HISTORICAL RECORD OF THE G-1 SECTION
FOR THE PERIOD 6 JUNE - 30 JUNE 1944

The G-1 Section, 4th Infantry Division, with Lt Col Garlen R. Bryant, O287628, as AG of S, G-1, landed on the Cherbourg Peninsula in occupied France, on D-DAF, 6 June 1944 with other sections from Division Headquarters at approximately 1500. Division CP located at 432945.

7 June 1944 - G-1 and two enlisted men were captured by the enemy. Later in the day the enemy force consisting of 7 officers and 165 enlisted men surrendered to Lt Col Bryant.

8 June 1944 - The first estimated casualty report for the first three days of the invasion was submitted to VII Corps. Division CP was moved to H.E. Beuzeville, AU Plain, (404957). Conference held with the Chief of Staff and the Division Graves Registration Officer. Burials until this time had been handled by the 1st Engineer Special Brigade. Arrangements were made to open a Division cemetery located at 386975 and preparations were made to expedite burial of our own and the enemy dead. To expedite the handling of prisoners of war, G-1 directed the Provost Marshal to set up a Prisoner of War Inclosure at Sandienville. (362988).

9 June 1944 - Reconnaissance was made for a new CP but conditions were unfavorable due to enemy artillery fire and move was postponed. A second Prisoner of War Inclosure opened at Havenoville, (385016).

10 June 1944 - CP moved forward to Le Bisson, (404957). Routine work completed. Overstrength of 1700 officers and men arrived.

12 June 1944 - The first G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army.

13 June 1944 - Visits made to all regiments. The problem of disposal of cattle accidentally killed during the first days of the campaign arose. Conference held with the CA Officer and arrangements were completed for the handling of this situation; French civilian labor was utilized. The Prisoner of War Inclosure at Havenoville was closed.

14 June 1944 - G-1 accompanied the Commanding General to the Replacement Depot to greet the first group of replacements. A total of 116 officers and 1367 enlisted men was received in the first shipment.

15 June 1944 - Conference held with the Graves Registration Officer to plan means to bring dead back from front lines for burial. It was decided that the regiments would collect and bring their dead to a central point so that personnel in charge of burials could continue their work without interruption.

(Historical Record of the G-1 Section for the Period 6 Jan - 30 Jun 44, cont'd)

16 June 1944 - The first meeting of the General and Special Staff and Unit Commanders since the landing in France was called by the Commanding General. Regimental and Separate Unit Commanders were urged to submit recommendations for awards. Another officer was attached to the section to handle this type of work only. The delay in arrival of the Adjutant General's Section necessitated all work being done by G-1 Section.

17 June 1944 - A plan to handle the problem of Decorations and Awards as expeditiously as possible was formulated. The Prisoner of War Inoclosure moved to Joganville, (529081).

18 June 1944 - The second G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army. Another officer and an enlisted man were attached to the section to aid in the important morale task of Decorations and Awards.

19 June 1944 - A board was appointed, with G-1 as member, to determine eligibility for decorations on recommendations being submitted. The first presentations of the Bronze Star Medal were made to 26 officers and 7 enlisted men. Included in this group was G-1 and two members of the section.

21 June 1944 - Full time devoted to Decorations and Awards. Prisoner of War Inoclosure moved to Tamerville, (260105).

22 June 1944 - G-1 again made a trip to VII Corps and First United States Army. CP was intermittently strafed and shelled.

The lines had again moved forward so the CP moved to 228178. Prisoner of War Inoclosure was moved to Gallis, (242176).

25 June 1944 - The Adjutant General's Section finally having arrived during the past week the administrative work on decorations and awards was turned over to that section. The two officers and one enlisted man who had been working on this type of work moved back to the Adjutant General's Section to continue it there. G-1 Periodic Report submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army, showing that a total of 31 officers and 1078 enlisted men replacements had been received during the past week. All residue was reported in.

28 June 1944 - G-1 Section moved to CP outside Cherbourg. Last minute preparations were completed to award Silver Star Medals to men in the regiments.

(Historical Record of the G-1 Section for the Period 6 Jun - 30 Jun 44, cont'd)

HISTORICAL RECORD OF THE G-1 SECTION
FOR THE PERIOD 1 JULY - 31 JULY 1944

The period 1-4 July 1944 inclusive found the 4th Infantry Division in a rest area with the CP located at 288985. During this period the G-1 Section was engaged in arranging and supervising the awarding of decorations to the Division's heroes. Awards of the Silver Star were made by Major General Barton at formations of the regiments. During the first three days of the month the division was able to secure replacements sufficient to increase its depleted strength to authorized T/O. The G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army on 2 July 1944.

5 July 1944 - The CP moved to near le Coudray and the Prisoner of War Inclosure was opened at Apperville. The fighting at first moved quite rapidly and the CP was again moved on 6 July 1944 and 8 July 1944. Here the hedgerow to hedgerow fighting had taken its toll on our strength and in order to keep the infantry at efficient fighting strength, requisitions were submitted for both officer and enlisted personnel.

9 July 1944 - A representative of the section moved to the replacement battalion to aid the division classification officer in securing and delivering to the units, 31 officers and 299 enlisted men. The G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army.

10 July 1944 - An additional 20 officers and 320 enlisted men were received. It has been the established policy of the section to secure officers and men as the units needed them and to send these replacements forward immediately even though the division was fighting. This practice has proven quite satisfactory and prevents any single company from falling below fighting strength to an extent that its efficiency is handicapped.

11 July 1944 - Replacements were again received; a total of 20 officers and 501 enlisted men. Until this date there had been very few of our own casualties returning to duty and all replacements were new men. The caliber of these men was, as a whole, very good when placed in companies along with veterans.

13 July 1944 - Assistant G-1 First United States Army visited CP and brought a copy of Special Orders with first battle field promotions. Brigadier General Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., died of natural causes 12 July 1944 and was buried at VII Corps Cemetery, St6. near Eglise, France, 14 July 1944.

16 July 1944 - The first group of officer casualties returned to duty. These men were welcomed because of the need for battle tried leaders. From that date on there was a steady return of both officer and enlisted men who had been casualties. It is the policy of the division to return these men to the companies in which they had formerly served. The G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army.

17 July 1944 - The division moved into a rest area near le Handerie, France, and arrangements were made for ceremonies to decorate men who had been awarded the Silver Star and Bronze Star Medals. The Division Band was brought forward to play for these formations. The Commanding General made the presentation of all Silver Stars and the Regimental Commanders made the awards of the Bronze Star Medals.

18, 19, 20 July 1944 - During this period the division was in a rest area. G-1 accompanied the General to the various regiments to make the awards mentioned above. G-1 was awarded the Silver Star Medal on 18 July 1944.

21, 22 July 1944 - Recommendations for the DSC had been submitted to VII Corps but as yet no word as to the action taken on them had been received so a check was made to determine their status. The division was preparing to go into action again and the CP was moved to a location near la Chapelle en Juger, France.

23 July 1944 - The G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army.

24, 25 July 1944 - This period spent in routine administration work on decorations and awards and visiting the units.

26 July 1944 - The CP moved forward to a new location near la Coutours, France.

27 July 1944 - A new Prisoner of War Inclosure was opened near le Guislian, France, and the CP again moved forward to a bivouac area near le Desert, France.

29 July 1944 - The CP moved forward to a new location near le Guislian, France.

30 July 1944 - The G-1 Periodic Report was submitted to VII Corps and First United States Army. New Prisoner of War Inclosure opened near Hambye, France, and CP moved to area in that vicinity 31 July 1944.

Estimated casualty report submitted daily to VII Corps during this period.

During the past month the division's estimated casualties were:

Killed in Action	484
Wounded in Action	2535
Missing in Action	348
Captured	2
TOTAL	3369

Total Replacements received during the period:

Officers	212
Enlisted Men	5268
	5470

The division took 1190 German Prisoners of War.

The total Battle Casualties for the 4th Infantry Division after careful check at cemeteries and hospitals reveals:

Wounded in Action	6758
Missing in Action	372
Captured	8

Stress was placed on submitting applications of qualified NCO's for commission to 2d Lt's. Another important matter was discussed in regards to placing 4th Division Casuals returning to their former companies when received from replacement channels, as had been the case in the past which resulted in some 4th Division men being held in the replacement pool until such time as needed to fill vacancies in their former organization. Such policy to be discontinued and in the future 4th Division men will be placed where needed within the division.

Major General Raymond O. Barton,
Commanding General, Fourth Motorized Division,
Fort Dix, New Jersey.

Dear General Barton:

I thoroughly enjoyed my visit to your Division in the field last Friday, June 18th.

It was particularly gratifying to have an opportunity to see the troops on the march in three columns, carrying out your regularly scheduled work. This enabled me to observe the Division extensively without interfering with their scheduled training.

Your Division is a good looking outfit. Officers and men appeared to be in fine physical condition. Their march discipline and tactical operations were of the highest order.

I have every confidence that when this Division gets into action the enemy will know that he has been struck by something of great power, punch and spirit.

Please extend my appreciation and my congratulations to the officers and men of all ranks within the Fourth Motorized Division.

Sincerely yours,

S/ ROBERT P. PATTERSON,

THRU : Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division.

The reception of troops of the 8th Infantry Regiment was performed by you and your organization. From personal observation and from enthusiastic reports of subordinate commanders it is noted that every detail as covered in Circular #5, Headquarters, First U.S. Army, 10 November 1943, was fully taken care of and all in a superior manner.

You and your men were on the job for several days prior to our arrival and stayed after our arrival until we were fully instructed and oriented in our new locations. The actual reception as we arrived made all officers and men most happy and comfortable. The hot meals, warm billets, and ready banks made morale sky high and contributed greatly to the cheerful spirit towards our new location and the work ahead.

The officers and men of the 8th Infantry Regiment appreciate the fine reception and wish to thank you gratefully.

Dear General Bradley:

Will you please convey to the Corps and Division Commanders concerned my deep appreciation for the many courtesies extended to me during my inspection of last week, and for their kindness in making it possible for me to see so many of their soldiers.

I was struck by the obvious fitness of the troops, their enthusiasm and training, and their general efficiency so far as this could be determined from a hasty visit.

Our country expects much of her troops and I am confident that soldiers such as those I saw in the 4th and 29th Divisions will fully live up to these expectations.

Sincerely,

TO : Commanding Officer, 8th Infantry.

1. Exercise "Beaver" is over and as the various phases and actions unfold through umpire reports and discussions, it becomes very evident that the part played by the 8th Infantry was outstanding.

2. These reports include accounts of successful debarkations under hazardous conditions, the expeditious and ingenious crossing of the Ley, the realistic and efficient assault of fortified positions and a continuous aggressive advance on the objective.

3. The overall picture is one of eager aggressiveness, initiative and determination; the make up of a highly potent and successful fighting organization.

4. I commend Colonel Van Fleet for his superior leadership which has long been reflected in his regiment; the officers and men for the outstanding performance and battle realism displayed.

To : Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division, APO 4, US Army.

It is recommended that the officers and men of Company "E", 8th Infantry, be commended for exceptional performance in their beach assault and advance inland on the recent "Beaver" exercise. The task of Company "E", assault sections in clearing the ground confronting them, coordinating their own fire and exercising precision coordination with the supporting fires of Company "C", was well executed and very effective. The men exhibited an intense desire to close and reduce enemy beach emplacement with swift maximum results.

To : Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division, APO 4, US Army.

It is recommended that the officers and men of Company "F", 8th Infantry be commended for their outstanding performance in the recent exercise "Beaver". Beach installations were attacked and reduced with great vigor. From the beach the Company moved rapidly inland, making full use of cover and concealment. Although wet and seasick the officers and men of Company "F", displayed great interest and effort. Had this exercise been one of actual combat, Company "F" would have accomplished their mission victoriously.

TO : Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division, APO 4, US Army.

It is recommended that the officers and men of Company "B", 8th Infantry be commended for exceptionally fine work in the recent "Beaver" exercise. The landing craft from which they were to debark landed 300 yards to the right of the company's assigned sector, forming a gap between Company "B" and Company "C" on the left. The plan of attack was immediately changed, pill boxes vigorously assaulted, allowing the company to work its way back to its assigned area. This application of immediate action closed the gap and greatly assisted in clearing the beach for the succeeding waves.

To: All Officers and Men, 4th Infantry Division.

You have met and beaten the enemy in your first combat and successfully completed a difficult and hazardous campaign. Forcing a landing on enemy held France, you have fought significantly through every obstacle to a glorious victory. The superb bravery and devotion to duty you displayed won for the 4th Infantry Division added laurels and gave to it the honor of being the first allied unit to enter the city of Chartres. Your noble achievements have earned the respect of the entire Army and the proud gratitude of the nation. To this I add my heart-felt thanks to every individual, and my sincere congratulations.

SUBJECT: Personal Message from C-in-C, 21 Army Group.

TO : All Corps, Division and Separate Unit Commanders.

The following personal message from the C-in-C, 21 Army Group will be read to all troops of your command:

"21 ARMY GROUP."

1. A great deal has happened since my last message to you on 10 June - one month ago; the battle in Normandy has been fierce and hard since then, and much has been achieved.

2. Our gains have been definite and concrete; and we have held everything we have gained, despite the desperate efforts of the enemy to push us back in to the sea.

On the west flank - CHERBOURG
On the east flank - CAEN
And much territory in between.

And all the time a tremendous struggle with a skilful enemy, whose good fighting qualities and tenacity in battle cannot but attract our admiration. The pace has been hot, and it was clear that someone would have to give ground sooner or later; it was equally clear that the Allied soldiers would see the thing through to the end and would never give up; and so the Germans have been forced to give ground - which is very right and proper.

3. And today, the Allied armies fighting in Normandy have good grounds for solid satisfaction.

We have taken over 54000 prisoners. We have given the enemy forces a tremendous pounding, and we know from prisoners what great losses they have suffered.

And we have enlarged and extended our lodgement area, and in that area we are very firm and secure and we are developing our offensive operations in accordance with our plans.

4. And so, to every Allied soldier in Normandy I say:

"Well done. Well done indeed. You have performed a great task in a manner which is fully in keeping with the great traditions of the fighting stocks from which we all come. And your families and friends in the home land may well be very proud of their men folk serving overseas".

5. It is the earnest desire of every Allied soldier in Normandy to finish this business off as quickly as possible, and to null his full weight and do his duty with it to the bitter end. But all I know, and I cannot do better than to conclude by quoting the favourite prayer of Sir Francis Drake:

"O Lord, God, and thou, to thy servants to endeavour any great matter, grant us also to know that it is not the beginning, but the continuing of the which yieldeth the true glory."

I--BATTLE HONORS (8TH INFANTRY REGIMENT)--As approved by General Orders Number 26, this headquarters, 17 June 1944, citation of the following unit by the Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division, is published herewith:

The 8th Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy during the invasion of the Continent. The assault waves of the regiment made the initial landing on the beaches of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, at 0630; 6 June 1944, being the first troops ashore in the VII Corps area. They stormed the prepared beach defenses and upon securing these, cleared the causeways within their sector and drove inland clearing the way for successive units by a continuous and courageous drive. This entire operation was carried out under heavy enemy artillery fire and extensive sniping by small isolated groups in addition to enemy infantry troops in their path of advance. Upon landing of other units, the 8th Infantry Regiment was moved into position on the left flank of the division. Their sector included a main communication line to the north which was strongly defended at successive positions. In the face of constant enemy artillery, rocket and small arms fire, they made a courageous and determined drive for three days and nights without let-up.

II--BATTLE HONORS (505TH PARACHUTE INFANTRY REGIMENT)--As approved by General Orders Number 26, this headquarters, 17 June 1944, citation of the following unit by the Commanding General, 82nd Airborne Division, is published herewith:

The 505th Parachute Infantry Regiment, 82nd Airborne Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy between 6 and 9 June 1944, during the invasion of France. The regiment landed by parachute shortly after 0200, 6 June 1944, on the Cotentin Peninsula, in the area west of Ste Mere Eglise, France. Drons were made in the face of artillery, machine gun, antiaircraft and mortar fire from organized and fortified enemy positions, and against small arms fire of mobile and static antiairborne landing groups of German forces located in the area. Between 0200 and 0400, the regiment secured the area west of Ste Mere Eglise for the pre-dawn glider landing of Division Headquarters and antiaircraft elements of the division. By dawn the 505th Parachute Infantry had captured the town of Ste Mere Eglise and controlled this vital road center preventing movement of German forces on the roads to the beachheads east of Ste Mere Eglise. The regiment also established strong defensive positions east of the bridge over the Merderet River near La Fiere and prevented reinforcement of German forces east of the Merderet River. The regiment maintained these positions against repeated counterattacks by a numerically superior enemy supported by tanks and artillery. The regiment bore the full brunt of vicious German counterattacks, repelled every assault without comparable artillery support or assistance from friendly forces and achieved the regimental objectives. In the midst of continuous enemy fire, duties were performed unhesitatingly and with utter disregard for personal safety. The courage and devotion to duty shown by members of the 505th Parachute Infantry are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

G. O. No. 46, Hq First Army, 10 August 1944 (cont'd)

III--BATTLE HONORS (507TH PARACHUTE INFANTRY REGIMENT)--As approved by General Orders Number 26, this headquarters, 17 June 1944, citation of the following unit by the Commanding General, 82nd Airborne Division, is published herewith:

The 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy between 6 and 9 June 1944, during the invasion of France. The regiment landed by parachute shortly after 0200, 6 June, on the Cotentin Peninsula, east and west of the Morderot River and north of the Douve River, France. Assembly of regimental groups was rapidly effected in the face of attack from mobile German antiairborne groups and fire from all types of weapons. Elements of the regiment west of the Morderot River engaged vastly superior forces and accomplished primary objectives. They immobilized strong enemy units in the vicinity of Ambreville for a period of three days and prevented them from crossing the Morderot River to reinforce German forces opposing the beachhead landings on the eastern shore of the Peninsula. Other elements of the 507th Parachute Infantry, prevented German forces from crossing the bridge over the Morderot River, near Chef Du Pont and repelled repeated counterattacks reinforced with tanks, mortars and artillery of all types. Isolated elements in a half dozen positions forced the enemy to commit disproportionately superior strength for periods up to three days and bore the full brunt of every type of weapon and attack utilized by the foe. The regiment displayed courage of the highest order in every engagement and against bitter and tenacious opposition. Duties were performed unhesitatingly and with determination and aggressiveness in continuous and unremitting assault. The courage and devotion to duty shown by members of the 507th Parachute Infantry are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

IV--BATTLE HONORS (508TH PARACHUTE INFANTRY REGIMENT)--As approved by General Orders Number 26, this headquarters, 17 June 1944, citation of the following unit by the Commanding General, 82nd Airborne Division, is published herewith:

The 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy between 6 and 9 June 1944, during the invasion of France. The regiment landed by parachute shortly after 0200, 6 June 1944, on the Cotentin Peninsula, east and west of the Morderot River and north of the Douve River, France. Intense antiaircraft and machine gun fire was directed against the approaching planes and parachutist drops. Enemy mobile antiairborne landing groups immediately engaged assembled elements of the regiment and reinforced their opposition with heavily supported reserve units. Elements of the regiment seized Hill 30, in the wedge between the Morderot and Douve Rivers, and fought vastly superior enemy forces for three days. From this position, they continually threatened German units moving in from the west, as well as the enemy forces opposing the crossing of our troops at the bridges over the Morderot near La Fiere and Chef Du Pont. They likewise denied the enemy opportunity to throw reinforcements to the east where they could oppose the beach landings. The troops on Hill 30 finally broke through to join the airborne troops at the bridgehead west of La Fiere on 9 June 1944. They had repelled continuous attacks from infantry, tanks, mortars and artillery for more than 60 hours without resupply. Other elements of the 508th Parachute Infantry fought courageously in the bitter fighting west of the Morderot River and in winning the bridgeheads across that river at La Fiere and Chef Du Pont. The regiment secured its objectives through heroic determination and initiative. Every member performed his duties with exemplary aggressiveness and superior skill. The courage and devotion to duty shown by members of the 508th Parachute Infantry are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

The magnificent battle you fought in this operation will rank with your equally magnificent landing on D-day. The story of your achievements will endure as long as military history endures.

