The necessity of a careful estimate of the training situation was particularly stressed and every effort was made to instruct the students in arriving at a correct estimate of a training situation.

Every effort was made to impress on the student the fact that all progress and schedules should be regarded as flexible and that each training problem was a local one and should be so regarded.

The instruction of national guard and reserve officers classes was adapted to their training problems.

The course in the army of the United States was presented to the advanced and company officers classes. It consisted of lectures on the military policy of the United States, the national guard, the organized reserve, the reserve officers training corps, and the citizens military training camps. Under this heading was also included a course of lectures and practical work in mobilization. This included both instruction in the war department general mobilization plan, 1928, and a short lecture on industrial mobilization.

The course in applied psychology consisted of five lectures for the advanced class and two lectures for the company officers class. These lectures were delivered by certain selected members of the faculty and were of considerable interest and value to the students.

Instruction in close order drill was given to the national guard and reserve company officers class only. It was presented in the form of conferences, demonstrations, and practical work. The course was progressive, commencing with the elementary forms of instruction and progressing to the higher forms of company close order drill.

The coach and pupil method was employed during the elementary work, and each officer was given an opportunity to exercise command in squad, platoon, and company drill. Each student was required to drill a platoon of enlisted men from the 29th Infantry.

Military courtesy and customs of the service as a subject was presented in the form of a lecture and was given to the national guard and reserve company officers class.

The subjects of military history and instructional methods, having become standardized, were presented and conducted with but slight variation from those of last year.

Instruction in animal management and transportation was imparted by a maximum use of demonstrations and by the use of instructional moving picture films on care of the horse, harness and harnessing. The students received this course with much enthusiasm.

The maximum of time was allotted to the important subject of shoeing, and it is believed that the students were impressed with the vital importance of properly shod animals.

The course in equitation endeavored to give the students a uniform military seat, instill confidence of rider in the horse, and to promote the maximum of comfort when mounted. The minimum of time was spent in the so-called "bull ring" and the maximum time was spent in cross-country riding.

FIFTH SECTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

By Capt. J. E. Cole, Infantry

The great bulk of the work accomplished by the fifth section during any academic year is gauged by the amount of instructional matter (conferences, problems, reference texts, charts, and the like) used by the other sections of the academic department. Generally speaking, the fifth section is a coordinating and service agency for the school, and the disseminator of the latest Infantry School methods to the service at large by the preparation of correspondence courses and the selection of matter for the mailing list. Specifically, this section is charged with the preparation of correspondence courses; the editing of all instructional matter, including training regulations both original and revised; the preparation of illustrations for instructional purposes; the general coordination of lithographic work; the coordination of matter selected for the mailing list; the review of publications and articles of military value; and the mimeographing and distribution of all matter for the academic department.

Not being a teaching agency, the members of the fifth section do not come in contact with the students in the class rooms. Consequently, the importance to the academic department and the service at large of the work of this section is not always realized. Often accepting as a matter of course the fact that the lectures he attends are comprehensively illustrated by graphs and charts, that instructional matter received by him is uniformly arranged, and that a high standard in the style of expression of instructional matter is maintained, the student gives little thought to the careful coordination and organization which makes it all possible. Obviously, in an organization the size of the academic department, these matters could not be accomplished with smoothness and facility without a service such as the fifth section renders.

With the exception of the work incident to the initial preparation of the infantry correspondence courses, accomplished in 1927-28, the academic year 1928-29 has brought no diminution in the work of the committees of the fifth section. The correspondence-course committee consisted of six officers during the year 1927-28, which number was reduced to two during the year 1928-29. This committee prepared and assembled all textual matter pertaining to the annual revision of the infantry courses; revised the special infantry correspondence course texts; prepared and presented lectures pertaining to correspondence course instruction and administration; and made studies and submitted recommendations relative to the revision of regulations pertaining to the subjects of "Administration of Correspondence Courses" and "The Minimum Requirements for Promotion of Reserve Officers."

The editing committee performed its routine duties pertaining to the arrangement, form, and style of expression of instructional matter. A consistent and continued effort was made to attain a higher standard of diction, and to promote coordination of doctrine. During the year, 369 papers containing 14,436 legal cap pages of typed copy were edited. In addition the committee edited all copy for drafting purposes, and reviewed a number of documents of an administrative nature.

One member of the editing committee, in addition to his regular duties of routine editing, is charged with the selection of material for the mailing list. This alone is a tremendous task and takes most of the time of the officer engaged in this work. He has to select the material for the list and then obtain the approval of the sections which conduct the course in

(Continued on page 22.)

THE INFANTRY BOARD

By Major S. H. MacGregor, Ordnance Department

Fort Benning, the home of The Infantry School, is the logical location for the Infantry Board. The board, which has its existence in accordance with A. R. 75-10, is composed of the commandant, and the assistant commandant, The Infantry School, from three to five members designated by the Chief of Infantry, and, for consideration of ordnance matters only, an officer of the ordnance department stationed at The Infantry School.

At the present time the personnel of the board consists of Brig. Gen. Campbell King, commandant, The Infantry School, President, and Lt. Col. George C. Marshall, Asst. Commandt; the following officers designated by the Chief of Infantry: Lt. Col. Charles A. Hunt, Maj. Ralph A. Jones, Maj. Bradford G. Chynoweth, and Major Charles B. Lyman, and the Ordnance Officer, The Infantry School, Major Stephen H. MacGregor, Ord. Dept.

The purpose of the board is to consider such subjects pertaining to infantry as may be referred to it by the Chief of Infantry, and to originate, and submit to the Chief of Infantry recommendations looking to the improvement of the infantry. The board operates under the direction of the Chief of Infantry, correspondence with whom is direct.

The scope of the board's work as outlined in Army Regulations is very broad. The matters which may be referred to it are limited in number and kind only by the policies of the Chief of Infantry. Its authority to originate studies is limited only by the condition that the subject pertain to the improvement of the infantry.

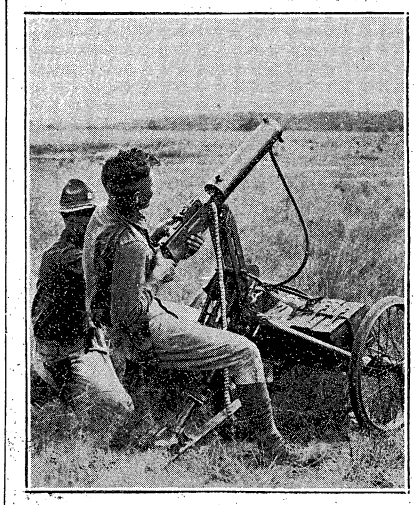
The office of the Chief of Infantry has established the policy of referring all matters to the Board for consideration and recommendation when time permits. The board thus enjoys the situation of being in constant and intimate touch with the activities of the office of the Chief of Infantry, and at the same time in immediate contact with The Infantry School and the Fort Benning tactical organizations.

Any matter of interest to the infantry, whether it be a question of individual or organization equipment, a change in Training Regulations, or a study of organization, armament, or tactics, is one for the study of which an agency exists with peculiar qualities of authority and investigative facilities. Quite naturally, an agency of this kind lists among its projects a variety of items ranging from those of the greatest importance, which require considerable time for consideration, to those of only minor interest which, nevertheless, require official recognition. The Infantry Board has before it projects which involve the adoption of new weapons and the re-arming of organizations. Studies on such projects require a maximum of investigative effort, a great amount of study and considerable consultatio with the various academic department sections and individuals. In some cases improvements in arms, or equipment, involve changes in organization, and these changes in turn, involve alterations in the line of thought governing up to date tactics.

Such questions are not always definitely decided without additional inquiry into the activities along similar lines of other countries. The reports of attaches abroad are furnished for the board's information and for consideration in arriving at recommendations.

Important recommendations involving changes in existing arms, organization or equipment must first be tried out in actual service. For this purpose the board has, on occasions, created experimental organizations in the Twenty-ninth Infantry and the practical working out of the scheme has proceeded under the direction of the board and the officers and men directly concerned.

Practically all questions involving important or radical changes require considerable experimental work. A new rifle, or a new infantry cannon may be furnished by the ordnance department, the weapon being representative of the ability of the designer and manufacturer to provide the equipment for which the infantry, through the Infantry Board, has expressed a need.



Antiaircraft adapter for infantry machine gun. One of the many devices under test and development by the Infantry Board and Department of Experiment.

The weapon has been designed, manufactured and tested by the ordnance department. Its accuracy, range and ballistic characteristics have been determined at the proving grounds in a rather laboratory fashion. According to the results of these tests, the requirements of the infantry have been met. However, following a wise policy, the adoption of the weapon is not authorized until the approval of the using service has been secured. The "ultimate consumer" holds the key to the situation.

In such a case, the weapon is sent to Fort Benning for test by the Infantry Board.

The board proceeds with the assistance of the Department of Experiment, the Twenty-ninth Infantry, or both, to give the new weapon a test designed to prove or disprove its ability to meet the requirement of the infantry. The proving ground data are available to the board but data on maneuverability, rate of fire, and other questions arising in the use of the piece in the field are determined here. Perhaps a new type organization is desirable or necessary. This is studied and recommendations made. In short, the board attempts to determine the suitability of the weapon as an infantry piece.

Many times the board is requested for opinions on matters of policy, or for interpretations of regulations. At Fort Benning the facilities are such that no opinions or interpretations need leave the board without first having been proven through application to organizations or activities immediately at hand.

No matter seems too trivial or too important for submission to the board. The placing of a buckle on a legging strap, or the position on the belt of a first aid packet is an important matter if considered from the proper viewpoint. The method of mixing target paste is a matter of importance to the range officer, and the board has had before it recipes for better paste. A question may arise over the proper procedure of an officer or soldier under circumstances not specifically covered by regulations.

(Continued on page 13.)

Military discipline is generally indicated in an individual or unit by smartness of appearance and action; by cleanliness and neatness of dress, equipment, or quarters; by respect for seniors; and by the prompt and cheerful execution by subordinates of both the letter and the spirit of the legal orders of their lawful superiors.

DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

By Lt. Joseph I. Greene, Infantry

Not the least important of the manifold duties of our army in time of peace is the investigation and development of new ideas. The army as well as any other progressive organization must keep up with the discoveries and inventions of science, taking for its needs those which can be applied with advantage to warfare, and discarding the others. Hence, in every part of the army are to be found small groups of personnel engaged in work of this kind.

These groups vary in their activities from fundamental laboratory research to final field testing. Inasmuch as the requirements of the different arms are frequently not the same, it is usually necessary to submit new projects, which require test by troops, to those branches most interested. To conduct these tests and submit reports thereon, there are certain personnel assigned in each branch. As the needs of infantry approximate in many respects the needs of the whole army, perhaps the most important of these testing groups is the Department of Experiment at this post.

Army Regulations 350-200 provide for a Department of Experiment at the Infantry School to consist "of not more than five officers" and to conduct "such tests, experiments, and research as the commandant of the school directs." At present the assigned personnel of the department is as follows: Lt. Col. H. A. Wells, (director), Capt. L. R. Boyd, Capt. E. D. Porter, Capt. H. L. Wetherby, and Capt. A. T. Knight. For several months past there has been too much work for this limited number of officers to handle, in consequence of which two additional officers have been placed on special duty with the department: Capt. J. L. Tupper, 24th Inf., and 1st Lt. Joseph I. Greene, 24th Inf. The enlisted personnel consists of one master sergeant, four sergeants and two privates: Mr. Sgt. S. D. Pierce, Sgt. Frank Ioerger, Sgt. S. E. Snyder, Sgt. Albert Darcy, Sgt. A. H. Dahlstrom, Pfc. O. L. McLemore, Pfc. C. K. Hill.

The entire personnel is organized into four sections as follows:

(a) Executive and administrative section; (director and chief clerk.)

(b) Test section; (six test officers.)

(c) Range section; (1 officer and four enlisted men.)

(d) Supply section; (1 officer and three enlisted men.)

The test section, in order to permit specialization of work and facilitate the handling of projects, is divided into four parts. These divisions with the officers engaged therein are as follows:

(a) Antiaircraft: Capt. Boyd and Lt. Greene;

(b) Test firing, other than antiaircraft: Capt. Boyd, Capt. Porter, Capt. Tupper;

(c) Transportation and communication: Capt. Wetherby;

(d) Organizational and individual equipment, and clothing: Capt. Knight, Capt. Porter, and Lt. Greene.

(e) Miscellaneous: Capt. Tupper.

The range section is composed of a group of enlisted men who have been selected for their experience in and knowledge of infantry weapons.

The majority of the projects which are received by the Department of Experiment for test are first sent to the Infantry Board from the office of the Chief of Infantry. The Infantry Board, if it deems necessary, then forwards the project to the Department of Experiment. The director of the department then assigns the project to one of the test officers.

After studying the subject, by examining previous work done along similar lines and consulting other references, the test officer forms a program of test which is submitted to the director for approval. This program is, of course, based on the suggestions received from the Chief of Infantry's office, the Infantry Board and the director. After

(Continued on page 22.)

DEMONSTRATING FOR THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

By Captain P. R. Goode, 29th Inf.

The 29th Infantry is organized as a war strength regiment, less one battalion. In addition to the usual combat mission of all regiments, it has the function of furnishing demonstrations to the Infantry School. To the officer who has a serious interest in the profession of arms, service in the 29th Infantry offers peculiar advantages. The most obvious advantage is the actual presence of troops for drill. The company commander does not have to work with two squads present and the rest of his company in imagination only. Another advantage not quite so obvious is the "American" character of the regiment. A search of the records reveals the fact that less than two per cent. of the men are foreign-born and fewer still have foreign-born parents. It is doubtful if any regiment, or any civilian community of the same size, can equal this record. Our men are the direct descendants of the men who followed Lee and Jackson and for field service they are unsurpassed.

The mission of the regiment is training, and men are not used up on administration. A strong effort is made to decentralize training and to conduct training of the lower echelons through the proper troop leaders. The regimental staff is considered as an additional company and is trained by and functions under the regimental executive.

For specialist training, particularly communication and intelligence personnel, the groups are consolidated. Such a method insures uniformity in those troops whose function is to maintain the team play of the regiment.

It is part of the mission of the 29th Infantry to carry out the demonstrations assigned to the regiment by the Academic Department. These demonstrations, from a regimental viewpoint, are divided into two general classes, technical and tactical demonstrations.

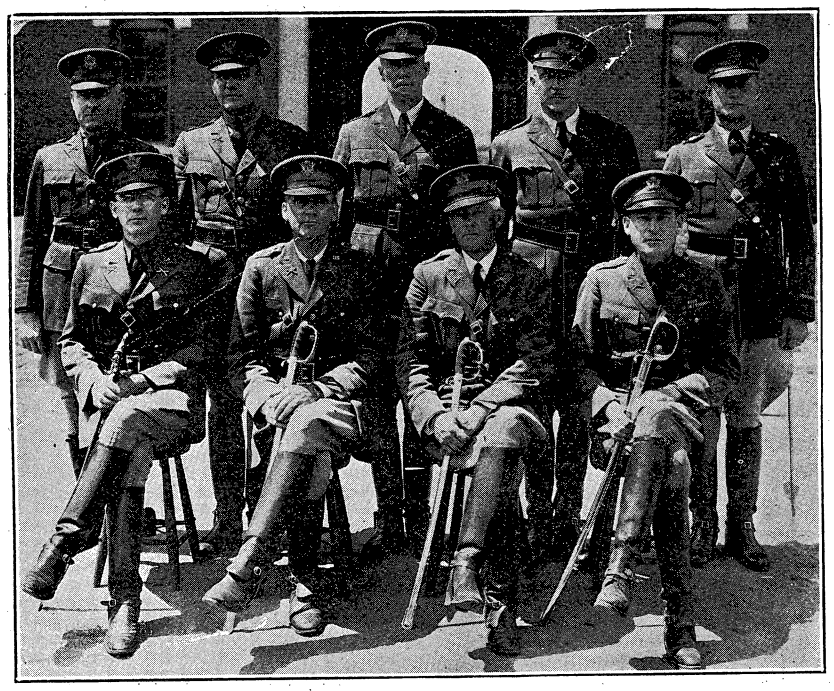
A technical demonstration is a type calling for prearranged plans and, usually rehearsals, before they are put into execution. Such a demonstration is the organization of a war strength machine gun company. The preparation of this demonstration requires a careful check of equipment and personnel, both for condition and completeness. As the number available for duty, due to sickness and other casualties will never equal the strength of the tables of organization, men from other companies are attached. Replacements, as far as possible, are drawn from similar units but occasionally the company commander is forced to find equipment as machine-gunners for fifty or more riflemen. As the company executes certain movements and assumes certain formations not in all cases covered by regulations, these formations must be rehearsed prior to the demonstration. All this time must be devoted to training other than regimental, and this particular demonstration, which may last two hours or more, will require from the company and its attached personnel two to six hours additional time taken from that allotted for company training. Not all technical demonstrations require as much time but some require more time and employ more personnel. The principal difficulty is, of course, the perfect execution of movements under the scrutiny of a good many people in a critical frame of mind.

To train troops for tactical demonstrations requires a different set-up. Troops for tactical demonstrations, by an arrangement between the regimental commander and the assistant commandant, are never rehearsed prior to demonstrations; there are no clock-work demonstrations. Only the time, formation, and place to report are given to the troops participating. When elaborate demonstrations are to be executed, similar problems laid out on other terrain, are drawn up and executed; sometimes by the troops and sometimes by a skeletonized force consisting of the command echelons only. This is necessary to insure that the applicable tactical principles are correctly demonstrated.

During the academic year 1928-1929, the 29th Infantry carried out two hundred demonstrations for the Infantry School. Had different personnel been required for each demonstration more than twenty thousand men would have been required.

To our departing friends, the students, the regiment would like to be remembered as men who work hard to carry out their part of the Infantry School program, and who try hard to be that "Beau ideal"—good infantry.

DEMONSTRATE FOR INF. SCHOOL



Commanding Officer and Staff of the 29th Infantry. Left to right, front row: Capt. Martin D. McAllister, adjutant; Lt. Col. John F. Franklin, executive officer; Col. Harris Pendleton, Jr., commanding officer; Maj. Joseph D. Patch, plans and training officer. Back row: 1st Lt. Edward C. Atkinson, personnel adjutant; Capt. Ollie W. Reed, intelligence officer; Capt. Paul R. Goode, assistant plans and training oficer; Capt. Archibald R. MacKechnie, supply officer; 1st Lt. Roscoe G. MacDonald, munitions officer.

COL. MARSHALL TO VISIT V.M.I.

Orders have been issued placing Lt. Col. George C. Marshall, Jr., on detached service at Lexington, Virginia, for the period June 12 to June 17, 1929, both dates inclusive, in connection with R. O. T. C. activities at Virginia Military Institute.

Some of the personal characteristics necessary for leadership are physical and moral courage, mental and physical energy, decisiveness, common sense, knowledge of human nature, sound judgement, and a sense of justice and fair dealing.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

FENDERS
BODIES
STRAIGHTENED

We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.

We are completely equipped to repair any job.

The Post Exchange
—at—
Fort Benning is our Agent

COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS
1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

Student Officers Fort Benning!

We want to thank you for your business for the past year and wish you the best of luck at your new station.

If you have any friends that will be student officers in the next class tell them about our half-back plan on anything they need in house furnishing.

THWEATT & SON
1244 Broadway

THE NEW Marquette BUILT BY BUICK

A New Six Within the Price of Millions

— also —

BETTER USED CARS FOR SALE

— by —

CLIFF AVERETT

1445 1st Ave. Phone 883

THE INFANTRY BOARD

(Continued from page 11.)

The board is asked its opinion; and an opinion is rendered. An officer present in uniform at an important football game asked what procedure should have been followed when the college bands played their Alma Mater song. The board recommended a paragraph in the regulations which provided that officers present in uniform on occasions of such nature would conform to the conduct of civilians present.

In the present era of "Regulations for any and all occasions" the board receives many requests for opinions and interpretations, and many are perplexing. However, Fort Benning is wealthy in opinions ad it is fairly easy to secure a variety from which to select what appears to be the best.

One paragraph of the regulations which is susceptible of a wide range of application depending upon conditions, is that which authorizes the board to originate and to submit recommendations looking to the improvement of the infantry.

In attempting to consider this paragraph an obligation rather than an authority, the board finds itself restricted. The restrictions are made up of factors involving the imaginative ability of the individual members and their powers to create ideas, and the time necessary for the concentration which is necessary to such creative or original work. The members of the Board are occupied individually on projects assigned them, or collectively on considerations of the board as a whole of projects presented by individual members. Their time is spent, however, practically entirely on experimental or research work, and in this respect they enjoy a freedom from a routine monotony that might be productive of mental dullness. This situation makes for a state of mind receptive to ideas or suggestions, and, notwithstanding the limitations of the individual members as to creative or inventive genius, the board, as a body, is appreciative of suggestions or recommendations affecting the efficiency or betterment of the infantry.

Many ideas have been presented to the board by individuals throughout the service. Sometimes these ideas have been good, infrequently they are poor; but generally with further study and change they have been acceptable. The wheeled mount for machine guns, recently adopted as standard, had its origin here at Fort Benning and was presented to the board by Lieutenant Matthews. Improvements and additions to the original model and the incorporation of the ideas of Captain Boyd of the Department of Experiment for an antiaircraft adapter resulted in a creditable mount being adopted.

The improvement of the infantry is not a matter which can be regarded as a task assigned to a particular individual or group of individuals for completion. It is a matter of interest to every infantryman and one worthy of considerable individual effort on the part of every true doughboy. This individual effort will find every encouragement from the Infantry Board. Not only does the board encourage this effort but recommends further study on the part of individuals, inviting suggestions and recommendations on individual or organizational problems for study and recommendation by the board.

Thus, there exists, through the wording of the regulation creating the Infantry Board, an organization peculiarly situated to serve as a focal point for the collection, test, modification or improvement, and recommendation for ultimate acceptance or disposal of ideas and suggestions from the entire infantry. The success of such an agency in improving the infantry is dependent upon the support of individuals throughout the army and the confidence which will move them to submit their ideas. Assured in this confidence the board looks to the continued increase in efficiency and effectiveness of infantry.

RESUME OF THE COMPANY OFFICERS COURSE

(Continued from page 7.)

for a lot of grunting Esquimaux, then preparation of what it was agreed that we would designate as lunch. At 7:15, farewell reception committee of one, followed by dish washer, house maid, nurse maid, etc., 4:30 p. m. reception committee, 4:35 p. m., onward entertainment committee. Of course we did take them to the Grand theatre one night a week. But even with that, I am in favor of giving the little girls a hand.

To get back to school again, "At this time" the cosmopolitan St. Johns gave us gas, and the cheerful Sweet gave us a buzz. There is some song about "I would go to the highest hill with you." That is what we did for St. Johns, only it was also the coldest hill on earth. Remember sitting up in the grandstand on Maxey Ridge freezing to death while St. Johns tried to tell us of the horrors of gas? Boy, he could have slapped me on the nose with a handful of mustard and I would have blessed him.

For Sweet and his interesting assistant Byrne, we made wire splices, tested phones, radio, established communication in the field and learned all the ills that wire is heir to.

Along came the snappy team of Rice and Crim with their 37 m. m. and mortar act. You know, every time I dropped one of those loosely assembled mortar shells down that stove pipe I wished the 3 inch trench mortar a long and successful life. However, in retrospect it's my opinion that that revised catapault from the dark ages is chiefly valuable as a gesture in relieving terrain and map problems where you have to bring something to bear on the often mentioned concealed hostile machine gun.

The next was that reducing course known as equitation. In this course you were divided into groups according to your own personal opinion of your riding ability. Those in my group, which was the last, were certainly an honest lot. The ring masters were Messrs. Smith, Rodgers, McClure, Brian, Wood, Sanders Rogers, McClure, Brian, Wood, Sanders, this course would make the thin fat, and the fat thin, in fact, he spoke so highly of it as a cure for various ills, that I frequently confuse this panacea with another compound put up by a lady. However, I am willing to say as a testimonial, that from my observation the results were remarkable.

At this time, or about this time, we had hands on hips, by the patient Duff. Speaking of hips and that sort of thing, do you remember the grand parade of the B. V. D.'s the first day in the gym? Perhaps we had better go on to field fortifications, under Major Hoge. Somewhere on Langwell Ridge there is a hole in the ground that took beaucoup officers a lot of hot-man-hours to dig.

A very efficient demonstration of medical service was put on by Major Stayer and his assistants near the water tanks on April 25th. But the major had given a very real and personal demonstration to the class of medical service by his treatment of us throughout the year.

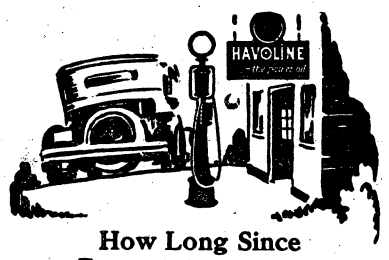
And now we come to the famous fifteen minute talks. I have the conviction that they were awful. I am also convinced that if someone had laughed we could have orated more peacefully. I propose that the next class recite "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck," and "Over the Waves," both with appropriate gestures. Majors Lange and Smith were the umpires.

We come now to those great military arguments known as tactics. In the pursuit of life, happiness and the equally essential S, we have learned that enveloping, penetrating, defending, overlapping, maintaining security and effective reconnaissance, rendering mutual support and cooperation, holding out a reserve, surprising the enemy, using simple and direct methods, maintaining liaison, and all the rest, depend "on the situation," and in certain U circles, it is believed, on the instructor.

As for the instructors, what a formidable array! There are the Messrs. Cook, Seeker after the abstract; Bradley, prefers the truth; Ryder, a leader to tie to; Rucker, of great calmness; Bolte, will some day sit in the seats of the mighty; Marr, his words boom; Roberts, would trick the enemy; Brett, an emotional fighter, and on through a list of men who have given to us the theory out of the fullness of their splendid war records and studies.

I had hoped to touch a few high lights of the camp like red bugs, repeating sandwiches, horses' feed bags that were purchased by lieutenants for musette bags, and a lot of the stuff that leadership is made of, but time, space and one fellow ain't enough.

It's a good camp; it has been a good course and we of the company officers class of 1928-1929 thank you.



How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

STORAGE
PACKING & TRUCKING
—by—
Reliable Company
BURNHAM FURNITURE CO.
1029 Broadway Phone 430

Officers!

To those of you who are leaving Fort Benning for other stations, we extend our best wishes for your success.

To those who may come to Fort Benning for the next school term, we extend you a hearty welcome, and hope that we may have the pleasure of serving you, as we have hundreds of other student officers.

Columbus Roberts Company

Incorporated

Pierce Arrow, Studebaker and Erskine Distributors.

Columbus Georgia

Tires! Tires!

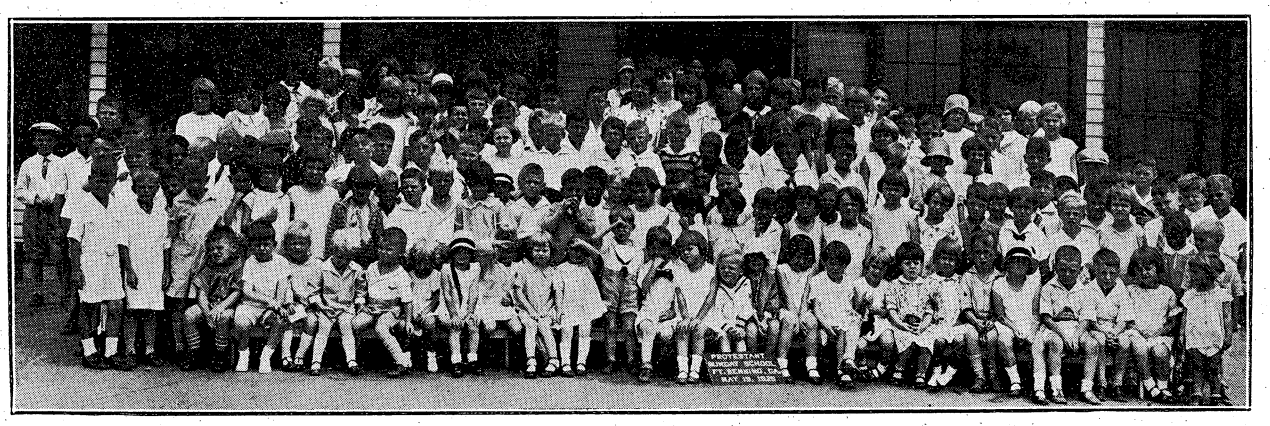
On account of the recent reduction we are selling Firestone and Goodyear tires at the lowest prices in the history of the Exchange.

Post Exchange

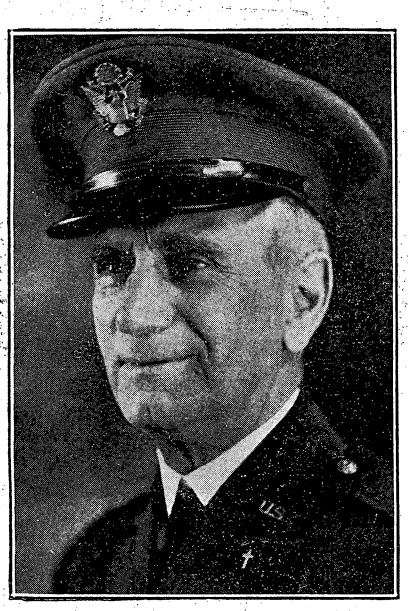
Automobile Department

FORT BENNING, GA.

ARMY CHILDREN ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOLS



Some of the pupils of the army's largest Sunday school at the army's largest service school, Fort Benning, Georgia.



Colonel Edmund P. Easterbrook, Chief of Chaplains, who was a visitor at Fort Benning this week. Colonel Easterbrook is making an inspection of chapels and chaplains' activities at army posts in southern states.

Chaplain J. R. Wright, Protestant Chaplain at The Infantry School. Since Chaplain Wright came to Fort Benning, the chapel building has had to be enlarged on account of the growth of his Sunday School classes.

Oldest and youngest members of Sunday school class at Fort Benning. Mrs. Jennie Price Ryan, 78, mother of Warrant Officer J. B. Ryan, and Anne Howard Knight, 3, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. L. B. Knight.

CHILDREN'S BAZAAR
1221 Broadway
Miss Mamie Dawson, Owner
HOME OF INFANTS' & CHILDREN'S WEAR

The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company
TRACY E. DAVIS
Columbus, Georgia
Phone 3200 10 Thirteenth St.

Classified Ads

FOR SALE: Large Indestructo wardrobe trunk. Cheap for cash. Mrs. Shurling, Post Green House.

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: One Buick 4 Touring car, Model 1923. Good Mechanical condition, new top, poor upholstery, 1929 license—$100.00. 2nd Lt. J. T. Dawson, Artillery Club, Telephone 148.

TWO apartments for rent; furnished heat, private bath, private entrance. One apartment with one bed room, the other with two. Can be furnished or partially so, garages for each one.

HOUSE FOR RENT AND FURNITURE FOR SALE: Outgoing student would like to sublet house from July 1st to Sept. 1st, cheap. Can also be rented for next year. Ice box, dining room set, chest of drawers and Simons double bed complete for sale. Maj. Thomas S. Arms, 1735 Wildwood Ave. Columbus, Ga.

AT STUD—German Shepherd (Police) Dog Hamilton Erich 111, Black and Tan, son of Int. Gd. Ch. Hamilton Erich Von Grafenwerth P. H. and Hamilton Von Guckenburg, imported daughter of Ch. Immo V Herculespark. Breeding: Hettle-Flora-Roland-Jung-Tell-Horst, with the blood of Hettle Uckermark dominant. Fee $25.00.
FOR SALE—Pups sired by Erich 111. Their dam is Bella V. D. Munderfom, daughter of Ch. Ali, of Greystock P. H., he by Int. Ch. Gerri V. Oberklamm P. H. and of Ch. Bianka V. Seigerland Sch. H.—Bella's dam is a daughter of Seiger Harras V. D. Juech P. H. These pups for quick sale at $50.00 either sex. C. E. Dimon, Columbus, Ga., Phone 701 or 470.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

RED JONES TURNS PRO.

Health, strength, and endurance are essential if the individual is to withstand the rigors and hardship of campaigns and the ultimate test of personal combat.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO.
HALFTONES
NEWSTONES
Photo Engraving
PROCESS
COLOR PLATES
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

$5.00 PERMANENT WAVING
REGISTERED MARINELLO
GUILD SHOPPE
Muscogee Bldg.
ALLEN'S
Phone 784

ADVANCED CLASS GIVES FAREWELL DINNER-DANCE

The advanced class of the Infantry School entertained the officers and ladies of the school and garrison with a dance at the Columbus Country Club at 10 o'clock on Friday evening, May 24th.

Prior to the dance a number of dinner parties were given by members of the class, the majority of the members being present for dinner.

The dining room was decorated with wall maps used by various members of the advanced class in the delivery of their monographs and the walls were covered with maps and charts issued for problems in the class room during the past year. The ball room was similarly decorated. The tables of the dining room were covered with sheets of the Gettysburg-Antietam topographical map and marked problem code number cards, labeled "Problem in Mess Hall Tactics," were used as place cards, each diner being given a code number. Vases of flowers decorated the tables.

Dinner was served at 8 o'clock and members of the class and guests, to the number of 250, were served with the following:

During the dinner, music was furnished by a quartette from the 24th Infantry who, dressed as waiters and moving among the guests, rendered a splendid program. A bugle blast and a roll of drums drew the attention of the guests to a uniformed detachment of the advanced class headquarters, wearing red coats and plumed helmets, who announced the award of various medals to members of the school faculty. Major Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, Chief of Infantry, pinned the medals on the fortunate members of the faculty in the presence of the entire party. The following medals, with citationn therefor, were awarded:

To be Knight Commander of the Order of the Red Apple; Lieut. Col. Geo. C. Marshall who, because of his recognition of the unusual ability and intelligence of the members of the advanced class, has endeared himself to those gallant warriors who so bravely fought the Reds attacking the Officers Club canteen. His words of praise, published in the Infantry School News of Aug. 30, 1929, shall be the cause of much happiness to the members of the class. QUOTE. You of the Advanced Class of 1930 have much to live up to. STOP. You are following in the footsteps of the finest group of students that the Infantry School has ever seen. PERIOD. THREE QUESTION MARKS. A group of students who never drew a U. PERIOD. Stop. Stop. Stop.

To be a Chevalier of the Order of the Red Apple: Lieut. Col. Calvin P. Titus who, through seemingly endless months, with the greatest patience and endurance, guided the destinies of those gallant officers who shall be the generals of tomorrow—should tomorrow ever come.

To be a Knight of the Order of the Red Apple: Major Roy A. Hill, whose scheme of defense by the "Ask me Another" system caused the greatest consternation among the Reds opposing the gallant Blue 1st Brigade. He has particularly endeared himself to the members of the Advanced Class by withdrawing two graded tests which the class was temperamentally unfitted to pass.

To be a Knight of the Order of the Royal Raspberry: Adrian St. John, Captain of the Chemical Warfare Service, whose research into chemical mysteries has convinced the advanced class that, in the use of chemical agents whose persistency is greater than one gas pound per square yard of killing velocity, CBY4RTL6SD is more deadly than N3TR8CX9KB, or whatever it is.

To be a Mid-Knight of the order of the Royal Raspberry: Major Charles Ryder, whose gracious and cheerful manner served to keep the advanced class in good humor throughout his weird guessing contest. He maintained high spirit in his group and aroused great interest by always doing the unusual thing, despite the unwritten law of the Infantry School which demands that the enemy left flank shall always be enveloped.

To be Last-Knight of the Order of the Royal Raspberry: Major Emil Leard, whose discourses on the art of war have thoroughly convinced the advanced class that a slight knowledge of tactics is necessary for the average officer. In his conduct of the Blue defense, Major Leard so skillfully handled the Red attack that both sides struggled for tactical advantages until all contestants were exhausted and no blood was shed.

Award of the Class I Supply Medal: To Captain Paul Peabody, whose establishment of barbecue stands and cafeterias on the boundaries between units in battle has done much to simplify the art of feeding the faces of combat troops.

Award of the Tank Medal: To Major Sereno Brett, graduate of several schools of thought, whose mechanized forces have proven to be invincible. By mounting simple standing trenches on Ford trucks, he has made long distance defense as popular as ten minute breaks.

Award of the Corkscrew Tactics Badges: To Major Willis Tack, for the corkscrew methods of attack permitted to the Reds in the battle of R. J. 421 (???)—or that general area. By substituting a corkscrew for an alidade in laying out his line of departure, the Red commander, aided by Major Tack, forced the entire advanced class to launch a coordinated surrender.

To be a fellow of the Society of the Loaded Dice: Major Charles Stivers, whose bed-time stories on Bushwackers

(Continued on page 19.)

—For—
BETTER SERVICE!
USE HOOD HEELS AND SOLES
Applied by reliable Shoe Rebuilders
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.
Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans
Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS
101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Advanced Engineering in the New 612

You will find the same principles of modern design and advanced engineering in the new Model 612 that distinguish the larger Graham-Paige sixes and eights. We invite you to examine the 612 for surplus value, and to make your own comparisons.

The new 612, six cylinder, is a five passenger, two door sedan.
$895 at factory, special equipment extra.

Joseph B. Graham
Robert C. Graham
Ray A. Graham

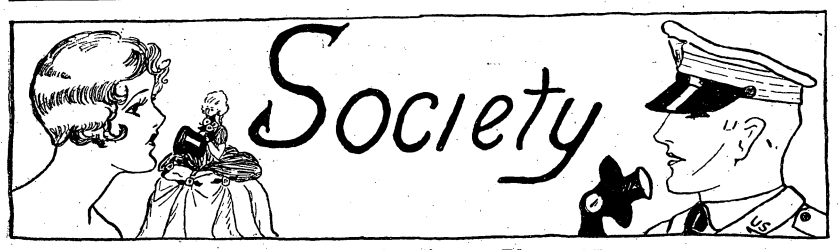
Patterson-Pope Motor Co.
Local Distributors
1238 First Ave. Columbus, Georgia

To Those Leaving—
We wish you the best of luck and hope that we may have you with us again In the near future.

TO THOSE COMING
We extend to you a cordial welcome and hope to have the pleasure of serving you.

TO THOSE STAYING
We believe you are at the best post in the army, and that you will learn to like Benning and Columbus more and more the longer you are here.

A. C. Chancellor Co.
Columbus Headquarters for Benning
Men and Boys' Wear



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

Two Service Weddings Tuesday

TORREY—GRIFFITH
WEDDING PLANS.

On next Tuesday evening at the Polo Club a wedding of exceptional interest to friends throughout the service will take place, when Miss Alice Virginia Torrey, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Daniel H. Torrey, becomes the bride of Lieutenant Welborn Barton Griffith, Jr.

Miss Marie Louise Nutting, of Washington, will be maid of honor. Misses Patsy Douglas and Katherine Stark, of Washington, Sue Brandt, Katherine Kingman, Harriett Wells and Becky Hill, of Fort Benning, will be bride's maids.

Lt. Griffith will have as his best man Lt. Branner P. Purdue and his groomsmen will be Lt. William W. Cornog, Lt. John R. Jeter, Lt. Ernest A. Barlow, Lt. Louis Riggins, Lt. Le Grande Diller, Lt. James D. Barnett, Lt. Samuel M. Lansing, Lt. William L. Burback, Lt. Claude A. Black and Lt. Edward C. Mack.

After the wedding, Maj. and Mrs. Torrey will entertain at a reception.

* * *

Chief of Chaplains, Col. Easterbrook, and Mrs. Easterbrook were the guests last week of Capt. and Mrs. J. L. Collins. Col. Easterbrook is making an inspection of Southern posts while Mrs. Easterbrook remains with her daughter.

RUSS—DUNN
WEDDING PLANS.

On next Tuesday at 1:30 P. M. at Trinity Episcopal Church in Columbus Miss Marie Russ, of Washington, D. C., and Lieutenant Theodore Lamar Dunn will be married in the presence of a large group of friends, Capt. H. H. Fay officiating.

Miss Dorothy Russ, only sister of the bride, will be maid of honor and the only attendant.

Lt. Alexander A. Dobak will be Lt. Dunn's best man and his groomsmen will be Lt. E. A. Barlow, Lt. Lewis Riggins, Lt. J. R. Jeter, Lt. W. W. Cornog, Lt. E. C. Mack, Lt. B. P. Purdue.

Mr. Edwin Vondereau will render the nuptial music and Mrs. Ernest A. Barker will sing before the vows are taken.

After the ceremony the wedding party and inner circle of friends will attend a reception at the home of Maj. and Mrs. Samuel I. McCants.

* * *

Mrs. Clarence T. Davis and daughters, Betty and Patsy, are in Florida visiting Mrs. Davis' mother before going to Panama for station.

* * *

Mrs. W. L. Roberts is entertaining today at a lovely party for Miss Alice Torrey.

Honoring our Chief of Staff, General Charles P. Summerall, who was our distinguished guest for two days of last week, the officers and ladies of this command assembled on Ebbert Hill for a pageant and al-fresco reception late Friday afternoon.

The place chosen for this reproduction of the recreational and social activities, which so greatly enrich the life of this post, was a beautifully wooded amphitheatre with just enough open space for the participants to assemble en masse for their presentation to the general. The reviewing stand upon which General Summerall, General and Mrs. King, Col. Marshall, Col. and Mrs. Knight, Col. and Mrs. Pendleton, Col. and Mrs. Shaw, Col. and Mrs. Galleher, Maj. and Mrs. Card, Mayor Dimon and a party of prominent Columbus people were seated, was flanked by two symmetrical young pine trees which stood as sentinels before the Army's Chief. Through this vista, the general's party gazed upon a natural stage with backdrops of lordly pines, tulip poplars, stately oaks, beech and hickories, many of which were garlanded with smilax, bamboo and ivy by nature's lavish hand. Directly in front of the reviewing stand, as a portal to the stage, was a perfect arch formed by twin linden trees and through this natural gateway the golfers, the tennis players, the polo players, the gardeners, the Chinese coolies with their quaint rickshas, each in turn made impressive entrance. And it was indeed impressive, for they were entirely concealed by young pines till they appeared under the arch in groups, sometimes by threes, sometimes by twos, and in some cases, singly. Every phase of our life outside the military, was enacted in this spectacular pageant—the school children, with lunch pails and book satchels, treading happily a winding path overhung with vines as the lilting tune of "School Days, School Days" resounded from the band, the hunt club in scarlet coats dashing after the baying fox hounds while the band played and sang "A Hunting We Will Go." the Glee Club, that first cultural organization that Benning as a young post had, and lastly the 24th Infantry Glee Club and Band.

After the pageant, General Summerall made a most gracious and appreciative response, in which he commended highly the esprit de corps of this garrison, saying that such wholehearted interest in making the best of what our post had to offer was making the "Benning Spirit" famous throughout the army. He stressed the fact that the spiritual is

(Continued on Page 17.)

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY
"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"
PEKOR'S
INC.
YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Officers Attention!

To those of you who are leaving Fort Benning, we extend our sincere wishes and best of luck for your continued success and future, and that it may not be many years before we see you again.

To you who remain at Fort Benning, we sincerely hope you may learn to like Fort Benning and Columbus more and more. Be assured that we stand ready and anxious to serve you in every way possible.

J. A. Kirven's Dept. Store

Additional Society

(Continued from page 16.)

infinitely beyond the material, that happiness comes from within, and that when a person fails to find happiness it is not the fault of the post but of the individual. He was gratified that no such charge could be brought against the personnel of this garrison for they were too joyously busy with their golf, tennis, riding, gardening, hunting, singing, studying, acting. He said that he would be gratified if all posts throughtout the length and breadth of the service would follow Benning's example, and by so doing develop a life of high order. He generously expressed pride and pleasure in this cross section of garrison life and said that it would always be for him a happy remembrance.

* * *

Honoring Miss Alice Torrey, charming bride-to-be, Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge was hostess at a perfectly beautiful bridge luncheon on Friday, May 30th, at her regimental club rooms. The "bride idea" was carried out in every phase of the party. The club rooms were decorated with graceful baskets filled with flowers in pastel shades and the tables were arranged for progressive bridge. Miss Barbara King won high score prize, a pair of chiffon hose; Mrs. Vernon, low, a set of score pads and bridge tallies. Miss Torrey was given a half dozen Maderia napkins. All the gifts were done up in white, being tied with lovely bows of white satin ribbon. On the bride-elect's gift was an exquisite little bride-doll about four inches tall, dressed in a white satin wedding dress and tulle veil. After the game, the guests found their places at an exquisitely appointed bride's table. The cloth was a handsome importation of filet and cut-work and the centerpiece was a silver bowl filled with white gladioli and Shasta daisies, surrounded by silver candlesticks holding tall white tapers tied with white tulle, from which fell a shower of orange blossoms. The place cards were slippers laced with white satin ribobn and favors were small baskets of candies with a dainty little bride on each basket. Nor was the bride forgotten in planning the menu, for there were little bride stick-ups in the salad, and heart-shaped beaten biscuit. There were sixteen present and covers were laid for Miss Alice Torrey, Miss Barbara King, Miss Helen Young, Miss Daisy Reed, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Verna Perry, Miss Harriett Wells, Miss Landon Reed, Miss Peggy Lampke, Miss Dorothy Russ, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Miss Virginia Boyd, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Roosma, Mrs. Kammerer.

* * *

Col. and Mrs. J. A. Berry, of Washington, D. C., left June 1st for Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga., to attend the graduation of their daughter, Miss Peggy Berry, after a most delightful visit to Fort Benning as the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Ralph B. Lovett. On Tuesday evening Col. and Mrs. Harry E. Knight honored them with a dinner party, on Thursday Mrs. E. G. Sherburne was hostess at a luncheon, on Friday evening Capt. and Mrs. Fred Hickson entertained a dinner party at the Ralston complimenting these distinguished visitors. On Wednesday evening at the Regimental Club rooms Capt. and Mrs. Lovett were hosts at a very lovely dinner party as a courtesy to their house guests. The rooms were attractively decorated with summer flowers and tall glowing tapers. Covers were laid for twenty-nine, those present being Col. and Mrs. Pendleton, Col. and Mrs. Brandt, Maj. and Mrs. Phelps, Maj. and Mrs. Hall, Maj. and Mrs. Sherburne, Maj. and Mrs. McDonnell, Mrs. T. Q. Donaldson, Capt. and Mrs. Jackson, Capt. and Mrs. Hickson, Capt. and Mrs. Gilhus, their guest, Mrs. Cornell, of San Francisco, Capt. and Mrs. Rutledge, Capt. McAllister.

* * *

The wives of officers who will be at Leavenworth for the next two years had a "get-better-acquainted" luncheon at the Log Cabin on Friday. They were seated at one long table, which was laid with filet mats and had for its centerpieces low green bowls filled with coreopsis. Green candlesticks held slim yellow tapers. There were thirty-one guests, as follows: Mrs. G. V. Strong, Mrs. L. C. Allen, Mrs. A. H. Bailey, Mrs. L. S. Gerow, Mrs. P. J. McDonnell, Mrs. T. G. Methvin, Mrs. J. S. Sullivan, Mrs. C. A. Willoughby, Mrs. A. P. Withers, Mrs. J. C. Baker, Mrs. E. S. Johnston, Mrs. A. D. Warnock, Mrs. G. D. Chunn, Mrs. O. B. Abbott, Mrs. R. O. Baldwin, Mrs. F. G. Bonham, Mrs. W. A. Burress, Mrs. N. D. Cota, Mrs. H. E. Dager, Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist, Mrs. M. V. Fortier, Mrs. L. B. Glasgow, Mrs. Walter Jessee, Mrs. E. G. Herlihy, Mrs. T. S. Arms, Mrs. W. A. Smith.

* * *

On Monday afternoon Mrs. Frank L. McCoy entertained very delightfully at bridge at her quarters. Summer flowers were attractively used for decorations. There were seven tables of players and Mrs. H. S. Kelley won high prize, a half dozen Maderia napkins; Mrs. Wm. McElhinny, of Detroit, second, a box of Roger and Gallet dusting powder; Mrs. C. A. Shamotulski, low, a novelty salad set; Mrs. E. T. Jones, tea-guest's prize, a pair of hot stands. After the game, peach ice cream was served with angel food cake.

* * *

Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge honored Mrs. Allen F. Haynes with a beautiful farewell tea at the Polo Club on Thursday. The club was decorated with a profusion of garden flowers arranged in Dresden bouquets, using hydrangea, larkspur, daisies, coreopsis, zinnias, gladioli and snapdragon very effectively. Pink and green was the color note of the tea table, which was lovely with its exquisite cloth, its gay centerpiece, its pink tapers in green holders, its pink and green mints, sandwiches, the filling of which carried out these colors, and embossed cakes. From four to six about seventy-five guests called.

* * *

The officers and ladies of the 15th Tank Battalion entertained at a most enjoyable picnic at Upatoi Beach as a farewell courtesy to their commanding officer and his wife, Maj. and Mrs. Edgar S. Miller. There was special music rendered by the 24th quartette and by Mr. Birdsong of the 29th Infantry.

It is with genuine regret that Benning gives up Major and Mrs. Miller. Not only have they meant much to their immediate organization but they have identified themselves with the many cultural activities of the post. Mrs. Miller is a skilled pianist and has during the past year had charge of the music at the Protestant chapel; she has a beautiful voice and has been a valued member of the Glee club as well as an outstandingly prominent soloist on many programs in Columbus as well as on the post. She has been prominent in club work and during the past year was the highly efficient president of The Infantry School Woman's Club. She was a gracious and charming hostess often entertaining, and always very beautifully.

The Tanks Bridge club was entertained by Mrs. James Taylor at her home on Tuesday, p. m. Mrs. Brett, Mrs. W. A. Smith and Mrs. Childs won the prizes and after the game a very elaborate salad course was served.

* * *

All interest is centered in the approaching wedding of Miss Alice Torrey and Lt. Welborn B. Griffith, Jr., which will be a lovely event of next Tuesday. These popular young people have been extensively entertained since the announcement of their engagement at a delightful seated tea at the Log Cabin in April. Among those who have complimented them with charming parties are Mrs. R. H. Brown, Lt. Edward C. Mack, Miss Sara Crowell Bullock, Mrs. J. C. Baker, Mrs. D. S. Wilson, Mrs. B. C. Fowlkes, Mrs. Edmund K. Daley, Lt. and Mrs. M. R. Kammerer, Miss Harriett Wells, Miss Sue Brandt, Misses Daisy and Landon Reed, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Miss Verna Perry, Maj. and Mrs. Frederick C. Phelps, Mrs. Cecil Rutledge, Mrs. Lynn Roberts, Mrs. Harry Wells.

* * *

Misses Marie Louise Nutting, Patsy Douglas and Katherine Stark arrived on Thursday from Washington, D. C.. and are guests of Miss Alice Torrey.

* * *

Mr. Welborn B. Griffith, Sr., of Temple, Texas, came Thursday to be present at the marriage of his son, Lt. W. B. Griffith, Jr., and Miss Alice Torrey.

* * *

On Saturday Mrs. John F. Landis will entertain the members of the Torrey-Griffith wedding party at a beautiful luncheon at the Log Cabin.

* * *

On Sunday afternoon after the rehearsal at the Polo Club, Miss Alice Torrey will compliment her wedding party with a dinner party at Biglerville, followed by an evening at the theatre.

* * *

Mrs. Allen F. Haynes entertains at bridge this afternoon.

MRS. YOUNG'S
Grill
"The Best of Food"
117 12th Street Phone 4026
COLUMBUS, GA.

K&P
Congratulations!
To the Officers who have successfully completed their year of study at "The World's Greatest Infantry School"—and remember, wherever you may be in the years to come, we will be anxiously awaiting your return, in order that we may again serve you, just as we have served this Community for sixty-nine years, on a basis of honesty, efficiency, courtesy and service.
KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY-COLUMBUS

THE Cricket
A GOOD PLACE TO EAT
COLUMBUS GEORGIA
Open From 6 A. M. to 9 P. M.

INFANTRY SCHOOL ACADEMIC YEAR CLOSES JUNE 11

(Continued from page 1.)

Major Theron G. Methven, Inf.
Major John D. Miley, Inf.
Major Charles T. Senay, Inf.
Major William A. Smith, Inf.
Major Joseph W. G. Stephens, Inf.
Major John S. Sullivan, Inf.
Major James A. Van Fleet, Inf.
Major Charles A. Willoughby, Inf.
Major Alexander P. Withers, Inf.
Major Clinton T. Alden, Inf. (P. S.)
Major Earle L. Hunt, Inf., (P. S.)
Major Robert E. Messersmith, U.S.M.C.
Capt. Oscar B. Abbott, Inf.
Capt. John U. Ayotte, Inf.
Capt. Ross O. Baldwin, Inf.
Capt. Jacob E. Bechtold, Inf.
Capt. Leigh Bell, Inf.
Capt. Kearie L. Berry, Inf.
Capt. Raymond H. Bishop, Inf.
Capt. Francis G. Bonham, Inf.
Capt. Francis M. Brennan, Inf.
Capt. Thomas C. Brown, Inf.
Capt. Withers A. Burress, Inf.
Capt. Frank M. Child, Inf.
Capt. William A. Collier, Inf.
Capt. Raymond P. Cook, Inf.
Capt. Norman D. Cota, Inf.
Capt. John W. Crissy, Inf.
Capt. Ivan S. Curtis, Inf.
Capt. Holmes E. Dager, Inf.
Capt. John E. Dahlquist, Inf.
Capt. Lincoln F. Daniels, Inf.
Capt. Robert F. Dark, Inf.
Capt. Richard D. Daugherity, Inf.
Capt. Malcolm V. Fortier, Inf.
Capt. Lawrence B. Glasgow, Inf.
Capt. James O. Green, Inf.
Capt. Charles C. Griffin, Inf.
Capt. Axel Hawkenson, Inf.
Capt. Theodore P. Heap, Inf.
Capt. Benjamin H. Hensley, Inf.
Capt. Edward G. Herlihy, Inf.
Capt. Winthrop A. Hollyer, Inf
Capt. William Hones, Inf.
Capt. Burr P. Irwin, Inf.
Capt. Walter Jessee, Inf.
Capt. Edward S. Johnston, Inf.
Capt. John H. Knuebel, Inf.
Capt. Thomas L. Lamoreux, Inf.
Capt. Manuel B. Navas, Inf.
Capt. Merritt E. Olmstead, Inf.
Capt. Walter A. Pashley, Inf.
Capt. Grady H. Pendergrast, Inf.
Capt. Lawrence A. Quinn, Inf.
Capt. Thomas E. Roderick, Inf.
Capt. Joseph H. Rutsemeyer, Inf
Capt. Frank E. Sharpless, Inf.
Capt. Thomas S. Smith, Inf.
Capt. Donald A. Stroh, Inf.
Capt. Welcome P. Waltz, Inf.
Capt. James V. Ware, Inf.
Capt. Aln D. Warnock, Inf.
Capt. Theodore F. Wessels, Inf .
Capt. Richard M. Winfield, Inf.
Capt. Jared I. Wood, Inf.
Capt. Adlai C. Young, Inf.
Capt. Roy W. Heard, Inf. (P. S.)
Capt. Frederick Van A. Berger, Q.M.C.
Capt. Henry F. Lueking, M. C.
1st Lt. Charles M. Robinson, A. C.

Company-Officers Course

Capt. David D. Barrett, Inf.
Capt. Harrison B. Beavers, Inf.
Capt. Stanley G. Blanton, Inf.
Capt. Ralph E. Bower, Inf.
Capt. Emile J. Boyer, Inf.
Capt. William M. Chapman, Inf.
Capt. William H. Collette, Inf.
Capt. Joseph B. Conmy, Inf.
Capt. George M. Couper, Inf.
Capt. Malcolm E. Craig, Inf.
Capt. Harold B. Crowell, Inf.
Capt. James W. Darr, Inf.
Capt. Walter A. Elliott, Inf.
Capt. Herbert G. Esden, Inf.
Capt. Hugh M. Evans, Inf.
Capt. George E. Fingarson, Inf.
Capt. John D. Forsythe, Inf.
Capt. James L. Garza, Inf.
Capt. Roy S. Gibson, Inf.
Capt. Clyde Grady, Inf.
Capt. Walter Gregory, Inf.
Capt. Harry M. Gwynn, Inf.
Capt. Earl N. Hackney, Inf.
Capt. John M. Hagens, Inf.
Capt. Thomas A. Harris, Inf.
Capt. William G. Hilliard, Jr., Inf.
Capt. John P. Horan, Inf.
Capt. Robert L. Hostetler, Inf.
Capt. Edward A. Kaech, Inf.
Capt. Burton L. Lucas, Inf.
Capt. Robb S. Mackie, Inf.
Capt. John McBride, Inf.
Capt. Walter D. McCord, Inf.
Capt. Oren A. Mulkey, Inf.
Capt. John C. Newton, Inf.
Capt. Remington Orsinger, Inf.
Capt. George H. Rarey, Inf.
Capt. Roy V. Rickard, Inf.
Capt. John A. Rodgers, Inf.
Capt. Ross B. Smith, Inf.
Capt. Walter E. Smith, Inf.
Capt. Paul Steele, Inf.
Capt. Harry M. Stinson, Inf.
Capt. John T. Sunstone, Inf.
Capt. Leslie E. Toole, Inf.
Capt. Austin Triplett, Inf.
Capt. Everett L. Upson, Inf.
Capt. Hugh A. Wear, Inf.
Capt. Clare W. Woodward, Inf.
Capt. William H. Young, Inf.
Capt. William E. Alger, Inf., (P. S.)
Capt. Earl Wells, Inf., (P. S.)
Capt. Leo L. Gocker, Cav.
Capt. Herbert A. Myers, Cav.
Capt. Emmett W. Skinner, U.S.M.C
Capt. Louis W. Whaley, U.S.M.C.
1st Lt. DeWitt Ballard, Inf.
1st Lt. Leon B. Boineau, Inf.
1st Lt. George L. Boyle, Inf.
1st Lt. Howard W. Brimmer, Inf.
1st Lt. Thomas M. Brinkley, Inf.
1st Lt. Charles Carlton, Inf.
1st Lt. James C. Carter, Inf.
1st Lt. Fred W. Caswell, Inf.
1st Lt. Joseph P. Catte, Inf.
1st Lt. Norman C. Caum, Inf.
1st Lt. Vincent J. Conrad, Inf.
1st Lt. Edgar A. C. Curran, Inf.
1st Lt. Lewis A. Day, Inf.
1st Lt. Sidney L. Douthit, Inf.
1st Lt. John J. Dubbelde, Inf.
1st Lt. Henry B. Ellison, Inf.
1st Lt. John H. Evans, Inf.
1st Lt. Robert T. Foster, Inf.
1st Lt. Arthur J. Grimes, Inf.
1st Lt. Joseph J. Gutkowski, Inf.
1st Lt. Jerome G. Harris, Inf.
1st Lt. Allen F. Haynes, Inf.
1st Lt. Lee M. Hester, Inf.
1st Lt. Lewis D. Hixson, Inf.
1st Lt. Carter M. Kolb, Inf.
1st Lt. Percy E. LeStourgeon, Inf.
1st Lt. Carley L. Marshall, Inf.
1st Lt. Earl Mattice, Inf.
1st Lt. John E. McCammon, Inf.
1st Lt. Robert B. McClure, Inf.
1st Lt. Bernice M. M. McFadyen, Inf.
1st Lt. William M. Miley, Inf.
1st Lt. Hammond McD. Monroe, Inf.
1st Lt. Leonard R. Nachman, Inf.
1st Lt. Raymond W. Odor, Inf.
1st Lt. Clifford D. Overfelt, Inf.
1st Lt. Staten E. Rall, Inf.
1st Lt. Paul C. Serff, Inf.
1st Lt. William B. Sharp, Inf.
1st Lt. Charles M. Smith, Inf.
1st Lt. Leonard R. Smith, Inf.
1st Lt. Richard F. Stone, Inf.
1st Lt. Thomas V. Webb, Inf.
1st Lt. Sidney F. Wharton, Inf.
1st Lt. Herbert B. Wilcox, Inf.
1st Lt. Lyman O. Williams, Inf.
1st Lt. Joseph T. Zak, Inf.
1st Lt. Howard J. Edmands, Inf. (P. S.)
1st Lt. Paul A. Hollister, Inf. (P. S.)
1st Lt. Joseph L. Walecka, Inf. (P. S.)
2nd Lt. Clark N. Bailey, Inf.
2nd Lt. Russell A. Baker, Inf.
2nd Lt. Ernest A. Barlow, Inf.
2nd Lt. James D. Barnett, Inf.
2nd Lt. Claude A. Black, Inf.
2nd Lt. William L. Burbank, Inf.
2nd Lt. William W. Cornog, Jr., Inf.
2nd Lt. Waldemar N. Damas, Inf.
2nd Lt. John W. Dansby, Inf.
2nd Lt. Joseph B. Daugherty, Inf.
2nd Lt. George H. Dietz, Inf.
2nd Lt. Theodore L. Dunn, Inf.
2nd Lt. Francis J. Graling, Inf.
2nd Lt. Rupert D. Graves, Inf.
2nd Lt. Welborn B. Griffith, Jr., Inf.
2nd Lt. Sarratt T. Hames, Inf.
2nd Lt. John F. Holland, Inf.
2nd Lt. John R. Jeter, Inf.
2nd Lt. William F. Kellotat, Inf.
2nd Lt. Raymond C. Lane, Inf.
2nd Lt. Samuel M. Lansing, Inf.
2nd Lt. Frank R. Lloyd, Inf.
2nd Lt. Edward C. Mack, Inf.
2nd Lt. Henry B. Margeson, Inf.
2nd Lt. John R. McGinness, Inf.
2nd Lt. Dennis M. Moore, Inf.
2nd Lt. Branner P. Purdue, Inf.
2nd Lt. Lewis A. Riggins, Inf.
2nd Lt. Charles H. Royce, Inf.

CHIEF OF STAFF VIEWS OUTDOOR PAGEANT

(Continued from page 1.)

it is probably only just and proper that the devotees of that game which bars none from participation on account of rank, race, education, sex, age, or decreptitude, should have asserted—and now maintain—all right, use, and title. Col. Wells presents the Ft. Benning golfers."

Several score of golfers, led by Col. Harry E. Wells, then came down a path through the trees and grouped in front of the platform where General Summerall stood. Colonel Wells was presented to the general and in turn introduced several of the golfers, among whom were: Mrs. E. E. Lewis, Mrs. C. P. Hall, Mrs. W. G. Livesay, Mrs. G. D. Chunn, Mrs. R. T. Foster, Capt. H. J. Liston, Capt. V. G. Huskea, Capt. Paul Steele and Capt. R. H. Chance.

As the golfers filed out another group took their places and were introduced by Major Marr.

"No less sincere in pursuit ot their favorite pastime are those who, asserting their skill, youth, and endurance, claim that for them the time has not yet arrived for graduation to golf. Fewer in number than their predecessors, but inspired by that indomitable spirit of youth and energy, they, nevertheless, do their full share in keeping Benning on the map in this particular sport. Maj. Smith introduces the post tennis players."

Major Truman Smith, heading the tennis players, and Mrs. Howard Brimmer and Lt. David Hedekin, both champions of the post, were introduced to the general.

Following the departure of the tennis players, Major Marr introduced another group in the following words:

"If we see on the faces of those who appear expressions of undue elation, equalled only by corresponding expressions of deep depression on the faces of their parents, a word of explanation will suffice. The grade schools closed today. One needs only a brief glimpse of our post to realize that, with proper cultivation, our soil here is fertile; our gardens are prolific and beautiful. Our finest product, however, is our annual crop of children. In fact, so abundant is this crop that only by exercise of the greatest diplomacy have we been able to reconcile conflicting claims to our open ground, put forth on the one hand by this group, and on the other, by the golfers. Miss Ryder presents to you a representative group of Ft. Benning's eight hundred children."

As Major Marr completed his introduction of this group, the band struck up "School Days" and several dozen children of the post schools in charge of Miss Louise Ryder, came shyly forward to pay their respects to General Summerall. As the children were ushered out, Major Marr announced another group.

"Second to none in the laurels achieved for Benning is the group which next appears. Ever increasing its radius of action, its members are soon to invade Washington. It is, perhaps, only fair to warn such inhabitants of that city as may be here today, that we do not expect our representatives to return empty-handed. Hard - riding, hard - hitting, hard-fighting; sportsman always, in victory or in defeat. Major Lyman presents our polo teams."

A clatter of hoofs was heard in the woods to the left of the stage and a moment later the post polo players were seen galloping full speed down the hillside; without slackening speed, they continued to the opposite side of the theater, turned about quickly and galloped back to the center of the arena and reined to an almost instant halt in perfect line before General Summerall. Major C. B. Lyman, their leader, presented them to the general and they galloped off, their varied colored jackets and their glistening white helmets flashing in kaleidoscopic colors as they rode between the trees. The spectacular entry and exit of this group were heartily applauded by the crowd.

Major Marr's introduction of the amateur gardeners of the post was as follows:

"Lest by our remarks and exhibits today, we convey to you the impression that all is serenity and contentment here at Benning, we must at this point admit the existence in our population of one disturbing and discordant element. Actuated originally by a laudable desire to beautify the post, and to reduce the high cost of living, this "agricultural bloc" now has the temerity to demand equal privilege with golfers, military personnel, and other essential members of the garrison. They ever harass the post adminstration with constant demands for special measures of relief and consideration. Yielding to their own insistence for recognition, and in the interests of harmony, we bespeak your indulgence while Capt. Steel presents a plea for the post gardeners."

Then the gardeners, headed by Capt. Charles L. Steel, appeared, dressed in overalls, smocks and other costumes appropriate to gardening and carrying rakes, hoes, trowels, baskets and other implements peculiar to their hobby.

The riders were the next group introduced by Major Marr.

"In these hectic days of "motorization and mechanization," Fort Benning declines to desert its old loves. No post in the army afords more beautiful and varied terrain for mounted exploration. At no post in the army are better mounts or facilities made available for devotees of this sport. To gain a clear conception of the hold this recreation has, on the feminine element at least, one has only to note the prevailing morning dress, and conversation of our fair maids and matrons. As for proficiency and skill, our local horse shows, and results attained by our representatives in competition with other posts and clubs, speak for themselves. Major Smith will introduce to you a group of our Fort Benning riders."

Led by Major H. J. M. Smith, a large group of equestrians cantered down the hillside in single file, crossed to the other side of the arena, formed twos, trotted back and formed line in front of General Summerall, and were presented by Major Smith.

As the riders moved away, Major Marr announced another group as follows:

"By virtue of its natural features, aided by a wise policy of control and conservation, Fort Benning has become one of the South's principal game preserves. In fact, we have reached a point where the entertainment of distinguished guests, whose hobby is hunting, involves no problem whatever. We simply steer them to one of our carefully stocked "sub-preserves"—A. B. or C, depending (for instance) on whether they want quail or pheasant, opossum or wild-cat. On the recent visit of a high cabinet official we even sacrificed three of our best (and tamest) wild turkeys, but we brought him home with full game-bags.

"For our own amusement along this line, we more often elect that sport open generally only to royalty and millionaires. Capt. Mallan presents to you the Officer's Club Hunt."

The strains of "A Hunting We Will Go" followed Major Marr's introduction of this group. Presently the baying of hounds was heard in the distance. Then a pack of hounds in full cry burst from the edge of the woods to the right and

(Continued on page 19.)

2nd Lt. John D. Salmon, Inf.
2nd Lt. Douglas B. Smith, Inf.
2nd Lt. Judson M. Smith, Inf.
2nd Lt. Mark E. Smith, Jr., Inf.
2nd Lt. Walter S. Strange, Inf.
2nd Lt. Clarence M. Virtue, Inf.
2nd Lt. Ernest H. Wilson, Inf.
2nd Lt. Filomeno B. Villaluz, P. C.
Mr Wei Pin Chang, Chinese Army.
Mr. Chia Mej Hu, Chinese Army.
Mr. Jen Tao Li, Chinese Army.

CHIEF OF STAFF VIEWS OUTDOOR PAGEANT

(Continued from page 18.)

were followed a few seconds later by the picturesquely garbed hunters at full gallop. This was another spectacular event which drew generous applause for the riders who were led by Capt. Daniel H. Mallan. A touch of comedy which was hugely enjoyed by the spectators, was given to this event by a pup of the pack which apparently stopped to take a look at General Summerall and was bowled over several times by other dogs of the pack.

Major Marr next introduced the Fort Benning Glee Club, headed by Capt. L. C. Beebe.

"As a complete, independent, and practically self-sustaining community, we frequently find it both pleasant and profitable, in providing various forms of indoor entertainment, to call upon the talent within our own ranks. Because of the many enjoyable hours this activity has furnished us all, it is very fitting that we present to you today Capt. Beebe and his fellow representatives of the Fort Benning Glee Club."

Following their presentation to General Summerall, the Glee Club sang a number from "Katinka" in pleasing style.

The major then introduced a group of players of the Dramatic club.

"No less generous in contributing to the happiness and enjoyment of our post life are those whose talents lie along other lines. The movietone and vitaphone arouse neither fear nor envy in their hearts. If professional actors could be assured the deservedly enthusiastic reception that greets our own artists, whenever they favor us with one of their own productions, there'd be little fear for the future of the theatre. We present Capt. Tuttle and his fellow Thespians of the Infantry School Dramatic Club."

The Dramatic club made its entry in truly dramatic manner. Down the steep path leading into the amphitheater dashed a dozen or so Chinese coolies drawing rickshaws which bounced and careened over the rough ground and threatened momently to spill their Chinese lady passengers out. To the accompaniment of shouts of "Hi! Hi!," the rickshaws were drawn up in a line in front of the general. One of the coolies stepped forward and, speaking in Chinese, extended a welcome to General Summerall. This was Capt. David D. Barrett, who last year completed a four-year detail as language student in China.

Fearing that General Summerall had not understood Captain Barrett's speech, Capt. W. B. Tuttle welcomed the general in English. The coolies then gathered up their passengers and started up the hill. Before they had gone very far an argument over fares developed and all the passengers got out.

Following the Dramatic Club's skit, Major Marr introduced the 24th Infantry Glee Club as follows:

" General summerall, as you perhaps have noted, no one form of entertainment or recreation can monopolize the spotlight here at Benning. One of the reason's we're all Benning Boosters is that every element of the post, rank file, is ever ready to put its shoulder to the wheel, and contribute to the common welfare.

"Our program of pageant features would be quite incomplete were we to omit a group which frequently provides, always willingly and cheerfully, a unique and most enjoyable feature in our post entertainments. The 24th Infantry Glee Club and Band." Two choruses were then presented by the negro singers.

The mass of dusky faces against the deepening shadows of the woods-surrounded theater; their peculiar, yet harmonious intonations; their humming, crooning melody seemingly fading out with the setting sun, gave a touch of the weird and exotic to their songs, which were, withal, exceedingly pleasing.

This number closed the program of entertainment.

General Summerall, in a short address, stated that the pageant which he had just witnessed was unique in the history of the army. He doubted, he said, if any other group of people could present anything more beautiful and practical than the spectacle staged in the natural theater. It had given him a new conception of the life at Fort Benning, he said.

The general sketched the history of Fort Benning from its establishment as a necessity of war, to the present time and stated that it has always had high leadership.

"It must have been," he said, "by an inspiration that it was made the home of the infantry, that branch which is the hope of battle, the strength of an army, the great power in the hands of a leader."

General Summerall, in commenting on the spirit which animates Fort Benning, said that he has always felt that the army is representative of the best people of the nation. The officers, he said, come from its best manhood; its enlisted men are a cross-section of the nation's family life; and its women are superlative as compared to their sisters in other walks of life.

ADVANCED CLASS GIVES FAREWELL DINNER-DANCE

(Continued from page 15.)

and Bushwacking in Rosebush and Ambush have brought happiness or U's to the brave boys of Company A, depending entirely upon their fortune in throwing the loaded dice.

Award of the letter F for proficiency in Sports: Major Gilbert Cook, whose outstanding playing has won recognition in the following major sports: Findig, Fending, Fixing, Fighting, as well as Fooling the advanced class.

Following the award of medals, there was presented to the diners a short tragedy entitled, "The Killing of the Monograph." Following is the cast of characters:

His Majesty, Steve I, King of the Reds—Major Stephens.

Commander of the Royal Guard—Capt. Hones.

A Red Mounted Scout—Maj. Senay.

The Monograph—Capt. Lueking.

Soldiers of the Guard—Major Logan, Capts. Olmstead and Collier.

In brief, the story is as follows: In the days of the war between the Reds and Blues, King Steve is seated upon his throne. Shots are heard. Enter Red Scout in a hurry, screaming "The Blues are Coming." The king demands a prisoner. The scout departs and returns with a monograph. The king is pleased and harangues the monograph. He then appeals to the populace for a sentence. With one accord the mob yells, "Kill Him!" The king sentences the Monograph to be shot at sunrise. The Monograph smiles and informs the king that he still has eight hours to live, since the Reference Data state that the sun rises in Fort Benning at 4.50 a. m. The king orders the sun to rise in two minutes and summons the Royal Guard. Guard enters, maneuvers, halts and fires a volley with pop guns. The Monograph drops dead and the king gives the coupe de grace with a cap pistol. The Monograph's body is carried out by the guard while the King sounds a warning to all other monographs.

Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed and the diners were joined by numerous officers and ladies of the garrison and school with their guests. Prizes were awarded to holders of the lucky code numbers, Mrs. Kingman drawing the numbers and Major Stephens making the presentation speeches. Prize winners were Mrs. Peake, Major Bradley, Mrs. Curtis, Mr. Rainey, Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Caffey, Capt. Chapman, Capt. Wessels.

For the dinner, Lieut. Col. E. H. Tarbutton, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Geo. Strong and Lieut. Col. and Mrs. D. M. Cheston, had as their guests Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Campbell King, Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. W. Kingman, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Calvin P. Titus, Mrs. Singer, Major and Mrs. C. B. Rucker and Mrs. Donaldson.

Seated at Major and Mrs. J. A. Van Fleet's table were: Major and Mrs. Hoge, Major and Mrs. Lange, Major and Mrs. Ferris, Lieut. Col. Geo. C. Mashall, Maj. and Mrs. Sherburne, Maj. and Mrs. Roberts, Major and Mrs. Falligant, Major and Mrs. Chynoweth.

Capt. H. F. Lueking had as his guests, Miss Peggy Lampke, Miss Dorothy Russ, Lieut. Dunn and Capt. St. John.

Capt. and Mrs. Ross Baldwin had Capt. and Mrs. Halloran at their table.

Capt. and Mrs. R. F. Dark's guests were: Maj. and Mrs. Withers, Lt. and Mrs. Harris, Capt. Roderick.

Capt. Hones' table seated Major and Mrs. Wilson, Capt. and Mrs. Sweet, Capt. and Mrs. Beebe, Miss Daisy Reed, Capt. Partridge, Lt. Royce.

At Capt. and Mrs. L. B. Glasgow's table were Capt. and Mrs. Bonham, Maj. and Mrs. L. C. Allen, Lt. and Mrs. Monroe, Maj. and Mrs. Leard, Capt. and Mrs. Wood, Capt. and Mrs. Wessels, Capt. and Mrs. Lamoreaux, Maj. and Mrs. Truman Smith, Capt. and Mrs. McClure, Capt. and Mrs. Brian, Capt, and Mrs. Abbott.

Capt. and Mrs. Peabody and Major and Mrs. Brett were guests of Capt. and Mrs. Kneubel.

Capt. Rustemeyer's guests were Captain Liston, Major and Mrs. Ryder, Capt. and Mrs. Venable.

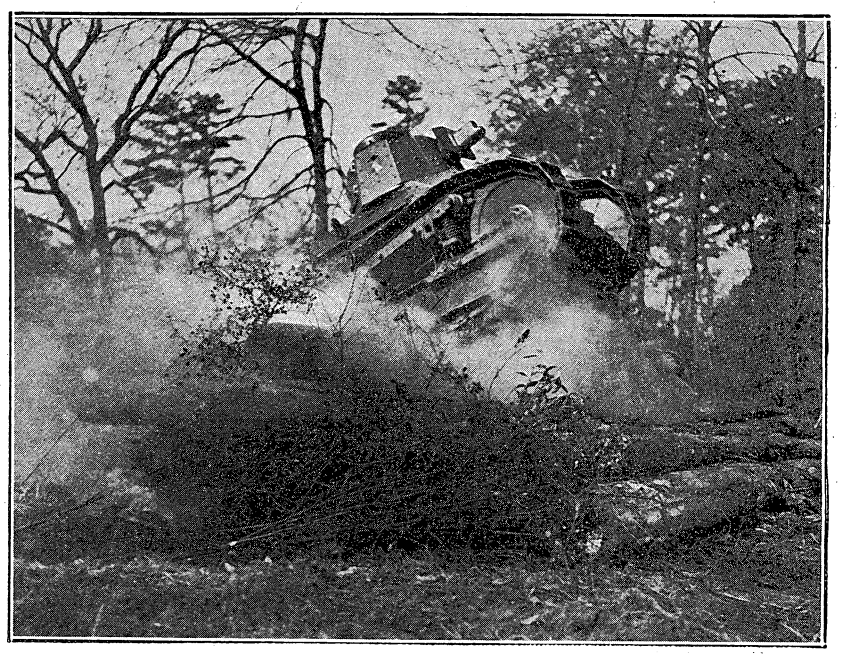
At a separate table were seated Major and Mrs. Stephens, Major and Mrs. Willoughby, Maj. and Mrs. Senay, Capt. Pashley, Major Macon, Capt. and Mrs. Berger, Capt. and Mrs. Bechtold, Capt. and Mrs. Dahlquist, Capt. and Mrs. Fortier, Capt. and Mrs. Johnston, Capt. and Mrs. Navas, Capt. and Mrs. Crissey, and Lt. and Mrs. Robinson, with the following guests: Major and Mrs. Hill, Major and Mrs. Randolph, Major and Mrs. Cook, Major and Mrs. Copeland, Major and Mrs. Rader, Capt. and Mrs. Maddox, Lt. and Mrs. Black, Capt. Rheinhardt and Lt. and Mrs. Hardee.

Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Bishop had, as their guests, Capt. and Mrs. Leigh Bell and Capt. and Mrs. H. J. Collins.

Major and Mrs. Wm. J. Connolly entertained for Major and Mrs. Bradley, Capt. Jenks, Major and Mrs. Ladd, and Capt. and Mrs. J. K. Rice.

At the two large general tables were seated Major and Mrs. John Ehlert, who had as guests Major Stivers, Capt. and Mrs. Hensley, Miss Jessie Young, Major and Mrs. Livesay; Capt. and Mrs. Warnock, with Capt. and Mrs. Duff as their guests; Major and Mrs. Sullivan with Major Bruce Magruder; Capt. and Mrs. Olmstead with Major and Mrs. Tack, Major and Mrs. Phelps, Capt. and Mrs. Cole, Major and Mrs. Card; Major and Mrs. Logan with Major and Mrs. H. J. M. Smith, Capt. and Mrs. Caffey; Capt. and Mrs. Irwin with Major and Mrs. Rhett; Capt. and Mrs. James Green and Capt. Fales; Major and Mrs. Dunn with Mr. and Mrs. Rainey; Capt. and Mrs. Cota entertainig for Capt. and Mrs. Alan Jones and Capt. and Mrs. Goode; Major and Mrs. W. A. Smith with Capt. and Mrs. Chapman and Lt. and Mrs. Foster; Capt. and Mrs. Collier with Major and Mrs. Peake and Capt. DeWare; Major and Mrs. Arms with Major and Mrs. Freehof as their guests.

INFANTRY LIGHT TANK IN ACTION



Baby Tank passing over an obstacle during a demonstration at the Infantry School.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

SPORTS

ATTAWAY TAKES DECISION OVER DEPRATT IN POLO BENEFIT FIGHT

By Bernard B. Swayze

Gunner DePratt lost the decision to Styles Attaway last Monday night in one of the best fights ever shown at Benning. There was nothing lacking in the mix-up to make it interesting from start to finish. When the decision was given, Doughboy Stadium resounded with cheers, and praise for both contestants. So loud were the cheers, that a casual passerby, who had missed half his life, asked if the marines weren't playing the army again ! ! !

Attaway was unable to use his right at all against the vicious Gunner. Time and again, he tried to slam home a cross that would have the effect of TNT, but the wiry Gunner was every present with his deadly left to make these onslaughts go wild. Attaway's most effective blow was a left jab that seemed to find no where else to land but on the Gunner's chin. These though, seemed not to daze him in the least. Merely tantalizing.

DePratt was able to use his right to more effect than the Gainesville boy. Time after time, he landed a hefty right in a dangerous spot, the button, yet Attaway was already dancing away, to take the sting from the punch.

DePratt led out in the opening rounds of the bout with lefts that seemed as though they would lead the Gunner to victory. Later along, he was tied up in different starts, to give Styles the opportunity to get in a few pointing blows.

Danny Davis, slated to punch it out with Ginger Jernigan, proceeded to do so. The gloves were flying so fast in this bout that one blow by the Ginger lad, landed fairly on Captain Wilson's chin, while he was breaking them from a clinch. This bout was one of the rip-snortin'est hair-raising fights that has ever been slated for a semi-final at Doughboy Stadium or the arena.

The main go follows, as recorded by the writer, blow-by-blow:

ROUND ONE

Both fighters met in the center of the ring and commenced to operate. DePratt led with two quick lefts and followed with a right cross. Attaway fell into a clinch and retaliated with a vicious right to the ribs. The Gunner let drive an awful left hook to the ribs, and Styles clinched, sending two smashing rights. They were separated again by the referee, but fell into two clinches in succession, only one blow being landed, a right to De's ribs that was hard. Attaway shot two lefts low on the body but was driven off by a hard left and right. De led with a left to the chin but was the object of a hard right by Attaway. De jabbed Styles at the bell.

ROUND TWO

Both fighters sprang to the center of the ring and exchanged left jabs, but De gained the advantage by following with a one-two punch that brought cheers from the spectators. Another exchange of lefts resulted in the Gunner getting over a hard left that made Styles clinch in order to make DePratt miss with a right that looked disastrous. They were parted and swapped with their south paws and clinched. Attaway broke away and landed a hard right to the ribs, but was forced back by a duplicate from Gunner. Gunner jabbed to the chin and crossed a hard right to the head. Attaway tried to stand him off with a left, but DePratt landed fairly with a one-two and Attaway fell into a clinch, was parted and fell into another at the bell.

ROUND THREE

DePratt landed two left hooks to Attaway's one and they fell into a clinch, exchanging rights to the body. They broke away and Attaway shot over two fast lefts to the chin, followed by a hard right to the head, taking advantage of the opening, he sent in two messages from the right side with a left to the chin. His rush was stopped by a hard right cross from the Gunner, followed by its twin in the form of a mighty hook. They clinched, but broke immediately and began to sling leather in such a fashion that no one was able to tell who had the advantage. This kept up until the bell stopped all arguments.

ROUND FOUR

DePratt walked to the center of the ring as though he was headed for a porterhouse steak, placed his left fairly on Attaway's bugle and repeated the operation exactly six times, and was about to do it again, when a hard right drove him off momentarily. They exchanged lefts, but DePratt gained the upper hand by sending over a salvo of rights that packed thunder and lightning in each trip. Attaway defended weakly with left jabs, and the Gunner worked his left with the best effect. The crowd was whooping, or making whoopee, so-to-speak, at the bell.

ROUND FIVE

Attaway jabbed, DePratt hooked, and Attaway sent over a hard right that sounded damaging, but showed little effect on the machine gunner, They started to slug but DePratt drove the Gainesville youth into a corner and forced him to clinch, or lose the fight there, and DePratt drove lefts and rights to the body and head, but was warned for holding and hitting. They were parted and Attaway shot over a light right to the dome, they exchanged lefts and DePratt scored a right to the body. They clinched, but backed away and De jabbed, brought a right from down under, square to the chin, and followed his advantage with a bell ringer at the bell.

ROUND SIX

They were fighting close, shooting everything that they had, but Attaway gained the upper hand with smashing lefts to the face. At this time, Attaway seemed to realize that the only thing that he had was a left, and proceeded to use it to a good advantage. Depratt checked his onrush of tantalizers with a hard right to the ribs, but Styles could not be denied his advantage, and continued with jabs of a little less effect. Al Durden was so excited at this part of the fight, that he chewed up two pencils and a pad of paper, and never knew it.

DerPatt opened this round with a one-two that should have put any pug in misery, but Styles merely smiled and came in to land the only left hook he had shown that was worth mentioning. DePratt then shot over a hard right to the head, one to the body and another to the head, but Attaway came in and found his right working very well, but weakly. Attaway then went back to his old tactics of jabbing, but De soon became exasperated at their frequency and shot a left hook that missed the chin by a coat of paint, but landed a right to the solar plexus that caused the Gainesville youth to grunt.

ROUND SEVEN

Styles crept to a crouch and shot a dangerous right that grazed its objective, the chin, and DePratt fought viciously with hard rights, that neither landed squarely or as intended, due to the weaving of the shifty Styles. Styles laced Gunner with left jabs and a series of rights that had the Gunner going for the better part of this round. The only blow that DePratt was able to get in after this was a weak left to the face.

ROUND EIGHT

Attaway, seeing that his left was doing all the point piling, proceeded to punch DePratt's nose with monotonous regularity. DePratt momentarily checked him with a couple of rights that looked as though the Gunner had come out of his slump and would score a K. O. Styles was too tough for that though, and kept his left constantly going.

ROUND NINE

Gunner shot two quick jabs to the snoot and followed with another, was beaten to its duplicate, but gained the advantage to land two more. Attaway seemed furious and came out of it enough to pile up points with that wonderful left. It actually resembled a snake in its quest for frogs, shooting out and back with dart-like movement. DePratt only drove him off with a series of rights, after taking punishment to get in close enough. They were clinching at the bell.

ROUND TEN

Depratt, sensing that he was in a bad position, came out and landed a quartette of rights, but was checked by a right and a left, followed by a boring in style of fighting on the part of Styles. It was at this moment that the Gunner seemed his old self, and rights and lefts flew so fast that Attaway was forced to cover in his own corner. There he was check-mated and forced to stay covered, while DePratt sagged him in the knees with hard rights that would surely have resulted in a knockout had the round been twenty seconds longer.

DECISION

A good fight, from start to finish. When these boys meet again, there will be a record crowd to see the offering of the Fort Benning Boxing Boss, Captain Wilson. He has certainly built it up, and no foolin'.

The curtain raiser was more or less of an interesting nature. Gisemont Gulley boxed and fought a decision out of the hands of Tut Tut Taylor, much to the satisfaction of a majority of the fans. Just why they were pulling against Taylor, remains to be seen. Taylor put up a good fight, and will soon be among the Benning boys in demand.

The second bout was more or less tame. Phizz Costello was unable to do anything at all with the Grinnin' Grumpy (Polo) Gordy. Grumpy looked like he will make a fighter in spite of all they can do.

Eddie Brault had his fight with Jack Pritchard going his way, but went to sleep and let the spindly lad shoot over a hard right in the second frame to take the count of nine. After that, Brault was unable to reach anything resembling a Pritchard chin, and as a result, lost the decision, after a good fight.

Now when this Doubtin' Thomas sailed into Jim Spivey, everyone expected the fight to be all in favor of the Fort Benning babe. Spivey, however, proceeded to demonstrate that they do something in Florida besides sell real estate and run rum on the coast.

Spivey is undoubtedly the best for his weight that has shown in a Benning ring. Thomas looked good in defeat, but oh my! how that Spivey could fight. Of course Spivey took the decision.

MANY GOOD POST BALL TEAMS

Now that the season is well upon us, it is time to begin to think about intra-mural baseball. There has been no official announcement that there would be an intra-mural league this season, but from the way that the different organizations are turning out in every moment of their spare time, one would judge thaat there will be some good teams organized.

The Special Units should be able to put a strong team on the field this

(Continued on page 21.)

Here's the Place to get GOODYEAR TIRES and TUBES

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

Get in the swim with a SPALDING SUIT

SPALDING Swimming Suits are seen on our best beaches. Fashionable swimmers wear these Spalding style features —shorter trunks ... low-cut back ... freer armholes ... new pastel colors. Made with Spalding skill, backed by the Spalding reputation, and priced as low as $5 and $6.

POST EXCHANGE
Fort Benning, Ga.

MANY GOOD POST BALL TEAMS

(Continued from page 20.)

year. With the welcome additions from the Engineers, the veteran Tolle, and what the Quartermaster and Chemical Warfare have to offer, there will be few that can make them eat dirt.

The Second Battalion will have practically their team of last year on the field again, with the possible exception of "Fat" Franz. It is even rumored that the round boy will be back with us. He is awful inquisitive about the situation.

The First Battalion will probably have a better team than they had last year. They have lost no men and have made a few rather valuable gains. It would not be surprising to see them hand the Kellies a few lickings this season.

Few reports can be gained from the Fifteenth Tank Battalion and the Eighty-third Field Artillery Battalion. It is probable that they will again this year fill the field with valuable material.

The Twenty-fourth Infantry Reds and Blues should have excellent teams on the field. They have been playing for the past two months, with all getting into the games. Their fielding hasn't been so good so far, neither has that of the opposing teams. By the 15th of June they should begin to field faultlessly. One of these two teams will undoubtedly win the trophy in the class league that they enter.

SOUTHERN TENNIS STARS TO PLAY IN BENNING MEET

Jack Mooney, Malon Courts, and Jack Simpson three of Atlanta's leading tennis stars have entered the Fort Benning amateur tennis tournament to be held this week end. In addition to these three players, ten other Atlanta racket wielders have already signified their intention of invading Fort Benning in quest of tennis honors.

Last year Mooney ranked 5th, Courts 6th, and Simpson 11th, in the Southern tennis ranking. With a number of other leading southern players yet to be heard from, the Fort Benning authorities are, with the addition of the best Fort and Columbus racket talent, already assured of one of the classiest tennis tournaments to be held in the entire south this summer.

Mooney has been one of the South's leading tennis stars for several years. This year, according to the form he has displayed at Augusta and elsewhere, he has raised his game to a notch never heretofore achieved and it is believed by many that he stands an excellent chance of forcing his way through such stars as Grant, Murray, Cram, and Feuer to the southern championship.

If Mooney and Grant come together in the present tournament, the resulting game should be worth going miles to see. Although Grant is the ranking players in the South, Mooney's game is much flashier from the spectator's standpoint. Mooney plays an aggressive game from the start to the finish and mixes up forehand chops and back hand slices with telling effect. He plays equally well either from the base line or the mid-court positions, and his volleys either from the mid-court or net positions are usually deadly.

Courts is being heralded by many as having a great tennis future. As a stylist there are few players in the South in his class. Unlike Grant and Mooney, Courts plays a deep court driving game. He relies on placement and pace to uncover his opponent's weakness, and allow him to gain the net where his volleying is usually conclusive.

Jack Simpson has been one of Atlanta's leading players for several years. His game is well grounded and his steadiness is such as to cause him to be regarded as one of the best five set players in the south.

Owing to the large number of entries, and to the fact that the tournament will be run off in four days, the Fort Benning authorities have decided to reserve courts one and two for the principal matches, supplementing them with courts five, six and eight for the early rounds.

The head groundkeeper, Sergeant O'Hara, has been busy with a detail for some days making special preparations for the tournament, and he states that he expects to have all the courts in the best condition of the year by Thursday.

The mixed doubles of the post tournament will be played off as a special event of the open tournament either on Saturday or Sunday.

The doubles between Withers and Withers against Hedekin and Bassett were postponed Saturday until later in the week with the score tied at one all in the first set. Both games were love one, neither side being able to score against the opponents' service.

POLO TEAM ON WAY TO WASHINGTON

The Fort Benning polo squad left Tuesday morning for Washington, where it will take part in the War Department tournament which begins on June 10. The following players went: Major Lyman, Capt. McClure, Lts. Jacobs, Bartlett, Van Houten and Grubbs. The ponies left Monday night in charge of Lt. Grubbs.

While in Washington, the team expects to play the War Department, the 3rd Cavalry, the 16th Field Artillery, Middleburg and Fort Humphreys. This is the first trip of such length that a Benning polo team has made.

NASH Leads the World in Automobile Value.

Setting New Standards

Among Popular Priced Sixes

The only car today in any price field embodying the following important features:

Salon Bodies
Twin Ignition Motor
Bohnalite Invar-Strut Pistons
Hollow Crankpin 7-bearing Crankshaft
Houdaille and Lovejoy Hydraulic and Lovejoy Torsional Vibration Damper
Double Drop Frame
Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubricating System
All Exterior Ware Chrome Plated Over Nickel
Longer Wheelbase
New Easy Steering Mechanism

Edge-Fuller Motor Co.

1309 Broadway Phone 67

100 per cent NASH Service

Everybody says— "TAKE EXERCISE!" ..For the same good reason~ pause and refresh yourself

8 MILLION A DAY

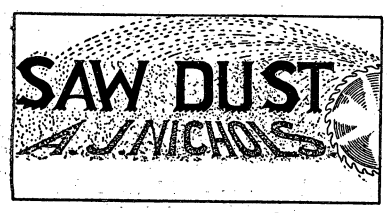
Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

No tonic like exercise to make you feel good. But how few of us can get time for it these high-pressure days . . . Yet, millions of busy people have learned a delightful, sensible way to keep themselves fit. It's the pause that refreshes, when they relax for a minute to enjoy an ice-cold, tingling, delicious Coca-Cola . . . You can't be too rushed or too busy to find a minute for this happy break now and then every day and the reward you'll find in Coca-Cola's cool, after-sense of refreshment.

Columbus Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

Telephone 360

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS



By A. J. Nichols

We risk incurring the displeasure of several subscribers of the News by once more breaking into print. There is no real reason for this outburst, so those who want to stop reading now may do so.

Not long ago, the War Department broke in upon our little reverie with orders for Panama. Naturally, the realization that we must leave Benning has been quite a shock to us. There is every reason, according to our point of view, why we should remain at Benning. First is our home 'DONEBUILDIN'. It is going to be very, very hard, indeed, to leave our estate on Lumpkin Road. Almost every board and every shingle has a history, and if blessed with the power of speech, could tell their own story of the difficulties encountered in their procurement. One must live in a house before it becomes a home and there is considerable more in Quarters 20-T-17 than the time, effort and money expended in its construction. There are other reasons for our not wanting to leave Benning. There is our company, than which there is no finer in the United States Army; our horse, Pollyanna; our dogs, Snoopy and Toodles; and last but by no means least a host of very dear friends. Ours no longer to enjoy the sage writings of "Good Morning," interpersed with wisdom, philosphy and sometimes questionable humor. It is indeed going to be difficult to leave our station for the past four years but 'c'est la guerre.'

We are expecting T. W.* home next week and as a personal favor to us, will the ladies who left the following articles at our house during the past two months kindly call and claim the same: 1 book (Silas Bradford's Boy); 1 umbrella (lavender); 4 assorted and variously perfumed handerchiefs; 3 vanities; 1 comb; numerous hairpins ranging from brunette to pale blond and other items which we consider advisable not to mention. Negative reports are desired so that this matter will be taken care of properly.

When we exhibited our machine gun cart in the recent horseshow one of our friends among the fair sex wanted to know whether or not it was a kitchen. You can't beat them, can you?

*The Wife.

RED LINDSEY RETURNS!

Just a short time ago, early in March, to be more exact, Sergeant Horace L. Lindsey purchased his discharge. At that time he left Fort Benning and set up in business at South Jacksonville, Florida.

Today he returned to Fort Benning and now is a full fledged recruit in the 15th Tank Battalion. It is rumored that "Red" will cast his fortunes with Company "C" from now on. We are glad to welcome him back to duty. He is an outstanding Tanker, a first class soldier and a clean, hard playing athlete.

DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

(Continued from page 11.)

approval, this program is followed by the test officer until the test is completed unless, as is sometimes found, amendments to it become necessary during the course of a test.

The greater part of the tests made by the Department of Experiment are practical in nature. The department is not equipped to make laboratory tests. Ordinarily, these will have been accomplished elsewhere before a given project is received. Many tests require the use of a larger personnel than the department possesses. These are, in general, referred to one of the organizations of the garrison, whose commanding officer designates an organization to cooperate with the test officer in the completion of the test. The bulk of these go to the 29th Infantry. Help is also received from the various sections of the academic department. Some tests, particularly those of individual clothing and equipment, require a year or more for completion.

As soon as the actual experimental work is done, the test officer prepares the data compiled and results obtained, submits it to analysis, and arrives at whatever conclusions are logically pointed. He then prepares a tentative report of test, which is a complete summary of the project, the tests, the results obtained, and the findings arrived at. Included also in the report are suggested changes which have been brought out by the test.

When this tentative report is approved by the director, it is then prepared for his signature in final draft with such drawings and photographs as may be necessary and sent to the Infantry Board. The board then studies the report, makes such recommendations as it sees fit, and forwards the report to the Chief of Infantry.

While most of the projects handled by the Department of Experiment are received by it from outside sources, occasionally some member of the department originates a project. These, if their development warrants, are completed as tests and forwarded in the same manner as other projects.

Perhaps the most important projects handled by the department in the past year have been those concerned with antiaircraft firing and training, and with the semi-automatic rifle. The antiaircraft project has included the development of infantry offense and defense against airplanes from every angle. Firing and training methods for riflemen have been completed and sent forward. Much of this report has been embodied in Tentative Training Regulations 300-5, which has been printed and distributed. That part of the project which deals with the machine gun has not yet been completed. Along this line, however, considerable progress has been made. The whole project is one of many ramifications and one which requires long and intense study and experiment.

The semi-automatic rifle project was completed several months ago and sent forward. It resulted in the recommendation for adoption of the Pedersen, caliber .276, semi-automatic rifle, to replace the present issue Springfield type.

The following partial list of other projects gives an idea of the variety of investigations conducted by the department: trucks, field glasses, raincoats, water carts, flashlights, sitogoniometers, pliers, trench coats, recoil compensators, compasses, ammunition, radio sets, field desks, machine gun carts, trench mortars, campaign hats, and gallery targets.

It is the custom of the Department of Experiment to present a display and brief outline of projects then in hand for officers of the army who come to Fort Benning to take a refresher course. By this means these officers are informed of the latest developments in the infantry. Similar presentations are made for other visiting notables whenever it is deemed desirable. The Chief of Infantry, Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, after recently visiting the department and reviewing its projects, made the following remark: "Fort Benning has a company officers' course for lieutenants and captains, an advanced course for field officers, and also a refresher course for colonels and generals. I am glad to find out that the Department of Experiment is now putting on a course for the Chief of Infantry."

FIFTH SECTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 11.)

the particular subject. The importance of the mailing list as a means of disseminating new doctrines and methods throughout the service cannot be overemphasized, and its growing popularity is evidenced by the fact that in the past five years the number of subscribers has grown from 636 to 1736.

The drafting committee turned out 468 completed jobs as compared with 456 for the last academic year. These tasks consisted of 11 paper tracings, 57 cloth tracings, one oil painting, 7 art posters, 27 letter charts, one landscape chart, 70 diagram charts, 83 pen and ink drawings, 5 pencil drawings, 33 map enlargements, 60 mimeograph stencils, and 21 signs. The individual sheets, charts, drawings, stencils and signs required by these jobs amounted to a total of 2909. In addition the committee performed many duties in connection with the task of supervising and coordinating all lithographic and photo-engraving work performed by Company A 7th Engineers, which consisted in the printing of approximately 137,000 copies of special maps and overlays.

One of the big tasks of the fifth section is the publishing, assembling and stitching of all mimeographed instructional matter issued by the academic department. During the past year such work consumed approximately 3,250 reams of paper and 500 cans of ink.

Under the reorganization of the academic department to be effected the present fifth and a part of the fourth sections will be merged and will be known as the fourth section. With this change the section will enter the teaching field, as it will be charged with the conduct of the courses in military history, instructional methods and principles of teaching, conduct of conferences, public speaking, argumentation and debate, and parliamentary procedure. This will all be in addition to the duties of the past year. There will be only an increase of one in the present personnel to conduct this additional work.

We will trade your Used Car and deliver you a new
DODGE BROTHERS
Car any place in the UNITED STATES or its possessions.
W. T. Heard
Dodge Brothers Inc.
Cor. 15th St. and 1st Ave.
PHONE 2683

STARTERS
GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.
COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.
1418—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Rices, Grits, Milks, Chocolates Cocoa
Always Fresh
C. D. Kenny Co.
1139 Broadway
PHONE 162

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.
Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.
Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

WELL DONE
Is what we would say to those who have successfully finished their course at the Infantry School. May we wish you happiness and success in your new assignments.
To those who are coming we will look forward to an early visit from you on your arrival, promising you a service and courtesy that has been the Hubbard Creed since its organization.
To those who remain, we will endeavor to make firmer the bonds of friendship the longer you remain.
HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE

FIRST SECTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 10.)

ducted fundamentally from the tactical viewpoint; but to consider such a problem as the establishment of a bridgehead beyond an unfordable stream in the face of an enemy determined to resist such an aggressive movement, without regard to the difficulties imposed by such requirements as those of supply and transportation and by such limitations as the number, range, and effectiveness of the weapons and other means at hand, would be a sterile half-way process without practical value in a course of training and instruction. And so the conduct or solution of a single tactical problem proposed by the First section may dip deeply into the questions of ammunition supply and evacuation of wounded as taught by the Second section; the range, rate of fire, and effectivness for overhead indirect fire, of machine guns as taught by the Third section; and the lessons of history contained in the failures and successes of leaders of the past as taught by the Fourth section. Small wonder that the military student spending his year at the Infantry School will argue and debate at any place and any time the tactical soundness or unsoundness of any solution, whether proposed by the school or one of his associates, in conflict with his own.

While the fundamental principles of tactics, despite the humor with which their enunciation is from time to time regarded, are in fact immutable in their character, their application in the infinite variety of situations and under the constantly changing conditions of battle and of the means employed in combat, is subject to ever-changing modification, justifiable always by those varied situations and by those changing conditions. It is here, then, that the First Section is steadily endeavoring to formulate and impart doctrines in conformance to which the competence of our infantry leaders may be as steadily increased.

To any one who has followed the development of the instruction in tactics throughout the years since the establishment of the Infantry School at the close of the World War, the progress in the establishment and application of those doctrines has been without parallel in its succes. The prospects for further progress are bright in proof thereof, one needs only a glance at the changed and actually eager attitude with which members of the infantry branch of our Army have in the past few years come to regard a detail as student at the Infantry School.

The future of war is something about which we can at best only conjecture, guided only by the lessons which the history of past wars has taught. But with the constant accomplishments of the solid service performed by such agencies as the First Section, we can rest assured that our infantry leaders of the future will be better prepared than were those of the past.

SECOND SECTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 10.)

guard with proper infantry signal communications methods and technique.

Beginning with the new school year, the Second Section loses the subjects combat orders, command and staff, and organization to the First Section, but as a recompense gains training, army of the United States, close order drill, military courtesy and customs of the service, equitation, animal management and transportation, and physical training.

From the foregoing, it can be seen that the Second Section handles a hodge podge of subjects, but in reality and fundamentally they all come under the same heading—technique. All of them are designed with but one purpose, and that is to assist the infantryman forward on the battle field.

THIRD SECTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 10.)

propriate finish for this course, the class computes the data and fires a barrage, one half of the class observing while the other section mans the guns. The barrage is then repeated, after shifting the two sections of the class.

Throughout the direct—and indirect-laying courses, much practical work in the use of fire-control instruments is had. An additional course in instruments is provided, in which special emphasis is placed on the making of proper adjustments and use of the range finder and the use of the artillery aiming circle, the latter now being issued to machine gun companies. The use of machine guns in the scheme of antiaircraft defense is then discussed and a complete demonstration on training is given, concluding with firing at sleeve targets towed by airplanes.

The course in machine gun combat practice includes several problems involving the section and platoon. After short conferences, in which the correct doctrines are reviewed, the class proceeds to work out the problems on the ground. Members of the class fill all positions in the platoon or section.

Several conferences and demonstrations along special lines are interspersed through the course. For example, the method of teaching direct and indirect laying by the use of landscape targets is explained and demonstrated. The caliber .50 machine gun is exhibited, the points wherein it differs from the caliber .30 are explained, and it is fired against armor-plate.

Completing the course in machine guns, the class proceeds to the study of the howitzer-company weapons. The methods of instruction and the handling of this course closely parallel that in machine guns. The 37-mm gun is first tackled, beginning with mechanical training and drill, followed in order by direct laying, indirect laying, and combat practice. The 3-inch trench mortar comes in for its share of attention and is handled exactly as outlined for the 37-mm gun.

Due attention is given to new developments of howitzer-company weapons. While the course is based on the old weapons, which will no doubt be in the hands of troops for some time, students are given an opportunity to study, examine, and witness the firing of the latest 37-mm gun and the new 75-mm mortar.

During the school year 1928-1929, physical training was handled in the third section. The reorganization of the Academic Department, however, places that subject in the second section. Instruction in individual and collective protection against gas is given under the supervision of the chief of the section by the chemical warfare service officer stationed at Fort Benning. He also demonstrates the equipment and agencies of that service to the various classes.

The section works in close cooperation with the 29th Infantry, the Department of Experiment, and the Infantry Board on all new projects and tests pertaining to infantry small-arms weapons. The officers of the section have just completed writing the appropriate sections for the new field manual, and the members of the machine-gun and howitzer committee will soon complete a revision of all training regulations pertaining to their weapons.

Class work and demonsrtations in the third section are highly organized and carefully planned along lines peculiar to the handling of weapons. This assures a maximum of instruction in the allotted time, a feature which has caused much favorable comment during and following the instruction in this section.

The ultimate purpose of all military training is effectiveness in war, with a view to insuring the domestic peace and the international security of our people.

IT'S !★?—!★

if your shoes annoy you while drilling

WHETHER drilling or on a furlough, your shoes play an important part. Correctly fitting shoes are essential for both occasions in which Kinney's New Army Shoes excel. Fashioned from high grade Tan Calfskin Leather, with Goodyear Welt construction thruout and Rubber Heels, these fine shoes will give you the utmost in Foot-Comfort and Service at all times.

Kinney Shoes

OVER 300 FAMILY STORES G.R.KINNEY CO., INC. 5 BIG FACTORIES

1140 Broadway Phone 3016

Motoring—

If you expect to motor to your new station or while on leave this summer, you should join your local motor club and enjoy the services of the American Automobile Association with 1200 clubs in the United States.

AAA

Chattahoochee Valley Motor Club

FORT BENNING BRANCH

Office at Post Exchange Garage

NATIONAL GUARD SPECIALISTS GRADUATE

The national guard enlisted specialists class graduated yesterday, after having completed their three months' course at the Infantry School. The class consisted of forty-seven men, from forty-two states, and Porto Rico.

At the exercises, Captain Pearson, instructor in field communication, delivered an address, and General King, the commandant, made a short talk and awarded the diplomas.

The class roll follows: Master Sergeants Bricker, Danner, Davis, Fox, LeBeau, Lewain, Logan, Manley, Merrell, Rueff, Scarborough, Sullivan, Stiles, Walters, and Worley. First Sergeants McGill, Miles, Roeger, Wood. Technical Sergeants Callahan, Dalton, Hedman, Nimmo. Staff Sergeants Haydon, Howard, Livermore, Lydon, Maxwell, Rowe, Seijo, Smith, Wilson, Yeager. Sergeants Booker, Brittingham, Ciccone, Coyle, Faust, Haakenson, Hulse, Lynch, McCord, McLain, Whittle, and Waycott. Private First Class Dallmer.

GOLF GOSSIP

By V. G. H.

We announce, with great pleasure, another noble accomplishment on our links by Captain "Rustemeyer," who now becomes a bona fide member of that exclusive coterie of divot diggers, The Hole-in-One Club, he having qualified by closing his eyes on No. 5 tee and with malice aforethought deliberately capturing a "Dodo." (hrrrm, has the ginger-ale arrived yet, Rusty?)

While most of the "veterans" of the fairways are out seeking solace in the vicinity of "Harmony" church and accumulating a choice assortment of tactical knowledge, red bugs and the vernacular of embryo Wallingfords, Karakhans, Prestons and other great leaders of "modern warfare," the Home Guard enjoyed another week-end bogey tournament, and, according to the score card (and Ham) some "neat but not gaudy" figures were recorded.

Last Monday Mrs. V. G. Huskea assembled a group of mashie-wielding lady golfers for a flag-tournament and it would seem that a good time was had by all; those participating were Mrs. E. E. Lewis, Mrs. C. W. Ryder, Mrs. C. A. Shamotulski, Mrs. W. G. Livesay, Mrs. J. E. Dahlquist, Miss Daisy Reed, Mrs. James Taylor, Mrs. J. J. Wilson, Mrs. E. E. Walker, Mrs. W. T. Scott, Mrs. H. A. Wear, Mrs. W. E. Donegan, Mrs. R. B. Lovett and Mrs. C. P. Hall. The prize winners of this event were; Mrs. Shamotulski, first; Mrs. Wear, second, and Mrs. Wilson, third.

ARTILLERY R. O. T. C. IN CAMP AT BENNING

As the student classes are moving out after graduation, the R. O. T. C. will be filling up for a short course at Benning. Artillery units of the southeastern states will be represented at the camp which opened today.

Already, a few of those from the following schools have arrived: University of Tennessee, University of Alabama, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Georgia Tech. Students from the Fourth Corps Area, and a few from Mississippi and South Carolina will attend the school. There will be about two hundred in attendance.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

The closing exercises of the Fort Benning Children's School, attended by a large audience of parents and friends of the pupils, were held in the Main Theatre on Friday morning, May 31st. The commandant addressed the graduating class and presented the diplomas to those who had completed the course. General King, in his remarks to the pupils, stressed the value of education to all in this age and urged the graduates to continue the work of fitting themselves properly for the struggles of life by acquiring a maximum of education. The spirit of the personnel of the garrison in solving the local school problem with the facilities at hand and the excellent work of the teaching staff were highly lauded by the general in his address.

The members of the class of 1929 are Samuel Parran Card, Jessie Mae Floyd, Gaines Shirley, Marcus De Lafayette O'Neal, Jr., Louise Perrine Ryder, Cynthia Maxine Lindroth, and Marie Louise Willard. Diplomas presented to the graduates will admit them to the Columbus high schools in the fall, as the Fort Benning school is fully recognized by the educational authorities in the nearby community.

Chaplain Frank L. Rosenthal was present on the stage and delivered the invocation for the opening of the ceremonies, and an orchestra, furnished through the kindness of the commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, rendered musical numbers during the program. Mrs. Campbell King occupied a seat in the front row of the audience and her presence was an inspiration to the children in the various drills and dances which made up the entertainment feature of the exercises.

The teaching staff suffered the loss of four teachers at the close of the school year by reason of the fact that Miss Elizabeth Mizell and Mrs. Annabel Thomason have been elected to positions with the Columbus Public School, and Miss Lucy Hardee resigned in order to accompany her brother, Lieut. David L. Hardee, on his change of station to the Philippine Islands.

The staff for the coming scholastic year will consist of Miss Annie Lou Grimes, Miss Charlotte Storey and Miss Elizabeth Phillips, who have all been reappointed, with the addition of Miss Lillian Wells, Miss Emma Stevens, Miss Sara Kennon and Miss Gertrude Ansley, who have been designated to fill existing vacancies.

TO OUR FRIENDS AT FT. BENNING— AND OTHERS

To those of you whom we have known, and served, we wish to express our appreciation for the consideration shown us, and your good-will, and to those leaving us for other stations, our best wishes for a pleasant journey and the work you like best at the end.

To the friends remaining, we ask a continuance of our pleasant relations, with the renewed assurance of our wish to serve you satisfactorily.

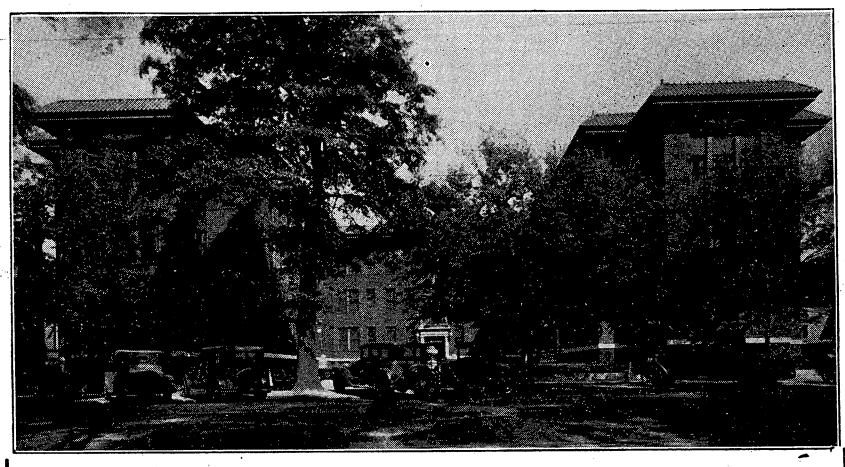
For the incoming Officers, we extend a cordial invitation to call on us whenever we can serve you, and to make this "your hardware store."

If we can be of any service before your arrival, please let us know.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

Columbus, Georgia



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.

Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962

W. R. M. Palmer

Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

60 YEARS Selling Telephone

In Montevallo 98

COLUMBUS COAL Philips

Ford

TO THOSE officers who are leaving Fort Benning we extend our sincere wishes for your success and that we may see you again soon.

To Incoming Officers:

We invite you to visit us on your arrival and to make our place

YOUR HEADQUARTERS

Burrus Motor & Tractor Company

Phone 3100 1216 1st Ave.

B. A. ANSLEY, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.

Authorized Ford Dealers

Congratulations!

Student Officers

We wish to thank the student officers and their families for their patronage at our store during the past year. It has been a real pleasure for us to have had the opportunity of serving you while stationed at Fort Benning.

We extend to you our best wishes for a pleasant assignment, and we sincerely hope that you may some time in the future return to Fort Benning and our city.

H. ROTHSCHILD

Furniture Store Columbus, Ga.

Sears, Roebuck and Co.

STORE HOURS:
8 A. M. to 6 P. M.
Saturday Till 9

RETAIL STORE
1008 Broadway

Free Tire Mounting
Free Battery Installation

ANNOUNCING!
Greater Savings During This Nation-Wide Sale

12 Million Customers

Share in Our NATION

WIDE

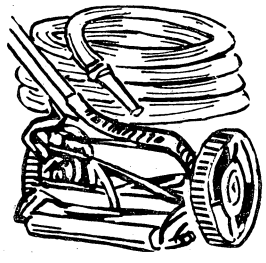
Low Prices

NOW IN PROGRESS

Sears, Roebuck and Co. Retail Stores opened their Nation-Wide Sale last week (Saturday). The whole-hearted patronage of our customers (last year they actually numbered more than 12 million) makes it possible for us to offer you even greater than usual savings during this period.

An idea of the economy in buying at our stores may be gained from the values advertised on this page. But only a personal visit can show you how consistent the high quality, how substantial the savings

LAWN MOWERS



$7.25 Strong, sturdy, dependable mower — open wheel type. Fitted with Chrome alloy steel ball bearings. 9-inch wheels — 4 revolving cutting blades.

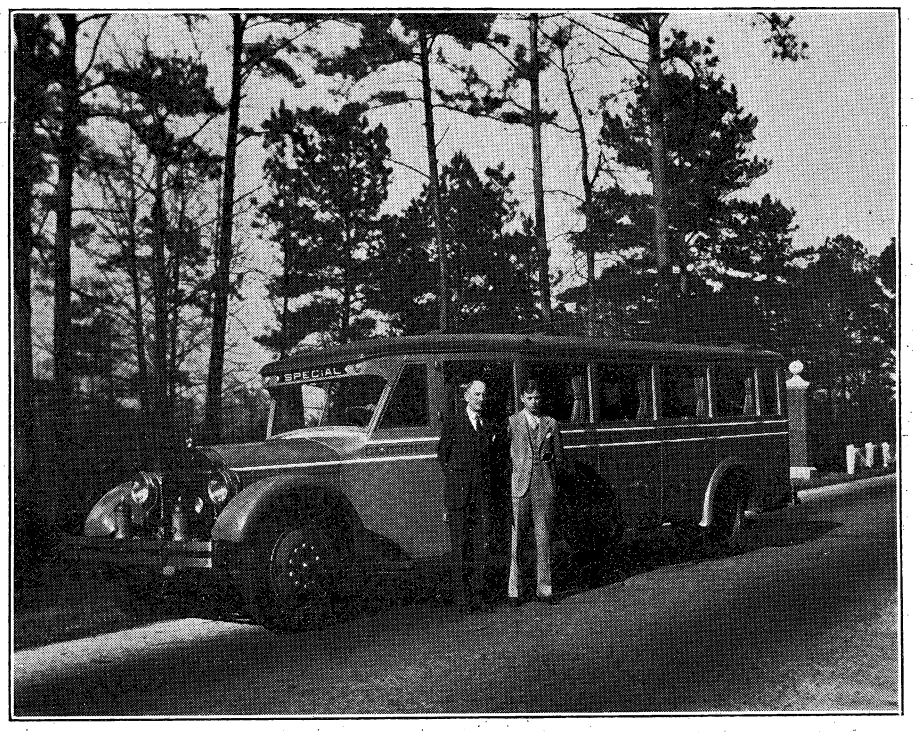
Garden Hose

A complete outfit! — 50 ft. 5/8 inch "Not-A-Kink" black corrugated hose, brass nozzle, brass couplings and washers. $3.95

To the Student Officers:

of the Graduating Classes

We are happy to have served you through a successful school year and wish you every success in your new assignment.



Above is a scene on the Fort Benning Boulevard between Columbus and Fort Benning. You will note one of our new Mack Parlor Buses. They are painted Infantry colors. They are equipped with Lovejoy shock absorbers rear, and Westinghouse front. Also rubber shock insulated spring shackles and pneumatic tires all around. We think our buses are the safest and most comfortable in service, anywhere.

To the Incoming Student Officers: of the 1929-1930 Classes

We extend to you a hearty welcome to Fort Benning and Columbus.

We are desirous of serving you and hope that you will find our schedules convenient.

We operate a number of Packards, supplementing the bus service.

HOWARD BUS LINE, Inc.

PHONE—CITY 410

T. C. CRAWFORD, President
"Sincerity in Service"

PHONE—POST 224

D 731.86
.B 24 bU 31764

BARLONE

FRENCH OFFICER'S DIARY

Q3811 1943

Macmillan Co.

Genoa Stanford

Infantry News 1929

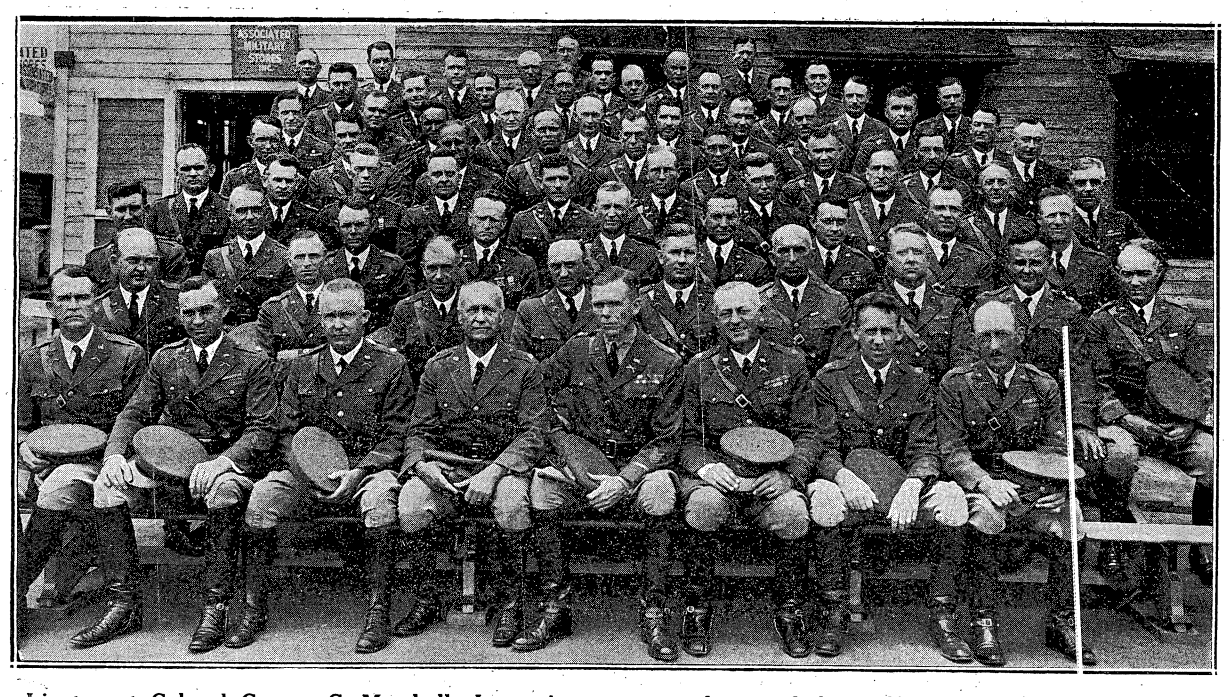
June 19, 1929 Class picture 1928-9

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JUNE 14, 1929 Number 39

Simple Exercises End Academic Year Infantry School

FACULTY OF INFANTRY SCHOOL, 1928-1929



Lieutenant Colonel George C. Marshall, Jr., assistant commandant, and the staff of instructors whose active duties for the academic year ended last Tuesday when 235 students were graduated from the Infantry school.

R. O. T. C. CAMP OPENS AT FORT BENNING

Friday, June 7, marked the official opening of the R. O. T. C. Camp at Fort Benning. Major John T. Kennedy, Field Artillery, is in command of the camp again this year. Serving as adjutant and athletic and recreation officer is Lieutenant G. B. Barth, also on duty with the field artillery unit at Auburn.

Four schools are represented at the camp this year, the entire artillery battery coming from Auburn; the engineer company being made up of boys from Auburn, the University of Alabama, and the University of Tennessee; while all the students of the ordnance and signal companies are from Georgia Tech.

Capt. E. T. Barco, of the University of Florida, is in command of the battery of field artillery. Captain B. H. Bowley, of Auburn, is the head of the engineers. The ordnance and signal corps units from Georgia Tech are commanded by Captain A. H. Skinner and Lt. E. R. Wells, respectively.

The total enrollment is in the neighborhood of 190 men, about 135 of whom are from Auburn. Each of the other schools has about twenty.

Details of the military, social and athletic activities for the camp are being rapidly completed.

During the encampment, the engineer company will fire on the rifle range, bridge the Chattahoochee River, and make a four day hike. The field artillery battery will take over horses and guns

(Continued on page 2.)

1929 GRADUATES ASSIGNED TO MANY PLACES

Assignments of graduate officers of the 1928-29 classes send them to many different localities and duties in the United States and at foreign stations.

The distribution of the infantry officer graduates is as follows:

Command & General Staff School, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas	32
Phillippine Dept.	19
Hawaiian Dept.	6
Panama Canal Dept.	6
Ft. Sam Houston, Texas	6
Jefferson Bks., Mo.	3
Madison Bks., N. Y.	3
Ft. Snelling, Minn.	4
Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.	3
Ft. Adams, R. I.	2
Plattsburg Bks., N. Y.	3
Ft. Niagara, N. Y.	2
China	5
Ft. McPherson, Ga.	5
Ft. Benning, Ga.	17
Carlisle Bks., Pa.	1
Ordnance School Philadelphia, Pa.	1
Tank School, Ft. Geo. Meade, Md.	7
Ft. Geo. Meade, Md.	1
Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.	8
Cavalry School, Ft. Riley, Kansas	1
Ft. Riley, Kansas	1
Ft. Thomas, Ky.	3
Ft. Hamilton, N. Y.	4
Ft. Hunt, Va.	1
Ft. Geo. Wright, Wash.	1
Ft. Eustis, Va.	1
Ft. Moultrie, S. C.	2
Ft. Crook, Neb.	2
Presidio of San Francisco, Calif.	3

(Continued on page 12.)

CHIEF OF ARTILLERY VISITING INF. SCHOOL

The Chief of Field Artillery, Major General F. T. Austin, arrived at Fort Benning at 12:30 p. m., Thursday, June 13th, for a short visit. He will be the guest of the commandant General King, during his stay at Ft. Benning.

$120,000 FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS AT FORT

Approximately $120,000 will be spent on road improvements at Fort Benning within the next few weeks it was announced today by Lt. W. M. Allison, Constructing Quartermaster at Fort Benning. The improvements contemplate repairing and surfacing 8,200 of Vibbert Avenue and Lumpkin Road, with reinforced concrete slab with curb, inlets and drainage.

Three widths of roadway will be comprised in the improvements as follows: 5,200 feet will be 32 feet in width; 800 feet will be 40 feet in width; and 2,200 feet will be 20 feet in with.

In addition to improvements of the main thoroughfares 2,000 feet of roadway in the area of the new hospital will be similarly improved with the addition of 1000 feet of concrete sidewalk and 1,000 feet of retaining walls, all with the necessary drainage. The estimated cost of road improvements in the hospital area is $25,000.

Bids for both projects will be opened by Lt. Allison, constructing quartermaster of Fort Benning, June 20.

GENERAL KING DELIVERS ADDRESS TO GRADUATING CLASSES

Simple, yet impressive, exercises marked the program which was held in the Main Theatre, Fort Benning, and which officially closed the academic year of the army's largest service school.

Brig. Gen. Campbell King, commandant Infantry School, addressed 235 graduates of the Infantry School during the commencement program June 11, 1929, as follows:

"Members of the Graduating Regular Army Classes of 1929 of the Infantry School, ladies and gentlemen:

"In assembling here today for the twelfth annual graduation exercises of the regular classes, we are actuated by a variety of conflicting emotions—pride in the successful conclusion of a difficult year's work, regret at the necessity for breaking pleasant bonds formed during the school year, anticipation at the prospect of new posts and new assignments, and pleasure and feelings of relaxation at the beginning of leave.

"It has not been my privilege to spend the entire school year with you, but the short month I have been here has had compressed within it the high tension moments of the final hours of your classroom work and the period of the camp and command post terrain exercises. This has been sufficient to accomplish two results within my own mind. It has shown me the strong sense of duty and the desire to improve yourselves to the highest possible point, which has actuated each of you, and it has given me increased enthusiasm for the Infantry School.

"Young in years though this institution may be, it is already acquiring traditions which many far older institutions might envy. There is today in our army scarcely an officer who does not recognize the important role the Infantry School is performing in training our officers and perfecting our national military policy. Its mere size alone, and the volume of graduates passing out each year to the various components of the army should give it a preeminent role among its sister service institutions. But numbers have never been the motto of Benning; we have sought in every way possible to make the quality of the instruction here preeminent. Such an ideal is difficult to achieve. We do believe, however, that each year has seen an improvement in the quality of our instruction, an increasing readiness by the school to adopt new ideas, and a growing enthusiasm on the part of the thousands of officers passing through this institution to accept the ideas here formulated and to pass them on to the army as a whole.

"It has been said of many civil educational institutions in this country, that their strength lies in their graduate bodies. Benning is no exception. The loyalty of the graduates of this school has become proverbial in the army, and probably no single factor in the infantry arm has done as much to raise the morale of the infantry and give it that cohesive strength, which often seemed lacking prior to the establishment of this school.

SIMPLE EXERCISES END ACADEMIC YEAR

"It is indeed a great pleasure, at this, my first commencement here at Benning, to welcome you into the great ranks of Benning graduates. I shall not ask for your continued loyalty to this institution, for I know it will be cheerfully given.

"It would be less than fitting, however, at this time not to comment on the really exceptional enthusiasm and earnestness which you gentlemen have displayed toward the instruction this year. The future of the infantry is indeed safe, if you will only continue to display those same qualities in whatever fields of activity to which you are called in the future. I betray no secret when I say that your records as classes have no equal in the history of the school, Such results cannot but instill in every officer an optimism with respect to the future of our infantry and of our army.

"Probably no more serious mistake could be made on our part than to leave you today with the idea that you have acquired the last words as to the technique and tactics of the infantry arm. To the best of our ability we have passed before you the present status of infantry methods. We are each day, however, increasingly aware that a revolution in methods of warfare impends, as startling and far reaching as was the French revolution in the political sphere. We are standing today at the portals of a new military era. No one can foretell with certainty, where the path will lead us. Military history tells us that prior to the 20th century, infantry was reorganized, reequipped and rearmed every hundred years. Each such change in armanent and organization brought with it a revolution in methods of tactics and technique, even though the underlying principles of war remained unchanged.

"With the dawn of the 20th century, scientific development throughout the world speeded up. New inventions and improvements appeared in increasing numbers and at lessening intervals. Today this scientific development is almost continuous. It places an added burden on our profession, if our nation is to retain the great role it has acquired in world affairs. It is essential for each of us seriously to study new scientific developments, primarily to find their application to the infantry in combat, and secondarily their general relation to national defense as a whole.

"The World War, and in particular the year-long stalemate on the Western front, shattered for a time the long-held confidence of military men in the advantages of offensive combat. The decried defensive proved its worth, and for three years numerically superior armies on the western front were checked by far smaller forces on the defensive. The success of the defensive during these years was due primarily to the application of modern scientific developments to tactics, particularly those having to do with increased fire power by automatic weapons. Not until 1918, and then only partially, did the offensive regain its traditional prestige. Still today, all armies of the world stand under the shadow cast by the experiences of the World War. We are still groping toward methods which will restore to offensive action its old decisive qualities, and in particular how to revive battlefield mobility. We are dimly aware of the role the infantry tank played in the closing scenes of the war. We feel today that its development has hardly begun. The future is a closed book, which we must open and read therein.

"Transport each year is becoming more and more motorized throughout our country. Rates of movement and production are being speeded up, with each new scientific development. It is inconceivable that armies will remain indifferent to these changes.

"It is evident that in the changes going on in this respect in and around us, lies the probable key for restoring mobility on the battlefield and in the theatres of war. Increased motorization is evident. The mechanized army may still be a dim dream of the future, but each year it is becoming a more alarming dream to such of us as see the summation of all military development still centered on the methods of the World War. For the future we must learn to think and to work in hours and minutes instead of days and weeks.

"Here at Benning this year your instruction has been primarily, and naturally, in the existing methods, with a mere suggestion of the new. We do not yet understand the methods and capabilities of those new weapons now in process of development. We must start with a thorough knowledge of what we now have. Only by a thorough grounding in what is proven can we reach out and estimate the value of that which is still uncertain.

"One thing seems inevitable. The developments in ordnance, air material and motor vehicles will not leave the infantry untouched. Wherever possible, these developments must be made our own, if we are to retain in the future the dominant role which infantry has played in the past. As infantry officers we should so train ourselves, that should another war come, we need not confine ourselves to the weapons now on hand in the army, but understand and know how to apply those other means, which modern science has made available for the army, even though they may not be listed in our equipment tables. This mental attitude we have sought this year to develop in you. The course you have just completed we hope suggests many possibilities. They can, however, only bear fruit, if you view this day, in the fullest sense of the word as Commencement Day. You can be loyal to this school and to the infantry, only if you follow the future development of the infantry, and contribute your portion thereto.

"A word of caution, however. Do not jump from the actual of today to the theoretical of tomorrow. Do not forget that one role of our army is to be prepared to fight now, not ten years hence. But we can only with peril to our country shut our eyes to the changes passing before us. Whatever occurs you must retain the ability we have tried to give you this year, to estimate the situation correctly, make your decision soundly and swiftly and capably direct the execution of the plan.

"One final reminder. You are leaving here for widely separated stations and different fields of activities. Many of you will serve with components of our army, other than troops of the regular establishment. This school will attempt to keep abreast of new developments. We stand ready to help you in your new work and desire your cooperation in giving us the benefit of the ideas and practical experience which will be yours.

"Your work this year has been well done. In particular you have been generous in your appreciation of the instruction offered. I feel conident that the infantry as a whole as well as each one of you individually will benefit materially by the nine months which you have spent at Benning.

"In conclusion let me say that your Alma Mater, The Infantry School, looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."

Major Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, Chief of Infantry, at Washington, D. C., sent the following message which was read to the graduates during the commencement program.

"I regret that official duties here prevent my attendance at the graduating exercises now in progress. I wish to congratulate the graduating members of the advanced and company officers classes upon their successful completion of the courses at the Infantry School. I feel sure they will find that the benefits derived from these courses will be invaluable hereafter and that they will make the past year of duty at the Infantry School as one of the most important in their careers. I wish to commend the students, instructors, administrative and executive personnel, and the troops for their loyalty cooperation and efficient services which have made possible the successful passing of another milestone in the continued development of the Infantry School improvement of the infantry arm."

Besides the commandant and assistant commandant, the entire faculty of the Infantry School, headquarters staff officers and prominent civilians were seated on the stage.

Brigadier General Harold B. Fiske, commander of the Fourth Coast Artillery District, Mayor Homer Dimon, of Columbus, Mr. Rhodes Browne and Mr. Gunby Jordan, were among the distinguished guests at the exercises.

R. O. T. C. CAMP OPENS AT FORT BENNING

(Continued from page 1.)

from "B" Battery of the 83rd Field Artillery and will fire live ammunition for about a week. They will also fire the pistol and make a four day mounted hike. The ordnance company will train in connection with the ordnance detachment here, studying guns, ammunition and tanks. The ordnance may go on a hike with the 15th Tank Battalion. The ordnance boys will also fire the record course on the rifle range.

The signal unit will work with the Fort Benning signal officer, and will go on a four day hike during which it will lay out and operate the communications net of an infantry division. It will fire the pistol with the artillery unit.

Turning to the sports side of their short stay at Fort Benning, work has already been put under way to organize the baseball team. Two of the Auburn regulars, Joe Burt and Luke Ward, and several of the "Eskimos" are on deck and will be augmented by material from Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia Tech. The R. O. T. C. battalion should turn out stiff opposition for the post teams from the various units.

The loss of the service of John Mosely, star sprint swimmer, of Auburn, and Buster Harris, diving marvel from Georgia Tech, will be keenly felt. However, there are several good prospects on hand—Grady Mosely, brother of the speedy John, and W. T. Gilbert.

The student social committee consisting of L. M. Dyal, Joe Kennedy and E. H. Howell, representing the field artillery; J. C. Calhoun and A. L. Rankin, the engineers; and T. A. Davis, of Georgia Tech, is now making plans for a series of dances which will be held on each Friday night during the encampment.

Staff rides or walks are exercises in which practical staff operations under certain prescribed tactical, strategical, or logistical military situations are stated and solved on the ground, the troops being imaginary.

I. S. D. TO GIVE FAREWELL BANQUET

Next Tuesday night, at their mess hall, the Infantry School Detachment will give a banquet in honor of Captain Hentry H. Fay, 24th Infantry, who has been on special duty with the Infantry School Detachment for quite a while, and who goes to foreign service about the 23rd of this month; Master Sergeant James H. Kriz, and Master Sergeant Peter Jansen, both of whom will be retired this month after thirty years of honest and faithful service.

The friends and relatives of the honor guests will be expected to attend the banquet, and are promised a variety of culinary offerings, after which there will be entertainment of superb quality. It is well known that when the green cords give a banquet, they make it a banquet.

The ability and adeptness of the mess sergeant is augmented by the best battery of cooks that ever graced an army range. Eats there will be, and you may lay to that.

"RED" JONES RETURNS

Red Jones has returned from a months' furlough, during which time he was an umpire in the Piedmont baseball league. "Red" reports that he had a wonderful time, and that he will probably go back to that league next summer, this time permanently.

He stated that the baseball played up there was quite different from the type that is played here. However, he had many good words for the type of players that the league boasted.

We will all be glad to see his smiling face at the games this summer. He probably will umpire most of the intramural league games here on the post, and a number of the city league games down in Columbus.

Field exercises are exercises conducted in the field under simulated war conditions in which troops and armament of one side are actually present in whole or in part, while those of the other side are imaginary or outlined.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

PRESERVING TIME IS HERE

Kerr Glass Jars are the best for putting up fruits and vegetables:

½ Pints	.85 doz.
1 Pints	.85 "
1 Quarts	1.00 "
2 Quarts	1.35 "

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

AT THE MOVIES

June 14, to June 21, Incl.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14

"RESTLESS YOUTH," featuring Marceline Day with Ralph Forbes and Norman Trevor, in a story concerning the wild love adventures of a reckless college girl. The story is laid against the colorful background of college life, business, and the criminal courts. This attractive girl causes a terrible breach between father and son; both of whom fight relentlessly over her. It winds through college scenes, wild parties in a hotel room, and many other alluring scenes, into the nerve-racking grip of the murder court, where a smashing but pleasing climax is reached. This is considered a dynamic drama.

" Land O' Cotton." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 47."

SATURDAY, JUNE 15

"OVERLAND TELEGRAPH," featuring Tim McCoy in an historic episode of pioneer days. The first transcontinental telegraph was strung across the country in order that President Lincoln might know the feeling of the extreme western states in regard to the Civil War. This story depicts the hardships and tribulations encountered by the linemen who dared the treachery of the savage Indians. There are many attacks, raids, and battles. It is a story of hardy adventure and many stirring scenes.

"Don't Get Jealous." Sennett.

SUNDAY, JUNE 16

"CHINATOWN NIGHTS," starring Wallace Beery with Florence Vidor in an exciting story containing mystery, suspense and much action. It tells of a white boss of Chinatown who wins the love of a white society woman. She sacrifices everything for him, but not until she is dragged down into the mire of the Chinese underworld does he awaken his love for her. Wallace Beery is known to excell more in drama than in comedy.

"The Booster." Charlie Chase.

"M. G. M. News No. 85."

MONDAY, JUNE 17

"WOMEN THEY TALK ABOUT," starring Irene Rich and William Collier, Jr., in a story concerning parts that petticoats play in politics. It is the exciting story of a battle between a man and a woman who had been lovers—a political battle—in which the son and daughter of the contestants—as well as cupid—act as referees. It is a society drama.

"Mystery Rider No. 8."

TUESDAY, JUNE 18

"LOOPING THE LOOP,"—the sensational film of Europe brought to the American screen. This is a Ufa production containing an entire European cast among whom Warner Kraus rivals Emil Jannings in performance. The story concerns a clown whose experience has been similar to Pagliacci in having lost in a love affair. He believes that no woman will ever take him seriously, because of his profession, and implores fellow clowns to believe likewise. A beautiful young girl comes into his life—he falls in love with her—she, too, loves him. He does not tell of his occupation for fear of losing her. The romance sails along smoothly until complications arise, because of a former affair of the girl with an acrobat. The manner in which the stirring climax is reached affords keen entertainment. During the gripping drama some spectacular acrobatic feats are performed.

"Targets." Sports.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19

"SUBMARINE," starring Jack Holt with Dorothy Revier and Ralph Graves in a mighty drama of the sea. It is a fast moving, soul-stirring submarine drama with much of the action actually filmed under water. Some of the greatest under sea action ever photographed is included as part of the film, such as divers endeavoring to reach a wrecked submarine embedded seven hundred feet below the surface, and the terrors encountered in their descent. The locale includes San Diego and Oriental Ports. The action presents daring seamen, pretty girls, and passionate love scenes. This is considered a very absorbing story. It is educational as well as keenly entertaining.

"M. G. M. News No. 86."

THURSDAY, JUNE 20

"LADY OF THE PAVEMENT," starring William Boyd with Getta Goudal and Lupe Valez in a powerful drama depicting scenes in the court of Napoleon III. Rejected by her Napoleon lover because of infidelity, a mistress of Napoleon lays plans for a disgraceful revenge. From a cafe of the underworld she gets a magnetic girl whom she schools in the ways of her set—she contrives to have the man marry the girl, and then at the wedding feast makes a scathing denouncement. In this picture the gaiety and splendor of European courts are contrasted with the bizarre haunts and strange fascinations of the notorious Parisian underworld.

"Hold Fast." Cameo Comedy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 21

"TIDE OF THE EMPIRE," starring Renee Adoree and George Foster in an epic portrayal of the life in "Days of '40." The story starts with the old Spanish days when "The Dons" in peaceful grandeur ruled over the land of California, then at Sutter's Mill pioneers discover gold, and hordes of pioneers invade the territory overthrowing Spanish rule and building a new era of progress on the ashes of former civilization. Against this background is told the delicate romance of one of the Dons, and one of the vanguards of the coming progressive west. The theme of the story is staggering in its immensity. This is Peter B. Kyne's epic of the "Argonauts." Lovers of history as well as lovers of excitement will enjoy this picture.

"Pathe News No. 49."

INFANTRY SCHOOL THEATERS SHOW HIGH CLASS PICTURES

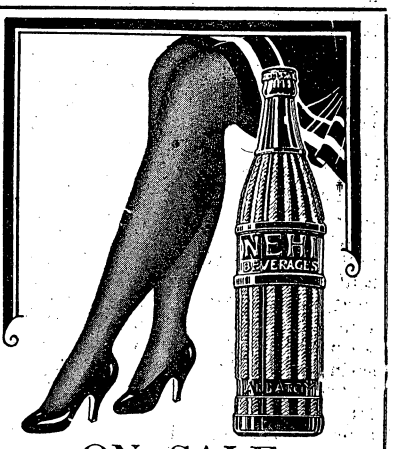
By Capt. F. S. Doll, Infantry

During the past winter the personnel of the Infantry School have been treated to the finest motion pictures the world produces. Some of these pictures were shown simultaneously in New York and other big cities at prices ranging around $2.00, and yet the prices at Fort Benning have never varied. The question is asked, "How is this possible?" The answer is simple. War department theatres are not operated for the purpose of making money—their sole function is to furnish clean, attractive entertainment to members of the army who are located on posts miles away from civilian communities, and at prices which the soldier, whose income is limited, can afford to pay. In other words, they are

(Continued on page 11.)

EXPERT TAILORING
JOE GILLMAN
Service Co., 29th Inf.
1009 Broadway Columbus

Do Your Clothes Feel Tired?
Then Call
465—Ring 2
24th Inf.
Fort Benning Cleaners



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

The Third National Bank
of Columbus, Ga.
The
Columbus Bank and Trust Company
—o—
Combined Resources More
Than $8,000,000
—o—
Representative at Fort
Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

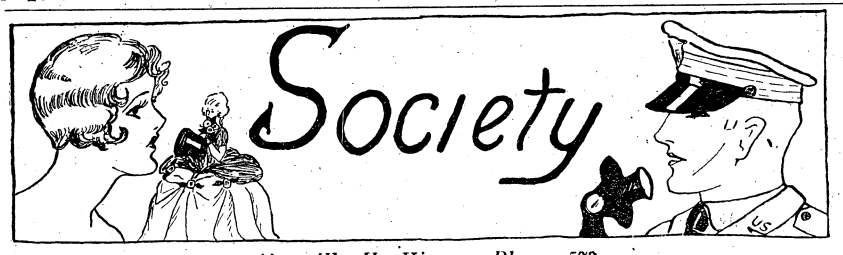
CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

Three Brilliant Service Weddings Mark Week's Social Events

TORREY—GRIFFITH WEDDING

A marriage characterized by exquisite beauty, and solemnity and one centering the widest social interest of hosts of friends, personal and inherited throughout the south as well as throughout the length and breadth of the army, was that of Miss Alice Virginia Torrey, only daughter of Major and Mrs. Daniel Huston Torrey, to Lieutenant Welborn Barton Griffith, Jr., which was solemnized at 8:30 on Tuesday evening, June eleventh, at the Polo club, Captain Henry H. Fay performing the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of some four hundred friends and relatives.

The charming rustic club house was converted into a chapel with chancel and altar improvised at the western end. Smilax and bamboo veiled the walls except where two stained glass windows shed indirect light on the wedding scene. The chancel was covered with white satin and on the altar was the gleaming satin altar cloth, the gold cross and cathedral candelabra holding white tapers. French baskets of dainty white flowers tied with bows of white tulle were placed on each side of the cross. Stately palms were banked around the altar and in the foreground on either side were large white pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies and white gladioli. Twin pedestal cathedral candelebra, each holding five white tapers, were placed among the palms and lilies. Above the altar was a canopy of green and white which with the arrangement en masse formed a charming setting for the gorgeous costumes of the bridal party.

The 29th orchestra rendered a musical program preceding the ceremony and Captain Cecil L. Rutledge sang, "I Love You," and "Because," immediately before the entrance of the wedding party.

At the initial strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, Captain Fay took his place followed by the groom and his best man, Lt. Branner Purdue. Then down the aisle formed by pedestal baskets filled with feathery ferns and linked to each other by white tulle ribbons, the groomsmen came in pairs. They were Lt. Cornog, Lt. Barlow, Lt. Riggins, Lt. Diller, Lt. Barnett, Lt. Lansing, Lt. Burbank, Lt. Black, Lt. Jeter and Lt. Mack.

Following the groomsmen, the bridesmaids entered in pairs. Their dresses were French creations, fashioned alike, having bodices of taffeta with bouffont skirts of tulle which hung in points, modishly short in front and almost trailing behind. The striking feature of each dress was the huge taffeta bow of complementary shade which was worn slightly at the left in back. Their flowers were alike, being huge arm bouquets of spring flowers in pastel shades showered with pastel ribbons. First to enter were Misses Patsy Douglas and Katherine Stark, of Washington, D. C., Miss Douglas wearing shell pink with Miss Stark in sky blue with shell pink bow and blue slippers. Next came Miss Harriett Wells, wearing peach with turquoise bow and peach slippers, and Miss Beck Hill wearing turquoise blue with rose bow and blue shoes. Following them came Miss Sue Brandt in orchid with peach bow and orchid shoes, and Miss Kate Kingman in rose and green bow and rose shoes.

Miss Marie Louise Nutting, of Washington, maid of honor, entered alone. She wore a dress similar to the bridesmaids in green with orchid bow and orchid shoes. Her flowers were exactly like the bridesmaids'.

Scattering rose petals in the pathway of the bride came little Mary Landis in a cunning Kate Greenaway frock of yellow organdie with poke bonnet trimmed in pastel flowers.

The radiantly lovely young bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her exquisite bridal array was perfect for her girlish beauty. The wedding dress was of lustrous ivory satin artistically embroidered in seed pearls, made in princess mode with a very, very full skirt of tulle attached at a low waist line in deep scollops. The skirt was made of countless ruffles of pleated tulle giving a fairy-like effect. From her shoulders hung a court train of satin edged with Brussels lace, which was almost completely hidden by a voluminous foundation veil of tulle over which the wedding veil of daintest Brussels lace embroidered in French Marguerites after the manner of the French royalty, and showered with orange blossoms, hung. Her headdress was of rare rose point lace through which her lovely blonde hair showed. Completing her costume were rose point mittens and a triple strand of pearls, an heirloom in her mother's family. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

After the vows were made the music changed from softest piano with violin obligato to the full orchestration of Mendelssohn Wedding March as a recessional, to which the groomsmen formed an arch with crossed sabres for the bridal party to pass through.

They immediately formed a receiving line where hundreds of friends showered congratulations and good wishes upon them.

Mrs. Torrey, mother of the bride, wore a beautiful model of Nile green chiffon with chiffon velvet evening coat of the same shade. Receiving with Major and Mrs. Torrey and the bridal party was Mr. Welborn Barton Griffith, Sr., of Temple, Texas.

The bride's table was overlaid with a handsome canton linen cloth white burning tapers. The lovely three-tiered cake was elaborately embossed in Bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Carrying out the tradition of the army, the bride cut the cake with her husband's sabre and gave each bridesmaid a piece of the first slice to dream over.

After the reception and dance the bride changed her wedding costume for her going-away ensemble of blue and biege with fashionable fingertip coat, hat, gloves, shoes and bag to match.

Lt. and Mrs. Griffith left for an extensive motor trip through Virginia and the gulf states after which they will be at home to their friends at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

* * *

RUSS—DUNN

Centering the cordial interest of many friends throughout the service was the marriage of Miss Marie Russ, younger daughter of Mrs. Marie Rieber Russ, and the late Major Joseph Russ, and Lieutenant Theodore Lamar Dunn, which took place on Tuesday, June eleventh at one-thirty in the afternoon, at Trinity Episcopal church in Columbus, Captain H. H. Fay performing the ceremony in the presence of a large group of friends.

The church was effectively decorated with smilax, palms, and pedestal baskets of white peonies and fern, tied with huge altar burned cathedral candles in lovely altar burend cathedral candles in lovely gold altar candelabra.

While the guests assembled Mr. Edwin Vonderean rendered a beautiful program of wedding music. Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. Ernest S. Barker sang very beautifully, "At Dawning," accompanied by Mr. Vonderean on the organ.

As the strains of Lohengrin's loved wedding march sounded the ushers entered in pairs taking their places outside the chancel rail. They were Lt. Cornog, Lt. Purdue, Lt. Mack, Lt. Jeter, Lt. Riggins, Lt. Barlowe.

Miss Dorothy Russ, only sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and only attendant. She wore a gorgeous dress of chartreuse chiffon made with snug bodice having a deep lace yoke in back trimmed with exquisite French flowers, and a fashionable full skirt short in front and made ankle length in back by tiny circular tiers of chiffon. A lovely bow of chartreuse ribbon with long ends added another charming feature to the skirt. Her shoes were of the same shade, and her hat was a picture model of chartuese horsehair drooping gracefully under a huge flat ribbon bow. In her arm she carried a bouquet of peonies accenting the vivid yellow-green of her costume, combined with orchid lace flower and tied with orchid ribbon.

The precious little bride entered with Major Samuel I. McCants, who gave her away, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lt. Axel A. Dobak.

The bride is a Titian beauty, and was radiantly lovely in her wedding dress of white chantilly lace made with tight fitting bodice and full skirt short in front and almost trailing in back. Over it she wore Dame Fashion's newest

(Continued on page 5.)

Ladies'
Swimming Suits
Bathing Caps
POST EXCHANGE
Special Order Dept.
Fort Benning, Ga.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

THE Cricket

A GOOD PLACE TO EAT

COLUMBUS GEORGIA

Open From 6 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Additional Society

(Continued from page 4.)

creation—a cocktail jacket. Her slippers were white satin, and completing her costume was a picture hat of transparent horsehair trimmed with a lovely white bow and drooping beneath four white gardenias. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias showered with lilies of the valley.

In the inner sanctuary the bride and groom plighted their troth using as a symbol of never ending love, the impressive ring ceremony.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, the ushers formed with their sabres the traditional arch that is so dear to the heart of an army bride, and the wedding party passed through.

Immediately after the wedding Major and Mrs. Samuel I. McCants entertained at a wedding breakfast at their quarters on Austin Loop.

The table was overlaid with an exquisite lace cover and had for its central decoration a silver bowl filled with pink roses and buddea. Slim pink candles burned in silver candelabra. Covers were laid for Lt. and Mrs. Dunn, Miss Dorothy Russ, Maj. and Mrs. Ryder, Lt. and Mrs. Kammerer, Miss Helen Young, Miss Doris Hall, Miss Peggy Lampke, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Dade Warfield, Miss Celeste Broach, Capt. and Mrs. Fay, Capt. and Mrs. Barker, Lt. and Mrs. Dobak, Lt. and Mrs. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn, Mr. Leslie Dunn, Mr. C. C. Dunn, all of Meridian, Miss., Lt. Purdue, Lt. Cornog, Lt. Mack, Lt. Jeter, Lt. Riggins, Lt. Barlowe, Maj. and Mrs. McCants.

Mrs. Dunn changed her wedding dress for a going-away ensemble of black satin with white blouse, black hat, shoes, gloves and bag to match. During the early afternoon they left for an extensive honeymoon and on August 20th they sail from New York for the Philippines.

* * *

Honoring Miss Marie Russ, who on Tuesday became the bride of Lt. T. F. Dunn, Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer was hostess at a lovely bridge luncheon and linen shower on Friday morning, June 6th at her home in Block 16. There were three tables of bridge and Mrs. R. H. Brown won first prize, a jewel compact. Miss Celeste Broach second, a similar prize, and the hostess gave to her house guest, Miss Dode Warfield, who shared honors with the bride-elect, a pair of earrings. To Miss Russ each guest presented a piece of lovely linen. Those present were Misses Marie Russ, Dorothy Russ, Dode Warfield, Becky Hill, Peggy Lampke, Helen Young, Bess Berry, Celeste Broach, Mrs. Dobak, Mrs. Roasma, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hurt.

* * *

Complimenting Miss Marie Russ and Lt. Theodore F. Dunn, Lt. and Mrs. A. A. Dobak entertained the young people of Fort Benning at a most delightful party at Esquilie, the ancestral home of Mrs. Dobak's family, on Friday evening. The guests assembled at their attractive Log Cabin Club house which was strung with lighted Japanese lanterns, and they danced and sang, spending the hours in a most delightfully informal way. Punch, sandwiches and ice cream were served late in the evening.

* * *

WELLS—DILLER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED IN UNIQUE WAY AT TEA.

On Monday afternoon, June 19th, Mrs. Harry A. Wells and Miss Harriett Wells entertained at a very lovely tea which was the culminating courtesy to Miss Alice Torrey before her wedding on Tuesday. The Polo Club was beautifully decorated with baskets and bowls of colorful garden flowers, and the trellises were banked with bamboo and evergreen vines. On a table in a conspicuous place was a globe on what a doll dressed in her white satin bridal array with veil and a' that, sat—a bride sitting on top of the world, if you please. Receiving with Mrs. Wells and Miss Wells, were Miss Torrey, her maid of honor, Miss Nutting and her out-of-town bridesmaids, Misses Douglas and Stark, all of Washington, D. C.

The punch table was placed near the orchestra pit and was overlaid with an elaborately embroidered cloth. The centerpiece was a lovely low bowl most artistically filled with gladioli, Killarney roses, pink, white and orchid candytuft, and buddlea. Silver candlesticks held long pink tapers. Mints and cakes in pink and green added further color to the table.

During the late afternoon three little boys, Masters Frederick and Jimmy Ladd and Derry Falligant, dressed as newsboys, burst in three various entrances yelling "Extra! Extra" and handing diminutive editions of "The Benning News" to eager guests. Eyes scanned with amazing speed interesting news items, quaint philosopical sayings (which reminded one of Col. Wells) clever bits of humor, ridiculous ads, such as "Meat cut to the bone" in the Post Exchange's slashing of prices, and so on. On looking inside we saw the reason for the extra edition for in italics ran the following announcement:

"Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry A. Wells announce the engagement of their daughter, Harriett Alpha, to First Lieutenant Le Grande Diller, United States army."

Suffice it to say that Alice and her wedding party quietly slipped out on the porch leaving Harriett with her mother to be the center of interest.

* * *

General Fred T. Austin, Chief of Artillery, arrived Thursday and is the guest of General and Mrs. Campbell King.

* * *

On Thursday evening, at the Artillery Club, the officers and ladies of the 83rd Field Artillery honored their chief with a delightful reception and dance.

* * *

Honoring Miss Alice Torrey Mrs. Lynn Roberts entertained most beautifully at bridge at her home on June 7th, and Mrs. John F. Landis was hostess on Saturday, June 9th, at a delightful luncheon at the Log Cabin, honoring Miss Torrey and her wedding party.

* * *

On Saturday evening the ladies of Ft. Benning presented to Maj. H. J. M. Smith at a dance in his and Mrs. Smith's honor, a handsome silver platter, as a token of their appreciation for his never-tiring efforts for "more and better equitation" at Fort Benning.

* * *

Mrs. Blossom Reed, who has made an extended visit to her brother, Col W. L. Reed, and his family, left this week for her home.

The officers and ladies of the 83rd Field Artillery honored Maj. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Jones with a farewell dinner party at their Artillery Club on Monday evening.

* * *

On Sunday evening Maj. and Mrs. D. H. Torrey entertained the Torrey-Griffith wedding party at dinner at Biglerville after the rehearsal at the Polo Club. Each young lady found at her place a gift from the bride, an exquisite Italian filigree butterfly pin, and each groomsman was given by Lt. Griffith, a tooled leather bill folder as a souvenir of the wedding associations.

* * *

On Monday evening at Biglerville the graduation hop honoring the student officers and their wives on the eve of their departure was a festive occasion.

* * *

Among those entertaining dinner parties were: Capt. and Mrs. Wm. M. Hutson, Lt. and Mrs. R. H. Brown, and Miss Verna Perry, who complimented Miss Bess Berry with a party of the debutante set at her home.

K&P

WHEN SHOPPING

Be sure to visit us. You'll enjoy 'looking around' here. So many charming suggestions for the shopper. No shopping tour complete until you visit us.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

STORE HOURS
8 a. m. to 6 p. m.
Saturday Until 7 p. m.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Saucepan Sets

3 Sizes

92c

One 1,1-2, 2 and 3 quart saucepans. Complete set of three heavy gauge, panned aluminum ware.

6-Cup Percolators

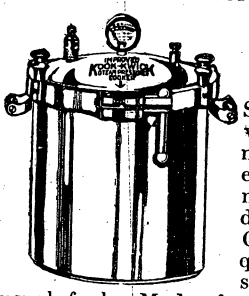
$1.28

Extra heavy, pure, seamless aluminum. Ebony handles. Good for many months of hard service.

10-Qt. Dish Pans

A needed household item. Seamless aluminum built for real service. An exceptional value! 89c

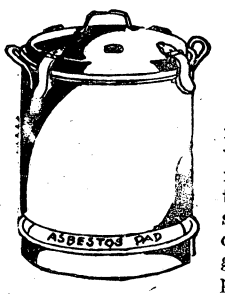
Kook-Kwick Pressure Cookers $18.95



18-Qt. Size Nationally Sold Everywhere

Saves every valuable vitamin and mineral salt, makes food delicious. Cooks 3 times quicker and saves 3-4 of usual fuel. Made from one-piece solid, heavy, pure aluminum.

The Waterless Cooker



7-Qt. Size

$2.85

Nationally sold for $5.00 elsewhere. Pays for itself in time and fuel saved. Made of extra heavy gauge seamless pure aluminum

PICNICS AND OUTINGS

OUTING JUGS

$1.79

On your trip or your ride you'll want your food. The outing jug will keep it hot or cold—just as it left the kitchen—for 10 hours. One gallon size.

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. June 14, 1929 No. 39

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Al Durden ..... Sport Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

FORWARD, INFANTRY!

"We are standing today at the portals of a new military era. No one can foretell with certainty, where the path will lead us."

No infantry officer can fail to be deeply impressed by the remarks which Brigadier General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, made during the course of his address to the graduating classes on Commencement Day.

General King sounded a warning which must be heeded if the infantry is to continue to occupy its dominant role in the military scheme.

The infantry must keep abreast of the advancement which is being made steadily by other arms and must constantly bear in mind the fact that the ultimate purpose of every improvement in arms, material and methods of any kind, is made with one object in view—the annihilation of the infantry on the battlefield.

The infantry must be alert; it must be progressive; it must be ready to adopt new weapons, new methods and new ideas that it may keep pace with, or better still, keep a little ahead of the progress which other arms are making toward improved means of harrassing infantry.

But, withal, the infantry must be circumspect; it cannot discard the practical and proven for the theoretical and visionary; it must govern its decisions by both conservativism and progressiveness.

Yet the infantry must advance, not only on the battle field but with the march of progress.

DOUGHBOY AND RIFLE

Today a group of the best shots in the infantry is on its way to Camp Perry, Ohio, where the national rifle matches will be held in September.

The men in the group have proven their shooting ability and have won membership in the squad only after several weeks of severe elimination matches at Fort Benning. Only the best have survived these tests.

When the squad arrives at Camp Perry it will begin a new and even more severe series of elimination trials which will determine the selection of the twelve men who will represent the infantry in the matches.

They will compete against the nation's best rifle shots and will earn whatever honors they may win.

The rifle is the doughboy's own weapon, he should be more adept than any other in its use.

The infantry should win the service team match—and here's hoping that it will.

In forming the plan of a campaign, it is requisite to foresee everything the enemy may do, and to be prepared with the necessary means to counteract it. Plans of campaign may be modified, ad infinitum, according to circumstances—the genius of the general, the character of the troops, and the topography of the theater of action. Napoleon's 2nd Maxim.

The Infantry is the basic arm. Although certain functions charged to other arms and branches seem to have only an indirect influence on the operations of the Infantry, all must be imbued with the primary importance of the success of the Infantry.

COLUMBUS CLOSE-UPS

By LeRoy Yarborough

RED JACKET, LADIES' DEFENDER, AND OTHERS

WERE an eccentric collector disposed to establish a museum of antiquated ordnance, he could do no better than to begin in Columbus. Here he would find an assortment of curious and obsolete cannons that would make an excellent nucleus for such a collection.

Scattered at wide intervals throughout the city are several old-style cannons whose appearance and incongruous settings alone hold forth an arresting interest to the passer-by. Their local historic significance must be great, indeed, and it is rather difficult for the newcomer or transient observer to understand why so little apparent attention is paid to them or why such objects which undoubtedly are closely related to the history of the community are not capitalized as exhibits to be proudly pointed out to the visitor.

I saw the first of these war relics of a past age one day as I was passing Waverly Terrace on the Hamilton road, where a pair of muzzle-loading rifles mounted on low brick pedestals, seemingly menace the houses across the street. They are each about ten feet in length, three feet in diameter at the breech, and one foot in diameter at the muzzle. The rifle bore is seven inches in diameter and has seven lands and grooves. That the pieces were fired by direct-laying methods is evident from the sights which are cast on the guns. The front sights are about two inches long and have three blades or ribs about half an inch in width and heighth and separated by shallow grooves about half an inch in width and depth. Near the breech is the vent through which the fuze burned to ignite the powder charge.

They were, no doubt, formidable guns in their day, but their deadly appearance is now only a sham, for one sees, upon closer examination, that they have been damaged deliberately in order to render them useless as weapons. The elevating screw of one of them has been broken off short; the other has been bent at a sharp angle. These steel screws are about two and one-half inches thick. The right trunnion of one gun, fully four inches in diameter, has been broken off close to the rimbase.

On the left trunnion of each gun is stamped "VII in. 14800 lbs." On the undamaged right trunnion of one gun is stamped the year of manufacture, 1865.

A bronze plate fitted to the top of each gun tells this story: "Confederate Naval Gun. Made in Selma, Alabama. Mounted on Gunboat 'Chattahoochee' which was built in Columbus, Georgia, and destroyed by Federal Forces under Gen. J. H. Wilson, April 16th, 1865.

"The gun was recovered from the Chattahoochee River in 1910; placed in custody of G. Gunby Jordan by the United States War Department, and mounted October 13th, 1910, in Waverly Terrace."

As in a great many incidents of history, there seems to be some disagreement as to the circumstances of the destruction of the gunboat, for John H. Martin, in his History of Columbus, quotes an extract from the report of General Wilson which states: "The rebels abandoned and burned the gunboat Chattahoochee, twelve miles below Columbus."

At any rate, there seems to be no doubt that the "Chattahoochee" has lain at the bottom of the Chattahoochee for sixty-four years; that its guns lay at the bottom of the river for forty--five years; and that they have stood in Waverly Terrace for nearly twenty years, where they may be seen today.

On the lawn in front of the public library, stand two small bronze muzzle-loading guns mounted on crude weather-beaten wood carriages. "Red Jacket" and "The Ladies' Defender" are their names which, following a custom of their time, are engraved on their barrels.

"Red Jacket" is a graceful, almost dainty, little mountain gun of two-inch caliber. It was presented, according to the inscription near the breech, to the Columbus Guards in 1861, by Lieut. W. G. Clemmons. It was found in the Chattahoochee River in 1865 and was restored to the Columbus Guards, April 28th, 1884, by James W. Godfrey, of New York.

In the absence of any other information, one might surmise that "Red Jacket" had accompanied Wilson's troops when they left Columbus and had been returned to its owners nearly twenty years later by the conscience-stricken or magnanimous Mr. Godfrey.

"The Ladies' Defender" is a short grim-looking howitzer with a bore of about four and a half inches. Whether it ever fulfilled its title role is not indicated by the inscription which consists only of its name. However, it looks as though it might have furnished considerable protection for the ladies had it been called upon to do so.

Until a few months ago, a third gun lay on the parking in front of the library. It is an early type of steel breech-loader. It has an arrangement which resembles a clevis and the mechanical device known as a jim-crow pivoted on opposite sides of the breech so that the breech block can be raised into position, forced home and held there by means of a large screw. This gun, I have been told, has been sent to a local iron works to be mounted.

In the soldiers' plot in Linnwood cemetery there is another gun of the same period whose usefulness as a weapon ended when its muzzle was blown off.

Two other interesting old guns stand in front of the courthouse, where they were placed, according to the little marble slabs inset into the brick mounts, by Camp Benning, U. C. V. Both are smoothbore siege guns. The larger of the two has a caliber of eleven inches and the smaller gun a caliber of ten inches. The eleven inch gun is nearly four feet in diameter at the breech and about eighteen inches at the muzzle. It is about twelve feet in length. Both were made in 1864. The weight of the ten inch gun is 21562 pounds. The marking on the larger gun has been obliterated but it must be several hundred pounds heavier.

The two guns probably were part of the batteries which defended Columbus in the last battle east of the Mississippi River, April 16th, 1865. Like the guns on Waverly Terrace, they were damaged to prevent their being used after the Federal troops departed.

Since the guns were placed in their present position as relics of the war between the states they have been further damaged by the actions of vandals who, with unusual determination and preparation, have carved their insignificant names upon them with hammer and cold chisel.

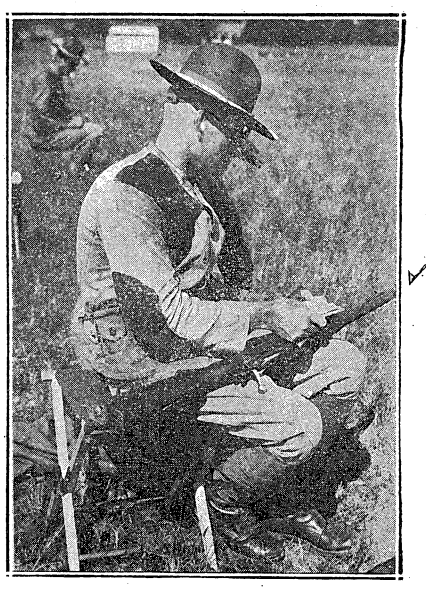
As I was examining the two old guns, I was interrupted by a man who had stopped with idle curiosity to watch me.

"Those are the guns they shot them big bums with, ain't they?" he said.

"Yes, I guess they are," I replied, although I was not sure whether his question referred to the damyankees or to big projectiles.

Infantry Team Squad to Depart for Camp Perry Today

Infantry Rifle Team Squad developed at Fort Benning for the 1929 National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. Standing, left to right: Captain James P. Lyons, 24th Infantry; Captain Richard O. Bassett, Jr., 29th Infantry; Corp. John H. Brunsell, Company G, 29th Infantry; 2d Lt. Branner P. Purdue, 7th Infantry; 2d Lt. Thomas B. Gailbreath, 29th Infantry; 1st Lt. Dwight L. Adams, 29th Infantry; 1st Lt. William E. Donegan, 29th Infantry; Sergeant David Hamscher, Co. A, 29th Infantry; Sergeant Lawrence A. Beck, Co. A, 29th Infantry; Pvt. 1 cl. Thomas E. McCulloch, Co. C, 29th Infantry. Middle row, left to right: Sergeant McWillie James, Co. G, 25th Infantry; Sergeant Andrew Gonta, Co. L, 2d Infantry; 1 t Sergeant John Stofko, Co. E, 30th Infantry; Corp. Hearchell Hicks, Co. F, 29th Infantry; Sergeant Alfred Anderson, Co. B, 34th Infantry; Corp. Charles L. Wills, Co. A, 29th Infantry; Corporal Chester Risner, Co. G, 10th Infantry; Captain William Wilson, 24th Infantry; 1st Lt. Jerome Harris, 11th Infantry; Sergeant Major Sims, Co. G, 8th Infantry; Sergeant Scott Bradford, Hq. Co., 24th Infantry. Front row, left to right: Captain Joseph Tupper, 24th Infantry (Team Coach); Pvt. 1 cl. Tommie Baugh, Co. E, 24th Infantry; Corporal George Showalter, Co. E, 24th Infantry; Corporal Clyde Taylor, Co. G, 29th Infantry; Pvt. 1 cl. Mike Yelovitch, Co. C, 18th Infantry; Sergeant Edward Bockell, Co. F, 4th Infantry; Pvt. 1 cl. Harry Treese, Co. K, 6th Infantry; Corp. Clarence Umberger, Co. E, 23d Infantry; Sergeant Adolph Sarmon, Co. B, 1st Infantry.



1st Sgt. Stofko, Co. E. 30th Infantry, discussing his score sheet with an officer on the rifle range. Sgt. Stofko has been a crack rifle shot for many years and has made highest scores for several seasons during the target practice of his regiment, which is stationed in San Francisco, Cal.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY CAPTAIN M. P. RUDOLPH, Medical Corps, Medical Inspector

SUMMER DIETS.

The diet is highly important at any season of the year but with the onset of hot weather it becomes even more important, as dietary indiscretions in hot weather are more apt to cause illness than they are at other seasons of the year. The usual illness following such indiscretions are gastritis, enteritis, and colitis, or any combination of the three.

There need be no radical change made for hot weather. Individuals may partake of their favorite dishes, may have almost the same variety of food, and may enjoy entire dietary comfort if care be taken.

It is a good plan for adults to eat a moderate breakfast, a light, cold luncheon, and have the principal meal of the day in the cool of the evening when they are rested and cooled, mentally and physically, and can give their digestive apparatus the proper opportunity to adequately perform its work. Much the same plan may be followed for children except that children that are put to bed early should have their principal meal in the middle of the day, taking adequate rest and repose immediately after the meal.

Meats should be taken rather sparingly but sufficient should be included in the diet to maintain the protein intake necessary for muscle tissue building and replacement. Fresh pork and veal are inadvisable for summer consumption; pork is a heat producer and veal is difficult to digest. Beef, lamb or mutton, fowl, fresh eggs, fresh fish, and cured pork may be taken in moderate to limited quantities.

Very little of the fats or other heat producing types of food are needed. Several meals a week should be meat-free. During hot weather meats should not be kept long in the household icebox, especially the chopped or ground meats.

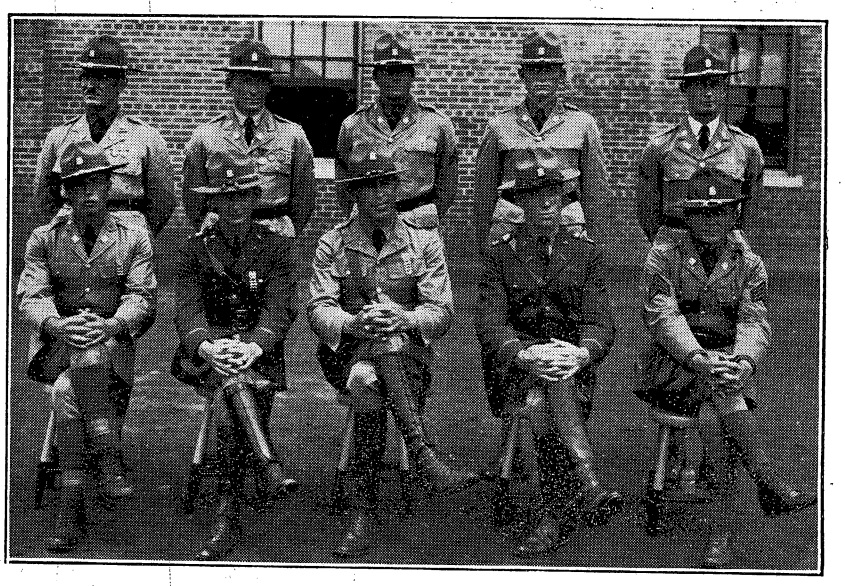
All vegetables that grow above the ground and many of the root type of vegetables are not in themselves fattening but they may be made so in their preparation. Unless made so in their preparation they are not heat producing. They should be used freely in summer di ts, especially those vegetables in season; they should be well cooked; the freshest vegetables are usually the most palatable. Vegetables eaten in the raw state should be prepared with great care to insure cleanliness and freedom from contamination; those that are wilted or partly decayed should be discarded.

Fresh fruits taken in the raw state should be carefully prepared either by peeling or thorough washing. Cooked fresh fruits are very good when taken in moderation; large amounts of fresh fruits should not be prepared in advance as fermentation is apt to occur if they stand too long.

Fresh milk may be taken freely; it is an excellent food at any time of the year. It should be, and usually is, delivered fresh and cold and should be placed in the ice-box immediately after it is received. Milk having once been thoroughly cooled will spoil very quickly if permitted to reheat even though well iced afterward. It is always wise to thoroughly cleanse the top of the milk bottle before it is opened. Ice cream and similar frozen foods are excellent in hot weather; they should be taken in small or moderate amounts at a time on account of their chilling effect.

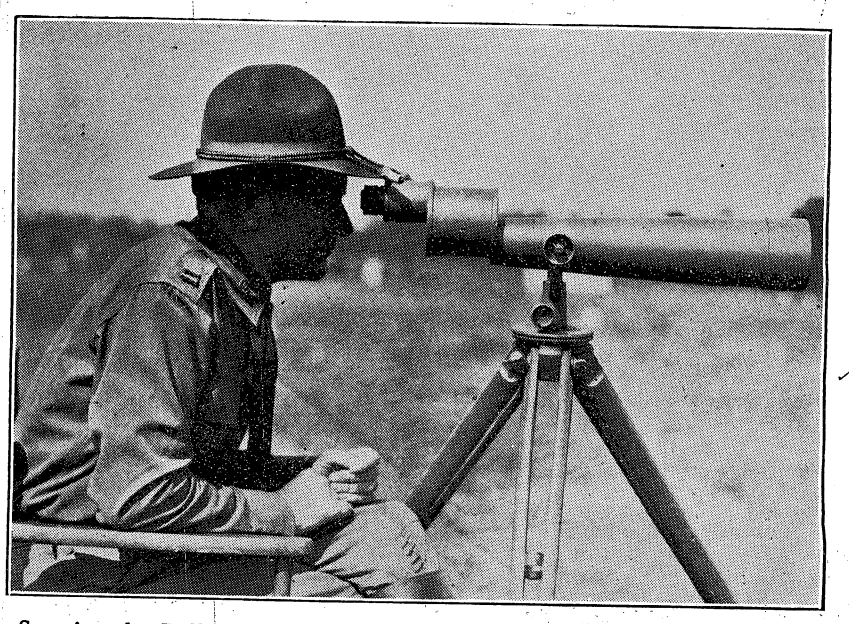
Pure cool water is the best summer beverage. If iced water is used it should be taken often in small amounts. There is a great tendency to take an excess of iced water for its cooling effect rather than to simply allay thirst; a glass of iced water poured on the bare wrists will cool one as much as if one drank the same amount, and is often much better for one. Iced tea or coffee and iced fresh fruit juice drinks are popular and efficient summer beverages; they, too, should be taken in moderation; that is, it is better to take small amounts of iced beverage at a time and take some at frequent intervals.

Moderation is the keynote on which to base summer diets. As in many other things the exercise of common sense in the matter of diet will do much to add to one's comfort, health, and contentment during the hot weather.



29th INFANTRY MEMBERS OF RIFLE TEAM SQUAD

1st row left to right: Sgt. Hamscher, Co. A., Lt. Gailbreath, Lt. Adams, Capt. Bassett, Jr., Sgt. Beck Co. A. 2nd row left to right: Cpl. Hicks, Co. F., Cpl. Grimsell, Co. G., Cpl. Wills, Co. A., Pfc. McCulloch, Co. C., Cpl. Taylor, Co. G.



Spotting the Bulls-eyes. Capt. J. L. Tupper, Coach of the Infantry Rifle Team, at his telescope on a Fort Benning rifle range.

29TH INF.

Breaking of Maneuver Camp Completed

Final work was done in the breaking of camp at the scene of the late maneuvers by two companies of the First Battalion under the command of Lieut. Col. Reed. A and D Companies who did the necessary fatigue were the last to move again into their comfortable quarters at the barracks, arriving there on Saturday.

Twenty-Ninth Infantry Starts Range Season

On Monday morning, the first group of the Second Battalion 29th Infantry with the addition of Headquarters Company, began preliminary instruction in preparation for the coming regular taget season. Howitzer Company of the special units will do its shooting at Camp Liscum where it is now encamped.

The instruction of the Second Battalion and Headquarters Company is being held on the 29th Infantry parade ground and will consist of proper methods of getting into position, sighting and trigger squeeze, the latter subject being particularly emphasized. This work will occupy several weeks, after which the men will be sent to McAndrew Range where they will fire preliminary or "jawbone" in order to ascertain the zero of their rifles and also learn to shoot without flinching. Record scores will then be fired.

This is one part of the year's routine that is particularly enjoyed by the soldier. Competition for high scores is keen. Besides the honor attached to being an expert rifleman, there is also a monetary consideration in the form of five dollars extra pay a month and three dollars extra for a sharpshooter. In this way, besides forming a pleasant break in the routine, it affords the soldier recreation and a means of increasing his pay.

Another incentive for the soldier to perfect his marksmanship is the award of a special prize to the high scorer in the regiment. In 1928, Sergeant Hopkins, Headquarters Company, was the high scorer in the regiment and was presented with a beautiful gold watch by the regimental commander.

29th Inf. Band

We have an authorized strength of twenty-eight men, of whom twenty-six are musicians and two are drummers. That total is swelled by the attachment of students from line companies, such as Sir Richard Feagin, of Galloping "F" Co. Our activities are under the guidance of Warant Officer Robert Dickson, an able and human bandleader. He has his hands full, though, in keeping trombone players sober and the drum major in front of the band.

The life of a temperamental musician has a full quota of ups and downs, and ins and outs, so this morsel of weekly gossip and comment concerning our family (?) of old timers promises to be interesting.

Our strength is reduced by the loss of Paul B. Hitchens, a bass player who purchased his discharge last week. Hitchens left with the intention of renewing his studies at Georgia Tech.

Somebody's going to have a lot of explaining to do when the powers that be inquire about our scheduled concert at maneuver camp last Mondy. Through some confusion of orders, a trainload of us appeared at Camp Liscum, and the rest of us got no farther than Camp Leonard Wood. By the time things were straightened out, it was time to return and play for the Attaway-Dempsey fights. Rain checks were issued.

Here's a good one—old, but with new trimmings.

Drummer:- "Who was that hobo I saw you with last night?"

Musician:- "That was no hobo, that was my fife."

Headquarters Company

Following the example of the social column of the Cusseta morning paper:

Sgt. Marsden has returned from a pleasant visit to Walter Reed Hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment.

Pvt. Jackson has received permission from the Government, via a discharge, to visit the home folks. Good luck to you Jack.

Several members of the company Forded and Chevyed to Camp Leonard Wood, on the Cusseta Road where the regiment is enjoying a few weeks rest at the annual summer camp.

Pvt. Grace, after many failures, reports that he has at last been able to be the first one in the chow line, placing him in the hall of the immortals.

If there is any doubt about the excellence of our cuisine, chefs, and mess sergeant, (airing the French, which needs it), just watch the chow line over the week-end, when the stay-at-homes gang up to get some real chow. "You can't beat the Army and Headquarters Company." When men walk seven miles just to eat with the rest of the company, it must be love.

Have heard of all kinds of details, but the "Yodeling Detail" of maneuver camps beats. Every night these sons of Switzerland gather on the Alps of Georgia and relieve the homesickness with their songs. This is one case where a little child, or rather "little boy," leads them.

Pvt. Walden must be very interested in General Pershing, because he is continually talking about "Black Jack." Such interest is commendable.

The old gag about the supply sergeant asking the recruit, "How'll you have your uniform, too big or too small?" could well be applied to the 29th, now that we have our cotton uniforms and shirts.

Due, no doubt, to the bracing intoxicating effect of the fresh country air at maneuver camp, the men are reverting to type, engaging in such playful antics as throwing ice cream and lemonade at one another. And too, the men in Compay "F" who are raising money to send one of their number to the DeVaux Singing Academy of Paris, should take a small tip. Do not waste that money; just send him to the maneuver camps. The air, or something, out there is a wonderful aid to the voice. Almost every night the beautiful (?) sound of many male voices raised in marvelous (?) harmony can be heard above the sound of the frogs and mosquitoes; and the favorite seems to be a song about a certain "Sweet Aduhuline." It is wonderful what pure country air will do for a person.

Cpl. "Cyclops" Parvin, the moral uplifter of young manhood and womanhood, will, upon the least provocation, give a lecture on "Twenty years in the service, and still a recruit."

Hdqrs. Co., 1st Bn.

Face powder and hair pins; what a combination. Yes, but they are very popular with members of this organization, even to the extent of sending them in letters to the needy.

Pfc. Kidd is on his way home. Going home to stick his feet under his father's table for a while. Proud, wel. I'd say so; that white discharge looked mighty good to him, rrom all appearances.

Company "A"

Three of "A," Company's outstanding marksmen were detailed to Camp Perry for tryouts for the infantry rifle team. We are confident that they will make the team. They leave Friday for Camp Perry.

Sgt. John B. Hudson, otherwise known as "BOLO" Hudson, who purchased his discharge while the company was on maneuvers, is now working in Mobile, Ala. It is understood that John B. gave practically all of the members of the company high recommendation to the company commander on his departure. It is also understood that he is working in a butcher shop and from all indications he ought to be going fine according to the way he used to "shoot the bull" in the company for over eight years. Good luck John B. That's good! Hold it! We mean the cow not the dress!

The company has been assigned sixteen recruits who are in quarantine. The company's strength is now 172. We are still understrength.

Lt. Spivey was so overcome with grief at Sgt. Hudson's leaving that he, too, decided to leave, and has been detailed to Brooks Field, Texas, to take up flying. We are wishing Lt. Spivey all the luck that one can wish in his new undertaking.

Company "B"

During our stay at camp we have had several changes in the company. Corporal Sylvester Berlinski was discharged per E. T. S. on May 18; Corporal Leon Cannon purchased discharge on May 24; Private Joseph Dobmeier was discharged per E. T. S. on May 25; Private Driscoll, Heaton, and C. L. Johnson transfered to the Service Company, 29th Infantry on May 20. The Company regrets very much the loss of these men, but as Recruit Center is open once again we will soon have plenty of men to fill the vacancies.

Corporal Edwin H. West has received the following commendation from Captain A. R. MacKechnie, Regimental Supply Officer:

"Upon the occasion of the relief of Corporal Edwin H. West, 6747266, Company "B," 29th Infantry, from special duty in charge of the regimental school bus, I desire to commend him for his excellent work during the past school year. He has performed his duty in an exceptional manner and on occasions has rendered this office considerable service by making special trips outside of hours. He has been courteous and conscientious in his work at all times and it is a pleasure to find a man who can be depended upon to perform any duty in a thorough manner."

Another commendation was also received for Private "Jack" Doyle while on maneuvers. Jack assisted in stopping a runaway train, at a great risk and was commended by Capt. E. L. Rice, Infantry, a student officer. Jack is also a good fistic contestant having easily emerged victorious in his bout last Tuesday night in the open arena at camp.

Company "C"

We are back off maneuvers now and ready to pull out part of the guards and fatigue, although we sure hate to do this.

Corporal Manhart was discharged per E. T. S. June 3rd, and is back in Indiana, where men are men and women are governors. He stated that he was through with the army, but like all the rest he will return.

Corporal Darmofal better known as (Polish) is assisting our supply sergeant these days learning the fine points of "chiseling;" we will be glad to see him get the other stripe when the supply sergeant leaves.

The company mechanic Bennie Snyder, made the remark this A. M. that if he had to use green paint much longer, that he would be seeing green targets on the range this year.

Our mess sergeant is having one time with his maneuver equipment. Since he is a married man the work is a little too much for him. Hayes is going to see if there isn't some way of giving him a hand, for if sorrow is to be felt for anyone, it is a poor married mess sergeant. And how!

Sergeant "Frog" d'Entremont, is to be discharged this month per E. T. S. and

(Continued on page 9.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Water proof umbrella tent 9x9. Kapok bed roll double size, folding table, two burner gasoline camp stove and stand. Also camp chairs, only used three weeks. Prices for all $30.00. 1925 model Ford in good condition, $50.00. Quarters 281, A Blk. 18.

I would like to get in touch with someone going on leave or furlough or change of station about July 1st, who would like to drive my car to St. Louis, or any place in Mo. Lt. C. L. Overfelt. Call 3847-J city.

AT STUD—German Shepherd (Police) Dog Hamilton Erich 111, Black and Tan, son of Int. Gd. Ch. Hamilton Erich Von Grafenwerth P. H. and Hamilton Von Guckenburg, imported daughter of Ch. Immo V Herculespark. Breeding: Hettle-Flora-Roland-Jung-Tell-Horst, with the blood of Hettle Uckermark dominant. Fee $25.00.

FOR SALE—Pups sired by Erich 111. Their dam is Bella V. D. Munderfom, daughter of Ch. Ali, of Greystock P. H., he by Int. Ch. Gerri V. Oberklamm P. H. and of Ch. Bianka V. Seigerland Sch. H.—Bella's dam is a daughter of Seiger Harras V. D. Juech P. H. These pups for quick sale at $50.00 either sex. C. E. Dimon, Columbus, Ga., Phone 701 or 470.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

Additional 29th Inf. Notes

(Continued from page 8.)

is figuring on taking on another stack with us. We are not so sure, but think he is madly in love.

Company "E"

Company "E's" baseball team is leading the battalion league. Our company commander and 1st Sgt. "Hi" Davis are responsible for our big lead in the league, because of their good coaching of the team. We have played each team in the league and beat them all, winning four games. Corp. Zapasnik has just returned from a furlough from Macon. Corp. Stanley asked him if he kissed his girl while away. Zapasnik replied, "You don't suppose I went all the way over there to hear her play a zither, do you?" Doublin Thomas, one of our scrappers, enjoyed a ride in an airplane the other day, remarked that a man can do anything a bird does, except that he has not mastered the art of sitting comfortable on a barbed-wire fence.

Dalby said to Henry Mathew: "I've heard you have a new car." "No, just the old one with the squeaks tuned an octave lower," Mathews replied.

Gadgett Miller sure gets up early these days. What's the trouble, are you in love or is it Pvt. Pique and his equipment worrying you.

One of our brightest recruits, Lea, was asked where the balance of his piece was and Pvt. Lea replied: "Sir, I don't know; this is all the supply sergeant gave me."

Shieks Stamper and Bache were overheard conversing. Stamper says, "Ah, Bache what do you want to go to West Point for? There is no money in being a officer." Bache says: "Money! Money! That's all you guys think about—money! Well, when I die, I would rather be buried in Arlington Cemetery than be the richest man in the world."

Company "F"

Well, we are starting the annual target season off pretty soon and everybody seems very confident they can make the old "Bull" look kinda cheesy. That's the old "F" Company spirit all right; we qualified 100 per cent last season and we sure want to do as well or better this time.

As per usual, we were picked for the escort for the Chief of Infantry and the Chief of Staff on their recent visit to Benning, and we are proud to have the compliment that was given us on our appearance and bearing.

If uor Costello can do as well as he did against Gordy everytime he gets in the ring, we are going to have another DePratt soon.

Well, our Bulls-eye specialist, Corporal Hicks will be leaving soon for Camp Perry with the infantry rifle team. We wish you luck, Nub.

Here's a surprise, our baseball team only got second place in the first round of Second Battalion baseball, but we congratulate Company "E," as they have a good team.

Pvts. Harbour and Dilley get their sheepskin this month, hope they take another stack with us.

Company "G"

There is some good news ringing around the company that 1st Lt. Donegan is coming back to straight duty. We hope this is true.

Private first-class Gergely and Private Bourque have just returned from furlough. Reports are that they had a fine time.

Someone in the 3rd Platoon asked Cpl. Price what was the latest out. Price said, "Well, I can't tell you, but it won't be long now." Price just has a few days to do and we hope he is going to stay with us. He is one of the oldest timers of the company.

Pvt. Strickland of the 1st platoon was singing a song and some man of the 2nd platoon threw a shoe at him. Pvt. Strickland got up from his bed and stopped singing. Pfc. Weber said to Strickland, "Keep on singing and you will get the other shoe.'

A certain fellow from Co. Hqrs. was telling his buddies about his girl. King said, "Would you yell if I kissed you?" The girl replied, "Why no, I am still hoarse from last night."

An officer asked Sgt. Davis if he was ever married before, Davis said, "Yes sir, before a minister."

Sgt. Johnson said to a young man dressed in civilian clothes, "Say Mr. how do you make your daily bread."

"Well, old man, I don't make it, I buy it in the bakery."

Sgt. Johnson said, "All right boy take a walk, don't let the grass grow around your feet."

The company base ball team had a little hard luck last week and dropped a game to "F," Company, however, the best teams in the country drop them sometimes, but let's forget about that game and fight harder next time.

Stop, look and listen soldiers and acting corporals! "G" Company has three men on the infantry rifle team. Tell me one better than that in Benning and I'll step back out of the way. Theh three great men are 2nd Lt. Gailbreath, Corporals Brunsell and Taylor. We wish them the best of luck when they get to Camp Perry, the bulls-eye factory.

Private Hammon to Corp. Wilson. "What is your profession, Corporal. "I am an author."

"Oh, you write for money?"

"Yes, but lately my father has refused to send me any."

Corp. Pritchard was giving his recruits instructions about firing on targets and he gave every recruit a number. "Now, Rct. Clark," he said, "You fire on No. 55 when it comes up."

"All right Corporal, but what target do you want me to fire at when they go down."

Company "H"

Monday of last week the quarters of the company were inspected by the commandant. On Friday afternoon the quarters were again inspected by the Chief of Staff, General Charles P. Summerall. Our prize show cart, with mule and harness, was placed on the lawn, with the sun glinting on the chromium and defying all eyes to brave its glare.

Cpls. O'Brien and Matthews are back from furlough and state complete recovery from their flu. Cpl. O'Brien had the pleasure of watching the Indianapolis 500 mile speed races and states there were thrills galore.

SERGEANT MASON RETIRES

Master Sergeant Norman C. Mason, Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry, has completed his many years of active service, and has been placed on the retired list.

Sgt. Mason, who is a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, has been with the Twenty-ninth Infantry since 1922. His first enlistment began in July, 1898, with the 6th U. S. Volunteers, with which regiment he saw active service in Porto Rico.

His order of retirement follows:

Headquarters Twenty-Ninth Infantry, office of the Regimental Commander.

Fort Benning, Georgia, May 20, 1929.

General Orders No. 8.

Master Sergeant Norman C. Mason, R-204644, Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry, after more than thirty years service in the U. S. army was placed on the retired list, at this station May 17, 1929, and will be sent to his home pursuant to authority contained in paragraph 13, Special Orders No. 112, War Department, Washington, dated May 14, 1929.

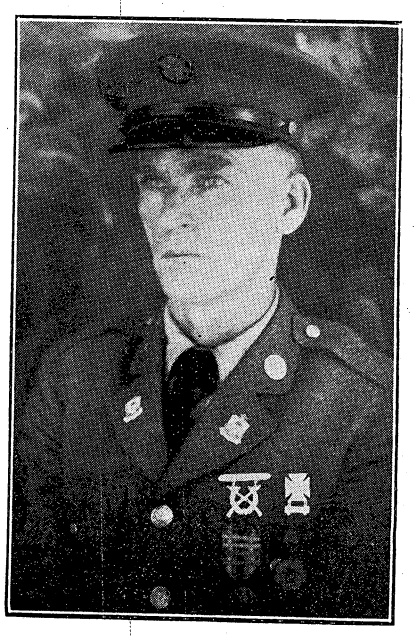
Master Sergeant Mason first enlisted in Company "M," 6th Vol. Infantry July 8, 1898.

His service is as follows:

Company "M," 6th Volunteer Infantry, July 8, 1898 to March 15, 1899.

Company "H" 37th Volunteer Infantry, July 25, 1899, to November 3, 1900.

5th Company C. A. C., March 26, 1901, to March 25, 1904.



Master Sergeant Mason, 29th Infantry, who was retired recently.

91st Company C. A. C., April 6, 1904, to April 5, 1907.

75th Company C. A. C., June 30, 1907 to June 29, 1910.

91st Company C. A. C., September 3, 1910 to September 2, 1913.

1st M. O. R. S., September 4, 1913 to September 4, 1919.

Ordnance Department, September 5, 1919 to September 4, 1920.

72nl Ordnance Company, September 5, 1920 to September 4, 1923.

Service Company, 29th Infantry, September 5, 1926 to retirement.

Master Sergeant Mason has had the following foreign service:

Porto Rico: October 15, 1898 to February 12, 1899.

Phillipines; November 1, 1899 to October 2, 1900.

France: January 24, 1918 to August 21, 1919.

Battles, engagements, skirmishes, expeditions:

Major Operations

Montdidier-Noyon (defensive) April 25-July 7, 1918.

Aisne-Marne (offensive) July 18-26, 1918.

St. Mihiel (offensive) September 12-13, 1918.

Meuse-Argonne (offensive) October 1-November 8, 1918.

Minor Operations

Cantigny (offensive) May 28-30, 1918.

Saiserais Sector (defensive) August 7-26, 1918.

