the close of the basketball season, although battery "B" put up a hard fight the Combat proved to be superior with the old fighting spirit.

Sergeant Reed has been detailed on recruiting duty at Chattanooga, sorry to lose you Frank, and we all thoroughly understand you will knock 'em cold down Tennessee way. Why of course the ladies and the baseball team shall surely miss your wonderful work around center field.

Private Taylor has been seen ducking through the tents quite frequently here of late, headed for city direction, and even smoking. How about the wrist watch Taylor?

Private Perry is now confined to the hospital after swallowing a fifty-cent piece. Next time try a horseshoe Perry or an escort wagon.

Corporal Douglas left last Monday on a 60-day furlough for a tour of the South, accompanied by Sergeant LaPine and Private Penton who was discharged on the 31st.

Battery "C"

Lost, strayed or stolen—Corporal Moore's hair or was it a wig. It's a mystery what became of it, surely the barber would not do such a trick. P. C. Davis has been employed by friends of Corporal Moore to get to the bottom of this affair. Upon the return of Vanderslice he was employed to assist P. C. With these two on the job we can confidently expect results in a very short time.

"Slats" Harvey is all up in the air. He says they took all the painter he had and made a clerk out of him.

Private Hartley is taking a furlough of five days and Private Paschal one of fifteen days.

Corporal Weems has returned from a furlough of fifteen days which he spent at his home in Tennessee.

Sergeant King has returned from Recruiting duty at Nashville, Tenn. When Sergeant King left us we were motorized and he is now being introduced to the horses.

Sergeant Hall is having trouble with his aiming circle. His back is sore from carrying it. Use a horse-blanket Sergeant.

Well, everything is quiet around this outfit at present and besides the writer hasn't recovered from his furlough, so dear reader you can have a little more time to read "Saw Dust" and "Bee's Buzzings," this week.

TICKER TALK

(Furnished by Fenner & Beane)

New York American says: "Estimate Hudson first quarter earnings be $5.60 per share and that favorable dividend action will be taken soon.

There is talk of price war in the six cylinder car field this summer.

All markets will be closed today, Friday, April 6th. New York markets will be closed tomorrow; Chicago markets open tomorrow.

A bitter fight is going on within U. S. Rubber over perferred dividend. First quarter earnings very unsatisfactory; most likely prospect for this company is a financial reorganization.

Brown Shoe, under fifty and paying under $2.50 dividends and earning near $6 is ehind the market; Postum is worth holding; Allied Chemical looks good at the market.

Average market yesterdav was 209.33 for 20 industrials and 140.43 for 20 rails. The former off 4.02 and the latter off .82.

Pres. Erskine says that Studebaker will show slightly over $2 a share as compared with $1.74 same period last year; refers to first quarter this year.

Dodge Bros. shipped 60,387 units during the first quarter this year.

Large commission house says that use of stop orders has become more general than in some time.

NEW BOOKS PRESENTED TO POST LIBRARY BY THE NEWS

According to a recent announcement in the columns of this paper, we had planned to present some new books to the Post Library in the Service Club. Readers of this paper were called on to make suggestions. A few were received but not as many as we had anticipated from a garrison the size of Fort Benning. We have selected a few books out of the number of suggestions received, and after we had assured ourselves that none of these books were in the library, they were purchased and will be presented to the Library tomorrow. They are comparatively late books; those that may be classed as "old" books, are considered very good, and we believe that they will be a good addition to the library.

A synopsis of each book is given below.—Ye Editor.

"CHAPS AND CHUKKERS"
(By Joseph B. Ames)

This book will appeal particularly to those interested in western life.

The story is scened first in the luxuriant compartments of a trans-continental express, then on the wide ranges of a western cattle ranch, then east again in the less rare but more rarified atmosphere of gay Long Island suburban life. Who was this man whose languorous drawling indifference piqued the fascinated interest of his fellow travelers, the bold exotic Francine Stillman, the quiet, mouse-like Anne Warden, the distinguished Horace Townsend—the Horace Townsend of New York? By what means did he single-handed subdue a gang of train robbers? What was the secret of the mysterious power which this interloper held over the long established ranch owners who operated the wide ranges beyond the little settlement of Saundertown? And how was it that this quick-trigger hero of bizarre and brazen revelry in nondescript western road houses could conform with such nicety to the exacting trivialities of an exclusive Long Island polo club?

"AMBITION"
(By Arthur Train)

Although not a new book, this story of Clarice Hungerford, who has plenty of ambition and beauty, is the finest character that Train has ever produced.

She knows how to get on in the world, and sets out to do it. In fact, one suspects that one of he rsteps to this end is that which resulted in her twisting her ankle on Fifth Avenue near 42nd Street, just as Simon Kent was passing.

Simon Kent has ambition and intellect. He regards the calling of a lawyer as one dedicated to the Blind Goddess. If he had had less brains, he might have been able to dedicate it more easily, but these resulted in his being taken into one of the biggest law firms in New York—which is dedicated to a divinity more strongly resembling a Golden Calf.

The situation of a married couple fundamentally in conflict, which is complicated by the presence o fanother, very different girl, is the basis of a book which is exceedingly revealing—and throughout the greater part of it the clever and beautiful Clarice holds the stage and fascinates the reader.

"MARCHING ON"
(By James Boyd)

The story is of the days of the Civil War. It is decicated to the memory of the enlisted menof both the Union and Confederate forces.

James Boyd stepped to the forefront of American novelists with his very first novel, "Drums." It dealt with that great struggle with which the American nation came into existence, the Revolutionary War. His second novel deals with that still greater struggle which threatened the existence of the American nation—the Civil War. It is a magnificent romance of the times. The hero, a descendant of the Frazer family that figured in "Drums," is a son of a poor farmer of southern North Carolina.

The story of his love for the daughter of a great slave-owner and planter runs its course throughout the war. There are splendid battle pieces, for young Frazer is in the army of northern Virginia.

"RECORD FLIGHTS"
(By Clarence D. Chamberlin)

GLEE CLUB WILL PRESENT "LELAWALA"

Two Performances "Butter and Egg Man"

This week is bringing to a close an unusually successful season for the Infantry School Dramatic Club, in which not only has the membership increased greatly, but the quality and manner of production of the various productions improved greatly.

The final production of the year "The Butter and Egg Man," is "on the boards" as this is published with a special presentation Thursday night for enlisted men and the regular Friday and Saturday night performance in the 29th Infantry Theater. Written by George S Kaufman, this is one of the best and most successful comedies appearing on Broadway in recent years, and is now in production as a feature motion picture starring Jack Mulhall. Tickets for both Friday and Saturday nights performances may be secured either at the Officers' Club or at the Box Office of the 29th Infantry Theater Friday and Saturday evenings.

THE 29th COMPLETES BAYONET PRACTICE

The results of the units of the demonstration regiment in their record bayonet practice is as follows:

Howitzer, 1, 100 per cent; Company A, 120, 81 per cent; Company B, 133, 89 per cent; Company C, 134, 86 per cent; Company D, 4, 100 per cent; Company E, 74, 47 per cent; Company F, 99, 64 per cent ;Company G, 102, 63 per cent; Company H, 1, 33 per cent. Regimental per cent qualified, 71.9 per cent.

SGT. SMITH IS NOW AN AUTO SALESMAN

Sgt. E. M. Smith, retired, has resigned his position as in charge of the Post Exchance filling station, and is now with Mr. W. T. Heard's sales force. Mr. Heard is the Columbus agent for the Dodge cars. Sgt. Smith will be glad to have his many Fort Benning friends call on him at the corner of First Ave. and 15th Street.

ORDERED TO WEST POINT

Two officers on duty at Fort Benning will leave soon for duty at the U. S. M. A. at West Point. Captain R. L. Bacon, now on duty as Asst. J. A. will report for duty at West Point on July 1, and Captain W. W. Jenna, 24th Infantry, has been ordered to report there on August 24. Capt. Jenna will be one of the French instructors at the Academy.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS

In the past ten days we have received twenty-five new subscriptions to the paper. One officer came in the other day and subscribed for the NEWS to be sent home to his father, who lives in Massachusetts. The NEWS reaches most every state in the Union.

INFANTRY SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM BEGINNING TO HIT STRIDE

Swinging into their third week of the 1928 baseball season the Infantry School Team has lived up to all expectations and gladdened the hearts of Benning fans by playing a brand of ball worthy of any team.

The Fighting Irishmen from Notre Dame won two of the three games played here April 3, 4 and 5, but fans pronounced them three of the hardest fought contests ever witnessed here. "If," is a poor word to use, but we still claim if we had any kind of a break that the series would have been three in a row for Fort Benning.

Only one thing is lacking, and that is stick work. Time and again with men in scoring position and the stands waiting and longing for a much needed base hit, a high fly or easy roller kills the chance.

The University of Illinois, co-champions last season of the Big Ten, was lucky to split even with the Musketeers in their two-game series here. The first game was a Benning victory, while the second game was a hard fought affair which ended in a 1 to 0 victory for Illini.

Sunday's game was an exception, as everybody seemed to have an off day at one time. Taking advantage of every miscue and hitting the ball hard, the Sally Leaguers from Macon, won a one-sided affair at Gowdy Field, 11 to 2.

With the oyening of the series with the University of Indiana here Monday afternoon, the doughboys showed their old time form, easily winning the opening game 6 to 1. Owing to wet grounds and the rain this was the only game played between the two teams, the collegians leaving Tuesday afternoon.

Today the Musketeers leave for Auburn, where they go to stalk the Tiger in his lair. Two games will be played, today and Saturday. If the Tiger is ex-

DEPRATT-PTOMEY FIGHT

The "Gunner" DePratt-Willie Ptomey bout, which will be the main go of the biggest fight card ever held at Fort Benning, is holding the attention of fight fans both here and in Columbus. The fights will begin at 7:30 P. M. at Gowdy Field; in case of bad weather at the Post Gymnasium. Besides this fight, there will be thirty rounds between amateur fighters, all of whom competed in the Southeastern Invitation meet at Mobile several weeks ago. Fans have something of the best in the fight line in store for them next Wednesday evening.

This isn't the first time that these boys have mixed it, as on January 12, 1928, they fought one of the fiercest fights in the annals of army ring battles. This bout ended in a draw, which proved to be a popular decision, as neither was able to gain a noticeable advantage during the entire fray.

The fight Wednesday evennig is expected to bring the feud to a finish. Both men are confident that a knock-out will be the result, but the argument is as to which one will take the count. Both boys are fast, in fact, the fastest ever seen in action at Fort Benning.

Ptomey is from Montgomery, and a host of his friends will be on hand to see him finish up the argument. DePratt will have many friends at Fort Benning and there will be plenty of "rooting" from the ringside after the first gong. This fight will no doubt be the biggest in the history of the Infantry School Fightdom. There will probably be more people from Columbus attend this battle than any other ever fought on Fort Benning soil.

There will be, in all, forty rounds of the best fighting ever presented on one card. Capt. H. C. Barclay is in charge of the big card, and has done every thing possible to make this a big success.

GLEE CLUB PRESENTS CADMAN OPERA THURSDAY

First Production in Real Opera Form

The long-awaited presentation of LELAWALA, the Charles Wakefield Cadman, American Opera, will take place at the War Department Theater on Thursday evening, 19th April, at 8:30 P. M.

Heretofore, the Glue Club has given two consecutive performances of their final Academic-Year production; but this year—due to the high rental price of costumes, scores and production rights for this new, popular American work—they have decided to waive the point of profit, and will present "Lelawala" (and themselves), solely on merit.

Another departure. For this production, every seat will be reserved. Every seat will be good. The sale therefore is necessarily limited.

Only lettered and numbered seats in the first two-thirds of the house are to be sold; and those at a uniform (one) price.

In other words, the Glee Club believes that Lewala is the kind of a work that entitles the discriminating person who chooses to attend assurance that he or she will have good seats.

Admittance charges are made, then, only to fund the cost of production.

Anyone who attended the Glee Club's last production, "Trial by Jury," will admit that in it they seemed to have struck stride by choosing the kind of a vehicle best suited to their particular organization. Even more so is the Lelawala Opera.

The story of the Opera is of the beautiful legend of Niagara, the "Tunder Waters" of the Indians. In time gone by, during a famine, the Great Spirit called for the sacrifice of a virgin and Necia, the Chief's daughter, volunteered. On a set day she drifted over Niagara Falls in a white, flower-decked canoe; the anger of the Great Spirit was appeased and the famine ended.

When war is threatened by the Delawares, a much larger tribe than the Oniahgahrahs, the Spirit of the Waters is appealed to and again demands the sacrifice of a virgin. Lelawala, daughter of Chief Wokomis, volunteers; the Council meets and she is formally chosen to die in the Tunder Waters three days hence.

Meanwhile, white characters appear upon the scene, including Eagle Eye, a famous scout, Major Wallace, commandant of a fort, together with his daughter, Mabel, and several soldiers and their families.

Shingela, the Wyandot Chief's son, also appears for a second time to sue for the hand of Lelawala and is again rejected. Burning with hurt pride and wishing to save her life, he conceives the bold plan of spiriting her away by a secret trail. With two braves, he kidnaps her and Mabel, while walking together, and slays Lelawala's brother, Klolowar, when he interferes.

The two maids are held in captivity by a camp-fire in the forest. When all are

Furlow Air Corps Bill Reported To House

AIR CORPS HAVE PROSPECTS OF SEPARATE LIST

Senate Committee Will Probably Report New Promotion Bill This Week

Word received from Washington by the NEWS Thursday morning stated that the Furlow Bill, which provided for a separate promotion list for the Air Corps, and for promotion based on length of service in grade, had been reported out of the House of Committee on military affairs. This was expected, according to the service publications of last week. It is not known as to whether or not the provisions are identical with those given in the service papers last week.

The message also stated that the Senate Committee is now working on promotion legislation, and that it was quite probable that a bill would be reported out of that committee the latter part of this week. No doubt some action has been taken by this time.

"LELAWALA"

asleep, Eagle Eye creeps in, awakens the maidens and effects their escap. Shungela is later captured by a pursuing war party, but Lelawala intercedes to save him from death.

Their escape is celebrated with singing and dancing, but joy is dampened when Marpeetopah, the Medicine-man brings another "Spirit" message requiring the sacrifice of Lelawala, by drifting over the Thunder Waters in a white canoe on the following day.

Sowanas ,an Algonquin love rof Lelawala, who has been thought dead, arrives He is heart-broken to learn of her impending sacrifice and urges her to fly with him, but she remains faithful to her tribe.

As Lelawala is about to enter her flower-decked canoe to make her sacrifice, a messenger from Shungela arrives with the news that the Wyandots have overcome the Delawars in war and killed their chief ,one Chakoos. Marpeetopah also brings a new message from the Spirit of the Waters sparing Lelawala to Wokomis.

A new custom is adopted, whereby the sacrificial canoe is used for a harmless ceremony. Lelawala is wedded to Sowanas and the Great Spirit announces: "I HAVE SPOKEN."

The color, costuming, dancing numbers, action and music beggar ordinary description.

Period costumes (1761), of Indians, white maidens, British Officers and soldiers have all been carefully worked out

The people of that time dressed differently, but in spite of stilted phrases and much dignity and reserve in their everyday doings, they were not unlike us of today. Their dances were more stately their love-making less apparent but the same end was sought—and reached.

Summing up, and from more or less continuous observation of the Infantry School Clubs' three month's preparation on "Lelawala"; it is the belief of this well-wishing, never-singing, dancing or speaking non-member, that this offering of the Glee Club will eclipse all former efforts.

Marion Boyd, soprano, the leading role of Lelawala, and Captain Cecil Rutledge, tenor, will carry the leading high (male) voice role of Klolowar. Lieutenant Green, 24th Infantry, and Lieutenant Klopp, N. G., Class, appear respectively in the principal baritone-bass leads. Mrs Finney, a contralto of unusual vocal attainments, portrays the typical, well-mannered, English maiden. Captain Bigelow, Advanced Class, foregoes his ecclesiastical leanings and becomes a vengeful Wyandot Indian. Lieutenant Jake R. Moon of the Company Officers' Class, makes a wonderful Indian lover, and Captain Jarrett Huddleston, M. C. (Post Psychiatrist) forgets Freud and puts forth some rousing soldier, and soulful lover tunes in a manner which is bound to stamp him as a first-class baritone. Capt. S. G. Saulnier, a wheel horse of the Glee Club, is narrator.

Action and dancing has hereinbefore been referred to. Hazel Barker, mezzo soprano and danseuse—well known to Fort Benning and Columbus, in addition to carrying a difficult principal role, has prepared and trained eight members of the cast in a graceful dance, "Old English Minuet." To quote whoever wrote last week's article on the Glee Club—"it is the best bit of dancing ever seen at Fort Benning or elsewhere."

Four English maidens and four British soldiers participate. It would not be sporting to name them here for their terpsichorean facility will speak for itself later.

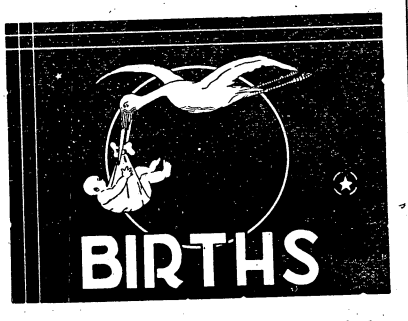
Beautiful period costumes for ensemble and English maidens have been designed and executed by Helen Norris and Lieutenant Burback. Captain Leon Norris will handle stage management and lighting effects. From such a team we may expect—and get—everything.

Particularly appealing to Army and Civ-Army audiences should be the Soldier Choruses, drills, and male four-part choruses which provide part of the comedy which lightens the semi-serious story on which the Opera "Lelawala" is founded.

As in the past, the base (musically) on which the "Lelawala" Opera has been raised, resolves itself down to the untiring work of an individual, Mrs. E Butcher. Assisted by group directors and accompanyists, Mrs. Butcher has cohesed the singing and harmonic part of "Lelawala" till it really is an Opera

All things considered, the Infantry School Glee Club has done many good things in the past.

"Lelawala" is the best work they have ever attempted, and it is believed that the performance on Thursday evening 19th April, will justify their having held together for five years to provide recreation for those who lived, or now live, at the Infantry School.



Edna Lucille Lack, daughter of Corporal and Mrs. Lawrence P. Lack, Quartermaster Corps. Born April 4, 1928.

ARMY MUSIC SCHOOL TO CLOSE

The Army Music School at Washington, D. C., has turned out a ten-year supply of band leaders and as a result is to pass out of existence, according to information received here recently.

Orders were issued Saturday, February 25, by the Secretary of War for immediate discontinuance of the school established in 1923. It has more than fulfilled its purpose of training instructors, and leaders of service musical units. estimating that its enlisted graduates were sufficient to fill vacancies for the next decade.

The ninety-two bands in the Army are not affected by the order.

RIGHT AIR PRESSURE ADDS LIFE TO TIRE

"If motorists would only realize the importance of keeping tires inflated to the correct pressure, they would get much greater mileage and have less trouble wit htheir tires.

"This is especially true of balloon tires, for when used with even four or five pounds less air than they should carry, the loss in tire life amounts to hundreds of miles. Every motorist should know the correct air pressure for his tires and can get this information from his dealer.

"We recommend having the air checked at least once a week. It is an easy matter to stop at our place and have one of the mencheck the air pressure and inflate the tires if air is needed. This service is free to oeveryone in Fort Benning

"It will help in maintaining proper air pressure if the valve is always screwed down tight, the cap turned as far as it will go and a dust cap used to keep the valve in good condition."—Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

AT THE MOVIES

APRIL 13 to APRIL 20, INCL.

FRIDAY, APR. 13

"BABY MINE," starring George K. Arthur with Karl Dane in a comedy purported to be even funnier than this team's "Rookies." The story concerns two rah-rah Collegians at an institute of Physical surgery. There is a hot romance, a hilarious chase for two stolen babies and a complication of difficulties which almost drive the audience into hysterics. If this picture does not make you laugh, then you are beyond redemption. See it.

"In Again, Out Again." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 31."

SATURDAY, APR. 14

"DAREDEVIL'S REWARD," starring Tom Mix in a drama of bandits' bullets and bucking bronks. It is the story of a hardy Texas ranger, known as the man of a thousand disguises, who sets out to clear the country of a band of notorious outlaws. He makes us as a medicine man and proceeds on his dangerous task. A pleasing romance enters into the plot.

"Wolf in Cheap Clothing." Animal Comedy.

SUNDAY, APR. 15

"WEST POINT," starring William Jaines and Joan Craword in a spirited story filmed on the grounds of the United States Military Academy. More than 1,200 cadets ,as well as the army officers stationed at the Point, took part in this production. Life at West Point, as it is to the eye of the camera, is clearly portrayed in spectacular dress parades, drills, barracks life and athletics. The story is an absorbing romance. It reaches a thrilling climax in the Army-Navy football game.

"Paramount News No. 72."

"Topics of the Day No. 48."

MONDAY, APR. 16

"PEAKS DESTINY," a U. F .A. Production, featuring Louis Trenker with an all star European cast. The story is enacted against the beautiful mountain scenery of the Alpes. Some of the highlights are ski races, the dancing girl, and the rescue of men on one of the highest peaks of the Alps during a terrific wind, sleet and snow storm. The plot possesses the usual warmth of romance so characteristic among European productions. Its type is melodramatic.

"Hawk of the Hills No. 9."

TUESDAY, APR. 17

"WHITE PANTS WILLIE," featuring Johnny Hines in a cyclone of mirth. He is an auto mechanic with beau brummel ideas which throw him into a mystic maze of comical events. Donning white pants, he embarks to deliver a car to a pleasure resort. Here he is taken for a famous polo player—introduced to the daughter of a financial magnet, and circumstances so weave a net about him that he has to make good on the polo field. After a series of difficulties he comes out most pleasantly—successful, he wins a beauty and the interest of her father in his invention. The story is pleasing throughout.

"Panting Papas." Standard Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, APR. 18

"FINDERS KEEPERS," starring Laura La Plante in a tale of marriage a la railroad—war is hell, but so is love when a Colonel's daughter falls in love with a buck private. She found herself engaged to half of the regiment, because she didn't have the heart to say "no" when the boys proposed. It is a mystery comedy from the pen of Mary Roberts Rineheart, which ran in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Paramount News No. 73."

ADDED SPECIALTY ATTRACTION: "Making of a Great Newspaper" —showing mechanically and otherwise the tremendous task of placing before the eyes of the public the great events of the day. This film is interesting and educational.

THURSDAY, APR. 19

"ROSE OF THE GOLDEN WEST," starring Mary Astor with Gilbert Rowland. It is a captivating romance of California's era of Spanish rule. The story is founded upon historical fact and shows how a romantic and fiery youth, and a starry eyed and divinely beautiful senorita upset the intrigue of nations in the quest for California.

"Collegians No. 7."

FRIDAY ,APR. 20

"RED HAIR," starring Clara Bow

and Lon Chandler in a romantic comedy with plenty of action and climaxes. It the story of a gold digging manicurist who vamps three middle-aged professional men. She induces they to buy expensive jewelry for her then—divides one evening among the three of them. She then announces her departure—she meets another gay lothario under trying conditions and through ruses vamps him, then the fun begins. Her latest conquest proves to be under the guardianship of her first three professional men. There are complications galore.

"Human Fly." Fables.

U-R WELCOME HOWARD BUS INC.

By H. Cooper

I will have to compliment you
On your neat way of handing back,
The very slight remark I made
About your Packard hack.

I know that I am bested
And there is nothing else to do,
But gather up the remnants
And bring them all to you.

But I did not condemn you
And my complaint you'll have to say,
Was more than justified
On that particular day.

I had a growl coming
And my word I must sustain,
And if you do not believe it
Go set out in the rain.

You most assuredly have given service
No grievance 'ere before,
But when I get my trousers wet
It Darn sure makes me sore.

But there is something really funny
About the way we stand,
When crowded in your buses
Like a sardine in a can.

But none have heard us grumble
And no can say they can,
For we stand up till our feet grow corns
And take it like a man.

But henceforth and forever
Before I'll make a fuss,
I will grab a Howard Taxie
Or take a Howard Bus.

CHAPEL GUILD BRIDGE PARTY BIGGEST AFFAIR OF THE SEASON

Much interest has been centered in the Charity Bridge sponsored by the Chapel Guild and given on Thursday afternoon. More reservations were made than could be accommodated at the Polo Club so larger quarters were sought and after the Hop Room was filled to its capacity a large number of requests for reservations had to be turned down. It is indeed gratifying that this effort of the Guild has met with unprecedented success. Those making reservations were: Mrs. Edgar T. Collins, Mrs. Helms, Mrs. Ahrends, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Ladd, Maj. Bootz, Mrs. Lockhart, Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Isaacs, Mrs. Van Vleit, Mrs. Ferris, Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. March, Miss Williamson, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. Tack, Mrs. Hester, Mrs. H. H. Wilson, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Ralph Jones, Mrs. Becque, Mrs. Mabbitt, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Ralph Kingman, Mrs. Stayer, Mrs. Parkin, Mrs. Overfelt, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Bissell, Mrs. Colson, Mrs. Pulliam, Mrs. Drollinger, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Torrey, Mrs. Reichle, Mrs. Brett, Mrs. Littell and Mrs. Goodrich.

THE MISSES YOUNG ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MISS BISSELL

On lost Wednesday Misses Helen and Louise Young were hostesses at a beautiful luncheon honoring Miss Frances Bissell, the charming bride-elect of Lt. Shirley R. Hunt. The centerpiece of the large table was exquisite, whit iris and bridal wreath being used in a handsome silver bowl. Silver candlesticks held tall pink tapers. On the small tables similar decorations were used, and dainty bride place cards designated where the following guests found their places: Miss Frances Bissell, Miss Dade Warfield, Miss Kate Kingman, Miss Dorothy Russ, Miss Gwynn Helen of Washington, D. C., the guest of Capt. and Mrs. Gwynn, Miss Louise Meyer of New Rochelle, N. Y., the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Randolph, Miss Ruth Ahrends, Miss Louise Weston, Miss Katherine Davis, Miss Katherine Falconer, the guests of Maj .and Mrs. Ralph Jones, Miss Helen Shumway of Hartford, Wis., the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Dailey, Mrs. John D. Forsythe, Mrs. Norman Rapdolph, Mrs. T. K. Ramsey, Miss Helen Young, Miss Louise Young. The bride-to-be found a lovely gift at her place.

Mrs. A. E. Shumway and her daughter, Miss Helen Shumway, of Hartford, Wis., arrived last Wednesday for a month's visit to Maj. and Mrs. George F. N. Dailey. Mrs. Shumway is Mrs. Dailey's sister.

Ms. Fred W. Caswell honored Miss Margaret Graham of New York City with a delightful afternoon bridge on Thursday of last week. Wood lilies and azelia were used for decoration. There were four tables of players and lovely hand-made dotted swiss dressing table runners were given for table prizes. Those winning were Mrs. Paul Steele, Mrs. Clyde Grady, Mrs. John Rodgers and Miss Graham. Miss Graham and Mrs. Ada Shewman of California were each given as special guest's prize a bottle of Yardley's Bath Crystals.

Lt. and Mrs. Ivan L. Foster were hosts at a delightful bridge-dinner on Thursday evening at their quarters. Pink was the predominating color note. Wild azelia with tall pink tapers formed the lovely centerpiece of the dining table, and tall tapers were used on each of the four small tables. A single pink rose designated the place for each guest. After dinner the tables were arranged for bridge. Those present were Maj. and Mrs. Jones, Capt. and Mrs. Busch, Capt. and Mrs. Clark, Capt. and Mrs. Weston, Capt. and Mrs. Johnston, Lt. and Mrs. Dawson, Lt. and Mrs. Baumann, Lt. and Mrs. Vinson, Lt. and Mrs. Reichle, Lt. and Mrs. Hayes, Lt. and Mrs. Foster.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Moon of Goodwater, Ala., are the guests of their son and daughter, Lt .and Mrs. Jacob R. Moon.

Mrs. T. F. Wessells entertained five tables of bridge on Friday afternoon. Dogwood was effectively used with green candles fr decoration. Mrs. Axel Hawkenson won first prize, an Italian linen luncheon set; Mrs. S .L. Dunlop won second, a lavender morning frock, and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge won low, a guest towel. After the game chocolate and strawberry cakes were served with chicolate ice cream sodas.

* * *

Mrs. John D. Forsythe was the lovely hostess at a five-table bridge party on Tuesday afternoon. Tulips and spirea from her garden were artistically used in the decoration of her charming home Tulips in red and yellow blossomed among green leaves on her score cards, and the same colors were carried out in the salad course which was served at the conclusion of the game. Rubber bridge was played and Mrs. Hume, Mrs. Wharton, Mrs. Almond, Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Baker were the lucky winners of exquisite hand-painted Camilles (whose colonial skirts concealed powder jars), one in pink, one in blue, one in lavender, one in yellow, and one in a combination of pastel shades—the work of the talented hostess.

Maj. and Mrs. Norman Randolph and Major and Mrs. Leland Hobbs were hosts at a lovely dance at the Polo Club on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Everett Bush and Mrs. Ira Black are hostesses to Pan-Hellenic this afternoon at the home of Mrs. black.

The Post Bridge Club met Tuesday afternoon at the Polo Club. Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Killpack were hostesses and Mrs. Doll, Mrs. Ben Norris and Mrs. Barr won first, second and third prizes in the order named.

The Dramatic Club presents its only three-act play of the year tonight, which, by the way, closes its very successful season, and tomorrow night at the 29th Infantry Theater. There will be a number of dinner parties before "The Butter-and-Egg Man."

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. S. L. Dunlop have as their guests Mrs. Dunlop's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tylee of Boston, Mass. They motored down arriving last Thursday night.

Mrs. Holmes Dager and Mrs. Raymond Lavin have issued invitations to a bridge party at the Log Cabin on Friday, April 27th.

Capt. and Mrs. E. S. Johnston accompanied Capt. Johnston's mother, Mrs. W. B. Johnston, as far as Atlanta on her return to her home in Indianapolis after a happy month spent with them.

Miss Arlene Sander of St. Paul, the guest of Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist, was honoree at a delightful bridge dinner on Monday evening.

The dance on Saturday night to be given by Lt. and Mrs. Robert Chaffee Oliver at the Polo Club will be one of the loveliest of the season.

Twelve golf lovers were entertained by Capt. and Mrs. Louis J. Lampke on April 7th for the pleasure of Mrs. Isaacs who is visiting them. After an afternoon on the links dinner was served and a game of bridge enjoyed at their quarters. Major Squires and Mrs. Tamraz made low score at golf and were given golf balls as consolation. Capt. Case and Mrs. Isaacs made highest score at bridge.

* * *

Mrs. R. Julia Johnston is the guest of her son and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Young. Mrs. Johnston has spent the winter in Florida and stopped over for a few days with her daughter, leaving the latter part of the week for her home in Asheville, N. C. On Tuesday evening Maj. and Mrs. Young honored their mother with a delightful dinner party. Their guests were Col. and Mrs. Franklin, Maj. and Mrs. Bootz, Capt .and Mrs. Steel, Capt. and Mrs. Case, Misses Helen and Louise Young. After dinner the party went to the Post Thcater.

GENERAL HARRIS VISITS POST

Brig.-Gen. C. W. Harris, Adjutant General of the state of Arizona, visited Fort Benning Tuesday. While here he visited with several officers who are attending the National Guard class, and also called upon The Commandant, General E. T. Collins. He was en route to Washington to attend a conference in the office of the Militia Bureau.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Place—Polo Club.
Date—First and Third Mondays.
Next Meeting—April 16th.
Time—2:15.

The Infantry School Woman's Club will hold its last meeting of the spring on next Monday afternoon. There will be a general summing up of the club's activities for the year and the reports will be a source of pride for this has been a year filled to overflowing with worthwhile activitties. Officers for next year will be elected and certain matters of vital interest and importance to the club will be discussed and decided upon. After the business there will be an interesting program followed by tea.

This closes the best year the club has ever known. Mrs. Wait C. Johnson has been a most capable and most gracious presiding officer knowing so well how to meet and handle the situations constantly arising before an executive. She has never lacked the needed word or gesture. It is with regret that we see her lay down our gavel.

Especial appreciation and gratitude are due the excellent program committee composed of Mrs. W. W. Brier, Mrs. J. C. Baker, Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist, Mrs. Lee M. Hester and Mrs. C. B. Mickelwait who have so generously given of their time and thought to bring before the club the many entertaining ,inspiring and delightful programs which have made the club the success it has been.

MRS. C. B. MICKELWAIT

Fort Benning bows in grief at the death of Mrs. C. B. Mickelwait. She was so cordial, so charming as an acquaintance; so sincere, so true as a friend; so upright, so inspiring as a woman; so capable, so unselfish, so thoughtful, so devoted, so precious as a daughter, wife, and mother that her untimely going makes a sad breach in the lives of all who knew her, and leaves an ever-aching sense of loneliness in the hearts of those privileged to love her.

With a self-forgetfulness to which only the noble are born, she went about quietly carrying on, and because of her keen sense of duty and her fine feeling of loyalty she, though very ill, on last Monday performed a public duty before she would consent to go to the hospital. Desperately ill with pneumonia for scarcely a week she gave up life's battle on Easter night. She is survived by her husband, Lt. C. B. Mickelwait, three small sons, Kenneth, Malcolm and Aubrey; her mother, Mrs. Butler, two sisters, Mrs. George Fuller of Fair Hope, Ala., and Mrs. Beverly Mills of Los Angeles, California, one brother, Mr. Aubrey B. Butler of North Hampton, Mass.

Funeral services were held at the Protestant Chapel Wednesday morning where a myriad of beautiful flowers and a host of heavy-hearted friends bore silent testimonial of how dearly beloved she was. Her final resting place will be in North Hampton.

The successful life is measured not by length of years but by the service it has rendered, not by what of fame or fortune it has gotten for self, but by what of inspiration, hope and happiness it has given to others. Three precious lives have part and parcel of her being and in them she lives on among us. Her fine embodiment of culture, gentility and poise, her understanding, sympathy, her good sportsmanship, her joyous youthful spirit, her loving kindness, her walking in His way have touched to finer issues all who came in contact with her. So Gladys Butler Mickelwait goes

"To join that choir invisible
Of those immortal dead who live again
In minds made better by their presence,
Whose music is the gladness of the world."
—Kate Parker Vinson.

PLENTY TO SEE HERE THIS WEEK

The News has endeavored to "get a line" on everything that is going to happen at Fort Benning the coming week. There will be plenty to see for every one. Polo tournament will begin next Wednesday; big fight card same night on Gowdy Field; Dramatic Club will "strut their stuff" in the "Butter and Egg Man" tonight and tomorrow night at the 29th Infantry; baseball on Gowdy Field on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday; polo on Sunday afternoon. And then the movies every night in the week; the showing of the big picture "The Making of a Great Newspaper" will be shown at the Main Theater next Wednesday. This film three reels, portrays the inside workings of the publication of that great daily, "The New York Times." This film was procured by the NEWS—hope you like it. Plenty to see this week, we'll say.

Library and Service Club

Through the efforts of Mrs. Inez Brittain and Sgt. Walter A. Shepard, who are responsible for the welfare of the guests of Service Club No. 1, a more pleasant Easter Sunday was passed this year by the Enlisted Personnel of the Garrison, than any previous Easter in the memory of the Club.

Mrs. Brittain and Sgt. Shepard, Hostess and Steward, respectively, have secured the interest of the Rose Hill W. C. T. U. of Columbus, towards the Enlisted Men, and accordingly, surprises were in store for those who dropped around to the Club on Easter Sunday.

There were cakes, candy, cookies, Easter eggs, doughnuts and favors, all made at home by the members of this excellent organization, and distributed at the hostess' desk with the compliments of the Union.

There never was a truer saying than that of Napoleon's, to the effect that an army travels on its stomach. And even though this is a peace time army, and travels very little, it has a stomach just the same. The difference being that a peace-time army's stomach is the direct route to its heart. So the Enlisted Men of Fort Benning wish to express, through this column, their hearty appreciation for the efforts given and interest shown them by the Rose Hill W. C. T. U.

Plenty of tuxedos will be in evidence at the big fight next Wednesday evening at Gowdy Field. There will be forty rounds of real boxing, put on by men who participated in the Olympic Tryouts and the Southeastern Invitation Meet at Mobile this month. Don't fail to plan to attend this big card. There will be plenty of action.

Damming the Flood—Molly (weary of sermon): "Mummy, if the church caught fire, would he stop then?"

CHARITY BRIDGE A SUCCESS

The Chapel Guild Charity bridge party held at the Officer's Hop Room yesterday was a big success. There were fifty-four tables in play. Due to the lack of space, it was impossible to accommodate ten more tables, which had been requested.

LIEUT. DUNN ON SPECIAL DUTY

Lieut. T. L. Dunn, 15th Tanks, has been placed in charge of the swimming pool. He was coach of the Fort Benning champions from the Tanks last summer.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

Monday, after the reunion of the labor battalion, we felt worn down to the proverbial nub! The engineering department of our mind had functioned to the last shovelful. And now our infantry back creaks like rusty hinges on the door of a haunted house.

In this, as in all previous wars, the simple infantry soldier rarely guesses what it's all about. We understand, however, from a highly fictitious source, that Chevalier Badly Bent, lost in the abysmal depths of the last ditch, knelt down with his ear to the ground. He seemed to hear faint booming of the guns of the Chinese War.

There is another rumor afloat to explain our enlistment in the coolie class. It is alleged that the silent Knights had struck oil and desired to exploit the situation. But the more cynical brethren regard this as the kind of oil that occurs in bananas. However the most credible short handled shovelful is that the mission of Monday's maneuver was to clean the cosmoline from the engineer tools.

As we did our dirty dozen, to say nothing of dirty digs, we heard Contractor Halloran bemoan the fact that the technique of the pick, which reached full bloom with the wild Irish rose of the nineties, had fallen into sad desuetude (play that on your Bangalore Torpedo). Boss Hasson asked us for our union cards. But Walking Delegate Cushman said we were picked men ,and that the A. F. L. would authorize our daily dint on the watermains.

Just to show the enthusiasm with which the ragtime shoveliers attacked their tasks; Mattockman DeWitt stripped to the waist and waded into the soft granite and carborundum with the impetus of the typhoon and the Kansas cyclione. This modest (?) officer, in trying to pooh pooh his sterling field fortifying qualities, said the reason he couldn't keep his shirt on was that some hunky in the labor gang shoveled a sahara of rough diamonds down his neck. But, of course, no one would do a thing like that!

A fortifying thought is the latest unauthentic data on the coming examination. The buzzing (with apologies to Beatrice) seems to be ,according to the course so far, that we may reasonably expect a requirement on the history of obstacles from Nero to the Chattahoochee River (all inclusive). Also, we may be asked to deliver a ten minute break on the "Infantry Mind." And lastly, as they say in the bedt-ime stories, we may be required to put in a he-man hour in the excavation for the new library.

ROBERT GRAHAM MOSS

. . . "and all the elements so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man'."

On Friday morning, April 6th, the Fort Benning Garrison was shocked to learn of the sudden death, from heart failure, of Major Robert Graham Moss, of the Advanced Class. The blow came suddenly and without warning, Major Moss having gone out to dinner the night before in apparent good health. During the evening he spoke of feeling ill and left the gathering early. Death, who had passed him by on a dozen battlefields, was waiting at the door of his home. The final summons came and the grim messenger would not wait.

Robert Graham Moss was born at Annapolis, Maryland, on March 7th, 1891. He attended St. Johns College taking his AB degree and the degree of AM two years later. He also held the degree of AB and LLB from the Maryland Agriculture College.

Entering the 1st Infantry, Maryland National Guard, in 1916, he served four months on the Mexican Border as a 1st Lieutenant of that organization. In November of the same year he was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the Regular Army and immediately promoted to 1st lieutenant. In July of the year following he received his promotion to Captain in which grade he served with distinction throughout the war. The notification of his promotion to Major was received on the morning following the night he died. There was a touch of bitter irony in the circumstance that the gold leaves, which the Advanced Class had provided in anticipation of the traditional ceremony which was to mark his promotion, should have been pinned on the coat that he wore after the trappings of rank had become merely the symbols of something that no longer mattered.

The war record of Major Moss is one of which any soldier might well be proud. Six battle clasps adorn the ribbon of his Victory Medal and each stands for front line service in command of a combatant unit. As a member of the 3rd Division, in command of Co. "K", 38th Infantry, he participated in some of the hardest fighting the American Army has ever known, and for all of his reticence when it came to speaking of his war service, there was that about him that made one recognize him at once for a man who knew war in all of its stern reality—one who had truly "smelt it and felt it and seen."

Major Moss wore two silver stars on his Victory Ribbon, one for the wound received in the action which immortalized his division as the "Rock of the Marne" and the other for a divisional citation which speaks for itself.

"Moss, Robert G., who showed exceptional personal heroism, leadership and niitiative on July 22nd, 1918, near Franquet Farm, France. His company, protecting the flank of the Battalion, was flanked on both sides by strong forces of the enemy. By his inspiring example he maintained great steadiness in his Platoon and accomplished his mission."

At St. Mihiel and again in the Argonne, we find Captain Moss still in command of his old company, leading it into those actions which broke the line and the spirit of a stubborn foe and conquered a peace for the war weary world. Then, with the Armistice, this veteran of many battles became a soldier of peace, performing the duities which well to his lot in the same quiet and capable manner which had marked his conduct throughout the soul-testing days of 1918.

In early 1917, Moss married Miss Inez Zaragosa. To her and their children, a son aged ten and a daughter seven, goes the heart-felt sympathy of the entire Fort Benning Garrison.

Bob Moss was the possessor of scholarly attainment and high soldierly qualities, but it is not for these alone that he will be remembered by his fellows. His modest demeanor, his unfailing good nature, his keen sense of humor and ready wit and his unassuming good fellowship endeared him in the hearts of all who knew him. By his fellow members of the Advanced Clsas he was recognized as one who possessed that none-too-common combination of talent, modesty and good sense. He held at once our high esteem and our deep regard.

On Sunday morning the Advanced Class and a few intimate friends assembled to follow all that was earthly of Robert Graham Moss to the train that was to bear the body to a soldier's grave in Arlington. On Monday morning we were again assembled to carry on with the business for which we are here, but there is a gap in our ranks which cannot be filled and the vacant chair in the Assembly Hall casts a shadow over our spirits. When the school year ends and we scatter to other posts, the keen sense of loss which we all feel now and will continue to feel while the class is together will pass, but always we shall cherish in our hearts the memory of the comrade whose promising career suffered such untimely eclipse.

We shant attempt to conceal our disappointment over the lack of entrants in our Poular Visitors contest. We thought at least half of the garrison would be entered by this time. But we haven't given up hope. Members of our immediate family such as T. W., K'Nannie, John, Jiggs, Jimmy, Dicky, Snoopy and Jack are all barred from competing. With these exceptions our only visitor has been Clara MacGuire. Now hurry u pand enter. Visiting hours are from 9:30 to 11:00 in the morning and from 2:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon. On account of technicalities we cannot officially credit visits made outside of these hours but we shall enjoy them none the less.

After jamming fifty feet of garden hose, nozzle and all down our throat the other morning ,our doctor very calmly walked off and left us to live or die. Well we didn't die but somehow we are kinda disappointed that we didn't. While we were still trying to swallow this rubber hose, we were given a cup of tea and some crumbled toast and told to eat this meal. We did and how! We are certain that we should have departed this life had it not been for S. L. Dunlop a fellow patient who played cribbage with us during the hour these tests were being made.

We actually believe that this hospital is the noisiest place we have ever seen, and we are not necessarily confining our comparison to other hospitals. Doors bang continuously; the plumbing in the bath next our room makes more noise than a pneumatic riveter; orderlies sans rubber heels, tramp up and down the corridors, and they occasionally burst into song. Various kinds of trucks with squeaking wheels are pushed up and down the hall all day; at meal time dishes and pans are rattled in such a fashion as to do credit to any hash joint. Automobiles honk outside and motors are raced without consideration of those inside. We are certainly glad that we are not suffering from a disease that requires absolute quiet.

AND NUTHERTHING! The day we were ordered to bed for an indefinite period, they transferred our favorite nurse from duty on our ward to another. We attempted to file an objection with the head nurse but that kindly lady very promptly informed us that there were other patients in the hospital deserving of good treatment. Now if we were one of the other nurses we—er—oh very well.

Gee whiz but we are hungry. We haven't had anything to eat for days and we understand we shall continue out fast for several more. Every hour a white clad nurse appears and gives us a teaspoonful of milk and egg and this is what we are paying our $1.00 a day for. Golly! but we would give anything for a carton of saltines and a cup of tea.

T. W. is going to write our column for us while we are in the house on the hill so we havetobe very careful of what we say. It's going to be hald to keep this column going during our incarceration but we shall make the attempt.

Come on and see us and get your name in the book.

I. S. D. NOTES

First awards have been made in the "Prize Tent Contest." The places were as follows:

1st Prize—Tent No. 19, Pvt. 1cl. John C. Ryan in charge.

2nd Prize—Tent No. 30, Corp. Philipp Woidyla in charge.

3rd Prize—Tent No. 7, Sergeant's tent.

Tent No. 41, Corporal Vaughn in charge, won the prize for the most homelike. The prizes are cigarettes in cartons and are awarded weekly. Jack Ryan admits there is something ironic in giving him Camels.

Sgt. Jim Lykins, lately o fthe Asst. Personnel and more lately our near First Sergeant has transferred to Ft. Thomas. Kentucky. Tech. Sergeant Schillings has succeeded him as First Sergeant until the return of Sergeant Glenn.

Corporal Pell of the Library has been discharged, re-ups and has gone on a furlough before returning to actual duty.

Pvt. Todd, who came to the outfit as a clerk and stenographer has turned out to be a barber. Who says the I. S. D. don't work wonders in a man.

Harry Stein has a pair of shears that are going to be turned over to the Smithsonian Institute. He says they are no good. He bought them at Fort Sill, fifteen years ago and now the handle has come off. "Cheap goods," says Harry.

Hosts and hostesses will do well to keep in mind the big fights which are scheduled for next Wednesday evening at Gowdy Field. See ad in this issue.

A LETTER TO YE EDITOR

It seems to be the thing these grand days of prosperity for one to be one's own publicity agent. I don't much approve of that style of publicity, but as the case stands, I must come out and tell you people something of myself. I do not attempt to place myself in the class with O. O. McIntyre or T. H. Alexander, as a Columnist. In fact, I have no ambitions to become one of those terrible creatures who become the butt of many puns. I must make this column a little personal, for the reason that I do not know anything about other people's furloughs; that being the subject of this sudden outbreak.

In the beginning of the year A. D., 1928, I ventured forward into the wild unknown (to myself) experiences of a furlough. On the 6th day of said year, I took authorized leave of Fort Benning and its many pleasant activities, with the small town of Benton, in the heart of our Magnolia state, namely, Mississippi as my goal. The sledding was something fierce. By 5:45 of the seventh of January, I was one lonesome Soldier. I wished many times that I could be back where the bugles were blowing, and I could hear First Sergeant Craine send out in his challenging tones, the command: "Fall in." When to my utter amazement, I heard someone in tones familiar, greet me with, "Hello there Swa-z-e." I had already suspicioned who it was, and upon turning in the direction of the peculiar sound, "deserned" that it was none other than my First Sergeant, Norbert L. Craine, who hails from that beautiful little town, Belzoni, in the garden spot of my own beloved state. He was free from all signs of sand spurrs and "Georgia Complexion," and successfully looked the part of "The Gentleman from Mississip, Suah." He was certainly good for sore eyes, which I had a bad case of, due mainly to the fact that I had used them too much observing the familiar scenes of my old "Stamping Grounds."

We were at this time entering Jackson, the Capitol of my dear state ,and at the hour of 6:00 A. M., January 7, 1928, we took leave of our means of transportation, which by chance was a train of the passenger variety.

As we left the Union Station, we came face to face with the question, "Where shall we go?" Sgt. Craine settled that question by answering, "One does not take a furlough every week, let us have the best that money can buy." So to settle that question for once and all, we went to the Edwards House and requested rooms. The carpets were so thick o nthe floor that one could not be heard plainly if the floor was thumped by a soldier's foot that was armored in "G. I. Shoes." Sergeant Craine gave proof to this fact by jumping up and down in room 562 for a period of fifteen minutes. I thought that this was a very dump thing to do, but let on that I had not noticed it. My dumbness came out though, when upon entering the bath room seeking a place to take a bath, I began to look up toward the ceiling to locate the showers that Iwas used to, and to my dismay found none. I came out and told Sergeant Craine to ring the desk and tell them to give us another room quick, as this one did not have a bath in it, and we had paid for a bath. Sergeant Craine then came and showed me the tub, which was so neatly tucked away as to make it look more like an ornament than a tub. You know I have been quite used to theround tin tub variety, especially on Saturday nights.

We then proceeded to forget that we were tired and donned our uniforms and went "for to see what we could see." After having strolled around for about eight blocks too much ,we returned to the hotel, and I left with my mother and some friends for my home. I left Sergeant Craine there to enjoy the softness of the rugs in the Edwards House for the remainder of the day and the approaching night, after which he would board the train for Belzoni, which was his destination.

That night I experienced the real feeling of "Goose hair" around my body, and I slept as I had not slept for many moons. The softness of real sheets once I was between them, succeeded in carrying me into a swooning, dreaming sleep which was very enjoyable on my part. The best part of that rest was the hour at which I arose. I was finally persuaded to arise at the hour of nine A. M., and it was not Sunday morning, either. I was greeted at the breakfast table with food that I had ften dreamed of, but had failed to taste for many years. The remainder of the day was spent in much conversation and many exchanges of greetings.

Due to the length of my furlough, I will be compelled to make a sort of continued story of this subject,as it were. If you like it, read it. If you do not like it, well there is no Army Regulation that I know of that will convict you of a misdemeanor if you fail to look at it.

Until next week then. . . . . .

B. B. SWAYZE.

BEE'S BUZZINGS

(By Beatrice Davis)

Shame on you "Sawdust" Editor, for being sick through the Easter holidays! Being sick on regular duty, Bee can understand—but being sick on your own time—that strikes Ye Buzzings' Editoress as—positively being old-fashioned, and is simply not cricket!

Captain E. L. "Ricky" Rice, of the Second Section, has announced himself as a candidate to succeed Captain Cook, who will be a student next year, as Secretary of the Second Section. Coptain Rice states, "Being a deep paleo-meditationist by nature, I find that my present duties are too engrossing, and tage up too much of my time, and do not allow my soul sufficient time for the meditation it craves. Nor do I find time for my various social uplift activties." Captain Rice does not sttae in what social activities he is interested in—but of course he must be interested in the I. W. L., the P. W. G. U., and the S. F. S. of W.—for who isn't in this day of humanitarism, et al? Of course, the I. W. L. is none other than the Ice Water League (for those whose coca-cola was a bit too strong the night before), the P. W. G. U. is that sterling club, the Poor Working Girls Union, then the other, the Society for Suppression of Work. Worthy societies, all, and every effort should be made to hel this very excellent office-seeker obtain his appointment!

Lt. Curtis, of the Fifth Section, is looking for a model for Lelawala (or spell it yourself), as he has been commissioned to paint a poster. After stating his objective, Bee promptly tied a shawl around her head, and executed what she considered a fine Indian war-dance, or maybe it was the dance of the Spring, in the hope that he would promptly pronounce her a fine model for old Lelie. This little dance seemed to elicit no remarks from the stern Lieutenant, so she promptly posed "Girlish Innocence," "Young Maidenhood," "Lelie-Herself," "The End of the Trail," "Lelie From Wala-Wala, Washington," but still no cry of "Youre just the model I want," from this artist. Finally, in exasperation, the would-be Lelawala cried, "Well, what's wrong with me as Lelie?" Removing his pipe from his mouth, this Fifth Section Tyrant started, "In the first place, you're blonde, where Lelie is dark—secondly, you're too tall for Lelie—who is a dimunitive little damsel—thirdly, you're—" At this ,the would-be model cried, "Well, Rembrandt, if I don't suit you, then I would suggest Major "Red Cross" Green as Lelie," and with this flaming remark, betook herself to other parts, thinking she would throw consternation into the ranks. However, no cries of "Come back, you're just the model for Lelie, I've changed my mind," sounded forth from the artist. Still, Bee sticks to her suggestion for Major "Red Cross" Green as "Lelawala, the Maid of Niagara."

A hard thing to do these days is to unravel this puzzle: When a young Lieutenant, with an engaging smile rides by, and speaks very politely—the question is—should one say "How do you do, Lt. Colson" (of the 29th), or "How are you, Lt. Dawson" (of the 83rd). A beautiful artificial sun-flower to wear with the full-dress uniform to the one guessing the most times out of ten—which is which.

Sen of a Monday's noon:

Colonel Warfield, Quartermaster, dashing around. News has been received of the transfer of this very efficient and oppular officer, and it is with sorrow that the entire garrison will see him leave—for he and Mrs. Warfield are easily one of the most popular couples at Benning. Yonder stands Captain Mallan, with his police dog. If he had been standing against a Cadillaq or La-Salle, 'twould have looked like one of these illustrations painted by McClelland Barclay, advertising those machines. Yonder is Mrs. Dark, Bee's idea of 'chic."—Lt. Corey is not eating with his two play-mates today, and as Bee approaches, he eyes her askance, for he has been copy for the Buzzings' column for a long time now. Here is the Chaplain, who offers to buy dinner for Louis (the girl friend), and I. Evidently he thinks we look hungry—'tennyrate, he says we looked like we were in distress, and he always iads damsels in distres. There goes the boss, Lt. Allison, who since he's been made Road Fo'man, is about the busiest man in this, the World's Largest Infantry School. And so to lunch. And had Bee a "Benning Brightlight" column, which she had until Captain Nichols claimed she had taken his "Personage of the Week" away from him, she would nominate Mrs. Inez Brittain, hostess of the Service Club—for if anyone has ever come into a Camp and taken the hearts of everyone, it is this same Mrs. Brittain. However, since Captain Nichols made this protest, Bee has discontinued her "Brightlight" column—she only gives this latter suggestion as to what she would do, did she have this "Brightlight" column.

Don't forget that the biggest fight card ever held at Fort Benning will be next Wednesday evening at 7:30 at Gowdy Field. If bad weather, at the Gym.

pecting the "crippled" Doughboy that he hold scoreless for two consecutive games at the beginning of the season at Gowdy Field, he is certainly going to get the surprise of his life, and he will be a lucky tiger to save his hide.

Spectacular Rally in Ninth gives Notre Dame Final Game

With a game each to their credit, the Doughboys and the Fighting Irishmen mixed and mingled in a contest that looked like a sure victory for Fort Benning until the last minute of play in the ninth inning, then things happened that we read of but seldom see.

In the opening inning the Musketeers got busy and shoved over a pair of runs, with a two-run lead Johnnie Roosma was invincible, Jochlyn twirling for the visitors settled down after the first inning holding the soldiers scoreless.

The ninth inning rolled around with the score 2 to 0 in favor of Benning. Notre Dame was at bat for the last time, the first two men were easy outs. With the crowd movin gout, Moran hit one through short, Lordi rolled an easy out to Franz, but as things will happen the "Fat Boy" fumbled, Jochlyn was up, he smashed one to the fence for three sacks tieing the count. Schrall singled to right scoring Jochlyn, Sullivan whiffed. The Musketeers tried to tie the count in thei half but it was to no avail, Notre Dame had got the lucky break in the last minute of play, robbing Roosma of a shut-out and Benning a series.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Benning .....200 000 000—2 8 3
Notre Dame .....000 000 003—3 9 2

Batteries—Roosma and Douglas; Jochlyn and Lordi.

DOUGHBOYS SPLIT SERIES WITH ILLINI

With J. Pluvius sending the rain down in torrents, the Musketeers and Illini baseball teams were unable to play ball last Friday afternoon. Saturday afternoon the teams played a double-header to complete the schedule, and with ideal baseball weather ,the largst crowd of the season was in Gowdy Field stands.

With ideal weather and an ideal crowd both teams fulfilled all expectations by playing two games of ideal baseball. The Infantry taking the first game 4 to 3, while the visitors won the second 1 to 0.

Taking advantage of three errors by Franz at short, the visitors scored two runs in the first inning without a hit. In the third inning Morris replaced Tolle on the mound for the Doughboys, after Tolle had let two runners on the path with none out. Morris worked out of the hole nicely, holding the opposing batters helpless until the eighth inning. when a walk and wild throw by the pitcher gave the visitors their third run.

In the ninth inning the Doughboys staged a batting rally that drove in three runs and won the game.

In the second game Stewart twirled a shut out game for the visitors. Although three Infantry pitchers were used only one run was scored off the trio Morris who pitched and won the opener, got credit for the loss of the second.

First game:
Score by innings: R. H. E
Fort Benning .....100 000 003—4 7 4
Illinois .....200 000 010—3 3 3

Batteries—Tolle, Morris and Douglas; Harington and Snyder.

Second game:
Score by innings: R. H. E.
Ft. Benning .....000 000 000—0 2 0
Illini .....001 000 000—1 6 0

Batteries—Morris, Ellis, Roosma and Douglas: Stewart and Snyder.

SALLY LEAGUERS TAKE SUNDAY'S GAME FROM DOUGHBOYS 11 TO 2

The Macon Peaches hit two Benning twirlers hard to win Sunday's game 11 to 2. McGaha started on the mound for the Musketeers, but gave way to Howard in the seventh inning. The leaguers drove out a total of twenty safe hits to score 11 runs off the two hurlers.

Danforth pitching for the visitors, had something on the old apple that kept the soldiers guessing at all times. The name Danforth was against the twirler. balls were changed every inning, and even yet the Doughboys claim that there was something being put on the ball Well anyway he certainly seemed hold the Indian sign over Benning sluggers. only three scratch hits being made off him.

Kielstrom made two spectacular catches in the outfield that were easily worth the price of admission. Both catches were shoestring scoops of short flies that are mostly safe hits. Manager Wilbur Goode of the Peaches said that during his baseball career he had never seen better catches by an outfielder.

Score by innings: R. H. E
Ft. Benning .....100 000 010— 2 5 8
Macon .....301 000 322—11 20 1

Batteries—McGaha, Howard and McCarthy; Danforth and Moore.

MUSKEETERS FIND HOOSIERS EASY IN FIRST GAME

Monday's game between the Infantry School and Indiana University, found the Doughboys showing a reversal of form over Sunday's game.

Opening the fireworks in the first inning, the Musketeers batted around to score five runs off six clean hits.

After the slaughter in the first inning the visitors settled down and the next five innings was featured by fast clean playing by both teams. A slow drizzle of rain and a heavy field made the going bad for each team. Roosma on the slab for the soldiers was in great form, allowing three hits to the visitors.

The rain began to pour at the beginning of the seventh inning, the game being called, making it a six-inning game.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Ft. Benning .....500 010—6 7 0
Indiana .....010 000—1 3 3

Batteries — Roosma and Douglas; Wright and Burke.

MONOGRAPH

The last monograph of the year was delivered by Capt. Stanley G. Saulnier on the history of the 24th Infantry. The subject was extremely interesting and instructive for the present officers of the 24th Infantry.

Capt. Saulnier is to be congratulated on the excellent presentation of his subject and the delightful manner in which it was given.

He briefly sketched the early history of the regiment from the time of its organization by the fusion of the 38th and 41st Infantries ;its service on the border and in the west; its brilliant duty in Cuba, especially during the taking of San Juan Hill, culminating in the heroic act of the entire regiment in volunteering to nurse yellow fever patients. As a result of this slef-sacrificing duty only one officer and 29 men escaped the dreaded disease.

After this arduous service the regiment left for the Philippines where they saw active service against the insurrectos. It was through the efforts of an officer of the 24th Infantry, Lieut. Taylor, that Agurmaldo was subsequently captured and the backbone of the insurrection broken.

Subsequent service saw the regiment again in the Philippines, with the Punitive Expedition in Mexico and finally at Fort Benning in 1922.

New Officers Join Regiment

Capt. Frank S. Mansfield who has recently been assigned to the 24th Infantry entered the service from the first training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., as a second lieutenant of infantry on Aug. 15, 1917. He was assigned to the 163rd Inf., 41st Division, Camp Greene, N. C., with which division he saw service overseas ,taking part in the San Mihiel and Meuse Argonne offensives. In July, 1918, Capt. Mansfield was transferred to the 9th Inf., 2nd Division.

After returning home from the army of occupation in Germany in 1919 he was discharged. He re-entered the service in 1920 as a second lieutenant regular army and again assigned to the 9th Inf. In December, 1921, was detailed in the Air Corps and relieved in May, 1922; reassigned to the 9th Inf. where re mained until 1922 when he was detailed on recruiting duty until January, 1928. Capt. Mansfield will attend the next Company Officers Class at the Infantry School.

Lieut. J. M. Smith, who has just been assigned to the 24th Inf., graduated from the U .S. M. A. in 1925 and was commissioned in the Air Service. In December, 1925, he was transferred to the infantry and assigned to the 1st Inf. at Fort Sam Houston and Fort D. A. Russell until assigned to the 24th Inf. Lt. Smith will attend the next Company Officers Class at the Infantry School.

OUR BOXING CUT

The boxing cut which is shown in this issue was obtained from the Fresno (Calif.) Bee. Some days ago, very fortunately, we saw a copy of this lively California daily, in which this cut appeared. We wrote the editor for the cut, and we received it last week. This is a very appropriate time to run this feature, as the big fight card is scheduled for the coming week.

HORSE SHOW OPENS THIS AFTERNOON

Benning Poloists Take Opening Game 14-3

INFANTRY SCHOOL POLO TEAM TAKES FIRST GAME 14-3

Led by Major C. B. Lyman, the Infantry School Poloist won a sweeping victory over the Sixth Cavalry polo team in the first game of a three game series, at Shannon Field, Wednesday afternoon 14 to 3.

Before the smashing attack of the bluejacketed Benning malletmen, the much famed Cavalry defense crumbled and went to pieces.

The teamwork of the Infantry School team was wonderful, outriding the visitors at every turn. Aided by excellant work with the mallet the Benningities showed a decided superiority in every phase of the game over their opponents.

Taking the ball from scrimmage the Bluejackets drove down the field, Major Lyman scoring the first goal in the first minute of play, taking the ball on the next play. Another drive down field added another Benning goal, when Major Lyman scored a beatuiful underhand shot. Riding off all opposition the Infantrymen took the ball again on the throwin, rushing it down field into scoring position where Major Lyman scored his third goal of the period.

Forced to fight a defensive battle, the Cavalrymen were held scoreless until the fifth period when Capt. Cheves hit one through the uprights for their first marker.

Major Lyman was high score man for the victors with a total of seven goals to his credit, but credit for the victory goes to the entire team, for each player played his position perfectly. The perfect teamwork of the Bluejackets being the feature of the game.

With an overwhelming lead, the Infantry team relinquished their driving attack in the final periods, the Cavalrymen scoring two more goals bringing their total to three. Capt. Cheves at No. 1 position scored all of the goals for the viistors.

The teams play the second game this afternoon. The game will be played on Shannon Field and will begin at 2:30 p. m.

SEVERAL PARTIES ATTEND THE FIGHT

Quite a number of hosts took advantage o fthe fight card at Gowdy Field Wednesday night, taking their guests there after dinner. Among the number was the party of twelve entertained by Capt. and Mrs. H. C. Barclay. Several parties from the city were noted.

PTOMEY WINS BY DECISION

PTOMEY WINS DECISION OVER DEPRATT IN MAIN EVENT OF BIG FIGHT CARD

By Al Durden

For the fourth time Gunner DePratt and Willie Ptomey mixed and mingled in the squard circle and still the opinion of fight fandom is still divided. Although Ptomey was declared the winner at the end of ten fast and furious rounds of fighting at Gowdy Field, Wednesday night, there was very little to choose between the two men and it was a decision of the hairline variety.

Both men were in the pink of condition, Depratt weighing 165 pounds while Willie tipped the beam at 159.

One of the biggest crowds that ever witnessed the fights at Fort Benning was on hand to see the big fight. Capt. H. C. Barclay was in charge of the fights, and he made effort to make the first fight card of the spring season a big success. And judging by the remarks passed through the crowd, he succeeded in his efforts. A large number of people from Columbus attended.

Capt. J. J. Wilson officiated as referee of the main event.

Round 1

Both boys were waiting for a lead, De Pratt landed a right to Willies jaw, Ptomey worked in close sinking a right and left to the stomach. In a fierce exchange in the center of the ring, DePratt dropped Ptomey with a choppy left to the jaw. Willie came up smiling. They were in a clinch at the bell.

Round 2

Ptomey staggered DePratt with right to the jaw but failed to follow up, DePratt snapped Willies head back with straight left to the face. Willie worked into close quarters where he had all the better of a fierce mixup at close quarters. They were mixing fiercely at the bell.

Round 3

DePratt sent Willie to the ropes with straight left to the head, Ptomey came out to slug but was forced to cover under the doughboys fierce counter attack, Ptomey came to close quarters with a murderous two handed body attack to end the round.

Round 4

Ptomey missed a right to the head and fell into a clinch, Gunner landed a high right to Willies ear but took a one two in the chow hall, Ptomey had all the better of a fierce mixup at close range as the round ended.

Round 5

The fifth round was all DePratts, staggering Ptomey with right hook to the jaw, Gunner drove the Tanker to cover under a barrage of rights and lefts to the head and face. Ptomey sank a hard right to the doughboys midriff as the round ended.

Round 6

The bell no doubt robbed DePratt of a knock out in this round. Both boys came out fast, mixing it up at close quarters in the center of the ring. DePratts chance came as the round ended, in a fierce mixup in a neutral corner, Gunner caught the Tanker square on the button with a terrific right hook, Ptomey staggered into the ropes but the bell killed the doughboys chance.

Round 7

Willie came out as good as new for the seventh round, both connected in a fast exchange to the head, Ptomey worked in close but DePratt tied him up in a clinch. Ptomey landed a one two to the head but took a hard right to the chin in return. Both men were tiring under the fast pace they were going.

Round 8

Ptomey worked both hands to the body at close range, Gunner ripped right to Willie's jaw but the Tanker bored in punishing the Doughboy with his relentless body attack.

Round 9

The ninth was time with both boys playing safe, Ptomey missed a haymaker that would have closed the show, Willie landed a right to Gunners head with out a return, they were in a clinch at the bell.

Round 10

They swapped punches at long range with honors even, Ptomey shook DePratt up with a smashing right to the jaw, following up with a volley of short rights and lefts to the body that had DePratt in distress at the final bell.

AMATEUR BOUTS PLEASE FIGHT FANS

The preliminary card came up to all expectations, and the three thousand fight fans yelled themselves hoarse as Benning and Columbus amateur fighters swapped leather in big league style in ten fast and snappy three round bouts.

The first bout of the evening saw Pal Moore, Benning amateur welterweight champ, take an awful drubbing from Stokely, an unheard of youngster. Stokely supprised fans and opponent by weathering every thing Moore could throw at him, and then stepping in and smacking Moore from pillar to post in the final round. Both boys were from the 29th Infantry.

Ikey Jones and Kid Sellers of the 24th Infantry, formed a battery in the next bout, Ike pitching and the Kid catching, Ike delivered a fast inshoot that stopped the slaughter toward the finish of round one.

Kid Sewell of Columbus requested per-

SIXTH ANNUAL SHOW WILL OPEN THIS AFTERNOON; MANY CONTESTANTS HAVE ENTERED CLASSES

The sixth annual Transportation and Horse Show will open this afternoon on Doughboy Stadium. There are over four hundred contestants in the show this year, which is considered to be largest number ever entered in Fort Benning's outstanding sport event of the year.

Officials, headed by Major H. J. Smith in charge of the show, have been working several months on details for the show.

The show will open at 1:15 p. m. and the classes to be competed in this afternoon are as follows: Officers' hunters, private mounts, ladies' novice jumping, enlisted mens' jumping, jumping touch and go, officers' trained mounts, pair jumping (officers and ladies).

Programs will be distributed to those attending the show this afternoon, which will give the events to take place tomorrow morning and afternoon.

TO MOTORIZE HAWAIIAN DIVISION OF THE ARMY

The success that has attended the motorization of the Field Artillery Brigade of the Hawaiian Divisoin a short while ago has lead to plans being formulated by the War Department that will eventually result in the mechanization of the entire division, the Quartermaster General's Office, according to advices received from

In connection with the motorization of the army, the War Department plans to now partially motorize the Hawaiian Division. Units which will be affected are the Headquarters and Military Policy Company, 2nd Chemical Company 11th Signal Company, 21st and 22nd Brigades, 19th, 21st, 27th and 35th Infantry Regiments all of which are stationed at Schofield Barracks. The Field Artillery Brigade of that Division is now motorized.

Such a plan will affect the replacement of animal drawn transportation by motor equipment. The organizations will be allowed to retain their riding horses and the mules of the Machine Gun Companies, the Howitzer and Regimental Headquarters Companies. The completion of the project will affect a reduction in authorized animals of 374 and increase of motor vehicles of various types of 141.

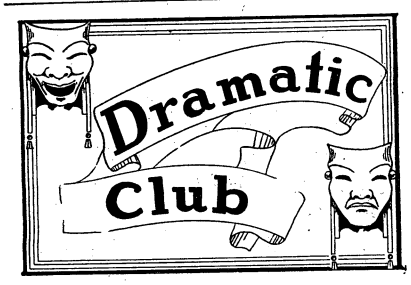
SECOND BATTALION BASEBALL LEAGUE

The first division of the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, ended the other day with Company E in the lead with 1,000 per cent; Co. H, 500; Co. G, 500; Bn Hq. Co., 500.

Every Sunday night will see the Montgomery Players at the Main Theater with a new play. Make your plans now to attend these Sunday evening performances.



SEASON CLOSED WITH "BUTTER AND EGG MAN"

"Okay," said John Audience as the curtain fell on the Dramatic Club's presentation of the Broadway hit, the "Butter and Egg Man" which was presented to Benning theater-goers last Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Its the little man in the brown derby that makes or breaks a New York show and its the John Audience Officer and enlisted man who attends the first night of a Benning production with a firm determination to be shown that its good or not. The Benning first-nighters were on hand with their usual granite faces and try as they could they were forced, by the sheer good acting to break down and laugh and then so give way to themselves as to roar and whoop with uncontrolled mirth. Above the crackle of peanuts and crash of kicked bottles, the first-nighters could be heard a chuckle and a distinct "Okay" of approval.

It is true that the lines of the play by George Kaufman were good and the vehicle a fast moving one but no matter how fast the lines or how possible a performance is, it is is the actors who make the lines live and by their careful shading of acting offer the situation that demands a laugh from the stern visaged audience.

We are first introduced to our two "con" producers of a theaterical "Lemon" who are on the lookout for a "sap" or in the parlance of "Broadway" a "Butter and egg man from the West" with a bankroll. Major Harding as Lehman and Major Peake as the "stick-up-finder" McClure convinced the audience with a neat piece of New York suavety and hardboiled stage freedom that is rarely seen outside of the Big Town. To tell the truth, we have always wanted to manage a show and after listening to the "line" that was handed out by the two producers to their "sap" we almost felt like biting off a share of the interest ourselves. It is no wonder that Peter Jones walked into a fast one—the Lehman-McClure combine was exceptionally well done.

But whether it was the salesmanship of the two play merchants or the winning smile of "Jane Weston" that decided the fate of the "Butter and Egg Man" is too knotty a problem to solve here, however, surfice it to say that from her first entrance Mrs. E. R. Jones held her audience and portrayed a difficult part with grace and earnestness that more than justified the choice of the casting committee. She turned her lines, which were, in many cases, not simple speeches, with all the finish o fa seasoned trooper. We thought that she was splendid.

With such splendid support Captain F. O. Schmidt as the "Butter and Egg Man" carried the show from one side-splitting "sap" situation to another and soon had the willing audience eating out of his hand. One hard face John Audience turned to us and said that he did not know that Captain Schmidt had it in him. Right-the first time. He has never had a nopportunity to show what he had before, and given the opportunity he clicked from start to finish. And what a whirl wind finish. One moment you felt distinct pangs of pity for the "say," then you wanted to go up and shake some sense into him. His acting was convincing, easy going and satisfying and he injected into his character an appeal with which he carried his audience from hearty laughs to silent pity for the small town Ohio youth.

Neck and neck to a wild finish Oscar Fritchie, Captain Harry Gwynn, pushed our "Butter and Egg Man" thru the last two acts, to see who was the biggest "sap with a roll." Captain Gwynn was delightful and characterized a very difficult part with a brand of acting seldom seen on the amateur stage. He got his lines over with unusual gripping appeal, coupled with a nervousness that was one of the best spots in the show. And if you must send flowers—now is the time for he is now up on the hill in the hospital.

And Fanny Lehman, Mrs. Birks, here's a scream from start to finished and although on the boards but a few minutes here and there "Fanny" was a "Wow." Her private bottle scene brought the house down with a decided roar, and when she demonstrated with "just a rough idea of my condition," the show was stopped for several minutes. Her lines were good and put over even better—in all, she put into her part a personality that we believe rivalled the "Gotham" edition, we hope to see more of "Our Fanny."

"Ritzy" Mary Martin, Mrs. Jean Mac Kie, the outraged heroine of the musical show that the Butter and Egg man has purchased, was splendidly charactered and very well acted. Her "situations" were ablely handled and very pleasing. "Peggy Marlowe," Mrs. O'Hare and Kitty Humphreys, Mrs. J. K. Eal s, staged a near-hairpulling scene that brought a road of approval from the audience. Their lines although brief, were well acted and showed splendid ability.

The airy "show-fixer" Bernie Sampson, Lieut. L. A. Diller, breezed in and started off in to put the necessary "punch" in the stage "flop" and all thru his short appearance protrayed with unusual ability this difficult. His scene as pacifier of his lady friend, Peggy Marlowe, was exceptionally good.

A. J. Patterson, attorney at law, Capt. A. B. Helsley, gave a fine exhibition of the legal killjoy who arrives to wreck the "Butter and Egg Man's" fondest hopes. Captain Helsley put over a hard entrance in fine style. Lieut. Camp as the waiter has still left a blank in the minds of his audience a sto what the Chambermaid in number four told him Personnallt, we think it might be a good one and would have liked to hear it. Lieut. Camp filled his part admirably as did Captain F. H. Partdidge as the English director, Cecil Benham.

The ingredients of a pudding may be of the best but is the cook that makes it palitable and eatable and the proof is in the eating. S it is with the "Butter and Egg Man" it was the painstaking direction of Captain John C. Newton that moulded together and served to a delighted audience that dainty comedy morsel the last three evenings of last week, and "so and so and so and so."

Quartermaster Corps

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHAT

Mrs. Drane is all dressed up today. This very versatile lady, who seems to look more charming every day, is the star entertainer of the Quartermaster Corps—for every time a celebrity comes to town, it seems his, or her, stay is not complete until they have been entertained at one of Mrs. Drane's famous suppers.

The doctors, feeling incensed that "our boys" should have the temerity to play them in golf, and that some should beat, have a subtle way of enacting revenge. Captain Lytell, who happened to beat his man in the recent Quartermaster-Medico feud, had a tooth that was aching. Immediately, as he should, he dashed down to the Dental Clinic—but there, who should preside with forceps, and an evil leer, but the player the Captain had defeated! So now, poor Captain Lytell, is going around, after having been maltreated by this vengeful, with a jaw that hurts terribly.

Without a doubt, spring has come in full blast! Miss Margery Zettler, charming Utilities lady, whose mysterious admirer keeps her desk blooming with flowers, has a beautiful bouquet of TULIPS (incidentally Chit-Chat's favorite flower) today. Marge tells us that the Easter bunny was mighty good to her, and many nice things came. Of course, the Bunny didn't forget Chit-Chat, for she was the recipient of a lovely corsage of roses and valley lilies for wearing with her Easter outfit.

The fame of Fort Benning quartermaster employes has spread to other posts. Mr. Whitaker, of the roundhouse, is ordered to Fort Bragg, for the purpose of investigating necessary repairs to certain railroad equipment at that station. He will be gone approximately 5 days.

Everyone is glad that William A. Ford III, whose dad is Principal Clerk of Utilities, has recovered from operation most successfully. And everyone is equally glad to see the old smile on "Daddy" Ford's face agani.

Special announcements will be made from time to time on the plays for the Main Theater every Sunday night.

AT THE MOVIES

APRIL 20 to APRIL 27, INCL.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20

"RED HAIR," starring Clara Bow and Leon Chandler in a romantic comedy with plenty of action and climaxes. It is the story of a gold digging manicurist who vamps three middle-aged professinoal men. She inducts them to buy expensive jewelry for her, then divides one evening among them. She then announces her departure—she meets another gay lothario, under trying conditions and through ruses, vamps him, then the fun begins. Her latest conquest proves to be under the guardianship of her first three professional men. There are complications galore.

"Human Fly." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 31."

SATURDAY, APRIL 21

"THE BRANDED SOMBRERO," starring Buck Jones in a two-gun drama of a ten gallon hat. This story is of a unique type. Throwing all thought of safeyt to the four winds, Buck gives a marvelous performance. His struggle to save Lane from the avariciousness of Maggert, leads both into thrilling and smashing situations.

"Heebee Jeebees." Our Gang Comedy.

SUNDAY, APRIL 22

"SADIE THOMPSON," starring Gloria Swanson in a stirring tale of the South Sea Islands. Sadie Thompson was an outcast girl of mystery from the San Francisco cabarets, and O'Hara, a sergeant in the Marines. The plot centers in a trader's shack on Pago Pago, crossroads of the South Seas—a port of savage lure. Here their souls went primitive; the results; frolic, rivalry, love, error and remorse. This is an excellent picture.

"Paramount News No. 74."

"Horses, Horses." Sport.

MONDAY, APRIL 23

"ADVENTURE MAD," a U. F. A. Production with an all star European cast. Remember that U. F. A. produced the powerful plays, "Last Waltz," "Metropolis" and "Variety." The story deals with a wealthy nobleman who, tired of the monotony of highbrow life, seeks adventure. He finally becomes partially insane brooding over the subject. His predicament is seized upon by a band of international crooks who plan to wreck his home and pain possession of priceless jewels. The scheme used by these crooks, in order to gain possession of the secret combination to the safe, furnishes the keenly interesting plot to this story.

"Hawk of the Hills No. 10."

TUESDAY, APRIL 24

"THAT'S MY DADDY," starring Reginald Denny in a bubbling, sparkling rapid fire comedy from the Prince of Good Cheer. The vehicle of the story is a good plot wherein Denny, as a son of wealth, is ensnared by a girl's family who wants his money—he dashes across town, is caught by a traffic cop to whom he lies and in order to make good his lie he gets into a peck of trouble. His troubles are your laughs. You'll like it.

"Rumros for Rent." Helen and Warren.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25

"THE RED RAIDERS," starring Ken Maynard in a western based upon historical fact. Ken, as a lieutenant of the old army, rides through some of the most thrilling chapters of the early west. He presents remarkable riding feats, roping stunts and acts of daring. A pleasnig romance binds the threads of the story.

"Paramount News No. 75."

THURSDAY, APRIL 26

"A MAN'S PAST," starring Conrad Veidt, the noted character impersonator, in a gripping story, the locale of which is Paris and Persia. Veidt plays the part of a professional man who has mouldered for years in a prison dungeon, then gains sudden freedom only to find that he is forced to pose as the brother of the woman he adores. You will be held in a tense spell by this star's mystery acting. The story is most uncanny and weird. It may be favorably compared with Lon Chaney's productions.

"Collegians No. 8."

FRIDAY, APRIL 27

"SILK LEGS," starring Madge Bellamy and James Hall in the film version of Frederica Sagor's story. Madge plays the part of a silk hosiery drummer whose charm has bewitched her formidable rival. The result is a series of thrilling and dramatic experiences.

"River of Doubt." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 33."

GLEE CLUB PARTY

MONTGOMERY PLAYERS WILL PRESENT PLAYS AT MAIN THEATER

A very important notice for theater goers at Fort Benning. The famous Montgomery Players, which is a stock company, and now playing at the Springer Opera House in Columbus, will present plays every Sunday evening at the Main Theater.

The Main Theater will open at 6:45 p. m. instead of the usual hour heretofore, 7:30 p. m. The usual pictures, news reel and feature film, will be run, after which this excellent company will present one of their many successful plays.

The first performance will be Sunday evening at 6:45, at which time the play "The Push" which has had a very successful run the past week, in Columbus, will be presented.

Detailed announcements of future performances will be made in this paper.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL DONATIONS

During the past week the school fund has been enriched by two very substantial donaitons toward the educatino of the children of the garrison. The final statement and report of the drawing held last month for the coat donated by Mrs. E. F. Rice showed a net balance of One Hundred and Fifty-eight Dollars and Fifty Cents.

At the last meeting of the Women's Club it was voted to donate One Hundred Dollars from the club treasury to the School Fund and a check for that amount was turned over to the officer in charge of the school early this week.

The school deeply appreciates the kindly interest of Mrs. Rice and that of the members of the Fort Benning Women's Club.

WOMAN'S CLUB

WORK REVIEWED FOR THE PAST YEAR; OFFICERS ELECTED

The Infantry School Woman's Club had its last meeting of this club year on Monday afternoon. The work of the Club was reviewed by reports of the president, the secretary, the treasurer, the chairman of the Literary Club, the chairman of the Home Economics Club and the chairman of the Arts and Crafts Club and the resume was proof positive of a most successful year in every particular. It was teh unanimous vote of the club to give $100 to the Children's School. A year book will be gotten out during the summer as a matter of record and as a guide for our successors in the club work. Mrs. Wait C. Johnson, retiring president, made a most gracious talk to the club in which she reviewed a bit of the club's history, its trials in times past, and its unmistakable success in winning a place and meeting many definite needs in the lives of the women of Fort Benning. She spoke with gratitude of the Program Committee upon whose shoulders the greatest responsibility of the success of the club rests, and especially of Mrs. Mickelwait, so dearly beloved by all. In her closing remarks she bade those of us who will be at Benning another year to "carry on" given to the new officers that some fine cooperation thus far characteristic of the club.

Then came the annual election of officers. The recommendations of the Nominating Committee were adopted in full as follows: Mrs. Edgar S. Miller, President; Mrs. Benjamin G. Ferris, Vice-President; Mrs. Chas. D. Roberts, 2nd Vice-President ;Mrs. Leonard Boyd, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Frank Green, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. E. D. Barlow, Treasurer, and Mrs. Leon Norris, Auditor.

After the business, Dr. Rutland, head of the Department of English at Auburn, made an interesting talk on "The Life and Works of Sidney Lanier," after which Mrs. Ernest Barker sang a group of lovely songs.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman was hostess at tea.

NEW MEMBER OF KIWANIS CLUB

The Kiwanis Club of Columbus has elected Captain Thomas L. McKenna, Chaplani Corps, to honorary membership as a representative of hte Army to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Colonel Geo. W. Helms who will soon leave for his new station in Porto Rico.

Shore: "Does yo gurl have much to say to ya?"

Leave: "No, but that doesn't keep her from talking."

FIRST SERGT. MEEKS HAS MANY DECORATIONS

Member of Rifle Team Boasts of 18 Medals; On Special Duty Here From 11th Infantry

Eighteen decorations and medals are quite a decoration for one soldier to wear, but First Sgt. Corbett Meeks, Company "I" 11th Infantry, of Fort

Benj. Harrison, Indiana, can show the boys what kind of a soldier he is when he wants to "dress up." Sgt. Meeks came to Fort Benning last week and is now with the Infantry rifle team getting ready for the National Matches this year. He has been in the service for twelve years, and as you will note below, has had considerable experience on rifle teams.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"What rage for fame attends
both great and small;
Better be damned than mentioned not at all."
—JOHN WOLCOT.

Please note that we have given, in this issue, the full couplet of which the quotation, which sounds the keynote of our weekly remarks, is a part. We have also, for the frist time, given the author the credit which is his due. We have gone to some trouble and expense to trace this quotation to its source. Perhaps we felt that we needed some standard authority for the liberties we take with the Instruction personnel.

The Monday following the Easter Holidays was a bad day for the Vestal Virgins of the Advanced Class, for, among the numerous "U's" that were handed out on the two problems returned, six fell upon hitherto untarnished scholastic records. There was much weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth in certain quarters. Minor Tactician Simmons was for bringing charges against Major Hill and the entire Defense Committee under the 92nd Article of War but cooler counsel prevailed and the outrage was permitted to go unpunished.

Our own brilliant record was shipwrecked on the Howitzer Platoon in Attack. Apparently we selected the wrong kind of a bush for location of the Pound Wonder, but be that as it may, we are by no means convinced that our solution wasn't as good as, if not better than, that of the School. In other words, the picture still looks like a primitive outside plumbing job to us.

If Captain Nichols wasn't so jealous of his "Personage of the Week" copyright, we should unhesitatingly borrow the idea for this issue and designate Major Spaulding as the honored individual. His unique solution for the perplexing promotion problem is a stroke of real genius. In fact, we regard his proposal to send Brigadier General "1st Brigade" and his retinue of high-ranking staff officers out in front of the Advance Guard as the most completely satisfactory device for reducing the Hump that has been suggested to date.

Famous Strategist Decorated

At a recent gathering of the Advance Class near CR 476 (Geological Survey Map, Columbus Quadrangle) Minor Tactician Simmons was the recipient of a unique decoration—a belated but appropriate recognition of his recent activities as a champion of the cause of downtrodden minorities. Major Spaulding, having concluded his discussion of his terrain exercise on the Brigade in Defense, Captain Simmons, still smarting from the effects of the Defense Committee's branding iron, proceeded to assail the School solution in a vigorous speech. He was well launched on his peroration when Major DeVore, on behalf of the class, presented him with a shovel which had been salvaged from the battlefield. Captain Simmons was so overcome by this touching tribute that he was unable to continue his address and the class was dismissed ten minutes earlier than might otherwise been the case.

Athletic News

The approach of the Advance Class Golf Tournament has brought to light an interesting fact connected with the one which Champion O'Hare won last fall. It appears that Purdy was bracketed with Bye in the preliminary round and, after vainly trying for a week to get in touch with the elusive Lieutenant Bye, Captain Purdy won the match by default.

Population Note

Ambassador McLean has authorized the announcement of the arrival of a baby daughter born some two months ago. The Ambassador is a Scot.

On Saturday morning, Captain Heraty was proclaiming to the world in general and to Fort Benning in particular htat he was the proud father of a daughter born two hours or so before. Captain Heraty is a Celt.

We regret that the cusotm of providing the Class with cigars has recently become, "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

Social Items From the Academic Area

On Thursday afternoon Mjaor Randolph entertained the Advanced Class at a lovely al fresco bridge party on the banks of the Chattahoochie. Due to high water and a conflicting schedule which kept most of the 29th Infantry on non-engineering work, certain features of the military pageant, which the host had provided—such as throwing the foot bridge clear across the river—had to be omitted. The Class, however, spent a delightful afternoon, during the course of which it was demonstrated that Colonel Bond's high-hat engineers, to scorn intrenching and refuse to bury our dead also teach that the low-brow Infantrymen should construct his own bridges.

SOMEWHERE IN THE WEST

Somewhere out on the dry and arid plains of the West, a wheezing Chevrolet coupe is slowly wending its way towards the setting sun. If you were to take a close look at the license number on this faithful little toiler, you would see that it was from the red hills of Georgia. You would also be surprised to see familiar faces in the car for it would be none other than our own "Franz" and "Kelly."

Leaving here April 11th, these two soldiers of fortune turned westward, to spend a ninety-day furlough in search of the rainbows' end. Ogden, Utah, is their destination. Instead of shooting wild Indians and bandits, our heroes are going to help this western city win a baseball pennant this season. Already news of their prowess on the diamond have proceeded them to the far west, soon the mighty "Kell" and "Roundboy" Franz will be snagging flies and digging them out of the dirt, far away from Gowdy Field.

Although their absence is a big loss to Fort Benning's baseball team, their many friends and admirers here hope to see them make a big success of their venture into professional baseball.

PENN STATE GRAD AND ATHLETE ENLISTS IN TANK BATTALION

Charles Harold Carver, son of Mrs. Minnie H. Carver of Princeton, West Virginia, has joined Company "B" for a three-year enlistment. Carver, an intelligent lokoing, clean cut youngster, graduated from high school near the top of his class, and then went to Pennsylvania State College for four years. While at that renowned institution he pursued a course in Electrical Engineering, and was very active in athletics and especially football and baseball. He held down positions on the Varsity eleven and the baseball nine. Carver also attended Staunton Military Academy at Staunton, Virginia,f or one year where he specialized in English. The past season he was football coach at the Crawfor-Hulvy Military Scholo in Orlando, Fla. Carver comes here with an excellent educational foundation, and while he would not admit it, yet it might be surmised that he has his eye on a commission in the Army. He also is proficient in swimming, and a runner, his specialty in field meets being the one-mile relay race. He is a baseball pitcher, plays any infield position, and on the gridiron, his old position is quarterback or end. Carver was enlisted at Jacksonville, Florida by Major W. R. Wheeler, Recruiting Officer. In looking over the service records of a bunch of recruits it is amazing to note the fine educational qualifications they have. Next week we will have a whole bunch of them to publish. Recruiting Officers are certainly sending us high class men, and are evidently picking htem with extreme care.—(From Tank Weekly.)

MAJOR SMITH HAS ONE

Another officer at Fort Benning who has recently acquired one of the fine new Dodge Sixes is Major H. J. M. Smith. You will notice a bright new car standing in line in frontof building in which Section Four is located. Well, that's his—maybe; Capt Graham in the same section has one also.

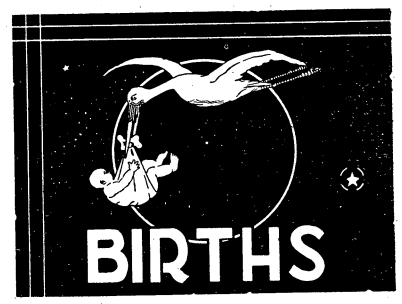
SOCIAL NOTES OF THE N. G.-RESERVE CLASS

Quite a number of officers of the N. G.-Reserve class and their families motored to parts in Florida during the Easter vacation. Among those who took this trip are Capt. and Mrs. C. A. Barnard (Okla.), Capt .and Mrs. Richard Cook (Minn.), Capt. and Mrs. W. G. Hansen (Wisc.), Capt. and Mrs. William A. Kimble (Penn.), Lieut. and Mrs. H. L. Marshall (Ore.), Lieut. and Mrs. J. S. Walker (N. Y.), Capt. and Mrs. H. W. Walmer (Ind.), and Capt. and Mrs. H. A. Ferguson (Okla.).

Mrs. R. M. Weber entertained three tables of bridge last Saturday evening.

Mr. H. H. Capers entertained at bridge-luncheon last Thursday.

Mrs. J. E. Sentell and Mrs. H. W. Walmerare hostess to the N. G.- Reserve bridge club at hte Log Cabin Tuesday afternoon.



Anne Virginia, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Francis J. Heraty, Inf., born April 13, 1928. Mrs. Heraty was the former Miss Virginia Megeath, of Yonkers, New York.

Bertha Faye, daughter of Private and Mrs. Isaac Brown, Company "F", 24th Inf., born April 17, 1928.

Don't fail to see the Montgomery Players at the Main Theater. "The Push" made a hit in Columbus the past week. Many people say this is one of the best stock companies on the road.

As some of our statements of last week were misunderstood, we hasten to remark that ours is an allgeed humorous column. What we write is all in good natures fun and nothing herein should be taken seriously. We will admit that some of our humor has been very sad. But we are not motivated by a spirit of criticism nor shall we ever use this column as a means of making complaints.

We miss the breezy, witty and philosophical writings of Ed Randle and often wonder what has become of him. We imagine that Lieutenant Colonel "A" and Captain Co. "D" have just about got Ed down. You remember Ed said that he would buy us a twenty-cent drink in payment for our eye-shade he borrowed years ago? Well, we have met Ed in the club on several subsequent occasions and he never has had a twenty-cent look on his face yet. We see where Ed is going to Easton, Pa. We hope this is what you wanted, Moon.

We had been getting our teaspoonful of milk and egg every hour for a week when one evening our nurse came in and very proudly announced that we were to get some meat in the morrow. We took a new hold on life and confidently awaited the coming of this new era in the dietetical history we are making. Eventually the day dawned the time arrived and we were served our meat ration. It was about the size of a Post Exchange lamb chop and bore the same relation to a beefsteak that a postage stamp does to the Sunday edition of the New York Times. We are thoroughly disgusted.

The Columbus Ledger like the Enquirer Sun, gives theater tickets to those whose names appear on its classified ad page. On April 9th we notices the name of Captain N. Szilagyi as one of those entitled to free tickets to the movies. This proves The Ledger to be a very conservative paper for Captain Szilagyi left the fair city of Columbus just two years ago.

On Monday at 11 o'clock we completed two weeks on the Hill and had we spent this time under any but the present circumstances we must admit that we would have enjoyed it. A hospital is always an unpleasant place to be, even on a visit. Due to the kindly consideration of the hospital staff our enforced stay has been made as pleasant as possible. A fine spirit of service prevails and nothing left undone for the comfort of we poor unfortunates forced to spend these glorious spring days inside.

Benjamin More of the Cast of "The Other Kitty" was a welcome visitor recently. Bennie confided to us that he was not "looking for Mr. William Winkler." Had seen too much of him in fact. We were also honored by a visit from His Eminence, The Editor of the Infantry School News. We always enjoy talking to him for he is very enthusiastic over his paper and rightly so, just look at his contributors.

The Personage of the Week

Lt. Col. P. E. Peyton, Infantry; for the very excellent manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the Infantry School Dramatic Club the past year.

P. S. We left T. W. out for the first time.

P. S. S I may be left out of Capt. Nichols' column this week but I am very much in evidence wading through the mass of hieroglyphics he labels "Saw Dust Notes" and trying to write something coherent from them, while he is taking his Rest cure in the House on the Hill.—THE WIFE.

NATIONAL GUARD N. C. O. CLASS DANCE BIG SUCCESS

The feature dance of the season was held at hte Enlisted Men's Service Club, April 14, under the auspices of the National Guard N. C. O. Class of the Infantry School.

Due to the untiring efforts of the dance committee and the hostess, Mrs. Inez Brittian, this was one of the most enjoyable dances of the season.

The dance was largely attended by the elite of Columbus and Fort Benning's younger set, the visiting students having made a host of friends since arriving here to attend the school.

Delicious cakes and ice cream was served during intermission, while the big punch bowl was kept filled to overflowing, to coll the thirst of the carefree merrymakers.

An added attraction to the program, was several selections rendered by the class quartette, a Charleston contest and a buck and wing dance by Sloan Williams of the 24th Infantry Orchestra.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the 24th Infantry Orchestra, and on that subject its (nuf sed) for none could be better.

The Assistant: "Now here is a delightfully gay cretonne. What do you say about that?"

The Customer: "We shouldn't say anything—it might answer back."

Headquarters Company

Howdy folks, I hope you are glad to see us back after our prolonged absence but, as Rip Van Winkle remarked, absence makes the heart grow fonder, it also seems to make the pen to ponder, however, if the editor will give us a little consideration we will try to do better next time, well, hold fast, here we go.

Tech. Sgt. Mitzen and Bob Matthews (big-hearted) are aspirants for the La Crosse team, but, in the opinion of many in the company, the latter should try a Kriss-Kross instead of La Crosse, I am sure there would be quite a bit of rejoicing in the Company.

"Slim" Cameron, our silver tongued "arguer", is back from a re-enlistment furlough and all tuned up to argue throughout the baseball season.

Buck Jones, our A-No. 1 electrician and master mind of Headquarters Company, met with an accident the other week. He jumped from a truck and the rear wheels ran over him, however he is not very badly hurt and is up and limping around already.

"Rosie" Bowen was discharged on Saturday per E. T. S. and caught air for the land famed for its Mamy songs, namely, Alabama, and now Percy Cowan is the next one to leave our ranks, but he saw a picture in the paper of a soup line back in Chicago, so we are looking for him to stand by for three more years. Try it again, Doug, don't forget our battle cry, Remember the Mess Hall.

Now, if this eludes the waste paper basket we will try again next week.

Company "G"

The Company regrets the loss of two of its most capable corporals, Cpl. Volz and Cpl. Woods, who were discharged by E. T. S. We wish them a successful future in civil life.

Cpl. Berrong and Pvt. Walinski have returned to duty from furlough and report that they had a good time and are ready for the General Inspection.

The Company extends a hearty welcome to Pvt. John A. Johanson. He is one of the old timers with over 20 and a former member of the Twenty-Ninth. We are glad to get the old Trooper back again.

If the supply sergeants of the 29th want to see an up-to-date supply room, just drop in at Company "G" and Richardson will show you the best in the regiment.

Pvt. Craig asked Sgt. Swaney if he could go to the ball game with him. Sgt. Swaney said, "Sure, come along." Craig said, "You'll have to tell me something about it, this is my first game." Everything progressed nicely. Craig bought the peanuts and Sgt. Swaney ate them, until the game started. "Now," said Sgt. Swaney, "the Post team is taking the field." "Where they taking it to?" asked Craig.

Pvt. Strickland made his first trip o town and on the way back he took the front seat of the bus. A little while later a young lady weighing about 300 pounds got on the bus and sat in Strickland's lap. Strickland finally came to and said, "Lady you're sitting on me." And the lady said, "I beg your pardon, soldier, I thought you were painted on the seat."

Sgt. Simpson is back drilling recruits again. It sure sounds good to hear Spareparts out on the Company drill grounds, making good soldiers out of a bunch of farmers.

Cpl Woods was coaching Recruit Waters on the range, and he told him that if he hit the black spot that he would get a Bull. Waters said "If I hit the white spot will I get a Cow?"

Lieut. O. M. Hewitt left on April 1st for Governors Island N. Y. where he will go in training for the American Olympic team.

Lieut. Hewitt is one of the best Hammer throwers in the country and we wish him the best of luck. WARSET.

Company "E"

We had a number of Recruits just turned to duty after firing the total amount of fifty shots on the target range required before doing Interior Guard Duty. They all made very good with the exception of Private Briggs, he said that it was impossible for him to hit the target when he couldn't see it after taking fifty shots making a total of fifty red flags this makes him unsufficient to fullfill his duties as a good soldier. Private Sevier was high man of this company making a score of 198 out of a possible 250. That's the spirit of Old "E" Company.

We have a certain Sergeant in this Company that has heard that we are getting a new Regimental Commander he is kindly uneasy and upset for he is afraid that the new Commanding Officer won't approve of him becoming a groom, don't be uneasy sarge we'll see that you get the Girl all o. k. Any one that wants to find Private Thomas Ben R. will probably find him in a certain Sergeant's room taking a crrespondence course and addressing all correspondence to Lannett, Ala. We all hope you the best of success Ben for you are the sheik of the company but Ben just for a little warning to hold your rep. You'd better keep an eye on Cpl. James D. King he is stepping out also with his jewish packard.

We want to say that we are proud of our baseball team as yesterday the seventh of this month was the first game of the season. And to start with the old reliable team croped the game from the mighty "H" Company with the score at eight to one.

The men rationing separately from the company got a solar plexis handed them to the pit of their stomach for the final count of ten on April the second. We regret very much to see the boys lose about sixteen dollars per month from 't. The unfortunate men that this hit the hardest were Cpl. (Nine Ball) Dean, and Cooks Pratt and Shaw.

J. R. H.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

We had our first company baseball game Wednesday April 4th and under adverse conditions lost to Company "H," by the score of 13 to 8. Our team has had very little practice and our pitcher, "Lfty" Carnes, has been on furlough, so in all our team was not up to the standard. Our games this Wednesday should be some what different as Carnes is back and the team has been getting a little more practice, so look out Company "E," we are going out to win.

Our lovelorn correspondent, Elkins, has taken up writting to some affectionate "Heiress" and we are wondering if we are going to lose him, via the purchase route. W. B.

Battery "A"

Corporal George H. Brantley, Pvts lcl Allmond and Blue have been on furlough for the last few days, rumors are that one of the three will return with a companion, you can never tell about the "Sheiks," now days.

Sergeant Bill H. Peters has been in the Hospital for quite a number of days undergoing an operation for tonsillitis, reports that he will be out in a few days, we wish for his rapid mend.

Private lcl Specl. 4th Cl Bennie C. Owen, has been appointed Sergeant here of late, atta boy Bennie, we knew it was time for the three to come back again. We wish you the very best of success in the future.

"We wonder who was the "Prospector," and if he located any mineral of any kind.

We thought the "Big Hearted Owl," was on the water wagon, but he has dismounted and joined the flying squad.

A. G. S.

Battery "C"

The second section, under Sergeant Martin, is busy preparing for the horse show.

Most of the battery have qualified as second class gunners and we fire the pistol for record some time this week.

"Spotlight" McKenzie is in mourning over the departure of his play-mate Vanderslice.

Sergeant King has been taking lessons in equitation. Except for an attack of seasickness the Sergeant did fine.

A growing contest was being held by Sergeant Hall and Corporal Berksdale, but Fairbrother butted in and best them both.

Gaudet started to Alabama on a 5-day furlough the 9th, he returned for duty on the 10th.

Jackson, soon to be discharged, wants to know if you can re-enlist twice at the same time—evidently he wants two bonuses.

Snow is a painter—so they made him color guard. Now Sande wants to know why he doesn't get a chance.

We thank the higher authorities for the holiday period and the Mess Department for the excellent Easter dinner.

In the spotlight this week: Private Elihue J. Chapman, Guidon carrier and Orderly Room Clerk. T. E. W.

Battery "B"

Private Tucker, after spending a sixty-day furlough at his home in Ohio, is back to duty with the battery again. Reports that he had a good time.

We regret to announce that Corporal McWilliams, who is being discharged this week per Expiration Term of Service, has decided not to re-enlist. We feel that we have been very fortunate in having Corporal McWilliams as gunner in the First Section and that he and his services shall be missed by the entire battery. We all join in wishing for him the best in everything that he may undertake.

We all extend our congratulations to the three men who were promoted to the grade of corporal yesterday. These mn have won through fair competition and we feel that they should realize some pride in being non-commissioned officers in one of the best batteries of field artillery in the world.

This being the week for record firing with pistols, we hope to announce in the next issue, as usual, one hundred per cent qualification.

Corporal Welter, after having arranged for the feed and care of his eat, made a business trip to Columbus last week end.

J. R. M.

Hdqrs. Bat. and Combat Train

Every one in the Battery is all excited in regards to preparations for the annual inspection. Paint brushes are busy andas usual Headquarters Battery is preparing for a big showing.

Sergeant Dodd seems to dread the coming inspection as he says he will have to do a little work which is something very rare with Milton.

Private Bolton our cashing dining-room orderly and Private Pacetti were seen in town this week window shoping, what's the big idea?

Private Beaureguard seems to not understand all the finer points in regards to "Manicureing Chereaux," but under the careful eye and patient instructions of Corporal Koski lets hope for better in the future.

Sergeant Reed has been heard from after reporting to his new position in Chattanooga, with a report that all is well.

So far the baseball team has only had several practice games but expect in the near future to start out with a cup winning team, and out for all challengers.

BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS FLORIDA TODAY

The Infantry School Baseball team will cross bats with the Univ. of Florida this afternoon at Gowdy Field. Unfortunately, since this paper went to press early yesterday afternoon, the first game with the Gators cannot be covered in this issue. We're hoping that Capt. McCord's aggregation took the first of the series. Due to bad weather, the team was able to play only one game of their series with Auburn last week. The Doughboys took the game by the score of 12 to 11 in ten innings.

MAJOR SMITH TO SAVANNAH

Major H. J. M. Smith will go to Savannah on May 2 to officiate at the Horse Show there. He will be there for three days.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examination:

ASSISTANT ORDNANCE ENGINEER (PLANT PROCESS DEVELOPMENT)

Applications for assistant ordnance engineer (plant process development) must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than May 22.

The examination is to fill a vacancy in the Ordnance Department at Large, for duty at Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications.

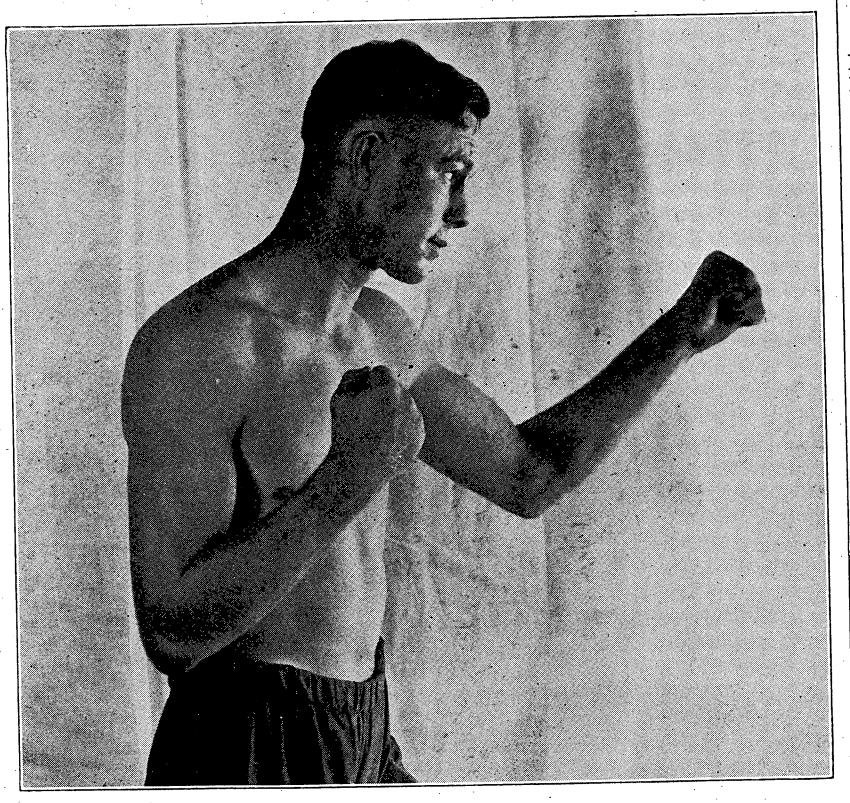
The salary range for this position is from $2,400 to $3,000 a year, depending upon the qualifications of the appointee as shown in the examination and the duty to which assigned.

The duties will involve the development of processes for manufacture of nitro-cellulose and propellant powders. This will include contact work with industries concerned with the manufacture of the materials related to nitrocellulose and propellant powders, an engineernig study of the processes now in vogue, the establishment of plant control for these processes, and the improvement of methods. It will be necessary to design equipment and plant layouts to permit the application in the plant of the results of development work.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on their education, training, and experience.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the United States civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

"PTOMEY WINS"



After the gong sounded which indicated the end of the big Ptomey-De-Pratt at Gowdy Field Wednesday night, pandemonium reigned for just a few seconds until the judges handed their decisions to Capt. J. J. Wilson, who officiated the main event. Then a dead silence over the crowd, at which Capt. Wilson gave the above words to the anxiously awaiting hundreds. Thus ended one of the best fights at Fort Benning for many a day.

The big attraction at the Main Theater every Sunday evening is well worth your consideration when you are planning your Sunday evenings. In addition to the usual movie features which have attracted many in the past, the Montgomery Players will put over one of their many successful plays. The play for the coming Sunday evening is "The Push" a four act comedy. Don't fail to see it.

mission to be matched with Bugler Thomas of the 29th Infantry. His wish was granted. Thomas caused him nine minutes of regret, the final bell finding Sewell; punch groggy after a severe lacing at the hands of the Doughboy.

Wright and White of the 24th Inf. were matched for the fourth bout; both boys swapped leather plentifully in the opening round, but Wright got the range in the second, putting White away for the count with an upper cut to the button.

Asher took a close decision from Cline of Columbus, in the fifth bout. Although winning his fight the Doughboy was badly off form, his showing being far from usual.

In the sixth event, Whiskers Harris and Doc Gainey of the 24th Infantry met for the third time to settle their feud. It was settled. Harris won by a knock out i nthe first round.

Pieters stopped Young Head of Columbus in the first round. This was a onesided affair, the game little Columbus battler never having a chance with the Doughboy ace.

Young Phillips lost an extra round decision to Pecotof E. Company, 29th Infantry. This was the best preliminary bout o fthe card, the game little Green Cord punished the tall doughboy with smashes to the head and body in the opening rounds, and looked a sure winner, but in the fourth Pecot used his lng reach t a good advantage, his left job bringing hme the bocon.

Shell, a newcomer from Columbus, gave Howkins of the 29th on awful licking. Althugh beoten the bluecrd put up a good fight against the visiting southpaw slugger..

Mysterous Billy Smith showed his admirers that he capable of holding the amateur heavyweight belt, when he made Bull Montondon look like a walking punching bag in the final bout. Flashing a fast left jab with a deadening right cross, Billy had the Tanker in a bad way during the final round.

Only one thing is worrying Bennings Amateur Fighters, "Will they get a chance to take part in the Olympic tryouts at Boston."

NOTES FROM NAT. GUARD AND RESERVE CLASS

After a three weeks rest we again break forth with a few observations, some of them frivolous and others more frivolous.

Before passing to the humorous items we take pleasure in extending to Captain McMahon our sincere thanks for his kindly help in giving us the refresher course in Map Reading. The hours of extra effort he has devoted to our interest exemplify the spirit of co-operation that is characteristic of the entire Academic Staff.

The course is half over. Which brings to mind a recurring thought, we sometimes wonder if we will ever qualify for Corporal. And what has become of the ambitious second lieutenant who made hi sambition to be Parade Adjutant a matter of official correspondence?

The Easter holidays had a somewhat quieting affect on the "rarin" spirits of the class, but Friday night's hop provided a proper stimulus for the return of the customary pep.

Regis and Pulsifer have been delegated to draw up the new T. R. on the latest Infantry Tactics entitled "Snipe Hunting." Final reports from the sub-committee on experiment indicate that this document can now be forwarded to the War Department, with possibly one or two modifications to be issued later. It seems there is some difficulty being experienced in perfecting the movement of holding the sack by the numbers.

The News of Captain Venable's recovery is welcome. During the few weeks we have known him we have found ourselves liking him a lot for his kindly co-operation and helpfulness.

I. S. D. NOTES

John Heisler has returned from a furlough spent in St. Louis with a formula that promises 'no headaches, small cost and emphatic effect'. We do not accept advertising for this column but the price of this information in detail, will be ten cents. (No stamps accepted).

Catcher Douglass has injured his arm and the Mighty Medics have held that he must lay off Base Ball for the time being. Thumbs never were any good for taking the top off of ginger-ale bottles.

Betja Potomey transfers back to Fort Meade?

Pvts. Andrews and Borstel have been relieved from the M. P. Section. The former is on duty at the Service Club Library, and the latter is helping Corporal Faber about the Detachment Area, so we suppose that he was 'just fixin' to'.

Sgt. Ioerger has gone to Paris Island to shot in the matches that are being held there. This is the Sergeants fourth year at this event and we are all hoping that he brings home the bacon.

Bow-Wow Adams visited the Area the other day. Nothing as yet has been reported missing. He says he's in the advertising business but didn't say whether he was working for Bow-Wow or not.

Park at C. A. Morgan & Co. Open till 10 o'clock. Soft Drinks, Drugs and Cigars.

GLEE CLUB

Successful season closed last night with performance of Lelawala.

The club closed the season last night at the Main Theater with the presentation of "Lelawala." The account of the closing night of the club will be given in next week's News.

CAPTAIN DAUGHTRY ON DUTY AT HEADQUARTERS

Capt. G. O. A. Daughtry was recently transferred from duty with the 24th Infantry and assigned to headquarters staff, The Infantry School. Capt. Daughtry is now acting as assist. personnel adjutant. He is a graduate of the Co. Officer class, Inf. School, last year.

Heanline in Omaha World-Herald—Griess jury pickled sooner than expected.

The Main Theater's added attraction with the Montgomery Players on the program for every Sunday night should be supported by every one. See "The Push" Sunday night.

Captain Charles L. Steel Gets Rifle Medal

On Friday the Thirteenth Captain Steel received the coveted prize of all rifle enthusiasts, the "Distinguished Markman Gold Medal." Capt. Steel in 1916 participated in the National Matched at Jacksonville, Fla., as a shooting member of the Maryland National Guard Rifle Team and finished in 10th place in the Ntaional Individual Match with a gold medal. This and the fact that he was on the state team and fired gave him the necessary legs to earn him the covet ed prize which he now proudly wears.

Regiment to Have Tennis Court

Next to the Regimental Headquarters, Colonel Johnson and Sergeant Thornhill have been almost daily, weather permitting busy constructing two tennis courts for use of the regiment. With roller and scraper, Sgt. Thornhill had almost completed what it is believed will be two of the finest courts on the reservation. The wire backstop and pipe railing is now being erected and rumor has it that when the courts are finished a grant opening game will of unusual interest will, be staged.

Co. Officers Attend Gas Lecture

Company officers of the regiment attended a lecture on Gas Defense Wednesday afternoon in Assembly Hall No. 4 presented by Lieut. Becque of the Chemical Warfare. Those attending the lecture stated tha tthe presentation was highly interesting and informative. Many new devices were discussed and introduced by Lieut. Becque showing difference from wartime defense.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

When the acrid smoke of battle lifted at 12:00 noon, Monday, many of the brave had fallen and were sunk like a Lampert Foot Bridge. As the last code number was placed on the last paper, the name of the Great God Allah was invoked in solemn prayer!

Ciphers would have been better than Code Numbers. We dove in bodily with a "man hour" in our teeth, came up gasping for air playing a dirge on our concertina, and went down for the third time at 11:45 vainly clutching at the screw picket of a double apron fence. We take no pride whatever in the fact that our solution (if any) borders upon the occult. Sir Oliver Lodge and the seven shades of the seven ghostly mediums would shudder in horror at the aba-cadabras we scrambled in an attempt to pierce the veil and find the mystic moment when a carrying paty magically becomes two wiring parties.

In the post mortem a refreshing diversity of opinion was revealed. Brigadier Brandt, after sixteen pages of careful calculation, came out of the bull rushes with one man over. Was he dismayed or downhearted? Not he! Brandt nonchalantly lighted a camel and placed his spare on E. P. El Captain Cameron proudly proclaims with appropriate gestures, that he knocked the first part of the exam for a row of lilac scented ash cans. He maxed the Code Number cold! Trader Horne goes him one better, he's almost positive he got the date right.

Old Rain in the Face, the celestial Indian sometimes called Jupiter Pluvius got right into the spirit of things Saturday morning. He knew it wasn't a dry run. We heard Crip Cole grunt that his "Company in Attack" was all wet, but we think he must have been predjudiced. Speaking of soluti ns, we saw Judge Joiner dissolve three requirements in an attempt to ferry one map across the Red Sea to Captain Bolte's chariot.

While contrary to our mission of casting cabbages, mature hen fruit, and other vegetables; we desire to present Captain Texas Austin and his colleagues on the committee for the smoker Saturday evening with a large and luscious red apple. We suggest that the committee deserves a big hand and many congratulations. Though slightly out of our company sector, we mention among many other pleasant features, the recitation of Comrade Wennerberg recalling the artistry of Robert W. Service and the spell of the Alaskan snows; Captain Jenna's dulcet warbling which put the nightengale to shame, especially "Muddy Waters," we like that tune; the clever historionism of our own Capt. R. T. Walker Duke, who could make the cash customers in a big time circuit leave deep thumb prints on their orchestra chairs; the positively haunting melodies and harmonies of the 24th Infantry Glee Club; and because, after all, an army travels on its stomach, the able chow wrangling of Cowboy Boatner.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE VISITS BENNING

About twenty-five members of the Southeastern Recreation Executive Committee visited For Benning last Monday afternoon to look over the recreational features of the Infantry School. They were escorted over the post by Captain F. S. Doll and Major Frank Green. They were very much impressed with the recreational advantages which are given the enlisted men here.

MAJOR CARD'S SON INJURED

Sammy Card, son of Major and Mrs. Card was seriously injured Wednesday, when he fell against a door, which resulted in injuries to his left eye. He was taken to a specialist in Montgomery for examination and treatment. It is sincerely hoped by his many friends that the injury will not be of a permanent nature.

THE BROADWAY HOTEL

Mr. Leo P. Cymbal a former soldier of Company "A" 7th Engineers, who recently opened the Broadway Hotel of the corner of 10th and Broadway for business. This establishment is just under the New Army Club, and should prove to be a valuable addition to the soldier life while in the city of Columbus. See ad in this issue of The Infantry School News.

THOUSANDS WITNESS DEMONSTRATION

Horse Show Opened Last Friday

STADIUM FILLED WITH SPECTATORS; RAIN SPOILS EVENTS

With Doughboy Stadium filled with spectators both from Fort Benning and the city of Columbus, the sixth annual horse show opened last Friday afternoon. One class, Officers' Hunters, was shown and then the low clouds which hung over the stadium for some time opened, and thus ended the exhibition for that day. The show was continued Saturday with the events scheduled for that day.

The show opened Saturday afternoon with the Ladies' Musical ride, which was a feature. Led by Capt. P. B. Rogers, Infantry, this event brought forth many favorable comments from spectators, as the ladies, riding their mounts with the 24th Infantry band, accompanying, performed their drill almost to perfection.

The results of Saturday's show follows:

Jumping sweepstakes: Boney, Lieut. R. E. Ireland, 6th Cav., first; Mickey, Lieut. A. J. Stovall, 6th Cav., second; Ginger, Lieut. A. R. C. Sander, third; Harry, Lieut. Van Houton, fourth.

Enlisted Men's mounts: Nellie, Sgt. Martin, 24th Infantry, first; Midget, Pvt. R. L. Farmer, Co. D. 29th Infantry, second; Sleepy, Pvt. Barrett, Co. D, 29th Infantry, third; Mickey, Pvt. Bressler, Co .A, 29th Infantry, fourth.

Ladies' Hunters: Kindred, Mrs. Robt. McClure, first; Peter, Mrs. R. E. Ireland, second; Air King, Miss Helen Young, third; Harlequin, Mrs. J. F. Landis, fourth.

Bending race: Captain Burress, first; Capt. McClure, second; Capt. Whisner, third; Capt. Boudinet, fourth.

Officers' Charges: Ginger, Lieut. Sander, first; Spring Maid, Capt. Brian, second; Middleburg, Capt. McClure, third; Harry, Lieut. Van Houten, fourth.

Pair Jumping (enlisted men): Sgt. Martin and Pvt. McCabe, first; Pvts. Moyer and Lynch, second; Corp. Wright and Pvt. Page, third.

Ladies' Mounts: Martin Casey, Mrs. Westcott, first; Jimmie H., Mrs. Roosma, second; Julia Me, Mrs. Forsythe, third; Steger, Miss Marie Russ, fourth.

Thursday's Show

The show was continued yesterday morning when three classes were shown. The results were as follows:

Carts, M. G. Sig. Comm. Howitzer: Corp. Kinney, Co. D., 29th Inf., first; Corp. Miller, Howitzer Co., 29th Inf., second; Corp. Coffee, Co. H, 29th Inf., third; Second, Bn. Hq. Company, fourth.

Escort Wagons: Service Company, 29th Inf., first; Headqrs. Company, 24th Inf., second; Company A, 7th Engineers, third.

Artillery Section: Battery A, 83rd F. A., first; Battery B, 83rd F. A., second; Battery C, 83rd Field Artillery, third.

The remaining events of the show will probably be seen Monday or Tuesday.

General E. T. Collins, the Commandant, presented trophies to the winners at the end of each event.

INFANTRY SCHOOL CLOSES BASEBALL SEASON; WON OVER FLORIDA

(Al Durden)

The Infantry School baseball team closed the 1928 season with a 4 to 3 victory over the Florida Gators. Newman and Fisher, southpaws, were the opposing twirlers. Both portsiders twirled good ball with the doughboy having the best of the argument until the ninth inning. With two men on and none out in the ninth, Capt. McCord sent Morris in to relieve Newman, Morris stopped the Gator rally in big league style.

Playing a schedule of fourteen games against the pick of the country's college teams, the Infantry School closed the season with seven games won and seven lost.

Beginning the season with a crippled line-up, the Infantry School dropped their first series to Auburn, losing two games in a row. Their next apponent here was Notre Dame. In a three-game series the South Bend Irishmen took two games, but every game was a hard fought closely contested affair, the visitors robbing the home team of the final game on an exceptionally lucky break in the ninth inning.

Michigan Sttae dropped two in a row, but managed to win the third and last game of the series. The University of Illinois, champions of the Big Ten last season, won one and lost one to the Musketeers. Only one of the two games scheduled with Indiana University was played, owing to the weather, but the doughboys swamped the lads from the Hoosier state. Traveling over to Auburn College ,the Musketeers captured the first game, the second game being postponed account of rain.

The Macon Peaches from the Sally League romped on the doughboys to win 12 to 2. The Florida Gators fought hard but had to accept defeat in the only game of the series played.

Although minus the service of three of the Infantry School's best players during most of the season, the Infantry School baseball team under Capt. W. C. McCord, has been a success in every way during the past season.

Every team that played here this season was composed of the best college players in the game today. Against these teams excepting the game with Macon, the Infantry School won seven and lost six games. The Musketeers more than held their own against the best university teams in the country, a record that any Service team would look upon with pride.

POPULAR PLAY AND VAUDEVILLE AT MAIN THEATRE NEXT SUNDAY EVENING

The Montgomery Players, who made such a hit with their production of "The Push" at the Main Theatre last Sunday evening, will make their second appearance at the Main Theatre next Sunday evening April 29, presenting a farce comedy, entitled, "The Elixir of Youth." This play is described by the management as the "funniest comedy in the English language." The farce had an exceptional run of fifty weeks at the Selwyn Theatre, New York City, with Albert Taylor in the central role. Mr. Taylor is now the director and character actor with the Montgomery Players and will assume the same role in this production at Fort Benning next Sunday. During the run of "The Elixir of Youth" in New York City, Allen Dale, the famous critic, said, "The Elixir of Youth" is the best constructed, both in situation and dialogue, of all of the modern comedies." The entire strength of the Montgomery Players will appear in this cast. Both Mr. Montgomery and Miss Howard will have the leading parts, with the company in congenial roles. The vaudeville, between the acts will again be a feature, with Jake Donegan, the "toby" in an entirely new specialty; Jake was one of the real hits of the sho wlast Sunday; Allen and Jukes, the harmony singers, will also be heard in new songs.

The bill at the Main Theatre will include Paramount News, and the movie comedy "Partners in Crime" featuring the good old reliable comical pair, Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery.

COLUMBUS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION INAUGURATED AT FORT BENNING

Fort Benning was host to thousands of visitors of the city of Columbus last Wednesday morning, the occasion being the demonstration of a "battalion in defense" performed by troops of the Infantry School. Governor Graves, of Alabama, and Governor Hardman, of Georgia, were formally greeted by The Commandant, General Edgar T. Collins, at 9 A. M. Wednesday, and immediately were escorted to the scene of the demonstration near Rivet Ridge. Bleachers were erected there for the convenience of the distinguished guests.

The officials of the centennial were amazed at the crowd that came to Fort Benning. The crowd far exceeded their expectations. As early as seven o'clock that morning, the highway to the reservation was crowded with automobiles from various parts of the Southeastern states. By ten o'clock, there was a string of cars reaching from the entrance to the reservation to the scene of the demonstration, a distance of approximately two miles. Military police were stationed along the route to guide visitors to Rivet Ridge. It was estimated that over 2,000 automobiles visited the post, and approximately 10,000 people stood for over two hours to witness one of the most impressive demonstrations ever staged at the Infantry School.

Prior to the actual engagement of the troops, a demonstration by the engineer troops held the attention of the visitors for some time. Barb wire entanglements were constructed in front of the trenches.

After this was completed, the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion opened fire on Smith Hill, which was the enemy front line trenches. This barrage lasted for about fifteen minutes, and was one of the features of the program, and held the undivided attention of the thousands. Next, the airplanes from Maxwell Field placed machine gun fire and dropped bombs on the enemy front lines. The planes demonstrated their use in the protection of a defensive posiiton.

Soon after these exhibitions of firing, the troops of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, took up their respective positions in the front line. Spectators were able to easily view the action of the men in the trenches ,and the operation of machine guns, mortars, and rifles. At the appointed hour, the tanks of the 15th Tank Battalion went into action with infantry advancing in the counter attack. This made quite an impression on the visitors, portraying to them scenes similar to those which were enacted in France ten years ago.

The firing of the artillery and attack of airplanes and other phases of the demonstration were controlled by the use of pyrotechnic signals.

The problem was completed about noon, and it was almost one hour before the thousands of visitors had left the reservation.

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE CLASS NOTES

The outstanding event of this rather exciting week is the distinction acquired by the class in the running broad jump demonstration staged on Tuesday morning when the Biglerville local was hit by the lumber special.

We are sorry to report that Captain Christofferson sustained a painful ankle injury, which will probably curtail his recent consistent activity in a certain sector on Broad Street.

Sheppard has been requested by the occupants of Building 167 to take on occasional ten-minute break at the telephone during the evening courting hour so that Chris, Bollenbeck, Tadlock and Klopp can do their last-minute fixing.

Someone also suggested that an extra 100 pounds of ice be ordered on Wednesday evenings for Llewellyn's benefit. Harris has this latter suggestion under advisement.

We wonder how many of the Red Apple Boys of the M. G. Class will qualify when they get back to friend wife. The class volunteers to furnish the apples if the winners will notify Stedmand.

Birthday congratulations from the ninth squad, Company E, aie extended to its popular Corporal, Twiss. May he always have an "el Ropo de Cabbage" (2 1-3c. Q. M.) handy on his birthday to remember us by.

Will someone audit the books of our supervisor and determine how much he has taken in since that memorable day when he cried, "Give it to me." It's about time for a red apple dividend in the Rifle Class.

We failed to make proper mention of the enjoyable evening afforded us by officers of Companies B and C on April 14th, and want to express our appreciation for it now. The smoker was a real "man" affair with plenty of food and entertainment. The fellowship in itself stands as the crowning success of the party, and the memory of those few hours will always be with us.

Harris wants all the other rebels to know that howling for Jeb Stewart don't scare out the boys from north of the Mason-Dixon line as long as they hold a pair back-to-back.

As we enter the final phase of our training at the Infantry School we hear many expressions of regret that it will soon end. Most of us feel that the training we have had signalizes a big improvement, not only in personal efficiency as officers, but in our respective units at home as well.

We count ourselves fortunate in having been here, for the closer understanding of our regular army and its problems, that we have gained, and for the opportunity of carrying back to our respective communities the moral force that may serve to make the army's task lighter in legislative and business circles.

The National Guardsmen and Reservist have a definite responsibility to the military establishment in maintaining and furthering its scheme for national defense through contact with the public. We hope we will live up to that responsibility in a manner that will be gratifying to our brothers-in-arms.

MORE POLO GAMES SCHEDULED

Altho the Fort Benning polo squads are through for the year, the Infantry School team will play a tournament on May 9th, 11th and 13th at Fort Benning, the opposing teams being the Fort McPherson and Governor's Horse Guards. The Benning squad will be divided into two teams for this tournament, which should be a very interesting one. More announcements later about this tournament.

POLO SUNDAY

The Junior Tournament championship will be played Sunday afternoon. The Students will play the 29th Infantrymen a six period game. This will be the last tournament game of the season, in all probability.

ORDERED TO PHILIPPINES

Major E. B. Spiller, who is the Finance Officer of Fort Benning, recently transferred to the Coast Artillery. He received orders yesterday to sail about May 16 for the Philippines for duty.

MAJOR POWER ORDERED TO WALTER REED HOSPITAL

Major E. Ormonde Power, 24th Infantry, left Tuesday for Washington, where he will enter Walter Reed Hospital for observation and treatment. Major Power has been with the 24th Infantry for a number of years, longer than any other officer now on duty with it.

LEE'S DEPARTMENT STORE

During the ANNIVERSARY Sale at Lee's Department Store, there are a number of articles, which are priced exceedingly low considering the quality of goods sold. Mr. Lee states that he sells for cash only, therefore, he is able to give a much greater price reduction than if you run a charge account with him. See ad in this issue of the NEWS.

WANTS BROTHER TO JOIN COMPANY "B"

Commanding Officer,
Company "B", 29th Infantry,
Fort Benning. Georgia.
My Dear Captain:

I have a brother who I like to have join with the old outfit I have been in, Company "B", 29th Infantry. I was a member 1916-1919 an dwould like to know if there is any chance for an opening with B Company, for my brother.

We are five brothers, one I have just sent off for the Canal Zone with Company C, 11th Engineers ,one served with the U. S. Marines as a Sergeant, and the one is now with me in the National Guards who likes to join the old outfit I was in, and the other is still young and in about couple of years he will be strolling in for an enlistment

Will you kindly, Captain, inform me if there is still an opening in Company B at the present time, if so, let me know so I can have a special assignment for my brother to that place.

If there is any of the old timers of 1916-1919 in the old outfit give them my sincerest regards and would be glad to hear from any of them, and I assure them a quick reply.

Hoping to hear from the Captain real soon, before the kid gets in some outfit or changes his mind, I am,

One of the Old Outfit,
FRANCIS A. FRANCIS,
Pa. N. G., Pottsville, Pa.

COLONEL HELMS WILL LEAVE NEXT TUESDAY

Colonel George W. Helms, who has been executive officer at Fort Benning for over four years, will leave next Tuesday to visit at his home near Roanoke, Va., for several weeks when he will go to New York to take the transport to Porto Rico. He will take command of the 65th Infantry there.

APRIL 27 to MAY 4, INCL.

FRIDAY, APR. 27

"SILK LEGS," starring Madge Bellamy and James Hall in the film version of Frederica Sagor's story. Madge plays the part of a silk hosiery drummer whose charm has bewitched her formidable rival. The result is a series of thrilling and dramatic experiences.

"River of Doubt." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 33."

SATURDAY, APR. 28

"THE LITTL EBUCKAROO,' starring Buzz Barton, the little thirteen-year-old half-pint of riding dynamite, thundering to new thrills and action in a whizzing western tornado. In this picture Buzz puts humility into the hearts of desperados who are so bad that they even fear themselves.

"Call of the Cuckoo." Max Davidson Comedy.

SUNDAY, APR. 29

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT MAIN THEATRE: "THE ELIXIR OF YOUTH," a spicy three-act comedy presented by the Montgomery Players. It is the story of a newly invented drink which made old people young and when too much was consumed the results were ridiculously horrifying. It is laughs from start to finish. Also vaudeville. (Movies start at 7 P. M.)

"PARTNERS IN CRIME," starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in a melodramatic comedy. The story opens with a city terrorized by underworld gangsters. An ambitious district attorney declares war on the crooks and gets kidnaped for his trouble. Beery and Hatton rush to the rescue, spurred on by the hope of winning favor in the eyes of a beauty. Many complications arise; gang fights and hand to hand encounters ensue. The picture ends in one of the most thrilling and laughable climaxes imaginable.

"Wedding Wows." Vernon Comedy.

"Paramount News No. 76."

MONDAY, APR. 30

"WILD BEAUTY," featuring June Marlowe and Hugh Allen with Rex, the wild horse. It is a story of the great Arizona desert where a wild black stallion shpaed the destinies of the two lovers. A band of over one thousand wild horses were used in the filming of this picture.

"Easy Curves." Billie Dooley Comedy.

TUESDAY, MAY 1

"THE WARNING," starring Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier in a story of oriental smugglers. It involves London secret service operatives and their dangerous work in the dives of those men who make big money by defying the law. A romance binds the action of the story.

"Battle of the Century." Laurel Hardy Comedy.

WEDNESDAY. MAY 2

"HORSEMEN OF THE PLAINS," featuring Tom Mix and Tony, the wonder horse, in another different type of Western. It possesses all the fun and thrills o fa rodeo, being the story of a champion rider and roper plus a plucky western girl. He breaks horses—she breaks hearts, but he makes final grand conquest.

"Paramount News No. 77."

THURSDAY, MAY 3.

"THIRTEEN WASHINGTON SQUARE," starring Jean Hersholt with Alice Joyce in a tense mystery story against a fascinating love theme as the background. In that "empty" house there were five people, strange lights and wierd shadows flittered here and there. Fear chilled the bones of all but the deacon; he alone knew what happened. You'll laugh while chills race up and down your spine—don't miss it.

"Collegians No. 9."

FRIDAY, MAY 4

"HER WILD OAT," starring Colleen Moore with Larry Kent, Gwenn Lee and Hallam Cooley. This comedy shows Colleen as a little lunch wagon owner who takes her life's savings and spends every cent on one week of luxury and thrills at an exclusive seaside resort. Her splash into society is only a ripple—a reporter persuades her to impersonate a duchess and her troubles begin all over. This picture was photographed at Coronado Beach.

"Fox Hunt." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 35."

ACOUSTICS AT MAIN THEATRE BEING STUDIED

During this week experts in the transmission of sound are devoting their atteition to perfecting the auditory properties in the Main Theatre auditorium so that the voice, regardless of volume, can be heard in every part of the building. These improvements will be completed by the latter part of the week and it is presumed that every word spoken from the stage by the Montgomery Players next Sunday evening will be clearly heard in every section of the house.

Acoustics have long been a great problem to architects. Many public halls, after construction, have had such poor acoustical properties that the voice would not carry clearly to the third row from the stage—these buildings, through the efforts of experts, have been so changed that even the dropping of a pin could be heard in every part.

At the present time people on the stage of the Main Theatre are required to talk very distinctly and in a loud tone of voice in order to make themselves understood in remote parts of the house. It is the aim to improve conditions in this building so that even a whisper can be understood as far back as the projection booth.

SOJOURNERS CLUB

The officials of the club are planning something unique for its next meeting, which will be held May 5. Dont forget this date. Every one should be there. All members will receive the announcement very shortly as to program, etc.

Sentry—"Who goes there?"
Recruit—"You'd be surprised."
May—"Is he conceited?"
Mabel—"Conceited? Why every time he hears a clap of thunder he runs to the window to take a bow."

HORSE SHOW AND POLO DINNER-DANCE BRILLIANT EVENT

The most brilliant event of the season at Fort Benning was the beautiful Horse Show and Polo dinner-dance at Biglerville Hall last Friday evening. The hall was beautifully decorated with Southern smilax. At either end of the hall were crossed polo sticks; and horse shoes, saddles, and bridles were used in suggestion of the events of the past week.

Among those entertaining on this occasion were Major and Mrs. M. C. Stayer, Capt. and Mrs. J. E. Wharton, Capt. and Mrs. Paul Goode, Capt. and Mrs. H. M. Gwynn, Capt. and Mrs. M. E. Olmstead, Capt. and Mrs. S. L. Dunlop, and Capt. and Mrs. R. P. Cook.

Beautiful in every detail was the luncheon on last Thursday at which Mrs. Edwin Spiller entertained eleven friends at her home. At one-thirty the curtains were drawn and the guests found their places at one long elegantly appointed table. Filet covers were laid for each guest and on the long center runner a large silver bowl was placed near each end and twin silver vases were placed near the center, filled with gorgeous lavender and pink sweet peas. Silver bon bon dishes held pink and lavender candies. After lunch tables were arranged for bridge. Those enjoying this delightful occasion were: Mrs. C. B. Rucker, her guest Mrs. John O. Donaldson of Atlanta, Mrs. O. W. Griswold, Mrs. Durward S. Wilson, Mrs. John Rhett, Mrs. John Dahlquist, her guest, Miss Arlene Sander of St. Paul, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Wallace Brier, Mrs. Wilbus Vinson. Mrs. Rhett and Mrs. Brier won at bridge, the prizes being Japanese opal necklaces.

On Thursday afternoon Capt. and Mrs. Samuel L. Dunlop honored their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Tylee of Boston, with a lovely tea dance at the Polo Club. The club was decorated with crabapples, and pink candles were effectively used on mantel and tables. The tea table was overlaid with a handsome oriental cloth and its centerpiece was a silver bowl of pink Killarney roses and lavender China asters. Tall pink tapers in silver candlesticks shed a lovely glow over the scene. Mrs. B. B. McMahon poured tea and Mrs. James A. Van Fleet presided at the coffee service. Mrs. W. W. Brier and Mrs. John K. Rice assisted in serving.