1. I wish to commend the officers and men of the 22nd RCT, 4th Infantry Division, for their outstanding performance of duty and fighting qualities during a recent operation.

2. This organization reported to me as an infantry organization of the normal infantry-type division which, after a short period of indoctrination, operated as armored infantry in a manner that would do credit to any regular armored infantry regiment in the Army. They perfected a teamwork between tanks and infantry that very nearly approached perfection. This, together with their fighting qualities, made them an irresistible force on the battlefield.

3. The professional qualities, adaptability and far-sightedness of the commander of this organization, Colonel C. T. Lanham, O-15566, was a motivating force behind the welding of this infantry regiment into an armored combat team.

4. I shall always look with pride to the time when I was in command of an organization that included the 22nd RCT.

1. I wish to commend the officers and enlisted personnel of the 3d Battalion of the 8th Infantry Regiment for their splendid performance of duty in combat near Barenton, France on the 13 and 14 August 1944. Owing to the exigency of the tactical situation the 3d Battalion of the 8th Infantry was attached to the 41st Armored Infantry Regiment without prior notice at approximately 1800 on the 13 August 1944 in support of operations of the 2d Armored Division. The officers of the 3d Battalion, 8th Infantry Regiment were briefed at 1920 that date, made preliminary reconnaissance and established a system of outposts supported by tanks, and artillery in sufficient time to relieve Combat Command "B", 26 Armored Division at 0230, 14 August 1944. It is noteworthy that this system of outposts was established successfully with unusual skill and dispatch in unfamiliar territory and complete darkness in the immediate vicinity of enemy observation and listening posts which had been established for several days on commanding ground. The rapid assimilation of the tactical situation and ease of adaptation to armored force tactics demonstrated by the officers and men of the 3d Battalion, 8th Infantry Regiment, in executing a difficult and hazardous mission, is worthy of the highest praise and contributed substantially to the success of combat operations in the Mortain pocket by preventing major enemy forces from over-running thinly held lines of resistance guarding the main supply route for the "break through" operations into the heart of France.

Bull. 11, WD, 1942), citation of the following unit in General Orders, No. 47, Headquarters 41st Infantry Division, 27 July 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, United States Army Forces in the Far East, is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Collecting Platoon, Company B, 262d Medical Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy. Following the landing in the vicinity of Humboldt Bay, Dutch New Guinea, circumstances forced the establishment of large supply dumps for the Task Force among numerous dumps of enemy ammunition, bombs, and food, found in the beachhead. For 2 days all supplies of the Task Force were landed in this area, resulting in gasoline, ammunition, rations, and bombs extending along a narrow beachhead for a distance of approximately 1½ miles. The Collecting Platoon, Company B, 262d Medical Battalion, had set up an aid station upon arrival at the beach in the center of this dump area. At about 2030 hours, 23 April 1944, an enemy bomber made a direct hit on one of the ammunition dumps. The explosion which followed set off fires which rapidly spread. Throughout the night and until about 1700 hours, 24 April 1944, continuous and terrific explosions and fires alternately shook and illuminated the beach. All supplies for a distance of approximately 1 mile were destroyed. Throughout the night of 23 April 1944 and until 1200 hours the following day the 2 officers and 44 men of this unit maintained their aid station. They moved continuously through the holocaust of the burning dumps and tremendous explosions emitting great danger from fire, flying shrapnel, and concussion. Despite these conditions, litter squads returned again and again into the burning area to rescue their comrades while the remainder of the personnel applied first aid. More than 200 men were treated and evacuated by the platoon. Many lives were saved by the effective aid they so efficiently provided. It was only after all casualties and personnel had been evacuated from the danger area that the platoon retired to a place of security. The heroism and determination of every man in this platoon, operating under the most hazardous and adverse conditions, exemplify the highest traditions of the military service.

2. As authorized by Executive Order No. 9306 (sec. I, Bull. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bull. 11, WD, 1942), citation of the following unit in General Orders, No. 85, Headquarters Sixth Army, 18 June 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, United States Army Forces in the Far East, is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 2d Platoon, Company L, 163d Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and for heroism near Aitape, New Guinea. On 27 April 1944 this unit, with personnel attached to make a strength of 3 officers and 64 enlisted men, established a trail block at Kamti, part of Kapaom village in the Terricelli mountain foothills, to cover enemy escape routes. At 280700 an enemy force of approximately 200 attacked with fixed bayonets from three sides, but was thrown back after fierce fighting. Forty-two enemy were killed, while the platoon losses were 2 men killed and 1 wounded. Though communications were cut, the platoon maintained its position for 36 hours, receiving supplies by air. After withdrawing 29 April to receive reinforcements, the platoon again formed and maintained the trail block where, that night, another enemy attack was repulsed with losses of 1 man killed and 2 wounded. The exemplary endurance, determination, and bravery of the members of this platoon reflect the highest credit on the United States Army.

8. As authorized by Executive Order No. 9390 (sec. I, Bull. 22, WD, 1043), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bull. 11, WD, 1942), citations of the following units in General Orders, No. 48, Headquarters First United States Army, 10 August 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, are confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 833, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

The 8th Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy during the invasion of the continent. The assault waves of the regiment made the initial landing on the beaches of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, at 0630, 6 June 1944, being the first troops ashore in the VII Corps area. They stormed the prepared beach defenses and, upon securing these, cleared the causeways within their sector and drove inland, clearing the way for successive units by a continuous and courageous drive. This entire operation was carried out under heavy enemy artillery fire and extensive sniping by small isolated groups in addition to enemy infantry troops in their path of advance. Upon landing of other units, the 8th Infantry Regiment was moved into position on the left flank of the division. Their sector included a main communication line to the north which was strongly defended at successive positions. In the face of constant enemy artillery, rocket, and small arms fire, they made a courageous and determined drive for 3 days and nights without let-up.

The 505th Parachute Infantry Regiment, 82d Airborne Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy between 6 and 9 June 1944, during the invasion of France. The regiment landed by parachute shortly after 0200, 6 June 1944, on the Cotentin Peninsula, in the area west of Ste Mere Eglise, France. Drops were made in the face of artillery, machine gun, antiaircraft, and mortar fire from organized and fortified enemy positions, and against small arms fire of mobile and static antiairborne landing groups of German forces located in the area. Between 0200 and 0400 the regiment secured the area west of Ste Mere Eglise for the predawn glider landing of Division Headquarters and antiaircraft elements of the division. By dawn the 505th Parachute Infantry had captured the town of Ste Mere Eglise and controlled this vital road center preventing movement of German forces on the roads to the beachheads east of Ste Mere Eglise. The regiment also established strong defensive positions east of the bridge over the Merderet River near La Fiere and prevented reinforcement of German forces east of the Merderet River. The regiment maintained these positions against repeated counterattacks by a numerically superior enemy supported by tanks and artillery. The regiment bore the full brunt of vicious German counterattacks, repelled every assault without comparable artillery support or assistance from friendly forces, and achieved the regimental objectives. In the midst of continuous enemy fire, duties were performed unhesitatingly and with utter disregard for personal safety. The courage and devotion to duty shown by members of the 505th Parachute Infantry are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

WAR DEPARTMENT

—WASHINGTON 25, D. C., 3 November 1944.

BATTLE HONORS.—1. As authorized by Executive Order No. 9306 (sec. 1, Bull. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bull. 11, WD, 1942), citations of the following units in General Orders, No. 51, Headquarters 4th United States Infantry Division, 14 August 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, are confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 22d Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 8-9 June 1944 during the invasion of the Continent. The battalion landed in assault waves on the beaches of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, 8 miles northwest of the town of Carentan in the face of artillery, machine-gun, mortar, and small-arms fire from organized positions. After making a successful landing, the battalion then advanced northwest on the beach and high ground between the beach and unattacked area to the west. This area was isolated from the remainder of the attacking forces and contained barbed wire, mine obstacles, and successive strongpoints of reinforced pill boxes and other fortifications, each of which was desperately defended, but by skillful, tactical employment of all organic and supporting weapons and with dauntless bravery and utter disregard for personal safety they reduced the enemy positions to ruins and advanced the distance of 4 miles. The courage and devotion to duty shown by members of the 3d Battalion, 22d Infantry Regiment, in the face of overwhelming odds are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

The 87th Chemical Battalion (Motorized) is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy. All companies of the battalion landed with the assault battalions on the beaches of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, 6 June 1944, and continuously operated with the front line battalions supporting their actions with the fire of 4.2 mortars. The extensive and effective fire placed on enemy encampments, supporting weapons, and personnel in the face of enemy artillery and small-arms fire materially assisted the infantry units in reducing these enemy positions and capturing their objectives. The aggressiveness, courage, and utter disregard for personal safety displayed by all members of the 87th Chemical Battalion (Motorized) in bringing about this effective mortar fire are a credit and inspiration to the armed forces of the United States.

The 70th Tank Battalion is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy. The battalion courageously participated in the assault on the beaches of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, during the invasion of the Continent, coming ashore in the first wave, successfully penetrating the heavily fortified beach defenses, and subsequently fighting with distinction in the following engagements: Pouppeville, Herbert, Ste Mere Du Mont, Andoville-La Hubert, Le Boule De La Ville, Ste Marie Eglise, Ecoqueneville, northwest along St Mere Eglise-Montebourg Road, Azeville, Fourarville, Vaudville, Ste Floxel, Le Val, Fresville, Ecuasseville, Hau De La Riviere, Eroudeville, Ozeville, Les Fieffes-Dancel, Michanderle, and Quineville. During most of the above mentioned operations the 70th Tank Battalion was employed in terrain through which it was virtually impossible for the infantry to advance, making it almost essential to have members of the tank crews conduct their own reconnaissance with tank turrets open in areas infested with enemy pill boxes, casemates, emplacements, antitank guns, self-propelled artillery, and mines. Most of these emplacements and positions were neutralized under withering enemy fire, permitting the infantry to advance without suffering heavy casualties. The aggressiveness, intrepidity, and selflessness displayed by the officers and men of the 70th Tank Battalion are a credit to the armed forces and an inspiration for all units of the United States Army.

The 3d Platoon, Company A, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy. The 3d Platoon, Company A, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, landed on the beach of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, on 6 June 1944, with the assault waves of the first battalion ashore. Personnel of this platoon materially assisted in the clearing of mines, wire entanglements, and obstacles from the beach and the breaking of the sea wall, permitting the prompt landing of mechanized units; they also accompanied the assault waves inland assisting in the reduction of reinforced emplacements. Throughout these engagements the members of the 3d Platoon, Company A, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, fought with such intrepidity, courage, and determination in the face of the enemy fire as to reflect the highest credit on their organization and the armed forces of the United States.

The 3d Platoon, Company C, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy. The 3d Platoon, Company C, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, landed on the beach of the Cotentin Peninsula, France, 6 June 1944, with one of the assault battalions. It then accompanied this battalion on its drive to the north along the high ground between the beach and the inundated area. In the face of heavy enemy fire from reinforced emplacements the members of this platoon cleared this area of mines, wire entanglements, and obstacles and assisted in the reduction of the numerous reinforced encasements within this sector. Throughout this severely contested and continuous drive of 4 days and nights the members of the 3d Platoon, Company C, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, conducted themselves with such dauntlessness, determination, and bravery as to reflect the highest credit on themselves, their organization, and the armed forces of the United States.

2. As authorized by Executive Order No. 9396 (sec. 1, Bull. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bull. 11, WD; 1942), citations of the following units in General Orders, No. 212, Headquarters Ninth Air Force, 23 August 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, are confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

The 61st Troop Carrier Group is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 5, 6, and 7 June 1944. On these dates, members of Group Headquarters and of the 14th, 15th, 53d, and 59th Troop Carrier Squadrons of the 61st Troop Carrier Group completed 119 sorties in the troop carrier spearhead of the Allied invasion of the European Continent. Despite the fact that all of the aircraft were unarmed and unarmored, lacked self-sealing gas tanks, and were flown at minimum altitudes and air speeds, in adverse weather conditions, over water, and into the face of vigorous enemy opposition, with no possibility of employing evasive action, paratroops were accurately and successfully dropped on pinpoint objectives. Only fine teamwork and outstanding devotion to duty by the entire personnel of the 61st Troop Carrier Group made possible this accomplishment which materially contributed to the success of the initial phases of the European invasion. The courageous exploits of the 61st Troop Carrier Group reflect the highest credit on the United States Army Air Forces.

The 313th Troop Carrier Group is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 5, 6, and 7 June 1944. On these dates, members of Group Headquarters and of the 29th, 47th, 48th, and 49th Troop Carrier Squadrons of the 313th Troop Carrier Group executed 118 sorties in unarmed and unarmored aircraft to provide the troop-carrier vanguard of the Allied invasion of the European Continent. All aircraft undeviatingly pursued their course at minimum altitudes and air speeds, in unfavorable weather conditions, over water, and into the face of strong enemy opposition, with no possibility of employing evasive action, and dropped their paratroops with extreme accuracy over vital zones. The magnificent spirit and brilliant teamwork of all members of the 313th Troop Carrier Group were demonstrated in these crucial operations and are exemplary of the highest traditions of the United States Army Air Forces.

The 314th Troop Carrier Group is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 5, 6, and 7 June 1944. On these dates, members of Group Headquarters and of the 32d, 50th, 61st, and 62d Troop Carrier Squadrons of the 314th Troop Carrier Group accomplished 103 sorties thereby distinguishing their organization through extraordinary heroism, determination, and esprit de corps in a flawlessly coordinated group effort in which troop-carrier airplanes spearheaded the Allied invasion of the European Continent. All aircraft participating were unarmed and unarmored and flew at minimum altitudes

TO : Commanding General, 4th Infantry Division, APO 4, U.S. Army.

1. Upon the relief of the 4th Infantry Division from attachment to this corps, I desire to express to you and, through you, to the officers and men of your organization, my personal thanks and appreciation for the excellent manner in which they functioned while under my command.

2. After almost continuous contact with the enemy from D Day until 23 August, the 4th Infantry Division came under the command of this corps at the time of the attack on Paris. The part it played in the liberation of the great French capital and the subsequent headlong pursuit of the enemy through France and Belgium to the German frontier was in keeping with the high standards of performance established by it in the assault upon the beaches. By hard fighting it achieved a penetration of the Siegfried line opposite the Belgium border at Sennecey-le-Chateau.

3. The cooperative manner in which your headquarters and the subordinate elements of your command collaborated with superior and adjacent headquarters has been such as to bring much credit upon the 4th Infantry Division. It is without reservation that I say you have a hard fighting, smooth functioning division. I accept its loss to this command with regret. My thanks and best wishes for your continued success go with each and every one of you.

Subject: Commendation.

To : Commanding Officer, 12th Infantry, APO 4, US Army.

1. At the close of the highly significant Hurtgen Forest operation, I wish to express to you, and, through you, to the officers and men of the 12th Infantry Regiment, my profound appreciation of the outstanding performance of your regiment during this series of engagements.

2. On 8 November 1944, the 12th Infantry, following a large series of brilliant successes since D-Day landing in Normandy, opened an offensive against the enemy in the region of Wolfsl, Germany. The regiment was assigned the extremely difficult and vital mission of clearing a portion of the Hurtgen Forest of powerful enemy forces and fighting its way to the Cologne Plain.

3. Throughout the entire operation, the progress of the regiment was seriously hampered by an unusual combination of impediments created by weather and terrain. Unseasonal precipitation and blizzards, penetrating cold were a constant detriment to the health and well-being of the personnel, rendering their day by day existence well-nigh unbearable. The terrain was characterized by densely forested hills, swollen streams and deep, adhesive mud, which retarded all movement of troops and vehicles.

4. Fully cognizant of the decided strategic advantage which this area afforded for effective defense, the enemy had prepared an elaborate system of mutually supporting fortifications, interspersed with ingeniously contrived obstacles of many types. Extensive mine fields and well placed booby traps, in particular, exacted a heavy toll of casualties during the advance. The effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire was considerably enhanced by the frequency of tree-bursts in this heavily timbered area. Inasmuch as natural conditions precluded the employment of adequate aerial and motorized support, the burden of neutralizing fanatically defended enemy fortifications fell heavily upon the shoulders of the foot soldiers. Individual daring and initiative played a vital part in reducing each of these fortifications. The success of this campaign might well be attributed to the execution of countless acts of heroism by individuals and by small groups of men fighting as well coordinated teams.

5. Problems of supply, personnel replacement and evacuation of casualties were extremely complicated by mud, snow and intense enemy artillery fire, both in forward and rear areas. Litter cases were frequently carried 1000 to 1500 yards in reaching points accessible to medical vehicles, and vast quantities of vital supplies were hand-carried hundreds of yards to forward positions.

6. Against one of the most formidable combinations of adversities ever faced by a military unit, the 12th Infantry pressed forward, day after day, inflicting severe casualties upon the enemy. The hard-won advances, although measured in yards rather than miles, possessed high tactical value. Under living conditions which alone called for heroism and physical stamina of a high degree, the 12th Infantry fought as a cohesive unit and carried the fight aggressively to the enemy. Each advance would have been impossible without the determination and cooperative fighting spirit displayed by the regiment. The ~~heavy~~ battle casualties suffered and the loss of ~~many~~ men from non-battle causes are a mark of the stern resistance and physical hardships overcome, and it is a tribute to the gallantry of the men of the 12th Infantry that losses in no way deterred their aggressive action. Although forced by the exigencies of combat to operate, upon many occasions, considerably under-strength and without rest, the regiment, by its brilliant performance, kept faith with its honored dead. Following a month marked by some of the fiercest fighting of the war, the 12th Infantry cleared its portion of the Hurtgen Forest and reached the Cologne Plain on 7 December 1944. The accomplishment of this most difficult mission enhances the already brilliant record of a fighting regiment destined to take a permanent place in military history.

7. The 12th Infantry can be justly proud of its achievements from the beginning to the very end of the Hurtgen Forest operation. It is with extreme appreciation that I commend your officers and men for the successful completion of a mission so vital to the Allied cause. The deeds of the 12th Infantry Regiment shall not be forgotten as long as bravery and valor are honored and respected.

My dear General Barton:

So far as I know, no American division in France has excelled the magnificent record of the 4th Infantry Division, which has been almost continuously in action since it fought its way ashore on the 6th day of last June.

Your fight in the Hurtgen Forest was an epic of stark infantry combat; but, in my opinion, your most recent fight--from the 18th to the 26th of December--when, with a depleted and tired division, you halted the left shoulder of the German thrust into the American lines and saved the City of Luxembourg, together with the Headquarters of the Twelfth Army Group and the tremendous supply establishments and road nets in the vicinity,--is the most outstanding accomplishment of yourself and your Division.

My purpose in requesting that you be sent to America for medical treatment is, as you know, based on my friendship and affection for you and on my belief that a man who has fought as heroically and as long as you have must be given a respite.

In closing I desire to reiterate the fact that your present relief is in no way a criticism of your fighting ability, but simply arises from the necessity of saving such a soldier for future operations.

With sincere congratulations and all good wishes, I am,

Devotedly yours,

My dear General Barton:

You must know how keenly I regret to see you leave the Fourth Infantry Division. Few will feel your absence more sharply than those of us who have watched your magnificent show from the day you landed in Normandy to the day you smashed through the Siegfried Line--unless, of course, it be the soldiers of the Fourth who fought with you through those bitter, bloody months.

No division commander in France has had to bear a greater or a more prolonged strain of battle than yours. Your reluctance to rest, even when given the opportunity, has been admirable but costly. The fact that your mental stamina has outlasted your physical stamina can never be a reflection upon you--it can be only an everlasting credit to your courage, your tenacity, and your high sense of responsibility. You are being given a rest because you have earned it, and because the service must take full advantage of what you have yet to give it.