The retirement of Master Sergeant Norman C. Mason marks the close of a long and honorable career as a soldier of the United States. His record of service, loyalty and application to duty is an enviable one and is one to be emulated by all men who have the best interest of their country and themselves at heart. The congratulations of the regimental commander and the entire command are tendered Sergeant Mason upon the completion of his long service and cordial good wishes are extended for his future success and happiness in his well earned retirement.

By order of Colonel Pendleton:
CARL M. ULSAKER,
Captain, 29th Infantry,
Acting Adjutant.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Tarpon Fishing

EDISON CURRY
TARPON GUIDE

Using 45 foot House Boat fully equipped, and 31 foot Express Cruiser for guide boat.

Tarpon now running on Florida West Coast.

Make your fishing engagements in advance.

EDISON CURRY,
BRADENTON, FLA.
40 miles below Tampa—one day's drive from Coluumbs

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

NOW EVERYBODY SWIMS

But the correct bathing suit is as essential as any of your other clothing. For that reason we have selected the famous

RUGBY LINE OF BATHING SUITS

They are made to please the most exacting, and there is a size and style for everybody.

Drop in and see them.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

FIGHT FANCIES

Soldier DeMarrs has returned to Fort Bragg, his home station; Gunner DePratt is still around Benning, and very much so, indeed. There seems to be no other fighter on the post just at present who would make such an ideal finalist on a boxing card, as would the Gunner. No fight has been announced for June 25, and there is likely to be none.

It is rumored that there will be a fight held at the arena before the month has passed. Gunner DePratt is still in good condition and would draw a sizable bunch of fans out to see the fight. That is why all the Benning fans are predicting that Captain Wilson will put the machine-gunner on the next card. His prediction is that he won't—but you know when the fans say anything, it usually turns out that way, except in the awarding of the decision.

If the fans had all to do with a decision, at the end of one of the Gunner DePratt vs Anybody Else cards, they would give the decision to Pullin Yourneck, or a decision radically different from the one the third man in the ring would give.

Blondy Parker is training hard for another chance to show the boys that he can stay in there and take it, all the while giving a good account of himself. Parker is developing blows every day that will produce the sleeping potion for almost any of the southern boys his weight, and wouldn't surprise us much if he were to take some of the good boys for a ride.

Pinkie Phillips is now on furlough. Well—we will not be bothered about that just for a while. We hope that he wins all of his fights for the glory of the dear old I. S. D.

Good old Grinnin' Grumpy Gordy is still in there fighting for a draw. He is getting more offers each day to fight away from here. He says that he wished that his great uncle had been a railroad fireman, so that he could get free transportation to and from the fights. He says that he changed his mind three times in the fight with Corn Griffin. Once to score a knock out; once to let it go for a draw; and the last time he changed his mind was to let Griffin go until he gave out, but that didn't work either, for when Griffin gave out, Grumpy did too!!!

Now that Doubtin' Thomas has proved his worth, he should get a chance to do bigger and better fights. He has proven that he is ready to stay in there and sling the calf-skins with any of them, even though he is outclassed all the way. Thomas was fighting just as hard in the last round of his last fight as he was in the opener. He proved his ability to take and give, or give and take, have it as you will.

What on earth has become of the Raven Poe? That is a question that has been asked by at least one out of every three fight fans. We want him back, and we want him bad—not like the eggs that the country farmer asked for—we want him good, bad, or see what the boys in the back room want. It is understood that Raven is a cook now, and is dealing misery to the K. P.'s.

The next fight will be a corker, and no foolin'. Captain Wilson has something up his sleeve that he will not let out. Well let him keep it, we will find it out before we go to the next fight, and that is a cinch. Don't get us wrong we will not miss another fight at Fort Benning. Not for any price!!!

FORT BENNING TENNIS TOURNAMENT HUGE SUCCESS

Monday afternoon brought to a close the first annual open amateur tennis tournament of The Infantry School. After having the disfavor of the weather man brought down about their ears on two occasions, the tournament players finished one day late in fast style.

Monday afternoon was packed brim full of spectacular plays, and quite a number of flukey ones. There were times when it seemed that Mr. Grant and Mr. Mooney would ping-pong the ball about, in an effort to gain the point, indefinately. Then there were the moments when Mr. Mooney seemed to grow tired of this kind of tennis, and would proceed to try to run the small Mr. Grant's legs off. Every point of each game of their match was hotly contested, but the most of them were relinquished by Mr. Mooney, thereby giving the singles championship to Mr. Grant.

After the battle of the singles, Miss Brandt, of Fort Benning, and Mr. Murray, of New Orleans, played an exhibition match with Mrs. Brimmer, of Fort Benning, and Mr. Burwell, of Sewanee. The play was rather interesting, and brought out many of the finer points of net play. Miss Brandt and Mr. Murray finally gave way to Mrs. Brimmer and Mr. Burwell, but the fans were very well pleased with the exhibition.

The doubles match followed, with hair-raising moments of play coming in every service. Jack Mooney and Byron Grant, of Atlanta, played Mr. Burwell, of Sewanee, and Lt. Hedekin, of Fort Benning. The games were fast ones, and played with the eye of the professional on the part of both teams. Mr. Burwell at times seemed as though he would drive his opponents to death, but by some fluke, he was always unable to gain the advantage in the crucial moments. He was ably supported by his partner, Lt. Hedekin.

Jack and Byron finished in good form, and in Atlanta, Georgia, lies the championship of the Infanty School's first annual tennis tournament. Although Bobbie Withers and Lt. Hedekin moved up a few notches during the progress of the tournament, the play proved that they will make good headway in the next tournament after a bit of practice.

The tournament was pronounced a success from all points of view, and it has been voted by the fans as one of the best to be shown in the state in years. It is planned to have another tournament next year

ENLISTED MEN'S TENNIS CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED

To date there has been very little interest shown by enlisted men toward the game of tennis. Recently there has been a movement on foot to organize a tennis club for enlisted men, and toward the formation of that club, a great many are actively working.

Next Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock, at the Special Units Headquarters building in the academic area, there will be a meeting of all the enlisted men of the post who are interested in the organization of a tennis club. All of those who are interested are urgently requested to be present and be prepared to offer suggestions and to discuss suggestions, for the formation of the club.

The Officers' Club has set aside two courts of the Officers Club courts that can be used by enlisted men. Major Landis has been very much in favor of promoting the game for the enlisted men, and stated that there will be more courts built for the use of the enlisted men when it becomes necessary.

Don't forget the date and place: Saturday, June 15, at the Special Units Headquarters building, (in the academic area). Bring an interested party along with you and help give tennis the support that it needs at Benning! ! !

DAN CUPID MAKES HOMER OFF FAMOUS ARMY PITCHER

Wherever baseball is played within the bounds of the U. S., his name is a byword. His fast one has made the bravest of batters tremble, his hook has deceived the sharpest eyes.

For twenty-nine years this veteran of the diamond has turned batters away from the plate hitless while the crowded stands voiced their admiration and approval in a roar of applause.

Finally a little recruit with a chubby face, a baby smile, and scanty garments, came to bat; the fast one he hit for a homer; the curve has never been found. When the crowded stands inquired the demon hitter's name they found that it was just plain Dan Cupid, the boy that has never failed to get his man.

Probably many of the fans think that the "Grand Old Man of Baseball," would amble away with down-cast head when he found that he had fallen a victim to Cupid. Far be it; instead he freely admits that it is an honor to lose to one who has claimed so many victims since the days of Adam and Eve.

Although losing to Cupid, Sgt. Logan Duff has found and won that which is the most wonderful thing in any man's life, "The Girl."

His host of friends in every post extend hearty congratulations and best wishes to Sgt. and Mrs. Logan Duff.

SEVEN SWIMMING DON'TS

(1) Don't go in swimming alone unless you are an expert.

(2) Don't swim immediately after eating; wait at least two hours.

(3) Don't swim if overheated.

(4) Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

(5) Don't continue swimming when exhausted.

(6) Don't wade into water with your arms above your head. You will not be in readiness to stroke should you step into a hole.

(7) Don't struggle if caught in a swift current or undertow. The force of the current will bring you to the surface.

ON FISHING TRIP TO FLORIDA

Capt. F. S. Doll, assistant recreation officer, and Capt. M. E. Halloran, 29th Infantry, with their families, left yesterday for Sopchoppee, Florida, where they will spend a ten-day vacation fishing.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

The World's Greatest Tire

GOOD YEAR

The Best Service in Town

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

Special Prices

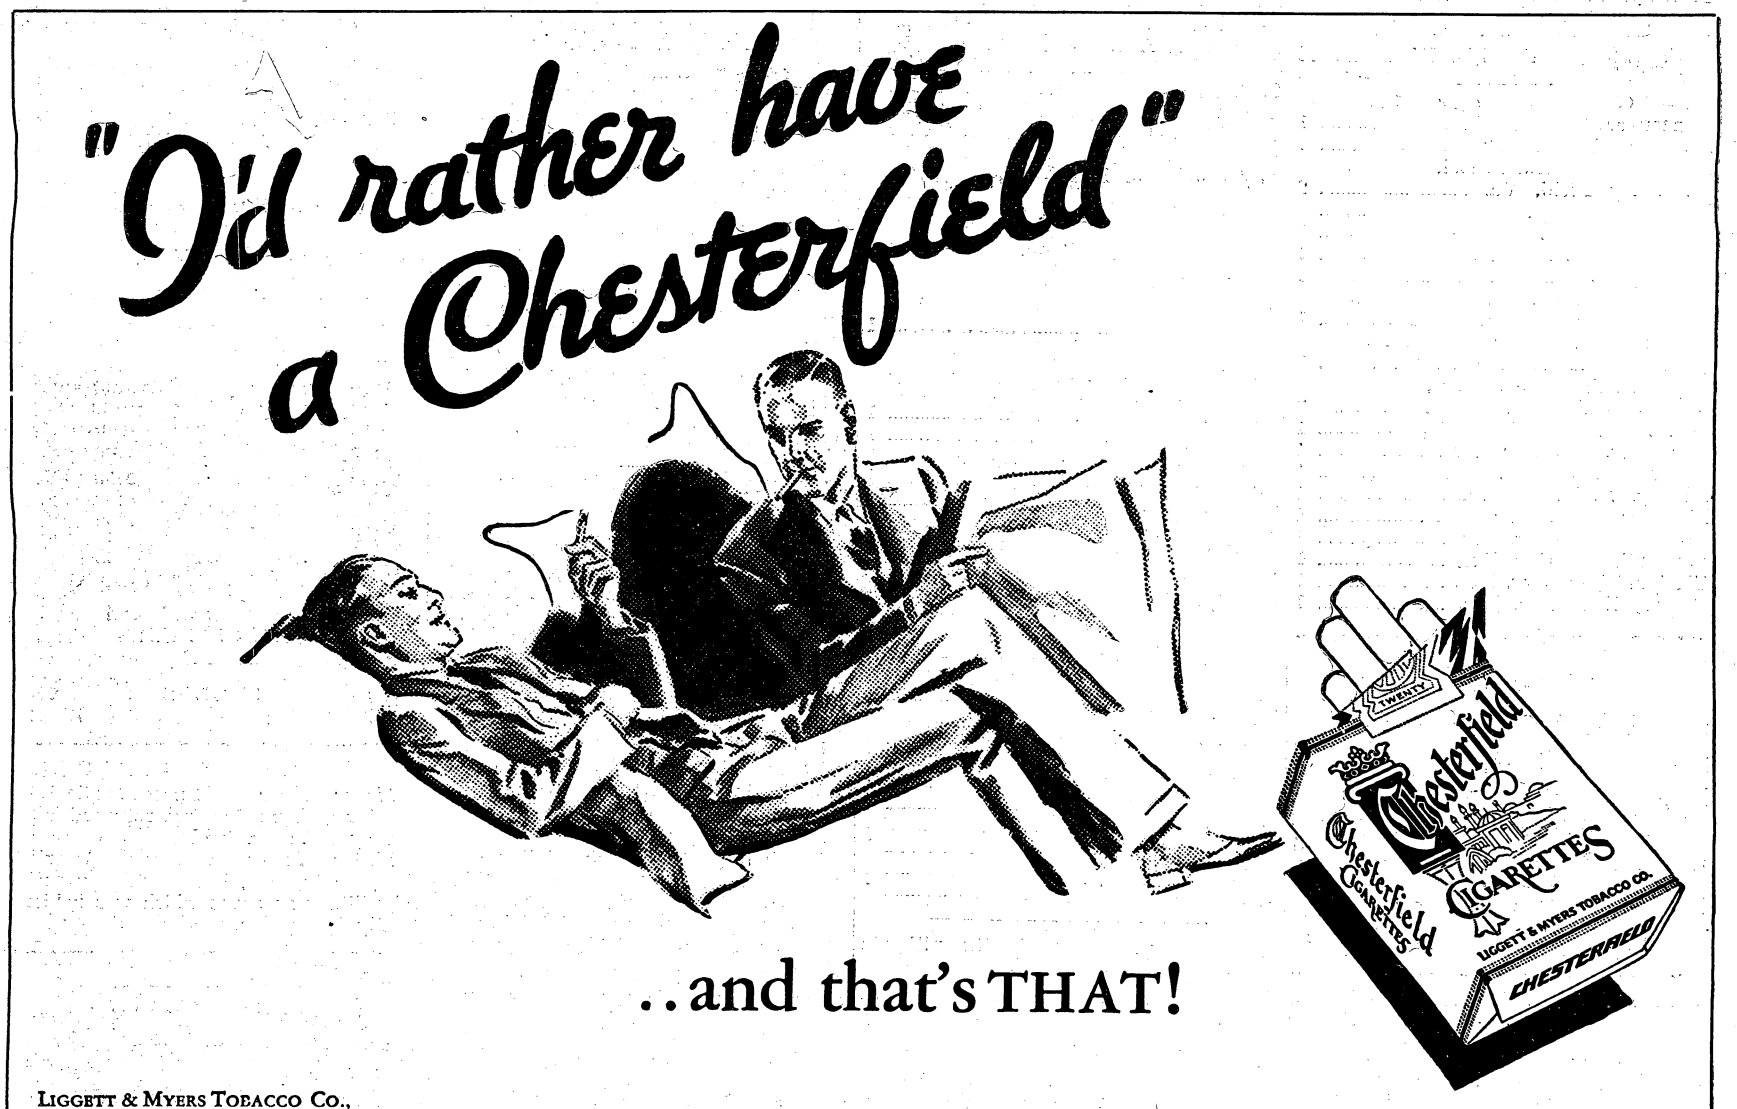
ON

MEN'S SWIMMING SUITS

The Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.



INFANTRY SCHOOL THEATERS SHOW HIGH CLASS PICTURES

(Continued from page 3.)

morale boosters. Taking into consideration the fact that movies are run purely for the purpose of furnishing enjoyable entertainment, and the fact that they are purchased in bulk for some 110 stations throughout the service, makes it possible for the motion picture service to secure pictures from producers at prices which will permit them to be shown at the present low cost of admission.

Upon investigation it is learned that a great number of elements enter into the satisfactory exhibition of movies. The success of this establishment at Benning is due the scientific study given it. In the succeeding paragraphs we will endeavor to explain the methods which have been employed so that officers who go to other stations may have an insight into the operation of this activity in case they might be detailed in a recreational capacity.

A careful study is made of the types of pictures most desired, and the nights of the week upon which the greatest number of people will be free to attend showings of those pictures which appeal to their individual tastes. This is not only confined to feature pictures, but also to short subjects such as news reels, comedies, and educational films. The public is informed of the type of picture they may expect to see on a certain night of the week. For instance, on Sundays our theatres display the biggest feature pictures available; coupled with these, short subjects of an educational nature and refinement are shown. Saturday nights western pictures with a short comedy are habitually screened. Even the children's welfare is considered; for Friday and Saturday nights an effort is made to show only those pictures which children should see, and at the same time can be enjoyed by adults. Other nights are equally taken care of.

Something less than 400 pictures are produced annually; of these, our theatres show 365, and while it is not expected to please everybody, a most conscientious effort is made to satisfy the greater majority.

Music accompanying pictures is a matter given much thought. Imagine the feelings which would be engendered among the audience if the orchestra played "Alexander's Ragtime Band" while a man was being murdered upon the screen. A picture without music falls "flat," and one with poor music grates on the nerves; therefore, good musicians must be selected. The orchestra must be trained to play music which is synchronized to the theme of the action on the screen. Occasionally at the Main theatre the orchestra has switched its type of music as many as 102 times during the screening of a feature picture. Needless to say a large music library is necessary. It is a known fact among entertainers that theatre as well as the eye must be appealed to.

A poor picture shown in an attractive building is much more enjoyable than an excellent picture shown in a barn; consequently, it is necessary that every effort must be made to build up a theatre atmosphere; this is done through decorating the interior of the building attractively, building stage settings, which appeal to the eye, keeping the theatre warm in the winter and cool in the summer, maintaining proper ventilation, and training house personnel in the courteous handing of patrons. In an army post the military can be engendered with the idea that the theatre is theirs and it will be found that they take as much pride in their theatre as do the officials who operate it.

Last, but by no means least, the mechanics of proper projection of motion pictures requires utmost care and preparation—the main object being to present uninterrupted programs. This is done through the following measures: Every inch of film requires careful inspection before it is threaded into a machine; if this is not done it is apt to flicker on the screen or to break, causing a delay to the audience and the danger of fire in the operating booth. On occasions as much as 14,000 feet of this delicate, brittle and inflammatory film passes through the hands of the careful operator during an inspection.

A carefully planned organization is essential to the efficient operation of a motion picture theatre, and especially at a station like Fort Benning where three show houses are operated. Here, the organization is divided into departments viz: selection of pictures and planning of programs; securing, distribution, and shipping of films; inspection and projection which includes skillful handling of delicate mechanisms; advertising and exploitation; house management divided into two parts, front and rear—the former pertaining to the sale and collection of tickets, seating of patrons, ventilation and heating—the latter to the manipulation of stage settings; and lastly, a clerical department, the function of which is accurate accounting, correspondence, etc.

Officer student personnel attending the Infantry School have displayed their keen appreciation of the service rendered at the Main theatre through their large attendance of performances. At times as many as eighty seats have been reserved for theatre parties. Likewise, organization commanders have demonstrated their knowledge of the benefits of this type of entertainment by reserving seats for their companies or detachments which have at times aggregated as many as 600.

Theatre-going becomes a habit, and this Post is filled with movie fans.

"BIRTHS"

June 3, 1929—David DeForest Black, son of 1st. Lieut. and Mrs. Ira W. Black, Infantry.

June 8, 1929—Ralph Musgrove, Jr., son of Corporal and Mrs. Ralph Musgrove, 17th Ordnance Dept.

June 9, 1929—David Hammond Mattingly, Jr., son of Sergeant and Mrs. David H. Mattingly, Hqrs. Co., 15th Tank Bn.

"DEATHS"

June 3, 1929—William Strickland, retired soldier, age 61 years, 6 months and 9 days.

June 4, 1929—David DeForest Black, age 1 day and 13 hours, son of 1st Lieut. and Mrs. Ira W. Black, Infantry.

"HAM" AND—

By R. F. H.

The Post Exchange has a 1923 Ford converted truck. The sides of this truck are of metal of about the same thickness and with about the same reverberating power as its fenders. The sides are closed in up to the roof.

A few days back this car was standing in front of the Officers Club as we were going in. Lt. Harold S. Kelley came out right at that point; went over to the truck; climbed in and started to drive away. Thinking to have a little fun we playfully heaved a rock into her sheet-iron sides. The car slowed down and came to a stop. "Ham" got out; walked around the machine, looking her over carefully. He seemed to be satisfied that she was all there, for presently he started off rather tentatively, as if he expected something to happen. And something did; we clanked another rock into her. The car came to a dead stop. "Ham" climbed out, went into the club and called the wrecker.

1929 GRADUATES ASSIGNED TO MANY PLACES

(Continued from page 1.)

Vancouver Bks., Wash.	1
Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyo.	1
Air Corps Tactical School, Langley Field, Va.	2
Ft. Clark, Texas	1
Ft. Howard, Md.	1
Nogales, Ariz.	1
Mason City, Iowa, N. G.	1
University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont	1
University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska	1
Pennsylvania State College, Philadelphia, Pa.	3
Q. M. School, Philadelphia, Pa.	1
Lancaster, Pa., Org., Res.	1
Scranton, Pa., N. G.	1
Albany, N. Y., R. S.	1
Memphis, Tenn., Org. Res.	1
Boston, Mass., Org. Res.	1
Portland, Me., Org. Res.	1
Cincinnatti, O., Org. Res.	1
Omaha, Neb., Org. Res.	1
Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.	2
Mich. State Agric. & Mech. College, Lansing, Mich.	2
Chicago, Ill., N. G.	1
University of Fla., Gainsville, Fla.	1
Ohio State University, Columbus, O.	1
Bismarck, N. D., N. G.	1
City College of New York, University Heights, N. Y.	1
Columbia, S. C., Org. Res.	1
Roswell, N. M., Org. Res.	1
Ft. Defiance, Va., August Mil. Academy	1
North Georgia Agricultural College, Dahlonega, Ga.	1
N. Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo, N. D.	1
University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.	1
Vicksburg, Miss., N. G.	1
Conn. Agric. College, Storrs, Conn.	1
St. Louis, Mo., N. G.	1
Omaha, Neb., N. G.	1
University of Wisc.	1
Atlanta, Ga., N. G.	1
University of Ky.	3
Brunswick, Ga., N. G.	1
University of Penn.	1
Minot, N. D., N. G.	1
University of Oregon	1
Agric. & Mech. College, Texas	1
Coe College, Iowa	1
Drexel Institute	1
S. D. Agric. College	1
Altoona, Pa., N. G.	1
University of Mo.	1
University of Me.	1
Rutgers University, Vt.	1
University of Nevada	1
Durham, N. C., N. G.	1
Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Org. Res.	1

Tactical proficiency is the ultimate goal of military training.

Chapel Notices

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Sunday at 9:30 a. m. Bible School; classes for all ages. Special class for men and women.

Sunday at 10:30 a. m. public worship. This service is non-sectarian. Good music. All are welcome.

First Sunday each month commemoration of the Lord's Supper in connection with the morning worship.

Ladies' Chapel Guild meets in the Chapel on the first Monday each month.

JEWISH SERVICES

5:45 P. M.—Each Sunday evening in the Catholic Chapel conducted by Rabbi Frank L. Rosenthal, Chaplain.

TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY SERVICES

10:00 A. M.—Sunday School.
11:00 A. M.—Morning Worship.
5:30 P. M.—Evening Worship conducted by Chaplain Alexander W. Thomas.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna, U. S Army.
Sundays:
8 a. m. Low Mass.
9 a. m. Sunday School.
10 a. m. Mass, sermon and Benediction.
Daily, 7:30 a. m., Low Mass.
Confessions before Masses.

In all contacts with the civilian components of the army and with civilians in general, the Regular Army will set a proper example by maintaining the highest standards of drill, bearing dress, conduct, and military efficiency.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. — R. M. Harding, Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

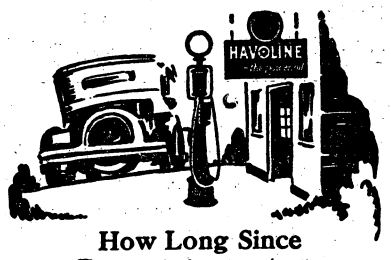
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.



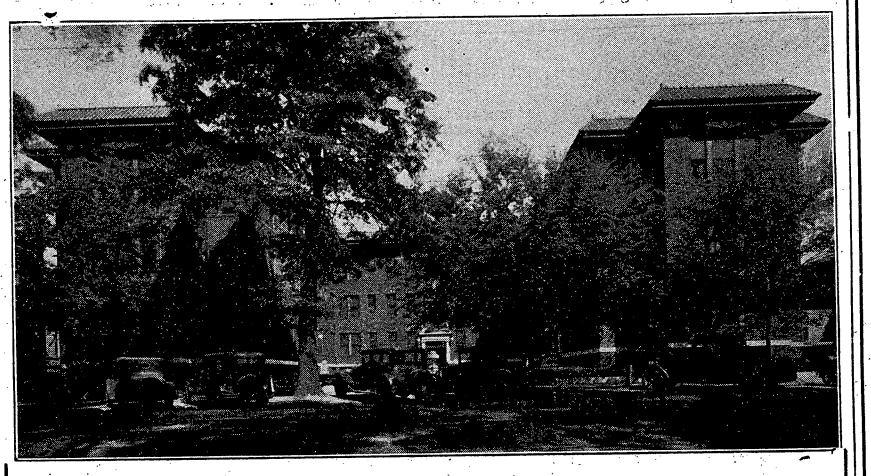
How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5 00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

MAJOR HUMES RETURNS

Major Edgar E. Humes, Medical Inspector of Fort Benning, returned Wednesday from England.

Major Humes, was an American delegate to the international convention of military surgeons which was held recently in London.

FENDERS BODIES STRAIGHTENED

We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.

We are completely equipped to repair any job.

The Post Exchange

—at—

Fort Benning is our Agent

COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS

1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

A New and Finer Nash

WORLD'S EASIEST STEERING CAR

Built for Endurance and Power. Designed for Comfort and Beauty

EDGE-FULLER MOTOR CO.

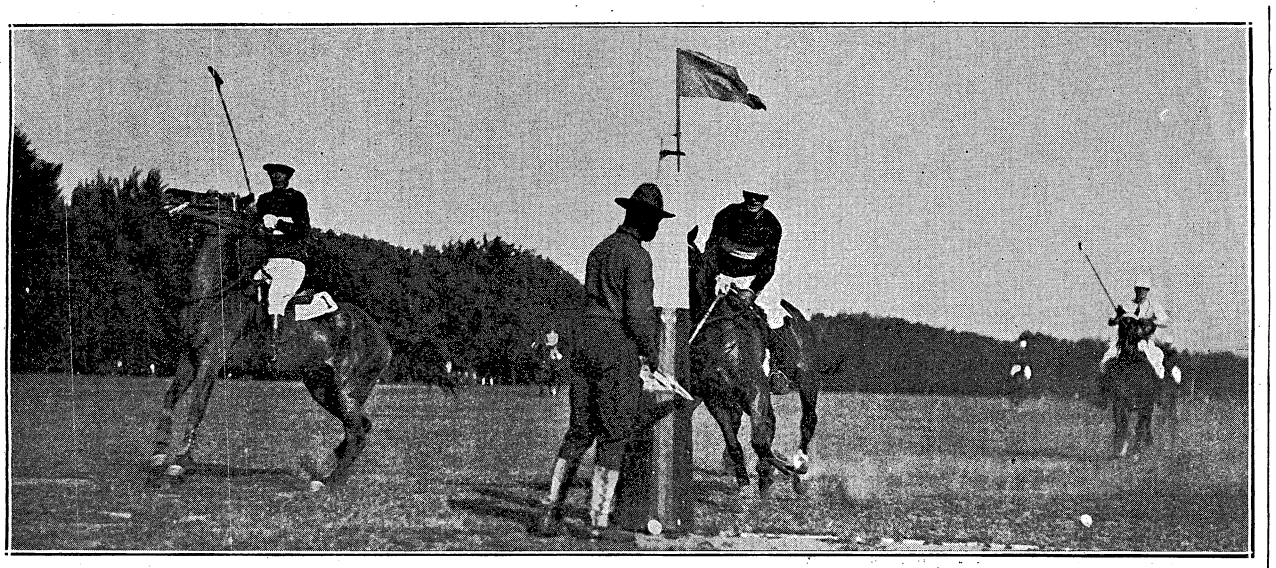
1309 Broadway Phone 67

100 Per Cent Nash Service

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JUNE 21, 1929 Number 40

Fort Benning Polo Team Wins Infantry Cup



An exciting moment of play in one of the games at Washington. Lt. Jacobs, near the goal post, has just hit the ball. Major Lyman is at the left.

CHIEF OF FIELD ARTILLERY INSPECTS AT INFANTRY SCHOOL

Major General Fred T. Austin, Chief of Field Artillery, made a brief visit to the Infantry School last week for the purpose of inspecting the artillery organizations stationed here. General Austin was met in Opelika, Alabama, by Major Lloyd E. Jones, commanding officer of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion and accompanied by him to Fort Benning where he arrived at 12:40 p. m.

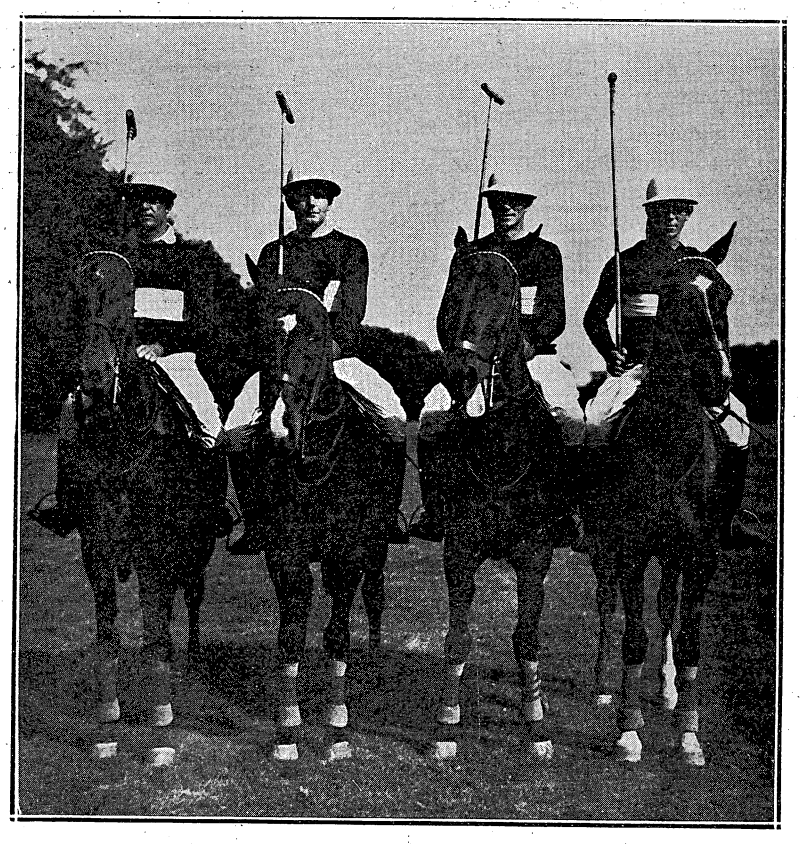
Brigadier General Campbell King met General Austin upon his arrival at the Upatoi Bridge, and Battery C, 83rd Field Artillery, Capt. D. L. Crane, fired the prescribed salute for a major general. The band and a composite company from the 29th Infantry, commanded by Capt. George S. Wear, were in formation near the battery as a guard of honor.

General Austin made a brief inspection of the battery and escort and then proceeded to the commandant's quarters where he had luncheon with General King. The general spent the afternoon at an observation post on Houston Hill from which he observed the service firing of Battery A, situated on Davis Hill.

In the evening he was the dinner guest of Col. D. G. Berry and later attended the reception given by the field artillery officers in the Field Artillery Club.

On Friday morning General Austin visited and inspected the field artillery unit of the R. O. T. C. camp and spent the remainder of the morning making an area inspection of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion. Major Harold E. Marr and Major Jones entertained the general at luncheon at the Log Cabin. At 3:30 Friday afternoon he left for Fort Bragg, N. C.

During General Austin's visit to Fort Benning, Capt. D. L. Crane was detailed as acting aide and Sergt. Leonard E. Bruno as orderly.



THE INFANTRY SCHOOL POLO TEAM

Left to right: Major C. B. Lyman, Capt. R. A. McClure, 1st Lt. Ben R. Jacobs, 2d Lt. J. G. Van Houten.

GENERAL KING MEMBER OF CLASSIFICATION BOARD

Brigadier General Campbell King, Commandant of The Infantry School at Fort Benning has been designated as a member of the classification board which meets annually at Washington, D. C., for the purpose of classification of officers of the regular army.

The first meeting of the board is scheduled for 10 a. m., July 2, and it will be in session for two or three days.

General King will depart for Washington about June 30th and will return to Fort Benning about July 7th.

MRS. HOOVER PRESENTS CUP

Riding like men of iron, the Fort Benning polo team, led by Major Lyman, was victorious over the Third Cavalry team in the final game of the War Department Tournament at Washington, Wednesday. The Infantry Association cup was presented to the victorious team by Mrs. Herbert Hoover. The Benning team played the game under a two goal handicap, and won its victory after a hard fought battle by 14 to 11.

Spectators at the tournament stated that the Benning riders were the hardest riding players who ever played in that part of the country.

Major Lyman, playing number one for the Fort Benning four, performed brilliantly, scoring six goals. His pass work with the ball baffled the opponents and gave his team mates an opportunity to score frequently.

Lieutenant Jacobs, playing number three, came second to his team captain, scoring four goals. Major Lyman and Lieutenant Jacobs gave superb exhibitions of riding.

The Fort Benning team departed for Washington on June 4th in acceptance of the War Department's invitation to participate in the tournament. A year's practice at Benning had given them confidence and team unity, which was manifested in all their contests.

Funds to partially defray the expenses of the northern invasion were raised by the last boxing program held at the Fort Benning arena.

The four horsemen of the Upatoi defeated the War Department Blues and the War Department Whites before the playing of the finals against the Third Cavalry. In the game with the Blues, the Benning team was handicapped two goals and won easily, 9 to 3. The War Department riders made but one goal on the field.

In their match with the Whites, the Benning players were recipients of a three goal handicap, but did not need it. They won the game 11 to 4.

Major C. B. Lyman, who has been in charge of polo at the Infantry School for the past two years, was in charge of the team, and starred in every game. His hard riding and aggressiveness gave him an advantage that made him outstanding among many excellent players.

Other members of the squad are: Captain R. A. McClure, Lieutenant J. G. Van Houten, Lieutenant B. R. Jacobs, Lieutenant William H. Bartlett, and Lieutenant H. Y. Grubbs.

Many distinguished guests saw the game Wednesday. Among them was Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who presented the Fort Benning team with the Infantry Cup.

The ponies were shipped after the game to Winston-Salem, N. C. to be used in the games there Saturday and Monday.

The team was entertained at luncheon at the Army and Navy Club on June 10 by Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, Chief of Infantry, and in the evening of the same day the players were guests of honor at a dinner given by Major General Briant H. Wells, deputy chief of staff, and Mrs. Wells, at their home in Washington.

I. S. D. BIDS FAREWELL TO DEPARTING MEMBERS

On Tuesday evening, June 18, at the I. S. D. mess hall, the organization held a banquet in honor of two retiring non-commissioned officers, Master Sergeant Kriz, and Master Sergeant Jansen, and for Captain Henry H. Fay, who has been assigned to foreign service.

At seven o'clock, the detachment filed into the mess hall, while the orchestra from the 24th Infantry rendered a selected number. The first thing to greet the eye of the casual onlooker was the nicely browned fried chicken, which had been given "right dress" along the sides of the long tables. Nothing elaborate about this banquet but the eats. The only things on the tables that weren't edible were the few zinnias that adorned the tables. Even they looked good enough to eat.

While the business of hiding the fried chicken and its many accessories to the meal was going on, a quartette from the 24th Infantry furnished several good selections. After each number, they were greeted with flattering bursts of applause. When their harmonious tones began, the buzz of conversation ceased and the guests listened eagerly to the songs.

Near the end of all operations, Major Falligant, commanding the Infantry School Detachment, arose and made a few introductory remarks and presented Colonel D. G. Berry, who related briefly the military history of Captain Fay, Master Sergeant Kriz and Master Sergeant Jansen and their length of service in Fort Benning and in the I. S. D.

Colonel Berry said in part:

"Captain Fay is a graduate of the Kansas Theological School and is an ordained minister of the Gospel in addition to being a captain of infantry, an unusual accomplishment in the army. In his profession as a minister he is talented, eloquent, and sincere; and in his profession as a soldier is just as sincere, devoted and accomplished.

"His attitude toward enlisted men is that of a sympathetic friendly interest and respect that has won for him similar respect, admiration and a place in their affection hard to fill, so that his departure from among them is a matter of regret on each side.

"In leaving the I. S. D., Captain Fay carries with him the earnest good will and good wishes of all officers and men with whom he has been associated."

Colonel Berry then congratulated Master Sergeants Kriz and Jansen upon the culmination of their successful military careers, and upon their well earned rest upon retirement, and their prospects for future success in their civil careers. He pointed out that both were comparatively young men in the full vigor of life, and by training and character, are well equipped to carry on for many years in the pursuits of civil life.

"After long years of honest and faithful service, they have won the highest merit available to the enlisted grades, that of master sergeant, which compares with the highest grade attainable in the commissioned grades, that of major general," said Colonel Berry, "Necessarily, such grades are attainable to only a few, and call for the highest qualifications, not only in professional ability, but also in character and habits."

"Their examples as successful soldiers has pointed out a worthy one to follow. The qualities that won for them success in a military career are primarily the same as are necessary in any walk of life. Honesty, industry, sobriety, fidelity and steady pursuit of the training necessary to advancement.

"The lack of any of these qualities of character, no matter how brilliant or how well they may otherwise have been qualified in professional ability, would never have won success for them, because in all leadership, the man must be able, through character, to inspire respect and confidence, not only in those who select him for positions of trust, but also in those whom he is to lead and command in the performance of their duties.

"It should be a source of inspiration to every soldier to note the success of these men and the prospects still available to them for future success in civil life. It is seldom in civil life that a man can retire from his business or profession, so early in life, with his future living so abundantly provided for and with full years of vigor yet available to him, either for the quiet, peaceful life of retirement or for other ventures.

"Sergeants Kriz and Jansen are congratulated that they have so well earned the respect and admiration of the officers and men with whom they have served and who so earnestly and with such good fellowship wish them every happiness and success in their future pursuits in civil life."

Sergeant Kriz then arose to bid the detachment farewell. In just as few words he stated how much he had enjoyed his service with the Infantry School Detachment. In closing, he said, "It is time for me to go, I hate to do do it. On the other hand, I realize that it is my time, and I must go."

Sergeant Jansen then arose and expressed pleasure at having served with the green-cord detachment, and was seated.

Both were presented with nice leather suitcases by Sergeant Bishop in behalf of the N. C. O. Club. These tokens of love and friendship were graciously received.

Captain Fay then arose and gave proof to the fact that he was not wanting in the facility of speech. He delivered an address that was enjoyed by all those present, and will be remembered by all. He expressed his regret at leaving the I. S. D., and said that he was still young, and would get another chance to come back and continue to work with them before his service ended.

Master Sergeant Peter J. Jansen, Infantry School Detachment, was born in Cologne, Germany, April 22, 1879, enlisted June 23, 1900. Served as sergeant during World War.

Service as follows:

Co. A, 1st Infantry—6-23-00 to 6-22-03.

112th Company C. A. C.—7-27-05 to 8-01-08.

Co. C, 16th Infantry—8-14-08 to 8-13-11.

Co. B, 12th Infantry—10-30-11 to 10-29-14.

M. G. Co. 12th Inf.—10-30-14 to 4-03-19.

Infantry Sch. Det.—4-04-19 to 4-03-22.

Infantry Sch. Det.—4-04-22 to 4-03-25.

Infantry Sch. Det.—4-04-25 to 4-03-28.

Infantry Sch. Det.—4-04-28 to Date.

Foreign Service:

Philippine Islands—9-01-00 to 4-04-03.

Alaska—7-04-10 to 8-13-11.

Master Sergeant James H. Kriz, Infantry School Detachment, was born in Chicago, Illionis, Sept. 23, 1881.

Enlisted Dec. 17, 1903.

Served as sergeant and 1st sergeant during World War.

Service as follows:

Co. A, 15th Infantry—12-17-03 to 6-30-05.

Co. A, 15th Infantry—7-01-05 to 6-30-08.

Co., A, 15th Infantry—7-01-08 to 6-30-11.

Co. M, 8th Infantry—7-01-11 to 6-30-14.

Supply Co. 351st Inf.—7-01-14 to 12-04-19.

Infantry Sch. Det.—12-05-19 to 12-04-20.

Infantry Sch. Det.—12-05-20 to 12-04-23.

Infantry Sch. Det.—12-05-23 to 12-04-26.

Infantry Sch. Det.—12-05-26 to 6-05-29.

Foreign Service:

Philippine Islands—12-03-05 to 11-15-07.

Philippine Islands—12-03-11 to 6-30-14.

Captain Henry H. Fay, 24th Infantry, was born at Brookline, Mass., Dec. 27, 1889.

Educated at Lowell, Mass. Ordained in Oklahoma.

Kansas Theological School, Topeka, Kansas.

1st Lt. Res. 11-27-17.

1st Lt. Reg. 7-1-20.

7th Division Co. Commander.

Regt. Liaison Officer.

Brig. Liaison Officer.

Asst. G-1 7th Division to Armistice.

1st Division Asst. G-1, after Armistice.

Fort Benning—9-19-20.

Co. Commander Course—20-21.

Instructor Military History—21-23.

Assigned 24th Inf. 1923.

Logging Camp 2 years.

1 yr. Recreation Center Board.

I. S. D. March 17, 1927.

IN CHARGE OF PLAYGROUND

Chaplain John R. Wright, Protestant chaplain of Fort Benning, has been detailed as assistant to the recreation officer in charge of children's playgrounds.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

ICE CREAM FREEZERS

WHITE MOUNTAIN,	1 to 6 Qt.	3.40	7.35
NEW STANDARD,	2 to 6 Qt.	2.45	5.00
FROST KING,	1 to 20 Qt.	2.48	18.60

SPECIAL

POLLYANNA FREEZERS, 2 Qt..... $1.95

ICE PICKS, ICE SHAVES, LEMON SQUEEZERS

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

Swimming Suits

LATEST STYLES—
ATTRACTIVE PRICES

Ladies' Suits at The Special Order Dept.

Men's Suits at The MAIN BRANCH

Post Exchange

Fort Benning, Ga.

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 21, TO JUNE 28, INCL.

FRIDAY, JUNE 21

"TIDE OF THE EMPIRE," starring Renee Adoree and George Foster in an epic portrayal of the life in "Days of '49." The story starts with the old Spanish days when "The Dons" in peaceful grandeur ruled over the land of California, then at Sutter's Mill pioneers discover gold, and hordes of pioneers invade the territory, overthrowing Spanish rule and building a new era of progress on the ashes of former civilization. Against this background is told the delicate romance of one of the Dons and one of the vanguards of the coming progressive west. The theme of the story is staggering in its immensity. This is Peter B. Kyne's epic of the "Argonauts." Lovers of history as well as lovers of excitement will enjoy this picture.

"Pathe News No. 49."

SATURDAY, JUNE 22

"TERROR MOUNTAIN," starring Tom Tyler in a snapping Western revolving around the exploits of a movie star who endeavors to save a girl from the conspiracy of a gang of outlaws. See what happens when a celluloid cowboy tests his mettle against villians in real life. The plot is laid in the great white wastes of northern snow country. It is a captivating romance with numerous comedy punches.

"Toots' Big Idea."

SUNDAY, JUNE 23

"RED SKIN," starring Richard Dix in a scenic drama done in gorgeous technicolor. It is the story of a race of people clinging to old traditions, yet seeking to adapt themselves to the new. It depicts the struggle of youth against the caution of age, and how youth seeks release from the binding chains of tribal custom. This romance involves a boy and a girl of rival tribes, separated by generations of ill-feeling between their ancestors who learn to love and rise above the restrictions of their environment. The theme is tragic and highly dramatic. The background, shown in beautiful color upon the screen, portrays the splendor of the majestic Canyon de Chelly near the Navajo reservation in Arizona, picturesque homes of the Indians, and the splendors of the fortified mesa as they existed in the days of the aborigines.

"Topics of the Day."

"M. G. M. News No. 87."

MONDAY, JUNE 24

"THE MIDNIGHT TAXI," starring Antonio Moreno with Helene Costello in a thrilling story of hijackers, rum runners, and thieves. It centers around a trip of Los Angeles rum runners to Vancouver to negotiate for a shipload of booze. Stolen bonds, and the theft of a string of diamonds enter into the complications which result when various members of the bootleg ring attempt to double cross each other. It is a fascinating story from start to finish.

"Mystery Rider No. 9."

TUESDAY, JUNE 25

"THE RAINBOW," starring Dorothy Sebastian with Lawrence Gray in a story of modern gold rushing. It is a gripping love story concerning a fine young man and a sweet young girl, who learn that the man whom the girl had always regarded as her father is a crook. There is shown a thrilling race to the border, the desert at night in a raging sand storm, and the great scene in the morning at the foot of a rainbow where the crook leader, his last act before he is killed, uncovers glittering gold beneath the sand.

"School Days." Sport.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26

"SUNSET PASS," from the novel by Zane Grey, starring Jack Holt. This picture was actually photographed on the ground so vividly pictured by the pen of the novelist. The setting is an old trading post in southwestern Arizona. It concerns a story of cattle rustlers, and the bringing to justice of a band of thieves by a United States marshal. Its plot revolves around a romance between the sister of the leader of the outlaws and the United States marshal with whom she falls in love. Needless to say, numerous complications arise giving rise to gripping, thrilling, incidents. It is considered one of the most interesting stories ever written by this famous author.

"Snapping the Whip." Fables.

"M. G. M. News No. 88."

THURSDAY, JUNE 27

"THE LETTER," starring Jeanne Eagels in a tense melodrama laid in and near Signapore. The action takes place on a rubber plantation. It concerns the wife of a planter who falls in love with a wastrel. The love affair continues for several years. Finally she learns that he has ceased to love her and she kills him. How the affair is finally cleared up, and how the couple face life again furnishes a gripping and highly entertaining story. Intrigue, oriental prowess, and court scenes feature in the plot.

"Habeus Corpus." Laurel-Hardy.

FRIDAY, JUNE 28

"THE TERROR," starring May McAvoy with Louise Fazenda in one of the creepiest crook films ever screened. It deals with the pursuit of a master

Scene From "The Terror." A Warner Bros. Production criminal who has stolen the entire capital of a bank and hidden somewhere in an old manor house used as a rest cure resort. An odd assortment of human beings is assembled at this place: crooks, detectives, frightened ladies, and daffy folks. Over all is the terrible hidden power of the unknown being, "The Terror." This story can be characterized as most amusingly uncanny.

"Pathe News No. 51."

FOUR PROMOTIONS ARE ANNOUNCED

The promotions of four Fort Benning officers were announced by the War Department last week. They are Walter A. Pashley, Infantry, promoted from Captain to Major, with rank from May 15; Ira W. Black, Infantry, from 1st Lieutenant to Captain, with rank from May 18; and Daniel P. Card, Medical Corps, from Major to Lieutenant Colonel, with rank from May 26.

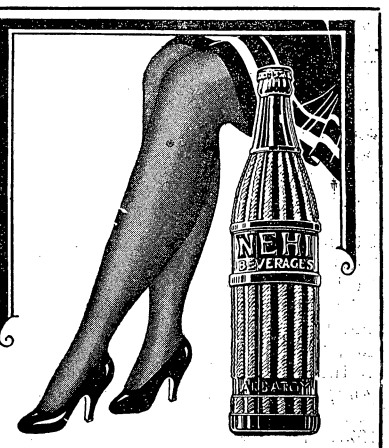
Major Pashley and Captain Darr were students at the Infantry School during the academic year just completed. Captain Black has been on duty with the military police at Fort Benning for some time. Colonel Card has been in command of the station hospital since the death of Colonel Frank Baker a few months ago.

MAJOR DALE TRANSFERRED

Major Harry L. Dale, Medical Corps, has received orders transferring him to the Hawaiian Department effective in October.

Major Dale has been in charge of the eye, ear, nose and throat clinic of the station hospital since January 2, 1926. Prior to his assignment to Fort Benning, he was on the same duty at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, California.

Do Your Clothes Feel Tired?
Then Call
465—Ring 2
24th Inf.
Fort Benning Cleaners



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

The Third National Bank
of Columbus, Ga.
The
Columbus Bank and Trust Company
—o—
Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000
—o—
Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
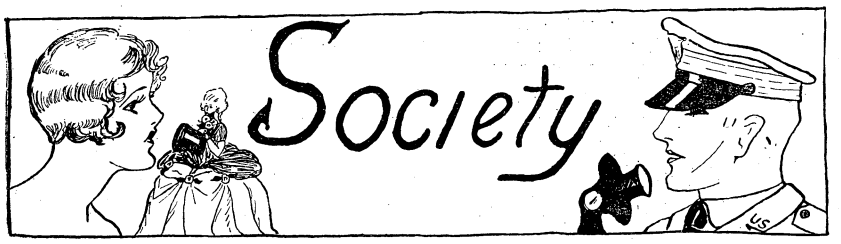
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

OTT—PARHAM

A wedding centering much cordial interest in Georgia, Florida, and throughout the army was that of Miss Eliza Dechoiseul Ott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Oliver Ott, of Columbus, Ga., and Lieutenant Alfred Henry Parham, U. S. A. which took place on Thursday afternoon, June 20th, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. W. S. Boykin in Sumter, S. C., in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

Miss Ott was given in marriage by her father, and had as her maid-of-honor and only attendant, Miss Ermine Trulock, of Columbus.

Mrs. Parham, as Miss Ott, was a charming member of the young social set of Columbus, being a charter member of The Cotillion Club and enjoying a wide popularity during her brief young ladyhood.

She received her education at the Florida State Woman's College at Tallahassee where she was a member of the Pi Phi sorority.

Lieutenant Parham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Parham, of Valdosta, Ga., formerly of Athens. He graduated at the University of Georgia in 1926 and going immediately to the United States Military Academy, graduated there in 1927. Since last September he has been stationed with the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning where he has many friends.

* * *

Honoring General and Mrs. Campbell King, Captain Stanley G. Saulnier was host at dinner at the Logging Camp on Tuesday evening. The general made an inspection of the camp earlier in the afternoon and after the other guests arrived Captain Saulnier entertained them in a most interesting and appropriate way. He depicted the activities of the camp from dawn to dark showing how the soldiers and animals were taken care of, how the trees were selected, felled, loaded and transported—(A giant pine was actually felled in the presence of the company and its cambium layers revealed 54 years of age.) After this cross section of life in the Logging Camp a delicious and typically Southern fried chicken dinner was served. Those present were Gen. and Mrs. Campbell King, Col. and Mrs. Harry E. Knight, Col. and Mrs. Paul E. Galleher, Maj. and Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Maj. and Mrs. Henry A. Bootz, Maj. and Mrs. Charles E. Coates, Madame Coates, Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Steel, Capt. and Mrs. Elmer G. Lindroth, Lt. Francis X. Mulvihill, Miss Elizabeth Bowers.

* * *

Honoring Miss Barbara King, Miss Kate Kingman was hostess at a swimming party followed by a breakfast party at her home on First Division

Mrs. Theodore L. Dunn, formerly Miss Marie Russ, whose marriage to Lt. Dunn on June 11th was a notable service social event. Mrs. Dunn is the daughter of Mrs. Marie Rieber Russ and the late Major Joseph Russ, formerly of Fort Benning.

Road on Tuesday morning. Those present were: Misses Barbara King, Sue Brandt, Doris Hall, Daisy Reed, Landon Reed, Becky Hill, Verna Perry, Helen Young, Celeste Broach, Bess Berry, Elizabeth Bowers, Dorothy Gilhus, Peggy Lampke, Harriett Wells, Dorothy Russ, Theodosia Hocker.

The younger set will enjoy the R. O. T. C. dance at the Polo Club this evening.

* * *

Miss Kate Kingman leaves June 28th for Camp Dixie, near Clayton, Ga., where she will teach riding. Camp Dixie is in the lovely Blue Ridge Mountains not for from the famous Tallulah gorge, Toccoa Falls, Lake Rabun, Lakemont the beautiful Nacoochee valley and other charming places where many Georgians seek surcease from the summer sun. She is sure to enjoy her sojourn in Georgia's "Land of the Sky."

* * *

Miss Frances Vernon, of Blacksburg, Va., is the guest of her brother and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Eugene H. Vernon. She will be here for several weeks.

* * *

On Friday evening at the Polo Club, honoring Miss Frances Vernon, of Blacksburg, Va., and Mrs. J. T. Langley of Boston, the guest of her brother and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Zuver, Lt. and Mrs. Vernon and Lt. and Mrs. Zuver entertained the young people of Fort Benning at a very delightful dance.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Walter B. Cochran entertained at a very elaborate dinner party at their quarters on Sunday evening. After dinner they took their guests to the movies. Those present were: Capt. and Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge. Capt. and and Mrs. Carl M. Ulsaker, Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Nichols, Lt. C. T. Davis.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Howard E. Pulliam have as their house guest Mrs. Pulliam's mother, Mrs. J. R. Bibighaus, of Fort Casey, Washington, who will remain with them till July. On Thursday afternoon, June 13th, Mrs. Pulliam honored her mother with a lovely bridge party at the Polo Club. There were eight tables and Miss Helen Young won first prize, a boudoir lamp with hand-painted shade, Mrs. David E. Washburn second, a parchment lamp shade hand-decorated, and Mrs. N. D. Woodward third, a set of novelty score pads and tallies. After the game a delicious frozen salad course was served with iced tea.

* * *

The 24th Infantry afternoon bridge club was entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Palmer Earle at her quarters. There were three tables of players and several tea guests. Mrs. Charles L. Steel won first prize, Mrs. Thomas A. Austin, second. After the game, ice cream and cake were served.

* * *

Honoring General Fred T. Austin, Chief of Artillery, Major Lloyd E. Jones and Major Harold E. Marr were hosts at a stag luncheon at the Log Cabin on Friday.

* * *

Complimenting Mrs. J. R. Bibighaus, of Ft. Casey, Wash., the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Pulliam, and Mrs. Margaret Schaeffer, of Los Angeles, the guest of her sister Mrs. George Wear, Mrs. Louis B. Knight entertained very charmingly at bridge at her quarters on Tuesday afternoon, June 17th. The house was gay with summer fiowers arranged attractively in low bowls and baskets. There were twelve guests playing progressive bridge and Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer won first prize, a box of French dusting powder, and Miss Helen Young second, a bottle of bath crystals. Attractive summer pocket-books were given to the visitors. After the game a lovely frozen salad was served with fancy rolled and embossed sandwiches and iced-tea.

* * *

The club women of Columbus are at home to their many friends this afternoon from 5 to 7 at their charming new club house on Wynnton Drive. They have very cordially invited the club women of Fort Benning to this house warming of their club home.

* * *

Mrs. Leven C. Allen, wife of Major Allen, was hostess at a beautiful luncheon at the Log Cabin on Tuesday honoring Mrs. Edwin Stuart, of Charleston, S. C. The prettily appointed table was overlaid with filet and had for its central decoration a low pottery bowl of Shasta daisies. Slim yellow candles burned in yellow pottery candlesticks and the color scheme of yellow and white was further carried out in the daisy place cards and candies in the

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR WEAR DIAMONDS"

PeKor's INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Kirven's Beauty Salon is the correct way to a

REAL PERMANENT WAVE

Operators Who Know

Equipment is the Latest

Kirven's

ESTABLISHED 1876

Second Floor

The Cricket

A GOOD PLACE TO EAT

COLUMBUS GEORGIA

Open From 6 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Additional Society

form of daisies. Covers were laid for twelve and those to whom this courtesy was extended were: Mrs. Edwin Stuart, Mrs. Campbell King, Mrs. Charles Ryder, Mrs. Daniel Card, Mrs. Charles Townsley, Mrs. Harry Knight, Mrs. Thomas Arms, Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, Mrs. Ira Rader, Mrs. Smith and Miss Daniel.

* * *

Miss Agnes Caffey of Salt Lake City, is being most delightfully entertained as the guest of her brother and sister, Capt. and Mrs. B. F. Caffey. On Tuesday Mrs. Caffey complimented her guest with a two-table bridge luncheon at her home. Those present were: Miss Agnes Caffey, Mrs. Eugene Brine, Mrs. Russell Dean, Mrs. George Wear, Mrs. Margaret Schaeffer, of California, Mrs. Harold Kelley and Mrs. Edward Curren.

On Thursday Mrs. Caffey again was hostess at a bridge luncheon for her visitor, the guests this time being a group of friends from Columbus.

* * *

Miss Virginia Boyd, of Berkely, Cal., who has been the feted guest of her brother and sister, Capt. and Mrs. L. R. Boyd, for an extended visit left on Thursday for Camp George Meade, where she will visit her sister. Later she will return to Benning before going to California.

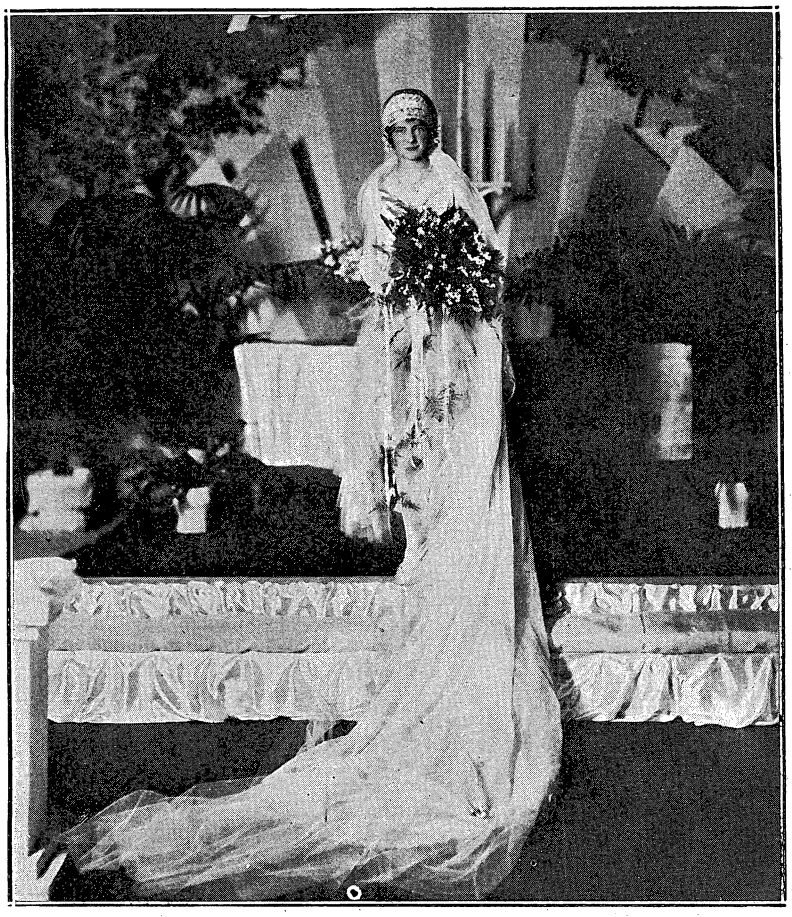
* * *

General and Mrs. Frank R. McCoy entertained at tea last week in honor of the Infantry School Polo team from Fort Benning, Georgia, at their home at 1718 H Street, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Cortlandt Parker and Mrs. Willis D. Crittenberger assisted Mrs. McCoy at the tea tables. Among those present were: Major General and Mrs. Briant H. Wells, General Rupprecht, Uraguayan member of the Bolivian-Paraguayan Conciliation Committee, Admiral Sellers, General and Mrs. E. E. Booth, Mrs. H. B. Crosby, Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, members of the Infantry School Polo team, the War Department Polo Club, the Third Cavalry Polo team, the Sixteenth Field Artillery Polo team, and others.

Miss Helen McFarland Young, daughter of Major and Mrs. Lawrence W. Young, whose engagement to Lt. David D. Hedekin was announced recently.

NEW AID-DE-CAMP APPOINTED

Second Lieutenant Charles H. Royce, Infantry, has been appointed Aide-de-Camp to Brigadier General Campbell King, U. S. Army, commandant, The Infantry School.



Mrs. Welburn B. Griffith, Jr., whose marriage to Lt. Griffith on June 11th was one of the most brilliant service social events of the season. She is the daughter of Major and Mrs. Daniel H. Torrey, of Fort Benning.

GOLF GOSSIP
By V. G. H.

'Tis a brrae bonnie course that the powers-that-be are wishing on us; what with makin' the hazards more hazardous and the new crop of cockle-burrs more cockie than ever, narry a one being conducive to an acceptable vocabulary of an ossifer and a gentleman (and other acts of Congress.)

It is rumored that the officials of the famous Radium Springs resort, where the Georgia state golf championship is about to be played, made an offer to the officers and ladies of the garrison to have a handicap tournament over their championship course, and that they would be willing to furnish two trophies for such an event; this to be played sometime after the state championship event, probably in July. What do you say, friends? Suppose you make your wishes known by dropping us a line into our box at the Golf Shoppe. We feel certain that we have the talent to make a more than passing bid for such an honor.

The Gourmandizers had their last battle Sunday afternoon under the able direction of Captain and Mrs. Jimmie Taylor; in the line-up were Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis, Major and Mrs. C. W. Ryder, Captain and Mrs. W. T. Scott, Captain and Mrs. V. G. Huskea, Captain and Mrs. E. J. Buckbee and the afore mentioned directors of the ceremony, Captain and Mrs. Jimmie Taylor. The event was a two-ball Scotch foursome, with three foursomes in the battle line. "When it's the end of a perfect day" was duly celebrated near the 13th tee with a splendid contribution by the culinary arts department of the lady-members, a baccalaureate—rendered by Prof. Scott as Dean of the members present, concluded a very pleasant and enjoyable afternoon.

The oft propounded question of "Will enlisted men be permitted to play golf" is ever present. We are assured that this is a point well taken, and that it is being considered for the very near future. While provision for enlisted men has already been made by the tennis officials it must be considered that it is much easier for them to place their facilities at the disposal of our soldiers than it is to construct a suitable golf course sufficient for the large number of enlisted men who appear to be interested in golf.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES OF OFFICERS

The following is a list of the officers who have arrived at and departed from Ft. Benning during the week of June 14 to 21.

Arrivals

Col. H. S. Wagner, I. G., for temporary duty.

Capt. Ercil D. Porter, from temporary duty.

Departures

Capt. L. B. Glasgow, to Detached Service and change of station to Command & General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

1st Lt. S. L. Douthit, to leave and change of station to Panama.

2nd Lt. B. P. Purdue, to Detached Service and change of station to 4th Inf. Vancouver Bks, Washington.

Chapel Notices

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Sunday at 9:30 a. m. Bible School; classes for all ages. Special class for men and women.

Sunday at 10:30 a. m. public worship. This service is non-sectarian. Good music. All are welcome.

First Sunday each month commemoration of the Lord's Supper in connection with the morning worship.

Ladies' Chapel Guild meets in the Chapel on the first Monday each month.

JEWISH SERVICES

5:45 P. M.—Each Sunday evening in the Catholic Chapel conducted by Rabbi Frank L. Rosenthal, Chaplain.

TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY SERVICES

10:00 A. M.—Sunday School.
11:00 A. M.—Morning Worship.
5:30 P. M.—Evening Worship conducted by Chaplain Alexander W. Thomas.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna, U. S. Army.

Sundays:
8 a. m. Low Mass.
9 a. m. Sunday School.
10 a. m. Mass, sermon and Benediction.
Daily, 7:30 a. m., Low Mass.
Confessions before Masses.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

K&P

AN old style watch may be accurate.... but it marks you as years behind the time.

* *

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

MRS. YOUNG'S
Grill
"The Best of Food"
117 12th Street Phone 4026
COLUMBUS, GA.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. June 21, 1929 No. 40

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

HONORS FOR BENNING

The brilliant performance of the Infantry School polo team in the War Department tournament is a source of pride and gratification to Fort Benning.

Their hard riding, their aggressive playing, and their clean sportsmanship carried them to victory and won the admiration of their opponents and the spectators of the games.

Their showing was a remarkable one indeed. It is a splendid tribute to the methods and facilities of the Infantry School that the players of a dismounted arm could enter a large tournament, play on a strange field and emerge victorious over teams composed of members of mounted arms playing on home grounds.

We are, indeed, proud of our Infantry School polo team.

The mechanized army may still be a dim dream of the future, but each year it is becoming a more alarming dream to such of us as see the summation of all military development still centered on all the methods of the World War.

For the future we must learn to think and to work in hours and minutes instead of days and weeks.

GENERAL SUMMERALL COMMENDS INFANTRY SCHOOL

High commendation for the Infantry School was expressed in a letter received this week by Brig. Gen. Campbell King, commandant of The Infantry School, from General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the Army, who made a brief visit of inspection here May 31 and June 1.

General Summerall expresses his impressions of Fort Benning as follows:

Dear General King:

I am glad of this opportunity to express to you my appreciation and congratulations on the very favorable conditions observed by me on the ocassion of my visit to Fort Benning on May 31st-June 1st. I was especially impressed by the evidences of coordinated effort and administrative results.

The police and orderliness of the entire garrison, as well as the smartness and deportment of all grades, was indeed refreshing to see. The transportation, the equipment and dress of the garrison were most creditable.

The work in the academic branch reflects credit upon the faculty and the students.

I shall be pleased if you will, when you find it convenient, inform the officers and men of the various organizations of my feeling of satisfaction over the results being attained by their work.

I should like especially to express to the garrison my appreciation for the pageant on Ebbert Hill. It was the most unique demonstration of combined effort of community spirit and morale that it has been my pleasure to observe.

I am glad of this opportunity to congratulate the garrison on the victory of the composite polo team here in Washington at this time in their first game of the tournament played against a War Department team yesterday. You have probably heard that the score was 9 to 3 and the players of the Benning squad individually played fine polo. Everyone is delighted that they are here.

Sincerely,
(Signed) C. P. SUMMERALL,
General,
Chief of Staff.

COLUMBUS CLOSE-UPS

By LeRoy Yarborough

WELCOME TO LADIES AND GENTS AND CROOKS

In a tiny lean-to shack built of secondhand lumber against the side of an aged and decayed house which stands on a cross street a short distance from the business district, a man who has experienced many vicissitudes of fortune is making another start in life. Many and varied enterprises, some of them frowned upon by the laws of society, have preceded the present venture and have yielded various returns of profit and loss and fortune and misfortune to their owner. Of wordly goods he has but little; of experience, duly paid for by endeavor or expiation, he has an abundance. Out of it has grown a quaint philosophy and a practical wisdom which, although expressed ungrammatically, often tritely, is always entertaining.

I met him first some months ago when re was conducting the small—and legitimate—business which preceded the present one.

The other day I noticed two new crudely lettered signs in front of his place which apparently proclaimed that my acquaintaince was branching into a new, and for him utterly foreign field of endeavor.

"Catarrh and Corns Cured Free. Buttermilk 5 cents," said one of the signs painted on a strip of oilcloth. "Preaching here Sunday, Welcome to Ladies and Gents and Crooks."

In the light of some of his history with which I am familiar, the message conveyed by the two signs was novel, indeed, so having a few minutes to spare, I went in to satisfy my curiosity about the new activity.

He was glad to see me again and after exchanging the customary greetings, I asked him when he had taken up preaching.

"I ain't no preacher," he said, "but I bet that for an uneducated man, I could preach a better sermon than any preacher. I can tell people not to do wrong because I've done it an' I know it don't pay. I've had experience doin' plenty of things that was wrong. No, I ain't no preacher but I sure could preach a good sermon.

"Them signs? They're about a fellow who come in here a couple of weeks ago. I never seen him before but I know him well now. You know how I am; I can take a look at a fellow an' tell right that quick whether he's all right or not. Well, I looked at this fellow an' I seen that he was all right.

"He's a cowboy preacher. He whirls a rope but he ain't like Will Rogers. He tells people just what he thinks of 'em; sort of cusses 'em when he gets worked up.

"Like Billy Sunday?" I asked.

"Yes, only better. He's got the best thing I ever saw to cure corns and catarrh. He don't charge nothin' either. He cures 'em free an' then preaches to 'em. He can tell about things that's goin' to happen, too.

"He was preaching here one night about a week ago. Three or four hundred people was standin' out front here listenin'. There was one young fellow a'millin' around sayin' to everybody he don't believe in nothin' the preacher was sayin'. He wasn't talkin' loud enough for anybody except those right near him to hear but the preacher just knew it, so he said, 'If there's anybody here don't believe what I say, I ask him to hit the ground right here."

"What did he mean by 'hitting the ground?'" I asked.

"To step right out in front an' tell him he didn't believe nothin'. 'Listen now to what I am tellin' you,' he says to the crowd. 'There's goin' to be somethin' terrible happen to someone here. Now if anybody don't believe me, you can go right down to the telegraph office an' send a telegram to the chief of police in'—I forget where he said it was—'an I'll pay for the telegram an' everything, an' the chief of police will telegraph back that what I say is true. I told them there that somethin' was goin' to happen an' it did just like I said. A circus tent blew down an' two or three people was killed an' a lot was hurt.' You know about all that trouble they had in Florida?"

"You mean the hurricane around Miami?" I asked.

"Yes. He told about that before it happened, too, an' he offered to pay for a telegram if anybody wanted to ask the chief of police down there to prove it. Well, the crowd just listened to him an' nobody said nothin' more, an' here last week this fellow that was doin' all the talkin' about not believin' nothin' was knocked in the head an' was buried Saturday.

"Yes, sir, that fellow is sure a good preacher. Look at these books that he's wrote."

He handed me three paper bound pamphlets with the alluring titles: "The Truth Hurts," "What Can a Girl Do," and "To Hell and Back."

"How is your new business getting along," I asked as I handed the books back to him and glanced around the little eight-by-ten store whose meager stock consisted largely of soft drinks candies, bread, pastry in packages, and a few commodities such as vinegar, salt and matches.

"Well, it's kinda slow right now," he replied. "You see, I've got two kinds of customers, honest men and crooks. The honest man comes in an' buys an' runs up a big bill; then he don't come back again. The crook comes in an' buys an' pays for what he gets; if he runs up a bill or borrows a dollar till Saturday, he always comes back an' pays. Trouble is I got too many honest people for customers an' not enough crooks.

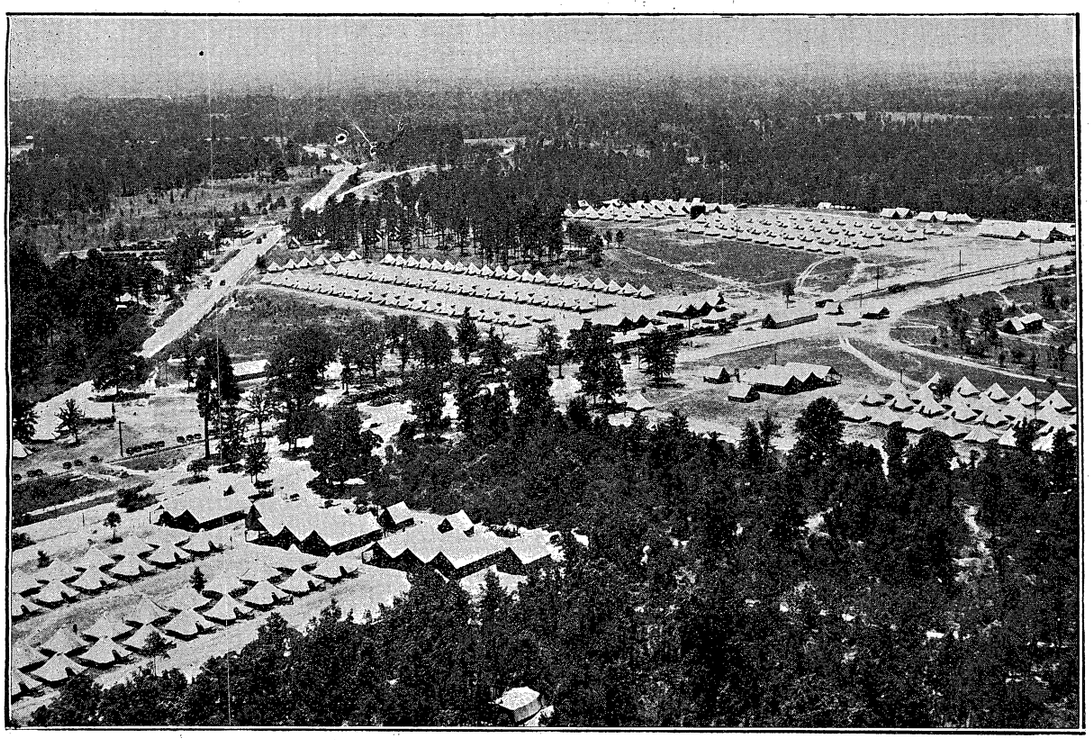
"One of my honest customers says to me the other day when he bought some cigarettes, 'You don't need to put the tax stamp on 'em when you sell to me.' 'Why don't I,' says I. 'Because you know me,' he says. 'Well, that's one reason why I'm goin' to put it on,' I says.

"Another fellow comes in the other day an' looks around a while an' then he says, 'You got a pretty good place here, you ought to do right well.' I didn't say nothing because I suspicion him an' know that he's got some scheme. After while he makes his proposition. 'You got a ice box there,' he says. 'I know it, I put it there myself,' says I. 'It would be a good place to store home-brew before it was sold,' he says. That was his scheme. He wanted to consolidate with me. We'd go in bootleggin' together an' then we'd go to jail together. He was as crazy as you or me. I don't listen to none of 'em any more.

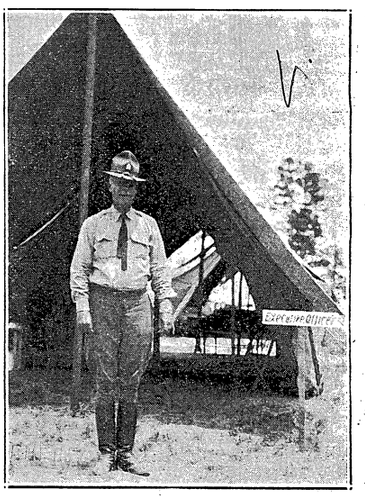
"If a man came to me and told me we could make a hundred thousand dollars together, I wouldn't even listen to him. If he could make that much money he wouldn't come to me to give me half of it, he'd want to keep it all for hisself. If he didn't, I'd know he was crooked or crazy or maybe both.

"Yes, sir, there's always somebody comin' around to tell you how you can run your business better. Me, I ain't got no time to mind other people's business; I'm too busy mindin' my own."

29th Infantry Pitches Model Camp for Student Officers



Aerial view of Camp Leonard Wood at Harmony Church. Photo by 4th Photo Sec. Maxwell Field.



Lieutenant Colonel Walter L. Reed, 29th Infantry, whose battalion erected the camps at Harmony Church and Sulphur Springs. The two maneuver camps sheltered the 1st Battalion of the 29th Infantry, the 235 student officers and the staff of instructors of the Infantry School.

—Photos by Signal Corps.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

SPRAINS AND BRUISES

Minor accidents occur at all seasons of the year but on account of the outdoor life and strenous exercise of summer sports, they are more common in summer, this being true even in a climate like that of Fort Benning where we have summer weather a good part of the year. Ordinarily the pain in the muscles of the shoulder or arm from throwing a ball is taken as a matter of course, but severe pain in the side or back, the inability to move the neck, or even a moderate pain in the knee or shoulder joint will bring the patient to a medical officer to seek relief.

As a rule, it is not merely straining of the muscles, but trouble which is intensified by the sudden chilling after heavy or unusual exercise. This is especially true of a person with a tendency to rheumatism. The pain begins suddenly and is usually localized in a definite group of muscles, and varies in character from an acute stabbing pain to a dull ache, the intensity of which is increased by movements of the muscles.

Bruises and sprains are injuries to the deep tissues without breaks in the skin. The thickness and elasticity of the body tissues, particularly the blood vessel walls, varies greatly in different individuals. Thus some persons may have black and blue spots from the slightest injury and others not be so affected.

As blood vessel walls harden with increasing age, more trifling injuries may cause breaks with consequent escape of blood into the tissues, thus forming a bruise. Nature's effort to carry away the product of inflamation is accompanied by conjestion of the blood vessels, therefore the part is swollen.

The first thing to be done for a bruise is to attempt to stop the bleeding that is taking place under the skin. Elevation of the part, cold applications and general pressure will accomplish this. These measures are effective only if undertaken immediately following the accident. After a few hours have passed such steps will be without effect. The swelling following bruises more than a day old may be reduced by the application of cloths wet with hot water. In case of doubt as to the seriousness of a bruise, a physician should be consulted.

Sprains vary in severity from slight stretching or twisting of the tissues to actually tearing. Since such injuries may be very serious, a physician should be consulted as soon as practicable. In the meantime rest and freedom from movements are indicated, these being desirable no matter where the injury may be. In slight sprains not accompanied by pain, the application of strips of adhesive tape will give relief, and if there is delay in reaching a physician, such strips may be used even in more serious cases. It is important to apply the strips smoothly and not bind the part tightly enough to interfere with circulation.

Initiative and adaptability, or the energy and ability to initiate action promptly to meet any situation making the best use of the means at hand, are essential in every individual in a military force.

Teamwork is the concerted action of the members of a team in the accomplishment of a common purpose.

"What's the charge for this battery?"

"Three amperes."

"Well, how much is that in American money?"

Judge: Ten dollars fine.

College Student: Can you change a twenty?

Judge: Nope. Twenty dollars fine.

She: That auto looks pretty well worn out.

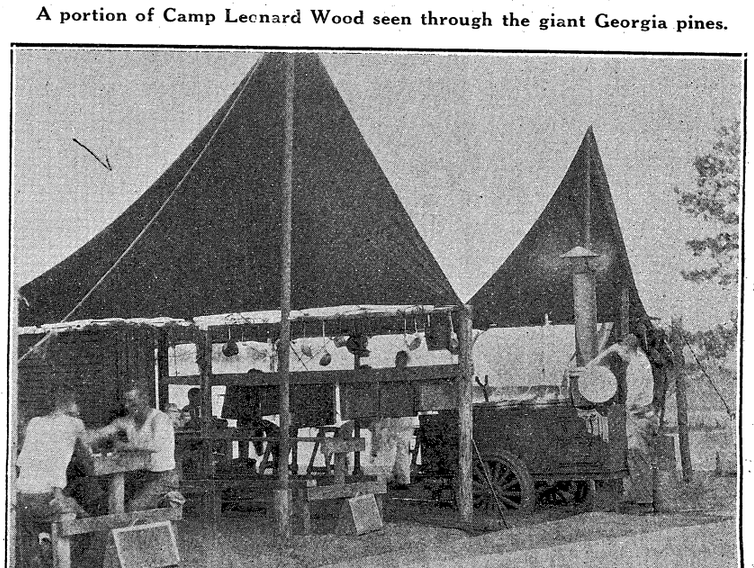
He: It ought to. It's the sole survivor of three love affairs.

Al: "An apple started all the trouble."

Cal: "But it took a pair to finish it."

A portion of Camp Leonard Wood seen through the giant Georgia pines.



Kitchen of Howitzer Company, 29th Inf., at Camp Liscum, Sulphur Springs.

29TH INF.

Headquarters Company

Well, everybody is back from maneuvers and all are glad to get back to the real feeding, even down to Yo-Yo, the company mascot. "Bucky" says that he has fed Yo-Yo so much fish that he expects him to sprout scales any day.

There was just one thing lacking in this year's maneuver camp. Pvt. Marler did not have the opportunity to prove that he could walk from the Post to camp in an hour and twenty-seven minutes. It was thought at first that the first sergeant was going to give him the chance, by making him a one man detail to settle the bet.

Sgt. Marsden and Pfc. Sandow were among the men who received citations from the Chief of Staff, during his recent visit.

One of the boys has returned from his furlough and relates the following: "T'other afternoon, I was forcibly reminded of my old side-door pullman days. Was in the reading room of the Service Club, where courtesy abounds, when suddenly a loud, rough and uncouth voice interrupted. 'All right, you, outside!' Coming so unexpectedly, it caused me to grab my hat, and start for the nearest exit, until I remembered that it was all right, that it was only the fair guardian of the reading room."

With pay-day hut a hazy remembrance, cigarettes are being smoked shorter, or longer, as the case may be. The thumb and index finger of all men show signs of having held that last quarter inch of cigarette. After a Camel (advt.) has gone the usual rounds of about five "butts" the slogan, "Good to the last drop," might well apply. Pvt. Grace has inaugurated a system to keep in smokes. He gathers all the "butts" and taking one of the numerous cigarette papers, utilizes the tobacco that might otherwise be lost in that last quarter inch of cigarette. A man can't get a break at all in the orderly room. Every time a man receives a letter from Columbus, instead of considering him as a sheik, Sgt. Houghtby accuses him of not paying his bills.

29th Inf. Band

With the 2nd Battalion entering on its range season, the band finds itself minus some seven students, and a drum-major. However, we know Josey will be back after he fires, for never did he find a softer job than he had with us.

The Polo club witnessed the appearance Monday of the "baldheaded trio," augmented by Sabino, when they rendered services at a tea held there.

Two prodigals have returned to the fold to replenish their neglected stomachs and they tell us the world outside seems to be getting along nicely without them. Charles Layton spent a pleasant fifteen days at Lafayette, Ga., and Jesse Wilkinson returned a day early from his twenty day sojourn at Lawrenceville, Ala.

Sgt. Joseph Villa spent the week-end visiting his brother at Ft. Barrancas, Fla.

Rumor has it that Merlin Cathers has already put in his papers to buy out, and we suspect that he must have an attractive opportunity, for he only has four months to do. Good luck Cathers, send us some valentines when you're out.

1st Bn. Headquarters and Headquarter Company

Within this company of ours you will find some men of adventurous inclinations, others just hang around the company waiting for inspections. Among the first group you will find some of the more prominent members; they may be seen here or there, sometimes together, sometimes alone.

The other night a group of the adventurous spirits gathered together for an expedition into the wilds of the 23rd Infantry woods. The object in mind was to ascertain the amount of honey that could be collected from a certain tree that had been spotted, which they believed to contain bees and honey in abundance. Eventually they came to the tree, then the job of getting to the honey began.

Everything went off in fine shape. They got the honey and were sitting around absorbing the sweetness to the best of their ability, when one of the boys, taking an extra large bite, discovered to his amazement and chagrin, that all of the bees had not been removed from the honey. Mr. Bee not being a bit bashful of course, kissed him directly upon his lower lip. Now there are kisses and then there are kisses, but the kisses that that boy desires are not the kind of kisses that Mr. Bee is putting out.

Old Mac Donald with his "here a chick, there a chick, chickens every where" has not one thing on our boys. For the latter part of last week it was "here a rush there a rush, rushing everywhere." Why? Oh, why? Why do we have to stand full field inspections. Coming in off of maneuvers found every one a little short here or there. With a result that every one was in a mad scramble getting his things in shape. Eventually the time comes when all things must be done, so when the inspection began everyone was prepared to a more or less degree, but still puffing and blowing from the great exertion of preparing for the great event.

Company "A"

Company "G" said to tell them one better than they had in the NEWS last week and they will step back out of the way.

"G" company had one officer and two enlisted men to go to Camp Perry with the infanty rifle team. We believe that we have bettered "G" company for "A" company sent two men to Perry last year and three this year. All three who were sent this year are enlisted men, Sgt. Beck, Sgt. Hamscher and Cpl. Wills. Sgt. Hamscher and Sgt. Beck also made the trip last year.

The 1st Battalion came back off maneuvers and had the honor of escorting the Chief of Field Artillery into the Post. The general complimented the escort very highly. Captain Wear commanded the escort.

Cpl. Dawson has been recommended to fill the vacancy for Sgt. Hudson.

Company "C"

Here we go, said Corporal Dey, or Pug, when he mounted his steed and headed down the hill. We all thought there were six or eight persons riding the horse, as Pug is one of these fellows who thinks a horse's ears are air brakes, and that a policeman's beat is some kind of vegetable.

The company mechanic has been building a wooden horse so that Pug could get lots of practice; it appears that since the last ride, he is even afraid of a wooden one. He can get one started but when it comes time to halt he can't think of what to say, for he is from the city and doesn't know horse's ways.

Our beloved Aiken is still with us. He has bought out no less than twenty times this year. He says he is going back to the farm and raise peaches. We all know what kind of peaches he would raise. Aiken is a good fellow but he must have been in bad company during his younger days.

Company "D"

Well we are back from Camp Leonard Wood and hard at work pulling guards and fatigue. I think everyone is taking it easy but Pvt. Speer, better known as Big Foot, and I think he will pull through O. K. The yodeling detail that won great fame in the wilderness out from Camp Leonard Wood, is a little quiet now, but I think business will pick up by the first of the month when greenbacks will be more plentiful. We are sure the record can not be beat.

Sgt. Moore, our company clerk, at headquarters, left Saturday for his home in California, after completing three years service with Company "D."

Cpl. Swan, who will be discharged soon, says he will leave for parts unknown about the first of July.

Company "E"

E Company started on rifle marksmanship last Tuesday. The company is so enthused over firing this year, that the men are forming a club, named "The Solid Ivory Club," to promote better shooting. They have all had their heads shaved to keep their hair out of their eyes and to keep from blocking the bolt manipulation. They have had a beautiful picture made of the lovely effect.

Pvt. Gulley asked Corp. French why Sgt. Mathews' shaved baldhead reminded him of heaven. "That beats me," French replied. "Well dumbness," said Gulley, "there is no parting there." No wonder the sheiks are not going to town. They have our sympathy even though their girls will turn them down. They are quite a wonderful sight when they all get together at night comparing their shaved heads.

Sgt. Henry Mathews has been acting first Sgt. in the absence of our First Sergeant "High" Davis, who has been in the hospital with malaria fever for a week.

On account of "Kentucky Sheik" Stamper's love of the shady spots, it is predicted that he would be the high expert of the company if he was allowed to build a shady lane all the way in front of his target to him.

Pvt. Gurley lost a $20 bill on the parade ground during the dry shooting last week He was seen that night down in the ISD company street looking for this $20. "Pug" Maynard asked him what he was looking for in the company street. Gurley told "Pug" of his loss of the $20, on the parade ground. "Pug" says, "Why look for it here?" Gurley said "It was light in the street and there was no light on the parade ground to look for it." "Pug" says, "Why not go to Columbus, and look on Broadway, there is also plenty of lights."

Company "F"

Our old friend, Steve Sebastian, is back off furlough—wonder why he turned in early? Sgt. Gasser tells us he has been around the mess hall between meals which explains it.

We are glad to have Lt. Gilbreth back with us, he has been away on a well earned leave. Hope you had a great time, Lieutenant.

Cpl. Collins arrived back from Miami. He brings wonderful news and stories from the pride city of the 'Gator State. Wonder is it really like that?

"Oofus" is still trying to find an explanation for Tyree Smith's numerous trips to town. Must be grand, eh Smith?

We got another old timer in the company the other day, "Work Hard" Bradford. Old "F" Company must be hard to beat, no matter how far they wander, the majority of them come back for more.

Something wrong; Pvt. Guidroz didn't get a letter for three days. It was beginning to look like another bunch of flowers, but we are glad to say that he is well on the road to recovery.

Sure glad to see the First Battalion back from maneuver camp. It's our turn now, no more guard duty till after range season. Sure makes some of our boys mad too, especially Pvts. Price and Prevatt.

Some things we would like to see:

Cpl. Bevis on time for a formation.

Pvt. LaRue pass an inspection of any kind.

(Continued on page 9.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Double brass bed, springs and mattress—also childs crib bed, new mattres. Mrs. Frank Green.

FOR SALE: Antique spool bed. Phone 180, Post.

I would like to get in touch with someone going on leave or furlough or change of station about July 1st, who would like to drive my car to St. Louis, or any place in Mo. Lt. C. L. Overfelt. Call 3847-J city.

LOST: June 15 Scottish Terror dog, black and white, shaggy. Last seen on First Division road.

$5.00 reward if returned to E. L. Reese, Post Commissary.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

Want More Mileage ? Buy GOODYEARS and Use Our Service!

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

24TH INF.

SEMPER — PARATUS

Headquarters Company

Sergeant Claude A. Stevenson and Pvt. 1cl Gardner Davis were discharged June 9th and 10th, respectively. Both immediately re-enlisted.

Private Ivry Spence is the next to be discharged. He will complete his second enlistment June 25th.

Master Sergeant Charley Harrison was retired June 6th. He will soon leave for his home in Berkeley, California.

Pvt. 1cl Major Wallace went from duty to hospital June 3rd.

Private Ralph Deese has been transferred to Company A and private Aaron Moses from Company A to this company.

The company baseball teams will soon be seen in action again. Each company is very anxious to win the trophy.

Company "B"

Pfc. "Bill" Williamson says that Cpl. "Tip" Robinson kept a bandage on one of his feet, walking with a decided limp, until he saw they would not mark him "quarters," so now he has taken it off. No. Bill, his foot was really sore, he told me that the stadium fell on it.

We regret very much the loss of Sgt. Washington, who has been transferred and assigned to Company "G."

Pfc. Vontress has been promoted to the grade of corporal vice Spencer, reduced. Carry on the good work, old boy.

The company lost a good game to the East Wynnton Blue Sox in town Saturday. The score was 2 to 1. Harper relieved Gibson in the 5th inning, pitching shutout ball the rest of the route. Our defense was nearly perfect, only one bobble being chalked against us; but remember boys, few games are won with only 4 safe bingles. Clean out the old batting eye and let's get going.

Sgt. Phonosdall, our biggest duty sergeant, is back for duty after having been away for a few days on a "re-enlistment" pass. He arrived in such lavish splendor that we hardy recognized the old fellow. Oh, its a Buick cabri—something-or-other.

Pfc. Williamson and Pvt. Simpson—the company wants you to re-enlist. It would be a great loss to the army to have you go.

Privates First Class Wynder, Tellis, Gilliam and Chase are back for duty after having been on special duty in the blocks for several months. We welcome you back, boys.

Company "E"

Private First Class Marselous J. Garth, who was transferred here from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, in 1923, stated that he had completed 27 years 7 months 7 days service, and that he was due for retirement soon. The War Department, didn't say so. What's wrong Garth? Do you mean to dispute the War Department.

From the looks of Private Thomas M. Long's face, seems as though he has been "Cat Hunting," without permission and the cat jumped out of the tree on him—No it wasn't a cat, he and Private Garth had some misunderstanding. Long said, he didn't want to hurt the old man. Frankly we don't believe Long regarded the old age. But the old fist.

83RD FA

BATTERY "A" EIGHTY-THIRD FIELD ARTILLERY

Our gallant second section seems to have their dates mussed up a bit. We observed them taking down a very green and pretty tree the other day on Davis Hill. We think that the exceedingly warm weather alone would have a tendency to show that Christmas is not here yet. But there is a small chance that they are getting in some early practice along the lines of helping Old Nick with his trees.

Some few days past, we were cleaning our guns when it became necessary that we take them out of battery preparatory to cleaning and oiling the slides and rollers. As far as appearances go, the tube has all the earmarks of sliding onto the ground when thus shoved off its regular bed. Anyway, here was occasion to introduce a bit of fun into the work. Private Row, with a few months service, was eager to do his bit. So we detailed him to hold up the bore 'lest it fall to the ground. Placing himself in the position of holder of the gun, he said, "Let her come, boys, but it would be safer if I had another man to help me." Private Row is the man who looked all over for the key to the parade grounds.

"Well, there is one officer who goes in for prominence," says Private Homer L. Watson, "and he isn't a full fledged general, either. He is so popular because he advertises in all the big magazines."

"And who is he?" asked Private Terrell.

"General Motors," answered Watson, in all innocence.

Private Ourso as a fisherman, is unexcelled. He catches big strings of fish and tells the boys that he uses tobacco for bait.

"But you can't use tobacco for bait," they protest.

"You can if you know how," Ourso explains. "You see, all you need is a plug of tobacco, a hook and a big club. You bait the hook, and when the fish come up to spit, you sock them with the club."

Corporals Overby and Doggett, Pfc Pinet and Pvt. Marx were discharged the past Tuesday. Corporals Overby and Doggett and Pfc Pinet are discharged per ETS while Private Marx leaves us by purchase. We have enjoyed having these men with us, and regret to see them leave.

Our battery, "C" Battery and "HQ" Battery will leave the latter part of this week on a road march to Albany, Ga. The boys all look forward to this trip, since it offers diversion in the form of travel. Corporal Chapman was heard to remark that he hoped there'd be lots and lots of peaches along the route. We don't know whether he has a sweet tooth or not, but he likes peaches just the same.

It has been noticed and commented on—this weekly trip to town of Private Rudd. We are always glad to see our boys go to town, especially Johnny, for—well, we won't mention it. But the other day we had to put a stop to his trip, for on a previous sojourn to the haunts of the city, he was seen to carry a bugle along. It is rumored that Rudd entertains his friend by blowing "To arms; to arms, fall in!" on his trumpet.

Additional 29th Inf. Notes

(Continued from page 8.)

Pvt. McBride's toe get well, this also applies to Stolier's ankle.

Sgt. Singletary and Cpl. Armistead comb their hair.

Pvt. Porter at work in the supply room.

A lot of fellows buy some cigarettes.

Company "G"

The company had a picnic at Russ Pool Monday night, June 10, 1929, at which all members of the company gathered. We sure were glad to see some of the old faces around. The officers present were Captain Deane, Lt. Cralle and young Jack Deane. Supper was served at 7:30 p. m. by Mess Sergeant Davis and his staff. We all had plenty of eats.

Next came the entertainment. First on the program was a little sketch about the orderly room. This stunt was pulled by Corporal Chauvin, Pvts. Cooper, J. and Deeters. Then came some fine singing by Birdsong and his buddy, Hill. These two young entertainers are the best in the Post, and how we know it.

Next on the program was a little black face sketch given by Gorgely of Company "G," and Pvt. Stollier of Company "F." Those two were good.

Next came the boxing and we had some fine exhibitions. The first bout was between K. O. Warset and "Knock Them Dizzy" Davis. This bout was considered a draw by the cooks and kitchen police. The second bout was for the heavyweight championship of the regimental vegetable garden between Pvts. Bergeron and Chatelain. This bout will be continued during the watermelon season.

Music was furnished by "F" Company orchestra during the evening. This snappy orchestra played some of the latest jazz pieces and had some of the old acting Corporals dancing around. The evening was well spent by everyone present. Here's hoping we have another blowout soon.

Company "H"

Captain Nichols has been relieved of assignment with the company. It is to be regretted that we have to lose a commander who has brought the standards of this organization to superior heights and set a standard not easily equalled.

Captain Ollie W. Reed has been assigned as company commander and every member of the company welcomes him, with a spirit that will show that we can uphold the standards set for us in the past, even better them, as we continue to set a pace for the best companies in the Post.

Sgt. Martin is back from his re-up furlough. States he had a swell time and is not averse to soldiering these other thirty-three months with a wim and wigor, while stacking up his third enlistment.

Anybody with an inquisitive mind about the machine gun is invited over to ask Pvt. Miller. 'E knows it all. But, laying comedy aside, it is very instructive and interesting to watch the various squads and groups going through the elements of machine gun mechanics and the perfect unison of groups working together for speed. The speedier we get, the more we try. Hence the beautiful (?) tones of our bugler's bugle sounding first call at 4:15 a. m. every morning.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest
Modes
LAMAR SMITH
Phone 3032 1131 Broadway

STARTERS
GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.
COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.
1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Rices, Grits, Milks, Chocolates Cocoa
Always Fresh
C. D. Kenny Co.
1139 Broadway
PHONE 162

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.
Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.
Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.
Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans
Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS
101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

NOW EVERYBODY SWIMS
But the correct bathing suit is as essential as any of your other clothing. For that reason we have selected the famous
RUGBY LINE OF BATHING SUITS
They are made to please the most exacting, and there is a size and style for everybody.
Drop in and see them.
HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

SCHEDULES OF BASEBALL LEAGUES ANNOUNCED

Two baseball leagues have been organized on the post for this season. The "A" League will be composed of six teams and the "B" League composed of three teams.

This arrangement has been made so that there will be a good game each afternoon throughout the season. The umpires announced for the games are Jones and Barkhurst.

There have been a few comments about the lack of athletics at Fort Benning for the past few weeks. Now is the chance to show that you really do like the games, and turn out to the support of your teams.

The opening day, next Wednesday, June 19, should reveal the stands packed to the running over point. Baseball has always had its backers at Fort Benning, and by the interest showed last Sunday when we all went to the field to see a game, and there was no game, it is expected that there will be fans galore this year.

The following extracts from a memorandum published by the ISSA, meaning the Infantry School Athletic Association, are published for the guidance of those who are interested:

The following leagues are entered:

Class A League—consisting of the following units: Hq. Co. 29th Inf.; How. Co. 29th Inf.; Recruit Center; Co. "A" 7th Engineers; 17th Ordnance Co.; Medical Detachment.

Class B League—consisting of the following units: 1st Battalion, 29th Inf.; 2nd Battalion, 29th Inf.; 15th Tank Battalion.

There will be (2) games played on Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays; the Class B League playing the first game and Class A League playing the second game.

The Class B League will play 9 inning games and Class A League will play 7 inning games.

The Class A League will play each other twice around and Class B League will play each other four times around.

On days when double headers are scheduled, games will commence at 1:30 p. m.; on days when single games are scheduled, the game will commence at 3:00 p. m.

A suitable prize will be given the winning teams in both League A and League B for the first half of the baseball season.

The following is a schedule of games:

Class B

June 26th, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

June 29th, 15th Tank Bn. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

June 30th, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 2nd Bn. 29th Inf.

July 3rd, 15th Tank Bn. vs. 1st Bn. 29th Inf.

July 4th, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

July 6th, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 1st Bn. 29th Inf.

July 7th, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

July 10th, 15th Tank Bn. vs. 2nd Bn. 29th Inf.

July 13th, 1st Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 2nd 29th Inf.

July 14th, 15th Tank Bn. vs. 1st Bn. 29th Inf.

July 17th, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

July 20th, 2nd Bn. 29th Inf. vs. 1st Bn. 29th Inf.

FIGHT FANCIES

It seems that the next fight card to be shown at the arena will be on the night of July 4th. From the way that the fans are clamoring for action, one would judge that there will be a record crowd to witness the show.

Gunner DePratt, the favorite of many, will be in good shape by that time to take on almost anyone that comes. Wouldn't a return match with Gainsville's own make a hit with the crowd? There are those of us who feel that the Gunner would take him easy the next time, although there would surely be action on the part of both.

Just in case some of you don't know it, this man DePratt is what all sport fans idolize, a self-made man. He has not had the advantage of having a manager, trainer, or any aid from professionals, to help him on the road that he has so well travelled. There are not many bumps in that road that he has not conquered, either. Just one or two sore spots, and from the way he takes it, they will be dealt with accordingly.

Ed Herting, a youngster from Rice Institute, won a ten round decision over Jeff Carroll in the early part of the week, at New Orleans. Carroll is the hombre that won a KO from our own Marquette, of the 29th Infantry, some time ago. Wonder if Herting will ever appear in a Benning ring?

Jim Spivey, who defeated that ring full of wild cats, Doubtin' Thomas, on the last card at Benning, took a ten round decision from Monk Fowler at Birmingham last Monday night. He was fighting the semi-final bout on the same card that his brother, Ben Spivey, was fighting the main tilt. Ben lost to K. O. Johnny Roberts in the second round. Johnny put him plumb to sleep. This makes Roberts look good for Benning.

Battling Finch, who was to fight Gunner DePratt here last November, beat Julius Weisse of Hamburg, Germany, in a ten round affair in Charlotte, N. C. this week. Weisse is the leading contender for the light heavyweight crown of Germany.

Styles Attaway, holding a decision over Gunner DePratt, is signed to meet Carl Hurley, of Tampa, Florida, and Chicago, Illinois. The bout is to take place in Atlanta on June 25th. Should be oodles of action there.

It is announced that Young Stribling is signed to fight Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight champion, at Birmingham on July 4th, Fuente defeated Frankie Wine in Atlanta last month. Wine extended Stribling to the limit when they met, even having Stribling groggy in the last stages of the battle. Stribling, however, had piled up too many points in the early part of the fight to lose the decision, so he won.

Five southern cities have been bidding for this fight, and the competition has been hot. Birmingham only won by a nose.

Class A

June 26th, Recruit Center vs. Hq. Co. 29th Inf.

June 27th, Co. "A" 7th Eng. vs. 17th Ordnance Co.

June 28th, How. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Medical Detachment.

June 29th, Recruit Center vs. Co. "A" 7th Eng.

June 30th, Hq. Co. 29th Inf. vs. 17th Ordnance Co.

July 1st, Co. "A" 7th Eng. vs. How. Co. 29th Inf.

July 2nd, Recruit Center vs. Medical Detachment.

July 3rd, Hq. Co. 29th Inf. vs. How. Co. 29th Inf.

July 4th Co. "A" 7th Eng. vs. Medical Detachment.

July 5th, Recruit Center vs. 17th Ordnance Co.

July 6th, Hq. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Medical Detachment.

July 7th, Recruit Center, vs. How. Co. 29th Inf.

July 8th, 17th Ordnance Co. vs. How. Co. 29th Inf.

July 9th, Hq. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Co. "A" 7th Eng.

July 10th, 17th Ordnance Co. vs. Medical Detachment.

July 11th, Hq. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Recruit Center.

July 12th, 17th Ordnance Co. vs. Co. "A" 7th Eng.

July 13th, Medical Detach. vs. How Co. 29th Inf.

July 14th, Co. "A" 7th Eng. vs. Recruit Center.

July 15th, 17th Ordnance Co. vs. Hq. Co. 29th Inf.

July 16th, How. C. 29th Inf. vs. Co. "A" 7th Eng.

July 17th, Medical Detach. vs. Recruit Center.

July 18th, How. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Hq. Co. 29th Inf.

July 19th, Medical Detach. vs. Co. "A" 7th Eng.

July 20th, 17th Ordnance Co. vs. Recruit Center.

July 21st, Medical Detach. vs. Hq. Co 29th Inf.

July 22nd, How. Co. 29th Inf. vs. Recruit Center.

July 23rd, How. Co. 29th Inf. vs. 17th Ordnance Co.

July 24th, Co. "A" 7th Eng. vs. Hq. Co. 29th Inf.

July 25th, Medical Detach. vs. 17th Ordnance Co.

WORK RESUMED ON TANK BARRACKS

After an interruption of nearly a month, construction work on the 15th Tank Battalion barracks was resumed by the James C. Miller Company, general contractors.

Litigation between the Mangham Construction Company, sub-contractors, and the general contractors, delayed the work for some time and caused complete suspension of work on May 21. The job is now seventy-five days behind schedule.

By working two eight-hour shifts, the contractors hope to regain the time which has been lost and to complete the barracks by October 24th, the contract date for completion. A penalty of $75 will be assessed against the contractors for each day of delay after October 24th.

AMERICAN DELEGATE DESCRIBES WORK OF MEDICAL CONGRESS

Major Edgar E. Hume, Medical Inspector of Fort Benning, Georgia, who was an American delegate to the fifth international congress of military medicine held recently in London, returned to Fort Benning last week. The origin of these international medical conferences began during the World War when allied medical officers from time to time held conferences on matters of common interest. With the signing of the armistice the conferences ceased and were not resumed until 1921 when King Albert, of Belgium, called an international conference of military medicine which was held in Brussels. The first meeting was so successful that a second was held in Rome in 1923, a third in Paris in 1925, a fourth in Warsaw in 1927 and the fifth, which Major Hume attended, in London in May of this year.

"As at the previous congresses" said Major Hume today, "set topics were assigned for presentation by certain nations, the discussion then being opened for all delegates. Five topics were considered at the recent London congress; 'Evacuation of Sick and Wounded by Water and by Air; the Role of the Medical Services in Combined Operation,' was presented by Great Britian and France. 'Tropical Fevers of Short Duration' was presented by Great Britain and the Netherlands. 'Wounds of Blood Vessels and their Sequellae,' was presented by Great Britain and Belgium. 'The Physical and Chemical Analysis of Glass and Rubber Articles Employed by the Medical Services,' was presented by Great Britain and Spain, and 'The Standard of Dental and Physical Fitness in the Services,' was presented by Great Britain and Cuba. The United States was not assigned the presentation of any of these subjects, but we entered into the discussions of all five papers.

"The president of the congress was Lieutenant General Sir Matthew H. G. Fell, director general of the Army Medical Service of Great Britain. The King was patron of the congress but on account of illness was represented by the Prince of Wales, who received the official delegates at St. Jame's Palace on the first day of the congress.

"There were about 1500 delegates present, among them being some of the most distinguished men in the military medical profession, including the surgeon generals of some twenty nations. The United States was represented by an officer each of the medical corps of the army, navy and public health service,

(Continued on page 12.)

Base Ball

All of the Latest

Equipment at Trade Prices

(See our Stock First)

The Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.

AIR MAIL SCHEDULES FROM FORT BENNING

Northbound airmail.

Closing time Fort Benning, Georgia. P. O. 1:30 P. M.

Arrives:

Spartanburg, S. C., 10:20 P. M. same evening.

Greensboro, N. C., 11:50 P. M. same evening.

Richmond, Va., 2:00 A. M. following morning.

Washington, D. C., 3:05 A. M. following morning.

Philadelphia, Penna., 4:25 A. M. following morning.

New York, N. Y., 5:05 A. M. following morning.

Hartford, Conn., 6:35 A. M. following morning.

Boston, Mass., 7:50 A. M. following morning.

Albany, N. Y., 8:30 A. M. following morning.

Montreal, Canada, 11:15 A. M. following morning.

Southbound airmail via. Atlanta, Ga.

Closing time 1:30 P. M. and 4:10 P.M.

With present schedules no time is gained via air mail as far south as New Orleans, La., on the 2:00 P. M. dispatch.

Arrives:

Beaumont, Texas, 2:25 P. M. following day.

Houston, Texas, 3:15 P. M. following day.

Waco, Texas, 6:15 P. M. following day.

Fort Worth, Texas, 7:15 P. M. following day.

Dallas, Texas, 7:35 P. M., following day.

Oklahoma City, Okla., 9:20 P. M. following day.

Tulsa, Okla., 10:00 P. M. following day.

Ponca City, Okla., 10:00 P. M. following day.

Wichita, Kansas,11:00 P. M. following day.

Transcontinental air mail.

Connection at Chicago, Ill.

Closing time, Fort Benning P. O. 1:30 and 4:10 P. M.

Arrives Chicago, Ill., 4:30 P. M. following day.

Arrives:

Iowa City, Iowa, 9:40 P. M. following day.

Omaha, Nebraska, 12:35 A. M. third day.

North Platte, Nebraska, 2:50 A. M. third day.

Cheyenne, Wyoming, 4:30 A. M. third day.

Salt Lake City, Utah, 10:00 A. M. third day.

Elko, Nevada, 11:15 A. M. third day.

Reno, Nevada, 1:45 P. M.

Sacramento, Calif., 2:45 P. M., third day.

San Francisco, Calif., 4:30 P. M. third day.

The trans-continental air mail makes connection at Salt Lake City, Utah with the following routes:

C. A. M. 26 Salt Lake City Utah to Great Falls, Montana.

C. A. M. 4 Salt Lake City, Utah to Los Angeles, Calif.

C. A. M. 5 Salt Lake City, Utah to Pasco, Wash.

Ail mail via routes will be delivered on third day at the time listed for the cities names below:

Ogden, Utah, 10:50 A. M.

Pocatello, Idaho, 12:40 P. M.

Butte, Mont., 3:00 P. M.

Helena, Mont., 3:35 P. M.

Great Falls, Mont., 4:30 P. M.

Las Vegas, N. Mexico, 2:25 P. M.

Los Angeles, Calif., 5:25 P. M.

Boise, Idaho, 1:15 P. M.

Pasco, Wash., 4:35 P. M.

Air mail via these routes will be delivered on the fourth day at the time listed for the cities named below.

Portland, Oregon, 7:00 A. M.

Seattle, Wash., 7:00 A. M.

Spokane, Washington, 6:30 A. M.

South bound, Atlanta, Georgia to Miami, Florida.

Leave Atlanta, Ga., 6:45 A. M.

Arrive:

Macon, Ga., 7:40 A. M.

Jacksonville, Fla., 10:00 A. M.

Daytona Beach, Fla., 11:00 A. M.

Orlando, Fla., 11:45 A. M.

Tampa, Fla., 12:50 P. M.

Miami, Fla., 1:45 P. M.

Miami, Fla., to Cristobal, C. Z.

Leaves Miami, Fla., 1st and 15th of each month at 6:30 A. M.; arrives Cristobal, C. Z., third day at 4:00 P. M.

Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba.

Leaves Miami, Fla., 8:00 A. M. daily.

Arrives, Havana, Cuba, 10:15 A. M.

Miami, Fla., to Nassau, Bahama:

Leaves Miami, Fla., 9:10 A. M. daily.

Arrives Nassau, Bahama, 11:10 A. M

Miami, Fla., to San Juan, P. R.

Leaves Miami, Fla., Monday, Wednesday and Friday 9:15 A. M.

Arrives Havana, Cuba, 11:30 A. M.

Overnight stop in eastern Cuba.

Arrives Santo Domingo City, Dom., next day 12:30 P. M.

Arrives San Juan, P. R., 4:00 P. M.

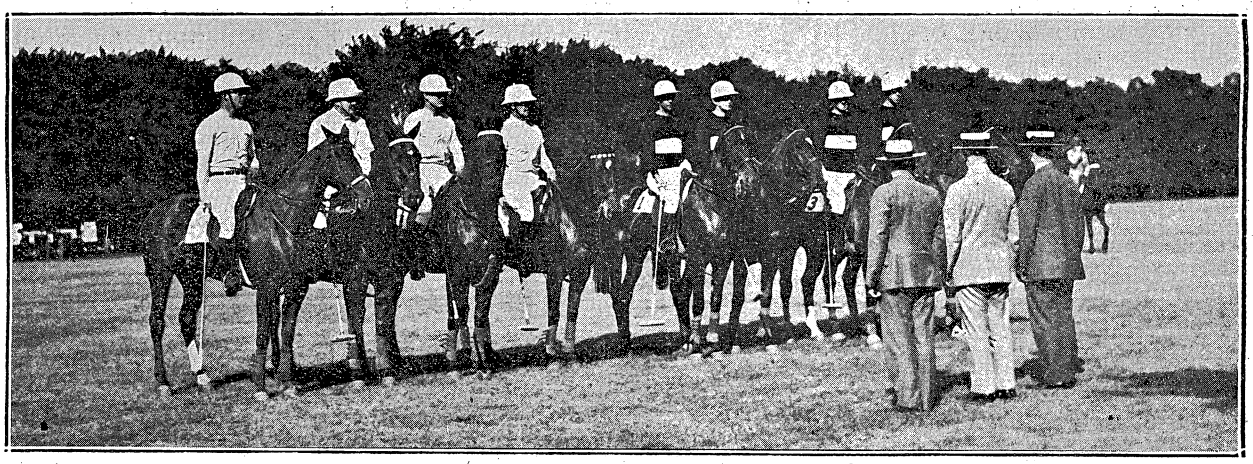
There is a special rate on air mail to Cuba, Bahama, Dominican Rep., and Canal Zone, etc., a list of which is given below.

Cuba and Bahamas, 5c for each half ounce or fraction thereof.

Haiti and Dominican Republic 10c for each half ounce or fraction thereof.

Porto Rico, 10c for each half ounce or fraction thereof.

Canal Zone, 25c for each half oz. or fraction thereof.



The War Department Blues (left) and the Infantry School team lined up before the game in Washington. Three generals, in civilian clothes, are looking them over. The generals, left to right, are Major General Stephen O. Fuqua, Major General Briant H. Wells and General Charles P. Summerall. The players, left to right, are: War Department Blues—Major J. M. Eager, Major E. G. Dawley, Capt. T. W. Hastey and Col. Geo. Williams. Infantry School team—Major C. B. Lyman, Capt. R. A. McClure, 1st Lt. Ben R. Jacobs, 2d Lt. J. G. Van Houten.

FORMER EXECUTIVE OFFICER ASSIGNED TO INFANTRY BOARD

Col. James M. Graham, Infantry at present on duty with the Inspector General's Department and with the General Staff Corps, has been assigned to duty with the Infantry Board at Fort Benning and is expected to assume his new duties about July 2.

Col. Graham served as executive officer at Fort Benning from June 5, 1922, to August 18, 1923, and left here for duty with the 26th Infantry at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y. He last visited Fort Benning in 1928 when he made an inspection of the garrison.

INSPECTOR ARRIVES AT FORT BENNING

Lt. Col. Pelham D. Glassford (F. A.) of the Inspector Generals Department, arrived at Fort Benning Tuesday, June 18, to make an inspection of all organizations of the Infantry School for the Inspector General's Department.

CAPT. TOOLE DETAILED AS ASSISTANT ADJUTANT

Captain Leslie E. Toole, Infantry, has been detailed as Assistant Adjutant, The Infantry School.

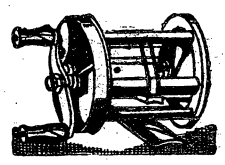
Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

SAVE MONEY ON OUTDOOR NEEDS



W.L.S. Reels
$2.89

Smoothly operating, level winding reels—Heavily nickeled frame. 100–yard capacity.

Complete line of Bait, Hooks,

Lures, and Tackle Boxes

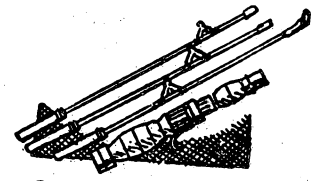
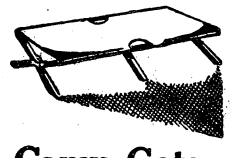
Ice Boxes
$4.39

Fits the running board. Keeps food fresh and cool. Rustproof. Keeps container cool 24 hours.



Casting Rods
$2.45

Fly and bait casting rod of finely tempered steel. Five feet long. A very popular model.



Camp Cots
$2.69

Sturdy and strong—comfortably made Hardwood frame, canvas covered.

Fishing Line
31c

Genuine Cuttyhunk 18–lb. test line—of best grade linen. 50–yard spools.

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

AMERICAN DELEGATE DESCRIBES WORK OF MEDICAL CONGRESS

(Continued from page 10.)

and of the organized reserves and the national guard.

"One of the most important features of the congress was our visit of inspection to the great military station at Aldershot where particular attention was paid to the Army School of Hygiene. This school is conducted by officers of the Royal Army Medical Corps for the instruction of officers and non-commissioned officers of the line of the British army. Medical personnel are not trained here but at the Royal Army Medical College in London. We visited the navy yard at Portsmouth where the modern naval hospital facilities were demonstrated, including also an actual demonstration of the care of the wounded in combat on board H. M. S. Hood. The Victory, Admiral Nelson's famous ship, recently restored, was one of the most interesting of the exhibits. The Royal Air Force gave a magnificent demonstration at Halton, one of their largest fields. This included not only the modern methods of examination and care of flying personnel, but also of flying itself.

"Many brilliant entertainments were given for us, including a reception by the Prince of Wales at St. Jame's Palace, a dinner at the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor of London, a reception by the Secretary of State for War at Lancaster House, receptions by the Royal College of Physicians, The Royal College of Surgeons, and the Society of Apothecaries. There were special entertainments for the ladies on the occasions when they did not accompany the gentlemen of their families.

"Besides the meetings and visits I have mentioned, there were arranged a wide variety of demonstrations in all fields of military and medical sciences in and about London, and a great number of social events."

Major Hume stated that the next Congress will be held at Budapest in 1931, upon the invitation of Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary. At that time the following topics will be considered: "Recruitment and Training of Medical Officers;" "The Psyschoneuroses of War" (to be presented by Hungary and the United States); "Methods of Arresting Hemorrhage on the Battlefield;" "The Sequellae of War as Affecting the Teeth and Jaws."

The holding of the next meeting in the capital of one of the Central Powers is regarded as highly significant of the friendly relations now existing between the European nations, Major Hume said.

83rd FIELD ARTILLERY TO MAKE PRACTICE MARCH

Commanded by Major Lloyd E. Jones, the 83rd Field Artillery will at 5 o'clock on Saturday morning, begin a 212 mile practice march which will continue until July 11. Bivouac camps are scheduled at different points so that the maximum day's march will not exceed 28 miles. Batteries A, C, and Hq. Battery, with approximately 300 men and 275 animals, will form the column.

Major Jones will be accompanied by his staff with the exception of the personnel officer and the supply officer, the latter of whom will operate between Fort Benning and the rear of the column. Seventeen miles will be covered on the first day's march to Randall creek on the Buena Vista Road where the battalion will remain in bivouac until Monday morning. Monday's march will be 21 miles in length and the battalion will camp for the night at Buena Vista. On Tuesday the battalion will march 14 miles to Ellaville, on Wednesday 14 miles to Americus, on Thursday 28 miles to Leesburg and on Friday 12 miles to Albany The battalion will bivouac nightly at each of these places except Albany where it will remain in bivouac on an excellent camp site arranged by the city, until July 5.

While at Albany the artillerymen will participate in a 4th of July celebration arranged by the American Legion. The return march will be over the same route and camps will be made in the same places as on the outward march. During the march forage and perishable subsistence supplies will be furnished by motor transport from Benning. The battalion is due to return to Fort Benning on July 11.

Capt. Archibald Gann, Field Artillery Reserve, of Atlanta, will be attached to the battalion during the march.

Read the Ads in The News

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. — R. M. Harding, Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.

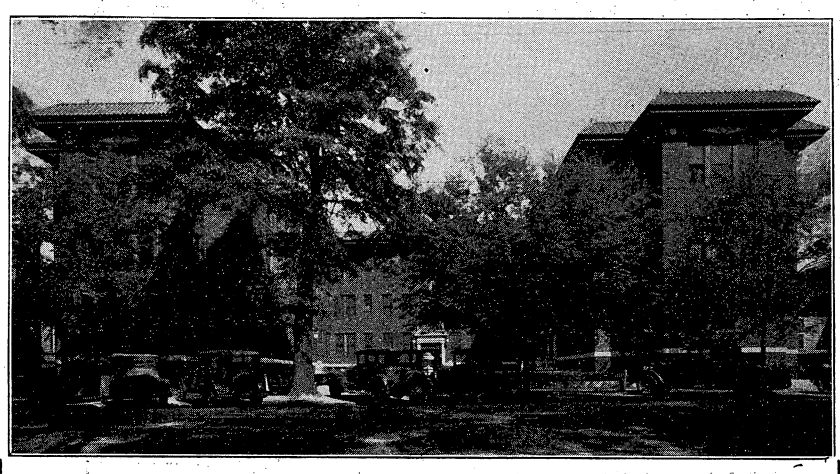
How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

FENDERS BODIES STRAIGHTENED

We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.

We are completely equipped to repair any job.

The Post Exchange

—at—

Fort Benning is our Agent

COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS

1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.

Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962

W. R. M. Palmer

Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

NASH Is a Recognized Leader In The Field of Sixes

Its lightning-fast acceleration puts you well in front at the flash of the traffic signal; its easier steering affords unusual steering ease on the open road, while its smoother motor performance and graceful body lines place it well in the front among finer motor cars.

EDGE-FULLER MOTOR CO.

1309 Broadway Phone 67

100 Per Cent NASH Service

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JUNE 28, 1929 Number 41

Colonel Shaw Promoted to Brigadier-General

NATIONAL MATCHES ANNOUNCED BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Official announcement of the dates and rules and regulations for the National Rifle and Pistol matches, 1929, has been made by the War Department. The national matches and small arms firing school, which will be held in conjunction with them, will be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, for a period of 22 days, beginning August 25th and ending September 15th. The period from August 25 to August 31 inclusive will be devoted exclusively to the small arms firing school.

The matches of the National Rifle Association program, for which medals and trophies are awarded by the National Rifle Association, will begin September 1 and end September 8. The national rifle and pistol matches for which are awarded the national trophies, medals and badges, will be held from September 9 to September 15. This period will be devoted exclusively to the national rifle and pistol matches.

The principal events of the national matches of 1929 will be National Rifle Association matches, the national individual pistol match, national pistol team match, the national individual rifle match and the national rifle team match.

The national rifle team match will be open to teams of 10 firers from the following: army of the United States, 1 from each of the several arms; United States navy, 1; United States marine corps, 1; United States coast guard, 1; United States military academy, 1; United States naval academy, 1; federally recognized national guard of the several states and territories, including the District of Columbia 1 from each; federally recognized naval militia of the several states and territories, including the District of Columbia, 1 from each; organized reserves, 1 or more as designated by the War Department; reserve officers training corps, 1 or more; citizens' military training camps, 1 or more; any organization composed of veterans of any war or wars in which the United States has been engaged, 1 or more; civilian teams, 1 from each of the several States and Territories, including the District of Columbia, and to be selected by competition; school teams, composed of students of universities, colleges, and schools, 1 or more from each of the several states and territories, including the District of Columbia.

The national pistol team match is open to teams consisting of a team captain and 5 firing members and 1 alternate, from the same organizations and classes as are authorized to enter teams in the national rifle team match and in addition, any organized police or constabulary force in the United States may enter a team.

The national individual rifle match and the national individual pistol match are open to any citizen of the United States. Entries for all matches should be made as early as possible and must be made at least 48 hours before the beginning of each match.

Colonel Hu B. Myers, Cavalry will be executive officer of the matches.

GEN. KING REMOVES ALABAMA BAN

Fort Benning soldiers may now enter Alabama without violating regulations. An order restricting soldiers to the east side of the Chattahoochee River which has been in effect for more than five years was rescinded at reveille Monday, June 24.

The lifting of the five-year ban followed a conference which was held Friday morning between General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School and Mayor C. B. Gullatt, Commissioner E. L. White and Chief of Police J. M. Blair, of Phenix City.

The first order barring Fort Benning soldiers from Alabama was issued in March, 1924, by Headquarters of the Infantry School, following complaints of discrimination against soldiers in uniform on the Alabama side of the river. This order forbade enlisted men from crossing the Chattahoochee River or visiting Phenix City or Girard without specific authority from Headquarters of the Infantry School in each case.

In September, 1927, the restrictive order was strengthened by the requirement that all passes and furloughs of enlisted men desiring to visit other places in Alabama which necessitated their even passing through Phenix City or Girard, would be approved in writing by headquarters of the Infantry School in each instance.

During the period that the order was in effect relations between the civilian element and the soldiers of Fort Benning were not entirely cordial and many stories, some of them exaggerated or without foudation, of ill-treatment and discrimination of soldiers in the Alabama community have been circulated. The ban on soldiers visiting Phenix City and Girard affected the trade of merchants of those places and the restoration of the privilege of visiting those places means a gain in their business.

General King's action in removing the ban probably heralds a ew era of cordiality and harmony between the civilian and military element of the two communities.

MAJOR TORREY GOES TO FORT LEAVENWORTH

Major Daniel H. Torrey, who has been adjutant of the Infantry School since June 27, 1927, departed yesterday for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he will become adjutant upon his arrival about July 15th. Major Torrey, accompanied by Mrs. Torrey, will make the journey to Fort Leavenworth by automobile and will enjoy a few days leave while en route to his new station.

Major Torrey was appointed a 2d lieutenant of infantry, June 15, 1910, following his graduation from the United States Military Academy. He was promoted to 1st lieutenant July 1, 1916, to captain, May 5, 1917 and to major July 1, 1920.

During the World War he served as major and lieutenant colonel with the 808th Pioneer Infantry at Camp Meade, Maryland, and later overseas,

(Continued on page 12.)

COLONEL SHAW RECEIVES GENERAL'S STARS

At an informal meeting in the commandant's office Tuesday noon, attended by members of the headquarters staff, new silver stars were pinned on the shoulders of Brigadier General George C. Shaw, whose promotion was announced by the War Department, June 24. Both the promotion and the ceremony came as a surprise to General Shaw. General King had intended to pin both stars on the new general's shoulders but Major Henry A. Bootz, who served with General Shaw many years ago, pleaded for the privilege of fastening one of them on General Shaw's coat. General King congratulated General Shaw in a short talk and in responding, General Shaw stated that the honor was entirely unexpected. The commandant interrupted him with the remark: "In other words you did not apply for this promotion," and amidst a burst of laughter the new general denied having made application for his new grade.

General Shaw's promotion comes in recognition of a long and distinguished military career. He was born in Pontiac, Michigan, March 6, 1866 and was educated in the public schools of that city. From 1886 to 1899, he was an expert lithographer and map printer with the U. S. Geological Survey.

In 1890 he enlisted in the National Guard of the District of Columbia and was later commissioned 1st lieutenant and captain. He specialized in rifle markmanship and became inspector of rifle practice for the District of Columbia National Guard, serving in that capacity until July, 1899.

During the Spanish-American War he served as 1st lieutenant with the 1st District of Columbia Volunteer Infantry at Camp Alger, Virginia; Chickamauga Park, Georgia; Tampa, Florida, and at the siege and surrender of Santiago de Cuba. He was mustered out of the volunteer service in November, 1898, and resumed his duties with the District of Columbia National Guard until he enlisted in the 27th Volunteer Infantry, July, 12, 1899. He served with this regiment on the Island of Luzon during the Philippine Insurrection, in grades of private, 2nd lieutenant and 1st lieutenant. He returned to the United States in February, 1901, and was mustered out of the volunteer service April 1, 1901.

On February 2, 1901, he was appointed 2nd lieutenant of infantry in the regular army and was promoted to 1st lieutenant April 5, 1902. He served again in the Philippine Islands from February, 1902, to January 1904, with the 13th and 27th regiments on the Island of Mindanao under the then Captain Pershing. In 1903, he took part in the expedition around Lake Lanao and in the actions at Fort Bacolod and the Taraca River. It was during one of these actions that he displayed such conspicuous gallantry that he was awarded the Medal of Honor, the highest decoration in the United States army.

Leaving the Philippine Islands in 1904, he served in the United States until 1906, when he joined the army of Cuban Pacification with which he served until 1909. In 1911, he was promoted to captain and went with the 24th Infantry to the Philippines. From 1912 to 1915, he served as a major of Philippine Scouts on the Islands of Guimeras, Luzon, Samar and Jolo, commanding the U. S. troops in Jolo. From August, 1913, to April 1915, he served under General Pershing in the Department of Mindanao. He took part in the battle of Mt. Bagsak in June, 1913, and commanded the troops in action against hostile Moros at Mt. Talipao, Jolo, in August and October, 1913.

He returned to the United States in 1915 and was placed in charge of rifle practice at the first Plattsburg training camp under General Leonard Wood. In 1916 and 1917, he was on the Mexican border near Eagle Pass, Texas, and later in 1917 served at Plattsburg Barracks, as an instructor in the 1st and 2nd officers' training camps and commanded the New York regiment at the 2nd camp.

From 1917 to 1922, he was with the inspector general's department, serving in Washington, D. C., Camp Merritt, N. J., and with the 12th Division at Camp Devens, Mass. He was promoted to major, regular army and lieutenant colonel, national army in 1917, to colonel United States army (temporary) 1918, lieutenant colonel, regular army, 1920, and colonel, regular army, 1928.

General Shaw has been on duty at Fort Benning since September, 1928, as a member of the Infantry Board and as special inspector. The general is a distinguished marksman and expert pistol shot and winner of many medals and prizes for marksmanship. He was a shooting member of the infantry rifle team in 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908 and was captain of the infantry team in 1909, 1910 and 1911. He was a member of the Army Board which revised the small arms firing regulations in 1911. He was coach of the A. E. F. rifle team at Le Mans, France, and at the national matches at Caldwell, New Jersey, 1919. He was captain of the American rifle team at Antwerp, Belgium, during the Olympic games of 1920. From August, 1924, to June, 1928, he was director of civilian marksmanship, War Department, and executive officer of the national board for promotion of rifle practice.

Besides the Medal of Honor, General Shaw holds a silver citation star which was awarded for a second act of gallantry in action which he performed during the assault on Fort Bacolod and where he was wounded. His citation for the Medal of Honor, which was awarded, June, 9, 1904, reads as follows:

"To 1st Lieutenant George S. Shaw, 27th Infantry, for distinguished gallantry in the assault on Fort Pitacus, Lake Lanao, Mindanao P. I., May 4, 1903, in leading the assault and under a heavy fire from the enemy, maintaining alone his position on the parapet after the

(Continued on page 12.)

Police Record 1928-29 Infantry School Stables

The following is a docket of known cases of persons who have defied the laws of gravitation, who have ignored the principles of equilibrium, and who have violated the rules, regulations, ethics and customs of equitation by dismounting from their horses without authority, warning or preparation, thereby bringing discredit upon the dismounted service.

Opposite each offender's name is his (or her) alibi for the indecorous failure to dominate.

NAME	HORSE	ALIBI
Capt. Pleas B. Rogers	Silent Pardner	I wasn't urging him, anyway.
Major H. J. M. Smith	Squire	Too nonchalant
Capt. Adrian R. Brian	Midnight	Lost harmony.
Capt. Thos. S. Smith	Harrison	Couldn't complete a front flip.
Lt. Joseph I. Greene	George Reed	I bucked higher than he did.
Pvt. Miscellaneous Augusta Venable	Jeff	I found a softer place.
Capt. Pleas B. Rogers	Middleburg	I didn't dominate.
Capt. W. A. Collier	Belair	Demonstrating ditch balance.
Capt. Pleas B. Rogers	Forever	I reached for his neck and it wasn't there.
Countess Mary P. Forsythe	Harlequin	I preferred the fence.
Cossack Gina R. Bishop	Danube	Could not find his head.
2nd Lt. Alice Torrey	Buddy	The horse was where I wasn't.
Major H. J. M. Smith	Baby Face	No balance.
Capt. J. B. Sweet	Whisk Broom	He cleaned me.
General (Nuisance) Betty March Brett	Trumps	Mental obstacle.
Mrs. Clara Fink Rogers	Wheeler	Trying to join the "horsey" set.
M. rsMildred Mood	Steger	Steger's bucking complex.
Mrs. Marjory McClure	Tom Finley	I jumped but he didn't.
Capt. Pleas B. Rogers	Beeman	I couldn't Be-e-man. First this year, anyway.
Capt.A. R. Brian	Chance Shot	Don't jump against the bars.
Major Peggy Steele	Delson	My seat was like the French city," Toulouse."
Mrs. Mildred Gilhus	Falligant	Not a wire walker.
Mrs. Jean Lange	Kim	Kim "ain't" kind.
Talkative Sue Brandt	Tom Finley	Ain't no halt! Preferred ground!!
Lt. O. C. Mood	Osmond	I'll bite.
The Quiet Helen Van Fleet	Johnny Wills	Needed the experience.
Capt. Adrian R. Brian	Chance Shot	Took a chance and shot.
Cat Hunter R. Berry Knight	Bobby	Sunday holocaust.
Countess Mary P. Forsythe	Hindoo	Five feet two to Mary.
Lt. Francis J. Graling	Warrenton	I wanted to be first of the class.
Major C. B. Lyman	Artillery draft	I fall down.
Lt. Daniel W. Lenahan, Jr.	Helen G.	Me too.
Lt. Daniel W. Lenahan, Jr.	Betts	It seems there was a fence.
Lt. R. D. Graves	Ester B.	None.
Lt. H. J. Edmands	Winchester	Posted too high.
Lt. S. T. Hames	Storks	Just a parting of the ways.
Lt. J. Dubbelde	Lt. Junta	Can't stand on my head.
Lt. John E. Ratigan	Crimperton	My liaison with horse was very faulty.
Lt. O. C. Mood	Warrenton	Cinch slipped.
Capt. Wm. R. Bent	Lookout	Did not "Lookout" enough.
Capt. W. E. Alger	Tappahannock	Horse slipped.
Lt. P. A. Hollister	Belair	Broke in the middle.
Lt. H. B. Ellison	Roffe	Fell down a hill.
Lt. R. D. Graves	Ester B.	Dragged off by a post.
Lt. R. B. McClure	Both Hands	Changing hands (and feet).
Lt. David Barrett	Darling	Like H—.
Lt. Villaluz	Good Boy	Not to me.
Capt. Hagens	Sweet Thing	Bad log.
Major Cadwalader	Several	Many.
Capt. Lueking	Winnie	Being cited.
Capt. Lameroux	Malcolm A.	Failed to use headlights.
Major Long	Shortie	God knows.
Major Willoughby	The Duke	Practicing parachute jumping.
Capt. W. A. Collier	John Peel	Needed my red coat.
Capt. Wessels	Jake Moon	In a hurry to get to the stables
Major J. L. Dunn	Allenby	Dismounted to lead.
Capt. H. E. Dager	Wede	Horse sneezed.
Capt. Child	Lullaby	Force of habit.
Capt. Irwin	General A	Tired of riding.
Major Withers	Virginia	Discourteous horse.
Capt. Heap	Be Careful	Horse skidded.
Major Connelly	Artillery	Wanted orderly to hold horse.
Capt. Rustemeyer	Sgt. Thompson	Horse not paying attention to route.
Capt. Kneubel	Don't	Did though.

7th Engineers

Company A

Sgt. Greenfield, better known as "Dashing Dolphus," made his 1929 debut as a pitcher Sunday morning against the ambitious Recruit Center ball-tossers. Dolphus' first pitch would have been a beautiful strike if the batter hadn't knocked it over the second platoon barracks. This set a bad example for the rest of the batters who massaged the venerable motor sergeant's delivery for seven runs in three innings in spite of the fact that he retired the side on strikes in the second inning. "Lefty" Mason relieved Dolphus in the fourth and chalked up a win when the Engineers started riding the ball to all corners of the field to pile up a safe margin. "Red" Thompson got the first home run of his career with a prodigious swat to the wood pile in right field.

Rowe returned from furlough some sixteen pounds lighter than when he left. Dickerson has promised to fatten him up again if he will show some real ball playing when the season opens Thursday. Rowe has been playing regularly while on furlough and should have the old batting eye pretty sharp.

Sgt. Bastman welcomed Elsea back from Tennessee with open arms and a flock of horses and mules to be shod. Elsea recently reenlisted, so can't be worried.

Ethan A. Chapman, the successful candidate from the company for West Point, left Tuesday for that institution from which we are confident he will graduate four years hence as a second lieutenant.

"Duke" Calogne will be discharged Thursday on account of minority. Sgt. Dowling loses a mighty good draftsman and the ball tea ma good utility man.

No record catches have been reported by the flock of fishermen in the company McGriff and Mallory reported good

Sgt. "Cy" Willard ran into a severe case of poison oak while in Lumpkin last week with Sgt. McGriff and Corp. Morris. It settled in his face and he is now at the station hospital where the doctors are slowly bringing him back to normal. McGriff and Morris were lucky to bring back nothing more serious than a few chigger bites.

Corp. Chick Dickerson is showing a versatility of which we did not suspect him. His taking over the duties of mess sergeant during the absence of Sgt. Rowland on furlough marks him as quite a handy young man. The chow has suffered none from the change but it might be mentioned that Sgt. Greenfield is in the hospital with stomach trouble. With the berry picking detail furnishing him with plenty of blackberries we expect to see Chick furnish us with some nice shortcake.

Always an invitation to the pause that refreshes

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Phone 360

OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

BA-109

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:

R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 28, TO JULY 5, INCL.

FRIDAY, JUNE 28

"THE TERROR," starring May McAvoy with Louise Fazenda in one of the creepiest crook films ever screened. It deals with the pursuit of a master criminal who has stolen the entire capital of a bank and hidden it somewhere in an old manor house used as a rest cure resort. An odd assortment of human beings is assembled at this place: crooks, detectives, frightened ladies, and daffy folks. Over all is the terrible hidden power of the unknown being, "The Terror." This story can be characterized as most amusingly uncanny.

"Pathe News No. 51."

SATURDAY, JUNE 29

"THE DRIFTER," starring Tom Mix in a breath-taking rodeo of the clouds. This is a story of cyclonic action filled with many spectacular stunts, both in the air and on the ground. It combines the gripping feats of daring and clever horsemanship with thrills and exciting stunts in an aeroplane. The story is wound around an enthralling romance laid in the wilds where the law is in the hands of but few men, and where murder takes its toll, though justice predominates. You will enjoy this red-blooded picture.

"Foolish Husbands." Sennett.

SUNDAY, JUNE 30

"GIVE AND TAKE," starring George Sidney and Jean Hersholt in a comedy

GEORGE SIDNEY in "GIVE AND TAKE" A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

drama filled with speed, pep and fun. In short, it is a story of scrambled business affairs. A proud father has devoted his life in building up a big canning industry which he plans handing over to his son. The son returns from college, steps into the office and immediately starts to revolutionize the business—of course, pandemonium results. In this story you will learn the result of youth and ideals versus age and custom; in fact, both sides are well taken, and both win out, but only after stirring up the audience with tense dramatic action and side-spliting comedy.

"King Of Sports." Color Classic.

"M. G. M. News No. 89."

MONDAY, JULY 1

"FROM HEADQUARTERS," starring Monte Blue in a stirring tale of tropical love in a war-torn foreign land. The marines appear constantly in the limelight of the story, yet, it is by no means a war-time picture. The story concerns a soldier of fortune who is loved by the daughter of an American vice-counsul. He leads a company of marines to the Rosieta mines to rescue a party of Americans, including a woman. He incurs the enmity of Sergeant Wilmer, in charge of the marines. Half of their number die. By the time they reach the mine they find only the woman who has saved herself from a general massacre by guerrillas. More lives are lost on the return trip. Intrigue enters into the plot. It can best be described as a story of action, drama, romance, and dangerous adventure in the jungles of Central America.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 1."

"Mystery Rider No. 10."

TUESDAY, JULY 2

"THE BATTLE OF THE SEXES," starring Phyllis Haver and Jean Hersholt with an unusually strong supporting cast. The story is built upon the theme of a modern gold-digger who wrecks a man's home and steals the man but is victorious in that she has accomplished her purpose — money. Throughout the story there is a strong under current of pathos, as the man's wife and two children struggle to regain their home. The story is a reflection from the mirror of life, revealing the joys and sorrows of human hearts. It depicts the two types of women which rule the world, those that pray and those that prey. This is considered a very gripping drama.

"Fully Equipped." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3

"THE BARKER," starring Milton

Sills in a colorful picture of carnival life. This is a filmization of the stage success by the same name which has recently traveled throughout the United States. It depicts with unusual realism the true inner lives of those hardy men and women who follow "the racket." The story is typical of the American street carnival as it ran in the old days. It portrays the swirling colors, gaping crowds, and the barker, smooth as marble but twice as hard, all on the outside; then carries you behind the scenes where the true intimate lives of the principals manifest themselves. It unfolds the intrigue and light and heavy moments endured by their hearts. This is a gripping story.

"M. G. M. News No. 90."

THURSDAY, JULY 4

"THE CARNATION KID," starring Douglas McLean in a stirring comedy drama. It concerns an innocent and quite harmless typewriter salesman, who is inadvertently thrust into the midst of a gangsters' feud and political war. He finds himself the leading figure of the controversy by virtue of mistaken identity. Guns are thrust into his hands, and he is ordered to shoot to kill. An attractive maiden steps into his path when he is about to do the shooting, yet, he has to shoot or be shot. Come to the theatre and see him "laugh off" this terrible predictment. This story is a combination farce-tragic drama, most pleasingly spiced with side splitting comedy.

"Heart of General Robert E. Lee." Great Event-Technicolor. Well worth seeing.

FRIDAY, JULY 5

"THE DONOVAN AFFAIR," starring Jack Holt with Dorothy Revier in a stirring mystery drama. It is a real detective story involving a double murder mystery which is solved in a most intriguing manner. A dog howling in the night—rain dripping—a man with a wooden leg tapping on the porch outside—blood curdling screams in the dark—murdered. Who was the culprit? You'll not be able to guess until the final great climax raises you to your feet while your hair stands on end.

"Pathe News No. 53."

ORDER REVOKED

The orders relieving Captain Charles Steel from the 24th Infantry and assigning him to duty as student in the 1929-1930 advanced course, at the Infantry School have been revoked.

TO ATTEND MEDICAL SCHOOL

1st Lt. John L. Gallegher, Medical Corps, of Fort Benning, has received orders assigning him to duty as a student at the Army Medical School in Washington, D. C., where he will report in the latter part of August.

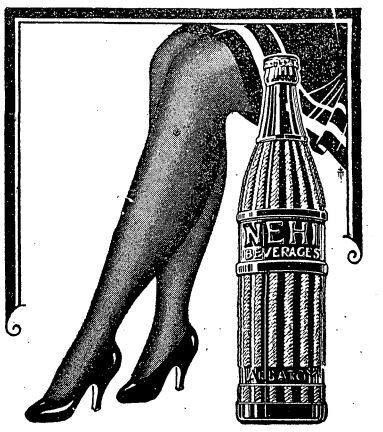
In most of the wars of the past more men have died from illness than have been killed in battle.

For Quicker Service

Call

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2



ON SALE at all CANTEENS

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

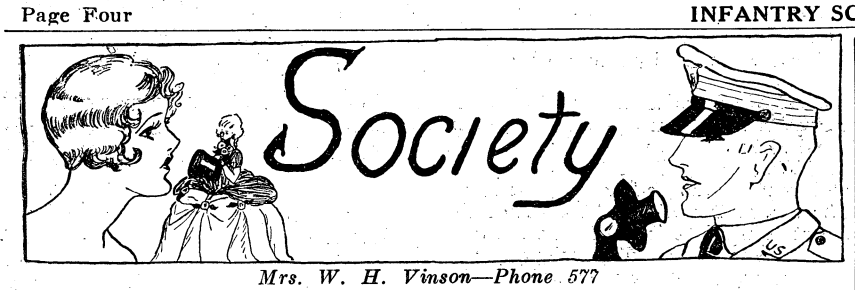
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

Two Engagements Announced This Week

HOCKER—DOIDGE

Colonel and Mrs. Woodson Hocker announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Theodosia, to Lieutenant John P. Doidge, United States army, the wedding to be solemnized in September.

Miss Hocker is the only daughter of Col. and Mrs. Hocker and, since their coming about a year ago to make their home in Columbus, she has enjoyed a wide popularity in civilian as well as military circles.

Lieutenant Doidge is a member of Class '28 of the United States Military Academy, and since his graduation there, has served with the 29th Infantry.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Henry A. Bootz entertained very delightfully at dinner at their quarters on Thursday evening, June 20th. Garden flowers were used in artistic profusion throughout the home and in the dining roof a color note of pink was emphasized. The centerpiece of the large table was a handsome silver bowl filled with summer flowers featuring pink. Tall slim pink tapers burned in silver holders and dainty pink ladies marked the places for the following guests: General and Mrs. Campbell King, General and Mrs. George C. Shaw, Col. and Mrs. Harry E. Knight, Col. and Mrs. Daniel P. Card, Maj. and Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Maj. and Mrs. Daniel H. Torrey, Captain and Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, Mrs. Charles L. Willard, Capt. George Daughtry.

* * *

Complimenting Gen. and Mrs. Leitch, Capt. and Mrs. McClure entertained at a very lovely tea dance on Wednesday afternoon at the Polo Club from 4:30 to 6:30. This party had a double significance as it was not only a welcome reception for their distinguished guests but celebrated as well a most happy birthday for the hostess. The Polo Club was festooned in evergreens, and bowls and baskets of vari-colored zinnias were attractively placed on tables and mantel. The tea table was overlaid with a handsome oriental cloth and had for its centerpiece a huge bowl of giant zinnias around which green candles burned in silver holders. Approximately one hundred guests called.

On Friday Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis are honoring Major-General and Mrs. Leitch with a dinner; on Sunday Major and Mrs. J. D. Patch will entertain in their honor; and on Tuesday afternoon of next week Mrs. Lewis C. Beebe will be hostess at bridge as a courtesy to Mrs. Leitch.

* * *

Major-General and Mrs. J. D. Leitch, of San Francisco, are the guests of their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. McClure. Mrs. Leitch came two weeks ago and the General arrived on Tuesday. They will make an extended visit to the delight of their many friends.

NORTON—BLACK

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Abell Norton, of Savannah, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Martha, to Lieutenant Claude Aubrey Black, United States army, the wedding to take place in the early fall.

The above announcement is of cordial interest to many people at Fort Benning for Miss Norton was the popular guest of Lt. and Mrs. E. P. Earle during the mid-winter. She was one of the most beautiful guests at the Colonial Ball where she wore an exquisite Martha Washington costume.

Lieutenant Black was a member of the company officers class of the Infantry school this past year.

* * *

Mrs. J. C. Baker left a few days ago for Danville, Illinois, where she will make a visit to her mother, Mrs. Olmsted. Capt. Baker expects to leave about July 10th and will join Mrs. Baker in Danville prior to going to Fort Leavenworth, where he will be stationed for the next two years.

* * *

The ladies of the 24th Infantry were entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. E. J. Curren, Jr., at her quarters. Summer garden flowers were attractively used throughout the apartment for decoration. Mrs. William R. Schmidt won high score prize, Mrs. Charles L. Steel, second. After the game a delicious frozen salad was served with sandwiches and coffee.

* * *

Honoring Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis, who leave Fort Benning in a few weeks, the officers and ladies of the Fourth Section gave a most delightful picnic at Idle Hour Fishing club on Thursday, June 13th. Major Lewis has been chief of the Fourth Section for several years and the officers who were instructors in his group, but who are now on other duty at Benning were also included in this farewell party. This section ceases with this past year, its work having been reclassified and divided. so this party was in a double sense a last get-to-gether for these friends who have been so closely associated for some time. At this charming rustic club beside the shimmering, silvery water of the lake, the Lewises, the Patches, the Longes, the Helsleys and the rest had a good time together telling stories, taking pictures, singing, dancing, and most pleasant of all, eating a regular Georgia fried chicken dinner.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge leave on Monday for their vacation and change of station. These talented musicians will be sorely missed in Columbus as well as on the post. Capt. Rutledge has a magnificent tenor voice and Mrs. Rutledge is a most skilled accompanist. Together they have added greatly to the joy of music lovers.

Major Laurence W. Young and Miss Helen Young left Monday for Asheville, N. C. Major Young will spend his leave there before going to his new station at Lincoln, Nebraska. Miss Helen Young will be riding instructor at Camp Eagle's Nest near Brevard, N. C. This is her second season in this capacity.

* * *

Mrs. Charles L. Steel today honors her charming visitor, Miss Elizabeth Bowers, with a bridge luncheon at the Polo Club.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Paul R. Goode left Sunday for leave to be spent in Washington and New York before going to West Point where Capt. Goode will be on duty.

* * *

The many friends of Mrs. E. D. Porter are delighted to see her at home again, recuperating nicely, after a serious operation at Walter Reed Hospital.

* * *

Mrs. S. F. Clark and children, Fitz, and Grace Reed, have gone to Wisconsin where they will spend the summer with her family.

* * *

Major and Mrs. J. D. Patch entertained their friends who were at Leavenworth with them at a most delightful dinner recently.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Alfred H. Parham have returned from their honeymoon and have been assigned quarters in Block 23.

* * *

Miss Katherine Kingman leaves today for Camp Dixie near Clayton, Ga., where she will teach riding.

* * *

Major and Mrs. D. H. Torrey left Thursday for a short visit to Washington before going to Fort Leavenworth where Maj. Torrey will be on duty.

Lt. Woodson Hocker and Miss Theodosia Hocker tonight honor Miss Harriett Wells and Lt. LeGrande Diller with a lovely dinner party at the Log Cabin. After dinner they will attend the R. O. T. C. dance at the Polo Club.

* * *

Mrs. H. S. Kelly and little daughter, Mary Frances, will leave Saturday for Warm Springs where they will spend the summer at their cottage. Lt. Kelly will join them for the week ends.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Henry H. Fay will be tendered a farewell reception at the Parish House of Trinity Episcopal Church tonight at 8 o'clock. Receiving with Capt. and Mrs. Fay will be Dr. and Mrs. S. Alston Wragg, the wardens and their wives, the vestrymen and their wives. All friends of Capt. and Mrs. Fay, both in and out of the parish are cordially invited to this farewell party.

* * *

Maj. and Mrs. George D. Chunn leave this week for a few days leave to be spent in Hot Springs, Ark., with Maj. Chunn's family prior to going to their new station at Ft. Leavenworth.

LIEUT. MacKENZIE TRANSFERED

1st Lt. Alexander J. Mackenzie has been transferred from the 29th Infantry to the 17th Infantry at Fort Crook, Nebraska.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO.
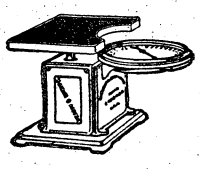
HALFTONES
NEWSTONES
Photo Engraving
PROCESS
COLOR PLATES
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

New Safe Way to Reduce



Roto-Dial Scale $11.25
Health-O Meter Scale $15.00

Scientific Weight Control Free With Each Scale.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.
1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY
"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"
PEKOR'S
INC.
YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Swimming Suits
LATEST STYLES—
ATTRACTIVE PRICES
Ladies' Suits at The
Special Order Dept.
Men's Suits at The
MAIN BRANCH
Post Exchange
Fort Benning, Ga.

HOW POLO PLAYERS ACT WHEN GIVEN PRIZES

Fort Benning's undefeated polo team which won the Infantry Association cup in the Washington tournament, has attracted considerable attention in the capital city. The following article is reprinted from a Washington paper.

By Juno Kinerk

Wonder what a winning polo player thinks about when he lines up to receive his reward in the shape of individual silver cups? We don't know what he thinks about, but we do know how he acts.

With the first Lady of the Land acting as the donor of the silverware, and after a hard, exhausting game under a hot sun, one might think the players would be at a bit of a disadvantage. But not so with those hard-riding, accurate hitting Fort Benning mallet wielders who defeated Third Cavalry, 14 to 11, to win the infantry tournament.

With all the precision of their military training and with all the grace of an actress taking a bow, each of the four players presented himself in front of Mrs. Hoover and received his reward. Of course, each individual reacted a trifle differently from the other. And this makes the story.

Major Charles Lyman, No. 1 on the team, was much at home receiving his cup. He bowed smartly to the First Lady and smiled the winning smile of a sportsman triumphant after a hard fight.

His reaction is different from that of Capt. McClure, No. 2 on the team, who appeared a bit fussed about the honor accorded him and his mates. The occasion to him is one of solemnity, almost. Yet he carried himself with all the aplomb of the soldier presenting himself to a superior officer.

Lieut. Jacobs, No. 3, is next to receive his cup. He saluted nicely with the trace of a grin on his face. His sense of humor has taken the upper hand, apparently, for he has grinned from ear to ear and also has made some facetious remark, which has found favor with the First Lady, for she, too, smiles pleasantly.

Then comes Lieut. Van Houten, back, and the baby of the team. He is playing polo for the second year. But his game is good and his conduct is better. In fact, Mrs. Hoover and the other ladies present seemed to think it almost was downright cute. With all of the best West Point manner, Lieut. Van Houten sharply clicked his heels together, saluted smartly and permitted just the trace of a smile to flicker over his face. The cup to him will always be one of his most treasured possessions. At least he gave that impression.

To each of the players Mrs. Hoover had some congratulatory word. And the players felt the deep honor of the occasion, too, it seemed, for none but Lieut. Jacobs had a word to say, it seemed, except the obvious "thank you."

No doubt Mrs. Hoover congratulated Mayor Lyman upon his wonderful playing, for she saw him almost single-handed turn an apparent defeat into victory. In the next to last chukker with his team two goals behind, Major Lyman gave one of the prettiest exhibitions of playing ever seen on the local field. In less than four minutes he smashed the ball through his opponent's goal three times.

Not content with only a one-goal lead, Lieutenant Jacobs came into the spotlight with Major Lyman in the last period. With Lieutenant McClure passing accurately each Jacobs and Lyman scored a pair of goals to clinch the victory, one a minute before the end of the seventh chukker and the other three in the last period.

Lieutenant Van Houten came in for his share of praise, too, because he made some remarkable saves in front of his goal time after time. Besides he played a smashing game and fed his forwards with fine passing.

With their spoils of victory, the players soon were surrounded by friendly groups after Mrs. Hoover left. Thus the Infantry Association Cup tourney ended.

MRS. HOOVER SEES BENNING POLO TEAM WIN

Mrs. Herbert Hoover and party watching the Infantry School polo team defeat the 3d Cavalry team, June 19th. Front row: left to right: Mrs. Briant H. Wells, Maj. Gen. Briant H. Wells, Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, Mr. Delano Large, Mrs. J. H. Large.

GOLF GOSSIP

By V. G. H.

Some people just don't seem to know when they are well off; it is a well known fact that hunting and fishing must be controlled by the authorities, in order that our wild animal life may have a fair chance at self preservation, yet here comes a report that a certain party went out Wednesday afternoon of last week and with malice aforethought (not certain of the "criminal intent) deliberately captured one of the rarest speciments known to science—a dodo bird, on the 185 yard No. 2 hole of the garrison golf course, the first of record on this hole. The gruesome act is vouched for by Capt. Steel of the 24th Infantry, and we wonder if Capt. Paynter (the party of the first part) realizes the gravity of the offense should the SPCA become aware of his act. (Well, some fellows just haven't the patience to wait for Santa Claus; hrrm, don't hesitate to inform us when the ginger ale arrives, brother Paynter.)

* * *

And speaking of dodos, it occured to

(Continued on page 11.)

K&P

"When you buy quality you are investing . . when you buy cheapness you are spending."

* *

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.

JEWELERS

1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store

1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

RECORD SAVINGS IN OUR Nation-Wide Sale

Prices Reduced!

ALLSTATE

TIRES AND TUBES

Balloons

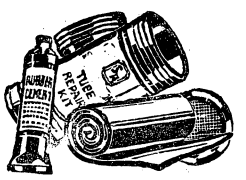
Size	Tire	Tube
28x4.75	$8.35	$1.48
28x5.25	9.75	1.68
29x4.40	6.10	1.23
29x4.75	8.45	1.48
30x4.50	6.98	1.23
30x4.75	8.75	1.55

Cords

Size	Tire	Tube
30x3 Clincher	$4.95	$0.98
30x3½ Regular Clincher	5.25	1.10
30x3½ Oversize Clincher	5.35	1.10
30x3½ S. S.	6.85	1.10

OTHER SIZES PRICED CORRESPONDINGLY LOW!

Patch Outfits

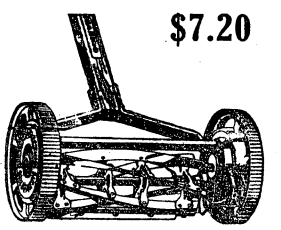


16c

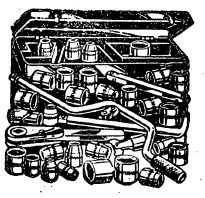
Includes patching material, rubber cement and tire buffer. Heat generates while running, vulcanizing patch.

Lawn Mowers

$7.20



9-in. open wheel lawn mower that cuts 16-in. swath. Easily operated, smooth running. Finished in Gold and Red.



Wrench Sets

$3.45

Save money on this 36-piece wrench set of special steel, heat treated and hardened. Steel box.

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. June 28, 1929 No. 41

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry.....Editor
Bernard H. Cowan.....Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz.....Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze.....Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson.....Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

ARE YOU READY?

One of the objectives sought by our military training is the preparation of every individual to perform efficiently the duties of higher grades. The private should be ready to take the place of the corporal, the corporal should be ready to take up the sergeant's duties, the sergeant should be prepared to assume the duties of a lieutenant, the lieutenant should be ready to step into the captain's place, and so on up to the highest office.

Are you ready? Are you preparing yourself to fulfill the duties of a higher grade by first mastering the duties of your present grade?

Are you preparing yourself for the duties of higher grades by study and by observing how those who now occupy the higher grades perform their duties?

You can learn a great deal by observing the methods of those above you. Watch how they solve the various problems which confront them.

If it is a problem of decision or action, study it from the viewpoint of the man above you. Put yourself in his place and think what you would do if the responsibility were yours. If your solution differs from his, try to discover the reason for the difference.

If the problem is one of handling men, observe how the men under him react to his orders. If they obey him with cheerful exactness, you are reasonably sure that you can follow his methods. If they do not, you can learn what methods not to employ.

Study everything that he does. Compare his action with the action you would have taken had you been in his place. Avoid destructive criticism; that is not study.

You will find this study of leadership a pleasant and profitable diversion and one that will enable you to give the correct answer to the question: "Are you ready?"

Military history tells us that prior to the 20th century, infantry was reorganized, re-equipped and re-armed every hundred years. Each such change in armament and organization brought with it a revolution in methods of tactics and technique, even though the underlying principles of war remained unchanged.

It is essential for each of us seriously to study new scientific developments, primarily to find their application to the infantry in combat, and secondarily their general relation to national defense as a whole.

As infantry officers we should so train ourselves, that should another war come, we need not confine ourselves to the weapons now on hand in the army, but understand and know how to apply those other means, which modern science has made available for the army, even though they may not be listed in our equipment tables.

One thing seems inevitable. The developments in ordnance, air material and motor vehicles will not leave the infantry untouched. Wherever possible, these developments must be made our own, if we are to retain in the future the dominant role which infantry has played in the past.

We are each day increasingly aware that a revolution in methods of warfare impends, as startling and far reaching as was the French revolution in the political sphere.

COLUMBUS CLOSE-UPS

By LeRoy Yarborough

LET GEORGE DO IT

Of the many quaint and interesting features which abound in Columbus, one of the most interesting is the assortment of vehicles which crowd and clutter up its streets. Here, in addition to the modern motor cars of every grade and the wheezy obsolescent cast-offs of two decades, there is a conglomeration of horse-drawn, mule-drawn, man-drawn, ox-drawn, and goat-drawn wagons, carts, carriages, chaises, buggies and drays such as was never seen elsewhere. Rickety to the point of disintegration, and held together by bits of wire or rope, many of them threaten momently to collapse and to spill their contents and owners into the street as they weave their uncertain way through the traffic. Some have been preserved by the adaptation of articles never intended for such purposes as the replacement of missing parts of vehicles. Others of freakish design, attest to the eccentricity or ingenuity of their owners. Their variety is legion.

Of all these vehicles none is more familiar to the citizens of Columbus than a tiny wagon drawn by a team of small goats and driven by a legless elderly negro. Sometimes, the little wagon is piled high with bundles of washing; more frequently it is empty. Ever since I first saw it some months ago, I have been curious about the queer little rig. The other day I had an opportunity to talk to "George," its owner, and to see the wagon and goats at close range.

George obligingly halted his team when I hailed him.

"That's a nice little team you have," I said, to open conversation.

George grinned widely in appreciation of this original remark. "Yas, suh," he replied.

The goats looked bored and stood quietly wagging their short tails.

"What do you call them?" I asked.

"That one's name White Billy an' that one's name Light Billy," said George, pointing to each.

Both the little beasts were yellowish brown in color but "White Billy" had a larger white spot on his flank than did "Light Billy." I patted "White Billy" and scratched his head behind his horns. He accepted my attentions complacently. I reached over to do the same for "Light Billy." He glared at me for a moment and then lowered his head to butt or strike with his horns.

"Whoa, Light Billy," said George, pulling on the reins.

I hastily transferred my attentions back to "White Billy" while "Light Billy" lay down in the road to rest.

George was flattered by my interest and began to talk about his goats. "White Billy" he had purchased for $1.50 and "Light Billy" had cost $2.50, he said.

"Yas, suh, I've had a good many goats. Ah reckon Ah don' know how many I've had. Maybe a hundred. Ah keep 'em awhile an' they die."

"How long have you had these goats?" I asked, pointing to the pair of scrawny little animals which stood hitched to George's wagon.

"Two-three months," said George.

The goats looked pretty thin but, according to George, thin goats work better than plump ones. Although he says he provides them with plenty of oats and mash, and sometimes with turnip tops and collards, the goats often decline to eat the food he prepares for them and show a preference for such dainties as paper, rags and other trash. "I have to watch 'em to see that they don't eat the laundry out of the wagon," said George. "They're just like some folks. They ain't satisfied with the food you give 'em; they want somethin' else."

George has made a set of double harness for his team that is a miniature of a mule's harness, even to the collar and hames. The only difference, other than size, is that the goats wear halters instead of bridles.

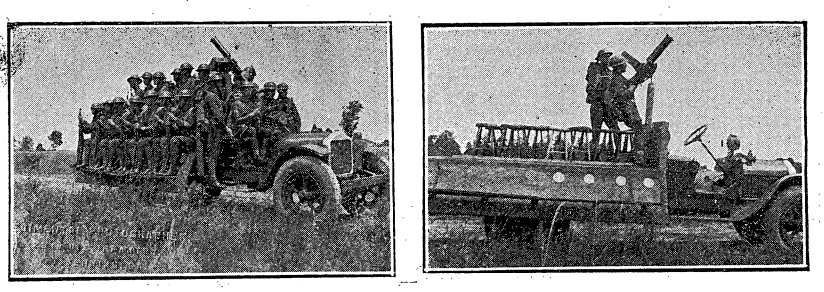
George's wagon was built for him last year by a shop in Columbus. It looks like a model of a farm wagon. It is about four and a half feet long, two feet wide and stands about two feet high. George's seat is built at just the right distance from the dashboard so that he can place his shortened legs against it and hold himself upright on the seat.

"What do you carry in your wagon?" I asked.

"Anything Ah kin git," said George, "Ah delivers laundry regular fo' a couple of washladies fo' twenty-five cents a bundle. If yo' evah wants any haulin' done, let Gawge do it."

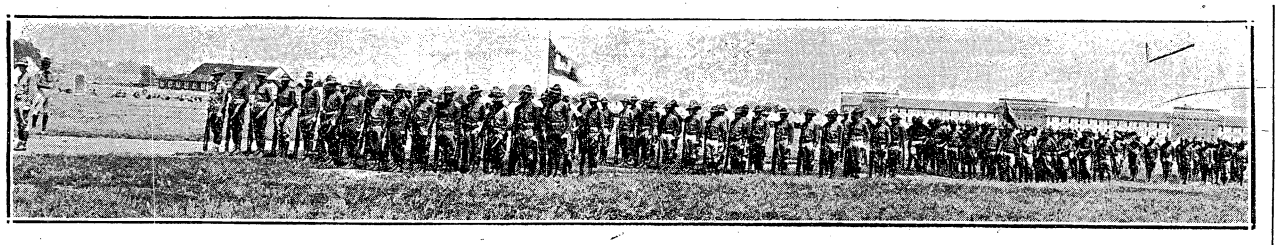
George drove his first goat team twenty-nine years ago, he told me, and has been driving a pair of goats, though not the same ones, ever since. A little more than twenty-nine years ago, George was employed in a fertilizer plant. One day, as he was working near a machine, his clothing was caught on the set screw of a rapidly revolving shaft and he was so badly mangled that both legs had to be amputated near the knees. That was before the days of industrial insurance. When George was discharged from the hospital he had to find means to support himself. Somehow, he managed to obtain a pair of goats and then he built a little wagon for them to draw. That was the start of George's draying business.

RAPID TRANSPORT FOR DOUGHBOYS



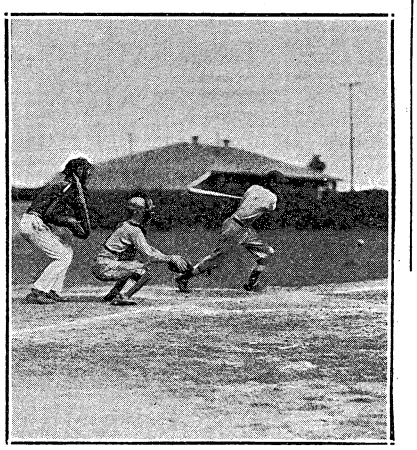
Experimental troop carrying trucks, designed by Capt. C. J. Mabbutt, Q. M. C., now undergoing tests at the Infantry School. The collapsible sides of the trucks form seats for the soldiers. Each truck mounts an anti-aircraft machine gun.

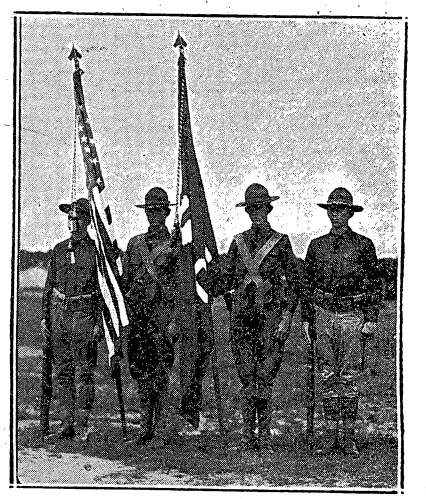
Reserve Officers Training Corps Camp at Fort Benning



Composite battalion of R.O.T.C. units in training at Fort Benning. Auburn is represented by field artillery; Georgia Tech by ordnance and signal corps; and the universities of Alabama and Tennessee by field artillery.

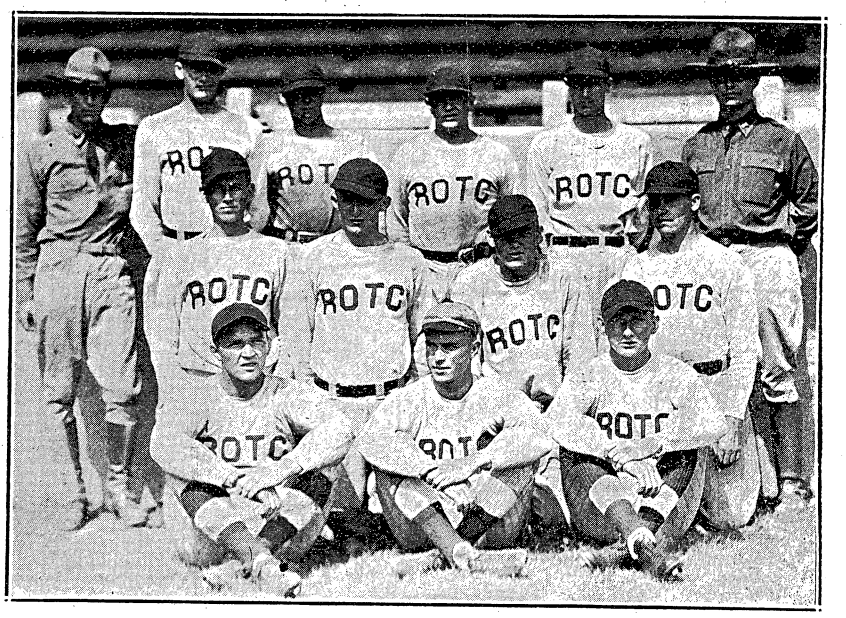
Brig. Gen King, commandant of the Infantry School, with members of his staff, making Saturday morning inspection of R.O.T.C. camp.





R.O.T.C. colors and color guard.

During the game between the R. O. T. C. and the 15th Tank Battalion at Gowdy Field. Lester of the R. O. T. C. poling out one that makes the stands roar. Woodman of the Tanks is catching. Red Jones of the I. S. D. is umpiring.



The baseball team of the R. O. T. C. now in training at Fort Benning. Sitting: Burt, Ward, Bethel. Middle row: Clingo, Shennessey, Jones, Kennedy. Back row: Smith, (Manager), Lester, Long, Manley, Evans, Lt. Barth, (Coach).

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

LOCK-JAW AND FOURTH OF JULY FIREWORKS

Lock-jaw, or tetanus, is a disease of the utmost seriousness. In wars it has caused the deaths of thousands of soldiers, including many who had only apparently trifling wounds. In peace it has been responsible for loss of life of many people, often when there was no suspicion of the presence of any serious condition.

Lock-jaw is caused by what is known as an "anaerobic" bacillus, meaning one which lives without oxygen and which therefore cannot live in contact with the air. For this reason lock-jaw is apt to develop in a "puncture wound," that is, a wound which is relatively deep but which has only a small opening. It is evident that such a wound will not contain much air and therefore affords favorable conditions for the growth of the tetanus germs. Tetanus germs are found in the soil in almost all localities. Particularly is this true in soil that has been contaminated by horse manure, the horse being a "carrier" of this germ. The soil at Fort Benning is highly infected with the "spores" or seeds of the tetanus bacillus, so that every precaution must be taken here.

The spore or seeds of the germs of lock-jaw are very resistant and hard to kill. They are distributed through dust which is blown by the wind, by means of house-flies, and in a great variety of other ways. In every wound in which there is a comparatively small opening and whenever there has been soil or dirt ground into a wound, it is important to give the tetanus anti-toxin. This is indeed a cheap insurance. In the World War every wounded man was given a dose of this valuable medicine, and for the first time in war, the incidence of tetanus was comparatively low. Physicians are prepared to administer this anti-toxin and it is kept on hand at all times by the Out-Patient Department and the attending surgeon. To be effective it must be given before the onset of the lock-jaw. In other words it is preventive rather than curative. If in doubt about a wound's requiring this treatment, see a doctor.

Lock-jaw has a special significance at this season of the year. Fireworks, though fortunately not so popular as formerly, are still used by some people. They are a great source of danger. The fire-works themselves may contain the germs of tetanus and may be the means of driving soil and dirt into wounds thereby causing this dread disease. It has been but a few years since the newspapers were filled each year with accounts of deaths from lock-jaw caused by fireworks used on the Fourth of July. The campaigns for a safe and sane Fourth have been so successful that this toll of lives—chiefly children's lives—has been cut down. Surely there is no more useless infection than one derived from Fourth of July fireworks, and there is hardly conceivable a more horrible death than one from lock-jaw.

Let's leave fireworks alone and celebrate the glorious Fourth in some other manner. But if you must use them, remember the danger and if you or your child are hurt, seek medical assistance immediately.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES OF OFFICERS

The following named officers have arrived at and departed from Fort Benning during the week of June 18 to 25.

Arrivals

Lt. Col. George C. Marshall, Jr., from detached service.

Departures

Maj. Alexander P. Withers, to leave and change of station to Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

Capt. John T. Sunstone, to leave and change of station to 6th Inf., Jefferson Bks., Mo.

Capt. Frank M. Child, to leave and change of station, 22nd Inf. Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Capt. Lawrence B. Glasgow, to detached service, Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

1st. Lt. Fred M. Caswell, to Walter Reid General Hospital.

1st. Lt. Sidney L. Douthit, to leave and change of station to Panama.

R.O.T.C. NOTES

This week finds the R. O. T. C. camp in full speed and half over. After the first few days, the units settled down to the serious business of training; the artillery finding out the woes of grooming grey horses; the signal corps disappearing each day in the general direction of the signal office and returning strangely refreshed. (It is even rumored that they spent a part of one morning in the Q. M. cold storage plant. Not a bad idea, what-) While the engineers and ordnance companies sweltered on the rifle range.

Record firing was completed Monday, the engineers qualifying 31 out of 66 men firing and the ordnance 6 out of 31 firing. Cadets D. C. Summerford, of Auburn, and R. A. Armstrong, of the University of Tennessee, were the only ones to make expert, Summerford being high gun with a score of 222 out of 250.

The baseball team has three games to its credit and one on the wrong side of the ledger. Army Juniors were taken into camp 6 to 3 and the ordnance next succumbed 8 to 5. The 83rd Field Artillery played a fine game but lost to the R. O. T. C. boys 4 to 3. Then along came Lieut. Roosma and his team from the 15th Tank Bn., who proved too much for us and took home the long end of a 5 to 4 score.

The swimming team has finally been formed but as yet is somewhat of an unknown quantity. Sibert, Mosley and Purcell all seem to have the goods.

Two dances have been held. They were well attended by the young people of the Cotillion Club of Columbus and the officers and ladies of the post. Two more dances will be held; one, a general dance, on Friday, June 28, and the other by the Scabbard and Blade Military fraternity on Friday, July 5th. There will be no dances on July 12 due to the absence of all units on a hike.

HOUR OF GUARD MOUNTING CHANGED

During the hot weather period guard-mounting will be held in the morning instead of the afternoon as has been the practice heretofore. First call is now at 10:50 and assembly at 11 a. m.

29TH INF.

29TH INFANTRY COMMENDED FOR HELPING

A letter of appreciation was received recently by Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., commanding the 29th Infantry from Major General Fuqua, in which the Chief of Infantry commends the "Demonstration" regiment upon its hearty cooperation with the captain of the infantry rifle team during the tryouts held at Fort Benning.

The letter reads:

To: Commanding Officer, 29th Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga.

1. The spirit of cooperation evidenced by the 29th Infantry in the assistance rendered the Captain of The Infantry Team is deeply appreciated.

2. The fine work and soldierly conduct of the members of your regiment during the preliminary try-out at Fort Benning, Georgia, was most creditable, and it is hoped that it will appeal to you as of sufficient importance to be worthy of individual commendation.

(Signed) Stephen O. Fuqua
Major General,
Chief of Infantry.

Besides the assistance rendered the captain of the infantry team in the tryouts, the 29th Infantry also contributed to the future success of the team by qualifying ten men to go to Camp Perry, where the final selection of the team will take place.

These men are: Sgt. L. A. Beck, Cpl. J. N. Brunsell, Cpl. C. W. Wills, Cpl. H. F. Hicks, Capt. R. O. Bassett, Jr., 1st Lieut. D. L. Adams, 2nd Lt. T. B. Gailbreath, Sgt. D. Hamscher, Cpl. C. Taylor, and Pvt. T. E. McCullock. These men are now at Camp Perry, where they will match their best against the pick of the infantry for the honor of representing the doughboys in the national matches.

TWENTY-FIVE RECRUITS JOIN 29TH INFANTRY

Twenty-five newly enlisted men have been assigned to the 29th Infantry and will join their companies in that regiment upon the completion of their period of quarantine.

Thirteen of the men are from Louisiana, 3 from Georgia, 2 from Texas, 1 from Alabama, 1 from Arkansas, 2 from Mississippi, 2 from South Carolina and 1 from North Carolina.

Philip Campo, Antonio P. Benet, Frank Schlamp, Jr., and Venice Landry are all from New Orleans, Louisiana. Other Louisiana men are: Robia J. Falghou, Westwego; Henry H. Lambert, Baskim; Emos A. Boudlouche, Clarence E. Davidson, and Johnny Sacouzza, Houma; Sidney L. Hebert, Thebodaux; Gaston Bridges, Pritchard; Calvin D. Watts, Frost, and Jack R. Saizen, Chenel.

Aldred E. Stowe is from Avalon, Georgia; Lyman L. Welch from Lizella, Georgia, and Gilbert F. Schumacher from Augusta, Georgia.

Jack Moon is from Galveston, Texas, and Gilbert Alley are from Crowell, Texas.

Alfred P. Patterson is from Talladege, Alabama.

Carter F. Veal is from Fayetteville, Arkansas.

Melvin E. Phillips is from Jackson, Mississippi, and George A. Ladner is from Guilford, Mississippi.

Taft E. Burgess is from Pelham, South Carolina, and Wilton M. Prince is from Myers Mill, South Carolina.

Daniel L. Nanney is from Black Mountain, North Carolina.

Headquarters Company

Some folks are very disgusted with the way the army is being run at the present time. With part of the company on the range and getting up at 3:00 o'clock everybody must arise at the same hour, thereby losing three hours of beauty sleep.

The identity of the person, or persons, who dropped that lighted cigarette butt into the pocket of Cpl. Devoice is still unknown. Pvt. Grace insists that it was a very dirty trick, and the guilty person should come forward and confess.

Cpl. Funk comes out with advice for the love-lorn this week. He says that when driving with the lady friend, never let her drive; and, never, never, go to sleep, if she is driving. He speaks from experience, for by failing to observe the above rules, he is now the not-so-proud possessor of a lovely blue, tinged with black eye, surrounded by several stitches. He has also found that when a rapidly moving body meets a solid motionless object, something must give, and give it did; gave until it hurt.

What's in a name? Take for example our own "Bull," alias "Leathers" Devoice. He really has de voice, a beautiful soprano, cultured, refined, about like a hoarse fog-horn. And with what amazing effect he uses it! His most favorite rendering is "The Greeting to the New Day." The words are very simple, and are something like this, "All right, old soldier, get up" or, "All right, old soldier grab this mop." It's a shame that he doesn't know some more words. Pvt. Carver has returned to the company after spending several days in "Wire City," Georgia, where he has been undergoing treatment for itching feet. Pvt. Lungrin proved himself to be the prize wit of the company on the range the other day. He was in the pits, just before firing started, and when the reveille gun went off, "Tilly" raised his target, and waved the red flag across the target several times. Needless to say, the laughter was general.

29th Inf. Band

Bandsmen are testing the truth of the old adage—"Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise." How we love to greet the dawn at three-thirty, wrap ourselves around a half chicken (in the shell), at four, and then wait until afternoon to get dinner when the company returns. Very nice.

Warrant Officer Dickson, who has been our band leader for the past nine years, has been ordered to Fort Wright, Washington. Needless for us to express our regret; the regiment as a whole will miss him. He has been more than a band leader, and 'twill be a far call 'ere his musical ability and human personality can be replaced. And to Mrs. Dickson, too, our best. Goodby—Goodluck.

Kid Humphrey, budding young cornet virtuoso, has developed a craving for solitary long-distance hiking. Monday morning found him marooned at our fishing camp 'way out on Lake Harding, some eighteen miles past Bartlett's Ferry. There still remains an air of mystery concerning the affair, but we have him with us again, sober (faced) and footsore.

Glory be! Yesterday was a red letter day; Jupiter Pluvius rained us out of a guard-mount and concert. We were broken-hearted.

Howitzer Company

The long distance, non-stop, summer camping endurance championship contest was won today, without protest, by the Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry. The contest started on May 15th, with all companies of the 1st Battalion toeing the mark. Companies "A" and "B" were eliminated early, but the remaining companies were forced to give up on June 10th, leaving the Howitzer Company, the lone contestant to strive for a Post record.

During the last three weeks of their six weeks stay out at Camp Liscum, Sulphur Springs, Ga., the "How Boys" amused themselves with all kinds of gunner's tests. The usual camp duties, including guard, fatigue, mule-grooming, and horse-fly swatting also proved very popular.

Betting is high in the 1st Bn., that the "How Boys" will be unable to accomodate themselves to the ways of their QM bunks, after being used to Gold Medal cots for so long. Better get some one to teach you the "Diamond Hitch," boys.

Company B

First Lieutenant Joseph C. Kovarik, who has for some time been with the company, is now assigned to regimental headquarters and band. It is with regret that we are forced to accept the loss of the lieutenant, but wish him all the luck in the world in the performance of his new duties. However, to overcome the loss, First Lieutenant James C. Carter, has been temporarily attached to the company. Welcome Lieutenant, we will do our best to make your duties a pleasure.

Corporal Clarence G. Skipper, and Private first class John L. Lytle were recently appointed one grade higher on the ladder of success. Sergeant Skipper, Corporal Lytle, the company welcomes you both in your newly appointed grades.

The First Battalion baseball team looks very promising this season, even though, unfortunately, they lost their first game with the Hubbard Hardware Company of Columbus. "B" Company seems to be the leading factor in the organization of the team, and we have great hopes and confidence in all of our men.

Private Wilkerson is our latest hope as a student clerk (While he is not on guard.)

Pvt. 1cl. Ogden just pulled his first guard as a bugler. You probably noticed some peculiar noises in the air last night. However there's still some hope left.

Company C

Three recruits have been assigned to the company during the past week.

We are also glad to have with us Private Miller, a new fellow from the 15th Infantry, stationed in China, welcome to the company, Miller!

One of the new recruits asked "Windy" Johnson what that one stripe on his arm represented. Johnson told him that it meant that he was dangerous; that he either carried a knife or a gun at all times.

We want to warn every one that Dey, or "Pug," wants it to be known that he has quit riding horses, and wants us to get another horse to ride and leave him along. Very well, "Pug," we will quit riding you for awhile.

B. L. (Barber) Tyler is still making regular trips to town and we are wondering who the girl was that called the other night for him. Hayes knows that she didn't give her right name even if he did talk sweet to her. Johnson said that if he ever got to see her that B. L. would never have another chance. Johnson seems to be a regular woman's man, so beware, B. L., the writer is well up on all this stuff, and this is inside dope.

Company E

Pvt. Clark said, "Yes, that's a bull." The coach said, "Where at Clark?" Clark replied, "Over in that farm across the range."

A certain fellow in company headquarters is sure gald to hear that the soldiers can now go overseas,—that is, over the river. This young soldier goes with an undertaker's daughter, and he is dying to see her.

Corporal Josey, the regimental drum major and heart breaker, has to use one-half point right windage on account of the sun. Too bad, Joe!

The company ball team is coming along nicely. We lost the first game to 2nd Bn. Hq. Co. Here's hoping to win the rest of the games.

Company F

During the firing, "E" Company has formed an alibi pot and Corp. (Bean Pole) Millikan, has been declared the winner. Each man paid the sum of 25c to enter the pot. The following are some of his alibis:

"First of all, I left my score book back at quarters and didn't know what my zero was to start off with. I had a bad position. My sights were not blackened or I would have made a better score. I didn't squeeze my trigger properly on two shots, which were high twos. I flinched on two shots, closed my eyes and yanked on the trigger, I have no idea where they went.

"I didn't do so well in rapid fire I gazed in the chamber, which was causing me to lose my target. My bolt manipulation was slow and in loading my piece I busted my clip. My guard screws were also loose. Again I busted my clip and only got in nine shots. I busted my clip because it was faulty. My sights fell, and I failed to check the sights that time and fired and got a low deuce. My bolt was full of oil and when I fired the oil came back in my eye and I could not see anything. I would have made a five instead of the three if I had not had oil in my bore for the first shot. My first shot at 600 would have been a five instead of a high deuce, if a blade of grass had not been in front of my sights. On my first rapid fire, I was all in from having to run back and get my ammunition which I had forgot to get when I first came on the firing line. That caused me to be very unsteady during the first two shots."

Company G

All you can hear around the company now is, goodby, Brewer, we sure will miss you, old boy, especially your squad leader, Cpl. Wilson. We wish you the best of luck in civil life, Brewer.

Well, the big show is on now at McAndrew Range. The work is coming along nicely. Everyone is working hard, and we hope to come through with 100 per cent.

Pvt. Plant was telling his squad leader about his rifle. He said, "Corporal, my rifle don't kick much at 200 yds, but oh boy, at 600 yds, it kicks like h—!"

Pvt. Long said to his coach, "I am shooting to the left of the bullseye. Pvt. Hammond said, "Well, why don't you move over to the right some."

The platoon leader of the 1st platoon told Pvt. Bergeron to bring over his score book that he would like to check it over. The lieutenant said, "Well, Bergeron, your first shot was a center

(Continued on page 9.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Mahogany dining table and 6 chairs, $35.00 Phone 3939-W. Capt. E. G. Herlihy.

FOR SALE: Double brass bed, springs and mattress—also childs crib bed, new mattres. Phone 96 or 289.

FOR SALE: Antique spool bed. Phone 180, Post.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

24TH INF.

Headquarters Company

Sergeant Charles Fisher of Company E, has been transferred to this company and appointed Staff Sergeant.

Private Specl. 6th Class Ivry Spence will be discharged next week. He is contemplating leaving the service and going to Detroit, Mich. Pvt. Spence is completing his second enlistment.

Sergeant Scott Bradford has left with the infantry rifle team for Camp Perry, Ohio. It is believed that he will make an excellent record with the team.

Private 1cl John H. Booth is from Prattsville, Ala. Booth will soon complete his third enlistment. He is one of the best soldiers in the company.

Sergeant Jackson Wheeler, our supply sergeant, is from Emerson, Arkansas. Sgt. Wheeler has completed 18 years service, and has been supply sergeant for 12 years. He is one of the most popular N. C. O.'s in the regiment.

Private 1cl Gardner Davis is from Bordentown, N. J. Davis has completed 24 years service. Served as Sgt. during the World War. An excellent clerk.

Private Edward Bailey is from Moreland, Georgia. Pvt. Bailey has a few months to do to complete his second enlistment. He is one of the youngest men in the regiment and has completed nearly two enlistments.

Private 1cl Cecil Nash is from Buford, Georgia. Nash is an every day soldier. He has an excellent record in the company. Serving in his first enlistment. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, caring for sick animals.

Sergeant Halcott J. Pride is from Rock Hill, South Carolina. Has completed over 20 yrs. of service. Has never had a furlough. Nickname, "Heavy." Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, "work."

Corporal Charles H. Brooks is from Massachusetts. A good extemporaneous speaker, having attended Howard University several years ago. Served as staff sergeant during the World War. Religious faith, Methodist. Hobby, reading.

Private Ed T. Davis is from Atlanta, Georgia. Serving in first enlistment. Davis is a good teamster. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, Movies. Nickname, "Sledge Hammer."

Pvt. 1cl specl. 6th cl. Lewis D. Houston was born at Sparks, Ga. Houston is an excellent chauffeur. Will soon complete his second enlistment. Houston has made sharpshooter with the rifle almost every year since he enlisted in the army. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, playing tennis. Nickname, "Ft. Sam."

Corporal Eugene Jackson was born at Belleville, Illinois. Cpl. Jackson has completed over 22 years of service. Served as sergeant in the World War. Religious Faith, Baptist. Hobby, baseball. Nickname, "Jack."

Private 1cl specl. 6th class Fred D. Wilson in from Elgin, Illinois. Wilson is a first class carpenter, also a good mechanic. Served as first sergeant, during the World War. Religious faith, Christian. Hobby, working.

Company B

The following dialogue was overheard the other day:

Sgt. Wood: "King, what is an island?"

Pvt. King: "An island is land having water on all sides."

S. W.: "Well, what is a strait?"

P. K.: "Oh, that's what I have when another fellow has a flush."

We have been wondering why Pvt. Eugene (Gink) Parker hates the golf course detail so severely. Why, Gink, that is where the very elite spend their leisure.

It has been widely rumored that the company will purchase some new victrola records. We understand that "Pap" Rhone is doing his bit to assist, financially.

Eureka! Eureka! We have just learned why Pvt. "Dick" Collins deserted our baseball team to play tennis. He says, "tennis is more aristocratic. Ha, ha, ha. Eh, Gink?

24TH BALL TEAM BACK FROM TOUR

The Twenty-fourth Infantry baseball team under the management of Captain Frank S. Mansfield, 24th Ifantry, arrived at Fort Benning, June 21st, after a successful tour of Florida. The team played fifteen games, winning nine, losing five and one resulting in a tie.

The Twenty-fourth Infantry had two of the best colored teams in the South as their opponents and played a series of games in St. Petersburg, Miami, Clearwater, Orlando, and Lakeland.

The pitching staff, consisting of Stokes, Vance, Trammel, Leonard and Hodges, pitched excellent ball. Tillis handled the receiving end in a creditable manner. The timely hitting of F. Williams featured throughout the trip and Vance's and Stokes' pitching also featured.

The results of the games follows:

June 3rd at St. Petersburg, Fla.—24th Inf. 4; Sunshine Babies, 8. Batteries: Vance and Gilchrist and Tillis; Johnson and Thomas.

June 4th at St. Petersburg, Fla.—24th Inf., 9; Sunshine Babies, 2. Batteries: Stokes and Tillis; B. Williams and G. Williams.

June 5th at St. Petersburg, Fla.—24th Inf., 6; Sunshine Babies, 3. Batteries: Leonard and Tillis; W. Williams and G. Williams.

June 6th at Clearwater, Fla.—24th Inf., 9; Sunshine Babies, 8: Batteires: Hodges, Vance and Tillis; C. Thomas and G. Williams.

June 7th at Clearwater, Fla.—24th Inf., 9; Sunshine Babies, 8. Batteries: Stokes and Tillis; Johnson and G. Williams.

June 9th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf., 2; Miami Giants, 8. Batteries: Leonard, Vance and Tillis; Sims and Barney.

June 10th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf., 5; Miami Giants, 4. Batteries: Trammel and Tillis; Roper and Johnson.

June 13th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf., 4; Miami Giants, 6. Batteries: Stokes and Tillis; Johnson and Barney.

June 13th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf. 3; Miami Giants, 3. Batteries: Vance and Tillis; King and Barney.

June 14th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf. 3; Miami Giants, 6. Batteries: Leonard and Tillis; Sharp and Barney.

June 15th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf. 11, Miami Giants, 0. Batteries: Stokes and Tillis; Roper and Barney.

June 16th at Miami, Fla.—24th Inf. 9; Miami Giants, 3. Batteries: Vance and Tillis; Sharp and Barney.

June 17th at Orlando, Fla.—24th Inf. 0, Miami Giants, 6. Batteries: Stokes and Tillis; Johnson and Snow.

June 17th at Orlando, Fla.—24th Inf. 8; Miami Giants, 4. Batteries: Leonard and Gilchrist; Sharp and Johnson.

June 19th at Lakeland, Fla.—24th Inf. 6; Miami Giants, 1. Batteries: Vance and Gilchrist; Johnson and Williams.

83RD FA

Battery A

What is sauce for the goose, so we've heard, is sauce for the gander. Anyway, it is requested that mention be made of Private Mills' unusual driving ability. While the battery was marching along in the vicinity of the water tanks, Sgt. Owens discovered that Hardy's off horse was doing his work minus the bits. And the worst of it is that Mills didn't know of the delinquency.

A clever little bit of poetry was seen in the morning paper some few days ago. It is given below, with a change or two, since the writer doesn't remember the exact lines:

Peculiar truth is this fact
If I may mention it,
No matter how hungry a horse is,
He can't eat a bit.

The instructor in the B. C. detail was making a talk to his men about laying wire. "And be careful not to girdle any trees because you know the sap can't get down."

"I'll bet a dollar I could get down," chimed Private Crisamore.

Additional 29th Infantry

(Continued from page 8.)

bull, and the second shot was down at the bottom of the target, and the next one was up at 11:00 o'clock and was a three; what kind of a shot are you, Bergeron?" "Sir, I am an all around shot." "Oh, I see," said the lieutenant.

Company "F"

Our very esteemed Corp. J. H. Barnes was commended by the Chief of Infantry for his excellence in rifle marksmanship. Atta boy, Barnes!

One more of our company officers lost to the bonds of matrimony. Congratulations Lieut. Parham, we wish you the best of luck!

Gone, but not forgotten; Corp. August (Tommy) Thompson, of athletic fame, who was transferred to 2nd Bn. Hqrs. We will miss you, Tommy.

WANTED — One pair blue denim trousers; size, small, medium, or large, any size acceptable, Corp. Skates.

Looks like we will have to recall the infantry rifle team. From the looks of things, we have one of our own. Here is our line up: Lugenbuhl, Bingenhiemer, Wilkenson, LaRue, MacMahon, Yassney, Higgens, H. H. White, Octalvaro and Alfonzo. Alternates: the Davis brothers.

WE WONDER

Why Passeralli has taken up fishing?

When Costello is going to return Hi's trousers?

Why Sgt. Gasser gets so many telephone calls?

If Stokley really uses hair tonic?

Why Hanson can always be found at the orderly room?

We are getting our stride now on the rifle range. Let's hope that we will soon get an increase in pay and start getting up at the regular time in the morning.

The marvel of all times: Shorty Wilkenson getting into the sitting position.

Well, guess we won't be getting any more doughnuts, now that Wierda has got those new teeth.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

High Quality Low Price GOODYEAR TIRES Real Service Free!

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

INTRA-MURAL SEASON OPENS THIS WEEK

In all probability the intra-mural baseball season will open this afternoon at 1:30 at Gowdy field. So far, we have not had a break from old Jupe Pluvius, and the season is behind schedule in getting started. In the event rain halts the opening of the season this afternoon, the first baseball weather that we get will be the opening day.

Big times are planned. The leagues will open the season with all the pomp and ceremony that is displayed in the big leagues. There will be the blaring of trombones, beats of drums and wailing of clarinets.

Flashes of baseball dignity will be the order of the day, when all the players will be presented. Who the master of ceremonies will be has not yet been learned. The fans unanimously nominate Captain W. B. Tuttle.

In the class "B" league, the winner of the first half of the season will be presented with a special trophy by the ISAA. To the winners of the class "A" league will go the Infantry School News Trophy.

The games that are rained out or are otherwise postponed will be played at a later date, to be decided by Captain Tuttle. In this, he will take into consideration the availability of the teams, and the interference with range practice.

In the "B" league, it would not be surprising at all to see any of the former dark horses and cellar anchors come to the top to take the trophy. The Second Battalion "Kellies" will not have such easy picking as heretofore. The First Battalion "Macks" are filled up with young and inexperienced ball players, and the Fifteenth Tank Battalion "Johnies" have a good chance with the exception of their weak batting and faulty fielding in two of the infield positions.

The First Batalion has been seen in action on one occasion, and in that they showed the ability to strike out and pop to the infield more than anything else. However, it must be remembered that this was only a game with one of the industrial teams down Columbus way. It is more than probable that they were trying out some of their new "rookies." Old man McGaha showed his ability to hit the target, and more than once, sent the Hubbard Hardware representatives to the bench mumbling to themselves.

Red Lindsey is the best bet that the Tanks will have for a potato chunker. He displayed in his last game with the R. O. T. C. that he can whiff the pole toters almost at will. He struck out eleven men in seven rounds.

He has some awfully weak support in the catcher, Woodham by name, who needs a lot of practice. Woodham was all right last year, but has let up a little.

Their other weak spot is at the keystone bag. Harris played a miserable game in the last two games witnessed. Twice he has fumbled balls that are nearly always easy outs, yet his mates groan and say that they were hits. Harris is a good batter, and will eventually make a good first baseman, but at the half-way mark, he is a little awkard.

The Kellies have not been seen at work yet. They are a little quiet but are nearly always effective. Captain Finney, when asked about the prospects of a good team, replied, "Well, we have lost Franz; Carnes has a sore arm; lost Macagna; Allison isn't much, because he let "E" Company beat him in an impromptu game. The fact is, we have a poor outlook." Well, we are glad that we can draw our own conclusions.