Maj. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones have as their guests their father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Jones of Columbia, Mo. They entertained twelve friends at dinner in their honor on Tuesday evening.

* * *

Mrs. John M. Tamraz was hostess at a delightful three table bridge luncheon on Wednesday of last week, honoring three popular visitors, Mrs. Joe Wright of Harrisburg, Va., the guest of Mrs. E. J. Curren, Miss Arlene Sander of St. Paul, the guest of Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist and Mrs. Harry E. Isaacs of New York the guest of Mrs. L. J. Lampke.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Leonard S. Boyd entertained the principals of the cast of Lelawala and their husbands or wives at a midnight supper afteh the opera on Thusrday evening. Mrs. Boyd, it will be remembered, sang most beautifully the title role, and Capt. Boyd was one of the Braves of the Oniagarahs.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Pleas B. Rogers and Mrs. Laura Maud Hebbard are giving a sport dance tonight at the Polo Club.

GLEE CLUB'S FAREWELL DANCE

On Saturday evening the Glee Club gave at the Polo Club a farewell dance to Col. and Mrs. George W. Helms, who go soon to command the post of San Juan, Maj. and Mrs. Erwin Butcher who are ordered to Washington, and Capt. and Mrs. George L. King who go to Leavenworth. The Polo Club was interestingly decorated in posters, placards and photos of the productions put on by the Glee Club under the direction of Capt. King and Mrs. Butcher, El Bandito, The Nautical Knot, Pinafore, Singbad the Sailor, Trial by Jury, being prominent among them. The 29th Orchestra donated their services and rendered a program of most excellent music. Refreshments were served late in evening at which time farewell speeches were made and gifts were presented. Mrs. Butcher was given a sterling bon bon dish, and Col. Helms and Capt. King were each presented a sterling goblet as expressions of appreciation and good will. Approximately one hundred members, past and present, of the Glee Club were present.

Mrs. Isaacs, wife of Dr. Harry E. Isaacs, surgeon of New York City, entertained her hostesses at Fort Benning at a bridge luncheon at the Log Cabin before her departure home. Mrs. Robert A. Case was successful in winning high score and received a bottle of French perfume. Mrs. John M. Tamraz won second and received a handmade handkerchief. Mrs. Reed was presented a consolation gift.

Mrs. Isaacs left Sunday A. M. for New York after a delightful visit to her brother and sister, Capt. and Mrs. L. J. Lampke. During her stay at Benning she was honored with many charming parties.

Mrs. B. B. McMahon entertained a small group of friends at a bridge and sewing party on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Brandhorst and Mrs. Brion won a compact and a bo xof Tre-Jur Bath Powder as table prizes and Mrs. Vinson the cut prize, a lovely hand-decorated card table cover, the gift of Mrs. W. W. Brier.

* * *

Mrs. A. T. Knight has issued invitations to a bridge party at the Log Cabin on April 30th.

* * *

Mrs. Holmes Doger and Mrs. Raymond Lavin are entertaining at a beautiful bridge party this afternoon at the Log Cabin.

Mrs. John Newton honored her mother, Mrs. Ada Shewman, with a beautiful bridge party on Tuesday afternoon. The color scheme of pink and white was charmingly carried out in every detail of decorations and refreshments. There were six tables of bridge and about ten tea guests. Mrs. W. B. Tuttle won high prize, Mrs. Ella King Johnson, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles Steel, won second, and Miss Arlene Sander, who is visiting Mrs. John Dahlquist, won the consolation. Mrs. Shewman and Mrs. John Dodds of Vermont ,the guest of Mrs. Wait Johnson, were given guest prizes. All prizes were pieces of Chinese embroidery or brocade. After the game fresh strawberry ice cream and pink embossed cakes were served with coffee.

* * *

Mrs. Lee Hester honored Mrs. Joe Wright of Harrisburg, Va., the guest of Mrs. E. J. Curren, with a luncheon and bridge at her home on Tuesday. Covers were laid for eight and after lunch bridge was played. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Charles Griffin winning the high score prizes.

Mrs. M. J. Guyton of Dublin has been the guest of her brother and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Vinson, for the past week. On Tuesday afternoon she was honoree at a four-table bridge given by Mrs. Vinson. Yellow and white was the color note of the party, being carried out in tallies, flowers, candies and refreshments. Mrs. Brandhorst won first prize, a bag embroidered in gay wool; Mrs. Gilhus, second, a nest of hand decoratedmixing bowls; Mrs. Hurle the consolation, a novelty ash tray. Mrs. Brier, who leaves next week for foreign service in Hawaii, was given a Morocco address book, and Mrs. Guyton received a strand of gold beads. Frozen fruit salad, sandwiches and tea were served at the conclusion of the game.

Mrs. E. J. Curren honored her guest, Mrs. Joe Wright of Virginia, with an elegant bridge luncheon on Monday.

Maj. and Mrs. Durwood S. Wilson entertained at dinner and bridge on Saturday evening.

Miss Dorothy Gowen of Ft. Hayes, Ohio, is being entensively entertained as the guest of her brother and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Richard G. Prather.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin, have as their guests, Mrs. Lavin's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Foley of Memphis and their daughter, Miss Lois Foley who visited the Lavins in December prior to her departure to South America with her mother and father. After nearly four months spent in Brazil, Argentine, Peru, Colombia and other countries of interest the Foleys have returned, stopping with the Lavins en route to take home with them young Miss Mary Elizabeth Foley, who has been the while at Benning with her little aunt.

* * *

Mrs. Jack Frazer of Birmingham is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sam Smithers. Among the delightful affairs given in her honor was a progressive dinner on Friday before the Horseshow Ball. The hosts at the dinner were Lt. and Mrs. Smythe, at whose home the cocktail was served, Lt. and Mrs. Moon at whose home the dinner was served, Lt .and Mrs. Smithers who served the salad, Lt. and Mrs. C. D. Overfelt who served the dessert.

Mrs. E. J. Curren entertained at a beautiful luncheon and bridge on Monday as a compliment to her houseguest, Mrs. Joe Wright of Harrisburg, Va.

Capt. and Mrs. Harry Collins entertained at an elegant dinner party at their quarters recently.

* * *

Mrs. Charles Steel entertained seventeen tables of bridge at the Polo Club on Wednesday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. Otho N. Johnson, and her sister, Miss Ella Keen Johnson. The rustic club was converted into a veritable woodland bower by the use of rhododendron and wild azelia. The mantle was banked in misty pink rhododendron and the tea table was lovely with its handsome Chinese embroidered cloth, its centerpiece of pink azelia and rhododendron and four candlesticks holding pink tapers. Small tables had madeira, filet and cutwork cloths and were decorated with vases and bowls of flowers from the lovely garden of Copt. and Mrs. Steel. Progressive bridge was played and Mrs. Ambrose made highest score, Miss Helen Young second and Mrs. Febiger low. Mrs. Ambrose, Miss Young, and the honorees, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Johnson and Mrs. Dodds, the guest of Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson, received as prizes beautiful hand-embroidered refreshment cloths with napkins. Mrs. Febiger's prize was a box of French bath powder and Mrs. Ralph Kingman who the tea guests prize was given a hand-decorated tea tile. At the conclusion of the game a lovely huge cake, white, embossed in dainty pink flowers and boasting sixteen candles, was brought in and placed in front of Mrs. W. A. Collins whose birthday it was. This charming courtesy is characteristic of Mrs. Steel who is known far and wide for her thoughtfulness. It came as a complete surprise for Mrs. Collier for she had forgotten that Mrs. Steel had ever known of her birthday. Chicken salad, olives, hot buttered rolls and iced tea were served and the birthday cake was cut and passed arohnd. There were two especially interesting things about the tallies. They were miniature fans decorated in clusters of flowers or lovely summer girls and Miss Ella Keen Johnson standing last in the receiving line had a basket of beautiful garden flowers in which the little fans were embedded.

Capt. and Mrs. Charles Steel complimented their guests, Mrs. O. N. Johnson and Miss Ella Keen Johnson, with a delightful dinner party recently.

* * *

Mrs. Edwin Butcher will entertain at two successive bridge parties at her home on Wednesday, May 2nd, and Thursday, May 3rd.

* * *

Mrs. W. H. Vinson and her sister, Miss Lurline Parker, will sail May 4th for New York and after a week there they will go to Canada thru the New England States.

COL. G. W. HELMS

Colonel George W. Helms is going, and everybody is sorry. He has been here four years and seems—and feels—like an old citizen. In truth, the talented and genial colonel is, literally, not as young as he once was. He is being assigned to Porto Rico, to take command of the United States troops in that island. Thirty years ago he helped capture Porto Rico from the Spaniards, and so is returning to old stamping grounds. He was there nearly a year. At the beginning of the year he was a second lieutenant, then he was a first lieutenant, then he was in command of a troop, then he was an acting adjutant—however, we don't remember the rest so clearly. It is evident that if Colonel Helms had stayed in Porto Rico two years longer he would have been at least a general.

Colonel Helms has laid a hand most heartily, at Fort Benning and Columbus. As executive officer at the fort he has been busy, but not so busy that he could not lend cheerful assistance to civic and cultural enterprises. Duty was duty, and orders were orders, and whether to lead a charge up some local San Juan, or to charge the top notes of the scale, up the operatic heights, or to make a speech, or to do anything they wanted him to—the colonel was there. And did it with a smile. He loves this community and its people, and the feeling is reciprocated. He has received a splendid promotion, and that is the only reason the folks didn't get out an injunction against the war department from moving him!—(From "Good Morning" column, by W. C. Woodall, Columbus Enquirer-Sun.)

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

While our role as Advanced Class scribe doesn't necessarily qualify us as a musical critic, we wish to pause in our remarks long enough to say a few kind words to Captain George King, Mrs. Butcher and those associated with them in the production of Lelawala. It was splendidly done and all of those who are in any way responsible, from the members of the well-trained chorus to the director, are well deserving of the unusual honor which goes with being mentioned in this column without being simultaneously damned.

The Advanced Class was well, if not uumerously, represented in the cast for our own Captain Bigelow gave a most tuneful and realistic interpretation of the part of "Shungela," while Captain Luck sang lustily in the chorus. Captain Bigelow, who is something of a Moody and Sankey combined, made such an impression as an Indian Chief that we shouldn't be surprised if Captain Murphey would use him as the subject for his next monograph.

The Friday afternoon and Saturday morning demonstration in the management of animals and transportation was greatly enjoyed by all. We were sorry to see it rain and spoil what promised to be a most successful horse show but really ,after Major Huebner's marked problem in Brigade Supply, nothing short of a full day's complete rest could have saved us from a nervous breakdown. We have great confidence in our ability to supply a brigade if we have to, but if we are required to base our activities on an Administrative Order which we have to write out for the approval of B-Ex, the troops will have to fight on empty stomachs.

We submit herewith a few contributions from our "Guest Conductor" who writes under the non de plume of "Route Step" and signs himself J. P. M.

Shorts and Overs

The saddest spectacle that we have witnessed in some time took place in the Officer's Club last Wednesday when an officer of Scotch ancestry, in a fit of absent-mindedness, put a dime in the slot machine and drew a blank.

A Scotchman was walking to work and met a small boy sobbing as if his heart would break. "What's the matter lad?" asked Sandy. "Boo-hoo, I'm losted," replied the boy. "Is there a reward offered for you?" asked Sandy. "No-o-o," sobbed the boy. "Then ye are still lost," said Sandy as he continued on his way.

"What will you drink?" asked the bartender of a hush-hush joint in a nearly wicked cit yas the first customer of the day appeared. "I wonder," mused the customer in an undertone as he prepared his system for the first shock.

MacGregor was asked to make an overseas flight from Glasgow to New York and went into a restaurant to buy a lunch for the trip. "How mnay sandwiches?" asked the lady at the counter. "Only one," replied Angus, "We may not get there."

SPORTOPICS
(By Al)

With the Infantry School Baseball season just finished and the Garrison season just beginning, it it a little early to pick a winner among the organizations. But if figures are figures (which they are) this season should be a gala one for the Green Cords from the Infantry School Detachment.

After trailing in the cellar for three consecutive seasons, the Detachmenteers will open the season with one of the best line-ups since 1924. White, Heckert, Cleveland, Douglas and Holman should keep the infield intact. Tolle, Morris, Shepherd and Duff or slab duty with McCarthy on the receiving end form a battery that should win ball games, while Ryan, Ashe, Davis and Birdsong will patrol the outer gardens.

Rumors and rumblings are heard to the effect that the Caterpillar Conductors and Caisson Riders are building two mighty teams, but they are not putting out any information, any way we will know in a few more days for we will see the argument settled by the nine-inning route.

Mrs. Ooldtimer—"It says here in the paper that the young girls of today are abandoning all restrictions."

Mr. Oldtimer—"Well, I'd better not catch Mabel without her's on.

TERRIBLE DOWNPOUR BEATS LIKE SNARE DRUM ON MAIN THEATRE ROOF

One of the worst rain storms in the history of this part of the country assailed Fort Benning last Sunday. During the show at the Main Theater huge drops of rain hammered the roof of the building ;even though the actors on the stage forced their voices to their fullest extent, there were times when this beating storm drowned the sound so that the audience had great difficulty in hearing—was unfortunate. It caused many a laugh to be lost. When the rain subsided during the second act every word spoken by the actors was clearly understood.

The Montgomery Players are one of the best show troups that this section of the country has had the good fortune to see. Fort Benning is in luck; these professional players are due a vote of appreciation for their whole-hearted efforts to please us. They claim that next Sunday night's performance will bring down the house with laughter from start to finish. The play they are going to present is more forceable in action than words, and should there be another downpour the action of the play will carry over most of the theme of the play and defeat the elements.

SAW DUST
A. J. NICHOLS

We must have lost our hold on the ladies because our visitors for the most part have been confined to males. We hope to be home by the time this is published.

During the war we were in a civilian hospital at Englewood, N .J. In order that we may not be misunderstood, we hasten to remark that this was before we met T. W. We were very fortunate in having a very attractive night nurse and as a result we adopted the simple expedient of sleeping all day so that we might look at her at night. If we were yung and single we should be tempted to do the same thing on this trip.

There is seldom a misfortune from which no good arises. We are to be put on a diet for a considerable length of time and one of the delicacies that are forbidden us is twice cooked meat or hash. We don't know how T. W. will be able to round out her weekly menu now but anyway its good news to us.

We received our copy of the Centennial Edition published by the two Columbus papers and we were very much impressed by its comprehensiveness. It has very ably set forth the industrial life of "The Electric City." It took us a long time to find Mr. Rhodes Browne but we finally located him with the County Commissioners. We learned more about Columbus from this edition than from a year's residence. We hope that it will not be a hundred years before another such paper is published.

Much to our disgust we missed the horse show Saturday. From the advance information and the number of entries this promised to be the best show yet staged here. It was too bad the rain put in an appearance and dampened things. We hope that Centennial Week proves better than its start.

We missed "Lelawala' 'too but we have received very glowing reports of it. This operetta, the swan-song of George King at Benning, was from all accounts one of the best productions of the Glee Club. The Club loses three of its ablest members this year, Mrs. Butcher, Colonel Helms and George.

We hear vague rumors to the effect that the "Butter and Egg Man" is to be given again this week. We hope so for this was another event we missed. Seems like everything has happened these three weeks we have been on the hill.

We received a very comforting visit from little Bertie MacMahon Monday morning. Bertie threatened to have us stricken from the world's best squad if we didn't return to duty. The squad we refer to is the 5th squad of Company "C" of the historic class of 1925-26. Fortunately for Bertie's academic record, he was our rear rank man and desk companion throughout the year.

Our idea of an ideal visitor is Ida Ryder. While we were not the direct objective of Ida's visit to the hospital we did benefit from it. Along with Captain Gwynn, we had just about reached that state of mental depression in which self destruction seems a very inviting solution of one's troubles when in walked Ida and all our imagined troubles took flight. It is remarkable how the cheerfulness and energy of a person can dominate so completely a situation in which old man Gloom had reigned so supremely just a moment before.

Good Morning Mr. Woodall. We must make a further admission, you are a man of considerable analytical ability or else you would not have perceived our recent situation so clearly. We wonder where you got our full name of which we are extremely proud and which we so seldom see in print.

Captain Reinhardt, the attending Surgeon in Columbus, was showing a visitor through the hospital recently. They arrived at my door and Captain Reinhardt with grandiloquent sweep of the arm said to his companion, "This is the maternity ward."

PERSONAGE OF THE WEEK

Colonel George W. Helms, for his able administration as President of the Fort Benning Glee Club.

INF. RIFLE TEAM PREPARING FOR NATIONAL MATCHES

The incessant crack of the Springfield rifle can be heard out at McAndrew range from early morning until far into the afternoon. The best rifle shots in the Infantry have assembled at Fort Benning to take part in th etryouts for the National matches that will be held at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Crack shots from different Infantry organizations are competing here for a regular place on the Infantry Team that will represent the Infantry in the coming matches.

The strength of the authorized rifle teams at the National matches has been announced by the War Department. Regular army teams will consist of one team captain, one team coach, ten principals, and two alternates, making a total of fourteen. Each National Guard Team will be allowed one range officer.

R. O. T. C., C. M. T. C. and civilian teams are authorized to consist of one team captain, ten principals, two alternates, making a total of thirteen. In addition there will be available for each team a coach from the general pool of officers at Camp Perry.

Teams representing the Infantry, Cavalry and Engineers are authorized to enter the 1928 national matches which will be held at Camp Perry. Each chief of the above named branches is responsible for the selection of the team representing his branch.

A certain Sergeant was drilling recruits some time ago, and he told them to fall in ;then, taking a look at the line they formed, he cried out, "Fall out you Johns, and take a peep at that line you are in." 'Tis a wonderful age Serg, but not quite so wonderful as all that.

"Red" Watson quotes that if April Showers bring May Flowers, this place will soon be a Garden of Eden. We agree with you "Red," for once in your life you are right. (We hope so too.)

One o four recruits was muttering in his sleep the other night, and he was heard to remark, "Just think, 3 long years." Cheer up boy, the first 25 years are the hardest.

Corporal Funk is trying out fo rthe Infantry rifle team, we are all quite sure that he will make a high score because he sure can shoot. Beg pardon, I meant to say hit the bull.

Private Wright's favorite song is "I'll be shoving you always." For details of words of song, see Corporal Nimi, or "I Wonder Column.' Ye Scribe, in company with Pvt. Morgan and Pvt. Stockberger, visited the Horse Show on Saturday, and the latter remarked, "Gee, the band ought to play a good song, lige 'Crazy Over Horses.'"

I Wonder—

If Pvt. Wright is room orderly tomorrow?

If Sgt. O'Neil is contented with his "G .I.s"?

If Sgt. Matthews will ever arise before first call?

Where my baby is tonight?

Company "F"

Ripple and Hawkins, songster and composer respectively, have combined their arts and "Melancholy Baby" one of the new Victor reproductions is one of their masterpieces. This record has made a big hit and these two young men are well on their way to prosperity.

"Chief" Otalvaro has rejoined this organization after an absence of nearly three years. The Chief is a popular boxer and we are glad to see him with us again.

Messrs. Davis, W. C. Hawkins and Ye Scribe attended the theater Sunday evening but are still a little bit hazy as to just what it was all about. Never again will we attend a performance until we have been supplied with ear-phones or a namplifier has been installed in the theater.

One of Private Lugenbuhl's own compositions:

"Ashes to ashes and dust to dust,
If shoe polish don't get you—Blitz will."

The entire Company (with due respect to themselves) have refused to take part in the Centennial Parad if Shorty Wilkinson participates.

It has been reported that there is a wild mouse running loose in the Barracks. Every precaution has been taken and armed sentries guard all squad rooms. There are rumors to the effect that Cpl. Hanson surrounded and captured this beast single-handed but there is no proof to this statement.

—Kenneth Clark.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

Our company baseball team is getting along in good style now and we have won two games and lost one. Last Wednesday we took Co. "G" into camp with a score of 6 to 4. The game was featured with numerous errors on both sides by in all turned out to be a very interesting affair. Newman, the big left hander, was put in the box for Co. "G" in an effort to save the game but the Hq. Co. bats soon found him. Lefty Carnes, the trusty left hand curve artist, was on the mound for Hq. Co. and pitched good ball allowing few hits, and but for the errors the scores made by Co. "G" would be much smaller. The following Saturday Co. "E" was trimmed to the tune of 7 to 1, in a game featured by not one error on the Hq. Co. team and the trusty Lefty Carnes pitching air tight ball, allowing only two hits. Lefty was in wonderful form and we are relying on him to pull us through the next and final game with Co. "F". Wednesday afternoon this company plays a practice game with the 7th Engineers at Gowdy Field and as yet the score is unknown but will be announced in next week's news notes.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "E"

Another short timer has about reached his goal. That is Mess Sgt. Zed Buford. But as the words go they all come back for more. Now Uncle Zed won't you take on another stack? Pvt. Hornsby, his high geared dining room orderly, has been promoted to the Cooking Staff and is doing fine. He is going to specialize in pastry cooking (Ollie says he is very fond of his pies) and friend chicken.

If you had been out on the ball field last week and saw the galloping "E" ball team defeat "F" 2 to 1 with Slim Ward pitching with this team. The boys are going to keep the old record of the Company "That is always on top."

We have two men on the Infantry Rifle Team that are making good on the team, Corporal James (Nine Ball) Dean and Pfc. Cook. Everybody is wishing them the best of luck.

—J. R. H.

Company "D" Muleskinners

After the stir, hustle, and excitement has died down, we are at liberty to announce ourselves winners of the Reg't. Horse Show. The hours of toil are well spent when carried to such an extent as to keep the company record as in preceding years—At The Top. This was accomplished under the direction of our ever loyal 1st Sergeant Clyde Heldreth.

The Three Musketeers—namely, Pvts. Best, Carver and Denmark—may be seen scurring from early dawn to late dusk. They will be great prospects for Marathon Runners when their enlistments expire providing the Twenty-five Year Bill is not passed. We mind not your faces fellows but please forget how to play black-jack.

News from 2nd Lt. Dark now stationed at Fort Moultrie, greets the Company with a hearty Hello. Lt. Dark will be remembered as our ever faithful supply sergeant.

"Old Faithful" can be seen pulling in the company street every morning with its driver (we should say, Rider). Silent remarks overheard ran something on this order, "Wish it wouldn't start, so I could pull it home, mine never fails." Five years though is a long time to keep a pile of tin.

Company "D" congratulates Company "H" on their wonderful display at the Horse Show, for it is a known fact that First Place belongs to "D" Company.

—SWAN.

Company "G"

Cpl. Brown told the Recruits that they would fall out with rifles from now on and just ,then the bell rang for chow. Recruit Paladino ask Cpl. Brown if he had to take his rifle to the mess hall and Cpl. Brown said, "No, Paladino you won't have to fight for your dinner."

Privates Biggs and Fanguy are getting along fine on their new jobs as Hotel Managers.

Pvt. Creamer is the new Pastry Cook, he sure knows his sweets.

1st Lt. Cochran is on S. D. with the Wire Section showin gthem how to put the job over for the maneuvers next month. He was caught in the rain the other day and has been sick in quarters. We hope the Lieut. will recover soon.

Lieut. Hewitt is at Governors Island, N. Y., putting in some strenuous training for the Olympic games. The Company wishes the Lieut. the best of luck.

The 1st Platoon sure has a fine looking squad room since Judge Cosgrove and his Court started fining some of the men for "Dropsy."

Bugler Morris is back on the job again. We are glad to see Morris getting around.

We are glad to hear that Sgt. Holland and Privates Baker and Sellers are getting along fine.

The Company baseball team sure put over on "H" Company. They walked away with a 14 to 2 victory. H. is back at 2nd base and he sure adds a lot to the team. Young Prophet is showing up good also.

Well Sgt. Southerland knocked down his usual 24-hour pass fo rthe best N. C. O. on Guard. Keep up the good work Roughshod.

Company "G" is well represented in the tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team. 2nd Lt. Gailbreath, Cpls. Taylor and Kirkland and Pvt. Leonard have been spending most of their time on the range. We hope that they will make the trip to Perry.

Joe Zapasnik is back with us again. We are glad to welcome you back Joe.

Some one i nthe 3rd platoon called Melanson a chicken and he has been smiling ever since.

Sgt. Brown and Pvt. Creamer have been getting pretty thick lately. We don't know which one is the thickest.

Cpl. Hays is on S. D. with the communication school. This will come in handy back in the hills of Tennessee, Cpl. Hays.

—Warset.

SOLDIERS READ THIS

The new Broadway Hotel which opened its doors for business on April 21, is a real up-to-date soldier hostelry. Mr. Cymbal who is an ex-soldier and a painter has repainted the building throughout. The mattresses are new and the linen is changed daily. Fair treatment is his motto.

Hdqrs. Battery and Combat Train

Sergeant Rowland is now back with us after spending 60 days somewhere in Georgia from the appearance and looks country life was fine.

The horse show was a success so far as Headquarters Battery was concerned, Corporal Summar and rPivate Crawford each winninga ribbon.

Arnold says that his girl is so dumb she thinks no-man's-land is a woman's institution.

Corporal Cole still flivvers to town every night and brings back reports of a new heart crushed ,wonder how many to your credit now Bean-Pole.

Private Sams was discharged on the 18th and is now on a 60-day furlough after taking on another stack with the Artillery.

We have now in our midst ,one new Corporal. So far we have not heard anything in regards to cigars, but possibly you will not overlook us pay day. How about that, Powell?

Our baseball team motored to Columbus last Sunday to suffer a severe lacing by the Crimson Jrs. The rain prevented further misery about the seventh inning. Score: Plenty to two.

Private Lane is back from a 10-day leave. We don't know when the next leave shall be but just imagine several week-end leaves to be following.

Private Pleus was seen racing his motor up about the skating rink. Only thing Pleus can't say about those skates is that he puts them on his feet and that seems to be the wrong place for them.

BIG REVIEW IS SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY; ORDERS ISSUED BY BILLY COLLIER

All the friends of little boys in general, and of Bill Collier and John Brier, in particular, will be interested in the following which is verbatim as dictated by Bill:

"Bill Collier, General.
John Brier, Colonel.
Tebby Berry, Major.
David Ambrose, Captain.
Bobby Ambrose, Lieutenant.

"Ten days from today there will be a big review for John Brier and Bill Collier.

"All interested to be present at the Polo Field ten days from today.

"The review to be snappy like a soldier's review.

"All ornaments to be worn like the last review held by General Collins.

"All members to be there on time, 2 o'clock.

"All those not there will be discharged from our army.

"Signed,
"WILLIAM HURLE COLLIER."

This interesting review will take place on Monday, April 30th, at 2:30 at the Polo Field, and the public is invited. The troops after the review will be entertained by their general at his home where lemonade and cookies will be served. (If any one doesn't remember, it so happens that John Brier leaves May 1 for Honolulu and Bill Collier will be in Columbus next year, so the little army that has drilled with its interesting equipment over every inch of Block 20 and Block 23 and collected ornaments from black and white till their little suits and hats are gloriously covered, will suffer serious loss this year from "orders." The General however expects to recruit an army in town and carry on, spurning the thought of inactivity, and I dare say the Colonel will be a General ere he reaches Hawaii and the "rankest" one on the islands.)

THE INDUSTRIAL INDEX

Has just published a centennial number, which is a very handsome book. Mr. W. C. Woodall, conductor of the "GOOD MORNING" column in the Enquirer-Sun is editor. He has spent many months of hard work on this number, and from the many compliments we have heard about it, he has certainly been rewarded for his efforts. We believe it is the largest and finest book which has ever been published about construction activities in Columbus and other cities of the southeastern states. Many of Columbus' beautiful homes are to be seen in this issue.

HAG DROPS A FEW LINES TO OTTO

Biglerville, Ga.,
April 27, 1928.

Dear friend Otto:

Just heard about you joinin' the Navy to see the world through a porthole. But don't get too proud of them wide gob pants, Sailor. Oceans ain't even wet compared to Georgia. What I mean; you can hornpipe up to that Admiral guy and tell him, "Home, James, to the Chattahoochee." For if those big black clouds which is diluting the corn fields don't quit slopping rain, you can park your battleship, like Noah, in Block 21, and fish for whales!

Maybe you acquire this yen for the bounding wave that summer me and you is deck hands on the raging canal. And say, Otto, remember that classy little jane that gives me the glad eye when the scow "Emmy Lou" barges through the locks at Troy. That big Greek blonde, Helen, with the face that stops a thousand clocks, simply don't tick compared to that skirt. No foolin', Sailor, what you need to speel "It", that girl's got!

But speaking of skirts, there's two little fluffs sitting behind me at one of these here now, barnyard croquet games they call Polo. I think they name it after that soap, Sapolio, because it takes a real careless gladiator to yearn for that kind of mayhem. Honest, Otto, dynamite is like kittens compared to that game, it's that brutal! They give eight guys a horse and a club and turn them loose!

Well, anyways, I'm parked there, like I tell you, and things has got sort of uninteresting. I mean, it's maybe five minute since some guy gets crowned and the hombre driving the ambulance is yawning. So these two frills, in them wide floppy hats and window curtain dresses, loses interest and starts talking.

"You know, I think Ethel is just too sweet," gushes one of these sugars, crossing her knees and kicking me in the back of the head, sort of nonchalant like. I jump and then shudder. When they talk that kind of molasses I see Ethel is in for an awful dirty dig. And though I don't know Ethel from Eve's off ichthyosaurus, I feel plenty sorry for that rib just the same.

"Yes," trills the girl friend, "She is simply darling, and yet—"

"That's just it," chirps the first fluff. "I dont think Ethel has a bit of sex appeal."

Well, can you bend that, Otto! And the combined ages of them two little frills dont add up to more than thirty. I take a long count on that one, just like Gene Tunney.

They got a Horse Show here too, Otto. But I don't savvy that at all. I mean, I can tell a horse when I see one, but I can't tell him much. And I can't show him nothing!

Well, Sailor, next time I take the poison pen in hand I'm likely gargling poi at Wai Ki Ki, or holding up a palm tree down in oPrto Rico ,or maybe trying to pick the locks at Gatun. Anyway, I'm getting to be a short timer around here. I probably put in my next hitch across the briny someplace. Come see me some time you got liberty .

Well, Otto, as the frogs say,
Au Reveille,
Your friend,
HAG.

INFANTRY SCHOOL NUMBER OF THE INFANTRY JOURNAL

Special Issue Will Appear in May

The special number of The Infantry Journal, which is to be devoted to The Infantry School, will be mailed so as to reach Fort Benning not later than May twenty-fifth. The local members of the Infantry Association are therefore assured of getting their copies before the graduation of the present classes.

This special number will carry stories on all of the activities of the most interestin ginfantry post in the army. Among the many articles will be stories of particular interest to Fort Benning readers, such as Mrs. P. B. Peyton's description of the life of army women at Fort Benning; Colonel Warfield's story of the growth of the post; Miss Loretto Chappell's sketches on the history of Fort Benning; Captain Collier and Lieutenant Grady on hunting; Major Harding's gripping melodrama depicting the life of student officers; these among many others equally interesting.

The number will be profusely illustrated. An interesting collection of excellent photographs has been secured for this purpose.

As there are many officers of branches other than infantry at Fort Benning, The Book Shop will order extra copies of the June Number of the Journal, which will be sold at fifty cents a copy. Officers not members of the Infantry Association and members who desire extra copies may order them by calling telephone No. 48.

GLEE CLUB

CLUB PRESENTED "LELAWALA"

The performance by the Glee Club on last Thursday evening, April 19, of the opera, "Lelawala," was the most ambitious undertaking which that excellently trained organization has yet offered the public of Fort Benning and Columbus. It was carried through with notable success, the audience fully appreciated the entire production and the club should feel proud of having acquitted itself of a difficult task with such skill.

The gifted conductor, Capt. George L. King, and his able assistant, Mrs. Edwin Butcher, at the piano, had brought the principals and choruses up to a point of excellence far beyond that of the average amateur company. It took not only experience and persistence, but special adaption for the task, and the Club is extra-ordinarily fortunate in having had the services of Capt. King and Mrs. Butcher.

The large audience seemed to fully enjoy the evening and many were heard to comment upon the brilliant work of the producing staff in putting over such a well rounded musical production.

CAPT. PEARSON TO VISIT EUROPE THIS SUMMER

Captain Ralph A. W. Pearson, accompanied by his wife, and Miss Clara Brown, of Winthrop, Mass., will sail from New York on the S. S. Leviathan on June 16, for a two month's tour of Europe. They will visit England, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. They will spend some time in Paris and Nice, returning to the States from Cherbourg on August 14.

Captain Pearson is an instructor in the Infantry School.

ATTENTION STUDENT OFFICERS

In our Xmas number, the classes of the Infantry School were printed. The names of the members of the various platoon were omitted, and, for that reason, the pictures will again be printed on one page, with names.

In our issue of May 4, the Advanced Class will appear; issue of May 11, the platoons of Company "B" and the issue of May 18, the platoons of Company "C."

Take note of this feature, and procure a copy of the NEWS in which your class picture appears.

TICKER TALK

(Furnished by Fenner & Beane)

New York, April 25.—The market showed a generally cheerful tone at the start, the earnings statements of United States Steel and General Motors being interpreted bullishly. These two stocks led the trading during the morning, the railroads, particularly eastern rails involved in merger negotiations, resuming their recent advance.

Strength in coppers an oils was also a feature based on expectations of further price advances in the respective commodities.

The underlying money situation, however, appears to be still capable of causing difficulties, with higher call money rates and a rise in rediscount rate a possibility of the next few days.

24TH INF.

SEMPER PARATUS

MASS SINGING

Filling the Main Theatre to capacity the 24th Infantry offered to music lovers of Fort Benning and Columbus on Saturday evening last, a concert that will long be remembered by those who attended.

Opening promptly at 9 o'clock the audience was greeted by a cycle of spirituals and folk songs. The band and orchestra of the regiment rendered with masterly style several selections which brought rounds of applause from the delighted audience.

A novelty number furnished by the harmonica band was a decided feature of the program and brought call after call for additional numbers.

The concert was attended by a large number of the garrison as well as from Fort Benning. Many appreciative remarks, it was said, were made to Col. Waite C. Johnson regarding the splendid performance of the regimental musical organizations all of which gave to their audience one of the best musical concerts heard here in years.

Ball Team Journeys to Birmingham

The 24th Infantry Baseball Team returned to its home station Sunday afternoon after a tedious trip to Birmingham to meet the Black Barons of that city. Although there were three games scheduled the 24th Infantry team was unable to get in but one meeting with their old rivals, due to being rained out. The first game of the series was a close one and although it finished with the 24th at the small end of the score, it is said that it was one of the best games of the season. It has been rumored that the "Barons" are going to make another invasion of the 24th Infantry camp and settle the affair.

Captain Harry Gwynn, after staving off an appointment with the Medicos long enough to appear in the "Butter and Egg Man," at last broke into the Station hospital. Reports indicate that the Captain is doing nicely and will soon be out and once more himself.

Sgt. Wheeler Writes Regiment

Sgt. Harry Wheeler, an old-timer of the regiment wrote a letter to the regiment, through Captain Craig his old company commander giving his best regards to his old comrades.

Sgt. Wheeler is at present on duty as sergeant instructor with the Illinois National Guard with station in Chicago. He says that he likes his present duties but still longs for the associations of the regiment. He wishes to hear from some of his old friends, so he stated.

Regimental Garden Makes Returns

The first issue or garden truck from the regimental garden made its appearance on Friday in the form of fine young onions and radishes. From the indications made by these two first arrivals the garden is to be the best ever, with promises of a continuous supply of fresh fancy vegetables.

Lieut. Camp Gets Orders

Coming somewhat unexpectedly to the regiment are the orders sending Lieut. Pierce H. Camp to Knoxville as Assistant Professor of Military Art and Science at the University of Tennessee. Lieut. Camp is at present Garrison Police Officer, having been assigned to that duty since he arrived at the regiment after graduating from the School last year.

Trees Planted at Headquarters

The Adjutant, Captain Charles L. Steel, a confirmed horticulturist not satisfied with planting a dozen or so rare specimens of roses in the garden surrounding the headquarters building has added eight China Berry trees which have already responded to his expert hand.

The grounds about the offices of the regiment are looking much better, the hedge, grass roses and trees lending their effect for the general improvement.

Grounds about the mess halls have also been planted and cultivated, hedges and flowering plants set out adding to the general effect of Spring to the regimental area.

TRAFFIC CONTROL

Robinson: "I met my wife in a very funny way—I ran over her in my car and later married her."

Brown: "If everybody had to do that there wouldn't be so much reckless driving."—Tit Bits.

EMPLOYMENT OF VETERANS IN CIVIL SERVICE

Ten Distinct Preferences Given To Veterans

The Law and the Figures Cited in Answer to Charges of Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr.

By William C. Deming, President U. S. Civil Service Commission

At this time of reported increased unemployment, it seems appropriate that veterans, those who met the heaviest blows in the national defense, should be reminded of the preferences to which they are entitled in appointments to the civil service of the United States.

Ten Distinct Preferences

To give practical effect to the veteran preference statute, which is general in its terms, an Executive order was issued in 1923, as a result of which the following ten specific preferences are allowed to veterans, all recommended by the Civil Service Commission:

(1) The veteran is released from age limitations.

(2) He is certified without regard to the apportionment among the States of appointments in the departmental service in Washington.

(3) He is reelased from height and weight requirements in most cases.

(4) He is released from many of the other physical requirements.

(5) He has five points added to his earned rating, and therefore need made only 65 per cent, whereas a non-veteran must make at least 70 per cent.

(6) A disabled veteran has ten points added to his earned rating and therefore need make only 60 per cent.

(7) Time spent in the World War is counted as training and experience, where such elements are rated, in all cases where the applicant's employment in a vocation similar to that for which he applies was interrupted by service in the War.

(8) An appointing officer who passes over the name of a veteran and selects a non-veteran with the same or a lower rating from a certificate of eligibles must place his reasons for doing so in the records.

(9) A veteran may not be dropped or reduced in rank or salary through reduction of force if his record is good.

(10) Examinations which have been held and are closed to applicants generally are reopened to veterans under certain conditions.

10,000 Veterans Appointed Annually

About 40,000 appointments are made each year from the Civil Service Commission's registers. These are made necessary by the vacancies resulting from the turnover in a force which numbers nearly 425,000 classified positions.

During the year ending June 30, 1927, approximately 10,000 of the appointments, or 25 per cent, went to those entitled to preference; and there is no reason why veterans should not continue to

BASEBALL

Baseball fans at the Infantry School will rejoice over the announcement made yesterday that the flag will fly over Gowdy Field today and tomorrow. The Auburn Freshmen will invade Fort Benning and will meet a team composed of players of the Infantry School Detachment and the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion. Reports from the camp of the young Tigers indicate the visitors have a strong aggregation. The game today will be called at 3:30 P. M.

BENEFIT BALL GAME ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

A large crowd attended the benefit baseball game Wednesday afternoon between the Student and Permanent officers. Chaplain T. L. McKenna, in charge of the Fort Benning children's school, stated that he was well pleased with the amount derived from the game.

The opening attraction was the parade of teams, umpires, "immediate action" squad, led by the 29th Infantry band.

The first event on the program was the "immediate action" episode. Led by Capt. S. G. Saulnier, acting squad corporal, the squad put over an excellent exhibition until interrupted by one of Captain Shamotulski's M. P.'s

The ball game then started with Capt. "Joe" Canella on the mound for the Students and Lieut. "Red" Reeder for the Permanents. Canella pitched several wide ones, whereupon an argument among the Students threatened to break up the game. Reserves, armed with rifles and bayonets, rushed to the center of the field, and Capt. Magee escorted Capt. Canella from the field, thereby averting a riot and spoiling what proved to be a good game. Capt. Ellis then took the mound for the Students and pitched his usual brand of ball.

Shutout baseball interested the fans for six innings, when the Permanents made four safe hits and a homer by Buckley, and thus ended the argument.

BERNARD COWAN ON NEWS STAFF

Bernard H. Cowan, Private First Class, First Battalion Hq. Company, 29th Infantry, was placed on special duty Monday on the staff of the Infantry School News. Cowen has been on duty with the A. and R. office of the demonstration regiment for some time. He just recently re-enlisted in the service. Cowen is a graduate of Union City High School and attended Union College, at Union City, Tenn., for one year.

He will take over duties of sport editor and utility writer of the News.

Made the News office a visit the other day. We enjoyed talking to the captain and mighty glad to see him out again. Incidentially, he handed in a bunch of newsy items about his regiment, the 24th Infantry.

SHOW WAS BIG SUCCESS THIS YEAR

Over 400 Contestants Enter Events

The sixth annual transportation and horse show of the Infantry School was completed Tuesday on Doughboy stadium field. At the beginning it looked as though the weather would again frown disapproval of the show, and that it would have to be postponed for a third time. A light rain fell soon after the opening of the show. Several hours later, however, the skies cleared, and the remainder of the day was ideal for the completion of the events.

There was a big attendance for the afternoon events, as all the student officers at the school were excused from their class to attend the closing events.

Major C. B. Lyman, of the Infantry School staff and coach of the polo team at Fort Benning this year, won two first places in the show. The events, trained polo ponies and the jumping touch and out, were won by him.

Among the events to bring favorable comments from the spectators was the riding of Martha Jones, six year old daughter of Major and Mrs. Ralph E. Jones, and the ability at horsemanship displayed by Bobby McClure, son of Capt. and Mrs. R. A. McClure. These tots were so small that whenever they attempted to spur their mounts, they could only kick in the back. Each sat in their saddle like a veteran and served as a good example for many would-be experts in the equestrian art.

Although the show this year had to be postponed twice because of weather conditions, the stadium was well filled with spectators at each performance. The rain did not effect the continued interest of the fort in the show, which was said to be the best for some years.

Major H. J. M. Smith, Cav., who was in charge of the show, spared no efforts in making this event the outstanding feature of sporting events of the season.

The following riders and mounts placed in the exhibition:

Officers' Hunters: Ist Maggie, ridden by Lt. A. S. J. Stovall, 6th Cavalry; 2nd, Dickson, ridden by Captain P. B. Rogers, 24th Inf.; 3rd—Ginger, ridden by Lt. A. R. C. Sander, 24th Inf.; 4th—Tom Finlay, ridden by Capt. A. R. Brian, Infantry.

Ladies' Jumping (Novice): 1—Delson, with Miss Dade Warfield up; 2—Wheeler, Mrs. P. B. Rogers riding; 3—Betty, with Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde riding; 4—Miss Marie Russ on Steger.

Jumping, Touch and Out: 1—Winniemac, with Major C. B. Lyman, Inf., up; 2—Fresno, ridden by Lt. C. C. Mood, 24th Inf.; 3—Dickson, ridden by Capt. P. B. Rogers, 24th Inf.; 4—Harry, ridden by Lt. J. G. VanHouten, 29th Inf.

Enlisted Men's Jumping: 1—Harry, ridden by Pvt. T. Lynch, Hq. Co., 29th Inf.; 2—Ike, ridden by Cpl. L. B. Benefield, Hq. Co., 29th Inf.; 3—Highpockets, with Pvt. W. F. Petry, 83rd F. A.,

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The annual election of officers of the Fort Benning Dramatic Club will occur at a meeting to be held at the Officers Club at 7:30 P. M. on Tuesday, May 15, 1928.

The attention of members of the club is invited to the following, quoted from the Constitution: "By petition to the club president signed by at least 10 members, either active or associate, any member may be nominated to fill any vacancy."

The following nominees, selected by a nominating committee, are to be submitted to the club for election for the academic year 1928-1929:

President: Major Benjamin G. Ferris.

Vice-President: Mrs. John F. Landis.

Secretary-Treasurer: Captain Charles L. Bolte, Captain Adrian H. Brian, Captain Clarke K. Fales.

Business Manager: Captain Paul R. Goode, Captain Albert B. Helsley.

Director: Captain John C. Newton.

Stage Manager: Captain Joseph B. Sweet.

Publicity Officer: Captain Stanley C. Saulnier, 1st Lieut. Elam L. Stewart.

*Play Reader: Captain J. L. Collins, Mrs. Gilbert R. Cook, Mrs. Paul R. Goode.

*Play-Reading Committee: 1st Lieut. Fred W. Caswell, Mrs. Albert S. Peake.

*Note—It is the intention that after they play reader shall have been elected, the two other candidates for that office shall be added to the names now listed under "Play-Reading Committee" and, together with those names, be voted on as members of that committee. This will result in there being four nominees as candidates for the two vacancies which will then exist in the committee.

EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Colonel Daniel G. Berry, Infantry, who is the new executive officer of the Infantry School. Colonel Berry, accompanied by his family, arrived at Fort Benning last week from the Philippines, where he was in command of the 31st Infantry. Colonel Berry is a graduate of the Advanced Class, Inf. School, 1925, at which time the above picture was taken. He was President of the Advanced Class.

ACCUSTICS AT MAIN THEATRE IMPROVED

During last week experiments were made in the Main Theatre with a view to improving the auditory properties. Over one thousand two hundred feet of highly tempered steel wire was stretched diagonally from cross beam to cross beam. This wire was first stretched with block and tackle and then tightened with turn buckles until when flicked, it produced a musical note. The tension was then varied until the tetra cord of the chromatic scale was produced. The wires now absorb most of the vibration from all notes of the scale and permit sound to travel from the stage to the farthest recesse sof the building without distortion. Experiments with the theatre both empty and filled with people have proven the success of the experiment.

Last Sunday night every word spoken by the Montgomery Players was clearly heard even as far back as the projection booth.

In order to further improve hearing properties two more wires have been stretched longitudinally from the percenium arch at the stage to the projection booth. These, it is believed, will produce a state of perfection unexcelled in any other theatre auditorium.

BROADWAY COMEDY SUCCESS AT MAIN THEATRE ON SUNDAY, MAY 6TH

At the Main Theatre next Sunday night, May 6th, the Montgomery Players will present a comedy made famous by the distinguished comedian Nat C. Goodwin, entitled "Other People's Business." This great Broadway laughing success is one of the best comedies in the extensive repertoire of the Montgomery Players and gives each one of the popular cast an opportunity to appear at their best.

It tells, in a humorous way, the story of a hard boiled old business man and his charming daughter, who is harassed by an ex-oversea soldier, who appears at the opportune moment and saves the firm from a business disaster. As his reward, he wins the hand and heart of the old man's daughter and also an interest in the firm.

Mr. Montgomery, as the soldier, is at his best. Miss Howard, as the daughter, has an opportunity to do some very clever acting. Mr. Taylor, as the hard boiled business man, (the part originally played by Mr. Goodwin) has wonderful opportunities also. The entire company will be in the support. When this comedy was presented, last week, at the Springer Opera House, the local press were loud in their praises and recommended the play as the best yet presented by the Montgomery Players. It is one of those comedies built along lines that keeps the audience, not only interested in the story, but yelling with laughter. It can truly be said of this comedy that there is a laugh in every line. The usual vaudeville will be introduced between the acts. The Montgomery Players have many recent Broadway successes in their repertoire including such plays as "East is West" "Why Men Leave Home," "The Old Soak," "Lightnin' ", etc., which they will present at the Main theater during the summer.

"Bill, I'll pay you that five I owe you next week."

"Fine, old top."

"Now would you mind letting me have a ten?"

"Late for work again. What was it this morning—a blow out?"

"Not this morning—last night."

AT THE MOVIES

MAY 4 TO MAY 11, INCL.

FRIDAY, MAY 4

"HER WILD OAT," starring Colleen Moore with Larry Kent, Gwenn Lee and Hallam Cooley. This comedy shows Colleen as a little lunch wagon owner who takes her life's savings and spends every cent on one week of luxury and thrills at an exclusive seaside resort. Her splash into society is only a ripple—a reporter persuades her to impersonate a duchess and her troubles begin all over. This picture was photographed at Coronado Beach, California.

"Fox Hunt." Fables.

Pathe News No. 35.

SATURDAY, MAY 5

"THE DEVIL'S TRADE MARK," starring Belle Bennett in a screen version from the story by Calvin Johnson. It is the life of parents among the byways of a great city and the effect of their criminal activities upon their children. This film attempts to solve the question, "can inherited evil tendencies wreck the lives of children who would otherwise be normal?" It is tensely melodramatic.

"Mickey in School." Mickey McGuire comedy.

SUNDAY, MAY 6

"Other People's Business"
A 4 Act Comedy Drama
and
3 Acts of Vaudeville presented by
The Montgomery Players

"Other People's Business" is laughs from start to finish. It depicts a big business man who is persuaded, against his will, to employ an Army officer, then the fun commences; the boss becomes bossed, and laughs become hilarious. Of course, a pleasing romance enters into the story. You'll enjoy it immensely.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE," starring Raymon Novarro and Norma Shearer in a massive filmization of the celebrated romance of the German Prince who sought happiness. It is a simple plot of a boy and a girl, an unhappy prince and his pathetic sweetheart, a maid in a village inn; but they love with a devotion that is greater than royal traditions. The strong cast includes Lionel Belmore, Geo. K. Arthur and Edythe Chapman.

Special music has been arranged for this splendid production.

"The Virgin Queen." Great Event—Technicolor.

Paramount News No. 78.

MONDAY, MAY 7

"THE RIDING RENEGADE," starring Bob Steele in a "Robin Hood of the Range," story—he was a nomad of the plains—peril was his playmate and danger his bedfellow. The story is laid in the Western bad lands among Indians and desparados.

"Love 'Em and Feed 'Em." Max Davidson comedy.

TUESDAY, MAY 8

"THE MAIN EVENT," featuring Vera Reynolds with Rudolph Childkraut in a fast moving fight film. It is a thrilling story in which a pretty and fascinating dancer plays the leading role against a colorful background of the prize fight arena. It is replete with romance, drama, appeal and laughs—the Last Event will hold you spell bound.

Vera Reynolds "In The MAIN EVENT"

"Swiss Movements." Jimmy Adams comedy.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9

"BRINGING UPFATHER," starring J. Farrell McDonald, Gertrude Olmstead and Marie Dressler in a film based upon the great newspaper comedy cartoons by the same name. Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the characters are presented true to form. Even corn beef and cabbage plays its share of the role. It is a narroative with laughs from start to finish.

Paramount News No. 79.

THURSDAY, MAY 10

"BORDER BLACKBIRDS," starring Leo Maloney in a tense melodrama of double-crossing on the border, where a band of robbers provide a thrilling adventure for a man, a girl and the mounted police—Crime, jails, hard fights and romance figure in this story.

Collegians No. 10.

FRIDAY, MAY 11

"BUCK PRIVATES," featuring Lya De Putti and Malcolm McGregor in a story laid in interior Germany before the armistice was signed. They were prisoners of war, the German authorities prohibited fraternizing and punished their maidens so caught by cutting their hair. When the daughter of the leading officer of the town is found in the embrace of an American whom she loves, the trouble and fun starts—it does not end until a peck of tribulation have been experienced, then the climax is as exciting as it is pleasing.

"Flying Fishers." Fables.

COLUMBUS FIRM GIVES SERVICE TO OWNERS

The Georgia Automobile Exchange, Columbus, Ga., is one of the oldest Chevrolet dealers in the southeast, and their policy of always keeping abreast of the times and continually making progress along the lines of making and keeping satisfied customers, is outstanding in the southeastern Chevrolet dealer organization.

Realizing that their responsibility to the customer only begins on delivery of a Chevrolet car or truck, this wide-awake dealer originated and put into practice the work of carrying service to the customer to the fullest extent possible, instead of following the usual custom of providing service only at the time the customer came in and requested it.

To do this, a competent service representative, who is a graduate of the Chevrolet Service school, with full equipment, a speedy Chevrolet service car, and a supply of minor repair parts and accessories, does nothing but make personal contact with Chevrolet owners in the Columbus territory. This man visits the owner once a month and keeps him advised as to the true condition of his car or truck, and this work is done without any cost at all to the owner.—From Atlanta Journal.

Quartermaster Corps

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHAT

Last week was Opera Week in Atlanta, and the members of Ye Quartermaster Corps were there with bells on. Mrs. Drane, Miss Mary Harris, Miss Margery Zettler and Miss Rubye Kennon saw "Carmen" and "La Boheme." All were very enthusiastic.

Mr. Ford, of Utilities, has built a charming new home on Benning road. It is called "Hollyhock House,"—after Mr. Ford's old ancestral home, and as time goes on, he intends to make his home more like the original "Hollyhock House." All varieties of flowers, with of course, Hollyhocks predominating, have been planted at "Hollyhock House."

The Corps is very much saddened over Colonel Warfield's orders to Brooklyn. One of the most popular and efficient quartermasters ever to be stationed at Benning, his departure will be a distinct loss to the garrison.

Ah! Twins! Our Mr. Woolbright, of Supplies, has had a beautiful pair of twins presented to him by this certain old long-legged grey bird, called the stork.

Yes, "Marge's" admirer is still very much on the scene. A beautiful bouquet of roses is on her desk today.

Miss Rubye Kennon, of Transportation, comes forth in a new blue dress with candy stripe sleeves and collar. Of course, though, that's nothing new, for "Rube" is always blossoming forth in some new creation.

Major Barlow, Chief of Supplies, is dashing around, looking very much preoccupied today, and very busy, as should one holding title of Chief of Supplies.

Captain Massey has been relieved as Utilities Officer, and is now in charge of the roads. Of course, we expect to soon see macadam roads all around Benning. after his detail as "officer in charge of roads."

While Mrs. Clara Blount, of Billeting still continues to look as charming as it is possible for one to look.

SUPPLIES BRANCH

We were delightfully surprised when we were informed that our principal clerk, Mr. W. L. Woolbright, was a proud papa—twins, a boy and a girl—born Thursday, April 26, at the hospital, during the centennial and on Memorial day. Now, who will dare say they are not patriotic! They are searching diligently for suitable names --what do you suggest?

Well, Centennial week is over—and quite an interesting week it was. But it certainly was too bad it had to go and rain again, or is it yet?—on the day of the parade. The spectators missed a lot when they didn't get to see our soldiers march—we love to see the rhythm of the lines moving forward, left, right, left, on and on. They tell us the floats were beautiful—and the queens! We were very sorry to have missed seeing Miss Columbus, as we rather doubt our being able to view the next celebration in 2028. Still, if we had gone, we might have caught such a cold as to have passed out of the picture—then what good would seeing it have been to us? We couldn't tell our grandchildren all about what a wonderful Centennial parade and beautiful queens we saw so many years ago in Columbus, Ga. "It is better to have lived and missed, than not to live at all!"

Now, don't you pity the poor Supplies Branch and Billetting office this month and next? So much moving and leaving, packing, issuing and crediting! We are going to do our very best to keep our records straight. So, if you are not satisfied, "tell us, not others!" We thank you. —P. V. L.

MEETING OF "CAN DO" OFFICERS

A meeting of former officers of the 15th Infantry will be held at the "Shack" Sunday evening. This is organization day of the regiment and practically all former officers will be there to celebrate the occasion. Among those who will attend are Lieut. Col. G. C. Marshall, Major E. F. Harding, Capts. J. J. Wilson, J. J. Canella, M. E. Halloran, C. E. Cushman, Lieuts. Alan Rush and Elam L. Stewart.

THE OLDSMOBILE

Has made its appearance among the many new autos to be seen at Fort Benning. Mr. Girrard, sales manager, called the other day and explained the many new features of this product of General Motors. To say that the new Olds coach is a classy car, is putting it mildly. See ad in this issue.

STUDENTS TAKE JUNIOR POLO TOURNEY

The Student officers and the 29th Infantry polo teams played the final game of the junior tournament last Sunday on Shannon field. The score ended 10 to 0 in favor of the squad from the academic area. Led by Capt. Taylor, Cav., the Students were on the offensive a greater part of the fray. All members of the Student team were in the play at all times, and there seemed to be no outstanding star. Goals were made by all members of the team.

The 29th Infantrymen, led by Lieut. Cornog, team captain, put up an excellent defensive game. Lieut. Van Houten played one of the best games of the season, and many times he nipped the white ball from the goal posts of the opposing team. During the first and last periods, the doughboys were on the offensive a part of the time, and at several stages of those periods, it looked as though the Students could not win a shutout game.

The Commandant, General E. T. Collins, presented trophies to the members of the winning team. During the presentation, he congratulated the players, and stated that he believed that polo at the Infantry School this year, was the best for some time.

The lineup: Students: Halloran, 1; Boudinot, 2; Taylor, 3; Boatner, 4; Prather, sub.

29th Infantry: Wilson, 1; Carnog, 2; Jeter, 3; Van Houten, 4.

VETERANS IN CIVIL SERVICE

receive as large a share of the appointments.

The Civil Service Commission is represented by a local board of examiners in each of approximately 4,800 cities. These representatives are prepared to give information regarding pending examinations. In most cases the local secretary has his office in the post office building.

Early Aids to Veterans

Months before the armistice it was evident that the end of the War was near. The Commission began its plans in the interest of veterans before the end of th War. On July 18, 1918, an Executive order was issued, upon the recommendation of the Commission, which provided for the reinstatement in the civil service of me nwho left to participate in the War. Also, arrangements were made whereby the names of those who had passed examinations and had not been appointed, and whose eligibility was interrupted by war service, should be restored to the eligible registers upon their return.

In order that the service men might have early information concerning opportunitie sfor employment, the Commission placed it sexamination announcements on the trasports which brought the men home and appointed special representatives at all establishments where the men were to be assembled for mustering out.

The Commission also appointed a representative in each hospital where veterans were treated, to supply civil service information.

All of these things were done before Congressional action liberalized the veteran preference law. The Commission gave to the veterans every advantage that it could give them under the law as it existed then, just as it now gives them every advantage which may be given under the present legal provision and Executive order.

Disabled Men Helped

The Commission continues to give special attention to the interests of disabled veterans. It sends all of its examination announcements to veterans 'hospitals, and is most liberal in waiving the physical requirements in favor of disabled veterans.

The regulations governing the reopening of examinations which are closed to applicants generally are especially liberal as they apply to disabled veterans.

During the year ending June 30, 1927, 245,535 persons entered examinations for the classified civil service, of whom 48,-114, or 19.59 per cent, were given preference. Of 38,777 appointments, 9,947, or 25.65 per cent, were of preference eligibles, whereas only 19.59 per cent of all the applicants were in the preferred class. The number of preference eligibles appointed was 20.67 per cent of all preference applicants, whereas the number of non-preference appointees was only 14.6 per cent of the whole number of non-preference applicants.

Since the armistice, more than 110,000 veterans have been appointed to positions in the classified civil service of the United States.

Large Percentage Appointed

In the past four years alone, nearly 5,000 disabled veterans have been appointed to Federal classified positions. This amounts to 1.13 per cent of the entire classified civil force. There are about 45,000,000 perosns gainfully employed in the United States. If private business offered employment opportunities to disabled veterans in the same proportion that the Federal Government gives it, the offers would be in excess of the total number of disabled veterans in the country.

The Civil Service Commission will continue to give veterans every advantage possible under the law and the Executive order, and will give special consideration to the cases of disabled veterans, as it has always done.

Representatvie Fish's Charges Denied

The Commission has been charged by Honorable Hamilton Fish, Jr., wis discrimination against veterans. The charge is not supported by the facts.

Mr. Fish, being a Representative from the State of New York and an ex-service man, is naturally jealous of the rights of veterans and zealous in his effort to extend them.

Not being bound by the laws, rules, and regulations which govern the actions of the Civil Service Commission, Mr. Fish would construe preference laws somewhat more liberally than circumstances warrant.

If he is right in his contentions, it is his privilege to seek legislation embodying his views. Until, however, existing laws and Executive orders are modified, the Civil Service Commission must observe them as they are.

That is about the only point of difference between Mr. Fish and the Commission, except that he construes his "leave to print" as authority to publish criticism of the Commission in the press, which criticism is not justified by the history of the Commission's efforts in behalf of veterans, as outlined herein.

LOCAL RESERVE MEN TO GET CHARTER

Local reserve officers have applied for a charter of the Fourth District Reserve Officers Association. The petition will be sent to Washington within a few days.

There are many reserve officers at Fort Benning and the city of Columbus, and some organization has been desired here for some time, it was stated.

The local reserves met last night and were addressde by Major Joseph D. Patch, instructor Infantry School, and Colonel W. M. Wilder, of Albany.

The officers of the Fourth District Association are:

Joseph Jacobs, president; John C. Carter, secretary and R. M. Hall, treasurer.

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

Wednesday, April 25th, was Defense Day and the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, staged a great show for the education of the Student Officers and the entertainment of the Roman populace. Ever since we entered upon our intensive study of the Battalion in Defense we have had a consuming curiosity to witness a model Infantry School Battle and we saw quite a bit of this one in spite of the competitive factor which the presence of the Centennial Queens introduced into the military situation. We may have failed to note the explosion of a few blocks of TNT but we were not party to the heated triangular debate between Professor McGunniff, Fire Marshal Hobbs and Champion O'Hare as to the relative merits of the Queen of the Upatoi and Miss Ochillie.

The Centennial Pageant drew a large attendance from the Advanced Class. Lest it be assumed that their sole objective was a glimpse of the Georgia beauties, we hasten to state that Captain E. O. Sandlin, formerly of the Imperial Mounted Police, was the real attraction. Captain Sandlin, attired in a pair of Q. M. drawers, dyed sky blue, and a striking vari-colored chemise, represented Progress, Patriotism, Sobriety and several other of the Cardinal virtues. Much to the surprise of those who know him best, Captain Sandlin appeared to be perfectly at home in the part.

On Saturday morning the school favored us with a clever demonstration of an Academic Strategem. The exercise was a marked problem in decision and when Major Hill, one of our leading defense experts, handed out the papers the entire class promptly prepared to dig in and resist to the last ditch. The problem read like the prelude to a decisive Blue victory but Major Randolph, the leading exponent of unrelentness pursuit, was nowhere in sight and the class tacticians were completely at sea. Then came the whisper that Major Randolph had been observed pacing nervously up and down in front of the Officers Club and the day was saved—except for the unfortunate ten per cent or so who constitute the customary sacrifice to the School Molocch.

Notes from the Academic Area

In the recent marked supply problem Doctor Hume, the popular medico who is taking the advanced course in addition to performing his duties as Post Sanitary Officer, neglected to mention any of the numerous medical establishments which higher authority had thoughtfully attached to the Brigade. There is no truth, however, in the rumor that Captain Graham, Q. M. C., did not designate the distributing point for Class I Supplies.

President Mason's highly popular request that the marked problem in Artillery be suspended (or abolished) in order to permit the Student Officers to witness the coronation of the Queen of the Centennial was disapproved. It would have been a pity to have spoiled the 100 per cent disapproval record but, when we reflect upon our solution of Major Marr's problem, we cannot but regret that we were not in the throng that witnessed the shivering Queen receive her diadem.

Social Notes

On Tuesday Captain Hermann entertained himself at a delightful chicken luncheon at the Officers' Club. We observed the Captain leaving the counter with a chicken leg that looked like the hind quarter of a dinosaur and thereupon decided to take our chicken in the form of soup. Half an hour later we had our judgment vindicated when Captain Hermann showed us two middle sized blisters which he had worn on his right hand in his efforts to carve the chicken component according to the established rules of etiquette.

Distinguished Student Praises Fort Benning Administration

Captain Fred During, who made a flying trip down Lumpkin road one day last week, called upon the Commandant a few days later to explain the meaning of his written observations upon the speed registering methods of the Motor Cycle Patrol. At the close of the interview, Captain During stated that he "thought the Post was run fine."

SMITH MAKES THE OLYMPIC BOXING TEAM

Yes he made it. That is the answer to the question that has been circulating about Benning for some time as to whether or not Billy Smith, of "C" Company, 29th Inf., would make the Olympic Boxing team that will invade Holland this summer.

In the tryouts held in Boston the latter part of last month to select a team to carry to Holland this year, Smith fought and defeated all comers till the last night and lost this fight by a narrow margin, thereby depriving him of being the American champ of his weight. However, since both the winners and runners-up go, the name of Smith will be found on the roster of the American team.

Smith is one of the best and most popular fighters of Fort Benning and is a fighter who gives the fans their money's worth any time he steps into the ring. To see Smith walking about the post one would take him to be just an easy going, good natured person who would not harm a thing. But once he steps into the ring he is transformed into another creature and becomes a leaping, snarling pack of humanity trying to batter a foe.

I. S. D. NOTES

The Recreation Room has been placed in charge of Private Ford. Patrick Henry, unlike most of the custodians of the "room" heretofore believes firmly in "the enjoyment of life and the right of the individual to the pursuit of happiness."

An H2O station is being installed on the Detachment street for use during the summer months. We don't know exactly why but they placed it exactly in front of Jack Ryan's tent.

Did you notice the big write-up and the cut, ala Walter Johnson, of Logan Duff in the Recruiting News? Very interesting and interesting too in that it was written by "Jew" Weiss, an ex-member of the I. S. D. now working on the staff of the News at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Life's little joke No. 1. "Doughboy Whitey Parker is working in the bakery."

Lonnie took his girl from Alabama out walking Sunday and was showing her the beauties of nature. "That's a fig tree," he told her. She was puzzled a minute and then said, "Goodness, I thought the leaves were bigger." Lonnie doesn't go with her any more.

Pvt. Philip Durden has gone on furlough for a month.

Sgt. Lewis Jones has transferred to the I. S. D. and is driving for General Collins. Welcome.

Plans are underway for the making of the I. S. D. baseball team. Captain Hugh Barclay is in charge and all members of the detachment proper and the Military Police section that are interested in tryin out for the team will report to Capt. Barclay at the Orderly Room on Monday, May 7th, at noon.

Cotton on Monday!

We take pleasure in announcing our departure from the House on the Hill. Due to the complete failure of our Popular Visitors Contest, we at last realized the utter futility of staying there any longer. We are at present located at our home "Donebuildin" on Llumpkin road.

Steve Massey, the man with the hardest job on the post, stopped by to see us this morning. Steve is leaving the Garrison on the 20th for his month and is going to the Quartermaster School this fall. Captain Massey has handled the very difficult post of Utilities Officer in an extremely able manner and he shall be missed by those whose houses are in need of paint, putty and puttering. Now Steve, this ought to be worth a couple of pounds of nails.

It seems as though it will never stop raining. These spring rains, however, should have a very beneficial effect upon the fall crop of presidential candidates. The horse show is still running into hard luck and plenty of rain. A large number of events were postponed until Tuesday, the 1st, with the hope of beating the week-end rains but as we are writing this the rain is pouring down and the show will have to be postponed again.

The Ham and Egg Man, we mean the Butter and Yegg Man, is to be given again, and will have been given when this is put in print. We hope to see this show and if possible we shall write a critique of it for our faithful readers next week. The critique at any rate, will be good.

Captain Bernard B. MacMahon, of the Second Section, the Academic Department, The Infantry School, passed by the other day and told us in very emphatic terms to lay off this "Bertie" stuff. Mac is a very dear friend of ours and outweighs us about 30 pounds, so in the future we shall respect this very simple request of his and shall not refer to him as "Bertie" anymore. But that doesn't prevent some of the other contributors to this paper from so doing.

The publicity that the Infantry School News is giving the automobile is certainly getting results as evidenced by the large number of new and nearly new automobiles seen on the thoroughfares of Fort Benning. We have parted with the old Velie and are negotiating with Messrs. Dodge Brothers. In the meanwhile we have purchased the former galloping ash can of Captain C. A. Pritchett. We tried to buy the one Bob Bacon had but Bob had high and lofty plans for his fliver.

Three weeks from today and very little will be left of the present school year. It doesn't seem possible that it is almost time to graduate another class and start preparing for the reception of another but such are the facts. We shall soon complete three years residence at the Infantry School and the way the time has flown sometimes frightens us.

We wonder if the beauty expert holding forth at the Springer is Columbus has received much patronage from Fort Benning ladies. Personally and in order to say something nice, we don't believe she will get very far with the folks out here. Now for some reason that does not sound like we intended for it to. Maybe you can tell us what the trouble with it is

GOOD COMEDY AT SPRINGER

The Montgomery Players scored another success at Springer opera house last night when they presented "Other People's Business," a comedy in four acts made famous by Nat Goodwin.

It is the story of a hard boiled business father who "rares" about giving extravagant children money, yet who loves them and secretly delights to give them money. He is particularly jealous of his importance in the business that has made him rich and is enraged over the business determination of one Capt. Cuttleberry, an ex-soldier, who has demanded a job from him. All comes out pleasantly when the captain all but takes the direction of business out of his hands and makes a gigantic success of it.

Lowerie Montgomery as Capt. Cuttleberry has the best role he has yet appeared in here and plays the part with spirit and meritorious comedy.

Albert Taylor, the hard boiled old business man draws a laugh in almost every line. He is one of the most accomplished comedians for the parts he plays, ever appearing here at any price.

Miss Mae Howard as Lola Henderson, is winsome while Dave Bachelor Deaver Storer and the others in the cast assist in the success of the playfl

The stage settings are special and delight the eye by their attention to detail and realism as well as color.

The Montgomery Players must not be classed with the ordinary stock company. The productions given by them surpass some attractions that have played the Springer at top prices. It is gratifying to see that the engagement is proving a success here.

SMITH SELLS THE NEW DODGES

After serving more than thirty years in the U. S. Army. We notice that our old friend, Eugene Smith, is now selling the new Dodge Sixes and from the number that he has delivered in Fort Benning during the past few days it seems that he is just about as successful a salesman as he was a soldier—Atta-boy Smith. The Infantry School News congratulates you and wishes you the best of luck in your new adventure.

LIEUT. KEITH MAKES TALK ON TANKS

Lieut. H. W. Keith, formerly with the 15th Tank Battalion at Fort Benning, addressed the officers of the 15th Infantry on "Tanks" recently at Tientsein, China, according to "The Sentinel."

"I'm going home to mother," she sobbed, "and I never want to see you again."

"Too late," he said, "your mother went home to grandmother last night."

"IRON MAN" DUFF STILL ON THE MOUND

Duff, at 54, Outpitches Youngsters at Benning

(By John P. Weiss)

"Batteries for today's game, Tanks—Lindsey and Smith. I. S. D.—Duff and McCarthy."

The usual announcement "Play Ball" is drowned by the cheering of the fans for Sergeant Logan Duff, Infantry School Detachment, the veteran soldier and pitching marvel who takes the slab for the Green Cords of Fort Benning, Georgia. Perhaps it will be another pitchers' battle, perhaps not, but it will be a game worth seeing, for Duff will make it so.

The entry under "Occupational qualifications" in Sergeant Duff's service record reads "Ball-player" and play ball is what he has done since his original enlistment. Twenty-eight years a soldier and baseball player is part of his record with Uncle Sam.

In 1900 he twirled in the Winter League in Cuba. The years 1902 and 1903 saw him playing minor league ball with the Cotton States League while he was on furlough. From then until 1911 he played at various Army posts where he was stationed, always winning the admiration of players and fans alike by his pitching and all-round playing. His tossing won a championship for the Wilkes-Marks team in the Winter League of San Antonio, Texas, in 1911. As a member of the Tenth Infantry, 1912-14, he was the pitching sensation of the Panama League and the two succeeding years, hurling for the 22nd Infantry team, he aided in copping the C. & A Copper Mine League championship at Warren, Arizona.

The "Little World Series" at Fort Benning, has always been the high spot in the baseball season there and in 1922, Duff, doing the twirling for the schoolmen, won the final and deciding game of the series by a no-hit, no-run game. Since then he has been pitching for these same Green Cords and in 1925 performed a record breaking feat by pitching a no-hit, no-run, no-man-reached-first baseball game, thereby defeating a semi-professional team composed of former University of Georgia players. Despite his age, fifty-four, he is able to slop one down the alley with a zip on it, or send up a curve which breaks with a canniness that is almost human. Many are the murmurs of admiration that can be heard in the stands when this grizzled veteran out-guesses one of the batting stars of a opposing team, causing him to whiff on a slow breaking curve, or a bullet shot over the heart of the pan.

Duff is not only a ball player. He is an outstanding example of the soldiery of the United States and his ability, as a young-old man, to take his place with those still in their twenties, bespeaks better than empty words, the inevitable benefits to be derived from Army training.

A soldier of exceptional qualifications, he has seen service in the Philippines during the Insurrection there, in Panama, and in Mexico with the Pershing Expedition. During the war he held the grade of First Lieutenant and attended the Officers' Training, Gas, Bayonet and Hand Grenade Schools. He holds a commission as First Lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

His athletic prowess is not limited to baseball, for in his younger days he was a track man of no mean reputation and in 1901-2-3, he won the championship for high jumping in the Southeastern Department by hurdles of five feet-eleven inches.

The summary of his career in the national pastime, his favorite sport, reads more like fiction than the epitome of a soldier-pitcher's conquests. A record of 439 games won, 78 lost, ten no-hit, no-run games, fifty-four years old and still going strong. When asked, recently, when he would quit the game, Duff replied, somewhat hurt that there should be any doubt, "When I leave the Army, and my time isn't up for a long while yet." When he steps into the box there is a knitting of the brows of the opposing team and coach and captain alike wear a worried expression. They know it will be no walk-away with "Old Man" Duff facing the batters, for, even as he has done for the past twenty-eight years, he will stand on their ears, some of the most murderous of "Murderer's Row" in the Fort Benning Intra-Mural League.—From Recruiting News.

YOUR CAR MUST BE IN GOOD CONDITION

A. A. A. Gives Some Good Advice to Tourists

Motor touring, the summer pastime of millions, is pleasant directly in proportion to the manner in which the car performs, says a statement issued recently by National headquarters of the American Automobile Association, which will serve a vast majority of the 44,000,000 who will take their annual vacations this year on the open road.

"The close relationship between the pleasure of the tour and the condition of the car should suggest to every prospective tourist the wisdom of seeing that the car is performing at its best before the trip begins," says the statement. "The need is one that is ignored by many motorists until it is brought forcibly to their attention by mechanical trouble with its attendant expense and delay."

In preparing the car for the much different conditions it will encounter on a touring trip, the owner need envision no great outlay of money for an exhaustive overhaul, says the statement. Rather, it points out, the process is one of paying a little more heed to the principal details that mark ordinarily good car care.

Battery, generator, distributor, spark plugs, valves, carburetor, fuel feed system, clutch, transmission, differential, crankcase lubricant, oil filter, steering mechanism, brakes, tires, cooling system, and wheel-bearings are the units chiefly recommended by the A. A. A. emergency road service experts for attention on the eve of the tour.

Back to the Middle Ages. Two knights met on the outskirts of the battle ground:

"I prithee, Xaiver, couldst tell me where I can learn to write shorthand?"

"Certainly, Percival, but why cravest thou to learn?"

"Necessity, dear comrade; I lost four fingers in yon battle."

"What's a hamlet, Daddy?"

"A place with only ten or twelve filling stations."

29TH INFANTRY

Company "G"

Sgt. Brown—I always take pains with my work.

Sgt. Johnson—Yes, it gives me one too.

Pvt. Usery—Have you heard the latest thing in men's clothes?

Cpl. Kennedy—Yes, women.

A certain fellow went to town to see his girl and it was about time to go home, and Day-Break said, "May I kiss you good-night?" and the girl said, "Why no, the last bus passes at twelve, and it's only eleven now."

We know Red Roland from one peppy gang who was Massey's right hand man. We have all heard of Le Blanc's husky appetite and the roaring in his sleep at night. Speaking about Cooper J. red-lipped shiek, Lemay left camp for a whole week to visit his girl down the street. There's a little boy called King in the company who last night so soft and sweetly sang, I am only a company runner.

Pvt. Switzer washed a whole suit of khaki and didn't even go on sick report.

Cooper is foreman cook in the company, learned that K. P. didn't stand for Kannel Pie.

The foreign mail didn't come in today, so Cpl. Tate was out of luck.

Pvt. Granger says that they will be selling ice and electric fans at the north pole before he takes on again. We heard men from the north say that before and they are still at Fort Benning yet.

Pvt. Baugh sure knows his saddlesoap.

Straight Razor Manley has the book working again. "In Gog We Trust" all others pay company checks.

POLO NEXT WEEK

Next week will see another week of Polo activity at Fort Benning. The 22nd Infantry and the Governor's Horse Guards will arrive to play teams here. The first game will be played next Wednesday afternoon, from all indications. We regret that it is impossible to give detail announcement of this series of games.

"Do I understand you to say that you do not believe in vaccination, Mrs. Ropiestere?"

Battery "C"

The Battery is on Fire Guard this week. "Of course," says the Battery sheiks, "Payday and Fire Guard had to come at the same time."

Eight of the Battery's best men are radio operators this year. It sure will be lonesome while they're on maneuvers.

It is said that "Shorty" King does not mount a horse as prescribed, but, he pulls the horse up in rear of him, thence through his "delicate" legs, thence by squatting, he is mounted.

The "Gray Eagle," Sgt. Crandall claims his horse has the appetite of a goat. He eats shrubs as well as grass and for desert, feasts on the buttons of the Sergeant's raincoat.

Pvt. Snow stood up for his meals for several days following the parade in Columbus, Ga.

Cpl. Weems has resigned his commission as Battery correspondent, his new duties being too strenuous to allow him time for gathering news. —F. S.

Hdqrs. Bat. and Combat Train

Now that pay day has made its appearance and everyone seems to be happy all is fine with one exception. Corporal Summar is as usual F-L-A-T and no prospects of a crying zula.

Word has just been received from the thriving city of Pontotoc, Miss., where Sgt. LaPine and Cpl. Douglas are spending 60 day son furlough, that the manly art of boxing is going fine and that they are putting on ham and egg fights each Thursday with much success to said bank roll.

The radio school is still going strong from 8:00 A. M. to 3:00 P. M. daily and all seem to be very much interested in classes.

PFC. S-5 Fuller ,our dashing saddler, was discharged on the 3rd and re-en listed with the Artillery for another stack.

Sgt. Rowland, Pvts. Kirby, Hirtzler and McQuaig have been booked and entered in the events for Organization day as Flat Tire race. Pvt. McQuaig seems to have a little edge as he is now in the hospital undergoing repairs while others seem to think Sgt. Rowland has a cinch.

Since the arrival of passes class A-B-C, Pvt. Hart has been giving North Highlands a rest as he was ommitted from the list. Too bad Hart. Why not have the girl friend call on you.

Private Washburn is now on a thirty day furlough visiting Columbus, and is working for a change. Where did all the energy come from Washburn.

If anyone who has anything to sell, swap or lend call around and see Pvt. Tilley. He is open for all bets from all indications in regards to his wall locker.

The baseball team is still hot and wants to receive some challenges from the batteries but so far no one has uttered a word.

AL DURDEN

Is no longer with the News. Durden had been with the paper for almost two years and was well known among the athletes of Fort Benning. He has missed very few athletic contests here for the past two years. In the issue of May 1 of the Recruiting News appears an article on Sgt. Logan Duff of the I. S. D. Durden wrote a part of this story and supplied practically all of the information contained therein.

Mae—"Why didn't you go to the masquerade with him last night in your Hawaiian costume?"

Mabel—"Well I found out he was going as a harvest hand.

METCALF KNOWS HIS GOODS

After graduating from the Medical Corps as a pill-roller during our last little scrap overseas, Mettie found the life of a medico during peace time too slow for him. He still loves to serve the soldiers but not with CC's and salts; his main specialities are the $2.00 straw hat and the $15.00 summer suits.

29TH INF.

Hdqrs. Company, 29th Inf.

Our baseball team slammed the Q. M. pitchers all over the parade ground the other day. Spactators thought the Q. M. fielders were doing skirmish duty. Of course we won, we had some 20 odd runs. They had 1 or 2. We won anyway.

Aha! Word from the outside world. Ex-Private Percy Cowan reports that all is well. He is expecting a job. We expect him back.

Buck Jones, our Master Mind, reports that the radio in the guest room is working fiine. He should have said work and find.

Recruits in our company don't come often, but when they do come they come like bananas—in bunches.

Spud Brannon, our Message Center man, is a short timer. He speaks of taking on another hitch. Stay with us, kid, there's not a better outfit in the Army.

Sgt. Bixby says that the beach is like a bank book. When asked why, he remarks "full of figures." Pvt. Son Miguel, ni, I wont' sneeze that name again; says the sergeant is "keerect."

"Pop" Darnell wanted to know what that show called "The Liquor of Youth" was all about. It was very intoxicating, pop. Any more wise splits you know will be welcomed by the gentle readers.

Corporal Wright reports that he might have won the sweepstakes but his horse "did not choose to joump." Yeah, I might be an astronomer but "I do not choose to gaze."

(By request) The boys in the company noticed that joke in the News last week about the fellow who ran to the window and took a bow every time he heard a clap of thunder. The boys are wondering if that referred to Sgt. Matthews.

Pvt. Carver, according to reports, hung the K. O. on himself while shadow boxing the other night..

Sgt. Harrison, a congenial and handsome gift of St. Louis to the Army, says he is too heavy for light work and too light for heavy work, heavy in the feet, and light in the head.

Station R. H. Q. will now sign off for the week. the farewell song will be sung by the Short Timers Quartette, "My Bonus Lies over the Finance."

—Ray Murphy.

Company "E"

The company was shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Private, first class, Perkins. Private Perkins was well liked by every one in the company. He dropped dead in Columbus on Sunday evening with acute indigestion in Smith's Drug Store.

Privates McDuffie, Lamb and Basham are doing duty again after furloughs.

Private Culpepper has succeeded Private Morris as dining room orderly.

Company "E" baseball team took the measure of Company "G's" nine on Wednesday four to nothing. Our company team meets the Meritas team from Columbus, Ga., on the Meritas grounds Thursday and hope to make a good showing against them.

Everyone is rejoicing over the fact that the company is going on maneuvers Monday, May 7, 1928, near Harmony church, where a good time will be had by all. The hoot owls holler every night out there. —A. P. G.

Private William H. Saunders

Private First Class Schumann M. Perkins

We regret to announce the deaths of Private William H. Saunders, Service Company, 29th Infantry, and Private First Class Schumann M. Perkins, Company "E," 29th Infantry.

Private Saunders was the son of Mr. Lewis Saunders, 1314 Phillip St., Philadelphia, Pa. Private Saunders died on April 26, as a result of injuries received in an accident caused by a runaway team. He was on his second enlistment at time of death. Interment at Fort Benning cemetery.

Private Perkins was the nephew of Mr. L. Durden, of Atlanta, Ga. He was serving in his first enlistment in the service, and was due for discharge in July. Private Perkins died during the evening of April 29 of an accute heart attack in the H. C. Smith Drug Store in Columbus.

Funeral services for Privates Saunders and Perkins were conducted by Chaplain Wright at the Protestant Chapel.

COMPANY "D" 28th INFANTRY WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

(By Capt. S. J. Grogan, Inf.)

Ft. Niagara, N. Y., May 1, 1928—Company "D," 28th Infantry, First Division, Madison Barracks, New York, Captain George D. Kelsch, commanding, is the champion machine gun company of the Infantry in the entire United States Army, the Infantry in China, Panama, Alaska, Hawaii and all other places included. In evidence of its supremacy in the 1927 machine gun firing this 28th Infantry company has been awarded the Edwin Howard Clark Machine Gunners trophy, which is competed for annually; a plaque which becomes the permanent possession of the company, and also five hundred dollars. The plaque was designed by Hans Schulor, director of the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, and was approved by the Chief of Infantry, War Department, Washington, D. C. The award of the trophy was made by the Chief of Infantry, Major General R. H. Allen. The commanding officer of the 28th Infantry is Colonel R. E. Ingram, who leaves June 30th, next, to become Chief of Staff, 98th Division, O. R. C.

The supremacy of Company "D," 28th Infantry, in machine gun target firing, as compared with other units of the First Division, may be seen when it is known that this company qualified twenty-two of its men as expert gunners in 1927, while the total of the rest of the Division, which includes the 16th, 18th and 26th Infantry regiments, was twenty-one. Ist Lieut. James H. Marsh, 28th Infantry, who assisted Captain Kelsch in training Company "D" has, with Captain Kelsch, been commended by the Commanding General, Second Corps Area, the Brigade and Regimental Commander. Captain Kelsch has been a machine gunner for twenty years. Two years ago one of his enlisted men made the highest individual score for enlisted men in the famous First Division. Lieut. Marsh, recently transferred to the 18th Infantry, is a distinguished pistol shot, and an expert rifleman. Colonel Ingram is very proud of the machine gun record of Company "D," and also of Companies "H" and "M,' which uits also did well in the 1927 season. But Company "D" wears the Army crown!

BENNING THANKED FOR CENTENNIAL AID

The executive committee of the Columbus Centennial association yesterday issued a statement expressing appreciation of the cooperation of Fort Benning in the recent birthday celebration. The statement follows:

The record of the Columbus Centennial celebration should not be closed within inscribing therein a special vote of thanks to Fort Benning for its tireless cooperation in making the program the wonderful success it proved to be through its entirety.

"The fort is always unselfishly interested in helping us make anything Columbus undertakes a success, but never has her time and talent been so entirely our city's own as during the past few weeks, and we feel that the praise we have received so generously should be shared equally with our efficient Infantry school.

"From the morning they opened our program with a major demonstration to the closing notes of the queen's ball, they spared neither trouble nor expense to make our celebration the equal of any ever witnessed in the South, and efficiency and untiring interest and enthusiasm marked each service they rendered and each part they performed.

"Much of the beauty and effectiveness of the pageant was due to the flawless music of the fort band rendered not only for its two public performances, but also through the long tiresome hours of its dress rehearsals.

"Then, too, our wonderful parade even with its artistic floats and beautiful girls, would have been woefully shortened and quite incomplete without the display from Benning.

"So we feel that a large part of the beauty and success of our Centennial was due to the hearty cooperation of our army friends, and wish them to know that we appreciate fully the value of their talent and resourcefulness they so graciously lend whenever Columbus has need of them.

"Fort Benning's part in our celebration will be written in the pages of its history and also in the hearts of the citizens of our beloved city."

AN INTERESTING ARTICLE

A very interesting article written by Lieut. C. F. Burback, of the 83rd Field Artillery, will appear in an early edition of The Recruiting News. In a letter from the News, it was stated that this article will appear about June 1 or 15. Watch for it. It tells about the 83rd on the march, and excellent photographs accompany the story.

"Isn't it funny the way things turn up?"

"Yes, especially noses!"

THE BRUTES!

"I understand that some of the English barons are social flops."

"How come?"

"Very few have any manors."

"I'm sure hungry. We had the Spanish consul for dinner."

"Yep, good dish, but it just wont' fill you up."

"Why do you squeeze your girl so tight?"

"Someone has said that the temperature increases with pressure."

WHO'S WHO!

SERGT. MARCUS O'NEAL

Infantry School Detachment

When you go to the Main Theater any evening, you will see near the door a big red-headed sergeant with an Irish smile. He is manager of Fort Benning's movies, and does his job as effectively now as when back in 1916 he won the express appreciation of the Quartermaster General of the Army salvaging a twenty-ton steamer in Mobile Bay, sunk in a violent wind storm. Civilian raisers of craft underwater were exorbitant in their prices. But the Sergeant told the Captain that if he and Sergt. Roloff could have four men, and pick them himself, he would raise the boat. He did, and the Washingtonians wrote him a special letter of commendation.

But it is not only in raising sunken craft and running theaters that distinguished this soldier who first commenced his military service as a volunteer in 1898 and came into the regulars on Aug. 1, 1904, in Company "M" of the 19th Infantry. When the World War broke the placidity of the watchful waiters, he had doughboy service and Coast Artillery service (two enlistments of it) and Quartermaster service to his credit. He became a captain of doughboys, going overseas with the 16th Infantry in the famous Fifth Division, the Red Diamond uotfit that won immortal fame in the Meuse-Argonne, spent more than a hundred days in the front line, advanced 29 kilometers against the Boche, and captured 2,356 prisoners.

"Red" O'Neal was there. All the way through the rumpus, and monographing captains and majors still consult him as first hand source on operations, and pore over his folded, penciled maps, that went over the top and to objective after objective with "Red" O'Neal and his company.

Three divisional and one G. H. Q. citation for heroism in action testify to the work of the red headed Irishman. At St. Mihiel he was with his company and regiment, between the Second and Ninetieth, going forward from Regnieville on the right of the pincers against a maze of minnenwerfers and machine guns and pushing through the Bois St. Clauds to smash into the last German defenses. After the first check in the Meuse-Argonne, the Fifth Division was called upon, went in near the right of the American line, and swung across the Meuse river accomplishing what General Pershing called "one of the finest feats of arms of the A. E. F."

First they tramped through Montfaucon and jumped off towards Romagne, taking the Tranche de Mamelle after hard fighting, and the orders cited "Red" O'Neal as follows:

For extraordinary heroism and bravery in action. Near Romagne, France, on the 14th day of October, 1918, armed only with a small caliber German Luger pistol, Captain O'Neal repeatedly led the attack of parts of his company on German machine gun positions. At one time, when the attackers were forced to retire under a cross fire, from several enemy guns, regardless of his personal safety, this officer remained in plain view of the enemy until all of his men had reached places of safety. This example of courage and disregard of danger so encouraged the men that they later attacked and succeeded in capturing the position.

Then they shifted and after reorganizing at Montfaucon, pushed toward Brieulles, smashed at the river under the railway embankment, and crossed the river. O'Neal led his company around the bend, and swept them to the cover of the canal embankment under the high hills held by the Boche. Two days later he went over the canal, established the bridgehead with his company, and started that north-easterly penetration of the difficult hills which drove the Germans from the American flank and made possible the advance of other forces northward. And again the orders cited "Red" O'Neal.

Only one more hitch and Sgt. O'Neal will be ready to return to civilian life, having completed thirty years of honorable and faithful service. Already there is a beautiful home, ready and waiting for him when his time is finished, and we know that this old warrior will not be lonesome when the time comes to bid the "Old Army" adieu, for the lady you see driving with the Sergeant quite often and the little girl and boy that occupy the back seat, also belond to "Red" O'Neal.

SAVED BY A BALLOON TIRE

In Which a Certain Colonel Has Difficulties With His "Lizzie"

This is not an advertisement for balloon tires, though it is a recommendation, in fact in a certain garage of Block 14 they now form the entire wall decorations. Well, the story is like this. A certain colonel of Fort Benning, whose identity will not be disclosed for reasons of the writer's set opinions on self preservation, but a colonel whose regiment sings "in addition to its other duties," took unto himself a Ford, pre 1928. The relationship was not mutual. Lizzie developed traits of character wholly unbecoming in a partner and most disconcerting to the dignity of the colonel. On a certain day of the week (I couldn't avoid that disclosure) the colonel shimmed into his garage. Having reached the center of this enclosure he made the necessary mechanical arrangements for Lizzie to be neutral. At this specific moment, however, Lizzie was in the throes of a personal schism (which is a separation of body and parts) and instead of acting on the suggestion of the colonel, she dropped one of her functions into the lee scuppers, and then, before a flare could be sent up to the artillery, the colonel, Lizzie and appurtenances shot forward like a bolt out of the blue. There was a wall in front of Lizzie—I mention this because it went too—and colonel, Lizzie, appurtenances and wall, headed, in mass formation without distance, for the Upatoi creek. Fortunately for the sake of mass singing, there were at the time of original impact two discarded and forgotton balloon tires leaning against the wall. When the bolt with its appurtenances came out of the blue these two tires thoughtfully joined the crowd and fastened themselves over the front of Lizzie. While the colonel was violating 78 of the 3,000 Post traffic regulations, due to the immediate and continued presence of one wall complete, a solid object was met somewhere to the front. The colonel is of the opinion that it was square and made of brick, however, we wont bring that up. Instead of a rending crash with flying parts, tears, boards (not necessarily wooden ones) and flowers, there was a sudden squish—the balloon tires were attacking to the front—Lizzie gave a startled look around bounced back on her haunches, and with a hissing of a 30x3 1-2 settled on the port side, the bow going under first. As she sank, the colonel was seen to be saying something and waving his arms to those on shore, but the distance was too great to hear his words. Later the colonel was asked what he said when he was going down, but he modestly refused to answer. So no one will ever know what was said on this historic occasion, at least not many.

PRESENTATION OF TROPHIES

Before the assembled officers and men of the regiment, Col. Wait C. Johnson, on Tuesday afternoon, April 24, 1928, at the 24th Inf. Service Club, presented the trophies won by the enlisted men of the regiment in various sports. This presentation of most attractive and sought after awards is the climax of Col. Johnson's splendid athletic program. Through his inauguration of an extremely comprehensive and inclusive athletic program embracing all the major sports, he has placed athletic competition within the reach of every member of the regiment. The remarkably large number of entrants for company and regimental teams testify to the enthusiastic reception of this policy and the quality of competition is a clear indication of its success.

The 24th Infantry athletic jerseys, which are the most highly prized individual trophies ever given by this regiment, were awarded to the folllowing members of the 24th Infantry Small Bore Rifle team, which was awarded second place in the army meet: Capt. Charles L. Steel, Capt. Joseph I. Tupper, Capt. William B. Wilson, Capt. J. P. Lyons, Capt. E. F. Paynter, 1st Sgt. Julius Jennings, Co. C.; Sgt. Scott Bradford, Hqrs. Co.; Sgt. Harrison Hogan, Co. E; Cpl. Claude Rollins, Co. B; Cpl. James Fletcher, Co. F; 1st Sgt. George Larkins, Co. E; Sgt. Floyd Hairston, Service Co.

Basketball emblems were issued to the following members of the 24th Infantry basketball team who had already been awarded their athletic jerseys: Pvt. Theo. R. Williamson, Co. B; Pvt. John Harris, Co. C; Pvt. James Heard, Co. C; Pvt. Jesse Johnson, Co. E; Pvt. Tommie Baugh, Co. E.

The beautiful silver trophy, consisting of a figure in silver about to shoot a basket ,was awarded to Co. E, which had won the regimental basketball championship from Co. C, after one of the closest and most exciting struggles seen on any basketball court.

Co. E was also awarded the penant for the best drilled platoon in the regiment in close order drill. This competition was judged by officers of the 29th Infantry and was very hotly contested.

Capt. Winfield, the commanding officer of Co. E, and the non-commissioned officers and men of that organization are to be congratulated on their excellent showing in these two events.

Pennants for the best company close order drill was awarded to Cos. E, F, and G, representing three platoons of a consolidated company.

Swimming awards for the meet held last summer at the 24th Inf. pool, though a trifle belated, were most welcomed by the large number of successful entrants who received the attractive prizes.

A considerable measure of the success for the carrying out of the 24th Infantry athletic program has been due to the conscientious and intelligent work of the regimental athletic officer, Capt. Malcon E. Craig. Capt. Craig deserves great credit and commendation for his able handling of this work.

Departure of Capt. Ballard

Capt. James J. Ballard and family left on April 30th for Washington, where Capt. Ballard will enter Walter Reed hospital for observation and treatment.

It is with keenest regret that the officers and men of the 24th Infantry view the departure of Capt. Ballard. A member of this regiment since 1926, Capt. Ballard by his thoughtfulness of others, his unvarying courtesy and good nature has endeared himself to every member of this command. Capt. Ballard holds an enviable record as an officer in the army. His performance of duty as the commanding officer of Headquarters Company has been outstanding. He has held this command continuously since 1926, except during the summer of 1927 when he was selected as personnel adjutant at Camp Perry during the national rifle matches.

Capt. Ballard is himself an excellent shot, having several times been a member of the infantry rifle squad and trap shot champion of two southern states.

The best wishes of the officers and men of the 24th Infantry go with Capt. Ballard for his speedy recovery and quick return to us.

Tuskegee Cadets Make Visit Here

Col. W. H. Walcott, Commandant of Cadets at the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, together with sixty members of the faculty and cadet corps, arrived at Fort Benning on April 26th for the purpose of witnessing the demonstration put on by the Infantry School as part of the Centennial celebration.

Col. Walcott and the members of his party were entertained at dinner by Company C, 24th Infantry, after which they attended the baseball game between the 24th Infantry and Moorehouse College.

In a letter to Col. Wait C. Johnson, Col. Walcott expressed the deep appreciation of himself and the members of his party for the hospitality extended to them by the 24th Infantry and his gratification at the marked friendliness existing between Tuskegee Institute and the 24th Infantry.

Prize Winners

The officers and men of Hdqrs. Co., 24th Infantry, are to be congratulated on the excellent showing of their escort wagon in the recent Fort Benning Transportation Show. This entry took second place, which is a high honor in view of the extreme competition by all organizations in this class.

Special commendation is due the following men who entirely by their own efforts were able to win second prize with their entry: Sgt. Claude Stevenson in charge of transportation; Cpl. Paul Wright, Pvt. Gus Lee and Pvt. Lucis Wheeler.

BATTALION HEADQUARTERS CLERK MAKES HIGH EXPERT

Private First Class, Specialist Fourth Class Jack Bingham, a clerk in Battalion Headquarters, has completed his pistol firing an d perforated enough bull's eyes to make him an expert with 91.77 per cent. This is the best percentage with the pistol that Bingham has ever accomplished, but it is just another indication that we are gradually moving forward to a higher efficiency individually and collectively. This soldier was a bookkeeper prior to entering the army, and judging from his work here he must have been a very high class man. He came to the Tanks about two years and six months ago, and the manner in which he performs his duties in the office are quite in keeping with his performance on the pistol range. That is, it is outstanding for its efficiency and neatness.—Tank Weekly.

Colonel Eames Succumbs to Pneumonia

Prominent Infantry Officer and First Commandant Dies at Ft. Sheridan; Selected Present Site Inf. School

Colonel Henry E. Eames, the first commandant of the Infantry School, and an officer instrumental in the selection of the site of Fort Benning, passed away Wednesday at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. The cause of his death was given as pneumonia.

Colonel Eames was well known to many officers now stationed at the Infantry School and to many of the citizens of the city of Columbus, who resided there during the world war. The career of this distinguished officer is one of many achievements. Particularly was he interested in the establishment of an infantry school of arms, whereby the doughboy might become better prepared for duty in his arm of the service.

At the outbreak of the world war, Colonel Eames was stationed in Hawaii. He was ordered to Fort Sill, Okla., where he was made the first commandant of the School of Arms. Due to crowded conditions at Fort Sill, it was decided by the war department that another site more suitable for an infantry school should be selected, and hence Colonel Eames was detailed to investigate a suggested site near the city of Columbus. In September, 1918, a board of officers with Col. Eames as head, visited Columbus, and very shortly recommended a site on the Macon Road in Wynnton. However, only a short time afterwards, the school was moved to the present site, and Colonel Eames appointed commandant. The exact date that he assumed command of the school is October 7, 1918. He remained in command until April 22, 1919, when he was succeeded by General C. S. Farnsworth. However, he was on duty at various times with school projects, and had always taken a keen interest in the affairs of the Infantry School.

It was only a few months ago that Colonel Eames compiled a history of the activities of the Infantry School during the pioneer days of the foundation of the school.

Colonel Eames was well known in the city of Columbus and was held in high regard by the citizens there. He was a member of the Rotary Club, Masonic bodies, and civic organizations which existed at that time.

Several years ago, Col. Eames was in command of the 45th Infantry, in the Philippines. Upon his return to the States, he was placed in charge of recruiting in St. Louis, Mo.

He was born August 1, 1871, in the state of Missouri. He enlisted in the regular army in 1893, commissioned in 1897 in the infantry, in which brach he had served continuously. His promotion was rapid, and during the world war, he held the temporary grade of colonel. He graduated from the Army Staff College in 1907, and five years later from the War College.

HONOR GUARD SERVICE ENDS AT HARDING TOMB

Tenth Infantrymen Return to Home Stations After Five Years of Duty at Tomb of Late President Harding and Wife

After being on duty for nearly five years at the tomb of the late President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding at Marion, O., the guard detachment from the Tenth Infantry was relieved May 1, and its members sent back to their companies.

An interesting article which appeared in the Marion Star on April 28 describes the work of the guard at Marion and the foothold gained in the affections of the people of the city. The article was written by W. T. Buchanan, a staff writer on the paper, and follows:

With the recall of the detachment the bodies of Marion's most illustrious son, President Warren Gamaliel Harding and of Mrs. Harding, will lie unguarded for the first time since their interment in the Marion cemetery. For four years and nine months the guard has held its vigil through the heat of the summer day and the cold of the winter night. Never for a moment in that time has the burial place of Marion's honored dead been unguarded.

But after the first day of May the tomb will be left to the stillness of the night and the noises of the day. The body of the man who ascended from the humble walks of life to the most honored post in the nation will lie quietly at peace in its final resting place.

Make Many Friends

With the individual members of the detachment will go good will and best wishes of the citizens of Marion as they return to their respective stations. In their stay here many members of the detachment have gained a wide circle of acquaintances.

Although the complete strength of the detachment of thirty-five enlisted men and one officer, 230 men have served here since the guard was posted at the temporary tomb, Aug. 9, 1923. Twelve of this number, whose enlistments have expired while they were on duty with the detachment, are now working in Marion.

Thirty of the men who have served with the detachment here have been married, either during the time of their service, or following.

The honor of being the oldest man in the detachment in point of time served here is Sgt. John C. Porter. Ranking next are Lieut. Sherfey and Sgt. D. E. Sanders. Sgt. Porter has been stationed here for four and one-half years, having joined the detachment in October, 1923. Lieut. Sherfey and Sgt. Sanders joined the detachment, the former as commanding officer replacing Lieut. R. S. Gessford, in August, 1924.

Lieut. Walter Lee Sherfey, who has been in command of the detachment for nearly four years, graduated from the company officers class, Inf. School, in 1921.

His first acquaintance with President Harding, whose tomb he has guarded, came when he was selected as a member of the guard of honor for the President upon his visit to Fort Benning. He has been ordered to Porto Rico for duty.

The men who have kept watch over the bodies of President and Mrs. Harding represent the cream of the army. The citizens of Marion and the thousands who have visited the tomb are better acquainted with, and hold in higher esteem, as a result of the guard detachment being stationed here.

FORMER BENNING OFFICER DIES SUDDENLY

Former Commander of Field Artillery Battalion Succumbs to Heart Attack; Well Known at Infantry School

Word was received at Fort Benning late Wednesday night to the effect that Major Robert S. Donaldson had died suddenly of a heart attack in San Francisco early Wednesday morning. Major Donaldson was on duty with the general staff at headquarters, ninth corps area, at time of death.

He came to Fort Benning in 1925, and took command of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion on August 17, 1925, and remained in command of the battalion until June 30, 1927, when he was ordered to general staff duty in San Francisco.

Major Donaldson graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1909, and commissioned in the cavalry, and at the outbreak of the world war he was transferred to the field artillery, attaining the rank of lieutenant-colonel during the war period. He is also a graduate o fthe Command and General Staff School, class of 1925.

He was well known throughout the army as one of the most efficient officers in his branch of service. He is survived by the widow and two daughters.

MEMBERSHIPS FOR A. A. A. SHOULD BE IN SOON

Officers who desire to become members or renew their memberships in the American Auto Association are requested to make application as soon as possible. Mr. Austell, in charge of the Post Exchange garage, stated several days ago that it is imperative that application be made within ten days or two weeks before contemplated departure from Fort Benning.

Those who have memberships in other places, may renew here, according to Mr. Austell. Fee is Five Dollars.

Seventy-three Planes Engage in Offensive and Defensive Combat Problems Thursday; Generals Foulois and Parker Witness Maneuvers

One of the largest fleets of airplanes that has ever visited the Infantry School arrived late Wednesday, and Thursday engaged in combat problems on the reservation. Hundreds of spectators witnessed the maneuvers staged by most every kind of aircraft in the service.

The fleet arrived here from Fort Bragg, where it had staged a similar demonstration the first of the week. Brigadier-General Benj. D. Foulois, assistant chief of air corps. was in command of the fleet. Brig.-Gen. Frank Parker, assistant chief of staff, in charge of war plans division, accompanied the fleet here and witnessed the maneuvers.

Thursday morning the planes were lined up on the air field, and were inspected by all the student officers at the Infantry School. Many others attended this formation, at which time, air corps officers explained the planes, different types, and other features of the aircraft. Very little flying was done during the morning hours, as the schedule was confined merely to the examination of the various types of planes, which composed the fleet. Seventy-three planes composed the fleet.

The afternoon period was devoted exclusively to combat problems. One of the main purposes of the maneuvers held here was to study the problems concerned with the operations of the air corps with infantry troops and to devise better ways to facilitate the operations of aircraft with the infantry, during both offensive and defensive combat.

The schedule of the afternoon program included: simulated attack by pursuit planes on attack planes; aerial acrobatics and combat by individual pursuit planes to demonstrate the speed of this type of aircraft; smoke screens put down over assumed observation posts of infantry organizations attack on targets representing reserve position of battalion of infantry; smoke screen three miles long laid by attack planes on Lumpkin road.

TRIP PLANNED BY SECRETARY OF WAR CANCELLED

According to word received at headquarters, Inf. School, last Monday, Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, was scheduled to visit the Infantry School Tuesday and Wednesday. He was to accompany the air fleet, but due to bad weather conditions which delayed the contemplated arrival of the fleet from Tuesday to Thursday, Mr. Davis returned to Washington. A review of all troops of the Inf. School was ordered for Tuesday afternoon, to take place immediately after his arrival. A reception in his honor had also been planned for that evening.

HERE AND THERE IN THE ARMY

Items of Interest Concerning Army Activities

There will be forty-seven R. O. T. C. camps throughout the country this summer. The purpose of this training is to supplement the training received by the students at their respective schools.

The troops stationed permanently at Fort Harrison, Indiana, will leave soon for Camp Knox, where brigade maneuvers will be held for some weeks. Part of the troops will return to Fort Harrison early in the summer to assist in the C. M. T. camp which will be held there.

There will be 4,000 men in attendance at the C. M. T. C. in the Fourth Corps Area this summer. Camps will be held at the following places: Fort Barrancas, Fort Bragg, Fort Moultrie, Camp McClellan, Fort Oglethorpe and Fort Screven. All of the camps in this corps will begin on June 17 and will continue for one month.

The basketball team of the 38th Infantry took the Fort Sill championship at the Field Artillery School this year. One battalion of this regiment is stationed there.

The 28th Infantry pistol team defeated the 7th Field Artillery team recently in a small bore competition at Madison Barracks. The score was 786 to 680.

POLO TOURNAMENT WILL OPEN TODAY

The Fort Benning polo teams will meet the fast Ft. McPherson and the Governor's Horse Guards polo squads in a two-game series on French Field, the first game of the series to be played this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

At this time the Blues, headed by Major C. B. Lyman, coach of the Infantry School team this year, will play the Fort McPherson team. Major Lyman announced the team line-up for this game this morning. He will play at the number one position; Capt. Boyers, No. 2; Capt. Scott, No. 3, and Lieut. Jacobs, No. 4.

The second game to be played will be between the Meadowlarks and the Governor's Horse Guards. The line-up for the former team is as follows: Lieut. Grubbs, 1; Lieut. Guernsey, 2; Capt. Burress, 3; Capt. Whisner, 4.

The series will be completed Sunday at 2 P. M. when the Blues meet the Governor's Horse Guards and the Meadowlarks will play the Fort McPherson team.

The visiting teams are due to arrive at Fort Benning early Thursday morning. The members of the Fort McPherson squad are Major G. H. Franke, Major G. I. Tolson, Capt. A. S. Wing, Lieut. G. Proctor and Lieut. R. E. Hunter.

The following gentlemen comprise the Governor's Horse Guards squad: J. S. Slicer, W. U. Moran, P. D. Christian, Ray Love, Joe T. Clark and Laurence Gay.

15TH INFANTRY OFFICERS MEET

Former officers and their wives, who have served with the 15th Infantry held a reunion last Sunday evening at the Shack. Major E. F. Harding and Capt. H. O. Cushman were in charge of the party, which was pronounced a big success.

POCKET KNIVES AND FISH HOOKS

The Hubbard Hardware Company has on display a large assortment of pocket knives and fishing tackle. All of their knives are priced at 89 cents, which means that you can take your pick. The fishing tackle ranges from the fifteen cents a dozen hooks to th emost complete and up-to-date salt water casting outfit.

PATTERSON PRAISES THE NEWS

The Burrus Motor and Tractor Company have for the past year patronized the advertising department of the News very extensively. Mr. Patterson, the manager of the used car department, is very much pleased with the results he has obtained. Not many weeks ago he was overstocked with trese cars, and after running a couple of ads in The Infantry School News, he has completely sold out his second hand cars. This is another instance where the News has delivered the goods.

MASTER SERGEANT HAROLD S. HOSKINS

We regret to announce the death of Master Sergeant Harold S. Hoskins, Headquarters Company, 74th Infantry Brigade, Ohio National Guard, which occurred at the station hospital on May 8. He had been seriously ill with pneumonia. Sgt. Hoskins was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hoskins, of Columbus, Ohio, who were present at the time of his death. Besides his parents, one brother, J. H. Hoskins, survives.

Sergeant Hoskins was a student of the non-commissioned officers school, national guard class, and had been at Fort Benning since February 1. He was a popular member of his class and had attained an excellent record in the school.

The body was taken to Columbus for burial Wednesday afternoon. The members of the class accompanied the remains to the train.

He: shall I take you to the zoo?

She: No, if they want me they will come after me.

CAPT. SAULNIER IN NEW YORK

Capt. S. G. Saulnier, 24th Infantry, is now in New York City, on duty in connection with army film production. It is not known how long he will be on this duty.

AT THE MOVIES

MAY 11 to MAY 18, INCL.

FRIDAY, MAY 11

"BUCK PRIVATES," featuring Lya De Putti and Malcolm McGregor in a story laid in interior Germany before the armistice was signed. They were prisoners of war; the German authorities prohibited fraternizing and punished their maidens so caught by cutting their hair. When the daughter of the leading officer of the town is found in the embrace of an American whom she loves, the trouble and fun starts—it does not end until a peck of tribulations have been experienced, then the climax is as exciting as it is pleasing.

"Flying Fishers." Fables.

24TH INFANTRY

Note:—School children's matinee at 24th Infantry theatre 1:15 P. M. Admission free. Parents invited.

SATURDAY, MAY 12

"SHARPSHOOTERS," starring Geo. O'Brien and Lois Moran in a Navy romance which forces the admission that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male." The settings of this colorful comedy are in Morocco, New York and the U. S. Navy. O'Brien plays the part of a hard boiled gob, who makes it a point to have a girl in every port—his usual comical antics breed laughs. Miss Moran acts as a nautch girl (East Indian dance performer) in a smoky Moroccoan dive. Her native dances are appealing.

"Spook Spoofing." Our Gang.

SUNDAY, MAY 13

"SOLDIER'S CLOTHES," Montgomery Stock Company. This four act comedy drama is replete with comical and strong dramatic situations. An absorbing romance runs throughout. While in France, in uniform, a man marries a girl of aristocratic family—They return to the states and when she sees her husband in his small town civilian clothes, the trouble starts and it increases until the stronger mind conquers.

Important—Only eight reels of pictures insure the show terminating one hour earlier than last week.

"SPEEDY," starring Harold Lloyd in a rapid fire comedy laid in the "Speedy" city of New York. Harold Lloyd, named Speedy because of his aptness in obtaining a rapid succession of new jobs and his rapid summary discharges from them. Baseball is his favorite sport and he is seen on the diamond, in the stand, at the office and enroute ove rthe rapid modes of available transportation. He travels on scooters, horse cars and bicycles, in autos, rapid subways and anything that will make speed. It's the same old Harold Lloyd, that's all. There is an absorbing romance in the story.

"Down To The Sea." Sport.

Paramount News No. 80.

MONDAY, MAY 14

"RED RIDERS OF CANADA," starring the tempestuous Patsy Ruth Miller in a soul stirring drama of mysterious murder among the eternal snows of the North. It is the story of a battle between love and duty—the love of a brave and beautiful girl versus duty to the code of the Royal North West Mounted Police.

"Way of all Pants." Charlie Chase.

TUESDAY, MAY 15

"NIGHT OF MYSTERY," starring Adolphe Menjou with Evelyn Brent and William Collier, Jr., in a tense melodrama, the plot of which is laid in France. The story deals with a captain who is ordered to service in Africa. Just before he leaves, jewels are stolen, and a murder is committed. A feverent romance is interspersed with intrigue, viciousness and deeds of heroism. The film is absorbing.

"Mad Scrambles." Neal Burns.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 16

"THE PATSY," featuring Marion Davies with Marie Dressler and Lawrence Gray on a filmization based on the stage hit of the same name. It is the comical story of a girl who always got the drumsticks while her sister and mother got the white meat and the gravy. Through the aid of a sympathetic father the tables are turned and she basks in luxury. The scenes are replete with action and laughable situations.

Paramount News No. 83.

THURSDAY, MAY 17

"NIGHT FIER," starring William Boyd in a strong railroad melodrama. It is 1894; rivalry among railroads along the western frontier is keen, particularly for the coveted contract to carry U. S. mail. The president of the M. Q & T agrees to transport it at the rate of sixty miles per hour over the Rocky Mountains—the government officials promise the contract if the feat is accomplished on the trial run. Excitement prevails. There is treachery, a horrible wreck and success for a daring competent engineer.

"Smith's Customs." Smith comedy.

FRIDAY, MAY 18

"TEXAS STEER," starring Will Rogers with Louise Frazenda and Ann Rork in a screen version based upon the famous play by Chas. H. Hoyt. It is the story of a Texas cowman elected to congress on bought votes. And his wife from the prairies who thought she needed money to ring the social register. All Will Rogers has to do to bring laughs is act natural—he does it. With Louise Frazenda this film should prove itself a spellbinder.

"Carnival Week." Fables.

"BIMBO" REMAINS THE UNDEFEATED CHAMPION

The biggest sporting event in national Sojourners circles in years was staged last Saturday evening, May 5, and sponsored by the local post chapter with a barbecue, all under the direction of Captains C. C. Griffin and W. A. Collier. The Bobec pit, just 300 yards northeast of the Marne and Lumpkin road junction was the site where the age old badger fight took place, which consisted of a fight to the death between a dog and a wild badger.

The affair started when Captain John Sentell's uncle shipped from the Big Bend hunting district in Texas a full grown, 38 lb. male Mispadt badger which the Texan Guardsman claimed could overcome any dog in Fort Benning.

It didn't take Major Edwin Butcher of Headquarters, The Infantry School, long to take up Captain Santell's defi, and he backed his dog, Bimbo; to the extent that Mr. Bob Hall of the 1st National Bank had to make several trips to town. Bimbo, of the Vertlack strain, won the Tampa Badger and Whippet ribbon in 1927. An alternate dog, owned by Major Joseph Russ, named "Wasuzi" was also offered for the combat, but was disqualified as being the only American airedale ever awarded the decision in an oriental badger contest, having penned a 28 lb. Luzon badger to the ground in 14 1-2 minutes.

Much credit is due Major D. H. Torrey for Bimbo's condition as the Major took personal charge of the training, being well versed on all phases of regulations dealing with such combats on Federal reservations.

The committee in charge arranged the details of the fight as a sporting event of the Sojourners club, despite the strenuous opposition by Captain J. M. Huddlesten, M. C., who sought to prevent the combat on the ground of cruelty to animals. Captain Huddlesten was seconded by Chaplain J. R. Wright who took the position that for the sake of the children's school such an exhibition should be prevented. However, Lt. Col. Deleplane led the way and took the burden on his own shoulders and refused to stay the proceedings; in fact, he acted as one of the officials.

Just before the battle started a fifteen minute talk on "Badger Fighting in this country and in Australia," was delivered by Captain Victor C. Reese of the National Guard Class and a curator of a badger museum in Ohio. The pathetic story of the badger's uphill fight all through the years brought tears to the eyes of the entire gathering.

Quite some objection was made to Major E. D. Barlow of the Quartermaster Corps acting as the 2d Second, inasmuch as Major Barlow was said to have placed a bet on the badger. This Major Barlow admitted but the objections was withdrawn by some of the dog's backers when it was declared that Major Barlow, being an officer and a gentleman, would not let the fact that he had bet on the badger influence him. As he is quoted in saying, "Service all the time."

Further confusion was caused just prior to the zero hour when the referee, Capt. G. L. King worked himself into a heated argument with Captain W. A. Collier, holder of the hound. It seems that Major Butcher, the original dog holder, was detained by his Chief of Staff in order to feast while Rome burned, so he requested Captain W. A. Collier, known to all the wild-cats on the reservation, to substitute in his stead. Captain King, in his customary manner of looking up figures and facts, noted in the National Badger Pit Rules that before the badger is debounced from his lair, the dog must remain at least three infantry paces away. Captain Collier, without regard to the referee's warning, permitted the dog to intinundate the badger while the poor animal was still inside the box. This resulted in Captain King using his perogitive of office and ordering Captain Collier and the dog out of the ring until final preparations were completed. But the dog, having tasted scent was all too eager and continued to indicate his displeasure by giving tongue regardless of who was trying to speak.

Capt. Charles R. Crossett, Yale, L. L. B. of the Infantry Reserve, was the hero of the occasion, to him being acearded the honor of pulling the fighting badger from the box and starting the mix-up. The two lucky numbers in the draw for places were won by Capt. Crossett and Capt. Ubaldo del Toro, of Porto Rico, but the latter was still weak from his sea-voyage and did not feel up to the occasion. Captain David C. Harris, Jr., a prominent outdoor sportsman from Macon, Georgia, offered to pull the snarling animal out of the box if any were afraid to do so, but Capt. Crossett secured to brave the situation. Capt. Harris' act ,in volunteering to start the fight, was fully appreciated and it is being made the subject of a special letter of commendation. What this army needs are men of such a type who will not shirk dangerous duty and who can stir others to action..

The fight was brief but furious. To start the combat Capt. Crossett entered the ring with his body encased in heavy protective padding and strange leather gloves. He grasped the rope to pull the badger from the box and, at the command of the time keeper, he pulled.

It was all over in a minute. Bimbo is still the undisputed champion—undefeated—unsullied. The scene following Capt. Crossett's pull of the rope beggars description and was, in fact, two horrible to be related. The floor of the pit, which a moment before had been spotless, was instantly befouled and in a flash all to be seen was the victorious dog and a few remnants. Despite the cru lty of the exhibition the officers seemed to enjoy the spectacle, save perhaps, Capt. Crossett, who, as holder of the badger, felt that the event was a trifle too cruel.

But whats done cannot be undone and all proceeded to partake of Captain Griffin's prize barbecue.

COLONEL H. E. EAMES

The news of the death of Colonel H. E. Eames, in Chicago, was wholly unexpected and came as a great shock to his many friends in Columbus.

Colonel Eames loved this community and its people, and his letters "home," as he regarded Columbus and Benning, always breathed this spirit of deep affection. We believe that it was the great personal ambition of his life to spend the evening fo his career here in Columbus, surrounded by those warm friends who appreciated him so thoroughly and loved him so depely.

Colonel Eames did as much as any other one man to secure, and hold, Fort Benning, and the outstanding contribution he made in behalf of this worthy cause will ever be gratefully recalled by those familiar with the circumstances.

But, over and above all these, there are strong personal reasons why Colonel Eames has always held such high and honored place in the affections of Columbus people. As a man, he was beloved. One of the most affecting scenes we have ever seen at a public gathering was when Columbus told him goodbye. He fell in love with our people and our city, and his many friends here all joined in the hope that some day he would return and be in this congenial and mutually appreciative atmosphere once more.

A goldenhearted gentleman, and in the hour of his passing our thoughts dwell more on his shining personal qualities than on his fine record as an army officer, and even more than on the great service he performed the American people and the city of Columbus, when he took such a leading part in establishnig an Infantry School at Benning.—From Enquirer-Sun, Columbus, Ga.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

The week covered by this report was comparatively uneventful from a tactical point of view. The weather was generally fair and warmer and the visibility good when not obscured by Academic smoke screens. The all-day picnic parties sponsored by the First Section were greatly enjoyed by all and, under the influence of Spring and Nature, even the more serious minded and dignified members of the Advanced Class have assumed the attributes of adolesence. If the present tendency continues we shall expect to see Ambassador McLean and Stonewall Drollinger playing leapfrog in the Brigade C. P.

As a case in point we take pleasure in publishing the following immortal lines which were composed under the strain and stress of a recent terrain exercise. The author having expressed a desire that his name be withheld we acceed to his wishes and publish the verses annonomously. As we cannot refrain, however, from giving out some hint as to his identity we might say that he is the holder of the highest political office which it is within the power of the Advanced Class to bestow and that, so far as we know, he is the only member thereof who has been awarded the D. S. M.

Ode to Military Education

We sit upon the grassy ground
And lean against a tree
And plan a fight that's out of sight,
Terrain pad on our knee.

Decision made on road map frayed,
The War Lord's thoughts take wing
He dreams of "ships and sealing wax"
Of thirty years and Spring.

Meanwhile the trusty staff cavorts
About the cool C. P.,
All busy making General "A"
A victorous B. G.

The deed is done—the plan is drawn
"Make it so—" says he Red warriors tough soon cry enough
"They are no match for me."

'Tis thus at Benning, war is taught
And who shall say us nay,
If we depart with joyous heart
Ah, well—a—day—HURRAY!

Fashion Note from Ebbert Hill

At a recent tactical exercise Major Teachout and Captain Grimmer acquired considerable social prestige, in Advanced Class circles, by appearing on the field carrying the natty, walking-stick-terrain-exercise-seat contraptions which created such a sensation upon their first appearance last fall. This important adjunct to a well-rounded military career was introduced into America by Ambassador McLean and Viscount Johnson from Potsdam and Piccadilly where these sticks are much affected by the Junker Class and the British landed aristocracy.

Reds Win the War

The ever-victorous Blues have at last met their match. In a recent campaign for the possession of the celebrated Water Tanks, Field Marshall Spaulding, commanding the Reds, demonstrated, most effectively, how little General "1st Brigade" really knows about the Art of War until after he has received the approved solution. By the simple device of concealing his movements from the bewildered Blues, Marshall Spaulding suddenly appeared on their right with a Red Division and completely annihilated twenty Advanced Class command groups without the loss of a single battle or skirmish.

Sport News

In the finals of the great Advanced Class golf handicap, Champion O'Hare successfully defended his title against Runner-up Culp, a dark horse whose prowess has not hitherto received the publicity it merits. It was a hard fought contest and it took 35 holes to decide it. At the end of the 35th, however, the champion, having his opponent three down with one to go, was awarded the victory and the cup.

New Development in Warfare

As we go to press the Student Officers of all classes are actively engaged in the perfection of anti-aircraft formation for marching columns of infantry. As this drill is a War Department institution for which our natural enemy, the 1st Section, gracefully disclaims all responsibility, we do not choose to comment upon it other than to offer our constructive criticism. We respectfully suggest that, at the signal to scatter, the command takes up the normal marching formation of the Advanced Class.

As an interesting sidelight upon the anti-aircraft drill, it might be noted that Captain Cole, our once popular Air Corps representative, has become a social out cast, while Professor McCunniff is planning to turn in his practically new Franklin Airman for a used Chevrolet.

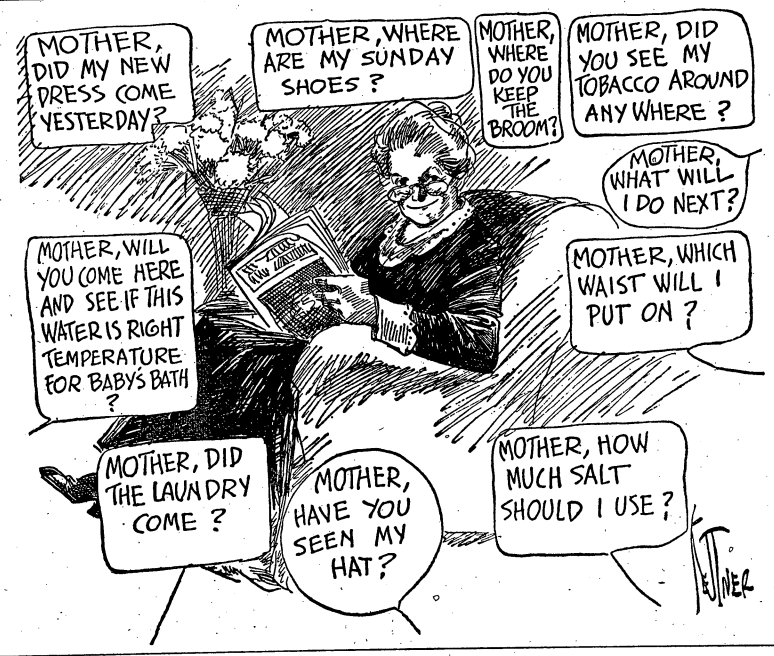
MOTHER



SGT. A. J. NICHOLSON

We regret to announce the death of Sergeant Andrew J. Nicholson, Company "E" 29th Infantry, which occurred last Thursday night, May 3.

Sergeant Nicholson saw service with the 61st Infantry during the World War, and subsequent to that time has been a member of the 29th Infantry.

He was an excellent soldier, a splendid instructor, and considered one of the most efficient noncommissioned officers of the regiment.

Sgt. Nicholson is survived by his mother, Mrs. Francis Nicholson, of Glinville, N. C., his wife and two smoll sons. Funeral services were conducted by Chaplain Wright at the Protestant Chapel last Sunday. Interment at Glinville, N. C.

We went to see "The Butter & Egg Man" the other evening and enjoyed it very much. Major Harding gave one of the best amatuer characterizations it has ever been our good fortune to witness. Mrs. Birks as Mrs. Lehman, was splendid. This lady handled a very difficult part with consumate ease. The show was well timed and the ability and efforts of its director were in evidence on every hand. The greatest tribute that can be paid the Butter & Egg Man is that a large percentage of the audience on last Thursday evening were seeing the performance for the fourth time. It is true that most of these were the fond wives or the adoring husbands of the cast. Last week we promised our readers a dramatic critique of the Butter & Egg Man. During the week some kind person called our attention to that which happened to a former critic of the Dramatic Club, and we wrote this paragraph instead.

The Benefit baseball game for the Children's School on Wednesday, last, was not as well attended as the worthiness of the cause merited. The usual stunts were held and were followed by a real ball game. The students showed their ability to apply some of the things they are learning at the Infantry School. This was particularly true in their application of the principle of surprise around and in the vicinity of second base in the second inning. We doubt that Colonel Johnson knows now where that ball came from that found him slipping away from second base. Once more we heard the negro spirituals by the 24th Infantry Glee Club, under Captain Jenna and we never grow tired of listening to "Hand it down, throw it down anyway to get it down" along with the others. Being able to hear this Glee Club is one of the privileges of serving at Benning. We suggest a serenade or so at the hospital once or twice a month.

About 325 men, 1 hound dog, one feline and several deceased pigs and goats attended the annual bobeque of the Sojourners last Saturday night. This was without doubt the largest turnout this chapter has ever had. Although we were unable to partake of the bobeque we were seated to the leeward of Bertie* MacMahon and enjoyed his meal with him. The entertainment program, which followed a very sumptous meal, was enjoyed by all with the exception of the rendition of "My Blue Heaven." Of course we had Charles Griffin's usual "have you heard this one." Griff was so modest however that he made them turn out all the lights while he related the result of a wager between three young ladies. We don't know yet who won, however we didn't. The best part of the programme was, as is so often the case, impromptu. After a fitting introduction by Captain Harris, Lieutenant Regis gave a very gripping account of his snipe hunt. The piece de resistance was however the badger fight. The person selected for th "puller of the badger" is unknown to us although it is said that he is connected academically with Mercer University. If this be true, what would a sophomore at that worthy institution give for the details of last Saturday night. Several people were almost bitten by the ferocious animal as he was pulled from his cage. It has been said that a certain member of the Advanced Class was very anxious to do the honors.

The Personage of the Week

Captain Chas. R. Crossett, Inf.-Res., for his skilled handling of the Badger last Saturday night.

* Really Bertie this is a typographical error. We spelled your name Bernie but the typesetter got it Bertie so don't blame me.

TANKS HAVE EXCELLENT REPUTATION SAYS NEW ARRIVAL

"I made a request to come to this Battalion. I did it because the Tanks have an excellent reputation everywhere, and from what I have observed of them the few days I have been here the half has not yet been told about this high class outfit," were the approximate words of Clive C. Keplinger, of Jonesboro, Tenn., in starting upon his three year enlistment with "A" Company. Keplinger is qualified to speak his sentiments and obesrvations just as he did for he was discharged in January from an enlistment in Battery "C" 64th Coast Artillery Corps with an Excellent character. He served in Hawaii. He did not remain out of the army very long, but went down to have a talk with Captain H. D. Bagnall, the Recruiting Officer at Chattanooga, Tenn., and the result is that he is now a "Terrible Tanker."—From 15th Tank Bn. Weekly.

OAKLAND AND PONTIAC SIXES

The Davis-Peacock Motor Co. who handle the Oakland and Pontiac sixes have moved from their old location at 1305 Broad, three doors further out the street. SERGT. MORRISON TO LEAVE

Sergeant James R. Morrison, Company "A" 7th Engineers, received orders last week which will transfer him to the 3rd Engineers in Hawaii. He will sail from New York about July 24 for his new station. We regret very much to make this announcement, as Sgt. Morrison has been acting as advertising manager of the News since last November, and he has obtained some good results. He is well known to the business men of Columbus, all of whom regret to see him leave Fort Benning. He will probably remain here, however, until the first of July when he will take a furlough, pending date of sailing from New York.

"MILITARY CLOTHES" COMEDY DRAMA AT MAIN THEATRE

Next Sunday night, the 13th, at the Main theater, the Montgomery Players will present the Broadway laughing success entitled, "Military Clothes." This comedy had a run of two seasons in New York city at the Selwyn theater and is credited with being one of the best of the modern American comedies. It tells the story of an oversea soldier, who marries, while in France, an American Red Cross canteen girl; she is of the American aristocracy, while he is from the common people. After the war and they return to America, the wife is ashamed of her "rough neck" husband, whom she adored while in his "military clothes." But the husband is not of that kind who can be put aside so easily. He calls his wife "a snob" and sets out to give her a lesson in democracy; he succeeds after many laughable and ridiculous scenes. The soldier's father, who is an old shoe maker from Racine, Ws., adds a lot of laughter to the play.

Mr. Montgomery will be the husband, Miss Howard, the wife, and Mr. Taylor the old shoe maker, with the entire company in the support. This comedy is positively recommended by the management of the Montgomery Players, as the very best entertainment in their entire repertoire. There will be the usual vaudeville between the acts of the play.

Maneuvers! It won't be long now until the student officers will be experiencing a bit of "Real, awful warfare" —and we are fervently hoping there will be few casualties, and that they will come out of this experience still the same good, clean boys as they were on leaving the peaceful security of their quarters! They will have many chances to exercise their ingenuity and display their bravery in outwitting the enemy. But for which side shall we root?

And won't the Supplies Branch be "putting out" during this time? I'll say they will! But usually the account of it closes with the well known phrase, "a good time was had by all."

Did you know that we had a very good artist among our personnel? You just ought to see the portraits Miss Ward, one of our stenographers, can make. Some of these days we are going to ask her to do some drawings for our section—then you can see for yourself. You'd be surprised.

The other day Major Barlow called us all up front in a very formal manner. (We were secretly wondering what we had done now) when to our surprise it was a presentation ceremony. He gave Mr. Woolbright two silver baby cups and spoons for the new twins, in behalf of the Quartermaster Corps and civilian employees. Mr. Woolbright seemed so surprised. (We sincerely hope he was, as we tried to keep it a deep, dark secret), that he wasn't very talkative. (Now if he had been talking over the phone, we're sure he could have found much to say, at least that is his reputation.) But at any rate, he rushed up to the hospital that noon to show them to Mrs. Woolbright, and reported that she was much pleased. (They were beautiful cups, if it does sound like bragging.) So we wish the twins may always have a full cup (of milk), with a minimum of slips between the cup and the lip!

We knew it would return as soon as the order was issued to don cottons! Didn't you?

We were very sorry to learn that Mr. Woolbright has received a long distance message that his sister is very ill. We are hoping for her speedy recovery, as he has been having quite a bit of sickness in his family of late. His wife is slowly recovering—she was dangerously ill for several days—and is expecting to soon be able to go home. The twins are still lustily announcing their arrival!

Library and Service Club

By Paul L. Cromelin

Since last September the Garrison Library has been purchasing new books, and now has over one hundred of the latest publications in circulation. All new books are put in iirculation with a limit of seven days, without rewardable privileges, and are also limited to one book to a person. These restrictions, while uncommon in a library of our minuteness, are almost imperative in order to allow the greatest possible number of readers to enjoy them while they are yet new and in demand.

Each month more books are added to the Seven Day shelf. Only the latest publications are considered, and a very careful selection is made of available volumes, so that every purchase will be of interest to the largest proportion of our readers. Naturally, we cannot please everyone. But, with our selection, we do try to please the majority. Accomplishing this, the library will prove its worth to the post, and, so far as I can tell from comments that have reached me, the Seven Day shelf is appreciated by the users of the library.

That phrase, "available volumes," as used in the last paragraph, has a great degree of flexibility. One might assume that any book is "available," in the loose sense of the word, since we have the purchase price. But mine is not such use of the word. While the loose use of the word tends to "obtainable," I, in using it, have in mind that significant phrase so often checked on the blue slips enclosed by editors with rejected manuscripts. "Not available," meaning "not fitting," or "not useful."

There are many books published that the library would like to purchase, but after careful thought, decides that they will not be of interest to the greater number of readers. Books such as Ludwig's "Napoleon" and "Bismarck" are included in this list. There is no doubt in my mind that these two books are of tremendous value to the student, as they are also of great interest to a large number of average readers, but books of this type are not in demand in a small library, and so they must be set aside in favor of more universal literature.

Outstanding in this month's purchase is a recent selection of the Literary Guild of America. Bad Girl by Vina Delmar.

This is a story of youth and love, and of a baby. Particularly the baby. Against a background of excursion boats, bare hallways, Chinese restaurants, and the thousand and one things to be found in the city of New York, Dot and Eddie go stumbling through their love and trouble. While set in New York, the scene could easily be shifted to any community in the states, for characters such as these two may be found wherever people gather together. Dot picks up Eddie on an excursion boat, shortly succumbs to the inevitable ,and then—the real story begins. The tale in itself is simple, but the completeness of its narration makes it a tale well worth reading. Vina Delmar has a frankness of narration that is nothing less than startling. Intimate detail is nothing to her. Rather, she flourishes on it. All in all, while some readers will throw up their hands, crying "Censor"—I think that Bad Girl is an invaluable addition to modern American literature. Whether I am correct in my opinion remains to be seen.

P. S.—Anonymous. The author of Wine, Women and War comes out with another diary, a successor to the first, which portrays his travels through France, ten years later.

Beauty and the Beast—Kathleen Norris. A romance of Society in Long Island, young love among the moneyed peoples, by one of America's most gifted novelists.

The Man Who Knew Coolidge—Sinclair Lewis. Which will probably be hailed and assailed. The New York Times remarks that Lewis returns to Babbitt. In my own opinion Mr. Lewis never got beyond Babbitt, which will not prevent the sale from running into increditable thousands.

Treasure—Gordon Young. For the lover of the South Seas and of Adventure, this book is intended. Gordon Young wrote Pearl Hunger, which was very well received.

Boojum—Charles Wertenbaker. The book, like the author's name and his title, is unusual. The theme is old, another college story, but the handling of the dialogue alone makes up for this deficiency, and provides some very interesting reading.

Shanghai Jim—Frank L. Packard. Which has been selected by the Crime Club as the outstanding mystery story of some month or other.

Mystery Range—Charles Alden Seltzer. Which I have not taken the trouble to read. Western stories have no lure for me. But Seltzer ranks high among western novelists, and this should prove good reading to those interested in western stories.

The Saga of Billy the Kid—Walter Noble Burns. A western Biography, presenting one f the west's most interesting characters in an entirely new light. Billy the Kid had the reputation of being one of the most, if not the most, deadly men of his time, although he never fully reached man's estate. Like Jesse James, his career was terminated by a bullet in the back. At the age of twenty-one, Billy the Kid, was killed, with a record of twenty-one deaths, not counting Mexicans and Indians, attributed to him. Mr. Burns, in his biography, attemps to show that Billy the Kid's killing habits were thrust upon him by force of circumstances, and were not according to his own inclinations.

For the third time the library has reordered Warner Fabian's Unforbidden Fruit. Each previous order has been returned with the notation, "Unpublished," but I believe that this month we will be successful in obtaining it. Mr. Fabian, the author of "Flaming Youth," has gone behind the scenes in a college for young women, and "Unforbidden Fruit" is the result.