The pages you have written in the history of the Fourth Division will surely be red letter pages in the history of the United States Army. You battled on the beaches of Normandy on D-day; you drove through the German line in the great July breakthrough at St. Lo; you were first into Paris in August; you swept across France and Belgium, breached the Siegfried Line, and were first into Germany in September; you held at bay an entire German corps in the Luxembourg area in December. During this remarkable campaign your division suffered in casualties nearly twice its own strength, yet maintained always an efficiency and a spirit which could have come only from leadership in its highest sense.

I attach a copy of a citation for the Bronze Star Medal which it is my pleasure to award you. With it go my warmest good wishes and my kindest personal regards.

Sincerely yours,

1. In publishing the following expressive letter from the Commanding General, VII Corps, I do so in the belief you will derive deep satisfaction and justifiable pride from this tribute rendered the courage, skill and devotion to duty displayed by all ranks throughout the grueling Battle of Hurtgen Forest:

Major General Raymond O. Barton,
Commanding, 4th Infantry Division,
APO 4, United States Army.

Dear General Barton:

Upon the relief of the 4th Infantry Division from the VII Corps, I wish again to express to you and your officers and men my admiration for the great task the 4th Division performed during its recent operations under my command.

Combat in woods calls for topnotch leadership on the part of small unit commanders and the highest order of individual courage. The drive of the 4th Division across its sector of the Hurtgen Forest required a continuous display of these qualities under the most adverse conditions of terrain and weather. The strong enemy defenses were reinforced by the ruggedness of the hills, and the inadequate roadnet was continually blocked by mines and fallen trees. As a result, much of the fighting had to be done without benefit of our accustomed tank and tank destroyer support, and for several days some units could be supplied only by hand carry of food and ammunition while the evacuation of wounded was exceedingly difficult. The fact that the 4th Division overcame these many difficulties and drove the enemy from the dominant hills overlooking the Roer River is a tribute to the skill, determination and aggressiveness of all ranks.

It is with keen regret that the VII Corps releases again its oldest combat division. But it is with pride and satisfaction that we salute the officers and men of the 4th Infantry Division for its achievement in the Battle of the Hurtgen Forest.

Sincerely yours,

2. The Battle of Hurtgen Forest will hold permanent place in military history, ranking with the Battle of the Wilderness, and the Meuse-Argonne offensive. History relates no action, however, in which more severe demands were made of troops; none where troops more valiantly met those demands. Your sustained drive in the Hurtgen Forest enabled the division relieving this command to enter the Cologne plain.

3. Headquarters VII Corps has prepared a colorful Seasons Greeting card in the form of a graphic map recording, successively, the assault landing on D-Day, Cherbourg, the Breakthrough, the Exploitation, Counterattack at Mortain, and Pursuit. On the card sent me is a message written by the Commanding General, VII Corps. That you may appreciate the genuine sincerity of the above tribute and the regard in which the VII Corps Commander holds the sustained performance of the 4th Infantry Division since its D-Day commitment, I feel free to release this personal note, as follows:

"Dear Tubby: The 4th Division played a major role in this jaunt and we haven't forgotten it. The Corps staff join me in wishing you and your grand division the best of luck for 1945.

3. With scarcely a pause for rest, the division was moved directly from Cherbourg into the thick of the fighting southwest of Caen, where the enemy had had time to organize thoroughly two well prepared hedgerow positions, the flanks of which rested on difficult swamp land. The division suffered heavy casualties in the bitter fighting that was required to break through these positions and enlarge the Caen bridgehead. This swamp and hedgerow fighting was the most difficult that has been encountered anywhere in the campaign thus far.

4. Again with only a brief period for reorganization, the 4th Infantry Division was shifted farther to the east in order to participate in the breakthrough between Marigny and St. Gilles. Following the aerial bombardment in which the division suffered a number of casualties, it jumped off on July 26 and drove ahead to its objective, southwest of Marigny, thus preparing the way for the advance of the 3d Armored Division.

To : Commanding Officer, 8th Infantry, APO 4, US Army.

1. At the close of the highly significant Hurtgen Forest operation, I wish to express to you, and, through you, to the officers and men of the 8th Infantry Regiment, my profound appreciation of the outstanding performance of your regiment during this series of engagements.
2. On 16 November, the 8th Infantry, following a long series of brilliant successes since the D-Day landing in Normandy, opened an offensive against the enemy in the region of Zweifall, Germany. The regiment was assigned the extremely difficult and vital mission of clearing a portion of the Hurtgen Forest of powerful enemy forces and fighting its way to the Cologne plain.
3. Throughout the entire campaign, the progress of the regiment was seriously impeded by an unusual combination of inclement weather and difficult terrain. Unseasonable precipitation and damp, penetrating cold were a constant detriment to the health and well-being of the personnel, rendering their day by day existence well-nigh unbearable. The terrain was characterized by densely forested hills, swollen streams and deep, adhesive mud, which retarded all movement of troops and vehicles.
4. Fully cognizant of the decided strategic advantages which this area afforded for effective defense, the enemy had prepared an elaborate system of mutually supporting fortifications, interspersed with ingeniously contrived obstacles of many types. Extensive mine fields and well-placed booby traps, in particular, exacted a heavy toll of casualties during the advance. The effectiveness of enemy artillery and mortar fire was considerably increased by the frequency of tree-bursts in this heavily timbered area. Inasmuch as natural conditions precluded the employment of adequate aerial and motorized support, the burden of neutralizing fanatically defended enemy fortifications fell heavily upon the shoulders of the foot soldiers. Individual daring and initiative played a vital part in reducing each of these fortifications. The success of this campaign might well be attributed to the cumulation of countless acts of heroism by individuals and by small groups of men fighting as well coordinated teams.
5. Problems of supply, personnel replacement and evacuation of casualties were extremely complicated by mud, snow and intense enemy artillery fire, both in forward and rear areas. Litter cases were frequently carried long distances.

in reaching points accessible to medical vehicles, and vast quantities of vital supplies were hand-carried hundreds of yards to forward positions. As the regiment advanced further into enemy territory, the difficulty of replacing personnel losses became increasingly acute, and many elements were obliged to operate with greatly depleted ranks and comparatively inexperienced officers and non-commissioned officers. The dauntless spirit and determination of the troops compensated, in great measure, for the deficiencies in strength and seasoned leadership.

6. The enemy employed a total of six infantry regiments with attached units in its desperate but vain attempts to stem the 8th Infantry's determined onslaught. Eight strong counterattacks were repelled with extremely heavy enemy casualties. The regiment captured 435 prisoners during the entire operation.

7. Under living conditions which alone called for heroism and physical stamina of a high degree, the 8th Infantry fought as a cohesive team and carried the fight aggressively to the enemy. Such advance would have been impossible without the determination and cooperative fighting spirit displayed by the regiment. The  battle casualties suffered and the loss of  men from non-battle causes are a mark of the stern resistance and physical hardships overcome. It is a tribute to the gallantry of the men of the 8th Infantry that losses in no way deterred their aggressive action. Although forced by the exigencies of combat to operate considerably under-strength and without adequate rest, the regiment, by its brilliant performance, kept faith with its honored dead. Following a month marked by some of its fiercest fighting of the war, the 8th Infantry cleared its portion of the Hurtgen Forest and reached the Cologne Plain on 7 December 1944. The accomplishment of this difficult mission enhances the already brilliant record of a fighting regiment destined to take a permanent place in military history.

8. The 8th Infantry can be justly proud of its achievement from the beginning to the very end of the Hurtgen Forest operation. It is with extreme appreciation that I commend your officers and men for the successful completion of a mission so vital to the Allied cause. The deeds of the 8th Infantry Regiment shall not be forgotten as long as bravery and valor are honored and respected.

FROM FAMOUS MEN TO THE "FAMOUS FOURTH"

MAJ. GEN. K. S. EDDY TO BRIG. GEN. HAROLD W. BLAIRLEY:
(A 24 Corps)
"The 4th Division, on transferring from the XII Corps, takes with it the highest respect and admiration of this command. Your combat record since D-day has been in the highest traditions of the American Army--your record while under my command has been a splendid page in the history of the XII Corps."

MAJ. GEN. J. LAWTON COLLINS, VII CORPS COMMAND, ^{ER} AT THE CLOSE OF THE CHERBOURG CAMPAIGN: "The 4th Infantry Division can rightly be proud of the great part that it played from the beginning (initial landing on Utah Beach) to the very end of the Cherbourg campaign. I wish to express to the officers and men my tremendous admiration."

GEN. RAL COLLINS AFTER THE ST. LO BULWART: "I cannot let the division pass from my command without expressing to the officers and men my appreciation of the great contribution made by the 4th Infantry Division to the success of the VII Corps in its operations in France. The ability of the division to take every objective assigned to it is a remarkable achievement and reflects great credit upon the Division Commander, his staff and the entire personnel of the division."

LT GEN L. T. GEROW, (Then Maj. Gen) commanding the V Corps) AFTER THE DIVISION BRUISED ITS WAY THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE IN SEPTEMBER: "The aggressive courage, unselfish devotion, tenacity of purpose, and outstanding leadership of all ranks is evidenced by the fact that the 4th Infantry Division has never failed to capture its assigned objective and has never lost ground to the enemy. I am proud to have had the opportunity of commanding you in battle."

GENERAL GEROW IN NOVEMBER: "After the almost continuous contact with the enemy from D-day until the 23 August, the 4th Infantry Division came under the command of this Corps at the time of the attack on Paris. The part played in the liberation of the great French capital and Belgium to the German frontier was in keeping with the high standards of performance established by it in the assault upon the beaches. It is without reservation that I say you have a hard fighting, smooth functioning division."

GENERAL COLLINS AFTER THE HUERTGEN FOREST CAMPAIGN: "The drive of the 4th Division across its sector of the Huertgen Forest required a continuous display of these qualities (topnotch leadership and the highest order of individual courage) under the most adverse conditions of terrain and weather. The fact that the 4th Division overcame these many difficulties and drove the enemy from the dominant hills overlooking the Roer River is a tribute to the skill, determination, and aggressiveness of all ranks."

LT GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., COMMANDING GENERAL, 31D AIRLY, IN A LETTER TO MAJ. GEN. RAYMOND O. BARTON: "Your fight in the Haertgen Forest was an epic of stark infantry combat; but in my opinion, your most recent fight--from the 16th to the 26th of December--whe, with a tired division, you halted the left shoulder of the German thrust into the American lines and saved the city of Luxembourg, and the supply establishments and road nets in the vicinity, is the most outstanding accomplishment of yourself and your division.2

GENERAL PATTON IN A LETTER TO MAJOR GENERAL H. W. BLANDELY: "During the whole time that I had the privilege of having you under me, the performance of the division was outstanding."

MAJOR GENERAL FRANK W. LILBURN, CG, XXI CORPS: "I wish to commend you and the officers and enlisted men under your command for the aggressiveness and valor with which the 4th Infantry Division carried out its combat missions. These are accomplishments in which your entire command may justly take pride."

1. The following is an extract of War Department General Orders Number 77, dated 28 September 1944:

"I -- MEDAL OF HONOR. -- By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Sull. 43, WD, 1918), a Medal of Honor was awarded posthumously by the War Department in the name of Congress to the following named officer:

Brigadier General Theodore Roosevelt, O139726, United States Army. For gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty on 6 June 1944 in France. After two verbal requests to accompany the leading assault elements in the Normandy invasion had been denied General Roosevelt's written request for this mission was approved and he landed with the first wave of the forces assaulting the enemy-held beaches. He repeatedly led groups from the beach over the sea wall and established them inland. His valor, courage, and presence in the very front of the attack and his complete unconcern at being under heavy fire inspired the troops to the heights of enthusiasm and self-sacrifice. Although the enemy had the beach under constant direct fire, General Roosevelt moved from one locality to another and rallying men around him, directed and personally led them against the enemy. Under his seasoned, precise, calm, and unfaltering leadership, assault troops reduced beach strong points and rapidly moved inland with minimum casualties. He thus contributed substantially to the successful establishment of the beachhead in France."

2. This is the first award of the Medal of Honor made to a member of the 4th Infantry Division during the present war.

COMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

12TH INFANTRY REGIMENT

The relief of the 12th Infantry Regiment from its defensive position in the vicinity of ECHTERNACH was completed on the night of 17 January 1946, and the regiment assembled in Corps reserve. The successful crossing of the SAUER RIVER by the 81. Infantry Regiment resulted, however, in the decision to immediately commit the 12th Infantry to continue the attack and seize additional ground along the OUR RIVER.

On the night of 19 January 1946, elements of the 12th Infantry Regiment with the 42d Field Artillery Battalion in direct support moved into the line in the vicinity of LONGSDORF. Opposing them on the high ground, firmly emplaced in dug-in log bunkers, reinforced buildings and individual fox-holes, the German covered his front with interlocking bands of machine gun fire and carefully prepared concentrations of artillery, mortar and rocket fire. Early on the morning of 20 January 1946, the regiment attacked and seized these defenses on the high ground north and east of LONGSDORF. Consolidating their positions the 12th Infantry Regiment prepared to continue the advance eastward to the high ground overlooking the OUR RIVER. Combat patrols securing the left flank received heavy small arms and tank fire from the town of FOUHREN. A further attempt to secure the left flank met the same withering fire necessitating the use of a larger force to clear the town of FOUHREN. Early the following morning, with elements of the 70th Tank Battalion, the town of FOUHREN was assaulted simultaneously from the north and south completely routing the enemy, estimated at 200 infantrymen. Two tanks, one 88mm gun, two 75mm guns and three multi-barreled 20mm anti-aircraft guns were captured.

Securing the town of FOUHREN and consolidating their positions, constantly harassed by enemy artillery, mortar and rocket fire, the 12th Infantry Regiment then advanced and captured the high ground overlooking the OUR RIVER, thus insuring the division line along the west bank of the river. The 12th Infantry Regiment has once again demonstrated outstanding resourcefulness and devotion to duty and has added to its long list of successfully accomplished missions in over one hundred years of service.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE THIRD ARMY

AND

TO OUR COLLEAGUES OF THE SIXTY-FOURTH AIRBORNE DIVISION

In the period from January 29 to March 22, 1945, you have wrested 6,404 square miles of territory from the enemy. You have taken 3,072 cities, towns, and villages, including among the former: TRIER, KOLLING, BIELEN, KREIS, MAINZ, KAISERSLAUTERN, and LUDWIGSBACH.

You have captured 140,114 enemy soldiers, and have killed or wounded an additional 99,000, thereby eliminating practically all of the German 7th and 1st Armies. History records no greater achievement in so limited a time.

This great campaign was only made possible by your disciplined valor, unswerving devotion to duty, coupled with the unparalleled audacity and speed of your advance on the ground while from the air, the peerless fighter-cockpits kept up a relentless round-the-clock attack upon the disorganized enemy.

The world rings with your praises: better still, General Marshall, General Eisenhower, and General Bradley have all personally commended you. The highest honor I have ever attained is that of having my name coupled with yours in these great events.

Please accept my heartfelt admiration and thanks for what you have done, and remember that your assault crossing over the Rhine at 2700 hours last night assures you of even greater glory to come.

NUMBER 98

SOLDIERS OF THE THIRD ARMY, PAST AND PRESENT

During the 281 days of incessant and victorious combat, your penetrations have advanced farther in less time than any other army in history. You have fought your way across 24 major rivers and innumerable lesser streams. You have liberated or conquered more than 82,000 square miles of territory, including 1500 cities and towns, and some 12,000 inhabited places. Prior to the termination of active hostilities, you had captured in battle 956,000 enemy soldiers and killed or wounded at least 500,000 others. France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia bear witness to your exploits.

All men and women of the six corps and thirty-nine divisions that have at different times been members of this Army have done their duty. Each deserves credit. The enduring valor of the combat troops has been paralleled and made possible by the often unpublicized activities of the supply, administrative, and medical services of this Army and of the Communications Zone troops supporting it. Nor should we forget our comrades of the other armies and of the Air Force, particularly of the XIX Tactical Air Command, by whose side or under whose wings we have had the honor to fight.

In proudly contemplating our achievements, let us never forget our heroic dead whose graves mark the course of our victorious advances, nor our wounded whose sacrifices aided so much to our success.

I should be both ungrateful and wanting in candor if I failed to acknowledge the debt we owe to our Chiefs of Staff, Generals Gaffey and Gay, and to the officers and men of the General and Special Staff Sections of Army Headquarters. Without their loyalty, intelligence, and unremitting labors, success would have been impossible.

The termination of fighting in Europe does not remove the opportunities for other outstanding and equally difficult achievements in the days which are to come. In some ways the immediate future will demand of you more fortitude than has the past because, without the inspiration of combat, you must maintain—by your dress, deportment, and efficiency—not only the prestige of the Third Army but also the honor of the United States. I have complete confidence that you will not fail.

During the course of this war I have received promotions and decorations far above and beyond my individual merit. You won them; I as your representative wear them. The one honor which is mine and mine alone is that of having commanded such an incomparable group of Americans; the record of whose fortitude, audacity, and valor will endure as long as history lasts.

On this day which marks the conclusion of the fighting in Germany, I wish to congratulate you, your staff, and the troops of your command on your magnificent performance.

Since landing on the fiercely contested Omaha Beach nearly a year ago V Corps has made for itself an enviable reputation. After the breakthrough, it was your corps that closed and cleaned out the Argentan-Falaise pocket with such disastrous effect on the enemy. It was V Corps that sped ahead to liberate Paris and moved on without pausing to be the first to enter Germany. During the December counter-offensive your corps held like a stone wall at the Elsenborn corner. The courage and tenacity of your fighting men in that engagement marked a high point in the tradition of gallantry of our armed forces. Under your driving leadership V Corps raced across central Germany to capture Leipzig and pushed on to be the first of the western forces to meet the Russians at Torgau.

Your own tactical ability, determination and inspiring leadership have won the respect of all who have observed you as both a division and corps commander.

I desire to commend you on your outstanding performance and to extend to you and to your fighting corps my personal wishes for continued success. Please let your corps troops and divisions know that I am deeply appreciative of their accomplishments.

I. ORDER OF THE DAY.

The following message FWD 20956 from Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force dated 8 May 1945 is quoted for your information:

"Men and women of the Allied Expeditionary Force: The crusade on which we embarked in the early Summer of 1944 has reached its glorious conclusion. It is my special privilege, in the name of all nations represented in this theater of war, to commend each of you for valiant performance of duty. Though these words are feeble, they come from the bottom of a heart overflowing with pride in your loyal service and admiration for you as warriors. Your accomplishments at sea, in the air, on the ground, and in the field of supply have astonished the world. Even before the final week of the conflict, you had put five million of the enemy permanently out of the war. You have taken in stride military tasks so difficult as to be classed by many doubters as impossible. You have confused, defeated, and destroyed your savagely fighting foe. On the road to victory you have endured every discomfort and privation and have surmounted every obstacle ingenuity and desperation could throw in your path. You did not pause until your front was firmly joined up with the great Red Army coming from the East, and other allied forces, coming from the South.

("Full victory in Europe has been attained.) WV

"Working and fighting together in a single and indestructable partnership you have achieved a perfection in unification of air, ground, and naval power that will stand as a model in our time.

"The route you have travelled, through hundreds of miles, is marked by the graves of former comrades. From them has been exacted the ultimate sacrifice. Blood of many nations - American, British, Canadian, French, Polish, and others - has helped to gain the victory. Each of the fallen died as a member of the team to which you belong, bound together by a common love of liberty and a refusal to submit to enslavement. No monument of stone, no memorial of whatever magnitude could so well express our respect and veneration for their sacrifice as would perpetuation of the spirit of comradeship in which they died. As we celebrate victory in Europe, let us remind ourselves that our common problems of the immediate and distant future can be best solved in the same conceptions of cooperation and devotion to the cause of human freedom as have made this expeditionary force such a mighty engine of righteous destruction.