GYMNASIUM IMPROVEMENTS NEARLY COMPLETED

Our "new" gymnasium is taking on the appearance of a modern building. The quartermaster has been busy remodeling the old airplane hangar that has been used as a gymnasium for a long time, and the effects of his labors are something remarkable. No one would have ever thought that the old hulk that stood there could ever come up to the expectations that Captain William B. Tuttle held for it.

Some went so far as to say that the old "cow barn" could never be made to look halfway decent. Captain Tuttle would not be side-tracked though, and the result of his constant work and digging will be the best gymnasium within a radius of a hundred miles, if not more.

Not being satisfied with the antiquated eyesore being remodeled into an up-to-date structure worthy of the envy of any athletic club in the south, he immediately began work on a separate building to house the handball courts.

The building for the new courts is being erected by the Recreation Center Board, with working details furnished by the organizations of the garrison. This building is being erected without cost to the government. It will be what might be called a miniature replica of the large gymnasium. The floors will be laid with grade "A" number 1 maple flooring.

The new gymnasium, when completed, will be well outfitted with all accessories common to the best gymnasiums. There will be Indian clubs, dumb-bells, (not the kind that sit behind you in the theatre and read the titles to you), weights and training apparatus of all kinds. It is planned to have the building steam-heated in such a way as to give the whole building a uniform temperature.

Captain Tuttle is anxiously awaiting the date on which he will move his office into the new office that is being prepared for him. There he will be able to work away from the hustle and bustle of the gymnasium that he has had to cope with in the past.

Warming to his subject more and more, Captain Tuttle said there would be a horseshoe pitching court on the grounds near the gymnasium. He is anxious to get a horseshoe pitching tournament started, and will organize one as soon as the grounds are completed.

With the new gymnasium and its accessories, it will be hard to find a form of athletics in which the gym personnel will not be able to aid. There will be volleyball, handball, basketball, football, lacrosse, pushball, and boxing. Enough variety in that list to make any man want to use the gym at all seasons of the year. Truly, the new gym will be an accelerator to physical training.

Captain J. J. Wilson, Benning's boxing boss, has been at work since he has been here trying to get a boxing bowl built to accomodate the pug bugs. He started with the "arena" that is at the east side of the gymnasium, and has not been satisfied with it. Personally, we thought that it was adequate, as we had never had anything like that before. Not so with him. He is a believer that the fight fans are due the best that money can buy and that is just what he is going to give them.

The quartermaster will construct a concrete bowl at the head of the draw just a little south of the gymnasium, at a cost of seven thousand dollars. It will seat four thousand people. Not much of an expense at that. Just a dollar and six bits a seat.

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

We have fancied and fancied fights that would be held. At last we have come to the point where it is impossible to fancy any more. It is a settled fact that the next fight that Benning pug bugs will witness here will be on the night of July 9, 1929.

Who the contestants will be is hard to tell. The fight fans would like to see either of the three, Gunner Depratt, Willie Ptomey, or Styles Attaway. Gunner DePratt is the favorite, and always will be. Blondy Parker too, might gather a good bit of interest, but just at present, he is overshadowed by the lightheavy kings.

As much as we would like to see the Gunner back on the next card, it is feared that he will not fight on the next one. He is a little off his form, and would not like to show in another Benning ring out of condition. More glory to his spunk.

Willie Ptomey will fight if there is a suitable opponent obtainable for him. Bill has had many fights since he has shown in the arena. He would give the fans a treat were he to accept the offer of fighting for Captain Wilson on the night of July 9th.

When this Styles Attaway fights here again, we would like to see him meet some boy with a left just like his; that is, if he can't be matched with the Gunner. One can certainly hear various and sundry opinions about a return match between the Gunner and Gainsville's own. Sure would be a good fight.

* * *

Sammie Buchanan, one of the best welterweights in the South today, and who was prominently mentioned to meet Blondy Parker on the next bill here, probably never will enter the ring again.

Reports from Waycross, Georgia, Buchanan's home town, are to the effect that he sustained a fractured jaw in his last bout, which was with Relampago Saguero, the Cuban flash. This is the second time the Waycross boy has carried a broken jaw since the first of this year.

The first fracture was sustained in a bout with Farmer Joe Cooper in St. Petersburg, Florida, last February. Such a pity that he should be halted in his climb to the top, just as he was being recognized as about to reach the peak.

Read the Ads in The News

I. S. D. NOTES

June has been a month of losses instead of roses for the Infantry School Detachment. With the going of the half-way month, the Detachment felt the loss of three of its most popular and widely known members.

Captain Henry H. Fay will leave July 1, to take up his duties in the sunny isles of Hawaii. Captain and Mrs. Fay carry the best wishes and true friendship of every member of the organization to their new station.

Master Sergt. James H. Kriz, retired June 21, after thirty years of honorable and faithful service with the colors. He had been a member of the I. S. D., since March 17, 1927. Sgt. Kriz leaves a host of friends in the service who wish him the best of luck and success in civilian life.

Members of the Detachment presented Mr. Sgt. Kriz with a beautiful gold watch, a token of their esteem and friendship. The watch was presented to Mr. Sgt. Kriz last Saturday by General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School. Members of the Infantry School faculty and headquarters staff were present for the occasion.

Master Sgt. Peter J. Jansen, known to every member of the Detachment as "Pop," completed thirty years of honorable service with the colors and retired June 26th. Mr. Sgt. Jansen will spend his well earned rest at his large farm near Pikeville, Ark., where in "Pop's," own words, "the latch string will always hang on the outside of the door to his many friends of the service."

Since the year of 1925, the Greencords have been trailing in the cellar in Benning baseball circles. This season finds the Greencords working hard to whip a machine in shape to regain their lost prestige of former days. It is too early for predictions. Connie Mack never gave up the fight and now the Athletics are the talk of the baseball world. Who knows? The Greencords have a wonderful chance to pull a "Connie Mack" on Benning critics and optimist this year. "Let's go."

Just another good man gone wrong. Devine purchased his discharge to take up the boilermakers' trade in civil life. Hurry back De, we are saving your vacancy for you.

Hook Wise spent a few days in Atlanta last week. Hook had no news to report except that somebody lifted his pocket-book.

Patronize News Advertisers

Base Ball

All of the Latest

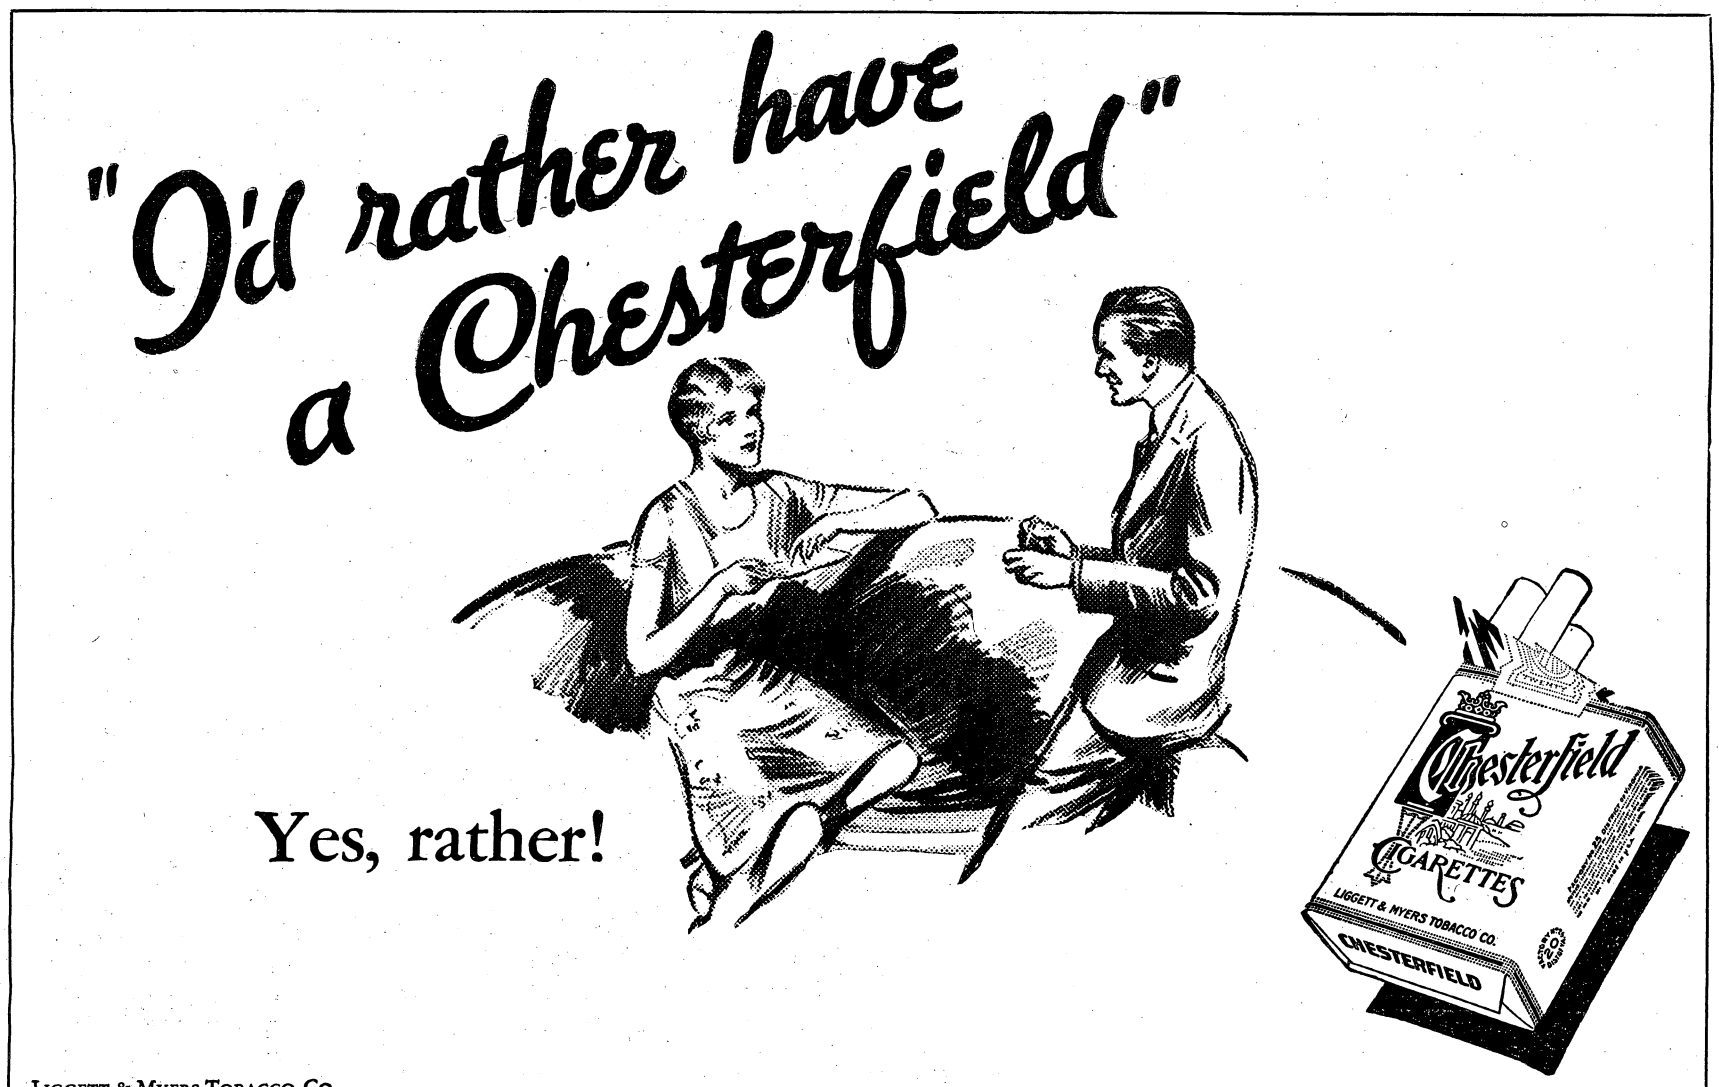
Equipment at Trade Prices

(See our Stock First)

The Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.



LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.,

TANKS BEAT R. O. T. C.

After dropping a game to the R. O. T. C. team at Gowdy Field, Thursday of last week, the Tanks came back Saturday to punch over one in a close contest, winning with a score of 5 to 4. Lindsey, pitching for the Tanks, managed to put across the winning run in the last frame, which was the seventh, by consecutive errors by Lester, playing the extra infield position for the R. O. T. C.

It was a battle from start to finish. The hits were evenly divided, both teams gleaning six hits. Lindsey struck out eleven of the youngsters, Manley, of the R. O. T. C. having the most enviable record. He went to bat only four times and struck out only four times. His closest rival was Clingo, playing the first sack for the R. O. T. C., who made just three trips to the bat and whiffed three times. 1000 per cent. for these boys, and hard to beat.

Long, pitching for the Southenders, was very effective against the supposedly strong batters of the Tanks and turned five of them away without a taste of the old apple.

Burt, playing right field for the R. O. T. C., after making a reconnaissance of the spot he was to cover came to bat, winked at the umpire, picked a good one and lifted it over the right field fence. He had doubled in his previous trip at bat and scored on Long's long single to right.

These boys promise to make things hot for any of the intra-mural teams that boast of good records. Their demonstrations, so far, have been nothing but good baseball, and will bear watching.

Batteries, for the R. O. T. C.: Long, Shennessey and Kennedy. 15th Tank Bn.: Lindsey and Woodman.

Score by innings:									R.	H.	E.
R. O. T. C.	0	3	1	0	0	0	0		4	6	5
Tanks	1	0	0	2	1	0	1		5	6	3

SPORTOPICS

By Al

The value of a left jab has been the subject of many arguments held among the high-lights of fightdom and the sporting world. Scholars of the old school of sock and slam, look with disdain upon the fighter of today who relies upon his super-boxing skill and a lighting left jab to pile up enough points over the ten round route to cop the decision over the type of fighters that fight.

Sport writers and fight critics of the Southland, claim that Styles Attaway, middleweight champion of the South, has the cleverest left among the fighters in the middleweight class. Fight fans who watched him take a decision from Gunner DePratt in a ten round battle here a few weeks ago, heartily agree with writers and critics in their opinion of his left.

There is no doubt that this type of fighter has a decided advantage over the fighter that carries a knockout in either mitt, over the eight and ten round routes. In a fight lasting fifteen or twenty rounds the fighter that packs the wallop and a fighting heart would be a top heavy favorite.

In the Attaway-DePratt fight, Attaway piled up a lead on points with his phantom left combined with a clever defense, to win the decision. But still in the tenth and final round the Gunner broke down his defense to drive home rights and lefts to the jaw and head that had Attaway groggy. Had the fight gone fifteen rounds it is a safe bet that Attaway would have been listening to the birdies sing.

There is no doubt that the boy with a lighting left jab and a clever defense will win many decisions but the fighter that lives in the heart of the fans is the boy that is able to drop one on the ole button like a bolt from the blue.

GOLF GOSSIP

(Continued from page 10.)

us that future hole-in-one prospects may be interested in knowing just what the "penalty" is for committing such an atrocity:

1. Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., 25 W. 43rd St., N. Y. A special trophy package of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, and a Hole-In-One certificate, suitable for framing.

2. Metropolitan Golfer, 15 Park Row, New York; 1 year's subscription to their magazine, and a certificate.

3. Auto Strop Safety Razor Co., 656 First Ave., N. Y., a five ($5.00) dollar shaving outfit.

4. The Barbasol Company, Indianapolis, Ind., a dozen tubes of "Barbasol Shaving Cream."

5. Lucky Strike Hole In One Club, 111 Fifth Ave., N. Y., glass humidor, with monogram—containing a supply of Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

6. Dunlop Tire & Rubber Co., 12th Ave. and 125th St., New York. If the ace was made with a "Dunlop" golf ball send the ball, properly endorsed and they will return the ball suitably mounted in a trophy case.

7. Nieblo Manufacturing Co., Inc., 38 E. 23rd St., N. Y., "Reddy Tees."

8. Chicago Hole In One Club. (Details of interest only for dodos in Chicago area; have to use machine guns there.)

9. Mezzey, Inc., Dental Mfg. and Distributors, 105-107 East 16th St., New York. Special award restricted to members of the dental profession.

All are reminded, however, that in each case where an "ace" is claimed, the following must be complied with:

(a) It must have been made in a regularly organized game, not while practicing;

(b) Each score card submitted must be attested to by:

I. One or more members present as eye-witnesses;

II. Contain the signature of the secretary of the club where the "ace" was scored.

Well, here is hoping for a prosperous 1929; friends, four of them registered this year; did you say golf is not "interesting?"

* * *

No, sweetheart, those white birds on the lower-nine are not the kind of birds that bring the ginger ale; they are the sanitary inspector's frog-exterminators, imported from Florida.

* * *

The "Invitation Tournament" — or whatever the Country Club in Columbus is planning is of considerable interest to our local divot-diggers, and a large number of them are making arrangements to invade those interesting bunker premises. Get together, gentlemen; and how.

* * *

There must be something in the offing; what with the regularity of practice rounds by Major Barlow's QMC foursome the medicos had better take due notice; when Capt. Littell and Capt. Buckbee start driving that fearsome No. 2 with an iron club, and (almost) reach it, woe be to whoever challenges that capable group of golf technicians.

* * *

A well founded rumor leads us to believe that we may soon have a "man-sized" golf course—a new one; it is planned up on the hills in the vicinity of the Post Hospital and is to have water hazards, lots of rolling ground and plenty of distance to test the sharpshooters' irons and vocabulary. (Sgt. Clark has already procured a pair of hipboots and one or two butterfly nets for loaning out.)

ORDERED TO ACTIVE DUTY

2nd Lt. Terrett A. Busby, Ordnance Department Reserve, of Charleston, South Carolina, has been ordered to two weeks active duty at Fort Benning, Georgia. Lt. Busby will report July 7th.

MAJOR TORREY GOES TO FORT LEAVENWORTH

(Continued from page 1.)

where his regiment took part in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive.

Major Torrey is a graduate of the Command and General Staff School, class of 1927, and is on the general staff eligible list. From May, 1921 to September, 1922, he was carried on the additional general staff list. He was detailed to the adjutant general's department in 1921 and transferred to that department in 1922.

Major Torrey has been prominent in the official and social life at Fort Benning and leaves a host of friends

MAJOR McCANTS IN HOSPITAL

Major Sam I. McCants, Post Exchange Officer, is a patient at the Station Hospital as the result of an operation performed this week. Major McCants will be confined to the hospital for about 3 weeks.

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

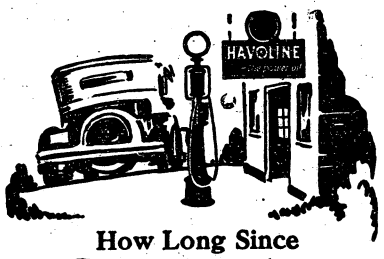
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.



How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

COLONEL SHAW PROMOTED TO BRIGADIER GENERAL

(Continued from page 1.)

first three men who had followed him there had been killed or wounded, until a foothold was gained by others and the capture of the place assured."

The silver star citation, awarded May 3, 1922, is as follows:

"George C. Shaw, Lt. Colonel I. G. D., then 1st Lieutenant 27th Infantry, for gallantry in action during the campaign about Marahui and especially in the assault on Fort Bacolod, Lake Lanao, Mindanao P. I. April 8, 1903."

In addition to the silver star citation he was recommended for brevet captain by Captain Pershing.

General Shaw has as yet received no orders for future assignment.

H CO. GIVES FAREWELL DINNER

Friday evening, June 21, Company "H," 29th Infantry, entertained at a farewell dinner held in honor of Captain A. J. Nichols, who is leaving this station for duty in the Panama Canal Department.

Captain Nichols has been in command of Company "H" since July, 1928. His assignment to Panama and subsequent relief from the command of the company, was a source of deep regret to all the members of his organization.

After the guests enjoyed a delicious meal, Sergeant Archie L. Whittington, acting in the capacity of toast master, arose and expressed for the company their sorrow at the loss of Captain Nichols as company commander of the "best outfit in the army." After a few complimentary remarks to Captain Nichols and to Captain Reed, the new company commander, Sergeant Whittington then asked Captain Nichols to address a few remarks to the company.

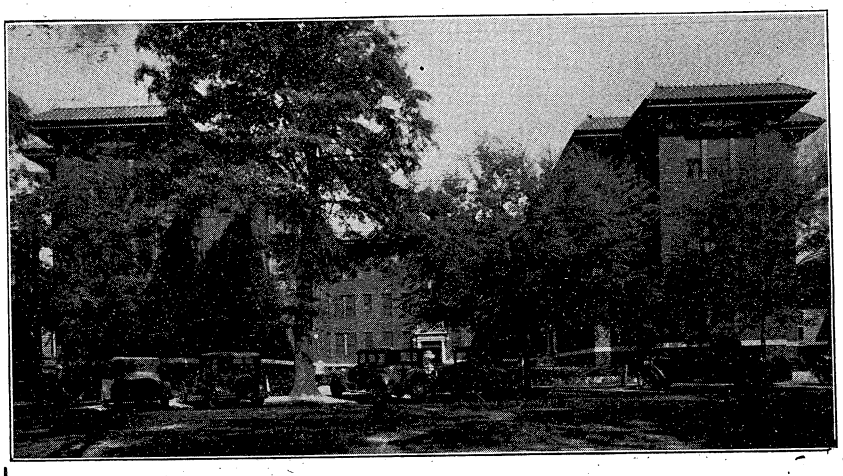
Captain Nichols said that while no one had ever accused him of being a speech maker, he felt it his duty at this time to address a few remarks to the best company of men in the United States Army. He looked as though he meant it too.

He said that the past year with "H" Company had been the happiest part of his service. That nowhere had he had the co-operation of the noncommissioned officers, as had been manifest in the "H" Company non-coms.

"The things we have accomplished have raised the moral of this organization one hundred per cent," he said. "When I took over the command of this organization, I could have not enhanced its progress alone, but could have torn it down in two days. With the help of the men in it, we have built the company up."

He said that there was one thing about "H" Company that made it outstanding above the rest, and that was the fact that there were so many men in it that one learned to like so well. He remarked that this was one of the things that made it so hard to leave the outfit.

He pointed out how fortunate the company is in getting Captain Reed as their new company commander. He charged them to give him the same aid they had given him in all things.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

MAJOR TERRELL HERE

Major Henry Terrell, Jr., of the arms and equipment section, office of Chief of Infantry, arrived at Fort Benning, Wednesday for a brief visit in connection with arranging priority schedules of construction work here.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

FENDERS BODIES STRAIGHTENED

We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.

We are completely equipped to repair any job.

The Post Exchange

—at—

Fort Benning is our Agent

COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS

1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.

Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962

W. R. M. Palmer

Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

SPECIAL PRICES

On All

BASEBALL EQUIPMENT

Phone 314 for Representative with Samples

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JULY 5, 1929 Number 42

83rd FIELD ARTILLERY BATTALION ON RETURN MARCH

The 83rd Field Artillery Battalion, less Battery B, will on Saturday begin its return march to Fort Benning from Albany where it has been encamped since completing the first half of its 212 mile march on June 28th.

The artillerymen have been encamped for the past week in an excellent camp site near the center of the city which was prepared for them by the city authorities. City water, shower baths, and electric lights were provided for the soldiers by the hospitable city.

The battalion participated in the Independence Day celebration at Albany by firing a salute to the Union.

A portion of the march to Albany was rather difficult on account of the muddy roads caused by the heavy rains of last week but the daily march schedule was maintained despite the weather. Supply of the column was maintained from Fort Benning without interruption or delay, the supply train usually arriving at the camp sites ahead of the battalion. On the day that the battalion arrived at Albany the supply train joined the column just as it reached the city.

Majors Edward C. Rose and Henry A. Bootz visited the artillerymen in their camp at Albany. The neatness of the camp, the excellent conduct of the men, and the hospitality of the citizens of Albany made a very favorable impression, they said. On their return trip to Fort Benning by automobile, they brought with them Private Glynn, of Battery A, who had suffered several broken ribs when kicked by a horse.

The battalion is expected to return to Fort Benning about July 12.

MAJ. WILLOUGHBY DECORATED

A distinguished decoration has been awarded to Major Charles A. Willoughby, of Fort Benning, by a ministerial decree of the Italian government, according to recent information from the State Department.

The decoration of S. Mauricio de Lazzaro, in the grade of Cavaliere, was awarded to Major Willoughby in recognition of the services rendered by him to the Italian military commission which has directed the affairs of the war department of Ecuador since the revolution of 1925.

Major Willoughby was military attache for Colombia, Venezuela and Ecuador from 1924 to 1927 and spent considerable time in the latter country assisting the Italian officers during the unsettled period following the revolution of 1925.

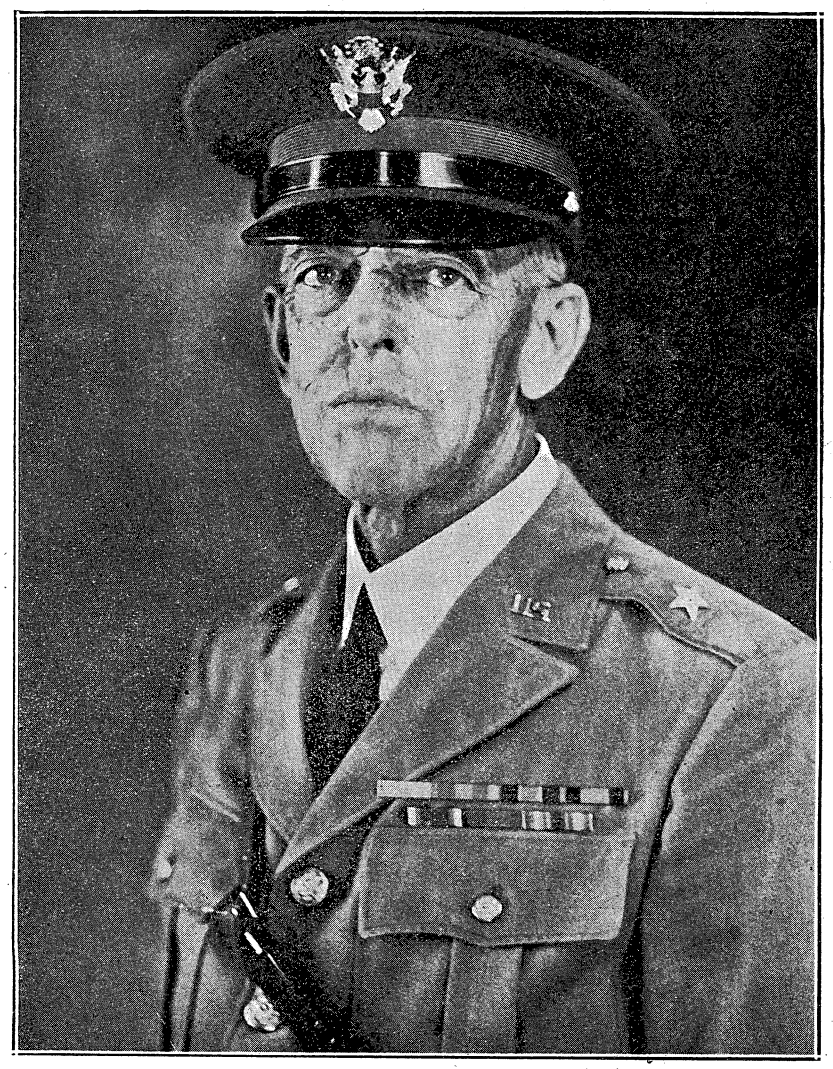
SOLDIER KILLED WHILE DIVING

Private First Class Theodore R. Chauquette, Company "C," 29th Infantry, was instantly killed last Sunday morning when his neck was broken as he was diving into Russ pool.

An autopsy performed on the body by the post surgeon, determined that death occurred before the body struck the pool.

Chauquette had been a member of Company "C," 29th Infantry for the past two years.

WILL COMMAND SIXTH BRIGADE



Brigadier-General George C. Shaw whose promotion from the grade of colonel was announced by the War Department June 24. General Shaw's distinguished military career began in 1890 when he enlisted in the District of Columbia National Guard. He served with distinction in the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Insurrection, and the World War. He has been decorated twice for gallantry in action, one of his decorations being the Medal of Honor, the highest decoration that our government can bestow General Shaw is a graduate of the advanced officers' course, the Infantry School, class of 1923, and of the Command and General Staff School, class of 1924, and is on the general staff eligible list.

He has been stationed at Fort Benning since September, 1928, as a member of the Infantry Board and as inspector. He has been assigned to command of the 6th Brigade, 3d Division, with headquarters at Fort Rosecrans, near San Diego, California, and will depart for his new station about July 15.

FORT MAY HAVE NEW POST OFFICE

A possibility that the dilapidated post office building which long has been an eyesore to Fort Benning will be replaced by a new and substantial building in the near future, is seen in the request made by Brigadier General Campbell King on the War Department for an allotment of funds for the construction of a new post office building.

The present weatherbeaten building is a relic of cantonment days and its dilapidated appearance was enhanced by damage during a recent storm.

SOLDIERS SLASHED BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANTS

Two soldiers of the 29th Infantry were stabbed by unknown assailants in Columbus last week. Private Joseph Druzd, Service Company, while walking on the 14th Street bridge Saturday night, was attacked by two men who leaped out of an automobile and attacked him with knives.

On Monday night, Private Wayne Demmer, Company A, was stabbed in the back while walking on 2nd Avenue.

Both attacks, according to the victims, were unprovoked and were made by men whom they did not recognize.

ARMY NURSE COMMENDED BY GENERAL KING

The untiring devotion to duty exhibited by an army nurse at the Fort Benning hospital in the care of a little negro girl patient has been made the subject of official commendation by Brigadier General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School at Fort Benning.

The child, daughter of Sgt. Washington, 24th Infantry, was the victim of an automobile accident last month and suffered injuries which were expected at that time to prove fatal. The tender care given to the little colored girl by Miss Eleanor O'Neill, 2nd lieutenant in the army nurse corps, contributed greatly to her recovery, according to army surgeons at the station hospital who brought the case to the attention of the commandant.

General King thereupon conveyed his official commendation to Miss O'Neill in the following letter:

"1. On June 21, 1929, Fleata Washington, the five year old daughter of Sergeant Washington, 24th Infantry, was severely injured in an automobile accident and was admitted to the hospital at this station. At the time this child was first examined it was the opinion of the Surgeon, as well as the opinion of the surgical staff at the hospital, that she had very little chance of recovery. The special care and interest you displayed in the patient, and your skill and untiring efforts in her behalf, contributed in on small measure to the ultimate recovery of the child.

2. Such diligence and attention to duty reflects high credit upon you. It is with much pleasure that I commend you, not only for your marked ability as a nurse in this case, but also for the high sense of duty which you have displayed.

CAMPBELL KING,
Brigadier General, U. S. A.," Commandant.

LT. FORDE DROWNED

First Lieutenant Mathias C. Forde, an instructor in the weapons section of the Infantry School, was drowned Monday at St. Augustine, Florida.

The news of the tragedy came to headquarters of the Infantry School Monday morning in a telegram sent by Captain A. R. MacKechnie, of the 29th Infantry who is believed to have been with Lieutenant Forde at the time of his death, as both officers were spending a leave of absence in Florida. No details of the tragic affair were given in Captain MacKechnie's brief message, but it is thought that it occurred while the officers were swimming.

Lieutenat Forde reported to the Infantry School as an instructor July 12, 1928, coming here from Plattsburg Barracks, N Y. In 1920-21 he was a student at Fort Benning and was graduated from the basic course of the Infantry School in 1921.

Lieutenant Forde was born in Norway in 1887, and was appointed to the army from Minnesota. During the World War, he served as private, corporal and sergeant in Company C, 339th Machine Gun Battalion from September, 1917, to June, 1918. He was appointed a temporary second lieutenant of infantry June 18, 1918, and a first lieutenant of infantry September 18, 1918, and was commissioned a first lieutenant of infantry July 1, 1929. He was unmarried.

(Continued on page 2.)

LT. FORDE DROWNED

(Continued from page 1.)

Captain E. B. Patrick, of the second section, academic department, has been appointed summary court to dispose of the effects and administer the accounts of the deceased officer. All persons to whom Lieutenant Forde was indebted, or who were indebted to him, are requested to communicate with Captain Patrick on, or before, July 10.

ACTING PLANS AND TRAINING OFFICER

First Lieutenant J. C. Kovarik has been announced as acting plans and training officer of the 29th Infantry in addition to his duties as intelligence officer and recreation officer.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

The best Tire and the best Service in town GOODYEAR TIRES

Post Exchange
Filling Station
Fort Benning
Georgia

TRIUMPHAL TOUR OF POLO TEAM

By Major C. B. Lyman

On June 4, 1929, our Infantry School polo team left Fort Benning, Georgia, for Washington, D. C., to participate in the Infantry Association Invitation Tournament.

The membership of the team comprised:

Major Charles B. Lyman, (No. 1)
Captain Robert A. McClure (No. 2.)
Lt. Ben R. Jacobs (No. 3)
Lt. John D. Van Houten (No. 4)
Lt. William J. Bartlett (sub)
Lt. Hayden Y. Grubbs (sub)

We played and defeated the following teams in this tournament:

War Department Blues—Score: Infantry School (9), War Department Blues (3). We gave the War Department team a handicap of two goals.

Second game: War Department Whites, Score—total 11—War Department Whites 4. They gave us two goals.

Final game: Third Cavalry, total 11, Infantry School 14. We gave the Cavalry two goals.

Upon the completion of the final game, Mrs. Hoover presented us with the trophies awarded by the Infantry Association.

Our next series of games was played in Winston-Salem. There we played two games and the team was again victorious. First game Winston-Salem, total 2, Infantry School 13. We gave Winston-Salem one goal.

We played next at Fort McPherson, where, on account of wet fields, we were able to play only one game. Results: Fort McPherson, total 5, (by handicap, 2). Infantry School (9).

Eighteen ponies were taken on the trip. These ponies came from the Infantry School stables, 29th Infantry and 83rd Field Artillery Battalion. All performed excellently and were equal to, and even superior to ponies of other teams that we met.

Enlisted details from the Infantry School Detachment and the 24th Infantry performed their duties in an excellent manner.

Without the splendid cooperation of the players, the members of the garrison who remained at home, the ponies and the enlisted personnel who cared for them, the success of the trip could not have been accomplished.

MASTER SERGEANT PETER J. JANSEN

(By Al Durden)

A period of thirty years may seem a long, long time, although in the language of the army as "Pop" Jansen explains it, "It is just a breeze."

Thirty years ago a youngster tiring of the every day monotony of grocery clerk in his father's store in Hot Springs, Ark., hied himself out into the world in quest of love and adventure. The winding trail finally ended at the recruiting office, where young Peter Jansen enlisted in the service of the U. S. army.

On June 22, 1929, the Infantry School Detachment, held a banquet in honor of the retirement of Master Sergeant Peter J. Jansen. The banquet was an elaborate affair, attended by the officers and men of the Special Units. Colonel D. G. Berry, commanding officer of the special units, congratulated Master Sergeant Jansen upon the culmination of his successful military career, and upon his well earned rest upon retirement. Speeches were the order of the evening, and in each and every one the army career of Master Sergeant Jansen was referred to as an example of the American soldier, and a worthy one to follow. The ceremony closed with congratulations and farewells from friends and buddies, who were to remain with the service that he had served through most of a lifetime.

Running true to form, "Pop" also had a break of "Army Luck" just on the eve of his retirement. Some years ago he purchased two hundred acres of land up in the foothills of the Ozark mountains, near Leslie, Ark. A few days ago he was notified that oil had been found on the adjoining lands and he was offered a figure many times larger than the one he paid for his land. Acting under the advice of his friends "Pop" promptly refused the offer and he is now on his way to Leslie, from where he promises to write as soon as he strikes his "gusher."

Master Sergeant Jansen is a veteran of the World War, serving as a member of the 12th Infantry during the war. He was discharged in 1919 and re-enlisted with the Infantry School Detachment, where he has remained since that time. During his stay with the Detachment he gained the friendship and respect of the entire organization by his honesty, industry, sobriety, fidelity and steady pursuit of the training necessary to advancement.

How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

Save on Home Needs

During Our

Nation-Wide Sale

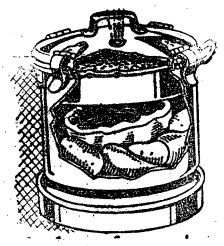
ICE CREAM FREEZERS

$2.48
2-Qt. Capacity

The lowest prices ever offered on Fre-Zee-Zee Freezers enables you to make your cream at home far cheaper than you thought possible! Save on this sale!

WATERLESS COOKERS

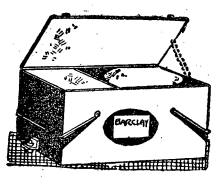
$3.19
7-Qt. Size



Cookers that will last a lifetime—radically reduced in price for this mammoth sale! Save fuel, time, money, labor—Give utmost satisfaction.

ICE BOXES

Fits the running board. Keeps food fresh and cool. Rustproof. Keeps container cool 24 hours..... $4.39



LAWN MOWERS

Fitted with Chrome Alloy Ball Bearings. Cuts 16-in Swath..... $8.45

HOSE OUTFITS

50-ft. "Ruby Red" Hose, nozzle, couplings, washers. Guaranteed 3 years $4.50

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

AT THE MOVIES

JULY 5, to JULY 12, INCL.

FRIDAY, JULY 5

"THE DONOVAN AFFAIR," starring Jack Holt with Dorothy Revier in a stirring mystery drama. It is a real detective story involving a double murder mystery which is solved in a most intriguing manner. A dog howling in the night—rain dripping—a man with a wooden leg tap-tapping on the porch outside—blood-curdling screams in the dark—and there lies Jack Donovan with a knife in his back—murdered. Who was the culprit? You'll not be able to guess until the final great climax raises you to your feet while your hair stands on end.

"Pathe News No. 53."

SATURDAY, JULY 6

"SIOUX BLOOD," starring Tim McCoy in a thunderous drama of gripping adventure. It is the vivid romance of two brothers, separated when babies; one raised among the Indians as an Indian, the other among white men. Their eventual clash, each imbued with the teachings of a different race, makes a powerful theme. There are sensational chases between cavalry and redskins, and a thrilling battle in which 450 Blackfeet Indians appear in the picturesque surroundings of the middle west.

"Going Ga Ga." Laurel-Hardy.

SUNDAY, JULY 7

"THE WILD PARTY," starring Clara Bow in a story filled with action well worthy of its title. It deals with the loves and caprices of flaming, short-skirted, modern youth as they leave their fiery trail through night clubs and week end parties. The plot concerns a girl who falls in love with one of her teachers, who returns it in spite of her wildness. Underlying the spirit of unfettered youth, however, is the steadfast loyalty of the girl for her chum. When the critical test of that loyalty comes, the girl displays her true metal, tells a lie to protect her friend and gets into serious trouble, but paves her own way (with help) to happiness. "Clara Bow" —"nuf sed."

Clara Bow in the Paramount Picture "The Wild Party"

"The Soldier Man." Harry Langdon.

"M. G. M. NEWS NO. 91"

MONDAY, JULY 8

"THE MAN WHO LAUGHS," starring Conrad Veidt with Mary Philbin in a powerful drama from the vivid pen of Victor Hugo. In many respects this picture is said to rival "The Hunchback of Notre Dame;" however, the plot contains far more beauty of sentiment. In order not to lessen the enjoyment of those who have not seen this picture, the plot will not be described in this column. Suffice to say it is an unusually intriguing love story laid among the pagantry of the court of Queen Ann in England. The locale takes you to eighteenth century England, and shows the gorgeous bath and boudoir of the Duchess Josiana, the queen's concert room, the Southworth Fair, eighteenth century Coney Island, the famous bed chamber in the House of Lords, the streets of old London, a duel on the house tops, and a storm at sea. This is a sumptuous production.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 2."

TUESDAY, JUL Y9

"THE RESCUE," starring Ronald Colman in a stirring adventure story laid on the briny blue amid pirates and Malay savages. The plot depicts the thrilling drama of a sea dare-devil pitting his brawn and brain against the primitive cunning of Malay demons, and the conflict of husband and lover amid the dash and color of savage life at play and at war. In this drama a self-made king of the south seas is dethroned by love and fate. It is gripping from start to finish.

RONALD COLMAN and LILY DAMITA in "THE RESCUE"

"Merry Go Round of Travel." Hodge-Podge.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 10

"TRIAL MARRIAGE," starring Norman Kerry in a romantic drama of modern marital mix-ups amid a gorgeous society setting. The story reveals how a muchly married father passes the taint on to his two daughters who regard matrimony as a lark to thrill jaded senses. It is played against a colorful background of jazz, passion, love, and novel settings on a Long Island estate and along the boulevards of Paris. One sister steals the other's sweetheart—enters into a trial marriage while engaged to another man—gets into thrilling complications when the other girl takes a hand in the game of love and succeeds in thoroughly tangling matters up.

"M. G. M. News No. 92."

THURSDAY, JULY 11

"FANCY BAGGAGE," featuring Audrey Ferris with Myrna Loy and George Fawcett. This comedy drama has to do with the ways in which an extravagant modern girl sets about righting the wrong she has done to her over indulgent father, who, to get further funds for her high speed of living, has made a false confession of a crooked stock deal which will make him liable to a prison term. It is a clever riotous comedy of sense and nonsense.

"Shore Shy." Christie.

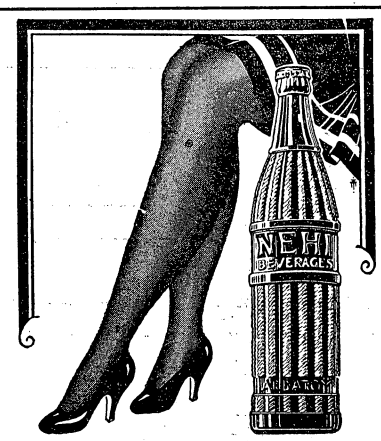
FRIDAY, JULY 12

"HIGH VOLTAGE," starring William Boyd in a tense drama laid in the snow-bound Sierras of California. It concerns the story of six human beings who face death in a deserted meeting house, marooned from the outside world by snow, and who find the real valuation of life and the beauty of romance in their fight for existence. There are two beautiful girls, one of whom is an escaped convict, and four hardy men, one of whom is wanted by the law. It is that type of story which keeps one guessing until the very end as to the outcome. It is considered very interesting.

"Pathe News No. 55."

DETAILED TO SCHOOL

Captain Thomas A. Austin, Jr., has received orders relieving him from the 24th Infantry and assigning him as a student in the 1929-1930 advanced officers' course at the Infantry School, effective September 27th.



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Let us make your clothes look like new

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

Swimming Suits

LATEST STYLES—
ATTRACTIVE PRICES

Ladies' Suits at The Special Order Dept.

Men's Suits at The MAIN BRANCH

Post Exchange

Fort Benning, Ga.

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol VII. July 5, 1929 No. 42

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry.....Editor
Bernard H. Cowan.....Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz.....Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze.....Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson.....Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

INFANTRYMAN, WHAT ARE YOU DOING?

Are you keeping up with the military procession or are you merely a spectator while it passes you?

Are you keeping abreast of the progress and improvements in military methods or are you standing still?

Are you looking forward or backward; do you vision methods of the future as those of ten years ago?

Are you conscious of the evolution of tactics that is taking place with the advancement of weapons, machinery and materiel?

Are you preparing for higher leadership; or are you content to just "get by"?

Are you a twenty-four hour soldier; or do you stop thinking of your profession at "recall"?

Are you devoting any thought toward the improvement of our infantry; or are you content to let the other fellow do it?

How long has it been since you have had a new idea?

How long has it been since you have done anything in a new way?

Ask yourself these questions (before somebody else does) and give yourself honest answers.

The infantryman must be alert; he must keep abreast of the developments in the arms which will oppose the infantry on the battlefield; he must contribute the best of his thought and ability toward the development of improved methods and armament of the infantry; or, if he can make no such contributions, he must at least keep himself informed of the progress of his own arm.

The infantryman must maintain a professional standard in keeping with the traditions of the regular army and the demands of modern warfare.

It is easy to stand still; to fall into a rut; to drop behind; and to get out of touch with progress.

Infantryman, where are you; what are you doing; and what are you doing for the infantry?

Transport each year is becoming more and more motorized throughout our country. Rates of movement and production are being speeded up, with each new scientific development. It is inconceivable that armies will remain indifferent to these changes.

UNSUNG HEROISM

General King's commendation of an army nurse for the excellent care which she had given to an injured negro child directs our thoughts toward those whose services are rendered no less noble by their apparently prosaic character.

There has always been a glamor of romance attached to the wartime army nurse, but the duties of the army nurse in peace time possess little romantic appeal except for those who can see romance in the quiet heroism with which she serves in the army's constant battle against disease and injury.

That the humble and inconspicuous little patient received the same tender care that would be given to a person of higher station is creditable not only to the nurse herself, but to the corps of which she is a member.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

SUNSTROKE AND HEAT EXHAUSTION

Sun-stroke is one of the oldest recognized diseases, two instances being mentioned in the Bible. Aother name for the condition is thermic fever. There are two types: heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Heat exhaustion is brought about by prolonged exposure to high temperatures, particularly when combined with physical exertion. The individual need not be exposed to the direct rays of the sun, but the condition may come on at night or when working in close confined rooms. It may also follow great artificial heat, as in the engine rooms of steamships.

The true heat-stroke is found chiefly in persons who, while working very hard, are exposed to the sun. Soldiers on hikes, particularly when marching with heavy packs, are liable to attack. In the larger cities there are many cases among workmen who have been much exposed. Sun-stroke is much more liable to occur among people who have been drinking heavily, both beer and whisky being contributory agents to the condition.

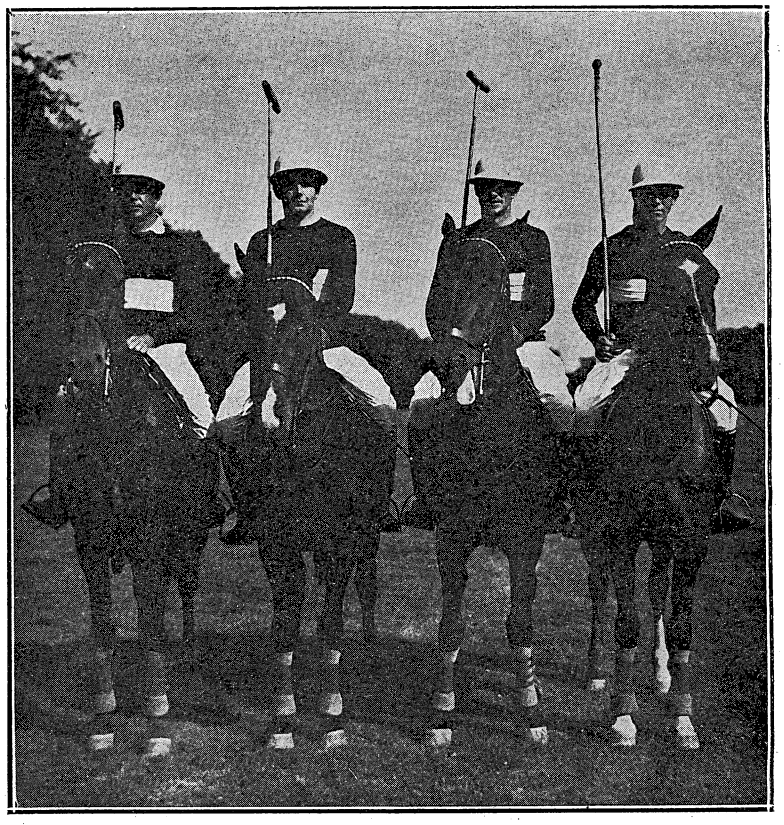
The patient may be struck down and die within an hour with signs that resemble those of heart failure. A more usual form comes on during exposure, with pains in the head, dizziness, a feeling of oppression and sometimes nausea. It is highly important that a physician be seen as soon as possible as the condition is a serious one. If no doctor can be reached, an effort should be made to reduce the patient's temperature by rubbing the body with cold water or even ice. At times, in the heat exhaustion type of attack, the body temperature is found to be low and it will be necessary to warm the patient. For this a warm bath is best.

Persons who have once had sun-stroke are usually liable to subsequent attacks following exposures which would not affect other people. There seems to be a permanent inability to bear high temperatures. Such people frequently become uneasy when the thermometer reaches 80 degrees F. Loss of power of mental concentration and failure of memory are more constant and very troublesome after effects of both sun-stroke and heat exhaustion.

Prevention is exceedingly important. In a climate like that of Fort Benning conditions approximate those of the tropics. Care must be exercised to prevent excessive overheating, particularly when exposed to the direct sunlight. After a person has acquired a good coat of tan, he is less liable to painful blisters and sunburn, but may still be overcome by heat. Swimmers often overlook this and feel that they are safe from such accidents after becoming tanned. Children should not be allowed to play games involving great exertion for long periods during the hottest part of the day, if they are exposed at such times to the sun. As mentioned in previous notes, exposure to sunlight in proper amounts is a valuable aid to health, but this must not be taken to mean that long exposures are not attended by the dangers given above.

Next week's topic—Destruction of Roaches.

UNDEFEATED



The Infantry School polo team added another to its unbroken string of victories when it defeated the Fort McPherson team, 16 to 6. The Fort Benning team recently returned from Washington where it won over the War Department Whites, War Department Blues, and the Third Cavalry in the invitation tournament played there. Left to right: Major C. B. Lyman, Captain R. A. McClure, 1st Lieut. Ben R. Jacobs, 2nd Lieut. J. G. Van Houten.

This is Your Paper—Read It!

29TH INF.

SECOND BATTALION TROUNCES FIRST BATTALION

The 2nd Battalion handed a thorough drubbing to their buddies, the 1st Battalion, Sunday afternoon. The final count was 16-4, with the Kellies smiling.

Had not the 1st Battalion made so many errors at crucial times, there might be another tale to tell up to the fourth inning. It was not until then that the Kellies got to pounding out the horse-hide at will. Four errors by Hinkley, in the three innings that he remained in the game, were costly to his team mate. He may be a pitcher, but as a catcher, Loper, who relieved him, has got the best hand. Loper is only a young player, but with more practice, will be able to hold the position.

One feature of the Kellies playing, was that the Kel himself came to bat six times to pound out just six hits, one of them being a double.

Allison, pitching for the Kels went good for seven innings, but had to be relieved by Ward, who hasn't found the plate since the opening of the season. If he is a hot weather pitcher, he will not have to wait long before he starts.

Score by innings:

2nd Bn	1	1	3	0	1	0	0	6	4	16	15	1
1st Bn.	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	2	0	4	7	10

First Battalion

Upon checking the monthly mess ratings by the medical inspector for the first six months of 1929, it is found that Company C has been the outstanding company of the regiment as to messes. The company has tied for first place each month in which the mess has been rated.

In going back a year it is found that for the twelve-month period, July 1928 to June 1929, inclusive, Company B 29th has equaled Company C in the number of times tied for first place. Each has a credit of tying for first place for five times out of ten times rated. (Two months not rated on account of "flu" epidemics and maneuver camps).

The next best company rating of the 29th has a credit of twice tying for first place, and two other companies of the regiment have been tied only once for first place.

B and C companies have each tied for first place more times than all the other companies of the regiment put together, a record of which each company should justly feel proud.

Howitzer Company

We know now how Daniel Boone felt after his stay in the wilderness. We have just returned from Camp Liscum and have withstood the rain storms, heat and red bugs remarkably well.

The range season has been highly successful and some of the boys who were so good on estimation of range have been recommended for positions as ribbon clerks upon their discharge.

The crop of 1st class gunners was abundant but sad to relate the expert test was a stone wall to the majority and few got "over."

With the exception of two instances of the entire camp being demolished by rain and wind a good time was had by all. However most of the fishing expeditions amounted to nothing more than "fishermans luck."

The barbecue dinner Saturday was the grand finale, while too much is almost as bad as not enough there were few cases requiring medical attention.

Tom Tompkins "Chivy" was the only casualty during the entire camp period.

Company E

Everyone is happy over the first group in E Co. making 100 per cent and qualifying 90 men. We have only 73 more to fire. And they left some good scores for the second group to shoot at.

Corp. "Windy" Moore made 321 to the grand surprise of everyone. Windy says he would have made 325 but the man in the pits did not mark it correctly.

Sgt. Shorty) New has made high score in the first group, 330. Shorty New took an easy victory over Corp. Clay during the range season (first group). Sgt. New made 330 and Corp. Clay brought up the rear with 316. These two boys had quite a time kidding each other during the firing and both figuring on high score. Corp. Clay would say, "Shorty, how much did you make at this range?" Shorty New would tell him and Clay would say, "Well, you are shooting yours and I am saving my good scores for record." "I will be right on Shorty New's heels for record," said Clay, but it seems that New took off too soon and left Clay bringing up the rear echelon. The company is proud of such shots as these two boys and especially of Clay's twenty years of service.

Our First Sergeant "High" Davis has had a hobby of winning the gold watch in the company every year but he will have to shoot extra hard for it this year as one of the boys has already made 330. "High" won the watch last year with the score of 324. I believe he can beat this 330 this year and get another gold watch. If he keeps on winning watches he will have to put some on sale.

Company F

The old company shooting eye seems to be on the job again this year. We have qualified 18 Experts, 36 Sharpshooters and 32 Marksmen. But there is still a lot for the second and third groups to get over with. Lady Luck please hold out.

Slats Barns seems to be a little blur-eyed, what is wrong.

Santa Claus is something for children to believe but Pvt. Bernet has gone back to his childhood days after making the score of 320.

Company G

The Company Commander said to the group of men that fired, "Men let's hold them and squeeze them," and they did. Even Charlie Deeters got over. Charlie had lots of hard luck. Anyhow we got over 100 per cent that's going some. In the 1st group of men that fired on June 28th and 29th we got 11 Experts, 25 Sharpshooters and 45 Marksman, and we expect the second group to make a better record.

Private Holland on the firing line, shoots his 1st shot. The coach said to him, "Call your shot." However, Holland did not answer, but was busy writing in his score book. Holland drew a picture of a flag in his score book and showed it to the coach, it was a miss.

Here is a good one. Recruit with about three months service got a score of 318. That's going some. This young man's name is Private Craft. The recruits in the regiment will have to go some to beat him and his score is also the highest in the company at the present time. But we have some of the best shots to fire yet. We are proud of this young soldier and the company congratulates him for his excellent work.

Private First Class Blanchard also made a nice score of 313. The number is not so lucky but it pays him five bucks a month to hold that number.

Alibi list at the last range of firers. Pvt. Usery, telling the men about his score. "You know I don't think the men in the pitts know how to mark the targets. I know I made more than 33. These guys don't know their stuff, that's all."

Before we went on the range for record, Cpl. Degnan said, "I just know I'll get 330 this year." Yes Jack had a little hard luck at 500 yards rapid fire, only got 32. Pretty lucky to get 306 at that old boy.

Private First Class Taylor needed a score of 47 for Expert at 600 yards and made 49. He said, he had a little hard luck.

Company "H"

This company has been very unfortunate in that the sun has taken a vacation and Jupiter Pluvius visited Hook Range to such an extent that we have lost several days of our firing schedule. But given half a chance, the fighting spirit of "H" Company will come to the front and kick up so much dust that the schedule will be left miles back.

Some of the familiar sights of the range include Sgt. "Plumb-Bob" Harkey and his 'high-water trousers' and the ammunition board keepers who get sticky fingers when any loose rounds of ammo. are laying around. Our friend Gillman has increased his trade somewhat when the craze of ready tailor-made cotton shirts of a snappy hue started. Private First Class Glenn was appointed Corporal. We wonder why his stripes are sewed on the front of his sleeves?

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Double brass bed, springs and mattress—also childs crib bed, new mattres. Phone 96 or 289.

FOR SALE: Antique spool bed. Phone 180, Post.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY ALA YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Hot Weather Hardware

Ice Cream Freezers
Ice Coolers
Ice Picks
Ice Chisels

Bottle Caps, Bottle Cappers, Testers

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

Base Ball

All of the Latest

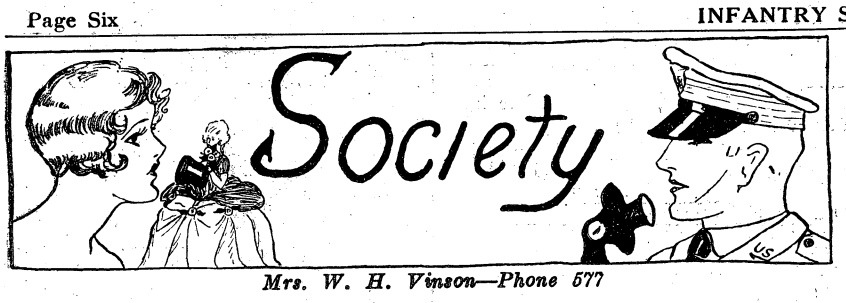
Equipment at Trade Prices

(See our Stock First)

The Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

NELSON—HOLLOCK

Major Roland M. Hollock, garrison Judge Advocate, and Miss Lillian Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Anna M. Nelson, were married in Richmond, Virginia, on Tuesday, June 25th, 1929.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. Faw at the Second Presbyterian Church in Richmond, in the presence of only the most intimate friends and relatives. As the guests assembled the church organist rendered a charming programme of nuptial music.

At the initial strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bride was escorted to the altar by Captain A. T. Gilhus, who gave her away. At the altar they were met by the groom, and his best man, Mr. L. T. Christian, of Richmond.

The bride wore a fashionable pink and sun-tan ensemble and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party and their guests had a banquet at the William Byrd Hotel.

The bride was born in Chicago where her late father was a well known merchant. She is an alumna of the University of Utah.

Major and Mrs. Hollock motored to Fort Benning through the Shenandoah Valley arriving at the post on Saturday. They are now at home to their friends at their quarters in Block 15.

* * *

The officers and ladies of the garrison honored their conquering heroes, the polo players, on their return from Washington, with a reception and dance at the Polo Club on Monday evening. Receiving were General and Mrs. George C. Shaw, Major and Mrs. Charles B. Lyman, Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. McClure, Lieut. and Mrs. Ben R. Jacobs, Lieut. and Mrs. William H. Bartlett, Lieut. Hayden Y. Grubbs, Lieut. John G. Van Houten. General Shaw in a short talk welcomed the victorious players home and expressed pride and gratitude for their most excellent representation of our garrison in the recent War Department Tournament and all other games they played on their recent tour. Major Lyman, Captain of the polo team, responded very graciously thanking the general and the officers and ladies for their warm reception. (When he said "warm" there was a merry laugh for July first was a typical summer night and the reception was indeed warm!) Despite the weather, and the fact that many of the officers who are on the target range do not have to get up till four o'clock a. m., there was a very representative gathering and what with the good fellowship, the good music and the icy punch, everybody had a good time.

* * *

Mrs. J. D. Leitch, wife of Major-General Leitch, was guest of honor at a delightful afternoon bridge party at which Mrs. Lewis C. Beebe was hostess on Tuesday. The apartment was decorated with bowls of vari-colored zinnias. There were three tables of players and Mrs. Leitch won high score prize, Mrs. Albert Helsley low. The prizes were attractive leather score pads. Mrs. Leitch was presented a dainty hand-made handkerchief as honoree and Mrs. William McElhinney and Miss Agnes Caffey were given similar handkerchiefs as a special guests' prize. After an elaborate salad course was served, the hostess brought out a lovely angel food cake with candles burning on it, and placed it in front of Mrs. Helsley, whose birthday it chanced to be.

* * *

Honoring her attractive house guest, Miss Elizabeth Bowers, Mrs. Charles L. Steel entertained at a beautiful bridge luncheon at the Polo Club on Friday, June 28th. The club house, gay with its new yellow draperies, was never more attractive than on this occasion when the hostess, using yellow for her color motif, had graceful reed baskets filled with small sun flowers placed on mantel and tables. Bamboo was used as a screening back ground. The guests assembled at ten o'clock and their brilliantly colored sport frocks added charm to the picturesque effect. There were twelve tables of bridge arranged in two long rows and the progression was toward the head table in each row. Mrs. Elam L. Stewart won high prize for one row, a pair of flesh chiffon hose, and Mrs. J. J. Wilson won first prize for the other, a similar pair of hose. Mrs. Daniel O'Connell won second, a handmade handkerchief. Mrs. William G. Murphy, the consolation, a dainty handkerchief. The honoree was given a piece of silk lingerie, and Mrs. Clifford D. Overfelt and Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge were given as going-away prizes, a box of French dusting powder and a hand-embroidered handkerchief respectively. After the game an elaborate two course luncheon was served.

* * *

Complimenting Mrs. Alfred H. Parham, a recent bride, Mrs. Allen Woodall was hostess at a beautiful seated tea at the Country Club on Monday afternoon, July 1. The guests were seated at one long table which was placed on the porch and which had for its centerpiece a basket of garden flowers arranged in a Dresden bouquet. Covers were laid for sixteen.

* * *

As a courtesy to Miss Harriett Wells and Lt. Le Grande Diller, whose engagement was announced recently, Lt. Woodson Hocker and Miss Theodosia Hocker etertained at a beautiful dinner party at the Log Cabin on Friday evening. The Cabin was attractively decorated in summer flowers and the guests were seated at two long tables. One table had for its centerpiece a bowl of Shasta daisies surrounded by tall burning yellow tapers, while on the other mixed garden flowers were used with orchid candles. Diminutive brides and grooms marked the places for each guest. After dinner the party motored to Fort Benning where they attended the R. O. T. C. dance at the Polo Club.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. A. T. Gilhus returned Friday from Richmond, Va., where they went to attend the wedding of Miss Lillian Elder and Major Roland M. Hollock, an interesting event of last week.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Nichols left Tuesday for leave and change of station. They sail soon from New York for Panama. During their last days at Benning they were guests of Capt. and Mrs. David E. Washburn.

* * *

Two outstanding tributes were paid to two Benning officers and their wives by the people of Columbus last week. On Friday evening Capt. and Mrs. H. H. Fay were tendered a farewell reception at the Parish house of Trinity Episcopal church and on Sunday evening St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal Church

(Continued on page 7.)

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

KIRVEN'S

July Clearance

—BEGINS MONDAY
—JULY 8th

WATCH NEWSPAPERS FOR SPECIAL VALUES!

Kirven's
ESTABLISHED 1876

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)
will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED
and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S

INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

MRS. YOUNG'S

Grill

"The Best of Food"

117 12th Street Phone 4026

COLUMBUS, GA.

K&P

Perpetuating a policy established more than a HALF CENTURY ago

We Want to See Our Old Customers and Hope to Make Many New Friends

Jewelry, Diamonds, Silverware and Novelties.

Jewelry and Watch Repair Work a Specialty.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

Additional Society

(Continued from page 6.)

honored Capt. and Mrs. Cecil L. Rutledge with a farewell musicale. Capt. and Mrs. Fay left Tuesday for Hawaii, and Capt. and Mrs. Rutledge have gone to Witchita, Kan., where he will be on duty at the Municipal University.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Emil W. Leard entertained at an unusually delightful alfresco buffet dinner and treasure hunt on Tuesday evening, July 2. The guests assembled at twilight and dinner was served on the lawn where chairs were placed in informal groups. After dinner the guests followed on foot various paper trails all over Austin Loop hunting for hidden treasures. Mrs. William F. Freehoff and Major Benjamin G. Ferris were the lucky finders. Those included in this original and clever party were: Maj. and Mrs. Hill, Maj. and Mrs. Lewis, Maj. and Mrs. Phelps, Maj. and Mrs. Schmidt, Maj. and Mrs. Freehoff, Maj. and Mrs. Sherburne, Maj. and Mrs. Ferris, Maj. and Mrs. White, Miss Glover, Mrs. Rucker, Capt. and Mrs. Helsley, Mrs. McElhinney, Capt. and Mrs. Peabody, Mrs. King, Lt. Moore.

* * *

Quite a number of officers and ladies enjoyed the Howitzer Company barbecue at Camp Liscum on Saturday afternoon.

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

PTOMEY AND TEDESCO IN MAIN BOUT JULY 9TH

Tony Tedesco, Company M, 22nd Infantry, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., the Italian walloper who has been creating a big furore around Memphis, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Cincinnati, and other points has been secured to feature the windup of ten rounds at the Doughboy Stadium, Tuesday night, July 9th.

Tony will meet the one and only Weary Willie Ptomey, formerly 15th Tank Battalion, at present D. E. M. L. University of Georgia, Athens, Ga. On the future books Willie, from the rumors circulating, will soon be a member of the garrison again, possibly a wearer of the buff hat cord. The same rumor carries the story that Grumpy Gordy's place as the Biglerville engineer is in jeopardy, making those in the know predict the possibility that Willie's beaming face will soon be seen from the cab window of a giant locomotive. It appears Ptomey hit the size of his hat in the R. O. T. C. league.

Tedesco versus Ptomey, if the dope follows true, ought to prove one of the sweetest scraps of the year. As every fan knows, Willie looks has best when the other fellow is forcing the going, and it is just a little thing that Tedesco does best. The 22nd Infantryman is rated the best club fighter in the South today, meaning that promoters can count on Tony pleasing the cash customers. Any boxer, like K. O. Billy Edwards, or Eddie Burl, or Jimmey Spivey who keeps coming in all the time is sure to be in demand, for after all, the public wants action. Action is Tedesco's middle name if the newspaper clippings of his fights can be taken at par value. It seems this doughboy from Oglethorpe is a bit short on science but long on punching, mixing, and endurance. Therefore, coming Tuesday night, a ringside seat seems to the logical conclusion for those who like their fisticuffs.

Tony, as the press has informed us, has an outstanding record since he came east from the Pacific coast last February. Two decisive wins over Johnny Walker, two against Johnny Flynn, then Jimmie Cox, Ward Whitehead, and a knockout over that tough Fort Thomas heavyweight, Jack McDonald. The only setback was at the hands of Alex Simms, the Canton, O., bulldog. In this scrap Tony had a nasty boil on his right elbow which bothered him all thru the fight, nevertheless, though losing the decision he carried the fight to Simms all the way. This Simms person is the cream of the middles in the Mississippi Valley; poison he is to many of the younger lights, for being a southpaw and a terrific hitter he finds it difficult to get matches. Tony did not pass him up, but did fail like many to put over a win. This match alone stamps Tedesco as better than an even shot with Ptomey.

Some months back Rufus Miles of Columbus was given a boxing lesson by Tanks Grantham in a main event. Since then Miles has been burning up the Piedmont district, appearing as a windup attraction in such places as Asheville, Charlotte, and Knoxville. Tuesday night he will be seen in the semi-windup of eight sessions with Blondy Parker of the vigilant M. P.'s. If Parker gets over this obstacle with a clear-cut win then he will be in line with such luminaries as Baby Stribling, Abe Lucky, Pete Cole, and Kid Peck.

Danny Davis will keep his hand in on the coming card by facing Cato Ritchie, a stablemate of Styles Attaway. Cato is sojourning in Atlanta at present, but his bailiwick is Buffalo, N. Y. R. E. Carter, Attaway's mentor, is sponsor for Cato, stating that he is the best looking welter to blow into Atlanta this season. Another six rounder, booked at the request of Mr. Gordy, deposed cabman of a Georgia rattler, is the Shell-Gordy return engagement. Grumpy, it seems, is held in disdain in a certain section of Columbus, all due to the unsatisfactory decision rendered when Shell met Grumpy before. Not until this menace is removed from the slate will Grumpy enjoy the prestige of being the real dog of the alley.

One four and one three, rounds out on the card. Red Lawson trips into action again with the famous Spark Plug of other days. At one time Sparkie met the famous J. D. A handshake and then the curtains was the lot of S. P., but against Cecil Williams they say he was a terror. Red needs the money and will enter with his famous cerise trimmings and a hopeful prayer.

Now is the time for all good and wise devotees to get a pasteboard.

INTRA-MURAL LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

The intral-mural league season opened at Benning Saturday, June 29, with all the pomp and ceremony accorded the big-time baseball clubs. The band 'n everything was there, all decked out in accordance with the season. Brigadier-General Campbell King, the commandant of the Infantry School, threw out the ball to be used in the first play, after he had autographed it.

Promptly at 1:30 o'clock, the band from the 29th Infantry struck up a lively march, and began its course of march on Gowdy Field. Immediately following were the clubs representing all those in the two leagues, led by Captain William B. Tuttle.

Entering the field at first base and circling around home plate, thence around third base and on to the flag pole, that stands in the center field corner of the lot. Here the captains of the teams that were to meet in the opening game, Kjelstrom, of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, and Lindsey, of the Fifteenth Tank Battalion, hoisted the Gowdy Field flag to the peak of the flag pole.

Then, in perfect formation the players marched to the north stands, and were presented to the commandant by Captain Tuttle. General King remarked that with such a fine baseball field, and such apt looking baseball players, the league should have many interesting games, and that in a good baseball player, one was certain to find a good soldier.

The teams not playing in the opening game were moved off the field and the players began to warm up. General King tossed out the ball to Woodman who was catching for the Fifteenth Tank Battalion

This was all that was necessary, for the "Kellys" and "Johnnies" were to furnish many thrills for the fans.

The Tanks got away to an early lead, when Ward, tossing for the Kellys, proceeded to walk the first two men to face him, Hodges and Haynie. Kjelstrom immediately yanked him and called Carnes from the left field position to take over the box responsibilities. Hodges scored on an error by McAllister and Haynie scored on one by "Cue Ball" Dean.

Carnes figured very prominently in the rest of that inning. He assisted two of the batters to face him to putouts to the first baseman. The last victim was ceremoniously whiffed.

That is all the Tanks got; Lefty allowing them only three hits for the remainder of the game.

The Kellys looked sick in the opening frames of the game, however, they came within an ace of tallying on Lindsey's error, when he just played around with Cooper's easy one.

In the third spasm, Thompson catching for the mighty Kels, got a flukey double, just inside the third

(Continued on page 8.)

BOXING TUES. NIGHT, JULY 9

8:00 O'CLOCK DOUGHBOY STADIUM

WINDUP TEN ROUNDS

WILLIE PTOMEY (D. E. M. L.) VS TONY TEDESCO (Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.)

Blondy Parker - Rufus Miles - Danny Davis - Cato Richie - Grumpy Gordy - Billy Shell
Raven Poe - Marcellus Movlak - Red Lawson - Spark Plug

General Admission: 50c Ringside: 75c and $1.00 Box Seats: $1.00

Tickets on sale at all orderly rooms, officers' club and the athletic office

GOLF GOSSIP

By V. G. H.

It would seem that is the season for tournaments; here we are in receipt of an invitation from the Newnan Country Club for a ladies' invitation event of considerable interest, Newnan being only about seventy miles from here. It sounds very interesting, so we are quoting it for the information of our lady members:

NEWNAN COUNTRY CLUB
T. S. Parrott, Sec'y & Treas.
Newnan, Ga., July 1st, 1929.
Fort Benning Country Club,
Fort Benning, Georgia.

The Newnan Country Club of Newnan, Ga., will hold a Woman's Invitation Golf Tournament July 9th to 12th and the women golfers of your club are most cordially invited to attend. July 9th will be qualifying round flights of eight, as many flights as filled. Also team contests on this day for teams of three from each club to be named before starting. July 10th, first round, all flights. July 11th, second round, all flights July 12th, final round, all flights.

There will also be driving contests, approaching and putting contsts, mixed two ball foursomes with teas and bridge parties for the entertainment of visitors and there also will be flights of nine holes for ladies not desiring to enter eighteen hole contests.

We will appreciate it very much if you will post this invitation at your club and call personal attention to it to your women golfers, asking them to notify Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson, Newnan, Ga., of their intention to attend. Entrance fee, $3.00.

Yours truly,
Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson,
Mrs. Garland M. Jones,
Mrs. T. G. Farmer, Jr.,
Invitation Committee.

* * *

It is just too bad that there are no more of our own golfers at home now, as the course here is certainly in an excellent condition for this time of the year; with all this rain we have had in the past week or so our fairways are the best we had in the history of our club. One goes out for a round now and it is the hardest thing to pick up any new phrases to add to one's golf vocabulary; it reminds one of that new "anti-swearing golf club" recently organized in England.

INTRA-MURAL LEAGUE SEASON OPENS

(Continued from page 7.)

base foul line, and just where the three fielders in that part of the field were put to some hard stretches to get it. It fell fair and while they were looking for it, Tommy sprinted for second, beating a good throw by quarter inches. Baron poled a slow one to third and was out at first, while Thompson sneaked in on the third bag. He scored on Cooper's single through second.

Captain Finney's proteges were unable to score again until the sixth, when they tied the score on Kelly's triple between left and right field and Dean's beautiful sacrifice fly to center. Kelly beat the throw that was a little wild.

Coming out of it in the seventh with McAllister's single through second Prophet's bunt that put him on second and Thompson's sizzler right through the pitcher to center bringing him all the way.

Their last counter came in the eighth when Kelly walked; went to second by petit larceny; and reached home on an error by "Long Boy" Harris who merely retarded a fairly hit ball that rolled out some twenty yards and proceeded to call "Peep Peep" in derision to the one who was responsible.

The Johnnies tried valiantly for a rally in the eighth by putting in three consecutive pinch hitters, who were retired in the order they came. They were only one inning ahead with their pinch hitters, for in the ninth, Hodges came up for a hit to center, and Smith, T. J. came up for another to right. Copper put a stop to all the argument when he slipped up Woodman's sure hit through second and forced Smith at second unassisted.

The game came to a very abrupt close with the Tanks on the little end of a 4-2 score.

Score by innings:

Tanks	200	000	000	2 3 2
2nd Bn.	001	001	110	4 8 2

Lindsey and Woodman; Ward, Carnes and Thompson.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

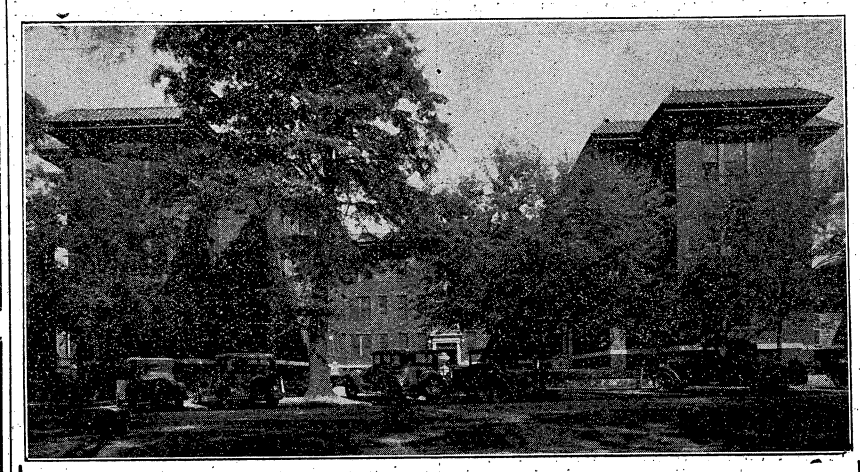
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

FENDERS BODIES STRAIGHTENED

We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.

We are completely equipped to repair any job.

The Post Exchange

—at—

Fort Benning is our Agent

COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS

1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

SPECIAL PRICES

On All

BASEBALL EQUIPMENT

Phone 314 for Representative with Samples

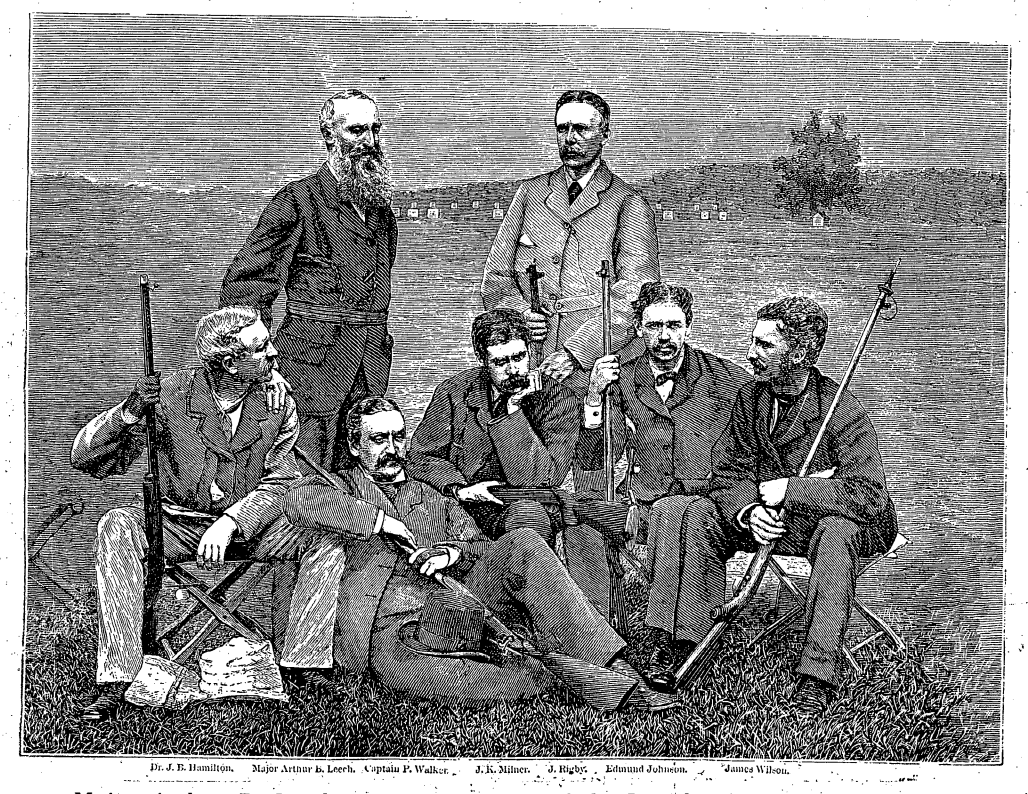
HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JULY 12, 1929 Number 43

Benning Polo Team May Represent Southern Circuit

ENGLISH RIFLEMEN WHO AIDED AMERICAN SHOOTING



Major Arthur B. Leech and the members of the British rifle team which competed in the first international rifle competition held in the United States in 1874. Their visit and the now famous Leech Cup, which Major Leech presented at that time for American competition, did much to develop interest in this sport in the United States. Left to right: Dr. J. B. Hamilton, Major Arthur B. Leech, Captain P. Walker, J. K. Milner, J. Rigby, Edmund Johnson, James Wilson. From an engraving made at the time of their visit to America.

NATIONAL MATCHES OFFER FAMOUS TROPHIES

Rifle and pistol marksmen representing the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, national guard, police departments and civilian clubs are preparing for their annual pilgrimage to Camp Perry, Ohio, where the national matches and small arms firing school will open on August 22 and close on September 15.

The matches of the National Rifle Association will be held jointly with the national matches, opening on September 1 and closing on September 8.

More than 3000 competitors competed in the 1928 matches for the $40,000 in cash prizes and the numerous valuable and historic trophies.

The period which is generally referred to as the National Matches is really divided into three periods. The small-arms firing school, which occupies the first week, is designed so as to not only teach a man how to shoot, but also to instruct him in the more difficult art of teaching others how to shoot. As a result, the men who go through the small-arms firing school are equipped to return to their local organizations and to disseminate a knowledge of the correct principles of small-arms marksmanship.

The old established national championships of the National Rifle Association, which occupy the second week of the National Match period, furnish a very large part of the incentive to attend the National Matches. A varied program of more than half a hundred competitions for .30-caliber and .22-caliber rifles and all types of pistols carries with it a list of trophies, medals and cash prizes having a total value of well over forty thousand dollars.

There are few sporting events in the United States aside from the professionalized sports which offer so large an incentive to competitors at a single meeting. Entirely aside from the intrinsic value of the prizes, there is the feeling of satisfaction which comes to a man in having his name added to a trophy which has been fired for every year for a score of years or more. As a matter of fact, several of the N. R. A. Trophies have been in continuous competition for more than half a century.

The true national matches, which conclude the three weeks' program, are the culminating events of the year's rifle shooting in the United States. Sanctioned as they are by the Congress of the United States and with trophies largely appropriated for by Congress, these four national matches, the national individual rifle and pistol and the national rifle and pistol team, have a prestige which furnishes a fitting climax to the year's activities.

The 1929 national matches will consist of the following events which will be fired in the order named: National Rifle Association matches, national individual pistol match, national team match, national rifle match and national rifle team match.

Suitable badges and trophies will be awarded to the winners of places in the national match competitions, many of which carry cash prizes as well.

A trophy will be awarded to the highest team representing the United States services and the organized reserves. There also will be one for the highest team of the national guard, the citizens military training camps, the reserve officers' training corps and the civilian entries.

In addition to these trophies the team making the highest score, regardless of classification, will be awarded the national trophy, the team making the second highest score will be awarded the Hilton Trophy, "The Soldier of Marathon" will go to the third highest team and the "Minuteman" to the fourth highest team.

By far the most historical of the trophies and probably the most coveted, are the famous Leech and Wimbledon cups which have been competed for by American riflemen for more than half a century. It was in 1871 that the National Rifle Association of America was incorporated for the purpose of developing interest in target shooting. Interest in this sport was given a strong impetus when, three years later, an international rifle shoot was arranged and a group of British marksmen visited the United States and fired in competition with American riflemen.

The British team was headed by Major Arthur B. Leech, of the British army, and its other members were Captain P. Walker, also of the British army, Dr. J. B. Hamilton, J. K. Milner,

(Continued on page 12.)

CIRCUIT CHAIRMAN MAKES PROPOSAL

Possibility that the Fort Benning polo team will represent the southern circuit in an inter-circuit tournament to be held in Chicago next month is indicated in a proposal made by Thurmond Chatham, of Winston-Salem, N. C., chairman of the southern circuit, that the Fort Benning team be designated as the representative team of the circuit for the Chicago tournament.

Mr. Chatham has presented his plan to have the Benning team declared the southern representative to all the clubs in the circuit which comprises in its membership the following clubs: Winston-Salem, Camden, Aiken, Sand Hill, Flamingoes, Ft. Bragg, Ft. Screvens, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ft. McPherson and Ft. Benning.

Mr. Chatham in his letters to the representatives of the clubs says of the Fort Benning team, "they are the most eligible team as they have won from more clubs during the past twelve months than any other team in the circuit."

It is known that Mr. Chatham's proposal has been endorsed by two of the clubs and it is expected that the others will accept the chairman's plan for representation in the Chicago tournament.

Although there has been no elimination tournament in the southern league, the Fort Benning team is regarded as the most likely representative of the league on account of its having won more games during the past year than any other team in the circuit. Its performance in the recent invitational tournament in Washington, and in Winston-Salem and Atlanta, where it played and won seven games and scored 77 goals against its opponents' 27 goals, has greatly enhanced its prestige and reputation in the polo world.

Its unbroken record of victories has also attracted favorable attention in high official circles. General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the Army, recently complimented the Fort Benning team in a letter to Brigadier

(Continued on page 12.)

COMMANDANT GOES TO WASHINGTON

Brigadier General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, and Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., commander of the 29th Infantry, have received orders to proceed to Washington, D. C. for the purpose of attending a conference with the chief of staff on July 20.

General King has been granted a leave of absence for one month and will leave Fort Benning by automobile on July 15 for Flat Rock, North Carolina, where he will spend his leave with relatives. He will go to Washington on July 19 and will return to Flat Rock after the conference to spend the remainder of his vacation.

Colonel Pendleton will return to Fort Benning immediately after the conference.

During General King's absence from Fort Benning Colonel D. H. Berry will be in command.

BENNING GOLFERS INVITED TO USE MERIWETHER COURSE

Special inducements are offered to the golfers of Fort Benning by the management of the Meriwether golf course at Warm Springs, Georgia. In a letter to the Infantry School News, Mr. Arthur Carpenter, manager of the Meriwether Reserve, Inc., states:

"A sporty nine hole course laid out by the well known golf architect, Donald Ross, awaits Fort Benning's golfing officers, their wives and friends. The management promises a thoroughly good time for them.

"The greens and fairways are in excellent condition and no expense has been spared to install modern equipment and every convenience that will warm the golfer's heart as well as to help him give Old Colonel Bogey a tough battle.

"There is no waiting of an hour or two to drive off. At the Meriwether Golf Course you step up to the first tee and swing.

"The nine holes are laid out in some of the most picturesque country in all Georgia. Stately pine trees line the fairways, inviting the little white ball to fly by, the fresh cool pine laden air fills you so full of pep that eighteen holes are just a starter—and there are no extra charges for additional rounds at Warm Springs.

"Sergeant Clark, golf pro at Fort Benning was recently a guest of the Meriwether Golf Club and played a round with Warren Mays, Georgia professional, who is in charge of the Warm Springs course. Sergeant Clark was more than pleased with the snappy nine hole course.

"Through the efforts of Sergeant Clark and Warren Mays a special non-resident yearly membership rate has been established for the officers of Fort Benning.

"Natural water hazards, tricky bunkers and sand traps add zest and sport to hitting the ball to the smooth as billiard table greens.

"There's a club house where the first hole starts and the last one ends where you can take a shower or if you prefer a cool refreshing and invigorating swim after the game the Warm Springs public pool awaits your plunge.

"Then that keen appetite which has been whetted up to the 'nth degree can be satisfied by a leisurely dinner at the Meriwether Inn, or if a hurried snack is desired the Pantry Shelf, which is owned and operated by the Meriwether Reserve, is just a step from the golf course.

CHEMICAL WARFARE RESERVE OFFICERS ON DUTY AT BENNING

Seventeen reserve officers of the chemical warefare service, members of the 301st Chemical Regiment, have been assigned to active duty for fourteen days, at Fort Benning.

While here they will be quartered and messed with Co. C 1st Gas Regiment.

The reservists attending the camp are: Captain John Charles Carter, Columbus, Ga., Captain Paul Stanley Woodward, Atlanta, Ga., 1st Lt. James Osborne Andes, Knoxville, Tenn., 1st Lt. Thomas Lillard Rodes, Benton, La., 1st Lt. Camillus Caruthers Sullivan, Jackson, Miss., 2nd Lt. James Thomas Adair, Jr., Decatur, Ga., 2nd Lt. Harry G. Alford, Tampa, Fla., 2nd Lt. Fred Mortimer Downing, Tuscaloosa, Ala., 2nd Lt. Gilbert Ford Kinney, Knoxville, Tenn., 2nd Lt. Walter Homer Lemmond, Jr., Decatur, Ala., 2nd Lt. John Cooper Morcock, Jr., Athens, Ga., 2nd Lt. James Martine Pearce, Tampa, Fla., 2nd Lt. George Brice Sumner, Nashville, Tenn., 2nd Lt. Leonard Edgar Thompson, Ocala, Fla., 2nd Lt. George Walling Wilder, Plant City, Fla., Alfred Joshua Reid, 100 Jackson St., Monro, La., 2nd Lt. Ralph Milton Byrd, Charleston, S. C.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES OF OFFICERS

The following named officers have arrived at or departed from Fort Benning since June 26.

Departures

Maj. Agard H. Bailey, to leave and change of station to Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Major H. D. Torrey to leave and change of station to Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Capt. Cecil L. Rutledge to leave and change of station to University of Wichita, Wichita, Kan.

Capt. Emile J. Boyer, to leave and change of station to Hawaiian department.

Lt. Clifford D. Overfelt to leave and change of station to Jefferson Bks , Mo.

Lt. Claude A. Black to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Lt. Russell A. Baker to leave and change of station to Philippine Islands.

Major John F. Ehlert to temporary duty and change of station to Q. M. Service School, Chicago, Ill., and then to Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

Major John F. Landis to leave and change of station to Fort George Meade, Md.

Colonel Charles W. Willard to sick leave.

Major Paul J. McDonald to leave and change of station to Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

—NOTICE—

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS
(VETERINARIANS)
NOW LOCATED
In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital
"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"
1006—13th St. Phone 1313

HAPPY PEOPLE — — They invented the pause that refreshes

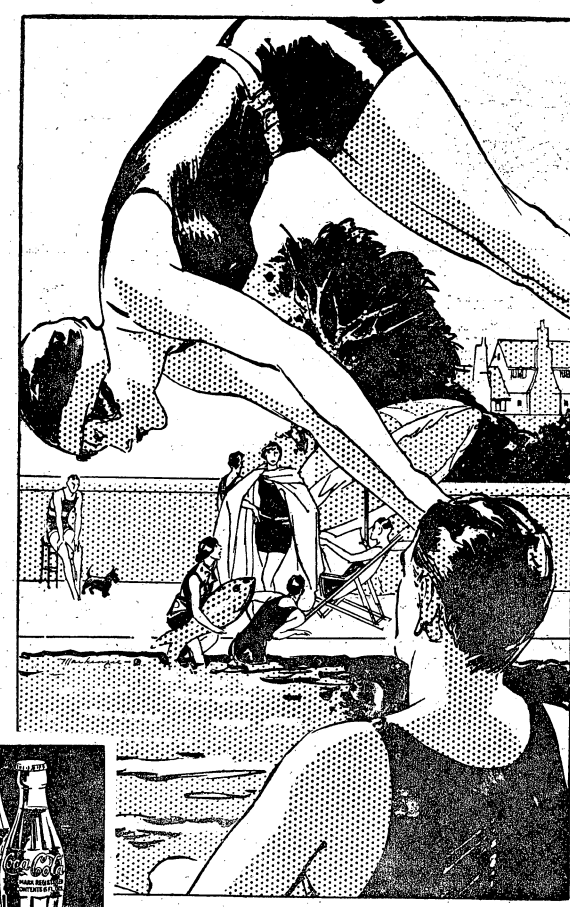
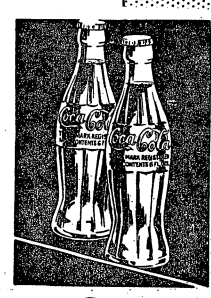
Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

Where do you find more happiness to the square inch than amongst people who have turned from fun or frolic to relax—rest—and refresh themselves? And what drink is more universally popular than ice-cold, delicious, wholesome Coca-Cola with its cool, after-sense of refreshment? Whether at play or work the happiest thought you can have is to take "time out" for a Coca-Cola. Pure as sunlight. Wholly refreshing.





OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

Columbus Coca-Cola Co.
PHONE 360

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

AT THE MOVIES

FRIDAY, JULY 12

"HIGH VOLTAGE," starring William Boyd in a tense drama laid in the snow-bound Sierras of California. It concerns the story of six human beings who face death in a deserted meeting house, marooned from the outside world by snow, and who find the real valuation of life and the beauty of romance in their fight for existence. There are two beautiful girls, one of whom is an escaped convict, and four hardy men, one of whom is wanted by the law. It is the type of story which keeps one guessing until the very end as to the outcome. It is considered very interesting.

"Pathe News No. 55."

SATURDAY, JULY 13

"BURNING THE WIND," starring Hoot Gibson in a story concerning early Spanish History in southern California. It tells about a beautiful Spanish girl in California whose father and Hoot's father would like to see these two youngsters joined in matrimony. Hoot is spending his time at the estate living a fast existence on his father's money. The two parents, without telling the senorita, trick the wandering son into coming home by telling him that somebody is grabbing up all of his father's land. He returns and begins to recover the stolen land, then falls in love with the beautiful senorita whom he saved from a pair of double-crossing villains. In this story the Spanish atmosphere is beautiful as well as charming. The climax is particularly thrilling when swords and fists are added to fast riding.

SUNDAY, JULY 14

"THE PAGAN," starring Ramon Navarro with Renee Adoree in a most captivating story filmed in the South Seas amid gorgeous sunsets, crystal blue waters, and exotic greenery. It concerns a young half-native islander who is pitted against the complications of the white man's civilization and laws. As a child of nature, his vivid fight under water with the sharks, canoe riders and other thrills, Novarro presents the most strenuous of his roles since "Ben Hur." The love story worked out with himself and Dorothy Janis is most engrossing and appealing. Special music has been procured for the presentation of this picture.

DOROTHY JANIS and RAMON NOVARRO in "THE PAGAN"

"The Queen Bee." Fables.

"M. G. M. News No. 93."

MONDAY, JULY 15

"LONESOME," featuring Glen Tryon with Barbara Kent in a highly emotional story concerning life amid the strife and turmoil of a great city. It tells of a boy and a girl who feel the grip of loneliness amid the millions among whom they live. On a hot Saturday afternoon each journeys to the beach where Jim "picks up" Mary. Throughout the day they linger on the beach, happy in having met each other. When the time comes to go home, Mary becomes lost and the romance of the day becomes tragedy. They are reunited by a surprising climax. This picture takes you to Coney Island.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 3." A gripping mystery.

TUESDAY, JULY 16

"THE ETERNAL LOVE," starring John Barrymore in a pulsating drama of dare-devil love in the great Alps. The picture is rich in spectacle and humor, and through it sweeps a deep spiritual love as the predominating note. Although the picture was actually photographed in Hollywood and in the Canadian Alps, it shows the marvels which can be accomplished by the motion picture photographer and constructing staff in reproducing the most accurate details of a foreign setting. Barrymore is one of the few Americans who has a certificate from the Swiss government for his feat in climbing Mount Blanc. He personally passed on all settings for authenticity. It is a story of terrific passions, thrills, suspense, and gaiety.

"Lucky Dog." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 17

"HOT STUFF," starring Alice White with Louise Fazenda in a very sex-cessful dramatization of the parlor sheik on the college campus. Alice plays the part of the hottest little campus flirt that every gave a "great necker" the frozen stare. Louise Fazenda inserts most laughable comedy punches. The story concerns the adventures of a gay group of college students, and particularly of a boy and a girl who pretend that they are worse than they really are.

"M. G. M. News No. 94."

THURSDAY, JULY 18

"THE HOUSE OF HORRORS," featuring William V. Mong, Louise Fazenda, Chester Conklin, and Thelma Todd in a tense mystery play which teems with comedy. A great blue diamond, known to be hidden in the antique shop of a miserly collector, is the object which draws the people implicated into one common battle ground amid the weirdest of weird surroundings. If you enjoy thrills, comedy and baffling mystery, this picture will give you a treat.

"All Star Freaks." Curiosity.

FRIDAY, JULY 19

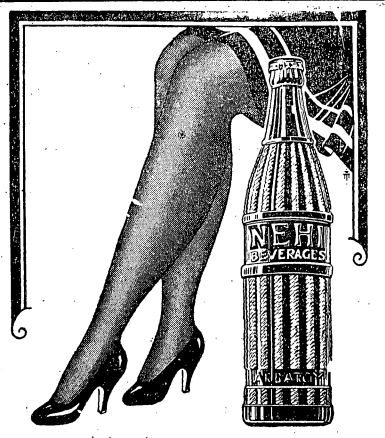
"THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH," starring Larry Kent and Dorothy Sebastian in a stirring story of the prize ring and classy society. It concerns an unknown youth's rise to fame. Starting as a sailor who spends his off hours sparring with whatever fighter comes along he reaches the height of a Gene Tunney, and like him gains the opportunity to marry into society and wealth. The big fight scene is very gripping. The romance theme is absorbing. The final outcome of the story is pleasing.

"Pathe News No. 57."

MUSICAL TREAT AT MAIN THEATRE

"The Pagan Love Song," by Nacio Herb Brown, the theme song of the motion picture entitled "The Pagan," is one of the most hauntingly beautiful pieces of music that has been produced in years. It is that type of catchy romance imbued song which not only enthralls the listener during its rendition, but also so impresses itself upon his memory that he leaves the scene with the strains of its captivating melody persistently coursing through his mind. Though the song concerns the weird gods which the South Sea Islanders worship with their strange rites, it contains none of the barbaric, but can be characterized as a melodious combination of Oriental and Hawaiian music.

A special orchestration of this song has been procured for the use of the Main Theatre Orchestra on the night of July 14th when the motion picture, "The Pagan," will be shown. The orchestra, under the able direction of Sergeant Ralph R. Wright, will hold several rehearsals of this music, and contemplates giving the audience a rear musical thrill on this occasion.



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

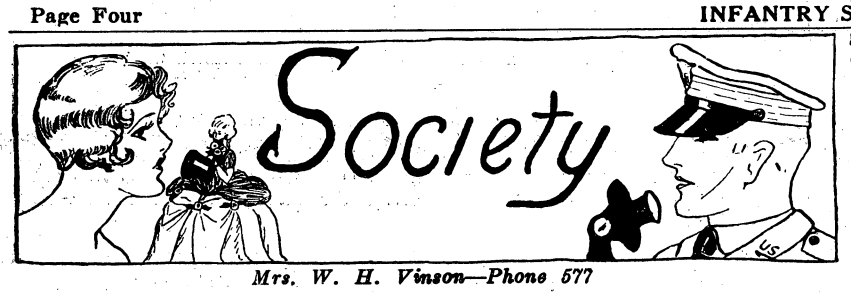
Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

General and Mrs. George C. Shaw leave next Monday afternoon by rail for California. They will go the Southern route by New Orleans, and upon arriving at San Diego, General Shaw will take command of Fort Rosecrans. Their many friends at Benning regret that their sojourn at this garrison has been so short. It is the ambition of every officer to win such recognition as Gen. Shaw has won, but with honors come inevitable responsibilities and moves! May happiness go with them.

* * *

Major-General and Mrs. J. D. Leitch, of San Francisco, are being charmingly entertained as the guests of their son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. McClure. On the Fourth of July Capt. and Mrs. McClure complimented their distinguished guests with a very delightful dinner party at the Log Cabin. Gay lanterns, reminiscent of glamorous nights spent in China and Japan, hung from the branches of the trees that so appropriately surrounded the rustic cabin. Within, quantities of brilliant summer flowers were arranged in bowls and baskets. The guests were seated at one long table which was overlaid with fillet and had for its centerpiece a low bowl filled with pink and lavender flowers, zinnias, buddlea and dahlias. Lavender tapers, burning in crystal holders, completed the decorations. Covers were laid for fifteen and those present were: General and Mrs. Leitch; Col. and Mrs. Brandt, Major and Mrs. Patch, Major and Mrs. Truman Smith, Major and Mrs. Cook, Capt. and Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. McClure. Capt. McClure, being away helping to win another polo game (at Fort McPherson), was unable to be present.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Paul J. MacDonnell and family left Sunday, July 7, for a visit to relatives in Illinois before going to Fort Leavenworth where Maj. MacDonnell will be a student.

* * *

Mrs. John H. Oliver and her daughter, Miss Olive Oliver, of Indianapolis, Ind., are guests of Lt. and Mrs. Joseph B. Daugherty. Mrs. Daugherty was before her marriage, Miss Martha Oliver. Her father, the late Dr. John H. Oliver, a most distinguished surgeon, was the brother of Col. Robert Oliver of the Dental Corps, father of Lt. Robert C. Oliver now on duty with the 83rd F. A. Mrs. Oliver and Miss Oliver have been complimented with a number of delightful informal affairs since their arrival here.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Charles W. Ryder and children leave July 15th for a month's fishing trip in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico. They will make Panama City, Fla., their headquarters and go out in their boat from there.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Elam L. Stewart have gotten established in the new home in the city for the coming year. Lt. Stewart goes soon to Camp Perry where he will be on duty and Mrs. Stewart and "Buddy" go to Paxton, Ill., where they will make an extended visit to her parents. In October her mother and father expect to celebrate their golden wedding day and she will remain until after this memorable anniversary.

* * *

Miss Elizabeth Bowers, who has been the popular guest of Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Steel, has gone to Chattanooga, and after a visit there she will go to her home in Richmond, Va. Miss Catherine Steel has gone with her cousin and will remain as her guest till the middle of August.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Albert S. Peake leave this week for a most delightful two months leave. They are going to motor to California taking the trip leisurely and enjoying the many places of interest along the way. In San Francisco they will be guests of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Tobin.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. William R. Bent and little Miss Mary Bent, left Thursday for Boston. They are motoring in their new Nash.

* * *

Radium Springs, a charming place near Albany, Ga., is being visited by quite a number of army people who like to take a pleasant day's outing. It takes approximately three hours to drive down. There you find a most beautiful place to swim, an excellent golf course and other attractions. The long moss garlanded from the live oaks, and the crystal water as it rushes in a river from the bottomless blue spring to join the Flint River nearby will charm every visitor, though he does nothing but look.

* * *

Friends are congratulating Maj. and Mrs. Thomas F. Taylor on the birth of a new daughter.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Frank Green and children left today for a months trip. Major Green will take some special Red Cross work in Chattanooga and the family will go from Chattanooga by rail to Cleveland, Ohio, where Mrs. Green's brother will meet them and take them by motor to Talmadge, Ohio, where they will be his guests. They will stop enroute for a little visit with Mrs. Edith K. March in Canton, Ohio. Mrs. March has many friends here, having spent the winter with her son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Kenneth March. On the Green's return, they will visit Mammoth Cave in Kentucky.

* * *

Mrs. Frank Caffey was hostess to two tables of bridge at her quarters on Wednesday afternoon.

* * *

Miss Agnes Caffey who has been the feted visitor of her brother and sister, Capt. and Mrs. B. F. Caffey, left Monday for a visit to St. Louis; from there she will go to Denver before returning to her home in Salt Lake City.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Joseph B. Daugherty have named their little daughter Julia Anderson.

* * *

As a special courtesy to Mrs. J. D. Leitch, Mrs. Alfred Brandt was hostess at bridge at her quarters on Austin Loop on Thursday morning.

* * *

On July 10th at Evanston, Ill., a baby girl, Julia Patricia, was born to Lt. and Mrs. A. A. McNamee. This baby is the granddaughter of Major and Mrs. Laurence W. Young.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. James E. Macklin entertained at a very original treasure hunt on Wednesday evening of last week. The guests dressed as kids and Mother Goose rhymes were used to designate partners and also to give clues to treasure trails. Miss Paula Brown, of Washington, D. C., the guest of her brother, Lt. R. H. Brown, and Lt. Dudley Stricklen found the treasure. About thirty people were included in this interesting party.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. Frank L. McCoy have as their house guest Mrs. McCoy's niece, Miss Louise Willis, of Atlanta. She will be with them for two weeks.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. E. T. Jones and Mr. Harold Jones leave next Monday for a month's visit to relatives in Des Moines and Mason City, Iowa.

* * *

Mrs. Charles J. Mabbutt honored Mrs. A. J. Nichols with a lovely farewell bridge luncheon at her home on Lumpkin Road on Wednesday morning, June 26.

* * *

Capt. L. C. Beebe came over from Macon on Wednesday afternoon to spend the Fourth of July with his family.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Tom Stark left Thursday for Hot Springs where Lt. Stark will take treatment.

* * *

Complimenting Major-General and Mrs. J. D. Leitch, Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis entertained charmingly at dinner at their quarters on Austin Loop on Friday evening, June 28th. Covers were laid for Gen. and Mrs. Leitch, Maj. and Mrs. Patch, Capt. and Mrs. McClure, Capt. and Mrs. Rogers, Maj. Jones. After dinner the guests played Minoru.

* * *

Major Robert H. Fletcher has as his guests, his father and mother, Capt. and Mrs. R. H. Fletcher, Sr.

* * *

The many friends of Mrs. J. Lawton Collins sympathize with her in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Edmund P. Easterbrook, wife of Col. Easterbrook, Chief of Chaplains, whose death occured recently at Walter Reed Hospital.

(Continued on page 5.)

Let us make your clothes look like new

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2

JARDINETTES

A colorful gift that's different and new—particularly suitable for your flower loving friend, and appropriate for bridge prizes.

Can be used for cut flowers or small growing plants.

Three sizes, Assorted colors.

98c

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355-356

Summer Fashions

Must be Cleared!

July clearance prices will do it.

Every department of the store is offering special items.

Have you attended?

Kirven's

ESTABLISHED 1876

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Additional Society

(Continued from page 4.)

Mrs. Easterbrook often visited her son and daughter here and was generally beloved by all who were so fortunate as to know her.

* * *

Mrs. William McElhinney, who has been the feted guest of her son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. A. B. Helsley, for the past six weeks left Saturday for her home in Detroit.

* * *

Capt. Ernest S. Barker left last week for Macon where he will join Mrs. Barker for a short visit to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Rogers and later they will motor to New Jersey for a longer visit to his parents. Washington, New York, and other points of interest will be included in their itinerary.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Louis B. Knight and little daughter, Anne, motored to Daytona Beach, Fla., last week. Mrs. Knight and Anne will remain for the summer. They are sharing a cottage with friends from Columbus.

* * *

Mrs. Daniel G. Berry and small daughters have gone to Asheville, N. C., for the summer months.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McCoy, Sr., of Oxford, Ga., spent a few days last week as the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Frank L. McCoy. On Saturday they left for Montgomery where they will make a short visit to their son, Lt. Wendell McCoy, of the Air Corps.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Jesse Ladd and sons, Frederick and Jim, have motored to Bowling Green, Ohio, where they will spend their two months leave with Mrs. Ladd's relatives.

Miss Dorothy Gilhus left Tuesday morning for Camp Keystone near Brevard, N. C., where she will spend the two months camping season. It is at Camp Keystone, and not at Eagle Nest's Camp, that Miss Helen Young is riding instructor.

Christopher Pearson, eighteen months old son of Lt. and Mrs. Frederick Pearson of the 29th Infantry died on Thursday, June 27th, at the station hospital after an illness of several weeks. The little fellow had apparently recovered from his first illness and was doing nicely when he was suddenly taken seriously ill again. A valiant fight was made for his life but after three blood transfusions, he failed to rally. He was a dear, bright, little fellow, and his going leaves an ache in the hearts of those who have watched him grow. Almost every day he was seen in his cart having his little outing around Block 33 and 23 accompanied by his devoted mother and little sister, Anne. His remains were carried to Missouri for interment. The many friends of Lt. and Mrs. Pearson sympathize with them in their sorrow.

MANY QUALIFY IN LIFE SAVING TESTS

Since the opening of the swimming season much activity has been manifested in life saving here, according to reports from the Red Cross field director's office, through which are constantly passing test sheets, examiner's reports and records from various members of the garrison who are becoming proficient in life saving work.

Various ranks and organizations are represented by the following partial list of officers and enlisted men who have qualified:

Major T. S. Arms, special examiner.
Capt. Malcolm Fortier, examiner.
Lieut. Wayne C. Smith.
Sgt. Emanuel Flowers, examiner, 15th Tank Bn.
Sgt. G. A. Gilbert, 15th Tank Bn.
Sgt. G. C. Hicks, 15th Tank Bn.
Pvt. Wylie Buchanan.
Pvt. Edward J. Hinton, 15th Tank Bn.
Pvt. Armand Parr, 15th Tank Bn.
Pvt. Curmit Thetford, 15th Tank Bn.

Young people of the Post who have passed the senior life saving test are:

Leonard Abbott, Richard King, William Yarborough, Albert Abbott and Edward Bechtold.

Those who have passed the junior test are: Anne Hall and Lyndale Wescott.

In addition to Major Arms, who is a special examiner, Miss Katherine Kingman has been recommended for examiner for work at Camp Dixie, Clayton, Georgia.

Life saving personnel developed at Fort Benning since its inception eight or nine years ago, has, according to Major Green, been scattered throughout the United States and its foreign possessions.

Instruction is available at the pool under the direction of Lieut. Wayne C. Smith.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Read the Ads in The News

Newest Bridge Sets

POST EXCHANGE

SPECIAL ORDER DEPT.

Fort Benning, Ga.

"When you buy quality you are investing.. when you buy cheapness you are spending."

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"
Established 1860

K&P
KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Rices, Grits, Milks, Chocolates Cocoa

Always Fresh

C. D. Kenny Co.
1139 Broadway
PHONE 162

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

Save on Motorists' Needs During Our Nation-Wide Sale

Hydraulic Jacks

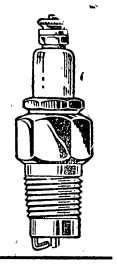
$3.65

Here's greater power to lift your car with less effort—at lower cost! Capacity, 3000 pounds.

Spark Plugs

.67

A C and Champions. Have your car equipped with the kind of plugs that champions use.



WRENCH SETS

36 pieces. Steel, heat treated and hardened $3.45

SEAT COVERS

Decorate your car at small cost! Striped fabric $4.85

Prices Reduced!

ALLSTATE TIRES AND TUBES

Balloons

Size	Tire	Tube
28x4.75	$8.35	$1.48
28x5.25	9.75	1.68
29x4.40	6.10	1.23
29x4.75	8.45	1.48
30x4.50	6.98	1.23
30x4.75	8.75	1.55

Cords

Size	Tire	Tube
30x3 Clincher	$4.95	$0.98
30x3½ Regular Clincher	5.25	1.10
30x3½ Oversize Clincher	5.35	1.10
30x3½ S. S.	6.85	1.10

OTHER SIZES PRICED CORRESPONDINGLY LOW!

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. July 12, 1929 No. 43

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

UNFAITHFUL

It is said that British army traditions were severely shocked a few weeks ago when a Scots Guard was charged with abandoning his post and deserting. Despite his plea that he was walking in his sleep when the offense was committed, the guardsman was found guilty and sentenced to confinement in a civil prison and to be discharged with ignominy.

The traditions of our own army are no less outraged by the defection of one of its members.

That disgruntled men do desert from our army is an unpleasant fact which we must face along with other realities of life, but the regrettable and misguided actions of these few affect more deeply our faith in the individual than they do our concern for the stability and loyalty of our army.

A great many theories have been advanced and a great many studies have been made in efforts to find and correct the causes of desertion.

After all is said and done, however, it is certain that the army is better rid of the disloyal man who violates the sanctity of the solemn oath which he takes upon entering the service.

Swift certain and severe punishment should overtake the deserter and the army should speed him on his way with a farewell "good riddance to bad rubbish."

GOOD-BYE, MULE!

The announcement that one of our infantry regiments soon will be able to move without the aid of a single horse or mule is of particular interest at this time when so much attention is being devoted to the subjects of mechanization and motorization.

That the development of all types of motor transportation will affect army organization is inevitable; it only remains to be seen whether mechanically propelled vehicles will be as reliable under the test of battle conditions as they now are in ordinary use.

When war begins, roads in the battle area cease to exist. Motor vehicles to be satisfactory for army use, must be able to traverse the shell-torn ground and the seas of mud which characterize the modern battlefield.

These conditions did not deter the horse or mule in the World War and animal-drawn transportation was able to deliver its guns or cargoes in many cases over areas which proved to be impassable for motor vehicles.

But in the decade which has passed since the close of the war, great improvements have been made in motor transportation and many believe that it has been developed to such a degree that its reliability under battle conditions is no longer doubtful.

We have a deep and abiding affection for our faithful horses and mules. They have fought in many wars and helped to win many battles; we regret to see them go, but we fear that they are on their way to elimination.

Do not jump from the actual of today to the theoretical of tomorrow. Do not forget that one role of our army is to be prepared to fight now, not ten years hence.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

ROACHES AND HOW TO DESTROY THEM

Roaches are among the commonest and most offensive of the insects which frequent human habitations. They belong to a very extensive family, comparatively few of which, fortunately, have been domesticated. They are essentially inhabitants of warm countries and in the tropics the number of house species is very numerous. In the climate of Fort Benning there are four or five species commonly found. The house roaches of today were undoubtedly very early associated with man in his primitive dwellings, and through the agency of commerce have been carried to all quarters of the globe.

In houses, roaches are particularly numerous in pantries and kitchens, especially in the neighborhood of ranges or fireplaces on account of the warmth. For the same reason they are often abundant in the oven rooms of bakeries. They conceal themselves during the day behind baseboards or furniture or wherever security and partial protection from the light are afforded. It may often happen that their presence, at least in the abundance with which they occur, is hardly realized by the housekeeper unless they are surprised while feeding at night. Roaches feed on almost any meat products, cereals and food materials of all sorts. They will also eat or gnaw woolens, leather (as of shoes or furniture) and frequently are the cause of extensive damage to the cloth and leather binding of books. The sizing or paste used on cloth covers and in the binding of books is very attractive to them. The damage that they do is not only in the products actually consumed but the soiling of everything with which they come in contact. They leave a sickening "roachy" odor which can only be removed by soap and hot water. Often food served in improperly washed dishes will be found to have a peculiarly disgusting taste, the source of which may be a puzzle and which is naturally supposed to come from the food rather than from the dishes. Roaches are undoubtedly often spread from house to house by being introduced with supplies, furniture, goods, etc., but they are also known to migrate in great numbers under cover of darkness, which accounts for the way in which new houses frequently become suddenly overrun with these pests.

There are three common types of roach found at Fort Benning, two additional types being less frequently found. The commonest by far and at the same time the most troublesome is the small roach sometimes called the waterbug since it is capable of being transported by the pressure of water for long distances through the pipes without injury. This insect is rarely more than five-eighths of an inch long. It is a most agile pest and multiplies with great rapidity. The next most common roach is the large red, so-called "American roach." It is not so numerous as the "water-bug" type, but is probably the most objectionable of all types since it is particularly active in warm climates, such as this one, and has powerful wings so that it may fly from place to place. The third type is known as the "Australian roach" since it was introduced into this country from Australia. It resembles the American roach but the two are rarely found in the same house as the more numerous type will drive out the less numerous. Thus one house may harbor one type and the neighboring house the other.

Roaches appear to be unusually well endowed with ability to guard themselves against enemies, displaying great intelligence in keeping out of the way of the irate housekeeper and in avoiding food or other substances which have been poisoned for their destruction. There are three methods for the control of roaches. These are: (1) poisons and repellants; (2) fumigation; and (3) trapping.

One of the most effective simple means of ridding premises of roaches is dusting with commercial sodium flouride, either pure or diluted one-half strength with flour. With the use of a dust gun or blower the sodium flouride can be dusted over shelves, tables, floors, runways and other hiding places of roaches. The immediate effect is to cause the insects to come out of their retreats and rush about more or less blindly, showing evidence of discomfort, to be followed in the course of a few hours by their death. These dead or paralyzed roaches can be swept up and burned.

Sodium flouride is probably the best of the powders and, as well as borax, enters into the composition of many of the so-called "roach powders." Phosphorous paste is an effective roach poison but should not be used in households where there are little children or pets as all phosphorous pastes are deadly poison when taken internally. The various gases used in fumigation are highly effective, but are not recommended for private dwellings on account of the dangers attending their use by unskilled persons. Besides this the many wooden buildings of Fort Benning are hard to make air tight, and unless this be done fumigation cannot be satisfactory. Some of the gases are explosive when mixed with the air. Various forms of traps have been employed successfully. A simple form of trap consists of any deep vessel or jar, against which a number of sticks are placed and bent over so that they project into the interior of the vessel for a few inches. The vessel is partly filled with stale beer, a liquid for which roaches seem to have a special fondness. In the morning these vessels are found charged with great quantities of dead or dying roaches, which have climbed up the inclined sticks and slipped off into the vessel. This trap however is found to be worthless against the wary water-bug, though most efficient in the capture of the large roaches.

Next week's subject: "Soda Water and Other Iced Drinks."

SEVEN SWIMMING DON'TS

(1) Don't go in swimming alone unless you are an expert.

(2) Don't swim immediately after eating; wait at least two hours.

(3) Don't swim if overheated.

(4) Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

(5) Don't continue swimming when exhausted.

(6) Don't wade into water with your arms above your head. You will not be in readiness to stroke should you step into a hole.

(7) Don't struggle if caught in a swift current or undertow. The force of the current will bring you to the surface.

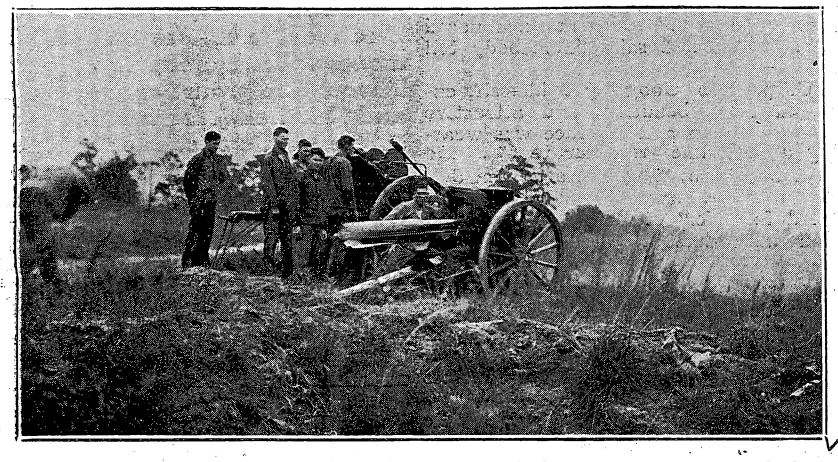
Flies and cockroaches frequently carry germs of disease and leave them on food and other articles over which they are walking.

When we speak of personal hygiene we refer to those precautions which every man can take in his own efforts to prevent disease and thus keep himself at all times in the best possible physical condition.

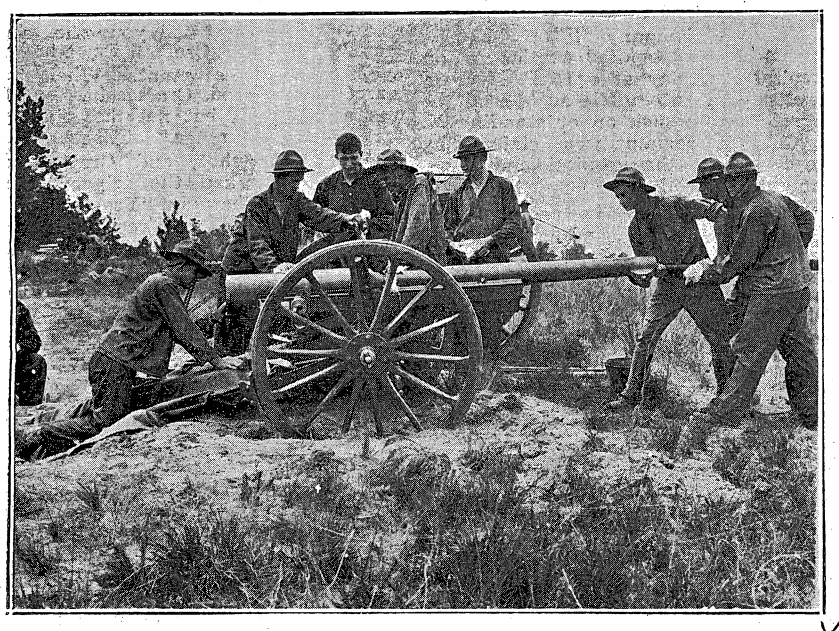
Hygiene means, in plain terms, the art of keeping in good health.

Reserve Officers Training Corps in Camp at Fort Benning

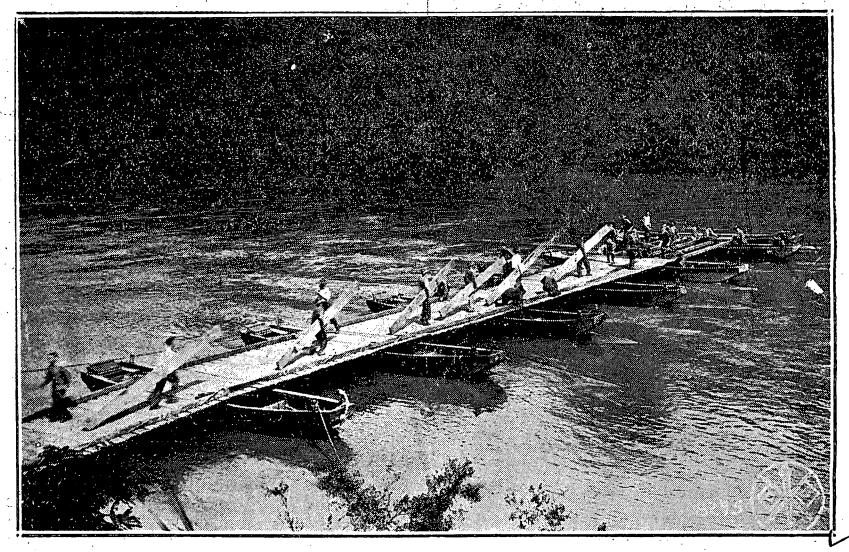
Class of future battery commanders learning how to use the battery commander's telescope.



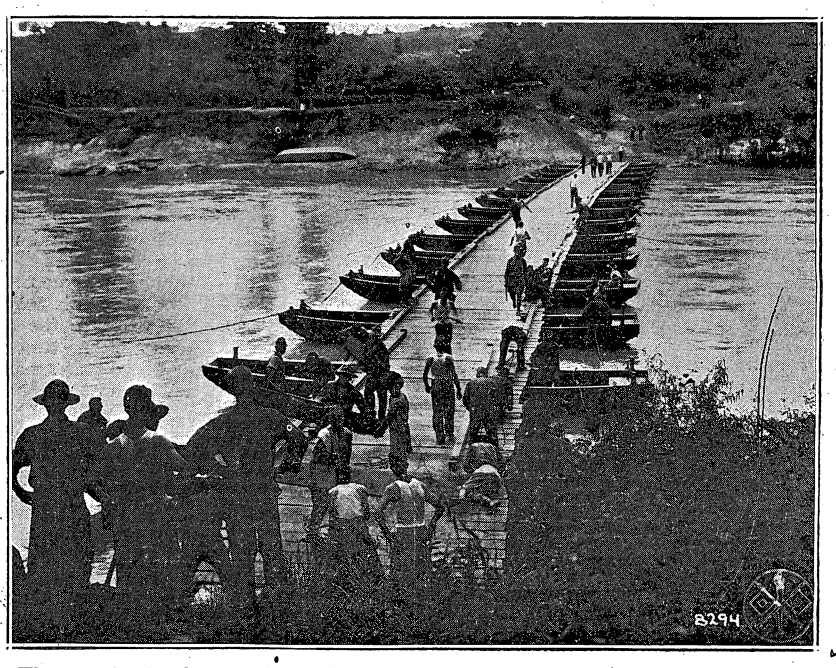
In action! Student artillerymen firing one of the 75 m. m. guns of the 83d Field Artillery.



R. O. T. C. gun crew from a field artillery unit swabbing and cleaning a gun after firing.



R. O. T. C. engineers building pontoon bridge across the Chattahoochee River, which is 330 feet wide at this point.



The nearly finished bridge. Sixty-five young students constructed the bridge and had it completed in forty-five minutes.

R. O. T. C. TRACK MEET

Last Saturday, at Doughboy Stadium, the R. O. T. C. held their track and field meet. The meet had many high lights, and was well attended by the garrison.

The first-place winners counted five points for their organization, second place three and third place one.

The results follow:

Half Mile—1st, Teague, F. A.; 2nd, Wilson, Eng.; 3rd, Treverton, Ord. & S. C.

Broad Jump—1st, Burnett, Eng.; 2nd, Ward, F. A.; 3rd, Armstrong, R. A., Eng.

220 Yard Dash—1st, McHenry, F. A.; 2nd, Granger, F. A.; 3rd, McClendon, F. A.

Quarter Mile—1st, McClendon, F. A.; 2nd, Granger, F. A.; 3rd, Teague, F. A.

High Jump—1st, Burnett, Eng.; 2nd, Cliage, F. Art.; 3rd, McHenry, F. A.

100 Yard Dash—1st, McHenry, F. A.; 2nd, Granger, F. A.; 3rd, Burnett, Eng.

Shot Put—1st, Goldin, Ord. & S. C.; 2nd, Sagle, F. A.; 3rd, Saborn, F. A.

Mile Run—1st, Teague, F. A.; 2nd, Treverton, Org. & S. C..; 3rd, Wilson, Eng.

Grand Total—(Points Scored) Artillery, 67; Engineers, 28; Ord. & S. C., 13.

R. O. T. C. ON HIKE

The units comprised in the R. O. T. C. battalion at Fort Benning this summer, are now on a four-day hike.

The field artillery will march from place to place, taking four days for the march. Their principal camps will be at Ochillee and Harp's Pond.

The engineers will build a bridge at Harp's Pond while in camp there. Recently, they built a pontoon bridge across the Chattahoochee about one hundred and ten yards in length. Sixty-five men did this job in forty-five minutes.

The signal units will also be encamped at Harp's Pond. They are to keep in constant touch with the other units by radio nets and wire communication.

The ordnance unit will accompany the artillery on its march, and will attend to the upkeep of the motor vehicles. They will repair all artillery material, and perform the usual duties of an ordnance unit.

The command of the organizations will be rotated among the student personnel, from the company commanders down to the squad leaders. The officers in charge of the camp here this summer and those on duty there, will act as umpires and the real maneuvering of the units will be left to the students.

They will all return here Saturday, and will hold their graduation exercises next Wednesday. At the graduation exercises, the students will be presented with training certificates, and those eligible will be given their commissions in the reserve.

Map maneuvers are exercises in which a military operation, with opposing sides, is conducted on a map, the troops and military establishments being represented by markers which are moved to represent the maneuvering of the troops on the ground. Map maneuvers may be either one-sided or two sided.

DOCTOR KNAPP VISITS CAMP

Doctor Bradford Knapp, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, located at Auburn, Alabama, was a visitor at the Fort Benning R. O. T. C. camp last Sunday.

Doctor Knapp has always been interested in the military training in the land grant colleges of the United States. Due to the fact that he had to attend a meeting of the National Educational Association in Atlanta Saturday, he could not visit the camp on visitors' day. On Sunday, Doctor Knapp made a special trip to Fort Benning to visit the camp.

That morning, he inspected the R. O. T. C. area and had dinner with the students in their mess hall where an unusually delicious dinner was served.

In the afternoon he played golf on the Fort Benning course, and in the evening, had supper with the students in their mess. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the neatness of the camp, its neat construction, and the training program that the students were pursuing. He made special mention of the fine healthy physical condition manifest in all the students.

He also stated that he was favorably impressed with the beauty and general appearance of the Infantry School.

29TH INF.

DEATH OF SGT. STOTTS

Headquarters
TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY
Office of Regimental Commander
Fort Benning, Ga.,
July 9, 1929.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 29.

:

Death of Sergeant LeRoy Stotts, "F" Company, 29th Infantry.

1. It is with deep regret that the commanding officer announces the death of Sergeant Leroy Stotts, "F" Company, 29th Infantry, at the station hospital, Fort Benning, Georgia, on July 6, 1929.

2. Sergeant Stotts was born at Ardmore, Oklahoma, October 17, 1901. He first entered the military service in 1920, and up to the time of his death had the following service:

Company "F," 29th Infantry, 11-4-20 to 4-15-24. Corporal, character excellent.

Company "F," 29th Infantry, 4-16-24 to 4-16-27. Sergeant, character excellent.

Company "F," 29th Infantry, 4-16-27 to 7-6-29.

3. First placed on duty in Company "F," 29th Infantry in 1920, Sergeant Stotts remained continuously with the company until his untimely death. In his performance of duty he was painstaking, conscientious, and loyal, and by his conduct at all times he set an example which well may be followed by those who were associated with him in the military service. He was held in the highest regard by the many officers and men who had served with him in this regiment, and his passing has brought sorrow to all those who know him.

By order of Colonel Pendleton:
CARL M. ULSAKER,
Captain, 29th Infantry,
Assistant Adjutant.

TEN JOIN TWENTY-NINTH

Ten recruits have been assigned to the 29th Infantry during the past week. Five come from Florida; two from Georgia; and one each from Louisiana, Tennessee and South Carolina.

Their names and addresses follow:

Oscar F. Jackson, 469 Humphrey St., Nashville, Tenn.

Walter Lucas, Patterson, Georgia.

Ernest J. Miles, Route No. 3, Blythewood, S. C.

Werner Valtin, 631 Osceola, Ave., Winter Park, Fla.

Frank M. Groover, Bradford, Fla.

Charlie A. Morrison, Frostproof, Fla.

William S. Larkin, Route "A," Dade City, Fla.

Durward W. Pyle, 502 Evans St., Bainbridge, Ga.

William R. Francis, Route No. 3, Box No. 36, Many, La.

Joseph A. Stockstill, 300 Laurel St., Sarasota, Fla.

Headquarters Company

Headquarters Company lost the first game of the season in the post baseball league to the 17th Ordnance by the score of 15-8. In the first inning, with Murphy pitching, errors allowed four runs to be scored, and again in the sixth, errors scored four more. Then in the seventh, with two out and two on, the spirit of Babe Ruth, entered the batter and he socked one to the rose bushes for a home run. After tying the score at 8 all in the fifth, it began to look like a ball game, but only for a short time. It is said that a bad start means a good ending, and if so, we have certainly gotten off to a wonderful ending, having made enough errors in one game to last the entire season.

When chow call went Sunday night, a much more concentrated rush was noticed on the mess-hall door, and on investigation, it was found that it was caused by the fact that Pvt. Walden had returned from furlough. He reports a fine time, good pickings, and an extra large case of those far famed furlough blues.

Company "B"

Cpl. Sam Hattaway who was discharged July 1st, re-enlisted and is now on his re-enlistment furlough. Welcome back "Happy"; for some time we were afraid you would leave us

Private First-Class Robert G. Johnson was recently appinted Corporal. Luck to you old boy, we're glad to see you make it.

Privates Blackstone, Grass, Pearce, Rushing, and Walden were appointed privates first class, Luck to all of you, our future non-commissioned officers.

Company "C"

The personnel of this organization were deeply grieved over the tragic and sudden death of Pfc. Theodore R. Chaquette who lost his life while swimming Sunday in the garrison swimming pool. He was liked by all members of the Company, and we all joined in sending his mother our sincere condolences and sympathy in her bereavement.

Cpl. Creekmore has just returned from a ninety-day furlough spent in the wide open spaces of Ohio and Tennessee. We are all glad to have Creekmore back with us for three more years.

Pfc Guy C. Rhodes returned last week from furlough which he spent in the city of Greenville, S. C., "The Textile Center of The South," and reported that all was well.

We are wondering why a certain young corporal always carries his toilet articles with him when he goes for an auto ride. How about it, long timer?

Our well known friend, Sergeant d'Entremont has figured out a way of saving his money. He states that watermelon and wine do not mix very well, so, in the future he is buying watermelons, as they are cheaper. A very good idea, I'll say.

Company "C" will soon be like a page out of a history book. We now have with us the original "Four Horsemen," they enlisted under the monikers of Earl "Cracker" Aiken, Julian "Pug" Dey, Walter "Useless" Bennett and Joseph "Big Liz" Grahl. One for all and all for one. Let McFarland have the rest.

Sergeant Decuir was discharged per E. T. S. Saturday and decided that he was a glutton for punishment, so the young man stuck his right mitt in the air for three more. We are glad to have you with us for another one, Al.

If the number of times Earl Aiken said he was going to buy out were laid end to end, he would have a big farm to go back to when he did buy out.

Will somebody please tell me why our one and only B. L. can't get along with Piccalo? They have been hugging one another with brick bats for the past few days. J. A. D.

Company "D"

Well, the annual range session is drawing near. Company "D" qualified one hundred per cent last year and we are hoping to have some more experts and sharpshooters this season.

Cpl. Tiner has returned from a visit to his home, and stated that his best girl had entered the halls of matrimony with his rival. We are afraid that Cpl. Tiner is through with Dan Cupid forever.

Sgt. McGaha, our veteran base ball pitcher, is out again this season with the 1st Bn. team, and we are sure that the Sgt. will show his pep, and make a big hit this season. We wish you luck Sgt.

Pvt. Lester B. Gordon, the famous African domino player, is spending his leisure time with his girl in Columbus. I am sure that Pvt. Gordon is looking for a good cook and a bright future

Company "E"

Company "E" is still on the range, firing, and will complete firing next week. We are expecting to be the high company in the regiment the way they are shooting. We have the individual high score on the range at the present time, Sgt. New, 330.

Pfc. Bill Steiner, our efficient hall orderly, who made 289, has made a record cleaning rifles since he tired, having cleaned four rifles every day since the company has been firing on the range.

We are sorry to state that one of our promising young shots Pvt. Lea has been taken to the hospital on the eve of firing for record.

It is said Pvt. Lea and Corp. Shanks had a few words and Corp. Shanks said, "I have a good mind to knock your block off." Lea at once posed as a boxer, and said, "Somebody tell him to hit me." He did.

Corp. Bob Googe got himself engaged to a beautiful and attractive young woman and his face was wearing a big smile from ear to ear. He says to Poisso, "I've got a million dollar girl." Poisso says, "You're sure fixed for life." Googe says, "No, no, you misunderstand. That's the upkeep."

Pvt. Noble Davis and Edwin Hingle were down town payday spreading a little joy, dining at one of the swell restaurants. They were conversing on the poor supper when the waitress overhearing the conversation, started to do some toe dancing. She said, "We haven't a very good supper tonight, so I though I'd put on a little floor show to help please you." Oh Boy.

I. M. Y.

Company "F"

Sgt. Leroy Stotts died at the station hospital Saturday at 4:15 P. M. as a result of an automobile accident. We regret to lose such an outstanding N. C. O. The remains were claimed by his father at the hospital and taken home for burial.

Lt. Mckenzie has been transferred to the 17th Infantry, and left by motor by the way of Texas for his new post in Nebraska. We hope you will like it there, Lieutenant. We will sure miss you here.

We have a new NCO in the Co. now. PFC. John McCoy was promoted to corporal last week. We are always glad to see a good man get along.

Well, group "B" is firing on the range now, and will soon start for record. Hope we do as well as group "A" did.

Another old timer was assigned to this company in the last replacements. Hope you do well, Michell.

Well, the inevitable has happened. Pvt. LaRue passed inspection the other day without getting his name taken.

Company "G"

If you want to find the C. O. of the company, he will be up on the firing line coaching Pvts. Brown, A. or Brown, E. L. The Browns aren't doing so well but they should get over. However, if they don't it will not be the captain's fault.

Private Craft coaching Sgt. Sherman at 200 yds. said, "Call your shot sergeant." "All right Craft, it was a bull's-eye," said the sergeant. When the target was marked, Craft said, "Les it was a bull's-eye, but not the kind we ask for on the range." The sergeant fired another shot, and Craft said, "Why you jerked the trigger, Sergeant!" Sgt. Sherman, "Yes and you'll be going on the sick report, if you don't get away from here." Private Craft said, "All right, go ahead and shoot. I won't bawl you out any more, Sergeant."

The company is sure sorry to see Corp. Johanson go away. Joe keeps all the trees and flowers and grass in good shape and is well liked by all men in the company and regiment. He is an excellent soldier and a hard worker. Corp. Johanson is taking on for Governors Island, New York and we wish him the best of luck in his new outfit.

A certain young man from the 1st platoon was walking down the street in Columbus, with a couple of girls and they meet Corp. Craig, so Sgt. Notgrass gave Corp. Craig a knock down to the dolls and Craig said, "I am glad to meet you girls on this special occasion," and bowed. One of the girls

(Continued on page 9.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Canterbury edition, twenty-four volumes of Joseph Conrad. Excellent condition. $15.00 telephone 347.

LOST: Leather bill fold with sum of money and lodge cards. Suitable reward if returned to Master Sergeant J. G. Gullett, Hqs. 29th Infantry.

FOR SALE: Studebaker Sedan for $100. Major Hill. Phone 421.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

General Electric Fans

All Sizes

Post Exchange

SPECIAL ORDER DEPT.

Fort Benning, Ga.

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

We certainly don't feel bad over the loss of Sunday's baseball game to Tom Huston's Bandits. Those boys had everything it took to win the old ball game and that's that.

"Pop" Jansen served thirty years in the American Army and never let women worry him at all. "Pop" retired last Saturday and got married Saturday night. Friends who saw "Pop" and Mrs. Jansen off, say that they both were too happy for words.

After holding the record for being the first man in the chow hall at mess call, for three years, Corp. John Booth tripped and fell on the mess hall steps last Thursday and was nosed out by a hair by Sgt. "Germ" Rackert.

Plenty of fight in the Greencord infield this season. Mick McCarty catching, "Red" Jones, the pep and ginger boy on first, reinforced by the one and only "Shotgun" White at the keystone sack.

Dixon, the new infielder, certainly looked good Sunday. His batting is not so good but it won't take long for him to get his eye on the ball and when he does he will start hitting the old apple. His fielding is plenty good and paired with "Shotgun" at the middle station they will make a fast combination.

Warnie Beare, veteran Greencord, was discharged a few days ago and immediately took on another stack. This is a short stack and the last one as Warnie will retire from the service with thirty years of honest and faithful service to his credit, in September.

Should the Greencord baseball team fail to come through this season, it will not be because of non-support. Major Louis A. Falligant, detachment commander, has arranged for the members of the team to be off duty to attend practice each afternoon. There is no scarcity of equipment required for playing the game and it is now up to the team to step out and do its stuff.

Captain Brennen and his "wrecking crew," failed to stop the Hubbardmen at Swift Field last Sunday afternoon, but it was a battle that was not decided until the final out in the ninth.

Although "Wee" Grady Tolle was twirling against the home team last Sunday, his pitching soon had the sands giving him a big hand. The little Greencord was in great form and his slants and hook made several of Hubbard's star sluggers look real funny.

"Red" Jones narrowly avoided a serious calamity in Columbus last Monday night. He pulled a funny stunt that almost caused B. Swayze to kill himself laughing.

Besides issuing clothes and sending recruits scooting with a growl and a look, "Dad" Richardson is the champion rummy player of the Non-Com Club Rummy Circle.

Wonder what "Pop" Martin is feeding the Detachment food inhalers that causes them to leave the chow hall with a satisfied smile and a well filled disposition after each meal?

"Germ" Reichert tripped up Corp. Booth and beat him in the mess hall last Saturday. This is the first time on record that Booth has been second in the mess since he became a member of the Green, seven years ago.

For three long years Corp. J. Booth held the reputation of being the first man to enter the mess hall at chow-time. Devious ways and schemes were tried by many of the ambitious food inhalers of the detachment to be first, but always Corp. Booth lead the procession. To Sgt. Germ Rackert goes the honor of finally nosing out the corporal. On June 22, Corp. Booth took up his customary position at the chow-hall entrance, but alas, as the door opened Sgt. Germ did a perfect nose-dive between the corporal's legs and led the procession.

Cook Tony Tombrillo fell out the mess hall door last Friday. When Hook Wise ask him if he was hurt? He said, "No. I faw down go boom."

"Red" Jones and B. Swayze were reported for wasting beef few days ago. Nothing came of it when it was found that it was only b-ll.

29TH INFANTRY NOTES

(Continued from page 8.)

said to Sgt. Notgrass, "This man must be a soldier. Oh, how he can hold and sqeeze, he is on the range now."

This is what you hear under the big tent. "Keep away from the water can." "Some one wake Fischer up, he is next up on No. 29." Trascher sounding off next, "Say, cut that stuff out, how do you think I am going to sleep." "Hey, Corp. Wilson. come back and tell the bunch about the 47 off hand." Corp. Spires to Red Wilson: "Say how do you get them good scores standing, do you use a sandbag?" "No, Spires, that's just how the 2nd platoon fires and then it starts about the platoons."

WALKER SMITH DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL

The many friends and admirers of Walker Smith, better known as the "Louisiana Cyclone," will be glad to learn that he has fully recovered from the injury which confined him to the hospital some time ago, and will soon be back in action in the squared circle.

In his last fight here with Glenn Chancey, Smith received a blow on the head that later developed into a slight concussion. It was feared at first that this promising young army fighter would not be able to fight again but it is now assured that he will be back in battle trim within the next few weeks.

NOTES FROM COMPANY "A" 7TH ENGINEERS

After watching the Engineers clean up their first two games by wide margins, the baseball moguls of Benning have entered the boys in the battalion league for the second half. This move gives the team a chance for stiffer competition and an opportunity to take two cups in the 1929 campaign. Since the return of Sgt. Willard to the managerial role but one game has been dropped, and that a 2 to 1, ten inning pitchers duel in the second game of a double header across the river in Phenix City last Sunday.. The Americans were routed in the first game by a score of 10 to 3. Two home runs by Ike Briner featured this game. In the aftermath against the Pirates hitting was conspicuous by its absence. But seven hits were gathered off of Good while the Gin-ears nicked Massey for five.

Enthusiasm for tennis is increasing by leaps and bounds. Racquet wielding threatens to give baseball a close race for popularity in the company this summer. Perkins, Reeves, DeLozier, Julien, Cooper, Wade and a few others have taken to the game with a world of pep. A fine team could, and probably will, be formed from this group. Challenges to other companies can be expected at any moment.

The Fort Humphrey's Trophy, won by Sgt. Kingsbury in the Engineer Corps rifle matches is on its way from Fort DuPont and will soon be resting in the trophy case in the recreation room. Bulletins on the team elimination trials show Kingsbury well up toward the top of the list and in a good position for a closing rally that will clinch a place on the team that goes to Camp Perry.

Harkins was admitted to the station hospital Saturday night. The doctor mentioned appendicitis but we hope not. A tough break for Joe as his flower gardens are just beginning to bloom and after all the care he has taken of them it would be tough to miss them.

Sgt. Dailey, Corp. Philips, Pfc. Thompson and Arnold are in the field with the R. O. T. C. From the number of tools taken along it would seem as though the college boys were in for a period of construction work.

The stable looks natural again with Taylor back on his old job as mounted orderly. He received a big welcome from Jeb Stuart the captain's favorite mount.

R. B. R.

SERGEANT KINGSBURY

When the engineers started to picking their men for the engineer rifle team, Company "A," 7th Engineer was called on for candidates. Of those trying out at this station for qualifications, Sergeant Louis Kingsbury, Company "A," 7th Engineers was the only one sent to Fort Dupont, Deleware.

On June 19, 1929, Sergeant Kingsbury won first place in the individual matches at Fort Dupont, Deleware. Sergeant Kingsbury and Lieutenant Lane were tied for first place with a score of 145, (out of a possible 150) but the Fort Humphries Trophy was awarded Sergeant Kingsbury because of better grouping shots.

Besides being an excellent rifleman, Sergeant Kingsbury is an athlete of note at Fort Benning. In 1925 he played on the All Army football team, making for himself a name in that sport. He has played on the Infantry School baseball team, and with the team of his organization, "A," Company, 7th Engineers. In the recent track meet, he was the one-man track team of the same organization.

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
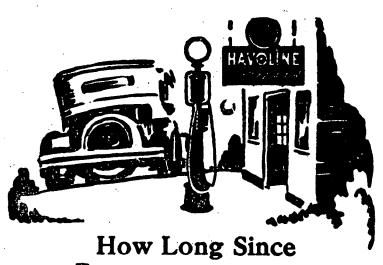
In Newest
Modes

LAMAR SMITH
Phone 3032 1131 Broadway



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.
Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

More People Ride on GOODYEAR TIRES than on any other kind
Come on Over See Why
Post Exchange Filling Station
Fort Benning Georgia

All Classes of Military Tailoring
Satisfaction Guaranteed
POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

WEARY WILLIE PTOMEY DEFEATS TONY TEDESCO IN FAST BOUT

Weary Willie Ptomey, the Iron Man, showed his mettle last Tuesday night when he decisively defeated the highly touted Tony Tedesco in one of the fiercest ring battles seen here for many moons. The tilt was modified murder from the opening gong. At no time did either of the lads show any inclination whatsoever not to fight.

In the eighth round, when they ran together, butting heads, Tedesco opened an old cut over Willie's eye, that bled profusely. The ring from then on looked more like a slaughter house than a fistic arena. While Tedesco had the ability to jab and cross, he was outclassed by the deftness of the Iron Man's anvil-like left and more formidable right. It truly can be said that Ptomey outgeneraled, outfought and outgamed the lad from the Lookout City. One is not to infer, however, that the Tooth Paste Man was not of the game sort. Boring in was his style, and so with the two of them agreeable on that count, one may close both eyes and imagine that the fight was of the highest type.

Blondy Parker, even though he had been slated to lose by the authorities of the game, fooled most of the fans in that he failed to show the old fighting spirit that he has displayed in the past few fights that he has had. It was sad, indeed, to see a man that we all know can hand the best of them a death-dealing blow, back away from an opponent and cause the referee to admonish them to fight. Rufus Miles was leading most of the time after the second round until the eighth. Rufus showed that the punch he is reputed to have, should remain good. He never showed it in that bout. About all that he showed was the ability to stage a marathon dancing contest, alone. That boy has good footwork, and likes for the fans to know it.

What caused Tedesco misery:

ROUND ONE

Both fighters danced briskly to the center of the ring and Tedesco led with a left to the chin, followed by two quick jabs from the same side. They danced away and Tony landed a solid left to Ptomey's body and they clinched as Willie shot a flashy left to Tedesco in the same place. They broke away and Ptomey's left went twice to the mug and back to the body and they clinched. Tedesco shot two quick lefts to the side of the head and was brought up short with a hard right to the head and danced away shooting a left to the face, yet he was unable to avoid the right from Potomey again, and he proceeded to exchange with the Iron Man at which game they broke about even. Tedesco broke away and landed two hard rights to the body and jabbed with a snake-like left and received one in return to the snoot. Ptomey shot a hard right to the head and they clinched momentarily, neither doing damage. They traded rights to the body and Willie landed a right hard to the head at the bell.

ROUND TWO

Willie landed a left to the jaw but missed an awful right and clinched. Willie jabbed with a left, took one in return and pushed over a left and a right to the solar plexus that was effective enough. Tedesco slipped a hard left to the head, and chopped with a right that did little damage, but gave ground to land a hard right and left to the face. Tedesco was slugging and landed three lefts to the head and body with a right to the mess hall. They traded lefts, and at another attempt at a swap of punches, Tony slipped over a hard right to the head. Willie shot a left to the body, two hard rights to the same place and kept his left in Tony's face until Tedesco bounced him off with a terrific right. Willie placed two rights at the bell.

ROUND THREE

Tedesco put over a one-two that was intended to have much effect, but looked surprised as he received a smart tap on the bugle for his pains. He received just three more of these in quick succession, and then marked up three for himself and held with his left hand while he shook the Iron Man with a hard right. Ptomey landed a one-two, received the same in return while Tedesco backed off and flicked a light left to the head for a feeler and landed a port side blow to the head that was heard on Jupiter, and rocked the said Willie with another one from the right. Willie got tired of this and waded in, slamming lefts and rights to the body, three of them in fact, and ended the round by swapping lefts with the Lookout City lad.

ROUND FOUR

Tedesco shot a left and right to the body, followed by a left to the face as they started the war again. Willie jabbed three times with his left and shot a right to the ribs and another to the head before anyone knew what it was all about. Tedesco retaliated with two light rights to the ribs, took two lefts in the face and landed two to the same place. Willie led with a left and led right into two lefts and a right. Just before the bell, Tedesco jabbed four times and crossed with a right at the bell.

ROUND FIVE

Tedesco opened with a left to the body and another to the head, after which both lads seemed to be coasting. Willie started the ball to rolling with a few light punches to the body, took two lefts to the face and threw caution to the winds to step in and hook one of those lefts to a resting place on Mr. Tedesco's ear, they clinched and were parted. They exchanged lefts and traded in close. Willie placed a left to the head and took a hard right to the snoot, a left to the same place and backed off punching with his left as Tedesco landed a left and right to the head. They clinched and broke away unaided by the third man of the ring and Willie landed a hard right to the head at the bell.

ROUND SIX

Willie opened this round with two left jabs to the jaw and Tedesco whammed a right to the body and a left to the face that seemed to wake the classic Athenian up. Willie placed a right over the heart, a hard one to the head and took one to the nose as he landed a pile-driving right to the stomach, after which he proceeded to hook with his left and shot a right to the head and followed with a left to the chin in less time than it takes to tell it. He received a left to the chin for his pains and they traded in a clinch but Tedesco was infuriated at the disadvantage at which he had placed himself, and broke away and shot a hard left to the head and another to the digestive system, following with another to the side of the dome. Tedesco landed a series of lefts to the head at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN

Willie slipped a left to the ear, a right to the other, a left to the chin and a right to the chin and jabbed with a left before Tedesco could hook a left to the chin for a receipt. Willie jabbed to the button and Tedesco shot exactly seven lefts of all descriptions to the face and body, while Willie weakly defended with two rights to the side. Tedesco slung in a right to the weaker part of the anatomy and one to the head, but was holding on the last one. Willie plunged two rights to the stomach that brought a grunt from the Tooth Paste man. Tony worked a one-two to the head and a left to the body, and Willie defended with a left to the head and another over the heart, but Tedesco landed a right and a hard left to the face at the bell.

ROUND EIGHT

The Weary lad hooked to the head and jabbed with a left to the nose, took one left in return and placed one deftly on the right eye. Tedesco punched weakly with a left and took a left to the jaw to clinch and took a left to the body in the clinch before he was able to succeed in breaking with a left and right to Willie's solar plexus. At their meeting in the clinch, Tedesco butted heads with Ptomey and brought the claret from the Iron Man's eye, which caused the boy to look like a grid man. This seemed to infuriate the Athenian, and he repeatedly landed hard rights and lefts to the face, stomach and sides, without asking or giving quarter. Tedesco weakly defended with a left just before Ptomey shot a right at the bell.

ROUND NINE

Ptomey landed a left to the head. Ptomey landed a left and right to the head. It seemed that Ptomey was determined to end the fight in this round. Ptomey missed a wild right and they clinched. Ptomey missed another wild right swing. Ptomey landed a terrific left hook, and Tedesco landed a right hook to the stomach, and Ptomey claimed it was low, but it was not allowed a foul. Ptomey seemed to be getting angry, and followed Tedesco over the ring, lunging with lefts and rights to the face and body. The crowd was raving. Ptomey looked like a bleeding, charging bull. Ptomey landed a right and left to the body and an uppercut to the chin, Tedesco showed his first inclination to stay away. Tedesco was receiving a terrible trouncing, and Ptomey followed every advantage, and chased him about the ring, forcing him into the ropes. Tedesco landed a hard left hook to the chin at the bell.

ROUND TEN

Action, personified! Ptomey started with a left and right to the head, and landed a hard right to the jaw. Tedesco's seemingly aimless wild swing caught Ptomey over the heart. As Ptomey kept forcing the fight, he landed a left o the chin, followed by two to the jaw. He was bleeding more than ever, but bored in. Ptomey then worked his left for punishment to the face. In the in-fighting, Ptomey pounded the ribs viciously, and had Tedesco wobbling on his pins. The hilarious pandemonium of the fans at this time was deafening, and at the bell, all sighed and wondered when they would ever see another fight of this kind n the local ring.

Ptomey's decision.

THE PRELIMS

In the curtain raiser, Raven Poe, the fuzzy-lipped lad from the 29th Infantry, used his right to good advantage against his ringer opponent, Marcellus Movlak, of College Mills, Ga. At first, Movlak seemed to be willing and able to fight, but when he met the Raven's right in the second and kissed the rosin seven times, and more in the third and fourth, he found that the ring is no place to play. Movlak seemed to be trying to take a flop and didn't know how to do it. His comical falls were very interesting. The willingness and ability of Poe to fight should put him in line for the six rounders soon.

Red Lawson and Spark Plug did the comedy act for four rounds and were given a draw in the second bout.

Billy Shell, Columbus southpaw, knocked good old grinning Grumpy Gordy for a row of toad stools in the third round of their scheduled six round bout. Gordy showed good form and boxing ability until he crouched, and then it was lights out.

The semi final has already been mentioned, and should be dropped there.

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

One of the best middleweights in the South today is Buster Mallini, of New Orleans, La. He was defeated by Battling Bozo, of Birmingham recently in Birmingham.

Mallini holds victories over K. O. Johnny Roberts, Paul Sharpe, Aleck Sims and many others. His decisive defeat by Battling Bozo came as a surprise to the local fans, yet his stock has dropped very little.

When Mallini fought K. O. Johnny Roberts, he landed seventeen straight blows to Johnny's jaw without a miss. Such accuracy deserves prominent mention!!!

* * *

W. L. (Young) Stribling is still fighting unheralded pugs. He stopped California Jack Lee in Flint Michigan recently in eight rounds.

Some of us remember the time he was hard put to it to gain the advantage over our own "Red" Keenan. Of course they were both little ducks then. Red just refused to grow.

* * *

K. O. Billy Edwards, who defeated Tanks Grantham at the post gymnasium last December is making a name for himself among the kingpins of the welterweights. Edwards is now in the East, where he recently defeated Marty McHale, a rugged lad from Cleveland, Ohio.

The current edition of the Ring, national boxing magazine, devotes an entire page to the debut of the lad.

Incidentally, Billy has changed managers. R. F. Sangster is now handling the youngsters affairs.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

Fat Franz was seen the other afternoon driving about the post. He seemed pleased to ride where they were having formal guard mount. You should have seen the satisfied look on his face. Wonder how many nine balls had to fall in the side pocket before he could afford a trip to Fort Benning?

Wonder what the cymbal beater thinks about at guard mount? He stands there so unconcernedly striking the pan tops together that it makes one wonder. He dropped one of them in sounding off Tuesday, June 18.

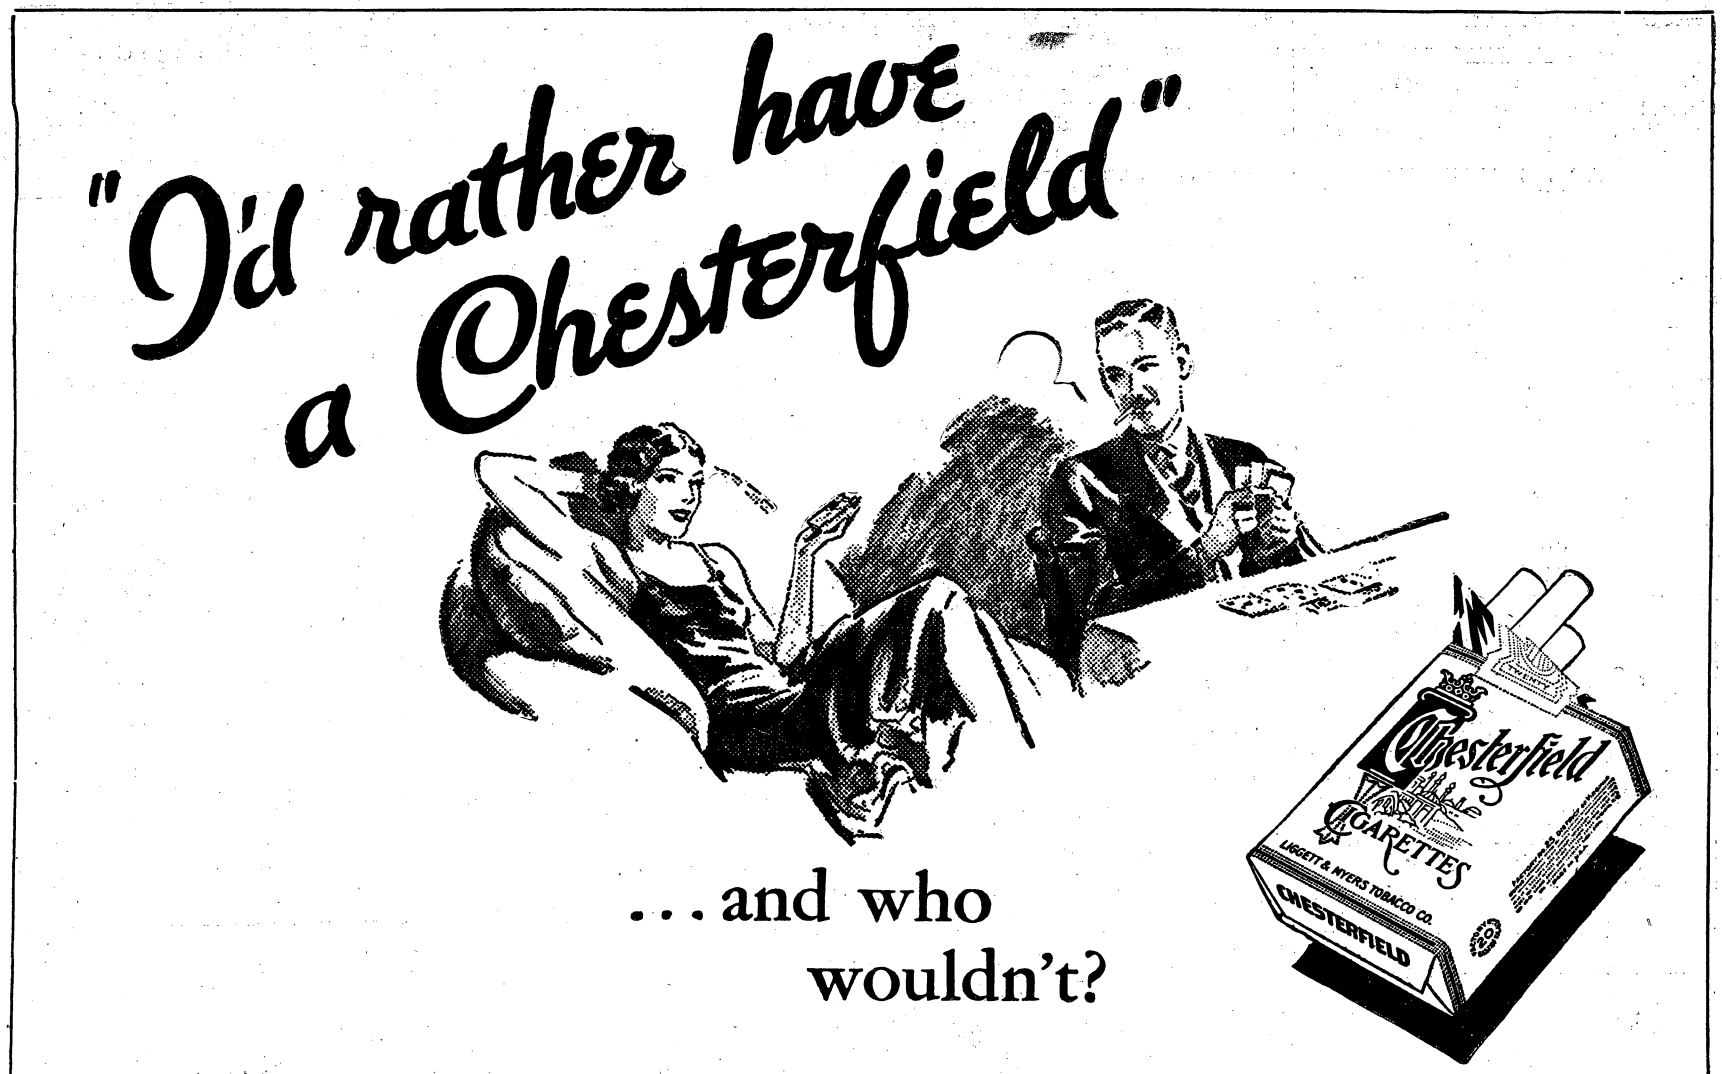
It causes us quite a bit of merriment to contemplate what would happen to the trombone player were the drum major to make a miss flip with his baton. He came pretty close while we were watching him.

Danny "Thug" Davis has been observed quite frequently this month making trips to the gym. Upon inquiry, we find that he is pestering the powers that be, to put him on the next card. Hope he gets it, because he surely is a scrapper.

"Leather," one of the I. S. D. cooks says that it is certainly a caution the way Staff Sergeant White can make the biscuit evaporate from his front. Somehow, we lose count about three times out of every twenty.

It is reported that Pinkie Phillips has wired the boxing heads that he will fight on the next card for a flat guarantee of $35.00 and a one way ticket! Wonder why he is so thoughtful of the public.?

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS



SECOND BATTALION WINS OVER FIRST

The Second Battalion kellies won a slugfest from their buddies the First Battalion Macks last Saturday, score 8-7. Two singles in the first with a walk and an error by Ward, the man that threw the balls across, gave the First Battalion a lead of two runs. In the second, they made two more by a base because of Reeves being hit by Allison, who had relieved Ward in the first with none out and an error by the fair Mr. Cooper and a double bag hit by Jordan.

Just to mention it, Mr. Jordan went to bat five times and got a single, a double and a triple in the order named. Thompson, catching for the Kellies, went to bat four times and got just one single and only three two base hits.

ARSENIC

KELLIES	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Thompson, c	4	1	4	1	3	1
McCallister, ss.	4	1	1	2	4	0
Cooper, 2b	5	1	0	3	5	1
Kjelstrom, cf	5	0	0	0	2	0
Dean, 1b	5	0	2	0	7	0
Carnes, lf	2	1	0	1	1	0
Birdsong, rf	3	1	0	0	1	0
Barron, 3b	2	2	0	0	3	0
Ward, p	0	0	0	0	0	1
Allison, p	4	1	2	3	1	0
	34	8	9	10	27	3

MACKS	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Labuzan, ss	4	2	1	3	3	0
Reeves, rf	4	3	1	0	0	0
Sheriff, 2b	5	2	2	3	3	1
Jordan, lf	5	0	3	1	3	0
McCullie, 1b	5	0	0	0	8	0
Mullett, c	1	0	0	0	0	0
Hinkley, c	4	0	0	0	4	3
Reddock, 3b	3	0	0	0	0	0
Davis, cf	3	0	1	0	3	0
Abrahams, p	3	0	1	3	0	0
Delano, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Stephens, p	1	0	1	0	0	0
	38	7	10	7	24	4

HONOR ROLL

The Infantry School Athletic Association

Event	Time	Holder	Organization	Date
100 Yard Dash	10 4-5 Sec.	Thompson	2d Bn. 29th Inf.	Nov. 12, 1928
220 Yard Dash	25 Sec.	Ramey	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	April 27, 1929
440 Yard Dash	55 3-5 Sec.	Thompson	83d F. A. Bn.	April 27, 1929
880 Yard Dash	2:14 3-5 Sec.	Bevlin, E. O	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	Nov. 12, 1928
One Mile Run	4:58 Sec.	Smith, S. A.	15th Tank Bn.	April 27, 1929
120 Yard High Hurdles	18 Sec.	Carlyon	15th Tank Bn.	April 27, 1929
220 Yard Low Hurdles	29 Sec.	Woodman	15th Tank Bn.	April 27, 1929
16 Pound Shot	38 Ft. 3 In.	Bertelman	15th Tank Bn.	Nov. 12, 1928
Javelin	155 Ft. 10 In.	Thomas	15th Tank Bn.	April 27, 1929
Discus	105 Ft. 9½ In.	Darmafol	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	April 27, 1929
Running High Jump	5 Ft 5 In.	Reddock	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	April 27, 1929
Running Broad Jump	19 Ft. 1 3-4 In.	Reddock	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	Nov. 12, 1928
Pole Vault	11 Ft.	Reddock	1st Bn. 29th Inf.	Nov. 12, 1928
8,000 Yard Road Race	24 Min. 3½ Sec.	Maitland	2d Bn. 29th Inf.	April 24, 1929
Tug of War			1st Bn. 29th Inf.	April 27, 1929

KELLIES TRIM TANKS

The Kellies came to the front again Wednesday afternoon to win a lopsided game from the Johnnies, 9-0. The Tanks made very few threats at ever piling up a score. During the whole game they had only eight men to reach first, and two of them were retired unceremoniously when they tried to either stretch a measly hit or to commit larceny on the keystone bag.

Carnes, twirling for the Kellies, passed only three men on accout of too many balls and gave up just five hits. Although he was a little wild at times, he was able to settle down and twirl the pill like the veteran that he is and avoid disaster.

Barron deserves mention for his spectacular play at third. With two men down in the eighth, Haynie hit one that literally ate the dirt through the open space between short and third. Barron, always on his toes, made a running, diving catch with one hand and regained his balance in time to throw to first to beat the man by yards.

KELLY KLOUTS

Kellies.	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Thompson, c	3	0	1	3	7	0
McCallister, ss	4	0	0	2	1	1
Cooper, 2b	4	1	1	3	1	1
Kjelstrom, cf	5	1	2	0	2	0
Allison, lf	5	2	2	0	1	0
Rameriz, rf	2	0	0	0	0	1
Dean, rf	1	1	0	1	1	0
Barron, 3b	4	1	0	2	1	0
Mitchell, 1b	4	3	2	2	12	1
Carnes, p	3	2	2	4	1	0
	35	11	10	18	27	4

Johnnies:	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Hodges, ss	4	0	0	1	2	1
Haynie, 3b	4	0	1	3	3	0
Grantham, cf	4	0	1	0	4	0
Smith, T. J. 2b	3	0	1	4	1	3
Thomas, lf	4	0	0	0	2	0
Hedgecock, rf	2	0	1	0	2	0
Stansbury, rf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Lindsey, p	1	0	0	3	0	0
Harris, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
Howard, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Wade, p	1	0	0	2	1	0
Woodman, c	2	0	1	0	4	0
Mull, 1b	2	0	0	1	6	0
	31	0	5	14	25	4

TANKERS TAKE ONE FROM FIRST BATTALION

The Fifteenth Tank Battalion Johnnies took advantage of the First Battalion Macks last Sunday when they started to erring, and won a loose game, 11-7. The fielding of neither team was too good, the Tanks making the most errors, but the Mack's errors cost the most. Then, too, the pitchers of the First Battalion were unable to find the plate in the crucial moments.

Lindsey allowed only one hit in five innings and struck out four men in the same legth of time. They gleaned three hits off him in the sixth inning in a row.

TANX THANX

Johnnies	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Hodges, ss	3	1	1	3	2	1
Haynie, 3b	3	1	1	1	1	1
Grantham, cf	5	0	1	0	1	1
Smith, T. J. 2b	1	2	0	2	3	2
Wade, rf	3	1	0	0	0	0
Hull, 1b	5	2	2	0	4	1
Thomas, lf	5	3	3	0	2	0
Woodman, c	4	0	0	2	11	0
Lindsey, p	3	1	1	1	2	0
Howard, p	0	0	0	0	2	0
Harris, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
	33	11	9	9	27	6

Macks:	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Labuzan, ss	5	1	1	2	1	0
Reddock, 3b	5	2	2	2	1	0
Davis, cf	1	0	0	0	0	1
Abrams, cf	4	2	1	0	2	0
Jordan, lf	5	1	1	0	3	0
McCullie, 1b	4	0	1	0	14	0
Sheriff, 2b	3	0	0	3	0	1
Reeves, rf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Walters, rf	2	1	1	0	0	0
Loper, c	3	0	1	3	6	0
Lowe, c	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hinkley, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
Good, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
McGaha, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Moore, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
	34	7	8	10	27	2

CIRCUIT CHAIRMAN MAKES PROPOSAL

(Continued from page 1.)

General King, the commandant of the Infantry School. General Summerall's letter is as follows:

"WAR DEPARTMENT
Office of the Chief of Staff
Washington, D. C.
June 27, 1929.

My dear General King:

I have your letter of June 24th expressing appreciation of the manner in which your polo team was received in Washington.

The team made a splendid showing and the garrison of the Infantry School is to be congratulated on being able to turn out such a fine composite team. Their sportsmanship and bearing, both on and off the field, made a good impression on all with whom they came in contact.

The ponies which they brought up compared very favorably with any others in the tournament and is an example as to what can be done by conscientious training and work.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely,
C. P. Summerall
General
Chief of Staff.

Brigadier General Campbell King,
Commandant, The Infantry School,
Fort Benning, Georgia."

Colonel John F. Franklin, recently of the 29th Infantry and now instructor of the New York National Guard, also congratulated the members of the team in a letter to Major C. B. Lyman, local polo representative and member of the Fort Benning team.

That civilian circles are no less interested in the Fort Benning team is indicated by letters of congratulation from Mayor Homer Dimon, of Columbus, and Rhodes Browne, prominent citizen of Columbus; and by the presentation of "sporty polo cravats" to members of the team by A. C. Chancellor.

The players of the Benning team are: Major C. B. Lyman, Captain R. A. McClure, 1st Lieutenant Ben R. Jacobs and 2d Lieutenant J. G. Van Houten.

NATIONAL MATCHES OFFER FAMOUS TROPHIES

(Continued from page 1.)

J. Rigby, Edmund Johnson and James Wilson.

As a memento of the visit of the British team, which was in 1874, Major Leech presented the cup which bears his name to be competed for annually by American riflemen, and with the exception of the years of 1914 and 1917, it has been in competition for the fifty-five years which have passed since its presentation.

The competition for this trophy is open to any citizen of the United States. Any military rifle may be used to fire the match course which consist of seven shots each at ranges of 800, 900, and 1000 yards fired from the prone position

At the same time that Major Leech presented his cup, the National Rifle Association of Great Britian also presented a trophy for American competition. This trophy is known as the Wimbledon cup and like the Leech cup may be competed for by any American citizen. The course for the Wimbledon match consists of twenty shots at a range of 1000 yards, fired from any rifle and any position. This cup has also been in annual competition since 1874, except for the years of 1914 and 1917. From 1897 to 1899, it was held by a Georgia man, Lieutenant F. C. Wilson, of the Georgia National Guard.

Another of the important association matches is the Members' match for which the Members' cup and a gold medal are awarded to the winner.

Brigadier General George C. Shaw, of Fort Benning, who was then a lieutenant, won this match in 1909. This match consists of ten shots fired from any military rifle, from the prone position at a range of 600 yards.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO.
HALFTONES
NEWSTONES
Photo Engraving
PROCESS
COLOR PLATES
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE
MONTGOMERY, ALA.

Dependable
Electric and Gas
Service
Columbus Electric and Power Co.
1330 Broadway
W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

Ralston Hotel
DINING ROOM
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30
Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets
RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

The Third National Bank
of Columbus, Ga.
The Columbus Bank and Trust Company
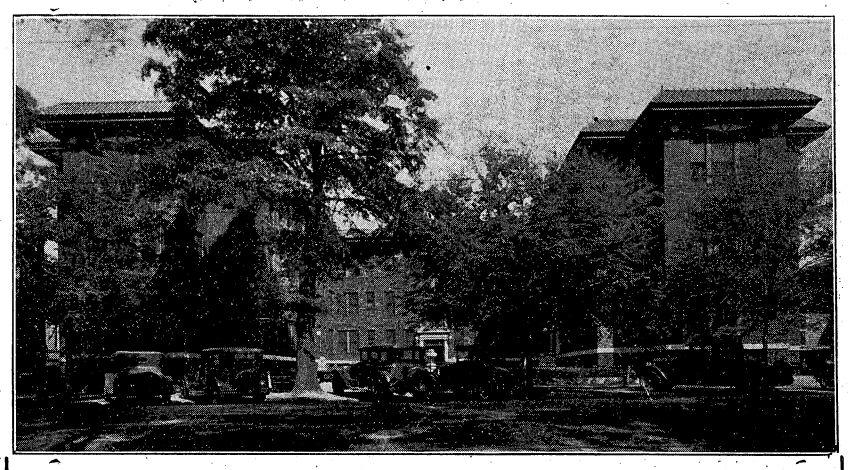
—o—
Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000
—o—
Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park
Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.
We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.
A few apartments are available.
For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470
Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476
Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

Howard Bus Line, Inc.
OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE
BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED
SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

FENDERS
BODIES
STRAIGHTENED
We also build and repair tops and radiators, cover running boards, put in windshield and door glass.
We are completely equipped to repair any job.
The Post Exchange
—at—
Fort Benning is our Agent
COLUMBUS FENDER AND BODY WORKS
1420 First Ave. Phone 3439

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.
Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.
FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

NEWEST AND BEST
BASEBALL EQUIPMENT
Phone 314 and our representative will be glad to show you samples.
HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

The INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., July 19, 1929 Number 44

FORMER BENNING SOLDIERS NOW CADETS

From the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, comes the information that Ethan Allan and James R. Chapman, sons of R. M. Chapman, Alexandria, La., have won their appointments to the U. S. Military Academy from the ranks of the regular army. Both enlisted at New Orleans and were stationed at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. They attended the West Point preparatory school at that post and then the 4th Right, Ethan Allan Chapman, left, James R. Chapman.

Corps preparatory school at Fort McPherson, Ga. Last March they took the competitive examination for the vacancies alloted regular soldiers and passed with high marks.

James R, the elder, is 21 years old and enlisted January 10, 1928. During his 18 months service he rose to the rank of corporal in the 1st Battalion Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry. Ethan, 19 years old, enlisted five months later and was a private in Company A, 7th Engineers.

Another record was set by the Fort Benning West Point preparatory school in the present plebe class when from that one post four other enlisted men gained admission to the Military Academy.

FIFTEENTH TANK BATTALION PRAISED

The excellent marksmanship record of the 15th Tank Battalion is the subject of a letter of commendation written by the Chief of Infantry and received yesterday at Headquarters of the Infantry School.

General Fuqua's letter is as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Office of Chief of Infantry
Washington, D. C.
July 13, 1929.

SUBJECT: Commendation.

TO: Major Edgar S. Miller, Infantry, 15th Tank Battalion, Fort Benning, Ga. Through the Commandant, The Infantry School.

1. I desire to commend the very excellent record attained by the 15th Tank Battalion, in qualifying 99.4 per cent of its personnel, during the past marksmanship season.

2. The high standard of efficiency which has always marked the achievements of this battalion has again been upheld to a high degree.

3. Please communicate to the entire battalion my appreciation for the hard work well done and my congratulation on the success attained.

Stephen O. Fuqua,
Major General,
Chief of Infantry.

ARTILLERYMEN RETURN FROM LONG HIKE

The arrival last Monday of Batteries A, C, and Headquarters Battery of the 83rd F. A., commanded by Major Lloyd E. Jones, terminated a 212 mile practice march which began on June 22 when the column of artillery left Fort Benning on its march to Albany, where it arrived on June 28. At Albany the artillerymen camped on an excellent camp site furnished by the city officials who installed electric lights, shower baths and other conveniences to make the stay of the artillerymen a pleasant one. While in Albany the soldiers participated in a 4th of July celebration arranged by the American Legion. The visit of the battalion made a most favorable impression upon the citizens of Albany, and has been the subject of various letters of commendation and favorable newspaper comment.

Mr. C. Q. Wright, city manager of Albany, wrote as follows to Major Jones:

"I wish to express to you our appreciation of the splendid behavior of your battalion while in Albany. It was universally remarked, both by city officials and people on the streets, that the behavior of the men was the best they had ever seen, and their appearance was such as to reflect credit on the battalion.

"We very much hope that you will be able to repeat your trip to Albany and assure you that we will do everything in our power to make your stay pleasant."

The Albany Herald also praised the conduct and efficiency of the artillerymen.

The return trip was made without difficulty, as animals and men had been hardened during the outward march.

On the return march to Fort Benning the battalion camped at Graves Spring July 6 and 7, Leesburg July 8, Smithville, July 9, Americus, July 10, Ellaville, part of the 11 and Buena Vista 11 and 12 of July, and at Eelbeck July 13 and 14.

At Americus the battalion encamped near the city swimming pool where the men were given full privileges. Here also, the officers of the battalion called upon Congressman Charles R. Crisp, whose home is in Americus.

The only untoward incident of the trip occurred at Ellaville where the battalion pitched camp after a hot fourteen mile hike from Americus. Guns were parked, tents pitched and preparation for the night's stay had been made when the city authorities informed Major Jones that they could spare no more water from the meager city supply for the thirsty horses, which had already been twice watered in the little town. Major Jones then ordered camp struck and at 6:00 o'clock that evening the battalion made an additional march of fourteen miles to Buena Vista, arriving at 10:00 P. M. There they were accorded a hospitable reception and they remained in camp at Buena Vista until July 13th, in order to rest the weary animals. From Buena Vista the battalion marched to Eelbeck, covering the 20 miles in 5 hours and 45 minutes, and remaining there in camp until the morning of the 15th, when they marched into the garrison.

TAKES TEMPORARY COMMAND OF THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

Colonel Daniel G. Berry, infantry, assumed temporary command of the Infantry School on July 16. Colonel Berry will act as commandant of the Infantry School during the absence of Brigadier General Campbell King, who has departed from Fort Benning on a leave of absence for one month. Colonel Berry has been stationed at Fort Benning since April 28, 1928, and has served as executive officer and commanding officer of the Special Units.

Colonel Daniel G. Berry

Colonel Berry served at Fort Benning from 1924 until 1926. During the school year 1924-25, he was a student in the advanced class of The Infantry School and was president of the class. After graduation he was assigned to duty at garrison headquarters. In 1926 Colonel Berry left Fort Benning for duty in the Philippine Islands, where he had been assigned to command the 31st Infantry and the Post of Manila.

Colonel Berry's career in the regular army began upon his graduation from the U. S. Military Academy on April 26, 1898, when he was commissioned 2nd lieutenant and assigned to the 1st Infantry for duty in Cuba. He participated in the attack at El Caney and San Juan Hill and the siege of Santiago. He later served in the Army of Occupation in Cuba. While serving with this organization he was promoted to 1st lieutenant in 1899. In 1900 he was ordered to the United States for duty. During this year he was assigned as instructor at the Military Academy for a period of four years. While on this detail, Colonel Berry was promoted to captain and assigned to the 22nd Infantry.

Colonel Berry joined his regiment at Camp Keithley, Mindanao, P. I., where

(Continued on page 2.)

INFANTRY PREPARING FOR NATIONAL TEAM MATCH

Less than two months' time remains during which the infantry team may practice for the national team match which is the big event of the 1929 national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. War Department regulations issued for these matches state that final practice for the national team match will be completed on September 12.

The national team match was instituted in 1902 by act of Congress and is the culminating event of the national matches. This match is probably the most bitterly contested of all the major events of the national matches as in it the rival services of the army, navy and marine corps meet for the struggle for supremacy in the marksmanship world.

In addition to the regular service teams, teams representing the coast guard, national guard and naval militia of each state, the organized reserves, reserve officers' training camps, citizens' military training camps, veterans' organizations, civilian rifle clubs and student organizations may compete in this match but the real competition is generally limited to the army, navy and marine corps teams.

Last year the infantry lost its championship in this event which it had held since 1927, the marine corps team taking this event by a score of 2733; the navy was second with a score of 2701, while the infantry finished third with a score of 2681. This year it expects to retrieve its lost laurels and to again prove doughboy supremacy with the rifle. Since the national team match was inaugurated in 1902, the infantry has won it six times, taking first place in 1906, 1908, 1910, 1915, 1920 and 1927. In 1905, 1909, 1911, 1921 and 1922 the infantry finished second in this event. Besides the prestige which a team gains by winning this match, there is awarded the national trophy which was provided by congress at the time of the institution of the national team match. A trophy will be awarded to the highest team from the national guard or state troops, one to the highest team representing the citizens' military training camps and reserve officers training corps and one to the highest civilian team.

To the team with the highest score in either of the classes remaining after the trophy is awarded to the winner of the national match, is awarded the Hilton trophy, which was presented in 1878 by the Honorable Henry Hilton, of New York.

The Soldier of Marathon which has the distinction of being the oldest team trophy in existence is another trophy awarded in this match. It was presented in 1875 to the National Rifle Association by the commander in chief in behalf of the state of New York. Another distinguished trophy is the Minute Man which is the latest addition to the magnificent group of trophies for the national team match. It was presented in 1924 by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

The course of the national team matches comprises five stages. The first stage consists of ten shots standing, slow fire at 200 yards; the second stage of ten shots, rapid fire, kneeling or sitting from standing at 200 yards; the third stage of ten shots, rapid fire, prone from standing at 300 yards; the fourth stage of ten shots, slow fire, prone at 600 yards, and the fifth stage of 20 shots, slow fire, prone at 1000 yards. No sighting shots or artifiical rest are permitted at any range.

(Continued on page 2.)

INFANTRY PREPARING FOR NATIONAL TEAM MATCH

(Continued from page 1.)

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative: R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

Only GOODYEAR TIRES have the Supertwist carcass and All-Weather Tread

WE HAVE YOUR SIZE

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

TAKES TEMPORARY COMMAND OF THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

(Continued from page 1.)

he had active field duty against hostile Moros while commanding the Provisional Company, 22nd Infantry, in pursuit of the renegade, Dato Ali, and his band of followers, and in Jolo, P. I., with General Wood's Third Sulu Expedition. He returned to the United States with his regiment in November, 1905, and was stationed on Angel Island in San Francisco harbor at the time of the San Francisco earthquake. His company was on duty during the earthquake and fire, and participated in refugee and relief work afterward.

He was again detailed to West Point in 1907, as an assistant professor. After serving four years on this detail, he rejoined the 22nd Infantry and was on Mexican border duty from February to November, 1912, when he was transferred to the 13th Infantry which he joined at Fort McKinley, P. I. In 1915 he was transferred to the 24th Infantry and returned with it to the United States. During the Punitive Expedition into Mexico he was in command of Company "H" 24th Infantry. In July, 1916, Colonel Berry was promoted to major, and came out of Mexico in January, 1917, upon being ordered to duty with the 37th Infantry, stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

On the day war upon Germany was declared, Colonel Berry was marching with his regiment on change of station from Fort Sam Huston, Texas, to Fort McIntosh, on the Mexican border near Laredo, Texas. He remained on border duty with the 37th Infantry, serving as provost marshal of the district. For two months prior to his promotion to lieutenant colonel in December, 1917, he was in command of the regiment.

At this time Colonel Berry was ordered to command the Overseas Casual Camp at Camp Merritt, New Jersey, for the Port of Embarkation at Hoboken.

Upon his promotion to colonel, he was assigned to command the 338th Infantry of the 85th Division at Camp Custer, where he reported early in July, 1918, in time to accompany this division overseas, and arrived in France early in August, 1918. His division became a replacement division and did not arrive in the front areas until October 31, 1918, where, as a part of the Second Army in the region of Toul, it remained until the Armistice. After his division was demobilized at Camp Custer in April, 1919, Colonel Berry was detailed on R. O. T. C. duty. In 1924 he was ordered to Fort Benning as a student in the Infantry School. Upon his graduation from the Infantry School, he was assigned to command of the 31st Infantry in Manila, P. I., and after completing his tour of foreign service, he was again assigned to duty at Fort Benning. Here he became executive officer and served in that capacity until his assignment as commanding officer of the Special Units.

COLONEL PENDLETON ON WAY TO WASHINGTON

Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., commanding officer of the 29th Infantny, departed yesterday for Washington, D. C., where he and Brigadier General Campbell King, Commandant of the Infantry School, will attend a conference with the Chief of Staff on July 20.

LIEUT. RUBENSTEIN TRANSFERRED

First Lieutenant Douglas H. Rubenstein, 29th Infantry, has been relieved from assignment to that regiment, and will sail from New York on or about November 22, 1929, for the Panama Canal Department, for duty.

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

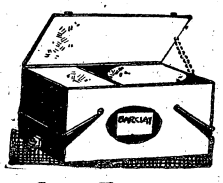
STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

Nation-Wide Sale

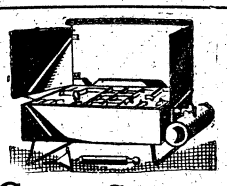
OFFERS SAVINGS IN CAMPING NEEDS



Ice Boxes
$4.39
Fits the running board. Keeps food fresh and cool. Rustproof. Keeps container cool 24 hours.

Outing Jugs
$1.68
Guaranteed unbreakable! Gallon size—Keeps contents hot or cold, 10 to 12 hours.

ICE CREAM FREEZERS
$2.48
2-Qt. Capacity



Camp Stoves
$3.89
Two-burner gasoline stove—100 per cent safe and efficient. Folds up compactly.

WLS MATCHED IRONS

The matched feel and balance give increased confidence and lower scores. Chromium plated and selected hickory shafts
Five most essential irons $12.25

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

SPEND A WEEK OR A DAY AT

OAK MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

"WHERE IT'S ALWAYS COOL"

Modern Hotel—American Plan. Swimming pool, tennis court. Fine accommodations for children. Spring water that will sharpen the appetite, and "tone you up."

30 miles from Columbus on the Warm Springs Road

Rates—$20 weekly, $4 daily. Children $12 weekly, $2.50 daily, including 3 meals.
The FOOD—ask anyone who has been at Oak Mountain this Summer.

SPECIAL SUNDAY DINNERS $1.25

1 to 2 P. M. Fried Chicken 7 to 8 P. M. Roast Duck

AT THE MOVIES

JUNE 19 TO JULY 26, INCL.

FRIDAY, JULY 19

"THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH," starring Larry Kent and Dorothy Sebastian in a stirring story of the prize ring and classy society. It concerns an unknown youth's rise to fame. Starting as a sailor who spends his off hours sparring with whatever fighter comes along, he reaches the height of a Gene Tunney, and, like him, gains the opportunity to marry into society and wealtn. The big fight scene is very gripping. The romance theme is absorbing. The final outcome of the story is pleasing.

Pathe News No. 57.

SATURDAY, JULY 20

"THE PHANTOM CITY," featuring Ken Maynard in his first mystery drama in which the creepy, shivery, phantastic is injected into a western thriller. Several men are talking in a deserted town amid the straggly, forlorn looking buildings and torn up streets of an old mining location. All of the characters are of a mysterious mien—they have apparently no business tnere. Soon after Ken appears, later a girl appears, and more complications arise. The mystery angle is deftly combined with spectacular stunt riding. This is considered highly entertaining throughout.

"Ruby Lips." Charlie Chase.

SUNDAY, JULY 21

"THE DUKE STEPS OUT," starring Joan Crawford with William Haines in a combination college and fight-ring story containing a rapid-fire mixture of comedy and thrills with a very charming love story as the central thread.

GWEN LEE, WILLIAM HAINES and JOAN CRAWFORD in "THE DUKE STEPS OUT"

Haines, the prize fighter, goes to college, but conceals his identity to please his sweetheart. His quick wit and whimsical appearance find ample opportunity for expression. There are three major thrills: the fight on the campus, the big ring battle, and the fray in the cafe. The right is staged at the Legion Stadium between Haines and Jack Roper, well known heavyweight contender, before an audience of several thousand. It is considered one of the most exciting fight scenes ever displayed on the screen. In this picture, Haines is backed by an unusually strong cast.

"Fishing Fools." Oswald.

M. G. M. News No. 95.

MONDAY, JULY 22

"THE LAST WARNING," starring Laura La Plante in a mystery thriller taken from the novel "The House of Fear," by Wadsworth Camp. The story is set in a theatre which had been closed since the murder and disappearance of the star in the midst of a performance. After five years, the spooky old show house is re-opened for rehearsals of the original play with the same cast which had formerly acted it. Then strange things happen as the ghost of the dead star begins to walk and warns the players against re-enacting the play. It is a very gripping story.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 4," a gripping Water Way serial.

TUESDAY, JULY 23

"TOMMY ATKINS," starring Walter Bryon in a story actually produced in London and the Egyptian desert. It is very much on the order of "Beau Geste." It is a story of the English country side—a charming love idyl and terrific military exploits in the Soudan. No parts of this picture are faked in the studio. The natives are real desert tribesmen, and the fort is an actual English outpost in the far reaches of this little-known country. The scenery alone is educational, and the story is firmly gripping throughout.

"The Night Watch." Arthur Lake.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 24

"THE MAN I LOVE," starring Mary Brian with Richard Arlen in a throbbing story of young love. It concerns a couple of youngsters, deeply in love, who go to New York to seek a fortune; although they are married, the temptations of the Metropolis lead the boy astray, and adventure follows adventure until they come together again. In this story the charming wily Baclanova plays the part of a wealthy society woman to whose captivating charms the boy yields, and through her influence achieves great success. The girl's efforts to reclaim him are fruitless until in an exciting incident he is wounded by another lover of the society woman. The gripping continuity of the story is relieved many tunes by deft touches of clever humor.

M. G. M. News No. 96.

THURSDAY, JULY 25

"BEHIND CLOSED DOORS," featuring Virginia Valli with Gaston Glass, in a baffling mystery drama containing a love story that will hold you tense. With death lurking on every hand, a secret agent of a newly-born republic plays the game of love with a mysterious girl whom he believes to be the enemy of his country. Messages are sent in cigarettes, secret instructions in locked drawers, dictaphones in cigar humidors, and spies at every hand. To speak the name of "The Eagle" is sure death. This play will hold you in breathless suspense. You will be unable to guess its outcome until the final great climax.

"Maid in Morocco." Lupino Lane.

FRIDAY, JULY 26

"BETRAYAL," starring Emil Jannings with Esther Ralston and Gary Cooper in a strong drama of real human love. It is considered one of the most heart-gripping stories ever acted. You will laugh with Jannings, and you will weep with him. You will thrill to this human, lovable, pitiable, great character torn between love for a woman and friendship for a man. The beauty of Esther Ralston, as the fascinating blond charmer, breaks the hearts of two men—honor is sacrificed fro love by Gary Cooper, who plays the part of the friend. The background of this gripping drama is the superb Swiss Alps.

Pathe News No. 59.

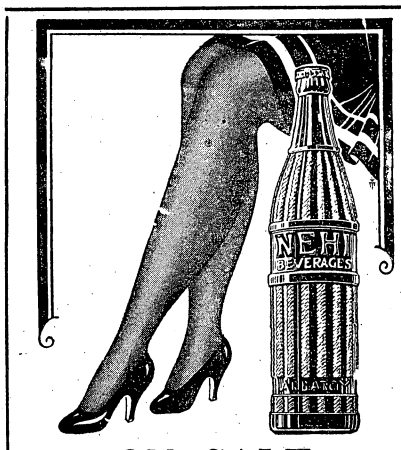
ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following named officers have arrived and departed from Fort Benning since the issue of July 12:

Arrival—Lt. Col. James M. Stilwell to duty.

Departures—Major Ralph A. Jones, to leave and change of station to Army War College, Washington, D. C. Brig. Gen. Geo. C. Shaw, to change of station to command of 6th Inf. Brigade, Fort Rosecrans, Calif. Capt. Norman D. Cota, to leave and change of station to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. Major Roy A. Hill, to leave and change of station to Army War College, Washington, D. C.

For better service—
—quicker delivery
Call
465—Ring 2
FORT BENNING
CLEANERS



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO
HALFTONES
NEWSTONES
Photo Engraving
PROCESS
COLOR PLATES
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

General Electric Fans
All Sizes
Post Exchange
SPECIAL ORDER DEPT.
Fort Benning, Ga.

Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. July 19, 1929 No. 44

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave, Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

PRAISE TO WHOM PRAISE IS DUE

Albany was glad to have as her guests for a week the soldiers of Uncle Sam's Eighty-third Field Artillery. During their encampment here, on a practice march from Fort Benning, they made a most favorable impression among our citizens for gentlemanly behavior and true soldierly deportment. It is hoped that they found Albany to their liking, and will come again some time. Their visit increased the respect that Albanians and Southwest Georgians have for the United States Army, which they represented here with military efficiency and with the dignity befitting the fighting arm of the federal government.—Albany Herald.

There is little to be added to the praise of the Georgia newspaper which comments upon the recent visit of an organization of the regular army from Fort Benning to the city in which the paper is published.

That the conduct of the soldiers was such as to make a pleasing impression upon the citizens and to evoke their praise, is a source of pride and gratification to their officers and to Fort Benning as a whole.

That the American soldier, because of his personal qualities and his creditable representation of the power of the federal government should enjoy the respect of the citizens whom he serves, should be the normal condition of affairs.

The demeanor of the American soldier is no different than that of other young men of his age, unless, indeed, his behavior may be modified by the restraint and self-control which he acquires through service in a disciplined organization.

The men of our army come from all classes of American homes and represent a fair cross-section of our citizenry.

The hoodlum soldier no longer exists. It is questionable, if, as a class, he ever existed; but many foolish legends, founded upon ignorance and prejudice, still persist in unenlightened circles which make no distinction between the self-respecting, well-behaved soldier and the legendary hoodlum type.

The regulation which enjoins members of the regular army to set a proper example in their relations with civilians by maintaining high standards of deportment and efficiency seems to have been obeyed with exactitude, but it is also evident that the high type of American manhood represented by these soldiers had a great deal to do with making the favorable impressions which remained after their visit to Albany.

In all contacts with the civilian components of the army and with civilians in general, the Regular Army will set a proper example by maintaining the highest standards of drill, bearing, dress, conduct and military efficiency.

There are five things the soldier should never be without—his musket, his ammunition, his knapsack, his provisions (for at least four days), and his entrenching tool. The knapsack may be reduced to the smallest size possible, if it be thought proper, but the soldier should always have it with him.—Napoleon's 59th Maxim.

In war the general alone can judge of certain arrangements. It depends on him alone to conquer difficulties by his own superior talents and resolution.—Napoleon's 66th Maxim.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

SODA WATER AND OTHER COLD DRINKS

Physicians are frequently asked if soda water and other drinks served at the soda fountain are injurious. There can be no set answer to this question. If one has in mind any direct harmful action of a cold drink made up of a syrup from fruit juice to which ice cream and carbonated water have been added, the answer must of course be that there is no objection to the use of the mixture. But the matter is one that hardly permits of so simple an answer. There are many factors to be considered. First we must know if the several ingredients are pure. The fruit syrup is sometimes made of the juice and pulp of fresh fruit, at times made at the soda fountain itself. More frequently the syrup is made from a stock bought on the market and the character of which is secondary to the brand used and the price paid. Under the Food and Drugs Act of Congress, the general public is protected against improper labeling and fraudulent claims of unscrupulous manufacturers. Thus a can of syrup may be considered to contain just what the label says it contains. If artificial coloring matter and extracts have been added, the label must so state. But, unfortunately for the average lover of soda water, the label is but seldom seen by the consumer, and a rich orange or chocolate syrup drawn from the soda fountain may have been made of inferior products, artificially colored and flavored, and even sold in defective containers.