If this book cannot be obtained, "Pleasant Jim," by Max Brand will be substituted.

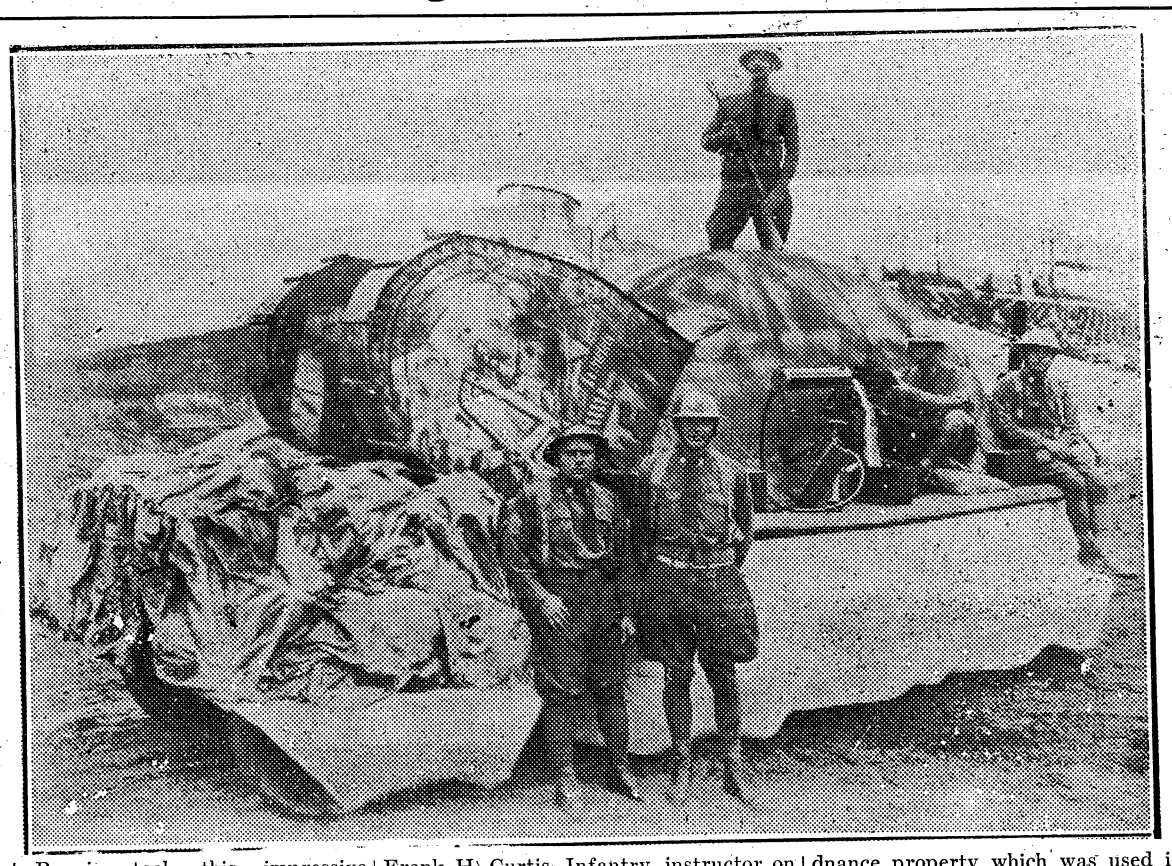
Fort Benning's Prize Winning Float



Fort Benning took this impressive float to Columbus for the Centennial parade. The Columbus Chamber of Commerce offered to sponsor any float the Infantry School might like to enter the parade, and the above is the result. This float took first prize, the sum of $100, which has been turned over to the Fort Benning Children's School.

This artistic float was designed and built under the supervision of Lieut. Frank H. Curtis, Infantry, instructor on the staff of the Infantry School. The art and sign work was done by Private First Class Willoughby L. Lynch, Inf. School Detachment. The float was manned by the following members of the Inf. School Detachment: Sgt. John Magoni, Sgt. Amos Cawley, Corp. Mike Hildebrand, Corp. John T. Boggs, Corp. Leander Garner. These men were also responsible for the fine condition of ordnance property which was used in the float ensemble.

The carpenter work was done by Mr. I. W. Brooks, Mr. E. H. Rockhart, and Mr. T. B. Anderson, all civilian employees in the Quartermaster Corps. Private W. D. Delaney, Q. M. C., also assisted in this work.

The float was driven in the parade by Sgt. Louis Patrick, Company "C" 15th Tank Battalion.

"Baby" Stribling at Gowdy Field Tonight

BIG FIGHTS TONIGHT AT GOWDY FIELD

General Collins Will Present Trophy; Baby Stribling Here

The arena is prepared and everything is in readiness for the Grantham-Stribling affair tonight. All that can be done now is to sit and wait in readiness for the opening gong which will start the first prelims.

Now about this main go. There is apt to be more action than the greater number of fans are expecting to find, despite the fact that a number of them expect to see Grantham carried from the ring before the end of the seventh round. This speculation is due to the fact that Grantham has long been absent from the ring, he having had only two or three fights in the past two years. On the other hand Stribling is fighting regular, gaining ring experience and keeping in the pink of condition at all times.

To date Stribling has had over a hundred fights and from that number he has lost only six, a record of which any pugilist might be proud. Grantham has to date had a little over fifty encounters, and of that number only two were lost, they going to men in the welter class.

In addition to the mai ngo as an other feature attraction of the fight card will be the presentation by the Commandant, Gen. Edgar T. Collins, of the boxing trophy won b ythe Benning team in Mobile, Ala. "Football" Smith, captain of the victorious team, it has been announced, will receive the trophy. Smith, in addition to winning the heavyweight championship in Mobile, was runnerup in the finals held in Boston recently to select the team to represent the United States in the Olympic games to be held in Amsterdam this summer. He will be a member of the team.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT NEARING END

The Fort Benning tennis tournament will end in a few days. During the past week members of the club have been active and several splendid exhibitions of the net game have been played and enjoyed by many spectators.

The semi-finals results are as follows:

Men's singles: Lieut. Hedekin defeated Capt. Christenberry, 4-6; 6-4; 6-3.

Men's doubles: Capt. Christenberry and Major Hobbs defeated Majors Febiger and Withers, 6-0; 6-2.

Col. Johnson and Lieut. Hedekin defeated Major Van Fleet and Lieut. Bassett, 6-0; 6-1.

Col. Johnson and Lieut. Hedekin defeated Capt. Christenberry and Major Hobbs in the men's doubles finals. The score was 6-4; 3-6; 6-4; 7-5.

The army tennis championship will be played in Washington some time this summer. Shelby Buck, formerly of Fort Benning and one of its star athletes, is one of the players chosen to represent the Fourth Corps in this tournament. He is an officer of the reserve corps.

Mrs. Wessels and Mrs. Dunkle will play the women's singles finals within a few days, it was announced yesterday.

ANNUAL MANEUVERS NOW IN PROGRESS AT INF. SCHOOL

Student Officers Busy With Tactical Problems This Week

Once again the peaceful woods of the Chattahoochee Valley are astir with the activities incident to the annual student officer maneuvers. The 29th Infantry is encamped at Harmony Church and Sulphur Springs, and at these places the student officers of all classes are engaged in the solution of tactical problems. Students this year are winding their way daily to these places instead of camping on the maneuver grounds as the case in years past.

The exercises held this year are those dealing with command-post problems, the object of these exercises being to complete the instruction given by practical application of the theory. In carrying out these problems the student officers have been urged to call into play their imagination and to employ initiative throughout the entire maneuvers. Up to the present time the officers have been formed into lettered companies; for the purpose of the maneuvers they have been formed into groups, and all student officers, both regular and national guard and reserves, have been formed into groups. Lieutenant Colonel R. W. Kingman is acting as chief umpire at Harmony Church, while Lieutenant Colonel P. G. Peyton is acting in that capacity at Sulphur Springs. The assistant umpires are Majors E. E. Lewis and J. F. Landis.

The maneuvers will be completed on May 26, and then the student officers' days are very few at the Infantry School. Graduation exercises will be held on May 29. Detail announcement will appear in next week's News.

GENERAL ALLEN TO BE GUEST OF COL. MARSHALL

General R. H. Allen, Chief of Infantry, who will visit Fort Benning next week, will be the guest of Col. G. C. Marshall, Asst. Commandant, during his stay here.

WILL HOLD DANCE REVIEW

Miss Annie Dozier, dancing instructor of Columbus, wishes to announce that her class will hold a dancing review at the Royal Theater on May 24. There will be matinee and evening performances, the latter to be at 8:30 P. M. There will be about one hundred and fifty children in this review, many of whom are from Fort Benning.

SWIMMING POOL OPENED LAST WEEK

Many Improvements Made in Pool and Grounds During the Past Year

Those at Fort Benning who would aspire to the crowns worn by Johnny Weisemuller, Gertrude Ederle, Alien Riggen or any other Aquatic celebrity, or those who just swim and dive for the pleasure derived from the sport may now enjoy themselves in the Garrison Swimming Pool. The pool which is modern and one of the finest in the South was opened on Tuesday afternoon of last week. Attendance at the pool so far has been rather slack due to cold weather, yet there are those who are more than passingly fond of water sports who may be seen daily taking their "dip" at the pool.

Many improvements have taken place since the pool was closed last fall. The Recreation Center Board, under the direction of Colonel P. S. Bond, have completed an upper reservoir at the south end of the pool as the base of water supply. The reservoir contains more than enough water to fill the main pool and is connected to it by a concrete channel thru which the water supply flows, thus assuring a sufficient quantity of fresh water at all times. Another improvement over previous years is the drainage system. Previously, whenever it became necessary to drain the pool, members of the garrison would be deprived of the use of it for several days at a time. Since the improvement that has been made it will be only a matter of two or three days at the longest swimmers will be deprived of its use. It can now be easily drained in six hours and if an emergency arises, it can be refilled in five hours. However, this will be done on rare occasions as a fast filling will muddy the water.

Cloronation of the water this year is being done in the reservoir instead of the main pool and is not quiet as strong as it has been in the past, yet it is strong enough to meet all sanitary requirements.

Precautions to prevent accidents have been established and an efficiency corps of life guards under the supervision of Lieutenant Dunn, of the Tanks are on duty at the pool. Of these, Corporal Pope of the Tanks who has been on duty at the pool for seasons past and who last year capably filled the position of senior life guard has been selected again for this important duty, while Corporal Squirrel is in charge of the Red Cross Life Saving Examinations.

While making improvements in the pool, a chance for beautification of the grounds surrounding the pool was not overlooked. Places that were once ditches and unsightly places have been filled, leveled, and set with grass. Across the walk at the entrance of the pool from Sigerfos Avenue, a Japanese, Wishing Gate, has neen placed, while around the pool, lights have been placed to help insure safety for special night parties that may be arranged. These, however, are to be replaced by Japanese lanterns which will add greatly to the attractiveness of the pool.

For the convenience of all, a one way road has been constructed on the west side of the pool and a place for parking established. Hereafter, those who care to do so may drive almost to the waters edge before leaving their car to enter the pool. A drinking fountain has also been erected for the convenience of bathers so that, in the future bathers will not have to go with their thirst unappeased.

GENERAL ALLEN WILL VISIT HERE ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

Major-General Robert H. Allen, Chief of Infantry, will arrive at Fort Benning Monday, May 21, for over a week's visit at the Infantry School. General Allen will arrive here in the midst of the annual maneuvers at Harmony Church and Sulphur Springs, and no doubt will spend some time in the woods of the Chattahoochee Valley observing the work of the student officers of the Infantry School.

General Allen left Washington last Monday. He visited Fort Moultrie, S. C., last Tuesday and the next day inspected the 8th Infantry at Fort Screven, Ga. His schedule calls for a visit today at Fort McPherson, Ga., where he will inspect the 8th Infantry Brigade and units of the 22nd Infantry. His visit at Fort McPherson happens to be so timed that he will visit there during the last three days of the tactical inspection of the corps area commander, Major-General R. P. Davis.

General Allen will remain at the Infantry School until May 29, according to the schedule, when he will go to Fort Oglethorpe to visit the third battalion of the 22nd Infantry. His inspection will include all of the infantry units in the 4th Corps, excepting Co. "K," 22nd Infantry, and the 4th Tank Platoon, both stationed at Camp McClellan, Ala.

OFFICERS WILL TAKE EXTENDED TOUR OF EUROPE

Lieut. Col. C. E. Delaplane and Major Evan E. Lewis, accompanied by their wives, will leave Fort Benning the latter part of June for New York where they will take the Cunard liner, "California" to Europe for a two months' tour.

The itineary calls for stops at Funchal in lovely Madeira, Tangiers, Malaga in Spain, Algiers, Naples, Athens, Constantinople, Palestine, Cairo and other cities in Egypt. From there they will again visit Naples and take an overland tour through Italy, Switzerland and France, visiting Monte Carlo, Nice and Paris. The return trip will be made from Havre, calling at Southhampton for a three days' visit in London. They will arrive in New York on August 30.

MILITARY TRAINING

President Kinley of the University of Illinois, in an address recently before several thousand fathers of the students there, paid his respects to critics of military training in this fashion. He said:

"I despise the man who, under the guise of religion, tries to say to students, 'stay away from military training.' I feel profound contempt toward opponents of military training who try to destroy the R. O. T. C. surreptitiously. Military training, such as given at the university, makes against militarism rather than for it in its evil senses. Military training is better in a public institution because it is administered from a vewpoint of establishing better citizenship and against the spirit of militarism."

WHO'S WHO!

SERGEANT "WARSET" SIMPSON

Sergeant John Simpson, better known as "Warset," a member of Company "G," 29th Infantry, added another "hash mark" to his collection, on Sunday, May 13th. He held out his hand for the white sheet on the 12th and held up his hand for three years on the 13th. "Warset' was with the first battalion of troops that landed in Fort Benning. Since he has been at this station he has put about 800 men through their recruit drill. He has drilled more recruits than any other instructor in this post. There are men in Post Headquarters, Quartermaster Corps and Infantry School Detachment that took their recruit drill from "Warset." He was the first Sergeant of the Guard in this post. He was responsible last year for "G" Company qualifying all of their Automatic Riflemen in Courses A and X, the only Company in the regiment that has done this.

"Warset" is the supply sergeant for the Maneuver camp again this year. He sure knows his job, and is an efficient, energetic supply sergeant. With special permission from War Department, he entered the service at the age of sixteen at Wilkes Barracks, Penn., on October 16, 1913. He tipped the scales at 117 pounds on his first enlistment. He doesn't weigh much more than that now but he contains a couple of tons of condensed energy and pep. He greets everyone with a smile and is a great lover of a practical joke.

"Warset" is married and Mrs. Simpson is about the only one who can tell him where to get off at. He is a proud father of two boys who probably went through a stiffer recruit drill than any man "Warset" ever trained. They can drill and salute officers like old timers.

"Warset" has seen service with many outfits ,including the 10th Infantry in Panama, 29th Infantry, in Panama, 8th Infantry at Fort Moultrie and the 22nd Infantry at Fort McPherson. We are glad that "Warset" has taken on another hitch with us and we appreciate his loyalty to the Twenty-ninth.

DRAMATIC CLUB ELECTION

The election to be held by the Dramatic Club last Tuesday night has been postponed until a later date. Many officers are on duty with the maneuvers and it was thought there would be a small number at the called meeting last Tuesday, hence the postponement.

FRIDAY, MAY 18

"TEXAS STEER," starring Will Rogers with Louise Frazenda and Ann Rork in a screen version based upon the famous play by Chas. H. Hoyt. It is the story of a Texas cowman elected to congress on bought votes. And his wife from the prairies who thought she needed money to ring the social register. All Will Rogers has to do to bring laughs is act natural—he does it. With Louise Frazenda this film should prove itself a spellbinder.

"Carinval Week." Fables.

Pathe News No. 39.

SATURDAY, MAY 19

"THE CHEROKEE KID," featuring Tom Tyler and his pals in a strong romance of poundin' western action and love which tosses this Western picture ace into the maelstrom of a breath taking poker game of beating hearts. It is a story of intrigue and daring among the pine clad hills.

"Pass the Gravy." Max Davidson.

SUNDAY, MAY 20

"CHICAGO," starring Phyllis Haver with Victor Varconi supported by a strong cast of film artists. It is the dramatic story of a jazz-crazed wife who frequented the night haunts of revelers in Chicago's mystic maze. The story exposes modern procedure in criminal courts, by which lawyers, judges, newspapers and defendants, in sensational murder trials, win widespread publicity. Jazz-crazed, she betrayed her husband and slew her "angel." This comedy drama is filled with laughs, thrills and deep appeal.

"Rah, Rah, Roxie." Karnival.

Paramount News No. 82.

MONDAY, MAY 21

"The Devine Woman," starring Greta Garbo with Lars Hanson and Lowell Sherman. The story is laid in France. Narianne, a country girl, is lured to the bright lights of gay Paris. A theatrical producer ensnares her; she falls in love with a soldier and is the cause of his desertion from the army—he is imprisoned, and she betrays her lover and reaches the pinacle of stardom on the stage. Then there is a mighty fall. The story is tensely melo dramatic.

"Second Hundred Years." Laurel Hardy Comedy.

TUESDAY, MAY 22

"EASY COME EASY GO," starring Richard Dix in a thoroughly laughable, entertaining farce-comedy, with fast moving situations and a human theme. It is the story of ambitious youth, a girl, a crook and a bank robbery. It portrays a case wherein making restitution is more difficult and embarassing than facing the law.

"Knights of the Air." Aviation.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 23

"THE PINTO KID," featuring Buzz Barton in a story of intrigue between cattlemen and sheepmen. Buzz appearing at the psychological time, under the right circumstances, averts disaster and preserves the sancitity of a pretty romance.

"An African Adventure," Oddity.

Paramount News No. 83.

THURSDAY, MAY 24

"THANKS FOR THE BUGGY RIDE," starring Laura La Plante and Glen Tryon in a comedy drama of the light restful type. A dancing instructress is given a lift home by a song writer; she gives him an idea for a new hit; he prepares it, then she sings the composition in a cabaret and he capitalizes on it. Of course there is romance and jealousy.

LAURA LA PLANTE in "THANKS FOR THE BUGGY RIDE" with GLENN TRYON A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

"Forgotten Sweeties." Chas. Chase.

FRIDAY, MAY 25

"THE WIZARD," a mystery play, starring Edmund Lowe. It possesses comedy, thrills and suspense in Poe-like succession. The story has to do with the sudden disappearance of persons who have been the recipients of mysterious threats. People of wealth and intelligence mingle with criminals in drawing rooms, courts and underground passage ways. This is a typical Lon Chaney type of play with hovering shadows, menacing prowlers and strange incidents—not good for insomnia.

"Rats in His Garrett." Fables.

MR. MAYFIELD, OF THE STANDARD PRINTING CO.

We often wonder if the folks at Fort Benning who are regular subscribers to our service publication, The Infantry School News, know that the foreman down at the Standard Printing Company is an ex-service man of the Red Diamond Division. To Mr. Mayfield we owe a great deal of credit for our success during the past year. Our old friend in the early part of 1917 enlisted as a truck driver and was assigned to the fighting 19th Field Artillery. This outfit happened to be horse drawn and there being no trucks to drive he performed the duties of manicuring the army steeds until after the St. Mihiel offensive. After this battle and through the generosity of a regimental supply sergeant the 19th was relieved of a majority of their horses. He then settled down to the irksome duty of guarding Metz and waiting for the end to come. When you receive the News promptly on time each Friday remember that it is an ex-service man who is partly responsible for this promptness. Thank you.

BISSELL—HURT WEDDING
LAST WEDNESDAY

Miss Frances Bissell, the charming daughter of Major and Mrs. Harry Harrison Bissell, became the bride of Lieut. Shirley Randolph Hurt at a beautiful ceremony last Wednesday evening. The nuptial service took place at the Post Chapel and was conducted by Lieut. Henry F. Fay.

The Twenty-ninth Infantry orchestra rendered a program of appropriate music as the guests arrived and played softly during the ceremony. Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus was used as the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional.

The first of the wedding party to enter were the ushers: Lieuts. John H. Stokes, Harry M. Schevarze, Claude Burback and Hayden Grubbs. They were followed by Miss Evelyn Trost, maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. Miss Trost wore a gown of green taffeta and tulle and carried a boquet of sweet peas of pastel shades.

The bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and Lieut. E. L. Strohbehn, who acted as best man.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white Duchess satin made period style with long tight fitting sleeves. Her veil was of tulle made with a lace cap arranged with a wreath of orange blossoms. Her shower boquet was of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

At the conclusion of the service the ushers drew sabers under which the bridal party passed.

Following the nuptial ceremony a lovely reception was held at the Polo Club. Receiving with Major and Mrs. Bissell were the bride and groom, the maid of honor, and Mrs. R. H. Bissell, grandmother of the bride.

Mrs. Hurt is a graduate of Scott High School in Toledo, Ohio, and later attended school in France and in Switzerland.

Lieut Hurt is a graduate of V. M. I. and is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

After a wedding journey to Virginia Lieut. and Mrs .Hurt will return to Fort Benning, where Lieut. Hurt is stationed.

Mrs. Erle O. Sandlin entertained with a bridge party at the Log Cabin on Wednesday, May ninth. The Cabin was lovely with decorations of field and corn flowers. This party was given as a farewell party to many of Mrs. Sandlin's friends, as she and Capt. Sandlin leave soon for their new station at Fort Leavenworth, where Capt. Sandlin will take the school course.

Miss Catherine Jack, of Augusta, who has been the attractive guest of Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Burress, has gone to Columbus to be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Thurston Crawford.

* * *

Mrs. H. D. Birks was hostess at a bridge luncheon on Wednesday, May the ninth. Those invited were: Mrs. J. P. Vachon, Mrs. E. L. Brine, Mrs. W. H. Root, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. H. L. Simmons, Mrs. Gordy, Mrs. Bahrt, Mrs. Bob Childs, Mrs. James, Mrs. V. G. Huskea, Mrs. M. S. Curtis and Mrs. R. T. Duke. First prize, a silk scarf, was won by Mrs. Huskea. Second prize, a handkerchief, was won by Mrs. Brine.

NEW OFFICERS ASSIGNED TO REGIMENT

Lieut. L. C. Boineau

One of the recent assignments to the 24th Infantry is Lieut. L. C. Boineau who has just returned from a two year detail with the 57th Infantry at Fort McKinley, Philippine Islands.

Lieut. Boineau graduated from West Point in June of 1918. Immediately after graduation he was detailed to the School of Arms at Fort Sill. In March, 1919, he was made aide to Gen. Schindel at Camp Meade, Md. In July, 1919, he was assigned to the 32nd Inf. at Camp Kearney, Washington. In July of the same year Lieut. Boineau was ordered to France in the Motor Transport Corps. Upon his return from France in 1920 he joined the 37th Infantry at Fort McIntosh, Laredo, Texas.

The following year he was placed on duty at the War Department in the Patent Section of the Judge Advocates General Department. During this tour of duty Lieut. Boineau was sent to London as a member of the commission of foreign claims for the settlement of airplane claims. Upon his return from England he was assigned to the 34th Infantry at Camp Eustis, Va., and later to the 57th Infantry in the Philippine Islands.

Major J. W. D. Stephens

Major J. W. D. Stephens, who has recently completed a four year detail as instructor at West Point, has been assigned to the command of the 1st Battalion, 24th Infantry.

Major Stephens graduated from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1910. After service on the border with the 2nd Virginia Infantry in 1916, he was commissioned in the regular army and detailed to the First Provisional Leavenworth class. In April, 1917, he was assigned to the 19th Infantry at San Antonio, Texas. In May of the same year Major Stephens was ordered to the 26th Inf. He served with this regiment during its overseas service until he was wounded in July, 1918. Major Stephens received the Distinguished Service Cross for heroic services at Soisson.

Upon his return to the United States in 1919 he joined the 13th Inf. at Camp Merritt. In 1920 Major Stephens was detailed as instructor in Military Art in the Infantry School, Fort Benning. In 1921 he attended the Signal School at Camp Vail, graduating in 1922, when he was assigned to the 19th Inf. at the Presidio, California. In 1923 he was transferred to the 7th Inf. at Fort Sam Houston and in 1924 to the 80th Division, Organized Reserves at Richmond, Va.

It Is Economical To Use All Five Tires

A tire carried as a spare, exposed to temperature changes and to weather, slowly loses its ability to give 100% service.

By changing the tires on your car occasionally, putting the spare in service and giving another tire a rest, all five tires will deliver greater mileage than if the spare is used only in emergencies.

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

It has been a great week for Tactical Topics. Our old friend Major Smith led off with a dashing monograph on the Cavalry and, in the course of two riotous hours, convinced even the doubting Thomas of the Advanced Class that "mobility without movement is useless" and that international polo stars make the best posthumous cavalry leaders.

The discussion between Viscount Johnson and the speaker as to the identity of Colonel Cheape, who captured the Sultan's harem by his mounted charge at the Battle of Huj, was reminiscent of the lively controversy between Luck and Overstreet over the alleged death of Kirby Smith at the Battle of Bull Run. The vitality of these cavalrymen is quite remarkable. The good ones seem to have as many lives as a cat.

Major Smith's conference was followed by an unmarked map problem. Through some administrative mishap, a copy of the approved solution got into the box of Father Callahan and was taken to the map room. When Captain Sandlin, one of our prominent members of the horsey set, was called upon to give his orders, the paper was passed to him and he made a perfect recitation. A few rough characters, who were in on the joke, were greatly amused and the rest of the benighted Infantrymen joined in the merriment on the assumption that Captain Sandlin's solution was essentially funny. Perhaps they were justified. We have seen some approved solutions that struck us that way.

On Tuesday afternoon we had a "one till five" session wit hthe eminent Doctor Cook which sent us staggering out of the map room in a mental condition conductive to picking bees and buttercups on the General's lawn. The erudite Doctor had warned us that, having taught us by means of illustrative problems how to make a coat and vest, he would give us, in the marked exercise, the job of making a pair of pants. He was even better than his word, for in addition to making a pair of pants, we were required to make an overcoat, a tuxedo and a pair of plus fours. To continue the metaphor, we suspect that the eminent Doctor will discover, upon looking over the solutions, that his apprentice tailors are well equipped to undertake a contract for outfitting Coxey's historic army.

On the following morning, Major Roberts demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of everybody that lightning can, and sometimes does, strike twice in the same place. In this three decision affair, our efforts to psychoanalize the School mind came a complete cropper. The decisions of the school were to attack, to defend and to hold. Ours was to take up a position in readiness, to attack and to counterattack. In the words of the well-known Limey classic "And she lost her nyme agayne."

At first blush our open break with the school on the problem referred to might be regarded as a disaster but we assure our well wishers that it does not disturb us in the least. We would not go so far as to agree with Mirror Tactician Simmons that any and every C solution is a compliment for we admit that to have a majority of our papers disfigured by the school's stamp of disapproval might be a trifle disconscerting in that it would indicate almost too wide a divergence of thought from that of the group of high average minds which formulate the school solutions. An occasional C, however, is encouraging for it confirms our long cherished suspicion that ours is an original and unfettered military genius like that of the Great Captains who have gone before. In this connection, it may be well to remember that the board of pedantic experts who reviewed General Bonaparte's plan for the first Italian Campaign returned it to the directors with the significant word "Crazy" scrawled on the margin. This striking historical example of a famous C solution has a more or less obvious application to the case in point.

Incidentally we have another reason to be grateful for Major Robert's trimotor test of military genius, for it has led us to the discovery that there are two of us in the Advanced Class. Captain Gilchrist solved the problem exactly as we did.

The Air Corps Comes Through

After a long series of airplane demonstrations that failed to materialize, due to foul weather, low visibility and what not, we have at last had the privilege of witnessing a real three-ring flying circus. On Wednesday last, the heavens rained aircraft, general officers and press agents and on Thursday they put on a show that convinced us that in the next war we shall want attack planes to prey upon observation planes, persuit planes to prey upon attack planes and possibly some new type of plane to prey upon the pursuit planes. The demonstration also convinced us that the scatter formation devised by higher authority for passive protection against aircraft is not a sufficient guarantee of safety to make it advisable to let our life insurance lapse. The successful machine gunning and bombing of the difficult targets satisfies us that, given favorable conditions, plenty of planes, and noncombatant ground troops, the enemy's air service will do a great deal toward making war unpopular with the Infantry. As far as the plodding Doughboy is concerned, warfare is just one damned thing after another to contend with. There are at least a dozen modern inventions any one of which, in theory, make it impossible for him to exist on the battlefield but, somehow or other, he always manages to develop a protective mechanism that is capable of coping with anything except better infantry.

SAW DUST
A. J. NICHOLS

Now that the Air Show is over we can once more turn to thoughts and things more in keeping with the Infantry mind. The annual war between the Reds and Blues is being waged with the usual tactical errors and the close of another school year looms directly ahead.

And speaking of the end of the school year reminds us that soon we shall be deprived the privilege of reading Tactical Topics by E. F. H. We have enjoyed this column more than any other feature of the paper (except, of course, our own column) and we shall miss its humor and pleasantries when its writer takes up his studies at another institution. His timely references to the "Ship of State" and its ambassadorial occupant; his utterances regarding "Doctor" McCuniff to say nothing of his fitting remarks regarding the faculty, stamps E. F. H. as a humorist of no mean ability and a satirist of the first water. We wish Major Harding the best of luck with no CU's next year.

To Captain Holmes Ely Dager goes the honor of having Galloping Ash Can, 2d. We saw Henry all dressed up in a brand new second hand Ford the other day and upon being questioned said that his Flivver was a French car, that he had purchased it from Mr. French. When we first looked at it we were sure he had bought it from Mr. Chambers.

After two or three sleepless nights we finally hit upon a name for our ash can and shall call it "The Spirit of the Upatoi." This seems a fitting title and we shall do everything in our power to up hold its good name. Our one ambition is to drive our Lizzie with the dignity and equanimity which marks Fred Caswell when he is behind the wheel of his. The Spirit of the Upatoi has been rather stubborn of late but we hope to have it out on the road in the near future.

The only lasting effect of the Sojourners Barbecue and Badger fight that we have seen was at the Air Corps demonstration when we ran into the association's president, Major E. E. Lewis, carrying a cane and limping considerably. So far as we are able to ascertain this is the only case on record when the bite of a badger is known to have had any lasting effect. It is reported that Doc Hickson is considerably worried over Major Lewis' condition.

We were going by the north stand of the stadium the other day and noticed that the ivy is growing over the insignia and will have to be cut soon. We noticed there were 19 regimental insignia and we wondered just how many of these we could identify with its regiment. After considerable pondering we were able to name only six of the regiments and we are now wondering whether we are particularly dumb or whether we are merely average in our ignorance. Try naming the regiments as you pass the stadium the next time and drop us a line and let us know how many insignias you were able to identify. A suitable prize will be given to the person naming the most.

Someone told us the other day that Tom Knight had become somewhat of a lobbyist. We rather doubted this statement but nevertheless decided to put it to a test. So we stopped Tom in front of the post office and started conversing on Tom's favorite subject (the McSwain or McSweeney bill) when Joe Collins drove by and yelled, "Two to one you are talking about the promotion bill" and drove on. Now what we want to know is, does this prove our point or not.

PROPER INFLATION IS POINT TO REMEMBER

Firestone Dealer Tells How To Get More Mileage Out of Your Tires

"Tire mileage, life and service depend on several factors, according to the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

"These factors include the tire, driver, car, roads, and last but not least, on using tires large enough for the heaviest load placed on them at any time and keeping them inflated to the correct pressure.

"Nearly every day some one will say to us, 'Why do some people get 25,000 miles from their tires when the best I ever get is around 10,000 miles? How do you account for that?'

"The trouble is not with the tires, but with the way they are overloaded or underinflated. Nothing—man, beast or mechanical device—can stand up under great abuse. The remedy is to provide tires large enough for the maximum load that may be placed on them and to keep them properly inflated.

"Reasonable care and regular inspection of tires for minor injuries and checking of the air pressure will enable the motorist to get the most in mileage and useful service."

FORMER BENNING OFFICER MAKES RECORD AT POLO

Press dispatches from San Antonio and Houston, Texas, indicate that Captain Harold K. Coulter, who captained the Infantry School student team in the year 1925-26, is playing great polo in the southwestern section. Rated as one of the best players in the army, indications are that Captain Coulter may get a chance at the army squad next year.

INFANTRY SCHOOL POLOISTS WIN OVER ATLANTA TEAMS

The Infantry School Bluejays and Meadowlarks proved to be too fast for the Fort McPherson and Governor's Horse Guards malletmen, who visited here last week-end for a series of games. Last Friday, the Bluejays took the McPherson players into camp by the score of 14 to 0. The Governor's Guards lost to the Meadowlarks by the score of 6 to 2.

Sunday's games likewise were one-sided affairs, the Bluejays winning over the Horse Guards, score 13 to 2. The second game of the day was a victory for the Meadowlarks, winning from Fort McPherson by the score of 9 to 0.

The lineup for the Bluejays in both games: Major Lyman, 1; Capt. Boyers, 2; Capt. Scott, 3; Lieut. Jacobs, 4.

Lineup for Meadowlarks: Lt. Grubbs, 1; Lieut. Guernsey, 2; Capt. Burress, 3; Capt. Whisner, 4.

THE "B" COMPANY BUGLE

Days shamble by like steers down a long dusty trail to be lost in the mirage of past events. But the last of the thundering verbal herd has been thrown, notices fo rthe final rodeo are posted. May 29th brings the great sheepskin round-up. The approved solution wranglers, briefly silhouetted against the skyline, will then lope off to a fadeout. And the Company Officers' class of 1927-28 will be as extinct as the dodo, the saber toothed tiger and the wild Iberian elk.

When in some far off clime we laboriously count our share of the plunder, "Poles, ridge, tent, wall, small"; or consider the sad case of Private Lucius McGlook, "Who did feloniously take, steal, and carry away one well, ink, value of about $0.00003"; we shall sign and yearn for the good old days beside the bounding Upatoi.

Since the Bugle's last blast we note; the Comical Wellfare's annual little jest of tear gas; "Intee-grahl pahts"; Duncan Frissell's overlay system; that group game, mass dance, or what have you, conducted on a windy afternoon from four to five from the Dental Infirmary to Block 21 for the mystification of the air corps and anyone else who happened to see it; two pursuit pilots who utterly ruined their digestions and our necks by flying upside down—loops, wing-overs, barrel rolls, tail spins; Major Stayer's cross word puzzle and intelligence test.

The war had almost ceased when Major Huebner fired the parting shot about everyone getting an "S" in Supply, since we marked our own papers. And just before the Armistice celebration Major Brett's amphibious and terrible tanks crossed the broad river to destroy Pittsburgh like Sodom and Gomorrah, Ninevah and Tyre.

Braving the tenets of tradition the National Guard and Reserve Officers' class threw an excellent party on Saturday, the Night of the Bath. We do not need to red apple that party, it spoke for itself, especially when the high flying members started tackling the toy balloons on the ceiling. It was a joyous occasion. Among those shaking a nasty spur chain were Brothers Cushman, Flegel, Cameron, Donnegan, Killpack, Diller, Cavender and others. But lest this column degenerate into an attempt to ape the social news, we hasten to inquire how come that large water cooler got busted. Someone must have had a terrible thirst! —G. A. H.

A CORRECTION

In the issue of May 11, on page eight, the News ran an ad for the Federal Clothing Stores. We regret very much to say that a typographical error appeared in this ad. The ad read Ladies' Silk Hose Full fashion $2.00 values special $1.50, which should have read Ladies' Silk Hose Full fashion $2.00 values special $1.00.

The Infantry School News appreciates the fact that our advertising patrons like to have their ad appear as near perfect as possible. Mr. Chapman, the manager at the Federal Clothing Stores in Columbus, is a very loyal friend of the army personnel. He has handled army trade for a number of years, at posts other than at Fort Benning. We take great pleasure in making this correction for Mr. Chapman.

QUARTERMASTER DEFEAT EAST HIGHLAND BUCANEERS

(By Sgt. Reynolds)

Corporal William Phipps, moundsman deluxe, of the Quartermaster Detachment baseball team, held the East Highland team of Columbus in the hollow of his hand last Sunday afternoon for seven innings and the Q. Emers won an easv decision over the Bucs. Phipps struck out fourteen men in seven frames and held the opposition to one solitary bingle for the first six of them. He easea up in the seventh and gave up four hits, which netted, however, only one run. Johnson went in in the eighth and finished the game.

The Q. M. C. nine has been working hard for the past several weeks under the capable tutelage of Sergeant Warren and of a consequence have a strong team that will win many more games ere the closing of the season.

In Sunday's game Worley led the attack with a homer, a triple and a single out of five attempts at the plate. McGinnis made a high leaping stab of a ball at one time during the game that certainly had homer written all over it had he failed in his efforts. The whole Quartermaster team played jam-up ball and although the East Highland team struggled manfully and played a good game, they were helpless before the onslaught of the Key, wheel and saber boys. The game was played on the Industrial Hi grounds.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.

CORPORAL E. COSTELLO

Just a little over four years ago after having talked to a recruiting Sergeant, Corporal Ernest Costello decided to give up a career as a railroader and become a member of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, choosing the Twenty-ninth Infantry over all of the various branches of service.

Later in the year when the Intra-Mural football season opened, Costello was among those trying for a berth, which he landed. Since then he has played every year on the Battalion team holding down the position of tackle. Because of his never-die spirit and ability as a player he has been instrumental in h lping his team be in the final fight for the championship. In 1926 he was a member of the Blue Tide and was one of the reasons for his company winning the Regimental football chaimponship last fall. Costello also holds the regimental record for the shot put.

In addition to being an athlete of ability, Costello is an excellent soldier. He is held in highest esteem by both the officers and men of his organization.

Costello's home is Knoxville, Tenn.

MAY McAVOY SCORES IN "THE LITTLE SNOB"

"The Little Snob," a Warner Bros. production starring May McAvoy, is this week's attraction at the Royal Theatre Sunday. The delightful comedy-drama was adapted by Robert Lord from an E. T. Lowe, Jr., story. John Adolfi is responsible for the capable direction and the cast includes Alec Frances, Robert Frazer, Virginia Lee Corbin, John Miljan and Frances Lee.

"The Little Snob" has to do with the stirring adventures of one Maizie Banks, whose father is proprietor of a Coney Island concession. Maizie is quite happy helping to draw the crowds, dressed gaily as a jockey, for across the board-walk is Jim, husky barker for a side-show, and the two are sweethearts. All goes well until her father carries out his determination of sending her to a fashionable boarding school.

There she meets many jazzy rich girls and a fortune-hunter named Walt Keen. Gradually Maizie becomes scornful of her plain folks, and determines to keep her from her new friends the truth of her humble origin. Jim's fists help to straighten out the tangle and then—But you'll want to see it. It is very much worth while.

A NEW FEATURE

One of the latest features of the News is the cartoons which will appear weekly on the editorial page. At first it was thought the back page might be a good place for this new feature, but it is believed that the center of the paper would be the better. However, the readers might have different ideas. We would appreciate any suggestions.

A man and his spouse were motoring through the wonders of nature's countryside in their 1908 Saxon. "Darling," he said, "I have taken you over all the rough places in life as a good husband should, haven't I?"

"Yes, dear," she replied, "I doubt if you've missed very many of them."

"See that girl over there?"

"Yep."

"Her name is Via. She jilted me for another guy, so I went to her wedding and threw rice and old shoes at her."

"Did you hit her?"

"No, Viaduct."

Professor (incredulous): You mean to say that you wrote this narrative?

Stude: Tha's my story, and I'm going to stick by it.

ROYAL THEATER—A COLUMBUS THEATER, OWNED AND OPERATED BY COLUMBUS PEOPLE

The Royal Theater on Talbotton avenue was built by a Columbus man, Mr. R. E. Martin, who owns and operates a chain of theaters in Columbus and Opelika, Ala.

The Royal Theater policy is the best of vaudeville acts from the larger cities and a good picture program at a reasonable admission. The Royal has a seating capacity of 2,800 seats, 1,800 cushion chairs in orchestra, a large and modern fireproof theater. The stage is modern and fully equipped and can play any show on the road. There is a large parking space on Theater property, well lighted, where your car can be taken care of.

The house opens at 3 p. m. and closes at 11 p. m. The first vaudeville is at 4:45 and next 7:15; third at 9:15, with the pictures between. The admission is children at all times 10c; balcony 15, and orchestra 25c for matinee. Night prices are, balcony 20c; orchestra 35c. Drive out for an evening of entertainment.

The bill for the first half of the coming week is Glenn and Hart Singing, Talking and Musical. The other act, "Marcou," a shadow act, that will please you. Also a wonderful picture program. The place, Royal Theater, Talbotton Ave.

Tune in on radio station W. R. B. L. The Royal theater station at the theater for our program from pit and stage.

CARD OF THANKS

Supplies Branch

Our illustrious twins and their mother went home from the hospital last week, and Mr. Woolbright is "wearing the smile that won't come off."

We wonder what is the matter over at the Q. M. Detachment mess hall? Last week our memorandum receipt clerk, Pvt. French, was "pearl diving" and returned with a finer or so most chopped off, and this morning our checker, Pvt. Chandler, came in with his hands all skinned up! It looks suspicious, doesn't it?

Sergeant Kretchmer came in very belligerent this morning—(as usual)—and tried his best to smash our perfectly good waste basket. Question—How to make him a peaceful, law-abiding sergeant! Motions are now in order.

We have a beautiful red flower basket from Oklahoma containing china berry flowers and other species from the Georgia woods on our desk. Although they come from widely separated areas, the combination is quite attractive.

Speaking of flowers, the fence around the baseball field is going to be beautiful in a few more days. To our mind, roses are the most beautiful of flowers, especially red ones. Have you noticed how lovely Colonel Warfield's yard is? He has roses rambling over a trellis, sweet peas trained up on poles, and roses of the hot-house type blooming in beds. It is a beautiful yard, and shows that much care has been used to make it so.

Wanted—A good weather forecaster —or better still—a weather fixer!—

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE OFFICERS CLASS

A Few Observations from the Tented Area of Block 21

To Captain Olmstead we extend our thanks this week for his kindness in arranging for the class to run the grenade course for record. Most of us managed to make the required score. The only thing remaining is to persuade the War Department to promulgate the approved course into a new T. R. so we can add a shiny new badge to the left coat pocket.

Speaking of badges reminds us that we saw Sam Lucy bearing up under a blanket of medals before the camera the other day. Made us think of the days when we were little boys looking with reverent awe at the pistol toting, sharpshooting man at the circus. Not that Sam belongs in a circus—he's too retiring for that. But a red apple would certainly look well against that black velvet background.

The Riflemen have followed their classmates' example and instituted the order of the Hand-painted Finger Bowl. Feimer, Del Toro, and Sentell were the first to receive the new decoration. After Wednesday night's soiree we unqualifiedly endorse Jackosky for both the Red Apple and the Finger Bowl.

The badger fight, although a barbarian affair and contrary to the laws of the humane society, proved a great success. We take pride in publishing herewith the name of the year's most illustrious handler of the badger, Captain Crossett.

When interviewed he modestly disclaimed any undue credit with the observation that any mere infant could have handled the badger with greater ease and perhaps more eclat than himself. To the Sojourners we extend our appreciation of a highly entertaining evening.

Captain Venable receives our hearty congratulations on his recovery and release from the hospital.

One more issue of the News and then our "Swan Song." The occasional writing of this column has been a lot of fun although not always easy or convenient. The appreciation of our readers has made the job worth while and we are sorry that the material has not been more interesting. We count ourselves fortunate in having the chance to "sound off" however, and thank our genial editor for his many kindnesses in handling our publicity.

I. S. D. NOTES

Pvt. Cooper of Company "G," 29th Infantry, is now a member of the I. S. D. doing duty in the kitchen as chef. Welcome to the I. S. D. Maybe we can find out for a certainty if Joe Mignolia really buys his shoe leather from the kitchen on Batter Cake mornings.

This must have been made for Jack Ryan—"Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

Detectives Barnes is back after having found himself wandering around somewhere on the western part of North America.

The detachment will give a smoker some time this month or the early part of next month. A committee is being selected and definite arrangements will be announced later.

Pvt. Harry Fulford has returned from a furlough spent in Tennessee. Harry says he almost got married, but didn't—Well an almost in some things proves very interesting in some instances.

The area was inspected during the past week by Major Wilson of the Chief of Infantry's office.

And furthermore soldier you don't wear collar ornaments anymore.

"I hear Peg is going to marry a silk merchant. Pretty swell!"

"Not so swell! He goes from house to house sellinig it on spools."

83RD FA

Battery "C"

We wish to congratulate Sergeant Grider for the fine looking flower gardens located in the battery area.

The Kangaroo Court session has closed for the current term of court, with Judge Dodson retiring from the bench.

Sergeant Grider's mess funds are running low, due, it is said, that during the past month Private Gilmore ate a crate of eggs.

That long, tall, hard-boiled soldier known as Sergeant King has suddenly decided that "this war" and "those horses" are too much for him. He has grown soft-hearted (you couldn't make those recruits believe that) and is now applying for discharge by purchase. We wish you luck, Sergeant, but remember it will take a lot of money for clothes on the outside—its a long way from shoe leather to ivory.

Captain Busch sent out our gardner "Cueball Jones" to transplant tomato plants and he set out wild Honey Suckles.

Private Chavis has been appointed Corporal. Chavis is a good man and we are glad of his promotion.

THE HISTORY OF FORT BENNING

Reservation at one time Happy Hunting Grounds of the Indians; other Interesting Data Revealed

(By Edgar Erskine Hume, Major Medical Corps)

On July 7, 1917, Congress, as a war measure, approved an act authorizing the condemnation of lands needed for military purpose. On October 24, 1918 the Secretary of War, having certified that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany and the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, authorized the purchase of Georgia lands for military use. On October 25, 1918, the Attorney General of the United States authorized the District Attorney to proceed to condemn lands for military use in the vicinity of Columbus, Georgia.

Even before the actual purchase of the lands for the present Fort Benning there was a temporary camp, known as Camp Benning, situated on the Macon Road, east of Columbus. The post had its beginning on October 7, 1918, on which date fifty-seven officers and three hundred seventy-four men arrived fro mFort Sill, Oklahoma, and on October 26, 1918, eighty-five officers and six hundred seventy-seven enlisted men arrived from Camp Perry, Ohio. The temporary site was used for about nine months.

On March 8, 1919 the Assistant Secretary of War directed that construction for about five thousand officers and enlisted men be undertaken, the cost of the land to be about $2,600,000 and the cost of construction to be about $6,600,000. The total cost not to exceed $9,200,000. On June 27, 1919 all construction and land purchase was ordered stopped.

On July 17, 1919 the purchased lands were occupied and the post, known as Camp Benning, began its existence. The school was moved to Camp Benning from Fort Sill, Oklahoma and was at that time known as the Infantry School of Arms. In September, 1919 the name was changed to the Infantry School.

By General Orders No. 1, War Department, January 9, 1922, the camp was made a permanent military post under the provisions of par. 201, AR, 1913. Thenceforth it has been known as Fort Benning.

Fort Benning was named in honor of Brigadier General Henry Lewis Benning, (1814-1875) Confederate States Army, a native of Columbus and a distinguished Infantry Officer of the Army of Northern Virginia.

While the post itself is new and not even the experience of usual war cantonment or temporary camp, the ground which it occupies has been the scene of many military operations. The town of Columbus also has had an interesting history as the following will show.

Prior to the coming of the white man, the area now including Fort Benning was occupied by the Creek Indians. The tribes living on the Georgia side of the Chattahoochee River were known as the "Upper Creeks" to distinguish them from the "Lower Creeks" who occupied the Alabama side. James Oglethorpe, the Founder of Georgia, arrived in the colony in 1733 with his settlers composed chiefly of English debtors who had been released from debtors' prisons to populate the new colonv. In the same year a group of natives of Salzburg, Austria, on account of religious persecutions, joined Oglethorpe's colony. In 1736 a body of Scottish Highlanders came to live in Georgia. These three classes of immigrants laid the foundations of the colony which included the present states of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. Comparatively few of the colonists pushed as far west as the present Fort Benning, for Western Georgia, covered largely by "pine barrens" was not even surveyed by the State until after 1818. The hostility of the Creek Indians left this territory almost unexplored.

At the outset of the Spanish War of 1739-42, fought between the British Colonists of Georgia and the Spanish Colonists to win over the Creeks to their side might be successful. To prevent this, Oglethorpe came to the Indian village of Coweta Town. This site of the present little town of Fort Mitchell, on the west side of the Chattahoochee River opposite Fort Benning, and held a long meeting with the chiefs of the Creek nation. So successful was he that the Creeks joined his cause and did much to bring about his defeat of the Spaniards. It is not without interest to read that Oglethorpe on his return from this meeting was prostrated by fever "brought on by fatigue and exposure." From the description it would seem highly probable that this fever was malaria, still the cause of considerable morbidity in this locality. Upon a part of the present Fort Benning stood the Indian village of Kashita or Peace Town. From this town the modern town of Cusseta takes its name. The middle Chattahoochee Valley, including modern Fort Benning contains a number of burial mounds of the Indian peoples who once dwelt here.

During the American Revolution, Georgia was divided between the Tories and Independence party to a greater extent than any of the other twelve colonies. Families were divided and feeling was exceedingly bitter. The battles of that war were fought in the eastern section of the state and but little effect was felt in the Chattahoochee Valley, beyond the excitement that the war caused among the Indians, who as usual, were won over to the British side. Similarly the war of 1812 did not disturb western Georgia. An interesting incident connected with the British policy of using the Indians as allies against the colonists may be mentioned. In 1778 or 1779 Colonel John Tate of the regular British Army, was serving as military agent in the Creek Nation with headquarters at E-con-cha-ti, the present site of Montgomery, Alabama. His duties were to enlist the Indians in the British cause. In that year while returning from a visit to Savannah he died of "cramp colic" in the camp on what was later known as Woolfolk's Hill, on the east bank of the Chattahoochee River. Here he was buried by the Indians of Kashita (Cusseta) Town Woolfolk's Hill is that part of the post where the quarters of the Commandant of the Infantry School are located. Colonel Tate's grave has not been located exactly but it is known to be in the yard of the Commandants quarters. Captain Woolfolk, for whom Woolfolk's Hill was named, was an early settler and later a General Officer of the Georgia Militia of the Revolution. Colonel Tate married the daughter of a French officer and a princess of the Creek nation and his descendants became prominent in Alabama.

Along the Federal road built in 1811 which ran east and west through the present Fort Benning, General the Marquis de LaFayette passed in 1825 during his tour of the United States as the guest of the nation. A monument placed on the post by the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution commemorates this event.

From the period of the foundation of the colony, the Indians had been pushed back gradually until in 1822 they held only a strip of territory along the western border of the state. The Cherokees held the north and the Creeks the south so that the Fort Benning of today was as already said within Creek territory. The Creeks were the most numerous, warlike, and powerful of all the Southern Indian nations. Their territory extended from the Flint to the Chattahoochee. They resolved to stop the encroachment of the white man by refusing to sell any more land to them, and even passed a law punishing such action by death. This refusal of the Creeks to part with their land caused great unrest in Georgia for the state had ceeded to the United States the territory embracing the present states of Alabama and Mississippi on condition that the lands in Georgia of the remaining Indians be purchased from their owners and turned over to the state for white settlers. After prolonged negotiations between the representatives of the Federal Government, the State of Georgia and the Creek Nation, all was paceably settled in 1827, and the Creeks sold their lands and removed to lands provided for them west of the Mississippi. Thus for a century there have been no Indian resident on the site of Fort Benning.

While the agreement of the Creeks to remove to the lands west of the Mississippi, later known as Indian territory, was carrie dout by the Georgia Creeks, those of Alabama, the majority of whom lived in the Chattahoochee Valley, refused to leave their lands. The Creek War of 1836 was the outcome of this, for Georgia forbade the

Major-General Robert H. Allen

CHIEF OF INFANTRY MAKES VISIT TO INFANTRY SCHOOL

General Allen Arrived Here Monday Morning; Witnessing Maneuvers and Will Make Principal Address at Graduation Exercises

Major-General Robert H .Allen, Chief of Infantry, arrived at Fort Benning last Monday morning. He was met in the city by General E. T. Collins, the Commandant. Upon reaching the Upatoi, a salute to General Allen was fired by Battery A, 83rd F. A. Battalion, and he was then escorted to headquarters, the Infantry School, by Company G, 24th Infantry, commanded by Capt. A. B. Helsley.

General Allen is the guest of Col. G. C. Marshall during his visit at the Infantry School. According to the itineary, General Allen will leave here on the afternoon of May 29 for Fort Oglethorpe, where he will inspect a battalion of the 22nd Infantry stationed there. From there he will return to Washington.

The Chief of Infantry left Washington on May 14, and has visited the infantry units of the Fourth Corps at Fort McPherson, Fort Screven, and Fort Moultrie. Every infantry organization in the Fourth Corps will be inspected by him during his trip, with the exception of the units stationed at Camp McClellan, Ala.

During the stay of General Allen at Fort Benning, he has observed the student officers at the maneuver camps at Harmony Church and Sulphur Springs, on several occasions. It is quite probable that the Infantry units at the Infantry School will be inspected before his departure from Fort Benning.

General Allen will make the principal address to the graduating class Tuesday, May 29.

WHO'S WHO!

CAPTAIN GEORGE L. KING

Infantry Officer Will Go to Leaven worth; Instructor at Infantry School Four Years

Way back in 1916, there was opened an officers training camp known as the "Plattsburg Camp." In that camp was a young man anxious to acquire a knowledge of things military. He graduated from the camp, and soon after, when war was declared with Germany, he was one of the first to be placed on active duty, accepting a first lieutenantancy in infantry and on active duty as early as May 4, 1917, less than one month after the declaration of war. He was none other than Captain George L. King, instructor, 4th Section, Infantry School.

Captain King is a graduate of the Manluis (N. Y.) Military Academy, 1907; studied engineering from 1907 to 1910 at Syracuse University. He accepted a position as junior civil engineer with the city of New York, which position he held for four years. In 1914, he was made editor and critic for Boosey and Company, with which he was occupied until 1917. Several times he was called to London to confer with officials of that company in regard to his work, in which he was highly successful.

With 42nd Division

Having accepted an appointment in the reserve corps, he was called to active duty with the first officers' training camp. After that camp, he was assigned to the 42nd Division (Rainbow) and placed on duty with the 165th Infantry. He saw action with that regiment, having been wounded in the Muese-Argonne offensive. After the armistice he was assigned to duty as Asst. G-4, First Replacement Depot, in France. Upon return to the United States, Capt. King was assigned to the 11th Infantry, where he was Plans and Training officer for several years, and in that capacity, had much to do with the successful march of the regiment from Camp Jackson, S. C., to Fort Benj. Harrison, Indiana, in 1921. He remained there until the fall of 1923, when he was sent to the Infantry School as a student of the Company Officers class, graduating in 1924. Upon graduation, he was assigned as an instructor in the Fourth Section, Infantry School. He has been on this duty since that time, and will enter the C. and G. S. School, Leavenworth, this year.

Active in Glee Club

The subject of this sketch has always been interested in music. While pursuing his engineer course at Syracuse he was a student in the music department there. So it was quite natural that after arriving at Fort Benning, he immediately became an active member of the Glee Club, and has continuously been a leading factor in activities of that organization. On Thanksgiving Day, 1923, there was a military mass at Fort Benning, held at the Catholic chapel. Captain King had complete charge of the program, and conducted it personally. He was soon made musical director of the Glee Club. As director of the club, Captain King has had charge of quite a number of laudible productions, among which are "The Belle of Barnstapoole," "El Bandido," "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance," "Sinbad the Sailor," and the annual Christmas carols and numerous recitals for local organizations. He directed "Lelawala" at the opening of the new stage of the Main Theater this year.

These musical treats have been in most cases, stupenduous undertakings, representing some of the most classical productions in the musical dramatic types.

Captain King composed the music for the Infantry and 29th Infantry songs. He is an honorary member of the demonstration regiment.

He has composed numerous marches and selections from time to time.

Advisor to Local Orchestra

The Main Theater orchestra at Fort Benning is considered one of the best in the army. Captain King has rendered valuable service in advisory capacity of the direction of this orchestra, which delights the theater goers of the Infantry School. He has assisted in the direction of the orchestra on numerous occasions when a big picture has been shown there, and on more than one occasion has composed the music for the pictures.

During the centennial celebration in Columbus in April of this year, Captain King was a member of the pageant committee, and gave much assistance in making this event a most successful one.

In all the big undertakings that Captain King has directed at Fort Benning, he has done the actual work, and standing in the background, he has taken little credit for his accomplishments. He is a deep student of military history; is a monographer of the first degree, capable of appreciating the humerous as well as the sedate.

ARTILLERY BATTALION TO CAMP AT HARMONY CHURCH

Caisson Riders Left Ft. Benning Early This Morning; Will Remain There Until June 1

The 83rd Field Artillery Battalion, commanded by Major L. E. Jones, left Fort Benning early this morning for Harmony Church. The outfit will establish a camp at that place and will remain there until June 1.

All units of the battalion with the exception of Battery "A," commanded by Capt. S. F. Clark, took the march, the latter unit remaining in the garrison to act as area guard.

During the encampment of the battalion at Harmony Church, communication service with headquarters, the Inf. School, will be maintained at all times. Proper instructions have been issued by the battalion relative to the distribution of mail, messages, etc. The supply officer has charge of the procurement of supplies, rations, forage, etc., during the encampment.

A list of calls has been published which will be in effect during the camp. Assembly at reveille will be at 5:15; assembly for first drill, 7 A. M.. Retreat will be sounded at 5 P. M. and taps at 9:30 P. M.

The units of the battalion and the commanding officers are Hq. and Combat Train, Capt. C. A. Wickliff; Battery B, Capt. G. P. Winton; Battery C, Capt. Everett Busch.

AT THE MOVIES

MAY 25 to JUNE 1, INCL.

FRIDAY, MAY 25

"THE WIZARD," a mystery play, starring Edmund Lowe. It possesses comedy, thrills and suspense in Poe-like succession. The story has to do with the sudden disappearance of persons who have been the recipients of mysterious threats. People of wealth and intelligence mingle with criminals in drawing rooms, courts and underground passage ways. This is a typical Lon Chaney type of play with hovering shadows, menancing prowlers and strange incidents—not good for insomnia.

"Rats in His Garrett." Fables.

Pathe News No. 41.

SATURDAY, MAY 26

"THE SUNSET LEGION," starring Fred Thompson in a snappy western done with some new twists. It is the story of a frontier town which has been victimized by many holdups, especially in the neighboring gold mines. The citizens hold a mass meeting, during this session a "whittling cowboy" appears. Meanwhile bandits and citizens alike became aware of a mysterious stranger who always rides a black horse and is alike, black masked. A rapid succession of thrilling events ensue in which Fred Thompson and his horse, Silver King, prominently participate. A logical well balanced plot follows throughout the picture. It is softened by an appealing romance.

"Mickey's Battle." Mickey McGuire.

SUNDAY, MAY 27

"THE CROWD," starring Eleanor Boardman with James Murray and Bert Roach in an intimate all American story of home life. It is based on the humilities of life and concerns the great American middle class which works for a living. It's simplicity of plot and trueness to life particularly recommends it. In short, the story follows the life of a young man from birth through his teens into his entry in the business world, his marriage, the trials and tribulations which confront him among the "Crowd," his downfall and great struggle to again rise. It is a gripping melodrama.

"Never the Dames Shall Meet." Charlie Chase.

Paramount News No. 84.

MONDAY, MAY 28

"GUN GOSPEL," featuring Ken Maynard in a western without an Indian in it. It deals with the passing of the western gunman and the establishment of law and order west of the Rockies. There is a romance which matches the beauties of the Golden West.

"40,000 Miles with Lindberg." Three reels, showing with much detail, Colonel Lindberg's experiences during his good will tour of Central and South America. This picture is particularly interesting, because of its educational value. In addition to showing the many interesting diplomatic receptions, it pictures much of the geographical features of the land he traveled over. Do not let any member of the family miss this picture.

TUESDAY, MAY 29

"SECRET HOUR," starring Pola Negri with Jean Hersholt. The story has a background—the orange grove country of California. It concerns a romantic intrigue which has an unexpected climax. One man begins a courtship but his plans miscarry and another man falls unwittingly into the snare. The story is highly emotional.

"Dad's Choice." Horton Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 39

"MAD HOUR," taken from "The Man and The Moment," by Eleanor Glynn, starring Sally O'Neal with Alice White, Lowell Sherman and Larry Kent deals with the jazz-loving modern youth, his wild parties and the consequences which often must be paid. The story is unusual, in that it has a football game at the beginning rather than at the end and the football star is not the hero. The game is incidental to the theme of the story, which has as its locale a roadhouse. It is the mad hour when the moon comes over the tree tops, the night club orchestra plays its most intransing, dance and the lips say "I'll love you forever," while the heart says "Just for a day." This is an absorbinb drama.

Paramount News No. 85.

THURSDAY, MAY 31

"THE RUSH HOUR," starring Marie Prevost and Harrison Ford in a swift moving comedy drama vibrant with romance, humor and thrills. A young woman employed in a steamship ticket office has an ambition to visit Europe—

she becomes a stow-away and is discovered. Her fiancee learns of her escapade and rushes to Europe in pursuit. There is a plot to rob, difficulties over divided affections, an impending duel and the onslought by the Parisian police.

"Love's Last Laugh." Sennett Comedy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 1

"LET 'ER GO, GALLEGHER," with Junior Coghlan, Harrison Ford, Eleanor Fair and Ivan Lebedeff in a baffling murder mystery. Night life in the editorial rooms of a Metropolitan newspaper—an office boy to whom duty was paramount, a reporter who loved and was loved, a murderer brought to bay by a gritty resourceful lad. These are the elements of this tense melodrama. It will hold you spell bound.

"Christmas Cheer." Fables.

Pathe News No. 43.

"Why do you speak of your wife as your present wife?"

"Because her father gave her away."

Shake, I'm an artist, too.

Q. EMMERS DANCE A SUCCESS

The dance at the Service Club last Thursday night, sponsored by the Q. 'Emmers was considered one of the most successful dances given this season.

Dancing began promptly at 8:30 P. M. and was enjoyed by all members of the Q. M. and their guests. Music for the occasion was furnished by Scipio's Happy Six, a group of musicians who have always been popular wherever their services were rendered. However, last Thursday night they seemed to sense something out of the ordinary was being done on this occasion and as a result succeeded in rendering music that was above their custom.

During the intermission all present were served with ice cream, cakes and cookies, of which there was an abundance, while cold drinks were served during the entire evening.

Among the guests were Sgt. and Mrs. Smith, of Columbus, Sgt. Smith, until recently, was a member of the Q. M., he having been retired from active service from that organization.

To Sgt. Warren, chairman of the committee, and one of the most ardent workers for recreational facilities in his detachment, and Mrs. Brittian, hostess, at the Service Club, is the greater portion of the responsibility for the success of the dance due. Other members of the different committees who aided materially in making the dance a success are: Sgt. A. J. Benton, floor manager; Sgts. Miller, Cross and Reynolds, of the refreshment committee.

"I had a blind date last night."

"Yeah?"

"I met my bootlegger in the city."

'Tis hard to part with those we love
When our hearts are full of hope;
But 'tis harder still to find a towel
When our eyes are full of soap.

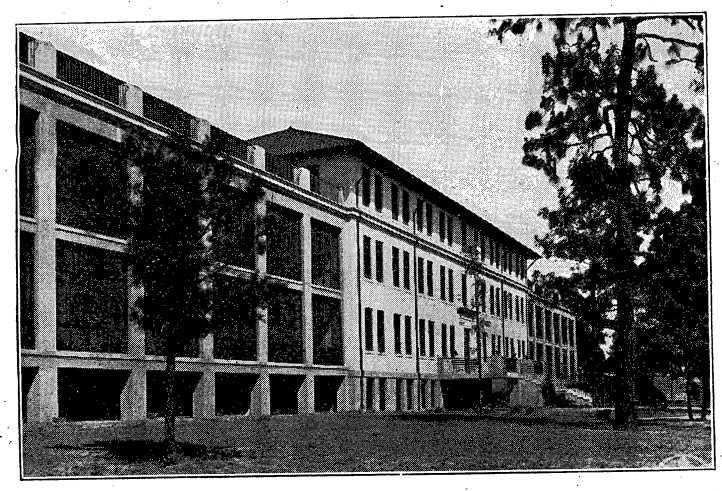
THE FORT BENNING HOSPITAL



Local Hospital Modern in Every Way; Compared to General Hospital

Fort Benning has a very low sickness rate, but those who require medical or surgical care receive it in a thoroughly modern hospital, equipped with the latest appliances for treatment. The Fort Benning Station Hospital, except for size, is, in fact, in every way the equivalent to a general hospital. Located on Richie Hill about a mile and a half from the center of the post proper, and one of the highest points on the reservation, its red tile roof is a familiar landmark. The building is constructed of reinforced tile and consists of three floors of wards together with the necessary operating rooms, X-ray department, dental clinic, eye, ear, nose, throat clinic, etc. From its wide porches which on each floor run across the entire building, and from its roof garden, the convalescent may enjoy a beautiful view across the Chattahoochee river to the blue hills of Alabama. Adjoining the hospital proper is the laboratory building, second in completeness to none in the service, being indeed far better equipped than the average Corps Area laboratory.

The basement contains the attending surgeon's office, the eye, ear, nose, throat clinic, the X-ray department, the pharmacy and the storerooms. The first floor contains two large medical wards, the dental clinic, the library, and the administrative and record offices. The second floor has a large medical and a large surgical ward and the offices of the chiefs of the medical and of the surgical service. The third floor cntains the wards for women and children and the operating rooms.

The hospital has one drawback. It is too small. Complete and satisfactory as far as it goes, there is a great demand for more bed space. This shortage makes it necessary to continue the use of parts of the old hospital situated near the Academic Area. But construction is under way and when completed it will add two pavilions to the hospital and bring up the bed space to about two hundred, thereby affording space for all patients.

When the present construction at the hospital is completed, all the medical activities of the post will be centered there, with the exception of the Out-Patient Department, two wards, and the Medical Inspector's office. A central dispensary building is contemplated in addition to the construction now going on. This building would contain those activities which should be near the center of the post. Probably the Out-Patient Department, the dental clinic, the eye, ear, nose, throat clinic and the Medical Inspector's office would be in this dispensary building.

The completion of the new pavilions will give the much needed space for the care of women and children. Though the entire third floor is devoted to their care, it is considered not quite large enough at the present time. The Obstetrical service alone has required the available space in rooms available. Last year there were 110 babies born at the Hospital, an average of two per week.

As in other modern hospitals the professional work is divided in general into the medical, surgical, dental and laboratory services. Not only is there an attending surgeon on duty at all hours on the post, an attending surgeon's office is maintained in the Doctor's Building in Columbus for the convenience of the personnel living in the city.

Preventive medicine is not overlooked at Fort Benning. The ounce of prevention is indeed worth the pound of cure, and the Medical Department of the Army considers the prevention of disease its most important duty. The Medical Inspector corresponds to the Health Officer of a city. Fort Benning, for all that it is located in a sub-tropical zone, has been kept remarkably free from disease. The sickness rates are far lower than those of the neighboring civil communities, those of the Fourth Corps Area and those of the United States Army as a whole.

The mortality rate at Fort Benning is also low and it is worth noting in passing that the number of deaths in the hospital was less last year than those from automobile accidents on the post.

The Medical personnel at Fort Benning consists of seventeen medical officers, four dental officers, three medical administrative officers, seventeen members of the Army Nurse Corps, besides two veterinary officers, among whose duties is the inspection of meats and other foods of animal origin. The number of enlisted men on duty with the Medical Department is one hundred sixty-nine.

This country is not going to ruin.
It's going to the movies.

CAPTAIN TUTTLE NEW ATHLETIC OFFICER

According to recent War Dept. orders, Captain William B. Tuttle has been transferred from the 24th Infantry to headquarters, Inf. School, and appointed Pres. of the Infantry School Athletic Association. Capt. Tuttle recently arrived at Fort Benning from Tientsin, China, where he had been on duty with the 15th Infantry for the past year. Capt. Tuttle has already taken charge of the athletic affairs of the Infantry School and is now working on the contemplated summer baseball schedule.

COMPANY "B" ALSO QUALIFIED

In last week's issue, we printed a story about Sgt. "Warset" Simpson. In that story appeared a statement to the effect that Co. G, 29th Inf. was the only company to qualify in courses A and X of the automatic rifle. We we informed that Co. B, of the demonstration regiment, also qualified. We're sorry.

CURB CHAFING IS HARD ON TIRES

When your tires grind against the curbing it wears away the sidewall. This permits moisture to enter and rot the carcass of the tire.

We will be glad to inspect your tires for cuts and bruises free. If repairs are needed the cost is small. Thousands of miles of useful service can often be restored to an injured tire if repaired in time.

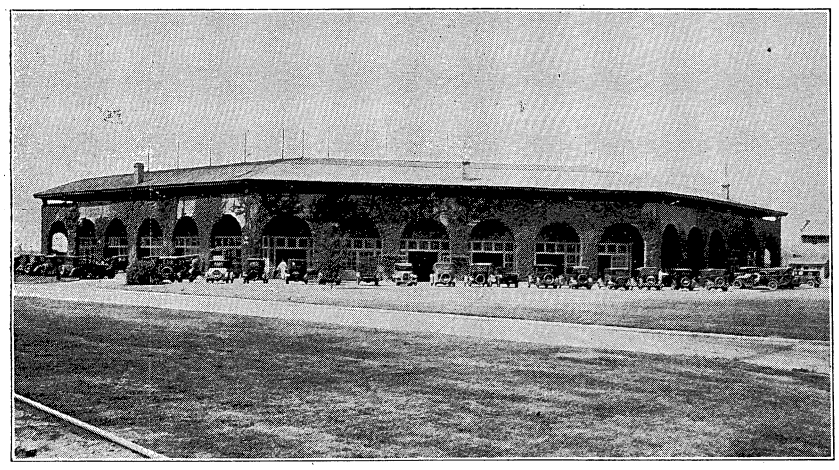
THE POST EXCHANGE AT FORT BENNING

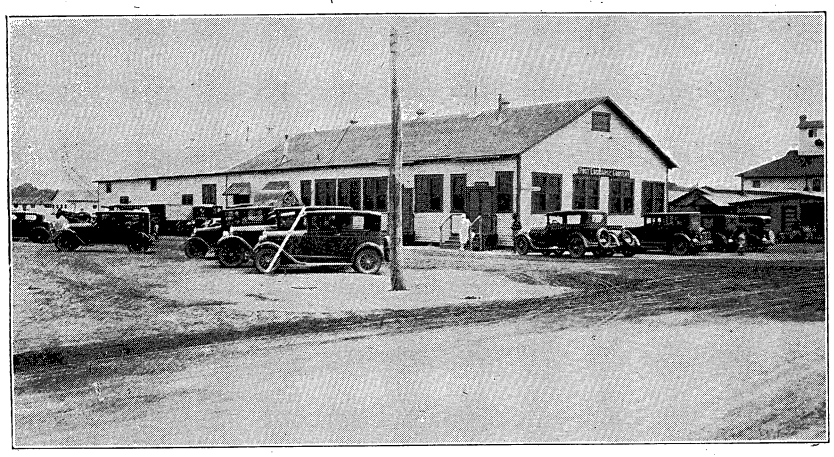
Infantry School Exchange Has Many Activities; one of the Largest in the Army

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning is one of the largest in the army. When officers receive their orders for a station, of which they know nothing, much apprehension is felt over what conveniences will be found at their new home. Officers who will come to the Infantry School next year need have no fear for their wants will be well taken care of by the Post Exchange, of which Major Sam I. McCants, is in charge.

The Exchange is operated exclusively for the members of the service people at the Infantry School. Their needs are supplied with at least nine departments operated by the Exchange. The grocery store is one of the largest in the army, which is operated by any Post Exchange. An interesting feature of this department is that vegetables sold over its counter are grown in the 125-acre Post Exchange garden. To consider just one item, 3,000 quarts of strawberries were gathered from this garden and sold to the residents of Fort Benning during the present season.



The Post Exchange Garage



The Post Exchange Grocery Store

The grocery store is arranged so that one may help himself to anything desired. Upon entering the store, a meat ticket is procured, which bears a number. The customer then waits upon himself until his number is called at which time he is waited upon at the meat counter. In other words, no time is wasted in giving immediate service to the customer immediately upon entering the store. This store is modern, being equipped with Frigidaire, and other electrical appliances which make it an up-to-date establishment in every way.

Besides the grocery store, there is the automobile department, which is also a modern institution. Student officers, who drive to Fort Benning every school day of the year, may leave their car at the garage in the morning, and have the necessary repair work completed in time to drive their car home the same day. Service is the motto of this department. Mr. W. E. Austell is in charge of this department. A filling station, which is patronized by hundreds of Fort Benningites, is a most popular department of the Post Exchange. A tire repair shop is also operated in connection with the filling station.

The main branch, or department store of the Post Exchange, is located in the south stands of the Stadium, as are also the hat and shoe shop, tailor shop, and main offices of the Exchange. There are quite a number of employes of the main offices, and under the direction of Mr. A. J. Grimes, chief clerk, efficient service is rendered the patrons of the Exchange.

With the completion of the Stadium towers, the offices will be located in the south tower. In one of these towers it is contemplated the establishment of a night store which will operate from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Officers who will come to Fort Benning next year may look forward with much pleasure, to the service rendered by the Fort Benning Post Exchange.

The Girl: How come that fellow didn't return your hello?

The Other: Aw, he's a fraternity brother of mine, and never returns anything.

QUARTERMASTERS DEFEAT BUCCANEERS AGAIN

(By Sgt. Reynolds)

In a return engagement last Sunday afternoon on South Gowdy Field, "Spider" Phipps outpitched Johnson of the Buccaneers and the Quartermasters annexed another victory by the score of 3-2. In addition to striking out eleven of the opposing batsmen, Phipps scored a run without the semblance of a hit, and fielded his position faultlessly. This makes a total of twenty-five strike-outs in sixteen innings for the assistant fire chief.

Johnson, of the "Bucs," worked hard but could hardly be expected to defeat a team who played ball like those Q. M. C. Bandits. Neither team was hitting to speak of for both pitchers were putting their all on the ball and both had wonderful control.

Johnny Hyland made his debut as a Quartermaster ball player and played second base a la Hornsby, handling five chances without a bobble, besides getting two of his team's five hits and working the pitcher for a walk on another trip to the plate.

For the Bucs credit should be given their catcher, Poole, for his stick work and unfailing cheerful chatter during the game.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Bucs	000 010 100	2	6	3
Q. M. C.	001 101 00x	3	5	2

Summary: Stolen bases: Jordan, Hyland (3), Armstrong, Phipps (2). Sacrifices: Briody, Worley. Base on balls: off Phipps, 1; off Johnson, 2. Hit by pitched ball, Farr. Struck out by Phipps 11; by Johnson, 3. Double plays: Satlof to Farr to Howell. Umpires: Maxey and Whitmore.

A LITTLE WORD FROM THE BENNINGITES IN CHINA

In reading an Infantry School News recently we saw a column headed Tactical Topics, and the initials of the writer, "E. F. H." Read the column and thoroughly enjoyed it. Wondered who "E. F. H." was and then discovered in "Jack" Nichols' "Saw Dust" column that it was none other than Major Edward F. Harding, late of the 15th Infantry and now at the Infantry School. Major Harding was noted, while in China, for his ability as a writer and also his theatrical performances. Regret we haven't "E. F. H." here to handle at least one column—gosh, how it would help. The News is to be congratulated on their staff of contributors, the various columns are always read and thoroughly enjoyed by the "Benningites" on duty in China—and there are lots of them. — From "Sentinel," 15th Inf., Tientsin.

A FAREWELL WORD

By this time next week the student officers of the Infantry School will be on their way to other stations and duties. We wish to express our appreciation of the loyal support and cooperation received from the student officers. The value of the Infantry School News, as a service publication, has been much enhanced by the splendid columns contributed by student officers. We have endeavored to make the student officers feel that this paper is their paper. We believe that we have been successful in that respect, due to a great extent to the loyal support given the NEWS by the students.

Since June of last year, the NEWS has grown from a four page publication with a circulation of not more than 250 subscribers, to a twelve page paper and a circulation near the 2,000 mark. We deeply appreciate the fact that without the loyal cooperation of the merchants of the city of Columbus, who have regularly patronized our advertising columns, this increase would have been impossible. We desire to thank all of the advertisers of the NEWS for their splendid cooperation. We have endeavored to give to the advertisers real service.

We extend to every student officer our best wishes for continued success in the new duties assigned him.

To our loyal advertisers, we wish to state that our policy of service will always be at your command.

THIS ISSUE

While this is the Commencement Number of the NEWS, there are some features of an issue of this kind, that are lacking in this special number. There is very little here about the student officers and enlisted men classes, which are generally the features of a special issue of this kind.

For the past several weeks, the pictures of the student officers classes have appeared in the NEWS. We are extremely sorry that all classes did not appear in the NEWS before the end of the year. In order to make the last issue of the school year, a number containing many facts about the Infantry School, especially for the benefit of those who will be here next year, it has been necessary to limit the space alloted to the student graduates.

Every officer ordered to the Infantry School for the year 1928-29, will receive a copy of this issue.

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

By the time this column reaches the outstretched hands of the eagerly waiting public, the last battle of the 1928 Spring Drive against the Reds will have been fought, the last of the two much cussed and discussed marked terrain exercises will be handed in (Aye, Ceaser, but not marked) and the triumphs and defeats of the school year will be forgotten in the bustle of preparation for graduation.

Reflecting upon the year which is about to end, it occurs to us that it might have been a great deal worse. For instance, we might have had two monographs apiece and three or four marked anti-aircraft drills. We can't quite agree with Marshal Vachon that we have enjoyed every minute of the school year but when we recall the hardships endurred by the ragged Continentals at Valley Forge, we realize, that after all, our trials and tribulations have been of a rather trifling character.

And there have been compensations aplenty for the minor inconveniences which have attended the process of acquiring a military education. Our pleasant association with members of our own class, the Company Officers Class, and the National Guard and Reserve Officers Class and even with the instructors—who are really not such a bad lot when your masterly solution is not too far in advance of the latest military thought—has widened our acquaintance with our own arm, brought us in close contact with representatives of the other branches and added to the ever increasing feeling of army solidarity, which is going to pay large dividends to the nation in the next war. For the knowledge of and regard for each other which has been developed in the course of the year will make for better cooperation when we lead our corps, divisions and brigades (nothing less) into battle; and as Major Lewis will certify, the Principle of Cooperation is by no means the least important of the nine principles of war which his section strove so valiantly to fix in our minds.

Professionally we have gained much. Even though some of us may, like little Johnny of Captain Walker's historic example, respectfully adhere to our original conception of what the tactical Parthenon, which the instructor drew, really looks like, we are all ready to concede that the school faculty is responsible for some impressive additions to our stock of professional equipment. It has labored patiently to fit us for the effetcive handling of every component of the U. S. Army from Colonel Peyton's "Private Bill Smith" to a reinforced brigade and we modestly admit that it has done an excellent job. In brief, it has been a year well worth while and, though we may be glad it is nearly over, we are doubly glad that we have had it.

Well-Known Scientist Honored

The Upatoi Geographic Society, at its annual meeting on May 23rd, voted to bestow the much coveted Explorers Medal upon our distinguished classmate, Professor McCunniff. Professor McCunniff's unique exploratory operation consisted in leaving the Brigade C. P. near Harmony Church on a reconnaisance, which had as its objective the location of his lunch which had been left in his car some 200 yards distant, and coming out on the Cusseta road two miles southeast of Sulphur Springs Road Junction. During the course of his wanderings the intrepid Professor passed through all of the hostile artillery positions, including those of adjoining groups, not to mention half a dozen hitherto uncharted bramble patches and swamps. Doc Cook, speaking of the exploit, says, "It exceeds even the reconnoitering achievements of Brigadier General '1st Brigade' in one of my famous troop leading problems.' "

Professor McCunniff was officially welcomed into the distinguished company of De Soto, Stanley and Peary by Captain Pritchett, who was awarded the Explorers Medal in 1923 for his discovery of the head waters of Randall creek.

Model Youth Makes Good

Tactical Topics is gratified to announce that, in the recently completed tryouts for the Infantry team, Centurion Claudius M. Easley, of the immortal Tenth Squad, led the list. Centurion Easley, who contributed to no small degree toward corraling the famous Dogs of War Trophy for the Infantry in last year's National Matches and who expects to repeat the performance, attributes his clear shooting eye and colossal nerve to the fact that he never dissipates, except now and then, has no bad habits, except those necessary to an officer and a gentleman, and that he goes to bed regularly at 8:30 P. M. except on hop nights.

Family News

Captain and Mrs. Heraty celebrated Mothers Day by making a reconnaisance of the Harmy Church-Sulphur Springs maneuver area.

Our popular aviator, Captain Cole, has recently became the fond father of a son. This gives the Immortal Tenth Squad two male descendents born during the school year—a record which we do not believe can be equalled by any other squad in Company "A."

Athletics

Our versatile genius Major Hobbs has recently acquired new laurels by fighting his way well toward the top of the list of Fort Benning tennis stars. Not until he came in contact with Colonel Johnson did our formidable contender for the crown lower his arms. That is about the best that an ambitious tennis player can hope to achieve at Fort Benning until Colonel Johnson changes stations.

Acknowledgement

The tribute to Tactical Topics contained in last week's column of our esteemed contemporary, Captain Nichols, boosts our morale tremendously for there have been times when we felt that our treatment of the wealth of material supplied by the doings and sayings of the Advanced Class and the School Faculty were wholly inadequate. The complimentary remarks are greatly appreciated and we have made Editor Stewart an offer for the purchase of all unsold copies of last week's edition of the school paper. Praise for our efforts from the now veteran conductor of "Sawdust" is worthy of preservation for posterity.

Correction

Someone in the office of the Infantry School News nearly ruined our best paragraph in last week's issue by typing "C" wherever we had written "U" in our profound discussion of the significance of our recent disagreemen with the school. The error may have resulted from the belief of the typist that neither General Bonaparte nor the author of Tactical Topics could possibly get a "U." Your logic, child, is faultless but your conclusion is wrong. It is not only possible but it has actually happened to both of us. —E. F. H.

SAW DUST
A. J. NICHOLS

We wish to take advantage of this opportunity to bid the classes of 1927-28 goodbye and to wish them continued success. In just four days, officers who have rubbed shoulders daily for nine months, will be scattered all over the United States. We remember our own reaction toward graduation. We could hardly wait until that day arrived and then we didn't experience the thrill from this event that we expected. We didn't get a change of station out of it, however, and this might account for part of this appointment.

A recent bulletin from De Pauw University contains a very illuminating article which very clearly illustrates that old saying, "You can fool some of the people all the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." This bulletin also brings out the advantages of having a good press agent. To those of us who have listened to him talk, we are almost convinced that Bertie wrote this himself. Now listen closely while we read from this bull etin. (The spacing there is the printer's and not our own):

"The Secretary of War has designated Captain Bernard B. MacMahon as Commandant of the ROTC Unit at De Pauw. His term is to begin at once and continue for four years. Captain MacMahon is a graduate of the University and one of the cleanest and whitest souls that ever walked across the campus of De Pauw. He is a christian gentleman of the loftiest character." To the uninformed we wish to add that De Pauw is a Methodist institution.

One of our closest friends is to leave the Garrison next Tuesday morning for his new station. Bob Bacon has shared all of our triumphs and not a few of our misfortunes and we shall sorely miss Bob when he departs the banks of the Upatoi. Leaving this station is not going to work a particular hardship on Bob however for he has been assigned to duty at the United States Military Academy at West Point, New, York on the Hudson. Bob is leaving at four o'clock in the morning so we are going to tell him goodbye now and wish Aggie DeCaster and himself a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Good luck, Bob, and here's hoping when we meet again it will be under a different star.

We tuned up the Spirit of the Upatoi and took a run out to the Maneuver camps last Tuesday and got to Sulphur Springs just in time to get drowned in the wind and rain storm that hit that place about the same time we did. We were in the headquarters tent and thought that tent would surely escape the wrath of the wind and rain but we soon found we were mistaken. Imagine our chagrin when looking out we saw the Medical officers tent and hospital up and doing nicely. After the storm the Spirit of the Upatoi was about the only car present that would run.

Construction is in evidence all over the post and things should look quite different next fall. Vast strides have been made in the improvement of the garrison since our arrival three years ago. We do not mean to infer any relation between these two statements.

FIRESTONE SETS QUALITY STANDARD

Only the tremendous resources of the company and its modern production facilities make it possible to sell the Firestone Tires at prices no higher than those charged for ordinary tires.

Firestone, with resources almost beyond imagination, today produces a line of tires to meet every purse. And, regardless of which Firestone-built tire is bought, the purchaser gets higher quality, better value and greater mileage for each dollar spent.

In the Far East, where Firestone maintains ten buying offices for securing crude rubber from the native planter on the most economical basis, facilities have been greatly increased. The development of the vast million acre Firestone plantations in Liberia, Africa, are being greatly speeded up toward the goal of complete independence from foreign rubber monopoly. Firestone has recently added to its great manufacturing plants the largest cord fabric plant in the world, where cotton—also purchased in the primary markets—is made into the highest quality cords for tires.

Firestone sells direct to regular, service-giving tire dealers through 149 factory branches and warehouses. The profits ordinarily going to distributors, brokers, jobbers and other middlemen are thus eliminated. Motorists thereby enjoy a quality of construction in tires that is without equal, and one which insures great extra mileage.—Firestone T. & R. Co.

Battery "A"

In the spring of 1927 we had finished our last problem of the season, and also the last problem while a motor drawn unit. Battery "A" had always been noted for it's efficiency in carrying out the desired problems for the Infantry School. We may also state that there has been no change in the efficiency, despite of the fact that there has been a transition from motors to horses, which called for a great quantity of work in order to whip green men and green horses into shape for efficient duty.

When the first horses arrived, we were very fortunate to get 1st Lieutenant Guernsey assigned to our battery. Lieutenant Guernsey is a man of noted horsemanship. Therefore he has been an asset to the battery in training us green men and the green horses. In July, 1927, we had assigned to us Captain Solomon F. Clark, another noted horseman, and just as good for Battery Commander. Again we felt fortunate. Captain Clark has commanded Battery "A" through the entire firing season without a blemish in the efficiency of the battery. We feel proud of the fact that Captain Clark is our Battery Commander.

Lieutenant Wray B. Avera, now in Walter Reed Hospital, prior to his illness, was very busy and took much interest in the training of the men for gunners. As a result of his superior knowledge of gunnery, and interest in the men, he qualified a number of dependable gunners.

We also feel proud of the fact that we have Lieutenants Hayes and Plummer assigned to the organization. They, too, have played a great part in the training of the men and horses.

The enlisted personnel of the battery has been very anxious to learn horsemanship and as a result we have men who can man both the horses and guns.

Battery "A" won first place in the Horse Show. That is enough to prove that we have good horses and good men, when we put out the best section of the battalion.

Battery "A" awoke Monday morning with the military spirit, everyone wanting to do his share and work in perfect harmony with his fellow comrade. This is one quality essential to being an "A" No. 1 soldier.

The personnel of Battery "A" (both officers and enlisted men) have taken great pride in remodeling tents and planting flowers in the battery area. Lieutenant Guernsey is in charge of this, and with the cooperation of several of the non-commissioned officers and privates interested in the upbuilding and general appearance of the battery area, he has made a very successful start. While Lieutenant Guernsey is carrying on the construction work, we may mention also that Lieutenant Hayes is striving and making every available effort to maintain and keep our hourses the best looking in the battalion. We know that Lieutenant Plummer as a reconnoissance officer is doing his utmost to make the Battery Communication Detail the best in the battalion, while Captain Clark is busily engaged in the general welfare of the battery as a whole.

Yes I say there has been some improvement. If slabs hold out Battery "A" will be some swell place to live in in the near future.

"Ra, Ra," Ye roughneck. Go ahead and shoot yourself or pass out any way you please. We won't have to spend that dime now. We have flowers of our own.

We will be glad to see the boys return from maneuvers, although we feel like they will make momentious records for both themselves and the battery as radio operators. One of them, Pvt. Walter F. Petry, was promoted to the grade of first class private as a result of his efficient work. Glad to see you get it Pete.

Privates Usher, Lane, Hamrick, Rogers, Evans and McFarland were appointed privates first class. Watch your step Usher.

Corporal J. B. has been talking of putting upholstering on his saddle.

Well we are still wondering why a certain sergeant can't get in for breakfast on Sunday. Where in the world could Pete have gone.

Heard at bed check: Say what are you doing in that man's bunk. Well sarge, I went to bed over there but them bed bugs moved me. What about it Boling?

The battery as a whole welcomes Sergeant Smith back as mess sergeant.

The battery is contemplating on having a good time organization day. The entire battalion will be consolidated for mess with Sergeant Smith in charge. Oh Boy, we will have a feast.

Corporal D. says there is no use in an enlisted man being ostrasized in Columbus. Atta boy proof don't let 'em kid you.

Tillie, the farmer, was surprised to know that the B. C. scope was not an instrument for terracing land.

Guess Todd will no longer be homesick now. He can see plenty of pine bark.

Homer will be glad to see a new recruit come in who wears his size shoe. Civilian shoe of course.

Private Rush got wet the other day watering the flowers while it was raining. Rush they issue raincoats.

Some of the boys say they don't love horses. Wish the horses could talk.

Battery "B"

(By Pfc. James R. Morphis)

Battery Tenchun! Stand t'orse. A year ago such a command would have gained no more response than the appeal of the paper boy to a soldier on his way to mess, for the Eighty-third Field Artillery Battalion was then motorized. Then came the order that silenced the whir of the motors that every artilleryman in the Eighty-third at that time loved and filled our area with horses. Horses that seemingly had never seen a man and men that had never seen a horse, but the spirit of Battery "B" still lived, and men, mechanically inclined but filled with the determination to make good under existing circumstances, exchanged their monkey wrenches for saddle blankets, surcingles and grooming kits, and for the Eighty-third Field Artillery Battalion, a new era had begun. Untrained men trained untrained horses, but the spirit of the battery prevailed and now the same command is given and the response is an instant klicking of heels and a champing of bits. Prepare to mount! Mount! A few moments pass —hoofbeats are heard, and Battery "B" is on the march. Men who once declared that they were not adaptable to horse drawn artillery and could never learn to like horses have turned to them as pals and now Sundays find the woods full of cowboy soldiers. The writer of this article has no special boquets to pin upon anyone but fully believes in "rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's" and, for that reason, just here a word of personal mention regarding the officers and men, who, by their soldierly conduct and strict adherence to duty have made a success of Battery "B" in the conversion from motors to horse drawn would be fitting and proper.

Battery "B," 83rd Field Artillery Battalion is commanded by Captain George P. Winton. We feel that we are fortunate in many things but most fortunate in that we have this officer as our Battery Commander. A real soldierly—broad-minded officer—an officer who realizes and appreciates the fact that he has real soldiers in his battery. Such an officer is Captain Winton. He expects a man to do his duty and knows when he has done so.

The fact that we have 1st Lieutenant Buckley as our stable officer is enough said in explanation of the neatness of our corrals and horses. This officer has been with the battery only about a month. He hails from—well, we are not able to state with any degree of certainty, but from the way he rides and imparts into the recruits the rudiments of equitation, it must have been out west.

Under the supervision of Lieutenant Foster, the battery executive officer, things have prgressed for beyond expectation. So far every man under his supervision and instruction has qualified as a field artillery gunner—something to be proud of by both the men and the officer in charge, and from the way the men qualified on the pistol range as experts and marksmen, you would think the whole darn battery came from Chicago.

Mess call goes and the men tumble out of their tents as from a fire in a great metropolis. Fried steak, smothered in onions, hot biscuits, and butter—such is the daily menu of Battery "B." To Lieutenant Baumann and Sergeant LaCroix the battery as a whole feels indebted for the efficient handling of the mess. Sergeant LaCroix has been in charge of the mess only a short time but from the way he feeds us good steak in abundance, we are convinced that he knows his cow and that ain't no bull.

To First Sergeant Joe Vogt we would give due credit for the prompt and efficient execution of the details and for the appearance and success of the battery in every endeavor in general. He is a veteran of over sixteen years faithful service. Sergeant Vogt is not only a man of soldierly ability but a booster for the battery and the army as well.

The writer of this article would not feel justified in closing without taking advantage of this opportunity of expressing the sincere appreciation of the battery as a whole for the loyal and faithful service of the stable sergeant of this organization. Dan Murphy, as the men affectionately call him, soon will have completed thirty years of honest and faithful service. He has served in various branches of the service both here in the states and abroad, and was at one time a member of a battery of artillery of which Major General (then Captain) Charles P. Summerall was in command. Sergeant Murphy is to be placed on the retired list sometime in June of this year, and while we hate to part with him and his loyal services, we feel very grateful for having had him as a member of this battery for the past three years, for it is the lives of such men that have kept to the high standard the morale of the army of the greatest republic the world has ever known.

To Sergeant Lein we acknowledge our indebtedness for the efficient handling of the battery supplies. We hear that he and the Chevrolet have taken the day with all the girls nearby, yet he has kept the supply room up-to-date. In fact we are always able to get from Abie's supply room most anything obtainable in such places from thumb tacks up always including a good old fashioned army growl.

It has been said that the non-commissioned officers are the backbone of an army. To this end we boast of the whole-hearted support of our section chiefs, Sergeants Bruno, Lester, Gardner, Simpson, Little and Guthrie, all of whom have over six years service in the battery. These men are always ready and willing to assist and encourage the privates of their respective sections in any undertaking. Too numerous are the other non-commissioned officers and privates who possibly deserve personal mention to go into the details of their loyal cooperation here as time and space do not permit. Suffice to say, however, that each man realizes an individual responsibility in promoting the progress and welfare of the battery and works to that end.

It has been said that there is in every man the power to do something worth while, and in view of this fact, let us all push forward with the determination to hold our place as the best battery in the best battalion of field artillery in the best army in the world.

Again the odor of fried steak smothered in onions is caught on the atmosphere which causes the writer to think that it won't be long now. The chow bell rings, and the men are off for another good old army cooked meal in the mess hall of Battery "B."

Battery "C"

Being called upon to submit for public inspection an article dealing with the various activities of this organization, the splendid efficiency of the personnel —officers and enlisted; the difficulties encountered and the inadequacy of mere words in describing the unquenchable spirit and high morale, can only be appreciated by someone who is an actual member of this splendid organization. This article is, of course, public property but it is intended primarily for the personnel of Battery "C," as an appreciation of comradeship and soldierly qualities as demonstrated by the cheerfulness with which they perform their every duty. The light-hearted and whole-hearted horse-play, the good natured raillery, warm the cockels of your heart and make us all buddies. These things, the "stick-togetherness" of the men, eggs over, steak smothered in onions and other palatable samples of Sergeant Grider's mess, make the boys for the most part ready and willing to "re-up" when their three years are served. There are a few exceptions, but we notice that mostly they return—witness the return of Private Buford Allen. Allen thought he could stay away, but he was sure glad to get back. When interviewed upon his return, he says, "I am sure glad to be 'back home' ".

We are fortunate in many things. Not last or least by any means is the fact that we have Captain Busch for our Battery Commander. A real soldier, broad-minded—a man who respects a man and appreciates the fact that he has real soldiers in his battery. Captain Busch expects a man to do his duty. He is not one who can only see the things that are done wrong. He is always quicker to commend than to condemn. Some men are possessed with that elusive something called leadership—that causes other men to want to work for them, to be neat, clean and efficient as their leader is. Such a man is Captain Busch. It is always easier to lead men than to drive them. It is evident from observation that Captain Busch believes this and he has proved the truth of this by results.

Lieutenants Reichle, Hurt and Strohbehn have ably done their share in the training of the organization. Lieutenant Reichle, in charge of gunnery, has made quite a record as an instructor and we are very sorry to hear that he is to leave us early this fall. Lieutenant Hurt in charge of stables, has, with the cooperation of Sergeant Brantley, at all times provided for the best of care for the animals under his control. To Lieutenant Strohbehn goes the credit for the efficient operation of the B. C. Detail, which is sufficient endorsement for any officer.

It has been said that the non-commissioned officers are the backbone of the army. With such an example as 1st Sergeant Workman we can readily believe this statement. He is a leader to be admired, square as can be ,treats all men alike—no favoritism here. Just the same calm efficient soldier every day—another man we are proud of.

The mess department and our mess sergeant, Sergeant Grider, have been commented upon in previous articles, but nothing that we have said or can say, can sufficiently show our appreciation of the fact that we have a real soldier and man in charge of our mess. His interest is not limited to the inside of the kitchen. You will find in him a sympathetic listener regarding anything for the comfort or recreation of the men and a booster for Battery "C" and the army. A veteran of over 16 years of honorable service in the army, Sergeant Grider typifies the real soldier who has made the army his life profession—he is proud of it and we are proud of it as we are proud of him. We trust that he will stay with us in his capacity until he can claim his reward as a retired soldier of the army of the best country on earth.

To Sergeant Thomas W. Chewning we are indebted for the efficient manner in which our supply department is handled. Sergeant Chewning has only been in charge since the first of the year, but has during this time demonstrated that he is capable and reliable and always ready to accommodate anyone and assist the men in any way that comes within his province.

From chief motor mechanic of a motorized battery to stable sergeant of a horse-drawn battery is quite a contrast and also quite a job. You would never think so, though, to look at "Pop" Brantley, as every one affectionately calls him, for "Pop" is always on the job with a friendly grin for everyone. Patient with an unruly horse, painstaking in his care of sick or injured animals, he has been a very valuable man during the period of breaking and gentling the horses. We couldn't do without "Pop" and we know some of the fair sex feel the same.

It would be impossible to do full justice to our section chiefs: Sergeant Hall, Sergeant Gannon, Sergeant Martin, Sergeant Johnson, Corporal Moore and Corporal Miller. Their interest in the welfare of their men and the care of their horses is an important fact not to be overlooked. It has been their duty to carry out the orders of their superior officers in the training of raw recruits and men who could ride a tractor or truck but had never sat on a horse until this battery was converted into a horse-drawn unit. This was important but more important perhaps was the training of the horses in the proper way, handling them to prevent their injury and the possible injury of the men. The above mentioned non-commissioned officers have so performed their duties that they are to be commended for the efficiency of their respective sections. The men under them are loyal to them which speaks well for them and shows that they know how to command respect from those over whom they are in command. Corporal Moore is especially commended for the fact that he has performed the duties of a chief of section, in his present grade, since November, 1927, in a most efficient manner. We understand that he is to be made sergeant upon the discharge of Sergeant King the 23rd. We are glad of this for he sure deserves the promotion.

We would be neglectful of our duty if we failed to say something regarding Mrs. Grider and her interest in the battery. Take a look at the flower beds around the quarters—Mrs. Grider furnished the plants. Inspect the bright red hat cords of the men—again Mrs. Grider helped us out by dyeing these hat cords for us, which improved the appearance of the men. We certainly appreciate these things.

Others deserving special mention include our cooks, Land and Cuthrell, and our mechanics Harvey and Horn. Another good man who cannot be overlooked is Private Jones, our gardener. Go out and see his garden and you will say the same. There are many more who deserve mention but due to the lack of space the writer must call a halt, but just to be a member of Battery "C" is something to be proud of. Let's all stick together, pull together, be loyal to our superiors and don't forget to be—SOLDIERS.

Hdqrs., Hdqrs. Bat. and Combat Train

(By Corporal Rufus J. Waters)

This organization is known and called in military circles, The Communication Outfit. We have two main means and ways of communication, radio and telephone, woth two others, runners and flags. Under the skilled guidance of our much experienced Battery Commander we have some fast ways of producing communication. Captain Wickliffe has many years experience with the field artillery and no problem seems to be too strenuous for this organization. No matter at what hour day or night we are called on to lay wire and establish communication, Headquarters Battery is on the job.

Of recent weeks we have been conducting a radio school under the expert supervision of Lieutenant Schwarze. Lieut. Schwarze is a graduate of Alfred Vale, and there is not one bit of static he does not know. From all indications the school has been a success, turning out some fast operators. Private Tate, a recent addition to our organization, via Recruit Route, was with the New Orleans Cotton Exchange for seven years as operator, so of course he is the outstanding student with others who never dreamed of radio before making grand and glorious showings.

Our stables are under the ever watchful eye of Lieut. Grubbs. Lieut. Grubbs has made many changes lately, namely to find just what horses are suitable for such jobs. But now things are running nicely and everything works with a click. Outside of being an excellent stable officer Lieut. Grubbs is an outstanding polo star.

Our first sergeant, Arthur Sweger, hails from Pennsylvania. We all wonder if there is any more up Pa. way like him. Sergeant Sweger is everything soldierly anyone could expect and knows his onions about military duties, and is liked by all, and we think first sergeants do not exist to compare with him, and that our top skipper is as fine as there is in the army.

Our acting mess sergeant, Corporal Edwards, seems to be pleasing all with his menues, and of all jobs in this old war is mess sergeant. No one could growl or kick as we sure do get the chow. Corporal Edwards has two fine cooks, eg, PFC. Niblett and PFC. Pleus, and they know their P's and Q's when it comes to the chow. Situation: Niblett seems to be a natural cook while Pleus comes from Berlin, so of course he knows his dough. Ask him about canteen checks and see for yourself.

We have quite a few men to ship over in the past few months, eg, Sergeant Roland, Sergeant Eskridge, Sergeant LaPine, Corporal Cole and Sergeant Dobb are on the waiting list to get their seventy-five dollar bonus. Only thing that Sergeant is worried about now is that the War Department will discontinue the bonus before he gets discharged. Don't take it so hard Dodisky, as you will make it O. K.

When it comes to athletes, Headquarters Battery is an outstanding figure all b yitself. We copped the battalion football cup then the basketball cup, and now next comes the effort for the baseball trophy.

MANEUVERS, DIPLOMAS, AND SUCH

Biglerville, Ga.,
May 18, 1928.

Dear Friend Otto:

Remember when you matriculates from reform school you bite the ticket the perfesser gives you to make sure it ain't phony? You was surprised like an Eskimo with sunstroke. Well, Otto, after what we done to them approved solutions on maneuvers, they actually lets some of us graduate, and that's a surprise like finding a real turtle in mock turtle soup!

These maneuvers is the crocodile's compact, see. What I mean is, they show you like old Shakflelspieker said, "What you least expect, the most." I mean, the book don't do you any good, you gotta forget that lullaby on page 2, and just use the old bean. There's umpires to similate combat conditions, and if you don't get lost in the bosque, you maybe win a battle and drive the Reds into a critique. Anyway, Otto, maneuvers prove yon can't fight a war by the numbers. Just when accordin' to rule 3, you've got them mopes knocked for a row of lilac scented ash cans, you get wise that the old enemy don't play according to Hoyle and the Barkeep's Guide, and has you on the hip, as them Israelites, Fishbites, or something used to say.

One day we're out in the jungle, and a guy says, "You're a battery of Field Artillery." It ain't etiquette to say he's another, so I don't have no comeback and see I'm an integral part, or something. And they give me a horse. Well, Otto, I'll be at three toed Ak, if I can get that horse read into the problem, as the fellow says! He don't like maps, mimeographs, clipboards, field glasses, or nothin'. And by the look in his off glimmer, he ain't much partial to me neither.

I get one hand snarled in the reins and a foot half in a stirrup, and Bam! We explode down the road like a runaway freight down a mountain grade. We're off on reconnaissance with all them things clattering like a platoon of tanks in a tunnel. About two miles and the horse gets tired. Anyway, we've lost all them things that was bothering him, including me. I climb back on, noting that 'd lit in a swell place to park the battery for a while. So we ambles placid like, back to the P. C. and the Unit Journal says I've made a map and ground reconnaissance. "And How!" as the flapper says.

Next day I'm a X. You wouldn't know, if I told you, Otto, but X stands for the unknown. Anyways, that's what the umpire says when I get through. But he has to admit he can't criticize, he wouldn't know where to begin. And then another time, I'm a company, and that's one time it don't take more than one to make a crowd. By the time I've suffered 75 per cent. casualties, and have reorganized through two swamps and three canyons, with trees closer than a Scotch regiment, I'll concede that old Sherman's right!

But, Otto, maneuvers is just what it takes to show a guy that when he thinks he's the mint he's really small change. And when anyone gets that me and Napoleon complex, it's time for another Command Post and Terrain Exercise. Yeah, Otto, that gives me a brain throb, a idea, sort of, if you know what I mean. For, when and if, as they say in the Court Martial Manual, they give me a sheepskin, I'll make a little reconnaissance around the corner and sink my molars into mine. If it's real, no foolin', my morale will be higher than house rent. I'll feel solemn as owls and prouder than three new fathers and six dukes, because, big boy, I'll be a graduate of the school that give the Queen of Battles her first date!

Your Friend,
HAG.

NON-COMS OF NATIONAL GUARD CLASS EXPRESS APPRECIATION

(By Sgt. A. H. Ohai, Hawaiian N. G.)

On behalf of the Communication Class of 1928, I wish, with all emphasis, to express these few words of appreciation to the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, and trust there will be sent broadcast throughout the various organizations in the union by the members of the class, and the spirit of "Follow Me" will be carried on.

We, the Communication Class of 1928, United States Detachment, are taking a great deal with us from the Infantry School and are leaving it with more than we entered. We will be graduated from the greatest school of its kind ever founded, and we are proud of our membership in the alumni of the United States Infantry School.

Our class is very fortunate in having among it so many representatives (from —different states and possessions) a spirit of comradeship that can seldom be found in so large a group of young men. We entered in camp as individuals and from all parts of the country; each with his own ways and opinions; but after a few days of hard work and lecturing we caught the spirit of the service.

We will soon return to our respective states, organizations and civilian life with higher cvic ideals. We have been brought into more intimate relations with our government and we leave Fort Benning better citizens and better soldiers.

The four months that we have worn the United States uniform will be only a memory, but the comradeship and good fellowship that we formed here will long remain an influential portion of our future lives. As I look ahead, the day will come when we will stop, realize and appreciate the efforts the instructors have put forth to assist us through our course of hard studies and training. We now know our efforts have not been in vain.

When in the next few days all of us will leave here, we will carry with us, to our homes, the memory of the best associations of camp life and the friendship we formed for the final analysis of all things in life—a true and loyal comradeship.

Let us bear in mind that this feeling counts for something and when in years to come may we meet our former comrades in arms again. May our one password be—"The Infantry School Communication Class of 1928."

PRIVATE HERMAN M. TEN BROECK

Company "I"; 15th Inf.

Word has just been received announcing the death of Private Herman M. Ten Broeck, Company "I," 15th Infantry, who died at the Station Hospital, American Barracks, on April 16th, 1928, after a brief illness from meningitis.

Private Ten Broeck was formerly a sergeant of the 29th Infantry. He was discharged from that organization last September. Private Ten Broeck first enlisted in the army in August, 1917, and served with the First Aero Squadron from the time of his enlistment till June 26th, 1920.

Following his discharge from "C" Company, 29th Infantry, he then enlisted for the 15th Infantry, stationed in China, and arrived on the February, 1928, transport, joining Company "I" at Tangshan, China.

The deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lula G. Ten Broeck, of Hillard, Florida.

Dahlonega, Ga.,
May 12, 1928.

The Commanding Officer, 29th Inf.
Fort Benning, Ga.

My dear sir:

I thank you personally for your courtesies to the detail from this college which was quartered and messed with the 29th Infantry, April 23-26.

I, however, desire to make my appreciation a matter of record, and to have it extended to the commanding officer, Company "B," of your regiment, with whose company the detail was put.

One good result of the visit has been a demonstrated clearer conception of discipline on the part of the cadet noncommissioned officers who made the trip. This, of course, is only one of the benefits derived from the trip.

Very respectfully yours,
(Sgd.) JOHN W. WEST,
President.

HISTORY OF FORT BENNING

Creeks hunting on the east side of the Chattahoochee and those residing in the vicinity of the sites of Girard and Phenix City, Alabama (just across the river from Columbus), were not permitted to spend the night on the Georgia side. The resentment of the Indians grew until hostilities finally ensued. The war fell heavily on Columbus. There was also fighting at Fort Mitchell across the river from Fort Benning and on the site of the post as well. The battle of Hitchiti was fought in 1836 between the "Lower Creek Indians and the Georgia Militia on the present reservation near the mouth of the Upatoi Creek (see map). General Winifield Scott commanded the United States Troops sent to quell the outbreak and had his headquarters in Columbus. The Campaign finally died down though there was no decisive defeat of the Indians. Both Regular Troops and Georgia Militia took part.

During the Mexican War, Columbus was the rendezvous of a regiment of Infantry, three companies of which were recruited in the city itself. It will be remembered that the Mexican War was popular in the South and it is said that the Chattahoochee Valley alone sent more volunteers than did all the New England States together.

Recruiting for the Confederate States Army was begun within three (3) days after Georgia passed the ordinance of secession on January 19, 1861. A remarkably large number of military "companies" were organized in this vicinity and some are thought to have been drilled at what is now a part of Fort Benning.

The most notable event of the Civil War period in Columbus was it's capture by Major General James H. Wilson, in command of the Cavalry Corps, division of the Mississippi U. S. Army. The battle took place on April 16, 1865 and had the distinction of having been the last battle fought in the Civil War. The city was defended by green troops, chiefly men with no military experience whom had been pressed into the service at the last moment. Large quantities of stores fell into the enemy's hands and were destroyed together with a certain amount of private property, in keeping, probably, with the policy of General Sherman. Thus the slogan of Mr. Lincoln's second election campaign that "The war should be fought out to the last ditch" was realized. The "last ditch" being the Chattahoochee River near Fort Benning.

During the Spanish-American War a brigade of National Guard troops encamped at Columbus from November, 1898 to January, 1899. It was composed of the 3rd Kentucky, the 160th Indiana, and the 1st West Virginia, under command of Brigadier General Wiley of Pennsylvania.

During the period of mobilization for the World War there was no camp in this vicinity. The National Guard and National Army troops trained elsewhere, the nearest camps being at Montgomery, Alabama, and Americus, Georgia.

The streets of the post and the landmarks of the reservation in general are named in honor of distinguished Infantrymen, who died during or subsequent to the world war. Some of the woods, hills, etc., bear the names of Infantry organizations, places associated with Infantry actions, etc.

The above sketch has been prepared with considerable difficulty. Owing to the fire of September 12, 1924 (by the irony of Fate on "Defense Day"), which destroyed post headquarters, the early records of Fort Benning were lost. The dates given were obtained from the Medical History of the Fort, as were other data quoted, this being instance of the value of such histories. The historical sketch of the community was prepared from date furnished by Mr. L. H. Chappell, President of the Historical Society of Columbus, Chappell's History of Georgia, Charles J. Swift's "The Last Battle of the Civil War," Major General James H. Wilson's "Under the Old Flag," "Aboriginal remains in the Middle Chattahoochee Valley of Alabama and Georgia" by P. A. Brannon, American Anthropologist, XI, No. 2, April-June, 1909, and the files of the Enquirer-Sun of Columbus for 1898-1899.

(Extract from the Fort Benning Annual Sanitary Report for the year 1927 by the Medical Inspector.)

There have been four commandants of the Infanrty School since its foundation. Colonel Henry E. Eames, from Oct. 7, 1918 to April 22, 1919; Major-General C. S. Farnsworth, April 22, 1919 to July 1, 1920; Brig-Gen. W. H. Gordon, Sept. 20, 1920 to Nov. 8, 1923; Brig-Gen. Briant H. Wells, from Nov. 8, 1923 to March 8, 1926; Brig.-Gen. Edgar T. Collins, the present commandant, took command on March 8, 1926.

"Why does Bruce go about with a bandage over his eyes?"

"He doesn't like to see his wife work so hard."

MERRILL SPALDING

We regret to announce the death of Master Merrill E. Spalding, Jr., eight year old son of Major and Mrs. M. E. Spalding, which occurred late Wednesday at the Fort Benning Hospital. Merrill had been sick only a few days of heart trouble, and his untimely death was a shock to the entire garrison.

He was the only child of Major and Mrs.Spalding, who have the sympathy of the entire garrison in their sad bereavement.

OFFICERS ON RIFLE SQUAD

By their ray excellent work on the Infantry Rifle Squad Capts. P. Steele and E. F, Paynter, 24th Iff., have been assured a place on the Infantry Rifle team. Capt. Steele stood fourth on the squad and Capt. Paynter fifth. On the last day of firing Capt. Steele made a possible at 600 yds. and 99 at 1,000 yds.

The 24th Infantry will be well represented this year on the Infantry Rifle team by Capt. Lynhoff, former team captain, Capt. Tupper, Capt. Lyons, Capt. Paul Steele and Capt. Paynter.

CROSS WORD PUZZLES

In the vertical column put the name of the officers using these expressions. Anyone identifying all the officers will be presented by the editor with a certain amount of horse radish.

1. "This monograph has been very well presented, which reminds me of a personal experience."
2. "When I was in Leavenworth."
3. "Oh, horse collar!" (This has nothing to do with the previous expression.)
4. "May I ask a question?"
5. "Boy, believe me I'm hard."
6. "Now honey, I don't really think I'm an actor."
7. "I just bought the finest pointer."
8. "No, I can't let you have it."
9. "Sergeant, you handle this."
10. "Right away Captain, sir."
11. "I don't know how the h— I got up here."
12. "Oh, push pins."
13. "According to the new manual, them birds—."

STRIBLING WINS OVER GRANTHAM

Captain Mabbutt Presents Cup Won by Benning Boxing Team in Mobile

(By B. H. Cowan)

"Ma" and "Pa" Stribling were at the ringside last Thursday night and saw "Baby" win the decision over Tanks Grantham after ten rounds of interesting, though not spectacular, fighting.

Though the decision went to Stribling the concensus of opinion was about equally divided. Many maintained that a draw would have been proper. So close and evenly matched were they that at the end of the bout one judge gave his decision to Stribling, the other to Grantham, causing the referee to give the deciding vote, which as has been stated before was in favor of Stribling.

For fans who consider that a fight is not a fight, unless both fighters stand toe to toe and slug till one or the other is knocked out or unable to continue, then Thursday night's bout was a poor exhibition. For those who enjoy scientific fighting it was a success. Both boys were fast and clever, no denying that, both showing a willingness to mix it and both landed enough clean blows to make it a good fight.

Stribling led the fight practically all the way, while Tanks, a natural defensive fighter, was content to wait and try to nail Baby as he came in. On the other hand Baby would almost invariably duck or catch Tanks left and pour a tatoo of blows to the different parts of Tanks' body. At the end of the bout the result of these blows were very much in evidence as several parts of Tanks' body showed crimson.

Rufus Miles, Columbus battler, was at the ring and challenged Tanks to a bout sometime in the near future. Sammy Buchanan, of Waycross, Georgia, sent in a challenge to the winner of the Stribling-Grantham go.

Capt. J. J. Wilson refereed the main bout.

Just previous to the main go Captain Mabbutt, who was chairman of the Southeastern tryout for the Olympic team, held in Mobile, Ala., presented the trophy won by the Benning team to "Football" Smith, Captain of the team. Smith is alternate heavyweight boxer of the Olympic team and will go to Holland this summer. Smith is the only representative of the army on the team.

The main bout was preceded by nine preliminaries, all of which were above average.

BERT EARL MUSICAL REVUE AT ROYAL THEATER FIRST THIS WEEK

The Bert Earl Musical Revue that is direct from the big time will be at the Royal Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with an act that is a credit to any theater the world over. This is an orchestra composed of eight pretty girls and two men that will give more pep and ginger to an audience than anything else possible. There is singing, plenty of good looks and dancing. This is one of the first Unit Shows that will begin playing the Royal Theater and you will like every bit of this act. Drive out Monday afternoon or night and see for yourself.

STUDENT OFFICERS COMPLETE ANNUAL MANEUVERS

Field Exercises End Thursday Afternoon; Graduation Exercises Anxiously Awaited

The annual maneuvers of the Infantry School came to a close Thursday afternoon. The student officers, embyro high commanders during the Red and Blue engagement, have practically completed the courses for the year 1927-28, and the only remaining thing that they are anxiously awaiting is the graduation exercises which will be held next Tuesday. With the exception of turning in property, and making preparations for departure from Fort Benning, the student officers are taking it somewhat easier than has been the case during the past ten days. During that time, they have been functioning as division, brigade, regimental and battalion commanders in the Red and Blue engagement on the Columbus-Cusseta road. Headquarters of the two armies were located at Harmony Church and Sulphur Springs, where the student officers have been busily engaged for the past ten days in the solution of the various problems that confronted them during the conflict between the Red and Blue forces.

Many and varied have been their experiences on the maneuvers this year. One feature of the maneuvers this year was the fact that the student officers were able to commute to and from their homes in Columbus to the maneuver grounds. Heretofore, camps were established and they remained in the field during the entire maneuver period. The weather has been ideal for the annual exercises this year, a majority of the days being quite cool and very comfortable.

At times during the exercises the officers were confronted with some very perplexing problems, and many times, have wished that they might be officiating as an umpire, rather than working over maps and orders.

"I want to be an umpire
And with the umpire stand,
A white rag round my hat
A pencil in my hand."

After the graduation exercises Tuesday, the student officers will scatter throughout the United States, and to practically every foreign station of the United States Army. And no doubt, at all these places, within a short time, the phases of the great Blue and Red war on the Upatoi will be recounted many, many times.

GRADUATING EXERCISES TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Students Will Receive Diplomas on Grounds East of Commandants Quarters

The annual graduating exercises of the Infantry School will be held Tuesday morning at ten o'clock on the grounds east of the commandants quarters. Diplomas will be presented to the students.

The program will be as follows:

"Follow Me" — Captain George L. King. March Song of the Infantry School, 29th Infantry band.

Invocation—Chaplain John R. Wright.

Introductory Remarks by the Commandant—Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins.

Address by the Chief of Infantry—Major General Robert H. Allen.

Presentation of Diplomas.

Benediction—Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna.

"Auld Land Syne"—M. L. Lake, 29th Infantry Band.

I. S. D. NOTES

Sgt. Richardson went on pass for three days to visit Alabama. Someone with a curious mind asked him if he had gotten married and he told 'em "No, but I went through the motions."

Discharges and re-enlistments seem to be coming fast and furious this week. Pvts. Decker and Duke are discharged and going out to battle the world for their three squares (and if you've sat next to either of them at mess we mean three squares.) Pvts. Holman and Paschal have re-enlisted and will be with us for another three years. Wise boys. Holman says "when I'm hungry I want to eat without a maybe!"

Master Sergeant William Colling is due for retirement in a very few months. This soldier has a most enviable record. He has many citations and letters of congratulation from his various commanders, and a discharge showing that he was a Captain in the World War. Master Sergeant Colling plans to go to China to live after his retirement. Whether he has been reading Kipling, or its cheaper living, or he likes beer or is going on a diet of rice, or planning to do all four, no one knows—but he's going, making China the gainer and we the loser.

Capt. Hugh Barclay of the I. S. D. has been the "Lord-High-Everything" for the last two fights that have been given. Many people, including the Columbus scribe, note an improvement in the cards, and of these facts the detachment feels proud.

The detachment smoker has been definitely postponed until June.

Did you know that:

Unpleasant Buckner played professional football?

Pvt. Ashe was with the Boston Americans?

Pvt. Phillips having Dempsey's weight could lick him?

Sgt. Spud Murphy has Hoffman and Paderwiski worried?

Neither did we but they told us so.

The mess Sergeant is indignant. He says the soldiers call his custard, cornstarch and his various stews, hashes and goulashes, 'Slum.'

HO-HUM DEPARTMENT

Jack Ryan says he's quit drinking.

OFFICERS

We wish to congratulate you on having completed your course at the Infantry School.

We wish you continued success. It is our desire that we will have the pleasure of serving you at some future date.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED

As a mark of respect of our heroic and patriotic dead, all duties except necessary guard and fatigue will be suspended on Wednesday, May 30th, Memorial day.

A battery from the 83rd Field Artillery will fire the National Salute from a position south of Gowdy Field at 12:00 noon. Near the flagstaff will be stationed the band of the 24th Infantry to play appropriate music.

CUBAN GIANTS HERE

The fast Cuban Giants will be here next week. According to an announcement made by Capt. M. E. Craig, coach of the 24th Infantry baseball nine, the Giants will meet the Happy Hearts on Gowdy Field next Saturday and Sunday, June 2nd and 3rd.

This team won 76 games out of 83 played in the 1927 season. It is considered one of the fastest teams in the sunny South.

All fans at Fort Benning who desire to see a real thriller, should remember these games. These games will be splendid exhibitions of the national sport.

FORT BENNING APPRECIATED

Vol. VI. FORT BENNING, GA., JUNE 1, 1928 Number 37

STUDENT OFFICERS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS FROM CHIEF OF INF.; 400 GRADUATE THIS YEAR

Graduation exercises of the Infantry School were held last Tuesday, May 29, at 10 A. M., on the east lawn of the Commandant's quarters. A large number of members of the graduate officers' families were present as well as many officers and families of the permanent personnel of Fort Benning.

Approximately 400 officers were presented with diplomas at the exercises. In the regular army group, there were 68 officers graduated from the advanced course, while 167 officers received diplomas as graduates of the company officers course. About 150 officers were graduated from the national guard-reserve class.

In the advanced class there were one lieutentn-colonel, 21 majors and 54 captains; in the company officers class there were 61 captains and 106 lieutenants.

The Program

The program opened with a selection by the 29th Infantry band. Captain J. R. Wright gave the invocation.

Brigadier General Edgar T. Collins, the commandant of the infantry school, then made a few introductory remarks to the graduates. General Collins, in his remarks, congratulated the student officers for the success they had attained during the past school year. He further expressed his appreciation of the interest manifested during the year and for the co-operation of the student officers while pursuing their course at the Infantry school. The sense of duty, the cheerfulness and spirit of co-operation of the student officers during the past year, was emphasized in the address of the commandant. General Collins closed his remarks by addressing the graduates and reminding them that, as graduates of the Infantry school, they were marked men, that much was expected of them due to the added prestige obtained as graduates of the institution.

General Allen Speaks

At this time General Collins introduced Major General Robert H. Allen, who delivered the principal address of the day.

General Allen, in his address, stated that he was very glad to be here for the annual graduation exercises of the Infantry school, and desired to congratulate every graduate of the school upon the completion of the year's work, and upon the class spirit which seemed to exist in the school. He stated, further, that he desired to take advantage of the assembly of many officers of Fort Benning, as well as those who composed the graduating classes, to speak of a few matters of vital interest to every infantry officer. General Allen then spoke for some time upon the matter of preparation of officers' efficiency reports, which are made annually and submitted to his office. He stated that much weight was given officers' efficiency report in the matter of future assignments of officers of the infantry. The particular qualifications of an officer should be recorded on the efficiency reports so that the many requests which reach the office of the chief of infantry may be properly taken care of, and a proper assignment made of officers, stated General Allen in the course of his speech.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL RECEIVES GIFT FROM STUDENT OFFICERS

National Guard and Reserve Officers Donate Fund; Commandant Expresses Appreciation

When the National Guard and Reserve Officers arrived at Fort Benning in March to take up their duties as student officers they at once decided to participate in the life of the garrison and perfected a class organization with the proper officers and established a fund to enable the class to take its part on the social calendar. Many happy occasions developed as a result of this organization, and the affairs sponsored by these officers added much to the social life of the garrison and made many friends for the members of the class.

At the close of the course the class treasury showed an unexpended balance of Two Hundred Thirteen Dollars and Fifty Five Cents, and in keeping with the interest previously manifested by the National Guard and Reserve officers in all things pertaining to the garrison it was voted to make a donation of that sum to the Children's School.

The Commandant has expressed himself as being greatly pleased with this generous action on the part of the class, and to the members of the permanent personnel of the garrison this last act of the National Guard and Reserve Officers class of 1928 merely confirms the high regard in which the class was already held. These officers were a very representative group of those who are ready to answer the call of the country in an emergency, and Fort Benning says farewell to them with mingled regrets at their leave taking and deep appreciation of their splendid spirit of cooperation.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT CLOSED LAST SATURDAY

General Allen Presents Trophies to Winners

Many followers and admirers of the racquet artists witnessed the finals in what is reputed as being the most successful tennis tournament to have ever been staged at Benning. The tournament was brought to a close last Saturday afternoon with the men's singles. This exhibition between Col. W. C. Johnson, commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, and Lt. D. H. Hediken, of the 29th Infantry and late of West Point, was a fitting climax of a very successful tourney. Their brilliant performances on the courts brought many gasps of surprises, and hearty rounds of applauses from the assembled spectators.

Though Hediken won from Col. Johnson and proved any doubt of his superiority as a player, the cool, steady and consistent playing of the Colonel kept him on the jump at all times.

At the conclusion of the match between Col. Johnson and Lt. Hediken, Major-General Allen, Chief of Infantry, and also an ardent tennis enthusiast, complimented the winners in all of the finals of the tournament and presented them with the trophies.

The final results of the tournament are:

Men's Singles, Lt. Hediken defeated Col. Johnson, 9-7; 8-6; 8-6.

Ladies Singles, Mrs. Dunkle defeated Mrs. Wessells, 7-5; 8-6.

Men's Doubles, Col. Johnson and Lt. Hediken defeated Maj. Hobbs and Capt. Christenberry, 6-2; 4-6; 6-3; 7-5.

Mixed Doubles, Mrs. Wessels and Col. Johnson defeated Miss Franklin and Lt. Bassett, 6-0; 6-4.

THE NAMES

Of all officers who have been ordered to the Infantry School for the courses next year, will appear in next week's issue of the News.

FORT BENNING GRAVES DECORATED

In keeping with the custom established several years ago the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary of the Charles S. Harrison Post No. 35 did their bit in connection with the celebration of Memorial Day by decorating the graves at the cemetery at Fort Benning.

The last resting places of fifteen soldiers were each marked with an American flag and a boquet of flowers, and the graves of some thirty others, all members of the families of the garrison, were decorated with bouquets. A touching incident of the ceremonies was the decoration of the grave of Amy Margaret Lennon, daughter of Captain Bert M. Lennon, former commander of the Charles S. Harrison Post, now a student at the General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth.

The committee of ladies was headed by Mrs. Frank David, president of the Auxiliary, with the following ladies assisting: Mrs. R. H. McNulty, Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Mrs. Theo. Golden, Mrs. Milton Long, Mrs. Rex Hubbard, Mrs. Joe Walters. The Charles S. Harrison Post was represented by J. Wright Brown, Post Commander, Capt. Thos. L. McKenna, Post Chaplain, and Joe Walters.

The deceased members of the 29th Infantry were remembered in special ceremonies attended by Colonel Pendleton and his staff. Roll call of the deed was made by Capt. Dager, Adjutant, each grave decorated with a wreath and a small flag, and the services closed with sounding of "Taps."

COLONEL GRAHAM WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Colonel J. M. Graham, Inspector General Department, will arrive at Fort Benning today to make the annual inspection of troops at Fort Benning. It is not known how long he will remain here, but it is thought that the annual inspection will consume a week or so.

R. O. T. C. CAMP WILL OPEN HERE JUNE 8

Over 300 Students Will Attend Annual Camp; Four Branches Represented

No sooner than the end of the infantry school until another school will open at Fort Benning. On June 8, over three hundred R. O. T. C. cadets from the Fourth Corps will assemble at Fort Benning for a six week's period of training. The exact number of cadets who will attend the camp is 332.

Major J. T. Kennedy, Field Artillery, the P. M. S. and T. at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, of Auburn, will be the commandant this year. He was in charge of the camp last year.

All schedules for the course this year have reached headquarters, the Infantry School, and have been approved. All supplies have been requisitioned, tents have been erected, and all necessary preliminaries have been completed for the reception of the cadets. The first two days of the camp will be spent in organizing and attending to details which are necessary for the opening of the camp.

In addition to the tented area south of the 29th Infantry tents, the camp will consist of two mess halls, branch of the Post Exchange, a recreation room, a store room, and a building for headquarters personnel.

The number of students who will attend the course are divided into the four branches as follows: Field Artillery, 143; Ordinance, 67; Engineers, 92; Signal Corps, 30.

The Signal Corps unit will be composed of cadets from Georgia Tech; Artillery from Auburn; Ordinance from Georgia Tech; Engineers from Auburn, Univ. of Alabama, and Univ. of Tennessee.

The instructors who have been detailed to the camp up to this time are Capt. B. H. Bolley, Eng.; Capt. H. E. Storms, S. C.; and Capt. A. A. Skinner, Ord.; Capt. B. C. Anderson, F. A.; Capt. J. M. Garrett, F. A.; 1st Lieuts. C. P. Townsley and George D. Barth, F. A.; 1st Lieut. E. R. Wells, S. C.; Capt. L. S. Dillon, Eng.; 1st Lieut. H. L. Porter, Eng.

GRADUATES OF INFANTRY SCHOOL ASSIGNED TO 29TH INFANTRY

Twenty-six Student Officers Report to Demonstration Regiment for Duty; Assignments Made Tuesday

Twenty-six officers, graduates of the Infantry School this year, reported to duty with the 29th Infantry last Tuesday, in compliance with War Department orders issued some weeks ago. Regimental headquarters of the demonstration regiment was a busy place last Tuesday afternoon, when these officers joined the regiment. Headquarters staff received the officers, orders were given them as to assignment within the regiment, and other necessary details as to the reception of these officers were carried out at that time. A majority of the officers were assigned to companies, while a few were attached pending changes that might take place during the summer months due to the fact that practically every captain of the 29th In-

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 1 TO JUNE 8, INCLUSIVE

FRIDAY, JUNE 1

"LET 'ER GO, GALLEGHER," with Junior Coghlan, Harrison Ford, Eleanor Fair and Ivan Lebedeff in a baffling murder mystery. Night life in the editorial rooms of a metropolitan newspaper—an office boy to whom duty was paramount, a reporter who loved and was loved, a murderer brought to bay by a gritty resourceful lad. These are the elements of this tense melodrama. It will hold you spell bound.

"Christmas Cheer." Fables.

Pathe News No. 43.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2

"SPOILERS OF THE WEST," featuring Tim McCoy with Marjory Daw and William Fairbanks in a most unusual romance of the west. Tim captured the leader of the outlaw trappers and found a pretty girl in his arms. Then she tricked him and escaped. It is a lively tale of courage, pluck and fine horsemanship.

"Rainy Days." Our Gang Comedy.

SUNDAY, JUNE 3

"THE BLUE DANUBE," starring Joseph Childerkraut and Nils Asther in an European story based upon the theme of Strauss's waltz, "The Beautiful Danube." A village beauty is loved by a rich baron who lives with his proud uncle in a castle on the banks of the Danube; the lattetr demands that his nephew marry the daughter of a wealthy brewer. A hunchback is also infatuated with the girl of the baron's choice. There is intrigue and counter intrigue; finally a tragedy opens the gates of happiness to the rightful lovers. The story is tensely dramatic. It possesses suspense, action and a powerful climax. The beautiful musical theme of the Danube waltz follows the trend of the story throughout. Special orchestration will be prepared for this play.

"Splash Yourself." Bobby Vernon.

Paramount News No. 86.

MONDAY, JUNE 4

"IRRESISTIBLE LOVER," starring Norman Kerry and Loy Moran in a fast and sophisticated farce comedy. It is the story of a handsome and wealthy young bachelor who cannot get enough of women until he meets one who cares nothing for his wealth or high social standing. In fact it found a firm barrier in his path. The manner in which he overcomes her antipathy provides delightful situations.

"Putting Pants on Phillip," Laurel-Hardy Comedy.

TUESDAY, JUNE 5

"BREED OF THE SUNSETS," starring Bob Steele in a story of clear-eyed, clean limbed, desert bred and danger-broke Californian youth who rides to romance for a Spanish beauty and a place in the sun.

"Walter Bugs." Billie Dooley.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6

"SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS," from the popular novel by Harold Bell Wright, starring Molly O'Day. This story of powerful dramatic plot has been produced on an elaborate scale. High lights of the story: a sweet romance of a beautiful backwoods girl and a primitive bred-in-the-hill boy, a fight between two huskies for the right to be called the strongest man of the hills, and a six horse team crashing over mountain sides with an avalance of earth. The story is refined, yet filled with powerful human action.

Paramount News No. 87.

THURSDAY, JUNE 7

"MY BEST GIRL," starring Mary Pickford in a throbbing story of sweetheart days set gaily among the gee-gaws of a five and ten cent store. It is enlivened with a thousand hearty laughs.

"Up the Ladder." Sport Comedy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8

"LAUGH CLOWN, LAUGH." Lon Chaney's powerful tragi-comedy. This story portrays intimate glimpses of life behind the scenes blended into a vivid and gripping drama. Chaney plays the part of comedian who, for the woman he loves, makes a grim sacrifice. This strong picture adds another fine feature to Lon Chaney's lengthy chain of film successes.

"Junk Man." Fables.

Pathe News No. 45.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The community of interest existing between Columbus and Fort Benning found a very definite and practical expression at the Post Cemetery on Memorial Day of this week. A committee of ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary came to the Post and decorated the graves of those who are sleeping their last sleep in our little cemetery on the hill top above the Upatoi. This action on the part of our neighbors indicates a depth of feeling and in honoring our hallowed dead they have given us a true insight into the place we hold in their affections. May that spirit ever grow in the years to come.

School's Out

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

Graduation

Of course the big Tactical Topic of the week was Graduation. Breathes there a man with soul so dead that he didn't experience a thrill of pride when he stepped up to receive the diploma? We think not, for in spite of our little difference of opinion, every man back of us realizes that the diploma from the Infantry School stands for the successful completion of what is unquestionably the most practical and useful phase of our military education.

Incidentally, we take pleasure in complimenting the management in putting out a diploma that is in keeping with the achievement of which it bears testimony. We are making a collection of diplomas and in the course of thirty-six years of intensive schoolastic effort we have collected two including this one. This is evidence of the fact that we are particular about the appearance as well as the significance of those we collect. We are pleased to announce that the recent addition fulfills all requirements.

On Friday morning after the last eloquent order of the 1928 campaign had been issued, the members of the Advanced Class found in their boxes a neat official record of their schoolastic and tactical achievements of the year. A cursory inspection of ours reminded us anew that the tactical conceptions of military genius and academic standards do not necessarily coincide. In other words, we received just about as many "A's" as a regular reader of Tactical Topics might expect.

To the best of our knowledge, the star performers at jumping through the school hoops were Master Mind Russell, Unimproved Rhodes and Viscount Johnson, whose collections of "A's" numbered 24, 22 and 22 respectively. Tactical Topics does not hesitate to take issue with those who contend that such conformity with the school thought a prima facie evidence of mediocrity. In the absence of additional evidence to sustain this contention, we prefer to attribute the success of these estimable gentlemen to the procession of occult powers which enable them to fathom even the profundities of the instructor mind.

We were not entirely pleased with the denouement which followed the turning in of the solutions for the two so called marked terrain exercises about which so much that is not fit to print has been said. In the hope that, in spite of everything, we might be able to bear a good impression with the faculty, we expended a tremendous amount of intelligent effort in devising solutions that would please the School—only to be informed that it was all in a spirit of fun. From the glee will which this announcement was received by the seventeen vestal Virgins, we know that our regret is not shared by all but, having nothing much to lose personally, we were quite willing to have our paper marked on the off chance that half a dozen or so of the Scared Seventeen would come out of the melee, with tarnished reputations.