D. Message from Admiral King:

"On behalf of the officers and men of the U.S. Navy, I extend hearty and sincere congratulations to you and all officers and men under your able command on the victory attained in Europe.

"The unselfish devotion to duty demonstrated by your forces will serve as an inspiration to renew our determination to hasten the day of victory over Japan."

Memorandum, Hq Third US Army, 11 May 45, cont'd.

E. Message from Admiral Nimitz:

"The smashing victory of American and allied arms over Germany ends the reign of brute force and terror in Europe. Millions of the world's people are beholden to you and the superb forces under your command for the restoration of their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"The victory confirms the wisdom of our world strategy which required the use of the bulk of our strength against Germany while holding Japan and driving them back when possible. Now the whole overwhelming weight of our force can be turned upon our treacherous enemy in the Pacific. Japan deserves and from now on will receive our united and undivided attention.

"My sincere congratulations to you, your staff and all the men of your command on the completion of a formidable task supremely well done."

F. Message from Her Majesty The Queen of the Netherlands:

"Please accept my most sincere congratulations on the great and decisive victories which have caused the final downfall of a powerful and ruthless enemy. Together with me and my peoples, grateful thanks to you and all the armies under your supreme command, who, by their unflagging bravery and sacrifice, have brought about the triumph of our common cause and the liberation of the Netherlands."

G. Message from the Prime Minister of Canada:

"I send to you and to the forces under your command the heartfelt congratulations of the government and people of Canada upon the final defeat of the military might of Nazi Germany to which defeat the Allied Expeditionary Forces contributed so decisively. We are indeed proud that Canadians had so worthy a place in the great company of the forces of liberation which under your supreme command have achieved so complete a victory."

TO : Lieutenant General J. Lawton Collins, Commanding General,
VII Corps, APO #307.

On the cessation of hostilities in Germany I want to congratulate you and to express my appreciation to you, and through you to your staff, corps troops, and divisions under your command, for the outstanding record you have made since the landing on D day, nearly a year ago.

Your brilliant direction of the rapid advance of VII Corps from Utah Beach to Cherbourg and your successful assault against that vital port contributed significantly toward the establishment of a firm foothold on the Continent. Your careful timing and coordination of the successful breakthrough at Saint Lo, coupled with the magnificent fighting qualities of your men resulted in the rapid drive through northern France and Belgium spearheaded by VII Corps.

After liberating Liege, with your usual drive and dynamic energy, you captured Aachen and advanced to the Roer river. When the Germans attacked on 16 December, your corps was shifted to the south where it sealed off the point of the enemy penetration, then counter-attacked to hurl the Germans back to the Rhine. Your rapid reduction of Cologne and swift advance across Germany east of the Rhine are a tribute to your outstanding skill as a commander and to the selfless devotion to duty you have inspired in your subordinates.

Yours has nearly always been our spearhead corps. I desire to commend you on the outstanding performance of that corps as well as on your own tactical abilities, inspiring leadership and personal courage.

My best personal wishes to you and to VII Corps for continued success wherever you may go.

1. The following letter received by the Commanding General from Lt Col George W. Fisher, 37th AAA (A), is quoted:

"My dear General,

I wish to express the appreciation of the officers and men of the battalion for the courtesy of "playing us out" with "Auld Lang Syne" by the division band as we were departing on the morning of 22 May. It is felt that this final gesture typifies the attitude which has made this unit feel it was an integral part of the 4th Infantry Division, rather than an attached unit.

Words cannot express our regret in being detached from the division. We crossed many IP's with the 4th Division in different countries and under different and sometimes difficult conditions, but always we were a part of the division and proud of that distinction. We have become imbued with the spirit and tradition of the 4th Division and know that in the days to come we shall take pride in living up to those traditions.

The opportunity to have served under you and the kindness and courtesy extended to me will always be a cherished memory.

Sincerely,

ANNIVERSARY OF "D" DAY

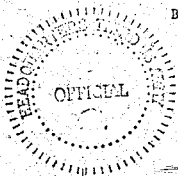

The following message from the Supreme Commander is to be delivered to every member under your command:

"To every member of the Allied Expeditionary Force: The sixth day of June, 1945, marks the first anniversary of the assault of the Normandy Beaches. The intervening year has seen the utter defeat of the enemy forces in this theater and thereby the complete accomplishment of the primary purpose and aims which inspired this tremendous amphibious operation. The exploits of the combined services during these strenuous months have won the admiration of allies and neutrals throughout the world and have instilled fear in the hearts of our remaining foe.

"We are now engaged on less spectacular but equally important duties. Renewed effort is essential as we shift forces to join our brothers in arms against the Japanese and at the same time deal with the many remaining problems in this theater. We can but pause briefly on this sixth day of June to pledge anew our full energies to the tasks before us and to review the momentous events of the year. It is fitting that our celebration of the day should be quiet and strengthen us spiritually and physically for the coming months. Formal ceremonies will be avoided, but insofar as is consistent with the performance of essential duties, June sixth will be observed as a holiday by the Allied Expeditionary Forces.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER."

On 15 July 1944 a reconnaissance patrol of 1st Lieutenant David L. Rooks, O1293002, Tec 5 Harval Kahl, 33167163, Pfc Joseph A. Cornel, 42267406, and Pvt Ralph W. Malone, Jr., 33726896, was sent to an island in the vicinity of SE SEFMAIN-SUR SEVES to obtain information relative to enemy defenses, location of weapons, main line of resistance and to obtain other information which would lead to the destruction of the enemy by our forces.

Between the hours of 0230 and 0430 the patrol operated behind the enemy lines, obtaining information relative to the location of tanks, anti-tank guns and machine gun nests. During this time enemy troops discovered the presence of the patrol and the patrol was forced to disperse. The ensuing action resulted in hand to hand combat for the members of the patrol.

COMMEMORATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

1st & 2nd Battalions, 12th Infantry

During the period 7 July 1944 to 9 July 1944, the 1st Battalion, 12th Infantry, distinguished itself during action against the 6th German Parachute Regiment. At this time the Division crossed the enemy near LA BOISSERIE where they were entrenched in well fortified positions.

On 7 July 1944 the 2nd Battalion, 12th Infantry, forced a break-through in the enemy lines near LA BOISSERIE and drove approximately 500 yards deep into the enemy positions.

The 1st Battalion, 12th Infantry, attacked through the breach in the enemy lines and on the right of the 2nd Battalion. Together, the 1st Battalion and the 2nd Battalion in a coordinated attack enveloped the right flank and the rear of the 1st Battalion, 35th SS German Grenadier Regiment, seizing their fortifications and positions, and causing a general rout of that unit and the 6th Parachute Regiment.

The Battalion Commander, Lieutenant Colonel [redacted] of the 1st Battalion of the 35th SS German Grenadier Regiment was killed during this action and from his report a full and complete description in detail of the exact location of the enemy positions in this sector, and the principle German supply routes.

The gravity of the attack of the 1st and 2nd Battalions during this action, after thirty-two days in the line with practically little rest, is highly commendable. [redacted] of the 1st Battalion is to be commended for his complete action to duty with the enemy.

COMMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

1st & 3rd Battalion, 8th Infantry

On 25 July 1944 the 8th Infantry, with the 1st and 3rd Battalions, abreast attacked enemy hold prepared positions North and South of the PERIERS-ST LO highway.

The attack followed a heavy bombardment of enemy positions by a large formation of allied aircraft. A number of "shorts" fell among troops of the 1st and 3rd Battalions causing some casualties, but a reorganization was effected with such rapidity that the attack was not delayed.

The 1st and 3rd Battalions advanced rapidly under heavy small arms and machine gun fire, gaining momentum as they penetrated deeper into the enemy lines.

The ferocity of the attack of the 1st and 3rd Battalions, after being subjected to aerial bombardment by friendly planes is highly commendable. Each officer and man of the Battalions is to be commended for his complete devotion to duty while engaged with the enemy.

CONGRATULATION FOR HEROIC SERVICE

CAPTAIN ROBERT C. CRISSON, O1R30562

On 25 July 1944, Captain Robert C. Crisson, O1R30562, S-3, 3rd Battalion, 4th Infantry took command of that part of the Battalion consisting of "E" Company, a section of heavy machine guns and a part of the CP group.

The mission of this group was to rush forward steps to reach an objective south of the PERLERS-ST LO highway before daylight.

Early in the morning a group of six (6) German tanks and about one hundred (100) infantry entered a road directly in front of the unit was sighted. Contact was lost through enemy heavy machine gun fire, 88's and rocket shells immediately were directed on positions occupied by our troops.

Sensing the seriousness of the situation, Captain Crisson accompanied by three (3) enlisted men attempted to move to the flank of the enemy to get an estimate of the situation. His maneuver was observed however and immediately the party was subjected to direct fire which hit those in his party. With total disregard for his own personal safety, Captain Crisson kept moving along a hedgerow to a more advantageous position. Upon reaching a "break" in the hedgerow he came face to face with three (3) Germans. The Germans intent upon killing their lone opponent without giving away their positions to the rest of the American troops in the vicinity, struck using their weapons as clubs. Captain Crisson fired several shots into the group and killed two, using his rifle very advantageously he disposed of his lone opponent with a quick, straight butt stroke.

Realizing the need for reinforcements and of the danger of having a whole company annihilated should the enemy realize the strength of his force, Captain Crisson ran and covered several hundred yards back into German territory to get out of the fire that was being directed at him. Upon reaching cover he started working his way back toward his own lines. Several enemy patrols were active in the area which necessitated skillful and tactical movements to avoid capture or capture.

The initiative, courage and bravery shown by Captain Crisson in the face of devastating enemy fire is highly commendable. Captain Crisson is to be recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross.

At 241000Z July 1944, CC (A) commanded by Brigadier General Maurice Rose of the 2nd Armored Division, with the 22nd ACT as an integral attachment jumped off on an attack which was a part of the initial breakthrough of the German lines.

The 1st and 2nd Battalions of the 22nd Infantry Regiment, with normal combat attachments, boarded to the attack riding tanks. The 3rd Battalion in reserve fought as armored infantry.

The lightning like thrust spearheaded by the 22nd ACT attack north of CANISY, in the vicinity of ST GILLES, and by dark had their advance elements on their objective which was the high ground surrounding LEZENT, PERREY. By early morning of 27 July the objective was taken and all enemy resistance had been eliminated.

COMMEMORATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

12TH INFANTRY REGIMENT

The Commanding General desires to commend and commend the 12th Infantry Regiment, each officer and man, for his significant contribution in continuous combat with the enemy since 28 July 1944.

The initial mission of the 12th Infantry Regiment when committed on 28 July 1944 was to eliminate all enemy resistance in the vicinity of ST BRISQIT. This mission was successfully accomplished after fierce fighting had taken place. With an ever aggressive and determined effort the Regiment moved under cover of darkness, seizing and securing the road between LEBOURG and SAUPETIERS and eliminated all enemy resistance in LEBOURG. The following day the 12th Infantry Regiment contacted the enemy in the vicinity of WILLEDEU LES-POULES. On 31 July, the attack was continued against increasing enemy resistance. The Regiment then attacked with three Battalions abreast in the direction of WILLEDEU LES-POULES. By nightfall of 1 August, two companies were occupying the city, with the 1st Battalion maintaining defenses to the North and East. At 021000Z August the attack was resumed and by nightfall all pockets of resistance on the road to WILLEDEU LES-POULES was eliminated. The 2nd Battalion had pressed an attack forward in the direction of ST FOIS. At 030300Z August the attack was continued and by nightfall the leading elements were about six miles southeast of WILLEDEU LES-POULES. Against consistently stiffening enemy resistance the attack was resumed at 041045Z August with Hill 232, in the vicinity of ST FOIS, as their objective.

From the morning of 28 July to the present date the 12th Infantry Regiment has covered a total distance of some thirty (30) miles. With determination and continuous aggressive action, the 12th Infantry has gained ground and stands ready to accomplish any mission assigned to them.

COMMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

4TH INFANTRY DIVISION

I congratulate and commend the 4th Infantry Division, each officer and enlisted man, for his magnificent contribution in continuous combat with the enemy since 6 June 1944.

It is both gratifying and reassuring to know there is the necessary teamwork and staying power among our units to carry us to a sweeping victory. All accolades do not come in immediate contact with the enemy but the success of a division is only achieved by the completion of a job well done by all concerned. This division has achieved success and glory only because of each individual soldier's desire and ability to do his assigned duty at any price.

On 6 June 1944, we landed on the German occupied coast of France, spearheading the invasion of the European continent. We fought a vicious and merciless enemy from the beach to their inland defenses. With courage and bravery we pushed the attack so ferociously from hedgerow to hedgerow that our enemy was either destroyed or forced to surrender.

On 26 June 1944, after 20 days of hard fighting, the great French seaport of Cherbourg was in our hands, thus ending the initial phase of this great war. Immediately preparation for the next phase of the campaign was begun. We turned from our conquered city and passed through the land we had so gallantly won to again close with the enemy. For days we fought with a mission of extending our beachhead so that our forces could prepare for the onslaught that was to follow and eventually lead to the piercing of the German lines.

On 26 July 1944, we were assigned a mission of spearheading an attack, which was the initial breakthrough of the German lines. In this attack we have advanced over some 31 miles. The price of our victory has been felt by many and the supreme sacrifice has been made by many of our comrades. The success of our mission has been heralded the world over and has brought cheer and annihilation to a part of the German Army. Our record speaks for itself and we are proud of it.

22D RECONNAISSANCE COMBAT TEAM

On the evening of 10 August 1944, it became necessary to move a reinforced RCT of the 4th Infantry Division from the ST POIS area to the vicinity of LE THIEUL and PASSEIS, a distance of some thirty-five miles. This mission was given to the 22d RCT.

The Division Commander issued a brief movement order to the Commanding Officer of the 22d RCT at 1420 hours. Attached to it is RCT were Company E, 801st TD Battalion, one platoon, Company C, 624th TD (SP) Battalion, Company C, 70th Tank Battalion, 4th Reconnaissance Troop (Mech), and sufficient 2-1/2 ton trucks from the 4th Quartermaster Company to motorize the RCT. The situation in the sector to which this RCT was to move was obscure and little was known of our situation or the enemy's.

The Commanding Officer of the 22d RCT returned to his Command Post at approximately 1445 hours and his subordinate commanders began reporting at 1500 hours. As each subordinate commander arrived he was issued a fragmentary oral order and dispatched. Leaders of some of the attached units were unable to arrive prior to 1520 hours. Throughout the period in which these orders were issued, the Command Post was subjected to heavy enemy shelling including three hits from shells of heavy caliber, which resulted in disrupted communications and many casualties.

Despite the rapid oral orders and the adverse circumstances under which they were issued, the 3d Battalion, 22d Infantry, passed the RCT IP in ST POIS at 1700 hours, a distance of some five miles from its assembly area. Two miles further on it effected a rendezvous with Company C of the 70th Tank Battalion, mounted its leading company on tanks, and awaited passage of the 4th Reconnaissance Troop (Mech) at this point. At 1740 hours the Reconnaissance Troop cleared and the entire RCT followed.

All rendezvous of subordinate elements and attached units were effected rapidly and with precision. The thirty-five mile move to the new area was made smoothly and without accident or casualty. The excellence of this move is further enhanced by the fact that it was ordered at a time when the

15th REGIMENTAL COMBAT TEAM

The 12th Regimental Combat Team, during the period 22 - 25 August 1944, was a part of the temporary element of a force moving on PARIS, FRANCE. On 23 August 1944, the 12th Regimental Combat Team, together with a French Airborne Force, accepted from the German garrison the surrender of the first city of FRANCE.

The 12th Regimental Combat Team was comprised of the 12th Infantry Regiment, the 50th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, the 42d Field Artillery Battalion, Company B, 60th Tank Destroyer Battalion, and Companies B and D, 70th Tank Battalion. On the evening of 22 August 1944 this team was alerted to move, with the mission to seize and hold the bridge south of PARIS and march and fifty miles away.

During the afternoon, 23 August 1944, the 12th Regimental Combat Team, with the Infantry element, began to move in the direction of PARIS. At the initial stage of the move the route was changed from two main highways to secondary roads. This change in plans was accomplished not without some difficulty. But in spite of continual rain during the night which mired the roads and almost totally obscured vision, the column proceeded forward, driving through the night and until noon of the next day to an assembly area at ORPHIX. There they received only a short rest period before moving to another assembly area near ROZAY, south of PARIS. The 12th Regimental Combat Team was to be prepared to jump off at 0600, 25 August 1944 to seize the bridges across the SEINE RIVER.

In the meantime, a change in plans altered the mission which was now to move on PARIS and seize the Prefecture de Paris which a German garrison was defending. Still without sleep or rest, the 12th Regimental Combat Team moved into PARIS at dawn, 25 August 1944, with a covering reconnaissance force in advance. The objective was reached before noon, and the German garrison surrendered at 1900. Whereupon, the 12th Regimental Combat Team proceeded to clear the enemy from the city of PARIS, which mission still continues.

The officers and men of the 12th Regimental Combat Team, under command of Colonel James S. Lockett are hereby commended for accomplishing this difficult mission so vital to the ultimate victory of the Allied Armies.

SECTION II:

CONSOLIDATION FOR CONTINUOUS SERVICE

1. 22 AUGUST 1944

The 22d Regimental Combat Team comprised of the 22d Infantry Regiment, 44th Field Artillery Battalion, Company C 4th Medical Battalion, 1 Platoon Company C 4th Engineer Combat Battalion, Company C 70th Tank Battalion, and Company G 100th Tank Destroyer (SF) Battalion, was alerted to depart approximately 0600 on August 22, 1944 and given the mission of marching through the mountains across the SEINE RIVER north of PARIS in the vicinity of Gisors.

The 2d Battalion, 22d Infantry, supported by elements of the 92d Tank Destroyer (SF) Battalion, was given the mission of leading the initial crossing in the vicinity of Gisors. By daylight on the morning of 23 August 1944, 100 men of the 2d Battalion and 100 of the 92d Tank Destroyer (SF) Battalion were on the west river bank prepared to make the initial attempt and did so at 0645. Only four rubber boats were available at this time. While crossing the river these boats were subjected to heavy enemy machine gun and M1 fire which caused four deaths in midstream and caused 17 casualties. In the meantime, the 2d Battalion, 22d Infantry, had moved into position along the river bank at approximately 2500 yards north of the 2d Battalion, and there attempted a crossing on an improvised raft, as no rubber boats were available. However, due to heavy enemy fire, they were forced to withdraw. At approximately 1400 hours 25 August 1944, the 2d Battalion again attempted a crossing on the same improvised raft but had more difficulty, and after extreme difficulties, successfully made the crossing. By shutting, the 2d Battalion succeeded in landing 25 men on the east bank of the river. At about 1500 hours rubber boats were obtained and the entire battalion successfully made the crossing, thus securing a bridgehead on the east bank of the SEINE RIVER.

During this period the 1st Battalion, 22d Infantry, moved to the river between the 2d and 3d Battalions and succeeded in getting one company across the river. This company secured the left flank of the 2d Battalion and also secured a site on the east bank where Company C 4th Engineer Combat Battalion later succeeded in bridging the river. The 3d Battalion then succeeded in getting one company across the river at the same spot used by the 2d Battalion, thus securing the right flank of the 2d Battalion.

The bridge site having thus been secured, Company G, 4th Engineer Combat Battalion was ordered to begin construction of the bridge at 0600 on 26 August 1944 and the bridge was completed and open to traffic at approximately 1800 hours of that day.

(Hq 4th Inf Div, APO 4, U.S. Army, San Francisco, Calif. 94024, 27 Aug 1953)

The Division Commander takes extreme pleasure in hereby commending the members of the 220 Regimental Combat Team for their highly successful accomplishment of a most important mission.

I. GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL.—By direction of the President, the commanding officer, Miami Air Technical Service Command, is empowered, pursuant to the eighth article of war, to appoint general courts-martial.
(AG 322 (31 Jan 45)).

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), a Distinguished-Service Medal was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Brigadier General James E. Wharton, O7025, United States Army. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service to the Government in a duty of great responsibility from 9 May to 11 August 1944.

III. AIR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order No. 9158, 11 May 1942 (Bul. 23, WD, 1942), as amended by Executive Order No. 9242-A, 11 September 1942 (Bul. 49, WD, 1942), an Air Medal was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following named officer:

Lieutenant General Frank Maxwell Andrews, O2144, United States Army. For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight from November 1942 to May 1943.

IV. BATTLE HONORS.—I. As authorized by Executive Order No. 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

The 18th Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action. On 6 June 1944 the 18th Infantry Regiment began landing on the coast of France in the vicinity of St. Laurent-sur-Mer and Colleville-sur-Mer. Many installations in this strongly fortified area were still intact and the landing wave of craft was met by intense artillery and small-arms fire. Despite this initial resistance and the devastating artillery fire which continued throughout the landing, the regiment poured ashore through the heavy surf, crossed beaches littered with wreckage, wounded, and dead, and scaled the mine-infested slopes to meet the enemy beyond. Despite the loss of many key commanders the regiment uninterruptedly pushed on to drive the enemy back and form the first defensive beachhead line beyond the critical slopes overlooking the beach. During the next 7 days the regiment continued to spearhead the attack in the 1st Division sector. Pressing forward day and night, inflicting heavy casualties on the retreating enemy, the eighth day found the regiment 23 miles inland. Quickly consolidating its positions, the regiment, on the tenth day following the landing, repelled a determined attempt by the enemy to disorganize the spearhead, yielding not 1 foot of ground, and inflicting heavy casualties on the attackers. The individual calmness, endurance, superior efficiency, and devotion to duty exhibited by the men of the 18th Infantry Regiment were a direct contribution to the successful establishment of a firm beachhead on the Continent of Europe.

The 22d Infantry Regiment is cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action in Normandy, France, during the period 26 July to 1 August 1944. The 22d Infantry Regiment, was the infantry element of an armored-infantry combat command which successfully effected a breakthrough of the German line of resistance west of St. Lo, forming the St. Gillis-Marigny gap through which armored-infantry columns surged deep into German-held territory. Operating against hardened infantry, artillery, and panzer units, this regiment, often riding its accompanying tanks, met and overcame the stiffest German resistance in desperate engagements at St. Gillis, Canisy, le Meauil Herman, Villehaudon, Moyon, Percy, and Tessy-sur-Vire. The 22d Infantry Regiment, in its first action with an armored division, after a short period of indoctrination, assumed the role of armored infantry with unparalleled success. Throughout the swiftly moving, 7-day operation, the infantry teams kept pace with the tanks, only resting briefly at night relentlessly to press the attack at dawn. Rear echelons fought with enemy groups bypassed in the assault. There was little protection from the heavy artillery which the Germans brought to bear on the American armor. Enemy bombers continually harassed the American troops at night, but in an outstanding performance of duty the 22d Infantry Regiment perfected an infantry-tank team which, by the power of its determined fighting spirit, became an irresistible force on the battlefield.

The 115th Infantry Regiment is cited for gallantry and outstanding performance of duty in action in the vicinity of St. Laurent-sur-Mer, Normandy, France, on 6 June 1944. In the attack on the heavily fortified and stoutly defended enemy positions, the regiment landed in close support of the initial assaulting force with the mission of crossing the beach with the greatest rapidity and advancing on the town of Longueville, from which point a night attack was to be launched across the inundated area to the south. Finding the initial assault force disorganized and decimated by the withering artillery and small-arms fire of the enemy, the regiment was immediately committed to action and took over the assault force missions without adequate time for assembly and reorganization. Rapidly changing orders and maintaining complete control, the cool determination of the leaders and the quick adaptability, courage, and aggressiveness of the men, under difficult and hazardous conditions, made possible the successful advance of the regiment against the inland strong point of St. Laurent-sur-Mer. By nightfall the town had been enveloped, its eastern inner defenses penetrated, and by early morning, after a night of continuous stubborn fighting, the strong point was overcome and progress inland was steady and rapid. The outstanding performance of duty, the courage, the tenacity, aggressiveness, and extraordinary heroism of all personnel of the 115th Infantry Regiment, at a time when the success of this great military undertaking was in the balance, reflect the highest credit on the military forces of the United States.

The 325th Glider Infantry Regiment, 82d Airborne Division, is cited for gallantry and outstanding performance of duty during the assault on the coast of Normandy, France, 7 to 9 June 1944. Completing the first glider landing of such a force in history, the regiment arrived over the Cotentin Peninsula at 0700 on 7 June. Faced with intense artillery, machine-gun, and anti-aircraft fire, the formations were dispersed and forced to land from 2,000 to 7,000 yards distant from the designated landing zone. Despite opposition from static and mobile enemy groups and mortar, artillery, and automatic-weapons fire from every direction, rapid assembly was effected and the enemy driven out of the area near Carquebut by 1500. On the following day, with reinforcements of parachute elements, the enemy was driven north of Ste. Mere Eglise to Neuville au Plain and Fresville and was prevented from crossing the Merderet River near La Fiere. During the night of 8-9 June, crossings of the inundated area west of the Merderet and of the river near the bridge at La Fiere were accomplished. Driving into the center of the vastly superior German forces, after one of the fiercest and bitterest battles fought inland from the beaches, the bridge head was secured and the 90th Division enabled to pass through the following day. The gallantry and courage shown by all members of the 325th Glider Infantry Regiment, 82d Airborne Division, are worthy of emulation and reflect the highest traditions of the United States Army.

As authorized by Executive Order No. 9396 (sec. 1, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. 111, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), citations of the following units in General Orders, No. 107, Headquarters 9th Infantry Division, 11 December 1944, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, are confirmed, under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

Company A, 899th Tank Destroyer Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action on 11 July 1944 near St. Jean de Daye, France. Company A was supporting the 39th Infantry in a defense role near St. Jean de Daye. At 0200 hours on the morning of 11 July 1944 the enemy launched a combined armored and infantry attack in this sector. Two columns of heavy tanks with supporting infantry smashed through and penetrated to the rear of this position in an attempt to capture St. Jean de Daye and to sever the Allied beachhead. Outgunned and outnumbered, and despite the fact that enemy infantry threatened to overrun their tank destroyers, the men of Company A fearlessly remained in position and fired on enemy tanks wherever discernible in the darkness, fully realizing that the flash of each round would draw not only artillery and tank fire but also small-arms fire as well. As daylight appeared, Company A, aware that their 3-inch guns could not penetrate the heavy frontal armor of the Panther tanks, boldly maneuvered their tank destroyers under close enemy observation to flanking positions where effective fire was placed on the enemy tanks. Forced to fight at extremely close quarters and at point-blank ranges, the officers and men of Company A gallantly and courageously repelled numerous attempts of the enemy to seize these positions. So effective was their fire that the enemy was forced to withdraw their remaining tanks from the action, leaving the infantry in small isolated pockets which were quickly overcome by our forces. The individual courage, valor, and tenacity displayed by the personnel of Company A in the face of superior odds were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces and are worthy of high praise.

Company C, 899th Tank Destroyer Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action on 11 July 1944 near St. Jean de Daye, France. Company C was supporting the 47th Infantry in a defense role near St. Jean de Daye. At 0200 hours on the morning of 11 July 1944 the enemy launched a combined armored and infantry attack in this sector. Two columns of heavy tanks with supporting infantry smashed through and penetrated to the rear of this position in an attempt to capture St. Jean de Daye and to sever the Allied beachhead. Outgunned and outnumbered, and despite the fact that enemy infantry threatened to overrun their tank destroyers, the men of Company C fearlessly remained in position and fired on enemy tanks wherever discernible in the darkness, fully realizing that the flash of each round would draw not only artillery and tank fire but also small-arms fire as well. As daylight appeared, Company C, aware that their 8-inch guns could not penetrate the heavy frontal armor of the Panther tanks, boldly maneuvered their tank destroyers under close enemy observation to flanking positions where effective fire was placed on the enemy tanks. Forced to fight at extremely close quarters and at point-blank ranges, the officers and men of Company C gallantly and courageously repelled numerous attempts of the enemy to seize these positions. So effective was their fire that the enemy was forced to withdraw their remaining tanks from the action, leaving the infantry in small isolated pockets which were quickly overcome by our forces. The individual courage, valor, and tenacity displayed by the personnel of Company C in the face of superior odds were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces and are worthy of high praise.

The citation reads as follows:

Companies F and L, 442d Regimental Combat Team, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action on 21 October 1944, in the vicinity of Belmont, France. Assigned the mission of assaulting the flank and rear of the resistance which had stopped two frontal attacks by the combat team, Companies F and L, 442d Regimental Combat Team, designated the O'Connor Task Force, launched an attack down the north slope of the wooded ridge, Foret de Belmont. Company L, leading the assault, defeated a security group in a short, sharp action, capturing several prisoners. Then, by the prompt use of rifle grenades and mortars, the garrisoned houses just outside the woods were quickly reduced. The capture of these houses was an important factor in the success of the mission as it gave the task force observation on the ground to the enemy's rear. To complete its work the task force now had to interdict enemy movement, drive a wedge through the forces resisting the combat team, and effect a junction with the main force. Heavy casualties were inflicted by artillery fire directed by the task force's forward observer on the enemy positions. Then assault groups began to clear the defenders from houses to the north of La Broquaille. The capture of these houses not only divided the enemy forces, but made certain that large numbers of the enemy would be trapped between the task force and the advancing combat team. By midafternoon the task force and the combat team made contact and what enemy troops were not surrounded were completely routed, thus bringing to a close a plan brilliantly conceived and expertly executed. By the next day the combat team had secured the high ridge which dominates Belmont. This ridge was both a protective arc around the recently won communications center of Bruyeres and an entering wedge in the drive to the Meurthe River. In destroying the enemy main line of resistance and advancing the divisional front lines by approximately 2,000 meters, the task force captured 56 prisoners, killed 80 of the enemy, and captured considerable quantities of enemy matériel and equipment. The fearless determination, daring, and intrepidity displayed by the officers and enlisted men of the O'Connor Task Force exemplify the finest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

The citation reads as follows:

Companies G and I, 16th Infantry, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action. During the period 15-17 October 1944, Companies G and I, 16th Infantry, lodged in captured fortifications along the outskirts of Ellendorf, Germany, were charged with defending a ridge overlooking and commanding approaches to Aachen. Loss of the ridge would mean elimination of ability to exert pressure against Aachen by American artillery and would constitute a blow to Allied strategy. Further, it would result in isolation and almost certain annihilation of a friendly infantry regiment occupying an adjacent hill. Early in the morning of 15 October 1944 the enemy, taking full advantage of the rugged terrain, infiltrated the Company G sector and surrounded the mortar platoon positions. Coincidentally, three enemy infantry companies, augmented by tanks and supported by artillery and mortar concentrations, in an initial frontal assault on Companies G and I positions, threatened to overrun and eliminate the comparatively small defending body. Disregarding its losses in human life, the enemy pushed to the top of the ridge and after bitter hand-to-hand fighting occupied some of the American dug-in positions. German tanks penetrated the outer belt defenses and edged forward to clear a path for infantry and demolition squads. Employing grenades and bayonets and engaging in close combat, Companies G and I personnel fought valiantly to regain lost emplacements and to repel German armor. The enemy waged a spirited battle in his attempt to capture this strategic terrain feature, but these two companies refused to yield ground in the face of overwhelming odds. Rather than surrender the ridge, Companies G and I called for American artillery to saturate the sector with a sustained barrage. Then, grasping the offensive, Companies G and I moved forward, carried the battle to the enemy, and drove the German forces from the ridge. Although defeated in the first attempt to recapture the ridge, the enemy granted defending companies little time to consolidate and prepare for the next attack. Quickly marshaling his still powerful infantry and armor, the reinforced enemy struck with renewed effort only to receive another major setback. Three times the enemy made desperate attempts to retake the vital ridge and each time preceded his drive with intense artillery and mortar bombardment. But again, despite cold, hunger, and fatigue and a numerically superior enemy, these gallant defenders held their ground, engaging in close fighting. The final assault was crushed decisively with heavy losses of men, weapons, and tanks, irreparably impairing the enemy's striking power and firmly securing the ridge. For 3 days the strength, courage, and determination of two infantry companies stood between elements of the German Army and a serious break-through of the 1st Infantry Division's foothold on German soil. In this 72-hour battle, the defenders faced at different times 3 battalions of enemy troops and approximately 25 tanks, sustaining 37 major casualties against an estimated 300 for the enemy. The magnificent heroism, combat proficiency, and brilliant achievement of Companies G and I, 16th Infantry, helped pave the way for the eventual capture of Aachen.

the following unit in General Orders, No. 43, Headquarters 3d Air Division, 12 January 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 100th Bombardment Group (H) is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in connection with the initial series of successful attacks against Berlin, Germany, 4, 6, and 8 March 1944. Overcoming unusually hazardous weather conditions which forced all but one other unit of the Eighth Air Force to bomb targets of opportunity or abandon the mission, the 100th Bombardment Group (H) resolutely continued on to release its bombs on the German capital in the first American operation over Berlin, 4 March 1944. The mission was successfully completed despite solid layers of clouds and dense, persistent vapor trails which lasted throughout the perilous flight. Accurate antiaircraft fire was encountered in the target area, and the bomber formations were continually harassed by sharp attacks from 20 to 25 enemy aircraft from the initial point to the rally point. Approximately half way to the target on the mission to Berlin, 6 March 1944, the 100th Bombardment Group (H), without fighter support, was viciously attacked by overwhelming numbers of enemy aircraft. Despite the repeated, furious onslaughts of the reckless attackers, which accounted for the loss of half the bombers in the group's formation, the remaining fortresses heroically battled their way through to the target. The gallant crewmen of the 100th Bombardment Group (H) destroyed 23 enemy aircraft, probably destroyed 16, and damaged 6 more in this historic aerial engagement, and braved heavy, accurate concentrations of antiaircraft fire to release their bombs over the assigned objective. Undismayed by the heavy losses and severe battle damage sustained on the mission of 6 March, this intrepid group, whose efficient maintenance personnel had the flak-ridden bombers ready for operations on 8 March, continued its deadly assault on the nerve center of the enemy's war machine. Once again vastly superior numbers of hostile fighters were encountered and although the city's desperate defenders forced the leading wing to attack a target of opportunity, the 100th Bombardment Group (H) maintained a tight defensive formation and assumed the lead of the entire Eighth Air Force. Despite the determined opposition from air and ground forces, the primary target was reached and a telling blow was delivered to factories producing one-half the ball bearings required by the German Air Force. The courageous men of the 100th Bombardment Group (H) destroyed seven of the attacking enemy fighters, probably destroyed two and damaged three others. The officers and enlisted men of the 100th Bombardment Group (H) displayed extraordinary heroism and tenacity of purpose in successfully completing these important operations against the enemy's capital despite extremely adverse weather conditions and the concentrated defenses of a powerful, well-armed foe. Their conspicuous gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps reflect highest credit on themselves and the Army Air Forces.

8. As authorized by Executive Order No. 8306 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9076 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), citation of the following unit in General Orders, No. 15, Headquarters Eighth Air Force, 21 January 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 355th Fighter Group is cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 5 April 1944. On this date, the 355th Fighter Group was part of a large force of fighters dispatched to attack important airdromes deep in Germany. Encountering a heavy undercast just after crossing the French coast, the group, by a remarkable feat of navigation, arrived in the vicinity of the target after flying on instruments for an hour and a half. Only one other group of the original force was able to locate its primary objective. The formation descended through a break in the clouds approximately 4 miles from the target, and despite a furious snow squall which made even normal flying perilously difficult launched a bold attack. In the face of withering fire from ground defenses which increased in intensity with each successive sweep over the airdromes, the 355th Fighter Group tenaciously pressed the attack, wreaking destruction upon parked aircraft and enemy airplanes attempting to frustrate the attack. Oblivious of personal danger, the pilots of the group continued the assault for 40 minutes, strafing not only the primary objective but also adjoining airfields which were in the traffic pattern. When the fury of the attack was spent and withdrawal accomplished, 51 enemy aircraft had been destroyed, 43 on the ground and 8 in the air. In addition, 81 aircraft were heavily damaged on the ground and 1 probably destroyed in the air. This daring assault, carried out in exceptionally adverse weather and against strong opposition, materially contributed to the weakening of the enemy's airborne defenses against heavy bombers. The extraordinary heroism, aggressiveness in combat, and devotion to duty displayed by personnel of the 355th Fighter Group are in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

7. As authorized by Executive Order No. 8396 (sec. 1, Bul. 22 WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order No. 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), citations of the following units in General Orders, No. 19, Headquarters Ninth Air Force, 29 January 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, European Theater of Operations, are confirmed under the provisions of section IV, Circular No. 333, War Department, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

The 367 Fighter Group is cited for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy. On 25 August 1944 the 367th Fighter Group attacked three vital landing grounds at Clastres, Peronne, and Rosieres, France, anticipating a concentration of a large number of enemy fighters. Upon entering the target area the group dive-bombed and strafed the assigned airdromes through an extremely intense antiaircraft barrage, putting each out of operation by scoring many direct bomb hits upon runways, destroying hangars, administration buildings, and fuel dumps. Shortly after making the attack, more than 50 enemy aircraft were sighted. Displaying superbly coordinated teamwork in the face of fire from enemy aircraft and enemy ground defenses, the 367th Fighter Group destroyed 25 enemy aircraft, probably destroyed 1, and damaged 17 others in a violent air battle that raged for 40 minutes. Shortly after leaving the scene of the battle a convoy and a train were observed and, despite a diminishing fuel supply, the group proceeded to strafe the convoy and train, destroying 1 locomotive and probably destroying 30 railroad cars. During the afternoon the group completed an 800-mile fighter sweep to landing grounds at Cognac, Bourges, and Dijon where the enemy was making a determined effort to evacuate troops from southern France. The attack on the heavily defended airfield at Dijon resulted in the destruction of 16 enemy aircraft and damage to an unknown number, thus making it virtually impossible to evacuate troops in this sector. Through the gallantry of the pilots and the professional skill of ground personnel, the 367th Fighter Group destroyed 41 and damaged more than 17 enemy aircraft in addition to the destruction of many other vital targets. This achievement reflects the highest credit on the 367th Fighter Group.

The 406th Fighter Group is cited for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy. Ordered at 1400 hours, 7 September 1944, to find and destroy a column of enemy vehicles and military transport in the vicinity of Chateauroux, France, which was attempting to escape from southeastern France through the Belfort Gap, thirty-six P-47's of the 406th Fighter Group took off at 1505 hours and raced south of the Loire River to find the road from Chateauroux to Issoudon clogged with military transport, horse-drawn vehicles, horse-drawn artillery, armored vehicles, and personnel. Attacking this enemy concentration up and down its full length, at minimum altitude, despite accurate ground fire, the skillful pilots of this group made pass after pass until all their bombs, rockets, and ammunition were expended. The intensity with which the attack was pressed home inflicted such damage on the enemy that the road was blocked for 15 miles with personnel casualties and wrecked and burning military transport. At least 300 enemy military vehicles were destroyed in this attack alone. Realizing the significance of such decisive destruction on the right flank of ground force units, the pilots of the 406th Fighter Group returned to their base and after being refueled and rearmed in a minimum length of time, returned to the scene of action. Before the enemy could reorganize and extract the remnants of his column from their plight, a further 187 vehicles, including 25 ammunition carriers, were attacked and destroyed. Despite intermittent rain and the hazards of landing at night, the aggressive pilots remained over the column until the enemy column was completely immobilized and disrupted. The extraordinary achievements of the airmen of the 406th Fighter Group on this occasion reflects the highest credit on the entire organization and is in keeping with the finest traditions of the Army Air Forces.

I. GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL.—By direction of the President, the commanding officer, Antiaircraft Artillery Training Center, Camp Stewart, Georgia, is empowered, pursuant to the eighth article of war, to appoint general courts martial.

[AG 250.401 (28 Aug 45)]

II. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty was awarded posthumously by the War Department in the name of Congress to the following named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant Jonah E. Kelley (Army serial No. 35750441), 311th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, in charge of the leading squad of Company E, heroically spearheaded the attack in furious house-to-house fighting on 30 and 31 January 1945 in Kesternich, Germany. Early on 30 January he led his men through intense mortar and small-arms fire in repeated assaults on barricaded houses. Although twice wounded—once when struck in the back, the second time when a mortar shell fragment passed through his left hand and rendered it practically useless—he refused to withdraw and continued to lead his squad after hasty dressings had been applied. His serious wounds forced him to fire his rifle with one hand, resting it on rubble or over his left forearm. To blast his way forward with hand grenades, he set aside his rifle to pull the pins with his teeth while grasping the missiles in his good hand. Despite these handicaps, he created tremendous havoc in the enemy ranks. He rushed one house, killing three of the enemy and clearing the way for his squad to advance. On approaching the next house, he was fired upon from an upstairs window. He killed the sniper with a single shot and similarly accounted for another enemy soldier who ran from the cellar of the house. As darkness came, he assigned his men to defensive position, never leaving them to seek medical attention. At dawn the next day, the squad resumed the attack, advancing to a point where heavy automatic and small-arms fire stalled them. Despite his wounds, Sergeant Kelley moved out alone, located an enemy gunner dug in under a haystack, and killed him with rifle fire. He returned to his men and found that a German machine gun, firing from a well-protected position in a neighboring house, still held up the advance. Ordering the squad to remain in comparatively safe position, he valiantly dashed into the open and attacked the position single handedly through a hail of bullets. He was hit several times and fell to his knees when within 25 yards of his objective, but he summoned his waning strength and emptied his rifle into the machine-gun nest, silencing the weapon before he died. The superb courage, aggressiveness, and utter disregard for his own safety displayed by Sergeant Kelley inspired the men he led and enabled them to penetrate the last line of defense held by the enemy in the village of Kesternich.

III. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD 1918), a Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty was awarded by the War Department in the name of Congress to the following named officers and enlisted men:

Staff Sergeant Herschel P. Briles (Army serial No. 37039880), Company C, 809th Tank Destroyer Battalion, Army of the United States, was leading a platoon of destroyers across an exposed slope near Scherpenseel, Germany, on 20 November 1944, when they came under heavy enemy artillery fire. A direct hit was scored on one of the vehicles, killing one man, seriously wounding two others, and setting the destroyer afire. With a comrade, Sergeant Briles left the cover of his own armor and raced across ground raked by artillery and small-arms fire to the rescue of men in the shattered destroyer. Without hesitation, he lowered himself into the burning turret, removed the wounded, and then extinguished the fire. From a position he assumed the next morning, he observed hostile infantrymen advancing. With his machine gun, he poured such deadly fire into the enemy ranks that an entire pocket of 55 Germans surrendered, clearing the way for a junction between American units which had been held up for 2 days. Later that day, when another of his destroyers was hit by a concealed enemy tank, he again left protection to give assistance. With the help of another soldier, he evacuated two wounded under heavy fire and returning to the burning vehicle braved death from exploding ammunition to put out the flames. By his heroic initiative and complete disregard for personal safety, Sergeant Briles was largely responsible for causing heavy enemy casualties, forcing the surrender of 55 Germans, making possible the salvage of two of our vehicles, and saving the lives of wounded comrades.

Technical Sergeant Francis J. Clark (Army serial No. 3227574) (then staff sergeant), Company K, 109th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, fought gallantly in Luxembourg and Germany. On 12 September 1944, Company K began fording the Our River near Kniborn, Luxembourg, to take high ground on the opposite bank. Covered by early morning fog, the 3d Platoon, in which Sergeant Clark was a squad leader, successfully negotiated the crossing, but when the 2d Platoon reached the shore, withering automatic and small-arms fire ripped into it, eliminating the platoon leader and platoon sergeant and pinning down the troops in the open. From his comparatively safe position, Sergeant Clark crawled alone across a field through a hail of bullets to the stricken troops. He led the platoon to safety and then unhesitatingly returned into the fire-swept area to rescue a wounded soldier, carrying him to the American line while hostile gunners tried to cut him down. Later, he led his squad and men of the 2d Platoon in dangerous sorties against strong enemy positions to weaken them by lightning-like jabs. He assaulted an enemy machine gun with hand grenades, killing two Germans. He reamed the front and flanks, dashing toward hostile weapons, killing and wounding an undetermined number of the enemy, scattering German patrols, and eventually forcing the withdrawal of a full company of Germans heavily armed with automatic weapons. On 17 September, near Sevenig, Germany, he advanced alone against an enemy machine gun, killed the gunner, and forced the assistant to flee. The Germans counter-attacked, and heavy casualties were suffered by Company K. Seeing that two platoons lacked leadership, Sergeant Clark took over their command and moved among the men to give encouragement. Although wounded on the morning of 18 September, he refused to be evacuated and took up a position in a pillbox when night came. Emerging at daybreak, he killed a German soldier setting up a machine gun not more than 5 yards away. When he located another enemy gun, he moved up unobserved and killed the two Germans with rifle fire. Later that day he voluntarily braved small-arms fire to take food and water to members of an isolated platoon. Sergeant Clark's actions in assuming command when leadership was desperately needed, in launching attacks and beating off counterattacks, in aiding his stranded comrades, and in fearlessly facing powerful enemy fire were strikingly heroic examples and put fighting heart into the hard-pressed men in Company K.

Staff Sergeant Raymond H. Cooley (Army serial No. 84146349), Company B, 27th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, on 24 February 1945, near Lumbuy, Luzon, Philippine Islands, was a platoon guide in an assault on a camouflaged entrenchment defended with machine guns, rifles, and mortars. When his men were pinned down by two enemy machine guns, he voluntarily advanced alone under heavy fire to within 20 yards of one of the guns and attacked it with a hand grenade. The enemy, however, threw the grenade back at him before it could explode. Arming a second grenade, he held it for several seconds of the safe period and then hurled it into the enemy position where it exploded instantaneously, destroying the gun and crew. He then moved toward the remaining gun, throwing grenades into enemy foxholes as he advanced. Inspired by his actions, one squad of his platoon joined him. After he had armed another grenade and was preparing to throw it into the second machine gun position, six enemy soldiers rushed at him. Knowing he could not dispose of the armed grenade without injuring his comrades, because of the intermingling in close combat of the men of his platoon and the enemy in the melee which ensued, he deliberately covered the grenade with his body and was severely wounded as it exploded. By his heroic actions, Sergeant Cooley not only silenced a machine gun and so inspired his fellow soldiers that they pressed the attack and destroyed the remaining enemy emplacements, but also, in complete disregard for his own safety, accepted certain injury and possible loss of life to avoid wounding his comrades.

Second Lieutenant Edward O. Dahlgren, O2011854 (then technical sergeant), Army of the United States, led the 3d Platoon of Company E, 142d Infantry Regiment, on 11 February 1945, to the rescue of a similar unit which had been surrounded in an enemy counterattack at Oberhoffen, France. As he advanced along a street, he observed several Germans crossing a field about 100 yards away. Running into a barn, he took up a position in a window and swept the hostile troops with submachine-gun fire, killing six, wounding others, and completely disorganizing the group. His platoon then moved forward through intermittent sniper fire and made contact with the besieged Americans. When the two platoons had been reorganized, Sergeant Dahlgren continued to advance along the street until he drew fire from an enemy-held house. In the face of machine pistol and rifle fire, he ran toward the building, hurled a grenade through the door, and blasted his way inside with his gun. This aggressive attack so rattled the Germans that all eight men who held the strong point immediately surrendered. As Sergeant Dahlgren started toward the next house, hostile machine-gun fire drove him to cover. He secured rifle grenades, stepped to an exposed position, and calmly launched his missiles from a difficult angle until he had destroyed the machine gun and killed its two operators. He moved to the rear of the house and suddenly came under the fire of a machine gun emplaced in a barn. Throwing a grenade into the structure, he rushed the position, firing his weapon as he ran; when within, he overwhelmed five Germans. After reorganizing his unit, he advanced to clear hostile rifemen from the building where he had destroyed the machine gun.

He entered the house by a window and trapped the Germans in the cellar, where he tossed grenades into their midst, wounding several and forcing 10 more to surrender. While reconnoitering another street with a comrade, he heard German voices in a house. An attack with rifle grenades drove the hostile troops to the cellar. Sergeant Dahlgren entered the building, kicked open the cellar door, and firing several bursts down the stairway called for the trapped enemy to surrender. Sixteen soldiers fled out with their hands in the air. The bold leadership and magnificent courage displayed by Sergeant Dahlgren in his heroic attacks were in large measure responsible for repulsing an enemy counterattack and saving an American platoon from great danger.

Captain Michael J. Daly, O1002680 (then first lieutenant), Commanding Officer, Company A, 15th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, early in the morning of 18 April 1945 led his company through the shell-battered, sniper-infested wreckage of Nurnburg, Germany. When blistering machine-gun fire caught his unit in an exposed position, he ordered his men to take cover, dashed forward alone, and as bullets whipped about him shot the three-man gun crew with his carbine. Continuing the advance at the head of his company, he located an enemy patrol armed with rocket launchers which threatened friendly armor. He again went forward alone, secured a vantage point, and opened fire on the Germans. Immediately he became the target for concentrated machine pistol and rocket fire which blasted the rubble about him. Calmly, he continued to shoot at the patrol until he had killed all six enemy infantrymen. Continuing boldly far in front of his company, he entered a park where, as his men advanced, a German machine gun opened up on them without warning. With his carbine, he killed the gunner and then, from a completely exposed position, directed machine-gun fire on the remainder of the crew until all were dead. In a final duel, he wiped out a third machine-gun emplacement with rifle fire at a range of 10 yards. By fearlessly engaging in four single-handed firefights, with a desperate, powerfully armed enemy, Lieutenant Daly, voluntarily taking all major risks himself and protecting his men at every opportunity, killed 15 Germans, silenced three enemy machine guns, and wiped out an entire enemy patrol. His heroism during the long, bitter struggle with fanatical enemy forces was an inspiration to the valiant Americans who took Nurnburg.

Technical Sergeant Forrest E. Everhart (Army serial No. 20511699), Company H, 359th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, commanded a platoon that bore the brunt of a desperate enemy counterattack near Kerling, France, before dawn on 12 November 1944. When German tanks and self-propelled guns penetrated his left flank and overwhelming infantry forces threatened to overrun the one remaining machine gun in that section, he ran 400 yards through woods churned by artillery and mortar concentrations to strengthen the defense. With the one remaining gunner, he directed furious fire into the advancing hordes until they swarmed close to the position. He left the gun, boldly charged the attackers, and after a 15-minute exchange of hand grenades forced them to withdraw, leaving 30 dead behind. He recrossed the fire-swept terrain to his then threatened right flank, exhorted his men, and directed murderous fire from the single machine gun at that position. There, in the light of bursting mortar shells, he again closed with the enemy in a hand-grenade duel and after a fierce 30-minute battle forced the Germans to withdraw, leaving another 20 dead. The gallantry and intrepidity of Sergeant Everhart in rallying his men and refusing to fall back in the face of terrible odds were highly instrumental in repelling the fanatical enemy counterattack directed at the American bridgehead across the Moselle River.

Staff Sergeant Robert E. Laws (Army serial No. 33246008), Army of the United States, led the assault squad when Company G, 100th Infantry Regiment, attacked enemy hill positions in Pangasinan Province, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 12 January 1945. The enemy force, estimated to be a reinforced infantry company, was well-supplied with machine guns, ammunition, grenades, and blocks of TNT and could be attacked only across a narrow ridge 70 yards long. At the end of this ridge an enemy pillbox and rifle positions were set in rising ground. Covered by his squad, Sergeant Laws traversed the hogback through vicious enemy fire until close to the pillbox where he hurled grenades at the fortification. Enemy grenades wounded him, but he persisted in his assault until one of his missiles found its mark and knocked out the pillbox. With more grenades, passed to him by members of his squad who had joined him, he led the attack on the entrenched riflemen. In the advance up the hill, he suffered additional wounds in both arms and legs, about the body, and in the head, as grenades and TNT charges exploded near him. Three Japs rushed him with fixed bayonets and he emptied the magazine of his machine pistol at them, killing two. He closed in hand-to-hand combat with the third, seizing the Jap's rifle as he met the onslaught. The two fell to the ground and rolled some 50 or 60 feet down a bank. When the dust cleared, the Jap lay dead and the valiant American was climbing back up the hill with a large gash across his head. He was given first aid and evacuated from the area while his squad completed the destruction of the enemy position. Sergeant Laws' heroic actions provided great inspiration to his comrades, and his courageous determination, in the face of formidable odds and while suffering from multiple wounds, enabled them to secure an important objective with minimum casualties.

Lieutenant Colonel George L. Mabry, Jr., O390036, Infantry, Army of the United States, was commanding the 2d Battalion, 8th Infantry Regiment, in an attack through the Hurtgen Forest near Schevenbutte, Germany, on 20 November 1944. During the early phases of the assault, the leading elements of his battalion were halted by a mine field and immobilized by heavy hostile fire. Advancing alone into the mined area, Colonel Mabry established a safe route of passage. He then moved ahead of the foremost scouts, personally leading the attack, until confronted by a booby-trapped double concertina obstacle. With the assistance of the scouts, he disconnected the explosives and cut a path through the wire. Upon moving through the opening, he observed three enemy in fox holes whom he captured at bayonet point. Driving steadily forward, he paced the assault against three log bunkers which housed mutually supported automatic weapons. Racing up a slope ahead of his men, he found the initial bunker deserted, then pushed on to the second where he was suddenly confronted by nine onrushing enemy. Using the butt of his rifle, he felled one adversary and bayoneted a second before his scouts came to his aid and assisted him in overcoming the others in hand-to-hand combat. Accompanied by the riflemen, he charged the third bunker, under point-blank, small-arms fire and led the way into the fortification from which he prodded six enemy at bayonet point. Following the consolidation of this area, Colonel Mabry led his battalion across 300 yards of fire swept terrain to seize elevated ground upon which he established a defensive position which menaced the enemy on both flanks and provided his regiment a firm foothold on the approach to the Cologne plain. Colonel Mabry's superlative courage, daring, and leadership in an operation of major importance exemplify the finest characteristics of the military service.

Sergeant Charles A. MacGillivray (Army serial No. 31426047), Company I, 71st Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, led a squad near Woelfling.

France, on 1 January 1945, when his unit moved forward in darkness to meet the threat of a break-through by elements of the 17th German Panzer Grenadier Division. Assigned to protect the left flank, he discovered hostile troops digging in. As he reported this information, several German machine guns opened fire, stopping the American advance. Knowing the position of the enemy, Sergeant MacGillivray volunteered to knock out one of the guns while another company closed in from the right to assault the remaining strong points. He circled to the left through woods and snow, carefully worked his way to the emplacement, and shot the two camouflaged gunners at a range of 3 feet as other enemy forces withdrew. Early in the afternoon of the same day, Sergeant MacGillivray was dispatched on reconnaissance and found that Company I was being opposed by about six machine guns reinforcing a company of fanatically fighting Germans. His unit began an attack but was pinned down by furious automatic and small-arms fire. With a clear idea of where the enemy guns were placed, he voluntarily embarked on a lone combat patrol. Skillfully taking advantage of all available cover, he stalked the enemy, reached a hostile machine gun, and blasted its crew with a grenade. He picked up a submachine gun from the battlefield and pressed on to within 10 yards of another machine gun, where the enemy crew discovered him and feverishly tried to swing their weapon into line to cut him down. He charged ahead, jumped into the midst of the Germans, and killed them with several bursts. Without hesitation, he moved on to still another machine gun, creeping, crawling, and rushing from tree to tree until close enough to toss a grenade into the emplacement and close with its defenders. He dispatched this crew also but was himself seriously wounded. Through his indomitable fighting spirit, great initiative, and utter disregard for personal safety in the face of powerful enemy resistance, Sergeant MacGillivray destroyed four hostile machine guns and immeasurably helped his company to continue on its mission with minimum casualties.

Private Lloyd G. McCarter (Army serial No. 20047516), Company F, 503d Parachute Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, was a scout with the regiment which seized the fortress of Corregidor, Philippine Islands. Shortly after the initial parachute assault on 18 February 1945, he crossed 30 yards of open ground under intense enemy fire and at point-blank range silenced a machine gun with hand grenades. On the afternoon of 18 February he killed six snipers. That evening, when a large force attempted to bypass his company, he voluntarily moved to an exposed area and opened fire. The enemy attacked his position repeatedly throughout the night and was repulsed each time. By 2 o'clock in the morning, all the men about him had been wounded, but shouting encouragement to his comrades and defiance at the enemy, he continued to bear the brunt of the attack, fearlessly exposing himself to locate enemy soldiers and then pouring heavy fire on them. He repeatedly crawled back to the American line to secure more ammunition. When his submachine gun would no longer operate, he seized an automatic rifle and continued to inflict heavy casualties. This weapon, in turn, became too hot to use and, discarding it, he continued with an M1 rifle. At dawn the enemy attacked with renewed intensity. Completely exposing himself to hostile fire, Private McCarter stood erect to locate the most dangerous Japanese positions. He was seriously wounded, but, though he had already killed more than 30 of the enemy, he refused to be evacuated until he had pointed out immediate objectives for attack. Through his sustained and outstanding heroism in the face of grave and obvious danger, Private McCarter made outstanding contributions to the success of his company and to the capture of Corregidor.

Sergeant Ralph G. Neppel (Army serial No. 37603809), Company M, 320th Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, was leader of a machine-gun squad defending an approach on the village of Birgel, Germany, on 14 December 1944, when an enemy tank supported by 20 infantrymen counterattacked. He held his fire until the Germans were within 100 yards and then raked the foot soldiers beside the tank, killing several of them. The enemy armor continued to press forward and at the point-blank range of 30 yards fired a high-velocity shell into the American emplacement, wounding the entire squad. Sergeant Neppel, blown 10 yards from his gun, had one leg severed below the knee and suffered other wounds. Despite his injuries and the danger from the onrushing tank and infantry, he dragged himself back to his position on his elbows, remounting his gun, and killed the remaining enemy riflemen. Stripped of its infantry protection, the tank was forced to withdraw. By his superb courage and indomitable fighting spirit, Sergeant Neppel inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy and broke a determined counterattack.

Second Lieutenant Donald E. Rudolph, O2007355 (then technical sergeant, Company E, 20th Infantry Regiment), Army of the United States, was acting as platoon leader at Munoos, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 5 February 1945. While administering first aid on the battlefield, he observed enemy fire issuing from a nearby culvert. Crawling to the culvert with rifle and grenades, he killed three of the enemy concealed there. He then worked his way across open terrain toward a line of enemy pillboxes which had immobilized his company. Nearing the first pillbox, he hurled a grenade through its embrasure and charged the position. With his bare hands he tore away the wood and tin covering and then dropped a grenade through the opening, killing the enemy gunners and destroying their machine gun. Ordering several riflemen to cover his further advance, Sergeant Rudolph seized a pick-mattock and made his way to the second pillbox. Piercing its top with the mattock he dropped a grenade through the hole, fired several rounds from his rifle into it, and smothered any surviving enemy by sealing the hole and the embrasure with earth. In quick succession he attacked and neutralized six more pillboxes. Later, when his platoon was attacked by an enemy tank, he advanced under covering fire, climbed to the top of the tank, and dropped a white phosphorus grenade through the turret, destroying the crew. Through his outstanding heroism, superb courage and leadership, and complete disregard for his own safety, Sergeant Rudolph cleared a path for an advance which culminated in one of the most decisive victories of the Philippine Campaign.