Secondly the ice cream must be considered. Ice cream is a valuable food when properly prepared and handled but it is also capable of transmitting all the diseases that are transmitted by milk, and their number is legion. Thus, on the well known principle that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, an ice cream soda is no safer than the ice cream that it contains. Many people who are careful of the ice cream that they buy, will unhesitatingly enter a soda fountain and take an ice cream-containing drink without a thought as to the source of the ice cream. Many of the modern soda fountains announce the source of their ice cream. We often see signs posted conspicuously to the effect that "We use such and such a brand of ice cream," or "Only so and so's ice cream sold here," and the like. On the other hand there are often signs that tell us that the soda fountain makes its own ice cream. This is ordinarily taken to mean that such ice cream is in some way better than that bought elsewhere. Such it may indeed be, but not necessarily so, for the quality of the ice cream depends on the source of the cream and the handling that it has received. Ordinarily it is far better to use soda water that is made up with a well known and satisfactory brand of ice cream than one using an unknown type. At the same time a modern soda fountain, under proper supervision, is capable of producing its own ice cream in a satisfactory manner.

Lastly the soda water receives the charged water. This is common tap water in which carbon dioxide is dissolved. Canbon dioxide is one of the normal constituents of the air and imparts the sparkle to the drink. It is in itself harmless. So much, however, cannot be said of the water in which it is dissolved. Many a sad tale could be told of water-borne diseases contracted from soda water and other soft drinks made from polluted water. Fortunately for us at Fort Benning the water supply of the post and of the city of Columbus are both excellent and this source of danger is not to be considered so long as we use soda water made from water of either of these supplies. In outlying towns and rural communities we may well stop to wonder whence the water used in our soft drinks is derived.

Even though all of the ingredients of soda water are above reproach there is still another danger. Perhaps the mode of storing the ice cream, syrup and so forth is faulty. If the ice cream is allowed to soften or melt in part at the end of a day it rapidly deterioriates even though later on it is refrozen by electric or other means. The milk used in many drinks, aside from the many dangers that beset it in its travels from the dairy to the consumer and its possible inferior condition at the start, may be rendered unsafe by use of improperly cleaned milk pumps at the soda fountain itself. The ice that enters into many drinks may have been made from polluted water. Lastly, but far from being least, the individual who mixes the drink may transmit disease. Those engaged in this work at the post must all have been examined and hold the regulation food handler's certificates.

Besides drinks sold at the soda fountains, there are a wide variety of bottled drinks. Here again, while there is but little food value, there is no danger in their use unless contaminated or inferior ingredients have been used. The bottled drinks sold on the post are from plants that have been inspected and found satisfactory.

The ordinary ice cream cone, so popular with children, is not objectionable unless it is allowed to fall on the ground and then be picked up and eaten, as was recently seen done by a child on the post. No doubt also grimy little hands do their share in removing from the ice cream cone, the state of pristine purity in which it left the soda fountain.

In a word it may be summed up that soda water and similar drinks are safe if bought from fountains that are regularly inspected and which are conducted by responsible people, and not otherwise.

Next week's topic—Ants and how to destroy them.

Never eat or drink in a lunch room, restaurant, or at a soda fountain, unless you are certain the place is cleanly and approved by the sanitary officer.

Never use a cup which is used by others, as some one may have left live germs on it from his mouth or hands, and you may catch the disease when drinking from it.

Drink plenty of water at intervals during the day, but do not drink a large amount at one time, especially when overheated after exertion.

Water frequently contains dangerous germs. Do not drink any water unless you are sure it is pure.

Each teaspoonful of water we drink or each cubic inch of air we breathe may contain millions of germs under certain unhygienic conditions.

Don't fight or struggle to swim if you swallow water; clear your windpipe of water first. Don't cry for help in fun; you may need help sometime and not get it. Don't dive without knowledge of the approximate depth of the water.

Stay away from any person having a disease unless it is your duty to take care of him.

Keep your mouth clean by thoroughly brushing your teeth on the inside and the outside once or twice each day and before going to bed.

Mattresses and bedding should be hung out in the sun for at least two hours once each week and oftener if possible. Sunlight kills disease germs quite promptly.

29TH INF.

Headquarters Company

It has been suggested that our ball team play two innings jaw-bone then play nine innings for record. In every game so far, they have allowed enough runs in the early part of the game to win any ball game, so if there could be some means to leave these innings out we could win every game. Another good scheme, according to Pvt. Grace, would be to pretend drunkeness, for when one is drunk, "it does not count." So far we have won two games and lost two. Against the pill-rollers we made fewer errors and won 14-6. In the first inning, we followed our old custom, and allowed them three runs, no hits, some errors. Nothing daunted, and lacking not in courtesy, the mop-pushers gave us three hits and some errors, which combined with other cute tricks, such as allowing Pfc. Chastain to steal home, gave us 11 runs. Last Tuesday the Engineers beat us 6-2. Cpl. Murphy started the game but was relieved by another pitcher who seemed to get better support. Pvt. Walden entered the line-up for the first time at second, having six chances and accepting all perfectly, getting six assists.

Thursday afternoon we won the decision over Recruit Center in a game that developed into a track meet. The score 25-13 seems more like a football score than a baseball score. There's nothing to be said about this game.

Company "E"

Company "E" has finished firing its second group of shooters, making 100 per cent. of the 154 men who completed firing. We had 28 experts, 72 sharpshooters and 54 marksmen. We have only 7 men remaining to fire and they will make the qualification easy. We still have the highest score, Sgt. New's 330.

We are all glad that the target season is nearing a close for our battalion, as we have had to get up at 3:30 A. M. during the firing. However, our troubles are just about over.

Our first sergeant, "High" Davis, came out of the hospital and went out to fire the next day, and made the score of 326. He is still taking malaria treatment. You can just imagine what he would have done if he had been well and had taken all the instruction firing.

We understand that "E" Company has the high individual average score, so far. We have qualified every man.

Our famous hall orderly, "Battling" Danny Davis, won his fight last week at the post fight card. He fought Kid Cato from New York and sure gave the New Yorker the lacing of his life, with six knock-downs for Davis, during the fracas.

Company "F"

Group "B" has completed firing for record and the results are very gratifying. Pfcs. Murphy, B. O., and Farmer are tied for high score in the company, both having 328.

Corporal Collins has been seen in and around Birmingham recently, giving the natives a treat and creating a sensation in general. 'Tis said that he completely ignores the fair one who furnishes the expense money.

Another sturdy soldier has climbed a little higher on the ladder of success. It is our pleasure to announce that I. L. Hawkins has been promoted to the grade of private first class.

Joe Passarelli (I. C. S. student) flunked in English last week. He says that never again will he copy from his schoolmate, R. E. Feagin.

The recent additions to the company from the recruit center, Privates Mitchell, Evans, Seymore, Ray and Smith, C. E., are heartily welcomed and it is hoped that they will soon become endowed with the "F" company spirit.

Company "G"

Talk about your snappy recruits, one of them was seen going to the tailor shop to get his rain coat pressed. Keep it up and you will be an N. C. O. in the next six months.

Before his initial trip to the pistol range Private King was told by one of the sergeants to shake it up. "All right," said King, "I will be right out with you as soon as I get my shooting coat on." It pays to wear the little coat. Private King made expert with the little gun.

Well, we put it over Uncle Sam 100 per cent. on the rifle range and the same with the pistol. Talk about fine work! We put it over in fine shape and let's hope that the third group and the automatic riflemen do the same.

Sgt. Swaney to Private McKean, "Call your shot, Mack." "Oh that's all right," said Mack, "the target will be up soon, sergeant; you can see it then."

We have a sergeant who is going to buy out soon. He is getting a peach of a job down on a peach farm.

We had a letter from one of the old buddies of the company who is in New York. He wrote the company to show the old soldier buddies that he hasn't forgotten them. He said that things in New York were sure on the go. We were very glad to hear from Mr. Gergely.

Company "H"

Weather: Hot and dusty. Time: All day. Place: Hook Range. Activities: Company "H" shooting away at the targets and making excellent scores, beating our last year scores all the way 'round and giving any other machine gun company a mark to shoot at.

Furloughs being a memory of the dim past and a day dream of the near future, the pow-wow around the company these days is confined to the words "It won't be long now."

Grateful appreciation is expressed by all for the furnishing to the company of the new wall lockers. Necessity being the mother of invention, we are firm supporters to the fact that Fort Benning progresses as fast if not faster than our civy world.

The men in the pits last week were confronted with the choice of keeping company with the snakes therein or the machine gun bullets overhead. Doubtless the answer was in favor of the snakes; but the participants thereof expressed no desire to cavort around with either one.

HOWITZER EXAMINATION BOARD APPOINTED

A board of officers, consisting of Capt. O. R. Rhoads, Lieut. E. J. Walsh and Lieut. C. B. Irvin, was appointed to conduct the examinations in marksmanship of the 37MM gun and 3"TM. The gunners' test will be held on or about July 17-18, 1929, and the expert gunners' test on on about July 24-26, 1929.

CHANGES IN THE REGIMENT

The following reassignments of officers have been made in the regiment:

1st Lt. W. G. Skelton, relieved from assignment to the Howitzer Co. and assigned to Co. "H." (July 8.)

Capt. E. L. Brine relieved from attachment to Regtl. Hq. and Band and Hdqrs. and Hq. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Inf. (July 11.)

1st Lt. N. C. Caum relieved from attachment to Regtl. Hq. and band and assigned to Co. "G." (July 11.)

1st Lt. Elam L. Stewart relieved from assignment to Co. "E" and attached to Hdqrs. and Hq. Co., 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

1st Lt. H. W. Brimmer relieved from assignment to Hdqrs. Co. and attached to Regtl. Hq. and Band.

Lieut. H. W. Brimmer has been appointed acting plans and training officer, 29th Infantry, vice Lieut. Jacobs on leave.

Classified Ads

FOR SALE—One small ice box, $5.00. Call Major Lewis, 409.

FOR SALE—Hudson Coach; new paint; good tires: owner leaving town. Phone 1365-W. 7-19-2

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. . Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

Read the Ads in The News

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

TOOLS FOR THE HANDY MAN

All kinds of tools for the many odd jobs in and around the house. Standard factory brands of the best quality.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

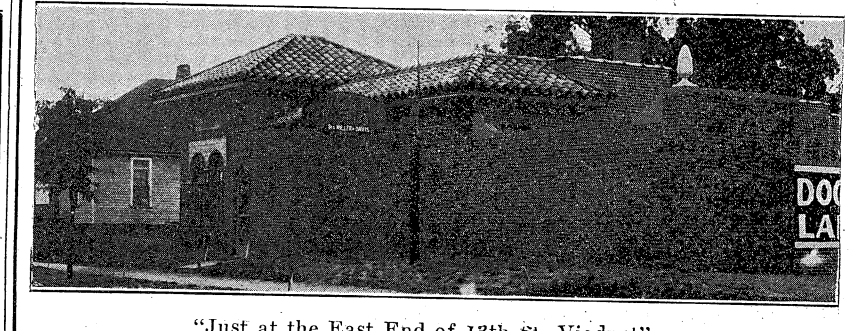
1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

All Classes of Military Tailoring

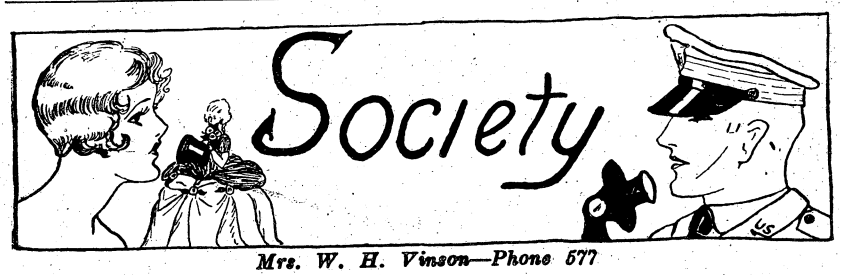
Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS
(VETERINARIANS)
In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital



"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"
1006—13th St. Phone 1313



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

FERRANDOU—BURBANK

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Ferrandou announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Odette, to William Lloyd Burbank, lieutenant of the infantry, the wedding to take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of July 25th at the home of the bride's parents in Wynnton.

Of much interest to a wide circle of friends, both in civilian and military circles, is the above announcement. Miss Ferrandou is one of five attractive daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Ferrandou, and a member of a distinguished New Orleans family. She is a popular and charming member of the young social set in Columbus, where she has made her home for several years.

Lieutenant Burbank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Burbank, of Farmington, New Hampshire, and is a member of a family prominent in the business and social life of that state. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1925 and completed the company officers course at The Infantry School this past June.

The wedding of Lt. Burbank and Miss Ferrandou will be a quiet home affair and will be witnessed by only the relatives and most intimate friends.

Miss Elizabeth Fort will play the wedding music and Mrs. Clarence Bush, of Columbus, will sing a group of appropriate songs before the ceremony.

Miss Ferrandou will be given in marriage by her father, and will have as her only attendant, her sister, Mrs. Joseph H. Gilbreth, who will be matron of honor.

Lt. Burbank will have as his best man Lt. J. H. Gilbreth. Chaplain McKenna will pronounce the vows.

After the wedding the bride and groom will motor to New England, first visiting his family and going later to the White Mountains. After their honeymoon they will go to Fort Monmouth, N. J., where Lt. Burbank will be a student at the Signal School.

* * *

On Thursday morning of last week, Mrs. Alfred Brandt entertained very delightfully at bridge at her quarters on Austin Loop, honoring Mrs. J. D. Leitch, who, with General Leitch, is the guest of her son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. McClure. The house was attractively decorated with bowls and vases of delphinium and zinnias. The high prize for each table was an attractive lemon service. After the game a delicious frozen salad was served with savory sandwiches and iced tea. Those invited to meet Mrs. Leitch on this occasion were: Mrs. George C. Shaw, Mrs. Charles L. Willard, Mrs. Edgar E. Hume, Mrs. Walter L. Reed, Mrs. Robert A. McClure, Mrs. Andrew T. Knight, Mrs. Harry A. Wells, Mrs. Walter L. Cochran, Mrs. Wilber H. Vinson, Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer, Miss Sue Brandt.

* * *

General and Mrs. George C. Shaw left on Monday for Fort Rosecrans, California, where General Shaw will be in command of the 6th Brigade.

* * *

The many friends of Colonel and Mrs. Joseph Stilwell are delighted to welcome them again to Fort Benning. Six years ago they were stationed here and contributed richly to the life of the post. Since then they have served in China during the recent years of civil turmoil. Col. Stilwell is a learned student of the Chinese language.

* * *

Major and Mrs. George D. Chunn and family left last week for Fort Leavenworth, where Major Chunn will be on duty.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Roy Hill and Miss Becky Hill have gone to make their home in Washington, D. C., where Major Hill will be a student at the War College.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Harry L. Dale leave next week for Hawaii, where they will be stationed for several years. Their many friends, professional as well as personal, regret to have them leave Fort Benning.

* * *

Mrs. John D. Forsythe returned last Wednesday from Washington, D. C., and will be the guest of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Harris Pendleton, for several weeks before going to San Antonio, where Capt. Forsythe is on duty.

* * *

Mrs. Wray B. Avera and little daughter, Garland, have returned from a three weeks' visit to her parents in Atlanta.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Charles W. Ryder and children left Monday for Panama City and Port St. Joe, where they will spend a month enjoying life on the Gulf.

* * *

The summer "quiet," so far as society goes, has settled down on us. Time was when, after the graduation hop in May, there was nothing till October, but this year there have been so many weddings and announcement parties and teas, and dances for distinguished visitors that the "ball has kept rolling," for withal, we have not had much hot weather; but this week the activities are mainly early morning golf, early morning horseback rides and later, swimming, with an occasional foursome of bridge. We have every attraction at our door for entertainment here and many who are summering here appreciate the fact that it is hard to find at summer resorts the pleasures that are your's for the taking at Benning.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

Newest Bridge Sets

POST EXCHANGE

SPECIAL ORDER DEPT.

Fort Benning, Ga.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

How becoming it is — this wearing of Gordon stockings in colors that blend with your complexion. And —not only do face, neck, arms and legs assume the same tint—but it heightens the effect of every one of your costumes.

There are four shades for each type... whether blonde, brunette or of medium skin-tone.

One . . . matches your natural coloring, a second . . . lends it warmth, a third . . . is for a tanned effect, and the fourth . . . is an extremely delicate shade for evening.

Gordon V-Line, Narrow Heel and French Clock

Kirven's

ESTABLISHED 1876

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S

INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

K&P

We are Specialists in Watch Repairing, Jewelry Repairing, Engraving and Making Jewelry.

Men with years of experience in their lines are in charge, and satisfaction is guaranteed.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

ENLISTED MEN'S TENNIS CLUB TO MEET

For a long time dormant at Fort Benning, the best game of them all, is fast gaining a foothold in the post now. At no other time has there been so many racket wielders as there now are.

Started a few weeks ago, the enlisted men's tennis club has gotten well under way in getting the enlisted men to play on the courts. Every afternoon will find more tha na dozen players occupying the courts, but this will not prevent others from playing, as there is always room for a few more.

There will be a meeting of the club at assembly hall No. 4 next Tuesday afternoon. All those interested are requested to attend, and all members are urgently requested to attend. This club is not for a selected few, but for all enlisted men who desire to play tennis, or are otherwise interested in promoting the game at Fort Benning.

This meeting will be the first regular meeting, at which time additional officers will be elected, and the constitution and by laws of the club will be adopted.

It is planned to hold an informal tournament during the latter part of the month or early next month, and all should be out there getting all the practice needed. Already, some of the players are showing vast improvement.

SPORTS

By Bernard B. Swayze

KID PECK AND JIMMY SPIVEY IN MAIN BOUT JULY 23

Corn Griffin	vs	Pep Causey	4 Rounds
Saginaw Seeley	vs	Sailor Crowe	4 "
Eddie Brault	vs	Frankie Walburn	6 "
Doubtin' Thomas	vs	Kid Curlie	6 "
Red Keenan	vs	Red Alford	8 "
Joe (Kid) Peck	vs	Jimmy Spivey	10 "

Tommy Tompkins, boxing potentate of Birmingham, Ala., will send three of his stable to the wire in Doughboy Stadium Tuesday night, July 23rd.

Over in Birmingham Mr. Tompkins is the big noise in the boxing racket. The steel city is the leading fight center of the entire South. Every Monday night, week in and week out, the fans for miles around throng to the ringside of the Birmingham Athletic Club to watch the budding cauliflowers bloom; to lamp the kaleidoscopic array of leather pushers being counted in and out; and to get an evening's entertainment of unsuppressed hilarity.

Who will box and who will not is the function of the boxing potenate. Tommy Tompkins is acquainted with the record of practically every fighter in the country. He knows the dancers, a tribe that gets scant consideration with him. He is partial to the mixers, surrounding himself with close to two dozen boys who are not afraid to step in and swap punches. His theory, and it is a good one, is that no boxer belongs in the game unless he can take a fair rap on the button and remain vertical. There is no sentiment wrapped up in the nature of Scotch Tommy Tompkins. Once one of his crew shows signs of protecting his reputation rather than adding to it, "raus mit" him is the slogan.

If the Tompkins clan shows half of what is expected of it, then Benning will see a lot ot the Birmingham boxers before the summer is over. Only last Monday night Battling Bozo, one of Tommy's middleweights, gave Styles Attaway a real beating, winning every one of the ten stanzas. A month ago Birmingham was begging the Fort matchmaker to send Bozo in against DePratt. The reason he was not brought here was the thought that Bozo would be too easy picking. As Jess Willard said "you can never tell them by their haircut."

Tuesday night coming, Tompkins will show Jimmy Spivey, Red Alford and Kid Curlie. Spivey has the mission of meeting our old friend Joe (Kid) Peck, of Rockford, Ill., Little Rock, Ark., Kansas City, 116th F. A., Florida National Guard, and all points between. Peck and Spivey tie up in the feature event of ten rounds.

The editor allows this writer but two columns to shoot the blah about each fight card. If fine print were used to cover Peck's record with the mits the whole page would be necessry to record it, but a word or two about the last two or three fights the Kid has had. Babe Ruth, of Louisville, Ky., one of the busiest fighters in the country, appearing as the headliner time and again at Mullin's Chicago fight emporium, was at the peak of his career when he met Peck. What happened is history. Three times Peck floored Ruth in the tenth round, winning by a mile. It was the first time in Ruth's life that he had hit the canvas. Lou Avery, of Tulsa, Okla., was packing them in every time he fought. Damon Runyan had gone on record as stating that Oklahoma had a world beater in Avery. Again the bad boy of the ring, Kid Peck, nipped a budding champ with his famous left hook. Then there is Billy Podraza from Texas, who stopped Boots Antley with one punch, but when he met Peck he found the canvas rising up ever so often to rest his weary frame. Peck can hit, is a mixer from the opening to closing gong, can take it and give it, and has reached the point where a scar or two on his manly countenance neither adds nor detracts from his facial beauty.

Spivey we have seen. This classy little workman mixed it up with Doubtin' Thomas in a six rounder a little over a month ago. Since then every fight bug has asked when will Spivey show again? As previously stated Tommy Tompkins will not permit any of his pugs to rest on their reputation. Either add to it or there is the gate. Spivey's fight with Jimmy Hackley, of Indianapolis, at Miami, in which he was given a draw, was really the means of Spivey reaching the eyes of promoters. The fight took place last winter with Willie Ptomey at the ringside. On his return to Benning Willie never ceased talking Spivey.

Many believe that Jimmy is biting off a large chunk in meeting Peck, but place Peck against Hackley and the wise ones would pick the latter. It looks to the writer as if it will be the case of a fast young fighter electing to stand and trade with a veteran who can still sock plenty, but who is not as nimble getting in and out as the younger entry.

While chief interest is directed to the windup local fans are paying a lot of attention to the semi-windup which marks the farewell showing of Red Keenan. Red is due for the expiration of service ticket in a month or so. Rumor has it that the popular bantam is going north to try his luck, but the little job on his hands Tuesday night is something else to think about. Watch this Red-Alford step. Scan the columns of the Montgomery Advertiser of last Tuesday morning and see what they think of their red-top over there. Here is a fighting machine that can function. Watch this scrap.

This raving must cease for two columns are already filled. Doubin' Thomas versus Kid Curlie, the latter bears the T. T. stamp; Saginaw Seeley and Sailor Crowe, sparring partner of Kid Peck; Eddie Brault and Franklie Walburn, "nuf sed," two sockers; and last but not least Corn Griffin and Pep Causey. Pep has been undergoing a restrained course of training for the past few months, placing him in condition to wade through a roomful of palookas.

Here you have a gross of new faces for next Tuesday. Get in early for that cardboard.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

Speaking of tough breaks, don't forget the First Bats. Saturday afternoon at Gowdy Field the First Bats held the Kellys to a draw for twelve hectic innings of fast baseball only to see Lady Luck depart in the twelfth frame and allow the Kells to put over the winning run. "Ole Man" McGaha, veteran army twirler, was the victim in Saturday's game.

Sunday afternoon the First Bats mixed and mingled with the Terrible Tankers at Gowdy Field. Stevens, twirling his first game for the First Bats, was on the mound. In the first inning the Tankers combined hits and miscues to score three runs off his delivery. Settling down after the first inning, Stevens held the Tankers to one hit until the fourteenth inning. In the fourteenth, with two out and none on, Stevens walked one man and then saw the old ball game vanish when the next Tanker batter tripled to deep center to score the winning run.

When the Tankers' defense bobbled in the fourth inning of Sunday's fourteen inning battle between the Tankers and First Bats, "Red" Lindsey was rushed to the rescue. The "Redhead," who has been doing rescue work for the Tankers since the year one, proved that he could still "cut his stuff," when he stopped the First Bat rally at three-all, and held them scoreless until the Tankers registered in the fourteenth frame.

"Knubb" Bennett, Tanker line-buster, just couldn't forget his old habits after the rain last Sunday. Knubb pulled off his shoes and waded around in the mud puddles that had formed in the road in front of the barracks. "Slim" Harris came along some time later and after taking one look in the mud, proceeded to get a bunch together to go bear hunting, saying that he had just seen "fresh ba'r signs" where a big one had crossed the road since the rain.

BOXING

Tuesday night, July 23, 1929, 8:00 P. M. Doughboy Stadium

WINDUP TEN ROUNDS

JOE (Kid) PECK (116th FA., Florida N. G.) VS. JIMMY SPIVEY (Columbus, Ga.)

SEMI-WINDUP, 8 ROUNDS — RED KEENAN vs. RED ALFORD

Doubtin' Thomas—Kid Curlie—Eddie Brault—Frankie Walburn—Saginaw Seeley—Corn Griffin—Pep Causey and others

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c RINGSIDE 75c and $1.00

NOTES FROM COMPANY "A" 7TH ENGINEERS

Eugene Jones, popular member of the company, was discharged per E. T. S. Saturday and left immediately for his home in Tennessee. Jones was a star soccer player and a winning pitcher on the baseball team.

Pvt. Slone, a recent recruit, was discharged Wednesday by minority. Although he was too young to stay this time, it is expected that he will reenlist when he becomes of age, as he seemed to like soldiering.

1st Sgt. Sadler returned to duty Monday, after an extended furlough in Iowa. He reported a good time, but said that it was pretty cold at times there. A little of that cold weather would have been appreciated here during some of these hot spells.

Sgt. McGriff left Wednesday on furlough for a visit to his home in Ohio. He was accompanied by his wife and Gordon, Jr. It will be quite a trip for the little fellow.

Tne company left early Thursday morning on a practice hike that carried it out to Harps Pond, where camp was pitched. After a night with the mosquitoes and bullfrogs in the wide open spaces, the company hiked back on Friday.

The 7th Engineers have been eating up the other teams of the "A" league during the first half, and have earned recognition for admittance to the "B" league during tne last half.

Two wins from the Ordnance, 9 to 4 and 12 to 4, were followed by a split in a double header with the Howitzer Co. The Engineers jumped on Buckner of the Howitzers for 8 runs and sewed the first game up an 8 to 3 count. Good pitched steady ball throughout and was especially effective in the pinches.

The second game was a hurlers' duel between Foster for the Howitzer Co. and Perkins for the Engineers. Perkins weakened in the fourth and gave way to Good, who finished. The final score was 3 to 2 with the Engineers on the short end.

Reeves hit two home runs in the first game. McCarty also made the circuit on a freak play by the Howitzer right fielder, who in fielding the ball near the fence let the ball slip out of his fingers when preparing to throw and the pellet dropped over the fence.

FORT BENNING TO GET MUSCLE SHOALS MATERIAL

Major Henry A. Bootz, assistant executive officer, is this week at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, where he is making arrangements to obtain various materials to be used in construction and repair projects at Fort Benning.

24th INFANTRY HOLDS SWIMMING MEET

The following are the results of the 24th Infantry regimental swimming meet held July 4th, 1929, at the regimental swimming pool:

50 Yards Free Style—1st Bolds, Co. G, 5 points; 2nd, Johnson, Co. E, 3 points; 3rd, Williams, Co. A, 1 point.

50 Yards Breast Stroke—1st, Tillis, Co. G, 5 points; 2nd, Johnson, Co. E, 3 points; 3rd, Jackson, Co. A, 1 point.

50 Yards Back Stroke—1st, Pruitt, Service Co., 5 points; 2nd, Ross, Co. G, 3 points; 3rd, Johnson, Co. A, 1 point.

75 Yards Free Style—1st, Bolds, Co. G, 5 points; 2nd, Adams, Co. F, 3 points; 3rd, Cummings, Co. A, 1 point.

Diving Contest—1st, Ross, Co. G, 5 points; 2nd, Johnson, Co. E, 3 points; 3rd, Ganey, Co. A, 1 point.

Relay Race—1st, Co. A, 8 points; 2nd, Co. F, 5 points; 3rd, Service Co., 2 points.

Winning Organizations—1st, Co. G, 23 points; 2nd, Co. A, 13 points; 3rd, Co. E, 9 points; 4th, Co. F, 8 points; 5th, Service Co., 7 points.

High Point Individuals — 1st, Bolds, Co. G, 10 points; 2nd, Johnson, Co. E, 9 points; 3rd, Ross, Co. G, 8 points.

INFANTRY BOARD DIRECTOR TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Colonel James M. Graham, director of the Infantry Board, is today on his way to Washington, D. C. While in Washington Colonel Graham will join Brigadier General Campbell King, and Colonel Harris Pendleton in a conference which is to be held with General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, on July 20th.

BIRTHS

July 7, 1929, Albert Leslie Bagley, Jr., son of Sergeant and Mrs. Albert L. Bagley, Hdqrs. 1st Bn., 29th Infantry.

July 11, 1929, John Rutter Brooke, 3rd, son of Major and Mrs. John R. Brooke, 29th Infantry.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

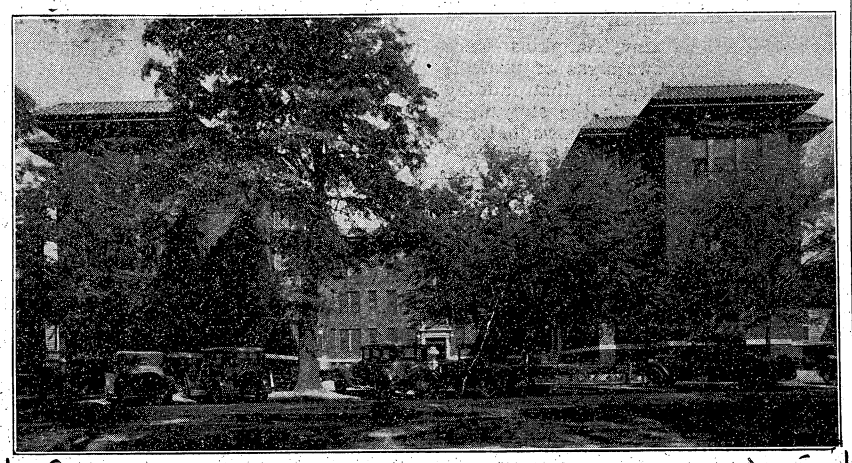
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

—For— BETTER SERVICE!

USE HOOD HEELS AND SOLES

Applied by reliable Shoe Rebuilders

Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.

Watertown, Mass.

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

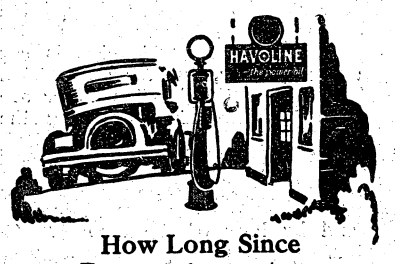
The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.



How Long Since Your car had a chance with HAVOLINE the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.

Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962

W. R. M. Palmer Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

SPECIAL PRICES

on all

TENNIS EQUIPMENT

Phone 314 for representative with samples.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., JULY 26, 1929 Number 45

ENGINEER RESERVES TRAINING AT INFANTRY SCHOOL

With 102 officers in attendance, the engineer reserve officers' camp opened at Fort Benning Monday. The engineer camp, which is under command of Lt. Col. R. John West, Infantry, (D. O. L.), is the largest reserve camp ever held at Fort Benning.

The reservists' daily duty begins at 6:30 with a half-hour period of calisthenics. Other subjects included in this week's training schedule are demonstrations by the 29th Infantry, the 15th Tank Battalion and Co. A 7th Engineers; lectures by Maj. Brett, Maj. West and Capt. Squires; map problems and training films.

Included on the camp staff are 1st Lt. G. B. Barth, adjutant; Capt. Helmer Swenholt, plans and training officer; Capt. Daniel O'Connell, mess officer, and 1st Lt. Louis B. Knight, supply officer.

The reserve officers attending the camp are:

Almgron, Fred J., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Fairfield, Ala.; Altee, Vinson J., Capt., Dental Reserves, Jacksonville, Fla.

Baker, Herbert J., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Beall, Robert W., 1st Lt., 307th Engr., Atlanta, Ga.; Bodell, Victor J., Capt., 312th Engr., New Orleans, La.; Beer, Edwin, 2nd Lieutenant, 307th Engineers, Athens, Ga.; Bergin, Cecil A., 1st Lt., Dental Res., Miami Beach, Fla.; Black, Ralph W., 1st Lt., 307th Engr., Atlanta, Ga.; Blankenship, Ocie Vernon, 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Decatur, Ala.; Borriss, Marion E., 2nd Lt., 4th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Bres, Edward S., Col., 378th Engr., New Orleans, La.; Brock, William F., Capt., 694th Engr., Jackson, Miss.; Brown, French C., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Excel, Ala.; Bullis, Gilbert P., Maj., 443rd Engr., Vidalia, La.

Cardwell, John M., Jr., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Carter, Albert C., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Clowe, Richard D., Maj., 378th Engr., Aiken, S. C.; Cobbs, Richard H., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Colby, Paul W., 1st Lt., 4th Engr., Chattanooga, Tenn.; Cox, Tony A., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Cox, Moses E., Maj., 378th Engr. Ellijay, Ga.; Crew, Lewis C., 2nd Lt., 443rd Engr., Bastrop, La.

Desilva, Claudio J., Capt., 66th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; DeSollar, Tenney C., Maj., 378th Engr., Bessemer, Ala.; Dickerson, Chas. R., Capt. 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Duggar, Llewellyn G., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Hope Hall, Ala.

Easterly, Lewis A., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Hayneville, Ala.; Epperson, Erle R., Capt., 378th Engr., Gainesville, Fla.; Evans, Leonard E., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.

Feagin, Clifton H., Jr., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Finnell, Woolsey, Col., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Freeman, Henry L., Maj., 378th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.

Gaines, Benjamin F., Maj., 377th Engr., Charlotte, N. C.; Gloster, William O., Lt. Col., 378th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Griffith, James R., Jr., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Terrant, Ala.; Griggs, Ernest L., 2nd Lt., 421st Engr., Athens, Ga.

Hall, Harvey A., Capt., 65th Engr., Gainesville, Fla.; Hammond, Chas. S., Capt., 64th Engr., Atlanta, Ga.; Harvey, William A., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Hayley, Frank D., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Headley, Holland C., Capt., 66th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Heakes, George H., Maj., 421st Engr., Savannah, Ga.; Hakanson, Claude, 2nd Lt., 312th Engr., Mobile, Ala.; Howry, H. H., Maj., 312th Engr., New Orleans, La.

Ingram, Leon L., 2nd Lt., 421st Engr., Bainbridge, Ga.

Jones, Walter B., Capt., 420th Engr., University of Ala.

Kahn, Charles K., 2nd Lt., 312th Engr., New Orleans, La.; Kahnn, Max E., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Keenan, Edward T., Capt., 378th Engr., Frostproof, Fla.

Lang, Charles M., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Liesher, Daniel E., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Vero Beach, Fla.; Leslie, James B., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Leroy, Ala.; Logan, Joseph A., Capt., 307th Engr., Savannah, Ga.; Long, James C., Let. Col., 312th Engr., New Orleans, La.; Lile, Richard O., 2nd Lt., 307th Engr., New Orleans, La.

Malone, Frank M., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Florence, Ala.; Martin, Carl T., Capt., 344th Engr., Foley, Ala.; McDonald, John H., 1st Lieutenant, 307th Engineers, East Point, Ga.; McDonald, William B., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Andalusia, Ala.; McMellon, David G., 2nd Lt., 378th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; McMillan, John M., 2nd Lt., 312th Engr., Stockton, Ala.; Mitchell, Sherrill L., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Waycross, Ga.; Moore, Lewis J., Jr., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Morrow, Will Henry, Capt., 63rd Engr., Marshall, N. C.; Moses, Percival S., Maj., 307th Engr., Savannah, Ga., Murphree, Birtrue M., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Acton, Ala.

O'Bryan, Wallace G., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Dadeville, Ala.; Okel, William J., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.

Patterson, John T. Capt., 312th Engr., Baton Rouge, La.; Peake, Edward W., 2nd Lt., 307th Engr., Pensacola, Fla.; Powell, Orman N., Lt. Col., 378th Engr.,

(Continued on page 8.)

ANIMAL COLOR SCHEME FOR 29TH

A board of officers, consisting of Lieut.-Colonel Alfred Brandt, Major Thomas F. Taylor and Lieut. H. W. Brimmer, was appointed recently for the purpose of making recommendations for the assignments of remounts and for such reassignment of mounts now assigned in order to standardize the color of mounts in the mounted organizations of the 29th Infantry.

A thorough study has been made by the board, giving due regard to certain principles that all horses of the proper color, now assigned to units, should remain in such units; that in any unit, the ratio of actual strength to authorized strength should be the same as that for the entire regiment; and that in the case of machine gun companies, the selection of bay and dark chestnut horses should be effected by lot.

The following color scheme was adopted:

Headquarters Co., 29th Inf—bay.
Howitzer Co.—chestnut, light.
Service Co.—grey and odd colors.
Hq. Co., 1st Bn.—black and brown.
Company "D"—bay and dark chestnut.
Hq. Co., 2nd Bn.—bay.
Company "H"—bay and dark chestnut.

WEST POINT COACHING COURSE BEGINS

A coaching course for enlisted men who aspire to enter the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, began yesterday with approximately 20 students registered.

1st Lieutenant Frederick Pearson, 29th Infantry, 1st Lieutenant Francis X. Mulvihill, 24th Infantry, and 2nd Lieutenant Hayden Y. Grubbs, 83rd Field Artillery Battalion, are instructors of the school, which is under the supervision of Major E. C. Rose, assistant executive officer, Infantry School.

The course, which will include such subjects as mathematics, english, history and literature, is designed to prepare enlisted men for the competitive examinations which will be held later for members of the army who desire to compete for appointments to the Military Academy.

The hours of attendance in the school are from 8:30 A. M. to 11:30 A. M. and from 1:00 P. M. to 3:00 P. M. daily, except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Those who registered at the opening of the school are:

29th Infantry

Pfc. Herman D. Corey, How. Co.; Pvt. William W. Childress, Co. A; Pfc. Paul Villere, Co. B; Pvt. Leroy W. Austin, Co. C; Pvt. Gilbert F. Schumacher, Co. C; Pvt. Douglas Moorer, Co. D; Pfc. Benjamin A. Bache, Co. E, Pvt. Daniel M. Cheston, Jr., Hq. Co.; Pvt. Harold E. Blackwood, Co. H; Pvt. J. L. McGehee, Co. E.

83rd Field Artillery Bn.

Pvt. Albert H. Phillips, Jr., Hq. Btry. & C. T.; Pvt. William H. Craig, Btry. B; Pfc. Robert R. Winfrey, Btry C.

15th Tank Bn.

Pvt. Harold D. Whitney, Hq. Co.; Pvt. Gordon L. Edwards, Co. C.

Infantry School Det.

Cpl. Archie G. Bain.

Det., Medical Dept.

Pvt. Robert W. Eborn; Pvt. Lawrence E. Perry.

7th Engineers

Pvt. George J. Weitzel, Co. A.

MEMBERS OF 29TH MAKE GOOD SHOWING ON RIFLE TEAM

Very gratifying reports have been received from Major B. G. Chynoweth, captain of the Infantry rifle team, concerning the work done by the ten 29th Infantry members of the team, now firing at the Erie Ordnance Depot, La Carne, Ohio, in preparation for the National Matches at Camp Perry.

The preliminary try-outs, consisting of pair firing at the following ranges, 200 SF, 200 RF, 300, 600, 1000 yards were fired on three successive days, July 16, 17 and 19. Final results in the pair places were as follows:

Pair	Possible 900	Possible 1800
Place Name	Agg. Indv. T'l.	Agg. Pr. T'l.
4th, Lt. Gailbreath	839	1669
6th, Sgt. Hamscher, ...	839	1665
9th, Lt. Adams,D. L.	823	1659
11th, Cpl. Wills	823	1655
12th, Sgt. Beck	837	1652
15th, Cpl. Hicks	827	1651
17th, Cpl. Taylor	825	1649
19th, Cpl. Brunsell	827	1637
22nd, Capt. Bassett	820	1632
23rd, Pfc. McCullock	814	1628

INFANTRY TEAM SQUAD GAINS EXPERINCE AT PERRY

Shooting every day, the infantry team squad, captained by Major Chynoweth, and coached by Captain J. L. Tupper, is gradually acquiring a proficient knowledge of the light and weather conditions and the variable winds which blow across the range from Lake Erie. The butts of the rifle range at Camp Perry are situated on the shores of Lake Erie, and the rifleman usually has to contend with the strong winds which prevail across the lake.

While no details of the team's recent work has been received by the Infantry School News, it is known that try-outs leading to the final selection of members of the twelve-man team which will represent the infantry in the national competition, are well under way.

Whether or not the remaining members of the squad will be held as infantry entries in other matches, or whether they will be distributed as instructors as was done last year, is not yet known. By retaining the surplus members of their squad after the twelve-man team was selected to represent their branch, the Marine Corps last year had approximately 70 men available as entries in practically every event of the 1928 matches, and by sheer number of entries, plus shooting ability, succeeded in winning or placing in practically every match. Many infantrymen are hoping that the infantry will adopt the same method for the 1929 matches, not only because of the additional opportunities for the infantrymen in different matches but in order to give training and experience to the new members of the infantry squad who have had no match experience. As War Department regulations for the national matches require that at least fifty per cent of the members of the team representing the several arms of the army, navy and marine corps must be men who have never before shot as members of any national match rifle team, the experience which these men will gain by firing in the lesser matches will be invaluable training for those who in the future may become members of a team representing a branch in a national match.

There are a great number of events in which these individuals may compete, many of them carrying prizes and trophies of great intrinsic value. The greatest of these matches is the national individual rifle match which is open to any citizen of the United States, and in which there are usually entered more than 1,000 competitors.

The course of fire in this match consists of 10 shots, slow fire at 200 yards from a standing position; 10 shots, rapid fire at 200 yards from the kneeling or siting position, taken from standing; 10 shots, rapid fire at 300 yards from a prone position, taken from standing; 10 shots slow fire at 600 yards from the prone position without artificial rest. To the winner of this classic event is awarded the Daniel Boone trophy and a gold medal.

A gold medal is also awarded to each of the fifteen competitors making the highest aggregate scores, a silver medal for each of twenty-five members making the next highest aggregate scores and a bronze medal to each of the one hundred next highest competitors.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1418—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

Just the Tire you want!

Your Size-Your Price

GOODYEAR TIRES

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

CORPS AREA GOLF TOURNAMENT HERE IN SEPTEMBER

Announcement that the 4th Corps Area golf tournament for 1929 will be held at Fort Benning during the first week in September, is contained in a bulletin recently issued by headquarters, 4th Corps Area. The schedule of the tournament is as follows:

September 2, Monday — Qualifying rouns, 36 holes.

September 3, Tuesday—First round, 18 holes.

September 4, Wednesday — Second round, 18 holes.

September 5, Thursday—Final rounds, 36 holes.

Players will be divided into flights of eight arranged in accordance with scores made in the qualifying rounds. The number of flights will depend upon the number of entries. Preliminary practice rounds to be played on the Saturday and Sunday preceding the tournament, August 31st and September 1st. No handicaps will be given. Prizes for the various flights will be announced later.

The winner and runner up in the first flight will be designated as the entrants from this corps area for the army championship tournament. The extent of monetary awards to the entrants for defraying transportation costs and the date and place of the army tournament will be announced later.

Quarters will be provided for all officers attending the Benning tournament and mess facilities will be available at a reasonable charge.

REQUEST MUSIC SELECTIONS AT MAIN THEATRE

Theatre goers of Fort Benning have been enjoying the privilege of selecting the motion pictures they most desired to see.

Now comes an innovation wherein patrons of the Main Theatre are accorded the privilege of naming the pieces of music they wish to hear during intermission concerts. This courtesy has been most warmly appreciated by theatre audiences as evidenced by the fact that more requests have been turned in for the week than there are nights to play them. Some of the people have not only named the selection, but also designated the night on which they desired to hear it played. On these occasions the theatre management has made a most conscientious effort in arranging renditions in accordance with the wishes of patrons. However, due to the fact that at times as many as three numbers have been requested for one evening, it obviously has been impossible to satisfy entirely all requests. In cases of this kind one of the pieces requested is played, and a slide is thrown on the screen giving the date upon which the other request-numbers will be offered.

The tastes of Benningites for music are most discriminating. Some have called for Wagnerian and other high-brow music, all of which has been pleasingly deep in melody. Others have asked for some of the latest jazz, which has been of the melodious type rather than the rasping, grating and tuneless so called syncopation.

Where selections have been too lengthy, it has, of course, been necessary to leave out some of the parts, for the main idea is to entertain and not tire the audience.

Still another new musical idea has just been inaugurated. At the opening of the show "Follow Me," composed by Capt. Geo. L. King, a lively swinging march is played as a prelude. This has the effect of stirring up the good spirits of the audience.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Fishing Tackle

The Main Branch of the Post Exchange will have a complete display of Fishing Tackle in about ten days.

POST EXCHANGE

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.

Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s

STORE HOURS: 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturday Till 9

Columbus Retail Store
1008 Broadway

Tires Mounted —FREE— Batteries Installed

Nation-Wide Sale

Gives Super Values — — — — — — — — In Motorists' Needs

Prices Reduced!

ALLSTATE

TIRES AND TUBES

Balloons

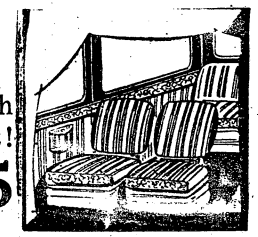
Size	Tire	Tube
28x4.75	$8.35	$1.48
28x5.25	9.75	1.68
29x4.40	6.10	1.23
29x4.75	8.45	1.48
30x4.50	6.98	1.23
30x4.75	8.75	1.55

Cords

Size	Tire	Tube
30x3 Clincher	$4.95	$0.98
30x3½ Regular Clincher	5.25	1.10
30x3½ Oversize Clincher	5.35	1.10
30x3½ S. S.	6.85	1.10

SEAT COVERS

Striped material with Blue Spanish trim. Complete protection at low cost! For Fords, complete sets $4.85



WRENCH SETS

Save money on this 36-piece set of special steel, heat treated and hardened. Steel box..... $3.98

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

AT THE MOVIES

JULY 26 TO AUG. 2, INCL.

FRIDAY, JULY 26

"BETRAYAL," starring Emil Jannings with Esther Ralston and Gary Cooper in a strong drama of real human love. It is considered one of the most heart-gripping stories ever acted. You will laugh with Jannings, and you will weep with him. You will thrill to this human, lovable, pitiable, great character torn between love for a woman and friendship for a man. The beauty of Esther Ralston, as the fascinating blond charmer, breaks the hearts of two men. Honor is sacrificed for love by Gary Cooper, who plays the part of the friend. The background of this gripping drama is the superb Swiss Alps.

Pathe News No. 59.

SATURDAY, JULY 27

"THE MILLION DOLLAR COLLAR," featuring Rin Tin Tin in a gripping robbery story of the underworld, involving crooks and bobbed-haired bandits. Valuables worth $100,000 were on display for this story in the reproduction of a high class jewelry store in the studio. There are thrills a plenty, among which the most outstanding are: the big robbery, the plunging of an automobile with its occupants over a cliff into the river below, and thrilling incidents staged by the dog. Quite unlike the stereotyped western, it includes up-to-date city settings.

"Dizzy Divers." Billy Dooley.

SUNDAY, JULY 28

"WEARY RIVER," starring Richard Barthelmess in a fascinating story of prison life and romance. It is the tale of a singing convict, and contains an abundance of action and sentimental interest. This photoplay was adapted from the original novel by Courtney Ryley Cooper and concerns the man who was framed and sent to prison. Disillusioned, he found himself in song and music and won fame, fortune and love via the radio. Night life, cabarets, apartment houses, and the interior of a broadcasting station are included in addition to intimate glimpses of prison life.

Pathe Review No. 1.

M. G. M. News No. 97.

MONDAY, JULY 29

"THE CHARLATAN," starring Margaret Livingston with Holmes Herbert in an uncanny mystery story concerning a Hindu crystal gazer and a society belle. It is a screen adaptation of the popular New York stage success of the same name. Society visits the strange haunts of the Hindu seer. Weird things happen—the door of the secret cabinet is opened—the beautiful temptress falls into the arms of the Hindu fakir—dead. How did she get into the cabinet? Who was guilty? If you like gripping, suspense holding mystery stories as most people do, this play will very much appeal to you.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 5."

TUESDAY, JULY 30

"THE YELLOW BACK," starring Tom Moore in a filmization of this gripping story from the pen of James Oliver Curwood. It is a thrilling tale of primitive unleashed passions, tragedy and retribution, vividly depicting the motto of the Royal Northwest Mounted, "Get Your Man." There are thrills and chills in the Canadian wilds, and desperate battles for law and jusice with death lurking in every shadow. If you have not read the novel, you owe yourself the privilege this play offers.

"Off Again." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 31

"INNOCENTS OF PARIS," starring Maurice Chevalier in a dazzling story of wine, women and song laid among the gilded, perfumed haunts of Parisian

Maurice Chevalier
in the Paramount Picture
"Innocents of Paris"

stage life. Maurice, as a Parisian junk dealer, risks his life in saving a child from drowning. This starts a romance with the child's aunt. He breaks into the legitimate stage—the aunt, broken hearted, watches the chorus girls caressing him at a dress rehearsal. Jealousy, combined with the temper of an irate father, causes gripping incidents to occur. This story can well be characterized as a gripping romance with a fascinating musical comedy background.

M. G. M. News No. 98.

THURSDAY, AUG. 1.

"THE ETERNAL WOMAN," starring Olive Borden with Ralph Graves and John Miljan in a powerful drama of love and revenge in the Argentine. This emotional, tempestuous, colorful South American drama contrasts marriage for class with marriage for love, portrays how a girl from the pampas teaches the suave American business man all about real love and life as it should be and not as he understood it. Among the various settings are scenes in a quaint old Inn in the mountains of the South American republic, the capital city, on a ship in mid ocean during a storm and wreck, in a fishing village, and in a palatial New York home.

"Here Comes Charlie." Lloyd Hamilton.

FRIDAY, AUG. 2.

"BROADWAY FEVER," starring Sally O'Neill in a story which does justice to its title. It is a thrilling, sparkling comedy concerning the stage career of a fascinating parlor maid, who was a failure on Broadway until she saw the way of another woman with her man. The story carries you into the refined apartments of a big producer where, needless to say, many thrilling occurences happen "behind the scenes," then into the stage entrance of a Broadway show house to the intimate scenes that occur in the dressing rooms and there about. Specifically, it is the amusing story of a girl who wanted to be an actress, but who played her greatest roles in the private life of a great producer.

Pathe News No. 61.

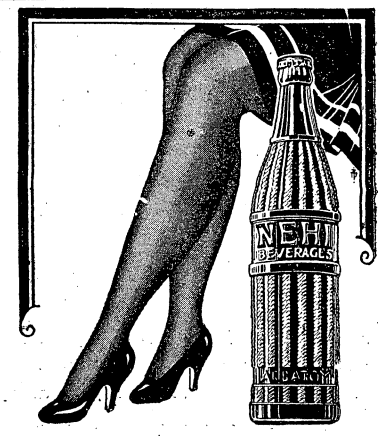
TO TAKE SPECIAL ATHLETIC COURSES

1st Lieutenant Henry B. Ellison, 24th Infantry, has been placed on detached service for the period of July 22 to August 17, for the purpose of attending football, basketball and track courses at Furman University, Greenville, South Carolina, and Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

TRANSFERRED TO PANAMA

2nd Lieutenant Rothwell H. Brown, 29th Infantry, has received orders transferring him to the Panama Canal Department. Lieutenant Brown will depart from Fort Benning for his new station in November.

For better service—
—quicker delivery
Call
465—Ring 2
FORT BENNING
CLEANERS



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest
Modes
LAMAR SMITH
Phone 3032 1131 Broadway

First National Bank
Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"
Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290
Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.
Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

TOOLS FOR THE HANDY MAN
All kinds of tools for the many odd jobs in and around the house. Standard factory brands of the best quality.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.
1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. July 26, 1929 No. 45

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave, Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3. 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

AMBITION

Napoleon is said to have made the assertion that every soldier carried a marshal's baton in his knapsack. The meaning of the statement, of course, was that worthy ambition would be accorded recognition and that it was possible for a soldier to rise from the ranks to a career limited only by opportunity and his own capabilities.

A century and a quarter later, like opportunity beckons to ambition in the ranks of Uncle Sam's army.

Today a score of young soldiers at Fort Benning began their studies in a school which will prepare them for the rigorous competitions which will be held later for appointments to West Point. Their course will not be easy and only the most determined and the fittest will survive the preparatory school. These survivors will later in the year attend another and more difficult school which will eliminate all but those who can qualify for the final competitive examinations for appointments as cadets in the military academy.

To the successful few, the fight will have just begun, for ahead of them will lie four years of the keenest competition which will discourage all but the most tenaciously ambitious.

It is a severe trial of stamina and ability and steadfastness, but to those who follow the hard and straight path of ambition to its goal, there is the opening of a career of distinction in an ancient and honorable profession.

May the ambition of these young soldiers receive its just reward!

LITTER BEARERS

A distinguished officer of high rank, who visited Fort Benning not long ago, paused for a moment of relaxation during one of his inspections. He opened a package of cigarettes and looked about for a receptacle in which to place the tiny fragment of paper which he had torn off a corner of the container. Seeing none nearby, he carefully placed the little piece of paper in his pocket and remarked that he would put it in a waste basket when he returned to his quarters.

Another officer of considerably less eminence sat in an automobile perusing the handful of correspondence, bills and circulars which had accumulated in his post-office box since his last visit. As the car proceeded on its way, its passage was marked by a trail of torn envelopes, circulars and scraps of paper which were strewed along the road as he sorted and read his mail.

A group of soldiers stood outside one of our post theatres during an intermission. Conveniently near was a stand at which candies, cigarettes and bottled drinks were sold. Few, indeed, were those who deposited the discarded wrappings or bottles in the receptacles provided for them. Instead, the majority littered the ground about the theatre with paper, peanut shells, cigarette stubs and bottles.

What a difference between the careful consideration of the officer who carried the tiny scrap of paper to his quarters for disposal and the inconsiderate actions of the others!

Untidiness creates a tremendous amount of unnecessary work for other people who must go around and pick up every scrap of litter which is thrown about by the thoughtless and slovenly.

It should not be forgotten that neatness and order and consideration for others are among the elementary attributes of the soldier.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

HOUSE ANTS AND METHODS OF CONTROL

Many species of ants are found in the United States and a number of these may inhabit dwelling houses or other heated houses under favorable conditions. They construct their nests in the woodwork or masonry or in articles of furniture. They subsist on food materials which they find in kitchens and pantries or scattered about living rooms. The species nesting in gardens and lawns or under adjacent walks are only occasional guests in houses.

Practically all the ants which have become such a nuisance to the housekeeper, were introduced into North America from the Old World or from South America. Ants, which in the tropics live out of doors at all times, are unable to stand the winters in temperate climates and must live indoors. In a climate such as that of Fort Benning there is a certain amount of destruction of furniture and wooden articles by the ants but by far the greatest nuisance is their faculty of "getting into" articles of food, particularly sugars, syrups, cakes, candies and other sweets, and cooked foods of animal origin. Having once gained access to articles of this sort, the discovery is at once reported to the colony, and in an incredibly short time the premises may be swarming with these unwelcome visitors.

The little red ant is the best known of the house species. It has been domesticated so long that its exact origin is not known. While originally a dweller in the soil it now passes its entire existance in heated houses. There are many other species, such as the so-called Argentine ant which has been introduced into the United States from that country. It not only has become a great house pest but also does serious damage in fruit orchards and groves. It is known to drive away other types of these insects. Almost any of the common garden or lawn ants which build their little crater nests in lawns or soil about houses may become temporarily, or on occasion, house pests in their search for food substances. The little black ant sometimes found in houses is of this type. When these or other lawn ants gain access to houses, attracted by food supplies, the nuisance can often be eliminated by tracing them back to their outdoor colony and destroying it.

The habits and life history of all these ants are much alike and present a most interesting and complex phase of communal life, with its accompanying division of labor and diversity of forms of individuals, all working together in perfect harmony and accord. Most of the ants ordinarily seen in houses are neuters or workers. The winged males and females are produced during the summer months and fly about until the colony is established. The males soon perish and the females tear off their own wings, which are but feebly attached, and set about the management of the colony. These "queen" ants lay an extraordinary number of eggs which are cared for by the neuters or workers and the young larvae are fed much the same way as in colonies or hive bees. The so-called ant eggs, in the popular conception, are not eggs at all but the white larvae, many times larger than the true eggs.

The distinctively house-inhabiting ants, such as the little red ant, nest in the woodwork, masonry or articles of furniture and are often very difficult to eradicate on account of their inaccessibility. If the nest can be located by following the workers back to their point of disappearance, the inmates of the nest may sometimes be reached by injecting a little gasoline or kerosine. Naturally the greatest precautions must be taken to see that these inflammable liquids are not used if fire be present.

Such measures will be found only of temporary value if food or other conditions continue to attract the insects. The removal, therefore, of attracting substances in houses should be the first step. The nuisance of their presence can be largely limited by promptly cleaning up all food scattered by children, and keeping in the pantry or storeroom all food supplies which may attract ants, in ant-proof metal containers or ice boxes, limiting the amount of such articles, as far as possible to daily needs. While it is possible to drive away ants by the use of such repellants as naphthaline (moth balls) or camphor, their use in connection with food substances is impractical.

There are many poisons recommended, usually containing arsenic, and these may be mixed with syrup and many ants thus destroyed. However, their use is naturally attended with danger in households that have children or pets, and not a few tragedies from this practice have been reported. The nests of the lawn ant may be destroyed by drenching with boiling water or a small quantity of kerosine (coal oil.)

To sum up, the best way not to be annoyed by ants is to leave no sweets laying about to attract them. The ant colonies maintain an excellent intelligence department and their G-2 is the last word in efficiency, having the best of trained personnel at his disposal.

Small cups of water under the legs of ice boxes and tables will prevent the admission of ants but there should always be placed a few drops of oil on the surface of such cups to prevent mosquito breeding. Right here at Fort Benning mosquitoes have been found breeding in such cups under the ice boxes.

Next week's topic—Dangers of automobile exhaust gases.

A leader should be unwaveringly loyal to his subordinates and to his superiors and the cause which he serves.

At the commencement of a campaign, to advance or not to advance is a matter for grave consideration; but when once the offensive has been assumed, it must be sustained to the last extremity. However skillful the maneuvers in a retreat, it will always weaken the morale of an army, because in losing the chances of success these last are transferred to the enemy. Besides, retreats always cost more men and materiel than the most bloody engagements; with this difference, that in a battle the enemy's loss is nearly equal to your own—whereas in a retreat the loss is on your side only.—Napoleon's 6th Maxim.

Some of the personal characteristics necessary for a leader are physical and moral courage, mental and physical energy, decisiveness, common sense, knowledge of human nature, sound judgment, and a sense of justice and fair dealing.

All wars should be governed by certain principles, for every war should have a definite object, and be conducted according to the rule of art. (A war should only be undertaken with forces proportioned to the obstacles to be overcome.) Napoleon's 5th Maxim.

Leadership involves possession by the individual of professional qualifications and those personal characteristics which inspire confidence and loyalty in subordinates.

29th Infantry Opens Children's Playground

Regimental youngsters lined up for the parade to the new playground.

The kiddie slide did a rushing business on opening day.

Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., talking to children of the regiment at playground opening.

PLAYGROUND OPENED FOR CHILDREN OF 29TH INFANTRY

With appropriate and interesting ceremonies, the 29th Infantry children's playground was officially opened on Friday, July 12. Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., the principal speaker on the program, made a few well-chosen remarks to assembled children and mothers present, after which the pennant-raising took place at the hands of Miss Rilla O'Leary, and two soldierly-looking kiddies, Masters Albert and Bernard Simpson.

Immediately following these formalities, there ensued a mad scramble by the kiddies for the mounds of cake and ice-cream heaped on a table under a tent fly and over which Mr. Ryan, Warrant Officer, 29th Infantry, presided.

After the disappearance of the refreshments, the little merrymakers were then introduced to the modern apparatus and equipment installed for their use, and were soon busily disporting themselves on the various playground devices.

The playground, which is located in Block W, is modernly equipped throughout and the little infantrymen of Fort Benning will now have a place to play, where they will not be at the mercy of passing motorists and will have a place to train and toughen their little bodies.

CAPTAIN MacKECHNIE TRANSFERRED

A radiogram was received by Captain A. R. MacKechnie last Monday, indicating that he will be ordered to sail from New York on August 10th for his new station, Presidio of San Francisco, San Francisco, Cal.

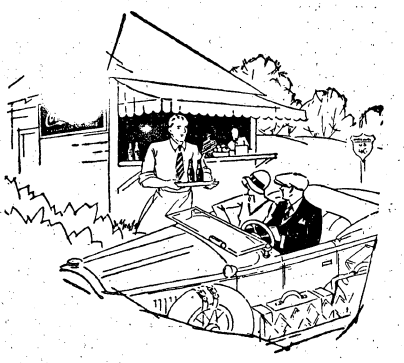
Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Rices, Grits, Milks, Chocolates Cocoa

Always Fresh

C. D. Kenny Co.

1139 Broadway

PHONE 162



SUCH PURITY

Safeguards

the pause that refreshes

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA CO.

Phone 360

OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

BA-116

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE

TAILOR SHOP

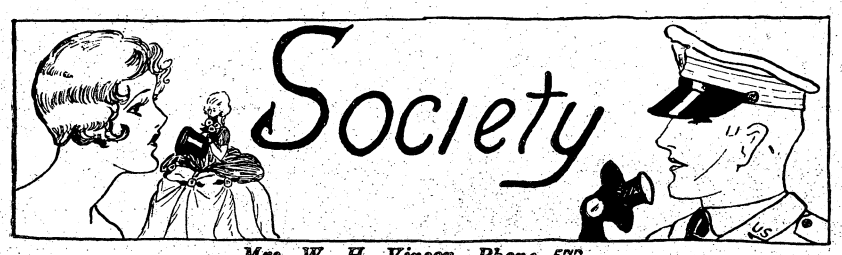
Fort Benning, Ga.

UNTIL AUGUST 3rd!

All tennis equipment will be offered at WHOLESALE PRICES

Make your saving from now till August 3rd, buy something else later in the season.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

FERRANDOU—BURBANK.

Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Odette Ferrandou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Francis Ferrandou, and Lieutenant William Lloyd Burbank, which was quietly solemnized on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Cedar avenue in Wynnton, Chaplain McKenna officiating.

An appropriate program of prenuptial music was rendered by Miss Elizabeth Fort at the piano and immediately before the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. Clarence Bush sang "O Fair, O Sweet, O Holy."

Mrs. J. Howard Gilbreth, herself a bride of a few weeks, was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was strikingly lovely in her wedding dress of white chiffen. He bouquet was of bride's roses and swainsona showered with lilies of the valley.

The groom had for his best man, Lt. J. Howard Gilbreth, of Fort Benning.

Immediately after the ceremony Lt. and Mrs. Burbank left by motor for New England, where they will visit his parents in New Hampshire and go from there to the White Mountains, where they will spend a while before going to Fort Monmouth, N. J., where Lt. Burbank will attend the Signal School.

Mrs. Burbank, as Miss Odette Ferrandou, was a popular member of the young social set in Columbus and since the announcement of her approaching marriage has been complimented with many charming parties. Among those who have entertained for her are: Mrs. George Klump, Miss Sue Mitchell Banks, Miss Sue Mac Fox, Miss Pauline Marcus, Miss Florence Tillery, Mr. and Mrs. Harbin Parks, Mrs. Miles Ballou, Mrs. A. A. Dobak, Mrs. Myles Stewart.

* * *

On Thursday afternoon of last week Mrs. Charles E. Coates and Madame Coates were hostesses at a very delightful three table bridge party at their quarters on Austin Loop. Garden flowers were attractively used in low bowls and baskets for decoration. Mrs. Harry L. Dale won high score prize, a summer pocket book of embroidered moire, Mrs. Edgar E. Hume second, a strand of suntan pearls.

* * *

On Monday afternoon, July 15th, little Patricia Halloran celebrated her sixth birthday very happily. When her little friends assembled they played interesting games in the shade. There was a most appealing taole spread under trees. The cover was a colorful Dennison's Kiddie cloth and there were flowers and a gorgeous cake and plenty of ice cream. Each child found at his place a gay noise maker and every little boy was given a bow and arrows while the little girls were given dolls.

On Friday morning, July 19th, Mrs. W. H. Vinson entertained informally at bridge. The house was decorated with bowls of crepe myrtle and ageratum and vases of vari-colored zinnias. There were four tables of players and Mrs. Winfred G. Skelton won high prize, a half-dozen Madeira napkins, Mrs. Adolph T. Gilhus, second, a box of stationery, and Miss Verna Perry the consolation, a hand-embroidered tea towel. After the game an ice course was served.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Bob Childs have as their guest Mrs. Child's sister, Mrs. Welden, of Griffin, Ga.

* * *

Capt. and Mrs. John R. Deane and children are en route to San Francisco, where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Harry L. Dale leave Saturday for Hawaii.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. Wray B. Avera have as their guests Miss Divity Mobley and Mr. Paul Mobley, of Atlanta.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Fred Hickson had as their house guests last week Maj. Hickson's brother, Mr. Harold Hickson, and Mrs. Hickson, of Indianapolis. During their visit they were charmingly entertained at many informal affairs.

* * *

After the custom in the 29th Infantry, the regimental band on Sunday afternoon at 4:15 serenaded Lt. and Mrs. J. Howard Gilbreth, who were married recently. During the serenade quite a number of officers and ladies of the regiment called.

* * *

Lt. and Mrs. E. L. Stewart and small son left Friday; he, for Camp Perry, and she, for Paxton, Ill., where she will visit her parents.

* * *

On Saturday evening the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry are going to have fun. At six o'clock they will assemble at Russ Pool for a swimming party and picnic. This is the first regimental party in some time and, what which the July weather and all, somebody had the right idea about how to spread joy.

* * *

Major and Mrs. E. E. Lewis leave this week-end for Washington, D. C. They will surely be missed, for they entered so whole-heartedly into all the doings of the garrison. They golfed and rode with the best of them and so generously opened their hospitable home to their many friends that their going away to use a Markham phrase, "leaves an empty place against the sky."

* * *

Col. and Mrs. W. P. Hill tonight honor Maj. and Mrs. Harry L. Dale with a farewell bridge party.

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

NASH "400" SERIES

LEADS THE WORLD IN AUTOMOBILE VALUE

The world has a new and finer motor car

The only car today in any price field embodying the following important features:

Salon Bodies
Twin Ignition Motor
Bohnalite Invar Strut Pistons
Hollow Crankpin 7-Bearing Crankshaft
Houdaille and Double Action Hydraulic Shock Absorbers
Torsional Vibration Damper
Double Drop Frame
Chassis Lubricating System
All Exterior Ware Chrome Plated over Nickel
New Easy Steering Mechanism

We Invite Comparison

EDGE FULLER MOTOR CO.

1309 BROADWAY PHONE 67

100 per cent NASH Service

MRS. YOUNG'S

Grill

"The Best of Food"

117 12th Street Phone 4026

Columbus, Ga.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

Exercise Room of New and Modernly Equipped Dog and Cat Hospital

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

SPIVEY WINS OVER PECK IN GOOD SHOW TUESDAY

By Bernard B. Swayze

Jimmy Spivey upset the dope bucket last Tuesday night by decisively handing Joe (Kid) Peck, of Hot Springs, Arkansas, a lacing that gave the fans the thrill of a life time.

The program from start to finish was one big success after another, opening with Saginaw Seeley and Raven Poe, both of whom showed the public that there would be no back pedaling in this fight. The preliminaries were devoid of knock-outs, but there were punches aplenty. Every round of the schedule was packed jam full of larrupin' lefts and dynamite rights. Pandemonium had broken loose in that squared circle. The fight bugs were buggier than ever, yelling like Indians on the warpath, and coaxing their favorites.

In the first round of the main mixup, Peck slithered out to the center of the roped area, and proceeded to show that he was no ham. He immediately began to work on Mr. Spivey, and had him going for a few seconds, but the gods of fightdom were not to let it last. Spivey shot over a mean wallop from the right side which landed squarely upon Peck's chin. Immediately upon receipt of said right, Joe Kid Peck sat very unceremoniously upon the canvas to take the count of four. He was up and motioning Spivey to him, seemingly undamaged, but that blow showed effect in the latter part of the melee.

Spivey had broken his hand with that one blow, but one could never tell it by the way that he used it for the rest of the fight. It was not even learned until Wednesday morning that the hand was injured, and then Spivey seemed reluctant to let it be known.

The second round showed more action than could be had by a ring full of wild cats. It even seemed that the wildcat that was worn on Spivey's tights had taken part in the fracas. Ringsiders were kept constantly on the alert to duck loose teeth, and when Peck was on the ropes, almost over to be exact, they were compelled to dodge. Later in the round, Spivey made an awful lunge at the rope artist, and tripped almost from the ring, but was assisted to his feet by his opponent.

In the third and fourth rounds, Peck came out and did the first of his real fighting of the night. He laced Spivey from pillar to post in these rounds, showing considerable bit of cunning in the corners and on the ropes. His shiftiness in the corners was something to stand up and look at. He repeatedly made Spivey miss by miles in the corners, and came out of it to land good sound ones to the face and body.

The fifth round was probably the slowest of them all, but was far beyond the speed limit. Peck had the upper hand in this round, and took advantage of it. Some say that it was the first round that he had won. Well he won it, but we won't argue about the rest of them.

The sixth was rather close, and could have been called a draw, but if either of the two are to receive credit for it, it must go to the Columbus lad, Jimmy Spivey. The fans were whooping it up so that the bell was hardly audible, and at this time, Spivey struck a hard right to the stomach after the bell, but it is doubtful that he heard the bell.

Spivey had discovered that he was in the best condition, and proceeded to lace Peck from the beginning of the seventh round to the middle of the tenth. He was into the clinches, backing away without the warning of the referee, and back with a left to the face, and throwing that broken right to the same place. His fighting heart was a bit stronger than Peck's in the last stages of the fight, and his condition played him a good favorite.

His face was unmarked at the end of the fight, and it seemed as though he would not even mind ten more such rounds. There is something in his lesson for all the local boxing talent to take heed of. He was able to sling calf hides from the opening gong to the last, and then be ready for more.

As expressed by one of the fans at the end of the fight, "To whom else could the decision go, but to that boring, ramming, fightin' lad from Columbus, Gawgia?"

The curtain raiser found Raven Poe, of the 29th Infantry, out there battling with Saginaw Seeley, of the Medical Detachment. Poe had been rated as the favorite but then there was reason for the fight to go the other way. Seeley showed vast improvement over his last fight and was in there fighting for his reputation, while it seemed that Poe had forgotten that he had a left, and refused to use it. His right was inevitably blocked by the shifty Seeley, and Poe had lost a hard fight at the final gong.

In the second bout, Corn Griffin and (Pay-day) Pep Causey gave the fans all that they were looking for. Corn was out of his corner, shooting in rights and lefts to the face and head, much to the discomfort of Pep. Pep was never in a track meet mood, always digging in and trying to shoot over one of those sleep producers, that seemed a little late at all times. The more experienced Griffin had the advantage in his prior ring service, and that fact alone lost the fight for Causey. Pep will make one of the best yet if he keeps up at the speed that he has shown in recent months.

Eddie Brault, of the 29th Infantry, was scheduled to meet Frankie Walburn in a six round bout, but Battling Kelly, of Birmingham, masquerading as Whitie Sailor, substituted for Walburn. Brault had the fight in his trunks until the last round, when he left his nose open to a wicked right that kayoed him on his feet. Only his fighter's instinct kept him in there until the last gong, and it was merely a formality for the referee to raise the hand of Whitie Sailor Battling Kelly.

To the consternation of the fans, Doubin' Thomas has changed his name to that of "Dustem," but be that as it may, he is still able to get out in the middle of the ring and give an account of himself. Kid Curlie seemed confident as he walked to the center of the ring, but his pleasant smile was all mussed up by a quick one—two that many

(Continued on page 8.)

K&P

VISIT COLUMBUS' OLDEST JEWELRY STORE, NOW IN A MODERN SETTING.

Agents for:
Gorham, Towle,
International and Schofield Sterling

Articles purchased from us engraved without charge

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

...at the plate it's SWAT!

...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD and yet
THEY SATISFY

TASTE above everything

Millions of smokers say, "I'd rather have a Chesterfield"—for that one reason.

They know little about the millions of pounds of choice tobaccos put away to age... they know nothing of Chesterfield's CROSS-BLENDING method... but they do know how Chesterfields taste!

And rightly enough, taste is the one thing smokers want!

Chesterfield
FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

© 1929, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO

Classified Ads

FOR SALE—Hudson Coach; new paint; good tires: owner leaving town. Phone 1365-W. 7-19-2

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR RENT—New Brick Residence facing Weracoba Park. Seven rooms including three bedrooms. Two rear entrances, Sunbeam Heater, Double Garage. School term or twelve months.

Phone 1109 Columbus.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

ENGINEER RESERVES TRAINING AT INFANTRY SCHOOL

(Continued from page 1.)

Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Redd, Uhland O., Jr., 2nd Lt., 312th Engr., Florence, Ala.; Robinson, William Jr., Capt., 307th Engr., Augusta, Ga.

Sharpe, William H., 1st Lt., Chaplain Res., Amite, La.; Shaw, Duncan P., Capt., 63rd Engr., Rayford, N. C.; Sheehan, George T., Maj., Dental Res., New Orleans, La.; Shelton, Archer V., 2nd Lt., 378th Engr., Pompano, Fla.; Seidleberg, Albert W., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Smith, Frederick A., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Prattville, Ala.; Smith, Hadden B., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Livingston, Ala.; Smith, Landon G., Capt., 344th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Smith, Robert W., Capt., 421st Engr., Columbus, Ga.; Speed, Alonzo, 2nd Lt., 312th Engr., Auburn, Ala.; Spillar, Ernest M., 1st Lt., 312th Engr., Tangipahoa Parish, La.; Squires, Karl B., Capt., 378th Engr., Miami, Fla.; St. John, Henry S., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Strong, William H., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Brewton, Ala.

Taylor, Alexander O., Capt., 378th Engr., West Palm Beach, Fla.; Thomas, Lewis C., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.; Train, Cyril C., 1st Lt., 312th Engr., Baton Rouge, La.; Trevarthen, Dwight C., Capt., 66th Engr., Montgomery, Ala.; Tucker, Elliott J., Capt., 67th Engr., Vivksburg, Miss.; Tucker, LeRoy, Capt., 307th Engr., Clemson College, S. C.

Urwiller, Clifford S., 1st Lt., 307th Engr., Tampa, Fla.

Van Os, Seymour, Capt., 443rd Engr., Shreveport, La.

Watson, James R., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Tuskegee, Ala.; White, John L. Maj., 378th Engr., Bastrop, La.; Wells, Arthur G., 2nd Lt., 420th Engr., Wheeler, Ala.; Wilkins, Marion K., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Jacksonville, Fla.; Williams, Henry W., 2nd Lt., 694th Engr., Friars Point, Miss.; Woodson, James P., Capt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.

Zobel, James A., 2nd Lt., 344th Engr., Birmingham, Ala.

SPIVEY WINS OVER PECK IN GOOD SHOW TUESDAY

(Continued from page 7.)

missed, as they were looking back at Grumpy Gordy. Thomas faced Curlie for the whole length of a six round schedule, and in the end snorted his delight when the referee lifted his hand as the winner. It was easy pickin's for him.

Now when two red-headed Irishmen meet up, there is bound to be fun for the cash customers. Red Keenan and Red Alford met in the semi-final for the night, and there was red fur flying from start to finish.

It is a known fact that Keenan has a weak spot, but he kept it well covered, and calmly punched Alford from one corner to another.

Keenan took every round of the fight, with the possible exception of the fourth. Alford got in and handled the local redhead with the systematic determination of the experienced fighter that he is. Keenan, however, placed the taboo on all of this in the rest of the fight, and allowed Alford to get in close only for a breathing spell.

SOLDIER'S NET TOURNAMENT

There will be an enlisted men's tennis tournament held at the Officers' Club courts beginning August 5th. Trophies for the tournament will be given for the winner and runner up in each class.

Those desiring to enter the tournament are requested to send in their written request to the sports editor of the Infantry School News.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

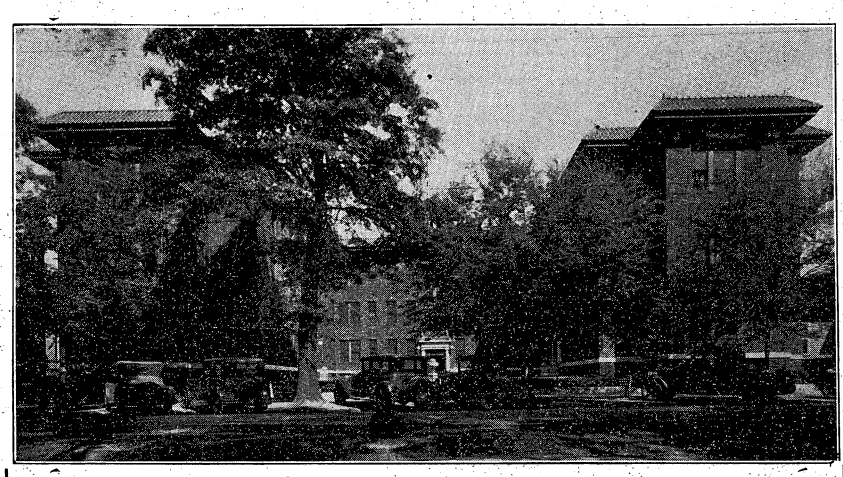
SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Ralston Hotel
DINING ROOM
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30
Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets
RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co.

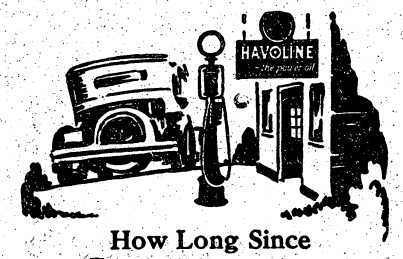
Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill
Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

Dependable Electric and Gas Service
Columbus Electric and Power Co.
1330 Broadway
W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.
The Columbus Bank and Trust Company
—o—
Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000
—o—
Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 2, 1929 Number 46

Infantry Organization Study Begins at Infantry School

PAY BOARD MAKES REPORT RECOMMENDS NEW SCHEDULE

The interdepartmental board composed of officers of the army, navy and marine corps, coast guard, coast and geodetic survey and public health service, which was formed to consider modifications of existing pay laws, has made its report in which the six services concerned were unanimously agreed.

The pay schedule recommended by the board is based on the 1908 schedule because that schedule was enacted after a careful consideration by Congress of the then existing and prospective economic conditions. The change in these conditions brought about by the World War has resulted in the purchasing power of the present dollar being less than half of the 1908 dollar. In other words, the cost of living has increased 104 per cent in the last 20 years.

As a result of its studies, the board prepared and recommended a schedule which provides for average increases in pay for all classes of personnel as follows:

	Over 1908 Schedule	Over 1922 Schedule
Officers	58%	44%
Warrant Officers	87%
Nurses	105%
Enlisted Men	83%	25%

The outstanding features of the proposed schedule of officers' pay are:

1. All allowances are consolidated into a single item designated as "Pay." Rental is deducted when an officer occupies government quarters.

2. There is no consideration given to dependents.

3. Pay is based fundamentally on the grade held, with increases for length of commissioned service. Provision has been made to safeguard the interests of majors and lieutenant colonels who are unduly delayed in attaining their promotions.

4. It prevents so far as is practicable, a junior receiving more pay than a senior.

5. The adoption of the basic idea that pay should be adequate under present economic conditions, and that in the higher grades pay should be commensurate with the responsibility and dignity of the position and comparable to the remuneration of a successful career in civil life.

6. Federal commissioned service only is used for pay purposes.

7. The pay of national guard and reserve officers is on the same basis as regular officers of equivalent grade and length of service, with no change in existing law as to determination of such service.

8. Pay of retired officers shall be based on pay of officers on active list, of like grade.

(Continued on page 2.)

GENERAL KING RETURNS

Brigadier General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, returned from leave of absence and resumed command of the Infantry School last Sunday.

COMMITTEE STUDIES CITY LIVING EXPENSES

Recognition of the acute shortage of houses and apartments in Columbus which are within the means of junior army officers who are forced to live in the city during their school term at the Infantry School, is seen in a recent decision of the War Department to order no more officers to duty as students at the Infantry School, who are entitled to less than the equivalent rental allowance of a captain or of a first lieutenant with more than ten years service.

The action of the War Department indicates that for the school year 1929-1930, the combined regular officers' classes will consist of approximately 150 officers, as compared with 235 officers who attended the Infantry School last year. One hundred and sixty-eight officers of last year's classes occupied rented quarters in Columbus during their 9-month school term and it is estimated that considerably fewer officers will reside in Columbus this year. This means that many owners of houses or apartments will be deprived of their expected rental income from their property this year. The reduction of classes from 235 to 150 members, it is conservatively estimated, means also a reduction of about $10,000 per month in the amount of money spent in Columbus by army personnel of the Infantry School, as each officer who lives in Columbus, spends well over $100 per month in the city. Since 1925 the classes have been reduced in size by 170 with a consequent estimated reduction of about $18,000 per month of the money put into circulation in Columbus by army personnel.

The War Department proposes, by limiting the members of the Infantry School classes to those officers whose rental allowance is that of a captain or of a first lieutenant of over ten years service, to relieve the junior officer from the hardships imposed by the necessity of paying more for his quarters, fuel and light than his allowance will cover.

The housing committee at Fort Benning, after a careful study, has prepared a table showing the average living expenditures of student captains and lieutenants residing in Columbus. According to the figures of the housing committee, a captain's expenses for rented quarters and related incidental expenses, exceeds his allowance by approximately $16.00 per month, while those of a first lieutenant with less than ten years' service are $33.50 in excess of his allowance.

The second lieutenant must pay $53.50 in excess of his allowance for quarters, which is $40.00 less than that of a captain and $20.00 less than that of a first lieutenant. These excess costs, the committee points out, are equivalent to taxation of an officer because of the necessity of living in Columbus during his course in the Infantry School, and are prohibitive for the average junior officer.

The committee also states that there now are few officers of higher rank than captain who are eligible to attend the Infantry School, and of the remainder under that grade, the number who are

(Continued on page 2.)

NATIONAL MATCHES BEGIN SOON; INFANTRY TEAM TO BE SELECTED

In a little more than three weeks one of the nation's greatest sportsmen's classics will begin at Camp Perry, Ohio. Although not usually regarded as a sportsman's event, the annual meeting of some 3,000 of the country's best rifle and pistol shots has many of the aspects of a great sporting event. Sponsored by the National Rifle Association of America and the Congress of the United States, the 22 day competition will afford a test to all types of marksmen and to all classes of small arms. Everything from the more recent and highest developed military rifle to the home-made small-bore will be seen on the mile-long line of riflemen when the variety of competitive events for historical trophies, cash prizes and honors in the shooting world begin.

The matches will officially open on August 25 and will close on September 15. Preceding the actual firing of the matches, will be a small arms firing school which all competitors, except those holding a certificate of proficiency from it or a similar school, must attend. The small arm school period extends over seven days and is designed to not only teach methods of shooting but to qualify its graduates as instructors in marksmanship. It also tends to raise the scores of novice competitors by giving them theory and practice of marksmanship on the field of competition.

Following the small arms firing school will be the matches sponsored by the National Rifle Association, which will begin on September 1st and be completed on September 8th.

After the National Rifle Association program the national rifle and pistol matches will be fired. It is in these matches that the army, navy and marine corps are more interested, for among them are the national rifle team match and the national individual rifle matches as well as the national pistol team and the national individual pistol matches.

The infantry is particularly interested in the national rifle team match which is the classic event of all service matches. Competition for this event generally centers around the infantry and marine corps. In 1927 this championship event was won by the infantry but in 1928 the marines carried away the honors.

Since June the infantry team squad has been practicing at Camp Perry and its members are becoming familiar with the wind and weather conditions peculiar to the Camp Perry range which is located on the shores of Lake Erie and is subjected to the strong winds which blow in across the lake.

The squad comprises approximately 30 men from whom the 12 shooting members of the team which will seek championship honors for the infantry will be selected in the near future.

INFANTRY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT UNDER WAY

Experimental Units Organized

Experiments with reorganized units of the 29th Infantry are now being conducted by the Infantry Board with the idea of securing greater flexibility of the war strength infantry division and its components, and of studying proposed changes in armament to meet the new conditions which are being introduced into warfare by the advancement of weapons and mechanized and motorized equipment.

Radical changes in the organization of all the lower units down and including the squad have been proposed and will be tested during the experimental program which began this week.

An outstanding feature of one of the proposed reorganizations is the addition of a platoon of automatic riflemen to the rifle company.

The rifle company would then consist of three platoons armed with the present caliber .30 rifle and a platoon armed with the present automatic rifle. This organization of a rifle company is thought to be sufficiently flexible to be adaptable to future developments in infantry small arms. If an automatic shoulder rifle should be adopted for limited use it would replace the present Browning automatic rifle in the fourth platoon. If a shoulder automatic rifle should be adopted to replace the present magazine rifle the fourth platoon would retain the present automatic rifle or be armed with a new machine rifle or light one-man machine gun, depending upon developments in these arms.

The machine gun company under the proposed new organization would consist of four platoons, three of which would be armed with the caliber .30 machine gun and the fourth with the caliber .50 machine gun. Squads in the platoons armed with the .30 caliber machine guns are to be reduced in size from 11 men to 8.

The howitzer company would be broken up and one platoon would be assigned as an integral part of each battalion headquarters company. The organization tests now under way contemplate an approximate strength of the division and its components as follows:

Rifle Company—Three rifle platoons, 1 automatic rifle platoon, six officers and 251 enlisted men.

Machine Gun Company—Three platoons caliber .30 machine guns, one platoon caliber .50 machine guns; 7 officers and 191 enlisted men.

Battalion — Headquarters company, two rifle companies, 2 machine gun companies; 34 officers and 980 enlisted men.

Service Company—Six officers and 187 enlisted men. Trucks would be substituted for wagons.

Band—28 enlisted men.

Regiment—Three battalions, 119 officers, 3,026 enlisted men (plus 13 officers, 84 enlisted men, attached medical and chaplains.)

Brigade—Two regiments; 275 officers, 6,779 enlisted men.

Light Tank Battalion—Battalion headquarters company, 3 light tank compan-

(Continued on page 2.)

PAY BOARD MAKES REPORT; RECOMMENDS NEW SCHEDULE

(Continued from page 1.)

PROPOSED PAY SCHEDULE

Grade	Base Pay	Over 3 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 6 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 9 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 12 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 15 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 18 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 21 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 24 yrs. Comm. Service	Over 27 yrs. Comm. Service	Maximum	Deduction for Govt. quarters occupied
Maj. Gen.	14,000										14,000	1,800
Brig. "	12,000										12,000	1,800
Colonel	10,200									10,500	10,500	1,500
Lt. Col.	8,700							9,000	9,300	9,600	9,600	1,500
Major	6,000	6,300	6,600	6,900	7,200	7,500	7,800	8,100	8,400	8,400	8,400	1,320
Captain	5,100	5,400	5,700	6,000	6,300	6,600	6,900	7,200	7,200	7,200	7,200	1,080
1st Lt.	4,000	4,400	4,800	5,200	5,600	6,000	6,000	6,000	6,000	6,000	6,000	840
2d Lt.	3,000	3,400	3,800	4,200	4,600	4,600	4,600	4,600	4,600	4,600	4,600	600

The following table shows 1908 pay brought up to present condition:

Grade	Service	1908 Pay Only *	1908 Pay and Allowances 	Present Equivalent of 1908 Schedule Pay Only	Present Equivalent of 1908 Schedule Pay and Allowances	Present Pay and Allowances With Dependents	Present Pay and Allowances Without Dependents (on field or sea duty)
Major General	40	$8,000	$9,532	$16,320	$19,445	$9,700	$8,219
Brig. General	36	6,000	7,375	12,240	15,045	7,500	6,219
Colonel	30	5,000	6,209	10,200	12,666	7,200	6,219
Lt. Colonel	25	4,500	5,546	9,180	11,314	6,997	5,119
Major	20	4,000	4,879	8,160	9,953	5,757	4,119
Captain	14	3,120	3,836	6,365	7,825	4,278	3,099
1st Lieutenant	8	2,400	2,954	4,896	6,026	3,358	2,419
2d Lieutenant	2	1,870	2,253	3,815	4,596	2,199	1,719

* Not on sea duty or on foreign station, for which 10% extra.

 Not in government quarters, if so, previous column applicable. Allowances, varying for locality, here used as for Washington, D. C.

WARRANT OFFICERS

(1) Warrant officers of the army (except the army mine planter service), navy, marine corps and coast guard to receive $2,550 per annum, with an increase of $150.00 per annum for each 3 years of service not exceeding 30 years.

(2) Warrant officers of the army mine planter service to receive pay as follows:

Master	$3,000
First Mate	2,500
Second Mate	2,100
Engineer	2,900
Assistant Engineer	2,500

and also to receive $150.00 per annum increase for each 3 years of service not exceeding 30 years.

WOMEN NURSES

Superintendent	$4,000
Asst. supt. and director	3,000
Assistant director	2,400
Chief nurse	2,100
Nurse acting as assistant to chief nurse	1,800
Nurse	1,500

all to receive an increase of $120.00 per annum for each period of 3 years of service in the nurses' corps not exceeding 15 years.

ENLISTED MEN

Existing discrepancies between the pay of enlisted men of the several services to be removed. A single pay schedule applicable to all services is recommended.

The following shows present and proposed base pay:

Pay Grade	Present Base Pay per month	Proposed Base Pay per month	Proposed Base Pay per year
First	$126.00	$150.00	$1,800
Second	84.00	99.00	1,188
Third	72.00	84.00	1,008
Fourth	54.00	66.00	792
Fifth	42.00	54.00	648
Sixth	30.00	36.00	432
Seventh	21.00	21.00	252

All to receive increases of 10% upon the completion of the first 4 years of enlisted service and an additional increase of 5% for each 4 years of service thereafter not to exceed a total of 25%.

It is to be noted that no increase is provided for the lowest grade, but the board recommends that existing restrictions on the percentage of the authorized number men of the army and marine corps in each pay grade be removed, and that the distribution be made at the discretion of the heads of the respective departments as is now the case for the navy and coast guard. This permits the heads of departments to provide for the promotion of a private from this lowest grade from $21.00 per month to $36.00 per month as soon as he shall be deemed qualified to pass beyond the recruit stage.

The following data of increases in pay throughout the federal services of the United States are of interest and show the need for a revision upward of army and navy pay:

Service	Pay Range 1908	Pay Range 1928	Inc. Limits	Average
Cabinet	$12,000	$15,000		25%
Asst. secretaries	4,500	9,000 to 10,000	100 to 122%	111
Congress	7,500	10,000		33
Judiciary	6,000 to 13,000	10,000 to 20,000	67 to 58	62
Foreign service	1,000 to 3,000	2,500 to 9,000	150 to 200	175
Civil service (Cler.)	720 to 3,000	1,260 to 6,000	75 to 100	87
Civil service (Mech.)	601 to 1,878	1,327 to 5,333	121 to 186	153
Post office insp.	1,200 to 3,000	2,800 to 4,500	134 to 550	92
Public schools, D. C.	500 to 2,100	1,400 to 4,400	180 to 110	145
Army and navy	1,870 to 9,538	1,719 to 9,700*	8 to 2	3

* Maximum permanent; temporary while general or admiral $11,900, vice admiral $10,200.

Note: It is obviously difficult to obtain the average pay of the above services, and the pay range is therefore given, indicating the pay on entering and the maximum to which a member of the service may hope to attain. For the army and navy the actual average increase throughout all grades is 11%

These services in order of average increase of pay range:

Service	Average increase of pay
Foreign service	175%
Civil service (Mech.)	153
Public schools, D. C.	145
Asst. secretaries	111
Post office inspectors	92
Civil service (Cler.)	87
Judiciary	62
Congress	33
Cabinet	25
Army and navy	3

The members of the interdepartmental board are preparing a bill to carry out the recommendations above outlined.

HARP'S POND DAM BREAKS AGAIN

The old concrete spillway at Harp's Pond built in 1927 failed early Thursday morning, July 25, and as a result Harp's Pond is again without water. An examination of the failure indicates that the sandy sub-soil under the spillway sprung a leak which washed out so much soil that the concrete shell was undermined and collapsed.

The section of the dam which was carried away by the floods of last March, and which was rebuilt in May, 1929, by the 7th Engineers and details from the 15th Tank Bn. and Service Company, 29th Infantry, held firmly and was only slightly damaged by the rush of water through the break in the old dam. About 65 feet of the old dam went out with the spillway.

No decision has been reached as to rebuilding but it is doubted that it will be rebuilt until funds are on hand to put in a permanent dam with concrete core wall. It had been realized that there was considerable chance of failure of the Harp's Pond dam as it was built only of the material available locally.

COMMITTEE STUDIES CITY LIVING EXPENSES

(Continued from page 1.)

entitled to rental allowances sufficient to cover their living expenses while residing in Columbus is rapidly growing smaller. Accordingly, if the present policy is maintained, the classes at Fort Benning will be reduced automatically each year, the committee states.

An increase in the number of suitable dwellings available to officers of lower rank not only would mean revenue to the owners of houses and apartments which otherwise would be vacant, but would be of direct benefit to the merchants of Columbus because of the additional money which would be put into circulation in the city by the greater number of these officers who would be authorized to occupy quarters in the city while attending the Infantry School.

Following is a table prepared by the housing committee showing the average expenses of officers living in Columbus:

Captain
Rent	$66.62
Cooking, fuel and lights	10.00
Heat, fuel	4.20
Water	1.00
Telephone (party line)	2.45
Ice	5.70
Transportation (motor)	6.00
	$95.97
Allowance	80.00
	$15.97

1st Lieutenant
Rent	$64.15
Heat, fuel	4.20
Cooking, fuel and lights	10.00
Water	1.00
Telephone (party line)	2.45
Ice	5.70
Transportation (motor)	6.00
	$93.50
Allowance	60.00
Student's expense	$33.50

INFANTRY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT UNDER WAY

(Continued from page 1.)

ies, 26 officers and 489 enlisted men (plus 3 officers and 16 enlisted men, attached medical.)

The proposed division would consist of 2 brigades, 1 light tank battalion, and the usual headquarters company, military police company and attached troops, and would have a total strength of 590 officers and 14,388 enlisted men. Deducting the attached medical and chaplains, the infantry strength of the division would amount to 535 officers and 14,036 enlisted men.

Tests of this tentative organization, which is one of several proposed, will be made during the first eight weeks of the test program which became effective this week.

The first week of the test is being devoted to organizing and equipping the new type of battalion. During the second week close and extended order drill, march formations, anti-aircraft defense and security will be taken up by the rifle and machine gun companies, while motor field train operations will be studied by the Service company. The third week will be devoted to the development and deployment for attack and defense by companies. During the fourth and fifth weeks, the battalion will be engaged in tests of development and deployment for attack and defense; time for deployment, and road spaces. The Service company will continue its operation of the motorized field train. During the sixth week, the companies will operate in attack and defense. The battalion in attack and defense will occupy the seventh week, while the eighth week will be devoted to the battalion in pursuit, withdrawal and delaying actions, relief of units, movement by truck trains and night operations.

Tests of another type of battalion organization consisting of a headquarters company, four rifle companies and a machine gun company, will also be made by the board.

Other experimental organizations of the division and its components will be tested during the six months allowed for experimentation in organization and the tactical methods suitable for the new units.

POLICE AND PRISON OFFICERS CHANGE

Captain George B. Wescott, 29th Infantry, has been detailed on special duty as prison officer, relieving Captain Walter E. Seamon, Infantry, who is attached to the 24th Infantry.

1st Lieutenant Norman C. Caum, 29th Infantry, has been detailed on special duty as police officer, relieving Captain Raymond P. Lavin, who returns to duty with the 29th Infantry.

POST POLO TEAM GOES TO CHICAGO

The Fort Benning polo team, captained by Major C. B. Lyman, is today on its way to Chicago, where it will play in the inter-circuit championship tournament, sponsored by the Owentia Polo Club, and the twelve goal tournament, sponsored by the Oakdale Polo Club.

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 2 TO AUG. 9, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 2

"BROADWAY FEVER," starring Sally O'Neill in a story which does justice to its title. It is a thrilling, sparkling comedy concerning the stage career of a fascinating parlor maid, who was a failure on Broadway until she saw the way of another woman with her man. The story carries you into the refined apartments of a big producer where, needless to say, many thrilling occurrences happen "behind the scenes," then into the stage entrance of a Broadway show house to the intimate scenes that occur in the dressing rooms and there about. Specifically, it is the amusing story of a girl who wanted to be an actress, but who played her greatest roles in the private life of a great producer.

Pathe News No. 61.

SATURDAY, AUG. 3

"WILD BLOOD," featuring thousands of wild horses and the famous stallion, Rex, king of wild horses, in a most gripping picture of the West. The story concerns a gold prospector in the wild-horse country. It contains a bright romance and a beautiful scenic background. Rex is the leader of a wild herd whose mate is stolen from him by a cattle rustler. Among the gripping scenes is the stampede of a wild herd with hundreds of rushing animals. This was filmed with great danger to the entire company. The story offers enjoyable comedy as well as drama.

"Noisy Noises." Our Gang.

SUNDAY, AUG. 4

"THE DIVINE LADY," starring Corrine Griffith in a gigantic sea spectacle with a mighty love story which swayed the fate of nations. The cast contains thousand in breathless battle action. The picture reproduces the famous naval victory of Lord Nelson at the Battle of Trafalgar. It was filmed on old sailing ships rebuilt to duplicate exactly those used by Nelson. The story concerns the stirring days of the Napoleonic era of the eighteenth century, with the entwining love of beautiful Lady Hamilton and Lord Nelson as its central theme. This gripping story will not only add to your historic knowledge, but will also thrill you with its stirring immensity. You cannot afford to miss it.

CORINNE GRIFFITH in "THE DIVINE LADY"

M. G. M. News No. 99.

MONDAY, AUG. 5

"THE KID'S CLEVER," featuring Glenn Tryon in a continuity of clever, comical, laugh-knockouts. Speed boats, automobiles, beautiful women, and clever men enter into the story. It tells of a young inventor who is frantically trying to market his latest brain child, a combination of motor boat and automobile. The thing is powered by a fuelless motor, and is capable of performing the most astounding feats on land or sea. Its antics keep the audience in gales of laughter during the entire performance. Of course, a tasty romance binds the plot.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 6."

TUESDAY, AUG. 6

"THE CAPTIVE WOMAN," starring Milton Sills with Dorothy Mackaill in a gripping combination story of the South Sea Islands and civilization. She was vibrant, vagrant, and voluptuous—any man's woman. He was bitter, staunch and fearless—no woman's man. Strange that these two natures should find love in the lonely wilds. Stranger still that he should take her back to civilization as his captive woman to answer a charge of murder. The story is as exciting as the scenes are beautiful. It is a tale of regeneration.

"Eats for Two." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 7

"WOLF SONG," starring Lupe Valez and Gary Cooper in a gripping story of romance, brawn and bravery laid in the sun-kissed wastes of a southern republic. While the tale contains much of the bravado, it possesses a beautiful simplicity of theme with heart-felt scenes leading up to a most pleasing climax.

M. G. M. News No. 100.

THURSDAY, AUG. 8

"THE JAZZ AGE," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., with Marceline Day and Henry B. Whitehall in a story of "whoopee" well worthy of its title. It concerns petting, prancing, dancing, loving, living youth, gentlemen sheiks, and jazzing flapper queens. Modern youth plunges down a one-way road to disaster, yet, emerges unharmed. It courts the thrill of misdoings, but does little wrong. The story concerns a reckless son whose wild escapades are a strain on his modest and respected father. Complications arise when the son seeks to prevent his "kid" sister from associating with the crowd in which he is the brightest flame. Through all the hectic happenings, a love story of impelling dramatic sincerity develops between the principals, and brings soaring hilarity down to earth.

"Manchu Love." Great Event-Technicolor.

FRIDAY, AUG. 9

"MAN, WOMAN AND WIFE," starring Norman Kerry with Pauline Starke with a strong supporting cast in a gripping melodrama concerning the idle rich. Two boys join the army, one of them loses his courage and changes his identification tag with a dead man; he cannot return to his home and wife in his former identity, so he becomes a drifter in the New York tenderloin district. His pal becomes engaged to his wife and he hasn't the courage to make himself known and stop the wedding. Complication after complication sets in. The story is replete with suspense and stirring situations. Even the cold stone walls of a prison are brought into the plot.

Pathe News No. 63.

LT. JACOBS ON LEAVE

On account of the illness of his father, Lieut. Ben R. Jacobs was granted a leave of absence for thirty days, effective July 12, 1929.

MORE OFFICERS ORDERED TO CAMP PERRY

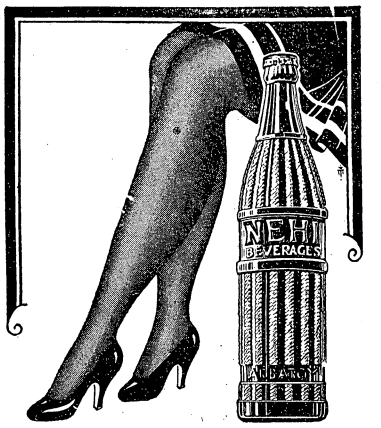
Captain Frederick S. Doll and Captain Stonewall Jackson have received orders detailing them on temporary duty with the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, where they will report August 20th.

If it can be cleaned

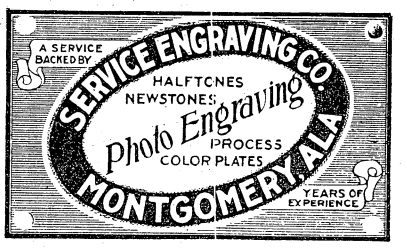
FORT BENNING CLEANERS

Can do it.

465—Ring 2



ON SALE at all CANTEENS



STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

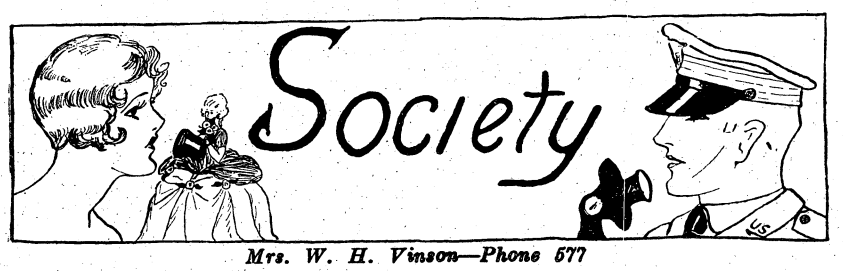
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson—Phone 577

JETER-RASOR

The Asheville Citizen carried the following item which will be of much interest to the many friends of Lieutenant Jeter.

"A wedding of charm and simplicity was solemnized on July 23 at three o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. M. Major of Morristown, Tennessee, in the living room of her apartment at the Kingmire Hotel, when Miss Sara Latimer Rasor of Asheville became the bride of Lieutenant John Randolph Jeter of Union, South Carolina.

"Mrs. Charles Sisk of Bryson City, a sister of the bride, was the only attendant. The room was charming in its dainty array of flowers, a color scheme of pink and white being used throughout. A musical program was rendered before the ceremony, Mrs. Dosse of Morristown singing several selections. During the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. Wolfe of the First Methodist Church of Morristown, "To a Wild Rose" was played.

"Mrs. Jeter wore a lovely dark blue going-away gown of georgette with egg-shell accessories, hat matching, and carried a floral cascade of roses, fresias and other flowers. Mrs. Sisk wore tan georgette with accessories matching and a shoulder corsage of pink rose buds.

"Mrs. Jeter has been one of the most popular teachers in the Asheville Schools and is a daughter of Mr. W. H. Rasor proprietor of the Marianna Hotel.

"She has been one of the most popular of the younger set, unusually attractive and pretty, with a large circle of friends who will be interested in her marriage.

"Mr. Jeter is the son of Mrs. R. R. Jeter of Union, S. C., and has been stationed for the past four years at Fort Benning, Georgia.

"A reception was held after the ceremony and the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the ice course served, and in the decorations.

"Only members of the two families attended the wedding.

"Lieutenant and Mrs. Jeter left on the afternoon train for a stay, in Washington and New York and after July thirty-first will be at home at Fort Adams, Newport, Rhode Island."

TAYLOR-SMITH

Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends in both army and civilian circles was the wedding of Miss Evelyn Clyde Taylor and Lieutenant Charles M. Smith, U. S. A., which was solemnized at the quarters of Captain and Mrs. William Hutson. Captain John R. Wright performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

The ceremony took place before an improvised altar of palms and ferns. Baskets filled with white roses, and ivory tapers burning in silver candelabra completed the decorations.

Mrs. William Hutson was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a becoming gown of apricot moire made with close fitting bodice and circular skirt of ankle length.

The lovely young bride was radiant in her wedding dress of white chiffon made with long waist and very full skirt of uneven hem line. Her costume was completed by her bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley.

Following the ceremony Captain and Mrs. Hutson entertained with a wedding supper.

The table was laid with a handsome lace cloth and in the ecnter was the bride's cake with a miniature bride and groom as decoration. Ivory tapers tied with white tulle bows and tillies of the valley burned in silver candlesticks completing the table decorations. The cake was cut by the bride with her husband's saber.

Captain and Mrs. Hutson had as their guests:

Lieutenant and Mrs. Smith, Captain and Mrs. J. R. Wright, Miss Adele Burns, Lieutenant R. H. Bond.

Major and Mrs. L. C. Allen of Fort Benning were hosts at a beautiful dinner party on Tuesday evening entertaining at the Log Cabin. They had as their honor guest their sister, Miss Marian Townsley of Washington, D. C.

The beautifully appointed table was laid with filet lace mats and had for its central decoration a bowl filled with rose zinnias, dahlias, buddlea and physostegia. Pink tapers burned at either end of the table and mints in pastel shades completed the decorations.

Covers were laid for twelve and seated at the table were:

Miss Marian Townsley, Lieutenant and Mrs. Townsley, of Auburn, Ala., Colonel Card, Captain and Mrs. Bolte, Captain and Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, Lieutenant and Mrs. Brimmer and Major and Mrs. Allen.

Colonel and Mrs. W. P. Hill honored Major and Mrs. Harry Dale with a lovely bridge party given at the Polo Club on Friday evening. There were ten tables of players. High score prize for ladies was won by Mrs. Patterson, second by Mrs. E. E. Hume and Mrs. F. E. Hickson scored low. Colonel Charles Coates received the high score prize for the men, Captain Eskew second and Captain Clarence Harvey was awarded low score prize. Each of the winners received an attractive gift.

* * *

Honoring Miss Harriette Wells, bride-elect of Lieutenant L. A. Diller, Mrs. S. R. Hurt entertained with a lovely luncheon and miscellaneous shower, given at the Log Cabin Friday, July twenty-sixth. Guests were seated at a long table on which a variety of summer flowers were effectively used as a centerpiece. After the luncheon Miss Wells was showered with many lovely gifts. Attractive place-cards of miniature brides marked places for: Mrs. Joseph Gilbreath, Mrs. J. S. Roosma, Mrs. Frank Girard, Mrs. Rothwell Brown, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Misses Harriette Wells, Sue Brandt, Bess Berry, Dorothy Russ, Daisy Reed, Theodosia Hocker, Lola O'Connell, Landon Reed and Helen Moore.

* * *

A No-Host Treasure Hunt was enjoyed by a number of the young people n Thursday night. The first clue to the treasure was given at the Polo Club, and those fortunate enough to solve each clue found themselves in turn at the Main Theatre, McAndrew Range, Russ Pool, Post Cemetery gate, golf tee number twelve, entrance to Fire House number two, Twenty-Fourth Infantry school house, the show tank, the Infantry School stables, and back to the Polo Club where the treasure was hidden. The first couple to find the treasure, a box of candy, was Miss Dorothy Russ and Mr. Mike Williard. After the Hunt there was an informal dance at the Club House.

On Thursday evening July 25th at the Officers Club, Captain and Mrs. Carl Ulsaker entertained at dinner for Miss Lurline Parker, Mr. Harold Parker and Lieutenant and Mrs. Wilbur Vinson. Miss Parker and Mr. Parker, who is a student at the University of Georgia, have been the guests of their sister, Mrs. Vinson.

* * *

On Saturday evening Lieutenant and Mrs. Khoeler Daley entertained at a bridge party to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Lieutenant Daley. There were four tables in play. Those enjoying the Daley's hospitality were: Lieutenant and Mrs. J. S. Roosma, Lieutenant and Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Lieutenant and Mrs. Joseph Gilbreath, Misses Harriette Wells, Sue Brandt, Bess Berry and Theodosia Hocker, Captain W. F. Heavey, Lieutenants L. A. Diller, Ben Fowlkes, Maury Cralle, Johnnie Doidge, and Edward Chazal. Mrs. Gilbreath was awarded the ladies prize for high score and Lieutenant Chazal received a gift for high score for men.

* * *

Mrs. A. Langley, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Edward

(Continued on page 5.)

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

We Announce

Beginning August the Fifth, our pre-season Showing of FINE BLANKETS, COMFORTS and other BEDDINGS. Check now your FALL and WINTER BEDDING NEEDS and attend this EVENT while stocks are yet FRESH and CRISP.

There is nothing like being PREPARED for COLD WEATHER and the QUALITY and DURABILITY of KIRVEN'S BLANKETS are unsurpassed. BLANKETS for all occasions in all weights and sizes.

ASK ABOUT OUR CONVENIENT DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN.

Mail orders promptly filled.

Kirven's
ESTABLISHED 1876

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Additional Society

(Continued from page 4.)

Zuver for the past few weeks, left Sunday for New York City.

Mrs. R. H. Brown left Sunday for a visit of a month in Baltimore. She will be the guest of her parents, Major and Mrs. Hayes. Accompanying Mrs. Brown was her little daughter, Virginia, and Master and Miss Hutson, children of Captain Hutson. They will visit their grand parents, the Hayes, and will return to Benning with Mrs. Brown.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Axel Dobak left Benning on Wednesday on leave and change of station. En route to New York they will visit Mrs. Dobak's aunt, Mrs. Lewis Forney, in Shelby, North Carolina and friends in Washington, D. C. From Washington they will drive to New York for a visit to Lieutenant Dobak's parents, in Flushing, Long Island before sailing, August twentieth, for their new station at Vancouver Barracks, Washington.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. A. R. C. Sander have taken two months leave and are motoring to Spokane, Washington to visit Mrs. Sanders parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward. They will return to Benning the last part of September.

* * *

Mrs. W. H. Vinson is spending the month of August at Fairburn, Georgia as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Parker.

* * *

The Officers of the Engineer Reserve Corps were hosts at a most enjoyable dance given Monday evening, July twenty-ninth, at the Polo Club. The officers and ladies of the post were invited and many were there to enjoy this delightful party. Music was furnished by the Twenty-fourth Infantry Band.

* * *

The Officers and Ladies of the 29th Infantry enjoyed their first party of the new year last Saturday evening at Russ Pool. The committee had arranged for the occasion numerous amusing contests. The first was a balloon race in which the contestants had to swim to the raft, procure one of the balloons placed there, and return to the shore with the inflated balloon. Lieutenant E. H. Vernon was the only one who was successful in this contest and was awarded a suitable prize. In the second event, a tub race for the ladies, the judges failed to reach any decision other than that rowboats should be used next year. Major Taylor won the obstacle race limited to the fat men of the regiment. In this race the contestants were required to swim twenty-five yards, don an article of clothing and return to the finish line. A log-riding contest followed. Three teams, each consisting of four officers, were mounted on logs which they must propel to the finish line. The Second Battalion won "at a walk," the Special Units were second "at a swim" and the First Battalion followed "at a distance." The First Battalion avenged their earlier defeat by winning the final event, a water polo game in which a watermelon was substituted for a ball. After the games a picnic supper was served. During the evening music was furnished by the regimental band.

K&P

Mr. and Mrs. Petri have gone to Chicago to attend the retail jewelers convention. They will return with two weeks with new ideas and stock.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

DRAMATIC CLUB PREPARES FOR NEW SEASON

Plans for the presentation of plays for the season of 1929-1930 are being perfected by the Fort Benning Dramatic Club. The club's tentative production program contemplates the following:

October 26—one two-act play and one one-act play.

November 23—one two-act play and one one-act play.

December 21—three one-act plays.

February 8—two one-act plays and one one-act play.

March 8—one two-act play and one one-act play.

April 12—one two-act play and one one-act play.

May 10—one three-act play.

All of these plays are to be presented on Saturday night in order to interfere as little as possible with the studies of the student officers.

A new feature of the Dramatic Club season will be the inauguration late in September of a school for directors, which will be headed by Mrs. R. H. Chance.

At the next season's first business meeting, which will be held on the last Thursday in September, an amendment to the Dramatic Club by-laws will be considered.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES OF OFFICERS

The following named officers have arrived at or departed from Fort Benning since July 24:

Arrivals—Col. James L. Graham, from detached service. Lt. Col Daniel P. Card, from detached service and leave.

Departures—Major Harry L. Dale, to leave and change of station, to Hawaiian Dept. Major Lloyd E. Jones, to leave and change of station, to Army War College, Washington, D. C. 1st Lt. Carter M. Kolb, to leave and change of station, to Ft. Geo. Meade, Md. 1st Lt. Carley L. Marshall, to leave and change of station, to Fort Geo. Meade, Md. 1st Lt. Lawrence A. Dietz, to leave and change of station, to Panama Canal Dept.

CHANGE IN STAFF OF NEWS

1st Lieutenant LeRoy W. Yarborough, editor, Infantry School News, will depart tomorrow for Camp Perry, Ohio, for duty with the national matches until the latter part of September. 1st Lieutenant Dorr Hazlehurst will be acting editor and manager of the News, during Lieutenant Yarborough's absence.

Mrs. W. H. Vinson, society editor of the News, is spending a month's vacation in Fairburn, Georgia. Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer is acting society editor during Mrs. Vinson's absence.

SERENADED

In accordance with regimental custom, the 29th Infantry Band serenaded Mrs. Joseph H. Gilbreth, a bride in the regiment, at her quarters in Block 16, on Sunday afternoon, July 21st. Calls were made on the bride and groom by the acting regimental commander, Lt.-Col. W. L. Reed and Mrs. Reed, and by a large number of officers and ladies of the regiment.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative: R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

TOOLS FOR THE HANDY MAN

All kinds of tools for the many odd jobs in and around the house. Standard factory brands of the best quality.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

General Electric Fans

All Sizes

Post Exchange

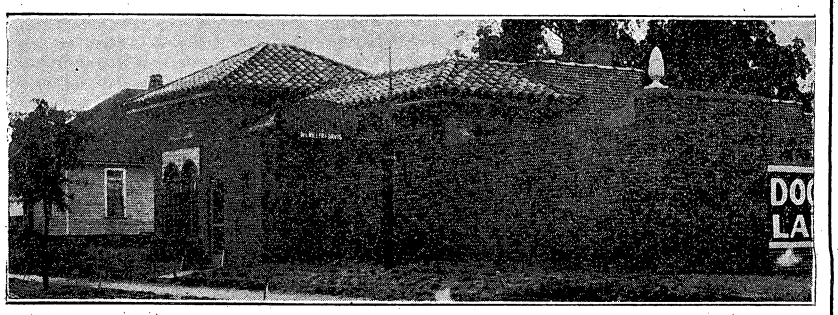
SPECIAL ORDER DEPT.

Fort Benning, Ga.

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital



"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. August 2, 1929 No. 46

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave, Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. LeRoy Yarborough, Infantry ..... Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

INFANTRY ALERT!

For a long time, progressive infantrymen have maintained that our infantry has been preparing for the last war rather than for the next one. Infantry methods in our army, they assert, have changed little, if any, since the close of the World War. While the advancement of mechanical implements of war and the commercial development of machines readily adaptable to military purposes has proceeded at an unprecedented rate in the past decade, infantry training methods and doctrines have not kept pace with the progress in other arms.

The development of motorized transportation and swift heavily-armored fighting machines certainly introduces new elements into the combat problems of the infantry. The solution of these problems will be made on the battle-field but the methods of solution must be studied in time of peace.

The phenomenal increase in the speed and scope of action of airplanes, tanks and armored vehicles has enhanced their value as weapons of surprise and rapid maneuver to a degree such as was considered only a remote possibility a decade ago.

To meet and cope with these swift implements of destruction, the infantryman is confronted with the necessity of adopting new weapons, new formations, new methods, and, most important of all, new ideas.

It is not unnatural for the infantryman to cling tenaciously to the equipment, methods and doctrines which have proved their worth in past wars but his conservatism must not bind him to obsolescence nor blind him to progress.

He must give up old weapons and must adopt new ones of greater power and rapidity of fire. He must abandon formations which he used successfully in the last war because he will fight under different conditions in the next war. On his next battle-field he will be assailed from every side by fast armored war-machines; clouds of projectiles, some of them charged with high explosives, others with poisonous gases, all of them deadly, will be hurled at him by quick-firing weapons of greater power and massed in larger numbers than ever before; airplanes from the skies, darting through space at tremendous speed, will shower him with bombs and bullets.

The infantryman contemplates this bewildering array of dangers without knowing just how he is going to combat them, yet he is unappalled, for he is accustomed to danger.

There is an increasing consciousness, however, that something must be done toward developing means of protecting the infantry from these harassing agencies and more effectively combating them.

At the Infantry School there has begun a project whose purpose is to develop an infantry of greater power, flexibility and mobility. Here a study on a grand scale will be made of infantry armament, organization, methods and doctrines.

Speed and simplicity in infantry combat operations will be sought. Speed in transmission and execution of orders; speed in transport and maneuver. Simplicity in tactical methods, doctrines and training.

The infantry development project will be recorded as one of the most significant events in the history of our infantry, because even if it should go no further, it is proof that there are alert minds in the infantry who recognize that the infantry must progress at least as rapidly as the other arms which seek to annihilate it on the battle-field.

For the infantry, evolution and progress mean life and power. For the infantry to stagnate is to court death on the battle-field. On the alert, Infantrymen!

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

EXHAUST GASES FROM AUTOMOBILES

The exhaust gas from all gasoline engines, including those of automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, etc., contains a highly poisonous gas known as carbon monoxide. This gas is one of the most deadly known and is especially dangerous in that it is without color or odor. The odor of the exhaust gas of automobiles, etc., is due to other products and not to the carbon monoxide. Some of the other gases in the exhaust are also poisonous. With the growth of the automotive industry the number of cases reported of poisoning by exhaust gases has been increasing and it is the duty of all who own, or operate cars, or who are engaged in garage or motor transport work, to know of this danger and to be prepared to protect themselves against this form of poisoning. An engine running idle produces more carbon monoxide than one under a load. Retardation of the spark and "warming up" also greatly increase the amounts present. For these reasons there is a special danger in the small garages such as are in use to such a great extent at Fort Benning. The average small garage is almost without ventilation and when the engine is started and run for a while before the car is backed out there is a great quantity of this deadly gas produced. Ordinarily it escapes through the open door. If the wind be blowing against the door or if the door be closed for any reason, the garage may be filled with carbon monoxide and persons inside exposed to poisoning.

One of the most dangerous features of carbon monoxide poisoning is its insidious start. The individual absorbing the gas has no knowledge that he is being attacked. The gas has the effect of dulling the mind and causing drowsiness so that the individual may be overcome. Naturally the condition is somewhat more common in the winter than in the summer months on account of the keeping of garages more tightly closed, though in a climate like that of Fort Benning there is less difference in seasonal incidence of carbon monoxide poisoning than further north. Cases of death have been known to occur in private garages, where the occupant, being alone, was unable to escape from the carbon monoxide gas, having been overcome quickly. In the narrow streets of some cities where the high buildings on both sides prevent adequate air currents, traffic policemen and others who are exposed to exhaust gases for long periods, have been overcome. It is now considered that "street ventilation" is one of the great municipal problems.

Carbon monoxide is found in many places besides exhaust gases of gasoline engines. It is formed anywhere where there is incomplete combustion of inflammable materials. In Europe the charcoal brazier, formerly so commonly used in warming rooms, has been a frequent source of danger. Certain forms of illuminating gas (particularly the so-called "water gas") contain high percentages of carbon monoxide, which is inflammable, hence the danger from leaky pipes. The gaseous products of the explosion of gunpowder and other explosives include carbon monoxide. Many soldiers in the World War were overcome by this gas, which, unfortunately, has the power of passing through any gas mask. This is the commonest form of gas poisoning and deaths from this cause now exceed those from any other poison.

An individual who has been subjected to carbon monoxide poisoning feels dizzy and has headache with noises in the ears, throbbing in the temples, a feeling of sleepiness and a sense of fatigue. One of the greatest dangers is the sudden loss of the ability to move so that an individual though aware of the danger may find himself unable to escape. When a man has recovered from the acute effects of carbon monoxide poisoning his life is still in danger for some days to come. There is no known poison producing effects so varied and so widespread as carbon monoxide. The treatment of cases of poisoning from exhaust gases requires the attention of a physician. It is, of course, of the utmost importance to remove the patient immediately from the place in which the air is polluted with the poisonous fumes. The old adage as to the value of prevention over cure is never more true than in this condition.

There is another danger connected with the exhaust gas of automobiles. The so-called "ethyl gas" now so popular as a fuel, contains compounds of lead so that it is in itself exceedingly poisonous. The exhaust fumes from gasoline engines which burn ethyl gas are even more toxic than those from ordinary gas. There have also been cases of lead poisoning from careless use of the liquid ethyl gas. If it is allowed to spill on the ground, or is used for cleaning or in fact any purpose except that for which it is intended, poisoning may result. It is on this account that the following sign has been posted at the Post Exchange filling station:

Ethyl gasoline contains lead tetraethyl. To be used as a motor fuel only. Not for cleaning or any other use. Avoid spilling.

Next week's topic: Ring Worm.

The same consequences which have uniformly attended long discussions and councils of war will follow at all times. They will terminate in the adoption of the worst course, which in war is always the most timid, or, if you will, the most prudent. The only true wisdom in a general is determined courage.—Napoleon's 55th Maxim.

The essential characteristics of infantry are its ability to maneuver and fight over all kinds of ground, enabling it to close with the enemy and to hold ground gained.

When an army is inferior in number, inferior in cavalry, and in artillery, it is essential to avoid a general action. The first deficiency should be supplied by rapidity of movement; the want of artillery, by the nature of the maneuvers; and the inferiority in cavalry, by the choice of positions. In such circumstances the morale of the soldier does much.—Napoleon's 10th Maxim.

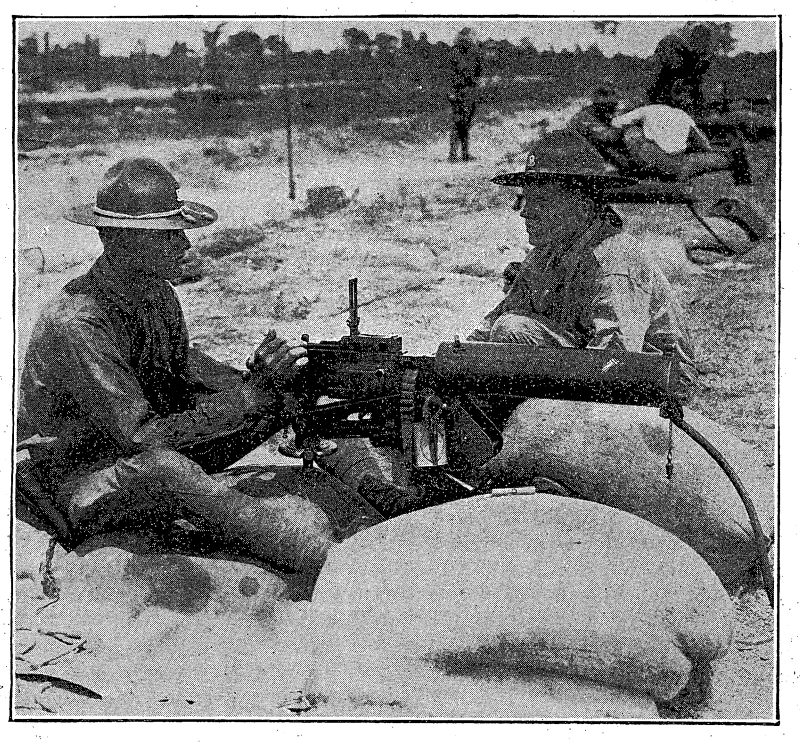
The Infantry is the basic arm. Although certain functions charged to other arms and branches seem to have only an indirect influence on the operations of the Infantry, all must be imbued with the primary importance of the success of the Infantry.

When the conquest of a country is undertaken by two or three armies, which have each their separate line of operation, until they arrive at a point fixed upon for their concentration, it should be laid down as a principle, that the union of these different corps should never take place near the enemy; because the enemy, in uniting his forces, may not only prevent this junction, but may beat the armies in detail.—Napoleon's 4th Maxim.

Machine Gun Record Set by Company H 29th Infantry

Captain O. W. Reed, company commander, directing the long machine gun firing line.

The guns of the three platoons of H Company 29th Infantry made a firing line of model neatness. Sergeant F. T. Berrish, at the gun, and Corporal F. C. Coffey ready to fire at the targets 600 yards distant.



Corporal John A. O'Brien, directing Private first class Bradley B. Matthews at the gun. Corporal O'Brien's squad made the highest average score during the target season recently completed by Company H 29th Infantry.

One of the highest averages ever recorded for a machine gun company at Fort Benning has been made by Company "H," 29th Infantry, Captain O. W. Reed, commanding.

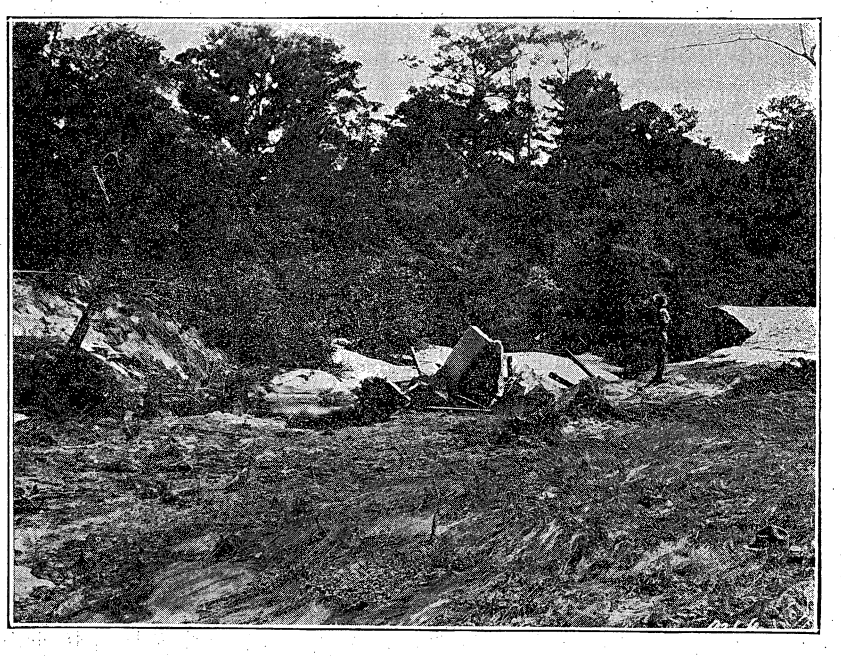
The average score of the 157 members of the company who fired the regular course was 346.9. The highest platoon average, 350.9, was made by the first platoon, commanded by Lt. J. J. Carney. The third platoon, under Lt. R. H. Brown, made the second highest average, 346.4. The average of the second platoon, commanded by Lt. D. G. Strickler, was 343.2.

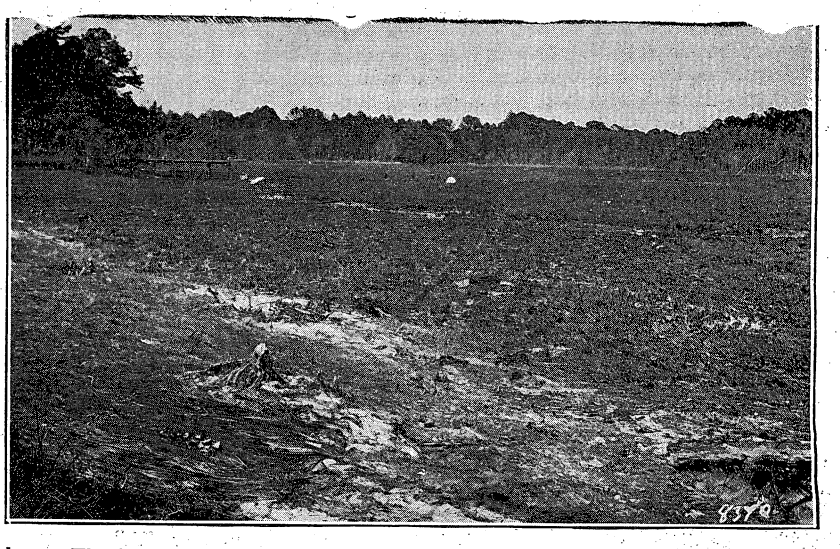
The highest squad average, 381.0, was made by Corporal J. A. O'Brien's squad.

High individual score was made by Sergeant L. F. Cody, whose score was 419. Private W. W. Herron made the second highest score of 415, and Private B. Calloway's score of 406 was third.

Average scores of the squads were as follows: 1st squad, Corporal F. C. Coffey, 351.8; 2d squad, Corporal F. G. Matthews, 356.2; 3d squad, Corporal C. A. Brunner, 343.3; 4th squad, Corporal E. E. Allen, 352.7; 5th squad, Corporal H. Ellison, 352.5; 6th squad, Corporal E. W. Frazier, 355.5; 7th squad, Corporal T. McCann, Jr., 340.9; 8th squad, Corporal C. B. Coates, 327.1; 9th squad, Corporal J. A. O'Brien, 381.0, 10th squad, Corporal H. D. Coleman, 340.2; 11th squad, Corporal G. B. Odell, 335.5; 12th squad, Corporal G. C. Minor, 324.5.

HARP'S POND DAM GIVES WAY





Above: The broken concrete spillway. Below: Dry bottom after the dam broke.

TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY OFFICERS CLUB

The social activities of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry Officers Club received quite a boost recently, when a "live committee" consisting of Captains Talley D. Joiner, John R. Deane and 1st Lieut. Le Grande A. Diller, submitted its program for the consideration of the members of the club.

Leading the batting list on the program is a regimental swimming party and water gymkhana scheduled for 6:00 P. M. Saturday, July 27th. An attractive card of events has been planned. The winners will be the undisputed champions in their line. There are prizes for all events, and entertainment for all. For those who cannot swim, there will be a forced issue of water wings. For those who are not on a diet, there will be "a big feed" after the swim. For those who love good music, there will be plenty of opportunity to practice the flutter to the strains of "Lohengrin."

The second event scheduled for the summer season is the "Big 49'er Party" in the Post Gymnasium on the 28th of September, Details will be forthcoming later.

For the season of the academic year 1929-30, the committee plans to hold one dance or regimental party each month. These are to be held on the third Saturday of each month, providing this date does not conflict with some other scheduled post activity.

The following is the tentative program:

October 26, 1929—Hallowe'en dance.
November 27, 1929—Dinner dance.
December 21, 1929—Kid party.
January 25, 1930—Cabaret party.
February 21, 1930—Dance.
March 3, 1930 — Organization day dance.
March 29, 1930—All fools party.
April 26, 1930—Tacky party.
May 17, 1930—Barbecue.

CHANGES IN THE REGIMENT

Capt. A. R. MacKechnie has been relieved as regimental supply officer and assigned to command Company "D."

Capt. R. P. Lavin has been relieved from special duty as post police officer and is announced as regimental supply officer, 29th Infantry.

1st Lieut. N. C. Caum, Company "G," has been placed on special duty as post police officer.

BANQUET ENJOYED BY "E" CO.

An elaborate banquet with a highly entertaining program was enjoyed by the officers and men of Co. "E," 29th Infantry, last Friday evening.

Captain "Buck" Finney, company commander, left no stone unturned to make the evening a complete success and he was ably assisted by Mess Sergeant "Zed" Buford and his highly efficient staff of cooks and kitchen policemen.

The mess hall tables were tottering under their heavy load of fried chicken, salads and roast meats prepared for the occasion. Cakes, pies, lemonade, punch (un-spiked) and ice cream made up a most tempting dessert.

With the large platters empty and only bones and scraps left to tell the story, cigarettes and cigars were freely distributed. Then while columns of blue smoke wafted its way to the ceiling, the evening's fun really begun. Popular musical hits were rendered by the "F" Company orchestra in a way that kept ones feet moving and shoulders rolling.

Popular song hits by Birdsong and Stolier were greeted with loud applause and they were called back time and again. Two members of company "E" rendered several selections with a mandolin and uke banjo that received a big hand. "Irish" Lomissey, of the Terrible Tankers, proved that a Tanker could tickle a Doughboy, when he kept the crowd in a roar of laughter for fifteen minutes with a snappy and well-rendered monologue. One black face commedian, labelled "Sunnie Boy," completed the program with the usual far south banter and darktown subjects.

WILL BE EXAMINED FOR RESERVE COMMISSION

Sergeant John L. Biggerstaff, Company C 29th Infantry, has received orders to appear before a board of officers to take examination for commission in the Infantry-Reserve.

The board which will examine Sergeant Biggerstaff, consists of Captain George S. Wear, 29th Infantry, 1st Lieutenant James C. Carter, Infantry, and 1st Lieutenant Anthony Groves, Infantry-Reserve.

LT. STEWART GRANTED LEAVE

Lieut. Elam L. Stewart has been granted a leave of absence for twenty-two days, effective July 22, 1929. His address while on leave will be Paxton, Illinois.

NEW WALL LOCKERS ARRIVE

Another fond dream was realized in the 29th Infantry, when the Quartermaster last week supplied the regiment with 1,647 new wall lockers for its barracks. Each man in the regiment will now have "a place for everything and everything in its place." Up to the present, uniformity in barracks could not be rigidly insisted upon by organization commanders, due to makeshift clothes racks, constructed in some cases from salvaged lumber. This, it is hoped, is now a thing of the past.

29th Infantry Band

Our new bandleader has arrived and taken up the reins. He is Warrant Officer Robert W. Muller, who comes here after spending twenty-one years at West Point Military Academy. We find that he is a thorough musician, and capable of getting results. If we do our part, the band will certainly show improvement.

The "Powers That Be" have condescended to let bandsmen fire the complete pistol course for qualification and pay, so here's hoping that we can augment the monthly stipend by a few "rocks." Right now we are taking our preliminary squeezes.

Sgt. Hanson, bass player and concert master of the Main Theatre orchestra, is doing suitcase drill, in anticipation of getting his discharge next week. He does not expect to stay South any longer, so the band will be minus a fellow musician. The loss will be keenly felt, but still we all wish you the best of luck, Roy.

Citizens of Columbus have suggested that the two bands of Fort Benning play concerts down-town. All very nice, but we wonder why Columbus becomes so exclusive when an army musician has an opportunity to play in the city individually.

Headquarters Co.

During target season one of the soldiers was observed in town at a shooting gallery, "holding and squeezing," which is the heighth of something or other. Like the postman who spends his vacation hiking.

What with one thing and another, it looks as though the theme song for this company next month will be, "$ing a $ong of $hekel$, company full of rating$."

Pvts. Lungrin and Robertson engaged in their annual oral combat, and Pvt. Lungrin emerged the winner (decision) by six so-and-so's to Robertson's four such-and-such's.

Company "A"

Now that I am out of the hospital and back at the old job (or should I call it a position), I will try to let the world know what "A" Company is doing.

Our own Corporal Snooks, who attended the Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and graduated, then attended another school, is due back soon. We are all going to be glad to welcome Cpl. Snooks as he was company clerk of "A" Company for quite a while.

We are all tuned up for the range and from all indications, looks as though we are going to lead the way for the regiment again this year. We qualified a hundred per cent. last year. Other companies in the regiment also qualified a hundred per cent. but we won the plaque for having the highest percentage. Let's go "A" Company, "We lead the way."

Cpl. Bowen, who was well known in the post, was discharged and stated that he thought that he would take on "a stack" in foreign service.

Pfc. Lay was discharged July 23, 1929. 1929.

Promotions for the month are Cpl. Harris, Cpl. Schmidt, Cpl. Franklin from private first class. Pvt. Falterman Pvt. Linkous, Pvt. Hart, Pvt. Cato and Pvt. Couch to the grade of private first class. Pvt. Chapman and Pvt. Andrews were rated specialist 6th class.

Company "B"

Since last occupying our allotted space in the News, there have been several changes in the status of this organization. First, we have over thirty recruits who have joined the company within the last six weeks. Many of these appear to be of excellent material for the making of future sergeants. Work hard boys, and you will all make the grade. We have confidence in all of you.

On July 18th Corporal William O. Cheney was discharged per E. T. S.

Corporal Boyce L. Boling and Private First Class Richmond Martin will soon be discharged per E. T. S. It seems as though we are going to lose all three of these excellent soldiers, as they all have made the statement that they do not intend to re-enlist. However, our mess sergeant is under the impression "It won't be long now." Well boys, if you ever decide to take on another "stack" "B" Company will welcome you as its own.

Corporal Edwin H. West was recently appointed sergeant vice Sergeant Charles E. Patton, who was reduced at his own request for the purpose of taking over the company barber shop. Luck to you both in your new grades.

Privates First Class James L. Vanatta and Lester L. McCulley have built another round in the ladder of success. Luck to you corporals. Mack, me thinks you will take on another "term" now.

Company "C"

We are sorry to see Private Norris go back to the hospital. This young man sure has lots of tough luck. We hope to see him out soon.

Private Williams told Acting Sergeant Hornsby if he could only get one of them trigger squeezers from Supply Sergeant Johnson, he could sure make marksman.

We had a few recruits to join us last week and they look like they are going to be fine soldiers. We are glad to have them as part of the family.

Well we are back with you again, after being in the missing column for two weeks. We are going to try to be regular after this.

We are glad to have Hathaway with us again, after spending a few weeks in (the land of the sky) in Asheville, N. C.

The First Bats went down to defeat again Saturday afternoon. The pitching of Stephens was the bright light of the game. So far Stephens has pitched two games, and has only allowed ten hits We are pulling for you Steve and hope that you have better luck in your next game.

Corporal Darmofal is getting to be a short timer and we are wondering if he is taking another stack with us. The amount of letters that he has been receiving from Massachusetts makes us believe that he is pulling his freight for parts unknown. We hope not though.

Corporal Grahl has been trying to get Earl Aiken to take his reducing course with him. So far he has met with no success. Keep trying though, Grahl, and you will get him in the end.

Company "D"

Pfc. Frank Wright was discharged July 22nd, and left the same day for his home in Spartanburg, S. C.

Sgt. Charles E. McGaha, the spirit of the Company, is a ball player on the diamond, a soldier in the field, and a live wire with the ladies. but just plain "old Mas" with his buddies.

Pvt. Rundon, our expert chow hound, smiled when some of the boys spoke of watermelon, and remarked if they only were seedless, he would not have to wear goggles to keep the seeds out of his eyes.

Dn Cupid is knocking at our door once more. Pvt. Lester B. Gordon, of this organization, will wed in September in Columbus, Ga. I am sure that some of the boys are expecting to be invited, and several are wanting the job of best man Good luck to you, Lester, and may all your troubles be little ones.

Pvt. Boyles found out in three days that the one that he had loved for several years has dropped him, and he admits that his absence from New Orleans caused his loss.

Private Idle, the shiek of Company "D," hails from High Point, North Carolina, but idles his time away in Columbus, Georgia.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Hello, folks, here we are again with plenty of news from the best outfit in the regiment. So here goes.

Our supply sergeant, Stragand, is on his re-enlistment furlough at present, and we haven't much to say about him except that we miss him and his many growls. Sgt. Terry is holding down the job during his absence. Stay with 'em, Newt.

Well, we are through firing the record rifle course and can proudly say that we didn't lose a man. It is really something that makes our company commander throw out his chest.

There are several short-timers in the company now, and most of them are non-coms. All seem to be in the re-enlistment mood, due to the fact that the six-bits surely looks good to them. It's hard to tell whether they'll hold up their right hand again, though.

We have lost one man since the last time you heard from us, and we wish him the best of luck in his future undertakings. He is none other than Pvt. Edgar Poe. By the way, he is of no relation to the famous poet. Poe transferred to the Finance Department last month and from the way he looked the other day he seems exceedingly satisfied.

Pvt. H. A. (Curly) Jackson has rejoined the outfit again, after a rather long absence. Where have you been, Curly? We are glad to have you back with us, nevertheless.

This company claims to have the best baseball player and pitcher in the post. He is none other than "Lefty" Carnes. We are right about that, too.

"Little" Kelley was seen with his album several days ago, with "Frog" Buquoi and "Red" Carpenter close by. Wonder what they were doing. No fair telling though. It would be rather difficult for one to say 'cause they're always together. Just like "The Three Musketeers." Ha, ha.

Well, folks, I guess I'd better hang up, I mean sign off 'til next week, so goo' bye.

Company "E"

Our battalion baseball squad is composed of about one-third of Company "E's" baseball team. They have played five games and won them all.

We have had eight new men assigned

(Continued on page 9.)

Additional 29th Infantry

(Continued from page 8.)

our range practice. They hail from Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana.

Robert C. Wise, one of the new boys from New Bern, N. C., served as 1st lieutenant Q. M. C. during the World War and has heard the old bugle call again after ten years.

Company "E" has finished firing record and made 100 per cent, qualifying every man. We hope to do the same next week in combat firing. Every one is happy that rifle firing is over and no more early rising at 3:30 A. M. this year.

Corp. "Doubtin' " Thomas, one of our hay-making, boxing-glove slingers, won his fight in Montgomery last week, as usual. This bird was one tough one, Tommy says, but he was able to win the decision easy. His name was Bill Bonner from Birmingham. Tommy has had 31 fights and only lost two of them so far.

Two of our corporals, Junie Borders and Bob Googe, are running on quite a rampage these days.

We have two candidates to take the preliminary examination for West Point this year. They are Pvts. Rankin and Bache. We sure hope they make the grade.

We have an addition to the company slum burners staff now. His name is William J. Cotten.

"E" Company is proud of the new wall lockers, which were installed this week. They are not only more convenient but give a better appearance to the squad rooms than the old style racks that were replaced. If they were six inches wider they would be great.

Our mess sergeant, Uncle Zed Buford, seems to be very happy these days, going around all the time with a big smile on his face. He is smiling because range season is over for the company and he does not have to get up so early to come out.

"Shiek" Stamper and Corp. French have taken up tennis and we are expecting great things from the pair, as Stamper is a star at the game and he says he can make a Helen Wills out of French if he can get the stiffness out of French's knees. French has the percentage, good looks and shape, minus stiff knees.

Company "F"

Now that Sgt. Gasser has decided to stay away from town for a while, we wonder who will take his place as the school girls' friend? To prove that he has the company welfare at heart, there was fried ham for breakfast the other morning.

Things We Would Like to Have

A first sergeant who couldn't make reveille.

A mess and supply sergeant who wouldn't growl.

A platoon leader who wouldn't inspect rifles.

A pair of shoes to fit Flynn and a hat for Guidroz.

A cigarette issue every day (some of the fellows need them.)

Company "G"

The company has finished firing its last group, the company getting one hundred per cent of the 162 men firing. We had 30 experts, 57 sharpshooters and 75 marksmen. That's fine work men, we got what we were looking for. Out of the bunch of old soldiers Private First Class Mansfield was high man and Rct. Craft got the big end of it for the recruits. Pfc. Mansfield made 326 and Rct. Craft made 318. Not so bad! Of the 40 men that fired the automatic rifle, we lost one. Pvt. Darnell made the highest score in the group. His score was 440.

We are going to have a big dinner on the excellent work that has been done. Then the company commander is going to take about 60 days' rest, with his family, in California. We hope the captain and his family have the best of times while away.

Pvt. J. W. Thomas said to one of the non-commissioned officers around the company, "Say, sergeant, I hear the 2nd battalion is going on a nine days' hike; could you tell me how long they will be gone?" "Why yes," the sergeant said, "they will be back in about nine days." "That's right," Pvt. Thomas replied.

Well, we have got the wall lockers at last. It sure seems fine to have some place to keep our clothes. The old racks are gone but not forgotten.

A certain recruit in the company walked into the barber shop to get a hair cut and after the barber finished with him, he asked the recruit his name so he could charge it to him. The recruiit said, "Just charge it to Uncle Sam, he pays my bills and I have all the fun; that's me, Kid."

Bugler Baker is taking a workout around the 29th Infantry tool house every afternoon by order of the commanding officer, 29th Infantry.

1st Lt. Caum was assigned to the company and a couple of days later was relieved and is now prison officer. We were sorry to lose the lieutenant.

For Sale: One clothes rach, cheap. Phone Pvt. Rice, 2nd Platoon. Phone No. 1-8-2 Apple.

It is planned to hold an informal tournament during the latter part of the coming week, that is after the musketry firing is over. All men from Louisiana will sing "Down by the old Frog Pond." There will be two dry runs on this.

Well, we have a soldiers' tennis court in the post now. What a fine game. We have a few men turning out for this fast game. Pvts. Horton, Fischer, Neely and Trascher. All they need now is a bugler to blow first call once in a while.

We received a special order from the captain of the infantry rifle team. Corp. Brunsell just finished record firing with a score of 335. Now we have the high score in the 29th Infantry and Sgt. New of Company "E" is just 2nd in command so far and the 1st Bn. has to fire yet. Corp. Brunsell's score is going to be hard to beat.

Private First Class Hatchett was recently appointed corporal. Luck to you, Hatchett.

Pvts. Usery and Ewing were appointed privates first class. Those two old privates had it coming. We are glad to see you get it.

Pvt. Bible gave the charge of quarters a letter and said, "Corporal will you put this letter in the mail box?" The corporal said, "What's the big idea, Bible?" "Well, it reads return in five days," Bible replied.

After a physical examination, the doctor said to Pvt. Beaven, "Your heart is racing." Pvt. Beaven said, "No, Sir; that isn't it, I just got a letter from my girl."

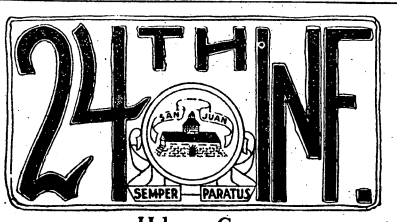
The latest dope in the 1st platoon is that Pvt. Trascher can't write to his girl. He has water on the knee.

Corporal Wilson is the new drill instructor in the company, taking good care of the recruits. When Cpl. Wilson told Recruit Mitchell to go in the supply room and get a front sight cover, Rct. Mitchell said, "Say, corporal, it isn't going to rain today."

We have a new company commander, Captain Wear, formerly of Company "A," 29th Infantry. We are glad to have the new company commander with us.

Talk about the new wall lockers, they are the stuff all right. Lt. Hewitt drew a picture of the clothes in the new wall lockers as to the way they should be placed in them, and when Lt. Hewitt had finished talking about the lockers and clothes, Pvt. McQueen asked someone if they had a suit of old clothes to sell. Cpl. Baugh asked Mac why he wanted old clothes and Mas said, "Well, I want to fix my clothes like they want them."

Some one of the 2nd platoon asked for a pair of scissors and Sgt. Drillset replied, "I've got a pair of knives."



Hdqrs. Co.

Pfc. Lewis D. Houston was discharged July 21st. He has re-enlisted.

The company baseball league has begun. Headquarters Company has played two games. Won one and lost one.

Pfc. Daily E. Oliver was discharged July 30th. He will re-enlist for the company. Pvt. Oliver is manager of the company baseball team.

Private Charles Haisley, of Co. "F," was discharged a few days ago and reenlisted for this company. He is a very good pitcher.

Private Specialist 6th Class Chester A. Hart is from New Orleans, Louisiana. Hart entered the service during the World War. He has an excellent baritone voice. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, trying to get to Columbus.

Pfc. James W. Berry is from Fort Worth, Texas. Completed 15 years' service. Served as corporal during the World War. A good electrician. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, reading.

Staff Sergeant William H. Ranson was born at Charlottesville, Virginia. Has completed 20 years' service. Sgt. Ransom is one of the most popular men of the regiment. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, music.

Private Specialist 6th Class James C. Freemon was born at Lovejoy, Georgia. Freemon has a few months to serve to complete his first enlistment. A graduate of the School for Bakers and Cooks. A very good baseball player. Religious faith, Methodist. Hobby, talking.

Private Joseph Gale Senegal will be discharged on August 5th. He is contemplating on getting a job as warc master at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

We have a new officer with the company. Captain Jared I. Wood. Capt. Wood will soon take command of the company.

Private Specialist 5th Class Henry Hunter has written a letter to the Adjutant General for permission to re-enlist for the cavalry detachment at West Point, New York.

Pvt. John H. Booth, who was discharged a few days ago, decided to try civil life for a while.

Private Rodney I. Peaco will be discharged July 21st. He will leave for his home at Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He has completed 9 years service. Served as Corporal during the World War.

Private James C. Freemon was scalded real badly when he slipped and dropped a bucket of hot water.

Private 1cl Gust J. Lee is out of the hospital again. We are glad to see him back with the company.

1st Sergeant William J. Miller is from New Orleans, La. Sgt. Miller has about three more years to serve to complete 30 years service. Sergeant Miller first entered the service in 1899, but went out and stayed several years.

Staff Sergeant Henry Moore is from Mobile, Alabama. He has completed 15 years of service. Served as 1st Sergeant during the World War. A graduate of Tuskegee Institute. A very good rifle shot. Hobby, baseball.

Private 1cl. Charles Horry is from Georgetown, South Carolina. He served as private during the World War. He has completed 9 years service. Horry is one of the best soldiers in the company.

Pvt. Vernon Baham, duty to discharge July 7th. He reenlisted for the Cavalry Det. at West Point, N. Y.

Pvt. Ed T. Davis, duty to discharge July 8th. He reenlisted for the company.

Private 1cl. Special 6th Cl. Joseph Gastin has purchased a Ford automobile. A certain fellow who goes to town every night has been in close conference with Private Gastin. Beware, Gastin.

Private Special 6th Cl. James R. Wilborn is from Greenville, S. C. Wilborn is a good motorcycle rider and chauffeur. A good pistol shot. Serving second enlistment. Religious faith, Baptist. Hobby, reading.

Master Sergeant Henry Dewitt, our regimental sergeant major, is from Kingston, New York. Served as corporal during the World War. Will soon complete 12 years' service.

Private 1cl. Robert Blake is from Charleston, South Carolina. Blake has about three more years to do to complete 30 years of service. Blake is highly regarded by the officers. Served as corporal during the World War.

Private 1cl Special 5th Cl. John Miles is from the state of Mississippi. Miles is a good cook. He can make excellent biscuit. Will soon complete 12 years' service. A graduate of a school for mechanics.

Company "A"

Private 1cl. Henry Hammons was rewarded for faithful service by promotion to the grade of corporal on Wednesday, July 17th. May the faithful performance of his duty be his motto throughout his army career.

We hear whispers of a tennis team around "A" Company. We truly hope for its materialization. It is a much wanted affair.

Corporal Paul Blouin was granted an emergency furlough to attend the funeral of his brother in New Orleans, La. Company "A" extends heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of Corporal Blouin.

Corporal Clyde Brookshire left on a two-months' furlough on July 21st for Greensboro, N. C. We hope he enjoys his stay in his old home town.

Company "B"

The company has completed a very successful target season on the rifle range. We are real proud of the fact that we have the highest individual score of the four companies firing. Cpl. Vontress topped the list with 328, beating our "top-kick" by five points. The famous "high-powered" first squad set the pace, turning out 3 sharpshooters and 5 marksmen and incidentally winning two prizes. Follow the "First" boys.

Privates first class Judkins and Wynder have been promoted to Corporal. Judkins has gone home on furlough to tell the folks about it. Wynder is on duty at the logging detachment.

Instead of being a life-guard, as was once commonly believed, Pvt. Armistead is painting the trees or something around tne pool.

A favorable-looking bunch of raw material has been assigned to the company in the persons of about six recruits.

Our regimental baseball league shoves off on the 17th. "A" Co. and "E" Co. play the first game of a twin bill, "B" and Service playing the nightcap. Our slogan: "We will win." (W. W. W.)

(Continued on page 11.)

Pvt. Jacobs said, "Well, that will do sergeant."

Warset received a letter from our old mess sergeant, Brown, and the old boy likes it up there. He said they were very nice to soldiers up at Jefferson Barracks, 6th Infantry. Brown is in Company "B" and on the old job again as mess sergeant.

We are glad to see Pvt. Norris out of the hospital again. Norris is out with the recruits now, but it won't be long.

Sgt. Wiggins was seen wearing his new hat on his week end.

Pvt. Abbie Marcellus while out at drill was told by the recruit instructor not to take such long steps. Abbie said to the corporal, "I understand that they have clothing allowance where a man can save money, so that is why I am taking such long steps."

Rct. Kite went into the orderly room to ask the 1st sergeant about a transfer to the air service, and the 1st sergeant said, "You can fly out of here as quick as you can, Kite."

SPORTS

SIDELINE CHATTER

Wednesday the second half of the "B" League got under way, with the Tankers staging an old fashioned hitting bee against the 1st Bats. At the end of two hours and thirty minutes, in which time both clubs had every available substitute in the lineup, the Tankers won out 17 to 12.

What an orgy of base hits the Roosma crew let loose against Old Man McGaha. That first inning had the bell ringing overtime with singles, doubles and triples. There wasn't a fluke hit registered in this frame. Every Tanker was taking a sweet cut at the pill and riding it to the open stretches.

Don't think, however, that the Tanks had no worry before the game was over. The 1st Bats, with the score 16 to 4 against them, had the stands wild with an eighth inning rally. Before the third hired hand was out the Halloran tribe had pushed eight, large juicy tallies across the plate to bring the score up to 16 to 12 with another frame to go. Snooks Howard, the third pitcher the Tankers used, was equal to the occasion and checked any further advance.

Delano took up the burden of the 1st Bats in the third frame with two out and the score 16 to 0. He saved the game from a complete rout by turning back the winners without another tally until the last half of the 8th, when his wildness gave the victors their 17th run.

Captain Halloran flashed a new one on the crowd in Lowe, who started the game in right and then relieved Cordwood Smith behind the bat. Keep your eye on this fellow—he takes a nice cut at that apple.

With the plate umpire question satisfactorily settled there is still the problem of the field umps. Each home team is to furnish the arbiter who decides the plays on the baselines. Wednesday the Tankers had Cooper of the 2nd Bats doing the thankless job. Just once did he miss one, but it caused a world of comment in the stands. In addition to the stands there was a noticeable commotion on the 1st Bats bench.

The 83rd Field Artillery Buckeyes flashed a big surprise Saturday, the 27th, by throwing the Tankers for a loss 8 to 6.

Halloway lived up to all the advance dope that was being whispered around the stands before the game. The newcomer allowed but four hits, fanned eleven and walked ten.

After seeing Halloway strut his stuff, Captain Halloran was heard to remark, "Good Lord, there's another bird that is tough picking."

It's a little early to predict, but some tight ball games are due when the hurlers get going. The hitters will be in there fighting for those base knocks every time Carnes, Allison, Stevens, Halloway, Tolle, Roosma and Cy Perkins mount the hill.

The Engineers had their baptism in fast company Sunday afternoon, the 28th. After they were all washed up, tucked to bed that night, and given the opportunity for silent meditation, the thought must have registered that Sherman was right.

It was a bad break for the new members to be without big Butch Rowe behind the plate for their coming out party. Briner took a lot of punishment while Cy was burning them in.

Just a little tip. Despite their blow up Sunday the Gin Ears will be tougher picking each time they trot out. With the backing they get from their outfit they are bound to place a lot of games in the win column.

It is a pleasure to see Cooper of the 2nd Bats up there swinging for that bingle. This bird is poison to the opposition when a hit means a run. His safe blow against Tolle cost the latter a ball game; his grass cutter to left off Cy Perkins caused a groan in the loser's box.

Barron, lead-off man of the champs, is getting on a lot. His flashy fielding and snap pegs to first have made the bugs forget about McGagnon. McAllister is filling in Franz's shoes much better than the skeptics figured.

Thursday the 25th, the peppery ISD team, threw a scare into the 2nd Bats camp. For seven innings the champs gathered just three blows off the deceptive shoots of Grady Tolle. Then the Finney crowd found their batting lamps and before the third man was retired in the eighth four solid hits, a pass and a sacrifice fly planted four large runs at the pay station.

With a three run lead at the end of the seventh, Jazz Magoni pleaded for rain, but the azure blue kept getting brighter. While Kelly and Company were ringing base hits in the 8th the canopy above faded into an iridescent tourquoise tint.

Shotgun White was as chipper as a kitten. The old boy just couldn't wait and banged away at the first ball every time up. In the seventh he got hold of one that came near beaning Allison in right field. It was good for a two timer.

Ward turned in a classy performance, fanning seven and permitting but four hits. His hit to right in the 3rd was a hit in any league leaving the bat like a rifle shot. Again in the eighth with two strikes and no balls he lined one over Davis' head that was whistling. Incidentally it was this last blow that started all the trouble for the losers. But why go on and tell the sad story all the way through the eighth. Tolle will turn in more than one win before the season is over.

Grady Tolle came back with a vengeance, Tuesday, July 30th, against the fighting 1st Bats, dropping the Halloran tribe to the cellar of the race with a six to one score.

The ISD crowd hit in the pinches. Ashe and Yuratich were there with the timely wallop when hits meant runs.

In the first Babe Labuzan of the 1st Bats caught one on the inside corner and when the ball was last seen it was headed for Lake Malone. Coming as it did in the first frame it looked as if the 1st Battalion was in for a merry day of base hits, but as the poet said, "enough, there isn't any more." Four hits were made off the handsome cashier but coming as they did, every other week, no damage was done.

Ashe hit two solid raps the first two times up, then a fast one bounced off his staycomb. It ruffled the fleet outfielder considerably but he stuck in there to the end. It was Hinkley's wildness that cost him this game.

It happened. Just as we went to press the hustling 33rd toppled the 2nd Bats from the lead.

Halloway accomplished the feat by holding the Kellys to six hits, two of which came together before anyone was out in the 9th. Manager Buckley wisely yanked him and sent in Phillips whose wast ball staved off a threatened rally.

It was a battle all the way. The 83rd broke the ice in the fifth with a run, which was matched by the losers in the sixth. The break came in the eighth when a thrown ball by McCallister bounced off Buckley's throwing arm, two runs tallying on the miscue.

Halloway was very much in the limelight. Fanned ten, walked two, scored three of his team's four runs and belted out two nice hits. The rest of the time he wasn't very busy.

Thompson crossed the Arty outfield by smacking one into right. Being a left field clouter no one was within a mile of his liner. It was worth three bases.

Yes, there are some good games coming. The second half looks as if it is anybody's race.

GOLF GOSSIP

The premier annual event is coming to the garrison again. The Corps Area Commander, through his representative, Lieut. Col. Wm. F. Pearson, Adj. Gen. Dept., has announced in golf bulletin No. 1, on July 1, 1929, that the corps area golf tournament for this year is to be held at Fort Benning. This event is intended, besides showing the corps area mashie-wielders a "good time," to discover who shall be good enough to represent this corps area in the army championship golf tournament, which is usually held in Washington, D. C., during the latter part of September. Further information will be published later. For the present the golf bulletin has all the "dope," and it is posted on all B. Bs. "R. T. P."

We are wondering how many of our garrison friends are aware of the courtesy that the Columbus Country Club has extended to us to become non-resident members of that splendid club? An annual fee of $10.00 plus $1.00 war tax will give one all the desired privileges thereof—a perfect example of Southern hospitality, we would say. Better look into it, friends; it is a very desirable opportunity to become better acquainted with our city friends.

Heard from the Golf Shop porch:

He: "What is your handicap, big boy?"

It: (looking rather dejected) "My wife."

From all recent indications, the proverbial "March Hare" is a mild mannered creature compared to the culprit who visited our course lately. Some one must know who it is, and failing to bring him to the proper authorities places him in the same category.

TANKS TAKE OPENER

The Tankers opened the second half of Fort Benning's baseball series last week by defeating the 1st Bats in a wild, wooly game 17 to 12.

In the opening frame the Roosma crew jumped on Mr. McGaha and Hinkley for five solid hits, which, coupled with errors and passes, gave the winners seven runs.

Delano, third pitcher for the First Bats, stopped the slaughter when he took the mound in the third. The losers staged an eighth inning rally but fell short of overcoming the Tanker's early lead.

The box score:

1st Bats	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Labuzan, ss.	6	1	0	0	2	1
McCullough, 1b	6	1	1	0	8	0
Sheriff, 2b	6	3	1	3	2	1
Davis, rf.	3	3	1	1	1	0
Smith, c.	1	0	0	2	2	1
Abrahams, cf.	5	2	2	1	1	1
Jordan, lf.	4	1	1	0	0	0
Lowe, c.	5	1	2	1	3	0
Lowe, rf.
Rhodes, 3b.	4	0	1	3	2	0
McGaha, p.	0	0	0	1	0	0
Hinkley, p.	0	0	0	0	1	0
Delano, p.	5	0	2	1	2	0
	45	12	11	12	24	4

Tankers	AB	R	H	A	PO	E
Kiker, ss.	6	1	1	1	1	2
Haynie, 3b.	4	1	0	4	0	1
Smith, T. J., 2b.	4	2	1	2	4	2
Sullivan, 2b.	0	0	0	0	1	0
Thomas, cf.	4	3	2	0	0	0
Roosma, 1b.	2	3	1	0	13	0
Wade, lf.	3	2	1	0	0	0
Hedgecock, rf.	4	3	3	1	0	0
Stansbury, rf.	0	0	0	0	0	0
Woodman, c.	3	2	2	0	8	0
Lindsey, p.	3	0	1	3	0	1
Tanner, p.	0	0	0	0	0	0
Howard, p.	1	0	0	1	0	0
	32	17	12	12	27	6

Score by innings:

1st Bats	000 202 080—12	0	6
Tanks	763 000 01x—12	12	6

Drinking men are more apt to get sick than others and less liable to get well when they do get sick.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE —SECOND HALF

Class "B" League

July 27th—83rd F. A. va. 15th Tank Bn.

July 28th—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. Co. A, 7th Eng.

July 30th—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. Inf. School Detach.

Aug. 1st—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Aug. 2nd—Inf. School Detach. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Aug. 3rd—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 4th—Co. A, 7th Eng. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Aug. 6th—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 7th—Inf. School Detach. vs. Co. A, 7th Eng.

Aug. 8th—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Aug. 9th—Inf. School Detach. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Aug. 10th—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. Co. A, 7th Eng.

Aug. 11th—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 15th Tank Bn.

Aug. 13th—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. Inf. School Detach.

Aug. 14th—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. Co. A, 7th Eng.

Aug. 15th—15th Tank Bn. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Aug. 16th—Co. A, 7th Eng. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 17th—Inf. School Detach. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 18th—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 20th—15th Tank Bn. vs. Inf. School Detach.

Aug. 21st—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Aug. 22nd—15th Tank Bn. vs. Co. A, 7th Eng.

Aug. 23rd—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 24th—Co. A, 7th Eng. vs. Inf. School Detach.

Aug. 25th—15th Tank Bn. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Aug. 27th—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. Inf. School Detach.

Postponded games: Co. A, 7th Eng. vs. 83rd F. A.; Co. A, 7th Eng. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Ground Rules: On an overthrow, all you can get when ball is in sight of head umpire; one base otherwise.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

The polo season of 1929 has been one long string of victories for the Infantry School malletmen. Included on this string are the scalps of the foremost polo teams of the South and one championship.

Early in the season the Riders of the Upatoi invaded the home of the Sixth Cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe. The old dope bucket did two flips and a flop when the hard-riding Cavalry four was scattered to the four winds by the "Demon Riders" from the Upatoi.

On their return trip to Benning, four games were played in Atlanta, two with the Ft. McPherson four and a pair with the Governor's Horse Guards, with Benning colors away out in front in each contest.

Entered in the War Department Polo tournament, held in Washington, June 17, 18, 19, the Benning malletment fought their way to the championship after one of the fiercest fought matches ever witnessed on the Potomac Park oval, in the deciding and final match of the tournament against the Sixth Capalry Riders of Fort Myer, Va.

The strong Winston-Salem four fell before the driving Doughboys in two fast matches on the Winston-Salem field. In their last matches away from home the Ft. McPherson riders were the

(Continued on page 11.)

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

Last week in our report on the fights, we unintentionally omitted mentioning the Danny Davis-Cato Ritchie fight. Things like this will happen in the best of families, and we humbly beg pardon.

When Davis launched his attack on Cato, there was something closely resembling a dog and cat fight up there in the ring. Davis kept his left in Cato's face most of the time, and when it wasn't, his right was there with tne dream portion. However, Ritchie was of the type that could take it, and at the same time, give a little to account for his own record as a mixer.

At the end of this bout, there were many who said that fi the rest of the fights of the night fell through, this one saved the bill.

The king of them all will be back for the fans to view at an early date. The Gunner started his training again last Monday night, after a lay-off of about a month.

To see Gunner DePratt step a few fast rounds of shadow boxing and bag punching is something good for sore eyes. There were quite a number of fight bugs watching him step the other evening, and their mouths flopped open and their eyes stared as he worked.

Now here's a prediction for you. The Gunner will win his next six fights easily, and four of them will be by the KO route. His hands are strong now, and we have always known that he could hit.

The card scheduled for next week has the ear marks of the best ever. Good boys will be the main dish on the menu. That is nothing new, however, as Captain Wilson always manages to put on good shows. His shows are attracting more attention each time he stages one.

SPORT TOPICS

(Continued from page 10.)

victims in two contests which were easy victories, 9 to 5 and 16 to 8.

The Upatoi Riders now face the real test of the year, having been selected to represent the Southern circuit in an inter-circuit tournament to be held in Chicago in August.

Mr. Thurmond Chatham of Winston-Salem, N. C., chairman of the Southern circuit, in his letters to the representatives of the clubs of the circuit, says of the Fort Benning team, "they are the most eligible team as they have won from more clubs during the past twelve months than any other team in the Southern circuit."

Three great assets combine the powerful driving machine that has carried Fort Benning colors to the front during the season.

First of all is the team captain, Major C. B. Lyman. As a team coach there is none better, and at No. 1 his field generalship and aggressiveness form a combination that bring out the best in the game. He is a veteran and has been one of the leading factors in the success of the Infantry School polo team.

No fighting spirit and team-work of the team has been the subject of favorable comment of spectators and opponents wherever they have played during the season. True sportsmen, who play for the love of th egame, fast riding, hard hitters, who never accept defeat.

Last but not least is the ponies. There is no doubt that a well trained polo pony is the most highly developed of man's animals. Intelligent, eager, nimble, quick-witted, responsive, the polo pony is a true sporting companion. Those who have witnessed the fleet-footed ponies of the Infantry School stables in action during the matches played at French Field, will readily agree that the flying white pellet and the click of mallet on bamboo holds a great fascination for these ponies, who have been taught to love and play the game by the riders of the Infantry School.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

While interest is lagging in the baseball games played at Gowdy Field, the games are improving. Last Saturday, the First Battalion slipped up on the Second Battalion while the mighty Kel was absent, and forced them to play twelve innings.

Old man McGaha himself twirled the pill for the First Battalion and was opposed by Allison, who lasted only two innings, and Carnes. They do say that there was a hot time had by all that afternoon.

Not being satisfied with stretching one game, the First Battalion dragged the Fifteenth Tank Battalion out to fourteen innings the next afternoon. If they keep up this habit of extra inning games, there will be a chance for them to win something in the last half of the season.

So far, the First Battalion has failed to win a game, but they are always in there and fighting for a draw, something that cannot be said about the Columbus Foxes.

They tell us that about all that one has to do while playing with the Foxes in order to be relieved, is to lead the league in batting and to bat in a whole basketful of runs, and one is sure to be relieved.

Just look what they did to good old Loquacious Lew Neibert! That boy was wielding the willow with such accuracy that they were afraid that Columbus might win a few games, and—pff—out he goes, unconditionally. There is no doubt about it hurting Lew's feelings, and a whole "passel" of fans. He was a favorite with many of us, especially among the soldiers. Lew has many friends at Fort Benning who will always remember him as the good sport and baseball player that he is.

Come to see us once in a while, Lew.

They tell us that as soon as the athletic council can have a meeting, the season will be split for the Fort Benning leagues. Three new teams will make their appearance in the last half of the "B" league.

The Infantry School Detachment will have a team out there battling for recognition from the opening gong. Grady Tolle will be about the best that any of the teams have. He has been pitching some fine baseball recently, just losing by hard breaks and umpires.

The 7th Engineers, who have been mopping up in the "A" league, will advance to the "B" league in the second half, and will be expected to make a mark for themselves as they have done in the past.

Such a small outfit deserves credit for the way that they are represented in the athletic encounters of the post.

The 83rd Field Artillery Battalion will also be represented on the field by a deserving team, one that has been winning games from the Columbus lesser teams for the past two months. It is said that they are arsenic for a sleepy bunch, and we know of a whole lot of sleepy ball-tossers.

TO BE INSTRUCTOR

2nd Lieutenant Jacob R. Moon, Infantry, who is a recent graduate at the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas, has returned to Fort Benning, and has been assigned to duty as an instructor, Infantry School.

TRANSFERRED TO I. S. D.

Six members of the 29th Infantry have been transferred to the Infantry School Detachment. They are: Private Cecil B. Brymer, Company B; Private John W. Kelley, Company C; Private Roydon Gregor, Company D; Private Clifton W. Holton, Company E; Private David O. Brown, Company F; Private Harry E. Simon, Company H.

ENGINEER EXPLOSIONS

Our baseball heroes stepped out Monday afternoon and copped the first half penant in the "A" league from Howitzer Company by the score of 7 to 4. Good pitched steady ball, limited the enemy to 8 hits and whiffed 13 batsmen. Rowe bought himself a new bat just before the game and then proceeded to collect four hits, including two triples and a double. Incidentally, Rowe compiled the remarkable batting average of .609 during the first half, which we believe to be unsurpassed in the post.

The loud racket heard at Harp's Pond Thursday night was the alibis of the 1st platoon for the loss of the camp to the 2nd platoon in a sham battle. The 1st platoon, under Lt. Fowlkes, was given the camp to guard and prevent the second platoon, under Lt. Daley, from entering. The entire second squad of the second platoon, after a terrific battle with briers, brambles and swamp, rushed in and took possession of the camp without a hostile shot being fired on them. A large share of the credit for this achievement is due to Sgt. Dailey for his canny leadership and to Corp. DeCoux for the heroic manner in which he broke the path to glory through dense underbrush.

Thursday afternoon at the pond was spent in swimming and boating, which was enjoyed by all. The return hike Friday saw one man drop out. Little Rankin Ramsey made a game attempt to complete the hike back but passed out and was taken to the station hospital.

It has been noted that "Chick" Dickerson is preparing for family duties. The expert manner in which Dickerson fathered his brood of three little boys Sunday night at supper elicited much praise from the company and promised well for the girl he marries.

John VanHorn, who will be well remembered by Benning fight fans for his whirlwind fights with Shell and Parker, was transferred Monday to his old outfit at oFrt Bragg, N. C., the 4th Engineers. Van left a host of friends and well-wishers at Benning.

Sgt. Dowling, map plant foreman, was transferred to the I. S. D., where he has attained the grade of Master Sergeant. Sgt. Dowling will remain on his present duties.

R. B. R.

WANTS NAME FOR MACHINE GUN CAMP

A name for the 1st Corps Machine Gun School at Underhill Center, Vermont, is sought by Captain George A. Murray, 5th Infantry, who has been commandant of the school for the past two years.

The camp which is located high in the mountains of Vermont is classed as a semi-permanent camp where all machine gun and howitzer units of the 1st Corps Area are undergoing courses of instruction. Its methods and scope of instruction closely approximately those of the Infantry School from which instructors are sent each year.

Captain Harry J. Collins of the weapons section, Infantry School, is senior instructor of the 1st Corps Area machine gun school this year.

ADDITIONAL 24th INFANTRY

(Continued from page 9.)

Company "C"

Private Thomas Members is back from furlough and on his feet again, since his tires have worn out.

Private Archie, the company barber, and Private Scott are tied for low score at 600 yards with a total of 7. The tie will be shot off next season.

Privates Nelson and Aaron were discharged on the 6th and have gone back to little ol' Noo Awleans.

The company ball team has reserved a place in the day room for the regimental trophy.

Private William Gray has reenlisted for the company, after an absence of three years and says he is here to stay.

Company "F"

After several years of being quartered in tents, hovels or anything else we could get into, the old company has at last been able to get in decent barracks and although they are not as good as some we have seen, Buckingham Palace has nothing on these barracks, according to Sergeant Hanan Porter.

A board of non-commissioned officers had been appointed to meet in the recreation room at the call of the senior non-commissioned officer thereof to make recommendations as to the alibis to be used this target season by members of this organization.

Detail for the board: Sergeant Howard Ballard, Corporal Willie Page, Corporal Albert Clarence.

The board will make recommendations as to new alibis, so that we may not hear any more "My elbow slipped," "Sight leaf fell down," "Somebody monkeyed with my sights" or things of that nature.

It seems as if some members of the company believe in the old saying "Early to bed, early to rise makes men healthy, wealthy and wise," for several men have been noticed lately going to bed at retreat. We wonder why.

Our team has made its debut on the baseball field and has played two games and lost two games. Now this may be disappointing to some members of the company, but let us stop and think and we can find something to be proud of any way. First, we have the old fighting spirit and that is the stuff that wins battles. I have learned from experience that the questions our superiors ask are, "how did they play the game?" and not "What was the score?" So "F" Co. baseball team, we are proud of you and we beg you to always play the game with the old fighting spirit and remember that you are never whipped until you admit it yourself. Keep it up.

The company is now preparing for target season and from all indications this season will be a great success. Little targets begin to appear tacked along side of the barrack wall and some of the men can be seen taking sighting and aiming drill. Remember fellows, the "old man" wants bull's-eyes and not "alibis."

Company "G"

The company is keyed to the highest pitch for one hundred per cent. qualification on the rifle range.

When in Need of—

Lawn Mowers
Garden Hose
Lawn Sprinklers
Aluminum Ware
Screens
Paints

You will find our line complete.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED TO BUY: All kinds of used civilian clothing and shoes. Charlie, 1309 First Ave.

FOR SALE—For sale at a discount: 50 shares Commonwealth Bldg. & Loan Assoc. Columbus, Ga. Major E. E. Lewis, Army War College, Washington, D. C.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

Read the Ads in The News

I. S. D. NOTES

"Pop" Martin is the best mess sergeant in the U. S. A., barring none. This statement has been fully sworn to and signed by the Greencord outfit.

Can you beat this one? Spud Murphy took two chances on the big Buick automobile that was given away in Columbus a few days ago. When the winning number was drawn, Spud Murphy of the Infantry School Detachment held the winner. When Spud presented the winning number he was presented with one of the latest model Buick cars. Now here is the secret. "Jazz" Magoni says that "Spud asked the gentleman if his dollar would be refunded on his other ticket."

We are sorry to lose the services of our star first sacker, "Red" Jones, but we had rather see the redhead going up the ladder of success in organized baseball than to have him digging out of the sand during the hot summer days.

Wonder why Corp. Willingham has started eating garlic?

Alloysious Virgil Byrd, of ye olde print shoppe, has bought a suite of furniture and was also inquiring about the price of an Alabama marriage license a few days ago. Heigho, Virgil.

"Tiny" Cochran has broken out with a brand new malady. "Hook" Wise, ex-medicine man, says that he has a serious attack of "charley hoss" between the ears.

Warnie Beare was discharged and took on another stack a few days ago. He is now on his last lap.

HANDICAP SWIMMING MEET

The third handicap swimming meet will be held at Russ Pool Wednesday, August 7, 1929, at 3:00 P. M.

The events will be as follows:

(1) 50 yard breast stroke: enlisted men.

(2) 50 yard breast stroke: children up to 18 years of age.

(3) 50 yard free style: enlisted men.

(4) 50 yard free style: children up to 18 years of age.

(5) 400 yard free style: enlisted men.

(6) 50 yard back stroke: ladies.

(7) 50 yard back stroke: enlisted men.

(8) 100 yard free style: ladies.

(9) 100 yard free style: enlisted men.

(10) Fancy diving: enlisted men.

(11) 200 yard free style: enlisted men.

(12) Tub race: children up to 18 years of age.

Handicaps are as follows:

50 yard breast stroke—enlisted men:

Stuart, Btry. A, 83rd F. A. Bn., 7 seconds..

Thompson, Co. F, 29th Inf., 9 seconds.

Lucas, Co. B, 15th Tank Bn., 11 seconds.

50 yard free style—enlisted men:

Miller, B., Howitzer Co., 29th Inf.., 1 second.

Covington, Co. B, 15th Tank Bn., 1 second.

Buchanan, Co. B, 15th Tank Bn., 4 seconds.

CAPTAIN STEWARD TO BE STUDENT

Captain Elwood M. S. Steward has received orders relieving him from duty with the 24th Infantry and assigning him as a student in the 1929-1930 advanced officers course.

RECRUITS JOIN ENGINEERS

Rankin R. Ramsey and Coy F. Sauceman, both of Mosheim, Tennessee, who were recently enlisted, have been assigned to the 7th Engineers. Upon completion of their period of quarantine they will join their organization.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

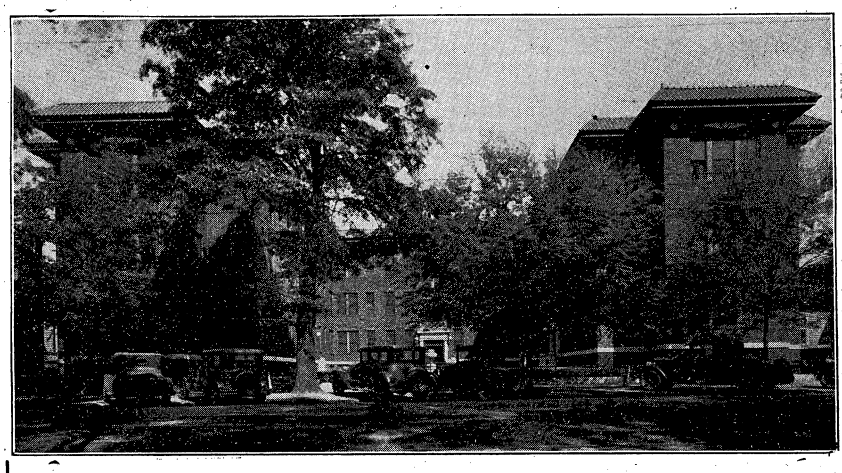
SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Ralston Hotel
DINING ROOM
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30
Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets
RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.



Dependable Electric and Gas Service
Columbus Electric and Power Co.
1330 Broadway
W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.
The Columbus Bank and Trust Company
—o—
Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000
—o—
Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park
Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.
We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.
A few apartments are available.
For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470
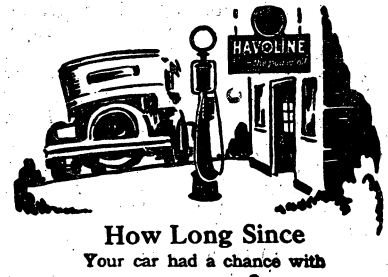
Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476
Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.
Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.
FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring
Satisfaction Guaranteed
POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 9, 1929 Number 47

ENGINEER OFFICERS COMPLETE PERIOD OF ACTIVE DUTY

The Fort Benning engineer reserve officer's camp closed last Friday morning. Colonel James C. Long, 312 Engineers, in behalf of the officers attending this year's camp, presented Lieutenant Colonel R. John West, Infantry, (D. O. L.) camp commander, with a silver loving cup, while Captain Helmer Swenholt, camp plans and training officer, and First Lieutenant G. B. Barth, camp adjutant, were each presented with handsome leather bill folders as mementos of the camp.

Lieutenant Colonel West left for his home station Saturday. Before leaving he stated that he was highly pleased with the results obtained and the exemplary conduct displayed by the officers during their brief training period.

As a part of the training, the officers attending the camp were given an opportunity to fire the pistol course "D." The following officers qualified:

Capt. Robert W. Smith, 421st Engr.; 2d Lieut. Lewis C. Crew, 443d Engrs.; Capt. Carl R. Dickerson, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Leonard L. Evans, 420th Engrs.; Capt. Joseph A. Logan, 307th Engrs.; Capt. Harvey A. Hall, 65th Engrs.; Capt. Edward T. Keenan, 378th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Lewis C. Thomas, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Fred J. Almgren, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Frank B. Hayley, 420th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Marion E. Borris, 4th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Richard H. Cobbs, 344th Engrs.; Capt. James P. Woodson, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lt. Sherill L. Mitchell, 420th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Tony A. Cox, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. John H. McDonald, 307th Engrs.; Capt. Walter B. Jones, 420th Engrs.; Capt. Claudio J. DaSilva, 66th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. David G. McMillan, 378th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. William H. Strong, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. O. V. Blankenship, 420th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Alonzo Speed, 312th Engrs.; Capt. Karl B. Squires, 378th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Clifton H. Feagin, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. James A. Zobel, 344th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Edwin Beer, 307th Engrs.; Capt. John T. Patterson, 312th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. Henry St. John, 344th Engrs; Capt. Duncan P. Shaw, 63rd Engrs.; Capt. Charles S. Hammond, 64th Engrs.; 2d Lieut. John M. McMillan, 312th Engrs.

POST LANDSCAPE PLANS FOR FALL

Extensive preparations are under way for an intensive planting program for the coming year. The complete plan includes the filling of gaps in the existing rows of street trees, the planting of trees along streets which at present have no trees, the establishment of parks in certain selected areas, the tying into the ground by foundation plantings of buildings such as the library, signal corps building, gymnasium and Biglerville mess, and the general landscaping of prominent features of the post.

The successful completion of this program, aided by the efforts of individuals to beautify the grounds around the quarters they occupy will in a very few years make this the most beautiful post in the army..

GUNNER DE PRATT TO FIGHT STILES ATTAWAY A RETURN BOUT

Thirty-six Rounds of Furious Fighting Is Scheduled For Tuesday Night.

Seaweed Wilson	vs	Sobby Sewell	4 Rounds
Red Lawson	vs	Cecil Williams	4 "
Kenneth Osteen	vs	Corn Griffin	4 "
Dustem Thomas	vs	Glenn Huckaby	6 "
Len Shouse	vs	Danny Davis	8 "
Gunner DePratt	vs	Styles Attaway	10 "

Gunner DePratt, Benning's fighting ace, is confronted with a real test next Tuesday night at Doughboy Stadium. The Gunner will face Styles Attaway, of Gainesville, Ga., the lad who scored an impressive win over the machine gunner on June 3rd last.

Once in a year's time will the fight fans see the Gunner lose a fight. It just isn't being done. The big fellow wades through a dozen or more and then runs into someone who cops a lucky decision against him. But, here the situation coagulates. Back in the craw of DePratt rankles the setback. Before he sets out to meet anyone else the Gunner quietly requests that his conqueror be brought back. Then starts a siege of real training grind.

Let us go back to last November. Down in Savannah, Maxie Peltz fresh from New York rings, with the scalps of some good boys hanging at his belt, took the Benning boxer for a complete surprise by dropping him for the full count in the seventh round. It was anybody's fight until Maxie's wild swing ended the fray. Prior to that Maxie was on the floor twice. Then what happened? "Bring this Peltz to Benning," was the only alibi offered. When DePratt met Peltz here he hit Maxie so hard in the second round that the Pacific Coaster was picked up in New Orleans three weeks later as a dangerous nut. Word from Peltz last month was to the effect that the Gunner had cured him of all thoughts of following the racket.

Will history repeat when DePratt meets Attaway? It is true that Styles has about the sweetest left hand seen in many a day. With this weapon alone he was able to keep the Gunner's murderous right at bay. But here the hunch will not be denied. Going back to that fight a few seconds of the third and tenth round stand out in bold relief. In the third the doughboy caught Attaway with a short right that shook the Gainesville boxer to his heels. After that Styles refrained from trying to get inside and contented himself piling up points at long range. In the tenth, with the decision certain, Attaway for one brief second elected to go in again, and for the second time that night a right hander placed him in queer street. With a glassy stare he pulled out of the clinch and danced his way to the end. One more sock would have finished him, but wise as he is Attaway left little to hit.

These two flurries make the writer optimistic over DePratt's chances Tuesday night. If his handlers send him in there to wade in and keep after his man from the opening gong, it is a million to one shot that down will go the upstater. If, and then more ifs. Anyway it is a fight that will be worth going a long way to see.

From the opener between Sobby Sewell and Seaweed Wilson to the final there is one hitter after another climbing through the ropes. Sewell, you will remember is that fancy, sleek personage who can be seen at every fight held at the Post. For the past six months he has been trying to get a shot at Seaweed. From his reasoning tank he deducts that he can stop Wilson. Sobby analyzes it thus: Kippered Herring stopped Seaweed in the fourth round; Sewell knocked out Herring in the second. Cold calculation, devoid of sentiment, will find Sewell flat on his back before the third frame is ended.

In the next, a four rounder also, two ebony battlers will strut their stuff. For the last time Red Lawson will make his appearance here. Red, seemingly, has had enough of this part of the country. Shortly after the fight the popular mixer, and he does mix when he is in there, will take his foot locker and mark it 25th Infantry, Nogales, Ariz. To help the fighter out he has been given a place on the coming card so that he can get sandwich money for the long trip. Lawson ties up with Cecil Williams, age unknown. Cecil climbed through the ropes the night Red met Sparkplug and to the world flung a challenge to the winner. Cast one vote here for Cecil.

This big fellow from the Tanks, Corn Griffin, will be seen many times in the next few months. Here is a boxer that loves the game. With a frame for a heavyweight, not yet 19, and working every spare moment of his time to master the art, there is no telling where he will go. He can sock, has proven he can take it, and above all is making a study of the finer points. Just as soon as he learns to use that left hand more adeptly he will be pushed up to the six and eight rounders. Many boxers have not the patience to undertake a study of the finer points of the game. Only when their ears are permanent marks of stopping leather, do they sit down and figure out what it is all about. Griffin is starting right. He is listed for a half dozen free-for-alls, learning a little each time with the thought of getting the feel before going deeper into the subject. Against Griffin will be another one of those "movie struck" scrappers that seem to be so plentiful in Atlanta. The handsome Reginald Denny in the making is called Kenneth. Kenneth Osteen is the full monicker, secured for this match by Ataway's manager, grinning J. E. Carter.

This section of the country has heard, through the Atlanta papers, all about one Glenn Huckaby, who, it seems, has cleaned up everything his weight in the Orient. Huckaby is anxious to show at Benning. Only last month he was be-

(Continued on page 9.)

NEW POST ADJUTANT ARRIVES FOR DUTY

Major H. B. Lewis, A. G. D., reported at this station on August 5th and has been assigned to duty as adjutant, The Infantry School. Major Lewis is a graduate of the military academy class of 1913. Upon graduation he was assigned to the 20th Infantry and served with that regiment until appointed aide to Brigadier General George Bell in 1915. In March of 1917, Major Lewis joined the 1st Infantry, which was at that time stationed in Honolulu, returning with that regiment to Camp Lewis, Washington in June, 1918.

In February of 1919, Major Lewis again returned to the Hawaiian Islands and served as department adjutant and as department athletic and recreation officer, later being assigned as assistant division adjutant, Hawaiian division.

Upon his return to the main land in June, 1921, Major Lewis was assigned as assistant division adjutant, 2nd Division and remained on that duty until June, 1922, when he was ordered to the military academy as adjutant.

After completing the latter tour of duty in July of 1926, he was again ordered on foreign service, this time as adjutant of the U. S. Army Forces in China. Completing this tour in April of 1929, Major Lewis has since been on leave and enroute to this station..

JUNIOR OFFICERS GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO ATTEND LAW COURSE

A recently approved policy of the War Department permits the detail of a limited number of younger officers to pursue a course of law with a view to fitting them for duty in the law department of the army. Captains and first lieutenants may apply for this detail through channels. Each application will include a comprehensive statement of educational qualifications, also study and work of a legal nature undertaken and carried out, and reasons for requesting detail. Each commanding officer, in forwarding an application, will endorse thereon his approval or disapproval and his reason therefor. The applicant's immediate commanding officer will include in his endorsement answers to the following questions:

a. Has applicant shown special inclination for the study of law and special aptitude for work of legal nature?

b. When he is assigned a task is he able to readily grasp what is required and to accomplish the desired result by his own efforts without suggestion or help from others?

c. Do you rely upon his initiative and energy to exhaust the possibilities of research on an assignment?

d. Is he clear in thought and accurate, logical and concise in the expression of it?

e. State briefly any consideration you may know of that in your opinion would militate in any degree against his fitness for detail for the duty in question —or any that would favor him

Applications for the detail for the academic year beginning September next should be submitted at an early date and their transmission through channels expedited.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Note: These extracts are solely to inform officers on editorial opinion and do not imply any indorsement.

No Drastic Retrenchment

The decision to leave the question of reduction of military expenditures to the General Staff rather than to a special commission is a sensible one. The fear has been expressed that General Summerall will dominate any inquiry by the General Staff; in view of the fact that General Summerall is Chief of Staff and responsible for the efficiency of the Army it will be entirely proper for him to do any dominating that occurs to him.

It is virtually certain that none of the drastic changes in army organization foreseen at the time of Mr. Hoover's statement will be made. Old arms will not be abandoned for new, nor new for old; training of the National Guard, Organized Reserve and civilians will not be made less effective. Heavy as have been the expenditures for Federal aid of the National Guard and for training camps, the sums thus spent have permitted the maintenance of the Regular Army at a much lower level than would otherwise be possible.

The Army's own economists may be able to discover ways to save a dollar here and a dollar there, particularly with respect to consolidation of various activities. Whatever economies are put into practice will be welcome so long as they do not interfere with the general military policy.—New York Sun.

Hamstringing the Army

President Hoover's use of a commission of army officers to survey the military establishment and report where and what economies in its conduct may be affected is in keeping with his engineer psychology.

He will find it "something else again" to get the consent of the congress, we imagine, to reduce the army to the proportions of a mere police reserve force. Memories of the enormous cost the people paid for unpreparedness in 1916-18 are still too vivid to be lightly overborne. The extra billions they paid in expanding a skeleton army into the formidable American Expeditionary Force are yet pressing heavily upon the national revenues and may not be fully discharged by two more generations of our posterity.

When the people know for a certainty that they will not be called to arms to fight another war, they will be only too glad to cut their army down to an internal constabulary—but not until then.

Ineffaceable experiences from those of Washington in the great Revolution down to the Wilson mobilization warn thinking Americans to use the common prudence of keeping their powder dry and their gun in easy reach.

Millions of veterans and more millions of taxpayers will combine to impress upon the congress that they see more economy in preparedness for sure defense than in the mere saving of dollars by reducing the army to absurd and perilous proportions.—Atlanta Constitution.

Army Reduction

President Hoover's announced desire to effect a reduction of army expenditures undoubtedly will receive considerable support in congress.

The anti-militarists will be for it. The corn belt statesmen who can't see no use in an army nohow will favor it. The busy appropriators who can see their own uses for all the dollars that can be sawed off the army will be enthusiastic.

The secretary of war has been instructed to look for places to cut. The general staff will be expected to do the work.

If there is any waste of money going on anywhere in the military service, and duplication of effort, any uneconomical practices, they should be remedied, of course.

But if there is to be a reduction in any of the branches of the army, it is well to be careful. That is what a reduction in the army appropriations usually means—a reduction of personnel, a weakening of forces, a further skeletonizing of commands already skeletonized or the placing of them on entirely a paper basis. .

There have been hints of a drastic cut in the cavalry. It is rumored that because cavalry played a relatively unimportant role in the World War, it is to be considered an obselete arm of the service.

It depends on what the service is, and where; on the conditions. On the Mexican border cavalry is supreme. It could be concentrated in this area to advantage. There is no need for cavalry at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, or at Fort Myer, Va., but in the southwest cavalry are the ideal troops for garrison and patrol. Cavalry should be supplemented by aircraft and field artillery and auxiliary services, but in the rough, broken or sandy country of which so much of the border district consists, the man on horseback with a rifle in his hands is the ideal soldier. Concentration of the cavalry for economy and efficiency but no reduction in numbers is our idea. —El Paso Herald.