Swimming Soldiers

The value of the recent graduation issue of Captain Colby's classic treatise on "Swimming Soldiers" was strikingly illustrated in the first of the unmarked marked Terrain Exercises which the Faculty had prepared as a grand finale to the school year. A fortuitious rain storm having rendered McBride Ford too hazardous for the Doughboy Dragoons of the Advanced Class, the cavalcade was halted on the south bank of the raging Upatoi and a call for volunteers to undertake the crossing was issued. Major Hobbs was among the first to essay the role of Leander and offer to swim his horse across the local Hellespont. Boudinot, Parkin, Culp and Barker were the other heroes who followed Captain Rogers into the angry flood. All succeeded in getting across but in some instances horses and riders parted company in midstream and the horses, being intelligent animals, returned to the south bank, leaving the riders to negotiate the crossing by Captain Colby's methods. Everything considered it was a highly instructive tactical experiment in which all participating were given a "U" by viva voce vote of the class. Meanwhile, the hard driving Napoleons whose bizarre solutions of the third requirement of the terrain exercise proper consisted in having their reinforced brigades swim the Upatoi in column of squads were observing the demonstration without enthusiasm.

In justice to Secretary Hamblen, Tactical Topics desire to announce that he was not one of the volunteers. Her dripping vestments were acquired as the result of a sudden decision on the part of his horse to lie down in the water. Skipper Hamblen conformed to the immemorial tradition of the sea and went down with the ship.

Archelaus to the Staff

We are pleased to note that the custom of making soul stirring fifteen minute talks to the troops prior to a major engagement was not altogether overlooked during the recent unpleasantness between the Blues and the Reds. It was Class Treasurer Hamblen, one of our foremost advocation of frightfulness, who added a touch of realism to at least one of the exercises in which he participated by haranguing his staff in the manner of spartacus. After touching at some length upon his own extensive experience in Command Post warfare and the deficiencies which he had observed on the part ofother student officers, he generously offered to ask for the relief of any member of his amazed command group who was not interested in his work. We believe this to be the best example of a pre battle address which occurred during the maneuvers.

We received word from Ham Kelley the other day to announce his entry into the world of the automobile elite, in other words he is the proud owner of two cars. His latest acquisition takes the form and appearance of a galloping ash can and was purchased from Lieut.-Col. Delaplane. Ham asked us to further announce that he has christened his buggy, "The Spirit of Corn." If there are others in the Garrison who are desirous of having the names of their respective puddle dodgers published we will be glad to accommodate them. In submitting names it is highly desirable that you submit a short historical and biographical sketch of the car. The duplication of names will not be permitted, so please state your first, second and third choice. We reserve the right to reject or otherwise refuse to accept names on the grounds of decency or other negligence. Names of cars limited to twenty-three (23) letters. A certified copy of the car's pedigree for five generations will be supplied free with each two years subscription to the Infantry School News.

We went to the Graduation hop the other night with the idea of telling a few of our friends goodbye. Each one we approached to bid adieu informed us that they were not leaving the post for a month or two. Our idea is that either graduation was too early or we are living on a very popular post. Their staying here voluntarily reminds us of the irate husband, who upon returning home unexpectedly, found a stranger kissing his wife. In uncontrollable rage, he roared, "What oo you mean by kissing my wife when you don't have to?"

We had just completed arrangements with Pop Griffin and a few others to have Captain Pritchett, a former member of the 1928 class of the Infantry School, made postmistress at Fort Benning, when that brilliant officer received belated orders to Leavenworth. Pritch said he got two years. We hope so for we think he deserves it.

The class of 1926 was very much in evidence on the 29th of May, the second anniversary of its graduation. The walking delegate of the class, Captain B. B. MacMahon, commandant-elect of DePauw University, was extending congratulation on every hand. Besides ourself, the following members of this illustrious class are on duty at Fort Benning: Captains Ambrose, Berry, Brian, Case, Christenberry, Cole, Collins, H. J. & J. L. Cook, DeWare, Dunlop, Fales, Goode, Hawkenson, Herlihey, Knight, Lindroft, Command nt-elect MacMahon, Pearson, Rice, Venable, Wharton, Wilson, Woodward; 1st Lieutenant Raymond MacDonald. Besides these there is one honorary member present on the post, Major Elmer F. Rice, the father of Company "C." There are several of the advanced class who are on duty here but in 1926 the advanced class didn't amount to much.

We wonder who is going to print a "special edition" this week. With the centennial, the Infantry School Number of the Infantry Journal, the commencement number of the Infantry School News and about seven special editions of Old Home Week, we have a hard time keeping up with our reading.

Company "H"

I guess that I have been off the air long enough now, and will have to let you people know that Company "H" is still alive and fighting. What, some one asks, what fight I am speaking of? Man you should know about that fight. It just wasn't much of a fight. It ended too suddenly to give the spectators the full enjoyment that they were anticipating. It makes me glad though to disappoint some of the type that are forever and eternally good rooters, but bum participants.

It would be useless for me to go into detail and tell you of the maneuvers that we have just come back from. The undersigned surely did have one whale of a good time out there. Corporal Meadows can tell you all about it. He says that the reason that I liked it so well was the fact that I, a mere Corporal in the United States Army, could condescend to eat at the same table with the First Sergeant and all the Sergeants that I cared to be near. I thoroughly agree with him all the way. It is certainly agreeable to change one's mess mates when the change is as elevating as that. Come on Meadows, al that we want is a little co-operation. You are always joking with "Bob" that way, dontcha-know.

Private Bunch says that he likes this Army of ours allright, but these vernuvers are a pain in the neck to him. That's all right, son, you just have two more of them to pull, and then——.

Private Gurley has broken out in song quite frequently here of late. He has a nice voice for calling hogs, and for that reason I cannot for the life of me see why he wants to throw it away like that. I had a short interview with him a day or two ago, and asked him some questions about that voice of his. All that he had to say in his defense was that he must have strained it during his last enlistment by calling too frequently for some one to "Please pass the slum." My sympathy is with him, and I have already told him where he could find that word in the dictionary.

Corporals Bowles, Blevins and Shoemate along with Privates Barksdale and Chapin are due to discharge within the next month. It is about time for these men to begin to think where their meal tickets are going to come from for the next three years. The best company in the Army would like to fill that wrinkle in your pocketbook. What about it boys? —B. H. Swayze.

ENGINEER COMPANY MAKE RECORD ON RANGE

The Seventh Engineers, through the only active unit, Company "A," hung up an enviable and unexpected record at Rifle Marksmanship this year. Out of a personnel which includes three officers and eighty-two enlisted men the company's instructors and coaches succeeded in qualifying fifteen Expert Riflemen, twenty-two Sharp Shooters, and forty-one Marksmen. One lone recruit failed to qualify and six other men were absent and therefore unable to fire the record course.

A persual of the company's report of individual firing shows that the percentage qualified was 98.68 per cent. and that the average score attained was 287.37. This is a rather remarkable showing considering that about 20 per cent. of the company is on a special duty status and not engaged in duties which would keep them in condition for the rigors of range practice. In addition to the large number of special duty men necessarily with an engineer company at a Service School the organization was further handicapped for rifle practice by the fact that some 20 per cent. of the personnel were recruits who had no previous experience with a rifle.

Corporal James R. Fisher re-enlisted just in time to go out and hang up the high score for the company. He counted white and red disks for a grand total of 321, which is some shooting for a hard-working Engineer. Private First Class Perry B. Wigley ran him a close second with a score of 319.

The outstanding performance of the entire range practice was the stellar shooting of Private John Lockwood who, while still in his first six months of service, shot the remarkable score of 310. This boy will certainly be on the Engineer Rifle team before he finishes his first enlistment.

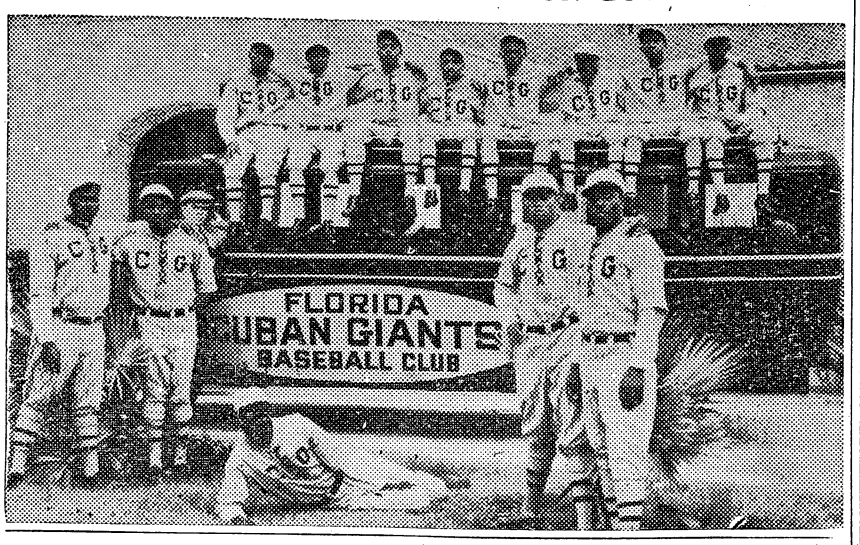
THE CUBAN GIANTS WILL PLAY ON GOWDY FIELD



CUBAN GIANTS WILL PLAY AT GOWDY

Baseball fans at Fort Benning have a treat in store for them. The fast Cuban Giants, said to be one of the fastest colored teams in the South, will arrive tomorrow for a two-game series with the 24th Infantrymen. The games will be played on Gowdy Field, time of games announced in the daily bulletin. Capt. Craig's team also has a reputation in this section, and a good series is anticipated between these two teams.

TRYOUTS FOR INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM NEAR CLOSE

"Watch the wind, it's changing, set your sights accordingly." Thus sings the team captain and coaches daily as the candidates for the Infantry Rifle team, now undergoing the final lap of training, before selecting the group to go to Camp Perry next month to take part in the National Rifle match there this summer.

At present there are forty-one enlisted from the various regiments of infantry throughout the army at Fort Benning. Of this number, eighteen men, yet to be selected, will go to Perry, in addition to eight officers already selected, to undergo the final training prior to the matches. These men have been in rigid training and the progress being shown speaks for itself.

The team in their training fire the regular national match course. Last Monday, the ten highest men firing made exactly the same score that was made last year by the Infantry team that won the national match. Considering this and coupled with the fact that there are yet about ten men who are to report to the rifle team when the team reaches Perry, who were unable to train here because of their dutis, the strength and morale of the team will be raised considerably.

This year's team is being trained by Captain E. G. Lindroth, team captain; Captains Berry, Lyons and Tupper are coaches. From the present outlook of their work it seems as if the Infantry team will repeat their performance of last year.

AN OLD FRIEND UNDER A NEW NAME

The baseball fans and fight devotees of Fort Benning are all familiar with the genial Mr. Knowles of the Chero-Cola Co.

He is always on the job with an able staff to keep the fans supplied with their favorite drink, ice-cold and in unlimited quantities.

In order to have a more brief and easy to remember term for the favorite drink the name Chero-Cola will be changed to Chero. This will in no way change the drink nor the formula which will be exactly the same as before.

The baseball and fight fans may rest assured that their favorite drink will always be available in copious quantities and ice-cold. Just ask for Chero.

STUDENT OFFICERS GRADUATE

Army Legislation

Other subjects which the chief of infantry spoke of were the pending army legislation, changes in modern warfare, the tanks and their future.

Much credit was given the officers who founded the Infantry school and to those who have maintained the standard of the Infantry school up to the present time. General Allen mentioned the spirit of the citizens of Columbus, and the co-operation of them in the carrying on the activities of the school at this time.

The closing remarks of General Allen were of congratulations to the graduates, stressing team work as a very necessary element of individual success. Upon the close of his address, the student officers were presented their diplomas by General Allen personally.

Benediction was pronounced by Chaplain McKenna, and the 29th Infantry band rendered the selection "Auld Lang Syne" as the closing number of the program.

CAPTAIN PRITCHETT TO LEAVENWORTH

Capt. C. A. Pritchett, formerly of the 29th Infantry, and a graduate of the Infantry School, advanced class this year, received orders Tuesday detailing him to the C. and G. S. School at Leavenworth. He will take the course next year.

Baseball Season Formally Opened

ELEVEN TEAMS PARADE ON GOWDY FIELD WEDNESDAY

Major Russ Throws First Ball of the Season

Eleven baseball teams representing the various organizations at Fort Benning, took part in the opening ceremonies at Gowdy Field Wednesday afternoon, upon the formal opening of the summer baseball schedule.

The teams, led by the 24th Infantry band, passed in review before the crowded stands. Marching around the field, they stopped in front of the flag pole in the south corner of Gowdy Field. A mighty burst of cheering arose from the stands a moment later when Sergeant Kjelstrom and Sergeant Sheriff, both of the 29th Infantry, ran up last year's pennant won by the demonstration regiment.

The teams were then marched back to the stands. The season was formally opened when Major Joseph Russ, assistant executive officer of the Infantry School, representing General E. T. Collins, the commandant, threw out the first ball to Sgt. Sheriff, captain of the First Battalion, 29th Infantry, team.

2nd Battalion Wins First Game

The first game to be played was between the First and Second Bats, the latter taking the game by the score of 8 to 1. Newman was on the mound for the Second Bats, while "Red" Reeder twirled for the First Bats. It was a pitcher's duel until the seventh frame when errors gave the Second Bats six runs during that frame with only two bingles.

The second game was between the Howitzer and Service Companies of the demonstration outfit. The result was 7 to 1 in favor of the Howitzers.

Three Leagues This Year

There will be three leagues this summer. The first will be the battalion league composed of the battalions of the 29th Infantry, 83rd F. A., Tanks, and a team from the I. S. D. The company league will comprise teams from 29th Inf. (How. and Service Co.) 7th Engineers, Quartermaster Detachment, and a team composed of men from the Medical Detach. and Gas Company. The third league will be the 24th Inf. Reds and Blues, I. S. D., Tanks and Artillery.

REGIMENTAL HOP

The 29th Infantry will hold a regimental hop tonight at the Hop Room. The receiving line will form at 9:30 P. M. This hop is a farewell to all officers leaving the regiment and a welcome to those joining. Officers and ladies joining the regiment will form the receiving line; those leaving will, after passing the line, form in prolongation thereof.

PTOMEY AND LITTLETON TO FIGHT HERE

An All Star Card to Be Presented Next Friday

Someone has thrown a stone and it has landed in the middle of fistic circles causing peace to be disturbed at the Upatoi. When all the first excitement had been cleared we find the principals involved to be none other than Ptomey, an erstwhile man of the cauliflower industry, and Tommy Littleton, of Mobile, Alabama.

After words had been spent the final arrangement for fans to witness one of the most colorful fights, if not the most colorful to have ever been staged at Benning. June 15th was the date set upon as the most appropriate time to stage the fistiana and at the same time allow the fighters to bring themselves to the best fighting trim.

Ptomey, formerly of Camp Meade, Maryland, but now one of the prides of Benning, needs no introduction to fans in this vicinity. Willie Boy has the goods. He knows his boxing and Oh, what a wallop he has in either hand. Another thing so pleasing to the cash customers is, he fights from the first gong till the last and whoever goes in the ring with him will do the same or else be assisted from the ring by two good men strong and true.

Littleton is considered the premier middleweight of the South. At present he is a student at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Alabama. Littleton is using his ability as a fighter to pay for an education he so much desires. We wonder if he is to develop into the ruler of the middleweights and master of Shakespear's plays as has Tunney of the heavyweights. But this is merely a conjecture and away from the fight. Such faith has a number of his admirers in his ability that a number of supporters from Mobile and Spring Hill College have signified their intentions of being at the ringside to lend him their support, and even have visions of seeing him at least gain a decision.

The Athletic Council, having long listened to popular demand for a change in the type of card presented have varied from their usual custom and are presenting an all star card. This card will bring together the best material to be found. Only men who have proven themselves able to give and take punishment will don a pair of gloves. Not only will this be true of this particular card but of all cards in the future. These bouts will be slated to go from six to eight rounds. No more will we see boys in the ring stumbling and falling over themselves in an effort to dodge a blow, when a simple movement of the foot or body would have cleared him and at the same time placed him in a position to have sent his opponent to the land of nod for a short duration.

MAJOR-GENERAL F. T. AUSTIN ARRIVED THIS MORNING FOR TWO DAY INSPECTION

Major-General Fred T. Austin, Chief of Field Artillery, arrived at Fort Benning at eleven o'clock this morning for an official visit and inspection of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion. General Austin was met at Opelika, Ala., early this morning by Major L. E. Jones, commanding officer of the 83rd Field Artillery, and Lieut. Ivan L. Foster, of that organization, who will be aide to General Austin during his visit here. Battery "C," 83rd F. A., commanded by Capt. Everett Busch, rendered the salute as General Austin arrived at the Upatoi bridge. The 29th Infantry band and Company "F," 29th Infantry, commanded by Capt. R. B. Lovett, as escort, rendered the proper honors upon his arrival.

While at Fort Benning, General Austin will be the guest of Brigadier-General E. T. Collins, at the latter's quarters. He will remain at Fort Benning until late Saturday afternoon when he will leave for Washington, D. C.

Battalion Will Have Problems

During the visit and inspection of General Austin here, the 83rd Field Artillery will conduct battery and battalion drills and firing problems this afternoon and tomorrow morning. It is probable that an inspection of the battalion area will be made early this afternoon also.

Several functions have been planned in honor of General Austin during his stay here. A dinner party will be given this evening by Major H. E. Marr, field artillery instructor of the Infantry School. This will be followed by a reception at the Artillery Officers' Club at 9 P. M. A luncheon for all officers of field artillery will be held Saturday noon at the quarters of Major L. E. Jones.

This is the first visit of General Austin to the Infantry School, and it is to be lamented that his itineary makes it impossible for him to remain for a longer period.

COL. GRAHAM FORMERLY EXECUTIVE HERE

Inspector Now at Benning Held Important Post Here in 1922-23

Col. J. M. Graham, Inspector General Department, who is now at Fort Benning, holding the annual inspection, was formerly stationed at the Infantry School. From October 1, 1920, to June 5, 1922, he was an instructor in the Department of Military Arts and Director of Department of General Subjects. These departments are now known as fourth and second sections.

From June 5, 1922, to August 8, 1923, Colonel Graham was Executive Officer of the Infantry School. He left here in 1923 to take command of the 26th Infantry at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y.

LIEUT. J. W. DARR

The Regimental Bridge Club of the 29th Infantry brought a most pleasant year to a close with a delightful bridge-dinner on last Thursday evening. At seven-thirty the guests assembled at the 29th Infantry Officers mess, where dinner was served. The five large tables were most attractive with low bowls of pastel sweet pea sand tall baskets of vari-colored delphinium used alternately. After dinner the officers and ladies went upstairs to the card rooms where tables were ready for bridge. Here huge baskets of gorgeous garden flowers and gay lamps lent a festive appearance to the scene. There were about fourteen tables of players and the prizes were won as follows: High prize for ladies, an Italian linen luncheon set, by Mrs. O. W. Griswold; second prize, two elaborately embroidered guest towels, Mrs. C. C. Griffin. High prize for men, a sabre chain, Capt. R. A. Case, second prize, a hat cord and uniform tie, Lt. A. F. Haynes.

On Monday afternoon of last week Mrs. George L. King was guest of honor at a beautiful bridge party given by Mrs. Allen Woodall at her home on Second avenue in Columbus.

Capt. and Mrs. King and Jeanne left on Monday, June 4th, for leave and change of station. In their going, the post loses a family which has contributed most generously of talent, skill and time for the artistic development and enjoyment of the community at large. Surely it is with sincere regret that we see them go.

* * *

Mrs. Thomas F. Plummer has gone to Long Island, where she will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tahnestock.

* * *

On Friday evening the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry will give a "Hail-Farewell" dance at the Hop Room at nine-thirty. The officers and ladies joining the regiment will form the receiving line, and those leaving the regiment will, after passing the receiving line, form in prolongation thereof.

Mrs. Frederick C. Phelps was hostess at two lovely bridge parties at her home on Oustin Loop entertaining on Thursday and Friday afternoons.

On Wednesday evening at their home on Wynnton Drive, Col. and Mrs. Paul Stanley Bond entertained a large group of their friends at an elegant and beautiful dinner party. Gay garden flowers were combined with exquisite gladioli and carnations to give charming color to the party. The guests were seated at one large and three small tables placed in the dining room and on the porch. Fashionable colored domasks were used in pink and yellow on the tables. On the pink tables were bowls of gladioli and carnations and tall pink tapers, and on the yellow tables nasturtiums were used with long yellow candles. Col. and Mrs. Bond entertained on this delightful occasion Mr. and Mrs. Leighton McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dismukes, Mr. and Mrs. Grey Worsley, Mr. Paul Dismukes, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hardaway, Maj. and Mrs. Ferris, Capt. and Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Curtis Jordan, Maj. and Mrs. Patch.

Mrs. Percy Clarkson, wife of Capt. Clarkson, will arrive from Fort Leavenworth late in June to spend the month of July with her parents, Hon. and Mrs. L. H. Chappell at Glen Lora. Mrs. Clarkson lived at Glen Lora while her husband took the advanced course two years ago. The W. A. Burress family will live in the ancestral home of the Chappells during next year while Capt. Burress takes the advanced course. Mrs. Clarkson and Mrs. Burress are sisters.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. O. W. Griswald and family left this week for leave and change of station. Next year they will live in Washington, D. C., where Maj. Griswald will be a student at the War College.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Maurice Bigelow and little daughter have gone to Philadelphia, where Capt. Bigelow will be stationed with the University of Pennsylvania. Capt. and Mrs. Bigelow took active parts in the Glee Club and Literary Club during the past year and their contributions to each were outstanding.

* * *

The many friends of Lt. and Mrs. Kenneth Olson will be interested to note that they have orders for Ft. D. A. Russell, after their tour of service in Panama is ended. The Olsons were stationed at Benning for about six years prior to their foreign service.

* * *

As a charming courtesy to Mrs. Singer, sister of Col. George Marshall, Capt. and Mrs. B. F. Caffey entertained at a lovely dinner party at the Log Cabin on Monday evening. A low bowl of pink and lavender sweet peas and lavender larkspur was used with pink candles for the centerpiece of the long table at which the guests were seated. Japanese place cards bore the names of the following guests: Mrs. Singer, Col Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes Browne, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Swope, Mayor and Mrs. Homer Dimon, Maj. and Mrs. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Lanier Scruggs, Lt. Cornog, Capt. and Mrs. Caffey.

Capt. and Mrs. N. M. Walker, with Nancy and Perrin, their charming twins, left last week for Pittsfield, Mass., where they will spend a month with Capt. Walker's mother. They will then go to Berkeley, California, for two months with Mrs. Walker's parents, thence to Ft. Leavenworth, where Capt. Walker will be a student.

* * *

Mrs. Everett Busch entertained the Field Artillery Bridg eClub at her quarters on Tuesday afternoon. There will be no more regular meetings of this club during the summer.

* * *

Mrs. A. T. Knight, with her son, Berry, and daughter, Katie, left on Friday of last week for New York by boat from Savannah. They will go later to Northern Michigan for the summer with Mrs. Knight's parents.

* * *

Mrs. John Dahlquist left Wednesday for Minneapolis for a visit to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Dampier, while Capt Dahlquist does summer duty at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

* * *

Mrs. Dwight L. Adams entertained at a large and lovely bridge party at her quarters on Thursday afternoon of last week.

* * *

Mrs. Peter Feringa, who, with her husband, Lt. Feringa, has been at Ft. Sill the past year, will spend the summer with her father, Mr. Hutchins, in Columbus.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Alan Jones and children have gone to spend the summer in Washington State and in California.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Harrell Strickland and Harrell, Jr., leave Saturday for a month's vacation. They will motor to Pablo Beach, Florida.

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 8 TO JUNE 15, INCL.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8

"LAUGH CLOWN, LAUGH," Lon Chaney's powerful tragi-comedy. This story portrays intimate glimpses of life behind the scenes blended into a vivid and gripping drama. Chaney plays the part of a comedian who, for the woman he loves, makes a grim sacrifice. This strong picture adds another fine feature to Lon Chaney's lengthy chain of film successes.

"Junk Man." Fables.

Pathe News No. 45.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9

"LAW OF THE RANGE," featuring Tom McCoy in a stirring romance of the vast out doors. A solitaire masked bandit, the terror of the range, makes his usual informal visit. He presents his double barreled visiting card — fire flies and thrills descend. It is a strong melo drama laid in Texas.

"Edison Marconi & Company." Our Gang Comedy. .

SUNDAY, JUNE 10

"THE SHOW DOWN," starring George Bancroft, Evelyn Brent and Neil Hamilton in a powerful melo drama laid in the dense uninhabited tropical lands of dark Mexico. The giant oil driller, hounded by agents of rival companies, falls in love with the wife of his brother's partner. Through his overpowering ferver he renounces his chances for championship and wealth. It is a story of tremendous appeal.

"Fleshy Devils." Standard.

Paramount News No. 88.

MONDAY, JUNE 11

"THE ENEMY," starring Lillian Gish and Ralph Forbes in a story possessing pathos and great power. The story deals with the psychological havoc of war rather than its physical damage. It shows an Austrian family in a series of hazards and troubles brought about by propaganda, hysteria and other breeders of hatred that follow in the wake of warfare. It is held to be one of drama's greatest contribution to the cause of peace.

"Buffalo Bill's Last Fight." This is one of the series of great events being shown here at Benning. It is a historic episode produced in Technicolor and worthy of being a feature.

TUESDAY, JUNE 12

"THE BIG KILLING," starring Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery in a barrel of mirth. It deals with two supposed sharpshooters and the adventures they encounter when they become involved in a Kentucky Mountain feud. Attractive Mary Brian adds softness to the rapid action of this comedy.

"Holy Mackerel." Jimmie Adams.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13

"BURNING DAYLIGHT," starring Milton Sills with Doris Kenyon in a story based on the thrilling novel by Jack London. It is a drama of the stirring gold rush days in Alaska when it took he-men to breast the trials against savage beasts and unscrupulous humanity who infested the wilds of America's newest acquired territory. In addition to the thrills of adventure the story possesses absorbing romance and deft touches of comedy.

Paramount News No. 89.

THURSDAY, JUNE 14

"THE SKYSCRAPER," starring William Boyd backed by a notable cast in a super-comedy drama. It is a story of two hard boiled steel riveters whose sense of humor is as rough as their appearance, and who are stright shooters, hiding soft hearts under their shirts. Most of the action takes place at dizzy heights in the maze of structural steel of an unfinished building. One of the most exciting incidents is a fight on an eight-inch girder ten stories up. This is reported to be one of the strong stories of the year.

"Prudence." Roach Star.

FRIDAY, JUNE 15

"FOOLS FOR LUCK," starring W. C. Fields and Chester Conklin in a laugh riot. It is the story of a slick oil well promoter, in which the slicker gets slicked. Everybody wants something for nothing and the efforts expended cause jocular turmoil from start to finish.

"Broncho Buster." Fables.

SERGEANT BERNARD HOBAN RETIRED FROM SERVICE

Field Artillery Soldier Leaves Service After Thirty Years; Presented With Gifts

Having finished thirty years of honorable and faithful service as a soldier in the United States Army, Master Sergeant Bernard Hoban of the 83rd Field Artillery was retired at Fort Benning June 4, 1928.

Master Sergeant Hoban first entered the service during the Spanish-American War in 1898. His first enlistment was with the "Cosmoline Slingers" in the coast artillery. Tiring of the heavy artillery, he re-enlisted with the doughboys, eighteen years of his service being with the bluecord units. The last five years of Sgt. Hoban's service was with the carefree "Caisson Riders" in the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion.

As a parting gift from the battalion, in which every officer and enlisted man was an admirer and friend of Master Sergeant Hoban, a handsome traveling bag, toilet case and beautifully engraved gold watch was presented to him by the officers and enlisted men of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion.

The presentation was made before the assembled battalion. Major L. E. Jones, battalion commander, made the presentation, accompanied by congratulatory remarks on behalf of the organization. Tears came to the eyes of Sgt. Hoban as the retirement order was read, and the presentation made, for although he has finished his alloted time in the service, in the memory of his "Buddies" and in his own heart he will always be Sgt. "Barney" the soldier.

One of the outstanding features of this soldier's retirement was the fact that his mother, Mrs. Helen Anne Hoban, of Shelbyville, Ind., was present to witness the retirement of her soldier son.

Master Sergeant Hoban, accompanied by his mother, returned to their home in Shelbyville, Ind., where "Barney" will again become accustomed to a home, as the "Caissons go rolling along."

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

The Advanced Class having dispersed and most of the Instructor personnel having issumed their summer disguises as golfers, fisherman, hale-fellows-well-met, etc., the sources of material for Tactical Topics and its chief reason for being no longer exist. We are still hanging around, however, and if the spirit of reform moves us, we may break out once or twice more before we definitely abandon to Captain Nichols the worthy mission of making the Infantry School News the powerful influence for uplift that Editor Stewart has tried to make it.

Meanwhile, the Spirit of Spring has caught us and we feel constrained to burst into song. Our esteemed instructor in Equitation, Captain Pleas B. Rodgers, touched off the magazine of our lyric genius by furnishing us with a copy of a recent effusion by Don Marquis, carrying a refrain that we couldn't resist and which we reproduce herewith in a slightly modified form. Graduation and the last number of the Infantry Journal did the rest.

Valedictory

Fill me with sassafras, Bill,
And Georgia corn juice—
School is out, spring is here, and I've got to cut loose;
And the purple wistaria covers the bowers
And the tulips and hyacinths peep from the grass,
And the jassamine lifts its sweet face to the showers—
Quick, William, the sassafras!
For tomorrow may find me at dawn
Playing tag on the General's lawn—
For I'm feeling, forsooth,
The elixir of Youth—
Though when he gets up, I'll be gone.
For I'm rarin' to go
Where the silky long leafed Georgia pine
And the magnolias grow,
In this New World Forest of Arden,
In this Army Botanical Garden,
Where the Woodsy smells hit you like wine
So fill me with sassafras, Bill,
And Georgia corn juice—
And introduce me to the wood nymphs
And then—turn me loose!

I want to encourage my liver
And mount on a government steed
And amble down by the river
Where the woodsy trails lead;
I'll recline on the fragrant pine needles
Where the Upatoi flows
And the daffodil blows
And the bumble bee flirts with the Cherokee rose;
Where the Cardinal vies with the Chigger
And the sunset which crimsons the west—
Ah, then let me rest!
Restoring my soul and my vigor
In this Paradise blest.
For Benning and Eden are one;
And the mocking birds sing
With the madness of spring
And the crepe myrtle blooms in the sun.
So fill me with sassafras, Bill,
And Georgia corn juice,
And plant a few Eves in my garden
And then—TURN ME LOOSE!

The zinnias and cannas come after—
And the rich golden glow;
But there is a cottage I know
Where Spanish moss clings to the rafter
And the Judas trees grow.
In a country where life is serene
And the picturesque pine points the scene,
And its there I would go;
For I yearn for a respite from duty
And my heart is essentially vernal,
And I want to submerge in the beauty
Described in the Infantry Journal,
For the cult of unfettered expression
With me has become an obsession
All restraint is a curse
And Tactics a bore—
And I've got to have more—
And they tell me that Leavenworth's worse;
But here I can squander the hours
In a hot house of shrubbery and flowers
So fill me with sassafras, Bill,
And Georgia corn juice
Surround me with Naiads and Dryads
And then—TURN ME LOOSE!

MRS. CHARLES BECKLER

Mrs. Charles Beckler, age 77 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul R. Goode, at an early hour on Tuesday morning, June 5th. Mrs. Beckler has been an invalid for some fifteen years and though her illness baffled medical skill, she never lost courage nor relinguished her vital interest in life. Her heart stayed young, and her mind keenly alert to the very end. She was so cheery and considerate, patient and courageous in her long suffering that she was an inspiration to all who knew of her. Surviving her is one son, Wilder Beckler, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and one daughter, Helen Beckler Goode, wife of Capt. Paul R. Goode, whose loving kindness and unfaltering devotion has meant life, comfort, and happiness to her mother through these long years.

In the presence of their inner circle of friends, simple funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning by Chaplain John R. Wright and interment was made in the Post cemetery.

The other day before he left, George King, late of Fort Benning, left a P. P. C. card on our front porch, in the shape of a half-gallon vinegar cruet. You know the kind I mean. We are sorry we didn't see George but we do appreciate his thoughtfulness.

We do enjoy hearing a choice bit of gossip now and then and for the sake of our readers we are going to pass this one on. We had a visitor the other day who told us of the painful experience of one of her neighbors who was entertaining an officer and his wife during the period between the packing of their furniture and their departure. It seems that like all good wives, our own not excluded, the hostess had provided guest towels for the bath room and not for the guests. The visitors had a beautiful Persian cat, like the one in the poem and the evening prior to their leaving the young lady decided the cat needed a bath. After the bath, the guest towel was used to dry the cat. We shudder to think of what would have taken place had this happened in our home. We will be very glad to furnish the names of the parties concerned upon request.

We have been in Georgia a long time now and have learned to expect almost anything of the weather but—that rain of the first part of this week beat anything short of a waterspout we have ever seen. There should be no complaint on the lack of rain for the crops this year as we have certainly had a sufficient amount to insure enough moisture for the corn and cotton, in that order.

The rain didn't help the roads any either. Wednesday we were sent to the Club by T. W. for a quart of milk. By the time we had put the Spirit of the Upatoi over the roads from the Club to our home on Lumpkin Drive, that quart of milk had been so shaken up that T. W. was able to take off three pounds of butter. We advise all of the residents of the garrison to learn to post before the next rain storm. It helps considerably if you drive a Ford.

We understand that tonight is "amateur night" at the 29th Infantry Theatre. It may be but we do know that last Tuesday night was most certainly not amateur night. At least no amateurs had any business being there.

The genial Editor of this paper is watching our column very closely and it is exceedingly difficult for us to get things by him. We do believe that our column is edited more carefully than any other in the paper. But we don't blame our Editor, for we sometimes are indiscreet, we suppose. We hope to keep this column now permanently, if we have any influence at all.

The last few days have certainly been moving days for Fort Benning. It seems as almost every apartment in Block 23 is getting a new tenant and when such old timers as Ted Wessells moves to town, it is a good sign that a great upheaval is in progress. We shall miss several familiar faces on the post next year. We saw the furniture of some optimistic soul moving into Block 23, pass our house the other day with a large old fashioned wardrobe. If that housewife succeeds in getting that piece of furniture into an apartment in Block 23 she deserves the Nobel Peace Prize or something.

The Personage of the Week.
Old Jupe Pluvius.

We have been off the air with news notes from this company for quite some time and now that maneuvers are over and news is aplenty, we will again come on with items for the column every week.

Just before the maneuver period started our company baseball team won the Battalion championship. We are very proud of our team which is purely a company team, having no manager or captain. When we have a game to play one member of the team is selected to act as manager. No one is boss but to see us play one would think John McGraw was in our midst. Last Sunday we played the Tank Battalion team and won 3 to 1. It is true that we had three members playing with us from other companies of the battalion but we won and gave the fans an idea of what the 2nd Battalion baseball team is going to look like when they get into action. Tomorrow, Wednesday, we have a game scheduled with the strong Levy-Morton team from Columbus and results of this game will be published next week.

Yes the members of the team are sporting new white sweaters, given by the 2nd Battalion A & R fund.

More tooting of our own horn in next week's column.

—Wm. B. Smith.

Company "E"

All back from maneuvers feeling fine. The trip was quite an adventure for the boys. One of the souvenirs of the trip was a black snake about seven feet long captured by Private Snipes.

Corp. Bache and McDonald have received their orders to attend West Point Military Academy for the next four years as a result of recent examinations held at Fort McPherson, Georgia. We are glad to know that two out of the three admitted to West Point from Fort Benning this year were from Company "E," 29th Infantry. We wish them the greatest of luck in their future careers.

The boys are not taking many furloughs these days. One was issued to Corp. (Nine Ball) Dean, 30 days, and one extension of thirty days to Pfc. Edwards.

We are glad to know that our Company Commander, Captain Cecil L. Rutledge, pulled through his operation at the station hospital fine. He visited the company one day while we were on maneuvers.

Lt. Vinson has been commanding the company during the absence of the captain. Company "E" has been blessed with good officers for some time, and it is hoped we continue to do do.

We made a few promotions the past week. The assistant mess Sergeant tops the list, Corp. Pratt. The new Privates first class are: Rust, Cottle, Stamper, Marquette, Pendergraph, Stanley, Jordan, K., Davis, G., and Glass.

While on maneuvers Pfc. Jones, L. D., was promoted to the grade of Armorer. Private Buckner gets in on the ratings as Second Cook.

Private Campbell, our evangelist bugler, has been elevated to the grade of Private first class. He says that the jokes on "Dad" now as he has been sending him nineteen dollars a month and saving two bits. Now he says he will have nine dollars more to buy "Bull Durham" smokes with.

Private Jones, H. O., has returned from an emergency furlough necessitated by the illness of his mother.

SGT. JOHN E. LITTLE
Battery "B," 83rd F. A.

We regret to announce the death of Sergeant John E. Little, Battery "B," 83rd Field Artillery Battalion, which occurred at Fort Benning on June 2, 1928. Sgt. Little died as a result of injury from a kick by a horse. He had served for over two years with the 83rd F. A. and was well liked by all members of his battery. He was a native of Montezuma, Georgia.

Funeral services were held at the Protestant Chapel Tuesday morning by Chaplain Wright. Burial at Fort Benning cemetery.

WHO'S WHO!

CAPT. MALCOLM E. CRAIG

Officer with 24th Infantry Coached Three Major Sports This Year.

With the close of the 24th Infantry baseball schedule this month, Captain Malcolm E. Craig has completed a most successful year as the regimental coach of three major sports in that regiment the past year. He has coached successfuly football, basketball and baseball. In each of these sports the teams have been uniformly successful; their records reflect credit upon themselves, upon their coach and upon the athletic policy of the 24th Infantry.

Through the inauguration of a splendid athletic policy by the commanding officer, Col. Wait C. Johnson, an enthusiastic and general participation by practically all members of the regiment was assured. With a consequent large athletic squad the foundation of a successful team was laid.

The molding and organization of these men into a successful athletic team in a brief time was the responsibility of the coach. The uniform ability of each 24th Infantry team as it was developed reflects great credit upon the coaching methods of Capt. Craig. His success lay in his ability to handle men on the field, to inculcate into them a spirit of team play and the will to win.

To do this it was necessary that the coach be not only an experienced teacher but a trained athlete himself. Capt. Craig possesses in a large measure these qualifications and background.

At the first State Teachers College of Missouri, Capt. Craig played quarter and half on the varsity football team from 1911 to 1914. From 1913-1914 he was a member of the track team. From 1911 to 1914 he played guard on the basketball team.

As a coach Capt. Craig has had a wide experience. He was coach at McAllen High School, Texas, at the Oklahoma A. & M., with the 21st Infantry and for the past year with the 24th Infantry.

This year closes Capt. Craig's detail as athletic officer and coach with the 24th Infantry, as he becomes a student in the next class of the Infantry School.

BRANCH MANAGER MOTION PICTURE SERVICE LEAVING TERRITORY

Mr. Michael W. Smith, manager of the Potomac Branch of the Army Motion Picture Service, is leaving this territory to take over the Kansas City Branch. The Potomac Branch controls the motion picture bookings for the army in the South.

It has been through Mr. Smith's untiring efforts and cooperation that Fort Benning has been able to show the unparalled fine assortment of moving pictures to which patrons of our theatres have been treated. His loss to us is keenly regretted.

We wish Mr. Smith the best of luck in his new undertakings in the Middle West.

R. O. T. C. CAMP IN FULL SWING

College Boys Enjoying Life at Fort Benning; Over Two Hundred Here

(By Al)

Students from the colleges of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee—arrived last week in a heterogenous hiegra of bobbed and battered Fords, miraculously rejuvenated Buicks, Cadillac and every mode and manner of motor equippage. Some cautious souls even arrived by rail, while a few ambitious youths "westonized" in via "shanks mare."

After a hectic week of "processing," the camp, comprising some two hundred and twenty students, under command of Major John T. Kennedy, has settled down to the routine study of practical courses in the duities of Field Artillery, Signal Corps, Engineers and Ordinance.

The six weeks of training given the students at the School covers every phase of the branch of the Army to which they belong. Nothing is overlooked from engineering problems to the lowly kitchen police. Students and instructors have entered into the game this year with an ardor which even the full field pack leaves undaunted. Their camp is kept in excellent condition and has the appearance of a well organized Army post.

The Field Artillery course includes Field Artillery line drill, maneuvering with guns limbered up, map reading and orientation ,reconnaissance and occupation of positions. Each student is allowed twenty rounds of 75mm. ammunition for service firing. The course is to finish with a five day hike.

The course in Engineering, comprises field application of military engineering, infantry drill, sketching, demolition, bridge and road construction, feild fortifications and wire entanglements.

The Ordinance class is studying the types and designs of Ordinance tanks and the demonstration of their uses. The course also includes the study of machine guns and automatic rifles, range demonstrations, chemical warfare, ammunition storage, use of fire control instruments ;assembly of French 75 mm. guns, service rifle and pistol. The course is finally rounded out with a long hike.

The work of the Signal Corps class includes operation of radio and the telephone ;practical application of communications; military map reading; demonstration of air service and carrier pigeons; and finally a problem in communication under field service conditions.

The first week of training has found weather conditions perfect except that "Sol" has shone exceedingly warm on several noticeable occasions. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," will not be the case during the R. O. T. C. training period. There will be a baseball team to represent each of the four units tha tcombine the Camp. There will also be a camp team to meet all outside opposition.

With the Infantry School swimming pool at their disposal, many of the students are spending the sultry afternoons and evenings in the big pool. With a vaudeville troupe showing at the 29th theater and leading screen pictures at the Main Theater, every night there is no chance for the fellows to become lonesome.

There will be a dance held for the R. O. T. C. students once each week during the training period. With the best orchestra music available, a spacious dance floor and bevys of beautiful girls, can you wonder that every one is happy at the R. O. T. C. training camp?

PRELIMINARY BOUTS TO RIVAL MAIN-GO OF FRIDAY NIGHT'S FIGHT CARD AT FT. BENNING

(By Al Durden)

With every thing in readiness for the opening gong at tonight's fight card at Fort Benning, there is nothing left to interest Fightdom until that time but fight talk.

As we all know that the main go between Ptomey and Littleton will bring together two of the leading middleweight fighters in the South, there is no need to say more on the subject. But a point that is probably being overlooked by many is the fact that the preliminary card for this event is by far the best ever booked for a Benning fight card, and one that would attract attention on any card.

The feature bout of the prelims will be a six-rounder between Blondie Parker of the I .S. D. and Smoky Van Horn of the 7th Engineers. Parker, who is well known to Columbus and Fort Benning fight fans will don the six ounce gloves fo rthe first time in his career and this is also his first six round fight. Van Horn, a veteran fighter, promises to give the blond flash a busy evening, although Parker who has been winning regularly by the Kao route with the twelve ounce mitts, is confident of a knockout victory.

Cecil Williams, welterweight champion of the 24th Inf., will meet Roy Dunn, colored professional fighter of Macon, Ga. This fight will be full of action as both fighters are fast and hard hitters, this will be a six round affair.

"Bat" Phillips, featherweight monarch in this neck of the woods, will settle an old argument with Patsy Kline of the Merita sMills of Columbus. Each boy has a victory to his credit in their two previous meetings. Phillips hopes to eliminate the lad from the Electric City, Friday night via the dreamland route.

"Buddy" Brault, All-Southern bantamweight amateur champ, will mix and mingle with "Kid" Meadows of Columbus for three rounds.

There is a possibility of "Billy" Smith, showing on this card if a suitable opponent can be obtained. This will be the last time that Benning fans will see "Billy" in action for quite a while, as he leaves for Amsterdam, Holland, as a member of the Ameriacn Amateur Boxing Team, that takes part in the Olympic games to be held there.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION WILL OBSERVE 153rd ANNIVERSARY

The Quartermaster Corps at the Infantry School will observe its anniversary tomorrow in the form of a picnic at the Aviation Field. With plenty of good eats, dancing, music and athletic contests the members of the corps at Fort Benning will have a big day according to all plans up to this time. This is the red letter day for the branch which gives "Service to the Line" and no pains have been spared in making the event at Fort Benning the biggest in the history of the local Q. M. C. Association. Major E. D. Barlow is chairman of the executive committee which has been working on plans for some time. The program will begin promptly at eight o'clock when the members will compete in a track and field meet with appropriate cash prizes as rewards for the winners. At 11 o'clock all members will assemble for a gorup picture. After that Capt. Johansen will serve plenty of good eats to the assembled party, and from the menu for the barbecue no one should want for food for several days to come. The afternoon events include a basebal lgame between the Corps and the civilian employees of the Q. M. C. at Fort Benning.

One of the features of the day will be the reading of a message from the Quartermaster-General of the Army, General B. F. Cheatham. This will be read by Col. A. B. Warfield.

These annual celebrations are always looked forward to by members of the Corps, and the Fort Benning chapter of the Association has always put on very successful programs for these occasions. However, the celebration this year will be marred by a note of sadness due to the fact that Col. Warfield will soon leave Fort Benning. He has been here four years and taken a great deal of interest in the annual birthday programs of the Corps. He has done more than his share in making these events a big success. He will make a farewell address to the members of the Association at the meeting tomorrow.

AT FORT ETHAN ALLEN

Capt. J. E. Dahlquist, Inf. ,arrived last Tuesday evening from Boston for duty on the artillery range in connection with the Machine Gun School. Capt. Dahlquist is just up from Benning, and he seemed mighty well pleased with his first glimpse of our post. This is not his first visit here, however, as he was here in 1919.—(From "Hoof Prints" June 9.)

BONNIE RETURNS HOME

Bonnie, the German police dog, owned by Lieut. E. L. Brine, 29th Infantry, has returned home. He was missing for several days, and Lieut. Brine was somewhat apprehensive as to his whereabouts and whether or not he would see him again. We are glad to report Bonnie is again enjoying the comforts of home.

WHO'S WHO!

SGT. STANLEY CARLIN

(By B. H. Cowan)

Nominating for this column this week, Sergeant Stanley Carlin, Company "E", 29th Infantry.

Just about any time you happen to be around "F" Company during the day you will be more than apt to find a blond headed Sgt. either directing some work that is being done or actively engaged as a participant in some recreation in progress. This is Carlin.

Sgt. Carlin first entered the service in October, 1919, as an administer of medicines in aqua, rather than water, for the word water was a word of too common a meaning in his new duties. He served in this branch of the service for one year.

Less than a month later, he had held up his hand and drawn down another stack, this time for three years. The service chosen this time was with the 69th Company, Coast Artillery Corps. At the end of this enlistment Carlin declared to all and sundry that he was through with the army for good, that he was going back to civilian life. Declaring that here life would be roses and the most comforting thought was, there will be no buglers to disturb early morning slumbers and at the same time remind you that your services are urgently requested by the mess sergeant for the day as a K. P. or on some range or other place to aid in a fatigue detail.

The army had become too much a part of him for him to quit the service. Just six months later he was again a part of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, this time enlisting for the infantry, and Fort Benning. On his arrival here, he was assigned to "F" Company of the 29th Infantry. Since becoming a member of that organization he has entered regularly and unshirkingly into all duties. The spirit of the company, which is one of the best within the regiment, is due in a great measure to him. Any activity that comes to the attention of the company, requiring leadership and push, finds him with his shoulder at the wheel trying to give it the necessary impetus to put it across.

Not only is Carlin a tiptop soldier but an athlete of ability. There is only one sport, however, for which he goes in regularly, football. Every year since he has been at Benning, Carlin dons a football uniform. His position is tackle, a position which he fills creditably, as many a back can testify, who has tried to gain yardage over him, later to find out that isn't done so regularly.

Sergeant Carlin claims New Orleans, Louisiana, as his home.

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 15 to JUNE 22, INCL.

FRIDAY, JUNE 15

"FOOLS FOR LUCK," starring W. C. Fields and Chester Conklin in a laugh riot. It i sthe story of a slick oil well promoter ,in which the slicker gets slicked. Everybody wants something for nothing and the efforts expended cause jocular turmoil from start to finish.

"Broncho Buster." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 47."

SATURDAY, JUNE 16

"WINNERS OF THE WILDERNESS," starring Tim McCoy, Joan Crawford and Roy d'Arcy in a vivid historical romance of early American pioneering days. Crackling scenes of Indian and Revolutionary warfare. McCoy at his best.

"Mickey's Pals." Mickey McGuire.

SUNDAY, JUNE 17

"GIRL IN EVERY PORT," Victor McLaglen of "What Price Glory" fame

VICTOR McLAGLEN IN A GIRL IN EVERY PORT

is in the lead ably supported by Louise Brooks, Natalie Joyce and Robert Armstrong. A rollicking colorful story of a hard-boiled soft-hearted mate and his 'lights o' life' in eight different ports.

"Jewels of Venus." Oddity.

"Paramount News No. 90."

MONDAY, JUNE 18

"WE AMERICANS," featuring George Sydney, Patsy Ruth Miller, and George Lewis in a penetrating and heart stirring drama of of the struggles of those who come to this country to find the gold of liberty and the priceless privilege of a new born American patriotism.

"Lights that Failed." Charlie Chase.

TUESDAY, JUNE 19

"HELLO CHEYENNE," starring Tom Mix in a western thriller. A story of rival telephone companies and a demonstration that romance still lives in the great open spaces despite the fact that many of it spicturesque features have passed on.

"Nifty Nags." Jack Duffy.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20

"THE DRAGNET," featuring George Bancroft, Evelyn Brent and William Powell in a powerful drama depicting the fight of police detective Nolan against an organized gang of crooks, their victory over him which brings about his apparent downfall, and then a magnificent comeback and the winning of the girl he loves. Bancroft, better than in "Underworld" or "The Show Down."

"Paramount News No. 91."

THURSDAY, JUNE 21

"THE ACTRESS"—Norma Shearer in a splendid performance basde on Pinero's "Trelawney of the Wells." A splendid story of the crossing paths of Rose Trelawney and Arthur Gower, the scion of a titled English family, their separation caused by the tyrannical action of the father, Sir William Gower, and their later reunion in a touchingly romantic stage scene.

"Fighting Fathers." Max Davidson.

FRIDAY, JUNE 22

"THE DOVE," featuring Norma Talmadge, Noah Beery and Gilbert Roland with Norma, the teasing, tantalizing, tango-dancing cabaret girl, and then has her romance shot to pieces—almost—by Noah Beery, the blustering "Bes' dam caballero in his countree."

"Short Circuit." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 49."

Prof: Morphy, you're the most valuable man in the class.

Morphy: How's that Doctor?

Prof.: Well, you talk in your sleep and so keep all the other men awake.

EXCELLENT MOTION PICTURES AT FORT BENNING FOR JULY AND AUGUST

The bookings for July and August were practically completed on June 1st. In addition to securing a number of excellent features, some changes were made for the benefit of patrons. Now that school is ended, instead of showing Aesop's Fables on Friday nights as heretofore, they will, beginning July 1, be shown on Sunday nights.

The policy of showing Pathe News on Friday nights and Paramount News on Wednesday and Sunday nights will continue.

Effective Monday night, July 2, the serial, entitled, "The Haunted Island," will be started, and will be run each Monday night thereafter until the ten blood-tingling episodes are completed. This is a tense mystery story of bravery and daring deeds among monsters of the sea and fiends enhabiting a desolate island in the vast Pacific.

The following are the outstanding feature pictures which will be shown at Fort Benning theatres during the next two months:

Count of Ten.
Stand and Deliver.
Legion of Condemned.
The Escape.
The Street of Sin.
The Circus.
Dressed to Kill.
The Garden of Eden.
The Devil Dancer.
The Hawk's Nest.
Romona.
Across to Singapore.
The Noose.
Flying Romeos.
The Big Noise.
Grandma's Boy (Re-issue.)
Why Sailors Go Wrong.
Hangman's House.
Hold 'Em Yale.
Hunchback of Notre Dame.
The Little Shepherd of Kindom Come.
What Price Glory.

"What Price Glory," a military picture, was especially selected for July 4. An order has been in for "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" for some time, and it at last has been secured. Both of these big pictures will be shown at fifteen cents.

DRAMATIC CLUB HOLDS ELECTION

The Fort Benning Dramatic Club held its annual election recently at the Officers Club. The following officers were elected: President, Major R. G. Ferris; vice-president, Mrs. J. F. Landis; secretary-treasurer, Capt. C. L. Bolte; business manager, Capt. P. R. Goode; director, Capt. J. C. Newton; stage manager, Capt. J. B. Sweet; publicity officer, Lieut. E. L. Stewart; play reader, Mr. G. B. Cook; play reading committee, Mrs. P. R. Goode and Capt. J. L. Collins.

Uncle Holtzman says, "I never did trust these circus freaks. Just yestiddy I seen in a paper the headline:

CAISSON RIDE FOR ARTILLERY BRIDE

Following a custom of long standing in the army, when every artillery bride was given a caisson ride, such was accorded Mrs. Shirley Hurt, a recent bride, and wife of Lt. Hurt.

The ride took place on Saturday afternoon, last. Promptly at 2 o'clock the caisson, enameled white, and drawn by eight black horses, arrived at the quarters of Lt. and Mrs. Shirley Hurt, and together they were seated thereon. Riding on the horses drawing the vehicle were eight officer friends, among them the best man.

The procession was led by Gen. Austin, chief of the artillery, with headquarters at Washington, and Gen. Collins, commandant at Fort Benning.

The bride was lovely wearing an ensemble suit of white with large picture hat to match.

Behind the bride on horseback rode her maid of honor, Miss Evelyn Trost, escorted by Major Jones and Major Marr.

After the ride around the post, the bride and groom and their escorts returned to the 83rd field artillery officers mess, where an informal reception was held in honor of Lt. and Mrs. Hurt.

Honoring Mrs. Paul Steele and Mrs. H. B. Crowell of Columbus, Mrs. Dwight L. Adams was hostess at a most delightful afternoon bridge party at her quarters recently. The house was gay with the vari-colored flowers of June. There were six tables at which pivot bridge was played. Those winning handsome leather cases holding double decks of cards, the table prizes, were Mrs. Wait C. Johnson, Mrs. John S. Roosma, Mrs. R. A. Case, Mrs. T. F. Wessells, Mrs. H. E. Pulliam and Mrs. Ben Norris. The honorees were given lovely leather bags as memoirs of the occasion.

Miss Dade Warfield leaves Sunday for the University of Virginia where she will be a student at Summer School for six weeks. After finishing her work there she will go to Cape Cod where she will visit friends.

On last Friday evening the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry gave a delightful reception and dance at which the members of the regiment who are leaving shared honors with those who are beginning service in the grand old 29th. The Hop Room was decorated with regimental flags andon tables circling the room were the trophies which have been won by various organizations in the regiment—so many and so handsome were they that the effect inspired pride in the new and old alike.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Young entertained twelve friedns at a lovely dinner on Friday evening, the party going later to the Regimental Dance at the Hop Room. Those persent were Col. and Mrs. Pendleton, Col. and Mrs. Delaplane, Col. and Mrs. Baker, Maj. and Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. McNamee and Capt. De Ware.

* * *

Mrs. Ben Norris was hostess at bridge on Thursday at her quarters.

On last Thursday Mrs. Clarence C. Harvey honored Mrs. John Tamraz and Mrs. Arthur E. Brown with a lovely bridge party. Large floor baskets were filled with colorful garden flowers and tied with fluffy bows of yellow tulle and lovely bowls of flowers were effectively used on small tables. There were four tables of players and Mrs. W. H. Vinson won high score prize, a pair of cut steel buckles. Mrs. M. C. Stayer won low, a combination box of Coty's powder and perfume. Mrs. Harvey presented her guests of honor with lovely chiffon hose. At the conclusion of the game sandwiches, cakes, iced tea and cantaloupe a la mode was served. (Every detail was in green and yellow and was so pretty.)

Capt. and Mrs. Walter Scott entertained informally at supper on Sunday evening a number of friends who are soon to leave. Those present were Capt. and Mrs. Dunlop, Capt. and Mrs. Tamraz, Capt. and Mrs. McMahon, Capt. and Mrs. Scott leave Friday for a six weeks' visit to relatives in Kansas and Missouri.

* * *

On June 26th the officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry will honor Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson with a Farewell Party.

* * *

On Sunday afternoon the 29th Band played on the lawn of Col. and Mrs. Harris Pendleton from 4 to 4:30 while the officers and ladies of the regiment called, and from 4:30 to 5:00 on the lawn of Col. and Channing Delaplane while the officers and ladies called to say "goodbye."

* * *

The members of the Quartermaster Corps will have a barbecue on Saturday on the aviation field as a farewell to Col. and Mrs. Warfield.

* * *

The Artillery Club was the scene on Friday evening of a lovely reception and dance given by the officers and ladies of the 83rd Field Artillery in honor of Major-General Fred T. Austin, Chief of Field Artillery, who spent two days last week as the guest of General and Mrs. Edgar T. Collins while he inspected the artillery unit here.

* * *

On Sunday the Officers Club will honor Col. A. B. Warfield, president of the Golf Club, and Col. Wait C. Johnson, president of the Athletic Association, wiht a golf tournament followed by a tea at the Polo Club.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. H. W. Brandhorst entertained at dinner on Tuesday Col. Graham and Mr. Friedman of Washington.

On Thursday and Friday afternoons of last week Mrs. Frederick Phelps entertained informally at bridge. There were four tables each day and pivot bridge was playde. Those winning table prizes were, on Thursday, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Dark and Mrs. Bootz; on Friday, Mrs. McNamee, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Forsyth eand Mrs. Hall. Mrs. Phelps had an original way of making the prize winners happy. After the game she invited them into the dining room where every thing "milady" needs in the way of beauty preparations was displayed and each had her choice. The guests were then served a delicious salad course on the lawn.

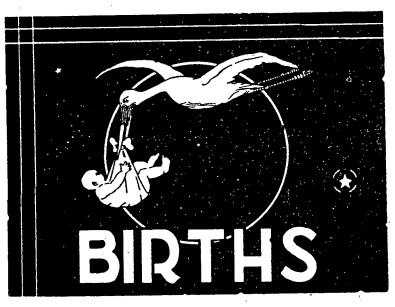
On Tuesday morning Mrs. Phelps entertained eight friends at a sewing party after which a plate luncheon was served.

"A father," says a Chicagoan, "had two sons. One went to sea and the other became vice-president of a bank. Neither has been heard of since."



Elam LaFayette Stewart, IV, son of Lieut. and Mrs. E. L. Stewart, staff, Inf. School, on June 7.

Virginia Lane Barr, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. David G. Barr, 15th Tank Battalion, on June 7.

Battery "C"

The telephones are ringing, the typewriters humming, the memograph machine going at full speed and an orderly grabs a hand full of orders and rushes out on the double. Why all the sudden burst of energy weinquire? We soon learn that all this activity is occasioned by the fact that we are going in the field for a week's training. This is Thursday afternoon, May 24th. We vacate quarters, sleep doughboy fashion, eat a hearty breakfast cooked on the rolling kitchen kitchen and leave for Harmony Church at 8:00 A. M. the 25th. We arrive before noon and take over the camp of the doughboys, which is designated as Camp Donaldson, out of respect to Major Donaldson, deceased, a former Battalion Commander.

The Battery now enters upon a phase of training which is new to most of the men. Reveille at 5:00 A. M., usually ready to leav the Gun Park with full field equipment at 7:00 A. M., for a road march or on some problem calling for occupation and selection of position, going into position with communication established from O. P. & C. P. to battery position with firing data being transmitted as in actual warfare. Limbers and communication lines hidden from the enemy. Back to camp—horses are unharnessed, groomed, watered and fed by drivers while gun material is cared for by the cannoneers. Now its chow time, no one absent from this formation—Sergeant Grider is on the job. Afternoons are devoted to various odd jobs and training of entrants for events Organization Day June 4th, Retreat, supper and the boys gather around for a game of cards, tell jokes, run races and growl. The growls are all good natured—whoever saw a soldier satisfied?

We received two new young men shortly after our arrival in camp, who could hardly be called recruits: Master Ed. Butcher and Master Bobby Winfield, these young men proved to be good soldiers and real sports. Good riders, swimmers, cannoneers and real K. P.'s.

Memorial Day, May 30th, the battery marched to Harp's Pond, full field equipment and rolling kitchen, after stables we had dinner. The boys then went swimming and boat riding until some exuberant swimmer upset the boat—Winslow had to yell for assistance. Cuthrell sat down on the smoke-stack of the rolling witchen, he got so black that Gehm ran into him—thought he was a shady spot. Say Gehm, we know you feel better, having seen your name in print. How about it Napoleon?

We wish to thank our Battalion Commander, Major Jones, for the nice things he said about us and assure him that we appreciate these things and will strive in the future to keep our good record unmarred.

We were very much disappointed because our Organization Day program had to be called off because of inclement weather.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Capt. Malcolm E. Craig held the highest scholastic record in the State Teacher's College of Missouri for the first 51 years of that institution's existence? This is the college that General Pershing attended. Capt. Craig made a higher record than General Pershing—scholastically speaking.

Capt. A. B. Helsley presented to the German Government the request from the commanding general of the American forces in Germany for the release of Naeff and Zimmer who had been sentenced to prison by a German court for the attempted kidnaping of the famous draft evader Bergdoll?

Capt. William B .Tuttle marched out of Tientsin on Xmas Day, 1925, with one squad of men to oppose a Chinese brigade of the Red Army that was advancing on the foreign concessions of that city. Halting his forces in front of the brigade, Capt. Tuttle advanced alone to offer conditions to the Chinese troops. The Chinese being unfamiliar with the nice amenities of war refused the captain's stipulations. Thereupon Capt. Tuttle ordered his squad to fix bayonets and deploy. The Chinese, who have been imitators for years, did likewise. Upon realizing this breach of etiquet, Capt. Tuttle again went forward and explained kindly but firmly, that it just wasn't done. The Chinese General much embarrassed immediately withdrew his troops.

Capt. E. M. S. Steward, who achieved fame on the night of the 24th Infantry Swimming Carnival by the rendition of his pirate songs, gained his first nautical training on board the S. S. Canadian of the Leyland S. S. Co., a British line. At the early age of 18 he shipped as Lady in Waiting to 400 steers with the rating of cattleman. The trip from Boston to Liverpool and return took three months. Capt. Steward cameto know a great deal about the steer personally—he says he is now very fond of fish.

Lieut. James T. Dismukes entertained a small group of 24th Infantry officers at an informal bridge party the other night. The guests had a very nice time. Lieut. Dismukes says that this will probably be his last entertainment as it is getting rather hot.

CAPTAIN KING ISSUES WARNING TO MOTORISTS

Capt. George L. King and family left Fort Benning the first of last week for Black Mountain, N. C., where they will stay during the summer months. We received a letter from Capt. King the other day in which the trip by motor from Fort Benning was described, and in which Capt. King issued a warning to motorists who contemplate driving north via Greenville, S. C. He stated that after leaving Greenville a mountain detour about five miles from that city is encountered, and that automobiles should be completely inspected, and a good supply of gas and oil on hand before attempting to climb this narrow and dangerous detour. He advises that another route be taken as the safest measure until the highway is again opened to traffic.

Doper: "Say, lend me a dollar and I'll be a millionaire."
Toper: "How do you figger that?"
Doper: "I already own six ciphers."

Mimi: "They tell me your expenses for beauty treatments are immense."
Fifi: "Yes, my husband says I am two-faced and have both of them lifted."

MORE THAN A FIGHTING MACHINE

Announcement by the War Department that new methods had been developed by which the normal life of rubber may be extended from a few years to approximately thirty-five years is of great economic importance.

This is only one of the many contributions of the Army to industrial life of the nation. Army engineers built many of our railroads; the Army protected the pioneers and dredged our harbors. It was the Army's sanitarians that cleaned up Havana and Panama and made the tropics habitable for white men. Its chemists have adapted war gasses to peacetime uses and have developed the gas mask for the protection of miners and firemen. Its signal corps played a prominent part in developing our telegraph system. The Army organized the Weather Bureau.

The list could be extended almost interminably, but the point is that the Army has returned to us in peace time benefits far more than it ever cost.

It does many things besides fight.—Seattle Times.

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

Advanced Class News

The formation taken up by the Advanced Class immediately following the conclusion of the graduation exercises constitute the best demonstration of an anti-aircraft protective measure that we have ever seen. Not even our own chauvinistic aviator, Captain Cole, commanding a squadron of the most futuristic combination attack, bombing and pursuit planes, could have obtained more than one casualty from that rapidly disbanding company of recently certified Von Moltkes.

We are scattered indeed. President Mason, Vice President Baxter, and Club Representative Dusenbury are now in Europe. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Captain Hamblen, is the only class official who didn't go abroad after his term of office expired. The fact that the treasury was 85 cents in the hole at the conclusion of Captain Hamblen's encumbancy may or may not have had something to do with the Chancellor's decision not to travel extensively during the summer.

President Mason's European objective is a comprehensive survey of world affairs by which he hopes to relieve the brain fag induced by the intensive study o fthe Nine Principles of War, as applied to the Howitzer Platoon in attack. Vice President Baxter, in addition to effecting a reunion with his family, is investigating a new earth induction coordinate finder, said to have been perfected by the German General Staff.

Club Representative Dusenbury, whose chief criticism of the conduct of the World War is that it did not permit him to see Paris is going back to round out his A. E. F. experiences.

Captain and Mrs. Michael Heraty are leaving shortly for an extensive ground reconnaissance of the Gettysburg-Antietam area which Captain Heraty greatly desires to make before the impending Fall and Winter campaigns. Miss Heraty, one of the most popular Advanced Class debutantes ,will accompany her parents.

Social Items From Garrison Headquarters

Having successfully completed our Course at the Infantry School, we have accepted a temporary position at Garrison Headquarters, where we associate with the High Hats, of whom we have previously stood in great awe ,on terms of equality. We have a cool and comfortable office, a competent stenographer, a considerable measure of self-determination as regards working hours—almost everything in fact that an officer of our special qualifications and aesthetic tastes could desire.

In addition to our regular duties, we have assumed something of the Petronian office of arbiter elegantariun, one of our first official acts in this agreeable capacity being to pass our opinion on an Hawaiian costume, grass skirt and ever'thing, which our stenographer had just received from a friend in Honolulu. Needless to say ,it met with our enthusiastic approval and, in the hope that it was to be adopted as a suitable hot weather working uniform, we made a special effort to be on the job early the next morning. We confess to an acute feeling of disappointment when Miss Browning showed up in the usual conventional attire, but perhaps it is just as well for the administration of Fort Benning that the grass skirt is to be reserved for costume parties. As it is, the interest which the high power executives, Adjutants, General, Aides-de-Camp, Presidents of the Athletic Association and Operating Surgeons seem to take in the affairs of this office, is adversely effecting our work.

Athletic Notes

It was our privilege to witness the imposing pageant which marked the opening of the Fort Benning League Baseball Season. The pageant was under the direction of Captain W. B. Tuttle, a prominent oriental theatrical producer. A massed band and 250 uniformed baseball players, armed with bats, participated, and penants and cups were sprinkled throughout the procession in great profusion. As the gay clad column moved with stately tread around the arena, it was lustily cheered by the fifteen spectators who displayed even greater enthusiasm when Major Joe Russ, hastily summoned from the golf links to substitute for Mayor Dimon, threw in the first ball. Fighting our way back through the crowd, we returned to our clerical labors, mentally resolving never to miss a Tuttle demonstration if we can help it.

Our last week's literary experiment in vers libre, if that is what it was, having caused no official or social complications, we were almost tempted to try another metrical version of Tactical Topics. The Muse, however, was obdurate and we finally decided tha tthis week's contribution would have to be prose or nothing.

OFFICERS ON DUTY AT POST EXCHANGE

Lieuts. Waine Archer and H. V. Brown are now on duty at the main office of the Post Exchange. Lieut. Archer will take the place of Capt. McCord, who is now on leave. Lieut. Brown, a graduate of this year's class, Inf. School, will be on duty here for several months when he will go to Fort Leonard Wood and enter the Tank School next year. Lieut. Brown was formerly in charge of the Post Exchange at Fort Harrison, Ind.

ORDERED TO CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Capt. S. L. Dunlop, 24th Infantry, will leave Fort Benning within a few days for Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., where he will be on the staff of instructors of military science and tactics. Capt. Dunlop has been here for over two years, and for a short time was Pres. of the Inf. School Athletic Association. He is a graduate of the Co. Officers Class, 1926.

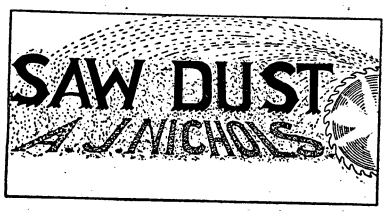
W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.



The long, hot and comparatively quiet days of summer make the life of an amateur columnist very, very unpleasant. The calm of vacation is not conducive to voluminous writings. The absence of so many familiar characters and the presence of so many summer bachelors are having a very destructive effect upon the editor of this column. We sometime ponder over the joys and irresponsibility of those who merely have to read this paper. So please, if you can help us out with a few little society items, do so for the assistance will be greatly appreciated.

We hasten to correct an impression given by the Infantry School News of last week. On the front page of this issue the News carried a statement to the effect that Captain Holmes Ely Dage, Adjutant of the 29th Infantry, had moved to Columbus, Georgia. We wish to add t othis terse statement that Mrs. Dager also moved to Columbus. We will take a red one, Henry.

In answer to Harry Gwynn's query, "Do you know that," we are not only going to confess our ignorance but feel compelled to express our total indifference to the accomplishments, ambitions and doings of the great and near-great (we almost spelled those "grate").

We notice "by the paper" that "Ham" Kelly, of the Post Exchange and proud owner of "The Spirits of Corn" has gone to Warm Springs. It does seem to us that Ham is just a little extravagant for had he stayed at Fort Benning, cranked up The Spirit of Corn and taken a ride on some of the Fort Benning roads, he would have gotten not warm but HOT springs. We don't know but we think the heat causes all this.

If we were not on a diet, we should very much like to go over and sing to Bill Tuttle EFH's refrain anent sassafras and corn juice cause we are getting very depressed. And speaking of the valedictory of the poet-lariat of the Upatoi, there were certainly sufficient references to spirits for it to qualify for one of Sir Conan Doyle's writings.

And of all things that may happen to an Editor, our own has proudly announced to the world in general and to the staff in particular, the birth of a bounding baby boy. We hope his name will not be Elam, Jr., and if the genial Editor of the News, so desires we shall be very glad to run a contest and select a suitable name for hi snew chief of staff. We are trying to connect this event with the hirsute growth that has appeared upon the upper lip of Editor Stewart in the last day or so.

THE PERSONAGE OF THE WEEK: Its really too hot to bother about that.

RIFLE TEAM LEAVES FOR CAMP PERRY

Tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team, 1928, have been completed at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Twenty of the best rifle shots in the United States Army who won places on the team will proceed to Erie Proving Ground, Ohio, at such time as will enable them to report on or by June 15, 1928, to Captain Elmer G. Linerdbroth, captain of the team, for temporary duty in connection therewith

The Infantry boasts one of the strongest teams this year of all times and unless something unforeseen happens, this year should be crowned with another victory for the Infantry.

Several youngsters broke into the spotlight during this year's tryouts. Most noticeable of these was Corporal David Hamscher, Co. "A" 29th Infantry, who finished the tryout sin third palce, this being his first year to enter competition.

The following named enlisted men, members of the organizations as indicated, are members of the Infantry Rifle Team, 1928:

1st Sgt. Corbett Meeks, Co. "L", 11th Inf.
Sgt. William F. Bissenden, Co. "G", 8th Inf.
Pvt. 1cl. Seth Carlson, Co. "E", 4th Inf.

CORPORAL RITCH ON RECRUITING DUTY

Corporal Jackson F. Ritch, a soldier of the old school, who has been doing squads-right and squads-left with "F" Company of the 29th Infantry since last September, has recently been assigned to recruiting service and sent to his native state, Florida, to get more men to become members of Uncle Sam's already big family of contented soldiers.

Corporal Ritch has been in the army since Fido was a pup (and he's a big dog now) and he is military from a to z. He knows his duty and he carries it out precisely. He always saw to it that members of his squad were not asleep on the job. While he believed in strict observance of all orders and showed favors to none, he was liked by all the men he came in contact with. In other words, he was and is an outstanding soldier.

Having just spent a three months' reenlistment furlough in the land of sunshine and flowers (as well as alligators and mosquitoes), Corporal Ritch evidently decided he would be doing his country a good deed by getting them in the army, where they don't have to worry about their next meal and place to sleep.

While Corporal Ritch will be missed in Fort Benning, we are glad that he was successful in getting the kind of work he desired. —R. M. J.

METCALF REMODELING STORE

The little white front store at 1006 Broad street operated by Mr. Metcalf, is soon to give way to a larger and better establishment. During the past year this little store has constantly increased its business until the present volume of trade is so large that Mr. Metcalf says that he is unable to operate with his present fixtures.

This increase is probably due to the progressive methods adopted by this merchant. He sells for cash, at a small margin of profit, depending upon a rapid turnover. Soldiers, before purchasing your civilian outfit it'll pay you to look Metcalf's suits over. See ad in this issue of the Infantry School News.

Company "E"

We are getting ready to indulge in the regular target season of 1928. We start instruction practiceon July 18, the hottest part of the year. The more you sweat the better you shoot.

Two men are getting discharges this week, Sergeant Halpern and Corporal Snider. Sgt. Halpern is re-enlisting but Corporal Snider is not. We are sorry to loose Corporal Snider.

We are glad to see one of our Sgts. come back from recruiting duty, Sgt. Henry Matthews. He has just taken a 30 days furlough but will be back for duty July 5, 1928. Privates Campbell, Langley, Tucker are at present enjoying 30 days furloughs.

What wsa the matter with "Jaw Bone" corner last night? Oh! Pvt. Lamb and Pfc. Goble Davis must not have gone to town last night. Pvt. Lamb took his girl t the Ice Cream aPrlor the other night and after being served the waiter asked for the price and Lamb quickly responded with the question that is familiar to us all "Is Canteen Checks good?"

Some one ask "Horse Fly" Hornsby what was his new job and he replied I'm a blacksmith in the dining room. How's that? Shoo-ing flies.

It may be too far in the future but nevertheless Pfc. Ben R. Thomas has it all figured out that far. He says "When he gets his discharge July 8, 1928, he expects to visit Lanet, Alabama, to see one of his girls." Tommy says, "She's not my best girl but just 'necks' best."

As I was standing by the bus station down town the other day I saw Pfc. Goble Davis tip his hat to a nice looking dame and I asked him what was the big idea when he didn't even know her. Davis said, "Well, that is Sgt. Boling's girl and I borrowed his hat tonight."

Some one asked Cpl. Schlotterbeck and Pfc. Coo kjust why they were late getting back from their three-day pass and naturally Cpl. Schlotterbeck had some excuse. He said, "They were out riding i na 1918 model Ford and their tail light went out and that they were up all night looking for green oil."

A. P. G.

Company "F"

To the regret of the First Platoon and the Company as a whole, Lieut. Brandhorst has been relieved from this organization.

Corporal Hicks, one of "F" Co.'s most illustrious members, departed last week to Camp Perry, Ohio, as a member of the Infantry Rifle Team. Here's wishing you the bestof luck, "Nub", we're counting on you to bring home the bacon.

Last Sunday afternoon Davis, W. C., Hawkins, Reedy Duncan and Ye Scribe explored the darkest jungles of the Reservation. To cap th eclimax of a series of exciting events, Hawkins and the undersigned played the role of cowboys by riding a Missouri thoroughbred. Hawk proved to be quite an equestrian—but I'll tell the rest of the story later.

Shorty Wilkinson gets our votes as the most valuable man to the Company. The writing desks and Victrola cabinet which he has recently completed are a work of art and are admired by every one who has had a chance to see them.

Joe Passarelli says that every time he comes off guard he meets himself going on. Cheer up Joe— it won't be long until we don our shooting coats.

The Company will miss "Spic" Conley. He wa salways in the midst of every athletic activity and was popular throughout the Regiment.

K. CLARK.

Company "H"

We are now undergoing the hardship of being on Fire Guard for the week ending June 16, 1928. Judging from the way that some of the men come to the Orderly room during the holidays to check out to go to the "Whirl of Girls" show, now showing at the Twenty-Ninth Infantry Theater, some of them will have a rather short pay envelope when that eventful day, June 30, 1928, has been stricken from the calendar. I truly hope that the yare having a good time while it lasts, because the money will run out some of these days, and then—.

Three rousing good cheers for the Mess Sergeant of Company "H", 29th Infantry!!! He is a firm believer in that old axiom that stat esthat the only way to reach a soldier's heart is through his stomach. Well boys, he certainly has made a friend of me. I mean that that friendship is everlasting too. One day he gives us vegetables that are vegetables, the next day (which is Friday), fish, the next he gives us BEANS, and on Sunday he gives us CHICKEN. He told me that it was frickershed (if that's the wa yit is spelled), chicken. Personally, I don't give a rap if it was RICOCHET—— it was certainly good. (Sergeant Kenneth L. (Euraphton) Bauer will testify to that fact. Sergeant Bauer did, on or about the tenth (10) day of June, 1928, about the hour of noon of said day, eat the better part (if not the whole), of a RICOCHET CHICKEN. This was done in the presence of one, William S. (Red) Jones, to whom is gratefully conceeded second place in said contest. Request that the Mess Sergeant deprive these two men of the basic part of three (3) whole meals in order to make up to the Company for what they ate on or about June 10, 1928.

Corporal Meadows and the undersigned have gotten their time cut down to bus fare, 30 days. Then back to Tennessee and Mississippi, respectively.

B. B. SWAYZE.

WAR DEPT. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

According to a recent bulletin issued by the War Department, the annual championship tournament of the Army Tennis Association, will be held in Washington, D. C., July 30 to August 4, inclusive, this year. The Leach Cup Tennis Match to be played against the Navy will be played August 18.

As is suggestive by it's name, the tournament is a yearly occurrence. The best talent of the army assembles here to stage their friendly, though fiercely contested matches. The tennis played in tournament is the highest quality and ranks favorably with any of the other matches staged elsewhere in the country.

Following a policy adopted in recent years, each Corps Area selects a team as their representative to send to Washington. In this way only the best of the talent wields a racquet and as before mentioned high class tennis prevails.

QUARTERMASTER CHIT-CHATS

Rain! Rain! Rain! What a doleful way to start the first week of vacation! But then, y'know, Longfellow summed it up mighty well when he said, "Be still, sad heart, and cease repining! Behind the clouds is the sun still shining. Thy fate is but the common fate of all, for into each life, some rain must fall! Some days be dark and dreary!" Lovely thoughts for these days when the rain rains, and the roads develop chuck holes, and one's patience is sorely tried!

The Quartermaster Corps' star performer, Mrs. Drane, has covered herself with glory the past week. Saturday afternoon she sang at the Roberts-Miller wedding, and Tuesday night she sang at the Colonel Warfield's farewell party to the Kiwanians, staged at the Polo Club.

Miss Marjory Zettler's desk, of course, has the daily bouquet. Ye Chit-Chat scribe has tried diligently for two years to find out who this mysterious admirer of Marge's is. To date, no success! Which speaks well for the Sherlock Holmes proclivities of said scribe!

"Hollyhock House," Mr. Ford's Benning boulevard home, is very attractive these days, with vari-colored gladioli making bright splotches of colors all around, and giving a note of spring.

Mr. Mary's proud expression these days leads one to wonder if it is spring, or what, that causes such, and it develops that his eldest daughter, Barbara, has added laurels to the family crown by graduating from the local grammar tank. Miss Mary is now quite a young lady, and will enter high school this fall.

Colonel Warfield entertained with a farewell party for the Kiwanians Tuesday night, at the Polo Club. Our Colonel has been a most efficient Kiwanian during his stay at Benning, and often has spoken at special meetings and regular meetings of this organization.

Major John D. Kilpatrick, from the office of the Chief of Construction Service, Washington, was a visitor at Benning Tuesday and Wednesday. While here, Major Kilpatrick was the guest of Lt. Allison, local constructing quartermaster.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

"We wanta furlow." There's absolutely no gold-bricking going on in the print shop these days. Evreybody is busy as a setting-hen, what with Pressman Malo turning out targets by the thousands; Linotype Operators Dollar and Jenrette knee-deep in work on a style manual; Mr. Davidson making said style manual into pages, and Louie Rowe running 'em off on the Kelley fast as Captain Whisner can get 'em okehed. Yes, let us repeat: "We wanta furlow."

Among the comparatively new comers to the print shop is Private James F. Thagard, alleged hand compositor. Thagard was in F Company of the 29th Infantry, but he decided he'd rather hunt for printers' lice than do his stuff in a line outfit, so he persuaded his Uncle Sam to transfer him to the Quartermaster.

Corporal Harry Manning still remains the undisputed sheik of the print shop—at least in said corporal's own opinion.

Private Middleton, clerk ,is planning on taking a furlough soon. He hails from Nebraska, and something back there seems to require his presence for a month or so.

Private Johnny Heisler, oh yes, he's still here and has only about twenty-seven (more or less) years to do before retiring.

R. M. J.

"Who fiddled while Rome burned?" asked the school teacher.
"Hector."
"No."
"Towser."
"Towser! What do you mean? It was Nero."
"Well, I knew it was somebody with a dog's name."

FIRST WEEK OF INFANTRY SCHOOL BASEBALL SERIES

By Al

With three separate leagues fighting it out in the Infantry School summer loop, it looks as if the personnel of the Garrison will be well taken care of in this line of amusement during the summer afternoons.

The Greencords from the I. S. D. were picked as pennant contenders at the beginning of the season, but with Morris, pitching ace, and McCarthy, star catcher, on furlough, Detachment stock has taken a slight tumble.

The "Red Reeders" from the 1st Bn. 29th Inf., show a fast line-up of heavy hitters that would go a long ways with a couple of capable twirlers. But with Mays discharged and Ole Man Mcgaha holding out, the Reeder Clan is finding the going ruff.

Beginning baseball practice when most people were going duck hunting, the Terrible Tankers have developed a team this season that promises to give the Kellys a fight before the finish of the season. The fighting spirit of the artillerymen has gained them many admirers during the past two seasons although they finished at the bottom of the league.

In the "C" league, the "Reds" with their veteran lineup and two of the Garrison's leading twirlers for mound duty, are heavy favorites. But if it were not for upsets of baseball why fandom would cease to be interested. And who knows? The "Blues" have proved a stubling block for the "Reds" on several occasions, while the Tankers and Detachmenteers have served them some very surprising and unlooked for defeats in seasons past. But if the old dope bucket remains in a vertical pose, why it looks like the "Reds" are going to be hard to check.

The "A" league fight will be closest of all, with the teams nearly evenly matched this promises to be a battle all the way.

At the present time the finish promises to be a three cornered affair with the Mule Skinners, Howitzers and Engineers fighting it out, with the Bridge builders a slight favorite over their Doughboy opponents.

Still there is the Q'Emmers and Gassers to be reckoned with, either of these teams may prove a dark horse in the ensuing race. But with the season hardly underway and many games yet to be played, I would be forced to pick the Bridgebuilders for first honors in the Minor league race.

24th INFANTRY OFFICERS HOLD SWIMMING PARTY

Everything from low comedy to the very highest of musical art featured the program which made the Twenty-fourth Infantry's swimming party at the post pool on Tuesday evening one of the most enjoyable events of the year.

Undaunted by the clouds that threatened and occasionally swept throughout Tuesday afternoon, more than a hundred officers and ladies gathered at the pool at 6:15 p. m. The program was started with some contests which permitted a number of the regiment's aquatic enthusiasts to display their skill and displacement. In the first of these events Lieutenant Boineau and Capt. Jenna started—or attempted to start—a boat race, using bathtubs for the boats. Owing t othe lack of familiarity of both contestants with the craft on which they were mounted ,the race was never finished. However, Capt. Jenna stuck to his boat for a measured space of six inches and an elapsed time of three seconds, and for the unusual performance of staying three seconds around a bathtub Lieutenant Jenna was awarded a prize.

In the next event, designated the "Age and Beauty" race, age, represented by three captains headed by Captain Malcolm E. Craig, went down to defeat—though a glorious one, before the efforts o fthe following beauties: Lieutenants Boineau, Greene and Forse. The race was aboard logs—at least, they were aboard most of the time.

Then came the nightgown race, in which Captain E. M. S. Steward, Captain John C. Newton, Captain C. L. Steel and Captain Pleas B. Rogers temporarily concealed their charms under nightgowns and raced to the raft and back. Captain Steward had a slight advantage, in view of the fact that his nightgown would not reach to where it could impede his action, but in spite of this the sterling effort of Captain Newton was rewarde dwith success and he came in winner.

The feature event of the contest was a lighted candle race, in which Captains Steward, Winfield and Newton and Lieutenant Camp swam a race with lighted candles. Captain Newton was declared the winner, although no candle came back lighted to the starting point. The decision was protested by Captain Steward, who claimed taht when Captain Newton's light went out, the latter maliciousl yand deliberately raised a number twelve foot eight inches from the surface of the water and let it fall, thereby causing a flood which extinguished his candle. The only point of his claim which could be proven was the size of the foot, and th eprotest finally wa soverruled by the committee.

In the bundle race, at the word "go" Lieutenant Camp, Captain S. L. Dunlop, Captain Winfield and Capt. Rogers each was handed package by lady judges appointed for the occasion. The contestant was then required to don the article or articles contained in the bundle, receive the approval of the lady judge as to whether it or they were properly on, and race back to the raft. The winner, Captain Dunlop, received a pair of red garters and a boudoir cap. He adjusted the garters most fetchingly, but forgot the cap. However, he was awarded the prize, partly because Lieutenant Camp's bloomers were distressingly inclined to sag in important places. All prizes were awarded by Colonel Wait C. Johnson, regimental commander.

After the scheduled athletic events the party adjourned to tables prepared under the trees on the west side of the pool where a picnic supper was served—and, apparently enjoyed—certainly, destroyed. After the supper the entire company enjoyed some unusual entertainment. First, Lieut. and Mrs. J. R. Moon sang a number of songs which were heartily applauded. Next Capt. Jenna took the spotlight, and thenceforward was a permanent fixtures there. His whistling, which next to the roads, is the pride of Fort Benning, couldn't be continued long enough to satisfy his audience. Then Capt. Cecil Rutledge, who, fortunately, was a guest, couldn't make his voice behave, ad joined Captain Jenna in trying to get the assemblage to sing. Most of them couldn't, and the rest didn't want to for fear they wouldn't hear Jenna and Rutledge, so the two obliged with a numbe rof songs. Then Lieutenant F. W. Wennerberg gave a number of touching reminiscences, including one about the poor Scotchman who, in trying to get his money's worth out of a pig's knuckle ,ate his arm off up to the elbow. Jumbo Steward came to the front again with some nautical ballads, featured by dramatic gestures.

After much persuasion Mrs. Ernest Barker, silently supported by Captain Rutledge, consented to sing, but not enough, and, finally, Jenna, Rutledge Steward and Captain Feodor Schmidt formed a quartet and sang "Sweet Adeline"—or, rather, "Sweet Ad-oOline." The evening was then deemed a complete success and everyone went home.

The committee which had charge of the party was composed of Captains Harry M. Gwynn, F. S. Mansfield and Lieutenant Waine Archer. Among the guests were Colonel and Mrs. Paul Galleher, Captain and Mrs. Rice, Major and Mrs. Lewis, Captain and Mrs. Rutledge, Captain and Mrs. Halloran, Lieutenant and Mrs. Barker, Lieutenant and Mrs. Jackson, Captain and Mrs. Tamraz, Major and Mrs .Ryder, Lieutenant and Mrs. Haynes, Major and Mrs. Loyd Jones.

TECHNICAL SERGEANT JOHN H. WAGNER

By Sgt. Reynolds

Everyone should be well acquainted with Technical Sergeant John H. Wagner, of the Detachment, Quartermaster Corps, affectionately known as "Johnny Bull," by his comrades and associates. Sergeant Wagner has been First Sergeant of the Detachment for a number of years. Prior to that assignment he was in chargeof the old Compress Warehouse in Columbus, where he first started his activities about the same time Camp Benning was occupied.

Sgt. Wagner is possessor of an enviable record, having first seen service wit hthe Volunteers during the Spanish-American War. He has been discharged as an enlisted man on nine occasions with Character "Excellent". Was holder of a commission during the World War, and is now a Reserve Officer in the Quartermaster Corps. He will be eligible for retirement not many moons hence and will have earned the right to take things easy for the rest of his life.

Sgt. Wagner first saw the light of day at St. Joseph, Mo., on January 13, 1875, but now claims as his home the land of sunshine and movie stars (sunny California). He has always proven himself to be one of the best soldiers in the Quartermaster Corps.

"Why are you walking so slowly?"
"Oh, so that if I fall asleep I won't fall so hard."

"Doctor I'm going to die."
"What makes you think so?"
"My lifetime fountain pen just broke."

He: I shall take you to the zoo.
She: No. If they want me they'll come after me.

Many girls who have left home under a cloud have returned with a silver fox lining.

CHANGES IN OFFICERS IN TANK BATTALION

Quite a number of changes will take place this summer in the 15th Tank Battalion, according to last week's Tank Weekly. Officers who are now with the battalion and will attend the Inf. School next year are Lieuts. Chas. Carlton, Tom Brinkley, C. M. Smith, Clyde Grady, and T. L. Dunn; Capts. W. G. Hilliard and John A. Ridgers. As replacements for the above officers the following have already reported for duty: Capt. James Taylor, Capt. K. G. Althaus, Lieuts. G. C. Brandt, Bob Childs and R. T. T. McLamore.

OFFICERS TRANSFERRED TO TANKS

Lieuts. R. McDonald, Johnnie Roosma, Wayne C. Smith and K. F. March ,all of the 29th Infantry, were transferred to the 15th Tank Battalion, according to recent War Dept. Orders.

AUTO TIRES

Are now on sale at reduced prices at the Post Exchange filling station. It was stated that a reduction of from twelve to twenty-five per cent. has been made on new tires.

LOEWENHERZ FIRE

The Loewenherz store located on Broad street, was recently visited by a small fire, but due to the prompt arrival and the efficient conduct of the Columbus Fire Department, the flames were soon subdued without much loss to the store. We at Fort Benning are glad that the loss sustained by Mr. Loewenherz is neglible; his store is regarded by the personnel here as one of Columbus' most popular stores.

GUEST AT HOME OF CAPTAIN GWYNN

Mrs. E. E. Tierney, of Fort Monroe, Va., arrived the first of the week to be guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Gwynn and Capt. Gwynn. She will make an extended visit with her daughter.

BEACH-MOSELY COMPANY

BITS AND TIPS

By Hasbeen

They're off. Just when it seemed as if the baseball tangle would never unsolve itself, two new leagues, known as Series "A", composed of company teams, and Series "B", made up of Battalion clubs, got under way to a good start Wednesday, June 6th. On Saturday, June 16th, another league comprising two battalions of the 24th Infantry, the Tanks, and the I. S. D. made their bow and until the middle of September the ring of hits and near hits will resound across Gowdy Field.

Newman, the 2nd Bats big southpaw, inaugurated the season by fanning the first three men to face him.

To Franz goes the credit for the first hit of the season. His torrid drive tore a shoe loose from the 1st Battalion's third sacker. The fat boy also chalked up the first stolen base.

Reeder, in the opener, made a nice play on Kjelstrom's dragging bunt. It took a perfect play to retire the 2nd Bats' captain.

One thing that impressed the writer during the opening week was the wealth of good material on the Post. Where were all these players hiding while the Post team was playing the college teams? As each team paraded its lineup the old guard behind first base, the same group that never misses an inning, was puzzled to learn that so and so was not good enough to make the team. Maybe a lot of them are late starters but from their present form it is difficult to see how they were kept idle when a base hit was so badly needed in more than one game this spring.

Cobb is playing nice ball for the Tankers. His running back catch of a hump back liner early in the week was a gem. He has the team on its toes and they are turning in a nice brand of ball every time they start.

"Red" Lindsay seems to be the Marberry of this league. In every game but one the Red Top has been called upon to relieve some pitcher in distress. Red is meeting the ball nicely but wasting a lot of good hits by hitting too soon.

Cleveland of the I. S. D. is fielding and hitting nicely. Just add a little pep and ginger to your work. Every pitcher likes to hear hi sinfield sounding off.

Toll, of the green hat cords, socked that old apple in one game. Every time up he caught it on the seam for a long ride. It is those long ones that keeps the crowd until the last out.

Perkins, the big Engineer pitcher, has the fastest ball in the league. Big boy learn to control it and with a change of pace coupled with the hook you have there will be more than one contract waiting for your signature.

Briner, of the Engineers, and Gullett of the Tanks, both loose, rangy shortstops, are in line to go higher.

Many, many errors of ommission were committed this first week. Possibly as the teams round into form these boners will disappear, however, we will pass up the skull miscues and dwell on one play that wa spulled three times. An unpardonable sin in professional ball is going into a base, when a play is being made, standing up. A sliding pit is in some corner of every ball park in organized ball. Seldom, if ever, is a man hurt if he hits the dirt properly. Those that come up with broken ankles are those who usually start to slide and then fail to go through with it. For those who come in standing up on a close play a remedy has been in existence for many, many years, i. e., the offender will usually spend many anxious moments dodging bean balls from every pitcher in the league. Yes, Johnny, sliding pads should be worn until your ball days are over. More anon.

Abe: "What's Jake doing now?"
Labe: "Making experiments for a drug store."
Abe: "Chemist, eh?"

LETTER OF COMMENDATION

To the Officers and Enlisted Men of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry:

1. The Regumental Commander desires to express his appreciation for, and to inform the Regiment of, the creditable service rendered by the following namd officers and enlisted men, who by rason of their superior skill in rifle marksmanship, have been selected as members of the Infantry Team squad 1928.

1st Lieut. R. O. Bassett, Jr., 29th Inf.

2nd Lieut. Thomas B. Gailbreath, 29th Infantry.

Corporal David Hamscher, Co. "A", 29th Inf.

Corporal Hearschell F. Hicks, Co. "F", 29th Inf.

Corporal Albert B. Larimore, Co. "B", 29th Inf.

Corporal Clyde Taylor, Co. "G", 29th Infantry.

2. The number of candidates selected from the 29th Infantry is an outstanding tribute to the ability and skill of the regimental personnel in rifle marksmanship and serves to enhance the reputation and prestige of the Regiment throughout the Infantry.

3. The Regiment congratulates the officers and enlisted men named on their important achievement.

By order of Colonel Pendleton.

H. E. DAGER,
Captain, 29th Infantry,
Adjutant.

A CORRECTION

In last week's story of the baseball program for the summer, it was stated that last year's pennant was hoisted on the flag pole on Gowdy Field. The pennant which flew over the field for the first game of the year was an old pennant, and was not one which had been won by any team. We're sorry.

"THE PILL-ROLLER"

They call him a pill-roller we wonder why,
What's the meaning of this name they all apply?
He's just a man, a soldier like the rest,
A member of an outfit known as the best.

He cares for the sick, does all that he can,
To keep the line fit and make them a man,
He works long hours while others are at play,
Saturdays, Sundays as well as any other holiday.

He looks after the gold-bricks, lame, lazy as well,
And oft times tells them to go to hell,
He puts up with a lot, back-talk and profane,
But to do his duty well, is only his one aim.

When his time is up and he's back where he began,
He looks at his finals and takes on again.
Three more years resting on his shoulders,
He goes back to the sick, he's but a Pill-Roller.

CAPTAIN WILSON TO TAKE CHARGE BOXING PROGRAMS

Important Announcement Made This Week of Interest to Fight Fans

Last Monday Captain William B. Tuttle, President of the Infantry School Athletic Association, announced that Captain J. J. Wilson, 24th Infantry, now on special duty with the Association, and a graduate of this year's company officers class, would be placed in charge of the Fort Benning boxing programs. Captain Wilson will have complete charge of the matchmaking of all future shows succeeding Captain Hugh C. Barclay, 24th Infantry, who will take advantage of an extended leave of absence early in July, prior to his attendance as a student in the Company Officers Class early in September.

Captain Wilson has had an extensive experience in the realm of fightdom in the army for the past seven or eight years. While he was stationed at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, he was in charge of the fights there, and in fact, initiated the big boxing programs at the Kentucky post. The fights at that place drew hundreds of fans from the city across the river, Cincinnati. The success of these fights, which Captain Wilson promoted for several years, was well known throughout the states of Ohio and Kentucky. His success there was just a small beginning to the achievements along this line, which followed him wherever he was transferred in the military service.

In 1922, Captain Wilson was stationed at Fort Benj. Harrison, Indiana. Upon his arrival there he found that fighting at that army station, which is one of the biggest in the middle west, was an unknown quantity. However, wtihin a short time boxing bouts were held at Fort Harrison. The crowds became larger every week, and Capt. Wilson saw the immediate necessity of enlargment of accommodations for the big crowds which were so eager to witness some real bouts. He at once, with little assistance, erected under his personal supervision, a boxing arena at Fort Harrison, which is today considered one of the best in that section of the country. During the summers of 1923 and 1924 hundreds of people came from all parts of the state of Indiana to witness fights and fighters who came there from New York, Chicago and other large centers of fightdom. As a result of his efforts a mortgage on the post farm at Fort Harrison was cleared.

Late in the fall of 1924, fightdom at the Indiana state capitol was sorely disappointed when War Dept. orders were issued which sent Capt. Wilson to the far away Philippines. The Army and Navy Club, of Indianapolis was a new organization that year, and debts had been contracted, and it looked as though the club would have to be suspended. Capt. Wilson came to the rescue of the organization, and on the night before he left Indianapolis for the Philippines, there was staged the biggest fight card that was ever put on in that city. It was held in Tomlinson Hall, and it was stated that no bigger crowd had ever gathered there before that time. The main attraction at this fight was Young Stribling. That was the grand finale of Capt. Wilson's success at Fort Harrison.

Success followed him to the Far East, and there fights were put over in such manner as never before seen in the Philippines.

In addition to being a fight promoter, Capt. Wilson has the reputation of being the best referee in the middle west.

FORT BENNING HAS LARGEST SUNDAY SCHOOL IN UNITED STATES ARMY

While the eyes of the nation has watched with pride the meteoric rise and success of the Infantry School at Fort Benning, other activities at the School have been keeping pace within their own lines of endeavor.

Most noticeable of these is the Infantry School Sunday School, which is the largest in the United States Army. On the rolls are 181 members of which number seventy-two are enlisted men of the post, while the remainder are officers and their wives, wives of enlisted men, and the children of officers and enlisted men.

Unlike most Sunday schools, every member of Fort Benning's Sunday School, lays claim to the distinction of being an active member. This fact is attested by the number of activities carried on by the organization.

Every Wednesday evening members of the 29th Inf., 83rd Field Artillery, and the 15th Tank Battalion, hold prayer meetings at the chapel. These young men have also organized a Bible class. This class will sponsor various social and recreational activities—church parties and "socials".

Classes are taught by both officers and enlisted men. Chaplain John R. Wright, who has recently come to Fort Benning from Presidio of San Francisco, Ca., is in charge of these activities.

CAPT. WICKLIFFE

Of the 83rd F. A. Battalion received orders yesterday which transfer him to Washington for duty in the Office of the Judge Advocate General.

ENGINEERS TAKE LONG LEAD IN "A" LEAGUE BALL

After the day's work is over and the Battalion "ball-busters" are through there are always a handful of hours for the boys to find something to do; and them is when the Daylight Saving League goes to work. If the long hours of late afternoon hang heavy on your hands and you seek such restful recreation as baseball fans enjoy be sure that your eyesight is good and your heart is not weak for the Class "A" ball games are hectic sessions, no less.

Anything can happen in the Twilight Saving League. Soldiers get four bases on four balls; soldier swatters swing wildly at highs and lows and ins and outs through goose-egg innings and then tighten up and hammer the old apple all over the garden to the delight of the few faithful ones who stayed to see the last "out" even after the wise guys thought the game was on "ice."

Getting down to cases it certainly looks as though Al Dunden of the Infantry School News has made a good guess in picking the pennant possibilities in the Twilight Tussle. The Engineers from Engineer Hill, Fort Benning, Ga., have routed all opposition to date. Opening the season with a 15 to 0 slaughter of the Howitzer lads, the Gin-Ears next dished up a 7 to 2 setback to the Q-Emmers, followed by a 6 to 4 wrangle with the combined Medico-C. W. S. aggregation that was anybody's old ball game right up to the last out. "Rained out" spoiled a nice argument between the "Gin-Ears" and the newly re-organized team from Service Company of the 29th.

Meeting the Howitzer huskies for the second time yesterday the Gin Ears faltered before the wicked pitching of Buckner, a new face in the Twilight and even "Jim" McNally was heard to remark that "the old game is on ice" when the "Little Gunners' 'bombarded Callahan for three counters in the fifth. But what happened to Callahan in the fifth happened to Buckner in the sixth when Callahan, Kingsbury, Briner, McCarty and Collins, the Gin-Ears' Flailing Five solved Buckner's delivery and hammered in three runs to tie the score. The How-It-Zurs tallied again in the 7th before Perkins could warm up to relieve Callahan but this only aroused the Gin-Ears wrath and "King", McCarty, Briner and Collins hamered out 4 hits, two of which chalked up the needed runs to win by a score of 6 to 5 in what was undoubtedly th emost hotly contested game on the local diamond to date.

A word to the wise including Al Durden. Watch the Gin Ears' "Flailing Five" and don't overlook "Smiling Cal" Callahan and "Long Cy" Perkins the "Gin-Ears" apple-tossin artists. What we think of "Cy" Willard isn't much. He used to be a good pitcher, but now he's nothing but a first class manager—thats all, and you know how managers are, they only have one on each ball team, so they can't be such a much.

INF. SCHOOL DETACHMENT BIDS FAREWELL TO C. O.

By Al Durden

A smoker given in honor of Major Henry A. Bootz, commanding officer of the Infantry School Detachment, who took over the duties of Assistant Executive Officer of the Infantry School, June 21, was held at the 29th Inf. theatre last evening.

All members of the Detachment were present and the evening was one of unlimited pleasure and enjoyment for all.

Members of the I. S. D. highly efficient kitchen staff, dressed in immaculate white uniforms were securely entrenched behind heavily laden tables heaped high with mountains of good things to eat. Iced drinks flowed freely, while cigars and cigarettes did their part in adding to the comforts of the evening.

The program was the best obtainable, featured with comedy, musical selections and an exceptionally good buck and wing act.

In a farewell address to the members of the Detachment, Major Bootz thanked the men for their willingness to cooperate with him during the past two years in bringing the Detachment up to its present high standard of efficiency. . He also expressed his regret at leaving the organization which he had learned to look upon as one big family during the time that he has been with them.

During the period that Major Henry A. Bootz has been in command of the Inf. School Det., many changes have taken place. From an organization that was known as the "Camflouged Civies," by the other organizations, the I. S. D. soldier of today will compete with any organization in dress and military bearing.

Two years ago the I. S. D. mess stood at the bottom of the list on each monthly report, but today the I. S. D. mess, feeding approximately four hundred men, stands in second place.

Every Xmas the married men of the Detachment with their families have been the guest of the Detachment for Xmas dinner, followed by a large and heavily laden Christmas tree from which Santa Claus presented beautiful presents to every child in the I. S. D. It would be a close guess as to who derived the most pleasure from these Yuletide festivities, the children or the Major who always acted as Santa's assistant on these happy occasions.

Upon taking over the duties of commanding officer of the Infantry School Detachment, Major Bootz in his opening address informed each and every man that while acting as their commanding officer he would follow only one policy, "He would be hard but he would be fair."

Wrongdoers have been punished, and Major Bootz has never varied from his original policy of being fair to all, and as a consequence, members of the Infantry School Detachment have nothing but respect, admiration and best wishes for him. Every man of the detachment bade him farewell last evening, and each farewell carried with it a spirit of which any commanding officer upon leaving his outfit, may well be proud.

Mrs. Wait C. Johnson was honored on Tuesday with an elegant luncheon by Mrs. Ormonde Power at her home on Austin Loop. Mrs. Power's guests on this delightful occasion were: Mrs. Johnson, Madame Coates, Mrs. Coates, Mrs. MacKie, Mrs. Karclay, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Charles Steel, rs. Gallaher, Mrs. Steward, Mrs. Helsley and Mrs. Black. Col. and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson go the first of July for several months' leave to be spent in New England and Canada. They will go first to Vermont where they will be for some time with friends and relatives. Col. Johnson will go later to Washington to play in the Army Tennis Tournament and he will represent the Army in the Boston Tournament. Until they go they will have as their guests their "young visitors," Miss Alice Cook and Miss Lora Marie Hoover of Washington, D. C.

Miss June Maust of Fall City, Neb., is being delightfully entertained as the guest of Capt. and Mrs. Leon Norris. On Tuesday Maj. and Mrs. C. W. Ryder honored her with an informal dinner and theater party. Their guests were Capt. and Mrs. Norris, Miss Maust and Lt. Schwarze.

Capt. and Mrs. John K. Rice and children have gone on leave to Washington, D. C.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Wray B. Avera of the 83rd Field Artillery are th eguests of Capt. and Mrs. Weston for a few days. Their many friends are delighted to see them again, and rejoice that Lt. Avera has regained his health.

* * *

Col. and Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman motored to Athens on Tuesday for Commencement at "Georgia." They will bring home their daughter, Miss Katherine Kingman, who has made an enviable record at the University this year.

* * *

Mrs. James Oscar Parker and Miss Helen Parker of Fairburn will be the week-end guests of Lt. and Mrs. W. H. Vinson.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge entertained at dinner on Tuesday evening.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. E. F. Harding were hosts at a delicious barbecue on Wednesday afternoon.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin have as their guest Mrs. Lavin's mother and sister from Poplar Bluff, Mo.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. Elmer F. Rice and son have gone to Washington, D. C., where Maj. Rice will be a student at the War College.

* * *

Mrs. Frank C. Baker and her daughter, Miss Frances Baker, left a few days ago for New York and thence to Europe for several months.

* * *

Now that summer has really come parties are taking the form of swimmings, picnics, and one-table morning bridge parties ,which hostesses say are too small to mention. Never-the-less they are lots of fun.

* * *

Mrs. J. C. Williams, wife of Maj. Williams stationed now with the Florida National Guards at Tampa, is the guest of her sister, Miss Margaret Davis, in Dinglewood. Maj. and Mrs. Williams have many friends in Columbus and at Benning where Maj. Williams served for a number of years with the 29th Infantry. On Tuesday Mrs. Keith K. Tatom entertained Mrs. Williams and Miss Margaret Davis at lunch.

Capt. C. A. Pritchett is enjoying leave in Cuba.

* * *

Mrs. A. T. Gilhus entertained the Medical Bridge Club on Tuesday morning. Mrs. A. E. Brown and Mrs. Ben Norris won the high score prizes.

POST EXCHANGE NOTES

Even though the summer months are here, business still continues to flourish and all departments of the Exchange are on the "jump." Major S. I. McCants, in charge of the Fort Benning Exch. is in New York on business. He will probably be there until the middle of next week. Since his departure the office is somewhat of what might be termed a very "quiet" place.

Lieut. Waine Archer is now filling the chair across from Major McCants. He is busy most of the day, however, checking up the various activities and branches here.

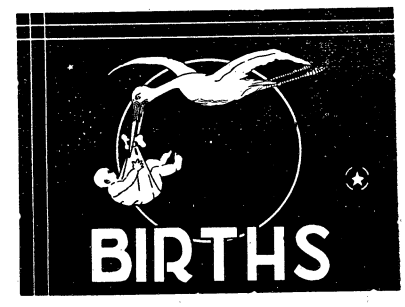
Lieut. Handy Brown who is here for the summer months is a busy man these days. He is working in the office of the Exchange, and says that he finds plenty to do. He spent several days this week, we are told, trying to locate a penny. From last reports it was finally located, much to his relief.

Another busy man about the office is Mr. Grimes, the chief clerk. Every time one enters the office he must first pass his desk, which acts as a clearing house for all the business end of the Fort Benning's Post Exchange. The Soda Fount is a much visited place there days, and from all indications (weather) it will continue to be so far some months to come.

This will be a regular column of the News from now on, and all activities will be covered herein from time to time.

CAPT. WILSON

Spent several days in Atlanta this week, and has lined up several good boys to meet local fighters. He stated that he had a good man in view to face Gunner Depratt, and fans are anxiously awaiting the contemplated battle. Announcements will appear within a few days in the Columbus papers.



Daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Earl Paynter, 24th Infantry, on June 30.

Daughter of 2nd Lieut. and Mrs. J. H. Baumann, 83rd F. A., on June 18, 1928.

WANTS DRIVER FOR CAR

Lieut. Regis, reserve officer who has been sick at the station hospital ,will leave soon for his home in Maine. Due to his illness he will not be able to drive his car, and requested the News to ask if some one at Fort Benning who had anticipated a trip to New York or Boston, or vicinity, would like to assist him in making the trip. Please notify the News office, phone 146, and we will see that Lieut. Regis gets the word. He is desirous of leaving within a few days.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission anounces the following open competitive examination:

RECORD CLERK, PENAL AND CORRECTIONA LINSTITUTIONS.

Applications for record clerk, penal and correctional institutions, must be on file with the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than July 24. The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on their admission cards, and will be about fifteen days after the close of receipt of applications.

The examination is to fill vacancies under the Department of Justice, and in positions requiring similar qualifications.

The entrance salary is $2,300 a year. A probationary period of six months is required ;advancement after that depends upon individual efficiency, increased usefulness, and the occurrence of vacancies in higher positions.

The duties are to maintain files of the institution dealing with indivdual histories of inmates, including fingerprint records, photographs, measurements, criminal history records, etc., and to post all pertinent information against each individual record; to superintend the photographing, fingerprinting and the measuring of each inmate as received; to classify fingerprints when taken and transmit copies to the centra lbureau of identification at Washington; to handle correspondence and furnish information to law enforcing officers of the Government with respect to any inmate of the institution with which the appointee is connected ;to supervise such civilian and prison staff as may be assigned, and to perform related work as required.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or from the secretary of the United States civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

TO SAIL FOR EUROPE

Col. and Mrs. C. E. Delaplane and Major and Mrs. Evan E. Lewis will sail from New York Tuesday for Europe. They will make an extended tour of the continent returning to the States the early part of August. The Inf. School News will follow them during their tour. reaching them at Jerusalem, Naples and Paris.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Captain Whisner came into the Print Shop last Thursday just before noon. Unde rhis arms were some packages—which usually weant work and then still wore work. But this time the packages turned out to be several pints of ice cream, of various flavors. And there was plenty for all. Private Byrd and Richardson ate so much they didn't care whether they went to dinner or not. Captain Whisner's purpose in "setting up" the print shop personnel was to show his appreciation of the services rendered him in the publication of the Infantry School Style Manual. While we don't care to get out another Style Manual real soon, yet we always did enjoy eating ice cream.

The Quartermaster's annual picnic took place last Saturday. The print shop force was well represented, although the self-appointed editor of Ye Printe Shoppe Gossipe was on the I. S. D. mess sergeant's staff that day and therefore couldn't attend. Just our luck.

Private A. L. Traut is spending a thirty-day furlough in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky. Private Traut is assistant to Pressman Malo.

Those of the print shop gang who wear the green hat cords are looking forward to the I. S. D. smoker and get-together meeting to be held on the evening of the 21st.

Private Bicknell, who has been on a furlough so long we had almost forgot him, is expected to return in a few days.

Johnny Heisler, who is a linotype operator by trade, faith, profession, etc., says he has developed into general utility man. He's been doing a little of everything "double" in the printing game the past few days. That's what a fellow gets by knowing more than one kind of work, and the writer of this column earnestly declares that he knows absolutely nothing about anything, except tickling the ivory keys of the Merg. linotype machine.

Charley Dollar (Corporal Dollar we should have said) tells us there is absolutely nothing in a name. H eknows.

Private Richardson has been made specialist sixth class. Well, that means a few more cigarettes, doesn't it "Twins"?

Being more or less interested in politics, we have "sounded" out the print shop personnel and find that most of the boys seem to think it would be a good idea to take the "C" off of Cal and try Al for awhile. That's what we think and we believe the people are going to do that very thing. We're hoping so anyway.

THE RIFLE TEAM

The Infantry Rifle team is now at Camp Perry preparing for the annual shoot. The NEWS extends best wishes to the team, and wishes for it the success of last year. Fort Benning is well represented this year, and the members from the Infantry School will be watched with interest as the matches progress. Capt. Lindroth, captain of the team, will write the NEWS in the near future, about the progress of the team at Camp Perry.

TACTICAL TOPICS

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

ADVANCED CLASS NOTES

A few members of the Advanced Class are still loitering around. We have had casual glimpses of Captain Purdy and Tenor Luck on their way to and from the Golf Course and, strange as it may seem, Class Cartoonist Bell has also fallen for the Columbus-the-ideal-summer-resort propaganda.

The Reverend J. J. O'Hare, another prominent golfer and clubman, is understudying Judge Hollock, who is taking a leave as soon as the press of legal business will permit. Bishop O'Hare, who is a strong advocate of Law Enforcement, has announced his intention of padlocking all buildings in the Academic Area and making the Swimming Pool bone dry.

Captain Kraft has accepted a temporary appointment as Police Officer. As an historical precedent he calls attention to the fact that Epaminondas, the famous Theban general, once held the office of Public Scavenger. According to Historian Kraft, Epaminondas, when tendered the appointment, accepted it with the remark, "Though the office may not honor the man, at least the man will honor the office."

We see Gough occasionally, and Captain Higgins still lingers amidst the scenes of his tactical triumphs. We have also observed Bissell, Drollinger, Rhodes and Gilchrist relaxing in the Swimming Pool after a day of heavy duty at the Post. Anyone desiring to see Seamon may do so by standing in any one spot for twenty minutes and catching him as he goes by in his car.

Major Sterling checked out last week. He wore a natty traveling suit of gray mufti, with tie, socks and handkerchief to match. McKee has departed for Walter Reid, attended by the best wishes of the Class for a speedy recovery.

We note with pleasure that Captain Nichols has dubbed us "Poet Lariat of the Upatoi." We feel highly complimented but we are still wondering whether the unusual spelling of the title was just another minor error of the Editing Section or whether Captain Nichols meant to convey to us a delicately veiled suggestion that our talents savor more of Cheyenne than Parnassus.

In Lieu of a Reply by Indorsement Hereon

Someone connected with the publication of the Infantry School News is trying to get us in bad with the Supreme High Command. In our last issue we spoke of the almost embarrassing interest which "the high power Executives, Adjutant's Geenral, Aides-de-Camp etc.," took in the affairs of our office since Miss Browning acquired her Hawaiian costume. When this comment appeared in print we noted with horror that Editor Stewart, the inspired compositor, or the printer's devil had inserted a comma between "Adjutants" and "Generals". In consequence, on Saturday morning, we slipped in and out of Headquarters so unobtrusively as to leave Dan Torrey with the impression that we had gone A. W. O. L. over the week end. And although nothing has happened up to the hour of our going to press, we take this out first opportunity to rise and explain that the punctuation was not ours. Now that the secret is out, however, we may as well confess that the General did show an ethnic and human interest in the grass skirt. Moreover, when it was on display, we are positive that we caught a glint in the stern eyes of General Pershing's picture that looks down upon our desk and inspires our every waking thought.

In response to Major Butcher's stirring call for volunteers to help make King's Pond safe for bass, Colonel Goodrich and two public spirited citizens from the I. S. D. reported at the designated assembly area on Saturday afternoon. Range guards having been drafted to fill up the quota, the pond was duly drained and the bottom cleared of underbrush, logs and other impedimenta. This Herculean labor having been accomplished ,the entire party went "noodling" for suchers in the mud. Colonel Goodrich by virtue of his superior technique won the prize—a handsome German silver replica of a bull carabao taking a bat.h Major Butcher, whose alleged capture of an ill tempered mud turtle was disallowed on the grounds that it was the turtle who caught Major Butcher, protested the award but was overruled.

MAMMOTH TURNIP RAISED ON FT .BENNING RESERVATION BY SGT. FULLER

Another championship has been added to the long list held by the Infantry School.

The latest addition to the list is the champion White Globe turnip of all-times. The turnip was raised by Sgt. J. S. Fuller of the Inf. School Det., and has been placed on display at the Post Exchange, where it has attracted considerable attention.

The turnip weasured eighteen inches in circumference and weighted four and one-half pounds.

It was grown in Sgt. Fuller's garden near his quarters on the Lumpkin Road, on the Infantry School reservation.

A new skyscraper in Detroit will be known as the Book Building. It has eighty-five floors which is a lot of stories.

Battery "B"

It having been some time since an article from this organization appeared in the columns of the "grand ole paper," some of th edevoted readers have, no doubt, conceived the idea that we had wilted as a fallen leaf from the first beaming rays of the summer sun, and as a result, had ceased to function; but not so. I am however, on the other hand, pleased to announce that the demonstration season ended with a complete victory for Battery B in the winning of the cup presented by the battalion commander on organization day. This was not without competition however, as nothing is easily won over the other batteries of this battalion, A, C and Headquarters, and it was only by the careful training of the instructors in preparation ,the stick-to-itive-ness, win or bust spirit of the men that this treasured cup is now in the day room of Battery B.

The first event was between the B. C. details of the batteries and was a competition in laying wire and establishing communication. This event ended with Batteries A and Headquarters holding first and second place respectively. Event No. 2 was now on. Thi sevent was a competition in Roman riding and ended with Private 1st Class McCarty of Battery B as winner of first place. From the way this soldier can ride two horses it is believed that with the addition of four extra legs, he could ride a whole darn section team and act as chief of section as a side line.

Sergeant Gardner and his section drivers, Corporal Bailey, Privates Bryant, McLain, Holloway, Milton and Grimes were the winners of first place in event No. 5, section driving, and after witnessing the event, I don't think that there is any doubt in the minds of the spectators as to the ability of these men to ride and drive broncs. Just another bunch o fgood non-commissioned officers i nthe making is enough said.

Sergeant Gantt and team, Privates Hamm, Hilton, Fields, Bryant, Walton and Barrier were winners of second place in event No. 6 and close contestants for first place. No ball is too big or broncs too rough for these cowboys.

Private 1st Class Bennett was winner of events Nos. 7, 11 and 12 (the guidon race, the potat orace and the jumping contest). Rumors have been heard to the effect that it was agreed between the mess sergeant and Private Bennett that the potato would not be cooked with the jacket on.

Privates 1st Clas sBoatman and Richard were winners of first and second places respectively in the shoe race. Lookout boys, the next contest will probably be staged for the 1st sergeant some morning at reveille and will be in polishing shoes and not in putting them on. Of course you will have had plenty of time.

Not only on the athletic field do the above named men do their bit but in everyday duty as well. Let us all remember that it is the fighting spirit displayed by these men that will make of Battery B a better place to live and an organization to be proud of, and shoulder to shoulder with them, do our part in reaching the ultimate goal, a better battery.

BITS AND TIPS

By Hasbeen

Friday the 15th was an off day. The first game was about to start when the heavens opened and drove the teams bunkward. The Engineers tempted fate and waited around until three in hopes that the diamond would dry up. Two innings of their game was played and then another deluge. Net result of the day several hours of bunk fatigue lost.

Saturday the 16th found the Tanks and the Blues facing each other in the first game and the Reds and I. S. D. tangling horns in the second. It was a real afternoon of b aseball. The Tankers took the Blues for a ride to the tune of 8 to 1; while the Reds outslugged the green caps 10 to 0.

In the opener the Tanks furnished the best brand of ball they have put out this season. They took advantage of every break and when men got on those that followed came through with a vengeance.

Hodges made a sweet one-handed stab of McDuffy's twisting foul off the corner of the grand stand in the second.

Red Lindsey pulled one on the old guard by introducing a change of pace. With his hook working perfectly all afternoon it was a difficult matter to start a rally. Any pitcher with a change of pace, a fair hook, and above all the knack of knowing where each ball is going, in other words control, can start looking around for a berth.

McDuffy made a pretty running catch of Grantham's short fly back of second. The effort kept two sure runs away from the Tanks.

With two gone in the 4th Gilchrist came near tearing an ear loose from Lindsey. That apple was steaming when it came to earth at Red's feet.

With men on first and third in the 5th, Cobb placed a pretty bunt along the first base line. Big Leonard apparently was in another county at the time for in addition to missing the play at home the batter reached first safely. Four runs resulted from the lapse.

Nash cut in with a big league catch when he pulled Lindsey's bid for a triple out of the vines on the left field fence.

While we are handing out the bouquets just a word for the Tankers' first sacker. Win, lose, or draw, Roman is in there hustling every minute.

The second game found the base hits combing every corner of the lot. The Reds have a sweet looking ball club. They can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves on their trip north next month.

Johnson of the Reds pulled one that is not in the book. Going after a fast hopper to his left he was able to reach it with his finger tips and roll it to King for a force out at second. A lot of territory was covered on this effort.

Vance, the big right hander of the Reds, was burning them in all afternoon. Just a word of caution; mix them up more. There are two ends to a batting order, the bottom and the top. Work hard when the top faces you and ease off on the bottom. Thatold wing will not last forever.

Toll worked hard all during the game. No matter how hard they came back he was in there trying. When it is the other fellow's day take it with a grin. Tomorrow is another day.

Sunday at 1:30 P. M. the I. S. D. faced Stokes of the 24th Blues. There the story ends. The brand of pitching that the Blue pitcher served up would have won any game. The Blues romped in to the tune of 12 to 0.

Durdin, the scribe, elected to stop the slaughter in the 8th and fooled them with a trick delivery. He has a wind-up like Al Demaree, the old Giant pitcher. As a hitter he isa good scribe.

The second game between the Reds and the Tankers was the real thrill of the season. Both teams wer kyed to a grand opera pitch and in that connection the actors on the diamond exhibited many of the temperamental traits usually found among the song birds. Anyway it was a ball game that had the fans out of their seats on every play.

Trammell was touched freely in the first four innings. His control was poor and after placing four men on base via dead ball route he was yanked in favor of Vance.

The umpires had a warm afternoon. Twice the old rule book was necessary to convince the skeptical. The Army is a great school for arbiters. More plays or rather freak plays come up in an Army game than any place where the game is played. This may be due to the grand rush of both teams on the umpire every time he is in a hole. Let him talk the point over with the Captains of the opposing teams. The fog will clear in no time.

To get back to the game. It was a wow. To those that were familiar with both teams the tension was terrific. As a stranger watching, it was a game replete with smart plays, quick thinking, and snappy baseball. Every man was on his toes and putting out to the limit. A prayer is going up hoping for more of the same type.

Monday the 18th saw the hardworking and I. S. D. who were scheduled taking a day's rest and allowing the R. O. T. C. a chance to perform against the 2nd Bats.

It was a pretty game to watch. Big McGee the future reserve officer had a world of stuff and mixed them up with a pretty hook. The right side of this infield were of little help to him putting him in the hole on several occasions.

McAllister who performed at first in place of big Newman, carried a heavy war club. His three bingles figured in all of his team's runs. As he was hitting against real pitching it will be a difficult matter to keep him out of the line-up if he continues that pace. Allan tab this one.

McGaha looks better every time out. The Kels needn't fear for the hot corner while this chap is around.

The second game between the Howitzer and the Service Companies started off with a ring of base hits. With the score 4 to 3 in the first inning and 11 safe knocks chalked up between them the forecast was an 8:15 P. M. game. Al Durdin the relief pitcher of the I. S. D. volunteered to cover the game.

Just a tip to the umpires. In the old days when a youngster broke into professional ball it was the rule for some old timer on the club to take the future great aside and whisper the following words of wisdom: Young man there are three classes of people in this world to whom you must show the greatest respect, "umpires, bartenders and policemen." As one of this gentry has passed into history it is still good policy to be on good terms with the other two. Both can hurt you in a pinch. Greet both with a smile especially the former for when you are in there with two and nothing on you he can certainly crab your style. However, the same does not apply to the fan in the bleachers. The two bits deposited for a season ticket gives him the unreserved right to pan the umps every time he pulls one. This practice has been in vogue since Johnny Clarkson hooked the first one back in 1867. It is believed that 2067 will see no change in the general make-up of the bleacherites. The only time an upm should listen in is when he hears the unmistakeable whiz of a pop bottle. A touch hide and a tendency to indifference is the first qualification every good ump should possess. Get a close-up of Bill Klem his epidermis is four inches thick.

BUSY SEASON HERE

Even though the classes of the Infantry School areover, there are busy days at Fort Benning. There is a continuous stream of new officers arriving here for duty, and almost as many leaving for other stations, or taking advantage of leaves of absence. All organizations are busy on the various ranges with the firing of qualification record courses.

Company "E"

Pfc. Phillips and McCallister completed three years this week. McCallister took on another stack but Phillips decided to try civilian life for awhile.

Pvt. Lalonde received a discharge by purchase and Pvt. Andrews was discharged as a minor.

Corp. McDonald and Corp. Bache have temporarily returned to the Company after furloughs and detached service at Fort McPherson. Both will soon enter West Point. Corp. Bache's brother, Benjamin, is in Recruit Center ready soon to become a member of Company "E".

Cpl. Canada is in Miami on a ten-day furlough taken because of his mother's illness.

Pfc. Chatman is taking a thirty-day furlough and Pvt. Stokley is on a twenty day furlough.

Cpt. Miller, supply sergeant, is back after furlough.

Captain Rutledge, Company Commander, who has been confined to Quarters several weeks by illness, paid a brief visit to the orderly room the other day.

As well as myself the whole company has been wondering just why Sgt. (Shorty) New goes in swimming about nine times a day. At last I have discovered the cause. He says, "he is preparing to make a non-stop swim across the Chattahoochee."

A. P. G.

Company "H"

Kill the fatted calf and make ready for feasting, for Lo, and behold, Sergeant Archibald "Ribs" Whittington, who has been from among us for so long a time has returned and we must give some demonstration of our esteem for him. Sergeant Whittington is just back from one of those "Re-up" furloughs, and reports that he had a splendid time. We understand that he had the privilege of pitching nickels with the bunch every morning, to determine who paid for the drinks. He gives out the impression that he won most of the time, but we have our doubts—and then some. Sergeant Whittington is one of the outstanding men of the Company. He is known to be rather "hard-boiled," yet, he seems always to get results. He is the type of man that has always made anything that Company "H" would undertake, go over big.

Sergeant Whittington, however, states that about the only thing that he can shoot real well is the bull. We admit that he is a real bull artist, very seldom making a miscue. The day that he returned, he talked for fifty-five minutes without telling the same one twice. Our hats are off to Sergeant Whittington in both of his specialties, viz., soldiering and shooting the bull.

Another man of this organization who deserves favorable mention is Private First Class William S. Jones, commonly referred to as R. H. B. Jones has taken an active part in the athletics of the Company since he joined. He played the 1927-28 season with the 2nd Bn. football team, and made good account of himself. He is always jolly, having a good word for any whom he may meet, and having a big laugh at the rest of the world. He is our dining room orderly, and certainly makes the K. P.s step real lively. Just ask some of them who have tried to lay down on the job. He helps Sergeant DePratt keep our mess hall clean and a pleasant place to eat.

After "Red" has finished taking names of those who have broken any dishes, he repairs ot Gowdy Field. There he may be seen umpiring a baseball game. He is a good umpire, giving fair decisions, and when they are close decisions, he gives them the way that he sees them, regardless of what the stands or anyone else may think of it. He puts pep into his work, and by that means, serves to keep the game going with the vigor that it should. One will have to look far and very carefully before finding a better umpire than the R. H. B. of Company "H", 29th Infantry.

While we are on the subject of baseball, I think that it would be advisable to cite to you a team that plays ball without a catcher, and they win!

SPORTOPICS

By Al

From the lowly back alley sandlots to the Yankee Stadium, baseball fans are one and the same as far as baseball is concerned. A visiting team is looked upon as an invading army, while all umps are direct descendants of two gun men and train robbers.

The customs, habits and shortcomings of players are quickly learned and used to the best advantage at every opportunity by the fans. In most cases the "Bleacherites" opinion, when once formed is mostly always correct. But as it is human to err, such is quite often the case in "Fandom."

When the Green Cord base ball team of the Infantry School ,went into a slump three seasons ago, "Pop" Heckert was playing third base for them. With the team losing consistently during the 1926 season, fans soon began to notice that Heckert was having quite a bit of trouble with the umps on different occasions, and also had quite a few arguments with opposing players.

Naturally Fandom jumped at the opportunity, soon the snappy little infielder was the target for much criticism from the stnads. One little bobble at his position, or the least murmur to the ump, and down would come a vocal barrage of "Growler," Sohed," and other Fandom slang.

The season of 1927 saw the Greenies still on the toboggan. Down at the hot corner a stubby little figure dug them out o fthe dirt, fought for the decisions and answered the raillery from the stands with a rasping growl. Still he fought, often the fans had called him the growler, but never the quitter.

The season of 1928, rolled around, the Greencords won their first two starts, then McCarthy, Greencord receiver went on leave, Davis who was to take his place, developed a sore arm, Captain Barclay asked for a catcher. Pop Heckert came in from the infield, donned mitt and mask and stepped into the breech.

All fans are good sports at the finish. They realized their mistake, Heckert was no "Sohed", he was a fighter, it was the fighting spirit that would not accept defeat ,and they had been wrong.

Again "Pop" Heckert hears that roar fro mthe stands, but instead of a fighting glare, there is a smile for Pop knows that at last they understand.

Judge: And are you the defendent?
Rastus: No, suh, Jedge, ah's jus' the man who stole the chickens.

BOXING NOTES

(By Referee)

Last Friday night the boxing fans were treated to one of those rare bouts that every once in a while it is the fans misfortune to witness. It was a bout a real fan will remember long after he has forgotten the good ones. Littleton, prior to his arrival at Benning, was touted as a real one to watch. The Fort Benning amateur boxing team which performed at Mobile, Ala., saw the college "boy" work out in a local gym and on the strength of that workout he was booked to meet Willie Ptomey. True, Littleton, is built like a rock and when stripped for action has all the earmarks of a pug, but there the likeness ends. This "youth" who is apparently taking a course in ancient history at the Mobile College is undoubtedly the most uncoordinated man in the ring. The possessor of huge well developed arms and legs he made a pretty closeup, but when it came to calling those muscles into play the machine would not function. Littleton, it is believed, would make an excellent strong man at a circus, but as a puncher he is so muscle bound that by the time he starts his swing any second rate boxer could jab his chin loose a half dozen times.

Ptomey has "gone stale." The Tanker has been worked so often of late by his hustling manager that he just can't stand up and take the gaff. Willie fell to the floor twice from exhaustion. It was not the same boring in snappy Ptomey. Had he stood up and just snapped that left of his into Littleton's head the collegian would have been tied in knots. More than one good boy has been ruined by a small town manager.

The prelims saved the card. Not bothered with expert advice from their corners these boys turned loose a tornado of wallops. The claret started early and by the time the last six rounder was over the ring was a crimson hue. Too bad the windup was a bloomer, however, one rainstorm doesn't make a summer and before long we may see some real boys in action.

Benning with its strength of over 5,000 men certainly has talent hidden away. To get these men out and develop them it is proposed to hold a series of inter-battalion bouts commencing Monday, July 9th. On that date the 15th Tank Battalion will meet 8 or 10 from the 83rd Field Artillery. At later dates usually Monday nights similar bouts will be held between other units. It is hoped that the man who believes he has the stuff in him and feels that he has been denied the chance to show will now step up and help to make these hot summer nights a little warmer. Ex-soldiers now before the public who took advantage of every minute they were in the army to develop include Johnny Risko, formerly Fort Benjamin Harrison; Sammy Mandell, Camp Grant, Ill.; Joe Anderson, Fort Thomas, Ky.; Sammy Baker, Hawaiian Department, and scores of lesser lights. If you like the game get in under the blanket now. Keep these Monday nights open.

Watch for the big fight in the early part of July.

CAPTAIN DOLL RETURNS FROM NEW YORK

Captain F. S. Doll, in charge of Fort Benning theatres, returned the first of the week from New York City, where he had spent ten days on duty in connection with recreational matters. Capt. Doll reports a very successful trip, and stated that the matter of presenting productions at Fort Benning theatres by Shubert and Erlanger had been thoroughly investigated during his visit in New York. An announcement will be made in the NEWS very shortly, and theatre goers at the Inf. School may well anticipate some good news.

MASTER SERGT. MORRISON LEAVES FOR HAWAII

Advertising Manager of the News to 3rd Engineers; Formerly Editor of "Pontineer"

Master Sergeant James R. Morrison, Company "A" 7th Engineers, will leave Fort Benning tomorrow on a short furlough, upon the completion of which he will sail from New York for Hawaii for duty with the 3rd Engineers at Schofield Barracks. Sergeant Morrison first enlisted in the Third Battalion of Engineers, which later became the 3rd Engineer regiment. And so "Jimmie" as Sgt. Morrison is known to his many friends in the service, will probably feel that he is going back "home." Morrison has six discharges to his credit, all of which bear a rating of "Excellent" character. His first discharge was received when he was a corporal, the next a sergeant, the third when a regimental supply sergeant, and the last three as a master sergeant. He has held the latter grade since Sept. 26, 1917.

Interested in Athletics

Sgt. Morrison is one of the few old timers who has always taken an active part in his organization athletic activities. While he is somewhat gray and slightly bald, he stands six feet, and is about as straight as any soldier. He has always played baseball, the past year being the first season that he has missed since joining the service. At Fort Bragg, N. C., he organized and coached one of the most successful teams in the battery league at that place. He organized the team of Co. "A," 7th Engineers, at Fort Benning in 1925, and was instrumental in the forming of the Class "B" baseball league at Fort Benning in 1926. He assisted Capt. E. Colby in the organization of this league.

Always an Engineer

Sergeant Morrison has served his entire service with the corps of engineers, with the exception of two years as a member of the Service School Detachment at Fort Leavenworth. He served overseas with the 7th Engineers during the World War, and remained with this

R. O. T. C.'s HAVE SPENT BUSY WEEK

General Collins Will Review Troops Tomorrow Morning; Embryo Reserve Officers Have Full Daily Programs

(By Al Durden)

The cadets of the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Benning will be reviewed by General E. T. Collins, the commandant, tomorrow morning on the 29th Infantry parade grounds. After the review, General Collins will address the members of the camp.

A visitor at the camp would find that the students are busy with a program of training the same as any well organized army garrison. With the first notes of the bugle in the early morning hours, the camp is astir and buzzing with plenty of activity. The battalion is formed on the drill field where for fifteen minutes the students go through a massed calesthenic drill. Two hundred and twenty-five husky young athletes perform this early morning drill in perfect cadence.

Soupy, soupy, soupy, without a single bean,
Coffee, coffee, coffee, without a drop of cream.

"Chow" at 5:45 with plenty of stripped bacon and cream and many more good eats that go to make an appetizing breakfast for a bunch of young huskies, is the next important thing on the day's program. Breakfast over, bunks netly made, and then a close order drill which takes up the period until seven o'clock.

The remainder of the morning hours is spent by the different units in drill and instruction in their respective branches. Saturday mornings finds the area well policed and prepared for the weekly inspection. Then every one is happy that the end of the week is over and a well deserved rest is earned. However, this does not apply to those who are detailed for kitchen police for Sunday.

The afternoon hours are spent in athletics, which include swimming and baseball.

The weekly dances have become a very popular diversion for the embryo reserve officers and judging from remarks here and there throughout the camp, every one is enjoying the training at the big Infantry School R. O. T. C.

DR. BERRY IS GUEST OF PARENTS HERE

Dr. Daniel Berry is the guest of his parents, Colonel and Mrs. Daniel G. Berry, at Fort Benning. Dr. Berry graduated from the medical school of Washington University at St. Louis this year, and will report to Fitzsimmons Hospital in Denver, as an interne, early in the fall. He will remain here for several weeks.

COL., MARSHALL ON LEAVE

Col. G. C. Marshal, Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School, left Tuesday for a two month's leave of absence, which he will spend in Washington. He will probably tour the New England states before his return here about September 1.

COLONEL WAIT C. JOHNSON WILL LEAVE FORT BENNING ON JULY THE FIRST

Commander of 24th Infantry to General Staff Duty With Second Division

Colonel Wait C. Johnson, commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, will leave Fort Benning on July 1, having been ordered some months ago to general staff duty with the Second Division at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. Col. Johnson took command of the 24th Infantry on January 1, 1925, and during his time as commanding officer of the regiment, has built up a esprit de codps among the personnel of the organization. He has taken an unusual interest in the athletics of the regiment, and just recently adopted an athletic policy which has created a high standard of athletics in the 24th Infantry.