4TH RECONNAISSANCE TROOP (MCCZ)

On 27 August 1944 the 4th Reconnaissance Troop (MCCZ) was given the mission of screening the advances of the 8th and 22d Regimental Combat Teams. Proceeding on their mission, the troop arrived in the zone of reconnaissance at approximately 1700 hours 27 August. Upon arrival at coordinates 217503 an estimated battalion of German troops were observed marching in column and were immediately engaged by the troop. Five of the troop's leading vehicles pulled abreast on contact, firing 30 caliber machine guns, 37 mm cannon, and 50 caliber machine guns, thereby causing the enemy to disperse with heavy casualties. The vehicles were then pulled back a short distance in support of the rest of the troop which had dismounted and set up a defensive line. All available personnel, including radio operators and drivers, were utilized in this action and performed in a highly efficient and commendable manner. When action to the immediate front had ceased, patrols were sent out and as a result of aggressive action by these patrols, the enemy suffered additional casualties in killed, wounded and captured.

Approximately one hour after the initial phase, elements of the 22d Regimental Combat Team moved into position and the troop served as a screen for protection of the right flank. Additional elements of the 22d Regimental Combat Team moved into position on the right flank and physically relieved the troop from its screening mission.

On 29 August 1944 the 4th Reconnaissance Troop (MCCZ) was given the mission of scouting and holding objectives of the 8th and 22d Regimental Combat Teams. In order to accomplish this mission, the troop had to bypass groups of enemy resistance in the northeastern outskirts of PARIS and moved approximately 20 miles to the vicinity of MONTGE and DAMBUILIN-EU-COELLE. No enemy troops were encountered enroute but upon arrival in the area north of MONTGE and an area immediately surrounding an airfield, resistance was met in sizeable force. This force was met with less than a reconnaissance platoon and many casualties were inflicted upon the enemy due to the brave and aggressive action of the section. Seventy five German prisoners were taken and the airfield seized and held until the arrival of the 22d Infantry.

The remainder of the troop bypassed this action and moved up to the objective at DAMBUILIN-EU-COELLE, where the enemy was again engaged and four German vehicles were destroyed, 20 Germans killed and wounded, and 8 captured. This objective was held by the troop until relieved by the 747th Tank Battalion.

During this particular phase of the action, the troop obtained and relayed to the division commander a great deal of valuable information concerning condition of roads enroute and also the location of pockets of enemy troops in the vicinity. This knowledge greatly aided the movement of troops to the division objective.

On 30 August 1944 the 4th Reconnaissance Troop (Mech) was again given the mission of preceding the advance of the division to its objectives. The superlative manner in which patrols of the troop made aggressive reconnaissance of the routes of march, resulted in the swift relaying of vital information to the division commander, thereby greatly expediting the movement of the division troops to its objectives.

The division commander takes great pleasure in hereby commending each officer and enlisted man of the 4th Reconnaissance Troop (Mech) for the splendid manner in which they have conducted themselves in direct contact with the enemy, and for outstanding performance of duty in the accomplishment of several extremely difficult and hazardous missions.

COMMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

2D PLATOON, COMPANY E, 8TH INFANTRY

On the night of 7 September 1944, at the town of PALISEUL, BELGIUM, at about 2115 hours, the 2d Platoon, Company E, 8th Infantry, was moving into a position they were to occupy that night. The platoon, led by 1st Lt Robert P. Husted, was moving forward to cut the main road into the town, when they were suddenly confronted by two Mark IV tanks approaching from the southeast. In order for Lt Husted's platoon to cover the road effectively with anti-tank grenades, it was necessary for many men in the platoon to assume an exposed position on the side of the road. Realizing his grenades would have little effect against the heavy armor on the front of the tanks, Lt Husted immediately deployed his men, and quickly maneuvered his bazooka team and anti-tank grenadiers into position. Lt Husted and his platoon, with cool determination and courage, withheld their fire until the tanks had passed within five feet of the position, at which time two anti-tank grenades were fired into the rear of the tank, knocking it out of action. Another tank was crippled by the bazooka team and was forced to withdraw. As a result of this decisive and courageous action, one tank was knocked out, one crippled, and several prisoners were captured.

The division commander takes extreme pleasure in hereby commending Lt Husted and each member of his platoon for the brave and courageous manner in which they engaged and defeated the enemy in a most decisive action.

COMMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE1 T PLATOON, COMPANY K, 8TH INFANTRY2D SECTION, 2D PLATOON, COMPANY M, 8TH INFANTRY

On 19 September 1944, the 2d Battalion, 8th Infantry, was in position in the vicinity of SCHLUSSELMACH, GERMANY. At approximately 1800 hours of that day, a group of enemy, in force, infiltrated around the left flank of the battalion and gained positions in the rear of the front line companies, thus severing the supply and communication lines between the companies and battalion headquarters.

Taking immediate remedial action, the battalion commander gave a reinforced combat patrol, consisting of the 1st Platoon, Company K, and the 2d Section, 2d Platoon, Company M, the mission of clearing out the enemy force and opening the supply and communication route to battalion headquarters. The patrol moved out at approximately 1900 hours and advanced toward the enemy position. One rifle squad and one MG squad were left to cover the enemy left flank while the other squads and the other MG were used to maneuver into position to deliver effective fire on the enemy. As the patrol advanced toward battalion headquarters contact was made with the enemy, which was estimated to be approximately one platoon with eight machine guns. The two squads maneuvered around the enemy right flank and took positions on the high ground overlooking the position and opened fire upon him. At the same time the rifle squad and MG squad covering the enemy left flank, opened fire from their positions.

Upon receiving fire from two directions, the enemy became greatly disorganized and was unable to effectively return the fire. Our troops immediately took advantage of the situation and closed in upon the enemy, inflicting heavy casualties, including ten killed and seventeen captured. The remainder of the enemy force withdrew into the woods, thereby allowing the supply and communication lines to be reopened and secured.

The Division commander takes extreme pleasure in commending each officer and enlisted man, who participated in this decisive action, for the courage, bravery and outstanding devotion to duty he displayed in the successful accomplishment of a highly hazardous and difficult mission.

Staff Sergeant Wade voluntarily assumed command after his platoon leader was seriously injured in an intense artillery barrage which completely disorganized the platoon and halted its advance. Before he could complete the reorganization of his battered troops, the enemy launched a surprise counter-attack in force. Disdaining the withering small arms and automatic weapons fire, Staff Sergeant Wade courageously moved from man to man, shouting encouragement and issuing orders to stave off the vicious attack. In a desperate attempt to place his men in more advantageous positions, he deliberately exposed himself to divert the enemy fire. His troops reached their positions in the defense line without injury, but Staff Sergeant Wade was mortally wounded by small arms fire. By his outstanding leadership, his personal fortitude and his self-sacrificing devotion to duty, Staff Sergeant Wade acted in keeping with the highest traditions of the Armed Forces. Passing through the withering fire, he advanced courageously to the battered troops to assume personal command. Moving out in front of his men, Colonel Lanham proceeded forward fearlessly in the face of heavy enemy fire. Inspired by this display of valor, the men vigorously stormed through the pillboxes and bunkers. While returning to his observation post with his staff, he was fired upon from a by-passed pillbox ten feet away. Undeterred and with complete disregard for his own safety, Colonel Lanham personally engaged the enemy with fire and killed three of five Germans who attempted to escape. On 18 September 1944, the 1st Battalion, 8th Infantry, proceeded to attack southwest towards its objective, Hill 578, which was located 2,000 yards west of the town of WASCHIED, GERMANY. Upon reaching the objective, Company C, 8th Infantry, was given the mission of occupying and holding the objective, while the remainder of the battalion continued to clear out enemy patrols and then withdrew 1,000 yards to the rear of Company C in order to occupy a defensive position.

From 10 September to 27 September, Company C remained on Hill 578, separated from the battalion and in constant contact with the enemy. During this period, they were continually harassed by enemy patrols, which were endeavoring to infiltrate into the American lines from the south. By vigorous and aggressive action, Company C prevented this infiltration and were further successful in driving the enemy from the two roads leading into the battalion area from SCHWAZER MANN, thereby maintaining supply routes so vital to the successful accomplishment of the battalion's mission. During this nine day engagement, Company C inflicted heavy casualties upon the enemy, including approximately one hundred killed and twenty-five captured.

The division commander takes extreme pleasure in hereby commending each member of Company C, 8th Infantry, for the bravery, courage and aggressiveness displayed in meeting and decisively defeating the enemy during the highly successful accomplishment of a most vital mission.

NUMBER 40) COMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

22D COMBAT TEAM PATROLS

The following is quoted from a letter, Headquarters 22d Infantry, subject, "Recommendation for Order of the Day", date 19 October 1944, received by the Division Commander:

"On the evening of 8 October 1944, the commanding officer of Combat Team 22 was planning to make an attack on the Siegfried Line in the vicinity of Udendorf, Germany. Certain information concerning tank obstacles, minefields, avenue of approach, and relative terrain features was lacking. This information could only be determined by vigorous reconnaissance patrols. Seven patrols given the mission of securing this information the previous night were unsuccessful due to minefields, heavy enemy patrols, and heavy small arms fire. The commanding officer of Combat Team 22 then directed that further patrols be assigned the mission of securing the desired information. Two patrols were formed. One patrol was under the leadership of 1st Lieutenant John A. Fisher, O1315487. The members of this patrol were Staff Sergeant James J. Kearney, 34582154, Sergeant James A. Colvin, 34562203, Private First Class Willie D. Jackson, 34889040, and Private First Class Roy R. Jasper, 35808355. The other patrol was under the leadership of Sergeant Attilio DeLorenzo, 33038197. The other members of this patrol were Private First Class James A. Patterson, 35706800, Private First Class Terlie E. Robert, 30267606, and Private Joseph E. Cassette, 11062236.

The route assigned these patrols was over difficult terrain, going approximately 1000 yards behind the enemy lines. The enemy was known to have numerous anti-personnel mines, barbed wire and heavy outposts with machine gun crossfire. Before leaving on this mission, Lieutenant Fisher and Sergeant DeLorenzo and their men made careful and thorough study of aerial photos and maps of the routes they were going to follow. The patrols started on their missions at dusk.

Soon after reaching the 1st Battalion outpost line, an enemy patrol was seen; this was successfully by-passed. As the patrols proceeded enemy outposts fired on them, but these, too, were by-passed. Continuing on their mission, the patrols were fired on several times, but the determination to secure the necessary information spurred the men on.

Upon reaching their objectives, a careful study of the terrain and obstacles was made; the stream was checked for approaches, width and depth; the dragon's teeth were checked for location, construction, width and number; trees were checked for size and density. All necessary information for an attack in this sector was obtained. The patrols returned to their battalion areas at 2300 hours.

The performance of these patrols is commendable. Their courage, resourcefulness and perseverance reflects credit on themselves, their regiment, and their division.

The patrol leaders and members of the patrols are commended for the successful accomplishment of a hazardous mission and for an outstanding performance of duty."

It is with extreme pleasure and appreciation that the division commander adds his commendation for such an outstanding performance of a hazardous and difficult mission.

1ST AND 3D SQUADS, MINES PLATOON,

ANTI-TANK COMPANY, 8TH INFANTRY.

The 1st Battalion, 8th Infantry, was attacking in the vicinity of DUREN, GERMANY, on 18 November 1944. The leading elements of the battalion advanced to a heavy concentration of concertina wire, which was covered by artillery, mortar and small arms fire, where they were held up until special equipment could be brought forward with which the wire could be breached. Tanks were brought forward in an effort to breach the wire. One tank succeeded in breaching the wire, forged through, followed by a column of infantry. About 75 yards to the right of this column, another tank, attempting to breach the wire, encountered a mine field and was knocked out, thereby holding up the advance of the entire battalion. In order to remove the mines from the paths of the tanks, the 1st and 3d squads of the Mines Platoon, AT Company, commanded by 1st Lieutenant Frederick A. Bonnichamp, were sent forward. Under extremely heavy artillery, mortar and small arms fire, the two squads swept a path approximately 400 yards in length, removing many mines, thereby enabling the entire battalion to continue the advance.

The division commander wishes to commend each member of the 1st and 3d squads, Mines Platoon, AT Company, 8th Infantry, for the sterling work which was performed with such great spirit, initiative and courage. It is work such as this, done unflinchingly under fire, that will eventually give us the victory for which we strive.

COLLATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

2D BATTALION MEDICAL SECTION, 8TH INFANTRY

COMPANY A, 4TH MEDICAL BATTALION

On 16 November 1944, at 1245, the 2d Battalion, 8th Infantry, attacked German fortified positions south of the town of DUREN, GERMANY, in conjunction with the attack of the 26th Infantry Regiment of the 1st Infantry Division. It was the leading assault battalion of the regiment and began its attack after a terrific preparation of artillery fire and air bombardment. The battalion crossed the line of departure on schedule and proceeded through a wooded area up a steep hill where a heavy concentration of enemy 150mm artillery fire and 120mm mortar fire was placed upon them, inflicting a great number of casualties in Companies E and G. The battalion then continued to advance some five hundred yards and finally was held up by three rows of heavy concertina wire covered by machine gun and small arms fire. Here again the 2d Battalion was subjected to terrific artillery and mortar fire, causing an additional large number of casualties.

When the battalion was first subjected to artillery and mortar fire, the company aid men and litter squads of the 2d Battalion Medical Section immediately aided and assisted the wounded, alleviating their pain as much as possible at that time with the medical supplies which they carried. After treatment by the aid men, the wounded were then carried to the battalion aid station by litter squads for further treatment. This evacuation by the litter squads was carried on through heavy artillery and mortar concentrations over difficult terrain and down a high hill which was so steep as to be almost impossible to negotiate alone, much less carrying a litter. The work continued all during the night and morning of the following day and finally at 1400 on 17 November the evacuation of the wounded of the 2d Battalion was completed. When time could be taken to make a count of the casualties carried in from the field, it was found that the total was 147, including five members of the medical personnel. After all casualties were evacuated from the field of battle by the medical men of the 2d Battalion, they were further treated by the medical officers at the battalion aid station. The evacuation to field hospitals through the assistance of ambulance drivers, litter bearers and personnel of Company A, 4th Medical Battalion, working throughout the night, driving ambulances under most hazardous road conditions in total darkness, was completed with utmost efficiency.

The division commander hereby commends the officers and men of the 2d Battalion Medical Section, 8th Infantry, and Company A, 4th Medical Battalion, for their great spirit, courage, initiative and technical skill displayed during this superior performance of duty.

COLLIDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICECOMPANY A AND 2D PLATOON, COMPANY D, 8TH INFANTRY

On 22 November 1944, the 8th Infantry was ordered to attack northeast to the town of DUREN, GERMANY; the 1st Battalion attacking on the left and the 3d Battalion on the right of the regimental zone of action. Company A and the 2d Platoon, Company D, leading the advance of the 1st Battalion had the mission of seizing an objective, a group of buildings known as Jager-Haus, to be followed by the remainder of the battalion. This objective was just south of the division boundary and its seizure was vital in maintaining the advance and preventing any enemy infiltration between the two divisions making the attack. At this time, due to the shortage of officers in the company, three of the platoons were commanded by enlisted men.

Before reaching the objective, Company A was pinned down by small arms, mortar and artillery fire and was unable to advance. Lt Thoms, the company commander, left the main part of his company in command of his executive officer and went forward to join the "Point" and personally to make a reconnaissance of the objective. The "Point" succeeded in reaching a building at the rear of the objective and the Commanding Officer decided that in this position his company would have more protection from enemy small arms and mortar fire than in the exposed position they were then occupying, even though he discovered that the part of the objective between him and the rest of the company was still occupied by the enemy. He then sent a runner with orders to his executive officer to infiltrate the remainder of the company to the position.

One platoon had reached the objective before the enemy discovered what was happening. They immediately covered the route of approach with machine guns and launched an attack against the men who had already reached the position. The defense of the area was quickly organized with machine guns and rifles and the counterattack was successfully repulsed. This distraction of the enemy's fire power was used to cover the entrance of the remainder of the company to the position. The company was then arranged into a defensive position for the night, as it was apparent that the remainder of the battalion would not be able to reach the position that night.

At daylight the next morning, 23 November 1944, the enemy launched another counterattack against Company A which was repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. For the remainder of the day the company was subjected to intense artillery and mortar fire but continued to hold the position against all attempts to dislodge them. Due to the strength of the enemy between the position held by Company A and the remainder of the battalion, the balance of the battalion was unable to reach the objective on 23 November 1944 and did not succeed in relieving Company A until the morning of 24 November 1944.

All during this time, from 1600, 22 November 1944, until about 1000, 24 November 1944, Company A held this position against repeated counterattacks, at times being completely surrounded and isolated except for radio communication.

Each officer and enlisted man of Company A and the 2d Platoon of Company D, 8th Infantry, is hereby commended for his courage, initiative and great fighting spirit. During this critical period, constant vigilance was maintained, and every ounce of physical strength was exercised by every member in order to repel six enemy counterattacks, and secure the objective, Jager-Haus. Such esprit de corps cannot fail to defeat the enemy.

COMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

COMPANY E, 8TH INFANTRY

On 18 December 1944, when the German counter-offensive reached its peak, piercing American lines at several places, the 2d Battalion of the 8th Infantry was committed on the line as part of "Task Force Luokett" to stem a ferocious enemy assault against the sector held by the 4th Infantry Division.

The 2d Battalion was ordered to attack and seize two steep hills near MULLERTHAL, LUXEMBOURG, to permit a task force of tanks to break loose under the protection of these two commanding positions and spearhead a strong counter-attack against vital German positions. The terrain, rough and wooded with two 300 foot cliffs on either side of the road through which the tanks would advance, was almost impassable. The enemy was entrenched atop one of these cliffs facing the 2d Battalion and delivered heavy small arms, machine gun, mortar and artillery fire upon advancing infantrymen. The two assault companies, having driven forward to the base of this hill, were now pinned down by heavy observed enemy fire on ground which afforded them scant cover. German snipers on top of the cliff picked off infantrymen as they sought covered positions from which they could return this heavy, accurate fire. Because this position was inaccessible from the front, Company E, formerly in reserve, was committed in the attack to assault the enemy citadel from the rear. Infantrymen of Company E, supported by two medium tanks, moved across open ground under enemy observation toward the rear of the German positions. As Company E advanced, attacking riflemen were placed under intense hostile fire. Heavy concentrations of German mortar and artillery fire fell among them and all about them. Machine gun and small arms fire slashed through them, but they pressed relentlessly forward. Company E, only 50% of normal strength at the beginning of the attack, was suffering severe casualties, which at this critical time amounted to 15 enlisted men and 3 officers, including the company commander. Yet the infantry continued its advance with only one officer, 1st Lieutenant Morris, a reinforcement officer, who was experiencing his initial baptism of fire. Without wavering, Company E stormed forward in the face of withering enemy fire toward the seemingly impregnable German positions and closed with hostile troops in close combat. The fighting became increasingly bitter. The enemy, possessing the advantages of numerical superiority and commanding ground, delivered punishing fire directly upon the assaulting infantrymen with deadly accuracy afforded by clear, unobstructed observation. Company E continued courageously and vigorously to prosecute the attack in spite of overwhelming odds until ordered by higher headquarters, due to a change in the original mission, to take a new position. During the attack, Company E had suffered 25 casualties which reduced its strength to 1 officer and 55 enlisted men. In spite of depleted strength, numerical and fire superiority of the enemy, its men had pushed forward through devastating hostile fire to close with the enemy in his trenches.

COMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICECOMPANY I, 8TH INFANTRY1ST PLATOON, COMPANY M, 8TH INFANTRY

From 19 November 1944 until 7 December 1944, the 3d Battalion of the 8th Infantry was assigned the mission of clearing portions of the Hurtgen Forest near SCHEVENHUTTE, GERMANY, of stubborn enemy resistance. When the battalion jumped off in attack on 19 November, Company I and one heavy machine gun platoon of Company M were ordered to hold a position with elements of the 1st Battalion, while Companies K and L cleaned the enemy from the rear of the most advanced units. Company I and the attached platoon of heavy machine guns held this position until 22 November in the face of heavy hostile artillery, mortar and direct tank fire. Then, on 22 November, Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company M spearheaded the attack of the 3d Battalion to capture a road intersection on the main highway leading to DUREN. Although Company I and the 1st Platoon of Company M encountered mine fields and concertina wire obstacles all along the route of advance, which were covered by intense mortar and artillery fire, they pushed steadily forward against bitter German defensive action. Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company M advanced over rough, fire-swept ground, and assaulted the enemy line in the face of direct rifle and automatic fire through heavy concentrations of artillery and mortar fire. They hurled the enemy back, secured the company objective and captured many prisoners.

Later, on 1 December, when the 3d Battalion was ordered to attack along the main highway to the northeast toward DUREN, Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company M attacked along the right of the highway, keeping abreast of Company K on the left. Although resistance was at first light, progress soon became extremely difficult. Forward movement over rolling, densely wooded terrain was slowed by rain and sporadic hostile artillery fire, which increased as the advance progressed. At 1200 hours, the assault platoons were halted by a well prepared mine field which was covered by heavy accurate mortar and artillery fire, and which was under direct fire by several automatic weapons. While attempting to either breach or flank the mine field, Company I and the 1st Platoon of Company M, received particularly heavy casualties, greatly reducing their fighting strength, but they continued advancing through the mine field with magnificent courage and determination. During this phase of the advance, the company commander became a casualty. 1st Lieutenant Joseph P. Thomas, executive officer of Company I, immediately assumed command and led his men forward in an assault of the opposing German positions. They closed with the enemy and inflicted heavy losses upon them. The enemy was quickly routed from this position and 25 prisoners were taken. The 1st machine gun platoon of Company M organized this point under heavy hostile fire, while preparations were made for the next day's assault.

(Order of the Day Number 67, Hq 8th Inf Div, 5 Jan 45, contd)

On the following morning, 2 December, Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company H, continued to attack along the road to seize high ground commanding a main road intersection and road net which was of great strategic value to future operations. The attack moved slowly through dense woods while artillery burst throughout the area. After tedious forward progress, advancing troops came upon German log bunkers in an especially thick part of the woods bordering the highway. Areas in front of these positions were protected by mines. Automatic weapons in the bunkers swept the mine field with deadly fire. Knowing that artillery could not knock the bunkers out, Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company H smashed forward against these positions and cleaned them out with hand and rifle grenades. When Company K was unable to advance because of a determined enemy counter-attack in its zone, Company I and its attached unit again went forward and forced the disorganized enemy to flee from their defense points which relieved pressure from Company K. In this action Company I and the 1st machine gun platoon of Company H inflicted severe losses upon the Germans and captured and organized their objective against great odds with only 27 riflemen on the line.

The Division Commander desires to congratulate and commend each member of Company I, 8th Infantry, and 1st Platoon, Company H, 8th Infantry, for outstanding performance of duty. The extraordinary courage and gallantry displayed by every officer and enlisted man of those units is typical of the American fighting spirit which will lead to final and complete victory against the enemy.

COLLENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICECOMPANY C, 8TH INFANTRY

On 19 November 1944, during the battle of the HURTGEN FOREST, the 1st Battalion of the 8th Infantry was given the mission of attacking through the 2d Battalion to seize an objective 1500 yards to its front. The battalion smashed forward against the enemy in a column of companies, with Company C, commanded by Captain Robert D. Moore, leading the attack, supported by a platoon of medium tanks, a platoon of light tanks and a platoon of tank destroyers. A short time after the beginning of the attack, Company C was halted by a mine field containing both anti-tank and anti-personnel mines. Although one medium tank was disabled here by a land mine, infantrymen of Company C passed safely through this obstacle by walking in the tank tracks. After Company C had advanced an additional 300 yards, another mine field was encountered where one more medium tank was lost, but the infantrymen passed through this obstacle by again following the tank tracks which enabled them to press forward without loss. When Company C had cleared the mine field, intermittent artillery fire became more intense, falling upon Company C's flanks and front. The attacking infantry relentlessly surged forward for 500 yards until halted at the edge of a clearing by heavy German rifle and automatic weapons fire coming from the opposite edge of the clearing. Here Company C was pinned down by observed fire of 12 automatic weapons and 20 riflemen, firing from well prepared emplacements connected by communication trenches. Accurate mortar and artillery fire fell among the men of Company C as the small arms and automatic fire became more intense. Casualties were heavy. There was little cover for the attacking troops as they lay in the woods and sought to protect themselves from the shell fragments and automatic fire ripping through the trees. In spite of the heavy enemy fire which seemed to search through the woods and hit anything that moved, Company C prepared to resume the attack against appalling odds. As hostile small arms fire decreased, Company C pushed forward, using the tank destroyers as a base of fire. The infantry and light tanks pushed across the clearing until the tanks were halted by obstacles. But the infantry went on, using hand grenades against the enemy in his trenches. Although Company C had suffered, 35% casualties, its men closed with the enemy, over-ran their position, killed and wounded many Germans and captured 25.

The Division Commander desires to commend each officer and man of Company C, 8th Infantry, for outstanding performance of duty. The courage and gallantry displayed against such overwhelming odds reflects great credit upon the service and is worthy of emulation.

COMMEMORATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

1ST SQUAD, A & P PLATOON

3D BATTALION, 8TH INFANTRY

From 23 November until 11 December 1944, while the 8th Infantry was driving through the Hurtgen Forest toward the Cologne Plain, the 2d Battalion advanced against determined, well prepared enemy positions near SCHEVENHUTTE, GERMANY. As the 2d Battalion went forward over densely wooded rolling terrain, it was discovered that the few fire breaks and roads in the battalion zone of action were heavily mined. With no available route of supply over which to bring supplies to forward units, food, water and ammunition had to be hand carried through rugged areas under heavy hostile fire. So many mine fields blocked the forward progress of the 2d Battalion that it was almost impossible for supporting tanks to go forward. The 1st Squad of the 2d Battalion A & P Platoon worked continually from 23 November until 11 December clearing mines from the route of advance, followed by the supporting tanks. Constant rain, adhesive mud and heavy artillery fire made this task extremely difficult and hazardous. Yet these men went forward in the face of observed enemy fire, swept the area in front of the tanks for mines and then cleared routes of advance through these obstacles.

On one occasion during a highly significant phase of the operation, this squad, working under heavy observed enemy fire, removed 36 German Teller mines in the space of a few hours, which permitted the tanks to advance in support of the infantry and over-run important enemy positions. Due to the skill and efficiency of these men, only one casualty resulted during this dangerous task.

The Division Commander desires to congratulate and commend each member of the 1st Squad, A & P Platoon, 2d Battalion, 8th Infantry, for outstanding performance of duty. Their heroic achievement and untiring effort reflects great credit upon themselves and the service.

COMMEMORATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

12TH INFANTRY

On 7 December 1944, the 12th Infantry Regiment completed with brilliance a month of bitter fighting in the Hurtgen Forest. On 9 December, ranks gravely depleted and weary, the regiment went into a defensive position on a ten mile front along the Sauer River, east and north of the city of Luxembourg holding the north sector of the front of the division. In this supposedly quiet sector it was intended that the regiment receive and integrate vitally needed reinforcements, renew equipment and raise its level of supply. Procedures had been initiated which would have enabled it to effect reorganization, while at the same time securing a respite, well earned and greatly needed, from offensive combat.

However, on 16 December the German Army launched a general offensive along the greater portion of the Western Front. With fury born of desperation, the assault was implemented to the limit of the enemy's resources. Penetrations to substantial depth quickly were made in areas to the north of the 12th Infantry's position and it was apparent the intended southern shoulder of the German offensive fell squarely within the regiment's sector. Inflamed by these successes to the north, the Germans drove to establish and expand through the regiment's sector to the south. The full strength of the 212th Volksgrenadier Division was hurled against them. These were young, well equipped troops who, it has been learned, trained expressly for this gamble. Against them stood the 12th Infantry, understrength and bearing scars of recent battle. At stake was the dominating ground and road net which would open to the enemy the City of LUXEMBOURG, Radio Luxembourg and military installations of prime importance, together with tremendous supply establishments.

At 1415 hours on 16 December, conscious of the imperative necessity that the initial German drive be held, this headquarters issued an order in substance as follows: "There will be no retrograde movement in the 12th Infantry sector". The 12th Infantry held; held in the face of odds so onerous that it would be difficult, even in retrospect, to believe possible had one not seen, during months of continuous combat, the high courage and honor which marks all ranks of the 12th Infantry. Meeting the urgency of the occasion and undiminished by the odds, resistance never faltered. Panic did not visit this field of battle even with mass German infiltration as deep as four kilometers behind elements of the regiment.

The history of America's participation in this war will be rife with acts of heroism, by individuals and by units, but, in collective self-sacrifice and sheer courage, it is doubtful whether any shall surpass the stand made by Company E, 12th Infantry, in ECHELENGEN, during this period. Isolated by the initial German thrust, this company was subjected, alternately, to enemy shelling and repeated attempts to storm the town. On 18 December, two friendly tanks contacted the company and urged an attempt to withdraw under tank protection. This the company refused, electing to continue its valiant defense, though hopelessly outnumbered. After long and costly operations, this isolated but determined group of American Infantrymen was overpowered, yet the tactical advantages accruing from Company E's gallant stand, cannot be overstated.

Without exception, each unit of the 12th Infantry exhibited a similar high resolve. So, too, was the spirit of the many units attached to and in support of the regiment during the course of the battle.

R-E-S-T-R-I-C-T-E-D

(Order of the Day No 70, Hq 4th Inf Div, 8 Jan 45, contd)

The Commanding General, Third United States Army, characterized the Battle of Luxembourg as, in his opinion, "the most outstanding accomplishment" of this division in its long series of engagements. The 12th Infantry is the unit meriting the greatest share of this high tribute. They kept the enemy from thrusting south, reduced the 212th Volksgrenadier Division to one-half its original strength, denied him vital installations, seizure and exploitation of which might have prolonged this war immeasurably and could have been regained only at cost greatly in excess of that exacted in the defense; and, equally important, it was on the extension of the line held by the regiment when relieved, on 24 December, that reorganization of the Allied position in the south was based.

The Division Commander desires to congratulate and commend each member of the 12th Infantry for his courage, daring and ceaseless devotion to duty displayed in the highly successful accomplishment of a most vital and hazardous mission. The performance of the 12th Infantry in the Battle of Luxembourg is in accord with the highest traditions of the service.

8TH INFANTRY

From 16 November to 11 December 1944, while the 8th Infantry was battling its way through the HURTGEN FOREST toward the COLOGNE PLAIN, the 2d Battalion Wire Section laid communication wire over rolling, heavily wooded terrain near SCHREVENHUTTE, GERMANY, in the face of intense, hostile artillery fire. As the 2d Battalion smashed forward against positions which the Germans had been preparing for two months, shell fragments from a tree burst destroyed communication wire and wounded nine men of the Wire Section. Confronted by innumerable hazards, a shortage of men and no possibility of reinforcements, the 2d Battalion Wire Team labored day and night laying wire and maintaining their lines on fire-swept terrain. They went forward under hostile fire during each attack with the leading rifle companies and constantly kept wire communication abreast of the leading elements. As German resistance became increasingly strong, the individual heroism and untiring effort displayed by each member of the Wire Section became more pronounced. They labored tirelessly under the most difficult and hazardous combat conditions to insure constant wire communication with the battalion. Their performance was vital in the picture of courage and self-sacrifice which hurled the Germans back with staggering losses in all areas opposing the 2d Battalion zone of action.

The Division Commander wishes to congratulate and commend each member of this Wire Section for outstanding performance of duty. The successful maintenance of communications was of vital importance and contributed in a large measure to the success attained by the 2d Battalion, 8th Infantry, in combat.

COMMENDATION FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

8TH INFANTRY

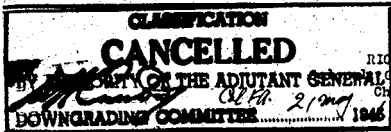

The 8th Infantry Regiment attacked across the SURE River at 0300 13 January 1945 with the objective of securing crossings of the river and seizing the high ground overlooking the OUR River opposite the SIEGFRIED LINE.

With the 1st and 3d Battalions abreast, the 8th Infantry moved down the steep, snow covered slopes of the south bank of the SURE River. In the hope of achieving surprise, there was no artillery preparation. So successful was the initial operation that companies A and L had crossed the swift running river at two points and were making rapid progress toward their objectives in rear of the enemy outposts before the enemy was conscious of our attack. Once the enemy became alerted to our activity, machine gun, rifle, and mortar fire raked the north bank of the river. With but one footbridge, which supporting engineers had been able to construct, the greater portion of the remainder of the assault battalions continued to cross the swollen river in assault boats. Accompanying the leading elements in the assault were forward observers parties from the 20th and 29th Field Artillery Battalions. Despite the direct fire on the crossing sites, the inclement weather, and snow and ice under foot, the two assault battalions had taken their objectives by nightfall on 18 January 1945. The 2d Battalion crossed the river during the afternoon 18 January 1945 and, containing enemy in the town of KLEINREISDORF, seized the high ground overlooking the OUR River.

Having bypassed enemy centers of resistance, including the town of BETTENDORF, in the operations on the first day, the regiment conducted vigorous mopping up operations on 19 January 1945, and by 20 January 1945 the regiment was in strong position on the assigned objective.

In the successful completion of this mission, the 8th Infantry Regiment not only added one more instance to its uninterrupted successions of missions accomplished, but it did so in the face of weather so adverse as to make the accomplishment a difficult one even in the absence of enemy opposition. This 72 hour period was marked by driving snow and rain, high winds, and intense cold. The stamina and determination which has been the mark of the 8th Infantry Regiment in each of its previous engagements was never more noteworthy. While there have been engagements which have attracted more attention, it is doubtful whether any comparable period demanded more of the officers and men of the 8th Infantry than the period 18 - 20 January 1945. In accomplishing its mission, the 8th Infantry Regiment has again added to its list of achievements in its long record as an outstanding regiment of the United States Army.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF COL. GEN. HENRY A. BARBER, JR.

By SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICE, 4TH INFANTRY DIVISION

Thrice-decorated when a captain in World War I and already in action in World War II as a War Department observer of the U.S. offensive in the Aleutians, Brigadier General Henry A. Barber, Jr., joined the 4th Infantry Division in November, 1943 as Assistant to the Division Commander, succeeding Brigadier General Maxwell A. O'Brien.

As chief of the North American Theater of the Operations Division, he participated in the planning of offensive operations in the Aleutian Islands and in August-September, 1942, accompanied the first landing expedition in that area, on the island of Adak.

General Barber came to the 4th Division with an army career of 26 years' service, including three foreign assignments. He was a member of the West Point class of August 30, 1917, referred to as the "original class of 1918," because World War I had necessitated the early matriculation, just as World War II has produced a similar situation at the United States Military Academy.

Shortly after his graduation, General Barber was sent overseas where he remained for 18 months. Promoted to the rank of captain, he was given command of Company A, 5th Machine Gun Battalion, 3rd Division. He participated in the Meuse-Marne defensive and later the attack, known as the Second Battle of the Marne. After this, General Barber saw action in the Vesle River and Somme drives, two of the most important of the war. The Second Battle of the Marne and the Vesle River offensive are identified with the 4th Division of World War I, which performed heroically in both attacks.

During the Marne drive, General Barber's outstanding service with his machine gun company resulted in his being awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Legion of Honor and the French Croix de Guerre with Palm.

(MORE)

General Barber resumed his military career in the United States as an instructor at a military academy from 1919 to 1920. He became a member of the staff of the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1920 and served as an instructor until 1924, when he assumed command of a company in the Third Infantry at Fort Snelling, Minn. In 1926, General Barber was given command of a company of the 15th Infantry, then in Tientsin, China. After a year in China, he returned to the United States to command Company B, 2nd Infantry, at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where he served until June, 1929. Assigned to the post of Tactical Officer at West Point, he remained at the Academy for four years and then went to the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where he studied for two years.

General Barber was graduated from the Command and General Staff School in 1935 and commanded Company C of the 30th Infantry in San Francisco until 1936 when he entered the Army War College at Washington, D.C. Following a year of study, he became a member of the War Department General Staff, where he served until 1938 when he was appointed Military Attaché at Havana, Cuba. He remained there until June, 1941 and was then assigned to the Operations Division of the War Department General Staff.

After the Aloutian campaign, General Barber became Assistant to the Division Commander, 65th Infantry Division at Camp Shelle, Miss., in May, 1943. He remained there until Nov. 19, 1943, when he was assigned to the 4th Division.

Beginning in 1936, General Barber advanced rapidly through the ranks. He was promoted to the rank of major on June 17, 1936; to lieutenant colonel on Aug. 30, 1940; to colonel on Feb. 1, 1942, and to the rank of general officer on Sept. 17, 1943.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF MAJOR GENERAL RAYMOND O. BARTON

BY SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICE, 4TH INFANTRY DIVISION

Major General Raymond O. Barton assumed command of the 4th Infantry Division on July 3, 1942. A brigadier general at the time of his appointment as the then 4th Motorized Division commanding general, General Barton was promoted to the rank of major general on August 18, 1942.

General Barton had had a previous association with the Division, having served as its Chief of Staff from the time it was reactivated in June, 1940, until October, 1941.

General Barton, who has passed through every army grade from cadet to major general was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1912. Subsequently, he attended and was graduated from the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Army War College in Washington, D.C.

Born in Colorado and reared in Indian territory, which is now Oklahoma, General Barton has had an extremely interesting career in the service. In 1916, four years out of West Point, he was commanding officer at Fort Niagara, New York. In 1917, he was an instructor at the first officers training camp at Madison Barracks, New York, and later an instructor at the second officers training camp at Plattsburg Barracks, New York.

Following this year of duty at the officers training camp, General Barton was then transferred to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, as an instructor in the infantry school of arms. After that he was transferred to Camp Hancock, Augusta, where he commanded a training group in the machine gun school.

Shortly after the termination of the hostilities, General Barton went overseas where his initial association with the 4th Infantry Division actually began. In Germany, he commanded the first battalion of the 8th Infantry Regiment, now a component of the World War II 4th Infantry Division, and then a part of the Army of Occupation. During the four year tenure of this command, 1919 to 1923, one of General Barton's duties was the command of a composite battalion of selected men from the A.E.F., which served as an escort to General Pershing when he decorated the graves of French and British unknown soldiers, in Paris and London, with the Congressional Medals of Honor. General Barton's last official duty in Germany was to relinquish the command of Fortress Ehrenbreitstein, the last American command in Europe, to the French.

General Barton returned with the 8th Infantry to Fort Screven, Georgia, in 1923. From 1924 to 1928, he served as G-1 and G-3 on the general staff of the commanding general, Seventh Corps Area, with headquarters in Omaha, Nebraska. From 1928 to 1932, he was an instructor in the Command and General Staff School. From 1936 to 1938, he was assistant executive officers at the Infantry School. From December, 1938, to June, 1940, General Barton was the commanding officer at Fort Screven, Georgia, the same station to which he returned from Germany in 1923. In June, 1940, at the rebirth of the 4th Division, as a Motorized Division and the first of its kind in the United States Army, he became its first Chief of Staff.

In 1941, he was promoted to Chief of Staff of the IV Corps and then in early 1942 he was advanced to the rank of brigadier general when he became assistant to the division commander of the 85th Infantry Division.

Following a short service here, he rejoined the 4th Division.