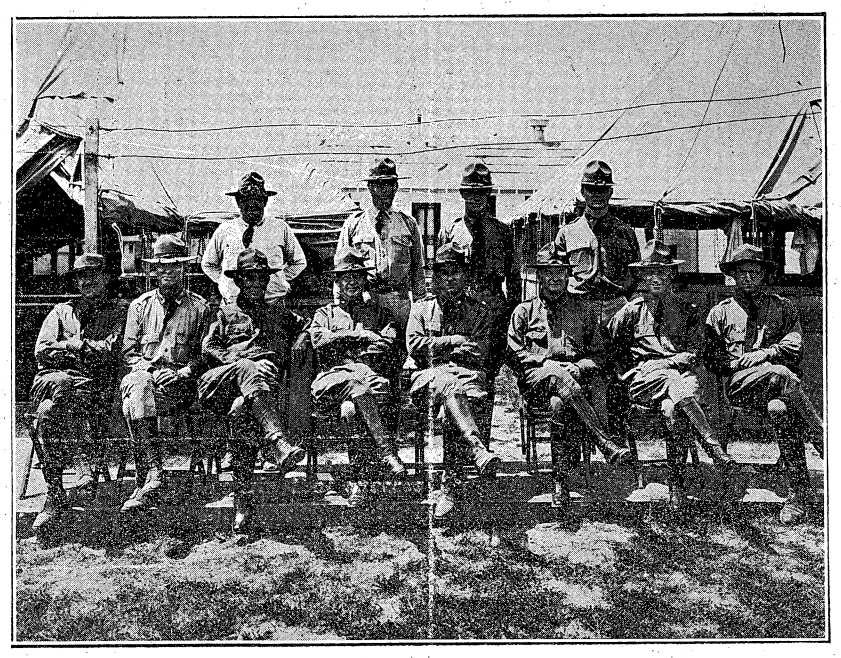
Cutting Army Expenses

Any commission of Army officers named by the Secretary of War to determine ways and means to reduce the strictly military expenditures of the department will find its task a difficult one. It cannot be done by reducing the size of the Regular Army; nor by withdrawing support from the National Guard; nor by reducing the pay of officers and enlisted men ;nor by cutting the ration allowance in half; nor by interrupting the program of providing decent quarters at Army posts; nor by abandoning the Air Service, the Chemical Warfare Service, the Tanks Corps or any other arm of the service; nor by closing up the summer training camps for civilians; nor by abandoning mechanical transport.

How, then, can it be done? Perhaps a little can be pared here, a little there, with the eventual result of some millions saved. For any larger saving there would have to be a profound change in the military policy which has been followed since the war, a policy which is based on an adequate Regular Army, a well trained National Guard and a skeletal reserve force.

One economy certainly should not be attempted. The Army and Navy Journal in recent months has opened its columns to officers and enlisted men of the Army seeking pay legislation. The letters printed in this service publication, circumstantial to the last detail, would convince any commission that the Army now receives scarcely adequate pay. Even better evidence than the letters which tell of the struggles of detached officers and men to pay coal bills, rent, etc., is the fact that loan sharks do a most profitable business in the Army.The New York Sun.

HELP TO MAKE ENGINEER RESERVE CAMP A SUCCESS



Left to right, sitting: Maj. P. E. Moses, 307th Engrs., Lt. Col. William O. Gloster, 378th Engrs., Col. Woolsey Finnell, 344th Engrs., Lt. Col. R. John West, Inf., (Camp Commander), Col. Edwin S. Bres, 378th Engrs., Lt. Col. Orman N. Powell, 378th Engrs., Lt. Col. James C. Long, 312th Engrs., and Major Moses E. Cox, 378th Engrs.

Left to right, standing: Major George H. Heakes, 421st Engrs., Capt. Helmer Swenholt, Engineers, (Plans and Training Officer), 2nd Lt. M. M. Bauer, Assist. P. & T. O., Lieutenant G. B. Barth, (Camp Adjutant.) (Lieutenant Knight, absent sick not shown).

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO
HALFTONES
NEWSTONES
Photo Engraving
PROCESS
COLOR PLATES
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest
Modes
LAMAR SMITH
Phone 3032 1131 Broadway

CHEVROLET
Before Buying
An Automobile

Today the name of an automobile is not enough to sell it. Now, more than ever before the buying public demands to see figures proving the performance of the car. That is why CHEVROLET sales since January first are nearing the ONE MILLION MARK.

Ask for demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange
1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.
W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.

AT THE MOVIES

FRIDAY, AUG. 9

"MAN, WOMAN AND WIFE," starring Norman Kerry with Pauline Starke and a strong supporting cast in a gripping melodrama concerning the idle rich. Two boys join the army, one of them loses his courage and changes his identification tag with a dead man; he cannot return to his home and wife in his former identify, so he becomes a drifter in the New York tenderloin district. His pal becomes engaged to his wife and he hasn't the courage to make himself known and stop the wedding. Complication after complication sets in. The story is replete with suspense and stirring situations. Even the cold stone walls of a prison are brought into the plot.

Pathe News No. 63.

SATURDAY, AUG. 10.

"THE LARIAT KID," starring Hoot Gibson in a story of glorious action and refreshing romance. She was a good girl, but she lived in a bad country. He was a ridin' demon of the plains—a two-fisted-two-gun cowpuncher, but a heroic lover. Hoot finds a girl in a dead faint beside a trail; he learns that she had run away from an aunt who tried to force her to marry a notorious gambler and rogue. The story leads into Hell's Gulch where terrific doing occur in combatting a gang of desperados. Clever, courageous manipulation wins the day for Hoot and his girl.

"Button My Back." Sennett.

SUNDAY, AUG. 11.

"THE CANARY MURDER CASE," featuring William Powell, James Hall, Louise Brooks and Jean Arthur in a mystery which baffled the police. The story moves swiftly, surely and logically, from the finding of a body of a slain woman in her apartment, through the mystifying details of the discovery of the perpetrator of the crime. There are no eerie situations created merely to excite emotion. There are no tricks employed to fool the public—everything is shown in a straight matter-of-fact manner. This is a filmization of S. S. Van Dine's absorbing Philo Vance story. Its popularity is well known to all readers of fiction.

Jean Arthur and James Hall in the Paramount Picture, "The Canary Murder Case"

"When Money Comes." Max Davidson.

M. G. M. News No. 101.

MONDAY, AUG. 12.

"MOULIN ROUGE," an imported picture made where the story is laid—Paris. While the stars are new to this country, it, doubtless, will not be long before they will be well known. Olga Chekova, the darling of Parisian night life, is the star. This picture presents stage life as it actually is in the great city of Paris—that life which thousands of people travel thousands of miles to see. It is an intense drama of love, passion and sacrifice, enacting the glamorous night life of this city of gaiety. The background is a gorgeous spectacle containing a glittering display of jewels and beautiful costumes against the captivating Parisian shops where latest fashions are born. The theme is woven about the love of a young French aristocrat for the darling of the Parisian stage—a woman who is the mother of his own fiance. The story is highly emotional.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 7."

TUESDAY, AUG. 13.

"A MAN'S MAN," starring William Haines in a close-up of the intimate private life of Hollywood stars. Haines plays the part of a soda water clerk in a Hollywood soda fountain—a boy with a correspondence school complex and an ambition to join the Elks; while Josephine Dunn plays the part of a girl who wants to be a movie star. When they marry, things happen. Amid the wealth of whimsical comedy and the daring inside glimpses of movie life, there is a pretty love story of keen human interest. The story can be characterized as an hilarious comedy—a satire on film satellites.

"Figures of Fancy." Hodge-Podge.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 14.

"SCANDAL," starring Laura La Plante in a strong melodrama of social intrigue. Torn 'twixt love and suspicion! Haunted and harried by a past that was better forgotten—thwarted by velvet claws—she fought to protect the love of the man she had married. But poison-tongued scandal reared its ugly head in the midst of society's fastest set, and plunged its young favorite into the depths of a murder mystery, the development of which helps make this picture a most absorbing drama. See it.

M. G. M. News No. 102.

THURSDAY, AUG. 15.

"THE STOOL PIGEON," starring Olive Borden and Charles Delaney in a thrilling action drama of the underworld presented from a new angle. Sensational and startling; it reveals the loves and life of youth on the downward path. The plot revolves around the youth and his girl who are unwilling members of a gang of crooks. A false conception of loyalty compels the boy to shield his companions, and especially the leader, although the latter is constantly plotting to kill the lad. Over $25,000 worth of real gems were shown in the filming of this picture. They were used to represent the loot of a gang of crooks, and were borrowed from an exclusive Hollywood jeweler. This story wil thrill you with tense daring, shock you with realism, and hold you tense with dramatic values, it being full of love, thrills, romance, intrigue and suspense.

"Shooting Wild." Cameo.

FRIDAY, AUG. 16.

"MOTHER MACHREE," starring Belle Bennett with Neil Hamilton and Victor McLaglan in a screen version of the sctory of the same name. A film crew was actually sent to Dublin, Ireland, for the purpose of taking pictures of the scenic haunts for this gripping narrative. Not only were scenes taken of Dublin and the sea, but also of abbys, ancient castles, quaint rustic nooks, and the rivers of the Emerald Isle. The story tells of an Irish mother who, with her young son, leave their home in Ireland and come to America. Here she fails to make a living for both of them. In desperation, she allows him to be adopted by an aristocratic woman. He is brought up with the idea that his mother is dead. Upon reaching manhood and success in life, he falls in love with a girl. At this time his mother is working for the girl's parents. The story most enthrallingly portrays his rise to manhood and the mother's silent, watchful eye mindful of his career. It is a beautiful story.

Pathe News No. 65.

TALENTED VIOLINIST RE-ENLISTS

Patrons of the Main Theatre, as well as habitues of Fort Benning dance halls, will be pleased to learn that we are not going to lose the valuable service of Sergeant R. C. Hanson.

Few realize the fact that for 365 nights of the year, over a period of four years, Sergeant Hanson has played the violin lead in the Main Theatre orchestra pit. In this work he has proven himself capable of handling the most difficult types of music.

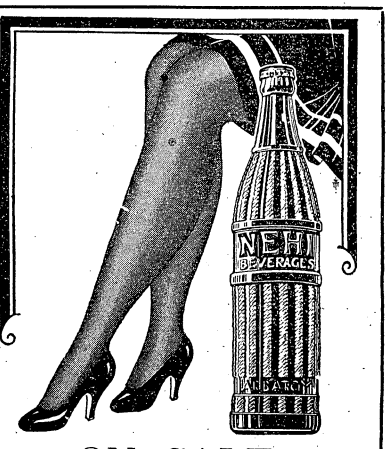
The casual listener might observe that this work merely requires a man who can play a violin—such is not the case in this orchestra where the music is painstakingly cued to every varying action on the screen. There has been known to have been as many as 102 changes in music during the course of a feature picture; these changes must be rapidly made. They frequently jump from the classical to jazz and vice versa; consequently, the musician must not only be capable of accurate execution, but also of rapidity in reading music.

If it can be cleaned

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

Can do it.

465—Ring 2



ON SALE at all CANTEENS

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALI JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk

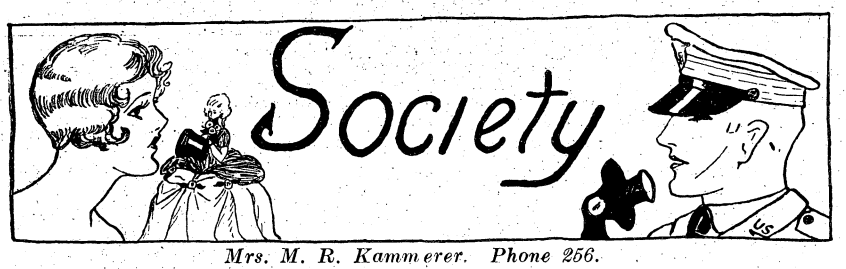
America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. M. R. Kammerer. Phone 256.

A group of the 24th Infantry officers and their families spent last week-end at Radium Springs. Captain and Mrs. Edward J. Curran, Captain and Mrs. Malcom Craig, and Captain Stanley Saulnier drove down Saturday afternoon.

They were joined Sunday morning by Colonel and Mrs. Paul C. Galleher and their boys, Major and Mrs. Charles A. Coates, Madam Coates and their family, Lt. and Mrs. Edward P. Earle and daughter, Captain and Mrs. Albert B. Helsley and Mrs. John J. Wilson. Radium Springs is near Albany, Georgia, and within easy driving distance of Fort Benning. The golf course, one of the best in the South, was enjoyed by those who play. The swimming pool was another center of interest. The water is clear and cold and the pool is equipped with slides, tread-mills and numerous other devices that added to their fun.

After spending a delightful day enjoying the sports and the appetizing meals that Radium Springs affords its guests, they motored back to Benning Sunday evening.

* * *

The first of a series of dinner parties was given Saturday evening, August third, by Major and Mrs. Frederick C. Phelps at the Montgomery Country Club. Those who motored to Montgomery from Fort Benning to attend the delightful and unusual party were: Major and Mrs. E. W. Leard, Lt. and Mrs. Wayne Smith and Lt. R. G. McDonald, Miss Evine Baldwin, Captain Frank Neville and Mr. William Baldwin, of Montgomery, completed the guest list.

After dinner Major and Mrs. Phelps and their guest attended the weekly dance given at the Montgomery Country Club.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Frank Ross and their two attractive daughters, Misses Nancy and Dorothy Ross, have arrived at Benning from Fort Leavenworth and have taken quarters in Block 14. Major Ross will be in command of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. E. H. Vernon have issued invitations for a swimming party and treasure hunt to be given in honor of Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant L. A. Diller on Saturday evening, August the tenth.

* * *

Honoring Miss Hariette Wells and Lieutenant L. A. Diller, Miss Verna Perry will be hostess at a bridge party given Thursday evening, August the fifteenth at the Polo Club.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. L. W. Yarborough are enjoying a motor trip to Camp Perry. Lieutenant Yarborough will attend the matches there and will return to Benning, with Mrs. Yarborough, about the last of September.

Mr. Herman Grubbs, of Junction City, Kentucky, is enjoying a visit at Fort Benning as the guest of his brother, Lieutenant Hayden Grubbs.

* * *

Miss Dorothy Russ, who has been a popular guest at Fort Benning for the past two months, has returned to her home in Washington, D. C. Miss Russ was the guest of Miss Lampke during the month of July. While here she was extensively entertained at many lovely parties.

* * *

The following article was published in the Richmond Despatch, later being copied in the Literary Digest and will be of interest to the many friends of Miss Peggy Lampke.

"Where is that check book? There is one drawback to the complete happiness at Camp Pocahontas. There will be girl Scouts whose parents feel unable to stand the expense of having a daughter in camp. And now comes the chance for a kind friend to play the part of Fairy God-mother. A check sent by you will give a girl Scout a happy week at Camp Pocahontas."

Miss Lampke is senior Counciler in equitation at Camp Pocahontas and has twenty girls in her class. She is enjoying camp life, riding about six hours a day and canoeing and swimming in the excellent lake. This camp is a member of the National Rifle Association and Miss Lampke is making a splendid record on the rifle range. She will return to Benning at the end of camp, the last of this month.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Sereno Brett announce the birth of a son, born Tuesday, August the sixth, at the Post Hospital.

Patronize News Advertisers.

NEW ASSISTANT TO QUARTERMASTER

Captain William T. Brock has been ordered to this station for duty as assistant to the quartermaster. Captain Brock is a former infantryman and has just recently received orders detailing him in the quartermaster corps.

PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Announcement of the promotion of Captain Withers A. Burress to the grade of major has been made by the War Department. Major Burress is well known in Fort Benning and was formerly in command of the Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

TO THE INCOMING OFFICERS AND THOSE AT FORT BENNING

We extend a cordial invitation to call on us when we can be of service, and to make this store your hardware headquarters.

Yours truly,

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146 or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

To those of you that are new to Fort Benning, as well as our old friends, we take pleasure in saying:

CDC ICE CREAM—(Pasteurized)

will ever be a high quality product, produced under best sanitary condition.

YOUR PATRONAGE IS APPRECIATED

and in turn, we pledge above statement, with service that must be right.

COLUMBUS DAIRY CO.

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

Kirven's ESTABLISHED 1876

Columbus' Leading Department Store.

Efficiently serving the Fort Benning Contingent since its establishment in 1918. We congratulate you on your appointment to Fort Benning and eagerly await the opportunity to Serve you as an efficient and up-to-date Store. If we may be of Service to you in any manner, it will be our pleasure.

To the Permanent Personnel of Fort Benning we shall endeavor to merit your continued Good Will and Patronage.

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

This is the first of a series of articles designated to help those here at Fort Benning who are interested in bigger and better gardens, and to tell something about the native trees and shrubs that nature has so lavishly bestowed upon this section of Georgia.

August is a hot month to talk about walking in the garden, but a few moments early in the morning or late in the evening spent in your garden will pay big dividends next spring. This is the time to plant perennial seeds so that the plants may make sufficient growth to go into their permanent places in October and be well established and ready to grow and bloom when spring comes. Seeds best planted now are those of Columbine, Fox-glove, Canterbury Bells, Dalphinium, Corerpsis, Pinks, Gaillardia, Hollyhock, Lupins, Pansies, Pyrethrum, Stocks and Sweet William. Best results will be obtained if the seeds are planted in a seed bed and the plants later moved to a nursery and finally, in October, moved again to their permanent quarters.

The seed bed need not be large, a space six by eight feet will furnish hundreds of plants but it should be well prepared. Any good garden soil will answer but it should be spaded to a depth of. twelve to eighteen inches and the soil thoroughly pulverized. After the bed is made up, soak it thoroughly the day before planting. Plant the seeds in rows and keep the seed bed shaded with canvas or burlap arranged on stakes about a foot above the gound. Never let the ground dry out, give it a good soaking with a fine spray every day. After the seeds have germinated and the young plants have made their second or true leaves the covering may be left off in the evening, at night and in the early morning, and on cloudy days, but it must be put back during the hot part of the day to prevent the seedling from burning up.

When the young plants are large enough to handle, as about an inch high, they can go into a nursery, where they will stay until October. Transplanting from the seed bed and the care of the plants in the nursery will be dealt with when seeds sown between now and August 20th are ready to go into the nursery.

Next week's article will cover the care of flowering shrubs at this time of the year.

K&P

Introducing

THE WATCH THAT WINDS ITSELF

"The Perpetual Watch"

We Invite Your Inspection

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following named officers have arrived at and departed from Fort Benning since the issue of August 2:

Arrivals—Capt. Charles Mabbutt, from detached service; 2nd Lt. Wolcott K. Dudley, for duty; Major Omar N. Bradley, for duty; Major Frank K. Ross, for duty; Major Henry B. Lewis, for duty as adjutant; Major Lewis C. Davidson for duty as instructor.

Departures—2nd Lt. Henry B. Margeson, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; Major Evan E. Lewis, to change of station to Army War College, Washington, D. C.; 2nd Lt. Lewis A. Riggins, to leave and change of station to Manilla, P. I.; Capt. Archibald McKechnie, to leave and change of station to 30th Inf., Presidio of California; 2nd Lt. John W. Dansby, to leave and change of station to Manilla, P. I.; 1st Lt. Clarence T. Davis, to leave and change of station to Panama Canal Dept.

Be careful not to touch a wound with your fingers nor handle it in any way, for the dirt on your hands is harmful, and you must disturb a wound as little as possible. Never wash a wound except under the orders of a medical officer. The bandaging will stop ordinary bleeding.

Read The Ads

Exercise Room of New and Modernly Equipped Dog and Cat Hospital

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS
(VETERINARIANS)
"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"
1006—13th St. Phone 1313

B. H. HARRIS & CO.
Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans
Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS
101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Radium Springs
ALBANY, GA.

Invites You

To

REST, DINE, GOLF, SWIM OR SHOOT

Hotel Accommodations

Radium Springs, only ninety miles from Fort Benning, is one of the South's Premier Resorts.

Swim in the crystal clear Radium Spring; Canoe down the enchanting Radium Spring run; Golf over the sportiest 18-hole course in the South.

Excellent Meals Reasonable Rates

Spend a week or a week-end at Radium Springs

In

"The Garden of the South"

Write or Wire for Reservations

G. Floyd Alford, Jr., MANAGER

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. August 9, 1929 No. 47

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave, Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. M. R. Kammerer ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

VANISHING HELGOLAND

A curious and unforeseen result of the Treaty of Versailles is the gradual disappearance of the island of Helgoland, in the North Sea. Originally, this little island is known to have been at least a square mile in area. By 1910, the continual buffeting of North Sea storms had worn it down to a fifth of that size. Then Germany, which had obtained it by treaty with England in 1890, completed a protecting sea wall of steel and concrete, at a cost of $30,000,000. Another $8,000,000 was spent for improving the main harbor, which then became a headquarters for the German Fleet. Of course, it was also heavily fortified, particularly as it holds a commanding position before the Kiel Canal and the mouth of the river Elbe.

The importance and effectiveness of this fortification is indicated by the fact that the Battles of Helgoland Bight, Dogger Bank, and Jutland, were all fought in the vicinity, and in each case the German Fleet was able to escape a superior British force by maneuvering back to the cover of the guns there and on the mainland.

But in accordance with the Peace Treaty, the sea wall was removed as well as the fortifications, and in only ten years, the lower part of the island, comprising a fifth of the area, has been engulfed, and a considerable part of the main rock itself has been broken away.

Thus the little island, supposed by geologists to be a projecting point of a vast plateau which disappeared under the North Sea in prehistoric times, is also on the way to extinction. Its population of about 2,000 fisher-folk and employees in the hotels by its small but excellent beach, will have to move elsewhere. Twenty years ago Helgoland became suddenly important, the scene of gigantic engineering and military activity. In another twenty years, perhaps, it will have ceased to exist.—Review of Reviews.

Thus time and the elements testify to the righteousness of the Allies' cause. This little island had been a thorn in the side of the British since its acquisition by the Germans, and although without defensive value since attacked by the Treaty of Versailles wrecking crew, its complete disappearance should give joy to the British Navy.

ARMY UNIFORM INTERESTS ROUMANIAN

Upon the request of the Roumanian minister of war, General Chioski, the Quartermaster General of the United States Army has forwarded to the foreign official photographs of enlisted mens' and officers' uniforms, samples of fabrics, specifications, and blue prints for the uniforms, according to a recent announcement by hte War Department.

In his request to our Quartermaster General, General Cihoski stated that plans are being made to change the uniform of the Roumanian Army and that the uniform of the United States Army appealed to him on account of its neatness, dressy appearance, and simplicity.

He was also impressed, it seems, by the quality of cloth used in making our garments.

The appearance of the Regular Army soldier in the present prescribed uniform, when well tailored, is not surpassed by that of any soldier of any other nation. General Cihoski will do well to recommend the adoption of as many of its features as is consistent with the plans for the change in the Roumanian uniform.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Corps, Inspector.

RING WORM

Ringworm is a contagious affection of the skin, hair and nails. It is most common in a hot moist climate, particularly in the summer months, and is quite prevalent at Fort Benning just now. The cause is a vegetable fungus or parasite and, according to the variety (species), attacks different parts of the skin, hair, etc. More than forty species of the parasite have been recognized in different parts of the world and they attack animals and birds as well as human beings. Certain fungi cause, almost always, a definite form of ringworm. Many cases of ringworm are recognized by the average layman. Practically all of us know the scalp form, so often seen in children and almost never in persons over 15 years of age. We have also seen and recognized "barber's itch." Those who have had tropical service, sad to relate, have often had first hand experience with "dhobie itch."

While most of us have had a little knowledge of one form or another of ringworm, we often forget that the affection is a contagious one; that it is conveyed by actual person to person contact, or through clothing. Any other material or object that has touched the diseased area may be the means of spread. People are apt to fail to realize that a common cause of its spread is the contact had daily with some domestic animal or pet.

Ringworm on the body begins as one or more rounded or irregular pea-sized, red scaly patches. In a few days these patches assume a circular shape, are of a dull red color, with a slightly elevated borders. The itching is but slight at this time. When the nails are involved they become opaque, thickened, soft, and brittle and may even drop out. This condition is exceedingly hard to cure.

Ringworm of the scalp begins as a small scaly patch. At first only the surface is affected but soon the hair and hair follicles become involved. The hair may break off about a quarter of an inch above the surface of the skin. This gives rise to what is known as a "gnawed off appearance" which is characteristic. The patch varies in size from that of a five cent piece to that of the palm of the hand. Its spread is hastened and carried to other parts of the body by the scratching fingers of the child. The condition progresses slowly, is hard to treat, and may last several years.

"Barber's itch" or ringworm of the beard is not necessarily contracted in the barber shop. In many cases it is seen in men who always shave themselves. It begins like the small ringworm patches of any other region, but when the hair follicles become involved there is a production of lumps which soon are infected by the pus producing bacteria. Thus the sufferer has a double infection. It is not only hard to cure but may be followed by a series of boils resulting in more or less facial scaring.

"Dhobie itch" usually invades the soft skin between the fingers and toes as well as other areas. The intense itching causes scratching which in turn is responsible for secondary infections. The secondary infection is often harder to cure than the original dhobie itch.

Prevention of the spread of this condition rests largely with the person affected. We must rely on his help. He must take it upon himself to protect others. This can be accomplished, though not easily, by seeing that his person, his clothing or any object that has come in contact with him, does not come in contact, directly or indirectly, with others. Sterilization by boiling or steaming will kill the fungi. Dogs, cats and other affected animals should be quarantined until cured, or they should be destroyed.

The treatment of some of these infections is sometimes simple, a cure resulting in a short time. Others are very difficult to cure and even with constant medication may last for several years. A physician should be consulted, for the treatment is not the same in all cases. Clothing, bedding, and other cloth articles maybe sterilized by steam at the Station Hospital.

Next week's topic. Swimming Pool Dont's.

LIFE SAVING INSTRUCTION

The opportunity to attend the course in Red Cross Life Saving Methods now being given at Russ Pool should be taken advantage of by all men of the garrison, whose time permits.

You may never have to use these methods, yet as a part of your general knowledge you should know them.

The instruction staff at Russ Pool is capable and eager to help you. Do not let the fact that you failed to enroll among the first deter you from enrolling now. The staff of the pool will make provision for your instruction if you so desire.

Some day the opportunity to rescue a drowning person may present itself. Are you qualified? If not, prepare yourself now.

Tactical proficiency is the ultimate goal of military training.

Map problems are exercises in which a military operation, with opposing sides, is conducted on a map, the troops and military establishments being represented by markers which are moved to represent the maneuvering of the troops on the ground. Map maneuvers may be either one-sided or two-sided.

Tactical rides or walks are exercises in which a series of military situations are stated and solved on the ground the troops being imaginary.

The frontiers of states are either large rivers, or chains of mountains, or deserts. Of all these obstacles to the march of an army, the most difficult to overcome is the desert; mountains come next, and broad rivers occupy the third place. Napoleon's 1st Maxim.

Teamwork is the concerted action of the members of a team in the accomplishment of a common purpose.

DIRECTORY
POST EXCHANGE
FORT BENNING, GEORGIA

GROCERY DEPARTMENT:
Staple, Fancy and Green Groceries. Frigidaire Equipped Meat Department.
Location: Hall Street and Vibbert Ave., (West of Post Office).
Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and Holidays.
Phones: 16 and 17.

MAIN BRANCH:
General Post Exchange Supplies, Shoe Department, Clothing Department, Candy Shop.
Location: Under South Stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Sundays and Holidays: 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.
Phone: 226.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT:
All kinds of Athletic Equipment, except that handled at the Golf Shop.
Location: Main Branch.
Hours: Same as Main Branch.
Phone: 226.

SHOE REPAIR AND HAT SHOP:
General Shoe and Boot Repairing, Hats Cleaned and Reblocked.
Location: Under South Stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and Holidays.

TAILOR SHOP:
Regulation Uniforms, Overcoats and Ladies' Riding Habits made. Altering, Cleaning and Pressing done.
Location: Under South Stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 8:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. Closed Sundays and Holidays.
Phone: 497.

HEMSTITCHING PARLOR:
Location: Next to Post Exchange Tailor Shop.
Hours: Same as Tailor Shop.

OFFICE:
Executive, Purchasing and Accounting Departments.
Location: South Tower Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Saturdays: 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon. Closed Sundays and Holidays.
Phone 18.

HOSPITAL BRANCH:
General Post Exchange Supplies.
Location: New Hospital Area.
Hours: 10:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

FILLING STATION, TIRE REPAIR AND ACCESSORY DEPARTMENT:
Gas, Oils, Kerosene, Tires, Tubes, Tire Repairs, All Auto Accessories.
Location: Wold Ave. (South of Gowdy Field.)
Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7:30 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. Sundays and Holidays: 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.
Phone: 165.

REPAIR SHOPS, BATTERY DEPARTMENT, GREASE AND WASH RACKS:
All makes of cars Repaired, Washed and Greased. Cars Painted.
Location: Under Gowdy Field Stands.
Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7:30 A. M. to 3:00 P. M. Emergency Service after Closing Hours.
Phone: 177 (after 2:00 P. M. phone 557 for Emergency Service).

SODA FOUNTAIN:
Soda, Ice Cream, Cigars, Cigarettes and Candies.
Location: Service Club.
Hours: 9:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

RESTAURANT:
Location: Service Club.
Hours: 7:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. Sundays: 8:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M.

29th INFANTRY BRANCH:
General Post Exchange Supplies.
Location: 29th Infantry Area.
Hours: 9:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. Sundays and Holidays: 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

24th INFANTRY BRANCH:
General Post Exchange Supplies.
Location: 24th Infantry Area.
Hours: 6:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

GIFT AND SPECIAL ORDER DEPARTMENT:
Gift Articles, Special Mail Orders, Ladies Lingerie, Electrical Household Servants.
Location: Under South Stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Closed Sundays and Holidays.
Phone: 608.

OFFICERS' GRILL:
Restaurant, Lunch Counter, Cigars, Cigarettes, Toilet Articles, Cold Drinks, etc.
Location: Officers' Club.
Hours: 6:30 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.
Phone: 151.

GOLF SHOP:
All kinds of Golf Equipment.
Location: Golf Course.
Hours: 7:00 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.
Phone: 56.

Effective August 23 the Post Exchange will take over and operate the Beauty Parlor located in the Offcers' Club.

POST EXCHANGE, Fort Benning, Ga.

29TH INF.

CHANGES WITHIN THE REGIMENT

Following are some of the changes in personnel in the 29th Infantry, ordered during the past week as part of the experiment with reorganized units of the 29th Infantry:

Major T. F. Taylor has been relieved from assignment to Hdqrs. and Hd. Co., 1st Bn., and attached to Hdqrs. and Hd. Co., 2nd Bn. Major Taylor has also been designated as the officer to conduct examinations in machine gun marksmanship of Co. "H."

1st Lt. J.. C. Carter has been relieved from attachment to Co. "B" and attached to 2d Bn. Hdqrs. and Hq. Co.

1st Lt. W. G. Skelton has been relieved from assignment to Co. "H" and attached to 2d Bn. Hdqrs. and Hq. Co.

1st Lt. E. J. Walsh has been relieved from assignment to 1st Bn. Hdqrs. and Hq. Co. and attached to Co. "C."

2d Lt. J. H. Gilbreth was relieved from special duty as range officer.

Company "C" was attached to the 2d Bn. for administration and training, effective July 30.

Capt. N. D. Woodward has been relieved from assignment to Co. "B" and assigned to Co. "D" However, Capt. Woodward expects to take advantage of a two-day leave of absence, effective August 5th, to do a little fishing in South Georgia, before taking up the arduous duties of a machine-gunner. Accompanying Capt. Woodward will be Lt. N. J. Wiley, Jr., who will count and otherwise verify all fish caught by the Captain. Fish less than thirty inches will be thrown back into the water.

1st Lieut. "Ze" Grande A. Diller will take advantage of a fourteen-day leave of absence, on or about September eleventh. When questioned about it, Diller admitted that September eleventh is "ze grande wonderful day."

Capt. G. B. Wescott was granted a two-day leave effective August 5th.

1st Lt. F. A. Drewery was granted a seven-day leave effective August 5th.

TARGET SEASON SUSPENDED

Due to the experiments with reorganized units now going on in the 29th Infantry, the target season for 1st Battalion, Hq. Co., and Companyies A, B, and C, 29th Infantry, has been suspended until a date to be announced later.

Headquarters Company

Corporal (Spud) Murphy was discharged Saturday, August 3, and "reupped" the next day for goo' ole Hq. Co. Atta boy, Spud! When a man finds a good thing he remembers it, eh?

Our first sergeant said this morning, "We still have prohibition with us so all we can do is 'gin and beer it' ". Good idea.

We have two men on the coaching course for West Point this year. Pvt. Eugene Greneker and Pvt. Cheston, Jr. Gene Greneker had a bit of tough luck last year but we are confident he will pass easily this year. Cheston is living up to that saying, Following in his father's footsteps." His father is a lieutenant colonel stationed at Fort McPherson, Ga. We wish the two of them the best of luck.

The last buch from this company is on the range now and we want "buku" experts. C'mon gang, hold 'em and squeeze 'em.

Pvt. Marler seems to be in a daze this morning. We understand a "bran' new queen" has succumbed to our shiek's charms. She 'phoned him last night and this evening he called her up but alas! The number she gave him to call proved to be a coal yard. Pssss! Maybe he needs heating.

Sgt. Riley is a record wrecker. The building given to us by the quartermaster was torn down in record time. Literally speaking, he is some "home wrecker"—and how!

Howitzer Company

We have completed the 1929 range season and as always the company has qualified 100 per cent again. This is the fifth successive year that the Howitzer Company has qualified 100 per cent. Not so bad is it?

Pfc. Nathan F. Smith, sometimes known as Smiley, has been appointed corporal and the sale of Non-com and Blitz at the Post Exchange has increased as a result of this promotion.

Pvt. Hill, who generally has considerable trouble with his "Dogs" is out of the hospital and now enjoying a three-day pass. The Medical Department will please note this and prepare his usual stall for him upon his return.

Cpl. Harbert Smith is now in the hospital as a result of an attempt to celebrate the 4th of July on July 29th. The powder burns were rather severe, but he is recovering quite rapidly. Our advice is to do your celebrating on the proper day.

At least thirteen of our boys are having a good time and feel at home at last. We are furnishing thirteen "mule skinners" to Service Company, and if you want to see some real skinning just watch for them.

Pvt. Nickerson has left on a 60-day emergency furlough..

Hdqrs. Co. 1st Bn.

Our 1st Battalion baseball team will miss the work of Pvt. Lowe, who has been discharged. He was the fellow that hit them out of the lot at Buena Vista, and made Lefty Carnes wonder if he was pitching to Babe Ruth.

Cpl. Goodin is in his element now. What is he doing? Hadn't you heard? He is at recruit center with the new ones doing his stuff.

"Pop" Lemay is feeling better these days, so much so that he has gone to town to celebrate. He isn't "Peanut Corporal" any longer. The Honorable Woodberry Thompson now holds that honor, the boy with the fighting chin.

It has been rumored around that the water is fine. Now that it is so hot that it is uncomfortable to set around in the shade or in the sun, the old swimming hole seems to be the next best place to go. In fact the only place to go if you wish to enjoy yourself, and really have a good time.

"Blondy" Bourne has taken over the care of our recreation room to see that the boys do the right thing by the company fund. Among his other duties you find the usual run of work that comes with the job, but the big thing that he does is to keep the tear bucket washed out. Maybe you wonder what the tear bucket is. Down in our company we have a special bucket that we keep for the express purpose of allowing all of the boys that have hard luck a place wherein they may weep away their troubles. Once a day this bucket must be emptied. This has been a great advantage. Before they were apt to weep anywhere, now all of the weeping is done in one particular place.

Yesterday Corporal Minkley had the boys at "parade rest" about fifteen minutes before time, but he said it did not make any difference as you had to be out there anyway.

Company "E"

Company "E" has made the highest score in rifle marksmanship in the Second Battalion this year and the highest average score per man since their arrival in Fort Benning, Ga., in October, 1919. The average score per man this year was 291.68 with 100 per cent qualification.

The high score in the company during our time in Fort Benning was made this season by Sgt. New, 330.

Pfc. Wesley Nugent (one of our Post Exchange special duty men) says sometimes I sit and worry about how lazy I am; and then I think of how tired I might be, if I were not so lazy. Sometimes, I wish grapes grew as large as watermelons; and then I think of the trouble it would be to carry home a bunch.

Sgt. Arevalo has taken a 120 days' furlough. He is trying to get a commission in the Philippine Constabulary. He hopes to get his commission through by taking this furlough back home and seeing the officials personally there.

Sgt. New is taking 50 days' furlough and remarked that it was his shooting furlough in honor of his high score on the range.

Corp. (Windy) Moore is taking 90

(Continued on page 9.)

"TIME OUT!" You've got to—pause and refresh yourself

Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

All games would be tasks if it wasn't for the rest period. And wherever people play and exercise you're sure to find Coca-Cola the king-pin at refreshment time...For the same good reason busy workers have learned to take "time out" and refresh themselves with an ice-cold, delicious, tingling Coca-Cola. The one drink that never fails to strike out thirst and leave you cool and refreshed.

OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

Columbus
Coca-Cola Company
Phone 360

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

ADDITIONAL 29th INFANTRY

(Continued from page 8.)

days' vacation. The boys say they will get 90 days rest in the evenings while Corp. (Windy) Moore is away on his vacation. His melodious voice was always warbling some of the latest songs through the squad room and it kept the boys from taking their beauty naps in the evening.

Company "G"

Sergeant Sherman was granted a ninety-day furlough and is by this time in Gonce, Alabama.

Range firing is now over, though the company still has its problems. The company is on demonstration every day firing various problems under the supervision of the Infantry Board, which seems to interest them much more than the usual drill, guard and fatigue.

Corporal Pritchard is now spending a seventy-five day furlough at Shell Creek, Tennessee. We all hope he doesn't get married while there because we would like very much to have him reenlist with us.

Company "H"

The work with the .50 calibre machine gun is progressing very satisfactorily. The rumors of a new platoon armed with this gun is proving to be a matter of much interest and conjecture, especially if it is to be motorized. We look forward to the day when we can ride about the terrain and not have to lead a mule with a look on his mug that is very familiar to slaughter house habitue's. From the frequent sounds of men pounding the pavements, roads and gym fixtures at night, they are apparently getting ready to lug those .50 calibre whoppers around "vay oot in de voods."

With 65 experts, 60 sharpshooters and 32 marksmen, and setting a new record in Benning, we can line up with more shining wreaths than ever before. Even our hats don't fit us any more.

To the new men assigned the company, but not yet joined, the glad hand of the busiest company in the regiment is extended and we wish you the best of luck.

MEDICAL DETACHMENT NOTES

The Medicos' elongated twirler, Gilbert, took the mound Tuesday afternoon in time to save the outfit from a merciless drubbing by the Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry. Martin, who started the game for the M. D.'s, was knocked from the box before the first inning had gone half way.

The bats of the Medicos were ever and eternally doing the work for the support of the long fellow, while the Howitzer Company fought gamely for a draw.

The building of permanent barracks for the enlisted personnel of the Medical Department is creating much interest in the detachment at this time. It is rumored that the absence of Colonel Card is due to the fact that he is busy in Washington placing before the War Department plans and specifications for the new barracks, with the hope that they will be accepted and work begun on them at an early date, so that the quarters will be finished before the winter.

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 1 FOR BEGINNERS

During the lesson and all following lessons, each pupil will have a buddy. You will work with this buddy through each lesson. If at any time I command, "Find Your Buddy!", join your buddy and report "O. K." "Now pair off and find your buddies."

Our first work this morning consists in working the face. Take both hands and throw the water in the face.—Now that was easy, wasn't it? Now again! You see, it is just like washing the face in the bowl at home. Now this time, inhale through the nose while you wash your faces. Dead easy isn't it?

"Everybody join hands! This may look like ring around the rosy but it isn't. Let's get acquainted with the water. Take a big breath of air in through the mouth and hold it. Now everybody down. Now don't wipe your faces, just shake the water off. Now again, a big breath. Down! That was better. Once again. That's fine! Find your buddies!

* "Every time a duck gets hungry, she has to put her face under water to look for food. If she can see under water, we can. I will look and tell you what I see. Open your eyes after the face is under. Don't hurry about it. Hold your breath, take your time, look at your fingers. Now everyone try it. There was nothing hard about it. Now try it twice again."

* "A motor boat is a very efficient breather, because it takes the air in through one valve, the carburetor, and lets it out through the exhaust pipe. Now I will take a good breath through my mouth, close it, put my face under water and let the air out through the nose. (Demonsrtation) "Now let us all try it. Now then repeat that five times."

"Now that all of you have learned to breathe correctly we will try bobbing. Whether or not you know how to swim, it is possible to travel all over any pool of reasonable depth by means of bobbing. First inhale through the mouth. Then throw hands over your head and let yourself go to the bottom. At the same time exhale through your nose steadily. Now when you arrive at the bottom, crouch for your spring up. now spring, and you will shoot to the top. Be ready to take a gulp of air through the mouth. Repeat until you arrive at your destination. I will do it once for you. Now try it."

"Remember that correct breathing is the most important thing in swimming. Learn well what you have tried today and you will be swimming in two or three lessons. Find your buddies! That will be all for today."

* Denotes copy from Dr. Brink's lessons.

Watch this column for future articles by Lt. Smith and save them. Have you ever been detailed as swimming instructor even though you couldn't swim 100 yards?

GUNNER DE PRATT TO FIGHT STILES ATTAWAY

(Continued from page 1.)

ing touted as an opponent for Joe Kid Peck. Needing work, which means short of cash, if one must be plain, Huckaby said he would take anything from a four rounder up. Duston Thomas, it is reported, lost a wadful of the filthy lucre through the prolonged absence of a few buddies of his regiment. Thomas fears no one. They are both the same age, a pound or two difference in weight, and both the same size. "Maybe," quotes Tommy, "if I lick Huckaby, I can go to China and pick up some of their loose coin."

Len Shouse, of Augusta, a boy who has fought Baby Stribling, Pete Cole, Sammy Buchanan, and boys of this class, will work the semi-final of eight rounds with Danny Davis. No matter how good they are, where they come from, and their previous reputation, Davis will make it an interesting evening for anyone his weight. When Danny is in there it is a fight. Look ahead and tab this one as second to none.

Many have asked why Grumpy Gordy has not been booked on the last two cards. Right now part of the secret can be released, not all, however. First, Gordy has taken up that little study now undertaken by Griffin; second, in a month or so he will flash out under a new non de plume, forgetting what has happened in the dark past and come in into the future as Antiscorbutic McGuffey.

There are only three new faces on the coming bill, Glenn Huckaby, Len Shouse, and Kenneth Osteen, but everyone listed has been picked because he can sock. Cleverness means piling up points, which in the long run gets the decisions but the sockers are the ones that pull the fans away from their pipes, slippers, and radios. Doughboy Stadium has at least eight real sockers listed for Tuesday night, which means a packed house. The tickets have been out since Thursday morning. Get yours now.

AWARDED FLYING CROSS

Lieutenants James H. Doolittle and Harry A. Sutton were recently awarded the distinguished flying cross for their accomplishments in test flights.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED TO BUY: All kinds of used civilian clothing and shoes. Charlie, 1309 First Ave.

FOR SALE—For sale at a discount: 50 shares Commonwealth Bldg. & Loan Assoc. Columbus, Ga. Major E. E. Lewis, Army War College, Washington, D. C.

FOR SALE—Walnut bed with springs, mattress and dresser. Will sell very reasonably. Phone 1732-W.

LOST—White gold bar-pin with diamond center, flanked by two blue stones. Lost in neighborhood of Main Exchange or Exchange Grocery. Reward. Phone 204.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

FOR RENT—New Brick Residence facing Weracoba Park. Seven rooms including three bedrooms. Two rear entrances, Sunbeam Heater, Double Garage. School term or twelve months.

Phone 1109 Columbus.

Teas, Coffees, Sugars, Rices, Grits, Milks, Chocolates Cocoa

Always Fresh

C. D. Kenny Co.

1139 Broadway

PHONE 162

Boxing Tuesday Night, August 13

Doughboy Stadium. First bout 8:00 O'clock

WINDUP 10 ROUNDS

GUNNER DE PRATT Fort Benning Ga. VS. STYLES ATTAWAY Gainesville, Ga.

SEMIWINDUP 8 ROUNDS

DANNY DAVIS vs. LEN SHOUSE

Glenn Huckaby—Dustem Thomas—Corn Griffin—Kenneth Osteen—Seaweed Wilson and others

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c RINGSIDE $1.00

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

SIDELINE CHATTER
By O. S.

Friday, August 2nd, found the Tankers and the I. S. D. on the playing field when Umpire Paynter yelled "play ball" at 1:30 P. M. From that hour until 2:50 P. M. Johnny Roosma of the Tanks breezed through a nice little workout. For five inning the Magoni crowd was retired with the exact precision of one, two, three. While this was going on Roosma's mates collected four runs. At the time it seemed as if one run would be plenty to win this ball game. Shall we continue and tell what happened thereafter? Anyway, Speed Davis, 1st sacker of the I. S. D., broke the spell with a hump backed liner just in rear of second base. Quickly the bases were loaded, but no scoring resulted. The I. S. D. realized that they could get on and started another rally in the seventh. Again the sacks were loaded and again the third out found no one reaching home plate. In the eighth they broke through for three runs, and salted the game away in the ninth with two more. You can never tell anything about a ball game.

Three bingles was the sum total of the Greencords' batting power that afternoon. Add this to seven errors the Tankers made and the secret is out.

It was the hottest day of the year. Just the kind of a day to take the kinks out of Shotgun White's shanks. Did you see him make that one handed stab of a liner back of second? The day after pay day at that.

Have you noticed Cowan, foreign correspondent of the Infantry School News, up there hitting? At this writing he is the leading hitter of the league with three for three. He collected two of the three blows off Roosma.

Yuratich had a bad day against the Tankers. The official score shows but one error of commission, but the hard working third sacker had three or four lapses when it came to covering the bag. Blame it on the heat, for this reticent youngster is in there hustling every minute Hedgecock is meeting that apple these days. Anyone getting three off Grady Tolle is wide awake.

Saturday, August 3rd, Captain Halloran trotted out Lefty Abrams to try his luck against the 83rd Field Artillery. Before the game the odds were a dollar to a doughnut that Lefty wouldn't see the beginning of the third frame. From the stands it looked as if all that Abram had were his glove and a smile. When the game ended he still had the smile and the glove and a six to three win over the league leaders.

The six left handed hitters in the Buckley lineup garnished the sum total of three hits among them, while the right hand swatters gathered six. There is the story. Abrams kept his mystery ball, so-called for the lack of knowing just what he had, high and inside on the portsiders.

After winning a ball game, coming as it did after losing some heart breakers that went extra innings, Captain Halloran held open house for the umps, official scorer and a few faithful rooters.

Paschall celebrated his return to the lineup by pitching shutout ball during the time he was on the mound. Red struck out seven in the five and one-third frames he worked, and held the opposition to two hits. It looks as if the Artillery is good as any when it comes to hurlers. Halloway and Paschall are tough customers for any one to face.

Jordan of the 1st Bats is a little off his stride at the plate, but this flay snatcher takes his hat off to none when it comes to turning hits into outs. His circus catch for the third out in the ninth against the Artillery was on Captain Halloran's broadcaster late into the following morning.

Sunday, after Jupe Pluvious messed up the playing field with a cloud burst, the Tankers and the Engineers took the field. After nine frames of mud, wet balls, overthrows, and some bad baseball the Roosma crowd chalked up a ten to one win.

Goode of the Gin Ears put his club in a bad hole by throwing a few bunts into the open spaces. Prior to this some poor work in the center garden paved the way for the Tankers to bunt their base runners around.

From the third to the seventh Goode looked good. Cy Perkins worked one and a third innings, retiring three of the four outs by fanning. He was, however, a bit wild, walking three in a row.

Last week we predicted the Engineers will look better next time out. We still hold that opinion, despite their poor work in the field yesterday. They seem possessed with a maidenly palsy, akin to the feeling one gets facing Walker Smith when he is right.

Cue Ball Smith celebrated his return by collecting three blows, one a high soarer that landed in the grape vines in right field. Another face we hope to see is Grantham. His hitting and fielding will help a lot.

Zlotnik cut in with a nice shoe string catch in this game. This hustler has very little style, but is in there trying every minute. It is hard to understand how he is kept out of the lineup until the fourth or fifth inning every time his club plays.

There have been many, many ball games played at Gowdy Field. Many, many more will be played, but one that will be remembered for ever and a day was the dog eat dog affair between the 1st and 2nd Bats Tuesday afternoon, August 6th, 1929. Yes, girls, this was a ball game.

Stevens, the youngster picked up by Captain Halloran from the Recruit Center team, pitched a heady game of ball. Kelly's hard hitters broke through with safe ones time and again, piling up nine safeties, one a three bagger to center, but when they got on is where the little fellow showed his nettle. Every inning found the paths with one or more in a position to score. Time and again he worked out of a bad hole; once Abrams saved the old ball game with a bullet peg in from center nailing Barren at the plate by a scant inch and a quarter. Sheriff pulled an Eddie Collins by going a mile and a half to his left and with a quick peg to first saved the game in the eighth.

A forerunner of what was coming happened in the very first frame, when a lightning double play Stevens to McCullough to Smith retired Cooper at first and Kelly at the plate.

Kelley essayed the role as lead off man in this game. Three times out of five the big fellow reached first. Three times he was in a position to score. It just goes to show how this Stevens held the heavy end of the batting order in line, for Kelly failed to dent the platter.

Barron had a busy day at the hot corner. Three times that afternoon he cut in with fielding gems that were beauties. Twice Rhodes, who guards the 3rd sack for the 1st Bats, sent scorchers his way that were hits nine times out of ten, but Barron turned them into duck eggs in the hit column. His hitting is picking up nicely. Two for four in this game, one a long triple that Abrams came near snagging.

This Rhodes, who is subbing for Reddick, will bear watching. He is tall and wiry, takes a free swing and seems to know what it is al labout. Three times he met the apple right on the nose, but right at some one. He will soon be hitting higher than the eighth position in the batting order.

Sheriff has hit his stride. Early in the season the 2nd sacker was having difficulty holding on to them, but now he is everywhere. He carries a mean bat in the pinches.

When Lefty Carnes mounts that hill you can sit back and say, "here is a pitcher." For a southpaw he has the best control in the league. Now and then someone will get hold of his fast one and give it a long ride, but the next hitter is the one to worry, for Lefty bears down and there isn't any more. Three blows, scattered over five inning, is all the 1st Bats got after Allison retired. And how he loves to go up there and hit.

Just a word or two of what was going on in the stands. The 1st Bats' royal rooters were lined up behind the catcher. To study the faces of that crowd a glance would show nothing but suspense. Suspense in carloads. One high ranker left the park six times in nine innings—just couldn't stand the strain. When the final score read 1st Bats 3, 2nd Bats 2, then, and then only, did some take a chance on regular breathing. Yes, it was nine frames of short, spasmodic, irregular gasps. We can't get too much of this brand of ball.

DANDY VELOCIPEDES

Just the kind that will delight the youngster and give lots of service.

EXCELLENT GARDEN HOSE

Corrugated—non-kinkable, molded from fresh live rubber.

SPORTING GOODS

The kind for every sport—the kind for your particular need.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

Sears, Roebuck and Co.

RETAIL STORE

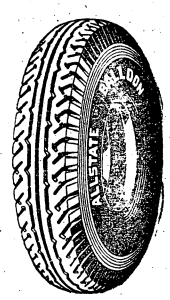
1008 Broadway — Columbus, Ga.

Nation-Wide Sale

Gives Super Values — — — — — — — — — — In Motorists' Needs

Prices Reduced!

ALLSTATE



Tires and Tubes

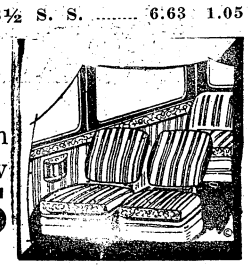
Balloons

Size	Tire	Tube
28x4.75	$8.05	$1.39
28x5.25	9.57	1.59
29x4.40	5.90	1.16
29x4.75	8.19	1.40
30x4.50	6.73	1.16
30x4.75	8.45	1.45

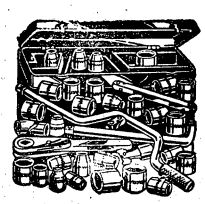
Cords

Size	Tire	Tube
30x3 Clincher	$4.77	$0.92
30x3½ regular Clincher	5.05	1.05
30x3½ Oversize Clincher	5.19	1.05
30x3½ S. S.	6.63	1.05

Seat Covers



Striped material with Blue Spanish trim. Complete protection at low cost! For Fords, complete sets $4.85



Wrench Sets

Save money on this 36-piece set of special steel, heat treated and hardened, Steel box.... $3.35

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

TENNIS

Although interest has been lagging during the past few weeks in the tennis club, it is expected to get this club organized on a sound basis before the month has passed.

Due to lack of interest, the tournament that was scheduled to have started on the fifth of this month, has been put off until the seventeenth of September. Those who have already submitted their names to enter the tournament need not make a new application for admittance. It is desired that at least fifteen more candidates make application within the next two weeks so that the tournament committee can make the necessary preparations.

The courts have not been in the best of condition, but after having been played on, are rapidly improving. By the time the tournament starts, they should be in A-1 condition.

The balls for the semi-finals and the finals will be furnished by a down town concern, and also a trophy for the winner and runner-up. Those playing in the preliminaries will be requested to make their own arrangements about balls.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

We noticed in one of the morning papers recently where one of Fort Benning's old baseball, football and basketball stars has broken into the Southeastern circuit. It seems that professional baseball just won't lay off the soldiers.

Fat Franz, formerly of "E" Company, 29th Infantry, made his debut in the Southeastern this week. In his first game, he made three errors, due mostly to stage fright. The next day he cut his number down to one.

Fat makes more errors on balls that he should have let alone than he does any other way. He is constantly digging for those that are slated to ring the bell, gets his hands on them, but it being such a hard try, misses.

We are all pulling for him to come through with the goods. He is a good hitter, and we have yet to see anyone in this section dig them out of the dirt any better than the "Round Boy." Good luck, Fat.

* * *

Sergeant Robert E. (Bob) Harkey takes the cake. Since "Shrimp" Vincent left, Bob has taken the floor, and is telling one bigger and better each day.

He was heard to relate one the other day that deserves mentioning. While playing baseball up at Thomaston, Georgia, in 1924, Bob was pitching for the Fort Benning team and Bell was catching. (This same Mr. Bell can be found in Columbus yet, so Bob says.) The home team was short on umpires, and as a substitute, used the sheriff of that county.

Now this sheriff was inexperienced, and wore neither chest protector or boxing gloves. He merely wore shin guards, a mask and a forty-five sheep leg that looked like a demountable cannon. (This is all Bob's story.)

It seems that said sheriff was not even a good guesser, and was blind besides. He couldn't tell a curve ball, and as a consequence, Bob had many men on bases by the base-on-ball excuse. Harkey told Bell to duck the next fast one that came in there and Bell did. The umpire was dragged out of the game and the visitors furnished aonther umpire and won the game.

Any one who can beat that one, or can come near it, is requested to communicate with this column.

* * *

After having listened to the rumors for a long time, we investigated the matter, and after seeing the material evidence and talking with the accused, have come to the conclusion that Sergeant Lantz, circulation manager of the Infantry School News, went to town this week. He is the proud possessor of a barlow knife and one of the dollar model watches. He is thinking of making a watch fob for the biscuit from a G. I. shoe string.

Look out!!! Duck!"*()0$).',*

SPORTOPICS

By Al

What is the matter with Red Keenan? The Army never produced a more willing mixer or a fighter with more style and ring generalship than this fighting Irishman. Keenan's easy victory over Alford in his last fight here proved that he is in fine condition. Fight fans are anxious to see the "Redhead" matched with Eddie Burl or some other good bantam.

If dope buckets continue to get kicked over in the Benning baseball series, dope is going to get scarce. The Galloping Gunners started things humming by walloping the league leading Kells in a hectic diamond battle. Saturday afternoon the lowly First Bats came to life with a "bang," and when the smoke of battle rolled away they had trempled over the lordly Gunners, 6 to 2.

Corn Griffin, of the Tankers, looks like a sure comer in the boxing game. He is fast and a hard hitter with either hand, and is as tough as the proverbial whit-leather. A natural fighter. With proper training he will soon be making the boys in the light-heavy class take notice.

"You can't beat the Irish." Mike Halloran's doughboys and "Mickey" Buckley's artillerymen sure pawed up the dirt at Gowdy Field a few days ago. It was Mick and Mike, and if those teams had fought like their leaders, that ball game would still be going.

GOOD YEAR
TIRES TUBES
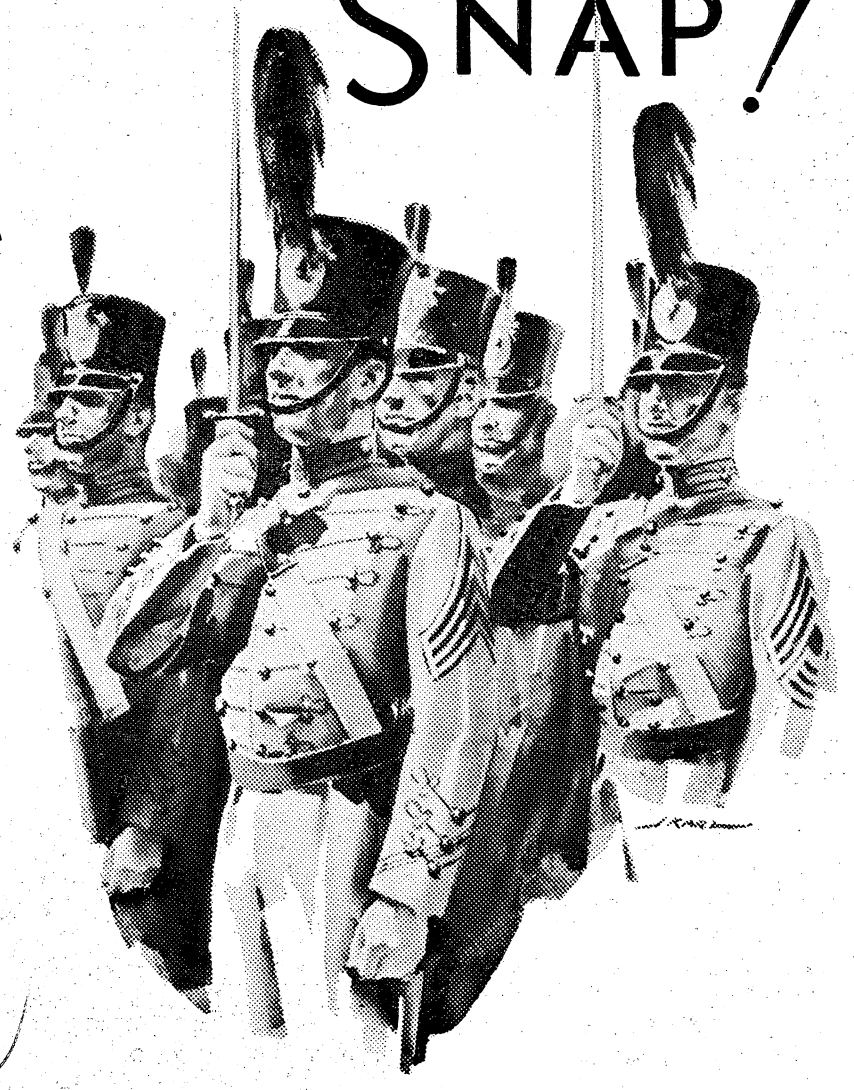
and
REAL SERVICE

Honest Tires
Honest Prices

Post Exchange
Filling Station

Fort Benning
Georgia

. . . on parade it's SNAP!



. . . in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD . . . and yet
THEY SATISFY

A CIGARETTE may be "something to smoke" —but unless it is likewise "something to taste," you're missing the full measure of smoking enjoyment.

We put taste first, in the manufacture of Chesterfield—and in taste you'll find their popularity explained. No fads; but delicately flavored tobaccos, mild, tender, richly fragrant—thoroughly blended and cross-blended, the standard Chesterfield method. Summed up in three words—

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

© 1929, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

It may seem to some of the readers that the writer of this column is all out of sorts in bringing in a big-time umpire for discussion in the space that is intended for fighters.

That is just the reason that we have selected William S. (Red) Jones for a leader this week. Red has always been known as a fighter of the real American caliber, and when we say that, we mean it.

He may be trampled on and buffed about, be he never loses that never-say-die spirit. He is ever and eternally in there fighting for a draw or better, and that is just the reason that he has broken into big-time baseball.

He is now umpiring in the Southeastern league, working with the Montgomery club. To date, from all reports gathered, we learn that Red is not only calling the close ones the right way, but is in turn holding the respect and esteem of the players and fans.

The baseball field is not the only place that Red is known as a fighter. Around the roped arena, he may be found at all the fights that he is able to attend.

Recently, in Montgomery, he was selected to referee the preliminaries, and stepped up and did his bit. Never a growl did he receive from the fight bugs, and the fighters all said that he handled the fracas like a veteran.

Then again he shows his fighting ability when it comes to football. Down the field he sprints to a previously located oasis and receives a pass from some mighty back and over the goal line for a touchdown.

Playing at end for the 2nd Battalion team for the past two years, the Red Head has established himself in the eyes of the sports fans for a long time to come. When his team was on the loosing end of a score, he was one of those out there giving his all for the glory of his team, and be hanged with the personal stuff.

THREE NEW TANKERS

Three newly enlisted men have been assigned to the Fifteenth Tank Battalion, and will join their respective organizations upon completion of their period of quarantine.

They are: Ollie Dunn, Armstead, Kensee, and Ralph Babin, Homer, Louisana.

MARKSMANSHIP TROPHIES

The "Pershing Trophy" and a gold medal will be awarded to the individual making the highest score in the national team match. Many other valuable and historic trophies are to be competed for in the National Rifle Association matches, which include such important events as the Leech Cup match, the Wimbledon Cup match, the Navy Cup match, the President's Cup match, the A. E. F. Roumanian Trophy match and the individual Palma, the Wright Memorial, the Crowell, the Marine Corps, the Members', the Scott, the Herrick and nearly a score of other matches which, fired at different ranges and under varying rules, test the skill of all classes of marksmanship.

I. S. D. NOTES

We don't know how long the good work will go on, but at the present writing the Greencord baseball team is tied with the Galloping Gunners for first place in the last half of the pennant race. With the old fighting spirit that the team has shown all season it looks as if our chances at the bunting are one hundred per.

J. Magoni has organized a horse shoe pitching team over in the weapon section and they do say they are plenty hot. Two pennants in one season is the slogan of Jazz.

Wonder what became of Pinky Phillips? He left for Florida sometime ago with the avowed intention of bringing back the scalp of every fighter in Gator land. As yet Pinky and the scalps are missing.

Heard the I. S. D. Symphony three, harmonizing on some popular selections last Tuesday night. Wonder why we couldn't have a little "Whoopee," and make use of a bunch of the wasted talent for one evening at least.

Ples Buckner and "Brer" Knox will represent the Greencords at the next International Speedway races. Both boys have their motors all tuned and are raring to go.

"Shotgun" White had his best girl over at the P. X. restaurant for dinner last Sunday. You should have seen George put on the "dog" when any of his old "buddies" passed within sight or hearing.

Note: Since this writing, the I. S. D. has defeated the Engineers and taken the league lead. Also, Pinky Philips has returned, minus the scalps. —Ed.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5 00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 PHONES 224
CITY POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

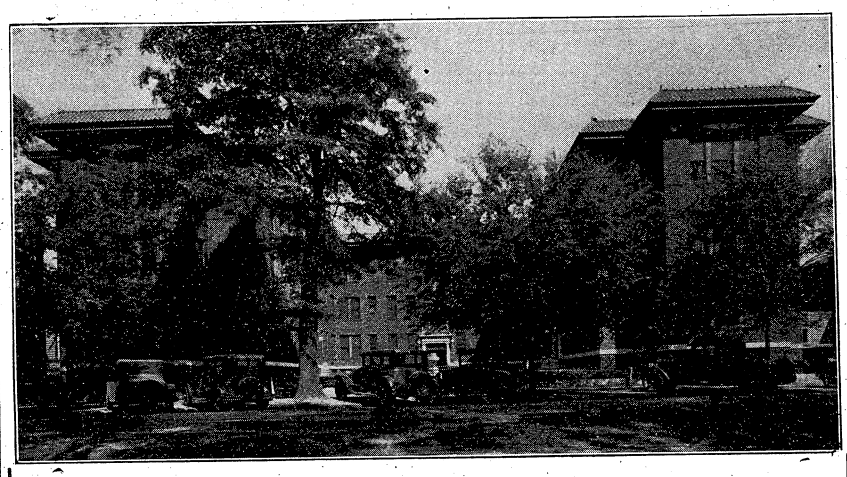
Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6 30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

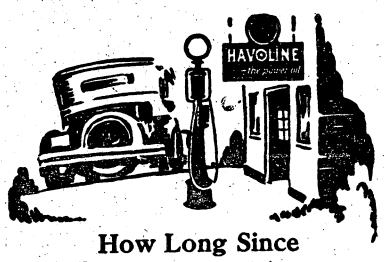
A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062



How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

Selling Better Coal and Service Since 1869

E. Philips & Sons

1620—5th Ave. Phone 98

The Infantry School News

Vol. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 16, 1929 Number 48

.22 CAL. BARREL FOR MACHINE GUNNERS

It has been recommended that a sufficient number of the existing stock of M 1903, Cal .22 gallery practice rifle barrels be modified to function in the Browning machine gun M 1917, and made available for immediate use and issue to the infantry for training purposes. The Cal .22 cartridge holders are to be used unmodified. The test firing of this new approved aid in machine gun training was carried on in two parts: one a functioning and accuracy test at 500 inches with the gun in the normal ground firing position, and the other, preliminary anti-air craft training with the gun mounted on a T 4 E 1 anti-aircraft adapter. In all firing the number "3" man, of the squad, pulled the bolt handle to the rear after each shot, and released it in the usual manner.

In the first part, with the gun in the normal ground firing position, it was found that if the gun was firmly clamped for elevation, and the traversing mechanism adjusted for the normal 2 mil tap that the accuracy of fire was highly satisfactory and that further its functioning was satisfactory, provided careful examination was made during loading, to insure that no broken or battered carriers were placed in the cartridge belt, and that the carriers were evenly spaced, with their loading apertures facing the feedway.

In the second part of the firing tests (adaptability for anti-aircraft training purposes) the operation of the bolt handle by a number "3" man made the Cal .22 and holders satisfactory for anti-aircraft training. The gun is attached to the adapter at the trunnion guides, providing free traverse and elevation.

The operation of the bolt handle disturbs the aim of the gunner unless he uses his body to steady the gun. This steadying of the gun during firing approximates the action of the gunner in overcoming the vibration of the gun, during the firing with Cal. .30 ammunition, and keeping the sights aligned on the target. The rate of fire can be varied, with 60 shots per minute as the maximum.

CHIEF OF STAFF ATTENDS CHAUTAUQUA

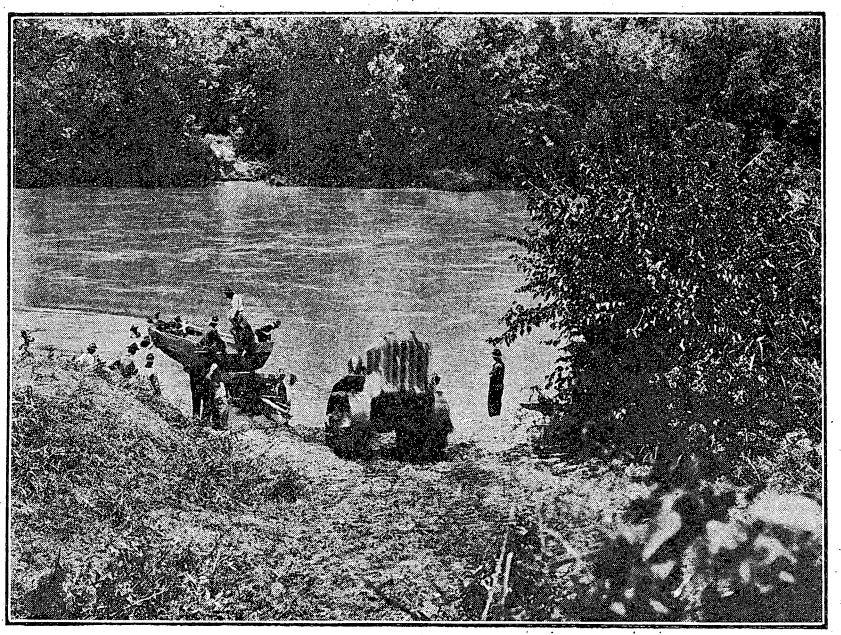
General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, appeared before the 56th Annual Assembly of Chautaqua Institution at Jamestown, New York, on August 10th. General Summerall addressed the Chautauqua on "What the Army is Doing Today."

EXAMINATION OF MEDICAL CORPS APPLICANTS

An examination of applicants for appointment as 1st Lieutenants, Medical Corps, Regular Army, will be held within the continental limits of the United States during the period of October 7-11, 1929, inclusive.

Request for information concerning this examination should be addressed to the Adjutant General.

ENGINEERS CONDUCT PONTON TESTS



During the past week the 7th Engineers have been conducting tests on methods of loading and unloading ponton boats so that the new and heavier type pontons can be handled expeditiously. The present ponton is practically the same type as was used by engineers in the Civil War but two new types have been designed and will be available for use in emergency. The new light ponton is built of duralumin frame and covered with an aluminum skin. It weighs only 1200 pounds and is much lighter than the present ponton. It will carry all the combat vehicles of the infantry or cavalry division, the heaviest of which is the three ton truck of the Artillery Brigade Ammunition Train.

To carry the heavy loads with an army, such as the G. P. F. and the twenty-three ton tank, a heavier ponton has been designed. It weighs 3100 pounds and the tests held by the 7th Engineers the past week have been with the idea of handling these heavy and more or less bulky pontons (32 feet long.)

In conducting the loading tests, the ponton wagon was backed into the river until the rear wheels were almost submerged, the boat was then floated into position in rear of the wagon and hauled by tractor up on the wagon. Lines were then transferred to the wagon and the tractor hauled the loaded wagon out. The use of the tractor was found to be more satisfactory than the usual 6 or 8 mule teams.

These tests were performed on the Chattahoochee river, which offers an ideal situation for giving field tests to bridge equipment. At normal stages it is deep, has swift current with numerous eddies, and its banks are difficult and muddy. Such conditions call for the solution of many problems by the army engineer.

It is understood that the engineers at this station may soon have a bridge train of the newly designed pontons.

GOOD RECORD FOR REENLISTMENTS

The following table of reenlistmen ts at this station indicates that the soldier serving at this post is beginning t o realize the exceptional opportunities afforded for his professional and recrea tional contentment.

Organization	Discharged per E. T. S	Re-enl.	Percentage of Reenlistments
29th Infantry	27	10	37x%
24th Infantry	48	35	73x%
Infantry School Detachment	11	6	55x%
15th Tank Battalion	7	5	70x%
83rd Field Artillery Bn.	9	9	100 %
Co. A, 7th Engineers	1	0	0 %
Detachhment, Q. M. C.	3	2	66x%
100th M. T. C., Q. M. C.	1	1	100 %
Detachment, Medical Dept.	3	3	100 %
Veterinary Corps	2	2	100 %
Detachment Finance Dept.	1	1	100 %
17th Ordnance Company	1	0	0 %
72nd Ordnance Company	1	1	100 %
School for Bakers and Cooks	1	1	100 %
Co. C, 1st Chemical Regt.	1	1	100 %
Totals	117	77	61x%

EPIDEMIC AMONG ANIMALS AT POST HALTED

The epidemic of cerebrospinal meningitis which recently developed in the horses and mules on pasture in this post, is apparently under control. This disease in horses and mules is reported as non-contagious and of a food or water origin, due to fungi or molds which, when their toxins are absorbed, attack the motor nervous centers, rendering the disease usually fatal in animals.

The particular form of the disease found among the animals at this station, according to Major R. A. Kelser, sent here from Washington to inquire into the malady, often occurs among animals on low pastures which have been subjected to considerable water, followed by warm sultry weather.

There is apparently no specific remedy for the disease, except prompt removal of animals from infected pastures. This action was taken and probably is responsible for the large percentage of recoveries in this usually fatal disease.

Hospital records give the following data concerning the malady since its recent appearance.

a. Number of animals contracting disease:

Infantry School Stables	3
29th Infantry	2
83rd Field Artillery Battalion	11

b. Number of animals that died from the disease 4

c. Number destroyed to terminate suffering 4

d. Number recovered, 6. Of the horses from the 83rd F. A. Bn. contracting the disease, 2 recovered and one is now undergoing treatment.

e. Number now suffering from the disease, 2.

f. Last case developed August 13, 1929.

COMMANDANT RETURNS TODAY

Brigadier General Campbell King, Commandant, The Infantry School, who has been spending a short leave at his home in Flat Rock, N. C., was expected to return to this station at 8:10 p. m. Aug. 15.

EXECUTIVE OFFICER TO GO ON LEAVE

Colonel Harry E. Knight, Executive Officer, The Infantry School, expects to leave Monday to join Mrs. Knight in Plattsburg, N. Y. Colonel Knight will return on or about September 17th.

PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Recent orders from the War Department announce the promotion of Captain Myron P. Rudolph, Medical Corps, to the grade of Major. Major Rudolph has been assistant to the surgeon at Fort Benning for some time.

LT. DISMUKE RETIRED

1st Lieut. James T. Dismuke, recently on duty with the 24th Infantry, has received orders to proceed to his home and await retirement.

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

CARE OF SHRUBBERY

Shrubs fall naturally into two classes, evergreen and deciduous. These two classes may again be divided, roughly, into spring-blooming and summer or fall blooming plants. While most shrubs are easy to grow and require little care, at the same time proper pruning and cultivation will increase the growth and flowers many times and is well worth while.

Of the spring-blooming shrubs, gardinias are a good example of the evergreens and most of the spieras, weigelias, forsythias and jasmines are examples of the deciduous type. As soon as these shrubs have finished blooming in the spring, they start new growth. This growth is the flowering wood for next spring and, naturally the more vigorous the new growth, the more blossoms next spring. In order to stimulate and produce the maximum raw flowering wood, all spring flowering shrubs should be cut back hard immediately after their blooming period. This pruning requires much moral courage but your plants will be benefitted by it. In pruning, do not shear back the end of the branches as you would a hedge. Go right into your plant and remove at the base all thin and straggling shoots, leaving only the strong heavy canes made the preceeding year. Then cut these canes back about a third. After pruning, give the plant food to help make the new growth. Well rotted stable manure is as good an all round plant food as one can desire. Spread it about an inch or inch and a half thick over the ground at the base of the plant and out as far as tips of the branches, for most of the feeding roots are out from one to two feet and sometimes more from the center of the shrub. Any well balanced commercial fertilizer may well be used as a supplement to the manure. If your plants have not been pruned back and fed since they bloomed in the spring, it is not yet too late to do it. Your pruning must be less severe now, however, as the growing period is shorter, but the food will be most gratefully appreciated. By all means, feed your shrubs now if you have not done so.

Summer and fall blooming shrubs such as cleanders and abelias among the evergreens and crepe myrtle and hydrangeas among the deciduous plants bloom on wood made this year and hence require a different treatment. These plants should be pruned back while dormant in the winter, or at the latest, just as growth is starting in the spring. The same principle which is followed in pruning spring blooming shrubs should be followed, ie, cut out the thin wood, and prune back the stronger growth. Food is best given this class of plants as growth starts in the spring. If given in the winter, a wet season may cause rot as manure holds the moisture around the crown of the plants. Commercial fertilizer should not be applied except during the growing period. The application of either manure or commercial fertilizer at the time the buds begin to show will result in larger, and in some cases, more flowers.

A word about watering. Shrubs need water during the hot dry months of July, August and September. Water should be applied by irrigation or by a sprinkler, by irrigation preferably. The common practise of sprinkling shrubs or grass with a fine spray from a nozzle does as much harm as good. The water never gets more than an inch below the surface of the ground with the result that the roots of the plants come to the surface for water instead of going down for it and shallow rooted plants always suffer more from the heat than deep rooted ones. It is far better to thoroughly soak the ground once or twice a week than to superficially sprinkle it every day.

Next week: Chrysanthemums.

NOTES FROM THE EXPERIMENT DEPARTMENT

The Department of Experiment of which Lt. Col. A. A. Wells, Inf., is director, now has 36 tests in the process of completion. The majority of these tests are of considerable interest to the service as well as to the personnel of Fort Benning.

One of the most important projects now on hand is the antiaircraft machine gun test of which Maj. L. R. Boyd is Test Officer and Lt. J. I. Greene, assistant. Research and experiment for this test have been going on for more than a year and it is expected that the test will be completed in another month. The results of this test are likely to prove of importance to all Infantry organizations. The work done in the Department by these same officers on rifle anti-aircraft, was incorporated in Tentative Training Regulations 300-5 The training methods outlined in this regulation are now undergoing a year's trial by all Infantry regiments.

Capt. E. D. Porter has recently been detailed as Statistical Officer in the fire power tests which are now being conducted by the Infantry Board and the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry.

A project which may result in added comfort to the Infantry is the Alligator raincoat test which is in charge of Capt. A. T. Knight. These raincoats have been undergoing test in the 29th Infantry for the past year in comparison with the raincoat now issued. The Alligator coat is a much lighter garment than the present coat.

Lt. B. M. McFayden is now conducting a test of electricians' knives. Knives for electrical work are part of the equipment of communications units in the Infantry. Several possible points of improvement in the type now issued are being studied.

The Wheeled Machine Gun mount Ml has recently been received by the Department. This mount is the improved Matthews type and will be given a comparative test with the first models manufactured, which have been in the hands of the 29th Infantry for a number of months. Lt. Greene is the test officer.

Radium Springs

ALBANY, GA.

Invites You

To

REST, DINE, GOLF, SWIM OR SHOOT

Hotel Accommodations

Radium Springs, only ninety miles from Fort Benning, is one of the South's Premier Resorts.

Swim in the crystal clear Radium Spring; Canoe down the enchanting Radium Spring run; Golf over the sportiest 18-hole course in the South.

Excellent Meals Reasonable Rates

Spend a week or a week-end at Radium Springs

In

"The Garden of the South"

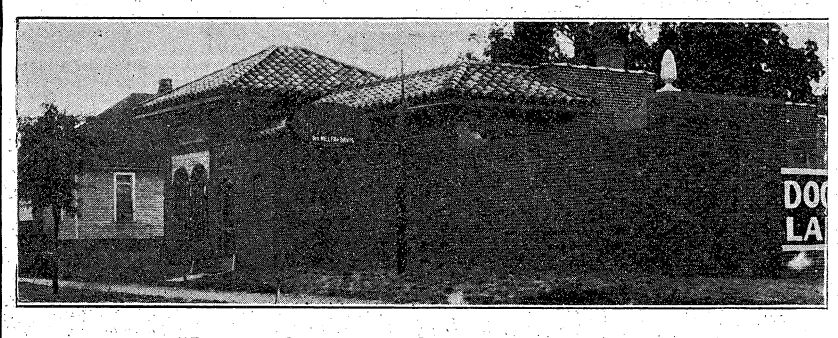
Write or Wire for Reservations

G. Floyd Alford, Jr., MANAGER

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital



"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 16 TO AUG. 23, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 16

"MOTHER MACHREE," starring Belle Bennett with Neil Hamilton and Victor McLaglan in a screen version of the story of the same name. A film crew was actually sent to Dublin, Ireland, for the purpose of taking pictures of the scenic haunts for this gripping narrative. Not only were scenes taken of Dublin and the sea, but also of abbys, ancient castles, quaint rustic nooks, and the rivers of the Emerald Isle. The story tells of an Irish mother who, with her young son, leave their home in Ireland and come to America. Here she fails to make a living for both of them. In desperation, she allows him to be adopted by an aristocratic woman. He is brought up with the idea that his mother is dead. Upon reaching manhood and success in life, he falls in love with a girl. At this time his mother is working for the girl's parents. The story most enthrallingly portrays his rise to manhood and the mother's silent, watchful eye, mindful of his career. It is a beautiful story.

Pathe News No. 65.

SATURDAY, AUG. 17

"CHEYENNE," starring Ken Maynard in an actual filmization of Cheyenne's thirty-second annual frontier celebration, showing real champions in action. The thread of the story deals with a young man who has always had the ambition to compete at the Cheyenne rodeos. He went to a small affair then dreamed of the trip and show in the Wyoming city: A villian and an attractive girl enter into the plot, causing plenty of trials and tribulations. This story is of particular interest, because the picture was actually taken at Cheyenne, Wyoming.

"Liberty.' ' Laurel-Hardy.

SUNDAY, AUG. 18

"ALIBI," starring Chick Williams with Buck Bachman and Daisy Thomas in a thrilling underworld romance containing some of the biggest laughs of the year. An entire city is thrown into terror by a ruthless killer who shoots policeman at sight. A beautiful girl, daughter of a police official, is in love with the assassin, believed him to be the innocent victim of her father's persecution. A young detective, also in love with the girl, leads the man hunt and endeavors to keep his sweetheart from being dragged into the affair. After a quest that leads into bizzare haunts of the Metropolitan underworld, the strange triangle ends in a blaze of bullets. It is the type of story that holds you spell-bound and, at the same time, amuses.

Scene from ROLAND WEST'S "ALIBI"

Pathe Review No. 4.

M. G. M. News No. 103.

MONDAY, AUG. 19

"VOICE OF THE STORM," featuring Karl Dane with Martha Sleeper in a thundering melodrama of telephone service in which Dane plays the part of a heroic lineman who breasts terrible odds in his efforts to carry out his mission. The plot concerns the mysterious murder of an aged inventor and the disappearance of a secret formula hunted for by agents of a foreign government. Circumstantial evidence leads an innocent man toward the gallows. An hour before the time set for the execution, a confession is obtained from the real killer. A raging storm prevents transmission of this confession to the authorities. This story is one of continued suspense, gripping action, and blood stirring climaxes.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 8."

TUESDAY, AUG. 20

"MOLLIE AND ME," starring Belle Bennett with Joe E. Brown. It has been impossible to secure press sheets on this picture, however, we believe it to be a farce-comedy involving actors, and imagine that the story is replete with comedy angles. There is no doubt but that you will enjoy Belle Bennett's attractive stage presence and Joe Brown's ability as a comedian. If you are at all like the writer of this paragraph, you will be curious to see this picture to learn what it is all about.

"Stage Stunts." Oswald.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 21

"QUEEN OF THE NIGHT CLUBS," starring Texas Guinan with Eddie Foy, Jr., and Lila Lee in a dramatic story of life in one of the underworld's most colorful spots, "The Broadway Night Club," of Texas Guinan. The story of her life is most interesting—from the cattle ranches of Texas where she learns to bust broncos and to shoot with deadly accuracy—her footsteps lead to the movies, then to Gotham night clubs, and back again to the screen. The picture is quite composite, portraying the deeper, as well as the frivolous side of Broadway stage and night club life, and brings before the audience the loves, ambitions, and joys of the actors in the play. You'll enjoy it.

"M. G. M. News No. 104."

THURSDAY, AUG. 22

"THIS IS HEAVEN," starring Vilma Banky in the romance of an adorable flapjack flipper who rose rapidly into the realms of the social elect. A sparkling eyed immigrant girl arrives from Hungary—she undergoes the grilling routine of Ellis Island. Her next step is into the modest home of a subway motorman. Her cousin secures work for her in a restaurant. These girls have different ideas of romance, the former catering to wealth, while the latter feels that love is everything. The manner in which the unusual plot works out is most absorbing and pleasing.

"Rarebits." Curiosity.

FRIDAY, AUG. 23

"THUNDERBOLT," starring George Bancroft with Fay Wray and Richard Arlen in a tense drama of life and love outside the law. It is a human drama

Fay Wray, Richard Arlen in "Thunderbolt" A Paramount Picture taken from the front pages of newspapers. A strong-man terror who kills with one punch—a girl gangster in the grip of environment—a youth framed into Sing Sing—the death house and its trancient inmates. Many highly emotional scenes culminate into a climax that will grip every tendon of your body. It is a cold, hard, breathless drama.

Pathe News No. 67.

MR. COOPER RESIGNS

Mr. Guy H. Cooper who for several years has been superintendent of construction and civil engineer for the constructing quartermaster here has resigned to accept a highly responsible and more renumerative position on the executive staff of the John W. Cowper Co., a large engineering and constructing firm with headquarters at Richmond, Virginia.

During his service here Mr. Cooper has been actively identified with the planning and construction of Benning's largest projects and his new connection will afford opportunity to carry into commercial fields much valuable experience gained here and in field work at North Carolina State College and at the University of Georrgia.

Mr. Cooper's services were so highly regarded that he has been recommended for a captaincy in the Reserve Corps.

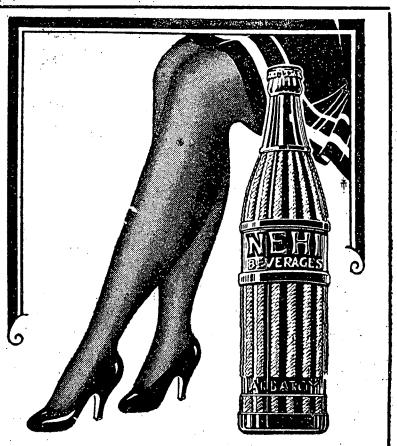
Lieutenant W. M. Allison, the constructing quartermaster, has announced that Mr. Louis E. Ebeling formerly of the city of Columbus inspection service will succeed Mr. Cooper as superintendent of construction.

If it can be cleaned

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

Can do it.

465—Ring 2



ON SALE at all CANTEENS

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

CIVILIAN AND MILITARY SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store and at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops, suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. August 16, 1929 No. 48

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave, Columbus, Ga. Phone 610.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. M. R. Kammerer ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103. act of October 3. 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

FORT BENNING POLO RECOGNIZED

The Fort Benning polo team is to be congratulated upon its recent enviable record. Commended by the Chief of Staff, for its splendid showing both on and off the field, during the recent War Department tournament, it was further honored by being selected as the representative from the southern circuit in the intercircuit twelve goal tournament now being held in Chicago. Such recognition is proof enough of the outstanding ability possessed by the Benning Players.

The participants in the tourney which the Fort Benning team is now attending, comprise the winners of the Pacific Coast, Southwestern, Rocky Mountain, Central, Southeastern and Southern circuits, and are contesting for national polo honors.

Eliminated as a contestant in the intercircuit finals through its 14-12 defeat at the hands of Oak Brook, winner in the central circuit, on last Monday, press accounts indicate that the Benning team put up its usual excellent brand of polo and was not defeated until the last period. Reading between the lines one could easily suspicion the Benning players outmounted rather than outplayed.

However, glory enough in being selected to participate in this tourney. There remains the national open twelve goal tournament starting next Monday. Benning will be a contestant, and a dangerous one.

The garrison extends its congratulations to Major Lyman and his team mates for their past splendid record, and whatever the result in the coming open championship, are appreciative of the hard conscientious work performed, the result of which, has for the first time in its history, placed Fort Benning on the national polo map.

NEWSPAPERS FAVORABLE

The reaction of editors throughout the country on the recommendations of the Interdepartmental Pay Board has been uniformly favorable. The sentiment expressed is particularly gratifying especially in view of the fact that it comes at a time when government economy with respect to the armed forces is being planned.

In pointing out the fact that the scale of pay in the army and navy in recent years, had actually been cut three per cent., while the foreign service had been increased 175 per cent.; section of the civil service 153 per cent.; assistant departmental sections 11 per cent.; post office inspector 92 per cent.; the judiciary 62 per cent.; members of congress 33 per cent.; and members of the cabinet 25 per cent., the Pay Board opened the eyes of the entire press world.

The strength of an army, like the power in mechanics, is estimated by multiplying the mass by the rapidity; a rapid march augments the morale of an army, and increases its means of victory. Press on!—Napoleon's 9th Maxim.

The transition from the defensive to the offenseive is one of the most delicate operations in war.—Napoleon's 19th Maxim.

It is the business of cavalry to follow up the victory, and to prevent the beaten enemy from rallying.—Napoleon's 51st Maxim.

The first qualification of a soldier is fortitude under fatigue and privation. Courage is only the second; hardship, poverty, and want are the best school for a soldier.—Napoleon's 58th Maxim.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector.

SWIMMING POOL DON'TS

It is necessary to remind those using the swimming pools of certain fundamental rules that must be followed to keep the pools from being contaminated and so to prevent the spread of infections from person to person. Many of these rules can be described as "Don'ts."

Don't forget that upon each user of the pool rests the responsibility of protecting other swimmers.

Don't forget that many communicable diseases may be spread by swimming pools and all concerned must prevent such occurences.

Don't under any circumstances use the pool if you have even a suspicion of common cold, sore eyes, sore throat, running ears or any skin disease.

Don't forget that a swimming pool is in effect a large bath tub and all must co-operate to keep it clean.

Don't throw things into the pool.

Don't use the pool when overheated.

Don't use the pool immediately after eating.

Don't forget that great care is necessary to prevent children contaminating the pool by body wastes.

Don't take food to pool.

Don't expectorate into pool.

Don't "duck" other swimmers; many fatalities are caused in this way.

Don't enter the deep water if you cannot swim.

Don't fail to take a cleansing bath before entering the pool. This means an effective washing of the body, not merely walking under a shower for a few seconds.

Don't fail to wash your bathing suit after you leave the pool.

Don't forget that sunburn is harmful though tan is beneficial. Do not remain too long exposed to direct sunlight at each swim until you have acquired a protective coat of tan.

Don't remain too long in the water. Even in this climate one is prone to become chilled with a consequent lowering of resistance to disease.

Don't sit in the shade in a wet bathing suit.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Note: These extracts are solely to inform officers on editorial opinion and do not imply any indorsement.

Pay of the Army

President Hoover has encountered serious difficulties at the very outset of his proposal for a reduction in the cost of land armaments. The members of his cabinet who have given consideration to the subject do not see how the expenses of the army can be materially reduced. The same opinion was expressed in these columns when the President's proposal was first made. It should be possible through a reduction of naval armaments and the abandonment of the ambitious cruiser program adopted by the last Congress to very materially reduce the cost of the naval establishment.

But the situation is altogether different with the army. We cannot imagine that President Hoover, with his frequently expressed views on the necessity for adequate and reasonable preparedness, would countenance the idea of any further reductions in the land forces of this country. A standing army of only a little more than 100,000 men, for a nation with a population of more than a hundred millions is barely sufficient for adequate police protection. Those who are realists enough to recognize the fact that this government and every other government upon the earth worthy of the name is based upon force, actual or potential, must agree that a smaller army than we now possess would be a dangerous hazard. The reserve forces and the second line of defense are smaller than those maintained by any first-class power.

With all our yearnings for peace and our prayers that wars may be avoided we must recognize the fact that the millenium has not yet arrived. This government has duties and obligations that it cannot shirk. Until all selfishness is crucified and greed is no longer one of the dominant passions of man there will be dangers of armed conflicts. With all our idealism we cannot afford to be blind to these self-evident facts. We owe it to ourselves and those who are to come after us to maintain such force as will command respect for our government at home and abroad.

The inter-department pay board has recommended substantial pay increases all along the line for commissioned and enlisted men in the armed service. After an exhaustive survey of the facts there is no escaping the conclusions of this board. Increases in the pay and allowances of men and officers in the army have not kept pace with the advance in the cost of living. It is exceedingly difficult for a junior officer in the United States army to marry and maintain a family upon the pay which he receives from the government. We should discourage any situation that would bar the army to officers recruited from that class possessing no source of private income. We do not want the officers of our army limited to the sons of the wealthy or the aristocrats. In time of peace promotion in the army is slow. The duties of an officer require ability and the compensation should stand comparrison with that paid in the ordinary avocations of life for similar ability and service.

We cannot build up the personnel of the enlisted ranks on a pay scale wholly disproportionate to that which men in the army of a proper type would obtain in industry or trade. We should encourage the enlistment of a class of men who cannot now be attracted to the army because of the low scale of allowance. It may be true that the American army is the best paid army in the world, but it is equally true that this country is one of the most expensive on earth in which to live and maintain a family. The allowances to the second line of defense are not what they ought to be if we are to maintain high standards in the national guard. We hope that Congress will give that consideration to this report which its importance deserves.—The Nashville Tennessean.

Both Officers and Men Resent Such Attempts

Whether or not Justice of the Peace Mallagh of San Luis Obispo was correctly quoted as offering suspended sentence to a petty offender on condition that he join the Army, Major-General Hines' letter on the subject is a wholesome and patriotic utterance.

If the civil magistrate did not make the reported slip no harm is done. If he did make it the Commandant of the Ninth Corps Area leaves no doubt in his or anybody's mind that the Army does not want and will not take misdemeanants of any degree. In fact, the General points out, voluntary recruits are as carefully sifted for moral character as for physical qualifications.

The men who wear the uniform of the Republic are decent, upstanding Americans. They take it as an affront that an occasional misguided magistrate tries to force upon them some law breaker and thus evade his own responsibility. —San Francisco Chronicle.

7th Engineers

Ponton demonstrations are over for the year and the last of the equipment has been hauled back up the hill. This year has seen the ponton equipment getting it's hardest usage in years. The boats were used with great success during the spring floods for ferrying and relief work. Three river crossings were made instead of the usual two. All in all the boats, balk, chess and other equipment are entitled to a nice long rest. We hope that they'll rest.

Last Thursday and Friday were spent on a practice march to Ochille. It sure was hot on the road and the cool and inviting Ochille creek drew a full quota of appreciative bathers. Callahan and Perkins spent the afternoon tearing Sgt. Sadler and Sgt. McCarty down in a noisy pinochle game. The sergeants couldn't catch on to their signals. Thursday night the second platoon raided the first platoon camp and captured it after burning much powder. Bill Ricker got pretty well shot after being caught between the hostile fires. His nerves were so shattered that he was unable to blow "cease firing." Pete Zlotnik nearly missed the battle as he was unable to find his shoes in the dark and he wouldn't think of fighting without his shoes on.

A beautiful silver figure of a baseball player in the act of throwing a baseball was the reward earned by the baseball team for winning the first half championship in the "A" league. It is quite the most artistic trophy won by the company. The trophy occupied a prominent place in the picture taken of the team Monday morning.

We are getting plenty of dry shooting now with range season almost on top of us. The last couple of weeks have been devoted to making triangles, taking positions and practicing the old trigger squeeze. There can't be any alibis for not making the grade this year, as the boys are getting plenty of preliminary practice. Company "A," 7th Engineers, had the highest average of any outfit in the Engineer Corps last year and they are out to keep that distinction.

The biggest sensation of the summer occurred when Corp. Julien shaved his moustache off. We were so used to seeing it, that we hardly recognized him without it.

29TH INF.

RECORD FIRING COMPLETED

The results of record firing with the rifle in the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, are unusually high. With 620 men on its rolls required to fire, 550 completed the record course. The battalion qualified 109 expert riflemen, 221 sharpshooters, 219 marksmen, or a total of 549 qualified out of 550 completing the course. Four companies are rated 100 per cent in qualification, while the lowest is 99.38 per cent. Company "F" carried off the highest average score with 292.39. The average score for the battalion is 291.00.

Company "H" again attained its 100 per cent qualification, and raised its average score to 347.05. Of 176 men required to fire, 157 completed the course. The company qualified 65 expert gunners, 60 1st class, and 32 2nd class gunners.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

All is peace and quiet over in the Military Police outfit again. Target practice has been finished. Fifteen men qualified as expert, while the entire company went over one hundred per cent with only a scattering few registered in the marksman column.

The Greencord baseball team can boast of several champions. Cowan leading in batting, Ashe leading in three base hits, Jazz Magoni leading on laughs and Shotgun White claiming the largest ears in organized baseball.

Corp. Willingham was visiting at his home at Cedartown, Ga., a few days ago. Corp. Booth said that he made the trip on his week end.

Hook Wise is seeing the sights in Atlanta for seventy-five days.

J. Pluvius tried to break up our watermelon cutting last Friday afternoon, but everybody grabbed a melon and hied to a dry spot and the feast went merrily on.

Spud Murphy of the orderly room is a changed man. We don't know the reason. But three years ago he never went to town and positively refused to don civilian clothes at any time. Today you see him in town dressed in the latest tailored civies. He is a regular customer at the barber shop and it has been rumored that a U-Drive-It slip was found in his coat pocket a few days ago.

What a pleasure to sit back in the stands and watch a Greencord baseball team winning ball games on Gowdy Field. After the past three years a fellow feels like pinching himself to see if he is not dreaming.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

In the last game of baseball between the I. S. D. and the 7th Engineers, played at Gowdy Field several days ago, the Greencord pitcher held the Engineers scoreless until the eighth inning. Veteran baseball fans of the garrison had watched with interest every move of the twirler on the mound for the Greenhats.

When an Engineer batter whiffed on a wide curve or popped weakly to the infield when caught off balance by the twirler's deceptive change of pace, the throng in the stands voiced their admiration in a roar of applause.

"Ole Man" Logan Duff, on the mound for the Greencords, was pitching shutout ball in his first game of the season and the season was exactly his thirtiest season of army baseball. It is also his last season of army baseball, for in December he will retire from the service with thirty years of honorable and faithful service to his credit.

To further prove that the Army builds men, Duff went to bat three times, got one hit, scored one run and he also won his game, fanning five batters and giving up just six scattered hits.

ATTEND FINANCE SCHOOL

Four members of the Finance Department will be sent from Fort Benning to attend the Finance School at Washington, D. C. They will take the course of instruction in the class convening on or about Sept. 3, 1929. The men are: Corp. Mathew P. Moseley, Pvts. Jesse T. Saterlee, Edgar R. Poe and Waldo B. Vaughn.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Honey Fruit ICE CREAM

Delicious — Delightful — Tempting Week end Special - August 17

"Foremost"

A C. D. C. Product

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative: R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

Keep Your Kitchen Up to Date

Modern time demands that the kitchen be as up-to-date as any other place. To keep it so you must have the best and latest utensils at your finger tips. A visit to our store will help you select the things you need most.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

"AS GOOD AS THE GUN"

WINCHESTER TOOLS

are the highest quality that can be produced. The right tool for any trade.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

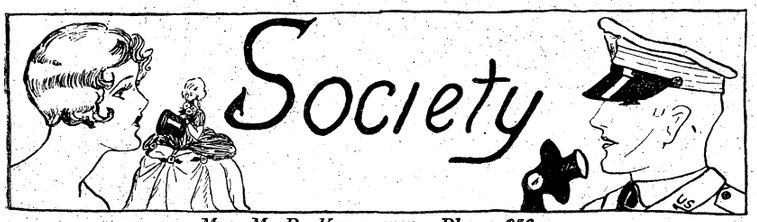
Special Sale

Saturday, August 17th

Grocery Department

Post Exchange

Fort Benning, Ga.



Mrs. M. R. Kammerer. Phone 256.

ADAMS—DECKER

A wedding of simplicity and loveliness took place at Fort Benning Monday, August sixth, when Miss Mabel Decker, of Orlando, Florida, became the bride of Lieutenant Paul Adams.

The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Thomas McKenna at the Catholic Chapel in the presence of a small group of relatives and intimate friends.

The bride and groom entered together and made their vows before the beautifully decorated altar.

The bride was charmingly dressed, wearing a blue ensemble with blue accessories. Her flowers were sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Adams, mother of the groom, was the bride's matron of honor, and only attendant. She wore a blue outfit in harmonizing tones and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Captain Lorin Weatherby was best man for Lieutenant Adams.

Mrs. Adams is a young lady of much charm and capability. Before her marriage she was in the Army Nurse Corps, serving at the Benning hospital as dietician and during that time made many friends among the army personnel.

Lieutenant Adams is a graduate of the United States Military Academy of the class of 1928 and has been stationed with the Twenty-ninth Infantry since last September. After a short honeymoon Lieutenant and Mrs. Adams will be at home at Fort Benning.

Out-of-town guests who came to attend the wedding were: Mrs. Adams, mother of the groom; Messrs. Jene and Clinton Adams, brothers of the groom, and Mrs. Toole, of Tampa, Florida, sister of the bride.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. E. H. Vernon entertained Saturday evening, August tenth, at a picnic, honoring Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant L. A. Diller, whose marriage will take place September the eleventh, at the Trinity Episcopal church in Columbus. The guests assembled at the Vernon's quarters at five o'clock and drove to Ochille, where a picnic supper was enjoyed in the Log Cabin. After supper the clues for the first station of the Treasure Hunt were given out. All the guests, excepting Miss Wells and Lieutenant Diller, had been instructed to disregard the hunt after the first station and to return to the Vernon's quarters, where Miss Wells and Lieutenant Diller returned in search of the treasure. They were surprised to find the treasure was a miscellaneous shower for them which contained many useful and lovely gifts.

The guests who enjoyed this very unique party were: Misses Harriette Wells, Sue Brandt, Dorothy Ross, Nancy Ross, Daisy Reed, Landon Reed, Bess Berry, Lola O'Connell, and Verna Perry. Lieutenants L. A. Diller, William Breckenridge, Maury Cralle, David Hedekin, Hayden Grubbs, Edward Chazel, R. G. MacDonald, Charles Boyce, and Thomas Moran. Lieutenant and Mrs. Paul Zuver, Lieutenant and Mrs. Jonn Roosma, Lieutenant and Mrs. Koehler Daley, Lieutenant and Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer Messrs. Warden Wells and Herman Grubbs.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. Alfred Parham were serenaded Sunday by the Twenty-ninth Infantry band. During the concert the officers and ladies of the regiment called to pay courtesy to the bride and groom.

* * *

Mrs. Schaefer, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Wear, left Saturday for her home in San Diego.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Leon Norris have returned to Benning, after spending a delightful week at Panama City, Florida, with Major and Mrs. Charles Ryder.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. A. W. Grower and their two boys are coming this week for an extended visit to Mrs. Grower's parents Captain and Mrs. James O'Connell. Captain and Mrs. Gower are at present stationed at Fort Eustis, Virginia.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Sam McCants, Mrs. Broach, sister of Mrs. McCants, Mrs. Celeste Broach and Mr. George Broach are enjoying a motor trip to Florida. They will return to Fort Benning the last of this month.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. James O'Connell and their daughter, Miss Lola O'Connell, spent a few days last week in Atlanta.

* * *

Mrs. Eugene L. Brine was hostess at a lovely bridge luncheon at her quarters Saturday, honoring Mrs. Margaret Schaefer. Her guests on this occasion were: Mrs. Margaret Schaefer, Mrs. Charles L. Willard, Mrs. Frank Caffey, Mrs. Leon Norris, Mrs. George Wear, Mrs. Frederick Doll and Miss Anne Williamson. Mrs. Brine presented a very attractive gift to her honor guest.

BOOK REVIEW

A brief review of volumes which have recently been added to the Academic Department library will appear in this column from time to time.

TWO GREAT SCOUTS AND THEIR PAWNEE BATTALION

By George Bird Grinnell

"This is a story of the 'Last American Frontier' by one whose intimate acquaintance with the West dates back to 1870, and who has made a lifelong study of the plains Indian and his habit. The subjects of the study are the North brothers, Frank J. and Luther H., who grew up on the Nebraska frontier of the 'fifties, in close touch with the Redmen of the region, especially the Pawnees. This early acquaintance with the Pawnees paved the way for the later organization by the brothers of the Pawnee Battalion for government scouting service in the wars against other tribes.

"Having no tribal friends on the plains, the Pawnees, veritable Ishmaelites of the prairie, were disposed to be friendly with the whites, a fact which facilitated their enlistment in the service of the government. In the great Sioux war of 1864, when the Pawnee reservation in Nebraska, in common with the entire Northwestern frontier, was exposed to the attack of the Sioux, an army officer suggested to Frank North that he should utilize his knowledge of the Pawnees by organizing a company of them as scouts. The suggestion was promptly acted upon, the Pawnee Battalion came into being, and the North brothers were launched upon their careers as scouts.

"In 1865 the scouts participated in the campaign into the Powder river and Yellowstone country against the hostile Sioux and Cheyennes. From 1867 to 1869 the battalion did guard duty against the Indians along the line of the Union Pacific railway, then under construction, while the period from 1870 to 1877 was filled with a variety of campaigns, ranging from the Kansas frontier on the south to the Black Hills and the Yellowstone on the north.

"The book is an attempt, not altogether successful, to establish the claim of the North brothers to inclusion in the select list of great Western scouts, along with Jim Bridger and Kit Carson. The material is interesting in itself, but not espceially well organized. For the student of history, the value of the work would have been considerably enhanced by the inclusion of a bibliography and the citation of authorities for important statements. The chapter on Custer's Black Hills expedition of 1874 is based upon the author's personal observations as a member of the party. The bulk of the material for the book was evidently supplied to the author by Luther North. A map, likewise based upon data supplied by North, and a rather complete index add to the value of the book."

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following named officers have arrived at and departed from Fort Benning since the issuse of August 9.

Arrivals—None.

Departures—Major C. H. Willoughby to leave and change of station to C. & G. S. School, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas; Capt. Wm. G. Hilliard to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmoth, N. J.; 1st Lt. Edgar A. C. Curran to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; Major Leven C. Allen to leave and change of station to C. & G. S. School Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

Read The Ads

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR" "WEAR DIAMONDS"

PeKor's

INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

We Suggest and Highly Recommend

ENGLISH PRINTS

Kirven's ESTABLISHED-1876

For school wear, because they are correct in every way. Mothers appreciate the health-value of these captivating cottons, their dainty freshness lasts as long as the sturdy fabrics themselves, despite the wear and tear of school and play, and frequent tubbings.

Coin Dots, Checks and Figures and light and dark grounds. Bring the children so they may learn to make good selections.

34 Inches Wide

39c yard

VOGUE AND PICTORIAL PATTERNS

STREET FLOOR

ATTAWAY SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCK-OUT OVER DE PRATT

By Bernard B. Suayze

Styles Attaway jabbed and gored his way through nine rounds of furious fighting Tuesday night, in a scheduled ten round bout with Gunner DePratt, pride of Benning, to win a technical knock out. This is the second time within the past few weeks that the Gainesville youth has defeated the Gunner in the local ring, once before by a decision.

Attaway had changed his style and tactics since the last fight, and came in with the usual left jab, but worked with his right on the body of his opponent in the clinches to pile up a few points. The Gunner fought hard and at times during the fracas, it seemed that he would be able to get over that sleep producer, but was blocked off from it, or when not blocked, Styles would weave and roll so that the blows showed very little effect.

In the sixth round, DePratt had all his followers to their feet and yelling like mad men and women, when he shot a hard right to Attaway's head, and had him groggy. This happened in the Gunner's corner, and Mr. Attaway had to lean through the ropes to keep from being knocked completely out. His side was all that was exposed to the onslaught of the Gunner, who punched with both hands on that part of his anatomy until Captain Wilson dragged him away and began the count while Attaway was still on the ropes. The count never reached past the two mark, for Attaway was back, solidly on both feet, and fighting for points, but this round was lost never to be regained.

In the ninth round, both boys met with little preliminary sparring, and it was a veritable mill wheel. Gloves were flying fast and landing hard. It looked like a clearing house sale of a tan yard, the way calf skins were moving. They clinched, however, and that is where the rub comes in. Attaway slung, not punched, the Gunner off his balance, and he went to the canvas, not of his own free will and volition, but by the force of the shove, and took the count of two. Captain Wilson walked then over to Attaway's corner and raised his hand in victory, signifying that the fight was won on a technical knockout.

In the semi-final, Danny Davis of Fort Benning, battled his way to a decisive victory over the highly touted Mr. Len Shouse of Augusta. At no time was the dapper Dan in danger of any punishment by the aforesaid Mr. Shouse.

Davis was slinging gloves with more accuracy than he has ever before. Every one of them were bell ringers, and kept Shouse in a daze throughout the fight. His left was dangerous, but that right was first degree murder.

Danny has always been known as a mixer, but that night he seemed to want to get in there and get hit a few times for the fun of it. His smile was there at the sound of the last gong.

Action aplenty will describe this fight, furthermore, it might be classed as the best fight of the night.

"Dustem" Thomas and Glenn Huckaby mingled for a slow six rounds that was of very little interest. Neither of the two were able to chalk up a blow that could be really called a counter, and when the melt had been counted and the hand played, the referee declared that they had split the deck on tricks taken and called it a draw.

In the curtain raiser of the night, Sobby Sewell of Columbus, took the decision over Seaweed Wilson in a four round mixup. Both boys were desperate for a while, but Sobby soon found that he could coast and get a little training out of the affair as well as some money for the bout, and merely played around for the rest of the fight. He was strong at the final gong.

In the second bout, Red Lawson and Cecil Williams of the 24th Infantry, staged their annual nightmare. Lawson leaves us for the 25th Infantry, and probably will not be seen in a Benning ring for several fortnights. It was tough on Red to lose his final fight at Benning, but he did and there is no way to get around it.

In the third bout and the last of the four rounders, Corn Griffin, of the 15th Tank Battalion, knocked out Kenneth Osteen of Columbus, in the fourth and final round. Corn had Kenneth in a bad way in every round of the fight, but was unable to stop him until the fourth when he stopped his head attack and landed a hard right to the solar plexus.

The whole card was pronounced a success by the critics, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the some thirteen hundred fans who witnessed the fracas.

It was announced that Willie Ptomey, who had previously challenged "Eeny Meedle weight in the wourld," would fight the main go on a card to be shown here the night of August 27th.

K&P

Gifts That Last

From

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.

JEWELERS

1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

Pair off and find your buddies. Remember that you will stay with and be responsible for your buddie during the entire lesson.

"Our first work this morning is a review of bobbing. First inhale through the mouth. Then throw your hands over your head and let yourself go to the bottom. At the same time exhale through your nose steadily. When you arrive at the bottom, crouch for your spring upward, then spring and shoot to the top. After you emerge take a gulp of air through the mouth and repeat the process. Tak twenty bobs and rest.

Our next work is to bob across the swimming pool. One buddie at a time will go. . . . Now you can understand how easy it is to travel in a pool even though you can not swim.

"Our next stunt is known as the sleeping beauty. Sit down hard on the bottom, exhaling as you go. Then lean back and lie down onthe bottom with the eyes open. When you are rested stand up. Now I noticed that most of you had trouble getting down. Try exhaling before you go down. You know its mighty hard to stay under water. It is almost impossible to drown if you keep yourr head about you."

* "Now that we have found that the face and eyes will not shrink from washing, we can bob around like a school of jelly fish. Squat down in the water, let your hands slide down between your knees until they reach your ankles. Pick up one ankle in each hand, put your face under water, and tip over forward. (Demonstration) "Now everyone try it. Ready—go!."

* "Did you ever see a turtle floating about warming his back in the sun? By stretching the arms forward, lowering chin to chest, and falling forward, we can imitate the turtle. Like this. (Demonstration.) You see how we can sprawl out on top of the water, if our faces are under. Now we will all try it."

"Our next subject is hydroplaning. Have you ever seen a hydroplane scooting along the surface of the water? Well, we can do the same thing. Back up against the pier. Put one foot against the pier. Lean forward and push off. Like this, (Demonstration.) Now everybody. Get on your marks! Go! Repeat this three times, and remember to arch the back and keep the eyes open."

"I've noticed that some of you have trouble in coming back to earth after your glide. Let's try this. Do first the turtle float. Then in order to stand up, whip down the hands, draw the knees up and stand up. (Demonstration.) Repeat three times."

"Now, everybody up on the pier. There are a few dry land exercises which are very beneficial in learning to swim. The first is arching. Lie on the stomach. Put your arms behind your heads. Now arch. Get the neck up! Point the toes and turn them in slightly. Get the thighs well up in the air! Hard! Now, rest! Punishing work, but it is worth it. Now arch and hold it for a few seconds. Repeat it well ten times?"

"The next exercise is the dry land flutter kick. First arch, then start the legs kicking through an arc eleven to thirteen inches wide. The knees should be straight without any stiffness, the toes should be pointed and turned in slightly and the ankles relaxed. The legs are kicked from the hips and not from the knees. (Demonstration.) Now try it."

"Now then lets attach a propeller to the hydroplane. Start with your push-off or glide and then start the flutter kick or leg thrash which we have just done. (Demonstration). Everybody try it. Repeat three times."

"Find your buddies! There's just one thing more. I want you to add the arching and fluttering exercises to your daily dozen. That's all for today."

* Denotes copy from Dr. Brink's lessons.

YOUNGSTERS TO HAVE SWIMMING MEET

A Junior swimming meet will be held at Russ Pool Wednesday, August 21, 1929, commencing at 3:30 P. M., for contestants under 18 years of age.

The following events will be held: 100 Yd. free style, boys under 18 years of age; 50 Yd. free style, boys under 15 years of age; 10 Yd. free style, girls under 18 years of age; 25 Yd. flutter board race, boys and girls under 15 years of age; 50 Yd. back stroke, boys under 18 years of age; 50 Yd. free style, girls under 15 years of age; 25 Yd. free style, boys and girls under 12 years of age; 50 Yd. breast stroke, boys under 18 years of age; 50 Yd. breast stroke, boys under 15 years of age; 50 Yd. back stroke, girls under 18 years of age; diving, boys and girls under 18 years of age; running front; running front jack-knife; back jack-knife; back.

Life guards on duty at the pool will serve as judges under direction of officer in charge of the pool.

Prizes will be given to winners of the first two places.

All entries will be made to Second Lieutenant Wayne C. Smith, Infantry, before Monday noon, August 19, 1929, at the office Russ Pool, telephone 19R2.

CADETS MAKE HIGH PISTOL SCORES

Orders published recently at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, state that pistol practice has just been completed by members of the Third Class with the exceptionally high qualification record of more than ninety-four percent. Two c mpanies, C and M, rung up a 100 percent qualification.

Individual high man was Cadet Lund F. Hood of Compton, California, whose score was 96.3. Dwight B. Johnson of Chicago was second with 93.6.

See Our Display

of

FISHING TACKLE

Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED TO BUY: All kinds of used civilian clothing and shoes. Charlie, 1039 First Ave.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy

Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL

J. F. Somers, Mgr.

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

I. S. D. TAKES LEAGUE LEAD

With the second half of the season drawing near the halfway mark, the I. S. D. team has upset the dope bucket and taken the lead. It might be said that Wee Grady Tolle has taken the lead, for it is by his heady work on the mound and the weak batting support of his teammates that the team is able to maintain the lead.

Tuesday of last week, the Tolle crowd swamped the Engineers in a soggy game, 11 to 4. Old man Duff was the hero of the day. His slants and hooks were baffling from the opening frame to the eighth when he allowed three hits and four runs.

Johnny Roosma twirled wonderful baseball for his team when the Tanks shut the First Bat crowd out in a rather interesting game. He allowed only three hits, and they were scattered. Errors by the infield came near losing the shut out for him on several occasions, but they pulled through in the pinches when Roosma wasn't whiffing them.

The First Bats upset the whole thing when they came out Wednesday of last week to defeat the Kells in one of the hottest games of the season. Stevens, pitching for the First Bats, allowed nine hits, but in the pinches when the bases were loaded, he leveled down on them and made some of the veterans look like a school of pike. Allison allowed four hits in four innings but walked too many, and was relieved by Carnes who allowed three hits in five innings. Sheriff, Abrahams and Barron filled the day by spectacular plays.

Friday the I. S. D. and Mickey Buckley's mates were to meet, but the wrath of Jupe Pluvius would not allow the fracas to go more than two and a half innings. Neither side scored "Nary a one."

The Engineers came out of the dark cellar Sunday to make the Mickeys hustle for a draw, but the Artillery got lucky in the bad places caused by the bridge builders making miscues, and scored six tallies while the Gin Ears were able to collect only three. The hits were about even, with 6-5 in favor of the Gunners. Both sides used two pitchers, the Artillery Paschal and Philips, and the Engineers Perkins and Goode.

Tuesday's game was the heart breaker for all others but the I. S. D. Allison's "Question Mark" ball kept the Grady crew from scoring a single run before the eighth inning. Tolle had allowed only three runs, none of which were earned up to that inning, and none after for that matter. A few costly errors on the part of the Kells coupled with a hit allowed the I. S. D. to score two runs in the eighth. They came back to tie the score in the ninth and made the crowning mark in the tenth. Shot Gun White saved the day for the I. S. D. when he pulled a hidden ball trick on the Kell crew in the eighth with two on. Barron was holding his place on the second bag where he had been advanced, and the third base coach, Captain Finney, went to sleep and pulled him off.

Wednesday the Engineers made a fair start to leave the cellar for good and always. They bunched a few hits and took advantage of bone headed playing of the Holleran tribe to score runs in the seventh inning. The game was slow and uneventful after that. The final count being 12-1.

THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or

National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

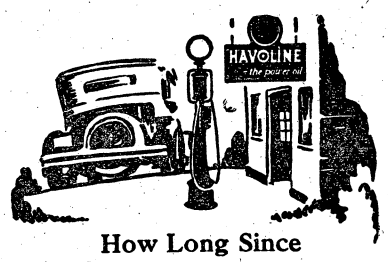
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding Manager



How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE

Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.

Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962

W. R. M. Palmer Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE TAILOR SHOP

Fort Benning, Ga.

The Infantry School News

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 23, 1929 Number 49

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM SELECTIONS MADE

INFANTRY AND MARINES ARE PREPARING FOR NATIONAL TEAM MATCH

The National Team Match is only one of 76 formal matches and a half a dozen informal events scheduled for Camp Perry between August 31 and September 15, but every team would rather win it than all the rest. It is the Kentucky Derby of marksmanship. It gains its prestige from the fact that it was instituted in 1902 by special act of Congress. Only the keenest rifle teams in the country can hope to win a place among the leaders.

For years the Marines and Infantry have been the principal contenders. Many other teams have entered this great match, and a score or more take their places on the mile-long firing line at Perry every year. Now and then another team has nosed out one or the other of the two traditional rivals, but most of the time it has been a Doughboy-Leatherneck affair.

With the exception of three years when there were no National Matches, the match has been fired annually. Since 1915, however, either tthe Infantry or the Marines have won it except once, when the Engineers gave everyone the surprise of their lives. Since the beginning the Cavalry and Engineers have each won once, the Navy twice, the New York National Guard three times, the Infantry six times and the Marines nine.

Last year the Marines won, but the year before that the Infantry nosed in to victory in the closest rifle match in history. It could hardly have been any closer because it was a tie and the winner had to be decided in accordance with the rule which gives the match to the team with the highest score at the longest range. When the Infantry team went on the 1,000 yard range it was 12 points behind the Marines, but it staged a rally at this most difficult distance which wrote a new page in National Match history.

All the other teams had dropped behind; only the old-time rivals were in the running. Steadily the Infantry crept up, point by point. The Marines were fighting hard, but were slowly losing their lead. Then Sergeant W. F. Bissenden of the Infantry started to pile up a string of "fives" that broke the world's record for the match. Bissenden fired his last shot. It was a five. One marine remained on the line. He had one more shot to fire. If he made a five the Infantry would lose by one point. The marine was watched breathlessly by his team-mates. He fired. There were a few seconds of suspense. Then up went the red target disc which showed that his shot was just outside the "bull." He had made only a four. The total score was a tie, 2838 to 2838. But the Infantry had a 12-point lead for the 1000 yard stage and won.

Everyone connected with the sport of marksmanship would like to see another such tie match, but veteran riflemen believe that it is hardly possible. They quote present figures to show that the same thrill will hardly be enjoyed again while any present-day marksman lives. There are ten men to a team. Each man fires 60 shots, or 600 for the team. That two leading teams, firing a total of 1,200 shots, will ever turn in identical scores is hard to believe. The odds are 1,200 to 1 against it.

There are a lot of riflemen in these United States who would like to see some dark-horse team take the match from both the Infantry and Marines this fall. Many would be particularly pleased to see a civilian team win. None but military teams have ever topped the list, and it is the talk of the rifle clubs that a civilian victory would help the game. However, repeated military victories have not caused any shrinkage in the number of civilian entrants. There will in fact be more civilian teams this fall than in many years.

TANKS REDESIGNATED

General orders published at Headquarters, the Infantry School, August 17, 1929, announce the redesignation of the Fifteenth Tank Battalion to that of the Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment, (Light) effective as of midnight, that date.

In connection with this new order concerning this battalion, it is interesting to note that at St. Mihiel on Sept. 12, 1918, while operating with the 1st division, this battalion received its initial baptism of fire. The first tank unit in our forces to engage in battle..

Of particular local interest is the fact that Brig. Gen. Campbell King, the commandant, signed the order sending this organization into its first battle, while Major S. E. Brett, its present commanding officer, commanded it.

The record of this battalion while overseas forms one of the most heroic chapters in the history of American arms. Since coming here, shortly after the establishment of the Infantry School, the organization has made an enviable record in all lines of activities.

NEW POST SURGEON

Colonel Clarence J. Manly, Medical Corps, who was until recently stationed at Chicago on duty with headquarters, Sixth Corps Area, has been relieved from that assignment and has been assigned to duty at Fort Benning.

Colonel Manly will take over the duties of post surgeon upon his arrival.

ACTING EXECUTIVE OFFICER

During the temporary absence of Colonel H. E. Knight, Executive Officer of The Infantry School, Major E. C. Rose, Infantry, Assistant Executive Officer, will fulfill the duties of executive officer.

UPATOI RIDERS FIGHT WAY TO SEMI-FINALS IN CHICAGO POLO TOURNAMENT

Eight polo teams representing the pick of the United States mounted malletmen, are fighting it out for supremacy in the National Open Twelve Goal Championship Tournament that is being held at Chicago.

In the thick of this fight the Riders of the Upatoi, led by Major Charles Lyman, are making a brilliant bid for national honors. Already the clever riding, hard hitting riders from the Upatoi station have been the subject of favorable comment by spectators, judges and opponents.

Matched with the famous Four Horsemen of the Oak Brook Club of Chicago, the Upatoi Riders lost a bitterly contested game 14 to 12. In this game Captain Robert McClure was the outstanding player of the game, playing a great offensive as well as defensive game and scoring five of his team's goals. This game eliminated the Benning malletmen from the National Inter-Circuit Championship Tournament.

Entered in the National Open Twelve Goal Championship Tournament, the Upatoi Riders were matched against the Four Horsemen in the opening game last Monday. Led by their chieftain, Major Charles Lyman, the Infantry School Polo team opened an offensive attack in the third chukker with the score 4 to 1 against them, that broke down the Oak Brook riders' defense and carried the Infantrymen to a 11 to 9 victory. Major Lyman scored 8 goals.

Following their brilliant victory Monday, the Upatoi Riders meet the Fort Leavenworth Four, winners over the Detroit Hunt Club four, in the semi-finals Thursday. The winner of Thursday's game will go to the finals for the championship.

It seems an act of fate that these two clever stroking, hard riding sons of the service have to fight it out in the semi-finals, for had it been otherwise the chances are that two all-army teams would have battled for the National Twelve Goal Championship.

An interesting feature of the meet happened during the Inter-Circuit tourney. Capt. C. E. Davis of the Ft. Leavenworth team, was injured shortly before his team was to play the Fort Hoyle team. Captain G. I. Smith was rushed by plane from Leavenworth to Chicago.

The game was one of the closest and hardest fought of the tournament. Entering the fray fresh from his 500-mile sky journey from the Kansas army post to Great Lakes Naval Training station landing field, thence by automobile to Lake Forest, Capt. Smith staged a rescue act that would make the heroes of fact and fiction envious.

The captain arrived just in time to get into the final chukker of play. At that moment the score was tied. Forthwith he pushed the ball over the goal, that put Ft. Leavenworth one point to the good. Then after Lt. Keefer, the Ft. Hoyle captain, once more evened the score, Palmer, Ft. Leavenworth leader,

(Continued on page 2.)

LOCAL RIFLEMEN AMONG THOSE CHOSEN

Information from Camp Perry indicates that the long gruelling competition for places on the Infantry rifle team is drawing to a close. Since early in March candidates have been training under the watchful eye of Major B. G. Chynoweth, team captain. In addition to the individual rifleman's ability as a superior shot much stress has been laid on his shooting temperament.

The shooter called to the line this year will be one who is unaffected by the strain of competition or the rivalry among contenders.

From an original turnout of about eighty competitors the squad has been cut to thirty, arranged in teams as listed below:

First team—Capt. J. P. Lyons, 24th Inf.; Sgt. W. F. Bissenden, 10th Inf.; Cpl. H. F. Hicks, 29th Inf.; Sgt. S. Bradford, 24th Inf.; Cpl. C. Risner, 10th Inf.; 1st Sgt. J. Stofko, 30th Inf.; Sgt. J. Carlson, 4th Inf.; Cpl. M. L. Moore, 4th Inf.; Capt. K. L. Berry, Inf.; Cpl. C. L. Umberger, 23rd Inf.; 2nd Lt. T. B. Gailbreath, 29th Inf.; 1st Lt. D. M. Gunn, 17th Inf.

Second team—Cpl. G. S. Showalter, 24th Inf.; Cpl. J. H. Brunsell, 29th Inf.; 1st Lt. S. R. Hinds, Inf., Tanks; Cpl. C. L. Wills, 29th Inf.; Sgt. E. Bockell, 4th Inf.; Sgt. McW. James, 25th Inf.; Capt. E. Andino, 6th Inf.; Pfc. M. Yelovitch, 18th Inf.; 1st Lt. M. K. Martens, 4th Inf.; Capt. R. O. Bassett, 29th Inf.; Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf.; Capt. D. M. Bartow, 1st Inf.

Third team—Lt. D. L. Adams, 29th Inf.; Capt. H. C. Griswold, Inf. Tanks; 1st Lt. J. H. Marsh, 18th Inf.; 1st Sgt. H. F. Mollerstrom, 17th Inf.; Cpl. Clyde Taylor, 29th Inf.; Capt. M. L. Broderick, Inf.

LIGHTNING STRIKES SGT. STRICKLAND'S QUARTERS

Lightning played one of its queer pranks on the quarters of Sgt. Stanley Strickland, of the Military Police Det., last Sunday afternoon.

A wire clothes-line attached to a large tree was fastened to one corner of Sgt. Strickland's quarters. Lightning struck the tree last Sunday afternoon, followed the wire to the building, tearing a large hole in the wall where it entered, and went entirely through the house, tearing a great hole in the side of the house where it came out.

Fortunately Sgt. Strickland and his family were away from home at the time. When they returned they found the house looking very much like it had been hit by a cyclone.

TO ACTIVE DUTY

Second Lieutenant John Sumpter McRae, Jr., Infantry Reserve, was ordered to active duty at this station effective August 15th. Lieutenant McRae came to Benning from his home in Maxton, North Carolina. His tour of octive duty will terminate on August 28th.

NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES ATTRACT WOMEN AND CHILDREN AS WELL AS VETERANS

Camp Perry, Ohio—An army of workmen have just completed extensive improvements in the big target range here in preparation for the National Rifle and Pistol Matches which open on August 25. On that date the "Dead-eye Dicks" of America will start streaming into camp, each with his favorite "shooting iron." They will keep on coming until more than 3,000 of them settle down in the city of tents which has arisen on the shores of Lake Erie.

Returns received so far show that more marksmen will take their places on the mile-long firing line than ever before in the history of the National Matches. The number of civilian teams already entered almost double that of last year. There will be more National Guard teams than at any time within the last ten years. The Kid Camp will house a record number of boys and girls, ambitious to become the great shots of the future. In every Citizens' Military Training Camp in the country young men have competed this summer for places on the teams which will represent their far-flung organization. Many cities are sending policemen to the matches to learn how to wage more efficient warfare against armed criminals. As in years past the regular services will send teams of soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen.

For the first time in its history the American Legion will be represented at Perry by men who, eleven years ago, were firing across no-man's land at targets that could shoot back.

The number of women entrants has surprised even the most optimistic match officials. They recall the revival of the National Matches at Caldwell, N. J., after the World War. At that time the lone woman who fired on the range was regarded as a curiosity. Crowds followed her, and the newspapers printed columns about the "shooting debutante."

Col. Hu B. Myers, Cavalry, executive officer of the matches, is here superintending the final arrangements.

"A wave of enthusiasm for rifle and pistol practice seems to be sweeping the country," said Col. Myers. "We seem to be reverting in thought to the frontier days, when a man who could not knock a squirrel out of a tree with a muzzle-loader was considered no man at all."

The first five days of the big range classic will be devoted to the sessions of the Small Arms Firing School. The mission of this school is to teach the finer points of rifle and pistol marksmanship to its students and thus qualify them to act as instructors of others when they return home. Any citizen, even those who have never handled firearms before, may enter the school. The students will be divided into small groups and the instruction will be personal. Those who finish the course will be awarded a certificate. There will be a special school for the police and separate classes for the youngsters. Arms and ammunition will be issued to the students on the range.

The school will close on August 30 and on the next day the matches will begin. The last shot will not be fired until September 15. The schedule calls for 80 different events, a record number. These range from the great National Team Match, authorized by Congress, to the informal Davy Crockett Match in which a flintlock, kept in condition for 75 years, will be fired at a target only 30 yards away.

The National Matches offer more trophies, medals and cash prizes than any single other sporting event in America. The replacement value of the trophies is in excess of $20,000. The medals and cash prizes cost the National Rifle Association $12,000. Several of the trophies have been the objects of competition for the last 50 years.

For example, there is the ornate old silver pitcher known as the Leech Cup. No rifleman bearing an Irish name ever sees it without feeling an impulse to salute. In 1874 Major Arthur Blennerhassett Leech brought a team of Irish marksmen to this country. Major Leech labored under difficulties, for the British authorities at that time were reluctant to permit any Irishman to bear arms at home. In the end, however, Major Leech was able to establish the sport of marksmanship in Ireland and bring his team to America. His team lost, but with fine sportsmanship he presented a trophy for annual competition among the riflemen of America. And so the Leech Cup stands today as a constant reminder of the great change that has come over the status of Ireland since Arthur Leech had to obtain British consent before he could get arms for Irish marksmen.

There are certain convivial souls who always regard the old Wimbledon Cup with wistful eyes. This cup was presented to the riflemen of America 55 years ago by the British National Rifle Association. It is a large silver mug with a cover bearing the British lion. But it is the inside of this cup which interests those who recall the iniquitous days before the 18th Amendment. For inside the Wimbledon Cup are a lot of little pegs, which run from the bottom to the top. It was once customary to fill this cup with a potent beverage after the match. He who lowered the surface of contents by one peg might boast that he had consumed a quart — provided he could talk at all.

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest
Modes

LAMAR SMITH

Phone 3032 1131 Broadway

UPATOI RIDERS FIGHT WAY TO SEMI-FINALS IN CHICAGO

(Continued from page 1.)

made good on a shot during a mix up near the goal and won the game for his mates just as the gong clanged for the finish of the match.

Now Is the Time

It is only a few short months till the fall and winter rains will begin. Now is the time to see what repairs will be needed. You will find our roofing and paints to be unexcelled.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

The present issue field glass, Type EE-5, six power, is an article of equipment which has received considerable criticism during the past ten years, particularly by those who have used the glass in warm climates. Capt. Loren A. Wetherby is in charge of a Department of Experiment test of a number of types of commercial field glasses. The test is pending the arrival of several more types. Those already on hand, however, include several well known foreign and domestic glasses of from five to eight power.

The most interesting among those yet received are the very small Mirakel prism binoculars. These glasses are of German manufacture and are of five and seven power. They are no larger than many types of opera glasses and have less than one-fourth the weight of the present issue glass. In their case they may be carried with ease in a coat pocket. The field of vision of this minature glass is only slightly less in width than that of other large eight-power glasses which are to be tested.

In order to subject the articles under test to tropical conditions, the test officer has designed a moisture chest in which the humidity and temperature of hot climates can be reproduced. The EE-5 field glass has a tendency to become cloudy after being subjected to tropical conditions for a few months.

* * *

A Department of Experiment project which is now nearing completion is the prismatic compass test of which 1st Lt. Joseph I. Greene is test officer. The article under test is a compass of the prismatic type now issued, modified in several respects to make it more suitable for general Infantry uses. The principal change is in the dial which, in the test compass, has both direct and indirect degree scales as well as an indirect mil scale. The prism has been raised to a position from which may be read all three of the scales.

This test has opened to a considerable extent the whole problem of determining the form of compass most suitable for general Infantry purposes. There are several subdivisions of this question, the more important of which are as follows:

a. The determination of the best type of filler. At present the prismatic compass is air filled and the lensatic compass is liquid filled. The chief disadvantage of the air filler is that it takes a long time for the dial to come to rest when the compass is being read, while the liquid filler, on the other hand, forms bubbles and discolors the dial to such an extent that readings become quite inaccurate.

b. The determination of the best type of reading apparatus. Of the two types now in use the prism has a larger magnifying power but requires both direct and indirect dial scales.

c. The determination of the best type of dial scale.

d. The determination of the most suitable markings for night uses.

These questions have been investigated by the Third Section, Academic Department; by Co. H, 29th Inf.; by the Howitzer Co., 29th Inf., and by the test officer. It is believed that the completed test report will arrive at an instrument which will be as suitable for Infantry uses as possible within the necessary limitations of size and expense.

* * *

A problem of space and time saving which now holds the attention of 1st Lt. B. M. McFayden as test officer is a test of experimental types of a regimental field desk, a company field desk, and a company records chest for Infantry use. Changes in the office equipment of small administrative units, which have taken place since the war, have caused corresponding changes to be desirable in the present types of regimental and company field desks. The articles which are being tested incorporate most of the necessary changes.

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED TO BUY: All kinds of used civilian clothing and shoes. Charlie, 1039 First Ave.

FOR RENT: A nice home with stove, refrigerator, window shades and heater. Very reasonable. Phone 1421 Columbus.

FOR RENT—New Brick Residence facing Weracoba Park Seven rooms including three bedrooms. Two rear entrances. Sunbeam Heater, Double Garage. School term or twelve months.
Phone 1109 Columbus.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Ralston Hotel
DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8 30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

The Third National Bank
of Columbus, Ga.

The
Columbus Bank and Trust Company

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 23 TO AUG. 30, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 23

"THUNDERBOLT," starring George Bancroft with Fay Wray and Richard Arlen in a tense drama of life and love outside the law. It is a human drama taken from the front pages of newspapers. A strong-man terror who kills with one punch—a girl gangster in the grip of environment—a youth framed into Sing Sing—the death house and its trancient inmates. Many highly emotional scenes culminate into a climax that will grip every tendon of your body. It is a cold, hard, breathless drama.

Pathe News No. 67.

SATURDAY, AUG. 24

"GUN LAW," starring Tom Tyler with Frankie Darrow in a story of thrills, chills and cyclonic action. It contains plenty of heart gripping situations, including a spectacular free-for-all race on horse back to the recorders to register an unclaimed piece of property. The realistic fight scenes between Tyler and the villian in a bid for a girl's love play a very important part. Clever touches of comedy are injected by Cy Brown, an ill-tempered old store keeper. You'll like this story.

"Off to Buffalo." Charlie Chase.

SUNDAY, AUG. 25

"THUNDER," starring the famous Lon Chaney in a dramatic story of railroading. In this picture Chaney appears in a fine character role minus the usual repulsiveness of the parts he has played in past pictures. He enacts the role of a railroad engineer who uses fine foresight and cool-headiness during exciting moments. The story includes thrills of a fast passenger train running in four feet of water in the Mississippi flood. The story is not only appealing from a dramatic angle, but also from a historic viewpoint.

"Oriental Hugs." Billy Dooley.

M. G. M. News No. 1.

MONDAY, AUG. 26

"WHEEL OF LIFE," starring Richard Dix with Esther Ralston in a daring drama with brilliant settings and stirring scenes laid in the desert of little-known Tibet. It involves adventure and wild tribesmen. The threads cling to a love story that is warm, throbbing and tender. Dix plays the part of a dashing officer and impetuous lover; Esther Ralston acts the wife who found love too late; O. P. Heggie plays the gallant officer who gives his life that love might live. It can be characterized as a story of dangerous love and thrilling adventure in the Orient.

"Tiger's Shadow No. 9."

TUESDAY, AUG. 27

"VOICE OF THE CITY," starring Willard Mack with Robert Ames in a vivid picture of gangland life. The story deals with a jail break and the man-hunt following. The jail break, the hunt, a fake suicide, a murder, and an unexpected and dramatic happy ending, all takes place in the space of twenty-four hours. Mr. Mack plays the role of a detective who eventually gets his man, and, at the same time, gives him his freedom. There is a romance which is sweet, appealing and tender. This play is filled with suspense, plot and counter-plot.

ROBERT AMES in "THE VOICE OF THE CITY"

"The Weaker Sex." Rarebit.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 28

"KID GLOVES," starring Conrad Nagel with Lois Wilson in a gripping gangland story pulsating with thrills, love and romance. The fun begins when a society girl finds herself in a taxi in the hotest of a gun battle with high-jackers. Her influential fiancee has her shadowed, and finding her with the Kid, calls a justice and forces her to be married. This is only the beginning of the breath-taking action which insues. If you like stories that causes you to grip the arms of your chair, see this picture.

M. G. M. News No. 2.

THURSDAY, AUG. 29

"THREE PASSIONS," starring Alice Terry with Ivan Petrovitch in a most unusual photodrama founded on a novel by Cosmo Hamilton, the famous dramatist and author. The story is laid among London's society and in the slums of the British capital. The story centers around a young hero's revolt against his father's materialistic creed and, his still bigger trouble, against his sense of vocation and his love. The settings include scenes of a great strike at Bellmon'ts shipyards, and the night life of modern London contrasted with squalor of its slums, and of Oxford College. It is a European made picture.

"He Tried to Please." Cameo.

FRIDAY, AUG. 30

"IT CAN BE DONE," starring Glen Tryon with Sue Carroll in a farce comedy. Don't be bashful—kiss any girl you want to—be a success in love, in business or in anything. Come to the show tonight and see how "it can be done" in this howlingly hilarious comedy of blushes and big business. This laughable story deals with the adventures of a young man who is afflicted with a demoralizing inferiority complex. The struggles of this chap, with his handicap, are faithfully portrayed. They furnish a mirth provoking scene of riotously funny incidents that strike home with a pleasing and amazing force.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

AN ODE TO BLIND SAM (WINDY)

You're blind, old man, you're blind,
We're betting you can't find,
A fly on your red, red nose,
Grease on your hat, shoes and clothes.

Bring out your horn rim specs,
Inspect the recruits' necks,
And if you find any thing like dirt,
On some dumjohn's shirt,
Don't blame it to their kind, old man
For you are blind, blind, blind, old man!

Dame rumor has started another investigation on our part. It has been hinted around the area recently that there is an outlaw baseball team in the first stages of formation.

After investigating the matter, we find that there is truth in that rumor, and furthermore, that they are ready to play any team on the post. They call themselves the "Fort Benning Outlaws," and their telephone number is, in case you call from Columbus, 3,400, and if from any point within the post, just pick up the telephone receiver and start talking.

There is one thing wrong about that team though. They have picked on all the other teams of the post for their material, and would have to fight the managers of the other teams that might play, in order to secure the services of some of the men.

They do tell us that Spud Murphy got hot in the collar about something that somebody said about him in the I. S. D. column last week. We are surely glad that it wasn't us.

We notice Sergeant Jim O'Hara out on the tennis courts working hard to make the battery the best in the South. He already has two of the fastest in this section, and reports that he has located clay on the post that can be used to bring the rest up to snuff.

The plot is deepening, and more sleuths are being employed daily, to ascertain, if possible, why "Windy," of Regimental Headquarters, 29th Infantry, goes to all the fights at the post arena. We know one reason why he shouldn't go. He can't see a thing. His side kick, "Battling" Kirksey, of the Q. Mers., should be able to cast a little light on the subject.

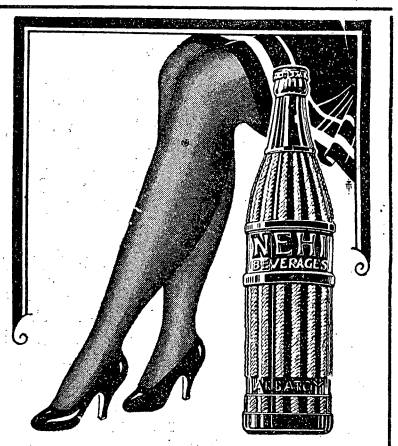
Abbie Teems, the fighting Irishman of the I. S. D., was shooting pool the other day with "Corners" Cowan, and the battle waxed hot. Abbie played a difficult shot to the corner pocket and missed. He had put considerable "Body English" on the ball, and for an alibi offered the following: "The ball didn't done what I vanted it to did."

If it can be cleaned

FORT BENNING
CLEANERS

Can do it.

465—Ring 2



ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

FOX'S MURALITE

The economical wall finish, easy to apply, attractive and durable. Comes in white and fourteen beautiful shades, good for plaster, wall board or wood walls and ceilings.

Ask us for color card and estimate.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

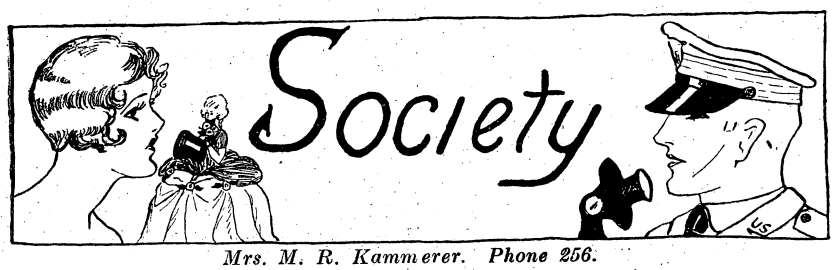
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. M. R. Kammerer. Phone 256.

Mrs. Ollie Reed was hostess at a bridge party last week entertaining in honor of her guest, Miss Eva May Reed. Those invited to meet Miss Reed were: Mrs. Frank McCoy and her guest, Miss Farmer, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Alderman and Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Misses Harriette Wells, Sue Brandt, Lola O'Connell, Daisy and Landon Reed.

Mrs. Vernon scored high and Miss Daisy Reed, second. They were given some lovely silk underwear as prizes. The guest of honor was given a similar gift.

After the games, a delicious salad course was served.

* * *

The largest party of the week was given Thursday evening, August the fifteenth, when Miss Verna Perry entertained at a bridge party and kitchen shower, honoring Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant L. A. Diller. Captain and Mrs. Perry received with Miss Perry.

The guests who were invited to the Polo Club to enjoy the delightful party were: Major and Mrs. Frank Green, Major and Mrs. L. R. Boyd, Captain and Mrs. Bishop, Captain and Mrs. David Barr, Captain and Mrs. V. G. Huskea, Captain and Mrs. Ira Black, Lt. and Mrs. Miller, Lt. and Mrs. C. E. Jackson, Lt. and Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, Lt. and Mrs. John Evans, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Zeuver, Lt. and Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Lt. and Mrs. John S. Roosma, Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Gilbreath, Lt. and Mrs. Paul Adams, Lt. and Mrs. Alfred Parham, Lt. and Mrs. Koehler Daley, Lt. and Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Misses Harriette Wells, Sue Brandt, Daisy Reed, Bess Berry, Landon Reed, Lola O'Connell, Lieutenants L. A. Diller, Hayden Grubbs, Maurey Cralle, William Forse; Messrs. Warden Wells and William Berry.

Miss Landon received high prize for ladies, a box of individual bath salts, and Mrs. Kammerer, second prize, a box of guest soap. Lt. Gilbreath was given three linen handkerchiefs for having high score for men, and Lt. Bartlett, who was second, received a black silk tie. Miss Wells and Lt. Diller received as guest prize, six sets of cups and saucers in attractive shapes and colors.

After the bridge, Miss Wells and Lt. Diller were given many useful gifts for their kitchen.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. J. E. Jackson had as their dinner guests Thursday evening Lieut. and Mrs. David Barr, Lt. and Mrs. William Bartlett and Captain Chester, who is the guest of Lt. and Mrs. Barr. After dinner, they attended the bridge party given by Miss Verna Perry.

* * *

The Thanatopsis Literary Club met Friday night at the quarters of Lt. and Mrs. Sidney L. Wharton.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph C. Kovarik entertained at a bridge luncheon Thursday morning, honoring Miss Eva May Reed. There were eight guests who enjoyed this lovely party: Mrs. W. A. Squires, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Albert Helsley, Mrs. Raymond Lavin, Mrs. M. S. Curtis, Mrs. Owen Rhoads, Mrs. Ollie Reed and Miss Reed. Mrs. Rhoads won top score and was given as prize a set of bridge score pads. Miss Reed was presented with a bottle of bath salts as the honor guest prize.

* * *

Major and Mrs. William Livesay have returned to Fort Benning, after spending a delightful leave visiting relatives in Columbia and St. Louis, Missouri. Enroute home they stopped in Asheville, North Carolina, and enjoyed the few days spent there.

* * *

Another party honoring Miss Harriette Wells was given Saturday morning by Miss Bess Berry, Miss Sue Brandt, and Miss Lola O'Connell. The guests were invited for a swim at Russ Pool followed by a progressive breakfast. After the swim the first course of the breakfast was served at Miss Berry's, the second at Miss Brandt's and the third at Miss O'Connell's. When breakfast was over the party assembled on the O'Connell's porch and Miss Wells was told to pull a ribbon attached to an umbrella hanging from the ceiling. When the ribbon was pulled Miss Wells was showered with many beautiful gifts of linens. The guests of this party were: Mrs. John Forsythe, Mrs. Shirley Hurt, Mrs. Paul Zuver, Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Mrs. Roosma, Mrs. Joseph Gailbreath, Mrs. Alfred Parham, Mrs. Koehler Daley, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Misses Nancy Ross, Daisy Reed, Dorothy Ross, Landon Reed, Verna Perry and Eva May Reed.

* * *

Mrs. Daniel Berry and her daughter, little Miss Joan Berry, have returned to Fort Benning, after spending seven delightful weeks in Waynesville and Asheville, North Carolina.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. O. W. Reed have as their guest Captain Reed's sister, Miss Eva May Reed, of Pittsburg, Pa. Miss Reed is being extensively entertained at many lovely parties.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Kingman returned to Fort Benning this week from a very successful fishing trip spent at Dead Lake and the Gulf, in Florida. One of the fish caught was a King Bass which weighed twelve pounds. While in Florida they were with Major and Mrs. Charles Ryder and Captain and Mrs. Raymond Bishop.

* * *

After a few days spent at home Colonel and Mrs. Kingman again left on leave. They will visit their daughter, Miss Kate Kingman, who is spending the summer at Camp Dixie in North Georgia. From there they will motor to Knoxville, Tennessee, for a visit with Mrs. Kingman's cousin, Judge Jennings. After this visit they will go to Washington to be the guests of Colonel Kingman's mother. While in Washington they will be joined by Miss Kate Kingman and will go from Washington to New York to visit Mrs. Kingman's sister, Mrs. A. C. Miller, at her home on Long Island. They will return to Fort Benning the last of September.

* * *

Mr. Herman Grubbs has returned to his home at Junction City, Kentucky, after spending several weeks as the guest of his brother, Lieutenant Hayden Grubbs.

* * *

Doctor March, of New York City, was the guest of his son and daughter, Lieutenant and Mrs. Kenneth March, for a few days of last week.

Friends of Lieutenant and Mrs. Keith K. Tatum will be interested to know of the announcement made at Baton Rouge, La., of the birth of a daughter on August twelfth.

* * *

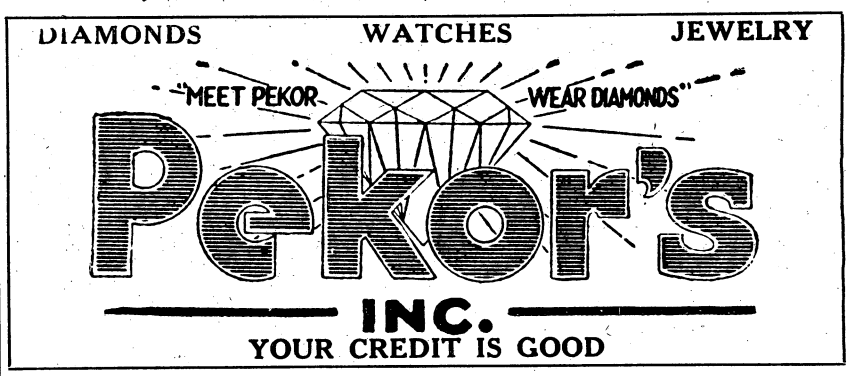
Announcement was made Sunday of the approaching marriage of Miss Lurline Parker, of Fairburn, Georgia, to Mr. J. O. Martin, of Atlanta. Miss Parker is the sister of Mrs. W. H. Vinson and has been her guest on several occasions. During these visits she has made many friends at Benning who will be interested in the annoucement of her engagement.

* * *

Mrs. Norman C. Caum and Mrs. Robert McNulty, of Columbus, left Saturday for a visit to Mrs. Caum's parents at Flathead Lake, Montana, near Glacier National Park.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Withers Burress, and daughter, Cyntnia, left Saturday for their new station at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.



Exercise Room of New and Modernly Equipped Dog and Cat Hospital

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

Gordon V-Line.. Smart in design

Naturally, women all over the country are selecting the Gordon V-Line — designed by an artist in this smart modern fashion — with V-shaped shadows in silk that repeat the natural shadows in the ankle.

And the new Gordon colors ... not only the costume but the woman herself is considered! They are planned to match skin tones (whether pale or sun-tanned) — distinctly a modern note in colors.

Gordon HOSIERY V LINE

Kirven's ESTABLISHED 1876

$2.00

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Chrysanthemums, the glory of the fall. What delightful visions of clear, cool, crisp Autumn days just the name brings to us to make more bearable the heat of August dog days.

Occupying last place in the year's pageant of blossoms, there is no flower better qualied than the Mum to bring to a fitting close Nature's activity for the year. In color, Mums run the spectrum of the rainbow with only a true blue missing. In size, they vary from the tiny pompon, no larger than a shoe button, to the mammoth exhibition flowers ten inches in diameter, while they differ in shape from the single daisy type, true to their lowly ancestors, on thru the astar flowered, the fantastic queer looking ones, with petals like narrow curled ribbons, to the massive globe shaped blossoms cultivated for football games, and Thanksgiving tables. Their blooming time, too, ranging from early fall or late summer until hard frosts blacken the last hardy blooms, sometimes as late as Christmas in this locality. Surely with all this versatility even the most exacting person can find some type of Mum to suit his individual fancy.

The culture of Chrysanthemums is simple and they are very free from diseases. Go to your old plants in the Spring and you will find a circle of green rosettes around the parent stem. When these rosettes have developed into young plants four to six inches high, select some cloudy day just after a rain and with a spading fork or spade, lift the entire group of young plants; then carefully shake the dirt away from the roots and you will find that each young plant is connected to the main stem by a long runner. Along this runner a mass of small fibre-like feeding roots will be developing. Detach each of these runners where they join on to the parent stem and you have a Chysanthemum plant ready to start off on its own.

Chrysanthemums are gross feeders and a liberal amount of well rotted manure should be incorporated in the ground where they are planted. At the time the young plants are set out the growing tips should be pinched out to induce branching close to the ground. Examine the plants frequently and see if they are infested with aphis. Aphis are small plant lice, some green in color and some brown. They are the worst enemies the Mums have. A thorough spraying with any nicotine solution will quickly kill the aphis, but the plants must be watched to prevent a reoccurence. Do not work your Chrysanthemums deeply for they are surface feeders, and any disturbance of the feeding roots just under the surface of the ground will result in a check in growth.

About the latter part of August or first of September the Mums will need staking and feeding. They may be staked individually but the best effect is obtained by driving uprights about three to four feet high at six foot intervals and about two to three feet apart.

Lathes nailed between the uprights and a foot above each other will give excellent frame work for your Mums to grow on and will show them off to the best advantage. The ground around the base of the plants should be covered with an inch mulch of manure for a foot in radius and the plants kept watered.

After the buds have formed and are beginning to show color daily, applications of liquid manure or commercial fertilizer well watered in, will greatly increase the size and number of flowers.

In this locality the lower leaves along the stem show a decided tendency to blacken and drop off, but while this gives a somewhat unsightly appearance to the plant, it in no way injures it. This bare shanked appearance may in some measure be overcome by tying some of the lower branches to the lowest lathe, thus covering to some extent the lower parts of the plant. A coating of green paint on the frame work will add greatly to the appearance of the whole.

Next week: Fall Sowing of Annuals.'

Radium Springs

ALBANY, GA.

Invites You

To

REST, DINE, GOLF, SWIM OR SHOOT

Hotel Accommodations

Radium Springs, only ninety miles from Fort Benning, is one of the South's Premier Resorts.

Swim in the crystal clear Radium Spring; Canoe down the enchanting Radium Spring run; Golf over the sportiest 18-hole course in the South.

Excellent Meals Reasonable Rates

Spend a week or a week-end at Radium Springs

In

"The Garden of the South"

Write or Wire for Reservations

G. Floyd Alford, Jr., MANAGER

K&P

We wish you to know and see the sincere effort we are making to give our customers prompt and efficient service, the kind of service that they have a right to expect and like to get. Nothing is spared to attain it and we know you will cheerfully co-operate with us.

Our business is in reality a service business

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.

JEWELERS

1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

BOOK REVIEW

DESERTION DURING THE CIVIL WAR

By Ella Lonn, Ph.D., Professor of History in Goucher College.

"The publication of this volume is one of the earliest fruits of the Revolving Fund of the American Historical Association. It was the reviewer's privilege to examine the book in manuscript; and the favorable impression then formed is confirmed and deepened by the published work. Miss Lonn has performed a most useful service by presenting an adequate though not bulky treatment of desertion on both sides in the Civil War. Her study is based on the more accessible published material, chiefly, of course, the Official Records. As for Confederate desertion, she shows that backwoodsmen and "crackers" had little interest in the struggle; that the conscript net dragged Northerners, Mexicans, and many ruffians into the service; that deserters were often mere boys; and that the poor food, clothing, pay, and equipment (many men being without blankets and others having "scarcely clothing to hide their nakedness") had their inevitable effect in the disintegration of morale. Under the unspeakable camp conditions of that time, men were "kept in the swamp until their systems were poisoned with miasma" (p. 12); and to the mental anxiety of homesickness and depression was added the desperation of those who were forced to desert to save their families. Soldiers from Arkansas, for instance, deserted at once when learning that Indians were scalping on the border. Death was the extreme penalty for desertion; but men were too precious to be shot; and shooting was out of the question for the thousands guilty. Yet when forbearance was felt to be no longer a virtue, the death penalty was at times enforced. Stonewall

(Continued on page 7.)

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. August 23, 1929 No. 49

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry.....Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan.....Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz.....Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze.....Sports Editor
Mrs. M. R. Kammerer.....Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Note: These extracts are solely to inform officers on editorial opinion and do not imply any indorsement.

The Army Economy Plan

By setting the general staff of the army to work at the job of finding ways and means whereby the expenses of the military establishment may be reduced without injuring the national defense system, President Hoover leaves the army in the hands of its friends for examination instead of exposing it to dissection by ill wishers and politicians. It also is true that the members of the general staff are in a special position to cut and prune with intelligence and discretion if they are so disposed, and there is small likelihood that any suggestions made by them will be crippling in their tendencies, now that the place of aircraft in the scheme of military operation has been fully recognized.

The dangerous aspect of the departure, if there is a dangerous aspect, is to be found in the use certain elements may try to make of the widespread advertisement that a general plan for reduction of annual outlay on the military force of the country is contemplated. The President's announcement is a temptation to every faddist, pacifist and Red plotter in the country to re-engage with renewed vigor in a campaign for the purpose of destroying the army by process of starvation. Already those elements in the population have succeeded in reducing the personnel of the regular military force to a point which is far below the minimum consistent with safety, if competent military authorities, including the late Secretary Weeks and the late General Leonard Wood, have known what they have been talking about when they have spoken from time to time. In face of the studied hostility of the destructivists, even the maintenance of existing summer training camps and of National Guard organizations has been uphill work now and again.

We believe in government economy and thrift in the army as well as in other places, and avoidable waste in federal affairs is a sin against the taxpayers of the nation. But it is just as necessary to combat and keep in check the scuttlers, as it is to combat and keep in check extravagant specialists in military matters and those departmental personages who are so wedded to tradition and precedence that the maintenance of a piece of red tape procedure is more important than the saving of a few million dollars. Both elements are foes of true national defense. But the formerr are the more dangerous of the two, because when the damage they do becomes apparent, the opportunity to repair it without excessive penalty generally is gone.

We do not mean to convey the impression that we are unsympathetic with the object of President Hoover's move for military economy. Quite the contrary. But we do believe that in engaging in the enterprise, the government accepts a little special obligation to keep in check the deleterious forces which will endeavor to take advantage of it, and capitalize it in a misleading way for propaganda purposes.—Detroit Free Press.

The Pay Board Findings

A sequence of events, but nothing else, serves to link President Hoover's plans for reduction of Army outlays with the recommendations of the Interdepartmental Pay Board for increases in pay to personnel in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey and Public Health Service. For these recommendations for increases in pay, recognizing the lowered purchasing power of the dollar since the last general increase in 1908, should not be construed as affecting in any way the Nation's program of economical spending. No economy is effected by pauperizing personnel, and personnel in the services named have already been cut down by advancing standards to a point where mere existence on service pay is a difficult problem.

The Interdepartmental Pay Board has been working on pay revision since last April. It undertook the work at the direction of the heads of the services included. The recommendations, which are yet to name the total expenditures necessary to meet them, must now run the gauntlet through Congress. Only an optimist would predict immediate and satisfactory results. But the beginning has been made in correcting a condition that must be remedied.

One of the interesting features of the pay recommendations is the proposal to make future pay inclusive and allow no special allowances for dependents or for expenses involved in lease of quarters. All officers would be on the same footing, with deductions made in salary for officers living in government-owned buildings. Pay is based fundamentally on the grade held, with increases for length of commissioned service.

The board points out that in recent years other Government services have received increases in pay, while the scale in the Army and Navy has been actually cut 3 per cent. The foreign service has been increased 175 per cent; sections of the Civil Service, 153 per cent; assistant departmental secretaries, 111 per cent; post office inspectors, 92 per cent; the judiciary, 62 per cent; members of Congress, 33 per cent, and members of the cabinet, 25 per cent. Since 1908, when the last general pay increase was put into effect, the purchasing power of the dollar has shrunk to 49 cents. The pay board seeks to bring it back to par, and to readjust salaries on the basis of value received for services rendered.—Washington Star.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

SUMMER COLDS

Colds may be acquired in any season of the year. Though more common in winter they are also seen frequently enough in summer to account for many cases of disability of varying duration and many admissions to hospitals. Even in summer colds frequently lead to pnuemonia, the most serious of communicable diseases that we have with us when contracted, as it affects the public as a whole. Hence do not think that you can take chances with colds even in the hot summers of Fort Benning.

Summer colds, like those of cold weather are of two kinds. The colds that you catch from other people and the colds that you take even though no one around you has one. People who have adeniods or infected tonsils or are run-down are likely to have either kind.

The germ which causes you to catch cold may enter your nose and throat from the air when an infected person talks, coughs, or sneezes. You may catch cold by using an unwashed glass, spoon, or fork, which has just been used by someone with a cold. The germs may be on your hands because you have touched something which has been handled by the person with a cold. Washing the hands before eating or before touching the face will help to prevent this.

In summer the taking of a cold without "catching it from other people, is most frequent in those who have poor circulation or some local infection in the nose or throat. Recently there have been a fairly large number of persons at this post with sufficiently severe summer colds to make it necessary for their admittance to the hospital. Nearly all of these people have neglected to follow the simple rules herein noted.

Sitting too long in a draft or in the shade in a wet bathing suit, too sudden cooling off after hard work or exercise; remaining exposed to the breeze of an electric fan (especially sleeping under a fan); and similar acts are apt to lead to the acquisition of summer colds.

Once a cold is acquired, whether it be in winter or summer, proper treatment is necessary. Early treatment is most important. If your head stops up, your back and legs ache, your eyes burn, and there is a tickling or soreness in the throat, and you have other signs of cold, such as sneezing or a running nose, you should start "first aid" right away.

Rest in bed if possible; take a laxaitve; drink plenty of cold water, and eat lightly of simple nourishing food. Other measures will be suggested by the doctor if you call him. Beware of the patent medicines sold as remedies for colds. Many contain drugs that are bad for the heart and may cause a "drug habit."

Help protect the other fellow; If you have a cold, cough or sneeze in a handkerchief (which should be boiled when washed) or in a cloth or paper napkin that can be burned, in that you will not give your cold to others. People who have a cold, summer or winter, should stay by themselves as much as possible, because many other diseases start with what seems to be only a cold.

Next weeks' topic: HAY FEVER.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS FIVE YEARS AGO

Brigadier General Stuart Heintzelman, until recently assistant chief of staff, director of the intelligence division of the General Staff, arrived at the Infantry School last Sunday for the purpose of taking a month's refresher course preparatory to sailing for the Hawaiian Department, where he will assume command of an Infantry Brigade.

With the installation of the re-inforcing steel and the placing in position of the arches in the first one hundred feet of the new Doughboy Stadium, it is expected that the pouring of the concrete will take place in a very short time.

August 18th, last Monday, marked the opening of the 1924-25 scholastic year for the sixty-five instructors of the Infantry School when they started their three weeks of orientation, previously called the refresher course.

The second half of the post Intra-Mural baseball season ended last Tuesday with the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the 29th Infantry tied for first place and the 15th Tank Battalion and Infantry School Detachment tied for third place.

INFANTRY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT PROGRESSES

The agencies at Fort Benning that have been charged with the tests and experiments being conducted along the lines of infantry development, are deeply engaged in the discharge of this interesting duty. During the two weeks that have elapsed since the commencement of the actual experiments, there have been conducted a series of firing tests to determine the relative fire power of the present weapons with which the infantry is armed, and of the different groupings in which those weapons can be arranged.

Various types of squads, and various groupings of riflemen and automatic riflemen, have fired tests at the various ranges within the limits of the ordinary infantry fire fight, both with limited and unlimited ammunition supply. The data resulting from these actual tests have been analyzed and plotted, and have revealed facts which may have a critical effect upon the end which is being sought.

At the same time units of the testing agencies have been conducting extended order and combat problem experiments, with the various groupings of infantry weapons and agencies to determine what is the best system of organization for the employment of infantry in battle. The primary aim apparently is to secure an increase in fire power with a decrease in the density of men in the combat area.

Although impossible to arrive at any definite conclusions at this time it is plainly evident that the infantry is in for one of the most radical reorganizations in its history. Along with reorganization the heretofore whispered words "motorization" and "mechanization" will undoubtedly come in for a thorough test of their real import as applied to infantry.

BOOK REVIEW

(Continued from page 5.)

Jackson, for instance, never failed to confirm the sentence of death.

Miss Lonn gives a vivid picture of the methods of deserters and the life of deserter bands, turned outlaw, in western North Carolina and Virginia, northeastern Alabama, the Georgia mountains, the Florida swamps, and the cane-bottoms of Louisiana. As to the larger consequences for the South, she concludes that desertion prevented offensives, as when Lee admitted that desertion was the main cause of his retiring from Maryland in 1862 (p. 120); caused withdrawal of forces for deserter-hunting (good soldiers sent after bad often deserting on their own account); weakened the army by the widespread stealing of arms, horses, and equipment; conveyed information to the enemy; terrorized the citizenry, and lowered the general regard for a government that could not enforce its will or prevent anarchy.

When treating Union desertion, the author finds no such widespread outlawry of organized deserters as in the South; but she points out the evil effects of bounty-jumping, and shows that immense portions of the Union armies were reported "absent." The total number of deserters on the Union side, allowing for repeaters, is stated as approximately 200,000 (the estimate of Provost-Marshall General Fry), while the same authority is quoting as finding 104,000 Confederate desertions. Thus desertions were more numerous in proportion to enlistments in the North than in the South; one to seven in the North as compared with one to nine in the Confederacy. An analysis of desertion by states shows that New York had the highest number in the North, approximately 45,000; while North Carolina led the South with 23,000. The value of the book is enhanced by statistical tables; and the reviewer recommends it as better calculated to convey a sense of the sickening realities of the Civil War than many volumes of military history."

J. G. RANDALL.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following officers have arrived and departed from Fort Benning since the issue of August 16:

Arrivals—Capt. Edward J. Maloney, for duty; 1st Lt. Herbert E. Baker, for duty; Lt. Col. Oscar W. Hoop, for duty; Major Dennis E. McCunniff, for duty.

Departures—Capt. Benjamin F. Caffey, to leave and change of station to West Point Military Academy; Capt. E. F. Paynter, to leave and change of station to Camp Perry, O., temporary duty; 1st Lt. Grover C. Brandt, to leave and change of station to Signal School Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; 1st Lt. Robert T. Foster, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; 1st Lt. Wm. M. Miley, to leave and change of station to Coast Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va.; 2nd Lt. Raymond C. Lane, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

SPECIAL TRAINING

Recent orders issued at Headquarters, The Infantry School, announced that nine men from Fort Benning would attend a course of instruction at the Ford Motor Company Assembly Plant in Atlanta for four days. The course commenced last Monday and ends today, Friday.

Those attending the course are:

Technical Sergeant Roy S. Balch, 86th Motor Repair Section, Sergeant Clarence B. Johnson, Sergeant Samuel L. Cunningham, Sergeant Clarence D. Horsley, Corporal Merrill N. Woodyear, all of the Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment, (Light), Corporal Johnnie J. Garrett, and Privates Werner E. Reynolds, Fred Daley and Wade E. Lamb of the 29th Infantry.

MATCH WITH ANCIENT FLINTLOCKS AT PERRY

Washington, D. C.—Ancient flinlocks such as Daniel Boone, Davy Crockett and other famous frontiersmen used will be fired by the great marksmen of our own day in a special match to be staged at the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September. This was announced at the office of the National Rifle Association in this city today.

No such matches as these have been held since the Sesqui-Centennial Matches at Sea Girt, N. J., in 1926. At that time Dr. Dillon of West Chester, Pa., an expert in old firearms brought one of his famous Kentucky rifles to the range. There a match was staged in which several of the most famous shots in America tried out their skill with the Doctor's flintlock, which was almost a century old.

When the priming charge flared up in the pan most of the marksmen were so rattled that they flinched and missed the target by yards. They left the range with a new respect for those famous riflemen of old who killed running deer with such weapons.

The National Rifle Association has secured several fine specimens of early American rifles for the Davy Crockett Match, which they predict will be one of the most interesting events on the program at Perry. .

PROMOTED

Captain Jewett C. Baker, Infantry, who was formerly assistant Adjutant of the Infantry School, has recently been promoted to the grade of major.

HEADQUARTERS BATTERY GIVES INFORMAL DINNER

Wednesday night, the personnel of Headquarters Battery Eighty Third Field Artillery, gave an informal dinner in honor of Captain Percy G. Black, who is leaving the organization to attend the advanced tactical class at Langley Field, Va.

Captain Black has been in command of the battery for the past year, and it is with deepest regret that the men of the organization see him go.

Many officers of the Battalion were the invited guests of the Battery that evening. Among those present were Major F. J. Ross, the Battalion Commander, and Major Clyde Howard Hale, Field Artillery Reserve, who is on active duty status with the Battalion.

After the splendid meal consisting of boiled ham, chicken salad, potato, salad, sweet mixed pickles, celery, Boston brown bread, buns, iced tea, near beer and ice cream, the smokes, cigars and cigarettes, were lit up and the speeches began.

The toastmaster first called on Captain Black for a few words. Captain Black expressed his regrets at having to leave such a splendid organization. He stated that he had commanded organizations in the 76th, 16th and 12th Field Artillery units, but never had he been afforded the pleasure that the command of Headquarters Battery had given him.

Major Ross, the Battalion Commander was then introduced to the listeners, and addressed a few complimentary remarks to Captain Black and Headquarters Battery.

Major Hale then made a splendid talk, and in his talk, enlightened many of the listeners as to the importance of the reserve. He pointed out the fact that the reserve officer worked as a liasion between the regular army and the civilian classes of the nation. He stated that what the armed forces needed was men and money. That they could not obtain the men without the money, and could not obtain the money without appropriations from Congress.

He pointed out where the reservist is able to communicate with the various congressmen concerning the appropriation bills, the regular army officer must remain silent. He also vouched for the interests that the reserve and regular army held in common.

SEASON TICKETS

Season tickets for the athletic season, September 1, 1929 to August 31, 1930 are now ready for distribution at the garrison Athletic Office.

These are a source of much saving for the soldiers of this post, and none should be without one. The cost is nominal and will not be missed. Get yours now!!!

CHANGE STATIONS

Warrant Officer Charles Deger, who has been on duty with the quartermaster, headquarters, Fifth Corps Area, been relieved from this assignment, and assigned to duty with the quartermaster, Fort Hayes, Ohio, has been assigned to fill the office vacated by Warrant Officer Kurtz.

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning
Georgia

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

Let The NEWS handle your

[Not the cheapest, perhaps, but certainly the best]

PRINTING

Call Benning 146
or Columbus 610

Our downtown office at the Standard Printing Company is equipped to handle speedily any job, regardless of size.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

29TH INF.

Lieutenant-Colonel Walter L. Reed, Inf., who was recently relieved from assistant to the 29th Infantry and ordered to report to the commandant the Infantry School for assignment to duty on his staff, has been detailed by the commandant on special duty with the 29th Infantry, and will report to the commanding officer thereof for duty.

First Lieutenant John H. Stokes was granted a leave of absence for seven days, effective August 16, at the expiration of which he will report at the Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., for duty as assistant football coach.

First Lieutenant F. A. Drewry has been detailed on special duty as officer in charge of the 29th Infantry Recruit School, vice Lieut. Stokes.

First Lieutenant W. H. Vinson has been granted a four-day leave of absence, effective August 21st.

Second Lieutenant James G. Harrison, Inf. Res., who has been ordered to active duty for a period of training from August 12 to August 25, has been attached for duty to Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry.

29th Inf. Band

On Friday noon the band left Fort Benning by bus for Richland, Ga., to partake in the ceremonies of formally opening the first paved street in that worthy community.

Technical Sergeant Benjamin T. Meeks, assistant band leader and trombone soloist, has taken a three months' furlough to visit scenes of his boyhood back in "Nawth Cahlinah." It has been a long time since he has had a vacation. We all hope that the much needed rest will do him good.

Headquarters Co.

Our last bunch are on the range now. They have completed the 500 yard range, both slow and rapid fire. The score turned in this morning led us to believe that we will have some more experts in the company when these men finish.

Pvt. 1st Class Daley was fortunate enough to be chosen to represent Headquarters Co. in the Mechanics Training School at the Ford plant in Atlanta, Ga. He left here with a "do or die" look in his eye, and we are confident he will return an accomplished "Ford Surgeon."

Pfc. R. D. Baker has returned from Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas, where he visited his brother who was injured in an aeroplane crash. His brother is a lieutenant in tthe Air Service, stationed at Brooks Field, Texas. We understand, from Pfc. Baker, that his brother is recovering nicely from injuries sustained in the crash and we heartily join him in his hope that his brother will recover quickly. Pfc. Baker was flown in an aeroplane from Brooks Field, Texas, to New Orleans, La., by one of the lieutenant flyers from Brooks Field. He said that he enjoyed the ride very much indeed.

Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Recruits Broome, Lewis and Prestage have been assigned to the company, and will join the organization as soon as their period of quarantine expires. Beg your pardon, Lewis, I shouldn't have called you a "John," as I forgot tthat you have already put in one "hitch" in this old war. Here's hoping.

Sgt. Wadford is due back from furlough real soon, and I guess it is too darn soon to suit him. We'll wager that he had many a "grand and glorious time" even at that. No foolin'.

Mess Sgt. Holland is out of the hospital at last. Glad to have you with us again, "Frog!"

Pfc. Ferguson is on an emergency furlough and will rejoin the outfit in a short while. Hurry up O-O-Otha. Pardon my stuttering.

It is rumored that Cpl. William B. Smith, our Battalion clerk and "Jawbone" paymaster, will leave us soon. "Smitty" is going on D. E. M. L., it is said, and we all wish you the best of good luck and success in your new undertakings. Drop us a line, will you "Smitty?"

Corporal "Tommy" Thompson, (you know the most talked about athlete in the post), is taking advantage of his reenlistment furlough. We miss you lots Tommy, and so does our battalion ball team. Hurry back, Vera.

Company "H"

Company "H" is now engaged in field demonstrations with the 50-calibre gun and the antiaircraft gun with the Matthews mount. "Here's hoping that we get as efficient with these implements of war as we have already become with the regular Browning."

Acting Corporal Stephenson is getting into his stride fast. He was out pitching ball with Bugler Blythe yesterday and told him if he threw it too hard he would turn him in.

Company "G"

The bayonet man, Woods, has the highest score in the 29th Infantry, having made 100 per cent. in 36 seconds. It may be the best in the army. We hope so, Woods.

Well, we have received some more good looking soldiers from Recruit Center, which gives us a total of 197 enlisted men. This makes a large company and lots of help for the older soldiers.

Some one in the 1st Platoon asked Pvt. Horton to sing "Sonny Boy," and Pvt. Horton said, "Why, I can't sing now, I've fractured my wrist playing Pinochle."

83RD FA

Headquarters Battery

Gunners instruction, intensive training and what-not has had ye scribe snowed under for several weeks, hence the silence. The Red-Legs are making a fine showing in the baseball league this season, under the guidance of 1st Lt. "Mike" Buckley.

Last Sunday the hardest blow arrived at the hands of Carnes and crew of the 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., mostly said Mr. Carnes. He gave the Caisson Riders their first complete row of blanks for this year.

Since our return from thte hike, many new faces are in our midst. Daily recruits are coming in from all parts, even as far north as North Highlands. How about that Boob?

Fuzzy Douglas, the Artillery's one and only representative along the padded mit row, is now spending a 90-day leave over Mississippi way, battling his way to some nice mazuma. Luck to you Fuzzy and we all hope that your return shall find you again ready and willing to mix and mingle with Benning's best.

Jim Niblett left last week end for three days' tour of LaGrange but was caught in the rain on 5th street and his trip was cut rather short. See the Supply sergeant Jim and either draw an umbrella or raincoat one.

Frog Fourroux, the Louisiana sheik, is in love, and how? Every night there is an attraction some place, as Frenchy dolls up and catches the breeze some place. Why not let your buddies in on the secret, Fourroux.

Lights were clicking, no sales were being rung up last week-end, when La-Pine got his wires all crossed up in town. Better to have no date at all Doug, than to have three all at one time.

Pfc. Bolton wired in last week, requesting an extension on his present leave, extending best wishes to the entire army. Why not send in a night letter next time, Bolton?

Sweet memories still linger of the hike down Albany way from the daily arrival of letters. How about that Beanpole? Why is it that some birds are always so fortunate. Dod said that it was not luck, it was Cole's sweet disposition.

Sgt. Roper has had the old fish market on Front street remodeled and is patiently awaiting the arrival of September, and from latest reports all is in readiness for the grand opening.

Cards were received last week from W. T. Pleus, an ex Redleg, who is now over in Hamburg, Germany, stating a wonderful time was being enjoyed over schooners of ye olden days.

RECRUIT CENTER NOTES

According to "Swazy" and not "Hoyle," Recruit Center is worthy of being heard from, so here 'tis. Corporal "Ike" Issacson is acting very independent, and its discovered that being a member of the "Independents," a baseball team here, accounts for his queer "come ons" and acts. Also, Corporal "Tom" Tomberlin is spending considerable time in the city of Columbus these days. Must be a "goil." And we have with us an artist none other than Acting Sergeant Loeb Mintz. I mean he's just wicked with the pencil, or what is it an artist uses besides a brush?

After due consideration Pvt. Frank M. Sparkman decided to take on another stack in the Medical Detachment (Vet. Service.) He surely should know his

(Continued on page 9.)

We Rent Furniture

We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.

Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.

The Hecht Furniture Co.

115 12th St. Phone 1188

And Now CHEVROLET

Announces

TWO NEW MODELS

a Six in the price range of the four!

of America's most Popular motor car.

It is on display at our salesrooms.

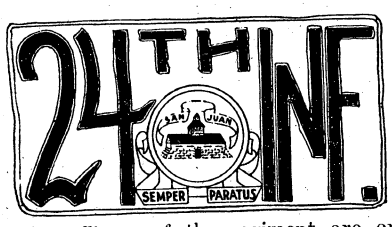
Over one Million since January first

Ask for Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.



The officers of the regiment are organizing a recreation camp so as to have a base of operations for fishing trips and week-end picnics. This is an excellent idea and should prove an attractive change from "Old Man Routine." Captain Helsley is spending most of his spare time looking over desirable sites on the reservation. He stresses three requisites for the site, its attractiveness, availability and convenience of water, and accessability by automobile. When selected, work will immediately be started fixing up the site to make it attractive.

The Regimental Baseball League has just ended a closely contended schedule, with Company "E" and Service Company tied for the championship, each dropping but one game. This well shows the excellent morale and spirit of the men, as both companies are spending long hours on the rifle range. A three-game series was arranged between the two teams to decide the final championship and was played on Gowdy Field before a large and enthusiastic crowd. The first game was won by the hard hitting men from the stables by the score of 11 to 6. The mounted men started off with a rush which netted them ten runs in the first two innings. Nothing loth Company "E" played steady and consistant ball and slowly accumulated their six hard earned runs. The first day's batteries were: Service Company, Goldsby and Williams; Company "E," Lee and Johnson. The second game was more closely contested and was neck and neck all the way through. No sooner would one team manage to get a one or two run lead then the other would begin to score. Company "E" was fighting hard to win the game and tie the series. They shifted their players about and sent in relief pitchers and pinch hitters but to no avail. The Service Company were all set to win the cup and this they did. The final score was 8-7, favor of Service Company. Batteries for the game were: Service Company, Martin and Williams; Company "E," Haywood, Melvin and Johnson.

We congratulate both teams for their good spirit and hard work. The high grade of sportsmanship was typical of the regiment of which all are proud.

As this goes to press the 2nd Bn. with Detachments of the Service Company and the 1st Bn. Companies are completing their annual target practice. From all indications it looks like an exceptionally high percentage of qualified men will be made.

The Headquarters Company is hard at work rebuilding their stables and corral.

TANK NOTES

War Department orders dated August 13, 1929 changed the designation of the 15th Tank Battalion to the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment, (Light). The company designations were also changed; Company A, Captain Louis J. Pampka, commanding will hereafter be known as Company D. Company B, (Heavies), Captain James Taylor, commanding, is now Company E, and Company C, Est Lt. W. A. Smith, commanding, is Company F.

To the best of our knowledge there will be no immediate change in the personnel of the Battalion or in its organization tables. It will continue its mission to act as a Tank demonstration unit for classes of the Infantry School.

Just recently a new light tank came to Fort Benning. It is the product of Ordnance Corps engineers and is officially known as Model T1E1. When it was demonstrated to the officers of the garrison they marvelled at its powers, its increased speed and cruising radius. Since then we have had eye witness accounts of the wonders of a new tank built by Mr. Christie. It is said that this tank will maintain a speed of seventy miles per hour on an improved road and will cross difficult terrain at forty-two miles per hour. There is here at this post a six-wheeled Chevrolet truck that will do almost anything but swim. All these recent developments emphasize the importance of motor vehicles in traniing for modern warfare. They promise mobility little dreamed of some few years ago. Consequently officers throughout the service are talking and studying motorization, mechanization and reorganization Tanks are in the limelight and bid fair to remain there for sime time to come.

It is the plan of the battalion to keep abreast of these developments; to get here, at Fort Benning, as many pieces of modern equipment as can possibly be obtained and to demonstrate them to officers of the school. A test of the new Ordnance light tank is now being conducted by Captain Lampke. The Model T1E1 Cargo Carrier on the T1E1 Tank chasis, recently arrived, will also be tested and demonstrated. The Medium A Tank will be here in time to be demonstrated to the incoming classes of the school.

The constructing quartermaster has promised us new barracks by December and we hope to move into these attractive quarters as a special Christmas gift to the Battalion.

In the meantime, training in Tank Marksmanship and Tank Combat practice, occupies our main efforts. Six of the Battalion's officers and a detail of motor mechanics and truck drivers are on duty with the 29th Infantry in connection with the reorganizational tests now being conducted by that unit.

The thud of the football can be heard on the drill field every evening. Tank swimmers are all primed for the Post meet to be held on September 2nd. Our nom de guerre, "Terrible Tankers," will remain with us, although the War Department has chosen to officially name us the 2nd Battalion 1st Tank Regiment (Light).

INFANTRY SCHOOL DETACHMENT

Captain William R. Brent has returned to the organization after enjoying a visit to his home at Marlborough, Mass. With the Greencord baseball team in the thick of the pennant fight the addition of Capt. Brent will be a big asset in keeping the fighting spirit at fever heat, during the final dash to the wire.

Lt. R. C. Lane has been assigned to the Tank School at Fort Meade, Maryland. The officers and men of the Infantry School Detachment extend their best wishes and wish him the best of luck at his new station.

It has been requested that the party who has been spending his afternoons sleeping in the big easy chair at the Service Club, bring over his sheets and blanket.

"S" "G" White's name will not appear in print again after this edition. Too much publicity has almost been his ruin. Besides breaking into society, he has begun using violet perfume and writing love sonnets.

"Pop" Heckert and Hank Gowdy are two men that won't stay down. After every one had called him through, Pop came out a few days ago, took his place in the I. S. D. line and banged out three hits out of four times up. Hank stepped in up at Boston a few days ago and rapped out four safe ones out of four trips up. You just can't tell about these old-timers.

CORRECTION—No, Mrs. Murphy, it was not your husband, it was the other Spud Murphy, who had the U-Drivt-It slip in his pocket.

FINANCE DIGEST

This department of the service has withheld all knowledge of it's activities from Fort Benning for a very long time. Publicity must be allowed the "We Pay You" gang.

Corporal C. Andrews and Pvt. 1cl. "Bill" Garrentt have returned to the post, after an absence of about seven months. They attended the Finance School at Washington from February to May and then hied off to summer training camps at Fort Screven, Georgia, and Camp McClellan, Alabama, respectively. They are now in full form for hard work for the winter.

Pvt. 1cl. Roy Camp returned from D. S. at Fort Moultrie, S. C., on August 1st. Roy appears to have obtained a new lease on life by being allowed to depart from Benning for a few weeks.

Corporal Cullen Yarborough is on D. S. at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and will not return to this station until after September 15th. The men who are detailed to attend the Finance School will not have an opportunity to see what advantage or detriment summer training camps did to our Cullen.

Master Sergeant Goldstein is on furlough, Technical Sergeant Carlson is going on furlough when he re-enlists next month, and Staff Sergeant Harry Young wants a furlough. Not much hope for the rest.

7th Engineers

In one of the biggest upsets of the year the Engineers took the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, into camp by the one-sided score of 12 to 3. Credit for this victory belongs to Good, who pitched masterful baseball and allowed but eight scattered hits. Good had plenty of stuff on the ball and received air-tight support in the field. McCarty celebratted his return to the lineup with three timely hits that counted heavily in the scoring. Zlotnik showed a pretty piece of fielding when he dashed in from left field and intercepted Rowe's wild throw to third and tossed out a 1st Bat. runner, who attempted to advance on the overthrow.

The second platoon of this company has developed the art of medicine ball racing to such a degree of perfection that they figure they are unbeatable at the pastime. Any platoon team in the post that disputes their claim will be accommodated with a match if they will get in touch with Lieut. Daley.

Range season starts the 26th of this month and the gang already have a high mark to shoot at. Sgt. Kingsbury qualified with the Engineer rifle team with the splendid score of 330. Sgt. McCarty led the company on the .22 range with a score of 147 out of a possible 150.

The city of Covington, Georgia was honored over the week-end with a visit from Blevins, Rowe, Perkins, Zlotnik and Briner.

RECRUIT CENTER

(from page 8)

army after serving for (24) twenty-four years, with numerous and all kinds of troops.

ALL-STAR FIGHT CARD TUESDAY NIGHT, AUGUST 27

48 ROUNDS OF FIGHTING

Doughboy Stadium Arena---First Bout 8: O'Clock

GREATEST FISTIC MENU EVER PRESENTED AT FORT BENNING

Featuring

"Red" Keenan vs. "Battling" Kelly
Pinky Phillips vs. "Red" Wilson
Blondy Parker vs. Jinger Jernigan
Buddie Brault vs. Jack Pritchard
Corn Griffin vs. Maud Farley

PRELIMINARIES

Pete Causey—Grumpy Gordy—"Kid" Pequot—Sailor White—Raven Poe—Saginaw Seeley—Flash Boyd—Mikado Henderson

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c

RINGSIDE $1.00

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

BENNING'S GREATEST FISTIC MENU TO BE HELD AT DOUGHBOY STADIUM TUESDAY NIGHT

By Al Durden

The feature fistic event of Benning's fight history will be presented at the Doughboy Stadium arena Tuesday night. An all-star fight program has been arranged by the Athletic Association, featuring forty-eight rounds of boxing between the best civilian and army fighters in the South.

A glance at the headliners on the coming card assures the followers of the sock and slam pastime that there will be plenty of action during the aforementioned forty-eight rounds of leather pushing.

Corn Griffin, Tanker heavyweight, has been matched with Maud Farley, of Columbus. Benning fight fans are backing Griffin to win. In his former fights here he has won high favor with the fans with his ability to end his battles by the kayo verdict. In meeting Farley, he will meet a veteran, who knows the game. Farley has fought such boys as Big Boy Peterson, Big Ben Pound and other good heavies. Bull Montondon, Griffin's trainer, suffered a knockout at the hands of Farley in a Columbus ring before Montondon retired from active ring service.

In his last two battles here, "Red" Keenan fully demonstrated that he was back in old time fighting trim. First, Bennie Regan went down for the count in one round, next came Red Alford of Birmingham. Keenan battered him from pillar to post for eight rounds. "Red" will have a chance to prove that he is right when he mixes with Battling Kelley for eight rounds next Tuesday night. Kelly holds a win over Eddie Burl, the boy who tumbled Keenan from the ladder. A win for Keenan over Kelley, means that he gets another shot at Burl in the near future.

Jinger Jernigan and Blondy Parker will attempt to settle their feud over the six round route. On two previous occasions these two welters have gave fight fans here a real treat, with the first fight a draw and Parker winning a close decision in the second. Both boys are getting into top form for the coming fight. This bout alone will be well worth the price of admission.

Pinky Phillips, fresh from four ring victories in the Land of Sunshine and Aligators, has been matched with "Red" Wilson for six rounds. Wilson and Pinkey have long had a misunderstanding that has craved action. We often hear of grudge fights, but on this occasion there is no doubt about this battle being a genuine grudge battle. What, when or why, it is not known where it began but both boys requested that they be allowed to settle their misunderstanding before the audience barehanded, ruff and tumble, but as such things are unheard of they will do all of the damage possible with the four ounce mittens.

"Kid" Pequot, formerly of the 29th Infantry but now a member of the Greencord outfit, mixes with Young Sewell of Columbus. Fans who saw Pequot take the nod over Phillips and other good boys a few months ago, are confident that Sewell will be in for a busy session of glove throwing.

Raven Poe and Saginaw Seeley have been rematched by request. In their last meeting Seeley took the nod by a hair. Poe is confident he will stop the Medico in the coming bout.

Tut Tut Taylor, Medico bantam, will appear on the card after a lay-off of a few months. Taylor is matched with Happy Hines over the four round trail. Botth these boys are fast and hard hitters and are crowd pleasers.

A battle that is attracting quite a bit of interest is the Boyd-Henderson match. Flash Boyd is the undisputed middleweight champion of the 24th Infantry, and he is plenty good. He is by far the best fighter turned out by the Happy Heart regiment since the days of Battling J. D. Boyd is matched with Mikado Henderson, colored middleweight of Memphis, Tenn. Henderson has shown his wares on preliminary cards in Memphis, Birmingham and Atlanta, and if we can judge from newspaper clippings, Flash will have to step the limit if he travels with the Memphis battlers.

Get that ticket now. The prices for this feature fight card are the same as any other fight. The peanut gallery as is always four-bits. The last two rows ringside at six-bits. Close ups and ringside, $1.00 per each.

"TIME OUT!"
You've got to—pause and refresh yourself
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA CO.
Telephone 360

OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

BA-109

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 3

"Pair off and find your buddies. Our first exercise is to bob across the pool as you did in the last lesson."

"Now let us make a review of a few exercises which we had last time."

"First glide three times."

"Next glide and flutter across three times."

"Now get up on the pier and do your arching and flutter."

"Now, we are ready to learn something now. We have so far hydroplanes with propellers. Nature gave us a fine pair of oars in our arms. Let us glide first, then reach out slowly with one arm. Then let the arm with the palm straight, sweep down hand almost to the hip. Next relax, carry the elbow high and out wide. Reach forward lazily. Now one arm is forward while the other is back. I shall try to show you what I mean. (Demonstration.) Now glide and row yourself across the pool with the oars alternating. Repeat three times."

Our next exercise is a combination of the hydroplane glide, the propeller and the oars. This combination is difficult at first but becomes easy with practice. Keep your attention this time on the propeller and the rest will take care of itself. I shall show the combination. (Demonstration.) Now repeat three times.

Our last exercise this morning is a combination of the breathing and the flutter kick. Come over in shallow water. Lie on your stomachs, put your hands on the bottom and start the flutter. Let the water catch right below the eyes. Now exhale completely through the nose. Turn your head to the side which seems most natural and take a gulp of air through the mouth. Continue this for about two minutes. I will show you. (Demonstration.) Now everybody try it. Don't poke your head up, turn it to the side! Don't put your head away down. Let the water break around your eyes! Good.

Find your buddies! That is all for today.

FOOTBALLL?

Now that the baseball season is about to come to a close, our minds automatically turn toward football. Already there are many who have started the passing and kicking practice. Dig out that old pigskin!

GREENCORDS INCREASE LEAD IN LEAGUE RACE

The pace-setting, hard-fighting I. S. D. team bowed to the Mike Halloran scrappers last Friday, for their second defeat of the season. It was awful, when one comes to figure that there were only two earned runs during the entire game, one made by each team. The final count was 6-1 with the First Bats hilarious over their victory, while the Greencords were trying to figure why all the bad breaks had to come at one time.

At times it seemed that the base umpire wanted to give it away, but we figure that he was calling them like he saw them, he being an honest man, as umpires run.

Duff left the game in the third inning, though he was not batted out. His team was not supporting him in the least. Snappy Bennett relieved him at the mound and pitched wonderful ball for the Detachmenteers for the remainder of the game.

The hits were even, Stevens giving up eleven, while Duff gave up three and Bennett eight. Bone-headed playing in the center field lot was the cause of much of the I. S. D.'s distress. Maybe they will have some luck the next time.

After the First Battalion had defeated the Greencords Saturday and left the Artillery on the top, the Second Battalion came out Sunday to trounce the Mickey outfit, when Lefty Carnes pitched himself up a few files with a shutout ball game. He allowed only six hits and they were well scattered through the frames. At no time was he in danger of allowing a run until the ninth inning, when a hit, a walk and another hit made it look dangerous, but Penton, who had hit the last safety, ran like a recruit on the bases and was out after he tried to stretch a single into a double with the bases drunk. Heads up will win more ball games.

Paschal, Artillery's star twirler, was slammed for two successive triples by the first two men to face him, Barron and McAllister. Holloway relieved him and allowed only four hits for the remainder of the game. They all came in one frame and were coupled with errors to allow all four of them to account for runs.

The final score was 6-0, with Carnes frowning his appreciation of the applause that the stands handed nim.

The Tanks let the I. S. D. defeat them in a rather loose game Tuesday

(Continued on page 11.)

See Our Display

of

FISHING TACKLE

Post Exchange

MAIN BRANCH

Fort Benning, Ga.

GARRISON SWIMMING MEET TO BE HELD SEPT. 2ND

The annual Garrison Swimming Meet will be held at Russ Pool, Monday, September 2, 1929, commencing at 9.00 A. M. The following units will enter teams.

2nd Bn., 1st Tank Regiment (light).
83rd Field Artillery Battalion.
Infantry School Detachment.
1st Battalion, 29th Infantry.
2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry.
Special Units, 29th Infantry.
Special Units, The Infantry School.

A beautifully engraved silver trophy will be presented the winning organization. Individual winners of the first three places will be presented medals.

With swimming now ranking as one of the garrison's foremost sports, it is predicted that Post swimming records that might have stood for several seasons may be wrecked in the coming meet. The records are kept by Lt. W. C. Smith, who is in charge of Russ Pool. They can be broken only in a regular Garrison Swimming Meet.

The following will consist of the events in the order named: 400 Yd. Relay; 100 Yd. Breast Stroke; 50 Yd. Free Style; 400 Yd. Free Style; 100 Yd. Back Stroke; 100 Yd. Free Style; Fancy Diving; 200 Yd. Free Style; 300 Yd. Medley Race.

The feature event of the meet, the Medley Relay, will cover a three hundred yard course, three men to a team, each man to swim 100 yards. In the first hundred yards the back stroke will be used; for the second 100 yds. the breast stroke will be used, and for the third hundred yards any stroke other than back or breast stroke may be used.

The meet will be governed by the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union. All entries will be turned to the officer in charge of Russ Pool before noon August 31 1929.

LADIES' LIFE SAVING CLASS

A life saving class composed of twenty-one ladies of Fort Benning, have completed the course of instruction in life saving at Russ Pool. Members of the class have been taught the methods by which those in peril of drowning may be rescued with least possible risk to the rescuer.