During the time that Colonel Johnson has been at Fort Benning, he has not only commanded the 24th Infantry, but for some time was president of the Infantry School Athletic Association, an important post in a garrison imbued with an unusual amount of interest in athletics. As is well known throughout the service, he is an outstanding tennis player, and has competed in all tournaments held at the Infantry School during his stay here. In this connection, he will compete in the tryouts this summer for the Leach Cup tennis team, and will be on detached service in Washington for some time as a member of the army tennis committee. He will play in the doubles for the Leach cup team, having as his partner, Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, formerly of Fort Benning and tennis champion of Panama for the past two years. Col. Johnson will probably compete in the National Doubles tournament in Boston on August 21, which will be held under the auspices of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Will Be G-3 of Division

Upon completion of the tennis tournament in Boston, Col. Johnson will report to the Second Division, where it is stated he will be assigned as G-3 of the division. Prior to that time he and Mrs. Johnson will visit with friends in the New England States and make an extended visit at the Colonel's old home, Rutland, Vermont.

NEW QUARTERMASTER ARRIVES AT INFANTRY SCHOOL MONDAY

Colonel Willard Formerly an Officer in 29th Infantry; Has Been on Duty in Washington the Past Four Years

Colonel Charles L. Willard, Q. M. C., arrived at Fort Benning last Monday, and this week took over the duties of Quartermaster of the Infantry School, relieving Col. A. B. Warfield, who left this week for his new duties at Brooklyn Army Base. Colonel Willard has just completed a four year tour of duty in the office of the Quartermaster-General in Washington.

Colonel Willard has been connected with the United States army practically ever since the Spanish-American war. At that time he was a member of the Texas National Guard, being a member of an infantry organization. In June, 1901, he accepted a commission as second lieutenant in the infantry, and was assigned to the 29th Infantry, then stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill. General R. H. Allen, chief of infantry at this time, was also an officer in the demonstration regiment. Colonel Willard served in the infantry until 1916, when he was detailed to the Quartermaster Corps, in which branch he has served since that time.

Served in Hawaii

At the outbreak of the World War, Col. Willard was the constructing quartermaster at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, and at the time was in charge of plans for construction of barracks at that place. He was soon sent to Camp Kearney, California, where he had much to do with the construction work at that war time cantonment. He was later sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., where he had charge of construction of the large cantonment building there for the housing of the medical officers training camps. Practically all of the year, 1918, he was in command of the Quartermaster training camp, Camp Joseph E. Johnston, at Jacksonville, Fla., where thousands of officers of that branch were trained that year. He was later sent to Fort Monroe, Va., and was in charge of the Reserve Depot at Columbus, Ohio, from 1919 to 1921. He later went to Chicago, where he served for three years as corps area quartermaster.

Colonel Willard is accompaned by his wife and daughter, Marie Louise. He has taken the quarters formerly occupied by Col. Warfield. Two sons, Charles L., Jr., and Chauncey, are cadets at the Naval Academy.

OFFICERS IN CHINA

Who formerly served at Fort Benning are keeping in touch with happenings at the Inf. School these days. The Sentinel, a weekly paper, publishes a column every week giving a summary of events here as recorded in the News.

CHIEF TELEPHONE OPERATOR RE-ENLISTS

Corporal John L. Booth, chief operator of the Infantry School telephone exchange, was discharged Tuesday and immediately re-enlisted for three more years with the Infantry School Detachment.

Corp. Booth is now enjoying a ninety-day furlough with Corp. Jeffie O. Willingham at Cedartown, Ga.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

The Piggly Wiggly of Columbus, is not only represented in Columbus, but at Fort Benning, as well. Mr. Williams, who operates these stores, has a son who is in training in the R. O. T. C. camp, at Fort Benning. These are the kind of boys that have made Columbus what she is today.

GENERAL MALONE PROMOTED ON LAST TUESDAY

Former Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School Reaches Rank of Major-General

The many friends of General Paul B. Malone, both at Fort Benning and in Columbus will be delighted to learn of his promotion to the rank of major-general, effective last Wednesday, June 27. He was promoted to the rank of major-general, filling the vacancy created by the retirement of General T. Q. Donaldson. General Malone was assistant commandant of the Inf. School from April 9, 1920, to Dec. 19, 1922. He served for five years at Fort Sam Houston, one year of that time being in command of the Second Division. In February of this year he was ordered to Fort Sheridan, Ill., to command the 12th Inf. Brigade, and subsequently commanded the Sixth Corps Area, on which duty he remains at the present time.

OFFICIAL PICTURES WEST POINT MILITARY ACADEMY TO BE SHOWN AT BENNING

Two reels of film, showing the West Point Military Academy in its true and every-day life, will be shown at Fort Benning theatres on or about July 5 and 6.

These pictures were taken by the Signal Corps of the United States Army, and show details of life at the "Point" which have not heretofore been presented at our theatres.

Among the outstanding subjects the following are included in these two reels: Cadet Barracks of Generals Pershing, Grant and Lee, Academic buildings, Chapel, Setting up exercises, Riding hall and exercises, Inspection by General Pershing, Drill and parade, Meeting of former graduates, Graduation exercises and recipt of diplomas, Close-up of graduates of 1924 (every face clearly disecrnible) and Flirtation Lane in the days when skirts were longer.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

I. S. D. members of the print shop personnel enjoyed the smoker given by the detachment last Thursday evening. Among those on program was Private Virgil R. Byrd, of the Platen press department, who delighted the audience with some of his (as Major Bootz called it) "Nightingale" stuff, on the violin. Ask anyone who has heard him play and they will tell you that Private Byrd is an accomplished musician.

We wish those scientists would hurry and get the lightning "tamed." Saturday morning one particular flash of lightning, which didn't appear in the least "tame," struck somewhere in the vicinity of the print shop and caused considerable fear to register on the faces of those who earn their canteen checks by operating the Mergenthalers and other machinery run by electricity.

Private Tombrilo, who has been in the hospital for some time, returned to the print shop for duty Monday morning.

Private Johnny Heisler is playing second base for the I. S. D. ball team, according to reports reaching this office. —R. M. J.

LIEUT. GRADY TAKES EXAM FOR PROMOTION

Lieut. Clyde Grady, the genial editor of the 15th Tank Battalion Weekly, appeared before an army promotion board last week to take an examination for promotion to the grade of captain. Lieut. Grady is well known throughout the service as a newspaper man and writer of hunting stories, which have been published in some of the leading sports magazines of the country. He has recently contributed several interesting articles to the Atlanta Journal on hunting at Fort Benning.

POST EXCHANGE NOTES

Major Sam I. McCants, the Exchange Officer, is expected back at his desk tomorrow after a visit to New York on business for the Exchange.

C. E. Murphy, steward of the Service Club soda fountain, took his "puddle-jumper" for a trip to Florida last week. He returned safely.

Lieut. Handy Brown went to Bartlett's lake Saturday for the avowed purpose of gigging frogs. His party was caught in a motorboat in Saturday night's storm and after an unsuccessful trip to make the boat travel overland, finally reached home early Sunday morning—frogless.

Captain Walter D. McCord, regular chauffeur of the Exchange jitney, is due back on the job Saturday, after a five-day leave and a 15-day period of detached service at Chattanooga.

Private H. Hodge of the R. O. T. C. branch, is back on the job after a ten-day furlough at his home, obtained because of illness of his father.

Corporal Grady Tolle, of the grocery, has re-enlisted and departed for a two-month's furlough.

Private Defore is the new man in the hospital branch. He has had previous experience in civil life as a salesman, and can even make the cash register balance.

George Lowe, of the exchange office force, is back on the job after a sojourn in Major Chunn's hotel on the hill, apparently superinduced by an overfondness for poison ivy. In addition to his other duties, Mr. Lowe has taken over the job of Mr. H. H. Wilson, in charge of the stock room. Mr. Wilson is away at Rocky Mountain, N. C., his old home, which he is revisiting for the first time in five years.

The office force was caught in a rush for a few days because of the sickness of Mr. Lowe and the absence on vacation of Murray Calhoun and D. F. Blackshear. Both of them are now back on the job, however.

MAJOR RUSS LEAVES FORT BENNING

Major Joseph Russ, accompanied by his family, left Fort Benning Tuesday by motor for Wildwood, N. J., where he will take advantage of a leave of absence before entering the War College as a student next year. He will remain at the New Jersey resort until about the middle of August, when he will go to Washington.

LIKES FORT BENNING

Here is another one that likes Fort Benning. Master Sergeant Collins writes back that he thoroughly enjoys his new station, that he retires in October and sends his best to the entire command. Collins was regimental supply sergeant and a very popular N. C. O. — (From Sentinel, 15th Inf., Tientsin.)

Sgt. Collins is on duty in the personnel section at headquarters, The Inf. School. An article on the sergeant is forthcoming within a short time.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30

"THE APACHE RAIDER," starring Leo Maloney in a film version of the story from the Ace High Magazine written by W. D. Coffman. Maloney plays the part of a man who starts the story with the name of being a rustler and a killer, and finishes by proving himself the innocent victim of circumstancial evidence, and a hero after any maiden's heart.

"Mickey's Eleven." Mickey McGuire.

Jouvenile comedy.

SUNDAY, JULY 1

"THE COUNT OF TEN," starring Charles Ray with James Gleason and Johyna Ralston in a picture of ringside thrills and romance. The strong plot is unusually dramatic and one in which the audience is constantly held in suspense. It concerns a prize fighter whose dumbness makes him the prey for the band of hangers-on, who surround every boxer of any note. Johnny and Betty are both in the glove business—Johnny behind regulation eight ounce mits, and Betty behind a glove sales counter. Their love doesn't run smoothe, and combined complications of the ring and their romance form the interesting theme of the story.

Fables.

MONDAY, JULY 2

"AFLAME IN THE SKY," a pulse quickening tale of sky and land, featuring Jack Luden and Sharon Lynn. It is the red blooded story of a valiant, dauntless aerial ace, a beautiful girl and the most unscrupulous villian you've ever seen in pictures. You will marvel at the undreamed of stunts enacted by human beings far up in the sky.

"HAUNTED ISLAND NO. 1." The first episode of this thrilling mystery story of deep sea monsters and fiends inhabiting a desolate island far out in the vast Pacific. It is claimed that this picture in many ways eclipses the noted serial "The Green Archer," which attracted and held crowds at Fort Benning sometime ago.

TUESDAY, JULY 3

"STAND AND DELIVER," starring Rod La Roque in a gripping story of a man who leaves London club to join the Grecian Army. The tense plot laid in modern Greece is played against a background of the banditry which seriously threatened that country just after the world war. It is filled with thrills and tense dramatic situations.

"Save the Pieces." Bobby Vernon.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4

"THE BIG PARADE," starring John Gilbert, Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien. This powerful, well known picture needs no introduction. It was secured for Fort Benning on Independence day for two reasons; first, because its character is so well adapted to this holiday, and second, because a large number of people have requested that it be brought here again. This is the same great picture which was shown all over the United States by road shows at prices exceeding $3.00 per seat. It will be shown at Benning theatres for 15c admission.

Paramount News No. 95.

THURSDAY, JULY 5

"FIFTY FIFTY GIRL," starring Bebe Daniels in a comedy drama of a girl who tried to assume the role of a man in running a gold mine—everything went nicely until some ungentlemanly bandits decided that they wanted to pilfer, then the fun and trouble started. Of course, it ends to the satisfaction of the audience, but only after a multitude of tribulations have been surmounted. There is romance, villiany and comedy.

"Love Shy." Jimmy Adams.

FRIDAY, JULY 6

"A SHIP COMES IN," starring Rudolph Schilderkraut and Marie Dressler in a story possessing tense drama, fierce comedy, deep appeal and fast action. It is the story of a loyal American—of foreign birth, who, innocent of crime, is convicted and sentenced to Sing Sing prison. Suspense and pathos abound in every scene.

BIG THEATRICAL SEASON IN STORE FOR BENNING NEXT WINTER

The officer in charge of theatres recently returned from a trip to Washington and New York. He reports a brilliant winter season in store for this post. The object of his trip was primarily to secure legitimate shows to be produced on the stage of the Main theatre, and secondarily, to insure that the coming motion picture season would equal or eclipse that of last winter.

The Erlanger and Shubert theatrical producers control the biggest productions that will be sent South next winter. Their consideration of our project was most encouraging; they promised that Benning would be included in the itinerary of next season's production. Arrangements are now in process for sending the following productions South: Rio Rita, Hit the Deck, The Trial of Mary Dugan, Whispering Friends, Lasses White Minstrels, The Wooden Kimona, The Beggar Opera Company, Chauve Sauris, Okay, and Scandals. These are among the biggest that New York boasts. Which ones of them will be sent South depends upon the warmth of reception extended. Final decision will be reached about the middle of August.

It is, however, certain that some of the best shows may be expected, and Fort Benning, having been entered on the booking lists, will receive her share of the painted ladies and pink tights that have drawn record crowds on the great white way of New York.

Concerning moving pictures, the new screen productions will be released in September and the road has been so paved that our theatres will share well. You may expect every good movie that is produced in America and the best that are drawn from the European continent.

A study was made of stage, moving picture booths, and house refinements of some of the palatial theatres in Washington and New York. Many of these refinements will, in the future, be incorporated in the Main theatre at Fort Benning.

The Main theater is now the largest in the army; its stage is not only the biggest and finest in all army posts, but it also eclipses many outside of government reservations.

The same degree of efficiency that manifests itself in the training at the Infantry School will be in evidence in recreational facilities offered by its theatres.

If you have the good fortune to be stationed at Benning the coming year you may well look forward to a brilliant winter season at its moving picture houses.

COL. AND MRS. JOHNSON WILL LEAVE FORT BENNING SUNDAY; ENTERTAINED EXTENSIVELY PRIOR TO DEPARTURE.

The four years that Col . and Mrs. Wait C. Johnson have been at Benning seem but a fortnight when it comes to seeing them go—surely all too soon, to say goodbye to two who have been so definitely an integral part of the many-sided life here. But orders are orders and the Johnsons will have to be on their way Sunday morning. Their last week has been filled to the fullest with farewell affairs. On Monday evening Capt. and Mrs. Robb MacKie, Jr., entertained at dinner in honor of Col. and Mrs. Johnson, Lt. and Mrs. R. B. Watkins and Lt. and Mrs. E. P. Earle. On Tuesday evening the officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry honored them with a delightful dinner dance at the Polo Club. On Wednesday the officers of the regiment gave Col. Johnson a stag dinner. It was an alfresco affair, down in the lovely glade back of the 24th Area. On Wednesday morning a committee of enlisted men chosen to represent the regiment called at the Johnson home to present to Mrs. Johnson with a handsome silver tea and coffee service as a token of their appreciation of what Col. and Mrs. Johnson have done for their regiment. On Thursday Capt. and Mrs. John Newton entertained at dinner as a special courtesy to Col. and Mrs. Johnson. On Friday Mrs. Coates had an informal tea for Mrs. Johnson and on Saturday evening Col. and Mrs. Johnson will have dinner with Capt. and Mrs. Charles Steel.

Col. and Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman have entertained a most delightful house party this week in honor of their daughter, Miss Katherine Kingman, who has just returned from a year's study at the University of Georgia. Their guests are: Miss Nancy Rogers, of Knoxville; Miss Betty Chipley, Miss Cynthia Chappell, Miss Dorothy Westbrook, Miss Sara Morris, of Athens, and Miss Myrtle Gastrell, of New Orleans. On last Sunday the party went to Bartlett's Ferry for a two-days' house party there, where they were entertained in Mrs. Westbrook's cottage. On Monday afternoon they arrived at Fort Benning and were given a swimming party followed by a delightful garden party and dance at the home of Col. and Mrs. Kingman. On this occasion the young men from the University of Tennessee who are in the R. O. T. C. shared honors with the girls. Col. Kingman, several years ago, was commandant at the University of Tennessee. Colored lights were strung on the lawn and in the garage and after th ereception in the charming home, the younger set had a glorious time dancing in the garage. On Wednesday evening Miss Kingman's house party were special guests at The Cotillion Club dance at the Muscogee Club. On Thursday Miss Dorothy Westbrook entertained at a lovely luncheon at the Log Cabin. There have been riding picnics, swimming parties and informal bridge parties crowding the days with fun for this group of attractive girls. On Friday night they will attend the R. O. T. C. dance and Saturday morning Mrs. Kingman will have a breakfast party in their honor.

Honoring Mrs. B. Duncan and Mrs. Clyde M. Duncan, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin was hostess on Monday afternoon at a two-table bridge party. The rustic bungalow was gay with summer flowers artistically arranged in yellow and green bowls. Pivot bridge was played and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge and Mrs. Wayne Smith won the table prizes. The prizes were "Tinkerdom" table numbers—a set of six, one in yellow and one in red. After the game delicious frozen salad, iced tea and sandwiches were served.

* * *

Mrs. Holmes E. Dager complimented Mrs. Lavin's mother and sister-in-law, Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Clyde M. Duncan, with a delightful two-table bridge party at the Log Cabin on Thursday afternoon.

* * *

Miss Helen Young leaves next Monday for Camp Keystone near Brevard, N. C., where she will be Riding Counselor. Little Miss Marion Phelps, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Frederick Phelps, will go with Miss Young and be one of the campers. Brevard is called "The Land of Waterfalls." The mountains are perfectly beautiful, and the streams are numerous and crystal-clear. The French-Broad river winds its way in and out among the verdant fir-clad peaks, and every trail lures on to unexpected beauty. Surely these two have a wonderful summer in store for them.

Capt. and Mrs. A. T. Gilhus entertained at dinner Capt. and Mrs. B. F. Fridge, who are leaving immediately for their new station at Hot Springs, and Capt. Louis J. Lampke, who has recently returned from leave. After dinner the party went to the movies.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. Laurence W. Young entertained a party of twelve at dinner on Thursday evening in honor of their daughter, Mrs. A. A. McNamee, whose birthday was the occasion of the celebration. After dinner the guests enjoyed a theatre party together.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. Calvin Titus have as their guests Miss Alice Hunter, of Washington, D. C., and Lt. Winston Titus, who is on leave since his graduation at West Point. Soon he goes to San Antonio, where he will enter flying school, having chosen aviation as his field of service.

* * *

The last regular Officers' Club dance of the summer will be given Friday night at the Polo Club.

* * *

On Monday morning Mrs. Cecil Rutledge will honor Mrs. Clyde M. Duncan, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., with an informal bridge luncheon.

LIEUT. CAMP MARRIED ON JUNE 20.

Lieut. P. H. Camp, 24th Infantry, and Miss Harriett McMillan, of Bartow, Ga., were married last Wednesday, June 20, at a beautiful wedding held at the Methodist church in that city. The church was beautifully decorated and a large number of friends of the couple throughout the state witnessed the ceremony. A large reception followed at the home of the bride. Those from Fort Benning who attended were Capt. and Mrs. R. S. MacKie, Capt. Craig, Lieut. Boineau, Lieut. Dismuke, Lieut. Smith, Lieut. Connor and Lieut. Forse. The couple left the church under an arch of sabers held by these brother officers of the groom. After a honeymoon of several weeks, Lieut. and Mrs. Camp will return to Fort Benning. They will reside in the city until late summer when they will go to Atlanta, where Lieut. Camp will be on duty with the R. O. T. C. unit at Emory University.

A LETTER FROM CHAPLAIN WRIGHT

June 26, 1928.

To the Editor, Infantry School News,
Fort Benning, Georgia.

My Dear Sir:—

The occasion does not often arise when it becomes necessary to make a correction or to take exceptions to anything appearing in your valuable and much appreciated paper. However, one such occasion has come to my attention.

On the front page of last week's edition appeared an article regarding the Fort Benning Protestant Sunday School which is all wrong. Will you kindly publish this letter in your issue this week?

In the first place, let me say that the article was evidently copied from the Recruiting News of May 1, 1928, which was also wrong. Last September, a representative of the Recruiting News called upon me for some data regarding the Sunday School and other chapel activities. I gave him the information he desired about all the activities including public worship, Sunday School, Ladies' Guild, etc. He used some of what was given him under the caption "Chapel Services Thrive at Benning." This article appeared just eight months later.

If we could boast last September of having the largest Sunday school in the Army, with, as he says, 181 enrolled, we can now shout it from the house-tops with an enrollment of 300 and an attendance of much more than two-thirds of that number each Sunday regardless of weather conditions.

Our Bible class for men is largely attended but does not carry on the activities mentioned in the article to which I refer. A penant has been offered to the organization having the largest total attendance for three months at the sessions of this class. The organization winning the penant three times in succession is to receive a silver cup inscribed accordingly.

We also have a ladies Bible class with a good attendance which is not mentioned in the article.

Our classes are in charge of a fine corps of teachers selected from among the officers of the post and their wives and the wives of some of the enlisted personnel. At present we have our membership divided into sixteen classes all closely graded according to age. Our youngest class is for those from two to five years and the grades then carry two years each. The literature used is the best available and is also graded according to age.

We use what is known as the "Little's Cross and Crown" pin system of attendance awards. When a child has attended three months without missing a Sunday, except for sickness, he is given a pin of bronze, at the end of six months a pin of gun metal, at the end of nine months a pin of silver and at the end of one year a gold pin. At present we have seventy who have not missed a Sunday since we have been making these awards. They have just received their silver pins.

Our public worship is not as largely attended as it should be for a post the size of Benning. However, we do have an interesting number. The service consists of ritual, music and sermon adapted so as to appeal to all denominations.

The Ladies Chapel Guild is an organization of ladies of the post for the purpose of taking care of the chapel and its needs and for the relief of distress when such occurs among the families of the garrison.

And now, in closing this already long article, let me say that I have not just "recently come to Fort Benning" but am well into my second year as a member of the permanent establishment of the Infantry School.

John R. Wright, Chaplain.

Uncle: Well, Willie, what are you going to be when you grow up?

Willie: I wanna be a successful pedestrian!

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examination:

SENIOR PHYSICIST

Applications for senior physicist must be on file with the Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than July 5.

The examination is to fill a vacancy at the Signal Corps laboratory, Monmouth, N. J., and vacancies occurring throughout the United States in positions requiring similar qualifications.

The entrance salary for this position in the Departmental Service in Washington, D. C., and of the present vacancy in the Signal Corps laboratory at Monmouth, N. J., is $5,200 a year. A probationary period of six months is required; advancement after that depends upon individual efficiency, increased usefulness, and the occurence of vacancies in higher positions. For appointment to other vacancies in the Field Service the salary will be approximately the same.

The duties of the position at Monmouth, N. J., will be to act as chief physicist in the Signal Corps laboratories. The chief physicist will be occupied with actual work in and direction of physical research in connection with the development of means and equipment for military communication and in related fields of research.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on their education and experience, and writings to be filed with the application.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the United States civil service board of examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

29th INFANTRYMEN TO TAKE WEST POINT PREPARATORY COURSE

TACTICAL TOPICS

(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

ADVANCED CLASS IMPRESSIONS

Major Teachout reporting his departure for the Canadian border to the conductor of Tactical Topics. The Major states that the water cure recently administered by Dr. Chunn greatly improved his health without causing him to divulge any military secrets.

Captain Pritchett buying commissaries after a lurid three week tour of Florida and Cuba. The Captain, who looked as cool and comfortable as an awning in his ultra-tropical suit of blue and white ticking, reports a record breaking Jinn business at Sloppy Joe's.

Captain Grimmer executing a double envelopment on a ham sandwich at the Officers' Club lunch counter. Captain Grimmer, who blossomed out as a Neophyte Engineer shortly after graduation, believes that a few more weeks of fasting and prayer will serve to eliminate the last lingering traces of the Infantry mind.

Captain Callahan, surrounded by his family, buying a gross of bottle caps at Kresges. Father Callahan has acquired a couple of bales of Leavenworth literature and is employing the heated term in perfecting his vocabulary of Map Problem terminology.

Such professional zeal disturbs our enjoyment of this brief truce between the Blues and the Reds. We have been a subscriber to the Leavenworth Mailing List for years and have two packing cases of Command & General Staff School propaganda which we suspect embodies the last word in the Art of War, but the covers so depress us that we have not had the heart to investigate further. Moreover, much as we should like to come out one at Leavenworth, we can't afford to risk stereotyping our military genius and thus unfit us for the role of the American Caesar.

Being short of news, we are compelled to resort to other material to fill our column. We submit herewith the first installment of the great Advanced Class Saga that we might have written had the Academic Department not required us to devote so much time to mastering the intricicies of the Unit Journal. It is ancient history, of course, but it commemorates an event on Advanced Class annals that should be a matter of permanent record.

IDYLLS OF EQUITATION

Listen, my children, to what I've writ
Of the famous slide of Eisenschmidt

There are poems on famous rides galore
But never one on a slide before
Until this brief but immortal skit.

Out of the bull ring on to the trail
Over the hill and through the dale;
Pageant of horsemen off at a trot,
Bayard, Mazeppa and Lancelot,
Gallahad seeking the Holy Grail.

Booted and spurred, thru dashing blade,
Please B. Rodgers led the raid—
Imbued with the spirit of Genghis Khan,
Stuart, Custer and Sheridan,
(Eisenschmidt mounted upon Brocade.)

A lively gallop through the trees
To a slide of sixty-five degrees;
The sight of it made us deathly sick
But we managed, somehow, to do the trick
By holding on with our hands and knees.

But one horse stopped to contemplate
That woodland slide precipitate
His will was strong and his nerves were frayed
And 'twas clear to all that this nag Brocade
Was not so easy to dominate.

But coaxed in front and urged in rear
He finally bolted and took it sheer,
As if resolved to get it done—
Parthian, Scythian, Mongol, Hun,
Shades of Putman and Paul Revere!

Fast in his teeth he held the bit
And came up short when he finally lit
Which gave his action the strange result
Of an animated catapult—
And the project*ile* was Eisenschmidt.

Even Rodgers displayed remorse
And he helped him aboard his chastened horse
Now our hero swears with a mirthless laugh
That, when he becomes The Chief of Staff,
He's going to abolish the Riley Course.

As Wolfe remarked on the eve of the storming of Quebec we should rather write a great epic like this than max one of Lynn Roberts problems of Decision.

—E. F. H.

THE NEWS IS READ

By everyone at Fort Benning. Last week's issue carried a request from Lieut. Regis, sick in the station hospital, for a volunteer to drive his car to his home. There were six applicants within a very short time after the paper appeared at the various organizations here.

ON TOUR IN EUROPE

Major E. E. Lewis, who will leave New York this week for Europe. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Lewis, and they will be joined in New York by Colenel and Mrs. C. E. Delaplane, who will complete the party. They will visit the Holy Land, Naples, Nice and Paris, returning to New York the first part of August.

DUNLOP TIRES

Have been added to the tire department of the Post Exchange Filling Station. See ad in this issue.

COPY FOR THE NEWS

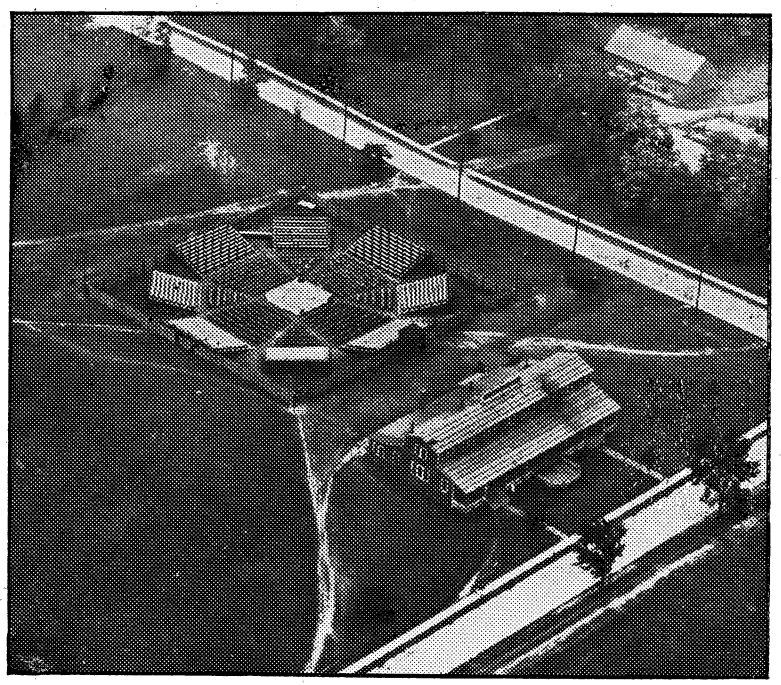
THE PUNCH BOWL AT FORT HARRISON



In the issue of last week's NEWS there appeared a story about Capt. J. J. Wilson, who will soon be placed in charge of the Inf. School bouts. In that article, it was stated that he initiated the bouts at Fort Harrison, Ind., which have today become popular attracting hundreds of fans to the Indiana army post. The above arena was built by Capt. Wilson in the summer of 1923. The building in the foreground is the Service Club. The Fifth Corps News, one of the largest service publications in the army, very kindly furnished the NEWS the above cut.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF NAVY VISITS BENNING

The Assistant Secretary of Navy T. Douglas Robinson arrive dat Fort Benning late Wednesday afternoon by plane from Washington. He was accorded the proper salute by a battery of field artiliery. He remained here until early Thursday morning when he returned to Washington. He was joined here by his son, who had been visiting at Warm Springs.

DON'T FORGET

That copy for the columns of this paper should be in the office as early as possible. It is quite likely that the NEWS will appear at Fort Benning early on Friday mornings hereafter, due to change in the printing plant of the Standard Printing Company. Copy first received will get priority. This is necessary due to the many items received for publication. We will appreciate your cooperation.

A SCOOP

Was pulled by the NEWS several weeks ago when there appeared an item announcing to the effect that four officers of the 29th Infantry had been transferred to the 15th Tanks. This office is in receipt of orders via radio over the government station here, these orders being released for publication upon receipt here. Read the columns of the NEWS and keep posted on activities at Fort Benning.

LIEUT. HALL

Of the Medical Administration Corps, on duty at the station hospital, left Fort Benning yesterday for duty at West Point. Lieut. Hall will take leave of absence before reporting to his new station. He has formerly served at El Paso and at Fort William McKinley, P. I. Capt. Perry has arrived to take over the duties of Lieut. Hall.

COMPANY MAKES RECORD; CAPTAIN BRUCE LEAVES

On June 15, 1925, Capt. Andrew D. Bruce took command of the Howitzer Company. On June 15, 1928, Capt. O. R. Rhoads took command of the company.

The past four range seasons, along with many other things that have occurred in this organization while under the command of Capt. Bruce, will never be forgotten. One of the most outstanding accomplishments is the 100 per cent. qualification on the range for four seasons. Not one single man disqualified during this period. Moreover most of the men have made first class gunners or better.

The following figures will relate the remarkable work done on the range this season:

103 officers and men took the test.
103 qualified.
20 qualified as experts.
77 qualified as 1st class gunners.
6 qualified as 2nd class gunners.

Who else can boast of a record like this?

To our regret, Capt. Bruce is leaving us now, but, we can not be selfish, for he is going to something better and we all wish him well and feel assured that we will not be disappointed. He will attend the advanced course, Inf. School, next year and all members of the company wish him success.

—Arden A. Leverich.

Company "H"

There has been quite a change in the personnel of the organization within the past few days. We have had added to the Grand Exhausted rank of Corporal, three worthy men of doubtful appearances. None of these lads would win a bathing beauty contest, but we must concede to them the fact that they know how to soldier. The fact that they have been promoted to the grade of corporal, has served to make Corporal John A. (Abraham) O'Brien quite happy. He is no longer the baby corporal of the compnv. Ray for the Irish!

Corporal Maudlin, the first of the last three to be promoted to the grade of corporal, has well deserved his tardy reward. Maudlin has always given the kind of service that any outfit should be proud of. The stable sergeant says that there is only one thing that could be wrong with Maudlin, and that is his..... .....well he works harder than the detail he has in charge. He is now trying to fulfill his second contract with his uncle, Samuel, by name. After this three years are completed, he intends to take on for another stretch.

On Saturday, June 23, 1928, Corporal McCann, late a Private First Class, received the surprise of his life. While the Company Inspecting Officer was making his tour of inspection on that date, McCann noticed that Private Lightsinger, of great reknown for his performances on Maneuvers, had shined his shoes. Think of it, men! He found Lightsinger's shoes shined, and within the hour, he found that he was a corporal.

Corporal McCann is not serving his first enlistment by any means. He has quite a bit of overseas service to his credit, as well as service in the Panama Canal Zone. McCann came to us in the early part of the year 1925, but stepped off on the wrong foot, and you know that when a soldier steps off on his right foot, he has quite a lot of trouble on his hands. A more exeellent and efficient man to fill a vacancy for corporal could not be found anywhere. McCann is a personification of Webster's word "Soldier"—always doing his duty, and that statement covers a lot of ground.

Corporal Allen is the baby of the "Two Stripes" now. He was made on the same order as McCann, and is a well deserving lad. The only thing that we have against him is the fact that he was a bugler of the company for a long time. Allen transferred to us from Regimental Headquarters about one year ago, and has given excellent service since he joined. It was not a surprise to any of us to see him get his reward for the type of service that he has been giving the company. We knew that such a man as he could not help getting the promotion that a good soldier deserves. He is one of the neatest men in the company, and never is late for a formation.

I do not intend to be rude, no, not at all; but dear readers, I do intend to have something better than corporals to write about the next time. I am one of those oft-spoken-of creatures myself, so I don't think that I should have to dodge any Irish confetti. The reason that I have classified the corporals in the order of "Grand Exhausted" is that they are forever and eternally popping off and backfiring about something.

Signing off. See you later, as the cross-eyed pug remarked, after his opponent had closed his eyes with a left hook and a right cross.

—B. B. Swayze.

BENNING SOLDIERS SENT TO WEST POINT

Atlanta. (Special.)—Using their enlisted service as a stepping stone to securing a commission in the regular army, four soldiers are experiencing the thrill of their first success in striving for that object.

Major General Richmond P. Davis, commanding the fourth corps area, has just notified Private Sam Houston Wiseman, of Headquarters Company, 8th Brigade at Fort McPherson and Corporal William Hyatt Bache, Corporal Thomas R. McDonold and Private Robert Lee Scott, Jr., all of the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning, Georgia, that they qualified mentally and physically at the entrance examinations held recently. This entitles them to admission at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, New York, on July 2nd, as cadets, their discharge from the army taking place at the same time.

These appointments were won in recent competition with hundreds of young men in the army over the United States and they are included among a limited number made by the president each year from among the enlisted personnel in the regular army.

Successful termination of their four year strenuous course at the U. S. military academy at government expense will mean, for each of these young men, a job under Uncle Sam as a second lieutenant in one of the branches of the regular army.

regiment until it was placed on the inactive list in 1921. He was then transferred to the Engineer Survey Detach. at Fort Bragg, and assisted in the survey of the Bragg reservation. After the completion of this work he was attached to the 13th Engineers until the early part of 1925, when he was again assigned to the 7th Engineers.

Connected With Service Papers Since 1920

Since 1920, Sgt. Morrison has been interested in service publications, and has been connected with several papers in most every capacity. He was regimental reporter on the Fifth Division Diamond Dust at Camp Jackson in 1920-21. He handled all the publicity work for Co. "A," 4th Engineers, and wrote special articles for the Fayetteville News and Observer at Fort Bragg. Immediately upon reporting for duty at Fort Benning, he reported to the Inf. School News for an assignment, and since that time he has filled several posts on that paper. "The Pontineer," which was published by Co. "A," 7th Engineers, at Fort Benning, was edited by Sgt. Morrison for some time.

On Staff of News

When he came to Fort Benning, Morrison became a regular contributor to the columns of the Inf. School News. His articles were very popular, and attracted much attention of the other service publications. He was later assigned as business manager of the News. This was in the summer of 1927. In this capacity his work was marked with success, and much credit is due him for the prestige which the paper has attained among the business concerns of the city of Columbus. He also, in this capacity, has attended to all matters concerned with the advertising in the News. Since November of last year he has taken care of all these duties on his own time, and practically all work being done after working hours on his own organization, Co. "A," 7th Engineers.

Besides his many friends at Fort Benning, Sgt. Morrison has many friends in the city of Columbus, and is held in high esteem by the business men of that city. They soon learned that Morrison was somewhat of an information bureau concerning the activities of the Inf. School, and whether it be an athletic event, a demonstration, or just the name of a new arrival at the school, they could very quickly get the "dope" by calling on him. Sgt. Morrison has stressed, in his capacity as advertising manager for the News, the fact that the paper is desirous of giving service to the advertisers. During the summer of 1927, when Morrison was in charge of the advertising of the News, a complete roster of the new student officer arrivals was published by him, and given to the business men of Columbus. This service has been continued this year, and much appreciation thereof has been expressed by Columbus merchants.

The many friends of Sgt. Morrison will watch with interest for word from him after his arrival in Hawaii. It is contemplated that he will write a series of articles for the News shortly after he becomes oriented with his new outfit.

CAPTAIN McCORD RETURNS TO BENNING

Captain Walter D. McCord returned to Fort Benning yesterday from detached service. He has been attending the coaching school at the University of Chattanooga, where Coach Jimmy Phelan, former Notre Dame football star and coach of Purdue University, has been conducting a coaching school. There were about seventy-five that attended this school. Capt. McCord will remain on duty with the Post Exchange until about August 1, when he will probably take leave of absence and visit his home in Grove City, Pa., where Mrs. McCord and three sons are spending the summer months. Capt. McCord will enter the Inf. School next year as a student in the company officers class.

AMERICAN AUTO ASSOCIATION ISSUES STATEMENT ON DEATH TOLL

Placing of a cross along the roadside for every person killed in an automobile accident within the past ten years would mean one to approximately every three miles of improved highway in the United States.

This statement, issued today by National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association, is based on a death toll on the streets and highways of about 175,000 within the last decade and a present system of 600,000 miles of improved roads.

The A. A. A. also pointed out that if these crosses were confined to one transcontinental highway—such as the Lincoln Highway, stretching 3,200 miles across the country—there would be over five crosses to every mile of roadway.

Turning to the non-fatal accidents on the highways and byways, the national motoring body said that if a marker was placed for every person injured in an automobile accident, there would be two to every mile of road of all types in the country and along the Lincoln Highway there would be 158 to every mile. This is based on an average of 29 injured for every person killed and around three million miles of roads.

The A. A. A., in launching through the Safety Departments of its 1047 affiliated motor clubs an intensive and continuing campaign to diminish the automobile traffic hazard on the streets and highways of the nation, declared that there must be a constant national effort on a more coordinated basis than has hereto been the case.

Mr. W. E. Austell, in charge of the Post Exchange garage, is one of Fort Benning's directors in the association.

"There is mother's ashes in the jar on the mantlepiece."

"So your mother is with the angles?"

"No, sir, she is just to lazy to look for an ash tray."

I. S. D. NOTES

The most exciting event since last the Muss inspired us, has been a change in Detachment Commanders. Major Henry A. Bootz, our old Detachment Commander, has gone to Garrison Headquaters to succeed Major Joseph Russ as Assistant Executive Officer. Major Louis A. Falligant is our new Commanding Officer, and comes to us direct from Fort Leavenworth. A farewell-welcome smoker was given on Friday last. The personnel of the Detachment regret Major Bootz's leaving for he has done so much for the Detachment in general and for most of us individually. We welcome Major Falligant and promise him our full cooperation and true maintenance of the I. S. D. spirit.

Pvt. 1cl. Knox has returned from a furlough spent in (of all places) Alabama. He went to Ruth Elder's home town, and while he didn't see the Flying Female, he brought back a number of interesting stories that begin "I knew her when."

Lieut. Ira W. Black, Section Commander, Military Police Section, has been ill in the hospital for the past two weeks. He has been operated on but is now on the rapid road to recovery.

Sgt. Wilfred J. Prudhomme of the Post Exchange, is a proud father of a daughter to be christened Emma. Congratulations.

Pvt. J. J. Wilson, of the M. P. Section, has taken upon himself the duties of Detachment barber to succeed Harry Eddings who gets a shop of his own with the 29th. Wilson promises to help the appearances of mugs with some of his secret formulas. We notice Crawford and Pfister still go in daily. What's the thing about Hope winning over Experience?

For those that think the U. S. Army is a bad place, a tough place and all the other things it has on varied occasions been called, we recommend a through reading of the "Legion of The Damned" by Bennett J. Doty. This is the chap who was given France's highest decoration for bravery in battle and later sentenced to be executed for desertion. An interesting book whether you think the Army is a heluva place or not. You can get it at the Service Club libary.

On the last fighting card, both of the I. S. D. boxers, Parker and Phillips, were winners. This was the first six round bout that the former had ever put on, and while at the end of the first four rounds Whitey began to show the strain he finally won the fight when the other side, realizing their plight, threw up the sponge.

The Detachment welcomes two new members from the 29th Infantry, Corporal J. H. Ebbers and Pvt. B. Cowan. The former has gone to work in the Academic Department and the latter is a scribe on the Infantry School News.

BITS AND TIPS

By Hasbeen

Saturday, the 23rd, found the 2nd Bats facing Durdin, of the I. S. D. The scribe confidentially expected to be hammered to all corners of the lot. It appears he was lost all morning from the reportorial rooms and it may have been he was closeted away studying the weaknesses of the league leaders. Anyway he got through nicely, holding Lt. Hayne's crew to five runs.

Carnes, the 2nd Bats' left fielder, emulated Larry Doyle, the Giants' former second baseman and captain, when he interferred with a throw in from the outfield. Larry, who was guilty of many lapses during his career and which were generally placed to the discredit of Fred Merkle, who played alongside of him, was at bat in a game years ago with the tying run on third. Larry hit a high one to the right fielder and as the ball was caught was just turning first. Doyle, who was out, stopped in his tracks and as the right fielder winged the ball to the plate to cut off the run, Larry caught the throw and relayed it to the plate to catch his own man. Of course the runner was out for interference and with Doyle's boner went the ball game. It is needless to say that McGraw took kindly to the novelty; that much that Doyle's pay check was short a mere trifle of $250 that month. It is presumed that Carnes would gladly pay a fine of this amount if he had that much coming to him each pay day.

It is rather difficult to describe that bunt Franz pulled in the seventh. Had he put another ounce behind it he might have handcuffed the left fielder.

Every game Pilot Haynes pulls a new one. This time he sent in a youngster named Tillman to do the receiving and the newcomer handled himself like a veteran both at the bat and with the mit. McAllister, who featured with his hitting against the R. O. T. C. was in right field and cut in with a pretty one-hand catch of a liner that was tagged for three.

McGagnon picked one out of the bat bag near the dug out that was a classy effort. The crowd gave him the glad hand. Again the question—where was this man last spring?

Old Sol has been hiding behind the rain clouds this past week and between the moist periods but few games were played. Possibly the wet session was a blessing to some teams who have to rely on one pitcher. The latter part of July has been set aside in the schedule just for a situation of this kind. From the way the postponements have been piling up more than a full week may be necessary to complete the schedule for the first half.

Sunday and Tuesday we had the 24th with its best lineup facing the Atlanta Greys. The first game, which the Greys copped 5 to 4, was a battle all the way. The visiting pitcher had a sweet hook which gave the Happy Hearts a world of trouble to fathom. Monday rained out any chance of a game, so a double header was played Tuesday with the 24th winning both ends. Not wishing to detract from the excellent article of ball the 24th showed it is believed the second game would have been much closer had the Greys presented the same lineup as the game Sunday. Their big clean up hitter, the third sacker, had poled a few long ones in the game Sunday and his strength was sadly missing in the two games Tuesday. He, as well as the pitcher of the opener, was called back to Atlanta after the first game.

Vance, as usual, had everything his own way while in the box. The only one of the visitors that took any liberty on the fast ball artist was the same mentioned 3rd sacker. It is a treat to see a good pitcher and a sweet hitter facing each other.

Trammel hit them hard and far away. The big first sacker poled four safe ones in the second game Tuesday.

Arnold, the visitors' 1st sacker, got two hits in the second inning of the first game Tuesday. His first effort hit the initial sack but for some unknown reason it was called a foul. Trying again he laid one down a trifle short of the bag and beat Trammel's effort to tag him. Seats pulled one out of the air with a back handed leap that was a pippin.

Big Clay, catcher for the Greys, had an experience in the 2nd inning of the first game Tuesday that he will not forget for many a day. Three plays at the plate this inning caused him to be charged with four errors which resulted in a total of five runs. The throws he attempted to stop bounced off every part of his frame but his head. He came close to equalling the world's record for a catcher which is 8 misplays. Shades of Larry McLean after a rough night.

Wednesday the schedule was resumed with the 83rd F. A. and the 2nd Bats facing the crowd. Though the score was 7 to 3 in favor of the latter at no time was it a certainty that the game was salted away.

It was the second time the writer got a glimpse of Buckley's crew. Here is a club that will be heard from as the season advances. There is a lot of material there and as soon as some of the rough edges are ironed out it is believed every club in the league will have to hustle to down them.

Cooper, the 2nd sacker of the Kellys, after a poor start, seems to be hitting his stride with the willow. He was hitting them right on the nose in this game.

Buckley, the Artillery pilot, had a merry time in the first inning pulling the long ones out of the vines on the right field fence. Cooper, Kjelstrom and Roosma all poled hefty wallops against or close up to the barrier. In the 2nd inning he transferred his activities to the initial sack where the going was much safer.

This chap, Jefferies, carries a mean threat every time he steps up to the plate. He hit the ball hard every time up and manager to get three through where they ain't. One of his drives McAllister was lucky to get his fingers on only to stop it and then kick it to the flagpole.

With two strikes on Roosma in the 8th, Pilot Buckley halted the proceedings and directed Flippo to send the next at Johnny's chin. This was followed by a fast hook and the basketball wizard slowly took the 26 steps to the dugout. This play was called by four of the old guard.

Ridley and Jefferies showed how that double steal can be broken up if properly played.

This youngster Flippo has a nice curve ball and as soon as he gainis confidence will be hard to beat.

A lot is missed by not being able to see the Company league games each day, but the second half will have these hopefuls playing the first game with the result that a line can be secured on their caliber.

"Have you a good landlord?"

"Excellent. His only fault is an overwhelming curiosity. He is always asking when I am going to pay the rent."

Herbert: "You flappers don't know what needles are for."

Flapper: "Well, I do. They are for the phonograph."

She: "Where in the world did you get that horrible necktie?"

He: "The laugh is on you. You gave it to me last Christmas."

Found: Ladie's handbag, left in my car while parked. Owner can have same by identifying property, if she will make satisfactory explanation to my wife.

TICKER TALK

Furnished by Fenner & Beane

Opinions

Sentiment is strongly bullish. Market is apt to make good response to further unfavorable weather.

Keech: Believe that market is headed for higher levels and that on reaction cotton should be bought.

Stocks

Regular dividend on D. L. and W.

Estimated that Hupp will show close to $4 dividend as compared to $1.14 for 1927.

Coppers are in better position than in many years, states Keech.

Since the late decline has been nowhere in proportion to the preceeding rise, it would take a further substantial drop in most stocks to bring them to attractive levels.

Cotton

A. C. Beane wired from Augusta, Ga., the following: Crop averages four weeks late, weevil plenty, days and nights cool and showers which is exactly the opposite from that needed. Prospects are gloomy.

According to word from Memphis, the Arkansas flood covers something over 250,000 acres cotton.

New Bedford reports that attempts to resume operations will be made by the 26 mills there. It is probable that resumption will be attempted on July 9.

Opinion

Pierce and Company says that they anticipate little change in the immediate future in the market.

BOXING NOTES

(By R. E. Referee)

Tuesday night the padded mit artists are down to show their wares. Gunner DePratt, Company "H," 29th Infantry, is on the books to meet the big husky from the 22nd Infantry, up at Fort McPherson, one George (Pug) Avera.

Every real boxing fan within miles has seen the Gunner show his stuff. His latest opponent, and then the one before that, and then again the one before that, and still then again the one before that, has been one Wily Willy Ptomey. DePratt this time is breaking away from the Ptomey complex and taking on a foot soldier from the dismounted doughboys. Had DePratt kept on meeting only Ptomey his record would resemble a chess tournament. It seems that in the chess league it is nothing for two players to fight it out for 15 years without either getting a clean cut edge.

George (Pug) Avera is no stranger at Benning. Avera is well known to the All-Army football squad, being a member of last year's team, holding down the guard position on the left of Red Lindsay. While at the Post the big linesman kept hurling challenges every time DePratt appeared against Ptomey. At the time the Gunner did not know that for a full year he was to keep on meeting Ptomey so was forced to abide his time until he could shake himself free. It seems that in addition to the personal challenges, every Saturday Avera found time to send in a written declaration which in part disclosed the fact that the said Avera was champion of the whole 4th Corps Area, DePratt included. The writer has seen scraps where a regiment has gone broke on the result and if this mill is just one half as thrilling as some of the old time regimental bouts then the one lon ggreen spent for a seat, which enables you to place your chin under the ropes, will be an investment not soon forgotten.

"He who fools you once, shame on him. He who fools you twice, shame on you." This holds good ever since Jess Willard uttered this proverb in Toledo back in 1919. Dempsey certainly played a mean trick on the big circus owner. But no one ever accused Jess of being fooled the second time by Jack. Which all brings us to the point that every once in a while no matter how classy a boxing bill may appear the remote chance is that it will turn out to be a bloomer. The casual fan will yell "never again" and tying all ends together his outburst is justified, but the real fan knows that some mills that appear commonplace on paper often turn out to be the hits of the season and taking a whole year of boxing as a criterion, the chances are that the outlay for the entertainment over that period returned ample dividends in diversion.

The prices now range from 35 cents, a price slightly less than the cost of a haircut, to one long, thin, greenback. Where in this day of Presidential conventions, transatlantic flights, five million share days in Wall street, wet and dry platforms, farm relief, flood control, and oil scandals, where we ask can the doughboy get a box seat close up to the principals for the sum of $1? No where except at the Post arena. If the glare of the spotlight or if you are troubled with self consciousness, or nearsightedness then seats a few feet to the rear can be had for 75c and again a few feet further back a velvety cushioned seat will be reserved until you arrive to claim it by parting with 50c cash, canteen checks, coupons, or what have you.

Red Keenan, Parker, Danny Davis, Bull Montondon, Thomas, and a few other favorites are listed to balance the card. The editor is pinched for space so we will have to refrain from giving an account of their graces, weights, fancies, expectations and ambitions. Turn out Tuesday night and see for y urself.

HAPPY HEARTS TAKE TWO OUT OF THREE FROM ATLANTA GRAY SOCKS

The Atlanta Gray Socks, colored professional baseball team from Atlanta, Ga., invaded the Infantry School for a three-game series with the 24th Infantry during the past week.

Taking advantage of Leonard's inability to get the old agate to working properly in the opening game Sunday, the visitors laced out a 6 to 5 victory over the West Enders.

Rain stopped hostilities Monday, but Tuesday a double header was played to complete the schedule of three games.

The first game gave evidence of being a pitcher's duel in the first inning, but in the second game the Happy Hearts unloosed their heavy artillery and when the dust had settled a big eight was shining on the scoreboard. The visitors were helpless before Vance's hooks and slants except in the seventh ining when they put over four runs. The final score was 14 to 4 in favor of the home team.

The second game was a nip and tuck affair with the Happy Hearts doing the taking by a 6 to 5 margin at the finish.

Stokes' twirling for the soldiers was hit hard by the visitors but stellar work in the outfield saved the game on several occasions.

Fendale Williams came in from deep right to take a Texas leaguer back of first for the third out with runners on second and third in the fifth inning. Bell made a beautiful running pickup of a sure three bagger in the third inning with men on the paths, that cut off two runs.

The Happy Hearts now hold victories over the leading colored professional teams in the country, including the Black Barons, Brooklyn Cuban Giants, Jacksonville Reds and the Atlanta Gray Socks.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

A few short months ago when Benning's crop of young amateur fighters were just beginning to learn the manly art of sock and slam, the fans were treated to many good old fashioned slugging bees at the fight cards which were held in the Doughboy Stadium and Gowdy Field.

One of these fights that was pronounced the fiercest and goriest of all, was between Jackie Phillips and Kid Colombo. They fought in the featherweight class and both boys were mere novices at the game. What they lacked in science they added in action, from the tap of the gong both boys waded in with leather flying. Neither boy spent any time blocking. They stood toe to toe in the center of the ring and swapped them. The crowd was wild, hats went into the air while the stands shook to the roar of the crowd. The end of the first round found both boys tired and bleeding. The second round was the same as the first with both punch drunk and groggy at the bell. Toward the end of the third round Phillips landed a haymaker to the button that dropped Colombo for the count of eight. With one eye closed and blood streaming from his nose the game little doughboy staggered to his feet and brought the crowd to its feet when he waded into Phillips to finish the fight on the offensive.

Although both boys were novices at the game they showed that they had the one thing that makes a fighter and that's a true fighting spirit. Colombo was discharged a while later. Phillips continued to follow the fight game, as a member of the Infantry School Amateur Boxing team that won first honors in the All-Southern Amateur Boxing Tourney held at Mobile, Ala. He fought his way to the semi-finals, losing the championship on a close decision. He was also voted the most popular fighter of the tournament.

NO CHANGES IN BALL LEAGUE THIS WEEK

(By Al Durden)

The third week of the Infantry School baseball season finds no changes in the standing of the teams in the three leagues.

The Kellys hold first place in the "B" loop by a safe margin, having won every game they have played during the season. The Green Cords are still clinging to second place, although they are being crowded closely by the advancing Tankers. The Caisson Riders opened the season by losing a close and hard fought game to the Tankers, 2 to 0. In their next game they swamped the 1st Bats, 14 to 4. In a previous game the 1st Bats won over the Greencords 15 to 8, naturally the dope pointed to an artillery victory when the Galloping Gunners and the Green Cords met. The old dope bucket took an awful tumble when the Green Hats whitewashed the Cannoneers by the one sided score of 14 to 0.

In the "C" circuit, the 24th Infantry Reds have won their first two games to take the lead, while the Tankers and Blues are tied for second place with one won and one lost. The Green Cords are holding down the cellar position with two losses and no wins. This loop promises to be a battle between the Tankers and Reds, with the Reds holding a slight edge over the Caterpillar Conductors.

The "A" league or Twi-light loop, has been one of frills and thrills and some mighty hot baseball games. The Bridgebuilders from the 7th Engineers have been showing all opponents a pretty pair of heels with all won and no losses. Although their slate is clean at the present writing, there is surely trouble brewing in the near future. The Howitzers have finally hit their stride and they are going to give the leaders plenty to do. Then from down around the coralls the growl of the Muleskinners has changed to a roar and ere the final out is made in the twi-light league, there will be losses and wins in every ones score columns.

CAPTAIN WICKLIFFE LEAVES BATTERY

Headquarters Battery personnel regrets the removal of it's commander to Washington, D. C. With pride Headquarters Battery looks back the three years it's captain, as leader, led this battery to the front of every phase of training, with a spirit of high ideals, with loyal support on the part of his men, led them to the front from citizens to soldiers commanding respect. His frankness and utter fearlessness, always inspired the cause of their country with more zeal. He speaks his mind bluntly, hiding his opinions from none. His command only loves him more, for his frankness and zeal, for the flag he serves. Indefatigable in his work to serve his fellowmen to the best of his ability, C. A. Wickliffe might serve as the ideal of what an American soldier should be, brave to a fault; unfaltering in the line of duty, and loyal to his superiors. He was always kind in his relations with simple folks, keeping faith with all, striving always to see justice done to one and to all. Striving earnestly for peace and happiness that may dwell in the land where his forefathers fought and died that freedom may ring from every mountain side. Alas, this true Captain is to be taken from us to fulfill the duties of a new office of which Headquarters Battery joins as one to wish him success and happiness as he climbs the steps, step by step, in reaching his golden goal of life.

—Pvt. J. L .Bolton.

Battery "A"

The battery conservatory of music has recently opened, conducted by Sergeant Horace H. Regan. Dis-Cords a specialty.

It is very inconvenient for the Top's girl to make the calls while he is on fire guard. It won't last but a week Sarge.

Everyone is wandering why Evans hangs around the supply room so much.

Lieut. Guernsey is progressing very well with his gunner's instruction. If he keeps up he will have more expert gunners than the Field Artillery will need, but the battery has it's doubts about Abernathy and Pinet.

We wonder why Sergeant Gilbert don't have a phone put up by his bunk. It would save the Charge of Quarters lots of trouble during the week of fire guard.

Tillie must have joined the canned heat gang. He discovered a large mountain on the reservation, something the map doesn't show.

Private Bailey has put in his papers to purchase a discharge. He seems to think Mississippi is better than the Army but he will soon find out different. He will be relieved as cook by Pvt. McRae, the question is: How many of the boys will die from poison before Mac learns to cook?

Private Terrell, the boy wonder, from the state of Mississippi, has been trying to figure why the back yard fences in Columbus are so close to the door.

Among our recent discharges were Privates Johnson and Allmond. Both took on another stack. The next victims are Sergeant McCann and Private Lasiter. Lasiter says that water melons are getting ripe in Tennessee and he will be safe for the summer. Sgt. McCann thinks he wont stay with the outfit but you never can tell what an Irishman will do.

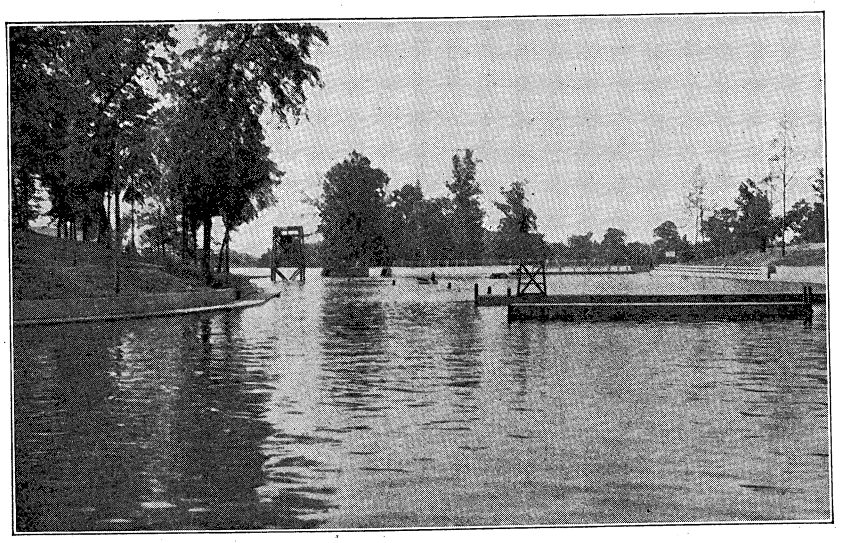
THE SWIMMING POOL



R. O. T. C. BOYS BEAT TANKERS IN SWIMMING MEET

The collegians of Fort Benning defeated the Tankers in the swimming meet held at the Inf. School swimming pool last Monday afternoon. The score was R. O. T. C. 34; Tankers, 16. Although the Tankers were the champions of Fort Benning last year, they could not compete with the collegians headed by Cadet Mosely, who captured four first places and one second for the R. O. T. C.

The results of the meet:

50 yard back stroke—Mosely, R. O. T. C., 1st; Seay, Tanks, 2nd; Pope, Tanks, 3rd.

50 yard breast stroke—Harris, R. O. T. C., 1st; Lucas, Tanks, 2nd; Matson, Tanks, 3rd.

100 free style—Mosely, R. O. T. C., 1st; Flowers, Tanks, 2nd; DeVaughn, R. O. T. C., 3rd.

Diving—Harris, R. O. T. C., 1st; Mosely, R. O. T. C., 2nd; Pope, Tanks, 3rd.

50 yard free style—Mosely, R. O. T. C., 1st; Buchanan, Tanks, 2nd; Eulys, Tanks, 3rd.

400 yard relay—Mosely, R. O. T. C., 1st; Buchanan, Tanks, 2nd.

CIVILIAN AIRPLANES PROHIBITED FROM USING FORT BENNING LANDING FIELD

Army regulations prohibit the use by civilian airplanes of airdromes, landing fields and other air navigation facilities operated by the War Department, except in cases where such action is necessary for the continuance of such aircraft on its course to the nearest commercial air port. No exception can be made to this rule without specific authority of the War Department.

Doughboy: "Aw, what do you know about war?"

Leatherneck: "Nothing, buddy. Not a thing. War is something I know nothing about. But I got two medals in an intervention, three machette cuts in a pacification, and six bullet wounds in a punitive expedition."

R. O. T. C. TRAINING PERIOD HALF OVER

Collegians Fully Enjoying Camp Life; Plenty of Work and Play on Daily Schedules

The Fort Benning R. O. T. C. Camp has been plunging ahead with its schedule of work and play until now the training period is about half completed. The students have all easily adapted themselves to their new mode of living a la Army style, which includes, early to bed and early to rise to the tune of bugles—plenty of well cooked substantial food—plenty of work in the morning—and plenty of athletics and other forms of recreation in the afternoon and evenings.

A number of southern states are represented at Fort Benning this year by R. O. T. C. students from Auburn, Georgia Tech, the University of Alabama and the University of Tennessee. Many outstanding athletes and leaders in various school activities are included in this number.

The R. O. T. C. Battalion has made its athletic prowess felt by other Benning organizations in various lines. A fast and exciting swimming meet was won from the Fifteenth Tank Battalion on Monday, and some excellent performances were shown. Baseball games have been scheduled throughout the period of the camp, and only one game of those so far played has been lost. A great number of students are enjoynig play on the excellent Fort Benning 18-hole golf course, through the courtesy of the Garrison Officers' Club. Tennis also finds favor among many of the students, and tournaments in both tennis and golf are already in progress.

Swimming, volley ball, indoor baseball, basket ball and horse shoes are the other sports widely indulged in, by the trainees. As a result of all these activities, the boys look like a bunch of seasoned veterans when they line up at formations, or swing along on the march.

Socially, it is impossible to keep a college man down, so the students manage to make this period of the year very interesting for the eligible young ladies on the Post and in Columbus. The R. O. T. C. Dance Association has been staging a series of Friday night dances at the Officers' Club Hop Room, which have been pronounced as most successful by all participating. About seventy-five couples and twice as many "stags" keep things moving with plenty of pep and spirit ,and midnight taps for the dance, sounds all too soon for everyone.

Band concerts by the 29th or 24th Infantry Bands are given two or three evenings every week at the R. O. T. C. Camp. The variety in the selections, and the excellence of the performance are greatly appreciated by the students, and by visitors to the Camp. One evening each week a "Color Line" concert or entertainment program is put on by the students themselves much to the delight and edification of the rect of the camp personnel. A very good ten piece orchestra has been organized and most of the current popular dance numbers are rendered, with plenty of spice. Other features on the programs include a quartet, a double quartet, monologue artists, buck and wing dancers, musical saw artists, as well as various short acts or stunts by the members of the different organizations.

The first issue of "The Skin List" made its appearance last week. The Skin List is a weekly news and humor paper, edited and mimeographed entirely by members of the camp. Copious illustrations and cartoons, mixed in with jokes, news items and short features go to make up the additions. Woe be to the student or officer who makes an error ,either of commission or omission, for he will be sure to find his name or picture in The Skin List.

BASEBALL SERIES INTERESTS FANS AT FORT BENNING

(By Al Durden)

Dixie sunshine combined with two games of baseball each afternoon has kept everything buzzing at Gowdy Field during the past week.

In the "B" loop, the Kellys have continued their undefeated advance, winning over the Greencords and Tankers running their string of wins to eight with no losses in the battalion series this season. The lowly Greencords with their twirling staff gone to pieces, went down before the Terrible Tnakers while the Artillerymen took a close and hard fought game from the 1st Bats 7 to 6.

The Reds continue to lead the way in the "C" league, with the Tankers in second place. Saturday afternoon both games at Gowdy Field were in the "C" circuit. The first game was a close affair with the Tankers nosing out a win over the Blues. Stokes started twirling for the West Enders but walked four in a row in the fourth. Leonard relieved him but was hit freely by the Caterpillar Conductors.

The second game between the Reds and I. S. D. was an easy victory for the Happy Hearts although the Green Cords fought back as best they could with a crippled team. Al Durden started on the mound for the Green Hats but was forced to give up the job at the end of the third inning. Young "Shotgun" White twirled the remainder of the game and pitched a fine brand of ball but miscues in the outfield was his undoing.

In the Twilight loop, quite a few changes were noticeable, the most important being the checking of the Engineers winning streak. The Muleskinners turned the trick by a 6 to 4 count. Although slow in getting underway the lads from mule skinning outfit will be heard from in the winning column many times before the end of the season. The Q'Emmers added another win to their column when they downed the lowly C. W. S., 8 to 6 in a close contest.

DRAMATIC CLUB MAKES IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Local Club Will Present Seven Plays Next Year; Opening Night Will Be October 19.

An important announcement was made this week by Major B. G. Ferris, President of the Fort Benning Dramatic Club, to the effect that the schedule for the next school year has been approved by Gen. Collins, the commandant. This will greatly facilitate the organization plans of the club for next year, as the plays will be selected at an early date and the various committees will be ready to start the work for the year probably before the opening of the school next fall.

The schedule calls for seven shows to be presented by one of the most popular clubs at the Infantry School. The opening night will be October 19, at which time all officers and their friends at Fort Benning will be invited to attend without charge. It is not known at this time what play will be presented but it was stated that special stunts and features will be on the program in addition to the regular act for that evening. The other shows for the year will appear on the following dates: December 23; December 21; February 8; March 8; April 12; May 10. The last play of the year will be one of three acts, and it is quite probable that a three-act play will be given on December 21. The shows on the other big dates will probably be three-one act plays.

SWIMMING SCHEDULE

Several weeks ago a schedule for use of the swimming pool was published in this paper. Additional hours given below are prescribed:

8:45 A. M. to 10:45 A. M. Sundays and holidays, for recreational swimming by enlisted men.

11 A. M. to Noon. Sundays and holidays, for officers, their families and house guests and civilian members of the officer's club and their families.

R. O. T. C. CAMP TO HAVE GUESTS FOR SPECIAL EVENT

Heads of Colleges Invited to Visit Camp; Track and Field Meet Will Feature

Tomorrow has been set aside by the R. O. T. C. camp as "Visitor's Day" and all the relatives of the collegians in the camp have been invited to attend the big track and field meet scheduled to be held in Doughboy Stadium tomorrow morning. The field events will begin at 7 o'clock in the morning, and the track events are scheduled to begin about 9:30 A. M. The events of the track and field meet include the following: 100-yard dash; 220-yard dash; 440-yard dash; 880-yard run; one mile run; 220-yard low hurdles; running broad jump; shot put; javelin throw; discus throw; 880-yard relay (4 man team); tug of war; push ball (40 man teams between Artillery and Engineers); shoe race. First, second and third places will count in the computation of scores for the organizations. Medals will be given winners of first places.

Much interest has been manifested in the R. O. T. C. camp in the big meet tomorrow, which will see many track stars of the four southern colleges represented at the camp. It is estimated that there will be several hundrd relatives of the collegians present at the meet tomorrow morning. The presidents of the colleges represented have been invited to attend the events and it is expected that they will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the camp and observe the collegians in the role of a soldier.

In addition to the track and field meet in the morning, there will probably be a baseball game on Gowdy Field. However, no definite announcement has been made as yet.

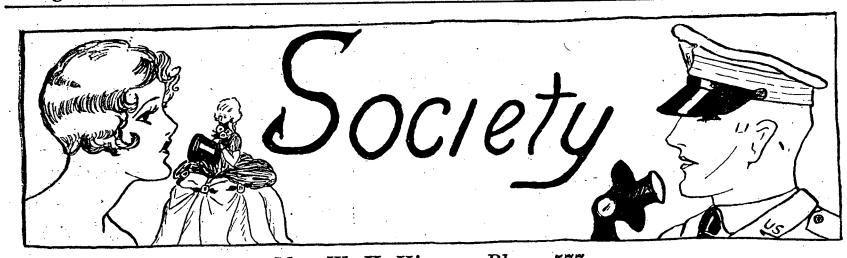
Upon the completion of the meet in Doughboy Stadium, the visitors will be taken to the tented area where they will inspect the camp and will be guests of the camp at mess at the noon day meal. Special preparations have been made by mess officers, and needless to sav that the visitors will be served with plenty of "good old army chow."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Of plans for the Dramatic Club for next year will be published in the News from time to time. Although the school year is several months away, the officers of the club are making plans for what promises to be one of the most successful years in the history of one of Fort Benning's popular organization.

"HAM" KELLEY

Of Major McCant's staff at the Post Exch. blew in the other day after spending several weeks at Warm Springs. Everyone is very glad to see him back on the job again. We understand ,however, that he is contemplating another trip to the big Georgia resort in the near future.



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

Honoring Mrs. B. Duncan and Mrs. Clyde M. Duncan of Poplar Bluff, Mo., the charming guests of Lt. and Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin, Mrs. Holmes E. Dager was hosstess at bridge at the Log Cabin on Thursday. Mrs. Cecil Rutledge won first prize, a pair of chiffon hose, and Mrs. Lavin, second, a novelty bridge score pad. Mrs. Duncan was given a double deck of cards as guest's prize. At the conclusion of the game frozen salad sandwiches and tea were served.

On Monday morning Mrs. Cecil Rutledge complimented Mrs. Lavin's mother and sister, Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Clyde M. Duncan, with a beautiful bridge luncheon. Gay garden flowers were effectively used throughout the house for decoration, and patriotic tally cards symbolic of the "Glorious Fourth" were used. The guests arrived at 9:30 and at the conclusion of the game an elegant luncheon was served. Mrs. Lavin won first prize, two lovely hand-embroidered guest towels. Mrs. R. A. Case won second, a novelty necklace. Mrs. Rutledge presented her honorees with filmy organdy shoulder flowers. Those present at this delightful party were: Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Lavin, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Spiller, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Dager, Mrs. Overfelt, Mrs. Steward, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Bass Lewis and Mrs. Ogletree of Columbus. Special luncheon guests were Mrs. Earle, Mrs. McNiell and Mrs. Haynes.

On Tuesday morning Mrs. W. H. Vinson entertained at bridge most informally for Mrs. Lavin's guests. These were two tables at which pivot bridge was played. Mrs. Clyde Duncan and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge made highest scores and were given Chinese straw envelopes embroidered in gay colors. Mrs. B. Duncan was given a hand-painted georgette handkerchief. At the conclusion of the game grape frappi and devil's food cake were served.

On Wednesday Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Clyde Duncan and her attractive "Sonny" left for their homes in Missouri.

On Tuesday Mrs. A. D. Bruce was guest of honor at a beautiful luncheon and bridge given by Mrs. Clifford D. Overfelt at her home on Cedar Ave. in Wynnton. The house was charmingly decorated in yellow and green ,yellow zennias and shasta daisies being used. The guests arrived at one o'clock and soon found their places at one large table. The table was perfectly lovely. It was overlaid with filet and had for its centerpiece a low silver bowl filled with shasta daisies. Silver candlesticks held green tapers and silver bon bon dishes held yellow and green candies. The same colors were carried out in every detail of the party. After an elaborate luncheon, pivot bridge was played and Mrs. Charles Steel and Mrs. Albert Helsley won the prizes, bottles f bath crystals. Mrs. Overfelt presented Mrs. Bruce and Mrs. J. R. Moon, both of whom are leaving soon, with special guest prizes.

Mrs. Charles Steel entertained at a delightful swimming party and picnic on Tuesday for her little daughter, Ella Kean.

* * *

Mrs. Jesse A. Ladd honored Mrs. A. D. Bruce with a lovely two-table bridge party on Monday.. Pivot bridge was played and bath salts was given at each table for high score. Mrs. Bruce received a pair of chiffon hose as guest's prize.

CURB CHAFING IS HARD ON TIRES

When your tires grind against the curbing it wears away the sidewall. This permits moisture to enter and rot the carcass of the tire.

We will be glad to inspect your tires for cuts and bruises free. If repairs are needed the cost is small. Thousands of miles of useful service can often be restored to an injured tire if repaired in time.

AT THE MOVIES

JULY 6, TO JULY 13, INCL.

FRIDAY, JULY 8

"A SHIP COMES IN," starring Rudolph Schilderkraut and Marie Dressler in a story possessing tense drama, comedy, deep appeal and fast action. It is the story of a loyal American of foreign birth, who, innocentof crime, is convicted and sentenced to Sing Sing prison. Suspense and pathos abound in every scene.

"Pathe News No. 53."

SATURDAY, JULY 7

"CANYON OF ADVENTURE," starring Ken Maynard with his trained horse, Tarzan, in an historical film laid in California. It tells in vivid action of the times during the Spanish rule in the days of huge land grants. Maynard plays the part of a daring land grant agent who withstands innumerable hardships in performing the duty of saving land fo rthose to whom it had been originally granted. A romance softens the theme.

"Fighting Fannie." Christie Comedy.

SUNDAY, JULY 8

"LEGION OF THE CONDEMNED," from the story by Monk Saunders, author of "Wings," stars Fay Wray and Gary Cooper backed by a strong supporting cast. This stupendous production is said to eclipse any of its nature, among the regular feature program releases. It is essentially an aviation picture depicting the life of a youth who wanted to die; he joined a group of self-condemned men who sought honorable death upon the field of battle. They fought personal duels among the clouds and faced dangers almost beyond imagination. As a climax the youth falls desperately in love, then does not want to die. This film is grippingly spectacular from beginning to end.

"Fables."

"Paramount News No. 96."

"SHIELD OF HONOR," starring Neil Hamilton with Ralph Lewis and Dorothy Culliver in a story portraying the mysteries of the strong "arm of the law." It is gripping and thrilling from beginning to end. A girl locked in a safe—her sweetheart, an aerial policeman, receiving an S. O. S. via radio while up in the clouds; he zooms to earth and accomplishes a remarkable rescue. If you enjoy thrills see this picture.

"Haunted Island No. 2."

TUESDAY, JULY 10

"GOOD MORNING JUDGE," starring Reginald Denny in a new comedy role which fits him perfectly. He plays the part of Freddy Grey, young and wealthy. While watching a prize fight he becomes embroiled in a ringside fight, is arrested and sentenced. The owner of a mission for reformed criminals rescues him and he falls in love with her and suffers many trials and tribulations which are meat for laughter of the audience. You'll enjoy this picture.

"Sweeties." Bobbie Vernon Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11

"THE VANISHING PIONEER," from the novel by Zane Grey, starring Jack Holt. It is the story of the development of the West from its inception in pioneer days through to its development into thriving cities. The hardships encountered and the terrible sacrifices wrought from the theme contains many exciting incidents. A romance deftly ties the threads of the plot.

"Paramount News No. 97."

THURSDAY, JULY 12

"THE ESCAPE," starring Virginia Valli and William Russell in a tense drama of love and life in the shadow of the gay white way. The scenes are laid in New York in the heart of the night club district, gunmen, bootleggers, rum-runners, and underworld denizens play prominently in this picture. It is the story of an attractive girl who lived in the reek of the underworld and craved the light of a more refined environment. The course pursued ,and the attenuating circumstances forms the interesting incidents of the story.

"Mickey in Love." Mickey McGurie.

FRIDAY, JULY 13

"SKINNER'S BIG IDEA," starring Bryant Washburn. You've heard of "Skinner's Dress Suit"—this whirlwind of comedy is said to eclipse it. Skinner, an energetic young business man, is promoted to a position somewhat over his head. He is told to fire three employes while his superior is away, but instead of casting aside old fossils, he decides to rejuvenate them; he succeeds, then the result of his "Big Idea" runs away from him and presents some of the most comical situations imaginable. The introduction of a chorus girl into the office staff adds amusement and love interest. Don't see this picture if your face powder contains starch.

"Pathe News No. 55."

MAJOR L. A. FALLIGANT

and family have arrived at Fort Benning. Major Falligant has been assigned to command of the Inf. School Detachment.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Was appropriately celebrated at Fort Benning Wednesday. At noon, the salute to the Union, commemorative of the Declaration of Independence and consisting of one gun for each state, was fired by a battery of field artillery. Immediately upon the conclusion of the salute, the 29th Infantry band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

TACTICAL TOPICS
(By E. F. H.)

"Better be damned than mentioned not at all."

Advanced Class Notes

Chief Justice O'Hare is one of the company of prominent golfers who journeyed to Montgomery, Ala., on the Fourth of July for a prolonged week-end of their favorite sport. Justice O'Hare is combining business with pleasure—one of his avowed missions being the investigation of law enforcement conditions in the neighboring commonwealth.

Captain Parkin checked out on Thursday. He is bound for Pittsburgh where he expects to spend the rest of the summer. Civic pride can sometimes inspire even greater sacrifices than Patriotism.

Captain Cy Searcy having completed his biological researches on the Origin of Weapons is endeavoring to remain incognito until July 10, the tentative date set for his flight from Georgia.

Sport News

We occupied a ringside seat at the recent gladiatorial spectacle staged by Impressarios Tuttle and Wilson and thoroughly enjoyed it. In this connection, Tactical Topics extends its congratulations to Red Keenan and Gunner DePratt for their eminently satisfactory of the marked problems which the talented promoters had arranged for them.

Nos morituri te salutamus

This is our last appearance before the discriminating Fort Benning public. Almost simultaneously with the publication of this farewell issue of Tactical Topics, we shall be rattling down Lumpkin Road in our 1923 model ice and groceries delivery truck on our way to our ancestral estate for six weeks or so of complete relaxation. After that we go into a prolonged period of seclusion, forsaking Gambrinus, Eros, and the Muses for the service of the great god Mars. By the end of the Leavenworth course we expect to have all the symptoms of the celebrated monk from Siberia, who "leaped out of his cell with the hell of a yell and eloped with the Mother Superior."

We have enjoyed our sojourn along the Upatoi a great deal more than we expect to enjoy the alleged higher educational advantages of the institution on the banks of the wild Missour-ai, as they say in the Cavalry. We like the free and easy atmosphere of the Infantry School, with its almost total absence of pedantry and dogma. We shall probably droop and wither in the highbrow atmosphere which is said to prevade the sacred precincts of Leavenworth, where an instructor's lightest word has all the authority of the famous stone tablets which Moses brought down from Sinai.

Far be it from me to flatter our erstwhile instructors but, really, after sitting at the feet of Roy Hill, Lynn Roberts, and Doc Cook for eight months, we wonder what there is left for Leavenworth to teach us.

We meant to write for this last issue of our column a Swan Song which should express our appreciation of everything that we like about Benning—and there is a lot that we do like about it—but what with packing, hot weather, and everything we had to abandon the idea. In simple unembellished prose, however, we can say that we consider the year at the Infantry School the most useful and one of the most pleasant that we have known in our long and brilliant military career.

—E. F. H.

BEAUTIFUL PAINTINGS ADORN LOBBY OF MAIN THEATRE

Three large oil paintings, depicting in color the subject of drama, have just been completed for the lobby of the Main Fort Benning Theater. Two of these are seven feet high by eleven feet long, the third is seven by twenty-two feet.

These murals have been hung on the east wall of the lobby; the largest, in the center depicts romance, the one on the right adventure, and the picture on the left comedy. The combination of the three represent, in their entirety, drama.

The subject matter of each painting was the conception of Private Willoughby Lynch, a member of the Infantry School Detachment, on duty in the Drafting Section of the Academic Department.

The mural on the left carries you to the grog shop of an old monestary where three monks are enjoying the cooling quaft and telling tales over the flowing bowl. One of them is just reaching the climax of a witicism and the faces of the others are starting to crease into laughter. The one on the right conveys you to the crags of a desert isle where adventure manifests itself in the spirit of buccaneers who, with their hidden pilfer, are guarding the entrance to their cavern. The long picture spaced in the center takes you to the great outside where two lovers stand arm in arm looking over nature's verdant spaces.

Private Lynch has worked with untiring zeal for over six months in the preparation of these pictures, each face was drawn in crayon many times before one with the desired expression appeared for selection, body forms were in most cases taken from personnel on the post.

The frames of these pictures were made in the workshop of the Main Theater by Sgt. Russell V. Wall.

How composite is the army; few realize the hidden talent dispersed among the rank and file of a post like Fort Benning. Its engineering and artistic talent, it can truthfully be said, can construct almost anything under the sun, from a massive structure to the most intricuate paitning or piece of scenery.

Mr. Harper has been in the drug business for sixteen years, and every year he makes a special effort to take care of the new student officer personnel. He extends an invitation to all personnel at Fort Benning to call on him.

24TH INFANTRY'S FAREWELL TO COLONEL JOHNSON

As the setting sun of June 27 broke through the heavy clouds which had obscured its face all during the day it brought out in high relief the long rows of white tables and fluttering guidons and standards arranged at the edge of the towering pines bordering the 24th Infantry swimming pool. Gathere around the tables were 800 officers and men of the 24th Infantry assembled to break bread for the last time with their departing commanding officer, Colonel W. C. Johnson.

It was an impressive sight. Impressive for th eperfect outdoor setting, and in the hearts of the eight hundred officers and men doubly impressive for the sincerity and depth of this farewell to a beloved Colonel.

With the tall pines for a background, tables had been placed end to end—making eight white rows for the eight companies of the regiment. In front of the massed men was the table for the officers with Colonel and Mrs. Johnson, Colonel Galleher, the new commanding officer, and the other officers of the 24th Infantry. To one side was the regimental band.

When the band had played its last piece, Colonel Johnson rose to say his farewell. There perhaps was not much need for words, as far as the regiment was concerned, for in the hearts and memories of those men there were three and a half years of fair dealing, forbearance and love. Words could not add or detract from the record of this officer and gentleman. And—as for him—he found it difficult to say even a few words of farewell to his regiment.

Sgt. Miller, representing the men, had probably prepared a very carefully considered speech for the occasion, but words suddenly seemed wholly inadequate to him, too, and with an honest dab at one eye he appealed to the new commanding officer, Colonel Galleher, to save the day.

One of the many outstanding services which Colonel Johnson has rendered to the 24th Infantry has been his promotion of athletics. It was extremely fitting, therefore, that this farewell dinner should be closed by hi spresentation of the 24th Infantry athletic jerseys and medals for a major sport, that of boxing. On the front of the jersey is an emblem having the numeral 24th and the symbol indicative of the sport. Two men of the regiment have three symbols, the highest record in the regiment. When all the boxers had been presented with sweaters, one sweater still remained. This one bore five symbols, one for every major sport which the 24th Infantry takes part. It was presented to Colonel Johnson with the sentiment that he who had done so much for atlehtics and the spirit of sportsmanship should be given the highest award in the power of the officers and men of the 24th Infantry.

Here lies the remains of Phineas McBloom,
He found the right house but went in the wrong room.

Judge (to officer who arrested a man for not wearing any clothes): What is the charge?

Officer: Your honor sir, for impersonating a woman.—Ga. Tech Yellowjacket.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Private A. L. Traut has returned from a 30-day furlough spent in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky. Traut says its been raining so much "up Nawth" here lately that babies are being born with fins and webb feet.

Private Bicknell has also returned from a furlough spent in various parts of Georgia and South Carolina. In fact, Bicknell doesn't know the names of all the towns he visited, they were so numerous.

Here's a good one: Private Richardson says he pulled his k. p. on Sunday so he wouldn't miss work Monday.

Last week we erroneously stated that Private Virgil R. Byrd played a violin at the recent I. S. D. smoker. We were so thrilled at the melodious tunes originating from Private Byrd's musical instrument that we never observed what he was playing. However, we have been reliably informed that said instrument was a guitar. We are only too glad to make this correction of fact.

Private Tony Tombrilo secured a pass and is spending the Fourth with his "Dagoe gal" in Birmingham.

Corporal Charley Dollar, who manipulates the keyboard of the Intertype, has taken unto himself a three-day pass and will spend the Fourth with the femininity of Bainbridge, Ga., his old home town. Due to the fact that Charley did not announce his plans until the eleventh hour, it is not expected that the mayor of Bainbridge will be at the railway station to welcome him home, but as soon as the news has spread, we are sure that the town will turn out en masse for the popular Charley.

Louie Rowe, civilian, who runs the Kelly, has been given a 15-day leave of absence. Louie didn't let it be known just what he is going to do these 15 days, but we believe we could guess if we tried hard.

Private Middleton is putting in for a furlough and plans to visit his home in Nebraska, where the wheat grows tall. Private Bicknell will act as clerk during Private Middleton's absence, it is said.

Corporal Manning hasn't been to town for the past day or two. So far we have been unable to find out why.

Private Webb is the "big cheese" in the stock room nowadays. Private Traut has taken charge of the Miehle, and Corporal Pash has the bindery, with Private Malo as his assistant.

Private Thagard is holding his own as assistant to Corporal Manning in the hand composition department.

July 5, 1928.

Stocks

New issue of treasury certificates today does not reflect condition of money market, in opinion of Secretary Mellon. He says long term bonds are not affected by call money rate and expected conditions to clear up before next September, when treasury will probably conduct it's refinancing program on a short term issue.

The floor says Mellon views on money condition started a general buying movement in high class stocks.

Car loadings week ended June 28 totalled 986,789 cars, decrease of 16,503 from previous week and 31,271 under same week, 1927.

Although previous forecasts were that steel tonnage would show a decline, Dow Jones has announced the statement will show an increase and says incoming orders exceeded most optimistic expectations.

Cotton

Fossick, Memphis, makes acreage increase 5.9 per cent.

Shannon, of Fenner & Beane, says: Trade seems to construe weekly weather report as bullish owing to unfavorable comment in east and hot winds in west.

Julian, of Fenner & Beane, says: The Garside crop report says condition lowest on record. Crop situation very irregular, grass stealing fertilizer and starving plant. Acreage abandonment now largest on record.

Proctor and Gamble estimate acreage increase 7 1-2 per cent.

A. C. Beane wires from Wilmington, N. C.: Crops everywhere irregular and spotted. Best cotton I have seen is in North Carolina. I have not seen a bloom in 2500 miles traveling in North and South Carolina and Georgia. The outcome depends entirely on weevil. If they are plentiful and active looks like a disaster is inevitable.

24TH INFANTRY NOTES

The First Battalion, Major J. W. G. Stephens, commanding, completed rifle marksmanship on Fiske Range Friday, June 29.

Under the expert coaching of Captain J. P. Lyons, officer in charge of rifle marksmanship, excellent results were obtained in all companies and a comparison with the records of former years show a great improvement in qualification. The following named men hold the high score in each company:

Company "C", 1st Sgt. Julius Jennings, 324.

Company "B", 1st Sgt. Osborn Bryson, 319.

Company "A", Pvt. 1st Class Jesse Roberts, 321.

The 2nd Battalion will start its range work on Monday, July 9th.

It is with regret that we note the departure of Captain Harry M. Gwynn, who left on Saturday for two months leave, which he will spend in Hendersonville, S. C. Captain Gwynn will not rejoin the regiment upon his return to Benning in September as he will then attend the Company Officers Class of the Infantry School.

Our genial Counsel for the Defense, Captain F. S. Mansfield, has not been seen around the regiment for the past few dalys. Upon investigation, we find that he has apparently developed a decided, if somewhat belated interest in the logging game and now commands the logging camp out on First Division road with the worthy motto, "Bigger and Better Logs" for his platform.

"theirs not to make reply, theirs not to reson why" In other words, blind obedience to a creed, code or order. One officer, a radical exponent of the economic policy, while firing on the range for record, demonstrated beyond doubt, his desire to cut down the expense of running the army. This noteworthy act occurred at a rapid fire range, where he "saved" one round of caliber 30 for the next fiscal year.

The officer concerned required 4 points to make Expert Rifleman. He wanted to make Expert and was sorely tempted to use the last round, but with a glorious example of self control, he succeeded in restraining himself, swore a mighty oath and remained a true republican. Such self-denial and willpower should be upheld as an inspiration to all and it is believed that the shot, that didn't go off, should take its place with the other historic one that was "heard around the world."

BITS AND TIPS

By Hasbeen

Missed quite a few of the games this past week but did get in on the Sunday thriller between the 1st Bats and the 83rd F. A. It was a typical "the day after pay day" ball game. The caisson riders were in a pay day coma for six and two-third innings. Up to this time Hinkle, the 1st Bats moundsman, had the opposition eating out of his hand. In four of the innings the Artillerymen were retired in one, two, three order. Then the haze seemed to lift from the wearers of the red stockings. With two out in the seventh Hinkle booted an easy roller at his feet; this was followed by another boble by the short stop; to make it interesting the right fielder permitted a high one to roll off his chest; the relay home by the second baseman found lodgment in the dugout; the shortstop again miscued by dropping a hot one right at his collar button. At the start of this nightmare the 1st Bats were out in front with the score 6 to 0. When the third out was made the scoreboard registered 6 to 4. Picking up another run in the eighth the Artillerymen opened the ninth with one run behind. By this time the coma had left the 83rd and getting the first man up in the ninth on first Jefferies poled his first one of the day to the scoreboard for the circuit placing his club one to the good 7 to 6 which they held to the end. After the excellent article of ball Hinkle pitched up to this time it must have been a bitter pill for him to swallow.

Passing up those three bad innings the 1st Bats were putting out to the limit. Their chatter from the dugout showed that they were out fighting to win. Their pilot Strickler has them on their toes as evidenced by their showing in the last three games. With an old head or two on the club to steady the maidens when the pinch comes, and with this youngster Hinkle showing better in every game, this ball club will climb a notch or two in the league standing.

Monday the Tanks bowed to the league leaders 8 to 2. Big Newman, who seems to the writer to be ready for Class A company, was too much for Cobb's hustling ball club. When a team stacks up against air tight pitching and the other club is gathering a run or two every other inning it is just a question of taking the licking and waiting for another day.

Kjelstrom fattened his average at the expense of the Howard and Lindsay. The 2nd Bats Captain rode that old pill for four long ones.

One thing that is noticeable in every game that Carnes is present, is that when the umps pulls a bad one, Carnes is the goat. They have called the third strike on him when the ball has cut his shoe laces, some called ones have shaved his upper lip, but in this game the third strike was called on one that came near hitting the dugout. No one knew why this last one was a strike, but Carnes by this time, callous to punishment ,took it as a matter of daily routine. Maybe the arbiters will read this and give the former east sider a better break hereafter.

This is a great place for the squeeze play. Three times the Kellys pulled it on the Tankers. In 1908 and 1909 Connie Mack's club pulled this play repeatedly, in fact three times during the latter year his great club pulled the double squeeze. However, the defense against it is so simple that the play is seldom if ever used these days. In a close game last year Joe McCarthy of the Cubs pulled it and the sensation that it was put across caused the entire press of the country to feature it. Any pitcher who is wide awake will see the runner starting in from third and his play is to either pitch to the batter's shoe tops or if he is facing a left handed hitter to waste it so that the batter will have to cross the plate to get near it.

While we are on the subject of defensive plays there is one that has caused quite a few clubs at Benning to either clutter up first base or fail to have any one there at all. I am referring to the sacrifice laid down with a man on first base. The orthodox method of making this play is for the pitcher, 1st and 3nd basemen to tear in with the pitch. They form sort of a half circle around the ball when hit. The second baseman takes the throw at first. The shortstop covers second. If the ball is fielded by the 3rd baseman the pitcher cuts over to third to cover that bag; many alert left fielders will move in and back up third. But whatever system is used by different managers they all bank on the second baseman taking the throw at first. Cobb of the Tanks has this play working smoothly. Let us take up the play with runners on first and second or with a runner on second only and the sacrifice is laid down. Again that second baseman covers first base, the shortstop covers second. On this play many managers keep the third baseman back to cover a force out at third hoping the pitcher can make the hitter hit to the first baseman who, with the pitcher, tears in with the pitch. If one elects to send the third baseman in too after the bunt it is simply making the one out sure, but above all the second baseman takes the throw at first if the play is made there. The theory is to make sure of one man. The reason this simple play is given so much space is because at least a dozen times so far this season teams in the league have allowed the bases to become loaded with runners due to mixups around the initial bag.

In the above the catcher was not mentioned simply because a separate paragraph is necessary to show just how important his task is in the whole play. He is the only one that can actually see the men on the bases. It is up to him to snare any short bunts close to the plate and throw to the base where the play will be of the most help. If the pitcher, 1st or 3rd baseman field the ball it is up to the catcher to yell where the play is to be made. Ray Scalk was a wizard on these bunts. No one has ever equaled Hall Chase in tearing in from first and throwing runners out at second and third when the sacrifice was laid down the first base line. Being left handed he did not have to turn around to make the peg to second or third.

In looking over the clubs at Benning the words "big league' 'is written on the backs of at least two dozen men now playing at Gowdy Field. By this is meant, that with the mechanical ability they now have and the opportunity that is theirs in being able to get out every day to play the game, there seems to be no erason in the world why they can't go out and take their place with organized ball. How often has the question been asked: Why is it that the Army with thousands of ball players, playing ball every day doesn't send more men to the big leagues? Possibly there are 23 reasons, maybe less. Let us examine this angle from a comparative standpoint. Kerry Patch in St. Louis, the hard coal region of Pennsylvania, the mill districts of New England, and the colleges throughout the country are the sources from which the big leagues get 70 per cent of their stars. Let us take the first three mentioned. In these sections boys just coming up, eat, drink, sleep, and think baseball every minute. Very often they are employed for 10 hard hours every day and the only time they get into a game is Saturday and Sunday. Every evening however these kids can be found fielding and hitting until long after the moon has come up. Old timers who have been up in the big tent and whose throwing arms are all in and whose knees creak at every step are out to correct their faults and suggest this and that with the result that by the time their eighteenth or nineteenth year rolls these future greats, though short possibly on education, are polished enough in the baseball line to step out and affix their signature to a lucrative contract. There are many books on baseball, on how to hit, and how to field, and the art of pitching, etc., but 300 volumes of this junk is worth about the price of one worn out bat bag. Every ball player with ambition has got to put out to the limit of his ability every time he dons that monkey suit. Get out at every opportunity, keep your eyes open, when you see a play go through that works tab it, keep your own style at the plate, forget about shifting the weight from your elbow to your spinal column or some other joint that the books devote forty pages of pictures. Your own individual style of batting arrived with you the day the nurse said "it's a boy." The big leagues have 400 men on the pay roll, and there are just that many different styles of hitters. No two stand up there alike. When you face that pitcher there is just one thing in the world that makes you a hitter and that is the belief in yourself. The determination to watch that white string all the way up and when it is in there to take a determined cut at it will find you getting one out of three safe which percentage will hold you in any league. Possibly a little chatter along this line each week will bring a few of those that have the mechanical ability to go after the only thing needed to make them a success and that is what is known as "polish," in other words there are no lost motions in their make-up, every play they are in is made with their heads up, if one is booted, which every one does, don't make it worse by heaving that ball when there isn't a possible chance to get the runner. Next week this line will be continued.

Just before going to press the 1st Bats pulled the surprise of the season by downing the fast travelling Tanks 10 to 6. Three twirlers were trotted out to stop the rejuvenated crew of Stricklers.

Reddock, 3rd sacker of the 1st Bats, cut in with some classy fielding around the hot corner, in addition to lining out three timely blows. The whole club played good ball with Hinkle, who pitched the last game, shining in this one as a catcher. While on this subject it is a life time job learning to play one position correctly, but to learn them all is not being done. Stick to one job and find out everything about it.

One year ago Gunner DePratt was scarcely known in the realm of Fightdom beyond the boundaries of the Upatoi.

When Captain Charles Mabbutt took over the duties of boxing instructor at the Infantry School he was quickly interested in the blond headed doughboy who carried the kick of a mule in either mitt. Some time later when Captain Mabbutt matched DePratt to fight Willie Ptomey, all-service middleweight champ, fight critics looked wise and predicted that the doughboy would never hear the bell in the fifth round against the title holder.

Fans who witnessed that battle are still talking of it, both fighters met in the center of the ring to hear the referee's instructions before the opening gong. The men came from their corners at the bell, Ptomey feinted a left following it with a right cross, his right landed but he had made the mistake of a life time ,traveling less than one foot, DePratt smashed a left hook to the button that dropped Ptomey for the count, ten seconds after the opening of the first round.

In a return match some time later, DePratt smashed his right hand on Ptomey's head in the fourth round. With his right hand useless he refused to quit and fought his way to a decision.

When from lack of training and poor condition DePratt dropped a decision to Ptomey a few months ago, Fightdom immediately forgot him, as a broken play toy..

When Ptomey and Middleton fought here last month Gunner DePratt climbed into the ring before the fight and challenged the winner. As the old idol climbed through the ropes there was a scattering hand clap among the audience. Th emain bout was very disappointing, before it was half over the crowd was calling for "DePratt." After the fight Capt. Wilson told them they would have DePratt on the next card.

When "Gunner" crawled through the ropes at the Fort Benning arena last Monday night th ebiggest attendance of all time was there to greet him with a roar that shook the stands. When DePratt crossed his right to George "Pug" Avera's jaw for a clean knockout in the second round of the fight Monday night, Fandom went wild. It was the return of a child's play toy, for Fandom in all stages of life never grows old.

To DePratt went a lion's share of the triumphs o fthe night but a goodly part of it was shared by a wee mite of an Irishman with a freckled face and a flaming top. No service fighter is better liked or wider known than "Red" Keenan, bantamweight. For six years he has been one of the biggest drawing cards among Fort Benning fighters. Two years ago Red was declared through, staging a sensational comeback, he fought his way back to favoritism in 1927, winning b ythe knockout rout over Stetson, Kendricks, Fountain and Jimmie Wilde. Then the "Mick" hit the toboggan, quit training and finally suffered a knockout at the hands of Kendricks whom he had stopped on two previous occasions.

When he asked Captain Wilson for a chance to come back, the Captain was more than glad to give him another chance. Monday night Keenan never looked better, a few growlers and critics claimed that Griffin was fouled in the third round. Keenan stopped Griffin, he can repeat the dose.

BOXING NOTES

By R. E. Feree

It is believed the fans got their money's worth at the show presented by the Athletic Association last Tuesday night. While fanning on the point of value received the average patron of a boxing show is content and satisfied if the contestants booked put out their best efforts while they are in the ring. They are not so much concerned about the reputation of any particular star but they do rise in wrath when men are presented who are not in condition or when a match is one sided. Put two men in the squared circle both in condition, evenly matched, and both putting out to the limit of their ability, it doesn't matter if the swings are started from the floor, ceiling, or the waterbucket, the fact that they are trying is what makes the patron leave his chair and yell for more. Following this line of argument all matches hereafter will be made at least ten days before the fight so that men can reach the peak of condition.

Last week's bill started with Pecot and Phillips putting over one of the nicest exhibitions seen in many a day. Neither one lost a second while in there. Pecot's reach and his ability to bring them up and under offset the body punishment that Phillips inflicted. It was a pretty draw.

Doubting Thomas surprised the crowd by sending rights and lefts from all angles and beating the star of the Meritas stable, Krafty Klein.

Another favorite, Danny Davis, showed the effects of proper condition by taking Jack Bray the much heralded sensation of Columbus into camp in a four rounder. Bray seemed to sense the poison in Danny's right mauler and kept well out of kissing distance.

Bull Montondon looks the part of a world beater in the gym, but before the crowd he reminds one of the horses who break watches in the morning workouts and hearts in the afternoon. If the cyclone dodger will forget about that overhand milk pail punch of his and settle down to learn how to send across the short eight-inch punches he may be seen against some good boys. Shell, the Meritas entry, and by the way a southpaw, easily outpointed the Bull.

Parker the ISD favorite gave an exhibition that pleased the fans. Well out in front for the first four rounds he found the fifth too much to meet and standing in his corner he took rights and lefts from Dallas Hunt until the towel came to the rescue. What a pretty shift this boy Parker has in stock, but Hunt is a tough one to crack and being in perfect shape he abided his time and then sailed in. This bout should act as lesson No. 1 to the blond from the fire department. Condition is the biggest asset in the boxer's handbag.

Red Keenan showed that he can sock and sock he did. Meeting a whirlwind from Atlanta in the person of Kid Griffin he permitted the youngster to jab, hook, and jab time and again until the opening presented itself. Then that eight inch cross landed and from then on it was a question of time. The visitor made a tremendous impression with the crowd by his gameness after that first one landed.

In the feature event action was not missing. Avera of the 22nd was advised by every man he met to look out for that right of DePratt's. In the first round which was Avera's by a wide margin, the boy from McPherson landed a half dozen left hooks to DePratt's chin which drew blood from the 22th's favorite. Near the end of the first round Avera landed a hard right which caught DePratt on the left temple that shook him up considerably. Going to his corner Avera was advised by his handlers to go out and finish the fight as he had DePratt on the run. In the mixup the Gunner landed his first real blow of the night, a terrific right to the pit of the stomach. This one hurt, then backing his man to the ropes the 29th doubhboy landed a high right to the head which spnn Avera like a top, this was followed by that eight-inch inside jolt which landed flush on the button and McPherson's hope hit the canvas with a thud.

It was a night of action. Lines are out for new faces and boys who are willing to give their best. If a certain well known boxer can be reached look for the Gunner in action again along about the 18th.

Vol. VI. FORT BENNING, GA., JULY 13, 1928. Number 43

WEST POINT PREP SCHOOL OPENED LAST WEDNESDAY

Large Number of Enlisted Men Will Take Course This Year; Three Instructors Detailed with School

Thirty-nine enlisted men stationed at Fort Benning entered as students in the West Point Preparatory School last Wednesday. Practically every organization of the Inf. School is represented in the number of men who will take the course apropos to taking the entrance examination for the U. S. Military Academy next spring.

No doubt the unusually large number of students this year is due to the success of the men who took the course last year. There were five men who were picked from last year's class to take the final examinations at Fort McPherson several weeks ago. Of this number two men were selected and have already entered West Point. This is said to be a high record of percentage of enlisted men from any one station who have succeeded in passing the rigid examinations, which are said to be much more severe than those given to civilian applicants.

General E. T. Collins, the commandant, stated several days ago that he was glad to see the interest manifested in the school this year, and that he desired to give every enlistd man who so desired, an opportunity to be able to prepare for the annual examination held for the enlisted personnel of the army.

Those who have entered the school this year are listed below:

29th Infantry

Pvt. William F. Armstrong, Howitzer Company.
Pvt. Bert E. Miller, Howitzer Co.

INF. SCHOOL DETCH. HAS SPLENDID RECREATION ROOM

Local Organization's Day Room Will Compare Favorably with Civilian Club Rooms

(By B. H. Cowan)

While the sweltering rays of the summer sun, so typical of Dixie are mercilessly meeting out its scorching heat to those who are exposed to it, men of the I. S. D. find comfort and protection from it in their recreation room.

Theirs is the best equipped, most comfortable club room of any enlisted men's organization on the reservation. The moment one steps through the door comfort is suggested. Curtains hang over each window; fans placed at regular intervals along the wall are in motion, doing their bit to keep the room cooled; writing tables and card tables are waiting to do their bit. Along the sides of the walls are found a number of large, comfortable leather chairs with reading lamps and smoking stands conveniently near. In these one may sit and spend many pleasant afternoons and evenings if a person so desires reading one of the many current magazines or daily papers of the leading cities of the South and Southeast. In the event one becomes tired of, or does not care to read but is a lover of music, then this desire may also be satisfied. An excellent radio and victrola with a number of selections, picked to please the individual taste, ranging from popular airs to operatics.

For those who are in love with the green covered table with it's pockets, cushioned banks, the small ivory cue ball, and would like to be elevated to stations occupied by Jack Schaefer, Willie Hoppe, Cochrane and many others whose names once occupied space and prominence as the champion billiard or pool artist, may find an opportunity and time to pursue this favorite and well known indoor sport, generally known as the "gentleman's game."

In addition to these, about the walls in recognition of their ability in athletics and other activities of the post will be seen silver loving cups, a pennant declaring to all and sundry they were once the best baseball team in the Intra-Mural league.

The men of the I. S. D. take pride in their club room, and they have a just right to be proud of it. Their's is, as before mentioned, the best club room of any enlisted men's organization on the reservation and one that will compare favorably with the club rooms of many civilian clubs.

LIEUT. REED OLDEST FORT BENNING RESIDENT

Lieut. Harry E. Reed of Headquarters Company, Fifteenth Tank Battalion, we believe has the distinction of having had longer continuous service in Fort Benning than any othe rofficer now on duty at this station, therefore in point of service he is the garrison's oldest resident. Lieut. Reed reported here for duty from Camp Mead (now Fort Leonard Wood) on April 4th, 1920, and has been here ever since, a total of more than eight years at this station. Lieut. Reed attended the 1926-27 session of The Infantry School, and upon completion of the course was re-assigned to this unit. As he is not due for foreign service for quite awhile it is very likely that he will be here at least three more years.—(From 15th Tank Weekly.)

KELLYS LEAD BY WIDE MARGIN IN THE "B" BASEBALL LEAGUE

First Half of Summer Baseball Schedule Near End; Other Interesting Facts About Leagues

(By Al Durden)

With the end of the first half of the Infantry School baseball season near, the winners in each of the three leagues are now assured.

In the "B" league, the Kellys are away out in front with practically no competition. They show twelve games won and no losses for the first half of the season. The Terrible Tankers have fought their way into second place although this berth is bitterly contested by the Galloping Gunners from the 83rd Field Artillery. With a badly crippled team all season, the gallant 1st Bats have made a game fight of it and are now clear of the cellar where the crumbling Green Cords have tumbled after a week of wrecks and disaster.

With the beginning of the second half of the race drawing near, the weaker teams are making desperate effort to strengthen their lines and get away to a new start in the last half .

With the return of several of their star players from furlough and the addition of two new men, the Green Cords hope to regain their lost prestige in the final heat.

The teams in the "C" loop have been idle during the past week, their standing remaining unchanged. The Reds from the 24th top the list with three won and no losses, the Tankers hold second position with three won and one defeat. The Blues show one won and two lost while the Detachmenteers are snowed under with three lost and none accounted for.

J. Pluvius has been busy keeping down hostilities in the "A" circuit. The Gin-Ears have cinched first place for the first half, their big lead in the beginning of the season being too big a handicap for their doughboy rivals. The second half is sure to see plenty of action in this league. The Q'Emmers and Medicos are combining their forces while the Ordinance and Gas Bums are forming a combination that will be heard from. The latter named team should be one of the sensations of the last half, as there is excellent material in each of these small organizations which when combined will make a dangerous team. Futch, who twirled good ball for the Infantry School team during the early season, is sure to ruin the batting averages of some of the bambinos of the circuit.

THREE RESERVE OFFICERS

Have reported for duty with the 29th Infantry. They will be with the demonstration regiment for two weeks training. They are Capt. George H. Thursh, Lieut. Russell D. Hendricks, and Lieut. Claude C. Skaates. They have quarters in Block 21.

CADET JOHN W. BOWEN WINS FIRST HONORS AT MILITARY SCHOOL

Son of Major B. E. Bowen Enters West Point as Result of Standing at G. M. A.

John W. Bowen, son of Major Burton E. Bowen, formerly commanding officer of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, entered the U. S. M. A. at West Point this month, as a result of scholarship honors received at the Georgia Military Academy, College Park, Ga. The scholarship honor at that school carries with it an appointment to the Academy, and the many friends of Cadet Bowen at Fort Benning will be delighted to hear of his success.

The News is in receipt of a recent issue of the "Gamilacad," the bi-weekly publication of Georgia Military Academy, which carries the following story concerning Cadet Bowen:

"Cadet Captain Bowen, senior and "C" Company commander, was awarded first honors last Monday morning when the president announced that he had successfully led his class during the entire year. Cadet Bowen will be valedictorian of the 1928 class. Cadet Bowen is the son of Major B. E. Bowen, who has been stations in Chicago for the past few months. He was formerly at Fort Benning.

First honors at G .M. A. carries with it an appointment to the United States Military Academy, and Cadet Bowen will enter that school this summer.

The many friends of the worthy cadet rejoice in his remarkable success, and wish him every good fortune in his future training for life."

The article further stated that there were four cadets at this school who ran very close to Capt. Bowen, according to an announcement made by the president of G. M. A. The News joins with the many friends of Cadet Bowen in extending congratulations on the honor of receiving the much coveted appointment.

MAJ. ROSE TAKES OVER DUTIES OF ASSISTANT EXECUTIVE

Graduate of Inf. School Will Take Place of Lieut. Col. Edwin Butcher

Major E. C. Rose, graduate of this year's class at Fort Leavenworth, arrived at Fort Benning last week. He will take over the duties of Lieut. Col. Edwin Butcher Monday, the latter leaving Fort Benning to become a student at the War College in Washington next year.

Major Rose is also a graduate of the Advanced Class, Inf. School, 1927. Prior to attending the Inf. School he was on duty with the 8th Infantry Brigade at Camp Lewis and Van Couver Barracks. He was adjutant at the latter station for over a year and in addition being the Executive Officer of the brigade for over two years. Major Rose is a native of Colorado and a graduate of the Military Academy, class of 1922. In 1923, he was detailed as an instructor of chemistry at the Academy.

Mrs. Rose and children, Elliott and Mary, will spend the remainder of the summer visiting relatives in California, coming to Fort Benning shortly after the opening of the school year.

Col. and Mrs. Paul Stanley Bond have gone this week from our midst. They have been at Benning for a good number of years and have endeared themselves to a host of friends at the post and in Columbus where they have chosen to live for the past two years. Col. Bond is an outstandingly brilliant officer and Mrs. Bond, one of the queenliest of women. They have added much to the social life here for their hospitable home has often been the scene of charming parties. They go to New York where Col. Bond will be on duty.

Mrs. Kenneth Olson and Kenneth, Jr., have recently arrived in Columbus from Panama where they have finished a tour of service. They are the guests of Mrs. Olson's mother, Mrs. Adabelle Dooley, on Wynnton Drive. Lt. and Mrs. Olson will be stationed at Fort D. A. Russell next year.

Lt. and Mrs. Richard G. Prather will leave early next week for leave and change of station. They will visit Col. and Mrs. James B. Gowen at Fort Hayes, Ohio, and relatives in Virginia and New York City before sailing early in September for the Philippines.

* * *

Mrs. Peter Feringa of Ft. McIntosh, Laredo, Texas, and Mrs. John Uucles of Fort Sill are visiting relatives in Columbus and shared honors at a lovely bridge party at the Log Cabin on Friday afternoon given by Mrs. Burrell Cole and Mrs. Carter Woolfork.

* * *

Mrs. J. C. Williams of Tampa, Fla., wife of Maj. Williams, was guest of honor at a charming seated tea given at the Log Cabin at twilight on Friday evening by her aunt, Miss Davis, and her sister Miss Margaret Davis, of Dinglewood.

* * *

Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst entertained three tables of bridge at a delightful morning party today.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. B. B. McMahon, with Jerry and Janet, left on last Monday for their new station at Green Castle, Indiana, where Capt. McMahon will be C. M. S. & T. at De Paw University.

* * *

Lieut. and Mrs. Waine Archer and family left Tuesday for Tryon, N. C., where they will spend several weeks, the guests of relatives and friends.

* * *

Lieut. and Mrs. Pierce H. Camp have returned to Fort Benning after their honeymoon trip of several weeks. They are residing at present on Fourth Avenue in Columbus, and will be here until the last of August when they will leave for Atlanta, where Lieut. Camp will be on duty with the R. O. T. C. unit at Emory Universiyt.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. William R. Bent have moved to the post from the city. They will occupy the quarters vacated by Captain F. O. Schmidt in Block 23. Captain Bent is on duty with the Inf. School Detachment.

AT THE MOVIES

July 13, to July 20, Inclusive

FRIDAY, JULY 13

"SKINNER'S BIG IDEA," starring Brvant Washburn. You've head of "Skinner's Dress Suit"—this whirlwind of comedy is said to eclipse it. Skinner, an energetic young business man, is promoted to a position somewhat over his head. He is told to fire three employes while his superior is away, but instead of casting aside old fossils, he decides to rejuvenate them; he succeeds, then the result of his "Big Idea" runs away from him and presents some of the most comical situations imaginable. The introduction of a chorus girl into the office staff adds amusement and love interest.

"Pathe News No. 55."

SATURDAY, JULY 14

"RIDERS OF THE DARK," starring Tim McCoy in a romance of the frontier. A girl runs a newspaper alone, defying the hoardes of lawless men that bring terror by night. Tim comes to her aid. A rapid succession of thrills ensue, elements of the law endeavor to protect a jail and almost loose their lives when United States Cavalry arrives and thwarts the onslaught of the ruffians. This story is excitement from start to finish.

"Fair and Muddy." Our Gang.

SUNDAY, JULY 15

"THE CIRCUS," starring Charlie Chaplin in the comedy triumph of his convulsing career. Charlie, unknowingly, becomes the accomplice of a pick pocket and manages through his cleverness to escape the strong arm of the law. In escaping he falls into a job with a circus. Through his awkwardness he is discharged and later again hired; he takes the place of the tight-rope walker who fails to appear and becomes the scream of the show; then, he falls in love with the manager's daughter; trouble ensues and he is again fired and again hired. His troubles without end, cause you rib shaking laughs. This picture is funny enough to make a lion roar.

"Paramount News No. 98."

"Fables."

MONDAY, JULY 16

"STREET OF SIN," starring Emil Jannings and Fay Wray in a melodrama of East Limehouse, London's rapidly disappearing slum. It concerns the regeneration of a giant bruiser who rules the ugly district with his fists; his domestic life is shared with a girl of the streets. A Salvation Army lass comes into the neighborhood and with her piety and pity is the instrument of the bruiser's reform. This picture is highly dramatic. Its tense action will bind your nerves.

"Haunted Island No. 3."

TUESDAY, JULY 17

"THE GARDEN OF EDEN," starring Corrine Griffith with Louise Dresser and Charles Ray in a lady laugh special of Paris and Monte Carlo where merry marriage mixups take place. The story tells of a Parisian vocal student who poses as the daughter of a barroness at Monte Carlo; she passes through humorous and dramatic adventures with a young man whose family are so distrait at the wedding that extreme measures are employed by the girl. This story is based upon the stage success by the same name which triumphed in Germany, England and America.

"All For Nothing." Charlie Chase.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18

"CIRCUS ROOKIES," starring Karl Dane and Doris Kenyon in a riotous story of life under the big canvas. A persistent applicant for a job in Bungling's Circus is finally hired—he is about to lost his job when a huge gorilla escapes, terrorizes everybody and is tamed and captured by this man. One comical incident follows another in rapid succession. Thrilling climaxes will keep your nerves on end throughout most of the picture.

"Paramount News No. 99."

THURSDAY, JULY 19

"DRESSED TO KILL," featuring Edmond Lowe and Mary Astor in a crook story with a novel angle. It is a story of robberies, double-crossing among thieves and the sacrifices of a girl to save her sweetheart. Many of the scenes are laid among the weird denizens of Chinatown.

"Fun Afoot." Sport Comedy.

FRIDAY, JULY 20

"LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME," starring Richard Bartholemess in a filmization of the famous story by John Fox Jr. The plot is laid in the mountains of Kentucky; it graphically portrays these hardy mountaineers as they lived during the days of the Civil War. It has dramatic punch and continued suspense, and provides one of the finest screen stories that this popular star has ever played in.

IN FAIRNESS TO OUR YOUTH

The Assistant Secretary of War, Charles Burton Robbins, who last week spoke to the 261 graduates at West Point, said nothing new. Yet what he said is important and timely because so many Americans can not see it.

Viewing the future from the experience of the past, he devoutly wishes for the passing of war, but could find no reason to expect it for many generations to come. Hence:

"The best way to avoid war is to be prepared to meet it if it should come—but never by word or act to invite aggression.

"The nation must still depend for its existence upon the loyalty and willingness of its youth to offer their lives in its defense."

The training West Point gives adds to this loyalty and willingness of youth a degree of knowledge which, in emergency, reduces the sacrifice.

It is not enough to give that knowledge annually to only 261 amid our nation's millions of devoted young men.

We may not need a greater number to supply with commanding officers our small regular army.

But every young American, if called to the hazards of war, as in every generation thousands have been called, should have had the opportunity to learn in advance how to make those hazards as small as possible.

In fairness to them, that is the least we can do in return for their willingness and loyalty. And that is what many mature American now oppose.—(Washington Herald.)

FIVE SOUTHERNERS MAKE OLYMPIC TEAM

Ed Hamm of Ga. Tech Leads Field And Track Stars

By Bernard H. Cowan

He led the Southerners. No it wasn't in war, not even a political campaign or so much as a debate. But just Edward B. Hamm, star athlete of Georgia Tech, a Georgia institution of learning, leading the Southern field and track stars in the final Olympic tryouts just completed.

In the past when the Olympic tryouts were held only a few men of the South were thought worthy and given a chance as a representative to wear the shield and stars across the "big pond." This year a number of stalwart sons of Dixie forced their attention on the Olympic officials by their stellar performances in dual and conference meets. As a result a number were entered and looked forward to, too either place or give strong competition. They were not disappointed.

Five men from the land of sunshine made their births on the tea mthat sails on July 13, to do their part to uphold the honor of the United States and bring back laurels for both the nation and themselves.

The stellar performer of this group of Dixie prides was Hamm, when on his first leap in the final tryouts at Cambridge, leaped 25 feet, 11 1-8 inches, bettering a mark set in 1925 by De Hart Hubbard, negro athlete of the University of Michigan. This record, it was thought, would stand for some time and would be a mark for future generations to shoot at, but it has toppled by the wayside and is now history.

The four other men from the South who credited themselves with glory and made berths are Emil, "Snitz" Snider of Auburn, who ran in the 400 meter run; Henry H. Cummings of Augusta, Ga., who ran the 200 meter dash under the colors of the Newark A. C.; Claud Brace of Rice Institute, Texas, placing in the 100 meter dash and 400 meter relay race; and Sidney Bowman, the nineteen-year-old high school boy of Louisiana High School in the hop, step and jump.

Space does not permit the names of other contestants who wore Southern colors in the final tryouts, but in their efforts, though they did not land their berth, the South is proud of them. The keynote, to arouse the incentive to be recognized as stars and champs has been struck. When the next Olympic team, four years hence, is chosen it is predicted more Southerners will be on the team than ever before.

FORT BENNING YOUNGSTERS KEEP FIT

The old maxium, "a sound body will help keep the mind alert and carry you well into old age," seems to have found root in the youngsters of the garrison. They, realizing that the only manner in which they may have this sound body is by proper training and exercises are using every means available to build themselves into strong men so that when the occasion arises and time sets back those who have been forging ahead to help carry the burden of a nation, they will be able to fill the vacancies created. These same youngsters who are at some time in the near future to take over the reigns from hands that are no longer able to guide, may be seen daily in the big gymnasium taking their workouts and exercise as regularly, and in many cases more diligently than their elders.

From early morning when the gym opens till closing time at night one will almost always invariably find some of them training, either by themselves or by the side of some strapping big soldier in their effort to build and keep a sound body.

Many of these young fellows show promise at some time or other as being stars in athletic circles if they keep up their consistent training and are properly handled. The main issue being not to exert themselves in their eagerness to excel thereby impairing their health at an early age.

COLONEL GALLEHER TAKES COMMAND OF 24TH INFANTRY

Colonel Paul C. Galleher assumed command of the regiment on July 1st relieving Colonel Wait C. Johnson who left for his new duties with the Second Division. Colonel Galleher is by no means a stranger to Benning having been on duty at this post for the past four years. We feel honored that Colonel Galleher, when asked his preference for assignment, especially requested the 24th Infantry. Colonel Galleher is glad to be with the regiment and the regiment is glad and proud to have him as their leader. With such accord in our organization, we predict an enviable record for the 24th during the coming years.

During the war Colonel Galleher served as Lieutenant Colonel with the 309th Infantry of the 78th Division. In 1920 he was transferred to the 62nd Infantry where he remained until 1921 at which time he was assigned to the 3rd Infantry for duty. Colonel Galleher was with this organization for two years and then entered the Command and Staff School at Fort Leavenworth as a student. In 1924 he came to Fort Benning and was assigned to the 29th Infantry. In May, 1925, was ordered to duty with the Infantry Board, on which duty he remained until his recent arrival as Commanding Officer of the 24th Infantry. Colonel Galleher was promoted to full Colonel in September, 1926.

—W. R. G.

CHANGE IN OFFICER PERSONNEL

Captain Pleas B. Rogers who has been with the regiment since 1925, will leave about August 1st for duty with the Academic Department of the Infantry School. We are reluctant to part with Captain Rogers for he has been with the regiment a long time and become a very essential part of our organization.

Coming directly to the regiment from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, he took over command of the Service Company, and during the past four years has built up and maintained a fine esprit and reputation for proficiency in that organization. Captain Rogers takes with him the best wishes of the regiment and our feeling of regret is tempered by the knowledge that he goes to new duties within the post, and not away from Benning.

To offset the loss of Captain Rogers, we are glad to announce the assignment of Captain Adrian H. Brian to the regiment. Captain Brian is an old member of the 24th and we are glad to welcome him back. Captain Brian returned to Benning last year from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, and was assigned as Instructor at the Infantry School. On August 1st he will join the regiment and replace Captain Rogers as Commanding Officer of the Service Company.

Captain William F .Gent left July 5th for one month's leave, which he will spend in Columbus, Georgia. On August 7th he will report as a student at the Marine Corps School in Quantico, Va., where he will enter the Field Officers Course.

The Regimental Garden, under the careful supervision of our expert horticulturist, Captain W. B. Wilson, is putting out a bumper crop this year. Twice a week each family of the regiment receives a large assortment of fresh vegetables, which are greatly appreciated. Captain Wilson and his assistants are proving real morale factors this summer.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

There's plenty of work in the linotype department nowadays. Of course, the entire personnel of the shop has plenty to do, but the operators of the Mergenthalers, Corporal Charley Dollar and Privates Heisler and Jenrette, are especially busy, and it looks as though they will not be in position to do any "goldbricking" in the next six months or more.

Corporal Charley Dollar is back on duty, after spending a three-day pass last week with friends in Bainbridge, Ga.

Everybody, as we said above, are busy. And when folk are busy they have no time for gossip. Therefore, the editor of Ye Printe Shoppe Gossipe finds it rather hard to think up something with which to fill this column. Knowing that readers of the Infantry School News will be greatly disappointed if we miss one week's edition, we are doing our best to imagine something, but even our imagination has gone back on us. No, not exactly; we can imagine some day being master sergeant if we stay in the army long enough—say, thirty years.

Company "G"

Well old Company "G" is back on its feet again. No more sandpaper or Griffins Cream.

The men of the 3rd Platoon are glad to see Lt. Hewitt back again. We hope that he stays with us longer this time.

King was arrested for being drunk in town and the Judge asked him what his name was and King told the Judge, "Mr. Gun." The Judge said, "Well Mr. Gun, you are charged with being loaded." King said, "Not guilty sir, that was just a miss fire."

The 1st Sgt. has been pretty lonely for the past few days. "Well it won't be long now Sgt., they'll be back soon."

Some one has sure geen playing a good game of checkers in the company lately. Sgt. Southerland moved and we got Sgt. Wiggins. He is a good man and we are glad to have him with us.

Cook Davis has been giving Rct. Carmichael a few points on boxing around the kitchen. Davis sure knows his one two and out.

"G" Company will surely have a holiday this week. Cpl. Brown reports that Recruits Deeters and Paladino will be turned to duty.

Galliano has all of the cars in the company in fine shape. We sure are lucky to have a good mechanic around.

Bugler Foster is now the chief bugler of the company and he says that he knows his shoe laces when it comes to changing shoes for a formation. Cheer up Daybreak, it won't be long until you will be in full command.

Kid Melanson was discharged by ETS and Mac said, "No more for me." We expect him back just as soon as he finds out that they don't issue Canteen Checks in civil life.

Sgt. Folsom took on another stack last month. We are glad that you didn't leave us "Buck." Better paint up the old show case and take a ninety-day spin as soon as we come off the range. You sure deserve a vacation.

Well boys get the old trigger finger loosened up, for it won't be long now until we'll be looking down the barrel at the bull's eye.

—Warset.

Company "E"

The hot weather is here but nobody is suffering from the heat yet.

"Horse Fly" Hornsby was trying to get his discharge from the Army on dependency but he failed to make the grade. The "Fly" seems to be satisfied even with his discharged papers back disapproved by the Corps Area Commander. He says the hardest thing about getting in trouble is getting in debt.

Our new arrivals from furlough is "Dead Eye" Langley, Stamper, Canada and Edwards. They all expressed themselves when they returned as having had a wonderful time.

Corp. Easterwood has just returned from special duty at the Regimental Farm and is back for duty. "Red" says there is nothing like doing straight duty. All our men on special duty at the Service Company have just returned for duty and it makes it easier on the bucks here pulling guards.

Pvt. Orndorff, a new arrival in the Company has recently put in a transfer to DEML at Auburn, Alabama, and it has been approved and he left the 7th. Glad to see you get in Orndorff.

The company is firing pistol practice at the present and the men are making better scores than they ever made before. Ask Arevalo how he manages to make so many possibles with the pistol.

We have three boys who have made the school for the West Point Coaching Course which is starting July 11, 1928. They are Privates Bache, Crane and Exner. Private Bache has a brother, Corp. William H. Bache, that entered West Point July 2, 1928, and he hopes to follow in his brother's footsteps next year.

Sergeant "Sam" Dalby, one of the platoon sergeants who has been acting 1st Sgt. for a week while our 1st Sgt. was in the Hospital is drilling recruits again. He came in the orderly room this morning (Friday, July 6, 1928, before he fired record pistol and stated: I want a note made before I fire, at this time 7:30 A. M. that I am feeling fine, the best I ever felt. He made over 90 per cent with the pistol.

We have a large swimming pool near the barracks that is doing great stuff toward keeping us boys cooled off in the afternoon. Sgt. New can be seen at the swimming pool quite often navigating it with the greatest of ease.

RECRUIT CENTER NOTES

At last. The Recruit Center has been given a little space in the News. Maybe what we write will not be very interesting but please look over our list of "new arrivals", you may find one of your old "buddys" listed there. Men from almost every State in the South, La. "frogs" take notice.

Captain Nichols, better known to News readers as the author of "Sawdust" has left us to go to "H" Company, 29th Infantry, after a stay of a little over a year, and Captain Huskea, one of the members of the late Student Officers Class, is now in command. We hope he will stay as long as Captain Nichols did.

Out "Top Kick," Sergeant Emil J. Lehmann, will be discharged this week. I think most of the soldiers in the post have stepped to his "music" for at least two weeks, while they were at the Recruit Center. Yes, he is going to take on another stack, but it will be a short one as he has only a year to do before he retires. Take it easy Sergeant, 29 years of soldiering is enough for anyone.

Corporal June is about to give it up as a bad job ,the other day about time for "First Call" Recruit Pruitt, sleeping next to Cpl. June sets up in bed and rubbing his eyes asks the Cpl., "What kind of shoes do Angels wear."

Here are a bunch of new arrivals, one or two have been in the Post before:

Ledbetter, Everett (29th Inf.); Allison, Claude J. (29th Inf.); Graham, Willie A. (29th Inf.); Johnson, Alton G. (83rd F. A.); Herrin, Plezz (29th Inf.); Wyres, Archie (29th Inf.); Wood, Walter C. (83rd F. A.); Patton, Elmer L. (29th Inf.; Winslett, Claude A. (29th Inf.) P. S.; Whitten, Grady W. (29th Inf.); Shealy, Marvin T. (83rd F. A.); Smith, Areon (Tanks); Ellis, Floyd (Tanks); Murphy, Newton H. (Tanks) P. S.; Rose, Oliver J. (Tanks); Cook, John H. (29th Inf.); McLaney, John E. (29th Inf.); Denton, George F. (29th Inf.); Wallace, Marvin L. (29th Inf.) P. S.; Cook, Kermit (29th Inf.); Wilkinson, Jesse E. (29th Inf.); Parnell, Terry W. (83rd F. A.); Roberts, Joseph H. (Eng.); Baker, George (29th Inf.); Ballard, Alton R. (Tanks); Rauschkolb, Lewis (29th Inf.); Gabel, Frank A. (29th Inf.); Parks, Joe H. (Tanks).

Hank: You cant tell what some of these pedestrians do.

Herman: No, you can't. I hit one once and he got well.

Says: Golfing is pie for me.

Which: Yes, I always notice you get plenty of slices.

WHO'S WHO!

SGT. JOHN J. McAULIFFE
Hq. Batt., 83rd F. A.

When somebody over in the 83rd F. A. wants anything from a safety pin to a three-inch field piece, he goes chasing over to the supply office to look up Sgt. McAuliffe, or "Mc" as he is better known. And they are very seldom disappointed, for if "Mac" hasn't what they want, he always knows where to get it.

Not only have the fellows learned to turn to "Mac" during duty hours, but when baseball, football and basket ball seasons roll around he is always the leading factor in the Red Cord's offense.

He has starred on the gridiron with the Caisson Riders for the past seven seasons. The artillerymen are known throughout the garrison as the gamest fightenest bunch in the league, and it is in no small degree due to Mac's competitive spirit that they have earned this reputation.

He has led the Headquarters Battery baseball team to four consecutive pennants in the battalion series. They also won the battery football championship under his guidance during the past season and he was also captain of the basketball team that won the battery series for the season of 1928.

He was born in Rockland, Mass. ,December 22, 1901. He was too young to get into the late struggle in France, but ever since he held up his band at Camp Jackson in 1920 and began his soldier career with the 20th Field Artillery, he has shown himself to be the kind of man the army wants—ready for work or play, a fight or a frolic. The more Mac's we have, the better off the Army.

AN UNBROKEN RECORD

A swimming record that has stood unbroken for lo these many years is one that was made many years ago, before the war between the states.

Sambo, was a slave on a big plantation down near Savannah, Ga., he was the favorite of his young master, who always carried Sambo with him on his hunting and fishing trips and visits to nearby towns. Finally he was forced to go to New York City on business. Sambo was sadly disappointed when told that as the trip would take days and would have to be made by boat that he could not go.

The day of departure arrived, Sambo helped to load his master's luggage aboard the ship and then while no one was looking stowed himself away aboard the vessel. No one thought of Sambo during the farewells, when the boat sailed he sailed with it.

As the boat came into New York harbor, Sam knew it was time to act. Slipping unnoticed to the deck, he jumped overboard and began swimming along behind the ship. A few moments later the cry of "man overboard" came down from the lookout. Lines were thrown out and the half drowned Sambo was hauled aboard.

"Sambo ,what in the world are you doing here?" cried his surprised master. "Well, I jest had to come with you, and so when you done told me I could not ride on the boat, I just swimmed along behind you." Quickly the news spread about the slave that swam from Savannah to New York.

The champion long distance swimmer of the world called it "ballyhoo", admirers of Sambo challenged him to a long distance swim for the championship. The challenge was accepted. Poor Sam stepped out of the frying pan into the fire.

The day of the race arrived, the men were to swim straight out to sea with a small boat following to pick up the swimmers when exhausted. The champion arrived first, a moment later a roar went up from the spectators as Sam appeared with a heavy sack over his shoulder. The champion was all curiosity and suspicion, he asked the judges to examine the contents of the sack which he was sure were life preservers. The contents proved to be a boiled ham, twelve loaves of bread and a gallon jug of water.

"What are you going to do with the groceries?" asked the champ. "Well, I'se got mighty hungry on my trip up here, but I sho it gwine to eat on my way back," replied Sambo. "You win," said the champ, "there is no use of swimming against a man like that." And Sambo came back to Savannah aboard a big ship and the people down there will still tell you how he won the world's championship, swimming from Savannah to New York.

The language of the stands is simple in its code and is spoken fluently by many small boys who have not learned their A. B. C.s. Still there are hundreds who have mastered many foreign languages but have failed to learn the one language that is used by street urchins and millionaires to serve one and the same purpose and a just cause.

"Where is yer dawg Ump?"—It is a common sight to see a blind man have a dog to lead him about. This is one way of telling the Ump he is blind. "Get a tin-cup and a monkey." When an opposing player argues with an Ump on a decision the home fans advise him to use this means of begging.

"Hey Jessie, where is your horse?"

They compare the ump with Jessie James the great outlaw and train robber.

These are only a few of the phrases used in the land of Fandom, and no ball game is complete without it. In fact if the stands failed to send down their shower of raillery and banter it just would not be a baseball game.

BITS AND TIPS

By Hasbeen

Rain hit well over 400 this past week. While New York, Chicago, and even Bar Harbor were sweltering with the heat, Fort Benning was dodging a tropical rain and getting the only cool weather in the country. The postponed games are piling up, but it is believed they will all be played before the second half of the season gets under the way.

The Kelly's are so far out in front in the "B" series that the 2nd Bats are already in the market for a suitable bunting. With the rag assured Pilot Haynes has cut his squad down to 31 men.

That's a mighty sweet looking ball club the 2nd Bats have gotten together. Every position on the team is strongly fortified with men who know the game and who put forth their best every time they take the field. Not only this the bench is crowded with material ready to step in and play smart ball.

Only one game was played in the "A" class as this went to press. The Service Company, 29th Infantry, took the Gas and Medical crew for an outing to the tune of 14 to 4. The Service Company is travelling at a fast clip pushing the leaders to the limit. They have beaten both the Engineers and the Howitzers who lead them in the percentage column. These three clubs are making it an interesting race.

Two hundred and fifty years have been lopped off the age of the new ISD team. When they appeared against the Tanks on the 10th quite a few colts appeared in the place of "Pop" Heckert, Ashe, McCarty, etc. These yearlings cavorted in great style. True, they were a bit weak with the stick, but they were in there hustling every minute. Headed by Shotgun White, who by the way looks better at second base than anywhere else, the club keeps plugging every minute. Captain Bent, the new pilot, promises a few surprises before the season is over.

In the last issue of the News the writer attempted to show some of the reasons why so few men of the Army reach the big league. It was planned to continue this line of argument in this issue but Editor Stewart whispered that he was swamped with news and requested that the tips be limited to bits only, however, one thing was noticeable the last few days and that is the confidence some men have shown in cutting at that ball. Many long hits were made to the fence, there was an unusual number of line drives, and a review of the box scores will show that in almost every game double figures were made in the run column. Again don't worry about your style of hitting, where your feet are, whether fore or aft, the secret is go up there with the determination to hit and take a real cut at it. Even Durdin pushed one through third on Monday. One of the best hitters in the American League, Simmons of Philadelphia, spikes the water bucket every time he swings but he finishes a season with .350 and better.

Voice from secluded spot: Of course I love you, honey, but sunburn is sunburn.

BOXING NOTES

By R. E. Feree

July 24th appears to be the probable date for the next Benning fistic card. At this moment the states of Georgia, Alabama and Florida are being combed for a suitable opponent for Gunner DePratt.

Styles Attaway the premier light heavyweight of Georgia was tentatively booked to meet DePratt here on July 18th, but the manager of this blossoming leather pusher pulled in his horns and called all bets off for the present when word reached him that Avera lasted but two rounds with the 29th Infantry favorite.

Any day the signature of Bobby Marriott of Tampa, Florida, may be secured to appear against the Gunner. Marriott is rated as one of the best boys in this section and if he is secured the fans will be assured of a real go.

This coming card will feature a few more local favorites. Football Smith of the 29th was notified at the last minute that he would not make the trip to Amsterdam with the Olympic team. Smith, on learning this, immediately asked for the opportunity to appear on the next bill against anyone and for any number of rounds. This youngster is in the best possible condition having been training every day since he returned from the Boston tryouts. It will be difficult to get an opponent of Smith's caliber, especially for a bout of short duration, as the former amateur contender is ready to take on top notchers. There is a comer at Fort McPherson who may step into the ring with Smith, but this has not been closed.

One bout has been signed and that is a six rounder between Wally Peters of the 29th and Dallas Hunt of LaGrange. Peters believes that Hunt is made to order for him and from LaGrange comes word that Hunt entertains similar notions. This, it is believed, will furnish thrills galore. The whole bill is taking shape and the local press will carry the news as soon as each bout is signed up. Keep this night open. The same admission prices will prevail ranging from 35 cents to $1.00.