Under the expert instruction of Lt. W. C. Smith and his competent staff of instructors, swimmers of ordinary ability have been taught, in case of necessity, to bring a drowning person to safety. The program for the course follows: Side stroke, shallow arm pull. Treading water and floating. Reverse or vertical scissors kick, used in swimming on back, with hands extended forward, finger tips out of the water. Surface, rear and underwater approaches. Resuscitation. Hair or Arm-lock Carry. Cross Chest Carry. Review back stroke, using reverse or vertical, scissors kick. Head carry. Tired Swimmer's Carry. Retrieving objects. Resuscitation practice. Front strangle hold release. Back strangle hold release. Breaking two people apart, rescuing one. Retrieving weight and objects. Fireman's and Saddleback Lift. Method of lifting person from tank or on to flat. Support clothed person one minute.

The members of the Ladies Class are: Mrs. A. F. Knight, Mrs. A. Brandt, Mrs. A. W. Petrosky, Mrs. Gilbert Cook, Mrs. Squires, Mrs. Eames, Mrs. Skelton, Mrs. Brine, Mrs. Ware, Mrs. Kovarik, Mrs. Wall, Mrs. Sankey, Mrs. Rhodes, Mrs. Hazlehurst, Mrs. Roosma, Misses Martha Petrosky, Adair Cook, Elizabeth Archer, Elizabeth Rhett, Marion Phelps, Louise Wright.

SPORTOPICS

By Al

When two wonders come to pass in one evening we just reach for a pencil and start broadcasting.

Last Tuesday afternoon in the ball game between the Greencords and the Tankers, the Tankers had a man on first and second and one out. Grantham was on first and Miller on second. Smith singled to Heckert in right field. Miller dug for third and turned third headed for home. Seeing the throw would beat him, he turned back towards third. Grantham passed second and dug for third. Grady Tolle took the throw, dashed to third, tagged Grantham to the right of the bag and without moving tagged Miller, who for some un known reason was off the bag, completing one of the most freakish double plays ever witnessed here.

The second wonder was when the Columbus Royals played the Happy Hearts of the 24th Infantry in the second game. Fans were surprised to see one of the Royal players, who had only one hand. An outfielder with one hand, and this same player hit one of Vance's slants for a clean hit. How does he do it?

Tommie Thompson, star receiver for the Kells, has been signed by the Pensacola club of the Southeastern league. Although we hate to see Tommie go from our midst, still our hopes and wishes are that he makes good in the big noise. And there is no reason why Tommie won't make good. He is a good hittter, a heady player and one of the fastest players Benning ever teurned out.

GREENCORDS INCREASE LEAD IN LEAGUE RACE

(Continued from page 10.)

afternoon, 7-5. It was a slugfest from the opening gong, both sides collecting ten hits each.

Red Lindsey was doing mound duty for the Tankers while Wee Grady Tolle performed for the Green Cords. The most outstanding part of the game is related this week in Al's Sportopics, and there you will find out about that freak doubleplay.

Wednesday afternoon, the First Battalion went out there with malice in their hearts, and won from the Artillery bunch to the tune of 7-4. Buckley was hear-broken over the defeat, and rightfully so, for had it not been for the many hits that were singing around his ears, the score might have been different.

Captain Halloran wis highly elated over his victory, his team slamming three pitchers for a total of thirteen hits, while the sad Lefty Abrahams let the Buckley crew down with a measly six and Buckley collected three of them.

These few miscues and base hits have left the I. S. D. on top of the league, with a good outlook for victory in the last half. If they defeat the Artillery in one of the remaining two games to be played, they will have it all about clinched.

Tolle will have his hands full, for it is a well known fact that he has only one good pitcher, and that is himself. Of course, Duff and Bennett are good for a while, but they have been in the game too long to last. The combination of the two agaist the Artillery might result in a win, but those cassion riders certainly do hit the ball.

. . . in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD... and yet THEY SATISFY

JUDGES OF HORSES must look for many different "points." Judges of good tobacco look for taste—and taste alone.

And Chesterfield gives you, not several tastes mixed, but one . . . mildness, flavor, delightful aroma, welded together into one distinctive tobacco "character" — smoothly blended and cross-blended, the standard Chesterfield method. Three words say it all:

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

© 1929, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

POLICE TO FIRE AT "BANDIT" TARGET IN PERRY SCHOOL

What is virtually the Police General Staff in the war against gun-men will meet at Camp Perry, Ohio, when the National Rifle and Pistol Matches open there this fall. For several years a special police small-arms sc. been conducted at Perry under the guidance of officers of the Army, but this year the courses will be more varied than ever before.

The National Rifle Association, from its headquarters in this city, has announced that the police of the principal cities have displayed more interest than ever before. To date there are twice as many enrollments in the school and in the special police pistol matches than last year.

An investigation by the association has brought to light some illuminating facts regarding the neglect of marksmanship by the responsible heads of many city police departments. In some cities there is no provision whatever for police pistol practice. In others the allowance of ammunition is so small that there might as well be none at all. In one of the largest of the eastern cities each policeman is allowed five rounds for practice—five practice shots a year for a man who may be called upon at any time to defend his own life or the lives of others.

N. R. A. officials assert that only a few cities can give the policeman who qualifies as a pistol expert an increase in pay, in spite of the fact that the Army has set an example for many years past by giving its enlisted men a bonus for good shooting. Many letters have been sent by the association to police commissioners and police chiefs within the past year, with gratifying results.

The police course at Perry includes the use of tear gas, and this year, for the first time, the police will be instructed in the use of the Thompson sub-machine gun and a new weapon which few policemen have ever seen. This is the gas-gun, an arm designed especially for police use which its advocates say will prove to be a valuable aid against gangsters.

While many policemen take part in one or more of the other matches at Perry, most of them spend all of their time on their own range. There they fire at targets which differ radically from those seen on the other ranges. The police specialize in moving targets. Their most difficult course is fired on what has been nicknamed the bobbing bandit range. On this range are a number of hidden targets which are brought into view when the range officer pulls one of a number of levers behind the firing line. The men who fire on this range have no idea of where the targets will appear, for they are irregularly placed. One man fires at a time. At the range officer's signal he starts walking forward with a pistol. As he proceeds targets resembling the general outline of a man suddenly appear at all sorts of ranges; some so close he can almost touch them, back up others fifty yards away. The policeman must fire quickly for each target remains in sight for only a few seconds.

There are also classes in personal combat and disarming movements. Frequent conferences are held at which police officers exchange views and make plans for improving the marksmanship of their subordinates. Every man who attends the police school returns to his home town to act as an instructor of other members of the force.

LT. McDONALD PROMOTED

First Lieutenant Raymond McDonald, Infantry, (Tanks) now on duty with the Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment, was promoted to Captain August 4, 1929, as announced in special orders published by the War Department.

LT. GEE ORDERED TO FORT BENNING

Lt. Clough F. Gee, at present on duty at Schofield Barracks, has been ordered to this station as assistant to the Quartermaster.

The Infantry is the basic arm. Although certain functions charged to other arms and branches seem to have only an indirect influence on the operations of the Infantry, all must be imbued with the primary importance of the success of the Infantry.

Tactical rides or walks are exercises in which a series of military situations are stated and solved on the ground, the troops being imaginary.

CHAPELS

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Sunday at 9:30 a. m. Bible School; classes for all ages. Special class for men and women.

Sunday at 10:30 a. m. public worship. This service is non-sectarian Good music. All are welcome.

First Sunday each month commemoration of the Lord's Supper in connection with the morning worship.

Ladies' Chapel Guild meets in the Chapel on the first Monday each month.

JEWISH SERVICES

5:45 P. M.—Each Sunday evening in the Catholic Chapel conducted by Rabbi Frank L. Rosenthal, Chaplain.

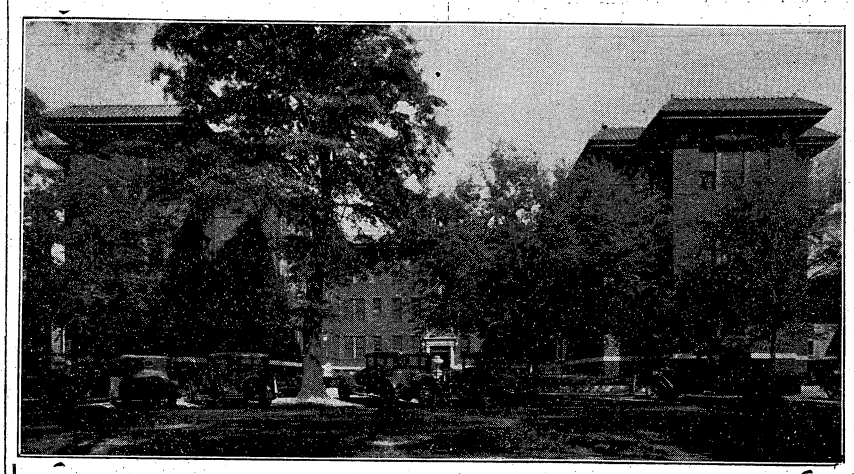
TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY SERVICES

10:00 A. M.—Sunday School.
11:00 A. M.—Morning Worship.
5:30 P. M.—Evening Worship conducted by Chaplain Alexander W. Thomas.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna, U. S. Army.

Sundays:
8 a. m. Low Mass.
9 a. m. Sunday School.
10 a. m. Mass, sermon and Benediction.
Daily, 7:30 a. m., Low Mass.
Confessions before Masses.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co.

Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill
Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

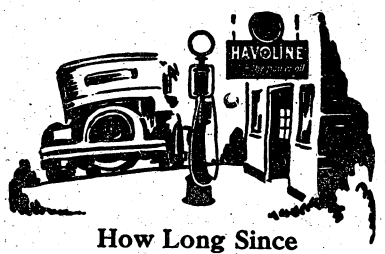
410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding, Manager



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring
Satisfaction Guaranteed
POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Infantry School News

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., AUGUST 30, 1929 Number 50

INFANTRY SCHOOL POLO TEAM GETS VALUABLE EXPERIENCE ON RECENT TRIP

In an interview with Fort Benning's Polo representative, Major Chas. B. Lyman, an interesting account of the recent trip of the Benning polo team, wherein it made its initial appearance in National Polo, was obtained. To those who for various reasons have been unable to follow the course of the Infantry School's splendid polo team during its recent bid for national honors, a brief review of its own and allied activities will be of interest.

To begin with the intercircuit polo tournament is a national championship tournament, held annually under the auspices of the U. S. Polo Association and staged at a place designated by that body. This year the tournament was held at the Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, Ill.

For polo purposes the United States is divided into ten circuits, namely Eastern, South Eastern, Southern, Central, Rocky Mountain, South Western, Pacific Coast, North Western and the Far East.

During the polo season, tournaments are played within each circuit and the winner in that circuit is eligible to participate in the National Intercircuit tournament. No team, however, is allowed to carry more than 12 goals.

In the recent tournament at Onwentsia, Fort Benning (Southern Circuit) Fort Hoyle (Southeastern) Fort Leavenworth (Rocky Mountain) Midwick (Pacific) Oak Brook (Central) and Wichita Falls (South Western) were competing. It is interesting to note that three army and three civilian clubs won out in their respective circuits.

The Midwick team of the Pacific Coast Circuit, won the Inter-circuit championship for 1929 by defeating Oak Brook, of the Central circuit, in the final game on August 19. During this game Oak Brook, a twelve goal team, gave Midwick a 4 goal handicap. It appeared as though Oak Brook would be victorious as they were leading in the seventh period. However, due to an accident, the back of the Oak Brook team had to withdraw. This seemed to cause a turn in the game and the Midwicks finally won.

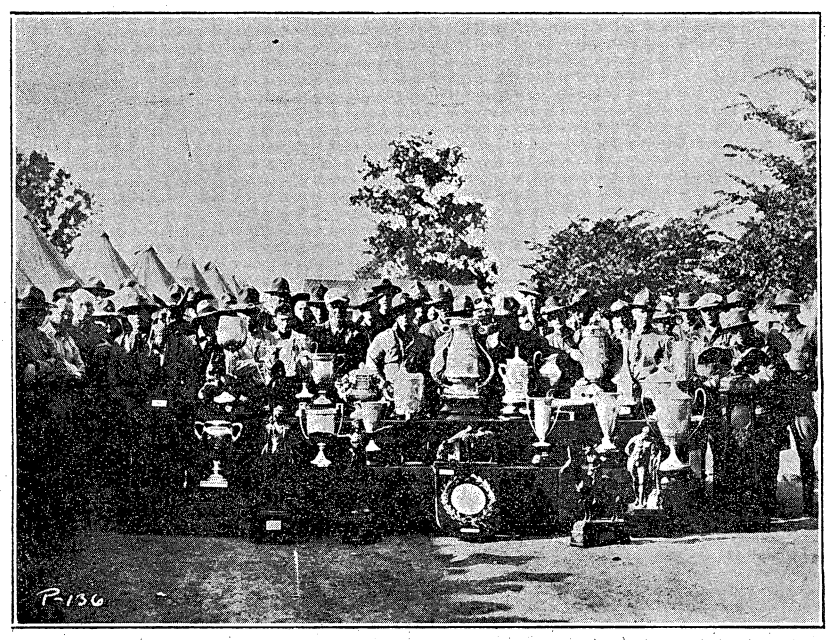
Immediately following the Inter-circuit tournament, the national 12 goal championship tournament was held at Oak Brook. This tournament is also under the U. S. Polo Association and is open to any team of 12 goals or less. There are no handicaps given in this tournament. Oak Brook-A, Oak Brook-B, Fort Hoyle, Fort Benning, Fort Leavenworth, Detroit, Midwick and Onwentsia clubs competed.

In this tournament the Infantry School team met and defeated Oak Brook-B, an 11 goal team, thereby advancing to the semi-finals, in which they were eliminated by the strong Fort Leavenworth 12 goal team. This put Fort Leavenworth in the finals against Midwick. The Midwicks were fortunate enough to again win, thereby making a clean sweep of both tournaments.

There is no doubt that army teams participating in polo tournaments against civilian teams are generally

(Continued on page 2.)

National Match Trophies



The National Rifle and Pistol Matches, where more bullets will fly than at any time since the nation was at war, will open Monday, Sept. 2, at Camp Perry, Ohio, and close Sept. 15. On the shores of Lake Erie, near Port Clinton, Ohio, a city of tents has risen to house the more than three thousand marksmen and range officials who are gathering from every section of the United States and many foreign countries.

The firing line at Camp Perry is two and one half miles long and boasts six hundred targets. There will be events for everyone, the schedule calling for 80 matches of one kind and another. The trophies, medals and cash prizes to be competed for are valued at more than $40,000.

There are forty-five trophies, requiring the use of a one-ton truck to haul them from the station to the club house, and are reported to be more numerous and valuable than those offered at any other national sporting event. The oldest trophies being the Leech and Wimbledon cups, presented in 1874 and the newest, the Sobel trophy, presented last year by Mr. Harry Sobel, of Toledo, Ohio.

One of the most highly prized trophies has no money value at all. It is competed for in the President's match and consists of a letter of congratulation bearing the signature of the President of the United States. This match yearly attracts more enthusiasts than any other. To be among the "President's hundred" is indeed an honor.

To make it truly an open competition for such valuable awards, the matches are divided into three classes, the .30 caliber rifle matches, the small bore matches, and the pistol matches. The many matches of the .30-calibre rifle all lead to the great National Individual, and National Team Matches. These matches were instituted by special act of Congress and bring out the top-notch marksmen of the whole country. It is in these matches that the best riflemen of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, National Guard and civilian clubs show the result of a whole year of training.

SIX-WHEEL TRUCK IN SUCCESSFUL TEST

A recent interesting test of the Department of Experiment was a cross country march of the six-wheel Chevrolet, 3-4-ton truck which is being tested by Capt. L. E. Wetherby. The test consisted in an attempt to follow the march of the two light tank companies of the 1st Tank Battalion, and proved successful.

The truck carried a full load and four passengers. The route was about two miles and a half in length and ran from the water tanks on the 1st Division road along the Ohio and Old Hickory roads to the top of Green hill. Here the roads were left and a compass route was taken across to Sackett hill on the 1st Division road. Several dry washes, pine

(Continued on page 2.)

LIEUTENANT COLONEL HUNT ASSIGNED TO 29TH INFANTRY

Recent orders from the War Department have assigned Lieutenant Colonel Elvid Hunt to duty with the 29th Infantry at this station. Colonel Hunt has until recently been on a tour of foreign service, being assigned to the Philippine Department.

LABOR DAY

September 2, 1929 (Labor Day), being a legal holiday, all duty except necessary guard and fatigue and such duties as are necessary in connection with the reception of the incoming student officers, will be suspended on that date.

TANKS MAKE REMARKABLE MARKSMANSHIP RECORD

In May of this year the Tank Battalion received an entirely new course in Tank Marksmanship. This course, as set forth in Training Regulations No. 420-270, was greeted with enthusiasm by Tankers because it included many new and interesting marksmanship problems. The bullseye targets used in the old course for Tank machine guns were replaced by standing and kneeling silhouettes, or arranged as to give the individual gunners a more practical target against which to direct their fire. The preliminary gunners test, a new feature of the course, required the individual Tankers to score a grade of not less than eighty per cent before they were permitted to fire on the range.

The course for personnel of the Light Tank companies included firing with the machine gun at searching and traversing targets at 1,000 inches; machine gun firing at silhouettes at 200, 300 and 500 yards; and firing with the 37mm subcaliber at bullseye targets at 200 and 300 yards. Those who attained a total combined score at these ranges equal to seventy-five per cent of a total possible score were required to fire not to exceed five rounds of 37mm service ammunition, for adjustment, at ranges varying from 700 to 1,100 yards.

The course for the personnel of the heavy company corresponded to that of the lights except that the six-pounder sub-caliber fire was delivered at 500 and 600 yards. The heavies did not fire service ammunition with the six-pounder cannon.

The results of the Battalion's firing using this new course are most gratifying. All but one man of the unit qualified, and of this number eighty-four per cent qualified as expert gunners. This is unquestionably a record in Tank Marksmanship.

High individual score was made by Corporal Allen P. Flanagan, Company "E," (Heavy.) Corporal Flanagan made the commendable score of 321 out of a possible 342 for the course. In keeping with the Battalion's plan to fittingly reward its outstanding gunners, the 1,000 inch range, constructed by the unit, will be named "Flanagan Range" for the period of one year, or until he is displaced as the best gunner in the unit. This must not be construed as a departure from the plan of permanently naming permanent ranges as set forth in Post Regulations. The 1,000 inch range, in question, is one constructed by the Battalion and used only for its markmanship firing. At present this range is known amongst Tankers as "Call Range." It was named in honor of Donald M. Call, formerly a corporal, 344th Battalion Tank Corps, who received the Congressional Medal of Honor for an act of exceptional bravery near Varrennes, in the St. Mihiel salient.

High score amongst the officers was made by Captain Kenneth G. Althaus, Plans and Training Officer, who secured a total of 366 out of a possible 392.

NEW SERVICE CALLS EFFECTIVE SEPT. 1

Effective at reveille September 1, 1929, the following list of service calls and instructions as to office hours,troop training and other activities will govern:

Reveille (except Sundays and holidays) except 24th Infantry—First call, 5:45 A. M.; march and reveille, 5:55 A. M.; assembly, 6:00 A. M.

Reveille, 24th Infantry (except Sundays and holidays)—First call, 5:30 A. M.; march and reveille, 5:40 A. M.; assembly, 5:45 A. M.

Mess call, breakfast (except Sundays and holidays), except 24th Infantry, 6:30 A. M.

Mess call, breakfast, 24th Infantry (except Sundays and holidays) 6:15 A. M.

Fatigue call (except Sundays and holidays), 7:00 A. M.

Sick call (except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays) 1:15 P. M.

Sick call (Saturdays) 10:30 A. M.

Drill—First call, 7:20 A. M.; assembly, 7:30 A. M.

Recall from drill and fatigue (except Sundays and holidays), 11:30 A. M.

Mail call, 11:15 A. M.

Mess call, dinner, 12:00 noon.

Fatigue call (except Sundays and holidays), 1:00 P. M.

Guard mounting (except 24th Infantry), First Call, 3:25 P. M.; assembly, 3:30 P. M.

Guard mounting (24th Infantry)—First call, 4:25 P. M.; assembly 4:30 P. M.

Mail call (except Sundays), 3:30 P. M.

Recall, fatigue (except Sundays), 4:30 P. M.

Retreat—First call, 4:50 P. M.; assembly, 5:00 P. M.

Mess call, supper, 5:30 P. M.

Tattoo, 9:30 P. M.

Call to quarters, 10:45 P. M.

Taps, 11:00 P. M.

Inspection, Saturday—First call, 8:50 A. M.; assemblv 9:00 A. M.

Sundays and holidays—Mess call, breakfast, 7:00 A. M.

Sick Call:

24th Infantry and stockade, 8:30 A. M.

All other units, 9:00 A. M.

Church call (Sundays only):

Catholic mass, 7:45 A. M.

Catholic mass (effective after October 1st), 9:45 A. M.

Protestant, 10:15 A. M.

Jewish, 3:30 P. M.

Office hours for all administrative offices and supply services will be from 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 noon, 1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M. on week days, and from 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 noon, on Saturdays.

Wednesday afternoon will, in general, be devoted by all organizations to athletic training, gymnastics and games pertaining to the various intra-mural, inter-mural and extra-mural schedules. For this purpose fatigue and special duty requirements will be reduced to minimum requirements and emergency calls.

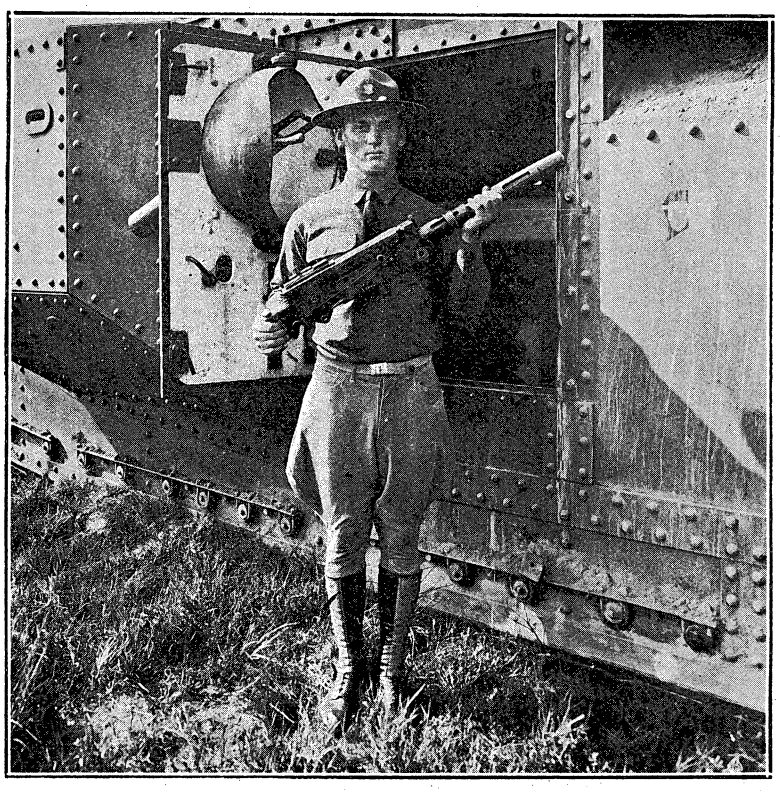
The Message Center at Headquarters the Infantry School will receive and deliver communications at 8:30 A. M., 10:30 A. M. and 2:30 P. M.

The laundry whistle will be blown at the following hours:

7:50 A. M., 3 short blasts; 8:00 A. M., 1 long blast; 11:30 A. M., 1 long blast; 12:00 noon, 1 long blast; 12:50 P. M., 3 short blasts; 1:00 P. M., 1 long blast; 4:30 P. M., 1 long blast.

The attention of all concerned is directed to General Orders No. 49, Headquarters, the Infantry School, September 1, 1926.

HIGH MARKSMANSHIP SCORE



Corporal Allen P. Flanagan, Company "E," (Heavy.) Corporal Flanagan made the commendable score of 321 out of a possible 342 for the course.

ATTACHED TO I. S. D.

First Lieutenant Francis H. A. McKeon, Infantry, who was recently assigned to this station, has been attached to the Infantry School Detachment for duty.

INFANTRY SCHOOL POLO TEAM GETS VALUABLE EXPERIENCE ON RECENT TRIP

(Continued from page 1.)

handicapped to start with. In the inter-circuit tournament, mounts came to the front. Speed, handiness and condition of mounts added greatly to the winning of the tournament.

Looking over the records of the games played in the tournament it is of interest to note that practically all games were generally won in the last two periods. Civilian teams always have a large reserve of fast and fresh ponies to throw into the game, while the army has to continue with the same old war horses.

According to Major Lyman the Infantry School polo team, although unable to win its game in the inter-circuit tournament, had the opportunity of not only observing, but participating in fast polo and as a result gained a vast amount of experience which will be of considerable value in the future, to both the individuals who competed, and the garrison as a whole.

COLONEL BERRY'S SON COMMISSIONED

One of the latest additions to the roster of American army officers is that of 1st Lieut. Daniel J. Berry, son of Colonel Daniel J. Berry, commanding officer of the Special Units of the Infantry School.

Lieut. Berry received his pre-medical course at Campion College, Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, where he was a member and 1st captain of the junior R. O. T. C. Later entering St. Louis University, he continued in the R. O. T. C., medical section, of that institution. Upon graduation in June of 1928, Lieut. Berry was commissioned in the medical reserve and served a twelve month's internship at Fitzsimmons General Hospital. After completing his service as an interne, Lieut. Berry was recommended for, and accepted a commission as 1st Leut. medcal corps, regular army. Recent orders direct him to report to the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C.

SIX-WHEEL TRUCK IN SUCCESSFUL TEST

(Continued from page 1.)

and scrub oak thickets and small ridges were traversed.

The truck had no difficulty in following the tank battalions and, in fact, had to wait several times for the tanks to move forward.

The four wheel truck of the same make which is also being tested was not given the same test because the route to be taken could be seen by inspection to be too difficult for such a vehicle to follow.

DETAILED AS INSTRUCTOR

Major Sereno E. Britt has been detailed as an instructor in the Academic Department, in addition to his other duties.

FOOTBALL!

With the arrival of the season for the gridiron sport, the first thing to consider is equipment. We have a new and complete line of RAWLINGS goods. They are indorsed by leading players and coaches of the country.

Phone 314 for representative with samples.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

CHEVROLET

SERVICE

All large institutions emphatically declare that their success has been attained through service. CHEVROLET joins with these institutions in giving service and is the reason for the popularity of CHEVROLET since its introduction to the motor world.

A Six in the price range of the four!

Ask For Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.

AT THE MOVIES

AUG. 30 TO SEPT. 6, INCL.

FRIDAY, AUG. 30

"IT CAN BE DONE," starring Glen Tryon with Sue Carroll in a farce comedy. Don't be bashful—kiss any girl you want to—be a success in love, in business or in anything. Come to the show tonight and see how "it can be done" in this howlingly hilarious comedy of blushes and big business. This laughable story deals with the adventures of a young man who is afflicted with a demoralizing inferiority complex. The struggles of this chap, with his handicap, are faithfully portrayed. They furnish a mirth provoking scene of riotously funny incidents that strike home with a pleasing and amazing force.

Pathe News No. 69.

SATURDAY, AUG. 31

"RINTY OF THE DESERT," starring Rin Tin Tin with Audrey Ferris, Carrol Nye, Paul Panzer and Otto Hoffman in a thrilling western story. Rinty is a desert dog who goes out in search of new friends, finds them, and then is falsely accused of attacking his master. Sentenced to be shot, the wonder dog makes a fight for life that will thrill you as never before.

"Roped In." Mermaid.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 1.

"THE BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS REY," employed the most notable cast

LILY DAMITA and ERNEST TORRENCE in "THE BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS REY" of stars ever gathered for one picture, including Raquel Torres, Don Alvarado, Lily Damita, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Henry B. Walthall, Mikhail Vavitch, Duncan Renaldo and others of note. This picture is a vivid filmization of Thornton Wilder's famous Pulitzer prize-winning novel portraying Peru at the height of her Colonial days. Hundreds of people appear in the spectacular cathedral and bridge scenes, and the big thrill is the wrecking of a great bridge over an Andean chasm, in which five people are plunged to the river below.

"The Eagle's Nest." Oddity.

M. G. M. News No. 3.

MONDAY, SEPT. 2.

"TRUE HEAVEN," starring George O'Brien and Lois Morgan in a gripping spy story based upon the last great war. "True Heaven" is something new in war pictures superbly enacted, brilliantly directed and skillfully produced.

"Jungle Goddess No. 1."

"Tiger's Shadow No. 10."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 3.

"HIS LUCKY DAY," starring Reginald Denny in a laugh riot. The story deals with the escapades of a young insurance man who tries to sell twin mansions to his prospective father-in-law. A band of society croks embroil the plot, and call for fast action and unusual mixups.

"The Radio." Sennett de Luxe.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4.

"MAN WHO LAUGHS," starring Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin in Victor Hugo's great romance. This dramatic story faithfully portrays England during Queen Anne's time in all its splendor and squalor. It is from the pen of one of the greatest authors of all time, superbly adapted to the screen, and make one of the most outstanding pictures of recent years.

M. G. M. News No. 4.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 5.

"LAST OF MRS. CHENEY," starring Norma Shearer in a story built around a beautiful London society female, "Raffles," and a member of nobility who loves her. There are gorgeous society displays and thrilling, snappy action from start to finish.

GEORGE BARRAUD & NORMA SHEARER in "THE LAST OF MRS CHEYNEY"

"Rest Day." Cameo.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 6.

"FALL OF EVE," starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Sterling Ford, in a screamingly funny farce about wayward husoands and suspicious wives who get their wires crossed on a week-end "whoopee" party. This hilarious comedy is a side-splitter; don't miss it.

"Grandma's House." Fables.

Pathe News No. 71.

24TH INFANTRY STARTS COMPANY COMPETITION

The Twenty-fourth Infantry, Colonel Paul C. Galleher, commanding, has instituted an area competition which will undoubtedly produce excellent results.

A general outline of the system to be followed indicates that in each battalion there will be such inspections during the month of each company area as will enable the battalion commander to select one company in each battalion, entitled to compete in the regimental competition. Further during the first week in each month the regimental commander will cause inspection to be made of the company areas of the companies selected by the battalion commanders as having the highest ratings for the preceding month.

Provided companies are using common mess halls, latrines, etc., each will be credited with equal ratings. In awarding these ratings care is to be exercised in giving due consideration to conditions beyond the control of the company commander and credit extended for efforts made by them to improve such conditions.

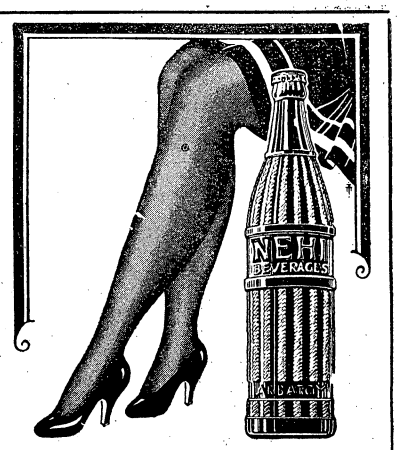
The following weights are to govern through the competition:

(a) Grounds, 20.
(b) Buildings, 40.
(c) Mess, 40.
(d) Menus, properly balanced diet and general quality of food, 15.
(e) Kitchen, general suitability, sanitation, cleanliness and neatness of the room and store room, and of all containers, furnishings and equipment therein, 10.
(f) Dining rooms, general suitability, cleanliness, neatness and attractiveness of the rooms and all tables, stools, table ware and other equipment and furnishings, 8.
(g) Service, attractiveness of the manner in which food is served, cleanliness of person and clothing of all cooks and kitchen police, 5.
(h) Appearance of men, cleanliness of person and neatness of uniform of the men of the organization present for meals, 2.

TO DUTY AT THE MILITARY ACADEMY

Captain Benjamin F. Caffey, an instructor at the Infantry School, has been detailed for duty at the United States Military Academy. Captain Caffey is due to report to the Superintendent of the Academy on August 20, 1929, for assignment to duty.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE



ON SALE at all CANTEENS

DON'T THROW THEM AWAY!

Just because clothing becomes soiled it isn't necessarily ruined. We are equipped to handle any kind of work and give 24 hour service.

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

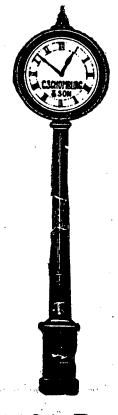
Fort Benning Representative: R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE



Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son

JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. August 30, 1929 No. 50

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. M. R. Kammerer ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

INFANTRY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

Up to the present time firing tests to determine the most satisfactory grouping of rifles, automatic rifles and machine guns, with reference to fire power only, have occupied the attention of those in charge of this important project. However, not unmindful of the fact that fighting capacity is also measured by shock power, mobility, flexibility, ease of control, battle life and many other factors less specific in character, experiments have also been conducted with various types of rifle companies, over varied terrain and under assumed tactical situations.

Having possibly arrived at tentative conclusions as to the size and composition of the company units, those in charge are confronted with the solution of the numerous tactical problems involved in such a reorganization. Company commanders will be called upon to test out their ability to control and move, under difficult situations, such units, as for instance, a company composed of two rifle platoons, an automatic rifle platoon and perhaps a machine gun platoon. Or maybe the newly organized company may consist of two rifle platoons and two automatic rifle platoons, or even three riflle platoons and one automatic rifle platoon.

The momentous problems of administration and supply have been held in abeyance, not to minimize their importance, but merely with the idea of attacking the new project from a tactical angle first.

Whatever the final decision the infantry is assured of one of the most powerful fighting machines in its history.

It is an approved maxim in war, never to do what the enemy wishes you to do, for this reason alone, that he desires it. A field of battle, therefore, which has been previously studied and reconnoitered, should be avoided, and double care should be taken where it has had time to fortify and entrench. One consequence deducible from this principal is, never to attack a position in front which you can gain by turning.—Napoleon XVI.

The co-ordinating principal which underlies the employment of the combined arms is that the mission of the infantry is the general mission of the entire force. The special missions of other arms are derived from their powers to contribute to the execution of the infantry mission.

In a war of march and maneouver, if you would avoid a battle with a superior army, it is necessary to entrench every night and occupy a good defensive position. Those natural positions which are ordinarily met with are not sufficient to protect an army against superior numbers without recourse to art.—Napoleon XVII.

Infantry is essentially the arm of close combat. This role rather than the nature of its armament distinguishes the infantry as a combatant arm. The armament of infantry is adapted to the execution of its mission as the arm of close combat.

Infantry fighting power rests upon the basis of morale. Superior morale furnishes the impulse that carries the infantry forward in attack and the staying power that holds it to positions in defense.

Infantry has two general means of action; Fire and movement. Infantry fights by combining these two means of action.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

HAY FEVER

Hay fever, as the name implies, is a disease caused by grass or hay, or more particularly by the pollen from grass, hay, flowers or weeds. The disease has three outstanding characteristics: (1) The well known symptims described below; (2) Its selectiveness, that is, one person in, say, a thousand will be affected while neighbors in identical circumstances remain normal; (3) The tendency of the disease to run in families, several members of a sensitive family being affected together.

The local symptoms of hay fever are caused when the irritating grass or other pollen which is floating in the air, comes into contact with the body. The parts usually affected are the eyes, nose and throat. A few people are so sensitive to the pollen that even the skin is affected. The eyes usually begin to "water" and burn and an inflammation sets in. The condition in the nose may vary from a slight tingling to an intolerable itching. A patient may sneeze until quite exhausted. The throat and roof of the mouth are irritated in much the same way. Some sufferers have itching and burning of the ears or even temporary deafness. The more severe types are often accompanied by asthma. This is more apt to be the case in "mouth breathers" as much of the pollen is drawn directly into the chest instead of being filtered out by the nose. Often a feeling of depression accompanies hay fever.

There are many pollens capable of causing this disease. Almost any plant may be the offender. Golden rod is popularly thought to be the most common cause but this is a mistake as many other plants are more apt to cause hay fever. Perhaps the rag weeds (short or long) produce more cases than any other plants in this climate. Hay of various kinds, corn, dandelion, various flowers, etc., are all frequent agents in hay fever production.

The well-known seasonal variation in the occurence of hay fever is explained by the different seasons of the year at which certain plants produce their pollen. The spring type of hay fever is produced by those plants which produce pollen in the spring and similarly the autumnal hay fever is traced to the plants whose pollen is ready to be blown about in the air in the fall.

There are three types of treatment of hay fever and all three are recommended as far as practicable. First, the avoidance of the pollne. This means staying away from the locality in which the offending pollen is produced. Few of us in the Army can leave the locality in which we are stationed during the hay fever season, but those who have the disease can at least do their best to stay away from places where the plant grows, which produces the pollen that irritated. Thus unnecessary automobile rides, hunting and fishing trips, walks in the woods are to be avoided by those susceptible to plants growing nearby. Of course here at Fort Benning we may have hay fever producing plants but often persons who are sufferers in other localities are unaffected here because they are sensitive only to plants that grow here to a limited extent or not at all.

The second form of treatment is local, that is applied to the affected parts of the body. Persons with bad tonsils, adenoids or other nasal obstructions are most apt to be affected than others. This points the way to one preventive measure. In some people the application of certain ointments to the nose, throat, or even eyes brings relief in that it retards the absorption of the pollen. Other medicines may be recommended from time to time by the physician.

The third treatment is the immunization against the pollen. A skin test made in the laboratory determines just what pollen is the cause of the hay fever. Thereafter injections of special extracts are made at intervals of two to seven days for a period of about two months. Of course this must be undertaken before the hay fever season starts. This treatment cannot be given after hay fever has started. One must wait until the next year. Every hay fever sufferer, if he does not already know, should have himself tested to ascertain which plant or plants affect him, even if he does not intend to take the specific treatment. But the test is to be made before the hay fever season.

Next week's topic: "HOT WEATHER BABIES."

ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRING AT NATIONAL MATCHES

This year's program contains an event which will be new to most of those at Perry. It is a course in anti-aircraft rifle fire leading up to a match in which service rifles will be fired at moving targets reselmbling the movement of a plane in the air. Capt. Sidney H. Nogrotto is in charge of the novel number and hopes to demonstrate that ground troops can be trained to protect themselves from attack by planes.

CONSERVATION OF WATER

The garrison water consumption is excessive. Sprinkling of lawns and gardens will be limited to actual needs. Carelessness in this connection has been noted, water being allowed to run too long or too freely, running away from the area intended to be watered and constituting a waste. All leaking faucets and valves will be reported to the Quartermaster immediately, phone 26.

INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS FIVE YEARS AGO

Movement to erect monument to "Calculator" commenced.

Colonel Howland sends subscription of 14th Infantry to Stadium and buys box for himself.

Gen. Wells delivers address on Defense Day.

Candidates for football team to draw equipment.

Infantry rifle team goes to Sea Grit.

INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL BUS

A government bus will operate again this year to transport pupils to and from the Industrial High School, Columbus. The expense of operation will be prorated among those availing themselves of the privilege of this transportation. Parents who have children registered for attendance at the Industrial High School, and who desire to use this bus, will register without delay at Post headquarters.

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

FALL PLANTING OF ANNUALS

Shrubs and perennials form the backbone of all gardens, but annuals are indispensable if we are to have continual bloom from spring to fall. This is particularly true in this section of Georgia where some of the shrubs and many of the more desirable perennials grow indifferently well, if at all. To fill the gaps left by the defection of these old standbys, we are compelled to draft heavily on the annuals, and right nobly do they respond to the call.

Most annuals should be planted in the spring. These are the plants that will not stand a frost and are classed as tender. Examples of these are zinnias, marigolds, clarkia, nasturtiums, cosmos, scarlet sage, sweet alyssum, heliotrope, mourning bride, etc. Some of the hardier spirits, however, do much better if the seeds are planted in the fall and permitted to stay in the ground all winter. This gives the seedlings the benefit of the cool, moist early spring during which time they perfect a strong root system so that when the warmer weather comes they are equipped to make rapid, vigorous growth. Plants which come from seeds sown in the fall are always much earlier than those from spring planted seeds and, in this climate, are generally much more satisfactory. Seeds better planted in the fall are those of poppies, both California and Shirley, larkspur, bachelor buttons, petunias, pansies, African blue-eyed daisies, calendulas, sweet sultans, phlox, ageratum, chinese forget-me-nots, wall flowers, stocks, gaillardias, coreopsis and calliopsis.

The seeds should be planted where they are to bloom sometime the latter part of September or early part of Octobr. Any good garden soil, if supplied with well rotted stable manure, well dug in, will grow fine annuals. The seeds should be planted either in rows or scattered broadcast and covered to a depth of four times the thickness of the seed. After planting, the ground should be well firmed over the seeds with a board and the rows or areas carefully marked to show what kind of seeds have been planted. Small stakes with the names printed on them in indelible ink are best. The marking of the areas is rather important, for unless a planting plan is made and kept it is easy to forget in four or five months just what is planted there.

Some of the fall planted seeds of poppies, coreopsis and petunias will germinate and start growth. The plants will winter thru, however, unless there is unusually severe weather, and these precocious youngsters will bloom weeks ahead of their more tardy companions.

In planting the seeds they should be sown rather thickly in order to insure a good stand, as not as high a per cent of germination is obtained from fall sown seeds as from those planted in the spring. After the young plants get one to two inches high in the spring they should be thinned out to stand the proper distance apart. The surplus seedling removed in the thinning out process may be set out in some other spot in the garden or given to neighbors. It must be remembered that the plants thus transplanted will receive a check and consequently will not bloom as early as those allowed to stand where they germinated. They will serve, however, to lengthen the bloom of that particular plant and are valuable for this reason.

All annual poppies are very hard to transplant,—any injury to the root system resulting in failure. For this reason poppies should be planted where they are to bloom and then thinned out. Most of the other plants listed transplant easily.

If you want flowers early next spring try this method of fall planting and you will be rewarded with flowers several weeks before you could have them if you waited until spring to begin your gardening.

Next wteek, "SWEET PEAS."

Notice to Fort Benning Personnel

Effective September 1st, 1929

I will not be responsible for the distribution of the Columbus Ledger. Thanking you for the co-operation that I have received during my management of the Ledger at Fort Benning, I am the undersigned,

W. A. COPPINGER.

OLD ENGLISH WAX AND BRUSHES

will keep your floors beautiful and in the best condition, with the least amount of trouble.

OLD ENGLISH WAXERS SETS

$3.90 complete

OLD ENGLISH BRUSHES SETS

$2.50 complete

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

29TH INF.

The following Infantry reserve officers, having been ordered to active duty for the period, August 19-September 1, have been attached to Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry: Captain George T. Madison and 2nd Lieut. John L. Howard.

Headquarters Co.

There are quite a number of men going on furlough between now and the 1st of September. Most of them will leave the 1st. We wish them a nice trip and may all the "sweet young things" in the "ole home town" fall on their necks in welcome. They are all wearing generous smiles for some reason or other—must have it all planned already. Well, lots of good times to all of you gang. Just try and keep a soldier from having a good time! Can't be done old chappie!

Band

The coming of fall is heralded by our daily appearance on the parade ground to play drill music. After five more concerts the formal guard mounts will begin and with them the new schedule. Fine! A change is always welcomed.

Company "C"

There have been a number of promotions in the Company during the past week. Pfc. Miller and Pfc. McCulloch were appointed corporals. Cpl. McCulloch is with the Infantry Rifle Team at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Company "D"

A streak of red raised the fighting blood of an auto driver, and a collision was brought about, but after so long a time Cpls. Tiner and Monan are back from the station hospital. We wonder what became of the motorcycle. Don't give up, all speed demons have such luck at times.

Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Sergeant William B. Smith (you may have known him as Cpl. Smith) is scheduled to leave us in a day or so. When he will depart is uncertain, that is to date. "Smitty" is going on D. E. M. L. and has been assigned to duty with the R. O. T. C. at Baton Rouge, La. (Louisiana State University.) Sgt. Smith was our battalion clerk for quite a while, and was one of the best clerical men that ever hit an Underwood. He possessed an amiable disposition and was friendly to everyone that he came in contact with, civilian as well as soldier. We'll miss you lots, "Smitty," and hate to see you leave, and we all wish you the best of luck in your new undertakings. Drop us a line now and then, will you? Atta boy.

Company "E"

The experimental combat firing is very strenuous these days and we hope it will soon be passed on by the War Department. Pvt. Tidmore is making quite a showing with his automatic, his highest average being 71 shots in 30 seconds, semi-automatic fire. They are unable to keep him in ammunition, he fires so fast. He is also making the hits on his target, which looks like a punch board when he gets through firing.

Company "G"

Kid Trascher has had another pain in the side again after he was told to wash windows.

One of the recruits asked Cook Hill about paying for his dinner, "Who do I pay for this dinner?" Hill said, "that's all right, John, you will pay for that dinner the first K. P. you do."

We Rent Furniture

We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.

Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.

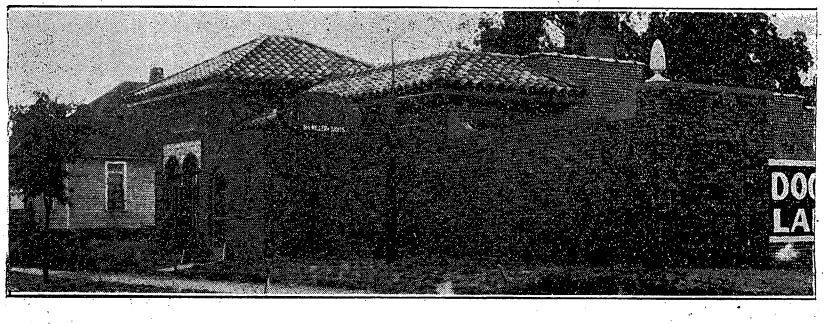
The Hecht Furniture Co.

115 12th St. Phone 1188

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital



"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

Mrs. M. R. Kammerer. Phone 194.

HOCKER—DOIDGE.

Cordial interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Theodosia Hocker, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Woodson Hocker, and Lieutenant John Peter Doidge. The marriage will be solemnized at the Polo Club at Fort Benning on Saturday, the fourteenth of September, at four o'clock in the afternoon. Chaplain Thomas McKenna will perform the ceremony. The bride has chosen her cousins to form her bridal party. Miss Katherine Hocker, of Chicago, will be her maid of honor and Miss Carolina Hocker and Miss Margaret Ferr, of Cincinnati, her bridesmaids. To complete the attendants little Miss Jean Maddox, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Louis W. Maddox, has been chosen to be the flower girl.

Lieutenant Woodson Hocker, brother of the bride, will be best man for Lieutenant Doidge and the following officers will serve as ushers: Lieutenants David Hedekin, Thomas Wells, William Breckenridge, Noble Wiley, Thomas Moran, and Maury Cralle.

There will be a reception immediately following the ceremony.

* * *

WELLS—DILLER.

Much interest throughout the army is centered in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Harriette Wells, only daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry A. Wells, and Lieutenant LeGrand Diller. The wedding will take place at the Trinity Church in Columbus at eight o'clock in the evening of September the eleventh, Reverand Wragg officiating. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Leonard Boyd will sing a group of nuptial songs.

The bride has selected as her attendants, Miss Sue Brandt, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Alfred Brandt, who will be her maid of honor, and Miss Onnelle Diller, sister of the groom, who will be her brides-maid.

Lieutenant Diller will have as his best man, Lieutenant David Hedekin and the following officers will act as ushers: Lieutenants John Van Houten, Orville Hewitt, Charles Coates, Dudley Strickler, William Breckenridge, Maury Cralle, John Doidge and Thomas Wells.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception will be given at the Polo Club. Since the announcement, in June, of their engagement Miss Wells and Lieutenant Diller have been extensively entertained at many lovely pre-nuptial parties.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Calvin Titus, who have been visiting their son, Winston, at San Antonio, Texas, are spending a few days at Flagstaff, Arkansas, enroute home.

They will return to Fort Benning about the tenth of September, accompanied by their son, Calvin, Jr.

MACDONALD—BOND.

Of much interest to a wide circle of friends in Columbus and Fort Benning was the marriage of Mrs. Katherine Bond to Major Stuart C. MacDonald, which was quietly solemnized on Wednesday, August the seventh, at the Little Church Around the Corner, Reverand Stanley, officiating. Only a few relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony.

Immediately following the wedding Major and Mrs. MacDonald motored to Seneca Falls for a brief visit to Major MacDonald's relatives before going on to the Canadian Rockies, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mrs. MacDonald, before her marriage, made her home in Columbus and has many friends there and at Fort Benning who will be interested in her marriage.

Major MacDonald is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1915 and was stationed at Fort Benning the past year as a student officer.

After their honeymoon Major and Mrs. MacDonald will be stationed at Fort Wadsworth, New York.

* * *

Miss Dorothy Gilhus returned home last week, after having spent the past six weeks at Keystone Camp near Brevard, North Carolina. She will remain here until the seventh of September, and will leave then to enter Brenau College at Gainesville, Georgia.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Frank Green entertained at dinner Sunday evening in compliment to Miss Theodosia Hocker, Miss Harriette Wells, Lieut. John Doidge and Lieut. LeGrand Diller. The guests included the honorees, Colonel and Mrs. Woodson Hocker and Colonel and Mrs. Harry Wells. After dinner, which was served at the Officers' Club grill, Major and Mrs. Green escorted their guests to the Post movies.

* * *

Mrs. Ollie Reed was hostess at a bridge luncheon on Tuesday, in honor of her house guest, Miss Eva May Reed, and Mrs. Gamin. Those making up the three tables of players were: Mrs. Singer, Mrs. Owen Rhoads, Mrs. C. M. Ulsaker, Mrs. B. M. MacFayden, Mrs. Louis Maddox, Mrs. Arthur Rotherock, Mrs. William Murphey, Mrs. Walter Cochran, Mrs. Wray Avera, and Mrs. J. C. Kovarik. Mrs. MacFayden and Mrs. Cochran won the high score prizes, decks of cards, and the honorees were presented lovely handkerchiefs as guests prizes.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Carl Ulsaker were hosts at dinner on Thursday evening at the officer's club. Their guests on this occasion were: Major and Mrs. M. P. Rudolph, Captain and Mrs. Ollie Reed, and Miss Eva May Reed.

Captain and Mrs. N. W. Strickland have as their house guest their sister, Mrs. Gamin and her small son, of Jacksonville, Florida. They will remain with them for several weeks.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Frank Caffey left last week for their new station at West Point, New York.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Charles Willard are issuing invitations for a dance to be given Saturday evening, September the seventh, at the Polo Club. The party is given to honor Miss Harriette Wells, Lieutenant L. A. Diller, Midshipman Frederick H. Hillis, and their son Midshipman Shearer Willard.

* * *

Major and Mrs. D. S. Wilson, their daughter, Miss Olive Wilson, and their small son, D. S., Jr., returned home on Wednesday after having spent the months of July and August in North Carolina. While there Major and Mrs. Wilson and D. S. Jr., visited relatives and Miss Olive Wilson attended Keystone Camp near Brevard.

* * *

Midshipmen Shearer Willard and Frederick Hillis will arrive Saturday for a month's visit to the former's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Charles Willard.

* * *

Miss Daisy Reed left Sunday for a month's visit to friends in Asheville, North Carolina.

POST JUDGE ADVOCATE GOES ON LEAVE

Major Roland M. Hollock, accompanied by Mrs. Hollock, left Fort Benning yesterday for Washington, D. C., where they expect to spend about two weeks.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

DIAMONDS WATCHES JEWELRY

"MEET PEKOR WEAR DIAMONDS"

PEKOR'S

INC.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD

SPECIAL SALE

FRIDAY and SATURDAY
Aug. 30th and 31st.

Sliced Bacon (1-lb. packages).....25c per lb.

Creamery Butter (1-lb. cartons).....42c per lb.

Eggs, (fresh, in cartons).....36c per doz.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT

Post Exchange
Fort Benning, Ga.

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

ALL-STAR FIGHT CARD PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS

Keenan Wins From Kelly

It has often been said that "Variety is the spice of life." Last Tuesday night's boxing show at Doughboy Stadium put a little more weight on that subject.

Captain Tuttle's all-tar cast put on a good show, and the best part of it was that the fans realized it before the gates opened. There were between twenty-five hundred and three thousand fans out to witness the bouts, and all went away with that satisfied look on their faces.

In the last fight of the night, Red Keenan took a slow decision from Battling Kelly of Birmingham. Kelly did not put up the fight that he did against Eddie Brault here recently, and never showed that he wanted to come out and swap with the redhead.

Keenan was on him like a wildcat in the opening round, but it did little good. Kelly went into his shell and refused to come out during the whole fight. The bout might be called one of these four punch wonders, as that is about all that were passed, and they were handed out by Keenan. None can blame Keenan for the slowness of the fight. He was trying hard enough to make the Birmingham representative do a little fighting. It was useless, however.

Many were fooled when the semi-final of the night came to a close. They had thought that Blondy Parker would take Jernigan in good style, but Jernigan had something to say about that.

He started to pound on Parker early in the first round, and the way he shot that left was a caution for cats. Parker tried gallantly to get in where he could do some damage. Only twice during the whole fight did it seem that the fair haired M. P. was going to turn the tables. The second round found Parker giving all that he had, but in return was taking all that Jernigan had. The round might be called even.

After that, Jernigan took it upon himself to demonstrate that he still had that fighting heart, and punch to go with it. Repeatedly during the remainder of the fight he rocked Parker with rights that were nothing short of dynamite. Parker was game, however, and kept coming in for more, only to be met by a lad that had better condition and training than he.

Parker is a dangerous man, even when he is half out. Tuesday night he was never near being out, but had been beaten. He came back in the last round and had Ginger guessing. On one occasion during that last round, had Parker followed up, there is little doubt but what he would have had the Columbus lad eating canvas. Jernigan rallied quickly however, and saved himself from dropping a fight that he had already won.

We censor Pinky Phillips for having objected to the referee, but must come back and praise him for the fine bit of fighting that he displayed when he KO'ed Seaweed Wilson in one round.

Many of the fans have often expressed their opinion about Phillips not having the kick to put an opponent to sleep. He fooled the lot of them Tuesday night, and regained a lot that he had lost in recent fights.

He came out of his corner and had Wilson going ere the last sounds of the bell had died away in the echos of the Stadium. A snake-like left made Wilson cover and try to come in close for one of those short rights for which he is noted. Nothing daunted, Pinky slashed about with both hands and sank a mean right to the button and the lights were out.

Dapper Danny Davis takes the cake when it comes to handing the fans a sbunch of surprise. For two rounds he was unable to open Mr. Roderick up for a punch. For two rounds, Danny looked as though he were slowing up, but when that fateful third round came around, Danny chopped Roderick on the chin with a bell ringer that will be remembered by Roderick's descendants for forty generations removed.

People, he was out and that is all there is to it. That Danny Davis has the stuff that a good main go boy would do well to have. He has the love of fghting and the punch to make the other fellow hate it.

The four-rounders were fast and furious and every one was a crowd pleaser.

Seeley took the nod over Raven Poe in a wild and wooly battle that was anybody's fight until the final bell.

Pep Causey and Grumpy Gordy threw leather from bell to bell for four rounds. Haymakers, right crosses, uppercuts and jabs bounced from chins and buttons, Gordy was fighting for his return to favoritism, Causey was fighting to keep him down. The verdict was a drew and was popular.

Corn Griffin and Maud Farley began a battle that promised to be the hit of the evening. In the second round Farley received a severe cut over his right eye that made it impossible for him to continue fighting. Griffin was awarded the fight on a technical kayo. These boys will be matched again on the next card as each requested they be allowed to settle matters over the six round route.

Flash Boyd, of the 24th Infantry, handed Henderson, Memphis negro fighter, an awful beating in a fast four-rounder. Boyd was too fast for the visiting battler.

Tut Taylor and Happy Hines, bantams, put up a fast flashy battle for three rounds. In the final round both boys opened up in a fierce mix-up, Hines sank a low blow un-intentional, losing the fight on a foul.

Plaster Pecot of Benning and Young Sewell, of Columbus, fought four fast rounds to a draw in the curtain raiser. Both boys were willing to mix at all times and the fight was a whiz from beginning to end.

The entire card was a complete success. "Red" Lindsey was the third man in the ring during the four rounders and Captain McDonald refereed the eight and six rounders. The decision of the referees met with the approval of the crowd.

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

Lt. Wayne C. Smith

LESSON NO. 4

"Pair off and find your buddies."

"Let us review our preliminary exercises."

"Exercise No. 1. Bobbing across pool and back!"

"Exercise No. 2. Jelly fish float."

Exercise No. 3. Turtle float."

"Exercise No. 4. Back float. Now do the turtle float, turn over, do the back float and then turn over to the turtle float again; repeat three times."

Exercise No. 5. Gliding. No. 1 buddies, get on your marks! Go! No. 2 buddies, get on your marks! Go!"

Exercise No. 6. Sleeping beauty. Sit down on the bottom, exhale as you go. Then lie back and rest. When you are ready to get a breath come up."

"Exercise No. 7. Dry land arching exercises on pier."

"Exercise No. 8. Dry land flutter exercises while sitting on edge of pier."

"Exercise No. 9. Reverse the flutter exercise while sitting on edge of pier."

"Exercise No. 10. Glide and flutter. No. 1 buddies, get on your marks! Go! No. 2 buddies, get on your marks! Go!"

"Exercise No. 11. Glide, flutter and arm movements."

So much for our preliminary and review exercises. Today we take up work on the flutter board. This board is a device to develop the flutter. Most people deceive themselves as to the amount of power they derive from their feet. In using this board you obviate this self deception because your thighs and backs begin to hurt when you have gone only a few yards. You then realize how little leg power you have been putting into your ordinary swimming. A good swimmer derives as much as 30 to 40 per cent of his power from his legs. You can see from this that a strong armed swimmer with a weak leg drive is only a weak swimmer.

"Now each one get a flutter board. Catch hold of it, on ehand on each side about half way up. Now glide and start your flutter. Like this (Demonstration.) Everybody try it. It's punishing work isn't it? Rest!"

"Our next exercise is a combination of the flutter board and breathing exercise. Repeat the last exercise but put your head in the water letting he surface cut you just below the eyes. Exhale through the nose, turn your head to your breathing side, get a gulp of air through the mouth and then turn your head back to the front, continue to flutter and breathe in this manner."

"We now go to work on our arms. We will work in pairs. No. 1 buddy will hold the feet of No. 2 buddy. No two will do the arm movement. If no one sees No. two do anything wrong stop him immediately and correct him. Remember the arms cycle is like this. Starting with the right arm, let the right arm reach out lazily to the front, the palm turned slightly outward. In reaching out do not cut in front of the face but rather angle the arm slightly outward. After the palm enters the water whip down hard with a straight arm until the arm is almost to the hip. Now the arm is relaxed, the elbow breaks out of the water high and wide. The wrist and whole arm are relaxed as much as posible. The right arm repeats the operation. The arms alternate."

"All right get to work."

"Now we will combine all movements and see how much we have progressed."

"Find your buddies. That is all for today."

SPORTOPICS

By Al

"Signals," "hip," "hip," "hip," "sock." It won't be long now and Gowdy Field will fold up for a long winter night. As Gowdy Field drifts into slumber and solitude the Doughboy Stadium will come to life with a whoop and a bang.

Football season is just around the corner. Already the Galloping Gunners have dug out the old pig-skin and held it up before the eyes of their array of line busters, the snarl and growl that rasped from the throats of the Gunners made the heart of the coach take an extra beat from sheer joy.

Kellys, Tankers, Hallorans and Greencords boast choice material to build their machines from this season. It is too early for names and predictions, for as yet King Horsehide rules supreme.

But as the regular teams begin to prepare for the coming football season, a dark horse threatens to appear upon the horizon. Football players, who are members of the special units of the 29th Infantry are anxious to organize a team known as the Independents. It is a known fact that some of the best football material of the garrison is stowed away in these outfits. These men are anxious to get into football harness, but under the present ruling they are unable to play, as there is no team representing their outfit.

There is no doubt that the addition of a new team into the garrison league would be an asset and not a liability. They will be capable of furnishing strong competition, and equipment for a new team could be arranged if everybody got busy.

Sure was glad to be able to witness Tommy Thompson's initial start in professional ball. He worked behind the plate for Pensacola in the second game of last Friday's doubleheader at Golden Park. Tommy looked good. He made no errors, got one hit and when a Columbus player attempted to swipe second on him in the fourth inning, Tommy threw him out by a good yard. The peg was a beauty.

Read The Ads

K&P

We wish you to know and see the sincere effort we are making to give our customers prompt and efficient service, the kind of service that they have a right to expect and like to get. Nothing is spared to attain it and we know you will cheerfully co-operate with us.

Our business is in reality a service business

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE—Matched driver and brassie, kraft, registered, steel shaft $12. Matched driver and brassie, autograph, registered, wood shaft $10. Capt. W. M. Hutson, Phone 350.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

TANK NOTES

The Battalion is now engaged in Tank combat practice in the vicinity of Sackett Hill on the First Division road. Combat practice of Tanks comprises the employment of the fire power of tanks under an assumer tactical situation, the enemy being represented by suitable targets. This practice is being conducted by platoons, each company firing the personnel of three platoons with the necessary replacements.

In connection with the redesignation of the 15th Tank Battalion as the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment, (Light), it will be of interest to know that the Headquarters, Band, Headquarters Company, Service Company and 1st Battalion of the regiment are located at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland. These units comprise the redesignated units of the 1st Tank group; the 1st Battalion being the redesignated 16th Tank Battalion.

Major Brett, Battalion Commander, is temporarily at Fort George G. Meade, where he will study the new Christie Tank and new pieces of Tank equipment. It is expected that he will remain there throughout the week.

Word has been received at Tank headquarters that two former Tank officers, 2nd Lt. George O'Neill and 2nd Lt. Arthur L. Cobb will, in all probability, rejoin the Battalion in the near future. These two officers have been at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas, for the past two months, attending the preliminary flyers' school.

MEDICAL CORPS NOTES

Lieut. Col. Card is in Washington on leave and rumor has it that when he returns he will have the plans for the permanent quarters approved. That is Okay with the Detachment Commander if he isn't expected to provide the labor to build them.

Preparations are under way for the coming basket ball season. Quite a number of games are planned away from camp with civilian teams, and Hap Armstrong, Gilbert, and the rest of the Tribe promise plenty of smoke. Last year's team is intact and there are several promising recruits to make trouble for the opposish.

The fishing camp is a popular place just now and Sgt. Huff and Gregory tell wild tales of the ones that got away. Sgt. White looks bored and suggests that "you ain't heard nothin' yet" until the shooting season starts.

Last week the Medico ball team took it on the chin for a 4-2 defeat from the Howitzer Company, the first defeat for this half of the league. On Tuesday they came back with a win over the Ordnance 11-9 and just about cinched the cup. To square matters off, Saginaw Seeley and Tut Tut Taylor punched out two victories over their opponents from the 29th and the Medical colors of flying high at the present writing.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5 00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

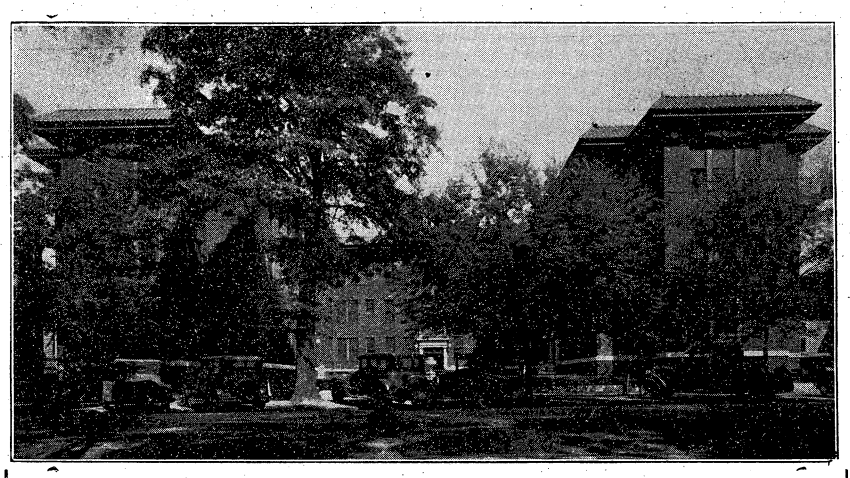
W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding, Manager

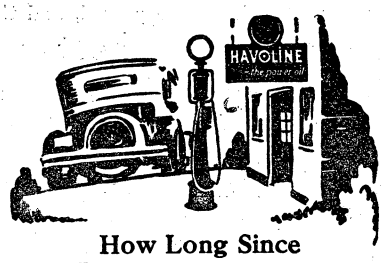
The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.





How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8 30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co.

Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill
Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

The Infantry School News

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., SEPTEMBER 6, 1929 Number 51

Corps Area Golf Tournament Nearing Close

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM MEMBERS PLACE FAVORABLY

Last minute reports, special to the NEWS, from Camp Perry, Ohio, show that the members of the Infantry Team are making favorable showings in the individual matches.

In the Leech Cup match, there were 1217 entries. The possible score for this match was 105. Captain D. M. Bartow, 1st Infantry, was sixth in the match, (fourth among the service entries) with a score of 104. Lieutenant D. L. Adams, 29th Infantry was seventeenth, with a score of 102; Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29tht Infantry was thirty-first with 101; Sergeant W. F. Bisenden, 10th Infantry was thirty-second, and Captain K. L. Berry, Infantry was forty-second with a score of 101.

The Wimbledon Cup match had 1315 entries, with the possible score being 100. Captain W. B. Wilson, 24th Infantry was second in this match with a score of 100, but lost first place in the shoot off.

In the Farr Trophy match, Captain M. L. Broderick, Infantry, was thirtieth among the service entries with a score of 96; Corporal C. Risner, 10th Infantry made the same score to place thirty-first; 2nd Lieutenant G. B. Gailbreath scored 96 also, but placed thirty-third, while Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry placed thirty-seventh with 96. Sgt. McW. James, 25th Infantry placed forty-fourth at 95.

There were only 849 entries in the Wright Memorial match. There was a possible score of 75, and Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29th Infantry placed seventh with a possible score, while Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry eleventh with the same score. Corporal M. L. Moore, 4th Infantry, who won the rapid fire match, placed thirty-second in this match when he turned in a score of 74.

The Navy match seemed to hold more interest than did those preceding it. There were 1332 entries for this field. The possible score was 100. The Infantry Team Squad placed more in this than they had in any of the others. The following is their order of placing as compared to other service entries: Sergeant J. Carlson, 4th Infantry, tenth, score 94. Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry, thirtieth, score 92. Corporal C. Risner, 10th Infantry, thirty-eighth, score 92. Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29th Infantry, forty-eighth, score 92.

In the Members match, there were 1330 entries. The possible score was fifty. Lt. D. M. Gunn was fifth among th service entries with a score of 50. 1st Sgt. H. F. Mollertsrom, 17th Infantry, was thirteenth with 49. Sgt. James, 24th Infantry placed fourteenth with the same score, but Sergeant E. Bockell slipped and went into thirty-first plac with 49 for a score.

TANKS RETAIN POST AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIP

Four Records Fall

The terrible Tankers again sank their talons further into the hearts of their rivals, when they took the Labor Day swimming meet in a walk. Their nearest rivals, the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, were thirty-nine points behind when the final check-up was made.

The Spiecal Units of the 29th Infantry placed third, and the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion placed fourth.

Lucas of the 1st Tank Regiment swam the 100 yard breast stroke in one minute, thirty-six and one-fifth seconds to establish a new post record for that distance.

Smith of the Second Battalion sprinted the fifty yard dash in twenty-nine seconds flat and broke the old post record.

The First Tank Regiment copped another record when Seay puffed and struggled to finish the 100 yard back stroke in one minute, twenty-nine and one-fifth seconds.

The flash of the 29th Infantry, Miller, finished first in the 100 yard free style at a timing of one minute, eight and two-fifths seconds, and set up a new mark for the aquatic century.

Lucas of the First Tank Regiment took high score honors, taking three first places for a total of 15 points. Miller, Special Units, 29th Infantry, was runner up with two third places and one first for a total of 7 points.

Results:

400 Yard Relay—1st Tanks, 4:59 1-5; 2nd, 83rd F. A., 5:15 2-3; 3rd, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 5:39 2-5.

100 Yard Breast Stroke—1st, Lucas, 1:36 1-5, Tanks; 2nd, Nourse, 1:49 1-5, Tanks; 3rd, Stuart, 1:53, 83rd F. A.

50 Yard Dash—1st, Smith, 29; 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 2nd, Buchanan, 29 2-5, Tanks; 3rd, Miller, B., 29 3-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.

400 Yard Free Style—1st, Lucas, 6:-28 2-5, Tanks; 2nd, Wheeler, 7:1 3-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 3rd, Nims, 7:1 4-5, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

100 Yard Back Stroke — 1st, Seay, 1:29 1-5, Tanks; 2nd, Latham, 1:35 3-5, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Miller, 1:37 2-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.

100 Yard Free Style—1st, Miller, E., 1:8 2-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 2nd Flowers, 1:9, Tanks; 3rd, Covington, Tanks, and Smith, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf, tied at 1:11.

Fancy Diving — 1st, Parr, 266.7, Tanks;; 2nd, Pope, 220.8, Tanks; 3rd, Flannagan, 203.2, Tanks.

200 Yard Free Style—1st, Lucas, 2:47, Tanks; 2nd, Prophet, 3:11, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Allanan, 3:14 1-5, Tanks.

Medley Relay—1st, Tanks, 4:16; 2nd, Special Units, 29th Inf., 4:40; 3rd, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 4:50 1-5.

Total points: 1st Tank Regt., 54 1-2; 1st Bn., 29th Inf., 0; 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 15 1-2; Special Units, 29th Inf., 13; 8crd F. A. Bn., 7; Special Units, Inf. Sch., 0.

Places: 1st, 1st Tank Regt.; 2nd, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 4th, 83rd F. A. Bn.

SERGEANT KINGSBURY WINS TROPHIES AT FORT DUPONT

Sergeant Louis Kingsbury, 7th Engineers, who recently attended the Engineer rifle team try-outs at Fort Dupont, brought home two of the individual trophies.

Colonel Berry, commanding officer of the Special Units, formally presented the Fort Humphreys and Woods trophies to Sgt. Louis Kingsbury before the entire company at an assembly Saturday morning. The colonel spoke highly of the achievements of Sgt. Kingsbury and congratulated him on his success.

The Fort Humphreys trophy was shot for at the 200 and 600 yards range, slow fire. Sgt. Kingsbury mad a score of 145 out of a possible 150 to win. The Woods trophy was for the best score at rapid fire and was won with a score of 149 out of 150. Both trophies were competed for by all the candidates for the Engineer rifle team.

CORPORAL MOORE WINS RAPID FIRE CHAMPIONSHIP

Corporal Maurice L. Moore, member of the Infantry Rifle team at Camp Perry, tied for the National Rifle Association rapid fire championship Monday with Sergeant F. L. Manion, Delaware National Guard, with a score of ninety-nine. There were thirteen hundred and fifty competitors firing in this match.

The tie between these two men was fired off twice at three hundred yards Tuesday. The first score was 41-44 with Sergeant Manion leading, but the score had to be re-fired, due to the targets being prematurely drawn. This time, Corporal Moore won out with a score of forty-eight, while Sergeant Manion made forty-three.

The 1929 Fourth Corps Area Golf Tournament has been in progress on the Fort Benning links since Monday morning. A total of 74 players, ten of whom were visiting officers from other parts of the corps area, played the 36 qualifying holes on Monday.

The visiting players, who took part, were Col. G. Williams, who is on duty with the Organized Reserves in the state of Mississippi; Maj. A. B. Jones, Maj. H. A. Deiber, Maj. C. A. Seale, Maj. O. T. Allen, Capt. S. Fairbanks, Capt. R. T. Powell, Capt. R. T. Edwards, all from Fort McPherson, Ga.; Capt. Wm. Cassidy, from Fort Bragg, N. C., and 1st Lieut. L. C. Boineau, from Columbia, S. C.

Maj. O. N. Bradley turned in a score of 78 on Monday morning and 73 in the afternoon for a total of 151 to win the medal. Maj. F. E. Hickson was runner-up with 162.

In accordance with the qualifying scores, the players were divided into ten flights of eight each as follows:

First flight: Maj. O. N. Bradley, 151; Maj. F. E. Hickson, 162; Capt. A. S. Nevins, 163; Lt. Col. H. A. Wells, 165; Capt. W. Cassidy, 167; Maj. H. R. Conner, 168; Maj. A. B. Jones, 168; Maj. H. A. Deiber, 171.

Second flight: Maj. W. L. Roberts, 171; Capt. L. E. Norris, 172; 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton, 173; Maj. E. W. Leard, 173; Capt. S. Fairbanks, 173; Capt. K. G. Althaus, 174; Capt. R. E. Powell, 176; Col. G. Williams, 177.

Third flight: 2nd Lt. W. K. Dudley, 178; Maj. J. I. Meagher, 178; Capt. V. A. Huskea, 179; Maj. J. L. Bradley, 179; Capt. W. M. Hutson, 182; 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau, 183; Capt. G. S. McCullough, 183; Maj. J. R. Brooke, 184.

Fourth flight: Capt. W. M. Chapman, 184; Maj. L. R. Boyd, 185; Capt. Waine Archer, 185; 1st Lt. W. S. Lewis, 185; Maj. W. G. Livesay, 185; W. O. C. A. Stone, 186; Capt. J. E. Cole, 186; 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, 186.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert, 187; Capt. W. E. Sankey, 188; 1st Lt. B. Child, 189; Maj. E. C. Rose, 190; Maj. J. A. Ladd, 190; Maj. M. P. Rudolph, 191; Maj. D. E. McCunif, 192; Maj. W. A. Squires, 192.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. T. Straver, 193; Capt. R. T. Sdwards, 193; Maj. S. A. White, 193; 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 194; Capt. R. E. Duff, 195; Maj. C. Seale, 197; Capt. D. B. Hilton, 198; Lt. Col. W. L. Reed, 198.

Seventh flight: Capt. W. E. Seamon, 200; 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley, 201; 1st Lt. D. G. Barr, 202; Capt. C. L. Bolte, 202; 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein, 203.

Eighth flight: Capt. E. L. Brine, 205; Maj. H. A. Bootz, 205; 1st Lt. E. Curran, 206; Capt. W. B. Tuttle, 208; Maj. N. Randolph, 209; 2nd Lt. C. H. Boyce, 210; Capt. L. A. Wetherby, 212; Capt. C. L. Steel, 211.

Ninth flight: Capt. J. E. Wharton, 212; 1st Lt. B. M. McFayden, 212; Maj. O. Allen, 214; Capt. W. A. Howland, 214; Maj. W. F. Freehoff, 215; Capt. R. C. Akins, 215; Capt. L. S. Lampke, 218; 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 221.

Tenth flight: 2nd Lt. D. G. Strickler,

(Continued on page 2.)

CORPS AREA GOLF TOURNAMENT

(Continued from page 1.)

234; Capt. W. G. Murphy, 278.

In his qualifying play on Monday, Capt. R. E. Powell, of Fort McPherson, made a hole in one on the fifteenth green. This is the first time that a single has been accomplished on the 145 yard hole.

Those who remained to play off the championship in each flight on Thursday are given below with the names of the defeated first and second round players with scores:

First flight: Maj. O. N. Bradley won from Capt. Wm. Cassidy, 5 and 3; and from Capt. A. S. Nevins, 5 and 3. Maj. F. E. Hickson won from Maj. H. R. Conner, 2 up; and from Lt. Col. H. A. Wells, 2 and 1.

Second flight: Col. G. Williams won from Maj. E. W. Leard, 1 up, 19 holes; and from Capt. K. G. Althaus, 3 and 1. Capt. R. E. Powell won from 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton by default; and from Capt. Fairbanks, 4 and 3.

Third flight: Capt. V. A. Huskea won from Capt. G. S. McCullough, 2 up; and from 2nd Lt. W. K. Dudley, 5 and 4. 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau won from Maj. J. I. Meagher, 2 up; and from Maj. J. L. Bradley, 2 up.

Fourth flight: Maj. W. G. Livesay won from Capt. W. Mc. Chapman, 5 and 3; and from Capt. W. Archer, 3 and 2. 1st Lt. W. S. Lewis won from 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, 1 up; and from Maj. L. R. Boyd, 2 and 1.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert won from Maj. J. A. Ladd, 2 up; and from 1st Lt. B. Child, 3 and 2. Maj. M. P. Rudolph won from Capt. W. E. Sankey, 3 and 2; and from Maj. E. C. Rose, 2 and 1.

Sixth flight: Capt. D. B. Hilton won from Maj. S. A. White, 1 up; and from Capt. R. E. Duff, 2 up. Capt. R. T. Edwards won from 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 3 and 2; and from Maj. C. Seales, 4 and 2.

Seventh flight: Capt. W. E. Seamon won from Col. W. P. Hill, 7 and 6; and from 1st Lt. W. B. Forse, 3 and 2. Chaplain J. R. Wright won from 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein, 3 and 2; and from 1st Lt. D. G. Barr, 4 and 3.

Eighth flight: Capt. C. L. Steel won from Capt. W. B. Tuttle, 3 and 1; and from 2nd Lt. C. H. Royce, 7 and 6. 1st Lt. E. Curran won from Capt. L. A. Wetherby, 8 and 7; and from Capt. E. L. Brine, 5 and 4.

Ninth flight: Capt. W. A. Howland won from 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 19 holes, 1 up; and from 1st Lt. B. M. McFayden, 8 and 6. Maj. W. F. Freehoff won from J. E. Wharton, 7 and 6, and from Capt. L. S. Lampke, 1 up.

Tenth flight: The two members of this flight drew byes on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Those who were eliminated on the first day of match play, were entered in a consolation tournament. Wednesday's results in this tournament were as follows:

First flight: Maj. A. B. Jones won from Capt. Wm. Cassidy, 1 up; and Maj. H. A. Dieber from Maj. H. R. Conner, by default.

Second flight: Maj. W. L. Roberts won from 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton by default; and Capt. L. E. Norris from Maj. E. W. Leard by default.

Third flight: Maj. J. I. Meagher won from Maj. J. R. Brooke, 3 and 2; and Capt. W. M. Hutson from Capt. C. S. McCullough, 1 up, 19 holes.

Fourth flight: W. O. C. A. Stone won from 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, by default; and Capt. W. Mc Chapman from Capt. J. E. Cole, 1 up.

Fifth flight: Maj. W. A. Squires won from Capt. W. E. Sankey, 3 and 1; and Maj. J. A. Ladd from Maj. D. E. McCunniff, 1 up.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. W. L. Reed won from 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 2 up; and Maj. S. A. White from Lt. Col. T. Strayer by default.

Seventh flight: Col. W. P. Hill won from Capt. C. L. Bolte, 2 and 1; and 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley from 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein by default.

Eighth flight: Capt. W. B. Tuttle won from Maj. H. A. Bootz, 4 and 3; and Capt. L. A. Wetherby won from Maj. N. Randolph by default.

Ninth flight: 1st Lt. H. H. Harris won from Capt. R. C. Akins, by default; and Maj. O. Allen from Capt. J. E. Wharton, 4 and 3.

The winner and runner up of the first flight will be designated as the representative of the Fourth Corps Area to play in the 1929 Army Golf Tournament, which will be played on the course of the Army, Navy and Marine Country Club at Washington, D. C., on September 24-28.

The prizes given in the Fourth Corps Area Tournament are as follows: To the medallist, a five-dollar club; to the winner of each flight, a ten-dollar bag; to the runner-up in each flight, a six-dollar club; and to the winner of each consolation flight, a four-dollar club.

PROGRESS OF EXPERIMENTS IN INFANTRY EQUIPMENT

Work continues on the final report of the anti-aircraft machine gun project upon which Major L. R. Boyd and Lt. Joseph I. Greene have been engaged for the past year. Within a few days the final firing tests will be conducted by Company "H," 29th Infantry, employing both the .30 and .50 caliber machine guns.

Lt. B. M. McFayden is now testing a radio repair kit, experimental type, designed to replace all present types of repair kits in use by communications platoons. The tools are superior standard types designed for radio repair work and their adoption would reduce the number of articles in the repair kit from twenty to five.

Another tool test which is nearing completion is that of the Bernard side-cuting pliers, being tested as a possible substitute for the present issue wire cutters. The Bernard plier is a good type of commercial plier, equipped with heavy jaws which remain parallel as they open, and with heavy cutting edges at the side of one jaw. They have been given a service test by Company "B," 29th Infantry and the communications platoon, Headquarters Company. They have been recommended for adoption in place of the present issue wire cutters by the Cavalry Board. Lt. Joseph I. Greene is in charge of this test.

Six types of canvas side-lace leggins have recently been assigned to Capt. E. D. Porter for test. There are fifty pairs of assorted sizes of each type on hand. They will be issued to organizations of the 29th Infantry for test.

The differences in the six types are chiefly in the straps which run under the foot. One type has a buckel on each side, another has a steel chain and another has a leather strap buttoned to the sides of the leggin.

Among the interesting projects which the Department of Experiment now has on hands is a test of a machine gun sled, an invention of Major Geo. S. Patton, Cavalry, now on duty in the office of the Chief of Cavalry. The invention consists of a framework iron mount with two runners. It is simple in construction and is intended for use in adding to the firepower of Infantry by the employment of extra machine guns in the forward echelons. The mount has no provision for either elevating or deflecting the gun except by movement of the entire mount. In order to change elevation the mount must be rolled to the front or to the rear on its runners, and in order to change deflection the mount must be pushed or tapped to the side desired.

Two methods of carrying the mount with gun attached are provided. For long hauls a set of shoulder yokes and carrying poles are used. For short movements the mount may be carried on the shoulders of a single individual by means of the runners. By use of a tow rope the gun and mount may also be dragged along the ground.

A method of antiaircraft firing is provided for by the use of a pintle which may be slipped into the end of one of the carrying poles. The pole is then held erect and steadied by one man while the gun is fired by another.

The mounts which the Department of Experiment has on hand weigh approximately 30 pounds. With gun attached the weight is 61 pounds.

The sled mount will be tested in comparison with other machine gun mounts as to its practicability. Lt. Joseph I. Greene is in charge of the test.

Experiments are being carried out in a comparative test of three shoe-fitting devices. Two commercial types of foot measuring devices are being compared to the Resco type now in use by the service. One of the test types, the Clarke Foot Measurer, consists of a base with a heel-stop attached. It has a movable toe-piece for measuring the length of the foot and two movable side walls for measuring the width of the foot. The same lever serves to indicate both length and breadth.

The other measurer under test is the Brannock device. This device permits the measuring of the length of the foot in two ways, from the end of the toes to the heel and from the ball of the foot to the heel. It also has a width scale.

In view of the fact that shoes are made in a certain progression of sizes and widths, while the human foot comes never twice alike, the use of a foot measuring device can only provide an approximate indication of the proper size of shoe. For shoes to fit exactly they must be tailor-made for each individual foot. However, in 99 cases out of a hundred, a satisfactory fit can be obtained among the standard shoe sizes.

It Costs No More to Have GOODYEAR TIRES on your car . . .

Come in—Learn the good news on prices!

Post Exchange Filling Station

Fort Benning Georgia

CHEVROLET

The Six For The Multitude

On the first of the year CHEVROLET entered the field of sixes. Since this time it has enjoyed a popularity far greater than any time in the history of CHEVROLET.

Since January first, one million, six cylinder CHEVROLETS have been busy making satisfied owners of the new CHEVROLET.

Beauty, ease of handling and 20 miles to the gallon.

Ask For Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 6 TO SEPT. 13, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 6

"FALL OF EVE," starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Sterling Ford in a screamingly funny farce about wayward husbands and suspicuous wives who get their wires crossed on a week-end "whoopee" party. This hilarious comedy is a side-splitter; don't miss it.

"Grandma's House." Fables.

Pathe News No. 71.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 7.

"BORN TO THE SADDLE," starring Ted Wells and Duane Thompson in a tearing streak of action. The story is of a Chicago "dough" boy, who can show the top riders of the range a trick or two. This is a high type western picture, and one that you will thoroughly enjoy.

"Hot Lightning." Mermaid.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 8

"SIMBA," the greatest human interest picture of all times, shows various thrilling moments in four years of exploration by the Martin Johnson African Expedition. This picture was produced under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History and is an authentic picture of the high lights of four years in the jungles of the great dark continent. The story is not staged nor a move production, but it is Africa as nature made it.

"Whose Baby Am I," as Mrs. Martin Johnson's camera caught him for their motion picture "Simba."

"Big Business." Laurel-Hardy.

M. G. M. News No. 5.

MONDAY, SEPT. 9.

"STRONG BOY," starring Victor McLaglen and Leatrice Joy. Strong Boy is a hard-boiled baggage smasher who mauls railroad workers with one hand while juggling trunks with the other. During the rollicking romance, this man-handler get man-handled by a woman who railroads him to fame.

"Jungle Goddess No. 2."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 10.

"THE FLYING MARINE," starring Ben Lyons with Shirley Mason and Jason Robards in the "Air Rodeo" of the screen. The story is an absorbing drama of two brothers in love with the same girl. There is a thrill every second in store for you when you see this picture that was filmed among the clouds.

"A Gridiron Cocktail." Sportlight.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 11.

"HAUNTED HOUSE," starring Chester Conklin with Thelma Todd and Larry Kent in the greatest mystery comedy-drama ever screened. Thrills in the cellar as a mad doctor kidnaps a beautiful girl. Laughs on the roof as comical Chester Conklin is forced to play music for a madman. Menancing shots; strange lights; mysterious whistles; shrieks and screams packed into "The Haunted House" will cause you to grip your hands in breahtless suspense. It must be seen to be appreciated.

"Topics of the Day." Press Fun.

M. G. M. News No. 6.

THURSDAY, SEPT. *2

"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN," starring Corinne Griffith in the film version

CORINNE GRIFFITH IN SATURDAY'S CHILDREN

of the Pulitzer prize-winning play of the same name. Corinne Griffith at her best in the interpretation of a great play. Grant Withers, who plays opposite her, will bear watching by movie goers. In unforgettable drama this picture unrolls the saner side of "Flaming Youth."

"It's Me." Cameo.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 13.

"MY MAN," starring the one and only Fanny Brice of Ziegfield Folly fame in a gorgeous Broadway revue. It is a sensational and glamorous story of a girl's rise from tenement shadows to Broadway lights. In this tense drama so simple and intimate you could swear it happened to yourself — so powerful it's sure to thrill you—so tender it will make you cry—so human it will make you roar with laughter. See how this girl of the slums won the hearts of millions after she lost the heart of her man.

"Back to the Soil." Fables.

Pathe News No. 73.

CHAPLAIN McKENNA DEPARTS

Three years ago when Benning was known as the "Tented City" and brick buildings were first beginning to make their appearance at the Upatoi Station, Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna reported to Fort Benning.

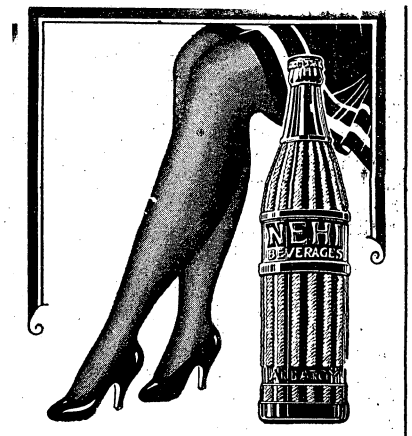
During the three years that Chaplain McKenna has been with us he has won a place of high esteem and affection within the hearts of the personnel of the garrison. As time went on, they were gladder that this particular chaplain had come to Fort Benning, the entire post was glad. All over the garrison, they know him as the man who has put the children's school into an efficient state, raised funds, secured competent teachers, and pushed things along.

Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna left Fort Benning September 1 on twenty-five days' leave of absence. He will sail from New York September 27th, reporting at Fort Mason, Calif., for duty on transport plying between San Francisco and Manila, P. I. He leaves a host of loyal friends at the Infantry School and a wealth of good wishes.

Chaplain McKenna has done a remarkable work here at Fort Benning of both a religious and a general character. Leaving us for duty on the high seas, remote from the "propects" and progress at Benning, we shall regret that the Chaplains' Corps keep such a thing as a foreign service roster, but we shall know that his heart is still with us. The work he has organized, the schools he has fostered, the things he has initiated, will continue for our advantage and the advantage of those who come after us. "An institution," says the adage, "is the length and shadow of a man." Such men as Chaplain McKenna have helped build Benning and the results of the work they do shall endure when our names have passed from the lists of the army.

AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
of Hartford, Conn.
WOODSON HOCKER
Phone 2956 Columbus

—For—
BETTER SERVICE!
USE HOOD HEELS AND SOLES
Applied by reliable Shoe Rebuilders
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.

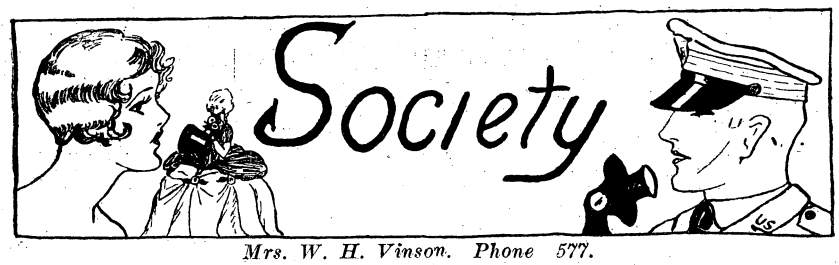


ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.
Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.
Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE

Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson. Phone 577.

Mrs. Edgar Hume entertained with an informal bridge luncheon Thursday morning at her quarters, having as her guest, Miss Harriette Wells, bride-elect of Lieutenant Le Grande Diller.

Mrs. Hume presented Miss Wells and Miss Theodosia Hocker, also a bride-elect of September, with attractive card table covers and a prize for high score, a guest towel, at each table was won by Mrs. E. H. Vinson, Miss Bess Berry and Miss Nancy Ross.

There were only three tables of players, the invitation list being confined to a group of friends of the honoree.

* * *

Mrs. James O'Connell entertained at a surprise bridge party on Thursday to honor her daughter, Lula, who celebrated her birthday that day.

The party was novel and unique. "Earthquake" bridge was played and one hand of each frame contained a shock. Clever souvenirs were awarded at the end of every frame. Mrs. E. H. Vernon received a string of Santon pearl beads for having the highest total score.

Mrs. O'Connell's guests on this occasion were: Miss Lola O'Connell, Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Mrs. Gower, daughter of Captain and Mrs. O'Connell, Mrs. Paul Zuver, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Miss Harriette Wells, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Miss Nancy Ross, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Dorothy Ross, Miss Landon Reed and Miss Bess Berry.

* * *

One of the loveliest parties of the week took place Friday afternoon, August the eighth, when Mrs. Albert Helsley complimented Miss Harriette Wells with a bridge party and handkerchief shower.

There were six tables in play, and Mrs. John Roosma won first prize, a novelty set of soap, patched to represent decks of cards. Mrs. Frank Green won second prize, an attractive memorandum book, and Miss Verna Perry was given a bridge score pad for having scored low.

After the game, Mrs. Helsley placed a wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride before Miss Wells and told her to cut the first slice. After several unsuccessful attempts the hostess suggested that she lift the top off the cake. On doing so, Miss Wells found many packages containing lovely handkerchiefs, hidden in the cake.

Those who attended this party were: the honoree, Miss Harriette Wells, Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Emil Leard, Mrs. Clarence Harvey, Mrs. Owen Rhoads, Mrs. Joseph Kovarik, Mrs. William Chapman, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. William Tuttle, Mrs. Orlando Mood, Mrs. John Forsythe, Mrs. Michael Buckley, Jr., Mrs. David Barr, Mrs. Leone, Mrs. John S. Roosma, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Miss Bess Berry, Miss Nancy Ross, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Verna Perry, Miss Landon Reed, Miss Lola O'Connell and Miss Dorothy Ross.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. R. E. Duff and little daughter, Mary, have returned to their home in Columbus from Hendersonville, North Carolina, where they spent the summer months.

* * *

On Saturday evening, Captain and Mrs. Charles Steel complimented Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant Le Grande Diller at a dinner party given at the Officers Club. Their guests included the honorees, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry Wells and Major and Mrs. Edgar Hume. After dinner Captain and Mrs. Steel escorted their guests to the movies.

* * *

Wednesday, August the twenty-eighth, was the day chosen by Mrs. Leonard Boyd to honor Miss Harriette Wells, the attractive bride-elect of Lieutenant Diller, with a bridge party and linen shower.

Those who enjoyed this lovely party were: Miss Harriette Wells, Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. Alfred Brandt, Miss Sue Brandt, Mrs. Jesse Lodd, Mrs. Emil Leard and her mother, Mrs. King, Mrs. Clifford Perry, Mrs. A. T. Knight, Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin, Mrs. Michael Halloran, Mrs. B. M. MacFadden, Mrs. John Evans, Miss Landon Reed, Miss Verna Perry and Miss Bess Berry.

* * *

Miss Onnelle Diller, of Syracuse, New York, arrived Sunday to be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Harry Wells. Miss Diller is a sister of Lieutenant Le Grande Diller, whose marriage to Miss Harriette Wells will be a social event of much interest this month. Miss Diller will act as bridesmaid for Miss Wells at the marriage.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. A. W. Gower returned to their home at Fort Eustis, Virginia, after a delightful visit to Mrs. Gower's parents, Captain and Mrs. James O'Connell. Captain and Mrs. Gower were accompanied by their two small sons.

* * *

Miss Peggie Lampke has returned to her home after having spent July and part of August as riding Counsillor at Camp Pocahontas in Virginia. Since camp Miss Lampke has been visiting Miss Katherine Carr in Washington at the home of Miss Carr's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Carr. Miss Carr motored to Benning with Miss Lampke and will be her house guest for several weeks.

* * *

Misses Nancey and Dorothy Ross were hostesses at a small picnic given on Wednesday afternoon. Their guests were: Lieutenant and Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Lieutenant and Mrs. John Roosma, Misses Sue Brandt, Bess Berry and Lola O'Connell. Lieutenants: William Breckenridge, Andrew Foster, Maury Cralle, Dudley Strickler, Hayden Grubbs, and Noble Wiley.

* * *

Lieutenant Claude Burback and Lieutenant Hayden Grubbs are attending a house party in Savannah. While there they will act as ushers in the Black-Norton wedding. Lieutenant Black was stationed at Fort Benning last year as a student officer.

RECEIVES ARTILLERY ASSIGNMENT

Captain John T. Schneider, Field Artillery, who has been on duty with the United State Military Academy, has been relieved from his duties there, and subsequently assigned to duty with the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion stationed at this post.

CAPT. BRINE APPOINTED RECRUITING OFFICER

Captain Eugene L. Brine, 29th Infantry, who is on duty with the headquarters of the Special Units, and performing the duties of Personnel Adjutant, has been detailed to fill the office of recruiting officer during the temporary absence on leave of Captain Raymond G. Sherman, 24th Infantry.

Captain Brine replaces First Lieutenant Joseph G. Catte, who has been ordered to the Signal School.

K&P

Let Your DIAMOND Bloom Again

Have it reset in one of our modern mountings. It will appear larger, be safer, seem finer and appear to be more beautiful.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

B. H. HARRIS & CO.
Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans
Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS
101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

OLD ENGLISH WAX AND BRUSHES
will keep your floors beautiful and in the best condition, with the least amount of trouble.
OLD ENGLISH WAXERS SETS
$3.90 complete
OLD ENGLISH BRUSHES SETS
$2.50 complete
BEACH-MOSELY CO.
1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

We Rent Furniture
We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.
Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.
The Hecht Furniture Co.
115 12th St. Phone 1188

Exercise Room of New and Modernly Equipped Dog and Cat Hospital
DRS. MILLER & DAVIS
(VETERINARIANS)
"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"
1006—13th St. Phone 1313

BOOK REVIEW

WAR AS AN INSTRUMENT OF NATIONAL POLICY AND ITS RENUNCIATION IN THE PACT OF PARIS

By James T. Shotwell

"It is an adequate review of the book to give its title and to name its author. Since the formulation of the Treaty of Versailles Professor Shotwell has labored in the cause of peace, more abundantly and more effectively than any other American, and it is a peculiar pleasure to historical scholars to have one of their number make so forward and effective a use of his scholarship.

This book professes to be, and is, an analysis of the Paris Pact and a history of the diplomatic situation which evolved it. But the author sweeps his eye over the history of war as an instrument of national policy, reviews in detail the special national interests of the signatory powers, analyzes the reserves with which the Briand-Kellog proposal was approached in the various foreign offices, and finally discloses the pressure of public opinion, which, in the various countries, hurried the hesitating steps of statesmen into action. Reading this narrative one realizes that however vague the phrase "outlawry of war" may be, however statesmen may desire force as either a diplomatic threat or an ultimate resort, democratic opinion in the world regards it as an expression of its hope and a good starting place toward the goal which it intends to reach. Even in America, where we have allowed a tradition of isolation to paralyze our appreciation of the realities of modern international life, Professor Shotwell records that Secretary Kellogg's proposal "gave expression to a public opinion which had become ready for the proposal before he made it."

The most important service the author has performed lies in the analysis of the language of the pact and of the accompanying explanations, reservations, and correspondence. Are the brief and general sentences of the past "glittering generalities," mere unsanctioned expressions of a pious wish, or are they a vital covenant, imposing obligations, and, if the latter, do they affect foreign policy generally and American foreign policy in particular? No one has forgotten that senator after senator explained his vote in favor of ratification by the frank declaration that the pact meant just nothing at all! It is greatly to be hoped that such senators will attend Professor Shotwell's class in international law and morality, by reading his book. They will not be unduly alarmed lest they have been "beguiled unbeknownst" into joining the World Court or the League of Nations, for Dr. Shotwell goes no further in this very practical matter than to cite both Senator Borah and Mr. Kellogg to the effect that the treaty is in harmony with the fundamental principles of the Covenan of the League and stops short of committing the United States to any obligation to enforce it against any recalcitrant member. But they will be interested to discover that the treaty have ratified integrates perfectly with all the anti-war machinery the world has set up: arbitration, conciliation, adjudication and conference. They may be surprised to find that the pact entails a new definition of neutrality and makes it morally impossible for the United States to be a mere disinterested profit-taking observer in future wars. Senator Borah saw this and said: "It is quite inconceivable that this country would stand idly by in case of a grave breach of a multilateral treaty to which it is a party!" That is the strength of the pact. It is a multilateral treaty definitely abandoning war as an instrument of national policy and requiring the solution of all disputes and conflicts by pacific means. Signatories can no longer be neutral when they face nations which keep and nations which violate such a covenant. This changes the whole atmosphere of international relations and Professor Shotwell is wise in not seeking to draw ultimate conclusions. He has given the documentary record enriched with dispassionate comment and the consequences will take care of themselves. To the reviewer, as to the author, the record shows that we have made a long step forward."

—Newton D. Baker.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following named officers have arrived at and departed from Fort Benning since the issue of Aug. 23:

Arrivals—1st Lt. Frank D. Huarte, to duty as student 1929-30 course; Major Charles E. Speer, for duty as student 1929-30 advanced course; Major Pedro D. Dulay, for duty as student 1929-30 course.

Departures—1st Lt. Landon J. Lockett, to leave and change of station to Cavalry School, Ft. Riley, Kansas; Capt. Percy G. Black, to leave and change of station to Air Corps Tactical School, Langley Field, Va.; 1st Lt. John L. Gallagher, to leave and change of station to Army Medical School, Washington, D. C.; 1st Lt. Lewis D. Hixson, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; 1st Lt. Jos. P. Catte, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Arrivals—1st Lt. Harry L. Rogers for duty as student. Capt. Wm. E. Alger for duty as student. 1st Lt. Thomas E. Mahoney for duty as student. 2nd Lt. George Selma for duty with 29th Infantry.

Departures—1st Lt. Lewis L. Hixson to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. 1st Lt. Jos. P. Catte, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. 2nd Lt. Ernest H. Wilson to leave and change of station to Philippine Islands. Capt. Thomas L. McKenna to leave and change of station to Philippine Dept.

POST EXCHANGE OPERATION SCHEDULE

Effective September 1st, 1929, departments of the Post Exchange will operate on the following schedule:

Grocery Department, 7:45 A. M. to 4:45 P. M.

Filling Station, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Saturdays, 7:30 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

Auto Repair Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Saturday, 7:30 A. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Emergency service after closing hours.

Soda Fountain, 9:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Service Club Restaurant, 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Sundays, 8:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Main Branch, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

Shoe and Hat Repair Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 4:45 P. M.

Tailor Shop, 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

29th Infantry Sub-Exchange, 9:30 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

24th Infantry Sub-Exchange, 6:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Hospital Exchange, 9:30 A. M. to 9:30 P. M.

Gift and Special Order Department, 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Golf Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.

Officers' Grill, 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Beauty Parlor, 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M.

Office and Stock Room, 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M.

Saturdays, 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

SWEET PEAS

Who does not love this aristocrat among flowers? Its range of colors is the widest of all the plant kingdom and the sweetness of its perfume is surpassed by but few. Easy to grow, it is never-the-less somewhat temperamental. Sweet-peas have most decided likes and dislikes and if one is to obtain the best from these whimsy blue-bloods, he would do well to consider and humor their idiocyncrasies.

First, in the selection of the seeds, buy only the very best obtainable, and these from a reliable seed man. Cheap seeds never pay. In making your selections, it is best to buy packets of solid colors rather than mixtures. If you desire mixed colors, buy the colors you want, and mix them yourself. For winter flowering, buy the very early-flowering type and plant them now. For spring blooming, any of the standard types will do. The novelties are best left to experts, for they are hard to grow with any success.

In preparing the ground, the system outline below is excellent and is particularly recommended for this locality. Dig a trench a foot wide and from fifteen to eighteen inches deep, cover the bottom of the trench with four inches of well rotted stable manure, and spade this manure into the bottom of the trench. Now sprinkle bone meal or wood ashes over the surface and cover with four inches of good top soil. Right now before you go any further, is the time to place your supports. Drive stakes in the center of the trench about six feet apart. These stakes should be a good foot in the ground. Run chicken wire across the stakes and fasten with staples, a guy on each end stake will prevent sagging and also add strength. The bottom of the wire should be flush with the surface of the ground or about six to eight inches above the planing level of the trench. After the support is placed the seeds may be planted. For Christmas flowering sweet peas, the seeds should be planted now and covered with about two inches of soil. For Spring flowering peas, plant in December and cover four inches deep.

After the seeds are planted, you will find that the soil in the trench is from four to six inches below the surface of the ground. This is as it should be, as the young plants break through the ground and start making growth, earth is gradually filled in around them until the trench is filled up. Care must be taken, however, not to completely cover the growing tip, at least an inch should be left above the ground.

When the trench is filled to the top the sweet peas will have made a strong root growth and will take hold of the wire and start climbing. After the plants are six or eight inches high, pinch out the tops to induce branching, and except for spraying with a nicotine solution if asphis appear and keeping the soil worked at the base of the plants, the sweet peas will care for themselves from now on until the buds begin to show color. Application of liquid manure, weak nitrate or soda or a little commercial fertilizer worked slightly into the soil and well watered in will add largely to the quantity and quality of flowers if started when buds begin to form and continued through the flowering season.

A few of the cardinal points to remember in the culture of sweet peas are these:

a. Sweet peas delight in cool weather and while they will stand a hard front or even a slight freeze without injury, they will not produce results in hot weather.

b. They are deep rooters, roots of sweet peas have been known to extend three feet below the surface of the ground in search of food.

c. They are very heavy feeders.—Give your sweet peas plenty of food and they will give you plenty of flowers.—Starve them and you will get small flowers and not many of them.

d. Sweet peas require something to climb upon just as soon as they get above the ground. If you wait until your trench is filled before you put the support up, the plants will probably start sprawling over the ground instead of climbing, and then, too, you will injure their roots in driving the stakes.

Early flowering sweet peas planted now or any time during September, in accordance with the instructions given above, should flower in December. Try it and have your own sweet peas for Christmas.

Nent week: BULBS.

INCOMING STUDENT OFFICERS

If you have not heard about our plan of selling you what you might need in household goods, come by our place and let us explain. We will give you half back on anything you buy from us. We have gas stoves, refrigerators, breakfast room suits, chests of drawers, dining room suits and most anything you need in odd pieces. Come by and have a look.

THWEATT & SONS

1244 Broad Street Phone 2715

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. September 6, 1929 No. 51

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our Underpaid Defenders

Congress will be asked during the forthcoming session to enact a measure increasing the basic pay of officers and men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. As a matter of simple justice a new pay bill for the several branches of our national defense should be passed, but there are other reasons which have to do with increased efficiency and morale.

The officers and men in the nation's naval and military establishments have noted with interest the salary increases in the other governmentatl services, varying from 40 to 175 per cent, and have patiently waited for Congress to consider their meritorious claims. Pay which perhaps sufficed twenty years ago now is inadequate. Few civilians realize how officers of the country's service must skimp and deny themselves to exist on the parsimonious pay which the gavernment gives.

An example of the injustice of the present system and schedules of pay is seen in the experience of retired officers and enlisted men. The majority of them are on the retired list because of wounds and disabilities incurred in the country's defense. They are men who have served in one to four wars, insurrections and rebellions. Their remuneration is computed at not more than 75 per cent of what is known as the basic pay of officers and enlisted personnel of corresponding rank on the active list. Actually this amounts only to 51 per cent, since allowances for various purposes are not taken into consideration.

Congress should lose no time in remedying a condition which long has demanded attention. It should do this for the country's good as well as for the sake of justice. We should not expect topnotch service from officers and men who for many years have been underpaid. We should give our defenders better reason to feel proud of their countrymen and to have a firm faith in their sense of justice.—Seattle Times.

Civilian Criticism Is Heard

When it was announced that the President had ordered the general staff to investigate army expenditures with a view to reductions, The Star pointed out that doubtless there were many instances of waste forced on the army through politics. These the military investigators doubtless would make public.

It was The Star's guess, however, that congress (made up of experts on politics) would come bick with instances of military extravagances. So between the two the situation might be pretty well cleared up. The guess is proving correct.

Representative William R. Wood, acting chairman of the house appropriations committee, has returned from an inspection of the Panama Canal Zone with some trenchent comment upon military expenditures. * * * * *

How far Mr. Wood's critticisms are just and his suggestions practical remain to be seen. Obviously the army will have to be consulted to determine the facts. But with criticisms from both the military and the civilian sides the President's economy crusade ought to get somewhere.—Kansas City Times.

Army Surpluses

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, jumps to the support of President Hoover's program to reduce Army costs. The Army is top-heavy with officers, he says. Certain branches of the service have become obsolete and should be eliminated entirely or consolidated with others. There are "hundreds of millions of dollars in frozen assets" left over from the World War that should be converted into cash. Until they have been disposed of, he asserts, considerable sums will have to be expended each year for keeping this "valueless" equipment in condition.

* * * But Mr. Wood must admit that in the interests of preparedness the peace-time Army must be over-officered. It was not difficult to raise an army of millions in the last war, but it was very difficult to find competent officers to command its units. Should there be another war the 11,000 regular Army officers would not nearly fill the demand and the Nation would again be forced to depend upon emergency officers to command its troops. These officers would have to be trained in the shortest possible space of time and a considerable portion of the 11,000 regular Army officers would be needed to train them. * * * Perhaps these stores represent cheap insurance against an attack upon the canal.—Washington Post.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

HOT WEATHER BABIES

This is still the good old summer time, for September is often our hottest month at Fort Benning, though it began cool this year. Grown people may at least attempt to seek every available means of coolness, comfort and relaxation, but the baby, by reason of its helplessness, can do nothing for its own comfort and must depend entirely on the carefulness and thoughtfulness of its mother. The baby cannot tell you that it is very warm and would like a bath or cool sponge. it has no means of making you understand that it is wearing too many clothes for the hot weather; the baby cannot argue with you that it wants to be let alone, and that it does not want to be handled by gasping perspiring grown folk.

Parents must divine the baby's wants and needs, and there are many such extra wants and needs during hot weather. Sixty years ago tragedy was borne on the wings of summer into homes where little babies lived. While this was more marked in the homes of the poor and ignorant, other families were also attacked. What was known as "summer complaint" reaped harvest of the lives of the little ones each year. Those were the days before public health education of the public. Science had not yet established that impure and dirty milk was the chief cause of the common loss of baby lives from "summer complaint." In those days one out of every three babies died before it was a year old.

Cleanliness in handling the baby's milk is of vital importance. The milk sold on the post is believed to be safe though it is not easy to secure good milk in this locality where there is practically no grazing for cattle. The baby's milk for a day should be prepared at once and as soon as possible after it is delivered in the morning, the hands of all persons handling the milk must be kept scrupulously clean. Feeding bottles before they are filled should be boiled. If you are in doubt about the baby's milk or just how much and how often to feed it, consult a physician. This is no place for guess work. Keep the milk on ice, remembering that the coldest part of your refrigerator is the compartment under the one containing the ice. Warm the feeding bottle in warm water, testing it on the back of your hand. When emptied take off the nipple, wash it carefully in warm water and place it in a cup of boric acid solution. Boil the nipple once each day.

Water is an important part of the baby's diet, not only during the summer months but at all other times of the year. If the good habit of water drinking is started at the beginning of the child's life, the baby will learn to drink water whenever it is given and to like it. Between feeding times plain boiled water should be offered when the baby cries, and for fifteen to thirty minutes before each meal. The baby will take quite a lot of milk when it is thirsty.

During the hot weather the child should be taken out in the early morning hours and again late in the afternoon. When the sun is high in the heaven, keep the child indoors, in the coolest part of the house.

Protect the baby against flies, mosquitoes and other insects, placing a covering or netting over the carriage and crib. Keep the baby out of the kitchen when cooking, baking or washing is being done.

From time to time in these columns notes on the protection of babies against certain diseases will be published.

Next week's topic: DRINKING FOR HEALTH.

Success in war can be achieved only by all branches and arms of the service mutually helping and supporting one another in the common effort to attain the desired end.

The transition from the defensive to the offensive is one of the most delicate operations in war.—Napoleon XIX.

The basic principles of the combat tactics of the different arms are set forth in the Training Regulations of those arms. It is the function of higher troop leading so to combine and co-ordinate the combat tactics of all the arms as to develop in the combined forces the teamwork essential to success.

When an army carries with it a battering train, or large convoys of sick and wounded, it cannot march by too short a line upon its depots. —Maxim XXI.

War is positive and requires positive action. All training should, therefore, aim to develop positive qualities of character rather than to encourage negative traits. The basis of training will be the attack.

The mobility of infantry adapts it to movements on all characters of terrain. Its ability to move in small and inconspicious formations enables it to minimize the effects of hostile fire, to take advantage of covered routes of approach, and employ the minor accidents of the terrain as firing and cover positions.

The primary mission of the infantry is to close with the enemy in attack and destroy or capture him or his positions; in defense, to check his advance, hold its own positions, throw back the attacking forces by counterattack.

The art of encamping in position is the same as taking up the line in order of battle in this position. To this end, the artillery should be advantageously placed, ground should be selected, which is not commanded or liable to be turned, and as far as possible, the guns should cover and command the surrounding country.—Napoleon XXII.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

Soon the horsehide twirlers and swat kings will have lost their headline propensities and passed into oblivion. Old King Sport must have his periodical rations, and he is well schooled in the workings of a balanced ration.

During the winter months, he has his fill of basketball and the everpresent contingent of leather pushers. He seems to always have that bunch of pugs to use as a desert when night rolls around and there is nothing for him to do but go to the movies or a fight. King sport takes the fights.

Spring brings on baseball and tennis in such bunches that the fight cards are almost dominated. The amusement parks are almost certain to have one or the other of these hot weather sports included in their repetoire, this to give the fans their fill of fun.

Autumn is approaching now. In fact, it is just around the corner. Will we have as our guest, those robust fighters of the grid there to give us the happy-go-lucky spirit that the fall weather always brings? To the notion of many, the game of football is the only one worth while. Others give it to baseball, while still others give it to any of a number that might be mentioned.

Fort Benning has some of the best material in the Army for a good football team. So numerous are they that the athletic heads have thought it best to form a football league in the post for the past several years.

The competition has been hot. Many of the oldtimers will tell you that when the Intra-mural season starts there is bound to be plenty of action. Tankers, Artillerymen, the Infantry twins and the mixture of all, the Infantry School Detachment, will have representatives on the field.

The colleges, prep-schools and high schools have already started their pre-season camps, and the material is fast rounding into shape. What have we done so far for the game at Benning? A small number of men may be seen daily, out by their areas, passing the ball and kicking, but this does little toward training the future football aces. It merely gives the individual a chance to get the feel of the ball, which could be accomplished in a few days' work on the field.

What the football man needs is strenuous training, and plenty of it. He must get out there and work that waist line off and get some steam and pep. As Captain (Zipper Jake) Zellars used to tell us, "You've got to get that old pep and jinnegar, the sock and wash, the get up and go, to win football games."

We all know that the main object in football is to "cross the little white lines," and that each play is a "potential touchdown," but there is still another purpose that football fulfills that is not often thought of by the average fan.

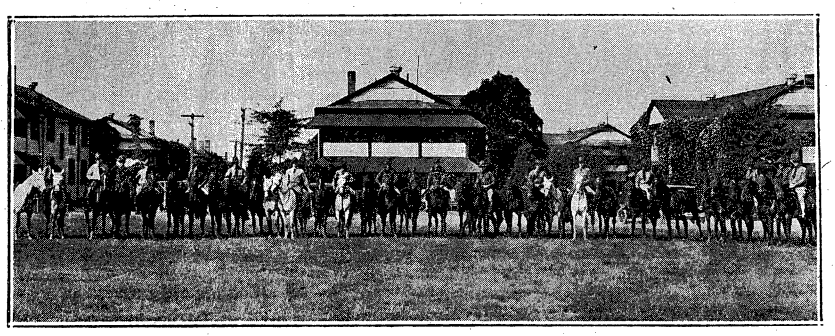
Did you ever stop to think that the game calls for better sportsmanship than any other game played? Just think what a man it must take to get out there with nothing but the glory of his team to fight for, and take the hard knocks that he is bound to receive, and never frown. He is not there for money, neither is he there for his comfort.

This season promises to be the best season that Fort Benning has ever had, with prospects of many dark horses showing, as has been the case with baseball this season.

Come on you pig skin toters and let's go!

83 F. A. POLO ACTIVITIES

Some of the officers of the 83rd Field Artillery who are trying out for the Artillery polo team.



83rd Artillery's string of ponies which are being worked out daily in preparation for the coming polo season under the careful supervision of Lt. H. D. Baker.

NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES ARE WELL ATTENDED

With 3,000 entrants and 112 teams in camp, all attendance records of the National Rifle Matches have been broken. according to statements made by officials of this biggest of all marksmanship contests. While actual matches do not open until Saturday, the great camp on Lake Erie is already filled with those who are receiving instruction in the Small Arms Firing School which precedes the matches by several days. The 80 events on the match program will not end until Sept. 14.

According to the official list issued by Col. Hu B. Myers, Executive officer of the matches, 47 states are represented by National Guard teams, and 39 by civilian teams. All nine army corps area have sent R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. teams, and the Organized Reserve has entered a team. The regular service teams include the Infantry, Marines, Navy, Cavalry, Engineers, Air Corps and Coast Guard.

Enough ammunition to stage a battle is ready for the shooters. There has been provided 1,500,000 rounds of .30 caliber rifle ammunition, 300,000 rounds of .45 caliber pistol ammunition and 75,000 rounds of .22 caliber small bore ammunition.

The Small Arms Firing School, which is now in session and will continue until the matches open on next Saturday, is in charge of Capt. Walter G. Layman and a staff of more than 90 instructors from the regular army. This school is the most important recent development of the matches and is regarded as a valuable adjunct to the national deefnse program. Any citizen may enter the school and receive the course at no cost to himself. Those who pass the course are able to instruct others when they return to their homes. By this means the War Department officials hope to build up a large force of civilians who can teach others the art of marksmanship in the event of an emergency.

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED—Position as housekeeper in officer's family by white woman. Have had experience with children. Box 463, Fort Benning.

PIANO TO RENT—Mrs. George E. Chase, 937 Third Ave. Phone 1057-W.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

DON'T THROW THEM AWAY!

Just because clothing becomes soiled it isn't necessarily ruined. We are equipped to handle any kind of work and give 24 hour service.

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

Distributor of Traub
Quality
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest
Modes

LAMAR SMITH

Phone 3032 1131 Broadway

PORT ST. JOE, FLORIDA

The Sportsman's Paradise
—— Fishing Is Now At Its Best ——
—— The Big Ones Are Striking

For reservations phone or wire
THE PORT INN

29TH INF.

Headquarters Co.

The following promotions were made in this company:

Private Luther B. Loveless appointed private first class. Private Loveless has recently graduated from the Bakers & Cooks School, as 1st Cook.

Private Charles H. Rolling was commended by his company commander on the neatness of his horse shoeing shop and was appointed private first class.

Private Elmer W. Morton was re-rated to specialist 5th class. When it comes to polishing up the knob on the big front door Pvt. Morton is there.

Private Haspell Martin, formerly 3rd cook in the culinary department, was rated specialist 6th class.

Privates Jake H. Page and Charles E. Lungrin of the mounted section have been rated specialist 6th class.

The regular company scribe, Pvt. Thompson, is on a furlough for 15 days and will return about September 16 and take over his duties as a cub reporter for this organization.

Howitzer Company

We feel very proud of our swimming team, which won third place in the post swimming meet. The Special Units swimming team, composed of the following men from the Howitzer Company: Cpl. Miller, Pfc. Miller, Pfc. Corey and Pvt. Wheeler, stepped out to score a total of 13 1-2 points. When you stop to consider that these points were scored against teams selected from whole battalions—well it wasn't so bad. The post record for 100 yard free style was broken in the meet by Cpl. Miller of this organization, the time being one minute, eight and two-fifths seconds. The previous record was one minute, nine and three-fifths seconds. The reason for this team winning was that the enthusiasm was so aroused, due to the fact that we had an "old standby," James P. Johnston, our 1st Sergeant, come fifty miles just to see his men swim in the meet.

First Bn. Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

No one is complaining about the extra amount of sleep that comes our way these mornings. Naturally, though, some of the boys would be late if we didn't have to get up until noon.

The other day some one mentioned getting out the old football. That is a sure sign of a change in the season, When the sport changes a new group of soldiers perform for the benefit of the balance. The question is who will be the ones from our company to represent us on the gridiron. Little Curley Headed Stepp will be there fighting as ever.

Seems as if our company was on furlough these days. Sgt. Groves, Cpl. Shaver, Cpl. Peery, Pfc. Atcheson, Pfc. Wilkinson, Pvt. Kilpatrick and Pvt. Hartison. A letter from Pfc. Atcheson the other day informed us that he was having a high time. "Papa" Atcheson is

83RD FA

Hdqrs., 83rd F. A. Bn.

Passing from the summer schedule the battalion now takes up training in earnest. Animals will be in harness again and recruits will receive their share of attention. Foot drill, driving and draft, pistol firing and gunner's instruction. Nothing will be left undone to make them able to soldier with the old members of the battalion and perform the many duties required in our own work and in connection with the Infantry School.

During the summer schedule, and since the return of the battalion from the hike to Albany, gunner's instruction has been the feature of training. 175 men have already qualified as first class gunners. Splendid progress has been made in instruction for experts. It looks like a record year for qualifications.

In connection with the new training season, it should not be passed over without comment as to changes in officer personnel. The writer has heard many people in Fort Benning remark that the 83rd is a lucky outfit in regard to having good commanding officers. Major Jones has left the battalion to take a course in the Army War College. There is no need to comment on the achievements of the battalion under Major Jones. We are all familiar with the transition from motor-drawn to horse-drawn. While sorry to lose Major Jones the battalion feels honored in having its commanding officer selected to attend the Army War College.

Major Ross, who is our new battalion commander, has given ample proof that our string of luck has not played out. The men are all behind Major Ross. Especially do we appreciate his interest in our baseball team and in all sports.

Other losses of officers are Captain Black to Langley Field, Va., to take a course in flying, Captain Crane transferred to the 16th F. A., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Lt. Robert C. Oliver to the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Captain John T. Schneider, now on duty at West Point, and 1st Lt. John G. Brackenridge have received orders to report to this battalion for duty.

Captain Edward Grover Ludtke, F. A. (Reserve) has reported for training, for a period of 15 days.

Baseball still holds the limelight with football just around the corner. We have a fighting baseball team that we look to make things hot for opposing teams in the remaining games to be played this season.

Polo is receiving the major share of attention of polo lovers at the present

Battery "A," 83rd F. A. Bn.

Captain S. F. Clark, who has commanded the battery for the past two years, relinquished command on September 1, 1929, having been assigned by the War Department as a student at The Infantry School. Under Captain Clark's command the battery underwent a change from motor drawn artillery to horse drawn artillery and has made a very creditable showing. During the past eighteen months the battery has had the signal honor of being selected by the battalion commander as the one battery of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion to compete for the Knox trophy in two contests. In the first contest the battery placed fourth in a field of sixteen, the result of the second contest has not been officially reported. Captain Clark's record as battery commander speaks for itself in that while under his command the battery had fewer desertions, less A. W. O. L's, less court-martials and more re-enlistments than in any past period of two years. The battery as a whole feels as if it has been a pleasure to have known and served under Captain Clark and regrets very much his departure from the organization.

1st Lieutenant John B. Murphy, who succeeds Captain Clark as battery commander, we know will have the cooperation of all and that Battery "A" will continue "to lead the way in artillery.

We have reason to believe that our 1st Sergeant posses powers of a clairvoyant which he has passed on to the blonde, as he was observed at the telephone last week talking to her and at the same time giving her directions how to get to the tent area by pointing his finger. Television has not been adopted by the army, Sarge, but she arrived on time just the same, therefore you must know your wave length.

The tennis court that bloomed in the spring, after several months of wire pulling, has proven to be a blessing in disguise in that Corporal McRae has been observed serving the balls a "La Wills" at least once a week and exercise in any form has always been passe with him.

The battery barber was heard to remark that it will be at least four months until cold weather as Private (Hank) Brawdy received his quarterly hair cut on pay day.

Private Turnbull, upon being asked why all the occupants of tent five had their heads shaved, replied that they all were firm believers in the sun cure and if the sun rays could build up the body why not the cranium. Alligator, we hope your experiment is successful.

Ex-Corporals Boggett and Overby, who departed from our midst several weeks ago to help the wheat farmers harvest their crops and the oil men drill their wells, have finished their tasks undoubtedly, as they both re-enlisted last week. Welcome back, pilgrims.

We wish to call the attention of all false prophets to our battalion baseball team, which is showing plenty of "IT," and predict that our battalion football team will be a much "bigger" surprise.

Battery "B," 83rd F. A. Bn.

Private Hunter was beginning to have dreams of collection sheets when Private Mock, the good samaritan, came to his rescue.

At a late hour the other evening Private Nicholas discovered that it was not necessary for him to be in his trousers for them to take their usual evening stroll.

98 per cent of the men of this bat-

(Continued on page 9.)

Lieutenant Colonel Thorne Strayer, Infantry, reported for duty with the 29th Infantry on September 1st.

Captain Kirby Green, Infantry, attached to the 29th Infantry, reported for duty on August 28th, and was attached to Regimental Headquarters and Band, 29th Inf.

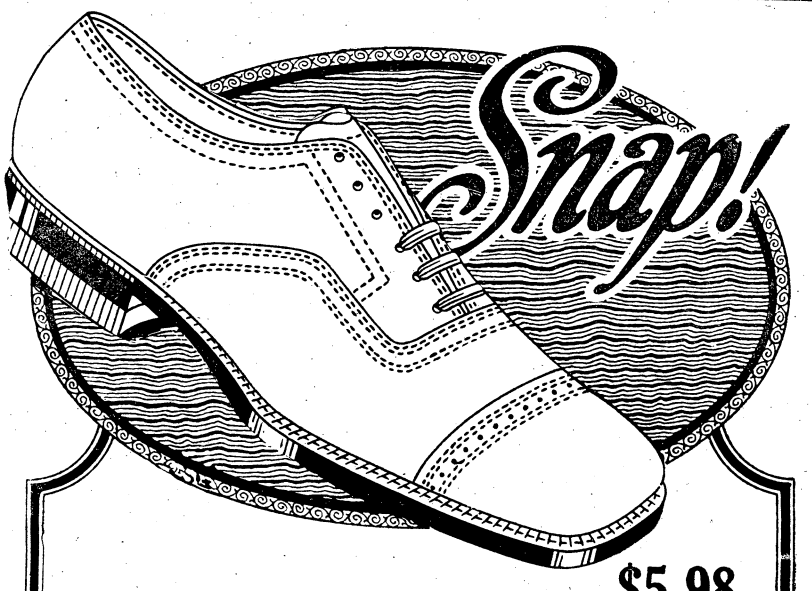
2nd Lieutenant George Selman, Infantry, reported for duty with the 29th Infantry on August 30th, and was attached to the Service Company.

FOOTBALL!

With the arrival of the season for the gridiron sport, the first thing to consider is equipment. We have a new and complete line of RAWLINGS goods. They are indorsed by leading players and coaches of the country.

Phone 314 for representative with samples.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.



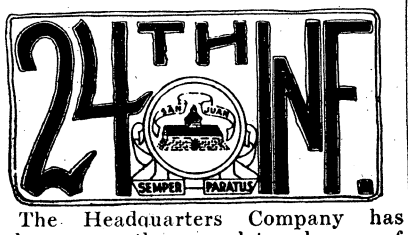
$5.98

Modern fashions are as discriminating in your footwear as any other part of your clothing. Kinney shoes present that appearance of good taste and snap that is so essential to the well dressed.

Comes in combination lasts A to EE
Sizes 6 to 11

Kinney Shoes
G.R. KINNEY CO., INC.

1140 Broad Street



The Headquarters Company has taken over the complete charge of what used to be the Quartermaster Stables, and hereafter these stables will be known as the 24th Infantry Stables. This brings to an end the dual control and responsibility of the stables. To enable the company to accomplish this mission its strength has been increased by a few men. Now is the time for men who like animals and are good teamsters to get in on the ground floor in the company.

The Hop Committee of the 24th Infantry has announced the following dates for the Regimental Hops during the coming winter: Oct. 18, Nov. 15, Dec. 20, Jan. 17, Feb. 21, Mar. 21, April 25, May 16.

Colonel Paul C. Galleher is away on leave of absence and Major Charles E. Coates is in command of the Regiment. Major Robert H. Fletcher has also taken advantage of a leave of absence. We all hope they will have a pleasant time in cooler climes, shooting plenty of golf.

Work has started on rebuilding Mess Hall No. 2, and on adding a porch to the Service Club and theater. We are going to be pretty snappy when it's completed. Everyone hopes that the paint supply won't run out before the kitchens get a new coat for the coming winter. Speaking of construction we heard a rumor that the swimming pool was to be cemented by next spring. This will give the regiment a most attractive recreation place to spend idle hours. It is hoped that every man will smoke seven packages of cigarettes less than normal and with the money so saved invest in a bathing suit and lots of good healthy times in the water.

Hdqrs. Co.

Private specialist 5th class Henry Hunter who is to be discharged in a few weeks, will reenlist for the Detachment of Calvary at West Point, New York. We wish him success in his new outfit.

Privates Elmo Davis and Ezel Carenthers duty to hospital. We hope they will be out in a few days as we don' tlike to have our men sent to the hospital.

The fish in the Chattahoochee had better fast for quite a while now as Private Henry Kirk has taken a furlough.

Private William Mitchell who enlisted at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, has been assigned to this Company. Pvt. Mitchell says he will be an asset to the organization.

Pvt. Percy Donison is from Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Donison is a very quiet soldier. He has a few months to serve to complete his first enlistment. Religious faith, Baptist. Nickname, "preacher."

The strength of this company will be increased in a few days. This increase is badly need, to carry on the importatnt work at the corral and stables.

Captain Jared I. Wood has taken command of the Company. Captain George T. Shank was attached to the 29th Infantry. We are glad to have Captain Wood with the Company and sorry to lose Capt. Shank.

Company "C"

Military affairs are about to get back to normalcy—practically everybody is back on the job, and going on as they were prior to target season; another year before us to talk about next year's target practice and expert qualification which many of us missed this year.

Many of the old soldiers of the company are being discharged during the month of September; as yet, we do not know exactly how many will reenlist, however, Cook Ward declares that during the next year he will introduce many new dishes to the company.

"If it passes — I can retire right now," chirped a member of the company.

Company "F"

Heard on the target range:

Officer in charge of firing line: "Fire at will."

Recruit Rudd: "Which is Will, sir?"

Officer in charge of firing line: " XZ&*!!;;$(,.:! etc.

Found the zero of a First Sergeant. First Sergeant William B. Smith's zero is six ham sandwiches and a quart of lemonade.

One thing is certain and that is, "If you dance to the music, the Fiddler must be paid." Eh, Adams?

7th Engineers

"Cy" Perkins is now the proud wearer of sergeant's stripes. Perkins has been with the company since 1924 and no more popular promotion has ever been made.

The prize remark of the season was pulled by one of the recruits in the pits. After being instructed in the art of pulling targets for a couple of hours, when asked what the red disk was used for, he calmly explained that it was used to show 12 o'clock.

Pete Zlotnik, despite the fact that he was the main attraction at Covington a couple of weeks ago, is still waiting in vain for letters from the seven or eight females who Pete claims lost their hearts to him. Pete's ego is suffering considerably under the strain.

ADDITIONAL 83RD F. A. NOTES

(Continued from page 8.)

tery that have taken first class gunners examination have passed the examining board. We also have eighteen men who are making fine progress with their expert examination as far as they have gone.

Battery "C," 83rd F. A. Bn.

It seems as if the soldiers of battery "C" have given up the idea of the government raising their pay so they are raising their pay by qualifying as first class gunners. Sixty-two out of sixty-six men who have taken the examination have qualified this season.

There are several recruits in the battery who have joined in the past two or three weeks that are getting along fine, excep one, who happens to be Private Glisson. The only thing that he doesn't like about the army is the "kicks" he gets out of it. He says that any recruit ougt to get a "kick" in the horse artillery.

time. Under the direction of 1st Lt. H. D. Baker, manager, the polo ponies of the battalion are being trained and exercised daily in preparation for the season just ahead.

Sgt. Dodd and Pfc. Bell were seen in town last week on a shopping tour. They returned with a variety of step-ins and other feminine fineries.

The battery is taking a lively interest in the pool tournament. Pvt. Robins is far out in the lead. We predict Robins will make the masters of the ivories take notice.

Pfc. LaPine received a summons from Wall street last week. Rushing in with his surplus cash and a pair of "bones" he returned to the battery with part of the Brooklyn bridge and all of the Upatoi trestle. We suggest he visit a bank or throw a battery dinner.

Pfc. Dailey asked Cpl. Starnes "how many croakes in a frog?" After ten minutes had elapsed "it" soaked in and Dailey nearly ended the week-end in the hospital.

Many new faces from Headquarters will be seen on the Artillery eleven this fall as shown by the early practice in throwing the pig-skin.

ROADS AND AREAS CLOSED

During the week September 2-7, 1929, the following roads and areas will be closed due to range firing:

Monday: None.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray road, Cloverleaf road and First Division road from the Sightseeing road (exclusive) to the Buckeye road (exclusive.) Time: 5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time: 1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Saturday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray road, Cloverleaf road and First Division road from the Sightseeing road (exclusive) to the Buckeye road (exclusive.) Time: 5:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

STATION HOSPITAL NEWS

Corporal Yutmeyer is enjoying a very nice furlough visiting his relatives at Egan, Tenn., and Cincinnati, Ohio. We hope you have a very fine time, Corporal.

Sergeant Gustafson and Private McCormick report having a good time while on D. S. at Washington, D. C. The only unavoidable accident that happened on the trip was when Mas misplaced his teeth and worried all day about them.

Private Haynes is spending his re-enlistment furlough of 90 days at his home in Knoxville, Tenn.

Private Layne is enjoying a ten day furlough with his parents at Daus, Tenn.

Private Magee reports, on arrival here, that he had a fairly good time while on his emergency furlough at Petersburg, Va.

Say Black, the next time you hide Abie's teeth be sure you hide them where he won't find them. He looks better without them than he does with them.

Captain C. H. Perry, Adjutant and Mess Officer at the Hospital, has gone on forty-five days' leave. His trip will take him through the Shenandoah valley and by way of Washington to Boston and New Hampshire. The return trip will be over the Mohawk trail to New York state and down through the Pennsylvania mountains. A very interesting and well-deserved leave for the Captain.

The Medico ball team disposed of the Independents 5-2 last Friday and cinched the cup for the second half of the Class A league. A series with the Engineers is now being arranged and when that is disposed of the Medicos plan a trip to Fort McPherson for a little baseball and recreation.

The grading of the ball field has been started and a cinder track will surround the field when completed. The Medical colors will figure in any track events at this post hereafter.

Sgt. Gustafson and Pvts Armstrong, Gilbert and McCormick recently made the trip to Washington with mental cases. No news of political importance has been heard so far but there are many interesting comments on the customs and habits of certain Washintonians. The detachment office is now swamped with applications for future trips.

After the strain of a holiday and pay day combined, a new member of the detachment was found Tuesday morning. It was the well known R. E. Morse.

BOXING Tuesday Night, SEPT. 9th

"As you like it"

DOUGHBOY STADIUM 8:00 O'CLOCK

WINDUP—10 ROUNDS

DANNY DAVIS (Ft. Benning) vs. GINGER JERNIGAN (Columbus, Ga.)

Blondy Parker, Doubtin' Thomas, Corn Griffin, "Bobcat" Morris, Bruiser Brault, Krafty Kline and others

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c RINGSIDE 75c—$1.00

Tickets on sale at Orderly rooms, Athletic office and Officers' Club.

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

TWO WILDCATS MIX IN MAIN GO TUESDAY NIGHT

Benning's Novelty "As You Like It" Program Has Many Interesting Numbers

By Al Durden

Danny Davis	vs.	Ginger Jernigan	10	rounds
Blondy Parker	vs.	Doubtin' Thomas	8	"
Corn Griffin	vs.	"Bobcat" Morris	6	"
Bruiser Brault	vs.	Krafty Kline	6	"
Kid Pecot	vs.	Young Sewell	4	"
Graveyard Henderson	vs.	Tomb Stone Boyd	4	"
Wotta Guy	vs.	Grady Martin	4	"
Deep Gulley	vs.	Black Smith	3	"

An Arkansas farmer once told a yarn about seeing two bob cats tangle up in a free melee while hunting in the river bottoms. His version of the affair was, "when them cats went together they started climbing each other; they quickly climbed out of sight but hair and blood fell for an hour." When Danny Davis and Ginger Jernigan tear into each other next Tuesday night in their scheduled ten-round battle at the Doughboy Stadium arena, fight fans will be treated to a fight that will rival the famous bob cats for speed and fury.

Both fighters have been trained down to the pink for this fight. Columbus fans are backing their idol to the last white chip. At Benning it is just the reverse. Davis is picked to stop Jernigan before the fifth round. Either boy is capable of turning the trick. Davis hits like a mule kicking and is fast and tough. Jernigan hits equally as hard and is just as tough. Both boys are natural fighters and love the milling. In fact this fight is a one hundred per cent natural.

The semi-final of eight rounds promises to rival the main go. Blondy Parker, Greencord ace, and Doubtin' Thomas, Doughboy welter and stablemate of Davis, will end a feud of long standing in the welterweight division. Neither of these boys need an introduction. Parker and Jernigan battled six fierce rounds on the last card held here. Thomas has met and defeated some of the best boys in his weight in this section of the country.

Corn Griffin, Tanker heavy, will receive his baptism of fire when he mixes and mingles with "Bobcat" Morris, claimant of the army heavy-weight title and at the present time a member of the 22nd Infantry, Fort McPherson, Ga. Morris comes here highly rated, having swept through the best heavies among the army posts in Hawaii. He made his debut in the 22nd Infantry by clipping the well known Pug Avera. Now hearing of the fighting Tanker, he will attempt to put the skids under Griffin in six rounds Tuesday night.

Griffin has shown here but a few times, but in those few showings he gave the fans an eye full. Morris may be all the advance dope claims but I will lay my blues on the Tankers nose.

Bruiser Brault will make his first appearance in the featherweight class. He will meet Krafty Kline, of Columbus, over the six round route. Brault's hand has fully recovered from the injuries sustained a short while ago and the little cruiser is back in battle trim. Kline has shown here several times and he does not mis-represent the moniker of Krafty. He is fast and crafty and a hard hitter.

Kid Pecot, of the I. S. D., and Young Sewell, of Columbus, will attempt to settle their last dispute, which ended in a four round draw. They are booked for four rounds Tuesday night.

Grave Yard Henderson and Tombstone Boyd, colored middleweights, will also be given a return match over the four round trail. In their last battle Boyd took the decision but the fight was so close that a return bout was arranged.

Wotta Guy, the fighting redhead from Company "C," 29th Inf., will battle Grady Martin, of Columbus, in what promises to be a fast four rounder. Guy gave Jernigan several hard battles before Jernigan gained his present high standing.

Deep Gully and Black Smith will open hostilities in a haymaking three rounder promptly at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

1929 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ARRANGED

I. S. D. Nor Special Units to Have Team in Post League

At a meeting of the athletic heads of the respective units of the post last Saturday morning, Captain Tuttle announced the schedule for the coming season of football.

After considerable discussion, it was decided that the duties of the personnel of the Special Units as a whole, and of the I. S. D., individually, would prevent that unit and organization from placing a team on the field this year.

This will be looked on with regret by many, for some of the post's best athletes are in the units of the Special Units. However, this will not slow the league up any, as the Second Battalion, First Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment and 83rd Field Artillery are sure to give the color that the intra-mural season of football at Fort Benning has always had.

The Artillerymen have taken the bit in their mouths this year, and are determined to come out and stay in front. The First Battalion, battling in past years with the Redlegs for the cellar honors, have expressed their intentions of making the Tankers and Kellys look sick this year. One can never tell where the trophy will go. Upsets galore are the predictions for this year's series of games:

Nov. 16—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Nov. 23—1st Tank Regt. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Nov. 27—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Dec. 4—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 1st Tank Regt.

Dec. 7—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Dec. 18—1st Tank Regt. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 5

"Pair off and find your buddies!"

"We will now review the eleven preliminary exercises which we did in our last lesson."

"You have now learned everything necessary to swim the crawl. The polishing process is only a matter of time and practice. I should now like to say a few words about the ideal crawl. The body rests in the water with a gentle arch from the head to the toes. Every muscle in the body is relaxed except the set which is doing the work at any particular time. The arms work alternately. One reaches out lazily to the front with the palm turned slightly outward. The arm is reached out as far as possible and whipped straight down until the arm is almost to the hip. Now the elbow is bent and brought up high and wide. The forearm is relaxed and is carried forward mainly by the upper arm."

"The eyes are above the water. A person should never swim blindly. Keeping the eyes above water does two things. First it prevents the swimmer from wandering from his lane and second it makes the feet stay in the water so that none of the leg drive is wasted on air."

"The legs are separated about a foot. They are worked from the hips in an up and down thrash which has popularly become known as the flutter. The knees may bend slightly. However, the drive should never come from the knees but from the hips. The toes are turned in slightly to increase the bearing surface against the water. Only the heels should ever appear above the water. If you find your buddy thrashing his legs out of the water you can correct this almost automatically by making him swim with his head farther out of the water."

"Now a word about the breathing. If the head is held so that the water cuts it below the eyes, only a slight turn of the head is necessary to raise the mouth above the surface. The head is turned sharply as the breathing arm has reached its rear-most position. A gasp of air is taken in through the mouth. Next the head is snapped to the front where it remains during the entire exhalation through the nose. The next inhalation comes again as the breathing arm comes to the rear."

"Now keeping this in mind I am going to have each one swim past me. I will note your faults. After I tell you what your mistakes are go to your buddy. Swim short distances and let him criticize your form."

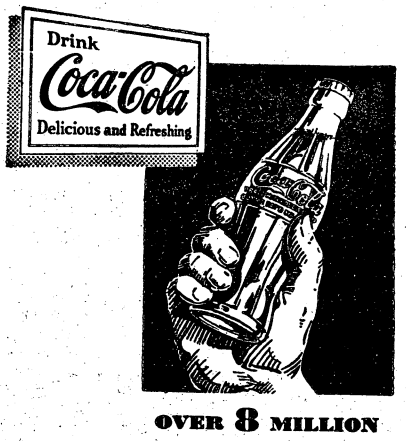
"We are now ready to pass the beginner's test. This consists of swimming the crawl for sixty feet."

"You are no longer beginners but intermediates. You will go to the intermediate class tomorrow."

Everybody says:
"TAKE EXERCISE!"—
For the same good reason
pause and refresh yourself

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA COMPANY

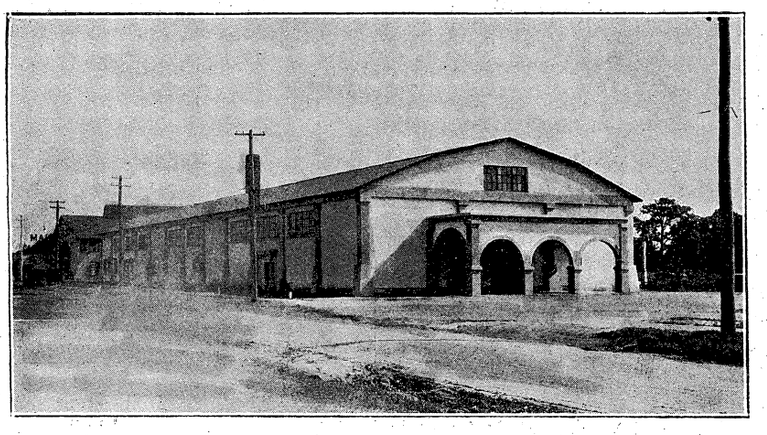
Telephone 360

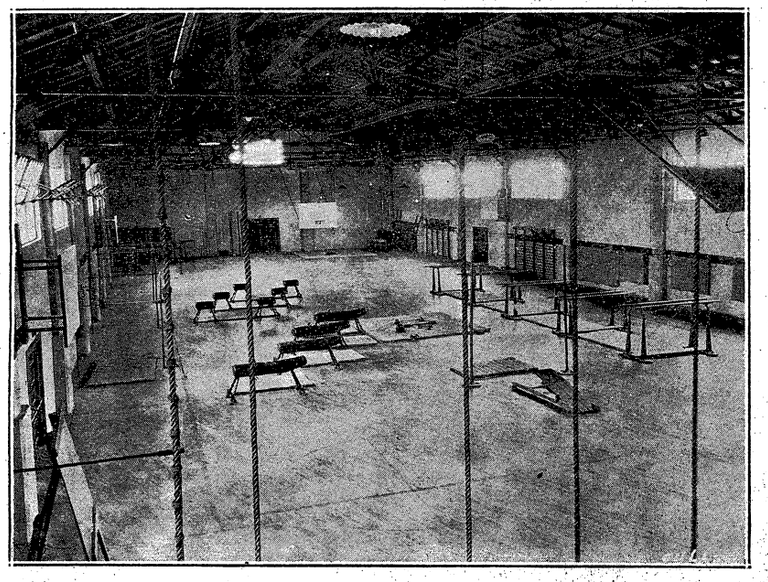


OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

FORT BENNING'S NEW GYM





Interior view showing part of the equipment in the new gymnasium available for members of the command.

Fort Benning is proud of its nice modern gymnasium. Rightfully proud too! Nowhere else in Army circles outside the Military Academy, can be found a building entirely devoted to gymnastics that will measure up to the standards of the new gymnasium that has recently been completed here.

The architectural beauty will be hard to surpass. The inside arrangements and plans are excellent.

Many ask one question concerning the new gym, "Who is the father of this idea?" The question is easily answered. Colonel Charles L. Willard, the post quartermaster, is the father of the idea, and also the head of the activity that executed the plans.

During the early part of the current year, General Collins, then the commandant of the Infantry School, called Colonel Willard one morning, and directed him to make arrangements to salvage the old eyesore that Fort Benning was using for a gymnasium. Many remember what a dilapidated looking structure this old building was. It was simply an old air plane hanger that had been floored and used as a gymnasium.

Colonel Willard asked for a little time to prepare some plans that he had been thinking of concerning the old building, and the time was allowed.

A short while later he submitted the plans to General Collins for his approval, and they were approved, providing the necessary funds and material were obtainable.

The plans submitted provided for the hollow tiles at the salvage dump to be used for the walls of the building. Other material used in the building came from Muscle Shoals, Ala. The cost was a mere trifle, and the results speak for themselves.

Colonel Willard did all in his power to have the building completed by June 30th, laboring from April 31st consistently. It was by his fine spirit of co-operation and conscientious efforts that the regular bi-monthly boxing shows and many basketball games were held in the building, at the same time that the construction was being carried on.

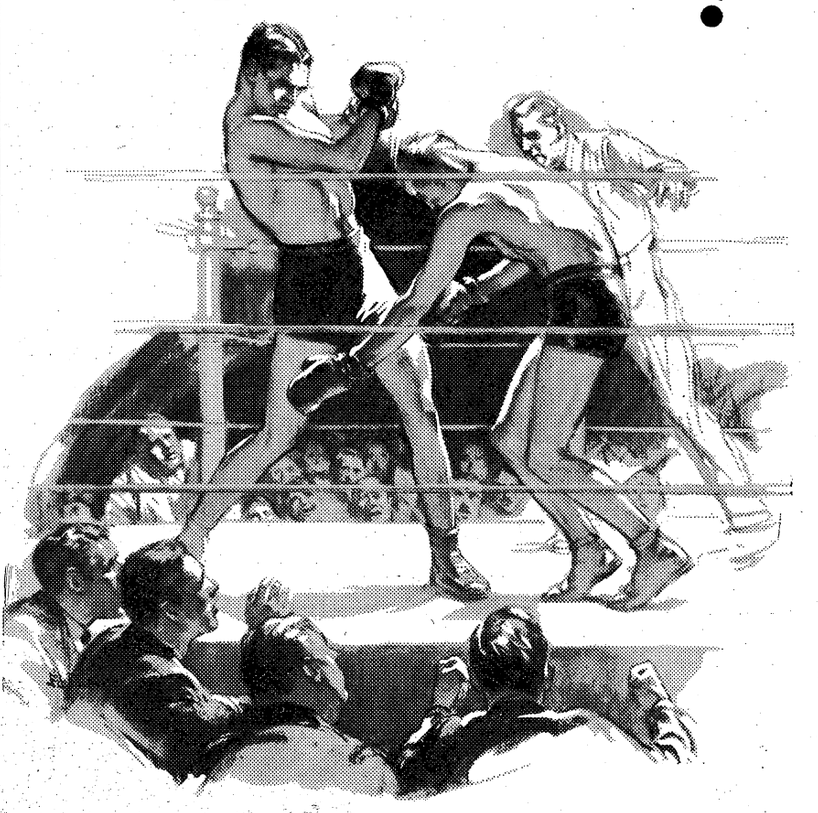
The building has a slate roof, inlaid maple floors, hollow tile walls, and a stucco finish on the outside. The offices of the building are the last word in perfection. Besides being neatly built and well lighted and ventilated, they are away from the noise and bustle of the lobby, and afford a place where the executives can work with pleasure.

It has been truly said that the Fort Benning gymnasium will stand as a permanent monument to the memory of its instigator and builder, Colonel Charles L. Willard, Q. M. C.

PAYMENT OF SUMS DUE QUARTERMASTER

The attention of all concerned is directed to the fact that regulations provide for the payment of sums due the quartermaster on or before the 10th day of the month next succeeding that in which the indebtedness is contracted. It is not sufficient that the check be in the mail on the 10th day of the month. It must be in the hands of the quartermaster on that date.

...in the ring it's PUNCH!



...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD... and yet THEY SATISFY

"STICKIN' to our knittin'"— never forgetting that Chesterfield's popularity depends on Chesterfield's taste . . .

But what is taste? Aroma, for one thing— keen and spicy fragrance. For another, that satisfying something— flavor, mellow tobacco goodness— which we can only call "character." Taste is what smokers want; taste is what Chesterfield offers—

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

© 1929, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

SPORTSMANSHIP

There is one thing that always goes with any kind of athletic encounter. That thing is SPORTSMANSHIP. None can deny the fact that the sportsmanship of the contestants and the fans is what makes the games of football and baseball the games they are today.

The rule committees have made rules that will force the unsportsmanlike contestant to come up to snuff, and be glad to do it. If he doesn't do it, the officials will throw him out of the game. He is the kind of man who makes it necessary for the rules committees to make these rules.

We have the man that sits in the dugout and gripes at anything that comes close to looking like a raw deal. In the majority of instances, this man is the man that has been receiving the breaks, and when the wheel turns against him, he is ready to throw in the sponge and yell "Robber! thief!" . . . . and other expletives that should never enter a sportsman's mouth.

There are a few of us who should think a bit about this, and try to make some kind of correction.

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

RATING OF MESSES

The following rating of messes is the result of competitive scoring by the Medical Inspector for the month of August, 1929:

Hdqrs. Co., 29th Inf., Detachment Quartermaster Corps, Co. B, 29th Inf., excellent; score over 80 per cent.

Infantry School Detachment, Co. D, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), Co. G, 29th Inf., Howitzer Co., 29th Inf., 100th Motor Transport Co., Co. C, 29th Inf., Battery A, 83rd F. A. Bn., Co. E, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), Hdqrs. Battery, 83rd F. A., Co. E, 29th Inf., Mess No. 2, 24th Inf., Co. F, 29th Inf., Mess No. 1, 24th Inf., Battery B, 83rd F. A. Bn., Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), very good; score 75 to 80 per cent.

Battery C, 83rd F. A. Bn., Mess No. 3, 24th Inf., Co. H, 29th Inf., Post Stockade, Co. F, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Ligt), Service Co., 29th Inf., Co. A, 7th Engineers, Mess No. 5, 24th Inf., Mess N. 4, 24th Inf., Station Hospital, Co. D, 29th Inf., School for Bakers & Cooks, good; score 70 to 75 per cent.

Co. C, 1st Chem. Regt. & Ordnance Co.'s, Co. A, 29th Inf., Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., fair; score below 70 per cent.

COAL SUPPLY FOR WINTER

It is directed that where storage space in the coal bins of all quarters is available that the coal office, phone 399, be notified so as to effect immediate delivery of coal. These steps are necessary at this time to avoid a rush on the coal office at a later date.

THREE TEAMS IN LAST HALF PLAY OFF

The Infantry School Detachment, Second Battalion and Eighty-third Field Artillery Battalion will play a six game schedule to decide the last half champions of the "B" league.

The Redlegs defeated the Engineers Tuesday of this week, and gained the roof position with the other two of the trio. These games should wax hot, as the Second Battalion wants to avoid having to play a little world's series this year. The I. S. D. would like to regain their old prestige that hasn't been enjoyed for many seasons, while the Artillery want the recognition that they have never enjoyed.

The play off started yesterday, and will continue through the 10th , when someone will be in tears, and the victors will be smiling. Of course, there is the chance of another tie all around, and then there might be a two-way split, but in all probability, this will be the deciding series of the season, as the Kellies have the strongest pitching staff. However, if Paschal and Hollaway are right, the Artillery batsmen will have a good chance to bang out a crown or two.

Barring rain, there will be a game each day until they are all played off. In case of rain, the game will be postponed until the end of the short series.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Pending publication of change in the garrison regulations, all vehicles going south on Kreis street will come to a complete stop at the junction of Sigerfoos road and Kreis street.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5 00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 PHONES 224
CITY POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding, Manager

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

How Long Since

Your car had a chance with

HAVOLINE

the Power Oil

Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8 30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia—Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co.

Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill
Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges

Direct Private Wires to

Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

The INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., SEPTEMBER 13, 1929 Number 52

Anniversary Number

1922 — 1929

We Wish to Welcome You to Columbus
and this Shoppe

Read Between the Lines To Know The Smart Outfit.

Not for many a long season have lines been so important as this fall. Svelte lines, they are. And subtle too. Never obvious. Attaining their willful way by clever tucks and darts. By the most delicately handled necklines. By flares that do the unexpected. By sleeves that are unusual. But always, always delicately simple, utterly feminine. With the gradually rising waistline and longer skirt their keynote throughout.

DOBBS

HATS READY TO WEAR

The Dobbs MARIETTA is exquisitely smart for early Fall wear — in Dobbs Leisure Light felt with a piquant air of demure charm. Every size in a veritable bouquet of colorings

The Debutante

THIS smart model, in fashionable black or brown suede, makes its debut at the height of the early fall social season.

¶ The same creation is presented in black patent, brown kid and midnight blue kid.

Priced at

SIX
EIGHTY-FIVE

Mail Orders Filled

KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, Inc.

"The Shop of Original Styles"

Bronze Tablets in Historical Triangle Dedicated Recently

Friday morning, Sept. 6, Brigadier General Campbell King and a colorful gathering from both Fort Benning and Columbus, included within the latter being Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney, State Regent of the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. A. N. Murray, Regent of Oglethorpe Chapter, Mrs. Ralph Edge, Regent of George Walton Chapter, Mrs. Milton Long, Regent of Button Gwinnett, and Mrs. Robert, past State Regent and Vice-President General N. S. D. A. R., a visitor from Alabama, assembled under the spreading branches of the fine old oaks between Vibbert and Wold Aves., on Sigerfoos road, to witness and take part in the dedicating of the three bronze tablets in the monument erected within the historic triangle at Fort Benning.

The tablets and the wording there-on are the work of the Columbus chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. They were formerly placed in a boulder at the intersection of Wold Ave. and the First Division road, but due to the traffic menace that the boulder caused they were removed and placed in the body of the old oak that stands in front of the Golf Club.

The old tree had reared its majestic branches toward the skies too long. The ravages of many seasons had caused it to decay, its branches to fall away, indicating that in a short time these tablets, so emblematic of Benning's early history, would be without a home. It was therefore decided by the local authorities that a more permanent monument should be placed.

The present location, the most central on the Post, was selected and the building of the base for the tablet, using only army materials and labor, through the untiring efforts of Major Henry A. Bootz, assistant executive officer, was recently completed.

Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney was introduced by Rev. J. A. Thomas, D. D., and made the address of the morning. Mrs. Gaffney was followed by General King, who in a few well chosen words, accepted the tablets on behalf of the Infantry School.

Musical selection, "Dixie"—29th Infantry band.

Prayer—Rev. J. A. Thomas, D. D.

Bugler sounding attention. (All standing observing one minute's silence.)

Musical selection, "America"—29th Infantry band.

The Flag Salute—Daughters of the American Revolution.

Address—Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney (State Regent, Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution.) Local historical facts covering the LaFayette, Kashita and Hichity bronze tablets.

Placing of wreaths—Mrs. A. N. Murray, Regent of Oglethorpe Chapter, Mrs. Ralph Edge, Regent of George Walton Chapter. Mrs. Milton Long, Regent of Button Gwinnett Chapter, Miss Cornelia Gillis, Miss Carrie Dudley.

Acceptance of Tablets — Brigadier General Campbell King.

Musical selection, "Star Spangled Banner."—29th Infantry band.

Benediction — Chaplain John R. Wright.

Mrs. Gaffney, in her address, gives an accurate and interesting account of each of the events symbolized by the large tablets.

Her address, in full, follows:

It is a very great pleasure to meet our friends of the Fort once more, and to look again upon the bronze tablets which have been formerly presented to the Infantry School of Benning.

To realize that, through enduring friendship this perpetual location has been given, and due to your interest in local history the spot has been beautified and made ready for our approval, is an occasion of complete gratification and conditions unrestrained enjoyment.

That this historic boulder builded to incase the tablets should be molded out of concrete, is especially significant —Concrete implies that we have created together—that we have united in growth—That the material is a product of the surrounding country, moistened with the limpid waters that have given refreshment to the traveller, and by its sparkling clearness made happy its early settlers, is a timely gesture of no mean repute.

As the Columbus representatives of this state organization known as the Daughters of the American Revolution, we thank you, and desire to approve most heartily your success in the completion of this work, and the selection of its permanent setting. Reposing as it does in much dignity, free from disturbances, uneasiness and agitations.

Due to the fact, that, some years ago the unveiling of these tablets and the acceptance of same, was undertaken by the three Columbus Chapters of the D. A. R. and the Commandant of Fort Benning, we shall today omit much of the former programs, and comply with the request that has been made by the Infantry School, to present the facts relative to the erection of these tablets, that the personnel of the present Military school may become familiar with the local history.

America is a nation quick to appreciate and to commend bravery where so ever it is enacted.

There is a most magnificent American War Memorial erected in Princes Street Gardens at Edinburgh, to Scotland's dead, as a lasting tribute from the men and women of Scottish blood in the United States of America and Scotland.

This monument, expressing appreciation for the bravery exhibited during the late war, is carved from a pure marble, and the lone figure of a splendid Scot, clad in his native garb, gun resting upon his knee, eager eyes up-lifted, straining every nerve as he gazes into the heavens, awaiting the signal. Beneath the figure is carved these words, "THE CALL." Back of this single statue, is carved from stone, an immense circular wall and on this surface is found a line of waiting soldiers ready too, for "the call."

Here, every line of work is exhibited; the soldier, the seaman, the miner, the minister, the planter, the painter, the poet, the fisherman, the aviator, the student; not one branch of all the services omitted; and chiselled upon the base, under this great line of march are these inpressive words,

"If it be life that waits, I shall live
for ever unconquered,
If death, I shall die at last, strong
in my pride and free."

Nor is that far off memorial America's only gesture of preparedness.

Our Government officials have seen to it; that, down in this sun-kissed Southland of ours, where peace and plenty hold sway, where Nature in her happiest mood, smiles continually on her contented people; the largest Infantry training school in the world has been established.

In flesh and blood, here is being trained our American life that it too, may be prepared. In high resolve this school is leading, and with rightful pride, boasts, "We have at Camp Benning the greatest school of arms in the world, bar none."— "The Spirit of the American Doughboy" still survives, and with sword unsheathed, the commanding officers advance, with the command "Follow Me."

The question is often asked, "what

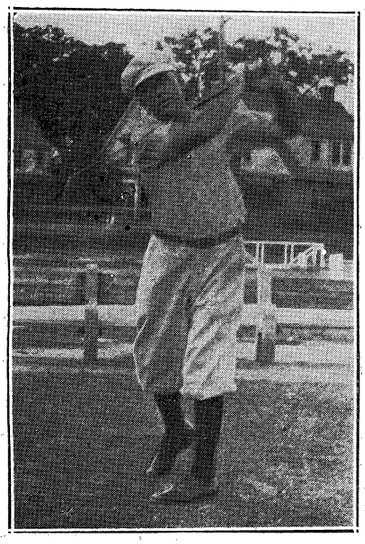
(Continued on page 9.)

Mrs. H. Fay Gaffney and Brigadier General Campbell King upon the occasion of the dedication of three bronze tablets commemorating some of Benning's early history on last Friday morning.

MAJ. HICKSON WINS CORPS AREA GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

The Fourth Corps Area Golf Championship was won last Thursday by Maj. F. E. Hickson, M. C., who defeated the medallist of the tournament, Maj. O. N. Bradley, Inf., in the 36 holes which constituted the finals, by 2 up and one to go.

The winner and the runner-up will represent the Fourth Corps Area at the Army Golf Tournament on Sept. 24 to



Major F. E. Hixon, Victor

28, which will be played on the course of the Army, Navy, and Marine Country Club, Washington, D. C.

Major Hickson's playing was a little steadier than his opponent's and his drives on the average were a little longer and straighter. Both had rather poor luck in getting near the cup on approach shots and in sinking the longer putts.

On the first hole of the morning round both were on the green in two and putted twice for a hole halved at par. Major Bradley was on the second green in one, while Major Hickson's drive went to the right side of the green in the rough. His approach went across the green to its left edge. Using two putts he lost to Major Bradley who also took two putts for a par 3. The third drive of both players had plenty of length. Major Hickson was on in two and out in four. Major Bradley took three to the green. His approach passed the flag by ten feet, making two putts necessary, Major Hickson's hole and all even again. The fourth hole saw Major Hickson drive off the fairway. His third shot cleared the trap nicely but rolled too far. He missed the long putt and was out in five. Maj. Bradley, however, played the hole without fault to make a par 4. The fifth hole, a short one of 105 yards, was halved with threes, as neither player's drive stopped close enough to the pin for a reasonable birdie. Two long clean drives marked the sixth but both lacked the steam to carry the 270 yards to the green. The iron shots were both well played. Again, however, both players took two putts to hole out in par. On the seventh hole, both contestants drove a little off the fairway. Major Hickson was able to use a brassie and hit a little too strongly as did Maj. Bradley. Major Hickson's ball stopped on top of the bunker on the far side of the green, while Major Bradley's stopped half way up the bunker. Both approach shots were about three feet short. Maj. Bradley's putt ran over the left rim of the cup to near-stymie his opponent. Major Hickson then made a billiard from Major Bradley's ball into the cup to win in par four and even things up again. Major Hickson drove a good 240 yards on the eighth. His brassie shot took the wind to the left and landed in the rough. He recovered and was on in three but too far away for a birdie four. Major Bradley was also on in three and halved the hole. The ninth, also a par five hole, was in like manner, halved in par.

On the tenth, the first of the upper nine, Major Hickson's drive sailed and rolled a good 250 yards. His brassie took him to the edge of the green and his approach putter stopped about six feet from the cup, but he failed to sink it for a birdie. Major Bradley also played a clean par on this hole. On the 154-yard eleventh, Major Hickson's iron drive landen on the green, while Major Bradley's was a little long into the rough. Major Hickson sank his second putt to win the hole, as his opponent recovering shot was too distant for a single putt. Major Hickson's drive on the fifteenth was the longest of the day, 260 yards, and straight as a die. Major Bradley left the fairway to the right but came back on with a long iron shot. Both had trouble on the green and halved the hole with sixes. The thirteenth, a 255 yard, par 4 hole, gave a long driver a good chance for a birdie. Major Hickson's drive, however, was low and hung on a rise in the fairway, while Maj. Bradley also needed two to get on. This hole was also halved in par. On the fourteenth, a dogleg four, Major Hickson's longer driving again helped him out. He played the hole faultlessly. Major Bradley missed his second putt, a five-footer, by an inch to lose, placing Major Hickson three-up. Both players took a drive and three short ones on the short fifteenth; but on the sixteenth, a downhill, 200 yard hole, Major Bradley won with a par three. On the seventeenth, Major Hickson laid his drive far enough to the left to have a sure entry to the green, which is blocked from a straight attack by a small spur of woods on the right. Major Hickson had to play a niblick shot over the woods which wasn't quite long enough. Major Bradley was on in two and down in four to win, leaving Major Hickson one up. The final hole of the morning was halved in par fives.

In the afternoon both played the first hole with an extra shot over par, and the second and third also. Major Bradley hooked his fourth drive to lose to his opponent, who made a par 4. The fifth was halved in par and on the sixth also, neither player's approach shot was near enough for one under. Major Hickson missed his second putt on the sixth to lose the hole and become one up again. Major Bradley drove for 250 yards on the eighth, while Major Hickson's drive was much shorter. Major Bradley won the hole in an errorless five to even the score. Immediately, on the ninth, however, Major Hickson regained a hole in the same manner. On the tenth, Major Bradley sliced well off the fairway, while his opponent played faultless golf to win the hole. The eleventh was halved in par and on the twelfth Major Hickson combined the first luck of the day with perfect golf to make a birdie four on the longest hole of the course, winning it from Major Bradley who needed six shots and putting himself three up. The thirteenth was halved in par and the fourteenth in one over par. Major Bradley took the fifteenth in par. The sixteenth and seventeenth were then halved in par and the match was over, with Major Hickson two up and one to go.

Majcr O. N. Bradley, Runner-up

The shot score was as follows.

Morning rounu, lower nine:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Hickson	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	5	5
Bradley	4	3	5	4	3	4	5	5	5

Upper nine:

	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
Hickson	5	3	6	4	4	4	4	5	5
Bradley	5	4	6	4	5	4	4	4	5

Afternoon round; lower nine:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Hickson	5	4	5	4	3	4	5	5	4
Bradley	5	4	5	5	3	4	4	4	5

Afternoon round; upper nine:

	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
Hickson	4	3	4	4	5	4	3	4	(5)
Bradley	5	3	6	4	5	3	3	4	(5)

The winners of the other flights were as follows:

Second Flight: Col. G. Williams won from Capt. R. E. Powell, four and 3.

Third Flight: 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau won from Capt. V. A. Huskea, 8 and 7.

Fourth flight: Maj. W. G. Livesay won from 1st. Lt. W. S. Lewis 3 and 2.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert won from Maj. M. P. Randolph, 12 and 10.

Sixth flight: Capt. R. T. Edwards won from Capt. D. B. Hilton, 9 and 8.

Seventh flight: Chaplain J. R. Wright won from Capt. W. E. Seamon, 1 up.

Eighth flight: Capt. C. L. Steel won from 1st Lt. E. Curran.

Ninth flight: Major W. F. Freehoff won from Capt. W. A. Howland, 3 and 2.

The consolation scores were as follows:

First flight: Maj. A. B. Jones won from Maj. H. A. Deiber 1 up.

Second flight: Capt. L. E. Norris won from Maj. W. L. Roberts, 7 and 6.

Third flight: Capt. W. M. Chapman won from W. O. C. A. Stone, 2 and 1.

Fourth flight: Capt. W. M. Hutson won from Maj. J. I. Meagher, 1 up 37 holes.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. W. L. Reed won from Maj. S. A. White.

Seventh flight: 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley won from Col. W. P. Hill, 7 and 6.

Eighth flight; Capt. W. B. Tuttle won from Capt. L. A. Wetherby.

Ninth flight: Maj. O. Allen won from 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 12 and 10.

The following have been chosen as alternates to attend the Army Golf Tournament in Washington: first alternate, Capt. A. S. Nevins; second alternate, Lt. Col. H. A. Wells.

TANKS HOLD ORGANIZATION DAY PROGRAM AT DOUGHBOY STADIUM

On yesterday, the 12th day of September, we were again reminded of the same day eleven years ago, when the reduction of the St. Mihiel Salient by the First American Army began on the morning of that day.

The Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment (Light) celebrated their eleventh anniversary, as the Infantry School News is entering its eighth year of service to the services.

A brief history of the second Battalion, First Tank Regiment, (Light) follows:

When American Forces appeared on the Western front in the late World War the Tank had no place in the organization of our combat units. The Allies, however were convinced that Tanks were essential to the success of our cause. Acting upon their advices the War Department ordered the immediate organization of a Tank Corps.

A Chief of Tank Corps was appointed, and a tentative site for the Tank Maneuver ground, in Boise de Amour south of Langres, on the Langres-Dijon Road, was selected, on December 29, 1917.

On the 8th, 9th and 11th of January 1918, twenty-one (21) Lieutenants, Coast Artillery Corps, and two (2) Lieutenants, from the First Division reported at Tank Headquarters, at Langres. In February 1918, volunteers of enlisted men for Tank Service were selected to form the Light Companies. These were organized on February 17, 1918 and began their special training at St. Goesmes, France. At that time two (2) American Officers were at the Renault Works in Paris studying the construction and design of Tanks. These officers and enlisted men comprised our original Tank Corps in France.

On March 23, 1918, ten (10) Renault Tanks were purchased from the French Government, and used in the training of this small unit.

The original designation of this Battalion (with the exception of Company "E," (Heavies), was the 326th Battalion. Later, the unit was redesignated the 344th Battalion.

Company "E," of this unit, which is the Heavy Tank Company, was organized in April 1918. It was composed of volunteers from the 65th Engineers. They were equipped at Camp Meade, Maryland, and trained at Warem, England. Here they were designated as the 301st Battalion Tank Corps.

Among the major engagements participated in by parent organizations of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment (Light) were St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne for the Light Companies and the Somme Offensive for the Heavy Company.

The reduction of the St. Mihiel Salient by the First American Army began on the morning of September 12th, 1918. In this battle, the 344th Tank Battalion, now designated at the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment (Light), received its baptism of fire. It was therefore fitting that the unit select September 12th, as the Battalion Birthday to be celebrated annually as Organization Day.

Program for the day follows:

Invocation—Chaplain John R. Wright.

Selection—24th Infantry Band.

Address—Col. Daniel G. Berry.

Selection—24th Infantry Band.

Historical Notes—Major Sereno E. Brett.

Star Spangled Banner—24th Infantry Band.

Entertainment stunt contests by companies:

Leap frog race, monkey and crab race, nail driving contest, centipede race, bindfold race, sack race.

12:00 Noon, Organization Day Dinner at Company Messes.

The results of the organization day athletic events yesterday morning follow:

Leap frog race, won by Company "E," prize 1 carton cigarettes.

Centipede race won by Company "E," prize 1 carton cigarettes.

Monkey and crab race won by Headquarters Company, prize 1 carton cigaretes.

Blindfold race won by Pvt. Joffrien, Hdq. Co., prize, movi ecoupon book.

Sack race won by Cpl. Carlyon, Co. "F," prize movie coupon book.

Nail driving contest won by Pfc. Kleckly, Hdk. Co., prize movie coupon book.

Entertainment stunt won by Comuany "E," prize six victrola records.

GENERAL KING IN WASHINGTON

General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, is at present in Washington on duty in connection with the Classification board.

HOUSING AND RECEPTION COMMITTEE HARD AT WORK

The housing and reception committee holding forth at the Ralston hotel are at present working at high speed, due to the rapid influx of students.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 13 to SEPT. 20, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 13

"MY MAN," starring the one and only Fanny Brice of Biegfield Folly fame in a gorgeous Broadway revue. It is a sensational and glamorous story of a girl's rise from tenement shadows to Broadway lights. A tense drama so simple and intimate you could swear it happened to yourself—so powerful it's sure to thrill you—so tender it will make you cry—so human it will make you roar with laughter. See how this girl of the slums won the hearts of millions after she lost the heart of her man.

"Back to the Soil." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 73."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 14

"THE PRIDE OF THE PAWNEE," starring Tom Tyler and Frankie Darro in a western thriller. It is a story of the Pony Express in the days of the "Forty-Niners," and how a Wells-Fargo detective copes with rengenade bandits. A beautiful love story is woven into the background of adventure and heroism. Don't miss Tom's best picture.

"OpenSpaces." Juvenile.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 15

"THE IRON MASK,"—Douglas Fairbanks, in a super-special sequel to the "Three Musketeers," supported by a cast of screen favorites, breathes life into the role of Dumas' historic "..'Artagnan." See this magnificent portrayal of the "Three Musketeers"" efforts to save the crown during those tempestuous days in strife-torn Seventeenth Century

"M. G. M. News No. 7."

MONDAY, SEPT. 16

"TRENT'S LAST CASE," starring Raymond Griffith with Raymond Hatton, Marceline Day, Donald Crisp and Lawrence Gray in a mystery melodrama with strong, sustained love interest upon which the entire story revolves. The fiendish crippled husband, misconstrues his wife's affection for his secretary, and makes plans to destroy both. The development of the plot will freeze you to the marrow. This is a splendid mystery picture.

"Jungle Goddess No. 3."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 17

"TWO WEEKS OFF," starring Dorothy Mackail with Jack Mulhall for the last time together in a lively comedy romance. Arevacation romances real love affairs? Dorothy seems to think so, for she gets the "brass" ring and a plumber husband in just "two weeks." Don't miss this hilarious comedy—if you do, it means you have lost a real vacation right on the screen.

"Fall In." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18

"NO DEFENSE," co-starring Monte Blue and Mae McAvoy which combines love and business in an entrancing tale of Boston and the Far West. Mae pays a man a nickle to spank her, and he did, and she falls in love with this construction foreman of her dad's. But soon a number of events bring her castle of cards tumbling down about her ears, and plunge her into the depths of despair. You will enjoy seeing how affairs work out.

"M. G. M. News No. 8."

THURSDAY, SEPT. 19

"SYNTHETIC SIN," starring the bewitching Colleen Moore as a good little bad girl, of the Great White Way. She gets mixed up in a gang war—and thinks it is great fun, until the piper called for his pay. Don't miss the snappiest, happiest, merriest picture ever made by the screen's most popular star.

"Screen Snapshots No. 1."

FRIDAY, SEPT. 20

"DIVORCE MADE EASY," starring Douglas MacLean with Marie Prevost in an out-and-out parlor-bedroom-and-bath farce comedy. It cleverly portrays the hilarious happenings with an unhappy bride and groom who call in the boy-friend to arrange a painless separation. Just for fun, come and see how to get unhooked easily—you won't be sorry to learn how it's done, though you don't want a divorce.

"A Lad and His Lamp." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 75."

AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
of Hartford, Conn.
WOODSON HOCKER
Phone 2956 Columbus

ROADS AND AREAS CLOSED

During the week September 9-14, 1929, the following roads and areas will be closed due to range firing:

Monday and Tuesday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry Woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time—1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Wednesday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time 5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Thursday and Friday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry Woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time—1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Saturday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

RIDING HORSES AVAILABLE AT INF. SCHOOL STABLES

The principal bridle paths and trails north of the Blue and Gray Road and First Division Road have recently been cleared, improved and remarked with a system of numerals for the convenience of the members of the garrison who enjoy horse back riding.

A map is posted at the Infantry School Stables showing the present principal trails and paths with their markings and distances.

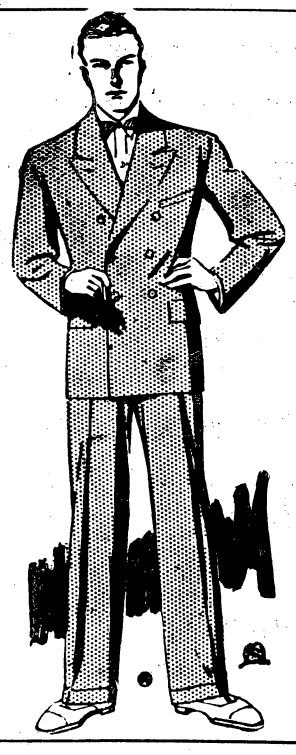
On and after September 5th horses for pleasure riding are available at the Infantry School Stables Wednesday and Saturday afternoons from 1:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M., and on Sunday mornings from 8:00 A. M. to 11:30 A. M.

TRAFFIC

Lumpkin Road is undergoing repairs and is closed from Outpost No. 1 to Vibbert Avenue.

Until further orders Sigerfoos Road is designated a two-way road. Vehicles going to Russ Pool will use the road west thereof, namely: North to Ingersoll Street, thence east between Main Theatre and Motor Transport Shops.

Chiropody
FOOT SPECIALIST
All lines of Beauty Culture
ALLEN'S
1221 Muscogee Club Bldg.
Phone 1784
Registered and approved shoppe



IT IS A PLEASURE

to welcome the students of the 1929-1930 class to Fort Benning. It has been a happy privilege to have served the permanent personnel for the past year.

We are equipped to handle speedily and correctly anything you may have in Dry Cleaning and Tailoring.

We call for and deliver.

(24th Inf.)

FORT BENNING DRY CLEANERS

Phone 465—Ring 2

For economical Transportation

CHEVROLET

a Six in the price range of the four!

We take pleasure in welcoming the new officers and their families to Columbus and Fort Benning.

Since the establishment of the Infantry School we have been serving both student and permanent personnel. During this time there has always existed between us a warm friendship and pleasant relations.

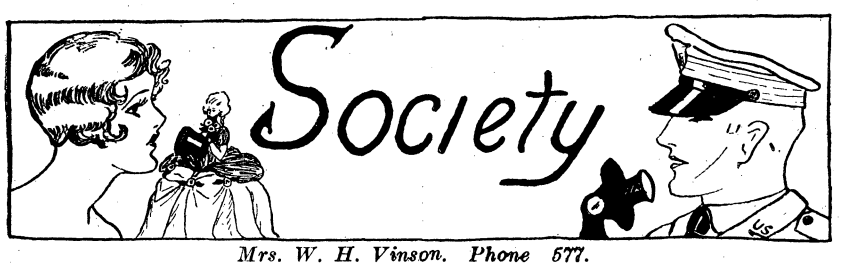
During your tour of duty at the world's greatest Infantry School for the coming year you will find us desirous of serving you in every way possible, and cordially invite you to visit us at any time while in the city.

Ask For Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.



Mrs. W. H. Vinson. Phone 577.

The bride's table was beautifully appointed, the cover being an imported cloth, elaborately embroidered and trimmed with panels and medallions of filet lace. In the center stood the lovely bride's cake handsomely embossed with roses and valley lilies which later in the evening the bride cut with her husband's sabre after the manner of army brides from time immemorial.

On either side of the cake, silver candle sticks held white tapers, and silver bon bon dishes held mints in dainty pastel shades.

From bowls embedded in flowers, punch was served throughout the evening.

About two hundred and fifty guests extended congratulation and best wishes to the happy couple at this time.

Later in the evening the bride changed her wedding outfit for a going away ensemble of wood brown, with hat, shoes, bag and gloves of harmonizing shades. They left for a honeymoon in "The Land of The Sky" making picturesque Asheville their headquarters.

Every day for the past two weeks has been filled with parties for Miss Harriette Wells and Miss Theodosia Hocker, popular brides of this week.

On Wednesday afternoon, September the fourth, Miss Peggy Lampke was hostess at bridge honoring Miss Theodosia Hocker and Miss Katherine Carr of Washington, D. C., who is the house guest of Miss Lampkin. The bridge prizes went to Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer, Miss Nancy Ross and Mrs. John S. Roosma. After the games, Miss Hocker was given a shower of handkerchiefs.

Thursday morning Miss Theodosia Hocker entertained at bridge honoring Miss Harriette Wells.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer was hostess at bridge followed by a linen shower at which Miss Wells was guest of honor.

Mrs. Jesse Ladd honored Misses Harriette Wells and Theodosia Hocker with a delightful bridge party at her home in Austin Loop on Friday afternoon. There were four tables of players, and Miss Peggy Lampkin won first prize, an engagement pad, Miss Katherine Carr, second, a double deck of cards with score pad. Miss Nancy Ross, the consolation, a set of novelty score cards. After the games, the brides were given cunning little suitcases, filled with handkerchiefs. Then a salad course was served with cake and iced tea.

On Saturday evening Colonel and Mrs. Charles Willard entertained at a most charming dance at the Polo Club at which Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant Le Grande Diller shared honors with Midshipment Willard and Hillis and Mr. Charles Willard, Jr.

The club house was attractively decorated with smilax, palms,ferns and cut flowers.

Excellent music was furnished by the Twenty-fourth Infantry orchestra. The bride elect was presented a handsome fitted bag as a memoir of this occasion.

On Monday, Mrs. John S. Roosma was hostess at bridge in honor of Miss Wells. There were four tables of players and Miss wells won high score prize, a pair of chiffon hose, Mrs. E. H. Vernon, second, a pair of hose, and as honoree, Miss Wells was given a bottle of French Perfume. After the game. a salad course was served with sandwiches and punch.

* * *

Distinctive in its beauty and elegant in its simplicity was the marriage on Wednesday evening of Miss Harriette Alpha Wells, only daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry A. Wells, to Lieutenant Le Grande Albert Diller, which was solemnized at Trinity Episcopal Church in Columbus, Dr. S. Alston Wragg performing the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of hundreds of interested friends.

The stately church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and garlands of smilax used as a background for pedestal baskets of whites asters and Ascension lilies. The color bearers, representatives of the groom's regiment, the 29th Infantry, with which he has served several years, stood just within the chancel rail. Bouquets of white asters tied with frilly bows of tulle marked the reserved seats.

While the guests assembled, Mr. Edwin Voudereau rendered a beautiful programme of prenuptial music and immediately before the ceremony Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd sang "When Song is Sweet and "I Did Not Know."

To the strains of Lohengrins wedding march, the ushers entered in pairs and took their places near the altar. They were: Lieutenants Thomas J. Wells, Charles Coates, William M. Breckenridge, John G. Van Houten, Thomas Moran, Maury Cralle, John P. Doidge, Dudley G. Strickler.

Then came Miss Onnolee Diller, of Syracuse, N. Y., sister of the groom and the only bridesmaid. She wore a beautiful frock of pink starched chiffon made with tight fitting bodice attached to a bouffant skirt with fashionable uneven hem line. With this she wore a picture hat of pink horsehair trimmed with a flat bow of pink satin ribbon, and her shoes were pink satin. Her flowers were pink and lavender asters and swansonia and were tied with green ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Sue Brandt, entered alone. Her frock was of green starched chiffon fashioned like that of the bridesmaid. She wore a large green horsehair hat which dropped gracefully in a bow of self-colored ribbon and her shoes were green satin. Her flowers were pink asters and swansonia tied with pink ribbons.

The bride, lovely in her girlish youth which was accented by the daintiest of wedding dresses, entered with her father, Colonel Harry A. Wells by whom she was given in marriage. Her exquisite dress was of white tulle over ivory satin, made princess effect, the long snug bodice fastened to a full skirt of uneven lines which was finished with two flounces made of many tiny tulle ruffles. With this she wore a voluminous tulle veil which was attached to her dark hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her shoes were white crepe de chine on which were dainty lace butterflies.

She carried a gorgeous shower bouquet of Sunset roses and lilies of the valley.

At the altar she was met by the groom and his best man, Lieutenant David Drew Hedekin.

After the couple plighted their troth, they went into the inner sanctuary, where, before an altar on which tapers burned in the sacred golden candelabra, they made their vows and sealed them with the ring, that symbol of never-ending love.

When the strains of Mendelsshons wedding march sounded, the ushers formed an arch with their crossed sabres which the wedding party marched under as they left the church.

Immediately after the ceremony, Colonel and Mrs. Wells entertained at a brilliant reception and dance at the Polo Club. Garden flowers in pastel shades were most attractively used throughout the club house, while smilax, ferns, and potted plants formed the artistic background for the decorations.

The bridal party received, standing near the massive fire place. They were assisted by Colonel and Mrs. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diller of Syracuse, N. Y., parents of the groom.

Mrs. Wells wore a lovely ecru lace dress with hat and shoes of the same shade, while Mrs. Diller received in a handsome black lace and chiffon. Their flowers were shoulder bouquets of pink roses and swansonia tied with silver ribbons.

* * *

On Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock the Wells-Diller rehearsal took place and following it Colonel and Mrs. H. A. Wells entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a lovely dinner party at the Officers Club. Covers were laid for Miss Harriette Wells, Lieutenant Diller, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Onnolee Diller, Miss Helen Young, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Lieutenants David Hedekin, John Doidge, Tom Wells, Dudley Strickler, Maury Cralle, William Breckenridge, Thomas Moran, Charles Coates, John G. Vanhouten, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diller, Messrs. Thurlow and Everell Diller, of Syracuse, N. Y.

* * *

Mrs. Lawrence W. Young and Miss Helen Young motored from Asheville and arrived at the post on Monday afternoon. They will be joined about the middle of September by Major Young who comes from Lincoln, Nebraska where he is on duty with the National Guard. They will be at home to their friends for about two weeks at Lieutenant A. R. C. Sanders' quarters. Major and Mrs. Young have come to Benning to be present at the marriage of their daughter Helen, to Lieutenant David Drew Hedekin, which will take place early in October.

* * *

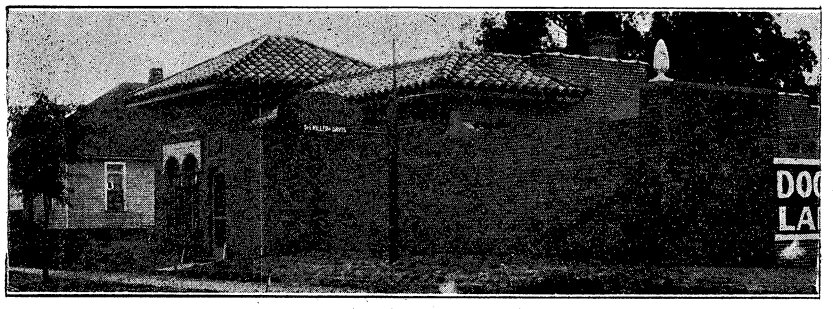
Friends of Captain Ralph B. Lovett will be interested to know that he has been quite ill for the past week at the Fort Benning hospital. As this goes to

(Additional Society on page 7.)

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital



"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

CODE OF ETHICS

Adopted by

KINSEL & PETRI CO.

(Est. 1860)

This store subscribes to the following declarations:

1. To do our full share in promoting all things that are for the good of this community.

2. To deserve the patronage of this community by rendering service based upon the highest standards of truth and honor.

3. To earn, establish and maintain a reputation for giving maximum values.

4. To adjust promptly any cause of dissatisfaction and endeavor to make every purchaser a satisfied customer.

5. To avoid any exaggeration or misrepresentation in word or inference so that customers will never be led to expect more in goods, quality or service than we actually deliver.

6. To advise every customer in regard to each purchase as we would wish to be advised were we the purchaser.

7. To make every transaction a stone in the foundation of CONFIDENCE, without which no business can be permanently successful.

8. To endeavor to apply the principles of the GOLDEN RULE in our everyday transactions.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

1105 BROADWAY COLUMBUS

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

BULBS

The subject of flowering bulbs covers such a wide territory that it cannot be treated in a single article. For this reason two articles will be devoted to bulbs, the first dealing with their culture and indoor forcing for winter flowering, and the second with the outdoor handling of spring flowering bulbs.

Nearly everyone who cares anything at all for flowers has at some time or other grown paper white narcissus in pebbles and water, but few people know that many other bulbous plants may easily be forced into winter bloom. No special equipment is needed other than that which may be obtained locally at a very low cost, and anyone by a little care and thought can have flowers blooming in his home from Thanksgiving until Easter.

All of the following bulbs can be forced for indoor blooming, where a certain variety is superior for indoor growth it is listed by name:

HYACINTHS:—Both the Roman and Dutch types force easily and may be had in nearly all colors.

POLYANTHUS NARCISSUS—The easiest of all is the Paper White, but the Soleil d'or, though a little slower, is far handsomer and its rich yellow flowers make it worth the extra time.

POETAZ NARCISSUS:—This type is a cross between the Polyanthus and Poeticus Narcissi, and though it reqnires more time than the Polyanthus, produces larger flowers and presents a wider range of colors. Elvira and Helios are the best.

POETICUS NARCISSUS:—These produce larger but fewer blooms then either of the above two types. Poeticus Ornatus and Poeticus Thelma are recommended.

TRUMPET NARCISSUS:—The familiar single flowered trumpets of the spring,—only one or rarely two flowers may be expected from a bulb, but the size and beauty makes up for the lack of numbers. Victoria, Emperor, Empress, Golden Spur, King Alfred and Olympia are all excellent.

CROCUS:—All do well.

TULIPS:—Only the early tulips are suitable for indoor culture. Darwin, Breeder and Cottage tulips are hard to handle indoors and frequently come blind or blight off. Of the early tulips Yellow Prince, Kaiser Kroon, Joost van Vondel, White and Pink Beauty force best.

A word here concerning the size of bulbs to buy: Get only the very best bulbs obtainable. Cheap or even second grade bulbs will not prove satisfactory for pot culture. Second size and bedding bulbs will do very well when planted out of doors, but only the first size or highest grade bulbs will succeed for indoor forcing.

Best results are obtained by growing the plants listed above in bulb fibre. A few will thrive if grown in pebbles and water, Polyanthus narcissus and hyacinths succeed fairly well, but all bloom readily if planted in fibre. This fibre is known commercially as bulb fibre and may be obtained from any bulb dealer or from most of the five and ten cent stores.

Shallow bowls, either pottery or glass, make the best receptacles. First moisten the fibre and then fill the bottom of the bowl to a depth of one to two inches. Place the bulbs on this fibre so that their tips reach to within a half inch of the rim of the bowl and fill in around and between them with moistened fibre, barely covering the tips. Press the fibre gently around the bulbs but do not make it too tight. Drain off all surplus water and put the bowls in a dark airy room or cellar.

From now on the only care needed is to see that the fibre is kept constantly moist. It must never be sodden or too wet, nor must it ever be allowed to become dry, even for a short time, as this results in the closing of the root pores and failure of the bulbs.

When good root growth has been made, that is, when top growth reaches about an inch above the surface, the bowls may be taken to the light. Watering now is very necessary. The surface of the fibre should always look moist, surplus water should be drained off by carefully turning the bowl on its side after each watering. Care must be taken not to place the bowl in an overly warm place until the buds show. As growth increases more water will be required and all the light possible in order to insure strong folliage.

Best effects are gained by planting from three to six bulbs of the same color and variety in the same bowl. Crocuses do better in shallow bowls and in clumps of twelve or more. Paper white narcissus will flower in about two months from the time the bulbs are started, while the others all take from ten weeks to three months.

After the bulbs have finished blooming they may be planted out doors. They probably will not bloom the first year after forcing but certainly will the second year and thence forth will increase in size and number each year.

Next week "Culture of Bulbs Outdoors."

PLEDGED to serve the incoming officers, it is our desire and pleasure to locate all officers in such environs as will make their stay in Columbus one of genuine pleasure.

"House Renting Our Specialty"

J. D. Thomason & Co.

Phone 585 No. 7 West 12th Street

Additional Society

(Continued from page 6.)

press his condition is somewhat improved.

* * *

Honoring Miss Theodoria Hocker and Lieutenant John P. Doidge, the young ladies of the post gave a delightful picnic and shower on Monday evening at Upatoi Beach.

* * *

All interest is centered in the marriage on Saturday of Miss Theodosia Hocker, only daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Woodson Hocker, and Lieutenant John P. Doidge of the 29th Infantry which takes place at four o'clock at the Polo Club.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Ernest S. Barker and Ernest, Jr., are home now after a delightful leave spent in Washington, New York, New Jersey, Niagara Falls and other places of interest. While they were in that vicinity they motored to Camp Perry and were guests of Captain and Mrs. Alan Jones for several days.

* * *

The visiting golfers in the recent golf tournament were tendered a dance at the Polo Club on Thursday evening. During an intermission the prizes were distributed to the victors.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. E. M. S. Steward and little Nancy are being cordially welcomed again in our midst after spending several months in Washington, D. C., and Atlantic City. They are at home in Wynnton at 1336 Wildwood Drive.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. M. S. Stayer returned Monday after having spent the summer away. Colonel Stayer at Culver Camp and Mrs. Stayer with relatives in Huntington, West Virginia.

Captain and Mrs. Ralph Pearson have returned to their home in Columbus after a gorgeous summer at Newport.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Calvin P. Titus reached Fort Benning on Wednesday of last week after a trip to San Antonio where they went to be present at the wedding of their son, Lieutenant Winston Titus and Miss Martha Lina Fisher which was an important social event taking place at the First Presbyterian Church in San Antonio at eight o'clock on August 30th.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Harrell Strickland are being congratulated on the birth of of a son at the station hospital on Saturday morning.

* * *

One of the landmarks of Fort Benning is about to pass on—the Vinsons have orders for the Philippines. Lieutenant Vinson began his ninth consecutive year of service at this post in September. There are only two officers who have been here as long as he—Lieutenant Reed of the Tanks, and Lieutenant Brandhorst of the 29th Infantry. Mrs. Brandhorst and Mrs. Privett of the 29th are the only ladies at Fort Benning who can boast a longer residence here than Mrs. Vinson.

* * *

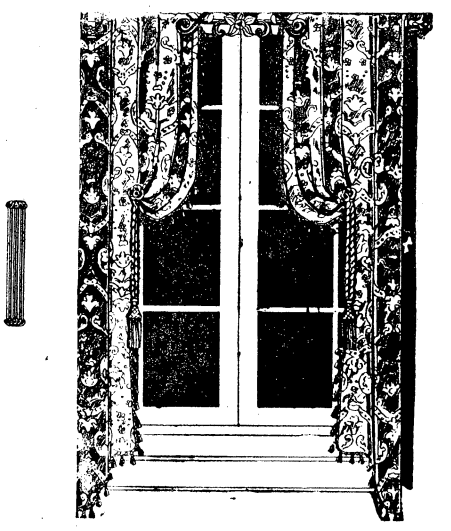
Captain and Mrs. C. M. Ulsaker have returned from a most interesting tour of historic Virginia and scenic western North Carolina.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. C. H. Perry and Miss Verna Perry are visiting in Virginia and will motor to New England before their return to this garrison.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer motored to Atlanta where they spent the week-end. They were joined there by Mrs. L. W. Young and Miss Helen Young, and after shopping on Saturday and Monday returned late Monday afternoon.



Our Drapery Department Will Please You!

Good Taste—Varied Selection—Fair Prices have always made up popular with Fort Benning personnel.

WINDOW SHADES

of every Style and Size Carried in Stock

Max Rosenberg Co.