BIG FIGHT CARD NEXT THURSDAY

SEVENTH ENGINEERS HAVE FAREWELL DINNER

Thirty years of hard and faithful service under the Starry Flag stiffened the old soldiers backbone, brought him smartly to his feet, and forced the proper words through his trembling lips. "Officers and Soldiers," he began, and the way he said it made the names personal, "Officers and Soldiers, it gives me great pleasure"—and it did, you could see it did, it was in the moisture that dimmed his eye, in the heightened color that dyed his cheek, in the hard, labored breathing of the evermastering emotion that had seized him when the Captain, his Captain, the last Captain under whom he would serve in this man's army, had called on him unexpectedly to step forward, and had then, in the halting, broken sentences of a man of action who finds words unwilling servants, told him of the esteem in which the men of the company held him; of the esteem which the Nation held for old soldiers like himself; had referred to the occasion of his retirement some weeks hence, and then quite unexpectedly had reached into the pocket of his coat—worn as a token of his own immediated departure—and drew forth the little green jewelry box from which he produced the perfect watch—a watch that proclaimed in the elegance of it's casing, and the silent efficiency with which it checked off the speeding hours. Here was a servant willing to perform more years of hard and faithful service than even the Sergeant himself had devoted to his country. "Presented by Company 'A' 7th Engineers to Technical Sergeant James H. McNally," he read. Then he told those Officers and Soldiers just how much pleasure their kindly acts had given him.

To tell the truth "Jim" McNally rather stole the spotlight from several of his superiors. The dinner of a recent date, at which time the incidents above mention occurred, was originally the result of a bet on the rifle range which developed into a farewell party for Captain F. C. Hyde, who had been Company Commander for the past two years and Master Sergeant James R. Morrison, who had served with the Seventh for three years. It was a good dinner and a credit to "Dick" Decoux, our new Mess Sergeant. Fried chicken, rye bread with cheese, crackers and beer are all that the writer remembers of the meal. Evidently it was what is sometimes considered and known as a cold collation, certainly it was just what was needed for the day was one of the hottest in the local records.

Captain Hyde expressed sincere regret at leaving what he termed one of the most desirable troop regiments in the Corps of Engineers. The Captain frankly admitted that he appreciated the opportuntiy of attending school at Fort Leavenworth but nevertheless, that he felt a distinct loss in having to leave the company at Benning.

First Sergeant Gensh expressed the feelings of the company when he took

FORT BENNING OFFICER RESCUES DROWNING MAN

Major W. L. Roberts Saves Life of Guide in Florida Lake Near-Tragedy.

The presence of mind and quick action on the part of a Fort Benning officer, Major W. L. Roberts, of the academic department of the Infantry School, was responsible for the saving of the life of a human being, in a near-tragedy at Deadwood Lakes, Florida, recently.

Major Roberts, accompanied by Captain F. S. Doll, in charge of Fort Benning theaters, and Mr. C. P .Willis, Fort Benning representative of the Third National Bank, of Columbus, journeyed to Florida recently on a fishing expedition. At Deadwood Lakes, they met Mr. Tom Bright, who is well known to many Fort Benning people. Mr. Bright offered his services to Major Roberts and party, and accordingly, started in his motor boat across Deadwood Lakes late in the evening. When within about half a mile from shore, the boat struck a stump, which jarred the boat with such force that Mr. Bright was thrown in the water. For several minutes he was not missed, and upon discovering that Mr. Bright had been thrown from the boat, the party immediately began to look for him. When discovered Mr. Bright was about forty feet from the boat and could barely be seen due to the approaching darkness. Major Robert, upon seeing him in the water and apparently sinking for the last time, dived in the water. Several minutes elapsed until Capt. Doll and Mr. Willis, still in the boat, saw Major Roberts pulling the body of Mr. Bright towards the boat. After first aid methods administered by Major Roberts and Capt. Doll, Mr. Bright was restored to consciousness.

Mr. Willis, in reciting the details of the rescue, stated that he was much impressed with the coolness and presence of mind of both Major Roberts and Captain Doll during the rescue of Mr. Bright.

CAPTAIN H. T. PERRIN

Formerly of the 13th Infantry at Boston, has arrived at the Inf. School for duty. He has been assigned to the Fifth Section as instructor. Capt. Perrin is a graduate of the Inf. School, company officers class, 1923, and has recently been Plans and Training Officer of the above regiment. Prior to that time he was on duty with the 45th Infantry at Fort McKinley, P. I.

Capt. Perrin is accompanied here by Mrs. Perrin and daughter, Susanne, and they are residing on Upper Fourth avenue in Columbus.

LIEUT. R. C. OLIVER

Will return to Fort Benning within a few days from Philadelphia, where he was called last week on account of the serious illness of his mother.

ARTILLERY BATTALION HAS NEW BASEBALL FIELD

(Al Durden)

The latest addition to the improvements being carried on at the Infantry School is the new athletic field belonging to the 83rd Field Artillery. The work under the direction of Lieut. Buckley has been going forward since early in April. The baseball field is now completed, practice being held there daily by the Caisson Riders baseball squad.

The large field, which covers approximately thirty acres of land, is situated on the road leading to the aviation field, between the 24th Infantry and Bradley area. When the work began the large field was covered in sage grass and small shrubbery. Artillerymen armed with axes soon cleared away the undergrowth, plows and harrows were used to break the ground, after which a large road scrape borrowed from the Quartermaster smoothed over the holes and rough spots. After using the big scrape a heavy drag made from steel rails was dragged over the field, leaving it as smooth and level as a ball room floor.

When completed there will be a football field and polo field, there will also be a quarter mile track, which makes it an ideal field for track and field meets. Stands will be erected in the near future which when completed will give the Galloping Gunners an athletic field that will rival that of any organization.

Led by their fiery chieftain, Lt. Buckley, the Gunners have more than held their own during the summer baseball season. For three years the Gunners occupied the cellar position in the pennant race. This year has seen the Gunners run rough-shod over their rivals of former days to cinch second place in the race on the heels of the league leading Kellys.

MAJ. E. F. HARDING

And family left Fort Benning last week to spend a month visiting relatives at Franklin, Ohio, after which they will go to Fort Leavenworth, where the editor of Tactical Topics will be a student in the C. and G. S. next year. We are very glad to announce to the readers of this paper that the popular column of this paper will not cease to be because of the fact that the editor will not be here next year. The Major promised to send in a column from time to time.

AL DURDEN

Is the Sports Editor of the News. Besides being an old scribe on this paper, he is on the pitcher's staff of the Inf. School Detachment baseball team. Durden has been in action several times recently and has given a good account of himself. He is well known to everyone at Fort Benning, and any items of interest concerning athletics here should be reported to him at phone 146.

GUNNER DePRATT WILL MEET TOMMY BILLIARDS HERE NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

Excellent Fight Card Arranged For Night of Big New York Fight

July 26th is listed in New York as well as at Fort Benning as an evening of fistic entertainment. Within the glare of Broadway's lights, 1st Lieutenant Joseph J. Tunney, U. S. M. R. C., faces Stevedore Tom Heeney, from the Antipodes, in a fifteen round battle for the championship of the universe.

Here at Fort Benning on the same night and practically at the same hour Sergeant Albert DePratt, Compnay "H," 29th Infantry, better known as "Gunner" will carry the hopes of the entire post into the ring with him when he faces Tommy Billiards, the veteran glove slinger from Detroit, in the feature event of ten rounds, of a card that promises to be the equal, if not the best, shown this year.

The Gunner has been moving along on an even keel for the past year. He has met every man selected for him and always gave the crowd a good return for their money. He never quibbles over an opponent, meeting anyone that is brought forward. Heretofore it was not a difficult matter to book the big machine gunner, as every manager in the south was anxious to come here and take a chance with their proteges. The tide has turned apparently for this district was coured, scraped, and combed for a boy to come here on the 26th but without success. The reasons advanced by many would make excellent reading for "Judge." DePratt cannot go on forever boxing Willie Ptomey for it is believed, though these two have pleased immensely in all their appearances, that the fans want to see new faces on each card. Accordingly the north was consulted for a man to come here for the 26th. Without a moments delay, once he was located, Billiards consented to show his wares against the 29th Infantry star.

Who is Billiards? Tommy, strange to say was booked here last fall to meet DePratt in a ten round bout. The go was arranged by a man from Columbus who promised to show Billiards at the Post. For some reason the gentleman from the city left for parts unknown. Not hearing further, the Post Athletic Officer booked another opponent for DePratt. Two days before the battle was to come off in walked Billiards himself ready to go on. He was placed at quite an expense coming here, but took the whole affair good naturedly. Those that saw him workout were favorably impressed and were sorry that the complication arose preventing his showing.

Looking over Billiards record we find him appearing in the south but once this year and that was a twelve round draw with Styles Attaway in Atlanta last January. Meeting Attaway in his home town and getting a draw is the close equivalent to a win. Going back to 1920 when Billiards first came into notice as the Fighting Coal Miner from Scranton, the floor and gave the boys "a piece of his mind." He said, and we all agree with him, that Captain Hyde had been a tremendous influence in the betterment of the company. Finding the company living in pyramidal tents and messing in an open air affair known as a wall tent, large; with an infant map plant struggling for existence in inadequate trucks, the Captain was leaving the outfit comfortably housed in barracks extending around an ample drill field.

Master Sergeant Morrison admitted that he was willing to leave Fort Benning as he had for a long time desired foreign service. The Sergeant complimented Technical Sergeant Jim McNally on the approaching event of his retirement and told him to feel the gift he had received was not so much from the men of the Seventh now living and laboring at Fort Benning as from those of the old Seventh whose white crosses crowd the narrow lane on the gentle slopes at old Romange.

At the conclusion of the speeches and before the guests had left the mess hall, Captain Hyde expressed a desire to shake hands personally with each man present. As the men filed past him the Captain took occasion to say a few words to each man, thanking them for the work they had done to help him with the duties of the company and hoping to meet them again when his tour at the school at Fort Leavenworth might be completed.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

"The South should take a high place," says George Foster Peabody, prominent banker and philanthropist in a recent article in the Chattanooga News.

"The South is moving forward now quite rapidly in a satisfactory manner," began Mr. Peabody in answer to a question.

"The younger people are taking the broader view. They are realizing that the thing is to utilize the natural resources of the country to produce more wealth, also that there is an unlimited mineral and agricultural wealth now laying within their reach and waiting for developments.

".....Younger men and women in our educational institutions are realizing this and putting aside race and other prejudices, recognizing that humanity is one, through the ages and the world around."

The Inland Printer, an influential and widely read journal, recently published an article on the "Military Press." Among the service papers discussed was the News. The Inland Printer spoke favorably of the News in a short discussion of it's history. Telling how in the beginning it was interested primarily only in academic life but has come to be a booster for the Infantry School.

PRIVATE P. H. FORD OF THE I. S. D.

In last week's issue of the News there appeared an article relative to the recreation room of the I. S. D. Through an oversight on the part of the writer a man who should have received mention and who is responsible for the room being kept in a splendid condition, the man in question being Private Patrick Henry Ford.

Ford claims because of his name he is a man of great personage; that his name combines the names of two men who have been prominent in American History and American Industry. He was named Patrick Henry in honor of the great American Patroit of Revolutionary days who uttered the words that have become immortal, "give me liberty or give me death," and Ford, for the gentleman who "made a lady out of Lizzie."

FRIDAY, JULY 20

"LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME," starring Richard Bartholemess in a filmization of the famous story of John Fox, Jr. The plot is laid in the mountains of Kentucky; it graphically portrays these hardy mountaineers as they lived during the days of the Civil War. It has dramatic punch and continued suspense, and provides one of the finest screen stories that this popular star ever played in.

Pathe News No. 57.

SATURDAY, JULY 21

"THE FLYING COWBOY," starring Hoot Gibson in a one-man wild west rodoe. A cow boy arrives at the ranch in an aeroplane to help entertain guests. Pranks are played on an attractive female arrival from the city. Chicago bandits are after the girl's jewels. The innocent pranks become confused with those perpertiating real banditry. A brave drops 3000 feet and lands in a swimming pool—this results in fun and action a plenty. Oh yes, there is a pretty romance softening the rapid moving events of this picture.

"Campus Cuties." Billie Dooley.

SUNDAY, JULY 22

"THE DEVIL DANCER," starring the exotic Gilda Gray in a picture exposing the first authentic views of Tibet, the isolated mountain section of East India, inhabited only by the Devil worshiping Monk Cults. Gilda plays the part of an English girl, a Vestal Virgin. She is held prisoner by the

Fables.

MONDAY, JULY 23

"HOT HEELS,' starring Glen Tryon with Patsy Ruth Miller in a combination dance and horse race story. A small town hotel owner buys a bankrupt show. They travel to Cuba to enter an engagement which later they find had been faked. The story turns to the race course. A complete steeple chase presents some hair raising thrills. Incidentally the right man finally wins and marries the girl.

"Haunted Island No. 4."

TUESDAY, JULY 24

"LADY RAFFLES," starring Estelle Taylor in a story of high society, thievery and romance. While picking the combination of a safe Lady Raffles is apprehended; through clever ruses she gets away, but is taken for one of the new maids and put to work serving a party. Other thieves are simultaneously at work in the house endeavoring to secure the millionaire's jewels—a matching of wits ensues. The son of wealth falls in love with Raffles when she confesses that she is not a maid, and a rapid succession of events causes the plot to continue to thicken. The clever unravling of the plot results in no end of interest.

"Just the Type." Neal Burns.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 25

"THE HAWKS NEST," starring Milton Sills with Doris Kenyon in a melodrama showing both sides of New York's underworld, its trickery, gang fueds, hates, justice and even its love.

A gang leader in the submerged tenth of the great city, displays his villiany in every conceivable way, but he is finally circumvented by the wiles of the mysterious Hawk. Sills enacts two distinct characterizations in this story.

Paramount News No. 101.

THURSDAY, JULY 26

"MATINEE IDOL," featuring Johnnie Walker with Bessie Love and Allen Foster. The story is chiefly laid in the theatre, introducing the audience to what goes on behind the scenes of a traveling tent show playing the most thrilling of melodramas. The climaxes are contrasted with an elaborate Broadway Revue. This picture contains humor, pathos and romance.

"Horse Shy." Edward E. Horton.

FRIDAY, JULY 27

"HIS TIGER LADY," starring Adolphe Menjou and Evelyn Brent in a play staged in gay Paris. The story starts in the Follies Bergere where Adolphe, playing the part of a Maharajah, falls in love with a beautiful lady in the audience. His advances come to naught until through a clever ruse he attracts her attention. He proffers her his live and is told that he will have to retrieve her glove from a tiger's cage in order to prove his affection—this he does, thus vanquishing other suitors. After a series of absorbing incidents he finally launches his conquest.

SUNDAY A BIG DAY FOR FORT BENNING YOUNGSTERS

Sunday was a red letter day with the children of Fort Benning for Charlie Chaplin in "The Circus" was on at the Post Theatre. Many little folks who had never been to the movies were allowed to go, and the grown ups had the pleasure of a double treat for it was a perfect circus to hear and see the children even before Charlie appeared. The largest and most enthusiastic group of youngsters was the party which Maj. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Ferris entertained for their sons. There were thirteen guests and their good times began with a glorious picnic supper before the movies and kept up till they were divided among their various parents after the last circus wagon went by and Charlie trudged away into the great open spaces. An end that came all too soon for most the audience.

THE BUTCHERS DEPART FOR WASHINGTON SUNDAY.

Col. and Mrs. Edwin Butcher, with their delightful family, have left us this week to make their home in Washington, D. C., where Col. Butcher will be a student at the War College. Mrs. Butcher is one of the Army's most gifted musicians and she has given most generously of her time and talent for the pleasure of the post. There has been no activity, social, civic, or religious that Mrs. Butcher has not joyously cooperated with when her skill was neded. She, with Capt. George L. King, has been largely responsible for the success of the Glee Club, the music of the Woman's Club and the lovely sacred music at the Protestant chapel, to mention but a few of the many things she has done for the inspiration and delight of the post. What is our distinct loss is another's gain. Our good wishes attend her and her excellent family, but we shall miss them here and their going, to use Edwin Markham's phrase, "leaves an empty place against the sky."

Mrs. A. D. Rothrock has had as her guest for the past ten days Mrs. A. E. Storms, wife of Capt. Storms, of the Signal Corps, who is stationed with the Georgia Tech R. O. T. C. in Atlanta. Mrs. Storms has a lovely soprona voice and has broadcasted over W S B "the Voice of the South" a number of times. She is a favorite soloist in one of Atlanta's big churches. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Rothrock complimented her guest with an elaborate high tea. Her guests were seated and an elegant salad course, followed by an ice course, was served. Mrs. Storms returned to Atlanta on Thursday with her husband who had charge of the Tech unit of the R. O. T. C. during their six weeks training here.

Miss Alice Louise Hunter, of Washington, D. C., who is the guest of Major and Mrs. Calvin Titus, is guest of honor tonight at a theatre party which will be followed by a buffet supper at the home of her hosts.

* * *

On Tuesday morning Mrs. A. L. Gilhus entertained informally one table of bridge. Mrs. Henry Brandhorst won the prize, a lovely handkerchief.

* * *

On Friday morning of last week Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst was hostess at bridge. There were three tables at which pivot bridge was played. Mrs. Overfelt, Mrs. Dager and Mrs. Archer won the prizes, which were exquisite handpainted georgette handkerchiefs. After the game frozen salad, sandwiches and iced tea were served.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Harrell Strickland entertained very delightfully two tables of bridge on Wednesday evening.

* * *

Miss Sara Shallenberger, of Washington, D. C., is the charming guest of Maj. and Mrs. D. H. Torrey and Miss Alice Torrey.

* * *

Mrs. Ira W. Black and children, Robert and Nancy, are spending the summer months at the home of Mrs. Black's mother, Mrs. R. V. Woolfolk, in Pittsburgh. Lieut. Black, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, is again on duty with his organization, the I. S. D.

Major and Mrs. B. G. Ferris left Fort Benning today for Center Lovell, Maine, where they will remain until the opening of the school year. Major Ferris is an instructor in the First Section of the Infantry School.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Howder, accompanied by their sons, Billie and Douglas, arrived at Fort Benning the first of the week to be the guests of Mrs. Howder's sister, Mrs. J. P. Lyons. Capt. Howder has been on duty in Chicago and is enroute to Philadelphia, where he will attend the Quartermaster School next year.

Poet's Wife: Fast? Why, the other day I got out seven lines of washing while he was getting out four of poetry.

CAPT. BARCLAY RESIGNS FROM SERVICE

Captain Hugh Barclay, 24th Infantry, recently on duty with the Infantry School Detachment, has resigned from the service. Accompanied by Mrs. Barclay he left Fort Benning yesterday by motor for his country estate, Douglaston Manor, near Pulaski, New York. Capt. and Mrs. Barclay leave a host of friends at the Infantry School, where they have been for the past year. Prior to coming to Fort Benning, Capt. Barclay was on duty at Rio de Janerio, as military attache.

Capt. Barclay resigned his commission to take over his business interests at Pulaski, New York.

Our baseball team just knows it's been in a ball game—reason, they have beat the Howitzer Company again. It wont be long now and we'll be on top—a position befitting the quality of our team.

Speaking in Efficiency Report language—our esteemed partner in crime—Sgt. D. T. (Doc) Harrison has recently been assigned duties commensurate with the grade he now holds. A board consisting of Sgts. Davis, Klemm and Roper will shortly convene to determine Harrison's degree of proficiency on his new duties as Permanent Charge of Quarters.

Re-enlistments in the Service Company are continuing to run high. The latest addition to the company is the erstwhile garden artist and agriculturist de luxe Nathan Murphy who has in the past several years produced in this post a sufficient quantity of fresh vegetables to feed most of its population. He is a welcome addition to the outfit, as was evidenced by his being immediately promoted and rated.

That "mythical" "mysterious" and "enigmatical" title of "Morning Report Clerk" in Regtl. Hdqrs. has once more changed hands. Reason—"Fink, the Morning Report Clerk" is going on the range. Boy, howdy. There ain't no tellin' what he'll make on the range, what I mean. Luck to you Fink for you certainly have been tricked into taking parade ground practice.—Jack Morgan.

Company "E"

Pvt. Gilbert Padgett, who has been on recruiting duty at Memphis, Tenn., for some time, has transferred to Co. "E." Pvt. Padgett is an all round athlete and we are sure that he will soon be seen in some of the 2nd Bn. line ups.

Pfc. Thomas, who was discharged by the ETS route this week, has gone on reenlistment furlough, but will return to engage in a fistic encounter on July 26th.

Sgt. Henry Mathews, who has been on recruiting duty at Jacksonville, Fla., for the past 18 months, is now back to the company for duty. Glad to have you back Henry.

Pvts. Stokley and Glover have returned from emergency furloughs.

Cpl. Moore and Pfc. Klein have been on S. D. at Hunter Range and have returned to the company, after a few months of special duty. Glad to have you back.

We are glad to state that Pvts. Lowman, Roberts, McCoy, J. and Pvt. Tillman have been elevated to the ranks of Private First Class.

We note that the fishermen of this company have about come to the conclusion that the Upatoi creek will not give up any thing to them but a few turtles, mosquito bites and the rheumatism.

Range season has hit us full blast and every one is saying that they are going to be "Experts" this year. We only hope that their wish will come true. The only way we know to make that wish come true is through hard and diligent work.

Last week Hi Davis, our Top Sergeant, went to the Hunter Range, picked up a rifle, walked up on the firing line, made a remark something like this: "This range is what separates the men from the boys." After the target had been pulled in it looked like it had been shot with a splatter gun.

Corp. Gadgett Miller, our acting supply sergeant, veteran fisher of E. Company, had lots of good luck on the Chattahoochee last week. He caught two large turtles—ten pounds each—a bad cold and a slight touch of the rheumatism. But the Gadget says he is through now for the season.

—Bud Fisher.

Company "G"

Privates Massey and Cosgrove were discharged by ETS last week. Both men were good soldiers and we were sorry to lose them. We wish them the best of luck in any new vocation that they may enter in civil life.

Private Blanchard was operated on a few weeks ago and is improving nicely.

The I. S. D. snatched up two more good men from "G" Company. Privates Fanguy and Lee packed up and joined Major Bootz's "green cord" lads. We are sorry to lose them.

Cpl. Johnson states that it may be a furlough to some people but it is a pain in the neck to him. Cpl. Johnson hasn't enjoyed his furlough as much as he expected. He has had a large carbunckle on the back of his neck.

"Bogaloosa" Rimes is back with us again after an extensive tour through Mississippi, Louisiana and Columbus, Ga. "Bogaloosa" reports that civil life is the "berries" if you have plenty of dough.

"Windjammer" Smetak was down in the woods the other day tooting on his tin horn. He was playing "How Dry I Am" and a small boy up in Block W heard Smetak and asked his mother what he was playing. She told the little boy that he was playing "How Dry I Am." In a few minutes the little boy reported to Smetak with a bucket of water and asked Smetak if that would relieve him any.

Rev. Isaac King, the Company Tailor, is getting more religious in his old age. He has moved his shop up on the top floor to be nearer the "promise land."

Pvt. Vicknair received a letter from "Kid" Melanson the other day. Melanson stated that he had a good job in a mattress factory, but they fired him because he laid down on the job.

The following promotions were made in the company in the past week: Cpl. Notgrass was made Sgt., Pfc. Roy Wilson was made Cpl., Privates Shaw, Cooter, Houle and Petsch were made Privates First Class. Congratulations men, keep up the good work.

Men who get the "White Sheet" in the near future are: Cpl. Hensley, discharge by purchase, Cpl. White by ETS and Pvt. Granger by ETS.

FORT BENNING SOLDIER INSTRUCTOR AT CAMP JUNIPER

Pvt. James Tucker, of 83rd F. A., Makes Hit with Kiddies at Popular Camp.

While most of us have been sweltering in the heat of a July sun for the past ten days, fifty youngsters from the city of Columbus have been having the time of their young lives enjoying the outdoor freedom of Camp Juniper.

When appropriations were asked for the Fresh Air Fund, the people of Columbus responded nobly to the call. Through their generosity these youngsters have been able to spend the past ten days at an ideal outdoor camp where they have been fishing, swimming and enjoying themselves in every way to their little hearts content.

The camp is divided into two periods of ten days each, the first ten days fifty boys from six to twelve years of age have enjoyed the wonders of the camp. The next ten days will see approximately one hundred little girls of the same age enjoying the outdoor life at the camp.

Capable instructors look after the welfare and training of the children during the camp.

Pfc. James Tucker of Battery "C," 83rd Field Artillery, who attended the boys camp as swimming instructor was highly praised for his efficient work during the camp. During this period he taught most of the youngsters to swim at least a few strokes. Not one of the boys was injured during the camp and all were returned home tanned and happy at the end of the camp.

Owing to the high standard of Pvt. Tucker's work during the first period of the camp, it was requested that he be allowed to remain during the second period. This request was granted by Major L. E. Jones, commanding officer of the 83rd Field Artillery.

LIEUT.-COL. BUTCHER

And family left Fort Benning early last Sunday morning by motor. Col. Butcher, who has been assistant executive officer of the Infantry School and also attached to the 24th Infantry, will attend the Army War College this year. After a short leave, the Butchers will arrive at the War College about the middle of next month.

Boy Friend: So you bought a revolver for self-defense?

Sweet Young Thing: Uncle sent me a whole box of these pretzels, and I don't even know how to play the game.

N. C. O. CLUB OF I. S. D. HELD MEETING LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

The N. C. O. Club of the I. S. D. held their regular meeting last Friday night at their club and was considered by those present to be far above the average and a howling success. Practically every member and all other N. C. O.'s of the organization who were not members, but who are eligible to be were present.

After the regular routine of business had been dispensed with and a number of short talks had been enjoyed, refreshments were served. Among those present were the new Commanding Officer of the Detachment, Major Falligant, and Major Bootz, former Commanding Officer of the Detachment. Major Falligant, when called on for a short talk replied that he was like Mark Antony when he visited Cleopatria, he didn't come to talk.

Among the events that were outstanding were the presentation to Major Bootz a certificate making him honorary president of the club for life and a splendid smoking set. These were presented by Sergeant Stewart in behalf of the N. C. O.'s of the Detachment as a token of their respect and the manner in which they held him in esteem.

INSPECTION ORGANIZATIONS MADE BY COLONEL HELMS

On June 22nd Col. Helms began his inspection of the companies here in San Juan. He looked over the men in ranks and then went through each of the company barracks immediately afterward. This inspection was very thorough and included the display of each soldier's "War Set" clothing and equipment.

Upon the completion of the inspection of the rifle companies the Commanding Officer expressed himself as very well pleased with the dress and appearance of the enlisted men and the condition of the company barracks.

Col. Helms commented particularly on the appearance of the hospital and the improvements which have been made there during the last year.

The inspection of all the rifle companies and the Headquarters company has been completed and there remains only companies "D" and "H" and Service to be inspected. No time has yet been set for these inspections. They will be made some time after the close of the CMTC, since the machine gun companies have most of their men on special duty at the camp and the Service company is very busy during that period. — (From El Mono News, San Juan, Porto.

POST EXCHANGE NOTES

Major McCants returned the first of the week from a few days' visit in Savannah. It is rumored that he went on a deep sea fishing expedition while there, but no details of the results could be ascertained several days ago. It was stated that several in the party became seasick, but details as to the Major's luck seemed to be clouded in mystery.

Mr. C. S. Grimes left this week for a few weeks' visit in Winston-Salem, N. C., where his family have been visiting for some weeks. He will return here the last of the month accompanied by his family.

Lieut. Handy V. Brown is still on the job in the Post Exchange offices. The Browns will leave soon after the first of August for a few weeks' leave, afterwards reporting to Fort Leonard Wood, where Lieut. Brown will enter as a student in the Tank School next year. They will motor to Little Rock, Ark., and from there to the Maryland station.

REGIMENT RECEIVES COMMENDATION

The Boy Scouts of Tuskegee Institute, under the command of Colonel W. H. Walcott, were guests of the 24th Infantry during their annual encampment this year. They occupied tents in the regimental area and during their stay conformed to the military schedule of drill calls. Members of the 24th assisted in their instruction in the various military subjects that applied to the Scout training and many of the commissioned personnel gave lectures to the assembled Scouts. Appreciation of the assistance and co-operation of the regiment is expressed in the following letter received from the Commandant of Cadets at Tuskegee Institute:

Tuskegee Normal & Industrial Institute
Tuskegee Institute, Alabama
July 10th, 1928.

Maj. Coates, Executive Officer,
The 24th Infantry,
Fort Benning, Georgia

My dear Major Coates:

In attempting to express appreciation to the officers and men of the 24th Infantry for the help rendered our Boy Scouts program during the last ten days of June, I could mention a hundred names to whom thanks are due, but as that would take too much space in this communication I must content myself with saying, we all are very grateful for all the help, acts of kindness and courtesies extended us by members of your command. We are particularly indebted to Captain Steel, Captain Helsley, Captain Lyons, Chaplain Thomas, Lieut. Fay, Master Sergeant Hoard, Staff Sergeant Moore, and the men of Mess No. 4, Sergeant Tuna, Sergeant Curtis and Corporal Bogar for help and acts of courtesy.

The Scouts had ten helpful, inspiring and instructive days in camp and followed a program in which members of your personnel played a very important part as instructors.

With assurance again of our deep appreciation for the help and courtesies which we enjoyed, I am, my dear sir, sincerely yours,

W. H. Walcott, Commandant.

We are glad to welcome 1st Lieut. W. S. Lewis, who reported on July 16th for duty with the regiment. He was assigned to duty with Company B. Lieut. Lewis comes to us direct from the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, where he has been a student for the past year. Prior to his assignment to the Signal School, Lieut. Lewis was with the 6th Infantry at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. Mrs. Lewis arrived with Lieut. Lewis and pending their assignment to quarters, are the guests of Lieut. and Mrs. W. B. Cochran in Block 23.

The first echelon of the 2nd Battalion commenced its preliminary firing on Shelton Range this week. Captain Helsley, Officer in charge of rifle marksmanship, reports that the Battalion will go for record on Friday, July 20th, and probably finish the next day. The 2nd echelon will commence their preliminary firing on Monday. Headquarters and Service Companies and the Regimental spare parts are attached to the 2nd Battalion for range work.

The Regimental baseball team left July 14th for Atlanta, where they will play a three-game series with the Atlanta Grey Sox. Captain Craig, Athletic Officer, went with the team. His squad consists of 16 men.

"Is your roommate a sound sleeper?"
"Yeah. And such sounds."

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Johnny Heisler, expert linotype operator, has finally decided that he "can do better" on the outside and last week put in papers for discharge via the purchase route. Johnny is on his second enlistment and during his time in the army has made numerous friends throughout the garrison, as well as in Columbus. He hails from the "Forty Ninth State," that is, St. Louis, Missouri. Johnny holds a specialist first class rating, which goes to show that he knows "his stuff" when it comes to tickling the ivory keys. If his discharge is approved, Johnny will probably go to work in or near St. Louis.

Since returning from a 30-day furlough spent in Cincinnati and Louisville, A. L. Traut has taken charge of the Meihle press and is being kept busy turning out all kinds of work.

John E. Middleton leaves August 1st for a sixty days' stay in western Nebraska. John's been singing "It's a long way to Nebraska, but I'll soon be there I know."

Tony Tombrilo, after spending a five-day furlough with his "dago gal" in Birmingham, has returned for duty.

Louie Rowe (civilian) will be back soon from a 15-day leave of absence. Louie is the "daddy" of the print shop's lone Kelly press. —R. M. J.

THE ADVANTAGES OF TWO CARS

The added advantage of two cars per family is becoming recognized throughout the world of auto owners. A certain officer, who was a student at Fort Benning last year lived in the city. He owned a large car and he and family had to use the same car. When he had the car at the Inf. School his family were without a car. This proved to be quite a handicap to his family, which could not do the many things necessary every day to keep the average household up to the minute.

To relieve this situation this officer visited the Georgia Auto Exch. on First avenue, purchased a good used Chevrolet, and now he can leave his big car with his family and use the good used car. His gas and oil on both cars was found to be less than that when he used only one car.

If you want a good used car at a reasonable price, call Mr. W. A. Newsome, at Georgia Auto Exchange.—Adv.

The fellow who made good, is the fellow who knocked down a thirty-six story structure and erected himself a hot dog stand in the busiest section of the city.

"That's a'right, we'll go out of town."

WE UNDERSTAND

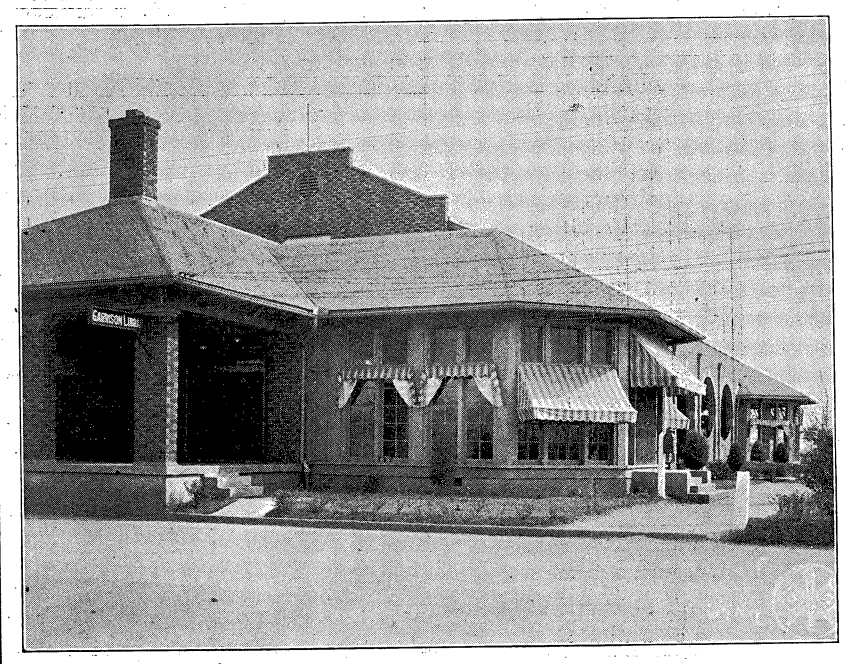
That Capt. C. C. Griffin, formerly plans and training officer of the 29th Infantry, is now a member of the Hole-In-One Club. Due to the fact that we received this news at a late date, it was impossible to ascertain the details connected with the feat. We hope to find out more about it for an early issue. Capt. Griffin is now living in Columbus and will attend the Advanced Class next year.

BERNARD H. COWAN

Of the News staff has been made Exchange Editor, and will conduct a column in the paper from time to time about happenings in the service from other stations. Cowan recently came to the News from the 29th Infantry, where has was on duty in the A. and R. office. He will also devote his time to stories about activities of the Inf. School.

ALL OFFICERS

Of the 29th Infantry and the 15th Tanks, who do not subscribe to the News will receive a copy of this week's issue. Quite a number of these officers are recent arrivals here, and we desire to acquaint them with the news medium of Fort Benning.



Enlisted Men's Service Club

Main Theater, Fort Benning

We herewith present to you two of the most popular places at Fort Benning. The Service Club is an up-to-date establishment in every respect, and every evening will find it crowded with men from the various organizations at the Infantry School. The garrison library is located in this building. The Post Exchange operates a restaurant and soda fountain in the south entrance to the club.

The Main Theater is a mdoern fireproof structure. Late pictures are shown at this theater, and appropriate music is rendered for each picture by the Fort Benning orchestra. A new stage has recently been added to the building, and plans are now under way to bring New York productions and companies here next year.

J. D. THOMASON AND CO.

Offices are located on 12th street between Broad and Front streets. Mr. J. D. is well known to many people at Fort Benning, who will be glad to hear of the new firm recently established by him. He refereed several games here last fall, and is an ex-football star of the University of Georgia.

THE NEWS IS PRAISED BY TANK WEEKLY

Last week's issue of the 15th Tank Battalion Weekly made some few complimentary remarks concerning Ye Editor and the Infantry School News. We wish to express our appreciation of the praise handed the News, as any remarks eminating from the pen of our friend and editor, Lieut. Clyde Grady, of the Tank Weekly, gives us added impetus in our weekly efforts in publishing the News. Lieut. Grady is an old friend of Ye Editor, and his remarks concerning a friendship that dates back to 1920 at the Tank School, is much appreciated.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Those who subscribe to the News should get their copy while on leave. A good many officers who left Fort Benning soon after the close of school have not received their paper on time, due to the fact that they have not submitted a change of address to the News office. In this issue is printed a form for that purpose. We would appreciate your sending in the change of address. You may do so by phone or with the slip printed in this issue.

James: Why did that Scotchman take his son out of school?

John: He heard that his college believed in a liberal education.

"Don't worry, little flapper, you're not any worse than your grandmother was."

"Yes. That's what makes me furious."

Third voice from the sleeping porch of sorority being serenaded by a not too hot bunch of musicians: "Stop, we give up."

She: How old do you think I am?
He: You don't look it.

CAPTAIN OF WINNING BASEBALL TEAM

This is Sgt. Kjelstrom, captain of the winning Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, baseball team. The Kellys are far out in front with thirteen games to their credit and none in the losing column. They have cinched the pennant for the big league at Fort Benning this year. The Kels have had a few hard games this season, and only Wednesday were in a tight place in a game with the 83rd Field Artillerymen. The Gunners led the Kels until the fatal sixth when the Second Bats made five runs in that frame, thereby winning the game.

Last Wednesday's game was well attended and one of the most conspicious spectators was Major L. W. Young, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry. His words of encouragement reached all corners of the field, and no doubt the players were spurred to victory by his presence and vocal support from the stands.

BOXING NOTES

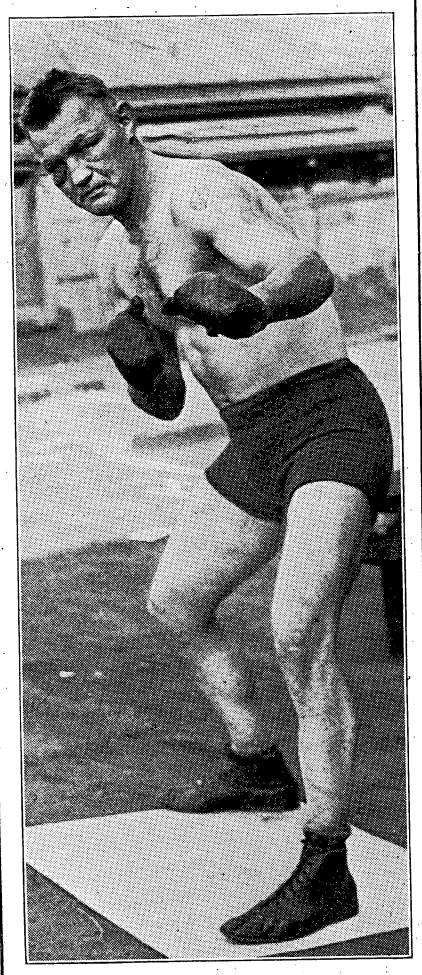
By R. E. Feree

After weeks of indifferent publicity the big championship battle between Gene Tunney, 1st Lieutenant, United States Marine Reserve Corps, and one plain Tom Heeney, Australian contender, is now getting under way with big time ballyhoo. For weeks the press carried scant notice of the coming event, when suddenly the trumpets were let loose. Every move now of Gene and Tom is recorded with streamers that cover the top of every sport page in the country. This past week we have been treated to the antics of one Armenian barber, who has a shop at Speculator, N. Y. We have read of the road jaunts, the mosquitos, Mr. Harvey, Heeney's American representative, Mr. Mortimer, Tom's foreign mentor, and the other interest bearing factors that precede each and every championship affair. The cartoonists have flocked to the respective camps, which means from now to the date of the match we will have pen pictures of every move, and many moves that were never made, that the big heavyweights make. One amusing incident, that had a touch of political flavor, and which is a tender spot with the Governor of the State, was the fact that Tunney complained about the impurity of the milk served him.

Why all the late publicity? Heretofore the interest for championship fights was worked up at least three months before the scrap instead of two weeks as is the present case. Many, many reasons can be advanced for the sudden change from one paragraph notices to full page displays. Let us go back to the first Dempsey-Tunney battle at Philadelphia. Gene arrived in Philadelphia in an airplane. Many unkind scribes stated that Tunney used the free air ride to save the railroad fare from Stroudsburg to the Quaker City; that he was to get so little for meeting Dempsey that every dollar counted. It is a well known fact that the marine was indeed lucky to get a chance at Dempsey when the logical opponent at the time was Harry Wills, the "dark menace." Accidents will happen, but old heads like Rickard and Dempsey are not caught when they do. Dempsey, in anything but the best condition, harried on all sides by lawsuits, and a worried boxer, made certain, it stands to reason, that in the event Tunney did get the decision that another bout would follow, and further, that Dempsey would get the big end of the gate. Figure were published showing what each boxer collected at Chicago. Take them or leave them just as you like. One thing is certain, Dempsey was the magnet that drew the two and one half million dollars at the turnstiles. Dempsey would be the magnet if he met Tunney again. Here's th erub: Tunney does not believe that Jack is such a drawing card. All along he has contended that it is the champion that "packs them in." Well, he is the champ and Rickard matched him with Heeney, the outstanding contender. Was there a rush for the pasteboards? Did the small business man of Keokuk, New Hope, Possum Glory, Cusseta, Three Forks, did he rush to the telegraph office and beg for a reservation. The answer is no. Interest was lacking, that much that it appeared as if the bout would not go through. Then what happened? Its dollars to a thin Canadian dime that Tunney saw the handwriting and consented to meet Dempsey again with the latter getting as before the big end of the gate. Just as soon as Rickard had the signature of the champion he loosed the newspaper hounds, the cartoonists, the ballyhoo artists, and to day the country is being flooded with every adornment that a big "battle of the century" commands. If Tunney wins, which seems a certainty, look for the return of the millionaire from Los Angeles, whose right and left arm attracts the entire world. None other than William Harrison Dempsey.

There is nothing in Shaekspeare that drives the fanatic boxing bug away from the tropics, north and south poles, hamlets, seashore and countryside. Gene can continue the rest of his life following the wisdom of the sage, but Tex Rickard and one Jack Dempsey, both of whom left school at the tender age of eleven, know where the dollars grow; further they hold the strategical position of stating whether Gene, as the champion, boxes before empty parks or million dollar gates.

WILL FACE GUNNER



Tommy Billiards

This is Tommy Billiards, of Detroit, who will face Gunner DePratt at the boxing arena next Thursday evening in the main event. Billiards comes to Fort Benning with a good record, and much is expected of him when he faces the Gunner.

From all indications there will be a record crowd at the boxing arena next Thursday evening. Capt. Wilson, in charge of fights, has spared no efforts in making the matches for this bag card, a story about which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Returns from the Tunney-Heeney fight in New York will be received at the arena.

Irene Thomas, pretty typist,
Really made a hit
With her new boss, Dave A Moore,
But she had to quit

The RETURNS

Of the big fight in New York next Thursday will be announced at the Fort Benning arena. The returns will be phoned from the office of the Columbus Ledger, which has kindly offered this service to fight fans here. A representative from the Infantry School News will receive returns at the athletic office that night from the Ledger office, the latter receiving Associated Press service on the Tunney fight. After receipt at the athletic office, the news will immediately be transmitted to the ring in the big arena back of the gymnasium.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

Five years ago Freelon Newman, whose native pasture is the fair town of Tallassee, Ala., was afflicted with the military fever, saw a recruiting sergeant and held up his hand for three years in the 29th Infantry. He was assigned to Co. "G."

When candidates went out for baseball practice the following spring "Big Newt" was among them. The fight for a regular berth on the 2nd Bats baseball team was a hard one. Seasoned veterans were out for their old positions and the youngster found the going ruff.

In 1926 the 2nd Battalion struggled through the first half of the Gowdy Cup race without attracting much attention. There was a big left hander playing first base for them, who, caught the eye of baseball experts with his free and graceful stance at bat, his ability to drive the ball to all corners of the lot and his clean fielding around the initial station.

The last half of the race in the 1926 season proved to be one of the hottest and closest of all times, the Kellys were in the thick of the fight. Then the Kelly's pitching staff weakened, the big left hander was pulled off first and sent in to pitch. His first game was against the hard hitting Gunners from the 83rd Field Artillery. Did he pitch? On that hot August day the Cannoneers secured just one scratch hit. Not a runner toured the paths and fifteen artillerymen went out by the air route.

Fandom has watched this big left hander improve with every season. During the present season he has won every game he has pitched for the Kellys. He holds victories over the strongest amateur teams in the country.

A quiet neatly dressed man sat in the stands at Gowdy Field and watched the big left hander pitch a shutout game against an opposing team. There was look of satisfaction on his face as he watched him whip the old agate down the alley like a rifle shot or served up a wide breaking curve that clipped a corner of the plate while the batter hesitated. The visitor was a scout from the Southern League. Next season the big left hander that twirled the shut out game at Gowdy Field, will wear the uniform of the Nashville baseball team in the Southern League.

And as the many friends and admirers of the big doughboy at Fort Benning watch with pride and interest his advent into the professional ranks, Tallassee, Ala., will also be interested for the big southpaw is the same Freelon Newman who was afflicted with the military fever just five years ago.

"So he is an experienced lover?"
"Well he can tell right away whether you are pensive or sleepy."

AL DURDEN DISCUSSES PERTINENT FACTS ABOUT THE BASEBALL LEAGUES

(By Al)

The ole dope bucket suffered several tumbles during the past week of baseball at Fort Benning. The Kellys continue their unbroken string of victories, having ran the total up to thirteen.

The thirteenth game came near being their .waterloo, the Galloping Gunners holding them scoreless until the sixth inning. In the sixth inning three artillery miscues combined with three Kelly hits netted the doughboys five runs and the ball game.

Although dropping back to third place after their defeat at the hands of the Kellys, the fight being put up by the caisson riders has been the outstanding feature of the "B" loop during the past fortnight.

The Terrible Tankers are back again in second place, holding a slight margin over their neighbors from the 83rd F. A. One of the fastest and closest exhibitions of baseball played at Gowdy Field during the past week was the game between the Tankers and Kellys, Saturday afternoon. Although losing in the final innings the Tankers gave the league leaders a stubborn battle all the way.

The 1st Bats and Green Cords are dividing honors in the cellar, the two teams being tied for this position. Both teams are looking forward to the opening of the last half of the season when they hope to make a fight for first division honors.

The teams in the "C" circuit have been idle during the past week, no changes having been made in the league standing.

In the "A" circuit things have happened with a bang. The lowly Q'Emmers kicked the bottom out of the ole bucket Tuesday afternoon when they walloped the league leading Gin-Ears to the tune of 7 to 4.

The Muleskinners have finally hit their stride and are now closing upon the heels of the league leading bridge-fixers. Although putting up a stiff fight, many points divide the Howitzers in third place from the two leading teams. The Q'Emmers have shown a big improvement in their play during the past week, their unlooked for defeat of the leaders being the biggest upset of the week. The Gas Bums are far down in the cellar with only one victory for the season but if the long looked for re-enforcement ever arrive from the Ordinance things are going to look different in the Twi-Light Loop.

GUNNER DePRATT WILL MEET TOMMY BILLIARDS

Pa., the home town of Pete Latzo, we find him one of the real headliners in the country, but like scores of good boys he lacks that one paramount necessity, that differentiates between a champion and a near champ, and that is the finishing punch. Billiards is the rushing, tearing in type that whales away with both hands from the opening gong. In eight years at the game he has fought no less than 350 times, meeting them all from the middelweights up. His record in the "Boxing Guide" resembles the newspaper column of the big leagues batting averages. His latest battles have been against Bobby Barrett, Jack Middleton, Sailor Burke, Jack Blackburn, Vigor Reuben, Styles Attaway, Bobby Marriot, (the last two are among the list that dodged DePratt) Roy Wallace and Speedy Sparks.

DePratt has seen Billiards in action and believes that he is facing the hardest task of his career. The Gunner has worked faithfully for the coming event and will be at his best. He stated that if he loses it will not be from the lack of condition.

Now let us turn to the boys who are boxing their way up the ladder through the medium of the preliminaries. One that will hold the attention of all will be none other than Walker "Football" Smith, the pride of Company "C," 29th Infantry. Smith has been in training for three solid months anticipating a trip abroad with the Olympic team. It was the keenest disappointment to him to learn on the ever of the departure of the Olympic athletes that he would not be taken along. Resolved then to take to boxing in earnest Smith asked for an opportunity to appear on the coming card. It is not known by many but the fact is true that DePratt and Smith weigh within a pound of the other. Here was another difficulty to face. If this section shys clear of DePratt then it would be an about face if the ytook on Smith. The only boy to get for Football was George (Pug) Avera who met DePratt on the 3rd. Smith agreed to take Avera on for a six round go without a bit of hesitation. This should be worth the price of admission itself.

Another six rounder that will be sure to please is the one between Dallas Hunt, of LaGrange, brother of a well known 15th Tank Battalion member, and Wally Hunt ,of the 29th. These two welters can step and incidentally can give and take. It looks like a real mill, especially since Hunt lowered the colors of Blondy Parker after the latter had thrown punches from all angles.

The 83rd Field Artillery will trot out a newcomer in Sergeant De Pine in one of the shorter bouts. DePine has been away from the game for quite a long spell but his admirers feel confident that he is a match for Billy Shell of the Meritas Athletic Club who boxed rings around Bull Montondon at the last show.

Jack Bray, son of the candy and peanut merchant of Columbus, will again appear. This time against Doubting Thomas now on furlough. This youngster Thomas likes the game that much that he is coming here at his own expense from Chattanooga, Tenn., to meet Bray in a four rounder.

Fiske Williamson, of the 24th Infantry, will open the show against Battling Nelson, of LaGrange, Ga. Williamson is the undisputed middleweight champion of his regiment, having won that title in the recent tournament. He is facing a boxer who is preceded by an excellent record.

As an emergency bout, or as it is called in the Army, the super numerary, Zach Taylor, of the Engineers, will wait hpoing for an opening to appear against Grady Martin, of Columbus.

Tickets were placed in the orderly rooms yesterday. The prices are the same as the show of July 3rd, ranging from 35 cents for a circus seat to $1.00 for the green cushioned, overstuffed chairs at the ring edge.—R. E. F.

BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

It was a week of thrills. First, the Tankers came mighty near taking the scalp of the Reds in what was, without doubt, the most exciting game of the year. Nip and tuck these two teams fought it out all the way and not until the last half of the ninth was the game decided.

Both pitchers played a big part with their bats in keeping the score so close. Each was touched up quite freely by the opposing hitters, but in the pinches the respective hurlers wielded the big stick.

Lindsay, of the Tanks, delivered what appeared to be the most timely hit of the year. With men on second and third in the eighth and his club two runs behind the red top came through with a slashing drive to center scoring both men and tying up the count five all. While Red was turning first on the throw-in to catch the runner scoring from second the stands were in an uproar. This was undoubtedly the most spontaneous outburst of the season. Watching Major Miller the K. O. of the Tankers was worth three season tickets alone. It was with difficulty that the writer got out of the way of the Major's heels as he duplicated the hook slide the runner was making at the plate.

Vance, who was hit harder in this game than any other this season, matched Lindsay with the stick. With one gone in the ninth and his team mates giving him little help with the willow, he strode to the plate and without waiting hit the ball on a line to the right field fence. It was what would be called a slice in golf. Passing Rowan like a rocket it rested in the vines and before it could be relayed to the plate the big pitcher was in and whang went another ball game.

If we could have baseball of this caliber every day of the week, this hot weather would just be a side issue.

Missed the game Saturday between the Tankers and the 2nd Battalion. From all reports it was as thrilling as the Red-Tank game. One thing is noticeable about the attendance when the Tanks are scheduled. The fans pack the stands, for they know that Cobb's crew put out to the limit. In both leagues of which they are a member they have the leaders hustling to win.

Thrill number three. The Qemmers without any ado or ostentation calmly took the league leaders of Class A into camp by the score of 7 to 4. This league is playing good baseball. With five clubs all through experimenting the bleacherites can look for a much tighter race when the second half gets under way August 2nd.

The Class A league will play the first game each day with the start of the second half. With every club in the league having a chance at the rag it may happen that the last game of the season will be necessary before the winner is decided.

Rain played havoc with the schedule from the 4th to the 11th and it will be necessary to call a special meeting to arrange a schedule for the postponed games. It is believed that only those games which will have a direct bearing on the pennant winners will be played during the week July 24th to the 31st.

Just a word about Shotgun White of the I. S. D. Laboring under a terrific handicap, with more than half the team on furlough, this old timer, who is one of the smartest ball players in the service, keeps the youngsters in there fighting every minute. He belongs at second base but places himself where he believes he can do the most good. The only time this year when he looked out of place was the day he elected to play first base.

The reason the writer missed the 2nl Battalion-15th Tank game was the fact that one Mike Burke is playing right fi ld for the Columbus Foxes. Burke was a youngster breaking in out in the wooly west some years ago. Recently he was signed by the Columbus team when Bill White replaced Herndon as manag r. Just memories took this scribe down to see Mike. Just to see how the old timer took to the present day brand of pitching, how he cut at the ball, and above all to see if the underpining, that one thing that drives ball players to work, to see how it held up. It is just 16 years ago this month that Mike broke in out in the distilleary town of Peoria, Ill. A tall thin, lanky youth fresh from the farm, while the writer was then in his sixth year fooling the public. Mike is now close to 200 pounds and has to hit the fence to get on. Three times during the double header he would have had a mark in the H column if the old legs could have carried him faster. He will pole many a long one before old man Time calls a halt but that 330 figure, if he recahes it, will be mostly due to broken boards in the fence.

Which all brings up the point of taking care of the old knee joints. The knees are the first to go. A false step, a quick turn, or a collision with another player often sends a ripping, tearing feeling around the knee cap. From then on it is a question of how long you can last. Lena Blackburn, present pilot of the White Sox, turned his knee in 1908 after performing brilliantly as a shortstop in his first year in the big league. After this accident he spent the best part of his career in the minors. Heine Groh, Travis Jackson, Thevenow and Houser all have trick knees. Still in their prime these players are either out of the game half the season or else are back in the minors where the pace is not so swift.

Baseball is a queer game. Lena Blackburn, one of the poorest hitters in the big league when he was up there, is now in charge of what was considered the weakest hitting team in the league when he took hold from Ray Schalk. Almost with his first game he has turned the Sox into a wild crowd of hitters. Four of his games have been won with double figures in the run column and his team at present is headed for higher averages. Chalmers Cissell, the regular army boy who is playing shortstop, suddenly recovered his batting eye under Blackburn and is again burning up the league.

Young Ed Walsh turned in a six hit victory in his second start for the Sox, which all goes to prove that big league pitching is just as easy to hit as the minors. The big difficulty however is getting them safe. You have got to hit them on a line to stay up there. While there last spring Walsh didn't appear to be a world beater, which fact should get the twirlers here at Benning out more, learning that biggest asset of a successful pitcher, that one big word: control.

Just a word for those who are bent on hitting. The next time Jacksonville plays in Columbus run down and see their Greek outfielder, a comer by the name of Gallegos. His style at the plate is all his own. He is bent almost double over the platter, but that eye of his watches that pebble all the way up and with his jaw set and determination written all over him he cuts with a vengeance when it is in there.

The 2nd Bats, with Roosma pitching, were out in front against the I. S. D. 2 to 0 on Tuesday when the rain, which was thought to have left these parts, broke up the game in the last half of the 4th.

Ashe, of the I. S. D., got hold of a fast one and rode it clear to the wire in left field for two bases. It was one of those hits that felt good, looked good, but was not good enough to go into the batting averages due to the rain.

Every club in the Post seems to be glad the first half is about over. Starting all square on August 2nd when the second half opens, it is believed better and faster ball will be played.

Did you ever hear of the boxer who hit with his open hands till his manager put a nickle in each hand?

A Few Notes From the Area of the Cassion Riders

Lieut. John B. Murphy is now acting as adjutant of the battalion during the extended leave of Capt. Weston. Lieut. Burback is personnel adjutant.

Some extensive improvements are in the process of making in the area of Battery B. A new tent to be occupied by the officers of this battery is now near completion. The tent formerly used by the officers will be turned over to the First Sergeant. The tents in the 83rd area are quite cozy and put up a much better appearance from the inside than the average observer would suspect.

The batteries have been pretty busy lately in the construction of the fence around the new pasture lands near the post garden.

New recruits have been coming in daily now for the past few weeks and it won't be long until all the outfits are up to authorized strength. With the animals to take care of, gunner's exams now on, and other activities, the men of the 83rd are on their toes all the time.

Corp. Troy Weems is a busy man these days. Besides functioning as battery clerk of Battery C, he is an officer of the Woodmen of the World, and is attending the big encampment in Columbus.

TUNNEY WINS BY TECHNICAL K. O.

Marine Retains Heavyweight Title in New York Last Night

Lieut. Gene Tunney, U. S. M. C. Reserve, retained his title of heavyweight champion of the world in his battle wiht Tom Heeney, the Anzac, in New York City last night. The struggle ended in the eleventh when Tunny won by a technical knockout.

ROUND ONE

Grimly determined Tunney whipped a solid right to Heeney's jaw. Heeney ducked and swarmed into Gene with short left and right hooks to the chin that drove the champion to the ropes. Heeney shot over a solid right to the head on the break. Sticking to his right hand Gene crashed two rights on Heeneys jaw but a sweeping left hook almost bowled the champion from his feet. Tunney was out fast , stabbing now with his left, but Tom beat both hands like a tattoo on Tunney's chin as they swapped in close. Gene ripped a solid right to Heeney's head but it never moved the challenger and Tunney was on the run as Tom ripped after him. Both hands flailing to the head, there was a bad bruise over Tunney's left eye at the end of the round.

ROUND TWO

Tunney obviously startled at Heeneys fierce offensive, started boxing the challenger. He shot left to Heeney's head but could not keep the bulldog of anzacs away. Tunny blasted lefts and rights into the sturdy head of the hard rock without causing a flicker of Heeney's eyelashes, Gene swapped with his challenger and they ripped left and right hooks to the chin in a furious exchange. Tunney sparred as Tom ripped in, when Gene's left hook dropped low, Tom mentioned it, and Gene smiled and asked forgiveness. A second later they were crashing each other all along one side of the ring in a slugging exchange of head clouts that rocked both on their heels. The bell broke up the exchange as the crowd stood and roared its approval.

ROUND THREE

Absolutely unawed by the power in Tunney's newly found right Heeney plodded into a right handed exchange with the titleholder. Tom dropped his guard and stood before the champion, hands ready and daring another exchange. Gene accommodated him and they cracked lefts and rights, short vicious pokes that stung jaw and cheek. Gene didn't seem to like that and he bounced back on defense spearing the challenger with a succession of lefts as Tom stalked after him. Tunney slipped as Heeney swept a right hook to his head and nearly fell, but came back to firmer footing without having been down and unhurt. Heeney slugged viciously at the champion's head while Tunney met his attack with solid left hooks to the body.

ROUND FOUR

Rising in sympathy with Heeney's unexpectedly determined onslaught the crowd bellowed the invader on as he swapped a short left and right into Gene's chin. Tunney bounced 2 rights off Tom's flinty chin and shot the challenger's head back with a stinging left hook. Gaining the upper hand decisively for the first time in the fight, Gene threw a right into Heeney's head with every ounce of his weight and strength behind it. This time, Tom's eye lids actually fluttered and Tunney pressed his advantage with two crushing rights into the heart. Sensing the turn, with blood beginning to drip from a cut under the chin, Heeney tore savagely into the champion and nailed him to the ropes with a rushing volley to head. Back to the hemp, in the same position as when Dempsey floored him last fall, Tunney fought vainly to sway out of danger but Heeney nailed him repeatedly on the head. The bell broke up the challenger's onslaught.

ROUND FIVE

Tunney smashed his right full under Heeney's heart but the anzac seemed to like it and bounded in close to slug at the champion's body. Gene drilled a left and right into Tom's rugged head and blood dribbled from the challenger's nose Boxing easily again on the defensive, his natural style, Gene prodded the anzac with jolts to the head and body. Tom sturdily ploughed into whatever punish-

Gunner DePratt Wins by Decision

Estimated Crowd of 2,000 Fans Witnessed One of Best Fight Cards Ever Put On at Fort Benning

(By Al Durden)

Before nearly two thousand fight fans at the Fort Benning boxing arena last night, Gunner DePratt won over Tommy Billiards, of Detroit. It was considered one of the best fights ever staged here, in fact, the entire card which was matched by Capt. J. J. Wilson was a big success in every respect. Besides a superior fight card, opinion was that it was the biggest crowd that ever witnessed fights at the Infantry School.

The main go went the entire ten rounds even though some prominent experts were prone to predict that it would end in the sixth or seventh by a knockout. Billards pulled the unexpected when he took blows from the Gunner that would have floored the average opponent of the doughboy from the demonstration outfit. In the first five rounds, Billards welcomed the Gunner and more than held his own during this time. However, the Gunner staged a comeback in the remainder of the fray, but not quite strong enough to put over a sleeper.

One of the features of the fight was the announcement at the ringside of the Tunney-Heeney fight in New York. This was received at Fort Benning by The Infantry School News from the office of the Columbus Ledger. Much interest was shown in the results as announced from time to time.

The DePratt—Billards fight by rounds

ROUND ONE

Both boys sparred for an opening, Billiards landed a high right to Gunners head, Gunner bored in shooting rights and lefts to the body, Tommie straightened DePratt up with a wicked left hook to the jaw, Tommie took one in the chow hall at the bell.

ROUND TWO

Billards came out in a crouch, DePratt was short with a right to the head, Tommie opened a cut over the doughboys eye in return. Billards sank a one two to Gunners stomach at close range. They were in a clinch in Billards corner at the bell.

ROUND THREE

Both boys landed in a fierce exchange in the center of the ring, Tommie's head snapped back from the Gunner's right. Billards started the claret dripping from the cut over DePratt's eye with a stinging left jab to that optic. Gunner evened matters with a withering body attack toward the finish of the round.

ROUND FOUR

Both boys were slowing up, very little action during the fourth, the crowd called for action.

ROUND FIVE

The fourth was the lull before the

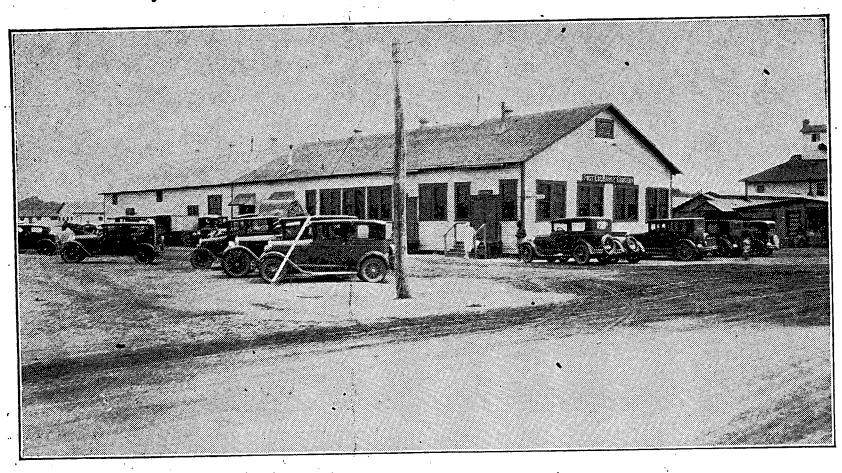
THE POST EXCHANGE AT FORT BENNING

Infantry School Exchange Has Many Activities; one of the Largest in the Army

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning is one of the largest in the army, When officers received their orders for a station, of which they know nothing, much apprehension is felt over what conveniences will be found at their new home. Officers who will come to the Infantry School next year need have no fear for their wants will be well taken careof by the Post Exchange, of which Major Sam I. McCants, is in charge.



The Post Exchange Grocery Store

The Exchange is operated exclusively for the members of the service people at the Infantry School. Their needs are supplied with at least nine departments operated by the Exchange. The grocery store is one of the largest in the army, which is operated by any Post Exchange. An interesting feature of this department is that vegetables sold over its counter are grown in the 125-acre Post Exchange garden. To consider just one item, 3,000 quarts of strawberries were gathered from this garden and sold to the residents of Fort Benning during the present season.

The grocery store is arranged so that one may help himself to anything desired. Upon entering the store, a meat ticket is procured, which bears a number. The customer then waits upon himself until his number is called at which time he is waited upon at the meat counter. In other words, no time is wasted in giving immediate service to the customer immediately upon entering the store. This store is modern, being equippd with Frigidaire, and other electrical appliances which make it an up-to-date establishment in every way.

Besides the grocery store, there is the automobile department, which is also a modern institution. Student officers, who drive to Fort Benning every school day of the year, may leave their car at the garage in the morning, and have the necessary repair work completed in time to drive their car home the same day. Service is the motto of this dspartment. Mr. W. E. Austell is in charge of this department. A filling station, which is patronized by hundreds of Fort Benningites, is a most popular department of the Post Exchange. A tire repair shop is also operated in connection with the filling station.

The main branch, or department store of the Post Exchange, is located in the south stands of the Stadium, as are also the hat and shoe shop, a tailor shop, and main offices of the Exchange. There are quite a number of employes of the main offices, and under the direction of Mr. A. J. Grimes, chief clerk, efficient service is rendered the patrons of the Exchange.

With the completion of the Stadium towers, the offices will be located in the south tower. In one of these towers it is contemplated the establishment of a night store which will operate from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Officers who will come to Fort Benning next year may look forward with much pleasure, to the service rendered by the Fort Benning Post Exchange.

TANKER JUMPED FROM PRIVATE TO SERGEANT

Private Leonard Tyler, home address, Columbus, Georgia, a member of Company "C", 15th Tank Battalion, has been promoted to be a mess sergeant in his organization. Sergeant Tyler has been a cook in the company with a rating of private first class, specialist fourth class, and as a chef has made an enviable record, so when a vacancy occurred in this particular position the company commander looked around for a man to fill the opening but he didn't have to look very far, until he found Tyler. Tyler has had nearly seven years service, and his three discharges from the army show character excellent. He has had prior service with the Sixth Infantry and the Sixth Cavalry. He has been in his present organization only since last December, but during that time he has made a record that has attracted the attention of his superior officers. He is a nexcellent marksman, and recently qualified as expert with the pistol. That he will make good in his present position is assured.—(From 15th Tank Weekly).

FRIDAY, JULY 27

"HIS TIGER LADY," starring Adolphe Menjou and Evelyn Brent in a play staged in gay Paris. The story starts in the Follies Bergere where Adolphe, playing the part of a Maharajah, falls in love with a beautiful lady in the audience. His advances come to naught until through a clever ruse he attracts her attention. He proffers her his life and is told that he will have to retrieve her glove from a tiger's cage in order to prove his affections—this he does, thus vanquishing other suitors. After a series of absorbing incidents he finally launches his conquest.

"Pathe News No. 59."

SATURDAY, JULY 28

"DOG OF THE REGIMENT," a Rin-Tin-Tin picture filled with thrills. Rin-Tin-Tin was himself found in a devastated French village during the World War. This story presents many scenes similar to those he enacted in real life. Here he plays the part of a German Red Cross dog—his duty is preservation of life. Many of his deeds of bravery occur in the air and hold the audience spellbound. It is a picture that adults, as well as children, will thoroughly enjoy.

"Crazy House." Our Gang.

SUNDAY, JULY 29

"ACROSS TO SINGAPORE," starring Ramon Navarro, Joan Crawford and Ernest Torrence in a vivid drama of romance and adventure laid on the high seas, in New England and in the mysterious oriental melting pot of Singapore. A strange love affair leads to dramatic adventure. They are aboard the old clipper ship, Nerwahe, which put to seat in the Pacific for a lengthy cruise. There is a terrific storm, a mutiny and the attack of oriental pirates. The Singapore scenes vividly portray weird life in oriental resorts. This is a gripping story.

"Fables."

"Paramount News No. 102."

MONDAY, JULY 30

"HIS WIFE'S RELATIONS," a hilarious comedy of domestic life, starring Shirley Mason with Gaston Glass, Ben Turpen and Flora Finch. While married life to many is a melodrama this story is the comical exception to the heavy hearted. It is the story of a man who borrowed a mansion, married the girl to whom the owner was engaged and then held up his father-in-law for a hundred thousand dollars. This picture is merely a succession of laughs bound together by funny romance.

"Haunted Island No. 5."

TUESDAY, JULY 31

"BRASS KNUCKLES," starring Monte Blue with Betty Bronson in a fierce, tender drama of tenement life. This thrilling human story has to do with a youth of poverty, who, while in jail for a crime he did not commit ,incurs the enmity of a prisoner whose plot he divulged. The play is heavy but gripping from beginning to end.

"Goofy Ghosts." Jimmie Adams.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 1

"FRECKLES," starring Jon Fox, Jr., and Hobart Bosworth in a film version of the popular novel by Gene Stratton-Porter. It is the breath-taking romance of an orphan lad and a beautiful girl in the mystic depths of a mighty forest. While the love elements of the theme are beautiful, they are interlaced with intrigue, cunning and prowess. This picture will grip your attention and hold it. If you've read the book you'll enjoy the picture that much more ,if you haven't read it, you'll derive the benefits of a week's reading in an hour and a half. See this picture.

"Paramount News No. 53."

THURSDAY, AUG. 2

"THE YELLOW LILY," starring Billie Dove with Cleve Brook in a story of Hungarian court life in the days when Emperor Charles held sway in Europe's most beautiful and colorful court. It deals with love and powerful intrigue among the inner circles of intricate court life. It was directed by Alexander Korda, the eminent and accomplished Hungarian director. This is a deeply interesting melodrama.

"Bugs My Dear." Bobbie Vernon.

FRIDAY, AUG. 3

"HONOR BOUND," starring George O'Brien with Estelle Taylor in a daring drama in a convict labor camp. The story is an expose of convict labor as it prevails in the coal mine district of the south, when grasping exploiters, through political affiliations contract for the labor of the prisoners, then extract from them exery ounce of energy, through the use of the lash and other terrible means of torture. A romance binds the theme of this story.

"Sailors Beware." Roach Comedy.

NEW MANAGER POTOMAC BRANCH ARMY MOTION PICTURE SERVICE

Mr. Fred Bund has taken the place of Mr. Michael W. Smith as manager of that branch of the Motion Picture Service controlling the Third and Fourth Corps Araes.

Mr. Smith, who, so faithfully managed this branch, has taken charge of the Kansas City territory.

Mr. Bund is a died-in-the-wool motion picture man. He was first connected with the service in the capacity of publicity manager. For the last five and one-half years he managed the Kansas City Army Motion Picture territory and simultaneously was editor of The Theater News ,a magazine, which through his able editorship ,has done much to improve motion picture service throughout the army.

On July 22nd and 23rd Mr. Bund paid an official visit to Fort Benning. He looked over all of our theaters, attended shows and expressed considerable satisfaction with their smooth and efficient operation. Most high was his praise of the music produced by the Main Theater Orchestra which he said eclipsed anything in the United States Army.

From Mr. Bund's attitude we may well expect the highest type of cooperation in maintaining, at Fort Benning, the best motion picture service obtainable. He is active, thoroughly well versed in the subject, wrapped up in it, heart and soul.

Fort Benning extends to Mr. Bund a sincere welcome.

On Friday evening Maj. and Mrs. Calvin Titus honored their guest, Miss Alice Louise Hunter, of Washington, D. C., and their son, Lt. Winston Titus, who is spending his leave with them, with a delightful theater party followed by a buffet supper. Their guest list included the following: Misses Alice Louise Hunter, Kate Kingman, Alice Torry, Sara Shallenberger, Louise Young, Marie Nutting, Becky Hill, Marie Russ, Bess Berry, Theodosia Hocker, Lieutenants Kammerer, Hewett, Hocker, Dunn, Foster, Griffin, Burbacks, Gilbreth, Hedekin, Cornog Strickler, Titus, Dr| Berry and Mr. William Berry.

Maj. and Mrs. John B. Wogan arrived on Tuesday for a visit to Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Huddleston.

The outstanding affair of this week was the charming party at which Miss Kate Kingman entertained on Monday complimenting two lovely visitors from Washington, D. C., Miss Sara Shallinberger, the guest of Miss Alice Torrey, and Miss Alice Louise Hunter, the guest of the Titus family. The party was an al fresco bridge and tea. Monday was a hot day at home but not so at "Kingman Acres" (or whatever its name is, for surely such a delightful place must have a name). The maid met the guests at the front door and said, "Miss Kate says 'go to the back yard.'" And there in the dense shade of many trees we saw card table after card table set up and a long tea table covered with snowy linen. Nobody needed further directions. (Such a versatile back yard! Not long ago it was the scene of a twilight garden party and a merry moonlight dance.) It was so delightfully cool that nobody remembered it was mid-July under near-tropical skies. There were five tables of bridge and ever so many tea guests. During the game little Margaret Herlihy brought delicious refreshing punch to everybody as many times as they'd take it and the tea guests in swings and gaily painted chairs and on summer benches sipped and "gos-sipped" while the game progressed. The high lady at each table was presented a swimming cap on which was painted a bathing beauty. Those winning were Mrs. Lynn Roberts, Mrs. Charles Steel, Mrs. John Forsythe, Mrs. Eanes and Miss Louise Young. Mrs. Edgar Miller won a similar prize as the lucky tea-guest, and the honorees were given boxes of French dusting powder. After the game a bride, several debs and several sub-debs served delicious home-made ice cream and passed huge silver platters holding squares of cake covered with icing so deep and fluffy that exclamations of delight were spontaneous as the platters made their rounds. There were a number of charming new people at this party; among them, Mrs. Eanes who has recently come from Denver, Mrs. Copeland, Mrs. Tarbutton, Mrs. Washburn, Miss Paula Brown, the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Rothwell Brown, and Mrs. Marjorie Browne Strother of Columbus, who is not "new" to us but whom we always welcome. Miss Kingman was assisted in entertaining by her gracious mother.

Opening the season of 1927 with a baseball team composed of all-star players, the Green Cords from the I. S. D., were picked as logical contenders for pennant honors last season. Like many of the upsets of baseball the team went to pieces and finished the season in the cellar position.

During a game near the close of the season the Green Cords were taking a terrible drubbing at the hands of the 83rd Field Artillerymen, at Gowdy Field. The Detachmenteers were booting the ball all over the lot while the Gunners score column continued to increase. Down at the keystone station, George White, veteran of eighteen years diamond duty with service teams of many organizations, fought back in a vain attempt to steady the defense of the tottering Green Cords. Finally with three Gunners on the path and one down, Jefferies placed a short fly over second that looked like a sure hit. Making a wonderful running catch White double the runner off third for the third out. "Attaboy Shotgun" yelled an ardent fan. The name stuck. When White placed a neat double in right field on his next trip to the plate, a hundred voices took up the cheer, "Attaboy Shotgun."

The season of 1928 found the I. S. D. baseball team in a bad way, Tolle was discharged, Morris was on three months furlough ,one old twirler, a relic of former days, and two untrained youngsters composed the pitching staff. McCarthy went on furlough leaving them without a catcher. Five men on the team had actually played baseball before, twelve members of the team were youngsters anxious to learn. George White was chosen team captain. The first game of the season for the Green Cords was against the Terruble Tankers.

The Green Cords took the field in the opening inning, down at second base a grizzled veteran in a frayed uniform, rasped out words of encouragement and instructions to the infielders as the first batter came up. The stands waited expectant. Gullett, lead off man for the Tankers, smashed one down the third base line like a rifle shot, the Tankers smoothered a cheer as Cleveland, Detachmenteer third sacker, scooped the ball and made a perfect throw to first for an easy out. The first three batters were easy outs to an infield that worked like veterans. "Attaboy Shotgun" roared the stands as the Green Hats came in to the dug out. And when the Detachmenteers won the opening game 7 to 6, the Tankers added their lusty yell, "Attaboy Shotgun," to that of the cheering stands.

Misfortune has followed close on the heels of the Green Cords during the first half of the season, injuries and discharges taking men just when the team seemed ready to hit its stride. But there is one thing that misfortune has failed to take and that is the fighting spirit that this valiant old warrior has inspired in the youngsters. Though losing their fight, none fight harder than "Shotgun White."

Last week, two of the games played at Gowdy Field, was between the Tanks and Detachmenteers, the Tankers won both games. But only after the Green Cords had fought desperately until the final put out in each game.

At the end of the last game as White and his fighting youngsters were leaving the field, from the stands came the familiar chorus, "Attaboy Shotgun." And players from the Tanks who had just fought him for nine fierce innings, went out of their way to whisper in his ear in passing, "ATTABOY SHOTGUN.' '

IT CAN BE DONE

Somebody said it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That maybe it couldn't, but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so 'till he tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that,
At least no one ever has done it."
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat
And first thing he knew he'd begun it.
With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin—
If any doubt rose he forbid it;
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,
There are thousands to prophecy failure,
There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it,
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That cannot be done—and you'll do it!—Exchange.

HERE AND THERE IN THE ARMY

(By B. H. Cowan)

The 12th Field Artillery, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, held their first regimental Tournament on the morning of June 28th. Among the events that held attention were the Race for Mounted Men of the Batteries; The Draft Test; a stake driving contest; first sergeants race; and a mule race sponsored by the Service Battery which turned out to be a comedy affair.

The 18th Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, celebated its anniversary on July 16th. July 15th was the official date of the Regiment's birthday but on account of this date falling on Sunday it was decided to hold the celebration on Monday.

The day's program got under way with a Field and Track meet between the different batteries. In the afternoon all officers and enlisted men and their families and friends attended a musical and motion picture program at the Liberty Theater. Refreshments were served outside after the performance.

First Lieutenant Herbert B. Enderton has been ordered to Spain as a student at the Crentro de Estudios Historiocs and the Escuela de Equitacion at Carabnachel. Upon his return he will be assigned as an instructor of languages at the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York.

Lt Enderton will report to the United States Military attache at Madrid and will remain upon the language detail for a year—The Guidon, F. A. S.

CAPT. R. M. WINFIELD

And family have returned to Fort Benning after spending a few weeks' leave in North Carolina. Capt. Winfield is now on duty with the 24th Infantry, but will attend the Inf. School next year.

LIEUT. GUTKOWSKI

And family arrived at Fort Benning this week. He has been on recruiting duty at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and will enter the Inf. School, as a student this week. Lieut. Gowski has rented a home in Rose Hill for the comping year.

ALL OFFICERS

Who have been ordered to the Infantry School for the courses next year will receive a copy of this issue. Several other issues will be sent the students before their arrival here. Dates of those issues will be announced later.

GENERAL SUMMERALL ON THE C. M. T. C.

"The C. M. C. training is perfectly fine for the young men of the country. These boys come under the training for a four weeks' period and they receive wonderful benefit in every way. It helps their bodies, their minds and their spirit.

"The idea is entirely different from the military in Europe. There is nothing compulsory about it here. It is all voluntary.

"The experience in the World War showed a large percentage of our young men to be physically unfit for military service and this indicates the necessity for a healthy, wholesome outdoor life such as the Citizens Military Camp affords. The boys are given practical training in cleanliness, orderliness, discipline, physical exercises and the preservation of their health.

"They return home better and broader both physically and mentally for the experience."

"The folks across the street must be away. They have no lights."

"No, their daughter's having a party."

"Are you baldheaded?"

"Can't tell right now. I've got my hat on."

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Johnny Heisler was discharged last Thursday, via the purchase route. Johnny has been manipulating the keyboard of the Mergenthaler for his Uncle Sam about four years, and he was a darn good operator, too. He will be greatly missed in the print shop. And it is hard to tell just what Corporal Charley Dollar will do now that Johnny has gone. Charley and Johnny were close pals, somewhat reminding ye scribe of the Siamese twins. Well, "what is to be, will be."

As has been stated in these columns before, there is plenty of work ahead for we of the linotype department. There are "umpteen" pamphlets of all descriptions to be set up, as well as the ordinary run of smaller jobs. In fact, Operators Dollar and Jenrette have been working in the afternoons in order to get the stuff out on time. "There's no rest for the weary." Neither is there any rest for us until the old Mergs. have turned out enough slugs which if placed end to end would reach from here to Halifax and back a few thousand times. "Where there's a will, there's a way."

Sergeant Dubanowski recently spent a day or two in Marianna, Fla. "Duby" is in charge of the platoon press department.

Two members of the print shop force were among those who went before the promotion board last Friday.

Louie Rowe has returned to work after a 15-day leave of absence.

WHO'S WHO!

STAFF SGT. ANSLEY SMITH

Headquarters Co., 15th Tank Bn.

Swinging into the last lap of the 1928 baseball season close on the heels of the league leading Kellys, the Tankers are picked by fandom at this early date, as the likely opponents of the Kellys in the little "World Series" that will be played here at the end of the season to decide the garrison baseball championship.

Leading the fight during the hottest of the fray was a veteran of many seasons. He is well known to every baseball and football fan in Fort Benning. During the present season he has been on the coaching line while a youngster has filled his position behind the plate, but when a game hung in the balance and the Tankers seemed about to slip, "Big" Ansley Smith came off the coaching line to don mitt and mask and step into the breech. And he never failed to come through, with him on the receiving end the Tanker line seemed to take renewed courage and confidence and on several occasions he has been the main factor in turning certain defeat into a victory.

He has been a member of the football team during the past three seasons, and his work at tackle has helped to bring the garrison football championship to the 15th Tank Battalion for the past two seasons.

Staff Sgt. Smith started his baseball playing in his home town of Danville, Alabama, back in his boyhood days. In 1913 he enlisted in the army and became a member of Company "C", of the 16th Infantry, where he promptly won a regular berth on the regimental baseball team. Into Mexico went the young soldier to swat the greasers as he had swatted the ole hoss hide. When the Unit d States entered the "World War," overseas he went with the fighting 16th Infantry, and served under as brilliant a succession of colonels as any outfit has ever had in a short time. The First Division was a fighting outfit and developed fighting commanders, and any man who went through the big show with the First Division was a fighter, you can be sure of that.

And this is the way Sergeant Smith went through the big racket over there with the fighting 16th Infantry, as official orders stated it when he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross:

"For extraordinary heroism in action near Soissons, France, July 18, 1918. Severely wounded early in the morning, he refused to relinquish command of his platoon, but led its attack to its final objective, remaining in command until he was relieved at nightfall."

Time has brought many changes for this battle scarred veteran. When a runner is dashing home to beat a fast throw from the infield and comes sliding in with spikes in the air, or when an opposing back comes plunging in a vain attempt to break the Tanker line, if you were close enough you would see again the light of battle flare in his eyes.

In the late afternoons if you are ever passing through Block 18, you may see a big staff sergeant wearing the insignia of the 15th Tanks, busily at work among the flowers growing in his front yard, there is a pleasant faced lady directing the work, three beautiful children play about the yard. It is a scene of peace and happiness ,a just reward for Staff Sergeant Ansley Smith of the 15th Tank Bn.

29TH INF.

29TH INF. ESTABLISHES RECRUIT SCHOOL

In order that newly assigned recruits may "step off on the right foot"—which is the left one, of course—the 29th Infantry has established a recruit school where all new men will receive a four-week course of instruction prior to being turned to duty with the organization to which they are assigned.

Under this school plan the process of initiating the new arrival into military life is greatly simplified. After the normal period of quarantine the soldier is sent directly to his organization. From this time he eats with his company and is quartered in his own barracks. In this way he definitely becomes an active member of the organization, quickly making acquaintances among the men and becoming familiar with life in barracks. During duty hours, from seven in the morning until three in the afternoon, however, the recruit is sent to receive training in the recruit school, under instructors who have been specially selected for this work.

The training which the men receive in this school is absolutely basic, but at the same time is so thorough that when recruits are turned to duty they will be able to perform the ordinary duties of a soldier without any further special instruction.

The school is under the supervision of Lieutenant A. T. Wilson, who has eight non-commissioned officers as his assistants. This number will be increased in proportion as the number of men undergoing instruction is increased. At the present time there are forty-eight men being trained. This number will be increased to about one hundred, however, at the end of the range season, since there is a large number of recruits assigned to the Second Battalion, which is now undergoing preliminary instruction prior to going on the target range.

In order to stimulate interest in training, Lieutenant Wilson each Saturday will have a competitive drill in some phase of the instruction. At the end of the first week, the best man in "School of the Soldier, without Arms" will be selected and the following week the Manual of Arms will be used for the elimination contest. Three disinterested officers of the regiment will act as judges.

Visitors are especially invited to witness these Saturday competitions and are welcome any time at the school, which is located on Kilgore Street, between the 29th Infantry Theater and the R. O. T. C. area.

COL. PENDLETON LEAVES FOR CAMP PERRY

Last Thursday Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., commanding the 29th Infantry, left for Camp Perry, Ohio. He will be on duty at that place as Executive Officer of the National Matches, from August 1st until about October 1st, when he will return to the regiment.

LIEUT-COL. REED ASSUMES COMMAND

Upon departure of Colonel Pendelton for the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, Lieutenant-Colonel Walter L. Reed, 29th Infantry, assumed command of the regiment, last Tuesday. Prior to his assignment to this station, Colonel Reed was on duty at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.

29TH INFANTRY STAFF

When the Infantry School is in session, it is perfectly natural to hear that the 29th Infantry is going to take part in a command post terrain exercise. But with the class of 1927-1928 scattered to the four winds ,and next year's class still in the offing, it seems somewhat unusual to hear that approximately fifteen officers and one hundred men of the regiment are leaving today for Harp's Pond for a command post terrain exercise, the first one of a series of three two-day exercises. This first problem starts at six o'clock in the afternoon of one day and ends at noon the following day. Interest is added by the fact that "Problem Time" is also "Clock Time." The regiment is now functioning with practically a new staff, and it is felt that engaging in a series of staff problems such as this will result in much benefit to the regiment in functioning for the Academic Department during the coming school year.

HOWITZER COMPANY COMPLETES TESTS

The Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry, yesterday returned from Harps Pond, where it had been in camp since the 16th of this month. During the ten days that the company was at Harp's Pond, a series of exercises was given in order to test an experimental organization with the increased personnel which is considered essential for the proper handling of the new Infantry weapons. The Howitzer Company has for some time past been equipped with the new thirty-seven millimeter gun and the seventy-five millimeter howitzer.

The Harp's Pond area is unusually suitable for experimental work of this nature, because of the varied terrain available. The camp site is quite ideal, located as it is on the very shore of the pond. A new bathing pier has been constructed, running well out into deep water, and is equipped with a springboard. At the close of each day's work there was a general exodus to the pier.

In all, the time spent in camp not only wos of value from the military point of view, but proved to be a pleasant period of recreation as well.

Sticking Everlastingly At It

For the fifth consecutive year, the highly desirable distinction of having qualified one hundred per cent has been achieved by the Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry.

In the record firing recently completed, four officers made expert gunner, while three made first-class gunner. Ninety-six men fired the record course, with sixteen expert gunners, seventy-four first-class gunners and six second-class gunners.

Of the men who did not fire, two were in hospital, one on re-enlistment furlough, and twelve were recruits who had not yet joined the company.

Company "A"

We were not aware that our presence in the news columns of The Infantry School News was missed, but apparently it was and in view of this and other less important facts we shall attempt to make a few "wise-cracks" of no hostile intent. Comments, whether bouquets or brickbats, will be duly received but we cannot guarantee to furnish photographs of any person whose name is mentioned in our society column.

To quote Pfc. Birdsong, who, incidentally is very fond of barbershop tete-a-tetes, "It won't be long now." The foregoing remark was made by Birdsong without any perceptible change of expression other than a slight movement of his ears which leads us to believe that the remark was only the product of a diseased mind as we fail to detect any significance in it and having never heard it before we dismissed all thought of it from our minds.

Acting Corp. E. C. Lee has rejoined us from a short absence. Repeated attempts for an interview with Lee met with no success but covert inquiries disclosed the fact that Lee journeyed to Birmingham, Ala., accompanied by a very close friend whose name was withheld pending further investigation of the matter. It is hoped that further particulars may be secured and published at a later date.

—Snooks.

Company "C"

We have not held our column in the News for some time, due to the busy season on the range. To date Wright is the only man to fail to bring home the bacon. Sgt. Smiley, our Top Kick, leads the company for high score, with a score of 326.

By glancing down the card for the big fights Thursday, we find the pride of our hearts, "Football" Smith, scheduled for a six-round go with "Pug" Avera of the 22nd Infantry. Avera states, so it has been said, that the 29th Infantry is not the only regiment that can win a fight, but he will probably tell a different story when Smith sends him back to Fort McPherson, defeated.

Private Lyon was discharged July 21st, by reason of Minority, and departed for parts unknown. We believe he will come back when he becomes a man.

We are losing one of our best cooks, Pfc. Baran, in the near future, by reason of purchase. We wish you success in your new life, Baran.

Corporal "Jawbone" Hayes is acting Supply Sergeant now. We hope you get the other chevron, Jawbone, you deserve it.

Sergeant Crawley transferred to the Infantry School Detachment during the past week as instructor in the Weapons Section. Sergeant Crawley was instructor in the Weapons Section for some time before he came to the 29th Infantry, and he certainly knows his weapons.

We received four new recruits, Saturday, from "Sergeant Lehmann's Hotel." Prepare for Recruit School, boys.

The question is, "Who gave the Mess Sergeant a new recipe book?" The mess has increased wonderfully.

—Gene.

Company "D"

After an absolute silence for several weeks, which time has been taken up with work; but with work comes success and our success is completing the Marksmanship Coure in Machine gun with distinguished qualifications. Six experts, forty-two first-class gunners and one hundred and seven second class gunners. But that is just "D" Company—100 per cent qualification, first, last, always

Sgt. Young deserves honorable mention finishing with high expert—a score of 393. This feat is seldom accomplished.

During the range season Captain R. A. Case has taken command of the company while Captain W. A. Burress, who has been in command of the company for the last three years, will be at school with the Officers Advanced Class, The Infantry School beginning Sept. 14th.

Cpl. Willard is now on duty at Recruit Center. The company is at a loss since "Bear-creek" has gone dry, but since going to Recruit Center he looks like a walking mess-hall.

Cpls. Donald and Gaines have been appointed to the grade of sergeant, while Pvts. Phillips, Lang and O'Donoghue have been appointed corporals. Congratulations, fellows.

Supply Sgt. Kinney to Mechanic Williams, "What are you doing with all that good sperm-oil?"

Mechanic Williams, "Using it on "Happy's" rocking chair."

Supply Sgt., "Whose chair?"

Mechanic, "Corporal Fourniers."

—Swan.

"E" Co.

Company "E" completed pistol record firing on the 13th day of July. The company made 100 per cent, every one qualifying that fired the weapon. Our company Commander, Captain Cecil L. Rutledge, making expert high score, 85.66 in the officers and Sergeant Raymond Daloy made the high score for enlisted men, expert with 90.60.

Men discharged during the week—Pvt.

Sidney M. Kennedy, 17th; "Dog" McGuire of football fame of the 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; on 19th, Wortham (under age); Corporals Bache and McDonald were discharged from the army to enter West Point on the 2nd of July.

Transfers—Private Yuratich to the I. S. D. on the 19th.

Recommendations to fill existing vacancies for corporals have been submitted for approval: Stanley ,Clay and French.

Sgt. Henry Mathews our Sgt. from recruiting duty, is back and on the job doing his bit.

Every one is enjoying the target range instruction on the parade ground and looking forward to record practice on or about August 5th to qualify 100 percent.

Private Self, one of our recruits, was heard to make remark something like this: "I don't understand just what is meant by rapid fire. Do you take your time and at the same time be in a hurry?" A very good explanation of the subject.

Buglers Campbell and Hornsby had a fistic decision over which was the senior bugler. I think Campbell won. Corp. Gadget Miller, our acting supply sergeant, said he was going to make 306 so that the W. D. would raise the qualification of expert to 309 or 312.

We have one man still remaining with the coaching school for admittance to West Point, Private Bache. He is still sticking with it, all the others have given it up.

Cook McDuffie seems to have it pretty bad. He was seen in the recreation room at 10:45 P. M. last night (Friday) with his head shoved up in the victrola playing: "Love I am thinking of you."

Sgt. Dalby seemed to be afraid to make a long range triangle. He was afraid the recruits would kid him about his triangle that you could cover with a dollar bill. (How about it, Dog, says Hi).

—I. M. Y.

1st Bn. Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

Sergeant Justice of 1st Bn. Co. must be enjoying his furlough, if we can believe the tales he is writing back to his friends.

Corporal Louis B. Benefield re-enlisted last Monday, and is now on the rifle range skinning his knees and elbows.

Private Hinkley returned from the hospital last Saturday. Baseball playing is alright, but there are times when it is best to get out of the other fellow's way when he is sliding home. Private Hinkley will testify to that fact.

Private Rose has transferred to Company "B", and we are losing a good cook —Company "B" is gaining one. We are all sorry to see Private Rose leave us, we will miss hearing his banjo in the evenings very much.

Privates Chapman and Barnwell are so busy these days studying for the West Point Coaching School that they don't have time to write their girls and then wonder why it is that their girls don't write them. All any one can get out of them is History or the structure of sentences. We are all interested in their progress and hope they make good.

Private Stepp, our curly-headed boy scout, was busy this week assisting the Medical Corps. Evidently his work was satisfactory as he didn't drop a bottle.

Company "G"

Cpl. White the senior corporal of the company left us this week. He was discharged per ETS. Cpl. White stated that he thought that he would try a "hitch" at Kelly Field. His many friends in the company were sorry to see him leave and they wish him the best of luck "in the air."

Pvts. Leonard and Walinski like to do K. P. work, but not on Sunday.

Our old reliable recruit Paladino, joined the suitcase squad this week. We sure wish him the best of luck when he gets back to the farm.

Pvt. Spires sure came through on the .22 range last week. He put 10 shots in a spot in the bullseye that could be covered with a five-cent piece. He was shooting rapid fire at 25 yards. Keep up the good work Spires and that five bucks is cinched.

—Warset.

Company "H"

Range one thousand, paster numoer one. Pause, whistle, grunt, sneeze—then —Cain! For the sake of all that's good and holy, why can't you wake up and manipulate that gun!? Don't be alarmed, dear readers. The writer has just been listening in on Sergeant Macauley giving instruction to the parade ground bolos. Talk about the patience of Job if you wish, but you will find that he was very erratic when you observe the patience of some of the squad leaders giving instructions at range practice.

There is only one thing about it all, now that the range season has begun for us in earnest—we must put it over with a bang. It will never do to let the standards of the company fall when it comes to range work. We failed to qualify one man last year, and it stands to reason that he will make grade this year. He just had a little hard luck (?).

Since you last heard from this end of the wire, there has been quite a stir-up in the Company. Some of the privates held a Kangaroo Court over the Non-Coms. and voted them out of the Recreation room. They gave as their reason, the fact that the newly made Corporals (Allen, McCann, Maudlin and Ellison), had started to rank them out of all the good easy chairs and would not let them have "butts" on the good magazines. I can't say that I can blame them for it, because you know, these boys used to be privates too. Well to settle the whole matter without having a young "Civil War," the Non-coms. have decided to form a club of their own. This is not a mere rumor, but a very large actuality. The officers have been duly elected and we have had three meetings with "Country" Pyles present at them all. In due time we should have a good club, and it is believed that we will.

We have seen many lucky men in our lives, but our Top Kick does beat all. He gets to ride to the range every single morning, and on top of all that he rides back, still reserving the pleasure of making out the daily details. Now I think that the least that he could do would be to let someone else pick the extra Sunday K. P.s. But that's the way of a Top Kick, he has you by the seat of the pants, and holds on 'till it thunders, (just like a turtle).

Since our last article, Capt. E. G. Herlihy, who has been in command of the Company for the past two years, has left the Company and is now Bn. Executive Officer. We all hated to see Capt. Herlihy leave us, and want him to feel and know that he has many friends in "H" Company, and that we are always behind him to the last man.

Capt. A. J. Nichols relieved Capt. Herlihy on July 1st, and since then has proven to us that we are going to enjoy being under his command. Capt. Nichols has worked to us, for us and with us, and we hope that he is as proud to be the new Company Commander of "H" Company, as we are to have him. All that needs to be said, is that we are behind him to the last man, as we tried to be for Capt. Herlihy.

I don't want to "handshake" too much this time, so for that reason will not write anything about the new Company Officers under Capt. Nichols. Maybe some day I will write them a few lines—(if I live through this).

SPORTS

FIRST HALF OF SUMMER BASEBALL SEASON ENDED

Al Durden Discusses Features of First Half; Kellys Win all Games in Big League

Hard fought and closely contested ball games have featured the last week of the first half of the Infantry School baseball schedule.

The Kellys from the 29th Infantry finished the first half away out in front in the "B" League, with thirteen consecutive victories to their credit. Second place was a nip and tuck affair between the Galloping Gunners from the 83rd F. A. and the Caterpillar Conductors of the 15th Tanks, with the Tanker outfit nosing out the Gunners in a bitterly fought game Sunday, 5 to 4.

Although crowded into fourth place under five successive defeats, the Green Cords have fought gamely and though losing their gameness and fighting spirit won favor with the fans. With Morris, Douglas, McCarthy, Heckert and Cleveland back from furlough, the second half should find the Green Cords in a first division berth.

Far down in the cellar, the 1st Bats of the 29th Infantry have failed hopelessly during the first half. With a bunch of young material that could be moulded into a machine that would compete with any team in the league, the 1st Bats seem to be unable to get going. In Delaney, Krautz and Hinkle they have three young twirlers that are capable of winning ball games, they have at least three catches that need nothing but a little encouragement, there is no sore arms in their infield or outfield while with proper batting practice this team could turn out the hardest hitting aggregation in the circuit. Give the 1st Bats plenty of practice and encouragement and they will naturally develop the old fighting spirit, and the end of the last half will not find them in the cellar.

Buckley's Galloping Gunners have been by far the sensation of the season, but their success is only the just reward of hard work. The team that fought the Tankers for second position and only lost by the closest margin this season, is the same team that was floundering helplessly in the cellar at the end of the season of 1927. The duties of the artillerymen are many, their hours of practice are few, but under the leadership of Lt. Buckley, they have worked hard and played hard with the results that they now boast one of the strongest baseball teams in the garrison.

Over in the 15th Tank Bn., age and youth have worked wonders, Lt. Cobb fresh from West Point, where he starred as a member of the baseball squad, took over the managerial reins of the Caterpillar Conductors baseball team. Red Lindsey, veteran twirler and all-around army athlete, was elected captain of the team. The Tanker machine has been one of the smoothest running in the circuit, and it was the Tankers fighting behind the veteran Lindsey and steadied by their youthful manager at second base, who nosed out the fighting artillerymen for second place.

The Kellys are too well known to write about, an all-star team that has not tasted the dregs of defeat this season, the Kellys are represented by one of the strongest battalion teams in the history fo the Infantry School.

The race in the "C" League is yet to be decided in the first half, as duty on the range kept the 29th Infantry teams from finishing the schedule during the past week. The Reds are leading the league with a half game lead over the Tankers, while the Blues seem to have a cinch on third position with the Detachmenteers in the cellar. With one of the strongest pitching staffs in the garrison which is supported by a stonewall defense the Reds have lost only one game during the season and that by forefit to the lowly Greenies. The Blues show a good twirling staff but their infield defense has proved weak all season. The postponed games will be played off in the near future.

Over in the "A" loop, things have been moving with a zip and bang at the finish. The Engineers hold the lead but are closely pressed by the Muleskinners from the 29th Infantry. A twin bill between these two teams was the feature of the week. The Muleskinners taking the opener 2 to 1, in one of the prettiest twirlers duels ever witnessed at Gowdy Field. The second game went to the Gin-Ears 8 to 2, making the team standings the same. The biggest upset of the week came Tuesday afternoon when the lowly Gas Bummers, kicked the dope bucket over the flag pole and slaughtered the haughty Q'Emmers to the tune of 19 to 3. The race in this league is still undecided, several postponed games are to be played yet and as many things can happen in baseball the champions of the first half are still unknown.

SWIMMING

Question:
What is the difference between the Australian Crawl and the American Crawl?
Answer:
The original Australian crawl is out of date and seldom used. This stroke was executed as follows: As the right arm reached forward the left leg held straight except for a slight bend in the knee, kicked downward and as the left arm reached forward the right leg was kicked downward. The stroke was speedy for short distances but was too tiring for distances greater than fifty or a hundred yards. When this stroke appeared in America, about 1904, American swimming authorities began experimenting with it and soon developed the well known American tvpes of four, six, eight and ten beats. In the Australian crawl there was no rhythmic breathing, the swimmer taking his breath at his convenience while in the American types his breathing is regular on a definitely completed cycle.

Question:
What type of the American crawl is most generally used?
Answer:
The six beat flutter drive.

YOUNG EDDIE WALSH WITH MAJOR LEAGUE

Baseball fans who saw the series of games between the Infantry School and Notre Dame last spring will remember Young Eddie Walsh, son of Big Ed Walsh, the greatest spitball twirler in the history of the national sport. In last Sunday's New York Times appeared a picture of the two above named, and an account of the game last Saturday between the White Sox and Yanks. Eddie was on the mound for the former team; held the Yanks to no hits for five frames. Babe Ruth knocked a homer in the seventh at which time Young Ed was relieved. To quote: "As Young Walsh went to the club house in the eighth he was heavily applauded by the populace, which was pulling to see the youngster make good." Walsh has played several games this season with the White Sox.

TUNNEY WINS BY TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

ment came his way. Tom slipped as Tunney hooked him in a clinch but was up without a count. Tunney poked at him steadily up to the bell.

ROUND SIX

Tunney's masterful defense had Heeney quite muddled now and Tom plodded in only to find his clouts caught on the champion's arms and his body battered by Gene's thudding right. The champion stepped in with a bullet-like left hook to the body and bounced his right again off Tom's corrugated features. In a clinch, with the broad shouldered new Zealander half a head shorter, Tunney was content to maul with the challenger killing the effectiveness of Tom's left hook by burying his right hand against his cheek as he danced about, spearing Tom with his left hand. The anzac missed frequently his short arms going by Tunney's head. Tom caught the champion again near the ropes. Tunney's vital spot and slashed a left and right to Gene's head. Gene wabbled a bit and tore out of the precarious position so fast that he landed in the center of the ring before Tom could get away from the ropes. Gene was boxing him easily spearing him deftly with lefts.

ROUND EIGHT

Freshened by half a bucket of water poured over his head and a new haircomb Tunney came out to hold the challenger helpless, Heeney's left eye swelled and nearly closed when something irritatd it. Tom shook his head in desperation as he could hardly see from that eye. Finally he closed it of his own accord and tore into Tunney with one good eye. Quick to see his advantage Gene held the challenger a moment, looked over his difficulty and then pumped lefts and rights to Tom's head and body. Tom wobbled under the blows but blood spurted from his nose as he lashed forward in the despairing effort. Tunney met his courageous attack. Tunney jolted Heeney steadily despite his courageous onslaught right up to the bell.

ROUND NINE

Hardly able to see from his left eye despite the ministrations Heeney gallantly piled into the champion. It seemed that the rosin from the sections had gotten onto Tunney's gloves into the challenger's eye. Tunney, a sportsman himself, stood and slugged with the challenger but Tom got the worst of that too, as Tunney's knifing from Heeney's battered left eye. A gory sight, and becoming gorier, Heeney again summoned his strength for another surge and ripped his right and left to the champion's head.

ROUND TEN

Heeney's eye looked almost normal as he came out doggedly to battle the unmarred champion. Gene grabbed Tom as the anzac lunged forward and sank a left and right in the body. The snap seemed to have disappeared from Heeney's punches and Tunney apparently had little desire to cut up the challenger further. Gene grabbed Heeney as the anzac plunged in close and showered him with left hooks to the head and body. Tom reeled under full left and right hand clouts to the head. Plodding forward now by instinct, Heeney ran into a barrage and went down under a right. As Heeney rolled almost from the ring the bell rang and ended the round. Heeney was out, flat on hi sback and had to be carried to his corner. His seconds had him restored for the next round.

ROUND ELEVEN

Tom came out with a left that missed and Tunney measured him for a final blow. Showing amazing recuperative powers, his head a mass of blood, Tom plunged again, the champion smashed with a right to the head.

FLASH

Tunney wins technical knockout.

Bo: What is a heavy date?

Lonely: Any time you spend over a dollar.

storm, Billards came out with a rush to meet Gunner in his own corner, Tommie came in to slug but was driven to cover by the piledriving doughboy. Following up his advantage DePratt drove Billards to the ropes under a shower of hooks and jabs. Billards was cheered loudly when he came back to take the offensive as the round ended.

ROUND SIX

DePratt had all the better of the sixth round staggering Billards with a crashing left hook to the jaw, DePratt hurt Billards with a straight left to the stomach that slowed the veteran up and put him in a bad way.

ROUND SEVEN

Following up his offensive drive, DePratt came near stopping Billards in the seventh when he sent him to the canvas for a long count with a solid right to the stomach. Although hurt and groggy the veteran relied on ring strategy and a shell like defense to ward off a k. o.

ROUND EIGHT

DePratt was fighting an offensive fight but was unable to stop the foxy old battler. Billards brought the crowd to their feet when he rallied in the last of the round to drive the Gunner to cover under a hail of leather.

ROUND NINE

They fell into a clinch swapping short jolts to the body, DePratt landed a hard right cross to Tommie's chin but took a one, two to the head in return. DePratt sank his right into Tommies stomach, but failed to follow up, they were sparring at the bell.

ROUND TEN

DePratt went in to win by a knockout but Billards out-generalled him at every turn. Both boys mixed it at close range but Gunner was never able to land the sleep producer. Billards bored in close, they were swapping rights and lefts to the body at the final bell.

Editor's Note: Due to lack of space it was necessary to omit stories about preliminary bouts, all of which were above the average.

MY DOG AND PAL

(By Sgt. Logan Duff.)

Since I have been old enough to realize what it meant to have a pal, I have always preferred the dog. In many ways they are far superior to the human being as a companion, of course many people will not agree with this and will say the affection one has for a dog should be bestowed upon the child. I concede it is far more admirable to bestow such affection on a child, but I do not however agree with the spacious reasoning that the person who becomes the owner of a dog is doing little but storing away an eventual heartache. Heartaches are the eventual climax for all affection in this world.

It is the nature of material substance to be transitory. One might as well say it is unwise to love human beings, or humanity ,for the same reason. The child loves its mother and the mother her child and when anything happens to either there comes the inevitable anguish.

But the recollection of happy companionship—the spiritual essence—remains to compensate. My dogs have taught me many things I unfortunately have never been able to learn as well from human beings. I know for instance, of no loyalty surpassing that of the dog.

Recently, I have lost my best pal. A hound dog named Trump. Black, white and tan, right eye white around it, left eye dark tan, left ear split about three inches, large blacks spots on sides, more white than black.

I will pay fifty dollars for the return of this dog, and one hundred dollars additional for the conviction of the thief who stole him.

This dog Trump was only a hound, but he was my best pal. Many helpful inspirations have come to me through my devotion to a dog.

COOLING SYSTEM IN MAIN THEATRE IMPROVED

It is well known that the two big forty-two inch Arctic electric fans in the Main Theater of this Post make this playhouse the coolest place on the reservation, to spend an evening. However, ever striving to improve conditions the Army Motion Picture Service has furnished added equipment. At considerable expense new pulleys, containing asbstos friction cones, and governed by remote oil controls, have been installed. This equipment serves several purposes: it permits the smoother operation of the fans, thereby increasing their output of cool air and diminishing their vibration. The variable speeds permit the fan to be operated at rates of from forty to four hundred revolutions per minute, this means that in the summer we will be kept cooler and in the winter reduced speed of the fans will keep the air in circulation, thereby dispelling smoke, cleaning the atmosphere, and also equalizing the temperature throughout the house.

Our recreation department is ever striving to increase our amusements and comforts.

HOW WE DID IT

The returns of the New York fight received at Fort Benning at the Athletic Office from the Columbus Ledger. Capt. Wilson announced returns from the ring after which copy sent to the Standard Printing Company where type set. Upon the completion of the fights at Fort Benning the NEWS staff wrote story of the local main go. At two o'clock this morning the circulation manager, Corp. Lantz was in the act of preparing the issues for the early distribution at Fort Benning.

Due to a heavy storm we were unable to receive the details of the seventh round of th Tunney-Heeney bout.

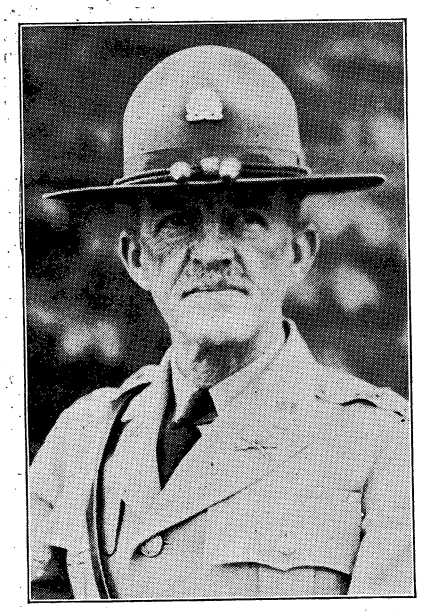
24TH INF.

COMMANDS 24TH INFANTRY



Colonel P. C. Galleher, who recently took command of the 24th Infantry at Fort Benning. For the past few years he has been a member of the Infantry Board here. An interesting sketch of Col. Galleher's military career appeared in a recent issue of the News.

Lieut. Colonel Edward H. Tarbutton reported for duty on July 18th. His last duty being with the Quartermaster Corps at Governors Island, N. Y. In March, 1928, Colonel Tarbutton transferred to the Infantry and after two months leave was assigned to the 24th Infantry pending the opening of the Infantry School where he will attend the Advanced Course during the coming year.

Lieut. W. B. Force, for the past two weeks, has been on duty as Assistant Police Officer, reported back to the regiment on July 23rd. Those who witnessed his arrival claim that he appeared overjoyed to get back to his duties with Company "B". All of which reminds us that the 24th is a pretty good outfit with which to serve.

Captain Richard M. Winfield returned July 21st after 15 days leave which he spent in and around Asheville, N. C. From all reports the golf links were in excellent condition, at least they were when he got there, and holes-in-one-or-more were quite the order of the day. Captain Winfield reported excellent fishing and mentioned several unbelievable catches he had made. This proves beyond doubt that he is a real fisherman.

The 24th Infantry Swimming Pool buzzes with activity these warm days. Situated in the cool, deep ravine in rear of the regimental area and surrounded with tall trees, it presents a beautiful pictur. Many benches are placed in the shade around the edge of the pool for those not caring to swim and the pool itself is crowded with families and friends of the 24th. Sergeant Howard Ballard of Company "C" is directly in charge and has as his staff of life guards, Privates Johnson, Strong, Parker and Tellis.

At last, it appears we are to get rid of the lumber pile that has for so long occupied the rear of the First Battalion area. The First Battalion is cleaning up this area in earnest and the wood yard is slowly but surely melting away. If we may be excused for using one of Captain Stewards' seagoing expressions we might say that the pile is "going by the board."

In fact, it might well be called "clean-up week" in the First Battalion, as even our tonsorial artists have felt the urge of the Company Be..uty Parlors shine as never before. It is rumored however, that some credit should be given to a certain battalion order dated July 20th, 1928.

Famous dates and happenings:

June 18, 1815—Napoleon defeated at Waterloo.

November 11, 1918—The Armistice signed.

July 17, 1928—Lieut. Dismukes arrived for dinner at the mess in time to partake of the roast.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Interesting Items From the News Last Summer

It is sometimes interesting to read of happenings at the Infantry School in days gone by. In the issue of August 5, 1927, the following items of importance appeared therein:

General E. E. Booth, assistant chief of staff, was a guest at the home of the Commandant, Gen. E. T. Collins. During his stay here he was formally retired from the service.

A short article containing pertinent facts about All-Army football in this issue. The squad was to assemble here about August 15, and plans were under way at that time to assemble the squad at Tybee Beach about August 20, for a hard w rkout. Which all came to pass.

A long fight story by Al Durden of the News staff told about the DePratt-Ptomey fight which resulted in a victory for Gunner when he knocked out Ptomey in the ring in Doughboy Stadium. Phillips and Battling Sam were on the prelim card, the former winning the three-round battle by decision.

In this issue was published the list of officers ordered to attend the company officers course at the Inf. School. Those lists are always of interest.

First Sgt. Dave Smith, of Company "H" of the 29th Infantry was retired from active service. The Second Battalion held a review in his honor upon retirement.

Plenty of sport news in this issue. Headline: "Blues and Reeders Battle Twenty Innings." That was some battle if fans will remember. The First Bats. with McGaha on the mound and the 24th Inf. Blues with Stokes twirling, put up the best exhibition of the national sport during the league series last summer. The Blues took the game by score 3 to 2. To quote: "McGaha and Stokes settled down to a pitcher's duel, and they gave as fine an exhibition as has ever been witnessed since baseball has been played at Fort Benning. Both teams were turned back time and again without scoring, although each team looked like sure winners at different stages of the battle."

FORMER BENNING SOLDIER REPRESENTS SILK HOSE CONCERN

S. C. Frost, formerly a member of the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning, with offices at 1213½ Broad Street, is the representative of the Real Silk Mills of Indianapolis, which is considered the oldest and largest hosiery mill in the country. Mr. Frost is well known among older members of the demonstration regiment who will be pleased to learn that he is connected with this big concern.

GOOD FIGHT PROGRAM THURSDAY NIGHT

New System of Ration Issue Initiated at Fort Benning; Much Time Saved

Rations Are Now Issued in Less Than Half of Time Previously Taken

The system of the issuance of rations at Fort Benning has been changed, according to the officer in charge of the Commissary, Capt. C. J. Mabbutt.

"Alright you cooks now keep these K. Ps. on the move. We've got to get things in shape here this morning and it is up to you fellows to see that it is done right." This used to be the customary greeting of the mess sergeant to the cooks on duty the morning he was to draw rations at the commissary. He was all on edge to be the first there to draw rations and get away from the hot sun if it were summer or if it were winter get back by a fire.

Now this is a thing of the past. A schedule has been prepared and every organization furnished a copy. Every mess sergeant has an appointed time to appear to draw his rations for the week. It is useless for him to appear before the time prescribed on his schedule for he will have to wait till his turn. On the other hand he must be there at the time called for or else the next man will take his place and the issue of supplies will go on down the line till the last man. During this time the man who was late will have been waiting regardless of how great his presence back at his mess is needed. In other words this system might be compared with train schedules, if you want to catch a train you must be there at the proper time. If you miss it, you will have to wait for the next train, they will neither wait or come back for you.

Previous to the schedule system of issuing rations, which has been in effect only about two months, it was a common occurrence to see the mess sergeant or his representative from practically every organization of the garrison laughing and joking among themselves while waiting for the commissary to open. Under the old regime of issuing rations all of the time from the time the commissary opened in the morning till it closed at noon was consumed. At the present time it requires only two hours to issue rations for the entire garrison, or three minutes to the mess.

Another improvement in the present system over the old is that the requisitions for rations are placed two days before they are issued. When they are received, all supplies goes into a cage that has been built and the storeroom locked. The man who is drawing rations steps into a cage and he and the Q. M. representative together check off his supplies. Once they tally them they are carried outside and while they are being loaded on the wagon another man is having his supplies issued and check to him. Before this system was put into effect the mess sergeant brought his requisition with him the morning he drew his rations, presented it and then waited while the man from the Q. M. ran around in the stock room with the requisition and found the articles called for. During this time it often happened that one mess sergeant will tell one funny story to get the man issuing to laughing. When his back was turned another mess sergeant would grab an extra sack of sugar, flour or potatoes and throw it on his wagon then the two would divide the spoils.

According to Captain Mabbutt, the officer in charge of the commissary, two men are greatly responsible for the efficiency in which rations are issued. Corporals Eugene Fletcher and George Parker. Corporal Fletcher has charge of the issue of non-perishables and Corporal Parker the cold storage department. Each man has one assistant and together they receive and issue all rations for the garrison.

All mess sergeants of the garrison heartily approve of the method now employed as it saves them both time and worry. They all say they don't care what time they have to go for their rations, that the time makes little difference, it is the period consumed in waiting that counts and in the present system all waiting is dispensed with.

Rufus Miles and "Tanks" Grantham Will Clash in Main Event August 9

Good Preliminaries on Bill

The next fistic menu for the boxing fans will be held at the Post Arena on Thursday night, August 9th. As has been announced previously two big shows will be held each and every month. This departure from the former schedule of one bout a month will be the means of giving many of the Post boxers, who are improving with work, an opportunity to step out among the top lights and shortly see their name in heavy type as headliners.

Big Gunner DePratt of the 29th has been main attraction in the last two shows. Most of us could sit back and watch the machine gunner show his wares in each and every show, but to secure suitable opponents for him is another issue. DePratt will appear again early in September with a boxer well known in this vicinity.

On the next card as the main attraction will appear Tanks Grantham of the 15th Tank Battalion and Rufus Miles of Columbus, Ga. Old residents of Benning know that this mill has been in the making for over a year. These boxers have been on the verge of stepping into the ring at least a half dozen times but something always prevented their actual meeting. It was a difficult matter to bring them together as all the differences that have cropped out in the past had to be taken up one by one and smoothed out to the satisfaction of both.

Grantham, who is known as a master of the scientific end of the boxing game, has come to the realization that it is the man with the punch and aggressiveness who is the popular idol of the fans. The recent Tunney-Heeney battle in which the champion let science go to the winds and waded in made Tunney a hero overnight. Grantham has been training with the object in view of wading in with the opening gong and taking the offensive throughout. If he carries this determination into the ring with him the fans will see one of the windups of the year, for it is well known that Miles is of the same type.

With the wind-up scheduled as a real slashing affair, naturally the next feature of interest will be the bouts that lead up to the star event.

Though not booked as this column went to press the probability is that Red Keenan, the extremely popular red top of the 29th Infantry, will face his old rival, Mickey Kendricks, in the semi-windup of six rounds. If this bout is added to the card the interest it alone will create will be the means of again using the "standing room only" sign. Red is willing to meet Kendricks, but it is a question if the latter will be made to see the light.

A very popular boy who showed his wares on July 3rd is coming back in the person of Kid Griffin of Atlanta, Ga. Griffin is taking on Bruiser Brault of Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry. Brault is another of the contingent who failed to walk up the gangplank of the Amsterdam boat. He, like Walker Smith, will try his hand in a bout that is longer than the amateur requirements. This will be his bout over the six-round route, but as he has had no less than 60 engagements to his credit, it is believed that he will not have any trouble going the full distance. He is meeting a smart boxer in this Griffin entry and will have his hands full Thursday night.

Babe Asher and Pinkey Phillips will settle a long standing dispute over the four-round route. Big Gordy of the Q. M. Corps takes on a hard nut in Billy Shell in a bout of like distance, while Battling Sam steps out with Macedonian Alexander in the opener.

In sizing up the card, it is believed that action will be the by-word from the start to finish. This card has been turned over to the boys who carry little weight on their frames but who are known to be fast and hard hitters. The first bout will be started at 7:45 P. M.

Reservations will be placed on sale at all orderly rooms Saturday, August 4th.

RETURNS FROM VACATION

Mr. C. S. Grimes, chief steward of the Post Exchange returned to Fort Benning Monday and is back on the jo bagain. He and family have spent several weeks the guests of relatives at several points in North Carolina.

CAPT. S. G. SAULNIER

GREEN-BROWN WEDDING OF INTEREST HERE

Of much interest to friends at Fort Benning and throughout the army is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Katherine Green of Washington, Ga., to Captain Lloyd Davidson Brown on Saturday, July the twenty-eighth, at the home of the bride. Miss Green is a daughter of one of Georgia's most aristocratic families, a young woman of unusual charm and capability. She is a graduate of the Georgia State College for Women and of Columbia University and has had the advantage of most extensive European travel. Capt. Brown has been stationed for six years at Fort Benning, where he, after graduating from the Company Officers Class, was for four years an instructor in the Infantry School. This past year he was a graduate of the Advanced Class. Captain Brown is a scholarly officer, a brilliant student. After August 25th he and Mrs. Brown will be at home to their many friends at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where Capt. Brown will be a student.

MOONLIGHT PICNIC HELD IN HONOR BENNING VISITOR

On Wednesday evening as a special compliment to Miss Harriet Garrels, of Washington, D. C., the guest of Lt. and Mrs. A. F. Haynes, Capt. and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge were hosts at a delightful moonlight picnic at Harp's Pond. The guests assembled at the Rutledge home at five o'clock and motored to Harp's Pond where after boating a bit, a most delicious picnic supper was served "de luxe" for there was a screened mess hall with tables, on which burned rows of candles, and there were stools for everybody, and best of all, no end of good food, with a climax of home-made peach ice cream and Devil's Food cake! Moreover there was music, and a gorgeous moon which was lovely over the dark southern pines and shimmering silvery in the water of the lily-studded pond. Those enjoying this party were: Capt. and Mrs. Weatherby, Lt. and Mrs. Walsh, Lt. and Mrs. Barr, Lt. and Mrs. Earle, Lt. and Mrs. Vinson, Lt .and Mrs. Haynes, Miss Garrels, Capt. Craig, Miss Doris Hall, Lt. Gilbreth, Lt. Hocker, Lt. Finney, Lt. Barker, Lt. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Bass Lewis of Columbus, and Capt. and Mrs. Rutledge.

Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Baker left Fort Benning this week for Danville, Illinois, where they will visit several weeks at the home of the latter's parents.

Capt. and Mrs. Walter T. Scott returned this week from a two months' visit in Kansas City, the guests of relatives.

* * *

Lieut. and Mrs. O. C. Mood have returned to Fort Benning after spending some weeks visiting relatives at Summerton, S. C.

Miss Marriet Garrels, of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Allen F. Haynes.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Martin Barndollar ,who were stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J., the past year, are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Washburn for a few days. The Barndollars are en route to Ft. Riley where Capt. Barndollar will be a student this year.

* * *

On Saturday evening Mrs. V. G. Huskea honored her husband with a surprise party. The occasion was the Captain's birthday and about sixteen friends were served a delicious Dutch supper.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. E. J. Curren left by motor Sunday for Virginia where they will spend their vacation.

Miss Bess Berry entertained at a delightful bridge party on Tuesday morning honoring some charming visiting girls who are leaving this week for their various homes. There were three tables of players.

* * *

Mrs. A. J. Nichols honored Mrs. Martin Barndollar, the guest of Mrs. Washburn, and Mrs. Hall, of Macon, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Woodward, with a charming morning bridge party this morning.

* * *

Misses Lurline and Mary Jane Parker, of Fairburn, Ga., arrived Thursday for a visit to Lt. and Mrs. Vinson. This morning Mrs. Vinson entertained informally at bridge in their honor.

* * *

Lt. A. A. McNamee, who is stationed at Northwestern University, arrives today for a visit to Maj. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Young. In two weeks he and Mrs. McNamee will go to Washington, D. C., to visit his parents, Col. and Mrs. M. M. McNamee, before their return to Chicago.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue mention was made of the visit of General E. E. Booth at Fort Benning last summer. It was stated that Gen. Booth was retired here, which was in error, the writer confusing him with Gen. B. A. Poore, who was retired at Fort Benning last summer.

MARINE WILL GET THE NEWS IN NICARAGUA

We received a letter the other day from Miss Florence Nelson, of Palo Alto, Calif., directing that the address at which her brother, O. W. Nelson, is receiving the NEWS, be changed to 11th Regiment, Marines, in Nicaragua.

Pedestrians used to be run down at the heels. Motorists don't specialize now.

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 3 TO AUG. 10, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 3

"HONOR BOUND," starring George O'Brien with Estelle Taylor in a daring drama in a convict labor camp. The story is an expose of convict labor as it prevails in the coal mine district of the south, where grasping exploiters, through political affiliations, contract for the labor of the prisoners, then extract from them every ounce of energy through the use of the lash and other terrible means of torture. A romance binds the theme of this story.

"Sailors Beware." Roach Comedy.

SATURDAY, AUG. 4

"THE WAGON SHOW," starring Ken Maynard in a circus story filled with thrills. He performs the same daredevil stunts that lifted him to heights of stardom in Ringling Brothers' Circus. The story takes you back seventy-four years where followers of the tan bark traveled in wagons, and depicts the hardships they endured. They fought rainstorms, blizzards and blinding heat, yet never failed to produce. A deft love theme is carried throughout the picture.

"Dumb Daddies." Max Davidson.

SUNDAY, AUG. 5

"RAMONA," starring Dolores Del Rio and Warner Baxter in a filmization of the famous book by Helen Hunt Jackson, one of America's love classics—a gripping story from beginning to end.

For those who are not familiar with "Ramona," it is a tale of love in nineteenth century California, depicting the romance of a beautiful half-breed girl and her Indian lover; and the terrible consequences of the white man's greed. This story is considered a big successor to the powerful picture "Resurrection." The music accompanying the picture is beautiful. The Main Theater orchestra, will, on this occasion, present an appealing rendition.

"A Blaze of Glory." Fables.

"Paramount News No. 104."

MONDAY, AUG. 6

"THE SLAVER," featuring Pat O'Mally with Carmelita Geraghty in a stirring melodrama of the deep sea. The picture is an adaptation of the story by James Oliver Curwood. The theme is that of a girl, willful and headstrong, who wanted to see life in the big world before she married. In spite of the warnings and pleas of her mother, she has her own way, and things happen. She found a man whom she thought could show her the world—overheard a brutal skipper bargain to trade her for a hundred slaves—She traveled a rough road until the awakening; her tribulations made her a wiser, but sadder girl. This story will grip you through until the happy ending.

"Haunted Island No. 6."

TUESDAY, AUG. 7

"GRANDMA'S BOY," starring Harold Lloyd in five thousand feet of laughter. He was scared in his cradle and schooldays, and afraid to use his fist to defend himself against others. He grew up that way and finally fell in love—still he quaked with fear until something happened. Then Grandma's boy not only catches the desperado, but actually subdues him in a series of fast moving, well gauged events. You'll "laff" at this one, no matter how sour balled you may be.

"Smith's Modiste Shop." Smith Family.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 8

"THE HANGMAN'S HOUSE," featuring Victor McLaglen, star of "What Price Glory," in one of the greatest roles of his career. In this story he takes the part of a soldier of the Foreign Legion on leave to avenge his family honor. It is a fascinating tale laid in romantic Ireland among blazing castles, racing horses and wending a love warmth that conquored jealousy and won happiness.

"Paramount News No. 105."

THURSDAY, AUG. 9

"BEYOND LONDON'S LIGHTS," a seething melodrama starring Adrianne Dori, the girl who won the Miss Los Angeles beauty contest in 1925 among 20,000 contestants. It is a love story of indiscribably gripping power and pathos, bound by mystery and staging a continuity of climaxes that grips the attention from beginning to end. It is staged in Trafalgar Square, Picadilly and Drury Lane. If you like tantalizing novels that keep you up all night, reading—here's your meat.

"A Gallant Gob." Billie Dooly.

FRIDAY, AUG. 10

"THE MAGNIFICENT FLIRT," starring Florence Vidor in a story of modern, gay, laughing Paris, set in the homes of the wealthy and in the world famed cafes and cabarets. It is a peppery, fiery story with situations that will bring gasps. You'll like it.

SWIMMING

(By Lt. T. L. Dunn)

Explanation of the Breast Stroke:

Assume the body to be lying flat in the water, face down arms extended over head, palms turned in.

First movement.

Rotate palms outward and draw arms on line with shoulders. On this movement inhale through mouth.

Second movement.

Break arms to the front, so that the upper arms slope from the shoulders at an angle of forty-five degrees and the finger tips touch about six inches in front of chin. While this movement of the arms is being executed the legs should be drawn up, knees wide apart, toes turned out with heels not more than four inches apart.

Third movement.

Straighten legs to the side and bring them together straight with a snap, at the same time shoot the arms forward and exhale through the nose in the water. Hold this movement until the glide given by the legs drive has been expended. Then repeat first, second and third movements in order.

PROMOTIONS IN I. S. D.

Upon recommendation of the commanding officer of the I. S. D. the following men were promoted recently: To be master sergeant, Sgt. George H. Baehr; to be sergeant, Corporal Hardwick W. Shurling. The former is on duty at headquarters, The Infantry School.

Major: "Hey, you brought me the wrong pair of boots. One of these is tan and the other one is black."

Orderly: "I know sir, but the other pair is the same way."

SOCCER FOOTBALL IN FORT BENNING

"Bully", "Knock-On", "Bye", "Yolley", "Feed", are some of the few new expressions that will soon be heard around Fort Benning, and to the spectators, these confused jumblings will sound more like the mutterings of a pullman car conductor calling off the stops at terminal stations.

With just two more months of baseball and the interest in athletics at fever pitch, the Infantry School Athletic Association are planning an extensive athletic program for the winter months to fill in the period of inactivity between baseball and football seasons.

In this program is SOCCER. Though not very well known to the public in general, this game is rapidly becoming th sport in the North. Anyone who has been in the North during the past three years will remember the fast Hakoah eleven from Vienna and the thrilling games that were played with the All-American teams both in Chicago and New York.

The interest in the Intercollegiate League for the past year was greater than it has ever been due to the fact that at various stages of the competition, there was considerable doubt as to who was likely to win the championship. The increase of the number of preparatory and high schools playing the game indicated that the development of the game among the school boys is progressing, rapidly, particularly in the larger cities. Metropolitan cities, such as New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston and others are now exerting every effort to promote soccer. The city of New York, is at present, making arrangements to organize teams to play a series of Soccer games in and around their locality.

Although at present, this post cannot hope to compete with the above mentioned cities, due to lack of proper facilities, still interest enough can be stimulated so as to bring out the talcnt among the men that have been lying hidden these many years.

The Tanks, for the past two years, has had an intra-company league in soccer and while most of the players had never played before, the game nevertheless proved a success. Lt. Theodore L. Dunn, who was in charge of the teams and incidentally a former college soccer star, gave the men the benefit of his experience and as a result, many excellent games were played.

While the Tanks are the only ones in the post who have participated in this vigorous sport, it is believed interest enough can be stimulated among the different organizations in the garrison so as t ohave both an intra-company and intra-mural league in soccer. Some organizations who are handicapped by having a lesser number of personnel and limited funds will find this game beneficial in keeping up the morale in the fact that their organizations can be represented in some athletic activity in the Post with the expense at a minimum.

With this in view, competition between the different organizations (who cannot afford football) will be very keen and the writer believes tha tlater on a team good enough ca nbe formed in the Post to play outside teams.

A little about soccer: Association soccer is played by two teams each composed of eleven players, and as in football the object of the game is to carry the ball down the field for a goal not by passing and carryin gbut by means of either dribbling the ball with the feet or a series of passes, passing the ball with well placed kicks to colleagues. The feature of the game is the fact that a player has to use his head at all times, not only for quick thinking in action, but also for direct playing of the ball, as in soccer the ball can be advanced by moving the ball forward with any part of the body with the exception of the arms and hands, the advantage of using the hands being given only to the goal keeper.

As the field is 110 yards long and the game for a duration of 90 minutes, speed, wind and endurance will play the integral part of the game. More about soccer later.

RECRUIT CENTER NOTES

We have with us this week another "old timer," Private Nicholas F. Imandt. He served with the Infantry Troops during the World War, and has put up an enlistment in China. After staying out for two years he decided to re-enlist for the Engineers at Fort Benning. Maybe he will spend the rest of his time here, who knows?

After doing straight duty for about two years, Cpl. Smith is back with us again. He sure knows his stuff as Supply Sergeant.

Why does Corporal Reeser leave for town, almost every afternoon, can anybody in Company "A" tell us?

The "Non-Coms" have been working hard lately, trying to show the recruits how to be good soldiers; come and see how they are succeeding. I think our quarters will stand the race with almost any of them, considering the equipment they have to work with.

Can be heard in barracks around 8:30 P. M.:

"I didn't have to join the Army, left a good job and a big car at home."

"I think I will buy out at the end of a year, just wanted the experience."

"I know its so. I came in because I was hungry."

Some young lady named Corporal Hanson "cold foot." For full particulars see Corporal Hanson, Company "F".

"Why do you always read in bed?"

"My books are always full length novels."

TUSKEGEE TAKES TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The Regimental Tennis Team participated in some very interesting matches Saturday afternoon, July 28th. Their opponents, on this occasion, were the Tuskegee Tennis Club of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. The visitors arrived at 11:30 A. M. and were entertained at lunch in Mess No. 1. After lunch the party adjourned to the new regimental courts where the matches started at 1:30 P. M. Doctor W. A. Spencer, of Columbus, and Mr. E. G. Farrley, Secretary of the Army Branch Y. M. C. A. officiated. Many spectators from Columbus, Tuskegee and Fort Benning witnessed the games which developed into a round of close, well played tennis. While Tuskegee showed superiority in the doubles matches, the 24th Infantry had very little trouble winning in the singles, both for ladies and men. Sergeant William R. Powell of Company "G" and Mrs. J. W. Cranston, wife of Warrant Officer Cranston, were the outstanding players of the day, winning both of their matches by a large margin. The most hotly contested match was the mixed doubles in which the 24th Infantry was represented by Warrant Officer R. V. Tresville and Mrs. Charles Thompson. This match, though eventually won by Tuskegee, was very close and extra game sets were the rule rather than the exception. Mr. Tresville and Mrs. Thompson demonstrated real team-work during this match. While this tournament was the first played on the 24th Infantry courts it is by no means the last as arrangements have been made for several such matches. On Thursday, August 3, the Columbus Y. M. C. A. will play the 24th Infantry Tennis Team on the Regimental Courts, the games starting at 1:00 P. M.

Major E. O. Powers, who has been absent sick in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., since April 1st, is expected back for duty with the regiment in the near future. Upon his arrival he takes command of the First Battalion which has been, since his absence, commanded by Major J. W. G. Stephens.

Major W. J. G. Stephens left on August 1st on a month's leave of absence which he will spend visiting relatives in Virginia. Upon his return to Fort Benning in September Major Stephens will attend the Advanced Course of the Infantry School.

Lieut. George C. Carrington, who since June 1st has been Adjutant of the 1st Battalion, left July 31 for leave and change of station. Lieut. Carrington will, on the expiration of his leave, attend the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

The 2nd Battalion completed its record practice on Shelton Range July 28th. Excellent results were attained in all companies and the battalion now carries on its roster the names of 89 men who qualified as Expert riflemen. Sergeant George C. Wright of Company "G" has the distinction of making the highest score of the regiment, his record being a total of 333.

BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

The first half is over with the exception of a few postponed games the result of which will have a distinct bearing on the percentage column of Class A and Class C. leagues.

The 2nd Bats in the B League romped home an easy winner in their division winning every game in which they took part. They had a few close shaves towards the end of the race but proved they could come from behind and pull a game out of the fire when called upon.

The fight for second place in this league called for a playoff between the 15th Tankers and the fighting 83rd Field Artillery. Sunday afternoon found these two clubs playing before the largest crowd of the season. With both teams evenly matched and putting out to the limit for every point, the bugs were treated to a real article of ball. Nip and tuck Cobb and Buckley's crews fought it out. First one and then the other took the lead and it was not until the very end when a low ball got past third that the game was on ice by the narrowest margin 5 to 4 in favor of the Tankers.

In this game both pilots were shining lights with the stick and in the field. Buckley cut in with a sweet catch of a smoking liner close in on the grass and turned it into a fast double play. This pulled Paschall out of a bad hole.

Cobb's two timely blows went a long way in bringing the count of runs up to five. This kind of rivalry is what makes the old game get better as the years roll by.

Red Lindsay, the Tankers iron man, attempted the impossible by pitching three days in a row. Rowan who relieved him pitched nicely and held the Artillerymen safe.

Looking over the batting averages it will be surprising to learn that Red is hitting at a .395 clip. Wasting many a hit early in the season by cutting too soon at the ball, Red is now managing the left center field area and getting the majority of his blows safe. Twice on Sunday he hit toward right field. This is the pasutre that managers spend many an hour teaching youngsters the advantages of hitting there.

The Engineers and the Service Co., 29th Infantry held the limelight in a double header Monday afternoon. These two teams battled well on to dark with no appreciable difference in their standing at the end. In the opener McDuffy the Service Company flinger was master of the entire situation. This ace of the Muleskinners turned in as nice a brand of pitching as has been seen at Gowdy Field this year. His hook was a mystery to the league leaders. Only once was he in hot water when two errors placed men on first and second with none out. Tightening up he forced the next hitter to fly to the shortstop and then to make it a one man jon he fanned the next two without the semblance of a foul.

McDuffy was elected to pitch the second game also, but the Herculean effort in winning the first by the score of 2 to 1 was too much under a broiling sun and he gave way to Sisco who finished the game.

Big Perkins of the Engineers also turned in a smart brand of ball that would have won nine games out of ten, but he was facing McDuffy who was unbeatable Monday.

The second game started off with all the suspense as the opener, but turning back that big crew of the Engineers twice in one afternoon is more than a mere effort. When McDuffy vanished in the third inning of the second game the hitherto silent war clubs of the pace makers started a merry tattoo on the horsehide and they won going away 8 to 2.

Pilot Lavin of the Service Company started the first game on the north edge of the dugout. Before the fifth inning he had traversed the length of the bench four time making it necessary for the substitutes to use the grass in front as a resting place. Shades of Hughey Jennings.

We have news for the supporters of the Class A league. The race is so close in the junior circuit that it will be necessary to play every one of the postponed games caused by the rain in the early part of this month. Further, their second half will not start until the 5th or 6th of August instead af the 2nd as now arranged. A new mmeber was admitted to the league at the last meeting making it a six-club fight. The 17th and 72nd Ordnance Companies will enter a club to be known as the Ordnance Detachment. This addition will rseult in an entirely new schedule being arranged to accommodate the baby member.

The inability of the 24th Infantry to carry out their program of games owing to range conditions has caused a standstill to ensue in the C circuit. Another feature that will cause a bit of confusion in getting this league caught up on its postponed games is the fact that the regimental team is contemplating a road trip, which, if it is carried out, will take the cream of the Red and Blue players away from the Post for an indefinite period.

Just as this column was sent to the press room word arrived that the cellar occupants, the Gas Co., Med. Det. team, playing their first game under their new leader, Lieutenant Sullivan, turned back the fast going Q'Emmers by the overwhelming score of 19 to 3. Quite a few faces were missing from the QM lineup, however, this will not detract any credit from the rejuvenated tail enders who played the game for all it is worth.

Brody, the 1st sacker of the QM team, plays a nice game around the initial sack. Many bad throws to him look like perfect pegs for he has the faculty of shifting his feet and reaching six feet on either side of the bag.

It was thought that a week's rest for the B circuit would be welcomed by every club. Just the reverse seems to be the case. All the clubs are at the peak of their form and anxious to get started again. The 2nd half should be a pretty race.

(Editor's Note: The above story written for last week's issue, but due to lack of space account the fight stories, impossible to print in that issue.)

With the News going to press Thursday morning little comment can be made on the outcome of the 7th Engineer-Service Company, 29th Infantry game scheduled for Thursday afternoon, August 2. By the time this column is read the game will be history and the champions of the first half will be rejoicing.

This past week has seen so many upsets that to attempt to pick the winner would be simply a blind guess. When the final analysis is in it will be a matter of just how good McDuffy or Perkins was on the day in question. The last time these two pitchers met McDuffy nosed out a 2 to 1 victory over the big Engineer pitcher. If both are right on the 2nd, one run will be sufficient for the winner, unless that great uncertainty in the game crops up where a boot throws the whole club up in the air.

In this league the interest was apparent throughout the entire first half. Up until the very last week four of the five clubs had a chance at the pennant, making it necessary to run into the second half to finally decide the winner. With one game to play there was a tie for first place. This is as close as you will find them.

Getting away August the 5th the Class A league will comprise seven clubs instead of six as previously announced. The Ordnance Detachment will submit a new team, while the Gas and Medical outfits instead of acting as one will hereafter have a club each. This junior circuit is getting hot, with every club bent on winning the second half.

Here's one for the book. Big Gilbert of the Medicos hit one over the left field fence that was easily the longest of the year. What a wallop this was.

Lieut. Sullivan of the Gas outfit was in his glory last week. First he walloped the QM aggregation 19 to 3; held the Service Company to a one run margin and then to show that he plays no favorites pulled the biggest surprise of the year by beating the league leaders 8 to 7. In this last game every man on the team was from the Gas Company making the victory a sweet memory for the stove league next winter. Watch this club in the second half.

Quite a few of the fight fans who witnessed the big fight card held at the Fort Benning Arena last Thursday, appeared to be a bit surprised that Gunner DePratt failed to win over Tommie Billiards by a knock out. Probably those same fans would be surprised to know that some of the leading lightheavy weights in the game today have failed to lay the sleep producer on Tommie, and some of those fights were over the fifteen-round route.

Billiards, though he has never attained championship caliber, is known to experts and critics of fightdom as one of the toughest exponents of the sock and slam art, in the game today. He has mixed leather with the best of them, including the mighty Dempsey. Tommie worked as one of Dempsey's sparring mates while he was training for his last fight with Tunney.

Thirteen years of glove slinging which has carried him from the coal mines of Pennsylvania to the bright lights of Madison Square Garden, Tommie Billiards has taken part in over three hundred ring battles and though losing quite a few of these battles by the decision, he has been counted out by a referee on just exactly two occasions.

Billiards himself was the most surprised man in Fort Benning at the end of his fight with DePratt. Coming here confident that he would easily stop the soldier battler, Billiards expressed his surprise in his first question to Captain Wilson after leaving the ring. "Where has that fellow been keeping himself?" he asked. Billiards expressed his surprise at the hitting power of the doughboy. "With his wallop and youth, DePratt will go a long ways in the fight game," was Tommie's reply, when asked his opinion of DePratt after the fight.

With Weary Willie Ptomey back in the pink of condition once more, fight fans are willing to let by gones be by gones, for we all make mistakes now and then. When Ptomey hurled his challenge which included any and every middleweight in the world, from the ring Thursday night, Fandom roared its approval, when he later specified that he preferred Dick White, loyal Columbus fans answered with a roar that shook the stands. Although White has been absent from the ring for the past year fandom would welcome him back to the roped arena, and with White and Ptomey in condition, a match between them would be worth traveling miles to witness.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Last week a typographical error caused us to place Sergeant Dubanowski in charge of the "platoon" press department. Of course, the print shop personnel is military and all that, but platoons are not in our line. What we tried to say was that "Rubie" is in charge of the platen press department. The amiable sergeant and assistant foreman prefers to continue as supervisor of the press gang and let the three-strippers of the combat units remain in charge of the platoons.

Private First Class Specialist Fourth Class Al Traut is now Private First Class Specialist Third Class Al Traut.

The writer of Ye Printe Shoppe Gossipe is now an officer—and a non-commissioned officer at that. Corporal Jenrette, if you please. And we might add that several of our intimate private-friends have warned us not to let the chevrons settle on our brain.

Johnny Heisler is still manipulating the keyboard of the old Model 5. But it's "Mr. Heisler" now. Four civilians in the print shop, and we soldiers have to keep reminding them that we were once "civies" too.

By the time this appears in print, John Middleton will be well on his journey to Lincoln, Nebraska. Soon as he is handed his pay envelope Tuesday he expects to turn his nose towards the setting sun and not rest until he has landed on the doorsteps of his home in the far western town. For two months John will stay where first calls, chow calls, and various other calls, are not known. However, two months is not very long and Middleton will be back almost before we know it, answering the telephone, making out job jackets and doing other clerical work in the office of Ye Printe Shoppe.

For some time we have noticed a certain corporal being more or less in a sad state of mind. Upon being put through the "third degree" he has finally confided to us his troubles. It seems that all is not well insofar as matters pertaining to him and his girl friends in Columbus are concerned. It appears that the corporal is sure unlucky as a courtier of the fairer sex. Our sympathies are all for you corporal.

CENTRAL MACHINE GUN-HOWITZER SCHOOL ESTABLISHED IN FIRST CORPS AREA

A novel plan for training of Machine Gun and Howitzer units is being carried on in the First Corps Area, where a central school has been established for that purpose. All Machine Gun and Howitzer units of the Corps Area have been under instruction there since June 20th. In addition a Howitzer Platoon from the 26th Infantry was sent to the school for a five days course of instruction.

The School is located near Underhill Center, Vermont, on a 6,000-acre tract of land recently acquired for use as an artillery target range. It is seventeen miles from Fort Ethan Allen in the Green Mountains where the climate and terrain are ideal for a thorough course of firing and tactical work.

A comfortable tent camp has been established for the 300 men, 14 officers and 100 animals on duty there. Farm buildings have been made suitable for school rooms and administration building. An electric power line has been carried in from a nearby town and springs have been piped to supply water for all purposes. A hot water heating system has been installed and this is a real convenience, for the air in Vermont is often cold in the early hours of the day in summer. In all respects the camp is in keeping with the high standards of the First Corps Area.

The course of instruction stresses direct and indirect laying and combat practice. The Infantry School system of instruction is followed. Systematic instruction in care of animals, harness, and transportation is carried on. This system and keen competition between regiments has brought about a standard that General Summerall has called "the highest in the Army."

The Chief of Staff, General Summerall, inspected this training center on July 26th, accompanied by General Brown, the Corps Area Commander. He expressed his approval of the centralized training system and was well satisfied with the administration of the School.

Captain George A. Murray, 5th Infantry, is Commandant and Camp Commander.

The instructors are Captain John E. Dahlquist, Infantry, and Captain Edward J. Maloney, 13th Infantry. The former has been an instructor in the Infantry School for the past four years and will be a student the coming year, taking the advanced course.

PRELIMINARY FIGHT CARD OF LAST THURSDAY NIGHT DECIDED SUCCESS

(By Al Durden)

Featured by a ten-round final bout that went the entire limit crowded with action all the way, the fight card held at the Fort Benning Area on the night of July 26, was by far the best ever witnessed here. From the opening bell until the final round the main-go, the card was featured with action.

Kid Taylor of the Engineers and Grady Martin of the Electric City opened hostilities. Martin clearly outclassed the Bridgebuilder, winning by a knockout in the third round. A bit of comedy that kept the stand in an up-roar for the next five minutes was staged by two members of the 24th Infantry. It was a slow motion bout with both fighters acting his part perfectly. The act was one big laugh with the final knockout bringing forth roars of applause and laughter.

Dallas Hunt of LaGrange won by a knockout over Pieters of the 29th Infantry. A unique feature of this fight was the fact that Pieters was actually knocked out three times. In the second round Hunt crossed a right to Pieters' jaw that knocked him through the ropes completely out, one second before the bell. His seconds carried him to his corner, he came out fighting at the opening of the third round, five seconds before the end of the third Pieters took another one on the button, he was out at the bell but fast work in his corner revived him. In the early part of the fourth Hunt drove a hard right to the jaw that ended the fight.

The fastest bout of the evening was the three-round bout between Thomas of the 29th Inf. and Kid Bray of Columbus, fighting in the lightweight class, these boys put up a fast exhibition with Thomas winning a close decision over the visiting battler.

Showing for the first time here, Oak De Pine of the 83rd F. A., took a terrible beating during the first and second rounds, but rallied gamely to rock and sock Kid Schell of Phenix City, from pillar to post in the closing round. Schell won the decision but another round would probably found him listening to the little birdies sing.

Fiske Williams, heavyweight champion of the 24th Infantry, outslugged Battling Nelson of LaGrange. This bout was featured by hard hitting by both battlers.

Billy Smith, former amateur heavyweight champion of the South, fought his first professional fight, a scheduled six-round bout with Pug Avera, Atlanta heavyweight. Avera is one of the few men who has been able to stay ten rounds with Young Stribling during the past year, and he was picked to win over Smith. Billy, who is a member of the 29th Infantry, upset the dope bucket when he boxed rings around Avera for the first four rounds and then gave the ole bucket an extra kick when he knocked Avera out in the fifth round.

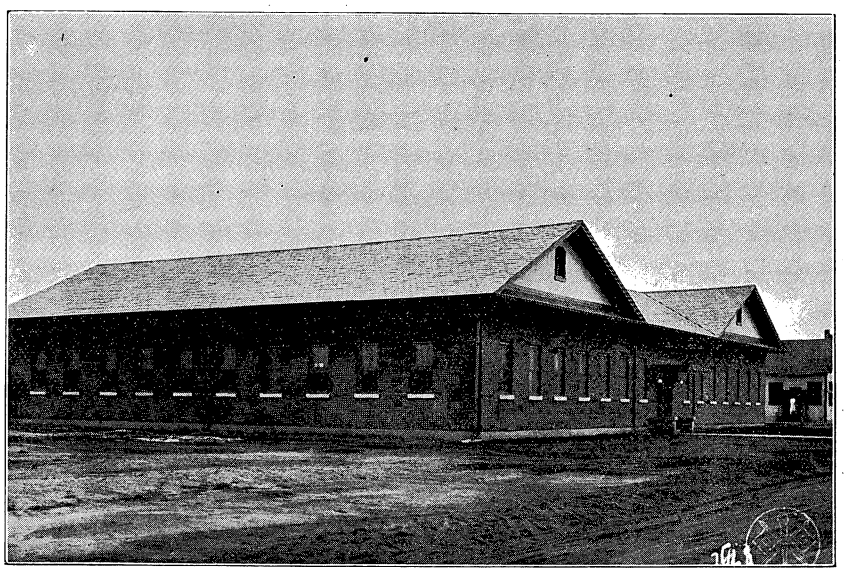
HOME OF ACADEMIC LIBRARY



INFANTRY SCHOOL LIBRARY OCCUPIES NEW BUILDING

Office of Quartermaster Completed; Loaned for Use of Big Library Pending Construction of Academic Building

The Infantry School Academic Library has a new home. About three months ago construction was begun on a one-story brick building opposite the academic area and the Post Exchange grocery store. The building was recently completed and last week the Academic Library was formally opened for business in the new structure. This building has been designated as the office of the Quartermaster of the Infantry School, but it has been loaned to the Academic Department for use as the library.

The structure is a very imposing one standing on the corner of two of Fort Benning's principal thoroughfares and in the center of all activities of the Infantry School. It will be a great convenience to student officers.

Few people realize what a valuable collection of books dorn the shelves of the Academic Library. There are approximately 3,000 books with a valuation of about $40,000. The major part of the books are professional, dealing with technical subjects, both military and commercial. There is no doubt that it is one of the most complete reference libraries in this section of the country.

Formerly the library was housed in a frame building in the academic area. In this building reading space was limited and the shelves crowded considerably over the two floors. The new structure affords ample room for the shelves and practically all of one wing is designated as a reading room which is also supplied with writing desks.

The officer in charge of the library is Capt. W. A. Collier. The assistant librarian is Miss Chappell; chief clerk, Master Sergeant W. J. Stewart, and assistant clerk, Sergeant Frank Crosby. The latter two have been on this duty for the past five or six years.

FORMER BENNING OFFICERS PARTICIPATE IN TENNIS MATCHES

Col. Wait C. Johnson Wins in Doubles Match; Lieut. Hedekin Loses Singles Match to Capt. VanVliet.

Colonel Wait C. Johnson and Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, Jr., won the finals in the doubles tennis match in Washington recently, defeating Capt. C. W. Christenberry and Major L. S. Hobbs, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. All of these officers were formerly stationed at the Infantry School, and were prominent in tennis matches held here within recent years. This match played on August 4.

In an article in the Washington Post, high praise was given the winners of this match. To quote: "Johnson and VanVliet mixed their shots with skill and advanced to the net often. They kept their opponents anchored to the base line with well laid force shots and pounded the corners of the court with forceful forehanded drives. VanVliet, cool and steady at all times, covered the court faultlessly while his partner, Col. Johnson, gave a brilliant exhibition of net play, coming in for many kills which won vital points."

The final play-off for the singles championship was between Capt. VanVliet of the Canal Zone and Lieut. Dave Hedekin, of Fort Benning. The former won the match in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2. With this title goes the Sheridan Cup and the singles championship of the United States Army.

RETURNS FROM EXTENDED MOTOR TRIP

Major R. M. Hollock, Judge Advocate of the Infantry School, returned to Fort Benning Monday after making a two months' motor trip. His trip extended from Fort Benning to Chattanooga, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Phoenix, El Paso, San Antonio, New Orleans, Pensacola and Tallahassee. He reports a splendid trip, visiting many army stations en route.

LIEUT. H. V. BROWN

Who has been on duty at the Post Exchange this summer left with his family on leave for Little Rock, Ark. They will remain there for a week or so and then motor to Fort Leonard Wood, Md., where Lieut. Brown will be a student at the Tank School next year. He attended the Inf. School the past year.

MAJOR E. G. SHERBURNE and family arrived at Fort Benning Tuesday from Fort Leavenworth, where Major Sherburne completed the course the past year. He graduated from the advanced class, Inf. School, in 1927, and has been detailed for duty on the staff of instructors of the Inf. School.

FIGHT RETURNS

Due to the fact that this paper went to press late Thursday evening it was impossible to publish the returns to the big fight card at the Fot Benning Arena last evening. It was a very attractive card, and we believe that our predictions for a successful fistic menu came true.

AT THE MOVIES

Aug. 10 to Aug. 17, Incl.

FRIDAY, AUG. 10

"THE MAGNIFICENT FLIRT," starring Florence Vidor in a story of modern, gay, laughing Paris, set in the homes of the wealthy and in the world famed cafes and cabarets. It is a peppery, firey story with situations that will bring gasps. You'll like it.

"Pathe News No. 62."

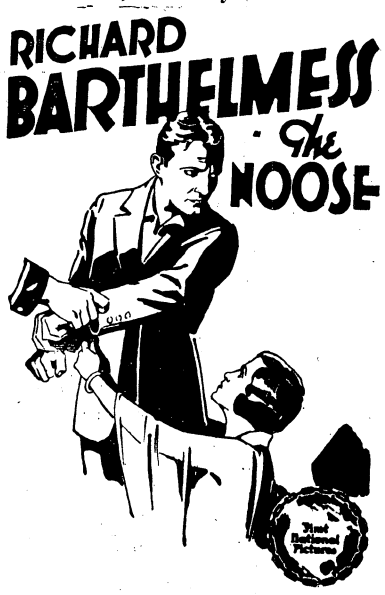
SATURDAY, AUG. 11

"WYOMING," starring Tim McCoy and Dorethy Sebastian in the pulsating rapid fire story of a girl who leads the way across the great Oregon trail—truly the road to romance. It is a tale vibrating with action, wild travel over the rock-ribbed roads in a stage, clever horsemanship and Indian fighting.

"Family Group." Charlie Chase.

SUNDAY, AUG. 12

"THE NOOSE," starring Richard Barthelemess, Alice Joyce and Lina Basquette in one of Broadway's most famous dramas of the underworld. It takes you to the blare of the cabarets where intrigue among bootleg kings, gunmen and gangsters is manifest. Here is a boy who killed in the name of justice was sentenced to the chair, and was willing to die in the name of his mother's honor. High political authorities are involved. It is a story of crime, honor, justice and fearlessness. For this picture special musical numbers are being prepared by Captain George L. King, who is now sojourning in the Black Hills, of North Carolina.



"The County Fair." Fables.

"Paramount News No. 106."

MONDAY, AUG. 13

"A BLONDE FOR A NIGHT," featuring Marie Prevost and Harrison Ford in a big laugh from start to finish. Gay Paris is the background for this picture. A couple, after an acquaintance of only two tdays, become married. Shortly afterward the groom meets a former sweetie and the bride a former jilted suitor—circumstances begin to entwine both of them, the entwining is funny and the unraveling funnier. It is just one chuckle after another.

"Haunted Island No. 7."

TUESDAY, Aug. 14

"WHY SAILORS GO WRONG," starring Sammy Cohen with Ted McNamara in a story of high sea roamers in romantic hot water. These incomparable comedians were taken from a big city into the heart of the jungle and found themselves in dangerous situations, confronted with lions, cannibal chiefs and hula girls. The wild men are as menacing as the hula girls are intriguing. Through strategy a la blackbottom they completely conquer the island and what a time they have, especially when one is given his choice between a cannibal maid for a wife and death. Cohen will give you the same type of laughs in this picture that he gave in "What Price Glory."

"Pathe News No. 7."

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 15

"LADIES OF THE MOB," starring Clara Bow and Richard Arlen in a powerful melodrama depicting glimpses of the underworld in two great cities, the intimate lives of the law breaking and the women who follow them to death or to prison. It is a story imbued with the spirit of reckless abandon, which inspires these men and women who spend their lives outside the pale of society.

THURSDAY, AUG. 16

"THE MISSING LINK," featuring Syd Chaplin in a riot of hilarity. A faint hearted male is made a lion hunter, he shocks the knock-kneed hero who is stalked by lions, captures the missing link, and doubts are aroused regarding his sanity. He offers fudge to pacify the jungle beast and finally is himself captured. As far as plot is concerned, what does it matter when Syd Chaplain is busy every moment outdoing a Simian clown in monkey business?

"Silk Sock Hal." Karnival.

FRIDAY, AUG. 17

"WALKING BACK," starring Sue Carroll in a story of jazz mad youth, speeding, drinking, dancing, necking, the four mile stones of ultra modern boys and girls. The plot deals with the most advanced type of high school boys and girls, showing both the dangers and delights that are strewn in their speedy paths. The father, stern, unrelenting and at times unjust, guided by rules of yesteryear. The son, a product of swift moving times, exuberant, peppy, wide awake, truthful and brave. This story is packed with thrills and humor.

Tuesday morning Mrs. C. D. Roberts asked the young girls of the post who are eligible for membership in the Daughters of the United States Army to meet at her quarters and she explained to them the aims and objects of this newly formed society. Much interest was shown by everyone and they each expect to become a member and are counting on interesting their other Army girl friends to join too. Thev all realize that the larger membership the more interesting will the society become. Those present at the meeting were the Misses Wells, Alice Torrey, Becky Hill, Sarah Schallenberger, London Reed, Louise Young, Kate Kingman and Bess Berry. Miss Kingman and Miss Berry have been members for some time.

Maj. and Mrs. John W. Wogan, the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Jerry M. Huddleston, were honorees at a delightful theatre party on Friday evening, given by Capt. and Mrs. J. L. Collins.

* * *

On Saturday evening Capt. Pleas B. Rogers was given a stag dinner by a group of his friends at the 24th Infantry Officers Mess. This party was a farewell to Capt. Rogers who leaves the 24th Infantry to be a student at the Infantry School this autumn.

Maj. and Mrs. T. F. Taylor and family are spending their leave at Warm Springs, prior to joining the 29th Infantry in September. Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Kovaick were guests of Maj. and Mrs. Taylor at the Warm Springs Hotel last Sunday.

* * *

Miss Harriet Garrels, of Washington, D. C., was guest of honor at a lovely three table bridge party on Friday afternoon given by Mrs. David Barr at her quarters in Block 23. The house was effectively decorated with gay summer flowers, and the tea table with its handsome imported cloth of Italian cut work and filet was especially lovely. Its centerpiece was a large brass bowl filled with Zennias surrounded by tall brass candlesticks holding orange colored candles. The first prize, a shoulder corsage, was won by Mrs. Serena Brett, the consolation, a set of hand-painted curtain-pulls, by Mrs. C. T. Davis, the tea guest's prize, a maderia handkerchief case, by Mrs. E. P. Earle, and the guest of honor, Miss Garrels, was given a lovely hand-embroidered tea apron. After the game, a delicious peach ice cream with Angel Food cake was served.

Misses Lurline and Mary Jane Parker have been guests of honor at a series of delightful informal bridge parties since their arrival last Thursday for a visit to Lt. and Mrs. W. H. Vinson. On Friday morning Mrs. Vinson entertained three tables of bridge. Mrs. Cecil Rutledge won first prize. Mrs. Robert A. Case second. After the game, frozen salad, sandwiches and tea were served. On Friday afternoon they were Mrs. David Barr's guests at tea. On Sunday they were honorees at a movie party. On Monday morning Mrs. Ivan L. Foster entertained one table of bridge. Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst won the prize, a Houbigants compact. After the game an ice course was served. On Tuesday morning Mrs. Raymond P. Lovin honored the Misses Parker with a bridge luncheon. Her attractive home was gay with bowls of garden flowers. Mrs. Rothwell H. Brown made highest score and was given a pair of white chiffon hose. Mrs. Vinson won second prize, a box of Houbigants dusting powder. Each honoree was presented a box of French powder. After the game a delicious two course luncheon was served. Those present were: Mrs. Holmes Dager, Mrs. Leonard Boyd, Mrs. Bob Childs, Mrs. Henry Brandhorst, Mrs. Wilbur Vinson, Mrs. Rothwell Brown, Misses Lurline and Mary Jane Parker. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. R. A. Case hoonred the Misses Parker with a lovely three table bridge party. Mrs. John Russell Deane and Mrs. Walter Scott won first and second prizes, colorful Chinese parasols, and the honor guests received jars of bath powder. After the game peach ice cream and cake were served. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst complimented the Misses Parker with a charming three table bridge party. Pivot bridge was played and those winning lovely hand-painted handkerchiefs, table prizes, were Mrs. A. D. Rothrock, Mrs. Bob Childs and Miss Lurline Parker. After the game tasty sandwiches were served with punch and apricot sherbet.

The manv friends of Lt. and Mrs. Jeff D. Box will be grieved to learn of Mrs. Box's death in a sanatorium in Jacksonville, Fla., on Monday, August 6th. Mrs. Box has been in declining health for some time and they went to New Mexico several months ago in the hope that the change would prove beneficial. Only recently had thev returned. Lt. Box was stationed with the 29th Infantry for several vears and it was during this service that he met the lovely Ann Lumpkin, of Columbus, whom he married just before his service in Panama. Because of her ill health he resigned while on this foreign duty and came to Columbus where they have lived until a few moths ago.

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC AT MAIN THEATRE LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

Pleasing in its entirety was the exceptional music rendered by the Main Theater orchestra last Sunday evening, Aug. 5. As usual a prelude preceded the News reel, then during the showing of the "Eyes of the World," by Paramount, the orchestra played appropriate numbers to fit the theme of each individual event; incidentally this required ten complete changes in music; so well was this done that the ears and eyes of the audience were carried to the spots where the events took place.

During the intermission the orchestra played "On The Alamo," by Ishan Jones. It was ably rendered.

Shortly before the showing of the feature picture "Ramona," the orchestra started, as a prelude, the melodious strains of the song by the same name. As the theater lights dimmed and the introduction to the picture was focused on the screen a human voice, hidden in the darkness breathed forth the fulcet melody "Ramona"; an awe stricken silence settled upon the theater, people at first could not believe their ears, then came the realization that some one was actually singing. How well the song fitted the picture. This number ended, the walls of the auditorium fairly shook with applause, in fact so vehement was it that the orchestra was forced to refrain from playing for some moments. The applause having died away the orchestra resumed its music. The story in itself is beautiful, adding to its beauty appropriate music made the finished product supreme. This was done. The principal theme used, of course, was "Ramona" composed by Mable Wayne, author of the popular number, "In a Little Spanish Town." Among other numbers used in this presentation were, "In a Spanish Village," from Don Quixote by Safranek, a retired army band leader and noted composer and arranger; and "Fallen Leaf," an Indian Lyric, by Frederick Knight Logan, famous composer of Indian music. Forty-eight changes of music were used in cueing this picture; they were so well handled by the orchestra that all action of the picture were in perfect harmony with the music.

Little do we realize the amount of work required in the preparation of music for a picture of this character. This is done by Sergeant Ralph R. Wright, orchestra leader. As much as two weeks in advance he studies the story of the picture and using a cue sheet, furnished by the producers, starts laying aside music that will fit the various themes of the story. Having selected the basic numbers he chooses those selections which will most perfectly fit the trend of the story and marks them. Then comes rehearsals and when the orchestra enters the pit it is prepared to render appropriately synchronized music.

Much credit is due the Main Theater orchestra for their remarkable work. It has been authentically stated that there is no other post in the army that can boast an orchestra that compares with this one. They are all members of the 29th Infantry band, and the type of men who perform their duties because they like to, rather than because they have to; consequently harmony exists among them and their work is efficient.

This Main Theater orchestra is composed of the following 29th Infantrymen:

Sergeant Ralph R. Wright, Leader and Pianist.

Staff Sergeant Benjamin J. Meeks, Trombone.

Sergeant Roy C. Hanson, Violin.

Sergeant Charles F. Younger, First Trumpet.

Sergeant Joseph Villa, Bass.

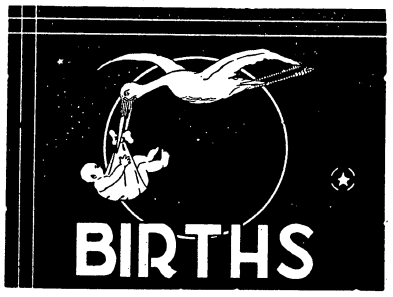
Corporal Earnest Orlando, Cello.

Private First Class Bronslaw Zukowski, Oboe.

Private First Class Algernon S. Hollinger, Bassoon.

Private First Class Tony Sabino, Clarinet.

Private First Class Carl J. Ranta, Tympani and Drums.



Helena Virginia Funk, on July 25, 1928. Daughter of Corp. and Mrs. Robert R. Funk, Hq. Co., 29th Infantry.

Robert Hugh Huffenberger, on July 29, 1928. Son of Sgt. and Mrs. Hugh Huffenberger, Serv. Co., 29th Infantry.

Myrtle Leona Scipio, on July 31, 1928. Daughter of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Louis A. Scipio, Hq. Co., 24th Infantry.

Ann Lane Skelton, August 3, 1928. Daughter of 1st. Lieut. and Mrs. Winfred George Skelton, Infantry.

LIEUT. CLYDE GRADY LEAVES FIFTEENTH TANK BATTALION

Lieutenant Clyde Grady, editor of this paper since it first appeared on Thanksgiving Day, 1925, left on July 31st, to take advantage of a leave, which will terminate just in time for him to report on September 20th to the Infantry School as a student. While on leave Lieutenant and Mrs. Grady will visit Orlando, Fla., Havana, Cuba, Roanoke, Va., Washington, D. C., and New York City.

Lieutenant Grady and his unusual ability as a writer will be greatly missed, for to him goes the greater portion of the credit for the success of the Tank Battalion Weekly. He labored diligently, early and late, never failing to overcome any obstacle that crossed the path of his paper. As we take stock of the benefits derived from this small organization paper, during the past three years, we find this among others: Due to the editor's ability as a writer, many of the large publications have and have been glad to copy his articles into their own columns. From this, the 15th Tank Battalion and its esprit de corps has become well known, with the result that many excellent men have signed on the dotted line for a three yars sojourn with us.

Lieutenant Grady has carefully watched the progress of these men from tne date of their arrival and in his splendid style has written many articles on their outstanding achievements. These articles have invariably been copied by the home paper of the man concerned. Many letters have been received from proud parents who have read in the county paper of some outstanding achievement of their son.

With Lieutenant Grady goes the best wishes and thanks of the Commanding Officer, the officers and men of the 15th Tank Battalion. — (From 15th Tank Weekly.)

LOCAL SERVICE PAPER PUTS OVER A GOOD ONE

The editor and staff of the Infantry School News, which is published for the benefit of the garrison, are certainly to be commended for their splendid overnight issue of July 27, containing the news of the World's Heavyweight Championship bout and the local fight card. Even to our limited knowledge of the difficulties of publishing a paper, it is evident that there is a high degree of co-ordination and co-operation among those responsible to enable them to get the news to their readers so promptly.—(From 15th Tank Weekly.)

SWIMMING

A Few Don'ts For Crawl Swimmers

1. Don't chew gum while swimming. This may sound foolish but many persons persist in swimming with gum in their mouths and consequently tire quickly because of poor breathing.
2. Don't swim with water line above your eyes. It will cause loss of direction and necessitate an awkward roll in breathing. Consequently good form and speed are impaired.
3. Don't start the arm movements before the leg movements when picking up your strok. Two, four, six or eight beats of the flutter should be executed before arm movement is started.
4. Don't roll entire body when taking breath. Breaching should be obtained by a twist of the head.
5. Don't let your arms fall in the water. Elbow should be held high on the recovery and the arm straightened as the hand enters the water.

29TH INF. SOLDIERS PLEASES MAIN THEATRE AUDIENCE

Last Sunday evening on the advent of the presentation of "Romano" the audience at the Main Theater was delighted by a musical surprise. As usual the orchestra started the prelude to "Ramona", house lights were darkened and with the flashing of the introduction on the screen there came from a wing of the stage a human voice, singing the melodious strains of "Ramona." All wondered who the artist was, the secret is out. It was no less personage than Private Robert Birdsong, Company A, 29th Infantry. This number was directed by Sergeant Ralph R. Wright, leader of the Main Theater orchestra. It was so well coordinated with the picture that as the singer reached the words, "I hear the mission bells ringing. Other parts of the song were equally well synchronized with the picture.

Private Birdsong is to be highly complimented upon the successful rendition of the song "Ramona" on this occasion. Heavy applause from the audience showed the extent of its appreciation of the word of this unseen singer.

BENNING OFFICER ATTENDS FAMILY REUNION

Lieut. David L. Hardee, of the Inf. School instructor staff, is enjoying a few weeks' leave of absence. In a recent issue of the newspaper from Durham, N. C., a long story appeared telling about the reunion of the Hardee family at that place. It was the second event of its kind held within sixteen years with all members of the family present. Lieut. Hardee was present at this gathering.

REGIMENT COMPLETES RANGE FIRING

Company Dinners Feature Week

The completion of Range Practice by the 2nd Battalion finished the firing for the regiment this year. The high percentage of qualification and the many excellent scores made are a source of great satisfaction to all members of the regiment. Company "F" alone qualified 23 expert riflemen while Company "E" again attained the highest percentage of qualified men in any rifle company. This gives Company "E" the pennant offered each year by the regiment to the rifle company qualifying the greatest number of men. A brief outline of the firing record made by the regiment is as follows: Expert riflemen, 107; sharpshooters, 167; Marksmen, 355; number of men unqualified, 87. Percentage of qualified men in the regiment, 87.74 per cent.

Company "E" Celebrates

Company "E" was the scene of much activity and rejoicing on Monday evening when a special dinner in honor of the completion of range season was given. Company "E" has reason to celebrate, for they for the third consecutive time have won the coveted pennant awarded by the regiment to the company showing the greatest superiority in rifle marksmanship. As guests on this occasion the company had, Colonel Galleher and the regimental staff and all officers of the 2nd Battalion. An excellent fried chicken dinner was served, during which, Captain W. E. Seamon, Company Commander, presented the cash prizes won by members of his organization for excellence in shooting.

Service Company Farewell to Captain Rogers

The Service Company had as their guests on Friday evening, August 3rd, Colonel Galleher and the entire regimental staff. The occasion being a special chicken dinner given as a farewell to their departing commander, Captain Pleas B. Rogers. During the evening cash prizes, won by members of the organization, were awarded by Captain Rogers who remarked, that although he had been given the privilege of presenting the prizes to the men, he felt that all credit for the splendid record made by the company should go to Lieut. Sanders and Lieut. Landon, who, by hard work made such an excellent showing possible. During the dinner, Captain Rogers spoke briefly to his men, stating that although he regreted ceasing to be a member of the Service Company his work in the Infantry School would be of such a nature as to keep him in close contact with his old company and he would always feel at heart that he was still a member of the Service Company. Captain Adrian Brian, the new Commanding Officer, also spoke for a few moments expressing his pleasure in acquiring command of so fine an organization as the Service Company. The elaborate dinner served was greatly appreciated by all those preesnt and the many complimentary remarks made, were richly deserved by Acting Mess Sergeant Eugene Jackson and his staff of cooks.

Lieutenant William H. Miley reported for duty August 2nd from leave of absence. Before going on leave Lieutenant Miley was on duty in the Philippine Department. He will attend the Company Officers Class in the Infantry School in September.

FORT BENNING

WHO'S WHO!

SGT. FRANK CROSBY
Inf. School Detachment

For the past years you who have been going to the Academic Library to borrow books often wonder who is the quiet sergeant on duty as charge clerk. This man is Sergeant Frank Crosby of the I. S. D.

During his tour of duty at the Infantry School it is doubtful if any man at Benning has come in contact with as many people as has Sergeant Crosby. For the past six years he has been on duty at the Academic Library. During this time he has seen, met and talked with men who have been on duty wherever the American flag waves in the breezes.

His task is not an easy one for there are over twelve thousand books in the library and he must be ready at a moments notice, to tell whether or not he has a book for which you may call, and if he has it either get it for you or tell where it is and when it will be brought back.

Sergeant Crosby's service has been varied. He has seen service with both Infantry and Cavalry. During his early service he saw service in the Philippine Islands during the period when it was being reclaimed and made fit for civilization. Later we find him on the Mexican border doing guard duty there. While in 1916 we find him in the I. S. D., then known as the School of Arms where he has since served in one capacity or other.

Yes Sergeant Crosby is married and lives in his own home in Columbus. He says he enjoys home life and expects to live a great deal longer and continue to enjoy it.

BOXING NOTES

By R. E. Feree

The fans are still talking about that colorful and picturesque glove slinger one Tommy Billiards, of Detroit, Mich. The old boy seemed to win his way into the hearts of the spectators from the moment he stepped into the ring against Gunner DePratt. His performance here is history, but mention is made of the fact that many predicted the old timer was a push over for the Gunner and it was a shame to bring him here to fool the public, which all goes to prove that if a boy has gone through fight after fight he is far more apt to please than one who is booked simply because he looks like a million dollars in a gymnasium.

Very often it happens that a promoter in his anxiety to secure an attraction is swayed by the touting of some hanger-on. Down comes the much heralded box fighter and the show is a washout. Two washouts in a row means empty benches.

No matter how much care is given to a card some of them are bound to turn out as a bloomer, but in the long run if that same care is exercised for each and every mill it will develop that over a year's run the fans will be amply rewarded. The cash customers pay to be entertained and variety is what they wish the most.

Benning fans are promised many new faces in the future. At first, like Billiards, these faces will be entire strangers but it is believed that if only boxers who have proven that they can go the route are brought here then before another year rolls round, many boys now before the public will have their praises sung in the same vein as Billiards is being sung now.

RECRUIT SCHOOL HOLDING COMPETITIVE DRILLS

The 29th Infantry Recruit School, which was recently established in the regiment, is now running at full speed, and the results being obtained in the school are more than satisfactory. One reason for the success of the work which is being carried on is that because of the small groups which are assigned to each non-commissioned officer instructor, every man receives individual instruction.

Lieutenant A. T. Wilson, under whose supervision the school is being conducted, states that there is considerable interest in the weekly competitions which are held each Saturday. These competitions give the new men a chance to demonstrate what they have learned from the instruction which has been given during the week. The first of these contests was held two weeks ago and included a test in the various movements of the School of the Soldier without Arms. After every man had "done his stuff" the judges decided that Private John W. Griffin, of Company D was the best, and he was therefore chosen as winner of first place. He was crowded by Private Tony Spitale of Company B, who won second place.

A double-header competition was held on last Saturday, this time including both the School of the Soldier without Arms and the Manual of Arms. Winners of first and second places were selected by the officers who were acting as judges for these events. Headquarters Company men walked away with the School of the Soldier contest, the first place being won by Private R. B. Sheridan, while Private G. H. Metcalf took second place. The drill in Manual of Arms was especially interesting, and as a result of this try-out, a member of Company B, Private K. C. Nannly, was picked as winner of first place, while a representative of Company C, Private S. J. Bergerson, was selected by the judges as winner of second place.

Company "A"

We are pleased to announce the following promotions in the company: Privates Ternest, Odin and Manint appointed Privates 1st Class, Private 1st Class Dyles rated Specialist 4th Class. All are well deserving soldiers and the promotions are satisfactory all around.

It is reported that Alexander "Buddy" Brault will be on the next Benning fight card. Brault is a clean sport and a fast fighter and will give a good account of himself in any match. It will be remembered that Brault competed in the Olympic tryouts at Boston winning third place in the bantamweight division.

Company Clerk Geo. W. Bower, in a recent telephone conversation, was overheard making numerous and senseless remarks which sounded very much like the ravings of one of Bill Shakespeare's lovers. Such words as—such beautiful eyes; can't live without; dreaming of you—gave us the impression that Bower is hopelessly in love. We are sorry.

Sgt. Perkins has been saved by the bell several times the past week. It seems that when he is about to loose a game of pool the "chow whistle" blows, breaking up the game. Of course when he does lose he has a good alibi, the other fellow beat him.

Sgt. Harrison and Pvt. Shaver think they are the champi ns on the pool table, but they are riding for a big fall. If Sgt. Perkins gets his alibi working he'll beat them single handed, providing of course that the bell doesn't save them.

Cpl. Bagley, Acting 1st Sergeant at the Recruit School, needs a private desk and stenographer to conduct his vast volume of business.

Pvt. Hall thinks every day is work day including Sunday.

We are very sorry to hear that Sgt. Davis' wife is very ill.

If Pvt. Dobbs shoots about half as well as he talks, we will have another expert rifleman in our company.

Pvt. Bryan sure knows his onions when it comes to baking biscuits. Should have had him in the kitchen long ago. Just think of all the good biscuits we could have been having.

Pvt. Barnwell has given up the ship. Says he didn't want to be a Lieutenant anyway. Everything was fine but the "Math." He says that he couldn't understand what it was all about.

Cpl. Silvers says it is all a matter of luck, when he looses a game of cards. Of course now, understand that when he wins it is a case of science winning out over luck. Yet, he positively states that win or lose it is a matter of luck when he loses.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Sergeant Biggerstaff, our former first sergeant, is now on D. E. M. L. at Louisiana State Univesity. He has been appointed chief clerk in charge of all paper work and records pertaining to the Military Department at the University. Sergeant Biggertsaff reported to the University highly recommended, having received commendations from his officers in the battalion. His record in this company and regiment merits much praise, and the loss that his transfer has caused is felt greatly in this company and the 2nd Battalion as a whole. He is and always was an energetic, faithful, hardworker in all that he undertook to do, never failing to help those that needed help, but never forgetting to reprimand those whose conduct merited such action. We, in this company, wish him success in his new work.

Quite a few old-timers in the company, after being discharged per ETS, have reenlisted. Among these, our two cooks, Pfc. Lavender and Pfc. Escontres. Pfc. Escontres is sporting a new "Whippet," and from all reports his ninety days will be spent burning up roads in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Another cook, Pfc. Lamastus, is enjoying his ninety-day furlough in the hills of ole Kentuck'. Sgt. Terry took on another stack and is now recuperating in the cottonfields of Alabama.

Sergt. Bennett has signed up for three more years and is now in North Carolina making good use of his three months furlough. Corp. Laird, our Stable Corporal, has also taken another term of three years. Laird says "that Sheriff aint dead yet" so he isn't taking advantage of his furlough.

This company is sporting a new mess hall now, having had to vacate our old one in order to make room for the new "Barbed Wire City."

The first group is now on the range and about ready to start jawbone record and it looks as though we will qualify this group 100 per cent. In fact, we are certain that the whole company is going to qualify 100 per cent., with the able instruction and advice of Lieut. Tatom, Lieut. Privett, Sgt. Kjelstrom and Sgt. Davis, who are all expert shots and competent instructors.

A careful check has been made of all "telephone sheiks," and the champion has been found. It is no other than (Burrhead) Cpl. Ferguson, who thinks nothing of sitting at the phone for hours at a time. McKeel is running him a close second. While we're on the subject of champions, the winner of the "bovine-wrestling" championship will be announced in next week's news item. It is being closely contested by Cpl. Hedge, Cpl. Holland, and Cook Lavender.

Company "E"

Company "E", 29th Infantry, at the present is undergoing instruction practice on the target range. Transfers during the week—Private Johnson, Harvey C. to B & C School, Fort Benning, Georgia. We had no discharges during the week. Private Jordan Simel is expecting his discharge by purchase any day now. He is going back to his old job of drying shrimp in Louisiana. Fort Benning is not wild enough for him so he is going back to the swamps of Louisiana.

Bugler (Doubting) Thomas, our leading box fighter, is on a three months furlough since July 10, 1928, but returned to Fort Benning, Georgia, July 26, 1928, to fight Kid Bray from Columbus, Georgia, and certainly did give him a nice trimming. He returned to his home in Chattanooga, Tenn., well pleased without a scratch on him. Keep up the good work Tommy.

Our Mess Sergeant Uncle Zed Buford will be back from furlough on the fourth after spending three months in the wilds of Harris County where the owls play with the chickens.

Corporal Miscar says that he is going to trade his bunk for a lantern, says that it would be more suitable for the target season.

A certain Corporal fired five shots at 600 yards and made a total of 13, watch your step Red that's an unlucky number. It looks like that 311 of last year is shrinking.

Pfc. Stamper asked one of the ordnance men if he would give him the zero of his rifle at 600 yards. No doubt you got it Shubie. The Gadget seems to be having a pretty hard time this year on the range from the looks of that black disk that they were throwing at him from the pits.

Corporal Clay of the old army, says that if any one needs bulls eyes to submit their requisitions to him before Friday of next week. This man had to draw an extra foot locker from the Gadget to put his medals in, the old timer has quite a few.

The motto of the Third Platoon is "We Lead," so watch your step 1st and 2nd platoons

Our Company Commander, Captain Rutledge, is awarding prizes amounting to $83 for the best shots in the Company in addition to this, Post Exchange checks of two dollars is awarded for all possibles made, at each range, also two dollars Post Exchange books for high score at each range.

MAIN THEATRE AT FORT BENNING

"I did not know that such fine amusement facilities existed," is a remark often heard from the student officer upon his first sojourn to the Infantry School. "This is a splendid theater. Do you have as good a movie as this every night?" Yes, three hundred and sixty-six nights this year and every night a different picture. To shorten a long story, members of the Garrison are called upon to notify the Theater Officer of the pictures they desire to see, a careful study of these suggestions is made, then the best pictures are secured from the various film exchanges. These are shown on nights so selected as to best fit the available time of different persons of the command. For instance, on officer's dance nights, a picture which would not particularly please officers, but would be enjoyed by enlisted personnel is shown and vice versa. Sunday nights are always reserved for the highest type and most expensive pictures. The charge Sundays is 25c, bcause of the higher cost of the film. Week days it is 15c, children every night 10c. Special pictures are secured for them and strange as it may seem the adults sometimes out drown the children's laughter at these specials.

Music "that hath charms' 'accompanies every picture. A ten-piece orchestra known as "The Main Theater Orchestra" is highly trained. It plays the most select as well as the heel lifting, speed engendering jazz. All music is cued so that it synchronizes with the varied themes of a picture ;sometimes over a hundred different varieties of music are played during one picture. This orchestra will surprise, as well as enthrall, you.

Cool, a word enjoyed in the sunny south, is the only way of expressing the evening atmosphere at the Main Theater. This cement building is chilled by two forty-two inch Arco Electric fans which rotate at the rate of four hundred revolutions per minute. The fresh air is taken in and diffused over the audience during every performance.

Back to pictures—every good picture produced is shown here at Benning. The programs are arranged so that a feature appears every night, this is preceded by a News reel, comedy, or Fables. News reels are shown Sunday, Wednesday and Friday nights, two reel serials every Monday, Aesop's Fables Sundays and comedies other nights. Suggestions are always invited. Notify the theater officer, by informal note, of any ideas you may have for bettering conditions, and they will be given careful consideration.

The movies are operated purely for entertainment of the personnel and not as a money making institution. Of course, they do make money on this Post, because of the immense patronage. However, with this patronage you can always get a seat—the capacity of this theater is 1,577 seats. Observation is excellent from all of them.

This theater is yours, make us of it and you certainly will get keen enjoyment.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Well, well, well. Last week we succeeded in placing Sergeant Dubanowski in his rightful position as superintendent of the platen press department, but another one of those prominent typographical errors, so well known in printing circles, played a still worse joke on us. We referred to Dubanowski as "DUBIE" and by gosh, the lino. op. made it "R-U-B-I-E." Of cousre, being a sort of second-hand op. ourself, we realize how easy it is to make mistakes and how hard to avoid them, so we refrain from accusing anyone of purposely causing us the embarrassment that has befell us. "Rubie." Now wouldn't that jar your grandma's preserves?

John Middleton, who left last Wednesday morning on a sixty-day furlough, was heard from a day later in Knoxville. John intended stopping over in Cincinnati for a couple of days before journeying on to his home in western Nebraska.

We have been reliably informed that Private Byrd, well known as the I. S. D.'s famous player of Hawaiian airs on the guitar, is practicing for a rendition of the popular "Ramona," but as yet the closest he has come to it is "A Long Way to Tipperary."

Private Dillard, of Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry, has been operating the intehtype for the past week and will probably become a permanent member of the print shop personnel. Dillard is from Edison, Ga., if we're not mistaken. It seems that Georgia is becoming well represented in the print shop. Charley Dollar is from Bainbridge; Frank Thagard comes from Dublin, and Louie Rowe admits being a "Cracker," but as yet he has not told us from what part he comes.

TO SEND MORE OFFICERS TO MOTOR SCHOOL

The early assignment of officers representing practically all branches of the service to duty as students at the Motor Transport School, Holabird Quartermaster Depot, Baltimore, Maryland, for the school year 1928-29, which opens early in September, is an indication of the noteworthy progress toward motorization and mechanization which is making itself felt throughout the army.

Although by far the largest class in the history of the school is anticipated, no apprehension is felt on the score of the adequacy of the facilities to be found there owing to the fact that the army's largest motor transport depot and repair shop is also centered at Holabird, thus insuring a wealth of technically trained personnel, machinery, hand tools and equipment.

The course of instruction covering a period of nine months is divided into the following departments:

1. Administration.
2. Operation and Training.
3. Maintenance.
4. Automobile Mechanics.
5. Allied Trades.

Graduates of this school are thoroughly trained in the fundamentals of motor vehicle operation and maintenance. It is universally recognized as the best school of its kind in the army.—(From Speedometer, Camp Nonnoyle, Tex.)

CAPT. W. F. GENT

And family left Fort Benning last week by motor for Quantico, Va. Capt. Gent has been detailed to attend the Marine School next year at that station.

CAPT. T. S. SMITH

SPORTOPICS

Friends and admirers of Willie Ptomey, ace of the army's middleweight fighters, will soon have the pleasure of watching Willie go into action in the near future at the Fort Benning Arena.

Several weeks ago Ptomey committed the big mistake that so many fighters make. He quit training for too long a period and attempted to fight while in this condition. He was matched with Tommie Middelton.

Fightdom waited anxiously through the preliminary bouts. They had watched Ptomey and Gunner DePratt fight three times and each fight had been the kind that sends a crowd away satisfied and happy, they had watched Willie drop Red Wilson for the count in three rounds, and so the fans waited for the main bout to watch Middleton get his.

Middleton would have been a chopping block had Willie been himself, instead the bout went ten listless rounds to a draw. The crowd filed out of the arena morose and silent, the following morning Ptomey was suspended indefinitely.

Did Ptomey quit in the face of the fans disfavor and an indefinite suspension? No man can be a fighter and a quitter. Instead of quitting Ptomey began training, when DePratt trained for his fight with Tommie Billiards, Ptomey was a big factor in helping to get the big Doughboy in battle trim. He has made no excuses to the fans, but when Ptomey stepped into the ring on the night of the DePratt-Billiards fight, and challenged any middleweight fighter in the world, the fans roared their approval. Many of us make mistakes but few of us see them. Ptomey realized his mistake and has corrected it by hard and faithful work.

In answer to Willie's challenge, several middleweights have picked up the gauntlet. Most noticeable of these is Kid Williams who has been cutting a wide swath via the kao route in the middleweight class during the past year. Williams at the present time is claimant to the southern middleweight title and is quoted under that title by many of the leading papers and sport critics.

One of the most promising young ball players of the Infantry School today, is Tommie Thomson, catcher for the league leading Kellys of the 2nd Bn. 29th Infantry.

Tommie began his baseball career with the Kellys as an outfielder but when Felber, regular catcher for the Kells went away to school during the season of 1926, Tommie went into fill his vacancy behind the platter. His ability to take care of the receiving end has been fully demonstrated this sason. Besides starring bhind the plate for the Kellys he has also been a mighty factor on the offensive with the willow, his batting average balancing near the .360 mark.

Besides playing the regular schedule with the Kellys, he has attracted the attention of the baseball fans and critics of Columbus, Ga., and other nearby towns by his stellar work with the Meritas team of Columbus, which is rated as one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the South.

BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

The first half is history. The Engineers ,with Polly Perkins pitching the best brand of ball he has shown this year, took the fast travelling Service Company, 29th Infantry, into tow by the score of 5 to 1. Perkins allowed but two bingles to percolate through his masterful pitching and inciedntally the big righthander got a taste of revenge for the 2 to 1 drubbing he got at the hands of the muleskinners a fortnight previous. These two clubs will meet again in the second half auguring well for some more brand of airtight ball.

Rain broke up the opener of the second half between the 1st and 2nd Bats. It was thought the moisture had moved elsewhere, but apparently the second half like the first will be shot with postponements due to the weeping heavens.

The 83rd Field Artillery, after knocking at the door from the beginning of the year, took the league lead for a brief spell by turning back the 5th Tank Battalion by the score of 9 to 7. Playing the regulation nine inning game these tw orivals battled for two hours and thirty-seven minutes before the last out was made. That night Friday, August 3rd, found the Artillerymen in undisputed possession of first place.

Ridley, the Artillery catcher, brought home the bacon for his club. With the basses loaded when he came up in the eighth he caught oue of Lindsay's fast ones on the trade mark and rode it to the fence for a tripple. This was the blow that decided the see-saw battle. At the time of the wallop the score stood 6 to 6. It was the finishing touch to a game replete with long hits.

Red Lindsay hit the first homer of the second half. A long, high one that rolled to the flag pole in center.

The Artillerymen's stay at the top of the heap was short lived. Meeting the 2nd Bats on Snuday, the 5th, Buckley's crew took a drubbing from the Kelly's 10 to 2. It will take some smart pitching to stop the 2nd Bats in the second half for they have a habit of massaging that apple. One inning is enough for Kelly's crew to salt away a ball game.

Captain Bent's rejuvenated I. S. D. team walked home over the 1st Bats with plenty to spare winning 15 to 6. Every game this club springs a new star or two. There is a rumor going the rounds that the green hat cords are in line for a to pnotch pitcher, which if it is true, may mean that the cellar champs of the 1st half may climb to higher society in the near future.

The best brand of pitching turned out by any one this year was furnished by Carnes of the 2nd Bats on Wednesday, the 8th. The lanky southpaw turned back the fast travelling Tankers with three hits scattered over as many innings. Cobb's crew was helpless before the slants of the portsider who had one of those days when he is unbeatable.

Red Lindsay, who is hitting at a 400 clip, was completely mystified by the shoots that Carnes dished up. Four times Red took the 26 steps to the plate and four times he traversed the same number back, which all serves to remind one that hitting against a southpaw and a right hander is far from being the same. Just a tip for right hand hitters against southpaws: The only way the old timers ever got a foul off Rube Waddell was to crowd the plate and start the swing as he was winding up. As for advice to left handed hitters against a southpaw who is right it is best to go up there without the bat and pray to get hit. One of the most pathetic scenes in baseball today is to watch the left handed hitters (Ruth excepted) swing against Lefty Grove of the Athletics when the latter is right.

Tommy Thompson of the Kelly's is toting a heavy war club these days. The peppery catcher is hitting them right on the nose and his speed turns many a single into doubles. He faced a liner against the left field fenc off Howard that missed being a homer by a foot.

The way the Kels are going now they would beat half of the clubs in the Southeastern circuit.

Vol. VI. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 17, 1928 Number 48

Some Pertinent Facts About Government Insurance

The World War veterans' act of 1924 was amended, in several particulars, by the act of May 29, 1928, and, with relation to insurance, removes the restriction on the designation of a beneficiary for converted insurance to a permitted class. The permitted class of beneficiaries will still remain in the statute in so far as yearly renewable term insurance is concerned. In view of the fact that the insured under converted insurance was paying an ample premium for the protection afforded, the Congress was convinced that he should be given the same right with regard to designating a beneficiary, or changing a beneficiary, as he would have under a commercial insurance policy.

Section 300 of the act of 1924 was amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 300. In order to give to every commissioned officer and enlisted man and to every member of the Army nurse corps (female) and of the Navy nurse corps (female) when employed in active service under the War Department or Navy Department protection for themselves and their dependents, the United States, upon application to the bureau and without medical examination, shall grant United States Government life insurance (converted insurance) against the death or total permanent disability of any such person in any multiple of $500, and not less than $1,000 or more than $10,000 upon the payment of the premiums as hereinafter provided. Such insurance must be applied for within 120 days after enlistment or after entrance into or employment in the active service and before discharge or resignation: Provided, that any member of the reserve forces whose application was accepted at a time when he was in attendance at a military or naval training camp or station, and from whom premiums were collected, and who become or has become totally and permanently disabled, or dies or has died, shall be deemed to have made valid application therefor. This proviso shall not authorize the granting of more than $10,000 insurance to any one person: Provided further, That each officer and enlisted man of the Coast Guard who is serving on active duty at the time of the passage of this amendatory act, or who subsequent thereto enters the Coast Guard service, shall be granted insurance in accordance with the terms of this section upon application within 120 days of the passage of this amendatory act, or date of enlistment or entry into the Coast Guard, whichever is the later date, and before retirement, or resignation.

"Yearly renewal term insurance shall be payable only to a spouse, child, grandchild, parent, brother, sister, uncle, aunt nephew, niece, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law, or to any or all of them and also during total and permanent disability to the injured person.

"Where the beneficiary for yearly renewable term insurance at the time of designation by the insured is within the permitted class of beneficiaries and is the designated beneficiary at the time of the maturity of the insurance because of the death of the insured, such beneficiary shall be deemed to be within the permitted class even though the status of such beneficiary shall have been changed.

"The United States shall bear the expenses of administration and the excess mortality and disability cost resulting from the hazards of war. The premium rates shall be the net rates based upon the American Experience Table on Mortality and interest at 3 1-2 per centum per annum. This section, as amended shall be deemed to be in effect as of June 7, 1924."

Under the World War veterans' act members of the Army, Navy and Coast Guard, including their air services, and all veterans of the World War may secure Government insurance, good regardless of vocation or avocation, according to the following plans: Five-year convertible term, ordinary life, 20-payment life, 30-payment life, 20-year endowment, 30-year endowment, and endowment at age of 62.

LIEUT. E. L. STEWART

The editor of the News left with his family yesterday morning for Paxton, Illinois, where they will visit relatives. Lieut. Stewart will return to Fort Benning the last of the month, while Mrs. Stewart and son will remain for an indefinite visit.

Second Battalion Team Breaks All Records This Year

(By Al Durden)

Driving through the first half of the Infantry School baseball season, the Kellys from the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, upset all previous records at Gowdy Field by winning every game played.

Quite a few critics point to the fact that the Kellys are made up of all-star players. This fact is correct, they are all-stars, but every team in the league has had the same chance that the Kellys have had to build an all-star team. The team today that represents the 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, also represents hard and faithful hours of work and practice.

Three years ago the players that are starring on the Kelly line-up today were recruits at the game, with the exception of Kelly and Franz.

Only two seasons ago and it was a known fact among the fans that Tommie Thompson was liable to tear off his mask and start running around in circles lo king skyward for the ball when the batter dumped a bunt in front of the plate. Today he is the leading catcher of the Garrison. "Big" Newman learned his baseball since becoming a member of the 2nd Bats. Pete Magagna has been a whirl wind at third base for the Kellys this season. He had been considered a second rater until taken into the Kelly fold. The middle sack is ably taken care of by Cooper, who is doing his first hitch in the service and had never played ball since leaving high school until he enlisted. His hitting and fielding has been second to none this season.

Fat Franz at short though a youngster in years is a veteran at the game. He has been one of the leading factors in bringing the Kelly infield up to its present high standard. In the outfield the mighty Kell has developed Carnes, McAllister and Pieters into a trio of ball hawks that roam far and wide in the outer gardens. Besides learning them to judge fly balls and to whip a throw to any position with unerring accuracy, Kelly has also taught them the art of driving the ole hoss hide out for the ever needed base hit. Besides the aforementioned players, several more youngsters warm the Kelly bench that are ready to step into the breech should injury or absence make a vacancy.

True the "Kellys" are all-stars, but they have only achieved this through hard work, and an all-star team is a just reward.

SOME BENNINGITES ON LEAVE

Lieut. and Mrs. David L. Hardee returned from a five weeks' leave last week, most of which they spent in North Carolina, visiting at Durham, Greensboro, Salisbury, Charlotte and Hendersonville. In motoring back to Benning they spent a few hours with Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Collier and Capt. and Mrs. Geo. L. King, who are summering at Black Mountain, N. C. They reported that they had been visited with a few hot days there. That on one day the thermometer got as high as 87. Mrs. Collier's mother, Mrs. Hurl, who has been spending some time with them, expects to return to her home in England in the early autumn.

Captains Collier and King are putting in their time near the headwaters of the Swananoa river and report some nice catches of rainbow and native trout. On Sundays they serve as vestrymen in the Episcopal church at Black Mountain, King being the pipe organist and Collier the soloist. They propose to write a book on what the army does beside fight.

At Franklin, N. C., the Hardees met Major A. S. Peake, who with Mrs. Peake, is spending the month at that place. He reported good golf in which Mrs. Peake is getting very much interested, and a very pleasant time with the exception of one day when the thermometer reached ninety.

LAUGHING GAS

Laughing Gas is the name of a new weekly paper that now appears with the other weekly papers of the garrison. It is edited and published by the officers and men of the C. W. S. primarily for the officers and men of the Gas Company. It deals with the activities of the company, having as it's purpose raising and keeping at the highest point a strong company spirit. The News wishes them success.

1st Bn. Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

Sgt. Justice was here for a couple of days last week. He is enjoying his furlough very much. Having the best time possible. He looks as if the vacation was agreeing with him too.

Cpl. John Goodin is well pleased with his "101 Ranch," as he calls the 29th Infantry pasture. Pvt. Carroll, one of his cowboys, was dusted off by one of the desperate broncos the other day. They say that they can dust the sand off in the tent before they go to bed and fiind tracks of any kind of an animal you can mention in the moring. Must be wild and wooly down there.

Private Barnwell isn't Private any more. He was appointed Corporal on the seventh. We are all glad of this, as we feel that he will make us a good Corporal.

Company "D"

After the day's work is done, there is no place like home, so say two tired and worn-out soldiers who were seen threading their way toward the corrals after a fifteen mile ride on two "nags" that had seen better days. The worst is yet to come say some; correct, as the next day was fierce—back-aches, sore limbs, etc.

Two-thirds of our work with the Infantry School being completed, putting on an efficiency test before the school year, we are certainly joyful it is drawing to a close, yet we must admit it is very interesting.

Cpl. Dan Monan has just received from the American School of Aviation his diploma which was well earned by hard study and work. The company wishes him the best of luck in his pick of life's work—yet aviators have their falls.

Any one desiring to purchase straw hats, models 1926, 1927, 1928, may do so at the sale the First Sgt. is having Saturday, August 18th, 3:00 P. M. sharp. Come one, come all.

Pinhead Dooley is still wondering if he will ever get in his time. The company hopes so "Pinhead."

—Swan.

Company "E"

We are still firing on the range. Everyone is qualifying to date with high scores. Private Henderson, Walter, after firing his ten shots rapid fire, was awarded the total score of two. When his platoon Sergeant asked him how he got the two he replied in a feminine voice, "I guess I flinched." Private Sisk calls every shot a bullseye and it comes up a deuce.

Privates first class Eddie Campbell and Hornsby were standing looking at the bulletin board the other day and they saw an officer pass by with knickers on. Private Campbell asked Hornsby what was the idea of him wearing knee breeches. Hornsby replied "Huh, I don't know, I guess he is going out golf balling."

The following men have been appointed privates, first class, this week: Akin, Borders, Hingle, Myers, Teeple and Tinsley.

Corp. Jacobs was discharged the 7th and took out three more years with Uncle Sam. Glad to have you with us Jacobs.

Sgt. "Dog" Dalby has been granted permission to get married by the Company Commander and the Commanding Officer. He got married on Saturday, August 11, 1928. It won't be long now "Dog." Our 1st Sgt. High Davis has made 324 with the rifle on the range and it seems as if he will be the high rifle shot in the Battalion for the prizes this year.

Private Howard Hawkins has just returned from ten days emergency furlough on August 11, 1928.

Every one is looking forward for furloughs after range season.

—I. M. Y.

Company "H"

To see that look of pure astonishment and wonder on the faces of some of the men who have never fired a machine gun before would inspire a cartoonist with an idea for a comic strip. When Maltese fired the first time, the map of Italy that he sports for a face, made such a sudden change that it could easily have been mistaken for that of Lindburg or Staff Sergeant Kjelstrom, of 2nd Bn. Hq. Co., or some other good looking man.

Caubarreaux forgot that he wasn't down where the "Muddy Waters" flow, and thinks that he is still shooting frogs and peddling their legs to the gentry of that locality. He seems to have the same trouble that Devillier has, he tries to follow his nose. Caubarreaux's nose turns down, while Devillier's goes too far for mention.

This is declared open season on bolos. Any one seeing a bolo running loose around the barracks, will please either shoot him on sight, or notify the First Sergeant of the matter. It is expected that later on in the season there will be a bounty placed on the heads of all bolos. If there is, I expect to have enough money to take a furlough with.

Speaking of Gunners, who could be any better than our gunner? I mean to tell you that this boy is certainly plugging them out this year. I think that the main reason is that he left his saddle down at the stables when he went riding Sunday before last, and doesn't like to ride bareback.

Sgt. Francis P. (Square-head) Berrish told Red Jones that he was firing on a runaway gun, and Jones believed him. It was noted that he tried, and did hold the gun. He held it so completely that it would not hit the scoring space. He and Chilton both have a wonderful two mile tap.

100 per cent. is our goal for this year, and we don't mean once in a while. From the looks of the scores that have been turned in from preliminary practice, we are going to have quite a number to qualify as sharpshooters and experts. However, when record time shows up, we will see who is pushing the pencil.

AUG. 17 TO AUG. 24, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 17

"WALKING BACK," starring Sue Carroll in a story of jazz mad youth, speeding, drinking, dancing and necking, the four mile stones of ultra modern boys and girls. The plot deals with the most advanced type of high school youngsters, showing both the dangers and delights that are strewn in their speedy paths. The father, stern, unrelenting, and at times unjust, guided by rules of yesterday. The son, a product of swift moving times, exuberant, peppy, wide awake, truthful and brave. This story is packed with thrills and humor.

Pathe News No. 65.

SATURDAY, AUG. 18

"JAWS OF STEEL," featuring Rin-Tin-Tin in a story of the desert, possessing thrills and pathos. Lost when a pup, and grown from a waif of the desert, to a fierce bristling wolf dog, he finds again the friends of his childhood just after they have struck gold, and are in danger from some bad men. It is a story of strong sentimental appeal.

"Long Hose." Jack Duffy.

SUNDAY, AUG. 19

"FLYING ROMEOS" starring George Sidney and Charlie Murray in one constant succession of laughs. It all started over Cohn and Cohen loving the same woman—they change from barbering to aviation. All goes well in their physical exam, until they take the blind folded test, and wander in their red undies into a Woman's Purity League meeting—pandermonium. In their flight from the indignant suffragettes, they seek shelter in an aviation hanger, secrete themselves in the fusilage of a plane, inadvertently step on a control, and the machine soars into the air. They fight with the stick, and the plane cuts remarkable stunts. A gyroscopic attachment brings the plane down into a perfect landing, and these barber aviators are acclaimed. They are booked against their will for a transoceanic flight, and some more fun starts. You can hardly imagine the multitude of comedy thrills enveloped in this picture. See it.

Paramount News No. 108.

"On the Ice." Fables.

MONDAY, AUG. 20

"SOFT LIVING, starring Madge Bellamy and John M. Brown in a story of love versus luxury. Gold digging wives beware. This story depicts a young girl influenced into marrying a rural man of wealth; too late, he finds her out and proceeds to outwit her. She is compelled to perform her wifely duties at home, to the exclusion of wealths pleasures. She appeals to her former gold digging friends for help; they fail her, and after many bitter hours of drudgery, she awakens to a relaization of the foundation of truth and happiness. She confesses her errors, is pardoned, and happiness ensues.

"Haunted Island No. 8."

TUESDAY, AUG. 21

"ONE ROUND HOGAN," featuring Monte Blue, Jim Jeffries and Leilla Hyams. This is truly a prize fight picture. The famous James J. Jeffries, heavyweight champion, who conquered Sharkey, Corbett, and Fitzsimmons, is here in person. He is opposed by Frank Hagney, famous Australian boxer-actor. Several cyclonic ring scenes appear in the story. Its plot is bound together by the threads of a romance.

"Sailors Beware." Roach Star.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 22

"HUNCHBACK of NOTRE DAME," starring Lon Chaney, in one of the most powerful of his productions. This story has been brought back to Benning through popular demand. Mysterious in its entirety, its gruesome plot binds the human attention in a tension which almost leads to breaking point. This story is educational in that it brings before your vision the surroundings of this historic institution, and portrays life as it once existed there. It is a story of romance and intrigue. Being elaborately prepared, it is considered a triumph of cinematographic art. This is the picture which made Lon Chaney. Interesting film facts: Cost of production over $1,500,000; 3,500 people take part in great mob scenes; supporting cast numbers 75 principals, among which are Patsy Ruth Miller, Ernest Torrence, Brandon Hurst, Tully Marshall, Nigel de Brulier and Winifred Bryson. This film has been endorsed by Clergy.

Paramount News No. 109.

THURSDAY, AUG. 23

"GIRL FROM CHICAGO," starring Conrad Nagal and Myrna Loy in a romance of daring and danger. This is a gripping melodrama. It is a brilliant story of a Southern girl who seemingly becomes a part of the hectic life of the city, to free her brother from the clutches of a frame-up which threatens his life. Through her cleverness in dealing with the cops and gangsters, she succeeds in her mission, but only after surmounting many severe obstacles.

"Scrambled Weddings." Horton Comedy.

FRIDAY, AUG. 24.

"HOLD 'EM YALE" starring Rod la Rocque in a smashing college romance. He was a freshman—she the daughter of a professor—their love romance had its inception in Latin America, but it was the big game that brought it to a glorious climax. This picture is particularly strong because it combines those elements which mean thoroughly enjoyable entertainment: absorbing continuity of plot, continued action, rapid succession of climaxes, and deft splashes of humor, interjected at just the right moment.

LON CHANEY

Interesting Character

Lon Chaney was once an actor on the legitimate stage. He enthralled audiences with his wierd make-ups, and ability as a contortionist.

Before the camera he has become one of the leading character actors of the world. His facial expression alone often conveys a complete story. In his preparation for the part of the Hunchback bell ringer of Notre Dame, which plays at our theatre this week, Chaney spent a solid year. Through the use of heavy straps, pulleys and weights, he pulled his body into the wierd shape that was necessary for his part. He suffered physical torture, yet went through with it. After completing the production, he suffered bodily agony for some six months, and even today, it is stated that the strain still affects him.

Mr. Chaney states that never again will he be able to undergo the training in contortions and so much agility in climbing dizzy heights, as was necessary to produce the part of Victor Hugo's Quasimodo.

The first great part he ever played was that of the "Frog" in "The Miracle Man." In this he astounded world wide critics. From that time his rise has been rapid and meteoric. His characterization of the Hunchback brought gasps of amazed admiration from stage and screen celebrities.

MAJOR JOSEPH RUSS KILLED, LT. COLONEL EDWIN BUTCHER INJURED

As we went to press the NEWS received information through the Columbus Ledger that Major Russ was killed and Colonel Butcher was badly injured when their motor car was struck by a Pennsylvania train near Oxford, Pa., Aug. 16. According to information received, the car was struck squarely, dragged along the track about twenty-five yards, and tossed aside. Major Russ was found wedged in the machine with his neck broken and Colonel Butcher was found nearby in a dazed condition with severe head and body injuries.

PROMOTION FROM THE RANKS

Opportunity for promotion from the ranks for enlisted men in the regular army, navy, marine corps and national guard, and appointment to West Point or Annapolis, has brought good results from the time this country adopted that plan. The idea is entirely in harmony with the thought in a democratic country, it opens the door for the man of ability and ambition, and there have been plenty of men to appear for examination.

Recently two score appointments to West Point were made from the army and the national guard of the states and the fortunate men will appear at West Point for the July entrance, when they will take up the work for the four-year course, with appointment to official station certain if they complete the course. Soon there will be appointments of enlisted men from the navy and marine corps for Annapolis, where there will be a commission awaiting each man who finishes the course of study the nation provides.

The movement up from the ranks has been received with favor by the highest officers at West Point and Annapolis and the fairest method of selection by examination has been provided and administered. The plan would have been either a moderate success or a failure had there been unfriendly administration. There is credit due the army and navy that the fairest plan possible was provided and the measure of justice in examination and admission has not been questioned.

Examinations are difficult, and properly so; the government is seeking the best talent, because it has need only for the best men as its officers in the future. The course of study requires a strong and rounded mind, with a persistent will and ability well above the average. It is no place for weaklings. Examinations stop them when they try to enter. The entire course is planned and administered to bring out the man fully developed, able and competent, ready for the modest start but capable of making himself ready for the most important duties the services may bring to him. There is an advantage for the enlisted man because he has acquired abundant knowledge of one side of military or naval life. There are major generals who started from the ranks.—(From Ohio State Journal.)

MRS. EDNA C. STRUPPA

Following a short illness, Mrs. Edna Crawford Struppa, one of the most popular young women of the city of Columbus, died last Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crawford, on Front street, in that city.

Mrs. Struppa had been a resident of that city practically all her life, and by her charming personality and disposition, she made many friends who mourn her loss.

Less than two months ago Mrs. Struppa resigned her commission in the Army Nurse Corps, having been on duty at the new hospital at Fort Benning for some time. By her tenderness and conscientious attention to her duties she became endeared to many people at Fort Benning.

The News joins in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and to the five year old daughter, who survive.

SWIMMING

Learning the Crawl Stroke; Correct Breathing

The first step in learning any stroke is correct breathing. In all strokes the breath is drawn in through the mouth and exhaled through the nose. For any swimmer who has acquired this step the crawl stroke will be considerably less difficult to learn. For those not accustomed to such breathing the following may serve as a guide for practice.

Place yourself in water that is approximately the height of your shoulders. Grasp the side of the pool with both hands. Draw in a deep breath through the mouth. With eyes open drop the head below the surface of the water and exhale slowly through the nose. Repeat this several times slowly. Keep your eyes open at all times. After repeating this movement several times, speed up your practice until you are capable of executing properly the movement twenty to thirty times a minute. Once this is acquired you will be ready to start on the next step of the crawl stroke—the flutter drive.

BATTERY C

Hello everybody. Well here we are back again after being absent for a few weeks. I do not mean an A. W. O. L. but absent from the news due to the former reporter being discharged by purchase.

The Battery has practically all the horses in the pasture and for the past two weeks has been taking gunners instructions. There was a great interest shown during the study of the 75's and we are expecting quiet a few more experts added to our Battery within the near future.

Battery C has been awarded a little better than 30 recruits within the last few weeks. The new comers are undergoing a thorough training for six weeks under the command of Lt. S. R. Hurt before being assigned to Battery duty. They are improving very rapidly with their training.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE PRELIMINARIES OF FIGHTS HELD LAST WEEK

The preliminaries of last Thursday night's card, all of which with one exception, were among the lighter class of fighters in keeping with the main go between Grantham and Miles were below those of the average that has been predominating for the previous bouts.

The first prelim between Battling Sam of the I. S. D. and Alexander of the 29th Infantry was a slow unexciting affair. Both boys were willing to mix but instead of mixing a great deal, swung at thin atmosphere. At the conclusion of the go Sam received a referee's decision.

The second prelim between Phillips of the I. S. D. and Asher of the 29th Infantry was a fight from start to finish. Both boys have met several times before, each claiming to be master of the other. Phillips rushed the fight almost continuously but the two good fists of Asher landed hard and often to both the head and body. Asher won the decision.

The third bout between Gordy of the Q. M. and Shell of Columbus, both middleweights, was another slow affair at the beginning. The first round found both boys sparring for an opening and little action, neither doing the other any harm. Round two was a different story. Shell, apparently tired of inaction and wishing to make a short affair of it, sailed in and soon had Gordy on the K. O. list.

In the fourth bout between Bruiser Brault of the 29th and Kid Griffin of Atlanta the bruiser turned out to be absorber rather than bruiser. This Kid Griffin looks pretty good to the writer as a coming prospect. He outclassed Brault from the beginning and there could be no doubt as to the outcome of the bout. The referee stopped the affair in the fifth round as Brault was hanging on, his grit being all that kept him on his feet.

In the semi-windup between Keenan, the firery topped soldier of the 29th, and Mickey Kendrix, of Columbus, brought together two men who have met on numerous occasions and who have always claimed to be the master of the other. Thursday there could be no dispute as to who was the better man. Keenan was the aggressor throughout the entire go and landed blows almost at will. Kendrix's main ability was apparently to take punishment and endeavor to set himself to land a blow to send Keenan to the land of nod.

"B" Company's Picnic

Thursday afternoon, the 9th, witnessed one of the most delightful affairs of the summer for Company "B," when it held a picnic in Waldron Grove for the men, women and children of the organization.

Waldron Grove is situated on a knoll overlooking the 24th Infantry swimming pool, and shaded by tall pine trees, is a beautiful place for an event of this kind. The white tables loaded with good things to eat presented a lovely picture against the dark cool green of the trees—a picture to always remember.

At 4:30 P. M. the guests began arriving and as all were dressed in sport clothes, soon filled the grove with a crowd intent on having a great time, and making the picnic a real success. The 24th band volunteered for the afternoon and their lively music added much to the gaiety of the occasion.

As special guests of the Company, Colonel Galleher and his Regimental Staff with their families were present, as were also the officers and their families of the 1st Battalion. Members of Company "B" had their families and friends. In all, probably two hundred and fifty, sat down to the watermelon, fried chicken, and other good things so ably prepared by Sergeant Ellis.

A comedy act was then put on by Privates Harper and Kilgore. This feature—a slow motion baseball game, and a slow motion fight, brought roars from the spectators. After dinner the happy crowd danced on the grass under the trees, and at 6:00 P. M. the band played the Regimental March, bringing the delightful event to a close.

Great credit for this affair should be given 1st Sergeant Bryson, Sergeants Phonosdall and Ellis, who were the committee of arrangements.

Company "G"s Markmanship Dinner

Company "G," Captain A. B. Helsley commanding, held its annual marksmanship dinner in Mess Hall No. 3 Wednesday evening, Aug. 8th. All members of the company—commissioned and enlisted—were present. The guests included Colonel Paul C. Galleher and Staff of the regiment, and officers of the 2nd Battalion. An 8-piece orchestra from the 24th band played throughout dinner.

The eighth squad, which had qualified one hundred per cent. with an average score per man of two hundred and eighty-five, was seated at the head table. The men who made this record were: Corporals Reed and Winston, Privates Newsome, Pierce, Penrose, Ross, Young and Rachal. The seventh squad, which had the largest number of unqualified men, acted as waiters and kitchen police.

Sergeant Fred C. Wright was high man of the Company, making three hundred and thirty-three, was presented with ten dollars in gold. Sergeant Herbert Wilson made three hundred thirty-one and was given five dollars in gold. For soldiers who had fired the course in previous years, ten dollars was given the man making the greatest improvement. This was won by Private Irving Stafford, who made one hundred and eighty-one in 1927, and three hundred and seven in 1928. The recruit making the highest score was Private Frank Lynch. He made two hundred and ninety-nine, and was awarded ten dollars in gold. The high squad—Corporal Reed's—was given ten dollars. Second high—five dollars, went to the squad of Sergeant Venters. They made an average of two hundred eighty-one.

Colonel Galleher made a short talk in which he congratulated the Company upon the record made this year, pointing out the attributes of a good soldier, particularly stressing the importance of rifle marksmanship.

The company qualified this year with an average of 92 per cent. and slightly over. Last year it qualified 62 per cent. Some improvement. Captain Helsley and his N. C. O.'s deserve great credit for this achievement.

Capt. Paynter Shoots 'Em Up

Information just received from the captain of the Infantry Rifle Team in training at Camp Perry, Ohio, for the National Matches, that they have fired the qualification course with officers and men from the 24th Infantry qualifying as follows:

Captain Earl F. Paynter	341
Captain Paul Steele	334
Private Leslie Johnson	307

Three hundred forty-one over the qualification course is not made by chance. And it looks to the 24th that Captain Paynter is going to be a hard man to handle for the other competitors at the matches.

Major Robert H. Fletcher, one time instructor, the Infantry School, not on leave, is coming back to the 24th. G. S. C. Eligible list, graduate C .& G. S. School, 1925. Advanced Course, the Infantry School, 1924. The School's loss is our gain. We welcome you back, Major.

Captain W. B. Wilson leaves Friday for Camp Perry, Ohio, where he will instruct in the Small Arms Firing School which precedes the National Matches. During his absence Captain E. M. S. Stewart will be the regimental supply officer.

Captain R. M. Winfield takes command of Company "B," relieving Captain R. G. Sherman, who goes on S. D. as adjutant of the Special Units with headquarters in the building formerly occupied by the Experimental Department. This new organization is now in the process of being organized.

Big League Umpires Take Notice

The following goes into effect at once in the 24th:

CONDUCT AT BASEBALL GAMES:

Hereafter at all ball games in the regimental league, all spectators and players other than team captains will refrain from making any remarks to or about umpires. Some insulting remarks have heretofore caused a great deal of dissatisfaction on the part of both players and umpires.

"Get hot, black boy."

"Mandy, yo' might jes' as well tell a volcano to sizzle."

BOXING NOTES

By R. E. Feree

The next fistic event on tap for the devotees of the boxing game will be held at the Post Arena Tuesday night, August 28th. It will be the rule hereafter to hold all shows either on a Tuesday or Wednesday night so that the results can be written up in time to appear in the Infantry School News which goes to press on Thursday morning. Lieut. E. L. Stewart, the hustling editor of the News, and an ardent fight fan, suggested this change. Never adverse to all the free publicity the school paper so kindly furnishes the proposed change was readily adopted.

The card offered for the 28th is in the process of preparation. With the idea in mind of showing new faces to the fans and to give them the shows they most desire this coming exhibition will introduce as a principal in the windup of ten rounds one Kid Williams of Savannah, Ga. Williams is the boy who has been winning all his bouts via the knockout route, his record showing that he has hung the haymaker on his last nine opponents. The booking of Williams will be of added interest to the Post Fire Department where boxing is the main topic of conversation every hour of the day. The Chief of the Savannah Fire Department, Mr. John H. Monroe, is an enthusiastic backer of Williams, while an assistant fire chief, Mr. Harry Tracey, an old time boxer, is actually the manager of the next star attraction.

Willie Ptomey of the 15th Tank Battalion, whose suspension was lifted August 10th, will undoubtedly be selected to face Williams in his first appearance. Right now Wily Willie is following the straight and narrow path and has behind him two solid months of real conscientious training. That he is fit and ready was demonstrated at LaGrange on the night of the 11th when he easily defeated Spike Webb of Charlotte, N. C., in a ten round go. Ptomey, when right, is one of the most colorful boxers in the service. This applies as well to his popularity before civilian clubs where he is a great drawing card. Being in such demand, however, has been one of the causes of his downfall for he has fought too many times with only a day or two rest between bouts. Hereafter he will confine his activities to one bout every second or third week which rest should place him at his best every time he appears.

The next opponent of Walker Smith of the 29th Infantry will be furnished by the U. S. Navy in the person of Frankie Grant of the Charleston Navy yard. Smith will show on the 28th card also in a six round bout. This Grant entry has to his credit a technical knockout over the middleweight champion of the British navy, the blimey being known as Ray McClurr. It all happened, according to the clipping sent here by Grant, off the New England coast back in 1924.

Apparently the Infantry School News reaches the boxing fans at other posts for challenges are pouring into the Infantry School Athletic Association with each and every mail. Fort Thomas, Ky., where boxing is the big diversion every Thursday night throughout the year, and where the game has been flourishing since 1919 has sent in a list of glove slingers ranging all the way from the fly to the heavyweights. Outstanding on the list are the names of Phil Hergert, Tony LaRose, Midget Guery and Jimmy Neal. Hergert is a likely opponent for Gunner DePratt at a later date; Midget Guery, unquestionably the best welterweight ever turned out by the Kentucky post, may be seen in action against the pride of the Georgia National Guard, Sammy Buchanan, Waycross, Ga. Then again the Midget might step in with Boots Aantley of Columbus and show the latter what the Army welterweights can do on the fifty cent ration.

BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

The second half is well on its way with better baseball than that furnished in the first half. The 2nd Bats are still out in front with a clean slate; the Artillerymen are the runners up with a smart and alert outfit, then follow the I. S. D., Tankers and the 1st Bats in the order named.

The Kelly's show no sign of a letup. While the other clubs have been improving the league leaders have not been idle, instead they are a mite stronger, especially in the pitcher's box for their hurlers have been turning in shutout ball every time they start.

Buckley's caisson riders are playing classy baseball. Twice this half they took the measure of the 15th Tank Battalion winning two close games 9 to 7 and 5 to 4. If this outfit could nick the Kelly's for a game or two the stands wouldn't hold the red hat cords.

The I. S. D. for a long period were known as "the badly bents," but right now Captain Bent has a real ball club gracing the field. This crew will make it warm for any contender in the league.

The 15th Tank Battalion is paying the toll of overworked pitchers, in addition to losing two men in their infield. Playing in two leagues and forced to the limit every game it is small wonder that the club right now is hobbling along using all three pitchers every time they appear. With all his bad breaks the palm must be handed to Pilot Cobb for he is never licked until the last man is out. The Tankers pack the stands showing that the fans are behind them.

The I. S. D.-2nd Battalion tilt last Saturday was a pretty game to watch. The final score 5 to 0 does not begin to tell the true tale. Captain Bent's band of ball tossers lost little time in handing the champions the game in the first inning by throwing the ball all over the lot and before the third out five runs had crossed the platter. From then until the end it was a real ball game. Morris of the I. S. D. worked like a big leaguer mixing them up, playing the weakness of each batter, and holding the heavy hitters to pop ups. All told he allowed five hits. Aiken, making his first start this year, was right also and breezed in with a smart brand of hurling.

Sunday, the 12th, saw the Tankers and the Artillerymen tangle up. This game will be rehashed many a time around the hot stove league next winter. After the last out as the rooters filed out it was noticeable that most of them were ringing wet from the two hours of suspense that they had gone through. It was a game that had the boosters holding on to the rafters to quiet the palsied tremors. The break came in the 5th inning, one of the many moments of anxiety through which the Tank supporters suffered, when with two and three on him Buckley laced a triple to the right field fence. Estridge hit the first pitch in the same direction for another three bagger. The next ball pitched Jefferies placed in center for a single. Lindsay just couldn't get the ball past the hitters for his next pitch found Ridley meeting it for another one baser. Exit Red. Rowan took up the burden from this point to the finish and held Buckley's crew safe. In the ninth the Tank supporters let loose their last despairing yell when Woodman opened this inning with a three base blow to right. With the score 5 to 4 and the tying run on third, no one out and the top of the batting order coming up, it looked rosy indeed. What happened is history. Phillips the Artillery pitcher tightened up and fanned the next three to face him. It is not a stretch of the imagination to visualize these same victors manicuring their steeds this coming winter and relating the last nine strikes that Phillips pushed by the Tankers.

If the 15th Tank Battalion lost weight in the Artillery game then they certainly were skin and bones after their defeat at the hands of the 24th Infantry Reds. Going into the tenth inning with the score 2 to 2 the whole bottom of suspense seemed to drop out before the Reds were retired for the third out. The first man up was an easy out pitcher to first, then Hampton struck out but the pitch rolled to the backstop. Then Lindsay's support cracked with a terrific roar. His second sacker dropped a throw, then booted a grounder, then Trammell cleared the bases with a double and away went another ball game.

Big Trammell was the bright light of the Red stickers. With a double, triple, and a homer, he was easily the hitting star of the day. His homer put his club in the running early in the game, his triple was wasted for he was left stranded, but his double just an inch inside of the left field foul line scored three runners. This feat will be brought up in that same hot stove league.

Vance was liberal with his passes. In seven out of the ten frames he placed the Tankers in position to score by walking the first man. He was tight in the pinches, however, and at his best when runs threatened. He cut in with a long triple to the score board but was out trying to stretch it on a beautiful relay. Kiker to Cobb to Woodman.

Cobb had a great day in the field. He was everywhere cutting down near hits.

Haney who is filling in at third for the Tankers since the discharge of Gullett received a painful injury when a hard hit ball took a bad hop and struck him in the mouth.

Mugsy Magoni assistant manager of the I. S. D., coach, rubber, infield hitter, wise cracker, morale booster, ticket seller, bouncer at the fights, the Sergeant Hill of the machine gun demonstrations, an all around hustler, in addition to being a keen student of literature, has the I. S. D. team playing the best brand of ball they have put out this year. His remarks from the side lines as well as from the bench are voltaic, voracious and vociferous.

Vol. VI. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 24, 1928 Number 49

COLONEL HELMS HONORED AT CELEBRATION

Former Executive Visits Scenes of Former Service

From the El Moro News, San Jaun, Porto Rico, comes an article of interest relative to honors tendered at a recent celebration to Col. Helms, commanding officer of the 65th Infantry. Before his assignment to the 65th Infantry, Col. Helms was executive officer at the Infantry School.

On July 24th Col. Helms left San Juan for Yauco to attend a ball given in his honor. Among those accompanying Col. Helms were Mayor Todd of San Jaun and Col. Angel Rivero who was left in command of the Spaniards when they vacated the island and turned over the city of San Jaun and governmental property to the American forces.

While en route to Yauco the party stopped at Coamo, Ponce and Guayanilla. At Coamo the party was entertained at luncheon by some old friends of Col. Helms. After the luncheon Col. Helms located at Ponce the place where his regiment was encamped after its disembarkation thirty years ago. At Guayanilla the party was met by almost the entire population. The National Guard unit of Yauco was drawn up in formation at the entrance of the city and it received the party with military honors.

That evening Mr .Lluveras, mayor of Yauco, and his wife were hosts at dinner for the entire party. Many distinguished guests from Yauco and other towns of that section of the island were present. The climax of the days festivities came with the ball given at the Casino de Yauco, to which Col. Helms belonged when he was stationed there thirty years ago.

The following morning the party went to Guanica and visited the spot where the detachment commanded by Col. Helms had encamped shortly after the Spanish-American War. That afternoon many of the people of Yauco and Gaunica gathered at la Cuesta del Muerto to pay homage to the unknown Spanish soldier buried there. After appropriate military ceremonies, Col. Helms decorated the grave with flowers.

It is quite a coincidence that Col. Helms, as a Second Lieutenant, had charge of the detail which buried this unknown soldier thirty years ago. The soldier was given an appropriate burial and the grave marked with stones. It was later discovered that it had been disturbed and again Lt. Helms was detailed to place it in proper condition. This time it was completely surrounded by stones, a wire fence constructed and it was marked by a cross. Col. Helms was ,therefore, able to deny a rumor that had been started by some wag that there was no unknown soldier buried on la Cuesta del Muerto.

—B. H. COWAN.

GENERAL E. T. COLLINS

and Mrs. Collins left on Aug. 15th for a month's leave during which time they will visit Washington, D. C., and other points in the east.

CAPT. R. H. CHANCE

and family have arrived at Fort Benning. Capt. Chance will be one of the new instructors this year. They have taken quarters in Block 23.

TELEPHONE EXCHANGE MOVED

Last Line Cut Over at Six Tthirty-two A. M. Sunday

Men of the Fifth Signal Corps Detachment at this station, assisted by men of the garrison personnel detailed on special duty with the Signal Corps activities cut over the post telephone system from the old Signal Corps building and Exchange at Lumpkin Road and Wold Avenue to the new building at Vibbert Avenue and Ingersol Street.

The new switchboard just installed is Western Electric Company, Number 1, D Multiple. It is one of the most modern of any of the manual type boards now operated by the Signal Corps. The new board has a capacity of one thousand lines. It is now equipped with seven hundred lines while at the present time there are seven hundred and six subscribers. However, since a number of these lines are party lines and serve more than one suoscriber the seven hundred lines installed are ample to handle the traffic which passes over them.

The installation has been under the supervision of the Signal Officer and engineered by Mr. Williams ,civilian engineer of the signal service at large from the signal office, Fourth Corps Area, Atlanta, Georgia.

The actual cut-over and transferring of traffic from one board to another began last Saturday night at 9 o'clock and was finished Sunday morning at 6:32. During this period while the cut-over was in progress ,so efficient were the men in their work that those who placed calls knew nothing of the work going on. As a further testimony of the efficiency of the work done only three cases of trouble were reported. These were of minor importance and were speedily repaired. In each instance when the trouble was located it was found at the switchboard itself and not, as many would believe, at the junction where the wires were spliced.

The new telephone exchange building is built entirely of brick and concrete and was completed during the month of August of last year. During the first week of September the telephone office and greater portion of the supply section was moved into the completed building. At the same time the nine men of the Signal Detachment who are on duty here moved into the section set aside as their quarters.

CAPT. PLEAS B. ROGERS

and family left Fort Benning last week by motor for the New England states, where they will visit relatives for some time. On the return trip to Fort Benning, they will visit in New York and Washington. Capt. Rogers has recently been transferred to the Inf. School staff of instructors. Prior to that time he was on duty with the 24th Infantry.

MAJOR B. G. CHYNOWETH

and family have arrived at Fort Benning. Major Chynoweth will be one of the new instructors at the Infantry School this year. He has been assigned to Quarters 14-410 .

Ptomey-Williams Top Fistic Card Next Tuesday Night

Walker Smith Meets Frankie Grant, Charleston Navy Yard Light-heavy, in Semi-Windup.

FISTIC MENU

WILLIE PTOMEY	vs.	KID WILLIAMS	10 ROUNDS
WALKER SMITH	vs.	FRANKIE GRANT	6 "
SPENCER CARTER	vs.	GRADY MARTIN	4 "
HARLEY BAKER	vs.	BILLY SHELL	4 "
RED LAWSON	vs.	FISK WILLIAMSON	4 "
CY NEWBERRY	vs.	WHERU HEDDEN	3 "
DIZZY FREEMAN	vs.	FUZZY DOUGLAS	3 "

The above line-up of fistic entertainers are down to show their brand of glove slinging at the Post Arena on next Tuesday night, August 28th. As this goes to press each of the above group has signed to appear in the order named with one more bout held in reserve in the event that sickness, faintness, weakness, insanity or some other malady overtakes one of the fourteen before the opening gong.

At 7:45 P. M. two novices open the show with Dizzy Freeman of the 29th Infantry and Fuzzy Douglas of the 83rd Field Artillery. Both are newcomers to the fans, in fact they are strangers to the ring itself as from all accounts neither has ever graced the rosin canvass before, though they have been training at the Post gym since the day Tunney flattened Heeney. It looks as if both are in earnest with an eye on the big purses that Rickard pays out.

Next we will hear the introduction of Cy Newberry of the Tanks and Wheru Hedden hailing from the Ordnance Detachment. No reason can be advanced for the booking of this three rounder, except that both youngsters are tall, thin, good looking, and each looks well in a dress suit. It is rumored that one evening suit answers the needs of both, which if the story were carried to the end might expose the reason these two will grace their fists with leader cushions and attempt a modified, legalized, popularized form of homicide.

The 24th Infantry is furnishing the next bout, a four rounder. Red Lawson, who shags the foul tips at the ball park, will be pitted against Fiske Williamson, the hard hitting middleweight who waded through his regiment and beat every one at his weight he met. Lawson is five pounds lighter than his opponent but believes that he can teach the heavier rival a few things about the game. Tab this one, it will be a thriller.

Next we will have an opportunity to give the Hawaiian middleweight champion the once over. Harley Baker of Fort McPherson lays claim to that title stating that while a member of the 19th Infantry he brushed aside every one who met him. He has been handed a real sized order in the person of Billy Shell of Columbus, the southpaw who has won his last eleven bouts at the Post. This Shell boy is very unpopular with some of the fans, while others sing his praises. One fact stands out and that is he will meet any one selected for him as long as the selection is within twenty pounds of his weight. He never asks about the purse, the number of rounds, whom he is to box, or when. Call him up and he is ready at any time regardless of fact that he puts in ten hours a day in the mills.

Another McPherson boxer will be on the bill, a welterweight named Spencer Carter who ties up with the Columbus letter carrier Grady Martin. Martin will be remembered as the bruiser who threw gloves from all angles at Zack Taylor of the Engineers. Carter appeared in the semi-windup on the Ptomey-Tillie Kid Herman card at Atlanta recently. At the time he showed that he has more than a passing knowledge of the ring game.

Semi-Final

In the semi-final of six rounds Walker Smith of the 29th Infantry is listed with Frankie Grant, Charleston Navy Yard, Charleston, S. C. Grant has an impressive record covering a period of three years. From the official records of the ring Grant has taken part in 33 ring encounters, winning 19 of this number by a KO. The gob contends that he has never been floored and has lost but two bouts, one to Marine Verner of Parris Island, and the other to Cyclone Greasic of Portsmouth, Va. One clipping sent to the Post by the sailor is the report of Grant's winning the light heavyweight championship of the British Navy. When doughboy meets gob there should be a bit of concerted action, as it were.

Final

The main event of ten rounds brings together Willie Ptomey of the 15th Tank Battalion and Kid Williams of Savannah, Ga. Everyone is familiar with the return to form of Ptomey. The Tank representative gave the Atlanta fans the surprise of their lives when he pounded Tillie Kid Herman from pillar to post and forced Herman's handlers to throw in the towel at the start of the sixth round. Williams is the pride of Savannah and Jacksonville. He is coming to Benning with a record of nine straight knockouts over the best that the promoters of the southeastern section can get for him. He has ten round decisions over Al McClure, Red Hancock, Mike Owens, and Aubry Kid Parker, all well known boxers in the south, while his knockouts include two over Jim Beasley the last one being administered in the eighth round on the same card with Young Strinbling and Harry Fay. The Jacksonville papers devoted more space reporting the Williams-Beasley bout than the feature between Strinbling and Fay. Williams is described as a crafty, smart, hard hitting middleweight who possesses a peculiar shift which is used by him as a finishing punch after he has lured an opponent into believing that he himself is about on the verge of a knockout. The Savannah boy is just past 21 with a

MAJOR JOSEPH RUSS

Fort Benning was shocked when the news of the accidental death of Major Russ, formerly assistant Executive Officer at the Infantry School, was received here last Thursday. Major Russ left Fort Benning only a few weeks ago on a leave of absence after which he was to report to the Army War College for duty as a student in the class of this year. According to reports, he and Lieut. Colonel Butcher were on their way by motor to spend a few days fishing in Pennsylvania.

Major Russ was well known throughout the service. He was originally commissioned in the Philippine scouts and in 1921 was commissioned a Major of infantry in the regular establishment. He was a graduate of the Tank School, class of 1922-23 and the Command and General Staff School, class of 1924-25. For the past three years he was assistant executive officer at the Ifnantry School, and was one of the most popular officers of the staff.

Major Russ was prominent in Masonic circles, being a member of the Blue Lodge at Augusta, Maine, the Royal Arch Masons at Hollowell, Maine, the Commandery at Augusta, Maine, and also a Scottish Rite Mason and a member of the Shrine. Major Russ was signally honored by being made an honorary life member of the St. Aldemar Commandery, Columbus, Georgia, and presented with a gold membership card.

The entire garrison extends its sympathy to Mrs. Russ and two daughters and son in their sad bereavement.

AT THE MOVIES

Aug. 24 to Aug. 31 Incl.

FRIDAY, AUG. 24

"HOLD 'EM YALE," starring Rod La Roque in a smashing college romance. He was a Freshman—she the daughter of a Professor—their love romance had its inception in Latin America, but it was the big game that brought it to a glorious climax. This picture is particularly strong because it combines those elements which mean thoroughly enjoyable entertainment; absorbing continuity of plot, continued action, rapid succession of climaxes, and deft splashes of humor, interjected at just the right moment.

"Pathe News No. 67."

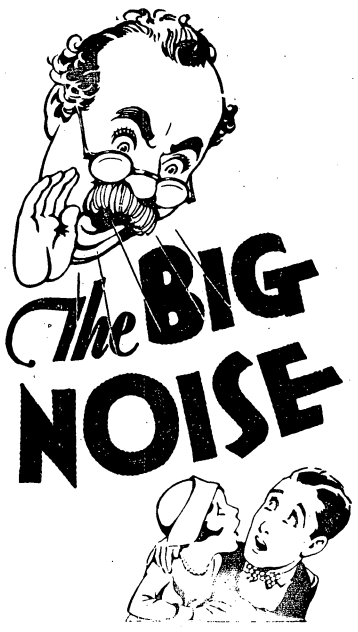
SATURDAY, AUG. 25

"TEXAS TORNADO," featuring Tom Tyler and his Pals in a real tornado of whirlwind and breezy action. It is a story of valuable oil leases, intrigue and romance. Not only is there a multitude of clever daring horsemanship, but also unbelievable feats of acrobatic skill. In one part of the story Tom, far above a mountain torrent, crosses a deep canyon on a cable, carrying a rescued girl in his arms.

"Finishing Touch," Laurel Hardy Comedy.

SUNDAY, AUG. 26

"THE BIG NOISE, "starring Chester Conklin, with a mirth producing comedy cast. The story is simply one jagged succession of laugh gags. Over night he became the "Big Noise" of the town. A newspaper hero, this ex-subway guard stages, without doubt some of the funniest conglomeration of gags and giggles that ever struck the screen. The clever manner in which he presents this comedy is laudable. It is a satire poking fun at newspaper heroes, written by Ben Hecht, considered one of the best known reporters and short story writers of this country.



"The Country Fair." Fables.
Paramount News Nofl 27.

MONDAY, AUG. 27

"THE TIGRESS," featuring Jack Holt with Dorothy Revier, in a gripping, moving romance set against the colorful and glamorous background of gypsy life. During the unfolding of the story, a wild untamed creature of the forest, who, because of her nature, was named after the wild cat of the jungle, is made to forget her oath of vengeance, and sheathe her claws because of the experience of love—to her a new bitter- sweet emotion.

"Haunted Island No. 9."

"WHEN A MAN LOVES," starring John Barrymore and Dolores Costello in one of the greatest love stories of the screen. This picture was shown in New York for a whole season at $2.00. The King had sought her as his mistress, but she turned again—all flame and loveliness to Des Drieux ,whose passion for her had wrecked his brilliant career. To love her meant disaster—and intoxicating joy.

"Halfback Hannah." Ann Cornwall.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 29

"LADY BE GOOD," featuring Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill in seven reels of music, magic and merriment. It portrays amusing glimpses of back stage life in vaudeville theaters, with the performers as the principal characters. This picture is a screen version taken from the stage hit of the same name, which had a long run in virtually every city in America. In preparation for it, Mulhall learned several conjurers tricks, and is prone today to make his friends watches and coins disappear—playfully of course. You'll like this farce comedy.
Paramount News No. III.

THURSDAY, AUG. 30

"OLD SAN FRANCISCO," starring Dolores Costello, as a Spanish type screen beauty, in a mystery story of the Barbary Coast. Chinatown and the Barbary Coast, known as the "mile of hell" in the days before the great fire of 1906, is no more, yet both live vividly in this film, which owes its authenticity to Alan Crostand, who directed "Don Juan," and "When a Man Loves." In this picture a real old time bartender will take you back to the days when those aproned gents filled several steins of beer simultaneously, and sent them sliding down the mahogany to land with precision in front of their purchasers. "Blow off the foam."

"The Golf Nut." Sennett Comedy.

FRIDAY, AUG. 31

"HALF A BRIDE," starring Esther Ralston with Gary Cooper, in an intriguing study of modern fast living, and its anthesis. The story moves from the gilded ball rooms of the wealthy, to the sordid underworld pleasure dives. Then to the polished desk of an ocean going yacht, and to the captivating setting of a desert island. This story was taken from the Saturday Evening Post story "White Hands," by Arthur Stringer, and is a daring treatment of the, as yet, unsound companionate marriage theme.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

Of signal importance to those working in the print shop was the announcement made recently by Private "Twins" Richardson that the expects to leave here September 1 for a thirty-day furlough, to be spent at his home somewhere in the state which a few years ago was made famous when its citizens emphatically denied that they were related to the monkey and since has become known throughout the world as the leader in all things anti-evolutionary. But we're getting away from what we wanted to say. When members of the personnel learned that Richardson was going away for the month of September, the following statements were issued: Charley—"I ought to save money this coming month. Bull Durham costs a right smart; I believe that I will save half what I usually spend for smoking tobacco." Tragard—"It's too good to be true. Let's hope he has plenty to smoke while away." Al—"Then, if what you say is the right dope, I should be able to do with one book of canteen checks next month." Jenrette—"My saving in drinks and matches alone should be considerably noticeable for September." Civilian Rowe—"Well, this coming month I will feel safe in taking my shirt off, without fear of its being used for press cleaning purposes." Harry—"Sure is good news; I should have no trouble getting plenty to smoke and drink off the boys this coming month with him out of the way." But, after all, Richardson is a pretty good scout and we hope he has a fine time.

John Middleton was heard from a few days ago in Cincinnati. He is on a two months' furlough and will visit his home in Nebraska before returning to Fort Benning.

As Sergeant Alvin C. York would probably say: "ho, ho."

Many a married man stays home nights because he has the house to himself.

HOME SUPPORT

The great majority of young men who enlist in the Regular Army come from homes—good homes. In a great many instances, these young soldiers are away from their homes for the first time in their lives.

Behind them, they leave the proud father, the loving mother, the anxious brothers and sisters. Back at home these relatives are ever eager to hear how their boy is progressing out in his strange new world.

In too many cases there is a disposition on the part of "son" to let himself grow careless in keeping these home folk informed of his career.

There are so many new fields open to him, so many new and novel experiences as a Regular, so many delightful new friends in olive drab. His correspondence suffers and the loving ones back home are left to wonder, perhaps to worry, when the mail brings them such meagre returns from their lad in the Nation's service.

These home folks do not appreciate the fact that this is not the fault of the Army that their boy becomes inclined to let the old ties lapse. On the contrary, Army authorities would have every soldier keep firm those bonds of filial affection and understanding. The Army encourages every soldier to write home, regularly, and for that purpose places at his disposal in every company, battery and troop day room a plentitude of paper, pens and ink.

The loved ones at home want to follow the absent one's progress minutely. If possible, they would know of his day-by-day steps toward the goal of real manhood. This is but natural, and the Regular Army authorities, to achieve this commendable purpose, would leave nothing undone to keep the soldier's family and friends well informed of his every step.—(Recruiting News.)

Hdqrs. Battery

The most important thing that has occurred in the Old Combat recently. is the arrival of our new battery commander, Captain Black. The Combat may not have impressed him so much with its first appearance, but it's like olives, you got to know them before you can appreciate them. They may not have looked so good at first glance but when it comes to delivering the goods, out on maneuvers, riding, pick and shovel, communications, well, we know how. Here's hoping that we all make the grade.

John J. McAullife has been appointed Sergeant again. This occurred some time ago, but we haven't written anything in a long time, so we'll have to put it in. Mac might not like it if we forgot. This puts Mac superior to Beanpole Cole. Tough, is it not?

Our battery baseball team has been acquitting itself wonderfully. We have lost a few games but usually bring home the bacon.

Monroe is among the missing. The phone calls coming in for him every day have been referred to Private Tucker, who seems to manage all of Monroe's social affairs while he is away.

Ed Roper was observed at the Cavalry Barracks where he is residing while on furlough. Several post cards that have come in have been traced back to him by the handwriting. However Ed's name was not on any of them. Some one else's was though.

Anthony, star bugler in the Artillery Bugler Corps, will have been discharged by the time this goes to press. It is believed that he will re-enlist, merely to blow the bugle if for nothing else.

Battery "A"

Several of the boys who have been on furlough, helping the farmers pick their peach crop, have returned and all say, never again. Private Todd, one of the gang, said "everything may be peaches down in Georgia" but we can't live on peaches alone.

Pfc. Usher: "Sergeant, I would like to get a pass to go to Phenix City, Alabama, to get my teeth fixed."

1st Sergeant: "What! Soldiers only go to Alabama to be treated for snake bites. Loan me your snake and I'll go with you."

There is a controversy being waged between Pfc. McRae and Private Glenn as to the meaning of the word bacteria. McRae claimed that it is a germ and Glenn says it the back door to a cafeteria.

Since June about thirty new men have joined the battery and they all seem to be good material for Artillery. Among the bunch are several who will be candidates for the football team this fall and the battery is looking forward to a winning season.

Battery "C"

The older men of the battery are now using that slangy phrase of "it won't be long now." Their reason—just ask some recruit.

Private First Class Specialist 3rd Class Jewell J. Shaw was given his walking papers, but the battery has such an attraction for him that he has taken on another stack. Congratulations old top, we are glad to have you remain with us.

The battery is on fire guard this week so there won't be any bed-time stories about what an excellent time we enjoyed the night previous, in Columbus.

A certain recruit was conversing with a Private First Class and noticing the chevron on the Pfc's blouse asked the Pfc. if he was a first private. The Pfc. replied that he was not a first private but that he was a sailor in the Swiss navy.

The other night we had a small fire in one of the tents of the battalion, and were turned out by fire call. One recruit got up and put on a complete uniform to answer same and then after being dismissed he kept the remainder of the battery awake all night relating about the fire, when the fire was already out before he even got his shoes on.

Recruit McDuff would like to have some one inform him where the fire cart carrying the chemical fire extinguisher is kept, and wants some one to put a red light on same as he claims he was run down by the cart the other night when we had the fire. Will some one please comply with "Krockidiles" request?

It is reported that Private Hardy C. Dean, who was discharged the latter part of last month, has re-enlisted for service in New Mexico. We bet he will sure have a hot time in the west.

The older men of the battery are to take 1st class gunners examination this week and we feel sure that we are going to qualify more men than any other organization in the 83rd.

Join the Horsedrawn Artillery. We may not draw much money, but oh! what a lot of fun we have.

1st Bn. Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

Well, it seems that Pvt. Bryan is very self-conscious. He doesn't seem to like to be complimented on his biscuits. Yes, his biscuits are very good. Every one is speaking of them.

Pvt. "Chops" Hayes is getting to be quiet a shiek. We hear that the girls are asking about that good looking boy. They think he is so big and strong, and has such cute ways.

Pfc. Bobbie Brown don't mind doing "guards" at all. The last four times he has been on guard he has made First Orderly. We are sure that he deserves it too. He is a very neat soldier, and sure can whip his rifle around; makes it play a tune.

Privates Hinkley and Ward must be practicing to go on the stage. Monday evening they were going through actions that would shame a ballet dancer. They had everything but grace in their movements.

Grass in front of our tents has been causing trouble this week. 1st Sgt. Sanders thinks that unless he gets it up himself, it will probably be there next month. However, it has all disappeared, and our company street looks much better. Little things kept clean will give our whole company a much better appearance. Lets keep our company street looking good. Nothing gives us a better sendoff than to have a neat looking company street.

—"Red."

Company "G"

We are pleased to announce the following promotions in the Company: Pvts. 1st Cl. Rimes and Saunders to Corporal; Pvts. Latham, Higgins, Fry, Gorgely, Redmon, Weber and Collier to 1st Class. All are good soldiers and deserving of promotion.

The first group that fired on the range this season pulled through with every one qualified. There were twenty experts, twenty-nine sharp-shooters and twenty-four marksmen. Captain Deane and Corporal Newman tied for first place with a score of 318. The second group will sure have to step out to beat this record, but we are confident that they will do it. The recruits are to be congratulated on the good showing that they have made, this being their first year on the range.

Sgt. Wiggins is taking a ninety-day furlough. We hope that you have an enjoyable vacation Sgt.

We are glad to have Red Roland back with us, and we hope that you are here to stay "Red."

All roads around McAndrew Range are closed now that Sgt. Brown is firing.

Pvt. Bates made expert with one eye closed.

Pvt. Houle is still a cook. Stay with them "Hula.'

Pvt. Walinski didn't have much time to lose in a hurry, so he made sharpshooter.

Sgt. Buck Folsom said he would take a ninety-day furlough in the country where he could watch the owls play with the chickens.

Pvt. Manley said he would like to trade his barber shop for a lantern until target season is over.

The motto of the 1st Platton is "We lead the way in the Company." Get in the game 2nd and 3rd Platoons.

—WARSET.

Company "H"

So far has the range practice season progressed, and no more. We have completed the 1,000-inch range, with a Company average of 151.05, which is the highest record average for that course that either "D" or "H" Companies have ever made: Corp. T. R. (Teddie) Lowe has the high average squad with an average score of 165.1. We would like to hear of any other squad, anywhere, that can beat that record. Corporal Lowe is real proud of his squad, and rightfully so.

I have been asked frequently of late as to where Pvt. Sam Schechowitz could be found. A few weeks back, Private Schechowitz managed in ways unknown to the writer, to secure a transfer to the Detachment Medical Department. We miss Sam, and extend to him an invitation to come around to see us whenever it is his inclination to do so. Sam is an excellent painter, and does beautiful finishing work. He always worked hard while he was in the best Company in the Army, and helped in countless ways to put an inspection over with a bang, and when we say bang, we mean BANG with a big "B". —Bernard B. Swayze.

Company "E"

Every one has fired the rifle now in the company except eighteen. We have not lost a man, coming through with the highest average score per man in the Regiment. The Company is having the best year on the range they have ever had. Our good shooting is due primarily to the superior coaching of our Company Commander. We believe Captain Rutledge is one of the best rifle coaches in the Army at the present time.

If any one is interested in high scores see Cook Buckner (he got 12 buuleyes at 600), especially at 600. A certain Corporal asked him how he did it and he says hold what you got and get more. Corp. King is in for purchase and will be leaving us on or about August 24th. His brother bought out of the company about two months ago and went home and got married. Private Henderson, James, the boy with a thousand instruments has transferred to the Band, 29th Infantry and we hope will learn to play all of his instruments before he leaves the Army. One of Company "E"s new arrivals in the Recruit Center is Private Boquille who has had nine years in the pill rollers rolling pills and capsules. We are glad to have him in the company. We had a transfer to the Company last week, Private Cooper from Co. G. He is one of the star baseball players on the Second Battalion baseball team.

The highest shot in the recruits in the Company at the present time is Private Bache, who made 312. It is reported that Private Henderson, Walter, who made the grand total score of two out of ten shots rapid fire last week by flinching on that shot is doing more flinching since he resumed firing, at any rate he is hitting the target quite often and making a very good score.

LIEUT. H. S. KELLEY

Logging Camp Moved

Barracks, Mess Hall and stables at the new logging camp are nearing completion. This camp is situated at Sulphur Springs on the Cusseta Road about six miles south of the old camp. This new location places the camp in the center of enough standing ripe timber to enable it to function for three or four years without the necessity of another move.

The buildings are 147 by 20 feet. One will contain the recreation room, canteen, dining room and kitchen. The other will have an orderly room, non-commissioned officers room, first sergeants and a store room. All buildings are equipped for, and have running water. The railroad runs to this camp, and as the Cusseta Road is being paved out beyond it, all they need to have the comforts of home, is electric lights.

The lumber used in constructing this camp was cut at the logging camp sawmill, which is located about one half mile from the new camp. This is only a small plant—portable saw and Fordson tractor—but it can cut five thousand feet per day. All this is being done by soldier labor from the 24th Infantry. During our visit to the camp we found Captain F. S. Mansfield watching the men place the floors in the buildings.

Captain Mansfield is in charge of the Logging Camp. He is directing the construction of the new camp as well as the move from the old to the new location, and states that the new one will be occupied some time next week.

Captain Mansfield is under orders from the Commandant to go into production on the first of September. On that date they must be prepared to furnish the mill down at Benning three hundred big logs, and two hundred ties per week.

This camp is situated in a cool place—in a big tree grove on the Cusseta Road—and looks like it is going to be one of the best places on the reservation to soldier.

Off Limits

'Twas two o'clock in the morning, and the Officer of the Day, very alert, stole so.dly, silently through the area; looking—peering—hither and yon. For had not Captain Helsley told him that very day that something dark and sinister was—"Ye Gods! what was that?" From "G" Company's tomato patch came shrieks, cries, screams. The O. D. was galvanized into panicky action. Swinging the powerful beam of his faithful Everready into the swishing tomato vine he discerned immediately; the big blue cat from the First Battalion.

Slowly he stalked away—majestically he stalked. Head up. Tail up, in the end of which was a slight crook. Nor a backward glance cast he. For the place was now public.

The O. D. swung the circle of light slowly to the left, where it came to rest on the glaring sign—KEEP OFF THE GRASS—Just that, and nothing more.

CAPT. STEEL RETURNS

Captain and Mrs. C. L. Steel returned to Benning last Saturday from a short vacation spent in and near Hendersonville, N. C. They report an excellent time. BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

It begins to look as if the ball season will run well into the Xmas. holidays if an effort is made to play all the postponed games that are piling up. Rain has certainly played havoc with the schedule.

The 2nd Bats managed to add another victory between raindrops to their already imposing array. Meeting the 15th Tank Battalion on August 18th the Kelly's behind the masterful pitching of Carnes eased in on the long end of an interesting game 3 to 0.

Carnes was at his best. He held the Tank outfit to one lone hit, a humped back liner that Kjelstrom, after a diving attempt to corral, managed to reach but which slipped away from his finger tips. The effort of Kjelstrom to hold the Tankers hitless was a pretty bit of fielding.

The Kelly's piled all their efforts in the 5th inning in which frame they scored all their runs. Newman opened the stanza with a single off Smith's chins. Tommie Thompson stopped a fast one with his ribs. Carnes bunted to Rowan, the Tanks hurler, and the bunt turned the complexion of the whole ball game. Rowan, with no chance to force the runner at third, elected to try anyway and all hands were safe. McAllister flied to third. Dean hit a high hopper back of the pitcher and was out at first, Newman scoring. Had Rowan thrown Carnes out at first on the bunt the side would have been retired without a run. To make the game certain Franz with two out lined a beauty over Cobb's head and the game was on ice.

Rowan and Carnes, both southpaws, pitched smart baseball. Carnes was entitled to the victory by a large margin, however, as he was never in trouble and breezed in going stronger than when he started.

One sad tale the 1st Bats can tell their children was the bad break the weather man gave them on Sunday, the 19th. Scoring six runs after two were out in the first inning of their game with the 83rd Field Artillery they were in line to take the Buckley crew for a loss. The score was 6 to 0 as the first half of the 5th opened. The first Artilleryman in this frame had been retired when a cloudburst swept the diamond of bases, players, umpires and bat boys. Just two more men remained to be retired and the 1st Bats would have chalked up a victory.

Hinkley, the 1st Bats hurler, certainly worked hard to turn in a win for his club. Seeing the rain approaching he lost little time getting the ball up to the hitters. He was right and had the red hats eating out of his hand, but the rain would not be denied. It is believed the Strickler outfit lost a ball game by the matter of two minutes.

That first inning must have been a nightmare to the Artillerymen. With the aid of one clean hit and a dozen and a half wild throws coupled with a boot the 1st Bats pulled up with six runs. The way that pill was let loose by the Buckley crew was a reminder of Skinny Hogan's gang in a back lot. The ball was traveling too fast from one player to the general direction of another to get an accurate line on all what happened.

Tuesday, the 21st, brought the 15th Tankers and I. S. D. together for a double header. Captain Bent turned out the strongest line-up of the year and forced the Cobb team to travel 10 innings before the winning run was put across. Pilot Cobb won the first game with a slashing hit to left, scoring Grantham with the winning run.

The second game found Grady Tolle on the rubber for the I. S. D. Tolle turned in a nice game and won without much eort 5 to 2.

The opener which the I. S. D. lost 6 to 5 was played under protest due to a decision rendered by Umpire Hinton on a play at first base in the ninth. The formal protest was placed on file in the Athletic Office at 9:30 A. M. the following morning. After each side is heard the Council will render its findings.

The first game was another nerve racking affair. These Tankers can salt away and then throw away more ball games than any club in the league. Going into the 9th with the Tanks leading by two runs the I. S. D. team, through the aid of a wild toss to first, scored three runs. While we are on this play mention is here made of an unusual bright bit of thinking on the part of Haney of the Tankers. Haney who graces left field for the Cobb crew tore in from his pasture while the rest of his mates were napping and backed up the catcher when the wild heave to first was returned to the plate. The ball got away from Ridley and the runner on third would surely have scored had not Haney been there. This prevented the 4th run that inning and as it turned out saved the ball game.

Every game is a battle these days and the fans are hoping the suspense keeps up.

The INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VI. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 31, 1928 Number 50

INFANTRY SCHOOL FALL ATHLETIC PROGRAM 1928

The following athletic program and budget approved by the Athletic Council as of August 7, 1928, will represent the Garrison's activities in athletics for the period September 21st to December 15th, 1928.

The period September 21st to November 1st will be given over to Unit activities, i. e., coaching of football teams, soccer teams, cross-country running, field and track teams, etc.

The period of November 1st to December 15th will be devoted to Garrison's activities and will include the following: American football for the larger units and association soccer for the special units; a football conference similar to one of last year will be organized only for the Battalion units and an association soccer league will be organized among the special units. The latter league will continue as long as interest is shown.

The program for special attractions and activities are as follows: Garrison Swimming meet, on September 3, 1928; Garrison Track and Field meet to be held on or about November 12th, 1928; and a Garrison Cross-County Run of 5 miles to be held on Thanksgiving morning, competition among Battalion teams, the Special Units to organize a Provisional Battalion team for that event.

A budget of $1450 from the Infantry School Athletic Association funds was recommended by the Council to carry out the above program, this budget being approved of by the Commandant.

The above budget provides for an extra mural football schedule of four games with the 24th Infantry from four outside colleges to be brought to Fort Benning.

BENNING BOXERS WIN BY KNOCKOUTS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 29.—(Special to Infantry School News.) — Fort Benning boxers featured the fight card at the auditorium here tonight by sending their opponents to dreamland early in their matches.

Gunner DePratt, lightheavy, from the Upatoi station, put Earl Hudson, Miami, to sleep in the second round, showing a punch which surprised the fans of the capital city. Pinky Phillips landed the soporific sock on Carl Fiske, Atlanta, in the third round of their preliminary bout.

Phillip's entry into the K. O. division, his first since fighting as a professional over a man of Fiske's caliber, was an agreeable surprise to Benning fans. Hardly a year ago this same youngster was among the many who was struggling for supremancy on novice bouts held at the Upatoi station. His early encounters found him having about as much difficulty in staying on his feet trying to land a blow as when he was the recipient of a hard blow to the button. Fiske has appeared on cards in Madison Square Garden against such men as Joe Dundee and "Panama Joe" Gans.

MRS. WILBUR H. VINSON

Society Editor of the Infantry School News, returned to Fort Benning from Fairburn, Georgia, where she has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Oscar Parker.

COLONEL KNIGHT ARRIVES AT BENNING

Colonel Harry E. Knight, the new Executive Officer of the Infantry School, accompanied by Mrs. Knight, arrived at Fort Benning Sunday, August 26th. During the last two months Colonel Knight has been on leave, which was spent at their cottage on Lake Champlain in northern New York.

Colonel Knight is well known throughout the service. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry in July, 1898. His entire service has been in that branch, during which time he has held many responsible positions. From 1923 to 1927 Colonel Knight was on duty in the office of the Chief of Infantry, Washington, D. C., and comes to Benning with intimate knowledge of the needs of this arm of the service. He is a graduate of the Infantry-Cavalry School of 1904, and a graduate of the War College, in the class of 1928.

The News joins the garrison in extending a welcome to Colonel and Mrs. Knight to their new station.

MAJOR POWER RETIRES

The retirement of Major O. E. Power, commanding officer of the First Battalion, Twenty-fourth Infantry, by reason of physical disability, brings to close a long and varied career. Major Powers began his military career as a private in the Seventh Regiment, New York National Guard, in 1892, in which regiment he served till 1898, when he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Infantry in the Twelfth New York National Guard, and went to Cuba with it. He was a member of this regiment when it was selected by General Joseph P. Sanger to receive the formal surrender of the Spanish troops at Mantanzas, Cuba. From Cuba Major Power went to the Philippine Islands as a First Lieutenant of the Forty-third United States Volunteers in August, 1899, and remained in the Philippines until the fall of 1900, when he returned to the states.

Following his return to the States he abandoned the military profession and began a practice of law in New York City and which practice he continued till May, 1917, when he returned to the service. He was stationed at Platsburg Barracks and was commissioned a Major of Infantry and was later placed in command of a battalion of the 306th Infantry of the 77th Division. He remained in this command until evacuated from the Argonne in October, 1918.

Major Power was commissioned a Major of Infantry in the regular army on July 1, 1920. Following his acceptance of commission he was assigned to duty in the office of the Assistant Secretary of War on which duty he remained till his assignment to duty at Fort Benning in 1925. Major Power has commanded the First Battalion of the Twenty-fourth Infantry since his arrival at Fort Benning.

Major and Mrs. Power will leave Saturday, September 1, for a short visit to Virginia Hot Springs, thence to Washington and New York for short visits. In the winter they expect to go abroad making their home in Southern France.

Ptomey-Williams Battle to Draw Before Record Crowd

Tuesday night, August 28th, was a red letter night in the annals of the fistic game at Fort Benning. First, the weather man had the fans on edge all day with intermittent showers that threatened to move the whole show indoors. It was finally pulled off under a threatening sky. Every other round there was a bit of moisture making the ring treacherous for the boxers, but old lady moon broke through just as the semi-windup was getting into action and from then to the last round of the windup the patrons were able to sit back and enjoy the swatfest.

The show started in a slight drizzle with Fuzzy Douglas, of the 83rd Field Artillery, and Dizzy Freeman, of the 29th Infantry. These two novices started off in whirlwind style and kept up the fast pace through three rounds. Not a second was lost while they were in the ring. Fuzzy won by keeping his long left continually playing a tattoo on Dizzy's upper lip. Freeman was best when he was able to work inside, but the damage he inflicted did not counteract the lead Douglas piled up with long jabs and books. Wheru Hedden, of the Ordnance, placed Cy Newberry, of the Tanks in a coma at the start of the second round. Hedden contends he stopped Newberry with a right to the jaw; one of Newberry's seconds entered a protest that his man was fouled with Hedden's knees, but to the writer it appeared as if Cy ran into some of the raindrops that were falling at the time; this coupled with an over hand swing that Hedden let loose and which seemed to graze the frontal features of Newberry while the swing was nearing the end of its arc, were the real causes of Newberry's horizontal position on the canvas. Cy showed a world of pep breaking away from the caresses of his seconds when he was brought around, but unfortunately it was too late for him to do the damage he threatened.

From these novice bouts it is hoped that youngsters will be developed to take their places as headliners later. Just as soon as they get over some of the stage fright they will settle down and look better.

Billy Shell, of Columbus, added another doughboy to his list when he left-handed Harley Baker, of Fort McPherson, all over the ring. Baker won the hearts of the crowd by his game showing and at one stage of the battle actually had Shell on the run. He was not equal to the task of following up his advantage and faded out near the end. Shell will have a surprise package in store for him in a six round bout later. Watch this column.

Grady Martin, of Columbus, who has beaten quite a few service men, met a tough one in Spencer Carter, of McPherson. Carter eased along for two rounds using his long left to the letter carrier's nose. Starting with the third round Carter shifted his attack downstairs and soon had Grady in a bad way. One hard one to the solar plexis put Martin down for the nine count but he had enough left to last until the end. If Grady delivered his batch of mail Wednesday morning many a housewife gasped when he appeared with a badly bruised countenance. Fiske Williamson, of the 24th Infantry, threw a sea of gloves at Red Lawson, of the same outfit. Many hard and terriffc wallops were landed on Tuesday night but it is doubtful if any were as hard as the ones that Williamson landed on Red. Lawson took them all with a smile but human nature can stand just so much and before an accident happened the bout was stopped. Red was in trouble near the end of the second round but gamely came up for the third. A terriffic uppercut that Williamson landed came near tearing Red's head loose from his shoulders which called for intervention. Lawson handed out a lot of punishment himself, opening up a nasty cut over Williamson's right eye, but Red was plainly outclassed.

The Navy met the Army in the semi-windup of six rounds. Walker Smith, the doughboy, met Frankie Grant, the gob. This was a battle from the first to the last round. Smith opened up on the sailor with the avowed purpose of sinking the Navy in th efirst round. Walker hit the gob with rights and lefts so often that an adding machine was necessary to keep the count. The fight had hardly started when down went the Navy, but not for long. Bobbing up like a bottle the sailor waded in for more and took everything that was passing. The second round was a repetition of the first with Smith pitching and Grant doing all the receiving. During this round Frankie found himself tied up with the ropes and more than once heard the birdies sing while his feet were dangling on the bottom hemp. The third saw Grant still on his feet but the receiver of many a hard knock on the button. What held him up had the crowd guessing for he is the best catcher that has appeared at Benning for many a day. Whether it was the moon which pushed her way through the rain clouds or the sage advise Grant got in his corner, whatever it was, the fourth round saw Smith on the receiving end for the first time of the battle. A hard uppercut landed flush on Smith's nose in this round and took a world of steam out of the doughboy. From this point on the sailor took the lead and piled up enough points to earn a draw at the end. A push or a glancing blow forced Walker to take a count of nine in the fifth round which went a long way in influencing the judges to a draw decision. Six rounds were not enough to decide the issue satisfactorily. This bout is worth a windup in any club in the country so just count these two as booked for a bout of ten rounds a month or two hence.

The windup of ten rounds between Willie Ptomey, of Fort Benning, and Kid Williams, of Savannah, Ga., was a fitting climax to a well balanced card. Williams possesses a hurricane left and a sweet right hand. As he is a southpaw, followers of boxing know how an orthodox boxer is placed at a disadvantage, especially if they have not trained to meet a portsider. It was not known that Williams fought with his right hand in front until he worked out in the

On Saturday morning of last week Mrs. Shirley Randolph Hurt entertained twelve friends at a beautiful bridge luncheon at the Log Cabin. The tables were laid in linen cloths of rainbows hues, each table having for its centerpiece a low bowl of flowers whose colors corresponded with the linen. After luncheon, bridge was played. Those included in Mrs. Hurt's hospitality were: Miss Louise Young, Miss Kate Kingman, Miss Alice Torrey, Miss Bess Berry, Miss Becky Hill, Miss Maxine Hall, Miss Lucile Slade, Miss Ethel Woodruff, Miss Emma Kate Hyatt, Miss Dorothy Kilgore, Miss Evelyn Frost, Mrs. Earle, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Jacob R. Moon was hostess on Monday at a beautiful luncheon at the Log Cabin, the occasion being a farewell to a group of her inner circle of life long friends in Columbus before her departure soon for Ft. Riley, where Lt. Moon will be a student at the Cavalry School. The guests were seated at one long table which was overlaid with filet mats. Green crystal ware was used in the service of the luncheon, and the table had for its central decoration a low green bowl filled with pink and lavander summer flowers, surrounded by low green candlesticks holding slim lavander tapers. Seated at the table were Miss Loretta Chappell, Miss Sara Hines Ford, Miss Katherine Banks, Mrs. Charles Dimon, Mrs. P. H. Connelly, Miss Mildred Daniel, Mrs. Francis Blackmar, Mrs. Marjorie Broune Strother and Mrs. Moon.

Miss Helen Young, who was equitation instructor at Camp Keystone near Brevard, N. C., returned Wednesday morning, after a most delightful camping season.

* * *

Little Miss Marian Phelps, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Frederick C. Phelps, was a camper at Keystone and was one of nine, out of sixty campers, to win her letters "K. C." for making an enviable record in camp activities.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. John E. Dahlquist arrived Wednesday and are at home in the Carolyn Apartments at 1315 Second Ave. Mrs. Dahlquist spent the early part of the summer in Minneapolis, where she was the guest of her mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. Dampier. Later she joined Capt. Dahlquist at Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont, where he was on summer duty. Capt. Dahlquist, who has been an instructor in The Infantry School for the past four years, will be a member of the Advanced Class this year.

Maj. and Mrs. John T. Rhett and family are enjoying their leave in the heart of the lovely Blue Ridge Mountains at Saluda, N. C.

Mrs. N. H. Strickland and son, Harrell, spent the past week in Blakely, Ga., with relatives.

* * *

Lt. Winston Titus, who was a member of the June class at West Point and who has spent his leave at Benning with his parents, Maj. and Mrs. Calvin Titus, leaves Saturday for his first duty at Fort Sam Huston, where he will enter the air service. Lt. Titus will motor to San Antonio and will be accompanied by his mother, who will return to Fort Benning after a short visit there.

Lt. and Mrs. W. W. Brier, Jr., and family and Lt. and Mrs. Howard P. Criswell have reached Honolulu and write of having seen Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Starkes, Capt. and Mrs. Olsen, Capt. and Mrs. Young, Capt. and Mrs. Scott and others from this post, who have preceded them to "The Happy Isles."

Capt. and Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd had as their week-end guest Mr. Jones T. Lester, of St. Louis. During the war Lt. Jones served with Capt. Boyd in the 16th Infantry and they went through "squelly" times together. Whenever Mr. Jones comes South he always makes the Boyds a visit.

Lt. and Mrs. Jake Moon left Wednesday for Ft. Riley, where they will be stationed this year. In their going Fort Benning loses a most talented couple, whose lovely music has added much pleasure to many occasions both on the post and in the city.

SECOND HAND FORDS RETURN TO NORMAL PRICE

For the benefit of those who have been mystified by the recent advance in price of second hand Ford cars we offer the following explanation:

Last winter was rather severe in this part of the country. Captain E. M. S. Steward owned and operated an open Ford touring throughout this adverse climatic condition. The thought of repeating this chilling experience again this winter was so distasteful to him that immediately upon the completion of target practice, when time became available, he sought to alleviate this unsatisfactory condition of affairs by the acquisition of a 1925 Ford coupe.

In his frantic search through all agencies in the city of Columbus that handle anything from baby carriages to threshing machines, he aroused hopes in the breasts of second hand car dealers, and particularly in the breasts of second hand Ford dealers, wore out several sets of second hand tires ,burned up tanks of second hand gasoline, disturbed traffic, and quickened the financial pulse of all car dealers in the city before falling tooth and toe nail upon a poor little Ford that the owner did not care to sell.

The market reacted quickly, and eased off slightly. We predict that if his present car does not break down, the price of second hand Fords will drop to their former level in the vicinity of Columbus and Fort Benning.

"I want to be game," cried the prisoner.

So the judge made him quail.

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 31 to SEPT. 7, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 31

"HALF A BRIDE," starring Esther Ralston with Gary Cooper in an intriguing study of modern fast living, and its anthesis. The story moves from the gilded ball rooms of the wealthy, to the sordid underworld pleasure dives. Then to the polished desk of an ocean going yacht, and to the captivating setting of a desert island. This story was taken from the Saturday Evening Post story, "White Hands," by Arthur Stringer, and is a daring treatment of the, as yet, unsound companionate marriage theme.

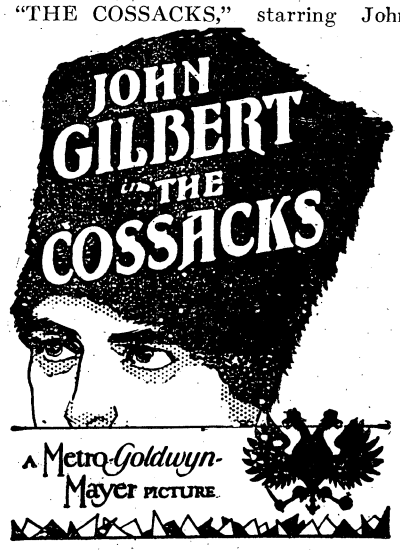
SATURDAY, SEPT. 1

"MAN IN THE ROUGH," featuring Bob Steel with Marjorie King, who played attrractive parts in "The Collegians." This is a rapid fire western possessing action, daring and remarkable feats of horsemanship. Its plot contains a strong romance.