1120 Broadway

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

VOL. VII. September 13, 1929 No. 52

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

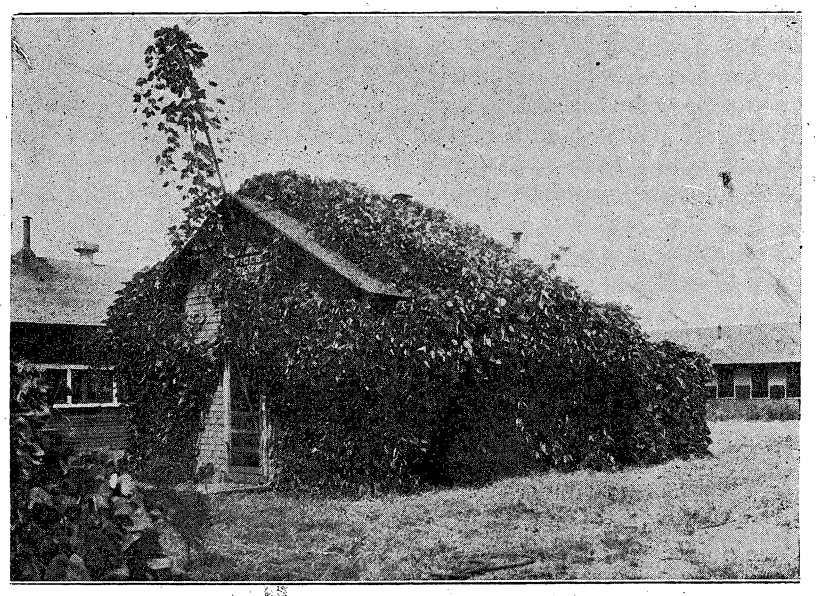
Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

FORMER HOME OF INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS



OUR SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Infantry School News today, despite the fact that it is Friday, the thirteenth ,is proud to announce its seventh anniversary. Starting in September of 1922, as some of the old timers on the post remember, as the Fort Benning News, with not any too bright a future, and with practically nothing but local distribution, the present Infantry School News reaches every Infantry regiment in the army in addition to numerous subscribers throughout the world.

In addition to being the official mouthpiece of the world's largest Infantry School, the policy of this paper is to foster and to maintain the proud self respecting fraternity for which the Infantry is noted and further to weld together the various individuals and units of the other branches of the service stationed at this garrison, into one harmonious family.

We may not have accomplished everything which we have hoped to do but with a full realization of the boundless possibilities of a garrison newspaper at this particular post, and with the cordial cooperation being given at present by our friends, both civilian and military, you may be assured that for the coming year you will have an INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS to meet your every expectation.

Every means should be taken to attach the soldier to his colors. This is best accomplished by showing consideration and respect to the old soldier. His pay likewise should increase with his length of service. It is the height of injustice not to pay a veteran more than a recruit.—Napoleon LX.

The tanks constitute an armored infantry element possessing protective properties that enable it to close with entrenched defensive groups protected against the effects of ordinary infantry fire. Its essential mission is to assist in the progression of the infantry by overcoming or neutralizing resistances or breaking down obstacles that check the infantry advance.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

NOTES FOR NEWLY ARRIVED PERSONNEL

The following notes are published for the information of newly arriving officers and other members of the command, those who live in Columbus as well as those having quarters on the post.

WATER SUPPLY: The post water supply is satisfactory from a health standpoint and the new plant, now completed, insures an adequate amount. Water from other than the regular post supply should not be drunk unless it has been examined at the laboratory and found potable. The city water supply of Columbus is excellent. It is free from disease producing organisms and is very soft.

FOODS: All food products of animal origin sold at the Commissary and Post Exchange are examined by the Veterinarian. The dairy products sold on the post are from inspected sources and are believd to be safe. All persons are advised not to use products from other sources without definite knowledge as to their quality.

MILK: Only Pasteurized milk is permitted to be sold on the post and it is advised that those not living on the post avoid the use of unpasteurized milk.

ICE CREAM: Ice cream from other than pasteurized milk and cream should not be used and only such ice cream is authorized to be sold on the post.

VACCINATION: All vaccinations and other protective immunizations are done by the Attending Surgeon.

a. Smallpox: Smallpox occurs fairly frequently in this vicinity. Vaccination is therefore mighty important. All persons should be re-vaccinated as soon as practicable after arrival here unless vaccinated within the past twelve months.

b. Typhoid Fever: Typhoid fever is of common occurence in this locality. All persons between the ages of 2 and 45 should receive the prophylactic treatment. Two courses of treatment within three years intervening are required of those in the military service and recommended for all others.

c. Diptheria: Parents are urged to have their children tested (Schick Test) to see if they are susceptible to diptheria. If the test shows that they are not, no further attention need be paid to this disease. If the test be postive, the child is susceptible to this dangerous and often fatal disease, and should be protected. This is quickly and painlessly done by administration of protective serum. Practically all children under the age of five are susceptible so that it is usual to give them the protective serum without previous test.

HOOK WORM: The soil in this vicinity is contaminated by the eggs of hook worm and other parasites. The worms gain entrance to the body through the soles of the feet, causing what is known as "ground itch." On this account it is inadvisable to allow children to go barefooted.

EXAMINATION OF SERVANTS: Examination by the Attending Surgeon is required of all servants prior to their being given permits to work on the post. The examination is designed to protect families against communicable diseases. The examinations are made by the Attending Surgeon on the post from 9:00 to 9:30 A. M., on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Servants of military personnel not living on the post are also entitled to such examination, which is made by the Attending Surgeon in Columbus.

DOGS: Protective vaccination against Rabies (Hydrophobia) is required of all dogs on the post. This is done at the Veterinary Hospital. If any person be bitten by a dog the animal should be taken to the Veterinary Hospital for observation. It should, on no account, be killed prior to such examination, as such action might prevent the detection of possible rabies in the animal. The same regulations apply to cats.

SNAKE BITES: Protective serum to be used in treating any person bitten by a poisonous snake is kept at the Station Hospital.

MEDICAL ATTENTION: The office hours of the Attending Surgeon at the Post are daily, except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, from 8:00 A. M. to 10:30 A. M. and 1:00 to 2:00 P. M., Saturdays 8:00 to 10:30 A. M. His office is located on the ground floor of the new hospital. Phone 126. Vaccinations of women and children: Mondays and Saturdays 9:00 to 10 00 A. M. Children's Clinic: Wednesday 9:00 A. M. Physical examination of Colored Servants: Tuesdays and Thursday 9:00 to 10:00 A. M. Requests for visits to persons unable to come to the hospital for treatment should, if possible, be made before 9:00 A. M.

The office of the Attending Surgeon in Columbus is on the third floor (Rooms 304-306) of the Doctor's Building at 1310 Broadway. Telephone 255 (Columbus.) His office hours are: Monday to Saturday inclusive, 11 00 to 12:00; Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridayss 2:00 to 3:00 (in addition); Sundays 10:00 to 11:00; Wednesday afternoon reserved for children's clinic. The nurse is in attendance daily except Saturdays Sundays and holidays from 8 00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. and on Saturdays from 8:00 A. M. to noon.

In emergencies arising on the post, call Telephone 572 at any hour. In Columbus call the office of the Attending Surgeon (Telephone 255) during office hours. At other times call Columbus 4173 (White Aid Station.)

DENTAL CLINIC: Appointments may be made by Telephone, Branch 542.

HEALTH NOTES: Each week this column is devoted to topics relating to health and the prevention of disease. Suggestions as to subjects to be discussed are welcomed.

HEALTH OFFICER: The Medical Inspector of the post corresponds to the Health Officer of a city and is at all times ready to give advise on matters relating to sanitation and the prevention of diseases. Telephone Branch 27.

(Cut this out and save for reference.)

The employment of all infantry weapons is normally combined in the battalion. The battalion, re-enforced by infantry cannon, and in the proper case, by tanks, constitutes the complete unit of infantry combat, capable of assignment to a mission requiring the application of all infantry means of action.

The operative mobility of infantry can be increased by the employment of motor transportation.

The leading qualifications which should distinguish an officer selected for the head of the staff are, to know the country thoroughly; to be able to conduct a reconnaissance with skill; to superintend the transmission of orders promptly; to lay down the most complicated movements intelligently, but in few words and with simplicity.—Napoleon LXXIV.

BRONZE TABLETS DEDICATED RECENTLY

(Continued from page 3.)

work will continue to be undertaken by the Daughters of the American Revolution?" It is a privilege to always answer that query.

There is one section of our Constitution where we, as an organization, pledge "To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American Independence by the acquisition and protection of Historic Spots, and the erection of monuments, by the encouragement of historic research in relation to the Revolution."

We have assembled here today, this sixth day of September, to again honor the memory of General Lafayette, an apostel of Liberty, a son of two Republics, and to again refresh our minds concerning the brilliant hero, as touching upon the part he played in making us free.

A Historian has said that, "Providence has given birth at nearly the same time to two men Lafayette and Napoleon, and has placed them face to face, as if to offer to our generation two different types of greatness."

Just as at the two extremities of Paris, there are two monuments erected, one which glorifies the grandeur of absolute power, and the other which lifts to the clouds, the genius of Liberty, so standing togther they appear to challenge and say to France: "CHOOSE." In turn she has paid homage to one and the other, believing that she could unite and blend these two opposing faiths; but the force of events and truth have protested against them, and it will be necessary one day to make a choice; and when that day comes the memory of Lafayette will once more be revived. —We, his American friends, have long since visioned his superiority, and rightly estimated his greatness. To France we say, that, even though you pronounce him one of the first men of his time, still, you have not done him justice; try him by that test which he sought in vain to stimulate the vulgar and selfish spirit of Napoleon; turn back your eyes upon the records of the time, summon from the creation of the world to this day, the mighty dead of every age and many climes, and where among the races of merely mortal men shall one be found who, as a benefactor of mankind, shall claim precedence of Marquis de Lafayette?

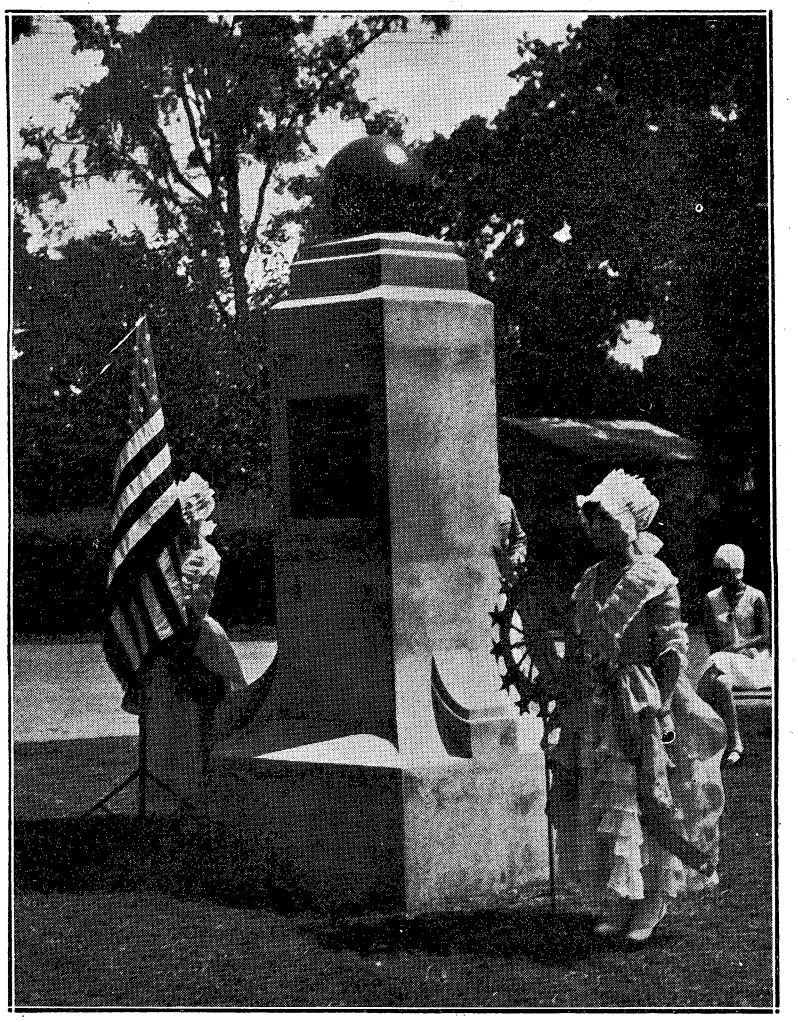
When America was entering the struggle for her early independence, Lafayette, then a young man of only 19 years, felt impelled to cross the sea, and enlist in so great a cause, exclaiming, "from the very first news, my heart was enrolled." His experience as an officer in the Revolution, coming as it did at an impressionable age, affected profoundly his life as an idealist, rather than a practical reformer. Many years there after, as time advanced, America's admiration for this Frenchman deepened and mellowed into a perpetual friendship, and in the spring of 1824 President Monroe urged Lafayette to visit the United States, and placed at his disposal the frigate; "North Carolina."

He expressed at once his great appreciation of this cordial invitation, and although declining the use of the proffered vessel, accompanied by his son George, sailed and arrived in New York in August, 1824.

It was the following month of March that this much feted visitor finally reached the Southern States, and at this time, passed this way.

The visit of the venerable Lafayette excited the patriotic fervor of the people to the highest point of enthusiasm. His tour was like the march of a triumphal hero.

Down the First Division road to the junction with the Lumpkin road, and thence directly west across the 29th Infantry area and on toward the Bradley farm, there once stretched the old "FEDERAL ROAD" authorized by an act of Congress in 1805, opened as a bridle path in 1807, and completed as a main traffic route in 1811.



Miss Carrie Dudley, flag bearer, and Miss Cornelia Gillis, emblem bearer, at the dedication exercises on last Friday morning.

This road was the main emigrant route for settlers moving Westward from the Atlantic seaboard toward the lower Mississippi valley.

Along this road in the spring of 1825 came General Lafayette, then the only surviving General of the American Revolution.

Upon the one hundredth anniversary of this great pilgrimage, hearing that this soldier of France, who volunteered in the cause of American Liberty, had crossed the site of this reservation, where Americans are now being trained to lead citizens in defense of those liberties he fought to secure, the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution approached the Benning authoriites with a view to securing the erection of a suitable marker.

The results are before you; and we cannot but pause at this moment and express again appreciation to the able Alabama Historian, Peter A. Brannon, for the authentic data covering this local history. It is with pleasure we acknowledge this courtesy, for the mother of this learned Historian is an active member of one of our Columbus chapters.

At a crossing of the Chattahoochee hard by, Lafayette and his official escorts, were met at the river-bank by a convoy of two or three hundred persons, composed of the militia, several prominent citizens and numbers of Indians.

He was greeted by Chilly McIntosh, the son of the Indian General, William McIntosh, assisted by fifty other Indian warriors. After the formal introductions, the festivities of the day closed with a magnificent game of ball play. After watching the Indians in this exciting game, many Revolutionary soldiers were presented to the famous Lafayette. He left at mid-night of the some day, to resume his journey to the coast.

Next in order came the presentation of the second tablet by the local members of the Society, in the name of all Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution.

In searching for data covering this particular history, little could be found; but we do know that here was located an ancient village called "Kashata," now referred to as Cusseta. This Peacetown was the capital of an Indian nation of the Lower Creek Confederacy, as late as the year 1799.

On a plateau which runs back some few hundred yards to a rolling bluff-like formation, was the white "SQUARE" of the town, and this was plainly discernible as late as the year 1830. It is of interest to know that, the General's headquarters mark the exact place of this ancient Indian Capital.

This village was peopled with tribes of peaceful Indians, who enjoyed life, amidst these rolling hills and mirrored streams. Then later came the Muscogees, a tribe more powerful and warlike. These Muscogees exterminated the weaker nations, took possession of their properties, and here made their abode, till in turn came the "White man, The Pale-face," who drove the last of these "Red men" across the untrodden plains, to the broad Mississippi. * * *

The third and last tablet is placed to commemorate an event known as the "Battle of Hitchiti." This was fought on the Benning reservation, and the only battle ever having been staged upon this ground.

How true it is, that, "the world's history is a divine poem of which the history of every nation is a canto, and every man a word."

General King, in behalf of the Columbus Daughters of the American Revolution, and every Georgia Daughter as well, I, by virtue of my office as State Regent, pray you, accept these tablets of bronze, imbedded in their permanent abode; and may the inspiration that prompted the erection of each one, prove in some slight degree, a possession of meritorious value.

INF. RIFLE TEAM MEMBERS WIN PLACES

The Infantry Rifle team that trained at Fort Benning in the late spring and early summer, is making the grade at Camp Perry, so the latest special communications to the NEWS show.

Already, many Fort Benning men have shown near the top, if not on top in several of the matches. The competition is much keener than previously, there being more contestants than there have been in many years. Then too, the individual matches are taking on more color, as the civilian teams are becoming more anxious to down the service teams.

At present the Marine Corps team has a slight edge on the Infantry, they having won more matches than their nearest opponent, yet there is the big counter left yet to fire. Each day as the shooting progresses, the contestants are becoming more proficient, and the high places are harder and harder to get. Many matches have resulted in more than five men making the same score for high man, and the place was alloted to one man by other means. In the lower places, as many as a dozen have tied for the same place.

The table below will give some idea as to how the members of the Infantry Rifle team are holding their own with the rest of the pack:

Note: The places shown taken here are the reespective places of the members of the Infantry Team as compared to other service entries.

Chemical Warfare Match
100 possible, 328 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Lt. M. K.Martens, 4th Inf.....	1	94
Capt. M. L. Broderick, Inf.....	2	94
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf...	3	89

President's Match
150 possiine, 1510 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Corp. C. L. Umberger, 23rd Inf.	2	146
Sgt. E. Bockell, 4th Inf.....	36	140
Pfc. M. Yelovitch, 18th Inf.....	38	140
Capt. M. L. Broderick, Inf.....	41	140
Corp. M. L. Moore, 4th Inf.....	48	139

Scott Match, 75 possible, 776 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf.....	24	73
Capt. K. L. Berry, Inf.....	27	73
Sgt. S. Bradford, 24th Inf.....	40	73
Corp. M. L. Moore, 4th Inf.....	44	73

Marine Corps Cup Match
100 possible, 1385 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Lt. G. B. Gilbreath, 29th Inf...	6	98
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf.....	8	98
Capt. R. O. Bassett, 29th Inf.....	13	97
Sgt. McW. James, 24th Inf.....	30	96
Corp. G. S. Schowalter, 24th Inf.	39	96

GRADUATING SWIMMING MEET AT RUSS POOL

We have heard of many kinds of school commencements, but we learn with wide eyes and open ears of the commencement exercises of the Russ Pool Swimming School. Being unique in its rarity and important in its meaning, we must pause here to give it a boost along the road to success and achievement.

Lieutenant Wayne C. Smith, who writes the column appearing in the NEWS under the caption "Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool," announces that he has brought his classes at the pool up to the standard to where they will graduate from his school, and go out into deep water of their own accord. This means that many of those who have not enjoyed the pleasures that swimming affords, will be able in the future to step out with the best and be in on all the fun.

It is planned to hold the Graduating Exercises for the school one week from Saturday, and much fun is promised.

In connection with the exercises, there will be what is called a Graduating Swimming Meet. All ladies and children of the post who have received tutelage from Lieutenant Smith and his assistants will take part in the meet.

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

AS YOU LIKE IT CARD MARKED BY FIVE KAYOES

Referee Stops Final Tilt in Sixth—Parker Downs Thomas

Ginger Jernigan settled an old question between the Benning fans and those of Columbus when he hammered his way to a technical knock-out over Dapper Danny Davis, the 140 pound pride of the 29th Infantry and Fort Benning, last Tuesday night at the Doughboy Stadium arena.

The card throughout was marked with knockouts, five of the scheduled eight bouts having bleary-eyed endings. Both the final and semi-final bouts ended in kayoes, which muchly upset the advance dope that had been peddled about by those "in on the know." That just goes to prove that we can believe about half that is whispered about.

Jernigan seemed in the best condition that he has shown since his advent into the Benning ring battles. Davis, however, lacked none of that pep and go that makes a fight card that which the publicity vendors advocate. He was in fine shape, stepping out and trying to solve the riddle as to how best to hit his adversary, but to little avail did all this give him.

For four rounds, Davis sacrified all the points that were awarded, in order to fathom the shifty Columbus lad's attack and defense, but was a little late in starting his onslaught of rights and lefts for which he is famous. The fifth round was fast and furious, giving the fans little time to take their breaths. Three times he had the lengthy lad on the ropes and forcing him to slug. Danny got the best of these slugfests, as is usually the case when he can get someone to slug with him. He was looking strong at the bell, and many forecasts were made about the outcome of the fight.

The sixth round found Danny just as willing to get in and slug it out with the Columbus pride, in fact it seemed that he had the best of this round, until he was forced into a corner, and there is where Mr. Jernigan shot over that dangerous left hook of his, landing squarely on Danny's left ear.

The blow was terriffic, and it seemed that Danny would go down for the count, but the dapper man never goes down until he is knocked down. The blow pained him so that he had to tell the referee to stop the fight, as it had his head buzzing and the pain in his ear was unbearable.

Jernigan went home with the satisfaction of having a well pleased gathering of Columbus fans following him, while Danny's followers were proud in the knowledge that they had backed a fighter who will give his all, and no stalling allowed. Danny asks and gives no quarter. It was just the case of a hard blow that landed in the wrong place at the right time.

* * *

In the semi-final, Doubtin Thomas and Blondy Parker had the making of what promised to be one of the best fights ever seen at Fort Benning, when Blondy stopped Tommy in the third round of their scheduled eight rounds.

The first round of this scrap was rather slow and uninteresting, with the count being about even. The second round found Thomas in an aggressive mood, and coming in and hunting an opening for that dangerous right that has made him a name.

He was slashing and bluffing the Blond M. P. about the ring in a way to draw the approving remarks from the fight fans that a good scrapper always does. He took the round by an undisputable margin.

The third round promised to be a repetition of the second, with Tommy leading, but Parker resorted to counter punches, that rsulted, in the middle of the round, in a neat right going to the Doubtin' one's jaw, striking him to his knees, but Thomas was up before the count started, and back like the wildcat that he is. Blondy, however, countered his lead and shot a powerful right to the button and it was curtains for the semi-final bout of the evening.

* * *

Corn Griffin, heavy Tanker, was in the best physical condition of his career Tuesday night, and looked like a champion. He went into Bobcat Morris with a will and gusto that will not be denied at any time.

The first round was slow and uninteresting, with the Tanker probably taking the most points, however few they may have been, but when the second round opened, Corn was there with the go and punch that stops many fights before the sounding of the ever-welcome bell. This fellow Morris was a tough egg, though and Corn had to return to his corner to await the dawn of another round.

Corn had brought much claret trickling from the nasal chambers of his opponent in the second frame, and came back in the third to mix it to the bitter end. He was slashing and jabbing with such vehemence that no one could have stood up under the punishment. In the last quarter of that round, he waded in anew, after the fans had thought that he had about put out all the reserve strength that he had, and piled Mr. Morris for the maximum count, and left the ring with a victorious smile.

* * *

The doctors had pronounced Kid Pecot unable to fight, due to having overtrained, but his opponent, Krafty Kline, consented to fight Seaweed Wilson, as the substitute.

The fight was interesting from start to finish, but neither lad took the nod in the end Captain MacDonald, the referee, calling it a draw.

* * *

Tut Tut Taylor substituted for Wilson, who had substituted for Pecot, to fight Young Sewell of Columbus. The fracas was fast, and gave the boys a chance to display their wares. Taylor was a little too deceptive for the shifty Kline, and was awarded the decision.

* * *

Wotta Guy and Grady Martin mixed and mingled for four rounds that were rather slow and uneven, Wotta Guy seeming to take every clinker but the first, which was a good draw. The referee, however, gave an even decision, holding up both lads' hands.

* * *

Deep Gulley and Soldier Morris started something that had to be stopped, and Gulley proceeded to do that thing in the second round of their scheduled three round curtain raiser. Kayoe is the word, with Gulley leaving the ring with a smile a yard wide on his face.

Graveyard Henderson came back from his setback of a fortnight ago at the hands of Tombstone Boyd, and won out over the highly touted Mr. Boyd by a last minute knockout in the last stages of the sixth round of their scheduled six round go. This will probably bring these boys together in another fight to decide the championship of the 24th Infantry, as both boys now hail from there.

ALL-BENNING BASEBALL TEAM PICKED FOR 1929

By Al Durden

First Base.....Buckley, Art.
Second Base.....Cooper, 2nd Bats.
Short stop.....Labazun, 1st Bats.
Third Base.....Barron, 2nd Bats.
Left Field.....Ashe, I. S. D.
Cetner Field.....Kjelstrom, 2nd Bats.
Right Field.....Watson, Art.
Catcher.....McCarthy, I. S. D.
Pitcher.....Carnes, 2nd Bats.

Picking an All-Benning baseball team for the seeason of 1929, will cause a mountain of criticism and boos from fans and critics. The season's play has been fast, hard and close. Outstanding players have been as scare as the proverbial hen's teeth, while the players on each team have stepped in and given their all.

In my opinion the following team including four twirlers, include the leading players in Benning's "B" League.

There is no argument at first base, Mickey Buckley, Guuner first sacker is the choice of every fan at Benning. Second base honors are close and keen between Sheriff of the Hallorans, Cooper of the Kells and White of the Greencords. Each of these men played an excellent game, showed a wonderful fighting spirit and were the main cogs in their team's play. If there is any edge, I must hand it to Cooper, of the Kells. Cooper has handled more chances and made less errors than any of his competitors, and besides that, he has been hitting well around the 300 mark.

Short stop has been a weak point on each team all season. The Kells lost

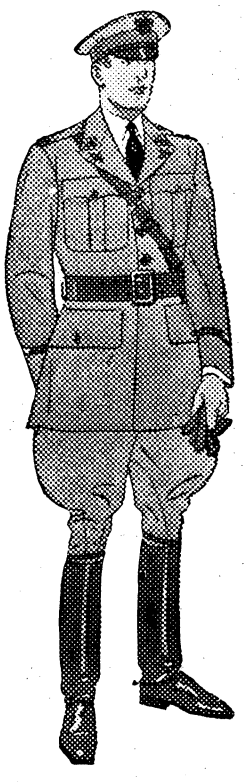
(Continued on page 12.)

PORT ST. JOE, FLORIDA

The Sportsman's Paradise ——
—— Fishing Is Now At Its Best ——
—— The Big Ones Are Striking

For reservations phone or wire
THE PORT INN

To The Personnel of Fort Benning



Our Mr. Dana has had over thirty five years experience in Military Tailoring. During this time he has given complete satisfaction to many of the Army's most fastidious.

We have the latest patterns in stock which is your guarantee against delay.

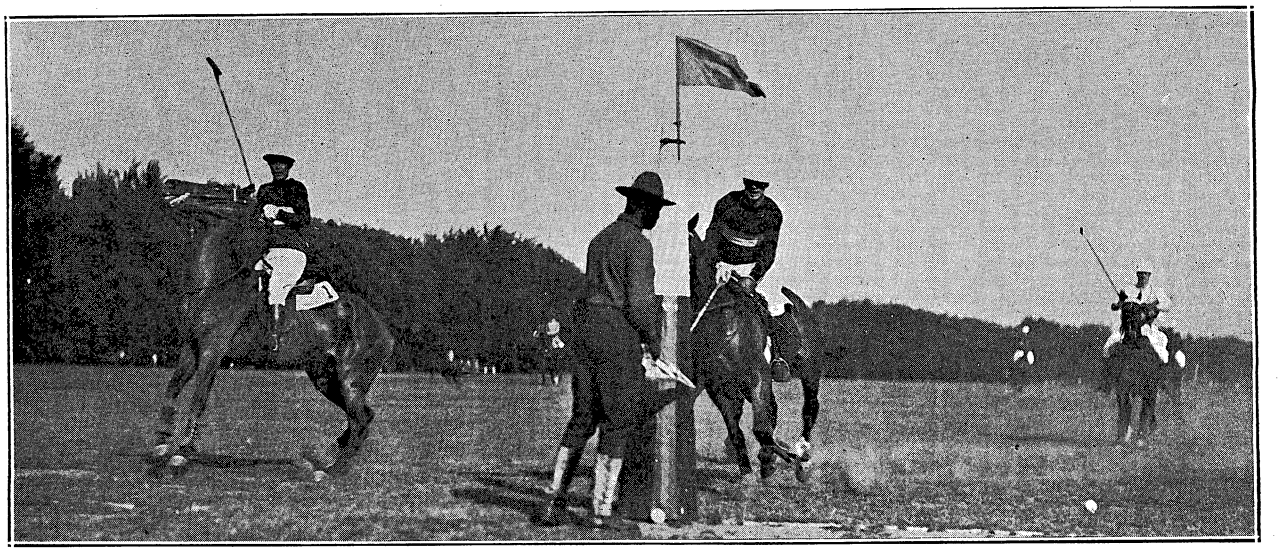
Every garment cut by Dana himself and every stitch made under his personal supervision in our own shop.

Dana Tailoring Co.

1020 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Phone 2858 for appointment

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR COMING POLO SEASON



According to Major C. B. Lyman, Fort Benning Polo representative, all the mallet-swingers of the Post are anxious for the beginning of the new season. In spite of the fact that several players of strength have been lost by transfer to other stations, the newcomers who have arrived should increase the general quality of the game as played here. The season of 1928-29 has been the most successful in Fort Benning's history. Not only was a long and interesting local schedule followed out but for the first time, an Infantry School polo team left the Corps Area. Two trips, one to Washington and Winston-Salem, and another to Chicago were made. On both of them the Benning team made an excellent showing.

The Freebooters squad held its first practice Wednesday afternoon. Fifteen officers have signed up for this squad, five of whom are from the 24th Infantry and the remainder from the other permanent personnel, exclusive of the 83rd Field Artillery and the 29th Infantry, which have squads of their own. The Freebooters team has lost the important services of Maj. H. J. M. Smith, Cav., who was for the past four years in charge of the Infantry School Stables, and who exercised a great influence on the development of Benning polo to its present estate. The new Cavalry officer in charge of the Infantry School Stables is Maj. J. B. Thompson, who carries a handicap of two goals as did Major Smith. Other new Freebooters are Capt. L. E. Toole, Assistant Adjutant, and 1st. Lt. L. P. Leone, Tanks, and 1st Lt. Chas. Royce, Aide de Camp to Brigadier General King. Lt. Leone has been playing polo for the past two years in the Phillippines and Lt. Royce was last year a member of the Student squad.

The Freebooter squad is spending the first few weeks of its season principally upon the development of new mounts. There are twelve prospects on hand. The regular mounts are now resting after their arduous summer work in foreign parts.

There is a possibility that the 24th Infantry will have a polo team during the present season. Post regulations authorize the Infantry School stables to form a polo string sufficient for three teams. In the past this string has been divided at the beginning of each season by alternate choice by the captains of the Freebooters and Students teams. The 24th Infantry officers have hitherto been eligible for the Freebooters, which has made the number of polo players turning out for that squad somewhat disproportionate. No definite announcement has been made as to the plans for the present season.

The 83rd Field Artillery has been training ponies in the early morning for several weeks. The members of its squad are working on about 60 horses, hoping to produce the best string of the season. A new arrival who should materially increase the strength of the Artillery team, which made a hard bid for last year's Post Championship, is Lt. H. D. Baker, who was a handicap of three goals. Lt. Baker has been playing on the fast Fort Bragg team in North Carolina.

The 29th Infantry team is also anxious to get started on the regular playing season. Its captain, Lt. B. R. Jacobs, has been a strong member of the Infantry School team during the past summer. The 29th squad has lost Lt. Van Houten who is a young player of much promise. It has gained, however, Lt. H. W. Brimmer, a player of considerable experience.

Until all of the new students have arrived, the composition of its team will not be known. Lt. VanHouten will be one member of this team.

BATTALION FOOTBALL TEAMS PREPARE FOR COMING SEASON

Already the tiniest golden hue has tinged the beautiful green robe that has adorned the forest all summer. In the wee morning hours the least bit of Autumn chill comes creeping and sends us scurrying under the warm folds of a comforting blanket. Autumn is here and with it comes football.

On Gowdy Field old King Baseball is bidding fans adieu in a blaze of pomp and glory as Doughboys and Cannoneers fight valiantly for supremacy and the laurel wreath of 1929.

Hurrying hither on speeding wings comes King Football, the monarch of fall sports. At any moment he will arrive at the Upatoi Station with his wonderfull assortment of forwad passes, line bucks, end runs, off-tackle plays and hundreds of other tricks and turns to be used this season.

Interest is running at high tide among the fans of the garrison. Several of the stars of past seasons have left Ft Benning during the year, and with their going, their teams have been weakened. Many new men who talk football and look football have come to Benning also since last season, now the fans are wondering if the new arrivals will fill the gap left by the departed stars.

The Terrible Tankers, 1928 champions, lost a valuable player in "Big" Bertleman, two-hundred and forty pound tackle and All-Army star. Instead of Bertleman the Tankers have Corn Griffin, who claims to be as good at tackle as he is in the fight ring. Griffin weighs one hundred and ninety pounds and has proved a terror to heavyweight fighters since coming to Benning,his football ability remains to be demonstrated. "Red" Miller another new-comer to the Tankers, looks football and talks it fluently. If he comes up to expectations he will be a big asset in the Tanker backfield.Knubb Bennett, Bobby Brown and Sully Sullivan, Tanker backfield aces will report for duty this season. Only the loss of Bertleman will be felt in the line. Stuart, McKelvey, Woodman, Willingham, Hull and a dozen other candidates will build a line about "Red" Lindsey, center, that will stand against both storm and strife.

Rumbling from the Rolling Caissons sound like off-tackle plays and straight line bucks. With a team of hard driving youngsters to build from, the Gunners promise to be a more dangerous threat on the football field than they have been on the diamond this season.

Coached and led by the veteran McAuliffe, the Gunner backfield is going to be fast and dangerous. Carrigan, Pinton, Phillips, McCloud and Winfery combine an array of fast young prep-school stars that are going to prove a threat to opposing teams. With fast, speedy backs and McAuliffe's deadly passing arm, the Gunners will be heard from in no small terms. The Gunner line boasts an almost entirely new roster, "Doug" LaPine, Mallet, Cherry and Lester of last year's first string will be back in their old positions. Howard, Elmore, Pike and a score of likely looking young huskies are fighting it out for regular positions.

Little is known of the material available to build the First Battalion team. Hicks, Blackstone, McFadden, Reddock, Abrams,Stepp, Reese and Harper of last year's team are ready to get into harness. Pete Causey and Cordwood Smith, new arrivals, will strengthen the First Bat line and it is rumored that a couple of new backfield men have become members of the battalion since the past season. With proper coaching and a heavier line over last season, the First Bats stand an equal chance with any team in the garrison, for though beaten last year, their fighting spirit was never broken and a team that fights is bound to win.

In the Kelly camp there is not the least breath of rumor stirring. A wisp of a rumor mentioned Franz re-enlisting. That is un-official. Without the services of Franz, the Kellys remain a mighty football machine.

True their ranks have lost several of last year's men, among them being Franz "Red" Jones and B. Swayze, all first string men. To match this loss the Kells have Kelly, Birdsong, Oikra, Thomson, Ripple and Barron for their backfield, this composes the fastest backfield combine in the garrison. Allison, a new comer who broke into the last game of the season last year, will probably be a regular back. With Dutch Berrish at centeer, Moody, Carling, Dykes and De Pratt for guard positions, McAllister, Costello, Carpenter, Settles, Blankenship and Marquette at tackle and end positions, the Kellys loom as a power in the coming struggle.

At the present writing it is feared that the Special Units will be unable to put a team on the field this season. This is to be regreted as quite a bunch of rare football material is to be found among the Units, and they are willing and anxious to play the game.

Field maneuvers are exercises in which a military operation is conducted on the ground, the troops and armament of both sides beig actually present, either wholly or in part, and all the conditions of actual war being simulated.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

THE NEXT BEST THING TO A NEW BUICK IS A USED BUICK

OUR USER CAR DEPARTMENT
is the best and most complete in Columbus, Ga.

CLIFF M. AVERETT

Telephone 883 1441-1445 First Ave.

Authorized Buick-Marquette Dealer

WELCOME

We wish to welcome the incoming Student Officers and extend them an invitation to visit us at our studio. Also to advise them if they go kodaking to leave their films at the Post Exchange for quality finishing.

DON JOHNSON'S STUDIO

18½—12th St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 95

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Umpires

Some of you may accuse us of leaving our pasture to graze on the more inviting tender young shoots on the other side of the fence. Let it be known here that we are perfectly within our rights in picking this subject, for we have followed along the lines of the policy of the Athletic Association in picking our subject, ie: we have one soldier subject and one civilian subject, and the civilian subject would make a good soldier.

Many of you are aware that the Southeastern league boss came within the ranks of our enlisted personnel to nose out an umpire for a vacancy that was created in his ranks this summer. Many of the professional willowmen and hoss hide twirlers had had their eye on our own "Red" Jones for some time.

Red went to the Southeastern league as a big time umpire six weeks or more ago, and made good. His working partner was none other than Mr. Joe Harper, who has been in the game for a long time, and he said that the Redhead was up to snuff in his ability to handle the more complicated plays as they arose.

Now Mr. Harper is considered one of the best umpires in the league, and to be classed with "Joe" is quite a compliment for a youngster in his initial start. Nothing loth, Red must be put in that category and there he will remain until he has either gone blind like some of them have, or mounted on up. Hehas the qualities that go to make a good umpire, and the determination to make good. We have many ambitious expectations for Red, and wish him the best of luck when he steps out with the blue uniformed, masked creatures next season.

Many are the interesting conversations we have listenedin on between the two arbiters. Many we have forgotten or will forget. This one we never will.

Red: "What you gonna say, Joe?

Joe: "We're just two great men, Red, only one greater."

Red: "Who is that, Joe?"

Joe: "Old Potato Grater, Red."

Joe and Red were a perfect working team during their tour of duty the past season together. They had their ups and downs with the fans, as all good umpires will have, but so few were they that is not necessary to mention any of them.

Red is back with us again, and Joe is probably by this time headed for his old home and the privilege to hunt rabbits to his heart's content, but as surely as the Divine Ruler made little apples and the tropical moon calls to the lullaby song writers, Red and Joe will live on as "two hundred thousand dollars worth of umpires," to put it in their own word.s

ALL BENNING TEAM PICKED

(Continued from page 10.)

Franz, and Kelly came in from the outer garden to fill the gap, his first few games at schort were far under par. In the final games he has shown fine form at the short field. Labazan of the Hallorans, playing in ten games, is handed the laurels for the short field positions. Though he had several off days the little fellow flashed a fast brand of fielding besides doing great work with the willow.

Barron of the Kellys is away out in front at the hot corner, his fielding has been fast and steady while his batting and base running rivals that of the league's third sackers.

Left field honors go to Ashe of the Greencords. Ashe has hit around the three hundred mark all season and his fielding average shows only one miscue for the seaeson.

Kjelstrom shades the line for centerfield position while Watson of the Redlegs looks the best of the right field ball hawks.

With Thompson out of the game part of the season it seems only right that Mick McCarthy of the Greencords should top the list of catchers. Mickey is a heady catcher with a world of experience and base runners learned early in the season that his throwing arm was to be highly respected.

Twirling honors show Carnes of the Kellys, Roosma of the Tanks, Holloway of the Gunners, Stevens of the Hallorans and Tolle of the Greencords, holding the spotlight. The team was supposed to have only four hurlers but it can't be done. Carnes tops the list, the Kelly portsider has been invincible all season and has enjoyed his biggest army base ball season.

No doubt this line up is far wrong. In fact I know the worst is yet to come, but with as evenly matched bunch of ployers as the ones that have composed the league during the 1929 season to pick from, many fans are sure to be displeased.

BATTING AVERAGES FOOL THEM ALL

With six teams competing in the last half of Fort Benning's intra-mural baseball league, the dope bucket was knocked over so many times that the fans were afraid to go to the games for fear of there being a riot.

The batting averages are set forth below, and as early as yesterday, we began dodging, for we know that this brings us in the limelight for a lot of the strike out kings to use us for an alibi.

We must give old man Heckert of the I. S. D. team the bating honors, and we place him there because he has been to bat 17 times and totaled 10 hits for an average of 588.

Due to limited space we publish only those averages above .300.

Leading batters of the "B" League:

Player	Team	AB	H	Av'ge
Heckert, I. S. D.		17	10	.588
Bennett, I. S. D.		10	4	.400
Cowan, I. S. D.		16	6	.375
Paschal, Artillery		11	4	.364
Roosma, Tanks		28	10	.350
Buckley, Artillery		29	10	.345

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

The coming fight card to be staged in Columbus September 16th should prove to tbe up to standard. In the main event, Joe "Kid" Peck, who, since losing a close decision to Jimmy Spivey at Benning, has shown twice in Miami and once at West Palm Beach, winning all three battles, will meet Cowboy Frankie Osner. The preliminaries will be made up of boys from the fort and local talent in and around Columbus.

Ole Mike McTigue, who not so long ago announced to the world that he had hung up the padded mitts forever, came back last Tuesday night and gave Battling Bozo, of Birmingham a neat trimming.

The wily old Irishman had a little too much gray matter for the Flagtown youth, winning the decision by a wide margin.

It is with a source of deep regret that we bid goodbye to Doubtin' Thomas, who after his fight with Blondy Parker Tuesday night left for his home in Chattanooga. Although Thomas was defeated in his final appearance before Benning fight bugs, he has nothing to be ashamed of, as he accepted the fight on short notice. We feel certain, that had Tommie had longer to train, he would have given a better account of himself.

Thomas was discharged via the purchase route.

Just a word of praise for Tombstone Boyd and Graveyard Henderson. Usually, a bout between two boys from the 24th Infantry is slow and uninteresting, with both participants weak and winded before the end of the third round, but not these huskys. Their was action from the opening gong to the final moment.

Billy Shell, who is well known to the ring worms of Benning is going over big in Jacksonville, Fla. Shell recently fought a ten round draw with Sam Crosby, who hails from Pat Boynton's stable at Waycross. Billy is booked to meet Dick Gore, veteran welter on next Tuesday night's card in the sunshine city.

Smith, Tanks	30	10	.333
Thompson, Kellys	28	9	.320
Kjelstrom, Kellys	35	11	.318
Jordan, 1st Bat.	35	11	.318
Lockwood, Engineers	16	5	.312
Watson, Tanks	13	4	.308
Ashe, I. S. D.	35	10	.303

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative: R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

MAKE THIS YOUR HARDWARE STORE

To the incoming officers, as well as others, we extend a cordial invitation to visit us and call on us when we may be of service.

We offer a very complete stock of paints, varnishes, general hardware, house-furnishings, etc., for your selection.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

The New Dodge Bros. Six

Price range $1145 to $1295 equipped, delivered

70 GUARANTEED USED CARS

One of the best lines of used cars ever offered in the city. Prices right. Terms.

TELEPHONE 2683

15th Street and 1st Avenue

W. T. HEARD

Dodge Bros. Dealer

THE INF. ORGANIZATION DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

With the impending visits of the Chief of Staff and the Chief of Infantry to this station, in connection with the problems confronting the new Infantry reorganization plans but a few days off, unitsof the twenty-ninth infantry and allied agents are hard at work on their respective tasks.

Up to the present time the project for the reorganization of the infantry battalion and its constituent units, which is occupying the time, attention and effort of those connected with it, has reached the stage in which several different types of proposed battalions are being tested by actual operations on the terrain. Prior to this stage, the process of experimentation proceeded through the firing tests with various types of squads, and tests in which squads, platoons, and companies of different composition were experimented with in tactical situations on the ground. In the meantime, the data which is being accumulated, has been subjected to careful analysis by the testing troops, the Infantry Board, the Department of Experiment, and the representatives of the Academic Department, with the ultimate object of determining the relative fighting capacity of the several types of units. It is to be hoped and expected that the systematic consideration of the data compiled, in connection with the theory of organization and with the experience gained in past wars, will result in a decision as to what type of battalion will possess the greatest fighting capacity. The tremendous number of factors involved, the almost unlimited possibilities in permutations and combinations of the various weapons and groupings of weapons, and the impracticability of determining accurate values for such terms as the shock-power of the automatic rifle as compared with the bayonet, all serve to create problems of extreme complexity. However, regardless of whether an ideal solution to the problem as a whole is possible of attainment, the efforts of the personnel occupied with the reorganization project are producing results which promise a satisfactory compromise solution.

METHODS OF PROCEDURE AND ORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

By Lt. Joseph I. Greene

Since primitive man first discovered that a stone could be thrown, men have been improving the tools of war. In the present age of science, military invention is so prolific that it is difficult to keep up. Hence it has become necessary in our Army for groups to be formed whose duty it is to test and experiment with suggested improvements, and in the end to recommend the disposal of such suggestions. Such a group is the Department of Experiment at Fort Benning.

When a new project of possible value to the Infantry arises, it is customarily submitted to the Office of the Chief of Infantry. A study of the project is there made and if it is deemed worthy of further consideration it is submitted to the Infantry Board. Here, it is assigned to a member of the Board, and at the same time, should practical experiment seem requisite for a complete investigation of the project, it is submitted to the Department of Experiment. The Director of the Department then assigns the project to one of the test officers.

The test officer, after studying all sources of reference to the subject, and examining previous work done along similar lines, writes a program of test. This program is, of course, based on the directives from the office of the Chief of Infantry and from the Infantry Board, as well as on advice and recommendations from the Director of the Department. The program is submitted to the Director who approves it, if satisfactory, or directs changes, if it is not. When approved, the program of test forms a guide which the test officer follows throughout the test unless unforseen circumstances or developments require amendment.

Most of the tests which the Department makes are of a practical kind. It if not equipped to carry on laboratory work. In the usual case the test requires actual use in the field and for such work the assistance of organizations of the permanent personnel of the post is asked. The majority of tests go to the 29th Infantry.

When the experimental work is completed, the test officer analyzes the results obtained and writes a report of test, embodying in it the experimental recommendations drawn therefrom. The first draft of this report is submitted to the Director who either approves it or suggests changes and additional tests. The final, approved report receives the signature of the Director and is sent to the Infantry Board. The Board then studies the report, makes such recommendations as it sees fit, and forwards the report to the Chief of Infantry.

Some of the projects received require more than a year for the completion of tests, while others take but a few weeks. In the past years the number of projects has varied from 30 to 40 per year.

Although the majority of projects which the Department handles are received from outside sources, not infrequently a member of the Department originates a project. These, if their development warrants a full test, are finished and reported upon in the same manner as other projects.

The most important projects which the Department has dealt with recently have been those concerned with anti-aircraft firing and training, and with the semi-automatic rifle. The anti-aidcraft work has been carried on for more than two years. A report on the rifle phase of the subject was submitted in 1928 and much of it incorporated in Training Regulations 300-5. The machine gun phase report is nearly completed at present. The semi-automatic rifle report was finished several months ago and sent forward. It resulted in the recommendation for adoption of the Pedersen, caliber .276, semi-automatic rifle, to replace the present issue Springfield.

The officer personnel of the Department of Experiment and the nature of the work which is assigned to each, is as follows:

Director: Lt. Col. H. A. Wells.

Test Officers: Major L. R. Boyd (anti-aircraft projects and other projects requiring test firing);

Capt. E. D. Porter (test firing and organization and individual equipment);

Capt. L. A. Wetherby (transportation and communication);

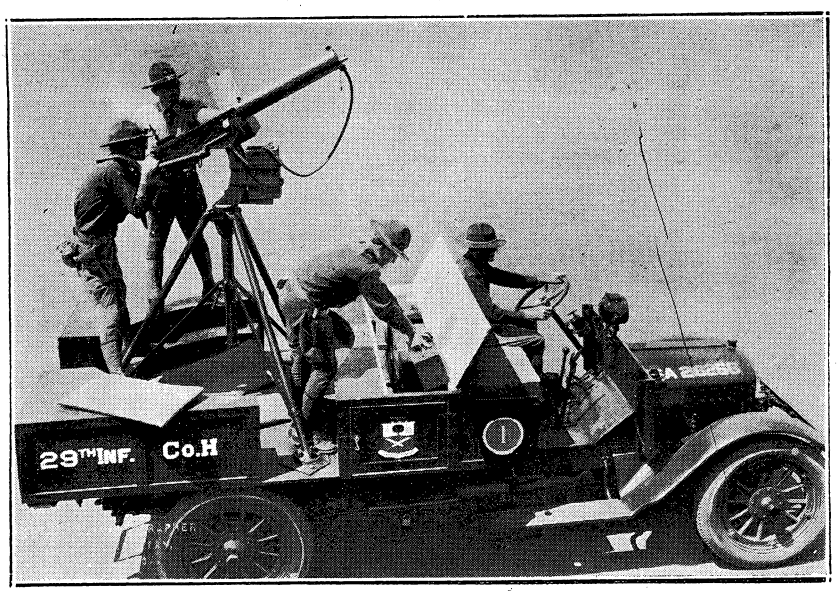
Capt. A. T. Knight (organization and individual equipment and clothing);

Lt. B. M. McFadyen (organization and individual equipment and clothing);

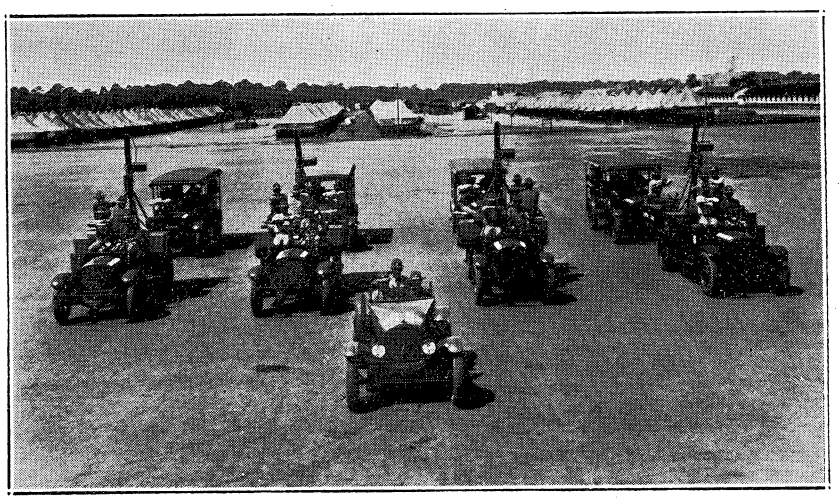
In addition to the above personnel, it has been necessary during the past year because of the quantity of test work on hand, to have two additional members attached on special duty with the Department. These members are:

Capt. J. L. Tupper, 24th Inf., (test firing and miscellaneous);

1st Lt. Joseph I. Greene, 24th Inf., (anti-aircraft and equipment).



The 3d Platoon, Company "H," 29th Infantry, passing in review for Colonel Harris Pendleton



"Action front, enemy aircraft, 300." The first squad shows how it is done

INTERESTING EQUIPMENT PROPOSED FOR NEW INFANTRY PROJECT

At a recent inspection of the new motorized platoon of Company H, 29th Infantry, the commanding officer, Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., expressed himself as being very pleased with the appearance of this new platoon. So far as is known here, this is the only motorized machine gun platoon of its kind in the United States Army at the present time. It is interesting to note in connection with the experiments with reorganized units in the 29th Infantry that the new organization of a machine gun company now contemplates a motorized platoon, armed with the caliber 50 machine guns, equipped for anti-aircraft firing. At least these plans hold forth for the present.

MAJOR ROBERT FLETCHER APPOINTED MILITARY ATTACHE TO MADRID

Major Robert H. Fletcher, Jr., of the 24th Infantry, has been appointed military atache to the American embassy at Madrid, Spain, and to the legation at Lisbon, Portugal.

Major Fletcher is now on leave and will return to Fort Benning about Sept. 25th. From here he will proceed to Washington, D. C., where he will report to the Chief of Staff for temporary duty in the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff G-2, War Department and upon completion of that duty will proceed to Madrid, Spain, reporting upon arrival to the American Ambassador, and by letter to the American minister at Lisbon, Portugal, for duty.

Major Fletcher is a Californian by birth and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1908. He first came to Benning in 1923 as a student in the advanced class. The following year he attended the Command and General Staff School at Leavenworth, and returned to this station in July, 1925. Upon reporting from this later tour of duty, Major Fletcher was assigned as Chief of the fifth section in the Academic department. Upon the completion of this assignment in Feb. 1928, he was ordered to the 24th Infantry, to command the second battalion.

The Columbus Ledger
is now represented at FORT BENNING
By
Mr. Ross B. Colquitt
Please address all phone calls and other communications to Ledger. Phones 100-101-102
COLUMBUS
Ledger at Ft. Benning by Carrier 60c Month.

HUMES
is the store that Fort Benning patronizes for Music
Come in—SEE and HEAR
the new Victor Radio.

ROADS AT FORT BENNING TO BE IMPROVED

When troops first moved into Camp Benning, to make it their permanent quarters and to form what is now the greatest Infantry School in the world, the cotton rows and rail fences caused many difficult problems to arise.

Benning was then what might have been called a wilderness, compared to what it is today. The area that is occupied by those organizations living in tents, was then nothing but a piney woods. The parade of the 29th Infantry was a poor piece of land that had been used for a cotton field for years without rotation, and the 24th Infantry area had not been discovered. The woods in that part of the reservation were too dense for considering the place as an ideal location for an infantry regiment.

Since the establishment of the Infantry School, the Quartermaster Corps has been constantly at work, improving the roads and buildings of the post, until now, they are not far from having the whole of Benning up to the modern standards set for it by War Department.

Each week of the year finds the authorities trying some new way to bring the streets of Benning up to something like comfortable thoroughfares. The peculiar formation of the soil in this particular locality has caused much speculation and many changes in methods of roadbuilding at Benning. The surfaces seem to be semi-hard and to be of a more or less permanent nature, affording the motorist the pleasure of a comfortable ride, when, without any semblance of warning, they give away to leave ruts and bumps that cause the most pleasant minded motorist to finish the day with a grouch that is hard to shake.

Now that appropriations have been made for road construction at Fort Benning, the contracts have been let for the work tto be done. Already the workmen have started to pave the entrance to the Upatoi gate, and the work will spread over the post as speedily as possible. In five years, Fort Benning will have taken on the appearance of a modern city, with well built and lighted streets.

The roads that serve as channels of traffic to the interior of the reservation, have, in recent months, been brought up to a grade of perfection that makes it a pleasure to motor out to the spots of interest, and also facilitates rapid transportation of troops when necessary to expedite a maneuver. Large trucks can haul huge quantities of supplies and equipment over these roads which have until recently been just bridle paths and wagon trails, with much ease.

These improvements are slowly, but surely, bringing Benning up to the point where it will soon be one of the show places of the South.

Smile with the Sun!

When Old Sol smiles down that summer heat and you feel like—"Oh!
Too hot to live." Then slip away where there's

FOREMOST
ICE CREAM

Because its that wonderful
Home-made kind that's so popular right from the start
—and
"Hawaiian Pudding"
—Rich with Tropical
Fruits and Nuts.
Special—This Week-end

BENNING TO GET NEW POSTOFFICE

One by one, the needs of Fort Benning are being taken care of. Her latest prayer to be answered, was the general cry for a new post office to replace the old shed that has been used for the past ten years, and recently damaged by storm.

The War Department has authorized the use of funds to erect an attractive one story c ncrete and hollow tile building to be used by the Postal Department as a post office building. This does not come any too soon. The old building that has been used by the Post Office Department is getting in such bad shape that pieces are daily falling off it. The floors are shaky, and the roof leaky.

The new building will be modern in every way. The floors will be made of plain concrete, except where the steam tunnels pass, and these sections will be made of reinforced concrete. The main exterior walls will be made of 8x8x12 terra cotta tiles, six cell, with a plastered sand finish on the inside. The outside of the walls will be stuccoed, while all the concrete columns will be rubbed cement finish.

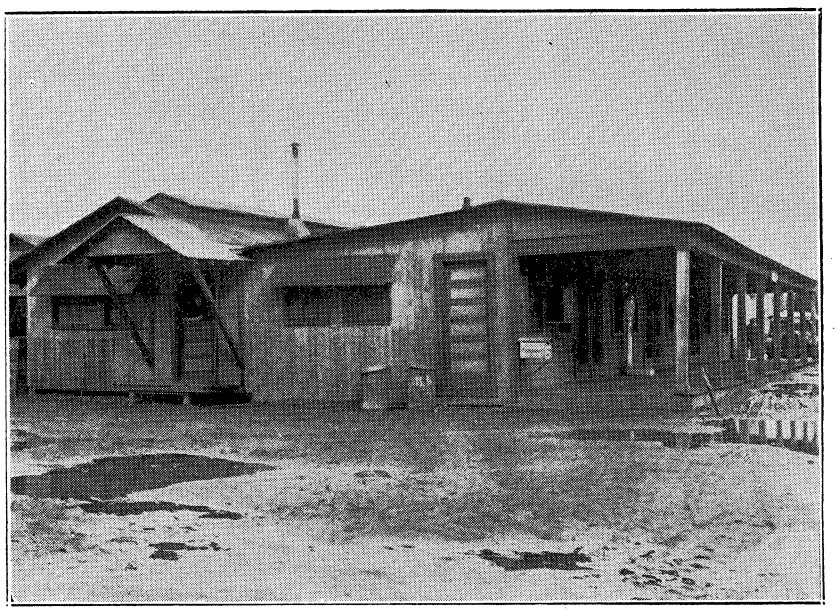
The building will consist of a main room, approximately 38x86 feet, a loading platform in rear, a basement and steam line tunnel.

Included in the main room will be a lobby 15x50 feet, for the transaction of public business, two rest rooms, 8x15 feet each and one storage room, 6x6 feet.

All interior woodwork will be in natural finish, while the woodwork on the exterior of the building will be given three coats of lead paint of the standard government colors.

The building will be erected fifty feet west of the School Library, facing Vibbert Avenue. This will greatly enhance the central part of the post, and will be more convenient for those attending business in the building, as it will be removed far enough from the intersection of the streets to make the traffic less congested.

The Quartermaster will begin work on the building as soon as the material can be brought into place, and the few small jobs now under way completed. All material for the building will be furnished by the Quartermaster, with the exception of the interior furnishings, which will be furnished by the Postal Department.



Fort Benning's post office as it appeared before the storm that almost completely wrecked it last June.

Shows the condition in which the storm left the building

RECREATION CENTER BOARD ACTIVITIES INCLUDE PROJECTS OF GREAT BENEFIT TO GARRISON PERSONNEL

Several years ago the War Department created the Recreation Center Board at Fort Benning, giving them the power within certain limits to accomplish the erection of such buildings as it should deem necessary for the furthering of the recreation center at Fort Benning.

Their work started early, and has never ceased, though slowly at times, due mostly to the lack of skilled soldier labor, never-the-less surely.

Doughboy Stadium has recently had an addition, in the erection of the two towers that will serve as office buildings for the activities that have heretofore been in cramped quarters. The Infantry School News will move its office into the North Tower at an early date.

Officials of the Board stated that plans were under way to fill in the arches that have been recently added to Doughboy Stadium with iron grill work, which will serve as a barrier to unpaid fares that try to enter the Stadium and will also add to the attractiveness of the already beautiful structure.

Doughboy Stadium has a seating capacity of about twelve thousand, with a possibility of adding four more thousand seats by erecting temporary seats at the East end of the stands.

Plans are also under way to close in the North portion of the stands as has been done with the South side, and use the space for storage of tools, athletic equipment and dressing rooms for athletic teams and entrants.

When the project is completed, there will be a beautiful front tto the Stadium on the South side, with a well sodded lawn and sidewalks. Doughboy Stadium, will, when fully completed, be one of the best stadiums in the South.

The Handball Courts that are being erected in rear of the new gymnasium are under the supervision of the Recreation Center Board, and when completed, will be second to none in the country. These courts woll be four in number, and are being constructed of the best material obtainable for the project.

The building will have a slate roof, the walls of hollow tile and stucco, and the floors will be of number one grade hard maple. The courts are well arranged, and a spectators gallery will be accessible to those who may wish to witness the games.

The architecture of the building is on the lines of that of the new gumnasium, being in fact, an almost miniature replica of the mother building as to outside appearance.

Numerous other projects have been prposed and have received various degrees of consideration, though none of them have been approved and no money has been provided for their prosecution.

Among these projects now being studied may be mentioned: Supplements to the swimming pool. (These include parking and grading, paving the entire bottom of the pool, raising of the upper dam and new bath houses and dressing rooms).

The construction of bowling alleys together with a building to house them is being considered, although no definite announcement can be made on this score at present.

Plans for a boxing bowl to provide accommodations for one of Benning's most popular sports are being studied and it is expected that recommendations will be submitted on the subject in the near future. Benning certainly needs a boxing bowl, and it is believed that the War Department will approve of plans for its erection.

A project for the widening of the road south of Doughboy Stadium to relieve traffic congestion and to provide parking space for the patrons of the Post Exchange is being studied by the

(Continued on page 15.)

NEW TRAINING SCHEDULE PUBLISHED

Recent orders from Headquarters, the Infantry School, publish the training schedule for the coming year.

This schedule announces the training year as Sept. 15, 1929 to June 14, 1930. The period Sept. 15, 1929 to June 14, 1930, is designated as the School Year Period, while the period of June 15, 1930 to Sept. 14, 1930 is designated as the Summer Training Period. With exceptions as noted in the published orders, the regular target practice and supplementary target practice for all organizations armed with infantry weapons will be conducted during the Summer Training Periods. The course for bayonet qualifications will be conducted for units of the 29th Infantry during the period, March 1 to April 30th.

The 83rd Field Artillery Battalion will conduct its Service Practice at such time during the training year as will, in the judgment of the Battalion Commander, best accomplish its training mission.

Athletic training in organizations will be carried on throughout the year. Mass calistnenics, mass and intra-mural athletics will be extensively used and strongly supported as a means of improving and maintaining the physical condition of the personnel. The athletic programs arranged by Headquarters will receive careful attention and support of all organization commanders.

The immediate objective of thetraining year for all combat troops will be the development of units from the individual soldier to the regiment that are of high morale, thoroughly disciplined, smart in appearance, of correct posture, and a model of proficiency in formal drills and ceremonies.

Troops will be trained so as to be ready to meet all calls made by the War Department for tests and demonstrations in furtherance of new development of Infantry organization and tactics, to fulfill the requirements of the Infantry School, and to be prepared to move to a theatre of operations on M day.

The development of officers of all round professional experience, thoroughly trained as instructors in all phases of training required of troops under their command, and with a general knowledge of the power and limitations of other branches. Officers, non-commissioned officers and privates must be trained in the duties of the next higher grade.

Military courtesy, neatness and soldierly bearing will be constantly stressed and high standards maintained. Excellency in other items of training will not excuse an organization from failure in these particulars.

Troop Schools—Basic Course for Officers

Unit instruction as prescribed in Par. 7a, A. R. 350-2600, will be conducted by regimental and separate organization commanders during the School Year Training Period. Especial attention will be given to instruction in company administration and mess management.

Post Schools

During the period September 15th to June 14th, apprentice courses are available to all enlisted men who volunteer for the same. The hours of attendance will be from 1:00 to 4:00 P. M., Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays excepted. Request by the enlisted men for vocational training will be forwarded by the Unit commanders to the Quartermaster. Following enrollment the attendance of an enlisted man will be obligatory until and unless relieved from attendance by the Quartermaster.

Courses

(1) Automotive Repair Work (Shop).
(2) Automotive Vehicle Operation.
(3) Brick Laying.
(4) Carpentering.
(5) Concrete Work (Reinforced, Roads and Walks).
(6) Horticulture.
(7) Logging.
(8) Painting.
(9) Printing.
(10) Road Construction.
(11) Sawmill Activity.
(12) Plumbing.
(13) Steam Fitting.
(14) Electrical House Wiring.
(15) Stationary Steam Engineering.
(16) Stationary Fireman.
(17) Locomotive Engineering.
(18) Locomotive Fireman.
(19) Blacksmithing.
(20) Lathe Work.
(21) Sheet Metal Work.

Training Non-Combatant Branches

While the training of organizations of the non-combatant branches will primarily be directed toward obtaining and maintaining proficiency in the various duties peculiar to the branch concerned, sufficient disciplinary drill will be conducted to insure the attainment and maintenance by their personnel ot the basic military qualities of a soldier.

Unit Objective

29th Infantry

To be prepared to furnish units proficient in all phases of infantry technique, ready and able to demonstrate the same for the further development of infantry and for instruction at the Infantry School.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

24th Infantry

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined training in infantry drill and ceremonies. To develop soldiers thoroughly grounded in the basic training of a soldier and thoroughly instructed in military courtesy.

Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment (Light)

To be prepared to demonstrate the technique of tanks in connection with experimentation in fantry tactics, and in furtherance of instruction of The Infantry School and other infantry organizations.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

83rd Field Artillery Battalion

To be prepared to further instruction at the Infantry School and the training of infantry organizations by demonstration of the tactics and technique of artillery in support of infantry.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

Infantry School Detachment

To be prepared to furnish qualified enlisted men, trained basically as soldiers, to assist in the instruction, maintenance and functioning of the activities of The Infantry School.

Company "A," 7th Engineers

To reach a thorough state of garrison and field training; be ready to demonstrate to the Infantry School the technique of field engineering and to meet the requirements of combat engineers.

Company "C," 1st Chemical Regiment

To reach a thorough state of garrison and field training; be prepared to demonstrate to the Infantry School the tactical uses of chemical warfare agents as related to infantry tactics. To assist units of the command in instruction in the use of and defense against chemical warfare agents.

To furnish instructors in the use of chemical agents and protection against such agents to the Infantry School.

Detachment, Quartermaser Corps

The development of personnel technically trained to efficiently perform the duties assigned, and basically trained as soldiers.

86th Motor Repair Section

The development of an efficient repair force highly trained in shop and field repair of motor vehicles, able to handle the repair requirements of the motor vehicles of the garrison. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

100th Motor Transport Company

The development of personnel trained to drive, and maintain oy minor repair, all types of Government motor vehicles, under both garrison and field conditions. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

17th Ordnance Company (Maint.)

To receive the necessary technical and field training to efficiently care for the ordnance maintenance needs of the garrison and to be able to function as the ordnance maintenance company of a division. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

72nd Ordnance Company (Depot.)

To receive the necessary technical and field training to care for the ordnance supply of this garrison with ability to function in the field as a supply unit of the Ordnance Field Service. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

Detachment, Medical Corps

The development of the detachment trained in the efficient performance of hospital duties and with sufficient field training to permit expansion into a medical regiment of a division. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

To further the instruction of the Infantry School by supplying men and equipment to demonstrate the field functioning of a medical regiment.

Detachment, Medical Department, Veterinary Service

The development of personnel trained in the care of sick and wounded animals in the garrison and in the field. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

Detachment, 5th Signal Service Company

Personnel to receive basic training as soldiers and technical training to efficiently maintain and operate all means of signal communications required for the service of the Infantry School.

RECREATION CENTER BOARD ACTIVITIES

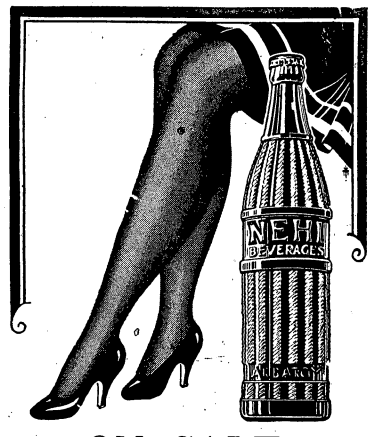
(Continued from page 14.)

Recreation Center Board. This is one of the most needed improvements by the Board. The traffic at this location is always dangerous, and will, when completed, be of great benefit to the personnel of Fort Benning.

Plans and estimates for the improvement of the tennis courts, including stands for the spectators, tool houses, etc., have been submitted to the Officers' Club and are now under consideration. This will be a great incentive to those who already enjoy the game of tennis at Benning, to get behind the movement and make it stick.

Gowdy Field, weathering many a storm of pop bottles and loud cheerings of the fans, still stands majestically and is one of the most popular gathering places during the summer time of any other structure at Fort Benning. Its stands have a seating capacity of approximately six thousand five hundred persons, and with the erection of bleachers along the sidelines, would accommodate about one half as many more baseball trained souls.

Truly the Recreation Center Board projects, completed, nearing completion and planned for construction, are gigantic in volume, and necessary to the needs of the garrison in its forward strides which it has been taking in seven league measures for the past five years.

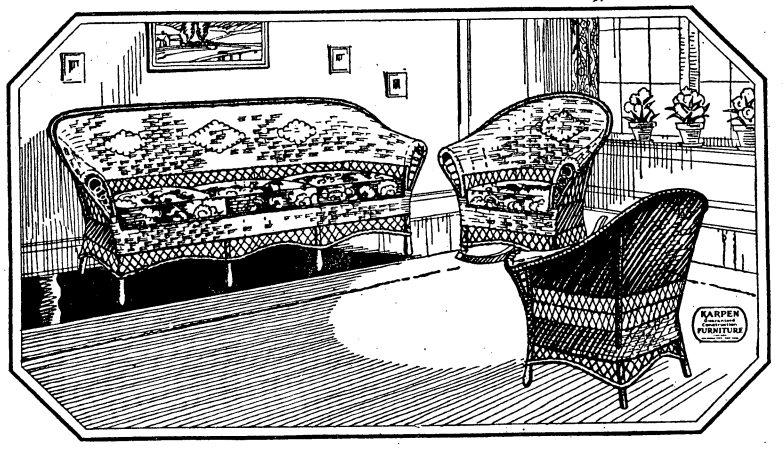


ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Furniture of the better type—

is always found at

ROTHSCHILD'S



LLOYD FIBRE FURNITURE—

is just one of the exclusive lines we carry. There is now in stock a 3-piece Lloyd suite in brown and green for $58.50

Come Inspect Our Lines

H. ROTHSCHILD

1229 Broadway Phone 1152

CHOICE OF TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY AS REPRESENTATIVE INFANTRYMAN

The Chief of Infantry in a letter to Infantry regimental commanders, has asked for a picture of each regiment's enlisted "Representative Infantryman."

Master Sgt. G. R. Still

A quiet canvass of the 29th Infantry has been going on for some time, and it developed that there is such a wealth of material for this prized selection, that the final selection was a difficult one. Finally, the choice was narrowed down to a small circle, and the commanding officer's final selection was Master Sergeant George R. Still, Regimental Personnel Sergeant Major.

The service first knew him as a clarinet player in the band of the 12th Cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, this man from Knoxville, Tennessee, just twenty-three years ago. And now he is a master sergeant of the 29th Infantry, happy inhaling plenty of fresh air via the Studebaker route and exhaling it with company clerks. His principal peculiarity, much to the discomfort of his clerks, is a passion for efficiency and exactness.

With the mounted band he went to the Phillipine Islands and upon his discharge in 1909 returned to the States with the 29th Infantry Band, being for a time stationed at Ft. Jay on Governor's Island, where those music makers made a reputation for themselves in the metropolis. The first thing he knew, his habit of doing jobs well got him into Headquatrers Company of the regiments as first sergeant, and with that unit he trailed down over the Caribean Seas to the Panama Canal Zone.

There while Colonel Walrdon was adjutant of the regiment, and the bolo slingers were cutting jungle trail, clearing tangled growth from what was to become target range and drill ground, Sgt. Still lived beside the Culebra Cut. Then came the World War. Tramping rapidly in from maneuvers around Croerera to guard the locks, the power plants and repair shops of the Panama Canal, the soldiers returned to the Canal Zone itself.

On July 10 1917, Mr. Sgt. Still was commissioned 2nd Lt.. In August he left for the States on the old "Kilpatrick" —Army transport of antique vintage, promoted to 1st Lieut. Inf. on August 15, 1917 and through the fall of the year he was showing civilians the Army idea of the Second Officer's Training Camp at Fort Snelling, and doing so well that he stepped up to a captaincy in less than five months from the day he first donned leather puttees.

After a tour at Fort Crook with the 41st Infantry, and another at Funston with the Tenth Division, he went as liaison and personnel officer on transport duty, serving on the "Leviathan." (which is a whole lot better than the old Kilpatrick) and brought back to the States from France the same John J. Pershing under whom he had previously served at Fort William McKinley near Manila many years before. Then he went to the "Pocahontas" along with an artillery colonel, surrounded by navy men and marines, returning German prisoners to Holland, and for two and a half months visiting Rotterdam, Antwerp, Southampton and Brest.

In December, 1919, he re-enlisted for his old outfit, the Demonstration regiment, which had just arrived at Ft. Benning, and came here to take up his former tasks as First Sergeant of Headquarters Company. It was not long, however,—in fact it was only March of 1920—before he began the personnel work at which he is so accurate, and has since then completed three "Excellent" enlistments as a Master Sergeant.

You may notice the hash marks and the chevrons on his sleeve. You may know of the commission as a Captain in the Reserve Corps which he keeps quietly at home. But you cannot mistake when you see his work or observe his manner that here is one of those essential elements in the military organization which Kipling knowingly called "the backbone of the Army."

THE STAMP COLLECTORS' CLUB

More than a year ago a small group of enthusiastic stamp collectors got together in the library of the New Hospital and formed a Stamp Collectors' Club. During the past year it has had a membership of about twenty and has met once each week at the hospital library or at the quarters of some member.

The club as a unit has been able to get in touch with other clubs and large dealers in such a way as to be very advantageous to its members. It has also provided an excellent opportunity for exchange of stamps and philatelic dope.

While a number of last year's group has been transferred to other posts, about ten are still present and active. They cordially invite all members of the incoming student classes and permanent personnel, who are interested, whether or not they have collections, to be present at their first meeting after the opening of the school. An announcement of the date and place will appear in the Daily Bulletin several days in advance.

SCHEDULE OF HOPS OFFICERS' CLUB 1929-1930

October 25th—Dinner Dance.
November 8th—Informal.
November 29th—Dinner Dance.
December 13th—Informal.
December 31st—New Year's Hop.
January 24th—Dinner Dance.
February 7th—Informal.
February 22nd—Dinner Dance—Colonial Ball.
March 14th—Informal.
March 28th—Dinner Dance.

All dances scheduled will be held at Biglerville Hall unless otherwise announced.

On dinner dance nights number plates are limited to one hundred twenty. Parties are limited to twenty.

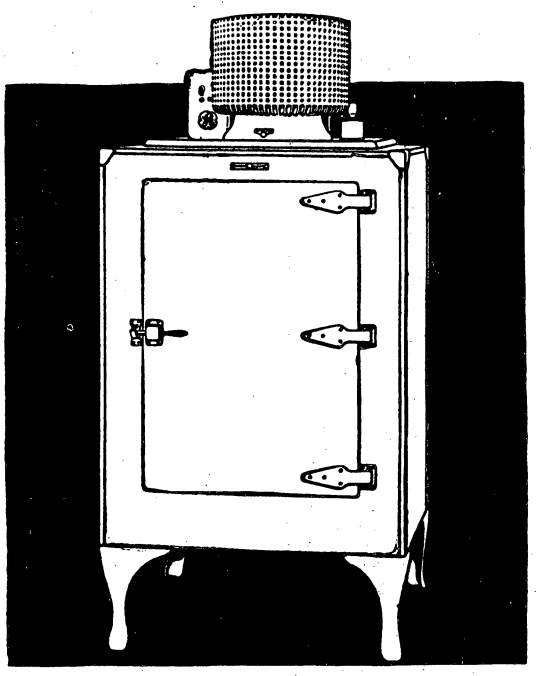
Dates for dances sponsored by the Officers' Club after March 28th will be announced later.

TANKS LEAD IN PERCENTAGE OF RE-ENLISTMENTS FOR AUG.

Inf. School Detachment	13	8	61%x
29th Infantry	31	13	39%
24th Infantry	47	37	79%
2nd Bn., 1st Tank Reg't	8	7	87%
83rd F. A. Battalion	6	2	33%
Co. "C," 1st Chem. Reg't	2	1	50%
Detachment, Q. M. C.	2	1	50%
100th M. T. C., Q. M. C.	2	1	50%
Detachment, Med. Dept.	5	4	80%
Finance Dept.	1	0	0%
Totals	117	74	63%x

Historical rides are exercises in which past military operations, such as a battle or a campaign, are studied on the ground on which the operations took place.

NOW It's Easy to Own!



YOU have often wished you could be free of the nuisance and uncertainty of old-fashioned refrigeration methods. This is your chance to have the best that modern science can devise in the way of automatic electric refrigeration. This is your opportunity to protect the health of your family by assuring constant temperature in your refrigerator—the same even temperature 24 hours a day.

$10 DOWN 30 Months to Pay!

Now you don't need to worry about the cost, either. It's easy to own a

GENERAL ELECTRIC
ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

Columbus Electric & Power Company

We endorse the National Food Preservation Program

E. C. JONES, Asst. Sales Mgr.
R. M. HARDING, Manager

SOUTHWEST GEORGIA

1330 Broadway

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 1, FOR INTERMEIDATES

"Line up in two ranks. Those in front are the number one buddies. Those in rear are number two buddies. As today is your first day in deep water it is all the more important that you keep with your buddy. If you miss your buddy let me know at once."

"The object of the intermediate course is first, to develop the crawl and secondly to enable the pupil to pass the Red Cross Swimmers Test. This test is as follows:

1. Swim 100 yds. using two back strokes.
2. Swim 60 ft. on the back using only the leg drive.
3. Float on back in proper form.
4. Recover an object in over 6 feet of water.
5. Make a sttarting dive and a running front dive.
6. Witness a demonstration of resuscitation of an apparently drowned person.

"Our first work this morning is to learn the starting dive. Sit down on the edge of the pier, put your feet on the side of the pier as far up under you as possible. Now fall forward and shove off into your glide. Like this (demonstration). There is no way that the water can hurt you. Even if you were to fall flat from a two or three feet height you receive only a little slap. No. 1 buddies sit down! Put your feet up. Now getready to fall forward! Go!

Now the No. 2 buddies will do the same thing."

"Our next step is to line up on the edge of the pier. Squat down on the heels. Now push off from the pier, like this (demonstration). Now all of us will try it."

"Now we are almost ready for a regular dive. Line up on the edge of the pier, stoop forward a bit and push off like this (demonstration. Everybody try it."

"We now go to the inter-collegiate start. The starter lines up the swimmers one pace behind the take-off. At the command 'Get on your marks!, the swimmers step up to the take-off. The toes are wrapped over the edge. The feet are about a foot apart. The knees are bent. The body is inclined well forward. The eyes look down the course. The arms are thrown well back. The body is so well poised that at the next command 'Go' or the pistol shot 'Bang,' that it is immediately thrown forward. In the air the body is gently arched from the extended arms to to the toes. It is most importtant that the legs are together. The body should hit the water almost flat. The flutter should not be started until the body comes tot the surface. The starting glide is much faster than the fastest swim. We therefore do not add to the drag of the body by statrting immediately with the flutter kick."

"We will now make three starts. "Line up!" "Get on your marks!" "GO!"

"So much for the starts. We will now do the eleven preliminary exercises which we did in our last lesson in the Beginners Course."

"Our last work this morning is to swim 25 yards with the proper start."

"Good! Most of you finished alright. Remember if you can't finish by the crowl turn over on the back and finish by the back stroke."

"Find your buddies! That is all for to-day."

Next week: Number for Intermediates.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

Miss Dorothy White

will accept a limited number of pupils for instruction on the piano.

Studio
1423 Stark Ave.

Phone 2728-J

The Third National Bank
of Columbus, Ga.

The
Columbus Bank and Trust Company

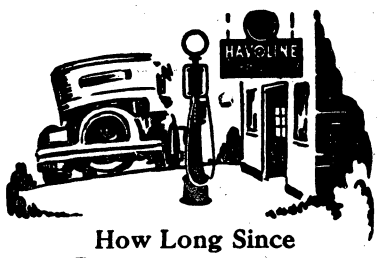
—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

Ford

We Welcome the New Officers and their Wives

We are the only authorized Ford Dealers in this section and keep a full line of the new Ford on display at all times.

If you own a new Ford we will be pleased to service same for you.

Burrus Motor & Tractor Co.

1218-22 First Ave. Phone 3500

B. A. ANSLEY, Fort Representative

OFFICERS PLACED ON THE GENERAL STAFF CORPS ELIGIBLE LIST

Allen, Gilbert M., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Allen, Harry B., Capt., F. A.
Andrews, Frank M., Maj., Air Corps.
Baird, Clair W., Maj., C. A. C.
Baird, Raymond C., Maj., Inf.
Bell, Ola W., Col., Cav.
Blair, George, Maj., Inf.
Bohn, John J., Maj., Cav.
Bonney, Frank E., Maj., Inf.
Bradley, Omar N., Maj., Inf.
Brinton, Louis C., Jr., lieut. Col. Coast Artillery Corps.
Brockman, John A., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Buck, Charles S., Maj., Inf.
Bump, Arthur L., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Burt, Charles C., Lieut. Col., Coast Artillery Corps.
Campbell, Staley A., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Carr, Ernest J., Maj., Inf.
Case, Frank L., Col., Cav.
Castle, William A., Col., Inf.
Cavenaugh, Harry La T., Col., Cav.
Clark, Oral E., Maj., Inf.
Clifford, Charles L., Maj., Cav.
Cole, Robert B., Maj., Inf.
Coleman, Willis P., Col., Inf.
Corey, Milo C., Col., Inf.
Crawford, Robert W., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Curry, John F., Maj., Air Corps.
Davids, Howard G., Col., Inf.
Davidson, Lewis C., Maj., Inf.
Devore, Leland S., Maj., Inf.
Dunn, Walter K., Maj., C. A. C.
Dusenbury, Ralph W., Maj., Inf.
Eglin, Henry W. T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Eskridge, Oliver S., Col., Inf.
Febiger, George L., Maj., Inf.
Franklin, Elkin L., Maj., Cav.
Freeland, Ellicott, Maj., C. A. C.
Fuller, Elmer E., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Graham, William B., Col., Inf.
Greene, Douglass T., Maj., Inf.
Grow, Robert W., Maj., Cav.
Hall, Harrison, Col., Adjutant General's Department.
Harding, Edwin F., Maj., Inf.
Harrison, George R., Maj., Inf.
Hauser, John N., Maj., F. A.
Heard, Falkner, Maj., F. A.
Heidt, James V., Col., Inf.
Herr, Frederick, Maj., Cav.
Hilton, Roy C., Capt., Inf.
Hobbs, Horace P., Col., Inf.
Hoffman, Corbit S., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Holman, Oliver I., Maj., Cav.
Humbert, George F., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Huston, Hamner, Maj., Signal Corps.
Jones, Junius W., Maj., Air Corps.
Joyce, Mahlen A., Maj., Inf.
Joyes, John W., Col., Ord. Dept.
Kasten, William H., Maj., Cav.
Kiser, Sherman L., Maj., F. A.
Koenig, William C., Maj. Coast Artillery Corps.
Lampert, Lester L., Maj., Inf.
Larkin, Thomas B., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Lawrason, George C., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Legge, Barnwell R., Maj., Inf.
Loving, James J., Maj., Corps of Eng.
Lyerly, Ballard, Maj., F. A.
Mason, Charles H., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Matlack, Frank S., Maj., Med. Corps.
McCarthy, Charles E., Maj., Inf.
McCook, Paul H., Col., Inf.
McCunniff, Dennis E., Maj., Inf.
McLean, Henry C., Maj., Inf.
Mitchell, Harry D., Col., Adjutant General's Department.
Moore, Charles B., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Murphy, Truman O., Col., Inf.
Norton, Elliott M., Lieut. Col., Inf.
O'Hare, Joseph J., Maj., Inf.
Orton, William R., Maj., Inf.
Parkhurst, Harleigh, Maj., F. A.
Parkinson, Parley D., Maj., Inf.
Partridge, Clarence E., Maj., Ordnance Department.
Pearce, Thomas A., Col., Inf.
Perry, Charles E., Maj., Corps of Eng.
Point, Will H., Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Polk, Newton N., Maj., F. A.
Richards, Willard K., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Rose, William C., Maj., Adjutant General's Department.
Ross, Frank K., Maj., F. A.
Rutherford, Ray C., Maj., F. A.
Ryther, Dwight W., Col., Inf.
Sawyer, Charles N., Maj., Sig. Corps.
Scanlon, Martin F., Maj., Air Corps.
Scott, Charles L., Lieut. Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Scott, Wilmer T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Screws, William P., Col., Inf.
Shepherd, William H., Maj., F. A.
Sirmyer, Edgar A., Col., Cav.
Small, Harold E., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Smith, Charles C., Maj., Cav.
Smyser, Rudolph E., Lieut. Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Sorley, Lewis S., Col., Inf.
Sprinkle, Lester A., Maj., Cav.
St. John, Adrian, Capt., Chemical Warfare Service.
Stanford, Leland H., Maj., Sig. Corps.
Stewart, Samuel T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Sturgill, Walter S., Maj., F. A.
Taulbee, Edgar W., Maj., Cav.
Thompson, John B., Maj., Cav.
Titus, Isaac E., Maj., Chemical Warfare Service.
Tompkins, William F., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Vachon, Joseph P., Maj., Inf.
Van Deusen, Edwin R., Maj., F. A.
Van Vliet, John H., Maj., Inf.
Wagner, Henry S., Col., Inf.
Wales, Victor W. V., Maj., Cav.
Walsh, Robert Le G., Maj., A. C.
Weed, Frank W., Lieut. Col., Medical Corps.
Wiley, Noble J., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Williamson, Royden, Capt., Cav.
Willoughby, Rexford E., Maj., Cav.
Wineman, Ansel G., Maj., F. A.
Witsell, Edward F., Maj., Chemical Warface Service.
Wolf, Paul A., Brig. Gen.
Wood, Winthrop S., Brig. Gen., assistant to the Quartermaster General.

We Rent Furniture

We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.

Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.

The Hecht Furniture Co.

115 12th St. Phone 1188

To the New—

Student Officers

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning desires to serve the incoming personnel in every way possible.

During the past year the Exchange has increased the facilities for service in several departments, and added some new departments.

To those who are coming to Fort Benning for the first time, the following information is furnished regarding the Post Exchange.

1. GROCERY DEPARTMENT: Staple, fancy and green groceries. Frigidaire equipped meat department (only government inspected meats are handled.)
   Location: Hall St. and Vibert Ave. (Next to Post Office.)
   Hours: 7:45 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phones: 16 and 17.
2. MAIN BRANCH: General Post Exchange Supplies, Shoes, Clothing, Sporting Goods and Candy Departments.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Sundays and holidays: 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 noon.
   Phone: 226.
3. SHOE REPAIR AND HAT SHOP: General Shoe and Boot repairing, Hats cleaned and blocked.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
4. TAILOR SHOP: Regulation Uniforms, Overcoats and Ladies' Riding habits made, altering, cleaning and pressing done.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 497.
5. GIFT AND SPECIAL ORDER DEPARTMENT: Gift Articles, Electrical Devices, Hosiery, Lingerie, Tally and Place Cards, Special Mail Orders.
   Location: Under South stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 5 00 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 608.
6. FILLING STATION, TIRE REPAIR AND ACCESSORY BRANCH: Gas, Oils, Kerosene, Tires, Tubes, Tire Repairs and all auto accessories.
   Location: Wold Ave. (South of Gowdy Field.)
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7 30 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. Sundays and holidays: 8:00 A. M. to 12 noon.
   Phone: 165.
7. AUTOMOBILE REPAIR SHOPS, BATTERY DEPARTMENT, PAINTING, GREASE AND WASH RACKS: All makes of cars repaired, washed, painted and greased.
   Location: Under Gowdy Field Stands.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7:30 A. M. to 2:00 P. M. Emergency service after closing hours.
   Phone: 177.
8. EXCHANGE OFFICE: Executive, Purchasing and Accounting Departments.
   Location: South Tower Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Saturdays: 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 18.
9. GOLF SHOP: All types of Golf Equipment.
   Location: Golf Course.
   Hours: 7 30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.
   Phone: 56.
10. OFFICERS' GRILL: Tobaccos, Toilet Articles, Soda Fountain and Restaurant Service.
    Location: Officers' Club.
    Hours: 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.
    Phone: 151.
11. BEAUTY PARLOR:
    Location: Officers' Club.
    Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
    Phone: 154.

Hoping that we may be given the opportunity to serve your many needs, thereby making your tour of duty at Fort Benning a pleasant one, we are

The Post Exchange

Fort Benning, Ga.

STUDENTS FOR THE 1929-30 CLASSES ARRIVING

The members of the Advanced and Company Officers' classes are rapidly arriving in Columbus and getting settled in preparation for the coming school year. Complete orders for the Refresher class have not as yet been received.

A complete roster of those expected to atend the Advanced and Company officer's classes follows:

Advanced Class

Aldridge, Edwin E., Capt., Inf.
Alger, William E., Capt., Inf. (P. S.)
Allyn, Lester N., Capt. Inf.
Ambrose, Forrest E., Capt., Inf.
Ankcorn, Charles M., Capt., Inf.
Austin, Thomas A., Jr., Capt., Inf.
Baker, Russell, Capt., Inf.
Baldwin, Perry L., Capt., Inf.
Becker, Aaron J., Capt., Inf.
Bell, Raymond D., Major, Inf.
Bell, Robert P., Capt., Inf.
Biggs, Lloyd W., Capt., Cav.
Bloomquist, George F., Capt., Inf.
Boyd, Leonard R., Maj., Inf.
Brooke, John R., Jr., Maj., Inf.
Brown, Homer C., Capt., Inf.
Callen, Nathaniel E., Capt., Inf.
Caulkins, Ralph M., Capt., Inf.
Clark, Solomon F., Capt., F. A.
Clarke, George S., Maj., Inf.
Collins, Harry J., Capt., Inf.
Coulter, Carleton, Jr., Capt., Inf.
Creswell, Harry I. T., Maj., Inf.
Deahl, Charles J., Jr., Capt., Inf.
DeWare, William C., Capt., Inf.
Dollarhide, Erskine S., Maj., Inf.
Dulay, Pedro D., Map., Inf. (P. F.)
Eddy, Manton S., Maj., Inf.
Edmond, Neil S., Capt., Inf.
Ellis, William A., Capt., Inf.
Evans, Roy H., Capt., Inf.
Fales, Clarke K., Capt., Inf.
Fitzpatrick, Rufo M., Capt., Inf.
Fuller, Hurley E., Capt., Inf.
Garcia, Rafael L., Maj., Inf. (P. S.)
Gibson, Harold P., Capt., Inf.
Gray, Clifford A., Capt., Inf.
Hadd, George A., Capt., Inf.
Hall, Ralph, Capt., Inf.
Hoisington, Gregory, Maj., Inf.
Horton, Robert D., Capt., Inf.
Hudson, Paul T., Capt., Inf.
Hunter, Rosser L., Capt., Inf.
Imboden, Nelson M., Capt., Cav.
Johnson, Gerald A., Maj., U. S. M. C.
Jones, Alan W., Capt., Inf.
Lockhead, Frank, Capt., Inf.
McCullough, George S., Capt., Inf.
McFarland, Andrew J., Capt., Inf.
McMahon, William C., Capt., Inf.
Melasky, Harris M., Capt., Inf.
Mendenhall, John R., Maj., Inf.
Miller, Maurice L., Maj., Inf.
Mullins, Charles L., Capt., Inf.
Murray, John T., Capt., Inf.
Osborn, Cuthbert A., Capt., Inf.
Owens, Charles H., Capt., Inf.
Paul, Willard S., Capt., Inf.
Paxton, Oren E., Capt., Inf.
Phillips, Charles T., Capt., A. C.
Pillsburt, Dennis C., Capt., Inf.
Rayens, Charles E., Capt., Inf.
Rice, John K., Capt., Inf.
Ridgway, Matthew B., Capt., Inf.
Rodman, John W., Capt., Inf.
Rogers, Arthur H., Capt., Inf.
Rogers, Walter C., Capt., Inf.
Scales, Howard N., Capt., Inf.
Scobey, William P., Capt., Inf.
Scott, Walter T., Capt., Inf.
Shank, George T., Capt., Inf.
Spann, Wilson McK., Capt., Inf.
Speer, Charles E., Maj., Inf. (Tanks.)
Steward, Elwood M. S., Capt., Inf.
Sweeney, Hardin C., Maj., Inf.
Tabachnik, Abraham, Maj., Inf.
Tarbox, James O., Capt., Inf.
Tuttle, William B., Capt., Inf.
Walker, Edward E., Capt., Inf.
Weyand, Alexander M., Maj., Inf.
Wilder, Stuart G., Maj., Inf.
Wilson, William B., Capt., Inf.
Yon, Everett M., Capt., Inf.

Company Officers Class

Aaron, Thomas R., 1st Lt. Inf.
Akins, Russell C., Capt. Inf.
Allen, Gilbert M. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf.
Bunting, Lloyd D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Burnham, Lucian W., Capt. U. S. M. C.
Butler, Braxton DeG. 1st Lt. Inf.
Cambre, Jerome D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Carmouche, George H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Chazal, Edward A., 2d Lt. Inf.
Cleveland, Orestes, 1st Lt. Inf.
Delong, James C., Capt. Inf.
Doud, Harold, 2d Lt. Inf.
Dudley, Welcott K., 2d Lt. Inf.
Eaton, Ralph P., 2d Lt. Inf.
Elarth, Harold H., Capt. Inf.
Elmore, John A. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf.
Engelthaler, George J., 1st Lt. Inf.
Flanagan, Francis M., Capt. Inf.
Foster, Andrew P. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf. (Tanks)
Gailbreath, Thomas B., 2d Lt. Inf.
Gibbons, Lloyd H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Golightly, Harvey J., 1st Lt. Inf.
Green, Kirby, Capt. Inf.
Gruhn, Ernest W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hanna, Charles W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Harper, Thomas B., 2nd Lt. Inf.
Harris, Herbert H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hass, Martin F., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hazlehurst Dorr, 1st Lt. Inf.
Hein, Frederick W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hewitt, Orville M., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hill, James P., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hilliard, Farrin A., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Huarte, Frank D., 1st Lt. Inf. (PS)
Hyatt, John O., 1st Lt. Inf.
Irwin, Carlisle B., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Johnson, Hugh C., 1st Lt. Inf.
Keasler, James L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kelly, Albert G., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kendall, Paul W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kerr, Maurice S., 1st Lt. Inf.
King, Clarence L., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Kotzebue, Leon L., Capt. Inf.
Krause, Emil, Capt. Inf.
Leeper, Carroll K., 1st Lt. Inf.
LeToney, Peter, Capt. Inf.
Lindley, Frank B., 1st Lt. Inf.
MacDonald, Roscoe G., 1st Lt. Inf.
Mahoney, Thomas E., 1st Lt. Inf.
Mansfield, Frank S., Capt. Inf.
McBride, Robert J., 2d Lt. Inf.
McConnell, Glenn B., 1st. Lt. F. A.
McElroy, John L., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
McKeon, Francis H. A., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Mee, Vincent D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Middleton, John W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Moore, Bryant E., Capt. Inf.
Mulvihill, Francis X., 1st Lt. Inf.
Murray, William S., 1st Lt. Inf.
Potter, Harold E., Capt. Inf.
Prouty, Everett S., 1st Lt. Inf.
Pulsifer, Ralph, 1st Lt. Inf.
Quensen, John F., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Roberts, Heyward B., 1st Lt. Inf.
Robinson, Irvin A., 1st Lt. Inf.
Roemer, Louis E., 1st Lt. Inf.
Rogers, Harry L. Jr., 1st Lt. Inf.
Sherman, John B., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Shults, Fermon A., 1st Lt. Inf. (PS)
Sims, Jules V., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Speidel, William H., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Stewart, Elam L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Tabscott, Ernest E. Capt. Inf.
Thackston, Albert J. Jr., 2d. Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Thomas, William A. D., 1st Lt. F. A.
Thorson, Truman C., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks)
Tomlinson, Clarence M. 1st Lt. Inf.
Van Houten, John G., 2d Lt. Inf.
Vermette, Raymond E., Capt. Inf.
Villaret, Gustave Jr., Capt. Inf.
Welch, James C., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Whitlaw, John L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Wilson, Leroy C., 1st Lt. Inf.
Winters, Lloyd N., Capt. Inf.
Villar y Duarte, Cesar, 1st Lt. Cuban Army.

CONCENTRATION CAMP, REGULAR ARMY TROOPS, 4TH CORPS AREA

The Commandant has received from the Commanding General, 4th Corps Area, an invitation to all officers of this command to visit the Concentration Camp of the Regular Troops of the 4th Corps Area, at Camp Jackson, S. C., during the period October 1-21, 1929. The Corps Area Commander's program of training for this period is on file at headquarters and may be seen by anyone interested.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

A NICE JOB!

If you take pride in a good piece of work and dependable quality on your fine boots and shoes, let us do your repairing. Its high grade.

CUMBAA BOOT & SHOE SHOP
18—12th St.

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

NASH Leads The World in Automobile Value

The World Has a New NASH And Finer Motor Car

The only car today in any price field embodying the following important features:

Salon Bodies
Twin Ignition Motor
Bohnalite Invar Strut Pistons
Hollow Crankpin 7-Bearing Crankshaft
Houdaille and Lovejoy Double Action Hydraulic Shock Absorbers
Torsional Vibration Damper
Double Drop Frame
Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubricating System
All Exterior Ware Chrome Plated over Nickel
Longer Wheelbase
New Easy Steering Mechanism

Best Values in Used Cars

We invite comparison

EDGE-FULLER MOTOR CO.

1309 Broadway Phone 67

100 per cent NASH Service

29TH INF.

The following officers having reported to the 29th Infantry for duty are attached to the Regimental Headquarters and Band: Capt. William E. Alger, Capt. Walter C. Rodgers, 1st Lt. Orestes Cleveland, 1st Lt. Maurice S. Kerr, 1st Lt. Thomas E. Mahoney, 1st Lt. Harry L. Rodgers.

Lieutenant Colonel Thorne Strayer is announced as regimental executive officer, relieving Captain Martin D. McAllister, who has been the acting executive officer, since Lieutenant Colonel Franklin's departure.

Captain Ernest S. Barker, who recently returned from leave, is now acting regimental plans and training officer, relieving 1st Lieut. Howard W. Brimmer, who is now assigned to Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry.

2nd Lieut. Joseph F. Trent has been attached to Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry.

Major Frederick C. Phelps has been relieved from assignment to Regimental Headquarters and Band, 29th Infantry, and is now atached to 1st Battalion Headquarters and Headquarters Comuany, 29th Infantry. Major Phelps is now commanding officers of the 1st Battalion.

Major Troy H. Middleton, who joined the regiment last week, has been attached to 2nd Battalion Headquarters and Healquarters Company, 2nth Infantry.

1st Lieut. Thomas N. Stark, who recently returned from the Army and Navy General Hospital at Hot Springs, Arkansas, has been relieved from assignment tto Service Company, 29th Infantry, and assigned to Company B, 29th Infantry.

"Old Timers" have been congratulating 1st Lieutenant Wilbur H. Vinson upon his receipt of War Department orders ordering him to the Philippine Islands. Lieutenant Vinson has completed over seven years of "foreign service," while stationed here in Fort Benning. He remembers the time when the Kashita Indians used to build mud houses on the 29th Infantry parade ground. In fact, he has seen " the world's greatest infantry school" grow from a tiny village to the mighty metropolis that it now is.

A very touching ceremony was enacted Monday afternoon, when the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, commanded by Major Thomas F. Taylor, tendered Lieutenant Colonel Walter L. Reed, its former Battalion commander, a battalion parade at retreat. All former officers, who were with the battalion during the period the 1st Battalion was in camp last May, were invited to take their former posts of cammand. All officers and men are very sorry to see Colonel Reed leave the regiment. However, all feel that, no matter where, when or what, Colonel Reed will always be found "rooting" for the 1st Battalion. After the retreat parade, Major and Mrs. Taylor held a delightful afternoon tea for Colonel and Mrs. Reed on their front lawn, to which all the officers and ladies of the 1st Battalion and other specially invited guests were cordially invited.

Headquarters Co.

The company recreation room is under new management, Private Harry (Happy) Long, has been appointed to the position, by the release of Private Grace, who is now seen in the mess hall in the capacity of K. P. (A Knight of Pythias, yes-huh!)

Private Grace told some members of this company that he believed that outdoor life always agreed with him, however he failed to state that he would lose considerable sleep during the day. Private Grace was a tiller of the soil before entering the service, but he wants to forget that part of it. He is a close student of degerdmain, or else is studying the deaf and dumb alphabet, berause he is always keeping his hands and fingers nimble. He was seen the other night rubbing his hands with gun oil, so his joins would not become stiff, in case he was called upon to do some slight of hand work with 57 articles. Yes, Heine, throw me them there bottles of pickles!

Company "C"

Just a word to the wise, those who care to see a real recreation room, why drop in and look ours over and the best part is yet to come. Wait until we get our reading room fixed up.

Our famous Supply Sergeant, "Jawbone" Hayes has been sojourning in the hospital for a few days, but is back on the job now. If you don't believe me, just ask him where he was last night.

Gosh, it is a shame how some of the fellows in this outfit love a certain section in the State of Alabama! Oh well, you will learn better if you live long enough!

We are all wondering who the recruit was that went to one of the cooks and asked if he could have some breakfast bacon to go with his eggs. "Of course he got it." Pronto! Eh what? Probably the same one who offered to pay the cook for his meals.

First of all, some of us are wondering what is wrong with the wild and wooly third platoon. The Supply Sergeant has tto carry a club around with him these days to keep them off, "and we wonder why." Well, we have been checking their clothing, and the third platoon (usually first in some few things) are very short on clothing. Corporal Dey or "Pug" has almost forgotten that the Supply Sergeant can handle more rags. Better be careful, Pug, that there brass of 'urn has lost its gloss, and someone has been noticed looking at it with their hat cocked down over the right eye (—and his name itsn't Capt. Maybe, either!)

And something for our beloved, bewildered, bewitched and over conscious "Black Frog," who is at the present time on pass and "we wonder why." The story is too long for our news notes, so we can only hope for the best and hope that he will live to forgive and forget.

One of the other "Frogs" of the Company is looking down, poor fellow. If only I could express the sorrow we have for him; is it love that has such effects on a man, or perhaps it is those long and dreary months that he has to do. Just smile, "Frog," Hayes will send you his best wishes from the sunflower state of Kansas at Thanksgiving time, hoping that it will bring you cheer, and let us hape that the year 1930 will find you better in every way.

Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Private first class Robert L. Duck, our former recreation room orderly, has been appointed corporal. Keep up the good work, corporal.

Pfc. Lemuel ("Ramona") J. Kelley, has tatken over the responsibilties of the recreation room. Good luck, Kel.

Corporal Burt L. Udell, who has been

(Continued on page 22.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Studebaker Standard Six Duplex Phaeton, model 1926. Dining room table and six chairs. Electric heater. Victrola. See or call Major Bull. Phone 118.

FOR SALE: At a bargain. Chrysler 70 Roadster, excellent condition. Apply 3208 13th Ave., or phone 4129J.

WANTED: By lady with years of experience with children, wishes to care for them by the hour, day, week or month. Best military and civilian references. Miss Eugenie Levy, 2014 W. 428 4th Ave.

PIANO TO RENT—Mrs. George E. Chase, 937 Third Ave. Phone 1057-W.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

WELCOME

We wish to extend to the incoming officers and their families a hearty welcome to Columbus and Fort Benning. It will be a pleasure to serve you during your stay.

Phone 314 for Representative

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

For Health's Sake

Drink

Grade "A" Raw Milk

Nature's Perfect Food

PURITY SERVICE

Labor Health Tested Cows T. B. Tested

Produced under supervision of Columbus Health Department.

Visitors welcomed at our dairy plants.

Georgia Pure Milk League

P. O. Box 827 Columbus, Ga. Phone 859

THE POST GREENHOUSE

The two Post green houses located on the west side of the Sigerfoos Road across from the childrens' school were completed in March 1925. They were built for use as propagating houses to provide a means for the propagation of flowering and evergreen shrubs. Through the use of these two hot houses the Quartermaster has been able to provide many thousands of fine young shrubs which are now ornamenting the grounds around public buildings and quarters all over the Post. The cost of these plants, had they been purchased commercially, would have run into thousands of dollars.

The propagating plant complete consists of the two glass houses, a heating plant and a mixing and potting room. In addition to these buildings there is a plant nursery where the young plants from the hot houses are lined out and cultivated until time to set them out in their permanent locations. A tree nursery will be established this fall and will complete the units necessary to supply flowers, shrubs and trees for the Post.

The cycle of operation of this important activity, beginning with this month, is outlined briefly below. As this season's growth on the various shrubs begins to mature, cuttings are taken and placed in sand in the propagating benches in the greenhouses. The sand is kept constantly moist and as the weather becomes cooler, the temperature is kept between 75 degrees and 80 degrees F. by the heating plant. These cuttings strike root in the moist sand and begin growth. As soon as a good root system has been developed cuttings are taken out of the sand and potted up in three inch pots. The soil used in these pots is very carefully mixed in the potting room and contains all the elements necessary for the rapid, healthy growth of the young plants. Once potted up the cuttings grow rapidly in the genial warmth of the hot houses and by spring are ready to go into the nursery.

After the weather becomes settled and the ground warms up in the spring, shallow furrows are run in the nursery and the potted plants are put into the open ground. Constan. cultivation and systematic watering in dry weather, coupled with proper pruning and spraying, results in sturdy, strong young plants by fall which are ready to be lifted and set out in the places they are destined to permanently adorn. This transplanting is done after cold weather has caused the plants to cease their growth and go into their winter resting period. Ordinarily transplanting can be undertaken here at Benning from late October until early April.

As the hothouses are emptied of their contents in the spring by the lining out of the potted plants in the nursery, the sand propogating benches are again filled with cuttings. These cuttings are taken from plants which strike roots better from wood taken in the spring just as the sap is beginning to flow than from wood taken in the fall. To protect the cuttings while they are rooting, and after they have been potted, the glass of the hot houses is coated with whitewash,—otherwise the heat of the sun coming through the glass would be intolerable and nothing could be kept in the greenhouses during the summer months. These spring cuttings are ready to go into the nursery by fall and replace the plants taken out for permanent planting.

In this manner both the greenhouses and nursery are kept working all the year round.

At present there are several thousand young shrubs in the nursery awaiting to to their bit in beautifying Fort Benning this fall. In addition to this there are nearly as many more in sand and pots which will go into the nursery as soon as space becomes available. Besides these young shrubs, over fifteen hundred young trees have been selected tagged and charted down in the woods and will be lifted and set out in the Post this fall and winter. Some of these trees and shrubs will go around public buildings recently completed and which need tying into their surroundings, and some will be planted in areas selected as permanent parks. Others will be planted around juarters occupied by members of the garrison and still others will be used to add to and bring out the beauty of many prominent features of the Fort Benning landscape.

Book Review

THE ORIGINS OF THE WORLD WAR

By Sidney Bradshaw Fay, Professor of Modern European History in Smith College. (Extract.)

"If a student of history was banished to the traditional desert island and permitted but one book on each field of history, he would choose for his unique reference work on the origins of the World War the two volumes of Professor Sidney B. Fay. No other work has yet appeared in English, French or German which is at once so comprehensive, authoritative, impartial, and well proportioned. Specialists in the field will long use it as a cornerstone of their own constructions; other historians will place it within easy reach on their reference shelf as an indispensable first aid in clearing up diplomatic problems of the period from 1870 to 1914; but the general reader will do well to read first some standard textbooks on recent European history so that he may understand the detailed and often highly technical analyses of successive crises of European diplomacy. The book was not written for those who need explanations of every diplomatic "incident" to which casual allusion might be made.

The first volume is a review of diplomatic history from the Franco-Prussian war to 1914. The road is a familiar one, but Professor Fay has used the volumes of Die Grosse Politick freely in gaining new light on old problems. His judgements on particular problems are interesting, though only a few can be mentioned: Alsace-Lorraine was really French at heart and its annexation, is not a crime, at any rate a blunder (I. 51); Bismarck was not responsible for the war scare of 1875 (I. 58), nor for the Schnaebel incident (I. 103), nor yet for deliberately sowing ill-will between France and Italy (I. 80-81); Baron Holstein's influence was the main factor in preventing a renewal of the Reinsurance Treaty (I. 92), but this fact was not the sole or even the main cause of the Franco-Russian alliance (I. 95); "the first years of the Franco-Russian alliance tended to strengthen rather than endanger the peace of Europe" (I. 124); Sir Edward Grey's "great responsibility and mistake" was to permit Anglo-French military and naval understandings while still holding to the illusion that they left England diplomatically uncommitted to France (I. 193, 323); the deliberate encirclement of Germany by an iron ring of enemies was a myth, "the product of German imagination, fear, and suspicion" (I. 243); both Germany and Russia worked hard to avoid war over Morocco (I. 290-293); Izvolski was mainly responsible for reopening the delicate question of the Straits (I. 414-428); Sazonov usually took a very cautious and moderate position at times of crisis (I. 524-531); Germany, even more than Italy, was responsible for restraining Austria from an attack on Serbia in 1913 (I. 448-455.)

The second volume deals wholly with the crisis of 1914. It contains a very detailed account of the Sarajevo assassination and devotes rather more space to the less familiar field of Balkan politics than to the high politics of the Great Powers. Much use is made of the Austrian accounts of the trial of the conspirators, and there is a prolonged controversy, marked with perhaps a touch of acerbity, with the eminent British historian R. W. Seton-Watson as to the responsibility of the Serbian government. Professor Fay concedes as "perfectly certain that Mr. Pashitch and his cabinet had nothing to do with the originating of the assessination" (II. 145) but he holds, on circumstancial evidence, that they must have eventually become aware of the plot. He believes that this knowledge induced the Serbian ministers, who did not at the moment want war, to send a general warning to Austria that Franz Ferdinand should beware of assassination or stay away from Sarajevo, but unfortunately, from fear of being compromised by the investigations that would result, they did not dare make their warning explicit enough to prevent what happened. This is admittedly speculative, but seems on the whole the most probable explanation of Serbia's dubious and ambiguous official attitude on the eve of the assassination.—Preston Slosson.

COL. BERRY ASSUMES COMMAND

During the temporary absence of General Campbell King, Colonel D. G. Berry has assumed command of the Infantry School.

TRAFFIC ON SIGERFOOS ROAD

Until further orders Sigerfoos road from the intersection with Vibbert avenue to the swimming pool will be a two-way road for all cars carrying passengers to or from the swimming pool.

DRINK NEHI

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

"THE STANDARD BY WHICH OTHERS ARE JUDGED"

It retails no higher than Cheap Substitutes

IN THIS BOTTLE ONLY

"UPSTAIRS" SPECIAL UNITS

By "The Gang"

We are all worked up over the new coat of paint our building is receiving. Day by day, we are getting no worse. Just hope we aren't standing still.

Sergeant Ross is a fine clerk, especially when it comes to digging out the solution to a mighty difficult problem. He just goes after it in very much the same spirit of a terrier unearthing a rat. But Sam certainly did have an awful time walking the plank the painters laid down to protect the newly painted floor.

Mims is good at winning title contests for cartoons, but the five dollars reward given the winner is either a long time getting here, or Mims just doesn't want to give us all a cigar treat.

Corporal Abie Brownstein has two teeth broken off in front. His alibi is that he got it done playing "wolley" ball, but there is a rumor in the air that he was once going up a ladder, and about half way to the top he had to get into an argument, and of course he had to get his hands free to argue, and getting overbalanced, fell right on top of a pile of bricks, teeth first. He says that talking with his hands was brought about by expressing his thoughts on a typewriter, using the hunt-and-peck system. He alsos states that he is a thorough-bred Irishman. We wouldn't doubt his word for anything, and we wouldn't insinuate that talking with his hands was just natural with him.

Corporal Payne had a pipe. The bowl was of ordinary brier, but the stem was about fourteen inches of Upatoi-Creek reed. Well, he missed it recently, and started an awful rumpus, saying that he treasured it only for sentimental reasons. Just take the last two syllables off the word "sentiment," and you will have the very reason the gang voted unanimously to throw the old thing in the G. I. can.

Hope we won't have too much cold weather this coming winter, for the way the Tobacco Chewers' League uses the stove for a cuspidor, we'll have an awful time keeping any fire there. Benefield is president of the League just now, but the other day when Kessinger had to answer a question, he was seen to head for the stove and open the door. We can't believe that he was just looking inside. Looks like Benefield might have a little opposition for presidency next election.

Something has been wrong with Pat for a long time. We can't find out just what it is, although several suggestions have been offered, such as belles in Hattiesburg, Furloughs, etc., but none of them seem to fit the situation. Somebody suggested "Mullygrubs," and we were willing to let it go at that, not having the slightest idea what that meant, but not so with Pat; he got all indignant, and said if he had half an idea he had such things, he would secure a big chunk of G. I. soap and head for the bath house.

We had better finish this some other time, for we have fine morale here, and too much publicity all at one time might get the gang to high-hating each other, and spoil the pleasant state of harmony we have drifted into after so many years.

The Regimental contest for the best kept quarters is bringing out a lot of talent and keen competition. Each company is going to it with enthusiasm. The winners are sure to have spotless squad rooms,

The records have not yet been compiled showing how well the 24th did on the rifle range. The supplementary season for the rifle is over and that for the pistol is being completed as this goes to print. Next week we hope to be able to publish the statistics.

Right close on the heels of baseball comes the call for football. Lt. Ellison hadn't been back from the coaching school two days before he had the squad out going through preliminary exercises. They can been seen late every afternoon working hard on the parade ground, and what a bunch of huskies they are. All we can say is look out Tuskegee. When our team goes over there, before long, it should be some game.

Additional 29th Infantry Notes

(Continued from page 20.)

our Company clerk for quite a while, is due to leave us for a few months. "Udoole" is going to the Signal School, at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and Pfc. Fabian ("Frog") A. Buquoi, has taken over the duties of company clerk. By the way, he was a "Buck" until a few days ago. Atta Boy, "Frog." Here's wishing Corporal Udell, the best of success in his new studies.

Private Earl Haun has been rated Specialist 6th Class. Nice going there, Haun!

One of the fellers in the outfit received a letter from Sgt. William B. Smith a few days ago, and "Smitty" said that he surely was in love, (as some little femme would say), with Baton Rouge and that he hoped to make good in the "frog" country. HaHa!

Company "E"

"Battling" Danny Davis, one of our foremost athletes in the fighting game fought a main go last week, with Ginger Jernigan; also "Doubting" Thomas, is also geting in on the money here at Fort Benning. We are sorry that "Doubting" Thomas is buying out.

"Young" Stanley of the second Platoon has been worrying lately. He would like to go the Philippine Islands where the sun shines hot, and monkeys chatter in the trees, and the polly parrots are talking sweet nothings to everybody.

"Swede" Oikari our asst. mess sergeant has changed the menu on Sunday morning from hot cakes and bacon to bacon and hot cakes. Good boy, "Swede," a change will do us good.

"Slug" Griffin was seen the other day sporting a five cent "Winne Winkle" cigar; business must be picking up for "Slug."

We haven't been geting so many telephone calls here lately, since "Goat" Liebel has been going to town quite often. "Goet" must have won himself a home in Columbus, Georgia.

Company "G"

Company "G" made a good showing in the swimming meet held at Russ Pool on Labor Day. Private Nims of the 3rd Platoon took 3rd place in the 400 yard free style. Recruit George R. Smith, Jr., took first place in the 50 yard dash and also third place in the 100 yard free style. Private "Possum Prophet" took second place in the 200 yard free style, and Corporal Latham took second place in the 100 yard backstroke.

Our four entries won five medals, incidentally these were the only medals won in the 2nd Battalion. Good work, boys, keep up the work "G" Company is in the foreground again.

Lt. Cralle has started working strenuously on the football team; let's all dig in on that.

1st Sergeant Bert Plummer is now taking a well earned furlough. He is visiting relatives in Starkville, Miss.

Sgt. John Simpson is now in his 7th heaven, "Recruit Center." Atta Boy, Warset!

Private Walinski is happy too; he is now using Lemay's "personal tools" in the Supply Room.

Bugler Baker is just about getting over his voluntary thirteen day hike into Tennessee.

Pvt. Weber to Pvt. Lynn, "When is a fish not a fish?" Pvt Lynn, "When he won't bite the bait."

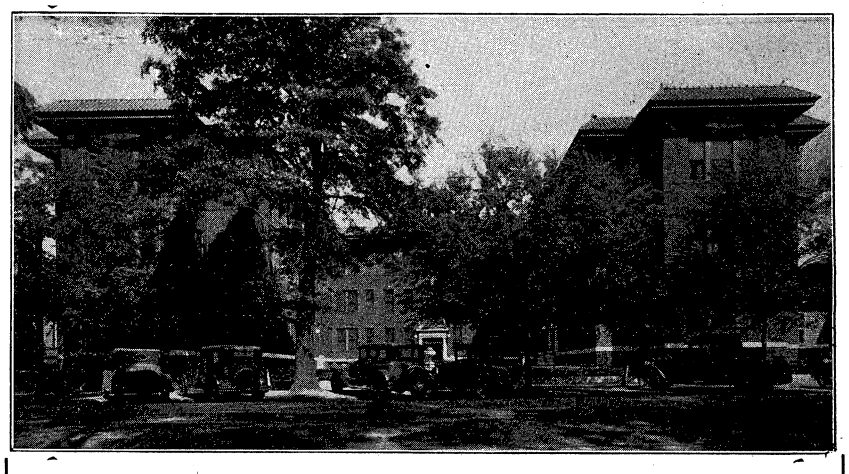
Private Plant is still trying to figure out which came first ,the hen or the egg.

Pvt. Vicknair still plays "Lylia Time," I wonder why?

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.
Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.
FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

Chase Conservatory of Music
Corner 3rd Avenue and 10th Street
PIANO, VIOLIN and ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTS
Special consideration given to all Benning pupils, children and adults, in the matter of convenient periods. Musical tests made without charge or obligation.
Low rate bus fares available.
SESSION BEGINS MONDAY, SEPT. 16th
Prompt registration assures more favorable lesson hours
Phone 264
Address LOUIS T. CHASE, Pres.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park
Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.
We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.
A few apartments are available.
For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470
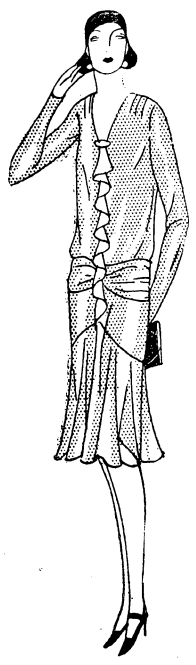
Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476
Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062

Kirven's ESTABLISHED 1876 Extends a most cordial "Welcome" to the New Officers and their families to Columbus and Fort Benning.

And we invite you to make our Store your Shopping Headquarters while you are in our midst. Here you will always find the newest styles in Ladies and Misses Ready-to-Wear. Only forty hours from New York and being constantly in touch with that Center of Fashion, new things are arriving daily, and being offered at prices commensurate with a fair profit, together with all the conveniences only a Complete Department Store can offer.

Coats and Dresses Have A Nonchalant Smartness



DRESSES

The new fall frocks are arriving. The new style trends are forecast in interesting variety, subtle changes in the silhouette appear. Dresses of Satin, Velvet, plain and printed Crepe tell a fascinating story of the new mode.

Dresses of Black Satin
With Lingerie Touches
A Higher Waistline
And Uneven Hemline

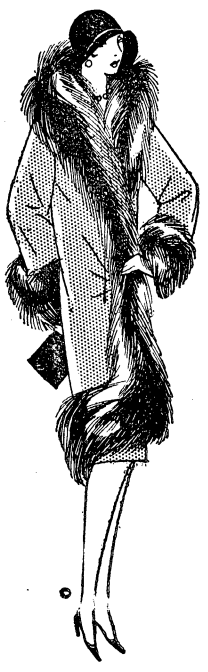
Skillful manipulations of fabric in godets, pleats and insets creates a graceful fulness below the hips. Sleeves are important—with elaborated cuffs, often being cut in one at the shoulder.

COATS

The ease and grace of these coats meets the ideal of what correct coats should be. Many have straight lines—others are broken by subtle flares. These coats are an indispensable part of every complete outfit—they are appropriate for many of the informal daytime occasions of fall as well as for travel, school or sports wear.

TWEEDS
PILE FABRICS
NOVELTY MATERIALS

Some are untrimmed except for stitching, cording or bandings of the material, others are trimmed with furs of Fox, Badger, Kit Fox, Wolf, Beaver and Skunk.



Dresses $10.75 to $59.50

LADIES AND MISSES SIZES

Coats $24.75 to $175.00

COLUMBUS' Kirven's ESTABLISHED 1876 OWN STORE

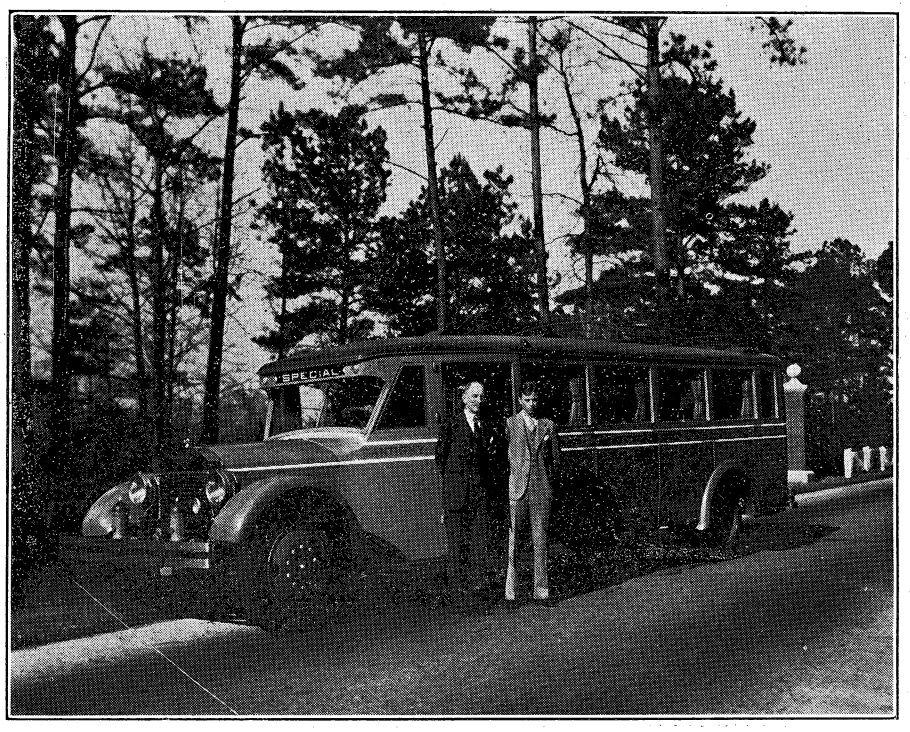
HOWARD BUS LINE, Inc.



The above is a scene on the Fort Benning Boulevard between Columbus and Fort Benning, showing one of our new Mack Parlor Buses. They are painted in Infantry colors with dust colored roofs, and are equipped with all the easy riding devices known to the manufacturers, including rubber shock insulators which is an exclusive feature. We have another new bus ordered, due to arrive sometime in September, which will be equipped with balloon tires, as well as the other features, which pertains to the comfort of the passengers.

We desire to call to the attention of the student officers who live in Columbus and civilian employees at Benning the following:

Monthly Business Tickets
52 One Way Trips $10.00

City Buses and Cars radiate from our Columbus station to all parts of the City and Girard, Ala., and North Highlands—making easy and quick transportation from Benning to your homes in Columbus.

Note the following schedule which we think you will find convenient:

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

We also operate Packard Cars on this service at 50c fares, minimum for trip $2.50.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

You will find us accommodating and desirous of serving you.

HOWARD BUS LINE, Inc.

PHONE—CITY 410 | T. C. CRAWFORD, President | PHONE—POST 224

The Infantry School News

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., SEPTEMBER 6, 1929 Number 51

Corps Area Golf Tournament Nearing Close

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM MEMBERS PLACE FAVORABLY

Last minute reports, special to the NEWS, from Camp Perry, Ohio, show that the members of the Infantry Team are making favorable showings in the individual matches.

In the Leech Cup match, there were 1217 entries. The possible score for this match was 105. Captain D. M. Bartow, 1st Infantry, was sixth in the match, (fourth among the service entries) with a score of 104. Lieutenant D. L. Adams, 29th Infantry was seventeenth, with a score of 102; Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29tht Infantry was thirty-first with 101; Sergeant W. F. Bisenden, 10th Infantry was thirty-second, and Captain K. L. Berry, Infantry was forty-second with a score of 101.

The Wimbledon Cup match had 1315 entries, with the possible score being 100. Captain W. B. Wilson, 24th Infantry was second in this match with a score of 100, but lost first place in the shoot off.

In the Farr Trophy match, Captain M. L. Broderick, Infantry, was thirtieth among the service entries with a score of 96; Corporal C. Risner, 10th Infantry made the same score to place thirty-first; 2nd Lieutenant G. B. Gailbreath scored 96 also, but placed thirty-third, while Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry placed thirty-seventh with 96. Sgt. McW. James, 25th Infantry placed forty-fourth at 95.

There were only 849 entries in the Wright Memorial match. There was a possible score of 75, and Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29th Infantry placed seventh with a possible score, while Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry eleventh with the same score. Corporal M. L. Moore, 4th Infantry, who won the rapid fire match, placed thirty-second in this match when he turned in a score of 74.

The Navy match seemed to hold more interest than did those preceding it. There were 1332 entries for this field. The possible score was 100. The Infantry Team Squad placed more in this than they had in any of the others. The following is their order of placing as compared to other service entries: Sergeant J. Carlson, 4th Infantry, tenth, score 94. Sergeant S. Bradford, 24th Infantry, thirtieth, score 92. Corporal C. Risner, 10th Infantry, thirty-eighth, score 92. Corporal H. F. Hicks, 29th Infantry, forty-eighth, score 92.

In the Members match, there were 1330 entries. The possible score was fifty. Lt. D. M. Gunn was fifth among th service entries with a score of 50. 1st Sgt. H. F. Mollertsrom, 17th Infantry, was thirteenth with 49. Sgt. James, 24th Infantry placed fourteenth with the same score, but Sergeant E. Bockell slipped and went into thirty-first plac with 49 for a score.

TANKS RETAIN POST AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIP

Four Records Fall

The terrible Tankers again sank their talons further into the hearts of their rivals, when they took the Labor Day swimming meet in a walk. Their nearest rivals, the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, were thirty-nine points behind when the final check-up was made.

The Spiecal Units of the 29th Infantry placed third, and the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion placed fourth.

Lucas of the 1st Tank Regiment swam the 100 yard breast stroke in one minute, thirty-six and one-fifth seconds to establish a new post record for that distance.

Smith of the Second Battalion sprinted the fifty yard dash in twenty-nine seconds flat and broke the old post record.

The First Tank Regiment copped another record when Seay puffed and struggled to finish the 100 yard back stroke in one minute, twenty-nine and one-fifth seconds.

The flash of the 29th Infantry, Miller, finished first in the 100 yard free style at a timing of one minute, eight and two-fifths seconds, and set up a new mark for the aquatic century.

Lucas of the First Tank Regiment took high score honors, taking three first places for a total of 15 points. Miller, Special Units, 29th Infantry, was runner up with two third places and one first for a total of 7 points.

Results:

400 Yard Relay—1st Tanks, 4:59 1-5; 2nd, 83rd F. A., 5:15 2-3; 3rd. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 5:39 2-5.

100 Yard Breast Stroke—1st, Lucas, 1:36 1-5, Tanks; 2nd, Nourse, 1:49 1-5, Tanks; 3rd, Stuart, 1:53, 83rd F. A.

50 Yard Dash—1st, Smith, 29; 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 2nd, Buchanan, 29 2-5, Tanks; 3rd, Miller, B., 29 3-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.

400 Yard Free Style—1st, Lucas, 6:-28 2-5, Tanks; 2nd, Wheeler, 7:1 3-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 3rd, Nims, 7:1 4-5, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

100 Yard Back Stroke — 1st, Seay, 1:29 1-5, Tanks; 2nd, Latham, 1:35 3-5, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Miller, 1:37 2-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.

100 Yard Free Style—1st, Miller, E., 1:8 2-5, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 2nd Flowers, 1:9, Tanks; 3rd, Covington, Tanks, and Smith, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf, tied at 1:11.

Fancy Diving — 1st, Parr, 266.7, Tanks;; 2nd, Pope, 220.8, Tanks; 3rd, Flannagan, 203.2, Tanks.

200 Yard Free Style—1st, Lucas, 2:47, Tanks; 2nd, Prophet, 3:11, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Allanan, 3:14 1-5, Tanks.

Medley Relay—1st, Tanks, 4:16; 2nd, Special Units, 29th Inf., 4:40; 3rd, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 4:50 1-5.

Total points: 1st Tank Regt., 54 1-2; 1st Bn., 29th Inf., 0; 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., 15 1-2; Special Units, 29th Inf., 13; 8crd F. A. Bn., 7; Special Units, Inf. Sch., 0.

Places: 1st, 1st Tank Regt.; 2nd, 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; 3rd, Special Units, 29th Inf.; 4th, 83rd F. A. Bn.

SERGEANT KINGSBURY WINS TROPHIES AT FORT DUPONT

Sergeant Louis Kingsbury, 7th Engineers, who recently attended the Engineer rifle team try-outs at Fort Dupont, brought home two of the individual trophies.

Colonel Berry, commanding officer of the Special Units, formally presented the Fort Humphreys and Woods trophies to Sgt. Louis Kingsbury before the entire company at an assembly Saturday morning. The colonel spoke highly of the achievements of Sgt. Kingsbury and congratulated him on his success.

The Fort Humphreys trophy was shot for at the 200 and 600 yards range, slow fire. Sgt. Kingsbury mad a score of 145 out of a possible 150 to win. The Woods trophy was for the best score at rapid fire and was won with a score of 149 out of 150. Both trophies were competed for by all the candidates for the Engineer rifle team.

CORPORAL MOORE WINS RAPID FIRE CHAMPIONSHIP

Corporal Maurice L. Moore, member of the Infantry Rifle team at Camp Perry, tied for the National Rifle Association rapid fire championship Monday with Sergeant F. L. Manion, Delaware National Guard, with a score of ninety-nine. There were thirteen hundred and fifty competitors firing in this match.

The tie between these two men was fired off twice at three hundred yards Tuesday. The first score was 41-44 with Sergeant Manion leading, but the score had to be re-fired, due to the targets being prematurely drawn. This time, Corporal Moore won out with a score of forty-eight, while Sergeant Manion made forty-three.

The 1929 Fourth Corps Area Golf Tournament has been in progress on the Fort Benning links since Monday morning. A total of 74 players, ten of whom were visiting officers from other parts of the corps area, played the 36 qualifying holes on Monday.

The visiting players, who took part, were Col. G. Williams, who is on duty with the Organized Reserves in the state of Mississippi; Maj. A. B. Jones, Maj. H. A. Deiber, Maj. C. A. Seale, Maj. O. T. Allen, Capt. S. Fairbanks, Capt. R. T. Powell, Capt. R. T. Edwards, all from Fort McPherson, Ga.; Capt. Wm. Cassidy, from Fort Bragg, N. C., and 1st Lieut. L. C. Boineau, from Columbia, S. C.

Maj. O. N. Bradley turned in a score of 78 on Monday morning and 73 in the afternoon for a total of 151 to win t medal. Maj. F. E. Hickson was ner-up with 162.

In accordance with the qualify scores, the players were divided into t flights of eight each as follows:

First flight: Maj. O. N. Bradley, 151; Maj. F. E. Hickson, 162; Capt. A. S. Nevins, 163; Lt. Col. H. A. Wells, 165; Capt. W. Cassidy, 167; Maj. H. R. Conner, 168; Maj. A. B. Jones, 168; Maj. H. A. Deiber, 171.

Second flight: Maj. W. L. Roberts, 171; Capt. L. E. Norris, 172; 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton, 173; Maj. E. W. Leard, 173; Capt. S. Fairbanks, 173; Capt. K. G. Althaus, 174; Capt. R. E. Powell, 176; Col. G. Williams, 177.

Third flight: 2nd Lt. W. K. Dudley, 178; Maj. J. I. Meagher, 178; Capt. V. A. Huskea, 179; Maj. J. L. Bradley, 179; Capt. W. M. Hutson, 182; 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau, 183; Capt. G. S. McCullough, 183; Maj. J. R. Brooke, 184.

Fourth flight: Capt. W. M. Chapman, 184; Maj. L. R. Boyd, 185; Capt. Waine Archer, 185; 1st Lt. W. S. Lewis, 185; Maj. W. G. Livesay, 185; W. O. C. A. Stone, 186; Capt. J. E. Cole, 186; 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, 186.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert, 187; Capt. W. E. Sankey, 188; 1st Lt. B. Child, 189; Maj. E. C. Rose, 190; Maj. J. A. Ladd, 190; Maj. M. P. Rudolph, 191; Maj. D. E. McCunif, 192; Maj. W. A. Squires, 192.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. T. Straver, 193; Capt. R. T. Sdwards, 193; Maj. S. A. White, 193; 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 194; Capt. R. E. Duff, 195; Maj. C. Seale, 197; Capt. D. B. Hilton, 198; Lt. Col. W. L. Reed, 198.

Seventh flight: Capt. W. E. Seamon, 200; 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley, 201; 1st Lt. D. G. Barr, 202; Capt. C. L. Bolte, 202; 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein, 203.

Eighth flight: Capt. E. L. Brine, 205; Maj. H. A. Bootz, 205; 1st Lt. E. Curran, 206; Capt. W. B. Tuttle, 208; Maj. N. Randolph, 209; 2nd Lt. C. H. Boyce, 210; Capt. L. A. Wetherby, 212; Capt. C. L. Steel, 211.

Ninth flight: Capt. J. E. Wharton, 212; 1st Lt. B. M. McFayden, 212; Maj. O. Allen, 214; Capt. W. A. Howland, 214; Maj. W. F. Freehoff, 215; Capt. R. C. Akins, 215; Capt. L. S. Lampke, 218; 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 221.

Tenth flight: 2nd Lt. D. G. Strickler,

(Continued on page 2.)

CORPS AREA GOLF TOURNAMENT

(Continued from page 1.)

234; Capt. W. G. Murphy, 278.

In his qualifying play on Monday, Capt. R. E. Powell, of Fort McPherson, made a hole in one on the fifteenth green. This is the first time that a single has been accomplished on the 145 yard hole.

Those who remained to play off the championship in each flight on Thursday are given below with the names of the defeated first and second round players with scores:

First flight: Maj. O. N. Bradley won from Capt. Wm. Cassidy, 5 and 3; and from Capt. A. S. Nevins, 5 and 3. Maj. F. E. Hickson won from Maj. H. R. Conner, 2 up; and from Lt. Col. H. A. Wells, 2 and 1.

Second flight: Col. G. Williams won from Maj. E. W. Leard, 1 up, 19 holes; and from Capt. K. G. Althaus, 3 and 1. Capt. R. E. Powell won from 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton by default; and from Capt. Fairbanks, 4 and 3.

Third flight: Capt. V. A. Huskea won from Capt. G. S. McCullough, 2 up; and from 2nd Lt. W. K. Dudley, 5 and 4. 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau won from Maj. J. I. Meagher, 2 up; and from Maj. J. L. Bradley, 2 up.

Fourth flight: Maj. W. G. Livesay won from Capt. W. Mc. Chapman, 5 and 3; and from Capt. W. Archer, 3 and 2. 1st Lt. W. S. Lewis won from 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, 1 up; and from Maj. L. R. Boyd, 2 and 1.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert won om Maj. J. A. Ladd, 2 up; and from Lt. B. Child, 3 and 2. Maj. M. P. olph won from Capt. W. E. Sankey, and 2; and from Maj. E. C. Rose, and 1.

Sixth flight: Capt. D. B. Hilton won from Maj. S. A. White, 1 up; and from Capt. R. E. Duff, 2 up. Capt. R. T. Edwards won from 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 3 and 2; and from Maj. C. Seales, 4 and 2.

Seventh flight: Capt. W. E. Seamon won from Col. W. P. Hill, 7 and 6; and from 1st Lt. W. B. Forse, 3 and 2. Chaplain J. R. Wright won from 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein, 3 and 2; and from 1st Lt. D. G. Barr, 4 and 3.

Eighth flight: Capt. C. L. Steel won from Capt. W. B. Tuttle, 3 and 1; and from 2nd Lt. C. H. Royce, 7 and 6. 1st Lt. E. Curran won from Capt. L. A. Wetherby, 8 and 7; and from Capt. E. L. Brine, 5 and 4.

Ninth flight: Capt. W. A. Howland won from 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 19 holes, 1 up; and from 1st Lt. B. M. McFayden, 8 and 6. Maj. W. F. Freehoff won from J. E. Wharton, 7 and 6, and from Capt. L. S. Lampke, 1 up.

Tenth flight: The two members of this flight drew byes on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Those who were eliminated on the first day of match play, were entered in a consolation tournament. Wednesday's results in this tournament were as follows:

First flight: Maj. A. B. Jones won from Capt. Wm. Cassidy, 1 up; and Maj. H. A. Dieber from Maj. H. R. Conner, by default.

Second flight: Maj. W. L. Roberts won from 1st Lt. W. G. Skelton by default; and Capt. L. E. Norris from Maj. E. W. Leard by default.

Third flight: Maj. J. I. Meagher won from Maj. J. R. Brooke, 3 and 2; and Capt. W. M. Hutson from Capt. C. S. McCullough, 1 up, 19 holes.

Fourth flight: W. O. C. A. Stone won from 1st Lt. E. P. Earle, by default; and Capt. W. Mc Chapman from Capt. J. E. Cole, 1 up.

Fifth flight: Maj. W. A. Squires won from Capt. W. E. Sankey, 3 and 1; and Maj. J. A. Ladd from Maj. D. E. McCunniff, 1 up.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. W. L. Reed won from 1st Lt. F. H. Curtis, 2 up; and Maj. S. A. White from Lt. Col. T. Strayer by default.

Seventh flight: Col. W. P. Hill won from Capt. C. L. Bolte, 2 and 1; and 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley from 1st Lt. D. H. Rubenstein by default.

Eighth flight: Capt. W. B. Tuttle won from Maj. H. A. Bootz, 4 and 3; and Capt. L. A. Wetherby won from Maj. N. Randolph by default.

Ninth flight: 1st Lt. H. H. Harris won from Capt. R. C. Akins, by default; and Maj. O. Allen from Capt. J. E. Wharton, 4 and 3.

The winner and runner up of the first flight will be designated as the representative of the Fourth Corps Area to play in the 1929 Army Golf Tournament, which will be played on the course of the Army, Navy and Marine Country Club at Washington, D. C., on September 24-28.

The prizes given in the Fourth Corps Area Tournament are as follows: To the medallist, a five-dollar club; to the winner of each flight, a ten-dollar bag; to the runner-up in each flight, a six-dollar club; and to the winner of each consolation flight, a four-dollar club.

PROGRESS OF EXPERIMENTS IN INFANTRY EQUIPMENT

Work continues on the final report of the anti-aircraft machine gun project upon which Major L. R. Boyd and Lt. Joseph I. Greene have been engaged for the past year. Within a few days the final firing tests will be conducted by Company "H," 29th Infantry, employing both the .30 and .50 caliber machine guns.

Lt. B. M. McFayden is now testing a radio repair kit, experimental type, designed to replace all present types of repair kits in use by communications platoons. The tools are superior standard types designed for radio repair work and their adoption would reduce the number of articles in the repair kit from twenty to five.

Another tool test which is nearing completion is that of the Bernard side-cuting pliers, being tested as a possible substitute for the present issue wire cutters. The Bernard plier is a good type of commercial plier, equipped with heavy jaws which remain parallel as they open, and with heavy cutting edges at the side of one jaw. They have been given a service test by Company "B," 29th Infantry and the communications platoon, Headquarters Company. They have been recommended for adoption in place of the present issue wire cutters by the Cavalry Board. Lt. Joseph I. Greene is in charge of this test.

Six types of canvas side-lace leggins have recently been assigned to Capt. E. D. Porter for test. There are fifty pairs of assorted sizes of each type on hand. They will be issued to organizations of the 29th Infantry for test.

The differences in the six types are chiefly in the straps which run under the foot. One type has a buckel on each side, another has a steel chain and another has a leather strap buttoned to the sides of the leggin.

Among the interesting projects which the Department of Experiment now has on hands is a test of a machine gun sled, an invention of Major Geo. S. Patton, Cavalry, now on duty in the office of the Chief of Cavalry. The invention consists of a framework iron mount with two runners. It is simple in construction and is intended for use in adding to the firepower of Infantry by the employment of extra machine guns in the forward echelons. The mount has no provision for either elevating or deflecting the gun except by movement of the entire mount. In order to change elevation the mount must be rolled to the front or to the rear on its runners, and in order to change deflection the mount must be pushed or tapped to the side desired.

Two methods of carrying the mount with gun attached are provided. For long hauls a set of shoulder yokes and carrying poles are used. For short movements the mount may be carried on the shoulders of a single individual by means of the runners. By use of a tow rope the gun and mount may also be dragged along the ground.

A method of antiaircraft firing is provided for by the use of a pintle which may be slipped into the end of one of the carrying poles. The pole is then held erect and steadied by one man while the gun is fired by another.

The mounts which the Department of Experiment has on hand weigh approximately 30 pounds. With gun attached the weight is 61 pounds.

The sled mount will be tested in comparison with other machine gun mounts as to its practicability. Lt. Joseph I. Greene is in charge of the test.

Experiments are being carried out in a comparative test of three shoe-fitting devices. Two commercial types of foot measuring devices are being compared to the Resco type now in use by the service. One of the test types, the Clarke Foot Measurer, consists of a base with a heel-stop attached. It has a movable toe-piece for measuring the length of the foot and two movable side walls for measuring the width of the foot. The same lever serves to indicate both length and breadth.

The other measurer under test is the Brannock device. This device permits the measuring of the length of the foot in two ways, from the end of the toes to the heel and from the ball of the foot to the heel. It also has a width scale.

In view of the fact that shoes are made in a certain progression of sizes and widths, while the human foot comes never twice alike, the use of a foot measuring device can only provide an approximate indication of the proper size of shoe. For shoes to fit exactly they must be tailor-made for each individual foot. However, in 99 cases out of a hundred, a satisfactory fit can be obtained among the standard shoe sizes.

It Costs No More to Have GOODYEAR TIRES on your car . . .

Come in—Learn the good news on prices!

Post Exchange
Filling Station
Fort Benning
Georgia

CHEVROLET

The Six For The Multitude

On the first of the year CHEVROLET entered the field of sixes. Since this time it has enjoyed a popularity far greater than any time in the history of CHEVROLET.

Since January first, one million, six cylinder CHEVROLETS have been busy making satisfied owners of the new CHEVROLET.

Beauty, ease of handling and 20 miles to the gallon.

Ask For Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 6 TO SEPT. 13, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 6

"FALL OF EVE," starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Sterling Ford in a screamingly funny farce about wayward husbands and suspicuous wives who get their wires crossed on a week-end "whoopee" party. This hilarious comedy is a side-splitter; don't miss it.

"Grandma's House." Fables.

Pathe News No. 71.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 7.

"BORN TO THE SADDLE," starring Ted Wells and Duane Thompson in a tearing streak of action. The story is of a Chicago "dough" boy, who can show the top riders of the range a trick or two. This is a high type western picture, and one that you will thoroughly enjoy.

"Hot Lightning." Mermaid.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 8

"SIMBA," the greatest human interest picture of all times, shows various thrilling moments in four years of exploration by the Martin Johnson African Expedition. This picture was produced under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History and is an authentic picture of the high lights of four years in the jungles of the great dark continent. The story is not staged nor a move production, but it is Africa as nature made it.

"Whose Baby Am I," as Mrs. Martin Johnson's camera caught him for their motion picture "Simba."

"Big Business." Laurel-Hardy.

M. G. M. News No. 5.

MONDAY, SEPT. 9.

"STRONG BOY," starring Victor McLaglen and Leatrice Joy. Strong Boy is a hard-boiled baggage smasher who mauls railroad workers with one hand while juggling trunks with the other. During the rollicking romance, this man-handler get man-handled by a woman who railroads him to fame.

"Jungle Goddess No. 2."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 10.

"THE FLYING MARINE," starring Ben Lyons with Shirley Mason and Jason Robards in the "Air Rodeo" of the screen. The story is an absorbing drama of two brothers in love with the same girl. There is a thrill every second in store for you when you see this picture that was filmed among the clouds.

"A Gridiron Cocktail." Sportlight.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 11.

"HAUNTED HOUSE," starring Chester Conklin with Thelma Todd and Larry Kent in the greatest mystery comedy-drama ever screened. Thrills in the cellar as a mad doctor kidnaps a beautiful girl. Laughs on the roof as comical Chester Conklin is forced to play music for a madman. Menancing shots; strange lights; mysterious whistles; shrieks and screams packed into "The Haunted House" will cause you to grip your hands in breahtless suspense. It must be seen to be appreciated.

"Topics of the Day." Press Fun.

M. G. M. News No. 6.

THURSDAY, SEPT. *2

"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN," starring Corinne Griffith in the film version of the Pulitzer prize-winning play of the same name. Corinne Griffith at her best in the interpretation of a great play. Grant Withers, who plays opposite her, will bear watching by movie goers. In unforgettable drama this picture unrolls the saner side of "Flaming Youth."

"It's Me." Cameo.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 13.

"MY MAN," starring the one and only Fanny Brice of Ziegfield Folly fame in a gorgeous Broadway revue. It is a sensational and glamorous story of a girl's rise from tenement shadows to Broadway lights. In this tense drama so simple and intimate you could swear it happened to yourself — so powerful it's sure to thrill you—so tender it will make you cry—so human it will make you roar with laughter. See how this girl of the slums won the hearts of millions after she lost the heart of her man.

"Back to the Soil." Fables.

Pathe News No. 73.

CHAPLAIN McKENNA DEPARTS

Three years ago when Benning was known as the "Tented City" and brick buildings were first beginning to make their appearance at the Upatoi Station, Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna reported to Fort Benning.

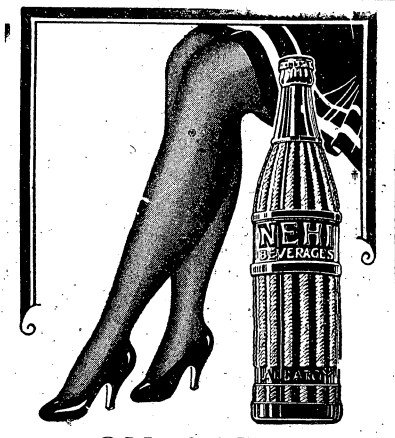
During the three years that Chaplain McKenna has been with us he has won a place of high esteem and affection within the hearts of the personnel of the garrison. As time went on, they were gladder that this particular chaplain had come to Fort Benning, the entire post was glad. All over the garrison, they know him as the man who has put the children's school into an efficient state, raised funds, secured competent teachers, and pushed things along.

Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna left Fort Benning September 1 on twenty-five days' leave of absence. He will sail from New York September 27th, reporting at Fort Mason, Calif., for duty on transport plying between San Francisco and Manila, P. I. He leaves a host of loyal friends at the Infantry School and a wealth of good wishes.

Chaplain McKenna has done a remarkable work here at Fort Benning of both a religious and a general character. Leaving us for duty on the high seas, remote from the "propects" and progress at Benning, we shall regret that the Chaplains' Corps keep such a thing as a foreign service roster, but we shall know that his heart is still with us. The work he has organized, the schools he has fostered, the things he has initiated, will continue for our advantage and the advantage of those who come after us. "An institution," says the adage, "is the length and shadow of a man." Such men as Chaplain McKenna have helped build Benning and the results of the work they do shall endure when our names have passed from the lists of the army.

AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
of Hartford, Conn.
WOODSON HOCKER
Phone 2956 Columbus

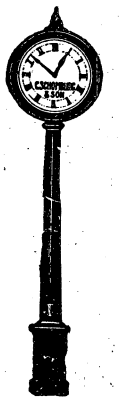
—For—
BETTER SERVICE!
USE HOOD HEELS AND SOLES
Applied by reliable Shoe Rebuilders
Hood Rubber Products Co., Inc.
Watertown, Mass.



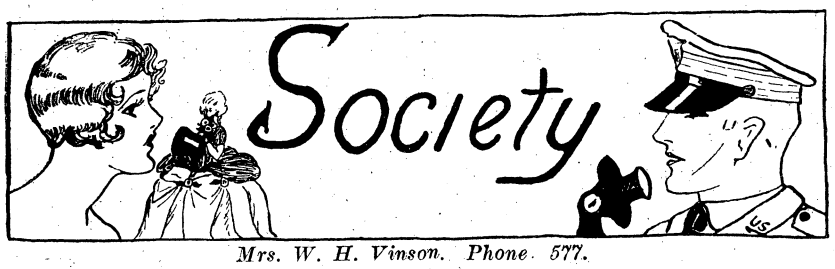
ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Home Savings Bank
"The White Bank"
Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.
Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.
Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.
Home of the
CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB
Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE
All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.
We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.
POST EXCHANGE



Silverware by Kirk
America's Oldest Silversmiths
Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts
C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS
1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.
AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK



Mrs. W. H. Vinson. Phone 577.

Mrs. Edgar Hume entertained with an informal bridge luncheon Thursday morning at her quarters, having as her guest, Miss Harriette Wells, bride-elect of Lieutenant Le Grande Diller.

Mrs. Hume presented Miss Wells and Miss Theodosia Hocker, also a bride-elect of September, with attractive card table covers and a prize for high score, a guest towel, at each table was won by Mrs. E. H. Vinson, Miss Bess Berry and Miss Nancy Ross.

There were only three tables of players, the invitation list being confined to a group of friends of the honoree.

* * *

Mrs. James O'Connell entertained at a surprise bridge party on Thursday to honor her daughter, Lula, who celebrated her birthday that day.

The party was novel and unique. "Earthquake" bridge was played and one hand of each frame contained a shock. Clever souvenirs were awarded at the end of every frame. Mrs. E. H. Vernon received a string of Santon pearl beads for having the highest total score.

Mrs. O'Connell's guests on this occasion were: Miss Lola O'Connell, Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Mrs. Gower, daughter of Captain and Mrs. O'Connell, Mrs. Paul Zuver, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Miss Harriette Wells, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Miss Nancy Ross, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Dorothy Ross, Miss Landon Reed and Miss Bess Berry.

* * *

One of the loveliest parties of the week took place Friday afternoon, August the eighth, when Mrs. Albert Helsley complimented Miss Harriette Wells with a bridge party and handkerchief shower.

There were six tables in play, and Mrs. John Roosma won first prize, a novelty set of soap, patched to represent decks of cards. Mrs. Frank Green won second prize, an attractive memorandum book, and Miss Verna Perry was given a bridge score pad for having scored low.

After the game, Mrs. Helsley placed a wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride before Miss Wells and told her to cut the first slice. After several unsuccessful attempts the hostess suggested that she lift the top off the cake. On doing so, Miss Wells found many packages containing lovely handkerchiefs, hidden in the cake.

Those who attended this party were: the honoree, Miss Harriette Wells, Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Emil Leard, Mrs. Clarence Harvey, Mrs. Owen Rhoads, Mrs. Joseph Kovarik, Mrs. William Chapman, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. William Tuttle, Mrs. Orlando Mood, Mrs. John Forsythe, Mrs. Michael Buckley, Jr., Mrs. David Barr, Mrs. Leone, Mrs. John S. Roosma, Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer, Miss Bess Berry, Miss Nancy Ross, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Verna Perry, Miss Landon Reed, Miss Lola O'Connell and Miss Dorothy Ross.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. R. E. Duff and little daughter, Mary, have returned to their home in Columbus from Hendersonville, North Carolina, where they spent the summer months.

* * *

On Saturday evening, Captain and Mrs. Charles Steel complimented Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant Le Grande Diller at a dinner party given at the Officers Club. Their guests included the honorees, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry Wells and Major and Mrs. Edgar Hume. After dinner Captain and Mrs. Steel escorted their guests to the movies.

* * *

Wednesday, August the twenty-eighth, was the day chosen by Mrs. Leonard Boyd to honor Miss Harriette Wells, the attractive bride-elect of Lieutenant Diller, with a bridge party and linen shower.

Those who enjoyed this lovely party were: Miss Harriette Wells, Mrs. Harry Wells, Mrs. Alfred Brandt, Miss Sue Brandt, Mrs. Jesse Lodd, Mrs. Emil Leard and her mother, Mrs. King, Mrs. Clifford Perry, Mrs. A. T. Knight, Mrs. Raymond P. Lavin, Mrs. Michael Halloran, Mrs. B. M. MacFadden, Mrs. John Evans, Miss Landon Reed, Miss Verna Perry and Miss Bess Berry.

* * *

Miss Onnelle Diller, of Syracuse, New York, arrived Sunday to be the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Harry Wells. Miss Diller is a sister of Lieutenant Le Grande Diller, whose marriage to Miss Harriette Wells will be a social event of much interest this month. Miss Diller will act as bridesmaid for Miss Wells at the marriage.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. A. W. Gower returned to their home at Fort Eustis, Virginia, after a delightful visit to Mrs. Gower's parents, Captain and Mrs. James O'Connell. Captain and Mrs. Gower were accompanied by their two small sons.

* * *

Miss Peggie Lampke has returned to her home after having spent July and part of August as riding Counsillor at Camp Pocahontas in Virginia. Since camp Miss Lampke has been visiting Miss Katherine Carr in Washington at the home of Miss Carr's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Carr. Miss Carr motored to Benning with Miss Lampke and will be her house guest for several weeks.

* * *

Misses Nancey and Dorothy Ross were hostesses at a small picnic given on Wednesday afternoon. Their guests were: Lieutenant and Mrs. E. H. Vernon, Lieutenant and Mrs. John Roosma, Misses Sue Brandt, Bess Berry and Lola O'Connell. Lieutenants: William Breckenridge, Andrew Foster, Maury Cralle, Dudley Strickler, Hayden Grubbs, and Noble Wiley.

* * *

Lieutenant Claude Burback and Lieutenant Hayden Grubbs are attending a house party in Savannah. While there they will act as ushers in the Black-Norton wedding. Lieutenant Black was stationed at Fort Benning last year as a student officer.

RECEIVES ARTILLERY ASSIGNMENT

Captain John T. Schneider, Field Artillery, who has been on duty with the United State Military Academy, has been relieved from his duties there, and subsequently assigned to duty with the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion stationed at this post.

CAPT. BRINE APPOINTED RECRUITING OFFICER

Captain Eugene L. Brine, 29th Infantry, who is on duty with the headquarters of the Special Units, and performing the duties of Personnel Adjutant, has been detailed to fill the office of recruiting officer during the temporary absence on leave of Captain Raymond G. Sherman, 24th Infantry.

Captain Brine replaces First Lieutenant Joseph G. Catte, who has been ordered to the Signal School.

K&P

Let Your DIAMOND Bloom Again

Have it reset in one of our modern mountings. It will appear larger, be safer, seem finer and appear to be more beautiful.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

Established 1860

KINSEL & PETRI CO.
JEWELERS
1105 BROADWAY - COLUMBUS

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

OLD ENGLISH WAX AND BRUSHES

will keep your floors beautiful and in the best condition, with the least amount of trouble.

OLD ENGLISH WAXERS SETS
$3.90 complete

OLD ENGLISH BRUSHES SETS
$2.50 complete

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

We Rent Furniture

We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.

Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.

The Hecht Furniture Co.

115 12th St. Phone 1188

Exercise Room of New and Modernly Equipped Dog and Cat Hospital

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

BOOK REVIEW

WAR AS AN INSTRUMENT OF NATIONAL POLICY AND ITS RENUNCIATION IN THE PACT OF PARIS

By James T. Shotwell

"It is an adequate review of the book to give its title and to name its author. Since the formulation of the Treaty of Versailles Professor Shotwell has labored in the cause of peace, more abundantly and more effectively than any other American, and it is a peculiar pleasure to historical scholars to have one of their number make so forward and effective a use of his scholarship.

This book professes to be, and is, an analysis of the Paris Pact and a history of the diplomatic situation which evolved it. But the author sweeps his eye over the history of war as an instrument of national policy, reviews in detail the special national interests of the signatory powers, analyzes the reserves with which the Briand-Kellog proposal was approached in the various foreign offices, and finally discloses the pressure of public opinion, which, in the various countries, hurried the hesitating steps of statesmen into action. Reading this narrative one realizes that however vague the phrase "outlawry of war" may be, however statesmen may desire force as either a diplomatic threat or an ultimate resort, democratic opinion in the world regards it as an expression of its hope and a good starting place toward the goal which it intends to reach. Even in America, where we have allowed a tradition of isolation to paralyze our appreciation of the realities of modern international life, Professor Shotwell records that Secretary Kellogg's proposal "gave expression to a public opinion which had become ready for the proposal before he made it."

The most important service the author has performed lies in the analysis of the language of the pact and of the accompanying explanations, reservations, and correspondence. Are the brief and general sentences of the past "glittering generalities," mere unsanctioned expressions of a pious wish, or are they a vital covenant, imposing obligations, and, if the latter, do they affect foreign policy generally and American foreign policy in particular? No one has forgotten that senator after senator explained his vote in favor of ratification by the frank declaration that the pact meant just nothing at all! It is greatly to be hoped that such senators will attend Professor Shotwell's class in international law and morality, by reading his book. They will not be unduly alarmed lest they have been "beguiled unbeknownst" into joining the World Court or the League of Nations, for Dr. Shotwell goes no further in this very practical matter than to cite both Senator Borah and Mr. Kellogg to the effect that the treaty is in harmony with the fundamental principles of the Covenan of the League and stops short of committing the United States to any obligation to enforce it against any recalcitrant member. But they will be interested to discover that the treaty have ratified integrates perfectly with all the anti-war machinery the world has set up: arbitration, conciliation, adjudication and conference. They may be surprised to find that the pact entails a new definition of neutrality and makes it morally impossible for the United States to be a mere disinterested profit-taking observer in future wars. Senator Borah saw this and said: "It is quite inconceivable that this country would stand idly by in case of a grave breach of a multilateral treaty to which it is a party!" That is the strength of the pact. It is a multilateral treaty definitely abandoning war as an instrument of national policy and requiring the solution of all disputes and conflicts by pacific means. Signatories can no longer be neutral when they face nations which keep and nations which violate such a covenant. This changes the whole atmosphere of international relations and Professor Shotwell is wise in not seeking to draw ultimate conclusions. He has given the documentary record enriched with dispassionate comment and the consequences will take care of themselves. To the reviewer, as to the author, the record shows that we have made a long step forward."

—Newton D. Baker.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The following named officers have arrived at and departed from Fort Benning since the issue of Aug. 23:

Arrivals—1st Lt. Frank D. Huarte, to duty as student 1929-30 course; Major Charles E. Speer, for duty as student 1929-30 advanced course; Major Pedro D. Dulay, for duty as student 1929-30 course.

Departures—1st Lt. Landon J. Lockett, to leave and change of station to Cavalry School, Ft. Riley, Kansas; Capt. Percy G. Black, to leave and change of station to Air Corps Tactical School, Langley Field, Va.; 1st Lt. John L. Gallagher, to leave and change of station to Army Medical School, Washington, D. C.; 1st Lt. Lewis D. Hixson, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; 1st Lt. Jos. P. Catte, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Arrivals—1st Lt. Harry L. Rogers for duty as student. Capt. Wm. E. Alger for duty as student. 1st Lt. Thomas E. Mahoney for duty as student. 2nd Lt. George Selma for duty with 29th Infantry.

Departures—1st Lt. Lewis L. Hixson to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. 1st Lt. Jos. P. Catte, to leave and change of station to Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. 2nd Lt. Ernest H. Wilson to leave and change of station to Philippine Islands. Capt. Thomas L. McKenna to leave and change of station to Philippine Dept.

POST EXCHANGE OPERATION SCHEDULE

Effective September 1st, 1929, departments of the Post Exchange will operate on the following schedule:

Grocery Department, 7:45 A. M. to 4:45 P. M.

Filling Station, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Saturdays, 7:30 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

Auto Repair Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Saturday, 7:30 A. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Emergency service after closing hours.

Soda Fountain, 9:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Service Club Restaurant, 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Sundays, 8:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Main Branch, 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

Shoe and Hat Repair Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 4:45 P. M.

Tailor Shop, 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

29th Infantry Sub-Exchange, 9:30 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.

Sundays and holidays, 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

24th Infantry Sub-Exchange, 6:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Hospital Exchange, 9:30 A. M. to 9:30 P. M.

Gift and Special Order Department, 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Golf Shop, 7:30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.

Officers' Grill, 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.

Beauty Parlor, 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M.

Office and Stock Room, 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M.

Saturdays, 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon.

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

SWEET PEAS

Who does not love this aristocrat among flowers? Its range of colors is the widest of all the plant kingdom and the sweetness of its perfume is surpassed by but few. Easy to grow, it is never-the-less somewhat temperamental. Sweet-peas have most decided likes and dislikes and if one is to obtain the best from these whimsy blue-bloods, he would do well to consider and humor their idiocyncrasies.

First, in the selection of the seeds, buy only the very best obtainable, and these from a reliable seed man. Cheap seeds never pay. In making your selections, it is best to buy packets of solid colors rather than mixtures. If you desire mixed colors, buy the colors you want, and mix them yourself. For winter flowering, buy the very early-flowering type and plant them now. For spring blooming, any of the standard types will do. The novelties are best left to experts, for they are hard to grow with any success.

In preparing the ground, the system outline below is excellent and is particularly recommended for this locality. Dig a trench a foot wide and from fifteen to eighteen inches deep, cover the bottom of the trench with four inches of well rotted stable manure, and spade this manure into the bottom of the trench. Now sprinkle bone meal or wood ashes over the surface and cover with four inches of good top soil. Right now before you go any further, is the time to place your supports. Drive stakes in the center of the trench about six feet apart. These stakes should be a good foot in the ground. Run chicken wire across the stakes and fasten with staples, a guy on each end stake will prevent sagging and also add strength. The bottom of the wire should be flush with the surface of the ground or about six to eight inches above the planing level of the trench. After the support is placed the seeds may be planted. For Christmas flowering sweet peas, the seeds should be planted now and covered with about two inches of soil. For Spring flowering peas, plant in December and cover four inches deep.

After the seeds are planted, you will find that the soil in the trench is from four to six inches below the surface of the ground. This is as it should be, as the young plants break through the ground and start making growth, earth is gradually filled in around them until the trench is filled up. Care must be taken, however, not to completely cover the growing tip, at least an inch should be left above the ground.

When the trench is filled to the top the sweet peas will have made a strong root growth and will take hold of the wire and start climbing. After the plants are six or eight inches high, pinch out the tops to induce branching, and except for spraying with a nicotine solution if asphis appear and keeping the soil worked at the base of the plants, the sweet peas will care for themselves from now on until the buds begin to show color. Application of liquid manure, weak nitrate or soda or a little commercial fertilizer worked slightly into the soil and well watered in will add largely to the quantity and quality of flowers if started when buds begin to form and continued through the flowering season.

A few of the cardinal points to remember in the culture of sweet peas are these:

a. Sweet peas delight in cool weather and while they will stand a hard front or even a slight freeze without injury, they will not produce results in hot weather.

b. They are deep rooters, roots of sweet peas have been known to extend three feet below the surface of the ground in search of food.

c. They are very heavy feeders.—Give your sweet peas plenty of food and they will give you plenty of flowers.—Starve them and you will get small flowers and not many of them.

d. Sweet peas require something to climb upon just as soon as they get above the ground. If you wait until your trench is filled before you put the support up, the plants will probably start sprawling over the ground instead of climbing, and then, too, you will injure their roots in driving the stakes.

Early flowering sweet peas planted now or any time during September, in accordance with the instructions given above, should flower in December. Try it and have your own sweet peas for Christmas.

Nent week: BULBS.

INCOMING STUDENT OFFICERS

If you have not heard about our plan of selling you what you might need in household goods, come by our place and let us explain. We will give you half back on anything you buy from us. We have gas stoves, refrigerators, breakfast room suits, chests of drawers, dining room suits and most anything you need in odd pieces. Come by and have a look.

THWEATT & SONS

1244 Broad Street Phone 2715

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

Vol. VII. September 6, 1929 No. 51

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our Underpaid Defenders

Congress will be asked during the forthcoming session to enact a measure increasing the basic pay of officers and men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. As a matter of simple justice a new pay bill for the several branches of our national defense should be passed, but there are other reasons which have to do with increased efficiency and morale.

The officers and men in the nation's naval and military establishments have noted with interest the salary increases in the other governmentatl services, varying from 40 to 175 per cent, and have patiently waited for Congress to consider their meritorious claims. Pay which perhaps sufficed twenty years ago now is inadequate. Few civilians realize how officers of the country's service must skimp and deny themselves to exist on the parsimonious pay which the gavernment gives.

An example of the injustice of the present system and schedules of pay is seen in the experience of retired officers and enlisted men. The majority of them are on the retired list because of wounds and disabilities incurred in the country's defense. They are men who have served in one to four wars, insurrections and rebellions. Their remuneration is computed at not more than 75 per cent of what is known as the basic pay of officers and enlisted personnel of corresponding rank on the active list. Actually this amounts only to 51 per cent, since allowances for various purposes are not taken into consideration.

Congress should lose no time in remedying a condition which long has demanded attention. It should do this for the country's good as well as for the sake of justice. We should not expect topnotch service from officers and men who for many years have been underpaid. We should give our defenders better reason to feel proud of their countrymen and to have a firm faith in their sense of justice.—Seattle Times.

Civilian Criticism Is Heard

When it was announced that the President had ordered the general staff to investigate army expenditures with a view to reductions, The Star pointed out that doubtless there were many instances of waste forced on the army through politics. These the military investigators doubtless would make public.

It was The Star's guess, however, that congress (made up of experts on politics) would come bick with instances of military extravagances. So between the two the situation might be pretty well cleared up. The guess is proving correct.

Representative William R. Wood, acting chairman of the house appropriations committee, has returned from an inspection of the Panama Canal Zone with some trenchent comment upon military expenditures. * * * * *

How far Mr. Wood's critticisms are just and his suggestions practical remain to be seen. Obviously the army will have to be consulted to determine the facts. But with criticisms from both the military and the civilian sides the President's economy crusade ought to get somewhere.—Kansas City Times.

Army Surpluses

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, jumps to the support of President Hoover's program to reduce Army costs. The Army is top-heavy with officers, he says. Certain branches of the service have become obsolete and should be eliminated entirely or consolidated with others. There are "hundreds of millions of dollars in frozen assets" left over from the World War that should be converted into cash. Until they have been disposed of, he asserts, considerable sums will have to be expended each year for keeping this "valueless" equipment in condition.

* * * But Mr. Wood must admit that in the interests of preparedness the peace-time Army must be over-officered. It was not difficult to raise an army of millions in the last war, but it was very difficult to find competent officers to command its units. Should there be another war the 11,000 regular Army officers would not nearly fill the demand and the Nation would again be forced to depend upon emergency officers to command its troops. These officers would have to be trained in the shortest possible space of time and a considerable portion of the 11,000 regular Army officers would be needed to train them. * * * Perhaps these stores represent cheap insurance against an attack upon the canal.—Washington Post.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

HOT WEATHER BABIES

This is still the good old summer time, for September is often our hottest month at Fort Benning, though it began cool this year. Grown people may at least attempt to seek every available means of coolness, comfort and relaxation, but the baby, by reason of its helplessness, can do nothing for its own comfort and must depend entirely on the carefulness and thoughtfulness of its mother. The baby cannot tell you that it is very warm and would like a bath or cool sponge. it has no means of making you understand that it is wearing too many clothes for the hot weather; the baby cannot argue with you that it wants to be let alone, and that it does not want to be handled by gasping perspiring grown folk.

Parents must divine the baby's wants and needs, and there are many such extra wants and needs during hot weather. Sixty years ago tragedy was borne on the wings of summer into homes where little babies lived. While this was more marked in the homes of the poor and ignorant, other families were also attacked. What was known as "summer complaint" reaped harvest of the lives of the little ones each year. Those were the days before public health education of the public. Science had not yet established that impure and dirty milk was the chief cause of the common loss of baby lives from "summer complaint." In those days one out of every three babies died before it was a year old.

Cleanliness in handling the baby's milk is of vital importance. The milk sold on the post is believed to be safe though it is not easy to secure good milk in this locality where there is practically no grazing for cattle. The baby's milk for a day should be prepared at once and as soon as possible after it is delivered in the morning, the hands of all persons handling the milk must be kept scrupulously clean. Feeding bottles before they are filled should be boiled. If you are in doubt about the baby's milk or just how much and how often to feed it, consult a physician. This is no place for guess work. Keep the milk on ice, remembering that the coldest part of your refrigerator is the compartment under the one containing the ice. Warm the feeding bottle in warm water, testing it on the back of your hand. When emptied take off the nipple, wash it carefully in warm water and place it in a cup of boric acid solution. Boil the nipple once each day.

Water is an important part of the baby's diet, not only during the summer months but at all other times of the year. If the good habit of water drinking is started at the beginning of the child's life, the baby will learn to drink water whenever it is given and to like it. Between feeding times plain boiled water should be offered when the baby cries, and for fifteen to thirty minutes before each meal. The baby will take quite a lot of milk when it is thirsty.

During the hot weather the child should be taken out in the early morning hours and again late in the afternoon. When the sun is high in the heaven, keep the child indoors, in the coolest part of the house.

Protect the baby against flies, mosquitoes and other insects, placing a covering or netting over the carriage and crib. Keep the baby out of the kitchen when cooking, baking or washing is being done.

From time to time in these columns notes on the protection of babies against certain diseases will be published.

Next week's topic: DRINKING FOR HEALTH.

Success in war can be achieved only by all branches and arms of the service mutually helping and supporting one another in the common effort to attain the desired end.

The transition from the defensive to the offensive is one of the most delicate operations in war.—Napoleon XIX.

The basic principles of the combat tactics of the different arms are set forth in the Training Regulations of those arms. It is the function of higher troop leading so to combine and co-ordinate the combat tactics of all the arms as to develop in the combined forces the teamwork essential to success.

When an army carries with it a battering train, or large convoys of sick and wounded, it cannot march by too short a line upon its depots. —Maxim XXI.

War is positive and requires positive action. All training should, therefore, aim to develop positive qualities of character rather than to encourage negative traits. The basis of training will be the attack.

The mobility of infantry adapts it to movements on all characters of terrain. Its ability to move in small and inconspicious formations enables it to minimize the effects of hostile fire, to take advantage of covered routes of approach, and employ the minor accidents of the terrain as firing and cover positions.

The primary mission of the infantry is to close with the enemy in attack and destroy or capture him or his positions; in defense, to check his advance, hold its own positions, throw back the attacking forces by counterattack.

The art of encamping in position is the same as taking up the line in order of battle in this position. To this end, the artillery should be advantageously placed, ground should be selected, which is not commanded or liable to be turned, and as far as possible, the guns should cover and command the surrounding country.—Napoleon XXII.

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

Soon the horsehide twirlers and swat kings will have lost their headline propensities and passed into oblivion. Old King Sport must have his periodical rations, and he is well schooled in the workings of a balanced ration.

During the winter months, he has his fill of basketball and the everpresent contingent of leather pushers. He seems to always have that bunch of pugs to use as a desert when night rolls around and there is nothing for him to do but go to the movies or a fight. King sport takes the fights.

Spring brings on baseball and tennis in such bunches that the fight cards are almost dominated. The amusement parks are almost certain to have one or the other of these hot weather sports included in their repetoire, this to give the fans their fill of fun.

Autumn is approaching now. In fact, it is just around the corner. Will we have as our guest, those robust fighters of the grid there to give us the happy-go-lucky spirit that the fall weather always brings? To the notion of many, the game of football is the only one worth while. Others give it to baseball, while still others give it to any of a number that might be mentioned.

Fort Benning has some of the best material in the Army for a good football team. So numerous are they that the athletic heads have thought it best to form a football league in the post for the past several years.

The competition has been hot. Many of the oldtimers will tell you that when the Intra-mural season starts there is bound to be plenty of action. Tankers, Artillerymen, the Infantry twins and the mixture of all, the Infantry School Detachment, will have representatives on the field.

The colleges, prep-schools and high schools have already started their pre-season camps, and the material is fast rounding into shape. What have we done so far for the game at Benning? A small number of men may be seen daily, out by their areas, passing the ball and kicking, but this does little toward training the future football aces. It merely gives the individual a chance to get the feel of the ball, which could be accomplished in a few days' work on the field.

What the football man needs is strenuous training, and plenty of it. He must get out there and work that waist line off and get some steam and pep. As Captain (Zipper Jake) Zellars used to tell us, "You've got to get that old pep and jinnegar, the sock and wash, the get up and go, to win football games."

We all know that the main object in football is to "cross the little white lines," and that each play is a "potential touchdown," but there is still another purpose that football fulfills that is not often thought of by the average fan.

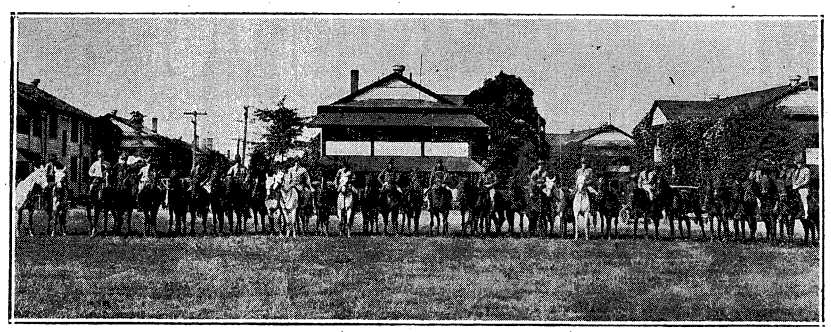
Did you ever stop to think that the game calls for better sportsmanship than any other game played? Just think what a man it must take to get out there with nothing but the glory of his team to fight for, and take the hard knocks that he is bound to receive, and never frown. He is not there for money, neither is he there for his comfort.

This season promises to be the best season that Fort Benning has ever had, with prospects of many dark horses showing, as has been the case with baseball this season.

Come on you pig skin toters and let's go!

83 F. A. POLO ACTIVITIES

Some of the officers of the 83rd Field Artillery who are trying out for the Artillery polo team.



83rd Artillery's string of ponies which are being worked out daily in preparation for the coming polo season under the careful supervision of Lt. H. D. Baker.

NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES ARE WELL ATTENDED

With 3,000 entrants and 112 teams in camp, all attendance records of the National Rifle Matches have been broken. according to statements made by officials of this biggest of all marksmanship contests. While actual matches do not open until Saturday, the great camp on Lake Erie is already filled with those who are receiving instruction in the Small Arms Firing School which precedes the matches by several days. The 80 events on the match program will not end until Sept. 14.

According to the official list issued by Col. Hu B. Myers, Executive officer of the matches, 47 states are represented by National Guard teams, and 39 by civilian teams. All nine army corps area have sent R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. teams, and the Organized Reserve has entered a team. The regular service teams include the Infantry, Marines, Navy, Cavalry, Engineers, Air Corps and Coast Guard.

Enough ammunition to stage a battle is ready for the shooters. There has been provided 1,500,000 rounds of .30 caliber rifle ammunition, 300,000 rounds of .45 caliber pistol ammunition and 75,000 rounds of .22 caliber small bore ammunition.

The Small Arms Firing School, which is now in session and will continue until the matches open on next Saturday, is in charge of Capt. Walter G. Layman and a staff of more than 90 instructors from the regular army. This school is the most important recent development of the matches and is regarded as a valuable adjunct to the national deefnse program. Any citizen may enter the school and receive the course at no cost to himself. Those who pass the course are able to instruct others when they return to their homes. By this means the War Department officials hope to build up a large force of civilians who can teach others the art of marksmanship in the event of an emergency.

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

WANTED—Position as housekeeper in officer's family by white woman. Have had experience with children. Box 463, Fort Benning.

PIANO TO RENT—Mrs. George E. Chase, 937 Third Ave. Phone 1057-W.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

DON'T THROW THEM AWAY!

Just because clothing becomes soiled it isn't necessarily ruined. We are equipped to handle any kind of work and give 24 hour service.

FORT BENNING CLEANERS

465—Ring 2

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building

"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Distributor of Traub Quality
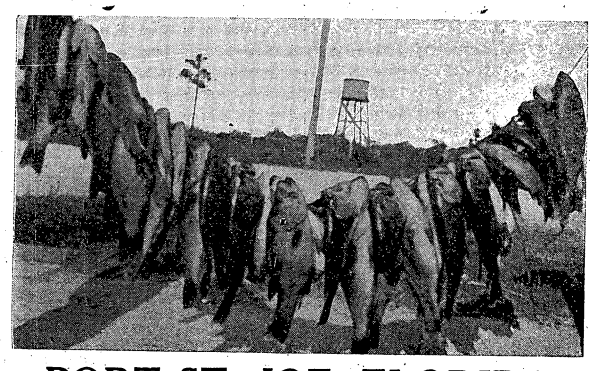
Diamonds
Newest Styles
In Newest Modes

LAMAR SMITH

Phone 3032 1131 Broadway



PORT ST. JOE, FLORIDA

The Sportsman's Paradise ——
—— Fishing Is Now At Its Best ——
—— The Big Ones Are Striking

For reservations phone or wire
THE PORT INN

29TH INF.

Headquarters Co.

The following promotions were made in this company:

Private Luther B. Loveless appointed private first class. Private Loveless has recently graduated from the Bakers & Cooks School, as 1st Cook.

Private Charles H. Rolling was commended by his company commander on the neatness of his horse shoeing shop and was appointed private first class.

Private Elmer W. Morton was re-rated to specialist 5th class. When it comes to polishing up the knob on the big front door Pvt. Morton is there.

Private Haspell Martin, formerly 3rd cook in the culinary department, was rated specialist 6th class.

Privates Jake H. Page and Charles E. Lungrin of the mounted section have been rated specialist 6th class.

The regular company scribe, Pvt. Thompson, is on a furlough for 15 days and will return about September 16 and take over his duties as a cub reporter for this organization.

Howitzer Company

We feel very proud of our swimming team, which won third place in the post swimming meet. The Special Units swimming team, composed of the following men from the Howitzer Company: Cpl. Miller, Pfc. Miller, Pfc. Corey and Pvt. Wheeler, stepped out to score a total of 13 1-2 points. When you stop to consider that these points were scored against teams selected from whole battalions—well it wasn't so bad. The post record for 100 yard free style was broken in the meet by Cpl. Miller of this organization, the time being one minute, eight and two-fifths seconds. The previous record was one minute, nine and three-fifths seconds. The reason for this team winning was that the enthusiasm was so aroused, due to the fact that we had an "old standby," James P. Johnston, our 1st Sergeant, come fifty miles just to see his men swim in the meet.

First Bn. Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

No one is complaining about the extra amount of sleep that comes our way these mornings. Naturally, though, some of the boys would be late if we didn't have to get up until noon.

The other day some one mentioned getting out the old football. That is a sure sign of a change in the season, When the sport changes a new group of soldiers perform for the benefit of the balance. The question is who will be the ones from our company to represent us on the gridiron. Little Curley Headed Stepp will be there fighting as ever.

Seems as if our company was on furlough these days. Sgt. Groves, Cpl. Shaver, Cpl. Peery, Pfc. Atcheson, Pfc. Wilkinson, Pvt. Kilpatrick and Pvt. Hartison. A letter from Pfc. Atcheson the other day informed us that he was having a high time. "Papa" Atcheson is

83RD FA

Hdqrs., 83rd F. A. Bn.

Passing from the summer schedule the battalion now takes up training in earnest. Animals will be in harness again and recruits will receive their share of attention. Foot drill, driving and draft, pistol firing and gunner's instruction. Nothing will be left undone to make them able to soldier with the old members of the battalion and perform the many duties required in our own work and in connection with the Infantry School.

During the summer schedule, and since the return of the battalion from the hike to Albany, gunner's instruction has been the feature of training. 175 men have already qualified as first class gunners. Splendid progress has been made in instruction for experts. It looks like a record year for qualifications.

In connection with the new training season, it should not be passed over without comment as to changes in officer personnel. The writer has heard many people in Fort Benning remark that the 83rd is a lucky outfit in regard to having good commanding officers. Major Jones has left the battalion to take a course in the Army War College. There is no need to comment on the achievements of the battalion under Major Jones. We are all familiar with the transition from motor-drawn to horse-drawn. While sorry to lose Major Jones the battalion feels honored in having its commanding officer selected to attend the Army War College.

Major Ross, who is our new battalion commander, has given ample proof that our string of luck has not played out. The men are all behind Major Ross. Especially do we appreciate his interest in our baseball team and in all sports.

Other losses of officers are Captain Black to Langley Field, Va., to take a course in flying, Captain Crane transferred to the 16th F. A., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Lt. Robert C. Oliver to the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Captain John T. Schneider, now on duty at West Point, and 1st Lt. John G. Brackenridge have received orders to report to this battalion for duty.

Captain Edward Grover Ludtke, F. A. (Reserve) has reported for training, for a period of 15 days.

Baseball still holds the limelight with football just around the corner. We have a fighting baseball team that we look to make things hot for opposing teams in the remaining games to be played this season.

Polo is receiving the major share of attention of polo lovers at the present strutting his stuff, that is if we may believe him, and he usually doesn't stretch things any.

Lieutenant Colonel Thorne Strayer, Infantry, reported for duty with the 29th Infantry on September 1st.

Captain Kirby Green, Infantry, attached to the 29th Infantry, reported for duty on August 28th, and was attached to Regimental Headquarters and Band, 29th Inf.

2nd Lieutenant George Selman, Infantry, reported for duty with the 29th Infantry on August 30th, and was attached to the Service Company.

Battery "A," 83rd F. A. Bn.

Captain S. F. Clark, who has commanded the battery for the past two years, relinquished command on September 1, 1929, having been assigned by the War Department as a student at The Infantry School. Under Captain Clark's command the battery underwent a change from motor drawn artillery to horse drawn artillery and has made a very creditable showing. During the past eighteen months the battery has had the signal honor of being selected by the battalion commander as the one battery of the 83rd Field Artillery Battalion to compete for the Knox trophy in two contests. In the first contest the battery placed fourth in a field of sixteen, the result of the second contest has not been officially reported. Captain Clark's record as battery commander speaks for itself in that while under his command the battery had fewer desertions, less A. W. O. L.'s, less court-martials and more re-enlistments than in any past period of two years. The battery as a whole feels as if it has been a pleasure to have known and served under Captain Clark and regrets very much his departure from the organization.

1st Lieutenant John B. Murphy, who succeeds Captain Clark as battery commander, we know will have the cooperation of all and that Battery "A" will continue "to lead the way in artillery.

We have reason to believe that our 1st Sergeant posses powers of a clairvoyant which he has passed on to the blonde, as he was observed at the telephone last week talking to her and at the same time giving her directions how to get to the tent area by pointing his finger. Television has not been adopted by the army, Sarge, but she arrived on time just the same, therefore you must know your wave length.

The tennis court that bloomed in the spring, after several months of wire pulling, has proven to be a blessing in disguise in that Corporal McRae has been observed serving the balls a "La Wills" at least once a week and exercise in any form has always been passe with him.

The battery barber was heard to remark that it will be at least four months until cold weather as Private (Hank) Brawdy received his quarterly hair cut on pay day.

Private Turnbull, upon being asked why all the occupants of tent five had their heads shaved, replied that they all were firm believers in the sun cure and if the sun rays could build up the body why not the cranium. Alligator, we hope your experiment is successful.

Ex-Corporals Boggett and Overby, who departed from our midst several weeks ago to help the wheat farmers harvest their crops and the oil men drill their wells, have finished their tasks undoubtedly, as they both re-enlisted last week. Welcome back, pilgrims.

We wish to call the attention of all false prophets to our battalion baseball team, which is showing plenty of "IT," and predict that our battalion football team will be a much "bigger" surprise.

Battery "B," 83rd F. A. Bn.

Private Hunter was beginning to have dreams of collection sheets when Private Mock, the good samaritan, came to his rescue.

At a late hour the other evening Private Nicholas discovered that it was not necessary for him to be in his trousers for them to take their usual evening stroll.

98 per cent of the men of this bat-

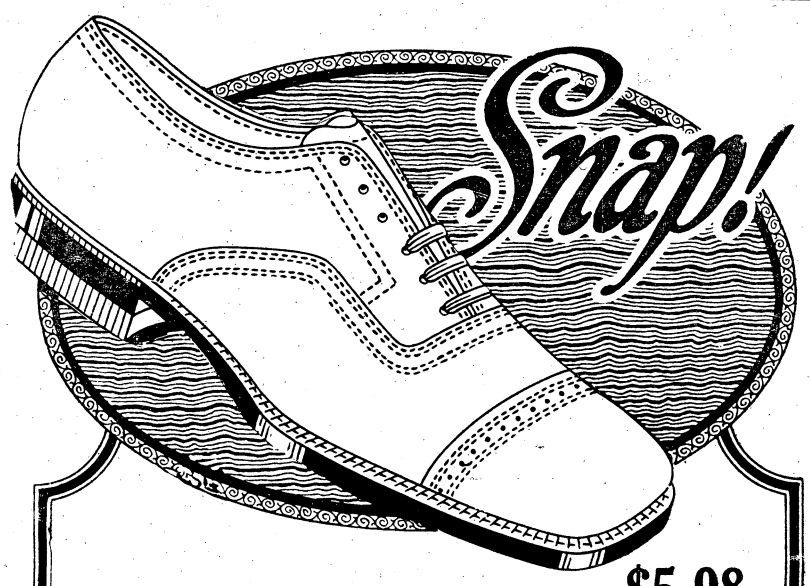
(Continued on page 9.)

FOOTBALL!

With the arrival of the season for the gridiron sport, the first thing to consider is equipment. We have a new and complete line of RAWLINGS goods. They are indorsed by leading players and coaches of the country.

Phone 314 for representative with samples.

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.



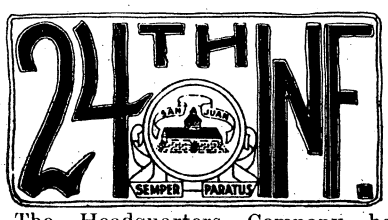
$5.98

Modern fashions are as discriminating in your footwear as any other part of your clothing. Kinney shoes present that appearance of good taste and snap that is so essential to the well dressed.

Comes in combination lasts A to EE
Sizes 6 to 11

Kinney Shoes
G. R. KINNEY CO., INC.

1140 Broad Street



The Headquarters Company has taken over the complete charge of what used to be the Quartermaster Stables, and hereafter these stables will be known as the 24th Infantry Stables. This brings to an end the dual control and responsibility of the stables. To enable the company to accomplish this mission its strength has been increased by a few men. Now is the time for men who like animals and are good teamsters to get in on the ground floor in the company.

The Hop Committee of the 24th Infantry has announced the following dates for the Regimental Hops during the coming winter: Oct. 18, Nov. 15, Dec. 20, Jan. 17, Feb. 21, Mar. 21, April 25, May 16.

Colonel Paul C. Galleher is away on leave of absence and Major Charles E. Coates is in command of the Regiment. Major Robert H. Fletcher has also taken advantage of a leave of absence. We all hope they will have a pleasant time in cooler climes, shooting plenty of golf.

Work has started on rebuilding Mess Hall No. 2, and on adding a porch to the Service Club and theater. We are going to be pretty snappy when it's completed. Everyone hopes that the paint supply won't run out before the kitchens get a new coat for the coming winter. Speaking of construction we heard a rumor that the swimming pool was to be cemented by next spring. This will give the regiment a most attractive recreation place to spend idle hours. It is hoped that every man will smoke seven packages of cigarettes less than normal and with the money so saved invest in a bathing suit and lots of good healthy times in the water.

Hdqrs. Co.

Private specialist 5th class Henry Hunter who is to be discharged in a few weeks, will reenlist for the Detachment of Calvary at West Point, New York. We wish him success in his new outfit.

Privates Elmo Davis and Ezel Careuthers duty to hospital. We hope they will be out in a few days as we don' tlike to have our men sent to the hospital.

The fish in the Chattahoochee had better fast for quite a while now as Private Henry Kirk has taken a furlough.

Private William Mitchell who enlisted at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, has been assigned to this Company. Pvt. Mitchell says he will be an asset to the organization.

Pvt. Percy Donison is from Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Donison is a very quiet soldier. He has a few months to serve to complete his first enlistment. Religious faith, Baptist. Nickname, "preacher."

The strength of this company will be increased in a few days. This increase is badly need, to carry on the importatnt work at the corral and stables.

Captain Jared I. Wood has taken command of the Company. Captain George T. Shank was attached to the 29th Infantry. We are glad to have Captain Wood with the Company and sorry to lose Capt. Shank.

Company "C"

Military affairs are about to get back to normalcy—practically everybody is back on the job, and going on as they were prior to target season; another year before us to talk about next year's target practice and expert qualification which many of us missed this year.

Many of the old soldiers of the company are being discharged during the month of September; as yet, we do not know exactly how many will reenlist, however, Cook Ward declares that during the next year he will introduce many new dishes to the company.

"If it passes—I can retire right now," chirped a member of the company.

Company "F"

Heard on the target range:

Officer in charge of firing line: "Fire at will."

Recruit Rudd: "Which is Will, sir?"

Officer in charge of firing line: " XZ&*!!;;$(,.:! etc.

Found the zero of a First Sergeant. First Sergeant William B. Smith's zero is six ham sandwiches and a quart of lemonade.

One thing is certain and that is, "If you dance to the music, the Fiddler must be paid." Eh, Adams?

7th Engineers

"Cy" Perkins is now the proud wearer of sergeant's stripes. Perkins has been with the company since 1924 and no more popular promotion has ever been made.

The prize remark of the season was pulled by one of the recruits in the pits. After being instructed in the art of pulling targets for a couple of hours, when asked what the red disk was used for, he calmly explained that it was used to show 12 o'clock.

Pete Zlotnik, despite the fact that he was the main attraction at Covington a couple of weeks ago, is still waiting in vain for letters from the seven or eight females who Pete claims lost their hearts to him. Pete's ego is suffering considerably under the strain.

ADDITIONAL 83RD F. A. NOTES

(Continued from page 8.)

tery that have taken first class gunners examination have passed the examining board. We also have eighteen men who are making fine progress with their expert examination as far as they have gone.

Battery "C," 83rd F. A. Bn.

It seems as if the soldiers of battery "C" have given up the idea of the government raising their pay so they are raising their pay by qualifying as first class gunners. Sixty-two out of sixty-six men who have taken the examination have qualified this season.

There are several recruits in the battery who have joined in the past two or three weeks that are getting along fine, excep one, who happens to be Private Glisson. The only thing that he doesn't like about the army is the "kicks" he gets out of it. He says that any recruit ougt to get a "kick" in the horse artillery.

time. Under the direction of 1st Lt. H. D. Baker, manager, the polo ponies of the battalion are being trained and exercised daily in preparation for the season just ahead.

Sgt. Dodd and Pfc. Bell were seen in town last week on a shopping tour. They returned with a variety of step-ins and other feminine fineries.

The battery is taking a lively interest in the pool tournament. Pvt. Robins is far out in the lead. We predict Robins will make the masters of the ivories take notice.

Pfc. LaPine received a summons from Wall street last week. Rushing in with his surplus cash and a pair of "bones" he returned to the battery with part of the Brooklyn bridge and all of the Upatoi trestle. We suggest he visit a bank or throw a battery dinner.

Pfc. Dailey asked Cpl. Starnes "how many croakes in a frog?" After ten minutes had elapsed "it" soaked in and Dailey nearly ended the week-end in the hospital.

Many new faces from Headquarters will be seen on the Artillery eleven this fall as shown by the early practice in throwing the pig-skin.

ROADS AND AREAS CLOSED

During the week September 2-7, 1929, the following roads and areas will be closed due to range firing:

Monday: None.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray road, Cloverleaf road and First Division road from the Sightseeing road (exclusive) to the Buckeye road (exclusive.) Time: 5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time: 1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Saturday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray road, Cloverleaf road and First Division road from the Sightseeing road (exclusive) to the Buckeye road (exclusive.) Time: 5:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

STATION HOSPITAL NEWS

Corporal Yutmeyer is enjoying a very nice furlough visiting his relatives at Egan, Tenn., and Cincinnati, Ohio. We hope you have a very fine time, Corporal.

Sergeant Gustafson and Private McCormick report having a good time while on D. S. at Washington, D. C. The only unavoidable accident that happened on the trip was when Mas misplaced his teeth and worried all day about them.

Private Haynes is spending his re-enlistment furlough of 90 days at his home in Knoxville, Tenn.

Private Layne is enjoying a ten day furlough with his parents at Daus, Tenn.

Private Magee reports, on arrival here, that he had a fairly good time while on his emergency furlough at Petersburg, Va.

Say Black, the next time you hide Abie's teeth be sure you hide them where he won't find them. He looks better without them than he does with them.

Captain C. H. Perry, Adjutant and Mess Officer at the Hospital, has gone on forty-five days' leave. His trip will take him through the Shenandoah valley and by way of Washington to Boston and New Hampshire. The return trip will be over the Mohawk trail to New York state and down through the Pennsylvania mountains. A very interesting and well-deserved leave for the Captain.

The Medico ball team disposed of the Independents 5-2 last Friday and cinched the cup for the second half of the Class A league. A series with the Engineers is now being arranged and when that is disposed of the Medicos plan a trip to Fort McPherson for a little baseball and recreation.