"Slippery Heels." Jimmie Adams.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 2

"THE COSSACKS," starring John Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Ernest Torrence in a picturization of the famous novel by Count Tyof M. Tolstoi. True to sordid Russian life, this story, laid in that vast country of mystery, intrigue and violence, portrays the bitter and daring with the sweet. Lukashau, son of a Cossack chief, possesses a poetic nature; he shuns the brutal and is considered a coward. As such he suffers tortures until the spark of his father's courage is kindled in him. Finally, in battles with the Turks, and several other enterprises, he acquits himself with honor. He wins, as a bride, the girl who once shunned him, and the honor of being made chief is bestowed upon him. This tale portrays Russian life as it once existed. Some of the feats of horsemanship accomplished by the Cossacks are remarkable. It is considered an absorbing, exciting melodrama.



"Jungle Days." Fables.

Paramount News No. 112.

MONDAY, SEPT. 3

"HAROLD TEEN," from the newspaper comic sheet, featuring Arthur Lake, Mary Brian, Alice White and Lucian Littlefield in a comical filmization of this loony, laugh libation. In looking at newspaper suppliments you've laughed at Harold, Lillums, Beezie, Giggles and Dad. This screenization will tickle every amusement fiber in your system. A good romance plot floats the comedy-punches of this drama.

"Haunted Island No. 10." This is the last episode of this absorbing serial. Starting Monday, September 10, "THE YELLOW CAMEO" will be presented. It is a most intriguing serial, filled with mystery and continuous hair raising action.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 4.

"UNDER THE BLACK EAGLE," starring Ralph Forbes, Marceline Day and Flash, a police dog possessing an understanding vocabulary of over four hundred spoken words. It is a drama of the German-Russian front during the world war. Enmity springs up between two civilians over a dog which protects the weaker of the two men in an altercation. Later they go to the front; the dog follows them, and after many hardships, finds these men facing a Russian machine gun nest. He enacts acts of bravery which are almost incomprehensible. The story is filled with action, pathos and feats of daring. It possesses a love plot.

"From Soup to Nuts." Laurel-Hardy.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 5

"ON TO RENO," starring Marie Prevost in a satirical comedy drama, with a most brilliant supporting cast headed by Cullen Landis, who appeared on our Main Theatre stage in person last year. Divorce? Here's interesting information and instruction. Reno has sixty-eight divorce lawyers; apartment houses and elaborate hotels have been built near the court house in which there has been an average of three divorces granted daily. Requirements: three months' residence and lots of "jack"; they tax you according to your financial standing; couples pay anywhere from $60.00 to $20,000 to put the deal across. This picture is an amusing treatice on the subject—its plot is a comical combination of romance and marital disolution.

Paramount News No. 113.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 6

"STOP THAT MAN," featuring Barbara Kent, Arthur Lake and George Siegmann in a comedy chucked full of action. Tommy puts brother Bill's uniform on and plays cop—he helps a burglar enter a house, falls off a skyscraper—rescues a girl—and hires a thug to shoot him, but decides to live when Barbara smiled smiles on him. Fast, furious fun from start to finish.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 7

"ACROSS THE ATLANTIC," starring Monte Blue in a thrilling romance of the air. Monte appears as the younger son of a rich manufacturer who runs off to war and loses his memory when his plane is shot down. His identity is restored in an exciting episode which is climaxed by a love flight across the Atlantic in a stolen plane.

Pathe News No. 71.

"BEHIND THE SCENES"

O, yes, those fellows have a fine job, they see the picture shows every night and it doesn't cost them a cent. Well, That is about one-tenth of the story, the rest of it is that if those fellows get the time to go into the auditorium, take a seat and get to watching the picture, just when the girl is about to be saved from the clutches of the villian something needs attention at the ticket booth, operating booth, in the lobby, or on the stage and they hurriedly leave to attend to business.

If you are in the dark about who these fellows are, we'll enlighten you, they are the Fort Benning theater personnel: Sergeant M. D. O'Neal, manager; he is on his toes seven days a week, fifty-two weeks a year, from 7 o'clock in the morning, often until 10 o'clock at night, seeing that every member of his team plays his part in the game. He is a conscientious, hard worker, and takes to heart the idea if all elements of his work are efficient, men of the Garrison are getting a maximum of pleasure out of the movies.

Who keeps the theater in such good repair, the electric fans running and the stage ever in condition to function? That man is Sergeant Russell V. Wall, always on the go. During the day time he is theater supply sergeant and general utility man; he keeps repairs right up to the minute and makes those necessary changes, in the theater, which will insure the greatest comfort to patrons. At night you meet him more frequently than any one else, because he passes out the tickets. Sometimes he is too busy to smile but he has a heart of gold.

Corporal J. C. Nash, chief operator, likewise is a busy man. He never misses a picture, but by the time the entertainment closes at night his eyes ache, for during the day they have been concentrated on the inspection of the minute details contained in some ten thousand feet of motion picture film. This inspection insures the audience that there will be no interruption in the continuity of projection. His machines are delicate instruments, they demand close watching and oiling ;if they get out of order he repairs them. Then, at night, after the almost slight of hand process of preparing film for, and threading it into the machines, his eyes are glued to the port hole watching the screen to see that the slightest flaw does not occur which might bother the eyes of spectators. Has he enjoyed the picture? Of course not, but if you have enjoyed it, he gets his kick out of your enjoyment. In addition to handling projection at the Main Theater he supervises operators at the 29th and 24th Infantry theaters. Incidentally ,Corporal Nash has just gone to the hills of North Carolina on a well earned month's furlough and Corporal Elza Hall is taking his place.

Why is it that the same picturs are shown at all three theaters on the same night? Somebody must get them there and the man who does it is Private Troy V. Moore; you'll see his little blue truck bounding around the Post at all times of the day and night; like the other men he has his daylight duties, which consist of securing and delivering films from the express office—an important task. Also, many other minor jobs of messengership. While you are eating dinner in the evening he starts the films rolling, delivers them to the 29th Infantry theater, then after a reel has been shown he shunts it to the 24th Infantry theater, goes back to the 29th Infantry theater, gets some more film for delivery to the 24th, then he takes the same film that has been run at the 24th and delivers it to the Main Theater and so on, until the shows are over. If this truck breaks down, which, of course, never happens to a Ford, he walks, runs or calls for help—Sergeant O'Neal or the Captain, with their cars parked at the Main Theater, standing in readiness for emergency, they will get the films there if Moore's Ford fails.

Refreshments: Why are the drinks always so cold, tasty, appetizing and clean? It is because Private Charles E. King has painstakingly prepared them for your enjoyment. Oh, yes, it is a nice job running a refreshment stand, but if it is not kept clean or if there is a money shortage, who is the goat? It is the man behind the counter.

The 29th and 24th Infantry Theater staffs will be commented upon in our next story.

The music which pleases all is presented by the Main Theater orchestra entirely composed of 29th Infantrymen, under the able direction of Sergeant Ralph R. Wright. An article in last week's Infantry School News gave some details concerning this important part of the theater staff.

Delving still deeper behind the scenes; there are a numbr of things going on that few realize. How is the large amount of money that comes in accounted for to Washington; how are the various recreation funds handled in strict accordance with regulations, and last but not least how are the 365 fine feature pictures, the 365 comedies, news reels, and fables secured? This is a lengthy story that will be left to your conjecture.

To climax the above epistle, the theater personnel can well be compared to an expertly coached football team; they work in harmony, keep the ball rolling and their goal is giving you enjoyable entertainment—they get their pleasure from accomplishing this.

REGIMENTAL BASEBALL

Some of the hottest ball games ever played on this post are being played in the Regimental League. "E" Company won the first half season, and if some other company team wins the second half we will see a championship played here that will have more real drawing power than the American and National League series.

This is a personal baseball war. The companies turn out every man that is available. And each man on the teams is somebody's bunkie, and as such he must be persuaded around the bases. The manner of persuation varies: Some times the first sergeant takes a hand and promises the company player all manner of jobs that the average soldier associates with the burning hereafter; K. P., room orderly, 6, 8 & 10, etc., if he does not perk up and whail one against the box cars in Colonel Willard's railroad yards. At times you will find a soldier on his knees around third ,begging and pleading with the runner on that base to get the run across, or his four bits is gone from the company. They are out there to win, and they don't care anything about the scientific side of the game, errors are unnoticed unless someone makes two or three that threatens the results. If this happens he is pulled from the game, and immediately becomes a rooter for his team.

If you want to see baseball played, as the Indians say, from the heart out, come out and watch the company teams mix it up with each other in games that are full of interest and laughs from the beginning. The season closes on August 31st.

Our 24th Exchange

Not all in the regiment, especially amongst the officers, know the convenience of the 24th Infantry Exchange. This exchange is under the direct supervision of Sergeant Daniel Blue, a retired non-commissioned officer who was first sergeant in the 10th cavalry for twenty years. He has under him Sergeant A. D. Jackson, "A" Company, 24th, who has been in the 24th fifteen years. Corporal Stewart Murrell, "C" Company, 10 years in the 24th. Private Joseph G. Majors, 16 years in the 24th, and Private First Class E. J. Nickens, 10 years in this regiment.

These men deserve great credit for the loyalty they give in this capacity. They are on the job all the time from 6:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. every day—Saturday, Sunday and Holidays—except that on pay days they keep the Exchange open till 9:00 P. M.

This is a great convenience. There is no other store in the vicinity of Columbus that is open in the afternoons on Sundays and holidays. The Exchange carries extensive lines of nearly all articles that are needed in the army and around your home.

If you happen to be hungry, there is a short order lunch-counter across one end of the main room where everything from "Ham and—" to fancy sea food is served, most excellently cooked, and that too, in real short order.

You can rest assured that if you have forgotten something and that "something" is handled at a post exchange, you can get it at the 24th Infantry exchange. For the men there are open, ready for business, during practically all the time you are awake.

Staff Sergeant Glover's March

Staff Sergeant Glover of the band, has composed a march, and he informs us that the title of that march is to be "The Colonel Galleher March." This march is a characteristic classic, and is to go into publication right away.

Sergeant Glover is famed throughout the army for his ability as a musician. He has been a student under SaFranek, one of America's greatest composers, has attended the army music school, and plays all band instruments with facility. He has completed over thirty years service—fourteen years in the band of the 25th Infantry, and sixteen years in the band of the 24th. He is now staff sergeant and assistant band leader of this regiment.

The band of the 24th gives a concert on the evening of the 31st in front of the Service Club. The "Colonel Galleher March" will be the first piece on the program at that time.

Good work, Sergeant. We congratulate you.

New Gardner

A new gardner has been selected for the regimental garden. It has long been common knowledge in the regiment that the garden is out there, for once and awhile we get a paper bag with some vegetables thrown loosely around in the bottom. These we took home most of the time. Those were good bags, though.

Now this same garden has got to produce or get off the map. The officer—yes, the new gardner's an officer—said as soon as he had the Bluegrass killed out he was going to sow fall turnips. Being a little curious to see Bluegrass we went out to have a look at the grass that made the officer's home state famous. We are sorry now, that we were curious! All through life we have waxed romantic and sentimental over the mere name Bluegrass—associating it with the beautiful women and fast stepping horses of that state. We are disillusioned, disheartened. Never again will his home state be the object of our romantic dreams. For the grass that we saw—and we saw aplenty—was that ogre of our corn-hoeing, boyhood days—Crabgrass.

Major Power Leaves Us

Major E. O. Power retires from active service and will proceed to his home in Washington, D. C., on or about the last of the present week. Upon the eve of his departure and in order to make some concerted display of respect and esteem with which the regiment regards him, it was decided to give him a going away party—a swimming picnic at the pool. This was rained out. So the officers, their wives and their relatives met in the 24th Officers Mess at 6:30 P. M., the 28th, for a picnic supper and general get-together meeting.

The party was extremely informal. Several officers and their families have joined since the last 24th party. These were present, and once more the 24th is acquainted.

Those present were: Col. and Mrs. Paul C. Galleher, Col. and Mrs. H. A. Wells, Col. and Mrs. E. H. Tarbutton, Maj. and Mrs. R. H. Fletcher, Jr., Maj. and Mrs. Chas. E. Coates, Maj. and Mrs. E. O. Power, Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Fletcher, Sr., (retired), Madame Coates, Capt. and Mrs. Chas. L. Steel, Capt. and Mrs.—but it is needless to name them all. If they were there they know it. And nearly all the officers of the 24th were present with the better part of the family.

One time we wrote up a bridge party. Wrote it up beautifully and carefully, saying something nice about each and every lady present, mentioned them all by name except one. One we overlooked, and as this one happened to be the hostess, and by extreme ill luck, our wife, we have become cautious, very cautious. In fact the echos of this oversight almost embittered our soul.

Major and Mrs. Power; we are sorry, darned sorry, to see you go, and you know without our feeble attempt to tell you, that you take with you from the regiment its best wishes and esteem. Auf Wiedersehen.

—Roy F. Hall.

29TH INF.

Company "E"

Target season is over and we are certainly proud of it. We came through qualifying every man in the company that had to fire.

Private Steinwinder, a former N. C. O. of Company "E," returned to the Company last week, after three years of absence. He has been around New York City in the 18th Infantry and gave up a sergeancy to transfer to Company "E" 29th Infantry. He says Fort Benning is a better place to soldier than around New York City.

Seems the whole company was interested in Private W. Henderson's shooting for record the last day. The company lined up so behind the target counting his score the first sergeant had to run them back several times. You would imagine they were witnessing a baseball game or a local prize fight. He was our most doubtful man but he pulled through with two points over marksman. He left the firing point with a smile like a mule eating briars.

Private Briggs is back in the company after spending a two months' vacation in the sand hills of North Carolina. Briggs says he will never take one of those French furloughs again for it sure gets a fellow in debt.

Glad to have Private Goble Davis back from Wire City, after spending a month and a half over there.

We have 18 men in recruit center now, mostly all from Louisiana. Our recruiters are doing a whale of a business in recruiting over there. The boys don't look hungry. It can't be that.

One of our new-comers in recruit center is an old timer (Buffington) with seven years in the service from the 15th Tanks Battalion, across the street from us, who has reenlisted with Company "E." He was looking for the best company in Fort Benning to reenlist in.

Last Saturday Pvt. Myers was in Columbus, Georgia, but returned about 7:30 P. M., and stated there was no one in town. It is the first time the writer ever heard of a town that size being deserted. Tell us another one, Eddie.

No more early rising since completion of target practice. The boys can turn in their lanterns that had drawn them in exchange for their bunks and get a good night's sleep now.

Firing statistics of Company:

Average score per man, 290.08.

Experts, 30; SS's, 63; MM's, 70.

High score in Co., 1st Sgt. Davis, 324, $20 watch.

High score, 1st Platoon, Pvt. Cook, $5 fountain pen.

High score, 2nd Platoon, Sgt. Arevalo and Pvt. Hawkins, P., tie score, $5 fountain pen each.

High score, 3rd Platoon, Corp. Horton, $5 foundtain pen.

High squad, Corp. Oikari, $5 for Corp. and $2 for each membe rof squad. Squad average was 296.8.

Our First Sgt. also tied the high man in the 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, for high score, Sgt. Friend. —IMY.

AUTOS LAST LONGER

The average life of motor vehicles generally is 7.04 years. The average life of automobiles has shown a definite, though not a steady increase. The rate at which automobiles of a given year's production are eliminated from use is: Of any given 100,000 cars placed in use, 75 per cent. will be in use at the end of 4.75 years, 50 per cent. at the end of 6.94 years, and 25 per cent. at the end of 9.2 years. The average age of cars in use January 1, 1925, was 3.07 years. Bulletin—Business Research University of Michigan.

YE PRINTE SHOPPE GOSSIPE

On August 1st John Middleton left here for a sixty-day furlough, to be spent in Nebraska. That statement has appeared in these columns before and has just about lost its value as a news item. But this week we are making an announcement which will no doubt cause some of John's friends to realize the existence of a situation that heretofore has not been reckoned with. When he left, Middleton promised to drop the boys a card every day or so and let them know how he manages to get up mornings, go to bed nights; go to breakfast, lunch and dinner (we come darn near saying "chow") without the buglers there to "bugle" for him. Now, fellows, here comes the startling news. We have discovered that John is a Scotchman. Does not that one word explain fully why we haven't heard from Middleton? Remember, stamps, writing paper and pen and ink are very expensive — from a Scotchman's point of view. If we want to hear from the old boy, shouldn't we, at the earliest possible convenience, mail him a supply of ready-addressed stamped envelopes, a few sheets of paper and a pen filled with ink? Archie Bain, of the I. S. D., knows Middleton's address and anyone wishing to give to this worthwhile cause will see that gentleman immediately. He will be glad to forward any donations with the contributor's compliments.

G. E. Dillard, who recently transferred from Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry, to the I. S. D., and is now on duty at the print shop as linotype operator, is evidently a popular young man with the fairer, or weaker, or what have you, sex. Last Sunday afternoon he was visited by four of the most attractive girls the town of Blakely, Ga., ever produced, namely: the Misses Irene and Elizabeth McCullar and Mabel and Mary Alice Grimsley. A couple of ordinary every-day "drug store cowboys" were along to mend tires, crank the lizzie in case the battery wouldn't work, etc., but they were not of enough interest to this writer as to warrant his making their acquaintance. But these young ladies were without any doubt whatsoever partly responsible for the fame which has come to Georgia as a state filled to the brim with the best looking flappers ever known to flap. Since Sunday we have been seriously thinking of asking for a furlough and spending the entire time in Blakely, Ga.

Harry Manning, a friend of his reminds us, is at least half engaged to be married. He has his own consent.

Charley Dollar says if Johnny Heisler keeps going about and meeting those famous Georgia "peaches," he'll soon be as much "Cracker" as he is. However, Johnny is from Missouri and must be "showed."

Mr. Davidson, who has been on leave of absence for several days, is back on the job. Mr. Davidson, accompanied by Mrs. Davidson and Johnny Heisler, spent a recent week-end with friends in North Georgia.

Three members of the print shop personnel, Privates Malo, Webb and Byrd, went before the promotion board Monday morning.

Twins Richardson will start for sunny Tennessee soon as he is paid Friday, for the expressed purpose of spending thirty days with the gang of which he was no doubt a popular member before he joined the army "to see the world." Twins is very enthusiastic about the trip and we'll wager a stick of Juicy Fruit he'll be even more enthusiastic to get back where he can stick his feet under his Uncle Sam's table, too.

Al Traut went to Columbus Sunday afternoon to witness the baseball game between the I. S. D. and the Hubbard Hardware aggregation. No news in that, but if the reader knew the exact details he'd probably get a laugh at the expense of Al. Ask Sergeant Dubanowski. —R. M. J.

TRAINING THAT APPEALS TO YOUTH

Enrollment at the citizen's military training camp this summer has been exceeded by that of only one year, 1927, the war department states. The total number of men at the fifty-two camps throughout the country this year is 35,591, compared with 39,287 last summer. The number of applications this year, however, was the largest on record, amounting to 57,868. It should be a source of gratification for this region that the seventh corps area, comprising Kansas, practically all of Missouri and several other nearby states, is second of the nine areas of the country in enrollment. The second corps area, with headquarters at Governor's Islands, N. Y., is ahead of it by only a little more than three hundred.

But there is evidence of the popularity of this form of training in the country as a whole. The annual camp enrollment has grown from only 10,299 in seven years. It is limited as a rule only by the accommodations that have been provided and, of course, the funds available for that purpose. The obvious explanation is that increasing numbers of young men are seeing unusual opportunities in the month of intensive instruction and wisely directed recreation which the government has placed at their disposal. It is not an outing in the nature of a picnic or fishing excursion that has been sought. The rigid discipline of the camps leaves that out of consideration. The showing is creditable for American youth.—Kansas City Times.

NEW PAPER MONEY TO BE READY SOON

Everyone is waiting expectantly for the new paper money which dispatches from Washington say, will soon be issued by the government. The new money will be standarized in design and about two-thirds the size of the present currency. The new money is economical because millions of dollars will be saved annually in cost of material and time will be saved in production because twelve bills can be printed on one press at one impression, while only eight of the present bills can be so printed.

Standardizing the designs will also be a big help to the public in counting and watching its money. For instance—there are five different kinds of ten dollar bills. Under the new system of currency there will be but one kind and it will be easily distinguishable. The one dollar will have a design entirely different from the designs of the higher denominations, and will be recognizable at a glance. This is especially sensible in view of the fact that it will then be impossible for a counterfeiter to raise a one dollar bill to a ten or a bill of a hundred dollar denomination.

The one dollar bill will carry George Washington's face and the $100 bill will have Franklin's on the front, with an entirely different design from the one dollar bill on the back. Each of the eleven different denominations to be printed will have the face of a different patriot on the front and a separate and easily distinguished design on the back.

It is interesting to note that the present change in currency is the first of any importance in more than sixty years. From time to time, proposals have been made to change the size and design of the paper money, but these have always met with failure. The present plan was adopted after a great deal of study and consideration by the treasury experts and is believed to be the last word in efficiency and economy. In addition to other advantages, the smaller size of the bills will enable the fellow who has money to get along with a smaller and less cumbersome purse.

The change will mark the passing of the yellow-back bill, as the new issues will all be green-backs. And as soon as you learn which picture appears on the different denominations of bills, it will be almost impossible to short-change you unless you are half asleep.

The new bills will reach the public gradually and will be paid out as the old bills are taken in. The old bills will be destroyed.

PERSHING'S CAR SOON TO BE RETIRED TO SMITHSONIAN HALLS

Washington.—The Locomobile limousine used by General Pershing in France as his official automobile during the World War, which, marked with the four stars of the Commander in Chief, was familiar to millions of American doughboys, is about to be retired to the Smithsonian Institutions halls.

General Pershing has used it in Washington since the war. It has been decided that active service for the car should be brought to a close. Secretary of War Davis has written to Dr. C. G. Abbott, acting secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, regarding the suitability of the automobile as a permanent exhibit there. It is understood that the reply will be favorable.

Headquarters Battery

Here we are again, after a very strenuous week of shining, polishing and painting. Since the arrival of our new B. C. every one has been very busy, either with the paint brush or else a gunner phamplet, learning the art of Cannoneers Post.

One of our most valuable baseball stars has joined the battery, after three months' recruiting duty in Tennessee. We have suspicious idea from the daily letters, why you were relieved. How about that Frankie? Sergeant Le-Pine has been detailed to replace Sergeant Reed in Tennessee. So Doug we only hope Dan Cupid does not interfere with your duties, also.

The Battalion baseball team motored to Swift diamond last Sunday and crossed bats with the fast Crimson Jr's, who went down in defeat to the suberb pitching of Holloway and the iron support of some snappy fielding, to the score of 10-2, Holloway allowing the Crimson Jr.'s two sacrifices and a lone bingle in the 9th frame. Too bad, Jim, for a no hit game.

We have news of another old timer who left us a short time ago and is now in the recruit center in Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, awaiting orders to return to the old nest. Welcome back, Arnold.

Hurst has re-painted his Leaping Lena, said the girls in North Highlands would not ride in his covered wagon. Luck to you now Boob, since the paint job.

Many new faces have joined the battery in the past two months, with the prospects of some good soldiers looming in the distance. Stay in there newcomers and show these older men "how and why."

Wonder why Sergeant Dodd, Sergeant McAullife and Private Cherry went to the movies Sunday night.

Private Hirtzler alias Joe Broussard, Tom Payne, Elza Le Bourgeois, our esteemed pitcher, has a record of three games a week, with three wins to his credit, and now Corporal Summar, star second baseman and manager, wonders why Hirtzler is not in the big show. Ask Paccetti, Summar.

Private Farmer was discharged Sunday per E. T. S. Luck to you Dock, with the Tankers. Sorry you could not see another stack with us.

Battery "A"

Private (Doc) Abernathy, who was one of the entries in the ugly man contest at the Gymkhana in June, has filed his application with a movie company in Hollywood to succeed Ben Turpin when he retires.

Sergeant Bill Peters, upon being asked what church he preferred, replied that he couldn't give a definite answer but that he believed "in the elevation of horse thieves and one wife at a time."

Private Thurston, the day room orderly, who has had his hair shaved off, is trying to buy a wig. The reason is that while "racking" the pool balls one of the recruits, who is near sighted, took a punch at his dome.

Private First Class Coffin should take action against the producers of the picture, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Since its last appearance here he has been trying to imitate Lon Chaney, and as a result the battery has named him, "The Drawback of the Orderly Room."

Private Duncan has returned from a month's furlough and has taken up his old profession as fiddling instructor in Professor Regan's conservatory of music. While away he took a course on the musical saw and graduated with honors. He will accept pupils for this course commencing in September.

Privates Dozier and Peloquin, who have returned from a month's furlough, happened to wander over in Texas and were lost for about four days until they found a recruiting officer to show them the way home. Stick to your native state next time for you know that a "swamp angel" is no good on land.

Famous first words: "Not guilty."

Famous last words: "Guilty, take him to the mill."

Battery "C"

The battery has been having quite a rigid inspection for the past week, and a great amount of extra duty has been awarded, so quite a number of the men could tell you.

The other day a first class private addressed a new man, by the name of Sutton, as recruit. This man replied that he was not a recruit, as he had been in the battery three weeks. We'll say you are not, Old Timer.

As a reminder that we are still horsed, and that the critters are merely on detached service, we had a very congenial harness-washing detail on yesterday. A pleasant time was had by all.

Several members of the battery have been most delightfully entertained each afternoon of this week at garden parties, lawn fetes, al frescoes, or what have you. The First Sergeant presided at these festivities with his usual grace and dignity.

Our friend and comrade, and accomplice in many nefarious deeds, Corporal Randolph, is, we are glad to say, recovering from a recent operation.

Some day we are going to omit that one bad inning and run the Second Bat outfit raggedy. The gang looked pretty good yesterday, in spots. Except for the proletariat uprising in the seventh inning, a couple of decisions from an apparently astigmatic umpire, and a Merkle or two by the Combat Train's Flying Circus on second base, it really wasn't bad.

Favorite songs. "I've been workin' on the railroad." Private McDuff.

CAPT. GEORGE L. KING RETURNS TO BENNING

Though on the face of it the above heading may appear inaccurate, lovers of music will understand its purport.

Sunday evening, August 19, the audience of the Main Theater was treated to a musical selection, played during the intermission, which enthralled it. About two minutes after the intermission started, a slide was flashed on the screen bearing the following information:

"Selection rendered by Main Theater Orchestra during intermission tonight was composed by Capt. George L. King and dedicated on August 10, 1928, to The Main Theater Staff.

The audience applauded, then the orchestra started the lively strains of a march.

Had there been no slide introducing this selection, the audience would have known its composer, for it portrayed in strain, the characteristics so dominant with Capt. King.

The introductions started with an ensemble of trumpets, then sudsided into a lively march tempo, which it carried until it changed to the trio particularly characteristic of its composer. After a brilliant fanfare for brass instruments, it reverted for its conclusion, to the original theme of the trio for full orchestra. Upon its conclusion the applause was so voluminous, as to warrant an encore.

Were appropriate words adapted to this music, it would, in the opinion of many, be a fitting representative song for the Infantry of the United States Army.

The interpretation of this lively melodious march, was most ably accompanied by Sgt. Ralph R. Wright, and his Main Theater Orchestra. Sgt. Wright has known Capt. King intimately along musical lines for nearly five years, and being cognizant of his trend of thought, was most capable of rendering the music in the proper tempo to please the audience.

The Main Theater staff joins the personnel of Fort Benning in extending to Capt. King a note of thanks on behalf of his untiring efforts to add to the enjoyment of the personnel of this post.

Cadet: May I ask a question sir?
Instr: What is it?
Cadet: Do X and Y stand for the same thing they did last year?

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR GREEN-CORD TOP-KICK

By Al Durden

The feeling of good-fellowship which prevails among the personnel of the American army today is no doubt one of the leading factors in the up-keep of the high standard attained by the American soldier.

Many little things aside from the line of duty occur daily among the wearers of the olive drab that would surprise and be highly interesting to many of those who have formed opinions of army life from hear-say and their own imagination.

Last Monday, August 27, 1928, was 1st Sgt. Otis Glenn's twenty-fifth birthday. A few days previous the Top-Kick had mentioned the fact to Staff Sgt. Bayliss that Monday was his birthday. Sgt. Bayliss, who looks after the feeding of the four hundred twenty hungry members of the Infantry School Detachment, hurried from the Detachment orderly room to the mess hall. A few minutes later cooks, K. P.'s and Sgt. Bayliss were in earnest conversation, and all returned to their work with a broad smile. A dark plot had been laid and the unsuspecting Top-kick was the victim.

Monday noon finally came around. With noon came Sgt. Glenn. As he entered the mess hall things happened. Pvts. Devine, Fulford, Wise and Cooper seized him fore and aft, a moment later and the struggling "Top" took up a horizontal position on the cook-table. Sgt. Bayliss was master of ceremonies. As no paddle was available the big mixing spoon was pressed into service. Twenty-five times the big mixing spoon rose and fell, a lick for every year. Sgt. Glenn was next escorted to a special table where he was served a four pound T-bone steak, with French fried potatos and a large bowl of salad. All members of the Detachment joined in wishing the "Top-kick" many, many more happy birthdays. "Just feed me like this till my next birthday and you will have to call on the K. P.'s to help you," was the Top-kick's parting shot to the kitchen force.

RECRUIT SCHOOL 29TH INFANTRY

Saturday, Aug. 18, 1928, was graduation day for 38 men attending the recruit school. These men were organized into a provisional platoon and performed several movements and exercises in the school of the platoon which were highly pleasing to the Regimental Commander, Colonel Reed, and members of his staff. On completion of the drill Colonel Reed addressed the class, complimenting them on their personal appearance and the high standard attained by them in twenty-four days training. He emphasized the importance of the role they were about to assume as members of the 29th Infantry.

One of the features of this school not heretofore mentioned in these columns is the weekly "singing bee" which is held in the 29th Infantry Theater from 1 to 2 p. m. Private Birdsong, Co. "A", 29th Infantry ,a song leader of considerable note, conducts these exercises, assisted by the well known 29th Infanrty Orchestra. Special talent among the recruits is discovered and encouraged and much interest and enthusiasm is manifested. Friday, Aug. 17, 1928, the Regimental Commander, Colonel Reed, and the Regimental Executive Officer, Colonel Franklin, attended these exercises and seemed to be well pleased with the progress being made in developing the soul as well as the mind and body of these new men of the 29th Infantry. A mass singing demonstration by the 29th Infantry is in sight.

The regular weekly competitions in drills and exercises have been held and the following named soldiers have shown their superiority in the subjects set opposite their respective names:

School of the soldier without arms:

Aug. 11, 1928—First, Private Edward Haley, Co. "D"; second, Private Cecil C. Rogers, How. Co.

Aug. 18—First, Private Willie R. Adams, Ser. Co.; second, Private Samuel C. Madere, Hq. Co.

School of the soldiers with arms:

Aug. 11—First, Private David Prine, Co. "B"; second, Private Johnny A. Guidry, Co. "C".

Aug. 18—First, Private Jewell H. Clark, 1st Bn. Hq. Co.; second, Private D. O. Brown, 1st Bn Hq. Co.

Calisthenic drills:

Aug. 11—First, Private J. G. Martin, Co. "B"; second, Private Kelly C. Nanny, Co. "B".

Aug. 18—First, Private Arthur W. Tyson, How. Co.; second, Private George Baker ,Co. "C".

Much interest is manifested by all recruits in these competitions. All men of the class participate in the movements and exercises are executed by command and exactly as prescribed in the training regulations. Men are eliminated by the judges on making the slightest mistake and the mental alertness and physical endurance of the contestants are severely taxed. The winners are therefore deserving of the highest commendation.

TECH. SGT. SOTHORON J. SCOTT
Medical Department

One of the most prominent and widely known non-coms of the Infantry School is Tech. Sgt. S. J. Scott, of the Medical Corps. If you have ever spent any time as an inmate of the new hospital the picture above is no doubt familiar to you. Sgt. Scott is the one who has charge of the "chow", in other words he is the mess sergeant, but he does not confine his duties entirely to the kitchen. Daily he makes the rounds of the wards, he has made many friends among the men through his kindness to them while patients at the hospital. He is always a welcome visitor to the wards where he listens attentively to all complaints, such as to small a piece o' pie, how about ice cream and etc., and his interest does not stop with promises, for the fellow who got the little piece o' pie will probably find an extra piece for supper and sure enough for dinner there is the ice cream for dessert.

Sgt. Scott is now serving his last year with the colors. Only a few more months and his thirty years of honest and faithful service will be finished. Upon his retirement Sgt. Scott with Mrs. Scott will enjoy a well earned rest at their beautiful home near Lakeland, Fla.

Sgt. Scott began his army career as a doughboy. He served through the Philippine insurrection with Co. K of the 28th Infantry. During the time he was in the Philippines he changed stations several times, the most important of which was to the Island of Mindanao or Moro Land with the 3rd Battalion, 28th Infantry, under the command of General Bullard, who at that time was a major in command of the battalion.

In 1904, Sgt. Scott left the ranks of the doughboys to re-up with the Hospital Corps, since that time his service has been with the Medicos. He was discharged in 1918 to accept a commission as 1st Lieutenant, San. Corps. He went to France with B. H., No. 68, returned to the states at the close of the war and was stationed at Gen. Hosp. No. 2, at Fort McHenry, Md., and was discharged there May 31, 1920.

He re-enlisted with the Medical Dept. June 2, 1920, and was sent to Key West Barracks, Fla., from there to Fort Screven at Savannah, Ga., coming from there to Fort Benning in Nov. 1923. He has been with the Medical Dept. here since that time and has made many friends among the personnel of the garrison.

Though finishing the last of thirty years of active service, Sgt. Scott today is as active and spry as any youngster and a stranger would never judge him to be a day over thirty-five. Another of the many proofs that the "ARMY BUILDS MEN."

GROUNDS BORDERING BOULEVARD ARE KEPT IN SPLENDID CONDITION

It is a common occurrence that both army and civilian personnel comment on the splendid appearance of the grounds bordering the boulevard to town.

Not only all the grass, weeds, and undergrowth immediately bordering the boulevard kept cut and cleaned, but for some distance on each side. This adds materially to the appearance and is an aid to the motorist.

It is a known fact that a road which has as many curves bordered with timber as there is on the Benning boulevard that unless undergrowth is kept cleared near the road it will be a hindrance to clear vision.

The completion of the Coolidge Dam in Arizona will be followed by the flooding of an area in which are located two cemeteries of frontier days at the San Carlos Indian Agency, San Carlos, Arizona. Funds have been appropriated for the removal of the remains of soldiers now buried in these two military cemeteries. The army officer assigned the task of removing the soldier remains now advises the War Department that he has been informed by the Superintendent of the Indian Agency at San Carlos that the removal of the Indian remains also is being contemplated. In order that the soldier remains may be removed at the same time the Indian Service begins the removal of the Indian remains, the War Department is co-ordinating the matter with the Department of the Interior.—(Second Division Review.)

COST OF BYRD'S EXPEDITION

The announcement that the Byrd Anarctic expedition will cost not less than $855,000, and that a total of almost a million dollars may be reached before the return to the United States, will not surprise those familiar with the preparation of earlier polar expeditions when equipment, commodities and pay of crews could be provided for by an outlay far less.

It is the purpose of Byrd to command succedd by anticipating every need of his expedition. He hopes that, large as the scale is on which his enterprise has been planned, he will be able to avoid disasters that have so often called for salvage and relief at a great expense. In fitting out his Anarctic expedition of 1907-1909 Shackleton was at great pains to include everything that could contribute not only to the safety but to the comfort of his men. The cost was more than he had counted on, and after one of his polar adventures he came home in debt. The American people would like to have Commander Byrd return with a clean slate.

The Discovery, which served Scott so well on two expeditions cost about $252,000 to build. Byrd has economized in acquiring the City of New York and the Chelsea, the cost being respectively $50,000 and $34,000 not including refitting. For aircraft and extras, which are indispensable, Byrd will spend perhaps $100,000. Salaries he puts at $90,000. One hundred dogs have been purchased. The bill for scientific instruments will be liberal—more than $50,000. Byrd estimates that his cash cost so far has been $343,000, of which he has received so far $237,000. The large item of $435,000 represents donations from many firms and companies. It is characteristic of Commander Byrd that he wants to set all the particulars down and have no misunderstanding or mystery about his plans.

In the preparation of this expedition, Commander Byrd has made a careful study of the outfitting of other polar explorers and hopes to profit by the mistakes made by them.

It is noteworthy that the navy has taken an active part in the explorations of the polar regions. Admiral Perry discovered the North Pole in 1909, while Commander Byrd in 1926 made an aerial expedition of the same region. To climax all of this Commander Byrd is now outfitting and proposing to make an expedition to the South Pole.—(From New York Times.)

MAN'S BEST FRIEND"
By Sgt. L. Duff

There are more different breeds of dogs than horses, cattle, sheep, or poultry. The dog is the oldest domesticated animal. He assisted his master to defend against the enemy and procure food before horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, or poultry came under control.

His story runs back to prehistoric times. He was used as a sacrifice to pagan gods. His place in history, art, fiction, song and story is second only to that of man. Next to man he ranks in intelligence, being susceptible to all human passion—love, fear, hope, joy, distress, courage ,timidity, hatred and jealousy.

Man requires service from all animals, but the dog will stick where all others have failed, and when it comes to a case of life or death the faithful dog has proven far superior to many human beings. The fate of an army has been determined by the bark of a dog. He has faithfully and willingly given his life upon the battlefield for the sake of man. He has saved the lives of many children from a watery grave, lay on the cold ground and gone hungry just to be by his master's side. He is as humble as a little child at the point of a whip, but as vicious as a lion against an enemy.

PTOMEY-WILLIAMS BATTLE TO A DRAW

gym three days before the bout. Ptomey had a hard, rough road to travel for the first five rounds of the fight. Williams landed that right jab and left hook with telling effect on the Tanker's head with hardly a return. The sixth was even. Willie's wonderful condition asserted itself in the seventh when Williams showed traces of tiring. Sensing his adversary's condition Ptomey waded in and shot lefts and rights from all angles. The eighth and ninth Willie won chasing the Savannah boy all over the ring. In the ninth Williams was on the verge of being rocked to sleep, when in a mixup in a neutral corner Ptomey received a severe cut over his left eye, the result of meeting the Kid's head. The tenth found both men trying for a knockout and the round was even. Counting rounds Williams won five, Ptomey three, while two were even. Counting points it is believed that Ptomey scored as many in the three rounds that he won as Williams scored in the five credited to him. This point will always be a mooted one among fight fans. Sports writers have through the medium of their columns introduced a bad precedent in boxing by tabulating rounds won and lost while the rules plainly state that he who scores the most points in a fight wins. On the face of it let us take a case in a two round fight. If A wins the first round by a shade and then lost the second by a mile, would he be entitled to a draw? Run the same line of thought for four, ten, or twenty rounds and you will find that points over the entire distance is the best way to score a bout.

Ptomey had Williams hanging on for dear life in the ninth round. He landed at will and had the Savannah boy groggy. While Williams was piling up point after point in the first five rounds was Willie in trouble at any time? Not that one could see. One judge gave it to Ptomey, the other to Williams. The referee called it a draw which hurt neither boy. Another battle is a surety.

After all the main thing is to give those who patronize the game a fair return for their money. It is believed that Tuesday's fight card gave them full value with compound interest. There is another due on September 11th or 13th. Get your name in now for that season reservation.

BITS AND TIPS

By H. Asbeen

One glance at the scores of the past week will convince the casual observer that some real baseball is being played at Benning. Three days running found teams battling extra innings to decide the issue. It is a well known fact that August, as a rule, finds the pitchers at their best. It is this month of the year that class will tell when it comes to hitting. A youngster breaking in may break fences in the spring and early summer but when the dog days arrive his batting average shrinks to about $1:20. There are exceptions, it is true, but glance at the big league scores and note where some of the spring sensations are hitting. Instead of hitting third or fourth in the lineup, most of them are hitting eighth, just a notch above the pitcher.

Let us run through the list of hurlers doing mound duty for the various clubs in the "B" circuit and find the cause of the excellent ball being played in that league. The 2nd Bats have two southpaws in Carnes and Newman that need but two runs to win any ball game they start. Both are ready for Class AA company and a step higher with a year or two experience behind them. The Artillery have two steady moundsmen in Phillips and Flippo who are holding up nicely and showing better each game. Captain Bent's worries are over since Morris and Tolle returned from furlough. When either of these hurlers throw their glove into the ring the batters are in for a tough afternoon. Both are well below the average height for pitchers but they have poison wrapped around their hooks. The 1st Bats, the surprise of the second half, can hold their own with any of the clubs with Hinkley and Abrams doing mound duty. The Tankers have the old reliable Lindsay and Lefty Rowan in addition to Howard. Lindsay, with four days rest, is the hardest man in the league to beat, but has been called on so often to help a mate in distress that he has been hit harder than ordinarily would be the case.

From now until the end of the season every game in the "B" league should be a gem. When the pitchers are right hits are scarce. When a pitcher hasn't a thing the life of an infielder isn't safe. Time and again the first half batters have taken a toe hold and ripped screaming grass cutters that handcuffed the inner works, but now with the hurlers at their best fewer bobbles ensue and better ball games are being played.

The Kelly's are out in front but their margin is scant indeed. This past week they turned back the Artillerymen 10 to 3, but the score doesn't tell the battle up to the 7th inning. It was anybody's game until then.

Their unbroken string of victories was shattered by the 1st Bats on Monday by the score of 7 to 6. Hinkley turned the trick by some smart pitching, aided by the errors of the leaders. Sitting back with the old guard near the first base line and watching the drama of the tail-enders beating the leaders brought to mind many a game that is history. It reminded one of the famous game in Chicago when McGraw's World Champions with their title blazoned in yellow across their black blankets met the then lowly Cubs and lost to the tune of 19 to 0. The old game has its surprises and one that will linger longer in the memory of the 1st Battalion than any other game is the victory of Monday, August 27th.

"You never can tell" has been heard at many a ball game. While watching Monday's game and knowing that anything might happen, I was struck by the anxiety, expectancy, nervousness, hopefulness, mingled with qualms of uncertainty, it can't be done, and in some cases absolute resignation to the inevitable, among the rooters of the 1st Battalion. When Hinckley caught Franz's pop-up for the last out in the ninth ending a nerve racking game, the stands emptied in less than five minutes. It was air and more air what the fans wanted. One old timer who spent the 8th inning bent double over the railing rooting for the st Bats, left the park with a noticebale tremor.

Kelly's crew crowded all the bad baseball they had in their system into that eighth inning. These breaks are bound to hit any ball club at any time. It is part of the game and when it is over the best thing to do is to forget the day and number and go out and hustle the next game. Look at the Giants who were out in front a week ago and are now trailing the Cards by six games. If one could peep into the dressing room or lend an ear to what McGraw is telling his crew these days the loss of one ball game wuold seem a mere trifle. Mugsy must be dripping wet every night, especially after Hornsby's club hit him for three straight.

Even in defeat the Kelly's pulled a new one with the hidden ball trick. Franz instead of hiding it kicked it to the runner.

The 1st Bats repeated against the I. S. D. turning them back 1 to 0. Abrams and Tolle pitched beautiful ball. Reddick's hit to left with a runner on second scored the only run of a pretty game.

The Reds and Tanks get under way Thursday for the final game of the Class "C" league. From now to the 31st watch the "B" race.

Bess: Why did you let him kiss you?

Tess: He threatened to scream if I didn't.

SPORTOPICS

I am Football.

I am the onrushing tide; the stern, tense, immutable spirit of progress.

I am competition; I am teamwork; I am the breath of enegy.

The spirit of stamina and the supreme test of endurance.

I am sport and joy and life.

I am youth, and to myself I wrap the glory and power of youth.

Daily the hours between the rising and setting of the sun are growing shorter. Only a few short weeks and Autumn will change the shimmering green of summer to a sombre golden hue.

With the change of the season will come other changes. Instead of the crack of the bat as hickory meets horsehide and the deafing roar of the cheering fans in the stands at Gowdy Field, the stands will be empty, only the chirp of the quarrelsome sparrows can be heard in the quiet lonesome stands.

Where are the cheering fans? Far above the Doughboy Stadium a dark oblong object spirals high in the air turning end over end as it falls into the eager arms of a waiting back. Down the field he flashes, an opposing tackle is cut out by his interference, the crowd in the stands are silent, he has crossed the fifty yard line. The runner carrying the ball is fast and a hard man to tackle, his interference is perfect, it looks like an open field and a touchdown. From out of nowhere a mountain of a man running with the speed of a sprinter, outstrips the flying back and nails him on the thirty-five yard line.

From the south stands of the Doughboy Stadium where the penants of the 29th Infantry outfits flutter in the November breeze, rises a deafening roar as Kjelstrom hugs the pigskin on the Tankers thirty-five yard line. From the north stands come an answering roar as "Big Bertha" takes his position in the Tanker line after cutting down the fleetfooted doughboy.

There are the lost fans of Gowdy Field, who change their prayer for a home run to the familiar song, "We want a touchdown."

SOCCER IN FORT BENNING

With half of the baseball season gone, the program of the Infantry School will soon swing to its winter sport. Among this program is soccer and as brought out in a previous article in this paper, a new sport for Fort Benning.

Already, this program has awakened much interest among the various organizations and some organizations have gone as far as to purchase soccor equipment and instruct some of their men in the fundamentals of the game.

The prospects for soccor in Fort Benning are very good. Quite a few enlisted men who have played soccor before and officers who played on their varsity teams are here and will give the remainder of the men the benefit of their past experience besides taking an active part in the game.

Soccor as a minor sport at West Point has rapidly gained in popularity and adherents. In addition to being a corps sport it has been incorporated in the fall intramural schedule. As a result, 13 teams are actually organized and an intramural competition is held in order to determine the corps championship. Annapolis also showed up most gratifying in its soccor results. During the time they had first started the game in 1922, it has emerged the victor in many a battle and have defeated some of the best varsity teams in the country such as Penn State, Yale, Lehigh and others. Soccor in Annapolis has come to stay and has already been provided for as a necessary sport.

This sport, though yet in it's infancy here at Fort Benning, will without doubt go over big as it is a good clean, fast game with plenty of action and thrills provided by all the players.

ROBINSON'S CIRCUS TO SHOW AT COLUMBUS SEPT. 5TH

John Robinson's Circus, the old reliable, will show in Columbus next Wednesday. This pioneer circus, a favorite when grandfather was a boy, and father too, still retains it's enviable position as America's premier "white top." For over one hundred years, since old John Robinson sent out his first circus, it has entertained three generations of Americans and played to millions of people.

STUDENT OFFICERS BEGIN TO ARRIVE

"Red" Keenan Meets South's Bantam Weight Champion Tuesday Night

Red Keenan, Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry, the outstanding bantam of Fort Benning, will don the purple mantle as the star attraction in the ten round windup at the Post arena next Tuesday night, September 11th. Keenan will be called upon to face Eddie Burl, formerly of Mobile, Ala., but now a resident and voter of Savannah, Ga.

Keenan has been showing excellent form in his last few appearances. He quickly disposed of Kid Griffin, of Atlanta, whom he met early in July, and made a punching bag of Mickey Kendricks, of Columbus, in the August bout. It is felt that these two engagements, added to the many hours spent in the Post gymnasium training DePratt, Ptomey and Grantham for their mills, has had the effect of getting the red top into the best shape of his career. It is true Red injured his trusty left in the Kendricks mill, but the member has healed nicely and is giving him little if any trouble.

Keenan has been given no soft assignment in this his first windup of the new fiscal year. Burl, who is under the management of E. D. Alexander, of Savannah, Ga., comes here with the reputation and the claim of being the champion bantamweight of the south. Burl must be a load of dynamite for the south has a score of sweet bantams when we list Pinkey May, Bud Harris, Henry Allen and Pete Sarron. Burl lays claim to the title by virtue of his victory over Quina Lee, conqueror of both Sarron and May.

Burl scored another victory over Harry Allen, of Miami, Fla., last Tuesday night at Jacksonville, Fla., in a ten round mill. Allen is conceded the honor of being the best bantam that Florida boasts, but the press accounts of the battle show that Burl meeting Harry in his own back yard was master of the fight all the way, easily taking the decision. Allen, prior to meeting Quina Lee, held the American Legion belt as southern bantamweight. Lee, through his defeat by Burl, passed the ribbon on to the Mobile boy. The scrop in Jacksonville on Tuesday night between Allen and Burl was arranged after Allen's admirers insisted that he be given an opportunity to try again for the coveted bunting. Were Red Keenan to place that old haymaker of his on the Burl button we would have the satisfaction of harboring a champion in our midst.

Old timers at Benning will remember E. D. Alexander ,Burl's mentor. It was Alexander that refereed two bouts in Columbus in which Young Stribling participated. It was the same E. D. that refereed the go between Bobby Marriot and Jackie Clark when these two appeared in a windup at Benning back in 1924. In booking Burl to meet Keenan, Alexander sent word to the old timers that he was bringing a real live wire to the post in the person of Eddie Burl, the star of his stable. Other stars in the same stable with Burl are Billy Edwards the eighteen year old youngster who has knocked out 16 of the 17 opponents who have faced him—a probable match for Grantham; also Battling Finch, who may be seen later with Ptomey.

On the next card Danny Davis, of the 29th swings into action as a principal in a six round go with Battling Downs, of Savannah, Ga., another member of Alexander's tribe of glove slingers. Danny has earned the right to get a bout over this distance by virtue of his last three fights. Each time out the old favorite looks better and like Keenan has been one of the most consistent boxers on the Post as far as getting into condition is concerned.

Blondy Parker, of the I. S. D., who has been in training for a six round mill ever since the night that Dallas Hunt massaged his food chewer, will also be given an opportunity to go the six round distance. Parker will meet Bennie Grebb, of Atlanta, a comer from the same stable as Kid Griffin. The many friends of Parker believe that the blonde youngster has the stuff in him if he would train faithfully. He was promised this engagement six weeks ago, which means that if he is not ready now then he has no one to blame but himself. Parker, is without doubt, one of the flashiest of the younger boxers on the Post. He can hit ,is more than clever, game to the core, but has shown weakness after the fourth round is over. Tuesday night he is up again for observation and his friends are hoping that he comes through.

Corporal Myers, of the 29th, who has been away from the game since last winter, will attempt a comeback in a four rounder with Billy Shell, of Columbus. Shell seems to have the buffalo sign on the Benning contingent, but he is due for a surprise ere long and it might as well be Myers as some one else handing him the package. It is strange but true that a southpaw has never won a world's championship at any of the weights. One method used to defeat them is to keep moving to the left and shooting your punches straight. It will be remembered that Oak DePine used this method of attack in the second round of his encounter with Shell and had the mill boy bouncing off the ropes.

Seldom Heard, of the 24th Infantry, who tips the beam at 206, will meet Speedy Freeman, a big heavyweight, of Atlanta. Freeman comes here with a record of being a stiff puncher and a hard man to beat. Heard is well known and always gives a good account of himself.

Plaster Pequot and Corporal Morris, of the I. S. D., toe the mark in another four rounder. Both these featherweights are in line for longer bouts in the near future as they are mixers instead of dancers. Two Tankers who have been anxious to get at each other for a long time will open the card with a novice three round session.

All told there will be seven bouts on the card introducing six new faces this week. With Burl, Downs, Grebb, Freeman and the two novices the fans will get a line on the type of boxers that are showing their line of mixing in other cities. The show starts at 7:45 P. M.

DAUGHTER OF FORT BENNING OFFICER ENTERS JUNIOR RIFLE MATCHES AT CAMP PERRY

Camp Perry, Ohio — From boys and girls not yet in their 'teens to men beyond the alloted span of three score and ten, the aggregation of more than three thousand of America's, Cuba's and Hawaii's sharpshooters now assembled at the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, include every variety of the devotees of the shooting game.

The youngest competitor enrolled in the matches is little Margaret Tupper, 10 years of age. Margaret, who is the daughter of Captain Joseph L. Tupper, 24th Infantry, U. S. Army, Fort Benning, Georgia, has taken up rifle shooting in perference to dolls, and other amusements generally associated with children of her age. Her extensive knowledge of the theory of shooting and her astonishingly accurate marksmanship are exciting the comment of veteran and novice marksmen alike.

Being an Army girl, Margaret early manifested a keen interest in military affairs. Later, firearms became her passion and she has proved to be an apt pupil under the tutelage of her father, who himself is a distinguished military marksman.

Because she is only ten years of age, Margaret had to obtain special permission from the National Rifle Association to enter the Junior Rifle Matches which are ordinarily closed to entrants under 12 years of age.

The Junior Rifle Matches, in which Margaret will compete, are conducted in conjunction with the National Matches at Camp Perry, where the most important matches in the shooting world are fired annually. This year's meet is the largest ever held in the United States and includes competitors of National Guard and civilian organizations, from forty-one states as well as teams from all the regular services.

Actual firing in the principal events began on September 3rd, and more than $40,000 worth of cash prizes and trophies will be awarded to the winners.

DUE TO THE FACT

That several large ads came to the office at the last moment it was necessary to omit several items. The issue of next week will be larger and will be the Anniversary Number of the News.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 7 TO SEPT. 14, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 7

"ACROSS THE ATLANTIC," starring Monte Blue in a thrilling romance of the air. Monte appears as the younger son of a rich manufacturer who runs off to war and loses his memory when his plane is shot down. His identity is restored in an exciting episode which is climaxed by a love flight across the Atlantic in a stolen plane.

Pathe News No. 71.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 8

"RIDING FOR FAME," starring Hoot Gibson in another one of his high powered, action filled Westerns. The story starts at a big ranch in a peaceful valley; an outlaw horse defies the best of riders, but Hoot defeats the bronk. $11,000 is stolen, the wrong man is accused, a chase starts, hard fighting results, and in the interim some remarkable horsemanship is exhibited. Oh, yes, a pretty girl softens the theme with a romance.

"Came The Dawn." Max Davidson.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 9

Due to a number of requests the Main Theatre Orchestra will, during the intermission, this date, again render the selection which Captain George L. King composed and dedicated to our theatres.

"THE GAUCHO," starring Douglas Fairbanks with Lupe Valez in a picture which combines the esprit of "Robin Hood," with the lightening speed of "Don Q," the whimsical romance of "The Thief of Bagdad" and the amazing ability of "The Black Pirate." The story is laid in a mystic spot among the Andes mountains where brigands seek to capture treasure. The powerful scenes portray the heat of Spanish jealousy, Latin perfidy, and deeds of bravery. Spanish prisons and modes of living are most effectively shown.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS as the GAUCHO

"Scaling the Alpes." Fables.

Paramount News No. 114.

MONDAY, SEPT. 10

"A THIEF IN THE DARK," a chilling fun-drama of spooks and crooks, featuring George Meeker, Marjorie Beebe, Doris Hill and Gwen Lee. This mystery comedy drama depicts the personalities of a gang of circus side show crooks, who employ spiritualistic tricks in locating loot in a small southern village. Most of the scenes are laid in an old mansion filled with secret passageways, secret doors, sliding panels and ghosts. Hilarious comedy gags crop up most pleasingly between moments of tense awe inspiring action.

"Yellow Cameo No. 1." This is the first of ten installments of this gripping serial. It is mystery throughout. In it are many facts which have been ascertained by criminal police reporters. Two of the most outstanding, are, that the average criminal becomes intensely superstitious and the average murderer is eternally on guard against the appearance of the ghost of his victim. See one episode and you can't resist all of them.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 11

"PAINTED POST," featuring Tom Mix and Tony in a comedy of Western wooing. The story deals with relentless war waged by Mix against an unscrupulous gang of thieves and cut-throats who had stripped an entire country bare with their daring raids. This full-of-action story is brought to a startling and somewhat novel climax.

"Dizzy Sights." Sillie Dooley Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 12

"DETECTIVES," starring Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, who cleverly introduce a new type of comedy. It is a straight mystery story with all the thrills of the crook drama. The comedy is interjected when Dane and Arthur, as hick house detective and bellboy, who aspires to become a second Sherlock Holmes, blunder innocently into one tense situation after another. They get into secret chambers where weird enemies assail them. It is just one continuous series of hilarious misadventures.

Paramount News No. 115.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 13

"SALLY, OF THE SCANDALS," starring Bessie Love with Allen Forest and Max Davidson in a story of hot heels, hot lips and hot love. This is a vivid reproduction of Broadway's theatrical life, full of tense dramatic action and containing little touches of comedy and heart aches, which cause this story to be amazingly human and true to life.

"Blow By Blow." Max Davidson.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 14

"THE CRIMSON CITY," starring Myrna Loy in a thrilling, yet tender, love story of the Orient. An English Aristocrat is charged with embezzlement —he flees to China. Here he visits the House of a Thousand Daggars, a notorious pleasure resort, and becomes infatuated with one of its slaves. Numerous complications ensue; the plot thickens, and finally launches into a climax which terminates the story most amicably.

ELEVEN YEAR OLD BOY VIOLINIST PLEASES THEATRE AUDIENCES

Sunday evening, Sept. 2, Bernard Friedman, eleven year old Columbus youth, played the violin before the audiences of the Main and 29th Infantry theaters. His selections were of the classical melodious type.

He rendered such pieces as a Serenade, Traumerei, Elegie and Spring Song. For a boy of his age his stage presence and execution was considered exceptional. That his work was appreciated, was evidenced by the fact that voluminous applause called for encores which were amiably presented.

"BEHIND THE SCENES"

You will recall in the last issue of this column that we promised enlightment on the operation of the evening entertainment enterprises of the 29th and 24th Infantries—here goes: These theatres show precisely the same moving pictures that are presented at the Main Theatre. The only difference being in the time that the shows start; this difference in time is necessary in order that the same films may be transported from one place to the other without any break in the continuity of the program.

Sgt. John W. McCaslin is the manager and cashier at the 29th. He takes in the shekels, and if in making change he gives you too much, he makes up the difference out of his own pocket at the end of the show—let's hope he never makes a mistake. His theatre is painstakingly managed—shows start promptly on time, the auditorium is always neat and clean, and as the results of his efforts, the best of facilities are offered for the entertainment of patrons.

Pvt. Michael Macejuski is doorman and houseman. It is his apt hand that collects the tickets and eagle eye that sees to it that only those who have paid their admission are given admittance. Whenever the big forty-two inch fan, which keeps you cool, fails to function, blame it on him, it never yet has failed. In addition, stage and theatre repairs are deftly accomplished by him.

Cpl. P. J. Woidylar is the man behind the electrical gun which shoots the powerful rays of the motion picture machines upon the screens. His careful attention to the technical work has been a source of enjoyment to the 29th Infantry Theatre goers. The picture always starts on time; breaks in the performances are extremely rare occurances and the clean cut images of performers on the screen are of the results of his careful efforts.

The music furnished in this theatre is under the direction of Sgt. Ralph R. Wright, who is assisted by Sgt. Roy Hanson and Cpl. Earnest Orlando. These men present for your enjoyment the fitting music selections which are carefully cued to the theme of the picture.

We will now jump to the 24th Infantry theatre which has proven a source of keen enjoyment to that command.

Sgt. William A. Thompson, whose smiling countenance always meets you at the box office, is cashier and manager. All he asks is fair play and in return he gives rapid unerring service. When things go wrong he is held accountable, and it is most pleasing to state in his behalf that things don't go wrong.

Sgt. Oscar Jones is doorman and houseman. He is responsible for collecting tickets and admitting patrons. Rapid and efficient is his work, courteous to all, he sees that no unauthorized person ever passes the gate.

Cpl. Isaac Whitson is the operator, whose little booth maintains two intricate expensive motion picture machines in such an excellent shape of repair that they always function. The credit for pictures starting on time and being clearly projected upon the screen is due him. It is with pleasure that we note that interruptions in his shows are a rare exception.

Sgt. Louis A. Scipio, a connoisseur of music, is the orchestra leader of the 24th Infantry Theatre. He takes pleasure in presenting for your entertainment that type of music which fits the theme of the picture and at the same time pleases the ear of the audience. Assisting him are Pvt. Harper Aaron and Pvt. Fred Williams. These boys surely do put out the melody.

As we have stated before, these theatres are operated purely for your enjoyment, and not as a money making institution; we know that there is not another theatre in the army giving better service than yours at Fort Benning, and it is doubted if there are many other theatres in the United States which, for the price you pay, present the class of pictures and the type of entertainment that your amusement halls offer.

FORT BENNING OFFICER WEDS LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHER ON EVE OF DEPARTURE TO PHILIPPINES.

A wedding of interest to many friends throughout the army was that of Miss Albena Schemik and Lt. George Conner, which was solemnized at the Parish House of the Church of the Holy Family in Columbus on Wednesday morning at 6:30, the Rev. Father Daniel McCarthy officiating. Only the immediate relatives and a few close friends were present to witness the ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in an ensemble of brown georgette with touches of tan with hat, gloves, shoes and accessories of corresponding shade. Her flowers were a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony Lt. and Mrs. Conner left for Washington, New York and Boston. On Sept. 5th they sailed for the Philippines, where they will be stationed for the next two years.

Mrs. Conner is a beautiful girl who possesses a charming personality and a brilliant mind. She was a dearly beloved teacher in the Fort Benning Children's School for a year or so and last year she was Professor of Home Economics in the Industrial High School of Columbus.

Lt. Conner is a native Bostonian, a graduate of Boston Tech specializing in law. He has been stationed at Fort Benning for the past three years, where he has been assistant judge advocate.

Lt. and Mrs. L. C. Jaynes sailed from New York harbor on Sept. 5th for a tour of service in the Philippines. Lt. Jaynes has been stationed at Benning for about eight years—a good many of which he served with the 15th Tanks. Mrs. Jaynes, as Miss Georgia Rose Joiner, was a popular Columbus girl.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Cecil Rutledge were hosts at a beautiful dinner party at their quarters on Tuesday evening of last week. The home was attractively decorated with mid-summer garden flowers. The dining table was overlaid with a handsome oriental cloth of filet and cut work and a lovely low bowl, artistically filled with cut flowers and surrounded by low candlesticks holding slim green tapers, formed the centerpiece. Those enjoying this delightful party were Mr. and Mrs. Bass Lewis, Mrs. Mamie Ogletree, of Columbus, Lt. and Mrs. Allen F. Haynes, and Lt. Joseph H. Gilbreth.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. David G. Barr and little daughter, Virginia, spent the past weekend in Alabama, where Virginia got acquainted with her daddy's relatives.

* * *

A lovely birthday cake embossed with roses, daffodils and violets on which three tiny candles burned, was the interesting centerpiece on the dining table of Lt. and Mrs. K. K. Tatom on Tuesday afternoon, when a few young belles and beaux gathered to help Kirkman Tatom celebrate his third anniversary. Gay paper caps, horns, balloons and toys joyously filled the time before the cake was cut and the ice cream served.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Edward J. Curren, Jr., returned on Sunday evening from a five weeks' visit to relatives and friends in Virginia. Mrs. Curren's home is in Harrisburg, Va., and it was there that most of their leave was spent. They motored through the Shenandoah Valley and down the Appalachian Scenic Highway on their return, enjoying particularly the lovely Blue Ridge mountains through North Carolina and North Georgia.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Rothwell H. Brown have as their guest Miss Katharine Law, of Denver, Colo. Miss Law arrived on Monday and on Tuesday afternoon she was honored by her hostess with a delightful bridge party. There were two tables at which pivot bridge was played. Misses Louise Young and Becky Hill won the table prizes. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Michael Buckley complimented Miss Law with a lovely bridge party.

* * *

Capt. A. T. Knight left Sunday for Michigan, where he will join Mrs. Knight and the children and motor home with them about the first of October.

* * *

Capt. E. S. Johnston arrived the latter part of last week, after two months' leave, and is making his home in Columbus, for he who has been instructor for four years is this year to be "instructed." Mrs. Johnston will come down in about two weeks.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Wray B. Avera have had as their guest for three weeks Mrs. Avera's mother, Mrs. Jeffcoat, of Tampa, Fla. She left on last Wednesday for Atlanta, where she and Mr. Jeffcoat will spend the autumn. During her visit she was honored with a number of social courtesies both on the post and in Columbus.

* * *

Lt. Elam L. Stewart returned on Sunday from a visit to relatives in Illinois. He accompanied Mrs. Stewart and their young son. They will remain with her parents for several weeks.

* * *

Col. and Mrs. Philip B. Peyton have returned, after a pleasant two-months' away. Col. Peyton spent most of his leave in California and Mrs. Peyton was with her sister in the Cumberland mountains of Tennessee.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. A. S. Peake arrived Monday from Black Mountain, N. C., where they spent the summer.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Collier are at home in Columbus, after a summer at Black Mountain in the heart of the Blue Ridge mountains.

* * *

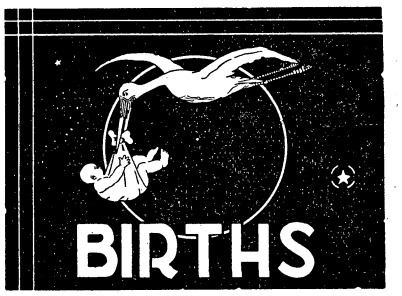
Maj.-General and Mrs. B. A. Poore, of Washington, D. C., will arrive next Monday for a two-weeks' visit to their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Bolte.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. Henry A. Bootz have as their guest Maj. William Cassidy, who is a visiting entrant in the golf tournament.

* * *

The golf tournament has brought the following interested golfers to Fort Benning: Maj. Allen M. Burdett, Maj. Harry M. Deiber, Maj. Augustus B. Jones, Maj. Ralph C. Holliday, Capt. Harvey Edwards, Lt. Gilbert Procter and Lt. R. E. Powell.



Edwin William Hundertmark, August 30, 1928, son of 1st Sergeant and Mrs. Herman William Hundertmark, 17th Ordnance Co.

John Charles Magoni, August 30, 1928, son of Master Sergeant and Mrs. John M. Magoni, Infantry School Detachment.

Clifford Woods, September 3, 1928, son of Corp. and Mrs. William Woods, Co. "F," 24th Infantry.

ALL OUT FOR FOOTBALL

Captain Craig has called out the football squad. About 30 men are out going through the fundamentals of the game; blocking, tackling and muscle building. No morning practice at this early stage of the game. Later Captain Craig will have them out early and late. Right now the practice they are getting is about all their sore muscles will stand.

It will be remembered that the 24th will play the only extra-mural football that is played in this post this season. Four games have been scheduled here; the games to be played away from the post will be the few played by the 24th.

Pretty Soft

Trammel, Seats and Vance will leave about the 8th to join the Atlanta Grey Socks. This baseball team will make a barnstorming trip up through Ohio to Cleveland. They will be gone about two weeks. Mighty nice for the boys; they deserve it though.

Swimming Meet

"E" Company won it. They got away with it in good style by taking first place in the 50 yard back stroke, 50 yard breast stroke, fancy diving, and taking second in the relay. "F" Company was second. They won the relay race easily. Company "G" was third. "A" Company fourth and Service Company fifth. The scores: Company "E," 25; "F," 15; "G," 13; "A," 6; Service, 3.

Johnson, Company "E," took the fancy diving event without much trouble. Ross, "G" Company, was second. Personally we think Corporal Vergie Washington should have had this. The program called for fancy diving and that is just exactly what he gave them. Once he walked off the spring board right out into the empty air, and kept on walking till he hit the water! Yes, we think Washington should have won.

In the hundred yard free style, Privates Weston and White of Company "A," would have won, if the race had been to the slowest; they made it easy enough to the 50 yard rope and started back. Slower and slower they came. Every one else had finished, still White and Weston fought on. Shouts of encouragement went up from the bank, and when it became apparent that the gallant swimmers were not going to make land the life guards went in and hauled them out by their necks, thus for the second time that day, cheating the cruel waves of their victim. "A" Company hasn't finished that race yet.

C-R-A-C-K

A few days back we were all sitting in the grandstand watching a baseball game—a real ball game, in fact, probably the best game played here this season; a bitterly fought game between the Tankers and the 24th Reds. The Tankers were ahead. It was the end of the 9th inning and the score stood: Tankers, 3; 24th, 2. One was out for the 24th, and one Morris Johnson came to bat. Johnson will be remembered as the man who won the prize for the first home run on Gowdy field this year. Earlier in the season he drove one over the left field fence near the foul line and copped the prize.

Johnson tapped the plate with his bat, took a firm grip and swung terrifickly, and wildly, at the first ball pitched. He missed it, and the force of the blow spun him around and Johnson sat down pretty hard right near the home plate, while the crowd yelled. The next ball was the same kind—an in-curve, but it didn't come in quite so close as the other one did. It started outside and curved down across the base. Johnson raised on his toes, reached the bat as far as he could to the rear and swung to meet the ball; swung as if he were trying to cut a tree down with one blow. He hit it; out over center like a perfectly hit golf ball—higher and higher it flew. Somewhere down near the flagstaff it passed over the fence and out of sight; the longest hit ever made by a soldier on Gowdy field. This tied the score, the 24th won in the 10th, 4 to 3.

Inventor

Ever since the O. D. shirt came into being we have worried over the proposition of how to carry a full length pencil in the breast pockets of said shirt. It is forbidden that the pencil should be so long that the flap could not be buttoned. And if it is too short it gets down inside the pocket and becomes lost amongst tobacco tags, safety pins, side combs, cork pullers, etc.

It has remained for a doughboy of the 24th United States Infantry to solve this problem—a problem that has baffled the master minds of the service for —lo, these many years. Now we need not worry over the fact that we are compelled to cut of a third of a brand new five cent pencil just so the blamed thing will go into our left shirt pocket. Really we feel quite puffed up—puffed up, because we are privileged to serve in the same regiment with a doughboy with a powerful devining mind such as this one possesses. We predict — and that without reservations — that the Quarmaster General will order that all O. D. shirts made in the future conform to the one now worn by Captain John C. Newton, the originator of the modified shirt pocket.

VALUE OF NATIONAL MATCHES AT CAMP PERRY

Under the National Rifle Association's supervision, highly interesting competitions began at Camp Perry, Ohio, on September 3. Brig. Gen. Milton A. Record, the Association's president, expects this year's matches to attract a larger attendance than ever before.

For the first time, teams from the Organized Reserves and the Coast Guard will participate, and they may surprise the "outfits" that will meet them. A small-arms firing school, opening August 26, preceded the matches.

Camp Perry is particularly well equipped for rifle and pistol competitions.

All branches of the national defense forces will be represented at Camp Perry. The competitions there will culminate in the National Rifle Team match, open to teams of ten from each Army combatant branch, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the States and Territories—including the District of Columbia—the Organized Reserves, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the Citizens' Military Training Camps and the Coast Guard. Each state also may enter a civilian team.

The Camp Perry matches should be held annually hereafter. They constitute a clearing-house of information and experience for the riflemen and military pistol experts, and the interest they arouse justifies the comparatively small outlay involved. The National Rifle Association renders excellent service and the War Department is giving it thorough support.—(From San Antonio Express.)

OFFICERS ELECTED BY AMERICAN LEGION POST

Captain Collier Selected as Vice Commander of Charles S. Harrison Post

The annual election of the Charles S. Harrison post of the American Legion was held last Tuesday evening. Many officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning are members of this post. H. K. Park was chosen as commander for the coming year and Captain W. A. Collier, who will be a student officer of the Infantry School this year, was selected as vice commander. Other officers elected were Sergeant George Gilbert, junior vice commander; Frank Billings, finance officer; Mrs. W. A. Hendricks, historian; the Rev. D. J. McCarthy, rector of Catholic Church of Columbus, post chaplain.

A feature of the meeting last Tuesday was the reports rendered by the various committees during the past year under the retiring commander, Mr. J. Wright Brown. The legion meeting endorsed the movement of the Lions Club of Columbus for the establishment of a city golf course. Several resolutions were introduced and passed at the meeting. The most important of these resolutions was that providing for proper recognition of the soldiers of Company "C," 9th Infantry, for their action in the massacre of Balangiga in the Philippines on Sept. 28, 1901. The local post went on record as favoring the passage of House Joint Res. 124 by the next session of Congress.

Bimbo: Were you ever crossed or double-crossed in love?

Bozo: Neither; crisscrossed.

CAMP PERRY A CITY OF TENTS AS NATIONAL MATCHES OPEN

Camp Perry, Ohio—A city of tents has arisen on the shores of Lake Erie, and into it are flowing thousands of marksmen—and "markswomen" — who have come from all parts of the country to take their places on the firing line in the National Rifle and Pistol Matches.

Just as soon as all the teams arrive and the various schools of fire finish their work of instruction, the great matches will get under way with an ear-splitting racket that will be heard all the way from here to Put-in Bay, where Commodore Perry once made quite a noise on his own account.

More teams and individuals have entered this year than ever before. So far, more than 100 teams have arrived with more coming in by train and automobile every hour. They represent every type and every section of the country. Men wearing the ten-gallon hat of Mexico exchange "dope" with those who affect the brown derby of New York or the pith helmet of Cuba. There are soldiers, sailors and marines, boys and girls of the Junior Rifle Corps and old men who fired their first shot when the muzzle loader was still a thing of recent memory.

The School of Fire, which any citizen of the United States may enter free of charge, is now in full swing. There are special classes for boys and girls as young as 12 years, and sections for every type of adult including policemen from a score of cities who are being trained in the latest methods of dealing with gunmen and other criminals.

Preparations have been made to feed and shelter 3,000 persons. On the first day of the preliminary period 1,000 arrived and were comfortably settled in tents before dinner time. There are more than 2,000 Regulars here to take care of the visitors, and the precision with which they do their work is reminiscent of war days. These men will act as coaches, instructors, and will "pull targets," mark scores and in fact do about everything from regulating traffic to looking for lost children.

The match firing actually began on September 1st, when the boys and girls of the Junior Rifle Corps of the National Rifle Association shot for the national junior championship. On the same date the National Rifle Association 30-calibre rifle matches opened and continue through the 8th. These include the President's match, Rapid-fire championship, the Herrick Trophy match, the Infantry match and the Reserve Officers' and Citizens' Military Training Corps matches. The N. R. A. small bore matches for rifles up to .23 bore, opened on September 1st and closed on the 5th. These included the International Small Bore match for the famous Lord Dewer trophy now held in the United States. This match is fired in England, Australia, Canada, India, South Africa and this country, and the scores are exchanged by cable.

The National Pistol Team match will be fired on September 10th, and the National Individual Rifle match on the next day. The match which attracts the greatest interest will bring the great range tournament to a close. This is the National Rifle-Team match which opens on September 14th and may extend into the next day. This match outranks them all in the eyes of military riflemen, for it was instituted in 1902 by no less an authority than the Congress of the United States. For this event every branch of the military and naval service, civilian clubs and schools have prepared for many months. It is the Kentucky Derby of marksmanship.

Battery "A"

We are glad to announce that Second Lieutenant Claude F. Burback, who has been Personnel Adjutant for the past year, has been assigned to this battery. The personnel of the orderly room should feel jubilant and not have the "Morning Report Blues" any more.

Private Priles was heard to remark that the reason it was so hot on the buses these days was not on account of the humidity but on account of so much humanity.

The Galloping Second Section had the honor of leading the other sections on the "skin list" the past month. Sergeant Temples, Chief of Section, has given warning that in the future he will follow the old ancient Mosaic law and punish accordingly: a grass pulling detail for each and every "skin."

Private Reuben Seigel finds the clothes of an Artillery man very intricate. He fell out for pay formation with the leather part of his leggins on the outside of his legs. Be careful Reuben and remember that a bridle goes on the head of a horse.

Private First Class Usher can be seen each afternoon going for a stroll along the river bank and the battery would like to know if he is looking for the roses that bloom in the spring this late in the year.

Private First Class Blue has the sympathy of the battery over the fact that a certain "politician" had him put on K. P. so said politician could go with his girl that day.

Corporal Hunter, who will be discharged this month, has filed his application with an Oil Company in England, for the position of official oiler and greaser of all English channel swimmers. What could be nicer!

Famous last words: "I drew to old soldier."

Battery "C"

Sergeant Moore, the more or less chief of the Fourth section, is enjoying a well deserved furlough somewhere in the wilds of S uth Georgia.

Our new barber, thank God, knows how to drag a razor across a man's face without removing at least two layers of skin.

P. C. Davis was observed in the Battery street yesterday evening trying to borrow eggs for the bachelor officer's breakfast.

Hudgins says the reason he went on furlough was that a new sheriff had taken office in his county since he enlisted. He states that the use of the "thumper" is still frowned upon by the best people among the hills of North Carolina.

The indices must coincide! "Close" doesn't count anywhere except in pitching horse shoes.

Here's one for the book. In a recent game between the Ordnance and C. W. S., Hamilton, the enterprising left fielder of the Ordnance team, achieved the unheard of feat of stealing second and first bases on one pitched ball. Verily, Ty Cobb, in all his glory, never rose to heights such as this. It really seems as if nothing might be safe against the burglarious ambition of this young man. As a measure of precaution, and in the interest of honesty, it is suggested, in future games wherein he may participate, that lanyards be attached to the pitcher's glove and that the umpire's breast protector be equipped with a crupper.

It isn't the heat so much as the activity. —Oscar.

TERRIBLE TANKER'S WIN SWIMMING MEET

By Bernard Cowan

Ceasar met his Brutus; Napoleon, his Waterloo, but the "Terrible Tankers" won another swimming meet.

Getting away to a flying start in the meet held last Monday morning at the garrison swimming pool the Tankers soon had a commanding lead which was never threatened at any time during the meet. In only one event were they closely contested, the fifty yards breast stroke. Thompson, all round athlete of the Second Battalion, out swam Tharp, of the Tanks, for first place by 4-5 of a second. This was the only event in which the Tanks failed to score first place.

The Second Bats, of the doughboy division, winners of the regimental meet of the 29th Infantry held last week and who have in the past been the Tanks' strognest contenders for aquatic laurels, were unable to cope with the pace set by the winners. So fast a pace did the winners set that they came within three points of doubling the combined scores of all other entrants.

Lucas, of the Tanks, captured first honors for the individual scoring the highest number of points. He was entered in three events, two of which were individual events. In each of these, the 200 and 400 yards free style, he finished first, several yards in advance of the next nearest swimmer. Another of the Tankers who deserves mention is a stocky built youngster who answers to one of the typical Irish cognomen's, Flannigan. His taking first place in the diving contest over the class of men competing was no easy task and competition in this event was closer than in any event of the program. Yet, when the final check was made he was found to be the unanimous selection of the judges, with Squirrel and Adams close behind.

The Tankers, in winning this year's swimming meet, made what is unofficially reported as seven straight consecutive victories in as many consecutive years. The oldest residents of Benning cannot remember a single swimming contest in which they failed to bring home the bacon. However, as a token of their achievement in this year's contest the Athletic Association is presenting them with a beautiful, large silver loving cup appropriately engraved.

In the past there has been no records kept except those kept during the meet to determine the winners of that particular meet. This will happen no more. The meet was held this year in strict accordance with the A. A. U. rules governing swimming. All time made in the meet this year was made record time for the garrison and will remain as the garrison record time until lowered in the garrison meet which is to be held annually. Hereafter, when a swimmer wins an event and is told the time in which he made it will know whether he is below, equal with, or above the record time for that event.

The result of the meet with time for first place in each event is as follows:

50 Yards Back Stroke—1st, Seay, Co. "A," Tanks; 2nd, Knapp, Co. "C," Tanks; 3rd, Latham, Co. "G," 29th. Time 37 1-5 seconds.

200 Yards Free Style—1st, Lucas, Co. "B," Tanks; 2nd, Hawkins, Co. "E," 29th; 3rd, Prophet, Co. "G," 29th. Time 2 min. 41 1-5 seconds.

50 Yards Breast Stroke—1st, Thompson, Co. "F," 29th; 2nd, Tharp, Co. "A," Tanks; 3rd, Stuart, Co. "B," Tanks. Time 39 1-5 sec.

100 Yards Free Style — 1st, Flower, Co. "B," Tanks; 2nd, Knapp, Co. "C," Tanks; 3rd, Miller, B, How. Co., 29th. Time 1 min. 9 3-5 sec.

Medley Race (three swimmers to team each man to swim fifty yards)—1st, Tanks; 2nd, Second Battalion; 3rd, Artillery. Time 1 min. 50 sec.

400 Yards Free Style—1st, Lucas, Co. "B," Tanks; 2nd, Prophet, Co. "G," 29th; 3rd, Real, Co. "B," Tanks. Time 6 min. 14 4-5 sec.

Fancy Diving—1st, Flannigan, Co. "B," Tanks; 2nd, Squirrel, Co. "B," Tanks; 3rd, Adams, Co. "B," Tanks.

400 Yards Relay—1st, Tanks; 2nd, Second Battalion; 3rd, Artillery. Time 4 min. 46 sec.

Total points scored: Tanks, 65; Second Battalion, 25; Special Units 29th, 7; Artillery, 2. First Battalion, 0.

The records made in this meet, though they are considerably below the world's record for these events, are considered to be better than the average time made by the average amateur at amatcur meets and compare favorably with the time made at state meets.

Owing to the interest that is yearly increasing at Benning these records are expected to be short lived. Some will remain as they are for some time. Probably none of us who are now stationed here will ever see them lowered but for the majority of them it is expected they will soon topple by the way and become history.

Company "G"

The final results of the range season finds "G" Company near the top with every man qualified and a grand average score of 291.14.

Cpl. Smith won the Company individual high score prize with a score of 322. Private Benjamin Riley won the prize for the high recruit, with a score of 319. Berrong's squad won the prize for the high squad average.

The officers and men are proud of this record and they celebrated last Thursday night with a big chicken supper. "Dad" Richardson and his cook force are to be congratulated on the style that they put the supper across.

Among the guests were Lt. Col. Brandt and Major Young. who gave short and interesting talks, expressing their appreciation to the men of the company for the spirit they showed throughout the range season.

"Pap" Johnson sure has the grass looking fine around the company. He certainly knows his greens.

Sgt. Holland has taken up golf. He was seen around the company last Sunday in a new golf outfit.

Ten men left on furlough last Saturday. The company is getting mighty small and if it keeps up it will soon be a peace time outfit.

—Sgt. John "Warset" Simpson

Company "E"

We are glad to get back to regular duty from target practice. On Wednesday evening the Company put on a smoker in celebration of our good shooting on the range this seas n. The guests of honor were Major Young, Captain Rutledge, our Company Commander, 1st Lieut. Vinson, 1st Lt. Haynes and Lieut. Hocker. The evening was a pleasant one enjoyed by all.

Sgt. Boling and Pvt. 1st Class Edwards, the two comedians of the company, put on some very fine acts to prove that Charlie Chaplin isn't the only man living that may cause people to laugh.

Private Birdsong rendered several beautiful songs during the evening, which were greatly applauded.

After the entertainment Major Young presented the presents to the prize winners of the regular target season, 1928. Our First Sgt. "Hi" Davis won a $20 gold watch for high man. Pvt. Bache won first prize for high recruit on range, a gold watch. The high score prizes in the platoons were $5 fountain pens. Pfc. Cook first platoon; Sgt. Arevalo and Pvt. Hawkins, P., the winners of the second platoon, and Corp. Horton happened to be the lucky man of the third platoon. The third platoon went over the top on field firing, making 104 hits on 23 targets.

Men on furlough—Sgt. Dalby, Corp. Furman, Pfcs. Walker, Partain, Pendergraph, Greene and Pvts. Freeman, Gulley and Edmonds.

The following named men went back to their special duty jobs: Pvt. Joiner as cook to the Officer's mess, Pvts. Klein and Bryant as janitors to Block No. 21. Cpls. Miscar and Canada to Regimental Recruit School. Our men going back on Post Special Duty are: Pfc. Henson to Post Exchange as clerk, Pfc. Nugent as stock clerk, Pfc. Sperry to recreation center board, carpenter on stadium, Pfc. Lemaire to Regimental band, Pvt. Glover to Regimental farm.

Lt. Haynes has taken a twenty days' leave and will report to the Infantry School for duty upon his return. He was commanding the first platoon and all are sorry to see him go.

Cooks Buckner and Cottle are now relieved from the kitchen and are often seen reviewing up on squad movements.

SELECTIONS FOR INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM MADE

Camp Perry, Ohio—Final selection of the shooting members of the Infantry team which will represent the doughboy branch in the National matches was made today by Captain Elmer G. Lindroth, team captain, after weeks of grueling competition between the two-score individuals striving for places on the team. Names of the successful competitors are: Capt. Kearie L. Berry, Infantry; 1st Lt. Kameil Maertens, 38th Infantry; 1st Lt. Sidney R. Hinds, Infantry; 1st Lt. William R. McMaster, 3rd Tank Co.; Sgt. John Pilst, Co. F, and Sgt. Joe B. Sharp, Co. B, both of the 8th Inf., Sgt. Edward Leschinski, Co. I, 4th Infantry; Sgt. Glen D. Todd, Co. A, 3rd Inf.; Cpl. Seth W. Carlson, Co. E, 4th Inf.; Cpl. Albert B. Larimore, Co. B, 29th Inf.; Pvt. 1cl. John M. Jakubik, Co. B, 16th Inf.; Sgt. William F. Bissenden, Co. E, 10th Inf.; and Cpl. John B. Gribsby, Co. F, 23rd Inf.

Other personnel of the team are: Captain Elmer G. Lindroth, team captain; Captain Raymond O. Miller, team coach; Capt. Frank A. Jones, supply officer; Pvt. 1cl. William Sweeney, supply sergeant; Pvt. 1cl. Willie McCain, Pvt. 1cl. March Worsham, and Pvt. Leslie Johnson, cooks.

It is generally believed that the Infantry team and the Marine Corps team will be the principal contenders for first honors in the Service team events of the National matches as they have been for several years past. Last year's contest was the closest ever reported for the same match, the United States Infantry team winning with a score of 2838 out of a possible 3000, which is the highest score ever made in this match.

The Service team match was first fired at Seagirt, New Jersey, in 1903. In 1904 it was fired at Fort Riley, Kansas. In 1915 and 1916, at Jacksonville, Florida. In 1919 at Caldwell, New Jersey, and since then at Camp Perry, vious winners of this match lows: 1903-04-05, New York Guard; 1906, U. S. Infantry; Navy; 1908, U. S. Infantry; Navy, 1910, U. S. Infantry; Marine Corps; 1912, No c 1913, U. S. Cavalry; 1914, N tion; 1915, U. S. Infantry; Marine Corps; 1917, no c 1918-19, U. S. Marine Corps; Infantry; 1921-22-23, U. S Corps; 1924, U. S. Engineers S. Marine Corps; 1926, no c 1927, U. S. Infantry.

SERGEANT BAEHR IS HONOR GUEST

By Al Durden

A smoker in honor of Master Sergeant Geo. H. Baehr of the Infantry School detachment, was held at the Twenty-ninth Infantry theatre Monday night. Hundreds of the friends and admirers of this popular non-commissioned officer were present to join in the final tribute of friendship and comradeship on the eve of Mr. Sergeant Baehr's retirement from active service.

A handsome traveling bag, the gift of the members of the detachment, was presented to Mr. Sgt. Baehr by Major Henry A. Bootz, assistant executive officer of the Infantry School. In a farewell address to the members of the detachment, Sergeant Baehr said, "that though his retirement would be the end of his active service and that he would return to civilian life, that always in his heart he would be a soldier." He also advised the youngsters to be loyal and to never go absent from duty. Although 60 years of age, Sergeant Baehr stands erect and carries himself with the same soldierly bearing of a man of thirty, a fitting example of army life.

Another feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation of a beautifully engraved silver cup to Sergeant Jazz Magoni, manager of the Green Cord baseball team, by the members of the team, in honor of the arrival of John J. Magoni, Jr. Captain Bent presented the cup and read a special order upon the arrival of Magoni, Jr., that brought roars of laughter from the audience.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Twenty-fourth Infantry orchestra. The Twenty-fourth Infantry quartette rendered several vocal selections that brought applause from the audience with their charming melody and harmony. Sergeant Birdsong of "A" Company, Twenty-ninth Infantry, rendered several vocal selections, the audience calling him back for more after each selection.

Refreshments were served during the smoker. Mess Sergeant Pop Martin left no stone unturned in making the evening a complete success as far as eats, drinks and smokes were concerned.

FORT BENNING OFFICERS WIN MOST HONORS AT 4th CORPS AREA GOLF TOURNAMENT

Staged at Fort Benning, Georgia, on September 5th, 6th and 7th, the Fourth Corps Area Golf Tournament terminated with all but a single prize going to the local officers.

Captain A. S. Nevins, winner of the first flight, and Captain F. E. Hickson, runner-up in that flight, were awarded, respectively a driver and a pair of golf shoes. In addition these two officers are to receive railroad fare to Washington, D. C., and return as representatives of the Fourth Corps Area for participation in the Army Championship Tournament to be staged at the Chevy Chase Country Club from September 17th to 21st, inclusive.

The third prize, a brassie, was awarded Captain C. C. Griffin as winner of the second flight, his runner-up, 1st Lieut. J. C. McCammon, receiving a putter as the fourth prize.

Captain R. H. Chance, winner of the third flight, received a mid-iron as fifth prize. Runner-up in the third flight was Captain R. T. Edwards, who was given a golf bag as sixth prize. Coming from Headquarters 4th Corps Area at Fort McPherson, Georgia, Captain Edwards won the distinction of being the only outside officer to receive an award.

Winners and runners-up in the fifth and sixth flight were Major C. P. Stivers, Captain W. E. Sankey, Captain W. J. Scott and 2nd Lieut. E. H. Wilson, who received as prizes six golf balls, a golf shirt, a golf hat and two golf balls, respectively.

Among the golfers participating in the Corps Area Tournament, the feeling generally prevailed, that, by far, the best man won and expression of opinion indicates that Captain Nevins, generally shooting around seventy, may be expected to carry off honors at the Army Championship Tournament.

Visiting officers at Fort Benning described their treatment by local officers and by the Officers Club, which arranged for their accommodations, as superb, many declaring that they had never before been so courteously and royally entertained.

On the evening of the last day of the matches all participants were guests of the Officers Club at a delightfully appointed dinner, whereat Colonel Daniel G. Berry, Acting Post Commander, made the presentation speech and Major A. M. Burdett, Fourth Corps Area Golf Representative, delivered the prizes won.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT FORT BENNING PAST YEAR

A few more short months and the wooden buildings of Fort Benning will be relics of former days. As the mighty and stately oaks grow from the heart of a little acorn, thus has the Infantry School of Fort Benning, grown from a few scattered wooden buildings until it now rivals that of any army post in the American Army.

A few more weeks and the brick barracks of the 29th Infantry will be completed; already workmen are busy putting the finishing touches to final addition to the barracks. This building is a strictly modern brick structure. When finished a war strength regiment can be comfortably quartered in its spacious quarters. It has every convenience that would be found in any modern hotel, steam heat, electric lights, hot and cold water fixtures on each of the three floors.

Pioneers of Fort Benning will tell you that the first movie theatre was installed in what had once been a dairy barn where cows were milked and fed. Today the Main Theatre of the Infantry School rivals that of any theatre in the South. A modern fire-proof building made of concrete and steel with a seating capacity of fifteen hundred, with no convenience overlooked that can add to the comfort of patrons and performers.

A visitor would be surprised on his first visit to the theatre at the grandeur and beauty hid behind the stage curtain. Pushing aside the protecting curtain there is revealed a graceful proscenium arch framing a stage fully ample for the accommodation of any theatrical production of the day. Before the stage and immediately underfoot is a commodious orchestra pit from which concrete steps lead down to a large room beneath the stage, this room for the use of the orchestra and the storing of music.

Ascending from the orchestra's private retiring room to the level of the stage it is at first difficult to appreciate the full vaulted immensity of the place. The lofty ceiling is cloaked in shadowy remoteness that defies the feeble brilliance of the incandescent lights. On the broad sweep of the platform an ordinary barrack building could be erected with room to spare. Shades of the old ice plant and Bussey's barn flit through the memory as one gazes upon the splendor of this majestic show-house.

The new Hospital, which has taken its place among the many improvements of the garrison, is another of the features of the Infantry School that takes its place among the foremost of the army hospitals. Built from reinforced concrete this building is modernly equipped in every way. A visitor would be impressed with the quietness and neatness of the surroundings, attendants and equipment are spotless. The new hospital of the Infantry School will compare favorably with the leading hospitals of the country and is equipped in such a manner that treatment can be given anything from a bad cold to a major operation.

At the present time additional wings are being added to the main building and brick quarters for the nurses are being built.

The recent completion of the new telephone exchange, school library and bakery has added to the beauty and improvement of the garrison. All of the aforementioned buildings are modern equipped brick structures.

Before the end of another twelve months many more of the familiar old wooden structures will disappear and in their place neat and trim brick structures will rise to beautify the world's greatest school, the Infantry School of Fort Benning.

NEW ARRIVALS AT FORT BENNING

During your spare evening hours visit the Main Theatre at Fort Benning. You will enjoy the pleasure of seeing the best motion pictures produced. A different feature picture is shown every night. These are accompanied by news reels, comedies or fables, all of which are carefully selected to please the most discriminating tastes.

Music that will surprise and enthrall you is rendered by a ten-piece orchestra. This orchestra is very highly trained. They are not the jazz type which jingles the hour away. The music they play is chosen from over 20,000 selections, and is so arranged that it is accurately cued to the theme of the action shown upon the screen. Of course, the orchestra will play jazz where the music cue calls for it, but most of the pictures shown are of the finer type—the music is likewise.

A privilege that is seldom accorded a theatre patron is that of smoking while shows are being shown. Smoking is permitted in the Main Theatre at Fort Benning, because of the fact that the building is fireproof and so ventilated that the atmosphere is kept clear.

Prices of admission are 15c week days and 25c Sundays for adults, and 10c every day for children. At these low prices you see precisely the same pictures which are being shown simultaneously at the larger eastern cities at $1.50 and $2.50 admission fee. These prices are possible because of the large quantities of pictures shown.

The show at the Main Theatre starts promptly at 7:30 every evening, and is generally over by 9:20 P. M.

As an accommodation, seat reservation will be made for the military personnel and their families who desire to give theatre parties. Reservations will be made for parties of six or more people. In order to secure this service the theatre office must be notified before 4:00 P. M. daily, except Saturday and Sunday; for Saturday and Sunday evenings, reservations must be received before 12:00 noon Saturday. Telephone 443 or leave word at the office in the Main Theatre.

This institution is operated purely for the entertainment of the command—it is not a money making enterprise. Treat yourself and your family, if you be so fortunate as to have one, to the privileges that are offered.

Calendars are distributed monthly. These not only afford you a handy card-board calender for your quarters, but also keep you informed of the pictures shown during the current month. If you do not receive one of these calendars before the fifth of each month call at the theatre office where extra copies will gladly be furnished.

MESS HALL GOSSIP

Cook Bolton, of the Combat Train, 83rd F. A., has found a new recipe for cooking macaroni. Instead of covering the macaroni with cheese, Cook Bolton claims that he get much better results from using the cheese-cloth.

Cook Fulford, of the I. S. D., better known as "Handsome Harry," has purchased three of the Columbia records, "I ain't got nobody," and it is reported by Pvt. Devine that he spends most of his time corresponding with matrimonial agencies and listening to the aforementioned records.

J. Stepp of the galloping 1st Battalion Hdqrs. Co., 29th Infantry, claims the garrison championship in the preparing of army slum. Stepp's challenge is supported by every man in the outfit, who would refuse a chicken dinner any day for a dish of the slum that Stepp cooks.

John Faulk, prominent and widely known slum-burner of Rgt. Hdqrs. Co., 29th Infantry, has decided that his next hitch will be in the sunny isles of Hawaii. John decided to re-up for the isle of grass skirts and ukes after hearing "Happy" Long, the big butter and egg man from the cotton country, describe the wonders of the sunny isle.

CHASE CONSERVATORY BEGINS SESSION

The Chase Conservatory of Music began its regular session and teaching last Monday. The preliminary enrollment was unusually large this year, and indications are that this year will be a record for attendance. A recital was given last Monday evening which illustrated the work of the school. See ad in this issue.

RETURNS FROM TOUR IN EUROPE

Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis have returned to Fort Benning, after spending the summer months on an extensive tour of Europe. They were kept informed of Fort Benning activities through the News, which was sent them at various European addresses.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 14 TO SEPT. 21, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 14

"THE CRIMSON CITY," starring Myrna Loy in a thrilling, yet tender love story of the Orient. An English Aristocrat is charged with embezzlement—he flees to China; here he visits the House of a Thousand Daggars, a notorious pleasure resort, and becomes infatuated with one of its slaves. Numerous complications ensue; the plot thickens, and finally launches into a climax which terminates the story most amicably.

Pathe News No. 73.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15

"THE FIGHTING REDHEAD," starring Buzz Barton in a fast western, wherein Buzz aids in capturing the mystery bandit who has been terrorizing the little town of Shady Bend. Lots of fast ridin', ropin', and rescue work with thrills.

"Love at First Flight." Sennett Comedy.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 16

"DRUMS OF LOVE," starring Mary Philbin with Don Alvarado and Lionel Barrymore. This is considered D. W. Griffith's greatest since he produced "The Birth of a Nation." In this picture you are taken into a mythical kingdom where two brothers hold complete sway. Don Cathos, the fighter, a man of iron will, is an ugly, misshapen dwarf of a giant. Leonardo, the younger, handsome and gentle, is the object of all women's eyes. It is only when Cathos receives the beautiful Emanuella for a bride, as a token of homage from a neighboring nobleman, and Leonardo falls in love with his brother's wife, that complications enter into the plot. It is a powerful love story which bewilders, fascinates and enthralls.

"Barnyard Lodge." Fables.

Paramount News No. 116.

MONDAY, SEPT. 17

"THE LEOPARD LADY," a mystic drama of circus life, featuring Jacqueline Logan, Alan Hale and Robert Armstrong. High lights; continental setting, mystifying slaying of Frau Holweg by "The Little Old Woman," decision of Paula to join the circus in an effort to solve the mystery, murder of the lion tamer ,attack by leopards upon Paula and her rescue by a Cossack rider, discovery that a trained ape is mostly the cause of the deep mystery—the smashing climax. This story is absorbing throughout.

"Yellow Cameo No. 2."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 18

"PHANTOM OF THE RANGE," starring Tom Tyler and Duane Thompson in a unique story. A show troupe becomes stranded in a small western town and Tyler is forced to return to his former vocation to keep from starving. A gigantic swindle which he discloses, a kidnapping by a band of ruthless renegades, and a million dollar offer for the ranch, provides the thrills and exctiement that invariably feature Tyler's productions.

"Say Uncle." Jack Duffy Comedy.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19

"HOT NEWS," starring Beebe Daniels with Nell Hamilton. The story deals with the exploits of a news reel camera girl who stepped into her father's shoes. It tells an authentic story of one of the most adventurous professions in the world. An international jewel thief steals a priceless jewel from the turban of a Maharajah. He sets sail in a yacht with the gem and prisoners, is overtaken by a torpedo boat destroyer which is aided by an aeroplane. There is plot and counter-plot, climax and anti-climax —it is an intriguing as well as an instructive picture.

Paramount News No. 117.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 20

"VAMPING VENUS," featuring that genuine fun artist, Charlie Murray, in a new kind of comedy—he proves to you that the original Venus de Milo was an out and out clinging vine. Think of it, the King of Ireland mixing up in Grecian affairs, particularly wherein the sirens are concerned. Imagine a New York politician of today transported to ancient Greece, and there acquiring the reigns of state. Beautiful ladies—yes, lions dens—too terrible for words, laughs, a multitude. This comical picture is a travesty on ancient history and art.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 21

"CHICKEN A LA KING," a hilarious comedy drama starring Nancy Carroll with George Meeker. This is a screen version of the stage success "Mister Romeo" by Henry Wagstaff Gribble and Wallace Manheiner. It is the story of a drab little wife who has been browbeaten for twenty years, then suddenly she is confronted with the startling fact that her Puritan husband has developed into a gay Romeo and is haunting the back stage of a burlesque show. The wife goes to the bat but not battling, cleverly, she enlists cooperation of two show girls and real fun starts and the screen takes the gay Lothario into settings which a man with a wife at home should be barred from enjoying.

Miss Katharine Law, of Denver, Col., is being charmingly entertained as the guest of Lt. and Mrs. R. H. Brown. Mrs. Brown gave an afternoon bridge in her honor on last Tuesday. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Michael Buckley complimented her with a delightful bridge party. There were two tables at which rubber bridge was played. Mrs. Lloyd Jones and Mrs. Julian Baumann were the lucky winners of the table prizes, which were table sets for hot plates. The honoree was given a bottle of French bath tablets. After the game a tasty salad course was served with tea.

On Saturday evening Lt. and Mrs. Brown were hosts at a Spaghetti supper. Their guests were Miss Katharine Law, Miss Marjorie Hutchens, of Columbus, Miss Harriett Wells, Lieut. Von Honten, Lieut. Green and Lieut. Diller.

On Tuesday Miss Marjorie Hutchens complimented Miss Law with a lovely luncheon at her home in Columbus. After lunch bridge was played and Mrs. Rothwell won high score prize.

On Tuesday evening Capt. and Mrs. Wm. M. Hutson entertained at dinner for Miss Law. Covers were laid for Miss Law, Lt. Van Houten, Lt. and Mrs. Brown, Capt. and Mrs. Hutson.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Brown entertained at one table of bridge for her charming visitor.

Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis returned on Thursday after a most delightful two months abroad. Their tour included the Mediterranean countries and they were particularly charmed with Egypt and The Holy Land. During their entire cruise they encountered no rough sea which added much to their pleasure. Col. and Mrs. Channing E. Delaplane were with Major and Mrs. Lewis on this wonderful voyage and are now at Fort Leonard Wood, where they will be stationed for some time.

* * *

Mrs. Douglas H. Rubenstein has returned to Fort Benning, after an absence of several months. Her many friends rejoice that she has recovered her health.

* * *

Mr. Clyde Duncan, prominent in banking circles of Missouri, is the guest for a few days of his sister, Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin.

* * *

The many friends of Mrs. Thomas N. Stark will be interested to know that she will be at Hot Springs, Ark., for several months.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Eugene L. Brine, of the 29th Infantry, are now on a short leave, spending it in Ohio with Mrs. Brine's family.

On Friday afternoon of last week Master Billy Bartlett, son of Lieut. and Mrs. William Bartlett, of the 83rd F. A., celebrated his fourth birthday in a very happy way. Twelve little friends came at four o'clock and after playing some children's games, they were invited into the dining room, where a "Magic pie" was found on the table. When the pie was opened each child found a toy which pleased him immensely. Then a lovely birthday cake bearing four burning candles took the place of the pie. Every little guest found a gay balloon at his place and when the cake was cut and the ice cream was served their joy was complete. They all wish for Billy many more such birthdays.

On Saturday evening Col. and Mrs. Ralph W. Kingman will entertain informally for their daughter, Miss Katherine Kingman, who leaves Monday for Athens, where she will be a Sophomore at the University of Georgia. This party is in the nature of "open house" and all her friends who would like to drop in for a little farewell call are cordially invited to do so.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Announcement Digest

Below is brief information concerning examinations announced by the United States Civil Service Commission within the past few days.

Both men and women may enter any examination; appointing officers, however, have the legal right to specify the sex desired in requesting certification of eligibles.

The salaries named are entrance salaries. Higher-salaried positions are filled through promotion.

Further information may be obtained from the Commission at Washington, D. C., or its representative at the post office or customhouse in any city.

Physiotherapy Aide, Physiotherapy Pupil Aide, field service of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau and the U. S. Public Health Service, at an entrance salary ranging from $1,860 to $2,100 for aide, and from $1,140 to $1,320 for pupil aide. Deduction from salary is made when quarters, subsistence and laundry are furnished. Certain education and experience required. Applications must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than October 9, 1928. Competitors will be rated on their education, training, and experience, and on practical questions.

Junior Scientist (Nautical), Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, at $2,000 a year. Certain specified education required. Application must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than September 25, 1928. Subjects to be rated: Pure mathematics, 15 per cent.; navigation, theory and practice, 25 per cent.; physical geography, 20 per cent.; nautical definitions, 20 per cent.; and seamanship, 20 per cent.

Associate Agricultural Engineer, Assistant Agricultural Engineer, Bureau of Public Roads and Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, Department of Agriculture, for duty in Washington, D. C., or in the field, at $3,200 to $3,700 a year for the associate grade and $2,600 to $3,100 a year for the assistant grade. Certain specified education and experience required. Applications must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than September 19, 1928. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on their education, training, and experience on a scale of 100.

Awning Maker, Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., at $1,680 a year. Certain specified training and experience required. Applications must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than September 19, 1928. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place but will be rated on their physical ability, 30 per cent., and their training and experience, 70 per cent.

Junior Metallurgist, departmental and field services, at $2,000 a year. Certain specified education required. Applications must be on file with the U. S. Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C., not later than September 25, 1928. Subjects to be rated: Practical questions on general metallurgy, chemistry, and elementary physics, 70 per cent., and a thesis to be handed to the examiner on the day of examination, 30 per cent.

Principal Horticulturist, Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, at $5,600 a year. High degree of scholarship and unusual ability and experience in the field of horticulture required. The qualifications of candidates will be considered by a special board. Applications will be received until October 1, 1928.

The examinations are to fill vacancies in the United State Veterans' Bureau.

The duties are to investigate history and environmental conditions of patients; to analyze and submit data to the physicians to aid him at arriving at a definite diagnosis and in outlining a course of treatment; to consider, report on, and treat the social environment to which a convalescent patient may go or be expected to go.

Competitors will be rated on their education, training, and experience, and on a thesis or publications.

QUARTERMASTER CORPS HAVE BUSY YEAR

Interesting Data Concerning Construction at Fort Benning Given.

By Beatrice Davis

The year 1928-29 has been a very busy year, full of achievement for the various departments of the Quartermaster, and the Constructing Quartermaster at Benning.

Under the supervision of the Quartermaster, during the past year, one of the most beautiful buildings gracing the post, has been constructed. This refers to the new Academic Libarry building, which has ample room for the mammoth Academic Department Library, with half of the building given over to reading rooms. Here the Student Officer, in search of certain data, may take plenty of time to read up on any subject, and do so in quiet surroundings.

Many other buildings which have been sorely needed, 1928-29 has seen completed. Principally among these projects is construction of servants' quarters in Block 23, servants' quarters and garages in Block 19, re-building of the heating plant at the main theatre, and enlarging the post-exchange grocery department.

Then, too, there are many other minor projects which the post as a whole does not know of, that the Quartermaster has efficiently supervised and seen completed. One of these is the construction of the saw-mill, electrically driven, to replace the old steam-driven sawmill, which was burned in July of 1927. Another is the construction of additional buildings at the R. O. T. C. area; another is the painting of quarters in Blocks 19, 21 and 25, and the re-roofing of buildings in Blocks 21 and 23. Concrete sidewalks have been laid in front of the Service Club, while the Upatoi Creek Bridge has been re-floored throughout.

The Constructing Quartermaster has, during the past year, finished Sections "B," "C," "D," and "E" of the Cuartel Barracks for the 29th Infantry, and has started on the construction of Sections "F" and "G", which sections complete the 29th Infantry Barracks.

Also, the Constructing Quartermaster has under construction at this time, two hospital ward additions to the hospital, and the construction of a 1,000,000 gallon standpipe. Within the next few weeks, the Constructing Quartermaster expects to receive the funds to construct additional wards at the hospital, a nurses' quarters, and a barracks for the 15th Tank Battalion. The ten million dollar building program has gotten under way at Benning with a steady stream of appropriations for construction.

Perhaps the average officer, non-commissioned officer and enlisted man does n t consider the smooth, constant service that the Quartermaster renders day in and day out, rain or shine, flood or flame, as anything extra. He takes it as a matter of course. In case of a stopped sink, immediately Utilities is called, or if its a bursted water main, the same department is called,—no matter how little or how large the repa'r. If you're an incoming officer, the Billeting Branch immediately assigns you quarters—if you want transportation, then Transportation Branch is willing and waiting to serve you. If its supplies you desire, then Major Barlow's branch is constantly on its toes, giving the best service that can be handed you. When it's dusty, you'll notice that the Water and Sewers Branch of the Q. M. Department is out sprinkling the roads,—if there's a rough place, the Road Gang does its best to straighten it out. If it's quarters you want, the Constructing Quartermaster hopes that either next January or July he'll have about a million dollars to build them for you.

The constant, smooth service of the Quartermaster is truly "service to the line", and at all times, it is anxious to give the closest co-operation possible to the permanent personnel and the student officers.

DOTS AND DASHES
By Ha-Le

The mighty "Kels" dropped a game to the 1st Bats last week. Well, all we can say is, the worm turned at last—and how!

The "Terrible" Tankers are starting early for the football season. An intra-company league has already been organized. Watch out, you Leaders of the Milky Way for some real football this season.

Among the many sports here at Fort Benning, there is one that is well worth mentioning and that is the ancient game of pitching horeshoes. In strolling around the Post, one can see many teams playing this game and quite a few of them are adepts too. The next sport, we suppose, will be crocquet.

One of the most vigorous pastimes here in the Post gymnasium is American handball. Everyone in the Post is encouraged to come to the gymnasium and play this game as it represents that, which is admired in all athletes—speed, stamina, endurance and cooperation.

OUR SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Another milestone has been reached in the publication of THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS. Six years ago the paper appeared at Fort Benning, a four page edition with a small circulation. At that time it took the form of a weekly bulletin of events of the garrison. Today the NEWS records events of the Infantry School in the form of news items.

There have been many changes at Fort Benning since the first copy of the NEWS appeared. Stately brick buildings have taken the place of many old wooden structures. The recreation project is anoutstanding feature of recent developments. The NEWS has kept pace with the progress of the garrison until today, the sixth anniversary of the paper, the NEWS has a circulation near the 2,000 mark and the average issue contains twelve pages.

The paper reaches practically all infantry units in the service. Many copies are sent to newspapers throughout the country. In this way the publicity of the Infantry School is carried on.

The co-operation which has made this marked progress is much appreciated by the NEWS.

COMMANDANT RETURNS TO FORT BENNING

Brig.-Gen. E. T. Collins, the Commandant of the Infantry School, and Mrs. Collins returned to Fort Benning Tuesday evening, after spending several weeks visiting with relatives and friends in Washington and Williamsport, Pa.

DOUGHBOYS ENJOY FINE BANQUET

(By Al Durden)

Company "A," 29th Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., has the honor of being the first war strength company in the history of the United States army to qualify 100 per cent. in rifle marksmanship, which means that every one of the 200 men in Company "A" qualiefid as marksman or higher during the recent target season.

An old-fashioned barbecue held on the "A" company lawn and attended by all members of the company and many of their friends from other units was held Tuesday evening to celebrate this unparalleled feat of arms.

The evening was one of pleasure and amusement for the members of Company "A""A" and their guests. Music for the occasion was furnished by the 29th Infantry orchestra. "Measles" Bridges and "Bob" Birdsong entertained the audience and were the hit of the evening with a comedy act that brought forth roars of laughter and applause. They also rendered several vocal selections that kept the audience asking for more.

Astronomy Professor: "Can you name me a star with a tail?"

ARMY TAKES ITS OFFICERS FROM ALL OVER WORLD

Porto Rico Furnishes Thirty-seven

Out of the one thousand, three hundred eighty-seven Second Lieutenants commissioned in the army within the past four years a total of 975 have been graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, and 412 have been appointed from other sources.

The specific sources of 357 second lieutenants during the year of 1927 follows:

Military Academy, 203; enlisted men, 29; honor R. O. T. C. graduates, 39; other R. O. T. C. graduates, 24; National Guard, 6; Organized Reserve Corps, 34; former officers of the army, 1; members of Enlisted Reserve, 20; graduate of U. S. N. A., 1.

A recent study of the birthplace of the officers of the Army has brought to light several interesting facts. While it is not surprising that every state in the Union should be represented, the study has developed the fact that practically every country in the world is included in the list.

The forty-eight states and the District of Columbia have furnished officers to the Army to the total number of 11,378 distributed as follows:

New York, 996; Pennsylvania, 972; Illinois, 613; Ohio, 544; Massachusetts, 517; Texas, 491; Virginia, 420; Missouri, 402; Iowa, 388; Indiana, 383; Kansas, 330; Michigan, 321; California, 304; Georgia, 296; Tennessee, 293; Kentucky, 271; Maryland, 256; District of Columbia, 254; Wisconsin, 251; Minnesota, 250; New Jersey, 233; Alabama, 221; South Carolina, 221; North Carolina, 243; Nebraska, 188; Connecticut, 149; Mississippi, 140; Arkansas, 127; Colorado, 123; West Virginia, 123; Louisiana, 120; Maine, 114; Washington, 108; Vermont, 91; Oregon, 88; Florida, 83; South Dakota, 83; Utah, 79; Rhode Island, 68; Montana, 56; Oklahoma, 55; North Dakota, 54; New Hampshire, 49; New Mexico, 45; Idaho, 44; Delaware, 43; Wyoming, 42; Arizona, 36; Nevada, 10.

Ninety of the officers of the army were born in the outlying territories of the United States as follows: Philippine Islands, 44; Porto Rico, 37; Hawaii, 7; Alaska, 1, and Guam, 1.

Three hundred and twenty-nine officers were born in foreign countries. The British Empire heads the list of the number furnished with 188, as follows: Canada, 73; England, 64; Ireland, 23; Scotland, 9; India, 7; Wales, 4; Australia, 3; British West Indies, 3; Newfoundland, 1, and New Zealand, 1.

Those born in other countries follow: Germany, 36; Sweden, 15; Russia, 15; Austria, 12; Poland, 9; Mexico, 9; Italy, 7; Denmark, 6; China, 4; Netherlands, 4; France, 4; Belgium, 3; Finland, 3; Switzerland, 2; Japan, 2; Turkey, 2; Roumania, Brazil, Cuba, Latvia, Syria, Argentine, East Indies, and Persia one each.—2nd Division Review.

Captain Frank L. McCoy

Born in Georgia. Graduate The Infantry School, Company Officers Course, 1923. Graduated The Signal School, 1925. A. B. Washington and Lee University, 1914. Assigned to 24th and to command Company "A." Just completed course in Engineering at Yale.

That Lumber Pile

Our supply officer is right on the job. He is putting in a requisition for new lumber.

We have trouble with our lumber. Can't keep it from wearing out. When we get a half day off now and then, we put in that half day moving our lumber pile. Captain Stewart says the officers and men are not as careful with the lumber as they used to be. The first few times didn't hurt it much, but as the regiment gained skill in the pastime the lumber wasn't handled so carefully, and began to show wear. The 2 by 4s are now 1 by 2s, and the planks have become so thin that they will not make a pile when stacked up, so we are going to get new lumber to move.

Not knowing very much about this, one of the new officers in the regiment suggested that any new lumber drawn should be padded and have hand holds.

Dynamite

The 24th has received about 25 mules as replacements for those that have been on the job long enough to retire from active service. They are now in our corral.

The majority of these mules have never been handled and resent even the sight of a mule skinner. They react to a piece of harness like a soldier does to a scorpion in his breeches.

As we have the mules in our own corral we intend to pick them over very carefully. The good gentle mules we will keep for use here in the regiment; the wild, un-restrained ones we will send out to the logging camp. The chances are that people living that far back in the woods don't know a good mule from a bad one anyway.

Velvet

It has been the custom in the 24th to have a motorcycle with side car report to the officer of the day at various times, to carry him to visit the far flung sentries on post.

Upon the night in question the motorcycle was in the repair shop, or rather, it was not out of the repair shop. Captain Seamon, who was officer of the day, was a little peeved over the non-appearance of this excuse for locomotion. He went to see the adjutant.

It being the duty of a good adjutant to keep peace in the regiment, Captain Steele told him patiently and gently that the motorcycle had been allowed to Regimental Headquarters through the kindness and goodness of the Post Quartermaster, and that the regiment had permitted the O. D. to use it merely as a favor and not as a matter of duty, and furthe rthat the riding in and use of this side car was velvet.

This word velvet reacted unfavorably upon several officers standing near. The before-mentioned side car was manufactured in 1916, used by the American Expeditionary Forces in France, sold to the British on the Rhine in 1919, the Rhine rose up over their auto park, and this motorcycle, for three months. The motorcycle was then returned to the American M. T. C. in Coblenz, sent back to America to haul gravel, and finally turned over to the 24th Infantry to use, provided they agreed to take good care of it.

From experience gained in riding this springless, cushionless, tilted side car over the roads of this post in the dead hours of night, and it attached to a motorcycle without headlights and only one cylinder, we disput the application of the word velvet.

No one has ever questioned our loyalty, but we wish to rise right up and proclaim the soft sounding velvet as applied by Captain Chas. L. Steel to that ancient excuse of a memo-receipted side car is not at all in keeping with the opinion that the officers and men of the regiment had formed of this cement mixer.

—Roy F. Hall.

Welcome, incoming officers! Benning has been getting ready for you for many months! The little "dinky" is all in shape to transport you to all the ranges (those long, dusty ranges), the horses have all been curried and are waiting to get you out somewhere miles from civilization, and perhaps show you how firm Mother Earth feels when a sudden desire to determine this fact impels you to go downward, as it were,—the guns have all been greased, the Instructors have sharpened their pencils—in fact, Benning is all ready for you, and extends a hearty welcome!

Just remember, as you go tramping over the ranges, that hundreds of others of Uncle Sam's brave, khaki-clad boys have done as you are doing,—and others will follow you. Cheerful, eh what? You incoming officers may feel assured that this column will, at all times, endeavor to issue a little cheerful, encouraging note, from time to time.

* * *

However, Benning has gotten ready for you. For your convenience, one of the most beautiful and useful library buildings in any Army post in the world, is waiting for you. It contains a complete assortment of military textbooks, with a quiet, comfortable place to read u pon your subject matter. You will be the first class to use this building, and should feel very proud of it.

* * *

Don't get discouraged after looking the quarters situation over,—for within the next six to nine months, the Constructing Quartermaster expects to receive around the sum of one million dollars for quarters construction. Even if you don't get the quarters for your sch l year, in case you are ordered here for permanent duty, you will eventually get the pleasure from them.

* * *

Be of good spirit, and you'll find that Benning will prove to be one of the best Army posts at which you've ever been stationed!

SERGT. CHARLES M. HOPKINS,
Regimental Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry

When a soldier makes three 3's, one right after another, on the target range, that isn't news. It's just plain hard luck. But when he makes three 3's in a row, so—333—that is a different matter entirely, and deserves a place on the front page, for it is not every day that such a score is chalked up on the range.

Sergeant Hopkins, of Regimental Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry, has achieved the distinction of making the creditable score referred to. He fired with the first group which finished firing about the middle of July, and set a mark for the rest of the regiment to shoot at. Many men, with quiet determination, set about to better the score. Others openly declared that they could beat that—easy. The second group fired. The odds and ends fired. The men were separated from the boys on the last critical range. The last "artillery bull's-eye" waved lazily over the butts, and the last bullet crashed into the pine stumps of Shelton Range; the resounding echoes died away.

And still Sergeant Hopkins stood first. Other good scores were made, of course, but there was no serious rival. There were scores in the three-twenties, but they had gone down too many points to stand a show.

In 1923, Sergeant Hopkins was second high man in the 1st Infantry with a score of 320; in 1926 he was high man in Company C, 29th Infantry, and last year he made high score in his present organization.

Shooting might be said to be a specialty of his. Even in his present capacity as regimental photographer he can be seen around the regimental area shooting pictures of various individuals and activities. He has recently acquired a standard sized motion picture camera, and within a short time will be able to show movies of different men and organizations of the regiment.

BENNING FIGHT CARD FEATURED BY KNOCKOUTS

Those who yell for knockouts and plenty of gore had their desire more than satisfied at the Fort Benning arena last Tuesday night. Before another large crowd of fight fans with ideal weather conditions the followers of the manly art of "Sock" took the center of the limelight and from 7:45 P. M. until a few minutes of ten put out to the limit.

Straton Smith and Babbling Brook, of the 15th Tanks, mixed in a fast three-rounder in the opening bout of the evening. Smith took a hairline decision over Brooks by a final rally in the closing and deciding round. Chick Morris, of the I. S. D., was outpointed by Pecot, of the 29th Infantry, in the second bout. The Infantryman clearly outpointed the Detachmenteer, using his longer reach to a good advantage.

Billy Shell, Columbus favorite, ran his string of straight victories up to nine when he dropped Bunny Myers, of the 29th Infantry, for the fatal count in the second round of their scheduled six-round fight. This boy Shell will bear watching, as he has defeated all of the lesser lights in the middleweight division it seems that Weary Willie Ptomey will have to do the final act.

Seldom Heard, of the 24th Infantry, stepped into the limelight when he licked Speedy Freeman, of Atlanta. Freeman came here with 12 straight knockouts to his credit. Flashing speed and pile-driving punching power, Heard had the visiting fighter reeling from pillar to post in the final round.

Blondie Parker won by a knockout over Jimmie Drew, of Atlanta, in the fourth round of their scheduled six rounder. Blondie took a terrible beating in the third but came back to stop Drew in the following round.

Nigger Davis, 29th Infantry favorite, showed the fans that he was back with the glove slingers to stay, when he knocked out Battling Downs, of Savannah, in the second round. Danny turned the trick with a right hook to the jaw.

In the final bout of the evening, Eddie Burl, the human dynamo from Savannah, lost little time in convincing the assembly that his claim to the bantamweight championship of the South, was no idle boast. Opening up with a two handed attack to Keenan's midriff, the visitor drove the doughboy to the ropes under a shower of body blows. Keenan came back with a stiff counter-attack to Burl's body but went down for the count when Burl landed a smashing overhand right to Keenan's jaw.

LIEUT. BRIMMER ARRIVES HERE

Lieut. H. W. Brimmer arrived at Fort Benning Thursday, and will report for duty as a student this year. He will be joined in October by Mrs. Brimmer and daughter, who are visiting in New Hampshire. The Brimmers recently returned from the Philippines where Lieut. Brimmer was supply officer of the 1st Battalion, 15th Infantry.

INFANTRY SCHOOL ATHLETES SCORED MANY VICTORIES PAST YEAR

(By Al Durden)

The army athlete of today ranks foremost among those of the three leading branches of American sports, baseball, football and boxing, while polo, tennis, golf and swimming number some of their brightest stars from the wearers of the olive drab.

A crowning example of the above-mentioned statement is fully demonstrated by the success achieved by athletes of the Infantry School of Fort Benning, during the past year which has been one of continuous triumph for the Infantry School colors.

Benning Riders Sweep Boards at Augusta Horse-Show

The splendid showing of the Infantry School Riding Team was one of the outstanding features of the Augusta Horse Show held March 14, 15 and 16, 1928, at Augusta, Ga.

Riding and jumping as though born in the saddle, the Fort Benning riders led by their doughboy cavalry leader, Major H. J. M. Smith, swept the boards to take 43 ribbons out of a possible total of 71.

Two champions were picked from Benning mounts. Of the fifteen horses taken to Augusta, all except two placed in the ribbons one or more times with "Hindoo" having the greater to his placing nine times out of fourteen showings.

The Infantry School Riding team, composed of ladies and officers from the Infantry School, was the subject of favorable comment by officials, rival exhibitors and all who attended the show. The splendid condition and performance of the Fort Benning Show horses was also highly commented upon.

This was a crowning triumph for army mounts and riders competing against a field of blooded mounts and some of the country's foremost riders.

Polo

Led by Major H. J. M. Smith, Benning poloists enjoyed one of the most successful seasons ever witnessed here. The strong Sixth Cavalry team of Fort Oglethorpe fell before the drive of the Benning riders. The Fort McPherson team, led by Major G. H. Franke, fell before the Benning malletmen and in the final series of the season the famous Govenors Horse Guard polo team met defeat at the hands of the Benning team.

Baseball

Playing a schedule of fourteen games against the pick of the country's college and professional teams, the Infantry School baseball team of 1928 finished the season with record of seven games won and seven lost. An even break against the teams of the 1928 schedule is a record to be proud of. The Auburn Tigers won two and lost one in the opening series. The Fighting Irishmen from Notre Dame next invaded Benning for a three game series, although they took two out of three each game was bitterly contested the scores being 3-2, 1-0, 4-3.

The Wolverines from Michigan State College dropped two in a row but managed to squeeze out a victory in the third and final game. The University of Illinois, champions of the Big Ten last season, won one and lost one. Only one of the three games scheduled with the University of Indiana was played because of weather conditions, but it was a 6 to 0 victory for the Doughboys. The Macon Peaches of the South Atlantic League invaded Benning to win one game. In the final game of the season the University of Florida went down to defeat at the hands of the Benningites.

Opening a thre league intra-mural series June 15, fans at Fort Benning have witnessed two games of high class baseball at Gowdy Field each afternoon during the summer except when the weather was unfit.

The "C" league was the first to finish their schedule, with the Reds of the 24th Infantry in first place. The 15th Tank Bn. finished in second with the Blues and Detachmenteers bringing up the rear.

In the "B" loop the Kellys of the 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry, ran away with the first half of the season, winning twelve straight games. In the last half the winner is still undecided with the Kellys leading the pack by a close margin.

The first for supremacy in the "A" circuit has developed into a three cornered affair between the Engineers, Howitzers and Muleskinners with the Engineers showing the way. One of the outstanding features of the season has been the sensational playing of several youngsters who promise to give the veterans a stiff fight for a regular berth on the Infantry School team next season. Most noticeable of these youngsters are Cooper, McAllister and Magagna, infielders, Hinkeys, Phillips and Paschal, pitchers; Woidyla and Woodman, catchers.

The activities of the baseball players of the garrison have not been confined to Fort Benning. A glance at the lineups of the all-star amateur teams of Columbus will show several names that belong to members of the Infantry School.

On the sport page of the local papers a few weeks ago, was a vivid story of a baseball game between two of the leading amateur teams of Columbus for the city championship. The feature of the story was a phenominal catch made by Kjelstrom, who was playing centerfield for the Meritas team. With two men on base and two out, a short Texas leaguer was hit over second base. Kjelstrom had come in at a dead run and had reached the ball by a headlong dive that caused him to turn a complete sommersault. He held the ball and saved the game. Kjelstrom is none other than our own Kelly of the Second Bats, 29th Infantry.

Boxing

Hundreds of fight fans at Fort Benning and Columbus are now enjoying the fistic menus prepared by Capt. J. J. Wilson, officer recently placed in charge of boxing affairs. Fights are held every two weeks in the big arena recently erected in rear of the gymnasium. Capt. W. B. Tuttle, recently selected as president of the athletic association, has been working on a tentative program of athletics for the coming year. Needless to say that boxing will be one of the features of the year.

Space does not permit the detailed stories of the development of fighters at the Infantry School within recent months.

The All-Southern Amateur Boxing Tourney held at Mobile, Ala., during the past year was attended by the leading amateur boxing teams of the South.

HEALTH NOTES FOR NEWLY ARRIVED PERSONNEL

The following notes are published for the information of newly arriving officers and other members of the command, those who live in Columbus as well as those having quarters on the post.

WATER SUPPLY: The post water supply is satisfactory from a health standpoint and the new plant, soon to be completed, will insure an adequate amount. Water from other than the regular post supply should not be drunk unless it has been examined at the laboratory and found potable. The city water supply of Columbus is excellent. It is free from disease producing organisms and is very soft.

FOODS: All food products of animal origin sold at the Commissary and Post Exchange are examined by the Veterinarian. The dairy products sold on the post are from inspected sources and are believed to be safe. All persons are advised not to use products from other sources without definite knowledge as to their quality.

MILK: The market milk sold in Columbus has, upon inspection and test, been found generally unsatisfactory, and often a menace to health. Only pasteurized milk is permitted to be sold on the post and it is advised that those not living on the post avoid the use of unpasteurized milk. The milk of the post, supplied under contract with the Commandant, has been found satisfactory in quality. It is derived from tuberculin tested herds, pasteurized in a modern plant, and delivered iced.

ICE CREAM: Ice cream from other than pasteurized milk and cream should not be used and only such ice cream is authorized to be sold on the post.

VACCINATION: All vaccinations and other protective immunizations are done by the Attending Surgeons.

a. Smallpox: Smallpox occurs frequently in this vicinity. Vaccination is therefore highly important. All persons should be revaccinated as soon as practicable after arrival here unless vaccinated with the past twelve months.
b. Typhoid Fever: Typhoid fever is of fairly common occurence in this locality. All persons between the ages of 5 and 45 should receive the prophylactic treatment. Two courses of treatment within three years intervening are required of those in the military service and recommended for all others.
c. Diptheria: Parents are urged to have their children tested (Schick Test) to see if they are susceptible to diptheria. If the tets shows that they are not, no further attention need be paid to this disease. If the test be positive, the child is susceptible to this dangerous and often fatal disease, and should be protected. This is quickly and painlessly done by administration of protective serum. Practically all children under the age of four are susceptible so that it is usual to give them the protective serum without previous test.
d. Scarlet Fever: Children may be tested for susceptibility to scarlet fever by a test (Dick Test) similar to the test for diptheria and if found susceptible may be protected against the disease by protective inocculation.

HOOK WORM: The soil in this vicinity is contaminated by the eggs of hook worm and other parasites. The worms gain entrance to the body through the soles of the feet, causing what is known as "ground itch." On this account it is inadvisable to allow children to go barefooted.

EXAMINATION OF SERVANTS: Examination by the Attending Surgeon is required of all servants prior to their being given permits to work on the post. This examination is designed to protect families against communicable diseases. The examinations are made by the Attending Surgeon on the post from 9:00 to 9:30 A. M., on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Servants of military personnel not living on the post are also entitled to this examination.

DOGS: Protective vaccination against Rabies (Hydrophobia) is required of all dogs on the post. This is done at the Veterinary Hospital. If any person be bitten by a dog the animal should be taken to the Veterinary Hospital for observation. It should on no account be killed prior to such examination as such action might prevent the detection of possible rabies in the animal. The same regulations apply to cats.

SNAKE BITES: Protective serum to be used in treating any person bitten by a poisonous snake is kept at the Station Hospital.

MEDICAL ATTENTION: The office hours of the Attending Surgeon at the Post are daily except Sundays and holidays from 8:00 A. M., to noon. His office is located on the ground floor of the new hospital. Phone 126. Vaccinations of women and children: Mondays and Thursdays 9:00 to 9:30 A. M. Children's Clinic: Wednesday 9:00 A. M. Physical Examination of Colored Servants: Tuesdays and Thursdays 9:00 to 9:30 A. M.

The office of the Attending Surgeon in Columbus is on the third floor (Rooms 304-306) of the Doctors' Building at 1310 Broad Street. Telephone 255 (Columbus). His office hours are:

Monday to Saturday inclusive 11:00 to 12:00.
Tuesday, Wednesdays and Friday 2:00 to 3:00 (In addition).
Sundays and holidays 10:00 to 11:00.
Wednesday afternoon reserved for children's clinic.

The nurse is in attendance daily except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 8:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M., and on Saturdays from 8:00 A. M. to noon.

The medical officer detailed as instructor at the Academic Department is present at the dispensary in the Academic Area Building No. 94, (second floor) from 7:30 to 8:00 A. M., and from noon to 1:00 P. M., daily except Sundays and holidays, for consultation and treatment of student officers. Telephone 62.

All appointments for consultation with the various services of the hospital and for admission to hospital are to be made through one of the three officers above mentioned.

In emergencies arising on the post, call Telephone 572 at any hour. In Columbus call the office of the Attending Surgeon (Telephone 255) during office hours. At other times call Columbus 4173 (White Aid Station.)

HEALTH OFFICER: The Medical Inspector of the post corresponds to the Health Officer of a city and is at all times ready to give advice on matters relating to sanitation and the prevention of diseases. Telephone Branch 27.

THE POST EXCHANGE AT FORT BENNING

Infantry School Exchange Has Many Activities; one of the Largest in the Army

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning is one of the largest in the army. When officers receive their orders for a station, of which they know nothing, much apprehension is felt over what conveniences will be found at their new home. Officers who will come to the Infantry School next year need have no fear for their wants will be well taken care of by the Post Exchange, of which Major Sam I. McCants, is in charge.

The Exchange is operated exclusively for the members of the service people at the Infantry School. Their needs are supplied with at least nine departments operated by the Exchange. The grocery store is one of the largest in the army, which is operated by any Post Exchange. An interesting feature of this department is that vegetables sold over its counter are grown in the 125-acre Post Exchange garden. To consider just one item, 3,000 quarts of strawberries were gathered from this garden and sold to the residents of Fort Benning during the present season.

The grocery store is arranged so that one may help himself to anything desired. Upon entering the store, a meat ticket is procured, which bears a number. The customer then waits upon himself until his number is called at which time he is waited upon at the meat counter. In other words, no time is wasted in giving immediate service to the customer immediately upon entering the store. This store is moedrn, being equipped with Frigidaire, and other electrical appliances which make it an up-to-date establishment in every way.

Besides the grocery store, there is the automobile department, which is also a modern institution. Student officers, who drive to Fort Benning every school day of the year, ma yleave their car at the garage in the morning, and have the necessary repair work completed in time to drive their car home the same day. Service is the motto of this department. Mr. W. E. Austell is in charge of this department. A filling station, which is patronized by hundreds of Fort Benningites, is a most popular department of the Post Exchange. A tire repair shop is also operated in connection with the filling station.

The main branch, or department store of the Post Exchange, is located in the south stands of the Stadium, as are also the hat and shoe shop, tailor shop, and main offices of the Exchange. There are quite a number of employes of the main offices, and under the direction of Mr. C. S. Grimes, chief clerk, efficient service is rendere dthe patrons of the Exchange.

With the completion of the Stadium towers, the offices will be located in the south tower. In one of these towers it is contemplated the establishment of a night store which will operate from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Officers who will come to Fort Benning next year may look forward with much pleasure, to the service rendered by the Fort Benning Post Exchange.

INFANTRY SCHOOL ATHLETES SCORED MANY VICTORIES

Competing against these teams, the Infantry School Amateur Boxing team, coached by Capt. Charles Mabbutt, won first place by a wide margin. Two all-southern champions were crowned from the Infantry School team. Buddie Brault in the bantamweight class and Walker Smith, heavyweight.

Football

In the early days of October, 1927, the Blue Tide, all-army football team that had been assembled and trained at Fort Benning, Ga., left for Washington, D. C., where they played the Quantico Marines in the feature service football game of the season for the All-Service Championship.

The Marines won after one of the bitterest struggles ever witnessed between two service teams. Undaunted by this defeat the Blue Tide met the Paris Island Marines at Philadelphia December 3, for the Southern All-Service football championship. Showing top form the army swept the Devil Dogs to defeat by the onesided score of 33 to 9.

Returning to Fort Benning the players returned to their organizations where they took part in the Intra-Mural football league with their respective teams.

The final game of the Intra-Mural series of last season found the Tankers and Kellys fighting it out in the final game for the Garrison championship. In a game that was undecided until the final second of play, the Tankers retained the Garrison championship for the second year in succession by defeating the Kells 6 to 0.

Tennis

With courts that rival those of any in the country, it is not surprising to learn that several of the army's leading net stars belong to the personnel of the Infantry School.

Colonel Waite C. Johnson and Major R. C. Van Vilet, Jr., won the finals in the doubles tennis match held in Washington recently, defeating Capt. C. W. Christenson and Major L. S. Hobbs in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. All of these officers were formerly stationed at the Infantry School, and were prominent in tennis matches held here within the recent years.

The final play-off for the singles championship of the army was between Major R. C. Van Vilet and Lt. D. D. Hedkin of Fort Benning. The former winning match 6-4,, 6-2. With this title went the Sheridan Cup and the singles championship of the United States Army.

Golf

Probably the sport offering the greatest amount of diversion to the greatest number of student officers and permanent personnel, is golf.

Benning is very fortunate in having one of the finest golf courses in the South located within her borders. Eighteen holes, with all the necessary sand traps, rough, etc., ideally located in the center of the garrison, furnish adequate exercise and amusement for over half of the officers of the garrison.

Every year, tourneys for all classes of players are arranged, in which all golfing members of the club may participate, no matter how good or how not-so-good a player he may be. Suitable trophies and prizes are always awarded.

There is an up-to-the minute golf shop located on the grounds, where golf balls, sticks and all accessories may be purchased. The golf pro. Sgt. Clark, is in charge of the Golf Shop, besides giving lessons to both beginners and advanced golfists.

There is a "Hole-In-One" Club at Benning—and when a member makes a memorable hole in one, his name automatically is added to the membership list. Needless to sav, this club has not a long list of charter members.

Student Officers will find a golf course which ranks with almost any on which they have played, and the golf-club a center of social activities during the scholastic year.