The grading of the ball field has been started and a cinder track will surround the field when completed. The Medical colors will figure in any track events at this post hereafter.

Sgt. Gustafson and Pvts Armstrong, Gilbert and McCormick recently made the trip to Washington with mental cases. No news of political importance has been heard so far but there are many interesting comments on the customs and habits of certain Washintonians. The detachment office is now swamped with applications for future trips.

After the strain of a holiday and pay day combined, a new member of the detachment was found Tuesday morning. It was the well known R. E. Morse.

BOXING Tuesday Night, SEPT. 9th

"As you like it"

DOUGHBOY STADIUM 8:00 O'CLOCK

WINDUP—10 ROUNDS

DANNY DAVIS (Ft. Benning) vs. GINGER JERNIGAN (Columbus, Ga.)

Blondy Parker, Doubtin' Thomas, Corn Griffin, "Bobcat" Morris, Bruiser Brault, Krafty Kline and others

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c RINGSIDE 75c—$1.00

Tickets on sale at Orderly rooms, Athletic office and Officers' Club.

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

TWO WILDCATS MIX IN MAIN GO TUESDAY NIGHT

Benning's Novelty "As You Like It" Program Has Many Interesting Numbers

By Al Durden

Danny Davis	vs.	Ginger Jernigan	10 rounds
Blondy Parker	vs.	Doubtin' Thomas	8 "
Corn Griffin	vs.	"Bobcat" Morris	6 "
Bruiser Brault	vs.	Krafty Kline	6 "
Kid Pecot	vs.	Young Sewell	4 "
Graveyard Henderson	vs.	Tomb Stone Boyd	4 "
Wotta Guy	vs.	Grady Martin	4 "
Deep Gulley	vs.	Black Smith	3 "

An Arkansas farmer once told a yarn about seeing two bob cats tangle up in a free melee while hunting in the river bottoms. His version of the affair was, "when them cats went together they started climbing each other; they quickly climbed out of sight but hair and blood fell for an hour." When Danny Davis and Ginger Jernigan tear into each other next Tuesday night in their scheduled ten-round battle at the Doughboy Stadium arena, fight fans will be treated to a fight that will rival the famous bob cats for speed and fury.

Both fighters have been trained down to the pink for this fight. Columbus fans are backing their idol to the last white chip. At Benning it is just the reverse. Davis is picked to stop Jernigan before the fifth round. Either boy is capable of turning the trick. Davis hits like a mule kicking and is fast and tough. Jernigan hits equally as hard and is just as tough. Both boys are natural fighters and love the milling. In fact this fight is a one hundred per cent natural.

The semi-final of eight rounds promises to rival the main go. Blondy Parker, Greencord ace, and Doubtin' Thomas, Doughboy welter and stablemate of Davis, will end a feud of long standing in the welterweight division. Neither of these boys need an introduction. Parker and Jernigan battled six fierce rounds on the last card held here. Thomas has met and defeated some of the best boys in his weight in this section of the country.

Corn Griffin, Tanker heavy, will receive his baptism of fire when he mixes and mingles with "Bobcat" Morris, claimant of the army heavy-weight title and at the present time a member of the 22nd Infantry, Fort McPherson, Ga. Morris comes here highly rated, having swept through the best heavies among the army posts in Hawaii. He made his debut in the 22nd Infantry by clipping the well known Pug Avera. Now hearing of the fighting Tanker, he will attempt to put the skids under Griffin in six rounds Tuesday night.

Griffin has shown here but a few times, but in those few showings he gave the fans an eye full. Morris may be all the advance dope claims but I will lay my blues on the Tankers nose.

Bruiser Brault will make his first appearance in the featherweight class. He will meet Krafty Kline, of Columbus, over the six round route. Brault's hand has fully recovered from the injuries sustained a short while ago and the little cruiser is back in battle trim. Kline has shown here several times and he does not mis-represent the moniker of Krafty. He is fast and crafty and a hard hitter.

Kid Pecot, of the I. S. D., and Young Sewell, of Columbus, will attempt to settle their last dispute, which ended in a four round draw. They are booked for four rounds Tuesday night.

Grave Yard Henderson and Tombstone Boyd, colored middleweights, will also be given a return match over the four round trail. In their last battle Boyd took the decision but the fight was so close that a return bout was arranged.

Wotta Guy, the fighting redhead from Company "C," 29th Inf., will battle Grady Martin, of Columbus, in what promises to be a fast four rounder. Guy gave Jernigan several hard battles before Jernigan gained his present high standing.

Deep Gully and Black Smith will open hostilities in a haymaking three rounder promptly at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

1929 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ARRANGED

I. S. D. Nor Special Units to Have Team in Post League

At a meeting of the athletic heads of the respective units of the post last Saturday morning, Captain Tuttle announced the schedule for the coming season of football.

After considerable discussion, it was decided that the duties of the personnel of the Special Units as a whole, and of the I. S. D., individually, would prevent that unit and organization from placing a team on the field this year.

This will be looked on with regret by many, for some of the post's best athletes are in the units of the Special Units. However, this will not slow the league up any, as the Second Battalion, First Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment and 83rd Field Artillery are sure to give the color that the intra-mural season of football at Fort Benning has always had.

The Artillerymen have taken the bit in their mouths this year, and are determined to come out and stay in front. The First Battalion, battling in past years with the Redlegs for the cellar honors, have expressed their intentions of making the Tankers and Kellys look sick this year. One can never tell where the trophy will go. Upsets galore are the predictions for this year's series of games:

Nov. 16—83rd F. A. Bn. vs. 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

Nov. 23—1st Tank Regt. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Nov. 27—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Dec. 4—1st Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 1st Tank Regt.

Dec. 7—2nd Bn., 29th Inf. vs. 83rd F. A. Bn.

Dec. 18—1st Tank Regt. vs. 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 5

"Pair off and find your buddies!"

"We will now review the eleven preliminary exercises which we did in our last lesson."

"You have now learned everything necessary to swim the crawl. The polishing process is only a matter of time and practice. I should now like to say a few words about the ideal crawl. The body rests in the water with a gentle arch from the head to the toes. Every muscle in the body is relaxed except the set which is doing the work at any particular time. The arms work alternately. One reaches out lazily to the front with the palm turned slightly outward. The arm is reached out as far as possible and whipped straight down until the arm is almost to the hip. Now the elbow is bent and brought up high and wide. The forearm is relaxed and is carried forward mainly by the upper arm."

"The eyes are above the water. A person should never swim blindly. Keeping the eyes above water does two things. First it prevents the swimmer from wandering from his lane and second it makes the feet stay in the water so that none of the leg drive is wasted on air."

"The legs are separated about a foot. They are worked from the hips in an up and down thrash which has popularly become known as the flutter. The knees may bend slightly. However, the drive should never come from the knees but from the hips. The toes are turned in slightly to increase the bearing surface against the water. Only the heels should ever appear above the water. If you find your buddy thrashing his legs out of the water you can correct this almost automatically by making him swim with his head farther out of the water."

"Now a word about the breathing. If the head is held so that the water cuts it below the eyes, only a slight turn of the head is necessary to raise the mouth above the surface. The head is turned sharply as the breathing arm has reached its rear-most position. A gasp of air is taken in through the mouth. Next the head is snapped to the front where it remains during the entire exhalation through the nose. The next inhalation comes again as the breathing arm comes to the rear."

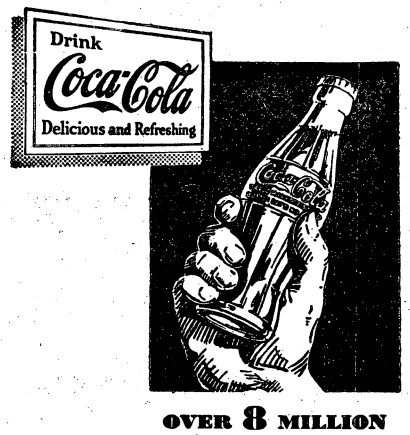
"Now keeping this in mind I am going to have each one swim past me. I will note your faults. After I tell you what your mistakes are go to your buddy. Swim short distances and let him criticize your form."

"We are now ready to pass the beginner's test. This consists of swimming the crawl for sixty feet."

"You are no longer beginners but intermediates. You will go to the intermediate class tomorrow."

Everybody says:
"TAKE EXERCISE!"
For the same good reason
pause and refresh yourself

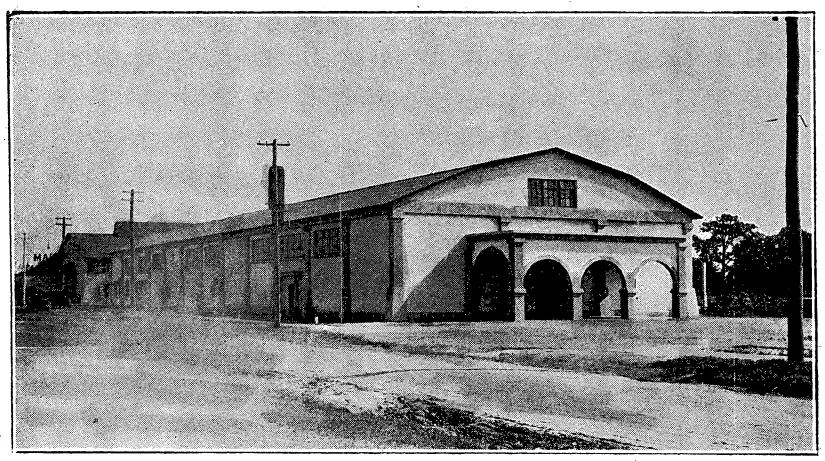
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA COMPANY
Telephone 360

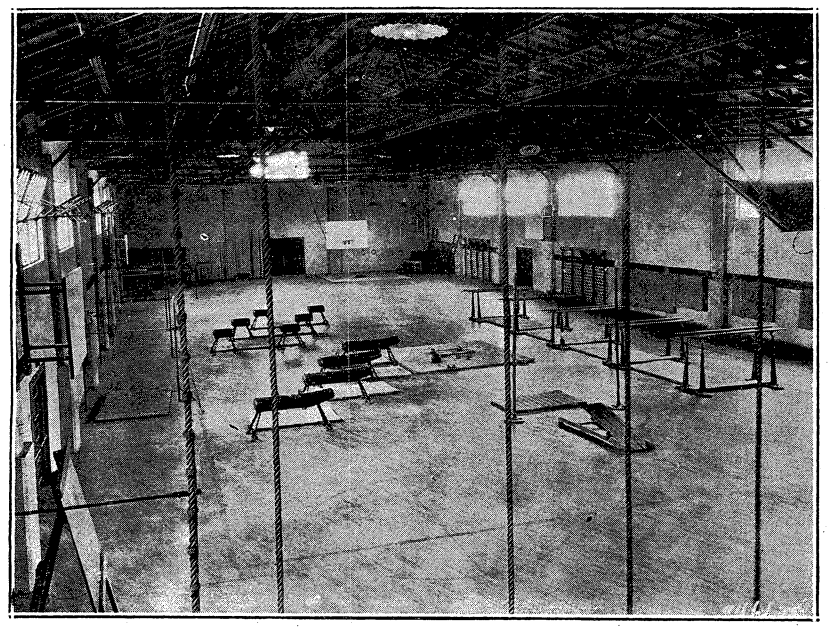


OVER 8 MILLION A DAY

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

FORT BENNING'S NEW GYM





Interior view showing part of the equipment in the new gymnasium available for members of the command.

Fort Benning is proud of its nice modern gymnasium. Rightfully proud too! Nowhere else in Army circles outside the Military Academy, can be found a building entirely devoted to gymnastics that will measure up to the standards of the new gymnasium that has recently been completed here.

The architectural beauty will be hard to surpass. The inside arrangements and plans are excellent.

Many ask one question concerning the new gym, "Who is the father of this idea?" The question is easily answered. Colonel Charles L. Willard, the post quartermaster, is the father of the idea, and also the head of the activity that executed the plans.

During the early part of the current year, General Collins, then the commandant of the Infantry School, called Colonel Willard one morning, and directed him to make arrangements to salvage the old eyesore that Fort Benning was using for a gymnasium. Many remember what a dilapidated looking structure this old building was. It was simply an old air plane hanger that had been floored and used as a gymnasium.

Colonel Willard asked for a little time to prepare some plans that he had been thinking of concerning the old building, and the time was allowed.

A short while later he submitted the plans to General Collins for his approval, and they were approved, providing the necessary funds and material were obtainable.

The plans submitted provided for the hollow tiles at the salvage dump to be used for the walls of the building. Other material used in the building came from Muscle Shoals, Ala. The cost was a mere trifle, and the results speak for themselves.

Colonel Willard did all in his power to have the building completed by June 30th, laboring from April 31st consistently. It was by his fine spirit of co-operation and conscientious efforts that the regular bi-monthly boxing shows and many basketball games were held in the building, at the same time that the construction was being carried on.

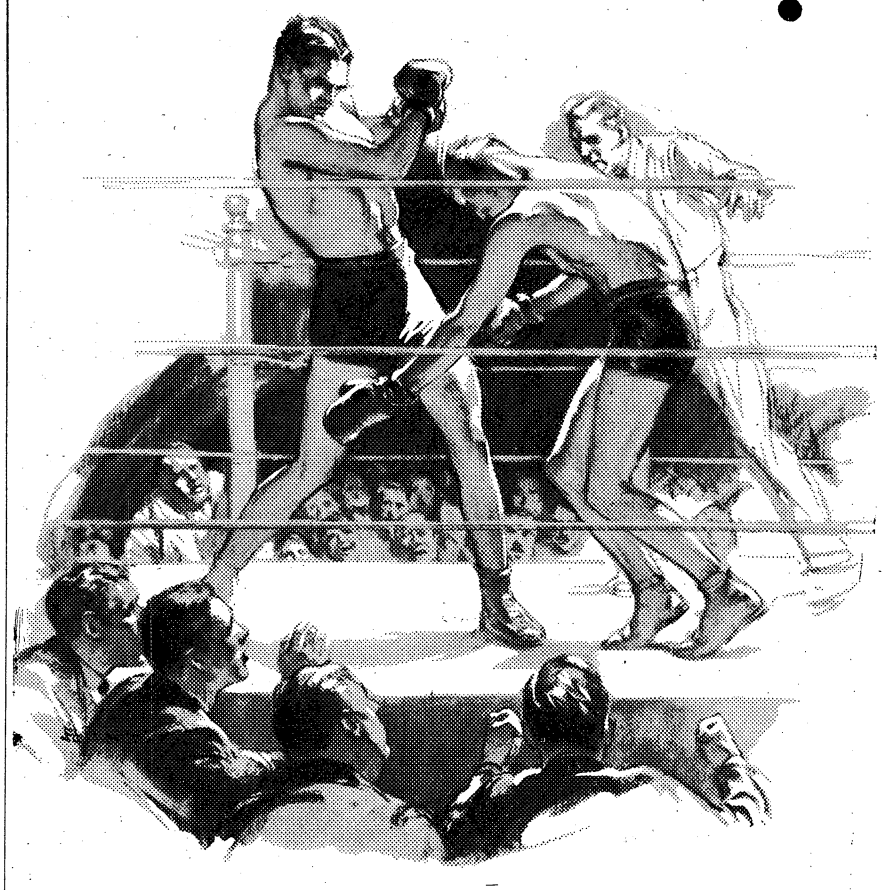
The building has a slate roof, inlaid maple floors, hollow tile walls, and a stucco finish on the outside. The offices of the building are the last word in perfection. Besides being neatly built and well lighted and ventilated, they are away from the noise and bustle of the lobby, and afford a place where the executives can work with pleasure.

It has been truly said that the Fort Benning gymnasium will stand as a permanent monument to the memory of its instigator and builder, Colonel Charles L. Willard, Q. M. C.

PAYMENT OF SUMS DUE QUARTERMASTER

The attention of all concerned is directed to the fact that regulations provide for the payment of sums due the quartermaster on or before the 10th day of the month next succeeding that in which the indebtedness is contracted. It is not sufficient that the check be in the mail on the 10th day of the month. It must be in the hands of the quartermaster on that date.

...in the ring it's PUNCH!



...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD... and yet THEY SATISFY

"STICKIN' to our knittin'"— never forgetting that Chesterfield's popularity depends on Chesterfield's taste . . .

But what is taste? Aroma, for one thing— keen and spicy fragrance. For another, that satisfying something— flavor, mellow tobacco goodness— which we can only call "character." Taste is what smokers want; taste is what Chesterfield offers—

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

© 1929, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

SPORTSMANSHIP

There is one thing that always goes with any kind of athletic encounter. That thing is SPORTSMANSHIP. None can deny the fact that the sportsmanship of the contestants and the fans is what makes the games of football and baseball the games they are today.

The rule committees have made rules that will force the unsportsman-like contestant to come up to snuff, and be glad to do it. If he doesn't do it, the officials will throw him out of the game. He is the kind of man who makes it necessary for the rules committees to make these rules.

We have the man that sits in the dugout and gripes at anything that comes close to looking like a raw deal. In the majority of instances, this man is the man that has been receiving the breaks, and when the wheel turns against him, he is ready to throw in the sponge and yell "Robber! thief!" . . . . and other expletives that should never enter a sportsman's mouth.

There are a few of us who should think a bit about this, and try to make some kind of correction.

RATING OF MESSES

The following rating of messes is the result of competitive scoring by the Medical Inspector for the month of August, 1929:

Hdqrs. Co., 29th Inf., Detachment Quartermaster Corps, Co. B, 29th Inf., excellent; score over 80 per cent.

Infantry School Detachment, Co. D, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), Co. G, 29th Inf., Howitzer Co., 29th Inf., 100th Motor Transport Co., Co. C, 29th Inf., Battery A, 83rd F. A. Bn., Co. E, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), Hdqrs. Battery, 83rd F. A., Co. E, 29th Inf., Mess No. 2, 24th Inf., Co. F, 29th Inf., Mess No. 1, 24th Inf., Battery B, 83rd F. A. Bn., Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Light), very good; score 75 to 80 per cent.

Battery C, 83rd F. A. Bn., Mess No. 3, 24th Inf., Co. H, 29th Inf., Post Stockade, Co. F, 2d Bn., 1st Tank Regt. (Ligt), Service Co., 29th Inf., Co. A, 7th Engineers, Mess No. 5, 24th Inf., Mess N. 4, 24th Inf., Station Hospital, Co. D, 29th Inf., School for Bakers & Cooks, good; score 70 to 75 per cent.

Co. C, 1st Chem. Regt. & Ordnance Co.'s, Co. A, 29th Inf., Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., fair; score below 70 per cent.

COAL SUPPLY FOR WINTER

It is directed that where storage space in the coal bins of all quarters is available that the coal office, phone 399, be notified so as to effect immediate delivery of coal. These steps are necessary at this time to avoid a rush on the coal office at a later date.

THREE TEAMS IN LAST HALF PLAY OFF

The Infantry School Detachment, Second Battalion and Eighty-third Field Artillery Battalion will play a six game schedule to decide the last half champions of the "B" league.

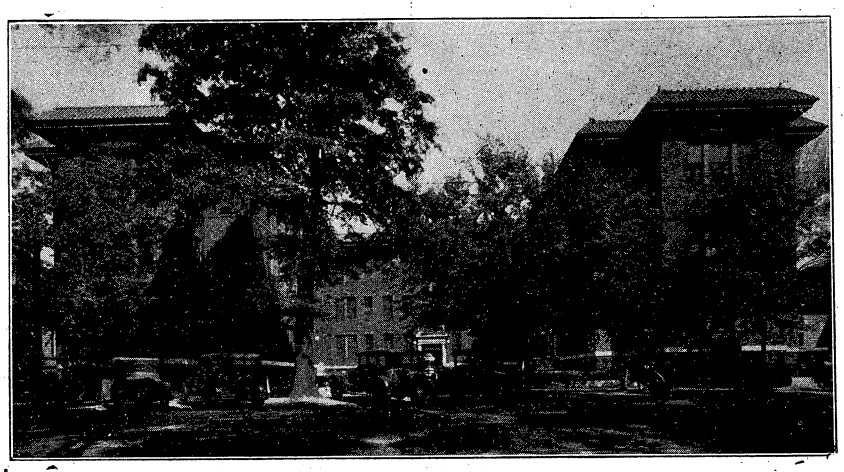
The Redlegs defeated the Engineers Tuesday of this week, and gained the roof position with the other two of the trio. These games should wax hot, as the Second Battalion wants to avoid having to play a little world's series this year. The I. S. D. would like to regain their old prestige that hasn't been enjoyed for many seasons, while the Artillery want the recognition that they have never enjoyed.

The play off started yesterday, and will continue through the 10th , when someone will be in tears, and the victors will be smiling. Of course, there is the chance of another tie all around, and then there might be a two-way split, but in all probability, this will be the deciding series of the season, as the Kellies have the strongest pitching staff. However, if Paschal and Hollaway are right, the Artillery batsmen will have a good chance to bang out a crown or two.

Barring rain, there will be a game each day until they are all played off. In case of rain, the game will be postponed until the end of the short series.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Pending publication of change in the garrison regulations, all vehicles going south on Kreis street will come to a complete stop at the junction of Sigerfoos road and Kreis street.



STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

—o—

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

—o—

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.

Howard Bus Line, Inc.

OPERATING UNDER GOVERNMENT FRANCHISE

BOND AND LIABILITY INSURANCE PROVIDED

SCHEDULE

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5 00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

410 CITY PHONES 224 POST

Dependable Electric and Gas Service

Columbus Electric and Power Co.

1330 Broadway

W. H. McInnis, Sales Mgr. R. M. Harding, Manager

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8 30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS

Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park

Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.

We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.

A few apartments are available.

For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co.

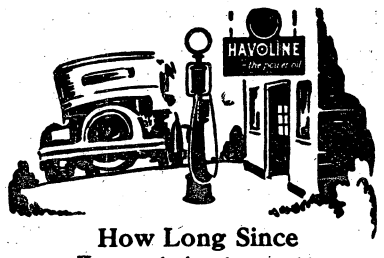
Owners—Phone 470

Hill & Hill
Agents—Phone 476

Superintendent, Apartment House
Phone 3062



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.

Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.

FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

The INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

VOL. VII. FORT BENNING, GA., SEPTEMBER 13, 1929 Number 52

Anniversary Number

1922 — 1929

We Wish to Welcome You to Columbus
and this Shoppe

Read Between the Lines To Know The Smart Outfit.

Not for many a long season have lines been so important as this fall. Svelte lines, they are. And subtle too. Never obvious. Attaining their willful way by clever tucks and darts. By the most delicately handled necklines. By flares that do the unexpected. By sleeves that are unusual. But always, always delicately simple, utterly feminine. With the gradually rising waistline and longer skirt their keynote throughout.

DOBBS

HATS READY TO WEAR

The Dobbs MARIETTA is exquisitely smart for early Fall wear — in Dobbs Leisure Light felt with a piquant air of demure charm. Every size in a veritable bouquet of colorings

The Debutante

THIS smart model, in fashionable black or brown suede, makes its debut at the height of the early fall social season.

¶ The same creation is presented in black patent, brown kid and midnight blue kid.

Priced at

SIX
EIGHTY-FIVE

Mail Orders Filled

Jacqueline MODES Designed by Wohl
Creator of Artistic Footwear

KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, Inc.

"The Shop of Original Styles"

Bronze Tablets in Historical Triangle Dedicated Recently

Friday morning, Sept. 6, Brigadier General Campbell King and a colorful gathering from both Fort Benning and Columbus, included within the latter being Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney, State Regent of the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. A. N. Murray, Regent of Oglethorpe Chapter, Mrs. Ralph Edge, Regent of George Walton Chapter, Mrs. Milton Long, Regent of Button Gwinnett, and Mrs. Robert, past State Regent and Vice-President General N. S. D. A. R., a visitor from Alabama, assembled under the spreading branches of the fine old oaks between Vibbert and Wold Aves., on Sigerfoos road, to witness and take part in the dedicating of the three bronze tablets in the monument erected within the historic triangle at Fort Benning.

The tablets and the wording there-on are the work of the Columbus chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. They were formerly placed in a boulder at the intersection of Wold Ave. and the First Division road, but due to the traffic menace that the boulder caused they were removed and placed in the body of the old oak that stands in front of the Golf Club.

The old tree had reared its majestic branches toward the skies too long. The ravages of many seasons had caused it to decay, its branches to fall away, indicating that in a short time these tablets, so emblematic of Benning's early history, would be without a home. It was therefore decided by the local authorities that a more permanent monument should be placed.

Mrs. H. Fay Gaffney and Brigadier General Campbell King upon the occasion of the dedication of three bronze tablets commemorating some of Benning's early history on last Friday morning.

The present location, the most central on the Post, was selected and the building of the base for the tablet, using only army materials and labor, through the untiring efforts of Major Henry A. Bootz, assistant executive officer, was recently completed.

Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney was introduced by Rev. J. A. Thomas, D. D., and made the address of the morning. Mrs. Gaffney was followed by General King, who in a few well chosen words, accepted the tablets on behalf of the Infantry School.

Musical selection, "Dixie"—29th Infantry band.

Prayer—Rev. J. A. Thomas, D. D.

Bugler sounding attention. (All standing observing one minute's silence.)

Musical selection, "America"—29th Infantry band.

The Flag Salute—Daughters of the American Revolution.

Address—Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney (State Regent, Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution.) Local historical facts covering the LaFayette, Kashita and Hichity bronze tablets.

Placing of wreaths—Mrs. A. N. Murray, Regent of Oglethorpe Chapter, Mrs. Ralph Edge, Regent of George Walton Chapter. Mrs. Milton Long, Regent of Button Gwinnett Chapter, Miss Cornelia Gillis, Miss Carrie Dudley.

Acceptance of Tablets — Brigadier General Campbell King.

Musical selection, "Star Spangled Banner."—29th Infantry band.

Benediction — Chaplain John R. Wright.

Mrs. Gaffney, in her address, gives an accurate and interesting account of each of the events symbolized by the large tablets.

Her address, in full, follows:

It is a very great pleasure to meet our friends of the Fort once more, and to look again upon the bronze tablets which have been formerly presented to the Infantry School of Benning.

To realize that, tl.rough enduring friendship this perpetual location has been given, and due to your interest in local history the spot has been beautified and made ready for our approval, is an occasion of complete gratification and conditions unrestrained enjoyment.

That this historic boulder builded to incase the tablets should be molded out of concrete, is especially significant —Concrete implies that we have created together—that we have united in growth—That the material is a product of the surrounding country, moistened with the limpid waters that have given refreshment to the traveller, and by its sparkling clearness made happy its early settlers, is a timely gesture of no mean repute.

As the Columbus representatives of this state organization known as the Daughters of the American Revolution, we thank you, and desire to approve most heartily your success in the completion of this work, and the selection of its permanent setting. Reposing as it does in much dignity, free from disturbances, uneasiness and agitations.

Due to the fact, that, some years ago the unveiling of these tablets and the acceptance of same, was undertaken by the three Columbus Chapters of the D. A. R. and the Commandant of Fort Benning, we shall today omit much of the former programs, and comply with the request that has been made by the Infantry School, to present the facts relative to the erection of these tablets, that the personnel of the present Military school may become familiar with the local history.

America is a nation quick to appreciate and to commend bravery where so ever it is enacted.

There is a most magnificent American War Memorial erected in Princes Street Gardens at Edinburgh, to Scotland's dead, as a lasting tribute from the men and women of Scottish blood in the United States of America and Scotland.

This monument, expressing appreciation for the bravery exhibited during the late war, is carved from a pure marble, and the lone figure of a splendid Scot, clad in his native garb, gun resting upon his knee, eager eyes up-lifted, straining every nerve as he gazes into the heavens, awaiting the signal. Beneath the figure is carved these words, "THE CALL." Back of this single statue, is carved from stone, an immense circular wall and on this surface is found a line of waiting soldiers ready too, for "the call."

Here, every line of work is exhibited; the soldier, the seaman, the miner, the minister, the planter, the painter, the poet, the fisherman, the aviator, the student; not one branch of all the services omitted; and chiselled upon the base, under this great line of march are these inpressive words,

"If it be life that waits, I shall live
for ever unconquered,
If death, I shall die at last, strong
in my pride and free."

Nor is that far off memorial America's only gesture of preparedness.

Our Government officials have seen to it; that, down in this sun-kissed Southland of ours, where peace and plenty hold sway, where Nature in her happiest mood, smiles continually on her contented people; the largest Infantry training school in the world has been established.

In flesh and blood, here is being trained our American life that it too, may be prepared. In high resolve this school is leading, and with rightful pride, boasts, "We have at Camp Benning the greatest school of arms in the world, bar none."— "The Spirit of the American Doughboy" still survives, and with sword unsheathed, the commanding officers advance, with the command "Follow Me."

The question is often asked, "what

(Continued on page 9.)

MAJ. HICKSON WINS CORPS AREA GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

The Fourth Corps Area Golf Championship was won last Thursday by Maj. F. E. Hickson, M. C., who defeated the medallist of the tournament, Maj. O. N. Bradley, Inf., in the 36 holes which constituted the finals, by 2 up and one to go.

The winner and the runner-up will represent the Fourth Corps Area at the Army Golf Tournament on Sept. 24 to

Major F. E. Hixon, Victor

28, which will be played on the course of the Army, Navy, and Marine Country Club, Washington, D. C.

Major Hickson's playing was a little steadier than his opponent's and his drives on the average were a little longer and straighter. Both had rather poor luck in getting near the cup on approach shots and in sinking the longer putts.

On the first hole of the morning round both were on the green in two and putted twice for a hole halved at par. Major Bradley was on the second green in one, while Major Hickson's drive went to the right side of the green in the rough. His approach went across the green to its left edge. Using two putts he lost to Major Bradley who also took two putts for a par 3. The third drive of both players had plenty of length. Major Hickson was on in two and out in four. Major Bradley took three to the green. His approach passed the flag by ten feet, making two putts necessary, Major Hickson's hole and all even again. The fourth hole saw Major Hickson drive off the fairway. His third shot cleared the trap nicely but rolled too far. He missed the long putt and was out in five. Maj. Bradley, however, played the hole without fault to make a par 4. The fifth hole, a short one of 105 yards, was halved with threes, as neither player's drive stopped close enough to the pin for a reasonable birdie. Two long clean drives marked the sixth but both lacked the steam to carry the 270 yards to the green. The iron shots were both well played. Again, however, both players took two putts to hole out in par. On the seventh hole, both contestants drove a little off the fairway. Major Hickson was able to use a brassie and hit a little too strongly as did Maj. Bradley. Major Hickson's ball stopped on top of the bunker on the far side of the green, while Major Bradley's stopped half way up the bunker. Both approach shots were about three feet short. Maj. Bradley's putt ran over the left rim of the cup to near-stymie his opponent. Major Hickson then made a billiard from Major Bradley's ball into the cup to win in par four and even things up again. Major Hickson drove a good 240 yards on the eighth. His brassie shot took the wind to the left and landed in the rough. He recovered and was on in three but too far away for a birdie four. Major Bradley was also on in three and halved the hole. The ninth, also a par five hole, was in like manner, halved in par.

On the tenth, the first of the upper nine, Major Hickson's drive sailed and rolled a good 250 yards. His brassie took him to the edge of the green and his approach putter stopped about six feet from the cup, but he failed to sink it for a birdie. Major Bradley also played a clean par on this hole. On the 154-yard eleventh, Major Hickson's iron drive landen on the green, while Major Bradley's was a little long into the rough. Major Hickson sank his second putt to win the hole, as his opponent recovering shot was too distant for a single putt. Major Hickson's drive on the fifteenth was the longest of the day, 260 yards, and straight as a die. Major Bradley left the fairway to the right but came back on with a long iron shot. Both had trouble on the green and halved the hole with sixes. The thirteenth, a 255 yard, par 4 hole, gave a long driver a good chance for a birdie. Major Hickson's drive, however, was low and hung on a rise in the fairway, while Maj. Bradley also needed two to get on. This hole was also halved in par. On the fourteenth, a dogleg four, Major Hickson's longer driving again helped him out. He played the hole faultlessly. Major Bradley missed his second putt, a five-footer, by an inch to lose, placing Major Hickson three-up. Both players took a drive and three short ones on the short fifteenth; but on the sixteenth, a downhill, 200 yard hole, Major Bradley won with a par three. On the seventeenth, Major Hickson laid his drive far enough to the left to have a sure entry to the green, which is blocked from a straight attack by a small spur of woods on the right. Major Hickson had to play a niblick shot over the woods which wasn't quite long enough. Major Bradley was on in two and down in four to win, leaving Major Hickson one up. The final hole of the morning was halved in par fives.

In the afternoon both played the first hole with an extra shot over par, and the second and third also. Major Bradley hooked his fourth drive to lose to his opponent, who made a par 4. The fifth was halved in par and on the sixth also, neither player's approach shot was near enough for one under. Major Hickson missed his second putt on the sixth to lose the hole and become one up again. Major Bradley drove for 250 yards on the eighth, while Major Hickson's drive was much shorter. Major Bradley won the hole in an errorless five to even the score. Immediately, on the ninth, however, Major Hickson regained a hole in the same manner. On the tenth, Major Bradley sliced well off the fairway, while his opponent played faultless golf to win the hole. The eleventh was halved in par and on the twelfth Major Hickson combined the first luck of the day with perfect golf to make a birdie four on the longest hole of the course, winning it from Major Bradley who needed six shots and putting himself three up. The thirteenth was halved in par and the fourteenth in one over par. Major Bradley took the fifteenth in par. The sixteenth and seventeenth were then halved in par and the match was over, with Major Hickson two up and one to go.

Major O. N. Bradley, Runner-up

The shot score was as follows.

Morning round, lower nine:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Hickson	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	5	5
Bradley	4	3	5	4	3	4	5	5	5

Upper nine:

	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
Hickson	5	3	6	4	4	4	4	5	5
Bradley	5	4	6	4	5	4	4	4	5

Afternoon round; lower nine:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Hickson	5	4	5	4	3	4	5	5	4
Bradley	5	4	5	5	3	4	4	4	5

Afternoon round; upper nine:

	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
Hickson	4	3	4	4	5	4	3	4	(5)
Bradley	5	3	6	4	5	3	3	4	(5)

The winners of the other flights were as follows:

Second Flight: Col. G. Williams won from Capt. R. E. Powell, four and 3.

Third Flight: 1st Lt. L. C. Boineau won from Capt. V. A. Huskea, 8 and 7

Fourth flight: Maj. W. G. Livesay won from 1st. Lt. W. S. Lewis 3 and 2.

Fifth flight: Capt. C. S. Gilbert won from Maj. M. P. Randolph, 12 and 10.

Sixth flight: Capt. R. T. Edwards won from Capt. D. B. Hilton, 9 and 8.

Seventh flight: Chaplain J. R. Wright won from Capt. W. E. Seamon, 1 up.

Eighth flight: Capt. C. L. Steel won from 1st Lt. E. Curran.

Ninth flight: Major W. F. Freehoff won from Capt. W. A. Howland, 3 and 2.

The consolation scores were as follows:

First flight: Maj. A. B. Jones won from Maj. H. A. D 'ber 1 up.

Second flight: Capt. L. E. Norris won from Maj. W. L. Roberts, 7 and 6.

Third flight: Capt. W. M. Chapman won from W. O. C. A. Stone, 2 and 1.

Fourth flight: Capt. W. M. Hutson won from Maj. J. I. Meagher, 1 up 37 holes.

Sixth flight: Lt. Col. W. L. Reed won from Maj. S. A. White.

Seventh flight: 1st Lt. H. S. Kelley won from Col. W. P. Hill, 7 and 6.

Eighth flight; Capt. W. B. Tuttle won from Capt. L. A. Wetherby.

Ninth flight: Maj. O. Allen won from 1st Lt. H. H. Harris, 12 and 10.

The following have been chosen as alternates to attend the Army Golf Tournament in Washington: first alternate, Capt. A. S. Nevins; second alternate, Lt. Col. H. A. Wells.

TANKS HOLD ORGANIZATION DAY PROGRAM AT DOUGHBOY STADIUM

On yesterday, the 12th day of September, we were again reminded of the same day eleven years ago, when the reduction of the St. Mihiel Salient by the First American Army began on the morning of that day.

The Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment (Light) celebrated their eleventh anniversary, as the Infantry School News is entering its eighth year of service to the services.

A brief history of the second Battalion, First Tank Regiment, (Light) follows:

When American Forces appeared on the Western front in the late World War the Tank had no place in the organization of our combat units. The Allies, however were convinced that Tanks were essential to the success of our cause. Acting upon their advices the War Department ordered the immediate organization of a Tank Corps.

A Chief of Tank Corps was appointed, and a tentative site for the Tank Maneuver ground, in Boise de Amour south of Langres, on the Langres-Dijon Road, was selected, on December 29, 1917.

On the 8th, 9th and 11th of January 1918, twenty-one (21) Lieutenants, Coast Artillery Corps, and two (2) Lieutenants, from the First Division reported at Tank Headquarters, at Langres. In February 1918, volunteers of enlisted men for Tank Service were selected to form the Light Companies. These were organized on February 17, 1918 and began their special training at St. Goesmes, France. At that time two (2) American Officers were at the Renault Works in Paris studying the construction and design of Tanks. These officers and enlisted men comprised our original Tank Corps in France.

On March 23, 1918, ten (10) Renault Tanks were purchased from the French Government, and used in the training of this small unit.

The original designation of this Battalion (with the exception of Company "E," (Heavies), was the 326th Battalion. Later, the unit was redesignated the 344th Battalion.

Company "E," of this unit, which is the Heavy Tank Company, was organized in April 1918. It was composed of volunteers from the 65th Engineers. They were equipped at Camp Meade, Maryland, and trained at Warem, England. Here they were designated as the 301st Battalion Tank Corps.

Among the major engagements participated in by parent organizations of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment (Light) were St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne for the Light Companies and the Somme Offensive for the Heavy Company.

The reduction of the St. Mihiel Salient by the First American Army began on the morning of September 12th, 1918. In this battle, the 344th Tank Battalion, now designated at the 2nd Battalion, 1st Tank Regiment (Light), received its baptism of fire. It was therefore fitting that the unit select September 12th, as the Battalion Birthday to be celebrated annually as Organization Day.

Program for the day follows:

Invocation—Chaplain John R. Wright.
Selection—24th Infantry Band.
Address—Col. Daniel G. Berry.
Selection—24th Infantry Band.
Historical Notes—Major Sereno E. Brett.
Star Spangled Banner—24th Infantry Band.

Entertainment stunt contests by companies:

Leap frog race, monkey and crab race, nail driving contest, centipede race, bindfold race, sack race.

12:00 Noon, Organization Day Dinner at Company Messes.

The results of the organization day athletic events yesterday morning follow:

Leap frog race, won by Company "E," prize 1 carton cigarettes.

Centipede race won by Company "E," prize 1 carton cigarettes.

Monkey and crab race won by Headquarters Company, prize 1 carton cigaretes.

Blindfold race won by Pvt. Joffrien, Hdq. Co., prize, movi ecoupon book.

Sack race won by Cpl. Carlyon, Co. "F," prize movie coupon book.

Nail driving contest won by Pfc. Kleckly, Hdk. Co., prize movie coupon book.

Entertainment stunt won by Comuany "E," prize six victrola records.

GENERAL KING IN WASHINGTON

General Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, is at present in Washington on duty in connection with the Classification board.

HOUSING AND RECEPTION COMMITTEE HARD AT WORK

The housing and reception committee holding forth at the Ralston hotel are at present working at high speed, due to the rapid influx of students.

AT THE MOVIES

SEPT. 13 to SEPT. 20, INCL.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 13

"MY MAN," starring the one and only Fanny Brice of Biegfield Folly fame in a gorgeous Broadway revue. It is a sensational and glamorous story of a girl's rise from tenement shadows to Broadway lights. A tense drama so simple and intimate you could swear it happened to yourself—so powerful it's sure to thrill you—so tender it will make you cry—so human it will make you roar with laughter. See how this girl of the slums won the hearts of millions after she lost the heart of her man.

"Back to the Soil." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 73."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 14

"THE PRIDE OF THE PAWNEE," starring Tom Tyler and Frankie Darro in a western thriller. It is a story of the Pony Express in the days of the "Forty-Niners," and how a Wells-Fargo detective copes with rengenade bandits. A beautiful love story is woven into the background of adventure and heroism. Don't miss Tom's best picture.

"OpenSpaces." Juvenile.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 15

"THE IRON MASK,"—Douglas Fairbanks, in a super-special sequel to the "Three Musketeers," supported by a cast of screen favorites, breathes life into the role of Dumas' historic "..'Artagnan." See this magnificent portrayal of the "Three Musketeers" " efforts to save the crown during those tempestuous days in strife-torn Seventeenth Century

"M. G. M. News No. 7."

MONDAY, SEPT. 16

"TRENT'S LAST CASE," starring Raymond Griffith with Raymond Hatton, Marceline Day, Donald Crisp and Lawrence Gray in a mystery melodrama with strong, sustained love interest upon which the entire story revolves. The fiendish crippled husband, misconstrues his wife's affection for his secretary, and makes plans to destroy both. The development of the plot will freeze you to the marrow. This is a splendid mystery picture.

"Jungle Goddess No. 3."

TUESDAY, SEPT. 17

"TWO WEEKS OFF," starring Dorothy Mackail with Jack Mulhall for the last time together in a lively comedy romance. Arevacation romances real love affairs? Dorothy seems to think so, for she gets the "brass" ring and a plumber husband in just "two weeks." Don't miss this hilarious comedy—if you do, it means you have lost a real vacation right on the screen.

"Fall In." Cameo.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18

"NO DEFENSE," co-starring Monte Blue and Mae McAvoy which combines love and business in an entrancing tale of Boston and the Far West. Mae pays a man a nickle to spank her, and he did, and she falls in love with this construction foreman of her dad's. But soon a number of events bring her castle of cards tumbling down about her ears, and plunge her into the depths of despair. You will enjoy seeing how affairs work out.

"M. G. M. News No. 8."

THURSDAY, SEPT. 19

"SYNTHETIC SIN," starring the bewitching Colleen Moore as a good little bad girl, of the Great White Way. She gets mixed up in a gang war—and thinks it is great fun, until the piper called for his pay. Don't miss the snappiest, happiest, merriest picture ever made by the screen's most popular star.

"Screen Snapshots No. 1."

FRIDAY, SEPT. 20

"DIVORCE MADE EASY," starring Douglas MacLean with Marie Prevost in an out-and-out parlor-bedroom-and-bath farce comedy. It cleverly portrays the hilarious happenings with an unhappy bride and groom who call in the boy-friend to arrange a painless separation. Just for fun, come and see how to get unhooked easily—you won't be sorry to learn how it's done, though you don't want a divorce.

"A Lad and His Lamp." Fables.

"Pathe News No. 75."

AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
of Hartford, Conn.
WOODSON HOCKER
Phone 2956 Columbus

ROADS AND AREAS CLOSED

During the week September 9-14, 1929, the following roads and areas will be closed due to range firing:

Monday and Tuesday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry Woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time—1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Wednesday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time 5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

Thursday and Friday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. All roads and trails leading into the 23rd Infantry Woods and the area of those woods will be closed. Time—1:00 P. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Saturday: All roads and areas south of the Blue and Gray Road, Cloverleaf Road and First Division Road from the Sightseeing Road (exclusive) to the Cusseta Road (exclusive). Time—5:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.

RIDING HORSES AVAILABLE AT INF. SCHOOL STABLES

The principal bridle paths and trails north of the Blue and Gray Road and First Division Road have recently been cleared, improved and remarked with a system of numerals for the convenience of the members of the garrison who enjoy horse back riding.

A map is posted at the Infantry School Stables showing the present principal trails and paths with their markings and distances.

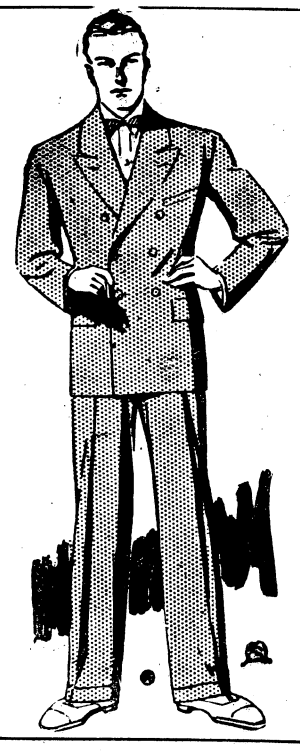
On and after September 5th horses for pleasure riding are available at the Infantry School Stables Wednesday and Saturday afternoons from 1:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M., and on Sunday mornings from 8:00 A. M. to 11:30 A. M.

TRAFFIC

Lumpkin Road is undergoing repairs and is closed from Outpost No. 1 to Vibbert Avenue.

Until further orders Sigerfoos Road is designated a two-way road. Vehicles going to Russ Pool will use the road west thereof, namely: North to Ingersoll Street, thence east between Main Theatre and Motor Transport Shops.

Chiropody
FOOT SPECIALIST
All lines of Beauty Culture
ALLEN'S
1221 Muscogee Club Bldg.
Phone 1784
Registered and approved shoppe



IT IS A PLEASURE

to welcome the students of the 1929-1930 class to Fort Benning. It has been a happy privilege to have served the permanent personnel for the past year.

We are equipped to handle speedily and correctly anything you may have in Dry Cleaning and Tailoring.

We call for and deliver.

(24th Inf.)

FORT BENNING DRY CLEANERS

Phone 465—Ring 2

For economical Transportation

CHEVROLET

a Six in the price range of the four!

We take pleasure in welcoming the new officers and their families to Columbus and Fort Benning.

Since the establishment of the Infantry School we have been serving both student and permanent personnel. During this time there has always existed between us a warm friendship and pleasant relations.

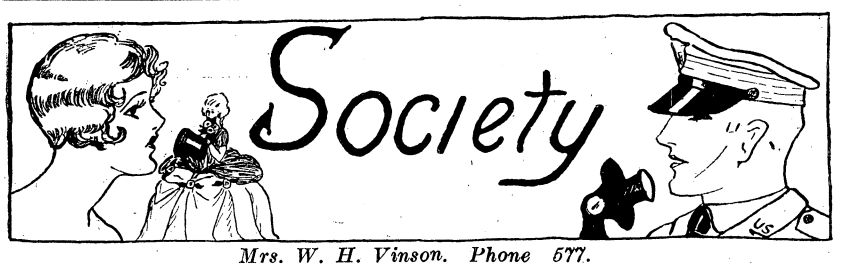
During your tour of duty at the world's greatest Infantry School for the coming year you will find us desirous of serving you in every way possible, and cordially invite you to visit us at any time while in the city.

Ask For Demonstration

Georgia Auto Exchange

1213 1st Ave. Phone 1132 Columbus, Ga.

W. A. NEWSOME, Ft. Benning Sales Rep.



Mrs. W. H. Vinson. Phone 577.

The bride's table was beautifully appointed, the cover being an imported cloth, elaborately embroidered and trimmed with panels and medallions of filet lace. In the center stood the lovely bride's cake handsomely embossed with roses and valley lilies which later in the evening the bride cut with her husband's sabre after the manner of army brides from time immemorial.

On either side of the cake, silver candle sticks held white tapers, and silver bon bon dishes held mints in dainty pastel shades.

From bowls embedded in flowers, punch was served throughout the evening.

About two hundred and fifty guests extended congratulation and best wishes to the happy couple at this time.

Later in the evening the bride changed her wedding outfit for a going away ensemble of wood brown, with hat, shoes, bag and gloves of harmonizing shades. They left for a honeymoon in "The Land of The Sky" making picturesque Asheville their headquarters.

Every day for the past two weeks has been filled with parties for Miss Harriette Wells and Miss Theodosia Hocker, popular brides of this week.

On Wednesday afternoon, September the fourth, Miss Peggy Lampke was hostess at bridge honoring Miss Theodosia Hocker and Miss Katherine Carr of Washington, D. C., who is the house guest of Miss Lampkin. The bridge prizes went to Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer, Miss Nancy Ross and Mrs. John S. Roosma. After the games, Miss Hocker was given a shower of handkerchiefs.

Thursday morning Miss Theodosia Hocker entertained at bridge honoring Miss Harriette Wells.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Malcolm Kammerer was hostess at bridge followed by a linen shower at which Miss Wells was guest of honor.

Mrs. Jesse Ladd honored Misses Harriette Wells and Theodosia Hocker with a delightful bridge party at her home in Austin Loop on Friday afternoon. There were four tables of players, and Miss Peggy Lampkin won first prize, an engagement pad, Miss Katherine Carr, second, a double deck of cards with score pad. Miss Nancy Ross, the consolation, a set of novelty score cards. After the games, the brides were given cunning little suitcases, filled with handkerchiefs. Then a salad course was served with cake and iced tea.

On Saturday evening Colonel and Mrs. Charles Willard entertained at a most charming dance at the Polo Club at which Miss Harriette Wells and Lieutenant Le Grande Diller shared honors with Midshipment Willard and Hillis and Mr. Charles Willard, Jr.

The club house was attractively decorated with smilax, palms,ferns and cut flowers.

Excellent music was furnished by the Twenty-fourth Infantry orchestra. The bride elect was presented a handsome fitted bag as a memoir of this occasion.

On Monday, Mrs. John S. Roosma was hostess at bridge in honor of Miss Wells. There were four tables of players and Miss wells won high score prize, a pair of chiffon hose, Mrs. E. H. Vernon, second, a pair of hose, and as honoree, Miss Wells was given a bottle of French Perfume. After the game. a salad course was served with sandwiches and punch.

* * *

Distinctive in its beauty and elegant in its simplicity was the marriage on Wednesday evening of Miss Harriette Alpha Wells, only daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Harry A. Wells, to Lieutenant Le Grande Albert Diller, which was solemnized at Trinity Episcopal Church in Columbus, Dr. S. Alston Wragg performing the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of hundreds of interested friends.

The stately church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and garlands of smilax used as a background for pedestal baskets of whites asters and Ascension lilies. The color bearers, representatives of the groom's regiment, the 29th Infantry, with which he has served several years, stood just within the chancel rail. Bouquets of white asters tied with frilly bows of tulle marked the reserved seats.

While the guests assembled, Mr. Edwin Voudereau rendered a beautiful programme of prenuptial music and immediately before the ceremony Mrs. Leonard R. Boyd sang "When Song is Sweet and "I Did Not Know."

To the strains of Lohengrins wedding march, the ushers entered in pairs and took their places near the altar. They were: Lieutenants Thomas J. Wells, Charles Coates, William M. Breckenridge, John G. Van Houten, Thomas Moran, Maury Cralle, John P. Doidge, Dudley G. Strickler.

Then came Miss Onnolee Diller, of Syracuse, N. Y., sister of the groom and the only bridesmaid. She wore a beautiful frock of pink starched chiffon made with tight fitting bodice attached to a bouffant skirt with fashionable uneven hem line. With this she wore a picture hat of pink horsehair trimmed with a flat bow of pink satin ribbon, and her shoes were pink satin. Her flowers were pink and lavender asters and swansonia and were tied with green ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Sue Brandt, entered alone. Her frock was of green starched chiffon fashioned like that of the bridesmaid. She wore a large green horsehair hat which dropped gracefully in a bow of self-colored ribbon and her shoes were green satin. Her flowers were pink asters and swansonia tied with pink ribbons.

The bride, lovely in her girlish youth which was accented by the daintiest of wedding dresses, entered with her father, Colonel Harry A. Wells by whom she was given in marriage. Her exquisite dress was of white tulle over ivory satin, made princess effect, the long snug bodice fastened to a full skirt of uneven lines which was finished with two flounces made of many tiny tulle ruffles. With this she wore a voluminous tulle veil which was attached to her dark hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her shoes were white crepe de chine on which were dainty lace butterflies.

She carried a gorgeous shower bouquet of Sunset roses and lilies of the valley.

At the altar she was met by the groom and his best man, Lieutenant David Drew Hedekin.

After the couple plighted their troth, they went into the inner sanctuary, where, before an altar on which tapers burned in the sacred golden candelabra, they made their vows and sealed them with the ring, that symbol of never-ending love.

When the strains of Mendelsshons wedding march sounded, the ushers formed an arch with their crossed sabres which the wedding party marched under as they left the church.

Immediately after the ceremony, Colonel and Mrs. Wells entertained at a brilliant reception and dance at the Polo Club. Garden flowers in pastel shades were most attractively used throughout the club house, while smilax, ferns, and potted plants formed the artistic background for the decorations.

The bridal party received, standing near the massive fire place. They were assisted by Colonel and Mrs. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diller of Syracuse, N. Y., parents of the groom.

Mrs. Wells wore a lovely ecru lace dress with hat and shoes of the same shade, while Mrs. Diller received in a handsome black lace and chiffon. Their flowers were shoulder bouquets of pink roses and swansonia tied with silver ribbons.

* * *

On Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock the Wells-Diller rehearsal took place and following it Colonel and Mrs. H. A. Wells entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a lovely dinner party at the Officers Club. Covers were laid for Miss Harriette Wells, Lieutenant Diller, Miss Sue Brandt, Miss Onnolee Diller, Miss Helen Young, Miss Theodosia Hocker, Lieutenants David Hedekin, John Doidge, Tom Wells, Dudley Strickler, Maury Cralle, William Breckenridge, Thomas Moran, Charles Coates, John G. Vanhouten, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diller, Messrs. Thurlow and Everell Diller, of Syracuse, N. Y.

* * *

Mrs. Lawrence W. Young and Miss Helen Young motored from Asheville and arrived at the post on Monday afternoon. They will be joined about the middle of September by Major Young who comes from Lincoln, Nebraska where he is on duty with the National Guard. They will be at home to their friends for about two weeks at Lieutenant A. R. C. Sanders' quarters. Major and Mrs. Young have come to Benning to be present at the marriage of their daughter Helen, to Lieutenant David Drew Hedekin, which will take place early in October.

* * *

Friends of Captain Ralph B. Lovett will be interested to know that he has been quite ill for the past week at the Fort Benning hospital. As this goes to

(Additional Society on page 7.)

DRS. MILLER & DAVIS

(VETERINARIANS)

In Their New Modern Dog and Cat Hospital

"Just at the East End of 13th St. Viaduct"

1006—13th St. Phone 1313

CODE OF ETHICS

Adopted by

KINSEL & PETRI CO.

(Est. 1860)

This store subscribes to the following declarations:

1. To do our full share in promoting all things that are for the good of this community.

2. To deserve the patronage of this community by rendering service based upon the highest standards of truth and honor.

3. To earn, establish and maintain a reputation for giving maximum values.

4. To adjust promptly any cause of dissatisfaction and endeavor to make every purchaser a satisfied customer.

5. To avoid any exaggeration or misrepresentation in word or inference so that customers will never be led to expect more in goods, quality or service than we actually deliver.

6. To advise every customer in regard to each purchase as we would wish to be advised were we the purchaser.

7. To make every transaction a stone in the foundation of CONFIDENCE, without which no business can be permanently successful.
8. To endeavor to apply the principles of the GOLDEN RULE in our everyday transactions.

"Columbus' Oldest Jewelers"

1105 BROADWAY COLUMBUS

GARDEN GOSSIP

By CAPTAIN C. L. STEEL

BULBS

The subject of flowering bulbs covers such a wide territory that it cannot be treated in a single article. For this reason two articles will be devoted to bulbs, the first dealing with their culture and indoor forcing for winter flowering, and the second with the outdoor handling of spring flowering bulbs.

Nearly everyone who cares anything at all for flowers has at some time or other grown paper white narcissus in pebbles and water, but few people know that many other bulbous plants may easily be forced into winter bloom. No special equipment is needed other than that which may be obtained locally at a very low cost, and anyone by a little care and thought can have flowers blooming in his home from Thanksgiving until Easter.

All of the following bulbs can be forced for indoor blooming, where a certain variety is superior for indoor growth it is listed by name:

HYACINTHS:—Both the Roman and Dutch types force easily and may be had in nearly all colors.

POLYANTHUS NARCISSUS—The easiest of all is the Paper White, but the Soleil d'or, though a little slower, is far handsomer and its rich yellow flowers make it worth the extra time.

POETAZ NARCISSUS:—This type is a cross between the Polyanthus and Poeticus Narcissi, and though it requires more time than the Polyanthus, produces larger flowers and presents a wider range of colors. Elvira and Helios are the best.

POETICUS NARCISSUS:—These produce larger but fewer blooms then either of the above two types. Poeticus Ornatus and Poeticus Thelma are recommended.

TRUMPET NARCISSUS:—The familiar single flowered trumpets of the spring,—only one or rarely two flowers may be expected from a bulb, but the size and beauty makes up for the lack of numbers. Victoria, Emperor, Empress, Golden Spur, King Alfred and Olympia are all excellent.

CROCUS:—All do well.

TULIPS:—Only the early tulips are suitable for indoor culture. Darwin, Breeder and Cottage tulips are hard to handle indoors and frequently come blind or blight off. Of the early tulips Yellow Prince, Kaiser Kroon, Joost van Vondel, White and Pink Beauty force best.

A word here concerning the size of bulbs to buy: Get only the very best bulbs obtainable. Cheap or even second grade bulbs will not prove satisfactory for pot culture. Second size and bedding bulbs will do very well when planted out of doors, but only the first size or highest grade bulbs will succeed for indoor forcing.

Best results are obtained by growing the plants listed above in bulb fibre. A few will thrive if grown in pebbles and water, Polyanthus narcissus and hyacinths succeed fairly well, but all bloom readily if planted in fibre. This fibre is known commercially as bulb fibre and may be obtained from any bulb dealer or from most of the five and ten cent stores.

Shallow bowls, either pottery or glass, make the best receptacles. First moisten the fibre and then fill the bottom of the bowl to a depth of one to two inches. Place the bulbs on this fibre so that their tips reach to within a half inch of the rim of the bowl and fill in around and between them with moistened fibre, barely covering the tips. Press the fibre gently around the bulbs but do not make it too tight. Drain off all surplus water and put the bowls in a dark airy room or cellar.

From now on the only care needed is to see that the fibre is kept constantly moist. It must never be sodden or too wet, nor must it ever be allowed to become dry, even for a short time, as this results in the closing of the root pores and failure of the bulbs.

When good root growth has been made, that is, when top growth reaches about an inch above the surface, the bowls may be taken to the light. Watering now is very necessary. The surface of the fibre should always look moist, surplus water should be drained off by carefully turning the bowl on its side after each watering. Care must be taken not to place the bowl in an overly warm place until the buds show. As growth increases more water will be required and all the light possible in order to insure strong folliage.

Best effects are gained by planting from three to six bulbs of the same color and variety in the same bowl. Crocuses do better in shallow bowls and in clumps of twelve or more. Paper white narcissus will flower in about two months from the time the bulbs are started, while the others all take from ten weeks to three months.

After the bulbs have finished blooming they may be planted out doors. They probably will not bloom the first year after forcing but certainly will the second year and thence forth will increase in size and number each year.

Next week "Culture of Bulbs Outdoors."

PLEDGED to serve the incoming officers, it is our desire and pleasure to locate all officers in such environs as will make their stay in Columbus one of genuine pleasure.

"House Renting Our Specialty"

J. D. Thomason & Co.

Phone 585 No. 7 West 12th Street

Additional Society

(Continued from page 6.)

press his condition is somewhat improved.

* * *

Honoring Miss Theodoria Hocker and Lieutenant John P. Doidge, the young ladies of the post gave a delightful picnic and shower on Monday evening at Upatoi Beach.

* * *

All interest is centered in the marriage on Saturday of Miss Theodosia Hocker, only daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Woodson Hocker, and Lieutenant John P. Doidge of the 29th Infantry which takes place at four o'clock at the Polo Club.

* *. *

Captain and Mrs. Ernest S. Barker and Ernest, Jr., are home now after a delightful leave spent in Washington, New York, New Jersey, Niagara Falls and other places of interest. While they were in that vicinity they motored to Camp Perry and were guests of Captain and Mrs. Alan Jones for several days.

* * *

The visiting golfers in the recent golf tournament were tendered a dance at the Polo Club on Thursday evening. During an intermission the prizes were distributed to the victors.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. E. M. S. Steward and little Nancy are being cordially welcomed again in our midst after spending several months in Washington, D. C., and Atlantic City. They are at home in Wynnton at 1336 Wildwood Drive.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. M. S. Stayer returned Monday after having spent the summer away. Colonel Stayer at Culver Camp and Mrs. Stayer with relatives in Huntington, West Virginia.

Captain and Mrs. Ralph Pearson have returned to their home in Columbus after a gorgeous summer at Newport.

* * *

Colonel and Mrs. Calvin P. Titus reached Fort Benning on Wednesday of last week after a trip to San Antonio where they went to be present at the wedding of their son, Lieutenant Winston Titus and Miss Martha Lina Fisher which was an important social event taking place at the First Presbyterian Church in San Antonio at eight o'clock on August 30th.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. Harrell Strickland are being congratulated on the birth of of a son at the station hospital on Saturday morning.

* * *

One of the landmarks of Fort Benning is about to pass on—the Vinsons have orders for the Philippines. Lieutenant Vinson began his ninth consecutive year of service at this post in September. There are only two officers who have been here as long as he—Lieutenant Reed of the Tanks, and Lieutenant Brandhorst of the 29th Infantry. Mrs. Brandhorst and Mrs. Privett of the 29th are the only ladies at Fort Benning who can boast a longer residence here than Mrs. Vinson.

* * *

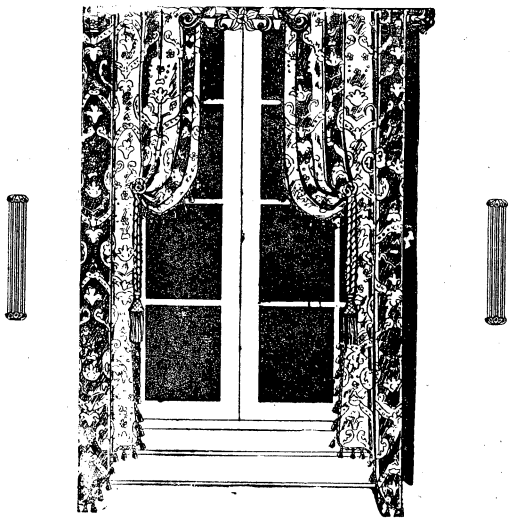
Captain and Mrs. C. M. Ulsaker have returned from a most interesting tour of historic Virginia and scenic western North Carolina.

* * *

Captain and Mrs. C. H. Perry and Miss Verna Perry are visiting in Virginia and will motor to New England before their return to this garrison.

* * *

Lieutenant and Mrs. Malcolm R. Kammerer motored to Atlanta where they spent the week-end. They were joined there by Mrs. L. W. Young and Miss Helen Young, and after shopping on Saturday and Monday returned late Monday afternoon.



Our Drapery Department Will Please You!

Good Taste—Varied Selection—Fair Prices have always made up popular with Fort Benning personnel.

WINDOW SHADES

of every Style and Size Carried in Stock

Max Rosenberg Co.

1120 Broadway

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS

VOL. VII. September 13, 1929 No. 52

The Infantry School News is published every Friday without expense to the government by the office of the Public Information Officer, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Printed by the Standard Printing Company at the down town office of the Infantry School News, Eighth St. and Ninth Ave., Columbus, Ga. Phones 68-69.

Brig.-Gen. Campbell King ..... Commandant
First Lieut. Dorr Hazlehurst, Infantry ..... Acting Editor
Bernard H. Cowan ..... Exchange Editor
David Warren Lantz ..... Circulation Manager
Bernard B. Swayze ..... Sports Editor
Mrs. W. H. Vinson ..... Society Editor

Subscriptions: $1.50 per year. Single copies, 5 cents.

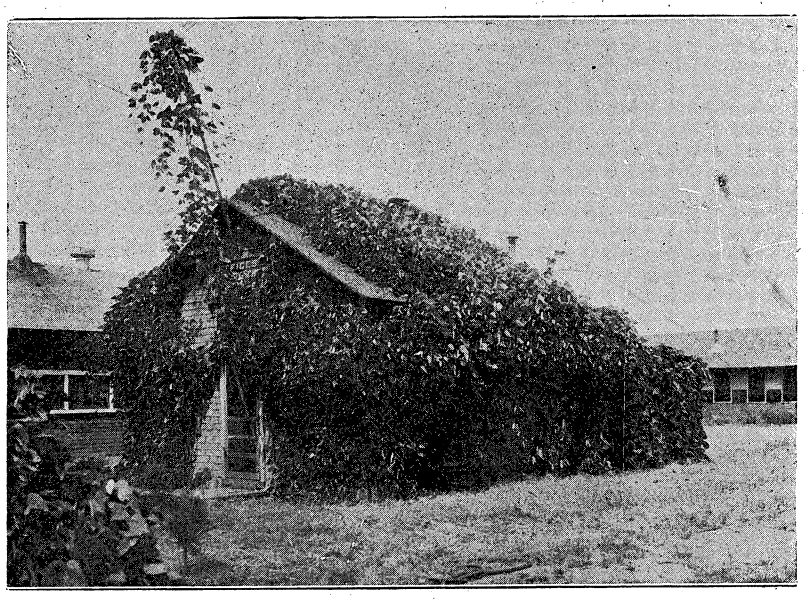
Advertising rates will be quoted on request. The Infantry School News reserves the right to classify, edit or reject any advertising matter.

All checks should be mailed to the Infantry School News, Fort Benning, Ga.

Entered as second class mail matter, April 12, 1924, at the post office at Fort Benning, Ga., under the act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103. act of October 3. 1917 authorized August 27, 1924.

"The Infantry School looks with pride and affection upon her sons. Go forth and bear her standards valiantly; and may you win that success and happiness that she ardently wishes for each and every one of you."—Gen. King.

FORMER HOME OF INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS



OUR SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Infantry School News today, despite the fact that it is Friday, the thirteenth ,is proud to announce its seventh anniversary. Starting in September of 1922, as some of the old timers on the post remember, as the Fort Benning News, with not any too bright a future, and with practically nothing but local distribution, the present Infantry School News reaches every Infantry regiment in the army in addition to numerous subscribers throughout the world.

In addition to being the official mouthpiece of the world's largest Infantry School, the policy of this paper is to foster and to maintain the proud self respecting fraternity for which the Infantry is noted and further to weld together the various individuals and units of the other branches of the service stationed at this garrison, into one harmonious family.

We may not have accomplished everything which we have hoped to do but with a full realization of the boundless possibilities of a garrison newspaper at this particular post, and with the cordial cooperation being given at present by our friends, both civilian and military, you may be assured that for the coming year you will have an INFANTRY SCHOOL NEWS to meet your every expectation.

Every means should be taken to attach the soldier to his colors. This is best accomplished by showing consideration and respect to the old soldier. His pay likewise should increase with his length of service. It is the height of injustice not to pay a veteran more than a recruit.—Napoleon LX.

The tanks constitute an armored infantry element possessing protective properties that enable it to close with entrenched defensive groups protected against the effects of ordinary infantry fire. Its essential mission is to assist in the progression of the infantry by overcoming or neutralizing resistances or breaking down obstacles that check the infantry advance.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

By MAJOR EDGAR ERSKINE HUME, Medical Inspector

NOTES FOR NEWLY ARRIVED PERSONNEL

The following notes are published for the information of newly arriving officers and other members of the command, those who live in Columbus as well as those having quarters on the post.

WATER SUPPLY: The post water supply is satisfactory from a health standpoint and the new plant, now completed, insures an adequate amount. Water from other than the regular post supply should not be drunk unless it has been examined at the laboratory and found potable. The city water supply of Columbus is excellent. It is free from disease producing organisms and is very soft.

FOODS: All food products of animal origin sold at the Commissary and Post Exchange are examined by the Veterinarian. The dairy products sold on the post are from inspected sources and are believd to be safe. All persons are advised not to use products from other sources without definite knowledge as to their quality.

MILK: Only Pasteurized milk is permitted to be sold on the post and it is advised that those not living on the post avoid the use of unpasteurized milk.

ICE CREAM: Ice cream from other than pasteurized milk and cream should not be used and only such ice cream is authorized to be sold on the post.

VACCINATION: All vaccinations and other protective immunizations are done by the Attending Surgeon.

a. Smallpox: Smallpox occurs fairly frequently in this vicinity. Vaccination is therefore mighty important. All persons should be re-vaccinated as soon as practicable after arrival here unless vaccinated within the past twelve months.

b. Typhoid Fever: Typhoid fever is of common occurence in this locality. All persons between the ages of 2 and 45 should receive the prophylactic treatment. Two courses of treatment within three years intervening are required of those in the military service and recommended for all others.

c. Diptheria: Parents are urged to have their children tested (Schick Test) to see if they are susceptible to diptheria. If the test shows that they are not, no further attention need be paid to this disease. If the test be postive, the child is susceptible to this dangerous and often fatal disease, and should be protected. This is quickly and painlessly done by administration of protective serum. Practically all children under the age of five are susceptible so that it is usual to give them the protective serum without previous test.

HOOK WORM: The soil in this vicinity is contaminated by the eggs of hook worm and other parasites. The worms gain entrance to the body through the soles of the feet, causing what is known as "ground itch." On this account it is inadvisable to allow children to go barefooted.

EXAMINATION OF SERVANTS: Examination by the Attending Surgeon is required of all servants prior to their being given permits to work on the post. The examination is designed to protect families against communicable diseases. The examinations are made by the Attending Surgeon on the post from 9:00 to 9:30 A. M., on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Servants of military personnel not living on the post are also entitled to such examination, which is made by the Attending Surgeon in Columbus.

DOGS: Protective vaccination against Rabies (Hydrophobia) is required of all dogs on the post. This is done at the Veterinary Hospital. If any person be bitten by a dog the animal should be taken to the Veterinary Hospital for observation. It should, on no account, be killed prior to such examination, as such action might prevent the detection of possible rabies in the animal. The same regulations apply to cats.

SNAKE BITES: Protective serum to be used in treating any person bitten by a poisonous snake is kept at the Station Hospital.

MEDICAL ATTENTION: The office hours of the Attending Surgeon at the Post are daily, except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, from 8:00 A. M. to 10:30 A. M. and 1:00 to 2:00 P. M., Saturdays 8:00 to 10:30 A. M. His office is located on the ground floor of the new hospital. Phone 126. Vaccinations of women and children: Mondays and Saturdays 9:00 to 10 00 A. M. Children's Clinic: Wednesday 9:00 A. M. Physical examination of Colored Servants: Tuesdays and Thursday 9:00 to 10:00 A. M. Requests for visits to persons unable to come to the hospital for treatment should, if possible, be made before 9:00 A. M.

The office of the Attending Surgeon in Columbus is on the third floor (Rooms 304-306) of the Doctor's Building at 1310 Broadway. Telephone 255 (Columbus.) His office hours are: Monday to Saturday inclusive, 11 00 to 12:00; Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridayss 2:00 to 3:00 (in addition); Sundays 10:00 to 11:00; Wednesday afternoon reserved for children's clinic. The nurse is in attendance daily except Saturdays Sundays and holidays from 8 00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. and on Saturdays from 8:00 A. M. to noon.

In emergencies arising on the post, call Telephone 572 at any hour. In Columbus call the office of the Attending Surgeon (Telephone 255) during office hours. At other times call Columbus 4173 (White Aid Station.)

DENTAL CLINIC: Appointments may be made by Telephone, Branch 542.

HEALTH NOTES: Each week this column is devoted to topics relating to health and the prevention of disease. Suggestions as to subjects to be discussed are welcomed.

HEALTH OFFICER: The Medical Inspector of the post corresponds to the Health Officer of a city and is at all times ready to give advise on matters relating to sanitation and the prevention of diseases. Telephone Branch 27.

(Cut this out and save for reference.)

The employment of all infantry weapons is normally combined in the battalion. The battalion, re-enforced by infantry cannon, and in the proper case, by tanks, constitutes the complete unit of infantry combat, capable of assignment to a mission requiring the application of all infantry means of action.

The operative mobility of infantry can be increased by the employment of motor transportation.

The leading qualifications which should distinguish an officer selected for the head of the staff are, to know the country thoroughly; to be able to conduct a reconnaissance with skill; to superintend the transmission of orders promptly; to lay down the most complicated movements intelligently, but in few words and with simplicity.—Napoleon LXXIV.

BRONZE TABLETS DEDICATED RECENTLY

(Continued from page 3.)

work will continue to be undertaken by the Daughters of the American Revolution?" It is a privilege to always answer that query.

There is one section of our Constitution where we, as an organization, pledge "To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American Independence by the acquisition and protection of Historic Spots, and the erection of monuments, by the encouragement of historic research in relation to the Revolution."

We have assembled here today, this sixth day of September, to again honor the memory of General Lafayette, an apostel of Liberty, a son of two Republics, and to again refresh our minds concerning the brilliant hero, as touching upon the part he played in making us free.

A Historian has said that, "Providence has given birth at nearly the same time to two men Lafayette and Napoleon, and has placed them face to face, as if to offer to our generation two different types of greatness."

Just as at the two extremities of Paris, there are two monuments erected, one which glorifies the grandeur of absolute power, and the other which lifts to the clouds, the genius of Liberty, so standing togther they appear to challenge and say to France: "CHOOSE." In turn she has paid homage to one and the other, believing that she could unite and blend these two opposing faiths; but the force of events and truth have protested against them, and it will be necessary one day to make a choice; and when that day comes the memory of Lafayette will once more be revived. —We, his American friends, have long since visioned his superiority, and rightly estimated his greatness. To France we say, that, even though you pronounce him one of the first men of his time, still, you have not done him justice; try him by that test which he sought in vain to stimulate the vulgar and selfish spirit of Napoleon; turn back your eyes upon the records of the time, summon from the creation of the world to this day, the mighty dead of every age and many climes, and where among the races of merely mortal men shall one be found who, as a benefactor of mankind, shall claim precedence of Marquis de Lafayette?

When America was entering the struggle for her early independence, Lafayette, then a young man of only 19 years, felt impelled to cross the sea, and enlist in so great a cause, exclaiming, "from the very first news, my heart was enrolled." His experience as an officer in the Revolution, coming as it did at an impressionable age, affected profoundly his life as an idealist, rather than a practical reformer. Many years there after, as time advanced, America's admiration for this Frenchman deepened and mellowed into a perpetual friendship, and in the spring of 1824 President Monroe urged Lafayette to visit the United States, and placed at his disposal the frigate; "North Carolina."

He expressed at once his great appreciation of this cordial invitation, and although declining the use of the proffered vessel, accompanied by his son George, sailed and arrived in New York in August, 1824.

It was the following month of March that this much feted visitor finally reached the Southern States, and at this time, passed this way.

The visit of the venerable Lafayette excited the patriotic fervor of the people to the highest point of enthusiasm. His tour was like the march of a triumphal hero.

Down the First Division road to the junction with the Lumpkin road, and thence directly west across the 29th Infantry area and on toward the Bradley farm, there once stretched the old "FEDERAL ROAD" authorized by an act of Congress in 1805, opened as a bridle path in 1807, and completed as a main traffic route in 1811.

This road was the main emigrant route for settlers moving Westward from the Atlantic seaboard toward the lower Mississippi valley.

Along this road in the spring of 1825 came General Lafayette, then the only surviving General of the American Revolution.

Upon the one hundredth anniversary of this great pilgrimage, hearing that this soldier of France, who volunteered in the cause of American Liberty, had crossed the site of this reservation, where Americans are now being trained to lead citizens in defense of those liberties he fought to secure, the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution approached the Benning authoriites with a view to securing the erection of a suitable marker.

The results are before you; and we cannot but pause at this moment and express again appreciation to the able Alabama Historian, Peter A. Brannon, for the authentic data covering this local history. It is with pleasure we acknowledge this courtesy, for the mother of this learned Historian is an active member of one of our Columbus chapters.

At a crossing of the Chattahoochee hard by, Lafayette and his official escorts, were met at the river-bank by a convoy of two or three hundred persons, composed of the militia, several prominent citizens and numbers of Indians.

He was greeted by Chilly McIntosh, the son of the Indian General, William McIntosh, assisted by fifty other Indian warriors. After the formal introductions, the festivities of the day closed with a magnificent game of ball play. After watching the Indians in this exciting game, many Revolutionary soldiers were presented to the famous Lafayette. He left at mid-night of the some day, to resume his journey to the coast.

Next in order came the presentation of the second tablet by the local members of the Society, in the name of all Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution.

In searching for data covering this particular history, little could be found; but we do know that here was located an ancient village called "Kashata," now referred to as Cusseta. This Peacetown was the capital of an Indian nation of the Lower Creek Confederacy, as late as the year 1799.

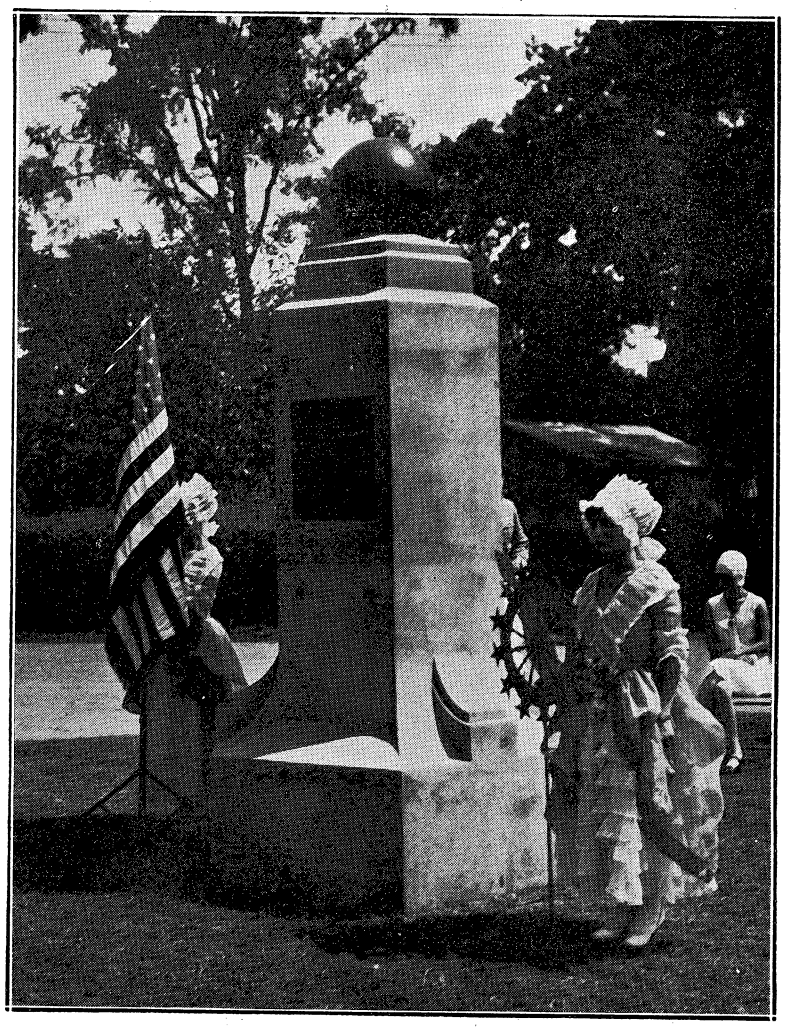
On a plateau which runs back some few hundred yards to a rolling bluff-like formation, was the white "SQUARE" of the town, and this was plainly discernible as late as the year 1830. It is of interest to know that, the General's headquarters mark the exact place of this ancient Indian Capital.

This village was peopled with tribes of peaceful Indians, who enjoyed life, amidst these rolling hills and mirrored streams. Then later came the Muscogees, a tribe more powerful and warlike. These Muscogees exterminated the weaker nations, took possession of their properties, and here made their abode, till in turn came the "White man, The Pale-face," who drove the last of these "Red men" across the untrodden plains, to the broad Mississippi. * * *

The third and last tablet is placed to commemorate an event known as the "Battle of Hitchiti." This was fought on the Benning reservation, and the only battle ever having been staged upon this ground.

How true it is, that, "the world's history is a divine poem of which the history of every nation is a canto, and every man a word."

General King, in behalf of the Columbus Daughters of the American Revolution, and every Georgia Daughter as well, I, by virtue of my office as State Regent, pray you, accept these tablets of bronze, imbedded in their permanent abode; and may the inspiration that prompted the erection of each one, prove in some slight degree, a possession of meritorious value.



Miss Carrie Dudley, flag bearer, and Miss Cornelia Gillis, emblem bearer, at the dedication exercises on last Friday morning.

INF. RIFLE TEAM MEMBERS WIN PLACES

The Infantry Rifle team that trained at Fort Benning in the late spring and early summer, is making the grade at Camp Perry, so the latest special communications to the NEWS show.

Already, many Fort Benning men have shown near the top, if not on top in several of the matches. The competition is much keener than previously, there being more contestants than there have been in many years. Then too, the individual matches are taking on more color, as the civilian teams are becoming more anxious to down the service teams.

At present the Marine Corps team has a slight edge on the Infantry, they having won more matches than their nearest opponent, yet there is the big counter left yet to fire. Each day as the shooting progresses, the contestants are becoming more proficient, and the high places are harder and harder to get. Many matches have resulted in more than five men making the same score for high man, and the place was alloted to one man by other means. In the lower places, as many as a dozen have tied for the same place.

The table below will give some idea as to how the members of the Infantry Rifle team are holding their own with the rest of the pack:

Note: The places shown taken here are the reespective places of the members of the Infantry Team as compared to other service entries.

Chemical Warfare Match
100 possible, 328 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Lt. M. K.Martens, 4th Inf.....	1	94
Capt. M. L. Broderick, Inf.....	2	94
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf...	3	89

President's Match
150 possible, 1510 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Corp. C. L. Umberger, 23rd Inf.	2	146
Sgt. E. Bockell, 4th Inf.....	36	140
Pfc. M. Yelovitch, 18th Inf.....	38	140
Capt. M. L. Broderick, Inf.....	41	140
Corp. M. L. Moore, 4th Inf.....	48	139

Scott Match, 75 possible, 776 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf....	24	73
Capt. K. L. Berry, Inf.....	27	73
Sgt. S. Bradford, 24th Inf.....	40	73
Corp. M. L. Moore, 4th Inf.....	44	73

Marine Corps Cup Match
100 possible, 1385 entries

Name	Pl.	Score
Lt. G. B. Gilbreath, 29th Inf...	6	98
Capt. W. B. Wilson, 24th Inf....	8	98
Capt. R. O. Bassett, 29th Inf....	13	97
Sgt. McW. James, 24th Inf.....	30	96
Corp. G. S. Schowalter, 24th Inf.	39	96

GRADUATING SWIMMING MEET AT RUSS POOL

We have heard of many kinds of school commencements, but we learn with wide eyes and open ears of the commencement exercises of the Russ Pool Swimming School. Being unique in its rarity and important in its meaning, we must pause here to give it a boost along the road to success and achievement.

Lieutenant Wayne C. Smith, who writes the column appearing in the NEWS under the caption "Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool," announces that he has brought his classes at the pool up to the standard to where they will graduate from his school, and go out into deep water of their own accord. This means that many of those who have not enjoyed the pleasures that swimming affords, will be able in the future to step out with the best and be in on all the fun.

It is planned to hold the Graduating Exercises for the school one week from Saturday, and much fun is promised.

In connection with the exercises, there will be what is called a Graduating Swimming Meet. All ladies and children of the post who have received tutelage from Lieutenant Smith and his assistants will take part in the meet.

SPORTS

Bernard B. Swayze, Sport Editor

AS YOU LIKE IT CARD MARKED BY FIVE KAYOES

Referee Stops Final Tilt in Sixth—Parker Downs Thomas

Ginger Jernigan settled an old question between the Benning fans and those of Columbus when he hammered his way to a technical knock-out over Dapper Danny Davis, the 140 pound pride of the 29th Infantry and Fort Benning, last Tuesday night at the Doughboy Stadium arena.

The card throughout was marked with knockouts, five of the scheduled eight bouts having bleary-eyed endings. Both the final and semi-final bouts ended in kayoes, which muchly upset the advance dope that had been peddled about by those "in on the know." That just goes to prove that we can believe about half that is whispered about.

Jernigan seemed in the best condition that he has shown since his advent into the Benning ring battles. Davis, however, lacked none of that pep and go that makes a fight card that which the publicity vendors advocate. He was in fine shape, stepping out and trying to solve the riddle as to how best to hit his adversary, but to little avail did all this give him.

For four rounds, Davis sacrified all the points that were awarded, in order to fathom the shifty Columbus lad's attack and defense, but was a little late in starting his onslaught of rights and lefts for which he is famous. The fifth round was fast and furious, giving the fans little time to take their breaths. Three times he had the lengthy lad on the ropes and forcing him to slug. Danny got the best of these slugfests, as is usually the case when he can get someone to slug with him. He was looking strong at the bell, and many forecasts were made about the outcome of the fight.

The sixth round found Danny just as willing to get in and slug it out with the Columbus pride, in fact it seemed that he had the best of this round, until he was forced into a corner, and there is where Mr. Jernigan shot over that dangerous left hook of his, landing squarely on Danny's left ear.

The blow was terriffic, and it seemed that Danny would go down for the count, but the dapper man never goes down until he is knocked down. The blow pained him so that he had to tell the referee to stop the fight, as it had his head buzzing and the pain in his ear was unbearable.

Jernigan went home with the satisfaction of having a well pleased gathering of Columbus fans following him, while Danny's followers were proud in the knowledge that they had backed a fighter who will give his all, and no stalling allowed. Danny asks and gives no quarter. It was just the case of a hard blow that landed in the wrong place at the right time.

* * *

In the semi-final, Doubtin Thomas and Blondy Parker had the making of what promised to be one of the best fights ever seen at Fort Benning, when Blondy stopped Tommy in the third round of their scheduled eight rounds.

The first round of this scrap was rather slow and uninteresting, with the count being about even. The second round found Thomas in an aggressive mood, and coming in and hunting an opening for that dangerous right that has made him a name.

He was slashing and bluffing the Blond M. P. about the ring in a way to draw the approving remarks from the fight fans that a good scrapper always does. He took the round by an undisputable margin.

The third round promised to be a repetition of the second, with Tommy leading, but Parker resorted to counter punches, that rsulted, in the middle of the round, in a neat right going to the Doubtin' one's jaw, striking him to his knees, but Thomas was up before the count started, and back like the wildcat that he is. Blondy, however, countered his lead and shot a powerful right to the button and it was curtains for the semi-final bout of the evening.

* * *

Corn Griffin, heavy Tanker, was in the best physical condition of his career Tuesday night, and looked like a champion. He went into Bobcat Morris with a will and gusto that will not be denied at any time.

The first round was slow and uninteresting, with the Tanker probably taking the most points, however few they may have been, but when the second round opened, Corn was there with the go and punch that stops many fights before the sounding of the ever-welcome bell. This fellow Morris was a tough egg, though and Corn had to return to his corner to await the dawn of another round.

Corn had brought much claret trickling from the nasal chambers of his opponent in the second frame, and came back in the third to mix it to the bitter end. He was slashing and jabbing with such vehemence that no one could have stood up under the punishment. In the last quarter of that round, he waded in anew, after the fans had thought that he had about put out all the reserve strength that he had, and piled Mr. Morris for the maximum count, and left the ring with a victorious smile.

* * *

The doctors had pronounced Kid Pecot unable to fight, due to having overtrained, but his opponent, Krafty Kline, consented to fight Seaweed Wilson, as the substitute.

The fight was interesting from start to finish, but neither lad took the nod in the end Captain MacDonald, the referee, calling it a draw.

* * *

Tut Tut Taylor substituted for Wilson, who had substituted for Pecot, to fight Young Sewell of Columbus. The fracas was fast, and gave the boys a chance to display their wares. Taylor was a little too deceptive for the shifty Kline, and was awarded the decision.

* * *

Wotta Guy and Grady Martin mixed and mingled for four rounds that were rather slow and uneven, Wotta Guy seeming to take every clinker but the first, which was a good draw. The referee, however, gave an even decision, holding up both lads' hands.

* * *

Deep Gulley and Soldier Morris started something that had to be stopped, and Gulley proceeded to do that thing in the second round of their scheduled three round curtain raiser. Kayoe is the word, with Gulley leaving the ring with a smile a yard wide on his face.

Graveyard Henderson came back from his setback of a fortnight ago at the hands of Tombstone Boyd, and won out over the highly touted Mr. Boyd by a last minute knockout in the last stages of the sixth round of their scheduled six round go. This will probably bring these boys together in another fight to decide the championship of the 24th Infantry, as both boys now hail from there.

ALL-BENNING BASEBALL TEAM PICKED FOR 1929

By Al Durden

First Base.....Buckley, Art.
Second Base.....Cooper, 2nd Bats.
Short stop.....Labazun, 1st Bats.
Third Base.....Barron, 2nd Bats.
Left Field.....Ashe, I. S. D.
Cetner Field.....Kjelstrom, 2nd Bats.
Right Field.....Watson, Art.
Catcher.....McCarthy, I. S. D.
Pitcher.....Carnes, 2nd Bats.

Picking an All-Benning baseball team for the seeason of 1929, will cause a mountain of criticism and boos from fans and critics. The season's play has been fast, hard and close. Outstanding players have been as scare as the proverbial hen's teeth, while the players on each team have stepped in and given their all.

In my opinion the following team including four twirlers, include the leading players in Benning's "B" League.

There is no argument at first base, Mickey Buckley, Guuner first sacker is the choice of every fan at Benning. Second base honors are close and keen between Sheriff of the Hallorans, Cooper of the Kells and White of the Greencords. Each of these men played an excellent game, showed a wonderful fighting spirit and were the main cogs in their team's play. If there is any edge, I must hand it to Cooper, of the Kells. Cooper has handled more chances and made less errors than any of his competitors, and besides that, he has been hitting well around the 300 mark.

Short stop has been a weak point on each team all season. The Kells lost

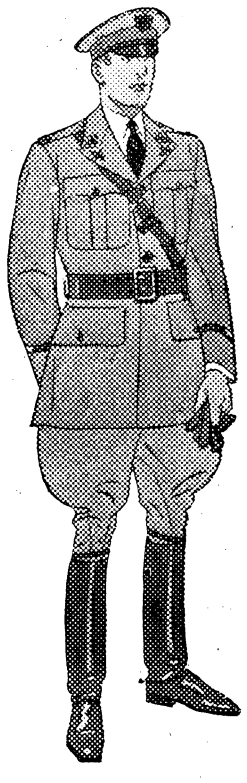
(Continued on page 12.)

PORT ST. JOE, FLORIDA

The Sportsman's Paradise ——
—— Fishing Is Now At Its Best ——
—— The Big Ones Are Striking

For reservations phone or wire
THE PORT INN

To The Personnel of Fort Benning



Our Mr. Dana has had over thirty five years experience in Military Tailoring. During this time he has given complete satisfaction to many of the Army's most fastidious.

We have the latest patterns in stock which is your guarantee against delay.

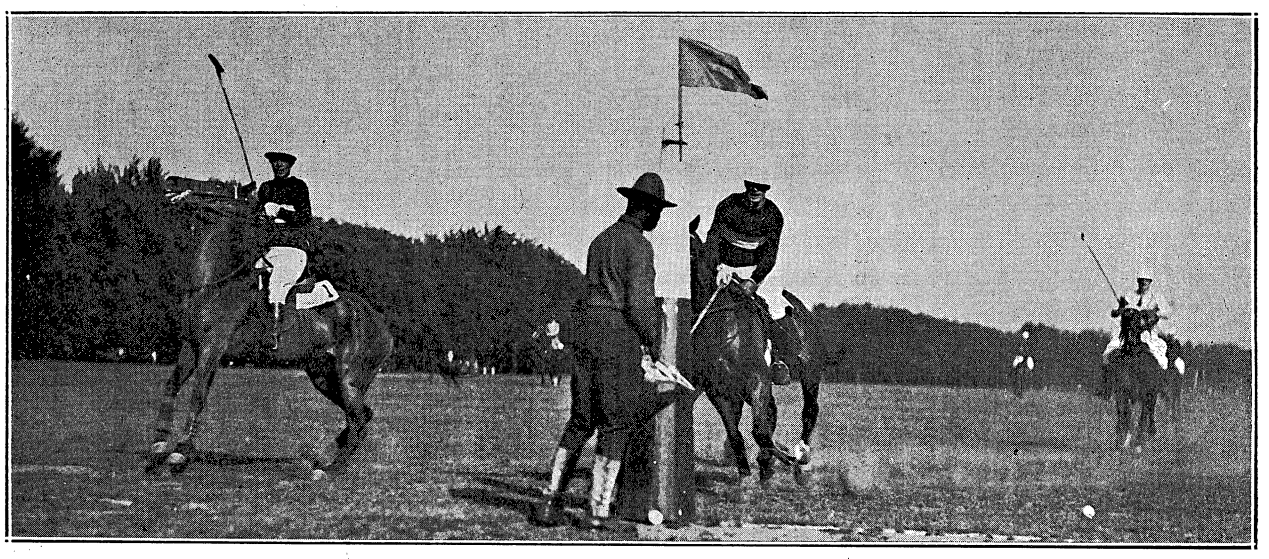
Every garment cut by Dana himself and every stitch made under his personal supervision in our own shop.

Dana Tailoring Co.

1020 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Phone 2858 for appointment

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR COMING POLO SEASON



According to Major C. B. Lyman, Fort Benning Polo representative, all the mallet-swingers of the Post are anxious for the beginning of the new season. In spite of the fact that several players of strength have been lost by transfer to other stations, the newcomers who have arrived should increase the general quality of the game as played here. The season of 1928-29 has been the most successful in Fort Benning's history. Not only was a long and interesting local schedule followed out but for the first time, an Infantry School polo team left the Corps Area. Two trips, one to Washington and Winston-Salem, and another to Chicago were made. On both of them the Benning team made an excellent showing.

The Freebooters squad held its first practice Wednesday afternoon. Fifteen officers have signed up for this squad, five of whom are from the 24th Infantry and the remainder from the other permanent personnel, exclusive of the 83rd Field Artillery and the 29th Infantry, which have squads of their own. The Freebooters team has lost the important services of Maj. H. J. M. Smith, Cav., who was for the past four years in charge of the Infantry School Stables, and who exercised a great influence on the development of Benning polo to its present estate. The new Cavalry officer in charge of the Infantry School Stables is Maj. J. B. Thompson, who carries a handicap of two goals as did Major Smith. Other new Freebooters are Capt. L. E. Toole, Assistant Adjutant, and 1st. Lt. L. P. Leone, Tanks, and 1st Lt. Chas. Royce, Aide de Camp to Brigadier General King. Lt. Leone has been playing polo for the past two years in the Phillippines and Lt. Royce was last year a member of the Student squad.

The Freebooter squad is spending the first few weeks of its season principally upon the development of new mounts. There are twelve prospects on hand. The regular mounts are now resting after their arduous summer work in foreign parts.

There is a possibility that the 24th Infantry will have a polo team during the present season. Post regulations authorize the Infantry School stables to form a polo string sufficient for three teams. In the past this string has been divided at the beginning of each season by alternate choice by the captains of the Freebooters and Students teams. The 24th Infantry officers have hitherto been eligible for the Freebooters, which has made the number of polo players turning out for that squad somewhat disproportionate. No definite announcement has been made as to the plans for the present season.

The 83rd Field Artillery has been training ponies in the early morning for several weeks. The members of its squad are working on about 60 horses, hoping to produce the best string of the season. A new arrival who should materially increase the strength of the Artillery team, which made a hard bid for last year's Post Championship, is Lt. H. D. Baker, who was a handicap of three goals. Lt. Baker has been playing on the fast Fort Bragg team in North Carolina.

The 29th Infantry team is also anxious to get started on the regular playing season. Its captain, Lt. B. R. Jacobs, has been a strong member of the Infantry School team during the past summer. The 29th squad has lost Lt. Van Houten who is a young player of much promise. It has gained, however, Lt. H. W. Brimmer, a player of considerable experience.

Until all of the new students have arrived, the composition of its team will not be known. Lt. VanHouten will be one member of this team.

BATTALION FOOTBALL TEAMS PREPARE FOR COMING SEASON

Already the tiniest golden hue has tinged the beautiful green robe that has adorned the forest all summer. In the wee morning hours the least bit of Autumn chill comes creeping and sends us scurrying under the warm folds of a comforting blanket. Autumn is here and with it comes football.

On Gowdy Field old King Baseball is bidding fans adieu in a blaze of pomp and glory as Doughboys and Cannoneers fight valiantly for supremacy and the laurel wreath of 1929.

Hurrying hither on speeding wings comes King Football, the monarch of fall sports. At any moment he will arrive at the Upatoi Station with his wonderfull assortment of forwad passes, line bucks, end runs, off-tackle plays and hundreds of other tricks and turns to be used this season.

Interest is running at high tide among the fans of the garrison. Several of the stars of past seasons have left Ft Benning during the year, and with their going, their teams have been weakened. Many new men who talk football and look football have come to Benning also since last season, now the fans are wondering if the new arrivals will fill the gap left by the departed stars.

The Terrible Tankers, 1928 champions, lost a valuable player in "Big" Bertleman, two-hundred and forty pound tackle and All-Army star. Instead of Bertleman the Tankers have Corn Griffin, who claims to be as good at tackle as he is in the fight ring. Griffin weighs one hundred and ninety pounds and has proved a terror to heavyweight fighters since coming to Benning,his football ability remains to be demonstrated. "Red" Miller another new-comer to the Tankers, looks football and talks it fluently. If he comes up to expectations he will be a big asset in the Tanker backfield.Knubb Bennett, Bobby Brown and Sully Sullivan, Tanker backfield aces will report for duty this season. Only the loss of Bertleman will be felt in the line. Stuart, McKelvey, Woodman, Willingham, Hull and a dozen other candidates will build a line about "Red" Lindsey, center, that will stand against both storm and strife.

Rumbling from the Rolling Caissons sound like off-tackle plays and straight line bucks. With a team of hard driving youngsters to build from, the Gunners promise to be a more dangerous threat on the football field than they have been on the diamond this season.

Coached and led by the veteran McAuliffe, the Gunner backfield is going to be fast and dangerous. Carrigan, Pinton, Phillips, McCloud and Winfery combine an array of fast young prep-school stars that are going to prove a threat to opposing teams. With fast, speedy backs and McAuliffe's deadly passing arm, the Gunners will be heard from in no small terms. The Gunner line boasts an almost entirely new roster, "Doug" LaPine, Mallet, Cherry and Lester of last year's first string will be back in their old positions. Howard, Elmore, Pike and a score of likely looking young huskies are fighting it out for regular positions.

Little is known of the material available to build the First Battalion team. Hicks, Blackstone, McFadden, Reddock, Abrams,Stepp, Reese and Harper of last year's team are ready to get into harness. Pete Causey and Cordwood Smith, new arrivals, will strengthen the First Bat line and it is rumored that a couple of new backfield men have become members of the battalion since the past season. With proper coaching and a heavier line over last season, the First Bats stand an equal chance with any team in the garrison, for though beaten last year, their fighting spirit was never broken and a team that fights is bound to win.

In the Kelly camp there is not the least breath of rumor stirring. A wisp of a rumor mentioned Franz re-enlisting. That is un-official. Without the services of Franz, the Kellys remain a mighty football machine.

True their ranks have lost several of last year's men, among them being Franz "Red" Jones and B. Swayze, all first string men. To match this loss the Kells have Kelly, Birdsong, Oikra, Thomson, Ripple and Barron for their backfield, this composes the fastest backfield combine in the garrison. Allison, a new comer who broke into the last game of the season last year, will probably be a regular back. With Dutch Berrish at centeer, Moody, Carling, Dykes and De Pratt for guard positions, McAllister, Costello, Carpenter, Settles, Blankenship and Marquette at tackle and end positions, the Kellys loom as a power in the coming struggle.

At the present writing it is feared that the Special Units will be unable to put a team on the field this season. This is to be regreted as quite a bunch of rare football material is to be found among the Units, and they are willing and anxious to play the game.

Field maneuvers are exercises in which a military operation is conducted on the ground, the troops and armament of both sides beig actually present, either wholly or in part, and all the conditions of actual war being simulated.

B. H. HARRIS & CO.

Real Estate Renting Insurance Loans

Special Attention given to Incoming OFFICERS

101 Twelfth St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 250—251

THE NEXT BEST THING TO A NEW BUICK IS A USED BUICK

OUR USER CAR DEPARTMENT

is the best and most complete in Columbus, Ga.

CLIFF M. AVERETT

Telephone 883 1441-1445 First Ave.

Authorized Buick-Marquette Dealer

WELCOME

We wish to welcome the incoming Student Officers and extend them an invitation to visit us at our studio. Also to advise them if they go kodaking to leave their films at the Post Exchange for quality finishing.

DON JOHNSON'S STUDIO

18½—12th St. Columbus, Ga. Phone 95

Bosh-Bunk-Slush

By B. B. S.

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Umpires

Some of you may accuse us of leaving our pasture to graze on the more inviting tender young shoots on the other side of the fence. Let it be known here that we are perfectly within our rights in picking this subject, for we have followed along the lines of the policy of the Athletic Association in picking our subject, ie: we have one soldier subject and one civilian subject, and the civilian subject would make a good soldier.

Many of you are aware that the Southeastern league boss came within the ranks of our enlisted personnel to nose out an umpire for a vacancy that was created in his ranks this summer. Many of the professional willowmen and hoss hide twirlers had had their eye on our own "Red" Jones for some time.

Red went to the Southeastern league as a big time umpire six weeks or more ago, and made good. His working partner was none other than Mr. Joe Harper, who has been in the game for a long time, and he said that the Redhead was up to snuff in his ability to handle the more complicated plays as they arose.

Now Mr. Harper is considered one of the best umpires in the league, and to be classed with "Joe" is quite a compliment for a youngster in his initial start. Nothing loth, Red must be put in that category and there he will remain until he has either gone blind like some of them have, or mounted on up. Hehas the qualities that go to make a good umpire, and the determination to make good. We have many ambitious expectations for Red, and wish him the best of luck when he steps out with the blue uniformed, masked creatures next season.

Many are the interesting conversations we have listenedin on between the two arbiters. Many we have forgotten or will forget. This one we never will.

Red: "What you gonna say, Joe?

Joe: "We're just two great men, Red, only one greater."

Red: "Who is that, Joe?"

Joe: "Old Potato Grater, Red."

Joe and Red were a perfect working team during their tour of duty the past season together. They had their ups and downs with the fans, as all good umpires will have, but so few were they that is not necessary to mention any of them.

Red is back with us again, and Joe is probably by this time headed for his old home and the privilege to hunt rabbits to his heart's content, but as surely as the Divine Ruler made little apples and the tropical moon calls to the lullaby song writers, Red and Joe will live on as "two hundred thousand dollars worth of umpires," to put it in their own word.s

ALL BENNING TEAM PICKED

(Continued from page 10.)

Franz, and Kelly came in from the outer garden to fill the gap, his first few games at schort were far under par. In the final games he has shown fine form at the short field. Labazan of the Hallorans, playing in ten games, is handed the laurels for the short field positions. Though he had several off days the little fellow flashed a fast brand of fielding besides doing great work with the willow.

Barron of the Kellys is away out in front at the hot corner, his fielding has been fast and steady while his batting and base running rivals that of the league's third sackers.

Left field honors go to Ashe of the Greencords. Ashe has hit around the three hundred mark all season and his fielding average shows only one miscue for the seaeson.

Kjelstrom shades the line for centerfield position while Watson of the Redlegs looks the best of the right field ball hawks.

With Thompson out of the game part of the season it seems only right that Mick McCarthy of the Greencords should top the list of catchers. Mickey is a heady catcher with a world of experience and base runners learned early in the season that his throwing arm was to be highly respected.

Twirling honors show Carnes of the Kellys, Roosma of the Tanks, Holloway of the Gunners, Stevens of the Hallorans and Tolle of the Greencords, holding the spotlight. The team was supposed to have only four hurlers but it can't be done. Carnes tops the list, the Kelly portsider has been invincible all season and has enjoyed his biggest army base ball season.

No doubt this line up is far wrong. In fact I know the worst is yet to come, but with as evenly matched bunch of ployers as the ones that have composed the league during the 1929 season to pick from, many fans are sure to be displeased.

BATTING AVERAGES FOOL THEM ALL

With six teams competing in the last half of Fort Benning's intra-mural baseball league, the dope bucket was knocked over so many times that the fans were afraid to go to the games for fear of there being a riot.

The batting averages are set forth below, and as early as yesterday, we began dodging, for we know that this brings us in the limelight for a lot of the strike out kings to use us for an alibi.

We must give old man Heckert of the I. S. D. team the bating honors, and we place him there because he has been to bat 17 times and totaled 10 hits for an average of 588.

Due to limited space we publish only those averages above .300.

Leading batters of the "B" League:

Player	Team	AB	H	Av'ge
Heckert,	I. S. D.	17	10	.588
Bennett,	I. S. D.	10	4	.400
Cowan,	I. S. D.	16	6	.375
Paschal,	Artillery	11	4	.364
Roosma,	Tanks	28	10	.350
Buckley,	Artillery	29	10	.345

Fight Fancies

By B. B. S.

The coming fight card to be staged in Columbus September 16th should prove to tbe up to standard. In the main event, Joe "Kid" Peck, who, since losing a close decision to Jimmy Spivey at Benning, has shown twice in Miami and once at West Palm Beach, winning all three battles, will meet Cowboy Frankie Osner. The preliminaries will be made up of boys from the fort and local talent in and around Columbus.

Ole Mike McTigue, who not so long ago announced to the world that he had hung up the padded mitts forever, came back last Tuesday night and gave Battling Bozo, of Birmingham a neat trimming.

The wily old Irishman had a little too much gray matter for the Flagtown youth, winning the decision by a wide margin.

It is with a source of deep regret that we bid goodbye to Doubtin' Thomas, who after his fight with Blondy Parker Tuesday night left for his home in Chattanooga. Although Thomas was defeated in his final appearance before Benning fight bugs, he has nothing to be ashamed of, as he accepted the fight on short notice. We feel certain, that had Tommie had longer to train, he would have given a better account of himself.

Thomas was discharged via the purchase route.

Just a word of praise for Tombstone Boyd and Graveyard Henderson. Usually, a bout between two boys from the 24th Infantry is slow and uninteresting, with both participants weak and winded before the end of the third round, but not these huskys. Their was action from the opening gong to the final moment.

Billy Shell, who is well known to the ring worms of Benning is going over big in Jacksonville, Fla. Shell recently fought a ten round draw with Sam Crosby, who hails from Pat Boynton's stable at Waycross. Billy is booked to meet Dick Gore, veteran welter on next Tuesday night's card in the sunshine city.

Smith, Tanks	30	10	.333
Thompson, Kellys	28	9	.320
Kjelstrom, Kellys	35	11	.318
Jordan, 1st Bat	35	11	.318
Lockwood, Engineers	16	5	.312
Watson, Tanks	13	4	.308
Ashe, I. S. D.	35	10	.303

Home Savings Bank

"The White Bank"

Capital .....$100,000.00.
Surplus ..... 65,000.00.

Interest Paid on Deposits at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Short term Certificates of Deposit issued at 4 per cent. per annum.

Home of the CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr., Phone 190.

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

MAKE THIS YOUR HARDWARE STORE

To the incoming officers, as well as others, we extend a cordial invitation to visit us and call on us when we may be of service.

We offer a very complete stock of paints, varnishes, general hardware, house-furnishings, etc., for your selection.

BEACH-MOSELY CO.

1110 Broadway Phones 355—356

The New Dodge Bros. Six

Price range $1145 to $1295 equipped, delivered

70 GUARANTEED USED CARS

One of the best lines of used cars ever offered in the city. Prices right. Terms.

TELEPHONE 2683

15th Street and 1st Avenue

W. T. HEARD

Dodge Bros. Dealer

THE INF. ORGANIZATION DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

With the impending visits of the Chief of Staff and the Chief of Infantry to this station, in connection with the problems confronting the new Infantry reorganization plans but a few days off, unitsof the twenty-ninth infantry and allied agents are hard at work on their respective tasks.

Up to the present time the project for the reorganization of the infantry battalion and its constituent units, which is occupying the time, attention and effort of those connected with it, has reached the stage in which several different types of proposed battalions are being tested by actual operations on the terrain. Prior to this stage, the process of experimentation proceeded through the firing tests with various types of squads, and tests in which squads, platoons, and companies of different composition were experimented with in tactical situations on the ground. In the meantime, the data which is being accumulated, has been subjected to careful analysis by the testing troops, the Infantry Board, the Department of Experiment, and the representatives of the Academic Department, with the ultimate object of determining the relative fighting capacity of the several types of units. It is to be hoped and expected that the systematic consideration of the data compiled, in connection with the theory of organization and with the experience gained in past wars, will result in a decision as to what type of battalion will possess the greatest fighting capacity. The tremendous number of factors involved, the almost unlimited possibilities in permutations and combinations of the various weapons and groupings of weapons, and the impracticability of determining accurate values for such terms as the shock-power of the automatic rifle as compared with the bayonet, all serve to create problems of extreme complexity. However, regardless of whether an ideal solution to the problem as a whole is possible of attainment, the efforts of the personnel occupied with the reorganization project are producing results which promise a satisfactory compromise solution.

METHODS OF PROCEDURE AND ORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EXPERIMENT

By Lt. Joseph I. Greene

Since primitive man first discovered that a stone could be thrown, men have been improving the tools of war. In the present age of science, military invention is so prolific that it is difficult to keep up. Hence it has become necessary in our Army for groups to be formed whose duty it is to test and experiment with suggested improvements, and in the end to recommend the disposal of such suggestions. Such a group is the Department of Experiment at Fort Benning.

When a new project of possible value to the Infantry arises, it is customarily submitted to the Office of the Chief of Infantry. A study of the project is there made and if it is deemed worthy of further consideration it is submitted to the Infantry Board. Here, it is assigned to a member of the Board, and at the same time, should practical experiment seem requisite for a complete investigation of the project, it is submitted to the Department of Experiment. The Director of the Department then assigns the project to one of the test officers.

The test officer, after studying all sources of reference to the subject, and examining previous work done along similar lines, writes a program of test. This program is, of course, based on the directives from the office of the Chief of Infantry and from the Infantry Board, as well as on advice and recommendations from the Director of the Department. The program is submitted to the Director who approves it, if satisfactory, or directs changes, if it is not. When approved, the program of test forms a guide which the test officer follows throughout the test unless unforseen circumstances or developments require amendment.

Most of the tests which the Department makes are of a practical kind. It if not equipped to carry on laboratory work. In the usual case the test requires actual use in the field and for such work the assistance of organizations of the permanent personnel of the post is asked. The majority of tests go to the 29th Infantry.

When the experimental work is completed, the test officer analyzes the results obtained and writes a report of test, embodying in it the experimental recommendations drawn therefrom. The first draft of this report is submitted to the Director who either approves it or suggests changes and additional tests. The final, approved report receives the signature of the Director and is sent to the Infantry Board. The Board then studies the report, makes such recommendations as it sees fit, and forwards the report to the Chief of Infantry.

Some of the projects received require more than a year for the completion of tests, while others take but a few weeks. In the past years the number of projects has varied from 30 to 40 per year.

Although the majority of projects which the Department handles are received from outside sources, not infrequently a member of the Department originates a project. These, if their development warrants a full test, are finished and reported upon in the same manner as other projects.

The most important projects which the Department has dealt with recently have been those concerned with anti-aircraft firing and training, and with the semi-automatic rifle. The anti-aidcraft work has been carried on for more than two years. A report on the rifle phase of the subject was submitted in 1928 and much of it incorporated in Training Regulations 300-5. The machine gun phase report is nearly completed at present. The semi-automatic rifle report was finished several months ago and sent forward. It resulted in the recommendation for adoption of the Pedersen, caliber .276, semi-automatic rifle, to replace the present issue Springfield.

The officer personnel of the Department of Experiment and the nature of the work which is assigned to each, is as follows:

Director: Lt. Col. H. A. Wells.

Test Officers: Major L. R. Boyd (anti-aircraft projects and other projects requiring test firing);

Capt. E. D. Porter (test firing and organization and individual equipment);

Capt. L. A. Wetherby (transportation and communication);

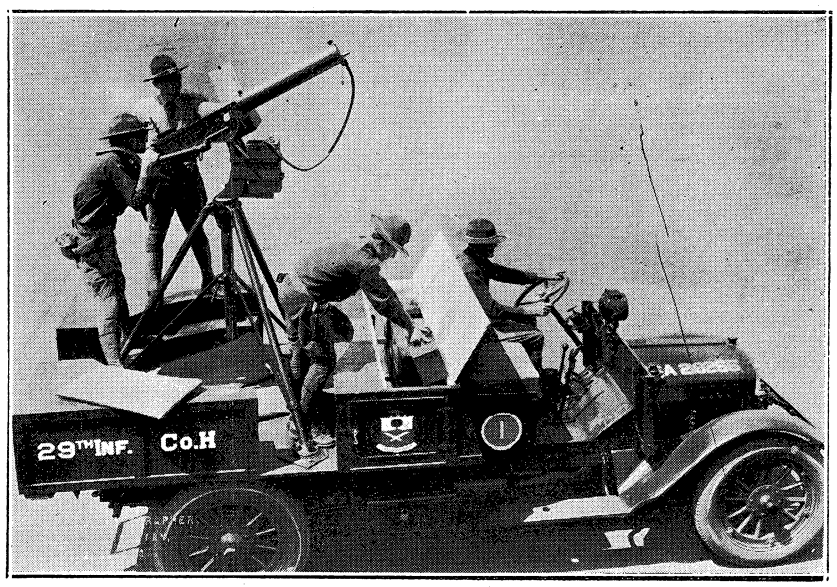
Capt. A. T. Knight (organization and individual equipment and clothing);

Lt. B. M. McFadyen (organization and individual equipment and clothing);

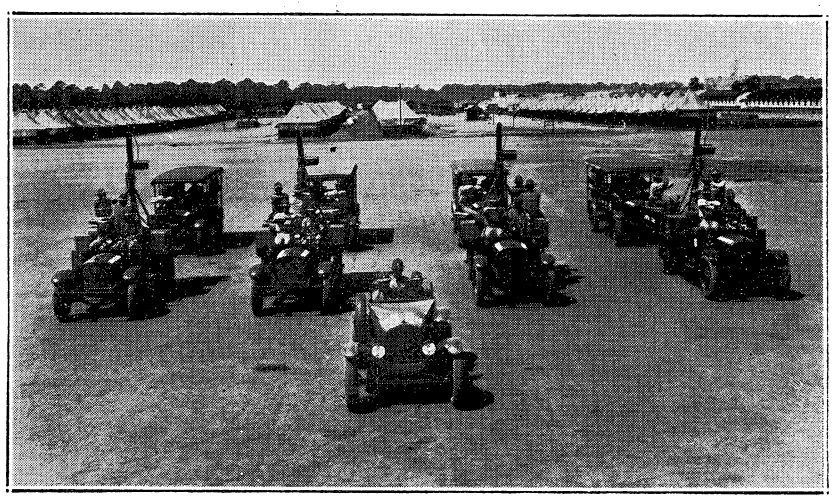
In addition to the above personnel, it has been necessary during the past year because of the quantity of test work on hand, to have two additional members attached on special duty with the Department. These members are:

Capt. J. L. Tupper, 24th Inf., (test firing and miscellaneous);

1st Lt. Joseph I. Greene, 24th Inf., (anti-aircraft and equipment).



The 3d Platoon, Company "H," 29th Infantry, passing in review for Colonel Harris Pendleton



"Action front, enemy aircraft, 300." The first squad shows how it is done

INTERESTING EQUIPMENT PROPOSED FOR NEW INFANTRY PROJECT

At a recent inspection of the new motorized platoon of Company H, 29th Infantry, the commanding officer, Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., expressed himself as being very pleased with the appearance of this new platoon. So far as is known here, this is the only motorized machine gun platoon of its kind in the United States Army at the present time. It is interesting to note in connection with the experiments with reorganized units in the 29th Infantry that the new organization of a machine gun company now contemplates a motorized platoon, armed with the caliber 50 machine guns, equipped for anti-aircraft firing. At least these plans hold forth for the present.

MAJOR ROBERT FLETCHER APPOINTED MILITARY ATTACHE TO MADRID

Major Robert H. Fletcher, Jr., of the 24th Infantry, has been appointed military atache to the American embassy at Madrid, Spain, and to the legation at Lisbon, Portugal.

Major Fletcher is now on leave and will return to Fort Benning about Sept. 25th. From here he will proceed to Washington, D. C., where he will report to the Chief of Staff for temporary duty in the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff G-2, War Department and upon completion of that duty will proceed to Madrid, Spain, reporting upon arrival to the American Ambassador, and by letter to the American minister at Lisbon, Portugal, for duty.

Major Fletcher is a Californian by birth and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1908. He first came to Benning in 1923 as a student in the advanced class. The following year he attended the Command and General Staff School at Leavenworth, and returned to this station in July, 1925. Upon reporting from this later tour of duty, Major Fletcher was assigned as Chief of the fifth section in the Academic department. Upon the completion of this assignment in Feb. 1928, he was ordered to the 24th Infantry, to command the second battalion.

The Columbus Ledger
is now represented at FORT BENNING
By
Mr. Ross B. Colquitt
Please address all phone calls and other communications to Ledger. Phones 100-101-102
COLUMBUS
Ledger at Ft. Benning by Carrier 60c Month.

HUMES
is the store that Fort Benning patronizes for Music
Come in—SEE and HEAR
the new Victor Radio.

ROADS AT FORT BENNING TO BE IMPROVED

When troops first moved into Camp Benning, to make it their permanent quarters and to form what is now the greatest Infantry School in the world, the cotton rows and rail fences caused many difficult problems to arise.

Benning was then what might have been called a wilderness, compared to what it is today. The area that is occupied by those organizations living in tents, was then nothing but a piney woods. The parade of the 29th Infantry was a poor piece of land that had been used for a cotton field for years without rotation, and the 24th Infantry area had not been discovered. The woods in that part of the reservation were too dense for considering the place as an ideal location for an infantry regiment.

Since the establishment of the Infantry School, the Quartermaster Corps has been constantly at work, improving the roads and buildings of the post, until now, they are not far from having the whole of Benning up to the modern standards set for it by War Department.

Each week of the year finds the authorities trying some new way to bring the streets of Benning up to something like comfortable thoroughfares. The peculiar formation of the soil in this particular locality has caused much speculation and many changes in methods of roadbuilding at Benning. The surfaces seem to be semi-hard and to be of a more or less permanent nature, affording the motorist the pleasure of a comfortable ride, when, without any semblance of warning, they give away to leave ruts and bumps that cause the most pleasant minded motorist to finish the day with a grouch that is hard to shake.

Now that appropriations have been made for road construction at Fort Benning, the contracts have been let for the work tto be done. Already the workmen have started to pave the entrance to the Upatoi gate, and the work will spread over the post as speedily as possible. In five years, Fort Benning will have taken on the appearance of a modern city, with well built and lighted streets.

The roads that serve as channels of traffic to the interior of the reservation, have, in recent months, been brought up to a grade of perfection that makes it a pleasure to motor out to the spots of interest, and also facilitates rapid transportation of troops when necessary to expedite a maneuver. Large trucks can haul huge quantities of supplies and equipment over these roads which have until recently been just bridle paths and wagon trails, with much ease.

These improvements are slowly, but surely, bringing Benning up to the point where it will soon be one of the show places of the South.

Smile with the Sun!

When Old Sol smiles down that summer heat and you feel like—"Oh! Too hot to live." Then slip away where there's

FOREMOST
ICE CREAM

Because its that wonderful Home-made kind that's so popular right from the start
—and
"Hawaiian Pudding"
—Rich with Tropical Fruits and Nuts.

Special—This Week-end

BENNING TO GET NEW POSTOFFICE

One by one, the needs of Fort Benning are being taken care of. Her latest prayer to be answered, was the general cry for a new post office to replace the old shed that has been used for the past ten years, and recently damaged by storm.

The War Department has authorized the use of funds to erect an attractive one story c ncrete and hollow tile building to be used by the Postal Department as a post office building. This does not come any too soon. The old building that has been used by the Post Office Department is getting in such bad shape that pieces are daily falling off it. The floors are shaky, and the roof leaky.

The new building will be modern in every way. The floors will be made of plain concrete, except where the steam tunnels pass, and these sections will be made of reinforced concrete. The main exterior walls will be made of 8x8x12 terra cotta tiles, six cell, with a plastered sand finish on the inside. The outside of the walls will be stuccoed, while all the concrete columns will be rubbed cement finish.

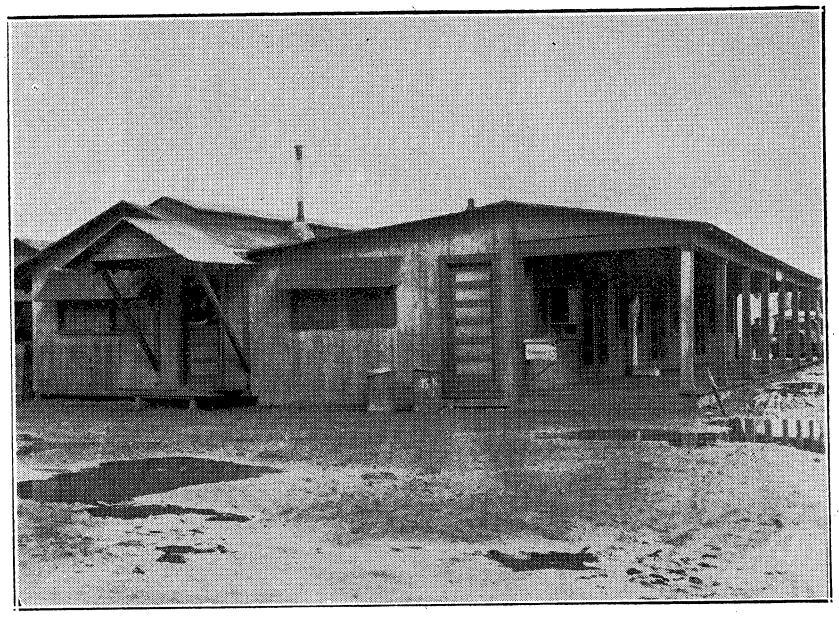
The building will consist of a main room, approximately 38x86 feet, a loading platform in rear, a basement and steam line tunnel.

Included in the main room will be a lobby 15x50 feet, for the transaction of public business, two rest rooms, 8x15 feet each and one storage room, 6x6 feet.

All interior woodwork will be in natural finish, while the woodwork on the exterior of the building will be given three coats of lead paint of the standard government colors.

The building will be erected fifty feet west of the School Library, facing Vibbert Avenue. This will greatly enhance the central part of the post, and will be more convenient for those attending business in the building, as it will be removed far enough from the intersection of the streets to make the traffic less congested.

The Quartermaster will begin work on the building as soon as the material can be brought into place, and the few small jobs now under way completed. All material for the building will be furnished by the Quartermaster, with the exception of the interior furnishings, which will be furnished by the Postal Department.



Fort Benning's post office as it appeared before the storm that almost completely wrecked it last June.

Shows the condition in which the storm left the building

RECREATION CENTER BOARD ACTIVITIES INCLUDE PROJECTS OF GREAT BENEFIT TO GARRISON PERSONNEL

Several years ago the War Department created the Recreation Center Board at Fort Benning, giving them the power within certain limits to accomplish the erection of such buildings as it should deem necessary for the furthering of the recreation center at Fort Benning.

Their work started early, and has never ceased, though slowly at times, due mostly to the lack of skilled soldier labor, never-the-less surely.

Doughboy Stadium has recently had an addition, in the erection of the two towers that will serve as office buildings for the activities that have heretofore been in cramped quarters. The Infantry School News will move its office into the North Tower at an early date.

Officials of the Board stated that plans were under way to fill in the arches that have been recently added to Doughboy Stadium with iron grill work, which will serve as a barrier to unpaid fares that try to enter the Stadium and will also add to the attractiveness of the already beautiful structure.

Doughboy Stadium has a seating capacity of about twelve thousand, with a possibility of adding four more thousand seats by erecting temporary seats at the East end of the stands.

Plans are also under way to close in the North portion of the stands as has been done with the South side, and use the space for storage of tools, athletic equipment and dressing rooms for athletic teams and entrants.

When the project is completed, there will be a beautiful front tto the Stadium on the South side, with a well sodded lawn and sidewalks. Doughboy Stadium, will, when fully completed, be one of the best stadiums in the South.

The Handball Courts that are being erected in rear of the new gymnasium are under the supervision of the Recreation Center Board, and when completed, will be second to none in the country. These courts woll be four in number, and are being constructed of the best material obtainable for the project.

The building will have a slate roof, the walls of hollow tile and stucco, and the floors will be of number one grade hard maple. The courts are well arranged, and a spectators gallery will be accessible to those who may wish to witness the games.

The architecture of the building is on the lines of that of the new gumnasium, being in fact, an almost miniature replica of the mother building as to outside appearance.

Numerous other projects have been prposed and have received various degrees of consideration, though none of them have been approved and no money has been provided for their prosecution.

Among these projects now being studied may be mentioned: Supplements to the swimming pool. (These include parking and grading, paving the entire bottom of the pool, raising of the upper dam and new bath houses and dressing rooms).

The construction of bowling alleys together with a building to house them is being considered, although no definite announcement can be made on this score at present.

Plans for a boxing bowl to provide accommodations for one of Benning's most popular sports are being studied and it is expected that recommendations will be submitted on the subject in the near future. Benning certainly needs a boxing bowl, and it is believed that the War Department will approve of plans for its erection.

A project for the widening of the road south of Doughboy Stadium to relieve traffic congestion and to provide parking space for the patrons of the Post Exchange is being studied by the

(Continued on page 15.)

NEW TRAINING SCHEDULE PUBLISHED

Recent orders from Headquarters, the Infantry School, publish the training schedule for the coming year.

This schedule announces the training year as Sept. 15, 1929 to June 14, 1930. The period Sept. 15, 1929 to June 14, 1930, is designated as the School Year Period, while the period of June 15, 1930 to Sept. 14, 1930 is designated as the Summer Training Period. With exceptions as noted in the published orders, the regular target practice and supplementary target practice for all organizations armed with infantry weapons will be conducted during the Summer Training Periods. The course for bayonet qualifications will be conducted for units of the 29th Infantry during the period, March 1 to April 30th.

The 83rd Field Artillery Battalion will conduct its Service Practice at such time during the training year as will, in the judgment of the Battalion Commander, best accomplish its training mission.

Athletic training in organizations will be carried on throughout the year. Mass calistnenics, mass and intra-mural athletics will be extensively used and strongly supported as a means of improving and maintaining the physical condition of the personnel. The athletic programs arranged by Headquarters will receive careful attention and support of all organization commanders.

The immediate objective of thetraining year for all combat troops will be the development of units from the individual soldier to the regiment that are of high morale, thoroughly disciplined, smart in appearance, of correct posture, and a model of proficiency in formal drills and ceremonies.

Troops will be trained so as to be ready to meet all calls made by the War Department for tests and demonstrations in furtherance of new development of Infantry organization and tactics, to fulfill the requirements of the Infantry School, and to be prepared to move to a theatre of operations on M day.

The development of officers of all round professional experience, thoroughly trained as instructors in all phases of training required of troops under their command, and with a general knowledge of the power and limitations of other branches. Officers, non-commissioned officers and privates must be trained in the duties of the next higher grade.

Military courtesy, neatness and soldierly bearing will be constantly stressed and high standards maintained. Excellency in other items of training will not excuse an organization from failure in these particulars.

Troop Schools—Basic Course for Officers

Unit instruction as prescribed in Par. 7a, A. R. 350-2600, will be conducted by regimental and separate organization commanders during the School Year Training Period. Especial attention will be given to instruction in company administration and mess management.

Post Schools

During the period September 15th to June 14th, apprentice courses are available to all enlisted men who volunteer for the same. The hours of attendance will be from 1:00 to 4:00 P. M., Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays excepted. Request by the enlisted men for vocational training will be forwarded by the Unit commanders to the Quartermaster. Following enrollment the attendance of an enlisted man will be obligatory until and unless relieved from attendance by the Quartermaster.

Courses

(1) Automotive Repair Work (Shop).
(2) Automotive Vehicle Operation.
(3) Brick Laying.
(4) Carpentering.
(5) Concrete Work (Reinforced, Roads and Walks).
(6) Horticulture.
(7) Logging.
(8) Painting.
(9) Printing.
(10) Road Construction.
(11) Sawmill Activity.
(12) Plumbing.
(13) Steam Fitting.
(14) Electrical House Wiring.
(15) Stationary Steam Engineering.
(16) Stationary Fireman.
(17) Locomotive Engineering.
(18) Locomotive Fireman.
(19) Blacksmithing.
(20) Lathe Work.
(21) Sheet Metal Work.

Training Non-Combatant Branches

While the training of organizations of the non-combatant branches will primarily be directed toward obtaining and maintaining proficiency in the various duties peculiar to the branch concerned, sufficient disciplinary drill will be conducted to insure the attainment and maintenance by their personnel ot the basic military qualities of a soldier.

Unit Objective

29th Infantry

To be prepared to furnish units proficient in all phases of infantry technique, ready and able to demonstrate the same for the further development of infantry and for instruction at the Infantry School.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

24th Infantry

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined training in infantry drill and ceremonies. To develop soldiers thoroughly grounded in the basic training of a soldier and thoroughly instructed in military courtesy.

Second Battalion, First Tank Regiment (Light)

To be prepared to demonstrate the technique of tanks in connection with experimentation in fantry tactics, and in furtherance of instruction of The Infantry School and other infantry organizations.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

83rd Field Artillery Battalion

To be prepared to further instruction at the Infantry School and the training of infantry organizations by demonstration of the tactics and technique of artillery in support of infantry.

To reach a state of thoroughly disciplined garrison and field training.

Infantry School Detachment

To be prepared to furnish qualified enlisted men, trained basically as soldiers, to assist in the instruction, maintenance and functioning of the activities of The Infantry School.

Company "A," 7th Engineers

To reach a thorough state of garrison and field training; be ready to demonstrate to the Infantry School the technique of field engineering and to meet the requirements of combat engineers.

Company "C," 1st Chemical Regiment

To reach a thorough state of garrison and field training; be prepared to demonstrate to the Infantry School the tactical uses of chemical warfare agents as related to infantry tactics. To assist units of the command in instruction in the use of and uefense against chemical warfare agents.

To furnish instructors in the use of chemical agents and protection against such agents to the Infantry School.

Detachment, Quartermaser Corps

The development of personnel technically trained to efficiently perform the duties assigned, and basically trained as soldiers.

86th Motor Repair Section

The development of an efficient repair force highly trained in shop and field repair of motor vehicles, able to handle the repair requirements of the motor vehicles of the garrison. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

100th Motor Transport Company

The development of personnel trained to drive, and maintain by minor repair, all types of Government motor vehicles, under both garrison and field conditions. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

17th Ordnance Company (Maint.)

To receive the necessary technical and field training to efficiently care for the ordnance maintenance needs of the garrison and to be able to function as the ordnance maintenance company of a division. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

72nd Ordnance Company (Depot.)

To receive the necessary technical and field training to care for the ordnance supply of this garrison with ability to function in the field as a supply unit of the Ordnance Field Service. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

Detachment, Medical Corps

The development of the detachment trained in the efficient performance of hospital duties and with sufficient field training to permit expansion into a medical regiment of a division. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

To further the instruction of the Infantry School by supplying men and equipment to demonstrate the field functioning of a medical regiment.

Detachment, Medical Department, Veterinary Service

The development of personnel trained in the care of sick and wounded animals in the garrison and in the field. Personnel to be basically trained as soldiers.

Detachment, 5th Signal Service Company

Personnel to receive basic training as soldiers and technical training to efficiently maintain and operate all means of signal communications required for the service of the Infantry School.

RECREATION CENTER BOARD ACTIVITIES

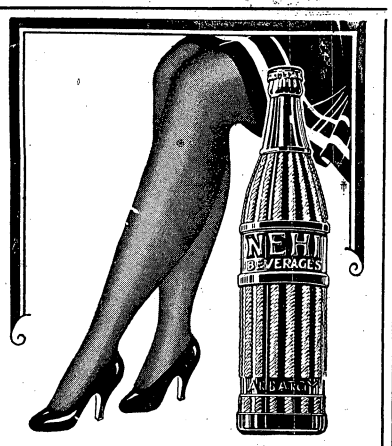
(Continued from page 14.)

Recreation Center Board. This is one of the most needed improvements by the Board. The traffic at this location is always dangerous, and will, when completed, be of great benefit to the personnel of Fort Benning.

Plans and estimates for the improvement of the tennis courts, including stands for the spectators, tool houses, etc., have been submitted to the Officers' Club and are now under consideration. This will be a great incentive to those who already enjoy the game of tennis at Benning, to get behind the movement and make it stick.

Gowdy Field, weathering many a storm of pop bottles and loud cheerings of the fans, still stands majestically and is one of the most popular gathering places during the summer time of any other structure at Fort Benning. Its stands have a seating capacity of approximately six thousand five hundred persons, and with the erection of bleachers along the sidelines, would accommodate about one half as many more baseball trained souls.

Truly the Recreation Center Board projects, completed, nearing completion and planned for construction, are gigantic in volume, and necessary to the needs of the garrison in its forward strides which it has been taking in seven league measures for the past five years.

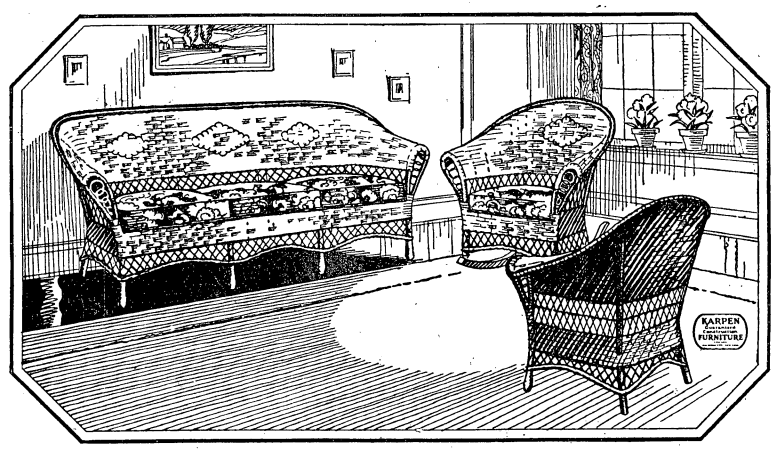


ON SALE
at all
CANTEENS

Furniture of the better type—

is always found at

ROTHSCHILD'S



LLOYD FIBRE FURNITURE—

is just one of the exclusive lines we carry. There is now in stock a 3-piece Lloyd suite in brown and green for $58.50

Come Inspect Our Lines

H. ROTHSCHILD

1229 Broadway Phone 1152

CHOICE OF TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY AS REPRESENTATIVE INFANTRYMAN

The Chief of Infantry in a letter to Infantry regimental commanders, has asked for a picture of each regiment's enlisted "Representative Infantryman."

Master Sgt. G. R. Still

A quiet canvass of the 29th Infantry has been going on for some time, and it developed that there is such a wealth of material for this prized selection, that the final selection was a difficult one. Finally, the choice was narrowed down to a small circle, and the commanding officer's final selection was Master Sergeant George R. Still, Regimental Personnel Sergeant Major.

The service first knew him as a clarinet player in the band of the 12th Cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, this man from Knoxville, Tennessee, just twenty-three years ago. And now he is a master sergeant of the 29th Infantry, happy inhaling plenty of fresh air via the Studebaker route and exhaling it with company clerks. His principal peculiarity, much to the discomfort of his clerks, is a passion for efficiency and exactness.

With the mounted band he went to the Phillipine Islands and upon his discharge in 1909 returned to the States with the 29th Infantry Band, being for a time stationed at Ft. Jay on Governor's Island, where those music makers made a reputation for themselves in the metropolis. The first thing he knew, his habit of doing jobs well got him into Headquatrers Company of the regiments as first sergeant, and with that unit he trailed down over the Caribean Seas to the Panama Canal Zone.

There while Colonel Walrdon was adjutant of the regiment, and the bolo slingers were cutting jungle trail, clearing tangled growth from what was to become target range and drill ground, Sgt. Still lived beside the Culebra Cut. Then came the World War. Tramping rapidly in from maneuvers around Croerera to guard the locks, the power plants and repair shops of the Panama Canal, the soldiers returned to the Canal Zone itself.

On July 10 1917, Mr. Sgt. Still was commissioned 2nd Lt.. In August he left for the States on the old "Kilpatrick" —Army transport of antique vintage, promoted to 1st Lieut. Inf. on August 15, 1917 and through the fall of the year he was showing civilians the Army idea of the Second Officer's Training Camp at Fort Snelling, and doing so well that he stepped up to a captaincy in less than five months from the day he first donned leather puttees.

After a tour at Fort Crook with the 41st Infantry, and another at Funston with the Tenth Division, he went as liaison and personnel officer on transport duty, serving on the "Leviathan." (which is a whole lot better than the old Kilpatrick) and brought back to the States from France the same John J. Pershing under whom he had previously served at Fort William McKinley near Manila many years before. Then he went to the "Pocahontas along with an artillery colonel, surrounded by navy men and marines, returning German prisoners to Holland, and for two and a half months visiting Rotterdam, Antwerp, Southampton and Brest.

In December, 1919, he re-enlisted for his old outfit, t..e Demonstration regiment, which had just arrived at Ft. Benning, and came here to take up his former tasks as First Sergeant of Headquarters Company. It was not long, however,—in fact it was only March of 1920—before, he began the personnel work at which he is so accurate, and has since then completed three "Excellent" enlistments as a Master Sergeant.

You may notice the hash marks and the chevrons on his sleeve. You may know of the commission as a Captain in the Reserve Corps which he keeps quietly at home. But you cannot mistake when you see his work or observe his manner that here is one of those essential elements in the military organization which Kipling knowingly called "the backbone of the Army."

THE STAMP COLLECTORS' CLUB

More than a year ago a small group of enthusiastic stamp collectors got together in the library of the New Hospital and formed a Stamp Collectors' Club. During the past year it has had a membership of about twenty and has met once each week at the hospital library or at the quarters of some member.

The club as a unit has been able to get in touch with other clubs and large dealers in such a way as to be very advantageous to its members. It has also provided an excellent opportunity for exchange of stamps and philatelic dope.

While a number of last year's group has been transferred to other posts, about ten are still present and active. They cordially invite all members of the incoming student classes and permanent personnel, who are interested, whether or not they have collections, to be present at their first meeting after the opening of the school. An announcement of the date and place will appear in the Daily Bulletin several days in advance.

SCHEDULE OF HOPS OFFICERS' CLUB 1929-1930

October 25th—Dinner Dance.
November 8th—Informal.
November 29th—Dinner Dance.
December 13th—Informal.
December 31st—New Year's Hop.
January 24th—Dinner Dance.
February 7th—Informal.
February 22nd—Dinner Dance—Colonial Ball.
March 14th—Informal.
March 28th—Dinner Dance.

All dances scheduled will be held at Biglerville Hall unless otherwise announced.

On dinner dance nights number plates are limited to one hundred twenty. Parties are limited to twenty.

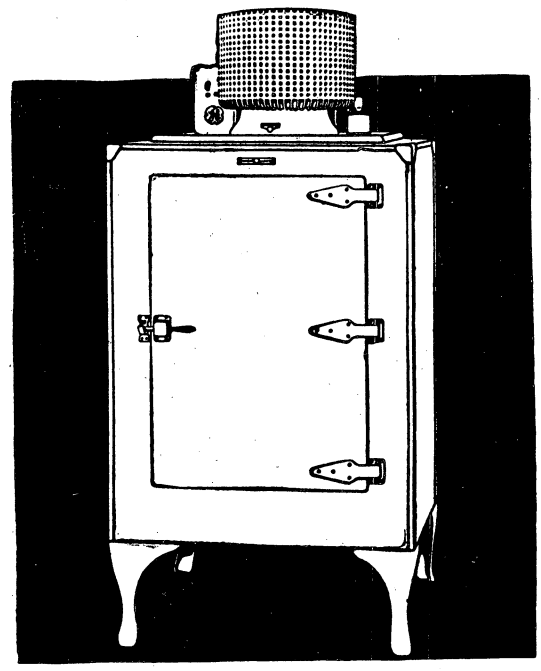
Dates for dances sponsored by the Officers' Club after March 28th will be announced later.

TANKS LEAD IN PERCENTAGE OF RE-ENLISTMENTS FOR AUG.

Inf. School Detachment	13	8	61%x
29th Infantry	31	13	39%
24th Infantry	47	37	79%
2nd Bn., 1st Tank Reg't	8	7	87%
83rd F. A. Battalion	6	2	33%
Co. "C," 1st Chem. Reg't	2	1	50%
Detachment, Q. M. C.	2	1	50%
100th M. T. C., Q. M. C.	2	1	50%
Detachment, Med. Dept.	5	4	80%
Finance Dept.	1	0	0%
Totals	117	74	63%x

Historical rides are exercises in which past military operations, such as a battle or a campaign, are studied on the ground on which the operations took place.

NOW It's Easy to Own!



YOU have often wished you could be free of the nuisance and uncertainty of old-fashioned refrigeration methods. This is your chance to have the best that modern science can devise in the way of automatic electric refrigeration. This is your opportunity to protect the health of your family by assuring constant temperature in your refrigerator—the same even temperature 24 hours a day.

$10 DOWN 30 Months to Pay!

Now you don't need to worry about the cost, either. It's easy to own a

GENERAL ELECTRIC
ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

Columbus Electric & Power Company

SOUTHWEST GEORGIA

1330 Broadway

We endorse the National Food Preservation Program

E. C. JONES, Asst. Sales Mgr.
R. M. HARDING, Manager

Swimming as Taught at Russ Pool

LT. WAYNE C. SMITH

LESSON NO. 1, FOR INTERMEIDATES

"Line up in two ranks. Those in front are the number one buddies. Those in rear are number two buddies. As to-day is your first day in deep water it is all the more important that you keep with your buddy. If you miss your buddy let me know at once."

"The object of the intermediate course is first, to develop the crawl and secondly to enable the pupil to pass the Red Cross Swimmers Test. This test is as follows:

1. Swim 100 yds. using two back strokes.
2. Swim 60 ft. on the back using only the leg drive.
3. Float on back in proper form.
4. Recover an object in over 6 feet of water.
5. Make a sttarting dive and a running front dive.
6. Witness a demonstration of resuscitation of an apparently drowned person.

"Our first work this morning is to learn the starting dive. Sit down on the edge of the pier, put your feet on the side of the pier as far up under you as possible. Now fall forward and shove off into your glide. Like this (demonstration). There is no way that the water can hurt you. Even if you were to fall flat from a two or three feet height you receive only a little slap. No. 1 buddies sit down! Put your feet up. Now getready to fall forward! Go!

Now the No. 2 buddies will do the same thing."

"Our next step is to line up on the edge of the pier. Squat down on the heels. Now push off from the pier, like this (demonstration). Now all of us will try it."

"Now we are almost ready for a regular dive. Line up on the edge of the pier, stoop forward a bit and push off like this (demonstration. Everybody try it."

"We now go to the inter-collegiate start. The starter lines up the swimmers one pace behind the take-off. At the command 'Get on your marks!, the swimmers step up to the take-off. The toes are wrapped over the edge. The feet are about a foot apart. The knees are bent. The body is inclined well forward. The eyes look down the course. The arms are thrown well back. The body is so well poised that at the next command 'Go' or the pistol shot 'Bang.' that it is immediately thrown forward. In the air the body is gently arched from the extended arms to to the toes. It is most importtant that the legs are together. The body should hit the water almost flat. The flutter should not be started until the body comes tot the surface. The starting glide is much faster than the fastest swim. We therefore do not add to the drag of the body by statrting immediately with the flutter kick."

"We will now make three starts. "Line up!" "Get on your marks!" "GO!"

"So much for the starts. We will now do the eleven preliminary exercises which we did in our last lesson in the Beginners Course."

"Our last work this morning is to swim 25 yards with the proper start."

"Good! Most of you finished alright. Remember if you can't finish by the crowl turn over on the back and finish by the back stroke."

"Find your buddies! That is all for to-day."

Next week: Number for Intermediates.

A SERVICE BACKED BY SERVICE ENGRAVING CO. HALFTONES NEWSTONES Photo Engraving PROCESS COLOR PLATES MONTGOMERY, ALA. YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

STARTERS

GENERATORS, MAGNETOS AND SPEEDOMETERS REPAIRED—ALL MAKES. WE ARE EXPERTS. ALL JOBS GUARANTEED.

COLUMBUS AUTO REPAIR CO.

1413—1st Ave. PHONE 685

Miss Dorothy White

will accept a limited number of pupils for instruction on the piano.

Studio
1423 Stark Ave.

Phone 2728-J

Ralston Hotel

DINING ROOM

Preeminent in Service and Courtesy
Orchestra 6:30 to 8:30

Special Attention given to Bridge Luncheons, Teas, and Banquets

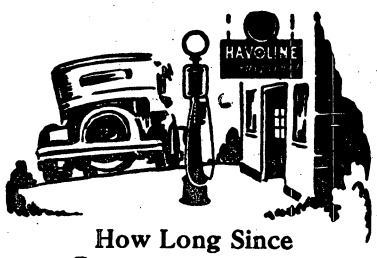
RALSTON HOTEL
J. F. Somers, Mgr.

The Third National Bank of Columbus, Ga.

The Columbus Bank and Trust Company

Combined Resources More Than $8,000,000

Representative at Fort Benning. Phone 290 For Your Convenience.



How Long Since
Your car had a chance with
HAVOLINE
the Power Oil
Feed her Havoline, the Power Oil—then watch her eat up the grades! Ten to fifty per cent more horsepower with Havoline.

Ford

We Welcome the New Officers and their Wives

We are the only authorized Ford Dealers in this section and keep a full line of the new Ford on display at all times.

If you own a new Ford we will be pleased to service same for you.

Burrus Motor & Tractor Co.

1218-22 First Ave. Phone 3500

B. A. ANSLEY, Fort Representative

OFFICERS PLACED ON THE GENERAL STAFF CORPS ELIGIBLE LIST

Allen, Gilbert M., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Allen, Harry B., Capt., F. A.
Andrews, Frank M., Maj., Air Corps.
Baird, Clair W., Maj., C. A. C.
Baird, Raymond C., Maj., Inf.
Bell, Ola W., Col., Cav.
Blair, George, Maj., Inf.
Bohn, John J., Maj., Cav.
Bonney, Frank E., Maj., Inf.
Bradley, Omar N., Maj., Inf.
Brinton, Louis C., Jr., lieut. Col. Coast Artillery Corps.
Brockman, John A., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Buck, Charles S., Maj., Inf.
Bump, Arthur L., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Burt, Charles C., Lieut. Col., Coast Artillery Corps.
Campbell, Staley A., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Carr, Ernest J., Maj., Inf.
Case, Frank L., Col., Cav.
Castle, William A., Col., Inf.
Cavenaugh, Harry La T., Col., Cav.
Clark, Oral E., Maj., Inf.
Clifford, Charles L., Maj., Cav.
Cole, Robert B., Maj., Inf.
Coleman, Willis P., Col., Inf.
Corey, Milo C., Col., Inf.
Crawford, Robert W., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Curry, John F., Maj., Air Corps.
Davids, Howard G., Col., Inf.
Davidson, Lewis C., Maj., Inf.
Devore, Leland S., Maj., Inf.
Dunn, Walter K., Maj., C. A. C.
Dusenbury, Ralph W., Maj., Inf.
Eglin, Henry W. T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Eskridge, Oliver S., Col., Inf.
Febiger, George L., Maj., Inf.
Franklin, Elkin L., Maj., Cav.
Freeland, Ellicott, Maj., C. A. C.
Fuller, Elmer E., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Graham, William B., Col., Inf.
Greene, Douglass T., Maj., Inf.
Grow, Robert W., Maj., Cav.
Hall, Harrison, Col., Adjutant General's Department.
Harding, Edwin F., Maj., Inf.
Harrison, George R., Maj., Inf.
Hauser, John N., Maj., F. A.
Heard, Falkner, Maj., F. A.
Heidt, James V., Col., Inf.
Herr, Frederick, Maj., Cav.
Hilton, Roy C., Capt., Inf.
Hobbs, Horace P., Col., Inf.
Hoffman, Corbit S., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Holman, Oliver I., Maj., Cav.
Humbert, George F., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Huston, Hamner, Maj., Signal Corps.
Jones, Junius W., Maj., Air Corps.
Joyce, Mahlen A., Maj., Inf.
Joyes, John W., Col., Ord. Dept.
Kasten, William H., Maj., Cav.
Kiser, Sherman L., Maj., F. A.
Koenig, William C., Maj. Coast Artillery Corps.
Lampert, Lester L., Maj., Inf.
Larkin, Thomas B., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Lawrason, George C., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Legge, Barnwell R., Maj., Inf.
Loving, James J., Maj., Corps of Eng.
Lyerly, Ballard, Maj., F. A.
Mason, Charles H., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Matlack, Frank S., Maj., Med. Corps.
McCarthy, Charles E., Maj., Inf.
McCook, Paul H., Col., Inf.
McCunniff, Dennis E., Maj., Inf.
McLean, Henry C., Maj., Inf.
Mitchell, Harry D., Col., Adjutant General's Department.
Moore, Charles B., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Murphy, Truman O., Col., Inf.
Norton, Elliott M., Lieut. Col., Inf.
O'Hare, Joseph J., Maj., Inf.
Orton, William R., Maj., Inf.
Parkhurst, Harleigh, Maj., F. A.
Parkinson, Parley D., Maj., Inf.
Partridge, Clarence E., Maj., Ordnance Department.
Pearce, Thomas A., Col., Inf.
Perry, Charles E., Maj., Corps of Eng.
Point, Will H., Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Polk, Newton N., Maj., F. A.
Richards, Willard K., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Rose, William C., Maj., Adjutant General's Department.
Ross, Frank K., Maj., F. A.
Rutherford, Ray C., Maj., F. A.
Ryther, Dwight W., Col., Inf.
Sawyer, Charles N., Maj., Sig. Corps.
Scanlon, Martin F., Maj., Air Corps.
Scott, Charles L., Lieut. Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Scott, Wilmer T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Screws, William P., Col., Inf.
Shepherd, William H., Maj., F. A.
Sirmyer, Edgar A., Col., Cav.
Small, Harold E., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Smith, Charles C., Maj., Cav.
Smyser, Rudolph E., Lieut. Col., Quartermaster Corps.
Sorley, Lewis S., Col., Inf.
Sprinkle, Lester A., Maj., Cav.
St. John, Adrian, Capt., Chemical Warfare Service.
Stanford, Leland H., Maj., Sig. Corps.
Stewart, Samuel T., Maj., Coast Artillery Corps.
Sturgill, Walter S., Maj., F. A.
Taulbee, Edgar W., Maj., Cav.
Thompson, John B., Maj., Cav.
Titus, Isaac E., Maj., Chemical Warfare Service.
Tompkins, William F., Maj., Corps of Engineers.
Vachon, Joseph P., Maj., Inf.
Van Deusen, Edwin R., Maj., F. A.
Van Vliet, John H., Maj., Inf.
Wagner, Henry S., Col., Inf.
Wales, Victor W. V., Maj., Cav.
Walsh, Robert Le G., Maj., A. C.
Weed, Frank W., Lieut. Col., Medical Corps.
Wiley, Noble J., Lieut. Col., Inf.
Williamson, Royden, Capt., Cav.
Willoughby, Rexford E., Maj., Cav.
Wineman, Ansel G., Maj., F. A.
Witsell, Edward F., Maj., Chemical Warface Service.
Wolf, Paul A., Brig. Gen.
Wood, Winthrop S., Brig. Gen., assistant to the Quartermaster General.

We Rent Furniture

We rent Furniture to Student Officers, giving them the privilege of purchasing, at any time.

Rent paid to apply as part of purchase price.

The Hecht Furniture Co.

115 12th St. Phone 1188

To the New—

Student Officers

The Post Exchange at Fort Benning desires to serve the incoming personnel in every way possible.

During the past year the Exchange has increased the facilities for service in several departments, and added some new departments.

To those who are coming to Fort Benning for the first time, the following information is furnished regarding the Post Exchange.

1. GROCERY DEPARTMENT: Staple, fancy and green groceries. Frigidaire equipped meat department (only government inspected meats are handled.)
   Location: Hall St. and Vibert Ave. (Next to Post Office.)
   Hours: 7:45 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phones: 16 and 17.
2. MAIN BRANCH: General Post Exchange Supplies, Shoes, Clothing, Sporting Goods and Candy Departments.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Sundays and holidays: 7:30 A. M. to 12:00 noon.
   Phone: 226.
3. SHOE REPAIR AND HAT SHOP: General Shoe and Boot repairing, Hats cleaned and blocked.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 4:45 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
4. TAILOR SHOP: Regulation Uniforms, Overcoats and Ladies' Riding habits made, altering, cleaning and pressing done.
   Location: Under South stand Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 497.
5. GIFT AND SPECIAL ORDER DEPARTMENT: Gift Articles, Electrical Devices, Hosiery, Lingerie, Tally and Place Cards, Special Mail Orders.
   Location: Under South stands Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 5 00 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 608.
6. FILLING STATION, TIRE REPAIR AND ACCESSORY BRANCH: Gas, Oils, Kerosene, Tires, Tubes, Tire Repairs and all auto accessories.
   Location: Wold Ave. (South of Gowdy Field.)
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7 30 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. Sundays and holidays: 8:00 A. M. to 12 noon.
   Phone: 165.
7. AUTOMOBILE REPAIR SHOPS, BATTERY DEPARTMENT, PAINTING, GREASE AND WASH RACKS: All makes of cars repaired, washed, painted and greased.
   Location: Under Gowdy Field Stands.
   Hours: 7:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. Saturdays: 7:30 A. M. to 2:00 P. M. Emergency service after closing hours.
   Phone: 177.
8. EXCHANGE OFFICE: Executive, Purchasing and Accounting Departments.
   Location: South Tower Doughboy Memorial Stadium.
   Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Saturdays: 8:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon. Closed Sundays and holidays.
   Phone: 18.
9. GOLF SHOP: All types of Golf Equipment.
   Location: Golf Course.
   Hours: 7 30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.
   Phone: 56.
10. OFFICERS' GRILL: Tobaccos, Toilet Articles, Soda Fountain and Restaurant Service.
    Location: Officers' Club.
    Hours: 7:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.
    Phone: 151.
11. BEAUTY PARLOR:
    Location: Officers' Club.
    Hours: 8:00 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Closed Sundays and holidays.
    Phone: 154.

Hoping that we may be given the opportunity to serve your many needs, thereby making your tour of duty at Fort Benning a pleasant one, we are

The Post Exchange

Fort Benning, Ga.

STUDENTS FOR THE 1929-30 CLASSES ARRIVING

The members of the Advanced and Company Officers' classes are rapidly arriving in Columbus and getting settled in preparation for the coming school year. Complete orders for the Refresher class have not as yet been received.

A complete roster of those expected to atend the Advanced and Company officer's classes follows:

Advanced Class

Aldridge, Edwin E., Capt., Inf.
Alger, William E., Capt., Inf. (P. S.)
Allyn, Lester N., Capt. Inf.
Ambrose, Forrest E., Capt., Inf.
Ankcorn, Charles M., Capt., Inf.
Austin, Thomas A., Jr., Capt., Inf.
Baker, Russell, Capt., Inf.
Baldwin, Perry L., Capt., Inf.
Becker, Aaron J., Capt., Inf.
Bell, Raymond D., Major, Inf.
Bell, Robert P., Capt., Inf.
Biggs, Lloyd W., Capt., Cav.
Bloomquist, George F., Capt., Inf.
Boyd, Leonard R., Maj., Inf.
Brooke, John R., Jr., Maj., Inf.
Brown, Homer C., Capt., Inf.
Callen, Nathaniel E., Capt., Inf.
Caulkins, Ralph M., Capt., Inf.
Clark, Solomon F., Capt., F. A.
Clarke, George S., Maj., Inf.
Collins, Harry J., Capt., Inf.
Coulter, Carleton, Jr., Capt., Inf.
Creswell, Harry I. T., Maj., Inf.
Deahl, Charles J., Jr., Capt., Inf.
DeWare, William C., Capt., Inf.
Dollarhide, Erskine S., Maj., Inf.
Dulay, Pedro D., Map., Inf. (P. F.)
Eddy, Manton S., Maj., Inf.
Edmond, Neil S., Capt., Inf.
Ellis, William A., Capt., Inf.
Evans, Roy H., Capt., Inf.
Fales, Clarke K., Capt., Inf.
Fitzpatrick, Rufo M., Capt., Inf.
Fuller, Hurley E., Capt., Inf.
Garcia, Rafael L., Maj., Inf. (P. S.)
Gibson, Harold P., Capt., Inf.
Gray, Clifford A., Capt., Inf.
Hadd, George A., Capt., Inf.
Hall, Ralph, Capt., Inf.
Hoisington, Gregory, Maj., Inf.
Horton, Robert D., Capt., Inf.
Hudson, Paul T., Capt., Inf.
Hunter, Rosser L., Capt., Inf.
Imboden, Nelson M., Capt., Cav.
Johnson, Gerald A., Maj., U. S. M. C.
Jones, Alan W., Capt., Inf.
Lockhead, Frank, Capt., Inf.
McCullough, George S., Capt., Inf.
McFarland, Andrew J., Capt., Inf.
McMahon, William C., Capt., Inf.
Melasky, Harris M., Capt., Inf.
Mendenhall, John R., Maj., Inf.
Miller, Maurice L., Maj., Inf.
Mullins, Charles L., Capt., Inf.
Murray, John T., Capt., Inf.
Osborn, Cuthbert A., Capt., Inf.
Owens, Charles H., Capt., Inf.
Paul, Willard S., Capt., Inf.
Paxton, Oren E., Capt., Inf.
Phillips, Charles T., Capt., A. C.
Pillsburt, Dennis C., Capt., Inf.
Rayens, Charles E., Capt., Inf.
Rice, John K., Capt., Inf.
Ridgway, Matthew B., Capt., Inf.
Rodman, John W., Capt., Inf.
Rogers, Arthur H., Capt., Inf.
Rogers, Walter C., Capt., Inf.
Scales, Howard N., Capt., Inf.
Scobey, William P., Capt., Inf.
Scott, Walter T., Capt., Inf.
Shank, George T., Capt., Inf.
Spann, Wilson McK., Capt., Inf.
Speer, Charles E., Maj., Inf. (Tanks.)
Steward, Elwood M. S., Capt., Inf.
Sweeney, Hardin C., Maj., Inf.
Tabachnik, Abraham, Maj., Inf.
Tarbox, James O., Capt., Inf.
Tuttle, William B., Capt., Inf.
Walker, Edward E., Capt., Inf.
Weyand, Alexander M., Maj., Inf.
Wilder, Stuart G., Maj., Inf.
Wilson, William B., Capt., Inf.
Yon, Everett M., Capt., Inf.

Company Officers Class

Aaron, Thomas R., 1st Lt. Inf.
Akins, Russell C., Capt. Inf.
Allen, Gilbert M. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf.
Bunting, Lloyd D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Burnham, Lucian W., Capt. U. S. M. C.
Butler, Braxton DeG. 1st Lt. Inf.
Cambre, Jerome D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Carmouche, George H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Chazal, Edward A., 2d Lt. Inf.
Cleveland, Orestes, 1st Lt. Inf.
Delong, James C., Capt. Inf.
Doud, Harold, 2d Lt. Inf.
Dudley, Welcott K., 2d Lt. Inf.
Eaton, Ralph P., 2d Lt. Inf.
Elarth, Harold H., Capt. Inf.
Elmore, John A. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf.
Engelthaler, George J., 1st Lt. Inf.
Flanagan, Francis M., Capt. Inf.
Foster, Andrew P. Jr., 2d Lt. Inf. (Tanks)
Gailbreath, Thomas B., 2d Lt. Inf.
Gibbons, Lloyd H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Golightly, Harvey J., 1st Lt. Inf.
Green, Kirby, Capt. Inf.
Gruhn, Ernest W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hanna, Charles W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Harper, Thomas B., 2nd Lt. Inf.
Harris, Herbert H., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hass, Martin F., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hazlehurst Dorr, 1st Lt. Inf.
Hein, Frederick W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Hewitt, Orville M., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hill, James P., 2d Lt. Inf.
Hilliard, Farrin A., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Huarte, Frank D., 1st Lt. Inf. (PS)
Hyatt, John O., 1st Lt. Inf.
Irwin, Carlisle B., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Johnson, Hugh C., 1st Lt. Inf.
Keasler, James L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kelly, Albert G., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kendall, Paul W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Kerr, Maurice S., 1st Lt. Inf.
King, Clarence L., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Kotzebue, Leon L., Capt. Inf.
Krause, Emil, Capt. Inf.
Leeper, Carroll K., 1st Lt. Inf.
LeToney, Peter, Capt. Inf.
Lindley, Frank B., 1st Lt. Inf.
MacDonald, Roscoe G., 1st Lt. Inf.
Mahoney, Thomas E., 1st Lt. Inf.
Mansfield, Frank S., Capt. Inf.
McBride, Robert J., 2d Lt. Inf.
McConnell, Glenn B., 1st. Lt. F. A.
McElroy, John L., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
McKeon, Francis H. A., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Mee, Vincent D., 1st Lt. Inf.
Middleton, John W., 1st Lt. Inf.
Moore, Bryant E., Capt. Inf.
Mulvihill, Francis X., 1st Lt. Inf.
Murray, William S., 1st Lt. Inf.
Potter, Harold E., Capt. Inf.
Prouty, Everett S., 1st Lt. Inf.
Pulsifer, Ralph, 1st Lt. Inf.
Quensen, John F., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Roberts, Heyward B., 1st Lt. Inf.
Robinson, Irvin A., 1st Lt. Inf.
Roemer, Louis E., 1st Lt. Inf.
Rogers, Harry L. Jr., 1st Lt. Inf.
Sherman, John B., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Shults, Fermon A., 1st Lt. Inf. (PS)
Sims, Jules V., 1st. Lt. Inf.
Speidel, William H., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Stewart, Elam L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Tabscott, Ernest E. Capt. Inf.
Thackston, Albert J. Jr., 2d. Lt. Inf. (Tank)s.
Thomas, William A. D., 1st Lt. F. A.
Thorson, Truman C., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks)
Tomlinson, Clarence M. 1st Lt. Inf.
Van Houten, John G., 2d Lt. Inf.
Vermette, Raymond E., Capt. Inf.
Villaret, Gustave Jr., Capt. Inf.
Welch, James C., 1st Lt. Inf. (Tanks).
Whitlaw, John L., 1st Lt. Inf.
Wilson, Leroy C., 1st Lt. Inf.
Winters, Lloyd N., Capt. Inf.
Villar y Duarte, Cesar, 1st Lt. Cuban Army.

CONCENTRATION CAMP, REGULAR ARMY TROOPS, 4TH CORPS AREA

The Commandant has received from the Commanding General, 4th Corps Area, an invitation to all officers of this command to visit the Concentration Camp of the Regular Troops of the 4th Corps Area, at Camp Jackson, S. C., during the period October 1-21, 1929. The Corps Area Commander's program of training for this period is on file at headquarters and may be seen by anyone interested.

First National Bank

Georgia Home Building
"The White Bank"

Capital and Surplus $400,000.00.
Resources Over $2,000,000.00.

Fort Benning Representative:
R. M. HALL, Jr.—Phone 290

Rent a Box in our Safety Burglar and Fire-proof Vaults for your Valuables. Prices moderate.

Accounts of Fort Benning Personnel Solicited

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

A NICE JOB!

If you take pride in a good piece of work and dependable quality on your fine boots and shoes, let us do your repairing. Its high grade.

CUMBAA BOOT & SHOE SHOP
18—12th St.

Silverware by Kirk

America's Oldest Silversmiths

Sterling Silver makes the most acceptable of wedding gifts

C. Schomburg & Son
JEWELERS

1121 Broad St. Columbus, Ga.

AT THE SIGN OF THE BIG CLOCK

NASH Leads The World in Automobile Value

The World Has a New NASH And Finer Motor Car

The only car today in any price field embodying the following important features:

Salon Bodies
Twin Ignition Motor
Bohnalite Invar Strut Pistons
Hollow Crankpin 7-Bearing Crankshaft
Houdaille and Lovejoy Double Action Hydraulic Shock Absorbers
Torsional Vibration Damper
Double Drop Frame
Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubricating System
All Exterior Ware Chrome Plated over Nickel
Longer Wheelbase
New Easy Steering Mechanism

Best Values in Used Cars

We invite comparison

EDGE-FULLER MOTOR CO.

1309 Broadway Phone 67

100 per cent NASH Service

29TH INF.

The following officers having reported to the 29th Infantry for duty are attached to the Regimental Headquarters and Band: Capt. William E. Alger, Capt. Walter C. Rodgers, 1st Lt. Orestes Cleveland, 1st Lt. Maurice S. Kerr, 1st Lt. Thomas E. Mahoney, 1st Lt. Harry L. Rodgers.

Lieutenant Colonel Thorne Strayer is announced as regimental executive officer, relieving Captain Martin D. McAllister, who has been the acting executive officer, since Lieutenant Colonel Franklin's departure.

Captain Ernest S. Barker, who recently returned from leave, is now acting regimental plans and training officer, relieving 1st Lieut. Howard W. Brimmer, who is now assigned to Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry.

2nd Lieut. Joseph F. Trent has been attached to Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry.

Major Frederick C. Phelps has been relieved from assignment to Regimental Headquarters and Band, 29th Infantry, and is now atached to 1st Battalion Headquarters and Headquarters Comuany, 29th Infantry. Major Phelps is now commanding officers of the 1st Battalion.

Major Troy H. Middleton, who joined the regiment last week, has been attached to 2nd Battalion Headquarters and Healquarters Company, 2nth Infantry.

1st Lieut. Thomas N. Stark, who recently returned from the Army and Navy General Hospital at Hot Springs, Arkansas, has been relieved from assignment tto Service Company, 29th Infantry, and assigned to Company B, 29th Infantry.

"Old Timers" have been congratulating 1st Lieutenant Wilbur H. Vinson upon his receipt of War Department orders ordering him to the Philippine Islands. Lieutenant Vinson has completed over seven years of "foreign service," while stationed here in Fort Benning. He remembers the time when the Kashita Indians used to build mud houses on the 29th Infantry parade ground. In fact, he has seen " the world's greatest infantry school" grow from a tiny village to the mighty metropolis that it now is.

A very touching ceremony was enacted Monday afternoon, when the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, commanded by Major Thomas F. Taylor, tendered Lieutenant Colonel Walter L. Reed, its former Battalion commander, a battalion parade at retreat. All former officers, who were with the battalion during the period the 1st Battalion was in camp last May, were invited to take their former posts of cammand. All officers and men are very sorry to see Colonel Reed leave the regiment. However, all feel that, no matter where, when or what, Colonel Reed will always be found "rooting" for the 1st Battalion. After the retreat parade, Major and Mrs. Taylor held a delightful afternoon tea for Colonel and Mrs. Reed on their front lawn, to which all the officers and ladies of the 1st Battalion and other specially invited guests were cordially invited.

Headquarters Co.

The company recreation room is under new management, Private Harry (Happy) Long, has been appointed to the position, by the release of Private Grace, who is now seen in the mess hall in the capacity of K. P. (A Knight of Pythias, yes-huh!)

Private Grace told some members of this company that he believed that outdoor life always agreed with him, however he failed to state that he would lose considerable sleep during the day. Private Grace was a tiller of the soil before entering the service, but he wants to forget that part of it. He is a close student of degerdmain, or else is studying the deaf and dumb alphabet, berause he is always keeping his hands and fingers nimble. He was seen the other night rubbing his hands with gun oil, so his joins would not become stiff, in case he was called upon to do some slight of hand work with 57 articles. Yes, Heine, throw me them there bottles of pickles!

Company "C"

Just a word to the wise, those who care to see a real recreation room, why drop in and look ours over and the best part is yet to come. Wait until we get our reading room fixed up.

Our famous Supply Sergeant, "Jawbone" Hayes has been sojourning in the hospital for a few days, but is back on the job now. If you don't believe me, just ask him where he was last night.

Gosh, it is a shame how some of the fellows in this outfit love a certain section in the State of Alabama! Oh well, you will learn better if you live long enough!

We are all wondering who the recruit was that went to one of the cooks and asked if he could have some breakfast bacon to go with his eggs. "Of course he got it." Pronto! Eh what? Probably the same one who offered to pay the cook for his meals.

First of all, some of us are wondering what is wrong with the wild and wooly third platoon. The Supply Sergeant has tto carry a club around with him these days to keep them off, "and we wonder why." Well, we have been checking their clothing, and the third platoon (usually first in some few things) are very short on clothing. Corporal Dey or "Pug" has almost forgotten that the Supply Sergeant can handle more rags. Better be careful, Pug, that there brass of 'urn has lost its gloss, and someone has been noticed looking at it with their hat cocked down over the right eye (—and his name itsn't Capt. Maybe, either!)

And something for our beloved, bewildered, bewitched and over conscious "Black Frog," who is at the present time on pass and "we wonder why." The story is too long for our news notes, so we can only hope for the best and hope that he will live to forgive and forget.

One of the other "Frogs" of the Company is looking down, poor fellow. If only I could express the sorrow we have for him; is it love that has such effects on a man, or perhaps it is those long and dreary months that he has to do. Just smile, "Frog," Hayes will send you his best wishes from the sunflower state of Kansas at Thanksgiving time, hoping that it will bring you cheer, and let us hape that the year 1930 will find you better in every way.

Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn.

Private first class Robert L. Duck, our former recreation room orderly, has been appointed corporal. Keep up the good work, corporal.

Pfc. Lemuel ("Ramona") J. Kelley, has tatken over the responsibilties of the recreation room. Good luck, Kel.

Corporal Burt L. Udell, who has been

(Continued on page 22.)

Classified Ads

DRESSMAKING: — Dresses made or remodeled. Coats made and lined. All work guaranteed. Mrs. J. E. Stewart, Block 14, Quarters 6, Phone 586.

FOR SALE: Studebaker Standard Six Duplex Phaeton, model 1926. Dining room table and six chairs. Electric heater. Victrola. See or call Major Bull. Phone 118.

FOR SALE: At a bargain. Chrysler 70 Roadster, excellent condition. Apply 3208 13th Ave., or phone 4129J.

WANTED: By lady with years of experience with children, wishes to care for them by the hour, day, week or month. Best military and civilian references. Miss Eugenie Levy, 2014 W. 428 4th Ave.

PIANO TO RENT—Mrs. George E. Chase, 937 Third Ave. Phone 1057-W.

FOR RENT—By year or for school term several apartments with modern equipment. Three and four rooms, bath and kitchen Kelvinators, gas stoves window shades, kitchen tables, hot and cold water, janitor service, garage and wash rack for cars. Will furnish if required. Also two houses five and six rooms with heating furnaces. Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal O. R. C., 1528 Fourth Ave., Phone 1714.

CIIVLIAN AND MILITARY
SHOES AND HOSE

All the latest styles in slippers and shoes now on display in our store at the Post Exchange.

We have a complete stock plain and cap toe officer's dress shoes with the extra high tops suitable for puttees.

POST EXCHANGE

All Classes of Military Tailoring

Satisfaction Guaranteed

POST EXCHANGE
TAILOR SHOP
Fort Benning, Ga.

WELCOME

We wish to extend to the incoming officers and their families a hearty welcome to Columbus and Fort Benning. It will be a pleasure to serve you during your stay.

Phone 314 for Representative

HUBBARD HARDWARE CO.

For Health's Sake

Drink

Grade "A" Raw Milk

Nature's Perfect Food

PURITY SERVICE

Labor Health Tested Cows T. B. Tested

Produced under supervision of Columbus Health Department.

Visitors welcomed at our dairy plants.

Georgia Pure Milk League

P. O. Box 827 Columbus, Ga. Phone 859

THE POST GREENHOUSE

The two Post green houses located on the west side of the Sigerfoos Road across from the childrens' school were completed in March 1925. They were built for use as propagating houses to provide a means for the propagation of flowering and evergreen shrubs. Through the use of these two hot houses the Quartermaster has been able to provide many thousands of fine young shrubs which are now ornamenting the grounds around public buildings and quarters all over the Post. The cost of these plants, had they been purchased commercially, would have run into thousands of dollars.

The propagating plant complete consists of the two glass houses, a heating plant and a mixing and potting room. In addition to these buildings there is a plant nursery where the young plants from the hot houses are lined out and cultivated until time to set them out in their permanent locations. A tree nursery will be established this fall and will complete the units necessary to supply flowers, shrubs and trees for the Post.

The cycle of operation of this important activity, beginning with this month, is outlined briefly below. As this season's growth on the various shrubs begins to mature, cuttings are taken and placed in sand in the propagating benches in the greenhouses. The sand is kept constantly moist and as the weather becomes cooler, the temperature is kept between 75 degrees and 80 degrees F. by the heating plant. These cuttings strike root in the moist sand and begin growth. As soon as a good root system has been developed cuttings are taken out of the sand and potted up in three inch pots. The soil used in these pots is very carefully mixed in the potting room and contains all the elements necessary for the rapid, healthy growth of the young plants. Once potted up the cuttings grow rapidly in the genial warmth of the hot houses and by spring are ready to go into the nursery.

After the weather becomes settled and the ground warms up in the spring, shallow furrows are run in the nursery and the potted plants are put into the open ground. Constan. cultivation and systematic watering in dry weather, coupled with proper pruning and spraying, results in sturdy, strong young plants by fall which are ready to be lifted and set out in the places they are destined to permanently adorn. This transplanting is done after cold weather has caused the plants to cease their growth and go into their winter resting period. Ordinarily transplanting can be undertaken here at Benning from late October until early April.

As the hothouses are emptied of their contents in the spring by the lining out of the potted plants in the nursery, the sand propogating benches are again filled with cuttings. These cuttings are taken from plants which strike roots better from wood taken in the spring just as the sap is beginning to flow than from wood taken in the fall. To protect the cuttings while they are rooting, and after they have been potted, the glass of the hot houses is coated with whitewash,—otherwise the heat of the sun coming through the glass would be intolerable and nothing could be kept in the greenhouses during the summer months. These spring cuttings are ready to go into the nursery by fall and replace the plants taken out for permanent planting.

In this manner both the greenhouses and nursery are kept working all the year round.

At present there are several thousand young shrubs in he nursery awaiting to to their bit in beautifying Fort Benning this fall. In addition to this there are nearly as many more in sand and pots which will go into the nursery as soon as space becomes available. Besides these young shrubs, over fifteen hundred young trees have been selected tagged and charted down in the woods and will be lifted and set out in the Post this fall and winter. Some of these trees and shrubs will go around public buildings recently completed and which need tying into their surroundings, and some will be planted in areas selected as permanent parks. Others will be planted around juarters occupied by members of the garrison and still others will be used to add to and bring out the beauty of many prominent features of the Fort Benning landscape.

Book Review

THE ORIGINS OF THE WORLD WAR

By Sidney Bradshaw Fay, Professor of Modern European History in Smith College. (Extract.)

"If a student of history was banished to the traditional desert island and permitted but one book on each field of history, he would choose for his unique reference work on the origins of the World War the two volumes of Professor Sidney B. Fay. No other work has yet appeared in English, French or German which is at once so comprehensive, authoritative, impartial, and well proportioned. Specialists in the field will long use it as a cornerstone of their own constructions; other historians will place it within easy reach on their reference shelf as an indispensable first aid in clearing up diplomatic problems of the period from 1870 to 1914; but the general reader will do well to read first some standard textbooks on recent European history so that he may understand the detailed and often highly technical analyses of successive crises of European diplomacy. The book was not written for those who need explanations of every diplomatic "incident" to which casual allusion might be made.

The first volume is a review of diplomatic history from the Franco-Prussian war to 1914. The road is a familiar one, but Professor Fay has used the volumes of Die Grosse Politick freely in gaining new light on old problems. His judgements on particular problems are interesting, though only a few can be mentioned: Alsace-Lorraine was really French at heart and its annexation, is not a crime, at any rate a blunder (I. 51); Bismarck was not responsible for the war scare of 1875 (I. 58), nor for the Schnaebel incident (I. 103), nor yet for deliberately sowing ill-will between France and Italy (I. 80-81); Baron Holstein's influence was the main factor in preventing a renewal of the Reinsurance Treaty (I. 92), but this fact was not the sole or even the main cause of the Franco-Russian alliance (I. 95); "the first years of the Franco-Russian alliance tended to strengthen rather than endanger the peace of Europe" (I. 124); Sir Edward Grey's "great responsibility and mistake" was to permit Anglo-French military and naval understandings while still holding to the illusion that they left England diplomatically uncommitted to France (I. 193, 323); the deliberate encirclement of Germany by an iron ring of enemies was a myth, "the product of German imagination, fear, and suspicion" (I. 243); both Germany and Russia worked hard to avoid war over Morocco (I. 290-293); Izvolski was mainly responsible for reopening the delicate question of the Straits (I. 414-428); Sazonov usually took a very cautious and moderate position at times of crisis (I. 524-531); Germany, even more than Italy, was responsible for restraining Austria from an attack on Serbia in 1913 (I. 448-455.)

The second volume deals wholly with the crisis of 1914. It contains a very detailed account of the Sarajevo assassination and devotes rather more space to the less familiar field of Balkan politics than to the high politics of the Great Powers. Much use is made of the Austrian accounts of the trial of the conspirators, and there is a prolonged controversy, marked with perhaps a touch of acerbity, with the eminent British historian R. W. Seton-Watson as to the responsibility of the Serbian government. Professor Fay concedes as "perfectly certain that Mr. Pashitch and his cabinet had nothing to do with the originating of the assessination" (II. 145) but he holds, on circumstancial evidence, that they must have eventually become aware of the plot. He believes that this knowledge induced the Serbian ministers, who did not at the moment want war, to send a general warning to Austria that Franz Ferdinand should beware of assassination or stay away from Sarajevo, but unfortunately, from fear of being compromised by the investigations that would result, they did not dare make their warning explicit enough to prevent what happened. This is admittedly speculative, but seems on the whole the most probable explanation of Serbia's dubious and ambiguous official attitude on the eve of the assassination.—Preston Slosson.

COL. BERRY ASSUMES COMMAND

During the temporary absence of General Campbell King, Colonel D. G. Berry has assumed command of the Infantry School.

TRAFFIC ON SIGERFOOS ROAD

Until further orders Sigerfoos road from the intersection with Vibbert avenue to the swimming pool will be a two-way road for all cars carrying passengers to or from the swimming pool.

DRINK NEHI
REG. U. S. PAT OFF.
"THE STANDARD BY WHICH OTHERS ARE JUDGED"
It retails no higher than Cheap Substitutes

IN THIS BOTTLE ONLY

"UPSTAIRS" SPECIAL UNITS

By "The Gang"

We are all worked up over the new coat of paint our building is receiving. Day by day, we are getting no worse. Just hope we aren't standing still.

Sergeant Ross is a fine clerk, especially when it comes to digging out the solution to a mighty difficult problem. He just goes after it in very much the same spirit of a terrier unearthing a rat. But Sam certainly did have an awful time walking the plank the painters laid down to protect the newly painted floor.

Mims is good at winning title contests for cartoons, but the five dollars reward given the winner is either a long time getting here, or Mims just doesn't want to give us all a cigar treat.

Corporal Abie Brownstein has two teeth broken off in front. His alibi is that he got it done playing "wolley" ball, but there is a rumor in the air that he was once going up a ladder, and about half way to the top he had to get into an argument, and of course he had to get his hands free to argue, and getting overbalanced, fell right on top of a pile of bricks, teeth first. He says that talking with his hands was brought about by expressing his thoughts on a typewriter, using the hunt-and-peck system. He alsos states that he is a thorough-bred Irishman. We wouldn't doubt his word for anything, and we wouldn't insinuate that talking with his hands was just natural with him.

Corporal Payne had a pipe. The bowl was of ordinary brier, but the stem was about fourteen inches of Upatoi-Creek reed. Well, he missed it recently, and started an awful rumpus, saying that he treasured it only for sentimental reasons. Just take the last two syllables off the word "sentiment," and you will have the very reason the gang voted unanimously to throw the old thing in the G. I. can.

Hope we won't have too much cold weather this coming winter, for the way the Tobacco Chewers' League uses the stove for a cuspidor, we'll have an awful time keeping any fire there. Benefield is president of the League just now, but the other day when Kessinger had to answer a question, he was seen to head for the stove and open the door. We can't believe that he was just looking inside. Looks like Benefield might have a little opposition for presidency next election.

Something has been wrong with Pat for a long time. We can't find out just what it is, although several suggestions have been offered, such as belles in Hattiesburg, Furloughs, etc., but none of them seem to fit the situation. Somebody suggested "Mullygrubs," and we were willing to let it go at that, not having the slightest idea what that meant, but not so with Pat; he got all indignant, and said if he had half an idea he had such things, he would secure a big chunk of G. I. soap and head for the bath house.

We had better finish this some other time, for we have fine morale here, and too much publicity all at one time might get the gang to high-hating each other, and spoil the pleasant state of harmony we have drifted into after so many years.

24TH INF.

SAN JUAN — SEMPER PARATUS

The Regimental contest for the best kept quarters is bringing out a lot of talent and keen competition. Each company is going to it with enthusiasm. The winners are sure to have spotless squad rooms,

The records have not yet been compiled showing how well the 24th did on the rifle range. The supplementary season for the rifle is over and that for the pistol is being completed as this goes to print. Next week we hope to be able to publish the statistics.

Right close on the heels of baseball comes the call for football. Lt. Ellison hadn't been back from the coaching school two days before he had the squad out going through preliminary exercises. They can been seen late every afternoon working hard on the parade ground, and what a bunch of huskies they are. All we can say is look out Tuskegee. When our team goes over there, before long, it should be some game.

Additional 29th Infantry Notes

(Continued from page 20.)

our Company clerk for quite a while, is due to leave us for a few months. "Udoole" is going to the Signal School, at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and Pfc. Fabian ("Frog") A. Buquoi, has taken over the duties of company clerk. By the way, he was a "Buck" until a few days ago. Atta Boy, "Frog." Here's wishing Corporal Udell, the best of success in his new studies.

Private Earl Haun has been rated Specialist 6th Class. Nice going there, Haun!

One of the fellers in the outfit received a letter from Sgt. William B. Smith a few days ago, and "Smitty" said that he surely was in love, (as some little femme would say), with Baton Rouge and that he hoped to make good in the "frog" country. HaHa!

Company "E"

"Battling" Danny Davis, one of our foremost athletes in the fighting game fought a main go last week, with Ginger Jernigan; also "Doubting" Thomas, is also geting in on the money here at Fort Benning. We are sorry that "Doubting" Thomas is buying out.

"Young" Stanley of the second Platoon has been worrying lately. He would like to go the Philippine Islands where the sun shines hot, and monkeys chatter in the trees, and the polly parrots are talking sweet nothings to everybody.

"Swede" Oikari our asst. mess sergeant has changed the menu on Sunday morning from hot cakes and bacon to bacon and hot cakes. Good boy, "Swede," a change will do us good.

"Slug" Griffin was seen the other day sporting a five cent "Winne Winkle" cigar; business must be picking up for "Slug."

We haven't been geting so many telephone calls here lately, since "Goat" Liebel has been going to town quite often. "Goet" must have won himself a home in Columbus, Georgia.

Company "G"

Company "G" made a good showing in the swimming meet held at Russ Pool on Labor Day. Private Nims of the 3rd Platoon took 3rd place in the 400 yard free style. Recruit George R. Smith, Jr., took first place in the 50 yard dash and also third place in the 100 yard free style. Private "Possum Prophet" took second place in the 200 yard free style, and Corporal Latham took second place in the 100 yard backstroke.

Our four entries won five medals, incidentally these were the only medals won in the 2nd Battalion. Good work, boys, keep up the work "G" Company is in the foreground again.

Lt. Cralle has started working strenuously on the football team; let's all dig in on that.

1st Sergeant Bert Plummer is now taking a well earned furlough. He is visiting relatives in Starkville, Miss.

Sgt. John Simpson is now in his 7th heaven, "Recruit Center." Atta Boy, Warset!

Private Walinski is happy too; he is now using Lemay's "personal tools" in the Supply Room.

Bugler Baker is just about getting over his voluntary thirteen day hike into Tennessee.

Pvt. Weber to Pvt. Lynn, "When is a fish not a fish?" Pvt Lynn, "When he won't bite the bait."

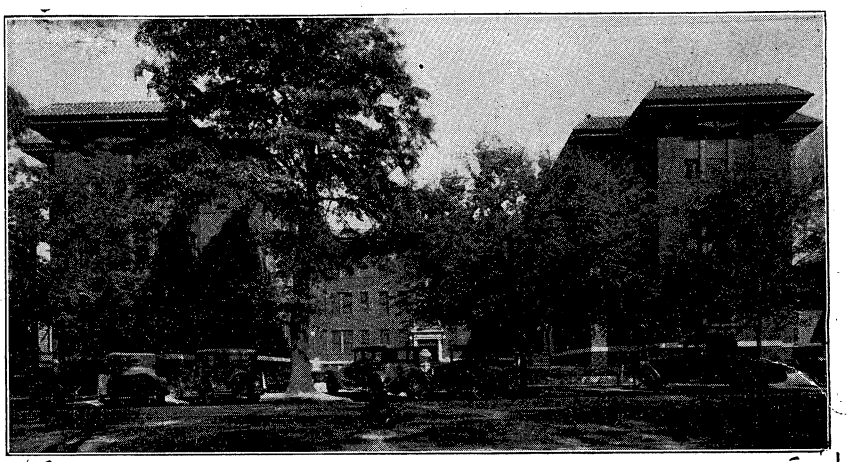
Private Plant is still trying to figure out which came first ,the hen or the egg.

Pvt. Vicknair still plays "Lylia Time," I wonder why?

PATRONIZE NEWS ADVERTISERS

BROKERAGE SERVICE
Through All Principal Exchanges
Direct Private Wires to
Columbus Branch Office: No. 7 11th St.
Phones 2272-2273-2274—LD 9962
W. R. M. Palmer
Chas. B. Foley Associate Mgrs.
Direct Private Wires to New York, Chicago and throughout the South.
FENNER & BEANE
NEW ORLEANS BROKERS NEW YORK

Chase Conservatory of Music
Corner 3rd Avenue and 10th Street
PIANO, VIOLIN and ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTS
Special consideration given to all Benning pupils, children and adults, in the matter of convenient periods. Musical tests made without charge or obligation.
Low rate bus fares available.
SESSION BEGINS MONDAY, SEPT. 16th
Prompt registration assures more favorable lesson hours
Phone 264
Address LOUIS T. CHASE, Pres.



THE DIMON COURT APARTMENTS
Columbus, Georgia–Broadway Opposite Library and Park
Designed for beauty—located for convenience. Built for permanence—conducted with efficiency. 36 modern, attractive and steam heated 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 room apartments, all partly furnished.
We extend to our Army friends the hospitality of THE DIMON COURT.
A few apartments are available.
For full information communicate with any real estate or renting agent in Columbus, Georgia, or National Show Case Co. Owners—Phone 470
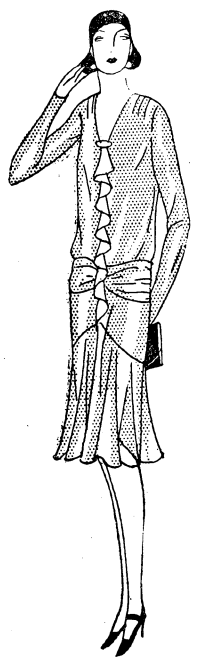
Hill & Hill Agents—Phone 476
Superintendent, Apartment House Phone 3062

Kirven's Extends a most cordial "Welcome" to the New Officers and their families to Columbus and Fort Benning.

And we invite you to make our Store your Shopping Headquarters while you are in our midst. Here you will always find the newest styles in Ladies and Misses Ready-to-Wear. Only forty hours from New York and being constantly in touch with that Center of Fashion, new things are arriving daily, and being offered at prices commensurate with a fair profit, together with all the conveniences only a Complete Department Store can offer.

Coats and Dresses Have A Nonchalant Smartness



DRESSES

The new fall frocks are arriving. The new style trends are forecast in interesting variety, subtle changes in the silhouette appear. Dresses of Satin, Velvet, plain and printed Crepe tell a fascinating story of the new mode.

Dresses of Black Satin
With Lingerie Touches
A Higher Waistline
And Uneven Hemline

Skillful manipulations of fabric in godets, pleats and insets creates a graceful fulness below the hips. Sleeves are important—with elaborated cuffs, often being cut in one at the shoulder.

COATS

The ease and grace of these coats meets the ideal of what correct coats should be. Many have straight lines—others are broken by subtle flares. These coats are an indispensable part of every complete outfit—they are appropriate for many of the informal daytime occasions of fall as well as for travel, school or sports wear.

TWEEDS
PILE FABRICS
NOVELTY MATERIALS

Some are untrimmed except for stitching, cording or bandings of the material, others are trimmed with furs of Fox, Badger, Kit Fox, Wolf, Beaver and Skunk.

Dresses $10.75 to $59.50

LADIES AND MISSES SIZES

Coats $24.75 to $175.00

COLUMBUS' Kirven's ESTABLISHED 1876 OWN STORE

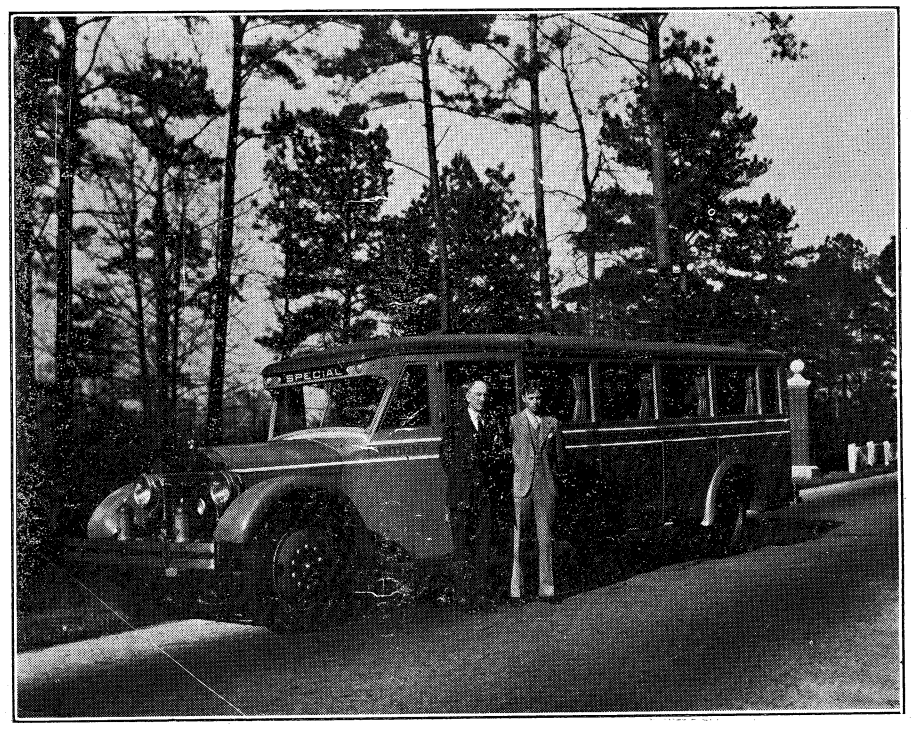
HOWARD BUS LINE, Inc.



The above is a scene on the Fort Benning Boulevard between Columbus and Fort Benning, showing one of our new Mack Parlor Buses. They are painted in Infantry colors with dust colored roofs, and are equipped with all the easy riding devices known to the manufacturers, including rubber shock insulators which is an exclusive feature. We have another new bus ordered, due to arrive sometime in September, which will be equipped with balloon tires, as well as the other features, which pertains to the comfort of the passengers.

We desire to call to the attention of the student officers who live in Columbus and civilian employees at Benning the following:

Monthly Business Tickets
52 One Way Trips $10.00

City Buses and Cars radiate from our Columbus station to all parts of the City and Girard, Ala., and North Highlands—making easy and quick transportation from Benning to your homes in Columbus.

SCHEDULE

Note the following schedule which we think you will find convenient:

Lv. Columbus	Lv. Ft. Benning
5:00 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
6:00 "	8:00 "
7:00 "	10:00 "
9:00 "	12:00 M.
11:00 "	2:00 P. M.
1:00 P. M.	4:00 "
3:00 "	5:00 "
5:00 "	6:00 "
7:00 "	7:00 "
9:00 "	8:00 "
10:00 "	10:00 "
11:00 "	12:00 Mn.

We also operate Packard Cars on this service at 50c fares, minimum for trip $2.50.

Also "Extras" and SCHOOL BUSES

You will find us accommodating and desirous of serving you.

HOWARD BUS LINE, Inc.

PHONE—CITY 410

T. C. CRAWFORD, President

PHONE—POST 224